Big Mike

Experience of Rupert boy shows difficulty protecting both society, young people

Editor's Note: This is the first story in a series on a Minidoka County boy's dealings with the law. On request the names of the boy and his mother have been changed.

By STEPHANIE SCHOROW
Times-News writer

RUPERT — This is the story of "Big Mike," the boy no one seems to know what to do with.

In August, Mike, a Rupert resident, attempted to cash a $27 check he had found. He was arrested, and sentenced to three days in Minidoka County Jail.

Mike is 11 years old. This was his fourth incident involving the law. The jail term provoked an angry reaction from the South Central Community Action Agency, contacted by Mike's mother. Although CAA's Bureau staff suggest a crime was committed, they felt the boy needed help, not a jail sentence.

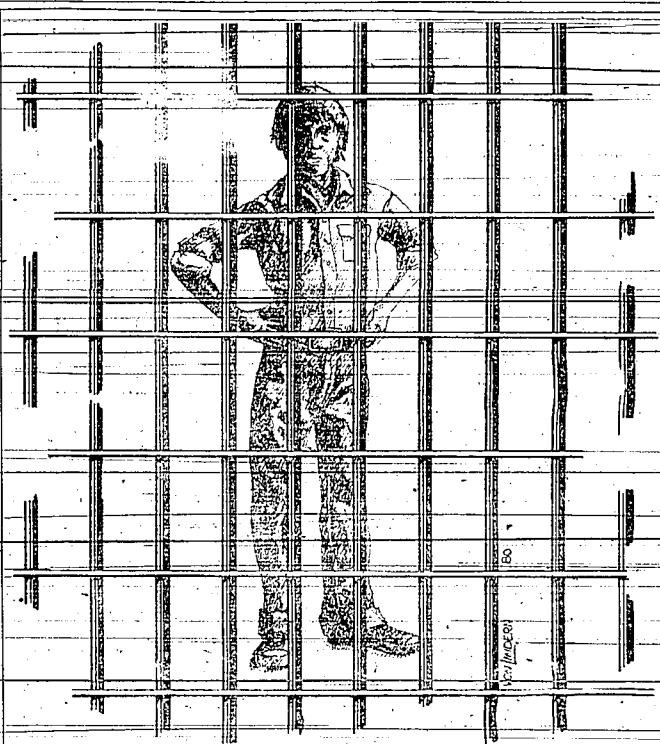

CAA supervisor Linda Ramey called Minidoka Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Bob Workman about the case. Her version of the conversation goes: "I asked him if I could find out the circumstances on Mike X. He said 'Oh you mean Big Mike.' I asked what do you mean by 'Big Mike.' He said 'If Mike was bigger, Mike would be in the big house for the big felony.'"

Workman, contacted by the Times-News, denies making any such statement. "I have never made that comment about any child that we deal with," he said. He may have used the expression "Big Mike," saying "I think a lot of people do."

However the term originated, the nickname has stuck among CAA staffers referring to the case. To the mother and to the label represents the stereotyping process of the court and police — how a boy has been stamped "juvenile delinquent" and accordingly treated with callousness and indifference. They say the boy has serious mental problems, but has been treated "like a criminal."

The police and the court say Mike has been treated fairly and without prejudice. They point out Mike had been found guilty of burglary, theft and malicious destruction of property before the check forgery incident and had been put on probation. Workman calls the "Big Mike" term "inconsequential."

Series reservations about the boy's home supervision have been voiced by the magistrate judge and law officers. Yet the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare, which has custody of the child, has found his mother cooperative and decided against removing Mike from his home.

Ramey said she has become involved because she feels Mike's case may be typical of other juvenile cases in Minidoka County and she is concerned about other juveniles jailed in the county.

Big Mike's experience illustrates the difficulties of the juvenile court system, a system that tries to protect both society and the young people involved. His story was compiled from court records and interviews with police, social workers and family.

What happened "is perfectly legal," an area law officer commented. "Whether it's morally right, it's anyone's opinion."

Mike is the third of five children. His mother and father were divorced when he was a baby and his mother, Frances, has recently married for the fifth time. Frances, 41, is a native of Rupert, but the family has moved frequently throughout Idaho and the West in the past 10 years. Frances has been on and off Aid to Dependent Children and has worked as a bus driver and a county sheriff dispatcher.

When Mike was 6 years old, he and his 4-year-old brother were arrested and charged with grand larceny, Frances said. The boys had got into a golf cart, drove it around the golf course and somehow got it into a nearby stream. Mike spent a night in jail, was placed on probation and the court records were later sealed.

Idaho facing $60 million fiscal squeeze

By THOMAS MORRISSEY
Times-News writer

Second of two parts.

BOISE — By the next fiscal year, Idaho may face a deficit totaling as much as $60 million.

That's about 13 percent of what preliminary fiscal data indicates will be the cost of running state government that year.

That's not money needed for expanding government. It's the amount needed simply to maintain state programs at their existing levels, and pay for unexpected "one time" expenditures, such as clean-up costs from the Mt. St. Helens eruption and repair of the Idaho State Penitentiary after this summer's riot.

In light of the pending deficit, state legislators are considering various new funding plans. Among ideas mentioned so far are:

- Drastically cutting back state government, including a possible elimination of Lewis Clark College in Lewiston.

- Increasing the sales tax, perhaps from three cents per dollar to four cents.

- Expanding the sales tax to include services as well as goods.

- Expanding the sales tax to include additional goods.

- Allowing local governments to begin local option taxes.

- Eliminating the home-owners tax exemption, which now exempts from property taxes the first $10,000 of a home's value.

Idaho's fiscal shortfall is largely due to the national recession hitting the state.

Idaho's last year spent significantly less than last year. This in turn reduced the state taxes which finance state agencies and their programs.

Further compounding the problem was the legislature's failure to anticipate the shortfall.

That failure was triggered by the difficulty of making long range budget predictions. A state fiscal year begins on July 1 of each calendar year. That means legislators, who meet in January, have access to records only from the first half of the then-on-going fiscal year.

To meet the year's funding dilemma Gov. John Evans was forced to implement a 3.85 percent funding "hold back." Idaho's Constitution requires him, as the state's chief budget officer, to maintain a balanced budget. Only by slicing 3.85 percent off budgets already approved by lawmakers could an illegal deficit be prevented, Evans said.

Legislators are now debating several ways to resolve Idaho's coming financial crunch. Here are some of the more frequently mentioned ideas.

House Speaker Ralph Olmstead, R-Twin Falls, warned it was "unrealistic" to expect the state's entire deficit could be erased simply by cutting government.

"About three quarters of all our funds go for education," Olmstead said. "And while you will see some cuts there, they will be modest. I don't think it is likely that anyone will move to drastically cut down education."

"It doesn't matter how much you cut in that remaining one quarter of state funding," Olmstead said. "You still can't cut a swath that will make that much difference. Say we cut the Department of Water Resources by one-half, the Department of Administration by one-half, the Department of Agriculture by one-half, the Department of Parks and Recreation by one-half, and had drastic cuts in Health and Welfare, we're still not going to trim more than $40 million or $50 million off the budget and we're looking at what may be a $60 million deficit."

In addition to decreasing tax revenues, federal revenue sharing monies to Idaho are being reduced, Olmstead said.

U.S. relief supplies flow to quake zone

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States sent a Navy helicopter carrier and nine big cargo aircraft loaded with coats, tents and blankets Sunday to the earthquake-devastated city of Al Assam, Algeria.

A team of 38 American doctors, engineers and support personnel also reached the stricken area Sunday, a Pentagon spokesman said. The Department of Defense team flew from Leghorn, Italy.

The helicopter carrier Guadalcanal left Barcelona and was expected off Algeria early today to carry out airlifts, evacuations or other tasks for the survey team.

Other U.S. naval ships in the Mediterranean will also be available if needed, the spokesman said.

A State Department spokesman said the U.S. team from Europe will assess damages and render emergency relief.

The spokesman said the United States already has provided an estimated $1 million in relief supplies to aid victims of the Algerian earthquakes.

Nine C-141 aircraft took part in the emergency airlift of nearly 2,000 tents, 3,000 coats, and 14,000 blankets from U.S. government stockpiles in Italy.

Columbus' Pinta located?

KEY WEST, Fla. — Two divers searching for sunken treasure believe they may have discovered Christopher Columbus' ship, the Pinta.

The Miami Herald reported Sunday that a 500-year-old tax report recently found in Spain suggests the sunken wreck could be the Pinta, one of the three ships in the Italian explorer's expedition to the New World in 1492.

The ship, which lies 30 feet below the surface, was discovered in 1977 by Key West treasure hunters Olin Frick and John Gasque while searching the waters off the Calcasieu Bank for ships to Evidence is thin, but an iron cannon removed from the wreck appears to be the right age.

Democrats hope to break GOP hold on District 25 seats

By MARTY TRILLIHAASE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Two local Democrats are hoping to break the traditional Republican stronghold on legislative seats from Twin Falls this year.

But Democratic Lloyd Shewemaker of Kimberly and Mildred Howard of Hansen acknowledge they have an uphill battle ahead of them.

Shewemaker and Howard are in a three-way race for the Senate seat being vacated by Sen. Richard High, R-Twin Falls. He faces Republican Laird Noh of Kimberly, an attorney with the same district as Howard Buhler of Twin Falls.

Howard is challenging Republican incumbent T.W. Stivers of Twin Falls for the House-B seat.

House Speaker Ralph Olmstead is rumored unopposed in his bid for re-election to the House-A seat.

Senate
Noh, 41, is a sheep rancher and former Twin Falls County Republican chairman. Shewemaker, 62, is a rancher and farmer, and is president of the Twin Falls Highway District.

Buhler, 41, is a real estate salesman and district president of the Idaho Property Owners Association.

Each of the candidates has taken a different position on whether to lift the property tax freeze on local gov-would support raising the property tax ceiling, particularly to allow for growth. Buhler said he would continue the freeze for another year.

Both Noh and Shewemaker believe some type of tax increase will be necessary as a result of the state's funding shortfall. What type of increase depends on information they would receive during the legislative session, they say.

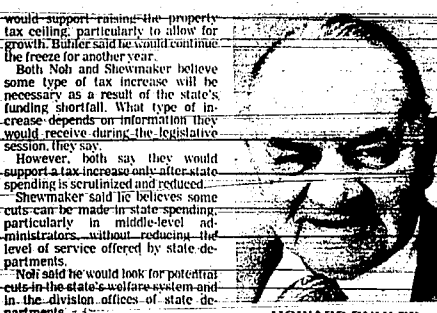

However, both say they would support a tax increase with after-state spending is scrutinized and reduced.

Shewemaker said he believes some cuts can be made in state spending, particularly in middle-level administrative positions, and that level of service offered by state departments.

Noh said he would look for potential cuts in the state welfare system and in the division offices of state departments.

Buhler said he opposes any tax increase during a recessionary period and would work to cut state spending to balance the budget. One area he said he would cut is state subsidies for low-cost apartment housing. He said he opposes the use of tax dollars as competition to private landlords.

In education, the candidates disagree over whether to eliminate Lewis-Clark State College in Lewiston. Several lawmakers have called for an end to the $2-million-a-year school on the grounds ernments. Local officials have said they may be forced to make drastic reductions in programs if the freeze is continued next year.

Shewemaker said he favors lifting the freeze entirely. Noh said he that it duplicates services at the University of Idaho at Moscow, only 30 miles away.

Noh said he would support eliminating the college. In addition, he said he would cut program duplications at the three state-supported universities. But some funding increase for the universities may be required despite any improvement in efficiencies, he said.

Buhler said he too would vote to eliminate the school.

Shewemaker said he would have to study the issue before making a decision. Shewemaker added he would consider imposing in-state tuition at the state colleges and universities. Such a move would require an amendment to the state constitution.

The candidates also split on the issue of the Sagebrush Rebellion, a movement which proposes transferring control of lands now under the Bureau of Land Management to the state.

Shewemaker said he opposes the Sagebrush Rebellion, saying state control of public lands would result in private ownership since the state land board is obligated to use the land for the highest profit.

Iraqi forces advance nearer major Iranian refinery city

KHURRAMSHAR, Iran (UPI) — Iraqi forces, locked in fierce fighting for mastery of the Shatt-al-Arab waterway, advanced to the outskirts of Abadan Sunday.

The Iraqs also pounded pockets of shabbon resistance in the Iranian port city of Khurramshar with renewed shelling.

At the start of the fourth week of hostilities, Iraq claimed its soldiers were "getting ready to enter" Abadan after "inflicting casualties and destruction in the enemy's ranks and further defeating the hostile Persian (Iranian) forces."

Abadan is the site of a huge Iranian oil refinery and Western observers believe it will be the next major target after 21 days of fighting.

An Iraqi military communique said 43 Iranian soldiers were killed in the fighting and 10 tanks were destroyed, while eight Iraqi soldiers were killed with the loss of one tank.

The communique also said a helicopter was shot down in the southern fighting zone and two "missile bases" were set on fire but it did not give the location of the missile sites.

Firemen inspect wreckage of car after bomb exploded near UN in New York

Bombs rock New York, London, Los Angeles

By United Press International

Bomb blasts — possibly related — rocked New York, London and Los Angeles late Sunday, injuring at least five people, shattering windows and causing extensive damage.

A male caller told UPI in Los Angeles that a group calling itself "The Justice Commanders of Armenian Genocide" was claiming responsibility for the "bombings of Turkish installations in Los Angeles and New York."

"We are issuing a warning to all Turkish government institutions they are not to interfere in Armenian affairs," the caller said.

