

Health, welfare agency may be dissolved

By DAVID MORRISSEY
Times-News writer

BOISE — Should the State Department of Health and Welfare be abolished?

Drastic as that idea might sound, it will be seriously considered in the next Legislature.

What has triggered discussion of the idea are recent actions by Idaho local government officials.

Two weeks ago the Idaho Association of County Commissioners and Clerks, at their yearly meeting, passed a resolution calling for the department to be dissolved and its functions transferred to Idaho's 44 counties.

Last week the Idaho Association of Counties passed a similar resolution.

Both measures were approved by wide margins.

The effect of the actions by these two groups, who collectively represent nearly all county elected officials in Idaho, has been increased debate over the future role of DHW. Several legislative proposals have already been introduced. Many think the change is both necessary and desirable.

"It will have a lot of support in the Legislature," Senate Pro Tem Reed Budge, R-Soda Springs, predicted Friday.

Budge said the sentiment that prompted the resolutions is the same as that which prompted past questioning of the department. No one is trying to destroy the services the department provides, Budge says.

"But the department is now not accountable to anyone. We need to get this department back to where it is workable and realistic. Right now the department is like a big and unwieldy animal, you can't find its head or its tail. It is impossible for the Legislature to even get a firm control on the monies the department uses, what with all the federal dollars coming in and out."

Budge pointed out the two organizations that passed resolutions "have a lot of clout. If they really decide to push this they will have a lot of influence in the Legislature."

House Speaker Ralph Olmstead, R-Twin Falls, also predicted the legislature would consider changes in the department's operation.

"This is a matter that has been discussed time and time again," Olmstead said. "The audits of the agency and the Governance Management Task Force discussed it. There has been fairly broad agreement that there is duplication of administration and services within the department and that the duplication needs to be abolished."

Olmstead acknowledged past efforts in this area "had not gotten anywhere." But the next Legislature may be facing a budget deficit totaling as much as $60 million, he said.

"Looking at a budget deficit of that size means drastic actions are more likely than ever."

Olmstead said he expected the Legislature to at least appoint an interim study committee to examine the department. But it was also possible the deficit would create support for the decentralization called for in the resolutions.

What would such a move mean to Twin Falls County?

"Frankly, we don't know yet," said Twin Falls County Commissioner Merl Leonard. "What we were voting on is the concept of it. The point is we feel that we could administer our indigent fund in a more austere manner, that being closer to the people than the state's; that we could better determine who is needy and who isn't."

Leonard said he and all the Twin Falls members of the Association of Counties meeting voted for the resolution. There are still many unanswered questions about the transfer, he said.

The next step should be a study by the Legislature of the feasibility of such a change.

Still, not everyone is convinced transferring DHW's responsibilities to the counties is desirable — or that such a plan should become law.

Colors of the season

Autumn's vibrant colors burst through a leaf caught in a spider's web. The fallen leaf was snared on a bridge spanning the Big Wood River and leading to the Wood River trail through hills north of Ketchum. Its change in hue from the green of summer to the dramatic colors of autumn is one phase of the passage of the cycle of seasons preceding the chill of winter.

Near-debate centers upon foreign policy

By United Press International

A near-debate on foreign policy dominated the presidential campaign Sunday, with Ronald Reagan promising new SALT negotiations after a U.S. arms buildup and President Carter calling that policy a "very risky gamble."

In what aides called a "major" television broadcast just two weeks before election day, Reagan said perhaps the most important principle of his foreign policy would be to "restore the margin of safety" in the nation's military establishment.

But he also said he would seek to open negotiations on a "balanced and equitable" nuclear arms control agreement with the Soviet Union as soon as he took office, if elected.

"His position," Carter said, "is that by abandoning the current agreement and suggesting an all-out nuclear arms race, we could perhaps frighten the Soviets into negotiating a new agreement on the basis of American nuclear superiority."

"This would be a very risky gamble," the president said in a radio broadcast of his own. "It is most unlikely it would lead to any new agreement. A much more likely result would be an uncontrolled nuclear arms race, and almost certainly a new rupture in Soviet-American relations."

Both candidates made paid political broadcasts — Carter delivering his second of three Sunday afternoon half-hour speeches on Mutual Radio and Reagan speaking on CBS television Sunday night.

In addition, Gerald Ford, Secretary of State Edmund Muskie and Reagan's top foreign affairs adviser Richard Allen were interviewed on television.

But Carter and his former foe, Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., planned a little purely domestic campaigning later in the day, with a "Unity Celebration" dinner featuring a lineup of show business stars at a downtown Washington hotel.

Independent John Anderson, who said he was "perked up a bit" by his endorsement by the Miami Herald Sunday, campaigned in Evanston, Ill., at a counter-demonstration to a rally by neo-Nazis. He told the crowd, "It is a sin to remain silent" in the face of a new wave of anti-Semitism.

In Carter's hometown of Plains, Ga., about 700 people, many from surrounding states, braved a rain storm for a Reagan rally.

A new NBC poll Sunday showed Reagan's electoral vote rising to a 207-127 vote edge over Carter two weeks before the election.

The network survey showed if the election were held Sunday, Reagan would carry 24 states with 207 votes out of the 270 needed for election. Carter would carry 11 states and the District of Columbia for 127 votes, and the remaining 18 states with 204 votes, would be too close to call.

GOP draws bead on governorships

By United Press International

Election/80

WASHINGTON — Republicans, completing their recovery from Watergate, have won back seven governorships since 1978.

They hope to extend several more in November — including the office of West Virginia millionaire Gov. Jay Rockefeller.

Democratic strategists agree they only stand to lose in governor races this year, mainly because they control 10 of the 13 offices up for election. But they are hopeful they can hold the loss to just one.

Democratic Gov. Joseph Teasdale is considered by many to be in the deepest trouble, facing a strong challenge from former Gov. Christopher "Kit" Bond, who Teasdale nipped by a mere 13,000 votes in 1976.

Drought-stricken Missouri farmers have expressed disenchantment with Teasdale's failure to get more federal aid, and he has shown weak leadership.

Republicans are hoping to fully recover from the Nixon Watergate scandal, after which the GOP saw its tally of state chief executives dip to only 12 among 50.

Republican won back a net of six governorships in the 1978 elections, captured their 19th with Louisiana Gov. David Treen's victory last year, and could pull nearly even this year.

Democrats "would be very satisfied" if the numbers remain the same, said Roger Goodman, a strategist for the Democratic National Committee.

The only two Republicans running for re-election, millionaires Pierre "Pete" du Pont IV of Delaware and Richard Spelling of Vermont, are expected to win handily.

Besides Missouri, the GOP's next best shot may be in Washington, where Democratic state Sen. Jim McDermott defeated incumbent Gov. Ray — in the Sept. 16 primary. McDermott still leads Republican Decrease in U.S. oil output forecast over next 20 years

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A congressional study released Sunday concludes that U.S. oil production in the year 2000 may be as low as 4 million barrels a day.

That is a sharp drop from the 10.2 million barrels pumped daily now.

Congress' Office of Technology Assessment, in a pessimistic study, entitled "World Petroleum Availability: 1980-2000," said no increase in world oil production is likely, even under the best of circumstances.

"If OPA's projections prove correct, the United States as well as the rest of the world will have to fuel its economic and industrial growth without the seemingly limitless supply of oil we have had in the past," said John Gibbons, the group's director.

The study found it might be possible to boost world production by one-third in the 1990s. But it said increases are unlikely because Arab oil-exporting nations and Mexico, the countries with the best prospects for higher production, have little financial or political incentive to boost output.

The report agreed with a CIA study that concluded non-communist oil output — 32 million barrels a day in 1979 — could start dropping in this decade, and reach a range of 40 million to 60 million barrels in 20 years.

It also said daily U.S. production of 10.2 million barrels may sink to somewhere between 7.2 million and 8.5 million barrels by 1985 and decline to 4 million to 7 million barrels by the year 2000.

The office said declining production could cut exports from the Soviet Union, the world's largest producer, forcing Eastern Europe and perhaps Russia itself to compete as buyers in the world market.

"Production by the Organization of Oil Exporting Countries in the next 20 years should continue at its current level of about 31 million barrels a day, with the bulk of reserves controlled by Arab countries, OPA said.

Any increase in production by non-OPEC Third World countries like Mexico could be absorbed by rising Third World demand, it said.

Gibbons said the growing oil dependency dilemma "at the heart of the challenge to science and technology in the 1980s."

District 24 House candidates disagree on raising taxes

By LARRY SWISHER
Times-News writer

Election/80

TWIN FALLS — The two men vying to represent District 24 in the Idaho House of Representatives disagree on what taxes to raise, should that be necessary.

In the only contest in the district, Roy Brackett of Twin Falls, the Republican incumbent, faces George Anthony of Buhl, the Democratic challenger. State Sen. John Barker and Rep. Lawrence Kalige, both extending it to services. If it is removed from groceries at the same time, he advocated a one-time surcharge on personal and corporate income taxes as the fairest way to meet any deficit.

In interviews with the Times-News last week, Brackett and Anthony discussed their positions on taxes, the 1 percent limit, the Sagebrush Rebellion, education, and other issues.

Both agreed the 1981 Legislature could face the difficult task of cutting programs and services or raising taxes or both, because of the recession-caused shortfall in state revenue.

Brackett said the 1980 Legislature for the first time spent a state surplus in funding ongoing programs but that the $15 million surplus failed to materialize. He said he recommended against the action.

In the coming session, Brackett said he supports:

- An increase in the sales tax, if the state needs to raise more general fund revenue.
- An increase in gasoline and diesel fuel taxes to pay for needed repairs and maintenance of highways.

- "Probably" repeal of the homeowner's exemption on property taxes with a provision to make it automatic. But first Brackett said he wants "to take a look at the whole package" to see "where it hits everybody."
- On the 1 percent freeze on the budgets of local governments, Brackett said he wants "to see where the freeze is" and "to see if they have property 'not taxed more than before plus growth and inflation.'"
- Last session, he said he supported allowing "an eight-percent growth factor, but that was deferred in favor of a four-percent factor. He also supported an increase in property-tax relief for senior citizens.

Anthony said Idaho's state and local taxes over the past 15 years have shifted onto individual wage earners and homeowners.

Muskie rejects Iran demand warning craft be withdrawn

©The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State Edmund S. Muskie Sunday rejected Iran's demand that the United States withdraw its four AWACS aircraft from the Middle East.

He said deployment of the radar planes to Saudi Arabia was "in our national interest."

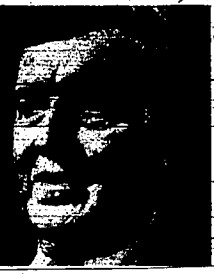

Muskie also said the United States could do nothing to comply with another Iranian demand — to prevent Jordan from acting in its own interests against Iraq — because Jordan is a sovereign government that can "make its own decisions."

The secretary offered no new concessions in the press conference negotiations that Washington and Tehran are conducting over the fate of the 52 American hostages in Iran.

Bul-Muskie reiterated that if the hostages were released, the United States would be prepared to discuss including the freeze on shipment of American-made military equipment that the Tehran regime has already purchased.

Muskie also implied that the United States might be prepared to modify its impartiality in the Persian Gulf war if the hostage crisis was ended.

Asked if he would support Muskie's said, "our position is one of impartiality. That may have to be adjusted as circumstances develop."

EDMUND MUSKIE
...still dickering

Muskie's appearance on the ABC-TV program "Issues and Answers" constituted the first formal response of the United States government to the demands, made at a news conference Saturday at the United Nations by Iranian Prime Minister Muhammad Ali Rajai, that the United States withdraw the AWACS (airborne warning and control system) planes from Saudi Arabia and prevent Jordan from aiding Iraq's war effort.

Muskie said he considered Rajai's remarks to be "expressions of concern" by Iran rather than conditions for the release of the hostages. But the secretary did not offer a U.S. move on either point.

"With respect to AWACS, we developed AWACS to Saudi Arabia at the Saudis' request," Muskie said. "They are—friendly—we share mutual interests in the uninterrupted flow of oil through the Persian Gulf and the Strait of Hormuz. We are interested in preserving the territorial integrity of the Saudis."

"It is purely a defensive piece of technology," he said of the radar planes. "It has the radar capability to longer distances than any capability which the Saudis had at the time. There is no offensive capability. The information, which is provided by AWACS, goes only to the Saudis. It does not go to either of the belligerents as suggested by Mr. Rajai."

Rajai had charged that Saudi Arabia was feeding intelligence information gained from AWACS to Iraq.

"With respect to Jordan," Muskie said, "we have said to Jordan as we have to all nations...that we are impartial, that it is in our interest and the interest of all nations to bring the hostilities to an end, to do nothing that would have the effect of widening or prolonging it."

skilled a larger percentage of the burden—onto homes—and away from the corporations and utilities which receive three-fourths of "many savings due to the initiative."

For example, he said utilities assessments have decreased in some heavily populated residences. He increased 125 percent. The budget freeze, not the initiative, has kept property taxes down, he said.

He said taxes need to be levied to offset the shift and list five programs he would like to see.

Make the homeowner's exemption permanent and increase the amount of the exemption to $200,000.

Impose a one-time surcharge on incomes taxes to bring the state through the present fiscal year. If an upturn in the Idaho economy does not materialize.

Extend the sales tax to services; if it is removed from groceries at the same time.

Institute an "extraction tax" on minerals, oil and gas that would be paid to the permanent school-endowment fund. Tying it to that fund, from which the state earns interest, would reduce pressure to exploit the tax for other purposes, keep property taxes down and leave the state with something to show for its non-renewable resources, Anthony said.

An increase in the motor fuel tax to maintain highways combined with better enforcement of the 55 mph speed limit.

On funding of higher education, Anthony said Lewis-Clark State College at Lewiston, which some legislators want eliminated, should be allowed to continue as a junior or community college.

Regarding the College of Southern Idaho, Anthony said he supports legislation to require all counties in the junior college district to pay their "fair share" for their students attending CSI.

Brackett said he questions whether the state should keep LCSC when it is so close to the University of Idaho and believes—the state's universities should duplicate.

In the last session of the Legislature, Brackett voted for a moratorium for two weeks to attend national conventions. He has been an officer in the National Cattlemen's Association and the Society of Public Health Officers.

He defended his action by saying he felt he should be informed about the industry on state and national levels and that he was better able to represent the people at home by knowing.

He noted Idaho has two million cattle and a large amount of grazing land.

Brackett said he would probably take the same action again depending on what was occurring at the Legislature. He said this past session "there were very few bills at that time" and most work involved committees and procedures.

Also in the last session, Brackett was involved in the controversy over minimum stream flows on Silver Creek, voting first in committee against the flows then in favor on the House floor. The flows were supposed to be a business that wanted to build a trout farm on the well-known fishing stream.

Brackett said he first voted against the proposal of the Idaho Resources Board because he wanted a study committee appointed. He said he voted for the measure after that fell through.

Also, he said he was concerned about the Silver-Creek-would-state-reclaim "if regulations were too tight" by posting no-hunting and no-fishing signs.

While saying the outcome was probably for the best, he said, "I don't believe a trout farm would have hurt sports in the area."

On the issue of the Sagebrush Rebellion, Brackett said he favors state ownership because of federal public lands on the condition they remain "basically in multiple use."

He said he believes it will be easier to keep public lands in multiple use if the state were managing them instead of "fastaway land."

"The Sagebrush Rebellion is people in the West getting tired of being told by Washington every move to make," Brackett said.

Anthony said he doubts enough safeguards could be implemented to "retain the public interest." The assertion by some advocates that the rebellion only applies to Bureau of Land Management land "doesn't carry any weight," he added, because no one knows what will happen if the rebellion is carried out.

He noted Idaho gains a net inflow of $50 million from operation of national forests.

Anthony believes the public would lose use of the lands to large mining, energy and other interests.

On another issue, Anthony opposes the present practice of the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory of injecting liquid radioactive waste into the Snake River Aquifer.

He favors construction of a closed cycle system at INEL and more state "say-so" in waste management.

Lava dome rising

Susan Russell-Robinson, a USGS scientist, said the appearance and growth of the new lava dome was associated with the fourth eruption Saturday afternoon.

Unions reach milestone

ROANOKE RAPIDS, N.C. (UPI) — Employees at J.P. Stevens & Co. plants overwhelmingly approved a contract with the nation's second-largest textile firm Sunday, marking a milestone in 17 years of efforts to unionize the Southern-based industry.

About 700 workers in the auditorium of Roanoke Rapids Junior-Senior High School leaped to their feet and yelled their approval when Clyde E. Bush, international representative of the Amalgamated Clothing and Textile Workers Union, asked if they approved the 2½-year pact.

Later Sunday evening, the three other unionized Stevens' plants, in High Point, N.C.; Boylston, Ala.; and Santee, S.C., also voted unanimously in favor of accepting the new agreement.

The contract will give workers—a 19-percent retroactive pay increase already granted at non-union Stevens plants.

Israel OK's oil agreement

JERUSALEM (UPI) — The cabinet Sunday approved the U.S.-Israel oil agreement signed last week in Washington but a leading minister said it was a "big mistake" rushed through by President Carter to increase his chances of reelection.

Agriculture Minister Ariel Sharon told the cabinet that Carter had wanted to take advantage of the signing ceremony to influence Jewish voters in the presidential elections.

Ads trimming legal costs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Lawyer advertising, long banned by the profession, is cutting the cost of routine legal services and has not increased frivolous litigation, a study distributed by the American Bar Association concludes.

The first nationwide analysis of the impact of advertising by lawyers since the Supreme Court ruled in 1977 that attorneys may promote their services, the ABA said.

Advertising by lawyers was effectively outlawed in 1930 when the ABA adopted a formal ban on lawyer solicitation. Various state bar regulations and the courts also restrict legal advertising on ethical grounds.

Cubans go on rampage

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A group of Cuban refugees smashed windows, threw furniture and set small fires Sunday in a three-hour spree at a mental hospital where they had been sent for police custody.

Police said the disturbance was under control by 5:15 p.m. Although officers and a nurse at the facility said there were no injuries, a broadcast report said two Cubans suffered minor injuries in the melee.

Donald Balbovy, an information officer for the Public Health Service, said the trouble started when two Cubans tried to leave the facility by climbing a fence.

He said about 70 of the 92 refugees were involved, either as plotters or participants. They had been sent from Cuban resettlement camps around the nation to determine if they were psychotic.

Issue divides Catholics

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — As Roman-Catholic prelates prepare a final document on the work of the Fifth World Synod of Bishops, it is increasingly clear that the church's total ban on artificial birth control will continue to divide Catholics for years to come.

Not since Pope Paul VI's encyclical Humanae Vitae outlawed artificial birth control in 1968 have church members been so clearly divided on the need for a reappraisal of the stand and so openly critical of the consequences of its severe totality.

Pope John Paul II called the synod, which is scheduled to end next Sunday, to discuss the many problems facing the modern Christian family but the spotlight quickly focused on the three issues that have alienated millions of Catholics — abortion, divorce, and the most troublesome, birth control.

Mayors, families visit

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Two Palestinian mayors appealing their deportation from the occupied West Bank were reunited Sunday for an hour with their families at a border crossing point.

Israeli authorities had refused their request to spend the Muslim holiday at home but the government marked Eid Al-Adha, the biggest feast on the Muslim calendar, by releasing 21 Palestinian prisoners in an annual gesture marking the holiday. West Bank military officials said.

"What are they going to do for money?" asked Hoy. "Minority Leader Patricia McDermott, D-Pocatello. "All the local government officials I talk to tell me they haven't a dime."

Murdock also pointed out legal prohibitions would prevent the state from simply transferring to the counties the funds now used to run the state department. "Many of those programs are funded by federal and the federal government by law can't deal with any unit, the state. It is legally prohibited from dealing with 44 county governments," she said.

McDermott also requested director with DHW, questioned how much of the criticism of the department was valid. But Murdock said he was willing to work with county officials concerned about DWH programs and costs.

Murdock pointed out the resolutions criticized DWH as a "super agency" that had increased its budget from $29,000 in 1976 to over $150 million for fiscal 1981, and their administrative expense has shown a similar meteoric rise, thereby denying the distribution of those monies to the truly needy.

Murdock questioned those figures, and the conclusion they supported. "Our information shows that our budget in 1971 was $42,940,600. In 1980, it was $138 million, an increase of 223 percent. The single largest factor in that increase, he said, was added Medicaid expenditures, which accounted for 13 percent of the 1971 budget, rising to more than 30 percent of the 1980 budget.

"One of the things they also referred to is the administrative expense, saying it had shown a rise," he said.

"Well, there has been a rise all right. If it went from $3,769,700 in 1971, which represents 8.8 percent of the total budget, to where in 1980 it was $7,360,000, that's over 95 percent of the total. Our administrative costs have been cut in half. We have been working real hard to keep those costs down."

Today's weather

Ideal weather for continuing October's harvest

Twin Falls, Burley-Rupert, Towner-Coding areas: Mostly sunny and mild through Tuesday with highs temperatures in the middle to upper 60s. Fair nights with lows 35 to 40. Light winds.

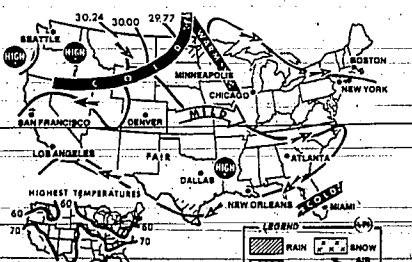

Camds Prairie, Halley, Wood River valley: Fair, early today becoming partly cloudy late today through Tuesday. Highs both days 55 to 65. Overnights lows 25 to 35.

Northern Utah and Nevada: Fair today with occasional clouds tonight and Tuesday. Highs in the 60s or 70s. Overnights lows in the 30s and 35s.

Synopsis: Fair skies returned to Idaho Sunday, but the approach of a weak storm system could bring some scattered showers and clouds to portions of the state.

Some cloudiness will develop over the central mountains today and will remain Tuesday.

The generally fair conditions over the weekend and today are the result of a high-pressure system moving eastward over the North Pacific. The storm system was moving down the Canadian coast Sunday and was expected to reach northern Idaho sometime today.

Afternoon temperatures returned to near normal levels Sunday, with the warmest being 69 at Boise, while McCall's 22 was the coldest Sunday morning. Other minimums ranged into the 30s.

The harvest outlook for the Magic Valley through Friday, including haying and potatoes, calls for continued dry—with above normal temperatures. Good curing and field conditions will prevail with light mornning dew or frost.

Four-inch soil temperatures will be about 2 degrees higher this morning. Readings will fall to 45 about 1 a.m. and rise above that level around 10 a.m.

Elsewhere in the nation Sunday, the warmest temperature was 91 degrees at Jacksonville and Orlando, Fla.; while Altamona, Colo., reported the coldest, 14 degrees.

Reagan would seek new nuclear arms pact

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ronald Reagan, seeking to defuse charges that his policies would lead to war, said Sunday he rejected president-elect Jimmy Carter's "balanced and equitable" nuclear arms control agreement with the Soviet Union.

"My energies will be directed at reducing destructive nuclear weaponry in the world — and doing it in such a way as to protect fully the critical security requirements of our nation," Reagan said in a major foreign policy broadcast.

"As president I will immediately open negotiations on a SALT III Treaty," he declared.

Reagan has said on several occasions he would tear up the never-ratified SALT II arms limitation pact on grounds it is "fatally flawed" and gives the Russians an edge. In a half-hour televised speech on CBS-TV, paid for by his campaign committee, Reagan called the accord "doomed" and said President Carter could not win ratification in the Senate.

With his lead in the polls narrowing in the final weeks of the campaign, Reagan strategists have been concerned that voters, particularly women, are being swayed by Carter's repeated charges that the GOP candidate's policies could increase the risk of a nuclear arms race and confrontation.

"My own views have been distorted. In what I can only conclude is an effort to scare people through innuendoes and misstatements," Reagan said.

"The way to avoid an arms race is not simply to let the Soviets race ahead," he said. "We need to remove their incentive to race ahead by making it clear to them that we can and will compete if need be. At the same time, we tell them that we prefer to halt this competition and reduce the nuclear arsenals by mutual negotiation."

