

Saturday's rain may have been last straw for bean crop

By STEVE LIPSON
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS—After three storms and 1.5 inches of rain, acres finally cleared over the Magic Valley Monday.

But all that moisture may have damaged the area's bean crop, which is still waiting to be harvested.

The latest storm dumped more than .06 of an inch of rain in about four hours Saturday afternoon and evening. It was accompanied by scattered hail and even a tornado that tore the roof off a building in Burley.

Kent Kirk, director of the Twin Falls office of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, said he received few reports, only one serious, of hail damage.

With the grain harvest virtually complete—and the sugar beet and potato harvest still a few weeks away, beans are the only crop in any danger. About half the beans grown in the Magic Valley had been cut and left in fields to dry, where they were soaked by last week's rains.

Marsal LeBaron, bean specialist at the Snake River Conservation Research Center in Kimberly, said farmers are in more trouble than they were last week.

beans drying on the ground had probably absorbed about as much moisture as they could stand before the storm on Saturday. That storm took the beans past the breaking point.

LeBaron said molding, swelling and staining are all likely to result. Yields will be reduced and any additional rain will lead to "continued degradation" of the crop, he said.

Daryl McRoberts, plant manager for the Green Giant corn-packing plant in Burley, said the hail hit a few of the company's fields but did not cause any damage.

Green Giant shut-down for a few days last week because rain stopped the company from harvesting any corn. McRoberts said harvesters were out working in the rain Saturday, and although the wet and muddy work down, harvesting went on. It will continue 24 hours a day as long as the weather allows, he said.

The weather forecast from the U.S. Weather Service agricultural station in Kimberly calls for continued degradation. William Galkin said the sky will be clear this week but drying conditions will be poor. By the end of the week another storm could be passing through the area.

The long-term outlook for September is for lower than normal temperatures and higher than normal precipitation. A normal September would have less than one half inch of rain.

Bill Cook, vice president of Hanev Seed Co. in Twin Falls, said this will be the longest bean harvest he has witnessed. At this point, he guessed the rain may have caused a 3 percent loss in the bean crop.

The beans that haven't been cut yet will do fine, he said. Sooner or later there will be enough warm weather to get those beans cut and threshed.

Most of the beans on the ground will be harvested eventually too, he said. Farmers can "turn" them dig under them with a tractor blade to lift the wet dirt and beans and keep air flowing through them to promote drying.

Farmers don't like to turn beans because it's extra work and because some beans are lost or damaged in the process. But Cook said, "I've seen beans that have been turned four times. If done carefully, turning won't cause much damage and may be required to save this year's crop, he said."

Evidence inadmissible Letelier case convictions thrown out

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A federal appeals court Monday reversed the convictions of three anti-Castro Cubans for the murder of Orlando Letelier, former Chilean ambassador to the United States.

The three-judge panel of the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia reversed the murder convictions of Guillermo Novo Sampol and Alvin Ross Diaz, citing a Supreme Court decision barring the use of trial evidence from government informants in a similar case.

The court also threw out Novo Sampol for lying to a grand jury and failing to report a felony. He was overturned because, the panel said, he did not receive a separate trial.

A remote control bomb blew up the car in which Letelier, ambassador under Chilean President Salvador Allende, his research assistant, Ronni Moffitt, and her husband were riding on Sept. 21, 1976, on a Washington street.

Letelier died immediately and Mrs. Moffitt a short time later.

Letelier had been living in exile in Washington since the overthrow of Allende's leftist regime by a military junta headed by Gen. Augusto Pinochet.

Isabel Letelier, widow of the slain diplomat who lives in Washington, said the court decision was based on a "technicality" and did not challenge the Cubans' guilt.

"My reaction is that I don't see how this is going to change the fact they were found guilty in the trial that took place last year," she said.

A Justice Department spokesman said the department would have no comment until it studied the decision.

Three Cubans declined to make a comment on the reversal. But they have the option of appealing for a rehearing before the full appeals court, and, if this fails, appealing to the Supreme Court.

If all appeals fail, the prosecutors would then decide whether to make a second attempt to convict them in any event. The government is expected to oppose anything of the men on bond pending the case's final outcome.

The three Cubans were indicted on Aug. 1, 1978, after a lengthy Justice Department investigation.

Guillermo Novo and Ross were later convicted of conspiracy to murder and murdering a foreign official, and Ignacio Novo of lying to a grand jury and failing to report a felony.

In April 1979, U.S. District Judge Barrington Parker imposed several concurrent 10-year sentences on Guillermo Novo and Ross. Ignacio Novo was sentenced to eight years.

During a lengthy trial, Michael Vernon Townley, a U.S. citizen in the employ of Chilean intelligence agency DINA, testified for the government and pleaded guilty to assisting in the murder on behalf of DINA.

Townley was sentenced to three years and four months in prison. The government urged leniency because of his cooperation.

Townley described his plot to kill Letelier with cool detachment to the jury, saying "I was a soldier and was a soldier." But he said he was sorry Mrs. Moffitt died.

Also testifying were cellmates of the three Cubans, and it was that testimony the appeals court used as the basis for its decision.

In its 124-page unsigned opinion, the appeals court panel said the trial court acted when it allowed testimony by cellmate Sherman Kaminsky, who was promised a pardon.

Muskie deflates president's hostage optimism

By OSWALD JOHNSTON
© 1980, The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON—Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie deflated President Carter's campaign-trail optimism on the Iran hostage crisis Monday, telling a news conference that direct contacts in negotiate an end to the crisis have not yet begun.

Speaking to a town hall meeting in Corpus Christi, Texas, Carter earlier in the day declared that recent statements reported from Iran "might very well lead to resolution of this problem in the future."

Invited several times by reporters to flesh out Carter's tantalizing hint, Muskie, wearing a yellow "free the hostages" ribbon in his lapel but, tohohle, refused to budge from the official caution with which experts at the Department of State have received Iranian statements in recent days.

Carter's remarks apparently were fueled by press speculation over the weekend that a Friday statement attributed to the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, Iran's spiritual leader, might represent a coming breakthrough in the crisis.

Khomeini, in the course of a long diatribe against the United States, laid down conditions for release of the hostages that omitted the usual call for a U.S. apology but included the standard Iranian demand for return of the late Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi's wealth.

Earlier Monday, Hashemi Rafsanjani, the speaker of the newly formed Iranian Parliament (Majlis), which may take up the hostage issue this week, said that the demand for an apology was still alive. He explained that Khomeini's list of conditions was incomplete.

"I think it is very important to be cautious in our reaction to statements coming out of Iran," Muskie told reporters at the Department of State. "We have read them before. As a matter of fact, we've been reading about them for a period of weeks and months."

It would be a mistake, Muskie added, to "raise expectations."

Asked to comment on Carter's own earlier gesture in the direction of "raising expectations," Muskie factually replied that the campaign remark was perfectly consistent with his own views. He repeated the standard administration assertion that "channels of communication" are constantly being explored, and then added:

"It is our constant hope that one of these channels—or more—might hold promise for the kind of result the president suggested this morning."

In later remarks, Muskie made it plain that, in fact, none of these channels has yet panned out.

Specifically, he denied a report Monday in La Presse, a French-language newspaper in Montreal, that a third-party contact with former Iranian Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh had led to secret negotiations that have been under way for months.

"What we have got a number of channels open," Muskie explained, "trying to communicate messages of one kind or another; one never knows when one of those suggestions takes root and blossoms into the kind of contact that results in negotiation. But that link has not yet been made."

Pressed again to account for Carter's optimism, Muskie said "Corpus Christi, Muskie observed that he could think of "maybe half a dozen statements that have been made by one Iranian leader or another" that in Carter's words, "might very well lead to resolution of this problem."

Carter, Reagan on attack, each criticizing the other

President, in South, charges his opponent 'muzzled'

ROSWELL, Ga. (UPI)—President Carter, charging that Ronald Reagan has been "muzzled" by his staff to quell controversial statements, returned to his home state Monday night to raise Democratic Party funds and seek support from Southern black leaders.

Carter joined about 600 long-time supporters at a $1,000-a-plate barbecue at the sprawling farm of Atlanta attorney Charles Kirby, his unofficial adviser. Democratic officials said the barbecue netted $600,000—the most ever raised at a Georgia political gathering.

Earlier, campaigning in Texas, Carter attacked Reagan for making a campaign issue of the American hostages in Iran, and suggested the Republican presidential nominee's staff had put him "under wraps" to quiet troublesome comments.

"The last thing that any political candidate ought to do, including an incumbent president, is to get into negotiations with Iranian authorities through public statements or through the news media," the president said.

He did not mention Reagan by name but it was clear he referred to the statement Saturday in which the GOP candidate advocated accepting most of the Ayatollah Khomeini's latest conditions for release of the hostages.

At another point Carter jabbed again at Reagan by saying: "The campaign staff of my Republican opponent has put him under wraps. He's not having meetings like this. He's not having press conferences any more, because when he has spoken on his own the last few days, he's gotten himself into trouble."

"The point is," Carter said, "when you're in the Oval Office as president, that's when the most difficult questions come, perhaps to any human being on Earth. You've got to be able to respond accurately in a way that doesn't embarrass you personally or the nation." Carter said he has scheduled his 50th press conference for Thursday.

Republicans, on Capitol Hill, say president 'isolated'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Looking west toward the White House Monday from the steps of the U.S. Capitol, Ronald Reagan derided President Carter as "isolated from his own party" and "unable to fulfill the primary responsibilities of his office."

Joining hands with Republican incumbents about 150 new GOP candidates and his running mate George Bush, Reagan assailed the Democratic leadership in Congress and said the party is now "a mere shadow of its former greatness."

Reagan flew to San Antonio, Texas, Monday night to follow Carter's trail in Texas, campaigning Tuesday in Houston and Corpus Christi, the same cities hit by the president Monday.

The Republican continued the offensive he began last week in the northeastern industrial states.

"Inflation is rampaging. The fear of unemployment stalks the land. And the continued suffering of our hostages in Iran for nearly a year bears stark testimony to the decline of American prestige," the former California governor said to loud applause.

As he looked out on a sea of campaign posters, Reagan declared, "Pennsylvania Avenue (under Carter) is not a bridge between two branches of government, but a moat dividing the executive from the legislative leadership from a president who is often isolated—and unable to fulfill the primary responsibilities of his office."

Reagan and his Republican cohorts signed a "Capitol Compact," pledging to make cuts in the "amount of money Congress spends on itself," achieve reductions in government spending, pass across-the-board income tax cuts, encourage private investment in urban areas and strengthen the nation's defense.

Saudi crash kills 89

JEDDAH, Saudi Arabia (UPI) — A Saudi military transport plane crashed, killing all 89 military personnel on board in what was believed the worst air disaster since the Saudi air force was founded, officials disclosed Monday.

It was the second disaster involving a U.S.-built Hercules C-130 aircraft in 10 days and officials said it was believed to be the worst air disaster involving a Saudi military plane since the establishment of the Royal Air Force in the desert kingdom.

There were no survivors when the plane crashed shortly before midnight Sunday near Medina, site of the prophet Mohammed's tomb and second holiest city in Saudi Arabia after Mecca. King Khalid immediately ordered $30,000 be paid in compensation to each of the families of the victims.

"Preliminary reports indicate at least 89 persons, including crew members, were killed in the catastrophic accident," a statement from the Saudi defense ministry said.

A similar plane owned by Kuwait crashed Sept. 5 off southern France killing all eight military personnel aboard.

Pilot dies in games

HILDESHEIM, West Germany (UPI) — An American pilot was killed and two crew members were injured Monday in a helicopter crash during NATO's massive European maneuvers, described briefly by a group of pacifists.

The pilot of the OH-58 helicopter, which crashed during exercises near Nuremberg, died en route to the hospital, officials said. He and the injured crew members, one of whom was hospitalized, were not identified pending notification of their families.

The dead pilot was the third victim of this year's maneuvers. Two U.S. pilots were killed when their Phantom F4 jet crashed in the same area preparing for the maneuvers 12 days ago.

Pacifist groups in Holland, a member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, fulfilled their vow to protest against the 200,000 Allied forces engaged in the "American Crusade" maneuvers in southern Germany, the British Crusader series in North Germany and a West German-commanded exercise in central West Germany.

