

Reduced oxygen standards may be contract violations

By BRUCE HAMMOND
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — U.S. Bureau of Reclamation Commissioner Robert Broadbent's decision to allow reduced oxygen standards at American Falls Dam could violate existing contracts, say Idaho environmentalists.

Broadbent announced in Boise Thursday that a standard allowing 6 parts per million of oxygen for American Falls Dam will be changed to 5 ppm.

"This means we will continue operating our air injection system between 6 and 5 ppm levels, but won't have to work with the bureau to spill water past the power house until oxygen levels drop to 5 ppm," Idaho Power Co. manager of environmental affairs David Meyers said Friday.

Idaho Power and American Falls Reservoir District officials have been seeking a reduction in the oxygen standard to reduce the amount of water diverted around the power house during summer months causing a loss in power generation.

Idaho Power Vice President Jim Taney said electricity not produced, because of water spilling over the gates during the last three summers cost about $32,000 — a cost shared by both the power company and the state.

But environmentalists are concerned the oxygen standard isn't the best for the fish.

"There are at least 100 different species of fish that live in the reservoir," said Idaho Conservation League executive director Pat Ford. "I'm amazed that the bureau would make a decision like this without regard to existing contracts. Its own agency is partly to blame."

Both the ICL and the Idaho Fish and Game Department are strongly opposing Broadbent's decision claiming 6 ppm of oxygen is a minimum and at 5 ppm trout spawning will be hampered and trout populations will partially give way to more tolerant species such as carp and suckers.

But in the Magic Valley, opinion varies about which standard is more justified.

"You can pick up a study saying just about anything you want it to say," said Sen. Dean Van Engelen, R-Burley.

"When this issue was before the Legislature, the studies I read indicated the 5 ppm level is no problem for fish," Van Engelen said. "I have no problem with a reduction to 5 ppm."

It also becomes a question of economics, Van

Engelen continued. "It's not certain that it's feasible to maintain the higher oxygen level."

In the present arrangement, Idaho Power spills water over the dam's gates only when the oxygen level dips below 6 ppm. Until that time, supplemental oxygen is introduced into the water with an air injection system. If air injection can't keep up with the dropping oxygen levels during hot temperatures, the Bureau orders water to be spilled over the dam causing aeration.

"You can spill an awful lot of dollars worth of energy over the gates in a short time," Meyers said. "So far, this year has been relatively good with oxygen levels staying at or near 6 ppm."

No date has been mentioned for the oxygen standard to be lowered. As of Friday, no Idaho agency had official been notified of the bureau's decision.

Harassed controllers may return

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government may hire back "a few hundred" striking air traffic controllers if they can prove they were harassed into walking off their jobs, Transportation Secretary Drew Lewis said Friday.

But Lewis steadfastly maintained the government never would allow the bulk of the 12,000 strikers to return, even if they left the picket lines.

"None of those will be back," he said. "We don't want them back."

President Reagan said Wednesday that although he felt bad that so many controllers were being fired, "Our position is irreversible... they took an oath not to strike."

But Lewis said some strikers told the Federal Aviation Administration they were intimidated into remaining away from the job. He said those people — "probably a few hundred at most" — may be re-employed "if we are able to document they are legitimate cases."

Lewis said a total of 5,163 dismissal notices have been mailed to date and 17 control towers have been closed temporarily.

Asked if there was any movement toward a settlement in the dispute, he replied, "There is nothing in the works."

Lewis said air travel was operating Friday at 73 percent to 75 percent of normal. The FAA has frozen domestic flights for a month at the current reduced level.

And Lewis disputed claims by some air traffic controllers that U.S. skies are unsafe, saying there are no plans to cut-back service during the weekend because of the nationwide strike.

"There's no question the skyways are safe," he said.

The work schedule for supervisors and others working in place of the strikers will be reduced next week, Lewis said, reporting that 521 military controllers, including 128 added Friday, are in place and 200 more are expected by Tuesday.

The International Federation of Air Traffic Controllers Associations, with 61 member nations, has asked its members not to clear aircraft bound for the United States. It said medically-unfit controllers are working and U.S. pilots have reported 25 near-misses.

The U.S. government confirmed only one near-miss report last Monday.

Reagan's vacation, retreat in California, spokesman Larry Speakes was asked whether the White House was concerned about reports of "fatigue setting in" among some of the supervisory employees, who have been working long hours.

"Safety is the No. 1 priority," he said. "Adjustments are being made."

Speakes also rejected a suggestion there is "confusion in the air towers."

U.S.-bound flights have been grounded in Norway, French controllers have issued a safety warning to outbound flights but have not grounded any aircraft, and Dutch controllers have asked their government to report to them on any safety problems in U.S. airspace.

Lewis went on several television and radio programs early Friday in an attempt to reassure the public. On ABC's "Good Morning America," he said the airways "are probably safer than before the strike" because of reduced flight levels.

"We think we are operating very safely," he said.

Of the charge that medically unfit controllers are being used, FAA spokesman Dennis Feldman said, "That's a complete fabrication. Everyone that we are using is totally qualified, in terms of proficiency and medically."

Watt backs off on controversial leases

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Interior Secretary James Watt said Friday he will not recommend offshore oil and gas exploration leases in four controversial tracts off Northern California.

Watt told a news conference he is withdrawing the Fed-River Point, Arena, Bodega and Santa Cruz Basins from a proposed sale, citing the prospect of a long legal battle.

He said a California court decision blocking the sale of 31 tracts in the Santa Maria Basin "poses a clear threat to any decision made now with respect to leasing in the four other basins."

California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. promptly claimed victory in the battle over the proposed drilling.

"It's a retreat and a backing off from his misguided policy of desecrating the California coast," Brown said at a news conference in Los Angeles.

"We have fought in the lower courts and we will fight him in the court of appeals, until Mr. Watt is brought to heel," Brown said.

Watt said other court challenges concerning those basins were "a virtual certainty" and "would almost assuredly go to the same court and judge who decided against our position on the 31 tracts."

Watt said the California court decision will be appealed, and he expects to win. But he said, "We will not be able to reconsider sale as it is now structured."

But Watt has not given up on future oil and gas leases in the area. "We may want to take it to Congress for an amendment if the judge is upheld," he said. "We expect she will be reversed."

Asked when the four tracts might be reconsidered for oil and gas leases, Watt said, "That will be cranked into the five-year leasing plan. The next time around probably will be in 1983."

Watt said his decision "is not meant to show any lessening of interest in Outer Continental Shelf tracts."

Neither political nor environmental issues were considered in making his decision, Watt said. He said he acted because of the "chilling effect" of the California court case.

Watt championed the environmental safety of oil exploration on the Outer Continental Shelf, adding, "The greatest potential for new domestic oil discoveries is on public land managed by all of the people of America and managed by the federal government."

Employment figures surprise economists

Only 7 percent without jobs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's unemployment rate dropped to 7 percent in July, the government reported Friday — the lowest in more than a year and a surprise for economists who see the economy slowing down.

"The number of unemployed in July was 7.5 million, an improvement over June's total of 7.8 million, the Labor Department report said. At the same time, total employment climbed by 570,000.

June's unemployment rate was 7.3 percent, and May's 6.9 percent.

"It's good news," said Murray Weidenbaum, chairman of the president's Council of Economic Advisers. "You always welcome a decline in unemployment, but I don't read too much into it, frankly."

Idaho's unemployment rate dipped four-tenths percent in July to 6.9 percent — a full percentage point below the July 1980 mark, the state Employment Department said.

Scott B. McDonald, department director, said the decrease in the jobless rate reflected a surge of youths into the labor market. He said most youths either found work or dropped out of the labor force.

"Because of the tight economic conditions in Idaho, retail businesses have reduced their temporary summer help to cut overhead costs," McDonald said. "Most youths, especially those of high school age, found little work and thus left the labor force."

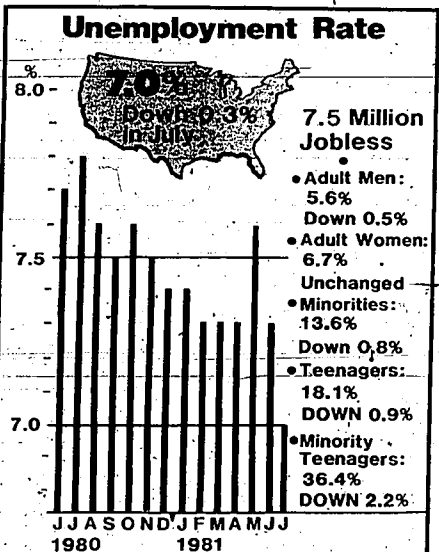

The administration's latest forecast envisions the national unemployment rate reaching 7.7 percent for the year as a whole.

"It was a surprise," said economist Allen Sinal of Data Resources Inc., echoing forecasters in and out of government in their reaction to July's improvement in unemployment.

"It does run counter to all the other information on the economy coming out at the current time," he said. "I'd have to see another month of surprisingly good news on employment before it would suggest a new trend was emerging."

The July rate was the lowest since the 6.9 percent in April of last year, and well below the peak for this year — May's 8.6 percent.

Michigan's unemployment rate, one reflection of the Detroit auto industry's plight, climbed 0.7 points to 11.3 percent for the month.

Anti-Khomeini rebels seize Washington office briefly

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two dozen Iranians opposed to the Khomeini regime staged a brief takeover Friday of a diplomatic office.

One man was shot and critically wounded as they gave themselves up in the office representing Iran's interests in the United States.

Two other Iranians also were taken to hospitals, one with bruises and the other because he was "overexcited," he said.

The demonstrators, supporters of the leftist guerrilla group People's Mojahideen Khalq, invaded the Iranian Interests Section at about 8:30 a.m. EDT and took five employees of the office hostage, police said.

The Iranian Interests Section office, a part of the Algerian Embassy but located in a two-story office building a mile away, was set up in April 1980 to represent Iran's interest in the United States after President Carter broke off formal relations with Tehran. It deals mainly with Iranian students.

"Police talked the militants into giving up in less than an hour but as they emerged from the office chanting, 'Death to Khomeini,' shots rang out. An Iranian, who was not a demonstrator, was held on suspicion of firing the shots and was expected to be charged with assault with a deadly weapon."

The 22 Iranians arrested and two of the injured, who were hospitalized under police guard, were to be charged in federal court with damaging the property of a foreign government, a felony carrying a possible sentence of five years imprisonment, a $10,000 fine or both, police said.

"The Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini accused the Mojahideen Khalq, who are mainly with Iranian students."

Iranian leader warns French Embassy may be captured

United Press International

A leading Iranian clergyman Friday warned the French Embassy in Tehran might be seized unless France agrees to send former President Abolhasan Bani-Sadr back to Iran.

"And Paris said 38 people were executed — a record number for one day. The victims, including Ahmad Reza Shadabakhshi, a member of the central committee of the guerrilla Mujahideen-e Khalq, were executed for throwing grenades and Molotov cocktails and killing innocent people."

More than 403 government opponents have been executed since the ouster of Bani-Sadr last month, according to tabulations of official reports.

The day's execution total was higher than any 24-hour period since Bani-Sadr's impeachment as president June 22, when the current wave of executions started.

The warning by Ayatollah Meshkini, prayer leader of Qom, came as France reported that an agreement had been reached with Iran to allow 116 French citizens to leave the country in two groups beginning Monday.

Heading French President Francois Mitterrand's warning to flee "immediately," a group of 62 French citizens and diplomats tried to leave Iran Thursday but were barred from boarding an Air France jetliner on grounds that their exit papers were not in order.

However, French officials said the disagreement had been ironed out and that 116 of the 140 French national in Iran would leave for Paris aboard two Iran Air flights leaving Monday and Wednesday. Among those staying behind were a four-man skeleton embassy staff.

In what Tehran Radio called a message to Mitterrand, Meshkini warned that, unless France agrees to return Bani-Sadr and other opponents of the regime, Iran may try to force their extradition by the same methods it used to try to get the United States to send back the late Shah.

"If you do not agree to extradite these terrorists to Iran, in the same way that the Iranian nation stood up to America with clenched fists and the call of 'God is great' and rubbed America's snout in the dust, it (Iran) will do the same to you," Tehran radio quoted Meshkini as saying.

The radio said Meshkini, whose first name was not given, was speaking during prayers in Qom, traditional base of Iranian revolutionary leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini.

Judge bars Idaho's controllers from picketing, obstructing others

BOISE (UPI) — U.S. District Judge Frederick Lacey signed a court order Friday barring striking air traffic controllers in Idaho from picketing or obstructing non-union controllers.

The order was an amended version of a decree Monday that prohibited the calling of a strike and picketing.

Idaho U.S. Attorney M. Karl Shurtliff, who drafted the amended order, said it was unlikely he would prosecute strikers simply for striking, either under criminal charges or under civil contempt proceedings.

Meanwhile, support grew Friday for the strike among Idaho's labor organizers.

A committee representing 10,000 union members in southwest Idaho vowed its support for the state's Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization, and phones at the AFL-CIO's Boise headquarters rang with union members from across the state asking what they could do to help PATCO, union spokesmen said.

