Reagan: Salvador aid crucial

RONALD REAGAN revives domino theory

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan said Friday the United States is helping El Salvador prevent the spread of communism throughout the Western Hemisphere. But he does not foresee sending U.S. troops to the Central American nation. Reagan said there is no parallel between El Salvador and Vietnam because this situation is in our front yard, a neighboring country and a friendly country in our hemisphere. Reagan said he would view a right wing coup in El Salvador "very seriously," but refused to say what he would do, or if he would employ a naval blockade.

"What we are doing is going to the aid of a go'ld, . . . a i hemisphere. . . the America n by fer- rorists, by Reagan said. He said the outside influences "aren't just aiming at El Salvador, but I think are aiming at the whole of Central and possibly South America and I'm sure eventually North America," backed by Cuba, the Soviet Union and the others we have named." El Salvador dominated the president's second news conference — the first held under what he called

"Reagan roulette" because reporter's names were drawn from his jelly bean jar to determine the order of questions. Reagan announced he is making permanent his temporary freeze on the hiring of federal government workers, saying "It is time to put Washington on a diet." He said he would impose new permanent ceilings on government hiring that would reduce non-defense personnel by $5,000 this fiscal year and 63,000 next year to achieve a savings of $1.3 billion over the next two years. Reagan hinted he might use the presidential veto if Congress does not approve his tax and spending cuts program, but said he was "reasonably optimistic" that he "won't have to face confrontation." "The veto is a tool of government of the president, and I've never been hesitant to use it," Reagan said. He cautioned that his economic program is not an "instant cure" for inflation and unemployment, but he said: "If the program is passed, we should begin to see the effects toward the end of the '82 year." Reagan defended his program against critics who say it will hurt the poor, saying: "We're not cutting into the muscle of programs in taking away aid from people that need it."

He said his cuts in social programs would be in administrative and personnel costs and in areas that would expand current programs "to people that don't need it." The president reiterated his opposition to abortion but said he saw no need for a constitutional amendment barring abortion. "What is necessary, he said, is a determination to the best of our ability of when life begins." Once this determination is made, there would be no need for an amendment because the Constitution protects the right to life, he said.

By LARRY SWISHER Times-News writer

BOISE — The modification of the Twin Falls sewage treatment plant would not be stopped by President Ronald Reagan's proposed federal budget cuts. An analysis of those proposals' effect on Idaho by the state Division of Financial Management mistakenly included the project as one of 21 that would be stopped, Al Murrey, chief of the Idaho Bureau of Water Quality, said Friday. The preliminary analysis of Reagan's program of cutbacks in federal spending this fiscal year and in fiscal year 1982 was released Thursday. If Congress implements the cuts, 18 other Idaho waste water treatment projects this year and 21 projects next year would not be funded. Included in this year's proposed cuts are a $206,250 grant for the design phase of a treatment plant for the city of Buhl. Murrey explained the grant for the Twin Falls plant has already been made and the modification would be completed, unless the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency unexpectedly withdrew the grant. Those projects that are stopped would total approximately $20 million next year and $5,132,543 this year. Murrey said he received word from the federal government Thursday to freeze all funds not yet granted. Reagan's proposed cuts for all federal programs, including waste water treatment, would mean an estimated $70 million loss of federal funds to Idaho in fiscal year 1981 compared to normal funding, according to the state analysis. In addition, Murrey said waste water treatment funding after 1982 may be targeted to large cities, giving Idaho even fewer dollars to complete the "deferred projects."

Contractors testing disputed sewage plant operations

TWIN FALLS — A contractor in a lawsuit concerning construction of the Twin Falls sewage treatment plant is testing part of the facility. Tests ordered by Envirotech Corp. of California will be under way for the rest of March, according to Lloyd Walker, a Twin Falls lawyer representing the firm. Envirotech is taking advantage of a federal judge's order preventing city officials from proceeding with plant modifications until contractors have 60 days to observe the plant in its original working condition.

U.S. District Court Judge Roy McNichols of Boise issued the decision in mid-January in response to a request by Neptune Micro-Floc, an Oregon firm which supplied disputed materials for the plant. Walker said Neptune's tests apparently are complete. Walker said Envirotech has set up testing apparatus capable of duplicating "a good portion" of the plant's regular activity under a variety of conditions. Disputes concerning the plant, which went on line in 1976, involve the city's claim that faulty design and materials contributed to the facility's failure to meet EPA effluent standards. Lack of compliance with the standards prompted the city to launch about $6 million worth of modifications. The original plant was built at a cost of $6 million. Contractors have argued the city asked for a municipal plant and got one. The city did not request a plant capable of handling the high volume of potato wastes contributed to the system by Idaho Frozen Foods Inc., critics have said.

Bill seeks equity for canal firm

BOISE — A Senate committee Friday agreed to try to introduce legislation the Idaho Attorney General's office has ruled will probably be found unconstitutional. The action was the latest development in a legal struggle between the Twin Falls Canal Co. and Canyon View Irrigation Co., which wants to use Twin Falls canals to deliver water. The legislation was proposed by the Twin Falls Canal Co. in connection with an upcoming condemnation suit planned against it by Canyon View. The suit would pay Twin Falls for enlarging and using the canals. Sen. Laird Noh, R-Kimberly, who sponsored the bill, said Twin Falls water users feel the compensations the Supreme Court spoke to "are inadequate to the real costs and hazards." Under the proposed legislation, an irrigation company whose system is used by another under the right of condemnation would be paid also for part of its equity. "We see this as an effort by some people to take advantage of the foresight and hard work of the early day settlers," Shiri Chapman, director of the Idaho Waterusers Association, said in support of the bill. Twin Falls' general manager Warren Travis said the company should be paid "rent" as well as reconstruction and maintenance and operations costs, as offered by Canyon View. Tom Schafer of Twin Falls, Canyon View project manager, said his company was willing to "let the courts value what the cost of using the system might be." He said the bill would "put another court between new land development and existing systems" and could threaten future development. "It's unconstitutional. It's not worth the paper it's printed on," Canyon View lawyer John Lorzamiz of Twin Falls said. "If one company previously exercised its right to condemn, and someone later downstream has to wait to develop, this state is in a very sorry situation," Lorzamiz said. "There'd be five million dollars, one for each farmer who did not want to cooperate with his neighbor." "Twin Falls' attorney John Rosholt in a letter argued the bill was constitutional because the Legislature has the authority to establish additional compensation. Deputy Attorney General Brad Andrews countered that the bill goes beyond that authority and that only the courts have the power to determine the level of compensation in such a case. Chapman told legislators, "The only way you'll find out whether it's unconstitutional or not is to pass it and let the courts rule." Although Canyon View President Hugo Myers argued the bill was special interest legislation, Chapman said his group was concerned about the impact of the Idaho Supreme Court's decision on all existing irrigation systems.

U.S. will sell Saudis disputed extras for F-15s

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration announced Friday it will sell Saudi Arabia military equipment to add striking power to its U.S.-built F-15 fighters. The decision set the stage for President Reagan's first major clash with Congress. The Saudis will get equipment extending the range of the planes, due to be delivered next year, and the administration also will consider selling bomb racks to give the interceptors a ground attack role. Seeking to blunt criticism from Jerusalem and members of Congress, the State Department said that at the same time, Israel will be given an extra $600 million in credits over two years to enhance its own air defenses. In addition, delivery of F-15s to Israel will be accelerated and perhaps expanded to include an additional 10 to 15 planes. The State Department said it also will take a more tolerant attitude toward Israel requests to export its Kfir fighter to other countries. The U.S. has the right to restrict sales of the Kfir because some major components are made in the United States. The State Department said it was acting in the context of the growing Soviet military threat to all friendly countries in the Middle East, Israel and Saudi Arabia included. But an Israeli Foreign Ministry spokesman said in Jerusalem the deal another destabilizing arms race in the Middle East. Cranston said the action "dangerously increases the level of armaments in the volatile Middle East." Sen. Biden, however, Senate Republican leader Howard Baker said, "It's a controversial but ultimately it will be approved by the Senate." Eight of the 17 members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and 19 of the 35 members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee have written Reagan and Secretary of State Alexander Haig in the last two weeks to express concern over the sale. The State Department said it will go ahead immediately with the sale to Firemen, who found the latest body, aid in the search at the crime scene.

Atlanta's horror

20th body linked to child killer is discovered

ATLANTA (UPI) — Firemen found the body of Curtis Walker, a 13-year-old black boy, vanished two weeks ago, floating in a river southeast of downtown Atlanta Friday.

He is the 20th black child murdered in Atlanta in 19 months. DeKalb County Public Safety Director Dick Hand said Walker, who disappeared the night of Feb. 19, had been asphyxiated — the same way at least nine other victims have died, and the cause of death of each of the four children killed since Jan. 1.

The firemen, Hand said, had been out making routine inspection and were driving across the River Road bridge when one of them spotted the body.

"The body was not badly decomposed," Hand said. He said DeKalb County Medical Examiner Joe Burton made the identification using medical and dental records.

He would not say if the body was clothed — nearly all the victims thus far have been clothed, although in some cases a few items of clothing had been removed.

In Cobb County, north of Atlanta, police were searching a stretch of the Chattahoochee river after receiving a report from "a citizen" of a body floating by. But police said at 8 p.m. they had turned up nothing.

Walker was apparently last seen when he stopped at a gun shop near his northwest Atlanta home to see if there was any work for him. His mother had ordered him not to leave the house, she said, but he slipped away when she wasn't looking and never returned.

Unable to find him, his frantic mother reported him missing and, because he had no history of running away and fit the general profile of the victims, police immediately launched a massive search. A tracking dog followed his scent to a nearby schoolyard, where it was lost.

Walker was the second of the 20 victims on the special police task force's official list to be found in a river. The body of Patrick Rogers was found in the Chattahoochee in Cobb County.

One name remains on the list of missing — Darron Glass, 10, who vanished Sept. 14, 1980. Police also have one black child who fits the profile — Joseph Bell, 15 — on their missing persons list, but they believe he is a runaway and his case has not been turned over to the task force.

Hand said "I think it's logical to assume" that Walker's slayer was also the killer of Patrick Baltazar, 11, whose body was discovered by a parking lot at an office complex off North Druid Hills Road Feb. 13. Walker's was only the fourth of the 20 bodies to be found in DeKalb County, which abuts Fulton — Atlanta — on the east.

Earlier Friday, officials said they were recruiting a force of about 400 citizen volunteers to patrol black neighborhoods.

About 200 have already been cleared for the community watch program and police approval of another 200 is expected by the first of next week.

City Councilman Arthur Langford, organizer of a series of weekend searches aimed at unearthing evidence in the baffling case, said between 1,200 and 1,500 were expected to turn out Saturday for the 21st such effort.

Berrigan brothers convicted of attack on missile plant

NORRISTOWN, Pa. (UPI) — The Berrigan brothers and six other anti-war activists were convicted Friday night of burglary, criminal mischief and conspiracy for raiding a suburban Philadelphia missile assembly plant last year.

A Montgomery County Court jury, however, acquitted the defendants, who call themselves the "Plovers 8" of other charges that were lodged against each of them — one count of criminal trespass, three counts of disorderly conduct, two counts of simple assault and one count of criminal coercion.

The eight face up to 30 years in prison. No sentencing date was set by Judge Samuel Salus, who called the verdict a "well-considered" one.

Assistant District Attorney Bruce Beckel recommended that the defendants' bail be raised to $100,000. Salus denied the request and all eight remained free.

The defendants included the Rev. Daniel Berrigan, a Jesuit priest from New York, his brother, Philip; Molly

Rush of Pittsburgh, Sister Anne Montgomery of New York; Dean Hammer of New Haven, Conn.; Esquer Maas, the Rev. Carl Kabat and John Schuchardt, all of Baltimore.

The eight were charged with breaking into a General Electric Co. plant in King of Prussia, Pa., Sept. 9, damaging a missile nose cone with a hammer and spilling human blood on machinery and documents.

Following the verdict, the jury was rushed out the back of the courthouse under guard by sheriffs, who threatened to arrest any reporters who attempted to interview them.

Meanwhile, a courtroom packed with about 70 "Plovers 8" supporters began singing hymns. Outside the courthouse, another 30 supporters sang John Lennon's song "Give Peace a Chance," and a spiritual, "Were You There When They Crucified My Lord?"

Daniel Berrigan told the jury, "We thought of your children when we did this," but added, "You did your best. We hold no grudge against you."

Testimony begins in case of Vegas Hilton arsonist

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — A calm demeanor of the accused Las Vegas Hilton hotel arsonist testified Friday that the suspect confessed he ignited drapes in the hotel's eighth floor lobby while smoking marijuana.

Philip B. Cline, 23, sat quietly as 10 prosecution witnesses recounted in detail the preliminary hearing whether several versions of how the Feb. 10 fire started in the 2,700-room resort. Eight people died in the blaze.

