Miss America Beauty queen arrives in city for appearance at shopping center, area radio promotion

By STEPHANIE SCHOROW Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS - "There she is," a teen-age girl in the airport crowd unconsciously cried out as the passengers debarked from the just-landed plane. When Miss America 1981, Susan Powell of Elk City, Okla., arrived in Twin Falls Friday, she was met by dignitaries, cheering Camp Fire Girls and the enthusiastic music of the high school marching band. "Thank you," said the smiling, 5-foot, 4-inch, dark-haired, green-eyed winner of the country's most coveted pageant. "I once played a trumpet in a high school band. I had to put on a uniform. And I just hated it," she added as the band cheered. Susan Powell's Twin Falls visit is one of a series of appearances by the latest Miss America throughout the country. Accompanied by chaperone Peg MacMahon, she flew into Twin Falls Friday from Los Angeles, and will be flying to Newark, N.J., Sunday for the coronation ceremony. The city is sponsoring her visit, which includes appearances at the Lynwood Shopping Center today. With a schedule of frequent public appearances, Susan, 21, reacted with warmth and humor as County Commissioner Meri E. Leonard and Mayor Hank Woodall read proclamations declaring Oct. 10 Miss America Day and gave her the key to the city. That poise is part of what judges look for in Miss America contestants, as well as judging for inner and outer beauty, Powell said later in an interview. The Miss America Pageant is not a skin-deep contest, she feels. "It searched a girl inwardly," she said. The judges are looking for someone with "above all, humility. And a sense of humor." But also "they want a girl that's cool in press conferences," she noted. Powell, chosen as Miss America Sept. 6, also won the hearts of her Atlantic City judges with her performance of a "comic aria," using a telephone as a prop. Singing remains her great love: "It's so much a part of my life; I wouldn't survive without it," she said in a pleasantly husky voice that has more than a trace of an Oklahoma drawl. She hopes to eventually become a professional singer in an opera or musical theater company. Self-described as self-confident, Powell said she does not feel pressure. See MISS AMERICAN PAGE A2

Nobel Americans, Frenchman win prize in medicine for work on transplants and cancer

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI) - Two Americans and a Frenchman, whose work has made organ transplants safer and helped explain the behavior of cancer cells, won the 1980 Nobel Prize for medicine Friday. George Davis Snell, 76, and Baruj Benacerraf, 59, of the United States and Jean Dausset, 65, of France were awarded the $215,000 prize by the Karolinska Institute for their work in the field of immunology. Benacerraf and Dausset expressed surprise. "I did not expect to be discussing that (his work) at breakfast this morning," Benacerraf said from his home in Boston. Dausset said the award came as "more or less of a surprise, because I had already received other prizes." Snell was not immediately available for comment. The awards were the 54th and 55th Nobel medical prizes given to Americans and the seventh to a Frenchman. Of the four winners named to date for 1980, three are Americans, Czeclaw Milosz, a Polish poet who became a U.S. citizen, won Thursday's literature prize. The three scientists' work centered on the study of genes in the human cell structure, determining cell differences and their susceptibility to virus infection and cancerous growth. The Institute said the research explained much of the human body's reaction to foreign tissue, contributing to safer and more successful organ transplants. Snell, 76, has worked at Jackson Laboratories in Bar Harbor, Maine, since 1955. Benacerraf was cited for his work in identifying immune responses determined by genetic factors. The Institute said the discovery of these "immune response genes" shed new light on why some people are not affected by some diseases while others are. Dausset, 63, is connected with the Laboratoire d'Immunohematologie at the University of Paris. Experts said that the most far-reaching impact of his work was in the field of diseases that develop because of inherited genetic factors, such as rheumatoid arthritis, multiple sclerosis, juvenile diabetes and psoriasis. A cousin by marriage, Katharine C. Snell of Mt. Desert Island, Maine, said the Nobel Prize winner had gone to a medical meeting at an undisclosed location. "He was admitted to the French Academy of Sciences a couple of years ago but he didn't want anybody to know it," she said. "He doesn't like publicity." Born in 1903 in Haverhill, Mass., Snell received a B.S. in science from Dartmouth College in 1926 and got his doctorate from Harvard University in 1930. He taught from 1929-31 at Dartmouth and Brown University. Snell has been recognized by the National Cancer Institute and was elected in 1970 to the National Academy of Sciences.

Plutonium 'scrubbed' off Hanford workers

RICHLAND, Wash. (UPI) - Two Hanford Atomic Reservation employees exposed to deadly plutonium from a flash fire were saved from serious external contamination by a lengthy series of scrubs, officials said Friday. The fire Thursday exposed eight persons to the radioactive substance. Officials at the Rockwell said "external contamination of the unidentified man and woman closest to the fire had been reduced to an 'insignificant amount.'" Spokeswoman Peggy Bennett said the two employees were moved from a company first aid station to the Hanford Environmental Health Medical Facilities late Thursday to determine if they had ingested any plutonium with a small canister containing scrap plutonium powder which they were handling suddenly burst into flames. Two other workers in the same room were found to have ingested a small amount of plutonium powder, but were sent home pending treatment with a chemical agent to help remove the substance from the body. The four other contaminated workers were treated and released shortly after the fire. The two being held for further tests were to be given examinations to determine the extent of ingestion, if any. At their request, their names were being withheld. The fire itself caused no damage to the plant laboratory but the immediate area was sealed off as a precaution.

Despite economic upturn, Carter not expected to benefit

1980 Boston Globe MELVIN VILLAGE, N.H. - Even though the economic indicators on the eve of the presidential election are positive, they may not mean victory for Jimmy Carter, leading economists gathered at a high-level monetary conference here have concluded. Benjamin H. Friedman, professor of economics at Harvard, believes that the voters 'this time will vote for Reagan because they are aggravated about inflation and will not be impressed by monthly figures just before election.' James Tobin, a Yale economist, said, "The numbers will help a little but the voters 'at this time, economics may not be the main issue this time.'" J. Dewey Danne, professor of banking at Vanderbilt University, believes the election will be "close close," though Carter should take Tennessee. "Producer prices are down and unemployment is down, but the underlying rate of inflation is 10 percent and interest rates are climbing," said Danne.

Crucial or not, Carter's people are doing everything possible to make the numbers look good for him. Producer prices, announced several days ago, would have been up 0.4 percent rather than down 0.2 percent if the statistics had not used, for the first time, the discount prices for last year's autos. By this device, automobile prices actually looked lower rather than higher, as they would have been if the prices of the 1981 models had been used. Moreover, the Consumer Price Index (CPI) to be announced in late October is expected to be about 9 percent on an annualized basis.

Police confused, how do you file report on missing robot?

TWIN FALLS - Twin Falls police weren't certain if the report should be filed under "missing persons," "burglary" or "kidnaping." A $7,500 robot was reported missing Friday morning from the Twin Falls Coca Cola Bottling Plant in Twin Falls. Plant officials said someone apparently broke into the building sometime Thursday night and took along their Coca Cola promotional material - a robot that talks, walks and performs other near human maneuvers all in the interest of the product.

Description broadcast for the missing robot is silver color, 4 feet tall, weighing 90 pounds. However, under eyes and hair, police listed nothing definite in those categories.