In London, a group calling itself the "Armenian Secret Army" telephoned a news agency to say it bombed the Turkish tourist office about 2:30 p.m. EDT to protest Turkey's treatment of its Kurdish minority.

A second bombing in London at the Swiss Air office apparently was unrelated.

In Los Angeles, a bomb that exploded at 4:50 p.m. EDT damaged a travel agency owned by a man of Turkish descent, injuring one passer-by slightly and causing extensive damage in the office. It also shattered several nearby windows.

In New York, a car-bomb exploded outside the Turkish Center near the United Nations complex about 5 p.m., injuring at least four people, shattering hundreds of windows and sending debris flying through the streets.

Donald McHenry, the U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, said the United States had extended its regrets to Turkish officials over the incident.

"It's very difficult to prevent this kind of incident in a free society," he said as he stood on the rubble-strewn street. "Maybe those who commit this kind of act are better off in a police state."

Flying debris and glass from the New York explosion hit four people who were standing or walking past the UN complex across the street.

They were hospitalized and one of them, who was not identified, was admitted in stable condition with a cut head and shrapnel wounds to his body, hospital officials said.

Tanker burns off Louisiana

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — A fully loaded oil tanker with 32 people on board caught fire Sunday in the Gulf of Mexico off the Louisiana coast, the Coast Guard reported.

Several Coast Guard planes flew to assist the 761-foot M.T. Sea Royal, which was "dead in the water" about 200 miles due south of New Orleans. The Singapore-registered ship had been en route to Galveston, Texas, with a cargo of heavy Bunker C grade crude oil.

Coast Guard spokesman Doug Bantros said a 438-foot tanker, the M.V. Espol, was diverted and en route to the Sea Royal. Several Coast Guard cutters also were dispatched.

Violence hits Oklahoma town

IDABEL, Okla. (UPI) — A black man was shot to death and his companion and a white policeman were wounded Sunday in a gunfight sparked by accusations of arson in a city torn earlier this year by racial tensions.

Police on routine patrol about an hour after the shootings were fired upon while investigating a store burglary in which guns and ammunition were stolen. The officers escaped injury and police said they did not know if there was any connection between the two incidents. The burglars got away.

The Highway Patrol said Idabel Police Chief Hobby Denison requested stepped-up assistance from state troopers for the city of 7,000 nestled in the wooded hills of southeastern Oklahoma.

Suburbs battleground for final weeks

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Ronald Reagan's top campaign strategist said Sunday America's suburbs "are going to be the battleground" in the final weeks before Nov. 4 and George Bush will be showcased to help win them.

Stuart Spencer, a senior consultant in the Reagan circle, said in an interview. "The big thing in the next three weeks is to elevate George Bush in the campaign and give him more resources (staff) in certain regions and states where there are ticket splitters."

He cited Bergen County, N.J., a suburb of New York, and Bucks County, a suburb of Philadelphia, as examples of the type of place where Bush — Reagan's running mate on the Republican ticket — will be used.

Bush is expected to have appeal in the suburbs because of his moderate image, which could prove useful among the large group of moderate ticket-splitting voters who live near cities.

"The suburbs are going to be the battleground," Spencer said. Reagan's schedule in recent days shows just how important his campaign in the suburbs is. He has campaigned extensively in the heavily populated areas just outside Philadelphia, Chicago and Los Angeles.

Spencer characterized suburban voters as being particularly concerned with "good government and reform." In addition, statistics show they vote in large numbers. He also predicted Reagan will win his home state of California — with its 45 electoral votes — hands down.

Using the phrase that President Carter made famous in his primary battle with Sen. Edward Kennedy, Spencer said, "We'll beat his ... in California."

Carter operatives appear to be in the process of rethinking their California strategy and conceding it to Reagan without saying so outright.

"The key is organization and we have 600 phone banks and 55 headquarters in the state," Spencer said. "Carter has five headquarters and no phone banks."

Nevertheless, Reagan is now making his second of three planned campaign trips to California, just to make sure and to "show the flag" to longtime supporters, press secretary Lynn Nofziger said.

Reagan aides feel he will carry the entire West, except Hawaii, and possibly Oregon and has a good chance in every southern state except Georgia, Arkansas and North Carolina.

Spencer said Reagan has more options for changing campaign strategy at the last minute than Carter does.

"We have the West but he doesn't have the South. There are very few states he's got. He has more tough decisions about where to put his resources than we do," said Spencer, who managed Reagan when he first entered politics in 1966 but left to help Ford's 1976 primary campaign against his former protégé. Reagan, who campaigned in 12 states with 213 electoral votes last week, will spend today in southern California. He will hold a news conference Tuesday before embarking on a swing East through Idaho, South Dakota, Ohio, Michigan, New York and Illinois.

Demos zero in on Reagan's switches

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Robert Strauss, President Carter's campaign chairman, said Sunday the Carter camp has "got to do a better job" of making voters aware that Ronald Reagan has switched position on key issues. But he said despite that problem and others in the campaign, "We think we'll win it."

Anderson advisers see shift

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John Anderson's advisers said support for President Carter and Ronald Reagan is so thin and volatile that Anderson could win in a massive last-minute shift of voter sentiment.

"Some of the most distinguished pollsters in the country have told us that this election will be decided in the last 48 hours," said Anderson press secretary Tom Matthews in an interview.

Anderson said much the same thing in an interview on CBS' "Face the Nation" Sunday.

Asked how he still hopes to win when polls show him far behind Carter and Reagan, Anderson said the surveys also show a large number of undecideds and voters who are not firmly committed to the leading candidates.

"I said he considers Carter 'out of it,' with little chance to win, and that he, Anderson, will be the recipient of most of those who seek a real alternative to Reagan."

Matthews, a veteran political fund-raiser and behind-the-scenes man, said an independent such as Anderson would not stand a chance if the two major parties had fielded strong candidates.

But he said Carter and Reagan are failures and the public is growing disenchanted with them.

"This candidacy of Anderson's never would have originated if the candidates had been as strong as Teddy Kennedy and Jerry Ford," said Matthews. He predicted that as the campaign moves into its final weeks, Carter may find he is considered the spoiler — not Anderson.

"Ironically, the monkey that has been on Anderson's back for so long will be on Mr. Carter's back," he said. "A vote for Carter is a vote for Reagan."

Anderson currently is running between 10 percent and 14 percent in national polls, but bristles at any suggestion he drop out of the race.

He has just completed a particularly successful week of campaigning, buoyed by the response of former contributors to a request that they dig deeper and this time lend him money up to the maximum $1,000 limit.

By the end of the week, $635,000 had poured into Anderson campaign coffers for nationwide television and radio commercials which begin late this week. The money is arriving at a rate of about $120,000 a day.

Anderson was $900,000 in debt before the new funding began.

Bush blasts arms treaty

WASHINGTON (UPI) — George Bush called the SALT II arms control treaty an "inequitable agreement" Sunday and said Ronald Reagan as president would have it renegotiated to make it fair and easier to verify.

Bush, interviewed on ABC's "Issues and Answers," was asked if he did not agree that a new and massive arms race would result if SALT were junked.

"If SALT II is so good, how come it hasn't been ratified by the Senate, which is almost two-thirds Democratic?" Bush asked. "It went on to say that many senators questioned whether it is a good treaty or simply a collection of 'old proposals' that (Gerald) Ford wouldn't agree to."

"It is an inequitable agreement," he said. "Bush also was asked about the list President Carter cites of instances in which Reagan has proposed the use of military force in recent years, and Bush replied: 'Well, I think it is wrong to say you would never use force' in crisis situations."

"I am totally opposed to deficit spending by government because it is a basic cause of inflation and it is wrong. I have sponsored legislation to make a balanced federal budget mandatory except in time of national emergency.

Syme and Fran Symms

Our senior citizens are hurt the most because they must live on limited incomes. But our young people are hurt too because of the difficulty in providing a home and food while starting a family. Business suffers, Farmers are caught in the squeeze.

A balanced budget in government requires the same self-discipline on the part of its leaders as the family must exercise in living within its income. In 24 years in the Senate, Frank Church has shown time and again that he does not have such discipline. In 8 years in the House, my record shows that I do."

Most Idahoans know that deficit spending is the basic cause of inflation. And inflation is the basic cause of all of the economic problems we have today. People out of work. Skyrocketing prices. The struggle of senior citizens. High interest rates. Welfare fraud. Government over-regulation . . . people tell me about these problems that plague us today.

Do you think Frank Church will change now . . . even if he were to go back to the Senate?

Reagan puts his foot in again

Ronald Reagan's advisers will have to re-tighten security around their man if they want to avoid more blunders before the election.

It seems Reagan can't be allowed to speak off-the-cuff without emitting embarrassingly wrong statements the way Mt. St. Helens sends up steam and ash.

The ex-governor's latest gems were false claims and misinformation about the environment, aimed at pooh-poohing the problem of pollution.

Perhaps bolstered by his lead in the polls, Reagan deviated Tuesday in Ohio from the policy of sticking to prepared remarks, a policy he adopted early in the general campaign. In a chat with coal and steel workers and managers, Reagan said:

• Air pollution has been "substantially controlled" since the adoption of the Clean Air Act.

• He has "a suspicion" that Mt. St. Helens has probably released more sulfur dioxide than has been released in the last 10 years by automobile driving "or things of that kind that people are so concerned about."

• Trees produce a pollutant, nitrogen oxide.

• A health spa at the turn of the century tought a nearby oil slick at Santa Barbara, Calif. Reagan quoted an advertisement saying, "Prevailing winds blowing across a large oil slick off the coast purified the air and prevented the spread of infectious disease."

To make matters worse, Reagan first denied, then affirmed his statement that air pollution is substantially under control in this country.

Late-night comedians were handed a punchline — as if any were needed — when Reagan's plane was forced to divert from Burbank Friday because thick smog closed the airport.

On arrival in Los Angeles, Reagan looked at the brownish-gray sky and said, "I think this is a very tragic situation and everyone here has my sympathy."

The city has been suffering under 10 days of smog that sent victims of asthma, emphysema and bronchitis to the hospitals, that is, when they dared leave their homes. People were trying to purchase oxygen supplies. It was the worst attack of smog in ten years.

About Mt. St. Helens, Reagan was also pitifully off-base. The volcano has emitted an average of 1,500 tons of sulfur dioxide per day for the past 100 days.

All man-made sources in the country emit 81,000 tons per day, according to the Environmental Protection Agency. By the way, those sources are principally thermal power plants, not cars, which produce other pollutants, not sulfur dioxide.

On the subject of nitrogen oxide, Reagan was even more wrong. The compound is not a pollutant and comes from soil bacteria, not trees.

As shown by the health problems caused by the smog in Los Angeles, attempts to clean up the air can, and do, save and improve lives.

Blunders aside, if Reagan does not recognize this simple fact, he does not deserve support from the millions of Americans who want a decent environment.

Reagan's claim that the pursuit of this goal has closed factories and put people out of work is debatable and another matter entirely.

Someone who is misinformed and misunderstands the subject should not be chosen to lead the country in weighing the costs and benefits of pollution control.

Hey, how about a grant

WILDER — I have been invited to attend a seminar on "Developing, Securing and Managing Grants."

The program will "improve your grant writing skills... provide you with information and statistics for finding untapped 'hidden dollars,' etc." The seminar has a bargain price of only $185. If a person were shrewd enough, he could probably charge that off to the taxpayer.

From the looks of the latest batch of federal aid applications, a lot of grant writers must have been going to school. Some of the proposals bear on the genius.

My favorite for this three-month period is $100,000 to "serve 30 individuals who have been incarcerated for three or more years in the Idaho State Pen and are soon to be eligible for parole." A nice reward for some... after last summer's behavior.

- Others receiving honorable mention include:
  - 1) $17,900 to determine population status of endangered or threatened species.
  - 2) $178,800 to train hunters and shooters in gun safety.
  - 3) $33,333 to look at the "secondary and tertiary" effects of railroad abandonment in the state.

4) A million and a half dollars for Maternal and Child Health Services (for high-risk mothers, et al). Idaho has 4 of 1 percent of the nation's population. If the rest of the nation is rewarded accordingly, this program costs federal taxpayers nearly $400 million.

5) $24,000 to provide summer recreation opportunities to farmworkers — in three states — What about other worker's kids?

6) $70,810 for a planning grant, one purpose of which is to assist local governments — in applying — for grants-in-aid. Perpetual-motion has been discovered.

7) $80,000 for "Development of a comprehensive model for quantitative evaluation of energy programs including development of appropriate techniques, a format for ongoing implementation and an assessment of the ongoing resources necessary to maintain such a program." Run that one by me again: $80,000 for "Development of a comprehensive model for quantitative evaluation..." They lost me again. I can't follow bureaucracy.

Another caters to the needs and desires of "small business." Through a grant, regional and state conferences are being held to hear the gripes of the taxpaying small businessmen. One question being asked is: "Are you tired of how your tax dollars are being spent?" Yes, I am, on this and other worthless federal grants.

I've listed only a few of the recent applicants. Each of these programs benefit certain people. Individually, they have merit. But taken as a whole, they tend to factionalize legitimate efforts to help the unfortunate and solve social problems. Our federal government, far from practicing economy, is lading out the largesse with a bigger and bigger spoon.

In the meantime, private ingenuity, the hallmark of the American System, is being cast upon the scrap heap in favor of total government reliance. The day of reckoning can't be far away.

Phillip E. Batt is Idaho's lieutenant governor.

The Redskin blues

WASHINGTON — Something happens to a town when it has a losing football team.