Justice of the Peace John McGroarty will decide at the conclusion of the preliminary hearing whether there is sufficient evidence to bind Cline over to state District Court for trial on charges of arson and murder.

He said a well-dressed man came up to him with a (marijuana) joint, that he took three or four hits off the joint and left," convicted robber Thomas Williams, a former cellmate of Cline, told the court. "Cline said he stayed in the lobby and smoked the remainder and that he was flicking a lighter off and on when he noticed the curtains were on fire."

The pre-trial hearing resumes Monday when police homicide detective Chuck Lee, a polygraph expert, will be the first to testify.

Defense attorney Kevin Kelly sought Friday to obtain testimony showing the fire was a coverup for a murder.

FHA, VA loan rates hiked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government Friday raised the maximum allowable interest rates for single family Federal Housing Administration and Veterans Administration home loans.

Effective March 9, the allowable rates will be 14 percent for the level payment single family mortgage, up from 13.5 percent; 14.5 percent for the graduated payment mortgage, up from 14 percent; and 14 percent for permanent multi-family loans, up from 13.5 percent.

The rate increase in VA loans applies only to single family mortgage loans.

term construction will be retained at the present 17 percent level.

Samuel R. Pierce, Jr., secretary of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, said the older rates were unattractive to lenders and that the new rates are an effort to increase the availability of mortgage funds.

Cronkite hangs it up

NEW YORK (UPI) — Walter Cronkite, the anchorman who became uncle to a nation, retired from the CBS Evening News Friday but promised that "old anchorman" don't fade away — they just keep coming back for more.

With his wife Betsy and his three children gathered around, "Uncle Walter" was dry-eyed and displayed no emotion as he announced in his familiar raspy-voiced baritone that "this is my last broadcast as the anchorman of the CBS Evening News."

"It was almost 49 years after he had begun that job, in which his dedication and personality made him one of the outstanding journalists of his time."

The "old anchorman" quotation was a playful allusion to Gen. Douglas MacArthur's "old soldiers" speech to Congress in 1951 after the general had been dismissed from his command in the Far East.

Cronkite was in a light-hearted mood before he made his final remarks and signed off with his standard "and that's the way it is," Friday, March 6, 1981. And he added something: "I'll be away on assignment, and Dan Rather will be sitting in here for the next few years. Goodnight."

The audience of about 50 in the closed studio, including CBS News President Bill Leonard broke into applause when the show went off the air. Uncle Walter went around and shook hands with his four writers.

During a break not long before the program's end, Cronkite looked at the script he had written for his closing — which had been kept secret until the end — and began kidding. "I'm not gonna read this!"

Then he turned and shouted into the "fishbowl," the glass-enclosed area where his producers sit: "I've changed my mind! Tell Rather I've changed my mind!"

Rather, his successor, didn't change expression. No body in the "fishbowl" can hear outside remarks.

The part of the ending referring to "coming-back-for-more" was a reference to the fact that Cronkite will be back for specials and documentaries.

Before the broadcast, Uncle Walter told the assemblage: "Don't get nervous everybody, we'll try to do this just like we rehearsed it."

Cronkite relaxes after his farewell performance as anchorman of the CBS Evening News

Surrenders late Thursday night

FBI knows how skyjacker got on jet

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The FBI said Friday they know how a would-be skyjacker got through the sophisticated security system at an international airport with a handgun he used to commandeer a jetliner about to take off with more than 90 people aboard.

But FBI spokesman Jack Jackson said no details would be revealed on how the man slipped the gun through the weapons detection devices because "the safety of hundreds of thousands of people is involved and we hate to give lessons."

"We can confirm the method has been determined by which he was able to board the aircraft with a weapon but we will make no statement as to how it was carried off. The matter will be taken up with security people at the airport," Jackson said.

Victor Malsauskas, a 44-year-old naturalized citizen who holds a Ph.D. in physics and worked in the aerospace industry was ordered held without bail by U.S. District Judge Robert Kroneberg on his arraignment on a charge of attempted air piracy. The Lithuanian immigrant could receive a maximum sentence of 20 years in prison if convicted.

Malsauskas' attorney said his client doesn't remember the skyjacking attempt.

"The last thing he remembers is heading toward the airport," said attorney Dave Shinn. "He says he doesn't remember getting on the plane with a gun."

Another attorney said Malsauskas, who was fired from a scientific job at Jet Propulsion Laboratory in January, had a lot of problems.

"He is out of work and very depressed," said Roger Jennings. "He is divorced and supporting two children in college. He had an offer of a good job from Lockheed, but it was eliminated due to budget cuts."

Malsauskas surrendered late Thursday night after holding various numbers of passengers and crewmembers hostage during a tense 11 hours in which he allegedly threatened to blow up the plane unless he was paid $3 million in ransom.

The takeover started just as Continental's Flight 72 to Phoenix was about to take off with 89 passengers. A stewardess spotted a gun in the hand of a man entering the front door and quickly got off and called police.

Apparently before the skyjacker knew he had been spotted, other stewardesses closed off the coach section and she and a policeman went through the cabin whispering to the passengers to quietly get off through the rear exit.

In the cockpit, the flight crew locked their door and scrambled to safety out the windows and down emergency ropes. Within minutes FBI agents were aboard and talking to the skyjacker, who by now had pulled a bandanna over his face, waved, the 9mm automatic and threatened to blow up the plane with a remote controlled bomb.

TSS study reports white, middle-class women are victims

BOSTON (UPI) — Doctors investigating toxic shock syndrome say 99 percent of the victims studied were white and most of them came from middle-class families.

Dr. Arthur Reingold, head of the team from Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga., which is investigating the baffling illness, also said Thursday the risk of contracting TSS is very small.

Reingold presented an update on the team's work at Massachusetts General Hospital.

He said 97 percent of the 1,020 cases of TSS reported to date by the center afflicted white women in families whose incomes was in the $15,000 to $25,000 range. Only 7 percent of the victims were nonwhite.

The average age of those contracting the disease was 23. Cases occurred in women 6 to 61 years old, but predominantly in the 15-to-19 year-old group, Reingold said.

One theory now held by the center is that TSS infections, like typhoid, may be spread by a socio-economic phenomenon.

Ironically, improved sanitary living conditions may prevent young women from exposure early in life to staphylococcus infections. As a result, the women may not develop an immunity to the bacteria that causes TSS.

Reingold downplayed the fears of the disease.

"The risk of developing TSS is very small — only 5 to 15 cases per 100,000 women per year. Driving to the store to buy tampons is more dangerous," he said.

Reingold said there is no evidence to support the idea that frequent changes of tampons lowers the risk of TSS.

"If women are anxious about tampon use, we suggest they use them during the day and use sanitary napkins at night," he said.

The set of symptoms of TSS, required by the center for inclusion as a confirmed case are fever, a sudden severe drop in blood pressure, a sunburn like rash followed by peeling of the hands and feet and the involvement of at least three other body systems — digestive, marked by vomiting or diarrhea — aching muscles and joints, kidney complications or inflammation of the lining of the eyes, nose, mouth or vagina.

far as the Judy case is concerned, he said.

Humphrey said he would continue to fight Williams' case before the Indiana Supreme Court, and "anticipating a negative decision, we're taking that to the U.S. Supreme Court."

The legal actions meant the execution would go through as scheduled unless Judy changes his mind about wanting to die or Gov. Robert Orr changes his views supporting the death penalty and commutes the sentence.

More than 20 Indiana religious leaders gathered Friday to commiserate Judy's death sentence to life in prison. Two days earlier some of those leaders joined the American Civil Liberties Union in a plea for clemency which Orr rejected because Judy wanted no part in it.

The Supreme Court gave no indication of its reasoning in the Williams request. In 1977 it approved the execution of a "flash of Gary Gilmore, who killed Judy and the woman she killed. The court said then three parties — even relatives — had no legal standing to fight execution.

Supreme Court turns down stay of execution attempt

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind. (UPI) — The U.S. Supreme Court and the Indiana Parole Board Friday refused to halt the execution of Steven T. Judy, removing the last legal barriers to his death in Indiana's electric chair.

Judy, the killer of a young mother and her three children, was said repeatedly by his attorneys to a life in prison. His electrocution is set for shortly after midnight Monday morning.

Judy called a news conference at the Indiana State Prison Friday night to deliver his parting words to reporters.

The high court justices denied a stay, without comment, a request by Larry Williams, another death row inmate that they delay Judy's death until Williams' lawyer has a chance to argue the constitutionality of Indiana's death penalty law.

The Indiana Supreme Court, in an unrelated case, Friday upheld the capital punishment law.

Williams realized it was a long shot. He said he would accept the death penalty if the Supreme Court ruled against him. "Of course it's a dead end" as

Solidarity warns new strikes ahead

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — Solidarity union leaders in Lodz met Saturday to set a date for a strike, despite Premier Wojciech Jaruzelski's appeal for 90 days of labor peace to revive the economy and hold off Soviet intervention.

In London, bankers said Poland has asked for $11.9 billion in aid to avert financial collapse.

Foreign policy analysts in Washington at the same time were closely watching Warsaw Pact preparations for annual spring maneuvers that could lead to a sudden invasion of Poland to crush labor unrest.

In Warsaw, Parliament formed a 15-man commission to supervise implementation of agreements reached last year allowing formation of independent trade unions. Unionists have complained that a number of items, including wage increases, reduced censorship and access to mass media, had not been fulfilled.

Neither the government nor Poland's independent labor union Solidarity would comment on unconfirmed reports that Solidarity leader Lech Walesa and Jaruzelski plan to meet in Warsaw to discuss the potential strike in Lodz province.

The Lodz branch of the union said it would announce today the date of a warning strike, followed by a general strike in the province sometime next week. If five hospital employees fired for protesting the alleged hoarding of them by the hospital director are not reinstated.

A strike threatened Poland's attempts to obtain foreign aid. British bankers said the Polish government has asked Western banks for $10.9 billion in aid this year to prevent the almost total collapse of its economy.

Polish officials made the request Thursday at a meeting with representatives of some 70 Western banks.

Poland also is asking for $1 billion in short-term aid to meet current expenses.

Soviet worries over Poland increase

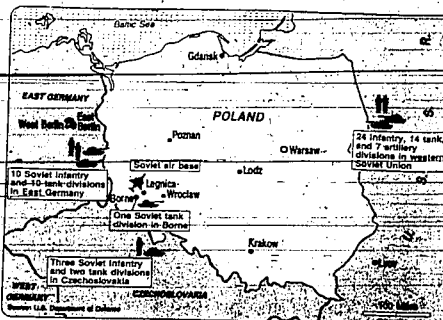

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Kremlin summit on Poland showed Soviet leaders to be more concerned than ever about events west of their border, and indicated the two sides are in less than complete agreement about what to do next.

The Soviet leaders pledged their complete help to Poland, condemned signs of "anarchy and disarray" and said they were confident the Communist regime in Warsaw has the strength and the opportunity to "eliminate the dangers" threatening its form of socialism.

Interpretations of Wednesday's post-Communist Party congress meeting at the Kremlin varied, even among experienced observers of the Polish crisis. But Western analysts agreed it could be read as another warning to disidents and labor activists in Poland to rein in their more extreme demands.

"What they're saying is that the political situation in Poland is still heated down, even during the current truce on strikes," one diplomat said.

Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev was accompanied by a large retinue of Politburo colleagues for his conference with the Poles — Defense Minister Dmitry Ustinov, KGB secret police chief Map shows position of Soviet forces on Polish border.

Russian and Polish officials found "a common approach" to their problems.

In the argot of Kremlin communiques, any meeting between Brezhnev and the leaders of a Warsaw Pact state normally occurs in a warm and congenial atmosphere, and both sides find themselves in complete unanimity on all points under discussion.

Tass' verdict on Wednesday's summit was "a notably chilly formulation," according to one analyst. "It was about the minimum you could expect," another diplomat commented.

"The Poles were probably trying to be accommodating, because their backs are against the wall," he added. "But there seem to be some differences between them and the Russians on what tactics to use to settle their problems."

The diplomatic experts said it seemed unlikely the Kremlin leaders had yet made any decision about a possible direct Soviet intervention in Poland, but they said the official summary of the meeting indicated all aspects of the Polish situation have been thoroughly discussed.

Yuri Andropov and party ideologist Mikhail Suslov, among others.

"With all those present, it was not a courtesy call," another analyst noted.

Diplomats said the official communique about the meeting with Polish party chief Stanislaw Kania and Prime Minister Wo-Jciech Jaruzelski, reflected both Soviet worry about Poland and the two sides less-than-perfect accord on what tactics to use.

The Tass news agency said the meeting was held in a "heartfelt" atmosphere, although most observers translated the Russian text of that portion of the announcement as "cordial." It also said the

Iranian infighting goes public

ANKARA, Turkey (UPI) — Iranian Prime Minister Mohammad Ali Rajai called President Abolhasan Bani-Sadr a liar Friday in a blunt accusation that thrust Iran's power struggle into the open.

