Flurry of notes fuel hostage release hope

ALGIERS, Algeria (UPI) — Iran sent a U.S. negotiating team an unexpected flurry of new messages Friday fueling hopes for the release of the 52 American hostages.

Secretary of State Edmund Muskie said it is a "fair conclusion" Iran is serious about settling the hostage crisis but there is no way to say if an agreement can be reached before the administration leaves office Jan. 20.

"I don't think it's useful to be overly optimistic or pessimistic," Muskie told reporters. "The reality is the negotiations are continuing, and that's a positive sign."

Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher, heading the negotiating team, added "serious differences" still blocked the release of the 52 American hostages.

While the contents were not disclosed, the fact that messages were being exchanged at a hectic pace despite the Moslem sabbath lent a new air of drama to the negotiations to free the hostages before the Carter Administration leaves office Jan. 20.

A wave of rumors that the United States has or was about to transfer as much as $16 billion in assets to Algeria also fueled speculation that a break in the hostage crisis might be imminent. However, a State Department spokesman in Washington said he had "no information" to confirm or deny the rumors circulating in financial markets in London and Toronto.

NBC News said Treasury officials and bank lawyers met in New York Friday to "discuss the possible transfer of frozen Iranian assets from the United States to the Algerian government."

Sources said the transfer involved an estimated $5 billion in Iranian money, which is in domestic and foreign branches of American banks, NBC said.

In Washington, State Department spokesman John Trautner said the new Iranian messages concerned "aspects of the procedures in our last proposal."

At issue was still the question of how much money the United States would pay Iran to free the hostages and the mechanics of paying it.

Another problem, officials reported, involved how the money would be handled.

F & G Commissioners mull idea of special investigation

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Fish and Game Commission will consider next week whether to create a special panel to investigate the circumstances surrounding Monday's shooting deaths of two conservation officers in Owyhee County.

State Fish and Game Department Director Jerry Conley said Friday afternoon he had discussed possible formation of an inquiry board with Commission Chairman Richard Schwarz, Idaho Falls.

"We would like a board of inquiry to look into this case, to look at what information we have and see if we were doing anything wrong," Conley said.

"Right now, it doesn't look like we were doing anything wrong. Apparently it just happened that we were in the wrong place at the wrong time."

The department was shocked by the gunshot slayings this week in a remote area of rugged Owyhee County near the Oregon and Nevada borders.

"We would appreciate having a board of inquiry, including some outside people, give us their best opinion," Conley said.

The director said he hoped such a panel would make recommendations concerning what procedures officers in the field could follow to better carry out their jobs and protect themselves.

"We would like a recommendation on how we could operate in isolated country with people of this type," he said, referring to the game wardens' killer.

Conley said he personally would like any inquiry group to study the types of equipment used by F&G officers. For example, he would consider the use of flak jackets for officers who must enter a potentially dangerous situation, and possibly alter the department's weapons policy.

He said F&G officers now carry .357 magnum pistols. He said both murdered officers were equipped with weapons.

Conley said the FBI was assuming more control of the search for Dallas. He said authorities were preparing to mount a grid-pattern search in the area of northern Nevada in which Dallas was believed to have fled.

The deaths of the officers apparently "was just one of those things," said Conley, who earlier Friday said the victims made the "ultimate sacrifice" in the effort to protect Idaho wildlife.

He said Monday's deaths were the first killings of department officers in 80 years.

them in Nevada, where the season is in progress.

Dallas had lived in the Paradise Valley area for about 10 years but would go into the wilderness for a month or more at a time. People would bring supplies to him, and Stevens said that's what he was doing when he went to the remote camp.

Humboldt County, Nev., Sheriff Frank Weston said his men presumed Pogue's body was buried in Paradise Valley where Dallas lives when he is not trapping in the wilds.

"He's a mountain man type who lives off the land," Weston said. "It's no problem for him to survive out there."

He said there were many mines, caves and ravines where Dallas could hide. He said Dallas has a beard and long hair tied in a ponytail. He is armed with at least a pistol and a rifle, and was believed to carry a backpack and sleeping bag.

An autopsy scheduled for today on the body of Elms was postponed until Owyhee County Sheriff Tim Nettleton could return from the field where he has spent most of the week directing the investigation of the crime. A new date for the autopsy was not set.

Some confusion has occurred over the spelling of Dallas's name. Some news reports have spelled it Dallas, but according to the Owyhee County Sheriff's Office the two-count homicide warrant was issued with the spelling of Dalles.

given considerable leeway and several delays to Auth in order to allow him to comply with Uniform Building Code requirements.

In the end, Auth yielded to county requirements that he submit certification from an engineer that the roof structure, which deviated from code standards, was sound. Last month, Auth appeared before a five-member board of appeals that accepted the roof structure and engineer's certification, and required Auth to make minor changes in two stairways.

Stoker said the county wanted to inspect any work done since county inspectors last examined the building. He said county officials were simply attempting to finish the required inspections and were not interested in harassing Auth.

Fossing what he said were "admittedly weak arguments," Auth intended the county had mishandled the case by not reviewing house plans prior to issuing a building permit, by not conducting a final inspection before his family moved into the house and by not informing him of the early construction stages of code requirements.

Auth also questioned the need for strictly enforcing the code against a man building his own home rather than for profit.

"To me, reasonableness would not dictate that the full force of this 700-plus-page book should apply to a house in the middle of the desert," he said.

Afterward, Auth said he was surprised at the decision removed a "black cloud" which had been hanging over his family for more than a year.

"We didn't beat them. They beat themselves," he said. "The judge gave us that ruling basically because of their negligence."

Chemical weapons used in Gulf War?

Saturday, January 10, 1981 Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho A-3

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Iran accused Iraq Friday of using napalm and chemical weapons for the first time in the 119-day old Persian Gulf war during an artillery bombardment of civilian targets in its oil city of Ahwaz.

It said Iraqi air raids on other cities were in reprisal for heavy losses in ground fighting during a major Iranian counter-offensive, but Iraq's state-controlled media refuted the Iranian claims of military superiority.

In New York, a U.N. spokesman said special envoy Olaf Palme will visit Baghdad and Tehran next week to resume his efforts to end the Iran-Iraq war.

U.N. sources said Palme hoped the two governments would confirm an agreement, thrashed out during his last visit, to allow some 70 foreign ships to leave the Shatt al-Arab waterway where they have been trapped since war erupted September 22.

Iran's official Pars news agency said Friday: "While artillery battles continued along all the fronts of Ahwaz, Susangerd and Hoveizeh, the city of Ahwaz was attacked by the long-range artillery of the Iraqi forces four times today."

"Two residential areas of the city were shelled for the first time using napalm and chemical warfare bombs. Fortunately, no casualties or damage were inflicted," said Pars. There was no immediate comment from Iraq on the charges of using napalm, but the official Iraqi news agency said its warplanes struck at Iranian "military targets" in Dezful and Abadan, setting oil pipelines on fire and "killing a number of racist Iranians."

Chad-Libya merger keys French troop moves

PARIS (UPI) — France will rush reinforcements to its military base in the Central African Republic at the request of several African countries and by Libya's plans to merge with Chad, government officials said Friday.

The officials said troops and air force personnel will be sent "at the request of African states with whom France is linked by agreements for defense and military cooperation."

Defense Ministry officials said the reinforcements could be in place within 15 days at the French base at N'Djamena in the northwest corner of the Central African Republic, which borders Chad on its southern frontier.

France already has 850 troops at its base at N'Djamena. The government did not say how many reinforcements it would send.

In Aswan, Egypt, President Anwar Sadat said the planned Libya-Chad merger is "harmful to the whole of Africa" and added that Egypt is consulting with other African states about the situation.

The Chad-Libya government Friday emphasized the significance of the planned merger. The Chad News Agency said President Goukouni Wedeye had not "pledged allegiance to (Libya) President Moammar Khadafi, or offered him Chad on a silver platter."

U.S. shows concern over Chad tension

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States is concerned about Libya's proposed merger with Chad and advocates a policy of non-interference in the affairs of the former French colony, a State Department spokesman said Friday.

Libyan troops have helped crush a rebellion led by a former defense minister against the rule of Chad President Goukouni Wedeye. This week, Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafi announced a merger of his nation with its southern neighbor.

State Department spokesman John Trautner said "Without trying to intervene in Chad's internal affairs, we must note that it appears the entire National Union Transitional Government (of Chad) has not been consulted about this proposal," he said.

"The United States has also long been attached to the principle of non-interference by one state in the internal affairs of another. Most of Africa has expressed a great concern in recent days over Libya's blatant behavior."