Idaho AFL-CIO Director Jims Kerns said he was urging union members to "talk to their neighbors" and explain that PATCO was seeking a shorter work week and earlier retirement, not just higher wages in the strike.

The manager at the Coeur d'Alene airport, meanwhile, told the Coeur d'Alene Press he didn't back the strike, but sympathized with controllers' complaints.

Fay Harder said his 37 years experience with the FAA told him the stress of a controllers' job is enormous — and a shorter work week probably would have kept him from suffering from stomach disorders today.

Harder, however, said he believed it would take two years to 30 months for the FAA to train controllers to replace the fired strikers. He also said he did not believe supervisors and non-union controllers could keep working 10-hour, six-day-a-week shifts for very long.

"If we have one mid-air collision, this is really going to turn into something, and people are going to be screaming," he said.

Shurtliff said he probably wouldn't charge any of the estimated 27 Idaho controllers out on strike with criminal complaints. Federal law prohibits the controllers from striking.

Standards

Fish-and-Game officials strongly disagree with Idaho Power's stand that a 5 ppm oxygen standard won't harm fish.

"At 5 ppm, the long-term effects hurt the health of the fish," Fish and Game fisheries manager John Pollard, "It's been compared with taking a human population and sea level to the top of the Andes mountains (South America). The fish will be weaker, move and feed slower although only a few will die."

"We feel that 6 ppm is an absolute minimum and it leaves you with little cushion. At 5 ppm, there's no safety factor and if hot temperatures make the oxygen level dip much lower, say 2 or 3 ppm, you have fish kills."

The ICL is opposing Broadbent's decision on three levels: environmental, economic and legal.

Ford cited the same environmental arguments as the Fish and Game, but also challenged Idaho Power's contention that maintaining a 6 ppm level is hurting both the company and irrigation subscribers belonging to the reservoir district.

We asked the Idaho Public Utilities Commission to estimate the effect on Idaho Power's rate payers for about $25,000 worth of annual operation and maintenance and environmental measures. Ford said, "Their figure was 40 to 45 cents per average power consumer per year."

"Likewise, we developed our own figures that show an average cost of $2.60 per year to each space owner in the irrigation district to cover the $62,500 annual operation and maintenance of American Falls Dam," Ford said.

"When these small costs for maintaining environmental standards is combined with the fact that the funds from Teton Dam were transferred to American Falls, it seems there is little economic strain on either the power company or irrigation district members," Ford said.

No harm from Tennessee quake

TRENTON, Tenn. (UPI) — An earthquake registering about 4.0 on the Richter scale jarred northwest Tennessee Friday, but there were no reports of major damage.

Dr. Arch Johnston of the Earthquake Information Center at Memphis State University said the quake was centered near Trenton and could be felt as far away as the Missouri border.

"We recorded a very strong signal with its center in Trenton," Johnston said. "It registered about 4.0 on the Richter scale. That generally means a tremor that can be widely felt, but generally does little damage."

The U.S. Geological Survey said its instruments in Golden, Colo., showed a preliminary magnitude of 4.1 for the 5:45 a.m. EDT quake.

Johnston said an earthquake center team was sent to Trenton with special instruments to record aftershocks.

McGovern raps new politics

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Blasting single-issue conservative groups for promoting "the paranoid style in American politics," former Sen. George McGovern predicted Friday the pendulum of public opinion will shift leftward by 1984.

McGovern, the 1972 Democratic presidential nominee, told the American Bar Association annual convention that single-issue political organizations are far more dangerous than in the past because of the money they have to spend.

"There's really nothing new about this. We've had the paranoid style in American politics, off and on, since the very beginning of American history," he said.

The former South Dakota senator said he was referring to groups such as the National Conservative Political Action Committee, the "so-called right-to-life groups" and the John Birch Society.

Train derail: 1,500 evacuated

BRIDGMAN, Mich. (UPI) — Sixteen cars of a Chesapeake & Ohio freight train, including one carrying fluorosulfonic acid, ran off the tracks near the downtown business area Friday, losing a giant cloud of acid gas and forcing more than 1,500 people from their homes.

Eleven people were taken to hospitals — nine for observation and two for treatment of throat burns. Chemical experts plugged a ruptured valve in the tanker car and cleanup crews righted the leaking tanker late Friday, but the 1,500 area residents evacuated were not allowed to return until 10 p.m. but we've changed that now, said a trooper at the state police post near the train-derailment site. "It will be at least midnight before anyone can go back."

Sadat disagrees with Jews

NEW YORK (UPI) — Egyptian President Anwar Sadat met with American Jewish leaders Friday and differed sharply with them over relations with the Palestine Liberation Organization.

"There was no unanimity between us on the subject of the PLO," said Edgar Bronfman, president of the World Jewish Council.

Addressing the Council on Foreign Relations, Sadat accused the Soviet Union of using defense as a cover behind which it actively expanded its military and political influence in the Near East and Africa.

Today's weather

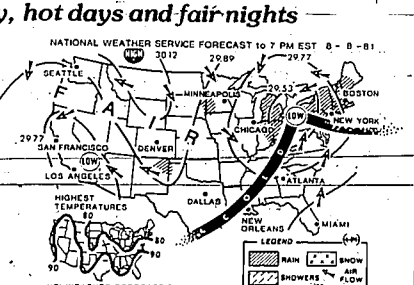

More sunny, hot days and fair nights

Twin Falls, Burley-Rupert, and Gooding-Jerome areas:

Sunny hot days and fair nights through Sunday. Winds light except westerly 7 to 12 mph afternoons. Overnight lows mostly 50s, highs both days upper 80s to mid 90s.

Halley, Camas Prairie, and Wood River Valley:

Sunny and fair through Sunday. Lows mid 40s to low 50s, highs both days 85 to 90.

Northern Utah and Nevada:

Both states indicate more of the same — sunny and continued hot through Sunday.

Synopsis:

Clear skies were again the general rule for Idaho Friday. A few high clouds moved in from Oregon, but were generally thin and widely scattered.

Winds around the state continued on the light side with mostly 8 to 12 mph. However, Coeur d'Alene is again the windy spot with 19 mph.

The forecast is calling for the ridge of high pressure to persist over Idaho for the foreseeable future. Thus, hot days and warm nights are on tap for today and Sunday. The extended forecast period for Monday through midweek calls for temperatures to remain above seasonal normals while skies remain sunny.

Hottest reported temperature for Idaho was 103 degrees at Lewiston, while Middle Fork had the lowest reading, 33 degrees.

Elsewhere in the nation, the highest temperature was reported at Bullhead, Ariz., where the reading was 116, while West Yellowstone was once again low with 33 degrees.

Pollen count in Twin Falls Friday was 36 particles per cubic foot of air.

Hot weather will keep irrigation water needs high through midweek and it may be advisable not to ship animals during the midday hours through the next several days. Otherwise, conditions for outside work, including the harvesting of grain and the drying of hay, will be good through Wednesday.

Fan evaporation is expected to be .44 of an inch today and Sunday. Spraying conditions will be generally good today with winds mostly 3 to 8 mph, but locally fair afternoons as winds increase at times to 8 to 12 mph.

Labor leaders join picket lines

By United Press International

United Auto Workers President Douglas Fraser and AFL-CIO President Lane Kirkland joined striking air traffic controllers on picket lines Friday.

Fraser, joining picketers at Detroit's Metropolitan Airport, said all union officials were grounded.

"We're not going to fly as long as there's a picket line," said Fraser, who drove to Detroit overnight from a meeting in Chicago.

Orders to respect the air controllers' picket lines and avoid air travel were issued to the union's central staff. Fraser said he expects local UAW units to take the same position.

Kirkland joined striking controllers on the picket line at the Oberlin (Ohio) Air Traffic Center.

He accused the administration of "union-busting" tactics.

Kirkland and 43 other national AFL-CIO officers arrived at Oberlin by bus.

While the union leaders and controllers walked the picket line at the center, about 150 controllers and their families cheered them and shouted, "Strike, strike, strike."

Before coming to the facility, Kirkland addressed a gathering of 400 controllers and their families as "fellow offenders, felons and alleged perpetrators" in a reference to the jailings of some controllers.

He accused the administration of "brutal suppression" as well as "union-busting" and "strike breaking" tactics.

Local controllers awaiting 'pink slips' from government

By MARTY TRILLHAASE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Local striking air traffic controllers said Friday they had not received official word of the government's intention to fire them. But the controllers still say they expect their "pink slips" soon.

Six of the seven controllers at the Twin Falls-Sun Valley Airport tower walked off their jobs Monday as part of the nationwide strike called by the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization.

Along with most of the striking controllers, the six Twin Falls PATCO members refused to obey President Reagan's ultimatum ordering them back to work Wednesday or lose their jobs.

Local controllers contacted said they expected to receive official word, soon, but indicated they would probably appeal through federal employee grievance procedures.

"We will appeal it. We're not going to settle for just being fired," said striking controller Anthony Newton of Twin Falls. While he acknowledged the possibility of a career change, Newton said he didn't plan to start looking for another job immediately.

"I'll give it a month to see how the negotiations are doing. If, by September, things start to look bleak for us, I'll start to look for another career," Newton said. "I think every air traffic controller is doing that right now. No one is making any drastic moves."

Striking controller Pat Shaw said he hadn't received official notice either, but declined to say whether he was looking for another job on the advice of a PATCO lawyer.

But, he said he wouldn't regret striking even if it eventually means losing his job.

"I'd be sad if I had to leave it but moving on has never bothered me, before and I can't let pain from doing something else," he said. "Whether or not I ever work as a controller again, I've got the satisfaction of knowing I stood up for something I knew was right."

Despite Reagan's ultimatum, court orders and FBI questioning, controllers say their spirits remain high and express regret only in the way the deadlock between the Federal Aviation Administration and PATCO is being perceived.

"I think the issues have gotten exploited by the media. They're just focusing on the criminal aspects of the events as opposed to the issues involved," Newton said.

Fruit fly war efforts increase in both Florida, California

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — Florida and California Friday stepped up their war on the Mediterranean fruit fly.

Spray teams fanned out through a six-square-block area of east Tampa, dousing trees with malathion, and California planned to extend its spraying program to San Bernardino County, two Santa Clara Valley towns outside the area where the California infestation was believed concentrated.

Both states have much at stake. Citrus and produce is a $1-billion industry in Florida. California reaps almost four times as much from its harvests — $15-billion.

The Florida scare was touched off Tuesday when three Mediterranean were found in a trap near a calamondin tree — a small, ornamental citrus — in a residential area of east Tampa.

Florida officials believe the flies may have ridden in on Florida on California produce, but a federal judge late Friday refused to let the state ban California produce.

District Judge William Stafford turned down, after a brief hearing, the state's request for an injunction against Florida's quarantine by another judge last month.

He cited the same reasons — that the federal government, by imposing a limited quarantine on California produce, had nullified the state's authority to clamp on more severe restrictions.

"Additional facts don't change the balance of the equities in this case," Stafford said. "The United States Department of Agriculture has by law preempted the subject matter under inquiry."

Hyatt releases hotel blueprints

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Blueprints, design change orders and other documents related to the construction of the Hyatt Regency Hotel were authorized Friday for release to investigators.

The documents that might shed light on the cause of the collapse of two sky bridges that killed 11 and injured 188 people July 17 had been withheld from the government investigators.

Crown Center Redevelopment Corp., the subsidiary of Hallmark that owns the $50 million, 40-story luxury hotel, has allowed investigators from the National Bureau of Standards to examine skywalk debris and the remains of the lobby. But until Friday, Crown Center had denied federal crews access to design and construction documents. Dr. Edward Prang of the NBS said in a telephone interview from his Washington office.

"The agreement sets the scene for us to start having access to some of the material that Crown has in its files," Prang said. "It sets out what we will make of the material and the authority we have to use the information in developing our final report."

Only the NBS is to have access to the documents, Prang said, although numerous attorneys and news media have employed their own investigators.

Crown Center's president Friday also said that two engineering firms had been retained to help certify the safety of the Hyatt.

Hired to work or already at work were Syska &

Hennessy Inc. of New York on the mechanical and electrical engineering aspects, Schirmer Engineering of New York on the life safety aspects such as fire prevention, and alarm systems, and structural engineer James L. Stratta of Menlo Park, Calif.

President James McClune said the experts' reviews would be available to an independent review panel organized by the Chamber of Commerce and City Council.

Prang said Crown Center was not required to cooperate with his investigation.

"They have been willing to cooperate with us beyond what would be required legally," he said. "We have no legal authority."

The federal investigators were invited to look into the Hyatt collapse by Kansas City Mayor Richard Berkley after the City Council turned down Berkley's request for a citizens' panel to conduct an impartial investigation.

In other developments, Jackson County Circuit Judge Donald Mason Thursday signed an order that consolidates certain parts of the pretrial discovery for the more than two dozen lawsuits resulting from the sky bridge collapse.

An attorney for two of the numerous plaintiffs said Friday the order requires all attorneys to give each defendant a common set of questions by Aug. 30. Judge Mason said all cases will be handled by Jackson County Circuit Judge Timothy O'Leary.

