

Gray quits as prosecutor

Denying charges, Gray says he can't serve effectively

By MARTY TRILLHAASE

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls County Prosecutor Tom Gray resigned Friday, 2½ months after being arrested for possession of marijuana. In a one-page letter submitted to Twin Falls County Commission, Gray cited a deteriorating relationship with local law enforcement officials as his reason for resigning, effective April 1. "Since my arrest... I have found it extremely difficult to fulfill my duties as Prosecuting Attorney," the letter reads. "As a result of the accusations against me, my relationship with the police officers in the county and my ability to work with them has deteriorated. I am afraid that my credibility as chief law enforcement officer in the county has been damaged and that I can no longer effectively execute those duties that I was elected to perform."

Gray said he decided Wednesday to step down. Friday afternoon, Commissioner Merl Leonard said he had no advance word before Gray submitted the resignation letter at 4 p.m. Leonard said he accepted the resignation "with regret" and declined further comment.

Twin Falls County Sheriff James Munn and Twin Falls Police Chief Tim Qualls also declined comment. The Twin Falls County Central Republican Committee now must choose one to three applicants to replace Gray. The county commissioners will select a successor from the applicants. "If a successor is not named by April 1, the county's chief deputy prosecutor, James Meservy, will serve as acting prosecutor, Leonard said.

Twin Falls Police Cpl. Danny L. Crafton stopped Gray for speeding Jan. 2 and later charged him with possession of a controlled substance when an alleged marijuana cigarette but fell from his wallet.

Gray subsequently pleaded not guilty to the charge and demanded to be tried before a six-member jury. At that time, he had not yet been sworn in as the county's chief law enforcement officer.

But Gray could not be removed from office except by his own resignation or through a recall election because the charge against him was a misdemeanor. Since then, substantial pre-trial publicity concerning the arrest was cited in a successful effort to move the case out of Twin Falls.

Fire destroys ex-warehouse, feed elevator

TWIN FALLS — A fire of undetermined origin Friday destroyed a renovated warehouse housing two businesses and topped the walls of a connected feed elevator. Despite a gentle rain falling on the first day of spring, suppression of the blaze at 122 Fourth Ave. S. was to continue until dawn, Twin Falls Battalion Fire Chief Phil Clough said about 11:15 p.m. six firemen would remain through the night and crews probably would be on duty this afternoon.

The fire was called in about 6 p.m. and firefighting efforts began winding down about 10:45 p.m. Crews were unable to enter the building because of smoke and flames swirling around in the basement. From outside, firemen on the ground welded axes in an attempt to let smoke out so they could see the flames. "From an aerial ladder, firemen sprayed water down on the one-story brick structure and up on the 85-foot-high elevator tower."

Twin Falls Fire Chief Bobby Bopp said several employees were in the building when the fire started. They escaped without injury, Bopp said his department's response included three trucks which were refueled during the night and at least 20 men.

The fire reportedly was first detected by a secretary at Idaho Restaurant Service, one of two firms in the building. Jerry deWaal, an employee at the restaurant supply firm, said secretary Janel Andrus became alarmed by sporadic power interruptions and the subsequent flying of sparks from electrical equipment in the office.

Also destroyed were offices, furnishings and supplies of the Design Center owned by Buddy Wadsworth, Bopp said. The fire chief said the firm principally sells cabinets. A large supply of cabinets and paint was stored in the building, Bopp said. Onlookers lined sidewalks and businesses near the fire, some taking shelter in The Alley, a cafe and bar directly across the street. At 9:40 p.m., however, cashier Opal Billings said she was locking the doors for the night and ordered customers out for their own safety. Shortly before, a power outage apparently related to the fire-darkened the business for about three minutes.

Water pumped through 12 lines of fire hose did little to suppress the fire in its early stages, according to Bopp. He said smoke was too thick and the blaze too unpredictable for firemen to enter the building.

Firemen also sprayed water through ground-level windows of the single-story building. Clough said existence of only one basement entrance complicated firefighting efforts. He added there was considerable oil near that entrance.

"We just haven't been able to get at it," Bopp said. The fire some 24 hours after his crews arrived on the scene. "The way the fire's going around in that basement, there's just no way." The fire chief said problems were severely intensified by the structure's lack of a sprinkler system.

"We're out of business," said Larry Andrus, owner of Idaho Restaurant Service, told two of his employees gathered in The Alley cafe as the fire raged.

"But I've got some good troops," Andrus said emotionally. "We'll put her back together."

All his office contents, including a computer, were destroyed.

Legislature overrides Evans' veto of school appropriation

BOISE (UPI) — Despite arguments more money was available and property taxes would rise, the Idaho Senate Friday joined the House in overriding Gov. John Evans' veto of the $195 million public schools appropriation. Senators voted 26-9 to override the veto, which Evans rejected because he said there needed to be at least another $5 million pumped into the measure. Thursday, the House had voted 46-23 to override the veto.

Senators delayed action until at least Monday, on the veto of a bill calling for bipartisan representation on the Pacific Northwest Power Council. Sen. Vern K. Brassey of Boise was the lone Republican to break the majority ranks and join Democrats supporting the governor's action. He said he had to vote his "conscience." The three Democrats who joined Republicans in voting for the override were Senate Minority Leader Ron Twillegar, Boise, Assistant Senate Leader Kermit Kiebert, Hope, and Sen. Ron Belteispacher, Grangeville. Supporters for more public school money rejected arguments that sufficient revenue was not forthcoming to the state's general fund and said the result of the veto would force school districts throughout the state to hold override elections, which would raise property taxes. Evans said he was "obviously disappointed" by the override. He added, however, "the Senate Democrats have been using their own strategy in these closing days of the session and I respect their right to vote their individual conscience." He said his intentions were to have the budget reopened to "reexamine the resources available in an estimated $8 million to $14 million surplus that will be there for possible school funding." Senate Majority Leader James Risch, R-Boise, debated in favor of the override, saying he was certain every member of the Senate was as "frustrated" as the governor that there was no additional money for public schools. But Risch said the money was not there and budgets would have to be reopened to find any more funding.

Although Twillegar voted to override, he argued in favor of the action by the governor. He said he agreed on the need for more money, but said he was afraid that many programs, such as kindergartens, would go down the drain if the veto was not overridden. He said his veto was not a repudiation of Evans because he felt what the governor did was the right thing to do "for the teachers."

Twillegar said his decision to override was with "reluctance" and after a "lot of self-searching and soul-searching." Explaining his reason for voting for the override, Kiebert said the Legislature couldn't afford to gamble by sustaining the governor's action. Sen. Chic Bilyeu, D-Pocatello, contended that "underfunding at $195 million would cause a tremendous exodus of school personnel, especially in the teaching ranks." He said education was not like agriculture, which could bounce back after a bad year. If you shortchange the school districts for one year, he said, "you pay for many, many years."

House panel restores some funds cut earlier

BOISE (UPI) — The House Appropriations Committee voted today to restore about $2.5 million to several programs that had been trimmed or eliminated by the Joint Finance Appropriations Committee. Voting on several motions, the House panel allocated money to partially maintain public television; restore some air quality monitoring; completely restore the eliminated state meat inspection program; and give higher education another $1.7 million. The measures will go before the full House next week. Most of the money would be siphoned from the state Water Pollution Control Account, which already has been tapped for about $6 million. The committee voted 6-4 to appropriate an additional $1.7 million to the state Education Board for "no strings attached" use anywhere in higher education. Another $300,000 was designated for public television, which received no state-general-fund money from the joint committee's original appropriation. Higher education originally got $67 million from JFAC, an amount rapped as inadequate by institution administrators. Attempts to amend that bill failed in the House earlier this week. Also endorsed, 7-3, was $100,000 for some air quality monitoring. Also, it would partially restore a program that had been wiped out by the House-Senate committee before it split up several days ago. The committee first voted to allocate $500 to retain inspections of mobile butchers. The money would come from a general-fund refund received from the American Falls Dam project. Later, however, a motion to allocate another $500,000 to the meat inspection program was approved 5-4.

Pullout planned Pentagon to withdraw El Salvador advisers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon said Friday it plans to withdraw 18 of the 54 U.S. military advisers in El Salvador by July. Military sources also said most of the remaining advisers will be out by September. The plan will hold until the situation in El Salvador shifts dramatically in favor of the leftist guerrillas because it should take six months or less "to get the job done," training government troops to fight the insurgents, one source said. Sources told United Press International the Pentagon does not plan to rotate the advisers in El Salvador, but rather to terminate their assignments by September. However, they said rotation is an option that could be exercised if the situation warranted. President Reagan was asked Friday night if he planned to withdraw U.S. forces from El Salvador. "I can't answer that; I don't think we are," Reagan told reporters as he left a Washington hotel after addressing the Conservative Political Action Convention. A Pentagon spokesman had confirmed earlier, however, that "18 will be out by July," but said, "We cannot now specify a timetable for doing so." "Our intention is to return as soon as possible to the situation existing before January, when most training of the El Salvadoran military was given in the United States or U.S. schools in Panama," he said. The Pentagon spokesman did not characterize the pullback as a withdrawal and said it was "just small groups and individuals going back where they came from when their separate jobs are done." U.S. officials have stressed that the advisers have been ordered to steer clear of combat and are there only to train government troops in an effort to counter what the administration has identified as a flow of arms from the Soviet Union and Cuba to an estimated 5,000 guerrillas. The peak of 54 U.S. advisers in the troubled Central American country was reached earlier this month when the Pentagon dispatched Army and Navy personnel to train Salvadoran troops. Among the first 18 to leave will be six Navy advisers sent to train 150 Salvadoran sailors manning 11 British and U.S.-built river patrol craft, which the sources described as being in fair condition but in need of maintenance. Arms have been sent across the gulf from Nicaragua to El Salvador, and the Salvadoran navy's role is to conduct surveillance of the coast and intercept weapons shipments, sources have said.

Prosecutor

The filing of Gray's resignation on his pending trial in 5th District Magistrate Court in Cassia County is still unknown. The trial is scheduled for April 15 in Burley.
Gray's lawyer, Greg Fuller of Jerome, said the resignation was not part of a plea negotiation.
"We intend to continue maintaining Mr. Gray's innocence and certainly want it to be understood that in no way is Mr. Gray's decision to resign part of a plea bargain or any other agreement with the prosecution," Fuller said. "Rather, we hope that Tom Gray's resignation will be looked upon as the unselfish and correct choice of an elected official in the best interests of the people whom he serves."
Judge Nathan Higer, who is hearing the April trial, and Special Prosecutor Monte Carlson were unavailable for comment. However, a written statement prepared Thursday, Carlson indicated he would view the case in a different light.

"The arrest and pending marijuana charge against Tom Gray has seriously weakened his effectiveness as our prosecuting attorney. My role as Special Prosecutor was to seek justice. I view his resignation as a positive step toward achieving justice and a chance to once again strengthen the Twin Falls law enforcement system," Carlson's statement reads. "Now that Tom Gray is a citizen and no longer the County Prosecutor, I will handle his case as any other case involving a relatively small amount of marijuana."
Carlson's law partner, Lloyd Webb, said he understood Carlson's position neither, meant a willingness to engage in plea negotiations nor an intent to drop his opposition to Fuller's request for the following.

"A second change of venue, Fuller has maintained Burley was too close to Twin Falls and subject to the same pre-trial publicity which led to transferring the case in the first place."
"Suppressing of evidence in the case generated by Twin Falls police from the trial, Fuller made the request on the grounds that Gray's constitutional rights had been violated when the police officer seized this alleged marijuana cigarette butt."
"Keeping Gray's profession from the jury, Fuller argued a jury could hold Gray to a higher standard if they knew he was a county prosecutor."
Higer is set to render a decision on those requests next week.
But Carlson indicated a willingness to agree to a continuation in the case, thereby allowing publicity to die down before going to trial, Webb said.

Franklin suspected in Jordan shooting

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Convicted sniper Joseph Paul Franklin will be investigated in connection with the May 1980 shooting of civil rights leader Vernon Jordan, the new head of the FBI Indianapolis bureau said Friday.
"The fact that he (Franklin) is not in this jurisdiction does not matter,"

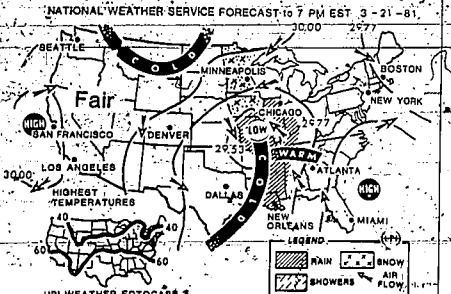

John C. McGinley, 44, the new special agent in charge, told a news conference. "We don't require his presence at this time."
McGinley would not say whether Franklin was the prime suspect in the sniper shooting of Jordan.
"We have some pretty strong suspects in the case," he said.

Steve McVey, public relations spokesman, said the bureau would be foolish not to investigate Franklin, even if there was no hard evidence against him.
"Here's a guy that's been around the country shooting people, especially mixed couples, so we'd be foolish if we didn't look at him pretty strongly," McVey said.

Synopsis:
Moist subtropical air produced rain and snow over southern Idaho and the Intermountain area Friday, with additional moisture likely today.
However, as the storm moves eastward, conditions will gradually improve with partial clearing anticipated by Sunday.
Heaviest precipitation totals were reported across southwestern Idaho, with Boise receiving more than 75 inch of moisture. Snow accumulations exceeded 6 inches in mountainous areas near Boise and at higher elevations across the southern part of the state. Rain fell in the valley areas and toward northern Idaho but amounts varied widely.

Temperatures were generally mild, with the warmest 60 at Coeur d'Alene, and afternoon readings ranging down to the 30s in southeastern Idaho. Galena's 17 was the coldest.
Elsewhere in the nation, the warmest temperature was 85 at Presidio, Texas, and the coldest was 7 at Cuthank, Mont.

The extended forecast for southern Idaho calls for scattered showers of rain in the valleys and snow in the mountains Monday, becoming fair and dry by Wednesday. Temperatures will range from highs of 45 to 55 to lows in the 20s.

2% tourist tax bill leaves committee, nears Senate vote

BOISE (UPI) — Rejecting a motion to hold in committee a bill allowing a 2 percent motel and hotel room tax to promote Idaho tourism, the Senate Local Government and Taxation committee unanimously voted it to the floor Friday without recommendation.

The bill previously had passed the House. Sen. John Peavey, D-Carey, moved that the bill be held, arguing he was afraid it would have an adverse effect on small motel operators.

"It will cost many smaller motel operators dollars because it will come right out of their own pocket," Peavey said.

He also said he thought there would be money available to the Division of Economic and Community Affairs. The Joint Finance-Appropriation Committee refused to fund any monies to the division for fiscal year 1982.