The Dutch anti-militarists barricaded a main highway near Eindhoven, the Netherlands, in an attempt to keep 5,000 British military vehicles from entering a 16,000 square mile area south of Hanover, West Germany, where the key British exercises — the largest under NATO command since World War II — are taking place, NATO officials said.

'Purge Polish party'

WARSAW (UPI) — Polish President Henryk Jablonski joined the official Communist Party daily Trybuna Wednesday in issuing a stern call for a purge of Polish party members to root out corruption.

"The party must be purged of the people who stain its good name or damage its credibility," the newspaper said in an unsigned editorial.

"We must be determined in the struggle against these diseases (of corruptions) and surgery should be massive to eliminate them irrespective of the fact of where they are placed," Jablonski said in an address to the mass Communist party led political organization the National Unity Front.

Jablonski also stressed the government's vow to uphold the agreements with workers signed after massive summer strikes.

"Two weeks ago a statement was heard saying there are no winners and no losers — Poland has won," he said.

"To make this statement come true we must decidedly and loyally fulfill the signed agreement," Jablonski said.

Turkish troops sweep

ANKARA, Turkey (UPI) — Turkish security forces marching three abreast swept through cities and slums across the country Monday and arrested hundreds of suspected terrorists in an effort to stifle resistance to the 4-day-old coup.

The crackdown on Turkey's left and right-wing extremists came amid reports that the country's six-man ruling military junta had selected a new prime minister to replace the deposed Suleiman Demirel.

Government sources said Durgul Ozal, undersecretary for the office of prime minister and the coordinator of Turkey's economic recovery program, was likely to be tapped for the job.

Ozal has been placed in charge of all economic affairs by the junta but has not been appointed a minister. An official spokesman for the junta emphasized no new prime minister has yet been named.

Fighting in Zimbabwe

SALISBURY, Zimbabwe (UPI) — Followers of Zimbabwe's two major factions fought with automatic weapons, grenades and stones over the weekend in the worst outbreak of violence since Rhodesia became independent Zimbabwe, police said Monday.

The fighting in Salisbury, neighboring Chitungo and Sinoia, 65 miles west of the capital, left one man beaten to death by a mob and 42 others injured.

The clashes were between supporters of Prime Minister Robert Mugabe, who won a British-supervised election this year, and his major opponent, Joshua Nkomo, Zimbabwe's home affairs minister. Mugabe and Nkomo for years headed competing guerrilla forces seeking to overturn a white-minority government.

In Salisbury's Harari township, two grenades were hurled into the home of an Nkomo supporter Sunday night, injuring six occupants, one critically. Ten minutes later, two grenades smashed into the home of a Mugabe follower but caused no injuries.

Today's weather

Fair skies and cooler temperatures

Twin Falls, Burley-Rupert, and Gooding-Terome areas will be mostly fair through Wednesday. Overnight lows in the 40s, highs both days in the upper 60s to mid 70s.

Spraying conditions show winds decreasing this morning to 5 mph or less. Pan evaporation is expected to be 24 of an inch both today and Wednesday. Having an outlook for Thursday through Sunday indicates continued cool with scattered showers for poor curing conditions. Moderate to heavy morning dew.

Halley, Camas-Prarie, and Wood River Valley: Partly cloudy through Wednesday. Overnight lows 35 to 45, highs both days upper 60s to low 70s.

Synopsis: Clouds show some fair skies Monday. Satellite photos showed a few high clouds in southern Idaho and a large band in northern Idaho. The ones in the north are a result of an intense frontal system stretching from eastern Montana to the area just west of the Idaho-Montana border. Idahoans throughout the state saw temperatures warm up a bit Monday. Malad reached the 80 degree mark, while most other temps were in the 70s. Lows Monday morning were in the mid 30s in the higher mountain areas, 37 at McCall and Fairfield 50. Most other lows generally were in the 40s. The 24-hour rain totals were small, being only remnants of the last storm that swept through the state.

Abscam defense rests case; witnesses testify to honesty

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The defense in the nation's third Abscam trial abruptly rested its case Monday after character witnesses testified that two city councilmen charged with bribery were "honest and law-abiding" citizens.

George X. Schwartz and Harry P. Janotti are accused of taking a total of $40,000 in bribes from FBI undercover agents posing as middlemen for a phony Arab sheik. The two were charged with pledging their political muscle to aid the sheik's plans to build a hotel complex in the city.

Closing arguments were scheduled Tuesday morning, and then U.S. District Court Judge John P. Fullam is expected to make his charge to the sequestered six-man, six-woman jury.

In a brief opening statement, Richard Sprague, Schwartz's attorney, told the jury he would make no attempt to dispute what the prosecution's "secret" videotapes showed — that his client accepted an envelope from FBI agents. The prosecution said the envelope contained cash.

Instead, Sprague said, he would produce witnesses "who will testify that George Schwartz's reputation in this community is that of an honest, law-abiding citizen."

One of those character references was a letter from Cardinal John Krol, which said the Roman Catholic Archbishop of Philadelphia had lived for about 20 years in Schwartz's council district. "Until your recent difficulties, I never heard your dignity or integrity challenged, nor did I know any reason that it could have been," the letter said.

Krol said Schwartz, who resigned as council president following his indictment, was known in his district as a "dedicated public servant."

Sprague called 25 character witnesses to the stand, including Schwartz's wife of 46 years, Jerry, the president of the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce, and the head of the city's AFL-CIO council. All described Schwartz's reputation as excellent or impeccable.

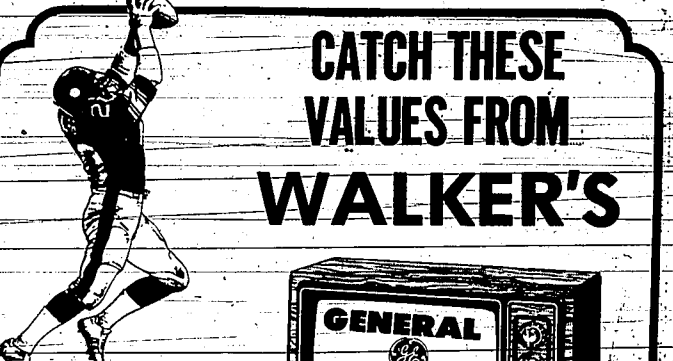

J. Clayton Undercoiler, Janotti's lawyer, then produced seven character witnesses for his client.

"When this trial is over, if Harry Janotti is not back in city council Philadelphia will have lost a great man," testified Doris Malitsky, a neighborhood boy's club officer who said she had known the former council majority leader for 20 years. In presenting its case last week, the government showed videotapes of Janotti and Schwartz accepting envelopes allegedly containing $10,000 and $30,000 respectively, during meetings with undercover agents last January in a fashionable hotel suite.

Teacher strikes spread; 500,000 students out of class

By United Press International

Schools strikes killing a half-million students spread to a ninth state Monday with teachers in Wall Township, N.J., walking off the job. Vandenberg closed a Pennsylvania school hit by a teachers strike.

Clifford Felt, superintendent of schools in Fayette County, Pa., canceled classes for the 2,400 students attending Connelville Area High School after it was discovered that someone had doused floors in the building with a bad-smelling liquid. Felt said he did not know when the school will be able to reopen. There has been a strike by bus drivers at the school since Labor Day, but officials could not say whether it was related to the vandalism.

Some 2,000 students in the Chesler-Union School District in Delaware County, Pa., were sent home Monday. Their 550 teachers went on strike.

The walkout brought to 14 the number of school districts in Pennsylvania where a total of 3,576 teachers were on picket lines. The Pennsylvania State Education Association said a total of 69,258 students were affected by strikes in the state.

In Philadelphia, 22,000 teachers demanding a limit on proposed teacher layoffs continued a 16-day-old strike keeping 222,000 students from classes.

The strikes spread to a ninth state when more than 200 teachers and administrators in the Wall Township School District in Belmar, N.J., walked off the job four hours after talks broke down over wage and benefit increases for a new two-year contract. No new negotiations were set.

Classes for the district's 3,000 students were kept open with substitute teachers and "a few" teachers who crossed the picket line, Wall Township school superintendent John Weaver said.

Waiting for the School Committee to resume contract talks in the state's last of five teachers' strikes.

Westerly school officials closed schools with a total enrollment of 3,500 students Monday and sought a court injunction ordering the teachers back to work. An official said the committee would not resume contract talks until a hearing, scheduled for Friday, was held on the requested injunction.

About 190 teachers are involved in the strike that has been going on since schools opened Sept. 3. Elsewhere a strike affecting 32,000 students by teachers demanding raises in San Jose, Calif., was in its seventh day—more than 60,000 students in Illinois and 78,400 in 18 Michigan districts were affected by school strikes.

In Ohio, strikes by teachers in three communities and by non-academic workers in the Columbus school district have affected 80,000 students. The Columbus school employees reached a tentative contract agreement with the school board Sunday, which they planned to vote on Monday night.

Jury selection starts

Nixon to testify in FBI case?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Jury selection began Monday in the long-delayed trial of two ex-FBI chiefs accused of approving illegal break-ins in the early 1970s — and a defense lawyer said he "very likely" will call Richard Nixon to testify.

Mark Felt, 67, the FBI's former associate director, and Edward S. Miller, 51, his former intelligence chief, were charged with approving legal-haggles-over-procedures-for-preventing-release-of-classified-information during testimony.

They are accused of conspiring to approve illegal break-ins — known as "black bag jobs" — as well as warrantless wiretaps and mail-openings in a hunt for fugitive members of the terrorist Weather Underground Organization in 1970-73.

Chief U.S. District Judge William Bryant — who spent 30 months working ing out unprecedented procedures for prosecuting high U.S. intelligence officials while protecting classified information — began the weeding process for picking a jury from more than 100 names.

Selection of the jury, which will be sequestered during the six-week trial, was expected to last a day or two. Prosecutors are likely to call up to 40 witnesses, possibly including former Attorney General Richard Kleindienst, and the defense as many as 60.

Felt and Miller contend they are innocent because former acting FBI director L. Patrick Gray, who faces a separate trial on the same charges, ordered the break-ins of the homes of friends and relatives of the fugitives.

They also say the terrorists had ties with hostile foreign agents, making the hunt a national security investigation with less stringent surveillance guidelines.

Felt's lawyer, Brian Gettings Jr., told reporters he may call Nixon to testify, presumably to show the orders for the break-ins came from above.

"If we ask him (Nixon) to come, he will come," Gettings said. He said he and several other defense lawyers have interviewed Nixon twice, once about two months ago at his New York office.

"We said, 'We may need you as a witness,'" Gettings said. "He said, 'I don't have any problem... If you want me to come, I'll be there.'"

"He can help us."

Connecticut residents glad Klanbake is over

SCOTLAND, Conn. (UPI) — The tiny northeastern Connecticut farming town of Scotland tried to return to normal Monday, but officials said the memory of two weekend Ku Klux Klan rallies would not be erased for some time.

"We'll be back to normal in a couple of days. But the memory will linger on for a few months anyway, maybe into years," first selectman Nelson Perry Jr. said.

Several hundred people gathered in a rented cow pasture Saturday and again Sunday to watch three dozen robed Klansmen, most with their faces hidden, burn giant crosses in the first public KKK rallies in the state in more than 70 years.

Nine people were arrested and eight were injured in clashes between anti-Klan marchers and sympathizers and area residents before the Saturday rally.

Klan Imperial Wizard Bill Wilkinson was arrested before the Sunday rally on a gun possession charge but was released, time to lead the Klan prayer before the second cross burning.

He said Connecticut was chosen as the site of the rallies because it was the New England state which had the most positive response to the KKK.

But public officials, including Gov. Ella Grasso and several town and city officials, and church leaders blasted the Klan's activities in the state.

"We would have been happier if it had not been in our town," Perry said. "They were not welcome, simply because they're violent."

Reagan: 'I don't see where that's a gaffe to say that'

There is no question that some of his statements, such as a recent crack he made about President Carter and the Ku Klux Klan at a Michigan State Fair rally, can appropriately be considered factual or even oratorical blunders.

But Reagan is in good company. In 1975 Jimmy Carter, among other statements, made his controversial

Anderson says he won't make hostages a political issue

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — John Anderson said Monday he does not want to politicize the issue of the U.S. hostages in Iran, but does not think financial considerations should hold up their release.

