Twin Falls County mutual firefighters were hampered by lack of water to fight a house fire at Skyline Drive Friday.

Fire destroys Skyline Drive home

TWIN FALLS — Except for a blackened fireplace and a spiral staircase corkscrewing into the sky, nothing is left of Marcus Peperzak's home on Skyline Drive to commemorate a cooperative last-ditch effort by firefighters to control the blaze.

Edgar Dodge and Robert Smith were mowing Peperzak's lawn when they saw smoke, then flames pour out of the upper floor of the house. They banged on the doors of the house, but the woman and two children inside were already aware of the fire and came running out moments later.

Kimberly volunteer firefighters, who were the first to respond to the alarm at 10:30 Friday morning, overshot the turn onto Skyline Drive and went through a wooden fence. The firefighters forged onto the blaze, disregarding a 20-foot pole driven through the truck's left fender.

Kimberly immediately requested assistance from Plier volunteers and the Twin Falls Fire Department. Before the fire was extinguished, near noon, five fire trucks had arrived at the scene, along with Twin Falls city and county law enforcement officers who managed traffic.

The firefighters' work was hampered because the house was beyond the city water mains. The fire companies were forced to run their trucks in relays to a water supply at Falls Avenue and Eastland Drive.

According to deputies at the scene, only police control of traffic prevented additional accidents, considering the feverish pace of water relays.

Although the house was a total loss, the firefighters were able to save a garage connected to the house by a covered walkway.

The cause of the fire is still under investigation.

Country's unemployment rises

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One of every two black teenagers was unemployed in August, the Labor Department reported Friday — a record high since the government began keeping such data.

At the same time, joblessness among blacks of all ages also reached a record high of 16.2 percent. The figure for black teenagers was 30.7 percent.

Both figures were key factors in the increase in the overall unemployment rate for August to 7.2 percent, up 0.2 percent from July.

Total employment was 98.9 million, down slightly from July, with the Bureau of Labor Statistics dropping from the employment rolls approximately 12,000 jobs formerly held by striking air traffic controllers.

A bureau spokesman said 392,000 of the 773,000 black teenagers, aged 16-19, in the civilian work force were listed as unemployed during the month.

The 50.7 percent rate was sharply higher than July's 40.7 percent, and eclipsed the previous high of 43.9 percent set in July 1977.

Data on black-only teenagers has been collected since 1972.

The overall black unemployment rate of 16.2 percent was a jump of 1.8 percent over July, and erased the previous high of 15.5 percent set in June of this year.

Bureau Commissioner Janet Norwood cautioned against attributing too much significance to the one-month jump in black teenage unemployment, but said the data did confirm joblessness in that sector "is a continuing problem."

"Because the rates do change from month to month, data for additional months are needed to understand whether an underlying change in the labor market for black teenagers is really occurring," she said.

In a separate category that couples blacks and other minorities, but excludes most Hispanics, the overall rate was a record 15 percent in August, and a record 45.7 percent for teenagers. Record-keeping by the bureau in that category began in 1954.

With the 0.2 percent increase in overall unemployment from July's 7 percent level, there were 7,657,000 persons out of work, not including those considered so discouraged they are no longer seeking new jobs.

Birthday quake

Powerful earthquake crashes Los Angeles' birthday party

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The most powerful earthquake in a decade jarred Los Angeles on its 200th birthday Friday.

Bumbblings shook an area of more than 14 million people from San Luis Obispo 300 miles south to the Mexican border.

It was the most powerful jolt in metropolitan Los Angeles since a February 1971 quake measuring 6.4 on the Richter scale hit the San Fernando Valley killing 65 people and causing millions of dollars in damage.

Friday's quake swayed tall buildings, knocked groceries off shelves and set off burglar alarms, but there were no reports of major damage and no reported injuries.

The National Earthquake Information Center in Golden, Colo., measured the quake at 5.5 on the Richter scale, but instruments much closer to the tumbler at Caltech in Pasadena pegged it at 5.2. It was centered about 50 miles offshore in the Pacific Ocean near Santa Catalina Island.

The quake struck at 9:51 a.m. MDT just as officials were kicking off the city's 200th birthday party with a breakfast honoring the mayor of Mexico City, sister city to Los Angeles.