Peavey said the bill didn't feel the decline in tourism was because of a lack of promotion, but the rising costs of travel and gasoline. He said the travel industry would depend on people living close by "so we will be taking our own people."

The Carey Democrat said if DECA doesn't die, he would be willing to take another look at the bill.

His motion died 3-6. Proponents of the measure said the tax would benefit all of Idaho, not just the innkeepers. They said it would allow for a comprehensive plan to "sell Idaho to everyone."

Without advertising and promotion, Vickie Patterson of the Idaho Retailers Association, said "our own people can't exist at all."

He said to deny "a fair share of the market" is a sentence. "She said failure to pass the bill would result in a loss of jobs, an economic setback and a loss of money to the state's general fund."

The Idaho Legislature decided Friday not to make land use planning optional on a county by county basis

Land use bill fails in House

BOISE (UPI) — A measure to modify the 1975 Land Use Planning Act failed 23-46 in the Idaho House today, apparently because it contained features disliked by legislators on both sides of the controversial issue.

The bill originally was proposed by Gov. John Evans to make the state act more acceptable or the local level.

But the House, acting on a recommendation by its Local Government Committee, recently attached an amendment to Evans' bill to make local compliance with the state law voluntary rather than mandatory.

As a result, both backers and opponents of land-use planning complained about the revised bill during about an hour of debate on the House floor.

Evans, meanwhile, was expected to veto his own bill if it were to reach his desk as amended.

After the bill was killed, Reps. Lyman Winchester, R-Kuna, and Cameron Fuller, R-Post Falls, tried to pull out of the State Affairs Committee a bill to totally repeal the act, but their effort was ruled out of order and it fizzled.

chester, R-Kuna, and Cameron Fuller, R-Post Falls, tried to pull out of the State Affairs Committee a bill to totally repeal the act, but the House voted 38-22 to retain the bill in the committee.

Rep. Jim Higgins, R-New Meadows, who engineered inclusion of the county-option voluntary compliance provision, boosted the act as a vehicle for making the act more flexible, therefore eliminating some of the controversy the law has generated in the past six years.

"This is not an anti-planning bill," Higgins said. He said the option of a county to get out of land use planning could remove instances of "a group in the minority, either a no-growth group, a development group, or any group," from dictating to the majority.

Higgins received support from Rep. James Stotcheff, D-Sandpoint, who said the voluntary provision would allow a county not suited to land-use planning to ignore the state law.

But for a variety of reasons, several other House members opposed the bill. "We do not need this amendment," said Rep.

Marguerite McLaughlin, D-Orofino. "It would just cause more chaos in local government."

Winchester said the bill "would compound the problems, because it would make land-use planning much more sour to the palates of the people who have problems with planning and zoning."

He charged Evans' proposed amendments would weaken the power of rural residents to fend off land requirements proposed by city dwellers.

Winchester characterized the bill as "11 pages of gobbledegook—coming-down-here—from-the-planners to be used against the people who pay the taxes."

Rep. Peggy Bunting, R-Boise, acknowledging the bill was not well-liked by anyone, said it nevertheless "could make things a little easier for people on both sides."

She told Winchester's faction that the bill would allow amendment of local planning regulations more frequently and "if you do nothing you will have to live with it the way it is now."

Mrs. Bunting, Local Government Committee chairman, urged planning opponents to "start the journey of 1,000 miles with a first step."

Barker bills School levy equalization bill would avoid losses by some BOISE — A bill was introduced in the Idaho Senate Friday to head off opposition to partial equalization of public school funding.

Sponsored by Sen. John Barker, R-Buhl, the measure would guarantee that certain school districts will receive the same basic funding in 1981-82 as they did in 1980-81.

Barker said the bill affects about six major school districts, including Boise and Lewiston, and would reduce state-wide funding for public schools by $600,000 to $700,000 in 1981-82.

That is the amount those districts would have lost in state funds under a provision of this year's 1-percent bill, House Bill 389, being considered in the Senate. The loss would be shifted to property taxes.

Barker said his bill would solve those districts' problem and prevent an attempt to amend HB389.

In the Magic Valley, the bill would apply to the following school districts: Filer, Hansen, Castleford, Murtaugh, Dietrich, Valley, Bliss and Camas County.

Barker's measure applies to 1,000 districts which levied at least 25 hundredths of 1 percent of market value in local property taxes in their home counties in 1980-81. Such districts would receive at least the same amount of funding in 1982 per pupil from the educational support program.

HB389 would implement a partial equalization of local property taxes for the public schools, which have been frozen at different levels under the 1-percent freeze.

Bill boosting DWR funding introduced for Senate debate

BOISE — A bill to add $500,000 to the 1981-82 budget of the Idaho Department of Water Resources was introduced in the Senate Friday.

Sponsored by Sen. John Barker, R-Buhl, the appropriation would be in addition to the $2.6 million general fund budget approved by the Senate Thursday.

Under the original appropriation, the department's appropriation would be reduced by $600,000 below the current fiscal year's.

Barker's proposal was sent to the Senate Finance Committee where Chairman David Little, R-Emmett, has pledged not to object.

The additional funds would restore administrative, engineering and resource analysis and field staff and would restore enforcement of the state channel alteration and dam safety programs.

"The bill by Barker would take funds from a loan repayment by the American Falls Reservoir District to the state.

Twin Falls Commissioners will get pay raise under bill

BOISE — A bill setting the salaries of county commissioners in Idaho was introduced in the House of Representatives Friday.

The amendment would allow the salaries of Twin Falls County commissioners to rise from $14,600 to $15,600.

In a letter to Rep. T.W. Tom, Slivers, R-Twin Falls, commission Chairman Ann Cover said "there was no adverse public comment during a budget hearing last year.

would not have allowed the $1,000 increase.

The bill originally would have granted an increase of 6.8 percent, which would have raised the Twin Falls commissioners' salaries to $15,000.

Cover stated the county has budgeted for the increase and that there was no adverse public comment during a budget hearing last year.

Medicaid reform bill passes

BOISE (UPI) — Two days after failure of a fierce drive to amend it, a much-heralded Medicaid reform bill sailed through the Idaho House 61-1 Friday on its way to Gov. John Evans.

The bill, which Evans is expected to sign into law, would limit reimbursement of nursing-home care of about 3,000 Idahoans in an effort to trim a deficit condition that has been plaguing the state Medicaid program for many months.

The lower chamber approved the Senate-authored bill without debate, in contrast to a two-hour hearing the bill got in the House Health and Welfare Committee Wednesday night.

Several legislators and officials of the state Health and Welfare Department have been working on the bill for nearly a year.

Hearing set on House 1% amendments

BOISE (UPI) — A Senate committee chairman says House legislation to amend the 1 percent law will undergo a full public hearing — and possibly be amended — in the Legislature's upper chamber.

Local Government and Taxation Committee Chairman Dane Watkins, R-Idaho Falls, said he has scheduled a hearing on the property-tax proposal for Monday afternoon.

"We want to allow everyone a chance to speak," he said. "We want as much input as possible. It's a major proposal."

Watkins said he would reserve his opinion on the merits of the House-passed bill until after the hearing, but indicated he believed the lower chamber may have made a mistake by addressing several major issues in one bill.

"The House has spent 60 days with this bill, and there are four or five major subjects in it. We should be careful with what we're doing."

Watkins, in his first year as chairman of the committee, said he had heard "some talk" about senators proposing amendments to the bill.

The House's first bill on the 1 percent issue this year was recalled to include an amendment suggested by the property tax altogether in the House bill is made law.

This group has some support in high places in the Senate, including Senate President Pro Tem Reed Budge, R-Soda Springs, who has resisted repeated House overtures to fully participate in the drafting of 1 percent amendments.

Budge—and some other senators opposed any amendments to the 1 percent measure this year.

Opponents of the House bill last week called it an emasculation of the original people-passed law, while the bill's sponsors said all it did was make the law workable without destroying local governments.

House approves anti-racketeering bill

BOISE (UPI) — Without discussion the House approved 67-0 and submitted to the Senate Friday an anti-racketeering bill.

The proposal, drafted by the state Law Enforcement Department, was designed to give lawmen and prosecutors legal backing to tackle mob-style crime in Idaho.

The measure defines racketeering activities, specifically targeting those who "launder" money, and outlines various penalties for violating the proposed anti-racketeering act.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In his most political speech since taking office, President Reagan Friday night pledged to stand "shoulder-to-shoulder" with his fellow conservatives and fight to ban abortion and return prayer to the classroom.

Rebellion bill passes in House

BOISE (UPI) — The Sagebrush Rebellion advanced in the Idaho Legislature Friday with House passage of a bill claiming state control of 12 million unappropriated acres now administered by the Bureau of Land Management.

Rep. John Brooks, R-Cooding, said the bill would couple with a House resolution passed Thursday that would amend the Idaho Constitution.

If the Senate and Idaho electorate approved the amendment to remove a clause in which the state disclaims title to all unappropriated land, the bill, if it also became law, would pave the way for the state to gain control of the Brooks said.

"It's time that we have the land back that we have lost the last several hundred years," Brooks said in opening debate on the bill, which he called one of the "cleanest" Sagebrush Rebellion bills to circulate in a Western legislature.

The bill, however, underwent severe criticism from legislators in both political parties.

Rep. C.A. "Skip" Smyser, R-Parma, said he wanted to amend the bill to ensure that the state, once it gained control of the federal land, would not be able to sell large tracts to foreigners.

He said language was needed to restrict sale procedures so "some large oil sheiks couldn't come in and buy up the state of Idaho."

He argued that the bill was deficient in that it was too closely modeled after Nevada Sagebrush Rebellion legislation. He said what applied in Nevada didn't apply to Idaho and that Idaho would have a difficult time winning a Supreme Court battle for control of the land without a bill better tailored to the state.

"If it's a political gesture, fine, but if you're going into it to win, you'd better think about it," Smyser said.

Rep. Marguerite McLaughlin, D-Cresida, complained that it would be foolish to push for state control of the land when the Legislature was showing no inclination to adequately fund the state Lands Department.

GOP senators attack cuts affecting elderly

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republican senators forcefully told a Department of Health and Human Services official Friday the agency has failed to follow Congress' orders to help poor elderly people keep their homes warm.

David B. Swoap, undersecretary of health and human services, ran into Republican wrath over the effect of the administration's proposed budget cuts on the aged.

At a hearing of the Senate Select Committee on Aging, Chairman John Heinz, R-Pa., told Swoap the administration's proposal to eliminate the Social Security minimum benefit of $12 a month would leave 200,000 people without any aid — mostly women aged 62 to 65.

Swoap replied the women could draw from other federal programs — such as food stamps — to help meet their needs. He said 3 million people now receive the minimum benefit, but most of them can switch to Supplemental Security Income.

The sharpest clash of the morning took place between Swoap on the one hand and Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., and David Durenberger, R-Minn., on the other.

Swoap said 40 percent of people receiving supplemental energy payments are elderly. Percy asked why HHS has done nothing to follow through on Congress' directive to help the aged put on storm windows, screens and other energy-savers.

Swoap said the administration believes it is "good business to let those closest to the problem at hand deal with it, and under the administration's proposed block grant program, states would be permitted" to administer weatherization projects.

"It's not necessarily so that those closest to the problem are best able to deal with it," Percy said, rejecting a traditional Republican point of view.

Percy said both federal and local officials — like those back home in Cook County, Ill. — love to see checks going to people but do little or nothing to help solve their problems.

"I've lived in Cook County all my life," Percy said. "I've seen how the machine operates out there (and they are) a pretty callous bunch of guys."

coalition of the major political groups on the right that has for eight years been battling big government, big taxes and big spending.

"Now obviously we are not going to be able to accomplish all this at once," Reagan said, adding that "the wrongs done over several decades cannot be corrected instantly."

But he warned that the conservative "renaissance" will not be served "by those who engage in political claptrap or false promises."

"We must remove government's smothering hand from where it does harm; we must seek to revitalize the proper functions of government," Reagan said. "But we do these things to solve — again — the energy and ingenuity of the American people."

"Follow citizens, fellow conservatives; our time is now, our moment has arrived," said Reagan.

"We stand together — shoulder to shoulder in the thickest of the fight. If we carry the day and turn the tide we can hope that as long as men speak of freedom and those who have protected it, they will remember us and say: here were the brave, and here their place of honor."

Vice President George Bush, Budget director David Stockman and Labor Secretary Raymond Donovan addressed the convention earlier. They told the convention what they wanted to hear.

All said the conservative revolution is under way and appealed for unyielding pressure from the right to force it through a partially unconvicted Congress.

Bush, something of a moderate anathema to conservatives until he joined the Reagan team, told cheering delegates the president will not be "deferred or derailed" in his efforts to install a new policy.

House votes limit on use of local fees

BOISE (UPI) — The Idaho House struck a blow Friday against local government power to charge fees to replace revenue lost under the 1 percent property-tax limitation.

The chamber voted 51-18 to prohibit taxing units from charging user fees above the amount necessary to cover the actual cost of the particular service provided.

The bill, an amended version of a bill killed by the House two weeks ago, now heads for the Senate.

Rep. T. W. Silvers, R-Twin Falls, led the charge against what he said were instances of local governments levying excessive user fees.

Silvers said the Legislature made a mistake last year when it clarified the fee-charging power, thereby allowing local governments to "go merry" along with charging fees for all kinds of capital improvements.

He said local governments should be required to finance capital improvements through auditorium and local improvement districts, and not through user fees.

Silvers said the bill passed last year was a "real threat" because many Idaho cities were watching how far Boise-area officials could get with a growth-management fee program.

The program requires developers to pay a fee into an escrow account to be used for capital improvements such as fire stations to defray the impact of growth on local governments.

Marines give Rosenthal high tribute

TREASURE ISLAND, Calif. (UPI) — There have been a lot more than 1,000 words spilled over photographer Joe Rosenthal's picture of the U.S. Marines raising the American flag on Iwo Jima's Mount Suribachi during World War II.

And there were thousands more words spilled Thursday night at a Marine Corps facility on Treasure Island as Rosenthal, now 63 years old, ended a 51-year career by retiring from the San Francisco Chronicle.

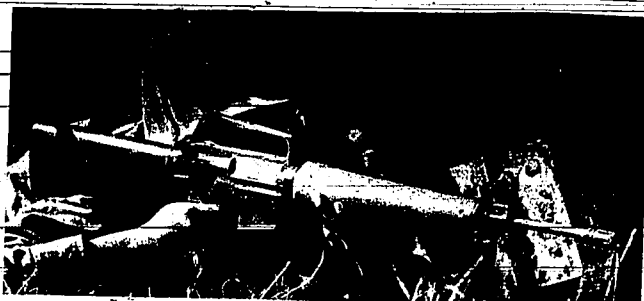

Many of the words were drowned out by the 350 well-wishers who showed up to pay their respects to the pixyish man who had snatched the most reproduced photograph of all time.