In a statement broadcast by Tehran Radio and monitored in Ankara, Rajai's office bitterly denied a charge by the president that Rajai's followers attacked a rally of Bani-Sadr moderates at Tehran University Thursday.

At least 45 people were injured, two seriously, when street thugs attacked the rally being addressed by Bani-Sadr.

Bani-Sadr said the attackers were members of a "special force of the prime minister's office," implying Rajai had resorted to violence and tactics of intimidation in his power struggle with the moderate political faction led by the president.

Rajai, who is backed by the fundamentalist clerics controlling parliament, said Bani-Sadr would be held "responsible for the consequences" of his allegations.

Referring to Bani-Sadr's mention of a "special force" run by the prime minister's office, Rajai said, "no organization of such name exists."

"To falsely attribute something to the prime minister without prior investigation is deemed a sin."

Iran rejects latest plan to end war

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Iran rejected an Islamic plan to end the Persian Gulf war with Iraq Friday.

The plan, drafted by an Islamic conference panel delegation, proposed a cease-fire effective March 14, followed by the withdrawal of Iraqi troops from Iran's old rich border province of Khuzestan.

Iran's Defense Council unanimously rejected the plan on grounds there could be no truce until the Iraqis had withdrawn.

There was no immediate reaction from Iraq, which called the proposal Iran's "final opportunity" for settling the 166-day-old war without preconditions.

Dayan

War hero may form new party

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Former Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan said Friday he will decide next month whether to head a new political party for the June 3 national elections.

The mere suggestion of a new party headed by the hero of the 1967 war aroused apprehension in the opposition Labor Party, which Dayan abandoned to join Prime Minister Menachem Begin's government in 1977.

With Dayan running very strong in public opinion polls, Labor Party leaders fear he could act as a spoiler and perhaps again join Begin to form a new government.

Without Dayan's new party, Labor is regarded as the likely winner of the upcoming Knesset elections.

Speaking at a political forum billed as the nucleus of his yet-to-be party, Dayan said he was more interested in seeing his ideas enacted than in elected office.

He said he would make a final decision only after consulting with support for Palestinian autonomy among influential politicians such as former Finance Minister Yigael Hurvitz.

Dayan has called for negotiations with Palestinian Arabs and a unilateral declaration of autonomy for the West Bank followed by the dismantling of the military government that rules the area now. He opposes creation of a separate nation.

Dayan also accused the Labor Party of advocating an autonomy policy that "is really a basis for a (sovereign) Palestinian state — what they are after is a territorial compromise."

But he said he resigned from the Begin government because it was ignoring the Palestinian Arabs and talking with the Egyptians instead. Although Dayan still has not said he will seek re-election to the Knesset, he told the forum he would decide whether to head a new party in April, after returning from an overseas trip and determining how many votes and campaign allies his ideas would attract.

"Israel does not need Moshe Dayan personally," he said.

Dayan describes talks that led to Sadat trip

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Former Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan says secret talks he had with Egyptian officials, with an invaluable assist from King Hassan of Morocco, led to Anwar Sadat's historic visit to Jerusalem in 1977.

In excerpts from his new book "Breakthrough, a Personal Account of the Egypt-Israel Peace Negotiations" published Friday, Dayan said he met Egyptian Vice President Hassan Al-Tobainmy three times before Sadat stunned the world with his announcement that he was willing to travel to Israel for peace.

The excerpts in the Yedioth Ahronoth newspaper dealt with the second meeting on Sept. 16, 1977, when Dayan, an Israeli war hero, mysteriously disappeared while obstensibly on his way to the United States.

Reporters at the time filed urgent stories saying Dayan had made a secret trip to Paris or Brussels and speculated he may have met with high level Arab leaders for peace.

In fact, disguised with a wig, mustache and sunglasses, Dayan said he had been spirited aboard a twin-engine Moroccan jetliner and flown to Rabat for his second meeting with Al-Tobainmy.

The meeting did not begin well. Dayan said Al-Tobainmy started on "an offensive role" and repeatedly stressed Sadat would not meet Prime Minister Menachem Begin unless the Israelis agreed to total withdrawal from all occupied Arab territory.

He quoted Al-Tobainmy as saying King Hassan told the Israeli withdrawal "is the key to peace. It is a question of sovereignty, national dignity and Sadat's own survival."

Just as the talks appeared headed for a breakdown, Dayan said, King Hassan intervened.

"The king and his colleagues in general and me, spoke straight to Al-Tobainmy about not being so hardline and told him it is impossible to speak with Israel by laying down preconditions," Dayan wrote.

"They said Israel's guarantees for its security are the territories it holds and how can it give them up without appropriate guarantees?"

"Thanks to King Hassan's mediation, Sadat changed his mind."

Dayan said he gave Hassan a Cananite bronze sword and an ancient dating back to 2000 B.C. The king acknowledged the gift and said: "These weapons are relics of past wars. It is time to make peace."

Sadat flew to Israel on Nov. 19, 1977, breaking the 30-year deadlock in which Arab leaders had refused to meet Israeli officials face to face.

Violence claims 3,500 in El Salvador

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — El Salvador's political violence claimed more than 3,500 lives in the first two months of 1981, a Catholic Church organization said Thursday.

The Legal Aid Office, a human rights group run by the church, said figures compiled from reports by parish priests and nuns throughout the country showed political violence took 2,644 lives in January and 903 in February, a total of 3,547.

The grim figures represented a sharp increase over the monthly average last year, with the high January death toll attributed to stepped up fighting during a leftist guerrilla offensive to jopple the U.S.-backed junta.

According to the church's figures, 14,000 people were killed last year by government troops, leftist guerrillas and rightist "death squads" affiliated with the armed forces.

The vast majority of those slayings — about 11,000 — were attributed to the right-wing death squads, made up of army officers and alleged to be financed in part by wealthy Salvadoran families living in Miami.

Although the Legal Aid's death count is considered to be the least affected by political bias, both the junta and the leftist guerrillas have disputed the figures.

The junta claims the church figures include many people killed by common criminals and are too high. The leftists claim the figures are too low and do not include people killed by rightists in isolated areas and buried immediately.

As the war dragged on, Labor Minister Julio Alfredo Samayoa, who is also secretary general of the Salvadoran Christian Democratic Party, said the armed forces will soon drop leaflets over guerrilla camps urging the rebels to surrender.

On Wednesday, the junta extended a 2-month-old amnesty offer expiring March 11 until April 12. It said some 1,500 leftists have already surrendered under the amnesty.

Kennedy plans bill halting Salvador arms aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., announced Friday he will introduce legislation halting all military aid to El Salvador and recalling all U.S. military advisers.

Kennedy said the ban would remain in effect until three conditions are met — an investigation into the murders of American missionaries and labor leaders, progress toward a mediated settlement of the civil strife and clear rejection of a military dictatorship.

Kennedy said his approach offers the best hope for a mediated settlement, which "will make it unnecessary for any military aid."

He also called for a "thorough investigation" of Salvadoran nationalist groups in this country who are providing the means for terrorists acts in El Salvador.

Although Kennedy declined to draw parallels between Vietnam and El Salvador, he said, "The administration is placing American military personnel in the very center of a civil war."

"But no one in the administration has yet answered the inevitable, tragic question," he added. "What do they intend to do in the event that an American adviser is killed?"

22 die overnight in Salvador

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — The bullet-riddled bodies of 22 people, some showing signs of torture, were found at dawn Friday in El Salvador officials said.

for the bombing, but it was not clear if leftists or rightist death squads were responsible for the majority of the murders overnight.

Police said a bomb destroyed the entrance to a bank in downtown San Salvador Thursday night but caused little damage inside and no injuries. Officials blamed leftist guerrillas

In Washington, Pentagon sources said the 20 new U.S. Army advisers ordered into El Salvador will begin arriving over the weekend bringing the total of U.S. military training personnel in El Salvador to 54.

UN calls for mandatory sanctions against S. Africa

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Angered by South Africa's refusal to relinquish control of Namibia, the U.N. General Assembly Friday unanimously called for mandatory sanctions to try to end Pretoria's defiance.

The assembly, winding up a week-long debate that began with a South African attempt to take its seat in the chamber — from which it has been banished since 1961 — adopted 10 resolutions strongly condemning South Africa's policies in Namibia.

The United States, Britain, Canada, France and West Germany — the so-called Western Five who devised the U.N. independence plan for Namibia and denounced the sanctions as "inappropriate" — abstained in all 10 votes.

South Africa has governed Namibia, the former German colony of South West Africa, under a mandate granted by the League of Nations, since the end of World War I and has defied U.N. calls for the territory's independence.

Algeria introduced the two most bitterly worded resolutions — demanding mandatory sanctions — on behalf of more than 50 mostly Third World countries.

These were adopted by votes of 114 to 0 with 22 abstentions and 125 to 0 with 13 abstentions.

The resolutions urged the council "to convene urgently to impose comprehensive mandatory sanctions" to ensure South Africa's immediate compliance with resolutions of the United Nations relating to Namibia."

One dealing with uranium in mineral-rich Namibia, which is twice the size of California, with a mostly-black population of 1 million people, condemned the collusion of the United States, France, West Germany and Israel with South Africa in the nuclear field, urged other countries, including Britain, Canada, Japan and Switzerland to prohibit their business communities from dealing in Namibian uranium.

That document was approved by 106 votes to 0 with 36 abstentions.

China reshuffles its cabinet

PEKING (UPI) — China's legislature Friday announced a major cabinet reshuffle to implement drastic measures aimed at stopping the country from heading into economic disaster.

Ending a 10-day session against a backdrop of high-level complaints about lack of enthusiasm for the economic reform plan, the legislature made changes in more than a dozen ministries and agencies the most prominent of the appointments was Vice Premier Geng Biao, former defense minister to Premier Xu Xiangqian, who is retiring from politics because of age and illness.

Geng, 72, who visited the United States to May last year and came home with promises of non-technical military supplies, is generally considered closer to dominant Chinese leader Deng Xiaoping than Xu was.

Burley policeman Randy Givens sports the newest piece of equipment to be used by his department — a bicycle.

Bicycle programs to begin in April

Burley police to use pedal power

By LINDA CATES
Times-News correspondent

BURLEY — Burley police officers will be putting the pedal to a different kind of metal this spring — bicycles.

A new plan set forth by Police Chief Leman Messley will have patrolmen pedaling in pairs across the city to conserve fuel and promote physical fitness.

Messley cleared the idea with the City Council at its last meeting and gained approval to help unclaimed bicycles at a city auction and use the funds to purchase four patrol bikes for the department.

Carrying walkie-talkies as equipment, the bike patrolmen will be able to call in the help of a patrol car in the event one is needed.

Plans for the biking police are being drawn up by Lt. Jim Higgins. "It doesn't mean that the officers will get on a bike and push an entire shift on the bike," said Higgins. "Out of a 20-hour week on patrol, an officer may spend only five or 10 hours on a bike."

Higgins said the bikes would be used to improve surveillance of parks and parking lots and to help decrease the number of bike thefts in the city.

Staff opinions on the new plan were varied. "I'm looking forward to it," said one officer. "I want to get in shape."

Another officer, who seemed lukewarm in his approval, called it a "not so bad idea."

A third officer said, "If I'm assigned to do it as part of my job, then I'll do it."

Officers will not wear uniforms while they are on the bikes. As plainclothesmen, they will probably not be noticed, said one patrolman.

Another officer was leery of harassment by the younger generation. "We already get some harassment while in cars," he said. "Kids in a car know you can't catch them on a bike."

Not due for implementation for several weeks, the bicycle plan is not new to Burley. In 1971, officers used bicycles to investigate a rash of robberies. The bikes gave the detectives a silent means of transportation.

Donehue pleads guilty to 4 charges

JEROME — A former Jerome doctor pleaded guilty Friday to four counts of sexual misconduct against young male patients.

William C. Donehue, 31, pleaded during a hearing before 5th District Court Judge Theron Ward to one count of an infamous crime against nature and three counts of lewd and lascivious conduct with minors under age 16.

Eight additional counts of lewd and lascivious conduct were dropped in exchange for the guilty pleas.

Ward ordered a presentence investigation.

The charges involved alleged attempts to stimulate four male patients Donehue was treating. The incidents allegedly took place between Dec. 1, 1979, and May 1, 1980. One patient was 18 years old at the time, prompting the crime against nature charge. The other patients were 14 years old.

Donehue's lawyer Greg Fuller said no promises were made by either side. The former physician could receive a life sentence for each of the four charges.

Fuller said his client will return voluntarily for sentencing on a similar charge in Toledo, Ohio, where Donehue practiced medicine before coming to Idaho.

The Ohio prosecutor has agreed to allow his state's sentence to run concurrently with sentences on the Idaho charges, meaning Donehue will ultimately return to Idaho, Fuller said.

Three lawsuits have also been filed by parents "in connection with the case. None of the three has come to trial.