The people become embittered, irrational and, in some cases, downright spiteful. Now it isn't as serious if the team has a franchise in Green Bay, or New Orleans — but when that team is located in Washington, D.C., and is called the Redskins, it can affect every man, woman and child in the city.

Monday morning is the most dangerous time of all, because that is when most of us still have the bitter taste of defeat in our mouths. People wander around the government offices snapping and snarling at each other, and purposely spilling cooler water on each other's shoes. Anyone who is waiting for a decision from Washington could become an innocent victim of what psychiatrists call "The Washington Redskin Blues."

Here is how anyone could be affected. "Oh, there is a letter here from a World War I veteran who says he hasn't received his check for four months."

"Isn't that just too bad? Let him wait like everybody else. He has his job, he wouldn't be looking for his government handout every month."

Over at the EPA, they are about to make a multi-million-dollar decision on a project to be built in Philadelphia. The person who made the study reports, "Philadelphia has met all our standards and qualifications."

"Impossible. Everyone knows if they met all our standards and regulations, it would be impossible to build the thing. I say we don't give them the go-ahead."

"What will we tell them?"

"To appease our decision like everybody else."

"But that'll be so disappointed in Philadelphia."

"They should have thought of that when they cheered the Eagles while they were trouncing us yesterday afternoon."

Over at the Federal Home Loan Bank:

"Would you like a cup of coffee, Mr. Zack?"

"Yes, Miss Thatcher, and you also might like Higgins to raise the home loan rate another point. I never saw so many holding penalties by an offensive line in my life."

"Send me, Mr. Zack."

"Never mind. I was just thinking out loud."

Over at the SEC, a Redskin fan picks up the phone.

"Hello. I'm turning your company's file over to the Justice Department for criminal anti-trust violations... No, I have no intention of telling you why. If you saw the game yesterday on television, you wouldn't be asking me a stupid question like that."

The Department of Agriculture has the following to offer:

"The cotton farmers in Texas are still waiting for our decision on how much support we will give them this year, because of the drought. If they don't get an answer soon, they could go under."

"Tell them we'll give them $500 million. If the Dallas Cowboys will give us Tony Dorsett and the Houston Oilers trade us Earl Campbell."

"Is that legal?"

"Probably not. But we have to get some running backs if we ever hope to beat anybody this year."

The most dangerous place of all to be when the Redskins are losing is the Pentagon. They take their football very seriously over there.

"Sir, we've just received a report that a Danish fishing boat has been spotted in our territorial waters off Maine."

"Sink it!"

"Did you say sink it?"

"You heard me, Commander. I said sink it."

"But why?"

"Because Mark Moseley can't kick a field goal. Do you need a better reason?"

"No, sir, that's good enough for me."

The big question

Editor, Times-News: Steve Symms will support Ronald Reagan's efforts to strengthen the military cut the waste in government, and lower taxes.

Will Frank Church?

M.F. SMITH

He's inconsistent

Editor, Times-News: I know abortion has not even been an issue in this year's election, but I thought the people of Idaho ought to know Frank Church's stand on this issue.

In October 1976, the Idaho Statesman reported Frank Church as saying he supports the "constitutional right of pregnant women to get an abortion within the first three months." In May 1976, in the national Right to Life news, he states, "I favor abortion and would support a properly drawn Constitutional amendment to return to the states jurisdiction over this matter."

On April 19, 1970, in the Idaho Statesman, Church called for federal assistance in family planning because he says "The human species is multiplying like a malignant tumor in its terminal phase."

Church voted against federally funded abortions on June 29, 1977, and July 18, 1979. Church voted for federally funded abortions on June 28, 1976, and Aug. 25, 1976.

On Feb. 3, 1979, he states: "My stand has never wavered on abortion." How many other issues is Frank Church inconsistent on?

You want this?

Editor, Times-News: Are you so sure the "sheepman," Laird Noh, will make a great state senator?

Have you seen our pasture land in the Charlie National Forest and areas in the Stanley Basin?

They've been sheeped into oblivion. There isn't any grass left for any type of wildlife except on the top of boulder mountains where the wildlife cannot exist in winter.

Is that what you people want in our forests — no wildlife, just sheep and cows? If it is, vote for Laird Noh.

Tired of rhetoric

Editor, Times-News: Frank Church and his Socialist cohorts have consistently voted to spend money — and my hard-earned dollars all over this country and the world to those pressuring us to "pay what we want or we'll go communist (to no avail — they go anyway) — and that's not incident to provide for themselves by self-denial expect us to pay their bills by our self-denial.

The American taxpayer who pays all his bills is being taxed at a higher rate than most of the people he benefits.

No doubt we have reached the point where taxes kill Americans' ambition without which there can be no progress or growth. The result is that the goose that lays the world's golden egg" is being worked to death.

Let's elect people to our government that vote as we desire them to, not as the great world planning elite-investor we stoutly hate. I'm tired of being told by Frank Church that I don't know what's good for me!

BOSTON — Let other people face into the one-issue voters.

I think we should envy them. At least they are voting FOR something instead of against it. At least they have decided. At least they are sure.

It's the huge camp of the undecideds we ought to worry about; the people who cannot even figure out how to decide. I think they'll march into the voting booth in four weeks with erasers in their heads, still changing their minds.

I know the pollsters call them the "volatile voters," but that's absurd. Their minds are not made of mud. Their materials; they are not ready to ignite, to march on fire to one campaign or another. They are the depressed voters who are shuffling through this month without enthusiasm to start an argument, let alone a fire.

It's not that these people lack an issue. We all have our issues. This year it is candidate we lack.

The bottom line for many undecideds is peace. I suppose there isn't any other issue in a nuclear age. If we blow each other up, the rate of inflation becomes moot.

The stories that scare these one-issue voters are about computers that break down and send missiles up. They're stories about wrenches dropped into bomb silos, and "strategic" nuclear weapons planned for land and "limited" warfare in all fields. They're stories about all the things that could go bump in the night.

Many of the peace voters I meet are women. But that is not surprising. When you look up and down recent history, as political science professor Marjorie Lansing of Eastern Michigan University has done, peace is the "real" women's issue.

In 1969, 64 percent of women labeled themselves doves while only 48 percent of men chose that category. By 1972, 70 percent of the women wanted out of Vietnam while 54 percent of men felt the same. Last year more men than women (43 to 39 percent) wanted to use force in Iran to release the hostages; more men than women (50 to 41 percent) think we are spending too little for defense; more men than women (66 to 53 percent) want to renew the draft.

There is, says Lansing, a highly identifiable swing vote of people, especially women, who will go with the candidate they believe to be least likely to get us into war. In a campaign that may swing on millivolts, this isn't a small factor.

But this fall it's almost impossible to pick a peacemaker. "That," says Professor Lansing with a sigh, "is exactly the problem. One of the reasons the women's bloc doesn't function is that the candidates don't make it simple. It's one of the problems not only for women but for everybody. It's why one-third of the people are still undecided."

In recent weeks, Carter has hung the warrior ribbon around Reagan's neck with some success. It isn't hard. In this newspaper office two weeks ago Vice President Mondale simply went through a long list of places Reagan wanted to send troops.

"Every time a country hiccupps he seems to want to suppress it not by lozenges but by American force."

It's easy enough to think of Reagan as a hawk. But it is hard to think of Carter as a dove when he harbors rifle-toting Brzezinski under one wing and a registration plan under the other. Both men seem to be in an arms race with each other, exploring the technological wonders of "defense."

Nor does Anderson's image sit well with his record. Reagan is still unbelievably — fighting the Vietnam War. But not so long ago Anderson supported the bombing of Haiphong Harbor and the invasion of Cambodia.

The world's fate is held captive by international veterans of World War II, from the days when wars could be won and one side was "right." How ever paranoid and isolated our old men-in-command are; the old men in the Kremlin are equally isolated and equally paranoid. The men in the White East hold grudges as ancient as their lands; every attempt to pick out a path that leads away from confrontation.

Yet among these three, no one makes us feel more secure in an insecure world. So, if there's a mood that fills the peace voters this year, it comes from Woody Allen's "speech to the graduates": "More than any other time in history, mankind faces a crossroads. One path leads to despair and utter hopelessness. The other to total extinction. Let us pray we have the wisdom to choose correctly."

The one-issue voters we have no candidate. They are left with nothing but a touch of black humor.

It's now proper for skirt to show under coat

WASHINGTON — It wasn't all that long ago that a woman would be most reluctant to head out the door with the hem of her skirt poking out — the least bit — from under her coat.

The effect was considered less than a well-groomed one, and, in a time when such things mattered, there was an unspoken admission that something — coat or dress — was clearly left over from another time. Now designers are creating coat lengths for skirt hems to unabashedly show beneath. Some styles are nothing but the old "car coat" or, basically, a long jacket. Others are tapered cutting off at finger-tip length. And the rest are about seven-eighths of the skirt length. "They are wonderful because they are so versatile," says Donna Karan, who with Louis del'Orto designs the Anne Klein line. "They work equally well over skirts and pants."

Karan, whose collection includes several short coats, favors a loose look with broadened shoulder and fullness through a deep, inverted back pleat.

Xanthomas are accumulations of cholesterol under skin

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Association

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm a 45-year-old female and I have trouble with recurring xanthoma in the eye area.
What causes this? I take four grains of thyroid in addition to four Atromid-A tablets every day. I have a high cholesterol and triglyceride count. Do these high levels cause xanthomas? Will diet control this? Does smoking cause these? I am a half-a-pack a day smoker. I do need to lose 20 pounds and I'm on a diet prescribed by my physician. I'd appreciate any information you could give me about this problem.

DEAR READER — Yes, xanthomas are accumulations of cholesterol underneath the skin and commonly they occur in little plaques or patches under the surface of the skin of the eyelids or in that area. You can have larger amounts of cholesterol accumulations and nodules other places in the body. Commonly, these are associated with a high cholesterol level and the tendency to form them is usually inherited. That's why it's frequently important to study the entire family group when such evidences of abnormal fat and cholesterol metabolism are observed.

I presume that you're taking thyroid because you have low thyroid function. Four grains of thyroid on a daily basis is a pretty good dose. Individuals who have low thyroid function are prone to have high cholesterol levels.
Yes, diet is one of the tools used to help control the level of cholesterol and does help in such cases. The type of diet used is discussed in the Health Letter No. 15-4, Diet to Prevent Heart Attacks and Strokes, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Usually dietary measures alone are not adequate to lower the cholesterol sufficiently in individuals who have xanthomas.

That's why you're also getting some medicine. Since you're overweight, I must stress the importance of getting rid of every excess pound of fat you can if you want to get your cholesterol and blood fat levels down to normal.
DEAR DR. LAMB — A friend of mine gave me a lot of vitamins but I would like your opinion before taking them.
DEAR READER — If you are eating a balanced diet and have no problems in digestion and have no diseases you really do not need additional vitamins.

However, I don't object to people taking an all purpose daily vitamin pill without excessive amounts of vitamins in them. These are sometimes helpful to people who do not eat adequately for one reason or another. The list you gave me looks like your vitamins will not be harmful. The water-soluble vitamins in reasonable amounts above your daily requirements are simply flushed out by your kidneys. The two vitamins we really worry about are A and D. These are fat soluble vitamins and can be stored in body fat.

Dear Abby

Harassment worse

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© Universal Press Syndicate

against women — it's who outranks whom. In other words, rank has its privileges. Now let's hear it from Columbus, Ohio.

DEAR CHARLOTTE: Respect, no heartaches, no sleepless nights, and an occasional "I love you."

DEAR ABBY: HARRASSED IN GARLAND, TEXAS, complains that there are numerous organizations to protect women against sexual harassment but none to protect men.

DEAR ABBY: HARRASSED IN GARLAND, TEXAS, sure got off some beauts when he listed some of the subtle (?) approaches bosses get from their secretaries. He submitted that men need some sort of organization to protect them against sexual harassment on the job from their female subordinates.

DEAR READERS: If you're between 17 and 30 years of age and looking for employment, use this checklist for interviews:

He describes himself as the president of a large corporation who is constantly being propositioned by female employees. HARRASSED says, "It's hard to reject these offers because rejection is the ultimate insult."

I couldn't agree more. In addition to the old "My car's in the shop; if you drive me home after work I'll pour you a cool one," add these:

1. Ask for at least $501 a month, plus free room and board.

Abby, sexual harassment means any—persistent, unwanted, sexual overtures for another. If someone makes a pass and gets rejected and that's the end of it, that is not harassment; when the passes continue, despite rejection, that's harassment.

"Let me buy you lunch."

2. Demand $300 for new work clothes.

"Guess what? I dreamed about you last night."

3. Be sure full, free recreational facilities are available—golf, tennis, theaters, pools, horseback riding, etc.

"Gee, you smell nice. Come closer."

4. Do I be harassed because you are without experience. Read the table and let it be known that you expect to learn a skill at your employer's expense with full pay!

I can understand how a male executive can feel uncomfortable saying no, but if he does, his job or income is not threatened.

"My husband is a swell guy, but he's impotent."

5. Don't be harassed because you are without experience. Read the table and let it be known that you expect to learn a skill at your employer's expense with full pay!

On the other hand, if a female says no to her boss, it may cost her an increase in salary, a promotion or even her job. And if she resigns, she may not get very good references.

DEAR ABBY: In a recent column you said, "The most important things parents can give their children are love, time, understanding, discipline and independence."

6. The punch line: If an employer agrees to all of these terms, you're in the United States Army!

DEAR S.R.K., AN ARBOR MICH. Today there are many women executives to whom male employees are subordinate, so it's not a matter of discrimination

But more important, what do you think are the most important things children can give their parents in return?