"We share this concern and want to work with the African states to assure Chad's national sovereignty and territorial integrity."

Poles ready to strike for day off

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — A member of Poland's ruling Politburo severely criticized the Solidarity trade union Friday for introducing a new spark for social anxiety by declaring a five-day work week and ordering millions of workers to stay at home Saturday.

The Saturday holiday issue was considered potentially the most explosive between the union and authorities since Solidarity's legal status as the nation's largest independent union was established in November.

"Those who took these decisions (meaning Solidarity) did not do it in the interest of the working people," Stefan Olszowski said in a nationwide broadcast.

A sudden cut in working time may bring serious consequences in the economic situation, Olszowski said. "Solidarity will not be a free time from increasing troubles," Olszowski said. "This uncompromising stand constitutes a new spark for social anxiety."

However, at the same time, he left the door open for negotiations, saying "obviously every matter is discussible, but none should be rejected by the very principle of opposition by stubbornness or agitation."

Olszowski's stern speech came as millions of Poles prepared for Solidarity's call-and-slay-home-from-work Saturday to inaugurate the five-day, 40-hour work-week.

"Saturday is free and we won't go to work," said a Solidarity union spokesman in Czechoslovakia.

The government said the nation's struggling economy could not afford the 9 percent loss in production that a five-day, 40-hour work week would create.

Chemical weapons used in Gulf War?

Saturday, January 10, 1981 Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho A-3

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Iran accused Iraq Friday of using napalm and chemical weapons for the first time in the 11-day-old Persian Gulf war during an artillery bombardment of civilian targets in its oil city of Ahwaz.

It said Iraqi air raids on other cities were in reprisal for heavy losses in ground fighting during a major Iranian counter-offensive, but Iraq's state-controlled media refuted the Iranian claims of military superiority.

In New York, a U.N. spokesman said special envoy Olaf Palme will visit Baghdad and Tehran next week to resume his efforts to end the Iran-Iraq war.

U.N. sources said Palme hoped the two governments would confirm an agreement, thrashed out during his last visit, to allow some 70 foreign ships to leave the Shatt al-Arab waterway where they have been trapped since war erupted September 22.

Iran's official Pars news agency said Friday: "While artillery battles continued along all the fronts of Ahwaz, Susangerd and Hoveizeh, the city of Ahwaz was attacked by the long-range artillery of the Iraqi forces four times today."

"Two residential areas of the city were shelled for the first time using napalm and chemical warfare bombs. Fortunately, no casualties or damage were inflicted," said Pars. There was no immediate comment from Iraq on the charges of using napalm, but the official Iraqi news agency said its warplanes struck at Iranian "military targets" in Dehful and Abadan, setting oil pipelines on fire and "killing a number of racist Iranians."

Chad-Libya merger keys French troop moves

PARIS (UPI) — France will rush reinforcements to its military base in the Central African Republic in response to a request of several African countries alarmed by Libya's plans to merge with Chad, government officials said Friday.

request of African states with whom France is linked by agreements for defense and military cooperation.

Defense Ministry officials said the reinforcements could be in place within 15 days at the French base at Bouar in the northwest corner of the Central African Republic, which borders Chad on its southern frontier.

France already has 850 troops at its base at Bouar. The government did not say how many reinforcements it would send.

In Aswan, Egypt, President Anwar Sadat said the planned Libya-Chad merger is "harmful to the whole of Africa" and added that Egypt is consulting with other African states about the situation.

The Chad government Friday emphasized the significance of the planned merger. The Chad News Agency said President Goukouni Wedeyé had not "pledged allegiance to (Libyan) President Moammar Khadafi, or offered him Chad on a silver platter."

U.S. shows concern over Chad tension

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States is concerned about Libya's proposed merger with Chad and advocates a policy of non-interference in the affairs of the former French colony, a State Department spokesman said Friday.

Libyan troops have helped crush a rebellion led by a former defense minister against the rule of Chad President Goukouni Wedeyé. This week, Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafi announced a merger of his nation with its southern neighbor.

State Department spokesman John Trittner said "Without trying to intervene in Chad's internal affairs, we must note that it appears the entire National Union Transition Government (of Chad) has not been consulted about this proposal," he said.

"The United States has also long been attached to the principle of non-interference by one state in the internal affairs of another. Most of Africa has expressed a great concern in recent days over Libya's blatant behavior."

"We share this concern and want to work with the African states to assure Chad's national sovereignty and territorial integrity."

Poles ready to strike for day off

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — A member of Poland's ruling Politburo severely criticized the Solidarity trade union Friday for introducing "a new spark for social anxiety" by declaring a five-day work week and ordering millions of workers to stay at home Saturday.

The Saturday holiday issue was considered potentially the most explosive between the union and authorities since Solidarity's legal status as the nation's largest independent union was established in November.

"Those who took these decisions (regarding Solidarity) did not do it in the interest of the working people," Stefan Olszowski said in a nationwide broadcast.

"A sudden cut in working time may bring serious consequences in the economic situation... free Saturdays will not be a free time for the working people," Olszowski said. "This uncompromising stand constitutes a new spark for social anxiety."

However, at the same time, he left the door open for negotiations, saying "obviously every matter is discussable, but none should be rejected by the very principle of opposition by stubbornness or agitation."

Olszowski's stern speech came as millions of Poles prepared to heed Solidarity's call and stay home from work Saturday to inaugurate the five-day, 40-hour work-week.

"Saturday is free and we won't go to work," said a Solidarity union spokesman in Czestochowa.

The government said the nation's struggling economy could not afford the percent loss in production that a five-day, 40-hour work-week would create.

Haig — war may be needed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Alexander Haig, quoting Patrick Henry and saying Americans "must be willing to fight" for some things, signaled a tough line toward the Kremlin Friday in the first day of Senate hearings on his nomination as secretary of state.

"There are worse things and there are more important things than to be at peace," Haig replied sternly when asked if maintaining the peace should be the first principle of U.S. foreign policy.

Quoting patriot Henry's famous statement, "Give me liberty or give me death," he said, "in the nuclear age, there are things Americans must be willing to fight for."

The former commander of NATO forces said the main change in the world situation since World War II has been the transformation of the Soviet land army into an armed force "fully capable of supporting an imperial policy."

"Our commitment to peace will not be furthered by abdicating the right to exercise military power to only the most ruthless members of the international community," he said.

Haig was critical of the lack of a strong U.S. and allied reaction to the first Soviet attempts to politically take over Afghanistan. If the western reaction had been forceful, "the brutal invasion would have been avoided," he said.

He said there has been a steady erosion of the U.S. defense posture, compared to the "Soviets, and an 'unraveling of confidence in the United States' on the part of its allies.

Under further questioning, the secretary of state-designate added he does not know of any situation since World War II that would have justified the use of nuclear weapons. He said the use of even battlefield tactical nuclear weapons "would be a profound change" in the nature of any conflict.

He said the Reagan administration will revive the concept of "linkage," in which actions by the Soviets in one field will affect the whole range of the relationship.

He said "giving greater clarity and more sense of direction to America's foreign policy ... is the greatest legacy I can leave to my children."

Haig said he would not rule out covert operations to topple another government, but he said he would follow the law in consulting and informing Congress.

When asked about the wisdom of food embargoes, Haig answered that he had "grave doubts" about such a course of action.

"It usually turns out that we shoot ourselves in the foot, and the embargo places a selective burden on our own economy," he said.

33 feared dead in nursing home fire

KEANSBURG, N.J. (UPI) — Thirty-three elderly and handicapped men and women were feared dead Friday in a "hell-house" blaze that engulfed a rest home.

Officials said the home had been allowed to remain open even though it lacked state-mandated sprinkler systems.

Rescue workers pulled 20 bodies from the charred rubble. Officials said 13 people were still missing and feared dead.

Monmouth County Prosecutor Alexander Lehrer said the state

Health Department gave the owners of the home a waiver exempting them from the requirement for sprinkler systems. He did not say why the exemption was granted.

While the cause of the fire has not been determined, officials said it started next to the front door, which is near a recreation and dining room area.

Relatives of the missing clustered together at a nearby rescue shelter after the early-morning blaze. One woman asked over and over, "Have you seen my mother?"

Frozen blood stained the snow and a pair of pink bedroom slippers lay on the lawn in front of the gutted two-story brick building. Soot-blackened ice hung from broken window frames.

"It was bad — it was a hell-house," said Jose Medina, a lieutenant with a first aid squad from a nearby town.

Medina said he saw one man, dressed only in underwear, jump from a second-floor window and land in the snow. "He got up and started running."