By STEVE LIPSON Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS - The Twin Falls gas war is over, but there may still be time to grab a few gallons of cheap gas. The price for a gallon of regular gas has fallen from above $1.20 to below $1.09 in the last two months. Now, dealers think it's poised to jump back up, but several said prices probably won't be raised until the beginning of next week. Ralph Hamilton, manager of Don Pieper's Gas and Tire Center, said he pulled down the signs advertising low prices. "We don't want to post this low price. We're losing money, we're going to have to go back up," he said. Prices will probably go up next week, he said. "We'll probably sit back through the weekend and see what happens." On Washington Street North, where dealers say the gas war first broke out, the manager of Super Gas Discount Gas said the gas war is over. Her regional manager called and told her to pull down the price signs. Prices will be raised soon, she said. The signs were also taken down across the street at V-T Oil Co. But V-T's regional manager, Slim Mayall of Idaho Falls, said he knows of no plans to raise prices at V-T. Elton Kendrick, a Twin Falls dealer and wholesale distributor, said dealers appear to be tired of losing money. He said he doesn't know, but has heard prices are ready to go back up. "It's in the wind," he said, and prices will probably be raised by the first of the week. One dealer, who asked that his name not be used, said, "We've got a couple of dealers in town who like to take the bull by the horns. They can make a few cents. They can say, 'Why don't you raise prices?' But they can say I'm going to raise my price," he said. So, when price signs come down, he says, it's a "sign of good faith" that other dealers are ready to go along with a price increase.

Foreign automakers reject blame for falling U.S. sales

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Makers and importers of foreign cars said Friday they are not the cause of unemployment and lost profits in the U.S. auto industry, and that import curbs are not the answer.

They testified before the U.S. International Trade Commission in the third day of hearings on petitions by the Ford Motor Co. and the United Auto Workers to restrict car and truck imports.

Although Ford and the UAW say rising imports have caused U.S. production to decline, importers said foreign car sales have not increased nearly enough to account for the U.S. decline.

"For the first six months of 1980 compared with the same period of 1979, domestic sales decreased 1,600,000 units," said Norman D. Lean, operations manager of Toyota Motor Sales USA.

"Import sales increased just 23,000 units," Lean said. "No matter how you look at it, it seems perfectly clear that the overwhelming majority of the lost sales was due to something other than imports."

The real causes, importers argued, were the public's shift in demand from large to small cars as gasoline prices rose; Detroit's failure to shift production to smaller cars quickly enough; and the recession, which reduced demand for all cars.

"If Detroit had been producing in 1979 more of the type of fuel-efficient cars that it is producing today, many of the currently unemployed UAW members would still be at work, and these hearings would not have been held," said H. William Tanaka, representing the Japan Automobile Manufacturers Association, in prepared testimony.

Nissan USA, which sells Datsuns, said the proposed import quotas could cause the average price of small cars in the United States to jump by $780. "So the customer gets hurt," said Nissan's Robert Link. "That is the end result of any trade barrier."

Ralph T. Millet, chairman of the Automobile Importers of America, representing 120 imported car dealers, said the U.S. industry doesn't need import quotas, because "Detroit's future looks bright" even without them.

"Now that Detroit has decided to compete with our fuel-efficient cars," Millet said, "its success is remarkable. It already has over 60 percent of the small car market, and its share will increase in a market which itself will increase."

With the U.S. auto industry planning to spend $80 billion during the next five years to continue its conversion to small car production, Lean said, "Toyota will have its hands full to stay competitive."

Poll says Reagan retains easy lead in electoral votes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An ABC News analysis released Friday showed Ronald Reagan with a comfortable lead over President Carter in the battle for electoral votes.

The president is gaining on his Republican foe, however, according to the analysis. Reagan was leading in 28 states for a total of 234 electoral votes.

No water in Syracuse after watermain break

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI) — The city's 200,000 residents were ordered to boil their drinking water Friday after a 36-inch water main ruptured with a roar Thursday night, draining half the city's water supply and causing at least $3 million in damage.

About 100 families were evacuated from the area, on the city's west side, some of them by rowboat.

"I heard a rumble and a boom. I looked out the window and it looked like Niagara Falls came down the hill," said Michael Stanley, who lives in the 8-square-block area affected by the break.

"It happened so quick. I'm just lucky to be alive," he said. "There's seven feet of water in my basement."

Officials said water gushed from the main at a rate of 3 million to 5 million gallons an hour for more than eight hours before the break was finally blocked to cut the flow.

Officials marveled there were no injuries when the 47-year-old pipe burst, noting it gouged a crater down South Geddes street several feet deep and nearly the width of the street. Several cars parked along the street were destroyed.

About 70 of the evacuated families remained away from their homes for a second night, most being housed in a nearby high school.

"We've got a built-in swimming pool in our house," said Jean Krawczyk, "it was just like a river coming down the street. Nobody had time to get anything out."

Health officials said the order to boil water would remain in effect pending further restoration efforts and testing. They could not estimate how long it would be before the water was fit to drink.

Dengue fever entering U.S.

ATLANTA (UPI) — Dengue fever, an illness with flu-like symptoms, apparently is spreading in an area of the Texas-Mexico border after a 35-year absence from this country, federal health officials said Friday.

Last month, the national Center for Disease Control reported the first naturally occurring case of dengue fever in the United States since 1945 in a Brownsville, Texas, girl.

Friday, the CDC said household surveys conducted by health officials in two Brownsville neighborhoods identified six persons with a history of dengue-like illness. Five of the six lived in the same neighborhood where the original case occurred.

Blood specimens were taken from 271 people in an effort to determine the extent of dengue infection. The CDC said results of the blood tests are pending.

Dengue fever is a mosquito-born illness sometimes called "breakbone fever" because of the intense muscle, head and joint aching it produces. Although it can cause severe illness of up to a week's duration and is characterized by explosive outbreaks, it is seldom fatal.

Wedding roles easy to find

NEW MILFORD, Conn. (UPI) — You won't need a scorecard to tell who's who when Keith Rollinson and Shelly Owen are married Saturday. Nearly everyone will be wearing a T-shirt describing their role in the wedding.

The bride's T-shirt will say "Bride" and the groom's will say "Groom." The minister's shirt says "JP" for justice of the peace.

There are also shirts marked Mother of the Bride, Mother of the Groom, Best Man, Matron of Honor, Usher and several labeled "Guest."

"We're not ones for formality," Miss Owen said Friday. "We're getting married in T-shirts and blue jeans because that's what we wear all the time."

"We were both married before and had big formal weddings. But we're not ones for formality. We just want to have a good time and not make it a stuffy occasion," Miss Owen said.

She said most of the guests will be wearing "guest" T-shirts, but some are going to wear "T-shirts that are special to them."

The bride and groom will be in brown T-shirts, the best man and matron of honor in yellow; family members in navy blue, the usher in orange and "everyone else" wearing all different colors. Miss Owen said.

She said most people reacted favorably to the idea.

"We didn't get any bad response. They thought it was a good idea. I even have a 'Grandma' T-shirt. I don't know if she'll put it on, but I have it," she said.

"They think it's a great idea. They all give us a lot of credit for doing it the way we want to. It's not a wedding you have to go out and buy a new dress for or anything," she said.

The wedding will be at her New Milford home Saturday afternoon.

Death didn't fool cops

MURPHYSBORO, Ill. (UPI) — Jackson County officials say they weren't fooled by a Murphysboro woman who allegedly reported her own death to a newspaper so police would stop searching for her on charges of writing bad checks.

"This is the first trick of this kind we've had," Diana Chylewski of the Jackson County state's attorney's office said Friday. "I think it will go down in history."

Mrs. Chylewski said the scheme was developed by Phyllis Torum, 35, who is charged with a probation violation. Mrs. Torum was found guilty in December of forgery and other charges for writing bad checks. Prosecutors became suspicious when they saw a story in a Carbonate Ill. newspaper about the death of Phyllis Torum, 35, of Murphysboro. The story said the woman died May 5 in a traffic accident in Champaign.

"Our office saw the obituary, but before we close a case we want a copy of the death certificate," Mrs. Chylewski said.

An investigation revealed police did not have a record of the fatal accident and the funeral home listed in the death notice was nonexistent. Officials also learned a Phyllis Jones obtained a driver's license May 15, using Mrs. Torum's social security number.

Mrs. Torum was arrested in Kankakee, Ill., Monday.