What's what

News broadcaster figured out quick way to altar

The widely reported case of old-time radio broadcaster Edwin C. Hill is not unique in our Love and Marriage's files on matrimonial matters, but it's extraordinary nonetheless. Hill got on a stretcher, struck up a conversation with a young lady he'd never before seen, solemnly proposed marriage to her, took her directly from the altar stop to the marriage license bureau, and then marched her straightway to the altar. No, not unique. But rare. Very rare. Most men do not an engineer their own weddings. They arrive at the moment either by accident or design not of their own making.

SALMI WOMEN

Q: Do the women of Saudi Arabia control their own money?

A: They do indeed. They have their own banks, in fact. As the men have theirs.

Q: What sort of animals can run by moving the front and hind legs on one side and then the front and hind legs on the other side alternately?

A: Only the cat, camel and giraffe.

Q: Did actor John Wayne gamble a lot? How about Clark Gable?

A: A lot? Not uncontrollably, certainly. It's a fact, however, that Wayne was a pretty fair poker player while Gable liked to shoot craps.

LARGE HAT

It was the custom centuries ago for an older woman to wear a large hat when accompanying a younger woman in public. Our Language man says this explains why the Latin "cappa" meaning large hat gave us our word "clapperone."

Early settlers of Australia shipped in automobiles by the thousands. To open up the vast island, they needed wheels. As over that island is quite dry, most usually, so the old cars remain well preserved. This is why Australia now is the world's foremost mecca for vintage car collectors.

His economic policy works, Carter says in radio speech

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter said Sunday his economic policies are now working and Ronald Reagan's "simplistic solutions" would lead to trouble.

In the first of three Sunday addresses on the Mutual Broadcasting System, Carter said his energy, deregulation and budgetary policies are leading to a brighter economic situation.

It was a paid political broadcast and White House press secretary Jody Powell said the Carter camp paid $2,000 for space on the 1,200-station network, which he said was chosen for its "coverage and affiliations."

Powell said he thinks Carter is "probably still a little bit behind in the popular vote," but "this is a situation that doesn't cause us great concern at this point. We think things are coming along pretty well."

He charged that Reagan's switches on the issues are "election year changes" and "death bed conversions."

Carter concentrated his announcement primarily on the upbeat.

"Our policies are working," Carter said. "The economic outlook — after this period of real difficulty — has now brightened. We see the beginnings of recovery, along with a reduction in inflation. The number of jobs is increasing. Unemployment is declining.

PRESIDENT CARTER ... first in series

He said, "If we try to stimulate the economy too fast, we may speed up inflation. High inflation triggers high interest rates, which choke off recovery — and we end up back where we started."

Carter, following his new style of muting sharp personal references to Republican Ronald Reagan, spoke of him by name only once. But it was clear Reagan's proposals were the target of many of the president's words.

"When nations fail to address their challenges realistically, and look for simplistic solutions to their problems, then they run into trouble."

"This is a choice that affects our economy," Carter said.

"That is why creating jobs and controlling inflation must go together. That is why I fought so hard to prevent a massive tax cut this year in the heat of an election campaign, and why I supported a targeted tax cut to be enacted next year, focused on the most urgent needs."

Carter repeated his oft-stated belief that the 1980 election goes far beyond a simple choice between two candidates or parties. But he phrased it more softly, making only an oblique criticism of Reagan.

"The meaning of that choice is not just in what we say, but in the consequences of our words, the consequences of what we believe, the consequences of what we will do," Carter said.

Carter spoke at the start of a week in which he will campaign hard in key industrial states in the Northeast and Midwest.

Preacher apologizes to Carter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rev. Jerry Falwell, a fundamentalist television preacher, apologized to President Carter Sunday for remarks he made about Carter's position on gay rights.

He said "it was a reckless statement."

Falwell, who heads a group called Moral Majority, also said he has not endorsed Ronald Reagan for president, although he plans to vote for the GOP nominee.

"I was asked — when pressed to the wall — for whom are you voting, and I did say Ronald Reagan," Falwell said. "I'm not endorsing any candidate."

Falwell, interviewed on NBC's "Meet-the-Press" program, likened the moral questions in the case of Rep. Robert Bauman, R-Md., who is accused of soliciting sex from a 16-year-old boy, to Chappaquiddick — where a young woman in a car with Sen. Edward Kennedy drowned.

Falwell was questioned about an "I Love America" rally in Alaska last March when he recounted a conversation he had with Carter and indicated Carter sanctioned the homosexual lifestyle.

Falwell's purported verbatim account differed substantially from a tape made of the session, a

REV. JERRY FALWELL ... Reckless statement

recording provided to the White House by Falwell.

Falwell maintained he had not lied about the conversation, but when asked if he had apologized to Carter for the incident, he said, "I'm doing it right now."

"I gave what I believed to be a parable of a president's position on gay rights," Falwell said. "I later said that I was in Tehran this morning and spoke with the ayatollah, but nobody thought I was there."

"It was a reckless statement," he said.

On another topic, Falwell said he believes that God not only hears Jewish prayers, but sometimes answers them. He has said he was misquoted as saying God did not hear the prayers of non-Christians.

Asked if he thought Bauman should leave office, Falwell said he had never met the Maryland Republican, a leader of the American Conservative Union and a congressional point-man for many of the issues raised by the Moral Majority.

"I think it would be inconsistent for me to do it because I didn't call for Mr. Kennedy's resignation after Chappaquiddick," Falwell said.

"I felt he (Kennedy) broke the law there. I think any normal citizen would have gone to jail there (but) the people of Massachusetts chose to forgive him and put him back in office. I think the people of Maryland should decide Bauman's fate."

Falwell said he feels "an obligation to bring this country back to morality," but opposes establishing a "Christian republic."

Kennedy ready to hit trail in campaign home stretch

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Edward Kennedy is back on the campaign trail these days in states likely to be crucial in the Nov. 4 election, but this time around, he's working for President Carter.

Aside from the many personal appearances scheduled in coming weeks, Kennedy also has made television and radio ads for the man who defeated him in the often bitter race for the Democratic presidential nomination.

A look at his schedule shows the lengths Kennedy plans to go for Carter.

This Wednesday, Kennedy will appear jointly with the president in Boston and later in New Jersey.

Kennedy plans to campaign independently for Carter in Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Michigan, Ohio and Texas — all states with heavy electoral clout.

On Oct. 19, Kennedy and Carter get together in Washington for a fund-raising dinner to help each retire his primary campaign debt. The next day, they share a glass at a New York City fund-raising dinner.

Beyond that, the Carter campaign has asked Kennedy to hold open his schedule from Oct. 27 until the election so his drawing power can be used to the fullest.

Billy visits mom

AMERICUS, Ga. (UPI) — President Carter's mother, hospitalized since Oct. 1 with a broken hip, sat up in an orthopedic chair Sunday and visited with her youngest son, Billy, hospital officials said.

A medical bulletin issued by physicians attending the 82-year-old "Miss Lillian," Carter said she "continues to improve in a satisfactory manner and on schedule."

There was no indication when she would be able to leave Americus and Sumter County Hospital.

Kuwait sees price stability

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Kuwait's finance minister said Sunday he does not expect OPEC nations to raise oil prices because of shortages created by the Iran-Iraq war, but he also called on Western nations to conserve "as much as possible."

Abdul Rahman al-Atiqi made his statements in an interview with the Beirut economic weekly Al-Nahar, Arab Report and Memo.

Asked if he could foresee a hike in oil rates because of cutoffs in supply from Iran and Iraq, al-Atiqi said: "I hope not. No one should be allowed to take advantage of this opportunity in the world oil market. I'm sure that the oil producing countries are very conscious of their role to put the market at ease."

The Kuwaiti finance minister noted that the Western industrialized countries also had a major role to play in keeping crude prices down.

"The most important role should be played by major oil consuming countries on two levels: Firstly, to conserve as much oil as possible at this time, and secondly, not to allow the oil companies to raise their prices on the spot market."

OPEC ready to hike flow

NEW YORK (UPI) — OPEC appears prepared to raise its oil production by about 2 million barrels a day to offset the loss of nearly 4 million barrels of daily exports from Iraq and Iran, Petroleum Intelligence Weekly said Sunday.

A 2 million barrel-a-day production increase would mean the worldwide oil inventory surplus — estimated at 400 million barrels — would last seven months instead of only four months as originally expected, the authoritative oil journal said.

The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries could easily boost its output by almost 4 million barrels a day if the cartel returned to 1979 peak production levels, PIW said.

"Despite the reasonably comfortable near-term oil outlook, some consumer nations are erroneously minimizing the supply impact of the Iraq-Iran disruption," PIW said. "They overlook the fact that the inventory surplus is a one-time phenomenon and that there's no guarantee how long the other OPEC nations will — or can — continue to produce large volumes of extra oil."

U.S. gas stocks start to shrink

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's gasoline stocks fell more than 3 million barrels to 255.2 million barrels in the week ending Oct. 3, the Energy Department said Friday in its Weekly Petroleum Status Report.

The report also showed primary stocks of crude oil and refined products fell during the reporting week in which utilization of refinery capacity dropped to only 79.9 percent.

The supply rate for refined products a rough gauge of consumption — was 15.9 million barrels a day in the four weeks ending Oct. 3, down 8.3 percent from a comparable period last year. The four-week supply rate for gasoline was down just 5.8 percent at 6.5 million barrels a day.

ON NATIONAL DEFENSE

Senator Frank Church

Senator "Scoop" Jackson

VS

Senator Church has invited Senator Jackson to Idaho to campaign for him. But on the critical issue of National Defense, Senator Jackson should have come not to "praise" Senator Church but to debate him:

- ✓ Church has a record against a strong national defense.
- ✓ Jackson is a strong advocate of a powerful America.

MILITARY STRENGTH

Senator Church votes to weaken our military strength.

In 24 years Church has voted on 60 amendments to cut defense procurement, research, and development funds. Church voted to cut 49 times — 82% of the time (Congressional Quarterly, "Senate Roll Call Votes," 1957-1980).

Senator Jackson votes to build our military strength.

Jackson opposed 45 of Church's 49 votes to cut defense funds; Jackson opposed Church 91% of the time. Jackson opposed Church's attempt to cut funds on the Trident submarine, the long range Tomahawk Cruise missile, the Navy's F-14 jet fighter, the Marine's Harrier close-air support aircraft, the Army's main battle tank, and the Air Force's A-10 combat support aircraft.

STEVE SYMMS, like Senator Jackson, votes to keep America strong.

Frank Church votes to cut our strength.

SALT II

Senator Church advocates SALT II.

Church voted for the Strategic Arms Limitations Treaty with the Russians in the Foreign Relations Committee (Congressional Quarterly, Nov. 10, 1979, p. 2515). Church told the Senate, "I believe that the SALT II treaty, on balance, serves the National interests of the United States" (Congressional Quarterly, October 11, 1979, p. 14331).

Senator Jackson strongly opposes SALT II.

Jackson is one of "the leading SALT opponents" (Congressional Quarterly, December 8, 1979, p. 2811). He denounced the treaty as "inequitable, allowing Moscow significant military advantages" and "politically dangerous, signalling U.S. appeasement and distracting Americans from the Soviet threat" (Congressional Quarterly, June 23, 1979, p. 1221).

Again, STEVE SYMMS, like Senator Jackson, works to keep America strong.

Frank Church is out of step on SALT II.

C.I.A.

Senator Church wants to weaken the CIA.

In 1974, Church voted for an amendment which its author, Senator Aboureck, said would "abolish all clandestine or covert operations by the CIA" (Congressional Record, October 2, 1974, p. 33477. The vote is on p. 33482).

In 1976, Church declared that "all covert activity unrelated to the gathering of essential intelligence should be severed entirely from the CIA" (Final Report, Intelligence Activities, Senate Report 755, 94th Congress, 2d Session, 1976, p. 564).

Senator Jackson supports a strong CIA.

Jackson voted against the Aboureck amendment to abolish covert CIA operations. Jackson wants the CIA to be able to conduct covert operations such as the operation this year in which "six Americans were spirited out of Iran with the help of the Canadian Embassy" (New York Times, March 19, 1980, p. A3).

On keeping a strong CIA for America, Senator Jackson and STEVE SYMMS agree.

Whose "friend" is Frank Church?

NATO

Senator Church tried to weaken NATO.

In May 1971, Church co-sponsored an amendment to cut American troop strength in NATO (Europe) by 50% — from 300,000 to 150,000 — in six months. Furthermore, Church declared, "I stand for doing it unilaterally" (alone) without requiring an equal reduction of Soviet forces in the Warsaw Pact (Congressional Record, May 19, 1971, p. 15900).

Senator Jackson opposed crippling NATO.

Jackson joined Senator Hubert Humphrey, former President Harry Truman and Lyndon Johnson and two-thirds of the Senate in denouncing Church's amendment. Jackson said Church's proposal would be "a great tragedy" (Congressional Record, Nov. 23, 1971, p. 42896), an act of "retreating into isolationism" (Congressional Record, May 18, 1971, p. 15560). Jackson condemned Church's plan as "preposterous" and "foolhardy" because it would "leave the President with only the nuclear button in his hand in the event of trouble" (Congressional Record, May 18, 1971, p. 15560).

On cutting U.S. forces in NATO by 50%, STEVE SYMMS and Senator Jackson are in step.

Frank Church voted against a vital program to keep peace in Europe.