The independent presidential candidate said Sunday in San Francisco he would speak out on the subject of the latest demands from the Ayatollah-Khomeni — and implied that Ronald Reagan should not have done so, either.

He repeated at a news conference Monday in Portland that it would be prudent at this time to avoid the obvious temptation to politicize this issue until it more clearly emerges.

But he added:

"Obviously, I can agree that if the only things standing between the release of the hostages are financial matters such as the unfreezing of the assets and the surrendering of claims against that government or even the furthest suggestion that there be some kind of pledge that we would not interfere in their internal affairs ... I would be willing to do that."

Those were the only free demands Reagan said should be accepted.

"If current reports are true about where the fortune of the shah is located, they may not be in the physical jurisdiction and custody of the United States. I don't know how we would satisfy that particular requirement, but I would hope that could be worked out," Anderson said.

Reagan's position on that demand is that the shah's wealth could not be seized without due process of law.

At any rate, Anderson said, given the variety of statements that have come out of Iran on the hostages issue, it would be well to do nothing until their position is clarified.

Anderson also said Monday the United States should change its position and vote against seating the "brutal" Pol Pot regime delegates at the Cambodian representatives to the United Nations.

He noted Carter's strong support of human rights in the 1976 campaign and said the U.S. vote to seat Pol Pot's delegates was the "height of hypocrisy."

The Pol Pot regime was designated to represent Cambodia in the United Nations last year, but the world body will consider the question again when in its 35th session beginning Tuesday in New York.

Pol Pot, backed by the Chinese, and a Vietnamese delegation backed by the Soviet Union, have been fighting to represent the Asian nation.

"I think it's very difficult to imagine a more striking contradiction of the Carter administration's human rights policy than its vote for the Pol Pot regime," he said.

Anderson urged Carter to have the United States vote against seating either Pol Pot or the Vietnamese puppets and instead leave the seat vacant until — a legitimate representative of the Cambodian people can be determined.

Soviets stonewalling on rights

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — Threatened with criticism of its human rights record and Afghanistan policy, the Soviet Union stonewalled Monday at a meeting preparing a review of the 1975 Helsinki agreement on Security and Cooperation in Europe.

"I am convinced this meeting is going to drag on because the Soviet Union wants to drag on," one senior diplomat said.

The 35-nation talks — the first major East-West meeting since the Soviet Union marched into Afghanistan Dec. 25 — stalled on the question of preparing an agenda and timetable for the main part of the conference, starting Nov. 11 and expected to last four months.

"It's like a wrestling match," one Western ambassador said. "The wrestlers are dancing around but haven't managed to come to grips."

Conference sources said the Soviet Union was placing more emphasis on bilateral talks than on the meeting itself. Soviet Ambassador Yuri Dubinin met twice last week with the U.S. chief delegate, Max Kampelman, but American delegation sources said nothing of substance was broached.

A Soviet spokesman said his government wants the week-old Madrid meeting to succeed.

But the East bloc countries have yet to agree their hand and Western diplomats fear the Soviet Union may attempt to limit the amount of time available for reviewing the Helsinki accord, in which the nations pledged to respect human rights and not use force in their international relations.

The United States intends to use the Madrid meeting to criticize the invasion of Afghanistan and question the Soviet record on human rights in the light of a wave of arrests of dissidents and people who set up groups to monitor Moscow's compliance with the Helsinki agreement.

Diplomats said Moscow seeks a more "orderly" process than during the last Helsinki review conference that began in Belgrade three years ago. That meeting saw a heated but fruitless assault on the Soviet rights record by the United States.

Webster: FOI Act detriment

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — FBI Director William H. Webster said Monday the Freedom of Information Act is hindering law enforcement by discouraging informants from coming forward with vital facts.

"The purpose of the act is a good one and we should support it," Webster said at the annual convention of the International Association of Chiefs of Police.

"But in practice, enforcement of the act has created severe problems for several agencies, especially those which need to receive information on a confidential basis.

"If we are expected to reach beyond the streets to the sophisticated areas of organized crime and white collar crimes, and to detect terrorist activities, we must have legislative support for protection of our most vital tool — the informant."

Webster said he realized the importance of informants when he thought of the FBI's major cases in progress, such as the Nevada casino bombing and the attempted assassination of Libyan League President Verdon Jordan.

"As we all know, if a bank robbery isn't solved within 24 hours, it is not likely to be solved without confidential information," he told the police chiefs. "If we do not get it, it is unlikely the case will be solved at all."

Webster, a former federal appeals court judge in St. Louis, said informants are fearful of cooperating because the FBI cannot assure them anonymity.

"It is well-known that organized crime figures use the Freedom of Information Act to discover the identities of informants," he said.

It was an unlikely barbershop quartet, but Chambers of Commerce are known to be tense about the message gets across. And it did last week at the opening of New York's new 51-story Hemley Palace Hotel. Harmonizing "sort of" oh "I Love New York" were Gov. Big Casey, Metropolitan Opera tenor Robert Merrill and veteran swashbuckler Douglas Fairbanks Jr. Even Cardinal Terence Cooke crossed the street from St. Patrick's Cathedral to listen.

I've been tryin' to make this trip for 10 years and now it's finally gonna happen!"

OLD KING SAM

Heaced out first round leader Bob Goaly by a single stroke for the victory. Snead took the final round by Andy Robbins always said Hercules was just a teddy bear at heart and now he can prove it. His runaway grizzly is home after going AWOL on a Scottish island. Says Robbins, for whom Hercules earns $45,000 a year in TV commercials, "For three weeks he's been on this island with the children, cattle and goats, but rather than kill them he has lost 15 stone." That's 210 pounds. Fishermen Alister McLean and Ronald MacDonald get the reward for finding him. That's $2,500.

Halston goes to China with Bianca, silk

PEKING (UPI) — Top U.S. fashion designer Halston flew into Peking with jet-setter Bianca Jagger and dazzling models to show the Chinese a thing or two about their own invention silk. Halston said he hoped to show the Chinese "just what we do, so that we could, you know, help them help themselves and in turn help us." He said he wanted to "show the technicians in the silk industry what we do in America."

models and aides turned many Chinese heads at Peking International airport with their colorful and, by Chinese standards, daring outfits and stunning shapes. The U.S. Chinese exchange of ideas on clothes took on real shape almost immediately at the airport when one of the models, Margaret Donahue, swapped jackets with Yu Shihua, 20, a cleaner at the airport.

After trying on the stylish, flaming red colored half-length jacket, Miss Yu said she liked it. "But honestly, I can't go out into the streets in this." The cut and the color apparently still is too bold for China. "and it is too short," she said.

Cyclist injured in jump attempt over fountains

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Motorcyclist Gary Wells crashed and injured himself Monday while attempting to soar over the fountains of Caesar's Palace on his bike and at the same time break his own world distance record of 176 feet. Wells, 23, Phoenix, Ariz., was attempting a jump which Evel Knievel tried and failed to make 13 years ago. Wells, who watched Knievel's attempt as a 10-year-old, took off at a speed of about 90 mph from one side of the fountain on a ramp which was 7 feet high. His motorcycle reached a height of about 30 feet, easily clearing the fountains. But it struck the right side of the landing ramp, went out of control and smashed into a cement abutment which is part of the hotel structure. One paramedic said Wells suffered two broken legs but he was conscious when he was loaded into an ambulance. Knievel broke his pelvis when he tried the stunt. Wells was living in Las Vegas and driving go-carts when he saw the Knievel crash in 1967. "I stood here with my father and watched Knievel's fiasco attempt and after all the years it seemed to me something I felt I had to do ... mainly because I'm here," he said before Monday's jump.

Carter slips, nearly tumbles

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (UPI) — President Carter slipped and nearly fell on a high step at an unloading dock at the rear of a school Monday. Carter was going toward the entrance of Moody High School where he held a town hall meeting when he slipped on the step and pitched forward, apparently onto one hand. A Secret Service agent grasped his arm and pulled him upright. The president recovered quickly, turned waved to the crowd and entered the gymnasium.

GENERAL TENDENCIES. An excellent day for you to extend your influence far beyond present boundaries. Make constructive plans to gain your goals. Be more alert to what's going on around you.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Those at a distance can help you solve a difficult problem if you are cooperative. Think along optimistic lines.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You are able to handle your obligations in a positive manner now. Find a different kind of amusement to enjoy.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Anything you have in mind that concerns greater work with an associate is fine at this time. Be logical.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You are able to handle your work more efficiently now and can cooperate more with allies.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Take advantage of an opportunity and profit from a special talent you have. Enjoy good friends during spare time.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Seize an opportunity to make the situation at home more harmonious. A new plan needs more study to be successful.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) If you tell your associates what you expect of them, this will lead to a better understanding. Strive for happiness.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) Discuss your ambitions with higher-ups and they will help you to advance. Not a good day for taking any risks.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Seek the aid of others in activities that mean much to you. Postpone handling an uncertain business matter.

A. They were infielders in major league baseball early in this century. And a renowned humorist named Franklin P. Adams immortalized them in 1906 in a brief story called "Baseball's Sad Lexicon." Wrote he: "These are the saddest of possible words. . . Tinker to Evers to Chance. . . Trio of Bear Cubs fleeter than birds. . . Tinkers to Evers to Chance. . . Tinkers to Evers to Chance. . . Making a Giant hit into a double. . . Words that are weighty with nothing, but trouble. . . Tinker to Evers to Chance."

Legion dinner tonight

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls American Legion post and auxiliary will host a youth recognition pollock dinner at 6:30 p.m. today.

The event will be held at St. Edwards' Parish Hall. Honored guests will be the 1980 Girls and Boys State delegates sponsored by the auxiliary and Legion post as well as the Legion oratorical winner and members of the Legion baseball team.

Parents, their families, financial sponsors and all Legion and auxiliary members are invited to meet these youths who have represented

Twin Falls so well in this year's Idaho Legion activities, according to Elizabeth Rose, auxiliary president.

The Girls and Boys State delegates will speak of their experiences. Mary Ellen Boldman, governor of the 1980 Girls State, is coordinating the girls' presentation. Mike Bittinger is organizing the boys to present special interest areas from Boys State.

The public is invited, but this requested that reservations and food arrangements be made with Mrs. Rose, 734-5583.

Single parents set confab

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls chapter of Parents Without Partners will host a mini-regional conference Sept. 27 at the Holiday Inn.

Theme for the meeting which is open to all single parents will be "Single People Are People Too."

Sessions begin with registration and continental breakfast at 8 a.m., followed by an address by Mrs. Ruth Hammond of Kimberly at 11:30 a.m. She is a family counselor.

Workshops will follow the lunch break. Subjects will include "Child Rearing Tips for Single Parents" and "Coping With Singleness."

The conference will conclude with a bus trip and smorgasbord dinner at Jackpot, Nev.

Pre-registration fee is $15 or $18 at the door.

Dear Abby

As long as parents pay they call tune

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
Field Enterprises, Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I hope and pray that you will print this letter, as this problem has plagued my friends and me for many years.

I'm a 16-year-old girl, living with my parents and attending a very strict Baptist college. My parents are paying for my education, but I've been listening to rock music for over eight years without my parents' knowledge. They found the tapes and were crushed.

They say they can no longer trust me. I apologized for having kept it from them, but explained that I didn't tell them because I knew rock music is against their beliefs. They say that rock music destroys young people and that I cannot keep the tapes in the house.

I told them that I have developed my own convictions, and as long as I don't disturb anyone with my music I should be allowed to keep the tapes and listen to them. Who is right? Must I get rid of the tapes, and turn my room into the radio station? Or should I be allowed to make my own choice of music as long as I don't bother anybody?

—ME IN SOUTH CAROLINA

DEAR ME: As long as you live in your parents' home and they are paying for your education, you must follow their rules. Once you are on your own, you may do as you please.

DEAR ABBY: I live in Pearl City, Hawaii, and I'm shocked and appalled at the ignorance of some of our fellow Americans who still think Hawaii is a foreign country. When I travel to the mainland, I am amazed at the number of people who say, "I'd love to go to Hawaii someday. I've never been out of the United States." I'm also asked, "Is this our first trip to America?" I've even been asked, "Do you have running water, being that you're so isolated from everything?"