For many of the survivors, however, the terror of the night was short-lived. Many were too disoriented or senile to understand what had happened to them.

"She thinks she's in England," said the sister of one 83-year-old survivor. Another woman who fled the blazing home said the fire was "too long ago to remember."

The fire broke out shortly before 4 a.m. and spread quickly. Many of the victims were buried beneath falling timbers when the roof and second floor of the building collapsed.

Lehrer said 111 residents were living in the home when the fire broke out.

Atlanta finds at least 2 more children's bodies

ATLANTA (UPI) — Police found the skeletons of two children Friday in the tangled woods of suburban East Point.

The bodies were found half a mile from the spot where another of the city's 15 murdered or missing black children was discovered.

There were unconfirmed reports at press time that a third body had also been discovered.

The skeletons were found about 50 yards apart off Redwine Road, near Interstate 285. The body of 14-year-old Milton Harvey was found off Redwine Road in November of 1979.

Mayor Maynard Jackson and Public Safety Commissioner Lee P. Brown rushed to the scene, along with leaders of the 35-officer task force assigned to the investigation of a 17-month-long string of slayings.

"We found two sets of skeletal remains of what appear to be children," Brown said in a brief statement. "The remains were taken to the state crime lab to be examined."

They were found 4 1/2 miles from the Southwest Atlanta shopping center where 300 officers were conducting a search for Lubie "Chuck" Geter, 14, who was last seen peddling automobile deodorizers at the shopping center Friday.

The skeletons were found on a large, wooded and trash-littered acreage owned by Fred Lyons.

Lyons said two dogs belonging to him and his roommate, Darwin Conart, came in "a week ago and they really stunk. We called police and told them that we thought something was dead out there," but there was no response.

Friday, he said, the dogs came home smelling again and Conart called the task force, which responded swiftly.

After the first skeleton was found more officers were rushed to the scene and a shoulder-to-shoulder search turned up the second skeleton no more than half an hour later.

Tatters of clothing hung from the bones.

Before Friday's discovery, 11 black children have been found dead and five were still missing over a 17-month period. All were from low-income areas; all relatively small for the ages and all but two of them boys.

BOMB SCARE

Anthony Andrews, star of "UXB," the current "Masterpiece Theater" series on PBS, was supposed to take a mock World War II bomb with him from England to Los Angeles Friday as a promotion gimmick for the show. The bomb was sent from the British Bomb Disposal Unit at Rochester, Kent, to London's Heathrow Airport — where the scheme blew up. British Airways wouldn't let the take bomb aboard — not after a real bomb had gone off at the RAF base at Oxtbridge Thursday night.

WEIGHTY PROBLEM

While the serious critics predicted "The Pirates of Penzance" would be a hit after it opened on Broadway Thursday night, some less serious types were giving star Linda Ronstadt the once-over. To some of the photographers on hand, it looked like she'd put back a lot of the flesh she had lost since her rolly polly days. Not so, said Richard Kornberg, press representative for "Pirates." He said she was slim as ever — it was just the clothes she was wearing.

CRONKITE HONORED

Walter Cronkite is the first broadcaster ever to win the University of Arizona's John Peter Zenger Award. The award is given for "distinguished service in behalf of freedom of the press and the people's right to know." Donald Carson, head of the university's journalism department, said Cronkite was a "runaway winner" in balloting among 350 journalists. Cronkite steps down as anchorman of the CBS Evening News this spring; to be replaced by Dan Rather.

CHARLES, AGAIN

The betting in London was back on Lady Diana Spencer Friday as Prince Charles' future bride, after the heir to the British throne slipped away from the royal residence at Sandringham to spend several hours with Lady Di. Her father, Earl Spencer, has the stately home next door. The couple met at Charles' horse stables. The London Sun quoted a stable boy as saying, "They seemed very happy together, like a couple in love."

DISNEY DELIGHT

The late Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev didn't make it to Disneyland — he wanted to go but American security precautions nixed the trip — but 200 million other tourists have visited the Anaheim, Calif., amusement park. Gert Schelvis, 26, a machine shop supervisor from Santa Barbara, Calif., had the honor of being the landmark customer. He got the red carpet treatment and a lifetime pass. With him were his wife and their son, Nicholas, 2.

Elvis fans raise funds for hospital

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Elvis Presley fan clubs in the United States, England and Canada pledged Friday to raise $10 million for a hospital burn and trauma unit to be named after the rock 'n' roll king.

Cheryle H. Smith of Marysville, Wash., organizer and president of the group, said the idea for the health facility was proposed by the mayor of Shelby County (Memphis).

"The fan clubs have been searching for a project," she said. "We wanted something that will be here for generations to come and will perpetuate the name of Elvis Presley."

She said an account has been opened at Union Planters' Bank in Memphis and it already contains $500. "We have an accountant that will handle all the contributions," she said.

Woman lives in cardboard shack

Judge orders medical help

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Saying he was "just trying to figure a way to keep her alive," a state judge Friday ordered an elderly black woman who lives in a cardboard shack under an interstate ramp committed to a hospital.

Community service officer Alton Morgado asked state authorities to have Lulu Robinson, 70, committed temporarily so she could spend a week in the hospital recovering from apparent frostbite.

Probate Judge George Reynolds ordered the old woman committed to University Hospital. While there she will undergo psychiatric evaluations that could lead to permanent commitment.

"Nobody is against the old lady," Reynolds said. "I've got to get her in the hospital at least to give her some medical attention."

However, University Hospital only has four beds for indigent patients and they were all filled. The judge said Lulu could stay at her street-side abode until one of the beds becomes vacant.

Both Reynolds and Morgado said they did not favor having Lulu committed permanently.

"I'm not going to send her off," the judge said. "I'll let her stay at the hospital a while and get her feet straightened out."

The woman said at Christmas time, when UPI carried national stories about her plight, that she could use some overcoats. But she apparently changed her mind and flatly refused an attempt by city police officers

Thursday to buy her a pair of insulated boots, saying it's "a sin to spend money for something that's not on sale."

"You don't buy boots in January," she lectured. "You wait till February when they're on sale."

Lulu is now wearing a worn vinyl pair of men's dress shoes over a couple pairs of socks.

She said she doesn't want to leave her shack. "This is my home," she said. "I can take care of myself."

Lulu came to Birmingham last spring after she was evicted from a hole under a street in Albany. She spent a few weeks in jail there. When forced to leave, she returned to Birmingham, only 50 miles from her hometown of Etowah.

Tots get into the swim of things

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — A 15 month old, an 8 month old and a 4 year old will jump into pools this month with up to 200 other babies as the next session of the YMCA pre-school swimming program gets under way in nearby Greensburg.

The Y's aquatic director Diane Debone, said she expects from 160 to 200 babies ranging in age from 4 months to 4 years to be swimming in the 17 to 20 classes.

"Most of the babies fall in the 18 month to 2 year range," Ms. Debone said, "but we had two 4 month olds in the last session."

The babies are taught what Ms. Debone termed "more survival type swimming like the dog paddle and how to get on their backs."

It seems once in the water, and after a little initial resistance, the babies take to the program just swimmingly.

The basic purpose of the program, Ms. Debone said, is to prepare the babies for the water early in life and with backyard pools riding a growing wave of popularity, knowing how to swim comes in handy.

"As one mother put it," Ms. Debone said, "most of the planet is made up of water and I want to be assured that my child will be safe."

What's what

French words gave name to delectable candies

Q. Why are some candies called bonbons?
A. When French toddlers taste something they like, they say "Bon, bon" just as American youngsters say "Good, good." Came from that.

Q. "Do you claim there's such a thing as right-handed and left-handed dice?"
A. So it's said. All modern dice are said to be left-handed, although a lot of dice in ancient Egypt were right-handed. Opposite sides of honest dice total seven, you know? That. What few know is the counter-clockwise count of the numbered sides on dice makes them left-handed while a clockwise count makes them right-handed.

JOHN ALDEN

"He died broke." Just read that about the renowned Pilgrim John Alden, that bashful savior of 1620 in Plymouth, Mass. What's wrong with dying broke? It's living broke that's bad. Anyhow, the fact that Alden survived to age 88 on the public dole is a matter of history. And it is also true that he once beat a murder rap in Boston, but you don't read much about it in the history texts.

Q. "Who invented the first electric Christmas lights?"
A. A telephone company employee in England by the name of Ralph Morris. In 1908, he had put out a tree caused by a tipped candle. He bought a batch of tiny bulbs used on telephone switchboards and strung them together. The notion spread.