WHEN FRANK CHURCH LISTS HIS VOTES to try to show he is for our national defense, ask him about his 49 votes to cut the "heart" out of America's defense capability.

STEVE SYMMS and Senator Jackson are in the MAINSTREAM on NATIONAL DEFENSE. Like most Idahoans, Steve Symms believes the best way to keep our children from going to war is to maintain peace through a strong America.

Hotel skeleton becoming church

HAILEY — Volunteers from the Magic Valley are helping fashion a church in Hailey from the abandoned "skeleton" of a hotel project.

The partially constructed hotel stood vacant for several years on the Highway 75 south entrance to the city. Seventh-day Adventists purchased the site, and have been steadily moving toward completion of a sanctuary later this fall.

Sunday carpenters, organized in "maranatha" groups, have come from Adventist congregations in Eden, Twin Falls, Jerome and Boise. Visitors like Orville and Edna Hamilton of Twin Falls frequently arrive in mobile homes for food and comfort.

Local members, some of them retired, carry the work forward during the week. Work parties are common in the church's ministry, said Reuben Beck, Boise, treasurer of the Idaho Conference of Seventh-day Adventist churches.

"Maranatha has several meanings, but was adopted by Adventist officials to describe work that 'further the cause of God and hastens the Lord's coming,'" Beck said.

Local Adventist members had wanted a church of their own for several years, said Evelyn Barker, Bellevue, church treasurer.

Their first choice was a log church in the country, Barker said, but county planning laws prohibit building churches in rural zones without a variance, and neighboring property owners objected that a log church would be a eyesore.

For the past two years, Seventh-day Adventists living in the Wood River Valley held weekly meetings in the upstairs of her home, which was unfinished prior to the efforts of a volunteer work force.

Work on the present site has had its share of blessings, Beck said.

Members interrupted their hammering for prayer when an approaching rainstorm threatened the project several weeks ago, he said. The clouds parted, although a neighbor who witnessed the incident said showers appeared north of town.

The protestant sect has only about 20 members in the Hailey area at present, Barker said, but they are optimistic about attracting new members and eventually using all of the four-room structure.

Ski season visitors have bolstered the Saturday worship to as high as 60 participants, and members anticipate a congregation of 100 or more once the new building is completed.

Church members from outside the area have inquired about retiring in the Wood River Valley, Beck said, but the nearest churches have been at Jerome and Gooding.

Hugh Cowles, a Jerome Adventist pastor, will also serve the Hailey congregation at first. Michael Jones, who recently moved to Hailey from Walla Walla, Wash., is helping construct the new church and will serve as its assistant pastor.

A church elementary school also is in the long-range plan, Beck said.

Maranathas are used by the church to construct schools, medical clinics and churches throughout North America, he said. While the practice is common, he noted that some church buildings also are constructed by contractors.

Hamilton said he and his wife tentatively plan to travel with three other families to Mexico this winter to help build a school there.

Safety patrol sought

Kimberly adults would help police guard crossing

KIMBERLY — Kimberly needs volunteers to guard the elementary school crossing near Adams Street for 35 minutes a day during lunch time.

The school board last week received a request from the mayor and police chief for a group of parents or other adults to watch the crossing, at least until a new school cafeteria is completed.

Board Chairman J.H. Smith said the request came from Police Chief James Campbell concerned the inability of officers to pursue traffic violators while on guard duty.

He said Campbell or an officer watches the school crossing from about 11:45 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. and that they have seen traffic violations take place nearby, particularly at the high school.

Because they consider the crossing their first responsibility, they must allow violators to get away, Smith said. "They would like to cover both," he said.

The board agreed to seek volunteers by sending notes to parents home with students, contacting the senior citizens and requesting public notification in newspapers.

Volunteer guards would be particularly needed while construction continues on a new cafeteria because more students are going home for lunch.

In other business last week, the school board agreed to combine the baccalaureate and graduation services on one day, hire a teacher for a gifted students program and schedule a special meeting to discuss how to hire a new superintendent.

The board chose Monday evening, May 18, for combined graduation ceremonies after no objections had been received from parents.

Board members plan to meet half an hour before next month's meeting to discuss how to select a new superintendent.

Vernon Exner will retire after six years with the district at the end of this school year.

A new teacher, Sue Feldhusen, will work one-and-a-half days a week with gifted students.

Columbus Day observed

TWIN FALLS — Columbus Day will be observed today by Twin Falls County offices, City Hall and most other business and professional offices.

However, it will not be a holiday for school children. The College of Southern Idaho will close, but the schools are open as usual. Banks will close as will post offices.

City officials say residents should plan to put their garbage out as usual; however, as Columbus day is not one of the holidays observed by Parks and Sons sanitation crews.

All federal and state offices will close but most stores plan on observing regular hours.

Burn clears sagebrush

TWIN FALLS — That smoke rising from the South Hills is not a late season forest fire.

Sawtooth National Forest officials say a sagebrush controlled burn has been under way in the Twin Falls Ranger District since Sept. 23. The final 50-acre section in Poison Gulch was burned Friday, according to Jim Prunty, district fire management officer. He said reseeded of the entire 300-acre burn also began Friday.

The project is a range-improvement program undertaken aimed at improving grazing and wildlife habitat. Prunty said. Reseeding is being done by helicopter.

Injured man 'stable'

BURLEY — Stan Tate, 26, of Rupert, was reported in stable condition in Cassia Memorial Hospital Sunday following a farm accident last week.

Tate was seriously injured Wednesday when he was run over by a tractor at the Simplot-Anderson farm near Oakley.

According to the Cassia County Sheriff's office,

Tate was applying anhydrous ammonia when the high pressure line to the ammonia broke and came through the rear window of the tractor he was driving.

He jumped from the tractor and was run over by the rear wheel.

His is being treated in the hospital's intensive care unit.

Alcohol workshop set

TWIN FALLS — Farmers who want more information about producing their own fuel should plan to attend a workshop Oct. 21 at the College of Southern Idaho.

The topic, "Fuel Alcohol on the Farm," deals with major elements of alcohol production including feedstocks, financing safety, vehicle conversion, permit requirements and demonstration of the fermentation and distillation processes.

The program will be held in the CSI Fine Arts Auditorium beginning at 8:30 a.m. and continuing until 4:30 p.m.

In addition to staff members, the Office of Energy in Boise will send an alcohol-fueled truck and farm-size still to the workshop for demonstration purposes.

Additional information is available from the Office of Energy-Idaho, 334-3800, or from the Twin Falls office of U.S. Sen. Frank Church.

County accepts bids

TWIN FALLS — A bid from Rangen Inc. of Buhl was accepted Thursday by the Twin Falls County Commissioners for a new 4-wheel drive vehicle for the sheriff's office.

The Buhl agency submitted a low bid of $4,540 with trade in of a 1978 vehicle for the 4-wheel drive vehicle.

The contract for the county range deputy other bids were submitted by Ace Hansen Chevrolet Inc., and Bill Workman Ford Inc., both of Twin Falls.

New customers affected

BOISE — New Idaho Power Co. customers face higher rates for line extensions and electricity under a new policy approved this past week by the Idaho Public Utilities Commission.

The policy, which goes into effect Jan. 1, 1981, calls for the first customer on a new line to pay for the extension costs above $1,000. The customer has two years to make the payment.

The new policy also calls for the next three customers, who come on line to share costs of the line. Part of their payments will be rebated to the first customer under a set formula.

Idaho Power will pay costs of the transmission, for service or meter equipment and lagging.

Previously, the amount of revenue Idaho Power anticipated from a line extension over seven years was subtracted from the customer's bill for the extension.

The cost of the extension would then be paid by the power company's customers, if approved by the P.U.C.

Commission members said this policy was once a benefit to all customers when plentiful power was relatively cheap to produce. But the new policy recognizes encouraging new, large hook-ups, especially those located away from existing lines, is not to the benefit of all customers, the commission said.

According to the commission's staff, producing new energy through new generating plants would cost $850 more per kilowatt than the average cost of producing a kilowatt from present power plants.

Board at Filer mulls bond vote

FILER — The Filer School Board tonight will discuss the possibility of a bond election.

The regular October meeting of the board opens at 7:30 p.m. with a public forum on bus routes and boundaries.

Also on tonight's agenda, the board will hear a presentation on elementary school curriculum.

The last classroom space was felt this fall at Filer Elementary when a large sixth-grade enrollment forced hiring of an additional teacher and conversion of a music room to a classroom.

Elementary music students are being bussed to Filer Junior High School.

Advisory panels due in Cassia

BURLEY — The Cassia County School Board tonight is scheduled to form citizens' committees to advise it on the need for building improvements and financing.

The regular monthly meeting begins at 7 p.m. in the district offices.

The agenda also includes a call for bids for the sale of three used buses; discussion of the 1980-81 Title I Project; requests for school trips; and revisions of the board's policy handbook.

Hansen principal, 58, dies at home Sunday

KIMBERLY — Hansen High School Principal Robert "Dutch" Sherman died Sunday morning at his home in Kimberly at the age of 58.

Sherman, who also coached and served as assistant superintendent at Hansen, had returned to work recently after becoming ill with a circulatory problem this summer. Barry Espil has been acting principal.

Sherman had been a teacher, coach and principal at Hansen since 1971 and superintendent of the Kimberly School District for 10 years before that.

He taught at Shoshone High School from 1948 to 1951, before joining the Kimberly school.

A native of Boise, he was a 1948 graduate of Idaho State College and received his master's degree from the University of Idaho in 1954.

Hansen Superintendent Garth Miller resigned Sept. 30 after Sherman returned to work. Miller told the school board he planned to resign earlier but had waited due to Sherman's illness.

Surviving Sherman are his wife of Kimberly and a son and a daughter. Funeral services are scheduled for Wednesday in Kimberly.

A full obituary is on page B2.

Class on tax keyed to farmers, ranchers

TWIN FALLS — A class on income taxes geared to farmers and ranchers will begin Oct. 22 at the College of Southern Idaho.

The eight-week course will cost $27 and will meet from 7 p.m. until 9 p.m. Wednesday.

According to Internal Revenue Service employee Robert Weaver, instructor, students will be taught about the information necessary for preparation of a personal income tax return.

Included will be Form 1040, schedules A, B, and F, with emphasis in the areas of particular interest to farmers and ranchers, such as record keeping and payroll.

Material will also cover meeting the early filing deadline for farmers. In the final class, students will be provided time to prepare their own returns and have them checked by the instructor for accuracy.

Ed Austin, CSI director of continuing education, said, "The class was specifically scheduled to start later in the season this year in order to accommodate a greater number of farmers and ranchers in Magic Valley."

The additional charges for personal income tax and small business income tax, will be offered at the beginning of the new year.

Austin said students should pre-register for the current class prior to Oct. 22 by calling the Office of Continuing Education at 733-9554, extension 244.

Burley man, 18, dies

RUPERT — An 18-year-old Burley man was killed Saturday night in a one-vehicle accident near Rupert.

A passenger in the vehicle he was driving — an 18-year-old Burley woman, was seriously injured.

Minidoka County sheriff's officers were withholding the names of the victims pending notification of relatives.

The passenger was in stable condition Sunday, having been transferred from Minidoka Memorial Hospital to a Pocatello hospital, officers said.

The pair was westbound about 9:45 p.m. east of Rupert and were approaching 200 North. But the driver was unable to negotiate the corner and the GMC "Jimmy" left the road and rolled-over, ejecting both passengers.

The driver was killed instantly.

The accident was still being investigated, but officers said the vehicle was exceeding the speed limit.

According to the commission's staff, producing new energy through new generating plants would cost $850 more per kilowatt than the average cost of producing a kilowatt from present power plants.

Calling for a policy that gives "meaningful pricing signals" to customers, the PUC also ordered Idaho Power to collect $50 per kilowatt of installed electricity for space heating and air conditioning and $50 per kilowatt over 5 kilowatts for water heating for all new customers.

Against that increase, the PUC moved to establish credits for energy efficiency measures built into each home. The credits, imposed to encourage conservation, would, in some cases, completely offset the $50 per kilowatt charge, commission members said.

Bills linked to Idaho waiting for Congress

By THOMAS KOROSIC
States News Service

WASHINGTON — Congress will face several bills of concern to Idahoans, when it returns in November from a hard month of campaigning.

Although it has been a busy year for congressional bills, still hanging fire are the regional power bill, a measure to head off a 160-acre limit on farms using federal water and the Russian grain embargo, lifted by the Senate but twice upheld in House votes.

Both the reclamation and power bills have passed the Senate, but await final action in the House.

Debate over the power bill was interrupted after several opponents stalled the measure in the House's final week. Arguments over whether the bill's provisions will encourage conservation of electric power and discourage new nuclear plants should continue to dominate the issue. The floor battle is set to resume Nov. 12, the day Congress goes back in session.

New life was breathed into the controversial land reclamation bill when the House passed it when the Rules Committee gave up its strange hold on the measure and cleared it for the floor. This move gave hope to legislators who say this is the legislation for their home states.

The Interior Department is threatening to enforce a 75-year-old law that limits the size of reclamation farms to 160 acres, a move that would cut off about 15 per cent of Idaho farms from their vital water source — federal irrigation dams and canals.

The entire Idaho delegation is supporting a revision of the old law in one form or another. Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, helped push a bill enlarging this exemption through the Senate earlier this year that extends the size of farms again. Sen. James Mc-Clure, R-Idaho, backed a slightly different measure, but agrees that an extension is necessary.

Aides to Idaho Republican Reps. George Hansen and Steve Symms say the reclamation bill tops their lists of unfinished business. Both have almost complete exemptions from the acreage limitations.