Reagan said perhaps the "most important" principle of his foreign policy would be to "restore the margin of safety" in the nation's military establishment.

He charged Carter with "defending billions of dollars and spending on a policy of systematic concessions in defense and arms control negotiations."

Reagan's chief foreign policy adviser, Richard Allen, said on NBC's "Meet the Press" Sunday: "The prospect of an arms race should be an inducement (for the Soviets) to come to the bargaining table."

Reagan also said he:

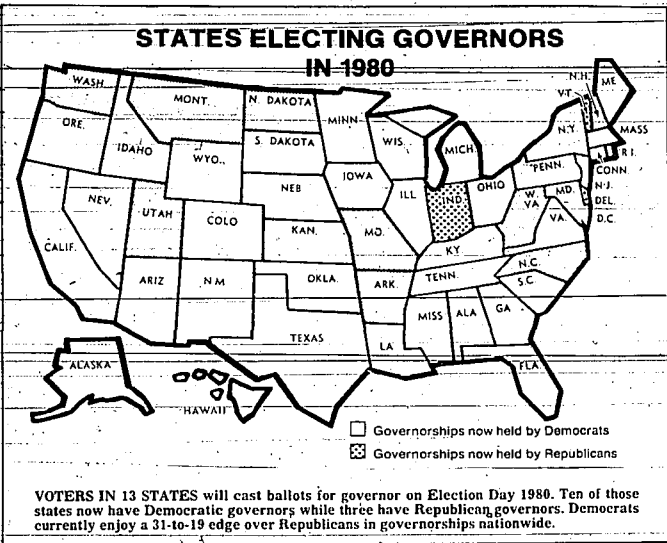

- Would expand cultural and trade relations with Peking. He did not repeat his proposal to re-establish government relations with Taiwan which caused an uproar at the start of his campaign.

- Make "structural changes" in foreign policy making so the secretary of state would be the president's principal spokesman and adviser.
- Restore a "bipartisan tradition" in foreign policy making and might name Democrats to "key foreign and defense policy appointive positions."
- The name of Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., a hardliner, has cropped up in speculation as a possible Reagan appointee.
- Strengthen the Voice of America, Radio Free Europe and Liberty Radio to emphasize the differences between the United States and Soviet Union. People in the emerging nations then could recognize the difference between Marxist totalitarianism and the freedom and prosperity of free market countries like Taiwan, South Korea and Singapore.

- Improve the pay scale of the armed forces and reinstate the G.I. Bill of Rights.
- Charged Carter policies have "managed to alienate our friends in the (Western) Hemisphere" and encouraged "the destabilization of governments," permitting Cuban and Soviet influence to grow.

Spectacular Carter gamble may come in Mideast: Ford

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter may try a "big gamble" to win re-election, even at the risk of involving the United States in a Middle East war more serious than Vietnam, former President Gerald Ford said Sunday.

Ford cited "legitimate speculation" the Carter administration will try to do something very dramatic to reverse the president's political fortunes with the election two weeks away.

Interviewed on CBS-TV's "Face the Nation," Ford also predicted Ronald Reagan would be "more moderate" in the White House than the Republican candidate's campaign rhetoric has indicated.

Ford, who beat out Reagan in a bitter contest for the GOP nomination to face Carter four years ago, also apologized to the former California governor for a 1976 campaign commercial that warned Republican voters, "Candidate Reagan can't start a war, but President Reagan could."

Ford said he has "no doubt Carter will do whatever he can to win" and the hostages being held in Iran before election day, the first anniversary of their captivity.

GERALD FORD ... Reagan moderating

But such a move — "an October surprise" — could violate America's neutral stance in the current Iran-Iraq war, Ford said.

"If we get involved on either side, it will interject the United States into that quagmire ... a situation more serious than getting involved in Vietnam," Ford said.

He said Carter's accusations that Reagan is more likely to lead the nation into war are "undiluted demagoguery."

Reminded of his similar 1976 primary charges, Ford said he now views Reagan as "a little more serious, a little more restrained, a little more moderate, in the execution of policy."

Ford said he believes Reagan is adopting a more central position on the political spectrum and "the policies he will carry out are those he is taking now," rather than the more extreme views presented earlier in the campaign.

challenger John Spellman, but Spellman has been gaining.

In West Virginia, Moore's supporters are displaying bumper stickers saying "Make Him Spend It All, Arch," Rockefeller, the great-grandson of John D. Rockefeller, defeated Moore in 1976.

Moore says Rockefeller will spend $12 million in the campaign and is buying the election. Rockefeller says he will "spend what it takes." Republicans say his media blitz is angering some voters, noting Moore was just 11 points behind in the latest poll.

Based on reports from United Press International bureaus across the country, here is a rundown of other governor's races:

Arkansas — The nation's youngest governor, 34-year-old Democrat Bill Clinton, is likely to edge Little Rock banker Frank White.

Delaware — Du Pont is expected to win easily over state Rep. William Gordy.

Montana — Democratic Lt. Gov. Ted Schwinden, who defeated Gov. Thomas Judge in the primary, is expected to edge Republican Jack Ramirez.

North Carolina — Democratic Gov.

James Hunt Jr. has a big lead on GOP challenger Beverly Lake.

North Dakota — Democrat Arthur Link is favored to win his third four-year term, but GOP Attorney General AT Olson is running hard and closing ground.

Rhode Island — Democratic Gov. Joseph Garrahy is favored to easily beat Providence Mayor Vincent Cianci, who was ousted until his city was beset with budget woes and scandals.

Utah — Polls show Democratic Gov. Scott Matheson leading 3-to-1 over Republican lawyer Robert Wright.

Vermont — Snelling is favored over Democratic Attorney General M. Jerome Diamond.

Clark plans to end Israel support

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (UPI) — Libertarian presidential candidate Ed Clark, speaking at a political forum at a Jewish temple, said Sunday he would end U.S. military support for Israel if elected.

Clark's position on the issue drew groans from the mostly reform Jewish audience. But the candidate, a Harvard-trained lawyer, got applause for supporting the Equal Rights Amendment and opposing a draft.

Like independent John Anderson, Clark says he doesn't mind sailing against the political wind — but that's where the similarity ends.

Clark said the difference between himself and Anderson is that Anderson has no political party and no alternatives to mainstream political policies. Clark said he offers both.

"Anderson is not an alternative. He proposes to major changes. He is saying 'Vote for me because I am smarter and more articulate.' His campaign will soon be an asterisk in the history books," Clark said.

He said he realizes the Libertarian

Party has little hope of winning this year's presidential election, but maintained it is growing roots to become a major party — long-range Libertarian policies include an end to military support of Western Europe, Japan and all Middle East countries, including Israel.

The Libertarian Party's growing strength lies in the consistency of its policies, Clark said. The party advocates tax cuts that will be realized by making huge cuts in the defense budget by pulling troops out of foreign countries, Clark said.

Nation's position superior

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter, in a campaign broadcast Sunday, said America has gained clear air and naval superiority in the Persian Gulf and Indian Ocean areas with equipment in place for 12,000 Marines and munitions for 500 aircraft.

During the second of three Sunday noon paid political broadcasts over the Mutual radio network, Carter, saying "Peace is my pledge," repeated his charge that Republican Ronald Reagan's proposals probably would lead to an uncontrolled nuclear arms race and almost certainly to "a new rupture" in U.S.-Soviet relations.

"For the past four years, the United States has been at peace," Carter said. "This is no accident. It is the result of careful exercise of the enormous strength of America."

Carter said, for example, "When I came into office, I found we had the capability for quick action in the critical Persian Gulf region. Now we have prepositioned equipment for 12,000 Marines and munitions for 500 aircraft."

He said the United States has arranged for use of facilities at five sites in the Indian Ocean area where the equipment has been stored, and has deployed two carrier task forces to the region.

"They give us air and naval superiority to act instantly to keep open the Strait of Hormuz through which most of the world's oil flows," the president said.

Carter and his wife arrived back from the Camp David presidential retreat Sunday morning. He planned to join Sen. Edward Kennedy for a joint fund-raiser in Washington Sunday night, then embark on a day of campaigning in the Northeast and a two-day trip South.

White House press secretary Jody Powell said the Carter camp would urge a two-hour debate with Reagan sometime next weekend, preferably Sunday night when viewing audiences are largest. The League of Women Voters has proposed an Oct. 28 debate in Cleveland.

For Congress, no endorsement

In our view, the election for 2nd District Congressman does not give Idaho voters a choice.

We don't believe incumbent Republican George Hansen has shown he deserves to be returned to Washington. But neither can we seriously recommend Democrat challenger Diane Bilyeu to district constituents.

It is justification enough not to pull a lever in this race, or, if the Idaho ballot permitted, to vote for none of the above.

This is a sad state of affairs because the Democratic Party has not put up a strong enough candidate to make a race of it. Because of that and because Hansen has such die-hard support, there is little question he will once again be re-elected.

We're pragmatic enough to believe that; but it doesn't mean we will be forced into Hansen's camp. He fails on the integrity question alone and for that is enough.

It is unfortunate, but Bilyeu just hasn't sold herself as a viable candidate. She's been hampered by a lack of funds and we suspect is being patronized by her own party members who want to make a showing, but deep down know this isn't the time or place to have a shot at defeating Hansen.

Until the Democrats come up with that effort, and are really seriously ready to challenge the incumbent, they cannot expect to win, or win endorsements.

The other unfortunate aspect of this "race" is that it hasn't been a race at all. The U.S. Senate encounter has stolen all the thunder and most of the available contributions to boot.

Bilyeu has vainly and weakly tried to smoke Hansen out on his globe-trotting antics, his voting record and his ethics. But the incumbent has all but ignored his opposition. The issues, candidate-to-candidate, have never come off and probably won't before Nov. 4.

Even in a viable race Hansen could ride into his sixth term on Republican Presidential candidate Ronald Reagan's coattails. Our survey in Twin Falls County showed Reagan racking up nearly 57 percent of the vote against Jimmy Carter. In that same survey, Hansen was getting nearly 40 percent of the vote; but 38 percent showed up undecided.

This scenario was established in May when Hansen successfully fought off a renomination challenge by Jim Jones.

Voters may go through the motions Nov. 4 but that's all that can be said for the race.

How we see 2 proposed amendments

Idaho voters face two additional duties on their Nov. 4 ballots: two proposed state constitutional amendments.

The ballot will ask the questions and state their meanings. Voters must either vote Yes (to approve) or No (to disapprove).

HJR 12 would amend Section 5, Article IX, to allow a health facilities authority to finance or refinance health facilities owned or operated by a church or religious society.

We strongly urge a YES vote.

Passage of this constitutional amendment would remove a poorly written clause that has had the unforeseen effect of unfairly driving up hospital costs.

All this change would do is place all Idaho hospitals on an equal footing when it comes to borrowing money. Hospitals which are run by religious orders, such as St. Benedict's in Jerome, must now borrow money with interest rates higher than those charged other hospitals and health care facilities.

This extra cost means these hospitals must charge their patients more.

HJR 12 would allow all hospitals to borrow money at the reduced interest rate.

Allowing hospitals run by religious orders the same lower interest rates on their loans is not only a question of simple fairness, it is a question of common sense. If the interest rates are lower, then the costs are lower. If the costs are lower, then the bills hospitals charge their patients are lower.

It is important to realize that no tax dollars are involved in this change. The state is NOT funding religion or hospitals run by religious orders.

Passage of HJR 12 simply means we are removing an unfortunate provision in our constitution that has had the unfortunate effect of driving up hospital bills.

This is a good chance to save money without reducing services. Vote Yes on the question.

SJR 112, the other question on the ballot, seeks to amend Section 1 of Article III. Its intent is to make it easier to pass initiatives. We urge a NO vote on this question.

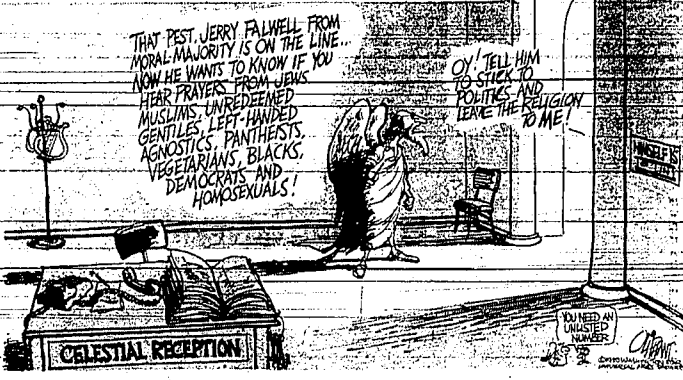

This question never should have been proposed. It could result in a plethora of initiatives being approved by a simple majority of those voting for it. The law now requires that, to be adopted, an initiative must receive a majority of votes equal to a majority of votes cast for governor.

SJR 112 also would allow initiatives to be voted on every two years instead of every four (gubernatorial election) years.

Since more people vote in gubernatorial election years, it is prudent that a majority of voters should decide any initiative put before them.

Under SJR, Idaho runs the risk of placing more emotional, poorly conceived and thought-out proposals on the ballot and having fewer voters approve them.

The present initiative provisions (which gave us the 1 percent initiative) are adequate. Vote to reject SJR 112.

'Trees,' by Ronald Reagan

Los Angeles Times Syndicate

WASHINGTON — The Reagan forces were sitting back relaxed at headquarters.

Ronnie was sticking to the script as they had written it for him, and everything had been going well. Then suddenly, out of the blue, Reagan decided to add his opinion on the environment, and the sulphur dioxide hit the fan.

One of the aides rushed in with a wire story. "Ronnie just announced the battle for clean air is over and attacked the volcanic eruption of Mt. St. Helens."

"Okay, can the jokes. The election isn't won yet." "I'm not kidding. He said in Ohio that Mt. St. Helens had released more sulphur dioxide into the air than had been released by automobiles in the last 10 years."

"Automobiles don't pollute with sulphur dioxide."

"Well, don't get mad with me. I didn't tell him to say it."

"Get him on the phone. Ronnie, where are you? You think you're over Los Angeles? Aren't you sure? ... You can't see because it's all brown smog down there? Ronnie, why did you get into the clear air thing without checking with us first? ... I know it sounded like a good idea comparing Mt. St. Helens with pollution but, Ronnie, you got it all wrong. Cars pollute with nitric oxide, carbon monoxide and other gases. Mt. St. Helens' sulphur is peanuts compared with what man-made pollutants are doing to the atmosphere ... I know you're not a scientist, Ronnie ... but people want their President to have the facts before he speaks. Can you see the airport yet? ... You can't see anything but dirty clouds ... Los Angeles isn't going to like what you said about the battle for clean air being won ...

"Ronnie, remember how you promised you would not say anything unless you put it on cue cards for you? ... I know how much you hate EPA. Everyone hates EPA, but you're not going to win votes attacking it when no one can see Los Angeles."

"And while I've got you on the phone, why did you have to attack trees? People love trees ... Yes, you did attack them ... You said that 33 percent of all nitrogen oxide pollution comes from vegetation. You got nitric oxide mixed up with nitrous oxide. Trees give off nitrous oxide, which is harmless and nontoxic ... I'm not leading you down with a lot of chemistry, Ronnie. But this is the kind of stuff the other side can throw at you to prove you don't know what the heck you're talking about. Now all they're going to be asking you for the next week is what do you have against trees ..."

"What are you coughing for? ... The smog is getting into the plane ... No, it's not from trees, Ronnie ... it's from the automobiles down below that you can't see. You are going to have to make a statement when you land ..."

You want to say everyone is nit-picky and just trying to get away from the real issue? ... That's the best you can come up with? ... Why don't you say you are still an environmentalist at heart and your words were taken out of context? That should give us a couple of days to come up with something better ...

"By the way, did you really say the oil slicks of Santa Barbara are good for people's health? ... I was afraid you did ... Yes, Ronnie, it could present a problem ..."

"Ronnie, people don't like oil slicks, whether they're natural or man-made ..."

"Please don't talk about oil slicks again ... We'll send you new cue cards so you won't have to deal with the clean air issue at all ..."

"Of course, you're your own man, Ronnie, and you have a right to say anything that comes to your mind. But stay away from trees unless you know the difference between nitric oxide and nitrous oxide ..."

"Are you still trying to land? ... You're getting in the spine of the smog ... Okay, Ronnie, good luck. But for heaven's sake, stay indoors while you're there. We don't want you to get sick from the pollution ... Do I have any good lines for you as you get off the plane? ... Heh, about this. You come off smiling, not coughing, and you say, 'I think that I shall never see RPOEM LEVELLY AS A TREE ...' No, don't make it. Write it down, Ronnie, write it down."

On cutting travel costs

WILDER — When the National Lieutenant Governors' Conference was held last year at Jackson, Wyo., I decided to give it one try as it was close to home.

It should have had some value for the state. I decided to forgo the one in New Jersey this year and save the Idaho taxpayer some money.

The conference this year passed a raft of resolutions which are in the best interest of our state. A few are harmless expressions of support for wider opportunities for college enrollment, more participation by senior citizens in community affairs, increased emphasis on exports and rejuvenation of the family farm.

But most call for further squandering of the public purse on such items as low-income energy assistance, new rail and port facilities, wood-burning tax credit, ad nauseum. The whole affair wasn't worth the price of the plane tickets.

In the meantime, Gov. John Evans repeatedly announces his "astonishment" at recent reports of the travel by state employees. I don't blame John for raising an eyebrow or two at some of the reported incidents. Geze whiz, if his aides needed a spot to confer without telephones, he'd beat them. They could have used my office instead of renting a condo at McCall. I could have guaranteed them enough so that they would have saved $500,000 right off the bat.

But the governor himself is far from pure. He burns the road constantly. He has been gone, outside the state 60 days last year and 46 days this year, plus frequent absences from the highways and byways of Idaho in the highways and byways of Idaho in his own state. He takes numerous aides with him as he did when he recently toured the INEL facilities at Idaho Falls.

His latest travel plans are to visit each of Idaho's counties and transform them into a "Capitol For a Day." After all, the election is only two years off. He started off with Owyhee County. Advance aides came in two weeks prior and set up numerous appointments as well as decorated the town with posters showing the governor in striking pose and announcing his forthcoming visit.

On the big day, he arrived with an entourage of non-people. They toured the county, answered questions and received suggestions. He also passed out certificates of appreciation to various senior citizens and others for their help in promoting the "Capitol For a Day." The governor is to be commended for seeking all the problems of the state, but I believe he should do it with only an aide or two and without all the flummery of a political campaign.

In the meantime, if he really believes travel should be cut, he should look in the mirror for a good place to start. We like to see you in Boise occasionally, too, John.

Philip E. Batt is Idaho's lieutenant governor.

Why voters will be bombarded until last moment

The Washington Post Company

WASHINGTON — America loves football with an ardor that could detrone reason, were reason enthroned in America.

Pursuing research with Teutonic conscientiousness, I have discovered in "Inside Sports" magazine that network television will devote 1,038 hours this fall to football games, pre-game hype, post-game blather, and assorted football features. That would fill 43 consecutive days and nights. As John Jacob Astor, a passenger on the Titanic, reportedly said immediately after the ship hit the iceberg, "I rang for ice, but this is ridiculous."

The figure of 1,038 hours is, of course, evidence that the United States is not ready for self-government, but it is also pertinent to the current complaining about the length and cost of presidential campaigns. The view prevailing among the relatively few who pay close attention to campaigns is that by October the political fall has lost its savor.

However, campaigns are not conducted for the benefit of the few who pay close attention for months — the few who read columns like this. Rather, campaigns are conducted for the vast majority whose attention is hard to seize and is generally seized late, if at all. And remember, this year much more money will be spent by voters on cosmetics than by presidential candidates on wooing voters, and there will be much more football than presidential campaigning on television.

Experienced politicians know that you can hardly exaggerate the difficulty of communicating even the most basic message to a mass audience. Until you have tried it, you cannot imagine how forcefully, simply and, more important, how often you must say something before there is any likelihood that even a substantial minority of the people will hear it, let alone understand it.

Politics is 95 percent talk, most of it repetitive, and the main aim of most political repetition is to alter slightly, or reinforce, the broad, slow-moving tendencies of groups, states, regions. Today's basic tendencies should, according to Horace Busby, be responsive to Reagan's repetitions.

Busby, a Washington consultant and former assistant to President Johnson, says that what Johnson predicted in the 1960s is coming to pass: Republicans are acquiring a "lock" on an electoral-vote majority. Since mid-century, a majority of states have voted most of the time for Republican presidential candidates. In the seven elections beginning with 1962, the following states have favored Republicans:

- Four times: Alaska, Connecticut, Delaware, Michigan. (Electoral votes: 35)
- Five times: Florida, Illinois, Kentucky, Maine, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, New Jersey, Ohio, Tennessee, Washington, Wisconsin. (Electoral votes: 139)
- Six times: California, Colorado, Idaho, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska, New Hampshire, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, Utah, South Dakota, Vermont, Virginia, Wyoming. (Electoral votes: 136)
- Seven times: Arizona. (Electoral votes: 6)

Those 33 states have 316 electoral votes. The 23 states that have voted Republican five or more times have 281, 11 more than the required 270. No states have gone 7-0 or 6-1 for Democratic nominees.

Only four (Arkansas, Massachusetts, North Carolina, West Virginia) have gone 5-2 Democratic, and they have only 39 electoral votes.

Busby notes that in 1962 Ike took much the wind from the Democrats and began the Republican penetration of the "Solid South." In 1972 the South and West obtained an electoral vote majority. The 1980 census probably will add 11 votes to those two regions. Since mid-century Republicans have won 50.2 percent of the cumulative popular vote for President (Democrats 47.7 percent, 3.1 percent for George Wallace and others), but Republicans have won almost 70 percent (72.49) of the 3,687 electoral votes divided by the two major parties.

Busby believes that the Republican "lock" is closing, that it would have closed already but for Nixon's crime wave, which made possible Carter's narrow victory. Busby says it will be hard for Democrats "to open" (the lock) even for elections between now and the year 2000.

That prospect of (depending on your point of view) a return to the Dark Ages, as of Europe, Regained would bold your interest as the campaign reaches a crescendo of repetitiveness. If the end of the campaign seems even worse than the beginning, there is a reason. The beginning often seems best because it is at least fresh. As C.S. Lewis said of Wordsworth's "Excursion" and Byron's "Don Juan," both grow steadily less good, so no matter how much of them you have read, you have read the best parts.

Which ticket?

Editor, Times-News:
Frank Church, as chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, is one of our top-ranked government leaders.

I would like to know why, then, he was not informed beforehand of the impending ill-fated attempt to rescue the hostages in Iran. Did our military leaders feel they were in a bind? You will recall that Frankiewicz was upset that he was going to have a Senate investigation immediately. But then he decided he had better keep his mouth shut before too many people began asking the same question.

I know I can't trust a man who all political analysts label a liberal and who continues to deny that the liberals that are responsible for the mess this country is in today, yet comes to Idaho every election year and tries to tell us otherwise.

How can a man who has survived one of the most liberal and blistering attacks at a previous Democratic convention as the keynote speaker, yet this year, did not even attend the Democratic convention? In fact, he has completely divorced himself from the Democratic Party and President Carter. Just check his campaign literature and see if you can find which ticket he is running on.

Judge the man

Editor, Times-News:
I would say that the coming election in Twin Falls is probably to be the citizens of Twin Falls vs. today's man—instead of the party in this election.

Many Republicans agree with me privately that each candidate, from both sides, has a number of good points to be personally weighed for the essence of his worth. We cannot afford in these critical times to elect "yellow-dog" candidates.

I personally will emphatically do so, and, as a Democrat, would call attention to certain local Democratic candidates. George Anthony of Buhl has the great plus of being a concerned citizen. A man who will work for your vote will work for mine.

And Lloyd Shevemaker is my kind of Democrat, a conservative who is in step with the feelings of his neighbors. To vote for both of these men is not being cognizant of his abilities would be a slander to the American tradition of common sense and fair play.