But the occasion was marked by more than words. There was a full Marine color guard and band. There were commendations, resolutions, plaques, scrolls and a proclamation from the mayor that it was officially "Rosenthal Day" in San Francisco.

But mostly it was people — friends from all walks of life who came to shake the hand of the unassuming man who had stirred a nation at war with one snap of his Speed Graphic camera, the man who was unspooled by decades of adulation as his famous photograph was reproduced on stamps, in bronze, in glass, in wood and in every other conceivable material.

The Marine Corps acknowledged Rosenthal's picture contributed much to its continued existence after World War II.

Rosenthal, who took his famous picture in February, 1945, as a combat correspondent with the Marines, spent more at home during the retirement ceremonies with two Marine escorts dressed in World War II combat gear and assigned as Rosenthal's escort for the occasion.

A female recruit peers over an obstacle course log with her M-16 at ready

Marines give women first combat weapons training

By WILLIAM STRACENER
United Press International

PARRIS ISLAND, S.C. — Women recruits crawled under fences, rappelled from a 46-foot tower and were told to "Get your face into the dirt," by a Marine Corps drill instructor barking orders across an obstacle course.

It was the first time ever that female Marines were put through defensive combat training. Officials emphasized Thursday that it was a familiarization course only and that no offensive moves such as attack and destroy tactics were being taught.

The women, who were also scheduled to receive training in field fortification and defensive positions, have been learning how to fire their rifles, throw a live grenade and live in the field under combat conditions.

"You're a good target as long as you stand there," the drill instructor said moments later when one of the 120 young women reared up to a log over a 5-foot-wide trench filled with water and heels.

Male recruits are subjected to an obstacle course that is three times longer and includes dynamic exploding in nearby bunkers and simulated machine-gun fire over their heads, a drill instructor said.

The running of the 100-yard defensive movements course, which also involved belly crawling under fences, high stepping over and around barbed wire and lunging over a 4-foot wall, topped a day that also included rappelling off a 46-foot tower — apparently the most fearful task of the day.

"I'm scared, ma'am," a cautious recruit told her instructor.

"Just lean back like you are falling into your rack," came the response.

None of the recruits were forced to participate in the live grenades, a drill instructor said.

"I am frightened of ammunition," said Pvt. Roberta Sullivan, 21, of El Paso, Texas. "I was afraid it would explode in my hand."

But afterward she said she believed she could throw one in a life-or-death combat situation.

Weinberger hopes SALT II won't be ratified

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger said Friday he opposed the SALT II treaty and hopes it never will be ratified.

Weinberger's comments came during the third day of hearings before the House Budget Committee on military appropriations.

The agreement was shelved after the Soviets invaded Afghanistan on Dec. 27, 1979, and chances for its revival are virtually nil.

"The SALT II treaty gave the Soviets an advantage which was quite unacceptable to us and any assumptions that we would have achieved any reductions in Soviet strategic power are misleading," Weinberger said.

Such assumptions, he said, "would just lull us into a false sense of security."

In a prepared statement, Weinberger said the administration "is not abandoning hope for arms control, but we are abandoning unwarranted illusions. We must work hard now to design a realistic approach to the limitation of armaments."

The secretary appeared before the committee with Air Force Gen. David Jones, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, on behalf of the administration's $226.3 billion defense budget for fiscal 1982.

Weinberger also said he believes Soviet propaganda has helped fuel the growing Western European concern about deployment of the neutron warhead.

"I don't fully understand the concerns expressed about this weapon," Weinberger told the House Budget Committee.

But he said they may have arisen in part because the Soviets have aimed the main thrust of their propaganda efforts in West Europe against deployment of the U.S. made enhanced radiation or neutron warhead.

Weinberger assured the committee any decision to deploy the neutron warhead in Europe would be undertaken only after full consultation and agreement with the NATO allies.

The Reagan administration, he said, will not "mislead" the Europeans on this issue as the Carter administration did "when, for some presumed domestic advantage, it reversed its decision" to deploy the weapon.

"This left deep wounds which will be difficult to overcome," Weinberger said.

In answer to questions, Weinberger reiterated his belief that tax benefits for military personnel would help their financial situation and enhance the attractiveness of military service and their standing in the community.

Weinberger reaffirmed that — in line with President Reagan's thinking — the military draft should not be revived unless absolutely necessary.

"I would like to avoid it as long as possible," he said. "But if we don't get enough people, I would not hesitate to go to him (President Reagan) ... and ask him for some kind of draft."

"I hope that day won't come."

The issue of tax benefits for military personnel was raised by Rep. Bobbi Fiedler, R-Calif., who introduced a legislation Thursday to exclude from income tax the first $1,000 per month earned by any member of the armed services.

Florida mercenaries arrested

INVERNESS, Fla. (UPI) — A heavily armed band of mercenaries, dressed in camouflage fatigues with their faces smudged with black, were jailed Friday following their arrest at Florida ranch where they had set up a jungle warfare training camp.

Citrus County Sheriff Charles Dean, who took the 13-man unit into custody after complaints from the rancher, would say only the men had contracted with an unnamed individual to be trained in "jungle warfare and survival."

He would not say where they were planned to use their training.

The men, none of whom were identified, were charged with felony trespassing. All spoke English but two were identified as Latin foreign nationals.

Marilyn Maye to benefit battered wives

By United Press International

SURVIVING
Singer Marilyn Maye says her performance at a benefit for victims of domestic violence will have special meaning because she once was a battered wife. When the Dallas Association of Young Lawyers asked Ms. Maye to perform at a concert Sunday, no one knew about her relationship with her ex-husband. "Finally I decided to come out of the closet," she said. "You see, I was the victim of that kind of violence. I was a battered wife. I suffered through it for eight terrible years. I do a song in my act — 'I Will Survive.' It will have special meaning in this show." Ms. Maye, who has appeared on the "Tonight Show" 74 times, said the abuse came during the high point of her career. "I had hit records. The world should have been at my feet," she said. "Who would believe what was happening?"

JOAN'S HANGUP

Actress Joan Fontaine, appearing this week in "Janus" at a Clarksville, Ind., dinner theater near Louisville, Ky., said she was awakened at 2 a.m. by a caller who offered to help in any way possible to make her stay in the Louisville area more enjoyable. In a curtain-call speech, Miss Fontaine said that she was exhausted in the wee hours and hung up on the caller. So Louisville Mayor William B.

Stansbury appeared at the next day's rehearsal and offered her the key to the city. "He's got the key to my heart," she said. But the key to the city apparently wasn't enough to make her stay completely enjoyable: one reviewer who panned the romantic comedy called "Janus" the best joke of the evening."

Noted Hollywood photographer George Hurryall is opening up two new studios March 23, one in New York and the other in Beverly Hills. So what better way to celebrate the occasion than to unveil a list of 50 "fabulous faces" seen on the silver screen in the last 50 years. The list starts with Marlene Dietrich (1931) and ends with Brooke Shields (1980). Others along the way are Greta Garbo (1937), Gene Tierney (1945), Ava Gardner 1953, Grace Kelly (1955), Gina Lollobrigida (1964), and Diahann Carroll (1974). Who's arguing?

ROCK 'EM, SOCK 'EM

Elton John is unhappy — $11.3 million worth. The British rock star says MCA Records reneged on an album contract and now they must pay. A breach of contract suit filed in Los Angeles claims MCA signed an $8 million contract with Sackville Productions to distribute six of Elton's albums. Sackville said it delivered five albums but that MCA rejected the sixth, claiming three of the songs had previously been released as singles.

Jean Harris sentenced to 15 years in prison

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (UPI) — Jean Harris, defiantly proclaiming her innocence, was sentenced Friday to a minimum 15 years to life in prison for murdering "Scarsdale Diet" doctor Herman Tarnower in a jealous rage over his affair with a younger woman.

Mrs. Harris, 57-year-old school headmistress, will be 72 years-old before she is eligible for release.

"I'd like to say I didn't murder Dr. Tarnower," she said, scowling at the judge. "I never meant to cause him any ill."

Mrs. Harris said before she was sentenced by Judge Russell Leggett, "No one in the world feels that loss as much as I do. I'm not guilty, your honor."

For you and Mr. prosecutor

George "Blon" to arrange my life so that I spend it in a cage is a travesty of justice."

Mrs. Harris charged the jury had forced her to prove her innocence instead of looking to the prosecution to prove her guilt.

As she sat down, some spectators applauded. "The sentence I impose is the sentence prescribed by the law," said Leggett, who presided over the sensational 64-day trial. He said the jury "gave you all the benefits of the doubt. I wish that the events of March 10 had never taken place and that you had never left Virginia."

Her attorney, Joel Aurnou, immediately announced an appeal was being filed with the Appellate Division of state Supreme Court.

State animal idea 'smells'?

CHICAGO (UPI) — Bill Stanton has been skunked again in his campaign to make the bushy-tailed stinkers the Illinois state animal.

A Cook County Circuit Court judge refused to overturn the results of an election among 2.8-million school children which made the white-tailed deer the official state animal.

Stanton, 49, a Chicago electrical contractor, filed suit on behalf of the skunk, challenging the results on grounds the election was improperly conducted.

Judge Joseph Schneider said he was sympathetic with Stanton's position but he could not order a new election because neither time nor money was available.

Stanton, who has championed the cause of skunks since one nested in his garage in 1977, noted less than 700,000 school children voted last November and many youngsters had no knowledge the balloting was going on.

"Even the mouse in your house" could have won if the voting had been properly publicized and administered, he said.

Judge refuses to dismiss Enquirer lawsuit

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — A judge Friday refused to dismiss Carol Burnett's libel suit against the National Enquirer, but removed the publisher's editor-in-chief, publisher and the distributing company as defendants in the action.

Testimony in the case ended abruptly Thursday. Jurors, who were given Friday off, are scheduled to begin deliberations following final arguments on Monday.

Attorneys met Los Angeles Superior Court Judge Peter Smith Friday to discuss jury instructions and to argue motions, including the Enquirer's bid to dismiss the action involving a gossip item suggesting Miss Burnett was drunk and disorderly in an exclusive Washington restaurant.

Smith let the suit against the Enquirer stand but dismissed actions against Iain Calder, the Enquirer's editor; Steve Tinney, whose name appeared above the item published five years ago; and ARA Services, also known as Sunset Press, which distributes the Enquirer.

Although the action officially asked for $10 million in general and punitive damages, Miss Burnett's attorney, E.D. Bronson, said Friday he would probably ask the jury to settle for a lesser amount.

Defense attorney William Masterson said he was not surprised by the judge's ruling, which left the publisher himself as the only party liable for damages.

Both attorneys in the case suggested that the judge's ruling was favorable to their side.

Masterson ended his case abruptly Thursday without calling a single witness on the tabloid's behalf. He said he was satisfied with the information he had elicited during cross-examination of Miss Burnett's witnesses.

The item in dispute claimed that Miss Burnett was "bolsterous" during a dinner at the Rive Gauche restaurant in 1976, said she got into a loud argument with former Secretary of State Kissinger, spilled wine on another diner and "trampled around" the restaurant, sharing deserts with other patrons.

Miss Burnett and more than a dozen witnesses, including other diners, denied all the accusations, insisting that the comedian had behaved properly and gave no indication she was intoxicated.

The entertainer said the implication she was drunk caused her special grief because both her parents had suffered from alcoholism. The Enquirer's attorney defended the article as a "farical" account

Administration outlines new, tough anti-communist policy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration Friday took a series of steps outlining a new and tougher policy toward Africa aimed at building resistance to communist incursions on the continent.

In some of the changes from Carter administration policy, officials announced the United States will use humanitarian aid as a tool of diplomacy, will seek a freer hand to give military help to friendly forces, and may open up better communications with anti-communist forces throughout the continent.

One key member of Congress predicted "vigorous opposition" to the policy changes.

As part of the steps, the administration suspended aid shipments of more than $3 million worth of wheat, grain and rice to Mozambique, which is among the world's poorest nations, in apparent retaliation for the expulsion of four American diplomats accused of espionage.

"Food aid was temporarily suspended, pending a review of our relations," said State Department spokesman William Byrd. "I think you can draw your own conclusions. When we are confronted with an incident such as the recent past, the entire bilateral relationship comes under review."

The State Department and White House also announced the administration will seek the authority of the president in conducting foreign policy.

The request does not necessarily indicate any future action in the African country, spokesmen said. That decision has not yet been made, he said. "But it is under study."

State Department officials said it is likely that officials will see Jonas Savimbi, leader of the anti-government Unita force in Angola, when he arrives in Washington next week on a private visit.

Dyess pointed out the United States does not recognize the existing regime in Angola, which Savimbi is fighting with South African military assistance. "We do not consider it to be a government," he said.

Gen. David Jones, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, told the House Budget Committee the 1976 congressional decision to block any U.S. military aid to anti-communist factions in Angola gave the Soviets and Cubans "a free ride" in Africa.

Use VC-like tunnel system Salvador rebels elude troops

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — Leftist guerrillas elude government forces through Viet Cong-style tunnels in the hills of northern El Salvador where battles have raged all week, a government military spokesman said Friday.

In Washington, Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger defended as "appropriate" U.S. military aid and advisers in response to requests for help from the government of El Salvador.

He also told the House Budget

Committee the United States had to make a stand in El Salvador "because it is very close to home... and is one of those Soviet threats to which we have not responded over the past eight years."

He assured the panel that U.S. advisers stayed in the country "willing to accept a negotiated settlement in El Salvador, but accused the United States of insisting on military confrontation."

Judicial authorities said 26 more bodies had been dumped around El Salvador Friday, and they were presumed victims of the political violence sweeping the Central American nation.

Six of the bodies, three of them headless, had been dumped into a common grave, discovered south of the right-wing stronghold of Santa Ana, 36 miles west of San Salvador, the authorities said.

They said the corpses bore signs of torture commonly associated with "slight deaths" in the area.

The complex network of tunnels, similar to those used by Communist North Vietnamese guerrillas against U.S. forces in Vietnam, allow guerrillas to strike Salvadoran troops by surprise and escape army artillery and strafing by government fighter jets, he said.

One network of underground burrows is widespread around Villa Victoria, 65 miles northeast of the capital in Cabanas province where heavy fighting has raged all week, the spokesman said.

Fighting also continued in the northern provinces of Chalatenango and Morazan near the Honduran border as government forces swept the region to flush out guerrillas. The spokesman said no casualty figures were available.

Guerrilla roadblocks cut off traffic to the Chalatenango town of Las Vuelitas, 50 miles north of San Salvador, halting shipments of food and other basic goods, he said.

Isabel Peron sentenced to 8 years

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UPI) — A federal judge handed down an eight-year sentence Friday to ousted president Isabel Peron, dashing hopes that she would be released and allowed to fly into exile, court sources said.