The measure facing the House gives a much broader exemption than the Senate bill, and critics say it goes too far by bringing large agribusinesses under the acreage limit.

Several congressional sources have called the bill a political time-bomb. But they say the elections will diffuse these pressures, bringing passage of some kind of larger acreage limit by the end of the four-to-five week lame duck session.

Although Idaho legislators say some of these measures remain crucial in their list of priorities, the congressional year has been checked full with bills close to the state's present and future welfare.

Perhaps the largest of these, the River of No Return Wilderness, cleared Congress in July, after a fight that saw Church and the state's Republican delegation on opposite sides of the issue.

As passed, the wilderness bill put 2.2 million acres in central Idaho under a roadless, wilderness designation and made special provision for cobalt mining on 39,000 acres in the West Park Creek region.

The final bill, supported by Church, drew fire from McClure and Symms, who backed a smaller wilderness and inclusion of so-called release language, which would free adjoining lands not designated in the wilderness from any future land-use restrictions.

A McClure aide said the state's Republican still hope to give freer access to cobalt mining in the wilderness and want to hold hearings next year on the feasibility of such mining.

Other bills of regional concern that have either cleared Congress or are so far along they're almost assured passage in the "rump" session are:

- A measure to exempt a proposed power plant at Milner dam from federal regulations. (The bill awaits final passage in the House.)
- Reinstatement of impact aid funds to education cut by the Carter administration in its 1981 budget proposal. (The funds, which compensate states with large portions of non-taxable federal lands, make up about 80 per cent of Idaho's public school operating budget — $4.8 million in 1980.) A measure pulling back all but $10,000 of the $7.6 million the administration hoped to cut from Idaho has cleared the House and faces what several staffers call certain passage in the Senate.
- The Bear River compact which reserves water in the southeast Idaho lake from diversion to states outside the Northwest, as well as an amendment prohibited all federal studies of water diversions. (Both have been signed into law.)

- A bill prohibiting export of red cedar logs which came as part of a larger fight to close loopholes in laws regulating export of logs from the U.S. (The cedar ban has been written into law while bills mandating larger log export bans have languished in committee.)
- Amendments to give Boise a way out of refitting old buses and buying new buses that give access to the handicapped, a recent federal requirement that threatens the city with either an expensive transportation tab or a cut-off of federal mass transit funds. (Several bills awaiting final action are expected to be amended to give cities like Boise which want to create special shuttle services for the handicapped exemptions from the federal requirement.)

Education malpractice suits predicted by Utah educator

BOISE (UPI) — A Utah educator predicts a future filled with educational malpractice suits as the public becomes more concerned about the manner in which children are treated by society, schools, the courts, parents and the community.

Paul Butterfield, an associate education professor at Brigham Young University, presented his views at a symposium for educators Saturday at Boise State University.

Butterfield said the court battles will continue as parents, students and even school districts try to define the responsibilities of public schools and the rights of the children who attend them.

A number of court cases already have dealt directly with the issue of children's rights — the right to due process in disciplinary matters, freedom of expression and the right to a public education. (The latter seems unlikely to change without new approaches from educators, Butterfield said.)

However, Butterfield had some recommendations for future directions schools could take to lessen the possibility of legal action against the educators.

Among the suggestions were:

- Use by school districts of a "total involvement" approach that would include students, parents, community members and teachers in formulating educational policies and procedures.
- Educators must be willing to be accountable for student learning and mastery of basics. Butterfield said the profession would have to police itself for ill discipline, incompetent and negligent teachers who would be the target of educational malpractice suits of the future.
- The development of curricula that would extend thinking and reasoning abilities of the student beyond simplistic levels.

Boisean charged in child's death

BOISE (UPI) — A Boise man has been charged with second-degree murder in the apparent beating death of an eight-month-old baby.

Tracy Lancaster, 23, was arrested and placed in the Ada County prison without bond in connection with the death of Crystal Michaela Viola Wilson. Ada County Coroner Mike Johnson said the baby died of severe head injuries late Friday at St. Alphonsus Hospital in Boise.

Federal officials want funds back

BOISE (UPI) — Federal officials want a private organization headed by a former Idaho Health and Welfare Department director to pay back more than $300,000, they say was "improperly expended."

The demand was made in September after the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services completed an audit recommending that all federal funding to the Western Federation of Human Services, Inc., be "terminated."

Since the audit, the federation — to which many Western state welfare agencies belonged — has collapsed. Its 250,000-member program in Seattle and Denver and a child-abuse project in Seattle have been turned over to other entities.

The Boise headquarters office has closed, and creditors inquiring at program offices in Seattle are given a post office box address in Boise.

The federation "didn't exercise prudent financial management," Norman Goldstein, grants director of the HHS Office of Human Development Services told the Idaho Statesman.

In Sept. 16 letter sent to former Idaho Health and Welfare chief and federation President Dr. James Antonio Bax, Goldstein said that unless the money is returned to HHS (for $330,005) made payable to the U.S. Treasury or a repayment plan must be received in my office within 30 days from the date of this letter.

In a telephone interview from a location he refused to disclose, Bax said there were no thefts or abuses of the federal grants the federation received.

The audit report, issued in April by the HHS inspector general's office, found that the federation received $138,000 in cash advances from the federal government in excess of anticipated outlays.

In addition, the audit questioned $161,819 in expenditures, and charged the charging of $76,000 in general administrative costs to several projects.

Included were inadequately documented or unallowable travel expenses, office expenses, salaries and conference expenses.

Inexpert board cause of association failure

BOISE (UPI) — Gem Health Association collapsed primarily because its board of directors was made up of consumers who lacked expertise in the health-organization field, a special committee report concludes.

The report of the special committee of the Idaho Health Systems Agency, Inc. said the health maintenance organization "lacked the expertise necessary to make effective financial and marketing decisions."

The committee had studied the organization since last spring and released the report Friday.

The committee also said if the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare had approved only one rather than two health maintenance organizations for a community the size of Boise, Gem Health might not have failed.

Gem Health, Boise's first health maintenance organization, filed for bankruptcy Dec. 31, 1979, after months of financial uncertainty and costs that were outrunning revenues.

The final blow came when HFW, now the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, denied the organization a $1.8 million supplemental operating loan and the state of Idaho denied the new employees — one-third of Gem Health's membership — from the organization.

Idaho women die in freeway crash

POCATELLO (UPI) — Two Idaho Falls women were killed in the rear-end collision of their car and a parked truck and semi-trailer Saturday afternoon on Interstate 15 three miles south of the Fort Hall Trading Post.

Killed in the crash were the driver of the car, Margaret Barger, 32, and her passenger, Janis Bulthorpe, 23.

Idaho State Police said the Barger car rear-ended a truck parked on the shoulder of the Interstate. The driver of the truck, Pete Marchus, 50, of Alberta, Canada, sustained only minor injuries.

Mt. St. Helens starts quivers again

VANCOUVER, Wash. (UPI) — Mount St. Helens quivered with low-level seismic activity at an increasing rate Sunday, possibly gearing up for another eruption.

The volcano, which ended two months of relative calm with occasional steam puffs and tremors beginning Thursday, shook six times Sunday morning during a five-hour period.

A spokesman for the National Weather Service in Portland said radar scanners had picked up at least one plume that rose to 10,000 feet during the period, although a thick cloud cover prevented aerial observers from making visual confirmation.

"The night man said there was a plume sometime before 6 o'clock, and it's very likely it came at the same time that the seismic activity was recorded," the spokesman said.

"There very well may have been others we didn't see because we don't have the personnel to watch the monitor all the time unless a really major eruption is going on."

Seismologists at the University of Washington, Geophysics Department said the first low-level "bursts" occurred at 2 a.m., 4:40 a.m. and were followed by tremors at 2:40 a.m., 2:58 a.m., 5:09 a.m., 6:50 a.m. and 7:06 a.m.

"All of these were small or low-frequency events that disappeared within 2-3 minutes," said the UW's Steve Walter. "It's presumed these are related to steam puffs, but since no one is up in the air, there's no way to tell."

"They're small — similar to the ones in the last few days," he said. "They begin as bursts and then trail off into a tremor activity."

Noting the increased frequency of the events, Walter said, "We're just watching it as closely as possible."

He said the tremors were still much smaller than those that preceded most of the volcano's five major eruptions. He also noted that previous "warning tremors" have been constant rather than intermittent.

An exception to that rule was the devastating May 18 eruption, in which the entire north face boomed down the mountainside in one swift motion without warning. The blast — exerting 500 times the force of an atom bomb — was heard as far away as Canada.

The eruption shot ash and debris 10 miles skyward and cut a 15-mile wide swath through forested land, incinerating everything in its path for eight miles. Thirty-four people were killed and 28 others are still listed by federal officials as "missing."

Four other "major" eruptions on the giant that roared awake March 27 from a 123-year slumber occurred on May 25, June 12, July 22 and Aug. 7.

Nature eases scars left by eruption

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nature already has started repairing the massive ecological destruction caused by eruptions of the Mount St. Helens volcano, with plant and animal life returning to the devastated countryside.

"Life is already returning to the land's resilient ecosystems," say three scientists who have been assessing ecological problems created by the explosions that rocked the mountain in Washington state.

The researchers, writing in the current edition of American Forests magazine, said that by the end of summer, natural reseeding had begun in the blast zone.

After the May 18 eruption, and later major explosions on May 24, June 12 and July 22, the affected area had the look of the lunar landscape.

The blasts scattered hundreds of tons of debris across miles of logging territory, snapped off trees and spill out 900-degree rock fragments to accompany a flood of bubbling mud.

But after recent inspections the scientists found, "Many plants were sprouting, including just about all the original shrubs that grew — from ferns and trilliums to huckleberry."

The three researchers — aquatic ecologist James Sedell, plant ecologist Jerry Franklin and research ecologist Frederick Swanson — are part of a team of scientists from the Forest Service's Pacific Northwest Forest and Range Experiment Station's unit at Corvallis, Wash.

In essence, they said the eruptions scattered a new layer of soil across the land, which can help the recovery.

"Natural seeding of Sitka spruce and red alder, as well as of a few conifers, will carry in the fall," they said. "But natural re-establishment of dense forest stands in the core of the blast area will take many decades."

In areas where the blast stripped away the ground cover, the soil remained fertile and plants are beginning to thrive once more — often growing back from "unscathed" root systems, they noted.

The once clear and cold streams and lakes are making slow but steady recovery from the onslaught of scalding mud, debris and ash.

Yosemite plans given official OK

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK (UPI) — A general management plan designed to carry Yosemite National Park through its 1990 centennial has been approved by the National Park Service and will be released publicly Oct. 31, park officials Friday.

The highly-debated plan, which closely resembles the 1978 document turned out by the NPS, calls for 90 percent of the park's 761,000 acres to be designated as wilderness.

Sims, Detroit hand hapless Saints sixth straight defeat

FONTIAC, Mich. (UPI) — Rookie Billy Sims scored on a 5-yard run and a 1-yard soccer-kick in the fourth period Sunday to lead the Detroit Lions to a 24-13 victory over the stubborn, but hapless New Orleans Saints.

Sims ran nine yards off right end and dragged free safety Tommy Myers into the end zone with him to give Detroit, rebounding from its only loss in six games this season, a 17-10 lead on the second play of the final period.

Benny Ricardo pulled the 6-6 Saints within striking distance with a 22-yard field goal just inside the 9:00 mark but Detroit drove 70 yards and Sims then made it into the end zone on two dives from the two.

Sims ended the day with 91 yards in 23 carries and also picked up 62 yards with four passes, including a clutch gain of 15 on third down during the Lions' last touchdown drive.

Quarterback Gary Danielson also bolted 31 yards to the New Orleans 12 to set up Sims' second score.

Fred Scott started the Saints with a 43-yard touchdown run on an end-around to break a 3-3 halftime tie 7:49 into the third quarter.

Quarterback Archie Manning scored New Orleans back into a 10-10 tie with 34 seconds left in the period when he drove the Saints 43 yards and hit wide receiver Wes Chandler in the end zone from the four for the score.

Rick Kane returned the ensuing kickoff 62 yards and three plays later Sims bolted in from nine yards out for his sixth TD.

Manning threw for 314 yards with 25 completions in 35 attempts and 11 penalties and a fumble late in the first half — despite two drives inside Detroit's 15.

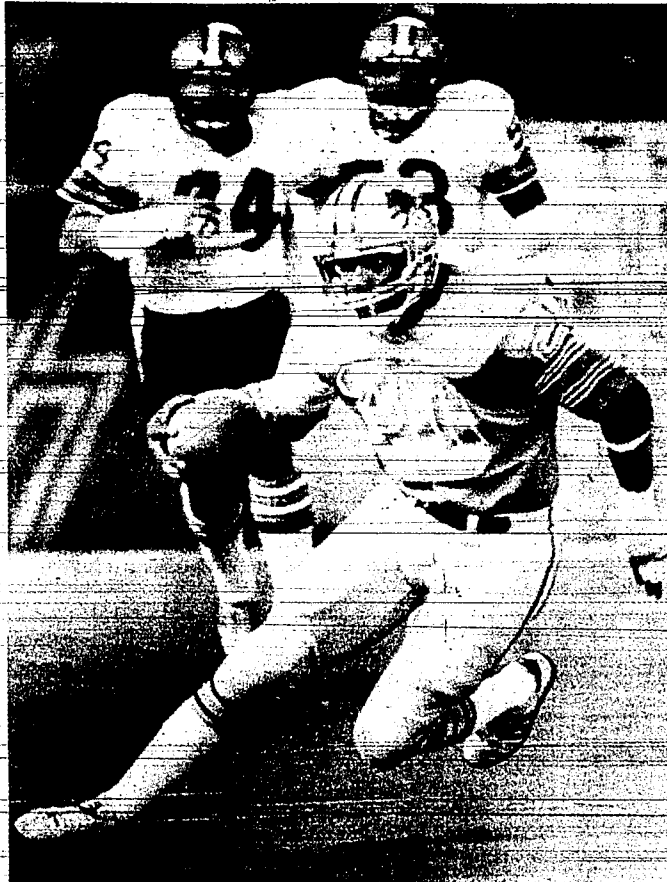

Ricardo kicked a 46-yard field goal on the first play of the second quarter after successive holding and clipping calls pushed the Saints from the 11 back to the 38.