Fights before shooting denied by ex-officer

By ANND KIRKWOOD
United Press International

BOISE (UPI) — A former Jerome police officer accused of improper actions in the 1978 slaying of a Jerome resident Oran Ray Dilka Friday denied that he fought with Dilka before.

Richard Haynes, who said he now lives in Elko, Nev., told an Idaho U.S. District Court jury in Boise that he neither knew Dilka nor had fought with him before the incident which led to Dilka's death on April 2, 1978.

Previous witnesses in the trial — including Jerome police Sgt. Del Low — have testified that Haynes and Dilka fought at least three times before the April 2 altercation. Low also said Haynes and Dilka were "enemies."

"I deny being in any fight with Ray Dilka other than on the night of April 2, 1978," Haynes said.

Haynes and another former officer, Andrew Hines, who also was present when Dilka was killed, have been sued for $2.6 million by Dilka's widow, Penny. Jurors are considering her claims that Haynes and Hines violated her husband's constitutional rights and were unjustified in their actions.

former officer said. He said he drove by the bar three times before he parked his patrol car about 15 feet from a crowd — which he alternately described as "small" and "large" that had gathered outside.

Haynes said he was fighting to the side of the crowd and he stopped to investigate that altercation. But before he could reach the fighters, Haynes said the crowd stopped him and he said Dilka appeared to be the spokesman in the crowd.

Under cross-examination by Mrs. Dilka's attorney, Walter L. Gerash, Haynes said he could not remember exactly what occurred. Gerash, however, repeatedly referred to the deposition Haynes submitted in connection with the case, pointing out contradictions between Haynes' testimony and the document.

Haynes said individuals in the crowd, including Dilka, yelled obscenities at him. Haynes said he then approached Dilka, putting his left hand on Dilka's right shoulder and holding an 18-inch flashlight in his right hand, saying he would arrest him for disturbing the peace.

"For disturbing your peace," Gerash asked.

"No, he couldn't disturb me," Haynes responded.

"Who's peace, then," Gerash said.

"I don't know," Haynes said.

Twin Falls to propose belt route plan

By MARTY TRILLHAASE
Times-News writer

The decision by the officials to move towards a public information hearing to establish a route designation means a continued commitment to the project. Delays, public opposition and a lack of state highway dollars had some officials questioning whether the program should be shelved.

No hearing date has been set and highway district board members say they must now determine what steps they are required to take before holding the information hearing.

Highway district board President Lloyd Shevemaker of Kimberly said he believed the project was needed, but added opposition to the project from residents living in the corridor areas proposed for the highway, and a lack of funds, threatened to delay it indefinitely.

Shevemaker said a unified effort on the part of local officials to solve right-of-way acquisition problems would help attract federal support for the project.

Shevemaker suggested city officials, who have jurisdiction over much of the area under consideration for the highway by virtue of the city's area of impact, establish zoning to limit improvements until right-of-way could be purchased from land owners.

City officials said they would consider such a move, but added that completion of the project is more than 10 years away makes it difficult to win public support.

City Manager Tom Courtney said the highway district should prepare to answer questions raised by the public concerning the location of the highway.

Lawyer Fred Decker added zoning to limit improvements raises a question of whether that action amounts to a "taking" of property rights. Should the courts rule the action amounts to assuming a landowner's rights, the highway district could be compelled to compensate the landowner, he said.

Decker suggested the board prepare a series of financial alternatives prior to holding the hearing.

Robbery charges Suspects arraigned

TWIN FALLS — Three Jerome men were arraigned in 5th District Magistrate Court Thursday on charges of armed robbery.

Ron Piers 27, Robert Dan DeLuca, 25, and Charles F. Spencer, 26, were arrested following a robbery reported at the Maverik Country Store, 366 Washington St., at about 9:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Piers, DeLuca and Spencer were being held at the Twin Falls County Jail Thursday in lieu of $50,000 bond each.

names of the two witnesses were being withheld due to the possibility of retaliation.

A subsequent check revealed the car was licensed Piers and Jerome Police were notified, police said.

Jerome Patrolman Lloyd Bonawitz stopped the car in Jerome at 10:25 p.m. and at gunpoint ordered three men out of the car. Twin Falls Police said passengers were observed throwing a .22 automatic weapon and an undisclosed amount of cash in a bundle underneath the car.

Police said the suspects had fired a round in the store during the robbery. A spent cartridge found at the scene came from an automatic weapon, police said.

Inquest ordered for accident victim

TWIN FALLS — A coroner's inquest has been called into the death of a 77-year-old Wendell woman critically injured in a Twin Falls traffic accident last year.

The woman, Ieta Ritter, died Feb. 23 at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

Twin Falls County Coroner Clyde Edwards said Thursday the inquest is being called to determine if the Nov. 23, 1980, accident was the cause of death. The inquest is being called at the request of the Twin Falls Police Department, he said.

Ritter was injured in a two-car collision on Shoshone Street near the Singing Bridge. Police said the accident occurred when Raul Marcus Garcia of El Mirage, Ariz., lost control of his car, spinning into a car driven by Sam Sanders of Kerseyville, Utah. Ritter was a passenger in Sanders' car.

Garcia later pleaded guilty to a charge of "driving while under the influence of alcohol."

Edwards said no date has been set for the inquest before a six-member jury.

Annual Gem show opens in Twin Falls

TWIN FALLS — Displays from Boise and Ogden, Utah, as well as all Magic Valley areas, have been assured for the annual Magic Valley Gem Club show this weekend.

The show will be in the National Guard Armory at Frontier Field to-day and Sunday with displays open to the public from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. today and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday.

Club spokesman William Foster said members of the Golden Spike Gem Club in Ogden will be bringing a bus load of members and exhibits for the two-day event.

Included is the special entry by Mel Reeves, who makes silver jewelry using real bear claws, to accept the necklaces and other items.

Foster said four cases will be brought from Boise. There will be a number of local favorites returning, including Dr. Elwood Rees and his stationery and other items.

Admission is $1 for adults. Children 12 years or under are admitted free.

Accident victim suffers broken leg

The accident occurred, Details were unavailable.

Stanley airport operations continue

STANLEY — Stanbarrah Corporation has renewed its liability insurance for the Stanley airport, assuring the strip will remain open through the summer.

John Burger, general manager of Stanbarrah, said the report company decided to renew its $300-a-year insurance premium because the state is assuming liability for the airport and Stanbarrah could not assume that liability if an accident occurs.

Stanbarrah has been involved in negotiations with Stanley, U.S. Forest Service officials regarding possible land trades to return ownership of the strip, which is situated on the southern edge of Stanley.

A meeting Tuesday with Al Ashton, Sawtooth National Recreation Area director, and members of the state Land Board yielded two land parcels that could be involved in any trade.

One is a Forest Service parcel situated on Iron Creek Road, two miles east of Stanley. The other is state-owned land at Thomas Canyon, near the town of Shoshone.

Commission debates reduction of MVMH board size

By STEPHANIE SCHOROW
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Reducing the size of the Magic Valley Memorial Hospital board of trustees has been an option pondered by Twin Falls County Commissioners for some years.

"They wonder if reducing the number of trustees from the present 15 persons to 9 or 11 might make the board less cumbersome and more effective.

Two board members have resigned in the last year and have not yet been replaced, so present membership stands at 13. But no formal decision has been made to decrease the number of board members.

Twin Falls County Commissioner Merit Leonard said while a smaller board has been discussed no action is yet contemplated.

The commissioners determine board membership rules and appoint members for three-year terms: Melba Cook of Twin Falls and R.W. "Woody" Pierce of Filer have recently been reappointed. Dwight Shaw of Twin Falls, whose term has expired and who is spending the winter out-of-state, has not yet notified the commission if he wishes to be reappointed, Leonard said.

Juan Skinner, a trustee for five years, was forced to resign last month after he moved to Jerome, County. County law requires members of the county hospital board to live in Twin Falls County. In July 1980, Robert Harvey, a trustee for three years, resigned to devote more time to his job.

Skinner supports the idea of a smaller board, saying it may allow the board to be more efficient.

"In a community situation, you only move as rapidly as you get people to understand what you're doing," he said.

Skinner said a smaller board might provide more "unanimity of thinking" and would avoid "provincialism" by reducing the tendency to "focus on local issues."

However, hospital board Chairman Clarence Hoffield said reducing the size of the board may burden remaining members, all volunteers, with increased work and responsibilities.

Board members also serve on one or more committees, such as the finance, building and personnel committees. Hoffield feels the committee system has effectively handled the diverse tasks of the board.

"In my experience, the (present) size of the board is workable," Hoffield said.

Leonard said no nominees for Skinner's seat have yet been brought to the commission's attention. However, the commission has been preoccupied with financial arrangements for the hospital's bond sales, he said.

Commission grants land division to family

By MARTY TRILLHAASE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS—A family-owned corporation can divide agricultural land among its shareholders under certain circumstances, Twin Falls county commissioners ruled Thursday.

The commissioners approved a request about the children of N.W. Arrington be allowed to divide parcels of land for homes.

All of nine Arrington children, many of whom plan to return to Twin Falls and retire, are shareholders in N.W. Arrington Farms Inc., The corporation, established upon Arrington's death, controls more than 500 acres of agricultural land in the county.

Under the county's zoning ordinance, agricultural land can not be divided in parcels less than 20 acres. An exemption to the 20-acre limitation provides landowners can make one division to blood relatives and can request further division before the county Planning and Zoning Commission.

Planning and Zoning Commission members last month sought to hold a public hearing on the Arrington request. Members indicated extending an agricultural exemption to a corporation could set a precedent which would leave open a loophole for future development of the agricultural zone.

—Mort Stubb's—a local lawyer representing the Arringtons, said his clients appealed the zoning board's decision to the county commission in order to speed up the process.

He said the Arringtons could have avoided the need for an exemption if they divided the land into 20-acre parcels. But his clients preferred to keep the bulk of the land in common management for agricultural purposes.

Commissioner Merl Leonard said the board's decision recognized the family-owned corporation as an individual for the purposes of granting the exemption. But he said the board's decision was not intended to allow Arrington land had been held in common ownership prior to the formation of the corporation.

Leonard added the commission's decision also reflected the fact that the shareholders were relatively interested in maintaining the agricultural productivity of the land.

As such, any precedent set by the commission's decision is, at most, a qualified one which would not apply to private corporations seeking to bypass the 20-acre limitation, officials said.

Commissioners also set down two conditions to the exemption designed to restrict residential development in the area. Those restrictions would require construction of a frontage road if more than three parcels are located contiguously.

Family members will also be required to record the agricultural exemption on deeds to the parcels. As such, plans to sell the parcels would require the approval of the planning and zoning board, Leonard said.

Stubb's called the commission's action "a very common-sense decision. It really was and it's consistent with the zoning ordinance's purpose of preserving the agricultural character of the land."

Health program cuts feared

TWIN FALLS—The present staff for Child and Adult Development and Mental Health programs in Twin Falls is so minimal that one less person in any program will mean a cutback in services.

Phil Grover, Regional 5 program manager for mental health and child and adult development, told his advisory board last week any sort of program cut would mean employees will resign in staff cuts.

On the other hand, he said, no pay raises in the face of inflation will lower an already poor morale of workers and probably result in some resignations.

He told the mental health advisers the staff is already working at absolute maximum and yet proposed budget cuts would spread them even thinner.

He said loss of the administrative positions as recommended by the Joint Finance and Appropriation Committee would mean:

- Loss of local control to see local priorities are met.
- An end of coordinating services to avoid duplication but still offer full-service coverage.
- No way to resolve problems when department units are in conflict. This is the responsibility of regional directors and could not be resolved from Boise.
- Data processing would end. The data base to answer questions from legislators, federal officials and the public would be dissolved. Reporting requirements and answers to false and unfounded statements about the programs and departments would not be made.
- Paying bills would be delayed several months and could result in utilities shutting off services.
- Supplies now purchased locally would come from Boise.

Each department would have to answer its own telephones, using already overworked clerical staffs.

- Filling vacancies from resignations would slow down two months instead of weeks.
- Federal mental health money ($750,000 in the region) would be endangered.
- Internal problems would increase without regional administration.

Grover said the board the legislative fiscal officer and legislative auditor have stated the Department of Health and Welfare is the most efficient and best managed department in Idaho government.

He said this is because of management, not in spite of it.

He noted the program serves some of the state's most severely handicapped people, and those most in need of assistance. Program cuts would eliminate much of the available help, he said.

Court acts on local decisions

BOISE—The Idaho Supreme Court has reversed one decision and upheld two more rendered by 5th District Court judges.

The court reversed 5th District Court Judge Theron Ward's Feb. 14, 1979, summary judgment order in favor of a Buhi man who charged an insurance company had wrongfully denied him benefits.

The suit, waged by George Juker, against American Livestock-Insurance Co., stemmed from the insurance company's denial of a $7,200 claim made when a quarter horse named Blue was euthanized. Ward ruled Juker provided the insurance company with an adequate notice of claim.

The insurance company argued Juker filed the claim after the policy's expiration date.