Sources say Brown wants to cut cabinet position for education

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Education Secretary Terrell Bell wants President Reagan to keep a campaign pledge to abolish the Education Department by leaving it in place but stripping away its Cabinet rank, sources said Friday.

Reagan campaigned for the White House in favor of dismantling the year-old department, and only appointed Bell after the Utah educator agreed to support that position.

The president is expected to make his decision later this year, but any change in the structure would have to be approved by Congress.

Until the department was put in place last year, education was a component of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, which was renamed Health and Human Services following the separation.

Education groups, favoring an increased federal role in school matters, lobbied hard with President Jimmy Carter for creation of the department.

Bell, according to administration sources, this week presented an options paper to the president and indicated he favors a plan to set up education as an independent entity without Cabinet rank, such as the National Science Foundation. That would leave the structure intact, but Bell would not be a member of the Cabinet.

However, because the Reagan administration wants to transfer many federal programs — including some having to do with education — to the states, there might over the long run be a diminution of the size of the federal role.

Sources said that Bell, in his memo to Reagan, left open the possibility of sending the guaranteed student loan program to the Treasury Department.

Bell does not support merging the department into another Cabinet agency such as HHS, nor does he want to kill the education unit entirely and disperse its functions among a smattering of other agencies with a presidential adviser on education installed on the White House staff.

2 boys die in refrigerator

LITTLE FALLS, Minn. (UPI) — Two 6-year-old boys and the stray dog they befriended died together in an old refrigerator, and police Friday were trying to determine what lured them into the deadly box.

Police Chief Clayton Olson identified the victims as Michael Brown and his cousin, Jamie Alday, both of Little Falls.

Investigators said the refrigerator had a door that closed automatically.

Kidnap victim survived ordeal by pretending

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) — A 12-year-old girl kept as a sex prisoner says she survived the living nightmare by pretending she was at home, watching television and playing with a Barbie doll.

"That's what you have to do. Sort of act like you're at home. Since I watched TV at home, that's what I did. You can't be scared all the time," Jeana Rodriguez said in a copy-righted interview story in the San Francisco Examiner.

George J. Daily, 36, the beefy-sewage plant worker accused of kidnapping Jeana and holding her captive for 157 days in his home, has been ordered held under $1 million bail.

Police Lt. Tom Seck said the girl had been sexually assaulted many times during the ordeal. She told reporters, however, that she could not remember the details of the alleged assaults.

During the first part of her captivity she was confined to a tiny room beneath the suspect's house, she said. "He took me to this room under the ground and I stayed there for a while," she told the Examiner. "Oh, and I had a Barbie doll. I had a light."

"I had some cards and I had a book of puzzles, a big one, like a dictionary."

"I listened to the radio. I ate and I played with the Barbie. I combed combed her hair a lot," she said.

Municipal Judge Mark E. Thomas Jr. set bail Thursday after Deputy District Attorney Jack Cardinalli said the suspect could receive a maximum of 81 years in prison if convicted on the 12 counts filed against him.

Thomas set Tuesday for Daily to enter a plea to the charges which included kidnapping, false imprisonment and sex offenses.

Daily wore a brown jail jumpsuit for his arraignment and mumbled his answers to the judge's questions.

Police said they found explicit nude photographs of children in a search of the rundown and cluttered house owned by the 350-pound Daily.

Daily was considered a pried-piper of neighborhood children until he suddenly withdrew five months ago, about the time that Jeana Rodriguez disappeared on Feb. 27.

children," said his ex-wife, Hilda Daily.

"It was one of the main reasons we were divorced. I'd come home after a hard day at work and there were always at least five of them (neighborhood children) in the home."

Jeana was released near her home Tuesday at about the time her father was preparing new posters offering rewards for information on her whereabouts. Police said Daily apparently freed the girl because he had just rented his house. He had moved into the home's garage at the time of his arrest.

Investigators said Jeana was kept in a confined tunnel and fed junk food for three weeks. Her abductor had stalked her and put her in his truck after she got off a schoolbus a few paces from her home.

After she became psychologically dependent on her kidnapper, she was taken into the house part of the time, police said.

"The girl's mental sharpness was responsible for leading police to the suspect. She had memorized a medical form with Daily's name on it and had left notes in the house to show she had been there, police said."

Governors to show off Atlantic City

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — More than 45 governors begin a three-day conference in the resort Sunday to discuss a variety of issues, but local officials hope the convention will also show Atlantic City is on the road to redevelopment.

Governors from every state except Alaska, Alabama, Illinois, Minnesota and Oregon, and from Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and American Samoa will arrive this weekend for the 73rd annual meeting of the National Governors Association.

On the agenda for the conference are seminars on issues such as health care, migration policies, criminal justice, energy and the environment. Vice President George Bush was also expected to address the gathering on Tuesday.

But local officials believe the conference, which is expected to attract over 800 reporters, also provides an excellent opportunity to show the nation how casino gambling has sparked the redevelopment of the once-fading resort.

Jack Holcombe, the chairman of a committee established to coordinate the public relations effort, said Friday the city hopes to get the governors and reporters "the best possible impression" of the East Coast casino capital.

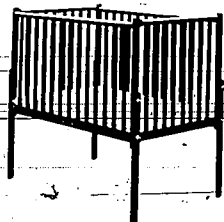

City work crews spent the week cleaning streets and vacant lots, and 31,000 "You Can Bet, Atlantic City Loves You" buttons are now distributed to workers around the resort to encourage courtesy and friendliness during the conference.

"We have an opportunity to show the rest of the country that we are a comeback city," Holcombe said.

"We're not there yet, but we're on our way."

Nancy enjoys imaginary chats

United Press International

TALKING TO HERSELF

Nancy Reagan says she has long had imaginary conversations in the bathtub, and they do her a world of good. In an interview in Family Circle magazine she says it helps her blow off steam when people criticize President Reagan. "I do my bathtub routine — get into the tub and have long, imaginary conversations with whoever's said what's bothering me," she says. "And I am absolutely sensational! Really, just wonderful! All the right words come to me and I say exactly what I think. And no one can answer me back... I never shout or raise my voice, but I'm very firm."

SHOW ME!

T. Cullen Davis, a 14-year-old born-again Christian, is challenging the scientists to come up with proof of evolution. Proof enough to satisfy him, that is. If anyone can do it, he says, he'll give them $100,000. "I feel my money is absolutely safe," says Davis, of Fort Worth, Tex. "I invite any professor engaged in teaching evolution to come forward with his evidence. If it turns out to be factually probable... they get the money. I know they can't do it. For years, evolutionists have been teaching that evolution is a fact and needs no further proof. I want to see the proof. There isn't any."

SKATING INTO HISTORY

Bill Barrington is roller skating 30 to 50 miles a day preparing for history's first 7,400-mile trip on skates from New York to Los Angeles and back. The gangly 26-year-old skater, who neglected the inevitable question during his press session in a roller rink in Wyoming, Mich. Why?

"I don't have no work now. Maybe I will by the time I get back," Barrington hopes to start the trip later this month. He plans to average 100 miles a day and surpass the mark of 3,100 miles logged during a period of three months by a skater whose achievement is recorded in the Guinness Book of World Records.

PRINZE PAYOFF

Relatives of the late Freddie Prinze have agreed to accept nearly $1 million partial settlement of a malpractice suit against two doctors who were caring for the young entertainer when he shot himself Jan. 28, 1977. A psychiatrist agreed to pay $750,000 and an internist will pay $250,000. They were accused of "carelessly and negligently" treating the television star of "Chico and the Man."

D.C. says farewell to a Star

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Readers lined up for the final edition of The Washington Star Friday, swamping the afternoon daily newspaper in death as they never had in its 123 years of life.

Long lines formed at The Star, where people waited quietly for copies of an 88-page paper, the last of which carried the words "FINAL EDITION" in bold, black type.

"There is great silence today in Washington," President Reagan wrote in a letter published on the front page. "A fine newspaper is gone and a noble tradition ended."

The final edition, filled with stories about The Star's history and the financial problems that brought it down, reported that Time Inc., which had invested $85 million in the paper, had talked with 60 potential buyers.

But none, reported The Star, had been willing to pledge to spend at least $20 million to keep the newspaper going another year.

Star Publisher George W. Hoyt said the final press run topped 640,000 copies, largest in the paper's history and bigger than that of the rival Washington Post. Even so, there was a scramble for papers and some subscribers did not get their copies.

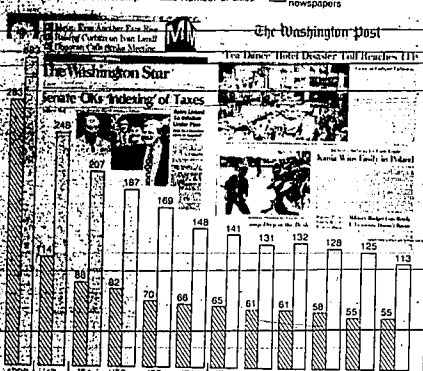

Hoyt said demand was so great that some people took papers, dumped them in the street for home delivery by Star carriers. Others blocked trucks stopped for traffic signals and drivers sold them papers.

Because of this, Hoyt said that subscribers who did not get papers today The Star today. "We did the best we can to assure that such subscribers get their papers."

Associate publisher George Beveridge said The Star's front lobby was crowded all day with people seeking copies. He said there were Reports copies were going for premium prices ranging as high as "several dollars each" at one hotel.

The Star's newsroom resembled a morgue as reporters and copy editors reviewed their desks.

There were no farewell toasts — as there were when the closure plans were announced two weeks ago — because management had banned liquor from the building.

"Maybe they thought we would trash the place," joked a departmental editor busy writing letters of recommendation for staffers.

Several staffers wore T-shirts proclaiming, "TIME has run out on The Star."

"This is a library, not a morgue," said Tricia Price, in charge of the newspaper's huge collection of clip files.

More notes than money in bottle

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Ten-year-old Scott Angulo thought he was rich when he spotted money stuffed into a barnacle-encrusted champagne bottle bobbing in the surf.

Instead, he learned what a small world it is.

Scott popped the cork but found only two $1 bills and five crumpled and faded handwritten notes.

But still the find was intriguing. The decanter, tossed overboard by three American couples on a May cruise, made a 2,500 mile journey from the Caribbean Sea near Venezuela to Alligator Point beach in Florida's Panhandle.

"Love, health and wealth and many years to enjoy them," said one note written in Spanish.

"I thought I had found a bottle full of money — I thought I was rich," said Scott, a freckled-face fifth-grader.

Poles strike in industrial heartland

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — Half a million workers struck for four hours in Poland's industrial heartland and 10,000 others protested food shortages Friday.

Soviet and Polish Communist authorities warned labor against "anarchy."

The independent Solidarity union, which is considering calling a nationwide strike later this month, accused the government of provocation by ringing union headquarters in Katowice with soldiers and sending machine gun-toting troops to patrol the streets of the city.

The government press agency Interpress meanwhile said Communist Party leader Stanislaw Kanla has been ill for three days undergoing treatment at home for a minor ailment.

This disclosure came amid rumors Kanla would go to the Soviet Union this weekend ahead of an "urgent" central committee meeting Tuesday. The meeting apparently was postponed from Saturday because of his illness.

Workers at more than 2,000 coal mines, steel mills and factories struck for four hours in Silesia, Poland's industrial center in the south. A Solidarity spokesman said about 500,000 workers walked off the job.

The spokesman said before the strike started at 6 a.m. military trucks loaded with troops stood in front of union headquarters in Katowice for an hour.

When the strike began, he said, patrols of machine gun-toting troops followed police patrolling the streets. He said during the night several helicopters flew low over the city.

Another 60,000 workers struck in the province of Piotrkow Trybunalski, and in the ancient city of Krakow, Solidarity said more than 10,000 people took part in the country's latest anti-hunger march.

Authorities lashed out at Solidarity for "arrogance" and "irresponsibility" in an official communique and charged the union with unilaterally breaking off crisis talks on the deteriorating situation by refusing to sign a joint communique.

It warned the government had "sufficient means to protect its citizens and is determined to stop the provocation of anarchy and the continuation of activities threatening the state's stability."

In Moscow, the Communist Party newspaper, Pravda published its strongest yet attack on Solidarity, accusing the union of being responsible for food rationing cuts in Poland and warned the country was being pushed "into an abyss."

"The extremist forces in Solidarity, exploiting economic difficulties which are caused to a large extent by the strikes they themselves organize, are whipping up tensions and blocking various initiatives of the government," Pravda said.

"Ever more people see and realize that the extremists who have entrenched themselves in Solidarity are pushing the country into an abyss."

Solidarity called the charges "insults" and said the government stand "dangerously stepped up tensions in the country."

Raging Greece fire imperils Olympic Games' birthplace

ATHENS, Greece (UPI) — A forest fire raged out of control Friday within a few miles of ancient Olympia in southern Greece.

Authorities ordered special measures to protect temple ruins and other historical treasures at the birthplace of the Olympic Games.

The forest fires began more than a week ago in various parts of the country. On Monday, they broke out around the northern suburbs of Athens, where a West German tourist died in a camp site. Two other people died in fires in the south and about 35 people have been injured.