The sentence, on charges of misuse of government funds, also prohibits Mrs. Peron, who became the world's first woman president when she succeeded her husband Juan Peron — from holding public office in the future, court sources said.

Walesa admits latest crisis is worst

Protest strikes boost Polish fears of crisis

BYDGOSZCZ, Poland (UPI) — Protest strikes swept two northern industrial provinces Friday and the Solidarity labor union declared a nationwide strike alert as Poland plunged into an ominous new labor crisis in the middle of Soviet-led Warsaw Pact maneuvers.

The government's hopes for three months of labor peace were shattered when Solidarity threatened to bring the whole country to a standstill to protest the beatings of several union officials by police on Thursday.

Addressing an angry crowd in the north-central city of Bydgoszcz, Solidarity leader Lech Walesa said the beatings provoked a confrontation "more serious than in August," when strikes paralyzed Poland, toppled the government and gave birth to the first independent labor unions in the East Bloc.

Walesa said the beatings in Bydgoszcz represented "the first time Solidarity has been attacked in such a way" and warned the unions "cannot retreat" from the latest crisis, which unfolded as Warsaw Pact forces commenced full-scale maneuvers in and around Poland.

In Washington, the State Department warned Soviet military intervention in Poland would have "the gravest consequences" and said it was closely monitoring the Warsaw Pact exercises for signs of "large scale" troop movements in the area.

Cheered by thousands of workers who walked off their jobs for two hours, Walesa demanded the dismissal of "the bandits and sadists"

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — After five weeks of relative labor peace, an incident that would not be regarded as unusual — even in some Western countries has catapulted Poland into its worst crisis since the summer strikes and once again raised the specter of Soviet intervention.

Indeed, Poles seemed quick to agree with Solidarity union leader Lech Walesa that the present crisis is "much more serious" than the strikes of last August.

With Soviet-led Warsaw Pact forces on maneuvers in Poland, part of the fear now is that this latest crisis could come to an equally momentous conclusion of a different sort.

"Even when all the western media was going on last December about the threat of Soviet invasion, we still felt here, we were in the eye of the hurricane, the calm in the middle of the storm," said a woman resident of Warsaw. "But now everyone really feels it. People are popping tranquilizers like candy."

What on the face of it might look like an awfully small spark exploded into the present crisis when police in the north-central city of Bydgoszcz evicted about 20 union officials and town councilmen from a building where they were trying to stage a sit-in to support local farmers seeking recognition of their union.

In the process it became clear the police used excessive force, beating three officials so badly they required hospitalization.

Although the violence in no way approached the scale of the 1970 police-worker clashes in which 56 people died, there was one major and explosive difference: This time the workers were union members.

Solidarity, the 10-million-member labor coalition, declared nationwide strike alerts for Monday, Walesa said. Solidarity "cannot retreat" from what he called an attack on the entire labor movement.

"If the bees arises the whole country will be brought to a standstill," Walesa said. "We would only need 30 minutes to do it."

Yet Solidarity leaders also sought to avert a major confrontation with the regime of Prime Minister Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski, which needs to convince Poland's worried East Bloc neighbors that it needs no outside help to resolve the nation's labor problems.

Even as he addressed an angry crowd of workers in Bydgoszcz, Walesa was careful to stress this point.

"Jaruzelski is a soldier and we believe in him, on the condition that he will rule in a sensible way. We want the union and the general to be victors together, but we will monitor what he does," Walesa said.

Union officials said the Bydgoszcz incident was evidence of a division within the government between those who support the independent labor movement and those who oppose it. They charged the violence was committed by "lower-level" officials seeking to provoke more strikes in the hope they will lead to a crackdown.

Soviets crush Afghan mutiny

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — Soviet troops crushed mutinies by rebellious Afghan soldiers in a Kabul suburb and in a southwestern province, eastern diplomatic sources said Friday.

The abortive anti-Soviet uprising came amid reports of a shake-up in the Moscow-backed regime in Kabul in which the chief of staff of the Afghan army, Gen. Baba Jan, was fired.

Gen. Jan, who was reported to be ill, was ousted at the same time Afghan Deputy Agriculture Minister Ghafar Lakanawal was arrested, the sources said.

The Afghan government gave no explanation for the dismissal of Gen. Jan or the arrest of Lakanawal, but the Western diplomats said the actions may be linked to crackdowns in several sections of the restive Afghan military.

The diplomats said that an officer in the Kabul Central Garrison Command, Col. Khalil Ullah, was recently appointed first deputy defense minister for his role in crushing the mutiny which reportedly occurred earlier this month.

Rebel sources in New Delhi corroborated the diplomatic reports of the Afghan mutinies. They said the mutiny in which they said Soviet garrison forces overwhelmed the mutineers with heavy machine guns and armored vehicles and forced the troops back into barracks.

Rebel sources said a large number of Soviet troops stationed in Kabul moved quickly to the suburb after the Afghan soldiers rebelled.

No details of casualties were available or who sparked the mutiny. The sources said there also has been military unrest in the army garrison of Wardak Province, southwest of the Afghan capital, but there were no more details.

The reports of widespread disturbances in Afghanistan follow reports of a gunfight last week at the presidential palace in Kabul, in which a bodyguard to President Babrak Karmal was said to have been killed.

It is estimated 25,000 Soviet troops have been stationed in Afghanistan to help the Moscow-backed Kabul regime fight anti-Marxist Moslem rebels. President Reagan said last month he might consider supplying the rebels with arms.

Germanys trade spies

WEST, West Germany (UPI) — West Germany traded one of its Communist spies who forced Willy Brandt's resignation as chancellor, for a number of prisoners in East German jails, a government spokesman disclosed Friday.

Spokesman Kurt Becker said President Karl Carstens granted amnesty Thursday to Christel Guillaume, convicted with her husband Guenther on espionage charges six years ago. He said in exchange the East German had freed an undisclosed number of prisoners.

Becker said Mrs. Guillaume was one of several East German spies released in the trade. He refused to disclose the number or names, but said the only prominent person was Mrs. Guillaume. Neither did he say who Communist East German authorities had freed in exchange.

The East Germans also would like to gain the release of her husband, an officer at the prominent police, who gained access to West German secrets as Brandt's personal aide. But Becker said Guillaume would serve out his 13-year term.

One week after the couple's arrest, Brandt resigned as chancellor, admitting he had been careless keeping Guillaume on his staff despite reports he was a spy. Brandt testified at the Guillaume's trial that when he was warned his aide might be a spy he considered it "improbable and unlikely."

The arrest of Guillaume, and his 52-year-old wife, who acted as his courier, led to a public discussion of Brandt's private life.

Notification questions delay Skyview-Hazeldel strike

By STEPHANIE SCHOROW
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A strike date for the Skyview-Hazeldel Manor union was set and subsequently postponed when union officials were notified the strike would violate federal law.

A federally-mediated session between management and union officials has been scheduled for Tuesday at 9 a.m. in Boise.

The Skyview-Hazeldel Manor union had notified federal authorities that its members would strike the nursing home Tuesday at 2 p.m.

Arthur Woods, deputy regional director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, Seattle office, said Friday he received an intent-to-strike notification March 13, the day after union members voted to strike rather than accept management's last and final offer.

However, management representatives, contacted Friday, said they had not received a strike notification.

Dave Cervantes, of the Service Employees International Union, said Friday afternoon the union did not plan to inform management of the strike date to create an "element of surprise."

But Tom Curdie, FMCS commissioner, Salt Lake City office, said if the union members walked off the job Tuesday without giving management advance warning, they would violate federal law.

Curdie said the 1974 health care facilities amendment to the National Labor Relations Act requires unions to give both employers and the FMCS a 10-day prior notification of impending strikes.

Contacted Friday evening, Curdie said he had spoken to Cervantes about the possible violation and was told the union would send a new 10-day notification to both the FMCS and management officials.

Earlier on Friday, Cervantes told Times-News he had notified the Idaho Department of Labor and Industry but felt it was up to the FMCS to contact Richard Drake, nursing home administrator and Marvin Montoya of the Idaho-Employers-Council, the consulting firm representing Drake.

However, Woods said the Seattle office did not plan to do so, saying "the (Cervantes) has that responsibility." He also said the strike date was "public information."

Curdie reported federal law stipulates labor organizations, before engaging in any strike of any health institution, "shall, in not less than 10 days, notify the institution in writing and the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service" of the time and date of the planned strike.

Cervantes told the Times-News that although "technically" the union must notify management, this policy has not been tested in court in the region. He said local unions' policy was to inform federal authorities and not management of impending strikes.

If the union strikes on Tuesday, Montoya said an unfair labor practice charge would be filed with the National Labor Relations Act and an injunction sought.

Earlier this year, the nursing home's management filed charges against the union concerning a December "informational picket" staged without a 10-day notice.

The NLRB ruled the picket violated labor law and ordered the union to post signs at the manor saying members would not engage in picketing without filing the required 10-day notice.

Contract talks between management and Landslide Chapter of the Idaho Service Employees Union, which is affiliated with SEIU, broke down in December.

A federally-mediated session with Curdie failed to break the deadlock. Curdie will coordinate Tuesday's session.

Ketchum advisory committee faces list of sewer problems

By STEVE LATHROP
Times-News writer

KETCHUM — Ketchum Administrator Jim Jaquet set a list of sewer problems before a panel of citizen advisers Thursday.

One of the first things the 17-member Citizens Advisory Committee heard at its first meeting was a report on a letter from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency informing Ketchum its treatment plant consistently fails to meet discharge permit requirements.

The letter said the plant, which serves Ketchum and Sun Valley, puts too much phosphorus and too many suspended solids into the Big Wood River. It went on to say construction to remedy the problem is scheduled for 1984.

"However, there may be little money available for construction grants in the future," the letter stated. "The city should, therefore, consider options for solving the solids handling and treatment capacity problems without construction grant funds." The letter referred to proposed cuts in the federal budget for sewage treatment facilities.

In 1979, Walker Design Associates of Boise studied future needs at the plant. The study estimated costs of improvements to meet demand through 1985 at $3,297,000, an additional $7,843,000 to cover the period between 1985 and 1995, and $3,622,000 more to cover extra demand up to 2005. All figures were in 1979 dollars.

The entire Ketchum budget for 1979 was $1,674,626.

In addition, panel members heard Monly Marchus, an environmental engineer with the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare, say that even if funding is available, it may not cover improvements large enough to handle all projected growth.

"We would not be willing to participate in a plan for more than 18,900 (population by the year 2000)," the federal government is not in the business of subsidizing subdividers," Marchus said. The Walker study projected about 28,000 peak service area population in the year 2000.

Jaquet said discussion of population projections may prove academic. "We may have to divide that plan and implement that portion we can afford," Jaquet said.

One panel member asked why, with the plant now exceeding discharge limits, additional hook-ups still are permitted. Jaquet said current violations are not the most dangerous kind, and state and federal agencies allow growth to continue while steps are taken to solve problems.

Panel members discussed possible alternative funding. Included among these were fees to be paid by developers and the sale of sludge for fertilizer.

If a way to fund increased plant capacity cannot be found, growth in the booming Ketchum-Sun Valley area may come to a halt. Referring to federal and state environmental agencies, Jaquet said, "They always have the threat of a moratorium."

Twin Falls to participate in Year of the Disabled

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls has been selected as a "Partner Community" by the U.S. Council for the International Year of Disabled Persons.

The council has recognized the community for its early efforts to establish a Twin Falls IYDP committee to work toward raising public awareness of disabled persons' needs.

So far, the committee has planned a job fair in May and an awareness day called "Walk In My Shoes," at which members of the Twin Falls Board of County Commissioners will be asked to spend the day in wheelchairs. The move is intended to make the county officials aware of the obstacles faced by people confined to wheelchairs.

Other local projects under consideration are a hotline to enable disabled persons to get help for household and automotive problems, improved control of the use of handicapped parking spaces with the help of local police and better physical access to public buildings.

Pot possession

Court upholds conviction

BOISE — The Idaho Supreme Court has upheld a former 5th District Court Judge in the possession of marijuana.

The court announced its decision Thursday.

The case stems from an appeal by Thomas William Randolph, Jr., charging former 5th District Judge James Cunningham erred in submitting a written definition to the jury after that body had retired for deliberation.

In a decision written by Justice Charles R. Donaldson, the court ruled that while Cunningham erred in the jury communication, the circumstances of the case made the error harmless.

The jury convicted Randolph April 27, 1978, of possession of more than three ounces of marijuana, a felony. The defendant had been arrested Aug. 13, 1977, by Twin Falls police.

Cunningham subsequently sentenced Randolph to a maximum two-year prison sentence on July 31, 1978, but retained jurisdiction in the case for the first 120 days.

The same day, Randolph appealed the conviction to the Supreme Court and was released on a $500 bond pending the court's decision.

Merchants learn lesson about fraud protection

By SUSAN GALLAGHER
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A little paranoia can go a long way as front-line defense against fraud, police told a group of merchants Friday.

That and other advice about controlling crime against businesses arose at a day-long Idaho Fraud Investigators Association seminar in Twin Falls.

Twin Falls Police Chief Tim Qualls, one of five speakers, said he sympathizes with merchants caught between the need to treat customers courteously and the need to protect themselves against crime.

"Your hands are tied," Qualls observed. The shopper disgruntled over questions concerning validity of a check "is going down the street to do business," the police chief said. "Maybe he's going to buy $300 worth of merchandise."

But a thread of suspicion sometimes reduces the costly receipt of worthless checks, he said.

Qualls addressed about 85 seminar participants, most of them law enforcement personnel and employees of stores and banks. Speakers' topics included forgery, fingerprinting and credit card fraud.

Solving bad check cases typically involves a lot of legwork at the local level, according to Qualls, who said there's scant truth in the notion police can refer to a wealth of federal fingerprint files.

"This isn't like TV, like Hawaii Five-O, where they get a print and call J. Edgar Hoover and he says, 'Yeah, that's so and so,'" Qualls mocked. "That's a mistake." He added palmprints, not just fingerprints, are effective in tracking down offenders.

Incinerator feasibility study may lose funds

By JANENE BUCKWAY
Times-News correspondent

SHOSHONE — The Wood River Resource Area may lose funds for a feasibility study of a garbage burning steam-generating incinerator for Lincoln and Gooding counties.

WRRRA Chairman Everett Ward said Friday the group will go ahead with a study of the cost effectiveness of the incinerator even though the Legislature has taken steps to disband the Division of Environment and Community Affairs. That agency administers "304" grants. The WRRRA received such a grant for $22,000 from the agency in February.

"We have a signed contract with the state," Ward said, "and I don't feel they can stop our money even if the agency is closed." The money has already been allocated. "304" grants are federal monies with matching funds from the states.