The best race is a political blessing, two good candidates, running strictly on their respective merits. I speak of Helen Ruth Savage and Mrs. Ann Cooper for county commissioner.

The worst possible race is the other kind, one where the candidates are in shenanigans in taking a no-comment, stoop-in stance on the Republican side and David Woodhead was tentatively undecided until the last minute, then based on the Democratic side.

Now by being non-partisan I mean take a long look at the mess we are in in Iran and take a look at the workings of the state Legislature. One of the best I put in the Legislature did me personal harm and could do great personal harm to any Idaho citizen. We need a change in attitude in that body.

Mike George Anthony and Lloyd Shevemaker are making a great effort to present you, the voters, with a good choice.

What a 'friend'

Editor, Times-News:
I get sick to my stomach every time I read or hear someone say "I had a beautiful and a better friend than Frank Church."

It's a sure thing Idaho and the United States don't need enemies with such a "friend" as Frank Church.

Here are a few facts in regard to Sen. Church's record: 1. Aug. 12, 1970, Church voted to prohibit the use of funds in any bill from being used for research and development of the Minuteman II ballistic missile system at any site. 2. Oct. 2, 1972, Church voted to cut over-21 defense appropriations by about $3.7 billion dollars. 3. Sept. 27, 1973, Church voted to cut, by almost $1 billion, the authorization for development and procurement of the Trident submarine. 4. June 5, 1974, Church voted to cut $27 million of the authorization for development and procurement bill for development of the submarine-launched Cruise missile. 5. June 5, 1975, Church voted to eliminate $203.4 million scheduled for the development of the Minuteman III ballistic missile. 6. June 6, 1975, Church voted to prohibit direct testing of over-manned, re-entry vehicles (MARV). 7. July 13, 1977, Church voted to prohibit the production of five B-1 bombers which are sorely needed to help our old, obsolete fleet of B-52s. 8. Nov. 6, 1979, Church voted to delete funds for a new missile nuclear-powered aircraft carrier.

With Church's voting record, it's little wonder America's military power has declined so drastically that we are now in a war with a fourth-rate nation like Iran, not to mention the USSR. In a letter dated Dec. 15, 1979, Church asserted, "I am in favor of expanding food exports to foreign countries. I am in favor of selling our surplus to friendly countries." He then quoted himself as having declared on another occasion, "I long ago gave up the idea of being a Communist or a Communist country, as these sales work to our advantage, and fat Communists are a lot less worrisome than hungry Communist countries." He then mentioned the long-standing military practice

Send a message

The results of the Church-Symms election will not only determine who will represent Idaho in the U.S. Senate but will also send a message to the Congress and the country.

If we re-elect Church, we are saying we are more of the same — more government, more regulation, more taxes.

As Time magazine, Oct. 20, put it, "When the votes are counted (in the Symms-Church race), the result is sure to be hailed as a resounding victory for either liberalism or conservatism."

So let's tell the whole country we want a change. Let's elect Steve Symms to the U.S. Senate!

Was he asleep?

Editor, Times-News:
To all Idaho sportsmen:
Frank Church is quoted from a recent editorial in the Idaho Statesman that, "There must never come a time when the Federal Government is allowed to step in to regulate, register or confiscate the firearms of Idaho citizens." Senate I am in the Senate, it won't happen."

To those of you who are avid hunters, we know that gun registration has been a way of life for several years. We are not to register our arms when purchased, with the Department of the Treasury-Bureau of Alcohol Tax and Firearms. Obviously, Mr. Church was asleep at the time this vote was enacted, for his passage occurred while he was in Washington, D.C., representing the people of Idaho.

Idaho outdoorsmen never had a better friend in Steve Symms.

Teacher's view

Editor, Times-News:
Steve Mr. Baumgarten's statements concerning his opposition to "Mormonism" are a disgraceful act regarding the request for release time for seminary students in Jerome) were made public. I would like to respond to his statements publicly.

As a teacher in Jerome Junior High, I have in the past and will continue in the future to support by my approval of absence those students (including Mr. Baumgarten's children) who as members of the Bible Baptist Church are excused each year for a week to attend a religious seminar on the West Coast. And I will continue to live my Mormon beliefs in my private life and in my teaching position.

I am curious to know what beliefs and practices Mr. Baumgarten finds so objectionable. I doubt that our first principle of belief would offend him since I believe him to be a follower of Christ. "For we labor diligently to edify ourselves, to edify one another, to exhort one another, to believe in Christ, and to be reconciled to God. . . and we talk of Christ, we rejoice in Christ, we speak of Christ, we prophesy of Christ. . . that our children may know of the sources they may look for a remission of their sins."

Book of Mormon p. 92

As members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, we accept and try to follow the counsel of our current leader, Spencer W. Kimball. I wonder if it is any of these beliefs and practices that Mr. Baumgarten will continue to object to. The letter from President Kimball includes charges to:

1. Continue to uphold the sanctity of the family, regarding marital fidelity as paramount, children as a sacred trust, abortion as an abomination in the eyes of God, homosexuality as a gross sin, and personal chastity as mandatory.
2. Take an active part in fighting pornography and eliminating its insidious influence in our communities.
3. Resist every evidence of coarseness and vulgarity and not only abstain from profanity but also speak up against it.
4. Beautify our homes and communities and make them wholesome places for our families and fellow citizens.
5. Be self-reliant and financially independent from public welfare.
6. Promote loyalty to our country and practice patriotism by taking an active part in all levels of government.
7. Be good neighbors, especially looking after the welfare of aged or needy individuals.
8. Be courteous and helpful and with our families to invoke the blessings of God upon our friends and to ask him to soften the hearts of those who resist Jesus Christ.

These are our main beliefs and practices, Mr. Baumgarten. Will you please let us know your opposition?

On 'Big Mike'

Editor, Times-News:
Since this is not the first letter I have written to you recently, I beg your pardon for writing you again.

My heart cries for a little boy just a few months older than my youngest son. To me, he is still a baby in some ways. He's reluctant to go to bed at night and he knows his older brothers are tucked in nearby. He keeps his New Testament beside him and a shiny silver cross in his window to keep evil away. I shudder at the thought of him spending even a few hours locked in a dark, lonely jail cell like a hardened criminal.

I can't help but question the theory that he is retarded, or that he can't handle the world on his own. I think of those good things his classmates have been eating in a whole jar full of peanuts. Can anyone else imagine a hungry boy with a taste for a small handful of that long-for delicacy and then walking away from the rest of the jarful? He wants desperately to belong to the gang. He's reaching out for the things he wants in his hands every day. He says if no one notices his need and loneliness they will likewise not notice his taking. Poor little, lonely little boy.

Since I sincerely hope he will come in the country, he can visit mine any day. Hang in there, Mike. We're praying for you.

Land is for all

Editor, Times-News:
A few days ago I read in the Times-News a letter by someone who was in favor of making the state Legislature.

The writer said, in effect, that sheepmen could be expected to use the land and range in their own advantage. These people make it desirable for other people. From time to time there have been letters criticizing cattlemen also.

These people seem to be unaware that everyone has, in some way, made a living, and the basic way in this state is to be a sheepman, cattlemán, or farmer. In fact, the wealth drawn from the enterprises of these people forms the basis of our area economy, and the state economy.

Cattlemen and sheepmen, with a few exceptions, are just as anxious to preserve an environment as we who are not in that business, for we do not reyn that we have, plus for the fact their livelihood depends on it. The grass must continue to grow well, as it has since before most of us were born. This is a room for agricultural people, as well as people who enjoy recreational activities, and we should learn to cooperate instead of trying to put one another out. Just as an additional thought, I'd love to see campers, motorcyclists, and fishermen would clear up the camp-sites instead of leaving beer cans and rubbish everywhere. Letting and sheepmen do not leave anything that is not biodegradable!

Coming back to Laird-Noh, he has a very varied background, and I am surprised that he would be in our area, and the state, and I am sure, of our nation. He is a thinking, reasonable person, and is interested in the welfare of us all. He will make an excellent addition to the Senate, for him, and I hope you will, too!

Compare records

Editor, Times-News:
In less than a month the voters of Idaho will choose how they want to be represented in the U.S. Senate. By what standards should we use in making this selection? We should look at the records of the two candidates.

Symms has been accused of being a common thug, friend of big oil, do nothing, special interest, representative. Actually, his opponent is a common thug, friend of big oil, do nothing, special interest, representative. Symms in his media blitz, the only threat that Symms poses is to Church's Senate seat.

Symms voted for the deregulation of airlines, and for many other Democrats, because they finally realized that the answer to at-home oil production and a lid looser throat-hold by the Arabis, is free enterprise. The Democrats do not realize that Idahoans may not be aware of the approximate 150 attempts made by Symms to propose Idaho conservative legislation, but which have all expired without a word of support.

Examine record

Editor, Times-News:
Now that Sen. Frank Church has had his comments about his rival, Mr. Symms, let's take a good hard look at just a few things on Church's record.

You had better, because your very lives are affected.

When Sen. Church took office I assume he swore to uphold the Constitution of the United States of America. If so, why did he sign the Declaration of Interference which is an instrument to replace the constitution we've had for 200 years?

When confronted with an opportunity to remove his name, why did he refuse? Why did the senator ever belong to the CFR (Council on Foreign Relations), not to be confused with the Senate on Foreign Relations; the former being a tool of the International Bankers to overthrow our government?

Finally, why Frank Church voted for Regional Government which would replace our 50 states with 11 regions, what then would happen to the voice of these states?

Regional Government is empowered to control every aspect of your lives, also including the education of your children. Perhaps the senator will tell you how he stood on the Panama Canal Treaties in spite of the fact that the Panama Canal was to pay the corrupt Panamanian officials billions of your hard-earned tax dollars and against the wishes of the American taxpayer.

Then there is the Egyptians-Israeli foreign aid costing you an additional $1.6 billion. How did the senator stand on the Taiwan Relation issue? Any hostile action against Taiwan will be a direct threat to the security interest of the United States.

This first foreign policy has set a sad pattern of capitulation as Congress and the president have sold the United States down the river the world over.

I regret to say there's more, much more, but this is enough for me.

I doubt if Frank Church will live in Idaho after his term, but then he has a lot of friends in Cuba, Panama, China, Russia and maybe even in hell.

Need sound dollar

Editor, Times-News:
What we senior citizens need most is a sound dollar.

It is all why we are writing for the election of Steve Symms — we understand that inflation is our worst enemy — not only for senior citizens but for everyone. He will have the courage to vote against government spending that this country can't afford.

Help us elect Steve Symms!

Proud of record

Editor, Times-News:
The Oct. 16 Times-News editorial certainly was incredible — receive the Church mailing with the picture of Frank and "a dead man" (John Wayne).

We are proud of Steve Symms' voting record. He votes as he speaks. We are sickened by Church's record. He has been leading us down the roads of inflation and socialism. People from all over live in America. We support him we flee if we continue to allow people like Church to destroy our country?

Of course, people in other states are concerned about the Symms/Church race. They are intelligent enough to realize that one senator's actions affect our nation.

Idahoans, forget the campaign rhetoric. Compare the candidate's vote with what he says. If enough concerned citizens do this and vote, Steve Symms will definitely be our senator.

Picture in poor taste

Editor, Times-News:
In your Tuesday, Oct. 7, issue of Times-News, you ran a front page article on the migrant housing in our area.

I found the article very good and informative on the problems.

What I did not find as a sign of good journalism was the picture of a man in the article. Showing a nude overweight man was deplorable. It didn't show any of the conditions but one wall, and only a fourth of it. I'm sure you could show a better journalism than nude bodies on front page.

EDITOR'S NOTE

The last day for letters to be received for publication pertaining to the election, or in response to Times-News' political editorial, is noon on Wednesday, Oct. 22. Non-political-oriented letters will be published after Friday, Oct. 31.

Letters should be original, and unless specifically stated, contain a telephone number for verification. The Times-News reserves the right to condense and to reject letters considered libelous or in bad taste.

He knows best

Editor, Times-News:
I read the names in the Sunday Times-News of people who say they will vote for Buddy Devoese for sheriff.

I recognized the names of some of my neighbors but not one person mentioned has as good voting judgment as I have. I was therefore unimpressed, and will vote for Jim Merritt for sheriff as I did in the primary.

Ask questions

Editor, Times-News:
It is no surprise to see that the only things Frank Church can focus on in his campaign are personal mudslinging and "planted" questions.

Steve Symms continues to try to focus on national and state issues, in between Frank Church's ridiculous accusations. I have a number of questions. I see nothing wrong with someone bringing up specific questions, whether they are prompted or not.

I suggest listening to basic philosophy of each candidate as well as their party's basic philosophies, and make your selection on that basis. If it agrees with yours. Candidates can't tell people who to support.

This is a very important race and it's everyone's duty to get out and vote Nov. 4.

'Rosie Riveters,' shipyard workers recall wartime era

PORTLAND, Maine (UPI) — Marion Senechal, a World War II "Rosie the Riveter" at the South Portland shipyard, met her husband Robert during a lunch break while listening to "Good Glen-Miller music."

The Senechals, now in their 60s, joined more than 300 former shipyard workers for a weekend reunion of the welders, burners and riveters who built 236 Liberty cargo ships from 1941-45.

"I was in the burning shack in 1943 — that was the lunchroom for burners — and he walked in and said what are you doing tonight," said Mrs. Senechal. "I said, 'This is all so sudden.' The couple went out that night and were married in 1948.

Recorded sounds of Miller, Artie Shaw and other luminaries of the Big Band Era provided the background for an evening of reminiscing over the many tales of the now-defunct shipyard — which employed as many as 32,000 men and women.

"The thing that sticks most in my mind was the big sign reading, 'Heroes die and mothers weep, while absentees stay home and sleep,'" said former ship-fitter Maurice Gingras, 58.

The reunion Saturday night extended into the wee hours Sunday, it was called to celebrate the 40th anniversary of the shipyard's groundbreaking.

"What a spirit of togetherness and community there was," said Kitty Carswell, 58, who worked in the mailroom. "On Sunday morning we had mass right at the shipyard."

The same thing couldn't happen today because we learned in the 1950s that you had to work, work and work — complained.

Slide showing — 10,000-ton, 450-foot Liberty ships in various stages of construction were beamed on a screen at the Eastland Hotel ballroom.

Old copies of The Shipyard News were strewn out on tables.

Most of the former shipyard workers live in Portland and surrounding Maine communities — but the reunion of the New England Shipbuilding Corp. also drew people from other New England states.

"I still have a marine engineering license and would go back there tomorrow if they called," said former welder "Sparky" Winslow, 59, of Hudson, N.H. "All these people turning out here shows there's still some Yankee spirit left."

OLD ACQUAINTANCE
Janet Gaynor and Lew Ayres are working together for the first time in 35 years. They starred in the first movie version of "State Fair," the only original musical Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein wrote for films. Now on ABC's "Love Boat" they play a couple celebrating their 46th wedding anniversary. Ayres said, "It's fascinating in the saga of one's lifetime to have the opportunity to work with someone and almost 50 years later to share another experience with them."

FLYNN'S SECRETS
Director John Huston was asked about his old friend Errol Flynn by PBS' Dick Cavett on a show scheduled for broadcast today. Did Huston ever suspect Flynn was a bisexual Nazi spy, as a recent biographer charged? "No, not at all," Huston answered, and as for Flynn's spy potential, Huston added, "I wouldn't trust him with any secrets. It couldn't have been him."

SINATRA'S SOUND
"When I grew up, in my neighborhood in Hoboken," Frank Sinatra said recently, "boys either became boxers or they worked in factories." Sinatra, whose latest film is a dramatization of Lawrence Sanders' best seller, "The First Deadly Sin," hung out with a third group. "Our bunch," he went on, "was smitten with music. We hung around street corners and sang all the time. Everyone was copying Bing Crosby — I idolized Crosby but I wanted my own sound."

SOAP OPY
"Whispering" Bill Anderson, who became the first country music star to appear in a soap opera last year when he debuted on "One Life to Live," soon will be teeming two lives. ABC has signed the Grand Ole Opry star as a featured regular on the series. "One Life to Live" has about 7 million regular followers. Jackie Smith, vice president of ABC's daytime programming, thinks featuring a country music star on a daytime series is a first.

COVER GIRL
Former Kiss drummer and songwriter Peter Criss has his first non-Kiss solo album out. It's titled "Out of Control" and features a curvy blond on the cover, who happens to be Mrs. Criss, who models under the name of Debra Svensk — on Coppertone billboards across the country. Criss says he had to put his wife on the cover — "Otherwise I'd be eating meatloaf for a week."

PRESS PANNED
Bob Guccione scratched a press preview of his sex-packed film "Caligula," which will open in London this week. Mincing no words, Guccione said, "I don't expect the press to like the film, because of its extremely controversial nature and its impact — and general history. I believe that it would exceed the average journalist's ability to remain objective and, therefore, fair in his comments." New York reviewers generally panned the film, but it's been running there for nine months.

BEHIND THE NAME: Alan Alda was born Alfonso D'Abruzzo.

Youths charged in slaying, robbery which obtained $3

NEW YORK (UPI) — Catherine DiPisa, a 78-year-old widow, lived alone in a small apartment in one of the bleak public housing projects that dot Manhattan.

She was a white woman who lived in East Harlem, but her days were passed in an uneventful fashion familiar to millions of senior citizens.

Mrs. DiPisa would have a light breakfast with a friend, Irene Rillie, 82, and then the two women would walk a block from the 20-story apartment building where they lived after a senior citizen center for a day of cards and arts and crafts.

The two women and other elderly friends were careful to return home before dark.

"We were afraid to get on the building elevator alone. We would always wait for children to get on and then go up," Mrs. Rillie said.

On Saturday police arrested four neighborhood teen-agers and charged them with shooting and killing Mrs. DiPisa on the elevator as she rode to her 18th-floor apartment following a shopping trip last Tuesday morning.

Police said one of the four boys, Robert Jones, 14, shot Mrs. DiPisa in the head once with a .22-caliber handgun in a robbery that netted the youths $3.

They said the boys followed her onto the elevator and fled the building after the shooting. Detectives canvassed the neighborhood for leads in the case and arrested the four Saturday.

Three of the boys lived in an apartment building directly opposite the building where Mrs. DiPisa had lived for the past 14 years on a small pension — and Social Security — payments.

They were identified as Jones, his brother, Terry Williams, 15, Tyrone Quattelbaum, 15, and Darryl Sawyer, 15.

A detective who asked not to be identified said Mrs. DiPisa had offered no resistance.

"How could she offer any resistance? They just went into the elevator and blew her head off. That was it," the detective said.

For Mrs. Rillie, sorrow for her dead friend is mixed with fear of the future.

"I am so afraid now. I don't want to get on that elevator. We have no protection here," she said.

Catherine was very peaceful and quiet — a beautiful person."

Town needs to import poor

GAY, Ga. (UPI) — If poverty in this tiny township was as bad as the federal government's computers say, Gay would have to import poor people to live up to the dismal forecast.

A statistical quirk in the 1970 census data may have given the Department of Housing and Urban Development the statistical certainty that there were 233 poor people in Gay. But according to the 1976 population estimate, there are only 211 residents of any income strata in the community.

The 115.17 percent poverty rate is not as bad as some towns fared on paper. HUD estimated 125 percent unemployment in Santos, S.C., and 127.27 percent living below the poverty line in Memphis, Ala.

"Every now and then, we do find strange data," John Nagoski, a HUD official in Washington, told the Atlanta Journal and Constitution. "What we have to do is be cautious in using it."

Nagoski said the margin of error built into the 1970 census provided some variances like the overestimate in Gay, so "we don't overreact that."

Cleanor Mann, a member of the city council in the south central Georgia town, was amused by the statistics. She said there is poverty in Gay — a farming community with some tourist trade, not far from the Warm Springs "Little White House" of President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Watergate figure unknown man

FAIRFIELD, Conn. (UPI) — The student introducing G. Gordon Liddy at Fairfield University, said the Watergate figure needed no introduction.

Liddy, who is touring U.S. college campuses, is discovering that many students have only vague memories — or none at all — of the 1972 burglary at the Democratic National Committee headquarters and the turmoil that followed.

"I have found to my horror that some of the people in the audience were eight or nine years old when these things were going on," Liddy said. "They don't have a clear recollection of it. Some of these places I've appeared in might as well be General Grant for all they know."

When the 47-year-old moustachioed former FBI agent and assistant district attorney from Poughkeepsie, N.Y., claimed up during the Watergate scandal, U.S. District Judge John Sirica sentenced him to a maximum term of 20 years.

Before long, many people up to their ears in Watergate were eagerly telling their stories and in doing so, they told much of Liddy's. He didn't make much money from his notoriety — until now.

But he is making up for lost time. Liddy's book, "Will," was published earlier this year and he plans to speak in all 50 states during his college tour.

At each stop Liddy tells students Americans are "disabled" because they are unable to discern, as he can, the difference between "the real world" and "the world of illusion."

All told, Liddy spent 4½ years in nine federal prisons for the Watergate burglary and the break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist after Ellsberg leaked the Pentagon Papers to the press.

Today, he "draws sizable" crowds wherever he goes, but many people in his audience have been openly hostile.

"With all due respect," said one spectator at Fairfield, "I loaned my friend, Bruce, $2 to get in here tonight. I wonder if from the Warm Springs 'Little White House' of President Franklin D. Roosevelt."

"I don't recall that a gun was put to your head and you were forced to come here tonight," replied Liddy. "So you're free to go."

"I guess the answer is: I don't get my money back," the man said. "I'll just chalk it up to the real world."

"I have never been known to be accused of having a shy, retiring personality. I am not easily offended. I knew what I was getting into when I walked in here tonight."

Buggy builder goes modern

NASHVILLE, Mich. (UPI) — Herb Andler, who worked for six years on a General Motors assembly line, now turns out motor vehicles that will never waste a drop of gas or be accused of polluting the air.

"The less I have to drive a car the better I like it," said Andler, who may be Michigan's only full-time buggy builder.

Andler, 37, who chucked his job at GM's Fisher Body plant in Lansing for a life in the country, said the buggy business is booming — with nearly 70 of the horse-drawn vehicles already produced by his small family-run shop.

"Although the south-central Michigan community has been the scene of a recent migration of buggy-driving Amish farmers, Andler said his customers include "doctors, lawyers, farmers — and — businessmen."

"I have an order for 12 of them from a Detroit man who plans to cater weddings and use them for a taxi service, around the Renaissance Center," he said.

While his craft is reminiscent of the 19th century, Andler is no purist. Carriage bodies are made of fiberglass, modern roller bearings replace greased axles and acrylic auto-body paint is used on the exteriors.

"I try to improve on what already exists," he said, adding, "I suppose could install a stereo tape deck if somebody wanted."

The buggies range in price from $1,400 for the basic roofless two-seater model to $3,900 for the top-of-the-line four-passenger surrey complete with fringes and crushed velvet upholstery.

The entire family pitches in, with two sons piecing together the carriage and his wife, Roxie, doing the upholstery.

They can turn out buggies at a rate of one a day although they haven't had to do so. The ride supposedly rivals the best from Detroit.

"You hardly feel the bumps," said Mrs. Andler. "It's like riding in Cadillac."

Quising estate benefits charity

OSLO, Norway (UPI) — Vidkun Quisling, the Norwegian Nazi leader whose name became an international synonym for traitor, has contributed thousands of dollars to a Christian charity — 35 years after he was executed for high treason and war crimes.

The property and effects of the World War II puppet leader were sold at an auction Friday and Saturday and while experts called most of the furniture and art objects "trash," the items fetched $300,000 for the Christian Home Mission.

Quisling, who served as a Norwegian minister-president in occupied Norway under Nazi commander Josef Terboven, was executed for high treason at the Akershus Castle in Oslo on Oct. 24, 1945.

He left all his personal belongings to his Russian-born wife Maria who lived a secluded life in a small Oslo apartment until her death.