Thrown bottle turns concert into huge riot

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Three policemen were injured and about 100 people were arrested Thursday night at a riot started by a thrown bottle that struck a guitarist and drove Black Sabbath, an English rock band, offstage.

Hundreds of young people, enraged when the rock group refused to continue playing after a bass guitarist — Geozey — was struck by a bottle thrown from the crowd, began throwing objects, ripping up seats, and breaking doors and windows.

All available police units were called to the downtown Milwaukee Arena Thursday night to quell the disturbance.

Judge thinks theft worthless

GRETNA, La. (UPI) — The New Orleans Saints' dismal '05 record this year might help a young man out of a tough legal spot.

Mark A. Hanna, 17, came before a judge Tuesday for a bond hearing. The Marrero resident had been accused of possession of stolen goods worth $100 — a felony charge that could produce a stiff sentence.

But then Judge Frank V. Zaccaria said: "Considering the value of Saints tickets this year, Zaccaria said, 'This offense ought to be reduced to a misdemeanor. And if this case comes to trial in my court, I will so recommend.'"

The defendant was released on $500 bond.

Honest girl saves firm's payroll

BELLEVILLE, Ill. (UPI) — Fifteen-year-old Barbara Tueurinc bought a $7 souvenir of Missouri's "Big D" Dollar City theme park. But when she got home and opened the bag it was in, she found $1,818 in cash and no souvenir.

Miss Tueurinc said she bought a bell buckle for her father Sunday in a leather shop at the park. She discovered the error when she returned home to Belleville.

"We never even thought about keeping it," she said. "I would have felt too guilty."

Shop owner Sue Henderson said the bags apparently were switched when she was making change.

"The money itself wasn't so important to me," Mrs. Henderson said. "But to have to tell the people who work for me that I couldn't pay them well, that would have been terrible."

Neighbors rush to thwart attack

HOUSTON (UPI) — Seven weeks ago, Elizabeth Blair stepped off her front porch and was attacked by three men who beat her and tried to take her purse.

When she stepped off the bus the afternoon of Aug. 18, she said she suddenly felt a knife in her back and three men started hitting her. One of them tried to grab her purse.

"Their object was to shut me up and I don't think they cared how they did it," she said.

Ms. Blair said the men cut and beat her as she screamed for help. Then neighbors poured out of nearby houses to help her.

One man said he pursued Chavez, who maintained he was innocent, for 20 miles in his truck before subduing him with a sledge. He learned a member of the Green Berets in Vietnam. The other two suspects escaped.

Networks announce new season

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two of the three television networks announced a new premiere week for the fall season Friday — even though the actors' strike that canceled the original starting date has not been officially settled.

ABC and CBS both officially will begin the 1980-81 television season the week beginning Oct. 27. Before the actors' strike, ABC had planned a Sept. 8 opening date. The CBS pre-strike debut date was Sept. 15.

NBC, which also had planned a Sept. 15 starting date for its season, does not plan to name an official premiere week, but will introduce new programming on a scattered basis.

Variety, the show business newspaper, and other industry experts, have been counting the television season as beginning Sept. 15, which gives NBC a big edge in the ratings for the new season. NBC undoubtedly would like that date to stick, while CBS and ABC would like the new season to begin Oct. 27.

The action by CBS and ABC reflects their confidence that union members will vote to end the actors' strike.

What's what

Qualities set forth for men-to-see in mate

Any young man in search of a matrimonial mate might consider the following advice: "Look for a demanding, ambitious, energetic, intelligent girl. Order yourself to fall in love with her. Marry her promptly." So counsels Love and War expert with some credentials. The girl need not be rich, says he, because the afore-mentioned "qualities" will almost certainly guarantee that she and her husband will be rich someday. And she need not be beautiful, because if the young man handles his head properly, he'll think she's beautiful, and that's all that counts, anyway.

Tell that young couple in Portland, Ore., that they can't stage their wedding in a skating rink there. Local law prohibits it.

A Jagger's blood courses through that athlete's veins at a little better than 5 mph.

MOUNT ST. HELENS

Q. Who owns the top of Mount St. Helens? Or owned it before it blew away?

A. The Burlington Northern Railway. Goes back to a land grant. Why a railroad company should be given the top of a mountain I do not know. Maybe you can explain it.

Q. Why is a blue ribbon, rather than some other color, always used to symbolize first prize?

A. Because that was the color of a garter dropped at a ball once by an English lady. King Edward III picked it up, put it on his own knee, and asked the twittering crowd if saying in Latin: "Shame on anyone who thinks evil of it." And that minor incident led to the founding of England's highest level of knighthood, The Order-of-the-Garter-Blue was in.

Q. Before the atomic bomb, what was uranium used for, if for anything?

A. Coloring of glassware.

EIGHT POUNDS OF MEAT

Sir, could you get by on eight pounds of meat a day? Should think so. That was the prescribed ration in the frontier years to the employees of the Hudson Bay Company.

Falwell: God hears Jewish prayer

By DAVID E. ANDERSON
UPI Religion Writer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Following a meeting with a top Jewish leader, the Rev. Jerry Falwell, a politically active television preacher, said Friday he does not seek to make America a Christian society and like Ronald Reagan believes God hears Jewish prayers.

Falwell offered his views in a statement issued two days after he met with Rabbi Marc Tanenbaum, a top official of the American Jewish Committee. "America is a pluralistic republic," Falwell said. "It cannot survive if we allow it to become anything else."

Falwell, president of the conservative religious lobby, Moral Majority, and preacher on the Lynchburg, Va.-based Old Time Gospel Hour, is a strong Reagan supporter.

Last week, the GOP presidential candidate visited Falwell in Lynchburg and said he thinks God hears Jewish as well as Christian prayers.

Tanenbaum was prompted in part by comments made by the Rev. Billy Smith, president of the 13.4 million member Southern Baptist Convention. At an August rally of conservative Christians, Smith declared: "God Almighty does not hear the prayers of a Jew."

Falwell said in his statement "It grieves me" — to have been quoted agreeing with Smith on that point.

"My position is that God is a respecter of all persons," Falwell said. "He loves everyone alike. He hears the cry of any sincere person who calls on Him."

Grand jury indicts 1 for Ryan's death

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A federal grand jury indicted Friday for the first time named an alleged assassin in the murder of Rep. Leo Ryan in Guyana two years ago. The act that prompted the mass suicide of more than 900 members of Peoples Temple cult.

The indictment charged Larry Layton, 34, formerly of San Francisco, with conspiracy to kill and with aiding and abetting in the murder of a congressman.

Layton, additionally charged with conspiracy to kill a U.S. diplomat, was scheduled to be returned to the United States Friday but his trip from Guyana was delayed over a question of his legal bills.

It was the first time since the murder of Ryan and four members of his party on Nov. 18, 1978, in Guyana and the subsequent mass suicide at the order of ex-leader Jim Jones that U.S. authorities have been able to obtain a formal charge against an alleged participant.

Jones and five other persons were also named in the federal indictment unsealed Friday. All are dead except Layton.

Federal law enforcement sources in Washington said the indictment in San Francisco against Layton apparently was kept secret as part of common practice in handling charges against fugitives in foreign countries so they will not be tipped and attempt to flee to another country.

The indictment said Ryan was killed "in order to prevent disclosure of confidential testimony." It said Jones had ordered Layton to accompany Ryan and cause his plane to crash. The temple commandos instead ambushed the Ryan party on the ground.

The U.S. indictment charges that Jones ordered the assassination of Ryan and members of his party. It also says the cult leader "initiated and caused the deaths of the 90 Peoples Temple members in Jonestown."

Weak-eyed driver kills girls playing marbles

NAPLES, Fla. (UPI) — An elderly man whose vision is so weak he cannot get a Florida driver's license was released on Friday, charged with running over four girls playing marbles on a Naples street.