New Orleans lost two fumbles, one of which came on the Detroit 41 when defensive end Bubba Baker hammered the ball from Manning's hand in an attempt for a sack. Linebacker Charlie Weaver recovered for Detroit.

Both teams finished the ball away twice in a mistake-plagued first half but Detroit tied 11-3-3 when rookie Ed Murray kicked a 31-yard field goal on the last play of the second quarter.

Detroit also got inside the Saints' 15 twice in a half but came away with just three points.

Lions' rookie sensation Billy Sims breaks through the Saints' line in first quarter action.

...but was unable to get past the 21 on the second time.

Going into the final period, Williams had completed only 1-of-10 passes for 12 yards. He finished with 6-of-24 for 103 yards and rushed for 49 yards on five carries.

The tie left both teams with records of 2-3-1 and prevented either team from moving into second place in the NFC Central Division.

Vikings 13, Bears 7

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — Ted Brown ran for a fourth-quarter touchdown and Rick Danmeier kicked two field goals Sunday to help the Minnesota Vikings rally to a 13-7 victory over the turnover-plagued Chicago Bears.

Tommy Kramer fumbled a 17-yard pass to Terry LeCount to set up Brown's 1-yard TD run on the next play with 11:13 left after the Bears forced to a 7-6 lead late in the third.

The Vikings' game-winning TD came after linebacker Fred McNeill sacked Mike Phipps hard and linebacker Dennis Johnson recovered his fumble at the Chicago 20. The Bears committed six turnovers to the Vikings' two.

The Vikings, 3-3, led 3-0 at the half on Danmeier's 35-yard field goal. They extended the edge to 6-0 midway in the third with a 37-yarder that just cleared the cross bar.

Chicago, 2-4, got 102 yards rushing from Walter Payton but used three Phipps passes to set up their only score. After an 18-yard completion to James Scott and a 5-yarder to Brian Buschugel, Phipps flipped a 3-yard TD pass to a wide-open Robin Earl in the end zone.

Cornerback John Turner sparked the Viking defense with three interceptions, which tied a club record. The Bears penetrated to the Minnesota 37 midway in the fourth but that was as close as they got as they suffered their ninth straight defeat at Metropolitan Stadium.

Payton, notching his 37th-100-yard game, carried 23 times but was unable to break loose for a long gain. In a 34-14 loss to the Vikings on Sept. 21 in Chicago, Payton was held to 39 yards.

Browns 27, Seahawks 3

SEATTLE (UPI) — Mike Pruitt rushed for 116 yards and two touchdowns Sunday to lead Cleveland to a 27-3 victory over the Seattle Seahawks, moving the Browns to within a game of the first-place Pittsburgh Steelers in the AFC's Central Division.

Pruitt, going over 100 yards for the first time this season, scored on a 2-yard sweep in the first quarter and added a 22-yard TD burst up the middle for the Browns' final score in the fourth quarter.

Pruitt, going over 100 yards for the first time this season, scored on a 2-yard sweep in the first quarter and added a 22-yard TD burst up the middle for the Browns' final score in the fourth quarter.

25-yard touchdown pass in the second quarter and set up the Browns' third-quarter touchdown with a 44-yard throw to Ozzie Seahawk four. One play later, rookie Charles White ran over from the 3.

Seattle's Jim Zorn completed 23-of-29 passes for 222 yards, including 15 straight completions at one point. But the Browns' defense, bending back passes, breaking limited. The Seahawks, now 3-3, to Erren Herrera's 29-yard field goal in the second quarter.

Cleveland, 3-3, taking advantage of upsets losses by Pittsburgh and Houston, moved into a second-place tie in the AFC Central with the Oilers.

Raiders 38; Chargers 24

OAKLAND (UPI) — Kenny King ran 89 yards for the go-ahead touchdown Sunday in the opening minute of the final period and 31 seconds later Todd Christensen fell on a fumble by Chuck Muncie in the end zone for an insurance score, paving the way for the Oakland Raiders to score a 38-24 victory over the San Diego Chargers.

The loss put the Chargers at 4-2 in the AFC West race and while San Diego holds on to first place, the Raiders, now 3-3, closed to within a game.

Dan Fouts passed for almost 400 yards but every time the Chargers got close, something happened to thwart a score as the Raiders battled back after a humiliating loss a week ago to the Kansas City Chiefs.

With Jim Plunkett passing the Raiders into position, Oakland scored on a 42-yard run to Cliff Branch on a 31-yard run by King, a 3-yard smash by Mark van Eeghen and a 42-yard field goal by Chris Bahr in addition to the two late touchdowns by King and Christensen.

John Cappelletti scored on a 5-yard run, Fouts passed 25 yards to John Jefferson and ran a yard for another TD and Rolf Benirschke kicked a 25-yard field goal for the San Diego points.

Rams 21, Cardinals 13

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Vince Ferragamo ran four yards for a touchdown and passed nine yards to Willie Monroe for another, second-quarter score and Gullen Bryant ran for 115 yards Sunday to give the Los Angeles Rams a 21-13 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

The win was the Rams' fourth straight and raised their record to 4-2 while the Cardinals fell to 2-4.

Ferragamo, the NFC's leading passer entering the game, finished with only 12 completions in 23 attempts for 99 yards but the St. Louis defense was unable to stop the Los Angeles running game.

Elvis Peacock suffered a pulled groin muscle in the first quarter but Bryan White had only gained 10 yards in the Rams' first five games, carried 20 times and Eddie Hill gained 73 yards on 16 carries.

After St. Louis pulled to within 14-7 on a 42-yard run by Gullen Bryant and Harrell with eight seconds left in the third quarter, Los Angeles put together a 13-play, 78-yard march capped by Mike Guman's 6-yard TD run.

The Cardinals cut the lead to 21-13 on a 23-yard pass from Jim Hart to rookie tight end Doug Marsh with 6:51 left in the game but the extra point by Steve Little, who missed two earlier field goals, was blocked by Reggie Doss.

St. Louis recovered a Guman fumble at its own 22 with 2:13 left in the game but was unable to move as the Los Angeles defense collected its fifth sack of Hart for a 13-yard loss. Hart hit 18-of-35 passes for 190 yards but lost 43 yards in the five sacks.

Patriots 34, Dolphins 0

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — Steve Grogan and Matt Cavanaugh each threw for one touchdown and a swarming New England defense allowed just eight first downs and 87 total net yards Sunday in rolling to a 34-0 triumph over Miami and dealing the Dolphins their first shutout in 10 years.

Grogan connected on a 33-yard scoring pass to Harold Johnson late in the second quarter and then led the game late in the third quarter when his knee sneezed flared up. Cavanaugh came on and pitched a 12-yard scoring pass to Russ Francis early in the fourth quarter. Don Callahan scored on a 1-yard run. Alan Clark of 14-yard run and John Smith added two field goals for the Patriots, who notched their fourth straight win in improving their record to 5-1.

Miami dropped its second straight 11-0 to 3-3 and held scoreless for the first time since Nov. 1, 1970, when they lost 35-0 to Baltimore. The Pats intercepted Don Strock and David Brodey twice each and had five sacks as the Dolphins offense could complete only 12 passes all day. The shutout was New England's first since a 31-0 victory over Seattle in 1977.

The Dolphins' defense led the New England territory just once in the game, in the last 30 seconds of the first half when they recovered a fumbled punt at the Patriots' 27. But they quickly lost 20 yards on a sack and a penalty and came up empty handed.

The New England defense, which held the Dolphins to four first downs and 28 total yards in the first half, set up the first two scores with intercepttions. Ray Clayborn picked off Strock's first pass attempt and returned it 29 yards to the Miami 17. The drive stalled and Smith converted from the 30 just 4:25 into the game.

Cowboys 59, 49ers 14

IRVING, Texas (UPI) — Danny White threw a career-high four touchdown passes Sunday, three of them going to Drew Pearson, and San Francisco turned the ball over 10 times to enable the Dallas Cowboys to produce a 59-14 rout of the sagging 49ers.

The 59 points equaled the largest single-game production ever by the Cowboys, who scored on nine of their first 11 possessions.

San Francisco's Steve DeBerg — who played the entire game — threw five interceptions and the 49ers tumbled the ball away five times during the one-sided affair in which the Cowboys kept pace with Philadelphia in the NFC East. Dallas is 5-1 and San Francisco lost its first straight after winning the first three.

Dallas rolled up a 38-7 halftime lead. Pearson scoring on throws of 16, 22 and 17 yards from White. Other Cowboys scores during the opening two periods came on a 1-yard run by Ron Spriggs, a 2-yard run by Tony Doss and a field goal of 26 yards by Rafael Septien.

White's fourth TD pass, a 12-yarder to tight end Billy Joe DuPre, opened the second-half scoring with Spriggs adding on a 29-yard scoring run and Robert Newhouse running over from three yards out.

White played only the first three quarters, completing 16-of-22 passes for 220 yards. Through the first six games of the season White has hit on 106 of 160 passes — a completion percentage of 67.5.

San Francisco's TDs came on a 52 and 18-yard passes from DeBerg, who played the entire game, to Dwight Clark.

The 49ers turned the ball over the first three times they had it — DeBerg throwing an interception to Charlie Weis and Tom Thurman recovering a fumble by Earl Cooper and D.D. Lewis recovering a fumbled snap.

Eagles 31, Giants 16

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (UPI) — Wally Henry set up three Philadelphia scores and reserve back Louie Giammona scored his first two touchdowns in four years Sunday, rallying the Eagles to a 31-16 triumph over the New York Giants.

The Eagles, now 5-1, trailed 16-3 at halftime but Henry sparked the second-half comeback that saw Philadelphia score four unanswered touchdowns. Henry set up the three TDs with punt returns of 19 and 14 yards and a 22-yard reception.

Giammona, the nephew of Philadelphia Coach Dick Vermeil, was injured in an All-Pro Wildcat, Montgomery. He scored for the first time since 1976 on second-half runs of 1 and 3 yards and rookie Perry Harrington pulled Philadelphia ahead in the fourth quarter.

Philadelphia's Ron Jaworski added a 6-yard TD pass to Keith Kreplife in the fourth quarter, the final period to complete the scoring.

New York quarterback Phil Simms ran 1 yard for one score and threw 15 yards to Johnny Perkins for another TD as the Giants fell to 1-5 with their 11th consecutive loss to Philadelphia.

Tony Franklin kicked a 41-yard field goal for the Eagles and Joe Danele kicked a 42-yarder for New York, both in the second quarter.

With the Giants ahead 16-3, the Eagles moved 61 yards in eight plays for a touchdown. Jaworski hit Leroy Harris for 13 yards and on 3rd-and-10 in the fourth quarter, Giammona caught a 25-yard swing pass — beating All-Pro middle linebacker Harry Carson. The 5-foot-9 halfback scored his first TD since 1976, when he was with the New York Jets, on the next play to pull Philadelphia within 16-10.

Packers 14, Bucs 14

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — Tom Birney, signed by Tampa Bay this week to replace veteran Chester Marcol, missed a 25-yard field goal in the last minute of regulation play and a 36-yard attempt in the final seconds of overtime Sunday to tie the game with the Bay Buccaneers to hold on to a 14-14 tie with the Packers.

Birney's first attempt with just over a minute to play in regulation time was wide left and his overtime attempt was wide right.

Tampa Bay tied the game with 4:50 left in the fourth quarter when quarterback Doug Williams scrambled five yards for a touchdown. Tampa's only other touchdown came on a 55-yard pass interception return by Richard Wood in the second period.

Green Bay's Lynn Dickey had a spectacular day, completing 35-of-51 passes for 418 yards and a 6-yard TD pass to tight end Paul Coffman in the second quarter. Dickey also set up Green Bay's first touchdown, a 3-yard run by Terrell Middleton.

Green Bay took the kickoff in overtime and had three possessions. On the third, Dickey drove to Tampa Bay by setting up Birney's attempt.

Tampa Bay had two opportunities, driving to the Green Bay 39 on the

Fuller, Chiefs stun Oilers on broken play

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Quarterback Steve Fuller scrambled 38 yards for a touchdown on a broken play Sunday to lead the Kansas City Chiefs to a stunning 21-20 upset victory over the Houston Oilers.

Ken Stabler hit tight end Mike Beard for a 27-yard touchdown pass to cap a 5-yard drive that put the Oilers ahead 14-13 with 8:05 left. But Fuller moved the Chiefs 76 yards in 10 plays to hand the Oilers their second straight loss and drop them to 3-3. Fuller was trapped in the pocket but rolled left to evade end Jesse Baker and with an open field in front of him outstrung safety Jack Talum for his first touchdown of the season to give Kansas City its second straight win and raise the Chiefs' record to 2-4.