The Idaho Supreme Court ruled the policy was clear in its statements that coverage was solely for loss through death occurring during the policy period and as such Juker was not entitled to recover damages.

The court ruled in favor of Ward's Jan. 17, 1979, decision for a Twin Falls man sued for non-payment of debts.

John A. Pierson of Jerome sought to recover funds he had loaned to Master Sheet Metal Co. of Twin Falls before the company's owner, Gail Jones, filed bankruptcy in June 1977. Pierson charged Jones and Master Sheet Metal Inc. were alter ego and sought to hold Jones liable for the corporate liabilities.

Ward ruled the defendant was not liable and ordered Pierson to pay $21,470 to cover the defendant's court costs and attorney's fees.

In another decision, the court upheld former 5th District Court Judge James Cunningham's Jan. 24, 1979, decision to award $9,832 to John and David Chapman of Nampa.

The men sued Haynes Seed Co. Inc. of Twin Falls in March 1977, charging the seed company had violated an agreement to purchase their pea crop.

The seed company appealed the district court decision on the grounds the agreement should have been admitted into court. The Supreme Court ruled the evidence was properly excluded.

Dilka

"Growth said he was disturbing them," Crow said.

"I don't believe they have to," Haynes said.

Haynes said Dilka then struck him in the face with a beer bottle, contradicting testimony from other witnesses, who said Haynes struck Dilka first with the fistful.

Haynes said he could not remember hitting Dilka, but remembered falling on the ground and Dilka jumping on top of him. He said he knew that Hines had arrived to serve as a back-up officer, but he said he could not remember if he asked Hines for help in containing Dilka.

Tony Ordez, who testified earlier Friday, said he witnessed the fight and believed that Haynes struck Dilka first. But Ordez also changed the testimony he'd given in an earlier deposition.

He first said he believed Dilka was hit with a ricocheting bullet from Haynes gun, but on Friday he said Haynes pointed the gun directly at Dilka.

Ordez said he did not tell the truth when his deposition was taken because the seats in his vehicle had been slashed and he had received a threatening phone call, causing him to fear for his safety.

Law Today also said he did not tell the truth in his deposition because he feared for his family's safety.

QUESTION
A friend told me he had a humanistic funeral for his father. I suppose I should have asked him what this meant but didn't you tell me?

ANSWER
We had to research this question because it means non-denominational but it still is more than that. We have had non-denominational funeral services for many years. This is a service which is religious in nature, but does not relate to any organized church or denomination. It is not a religious or non-religious and it most certainly is not related to organized religion, but it is essentially religious.

In a humanistic funeral service, for example, the basic theme is to place the relationship with each other in the brotherhood of man—in the practice of the golden rule—in the perfection of human existence on this earth in this life. As many expressions of human life in this life these expressions carry through to their funeral.

Editor's Note: This is the first of a seven-part Lent series on the Ten Commandments and their relevance to contemporary life.

By GEORGE R. FLAENZ
Newspaper Enterprise Association

How many of the Ten Commandments can you name?

The majority of Americans who took part in a Gallup Poll could only name two or three. The most common were the first commandment, "I am the Lord your God," and the second, "You shall not have other gods before me."

The numbering has been done by churchmen, who have not agreed on a standard arrangement. The result is three different sets of numbering: one used by Catholics, one by Lutherans and the third by other Protestants and Orthodox Christians. "You shall not kill," for example, is the fifth commandment in the Lutheran and Catholic catechisms. But in the Episcopal Book of Common Prayer, it is the sixth. The confusion over numbering comes about primarily because it is impossible to know whether "thou shalt have no other gods before me" was meant to stand as a commandment by itself or whether it is the first part of a more comprehensive commandment that includes a prohibition against fashioning idols or images of God out of stone or other materials.

The Ten Commandments

If the two prohibitions are lumped together into one commandment (as they have been by Catholics and Lutherans), you come out with only nine commandments. And yet, while the commandments are not numbered in the Bible, it does say there are 10.

The Catholics and the Lutherans solved the problem by breaking up the prohibitions against coveting into two parts, although there is no natural division of the "covets" and no good reason for dividing them — except how else do you end up with 10 commandments?

The confusion does not end there. In the Catholic numbering, as "thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's wife." For the Lutherans it is "thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's house."

The other churches, meanwhile, made two commandments out of "thou shalt have no other gods before me" and "thou shalt not make any graven image." They avoided ending up with 11 commandments instead of 10 by grouping all the "covets" into one commandment.

If all this seems unnecessarily bewildering, that's because it is.

The Ten Commandments or the Decalogue, a Greek word meaning the "10 words" are found in two places in the Old Testament — Exodus 20 and Deuteronomy 5.

The phrasing and order are similar but not identical — resulting in the difference between the Catholic and Lutheran versions of the ninth commandment: The Catholics consulted Deuteronomy, the Lutherans went with the order of the "covets" as given in Exodus.

The Bible says the commandments were given to Moses by God. No mention that they were written on two tablets of stone is made in Exodus 20 or Deuteronomy 5. But the tablets are mentioned elsewhere in the two Old Testament books.

While the commandments are often thought of as primarily prohibitions against wrong-doing, Martin Luther in his catechism expanded the meaning of the commandments to include commands to right-doing.

For example, Luther gives this meaning to the commandment against killing: "We should fear and love God that we may not hurt nor harm our neighbor in his body, but help and defend him in every bodily need."

Luther's explanations of the commandments will serve as the basis for these Lenten meditations on the Ten Commandments.

Restoration rejection explained by bishop

BOISE (UPI) — Catholic Bishop Sylvester Terrien says he followed Church law and "real reason" in turning down requests by some Nezperce residents to save and restore an abandoned church in the northern Idaho town.

Terrien, bishop of the Boise diocese, broke a long silence on the matter this week because a lawsuit filed against the church to prevent the demolition had been dropped.

Terrien said in a written statement that the Nezperce Preservation Committee made false statements in its efforts to protect the 78-year-old wood-frame church. The committee said in its lawsuit that Terrien made an oral commitment to turn over the old church to the group after a majority of the church membership voted to clear the old church down.

A new church was built across the street from the old structure in 1976.

Terrien has agreed to protect the church for six months while the preservation group carries out an appeal of the demolition within the church's court system.

He said he would continue to promote what he said were the wishes of the church — a majority of Catholics in the Holy Trinity parish, which voted to demolish the old church in February 1980. "I desire peace in that parish and healing of the hurts that have been caused over the old building," he said. "I hold no personal grudge against anyone."

Horoscope

Diplomacy best course - with loved ones today. Taurians may discover

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A time when you have conflicting views with others. So be sure to accept differences in a philosophical manner. Don't force any issues with family members at this time.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Make certain you handle responsibilities you have in a most precise manner. Engage in favorite hobby with congenials.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Use diplomacy instead of forcefulness with loved ones at this time. Make long-range plans to have more abundance.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Try to please family members and come to a better understanding with them. Take no risks where your reputation is concerned.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Plan how to have greater income in the days ahead. Analyze your aims and gain the support you need from others.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Concentrate on how you can be more productive in the future. An intuitive prompting could be erroneous now so don't follow it.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21) Try to enlist the help of loyal friends for a new project you have in mind. Make practical plans for the days ahead.

LIBRA (Sept. 22 to Oct. 21) Make some needed changes at home so that you have more comfort there. Allow time for recreational activities you enjoy.

SCORPIO (Oct. 22 to Nov. 21) Good day to engage in activities that most appeal to you. Adopt a philosophy that can be good for you in the future.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Try to have more harmonious relations with family members. Make plans that can bring advancement in your career.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Outline projects you want to put in operation in the future. A good time to visit good friends and relatives.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Use good sense in handling matters of communication and get excellent results. Make this a worthwhile day.

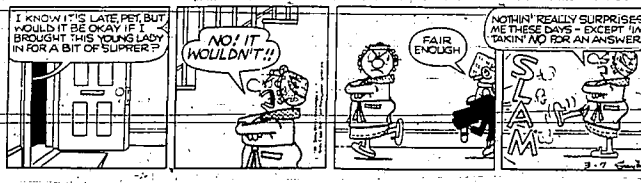

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Enjoy small pleasures you like in the company of congenials. Show more devotion to loved one and express happiness together.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be very intelligent and enjoy the best education possible in preparation for a most successful life. Spiritual training is important here and so are sports that teach fair play. A good family life in this chart.

What's what

Fancy eggs dress up salads in Las Vegas

A Las Vegas chef reportedly serves an advance order hen's eggs that look like dice. Pretty tricky! He handboils and shells them, decorates them carefully with pepper combs to create the pattern, and then gently fries in a special square-segmented ice cube tray, and fast-freezes them. They fancy up his salads in a dandy manner. I'm told.

In the local law books of Fountain Inn, S.C., is a regulation that requires horses to wear pants at all times.

A potato, too, gets sunburned, and turns not red but green.

The renowned Mona Lisa is painted on wood.

UNDERWEAR AND SHOES

Q. Most clerks who sell underwear are women. Most clerks who sell shoes are men. Why this difference?
A. Underwear sales clerks are salaried. Shoe sales clerks work on commission. Usually, usually, sales people of ability can make more money on commission. The able men are willing to take those jobs. So the able women can't always get them. It's one more valid complaint of the Equal Rightsists.

Q. What's "Siberian Coca-Cola"?
A. A drink called kumis. It's mare's milk, fermented.

Fix that: Your candles won't drip. If you soak them in a little water, laced with two tablespoons of salt, for each candle.

WHISPER

Was reported here that musicians learn early how to quiet down a noisy audience simply by playing softly. And that the harmonica master Larry Adler manages his audience that way. Actors, too, use the soft touch to get control. The gossip columnists years ago said Bette Davis was better able than any body else to simmer down rambunctious child performers on her sets by taking the extraordinary measure of lowering her voice to a whisper. Curiosity got them. They had to shut up to hear.

No trick to figure out how many zinn silk on a cotton silk for each kernel.

You'd have to swim underwater for about half an mile without coming up for air to equal the performance of the river otter.

BRIDGE

Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Difficult art of defense

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

The standard lead from a long suit is the fourth best. Sixty years ago, the auction bridge writer would show you how to declare, count the whole hand when a deuce was opened against his notrump contract. Today, there are many players who open eight from 10 8 7 2 and reserve the deuce as their very small-card option. You are going to lead the deuce, at least one of the four top honors. This is known as "Attitude."

We don't particularly like this — in fact we don't like it at all, although we have been known to lead deuce from A Q 9 7 2 to conceal the fact that we were leading a five-card suit against notrump.

There is one time when attitude leads become important. You are in back of dummy and in front of declarer. Dummy holds 9 4 3 and you hold 8 7 2. You are going to lead the suit through declarer and definitely should not lead the deuce. If your partner holds K

J 7 and declarer A Q 10, you want your partner to know that you can't stand a return of the suit. So lead the six or maybe the eight.

Where count becomes really important is in following suit. There is the standard notrump situation where dummy shows K Q J x x and you hold 7 5 or 7 5 2. In following suit, play the seven from 7 5, but the deuce from 7 5 2. If partner holds A 10 8, he will hold off twice if you play the seven first; if you play the deuce, he will know you have an odd number and will grab the second lead.

When your partner has led the suit and you can't win the trick, or deliberately don't want to win the trick, the strength signal (high for strength, low for weakness) takes precedence. But you also may want to give count.

In other words, you may want to give count and should do so. Also just to show how easy it is there are also those rare occasions when you may want to give suit preference. Defense is not easy. In fact it is the toughest part of bridge. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

CSI, N. Idaho win in offensive shows

Rematch set for today's title game at 8 p.m.

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News sports writer

TWIN FALLS—After a year's absence, College of Southern Idaho is back in the Region 18 basketball finals.

Although their offense never meshed, the Golden Eagles downed Lane Community College 97-80 Friday night. But the major problem comes up tonight when they come within the CSI Cardinals for the championship at 9 p.m.

North Idaho, seeking a second straight regional crown and a precedent in winning two successive regional titles on the road, outlasted Chemeketa 78-78 in the other regional first-round game.

The two Oregon schools will play for consolation honors at 7 p.m. today, followed by the championship at 9 p.m. The champion will advance to a bi-regional playoff next week in Utah or Arizona against the Region I champion, expected to be Mesa, Ariz., or Dixie of St. George, Utah.

"They were a scrappy bunch, just as we expected," CSI Coach Dave Campbell said. "They chased the ball all over the floor and they would never give up. We ran up leads to 16 or 17 points and they cut it back to eight or nine."

It is a trait of this CSI team, the coach said. "We've done it all year long but it's something we can't afford to do tomorrow night (against North Idaho)," he said.

"This was pretty much how we played against North Idaho up here," assistant Coach Eric Hovey said. "And you know how that came out (down by as much as 20 points and finally losing by 17)."

But when the game was tied, consistency and ball-handling against North Idaho."

Sophomore Michael Ingram again proved the steady influence of the Eagles as he pumped through 32 points. However, frosh Brady Taylor came off the bench in his eight points in a four-minute span to finally shove Lane out of reach.