Three of the girls died and a fourth was critically injured, but Roland E. Slatzer said the reason he didn't stop was that he thought he had only struck a garbage can.

Slatzer was charged with leaving the scene of a fatal accident Thursday evening.

In July, Bishop said, Slatzer was in Ohio and got a replacement license with a photo. He was not required to take a vision test to get the license. Bishop said, nor did he have to prove his Ohio residency.

The trooper-said investigators were "trying to get a reading on his eyes. Slatzer said to see what his trouble is."

State troopers who found Slatzer sipping beer in a restaurant shortly after the accident Thursday evening said the man appeared dazed when he was told he had hit four youngsters.

"He didn't really have too many reactions. He didn't really know what was going on. He didn't cry. He got a little upset," said Braswell.

Dalle said fragments of the victim's clothing were found caught under Slatzer's car.

Gary Dodgion, 33, the father of one of the victims who arrived home from work a few minutes before the fatal accident, said he slowed down as he approached the house and called out to the girls "to get out of the street."

"By the time I got home and parked my car, I saw the girls. They were terrible. As soon as I heard it I almost knew what had happened ... My little girl was already dead by the time I got there."

Gas pressure caused fatal blast at Kentucky school

INDEPENDENCE, Ky. (UPI) — The latest cause was ruled through lines unable to withstand the force may have been "a contributing cause" of Thursday's fatal explosions and fire at an independence high school, gas company officials said Friday.

One student was killed and 33 other persons, mostly firefighters, were injured in the nighttime blasts near the boiler room of Simon Kenton High School. About 1,125 students are enrolled in the school.

Independence is about 15 miles south of Cincinnati.

Cincinnati Gas & Electric Co. President William Dickhoner said Friday that crews from CG&E's northern Kentucky subsidiary, Union Light Heat and Power, were gradually increasing pressure in lines near the high school Thursday to add new customer service in the area.

"Shortly after pressure was increased from 50 to 165 pounds per square inch," Dickhoner said in a prepared statement, "the first explosion occurred — at the high school."

For reasons still under investigation, he said, the gas was fed to the school through a 4-inch feeder line, rather than the normal 2-inch distribution line, creating a potential pressure problem to equipment in the school.

"The exact cause of the first explosion is not known at this time, but it is reasonable to assume the increased pressure was a contributing factor," Dickhoner said.

The utility president said both lines were located in the same trench and were installed in 1970, but company records do not indicate when the trench was made.

"We don't know when that happened, or why," said CG&E spokesman Bruce Stoelcklin.

A top art student, 16-year-old Robert Williams, was killed when the first blast demolished two high einder block walls in the boiler room adjacent to his classroom.

The school was quickly evacuated as flames shot through the building, and it was not until several hours later that Williams' body was found in the rubble.

"He was the best art student Simon Kenton ever saw," said teacher Linda Whittenberg, who had recommended Williams for special classes at the Cincinnati Art Academy.

Volcano 'burps' for 2nd day

HONOLULU (UPI) — Mount St. Helens spewed out its third steam plume in two days and quaked with renewed harmonic tremors Friday.

Geological Survey said the 14,000-foot plume rose to a height of 14,000 feet following two blowing plumes on Thursday.

Read said tremors of low-level harmonic tremors, seismologists called the plume. The tremors, which include the movement of magma material inside the mountain, were far weaker than those that occurred before the volcano's last major eruption on Aug. 7.

"Our reaction to something like this is that we're on the alert," he said. "We've told the loggers and forest service crews in the area that there's a possibility we haven't pulled any new ones out yet, and we haven't had any big reaction from any of them."

On Thursday, simultaneous seismic bursts and harmonic tremors occurred at 9:11 a.m. and 2:46 p.m. The first plume rose to 16,000 feet and the second plume rose to 14,000 feet. Another series of tremors occurred at 8:23 p.m.

"This is the longest series of tremors we've had in some time," said the USGS's Bob Norris, "but they're very weak tremors, weaker than what we've seen preceding previous eruptions."

Excitement yet, Norris added.

Gov. Brown orders car into chase

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. assigned his office limousine to mobbills in favor of a Plymouth, put the smaller car through its paces Friday, pursuing an alleged drunken driver involved in a hit-and-run collision.

California Highway Patrol Sgt. David Little said the governor and his driver, CHP veteran Hugh Polkinghorne, observed an automobile run a red light at the corner of Santa Monica Boulevard and La Brea Avenue about 12:30 a.m.

Little said the car struck an automobile carrying a young woman and sped off eastbound on Santa Monica, with Brown and Polkinghorne in hot pursuit.

Polkinghorne radioed the Highway Patrol dispatcher to have a message relayed to Los Angeles Police. Little said, but before a unit responded to the call, the governor and his driver spotted a patrol car, flagged it down and helped the officers apprehend the suspect about a mile from the accident.

Little said Brown and Polkinghorne remained on the scene until investigators filled out their report and the suspect, Rogelio Flores, 25, of Los Angeles, was taken to the West Los Angeles Sheriff's Station, where he was booked for felony drunken driving and hit-and-run.

Former aide to McCarthy — 'FBI break-ins common'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — New York lawyer Roy Cohn, who aided in the 1950s hunt for communist subversives by Sen. Joseph McCarthy, R-Wis., told a federal jury Friday the FBI commonly used break-ins in those years to track Russian spies.

Cohn, with the Justice Department from 1949-52 before he joined McCarthy's staff, insisted such break-ins were "legal and proper."

But he acknowledged under cross-examination the agency made it a policy "not to use in court any evidence obtained in the break-ins."

Cohn testified for the defense at the trial of former top FBI officials W. Mark Felt and Edward S. Miller, charged with approving illegal break-ins in 1972-73.

To some observers, his testimony seemed to give a trip back in time.

Often giving lengthy answers that sometimes strayed from the topic, Cohn used some of the catch words of his days with McCarthy's subcommittee — noting one spy went "behind the iron curtain" and "dressing the need to 'preserve the United States.'"

asked Cohn if it was true he spent most of his days with the Justice Department hunting communist spies and subversives.

Cohn responded, "It (the work) continues to this day."

"At the time, there was a widespread fear in this country of communism, wasn't there?" Nields asked.

"I can't differentiate from that period of time and the present period of time," said Cohn.

Defense lawyers introduced Cohn's testimony to show FBI break-ins in national security cases were common as long as 30 years ago.

Felt, the FBI's former No. 2 man, and Miller, its former intelligence chief, are charged with approving so-called "black bag jobs" in a search for members of the radical Weather Underground organization.

They contend the group had ties to hostile foreign powers and the break-ins were part of a legitimate national security probe.

Cohn said he discussed break-ins with Attorney General James McGranery in 1952.

He said one break-in produced evidence that Soviet spy Arthur Alexander — Adams was stealing secrets to the atom bomb. While Nields implied the Adams case was never prosecuted because the evidence came from a break-in, Cohn said it was because Adams fled the country and a key witness refused to cooperate.

Nields later said agency officials decided evidence from break-ins in three 1960s spy cases would be inadmissible in court. Cohn said the law was junky at the time.

Before the disputed break-ins, the Supreme Court had ruled a warrant was needed for a search in a domestic criminal investigation and that the attorney general's permission was required in national security cases.

Following Cohn's testimony, San Francisco area security man Larry Grayhollow told the jury that he joined the Weather Underground in 1968 and served as an FBI informant for several months.

Describing his orders to bomb a Detroit, police precinct, and police officers association, he said he considered the group a serious national security threat.

14th child found dead in Atlanta

ATLANTA (UPI) — A boy's body was discovered Friday in a suburban trailer park less than 24 hours after he was reported missing.

The 14th Atlanta child to be found dead or to disappear in the last 15 months.