There were reports earlier in the week that residents spotted men on motorcycles throwing firebombs into the tinder-dry woodlands.

The government said police had found evidence of arson in some of the fires, especially near Athens where 40 houses were destroyed, another 40 seriously damaged and several farms, warehouses and factories burned down.

Mystery surrounds Castro-Portillo meeting

COZUMEL, Mexico (UPI) — Cuban President Fidel Castro flew into Mexico Friday for two days of mysterious talks with Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo.

Talks are believed to center on this October's North-South summit, which President Reagan agreed to attend only if Castro was not invited.

Lopez Portillo welcomed the bearded Cuban leader, dressed in his traditional green military fatigues, to the steamy hot posh Caribbean resort island of Cozumel for what apparently was supposed to be secret conversations.

Mexican Foreign Minister Jorge Castaneda also was on hand to greet his Cuban counterpart Isidoro Malmierca at the airport in Cozumel, just off the Yucatan Peninsula where Castro first met Lopez Portillo in May, 1979.

The Castro-Lopez Portillo meeting was so hush-hush it was not even included on the president's official agenda, a presidential secretary said. Cuba's government news agency Prensa Latina waited until late Friday morning to say Castro was going to Mexico.

Quoting the official Cuban Communist Party newspaper Granma, Prensa Latina did not elaborate on the official Mexican announcement Thursday that Castro would make an official two-day visit at Lopez Portillo's invitation.

A three-paragraph announcement said only that the two would discuss "themes of common interest" during two days of talks on the Caribbean resort island of Cozumel.

Observers said the talks probably will focus on the Oct. 22-23 North-South summit of 22 heads of state in the Mexican resort of Cancun, which President Reagan will attend after receiving assurances that Castro would not be invited.

The United States' position was that Castro would disrupt what would otherwise be a confrontation-free discussion on economic problems between the "North" rich countries and poor ones of the "South."

An obviously miffed Castro, who is leader of the Movement of Non-Aligned Nations, last week sent his foreign minister to unsuccessfully plead Cuba's case before "southern" colleagues in New York.

Atlanta-type killings feared in Canada

VANCOUVER, British Columbia (UPI) — Police, fearing an Atlanta-type string of child murders, Friday identified a battered, nude body found near a lake as one of eight youngsters — seven boys and a girl — who disappeared in a popular camping area in four months.

The body, identified as that of Raymond King, 15, was the third to be found in a 20-mile radius, and a spokesman for parents of the eight said they were convinced all the cases were linked.

"It's gruesome, it's awful," said family spokesman Christopher Burgess. "Obviously we're looking for a psychotic."

King's body was found only 1,500 yards from where the badly decomposed body of Lady Kozma, 14, stabbed 19 times, was found July 25. The bludgeoned body of Darryl Todd Johnsrude, 16, was found May 2 a week after his disappearance while visiting relatives.

Burgess said five of the eight children disappeared on a Thursday afternoon, all in broad daylight and all, with the exception of one girl, within 10 miles each other, he said.

"They're all good looking kids, fair-haired, fair-skinned, wholesome kids," he said. "All quite similar in appearance as well. If you look at their photographs it's quite astounding, really."

All eight were described as well-adjusted and without any prior run-away history.

Burgess said he would ask the Canadian government to put together a task force to coordinate the investigation although police were reluctant to link the three murders and five missing youths.

King's body was found near a campgrounds at Weaver Lake north of Agassiz in southern British Columbia's Fraser Valley, about 60 miles east of Vancouver. King was last seen July 23 when he went summer job-hunting.

Asked if King's identification added to the theory the killings and disappearances were connected, Vancouver police Superintendent Bruce Northrup said, "If you ask me technically as part of a police investigation based on fact, there is no evidence at this point to suggest that."

Sect still waits for magic moment

By EDWARD B. HAVENS

TUCSON, Ariz. — A Bible prophecy sect leader, convinced his disciples would soar to heaven "like helium balloons," watched the clock for the second time in 40 days Friday as the predicted liftoff drew near.

Bill Maupin, 51-year-old businessman and founder of Lighthouse Gospel Tract Foundation, said his followers who quit jobs and sold homes should not be disappointed if heavenly trumpets failed to sound and "rapture" the faithful.

"They might have to go back to work pretty soon if the Lord doesn't come," Maupin said. Several dozen followers gathered at U.S. District Judge James Turk dismissed Falwell's suit Thursday, chiding the Moral Majority founder for trying to convert "what is essentially a private contractual dispute into a broad-based 'attack' on freedom of speech and press."

The judge said the broadcast evangelist could pursue a breach of contract suit.

Falwell said Friday it was "very important" that everyone understand he would never give an interview to a "pornographic magazine."

He also said he would not know what to do with money from Penthouse if he had won the suit. "What would a Christian minister do with the funds obtained from a pornographic industry?" he asked. Falwell said Bob Guccione, Penthouse publisher, will be "more careful next time when he considers taking advantage of a 'gospel preacher.'"

Falwell had sought $50 million in compensatory and punitive damages, accusing Penthouse of damaging financial support for his ministry by making it appear he gave an interview to a magazine he abhors.

He charged that freelance writers Andrew Duncan and Sashli Brata promised they would not "do" interviews with him to "pornographic" magazine quietly when they left for home. "We originally believed that June 28 was the day of rapture but the Lord showed us that we failed to see the 40 days after the flood came for Noah in which the Ark was lifted up," Maupin said.

Salmon Falls vote OKs water buy

By STEVE LIPSON
Times-News writer

HOLLISTER — By more than 4-to-1, Salmon Falls tract farmers last week agreed to buy water storage rights in American Falls Reservoir.

The vote Thursday in Hollister, with nearly 34,000 shares in favor versus more than 7,000 opposed, endorsed the action taken nearly two weeks ago by the boards of directors of the Salmon River Canal Co. and Artesian Irrigation Inc.

Salmon River serves 35,000 acres of farmland south of Twin Falls while Artesian Irrigation serves the Milner-Cottonwood tracts south of Hansen and Murtaugh. Artesian shareholders unanimously approved the water purchase last Monday.

The two votes transfer ownership of 3,300 acre feet of storage rights in American Falls Reservoir from the 12 directors, who signed the sale document to the shareholders. The directors of the two irrigation companies purchased the water in their own names from U and I Inc., because they feared any delay might lead to the loss of the sale.

William Lanting, one of the Salmon company board members, said two weeks ago he was told that if the company wanted to buy storage rights from the former U and I Sugar Co., the price would be $50 an acre foot. The approximately $465,000 would have to be paid in cash the following Monday morning. Otherwise, he was told, another irrigation company, planning to tender its money Monday afternoon, would get the water.

The purchased water would satisfy a portion of the need during dry years for additional irrigation water on the two water-short tracts. However, there is no canal to bring water from the Snake River to them.

Such a canal has been proposed by the U.S. Water and Power Resources Service, formerly the Bureau of Reclamation. The agency received approval to build the project almost 10 years ago, but has not received funds from Congress.

Opposition to the project from within Idaho last year forced the agency to drop its latest request for funding. Farmers in eastern Idaho objected to the proposal to use wells there to supply a portion of the water for the project.

Purchasing the water may remove that obstacle to the project.

"We're assuming a risk," Lanting said. In the meantime, though, the water could be rented to other users each year through the state water bank, he pointed out.

But why buy water when there is no way to use it, asked one of about 100 people attending a meeting prior to the vote.

Another responded, "We've always said we could get it here if we could get the water."

"It shows we're willing to put up a little front money," said Bill Loughmiller, one of the directors of the Salmon River Canal Co. "It shows we're not just looking for a handout."

Loughmiller, as one of the directors who personally purchased the water, was $54,000 in debt for that purchase until shareholders voted to take it over.

If the company did not want the water, he said, he would keep it himself and find land along the Snake River to irrigate.

"That's cheap water," Loughmiller said.

Crime

Jerome cops hike patrols to nab crooks

JEROME — Police patrols have been increased in Jerome in an effort to reduce a recent increase in burglaries and prowler incidents.

"Have two officers on now who are very effective, and we have been working with businesses in the city to upgrade their crime-prevention efforts," Police Chief James McGowan said Friday.

The chief is attempting to increase crime-prevention funds in his upcoming budget to expand the campaign into residential areas as well. Burglaries have increased in recent weeks, McGowan said, and volunteer help is needed to reverse the trend.

"We are inviting any resident or business owner with questions about better protection against crime to contact us," he added.

Earlier this year, officers contacted most businesses offering suggestions on locks, lighting and other measures that discourage crime.

A number of arrests have been made recently in connection with several crimes.

Among the suspects in two cases — an arson attempt and a window peeping — are two 11-year-old boys.

One child was released to his parents and will be referred to juvenile court in connection with a vice fire Thursday at Alder Street and D Avenue, according to the chief, who said recent, weed fires have posed a threat to adjoining property.

Another 11-year-old was taken into custody after a report of a window peeper at 100 E. C Ave.

Other recent arrests include:

- Douglas Marvel, 19, of Jerome, was arrested for first-degree burglary. He allegedly took a necklace valued at $1,300 from the Linda Harrell home July 27.

- Don Allen Gardner, 29, was taken into custody Aug. 2 by Officer Dennis Rhinehart when he was found in a home at 1717 Kanner Drive.

At Creeksmore, Oregon, was arrested by city and county officers after he allegedly fired a gun into a pickup truck parked near the Towns Motel. McGowan said the incident occurred Wednesday and was witnessed by several people.

Batchelor arraigned on drug charges

By MARTY TRILLHAASE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — An alleged co-conspirator in the case of Twin Falls pharmacist Julian King was arraigned in 5th District Magistrate Court Friday.

Madeline M. Batchelor, 38, was arrested Thursday and charged with one count of conspiring to deliver a controlled substance and one count of possession of a controlled substance.

During her arraignment, Batchelor's lawyer, Randy J. Stoker, requested a preliminary hearing within the next two weeks. Stoker also asked the court to order a medical examination for his client, who at time had been in custody for 24 hours. The defendant reportedly had suffered from drug withdrawal symptoms.

Harold Jensen, chief deputy sheriff for Twin Falls County, said the woman was later examined by a doctor, but he said he didn't know what type of treatment she received.

Later Friday, Batchelor was released from the Twin Falls City Jail when she posted a $10,000 surety bond, set by 5th District Magistrate Court Judge Charles Brumback.

As a result of the arraignment, additional facts on the arrest came to light Friday.

According to probable-cause statements filed with the court, Twin Falls police and Idaho narcotics investigators said they were told by confidential informants that the woman had been selling illegal drugs, obtained through a Twin Falls pharmacist, on a daily basis.

Police said the informant claimed he had obtained such illegal drugs as morphine and codeine from the defendant.

Using that information, police began monitoring City Drug Inc. downtown Twin Falls. Thursday, a state narcotics agent said he observed King hand a brown paper bag to Batchelor.

Police arrested Batchelor after she left the store. They found her in possession of two controlled substances, percodan and codeine. King was then arrested and charged with three felonies: two counts of deliver-

Teachers negotiate contracts

Minidoka

RUPERT — The Minidoka School Board's negotiations committee worked Friday night to resume mediation in teacher contract talks.

However, Superintendent Wayne Fagg decided not to comment on whether progress was made.

"We just don't think it would be good for the public to release information about the meeting," Fagg said. "What we talked about has to be taken to the teachers first."

The ad hoc committee consists of three board representatives, including Fagg, and three teacher representatives.

Friday night's committee meeting was set up after the full board met in closed session Wednesday night to discuss the committee's latest proposals.

Fagg said if progress was made at Friday night's meeting, federal mediator Tom Curdie would be called back into the talks.

Curdie met with both sides after talks broke down May 1, but made no progress.

The main issue under negotiation is a teacher-proposed clause that would make past bargaining agreements part of the permanent contract. But board members claim the clause would illegally bind future boards to past decisions.

Hansen

HANSEN — The latest meeting between Hansen School Board members and teachers was only a review session for two new board members.

Negotiation committees for both sides met Friday night, and mainly reviewed items they've already agreed on. Another negotiation session was not scheduled.

Contract talks were declared at impasse June 3, mainly because agreement on a pay raise could not be made. Hansen teachers want a 12-percent pay hike and a 4-percent fringe benefit hike, but the board has offered a 7-percent pay increase, including fringe benefits.

Superintendent Richard Smith expected talks to go past the start of school, but teachers have already signed individual contracts and are expected to report for classes.

Twin Falls County Fair begins to shape up

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls County Fair officials say they have finalized several aspects of the upcoming fair.

Fair officials said they have distributed the premium books among past fair participants and have additional copies available at the fairgrounds offices in Filer.

Among the changes in the competitions are the following:

- Expansion of the art show building to include participants in the professional, advance-amateurs and amateurs painter categories.

- A new produce competition class to include vegetable gardeners. The category offers a $50 premium.

The fair officially begins Sept. 9 and concludes Sept. 12, although fairgrounds will be open Sept. 8 for judging and the traditional family night. No gate fee will be charged during the Sept. 8 session.

Gate fees during the official fair sessions will be $1.50 for adults and $1 for children ages six to 12.