It was felt in a 10-county area that is home to 14.3 million people and two nuclear power plants. The plants were not damaged.

Officials said workers found two new cracks in the walls in the recently constructed Orange County Hall of Administration. The building has been plagued by structural problems since it opened.

Jerome delays police chief decision until after elections

JEROME — City Council hired a new patrolman Friday, but it put off a decision on how soon to seek a replacement for former police Chief James McGowan.

Mayor Marshall Everheart, who has said he will not seek re-election this fall, recommended at a special meeting Friday that council name Sgt. Lanny Meadows acting chief and put off the search until the new council and mayor take office in January.

"A lot of people wouldn't consider taking the job based on only four months tenure. I think Sgt. Meadows is capable of running the department as long as necessary," Everheart said.

Councilman Ralph Peters, who announced recently he will seek the mayor's post, urged council to begin its search for a successor immediately.

"If we can agree on a good man, I can't see why he would be too concerned about the prospects for contract renewal," Peters said.

The councilman said after the meeting he was concerned that the department would be headed by Sgt. Meadows, the man who raised the charges that prompted McGowan's departure. The validity of the charges has not been determined, nor has Meadows' conduct in raising them at a public meeting, Peters said.

McGowan resigned Thursday morning, saying he was disillusioned and his health was falling from the year-long fight to retain his job. The former chief moved back to his home in Pleasant Grove, Utah, saying he would take some time off before deciding what to do next.

Councilman Glen Capps said Friday he advised McGowan to resign "under the circumstances," after a discussion the two men had Wednesday night.

Capps said he was present when McGowan signed an inventory of city equipment in his custody, and later when the former chief was packing to leave. However, Capps said he left McGowan's apartment at 3:30 a.m. Thursday while McGowan was still visiting with an off-duty policeman.

The council and mayor agreed Friday to name Meadows acting chief, and to table a decision on how soon to begin the search for a permanent replacement. Meadows said he will seek the position.

The council hired Jeff Brizee, of rural Jerome, to fill one of four vacancies on the police department. Brizee, 23, is a graduate of law-enforcement training at the College of Southern Idaho, and he recently passed the test exempting him from the Police Officer and Sheriff's Training course required for certification.

Brizee will begin work immediately, Meadows said.

In other action, council approved payment of $1,543 in vacation and overtime pay to Officer Lloyd Danowitz, who also served notice Thursday that he would resign in two weeks. In addition, council approved payment of $764 to McGowan for 11 days vacation and three days sick leave.

Council will hold a special budget hearing Tuesday night and could discuss the police chief search at that time.

Everheart said he might recommend two more candidates for the remaining police vacancies at that time. Council interviewed one of the two candidates, Rick Troxel, Friday. Troxel is a former Jerome County Sheriff's deputy.

Substitutes, smaller portions proposed for school meals

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department proposed Friday that school districts save money by serving America's children smaller portions and substituting nuts, seeds, yogurt or soybean curd for meat in school lunches and breakfasts.

The smaller portions were designed to cut 8 to 10 cents off the cost of preparing each school lunch so local school districts can save a total of $350 million. The present cost is $1.36 to $1.66 per meal.

The price reduction would partially offset the impact on local school districts of reductions in federal spending under the $35 billion budget-cutting bill that removed $1.4 billion from child nutrition programs.

The school lunch program serves 26 million children at 94,000 schools, the school breakfast program serves 4 million children at nearly 35,000 schools and child care food programs provide meals and snacks to 850,000 children at 61,800 institutions and day care homes.

Much of the reduction in portions is directed at smaller children. The department said that would reduce plate waste.

For example, the proscribed per-meal meat portion for a secondary school student would continue to be 2 ounces. But the meat portion for an elementary school student would be reduced from 2 ounces to 1.5 ounces and for a pre-school child from 1.5 ounces to 1 ounce.

For elementary and secondary students, the minimum bread serving would be reduced from 8 to 5 servings a week. The amount for pre-school students would be cut to 2.5 servings of bread a week.