Police Commissioner Lee P. Brown said Tommy Stephens was last seen at a grocery store near his south Atlanta home at about 5 p.m. Thursday.

The child's body was found in a grassy area beside the ramp to the East Point trailer park by a couple on their way to work. Brown said police believe the body was placed so it could be easily seen.

Brown said police "continue to lean toward the idea there is some relationship" in the deaths of eight children and the disappearances of six — all black — although "the evidence indicates there is not."

A special police task force of local and state officers was created in July to investigate the cases. So far, no direct links were found among the cases, but all of the children were black; between the ages of 7 and 15 and came from poor neighborhoods.

Four more investigators have recently been added to the task force, beefing up the unit to 21. At least $2,000 in reward money has been offered by the state and an anonymous donor.

Brown said the investigation of the 14 cases is the "No. 1 concern" and is the "No. 1 priority" of the department.

In the past few months, police also have consulted psychologists, crime labs, psychiatrists and police officers from around the country. Last week, they consulted psychic Dorothy Allison of Nutley, N.J., who claims to have helped authorities solve several baffling cases there.

"Any time you get into a situation like this you're doing everything you possibly can," said deputy-Police Director Morris Redding. "Somebody has got the answer. We're asking that person to come forward."

Eight of the children were last seen in the same area and some were seen in a car with strange men. Some of the children disappeared in areas where the bodies of other children were found.

Thatcher attacks Labor

BRIGHTON, England (UPI) — Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher denounced opposition Laborites Friday for planning to turn Britain into a "sinister Orwellian utopia."

She also pledged continued friendship with the United States and vowed renewed efforts to end the country's 16 percent inflation.

Her fighting speech before 2,000 Conservative Party convention delegates earned her a six-minute standing ovation.

Mrs. Thatcher promised her government would remain loyal to the alliance with the United States, NATO and the European Common Market.

"We will not betray them," she declared in a 40-minute address to the closing session of the annual convention.

She denounced demands by the Labor Party made at its own convention last week — for abolition of the House of Lords, unilateral nuclear disarmament, withdrawal from the Common Market and all-out socialism as "a sinister Orwellian utopia."

"We are engaged in a massive task of restoring confidence and stability to our people," Mrs. Thatcher said. "If we fail, our freedom could be imperiled."

She said repeatedly her government's prime objective was to defeat inflation.

Mrs. Thatcher described as a "human tragedy" Britain's current 2.2-million-jobless total. But she rejected firmly any increase in public spending in order to create more jobs.

She conceded the possibility of another "winter of discontent" like that of 1978-79 when massive strikes hit water, sewage, gas, electricity, hospitals and other vital services.

San Salvador city guerrillas assassinate 2

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — Urban guerrillas ambushed the automobile of a high government official Friday and assassinated him in a hall of gunfire, witnesses said.

Melvin Riquelme, 35, was killed instantly from a bullet that ripped through his Datsun only 200 yards from his home in downtown San Salvador, the witnesses said.

Orellana was driving to work. He was spokesman for the Christian Democratic party, which holds two seats in the five-person military-civilian junta that rules this Central American nation. He started the job only a week ago.

The leftist Popular Liberation Forces guerrilla group, whose members announced Thursday they had killed South African Ambassador to El Salvador, Archibald Dunn, was responsible for the slaying, the witnesses said.

The claim was not immediately verified.

A communique from the group said that after almost 11 months of unsuccessful negotiations for $20 million ransom and publication of the leftist message in 102 newspapers around the world, a final deadline expired and the guerrillas "proceeded to execute the ambassador."

The Salvadoran government, the racist government of South Africa and the (Dunn) family are responsible for the justifiable execution of the criminal ambassador Dunn," the communique said.

It did not specify where or when they killed Dunn, 61, who was kidnapped Nov. 28, 1979 in downtown San Salvador. Dunn's body was hidden "in a place the organs of the regime remain when it deems convenient," the communique said.

Dunn's relatives published a newspaper advertisement last week pleading with his captors to release the diplomat because the family "has been drained of its resources and cannot meet the demands."

The ambassador's wife has been hospitalized in Los Angeles with cancer for the past five months.

The assassination of Orellana brought to nine the number of political killings reported Friday, officials said.

A Salvadoran bishop said mercenaries from at least four Latin American nations are "fighting alongside" El Salvador's leftist guerrillas to topple the U.S.-backed ruling junta.

"Mexican, Cuban, Panamanian and Nicaraguan mercenaries are at the San Vicente Volcano fighting alongside the guerrillas," said Monsignor Arnoldo Aparicio y Quintanilla, bishop of San Vicente, 31 miles east of the capital.

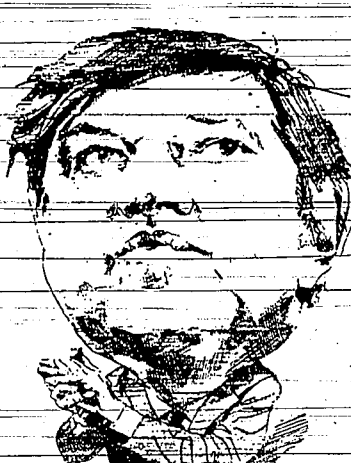

Aparicio y Quintanilla — one of five bishops in El Salvador — is considered a conservative by the nation's priests, most of whom are political progressives.

A Red Cross official said supplies for some 10,000 Salvadorans seeking refuge from fighting between leftist guerrillas, government troops and right-wing paramilitary squads are nearly finished and called for emergency aid.

"We are attending some 10,000 refugees in Morazan, Sensuntepeque, San Agustín, San Miguel, Tecoluca, Chaltenango and others," said the official, who asked not to be identified.

Catholic church officials estimate nearly 7,000 people — most of them civilians — have died in political violence in El Salvador this year.

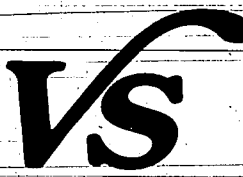

ON NATIONAL DEFENSE

Senator Frank Church

Senator "Scoop" Jackson

Senator Church has invited Senator Jackson to Idaho to campaign for him. But on the critical issue of National Defense, Senator Jackson should have come not to "praise" Senator Church but to debate him:

- ✓ Church has a record against a strong national defense.
- ✓ Jackson is a strong advocate of a powerful America.

MILITARY STRENGTH

Senator Church votes to weaken our military strength.

In 24 years Church has voted on 60 amendments to cut defense procurement, research, and development funds. Church voted to cut 49 times — 82% of the time (Congressional Quarterly, "Senate Roll Call Votes," 1957-1980).

Senator Jackson votes to build our military strength.

Jackson opposed 45 of Church's 49 votes to cut defense funds; Jackson opposed Church 91% of the time. Jackson opposed Church's attempt to cut funds on the Trident submarine, the long range Tomahawk Cruise missile, the Navy's F-14 jet fighter, the Marine's Harrier close-air support aircraft, the Army's main battle tank, and the Air Force's A-10 combat support aircraft.

STEVE SYMMS, like Senator Jackson, votes to keep America strong.

Frank Church votes to cut our strength.

SALT II

Senator Church advocates SALT II.

Church voted for the Strategic Arms Limitations Treaty with the Russians in the Foreign Relations Committee (Congressional Quarterly, Nov. 10, 1979, p. 2515). Church told the Senate, "I believe that the SALT II treaty, on balance, serves the National interests of the United States" (Congressional Quarterly, October 11, 1979, p. 14331).

Senator Jackson strongly opposes SALT II.

Jackson is one of "the leading SALT opponents" (Congressional Quarterly, December 8, 1979, p. 2811). He denounced the treaty as "inequitable, allowing Moscow significant military advantages" and "politically dangerous, signalling U.S. appeasement and distracting Americans from the Soviet threat" (Congressional Quarterly, June 23, 1979, p. 1221).