"CSI again had trouble getting started with the opening tip. After a 20 lead, the Eagles fell behind 8-3 and didn't take the lead until nearly six minutes had passed. Then Lamar Dixon hit a pair of free throws and Frank Baines, who tanked 19 points, backed it with a field goal. Over the next three minutes, George Scott ringing in with five points, the Eagles moved ahead 22-12.

But Ed Higdon then hit three field goals to revive Lane and with 5:21 left in the half, CSI's lead had dwindled to 31-28 on a three-point play by Larry Towery.

At that point, Ingram hit two quick buckets and Mark Owen hit a transition jumper. After Dave Pearson replied for Lane, CSI picked up closing points from Baines and Ingram for a 49-34 halftime advantage.

It seemed 15 was about as far away as Lane would let CSI get. The Eagles had that advantage on several occasions with Lane always rallying back to 10 or 12.

With about 13 minutes left, CSI pushed ahead 68-53 before Lance bounced back into life. Greg Bruchet and Don Bell hit field goals and Towery added five points. That cut the Lane deficit to 70-62 with 10:44 remaining.

Baines, Ingram and Lebro Bates helped CSI rebuild the lead a little but Taylor then applied the coup d'grace. He opened with a field goal at the 6:30 mark and added another seconds later. Bates helped out with a three-point play. Ingram added a free throw and Taylor then sandwiched field goals around one by Lane's Marvin Walker.

That carried CSI into a 93-74 advantage.

A-1 tournament

Minico in today's consolation game; Pocatello, Highland in final

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News sports writer

POCATELLO — Idaho's Boys A-1 State Basketball Tournament champion will come from Pocatello this year.

But whether it will be Pocatello or Highland won't be decided until the A-1 tournament finals tonight in the Idaho State minidome.

Pocatello squeaked into the finals by nipping Capital 45-43 in two overtimes Saturday night after Highland built up a good lead in the third quarter and outlasted Meridian 59-56.

In consolation play, Minico downed Skyline for the third time this year 65-49 and will advance against upstart Coeur d'Alene which nipped highly-regarded Boise 59-58. Those two will play at 1 p.m. today. At 2:30 p.m., Meridian meets Capital in the third-fifth place playoff.

Pocatello and Highland have split in two regular season meetings and wound up the Gem-State Conference chase as co-champions.

"We don't care who we play," said

Highland Coach Ron Kress. "We've told our kids all year that this is a gold year for Highland basketball and tomorrow night we do after the gold."

Highland's superior height is a major concern for Pocatello Coach Jerry Kessler.

"We can't let them get the ball inside. We have to make Highland play perimeter offense. Defensively, if we can break the bump and run on the skirmin line out front and show some patience, we have had pretty good luck in taking the ball inside and scoring," he said.

Minico 55, Skyline 42 — Making a comeback showing was important to Minico Coach Craig Dexter. And evidently to his Spartans, too.

Putting together what the coach described as "one of our best games of the year," the Spartans dropped Skyline 55-42 to gain the consolation finals.

Minico got an early foot from Gus Christensen and senior guard Terry Morrison nailed it down with six late points.

"It was just a matter of who wanted it the most," Dexter said. "I felt we came out loose. We knew we were no longer playing for the state championship but today we played for pride. Tomorrow we'll play for the consolation championship," Dexter said.

"I felt Gus got us off to a good start and, of course, Morrison's late scoring put it away for us. But I thought Mike Shockey — some key points and plays for us and white Randy Homer only scored six points, all of them seemed to come at very critical times," Dexter said.

Christensen hit six points in the first quarter to take Minico to a 10-4 lead and although Skyline was always in contention, the Spartans managed to stay in front.

The Spartans amassed their first 10-point lead six minutes into the second period when Ken Baras and Morrison picked up four points each. But Dave Piper's prayer shot at the buzzer pulled Skyline back to within six at intermission.

The third quarter was a low-scoring affair although Minico maintained at least the six-point spread and pushed it to 10 just as the period ended when

Pilots earn title contest; Bulldogs alive

IDAHO FALLS — Gordon Brown and Glenns Ferry High School have another chance at a state basketball championship.

Joe Rodriguez made five of six free throws in the final 56 seconds Friday night as the Pilots held off Genesee 53-49 to gain tonight's title game against Sugar-Salem at Bonneville High School.

Kimberly, Magic Valley's other entry in the Boys A-3 State Basketball Tournament, will also go after a trophy today. The Bulldogs edged Kendrick 82-74 in the consolation round Friday afternoon and will face West Side for the consolation title at 1 p.m.

Sugar-Salem ended Fruitland's bid for a second straight title with a 59-49 win in the other championship semifinal.

West Side, playing its second overtime game in as many nights, ousted Teton 71-70 in the evening consolation semifinal.

Glenns Ferry 53, Genesee 49 — The Pilots gained their first berth in the finals since 1978 by holding off the Bulldogs in the final minutes.

With Bill Stien getting warm early in the second period, the Pilots took a 26-11 lead late in the first half before Genesee started a steady comeback.

Six-foot-seven junior Tony Eglund started to dominate inside and Jim Cavanaugh hit from outside as the Bulldogs rallied.

Glenns Ferry led 26-18 at the half and with Stien and Tim-Black combining for six points, had a 32-20 lead early in the third period.

Black then went to the bench with his fourth personal foul and Eglund provided even more punch inside. Genesee scored 10 unanswered points to trail 32-30 with 1:04 left in the period.

Dan Shrum's 10-footer off the top kept the Pilots from falling behind and Brown's squad held a slim lead until they got the break they were looking for with 1:39 to play when Eglund fouled out.

Shrum went after him and got him. Brown said with relief, "It was kind of a strange move, but he went with the up and out shots and drew the foul. That did the trick."

How Genesee might have done with Eglund in the game will never be known, but he left with 14 points and 14 rebounds. In Thursday's win over Teton, he was a one-man defense in the final two minutes, blocking five shots in a two-point victory.

Champion Phillies put up for sale

CLEARWATER, Fla. (UPI) — Philadelphia Phillies President Ruly Carpenter said Friday that the world championship National League baseball club is for sale, principally because of skyrocketing player salaries.

"It was one of the most difficult decisions this family has ever had to make, especially in light of the recent, deeply depressing team-buy bid," Carpenter said. "It has been very apparent to me that some deeply ingrained philosophical differences exist between the Carpenter family and some of the other owners as to how the baseball business should be conducted."

"What we're really talking about is the dramatic escalation of salaries," he said. "I'm not saying I'm totally sold, but what I'm saying is enough is enough. I just don't think we can continue to operate on this basis."

Carpenter said, however, he wanted to endorse the position taken by management in the battle with players over the salary issue.

"It is indeed unfortunate that the association and its leadership has such an innate lack of appreciation for the problem that confronts ownership," he said.

In his announcement, Carpenter did not mention an asking price.

Phillies shortstop Larry Bowa said of Carpenter, "he's not only a great owner, but a great man."

"It's a sad day for me. I've worked for these people for 25 years, and I feel something has gone out of me too," General Manager Paul Owens said.

Carpenter arrived at the Clearwater spring training camp unexpectedly Thursday night and addressed players Friday afternoon before making the announcement.

He said he does not have any further comments from any member of the Carpenter family or any Phillies executive regarding the proposed sale.

"I fully expect each and every member of the organization, both on and off the field, to continue working towards bringing a second World Series championship to the city of Philadelphia in 1981," Carpenter said.

Carpenter faulted Marvin Miller of the Players Association and the players' association for asking a "non-fair" price, including himself, for giving it.

He declined to specifically identify owners, but when asked if other owners felt the same way he did, Carpenter said, "I would feel a vast majority of the owners feel the way I do, but not all of them."

"Also, asked if Miller and the Players Association would call his offer of sale a grandstand play, Carpenter said, "It would not surprise me if Marvin Miller would say that, but I think that the people, including the players who know me best, know that it isn't a play."

Northern Idaho beats Chemeketa

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News sports writer

TWIN FALLS—It may have been the closest one-sided game in basketball history.

North Idaho junior college, dominating every phase of the game except free throws, just managed to slip past stubborn Chemeketa 72-51 and into the Region 18 championship finals Friday night.

In a fine show of perseverance, Chemeketa, boasting a 28-1 record coming in, battled gamely to keep the tall and talented Chemeketa which reach all night and almost pulled it out.

But if that was a perseverance display by Chemeketa, North Idaho deserved credit for refusing to wilt in the face of adversity.

Hit with an endless succession of lesser contact fouls, North Idaho had four starters with four fouls and another with three with 10:56 left in the game. But it wasn't enough as Coach Rolfe Williams simply reached into his bench and came up with winners in Pete Adams, Richard Rollins and Steve Blakely.

The victory means that North Idaho earned the right to defend its regional title against Collier of Southern Idaho at 9 p.m. today at the CSI gymnasium. Chemeketa will play Lane Community College at 7 p.m. in the consolation finals. Lance bowed to CSI 97-80 in a regional first round.

"They're not a bad ball club," the coach said. "I'm sure they'll be a real challenge." Rolfe Williams said after his Cardinals had won. "They are well coached. The best thing about this game is that it's over. They are some fine shooters and that (Terry Lee) who wound up with 32 points is a great shooter."

"Our guys played well coming off the bench. Adams, Rollins, Blakely, all of them responded well. I thought Rich did an excellent job." Looking toward tonight's finals, Williams didn't want to get into any specific predictions.

"We played about as well as we could play (in beating CSI in Coeur d'Alene last week)," he said. Asked if he thought his Cardinals could duplicate that effort, he smiled and said "We won't play as poorly as we did the first time down here (when CSI won by eight)."

Chemeketa let North Idaho know it was serious in the opening minutes when it reeled off an 11-point string. That moved the 20th-ranked team into a 15-4 lead but it was a false hope. Lee picked up eight of the points and Paul VonRuden added four. But the next time downcourt, Chuck Meriwether got North Idaho rebounding with a three-point play and within 45 seconds the Cardinals were back into a tie at 15 on a Cal Kane field goal.

North Idaho then took the lead for a long time at 20-18 on a Greg Wilfner bucket and over the next two minutes it appeared the Cardinals might blow Chemeketa away.

But the fouls began piling up on North Idaho and Chemeketa continued to hit the clutch points. They fell behind by seven on five occasions but closed to within 43-38 at intermission.

Meriwether immediately replied with two North Idaho field goals and the Cardinals didn't trail again. However, six was as much distance as they fell behind by seven on five occasions and Chemeketa got in the last two minutes Chemeketa got into a pair of ties.

Meriwether broke the last deadlock at 75-73 and Chemeketa then had a rare turnover that led to a pair of Wilfner free throws with 1:13 left.

Bishop Kelly "outscored" Wood River 72-12 in the second quarter Friday and went on to record a 72-63 consolation victory in the state A-2 high school basketball tournament.

The win came despite a 31-point performance by Wood River guard Kip Brower, who had 11 points in the first quarter to give the Wolverines a 17-8 lead.

"We lost (Robin) Slisiam. In the second period he turned an ankle and there was really nobody to replace him," a dejected Wood River Coach Dan Gillett said.

"When we lost him, we lost our momentum."
"At one point we had a 17-4 lead and then we lost Robin and that was a letdown and they (Bishop Kelly) scored 27 points in the second period," Gillett said. "We came back to within six a couple of times but we didn't have the board strength. Another thing was I felt our defense didn't play as well as they should have. We weren't very tenacious underneath or outside and that hurt us throughout the game."

Scott McGrath, who led Bishop Kelly with 18 points, scored eight of them in a pivotal three-minute stretch before halftime. Scott Lawrence added 16 points for the Knights, one more than Andy G...
Brower connected on 11 of 17 field goals for Wood River.

Darel Tracy hit two free throws and Mike Shockey added a short jumper. Scoring picked up considerably in the final quarter as Skyline turned to a press. The Grizzlies made their most serious threat when Stu Salo and Brian Gunderson picked up back-to-back buckets—that narrowed the count to 41-37. Skyline then picked up a steal off its press, but the ensuing crippler was waived off on a travel call.

The teams exchanged buckets until the count reached 43-39 with 1:24 left. Then Morrison hit two free throws, scored a jumper and a layup and came back with two more charities to explode the Spartans back into a 10-point lead.

Highland 59, Meridian 56

Highland rode the hot shooting hand of forward Don Holston to defeat Meridian.

Holston hit eight field goals and finished with 19 points to lead Highland to the win.

The Rams used an outstanding day at the foul line and a solid ball control offense in claiming the victory. The Rams had just eight turnovers and hit 19 of 22 free throws.

Meridian was paced by center Kris Anderson, who led all scorers with 22 points.

The score was tied at halftime, but Highland exploded into a 45-38 lead at the end of the third period. The Warriors pulled close in the closing minutes, but Highland's foul shooting locked up the win.