Children under six will be admitted free.

Shouse said tickets to the four-night rodeo are available at the Filer office on weekdays from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tickets will cost $4 for adults, $3 for students and $2.50 for children under 12. Reserve seat tickets will cost $5.50 and box seats are set at $8.

Drug bust made in city park

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls' third felony drug arrest in 24 hours occurred in the Twin Falls City Park Friday afternoon.

Twin Falls Police and state narcotics agents arrested David E. Smith, 25, of Boise, on two charges of delivering a controlled substance. Police Chief Tim Qualls said the arrest resulted in seizure of more than three pounds of marijuana and more than 7,000 amphetamines.

The substances were sent to a state laboratory for confirmation of their identity. Smith, 25, is in custody under $50,000 bond.

Qualls said the arrest stemmed from an investigation spanning several weeks. The police chief said the case is not related to Thursday's arrests of City Drug pharmacist Julian King, 46, and Madeline M. Batchelor, 38, on narcotics charges.

Abandoned tile net at fault

Water creeps up on city business

TWIN FALLS — Doctoring transmissions is nothing compared to mechanic Conrad Olsen's problems trying to rectify a sudden water seepage.

Two weeks ago, Olsen discovered water seeping through the ordinarily dry ground next to his business, AATCO Transmissions, 2019 Kimberly Road.

In the ensuing days, pools of water developed about a yard from the wall of his garage, settling in pockets at the base of steel billboard supports. Olsen called the Twin Falls Water Department, which pumped enough water to decide it was the problem of the Twin Falls Canal Co.

"We called the canal company, and they said, 'the city does it. Tell us what to do,'" Olsen said. Thursday, he said, he had seen no sign of the canal company, water had been accumulating for two weeks, and his concerns about possible instability of a billboard anchorage was growing. "Nobody seems to know where the water is coming from, or care," he said Thursday.

Olsen, whose problem was alleviated if not cured Friday, apparently is the weebe gone inheritor of backwash stemming from a non-agreement between the Twin Falls Canal Co. and the city.

Twin Falls City Engineer Gary Young said the seepage is related to a tiling network the canal company installed more than 50 years ago to enhance arability of what was then swampy land. As urbanization spread, the canal company "unilaterally relinquished responsibility" for the network, Young said.

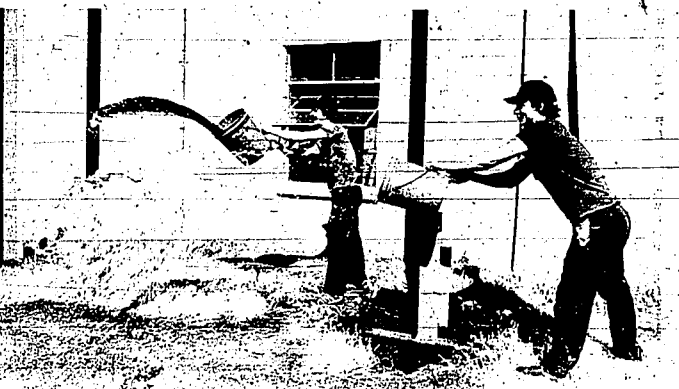

Twin Falls Canal Co. Manager Warren Travis said a drain tile that runs alongside AATCO has been partially blocked by roots and debris, some of it deposited by mischievous children.

The canal company cleared out some of the debris Friday in a gesture of goodwill, according to Travis, who said those efforts could reduce the seepage problem in a few days.

But debris is hardly the crux of the incident at AATCO, Travis said. In 1971, the canal company board resolved to relinquish liability related to company improvements in areas subsequently urbanized. Access problems are too numerous for the company to continue maintenance efforts, he said.

So where does that leave Conrad Olsen? "Right where it leaves everybody else. The responsibility for maintenance rests with the overlying property owner."

Oregon pen escapee apprehended

GOODING — Jimmy Dean Barr, 46, an escapee from the Oregon State Penitentiary, was apprehended by Gooding County Sheriff Robert Aja last week. Barr, who was arrested on a charge of driving while intoxicated, gave his name as Jerry Richards when arrested. During a routine booking procedure, his real identity was established. Aja released the information about Barr's arrest Friday. Monday, he pleaded guilty in 5th District Court to the DWI charge, and a presentence investigation was ordered. Barr is in Gooding County jail awaiting transportation by Oregon authorities. When he was arrested, Barr was accompanied by Rhonda Rance Little, who is wanted in Oregon on felony charges of forgery, first-degree theft and negotiating bad checks, according to the sheriff's department. Little has pleaded guilty in Gooding County to a charge of operating a motor vehicle without a valid driver's license. She also is being held in the county jail while awaiting return to Oregon.

ing a controlled substance and one count of conspiring to deliver a controlled substance. King, 46, was later released after he posted a $5,000 bond.

In other court matters, 5th District Court Judge Theron Ward Friday placed a Twin Falls man on probation after he completed a six-month sentence at the North Idaho Correctional Institute at Cottonwood.

Scott Alan Anderson, 19, pleaded guilty to first-degree burglary on Dec. 5, 1980.

After suspending a five-year prison sentence, Ward ordered the man placed in the custody of the Cottonwood facility. Usually defendants who successfully complete their terms at NICI are placed on supervised probation.

Under the terms of Ward's order, Anderson will be on probation for 18 months.

In another case, Sherri Denise Miller, 23, of Filer, pleaded not guilty to a felony driving-while-intoxicated charge.

Miller was arrested April 25. Because she previously had been convicted of driving while intoxicated, the latest charge was a felony. She remains free on a $1,500 bond, pending scheduling of a trial.

Hiker rescued by helicopter

CHALLIS — A Challis National Forest helicopter crew Friday evacuated a mountain hiker struck by severe pain.

Forest spokesman Gordon Reid said the man's name was being withheld Friday night pending notification of relatives. Reid said a member of the stricken hiker's party walked from the Soldier Lake area; to Roughneck Lookout where he enlisted U.S. Forest Service aid.

A helicopter crew rescued the man early Friday evening and flew him to a medical facility in Challis, Reid said. The victim, whose most intense pain was in his back, was later flown to a Boise hospital.

nessed by a sheriff's deputy, Larry Webb. He and city Officer Raymond Yetman arrested Creemore on charges of firing a weapon within the city limits. The vehicle was owned by John McCulloch of Kamiah. McGowan said his department is seeking citizen cooperation in connection with a large number of prowler complaints in residential areas.

He said 10 incidents were reported in July and four so far in August. However, McGowan discounted any connection between the 11-year-old and the other prowler complaints, saying that was apparently an isolated case.

QUESTION...

Morticians as a rule never advertise prices. Is there any reason why the cost of a funeral should not be publicized?

ANSWER...

As far as we are concerned at the White Mortuary there is no secret about our funeral service costs. Every service we have is plainly marked. People are always welcome to come to our funeral home and compare our prices and services just as they would do in an automobile showroom or in a furniture store.

By the nature of our business we are reluctant to be too forceful in our advertising. We have complete funeral services in all price ranges. We would like to discuss these things as frankly as you will let us.

Mitchell mulls candidacy for Lt. Governor

TWIN FALLS — A northern-Idaho Democrat visited Twin Falls Friday to assess his chances in seeking the Idaho lieutenant governor's post.

Sen. Mike Mitchell, D-Lewiston, said he would like to see more responsibility for the post and a closer working relationship between the state's governor and second in command.

That dream could be realized, Mitchell said, if Gov. John Evans is re-elected and he is elected lieutenant governor. Lt. Gov. Phil Batt, a Republican, has announced he will forego a re-election bid to seek his party's endorsement to oppose Evans.

Mitchell met with directors of the Twin Falls Canal Co. while in town to learn more about the company's right to maintain exclusive rights to its canal. He said after the meeting that, while he still had some things to learn about irrigated agriculture, residents in the southern and northern halves of the state were a lot alike.

Lewiston and the Magic Valley both would like to see controlled growth, he said, to expand available services and generate the tax revenues to conduct research in forestry and agriculture.

Mitchell said he would give some thought to the backing his trip generated and assess the costs of a campaign before deciding whether to enter the race. During the trip, he also met with business leaders in Idaho Falls and education leaders in Pocatello.

The Lewiston Democrat was chairman of a citizens' committee appointed by Evans to look into the Idaho prison riot a year ago. Rep. Lawrence Knigge, R-Filer, was the other lawmaker serving on the panel.

Magistrate applicants hard to find

RUPERT — Applications for the 5th District Magistrate Court position in Minidoka County will be accepted until 5 p.m. Aug. 31.

Fifth District Magistrate Court administrator Phillip Becker said the applications are to fill the Rupert bench seat held by Judge Ronald Bruce. Bruce was named to succeed 5th District Court Judge Sherman J. Bellwood, who retired Aug. 1.

Becker, magistrate judge for Gooding County, said applications should be submitted to him at the Gooding County Courthouse in Gooding.

Becker said the Magistrate Commission of the district will meet in Rupert Aug. 26 to review the applications and interview prospective lawyer magistrates.

The appointment will be effective Sept. 1 at a starting salary of $32,500.

Becker said application forms have been sent throughout the state and qualified lawyers are encouraged to apply.

It is getting more difficult to obtain qualified candidates for magistrate positions, Becker said. Prior to the recent appointment of Roger Burdick as Jerome County magistrate, Becker said the commission "twisted arms" and exerted every effort possible to interest prospective candidates. Although 11 persons applied, five of these did not even show up for interviews and three others were not qualified as they had not passed the Idaho bar examination.

Becker said Burdick, former Jerome County prosecutor, is highly qualified, and he hopes someone of that caliber can be found for the Minidoka County vacancy.

Harmon Park vandalized

TWIN FALLS — Vandalism wrecked a seesaw and shattered a window at Harmon Park sometime Thursday night or Friday morning.

Twin Falls Park Supt. Arnold Bryson told police unknown parties ripped a seesaw from its base and shoved it through a restroom window, overturned bleachers, dislodged the gate to a softball diamond and scattered garbage can contents.

Damage resulting from the vandalism is estimated at $100.

City plans budget hearing Monday

TWIN FALLS — A public hearing on the Twin Falls city budget will be held at 7 p.m. Monday.

A legal-advertisement provided by the city to publicize the hearing inaccurately stated it was scheduled for Aug. 16. The Twin Falls 1981-82 budget will be summarized in a Times-News story Sunday.

Also Monday night, the Twin Falls City Council will hold a special meeting to consider new sewer and water rates, and amendments to the city's sewer and water use ordinances.

City Engineer Gary Young said proposals call for across-the-board increases of 2.5 percent in sewer fees and 6 percent in water fees. Water users' minimum monthly fee of $4.43 would rise to $4.70 for the first 4,000 gallons of water.

Monthly sewer charges would increase from $3.74 to $3.83 for single-family dwellings. Occupants of two-family dwellings would see their fees increase from $6.90 a month to $7.08, and residents of mobile home parks and structures housing more than two families would pay $15.41 a month, compared to the present $3.45.

Monthly minimums for commercial users and for non-commercial users, such as schools and churches, would rise from $3.80 to $3.90. Industry pays for sewer service under individual contracts with the city.

Young said changes in sewer and water use ordinances involve adjustments to reflect compliance with federal regulations, and to correct errors in ordinance wording.

In other business Monday, the City Council will consider changes in the accident leave policy for city employees, and will consider a city-state construction agreement for improvement of the intersection at Falls Avenue and Blue Lakes Boulevard.

Police probe 2 accidents

Also Friday, Twin Falls officers investigated an accident involving a motorist and a pedestrian. Information about possible injuries was unavailable Friday night.

Twin Falls County Sheriff's deputies said a pickup truck driven by Gerald L. Hansen, 41, of Blackfoot, jumped the curb in front of the Roy Raymond Ford dealership, 1243 Blue Lakes Blvd. N., and struck two pickup trucks parked on the dealership's lot. Hansen was treated at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital and released.

Friday afternoon, Twin Falls Police responded to the intersection of Bracken Street North and Borah Avenue West, where a vehicle driven by Eleanor B. Minico continues hex; Sage ousts Cowboys

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

POCATELLO — The Minico Sage kept their showdown record against Twin Falls in perfect condition Friday.

For the fifth consecutive tournament showdown, when a title or elimination was riding on the outcome, the Sage ousted Twin Falls 7-3 in the district American Legion baseball tournament.

The Sage scored six unearned runs and went going away despite the fact Twin Falls pitchers fanned 17 Minico batters. However Bruce "Gus" Christiansen pitched what Minico Coach Rick Baumann said was the best game of Christiansen's career.

The 6-foot-3 hurler faced only the minimum number of batters in the first five innings. Twin Falls Gary Krumm, starting the game, singled but was quickly picked off.

The Sage gave Christiansen a 2-0 lead in the first inning when Lynn VanEvery walked, and Jeff Schow singled before Dave Garro lofted a routine flyball to right which was dropped to score both runners.

From the second through the sixth inning, losing pitcher Lars Hovey fanned 12 Minico batters, but each Sage batter who hit the ball into fair territory reached base.

Three infield hits and an error gave Minico a run in the fifth and in the sixth, it scored its only earned run when Arlyn Smith walked and scored on hits by Tracy Woodskow and VanEvery.