Again, STEVE SYMMS, like Senator Jackson, works to keep America strong.

Frank Church is out of step on SALT II.

C.I.A.

Senator Church wants to weaken the CIA.

In 1974, Church voted for an amendment which its author, Senator Aboureck, said would "abolish all clandestine or covert operations by the CIA" (Congressional Record, October 2, 1974, p. 33477. The vote is on p. 33482).

In 1976, Church declared that "all covert activity unrelated to the gathering of essential intelligence should be severed entirely from the CIA" (Final Report, Intelligence Activities, Senate Report 755, 94th Congress, 2d Session, 1976, p. 564).

Senator Jackson supports a strong CIA.

Jackson voted against the Aboureck amendment to abolish covert CIA operations. Jackson wants the CIA to be able to conduct covert operations such as the operation this year in which "six Americans were spirited out of Iran with the help of the Canadian Embassy" (New York Times, March 19, 1980, p. A3).

On keeping a strong CIA for America, Senator Jackson and STEVE SYMMS agree.

Whose "friend" is Frank Church?

NATO

Senator Church tried to weaken NATO.

In May 1971, Church co-sponsored an amendment to cut American troop strength in NATO (Europe) by 50% — from 300,000 to 150,000 — in six months. Furthermore, Church declared, "I stand for doing it unilaterally" (alone) without requiring an equal reduction of Soviet forces in the Warsaw Pact (Congressional Record, May 19, 1971, p. 15900).

Senator Jackson opposed crippling NATO.

Jackson joined Senator Hubert Humphrey, former Presidents Harry Truman and Lyndon Johnson and two-thirds of the Senate in denouncing Church's amendment. Jackson said Church's proposal would be "a great tragedy" (Congressional Record, Nov. 23, 1971, p. 42896); an act of "retreating into isolationism" (Congressional Record, May 18, 1971, p. 15560). Jackson condemned Church's plan as "preposterous" and "foolhardy" because it would "leave the President with only the nuclear button in his hand in the event of trouble" (Congressional Record, May 18, 1971, p. 15560).

On cutting U.S. forces in NATO by 50%, STEVE SYMMS and Senator Jackson are in step.

Frank Church voted against a vital program to keep peace in Europe.

WHEN FRANK CHURCH

LISTS HIS VOTES to try to show he is for our national defense . . . ask him about his 49 votes to cut the "heart" out of America's defense capability.

STEVE SYMMS and Senator Jackson are in the MAINSTREAM on NATIONAL DEFENSE. Like most Idahoans, Steve Symms believes the best way to keep our children from going to war is to maintain peace through a strong America.

Trout researchers share info

ABOUT 200 trout farmers close out their convention Friday.

By STEVE LIPSON
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The expensive feed trout farmers give their fish may not be the best thing for them, according to a trout researcher.

Robert Smith, director of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service's Tunison Research Laboratory in Hagerman, spoke to about 200 trout farmers Friday during the last day of the U.S. Trout Farmers Association convention in Twin Falls.

Feed is probably the single biggest expense on a fish farm, he said. But research he has "stumbled on" seems to indicate fish will grow better eating a mixture of expensive trout feed and cheap clay.

Smith said he did a lot of "soil searching" before telling trout farmers about this research. "I wondered if anybody would believe me. How can I tell you if you put mud in fish feed, fish will grow better?"

At first he didn't believe it himself. He said he would be so sure it wouldn't work, he left the clay he had planned to test sitting under his desk for six months.

When he finally got around to testing it, he found fish did grow bigger. When he repeated the test under a variety of different conditions it happened again. Now, he said, "we've brought up enough problems to keep us busy for 10 years trying to find out why."

What happened is that trout grew bigger when fed with clay and they also needed less feed to do it. The more clay, the better, too. Researchers tried mixtures of feed with 2 percent, 5 percent and 10 percent clay. The 10 percent mixture gave the best results. In the most successful tests, fish grew about 14 percent larger on 20 percent less feed than fish fed with plain feed.

This is not an entirely new idea, Smith said. It has worked on poultry, but always in small amounts. "So far, we're the only ones with the stupid audacity to feed it to 10 percent," Smith said.

He doesn't know why clay helps trout grow. At the end of his speech, he said, "I hope there are no questions because I don't have any answers."

Which wasn't the case. In answer to one question, Smith said a couple of theories have been advanced to explain the improved weight gain clay seems to yield. One possibility is that clay slows down the digestive process so food stays in the fish longer, he said. Another theory says clay contains some unknown, but important, nutrient.

Much testing remains to be done, Smith said. For one thing, the clay fish haven't been taste-tested yet. Fish are also being held to see if there are any long-term side effects.

Finally, tests will have to be made to see if clay has the same effect on growth when fed to fish grown outside of the lab, in commercial trout farms.

'Medical financing needs turnaround'

Speaker says funding turns health care to 'sick care'

By STEPHANIE SCHOROW
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Consumers must assume more responsibility for health care, rather than relying on government to devise solutions for rising costs.

So said Hilde Dagmar Faber, a nursing home ombudsman from the Seattle Division on Aging, at a Friday luncheon meeting of the Idaho Health Systems Agency.

Faber was a featured speaker at the HSA's quarterly meeting here. The HSA, a board of consumers and health providers, is appointed by the governor to oversee health care building programs in an effort to hold down health costs.

Faber told the board that by shifting resources from acute care in hospitals to maintenance care in homes, costs can be held down, with a healthier population in the long run.

"The biggest challenge is how to get the biggest bang for the bucks," said Faber, a member of the clinical faculty in University of Washington's School of Nursing. "I believe we must get back to grassroots."

This means, she said, discarding the "me-generation" attitude, or "what can I get from the government?"

"We have a patriarchal society," she said. "You come to me. I'll take care of you and I'll bill him — meaning your employer."

Health care funding is now "sick care," oriented, that is, it pays for the brief, sophisticated, and expensive cures and "forgets about health status unless a new crisis occurs," Faber said.

Faber believes government funding programs, as Medicaid, should reimburse home health care and nutritional services costs, not just emergency treatment.

She feels nursing home services should expand to include such things as home meals and adult day care to allow seniors to remain at home.

A registered nurse with a master's degree in nursing, Faber feels nurse practitioners should be encouraged to replace doctors in some health maintenance programs, saying the nurses are competent, professional and less expensive for the consumer than an M.D.

"Let them get into the action," she said. "The present barrier is our financial system. Who controls that system? Physicians and hospital administrators. They have the most to lose if they have to share the pie."

Although "we need more money for long-term health care," Faber does not feel the extra money must come from the government. "We need to involve the private sector," she said, particularly single- and large corporations that could encourage health care maintenance through company insurance policies.

In other business, the HSA released a special study committee report on the failure of Gem Health, the first Health Maintenance Organization in Idaho.

The committee found Gem Health's organizational structure was weighed too heavily in favor of consumers and the board of directors lacked specific expertise for difficult decisions. Poor relations among the physicians, management and the board also led to poor staff morale.

Funding problems were created by poor marketing performance and discrepancies between projections and actual figures. Additionally, the committee report said — the Gem Health board "appeared to rely on the Health, Education and Welfare Department to bail them out."

Public hearing gives favor to proposed Dike Dam plant

By RON ZELLAR
Times-News writer

GLENN'S FERRY — Elmore County residents have endorsed an Idaho Power Co. plan to build a 68-megawatt hydroelectric plant near King Hill.

Idaho Power Co. officials outlined plans for 90-foot Dike Dam in an informational session Thursday night at the Glenns Ferry Veterans Building.

The proposed dam would back water up an eight-mile stretch of the Snake River below Bliss Dam, but would affect only about 20 acres of cultivated land along the river's banks.

Pumps for the Bell Rapids and Black Mesa irrigation projects also would have to be moved, but project coordinator David Meyers said the utility will probably pay to relocate them.