J-U-B Engineering Inc. of Twin Falls, the firm doing the study, is aware of the situation, according to Ward. "We just are not sure where we stand until final action is taken in the Senate," he explained. "We feel the money could be administered by another agency if needed."

According to Ward, the feasibility study grant is to apply funds through September 1981. If the Senate closes the agency, the closure will be effective in July 1981. J-U-B will try to get as much work done as possible before July, but if the Legislature stops the funds, it will be the end of the study, Ward said.

Representatives from the two counties, and the cities of Gooding, Hagerman, Wendell and Shoshone, attended the Friday meeting.

Jim Coleman of J-U-B asked cities where garbage collection is done to weigh their refuse for one week. He also asked the counties to provide information on the volume of waste deposited in their landfills for a week.

J-U-B will consider the volume of waste, and the composition of the garbage to determine how much steam energy could be produced and the cost of burning the garbage.

Ward explained the study will provide information on the cost of operating the plant and the cost for local governments to transport the garbage to an incinerator that would be located near Blincoe Meat Packing in Gooding. Blincoe has agreed to buy the steam produced by the plant.

According to Ward, the study will show the revenue possible from the sale of the steam and how to equitably distribute that money among the government entities participating. The monies could then be used to offset the cost of transporting garbage to Gooding.

Care planning workshop takes place in Salmon

SALMON — A workshop in "Care Planning and Documentation" will be presented at Steele Memorial Hospital April 14 from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Molly Young, R.N., M.S.N., project director of Continuing Nursing Education at Boise State University, will teach the workshop. It is sponsored by the Southeastern Idaho Center for Health Resources, Inc., based at Idaho State University, and Steele Memorial Hospital.

For SICH the fee is $5 and for non-members $20. Pre-registration deadline is April 10. Registration checks or money orders may be sent to SICH, ISU Campus Box 8032, Idaho State University, Pocatello, Idaho 83209. Or call 238-2535.

Low's hearing postponed

JEROME — A preliminary hearing for a Jerome policeman charged with three counts of improper action while on duty has been postponed.

Sergeant Del Low's hearing scheduled for Monday in 5th District Magistrate Court in Jerome has been delayed until April 3 on request of Low's attorney, William Stuart of Twin Falls.

Stuart requested the schedule change because Monday's hearing conflicted with another trial he is handling.

Low was charged two weeks ago with aggravated assault, aggravated battery and falsifying public documents. The charges came after an investigation by the Idaho Attorney General's office and the Idaho Department of Law Enforcement as requested by former Jerome police trainee Ron Moore.

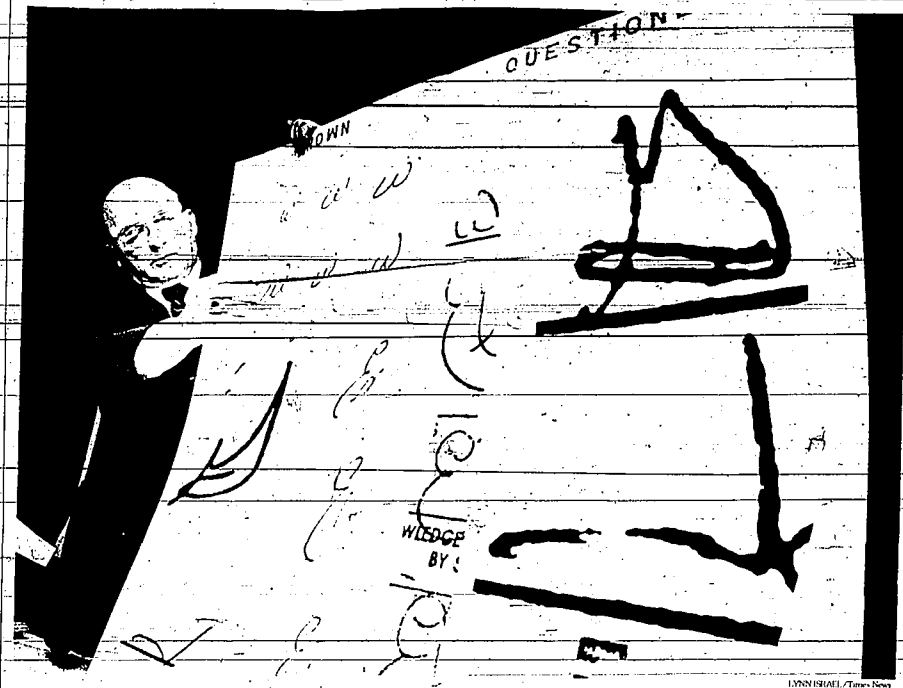

Moore claims that while riding with Low in 1979, Low's patrol car struck and injured a motorcycleist—Dennis Myers of Eden. Similar charges were also filed against Moore following his testimony in the attorney general's investigation.

Low has since been suspended from duty by the Jerome City Council.

Energy day declared

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho Gov. John Evans issued a proclamation declaring Friday as Energy Education Day.

Evans urged all Idaho schools to carry out an education program involving "study, demonstrations, experiences and discussion of the importance of energy and its conservation on this special day."

Fraud

Boise Police Detective Bob Sobba warned those handling business transactions not to reduce the value of evidence by stapling worthless checks or impounding "account closed" or other stamps over handwriting.

Sobba also said suspicions about checks should not be allayed by notary seals or stamps declaring a check "insured." He said such items can be bought or stolen and are used to distract a clerk from seeing check features which might arouse suspicion, such as questionable handwriting or numerals.

Sobba noted 92 percent of persons who forge check signatures concentrate on capital letters and flourishes in trying to duplicate legitimate signatures.

"With the inferior writing, people will revert back to their own styles," said Sobba, who advised clerks to carefully examine disparities in the penning of upper- and lower-case letters.

Seminar speakers gave their audiences little hope for a decline in crime—arguing "business; Merchants' best bet, speakers reiterated, is to do business with care by accepting checks selectively, preserving evidence when crime occurs and making mental note of customers.

The public could be facing more crime as an aftereffect of President Reagan's cutbacks in public assistance programs, Qualls noted. While he doesn't necessarily oppose Reagan's reductions, he said, they could prompt crime increases among persons previously receiving government aid.

"People are not going to go without," Qualls said.

Guerra must forfeit automobile

TWIN FALLS — Idaho narcotics officials Friday dropped claims for $521 in cash against a Twin Falls woman, provided she turns over her automobile.

In the agreement reached Friday, the state Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs dropped a lawsuit filed in 5th District Court against Lisa Guerra, 19, seeking the money.

In exchange, Guerra's lawyer, Twin Falls County Public Defender Mike Walz agreed to turn over Guerra's automobile, a subject of a second lawsuit filed by the bureau against the defendant.

Guerra was convicted last October on four counts of delivery of cocaine. She was placed on two years probation Wednesday.

Under Idaho law, the bureau can seek forfeiture of a defendant's property if it was used in the commission of a crime.

In the lawsuit filed last September, the bureau charged it was entitled to Guerra's automobile because it was used in transporting illegal drugs. In another lawsuit filed the same day, the bureau sought the money because it had been found in close proximity to the cocaine.

Bureau officials had also sought, as part of her probation, to make Guerra repay nearly $2,000 the agency spent investigating her.

Fifth District Magistrate Court Judge Phillip Becker of Gooding, who presided over Guerra's trial, denied the agency's request.

Becker said putting Guerra in debt immediately after her release from the North Idaho Correctional Institute at Cottonwood would place a hardship on her and could interfere with her rehabilitation.

Public comments on INEL use

IDAHO FALLS (UPI) — A proposal to open more of the Idaho National Engineering site to multiple uses drew attention from ranchers, naturalists and environmentalists at public hearings Thursday night.

The Bureau of Land Management's hearings were held to determine what should be done with the more than 500,000 acres that have been withdrawn from public use for the eastern Idaho nuclear facility.

While INEL officials asked that the site remain as it is with no increase in grazing and no hunting, fishing or oil exploration allowed, cattlemen asked for increased grazing rights.

The sheep and cattle ranchers suggested that grazing, the only other use besides research that is now allowed, could be expanded on the site. They also asked that more privately funded programs be allowed for predator control.

Naturalists praised the area's natural sagebrush state, but warned that extensive grazing now allows sheep on over half the acreage.

Environmentalists, meanwhile, said they were concerned that unless radioactive waste were controlled, all public access to the site would have to be banned for thousands of years.

Representatives of the Snake River Alliance, an anti-nuclear group, said they did not know how land used for storing nuclear wastes could ever be used for anything else because of the sustained and dangerous nature of those wastes.

Five inmates face rioting charges

BOISE (UPI) — Five Idaho State Penitentiary inmates accused in connection with July's prison riot were scheduled to be arraigned Friday in Idaho 4th District Court.

The five inmates are among the 24 prisoners charged with crimes in connection with the riot. They are the only ones charged with rioting although the 19 other inmates have been accused of riot-related crimes.

Jody Kitcher, John Walker, James Waller, Jerry McLaughlin and Paul Hutton were charged with rioting, resisting an officer and conspiracy to commit kidnapping in connection with the taking of two prison guards during the uprising.

Ada County Prosecutor Jim Harris said charges against four other inmates have been dropped because of insufficient evidence. Those inmates are: Willard Curry, who had been charged with resisting an officer and possession of a weapon; Derrell Nevill, 2nd-degree burglary; Barry Caldwell, destruction of prison property; and William Reeves, 2nd-degree burglary.

Correction

TWIN FALLS — The South-Central Community Action Agency office in Twin Falls is located at 129 2nd St. E.

The address was incorrectly listed as 260 2nd St. E. in a story in the Times-News saying the deadline for low-income persons to apply at the agency for financial aid on their heating bills was Friday. The incorrect address is an office the agency formerly occupied.

Wichita tips Kansas; LSU ousts Arkansas

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Ethan Martin scored 18 points to pace four Louisiana State University players in double figures Friday night and carry the fourth-ranked Tigers into the finals of the Midwest Regional with a 72-56 victory over Arkansas.

In the opening game of the doubleheader, Wichita State got a pair of 23-foot baskets from reserve guard Mike Jones in the final 46 seconds to defeat intrastate rival Kansas 66-63 and advance into the regional final Sunday against LSU.

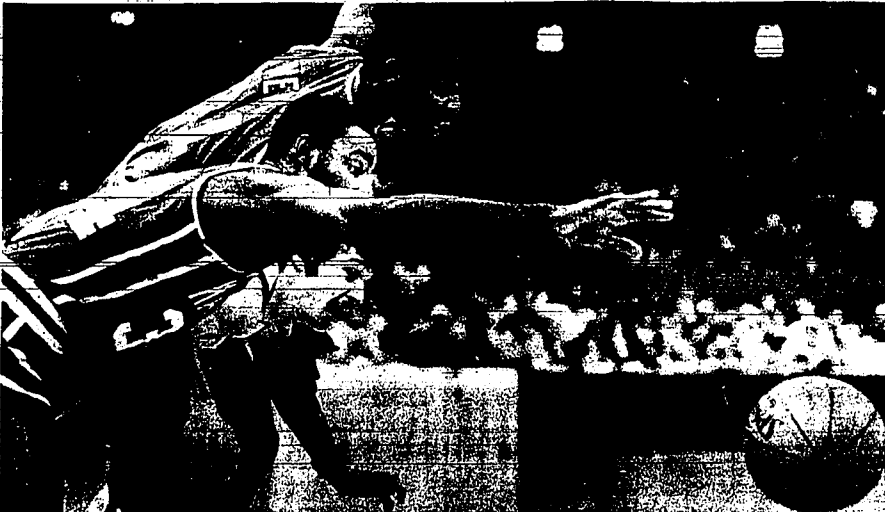

Durand Macklin added 15 points, Greg Cook had 12 and Leonard Mitchell 10 to help LSU post the first 30-win season in the 79-year history of its basketball program.

The Tigers now are 30-3 and used win No. 30 to avenge one of its three losses this season — an 86-76 setback at the hands of Arkansas last November in the Great Alaskan Shootout. The victory also came in front of a crowd of 34,036 — the largest ever to see an NCAA tournament game.

LSU capitalized on early foul problems by Arkansas center Scott Hastings to all but put the game away in the first half.

The Southwest Conference champion Razorbacks trailed only 8-4 with 12:03 remaining in the first half, but Hastings, the Hoop's leading scorer and the two-time all-conference pick, was called for an offensive foul that put — his third of the game — and he was removed by Coach Eddie Sutton.

With Hastings in the game, the Hoosiers had 25 points and 14 rebounds in the November win over LSU, on the bench, the Tigers' own center Cook took over with his first eight points in the next four minutes to trigger

Kansas' Tony Guy (34) and Booty Neal (31) sandwich Wichita's Randy Smithson during a scramble for a loose ball

Martin then scored 14 of his game-high points in the second half to help LSU build leads of up to 23 points in coasting to its 15th victory without a defeat in the state of Louisiana this season.

The Tigers are 14-0 on their home court in Baton Rouge and now 1-0 in New Orleans.

Hastings and Darrell Walker each scored 14 points to pace Arkansas, which finished its season at 24-8. U.S. Reed added 10 points for the Razorbacks.

In the earlier game, Jones' two baskets ended 26 years of frustration for Wichita State.

With Kansas leading 65-62 with 1:15 remaining, Darrell Valentine missed the front end of a 1-and-1.

Wichita State went down court and Jones hit his first basket with 46 seconds remaining from the NBA three-point line on the Superdome court to pull the Shockers within one point.

Kansas then made a length-of-the-court inbound pass to Valentine, but the senior guard, playing over his first time in his career against his hometown university, blew a layup with 28 seconds left.

Cliff Livingston rebounded the ball and Wichita State played for one last shot — the 23-footer from the same spot by Jones with two seconds remaining.

The shot gave WSU its first victory over against its upstate rival in the first meeting between the two teams since 1955.

Livingston scored 18 and followed forward Antoine Carr 16 to help Wichita State run its record to 28-6.

Valentine scored 21 points to pace Kansas, which saw his seven-game winning streak come to an end, finishing the season at 24-8.

Valentine scored 10 of his points in the second half to stake the Jayhawks to a 59-55 lead with 7:02 remaining.

But Livingston pulled Wichita State to within two points on a basket off an offensive rebound 20 seconds later and Carr converted a three-point play with 6:16 remaining to give the Shockers the lead at 60-55.

Wichita State then went 5-30 without a field goal, being outscored 6-2 by Kansas to fall behind 65-62, before Jones ended the drought with his two long-range bombs.

Randy Smithson added 16 points as the Missouri Valley champion advanced to its third regional final in three NCAA appearances. John Zawadzki added 11 points and David Magley 10.

St. Joseph's, Indiana advance to midwest regional finals

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (UPI) — Smooth All-America guard Ishaq Thomas scored 27 points Friday night and seventh-ranked Indiana got strong play from Randy Williams and Ray Tolbert to defeat Alabama-Birmingham 87-72 in the semifinals of the NCAA Midwest Regional.