What's what

Try out new approach, Gemini, reach better accord with friends

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Make sure that you do nothing today that could upset one who has authority over you. Strive to make progress in your financial endeavor. Secrets come to light at this time.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Do nothing that could cause a severance of connections with an associate. Be sure to keep an important appointment.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Concentrate on the future and then make concrete plans to improve it. Take modern treatments to improve your health.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Try a new approach with friends and reach a better understanding with them. Know what is expected of you by associates.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You have to be tactful and clear thinking to patch up a problem of long standing. Take no risks with money at this time.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You can get along better with associates by adopting a new attitude. Take no chances with one who has harmed you in the past.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study your duties well and figure out a way to handle them more efficiently. Don't do anything that could anger your mate.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Use a different approach in a civil matter and get excellent results. Avoid one who is detrimental to your best interests.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Make work the keynote in your activities today and accomplish a great deal. Not a good day to engage in new interests.

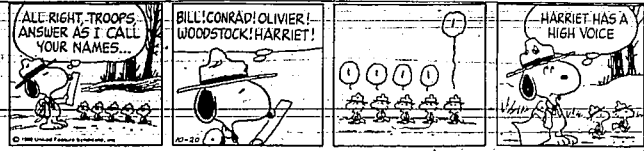

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be extra patient in the face of any pressures today and you win out. Strive for greater prestige in civic affairs.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Be tactful with family members and maintain harmony at home. Take no chances with a well-known troublemaker.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Use good judgment in the handling of problems connected with regular routines. Come to a better understanding with mate.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Your monetary prowess is better now than for some time so make the most of this now. Obtain data you need from the right sources.

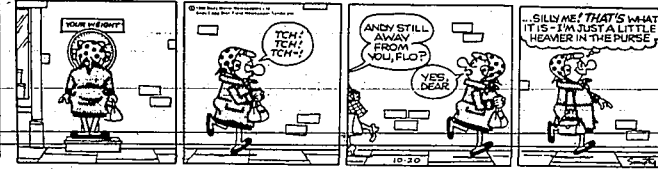

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be a capable person who can study new ventures and understand them well. But it's important to teach to finish one thing before going on with another. Don't neglect ethical training early in life.

Here's how soft drink received name 7-Up

Q: Who invented 7-Up?
A: Credit C. T. Grigg with that one. In 1929 "At first, he called it Bib-Label Lithiated Lemon-Lime Soda. It then had the mineral element lithium in it. Later Grigg removed the lithium and in 1936 changed the name to 7-Up. Why he called it that he never said, but "originally" it came out of seven-ounce bottles, and "bottoms up" was a common expression in those days.

Q: Only one four-letter word in English, when printed in capital letters, reads the same upside down as right-side-up. What is it?
A. NOON.

Q: In spy talk, what's a "mole"?
A. A double agent.

COMPULSIVE BUYERS
Three out of five supermarket shoppers don't go into the place with a list. They just eyeball it all, aside to aside, and pick out this or that. You'd think they would be the big spenders, but the researchers say that's not true. It's the list carriers who are the compulsive buyers. That's why they take the list. To protect themselves against themselves.

Write the great Goethe: "When we treat a man as he is, we make him worse than he is. When we treat him as if he already were what he potentially could be, we make him what he should be."

Men are waterier than women. More specifically, men's bodies are 65 to 75 percent water while women's are 55 to 65 percent water.

You and I may enumerate the Ten Commandments as one, two or three, so on, but no Bible of any faith gives them specific numbers.

LIFE EXPECTANCY
Note it claimed in print that if life expectancy were to continue to rise at its present rate, the average person 1,000 years from now will live to be 200 years old. Something wrong with that claim. The medicos sadly admit they've done little to prolong human life in the retirement years. That pushes up the overall statistics in the success of the doctors in saving the lives of younger persons and babies.

Maybe you didn't know that chickens, too, stampeded. They do. One wild stampede can suffocate hundreds of them.

Bomb at agents' meeting in Manila injures 5 Americans

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — A terrorist bomb exploded Sunday at the opening session of an American travel agents' convention, wounding 18 people, including five Americans. The bomb went off about 50 feet from where President Ferdinand B.

Marcos and U.S. Ambassador Richard Murphy were sitting but both escaped unharmed. An anti-Marcos guerrilla group known as the April 6 Liberation Movement had warned the 3,000 members of the American Society of Travel Agents not to hold their seven-day convention in Manila. The government reacted by imposing stringent anti-terrorist precautions but witnesses said security was lax Sunday at the Philippine Convention Center.

After the explosion, the Agency France Presse said it received a telephone call from the April 6 group claiming responsibility. Philippine Tourism Minister Jose D. Aspiras said 16 people suffered superficial wounds. The five Americans were identified as Frederick Cooper, 64, and his wife Betty, 61, of Alhambra, S.C.; Roberta Fischer of Arlington Heights, Ill.; Clifford Ascher and his wife, Lola, of Glendale, Calif. Among the others injured were Donald Graham, a Jamaican living in New York; a Swiss, two Brazilians, a South Korean and eight Filipinos. The tourism minister said some people had been arrested after the bombing but he did not elaborate.

Cardinal puts church behind Polish union

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — In an unprecedented show of support, Cardinal Stefan Wyszyński Sunday threw the weight of Poland's Catholic Church behind efforts by the Communist nation's new independent trade union to win official approval. "I am with you," the 79-year-old Wyszyński told about 20 union leaders in his private chapel as more than 150 miles south in the city of Krakow. He urged the union to keep cheering crowds carried labor activist Lech Walesa through the streets and heard his pledge to carry on. "You will survive and hold out," the cardinal told the leaders of the 6 million member union. In a brief sermon, Wyszyński said the new unions wanted "good things for the motherland."

In related developments: • Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko arrived in Warsaw for a Warsaw Pact meeting in the highest level visit by a Soviet official to Poland since the summer strikes and the ouster of Communist Party chief Edward Giersek. • The Polish foreign ministry summoned diplomats from several Western countries, including the United States, to criticize "meddling" in Polish affairs by the foreign media. Walesa's union, known as Solidarity, has been trying unsuccessfully since Sept. 24 to be registered formally by the courts. The official Polish News Agency PAP said the delay in the registration was due to Solidarity's refusal to include in its proposed charter a paragraph confirming the leading role of the Communist Party.

Fraser's party wins Australian elections

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI) — Opposition Labor Party leader Bill Hayden conceded defeat Sunday in hard fought elections that returned Prime Minister Malcolm Fraser to office for a third term. "I congratulate the prime minister and his government. I hope it is a vastly improved government in the period of this parliament. It's needed. We've punched a helluva hole, both in their majority and in their confidence," Hayden said in a statement issued from his electoral office in Ipswich, Queensland. When vote counting was recessed Sunday evening, Fraser's conservative coalition had 68 seats in the 125-seat House of Representatives against Labor's 51. Six seats were still in doubt but analysts predicted these would be split 4-2, giving Fraser's coalition a 19 seat majority in parliament. That still represented a sharp setback for the government, which held a 49-seat majority in the old parliament. Pre-election polls had often predicted a victory by Labor, which campaigned on a promise of new programs to reduce Australia's 6 percent unemployment. If he serves the full three years, Fraser will be the second longest serving prime minister in Australia's history after Sir Robert Menzies, who held office for 16 years. Both leaders spent Sunday relaxing in their home territory, Fraser in Melbourne with his family and Hayden at his home in Ipswich. Fraser's main concern now is the outcome of the contest for 34 of the Senate's 62 seats. Under a complicated preferential voting system, it will take another two or three days before the final results of the Senate contest are known. But it appeared that Fraser will lose control of the Senate after June 1981, when the newly-elected senators take their seats.

John Wayne's Personal Letter on Frank Church

(Letter To Los Angeles Times - August 24, 1975)

John Wayne Assails Sen. Church

It is an ever-wonderment to me how we the American people can accept men of the caliber of Frank Church (D-Ida.) for the leadership in our country. Here is a man who sits with a pontifical attitude and makes either ridiculous and/or obvious statements to prove his value as a leader.

He explains very thoroughly to us (Times, Aug. 15) that if a dictator took over this country because of the CIA and the other intelligence agencies, the American people would have no way to fight back. I presume he means without those agencies we would have a very easy time if a dictator took over.

He states that the very capability of intercepting messages which our CIA has could be turned around and used against the American people. I wonder if he realizes that a policeman to whom we give a gun could also turn that gun around and use it against the American people. The statements are so ridiculous.

He then states that there would be no place to hide if this government ever became a tyranny, if a dictator took charge because of the technological capability that the intelligence community has given the government. If this is so, why can't the present government find Patty Hearst?

Trying to get the information this community needs in the investigation of the CIA is sometimes like pulling teeth he says, but he refuses to ask CIA director William Colby to resign, saying that Colby has been forthcoming in his dealings with the panel.

I can see his headline-hunting statements now if he were investigating the Los Angeles Police Department and the Los Angeles County Sheriff's department, "Those men have guns that they could turn on your children!" "We must stop them before they pass that abyss from which there is no return!"

It is unfortunate that we cannot request of our leaders that they keep their mouths shut until they have something important to say on these investigating procedures.

I cannot help but wonder what damage men of his caliber will do to what is a necessary part of our government's activities. Think of the damage that has probably been done to our information apparatus in the Portugal affair because of the career officer's worry of what the public reaction will be to blabbermouths like Church.

Persian Gulf war

Iran, Iraq claim victories as battles move into 5th week

BASRA, Iraq (UPI) — Iraq said its "loops" captured a strategic Iranian military post Sunday near the embattled port of Khurramshahr where house-to-house street fighting raged for the fourth consecutive day.

Iraq reported ground and air battles around the Iranian port that its forces have been trying to capture and hold since the early days of the Persian Gulf war, now in its fifth week.

It said Iranian Phantom jets also struck Baghdad again, killing one civilian and injuring three.

But the main focus of the war was still on the Iranian refinery port of Abadan and its sister city of Khurramshahr, where Iran reported "house-to-house and hand-to-hand" fighting raging for the fourth day.

An Iraqi military communique said four Iranian jets were shot down and 10 tanks destroyed during the capture of a "strategic Iranian military camp" at Doi near Khurramshahr. One "kill" came "in a dogfight over the battlefield," it said.

Iran said its defenders again pushed back attacking Iraqi troops from the outskirts of Abadan and that street fighting was continuing in Khurramshahr.

Iranian leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, in an Al Adha feast address, warned of dissent inside the armed forces, echoing earlier criticism by President Abolhasan Bani-Sadr.

Khomeini admonished young troops in Khuzistan province along the Shatt-al-Arab waterway to carry out the instructions of the Supreme Defense Council and avoid disputes and discord, according to Tehran radio.

He called on Iranians to choose between "eternal honor and eternal shame in this holy jihad (war)," the radio said.

Both sides reported what appeared to be widespread aerial action.

Two Iraqi air raids on the Persian Gulf oil terminal at Kharg Island were beaten off, Tehran said.

Iraq warplanes also struck near the railway station of Ahvaz, capital of Khuzistan province, with a rocket attack, Tehran said. It said one civilian was killed and three severely wounded, adding: "In view of the severity of the attack the number of casualties is small."

Sadat wants U.S. to keep warning planes on Mideast duty

WADI RAHA, Egypt (UPI) — President Anwar Sadat urged the United States Sunday to reject Iran's request to withdraw the early warning planes it sent to Saudi Arabia.

Retracting an earlier call, Sadat also said Washington must be "vigilant" to ensure the Soviet Union does not profit from the Persian Gulf war.

He said the Russians already were making worrisome gains in the Middle East and that Syria, which recently signed a wide-ranging "friendship" treaty with Moscow, was in danger of becoming the Afghanistan of the Arab world.

Since the Iranian-Iraqi war erupted four weeks ago, Sadat has several times urged Washington to intervene to protect the conservative regimes of the Persian Gulf against what he warned would be Soviet attempts to exploit the crisis.

Sadat was asked to comment on remarks made at the United Nations Saturday by Iranian Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai, who said the United States could take a "great step in solving" the 351-day-old hostage crisis if it withdraws the four AWACS early warning system planes sent to Saudi Arabia.

"That is for the United States to discuss with him and the others and Saudi Arabia because Saudi Arabia asked for these airplanes," Sadat replied.

"But as I see this situation, on the contrary, the United States, as I said before, should be vigilant and we shouldn't give any opportunity to any other party to seek benefits from the situation," he said.

By the "other party" Sadat was clearly referring to the Soviets, who recently signed a 20-year treaty of friendship and cooperation with Syrian President Hafez Assad.

China bolsters Hainan base

PEKING (UPI) — China is strengthening its southern air, naval and ground forces on strategic Hainan Island in the Gulf of Tonkin.

The move is in response to the establishment of a major Soviet base at the Vietnamese port of Cam Ranh Bay, diplomatic sources said Sunday.

The buildup has been going on for more than a year, according to the sources, and was designed not only to balance Moscow's increased presence in the area but also to add military muscle to China's territorial dispute with Vietnam over possession of a tiny cluster of islands, the Paracels, in the South China Sea.

The sources said the Chinese have moved extra ground units to Hainan, at the very tip of southwest China and opposite Vietnam's major port of Haiphong. Peking has also beefed up its naval patrol boats in the region and added extra warplanes.

Iraq seeks 'millions' from Arab oil states to finance war

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Iraq is anticipating a long war with Iran and has approached the Arab oil producers for "million of dollars" to help carry it through the fighting.

Persian Gulf financial sources said Sunday.

Senior officials in the ministry of finance of an Arab Gulf state said Iraq envoys criss-crossed Kuwait, Qatar, Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates during the past week trying to organize financial assistance for Baghdad's war effort.

The sources said Iraq's four Arab Gulf neighbors were seriously considering Baghdad's requests and in at least one case, Qatar, have already agreed to provide financial aid.

"We are talking about millions of dollars," the financial sources said about the extent of Iraq's requests. They said the arrangements are being handled with utmost secrecy so as not to embarrass Iraq or invite reprisals from Iran.

Privately, all the Arab Gulf ruling families support Iraq's efforts to deflate Iran's Islamic revolution. But pressure both from Iran and the United States has kept them from publicly siding with Baghdad.

The sources said Iraq has proposed to pay back any aid, without interest, either in cash or crude oil after its oil industry has been restored.

- Hemorrhoids or piles, prostatic or itching, pain or urethra on sitting

SPINAL NERVE INVOLVEMENT CAUSES MANY CONDITIONS

The spinal chart shown above is directed especially to those people who have tried to regain their health through methods other than chiropractic and have failed. THAT FAILURE SHOULD NOT LEAD TO DISCOURAGEMENT, but to greater determination to discover this fundamental cause of all disease.

Since the discovery of chiropractic, no one needs to feel that he or she is "doomed" to be sick all their life. Remember, "Where there is life there is hope and he who has hope has everything."

If your condition is not described in the above chart, contact your participating doctor for a consultation, examination, and x-rays if necessary. He will determine by his analysis of your spinal condition what you can expect from chiropractic care. Remember, "Time is a friend to disease!"

Remains of missing child identified by Atlanta lab

ATLANTA (UPI) — Authorities Sunday identified the skeleton of a child found by volunteer searchers as Latonya Wilson, the 10th of 14 missing black children to be found dead in the past 15 months.

Atlanta Public Safety Commissioner Lee Brown said the Fulton County medical examiner had identified the skeleton as belonging to the 7-year-old girl, who police said was abducted from her home June 22.

The body of 10 missing black children have been found in the past 15 months. Four other children still are missing, and police and city authorities have stepped up efforts to solve the baffling disappearances that have terrified Atlanta parents.

Brown said authorities have not determined how the girl died, but they are assuming "foul play" was involved.

"The medical examiner has been unable to determine the exact cause of death," Brown said. "But police are proceeding as if foul play were involved."

The body was found Saturday shortly after noon not far from a railroad track in West Atlanta where the child lived. More than 300 volunteers took part in the search.

Police planned to begin door-to-door interviews with neighbors today, asking if they have seen anything even vaguely suspicious that might help solve the case.

The small skeleton, a tattered shirt and a clump of hair with a green plastic barrette were found in some underbrush north of Interstate 20 Saturday — in sight of the Hillcrest Heights apartment complex where the Wilson child lived.

Band bus overturns in rain, 8 in hospital

CHESTER, Va. (UPI) — A bus returning 28 high-school students and four adult chaperones from a band competition in North Carolina overturned on a rain-slick Interstate early Sunday. Eight people were hospitalized.

State troopers said the bus driver was charged with reckless driving.

Emergency rooms at five hospitals were swamped with the injured, most of whom were treated for minor injuries and released. Of those hospitalized, one was critically injured. The students from Highland Springs High School in Henrico County, Va., won an interstate band contest in Wilson, N.C., Saturday night and were returning home when the accident occurred.

Threat fails to halt witches' meet

AMARILLO, Texas (UPI) — The leader of a witches' seminar said Sunday that a threat to cancel the rate portrayal of his group as devil worshippers were responsible for a bomb threat against the convention.

The Church of Wicca seminar was interrupted for three hours Saturday when an anonymous caller said bombs had been planted in the hotel hosting the meeting. No explosives were found in a room-by-room search.

"We didn't expect any of this," Tarrant said. "We knew there might be a protest but we certainly didn't expect to be threatened or all this media attention."

About 300 people from area churches gathered outside the hotel singing and praying to protest the presence of the "modern witches."

The Mamous claimed the witches would bring "demonic forces" to the city and several local churches conducted "prayer-chains" throughout the weekend. The witches did not want to debate the Christian faith.

"We don't get into confrontations, especially when there's no advantage in it," Tarrant said. "I could have had a hell of a good philosophical argument with Mrs. Mamou but there's no reason to encourage or even allow it. I wasn't going to change her mind."

Tarrant said the Wicca (an archaic word for witch) group had no satanic beliefs.

"Satan is part of the Christian belief system," he said. "We're not Christian or anti-Christian — just other-than-Christian."

Radiation drifting over U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A cloud of radioactive debris began drifting over the western United States and Canada Sunday, but American officials said there was little health danger from the fallout from a recent Chinese nuclear test blast.

A spokesman for the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration said Sunday morning the main body of the cloud would pass over the continental United States over the next two days.

"The cloud began passing over the West Coast this morning, roughly between Oregon and southern British Columbia," said NOAA spokesman Gus Kostalegadas.

"It will take about two days to reach the East Coast," he said. Its path will first be in the northwest near the U.S.-Canadian border, then curve down to the southeast through the Dakotas and toward Missouri, then swing back east, clearing the coast late Monday or early Tuesday morning."

Kostalegadas said NOAA's projection of the path is based on "a meteorological trajectory — not any confirmation of where the debris is or the level of activity."

Actual sampling will be conducted in the air by the Air Force and by ground samples recorded by the Environmental Protection Agency and various state agencies, he said.

"The EPA has alerted its sampling network, and will take daily samples of air, rainwater and monitor milk," he said.

Over the weekend an EPA spokesman said, "We do not anticipate any significant health effects."

"We're making a routine response. We expect nothing untoward," he said.

The increased checking of milk comes over the concern over contamination of milk that was widely reported in the early 1960s before the treaty banning atmospheric nuclear tests was ratified. China is not a party to the test ban treaty.

The main cloud of fallout from the nuclear test blast last Thursday was at 30,000 to 40,000 feet. The Energy Department said the explosion at the Lop Nor test site in northwest China was in the yield range of 200 kilotons to one megaton. The last Chinese nuclear test was in 1973.

STEVE SYMMS

"OUR ENERGY CRISIS WON'T BE SOLVED BY 'LOCKING-UP' OUR OWN NATURAL RESOURCES."

Frank Church and Jimmy Carter talk of U.S. military action in the oil rich Middle East to protect the "vital" interests of the United States.

Bold talk which could result in American men fighting over oil in the Middle East.

But at home, Carter/Church policies are virtually "locking-up" our own domestic energy resources which could make us less dependent on these unreliable foreign sources.

It's time for a change. It's time to make wise use of our own energy sources so we will never be forced to send our young men to fight for foreign oil.

Senator McClure and Congressman Steve Symms.

STEVE SYMMS ON ENERGY: It is tragic that Frank Church and his Democratic colleagues in Congress are still reluctant to admit that producing more energy at home, while conserving existing supplies, is the best way to solve our current energy crisis. Events in the Middle East should drive this point home. We must move now to encourage increased domestic production of our energy resources.

As ranking Republican Member of the House Energy and Environment Subcommittee, I have supported legislation to increase development and production of domestic coal, oil and natural gas to lessen our dependence on unreliable OPEC sources. I support legislation to encourage production of gasohol; the development of Idaho's geothermal resources; safe nuclear power and other alternate energy sources.

Board denies school plans

ARLINGTON, Va. (UPI) — The Arlington County Board, citing the potential for terrorist attacks, rejected a proposal to convert a church into a school over the objections of a Libyan group for the children of diplomats.

The board's decision Saturday followed a two-hour public hearing attended by more than 100 residents of the Washington suburb in northern Virginia.

"This would be a sword of Damocles hanging over our head," said resident Al Donner. "It would act as a lightning rod to attract violence into our community."

The Islamic Call Society, a group largely funded by the Libyan government, had contracted to buy the Calvary Church in the Nazarene and its property for $1.2 million. The sale was contingent upon approval for a school on the site.

Some residents testified they opposed the school because it would be run by a government hostile to the United States and one with a history of terrorist activities.

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE R. LEONARD

Personius-Leonard

TWIN FALLS — Valerie Personius and George R. Leonard, both of Twin Falls, exchanged wedding vows Sept. 20.

The ceremony was held at St. Edwards Catholic church with Rev. Perry Dodds officiating. Carol Barnes of Filer was soloist and Dennis McKraeken of Twin Falls was organist.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Robert Richards of Twin Falls and J. R. Personius of Kent, Wash. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Merl E. Leonard of Filer.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an ivory organza gown trimmed in silk Venice and scallops which accented a Queen-Anne neckline. The gown featured an attached chapel train and she wore a two-tyed fingertip veil and carried a bouquet of roses, mums and daisies.

Dana Bradley of Paul, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bonnie and Julie Moes of Twin Falls were bridesmaids.

Best man was Keith Owings of Twin Falls. Serving as groomsmen were John Featherstone of Spokane and Randy Macleider of Davenport. Wash. All fraternity brothers of the bridegroom.

A reception was held at the Little Inn following the ceremony. Kerry and Ken Daniels, niece and nephew of the bridegroom, attended the guest book and gift table. Pat DeLaMare of Midvale, Utah, and Mary Martin of West Jordan, Utah, the sisters of the bridegroom, served the cake. Doris Finney, aunt of the bride, Howard McKay and Mary Lee Pfeiffer also assisted.

After a trip to Montana, Yellowstone Park and Jackson Hole, Wyo., the couple resides in Twin Falls where she is employed at First-Federal Savings and Loan, and he is a loan officer with Twin Falls Bank and Trust.

CSI music groups schedule concert

TWIN FALLS — The music department of the College of Southern Idaho will present a concert of instrumental and vocal music at 3 p.m. Sunday.

Participating will be the college Concert Band, Concert Choir and Stage Band.

The Concert Band, under the direction of Thomas Breske, will perform the "Minute Concert March" by Robert H. Pearson, "Sonata for Winds" by Charles Carter, "Pas Redouble" by Saint-Saens, "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" arranged by James Neilson, and the popular song, "Feelings" by Bob Lowden.

A special feature will be a trumpet trio performing a composition entitled "Flamingo Trumpets" by Carol M. Butte. Members of the trio include Jeff Long, Kevin Paulstan and Larren Novak.

The Concert Choir, directed by Carson Wong, will perform two 11th century madrigals and a 20th century madrigal.

"Basket" by Cecil Effinger will feature oboist Janet Brackett of Buhl accompanying the choir. Helen Connolly is the piano accompanist.

The Stage Band, directed by Lawrence Curtis, CSI music department head, is composed of both CSI students and Magic Valley residents. Some have been with the group for the past 10 years.

They will perform "Theme from Ice Castles" and old favorites such as "Basin Street Blues," "Let's Have Another Cup of Coffee" and "Tumbling Tumbleweeds."