Twin Falls scored its first two runs in the sixth when Brock Miller doubled and Mike Black tripled. Black scored on Krumm's ground out.

In the seventh, Hovey reached on an error, moved to third on Greg Habel's single and a wild pitch and scored on Mike Federico's sacrifice fly.

Although the victory kept Minico's showdown streak (Minico has won two state high school basketball berths and two state baseball berths, high school and Legion) intact against Twin Falls, it leaves Baumann and the Sage looking for two more wins to get into the state playoffs.

They will meet the winner of the Idaho Falls-Burley game at 11 a.m. today.

Earlier in the day, Rexburg, which entered the tourney with a 6-18 record, topped Idaho Falls 7-4 to gain the championship semifinals against Pocatello.

Baumann credited the success of today and past victories over Twin Falls to character.

"Gus throws the best game of his career; just shuts them out," he said.

"I was surprised when I went out to talk to him in the seventh inning because I just wanted to remind him of the bad situation," he said.

"Coach, I've had it. (Christiansen has been bothered by arm troubles since early spring).

"So we brought in Smith and he did the job. All of our kids did the job again today and I call that character."

The Sage have used five pitchers in two games and looking toward today's battle, Baumann said, "We've just got to have someone who can come back and throw tomorrow. We've got to go one at a time from now on and hope the kids can answer the call."

Dejected Cowboys Coach Jim Dawson could find little good to say about his team's offensive and defensive performance. "We got some great pitching. Lars strikes out 13 and Steve (Kravitz) comes in and strikes out four more. That should be enough to win a game, but you can't win if you can't hit the ball or catch it. I tried to get them up the best I could, but it looked to me like they were just going through the motions."

Russetts finish Burley

POCATELLO — Andy Cordes capped a five-run third inning with a two-run homer Friday night to put Idaho Falls past the Burley Braves 11-4.

The defeat knocked Burley out of the double elimination district American Legion tournament while Idaho Falls advanced to a loser out game against the Minico Sage to be played at 11 a.m. today.

The five-run third inning took all the win out of Burley's resistance and after that, losing pitcher Rick Asson was betrayed by nine Brave errors as the Russetts moved away.

Asson had retired the first six men and had two outs in the third when the roof caved in. Phil Brasse singled and Doug Gurley lived on an error, which made all of the three runs unearned.

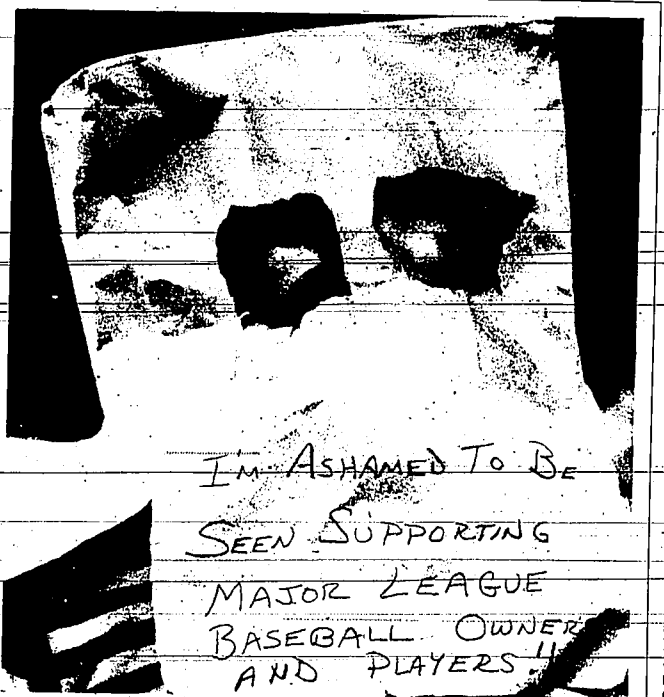

Darrell Freiler followed with an RBI single and two more scored on Tim Miller's single. Cordes then launched his homer over the left field fence.

Two errors gave Idaho Falls another run in the fifth and the Russetts moved completely out of reach with five more runs in the sixth.

A double by Stan Walters and Miller's second base hit combined with four Burley errors provided all the scoring.

Burley scored twice in the bottom of the fifth when Jim Loya was hit by a pitch. At that point, Scott Berkenbine replaced Tony Dineen. Asson greeted the new pitcher with a double and Mark Leonard chased both runs across with a single up the middle.

In the sixth, a walk and a throwing error put Keith Bird at first base and he scored on Asson's hit. A walk to Jim McCord, followed by a wild pitch and another error, provided Burley's final run in the seventh.

A fan attending an Atlanta-Milwaukee exhibition game Friday let his feelings be known

This year's All-Star Game most historic of them all?

CLEVELAND (UPI) — With the first pitch yet to be thrown, the 52nd All-Star Game appears certain to take a place among the most historic of all mid-season classics.

Since the inception of the All-Star Game in 1933, virtually no classic has represented exactly what Sunday's match between the American and National League does — the ceremonial reunion from a 56-day strike with the prospect of a unique split season to follow.

Fittingly, the All-Star Game symbolizes a chaos that has overtaken the national pastime since 1981.

Even the players, due to the strike of the air traffic controllers and their workouts with their own teams, were scattered in arriving and no workout was scheduled today.

A spokeswoman for the commissioner's headquarters in Cleveland said Friday it was impossible to judge which players had arrived and which had not.

The game faces other obstacles:

The Cleveland Browns and the Pittsburgh Steelers are scheduled for an NFL exhibition game tonight, an event that could leave the field in considerably worse shape than it would have been if the game had been played on schedule on July 14. The field was also soaked Friday by a heavy rain that lasted a good part of the afternoon.

Then again, the condition of the field may not be appreciably better than that of the players, who have struggled to get in shape since the end of the strike on July 31.

The condition of the players figures to play an important part in the unfolding of the game. Barring an excursion into extra innings, no pitcher should be called upon to go more than two innings. The teams have also been permitted to raise their rosters to 30 players.

The weather forecast for the game calls for partly cloudy skies. If it did rain, it would mark still another point of frustration for this city, which has done a commendable job of repairing to host The Game That Nearly Wasn't Played.

The Cleveland Indians expected a capacity crowd of 76,713, which would make it the largest crowd to ever witness an All-Star Game.

On Friday, signs pointed the way to special transportation to the All-Star facilities while telephone calls to the Cleveland Indians' switchboard indicated the club was swamped with last-minute details.

In short, in the absence of some extraordinary event in the game itself, it appeared fairly sure that this game would be remembered as the one that reintroduced the "Asterisks Season."

2 Pirates injured in accident

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Pirates Friday placed Don Robinson on the 21-day disabled list because of hand injuries the pitcher sustained in a traffic accident.

The club also reactivated veteran outfielder-first baseman Bill Robinson.

Don Robinson, who was a passenger in a van driven by Pirate right-hander Jim Bibby, injured his hand early Friday when the vehicle was struck broadside by a taxi and flipped over onto its side.

The third, fourth and fifth fingers on the Robinson's right hand were cut and the ring finger required six stitches. He will be unable to pitch for a week to 10 days, said club spokesman Tom Bird.

Bill Robinson, who underwent surgery in April for a partially torn right Achilles tendon, was examined Thursday in Philadelphia by Dr. Joseph Torg, who allowed him to play again.

The two moves kept the Pirates' roster at 25, but Bird said another pitcher may be placed on the squad before the Pirates resumes the season Monday at Montreal.

Bird said pitchers who might be brought up from the Busch AAA farm club, the Portland (Ore.) Beavers, were right-handers Bob Long, who has an 11-3 record; Ernie Camacho, who was with the Bucs earlier this season; and veteran Luis Tiant.

Police said the driver of the cab, James Clemente, 47, of the Portland, Bellevue, Pa., reported that Bibby ran a red light, but the pitcher said the light was yellow when he went through the intersection.

'Pudgy' Murphy holds PGA lead

DULUTH, Ga. (UPI) — Bob Murphy doesn't fit the prototype of a champion golfer, but he certainly plays like one.

Murphy, a pudgy 5-foot-10, 287-pounder, bounced back from a "near disastrous" start Friday with back-to-back birdies near the end of the second round to shoot a one-under-par 69 and retain his one-stroke lead in the rain-delayed PGA Championship.

For the second day in a row, play was halted Friday before the round was completed. In a repeat of the first round, a thunderstorm moved into the area at mid-afternoon Friday and suspended play for 55 minutes and play was suspended for the day at 5:15 p.m. MDT with 23 golfers still on the course. No one who had not finished was challenging for the lead.

Officials said the second-round play would resume at 6 a.m. today with the third round getting underway 2 1/2 hours later.

"I think it's pretty obvious from looking at me that I don't worry about my weight very much," quipped Murphy. "I figure in my lifetime, I've lost 50 to 600 pounds. The last time I went on a diet, I lost seven pounds in seven days and couldn't hit my driver 140 yards."

"I got off that and back on the beer and now I'm back in business."

Murphy led the first round after shooting a course-record four-under-par 66 but felt quickly behind Friday when he bogeyed the first hole.

"I had to sink a 15 footer to save that bogey," moaned the leader. "I was close disaster. It would have been terrible to start with a double bogey."

The 38-year-old Murphy, with a 135 total, was a shot ahead of the three next-best 36-hole finishers — Larry Nelson, who matched Murphy's Open record 66 Friday; young Dan Pohl, who had a 67; and veteran Bob Eastwood, who had a 69.

Two back, at 137 after a Friday 69, was former U.S. Open champ Andy North.

Tom Kite, the tour's fourth-leading money winner with more than $227,000 thanks to 14 top-10 finishes in 19 tournament appearances, former Masters champion Fuzzy Zoeller, and tour sophomore Vance Heafner were three shots back at Murphy at 138 after posting rounds of 67, 68 and 70 respectively.

BOB MURPHY uses late rally

Another stroke back, were defending champion Jack Nicklaus, who shot a 68 Friday in his chase of an unprecedented sixth PGA Championship; Jerry Pate, who won the 1976 U.S. Open on the site of this year's PGA with a sensational shot out of the rough on the final hole; and Gil Morgan.

"I'm glad to be playing well and especially glad to be putting well," said Murphy who hasn't won on the tour since the 1975 Inverrary but earned well over $1 million in his 14-year career. "That's been my problem the last two years."

Pohl, 26, had a shot at sharing the lead when he went to 5-under with a birdie at the 17th hole Friday. But he bogeyed the final hole.

"Anyone who knows me knows I'm not particularly straight off the tee," said Pohl. "But I've been hitting a lot of 4-woods, sacrificing distance for accuracy. I'm just going out and aiming at the flag. I know I can make a lot of birdies."

Tom Watson, leading money winner on the tour, appeared to have played himself out of the PGA, a tournament he has never won, with thirds of 75-73-148, suffering a double bogey on the final hole. Arnold Palmer and Gary Player were only one stroke better at 147 which was expected to be the limit when the field is trimmed to the low 70 scorers (and ties).

18th gains revenge on Pate

DULUTH, Ga. (UPI) — The 18th hole of the Atlanta Athletic Club, which gave Jerry Pate his 1976 U.S. Open victory, got its revenge Friday.

Pate was cruising along three-under par for the round when he arrived at No. 18, but he hit his drive in the lush Bermuda rough and was forced to play his second shot back into the fairway, resulting in a bogey for a 68 and a 139 total.

"I don't think I have ever hit it in the fairway on 18," said Pate. But that didn't matter in 1976 when he hit a five-iron out of the rough to within three feet of the pin for a birdie and the Open title.

Athletic Club officials have installed a plaque in the rough at the spot where Pate hit his five-iron and he admitted Friday he has trouble concentrating when he gets to the 18th tee.

"Rather than think about the drive, I'm worried about what everybody else is thinking — 'What's he going to do this time?' — instead of playing the hole," he explained.

Despite the bogey finish, Pate was still optimistic, noting that his 129 total was one shot better than his 36-hole total in 1976 when he started off 71-69.

"Maybe I should have three-putted 18 since I shot 69 in the second round in '76," he said.

Twin Falls teams dominate A softball touney

TWIN FALLS — Four Twin Falls teams reached the semifinals of the winners' bracket in the Class A district men's softball tournament at Harmon Park Friday night.

The most dramatic contest was the final one, with Club 93 outlasting Halley Hotel 12-10 on Ron Blake's three-run home run in the bottom of the seventh inning.

Other local victors were Wholesale Carrels, a 15-11 victor over Skaggs Furniture of Burley; Coors of Magic Valley, which stomped Donnelly's Sporting Goods 25-2; and Corner Pocket-Depot Grill-Turf Club (generally known as Depot-Turf), a 12-0 winner over Seven-Up.

In the losers' bracket, Great Expectations from Jerome eliminated Twin Falls Bank & Trust, 12-4, and Irving's of Sun Valley won by forfeit over Kerb's Oil.

Today Depot-Turf meets Wholesale Carrels in one semifinal, with Club 93 facing Coors in the other.

The home run played a major part in the offensive production in nearly every game — and none more so than the Club 93-Halley battle.