RED TAPE

Out of Brazil comes a noteworthy report that's hard to believe. It says the Brazilian people are so fed up with bureaucracy that they've forced the government to install expedited to cut the red tape. Now that I believe. Regulations there in the past have required that almost all documents be notarized. What's unbelievable is the claim that the expedited now make the people with notarized documents go back and get them denotarized.

Q. "What town—and I don't mean Boys Town, sir—has the youngest population?"
A. Worldwide! That would be Singapore. Half the population there is under age 20.

Seven out of 10 failed murderers have never before been convicted of any crime.

Four arrested on burglary charges

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls police arrested three men and one juvenile late Thursday in connection with a string of burglaries committed in Twin Falls and Jerome during the past few months.

Police identified the men as George Raymond Smith, 19, of Twin Falls, Charles Edward Tealer, 19, and John McDermund, both of Kimberly. The juvenile was identified as a 16-year-old male.

Police Chief Tim Qualls said the four were arrested in connection with two burglaries which occurred at the Jerome County Club during the past two weeks, as well as residential and automobile burglaries which occurred in Twin Falls during the past few months.

Police recovered a stereo system stolen from the country club during the arrests. Qualls said the value of the stereo was listed at roughly $1,000.

According to court records, an informant aided police in their investigation of the burglary.

Smith, Tealer and the juvenile were arraigned in 5th District Magistrate Court in Jerome. McDermund was arraigned in magistrate court in Twin Falls.

In another case, police arrested Curtis Jonas, 21, of Twin Falls, early Friday on a charge of possession of a controlled substance, cocaine.

Police made the arrest following a search of the man's residence at the Elk King Motel on Kimberly Road. According to court records, Jonas had consented to the search.

Jonas was arraigned in magistrate court in Twin Falls. Bond was set at $500.

Qualls said his department had arrested nine persons on felony charges during the week, most involving burglaries.

"The officers have been putting in anywhere from four to six hours overtime daily on it," he said.

Police are working overtime to meet a growing workload, he said.

"We're having more burglaries committed and we're having more subjects arrested."

Gray says pending charges will not affect performance

TOM GRAY
sworn in Monday

TWIN FALLS — Incoming Twin Falls County Prosecuting Attorney Tom Gray says he doesn't expect a criminal charge pending against him to have much effect on the way he will carry out his duties.

Gray, who was sworn in Monday as the county's chief law enforcement officer, was charged Tuesday with possession of a controlled substance, marijuana.

Gray has entered a not guilty plea to the misdemeanor charge in 5th District Magistrate Court. He declined to comment on the case on the advice of his attorney.

In an interview with the Times-News Friday, Gray said:

- He believes he will be acquitted.
- He does not plan on excluding himself from appearing as a prosecutor before a jury until the case is resolved.
- Any decision to delegate cases to his deputies in order to avoid the appearance of impropriety in light of his own problems with the law will be made on an individual basis.
- He believes relations between his office and local law enforcement have not been impaired by the case.
- He has made no firm decision concerning his future with the office if he should be convicted.

Gray's arrest on the marijuana charge stemmed from an earlier speeding citation. Twin Falls police said they stopped the attorney last week during a routine radar check, saying his car was allegedly traveling 52 mph in a 35 mph zone.

While making the arrest for speeding, police said they noticed a small pack of cigarettes fall from Gray's pocket. Charges were filed after the item was tested.

Gray said he intends to pay the traffic ticket.

Although the charge against him has received wide publicity, Gray said he has not been under pressure to resign his office. He said he will proceed under the presumption of his innocence in the case.

"The people of the community have been very supportive. They know the job I've done as deputy prosecutor and I intend to proceed with the trust they've entrusted in me," he said. "We've asserted my innocence. I'm not guilty and I will proceed to do the job as I was elected to do."

While a defendant is presumed innocent until proven guilty, local officials have questioned whether Gray's legal situation could hinder prosecution efforts in jury trials.

Officials, including outgoing Prosecutor Jeff Stoker, have questioned whether Gray should represent the state in jury trials since jurors could be biased against him personally.

But Gray said he does not plan to rule out appearing before juries until his own case is resolved.

"I'm going to do the job that I've been elected to do and that includes appearing before juries," he said. Gray added he does not plan, as a general policy, to exclude himself from specific categories of cases, such as drug-related offenses, as a result of his own legal problems.

"Any specific adjustments that need to be made will be made on a case-by-case basis," he said.

Another potential problem facing Gray is his working relationship with his accusers. Despite the fact that the police department will be involved in an effort to convict him, Gray said he believes he can continue to work effectively with law enforcement officials.

"We've had a good working relationship, as far as I'm concerned, in the past. I anticipate no problems," he said. "I'm a man of integrity and I feel I can handle the situation. I would assume that they can. They're professionals as well."

However, Gray noted he has not conferred with either Twin Falls Police Chief Tim Qualls or Twin Falls County Sheriff James Munn concerning how to accomplish this.

Should Gray be convicted on the charge, he still could remain in office unless removed through a recall election.

Since the charge is a misdemeanor, he can not be removed from office by the County Commission. Idaho State Bar officials also say a misdemeanor conviction normally would not justify suspending an attorney.

Gray said he has not decided what he would do if convicted, emphasizing his faith in eventual vindication through the courts.

"Well, we'll have to take a look at it at that time. But I'm confident that the system will make a proper determination," he said.

Swanberg considers special prosecutor

TWIN FALLS — The Idaho Attorney General's Office will not prosecute incoming Twin Falls Prosecuting Attorney Tom Gray on the charge of marijuana possession.

Twin Falls City Attorney Susan Swanberg, whose office is responsible for prosecuting the case, has been exploring the possibility of transferring the case to the attorney general.

State officials informed Swanberg Friday they will not be involved in the case.

Swanberg, like many members of the local legal community, is acquainted with Gray. As such, she faces the appearance of a conflict of interest if she handles the case.

But the attorney general's office also faces a conflict of interest which prevents it from prosecuting the case.

Under Idaho law, the attorney general is bound to supervise and assist county prosecuting attorneys throughout the state.

"It's very difficult to turn around and prosecute a person that you have the statutory duty to supervise and assist," said Mike Kennedy, chief of the criminal justice division of the attorney general's office.

Moreover, the Gray case does not qualify for assistance from the office, Kennedy said. The office assists prosecutions under the following circumstances:

- Cases in which there is the potential for a significant legal precedent involving the entire state.
- Cases of corruption of public officials involving moral turpitude.
- Cases involving serious crimes in which local prosecutors require the additional resources of the attorney general.

Swanberg said Friday she is continuing to study the options.

Truck hits bus; girl, 8, injured

TWIN FALLS — A Filer girl was in fair condition Friday evening with injuries received when a school bus and freight truck collided.

Megan Benedix, 8, was about to board a bus two miles east of Filer Friday morning when a semitrailer collided with the rear of the bus, causing the bus to roll over her foot, Idaho State Police said.

She was admitted to Magic Valley Memorial Hospital, where she underwent foot surgery.

The accident occurred in thick fog at the junction of highways 93 and 30, according to Trooper Steve Cazier.

Truck driver Gary L. Bliss of Gooding was cited for allegedly failing to drive reasonably and prudently for conditions, Cazier said. He said Bliss' vision apparently was obscured by the fog, and he failed to heed a stop sign.

His truck was moving at an estimated 20 miles per hour upon colliding with the Immanuel Lutheran School bus driven by Cash B. Morse of Hansen, the trooper said. The bus, carrying 16 children, was at a standstill for boarding by Megan Benedix, her brother and sister.

Megan Benedix, 12, was just inside the front door of the bus at the time of impact, and suffered minor eye and knee injuries, Cazier said. Derek Benedix, 10, was waiting to board.

Parents of the children are the Rev. and Mrs. Gary Benedix of Filer.

Lawyer vacancy

TWIN FALLS — The selection of Mike Powers of Twin Falls as incoming deputy Public Defender has created yet another vacancy in the local legal community.

Powers, who replaces incoming Twin Falls City Attorney Susan Swanberg, previously held a contract with the county to represent clients when a conflict of interest prevented the public defender's office from doing so.

Such cases arise when two suspects are charged in connection with the same crime. County Commissioner Neil Leonard said.

Leonard said the county budget contains $9,000 for the job.

"We've had a couple of attorneys who have shown interest but want to solicit all interested applicants," Leonard said, adding, "We need one expeditiously."

Leonard said the county is interested in attorneys with criminal trial experience. Attorneys interested in the post should contact the commissioners by Wednesday.

A selection will be announced Friday, he said.

QUESTION...