The proposal received favorable comments from many of the 45 persons who attended the session.

"I've lived in this area a number of years, and I think it's just plain good progress. There is no cleaner power than hydro power," said Lee Trull, a Pasadena Valley rancher.

Perry Parsh, whose family owns 20 tillable acres at the dam site, said the proposal won't seriously affect farmers and probably will benefit them in the area.

The only negative comments during the hearing were in response to the recreation plan that must accompany the license application.

Meyers said no boat ramp was included in the plan because officials of the Idaho Department of Parks and Recreation have determined that sufficient power boating sites exist along the river.

Recreation envisioned for the area includes hunting and fishing from small boats that could be carried to the river. A picnic site and an overnight camping site also are included.

The hearing was part of the licensing process required by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, Meyers said.

Normal application for the Dike Dam will be completed later this year, he said. FERC plans an on-site visit later this month at the A.J. Wiley Dam site, a companion project near Hagerman.

Endangered species could threaten building both dams, conceded John Eversingham, a San Francisco environmental consultant who shared the panel with Meyers.

Murder suspect wants hearing

BURLEY — Larry Blevins, 27, of Twin Falls, requested a preliminary hearing Friday on a first-degree murder charge.

Blevins is charged with the murder of Robbie McBride, 23, of Twin Falls, whose body was recovered from the Snake River Wednesday night.

Arraigned before 5th District Magistrate Court Judge Nathan Higer, Blevins also requested the services of a public defender. Higer said a preliminary date will be set sometime within the next 14 days, and the Herman Bedke law firm will be appointed as his legal counsel.

Higer also denied the defendant's request for bond. He was returned to the Cassia County Jail pending further court action.

Blevins was arrested in downtown Jerome late Thursday afternoon by Jerome and Twin Falls county officers. He is charged with "killing McBride" on or about Sept. 22, and placing the body in the river in Cassia County near Miller.

McBride was reported missing Sept. 24. A search of Twin Falls and Jerome counties ended after police were tipped off that the body might be found in the river.

Jerome County Sheriff Elza Hall turned the case over to Cassia County after the body was found Thursday night. He said it has also been determined that McBride was apparently been beaten about the head with a blunt instrument.

Hall said much of the investigation into the disappearance of McBride was conducted by Twin Falls police and his department was also assisted by the Twin Falls County Sheriff's office.

McBride disappeared while working in Jerome when he was assisting with the repair of an automobile. He did not return from work the night of Sept. 22.

Colombians take home new trout-raising ideas

By BRUCE HAMMOND
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Carlos Mauricio Escobar predicts the demand for South American trout will boom much like it already has for Magic Valley trout.

"It's a bet that he's banking on," representing Colombia's 45 trout farmers at the U.S. Trout Growers Association convention here this week, Escobar said he will return home with several new trout-raising methods, including large raceways and recycling water.

"Self-feeders used here are things that I never even imagined possible," Escobar exclaimed. "We will definitely start using these as soon as possible."

In addition to touring Magic Valley trout facilities, Escobar met Friday with association President Ken Ellis, a "Bull trout" farmer, to compare aquaculture techniques.

While some aspects of trout farming, problems of disease and nutrition are similar in both countries, Escobar said trout growers' relations with the Colombian government differs tremendously from those between U.S. growers and the American government.

"We need help with the quality of the water, so that we can raise our trout," Escobar said.

To this end, Colombian legislation has been proposed to insure clean stream water. Other laws have already been passed requiring any imported trout product, such as brood eggs, must be examined by pathologists and certified before entry is allowed into Colombia.

Legislation is also proposed to protect trout being grown in public lakes and rivers. This type of pen-cultivation is strictly outlawed in Idaho.

Ellis said this type of governmental action is in sharp contrast to U.S. regulatory activity that tends to discourage growth of the trout industry.

In addition to growing trout in public waterways, Colombian production differs from the Magic Valley practices because high mountain streams are used rather than springs. Relatively few raceways are used for trout rearing, and these are much smaller than U.S. ponds, according to Escobar.

"I don't know who our ponds are built so much smaller," he said. "That's just how it was done."

Perhaps because of the smaller production of Colombia's trout farmers (there are over 200 trout farmers in the Magic Valley alone), Escobar said pollution from trout farms has not become a factor in his country.

However, systems usually used for pollution control, such as settling ponds and vacuuming residue, are already being incorporated by Colombians because they offer better production, Escobar said.

Ellis explained this apparent contradiction, saying, "At first we thought the techniques were just going to be an added expense that would have to be passed on to consumers — even the Environmental Protection Agency people thought this."

"But what we found was that by managing our ponds on a daily basis we avoided problems such as low oxygen counts, high DOBs (dissolved oxygen waste) and improved the consistency of water quality so that we reduced stress on the fish and we saved better production," Ellis said.

Ellis said another required water quality checks has been a significant reduction in fish medication.

"We using only one-third of the amount of medication we used five years ago to keep fish healthy," Ellis claimed.

Escobar agreed with Ellis' assessment of using settling ponds and other pollution control methods, adding "We really haven't had problems with disease, as you folks are talking about. The only problems we've had are nutritional ones."

Toxic poisoning of trout by improperly processed cotton seed meal has plagued South American trout farmers, Escobar said, as it did several years ago in the U.S.

Today, the Federal Drug Administration closely monitors cotton seed meal production, but still advises trout growers to watch for potential trout loss.

"We use meal with lots of soybean content," Escobar said.

Both Colombian and Magic Valley trout farmers use meal with about 40 percent soybean content, but Ellis cited studies indicating meal with 90 to 95 percent soy content can be used.

"Valley Trout Co. (researchers) feel that vegetable protein is the feed for the future," Ellis said.

Trout in Colombia is marketed as "a high-class food," Escobar said. "Where a steak may cost $5, trout would cost $10. It's also limited to restaurants and specialized shops."

However, Escobar believes the Colombian trout markets will develop as the U.S. outlets did — as production increases soybean will become a main item for both restaurants and grocery stores.

"We have no trouble selling our fish. We are doing well," Escobar said.

"My father started our trout farm 15 years ago as a hobby," he continued. "But it's fast becoming a very good business."

Fire damages Burley Inn

BURLEY — The Burley Inn was damaged by fire late Thursday night, with firemen from Burley and Rupert responding to the alarm.

According to Calvin Sterling, shift captain of the Burley department, the fire in the North Burley motel started about 10 p.m. in the basement under the kitchen. Cause of the fire is uncertain, but Sterling said it may have been an electrical light source.

Powered by a fire hose, Burley and eight from Rupert fought the blaze before containing it near midnight.

There was no structural damage to the building but the coffee shop will be closed until Monday for cleaning. The lounge was back in operation Friday.

Guests in 17 rooms affected by the fire were moved across the street to the Ponderosa Inn because of smoke damage.

Rarick to come to Twin Falls

TWIN FALLS — John Rarick, American Party candidate for U.S. President, will be in Twin Falls Monday.

Rarick will hold a press conference at 10:30 a.m. in the Intertec Inn on Blue Lakes Boulevard, North, according to Nolan Victor of Twin Falls.

Rarick is making a campaign swing through the state and will stop in several cities, Victor said.

Briefly in sports

Montrealace injured as season starts

MONTREAL (UPI) — Montreal Canadiens ace right-winger Guy Lafleur will begin the 1980 National Hockey League season today the same way he ended it during the 1979-80 playoffs — on the injury list. Lafleur pulled a hamstring during a practice session Wednesday and has been sidelined for the Canadiens' season home-opener against the Chicago Black Hawks today and Sunday's road game against the Boston Bruins.

Canadiens spokesman Claude Moulton said Lafleur, who injured a knee during the 1979-80 playoffs, will not skate against the Washington Capitals Wednesday.