In addition to permitting additional meat substitutes such as seeds, nuts or soybean curd, the rules would let schools satisfy the bread requirement with any food containing enriched or whole-grain flour or meal or with any food containing enriched, whole-grain or fortified cereal with its primary ingredient.

They would delete a current requirement that schools must serve low fat milk. The kind of milk would be a local option and schools would be able to offer yogurt as an alternative to milk as well as to meat.

'Most dangerous holiday' under way

By United Press International

The Labor Day holiday weekend—the traditional last fling of summer—got under way Friday with the National Safety Council warning motorists it's the most dangerous holiday of the year.

The council estimated earlier this week as many as 500 people will be killed on the nation's highways during the three-day period and 23,000 others could suffer disfigurements or injuries.

Last year, 55 people died in traffic mishaps during the weekend, and 21,300 were seriously injured.

While it was a holiday for most Americans, for police, Labor Day meant overtime. Police departments across the country ordered officers on extra duty or rearranged schedules to keep a large contingent on the roads during the weekend.

Police across the country joined in Operation CARE, a cooperative effort to increase patrols on the most-traveled highways—particularly major roads heading to summer resorts.

The death count began at 6 p.m. (local time) and ends at midnight Monday.

A spokesman for NSC President Vincent L. Tofany, a former motor vehicle commissioner for New York, said a definitive study conducted by the council indicates Labor Day is more dangerous than the other holiday weekends.

There are a couple of psychological reasons," the spokesman said. "The Labor Day weekend is the beginning of the time of the year when daylight starts getting shorter and the weather starts to change.

"Vehicle deaths in relation to travel are sharply higher at night. There are more accidents. The mileage death rate at night is nearly three times the day rate."

The spokesman said there are 25 percent more traffic deaths during holiday weekends than during regular weekends, though vehicle travel is only a percent higher.

The spokesman urged motorists to use their safety belts, stick to the 55 mph speed limit and drive defensively.

"A big factor in holiday accidents is fatigue," the spokesman said. "People try to race the clock. They should start earlier, make frequent roadside stops and switch drivers."

The Labor Day weekend also means the last open road fling of the year for many motorcyclists, and a group of plastic surgeons recommended they take helmets along.

The biggest cause of death among motorcycle riders is head injuries," said Dr. Richard C. Schultz, leader of a group of plastic surgeons who are also members of the American Association of Automotive Medicine. "If they don't wear helmets, they probably won't survive."

Report blames pope shooting on East bloc

ROME (UPI) — The Vatican refused comment Friday on a report the Turkish terrorist convicted of trying to kill Pope John Paul II was part of a Communist bloc conspiracy to eliminate the pope, a Polish official said.

Soviet radio denied Eastern involvement in the assassination attempt and said the report was "a malicious insinuation, a new attempt to ascribe to the socialist countries complicity in the terrorism which has shaken some Western countries."

The United States also refused to comment on the reports of alleged Communist involvement in the assassination attempt, State Department spokesman Dean Fischer said.

Washington the Italian government is still investigating "and to our knowledge no definite conclusion has been reached as to the motivation of the assailant in this tragic matter."

The pope currently is recuperating at his summer villa in Castel Gandolfo from surgery to save his life after he was shot by Mehmet Ali Agca in St. Peter's Square on May 13.

Italian journalist Francesco D'Andrea said in an interview on the British "TV Eye" program Thursday that a senior Vatican official told him the pope "is a lifeline to the West and his continual desire to return to Poland may have precipitated the attack."

D'Andrea said the unidentified official told him he was "quite certain that the Vatican knows everything about the attempt on the pope's life and is convinced it was a conspiracy by the Eastern bloc because the pope is Polish."

"TV Eye" also quoted sources inside Poland as saying the pope had left Solidarity union leader Lech Wales he would immediately fly to Poland if there was any threat of a Soviet invasion.

The Vatican denied a similar report earlier this year.

To support claims that Agca had an accomplice, "TV Eye" showed still photographs of the Turkish gunman accompanied by another man in St. Peter's Square.

The journalist who took the pictures claimed the second man had a gun in his right hand, but it didn't show because he was afraid to take the picture from in front of the man for fear of being shot himself.

The photograph only shows a young, dark-haired man fleeing the scene of the shooting.