Fuller's efforts resulted in a brilliant performance by Houston's Earl Campbell, who rushed a club-record 38 times for 178 yards and a touchdown. Tom Fritsch rounded out the Oilers' scoring with field goals of 41 and 46 yards.

Houston led 10-0 at halftime but Kansas City got back into the game in the second half by moving 70 yards in six plays after the kickoff to score on a 31-yard pass from Fuller to Henry Marshall.

Three plays later, linebacker Gary Spaul picked off a Stabler pass and returned it 47 yards for a touchdown to put the Chiefs ahead 14-10. It was Spain's second touchdown of his 3-year NFL career and also his second in two weeks — having returned a fumble late Sunday in a game against Oakland last Sunday.

Spain also preserved the victory when he fell on Richard Caserio's fumble at the Houston 40 with 1:52 left. Caserio had just caught a 10-yard pass from Stabler but had the ball wrenched loose on a tackle by linebacker Whitney Paul.

Jets upset Atlanta 14-7 for first victory

ATLANTA (UPI) — Kevin Long, making his first start this year, rushed for more than 100 yards and scored the winning touchdown on a 3-yard plunge with only 1:32 left in the game Sunday to give the New York Jets their first victory of the season, a 14-7 upset of the Atlanta Falcons.

The previously winless Jets got a tremendous break midway through the final period when Atlanta quarterback Steve Bartkowski tumbled the ball away at the Falcons' 38. The Jets didn't score that time but kept the good field position when the Falcons were unable to get out of the hole and drove 50 yards to the winning touchdown.

Long, filling in for fullback Clark Gaines, who is out for the remainder of the season with a broken leg, picked up 22 yards in 7 carries during that winning drive.

The Jets, who didn't let the Falcons inside their 30 throughout the first three periods, led 7-0 going into the final period, having scored on a 3-yard run by Scott Dierking with 8:28 gone in the first period.

But the Falcons got their long scoring drive started late in the third quarter, as Lynn Call capped a 74-yard march with a 1-yard sweep with 12:49 left to play.

Atlanta had one last opportunity to tie the game but rookie safety Darrol

Ray intercepted Bartkowski's desperation pass in the end zone as time ran out.

The Falcons, falling to 3-3 and out of a tie for the lead in the NFC Western Division, were only a shadow of the club that knocked off unbeaten teams the previous two Sundays. Falcons' coach Lesman Bennett had feared that the Jets' 0-5 record might cause a letdown and had warned his team all week that the Jets were better than most believed.

Weber's on to its best start since '71

By United Press International

Weber State hasn't won the 1980 Big Sky Conference title yet. And the Wildcats may not even make it to this fall, but they're certainly off to their best start since 1971.

The Wildcats whipped Montana 39-21 Saturday night for their fourth consecutive Big Sky win this year without a loss, but they still face the tough and charging Boise State Broncos, Idaho and Northern Arizona before they can claim the 1980 conference title.

In out-of-conference games Saturday, Boise State downed Idaho 42-21 in a surprisingly wide spread game. Montana State defeated Idaho State 21-7, and Nevada Reno shutout Northern Arizona 41-0.

The Weber State-Montana game wasn't even close as the Wildcats ran up a 38-0 lead before running in their backup players and giving the Grizzlies a chance to score three touchdowns in the final seven minutes.

The win was Weber State's first ever over Montana in Ogden, but the Wildcats still trail in the 19-game series 1-4.

Boise State and Nevada Reno - 3-1 and 2-1 respectively in league play - are apparently the only teams with a chance to stop the Wildcats' steamroll.

"We finally got some offense generated on this team," said Weber State Coach Pete Riehman after the game. "And we didn't have to rely so much on our defense because our offense was able to control the ball like I had hoped it would at the beginning of the year."

Riehman also said WSC quarterback Bill Tantillo had his best game of the season in his steady drive toward perfection.

Tantillo passed for 229 yards and three touchdowns in leading Weber State to a 31-0 lead over Montana. He threw a pair of 27-yard touchdown passes to Curt Miller and a 17-yarder to Duane Benton.

Willie Glasper got the Wildcats moving, following a scoreless first quarter, by plunging one yard for a touchdown to open the second period. And, after Tantillo left the game, Rich McKee came in to lead the fourth quarter to throw a 29-yard touchdown pass to Phil Prince. WSC's other score came on a 35-yard field goal by Roger Ruzek.

Backup quarterback Curt McGinness led Montana's rally, passing for two TDs - to Mike Ales and Brad Dantle - and plunging one yard for the Grizzlies' final score.

Montana is now 0-3 in the Big Sky and 1-4 on the season, and tied with Idaho State for last place in the league standings.

Defensive back Bob King ran back an interception 41 yards for a touchdown and fullback Jeff Davis got Montana's only score on a 17-yard touchdown with runs of three and two yards in the Bobcat win at Bozeman, Mont.

The Bengals finally got on the scoreboard late in the fourth quarter when Mike McClure tossed a 17-yard touchdown pass to Charles Ewing.

Running back John Vicari scored three Nevada-Reno touchdowns and a two-point conversion in leading the Wolf Pack to its first win over Northern Arizona at Reno.

It was the first time the Lumberjacks have been shut out since 1976. The Wolf Pack defense held Northern Arizona to just 17 yards. Vicari finished the game with 127 yards on 21 carries. He scored on runs of 15 and five yards and caught a 5-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Jeff Arnold.

Senior Cedric "Super Cuff" Minter rushed for 170 yards and four Boise State touchdowns in the Broncos' easy win over Idaho at Boise.

Minter's scores were from seven, two, seven and 22 yards out, giving him 40 career touchdowns at BSU and more than 4,000 yards rushing. Terry Zahner rushed for BSU's other two touchdowns in the runaway.

Ken Hobart ran three yards for one Idaho touchdown, and backup quarterback Mark Vigil threw for two touchdowns. He had 170 yards for his little and to late.

Next weekend, Weber State goes after Big Sky win No. 5 at Northern Arizona in Flagstaff. In other league action, Idaho State is at Idaho, and Idaho State hosts Montana State.

In non-conference games, Boise State hosts Fullerton State and Nevada-Reno is at home against Northridge State.

Colorado St., Utah lead WAC action

United Press International

It's only normal for things to be up in the air in the Western Athletic Conference with its miles of passing yards accumulated each football season.

But it's been a long time since the league title has been so much up for grabs with four teams within a game of the Colorado State lead. The Utah Utes who have taken over first place.

Colorado State's 31-26 victory over New Mexico and Utah's 31-7 over Texas-Del Paso this past weekend have put the Rams and Utes with perfect 2-0 conference records. But looming a halfgame out are New Mexico and Brigham Young with 2-1 marks.

Texas-Del Paso of San Diego State is one yard behind at 1-1, but still very much in the race.

The Rams, behind the throwing arm of quarterback Steve Fairchild and the flawless hands of receiver Tony Coakley, scored on four straight possessions, including their first three of the second half to go ahead of New Mexico 31-14 Saturday.

Despite losing quarterback Brad Wood for the season, the Lobos scored two last-quarter touchdowns and ran out of downs on the CSU 28 trying for their third Wright-ended his college career with a broken collarbone that will sideline him for the remainder of the season.

Robin Gabriel, son of former Los Angeles Ram and Philadelphia Eagle quarterback Roman Gabriel, repeated his high school success on six of 12 passing attempts for 76 yards.

Brigham Young won its fourth consecutive game since its opening loss in New Mexico, crushing Wyoming 52-14.

Jim McMahon, the leading NCAA passer in the country going into the game, threw for four touchdowns and 406 yards, giving him his fourth consecutive game with more than 300 yards in total offense.

He needs a 300-yard performance this week to tie BYU's Marc Wilson for the NCAA record for most consecutive 300-yard games for the Houston Oilers.

In non-conference action the WAC won two of three games, including Air Force's 21-20 victory over Navy in an annual service game.

In other non-conference action, Hawaii improved its record to 3-2 with a 16-13 win over West Virginia while San Diego State fell to 1-4, losing to Utah in the Vegas 28-17.

The Rebels, who are still awaiting approval by the WAC's President's Council to enter the conference, are now 4-1 on the season.

Devils ruin RR's homecoming bid

MALTA - The Murtaugh Red Devils pulled away with a pair of fourth quarter touchdowns to ruin the Rebels' homecoming 37-21 Saturday night.

The teams battled nearly evenly through the first three quarters, but Murtaugh held a sparse lead throughout.

Then in the final period, Murtaugh put together a time-consuming 69-yard play drive that culminated in an onside kick that failed. In the waning seconds, Roy Nebeker put six more points on the board when a pass was hit by a couple of Rebels players who went for the score that tied the game.

Murtaugh drew first blood on a 19-yard scamper by quarterback Brad Wood for the first time in his career. He then hit the two-point conversion. But before the first period ended, Wallace hit Wade Smith on a 29-yard scoring pass to Pat Falley. The striker run failed and Murtaugh stayed ahead 6-0.

The Red Devils moved ahead again when the Nebeker-Kimberly combination clicked for 24 yards and a touchdown. The Rebels regained the conversion success.

But Ratter's Udy gathered in the ensuing kickoff on his 16 and romped 24 yards for the touchdown. The run failed.

Murtaugh countered late in the half on a 10-yard pass to lead 22-12 at intermission.

The only scoring in the third quarter was provided on a 25-yard field goal by Todd Erickson.

Militant Jews injure leader of neo-Fascist band in clash

RAMBOUILLET, France (UPI) — Militant Jewish youths armed with knives and clubs surrounded and attacked members of a neo-Fascist group Sunday, injuring the head of the organization and one of his followers.

It was the second violent outburst aimed at ultra-rightists following the Oct. 3 bombing outside a Paris synagogue that killed four people and sparked a national outcry over a recent wave of attacks against Jews.

member of the group were taken to a hospital for treatment.

The attack occurred when a group of about 30 Jewish militants surrounded Fredriksen and three or four of his followers at the railroad station in Rambouillet, about 30 miles from Paris, witnesses said.

The youths fled after the attack and anonymous callers to news agencies later claimed the "Jewish Resistance Movement" was responsible for the attack.

"Ten days after the Rue Copernic (synagogue) massacre, we inform the French public and the French police that these same neo-Nazis were training with firearms in the forest," the callers said. "The Jewish Community has rebelled. What are the public powers going to do?"

The FNE was organized last month after another organization in which Fredriksen was active was banned for neo-Nazi activities. Officials of two police unions have charged that at least 30 police officers belonged to the banned group.

Last weekend, an 84-year-old man with the same last name as a well-known ultra-right figure had acid thrown in his face in an attack claimed by the Jewish Defense Brigades.

Fraser government lags as Australian campaign closes

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI) — Australia's national election campaign entered its final week Sunday with Prime Minister Malcolm Fraser's government trailing slightly in the polls.

About 9 million people are eligible to vote in the elections Saturday in which Australia's military relationship with the United States has become a major issue.

In the latest Gallup poll, published Saturday, Fraser's Liberal National Country Party coalition trailed Labor by a scant 49-51 percent — a boost for the 50-year-old prime minister who was behind by a wider margin earlier in the campaign.

Fraser's politically conservative coalition has emphasized tight economic management and lowering the current inflation rate of 10 percent in its campaign.

The Labor party, led by William Hayden, 47, says it elected it will spend federal money to reduce the current 6 percent unemployment rate. Immediately cut income taxes and freeze the price of gasoline for 12 months.

N. Korea outlines union plan

TOKYO (UPI) — Communist North Korea's President Kim Il-Sung said Sunday the overthrow of the "military fascist" regime in South Korea is a major condition for the unification of the divided country.

He also called for the destruction of all defenses on the common border and the demobilization of most of the armed forces.

North Korea's official Central News Agency said the latest statement from Kim was a clarification of a 10-point program for reunification he unveiled Friday at the Sixth Congress of the nation's ruling Worker's (Communist) Party.

The congress, the party's first in 10 years, ends today.

Observers have predicted that Kim's son, Kim Jong-Il, will be formally named heir apparent to the nation's leadership and will receive an expanded role in the party. The older Kim, 67, has ruled North Korea since it was founded 35 years ago at the end of World War II.

"It is imperative to abolish the military demarcation line, dismantle all military installations in the vicinity, dissolve militia organizations in both parts and forbid military training of civilians," the agency quoted Kim as saying.

He said both Koreas should demobilize most of their armed forces, leaving armies of 100,000 to 150,000 men on each side. South Korea currently has an estimated 615,000 men under arms while the North's armed forces total about 510,000.

Kim said under a reunified Korea, both sides would recognize each other's different social systems and the north would not interfere with foreign investment in South Korea.

West Germans, Berliners rush for visits

BERLIN (UPI) — Thousands of West Germans and West Berliners streamed across the borders Sunday in a rush to visit friends and family before an East-German hike in currency exchange requirements makes it costlier for them to do so.

The drastically higher exchange requirements take effect today. For some in the West it will mean less frequent and shorter visits on the other side of the border.

Border crossing authorities reported traffic up by as much as one-third on a normal weekend. Some 20,000 people drove across the border at Herleshausen in Lower Saxony in 24 hours, creating delays of up to three hours at the crossing, they said.

East Germany stunned the Bonn government Thursday by almost doubling the amount of East German Western visitors must buy from 13 a day to 25, or from about $7 to about $14 at the official exchange rates.

For trips to East Berlin, the exchange requirement shot up almost four times, from 6.50 marks to 25 marks, or from about $3.50 to about $7.

Bonn immediately condemned the measure as "a grave setback," and Chancellor Helmut Schmidt said Sunday the move meant East Germany's Communist leadership was scared of the results of detente.