And how does life in America compare to Hawaii? The list goes on. Will you please inform people that Hawaii is now one of the 50 states of the union? Also, we no longer live in little grass-shacks. Thank you!

—ALIVE AND WELL IN AMERICA

DEAR ALIVE: You can bet your ukulele. Let it be known that on Aug. 21, 1959, Hawaii became the 50th state to join the union, and has been apart of America ever since!

DEAR ABBY: With the changing times and less emphasis on the more formal aspects of a wedding, my wife and I are often faced with an embarrassing dilemma—We are both pastors who officiate at many weddings.

We are seldom invited in advance to the rehearsal dinner or the wedding reception, but when we start to leave, the bride says, "Please stay. We thought you knew you were invited!" We never presume that we are invited unless we have received an invitation beforehand. Abby, we have small children and must make arrangements for having them looked after, just as all the other invited guests who have been officially invited.

Please remind your readers that if the officiating pastor(s) is expected to stay for the rehearsal dinner and reception, an invitation should be sent.

Dr. Lamb

Bran and prunes solve his problem

By LAWRENCE L. LAMB, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Association

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read one of your columns in which you mentioned that it was bad to get used to taking laxatives for — and become dependent upon them.

I have a problem that I don't know what to do about. A year ago I had bleeding hemorrhoids and my doctor said if they got worse, he would have to operate.

I've had several operations for other things so I decided to try bran and cooked dried prunes. I use three or four prunes and mash them up in a dish. Also two tablespoons of bran. I put water in to soften the bran and let it set quite awhile and take it before I go to bed.

I have a bowel movement at 6:30 in the morning and am not bothered anymore all day. If I eat some roughage I see blood again but I can go for a month or so just fine. If I don't eat my prunes and bran I get constipated, of course, then the blood.

Would you call this a laxative or just a food and is it hurt me? I eat lots of fruits and vegetables. I am 89 years old and do a lot of walking.

DEAR READER — It sounds to me like you're doing just fine. You certainly should have had an examination. People who have any bleeding should not assume that it's just from hemorrhoids. Bleeding can be the first sign of rectal or colon cancer. But having already had your examination you do not need to worry about that.

To give you more information on what hemorrhoids are and how to manage them, I am sending you the Health Letter, No. 13-2, Hemorrhoids: New Treatments for An Old Affliction. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for — Send your request to me, care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Prunes do contain a laxative type substance. Many people use them with success. I think they shouldn't be overdone, but in your case, it seems to have worked quite well in combination with your bran and I wouldn't worry so much about it.

The diet which you described, which includes plenty of dried fruits, is also good for you as well as the walking. I'm also sending you The Health Letter No. 12-8, Laxatives, Enemas and Suppositories. This health letter discussed the different kinds of laxatives and the problems which some can create.

There are different kinds of bulk-in-the-diet. The roughage that is coarse and is fibrous might be irritating to your hemorrhoids, but bran, as you've found out, is really not roughage. It's softage.

When it becomes moist it softens. In people who are not taking medicines that dry out the colon, such as the diuretics or water pills, the bran will retain the moisture and keep the stool soft.

As long as this system works as well as it is for you, I would see no reason for changing it. You can discuss this with your doctor and if there is any change, then I can advise you as to the best procedure for your case.

At Wit's End Shorten TV shows, extend commercials

By ERMA BOMBCEK
© Field Enterprises, Inc.

I thought I could endure a fall season of reruns brought about by the strike of two unions, but I can't.

Basically, I'm a weak person. I never told anyone, but once when I was watching "The Wizard of Oz" for the tenth time, something happened to me. I jumped to my feet and shouted at Dorothy, "Do you know how fat your stupid legs look wearing white socks with black pumps?"

Dorothy, you're 10 years old and you're eaten up with cellulite!" I don't know what made me say that.

Just after a summer of reruns, I am already saying unkind things to Ainsie, Jim Garner and those nice men who work for Barney Miller.

I am sympathetic to the cause of the unions, but something has to be done before I am forced to go back to communicating with one another.

It occurs to me one solution to reruns would be to shorten the shows and extend the commercials to 30 or 60 minutes. Who among you has not wondered what happens to the guy who comes home to his surprise birthday party? His wife meets him at the door and says, "Surprise! Hiss gasps. "Honey, your breath!" She drags him into the nearest bathroom. Sure, we see him minutes later on an antiseptic high, breathing on everyone, but what happens the next morning? I would like to pursue that relationship.

I'd also like to see Robert Young and Mrs. Olsen meet at a party some night and see which one triumphs in the fresh-perked Olympics.

Mrs. Olsen: What are YOU doing here?

Robert Young: I'm here because Fred has been mean to me lately, and I think he's drinking too much caffeine.

Mrs. Olsen: I think he's ticked off because he can't come home without tripping over you with a coffee pot in your hands.

Robert Young: Coffee beans up your nose!

Mrs. Olsen: Just so they're mountain grown.

There is no question that a longer commercial format could answer a lot of questions. Do the little weirdos in the Fruit of the Loom wasteland have feelings? Do the guys who wonder what kind of a babysitter travels with a chalk demonstration to explain fluoride to a kid?

What holds the marriage together between the plumber and his wife who always meeting over a clogged sink? Who's been stealing all the American Express traveler's checks overseas?

It's a possibility.

Debate format unveiled

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The League of Women Voters said Monday that each participant in the first presidential debate Sunday will be asked six questions and will be allowed time to challenge his opponent's answers.

The League announced the format for the four-hour debate which will be held in Baltimore at 10 p.m. EDT Sept. 21.

Republican Ronald Reagan and independent John Anderson will stand at podiums to be questioned by six panelists and a moderator, a League official said.

She said there will be an empty podium or chair for President Carter, who has declined to participate until he can have a two-way confrontation with Reagan first.

The panelists will question the candidates on three issues — domestic affairs, the economy, and national defense as it relates to both of the other.

Each candidate will have a 2 1/2 minute response to each question, then an additional one minute, 15 seconds to question or challenge each other's answer. Each also will have a three-minute closing statement.

The official said this was the format suggested by the League Aug. 25, and representatives of the candidates met Tuesday to firm it up. Carter had no representative at Monday's meeting.

There will be six panelists and each would ask one question. Neither the panelists nor the moderator have been chosen.

Most of the 2,500 to 2,800 tickets available — for the debates — in Baltimore's Convention Center will go to reporters, local politicians, candidates' staffs and campaign contributors, with as few as 200 seats available for the general public, League officials in Baltimore estimated later.

Any overflow of reporters and politicians will be seated in adjacent meeting rooms where a closed-circuit telecast may be seen.

Warner executive indicted

NEW YORK (UPI) — A top executive of Warner Communications Inc., the communications and entertainment conglomerate, was indicted Monday on racketeering charges linked to his involvement in the now-defunct Westchester Premier.

The federal grand jury in Manhattan filed a 17-count indictment against Jay Emmett, 52, of Westport, Conn., a member of Warner's three-man presidential ticket. His major responsibilities are in motion pictures, television and publishing.

The grand jury also indicted Leonard Horwitz, 56, of Redding Conn., a former stockbroker, onetime vice president of Westchester Premier, and now promotion and sales executive for Warner.

Horwitz previously had been convicted with two other defendants on charges of fraud in the financial collapse of the former showcase theater. His conviction, however, was later overturned because of a technicality.

Four other defendants, including mob figures Gregory De Palma and Tobias Pacella, pleaded guilty to similar charges. The same grand jury recently indicted Mafia chief Frank "Fuzzi" Tieri for his alleged part in the scheme and sought to determine whether Frank Sinatra was involved in any way.

Monday's indictment said Emmett "operated Warner Communications through a pattern of racketeering over a seven year period, which included acts of mail fraud, interstate transportation of stolen property, and obstruction of justice."

Union Pacific, two others map 21-state merger plan

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI) — A proposed merger of the Union Pacific, Missouri Pacific and Western Pacific railroads faces no serious opposition from shippers, UP Railroad President John C. Kenefick said Monday. Kenefick outlined plans for the previously announced 21-state rail network while applications were filed in Washington seeking Interstate Commerce Commission approval. "We don't look for any serious shipper opposition," Kenefick said. "On the contrary, the proposal has met with overwhelming shipper support."

Peak up 6% for summer

Electricity demand set hot pace

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Peak demand for electricity, mostly to power residential air conditioners, rose an average of about 6 percent across the country this summer, one of the hottest on record, utility industry officials say. Officials of Edison Electric Institute, trade association of the investor-owned utilities, said preliminary figures show the biggest demand peaks came, as expected, in areas of the Southwest that experienced the most scorching heat. One utility power pool in Texas experienced a 12.5 percent surge in peak demand compared to last year, they said. The demand peak increased 12.9 percent in a nearby power pool region covering parts of Louisiana, Texas and Oklahoma.

In the Southeast, the demand peak rose 8 percent, and a 7 percent jump was recorded in New York, which has experienced a slowdown in demand growth in recent years. In New England, the officials said the summer peak demand was up 4.5 percent. The utilities, many of which were caught with an embarrassing surplus of power in recent years when electricity demand growth began slowing in the past seven years, handled the unusual summer demand without major problems. The 6.2 percent increase in peak demand this summer compared with an increase of just 0.6 percent in 1979, Doug Baur, senior vice president of the trade group, said the high summer peak proved load management appeals for conservation and times for energy for electricity at peak times have only a limited effect on use of air conditioners in really hot weather. At a wide-ranging background briefing the institute also released a new study concluding U.S. energy supplies were adequate to last through the end of the century and beyond if conservation measures are coupled with a shift to more plentiful energy sources. "The two-pronged attack on our energy problem will permit electricity to continue while reducing imports to no more than 5 percent to 10 percent of total energy consumption by 2000," the report said.

Refiners hike sugar prices $2 per 100-lbs.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Three of the nation's largest sugar refiners Monday raised the wholesale price of sugar by $2.00 per hundred pound bag effective immediately. Consumers should find the sugar price increases, which are about 10 cents for a 35-lb. bag, reflected at the retail level within 45 to 50 days, the current lag period before wholesale changes in sugar are passed along to the shopper. The Amstar Corp. and Refined Sugar and Syrup Inc. said prices for 100-pound-unit, FOB refined sugar will be increased to $50.10, bulk sugar to $49.00 and No. 2 sucrose to $49.20. The Hercules Corp. of Colorado announced increases for its territory No. 2 and No. 3 sucrose. The company said sugar in bags will be increased to $45.50 for territory No. 2 and $47.40 for territory No. 3, while sucrose will be increased to $45.50 in territory No. 2 and to $47.40 in territory No. 3. Sugar prices last week soared to a new high of 39.85 cents a pound, the highest in almost five years, while the F.O. Light report indicated that the Soviet Union sugar beet crop will be delayed in processing due to heavy rains and flooding. Meanwhile Cuba has informed its customers that they will cut shipments by 30 percent.

which to receive statements and hold hearings, and then six months in which to make a final decision. The two applications together total 26 volumes. Kenefick said Missouri-Pacific would retain its name and operate essentially as a separate railroad with headquarters in St. Louis, although the marketing divisions of UP and MoPac would be combined. "If it works, don't fix it," said Kenefick in explaining why Missouri-Pacific and UP would operate as two separate companies except in marketing, where they would have a single pricing policy.

Late rally gives market slight gain

NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market, overcoming investor fears about rising interest rates, scored a modest gain Monday with a late rally that was led by railroad issues. Trading was moderate.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, down more than 5 points in the early going after Friday's 4.73-point loss, rose 1.11 points to 87.63 in the late rally. It lost 4.44 points earlier.

The DJ transportation average soared 8.22 points to a 1980-high of 329.49. Railroad issues surged after a Wall Street Journal story said the companies have won favor because of prospects of rising profits from increased coal-hauling, pending rail mergers and pending industry deregulation.

The New York Stock Exchange index added 0.10 to 72.75 and the price of a share increased 4 cents. Declines edged advances 783 to 761 among the 1,914 issues traded at 4 p.m. EDT in a preliminary count.

"The late buying erupted following reports that OPEC would not exact a general oil price increase at its Vienna meeting," said Newton Zinder, E.F. Hutton vice president. A worldwide oil glut dictated against a general increase, but Wall Street reacted sharply to the report, Zinder said.