Jim Kennedy got Club 93 going with a grand slam home run in the bottom of the second inning, but Halley fought back to tie the score 8-8 by the fifth on Dan Stinnett's round-tripper.

Allen Sherbinke's solo homer in the bottom of the inning restored the lead to Club 93, 9-8, but Halley struck for two runs in the top of the seventh to take a 10-9 lead.

Halley appeared to have won the game, but its second baseman bobbled a grounder with two out and a runner on first in the bottom of the seventh, allowing Blake, who had already hit a home run and was 3-for-3 at that point, another trip to the plate.

Blake watched a ball go by, clubbed one foul, and took another ball. Then he lifted a sky-scraping shot over the left field fence to settle matters.

No less than 12 home runs were crushed during Wholesale Carrel's triumph. Paul DeWitt hit two homers for Wholesale, and Tony Wilson added two more for Skaggs.

Coors showed no mercy in its victory over Donnelly's, scoring seven runs in the fifth and rampaging for 13 more in the seventh. John Bryant had two home runs for Coors, while Gary Hult and Kent Rodesth had one apiece.

Depot-Turf was held close by Seven-Up at the outset. However, Seven-up was held hitless until the fourth inning. Soon thereafter, Depot-Turf broke the game wide open with a four-run fifth inning and a six-run sixth. Bruce Thibodeau's home run highlighted the fifth-inning rally.

Mambo's Royal Lounge of Twin Falls, R&R Lounge of Buhl and Blincoes of Gooding, also stayed undefeated in the 102-game touney with quarterfinal wins.

Circle 4 wasaced by Mike Desnoe and Rick Beagle, each hitting a homer. Alan Weeks had two triples and two singles for Henderson & Gifford.

Henderson & Gifford trailed 12-8 going into the last of the seventh inning before Bryn Ford doubled in two runs with two outs. Circle 4 then

Champion Raiders open with Falcons

By United Press International

They may not be favored to win the Super Bowl this season, but the Oakland Raiders have traveled that road before.

In some circles, the Raiders were not even mentioned as a playoff contender. However, the rejuvenated team went on to capture Super Bowl XV in convincing fashion over the Philadelphia Eagles.

The Raiders open their 1981 exhibition season tonight against the Atlanta Falcons in Oakland. The site may be a temporary one since a jury has not yet reached a verdict on whether or not the Raiders can move to Los Angeles.

Coach Tom Flores remembers how the oddsmakers rated his team last year and puts little credence in this year's prediction, which gives the favorite role to AFC West rival San Diego.

"I don't think many people in pro football pay much attention to the odds," said Flores. "Does anyone now remember where we were rated last year? I know it was way down the list. Games are won on the field, not in an oddsmaker's head."

Flores will start the same personnel against Atlanta that started in the last Super Bowl.

Jim Plunkett, Comeback Player of the Year in 1980, will open at quarterback. He won't play much, though, because the Raiders' would like a long look at Marc Wilson, last year's No. 1 pick from Brigham Young, to groom him as a future starter.

Dan Pastorini, who opened the 1980 season as No. 1 before breaking leg early in the season, is still with the Raiders, but has not participated in training camp because he is recovering from another injury.

The Falcons lost to the Cleveland Browns in the Hall of Fame game last week and offensive coordinator Pat Howell will not play against Oakland. Rookie linebacker Neil Musser and second-year linebacker Buddy Curry also may not play.

Mike Moroski will start at quarterback for Atlanta instead of Steve Bartkowski, who is not scheduled to play.

In other games today, Baltimore is at New Orleans, Cincinnati at Tampa Bay, Detroit at Buffalo, Green Bay at Dallas, Miami at Minnesota, the New York Giants at Chicago, Pittsburgh at Cleveland and St. Louis at San Diego.

At Cleveland, it may be called an exhibition game but a Browns-Steelers match is never for practice.

Running back Charles White, the 1979 Heisman Trophy winner, is on the Browns bench most of last year, will be starting and feels he has something to prove.

"It's very important to me," said White. "It's an opportunity to show what I can do. I know the coaches will be watching."

More than 65,000 fans are expected for the game, the Browns' first home game since their playoff loss to the Oakland Raiders last year.

Exhibitions Leahy, Todd help Jets crush Broncos

DENVER (UPI) — Pat Leahy connected on four field goals and Richard Todd threw a 31-yard touchdown pass to Johnny Jones to lead the New York Jets to a 33-7 pre-season victory over the Denver Broncos Friday night.

Mike Augustyniak and Jerry Holmes rushed for one touchdown apiece to help power the Jets. The Broncos' only touchdown came in the third period, when rookie Mark Herrmann, caught Larry Brunson streaking down the left sideline with a 68-yard scoring pass.

On Denver's first play from scrimmage, quarterback Matt

Robinson handed off to running back Dave Preston, who raced 46 yards to the 44. But the drive fizzled and rookie Glen Walker missed a 50-yard field goal attempt.

Both teams had drives stopped in the first period by quarterback sacks. Tom Jackson caught Todd behind the line for a 13-yard loss and on Denver's next possession, Robinson was thrown for a 14-yard loss in the first appearance of Denver's much-publicized shotgun.

The Jets scored on their next possession, with Leahy kicking a 32-yard field goal with five seconds left in the quarter after a holding call wiped out a touchdown run by Tom Newton.

New York cornerback Bobby Jackson intercepted a Robinson pass on the first play in the second half, giving the Jets the ball on the Broncos 19. They drove to the 12, but a field goal attempt grazed the outside of the right upright.

Denver's next possession was wasted and the Jets took over on their own 36. New York drove to the 12, but came up a yard short as the Denver defense held. The Broncos took over on the 11, but couldn't move the ball and three plays later, Robinson's pass was intercepted by free safety Darrol Ray.

The Jets wasted little time. Todd completed a 31-yard touchdown pass on the next play, hitting Jones in the seven-second scoring drive. On its next possession, New York, starting from its 27, drove 54 yards in just over 13 minutes for a second field goal by Leahy, this one from 37 yards out.

The half closed to the sound of vigorous boing as the Broncos left the field. The total offensive production by Denver was 37 yards in the first half, compared to 191 for the Jets.

Stacy's four-under 68 gives her 1-shot lead

WHEELING, W.Va. (UPI) — Veteran Hollis Stacy stroked a four-under-par 68 Friday to take a one-shot lead in the opening round of the West Virginia LPGA Classic.

The two-time U.S. Open champion recorded five birdies and bogeyed only one hole at Ogletree Park's Speidel Course.

Right behind Stacy was Kathy Postlewait at 69.

A dozen players were bunched in third place at 2-under-par 70. Seven more were knotted at Under 71 and 13 finished at even par.

"I'm not used to being out front," Stacy said. "I'm usually hacking my way up 'til the end of the tournament."

Stacy, 27, a native of Savannah, Ga., shot par through the first three holes. She then birdied the fourth, ninth, 11th, 14th and 15th holes to go 5-under.

However, she stumbled on the 16th when she missed a three-foot putt for a bogey.

The leader, parred No. 17, and got into trouble again on the final hole when she shot into a trap at the left of the green. However, Stacy blasted out within 25 feet of the cup and used two putts to save par.

Stacy never has won the tournament, and her best finish was second in 1977 — the year she won the first of two straight U.S. Open titles.

Postlewait, 31, who has yet to win a tournament in seven years on the LPGA tour, fired three birdies on the front nine and parred the next seven holes. She bogeyed No. 17, then calmly chipped in a 20-foot shot for a birdie 40 on the final hole.

Sandra Post, who won the West Virginia tournament in a playoff over Donna Caponi last year, shot a 70.

Postlewait said it was her experience that helped her play one of her better rounds.

"I know this course like the back of my hand," Postlewait said. "It's one of my favorites."

Interception, Moseley power Redskins

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Monte Coleman returned an interception 28 yards for a touchdown and Mark Moseley kicked field goals from 39, 35 and 28 yards Friday night to give the Washington Redskins a 16-10 exhibition victory over the Kansas City Chiefs.

Nick Lowery kicked a 52-yard field goal and the Chiefs added a touchdown in the final two minutes on Bill Kenney's 32-yard pass to wide receiver Henry Marshall.

Coleman's interception came with 1:06 to play in the third quarter, shortly after the Redskins had squandered a 68-yard kickoff return by rookie Gilbert Scah.

Lowery had tied the score at 3-3 with 6:05 to play in the third quarter. Seay returned the ensuing kickoff 68 yards to the Kansas City 28 before being caught from behind by rookie Ozzie Harrell.

The Redskins lost 22 yards on two running plays, a completed pass for a 5-yard loss and a 10-yard penalty.

After Redskins Mike Kirkland punted to the Kansas City 28, Coleman intercepted Kenney's pass toward Billy Jackson and went 28 yards untouched for the game's only touchdown.

Moseley pushed the Redskins lead to 13-3 with 11:55 left in the game with his 35-yard field goal.

Rookie quarterback Tom Flick passed six yards to tight end Phil

DuBois and 14 yards to rookie wide receiver Charlie Brown to set up the field goal.

Moseley's third field goal came with 2:41 to play after defensive end Kenney's fumble at the Kansas City 17.

The Chiefs moved to their touchdown on their next possession thanks to a 30-yard punt penalty against Redskins rookie defensive back LeCharles McDaniel.

Kenney hit Marshall for the touchdown with 1:53 to play.

Starter Joe Theismann, playing only in the first half, completed 12-of-19 for 125 yards.

The Chiefs lost starting quarterback Steve Fuller when he strained his right knee trying to evade the Redskins' pass rush in the final two minutes of the first half.

Kansas City moved from its 35 to the Washington 33 for Lowery's field goal.

Kenney, who replaced Fuller late last season and led the Chiefs to two victories in their final three games, passed 74 yards to Jackson and 6 yards to tight end Marvin Harvey to set up the field goal.

Early in the second quarter, the Redskins botched a scoring opportunity when tight end Rick Walker bobbled Theismann's pass at the Chiefs' 5 and rookie Lloyd Bursuss intercepted.

Jaeger, Ruzici, Lendl reach semis

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Top-seeded Andre Jaeger and No. 2 seed Virginia Ruzici advanced to the finals with straight set victories Friday in the women's singles competition at the U.S. Open Clay Court tennis championships.

The men's top seed, Ivan Lendl of Czechoslovakia, advanced to the final with a 6-3, 6-1 victory over unseeded Ricardo Canas, also of Argentina.

Later quarterfinal matches pitted Guillermo Vilas against Ricardo Canas, and Mel Purcell against defending champion and No. 2 seed Jose-Luis Clerc.

Jaeger, 16, Lincolnshire, Ill., defeated third-ranked Mima Jausovec of Yugoslavia, 6-6, 6-1, at the Indianapolis Sports Center. Ruzici, 26, Romania, held on for a 7-6 victory in the first set against Czechoslovakian Itegrin Marsikova, and then trounced her in the second set, 6-0.

Jaeger's appearance in the final was her second in a row. She lost to six-time champion Chris Evert Lloyd last year, giving her something in common with her final match opponent.

Ruzici's career record against Evert-Lloyd is 6-9. It includes losses this year in the Italian Open final, the Swiss Open final, and the semifinals at Hilton Head and Amelia Island, She also lost to her in the finals of the 1980 Italian and the 1980 French Open.

It has been two years since she has won a major title, and she would like to break that string.

"I hope tomorrow I produce my best tennis," she said. "It would be great for me to win a tournament. I've been to many finals in the last two years. I need to win a tournament."

Still, her final match opponent is considered the next Chris Evert, and Ruzici was unable to say who she has the advantage.

"I wonder which one has the edge," she said. "Maybe I have the edge because I am older and have experience, or maybe she has the edge because she is younger."

Both winners outlasted weary opponents. Marsikova said she battled a case of nerves all day, and said she was tired from two matches Thursday.

"I was a little bit nervous today," said the 22-year-old from Prague. "I was hitting a lot of short balls and she just killed me. I was just pushing the ball all the time."

Jausovec played a lengthy match against Anne-Smith Thursday, and admitted to being very tired.

"I just gave everything for yesterday's match," she said. "Andrea just hit everything back. I think she missed only five shots all match."

Weird baseball season most likely to remain controversial

By FRED DOWN
UPI Sports Writer

As the major league umpires were saying when they were so rudely interrupted: "Play ball."

With the memories of a 50-day strike behind them and the uncertainties of a split schedule ahead, baseball's millionaire laborers resume the summer game with the extravaganzas of their annual All-Star game in Cleveland Sunday night and a full slate of regular-season games on Monday.

The sport's most controversial season threatens to remain just that as members of the teams which led their divisions on June 11 — the New York Yankees and Oakland A's in the American League and the Philadelphia Phillies and Los Angeles Dodgers in the National League — face the curiosities of the split schedule.

Basically a split schedule — long a minor league gimmick for retaining interest over the full season — means the winners of the first half play the winners of the second half for the privilege of meeting in the league's final championship series and, in this case, going onto the World Series.

The gimmick is that a team which wins both parts of the split season doesn't automatically advance to the finals. It must still play the runnerup in its division with the best overall season record. Take that one in the bread basket, Reggie and Pals!