The Hoosiers advanced to the regional final Sunday against St. Joseph's, a 42-1 winner over Boston College in the other semifinal game played earlier in the evening.

William added 20 points, 14 in the first half, and Tolbert added 13 of his 17 points in the second half, mostly from the inside.

The Hoosiers, seeking a fourth national title, expanded a 42-37 halftime lead to a 48-39 advantage in the opening three minutes of the second half.

The Big Ten champions, 23-4, maintained leads of about 10 points until the final three minutes, when UAB, 23-9, was forced to repeatedly foul Thomas, who made 13 free throws in the game.

Tolbert also helped the host Hoosiers dominate the boards in the second half. At one stretch midway through the second half, Tolbert hit nine straight points for the Hoosiers to prevent the Blazers from getting back into the game.

The turning point in the game probably came when Marcus, UAB's playmaker, picked up his third foul with 6:37 remaining in the first half. The Blazers led 29-26 at that point, but with the senior forced to go to bench, Indiana outscored UAB 12-2 in the next three minutes to take a 38-31 lead it never relinquished.

In the earlier game, Bryan Warrick hit two free throws with 22 seconds left to rally St. Joseph's to its win over Boston College.

Warrick led all scorers with 20 points and his free throws lifted the Hawks to their 25th triumph, 32 games.

St. Joseph's trailed throughout most of the second half before Warrick, a 68 percent free throw shooter, was fouled. Boston College called two time outs but that did not rattle the junior guard, who calmly sank both free throws.

Boston College, which ends the season 23-7, still had an opportunity to win the game, but star guard John Bagley, who was held to nine points, missed a 15-foot jump shot with 10 seconds to go and Jay Murphy missed the rebound.

The Eagles fouled St. Joseph's John Smith with five seconds left, but Smith missed his free throw.

Boston College then brought the ball up court but guard Dwan Chandler was whistled for going over and back, ending Boston College's hopes of reaching the regional championships.

Up until the final two minutes of the game, both clubs resorted to a slowdown, deliberate offense,

NFL tables 'warm' playoffs

KAANAPALI, Hawaii (UPI) — The NFL tabled a proposal to move its conference title games to warm weather sites Friday, effectively killing the idea for the present time.

The proposal was advocated by Dallas Cowboys' President Tex Schramm, who heads the competition committee. The Cowboys lost the NFC title game to Philadelphia 20-7 in chilly weather in January and also lost the famous 1967 "Ice Bowl" in Green Bay.

Once the proposal was publicly announced, the league got telegrams from several warm weather cities interested in hosting the games. But the proposal never got much support among league owners and they deferred it to their June meeting.

It was no surprise that owners from cold weather cities like Art Modell of Cleveland and Dan Rooney of Pittsburgh opposed the idea, but even owners from warm weather cities like Joe Robbie of Miami and Gene Klein of San Diego were against Schramm's proposal.

Modell, whose Browns lost a cold weather playoff game to Oakland in January, joked that if the owners want to play the games in the south, they can play in south Cleveland.

Schramm conceded he didn't have the votes to get the proposal passed this year but said he hopes some owners might change their minds in the future if the league winds up with more cold weather conference championship games.

The league also announced it will invite 150 black college coaches to attend training camps this summer. Each team will host five to six coaches.

The league has been criticized because of its small number of black assistant coaches and this is an effort to give more black coaches exposure to pro football. The league will also hold a clinic in the summer of 1982 for minority coaches.

As the meeting ended, NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle said he was "disappointed" at the league's loss of a change of venue appeal in its lawsuit attempting to block owner Al Davis from moving the Oakland Raiders to Los Angeles. Rozelle said the league is ready to go trial and is confident of the outcome.

Devis said the denial of the venue change was not a victory for him because he expected the appeal court would keep the trial in Los Angeles.

Jury exonerates Frank Kush

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — A six-woman, two-man jury Friday exonerated former Arizona State football coach Frank Kush of civil charges that he punched a former punter and misrepresented the player's scholarship.

After deliberating a day and a half, the Maricopa County Superior Court jury ruled in favor of the former ASU coach on the two counts in the first phase of Kevin Rutledge's $2.2 million damage suit against Kush, ASU and others.

Immediately after the verdict was read in open court, attorneys for the two sides met privately with Judge Thomas Kleinschmidt to discuss when the second phase of the trial would begin. They said it would begin Wednesday.

The second phase concerns Rutledge's allegations that he was harassed into giving up his scholarship at the university, constituting a breach of contract, and ASU officials were negligent in failing to supervise Kush properly.

A clerk of the court said the jury voted 5-3 to clear Kush of the battery charge and voted 7-1 in the misrepresentation charge.

Kush attorney Warren Platt asked reporters not to ask Kush for comment.

"He's not supposed to talk about it so I can't try and back him into a corner because there's still a part of the trial to go," Platt said, adding, when asked Kush's reaction, "He's happy."

The beaming Kush said only, "I'd like to thank the jury."

Rutledge appeared downcast and declined comment on the verdict.

Rutledge brought the suit against Kush and others in 1978, contending his former coach punched him in the mouth after a bad punt during a 1978 football game in Seattle, then harassed him into quitting ASU and giving up his scholarship. Rutledge now plays for the University of Nevada-Las Vegas.

Kush has maintained his innocence of the civil charges.

In October 1979, then Athletic Director Fred Miller suspended Kush after alleging he tried to get players and coaches to cover up what happened. Kush since has left the "school" and now is coach of the Hamilton Tiger-Cats in the Canadian Football League. Miller later was fired as athletic director at ASU.

It wasn't exactly a non-sectarian night in the Omni

Although Brigham Young University probably didn't gain any Catholic converts as a result of Thursday's win over Notre Dame, it was a red letter day for the school as well as the Mormon Church.

The Cougars were on the brink of disgrace at halftime at Atlanta's Omni. One of the nation's most potent offensive units was being humbled and Danny Alinge could have been turning double plays north of the border for all the good he was doing. Frank Arnold's squad.

BYU proved itself in a nation last Saturday, whipping UCLA in the opening fashion. Alinge was unstoppage as he ran circles around the Bruins. It was a big win for BYU, perhaps one of the biggest wins in the school's cage history.

But Thursday night's game meant much more to the brethren.

After all, here was BYU (the Mormons) against Notre Dame (the Catholics). While religion won't get you a one-and-one on the court, it was nonetheless present.

If anybody doubts how much a game with Notre Dame means to BYU, take notice:

"It's something he's very aware of," LDS Church spokesman Jerry Cahill told the Times-News Wednesday.

"As chairman of the board of trustees for BYU, President (Spencer) Kimball follows BYU football and basketball. He's been to several of the (football) bowl games and I'm not sure what, if any, basketball games he's been to this year. His schedule has kept him pretty busy."

It's no secret that BYU would dearly love to schedule Notre Dame for regular season football and basketball games. To date the Irish, a team everybody wants on its schedule because of the great crowd appeal, hasn't been able to satisfy BYU.

"It's something we've looked forward to," Cahill said of the regional cage tilt. "And we look forward to the day we can play them in football, too."

Until the two get together for some unimportant regular season game, a critical loser-out NCAA clash among all the Southern Baptists in Atlanta had to suffice.

For better than 30 minutes the Irish had their way. They were deliberate and patient, putting BYU's potent fast break in reverse gear. With airballs afflicting more than one player, the Cougars were quickly nearing the time to run and hide. They were finding out in what some missionaries have experienced, the tarring and feathering trick.

Then a Provo High graduate, Greg Ballif, started the Cougars back. Despite missed free throws and Kelly Tripuck's sensational 20-footer, it came down to Alinge.

About the time he should have been working on fielding hard-hit grounders, he made a 90-foot trek that should be remembered as the most important stroll in BYU sports history.

Why Notre Dame didn't stop him outside of 20 feet this deadly range will never be known. The Irish defense was porous and he promptly ended Notre Dame's season. A million rosaries couldn't change the outcome.

BYU's deficit and comeback caused a strange reaction in Salt Lake City, perhaps showing how important the win was to Utah's basketball identity.

When the halftime score of 26-18 for Notre Dame was announced during the Utah-North Carolina game, the crowd gave a rousing cheer.

There is little love for BYU amongst most Utah fans and the fact that BYU was getting killed was fine with them.

But the second Alinge hit the winning basket, there was an explosion of cheers in the Special Events Center, according to Associated Press' Vern Anderson.

"About half of the crowd must've had radios and many people had little TVs," Anderson said Friday. "When Alinge scored the place went crazy. They didn't even have time to announce the score over the public address system."

Brigham Young has accomplished something few teams have ever done, namely beating two of the nation's top basketball — UCLA and Notre Dame — back to back.

Such a feat, just a dream a week ago, seemed impossible. Alinge suffered muscle spasms in his back the night before the journey started. They said there was no way he'd be able to play against Princeton. An hour before the game, according to BYU's team doctor, he was in severe pain.

Quite unabashedly, Alinge told KSL's Paul James he felt that a blessing he received from two of his teammates prior to game was the deciding factor in his playing. He played in pain, but it's long forgotten now.

Did BYU talk strategy in that last time out Thursday night or were the brethren gathered in that circle administering another blessing?

Whatever it was, BYU could probably use another healthy dose this afternoon against Ralph Sampson, Jeff Lamp and Virginia.

Purdue, Tulsa gain NIT semifinals

By United Press International

Drake Morris scored 26 points in a first-half night, including 19 in the first half, to lead Purdue to an 81-69 victory over Duke in the National Invitation Tournament quarterfinals.

The triumph qualifies the Boilermakers, 26-10, for the semifinals Monday at Madison Square Garden. They will be joined by Tulsa, which defeated Southern Alabama 69-65.

West Virginia and Syracuse, with victories on Thursday, have already advanced to the semifinals. West Virginia, 28-8, will play Tulsa, 24-7, at 7 p.m. and Syracuse, 27-1, will play Purdue, 20-10, at 9 p.m. The finals are scheduled for Wednesday.

Duke turned its deliberate style of play into a 31-28 halftime edge even without any scoring from highly-regarded Ken Dennard, as Morris' baseline jumpers and layups off of defensive rebounds kept Purdue in the game.

NIT roundup

Duke shot into a 35-28 advantage after intermission before Purdue went to a pressure defense and whittled its deficit to 36-35.

After a 41-41 tie with 14:10 remaining, the Boilermakers reeled off four straight points for a 45-41 lead. The Blue Devils then rallied for a 49-41 tie with 8:10 remaining.

Purdue took charge and built up a 54-49 lead before Duke again cut the spread to 59-55. Over the final five minutes, the Boilermakers outscored Duke 20-10 to send the Blue Devils back home with a 17-13 mark.

Keith Edmonson finished with 19 points for Purdue while freshman center Russell Cross picked up 13 and Brian Walker added 11. Vince Taylor and Duke with 25 points and Al Williams had 12. Den-hardly guarded closely by Mike Scarsie, finished with just nine points as Duke once again played without a defensive rebound, but with a fractured wrist.

Tulsa 69, S. Alabama 68

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — Greg Stewart and Paul Pressey scored 15 points each Friday night to lead Tulsa to a nine-point halftime deficit to a 69-68 victory over South Alabama in the quarterfinals of the National Invitation Tournament.

The Hurricane will meet West Virginia in a 7 p.m. EST semifinal game in Madison Square Garden Monday night. Purdue meets Syracuse in the other semifinal game. The final will be held at the Garden Wednesday night.

South Alabama forwards Rory White and Ed Rains combined for 18 first-half points while Tulsa was shooting a cold 37 percent from the floor, compared with 67.3 percent for the Jaguars. To help South Alabama to a 38-29 lead at intermission.

A tightness defense held South Alabama to 47 percent shooting in the second half and helped the Hurricane lead the game 44-40 on a technical foul shot by guard Phil Spradling at the 13:07 mark. Tulsa then grabbed a 60-56 lead with 35 seconds remaining.

In the final half-minute, Rains sank an inside shot and after the Jaguars stole Tulsa's inbound pass, Herb Andrews hit a 20-footer to bring South Alabama within two points.

Scarsie rebounded a missed Jaguar foul shot and was fouled, hitting the first half of a one-and-one to gain a 66-66 lead. Stewart missed the second shot and South Alabama brought the ball downcourt for White's final field goal with two seconds left on the clock.

Rains led all scorers with 24 points and White added 14 for the Jaguars, who ended their season with a 25-6 record.

Poachers lose hunting rights

BELLEVUE, Wash. (UPI) — Three Washington men have been barred from hunting or fishing anywhere in the U.S. for three years stemming from charges they were coaching poachers in Idaho.

U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service officials in Bellevue said Everett Dell Phillips, 33, and Randall Lee Hamrick, 25, both of Onalaska, Wash., and Gary Craig Blankenship, 24, Mossy Rock, Wash., also were "fined $7,000, received one-year suspended prison sentences and three years of probation after pleading guilty to violating a federal law prohibiting transportation of illegally-taken game animals across state lines.

The three were sentenced Wednesday in U.S. Magistrate Court in Tacoma, Wash. Larry Keene, a former Idaho conservation officer, who now is a special agent with the federal agency, said the animals were taken over a three-year period. He said the men were arrested after they were served with warrants and evidence was found at their residences.

Idaho Senior Conservation Officer Al Teti, Salmon, Idaho, tipped off the federal officials to the violations. Keene said Teti said he first found a kill sight of a bighorn sheep in Panther Creek near Salmon last fall.

He said the slain Idaho animals were three bighorn sheep, a fisher (a member of the marten family protected in Idaho), two elk, two antelope and four mule deer. A tundra grizzly bear and bald eagle from Alaska also were involved in the case, wildlife officials said.

Wiltjer down to Vandal or Beavers

COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho (UPI) — Greg Wiltjer, one of the hottest most hotly recruited basketball players in the Northwest, said Friday he has narrowed his choices of four-year schools to the University of Idaho and Oregon State.

Wiltjer, a 6-11 sophomore center at North Idaho College, had signed a national letter of intent last spring with the University of Washington to help ease recruiting pressure, but he later decided to spend more seasons at NIC.

Wiltjer averaged 17 points and 11 rebounds to lead the NIC Cardinals to a 26-6 record this season.

Gooding slates sports banquet

GOODING — A sports banquet will be held Monday night for Gooding High School athletes.

The winter semester banquet is scheduled for 7 p.m. at the high school multi-purpose room. Basketball players for the girls and boys teams, wrestlers, cheerleaders, drill team members, managers, statisticians and parents are invited.

Enough chicken for the potluck dinner and table service. Senior sophomores should bring their hot dishes, juniors should provide desserts and freshmen should bring salads.

Karate exhibition slated tonight

JEROME — A competition exhibition of KoKonDo Karate will be held tonight at 7 at the Jerome National Guard Armory.