Senior guard Chris Yardley calmly sank the front end of a one-on-one to lift Coeur d'Alene to its upset win over the top-ranked Braves.

Boise had rallied behind the inside shooting of Ted Grop, who hit a career-high 22 points, to tie the score at 58 on a layup by junior center Chuck Blackhurst before the 4-jumper guard Yardley set up the game winner.

Poky 45, Capital 43 (2ot)

Curt Day hit a fast-break layup with no time left on the clock to lift Poky to its 45-43 double-overtime victory over Capital.

The deciding score was set up when the Eagles' Jeff Hubert fired a jump shot that bounded off the rim. They recovered the ball and scored the length of the court to race the winning bucket.

Capital led by as many as 10 points in the first half before heading to the locker room with a 24-17 advantage. The Eagles maintained control in the third quarter, stretching their lead to 34-23 with three minutes remaining.

But over the next three minutes, the Eagles scored the overtime points to close within 36-33 after three quarters.

Dave Romasko knotted the score at 37-37 with a 2-30 lift, but Capital regained the lead a minute later when Tim Zimmermann hit a driving layup. The game went into overtime when Pocatello's Bart Robbins' two free throws were matched by Bradlee Watson's rebound basket at the buzzer.

Hagerman defeats Rockland, 58-52; Mackay drums Red Devils by six AMERICAN FALLS—Hagerman continued its winning ways and Murtaugh all but ended its season in the first round of the A-4 Bi-regionals in American Falls Friday night.

Hagerman held a 58-52 advantage and will advance to tonight's championship against Mackay. With the win, regardless of tonight's outcome, the Pirates advance to the Boys A-4 State Basketball Tournament in Twin Falls starting Friday night.

Murtaugh will not be making the trip to Twin Falls because of a 62-58 defeat at the hands of Mackay. Murtaugh will end its season tonight in the battle for third place against Rockland.

Hagerman is going to the state basketball tournament in Twin Falls, but got a lesson in how the rough boys play in American Falls.

Hagerman blew an 18-point lead but still hung on thanks to the good inside work of Brian Fuell and the outside work of Bobby Jay to defeat Rockland 58-52.

"This was a real physical game because the officiating was wide open," Hagerman Coach Skip Paus said. "This is different than what we have seen all year. Elbows were flying and there was people over the back. You'd think we were playing college ball or something."

The Pirates held an 18-point advantage late in the third period and started their celebration a little too soon. Rockland scrapped back to tie the game with just over a minute to play.

However, Rockland started sending the Pirates to the free throw line and Fuell and Jay each earned two on three-point plays in the closing seconds to tie the victory.

Paus feels that even with the state berth wrapped up his kids will play for tomorrow's championship against Mackay just as hard as last season's.

"The kids set goals for themselves and they have accomplished every one so far," Paus said. "Another goal is to win the regionals and if they play smart we can beat them."

"Besides, their still holding a grudge from the football season," Paus said of the defeat handed to the gridders last season.

Fuell led the way for the Pirates with 20 points while Jay added 13 and Larry Barrett poured in 12 more in the victory. Rockland was led by Stan Munk who scored 10 points and Gary Hunter and Ben Redford added 12 more in a losing cause.

America wins one, loses one in Davis Cup

CARLSBAD, Calif. (UPI)—Raul Rangel of Mexico (1-1 tie with the United States) by defeating Roscoe Tanner, 3-6, 6-1, 6-0, 6-3, Friday in North American zone Davis Cup competition.

Earlier, John McEnroe, the world's No. 1 ranked player, defeated 17-year-old Jorge Lozano, 6-3, 6-1, 6-3. McEnroe and Ramirez will meet Sunday in the singles final.

Tanner took early command of the three-hour match with a break of service in the fourth game, but Ramirez broke back in the fifth game. Tanner got his second break in the eighth game and rode out the set 6-3.

The second set was a dogfight with Ramirez repeatedly shooting winners and Ramirez broke first in the sixth game, but Tanner broke back in the seventh. Ramirez finally broke again in the 14th game to win it 6-3.

Ramirez soundly thrashed Tanner in the third set but the American bounced back to win the fourth. Ramirez started fast in the fifth set, breaking his opponent's first serve

Idaho dumps Idaho State in Big Sky play

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI) — A hot-shooting University of Idaho team took advantage of a cold shooting Idaho State squad in the second half Friday night to score a 69-45 win over the Bengals and advance to the championship game of the Big Sky Conference Tournament.

Idaho, now 24-3, plays for the championship tonight against the winner of a University of Montana-Montana State game scheduled as the nightcap at the Idaho Kibbldome Saturday night.

Ken Owens led the Vandals attack with 19 points, followed by each from Ron Maben and Brian Kellerman, and by each from Dan Fargo and Phil Hopson. Idaho State's Robert Tate scored 21 and teammate Byron Williams added 16 in an unsuccessful effort.

The Vandals held a 31-27 edge at the intermission as both teams shot about 500 balls in the first half. The Bengals drew to within two points at 33-31 with 18:21 left in the second half, but the Vandals exploded for 10 unanswered points and never looked back. In the second half, Idaho shot a sizzling 65 percent from the field, while the Bengals, who finished their season with a 12-14 record, managed to complete only 24 percent of their shots.

Fresno State advances in PCAA touney

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) — Sid Williams scored 21 points Friday night to lead San Jose State to a 61-50 victory over Cal State Long Beach in the second semifinal game of the Pacific Coast Athletic Association basketball tournament.

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) — Sid Williams scored 21 points Friday night to lead San Jose State to a 61-50 victory over Cal State Long Beach in the second semifinal game of the Pacific Coast Athletic Association basketball tournament.

In the first game, Donald Mason racked up 18 points and forward Rod Higgins contributed 17 to lead Fresno State to a 75-57 victory over Utah State. San Jose State and Fresno State meet Saturday night for the tournament championship.

Utah State staged a 10-2 run to close the lead to 39-37 with 11:50 to go but could get no closer for the rest of the game. Fresno pulled away, with Higgins scoring 12 of his 18 points in the second half.

San Jose, 21-7, never trailed in the game. Following a 6-6 tie in the first half, the Spartans built a 7-point lead as many as 16 on occasions and led 27-22 at halftime. Williams had 9 of his game-high 21 points in the first half while teammate Chris McNeely scored 10 of his 18 points.

Brian Jackson, who finished as the game's high scorer with 23 points, kept Utah State in the game in the first half with 15 of his 22 points. Teammate Edgar Wickliffe scored 12 of his 15 points in the second half. Utah State closes out its season with a 13-16 record.

Virginia stumbles in ACC clash; N.C. wins

LANDOVER, Md. (UPI) — Mike Pepper's 20-footer from the left side within nine seconds left Friday night to lead Wake Forest to a 38-37 victory over the fifth-ranked Wake Forest in the semifinals of the Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament.

Wake Forest, 22-6, worked the ball and the clock, calling time out at 2:10. They got the ball to Alvis Rogers for a baseline jumper from the left side and a 57-56 lead with 1:29 showing.

The Tar Heels, 24-1, met Maryland, which blew out fourth-ranked Virginia 85-62 in the first semifinal contest, tonight for the ACC title. North Carolina trailed 55-50 with 7:15 to play, but whittled into the Deacons' lead and went in front 56-55 on a rebound basket by freshman center Sam Perkins with 4:21 to play.

Virginia's defeat was the worst for the Cavaliers since a 100-75 loss at Duke three years ago. Jeff Lamb had 25 points for Virginia, 25-3, which won the other ACC tournament held at Capital Centre in 1976, the only other ACC tournament played outside North Carolina. Maryland, 20-8 and the fifth ACC team to win 20 games this season, rattled off 12 straight points in the first half for an 18-9 lead less than eight minutes into the game.

Georgia stuns No. 3 LSU in ACC touney

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — The surprising Bulldogs, playing in a Southeastern Conference tournament semifinals for the first time in more than 30 years, stunned third-ranked Louisiana State 68-60 Friday night to move into the finals against the Ole Miss Rebels, who beat Vanderbilt 71-51 earlier in the evening.

Georgia, 11-15, pulled off a 17-10 conference record, never could get more than three points ahead of the Bulldogs when it had the lead and had two of its key performers — Elton Martin and Howard Carter — foul out in the closing minutes while trying desperately to get back into the game.

Taking the lead for keeps with barely three minutes left to play, the Bulldogs, who finished fifth in the SEC standings, outscored the regular-season champions 17-8 in those final minutes, ending the Tigers' bid to become the first team to win both the regular season race and the tournament title since the tournament was revived two years ago after a 27-year hiatus.

Carter and Durand Macklin, the SEC player of the year, both had 16 points for the losers. In the general all-conference forward Turner fouled Ole Miss to a 22-4 outburst in the first five minutes of the second half Friday night, and the Rebels went on to rout Vanderbilt.

However, LSU, still boasting a healthy 28-3 record, already had a berth in the NCAA playoffs sewed up, having two unbeaten finalists like Georgia and Ole Miss promise the SEC an additional NCAA berth.

Unheralded Mississippi moved to within one game of an NCAA tournament bid Friday night and Coach Bob Weir joked that another Rebel victory would "really screw up" the national playoffs.

Sophomore Dominique Wilkins, who scored 31 points on Thursday when Georgia upset Alabama to advance to the semifinals, was the Bulldogs' big weapon in those closing minutes and wound up high scorer in the game with 18 points.

"I wonder what would happen if we win tomorrow night?" Weirlich asked after the Rebels beat Vanderbilt. "Since we were 13-13 coming in, I would be glad to have the NIT as a backup if we don't win Saturday."

Two Georgia freshmen, Vern Fleming and James Banks, played stellar roles — scoring 13 and 12 points respectively, and Junior Eric Marbury also had 12 points and directed the Bulldogs' attack.

Vanderbilt Coach Richard Schmidt said he may have erred in going with a man-to-man defense since the Commodores were tired. "Our kids could not after two straight nights get down and guard people man to man."

LSU, which beat Georgia twice during the regular season while posting a 17-1 conference record, never added 10 as Seattle outscored the cold-shooting Spurs 30-16 in the final period. San Antonio could manage to hit only 3-of-25 shots from the field in the final 12 minutes.

Rebels went on to rout Vanderbilt. Unheralded Mississippi moved to within one game of an NCAA tournament bid Friday night and Coach Bob Weir joked that another Rebel victory would "really screw up" the national playoffs.

TWIN FALLS — It may have been the closest one-sided game in basketball history.

Northern Idaho junior college, dominating every phase of the game except free throws, just managed to slip past stubborn Chemeketa 79-78 and into the Region 18 championship finals Friday night.

In a fine show of perseverance, Chemeketa, boasting a 28-1 record coming in, battled gamely to keep the tall and talented Cardinals within reach all night and almost pulled it out.

But it was a perseverance display by Chemeketa, North Idaho deserved credit for refusing to yield in the face of adversity.

"Hit with an endless succession of lesser contact fouls, North Idaho had four starters and four fouls and another—with three—with 10-56 left in the game. But it wasn't enough as Coach Rolfe Williams simply reached into his bench and came up with winners in Pete Adams, Richard Rogers and Steve Blakely."

The victory means that North Idaho earned the right to defend its regional title against College of Southern Idaho at 7 p.m. today at the CSI gymnasium. Chemeketa will play Lane Community College at 7 p.m. in the consolation finals. Lane bowed to CSI 97-80 in the regional's first round.

"They're not a bad ball club," said after Coach Rolfe Williams said a relieved Coach Rolfe Williams said after his Cardinals had won. "They are well coached. The best thing about this game is that it's over. They had some fine shooters and that (Terry) Lee (who wound up with 22 points) is a great shooter."

"Our guys played well coming off the bench. Adams, Rollins, Blakely... all of them responded well. I thought Rich did an excellent job." Looking toward tonight's finals, Williams didn't want to get into any specific predictions.

"We've played about as well as we could play (in beating CSI in Coeur d'Alene last week)," he said. Asked if he thought his Cardinals could duplicate that effort, he smiled and said "We won't play as poorly as we did the first time down here (when CSI won by eight)." Chemeketa let North Idaho know it was serious in the opening minutes when it reeled off an 11-point string. That moved the 20th-ranked team into a 15-4 lead but it was a false hope.

See picked up eight of the points and Chemeketa added four. But the next time downcourt, Chuck Meriwether got North Idaho rebounding with a three-point play and within 45 seconds the Cardinals were back into the tie at 15 on a Cal Kane field goal.

North Idaho then took the lead for a long time at 20-8 on a Greg Wilbur bucket and over the next two minutes it appeared the Cardinals might blow Chemeketa away.

But the fouls began piling up on North Idaho and Chemeketa continued to hit the clutch points. They fell behind by seven on five occasions but closed to within 42-38 at intermission.

Meriwether immediately replied with two North Idaho field goals and the Cardinals didn't trail again. However, six was as much distance as they could put between themselves and Chemeketa and in the last two minutes Chemeketa got into a pair of ties.