When my husband died in 1965, my application for a veteran's widow pension was denied because we had been married less than five years. I am unable to work now because of a disability. May I reapply?

ANSWER...

Your disability in itself would not be a consideration. However, a 1967 law liberalized the five-year marriage requirement that was in effect at the time of your husband's death.

Today a widow must have been married to a veteran only one year before his death to qualify for a pension if all other qualifications are met. Your disability may possibly entitle you to a Widow's Social Security annuity. It would be wise to check this.

Official's revenue estimate less than Evans' prediction

BOISE (UPI) — Three officials projected to a legislative committee Friday that state general-fund revenue in fiscal year 1982 will total much less than the amount estimated by Gov. John Evans, $438.2 million.

Legislative Auditor Bruce Balderston gave the most conservative estimate, telling the Joint Revenue Projection Committee he believed the general fund would receive $402.8 million in the next budget year, which begins July 1.

Evans made his estimate Monday night in his annual budget speech. His $438.2 million budget would use revenue to be generated under the present tax structure plus extra revenue he wants the Legislature to generate through adjustment of several tax rules.

But most of the revenue estimates for the present tax structure differed sharply with the governor's.

State Tax Commission Chairman Janice Palmer, who insisted again that his calculations were "ultraconservative," said taxes collected by the commission would add up to about $378.3 million. Including projected general-fund revenue from other sources, Palmer's total projection was $416 million.

Russell Westenberg, executive director of the Associated Taxpayers of Idaho, suggested revenue probably would hit $420 million in fiscal year 1982. That amount is the revenue estimate most commonly cited by Republican legislators.

"In no way do I mean to project an overly pessimistic outlook," Westenberg said. "Without some improvement, these numbers are optimistic."

Palmer, in defending his assessment, compared the commission's estimated individual income-tax collection for the current fiscal year of $189 million with Evans' projection for fiscal year 1982, $225.5 million.

That's a 31 million-dollar increase in one year, Palmer said. "That's a 20 percent increase. In our lucrative days in the '70s, at no time did we increase by 17 or 18 percent."

"Well, that (Evans' projection) is greater. I hope it happens," Palmer projected individual income tax collections would total $214 million.

Balderston said calendar year 1981 will be an "instant replay" of 1980's violent economic fluctuations and that this will result in continued stagnant economic and revenue growth in Idaho.

Under the Reagan administration, he projected "an increase of economic activity over current levels, but I doubt it could be called prosperity."

State economist Richard Saugher, who helped make Evans' estimate, repeated the governor's outlook, pointing to substantial recovery late this year and in 1982.

The House-Senate committee, which met all week in preparation for the regular legislative session, took into consideration various projections of the economy's health and next Wednesday will make its own projection of general-fund revenue.

Earlier Friday, the committee heard from business and government leaders, most of whom gave cautious estimates of slow, if any, growth in the coming 18 months.

Homebuilders predict more gloom

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho Homebuilders Association's president said today the housing industry must limp through another poor year, partly because of "excessive" land-use controls.

James B. Crowe, Coeur d'Alene, told the Legislature's Joint Revenue Projection Committee the industry wouldn't regain any momentum until at least the second half of 1981.

Crowe said the chief factors in the industry's three-year slide were inflation and high interest rates. But, under questioning by Sen. James Alder, Boise, he said land-use planning decisions were a thorn in the side of homebuilders.

"Are you planning to do anything about land-use planning controls?" asked Alder, contending that such controls in some cases have driven home costs up 25 percent.

"We are not opposed to land-use planning," Crowe responded. "But we are opposed to groups and agencies who have adopted a no-growth syndrome."

Crowe said "certain agencies" in northern Idaho have saddled homebuilders and prospective homeowners with regulations and policies that have created housing shortages and made people travel farther than necessary to their jobs.

He said land-use dictates in some Panhandle communities have shackled development of subdivisions close to major work sites. He said too much housing has been restricted to city areas because existing sewer systems are available.

Crowe told the committee housing-industry employment has fallen 61 percent since its peak in 1977.

He predicted the industry would begin to recover this year, "but it will be so slow the effect will be small." He also projected the Reagan administration would improve conditions for the housing market, but this action would be slow coming and the industry would improve very slowly.

"This year will be tough," he said. "Many builders have been driven out of business and those left will have to limp through the year with hopes for improvement in 1982."

Crowe also rapped government loan requirements and home-insulation regulations for restricting a consumer's ability to buy a home.

Wes Con begins defense in trial

BOISE (UPI) — Attorneys for Wes Con, Inc., opened their defense at the firm Friday in U.S. District Court.

The "Owyhee" County toxic-waste disposal firm, which has been charged with violating federal toxic waste disposal standards, opened its defense by calling five witnesses to the stand, including the son of the company's owner.

Eugene Rinebold, Sr., owner of Wes Con, Inc., has been charged with eight counts of violating the federal Toxic Substance Control Act, U.S. attorneys representing the Environmental Protection Agency charged that Wes Con buried transformers containing high levels of PCBs after EPA regulations which ban such burial went into effect in 1978.

U.S. District Judge Ray McNichols dismissed a conspiracy charge against Rinebold Thursday after government lawyers concluded their eight-day case against the firm.

Defense attorney Wilbur Nelson Friday called to the stand a high-ranking specialist with the EPA Harold Snyder, former chief of the EPA's Hazardous Waste Recycling Program, testified that under the agency's rules transformers containing high PCB levels must be disposed of the substance before they are disposed.

Snyder said that the EPA probably made the rule to ensure a proper degree of environmental safeguard. Snyder also testified that there are no provisions under EPA regulations requiring that transformers containing PCBs must be drained prior to shipping.

Rinebold's son, Eugene, Jr., testified that when waste shipments containing transformers arrived at the site, they were not checked to see if they contained PCBs.

"We don't open containers with PCBs," the younger Rinebold said. "We don't have a chemist on the site and we can't tell what's in it just by looking at it."

The younger Rinebold testified that about 23 percent of the waste that Wes Con handled in 1978 were PCB-related and about 27 percent of the 1979 wastes were PCB contaminated. The case is scheduled to continue Monday.

Granville slide' Friday. The market posted a modest gain, concluding one of the wildest weeks in Wall Street's 188-year history in fairly active trading.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which fluctuated throughout the day, rose 2.99 points to 96.69 but finished the hectic week with a setback of 4.09 points.

The Dow had soared 31.91 points the first two days of the week to 1,004 and then lost 38.99 the next two sessions, including 15.19 Thursday, after Holly Hills, Pa., forecaster "Joseph Granville" advised clients to "sell everything."

Brokers said the late rebound indicated that some traders replaced borrowed shares they had sold earlier at a profit.

Prices improved during the afternoon on the strength of rumors that U.S. banks had shipped $10 billion to Algeria to assure the release of the American hostages from Iran. Chase Manhattan and Chemical banks denied the rumors. "The White House called the rumors 'nonsense,'" said one analyst.

The New York Stock Exchange index gained 0.24 to 76.44 and the price of an average share increased 11 cents. Advances topped declines, 907-633, among the 1,897 issues traded at 4 p.m. CST.

Board volume swelled to 50,190,000 shares from 55,350,000 traded Thursday. The week's turnover of about 324 million shares was the busiest ever.

Citibank and most of the nation's other banks lowered their prime lending rate to 20 percent from 20 1/2 percent despite an increase in the federal funds rates they charge one another for overnight loans.

Some traders also were encouraged that December producer prices rose 0.6 percent, matching November's increase. That amounts to a 7.2 percent annual rate, down from the double-digit figures reported most of the year.

Nevertheless, Wall Street was in a state of shock at the end of the Granville week.

Granville recommended selling after the Dow average pierced the 1,000 level Tuesday and other averages failed to follow in performance. Several other analysts noted the same trend and felt the market was about to retreat.

Composite volume of NYSE issues listed on all U.S. exchanges and over the counter at 4 p.m. totaled 57,119,300 shares, down from the 61,603,200 traded Thursday.

The American Stock Exchange index rose 3.55 to 339.93 and the price of a share increased 20 cents. The National Association of Securities Dealers' NASDAQ index of OTC issues gained 1.70 to 197.66.

At 4 p.m., Citicorp was the most active NYSE-listed issue, up 1/4 to 23 1/4. The bank holding company of 478,600 shares at 23 1/4. The general services Administration agreed to settle three lawsuits over Citibank's handling of redemption funds of GSA critical care contracts. Warner Lambert was the second most active issue, up 1/4 to 23 1/4. Hobart Corp., which is fighting a $22.50 share takeover bid by Canadian Pacific Enterprises, was third, up 1/4 to 32 1/4 after a block of 80,700 shares at 31 1/4.