Also, Saudi Arabia, according to reports, will not raise its prices and lower oil production because Iran had sent its leaders insulting telegrams prior to the meeting.

Early selling was attributed to fear that the Federal Reserve would have to tighten credit because the nation's money supply soared $1.2 billion in the latest statistical week.

The nation's major banks have raised their prime lending rate to 12 1/4 percent from 12 percent and there is speculation this key fee will go higher.

Big Board volume totaled 44,630,000 shares, down from the 47,189,000 traded on Friday.

Composite volume of NYSE-listed issues on all U.S. exchanges and over the counter at 4 p.m. totaled 50,020,000 shares, compared with 52,501,780 traded Friday.

The American Stock Exchange index lost 1.89 to 339.46 and the price of a share eased 10 cents. The National Association of Securities Dealers' NASDAQ OTC index rose 0.01 to 189.59, an all-time high.

Among the paucity of rail issues and other transportation stocks, Burlington Northern climbed 2 1/4 to 42 3/4, Norfolk & Western 1 3/4 to 43 1/4, and Pacific Corp. 1/4 to 68 1/4, SL

Louis-San Francisco 1 1/4 to 80 3/4, Southern Railway 1 1/4 to 78 1/4.

Santa Fe Industries gained 3 1/4 to 64 3/4, and Southern Pacific jumped 1 1/4 to 39. The companies Friday called off the proposed merger of their two railroads.

Among the airlines, Northwest gained 1 to 7 3/4, Eastern 3/4 to 9 3/4, Trans-World 3/4 to 17 3/4, Delta 1 1/4 to 50 and JAL Inc. 1 1/4 to 21 1/4.

Texasco, a one point loser Friday, was the most active NYSE-listed issue, off 1 to 35 3/4 after blocks of 300,000 shares and 110,000 shares both at 35 1/4.

Some authorities think Texasco's 10 percent reduction in its estimated proved natural gas reserves may lead to low falls and a lowering of earnings, according to analyst reports.

State, city officials discuss 1% initiative

Idaho State Legislator Ralph Olmstead talked with Twin Falls City Council members Monday evening

TWIN FALLS — State Legislators and City Council members Monday confronted each other's views of the 1 percent initiative's virtues.

Several local legislators, including House Speaker Ralph Olmstead, said legislators are in favor of the measure brought property tax relief to all classes of property taxpayers.

That opinion was not shared by two Democratic candidates who favored the present implementation of the 1 percent piecemeal.

But council members, including Chris Bratton, said the Legislature's freeze on property tax revenues had destroyed the city's ability to maintain services and left city officials without a secure financial future.

The remarks were made during a meeting of local legislators and legislative candidates with the council. Council members invited the candidates from legislative districts 24 and 25 to solicit their opinions on a series of council proposals concerning the 1 percent and funding options.

Among the list of 10 legislative proposals compiled by city officials, the most visible one concerned the elimination of Legislature's freeze on property tax revenues.

The session was attended by Republicans Tom Stivers, and Olmstead, both Twin Falls, and running for election to the House from District 25; Republicans Lawrence Knigge of Filer, and Noy Brackett of Twin Falls; and Democrat George Anthony of Buhl, all of whom are seeking House seats from District 24. The three candidates seeking the state Senate seat from District 25—Democrat Lloyd Shewmaker of Kimberly, Republican Laird Noh of Kimberly, and Howard Buhler of Twin Falls, who is running on the American Party ticket.

Incumbent Sen. John Becker, Republican, also took issue with Mayor Hank Woodall's statement that state agencies had continued to receive additional revenues while cities' property tax revenues were frozen.

Stivers said 75 percent of state revenues were committed to funding education, leaving little "slack" for other departments.

He added local interests must be considered with those of other regions of the state during the next legislative session.

Noh said much of the problem stemmed from a lack of communication between legislators and local officials. He also called for a shifting of resources and responsibilities from the state to local governments.

The two Democrats criticized the Republican-controlled Legislature's actions and said they would make changes.

Anthony said the measure had resulted in a huge windfall for large corporations and other wealthy owners received little relief.

Anthony said he would support exploring an alternative to the 1 percent and said he would support local option taxation.

Shewmaker said the homeowner's exemption should be made automatic. He said the property tax freeze on local taxing districts would result in a disruption of road maintenance and called for either a repeat or full implementation of the 1 percent.

Survey helps Minico school officials combat drug abuse

By LARRY SWISHER

RUPERT — Minico High School Principal Don Cameron knows just how many of his students smoke marijuana.

The figures — about half the Class of '81 admitted trying pot — are found in the results of a survey taken last spring of 766 Rupert students in the ninth through 12th grades.

But the principal, who is trained and active in combating drug abuse, had a successful program in place to assist young people with problems before the statistics came out last week.

"Even those who are using drugs seem appreciative of the fact at least someone is telling them the truth and not trying to scare them," Cameron, in his third year at Minico, said. "I say, 'Sure you'll have fun but here's the price.' I don't just keep saying, 'That's bad.'"

Cameron's message is that marijuana is harmful, contrary to student opinion that nothing is wrong with smoking marijuana and it is no worse than alcohol.

In fact, he said, frequent use, three to four times a week, causes a loss of ability to concentrate, poor eating habits, difficulty in completing tasks and physiological changes.

"Most young people are not aware, Cameron says, that the active substance in marijuana remains in the body and has a cumulative effect.

"Even infrequent use with some alcohol can build high concentrations and continue to affect their ability to think and respond."

Cameron also practices openness with parents of children abusing drugs. "It's not the end of the world, he says and relates approaches to the problem that have been successful.

"It isn't easy to tell them. There's usually a little shock," he said.

He also advises parents of these students not to start "loading them with guilt."

"If there's one single characteristic of drug abusers it's that most carry a very heavy burden of guilt," he said. "They don't have to accept it but the child is still there. To kick them out and say, 'I don't love you,' does nothing."

Cameron believes the problem of marijuana use is abating somewhat at the school. Teachers and others, who did not know what to do in the past, are bringing a larger percentage of the students involved to the attention of the administration.

The counseling program began last year and 19 students received special counseling and probation.

"They're trying to escape from a problem, and they're going to have to return, of course," Cameron said. "The problem needs to be resolved some other way than drugs. Coping skills need to be taught — how to handle a problem, in a productive manner instead of being swamped."

Of the 19 students who received direct attention, Cameron said three quit school and "continued with drug abuse to the best of my knowledge."

Although results are "hard to pin down," he said the others appeared to control their use to the point it ceased to affect their school work.

"At least we're past base one," he said. "Once they can control it they can quit."

The program does not require extra dollars or expertise, just re-alignment of time and priorities by administrators and counselors.

"Some things just have to slide by or wait if you take two hours with a student, but it may be the most important two-hour one spent," Cameron said. "We aren't touching very many, but we're doing some good."

More than 1,000 questionnaires were given to Minico high school and ninth-grade students. The questions were developed by psychology instructor Terry Johnson, his students and the principal.

Screened out were more than 200 of the questionnaires that were returned because they were "obviously trying to throw" the survey.

"I tried to find out how many and to what extent students were using which drugs, and questions were asked about marijuana, tobacco, alcohol and other drugs.

Here are the results of the survey by class and according to the percentage who said they used a drug "frequently," "occasionally" and "not at all."

Ninth grade: marijuana, 3, 8, 25; alcohol, 7, 19, 47; tobacco, 6, 5, 58.

Sophomore: marijuana, 7, 19, 35; alcohol, 13, 37, 60; tobacco, 14, 11, 43.

Junior: marijuana, 11, 48; alcohol, 23, 37, 73; tobacco, 15, 22, 51.

Senior: marijuana, 6, 17, 40; alcohol, 17, 40, 72; tobacco, 14, 20, 52.

Fourteen percent of the seniors said they had used cocaine at least once, 5 percent of the juniors and 3 percent of the sophomores.

Those saying they had used amphetamine, 24 percent of the seniors, 27 juniors, and 16 percent of the sophomores.

Search continues for victim

BLISS — The search for a drowning victim's body continued Monday along the Snake River near Bliss.

Kenny Vanzant, McCray, 29, of Wendell, apparently drowned after jumping into the river while swimming below the new Bliss bridge early Friday evening.

McCray's nephew, Gary Clamplitt of Wendell, told police McCray had stripped, jumped into the water and then surfaced two or three times before disappearing.

"Right now we have the people at the Bliss power station checking their grids three times a day," Gooding County Sheriff Robert Aja said Monday.

Sheriff's deputies have been searching the river by boat for about six hours each day since the accident. An air search may be ordered later this week, Aja said.

However, Aja estimated that McCray's body wouldn't surface for another week.

"Experts say it takes 7 to 11 days for a body to surface," Aja said.

"Basically there's not a whole lot a guy can do except let the process take its course, but we'll be running checks every day anyway," Aja explained.

Gooding County sheriff's deputies dredged the river almost all day Saturday searching for McCray.

Pool gets dedication

The dedication of the new Minico Community Pool was held Monday evening at the pool site.

Local dignitaries, including Mayor Hank Woodall, County Commissioner Jim McGowan, and other community leaders, gathered for the ceremony.

The pool, which is a gift from the local business community, will be used for swimming and water recreation.

The dedication was held in the presence of a large crowd of community members.

Jerome courthouse

Jerome County Courthouse Monday after county employees evacuated two adjacent offices.

Chief Deputy Larry Webb said the dynamite and 80 pounds of ammonium nitrate were used to make explosives, were taken to the North Side Canal Co. for safekeeping.

The explosives were found in a car involved in an accident Friday night, Webb said, and were being kept at the sheriff's office pending further investigation. No fuses or blasting caps accompanied the stash.

"We consulted with powder experts and at no time was there any danger," the deputy said. "People just got excited."

Webb said the office has temporarily housed employees on many occasions and he also used to make questionnaires five times before coming to rest Friday night on a rural county road.

Commissioner Henry Schulte said Monday morning he thinks the county should find another means of dealing with the explosives.

"Someone might devise a way to plant them here and threaten to blow up the place," Schulte said.

William Kersey, Jerome county assessor, said he closed his office for about an hour, sending workers to field offices or to a coffee break after he learned that dynamite was being stored only a few yards down the hall.

Dynamite storage scares employees

"Who's to say it's not dangerous?" Kersey replied when asked to explain the evacuation. He added that state law prohibits keeping explosives in a city.

Jerome Police Chief Jim McGowan, whose office is beneath Sheriff Eliza Hall's, said he requested the explosives be removed in the interest of the safety of Jerome residents.

Hall was in Nevada transporting a prisoner and could not be reached for comment.

County Treasurer Carl Stephens said employees in his office went outside during the commotion, but Stephens declined to characterize the move as an evacuation.

Ted Diehl, manager of North Side Canal Co., reportedly told Webb the dynamite was in good condition and there was no danger of spontaneous explosion.

Dynamite that is not "humidified" will not explode unless detonated by a smaller explosive charge, officials said. Ammonium nitrate requires the addition of another chemical before it becomes explosive, they added.

Complains of hypocrisies

TWIN FALLS — Calling present laws for junior college "hypocritical," the College of Southern Idaho's president said Monday he will propose changes to broaden CSI's financial base.

James Taylor told the CSI Board of Trustees at a monthly meeting Monday the proposals would be part of CSI's legislative package to be presented to the next session of the Legislature beginning in January 1981.

Taylor said he has been "very little relief at the state level financially because of continuing poor economic conditions and the 1 percent property tax limitation.

"We have to have a broader, sounder financial base in the area," he said.

Noting the state's universities will probably raise student fees by $50 to offset cutbacks, Taylor told the Times-News he would also propose raising the legal limit for junior college fees. CSI has charged the maximum for two years.

The college has lost $186,000 in its state funds because of recent cutbacks to meet a state revenue deficit. The amount equals 3.85 percent of funds for the college's vocational and 5.5 percent of those for academic programs.

Taylor said the loss will be made up by cutting the use of part-time employees, by purchasing replacements for office, instructional and other equipment, and by cutting the budget for maintenance and operations.

He said he has also "looked at" cuts in the library and the possibility of eliminating summer school.

It is the second year CSI has put off scheduled replacement of equipment, Taylor said.

One of the "hypocrisies" of present law, he said, is a requirement for junior colleges to serve students while being unable to collect revenues from the whole region.