Meriwether broke the last deadlock at 75-73 and Chemeketa then had a rare turnover that led to a pair of Wilbur free throws with 1:13 left.

COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho (UPI)—Bishop Kelly outscored Wood River 27-12 in the second quarter Friday and went on to record a 72-63 consolation victory in the state A-2 high school basketball tournament.

The win came despite a 31-point performance by Wood River guard Kip Brower, who had 11 points in the first quarter to give the Wolverines a 17-8 lead.

"We lost (Robin) Sliam in the second period to a turned ankle and there was really nobody to replace him," a dejected Wood River Coach Dan Gillett said.

"When we lost him, we lost our momentum," Gillett said. "At one point we had a 17-4 lead and then we lost Robin and that was a letdown and they (Bishop Kelly) scored 27 points in the second period," Gillett said. "We came back to within six a couple of times but we didn't have the board strength. Another thing was I felt our defense didn't play as well as they should have. We weren't very tenacious underneath or outside and that hurt us throughout the game."

Scott McGrath, who led Bishop Kelly with 19 points, scored eight of them in a pivotal three-minute stretch before halftime. Scott Lawrence added 16 points for the knights, one more than Andy Gustavson.

Brower connected on 11 of 17 field goals for Wood River.

Darel Tracy hit two free throws and Mike Shockey added a short jumper.

Scoring picked up considerably in the final quarter as Skyline turned to a press. The Grizzlies made their most serious threat when Stu Saito and Brian Gunderson picked up back-to-back buckets that narrowed the count to 41-37. Skyline then picked up a steal off its press but the ensuing crumple was waived off on a travel call.

Two teams exchanged buckets until the count reached 43-39 with 1:24 left. Then Morrison hit two free throws, scored a layin off a steal and came back with two more charities to explode the Spartans back into a 19-10 lead.

Highland rode the hot-shooting hand of forward Don Holston to defeat Meridian.

Holston hit eight field goals and finished with 19 points to lead Highland to the win.

The Rams used an outstanding day at the foul line and a solid ball control offense in claiming the victory.

The Rams had just eight turnovers and hit 19 of 22 free throws.

Meridian was paced by center Kris Anderson, who led all scorers with 22 points.

The score was tied at halftime, but Highland exploded into a 46-38 lead at the end of the third period. The Warriors pulled close in the closing minutes, but Highland's foul shooting locked up the win.

Capital led by as many as 10 points in the first half before heading to the locker room with a 24-17 advantage. The Eagles maintained control in the third quarter, stretching their lead to 34-23 with three minutes remaining.

But over the next three minutes, the Indians scored 10 unanswered points to close within 36-33 after three quarters.

Tom Romano knotted the score at 37-37 with a 2-3 shot, but Capital regained the lead a minute later when Tom Zimmerman hit a driving layup. The game went into overtime when Pocatello's Bart Robbins' two free throws were matched by Bradlee Whitson's rebound basket at the buzzer.

Hagerman defeats Rockland, 58-52, Mackay dumps Red Devils by six AMERICAN FALLS — Hagerman continued winning ways and Murtagh all but ended its season in the first round of the A-4 Bi-regionals in American Falls Friday night.

Hagerman held off Rockland 58-52 and now will advance to tonight's championship against Mackay. With the win regardless of tonight's outcome, the Pirates advance to the Boys A-4 State Basketball Tournament in Twin Falls starting Friday night.

Murtagh will not be making the trip to Twin Falls because of a 63-58 defeat at the hands of Mackay. Murtagh will end its season tonight in the battle for third place against Rockland.

Hagerman is going to the state basketball tournament in Twin Falls, but got a lesson in how the rough boys play in American Falls.

Hagerman won an 18-point lead but still hung on thanks to the good inside work of Brian Fuell and the outside work of Bobby Jay to defeat Rockland in the Bi-regional clash at American Falls High School.

"This was a real physical game because the officials was 'wide open,'" Hagerman Coach Skip Pauls said. "This is different than what we have seen all year. Elbows were flying and there was people over the back. You'd think we were playing college or something."

The Pirates held an 18-point advantage late in the third period and started their celebration a little too soon. Rockland scrapped back to tie the game with just over a minute to play.

However, Rockland started sending the Pirates to the free throw line and Fuell and Jay each converted on three-point plays in the closing seconds to tie the victory.

Pauls feels that even with the state berth wrapped up his kids will play for tomorrow's championship against Mackay just as hard as last night. "The kids set goals for themselves

Kendrick battle.

"I told them it was much like the Valley game," Thompson said, reminding his Bulldogs of the district game they had to win to gain the state tournament berth. "I wanted them to go out and run, be aggressive and play hard on both offense and defense. At least they got half of the message."

The Bulldogs scored a season-high 82 points in eliminating Kendrick from the tournament. It was a wild way of offense by both teams.

Four Bulldogs, paced by Rocky Eller's 19 points, hit double figures and two more finished with nine points each to provide the best of balance for Kimberly this season.

Kimberly trailed only in the first two minutes, falling behind 24-20 on Darren Clemenhagen's 19-footer in the opening seconds.

A crashing layin by Eller and a rebound follow by Rich Crothers put the Bulldogs ahead to stay at 42-22.

Clemenhagen, who averages 22.3 points per outing, had 12 in the first half but his total can't offset Kimberly's balance as the Bulldogs took a 35-29 halftime lead.

Kendrick's ability to dominate the offensive boards provided many second, third and fourth shots that fell often enough to keep the Tigers close. "It was much like playing Deola," Thompson said. "They are big and strong. I got sick of talking about boxing out during all of our time outs. Other than boxing out, we played good defense most of the game."

Weirather grabs final World Cup

ASPEN, Colo. (UPI) — Austria's Hans Weirather, feeling the pressure to keep the World Cup downhill championship in Europe, raced through the 3,170-meter course on Aspen Mountain in 1:52.21 Friday and edged Canadian challenger Steve Podborski by more than 20 seconds.

It was the third downhill win of the season for Weirather and gave him 115 points in the final World Cup downhill standings. He picked up five points with a second-place finish in Thursday's event.

Podborski, who also had three victories this season and was tied with Weirather going into the Aspen competition, earned no points with his 10th-place finish Thursday and ended the season with 10 points.

"I was very nervous because I knew the time from Steve," said Weirather, who was the 14th racer on the course.

Podborski, skiing first, clocked a 1:52.49, then waited on the sidelines for the Austrian.

"I skied really well, but Harti skied better," said Podborski, who came closer than anyone in World Cup history to winning the downhill title for North America. "I didn't lose today. I was in second."

Elizabeth Kirschner, at 17 a newcomer on the Austrian ski team, ran the 2,134-meter women's course in 1:25.07 to win the women's downhill on Ruthie's Run.

Regine Moesenlechner of West Germany was second in 1:25.12, bumping American Cindy Nelson of Lutsen, Minn., into third place at 1:25.16. Holly Beth Flanders of Manchester, N.H., led the boys after the first 10 racers, finished unofficially fourth at 1:25.38.

Sylvia Eder, a 15-year-old team-mate of Kirschner on the Austrian C team and the 30th racer in the 41-woman field, took fifth place in 1:25.65.

Eder's finish pushed Doris DeGard of Switzerland, second in the overall downhill standings, sixth at 1:25.72 and Swiss team-mate Muriel Theresia, fourth at 1:25.75. Olympic Gold Medal winner and the overall leader, seventh at 1:25.77.

The starting time of the women's race was moved up one hour in an attempt to beat a winter storm moving into the Boreas Park area. It began snowing heavily just as the race started.

The Swiss captured the next three finishes in Friday's men's downhill. Franz Heinzer was third in 1:52.33. Tom Buerger fourth at 1:52.45 and two-time defending champion Peter Mueller fifth at 1:53.05.

Mueller, who finished fourth in Thursday's race, remained in third place in the overall standings.

America's top finisher Friday was Doug Powell of Chappaqua, N.Y., who was ninth at 1:53.82. Pete Patterson of Sun Valley, Idaho, who was 11th Thursday, fell on the upper part of the course Friday and did not finish.

Also failing was Thursday's surprise winner, Valery Tsyganov, the first Russian ever to win a World Cup downhill.

Podborski's intermediate time of 1:14.87 was .08 of a second faster than Weirather's, but the Austrian attacked the tight turns on the lower half of the course with flawless perfection for the win.

"On the course, I felt I could not win because there were very big bumps," Weirather said. He was not able to explain how he made up the time at the bottom but conceded he was under some pressure from his countrymen to prevent the downhill crown from moving to Canada.

Austria last had the downhill title in 1978, when Franz Klammer won the last of his three straight championships.

Heinrich's going after his third 3-pin race win

By STEVE LATHROP
Times-News correspondent

SUN VALLEY — Ace skier Arnold Schuss carves smartly down Warm Springs' race.

Buzzingly color-coordinated, Schuss picks his route carefully, maximizing time under the lift, getting air, slowing off.

For Schuss, it could be the perfect run — except for one thing. Dogging his turns, refusing to fall back, refusing to fall down, surging ahead in fact, is this apparition, a ski outfitter's nightmare — blue jeans, ordinary windbreaker indeterminate for color, and a motorcycle helmet for pily's sake.

"And, of yes," kinky little downhill-racer poies with tiny little button baskets.

Schuss wants to laugh. He would laugh if it weren't so hard to keep up. It's unnatural. The guy doesn't even carve his turns, really. Then Schuss sees the heels, flapping in the breeze. As he falls, Schuss realizes he has just been shut down by a cross-country skier.

The apparition is John Heinrich. Heinrich, 30, is one of a small but growing group who takes their flimsy cross-country gear up the lifts, and goes free-heeling down America's famous ski mountains.

Heinrich does not always wear the helmet; but this week he is training for the 3-pin binding downhill. This year's event will be the fifth of its kind on Bald Mountain, and Heinrich has won two of them. He placed second once, and last year finished first, only to be disqualified for missing a gate.

The term "3-pin" in the event's name refers to the standard cross-country ski binding. It secures the skier's toe to the ski by means of three vertical pins which fit into corresponding holes in the toe of the boot.

Unlike the massive mechanical bindings of downhill skiers, pin bindings leave the heels entirely free. This facilitates the normal striding gait of cross-country skiing, but sacrifices directional control and security.

Ordinary skiers do not descend tall mountains with pin bindings.

Pin binding downhillers do make such descents, however, and they descend quickly. The world's fastest alpine skiers, the World Cup downhill racers, can run a Bald Mountain downhill course in about two minutes.

Pin binding downhillers use about 3:45. And they run a longer course.

Heinrich is serious about winning. He is a pro, in fact. He has sponsors: A Sun Valley Restaurant, the Ore House, has its name stenciled on duct tape and pasted to the side of Heinrich's helmet. Manufacturers give him equipment.

Heinrich also hints that there may be some informal money riding on today's race. "The prize that's offered (a pair of cross-country skis) isn't worth the danger," Heinrich said. "I don't care about the prestige of it anymore."

Heinrich said he is worried about spectators. "They don't realize how fast you are going to be going and how little control you are going to have. Somebody's going to get hit. I think."

Heinrich estimated that he topped 50 miles per hour in last year's race.

"I tucked all the way down College (at the top of the course)," he said. "I thought that was going to be good enough. I turned around and there were five or six other guys. Each year everybody gets better and better."

Heinrich said he wanted badly to win last year. He wanted three victories in a row to retire on. The disqualification ruined that, so now he wants to win one and retire.

This morning Heinrich will be at the top of Bald Mountain, perhaps reviewing his own advice about going fast on 3-pin bindings: "You just have to keep your ankles real stiff, keep real low to the ground, and keep all your weight on your heels."

Heinrich may also be worrying a little about what it means "to go all out on that one day at 9 o'clock in the morning when the snow is hard as a rock, and you could get out of control and hurt yourself."

Ziegler holds 2-stroke lead at Inverrary
FURT AUVERDALE, Pa. (UPI) — Larry Ziegler, a three-time winner. In 21 years on the tour, shot a four-under-par 68 Friday for a two-stroke lead at the halfway point of the $300,000 Inverrary Classic.
Jack Nicklaus, who had fired an opening round 65 to go into Friday's play, sharing a two-shot lead with Ziegler, ran into trouble and wound up with a six-under-par 138, five strokes behind Ziegler's pace-setting 11-under 139.

In second place, two shots behind Ziegler at 135 was young Curtis Strange, who fired a 67 Friday. Next at seven-under 137 were Tom Kite with a 68 and Tom Purtzer with a 66. Nicklaus was next at 138 and then came Bob Murphy (68), Charles Coody (72) and Gil Morgan (67), all at 139.

Ziegler had opened the tournament with a blistering seven-under-par 65 to tie Nicklaus for the first-round lead. "I don't remember when I've started with two good rounds like that," said the 41-year-old pro from St. Louis. "It's nice to get off to a start like that and see it win."

He said he didn't believe the pressure of being in the lead today should bother him, because he's been in a position to challenge a number of times in the last few weeks.