SCA Services was the fourth most active issue, up 1/4 to 15 with a block of 314,300 shares at 14. New York state Thursday suspended SCA's permit to operate a waste treatment plant at Porter, N.Y. SCA said it would fight the ruling.

Advanced Micro Devices lost 1/4 to 27 1/4 after the company reported its third-quarter earnings dropped to 35 cents a share from 40 cents a year ago.

Data Terminal Systems, which fell 2 1/4 points the previous two sessions, lost another 1/4 to 14 1/4. The company earlier this week omitted its semi-annual dividend payout.

Galveston-Houston advanced 1/4 to 33 1/4. The company completed the purchase of Hensley Industries Inc. for $35 million.

On the Amex, declines topped advances 397-202 among the 782 issues traded at 4 p.m. Volume at that time totaled 5,760,000 shares, compared with 7,270,000 on Thursday.

Houston Oil & Minerals was the most active Amex issue, unchanged at 50. Champion Home Builders followed, up 1/4 to 17 1/4. Ranger Oil was third, up 1/4 to 17 1/4.

Eagles rally to bomb Utah St. JV

ST. GEORGE, Utah — Two are better than one in almost anything. College of Southern Idaho's Frank Baines and Mike Ingram proved that Friday night when they combined for 49 points to send the Golden Eagles past Utah State's Jayvees 38-7 and into the finals of the Dixie Invitational tournament.

CSI will meet the host Rebels for the championship at 9 p.m.

It was fortunate for CSI that it did have two scorers available because for a while Utah Bob DeMarco was almost single-handedly tearing them apart.

The Salt Lake product, recruited by CSI last spring, missed his first four shots of the night and then went on a scoring tear that hoisted him to 21 points in the first half. At that point the Eagles were trailing by a point at 46-45.

CSI's defense "held" DeMarco to 14 points in the second half and midway through that period the Eagles burst quickly away.

Ingram, who ended the night with 23 points, helped neutralize DeMarco's scoring spree by getting 17 of those in the first half. Baines, with eight at intermission, came up with 16 in the second half, nearly half of those in the first couple of minutes when CSI was taking control of the scoreboard.

"He had a great shooting night. I was beginning to wonder if he was ever going to cool off," Eagle Coach Dave Campbell said of DeMarco.

"We weren't shooting the ball badly. We hit 56 per cent in the first half and we're still down a point. We were working on defense but everything they put up went in the hole. It was a helpless feeling for a while."

The coach felt that CSI's defensive effectiveness improved sharply in the second half.

"I didn't feel it (the defense) was quite that bad — giving up 46 points in a half — it was just that they were hitting extremely well, even some off-balance shots hitting nothing but net."

"In the second half I felt our de-20-foot jumpers bouncing off the rim in the second half."

After some early squabbling, CSI, which dropped the Utah State Jayvees by 18 earlier, bounced into three five-point leads.

It's biggest margin came at 21-14 on a Ingram jumper but all of a sudden it was all DeMarco.

The 6-6 freshman guard followed a three-point play by teammate Joe Rhoda with two straight field goals to tie it. After an Ingram bucket, DeMarco again tied it and Joe Izatt sent the Utags ahead with a follow shot.

Baines outscored Utah State 8-2 to open the second half before the Utags steadied to hold the deficit to about five. But with the scoring favoring the Eagles 68-66, CSI broke it wide open.

Kimberly skipper may keep flu bug

By MARV CLEMONS
Times-News sports editor

KIMBERLY — Coach Rich Thompson may have the flu for the rest of the basketball season if it results in 20-point wins for his team.

Thompson relaxed (and lost 15 pounds) at home this week while his Kimberly High Bulldogs prepared for a Canyon Conference showdown with league-leader Glenns Ferry.

"After a tight three quarters the Bulldogs broke the Pilots' defense and raced to a 58-38 victory Friday night, pulling into a tie for the conference lead. The decision equals out the season since Glenns Ferry won by 20 on its court in December."

"They simply just outlasted us," Glenns Ferry Coach Gordon Brown said. "They got going, made a few shots and that was it."

Kimberly led just 39-36 with six minutes to play when sophomore center Kevin Holcomb took an unlikely bomb from the corner. It went in for the Bulldogs and within a minute the Bulldogs had charged to a 46-38 lead.

Dan Wright, Kimberly's 6-3 senior, dominated the boards the last five minutes and Kimberly turned a close game into a rout.

"The kids one this one along with Jim Dawson and George Arrossa," a perspiring Thompson said from a Kimberly locker room full of hand slapping and smiles. "I gave them instructions every day this week and they deserve a lot of credit."

Thompson, said, passing the ball against the Pilots' 2-3 zone was the key.

"We came out dribbling too much and when we passed the ball to rotate it more we found the openings."

Both offenses had a need for radar equipment in the first half. The openings were few and far between as both teams hustled well on defense and covered the inside.

Brown didn't agree with the tough defense theory, but Thompson did.

"They both played tough defense that first half but we played it in the second half," Thompson said.

Thompson, who said he probably lost 10 pounds during the game for a 25-pound weight loss, said the win was critical.

"Now we both can go out and do it on our own. If we wouldn't've lost to them it would have been tough," he said.

Glenns Ferry lost both Tim Black and Dan Shrum to fouls. They departed after the game was decided, but were hampered during the critical minutes with four fouls each.

"They were cheap fouls," Brown said. "You can't afford to come over here and lose your center and top forward on cheap fouls. But that's not against Kimberly. They just hustled past us."

Had the Pilots made some early one-and-ones, Brown felt the outcome might have been different.

Bill Stehl had 14 for the Pilots and Shrum added 12, with several top-of-the-key jumpers keeping the Pilots close at critical times.

Crothers netted 15 for Kimberly while Wright and Holcomb notched 12 each.

Bruins Clay Meacham and Lars Hovey put full court pressure on Bonneville's Hollis Morri near end of the first half Friday

Bees use corners; nip Bruins

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News sports writer

TWIN FALLS — Bonneville played its corners off to near perfection and Twin Falls didn't Saturday night.

The result sent the Bees home with a 66-63 decision over the Bruins.

It was a bitter loss for the Bruins who fought off some hot shooting and rebounding disadvantages to put themselves in a position to win. But a poor pass in the corners offense turned it over and dashed hopes for a comeback victory.

Twin Falls, slipping to a 4-5 record, heads for Idaho Falls tonight when the Bruins will be looking at a back line of three 6-5 rebounders.

The Bruins trailed by 10 points in the first half — as Clark Britton had an excellent outside shooting night — and were down by seven in the second half. Through that period the Bees hit all the clutch shots but really hurt the Bruins by rebounding on missed free throws. Bonneville missed seven straight charlies at one stretch of the second half but got the ball back on five of them.

The last time Bonneville held a seven point lead was 54-47 early in the fourth period. Then senior Lars Hovey hit an offensive spark, scoring six points — two off the line and a crip-off a great Scott Beer feed. Gary Krumm turned a turnover into a Bruin bucket and Beer then hit a jumper from the top of the key to give the Bruins a 57-56 edge.

Hovey came back with a free throw but with 4:01 left, but 6-5 Kelly Ovard pulled Bonneville back to a 58-58 draw with a follow shot.

Twin Falls then went into its corner offense, switched to regular and Krumm scored a cripple off the old split-post play. But another rebound shot by Ovard again tied it.

Twin Falls went back to corners and held the ball for nearly a minute before a poor pass sent Kelly Kiesel in for a cripple. After a Bruin miss, Bonneville unrolled its corners and Kiesel got inside for the killing cripple. "I was proud of the way the kids fought back. They showed some character," said Bruin Coach John Astorquia. "Yes, we made some mistakes that really hurt us late. But the kids had been fighting back all night."

"I felt the difference in the game was that Bonneville stayed in that zone and pretty well controlled the tempo all night. When we could get the tempo up, we came back on them. They got ahead 10 in the second quarter and we went to the press to get the tempo up. We got a couple of turnovers and ran the break pretty well."

Astorquia said the Bruins definitely were trying to push the tempo as the second half opened.

They caught up at 35-36 on a Steve Galley free throw but Bonneville then unreeled the next six points. The critical part in that span was that Twin Falls missed four virtual cripples. Krumm and Clay Meacham, who tanked 17 points, pulled Twin Falls back to within one but Scott Widdison hit four points and Britton hit a jumper to make it 50-45 going into the final period.