Featured vocalists will be Renda Bucher, singing "Love Will Keep Us Together" and Miss Hammitt, singing "Just the Way You Are."

The Sunday afternoon performance is free to the public.

Valley happenings

Mental-Health center reports

TWIN FALLS — The public is invited to a meeting at 7 p.m. Tuesday at the Twin Falls Community Mental Health Center to hear the regional center's annual performance reports.

According to Scott Williams, the purpose of the report meeting is to familiarize the public with the operations of the mental health center, as well as to allow public input into its programming.

The center office is located at 923 Harrison St., Twin Falls.

Valley SOS sets carnival

EDEN HAZELTON — The Valley SOS is planning a Halloween carnival to be held from 6 to 9 p.m. Oct. 25 at Valley High School.

Activities include bingo, a Disco dance on stage and lots of fun booths. Hamburgers, corn dogs and pie will be served.

Residents are asked to please donate baked goods, extra garden produce or craft items to be used as bingo prizes.

Children are asked to bring decorated pumpkins which will be donated to the area senior citizens. Anyone doing so will receive a free carnival ticket.

All proceeds will go to purchase school equipment.

CAA to sponsor bake sale

TWIN FALLS — The South Central Community Action Agency will sponsor a bake sale inside the Blue Lakes Mall from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Oct. 30.

Proceeds will be used for the emergency medical fund. Donations are welcome. For more information call 733-3351.

Social Security data meet

TWIN FALLS — A representative from the Social Security Office will provide information and answer questions about Social Security and Supplemental Security

Income at a special meeting at 2 p.m. Oct. 27 at the South Central Community Action Agency, 129 Second St. E. Twin Falls. (The old Regerson Hotel.)

Anniversaries

MR. AND MRS. MAX MCCASLIN

HAZELTON — Mr. and Mrs. Max McCaslin of Hazelton will be honored with an open house in observance of their 50th wedding anniversary.

The event will be held from 2 to 5 p.m. Oct. 26 at the Odd Fellows Hall in Hazelton, hosted by their children and grandchildren.

McCaslin and LaVerne Drummond were married Oct. 28, 1930, at Twin Falls. They farmed in the Twin Falls and Burley areas until moving into Hazelton in 1944.

He was foreman for the Bean Growers Association for 15 years and then worked for Perry Morse Seed Co. for five years until retiring in 1974.

Mrs. McCaslin was supervisor of the bean sorting crew for 12 years at Barlow's warehouse and at Ferry Morse Seed Co.

The couple has three children, Clifford McCaslin of Caldwell, Glen McCaslin of Okla. Bay, Wash., and Mrs. Don (Marilyn) McBride of Hazelton; 12 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

All friends and relatives are invited.

Dieters now own spa

By PADDY CALISTRO
© The Los Angeles Times

SANTA ROSA, Calif. — Barbara Nichols, a former Army medic, is lolling in the sun, a nearby swimming pool glistening in her sunglasses.

She sips a Perrier and lime cocktail. This is her first spa experience.

"I'm 35 pounds overweight," Nichols said, her bathing suit bulging in all the right places and a few wrong ones. "I feel comfortable here because everyone isn't taking the way I hear they are at other spas," the 27-year-old Nichols added.

No, everyone at this health-and-beauty retreat is not skinny. A lean, bikini-clad woman at poolside is an exception, certainly not the rule. Most of the guests at the world's first Weight Watchers Spa appear to be about 20 pounds overweight. Some are a wee-bit plump; others are huge. One admits she wants to lose 75 pounds. Another says she signed up to stay eight weeks at the spa before she had even seen the 6 1/2-acre facility. "I expect to leave looking like a bag of bones," she said.

Neither woman has been to a Weight Watchers meeting. In fact, says activity director Joan Hambly, most of the first guests have never been to one of the meetings that were originally founded by Jean Nidetch in 1963. Ernest Schwartz, a San Francisco physician and owner of this spa, is not a member of Nidetch's tribe.

Neither is Hambly, nor is Alice Grant, the exercise director.

"This is not an intensive Weight Watchers meeting," stresses Hambly. "We leave that to individual groups around the country. We emphasize exercise in combination with a Weight Watchers diet." Schwartz explains that holding any type of W.W. meetings would be in conflict with his licensing contract with Weight Watchers International, Inc.

"Our goal," Schwartz explained, "is to show people what Weight Watchers food is like, and to offer them all the luxuries of a spa — at a price that won't kill them." Price for a week's stay is $750.

As with most spas, Weight Watchers Spa has a barber shop, beauty parlor, saunas, steam rooms, massage rooms, a jogging track and tennis courts.

Though the spa is located in the heart of Northern California's wine country, no alcoholic beverages are served in the Weight Watchers legal dining room. There are special dishes such as Weight Watchers pancakes or french toast at breakfast. Weight Watchers chili con carne or chicken salad at lunchtime, and cornish hen with spiced black cherry sauce and spiced peach pudding at supper.

Nobody's out of calories. In typical Weight Watchers style, there's a "portion of this and a half portion of that." ("Portion" is part of the dietetic language developed as part of her eating plan. Most portions are determined by using the official Weight Watchers scale.) Chef Alison (Skip) Sears says he cooks according to rules set by the Weight Watchers Kitchen in New York. No sugar. No salt. No bacon. No sausage. Pressed for an answer, Sears says the diet totals about 1,200 calories a day.

While the official Weight Watchers weight-loss program does not stress exercise, the spa does. The activity schedule includes different exercise machines on the premises. Alice Grant, a svelt gymnast, directs the exercise program. "We don't want anyone to feel discouraged," she emphasizes. "If they were to see skinny me telling them that they can look great by the end of the week, they'd get discouraged. I tell them to think of this as a learning center — a place where they can learn how to move, then take the exercises home with them."

While many of the guests seemed pleased with their visit to the spa, others had complaints:

From Nichols: "I'm disappointed that this place is right on Highway 101. It's noisy."

When a reporter visited the spa, lunch included: small — very small green salad with Weight Watchers-legal dressing; a scoop — a half scoop — of cold haddock salad; a small glass — make that half of a small glass — of skim milk, and unlimited cups of coffee. (The reporter went away hungry — certainly feeling leaner — and stopped next door to the spa to buy a Salickers bar.)

Lady barrel clown likes disco dress

Dear Abby

Love, support best weapons in smoking battle

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© Universal Press Syndicate

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Robin Sendorf, a clown and a daredevil, dances into the rodeo ring and delights the crowd by teasing a hunkling, snorting bull that weighs nearly as much as a Volkswagen, and daring him to gore her.

As one of the first female barrel clowns in the business, Robin is a performer, but not much of a horseback rider, she admits. She prefers disco dress to cowgirl garb, and brings a touch of it to the clown role she plays on the western rodeo circuit.

Robin is a clown with a contemporary, feminine touch. She curls her long dark hair before each performance, and appears in the ring wearing loose-fitting cutoff blue jeans over a leotard and tights or a shiny satin shirt. Her face makeup is a simple white star-shaped design, which never varies.

When the bull enters the ring, Robin earns her pay. Distracting the bull from goring the rider, he has just bucked off, Robin faces the same risk as a matador.

"There's a lot of guys who won't get in that barrel," said Robin, 21, a Texan who put down her pom-poms after a stint as a Dallas Cowboys cheerleader, left the world of beauty pageants where she won some titles, and took on the rough and tumble life of the rodeo.

She waves a white bra at the bull, which gets a laugh from the crowd. Then, perched atop her barrel, she swipes at the thundering mass of beef with a broom.

"When the bull dumps his rider and comes for me, I jump in the barrel," said Robin. "It's really frightening to peer out and see him standing there." Occasionally, she is helped in her special fiberglass cocoon, Robin is propelled around the ring on the end of the bull's horns, or pitched as high as 15 feet into the air.

She fell out the bull probably would stomp and gore her, she said. So she clings to the straps inside the barrel, and braces herself against the slaves.

Two years ago millions of football fans could see Robin on television doing cheerleader routines for the Dallas Cowboys. The 5-foot 8-inch, green-eyed brunette enjoyed the fans' adoration, but did not try out for a second season. "I had the feeling I wasn't going anywhere."

She had met Doug Wylie, a professional rodeo bullfighter, and they began dating. Robin went to work for a beauty pageant operator in Reno, Nev. and Doug worked the rodeo circuit.

She began hanging around the rodeo, doing odd jobs and begging for a chance to break in.

"Doug said 'why don't you get in the barrel?—We need a gimmick—out there,'" Robin remembers.

"I said 'well, heck, I'll do it once.' I didn't ever think about doing it again. But the people just went wild. Even the bullrider was cheering me on."

Now she travels with the Flying U Rodeo to 65 rodeos a year in California, Utah, Washington and Idaho.

DEAR ABBY: My 60-year-old husband has emphysema so bad he can hardly draw a deep breath or laugh without coughing.

His doctor said he absolutely had to quit smoking. So he saw a hypnotist a few times, came home and announced he was "cured." I knew he was lying because whenever he'd come in from the outside he'd smell of smoke. He thinks he's fooling me, but I keep finding cigarettes stashed all over the house.

Abby, I feel like I'm living with a dope addict. Should I throw the cigarettes out when I find them? It's hard enough to live with a man who's killing himself because he isn't man enough to quit smoking, but to know that he's a liar and a cheat hurts even more. I really love him, but I feel so helpless. Please tell me what to do.

—HEARTSICK WIFE
DEAR WIFE: First, I'll tell you what NOT to do. Don't tell him that if he were a "man" he could quit smoking. He hates his habit as much (or more) than you, but he's hooked. His craving for nicotine is as real as a heroin addict's need for a fix. Don't throw away the cigarettes he's stashed. It will only make him feel guiltier, and Lord knows, he already feels guilty enough.

If you love him, tell him! He needs to hear it to help him conquer the habit. I've heard from literally hundreds of smokers who have been as hooked as he; but managed to quit. Some use the tapering-off method; others said "cold turkey" was the only way. Many recommended behavior modification. Some credit prayer. But all of the programs for which people pay, according to my readers, the most successful by far is Smokender.

(For information, the toll-free number is 1-800-227-2334. In California it's 1-800-642-4772.) Your man may have to try several methods before finding the one that works for him. But with your love and support, his chances for quitting are infinitely better.

DEAR ABBY: A writer asked whether it was proper to ask "who else is coming?" after receiving an invitation to a party. Your reply, "It's not considered good manners," prompts this letter.

Recently, we drove 20 miles to a party only to find that our neighbors had done the same thing. Our "good manners" is not inquiring who else was coming, was both wasteful and expensive.

I suggest that hostesses consider this, and offer information that would promote sharing a ride. Or perhaps a guest might properly inquire as to whether he could give any other guests a ride.

—WARSON WOODS, MO.

DEAR ABBY: Many of your readers may get the wrong impression from ANONYMOUS, who said, "I was married to a Christian Scientist who wished to return to the cellate life — married, but no sex. Then I suddenly came to my senses, divorced him, and now I am married to a normal Presbyterian."

Abby, Christian Scientists are "normal," too. The warmth and affection evident in their family lives belie that frigid and misleading picture given.

—A.W.P.

DEAR WOODS: Asking "who else will be there?" out of curiosity is lucky. Offering to provide transportation to other guests is thoughtful.

Coordinate color

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Homeowners repainting their houses should take care to see that the color of paint selected for the siding and trim coordinates with the color of the roof, according to a spokesperson for a major paint manufacturer (Pittsburgh Paints).

She notes that the color of roof and walls rarely match but should complement each other — for example, with a brown roof, soft gold for the walls and a deeper gold for trim, but a brown matching the roof for doors and shutters.

Other housepainting tips:
Light tints for siding make a home look larger, dark colors make it seem smaller; a house with wood siding and also stone or brick should be painted in a color to coordinate with the permanent part — for example, soft rust shades on siding to highlight the brick; trim for colonial or conventional house should be a different color from the body of the house; doors and shutters can be used for accent colors like bright gold or rich red for individuality.

Investigators talk over sniper slayings but that's all

CINCINNATI (UPI) — If investigators from 16 law enforcement agencies thought a nationwide puzzle of racially motivated sniper slayings would fall together during a two-day meeting in Cincinnati, they apparently were disappointed.

Police learned nothing "startling" during the meeting that would link the killings of blacks in several cities to possible suspect Joseph Franklin, said spokesman L. Don Byrd of the Cincinnati police homicide department.

"None of the cities I'm saying this is or is not our man," he said.

Although Franklin is wanted for questioning in apparent racially motivated slayings in several cities, he is only considered a suspect in the Aug. 20

Salt Lake City killings of two black joggers, Byrd said.

On Sept. 25, the 30-year-old Mobile, Ala., native was picked up by Florence, Ky., police. Five hours later, however, he escaped their custody by hoisting himself through a police station window while the room was unattended. Franklin has eluded authorities ever since.

Cincinnati police want to interrogate Franklin in the June 8 shooting deaths of two black teen-age boys. Other unsolved sniping slayings involving blacks occurred — in Johnston, Pa., Indianapolis and Oklahoma City. Franklin also is wanted for questioning in the wounding of civil rights leader Vernon Jordan in Fort Wayne, Ind.

Byrd, who was the sole spokesman by agreement of the agencies involved, said police from Salt Lake City, Indianapolis, Fort Wayne and Johnston were among those at the meeting. Oklahoma City police did not attend.

Representatives of the FBI, Secret Service and U.S. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms were present, as were police from Florence, Lexington, Ky. and North Charleston, S.C., and investigators from the Hamilton County (Ohio) prosecutor's office.

Also attending were representatives from the Gwinnett County (Ga.) Sheriff's Department, which is investigating the shooting of Larry Flynt in 1978, and police from Atlanta, where nine black children have been slain.

Byrd refused to divulge what other agencies were at the meeting.

The officer said the meeting was valuable because it helped the agencies sift through information to verify intelligence, dispel rumors and clarify dates.

He said Salt Lake City police plan to place a paid advertisement in several newspapers advertising a $5,000 reward for the 30.30-caliber rifle used to gun down David Martin, 18, and Ted Fields, 20, as they were jogging through a park.

Cincinnati police are looking for a .44-caliber Ruger rifle in the June 8 slayings of Darrell Lane, 14, and Danie Evans Brown, 13, and Johnston police are seeking a .35-caliber Remington rifle in the June 5 killings of a black man and white woman.

Former hitman's testimony may wreck California mob

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Federal prosecutors say they hope a former hitman testifying against five Mafia leaders in a murder-extortion trial to resume Tuesday will destroy the mob in California.

The hitman-turned-FBI informant, Alceda "Jimmy the Weasel" Frattiano, already has fingered two of the five defendants in the 1977 shooting of San Diego mob boss Frank "The Bomb" Bompensiero.

Prosecutors said the trial is the most important racketeering case in California history and Frattiano the most important witness ever in the government's fight against organized crime.

He already has helped send more than a dozen racketeers to prison through previous testimony in trials in New York, Cleveland and San Francisco.

Frattiano, protected under the Federal Witness Protection Program, is an admitted Mafia killer, gambler, extortionist and loan shark, who says he retired when he found out his bosses were setting him up for an execution.

He decided to squeal, he said, in 1977 a few months after the telephone booth shooting of Bompensiero.

So far, he has implicated Dominick Brooklier and Samuel Scortino in the Bompensiero killing because they thought he had set them up to be lured into an FBI pornography sting operation.

Other defendants in the trial include Jack Lo Cicco, Mike Rizzitello and Louis Dragna.

Frattiano, 67, said he was tipped off that the Los Angeles mob, of which he was a member for 32 years, had put out a contract on him because they were suspicious that he was snitching to the government.

To protect himself and also to avoid going to prison for an Ohio murder and other pending criminal charges, he decided to cooperate with the FBI in exchange for immunity.

Confusion surrounds accused doctor's case

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI) — Confusion and contradictions surround the case of a wealthy physician facing a hearing this week on charges of one murder and now linked to a jailcell attempt to contract the killings of two attorneys.

Dr. Raymond La Scola faces a Municipal Court hearing Thursday in the murder by poison in the 1979 death of an 89-year-old woman who adopted him five months before she died.

Georgia Thera left him her $3-million estate with the "clear understanding" he would take care of her husband after she died.

The husband, Artya Thera, a Buddhist monk, was 79 at the time of her death and less than 10 months later married Mary Steen Kaye, of Palm Springs, who was four-decades younger than Thera.

A bitter guardianship battle ensued over the elderly monk which involved Martin and Franklin Radoff, father and son attorneys of North Hollywood.

An informant told investigators that La Scola, 63, killed Mrs. Thera July 18, 1979, with an overdose of insulin because he feared another physician had discovered he had been drugging her.

Last week, the inmate of the Los Angeles County Jail, told authorities La Scola was trying to contract the killings of the Radoffs, who launched the murder investigation which led to his arrest.

The district attorney's office filed a new charge against the doctor, solicitation to commit murder.

At the same time, high officials of the Los Angeles Police Department, familiar with La Scola's work as a clinical hypnotist who has testified in several criminal cases, said they believe he is innocent of any wrongdoing.

In addition to the murder count, he is accused of attempting to influence a witness and conspiracy to forge prescriptions and illegally sell drugs.

Now, another inmate informant has told authorities he was approached by La Scola in jail with an offer to kill the Radoffs.

School exempted

SEATTLE (UPI) — The Internal Revenue Service has granted federal tax-exempt status to a Payette private school.

The school, Humpty Dumpty Inc., has announced a racially nondiscriminatory admission policy in accordance with procedures established by the IRS.

The school published a statement in local newspapers making public its racially nondiscriminatory admission policy.

Plan to bilk bank by computer foiled

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Police charges have been filed against a young bank teller who allegedly tried to steal more than $100,000 by telling a Bank of America computer to transfer the money into his account at a Miami prosecutor's office.

Teller Darryl O'Dell Walker, 21, and his friend, Charles Lynne Morris, 29, were arrested Friday after the woman attempted to withdraw $20,000 from her account at a Bank of America branch.

Deputy District Attorney Philip Wynne said Walker alleged, in a statement filed in the bank's court papers, which made it look like $100,000 had been transferred into Morris' account.

But when she tried to make the withdrawal, bank security personnel determined that no money had actually been put into her account and she was arrested.

Walker was arrested later at a different branch where he worked.

Walker and Morris were each charged with one count of attempted grand theft, one count of computer fraud and two counts of forgery.

Walker has been freed by the bank and remained free on $1,000 bail pending arraignment.

Train wreck victims due questioning

LARAMIE, Wyo. (UPI) — Union Pacific investigators will interview the two men injured in Thursday's collision between two trains that killed two men, in an effort to determine what caused the accident.

Spokesman Joe McCartney said from the railroad's Omaha, Neb., offices UP officials had talked with the two injured men, but they were sedated and unable to provide much information on what might have caused the wreck.

"Precisely what happened, we're still not aware of," he said.

A preliminary report indicated the UP grain train involved in the accident was stopped and waiting for congestion to clear, when it was rammed in the rear by a UP freight train.

Blizzard conditions and crews working on one of the rail lines had slowed traffic on the UP main line.

Ed Steere, 52, of Cheyenne, Wyo., and L. Rolfman, 51, of Torrington, Wyo., were injured Thursday when a 68-car freight train smashed into the caboose of a 75-car grain train about 13 miles from Laramie.

Killed in the collision, which occurred as heavy snows swept across the rail line in southern Wyoming, were W.K. Trainor, 32, and Isank K. Ortiz, 22, both of Cheyenne.

Trainor was the rear brakeman on the grain train, while Ortiz was a brakeman on the freight, McCartney said. He said Rolfman was an engineer on the freight and Steere the conductor on the grain train.

Regents to reconsider Livermore lab setup

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Deciding that a compromise is possible, the University of California Board of Regents has agreed to reconsider the controversy over its operation of nuclear weapons laboratories at Livermore, Calif., and Los Alamos, N.M.

The board met Friday and heard opposing sides of the dispute and then said it would take another look at the question next month after deciding it would be possible to compromise the differing positions of Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. and UC President David Saxon.

Rmw-n, who lost his bid to sever all ties between the university and the federally-funded weapons laboratories, wants now to set up an independent watchdog committee to oversee the facilities.

Saxon believes the board should monitor the labs with help from their staffs.

"I would like to get the benefit of as much thoughtful analysis of this as possible because we are dealing with a weapons program that on the one hand is crucial to national security and on the other hand is part of an escalating arms race that could threaten humanity," said Brown.

Some Senate races look too close to call

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republicans appear headed for some gains in the Senate but, with election day just two weeks away, Democratic and GOP political strategists agree many races remain too close to call.

Larry McCarthy, speaking for the Republican Senate Campaign Committee, predicts the GOP will pick up "somewhere between three and six seats" and refuses to totally rule out that the GOP could elect a majority.

"I don't discount it, but it would take a lot of breaks," McCarthy says. "If Reagan blows Carter out, it could happen."

Scott Wolf, consultant and research director for the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee, says the large number of close races makes it very difficult to make precise forecasts.

It is likely there will be a net Democratic loss, because of the large number of Democratic seats up, he said, but it should be "no greater than three."

The Democrats go into the Nov. 4 elections with a 58-41 majority. Independent Sen. Harry Byrd of Virginia, organizes with the Democrats but recently endorsed Ronald Reagan, putting his future role in the Democratic caucus in question.

At stake are 23 Democratic seats and only 10 Republican, a disparity that has led to prospects of GOP gains. Sen. Russel Long, D-La., is ready to have re-election on the basis of getting more than 50 percent in the state primary.

Democrats and Republicans agree on the probable outcome of many races.

For instance, Democrats feel South Dakota's Sen. George McGovern is their most vulnerable candidate in his race against Rep. Jim Abdnor. They do say, however, that McGovern, the 1972 presidential candidate, is making "an almost typical comeback."

There is general agreement that Sens. John Glenn, D-Ohio, Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., Dale Bumpers, D-Ark., Daniel Inouye, D-Hawaii, Wendell Ford, D-Ky., Charles Mathias, R-Md., Paul Laxalt, R-Nev., and Jake Garn, R-Utah, are home free, and that the North Dakota seat being vacated by Milton Young will go to the Republicans.

The Democrats also put veteran Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., in that category and are about to elect Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif. Republicans concede they are behind in those two states but haven't written them off.

McCarthy said the GOP's "really good shots" to pick up Democratic seats are in Alaska, Washington, Idaho, Colorado, South Dakota, Iowa, Wisconsin, Indiana, Georgia, Florida and New Hampshire.

The Democrats are fielding incumbents in all those states except Alaska and Florida where the office holders — Mike Gravel and Richard Stone — were beaten in primaries.

Wolf lists those same states — with the exception of Georgia — as "too close to call" but says the situation for John Culver in Iowa "looks better" and that Warren Magnuson in Washington and John Durkin in New Hampshire have an edge.

The Democrats feel they have the best chance to pick off Republican seats in Oklahoma, New York, Arizona, Pennsylvania and Oregon.

Here is a state-by-state summary of the Senate races:

ALABAMA — Jim Folsom, Jr., public service commissioner and son of a popular governor, appears ahead of conservative Republican Jerry Denton, a political newcomer and a Vietnam POW for seven and a half years. Incumbent Sen. Donald Stewart lost to Folsom in a primary runoff.

ALASKA — Former state Rep. Clark Gruening, a Democrat, and bank president Frank Murkowski, the Republican, are in a dogfight. Gruening rates this as one of the 11 states where it has a good shot at picking up a seat. Democratic incumbent Mike Gravel was beaten in the primary by Gruening.

ARIZONA — Sen. Barry Goldwater, the 1964 GOP presidential candidate, leads W.R. Schulz, the Democrat. Goldwater has a sizable lead in the polls but Democrats feel he can be had.