"It's nothing serious. He was taped and treated without going to hospital," Moulton said. "We'll definitely be using Keith Acton but we'll decide until tomorrow afternoon who's going to replace Lafleur maybe Rejean Houde with Steve Shutt or Claude Larocque."

Notre Dame athletic director to retire

SOUTH-BEND, Ind. (UPI) — Notre Dame Athletic Director Ed W. "Moose" Krause made it official Friday — announcing he will resign at the end of the year after 21 years in his post.

Krause, 67, who made the announcement prior to a meeting of the Notre Dame Quarterback Club, said would "remain in the department in a consultant's role at least through the remainder of the school year."

The school, which must also replace football coach Dan Devine after this season, had no comment on a possible successor. Devine has announced this will be his last year at the helm of the Fighting Irish.

Browns' Shirk out for year, may retire

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Facing a critical test in Seattle Sunday, the Cleveland Browns got some news this week which bodes ill for the rest of the season.

Former All-Pro defensive lineman Jerry Shirk, sidelined since the first game, is out for the rest of the year and may call it a career.

"I don't think I'll play this year," said the 32-year-old Shirk, who caught an infection in his knee last season and recently died.

When asked about 1981, Shirk said, "I'm neither optimistic nor pessimistic."

"I'll wait until next year and see if I'm completely healthy. I would have to be completely healthy. I would not go into a situation like I did this year where there was any question."

The 11-year veteran, who achieved All-Pro status at defensive tackle, started the opener against New England as an end in the new 3-4 defense, but his knee stiffened at halftime and he hasn't played since.

Wyoming, BYU meet in WAC contest

LARAMIE, Wyo. (UPI) — The University of Wyoming, the nation's fourth best rushing team, travels to Provo, Utah today to meet Brigham Young University, the nation's second best passing team in a must-win game for both teams if they are to keep their league title hopes alive.

The Cougars had last weekend off and have had an extra week to prepare for the Cowboy's wishbone attack.

The Cowboys are coming off their first loss of the year, a 24-21 defeat at the hands of the New Mexico Lobos.

The Lobos effectively shut down the high-powered Wyoming rushing attack, allowing the Cowboys only 133 yards on the ground. Still, Wyoming dropped only one notch — to fourth — in national rushing statistics. The Cowboys are averaging 223.5 yards per game.

BYU, the defending Western Athletic Conference champion, has compiled a 3-1 record primarily on the passing of quarterback Jim McMahon.

McMahon is the second-leading passer in the country, completing nearly 60 percent of his passes, and he has thrown 14 touchdowns.

N-Y. marathon to be world's largest

NEW YORK (UPI) — More than 16,000 runners will compete in the New York City Marathon Oct. 28, making it the world's largest marathon and a TV event which will be watched by an estimated 2.5-million spectators.

The race will begin at 10:30 a.m., EDT, on the Staten Island toll plaza of the Verrazano Bridge. The runners will go through parts of Brooklyn, Queens, the Bronx and Manhattan before finishing at the Tavern on the Green in Central Park.

Forty-three nations will be represented in the race including a 78-year old male entrant from Torsberg, Norway. The oldest woman is 64 and from Yonkers, N.Y.

'The Family' facing some changes

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Pittsburgh Pirates general manager Harding Peterson, obviously disappointed in the team's late-season collapse and third-place finish in the National League East, has begun bringing up The Family.

Pinch-running specialist Matt Alexander and veteran left-handed starting pitcher Jim Rooker, who spent most of the season on the disabled list, both were left homeless Friday.

Tucked among a half dozen relatively unimportant announcements issued by the club Friday were the facts that Alexander had been assigned to the Pirates-AA farm team in Portland, Ore., and that the Pirates had asked irrevocable waivers on Rooker for the purpose of his unconditional release.

Peterson commented only on the Rooker move in the releases, saying it was a difficult decision.

"Rooker was a fine major league pitcher for the Pirates and contributed greatly to the Bucs' success," he said. "With the number of Pirate pitches who have pitched successfully in the major leagues who will be trying to make the club, we've released Jim to give the opportunity to land with another club."

Roth seeks to regain top PBA spot

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (UPI) — Mark Roth attempts to reclaim his spot as the Professional Bowlers Association's top performer as the season-ending, fall tour begins today with a $50,000 PBA event for regional champions.

Roth, of Little Silver, N.J., has regained a leading PBA money winner and player of the year for the past three seasons, but will need a prosperous stretch drive if he is to maintain that status in 1980.

Roth, 29, ranks second on the current money standings with $85,000 and is still looking for his first championship of the year although he leads the tour with five runner-up finishes.

Defending champion for the 8th annual event is Fred Jaskie, of Milwaukee, Wis., who defeated Roth in the title match last year, 266-258.

Texas-Oklahoma leads list

Several ranked teams clash

By GARY KALE, UPI Sports Writer

It's inevitable that the top 20 rankings will undergo considerable change next week since eight of the elite clash in head-to-head combat.

First off, there's third-ranked Pittsburgh against No. 10 Florida State today. Then you have No. 4 Texas playing No. 12 Oklahoma, fifth-ranked UCLA meeting No. 16 Stanford and seventh rated Notre Dame facing 13th ranked Miami of Florida.

The biggest crunch may emanate from Dallas where Texas locks horns in a traditional confrontation with Oklahoma. Police in the downtown area are geared for the revelers and expect to make 200 arrests for intoxication.

Before unbeaten Texas can get drunk with power, however, the Longhorns will have to make the oddsmakers' spread of 1-1/2 points stand up against the once-beaten Sooners in the game played at the Cotton Bowl. Last year, Texas won 16-7 with the help of three John Goodson field goals that gave the Longhorns a 17-16 post-World War II edge in their series with Oklahoma.

The Sooners went into telephone numbers in registering an 82-0 victory over Colorado last Saturday, but Oklahoma coach Barry Switzer admits "those statistics are meaningless" when playing arch-rival Texas. "I think Texas is the best football team in the United States today. Therefore, we've got to play an error-free game to win. We can't afford to give anybody anything."

Oklahoma leads the nation in total offense with an average of 560.7 yards for its three games.

Pittsburgh's preseason confidence concerning its game with Florida State was considerably shaken last weekend when the Seminoles upended previously unbeaten Nebraska to establish their claim as one of the nation's more formidable teams. "Beating Nebraska means we can win the big ones," says FSU's defensive standout Ron Simmons. "It means we are a major college football team. If we beat P.M., people will have to accept that fact after trying to ignore us."

There was speculation that Pitt quarterback Dan Marino, sprained left knee would keep him on the sidelines, but coach Jackie Sherrill believes his star signal-caller, who threw for three touchdowns against Maryland last Saturday, is capable of starting.

UCLA and Stanford are proven giant killers this season, the Uclans knocking off Ohio State and Stanford handing Oklahoma its only loss. Because of scholastic irregularities, UCLA is ineligible for a post-season bowl game, leaving Stanford with the knowledge it can't topple the Bruins and then beat Washington next week the Cardinals can start counting the roses in Pasadena.

"UCLA's defense is the key to their success," says Stanford coach Paul Wiggan. "In free safety Kenny Easley they have one of the finest defensive players I've ever seen."

Notre Dame's chances of moving up in the rankings depends upon coach Dan Devine's ability to find a suitable replacement for injured running back Pat Carter. The nation's second leading rusher, in Saturday's game with Miami of Florida.

The Irish have beaten Miami 11 times in 13 meetings, including a 49-15 victory in the Mirage Bowl in Tokyo last November.

In other games involving top ranked teams, No. 1 Alabama plays Rutgers in a meet-in of unbeaten, No. 2 Southern California faces Arizona, sixth-ranked Georgia tackles Mississippi, No. 8 North Carolina goes against Wake Forest, and No. 9 Nebraska tries to recoup against Kansas.