Only two counties belong to the CSI junior college district and pay property taxes to support it, but the college is obligated to serve students from the six other counties in its area.

"Hopefully we will introduce legislation to address" this problem, he said.

The state had a "good law" until the U.S. Supreme Court ruled a person's residency was "wherever you hang your hat," Taylor said. Previously Idaho required six months to establish residency.

Before the court ruling the college could charge counties which were not members of the district for part of the cost of educating students from those counties.

As a result, Taylor said the college lost $100,000 a year "at the onset" and $300,000 a year as those counties became more reluctant to pay for billings.

He said he will be looking at the law regarding junior colleges and will probably prepare three or four bills.

Disputes over news philosophies cause two editors to leave positions

By RON ZELLAR and BRUCE HAMMOND
Times-News writers

Rachel Nicholson, news editor of the Gooding County Leader, and Dean Brown, news director of KART radio in Jerome, left their jobs in unrelated disputes over news selection.

Nicholson said Monday she quit her job because "two stories were withdrawn from print" by Leader publisher Gary Grosh.

One of the stories was about two transients legally held in the Gooding County Jail for 16 days as material witnesses in a shooting incident. The second story involved a closed-door meeting of the Gooding County Hospital Board.

Grosh felt these stories weren't proper news items for our paper," Nicholson said. "We reached an impasse and I had to quit."

Grosh explained the stories constituted "a job not completely done by pressmen that had to be held. They are items that should be pursued, but we won't because I don't have enough time."

Grosh has taken over Nicholson's duties at the Leader, until a new editor is hired.

Nicholson had been the Leader's news editor for about five months.

Rossov said he was fired Monday over an incident that happened Friday night at a football game between the Jerome and Wood River high school football teams.

Rossov said he and another reporter observed a coach physically abusing a player who had misbehaved an opportunity during the first quarter of the game. He said he approached the coach about the incident after the game and was told by administrators from both schools not to air the story.

One of the administrators threatened to talk to his employer as well, Rossov said.

Al Lee, station manager for KART, who announced the game for the radio, said he was embarrassed by the incident but did not see any reasons for dismissing the news director, who has been at the station less than six months.

Lee said he and Rossov differ on news philosophy and that he has received several complaints about Rossov's news coverage, including a charge that he tried to tape record a closed meeting of the Jerome City Council.

Rossov admitted the taping incident, but said in both instances he was only trying to do his job to keep people informed about the actions of public officials.

He said he and Lee have also quarreled over whether news events sponsored by KART advertisers should take air time that could be used to report ongoing issues in the community.

Wendell schools may go to mediation

WENDELL — Mediation may be requested to relieve an impasse in contract negotiations between the Wendell School Board and the Wendell Education Association.

"I'm supposed to draw up a letter calling for mediation for a meeting Tuesday and if both sides agree to its content it may be signed and filed in the mail," Superintendent Glen Gilbertson said Monday.

Gilbertson, who is representing the school board, will meet with teacher representative Jim King this afternoon to discuss whether or not to ask for mediation.

"Although the only issues at impasse deal with money, we believe the real issue is fair treatment," King explained. "The board has adopted a budget for this year which commits them to spending a certain amount for teachers' salaries."

"However, when we received their proposed salary schedule (the negotiated) table, it was several thousand dollars short of their budget figure."

The money questioned by King is slated for use as a cash carryover for the next school year, rather than being added to teacher salaries.

According to Gilbertson, this additional money labeled for salary use was accrued after new teachers were hired this summer at beginning salaries lower than the wages commanded by the faculty members being requested.

Wendell teachers have received an average of 57.4 percent of the school budget for salaries over the past 10 years, King said.

"However, the percentage the board has budgeted for us this year is only 53.8 percent. And they aren't even offering to give us that," King said.

Anticipated revenue for Wendell's 1980-81 school year is $1,250,752.

King said the district's teachers are concerned that the beginning teacher's salary in Wendell last school year "raled 705 out of the 110 school districts."

In negotiating this year, the Wendell Education Association proposed taking the salary money left from changed positions and dispersing it in the faculty.

"When we presented a plan for using that money, the board and superintendent have responded by saying they needed to use it to increase their surplus," King claimed.

"We believe our service to the kids and this community is more important than building up a carryover for next year."

Gilbertson said Monday he couldn't comment further on the teacher negotiations until after today's meeting with King.

Although a mediator has not been called for yet, King said, "We hope there are any reference in Shelly's article with regard to a police expert. The judge said the source did not exist."

Towles had imposed the penalty, that he would instruct the jury as to the non-existence of Shelly's "police expert" source, because of Shelly's near seven year's silence about the identity of the source, Shelly finally revealed the source last month.

Deliberation begins in Shelly trial

MOSCOW (UPI) — Jury deliberations began Monday afternoon in the libel trial against the Lewiston Morning Tribune and one of its newsmen, Jay Shelly.

The jury of four men and eight women began their deliberations at 3:43 p.m. (EDT) at the conclusion of testimony on the sixth day of proceedings in 2nd District Court in Moscow.

First District Judge James Towles instructed the jury to ignore any reference in Shelly's article with regard to a police expert. The judge said the source did not exist.

Towles had imposed the penalty, that he would instruct the jury as to the non-existence of Shelly's "police expert" source, because of Shelly's near seven year's silence about the identity of the source, Shelly finally revealed the source last month.

In explaining his instructions earlier, the judge said he felt the jury was entitled to know why the case had taken so long.

Former state undercover agent Michael Calderon, Coeur d'Alene, attacked the suit against Shelly and the Tribune for an article by the newsmen concerning Calderon's conduct in a 1972 shooting incident at a parking area at the Coeur d'Alene Park.

"In closing arguments, plaintiff attorney William Tway, Boise, told the jury to study the article.

"Look at the impression it leaves on you and you tell me if it's libelous or not," Tway said. "You do that and there is no question of libel."

He called the article a malicious attack on a fellow citizen.

But defense attorney Reed Clements, Lewiston, said the shooting involved a public official and the public had the right to know the facts.

Airplane crash victim in improved condition at MVMH

TWIN FALLS — The victim of an airplane crash near Jerome was reported in improved condition Monday at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

Hospital officials said Bill Bradley,

40, of Jerome, was in serious, but stable, condition Monday and was conscious. Bradley was critically injured when his small experimental airplane crashed shortly after takeoff at the Jerome County Airport about 1:45 p.m. Sunday.

Meanwhile, a victim of separate automobile accident showed some improvement at St. Alphonsus Hospital in Boise Monday.

Larry Gene Pile, 26, of Boise, remained in critical condition, but a hospital spokesman said he had shown some improvement.

Crimson Tide moves to No. 1 in UPI poll

NEW YORK (UPI) — Alabama, the defending national champion, bolted ahead of Ohio State and into the No. 1 ranking following Monday's balloting by UPI's Board of Coaches.

The Crimson Tide, idle last week, moved ahead of Ohio State, which had to rally from a 21-3 deficit before posting a 31-21 triumph over stubborn Syracuse, on the basis of total points.

Although the Buckeyes received 21 first-place votes in the Alabama Coach Bear Bryant's team garnered 588 points to outdistance Ohio State, which had 588 points.

The balloting is done by 42 head coaches, six from each section of the country.

Alabama, riding the nation's longest winning streak at 23 games, defeated Georgia Tech 28-21 on weeks ago and is preparing to play at Mississippi this weekend.

Upon learning of Alabama's elevation to the top spot, Bryant wished the news had come later in the season.

"Well, I'd rather have just woke up from dreaming and it was Jan. 2, and you had told me we were No. 1," said the 66-year-old Bryant. "I've always felt like the defending champion should be first until they get beat. I don't mean just I. I felt that way about Southern Cal., Texas, Oklahoma and others that have been champions."

The Buckeyes held the No. 2 position, followed by No. 3 Oklahoma, No. 4 Southern California and fifth-ranked Texas.

Trailing out the top 10 are No. 6 Nebraska, seventh-ranked Pittsburgh, No. 8 Notre Dame, No. 9 Georgia and 10th-rated Florida State. Texas and Pittsburgh each received a first-place vote.

Georgia, on the strength of its recent 42-0 sheikaling of previously ranked Texas A&M, made the biggest jump among Top 20 members, climbing from No. 15 to No. 9. Pittsburgh, which turned the ball over nine times but held on for a 14-6 victory over Boston College last Saturday, fell three notches to No. 19.

Southern California, a last-second 20-17 winner over Tennessee, moved up from No. 5 and Texas, idle last week, Nebraska and Oklahoma each jumped up one position.

Houston, ranked ninth last week, lost to Arizona State 29-13 and plummeted to No. 19.

Penn State heads the second 10, followed by No. 12 Michigan, No. 13 North Carolina, No. 14 Stanford and No. 15 Washington.

Missouri is ranked 16th and UCLA, which wallpapered Colorado 56-14, entered the Top 20 for the first time as the 17th-ranked team. South Carolina is rated 18th, followed by Houston and No. 20 Arkansas.

Texas A&M was the only team to fall from the ratings.

Lloyd sick, withdraws from tourney

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Chris Evert Lloyd, suffering from migraine headaches and vomiting, Monday withdrew from the $200,000 Las Vegas Women's Tennis Tournament.

The exact nature of Evert's illness has not been diagnosed, according to a spokesman for the Women's Tennis Association. Tournament officials said she had no fever, which would indicate she would undergo further tests Wednesday.

Jerry Diamond, the executive vice president of the Women's Tennis Association, announced Evert's withdrawal at a news conference.

He said the symptoms were migraine headaches, vomiting, and a poor blood count.

"I know this better than anyone on the tour," said Diamond. "She has never dodged out of a tournament in her life. She is in bed and out of the tournament."

Evert's withdrawal meant two of the three top internationally computer ranked women in the Women's Tennis Association will not compete in the Las Vegas classic which gets underway Tuesday. No. 1 ranked Tracy Austin would be the only player who would not appear in order to attend her brother's wedding.

Eight of the world's top 13 tennis players will vie for the $240,000 first prize in the Las Vegas classic, the third richest tournament in the United States and the fifth richest in the world.

Andrea Jaeger, seeded sixth at Las Vegas, said at the Monday news conference she plays for fun.

"As soon as I don't like playing or don't enjoy it I'll stop," said Jaeger.

Jaeger started playing tennis when she was 8 and said soccer was her second choice in sports.

"If I didn't play tennis I'd probably play soccer," said the 15-year old U.S. Open semifinalist. "I've played baseball, football, everything."

Oilers 16, Browns 7

Stabler, Oiler's defense key to first win of the 1980 football season Monday

CLEVELAND (UPI) — When the Houston Oilers wanted to control the ball Monday night they had the right man for the job—quarterback Ken Stabler.

Stabler, an 11-year veteran in his first season with the Oilers, was able to eat up the clock through most of the second half and the Oilers went on to a 16-7 victory.

The Oilers' rugged offense, provided Stabler with the points he needed on three field goals by Tom Fritsch and a touchdown run by Tim Wilson.

"Kenny's got so many weapons, he's bound to do well this season," said Houston running back Earl Campbell.

Stabler's statistics were indicative of his performance as he hit 23-of-28 passes for 187 yards. In the third and fourth quarters, Stabler engineered two drives that kept the Browns off the ball: one a 15-play, 54-yard drive that consumed 8:19 and another march of 16 plays for 77 yards that ate up 10:46.

"We were able to run the ball and use the play-action pass. We were out there a long time," Stabler said. "It builds confidence when you can stay on the field and see the chains moving."

Fritsch sealed it with a 17-yard field goal midway through the fourth quarter after the Browns had tied a 10-10 tie.

The Browns opened the scoring early in the second quarter with Sipe taking his club on an eight-play, 57-yard drive that ended with a 3-yard pass to veteran running back Calvin Hill. Don Cockroft's extra point made it 7-0.

Cleveland's much maligned defense kept Stabler and the Oilers bottled in their end much of the first half, and Houston could only muster a 25-yard field goal by Fritsch with 4:35 left in the half. The kick came after a 15-play, 56-yard drive by the Oilers.

The first half ended with Cleveland leading 7-3.

The Oilers started to take control in the third quarter, however, when Earl Campbell almost single-handedly got Houston's running game back in gear.