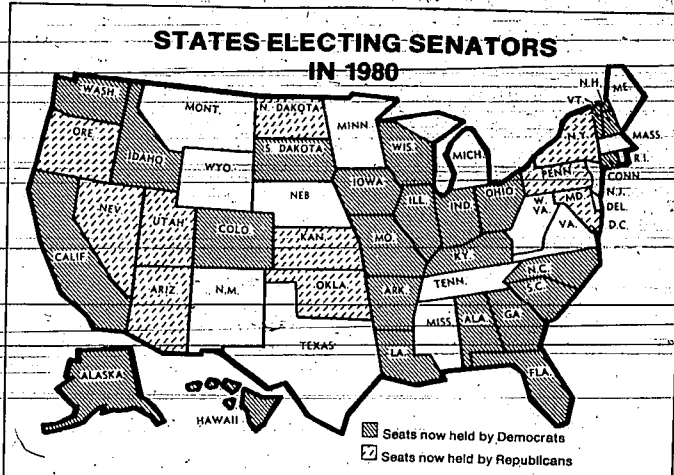

ARKANSAS — Democratic Sen. Dale Bumpers has a lock on re-election to a second term. His opponent is businessman Bill Clinton.

CALIFORNIA — Assistant Senate Democratic leader Alan Cranston has a solid lead in the polls and is a heavy favorite to turn back "tax crusader" Paul Gann.

COLORADO — Sen. Gary Hart, the Democratic candidate, and Republican Mary Estill Buchanan, the secretary of state, are locked in one of the better races. Buchanan, who routed the establishment to win the nomination, has moved ahead in polls and GOP rates this as a good chance for a gain.

CONNECTICUT — Rep. Christopher Dodd, a Democrat, is comfortably ahead of conservative Republican James Buckley, former senator from New York, for the seat being vacated by Sen. Abraham Ribicoff.

FLORIDA — Republican Paul Hawkins, an airline vice president, and Democrat William Gunter, are matched in a close race after winning nomination runoffs. Hawkins leads slightly in polls. Gunter is hurt by failure of Sen. Richard Stone, whom he defeated in the runoff, to endorse him.

ONE-THIRD OF THE U.S. Senate is up for election this year. Twenty-four of the contested seats are currently held by Democrats while 10 are occupied by Republicans. The Democrats are expected to lose a few Senate seats on Election Day while easily retaining their control of the chamber. The Republicans have not held a Senate majority since 1955.

GEORGIA — Veteran Sen. Herman Talmadge leads former Republican state chairman Mack Mattingly — but not by the margin southern Democrats normally enjoy. Talmadge, who survived a primary runoff, is saddled with Senate "condemnation" for financial impropriety. HAWAII — Sen. Daniel Inouye, a Democrat, is a shoe-in. His opponent is attorney E. Cooper Brown. IDAHO — One of the premier races matches veteran Democratic Sen. Frank Church against conservative Republican Rep. Steve Symms. They are in a virtual dead heat. ILLINOIS — Polls show Democrat Alan Dixon, the secretary of state, well ahead of Lt. Gov. Dave O'Neal for seat being vacated by Democrat Adlai Stevenson. INDIANA — Republican Rep. Dan Quayle seems to have an edge over Sen. Birch Bayh, the Democrat. GOP considers this a good shot for a takeover but concedes it will get closer by election day. IOWA — Another top race, matching Democratic Sen. John Culver against GOP Rep. Chuck Grassley. Culver, refusing to moderate his liberal views, is leading but it's a target state for Republicans. KANSAS — Republican Sen. Robert Dole has a lock on re-election. His opponent is John Simpson. KENTUCKY — Democratic Sen. Wendell Ford is a sure winner over Mary Louise Foust. LOUISIANA — Sen. Russell Long, Democrat, has won re-election. MARYLAND — Republican Sen. Charles Mathias, a veteran GOP liberal, is a sure winner over state Sen. Edward Conroy. MISSOURI — Democratic Sen. Thomas Eagleton, well ahead in the polls, seems safe in his race against Republican county supervisor Gene McHenry. NEVADA — Republicans say GOP Sen. Paul Laxalt "may be the safest incumbent in the country." His opponent is Democrat Mary Gajack. NEW HAMPSHIRE — Liberal Democratic Sen. John Durkin leads in the polls but faces stiff challenge from former state attorney general Warren Rudman, helped by heavy GOP voter registration edge. NEW YORK — Three-way race matches Democratic Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman, GOP's Alfonso D'Amato and Sen. Jacob Javits, running on the liberal line. NORTH CAROLINA — Sen. Robert Morgan, a Democrat, appears home free. His opponent is GOP National Committeeman John East. NORTH DAKOTA — Republican Mark Andrews is a safe bet to hold the seat of retiring Sen. Milton Young for the Republicans. His opponent is Rep. Johannesen. OHIO — Democratic Sen. John Glenn is far ahead against state Rep. Jim Belts. OKLAHOMA — Conservative Democrat Andy Coates leads conservative Republican Don Nickles in race to succeed retiring Sen. Henry Bellmon. GOP concedes this will be the most difficult Republican seat to hold. OREGON — Sen. Robert Packwood, a Republican, has a hefty lead but Democrats insist state Sen. Ted Kulongoski is very much in the race. PENNSYLVANIA — Democrat Pete Flaherty, former deputy attorney general and mayor of Pittsburgh, and Republican Arlen Specter, former Philadelphia district attorney, are locked in a close race with Flaherty a touch ahead. SOUTH CAROLINA — Democratic Sen. Ernest Hollings is a sure winner over former state Rep. Marshall Mays. SOUTH DAKOTA — Sen. George McGovern is behind in a tough race against Republican Rep. Jim Abdnor. UTAH — Republican Sen. Jake Garn appears a sure winner over Dan Berman. VERMONT — Sen. Patrick Leahy, a Democrat, seems to have a comfortable lead over Republican Stewart Ledbetter. WASHINGTON — Veteran Democratic Sen. Warren Magnuson, president pro tem of the Senate, is locked in an extremely close race with state attorney general Slade Gordon. Magnuson's age is the main issue. WISCONSIN — Sen. Gaylord Nelson is having more than his share of trouble with former Rep. Bob Kasten.

Engineer services on council agenda

By MARTY TRILLHAASE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls City Council members Monday will consider approving a $22,100 contract for engineering services in connection with a $240,000 street project.

The proposed contract has been submitted by J-U-B Engineers Inc. of Twin Falls for preparation of construction documents and inspection services.

The council meets at 7:30 p.m. at City Hall.

J-U-B has already designed plans to reconstruct portions of Sidney Street, Diamond Avenue and South Park Avenue. The reconstruction project is being funded under the Housing and Community Development Small Cities Grant Project.

City staff has recommended the council accept the proposed contract. But the staff has raised the possibility of delegating the preparation of construction documents and inspection services to the city engineering department in the future. Under this proposal, the city would be able to pay for an additional employee in the department.

In other matters, the council is scheduled to review proposed improvements on Blue Lakes Boulevard North at Falls Avenue and Flier Avenue. Although the council had approved plans to widen these intersections, some members are concerned about the fact that federal highway standards will require the installation of new street lights. Higher electricity costs have led council members to consider shutting off some lights.

About 90 percent of the project costs will be paid by federal funds and the city's share of the project will cost $12,300, $2,000 of which will pay for the lights.

The council is also scheduled to consider adopting an updated city code. City officials have been working to comply with all city ordinances for the past three years.

MAGIC VALLEY — Two Idahoans died in traffic accidents over the weekend in the Magic Valley.

Marilyn Wilson, 45, of Boise, was killed instantly when the car in which she was riding struck the rear of a backhoe east of Fairfield Saturday morning.

Larry Davis, 20, of Acquia, died Sunday morning after being "run over" by a pickup truck about 12:30 a.m. northeast of Rupert.

Idaho State Police reported Mrs. Wilson was a passenger in a car driven by her husband, Garth, 44, the 9:10 a.m. accident occurred about nine miles east of Fairfield on U.S. 20.

The car struck the rear of a backhoe being driven by Lawrence Ray Jones, 40, of Fairfield. Mrs. Wilson received chest and head injuries, her husband was killed and released, and their two daughters were hospitalized, but no details were available.

The Mindokota County traffic death was the second in as many weekends involving young people parking near Jackson Bridge on the Snake River.

Mindokota County sheriff's officers said Davis and Chris Lawson, 19, also Acquia, were driving a four-wheel drive pickup in a wooded area on the Snake River. Officers said there was a party in the vicinity.

Lawson was driving away from the river, when Davis got in front of the truck and started to push. He slipped and fell but apparently the driver did not see him and put the truck in forward gear running over Davis once with a front tire. Two passengers were also in the truck.

Davis died after surgery for internal injuries in Mindokota Memorial Hospital.

Combining in concert

Soprano Amy Fender of Filer, center, joined with more than 60 other singers Sunday afternoon during a rehearsal for the annual choir festival under the direction of Dr. Norman Logan of the University of Idaho at Moscow. Following the afternoon rehearsal at the First United Methodist Church of Twin Falls, choir members from several Magic Valley towns combined to present a concert entitled "A Great Day of Singing." Choirs from Twin Falls, Buhl, and Hagerman presented selections, then joined members of other choirs in the concert.

Teachers describe special programs

FILER — Three Filer Elementary School teachers reported on special programs last week to the school board.

Bob Parrott, a third grade teacher, reported on language arts, Ann Sutton, on special and gifted education, and Sue Ellen Lambers, on math, social studies and science.

Principal Dave Teeter summarized the presentation by saying, "the days are going or gone" when teachers taught by telling their classes to "get out your pencils and open your books to page so-and-so."

The schools are now using "prescriptive teaching," he said, which provides "what kids need to learn."

Parrott said grades two through six have adopted the Wisconsin Skills Program for reading, writing, speaking and listening. It takes 20 minutes each morning.

Students are first pre-tested for skills that need work. After two weeks of instruction—in groups—they are tested again. If they do not pass, the program is repeated later.

Parrott said a similar program is used in spelling. Pre-tests result in groupings, and students then proceed with words and tests at their own speed.

Progress to levels is measured by delayed-recall tests of long-term learning.

Other special programs are a Newspapers in Education program in two fifth- and sixth-grade classes and listening centers, where students learn with the aid of tape recordings.

Speaking and oral reading are also taught through discussions, some dramatics and class meetings conducted by student-officers. One class is studying sign language.

In math, Lambers said a guide developed at Filer for kindergarten through eight grade, tells teachers "what they need to teach and how much."

For example, it identifies which subjects they need to introduce, give extended treatment and review.

A special program is the "supply shack" of the fifth grade. Students act as salespeople, make change, inventory and figure costs.

In science and health, sixth-graders are learning cardio-pulmonary resuscitation and first-aiders how to grow plants.

A new program, just approved at Filer will be established for gifted students who are nominated by their teachers. Students must score in the top two percent on tests or can be gifted in one area.

Idaho book answers questions on politics

MOSCOW — Got a question about Idaho politics?

There's a good chance the answer can be found in "The Idaho Political Handbook."

Written by University of Idaho Professor Al Royer, and released this month in its second edition, the handbook ranks as one of the basic references on state politics.

In his 168-page work, Royer has compiled a breakdown by county of major elections and voting trends. He has also prepared an analysis listing the social and economic characteristics of each county and how they influence elections.

Royer examines both statewide and local elections. Every Idaho legislator is profiled, with his occupation and political background listed. A legislator's election returns for the last three legislative races, plus his votes on 13 key issues that came before the last Legislature are also recorded.

Royer's handbook, published by the University's Bureau of Public Affairs Research, has gained wide acceptance since its first appearance two years ago. Candidates, political activists, reporters and voters checking up on their elected officials use the handbook.

He said he is also proud of the cooperation he has received not only from other law enforcement agencies but the public in general.

GOP caravan tour slated

TWIN FALLS — The annual Twin Falls County Republican Central committee's candidates' caravan will tour the county Oct. 25.

William L. "Bill" Chancey, co-chairman of the event, said Republican candidates and supporters will meet at the Red Barrel in Castletford at 7 a.m. for breakfast.

After a visit there, the vehicles move to Buhl and Filer and then to Twin Falls where a lunch stop is planned at George K's restaurant on Kimberly Road.

In the afternoon, the caravan moves to Murtaugh and Hansen and then back to Kimberly.

Chancey said all Republican county and legislative district candidates are expected to participate and there may possibly be some candidates for higher office in the area of that time to participate.

In each town, Chancey said, the candidates will stop for some Main Street handshaking before moving on to the next stop.

TWIN FALLS — Construction of a 60-unit housing development for low income senior citizens in Twin Falls is expected to begin in the spring or early summer of 1981.

The development, named Valley Vista Village, will be located on Caswell Avenue west near Woodstock Retirement Center. It is being built by Christian Church Homes of Idaho, Inc., which is sponsored by the National Benevolent Association of the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ).

Funds from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development are being obtained for the project, which will cost about $2 million, according to Harold Cook of Twin Falls, president of the Christian Church Homes. Federal funds will also be available for rental assistance to tenants who qualify, Cook said.

Church officials have also requested the Twin Falls City Council provide some community block grant funds for a geothermal well to heat the complex. The city is requesting $1.5 million over a three-year period from HUD.

Conferences scheduled

TWIN FALLS — Parent-teacher conferences in the Twin Falls schools are scheduled for Nov. 5 through 7.

In the elementary schools, kindergarten through first will be dismissed all three days, while first through sixth-graders will be dismissed at 1:15 p.m. each day.

Parents' conferences with elementary teachers will be scheduled all three afternoons.

Junior high and high school students will be dismissed at 1:15 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 5, so that teachers can be available for parent conferences. Classes will be held as usual on Thursday and Friday, Nov. 6 and 7.

Area firms win jobs

BOISE — Several Magic Valley firms will undertake projects for the state, the Idaho Transportation Department has announced.

G. Glen Clark of Buhl will receive $33,700 to produce anti-skid aggregate for roads, which will be held in four stockpiles in Twin Falls and Jerome counties.

H.O. Bowen Co. Inc. of Twin Falls will construct a maintenance building at Shoshone for $191,500.

Kloepfer Inc. of Paul will receive $138,225 to produce cover coat material and aggregate for road mix pavement for stockpiling in Owyhee County.

Also, Quinn-Robbins Co. of Boise will receive $80,330 to produce cover coat material for road mix for State Highway 75 in Blaine County.

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls man out shopping remembered leaving a pan of grease on his stove at home and returned to find it in flames Sunday.

Twin Falls Fire Department officials said the 1:20 p.m. fire was confined to the kitchen, although the home at 622 Crestview Drive was filled with smoke.

Officials said James A. Nickels had extinguished the flames with a garden hose when two fire engines arrived.

Anyone wishing to attend should make reservations by calling the Red Cross office, 733-6464 before Monday.

TWIN FALLS — Conservation and natural resource ideas could lead to national recognition for some Magic Valley child or adult.

The Sawtooth National Forest is urging interested persons of all ages to enter the 1981 Smokey Bear and Woodsey Owl Poster Contest. Local winners will be entered in the state contest where the top posters go into national competition next April in Atlanta, Ga.

Assisting the Forest Service in sponsoring the event are the National Council of Garden Clubs and state foresters.

Entries must be postmarked no later than Jan. 5, 1981, and can be based on any environmental theme. They should be no larger than 12 by 18 inches.

Entries should be mailed to Mrs. Tom Pethtel, Route 2, Box 10, Kamiah, Idaho, 83536.

Independent candidate, sheriff vie in Cassia County race

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

Election/80

HULL, 38, says he feels a younger, more active sheriff would benefit Cassia County, noting that Mitchell has served well for 16 years.

Mitchell served as a deputy in the Cassia office from 1961 until 1964 when he was elected sheriff, taking office Jan. 1, 1965. The two men seek a four-year term.

Mitchell is a member of the National and Idaho Sheriff's Associations and has helped organize search and rescue groups in Idaho, including the 25-member active Mini-Cassia unit.

He said he is also proud of the cooperation he has received not only from other law enforcement agencies but the public in general.

"We have purchased a mini-pumper to help us in washing fuel spills and putting out fires at traffic accidents on the remote stretches of the interstate and other highways in Cassia County. The Search and Rescue unit and public in general can do much of the cost of this," Mitchell said.

It is just a 500-gallon unit, the sheriff said, but added this is enough to put out a fire or wash down dangerous fuel spills in areas where there are no fire districts.

"It can save a lot of lives," he added.

Mitchell said he is also working to improve jail standards in Idaho. Cassia, he said, has a fairly new jail and is more fortunate than most counties, but he is currently bringing it up to new standards.

He said he also stands for full time administration of sheriff's duties, full coverage of the county by sheriff's officers, and thorough and effective investigation of all crimes as well as an effort to reduce drug traffic and cut the overall crime rate in the county, especially in the juvenile division.

Hull, a native of the Ogden, Utah, area, served seven and one-half years with the Utah Highway Patrol before coming to Cassia county in 1974 to farm. He farmed for a time and also engaged in real estate sales. He is now an associate broker in Burley and a

Church ahead in poll

BOISE (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church remains slightly ahead of Rep. Steve Symms heading into the final two weeks of the campaign for the U.S. Senate, a poll conducted by the Idaho Statesman shows.

The poll, also showed Republican presidential candidate Ronald Reagan maintained his lead of more than 2 to 1 over President Carter.

Republicans George Hansen, 2nd Congressional District incumbent, and Larry Craig, 1st Congressional District candidate, continued to maintain big leads over their Democratic opponents. But more than half of the voters surveyed in the 1st District and more than one-third of those polled in the 2nd District were undecided about their choice for U.S. representative.

The poll was conducted Oct. 13 to 15 and included 820 responses from persons who said they intended to vote in the Nov. 4 general election.

The poll showed Church was favored by 42.9 percent of those polled, while Symms was preferred by 40 percent, with 15.6 percent undecided.

Libertarian Party candidate Larry Fullmer, a 35-year-old Pocatello office supply store manager, was favored by 0.7 percent of those polled.

The 1st Congressional District race between Craig, a 35-year-old Midvale rancher, and Glenn Nichols, a 35-year-old Boisean and former director of the Idaho Department of Employment, appeared to be tightening, although 51 percent of those polled still are undecided.

Craig was favored by 30 percent of those polled while Nichols was favored by 19 percent.

Craig's lead has dropped 7 percent since the Statesman's September poll when he held an 18-point lead.

In the 2nd Congressional District, Democrat Diane Bilyeu, a 45-year-old former state senator from Pocatello, has gained slightly since September against Hansen.

Of 404 2nd-District residents polled, 25 percent favored Mrs. Bilyeu, up 1 percentage point since September, Hansen was favored by 41 percent, unchanged since last month, while 34 percent remained undecided.

In the presidential race, 50 percent of the respondents said they would vote for Reagan and 21 percent said they would support Carter. John Anderson received 6 percent, Libertarian candidate Ed Clark received 2 percent and 20 percent of the respondents were undecided.

Lincoln Elementary School teachers Martha Lange and Connie McElroy registered different expressions while working on a newspaper workshop study project Saturday at the College of Southern Idaho in Twin Falls. The workshop, co-sponsored by the Magic Valley Reading Council and the Times-News, is geared towards helping teachers use the daily newspaper to teach such subjects as reading, mathematics or social studies

Safeguards for nuclear lab require time, official says

BOISE (UPI) — A federal official said Saturday the Carter administration needs another term to fully implement environmental safeguards at the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory and other government nuclear installations.

Cus Speth, chairman of the president's Council on Environmental Quality, said all post-World War II administrations except Carter's neglected environmental problems and created the "deplorable" current situation of federal nuclear waste disposal sites.

Speth, in Boise as featured guest of the Idaho Conservation League's annual meeting, said the Carter administration has been trying to get Congress to spend more money on nuclear safety.

But he said so many problems have accumulated at INEL and other federal nuclear sites that the administration has not had enough time to solve them.

He added that he was not familiar with the controversial waste disposal practices at the INEL and therefore could not explain why the U.S. Department of Energy has brushed off most state appeals to prevent further radioactive discharges into southern Idaho's huge underground Snake River Aquifer.

Speth said it would be necessary in the next decade of energy shortages and increasing concern for the environment for state and federal officials and environmentalists to adhere to a policy of restraint to avoid destructive clashes.

Expanded use of nuclear and coal power seems to be inevitable, and the nation and the world must be made to accept it, although unsafe methods should be avoided at all costs, he said.

He said people should be aware that environmental problems have cropped up on a global scale, especially with deforestation, increased incidence of desert land and a staggering loss of plant and animal life.

"These don't seem to be of immediate concern, but they will imcreasingly affect people's lives, the economy and national security," he said at an afternoon news conference.

He said a survey taken recently by the council showed a majority of Americans still want to preserve the environment despite burgeoning pressure for energy development. It is critical to "preserve the momentum" behind environmental programs, he said.

And the Idaho Public Utilities Commission has carried its awareness of the environment to the point where the state regulatory agency has a national reputation, Speth said.

Of chief concern to Idaho, Speth said, is the decline of farm-land in the face of energy and resource development. He said this is a nationwide problem, but could affect Idaho more than many other states because its economy relies heavily on agriculture.

Speth also plugged the re-election campaign of Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho.

past president of the Burley-Rupert Board of Realtors and is active in the state association, serving as an executive officer of the state board.

Hull said he has had special training in accident investigation and also in the ASAP (Alcoholic Study Action Program) to curb drunken driving. He has attended several other law enforcement schools sponsored by the FBI and other agencies.

Hull said he would like to see better county wide coverage and a more active sheriff in the county. He said he would also work with the state and national associations — for better methods of county law enforcement.

UNOPPOSED RACES
Other office vacancies on the county level include the second and third county commissioner districts where incumbents are running unopposed; the county prosecutor and coroner, again both incumbents being unopposed.

In the second district commission post, Clive Holland and a Republican from Burley, is seeking re-election. The 57-year-old bowling-ally proprietor said he is interested in following through on a number of county projects including the new garbage incinerator plant.

"We hope to have it completed next spring and we feel it will be a good energy recovery program," Holland said.

A graduate of the Rigby high school, he also attended Idaho State University, Brigham Young University and the University of Alabama. He has served on the board of directors of Unity Light and Power, was president of the Bowling Proprietors Association of Idaho, past president of the Burley Lions Club and of the Burley Industrial Corporation. Holland said he favors less government at the national level in the country and more responsibility at the local levels. He said taxes have gone down in the past two years in Cassia County.

Norman Dayley, 49, Republican incumbent in District 3, seeks re-election on the board of commissioners. He is an Abilene businessman and has worked as a court reporter and stenographer. He served four years on the Burley City Council and is seeking his second term as a county commissioner.

Dayley said he feels county officials must keep a close watch on finances.

cutting back on all spending and eliminating the luxury items.

"In view of inflationary trends nationwide, we can't afford to continue any unnecessary spending individually or in government," Dayley said.

He said he is also anxious to see completion of the garbage plant, saying Cassia County pioneered the method in Idaho and many other counties are now looking to Cassia to set the example for them to follow.

Alfred E. Barrus, Republican incumbent for prosecuting attorney, said he believes Cassia County is doing a good job in enforcing the laws of the county and the state and he hopes to continue this trend.

A Burley attorney, the 33-year-old candidate holds a law degree from the University of Idaho. He has been Cassia prosecutor for five years.

"My concern is to enforce the laws and to provide the county with good legal advice," Barrus said.

He said one of his main concerns is the growing juvenile crime rate and he is pledged to work to improve this situation.

C. Bruce Young, Cassia County coroner, is also an unopposed Republican seeking return to office. He has held the position as a part time job the past 10 years, in addition to heading his own real estate business.

Young spent 20 years as an investigator for insurance companies and five years as a state bank inspector.

"Much of the work of a coroner is investigation and I have always been able to work well with county, city and state officers in this area," Young said.

He said he feels the state wide proposal for a medical examiner-in-corporation positions is a poor one; adding the doctors and other medical personnel will not take time to investigate. Young said being in charge of his own real estate and insurance company, he is able to respond to emergency calls 24-hours a day and can do justice to the coroner needs on a part time basis.

Walker raps Hansen again

TWIN FALLS — A campaign aide for Democratic congressional candidate Diane Bilyeu of Pocatello accused Rep. George Hansen of "moral hypocrisy" Friday.

Walker of Twin Falls, who is Bilyeu's issues coordinator, defended his call for Hansen's resignation. In light of the incumbent's 1975 conviction for violating campaign laws, Hansen "called the charge 'gutter politics,'" he said.