The All-Star game will climax a weekend that is being called the greatest sports weekend in Cleveland since the Indians won the World Series in 1948.

The weekend begins Saturday night with the Pittsburgh Steelers playing the Cleveland Browns in a National Football League exhibition game. Roberto Duran returns to the ring Sunday afternoon for the first time since his controversial loss to Sugar Ray Leonard in New Orleans and Sunday night comes baseball's All-Star game.

The American League schedule resumes Monday night with Kansas City at Baltimore, Milwaukee at Cleveland, Chicago at Boston, Toronto at Detroit, Texas at New York, Oakland at Minnesota and California at Seattle.

In the National League it will be New York at Chicago in an afternoon game and Pittsburgh at Montreal, St. Louis at Philadelphia, New York at Chicago, Cincinnati at Los Angeles, Atlanta at San Diego and Houston at San Francisco in night games.

The owners' hopes that the split schedule concept will cause a swift renewal of fan interest and a flurry of ticket-buying is supported by the results of the first part of the season.

The Yankees' two-game lead over the Baltimore Orioles in the American League East was the biggest lead of any of the division leaders. The Philadelphia Phillies led the St. Louis Cardinals in the National League East and the Oakland A's led the Texas Rangers in the American League

West by 1 1/2 games each while the Los Angeles Dodgers had a half-game margin over the Cincinnati Reds in the National League West.

The owners reason that it wouldn't take much for the runnersup in all four divisions to win the second half races and thus create eight winners instead of the usual four. In any event, the gimmick is likely to create fresh interest in several cities after the long, empty weeks of the strike.

Don't want to return July 1 pay

Umpires threaten to boycott All-Star game

NEW YORK (UPI) — Major-league umpires, dissatisfied with the request that they repay part of their salary during the players' strike, are threatening to boycott Sunday night's All-Star Game in Cleveland, it was reported Friday night.

American League umpire Steve Palermo, interviewed on ESPN, the cable sports network, said that if the umpires are not allowed to keep the salary which was paid them on July 1, they will not work on Sunday and may not report for the beginning of the regular season on Monday.

"This stumbling block has arisen in the last 24 hours," Palermo said, "and that's the result of this possible boycott of the All-Star Game."

The AL and National League have asked the umpires to repay part of the salaries they received during the seven-week strike, claiming their contracts did not cover the full length of the walkout. But Palermo said that the umpires remained employed by the leagues for the duration of the strike.

"If we had gotten a suspension notice from the leagues saying we were to be suspended, then we would have no choice," Palermo said. "But we did not get a suspension notice, so we were still continuing as employees and we should be paid for the last 30 days."

Palermo said that Richie Phillips, the head of the umpires' union, was scheduled to meet with AL President Lee MacPhail and NL President Charles Feeney on Saturday. He did not disclose the site.

"Richie Phillips will make an announcement on Sunday whether we're going to work or not," he said, "it's in negotiations with the league heads. Hopefully, it will be resolved."

"If they come up with the money, we'll work. If there is no resolution, we will not work on Sunday and we may not work on Monday."

'Disgusted' Busch voted against agreement

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — August A. Busch Jr., the president of the St. Louis Cardinals who voted against ratifying the settlement that ended the baseball strike, says the agreement left him "disgusted, angry and ashamed."

Busch, the 82-year-old honorary chairman of Anheuser-Busch-Incorporated, the largest brewery in the team, read a volatile speech at Thursday's meeting of major league team owners in Chicago.

"I am here to speak to you today because in my years, both business and personal, I have never been more disgusted, angry and ashamed of a situation in which I was involved," Busch told the owners.

"Once again we are being ridiculed by everyone — inside and outside of Sports."

Busch said the compensation agreement reached with major league players presented owners with nothing.

"What did we end up with?" he asked. "If the Cubs lose a player to the Phillies through free agency, then possibly I have the honor of giving the Cubs my 27th best player — marvelous compensation."

A precedent has been set. A horrible contract has been extended for one year. In return we have the privilege of increasing players' minimum salary to $40,000 in 1984 with nothing in return regarding pension contributions.

"We will never again be in a position to get strike insurance. We have made the union our partner."

Busch, who also voted against the split season formal approved by the owners, was one of three team owners who voted against the settlement. The other two were Cincinnati and Minnesota.

"While everyone must share the blame, the major blame lies in this room," Busch said. "The owners who forced this settlement by their actions in New York sold us out because of their individual problems and egos."

"There are owners who undermined the Players Relations Committee and shamefully cheated and deceived all of us. They think they are the future of baseball but, believe me, they are not worthy to even carry the banner of a Walter O'Malley, Phil Wrigley, Horace Stoneham, Bob Carpenter, Mrs. Payson and, of course, my dear friend, John Fetzer."

"I have been in baseball in good times and in bad but none so shameful."

Howe, top NL hitter, not picked; will skip All-Star game

HOUSTON (UPI) — Normally unassuming Art Howe, the National League's leading hitter but left off the All-Star team, angrily says he will not participate — even as an alternate.

"I was leading the league in hitting. What the hell do you have to do to make the team? I may never make it now," said the usually reserved Howe. "I have never been more alternate, but if someone gets hurt and can't go, I'm not going."

"I guess I'm hurt, yeah, because I knew I couldn't do any more to make the team. If I was fifth in the league or something, I would say anything. But you tell me what I have to do to get on the All-Star team. I don't know."

Howe, 34, has spent five years leading in major league obscenity. This year, however, he will have to play every day at third base and, in batting .344, He has battled injuries. Last year, he played with a broken jaw.

National League manager Dallas Green chose Pittsburgh's Bill Madlock, hitting .326, to back up Phillies third baseman Mike Schmidt on the All-Star team. Howe was named first alternate in case someone gets hurt.

Although the New York Mets' Joel Youngblood has been listed as an alternate, he has been listed as an alternate leading hitter at .359, he did not have enough at-bats before the strike to qualify.

Before the strike, Howe had a 23-game hitting streak, breaking outfielder Cesar Cedeno's club record, and he had committed only six errors in 54 games at third base.

Howe's teammates share his anger. "I really feel for him. Good grief. How can that be?" outfielder Terry Puhl said.

Briefly in sports

Baseball teams alive in tourney

BLACKFOOT — Two Twin Falls Little League baseball teams are still alive in the annual Blackfoot Invitational tourney.

The Twin Falls Kiwanis are in the championship bracket after having won three games, one each over Madison, Caldwell and Blackfoot.

The Kiwanis play their morning against a Blackfoot all-star team and if they win, they'll be in the finals at 4 p.m.

The Twin Falls Men's Softball Association team is also in the tourney and won its first game over Pocatello 7-3. A loss to another Pocatello team Thursday put the team into the losers' bracket before the Red Rexture 9-4 Friday to continue a long road towards the title game. The tourney is double elimination in format.

The Twin Falls Kiwanis team is attempting to win its third straight tournament after having won both the Jerome Invitational and the Ray Nelson tourney at Hailey late last month.

Filer coach to issue equipment

FILER — Joe Leach, Filer High's new football coach, will distribute football equipment to prospective players starting Monday.

Seniors and Juniors can get their gear starting at 7 p.m. Monday at the wrestling room. Sophomores and freshmen can get their gear Tuesday at the same time and place.

Leach said the first practice will be Wednesday at 7 p.m.

"We will hold just one practice a day until we see how many players we have," Leach said. "The following week we will probably go to two practices a day."

Leach was the assistant basketball coach at Arco last season and was the head football coach at Blackfoot High School for three years before going to Arco last year.

Hansen sets volleyball meeting

HANSEN — Girls interested in playing volleyball for the Hansen High team this fall should attend a meeting Wednesday at 5 p.m. at the school gymnasium.

Practice will begin Thursday.

Duran completes fight workouts

CLEVELAND (UPI) — A trim Roberto Duran finished the last of his workouts Friday for Sunday's comeback fight with Nino Gonzalez and his trainer reported him very near to reaching his required 154 pounds.

The official weigh-in will be his last.

In the aftermath of his crushing loss to Sugar Ray Leonard last fall, Duran ballooned to 182 pounds, but he shed most of the excess pounds and once again looked like the man with the fists of stone.

Golfer gets 2 aces in one round

STONEY BROOK, N.Y. (UPI) — William D'Avanzo waited 60 years for his first hole-in-one, but it only took him another two hours to get his second.

The Milledale, N.Y., golfer recorded the first two aces of his career Thursday during a single round at St. George's Golf and Country Club on Long Island.

D'Avanzo, playing with three others, made his holes-in-one by using a four-wood on the 181-yard seventh hole and a seven-iron on the 122-yard 17th.

Idaho brass face cost problems

MOSCOW (UPI) — University of Idaho officials have begun negotiating with contractors in an effort to reduce the cost of the under-construction addition to the Kibbie Dome.

Ken Hall, director of the university's physical plant, said 27 contractors holding contracts for portions of the project were being asked to reduce their original bids.

Hall said the university had estimated the expansion would cost $1,046,000, but the base bids added up to $3,661,000.

Construction began last month and Hall said the project was expected to be completed by summer 1982.

Myricks hits 27-6 in long jump

LYNDON (UPI) — American Larry Myricks, recording the third-best long jump in the world this year, highlighted the opening of the English Open Track and Field Championships Friday with a leap of 8.38 meters (27 feet, 6 inches).

The jump was a United Kingdom record and was just short of Myricks' personal best of 8.45 meters set earlier this year. University of Houston sophomore Carl Lewis has the year's best long jump at 8.62 meters.

Myricks' closest competitor was Roy Mitchell of Britain, who leaped 7.60 meters. Arnie Robinson of the U.S. finished third at 7.44.

Mel Lattany and John Powell, also of the U.S., scored predictable wins in the 100-meter dash and the discus throw, respectively.

Holman tries for bowling sweep

AUSTIN, Texas (UPI) — Marshall Holman will try to complete a sweep of the Professional Bowlers Association's three Texas tour stops beginning today at the Austin Open.

Holman earlier this year captured the PBA tournaments in Grand Prairie, Texas, and in Houston, collecting $41,000 in the process. He could add another $16,000 with a win at this week's visit to Austin.

Holman is second in PBA earnings this year with $111,685, behind the $141,455 earned by Earl Anthony. Although Anthony has won 36 PBA crowns during his career, the left-hander has never captured a Texas event.

The tour's third and fourth leading money winners are also in the field — Tom Baker ($100,335) and Wayne Webb ($80,230).

NCAA investigating Wisconsin

MADISON, Wis. (UPI) — University of Wisconsin Athletic Director Elroy Hirsch said Friday the Big Ten school has received an "Official Inquiry" from the NCAA for alleged recruiting violations.

The inquiry, issued July 15, stems from the recruitment of Carlton Walker, an offensive tackle on the Wisconsin football team.

Hirsch said the university must respond to the inquiry by Oct. 5, after which the NCAA will consider the case. In the meantime, Hirsch said, there will be no further comment.

The school hired attorney William Coffey to study the case after receiving an informal inquiry from the NCAA in April 1980. Coffey's report said certain violations had occurred in the recruitment of Walker.

The report was forwarded to the NCAA in October, Hirsch said.

What's what George Burns says it well about people aging

George Burns in his mid-80s has something to say, too, about the joys of the elderly: "A lot of people practice getting old. They start to walk slower and they hold onto things. They start avoiding when they are 70 and before long they're a bit, they've made it. They are now old. Who wants that?"

Xen asked if there's much wild marijuana growing in this country. Quite a bit. Birds seed it. Remember that, if a pot plant is found in your back forty. Tell them, "My canary did it."

What, you've never heard of a picklesope, that cross between a pickle and a cantaloupe? Such there be.

NUDIST CAMPS

Q. Do nudist camps let single men join?
A. Now most do. But none did 50 years ago. The early camp operators in New York and New Jersey regarded unattached males as a threat to healthy family nudism.

Q. Was California Sen. S. I. Hayakawa born in this country?
A. No, sir, in Canada.

Q. How far can a Monarch butterfly go without refueling?
A. About 620 miles.

Q. Do people eat crows?
A. Certainly do. In some regions of Europe, particularly.

Q. What's the difference between "heat lightning" and plain old ordinary everyday lightning?
A. No difference, except distance. Plains folk dubbed it heat lightning because they couldn't see a storm or hear any thunder. But it was just far away, that's all.

SCARECROWS

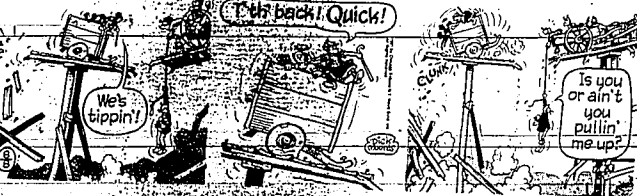

Brew a liquor from molasses and sugar cane and put pots of it out in the jungle where the wild monkeys can find it. They get so drunk they can't jump. Catch them, dress them in red tulle, then anchor them with small chains to posts in the garden. Their antics out there frighten all other wild monkeys away. That's how the farmers of Paraguay make scarecrows.

Break a living sponge into pieces and it will reassemble itself. Now how does it do that?