The Oilers took the second half kickoff and marched 67 yards in 10 plays, scoring on a 1-yard plunge by running back Tim Wilson with 1:05 left in the third quarter. Fritsch's quick gave the Oilers a 10-7 lead.

The Houston defense, meanwhile, held the Browns to a paltry nine yards total offense in the third quarter.

The Oilers widened the lead early in the fourth quarter on a penalty-aided, 15-play 32-yard drive that set up another field goal from Fritsch — this time from 29 yards.

"In a game between two AFC Central clubs, Houston evened its record at 1-1 and the Browns dropped to 0-2."

Helsman Trophy winner Charles White from USC had his second straight lackluster game for the Browns, carrying four times for 16 yards.

Houston's Earl Campbell found it hard to go anywhere in Monday's nationally televised game.

NL shelves hitting plan

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National League has apparently shelved plans to adopt the designated hitter rule once again.

National League President Charles Feeney announced Monday that the club owners and NL players had rejected the designated hitter rule.

Feeney said that there will be no league meeting following the joint meeting in Chicago on Wednesday.

"There has been speculation that the league would finally vote in favor of the rule. The American League has used the designated hitter since 1973, and the National League voted it down in its most recent voting by a slim 5-4 margin."

It had been suggested that the owners who abstained from the last voting were simply waiting for a later date in the season to adopt the measure.

Steelers, Rams

Fans may not have been, but Noll wasn't shocked at Sunday's game results

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The hometown fans may have been shocked Pittsburgh had such a hard time defeating the Baltimore Colts Sunday, but Steelers Coach Chuck Noll wasn't.

"We had a lot of respect for Baltimore going into the game and we certainly didn't lose it," he said.

Noll said Sunday's loss at the Steelers' 20-17 win at Baltimore's muggy Memorial Stadium. "It was a good, hard football game and we thought it would be before we went into it."

Donnie Shell's interception of a Bert Jones pass on the Pittsburgh 4 with 3:30 to play allowed the Steelers to push their season record to 2-0. The Steelers had rallied from a 17-3 deficit in the fourth quarter to take the lead on Terry Bradshaw's 22-yard pass to backup wideout Jim Smith. After Shell's interception, the Steelers ran out the clock to drop Baltimore's record to 1-1.

"It was the second straight week the Steelers failed to hold an early lead, only to come back in the final quarter to win. And that," Noll said, "is something he hopes does not become a team habit."

"We would like to avoid all the histrionics at the end of the game by being very efficient early," he said.

Noll and his coaching staff had to take part of the blame for the team's inconsistent running attack against Baltimore — the Steelers gained just 119 yards on 57 plays.

"I think the big reason we didn't move the ball as well as we wanted to was because they threw some new (defensive) stuff against us, and that means our preparation wasn't as good as it should have been," Noll said. "But we were pretty well set for their offense."

The Steelers' running backs made plenty of yardage anyway via pass receiver Franco Harris, Greg Hawthorne and Sidney Thornton combined to snare 10 Bradshaw passes for 123 yards.

Noll said that did not indicate a lack of faith in Smith and Calvin Slockey, who were both pressed into unexpected duty when wide receiver John Stallworth injured his shin and left the game.

"You're going to go to certain people in certain circumstances because of the coverage," Noll said. "You go to the people who are under single coverage. The wideouts were being covered. It's just one of those things you go to the open man."

Ram's coach not blaming Ferragamo for loss

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Los Angeles Rams Coach Ray Malavasi is not blaming quarterback Vince Ferragamo for the 10-9 defeat by the Tampa Bay Buccaneers, but he's not giving him much credit, either.

"I don't think you would ever blame one guy," Malavasi said at the weekly press breakfast Monday. But he mentioned several areas where a more seasoned quarterback such as Pat Haden — might have done better.

Ferragamo took over as the No. 1 quarterback in the Tampa Bay game four days after Haden broke his finger in the opener against Detroit.

"We did some good things," Malavasi said. "But you have to get the damn ball into the end zone. That's what the game's all about. It gets tough down there near the goal line. That's a compact area. Everything is condensed. The toughest place is when you're inside the 10-yard line and you have to throw the football."

"That's when a guy like (Terry) Bradshaw has a tremendous advantage. Vince hasn't been there to do it. It's where experience comes in. We try to create it in practice, but it's not the same. You're not in a pressure situation."

Ferragamo had only one day of serious practice before the Tampa Bay game following his one-day walkout.

"It's tough to get a feel for a team with one day's practice," Malavasi said. "He'll have the whole week to get ready for Green Bay."

Malavasi placed more weight on Haden's 43 starts in four previous seasons than on Ferragamo's starts in seven seasons through the Super Bowl last season.

High-schooler shoots 99 playing golf — pros amazed

ATLANTA (UPI) — Rusty Redfern, a 17-year-old high schooler, broke 100 for the first time in a Florida golf tournament — amazing golf pros with his swing.

Shooting 99 may not seem like much to many golfers, but Rusty was born with no arms.

"Unbelievably simply amazing," said touring pro Eddie Fegan, who saw the rookie at the Florida State Amateur Championship.

But Rusty, a short, curly-haired 110-pounder, has been getting that same reaction from people all his life. He not only golfs, he plays football and soccer, wears skis, fishes, hunts, drives a car, paints, sculpts and does about anything else you can think of.

But golf has been one of his main interests lately. Using left-handed woods, he places the special flat grip under the small stump where his left hand would be. He consistently hits the ball 140-150 yards down the fairway.

"He switches to right-handed iron when he gets near the green and is deadly with a putter."

"I have more trouble with my drives," said Rusty in analyzing this game. "I can putt good and I can chip good."

He grips the club so lightly in his armpit that after rounds on concrete because he has to take a few extra steps the club wears a raw spot.

"I can play 18 and skip a couple days and it won't bother me so much," he explained. "But if I play 18 every day, after a few days a tournament it begins to bother me."

Rusty, who plays barefoot, carries his own club using his teeth. In swing he gets near his shoulder, tees up the ball with his toes and retrieves it out of the cup, again with his toes.

He has been playing golf about five years, but has always been active in sports, following in the footsteps of his older brother and older twin sisters.

"He just watched what other people did and he would figure out a way to do it," said his mother, Beverly.

"Nobody can teach him how to do anything. He has to teach himself."

Rusty attends suburban Clarkston High School and is currently involved with junior varsity football. He is small but tough offensive lineman and kicker.

He was voted best lineman on his eighth grade football team.

During five years of youth football, he said opposing players would sometimes appear to take it easy on him — the first couple of plays. "I loved that," said Rusty with a grin.

But after he used his body to knock their legs from under them a couple of times, "they learned pretty quick."

Rusty has always attended public school and has had no special training because of his handicap. He writes with his toes with the paper on the floor.

"I write slow but I write neat," he said.

He places the rope under the stump of his left arm to water ski and goes dove hunting with an automatic shotgun rigged with a string over his shoulder to pull the trigger, using his toes to aim the barrel of the gun.

"When he played pee wee baseball, he played second base using an artificial arm with a glove attached to stop the ball and then kicking the ball to first base."

"He drives his aunt's car which has no special equipment except a tilt steering wheel — using his stump to turn the wheel."

Although he had two artificial arms, he discarded one because "it was just a dead weight on my right side. There isn't anything over there." He says he seldom wears the other one because "it's just hot."

Rusty, who says he may become a salesman like an uncle, won't admit to having a favorite sport.

"I like soccer and football, too," he said. "I play whatever is in season."

Seaver, Reds bomb Giants, Los Angeles, Houston lose

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Tom Seaver didn't spend much time relating his three-hitter that helped the Cincinnati Reds win the San Francisco Giants 6-0 Monday night.

"What's really going through my head is that we should have won two out of three or three out of three we would have won Los Angeles," Seaver said.

"We've really got ourselves in a hole," Seaver said of the third-place Reds, who trail Los Angeles and Houston. "We just can't lose now and we're going to need some help from other teams to knock off Los Angeles and Houston."

"As far as we've just got to keep winning, no two ways about it. Seaver had a one-hitter going into the ninth inning when Darrell Evans homered and Reggie Stenmetz singled. Had Seaver gotten away with a one-hitter, he would have been sixth in his career and set a modern National League record for most career one-hitters.

"I was very aware of the record," Seaver said. "I wanted to get the ball down and in on Evans in the ninth, but I got it up and he tore into it."

The Giants, who helped send the Braves to their sixth straight loss, raised his record to 9-7. He struck out eight and walked four in winning for the fifth straight time. Apart from the two hits in the ninth, Seaver needed just 26 more strikeouts to become the 3,000th pitcher in history to reach the 3,000 mark.

The Reds scored four runs in the first off Bob Knepper, 9-16. Ken Griffey and Dave Concepcion walked and Dan Driessen doubled them home. Knight followed with a home run, his 12th of the season but only his first in a home game. Seaver's single and Sam Mejias' RBI single.

The Giants, who have lost 12 of their last 13 games, scored in the first inning when North singled, stole second, took third on a bad throw by Correll and came in when first baseman Driessen made a bad throw home after fielding Evans' grounder.

Seaver pitched a complete game, allowing only one run, two hits and one walk. He struck out eight and walked four.

Seaver's performance was a career high. He had previously pitched a complete game only once before, in 1971, when he pitched a complete game for the Cincinnati Reds.

concerned that the Dodgers might suffer a letdown after sweeping a weekend series in Cincinnati and it turned out he had good cause for that concern.

"We played bad. No, make that terrible," moaned Lasorda Monday night after the Atlanta Braves routed the Dodgers, 9-0, on the five-hit pitching of Tommy Boggs and the hitting of Bob Horner, Gary Matthews and Chris Chambliss.

Horner and Matthews drove in three runs each and Chambliss two. Two of Horner's RBI came on his 33rd home run in the first inning.

"We got behind early and that changed the whole complexion of the ball game," said Lasorda, whose club has lost nine of 15 to the Braves this season. "We played one like this last week in Houston. It was just a bad ball game for us."

For Boggs, 10-9, it was his second straight shutout against the Dodgers, having blanked them 2-0 on Aug. 13 with another five-hitter.

"They have a lot of right-handed power on both sides," said Lasorda, who said Boggs, a right-hander, who depends more on finesse than speed. "This game I felt more in control than I did in the other one. I had better control tonight."

The Braves, in fourth place and eight games behind the co-leading Dodgers and Houston Astros at the start of Monday's play, have now won four straight. In their last 13-20 of their last 26 and 27 of their last 36. They have the best record in all the majors in the last six weeks.

"It doesn't matter to us who we beat," said Braves' manager Bobby Cox. "This late in the season, it's mainly a numbers game. We need all the wins we can get. We're running out of time."

The Braves jumped on Burt Hooton, 13-6, in the first inning. Jerry Royster and Glenn Hubbard led off with back-to-back singles and Royster scored on Matthews' infield out before Horner, who has missed 37 games this season, followed with a drive deep into the left field seats.

Chambliss and Bruce Benedict had run-scoring singles in the third. Horner drove in a run on an error and Chambliss, in another with a sacrifice fly in the seventh, Matthews capped the scoring with a two-run homer in the eighth.

Boggs retired the first 10 batters he faced and had a one-hitter, a bunt single down the third base line in the fourth, through 3-2-3 innings. The Dodgers bunched two singles after two were out in the sixth and added leadoff singles in the seventh and ninth but Boggs worked out of trouble each time.

Boggs knows how to pitch to them. The Padres added a run in the seventh when Randy Bass singled in a run and added a run in the ninth when Jerry Mumphy delivered an RBI single. Gary Woods of Houston hit his first major-league home run in the ninth inning.

It was the second complete game in 10 starts for Shirley, 11-10, who struck out four and walked three while giving up six hits. Houston starter Nolan Ryan, 9-9, surrendered seven hits and four runs in six innings. He left with a pulled hamstring tendon in his right leg.

Seattle (UPI) — Rod Craig hit a two-run home run and Danny Meyer and Mario Mendoza stroked two-run homers for a key nine-run third inning Monday night, powering Seattle to a 12-1 victory over the Chicago White Sox that ended the Mariners' four-game losing streak.

Winner Rob Dressler, 4-9, gave up eight hits in completing his second game of the season. He lost his bid for his first major-league shutout in the eighth when Mary Foley's fielder's choice scored Wayne Nordhagen from third.