"My understanding of 'gutter politics' was distorting the truth or being politically unethical," Walker said. "I am neither. I deal only in facts and that fact is that like Rep. Michael Meyers, George was convicted of a criminal act."

Hansen voted to expel Meyers, D-Pa., from the House after Meyers' conviction of bribery charges in the FBI's Abscam investigation.

Phillies take one game advantage

Phils' Unser, Schmidt destroy Quisenberry

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Del Unser, the perfect man to call on in a pinch, once again turned into a destroyer against submarine pitcher Dan Quisenberry in the World Series Sunday and put the Philadelphia Phils within one victory of the first championship in their 97-year history.

Unser, who delivered a pinch-hit double off Quisenberry to help the Phils win the second game of the series, came through with a pinch-hit, run-scoring double in the ninth inning and scored on Manny Trillo's two-out single to give the Phils a 4-3 triumph over the Kansas City Royals in the fourth game.

The Phils, who lead the best-of-seven series three games to two, clinched the championship Tuesday night when the series resumes at Philadelphia's Veterans Stadium. Left-hander Steve Carlton, the National League's top winner this season with 24 victories, will have the opportunity of bringing the championship to Philadelphia, while right-hander Rich Gale will attempt to even the series for Kansas City and set up a decisive seventh game Wednesday night.

Game reactions — B4

Trailing 3-2 entering the ninth, the Phillies put together three hits off Quisenberry to score their third comeback victory of the series.

Mike Schmidt started things by beating out an infield hit off third baseman George Brett's glove and Unser, batting for Lonnie Smith, followed with a double inside first base down the right-field line to score Schmidt with the tying run.

"I had a hole over there with Schmidt on first and I thought if I pulled the ball I could get the winning run on base," Unser said. "The ball went just over (Willie) Aikens' glove. I hit it as good as I can hit a ball. All the guys on this team made big hits all year long."

Keith Moreland sacrificed Unser to third and, after Garry Maddox was thrown out by Brett on a fine play, Trillo followed with a line drive single off Quisenberry's glove to score Unser with the winning run.

"He threw me two fastballs and then a slider," said Trillo, who was robbed of a potential game-winning hit in the seventh. "The only thing I was thinking was to make contact. I hit the slider on the end of the bat and it went through the middle. I really couldn't tell where the ball hit. All I saw it do was go down toward third base and I just ran as hard as I could run."

Tug McGraw, who took over in the seventh inning, allowed only one hit over the last three innings and struck out five to get the victory, but the veteran left-hander had to pitch out of a bases-loaded jam in the ninth.

McGraw walked Frank White to open the ninth, and after striking out the dangerous Brett, also walked Aikens to put runners on first and second. Hal McRae, who had doubled off McGraw in the seventh, then brought the crowd to its feet and gave McGraw a scare by hitting a long foul drive into the left-field stands, barely missing a home run.

McRae then hit a ball into a hole between short and third which shortstop Larry Bowa turned into a forecourt at second but McGraw walked Amos Otis to load the bases.

"That brought up 38-year-old Jose Cardenal who had pitched the game as a pinch-hitter for Clint Hurdle in the seventh. Pitching carefully to the right-handed batter, McGraw struck him out to end the game and pave the way for a classic second game."

"The thing that bothered me about Cardenal was that he is one of the best pinch-hitters with men on base," said McGraw. "I felt I had some experience against him. He used to give me some trouble when he played with the Cubs. It was a battle. I got him with a 'Cutty Sark fastball,' you know, the kind that says 'Many felt that Royals Manager Jim Frey should have pinch-hit for Cardenal with John Wathan in that situation because Cardenal had gone hitless in the Series in five previous at-bats."

Frey, however, thought Cardenal's previous experience with McGraw would benefit him.

"I felt like Cardenal knew him better," said Frey. "Wathan pinch-hit against McGraw the other night and I just thought Jose would know him better."

McGraw: Master of the Royals

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Tug McGraw, the master of the one-liner, also has proven himself as the master of the Kansas City Royals.

The Philadelphia reliever picked up his second save of the World Series Sunday by striking out four and shutting down the heart of the Kansas City batting order.

The fiery left-hander, who also saved the first game of the Series, gave up just one hit through three innings and struck out Jose Cardenal to end a tense ninth inning in which the Royals left the bases loaded. A 1-2, fastball to Cardenal with two out gave the Phils a 4-3 victory and a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven series.

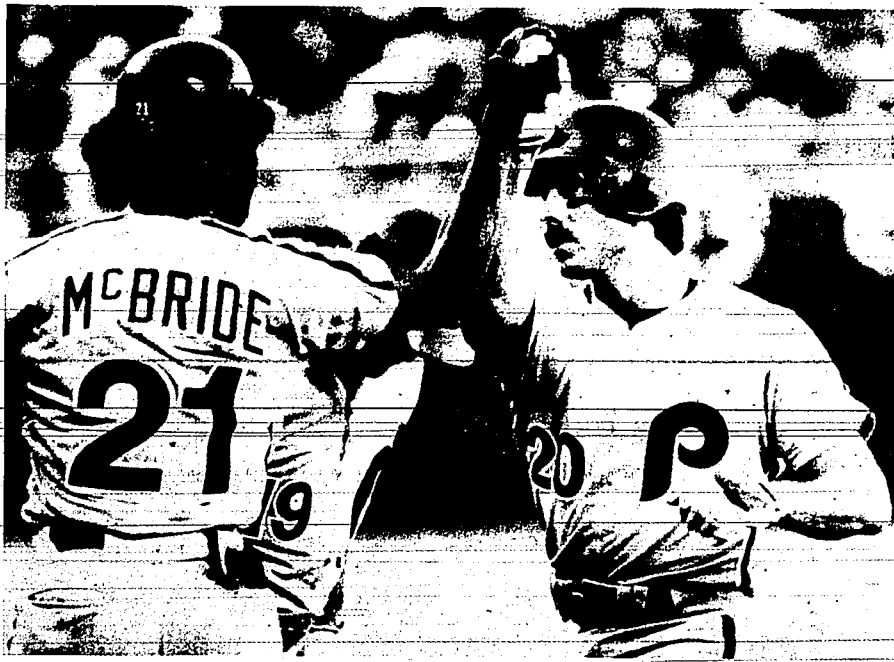

"I thought I might have to be saved by the CPR people," McGraw said about his appearance on the mound. "I probably would have had a heart attack."

Through three innings, McGraw surrendered just a double to McRae but his walks nearly cost him.

"I went out there to pitch a one-two-three inning," McGraw said. "But as I got further and further in trouble, I started pitching too carefully. I started missing."

With runners on first and third, McGraw then walked Amos Otis, who had homered and singled earlier, to load the bases and bring up Cardenal.

"That was not a prospect McGraw relieved."

Bake McBride welcomes Mike Schmidt at home after Schmidt's two-run homer in the fourth inning with McBride on base.

Advice led to Trillo's hit in 9th

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Manny Trillo got some advice from Philadelphia Manager Dallas Green before he went to bat in the ninth inning Sunday.

"He told me I had been swinging at the first pitch and overswinging," Trillo said. "He told me just to try to meet the ball."

Trillo, who was hitless in his first three at-bats and had four hits in 18 times at bat in the first five games of the series, hit an 8-2 pitch off pitcher Dan Quisenberry's glove to drive in pinch-hitter Del Unser and give the Phils a 4-3 victory over Kansas City, putting them one win away from the world championship.

"He threw me two fastballs and then a slider," Trillo said. "The only thing I was thinking was to make contact. I hit the slider on the end of the bat and it went through the middle."

"I really couldn't tell where the ball hit. All I saw it do was go down toward third base and I just ran as hard as I could run."

Trillo had thrown out Darrell Porter at the plate in the sixth inning to end a Royals rally that had carried Kansas City to a 3-2 lead. Porter tried to score on Willie Wilson's double.

"The minute I turned around to see the ball in right field, I looked over and saw Porter at second base and knew we would have a shot at him if he tried to score. Bake (McBride) gave me a good throw and I just fired home," Trillo said.

K.C. stuns Broncos for 3rd straight victory Philadelphia win

DENVER (UPI) — Steve Fuller threw a pair of touchdown passes, including a career-long 46-yarder, and the Kansas City Chiefs posted their third straight triumph Sunday with a 23-17 victory over Denver, snapping an eight-game losing streak to the Broncos.

Nick Lowery kicked field goals of 37, 39, and 34 yards to help lead the Chiefs in the AFC Western Division standings.

Denver's veteran quarterback Craig Morton, who had not led the Chiefs in 10 years with three teams, played the entire game, hitting Rick Upchurch with a 14-yard touchdown pass and tight end Riley Odoms with a 6-yard scoring pass.

Fred Steinford made a 41-yard field goal for his 13th successful field goal in 15 attempts.

Morton, however, was intercepted twice and both turnovers resulted in Kansas City points.

The Chiefs, who rallied for the second straight week, got on the board first with Lowery kicking his first field goal of the day. The score came 13 plays after Kansas City cornerback Eric Harris intercepted Morton's first pass of the game.

The Broncos responded with a 79-yard drive, capped by Morton's TD pass to Upchurch. Morton completed 18-of-30 passes for nearly 200 yards and picked up 14 yards passing in the air during the drive.

The Broncos took a 14-3 lead early in the second quarter when Morton hit Odoms for a score on the eighth play of a 52-yard drive. After Kansas City was forced to punt and stopped Denver's next drive, the Broncos faked a 50-yard field goal attempt by Steinford but Steinford dropped a badly thrown Matt Robinson pass and the Chiefs took possession.

Fuller passed twice to Henry Marshall for 27 yards of the 47-yard drive, which ended in Lowery's second field goal.

The Chiefs narrowed the gap to 14-13 at halftime after strong safety Herb Christopher intercepted Denver. Morton pass and returned the ball to the Denver 40. Three plays later, Fuller threw to Al Davis for a 28-yard touchdown with 37 seconds left in the half.

Steinford kicked his field goal four minutes into the third quarter. During the 13-yard drive, Morton completed a 9-yard pass to Haven-Moses which broke the all-time Broncos' completion record of 517, held by Charley Johnson.

As the third quarter ended, the Chiefs took a 20-17 lead, with Marshall taking Fuller's 46-yard pass into the end zone.

The Chiefs held Denver again and took possession on their own 26. With fresh backs Horace Bolton and Arnold Morgado coming in, the Chiefs ate up 8:14 on the clock.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Charlie Johnson leads the rather glamorous life of an NFL nose tackle, but Sunday was his day in the spotlight.

Johnson intercepted a Danny White pass to set up the winning touchdown a 15-yard pass from Ron Jaworski to Charlie Smith with 4:27 to play — that carried the Philadelphia Eagles to a 17-10 victory over the Dallas Cowboys.

The Eagles, 6-1, now lead the Cowboys by one game in the NFC East.

Johnson's first pro interception, which resulted from a tip by linebacker John Bunting, came after he followed rookie running back James Jones on an apparent screen pass setup.

"I was supposed to be there sliding out with the back," Johnson said. "Maybe that was a big deal, but I was just doing my job. That's the biggest play I ever made. I saw it tipped and I knew I was going to catch it. That was the hardest game I ever played in, period."

"I was hit from the left side and I underthrew the ball," said White, who completed 20-of-38 passes for 222 yards but suffered three interceptions. "I would have been better off getting sacked."

Jaworski, who was 13-of-25 for 214 yards, found Smith cutting across the middle and hit him in the end zone for the winning score.

"Our defense was playing great and we just wanted to get the lead," Jaworski said. "We were looking to get three but Charlie ran a great route and we got seven."

The Cowboys marched all the way down to the Philadelphia 8-yard line, but on 4th-and-goal, White's pass to Tony Stewart was snuffed away by rookie cornerback Roynell Young. The Cowboys complained that Young had interfered with Hill, but there was no call.

"I thought it was a bad call," Dallas Coach Tom Landry said. "Tom Landry never complains."

NFL roundup — B5

"Our offense was too loose," Landry added in reference to five Dallas turnovers. "We were lucky we didn't get beat badly. We had a great defensive effort, but we didn't execute on offense."

In the first half, Dallas linebacker Mike Hegman pounced on a Jaworski fumble in the end zone and Rafael Septien kicked a 33-yard field goal to give Dallas a 10-0 lead.

The Eagles' wide-league-leading defense has yielded only 90 points all season — countered on a 5-yard scoring pass from Jaworski to Harold Carmichael and a 35-yard field goal by Tony Franklin.

Each team turned the ball over twice in the first 5:30 of the third quarter. The Eagles, who suffered four turnovers in the game, once lost the ball at the Dallas 7-yard line when Leroy Harris tumbled — and strong safety Charlie Waters recovered for the Cowboys. The Eagles had a chance to break the tie in the third quarter, but Franklin was wide on a 35-yard field goal attempt.

The Cowboys, who turned the ball over five times, reached the Eagles' 21 in the fourth quarter but after White was sacked by Bill Bergey, his third-down pass was picked off in the end zone by linebacker Reggie Wilkes.

The Cowboys capitalized on a turnover on their first score. From his own 22, Jaworski was sacked from the blind side by tackle Randy White and tumbled. The ball rolled into the end zone and Hegman fell on it for the Dallas TD.

Franklin kicked his 35-yard field goal on the first play of the second quarter and the Eagles gained command on their next possession.

Evans-Scott duo defeats Detroit, 24-7

CHICAGO (UPI) — Vince Evans says he has a special working relationship with wide receiver James Scott and the Chicago quarterback certainly supplied some convincing evidence for that claim Sunday in the Bears' 24-7 triumph over the Detroit Lions.

Evans, making his first start of the season, hit Scott on a 67-yard scoring pass in the fourth quarter and also found Scott on a 59-yarder that set up a touchdown in the third quarter. Evans completed only five passes, but three of them were to Scott for a total of 140 yards.

"I tell James every time I throw it, don't stop," explained Evans, who replaced Mike Phillips as the No. 1 quarterback. "I tell him I'll get it to him out there and that's what happened today."

Evans also scored Chicago's first touchdown on a 17-yard run, was able to convert the "big plays" that the Bears had been lacking, according to Chicago Coach Tom Armstrong.

"Vince is one of those guys who can make the big play," Armstrong said. "He played very well, considering it was his first start coming in at the beginning of a game."

Armstrong conceded the Bears, 3-4, had their backs against the wall in facing the front running Detroit Lions, who still lead the NFC Central with a 5-2 record.

"We definitely needed this one, we had our backs against the wall," Armstrong said. "I also thought our offense did an excellent job of shutting them down."

Detroit Coach Monte Clark said he still liked Detroit's position for the playoffs.

"The best thing about this game is that it's over," Clark said. "We're not ashamed. A lot of people would like to be in our position."

Clark said the Bears' rush on quarterback Gary Danielson, who hit Leonard Thompson on a 34-yard scoring pass in the fourth quarter, was a key factor.

"That was excellent," Clark said. "We lost because we got outplayed."

Roland Harper added a 4-yard

TD run, his first score in nearly two years, for the Bears.

The Lions were plagued by poor execution and key penalties throughout the contest. Detroit had one touchdown — called because of a penalty, had one field goal blocked and fumbled four times, losing one.

Walter Payton, the league's second-leading rusher, gained 94 yards in 26 carries, outdueling Detroit rookie Billy Sims, the league leader who was held to 53 yards in 14 carries.

Evans completed 5-of-8 passes for 172 yards, with Scott catching three for 140 yards. Danielson hit 15-of-27 for 243 yards.

The Bears capitalized on a Detroit turnover for their first TD. Tackle Jim Osborne recovered a Sims fumble on the second play of the game. Eight plays later, Evans scored on a 17-yard sneak to give Chicago a 7-0 lead with 9:36 left in the first quarter.

Detroit's Ed Murray missed a 34-yard field goal attempt later in the quarter.

Detroit drove deep into Chicago territory again in the second quarter, and a Danielson to Sims touchdown pass was called back after the officials ruled offensive pass interference.

Murray then came in to kick an apparent 19-yard field goal, but Chicago was called for illegal procedure before the play. Murray then attempted an 18-yard field goal which was blocked by Osborne.

Chicago put together a time-consuming drive at the end of the half, marching 88 yards in 13 plays, capped by an 18-yard field goal by Bob Thomas on the final play of the half to give Chicago a 10-0 lead.

The Bears took the opening drive of the second half for a score, with the Evans-Scott combination setting up Harper's TD with 13:11 remaining.

The Lions, forced to go almost exclusively to the air, finally got on the board with the Danielson-Thompson touchdown early in the fourth quarter. But Evans hit Scott on the long TD play with 8:32 left in the game.

Series

Scores and stats

The Royals, trailing 2-1, took the lead off rookie starter Marty Byström in the sixth with a pair of runs. Otis led off the inning with his third homer of the series to tie the score and the Royals then bunched singles by Clint Hurdle and Darrell Porter to knock out the rookie right-hander.

Ron Reese relieved, and U.L. Washington delivered a sacrifice fly to put Kansas City ahead 3-2 but the Royals blew a chance to pad their lead when George Brett's error at first on the plate on a perfect relay throw at the attempted to score on a double by Willie Wilson off the right field fence.

Schmidt's two-run homer off Gura in the fourth, after an error by Aikens, gave Philadelphia a 2-0 lead. But the Royals got a run-back in the fifth on singles by Washington and Wilson, a sacrifice bunt by White and Brett's infielder's error.

The Royals, however, missed many scoring opportunities against Byström in the first four innings. In the first, Brett singled with two out and stole second, bringing up Aikens, who had come through so many times in the clutch in the previous four games. Not this time, though, as Byström struck out the big first baseman to end the inning.

Kansas City put runs on the first and second with none out in the third when Porter, using a bat given him by an usherette prior to the game, snapped an error by slumping with a sharp single to right and Washington belt-out a bunt.

With the top of the order coming up, the Royals appeared to have a chance for a comeback but Byström refused to knuckle under and retired Ron White and Brett in order to get out of the inning.

Singles by Aikens and Otis enabled the Royals to put runners on first and second with one out in the fourth, but Byström escaped by striking out Hurdle and retiring Porter on a line drive to first baseman Pete Rose.

Kansas City finally broke through for a run in the fifth but even then, the Royals should have scored more. Washington and Wilson had back-to-back singles with none out and White sacrificed to bring up dangerous Brett. With first base open, Byström pitched carefully to Brett and got the major leaguer leading him to ground out to second base as Washington scored.

Byström walked Aikens but then got McRae to fly out and end the inning.

The loss spoiled a brilliant day for White, who made four spectacular catches to trail the Royals out of potential trouble.

Cribbs' generosity helps Dolphins upset Buffalo 17-14

MIAMI (UPI) — In four years at Auburn, running back Jim Cribbs fumbled only five times. Welcome to the NFL, Joe.

In his seventh pro game with Buffalo, the rookie running back, who has added an extra dimension to the Bills' offense, lost three fumbles — and all of them led to Miami scores in the Dolphins' 17-14 victory Sunday.

"I know I had a bad game," Cribbs said later. "It was on lack of concentration that caused the fumbles. Some things happen that are not natural. Those things don't happen all the time — it was just one of those games."

The Dolphins' Don Bestill, who returned Cribbs' first fumble 44 yards for a touchdown, had another angle.

"He was getting hit a lot more than he had been," said the Miami safety. "We've been watching him in the films and we stripped him a couple of times. This is the first time I've ever scored... there's nothing like it," he said with a grin.

Also grinning was Miami Coach Don Shula, whose team had lost two straight before Sunday's game.

"I can't tell you how important the win was to our football team," Shula said. "I think we proved today we're a good football team that we're still in contention."

It was the second straight loss to an AFC East foe for the Bills as they dropped to 5-5. The Dolphins' record improved to 4-3 as they continued their home hex against Buffalo — which hasn't won in the Orange Bowl since 1958.

The Dolphins scored touchdowns in each of the first two quarters, on Bestill's fumble return and a 3-yard TD pass from rookie David Woodley to veteran receiver Nat Moore.

Trailing 14-0 at intermission, the Bills closed to 14-7 early in the third period when Cribbs took it over from 3 yards out. The score was set up when Shula's second TD pass to the Bills' fumble on the Dolphins' 26. It was Nelson's second recovery of the day.

The Dolphins boosted the margin to 17-7 after Glenn Blackwood grabbed a third Cincinnati TD pass from Miami drive to the Buffalo 5-yard line, where the Bills' defense forced a 23-yard field goal by Uwe von Schamann.

The Bills made it 17-14 with 1:16 to go by driving 66 yards and scoring on a 7-yard pass from Joe Ferguson to Jerry Butler, but the Dolphins' Jeff Allen, a rookie defensive back, fell on the ensuing onside kick to sew up the win.

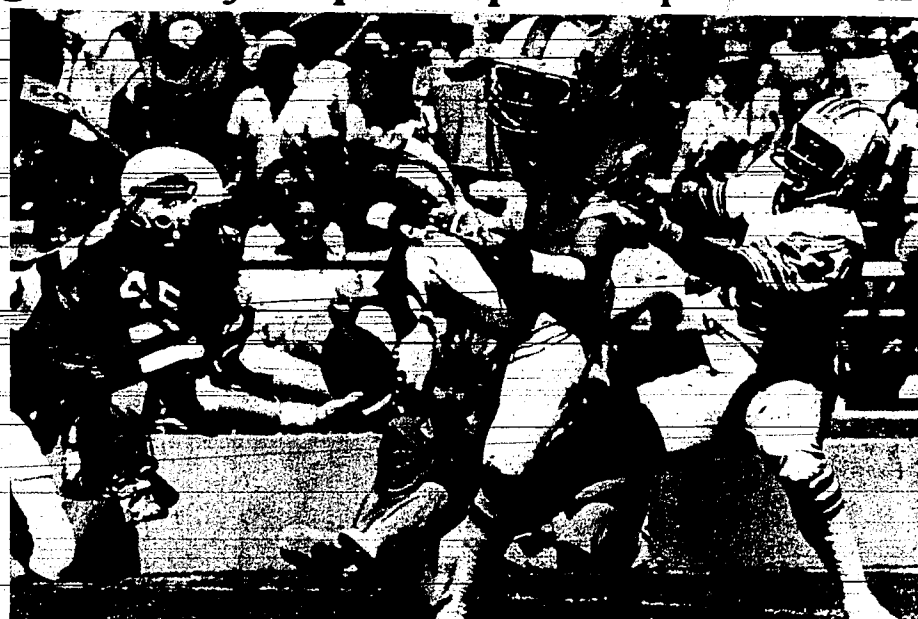

Bestill's fumble recovery and 44-yard TD run was the first score by the Dolphins' defense in 26 games and was the longest "turnover" return since 1974.

Moore's score, with 22 seconds left in the first half, was set up when Bestill made another big play. His hit forced Cribbs' second fumble and Blackwood ran for the 10-yard score.

The Dolphins then began an eight-play drive keyed by a 10-yard second pass to Tony Nathan on the second play of the possession. It was the last score by the Dolphins' offense in eight quarters, as they were shut out by the New England Patriots 34-0 a week ago, when they were held to an all-time team low of 88 yards in total offense.

The only other threat of the first half ended when Miami running back Delvin Williams fumbled on the Buffalo 25 — and Nelson made his first recovery.

The Bills had broken a 20-game losing streak against the Dolphins at Buffalo in the opening game of the season, but now have lost 12 straight in the Orange Bowl.

Bengals 14, Vikings 0
CINCINNATI (UPI) — Ken Anderson fired a 55-yard touchdown pass to Don Bass and Pete Johnson ran two yards for another score Sunday to give the Cincinnati Bengals a 14-0 victory over Minnesota, handing the Vikings only their second shutout since Bud Grant began coaching the team in 1967.

"It was a bit of an only-shutout also was administered by the Bengals a 27-0 triumph in Cincinnati in 1973.

Anderson, a 10-year veteran enjoyed one of his finest passing days ever, completing 21-of-28 for 270 yards.

Johnson, a 258-pound fullback from Ohio State, rushed for 115 yards in 26 carries.