Persons of various belt degrees will be at the competition. Exhibitions will be held as well as other events, such as board breaking. The event is headed by Shepherd Reale of Jerome, the western states director for KoKonDo Karate.

Meyerhoeffer paces Bruin victory

BURLEY — Junior Steve Meyerhoeffer led a 38 to lead Twin Falls to a four-way golf victory Friday.

Meyerhoeffer's 136 score put total helped Twin Falls to a 163 team score while Minico had 189. Burley 183 and Highland 193. Because of wind and rain the meet was reduced to nine holes.

Twin Falls also took the junior varsity division with 176 while Minico had 202. The other teams were incomplete. Scoring for the Minico Prater 48.

Varsity Twin Falls 183 — Meyerhoeffer 48, Dave Rasmussen 60, Clay Mechem 43, Jim Rasmussen 60, Minico 189 — M. Williams 48, D. Tracy 39, D. Seward 43, Christensen 50, Burley 183 — M. Owens 51, S. Wall 40, S. Yoshida 40, H. White 42.

Soto strengthens Reds' mound corps

By United Press International

Mario Soto is a 24-year old pitcher from the Dominican Republic who is relatively unknown to the baseball public but may have a tremendous influence on the National League's pennant race this year.

Named the Cincinnati Reds' Pitcher of the Year in 1980 because of his brilliant second-half performance, Soto hasn't allowed a run in eight innings this spring and is shaping up as the potential ace of Cincinnati's staff.

Soto, 10-8 last year but 9-5 with a 2.29 ERA after the All-Star break, allowed two hits in five innings Friday in a 1-0 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Reds, 5-3, scored in the first inning on doubles by Mike Vail and George Foster. The Cardinals now stand at 1-2.

Willie Upshaw had three hits, scored twice, drove two runs in and stole a base as the Toronto Blue Jays beat the Kansas City Royals 7-6. In other Royals' news, Manager Jim Frey announced he plans to play George Brett four or five innings against the Chicago White Sox Sunday.

Spring baseball

Brett has been out of the lineup since suffered an attack of hemorrhoids shortly after spring training began. The American League MVP had an operation in Kansas City, Mo., to relieve the condition.

Jay Loviglio ripped an RBI double over the head of center Helder Bombo Rivera in the 10th to give the Philadelphia Phillies a 4-3 victory against the Minnesota Twins.

By Texas catcher Bobby Johnson broke a 7-7 tie in the seventh and gave the Rangers an 8-7 victory over the error-plagued Atlanta Braves.

The Boston Red Sox pounded out 18 hits, including Jim Rice's third homer of the spring, to crush the Detroit Tigers and Mark Fidrych. The Red Sox reached Fidrych for two runs in the first and single runs in the second and third.

Joe Simpson tripled and homered, scoring two runs and driving in two, and Bruce Bochte had a pair of RBIs singles to lead the Mariners to a 9-5 triumph over the Milwaukee Brewers.

Bill Fahey drove in five runs with a three-run homer and a two-run single to lead the San Diego Padres to a 10-5 victory over the Oakland Athletics. Benquez homered off Vida Blue in the 3rd to lift the California Angels to a 2-1 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

Hube Brooks scored the winning run in the eighth on Sergio Beltré's double to help the New York Mets to a 6-4 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Dennis Martinez, trying to pitch his way back into Baltimore's starting rotation, held New York to only one hit over five innings to give the Orioles a 2-1 exhibition victory over the Yankees.

Martinez, 6-4 last season, allowed just a leadoff double by Rick Cerone in the second. He then retired the next three Yankees in order.

Rookie Drungo Hazewald led off the game with a long home run to right field off loser Tom Underwood and the Orioles scored in the second on Rich Dauer's sacrifice fly.

A sixth-inning sacrifice fly by Cesar Gamble accounted for the Yankees' only run.

Tim Lincecum, the hope for Montreal in left field this season, continued his bid to cement a job by driving in two runs to lead the Expos to a 6-2 exhibition victory over the Houston Astros.

Raines had a single and a triple. Larry Parrish hit a solo homer for the Expos and stole home and winning pitcher Scott Sturgeon singled in a run in a three-run trip.

Bob Knepper, acquired from San Francisco in December, took the loss. Jorge Orta's three hits led the Cleveland Indians to a 7-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs in the Tigers' first night game of the exhibition season.

The Indians, who snapped a four-game losing streak, pounded out 13 hits off first Chicago pitcher, Backing Orta, who had a pair of doubles and a single, were Angelo Lee, Grand and Tom Verzyer, who had two hits apiece.

The victory went to John Denny, who worked the first five innings, giving up three hits, one unearned run and striking out four. Denny, who McGlothen was the loser. Denny made half of last season with an injured heel, has now given up just one run in 16 innings this spring for a 0.52 ERA.

In sideline action, righthander Bob Galasso, who was chosen as Milwaukee's ace relief two years ago, told the Brewers he wanted to pitch for another team.

Galasso, 25, last year had a sore arm and spent the season at Vancouver, where he finished with a 5-6 record and 3.10 ERA. At the start of the 1979 season, then manager George Bamberger picked him as the top relief pitcher.

Brewers for another shot at the lineup this year. But he said the team wasn't using him on a regular basis so he asked for a release and a chance to play for another team.

"I thought I would dread this day; now I'm happy to go somewhere else," Galasso said. "You'll see me in Milwaukee with another club. I'm going to show them it."

Raines had a single and a triple. Larry Parrish hit a solo homer for the Expos and stole home and winning pitcher Scott Sturgeon singled in a run in a three-run trip.

Westark meets Lincoln for NJCAA cage crown

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (UPI) — Brian Kellybrew scored 24 points to lead a balanced attack Friday night and lead Westark (Ark.) to a 78-66 triumph over Anderson (S.C.) in the semifinals of the 34th annual National Junior College basketball tournament.

Westark advanced to the tournament champion game Saturday against Lincoln (Ill.).

The Lions, now 3-2, led all the way, but Anderson pulled within 51-47 with 13:58 left. Westark then scored seven unanswered points to pad its lead to 58-47.

Anderson, 29-5, was crippled by the loss of starting center Winfrey King, who fouled out with 5:24 left and his team behind 66-54. King finished with 13 points, scoring seven of his team's last 11 in the first half to help Anderson pull within 39-35 at intermission.

David Henderson led Anderson with 17 points. Fred Watkins scored 22 points and his Lincoln (Ill.) teammates shot 74 percent from the field to beat Hiwassee (Tenn.) 70-63 and earn a berth in the finals.

Bulls clinch playoff berth

CHICAGO (UPI) — Ricky Sobers scored a season-high 29 points and David Greenwood added 23 Friday night to help the Chicago Bulls clinch their first playoff berth in four years with a 120-108 victory over Philadelphia, knocking the 76ers into second place in the Atlantic Division.

The victory was Chicago's fourth straight and ninth in the last 11 games; but the Bulls beat a 15-point lead in the second quarter. The Bulls led 43-28 but were outscored 10-1 in the final 3:16 of the first half as Philadelphia rallied to a 61-58 lead at intermission.

Sobers put the Bulls ahead for good at 2:26 of the third period when he scored on a reverse layup to make it 82-81 and Chicago took a 90-83 lead into the final quarter.

Celtics 128, Bulls 116 — Robert Parish and Cedric Maxwell combined for 14 fourth-quarter points to rally the Boston Celtics to a 128-116 triumph over Washington that eliminated the Bullets from the playoffs for the first time in 13 seasons.

The Celtics trailed 99-94 after the third period but opened the fourth quarter with an 8-run to tie the score at 102-102 with 8:20 to play. Parish then fed Gerald Henderson for a spin-jumping layup, dropped in two free throws and canned a 10-footer, and Maxwell dropped in a point to trigger a 14-4 run which gave the Celtics a 116-106 lead with 5:52 to play. The Bullets got no closer than seven points in the rest of the game.

Maxwell, who had 14 points in the third quarter, added six more in the final quarter.

The Bullets last failed to make the playoffs in the 1967-68 season, the year before West Unseld joined the team. Unseld recently announced he will retire at the end of the current season.

Knicks 110, Pacers 107 — Indiana's Michael Ray Richardson and Bill Cartwright teamed for 50 points Friday night to rally the New York Knicks to a 110-107 victory over the Indiana Pacers.

Richardson finished with 26 points, the final three on a 26-foot jumper with 13 seconds left to lift the Knicks to a 109-105 advantage. Cartwright added 24.

New York trailed for most of the game, including 60-57 at halftime, and hit a 10-0 run to close out 110-105 with 57 seconds remaining after the Pacers hit a 90-second dry spell midway through the final quarter.

Nets 108, Hawks 96 — Piscataway, N.J. (UPI) — Cliff Robinson scored 29 points Friday night to help the New Jersey Nets to a 108-96 victory over Atlanta Hawks.

The Nets, never trailing, entered the fourth quarter with an 80-76 lead. The Hawks pulled within seven points with four minutes left but three points by Darvin Cook followed by a Robinson stuff gave the Nets a 102-margin with 2:58 left and the Hawks could get no closer than 10 points.

With future coach Larry Brown watching, Robinson scored nine first-quarter points and the Nets got off to a fast start to lead 33-19 at the end of the first period. New Jersey took a 57-48 lead at the half.

Bucks 104, Pistons 86 — Pontiac, Mich. (UPI) — Brian Winters led a balanced scoring attack with 16 points Friday night to help the Milwaukee Bucks roll to an easy 104-86 triumph over the Detroit Pistons.

Marques Johnson poured in 66 points and three in the first quarter as Milwaukee raced out to a 33-19 lead. Detroit hit only 5-of-20 field goals attempts in the period.

The Pistons connected on 13-of-17 shots in the second quarter, cut Milwaukee's lead to 56-47 at the intermission, but the Bucks scored the first 10 points of the third quarter, six of them by Quinn Buckner, to lead 65-47 and Detroit never got closer than 15 points the rest of the way.

Mavs 126, Denver 125 — Dallas (UPI) — Marty Byrnes and Bill Robinson scored 22 points apiece Friday night and the Dallas Mavericks scored 16 of the game's last 20 points in a 126-125 triumph over the Denver Nuggets.

Trailing 121-110 with four minutes left in the game, the Mavericks scored 14 straight points behind Byrnes and Robinson. Denver did not score again until eight seconds remained in the game.

Denver, the league's highest-scoring team, made 40 of its first 60 field goal attempts and led by as many as 17 points midway through the third period, behind David Thompson, Alex English and Dan Issel. The Mavericks scored the Nuggets 40-22 the rest of the way as Denver shot a dismal 25 percent in the fourth quarter.

Spurs 114, Kings 111 — Kansas City, Mo. (UPI) — Mark Oberlander scored four points and Paul Griffin added two as the San Antonio Spurs overcame the first six points in overtime Friday night en route to a 114-111 triumph over the Kansas City Kings.

The two field goals by Oberlander and Griffin's shot gave San Antonio a 112-106 lead with 1:53 left, but five straight points by Otis Birdsong cut the lead to 112-111. The Kings missed a last season chance to win when Joe C. Martin threw a jumper shot missed. George Johnson's two free throws after time ran out gave the Spurs a 114-111 victory.

James Silas had 21 points and George Gervin, Jr. for 19. Spurs, who won their fifth straight in overtime without a loss.

Jaecke leads in TPC despite slow-play fine

POINTE VEDRA, Fla. (UPI) — Harry Jaecke through out a 100th hole on a par 3 hole on Friday and shot a 20 to win 70 to take the second round lead of the $440,000 Tournament Players Championship with a 5-under-par 133.

"It takes a little bit of the edge off if you don't feel you're responsible (for the slowness)," said Jaecke, a 32-year-old Los Angeles, Calif., native, whose only previous win was the 1978 Tallahassee Open. "You get a little hot about it."

Trailing Jaecke, who had an opening round 69, Thursday, were Danny Edwards, of Edmund, Okla., and Dan Hallorsdon, of Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada. Hallorsdon shot his second straight 2-under-par 70 and Edwards had a 68 to go with an opening round 72, giving both two round totals of 140, one stroke off the pace. In third place was Jim Simons, who fired a 4-under-par 68 to give him a 36-hole total of 136.

Jaecke and his playing partners, D.A. Weiringer and Mark McCumber, were each fined $200 at the end of their round Friday, delaying their arrival in the press tent.

When Jaecke arrived in the interview room, he didn't know that he was leading the tournament. "When I don't want to make a big deal about the fine, Tim leading the tournament and I'm happy, I guess."

The amount of the fine wasn't what bothered him, Jaecke said. "Whether it's $4,200, $200 or $2, what's the difference? It just gets to you when you see them over there ready to fine you, clocking you like a policeman."

Three-time TPC winner Jack Nicklaus, who shot a 68 Friday, was tied with John Mahaffey (70) and Jim Dent (74) with 1-under-par totals of 143, four strokes back.

Jaecke, who spent more time talking about the fine than he did about his golf game, made five birdies and three bogeys and admitted "I was riding a roller coaster, just trying to get in" on the back nine. "I feel like I've been in a prize fight."

"My putter has carried me through these first couple of days — I've changed putters this week," he said. "It's the kind of course you can forget your personal feelings and just try to survive."

Hallorsdon, a scholarly-looking Canadian, referring to the 20-30 mph winds and gusts of 40 mph, said, "I just tried to keep it in play. I played in a lot of severe weather conditions — you have to be in Canada — but nothing like this."

Hallorsdon made six birdies and four bogeys.

Edwards, 29, who teamed with his brother Dave to win the Walt Disney World team championship last year, said he tried to play a more conservative game, aiming for the middle of the greens on most of the holes.

"It requires a lot of concentration to play this course," he said. "You're thinking where do I not want to hit the ball and then you're trying to figure where is the wind coming from — it's almost a guessing game. A good shot is not of times when you get the hole supposed to."

Seventy-four players made the cut at 151. Among those who failed to make the cut were Tom Watson, who struggled to an 80, with two triple bogeys and a double bogey. Defending champion Lee Trevino shot a 73 Friday for 73-73-146, while last week's winner at Doral, Ray Floyd, was 72-74-146.

If Floyd wins, he would pocket a bonus of $250,000 under the Florida Triple Bonus announced by the sponsors of the Inverary, Doral and TPC events.

Seve Ballesteros, winner of last year's Masters tournament, shot a 69 Friday including birdies on the final three holes, to tie with Floyd and Trevino at 146. The Spaniard had an opening round 77.

"The conditions (temperatures, gusts, winds) and the steady winds had their effect on many players."

"I started out with four layers of clothes," Simons said. "It is a continual struggle to keep loose out there."

Virginia's 7-4 Sampson looms large in BYU's game plan

ATLANTA (UPI) — As hard as he tried, Brigham Young basketball Coach Frank Arnold couldn't get away Friday from talking about Virginia's 7-foot-4 All-American Ralph Sampson.