Bonneville got field goals from Kevin Sargent and Kiesel while Mark Mumm replied with a Bruin goal. At that point Hovey started his brief six-point spree that almost tipped the Bruins to victory.

Eric Webb, whose 40-footer put the game into overtime, hit a 20-footer with five seconds left to tie Bonneville past the Twin Falls sophomores 54-52.

Filer halts Shoshone's conference-lead hopes

FILER — Filer's balanced scoring and rebounding attack prevented Shoshone from tying for the Canyon Conference lead Friday night with a 67-47 win.

The Wildcats outscored the Indians 19-4 in the deciding third period to make both teams 2-2 in conference action. Shoshone, who would have tied the Indians for the top spot with Kimberly and Glenns Ferry.

"We came out and shot about 56 percent in the third period and they came out and shot around 15 percent," Filer skipper Wayne Humphreys said.

Filer held just a 27-22 lead at the half, but the big third period decided the outcome.

"We also handled them on the boards for the game, but also in the second half. We had a 20 to 7 edge in the second half," Humphreys said.

Filer's scoring punch came from Jay Beachy's 16 points, from Jeff Brewster and 11 from Burt Miller. Brewster and Jim Wright each had six rebounds while Reinked added five.

Scott Peterson led all scorers with 24 points for Shoshone, but the 6-0 senior's outburst could not overcome Filer's balance.

Filer, 2-5 this season, visits Wendell in the Canyon tonight while Shoshone, 3-5 overall, hosts Kimberly.

Montana defeats rallying Wolf Pack

Miller leads at Tucson

MISSOULA, Mont. (UPI) — The University of Montana held off a furious rally by Nevada-Reno in the late stages of the second half to post an 81-77 victory Friday night in the Big Sky Conference opener for both teams.

Montana, 8-5 overall, opened an early lead to start the game and built the margin to 19-14 with 12:10 left in the first half. During the last five minutes, Nevada-Reno outscored Montana 16-2 to take a 30-20 lead with 7:21 remaining until intermission.

The Grizzlies — whittled into Nevada-Reno's lead and a tip-in at the buzzer by guard Mark Glass brought the halftime score to 41-40 for the Wolf Pack. Montana came back quickly in the second half and built the margin to 64-55 with 8:59 remaining. Nevada-Reno, 6-7 overall, cut that lead to five points when they went up 75-66 with 3:36 to go.

During the next 1:30, the Wolf Pack scored nine straight points to tie the game 75-75. A 15-foot jumper by Montana guard Blaine Taylor was followed by a tip-in by Reno's Tony Balogun to make it 77-75.

Wyoming 44, UTEP 42
LARAMIE, Wyo. (UPI) — Forward Kenneth Ollie hit two foul shots with seven seconds remaining to give the University of Wyoming Cowboys a 44-42 Western Athletic Conference victory over the University of Texas-El Paso at Laramie Friday.

The Cowboys, 11-2 overall, ran their conference record to 3-0, while UTEP fell to 1-1 in the WAC and 9-4 overall. UTEP tied the score at 42-42 with 33 seconds left on a jumper from the left side by Roshern Amis, who led the Cowboys with 11 points. Wyoming then ran down the clock and Ollie, who had only four points for the night, was fouled. His first shot on a one-and-one situation bounced high over the top of the backboard, then swished through.

"That was really a sight to see," said Wyoming Coach Jim Brandenburg. "The ball bounced high off the rim, and the kind of guy Kenzie is, I think there was divine intervention involved."

Wyoming took the lead at 7-6 and moved to a 24-19 halftime margin. But the Cowboys went cold from the floor in the second half, going the final 14:23 of the game without a field goal and finishing the second half with only four buckets.

Wyoming was hot from the free throw line, though, hitting 12-13 from the line in the second half and 20-25 for the game.

Charles Bradley led Wyoming with 17 points, including 11-14 from the line. Bill Garnett added nine points. UTEP's Terry White and Anthony Burns had seven each to back-up Amie.

Both teams played tough, physical defense and it showed in field goal percentages, with the Miners hitting only 22.2 percent and Wyoming averaging just 42.9 percent. The Miners got 10 field goals in the second half to Wyoming's four, but the Miners could only manage 3-7 at the line.

Going into the game Wyoming was second in the nation in rebounding margin with 15.3, but managed only a 28-26 margin against UTEP. The Cowboys were fourth nationally in opponent field goal percentage with 39.8 percent, tenth in scoring margin with 19.1 points and 14th in defense with 58.7 points.

New Mex. 80, Col. Set 75

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (UPI) — Kenny Page scored 19 points and three other New Mexico players hit for double figures Friday night, lifting the Lobos to an 80-75 Western Athletic Conference victory over Colorado State.

The lead switched hands often in the first half before the Lobos scored six straight points to go ahead for good, 34-29, just before intermission. New Mexico put on a full-court press in the second half that stymied the Ram attack.

CSU, led by guard Eddie Hughes with 24 points, managed to come within 43-37 before the Lobos reeled off eight unanswered points to put the game out of reach. Scott Mann added 12 points for the Rams, who dropped to 2-10 on the season and 0-3 in the WAC.

The Lobos, under first-year coach Gary Colson, improved their record to 5-4 overall and 1-1 in the league.

Lutheran 64, Whitworth 62

TACOMA, Wash. (UPI) — Dan Allen sank a 20-foot jump shot with two seconds to go Friday night to lift Pacific Lutheran to a 64-62 victory over Whitworth in a Northwest Conference opener.

Whitworth, which led through most of the second half, held possession of the ball with 42 seconds remaining.

but turned it over with two ticks left on the clock.

Ron Anderson passed the ball three-quarters of the floor to Allen, who let fly the desperation shot from the corner.

Pacific Lutheran held a 28-26 halftime advantage.

John Greenquist and Dave Lashua paced the Lutes, 2-6, with 18 and 17 points respectively, while Allen added 11.

OSU 76, Stanford 62

CORVALLIS, Ore. (UPI) — Guard Mark Radford and center Steve Johnson scored 26 points apiece Friday night, enabling second-ranked Oregon State to score a 76-62 victory over Stanford.

Oregon State improved its record to 11-4 and is 3-0 in Pac-10 play. Stanford is 4-7 for the season and 0-2 in the Pac 10.

After struggling to a 33-26 halftime lead with 16 points from Radford in the opening period, the Beavers opened up a 55-37 lead with 12:09 left in the game.

Johnson and Radford led all scorers and were the only Beavers in double figures. Johnson also had 13 rebounds. The 6-foot-10 Johnson hit 12-of-14 from the field and 2-of-4 free throws.

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Johnny Miller, who has enjoyed his greatest success playing on desert courses, shot a six-under-par 64 Friday to take the second-round lead in the $300,000 Tucson Open — the first event of the year on the PGA Tour.

The 33-year-old Miller, who has won seven tournaments in the mid-70s playing in the southwest desert country, was as surprised as anyone with his 64 because he has had only one victory in the last four seasons.

The 64 gave Miller a 36-hole score of 10-under-par 130 and a two-stroke lead over first-round leaders Dan Hallidorson and Dan Pohl.

Hallidorson, who shot a course record-tying 63 on Thursday, managed only a 69 in the second round. With two holes left to play, the 29-year-old Canadian tied Miller for the lead but bogeyed the 17th and 18th holes to fall back.

Pohl, one of the longest hitters on the tour, climbed into a challenger's role by shooting a 65.

Next, at 6-under 134, four shots off the lead, were Mike Brannan, Mike Donald, Lon Hinkle and Bill Rogers.

Chip Beck, John Manafyfe and John Cook were at 131.

The defending champion, Jim Colbert, was in a group at 137 along with Bruce Lietzke, who won the Tucson Open in 1979 when the event also was held at Randolph Park.

The tournament, previously was played at Tucson National, which is regarded as somewhat tougher than Randolph, but this year was switched to the midtown municipal course.

"Don't let anyone but this is really 1974 or I'm dreaming," was Miller's first reaction to his fine 36-hole total.

He won the Tucson Open three years in a row from 1974 through 1976, only adding a 61. Over the years, Miller probably has had more low round scores than any other player on the tour.

Miller had seven birdies and one bogey Friday. His lone mistake came on the 18th hole when he two-putted from 14 feet after putting his second shot in a bunker.

Miller's longest birdie putt was a 16-footer on the 15th hole. All the other putts were from inside 12 feet.

Lomax ready to take charge in Shrine game

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Small-school passing whiz Neil Lomax is preparing himself for the big-time as he gets ready to lead the West against the East in the 50th annual Shrine football game.