The stiff Cincinnati defense kept Minnesota out of scoring range most of the day and the Vikings, 3-4, managed to get past midfield only once.

Cincinnati's 34 grabbed a 70-yard lead in the first quarter by moving 50 yards in just three plays. Anderson lofted a 40-yard pass to Isaac Curtis, then fired an eight-yard lead to Charles Alexander and Johnson ran the final two yards for a TD with 1:21 left in the opening period.

Efren Herrera had field goals of 38 and 22 yards and Jessie Green ran 32 yards with a blocked punt for the Seahawks' other points.

Herrera's 48-yard field goal in the first period gave Seattle a 3-0 lead, but Todd brought the Jets back for a 7-3 lead just 29 seconds before halftime on a 54-yard play-action bullet to tight end Mickey Shuler. The pass capped a 15-play, 80-yard drive that consumed 7:13.

Falcons 41, Saints 14
NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Steve Bartkowski threw four touchdowns passes and Joe Williams picked off three third-quarter passes to set up Atlanta's 41-14 victory over the Falcons to a 4-1 victory victory over the winless New Orleans Saints, who tied the worst start in their 14-year history.

Among Bartkowski's TD passes was a 49-yarder in the third quarter to split end Alfred Jenkins which put Atlanta in front for good. Bartkowski played a sluggish first half but finished the game with 16 completions in 28 attempts for 201 yards.

Williams, a second-year linebacker, picked off an Archie Manning pass and dashed to the Saints' 18 to set up a 1-yard touchdown dive by halfback Lynn Cain eight plays later.

Manning, from his own 22, passed straight into Williams — arms on the next series and he brought it back to the Saints' 8-yard line. It took Bartkowski just two plays to toss a 3-yard scoring pass to Junior Miller.

The Saints led 14-13 at halftime on TD passes from Manning to Wes Chandler for 18 yards and to Tony Galbreath from 15 yards, but New Orleans fell to 0-7 to match the Saints' worst start since their debut season in 1967.

Seahawks 27, Jets 17
NEW YORK (UPI) — Jeff Moad's two long runs set up Jim Jordan's 2-yard, go-ahead touchdown burst with 2:24 to play Sunday and enabled the Seattle Seahawks to keep alive their jinx over New York with a 27-17 victory over the Jets.

Moore turned a short pass from Jim Zorn into a 39-yard gain and then bolted 18 yards to the New York 2-yard line to set up the winning TD. The victory was Seattle's fourth in the last four years over the Jets, who have never beaten Seattle since the Seahawks were formed five years ago.

Jodai's touchdown burst capped an 88-yard, seven-play drive that began with 6:03 remaining. The Jets, 1-6, had the game since late in the first half.

Keith Simpson returned an interception 10 yards to the Jets' 21 and the Jets' 20-yard run to the Jets' 1-yard line set up a clinching touchdown by Jodai with 2:06 remaining as Seattle improved to 4-3.

Browns 26, Packers 21
CLEVELAND (UPI) — Brian Sipe completed 17-of-27 for 170 yards and a touchdown pass to Darryl Logan with just 16 seconds left Sunday to avert a major upset and give the Cleveland Browns a 26-21 triumph over the resurgent Green Bay Packers.

"You tell the doubtful starter because of a knee injury suffered last week, completed 24-of-37 passes for 392 yards and two touchdowns."

The Browns appeared to have lost the game when Green Bay — after a scoreless first half, struck for two TDs in the third quarter and another early in the fourth to take a 21-13 lead.

A 42-yard field goal by Dan Riffe midway through the third quarter gave the Browns a 13-10 lead.

"Packers — who tied Tampa Bay last week and gained 569 yards in the Buccaneers defeat — took the game back in seven plays, with quarterback Lynn Dickey scrambling the last 7 yards for a touchdown."

Steelers vs. Raiders

The one-time strong rivalry won't be the same tonight on TV

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — There were times during the 1970s when the rivalry looked more like guerrilla warfare than football.

The battles between what were then the top two powers of the American Football Conference were likely to erupt any time.

"In newspapers, on television, in a room, in a room, their weapons were as apt to include lawyers and litigious agents as they were blocking and tackling."

It will not be the same, this first meeting between the Pittsburgh Steelers and the Oakland Raiders since the second game of the 1977 regular season.

"You tell the Steelers to take it easy on us," Al Davis, the Raiders' managing general partner, told one local reporter in an interview about the Pittsburgh-Oakland game at Three Rivers Stadium Monday night.

"We are not the same Raiders. They are all in Houston."

And so, in a way, the warfare continues, albeit in a manner as Byzantine as the ongoing Midwest conflicts.

Davis' 33 team is no longer the chief threat to the Steelers' dominance in the AFC. The Houston Oilers are — and have been since the 1978 season.

And perhaps that explains Davis' ready agreement to deals that sent seven star players, including Raiders quarterback Ken Stabler, defensive back Jack Tatum, and most recently, tight end Dave Casper to Houston, this season.

Davis, always the dominant figure in the various off-field battles with the Steelers, would find it mighty easy to help them in their bid to make the Super Bowl.

"There it was a foot race, I compare to the old times, when Pittsburgh and Oakland fought it out in the AFC playoffs five straight seasons, 1972-1976."

"They were vital years of my life," Davis said.

The Raiders left over from those days feel differently. "It's still a big deal," Raiders

Casper for three draft picks deal, consummated with Houston last week. "I should help them in their bid to make the Super Bowl."

The Raiders left over from those days feel differently. "It's still a big deal," Raiders

Coach Tom Flores said of the Pittsburgh Steelers. "There are still enough of us here from when the rivalry was going. We haven't lost that feeling. It was a great rivalry and there still is a little carryover."

"The game had better be a big deal to the Steelers too. If they want to avoid an early end to their 1980 season. Despite a 4-2 record and first place in the AFC Central Division, Pittsburgh has not played championship-caliber football this season."

After the Steelers lost their second straight to the otherwise winless Los Angeles Rams, San Diego Coach Chuck Noll accused them of complacency and overconfidence. Many players agreed with him.

"If we keep playing the way we've been playing, we'll never win this year," Noll said. "I'm a middle linebacker Jack Lambert. 'The games we lost close and some of the others shouldn't have been games.'"

NAU turns tide on 1979 verdict with Weber in the Big Sky

By United Press International

Every collegiate football coach tries to tell his players they have to be able to bounce back from any loss ending a winning streak. If the team is to regain its form. But that's not always as easy as it sounds.

In 1979 Northern Arizona was riding a 5-0 winning streak and No. 3 national ranking in the NCAA Division I-AA going into a game at winner Weber State. But the Wildcats were able to upset the Lumberjacks 34-0 one year ago, changing the futures of both teams — at least until Saturday.

The Wildcats started the 1979 season 0-5. But the win over NAU got Weber State going and the Wildcats won seven of their next 11 games through Oct. 11, including their last four straight.

Meanwhile, Northern Arizona won only four of its next 12 games, after starting last year with five consecutive victories. But Saturday night it was the Lumberjacks' turn to come through with the upset, whipping Division I-AA fifth-ranked Weber State 22-17 at Flagstaff, Ariz.

Now it's WSC Coach Pete Richman's turn to see if he can revive his players and keep their 1980 Big Sky Conference title hopes alive. The Wildcats still lead the league despite their first loss in Big Sky play, and can take a major step toward this year's crown if they can win next weekend at second-place Boise State.

In other Big Sky games Saturday, Idaho edged Montana State 1-5 while Utah State got its first league win in three years with a 17-0 shutout victory over Montana in non-league games. Boise State crushed Fullerton State 26-11, and Nevada-Reno whipped Northridge State 31-3.

Northern Arizona defensive tackle Dan Anders forced two Weber State fumbles, each leading to quick touchdowns — as the Lumberjacks upset the Wildcats.

Sophomore quarterback Scott Lindquist passed 46 yards to flanker Pete Mandley for NAU's first score, and the Lumberjacks took a 19-0 halftime lead when Mike Jenkins and Rusty Summers each plunged one yard for second-quarter TDs.

On the first play after Jenkins' score, Anders forced Weber quarterback Bill Tantillo to fumble — and the Lumberjacks recovered on the Weber pass. Three plays later, Summers scored the first of his two NAU touchdowns.

Midway through the third quarter, Anders forced another fumble, by Willie Glasper of the State 24. And Summers sprinted all the way to the end zone on the next play.

Linebacker Greg Gerkin then intercepted a Tantillo pass and raced 75 yards for NAU's final score. Weber State got its lone touchdown with 35 seconds left when Rich McKee passed 10 yards to Eric Allen for the score.

Idaho State won its first Big Sky game since 1977 and scored its first shutout in nine years by defeating Montana at Pocatello, Idaho. The win ended a 13-game Big Sky losing streak for the Bengals in their first victory over the Grizzlies since 1975.

Dwain Wilson ran seven yards for one ISU touchdown and quarterback Mike Machurek tossed a 25-yard scoring pass to Chris Corp for the second. Case deBrulin added a 50-yard field goal for the Bengals and kicked both PATs.

Fullback Frank Hawkins rushed for 142 yards and scored on a 34-yard touchdown run in Nevada-Reno's easy win over Northridge State. Jeff Jones also scored on a razzle-dazzle 52-yard double reverse, and quarterback Dave Hebbe tossed a 56-yard touchdown pass to Jimmy Clark — Hebbe's only pass of the day.

Reno also got a 36-yard field goal and four extra points from freshman kicker Tony Shaw, while the Wolf Pack defense held the Matadors to minus 37 yards rushing.

Next Saturday, Weber State is at Boise State, and Montana State hosts Northern Arizona, in Big Sky games. In non-conference contests, Idaho is at San Jose State, Idaho State hosts Western Montana, Montana is at home against Eastern Washington, and Nevada-Reno hosts Fullerton State.

Georgia, BYU go point crazy; Southern Cal shocked by Oregon

By United Press International

Georgia took the overland trail while Brigham Young took to the air in scoring positions, but second-ranked Southern California found all routes blocked and had to settle for a shocking tie against Oregon.

Oregon, which along with Southern Cal and three other Pacific-10 teams, is ineligible for the Rose Bowl, trailed 7-0 late in the third period before Kevin Lusk hit Greg Moser with a 68-yard pass to set up a 2-yard touchdown run by Terrance James. Doug Jollymour then kicked the point after to give the scrappy Ducks a 7-7 tie.

Georgia's Herschel Walker, the sensational freshman running back, scampered for 283 yards and TD dashes of 60, 53 and 48 yards to spark unbeaten and sixth-ranked Georgia to a 41-0 triumph over Vanderbilt. Walker, who shattered a 35-year-old Georgia rushing record with his effort, also galloped 39 yards to set up a field goal as the Bulldogs rushed for 331 yards.

At Brigham Young, quarterback Jim McMahon, who has the unenviable task of replacing All-American Marc Wilson, seems to be doing just fine.

The junior, redshirted last season, set three NCAA records and tied two more — passing for six TDs and running for two more — in powering 20th-ranked Brigham Young to a 40-48 victory over Utah State.

In other games involving the Top 10, No. 1 Alabama dumped Tennessee 27-0. No. 5 Notre Dame swamped Army 30-3. No. 7 Florida State lammered Boston College 41-7. No. 8 North Carolina defeated North Carolina State 29-8. No. 9 Nebraska walloped Oklahoma State 48-7 and No. 10 Ohio State beat Indiana 27-17. No. 3 Texas and No. 4 UCLA were idle.

McMahon's 342 yards passing in the first half and 358 yards in total offense set major college records for a half, breaking the previous marks established by Wilson against Long Beach State in 1977.

McMahon also set an NCAA mark for most yards in total offense in two consecutive games — 339 — against Wyoming last week and Utah State Saturday. He finished the game with his second consecutive 400-yard plus total offensive output and his fifth consecutive game with at least 300 yards in total offense to equal NCAA records. In the second 10 it was No. 11 Pittsburgh 42 — West Virginia 14; No. 12 Penn State 24, Syracuse 7; No. 13

Baylor 46, Texas A&M 7 and No. 14 South Carolina 49, Cincinnati 7.

Also, No. 16 Iowa State was upset by Kansas 28-17. No. 17 Missouri clobbered Colorado 45-7. No. 18 Oklahoma beat Kansas State 35-21 and No. 19 Miami (Fla.) lost to Mississippi State 34-31. No. 15 Arkansas did not play.

Alabama used four field goals by Peter Kim and a ferocious defense to extend the nation's longest winning streak to 27 games. Kim kicks came from 31, 41 and 24 yards before a Neyland Stadium crowd of 96,748 — the largest ever to attend a sports contest in the South. Third-string quarterback Ken Coley ran 8 yards for a TD and Major Oglivie plunged 1 yard for another score as Tennessee dropped their 10th straight game to Alabama.

Edward brothers roll to team title

LAKE BUENA VISTA, Fla. (UPI) — Danny and Dave Edwards shot a 7-under-par 65 Sunday to hold on to first place and win the National Team Golf Championship.

Never seriously challenged since their opening-day round of 60, the Edwards brothers bogeyed the final hole of the match to finish 35-under-par at 253, one shot shy of the tournament record. They won $63,000.

Three teams tied for second-place money, two shots back at 255: Veteran Hubert Green and Fuzzy Zoeller captured third place with a 32-under 256 and rookies Doug Campbell and Mike Gove finished fourth, four shots back at 257. The victory was the first PGA title for David Edwards, 24, and ended a 3-year tour drought for Danny Edwards, 23.

The Edmond, Okla., brothers said their break Sunday came on the 514-yard par-5 fourth hole at the Disney World's Magnolia Course when Danny knocked in a six-foot putt for an eagle.

"We really didn't get off to that good of a start," said Danny, noting their final round partners Gove and Campbell birdied the first two holes and went one shot up.

"I made an eagle on the fourth hole and that got us going," he said. "I just knew we had a great chance after that."

The Edwards noticed two more birdies finishing the front round of the best ball tournament with four-under-par 32.

Trevino's caddy 'wins tournament'

ST. NOMAS-BRETECHE, France (UPI) — American Lee Trevino, taking his caddy's advice for every shot, fired a 3-under-par final round 69 for a decisive win in the $60,000 Lancome golf tournament Sunday.

Trevino, who won the title in 1978 and finished tied for second last season, came home four strokes ahead of compatriot Gary Halberg with an 8-under-par total of 280 and first prize of $25,000 on the 6,800-yard course.

Halberg, 23, from Illinois, shared the lead with Trevino through seven holes of the final round, but the 40-year-old "Super Mex" stroled away and was never threatened again.

"I didn't win the tournament — my caddy did," Trevino said. "He's called Manuel, he's Portuguese and he's the assistant professional here."

"I let him read every putt and I just hit it where he told me. It worked like a treat," the American added.

Trevino, winner of the Vardon Trophy on this year's U.S. circuit, came under pressure when Halberg birdied three of the first seven holes, but his young rival dropped shots at the eighth, which Trevino birdied, and ninth to slide three strokes behind.

Halberg looked like he might lose the runner-up spot when he took a six at the 68-yard 17th where he three-putted, but he wedged to within 3 feet at the last for a birdie three, a 71 and 284 total.

"I thought I could catch Lee," said Halberg. "But I took two sixes on the back nine and that killed me."

Halberg still finished one stroke ahead of West Germany's Bernhard Langer-Langer, who won the Dunlop Masters two weeks ago in Britain, had four birdies in a 72 for 285.

NASL owners to face problems today

Monday, October 20, 1980 Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho B-7

TORONTO (UPI) — North American Soccer League owners, red-linked ledgers in hand, hold their annual meetings today, faced with labor disputes threatening the indoor season, cutbacks in television coverage and pressure to merge weaker franchises.

NASL commissioner Phil Woosnam pronounced the league in a sound state of health this weekend and "ready to come into its own in the '80s." But he said that after 10 years as a league, no NASL team, including the showcase New York Cosmos, is making money.

"That is to be expected, we are not alarmed," he said. "After all, the National Football League took 10 years to get off its feet in the 1960s and when it did, it took another 10 years for the teams to get out of the red."

Woosnam said the agenda for the three-day session was one of the heaviest in the league's 10-year history with mergers, television contracts, realignment, rule changes, labor disputes and conflicts with European teams among the issues facing executives of the 24 franchises.

The first topic today would likely be a motion that the league merge some of its biggest box office losers — notably the New England Teamen and the Houston Hurricane.

Many executives maintain the league expanded too rapidly two years ago when it increased from 18 to 24 teams: The Philadelphia Fury and the Memphis Rogues were sold this past year, and New England and Houston are both up for sale.

Attendance at NASL games last season increased a scant 2 percent to 15,000 after an 8-percent rise the previous year. Clive Toye, president of the Toronto Blizzard, who is spearheading the merger drive, claims weaker teams are impeding league growth.

"This issue of merger is one we will have to deal with first," Woosnam said. "since it affects most of the other decisions we will be making for the rest of the week."

The indoor season, only a month away, is jeopardized by the lack of a collective agreement between the players' association and the league. Woosnam said this is the most disturbing problem facing owners, but one that is out of their hands.

After two years of courtroom battles, the players' association recently won the right to bargain for all NASL players. The two sides are meeting in Washington, D.C., to hammer out an agreement before the indoor season opens Nov. 14.

The 18 teams slated to play the 18-game three-month format have already invested heavily in playing facilities and promotions.

The league is also negotiating with ABC to save its minimal television coverage. ABC carried a minimum of six games a year over the past two years but because of poor ratings the network wants to cut back the number of games.

Connors wins 1st pro event in China

CANTON, China (UPI) — Jimmy Connors overpowered fellow American Elliot Teltcher 6-2, 6-4 Sunday to win the $50,000 Canton Grand Prix Tennis Classic, the first professional sports event in China.

Connors won five straight games to begin the match and whizzed by the 21-year-old Teltcher to wrap up the first set in 30 minutes.

The Palos Verdes Estates, Calif., youngster rallied in the second set and managed to hold off the relentless veteran for 30 minutes before the veteran put away the match.

China's first professional sporting event was played under the blazing sun in the 4,000-seat Guangdong Sheng People's Stadium before the first full-house of a seven-day tournament.

Tennis is not a popular sport in China and the stands of the outdoor stadium normally used for basketball were virtually empty most of the week.

The arrival of tennis fans from Hong Kong for the finals and free tickets given to the Chinese people by the organizers filled the stadium Sunday.

Inside the bowl-shaped stadium, the Chinese spectators were surrounded by advertisements for goods not available to them, including American cigarettes and soft drinks, Japanese cars and hotels in the South Pacific.

Teltcher, ranked no. 8 on the pro tennis tour, appeared during most of the match to be the favorite as the 28-year-old Connors forced him to chase line drives into the corners, ready to pounce if he faltered.

John McEnroe wins, releases heavy warning

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI) — John McEnroe sounded an ominous warning for fellow tennis players Sunday by beating Vitas Gerulaitis in straight sets in the final of the $192,500 Australian Indoor Championships.

McEnroe took the winner's check of $33,000 after a fighting 6-3, 6-4, 7-5 victory over the second seeded New Yorker.

After combining with Peter Fleming to win the doubles final and another $5,500, McEnroe told newsmen he did not think he will reach his peak for another three or four years.

Considering his form Sunday, that statement must prove upsetting for the world's number one player, Sweden's Bjorn Borg.

"You don't have to ring in this game, but I don't think I'll reach my peak until three, maybe four years from now," said McEnroe. "That's when you start playing mind games, when you're concentration goes and you've gone everything."

McEnroe, 22, said six years ago, when he had been a ball boy in a Jimmy Connors match, that he thought Connors would prove unbeatable in the future, but that has now passed.

"In 1974 I didn't think anyone could beat him. Now, well, there have been some changes and I don't think Jimmy's mental attitude is as good as it might have been," McEnroe said.

Czech upsets Bjorn Borg

BASEL, Switzerland (UPI) — Second seeded Czechoslovak Ivan Lendl prevailed in a three-hour and eight-minute victory over top seeded Swede Bjorn Borg in the final of the $75,000 Swiss Indoor Tennis Championship Sunday, eventually winning 6-2, 6-2, 6-4.

It was a thrilling and fascinating final in which Borg made too many mistakes, while the 20-year-old Lendl played steady, determined tennis from the baseline with a powerful array of strokes.

Borg said after his third-loss this year in a grand prix tournament that he was not surprised that Lendl had won.

The Swede's other defeats came against Guillermo Vilas in the Nations Cup in Duesseldorf, Ivan Lendl in Toronto where Borg retired injured, and at Flushing Meadow against John McEnroe.

Five Ricks gridders ousted from team

REXBURG, Idaho (UPI) — Five Ricks College football players have been kicked off the team and dismissed from the Mormon-owned school, officials said.
First-year Coach Ken Schmidt ousted the players Friday, and they soon were informed by the Student Life Office they were no longer wanted at the two-year college, located in the eastern Idaho community of Rexburg.

Athletic Director Charles Grant named the players as David Hansen, Blake Woods, Todd Bule, Rocky Ulbarri and Steve Denison. Grant said only that the action was taken "because of violations of the student code of conduct each student commits himself to upon entering Ricks College."
Four of the players, including Hansen, a quarterback, and Ulbarri, the team's top rusher, were starters.

Without the five players, Ricks was beaten 23-19 at Rexburg Saturday by Carroll College of Montana.

Dodgers, Bo Sox near trade agreement

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The Boston Red Sox and Los Angeles Dodgers moved a step closer to completing a deal for Red Sox outfielder Fred Lynn Sunday although one drawback was still blocking what would be a four-player swap.
The Red Sox have agreed they would accept left-handed pitcher Steve Howe and right-handed Joe Beckwith for Lynn but they also would want third baseman Mickey Hatcher included in the package. The Dodgers told the Red Sox they would be willing to give up outfielder Rudy Law but were reluctant to part with Hatcher.

Law, 260 and hit one homer in 122 games while Hatcher had a .226 average in 57 games for the Dodgers this season. Beckwith had a .33 record and a 1.95 ERA in 38 appearances.
Haywood Sullivan, co-owner and general manager of the Red Sox, met with Dodger manager Tommy Lasorda twice Saturday to discuss the deal. Lasorda had made a special trip back from Los Angeles where he and Dodger general manager Al Campanis were giving their attention to outfielder Dusty Baker and veteran right-hander Don Sutton, who became free agents after the season.

Sullivan and Lasorda said that they would get together again regarding the Lynn deal late Sunday.

Canadian skier, 15, dies from fall

VIENNA (UPI) — A teenager who had been training with Canada's skiing team was killed Friday in the mountains of Tirol, police reported.
William Bennett, 15, who had been training in Hintertux, Tirol, slipped on a snow-covered rock while climbing a mountain with a friend, and fell 655 feet to his death.

Bennet had set off to climb the mountain wearing only gym shoes, and was forced to turn back after reaching a height of 6,550 feet because the climb was too steep. During the descent, he lost his balance on a steep, snow-covered slope and fell to the bottom, suffering fatal injuries.

Redskins' Waddy sustains broken leg

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Washington Redskins defensive back Ray Waddy suffered a broken left leg in the first quarter of Sunday's NFL game against the St. Louis Cardinals.
Waddy, a three-year veteran from Texas A&I used mostly on special teams, was hit while covering a kickoff return and his left leg was broken just below the knee.

Yarborough closes NASCAR point gap

ROCKINGHAM, N.C. (UPI) — Cale Yarborough took the lead with about 75 miles to go Sunday and held off Harry Gant to win the American 500 stock-car race and close the gap in the NASCAR Grand National points standings.
Yarborough finished 3.36 seconds ahead of Gant to record his fifth victory of the season and sweep the two 1980 NASCAR events at the North Carolina Motor Speedway. He won the Carolina 500 in March.
Darrell Waltrip finished third, two laps behind Yarborough, while Terry Labone was five laps behind in fourth and Jody Ridley was white, six laps down.

The first four drivers were in Chevrolets as Ridley drove a Ford. Yarborough closed to within 44 points of Dale Earnhardt in the NASCAR Grand National points standings with only two races remaining this season.