"Sampson's not the Virginia basketball team," insisted Arnold while talking about today's NCAA East finals between his 17th-ranked Cougars and the favored, third-ranked Cavaliers. "They've got a couple of other outstanding players in Jeff Lamb and Leakey and our people better not forget it, either."

But the subject at Friday's news conference kept returning to Sampson.

"Sampson changes your offense because he's so big," said Arnold. "He's so dominant in the midcourt. He's going to alter shots if you want to or not."

That, said Arnold, is why the Cougars would like to run a fast-break offense Saturday. "We want to get down for a layup before Sampson gets down court."

Brigham Young (25-6) and Virginia (27-3) meet at 1:38 p.m. (MST) with the winner taking on the West champ, either sixth-ranked San Francisco 64-60 and second No. 2 Oregon State 50-48 in the regional's first-round games at Los Angeles. And Thursday night the 24-8 Wildcats upset 18th-ranked Illinois 57-52 to get into the West finals against the Tar Heels.

"North Carolina is an outstanding college team with quality players from top to bottom. This will be another real challenge for us," Hartman said. "I only wish we had three or four days to get ready instead of just one."

The 27-7 Tar Heels, a 61-56 winner over

"But" returning to that subject again. "Sampson does make a difference."

Sampson scored only one point in the final 32 minutes Thursday night when the Cavaliers advanced with a 62-48 victory over 15th-ranked Tennessee.

"We got the ball to Ralph Sampson, but he wasn't having a good game," said Virginia Coach Terry Holland. "But we have to be pleased since even with him having a bad game, we still won."

Holland said Brigham Young "presents a lot of problems for us, mainly because we hadn't seen them play before Thursday night. Also, Brigham Young didn't play its usual game Thursday night. Ainge [who had only 12 points, less than half his average] didn't have his usual night and we can't expect that Saturday. We have to be concerned about him."

Kansas State feels it deserves more than 'Cinderella' tag

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Coach Jack Hartman said Friday his un-ranked Kansas State Wildcats may be considered the Cinderella team in the 1981 NCAA Western Regionals, but they don't like the label.

"We deserve better recognition," said Hartman. His Wildcats meet No. 6 North Carolina Saturday for the regional title — the winner advancing to the national Collegiate Final Four at Philadelphia March 28 against the East champion, either Virginia or Brigham Young.

"We've substituted the NCAA's decision to select us as an at-large team for the playoffs," Hartman said. "The idea that we're finally being recognized for what we are, a good basketball team, is a nice one. But it's a role we don't fit because we deserve to be here."

Kansas State dunned San Francisco 64-60 and upset No. 2 Oregon State 50-48 in the regional's first-round games at Los Angeles. And Thursday night the 24-8 Wildcats upset 18th-ranked Illinois 57-52 to get into the West finals against the Tar Heels.

"North Carolina is an outstanding college team with quality players from top to bottom. This will be another real challenge for us," Hartman said. "I only wish we had three or four days to get ready instead of just one."

The 27-7 Tar Heels, a 61-56 winner over

10th-ranked Utah in Thursday night's other semifinal game at the Utes' Special Events Center, will be looking at an eighth trip to the Final Four if they can beat the Wildcats in the regional title match.

"We're glad to be here and not going back to Chapel Hill," said North Carolina coach Dean Smith. "We're expecting a close, good basketball game against Kansas State. And, if we can't do it in tempo, the score will probably be in the 50s."

But Hartman claims he doesn't try to hold the score down. "We like to run," Hartman laughed. "Why we scored 70 points in a game once this year."

Weather curbs area events

TWIN FALLS — Weather curbed several Magic Valley athletic events Friday afternoon.

Track meets at Twin Falls and Wendell were cancelled because of the wind and rain storm while the CSI Baseball Invitational missed its second round entirely.

Neither of the track meets will be made up.

CSI Coach Jim Walker said a decision of continuing the baseball tourney will be made this morning. If practical, the meet will resume with Utah Tech meeting Treasure Valley at 11 a.m. and CSI taking on Utah Tech at 3 p.m.

Twin Falls Baseball Coach Ron Watson said his Bruins' scheduled doubleheader in Elko today also has been jeopardized by a snowstorm in the Nevada town.

"We'll call early tomorrow morning to see what conditions are," he said.

back Joe Washington, a newspaper reported Friday.

The Houston Post quoted a Baltimore source as saying the Colts "tried hard" during last season to obtain Barber, and that the climate is better now for the Oilers to get the $2.5 million deal.

Washington reportedly said he wanted to leave the Colts because Curtis Dickie, replaced him as a backfield starter and limited his financial opportunities.

Contacted at his Baltimore home, Washington said the reported trade talks were news to him.

"I don't want to be close to home, and I'd like to play close to home," he said.

The Oilers under new head coach Eddie Biles are expected to scrap fired Coach Bum Phillips' two-light-end offense which featured Dave Casper and Barber, and Casper probably would emerge as the No. 1 light end next season.

Gant joins celebrity team

DENVER, N.C. (UPI) — The NASCAR Grand National racing team owned by Hollywood celebrities Burt Reynolds and Hal Needham Friday announced it has signed driver Harry Gant to a three-year contract.

Johnny Hayes, general manager of the Denver-based racing team, said in a telephone interview the team will replace former stuntman Stan Barrett as its primary driver and field two cars in the future.

Gant, 40, of Taylorville, was offered the job after Needham and Reynolds watched him finish second last week in the Atlanta 500, Hayes said.

McEnroe inks lucrative pact

LONDON (UPI) — United States Open tennis champion John McEnroe inked a multimillion dollar deal of his career, Friday signed a five-year contract reputed to be worth $2.5 million with the British Dunlop company.

The 22-year-old New Yorker, who is tied to using the Company's wooden Maxply Fort racket under the agreement, would not disclose the sum involved but told a press conference "It's a substantial sum and you can take it as a safe assumption that it is the biggest deal I have ever made."

McEnroe, ranked second in the world behind Sweden's Bjorn Borg, said the contract would enable him to carry out his policy of cutting down on competitive play.

"I have played too much tennis for the last two or three years. And I have been caught up in the trap again this season. I want to cut down and be able to enjoy the game more," said the "fleshy" left-hander, who goes through between 30 and 40 rackets a year.

Coaches cite All-Americans

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National Association of Basketball Coaches picked a 1981-82 all-America team Friday that includes Dan Ainge of Brigham Young, Ralph Sampson of Virginia, Mark Aguirre of DePaul, Steve Johnson of Oregon State and Isiah Thomas of Indiana.

The NABC will select one of these outstanding athletes as the nation's top college basketball player, of the season and present him with the Eastman Award at a New York City press conference Tuesday.

Ainge and Johnson are seniors. Aguirre is a junior, while Sampson and Thomas are sophomores.

Second and third teams also were picked by the coaches. The second squad includes Steve Bennett of Kentucky, Al Wood of North Carolina, Kelly Tripuka of Notre Dame, Durand Macklin of Louisiana State and Danny Vranes of Utah.

Stargell out for three weeks

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Pirates announced Friday that first baseman Willie Stargell had his injured left knee diagnosed as a torn cartilage by Dr. Lanny Johnson in Lansing, Mich.

Johnson termed the injury minor and told Stargell not to play for the next three weeks. Stargell started a rehabilitation program upon his return to training camp in Bradenton, Fla.

The program will prohibit Stargell from batting, but he will be allowed to run in straight lines and lift weights.

Appeals court rejects NFL

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The U.S. 9th Circuit Court of Appeals Friday turned down an appeal which sought to "move the legal row between the National Football League and the Oakland Raiders out of Los Angeles."

The league and the Raiders have asked the appeals court to move the case away from the city which hopes to get the Raiders' franchise.

The Raiders have charged that NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle and Rams owner Georgia Rosenbloom conspired to prevent the Oakland team from moving to the Los Angeles Coliseum.

Raiders owner Al Davis wants the team to move to the L.A. Coliseum. The league wants the team to stay in Oakland. The trial has been set to begin next Monday.

Libras should take care of little home chores early, then have fun

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A very good morning to most of you wish to do a little extra help to your companion and to put such a plan in effect without delay. Make plans for the future.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You need to apply yourself most of you wish to gain your most cherished aims. Be more understanding of loved one.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Try to please those who have done you favors in the past. Don't waste time with those who have an eye on your assets.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Handle routine chores early in the day so you'll have time for social activities later. Make this a worthwhile day.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Try to be of help to family members before seeking personal pleasures. Be active and you are happy.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Study new interests that can give you greater abundance in the future. Take a little time for meditation. Be calm.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21) You have to be more practical now to gain your most cherished aims. Save time to engage in favorite hobby.

LIBRA (Sept. 22 to Oct. 22) Handle little tasks around the house early in the day and then join congenials for recreation. Be clever with others.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Study your environment and do something to improve it. The afternoon and evening are fine for much sociability.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Know what your true aims are and then go after them in a positive manner. Show thoughtfulness to others.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Do whatever will add prestige to present standing in your neighborhood. Show increased devotion to family members.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Study some new philosophy of life and put it to use for your betterment in life. Avoid one who brings too much.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Use your hunches as well as your good judgment, to solve problems today. Show much consideration for the one you love.

 IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be one who can easily comprehend what others are thinking and upon reaching maturity will become a most determined person with a strong will. Be sure to give ethical and religious training early in life.

What's what

Mass mania crops up periodically in world

Historical footnotes from the 15th Century reveal that the compulsion to bite one another, and for awhile there the order was plagued by teeth-marks. So ancient are such reports that you can't document them, sure enough. But contagious hysteria does occur. In 1963, about 900 villagers in Uganda suddenly grabbed up white chickens, tucked them under their arms, and started to run. Those so afflicted kept at it until they fell from exhaustion. In 1973, approximately 150 students and teachers in Berry, Ala., began to cry, yell, scream, vomit, and complain of numbness and terrible itching. The medicine couldn't come up with any cause other than mass mania.

WHEELCHAIR RACER

Q. Has anybody in a wheelchair ever broken the four-minute mile?

A. Not yet. Fastest so far: Brad Parks did it in four minutes twenty-two seconds.

Only three out of every 50 oranges grown in Florida end up being peeled-by-hand.

Q. What's the difference between green and white asparagus?

A. The green grows above-ground, the white underneath. To get the white, you just mound the dirt up around the plant, that's all.

So slowly moving is the Malaspina Glacier in Alaska that a fir forest has grown up on it.

REJECTED CURRENCY

What's hard to understand is why certain monies—like the $2 bill and the Susan B. Anthony $1 coin—are downright unpopular. Those of us brought up most usually short of cash, recall no great distaste for any negotiable currency. But curiously, there's a lengthy history of money that didn't make it with the public. The two-cent coin of 1864-73 bombed, too.

The Aztecs had their nobility, and the nobility reserved special punishments for offenses by their own. Drunkenness by a noble—for instance—was a capital crime. Execution was by strangulation. In secret.

In Johore, to the east of Singapore, there is a man buried there. If it's flat, it was a woman.

The Ten Commandments

THE SECOND COMMANDMENT: Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord, thy God, in vain. (Exodus 20:7 and Deuteronomy 5:11)

What does this mean? We should not curse, swear, lie or deceive by His name, but call upon it in every trouble, pray, praise, and give thanks: (From Martin Luther's Small Catechism)

HISTORY: In ancient times, the name of a deity was believed to have magical powers. The person who spoke the name partook of some of the supernatural powers of that god.

But this was dangerous business like "playing with fire," and it had to be discouraged.

So dangerous was it that in later times when the Israelites came across the word "Yehovah" in some writing or other, they avoided pronouncing it. They said "LORD" and "GOD" and in Moses' day some used the names of deities to bring curses on others or in the practice of magic. This was forbidden by the Second Commandment. It was the beginning of the realization on the part of God's people that religion is more related to moral action than to magical formulas.

MEDITATION: Martin Luther found in this commandment more than just a prohibition against the superstitious use of God's name. He cautioned also against the careless, thoughtless use of God's name in swearing or invoking God's name in trivial matters.

Most people who "take God's name in vain" would say they "mean nothing" by it. Ah, said Cardinal John Newman, but that's the point. Nothing is worse, he said, than to say God and to "mean nothing" by it.

He advised saving God's name "for the great occasions." We say "God bless you," when somebody sneezes. That is hardly a "great occasion." We say "My God," in the most casual conversation.

LET'S TRY AN EXERCISE: Count the number of times you use the name of God in trivial, inappropriate ways in one day. Then try to cut down on that number each succeeding day until you are down to zero by Easter.

I HAD A HOT TOGGY LAST NIGHT, AND MY PAID HAD THREE.

BUT I DON'T THINK HIS HOT TOGGIES WERE THE SAME AS MINE.

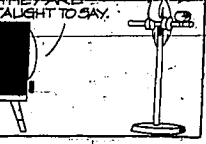

HE WOUND UP LAUGHING A LOT, AND SINGING OLD-TIME SONGS.

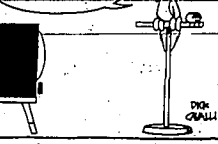

ALTHOUGH THEY CAN TALK, PARROTS CAN NOT THINK.

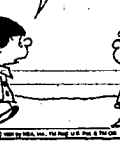

THEY CAN ONLY MINDLESSLY REPEAT WORDS THEY'RE TAUGHT TO SAY.

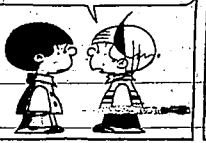

JUST LIKE TELEVISION PERFORMERS.

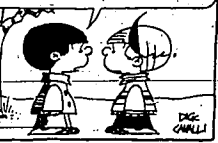

HELLO, HELLO, HELLO, HELLO, HELLO, HELLO.

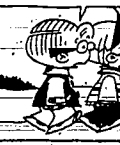

WHAT ARE YOU DOING... YOUR IMITATION OF A PARROT?

NO I'M PRACTICING FOR WHEN MY PARENTS LET ME HAVE MY OWN PHONE.

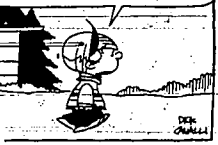

YOUR TROUBLE IS YOU LET EVERYBODY WALK ALL OVER YOU.

STAND UP TO PEOPLE! SHOW THEM WHAT YOU'RE MADE OF!

SHOW THEM WHAT I'M MADE OF?

THAT'S THE MOST DISGUSTING SUGGESTION I'VE EVER HEARD.

THANKS TO YOU WE'RE NUMBER ONE!

We're the leader! We're on top! For the 1980 calendar year, we're the Number One truck dealer in this area.* And we would like to thank you for helping us reach this important goal. We'd also like to remind you that year in, year out, there are more Chevy trucks on the road than any other make. Proof that great customers like you and tough trucks like ours make quite a team.