The sidelines at both the West and East training fields have resembled National Football League conventions with coaches and scouts looking over the 88 college stars on hand for the game, which is played for the benefit of San Francisco's Shriner's Hospital.

Lomax set 40 NCAA passing records at Portland State, including a dozen 400-yard games and 106 touchdowns passes and 13 by running. He gained 4,157 yards through the air in 1980 and passed for seven touchdown passes in the first quarter alone in a 105-0 wipeout of Delaware State.

Lomax has drawn so much attention that some of the big school Americans on hand find themselves in unaccustomed roles as supporting players. They hope to regain their accustomed starring spots today.

Fourteen of the nation's top 20 schools are represented in the game and East big boys include running back Amos Lawrence of North Carolina, only player besides Tony Dorsett to ever gain more than 1,000 yards for four straight seasons, All America center

All-Americans head today's Hula Bowl list

HONOLULU (UPI) — National Football League scouts will get a good look at a tested collegiate passing combination going up against two players considered the finest defensive backs in the country today in the Hula Bowl.

The East squad will have the feature the aerial wizardry of the Purdue combination of quarterback Mark Herrmann and tight end Dave Young, both All-Americans, as well as wide receiver Bart Burrell, who has caught passes from Herrmann since childhood days.

Trying to stop the attack will be All-America safeties Ken Easley of UCLA and Southern California's Ronnie Lott.

There are seven other All-Americans on hand — including Heisman Trophy winner George Rogers of South Carolina and runner-up Hugh Green, a defensive end from Pittsburgh — and 11 more who made the second unit — but the focus will be on what the Purdue connection can do against the Easley-Lott tandem which will be playing together for the first time.

Anchoring the offensive line for the West will be tackle Keith Van Horne, an All-America from USC.

about Oklahoma's two defensive stars — linebacker Ted Hendricks and cornerback Lester Hayes. Hayes led the NFL with 13 interceptions this season, one shy of the league record, and has four more in two playoff games.

"You have to control Hendricks and Hayes some way," said Fouts. "They are big-play people. Whenever you throw the ball in their area, you have to be careful."

"Ted Hendricks is a great football player — he's big (6-foot-7), he's tough and he's hard to block. Coaches there give him the freedom to do what he thinks and he comes up with the big play."

Quarterback Danny White, filling in majestically this season for retired legend Roger Staubach, rattled the Falcons for a personal career-high 322 yards in the first half of the game. White's Cowboys playoff record 322 yards last week, hitting Drew Pearson with a pair of TD passes in the final four minutes.

Tony Dorsett's daring runs figure to — to the Eagles' league-leading defense as Dallas takes the NFL's highest-scoring attack into Philadelphia in search of a record sixth Super Bowl berth.

"It's a great rivalry," Dallas All-Pro tackle Randy White said of the Eagles-Cowboys matchup. "They have a strong (offensive) line and they are experienced. Everybody is going to be giving 110 percent. We are going to have to really be ready to play."

"Hayes is simply a great athlete with great hands, but we feel confident we can move the ball against any team with our offense. I think the key is that we don't make mistakes and execute well."

"Lester is very aggressive," said Jefferson. "He's the toughest cornerback in the league. He's willing to come up and gamble more than others, a sort of Mel Blount type. He's not afraid to take chances. He makes you work for what you get. He makes you concentrate more than any other cornerback."

"Lester is the hottest cornerback in the league right now, and he presents some problems — but they're problems that we'll rectify."

Staubach, now a television commentator, draws parallels between this year's Dallas team and the previous wild card club.

"The Cowboys weren't picked to do much this year," he said. "They surprised a lot of people, just like our 1975 team. The atmosphere here is pretty close to that team's attitude — in fact it's a better team than in '75."

"They have confidence in themselves and they have confidence in Danny White."

BRIDGE

Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

The opening lead

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

If you could always find the best opening lead you would almost never lose at bridge. It just isn't an exact science nor is it even close. As the late Commander Winfield Liggett once said, "I don't care who does the nation's bidding if I can just make the nation's winning leads."

There are certain general rules here that work pretty well. The first is to lead a suit that your partner has bid. The second is not to lead a suit that declarer has bid.

There is an old expression: "When in doubt lead trumps." We have revised it to: "When not in doubt lead trumps."

It is good policy to tend to lead long suits, particularly against notrump. When you lead a long suit you may develop long cards to take tricks later. When you lead a short suit you will probably develop tricks for one of the other hands and you have two opponents and only one partner.

There is a rather fatuous expression, "Don't lead from a king."

Charles Goren has the best word on this. He said that he hoped that the person who's first thought of that one would be doomed to an eternity of playing in Hell, on lead with all four kings in his hand. Actually the lead from a king is very likely to be a winner. It may cost you a trick, but it is also likely to start a successful attack against declarer. You get nowhere sitting on a park bench although you aren't likely to fall down.

Next Saturday we will discuss the lead against notrump when no suits have been bid by anyone.

Stallone questioned in slayings

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI) — Actor Sylvester Stallone will be questioned by police in an effort to track down the killers of a prominent sculptor, his live-in girlfriend and his business partner, investigators said Friday.

Detectives said Stallone, author and star of the Oscar-winning movie "Rocky," was not a suspect in the execution-style slayings of sculptor Giovanni Schoeman, 40; Kimberly Gibson, 22; and a contractor, Cornelius Moll, 41, of nearby Ventura. Police Capt. William Christensen said officers wanted to talk with him about friends and acquaintances of the victims, however.

The actor and artist lived near each other and had become good friends. Schoeman did a series of metal sculptures on boxers called "Rocky II," then traveled with Stallone to promote the movie of that name.

At a news conference Friday, detectives said they had identified several suspects "worth looking into" but added they did not think a break in the case was imminent.

The bodies of Schoeman and Moll were found early Wednesday on a highway in the Santa Ynez Valley by a passing motorist. Police later found Miss Roberts' body in a bed in the Spanish-style home she shared with the artist in an exclusive area of Santa Barbara.

Police said each of the victims had been shot once in the back of the head in a "deliberate and well planned" manner.

Sheriff's Capt. David Hersman refused to say whether detectives had established a motive for the killings, but noted that investigators had received reports that Schoeman, a native of South Africa, might have been dealing in large quantities of diamonds.

Hersman said the diamond connection was still just a rumor, but added, "It is possible that what today is a rumor can become a fact."

They said the investigation had looked into the possibility of a drug connection but that nothing had been uncovered to substantiate that motive.

Hersman said the killings were done in a gangland style, but said nothing had been uncovered to connect the victims with organized crime.

'Freeway' killings described

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The prime "Freeway Killer" suspect strangled most of his young victims with their T-shirts after having brutal sex with them, but stabbed some of them to death with knives and ice-picks, a codefendant in the case has testified. Vernon Butts, 37, a god with six of the murders, also said he was taken by surprise the first time William Bonin killed a boy in his presence, but said he cooperated with several more slayings because Bonin had an "hypnotic" effect on him.

Bonin, 33, has been charged so far with the murder of 14 of the 44 young men and boys whose deaths were linked as the "Freeway Killer" slayings because of similarities in the case.

Butts, however, said Bonin told him that a youth killed eight days before he was arrested was his 21st victim. The new revelations about the gruesome string of sex slayings were contained in transcripts, released Thursday, from Bonin's preliminary hearing last month. Butts made his confessions in a tape recorded interview with two sheriff's investigators last June.

He said his role in the slayings was usually limited to holding the youths down, but admitted he once mutilated a victim with a coat hanger.

Butts said he first met Bonin about two years ago, through a friend, and in the following months they sometimes talked together about killing. He said the talk turned into "a good little nightmare" the night of July 22, 1979, when he and Bonin went to a movie and then picked up a hitchhiker.

"We took him out to the middle of nowhere and had sex with him, and then he (Bonin) killed him," Butts said.

Butts said he was surprised at the killing, but went along because Bonin had an "hypnotic" effect on him. "After the first one, I couldn't do anything about it," he said.

Butts said Bonin usually bound his victims, then beat them and had anal and oral sex with them before the killings. When one of the youths resisted his sexual advances, Butts said, Bonin "beat him up real bad."

"He loved every minute of it, I guess," he added. "He loved to hear them scream, basically."

Butts said he finally "flat out refused" to join Bonin in a pickup one night last May. Several hours later, he said, Bonin came by his home "and told me how much fun he had" in killing the youth.

Bonin was arrested eight days later, while having sex with a boy in the back of his van, by police who had placed him under surveillance.

Police said they started following Bonin after talking to a 17-year-old youth who said Bonin tried to enlist him in the slayings.