The Mariners jumped on Lamar Hoyt, 8-3, in the third. Hoyt walked three and allowed six hits and all nine third-inning runs. Seattle scored two more in the fifth on Mendoza's two-run triple and added its final run in the eighth on a pinch-hit home run by Jim Anderson, his eighth of the season.

ARLINGTON, Texas (UPI) — Al Oliver's 2,000th career hit snapped a scoreless tie in the sixth inning Monday night and sparked the Texas Rangers to a 2-0 triumph over the Oakland A's.

The victory snapped the Rangers' five-game losing streak. Jon Matlack, 10-7, and John Henry Johnson combined for the shutout. Matlack was forced to leave the game after six innings with leg cramps.

Mickey Rivers singled with one out in the sixth and after John Grubb walked, Oliver lined a single to right driving in Rivers. Oliver thus became only the third active player — Rod Carew and Pete Rose are the other — to have 2,000 hits and a 300 career batting average.

Grubb singled home Bud Harrelson with Texas' other run in the seventh. Matt Keough, 15-13, took the loss for the A's but went the distance for the 19th time.

San Diego tied it in the third when Ozzie Smith was safe on a fielder's choice, stole second and came in on a walk. Mumphy singled. The Astros came back in their half as Joe Morgan tripled off the right field wall and scored on Enos Cabell's double to left. Richards' arm came into play again, retiring Mumphy. Cabell trying to take third on the play.

San Diego moved in front 4-2 in the fourth, scoring once on consecutive singles by Bill Fahay, Luis Salazar and Tim Flannery. Padre pitcher Bob Shirley took first on a fielder's choice, setting up Richards' two-run single to left.

The Padres added a run in the seventh when Randy Bass singled in a run and added a run in the ninth when Jerry Mumphy delivered an RBI single. Gary Woods of Houston hit his first major-league home run in the ninth inning.

(the Dodgers), said Cox. "He's got pretty good control. He knows where to put the ball."

Cardinals 5, Cubs 1

CHICAGO (UPI) — Andy Rincon pitched a five-hitter in his major league debut and drove in a run in a four-run sixth inning to lead the St. Louis Cardinals to a 5-1 victory over the Chicago Cubs Monday.

The 21-year-old right-hander struck out four and walked two. He pitched five innings and allowed one run and the only run he permitted was in the third when Ivan DeJesus singled, stole second and scored on Steve Dillard's single.

The Cards broke the game open in the fifth. Hernandez led off with a double and scored on a double by George Hendrick. Hendrick went to third on a wild pitch and scored on a balk by Capilla.

Tito Landrum and Ken Reltz drew walks and Rincon's first major league hit, a single to left, drove in Landrum. Oberkfell capped the scoring with an RBI single, driving in Reltz.

Padres 6, Astros 3

HOUSTON (UPI) — Gene Richards hit two home runs for a fourth-inning rally Monday night and the San Diego Padres fought back behind to score a 6-3 victory over Houston, ending the Astros' five-game winning streak.

The defeat left the Astros tied for first in the National League West with Los Angeles, 9-0 losers to Atlanta Monday night.

Houston took a 1-0 lead in the first when Enos Cabell and Cesar Cedeno walked and scored on Art Howe's single to left. Further damage was averted when Richards threw out a runner trying to stretch his hit into a double.

San Diego tied it in the third when Ozzie Smith was safe on a fielder's choice, stole second and came in on a walk. Mumphy singled. The Astros came back in their half as Joe Morgan tripled off the right field wall and scored on Enos Cabell's double to left. Richards' arm came into play again, retiring Mumphy. ## Ex-Kansas City Chief shoots wife, himself

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Former Kansas City Chiefs offensive tackle James E. Tyrer fatally shot his wife in their southside home Monday, then turned the gun on himself and committed suicide, police said.

Detectives found the couple's 17-year-old son heard two pre-dawn gunshots and discovered the bodies of Tyrer, 42, and his wife, Martha, 40, sprawled in an upstairs bedroom.

The officers said it appeared Tyrer shot his wife and then took his own life.

Sgt. Dean B. Kelly Jr. said both victims had suffered single bullet wounds to the head. A .38-caliber revolver was recovered.

Authorities had no motive in the double slaying, and would release few details of the circumstances. Family members told officers that Tyrer, who retired from professional football in 1974, had been out of work recently, but gave no indication he was depressed.

"It's a shock to me," said Len Dawson, former quarterback of the Chiefs and a close friend of Tyrer. "He was always such a strong, stable guy. Something had to snap. He was a family man. Doing something like this is completely contrary to his character."

"In football, there is so much discipline and adversity involved that even though he was having some adversity, you wouldn't think of him putting a gun to his head. But I know he was depressed," he said.

Tyrer, a graduate of Ohio State, had been the Dallas Cowboys No. 3 draft pick in 1961, and played offensive tackle for the team that became the Kansas City Chiefs through the 1973 season.

Chiefs spokesman Doug Kelly said Tyrer started each game since his rookie year, played in 180 consecutive Chiefs games in his 13 seasons and started in both Super Bowls in which the Chiefs played.

He was chosen for the All-AFL team 1962 through 1969, and the All-AFC teams in 1970 and 1971, after the two leagues merged. Tyrer was named the AFL offensive lineman of the year in 1969 by the AFL Players Association, and elected to the Chiefs Hall of Fame in 1976.

He retired after playing the 1974 season with the Washington Redskins.

Chiefs president Jack Steadman said he was "in a state of shock as is everyone in our whole Chiefs organization who has known Martha and Jim both as a player and as people."

"Your first reaction is always that you wish you would have been aware there was such a serious problem that could cause a tragedy of this nature," he said.

Williams, 21, arrested in Jackson shooting

DENTON, Texas (UPI) — Police Monday arrested a 21-year-old Williams, 21, and charged him with murder in the slaying of North Texas State University football star Bernard Jackson.

Justice of the Peace James Erwin arraigned Williams and denied bond in the case.

Police Lt. Bill Cummings said officers were seeking a second suspect in the slaying but officers were investigating the case were convinced Williams fired the gun that killed Jackson.

"The triggerman is the one we have custody," said Cummings.

The arrest came only hours after Jackson's funeral in Dallas. Jackson was gunned down outside a popular campus night spot early Friday.

Cummings said two police officers made the arrest at a construction site where Williams was working. He said Williams put up no resistance.

"It was just a usual arrest," Cummings said. "I wouldn't say we had any major break that came through. It was just a continuing investigation by our staff."

Officers had said Sunday they had issued a warrant for an accomplice in the killing. They said then that the man they were seeking had purchased the gun used in the Jackson slaying but that he was not the man they fired the shot.

They also at that time the man they thought actually pulled the trigger "is pretty well-known to us" and "not what you'd call your upstanding citizen."

A warrant was issued for Williams at 2 p.m. Monday and the arrest was made less than two hours later.

Before the arrest, police detective David Seib said officers had not yet been able to establish a motive.

"As far as why it happened, that's going to be one of the first questions I'm going to ask. It had to be something that developed that evening because, as far as we can tell, Jackson and the guy who killed him weren't acquainted before that."

Jackson's death came three years after his brother, Stanley, was shot and killed in what police described as an argument over marijuana.

Hockey youth, 16, dies from heart attack

KITCHENER, Ont. (UPI) — An autopsy Monday found a heart attack caused the death of a 16-year-old hockey player who collapsed during a Junior "B" hockey game Sunday night and never regained consciousness.

Dave Ubergi, of Elmira, Ont. collapsed on the bench following his first shift on the ice Sunday in the first period of an exhibition game between the Elmira Sugar Kings and the Kitchener Rangers Junior "B" hockey clubs at Elmira.

Dr. George Christ of the Kitchener-Waterloo coroner's office said Ubergi died of a heart attack that resulted from a malformation of the right ventricle of his heart.

"He died of a heart attack which was probably due to a congenital defect," said Christ. "His heart was swollen to the size of a bellows."

Christ said the player's heart would be shipped to Toronto for further examination by a specialist.

Sugar Kings head coach Doug Brennan said Ubergi was a rookie who was trying to crack the lineup, suddenly left the ice during Sunday's game, hopped over the boards and put his head down, complaining of dizziness.

Ubergi then passed out and did not regain consciousness, despite feverish efforts to revive him by the coach, trainer and referee. The player was rushed by ambulance to Kitchener-Waterloo Hospital where more attempts at resuscitation proved fruitless.

Christ said Ubergi's death was instantaneous.

Brennan has been "mystified as to what caused the boy's death."

Briefly in Sports

Harris Big 8 defensive player

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Kansas cornerback Dave Harris Monday was named the Big Eight's Defensive Player of the Week for his performance in the Jayhawks' 7-7 tie with Oregon.

Harris, a fifth-year senior, blocked an Oregon punt to set up the Jayhawks' tying, 65-yard touchdown drive late in the fourth quarter. Kansas eventually tied the game with 10 seconds left on a 14-yard touchdown pass from Frank Suerer to David Verser.

"I didn't block that punt, someone else would have," said Harris. "We lined up nine guys on the line and brought through."

Harris, who missed all of the 1979 season with a knee injury, also made 10 tackles, including two quarterback sacks.

"Dave played just a super ball game," said Fambrough. "I know how much it meant to him coming back (after the year layoff) and playing well in his first game."

Salley top WAC defensive player

DENVER (UPI) — Sophomore safety John Salley of Wyoming, who was instrumental in a Cowboy defense that limited Oregon State to two total yards, Monday was named the Western Athletic Conference defensive player of the week.

Salley, 6-foot-11, 180 pounds, had eight unassisted tackles, eight assists and three pass deflections in Wyoming's 30-10 victory Saturday. He also intercepted Oregon State's first pass of the game but came down with the ball out of bounds.

Other nominees for the award were: Bill Schoepflin, Brigham Young defensive back; Jeff Griffin, Utah cornerback; Bob Shupryt, New Mexico linebacker; Dana McLemore, Hawaii safety; Darnell Grant, Texas-El Paso cornerback, and Rick Carusa, San Diego State linebacker.

Klever, Lewis top Big Sky players

BOISE (UPI) — All-purpose Montana tailback Rocky Klever and hard tackle Idaho State linebacker Marvin Lewis were named Big Sky Conference players of the week today.

Klever, a 6-2, 250-pound senior from Anchorage, Alaska, paced a bruising Montana attack which posted the Grizzlies with a 60-27 season-opening win Saturday at home against non-conference opponent Michigan from Canada.

Winning the conference's weekly offensive honor, Klever threw six passes from his tailback spot, completing four — including two for touchdowns — for 89 yards and also rushed 82 yards, scoring two additional touchdowns. He punted twice for a 41.5-yard average.

Lewis, a 6-0, 211-pound senior outside linebacker from McDonald, Pa., was in on 19 tackles — 12 unassisted — in Idaho State's 14-7 non-conference loss at Utah State.

A two-time second-team All-Big Sky Conference selection, Lewis also was credited with a quarterback sack for a 3-yard loss in Saturday's game against the Aggies.

Others nominated for the weekly honor on offense were Boise State wide receiver Kipp Beard, Idaho quarterback Ken Hobart, Idaho State guard Dave Rinninen, Montana State receiver Bill Walker and Weber State tackle John Mitchell.

Those nominated on defense included Boise State tackle Randy Trautman, Idaho linebacker Sam Merriman, Montana tackle Pat Curry, Montana State linebacker Dave Semmelbeck and Weber State strong safety Phil Singleton.

Murray, Davis top AL players

NEW YORK (UPI) — Baltimore's Eddie Murray and New York's Ron Davis, two key participants in their team's drive to the American League East pennant, were named co-winners of the Player of the Week, the league office announced Monday.

Murray, who had six homers including three in one game, had 16 hits in 35 at-bats with a slugging percentage of 1.057.

Davis, who has won three of the Yankees' last five games, allowed only two hits in the 10 1-2 innings he pitched. He improved his record to 8-3.

Gullickson elected best NL player

NEW YORK (UPI) — Montreal pitcher Bill Gullickson, a strong candidate for Rookie of the Year honors, was named National League Player of the Week, the league office announced Monday.

The right-hander established a strikeout record for rookies by fanning 18 against the Chicago Cubs. Gullickson won his other start of the week and taken nine of his last 10 decisions.