Agca was convicted by an Italian court and sentenced to life imprisonment.

Bus kidnapper is sorry, but board denies parole

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (UPI) — Richard Schoenfeld, one of three young men convicted of the 1975 kidnapping of a Chowchilla, Calif., bus with 26 children and their driver, was denied parole Friday for the fourth time.

After a three-hour hearing, the parole board said Schoenfeld should demonstrate greater stability and ability to deal with stress, and noted the crime was "extremely serious."

Schoenfeld, now 27, said his crime was motivated by a desire to own a ranch, was "stupid" and he was "sorry." He complained that while in prison his life was in some danger so that he is kept in protective custody.

Donald Whyte, the trial prosecutor, said the crime was "the most notorious of the age," and "it is the position of my office that Schoenfeld should stay in jail for life."

Schoenfeld, Whyte said, still has a great and unrealistic desire to own a ranch that still "makes him an unstable person."

Schoenfeld, his older brother James, and Fredrick Woods were found guilty in 1977 of kidnapping with bodily harm. The elder Schoenfeld and Woods were given life sentences without the possibility of parole, but the sentences were reduced on appeal to life with parole possibility.

Richard, who was 22 at the time of the crime, was sentenced under the youthful offender law. Therefore, he was technically eligible for parole after serving only six months in prison.

Three masked and armed men commandeered a bus, its driver, and 26 children. The group was transported 150 miles and confined to a van buried in a rock quarry owned by Woods' father near Livermore, Calif.

The kidnapers attempted to demand $5 million in ransom, but they couldn't get through to Madera County authorities because telephone lines were jammed up. Meanwhile, the children dug their way to safety after 16 hours of entombment.

Within a week, authorities issued an all-points bulletin for the arrest of the three men. Schoenfeld surrendered eight days later and the other two were arrested a week after that.

Now you know . . .

Duke gives approval to seek Nixon papers

DURHAM, N.C. (UPI) — Duke University trustees swept aside opposition from the faculty Friday and voted overwhelmingly to continue negotiations for construction of a library to house the papers of former President Richard Nixon.

"I can't help but believe that history would indicate that Duke will miss an opportunity if it doesn't at least explore this through," said trustee William Muller.

The 92-vote vote by the Board of Trustees' executive committee came one day after the school's Academic Council, which represents the 1,500 member faculty, voted 35-34 to recommend negotiations be halted.

voted against continued negotiations. "I find it impossible to fly in the face of the opposition of the faculty in particular and also the students and alumni," she said. "I think the negative aspects far outweigh the positive ones."

About 30 people, most claiming they were alumni, stood outside the building where the trustees met. One carried a sign reading "Impeach the Nixon Library."

The negotiations with Nixon, a graduate of the Duke law school, were initiated by Duke President Terry Sanford, who has attempted to "assure" faculty and alumni nothing would be done to damage the integrity of the private school.

What's what

Young lady, would you like to lose seven pounds? That's how much the average woman in her 20s tells pollsters she wants to shed. She also says she'd like a bigger bustline and thinner hips, waist, arms and legs. Researchers say this dissatisfaction among young women with their figures is almost as prevalent as their dissatisfaction with their natural hair.

The African egg-eating snake somehow can figure out with its tongue when an egg in the shell is fresh and raw. It won't even try to swallow a hard-boiled egg.

Another way to stay in good physical shape is play the piano daily. Claim is piano playing can burn more calories than gymnastics.

You'll need to touch 17 digits to make some calls on the worldwide direct-dial telephone system.

SHARKS

Q: Don't all sharks circle their prey before they strike?
A: All except the Great White. It goes straight in.

Q: I know Arizona is the state with the lowest average rainfall, but which state has the highest?
A: Alabama. With about 67 inches. Arizona generally comes in with around seven inches.

Q: Wain't it Shakespeare who first said, "Love is blind"?
A: He said it, but not first. Chaucer merits that distinction.

DRINKERS' SAINT

The patron saint of drinkers—Saint Martin—wasn't a drinker. It just happened that his commemorative day fall on the same day as the old Roman feast to the wine god Bacchus. And Saint Martin wound up with the honor.

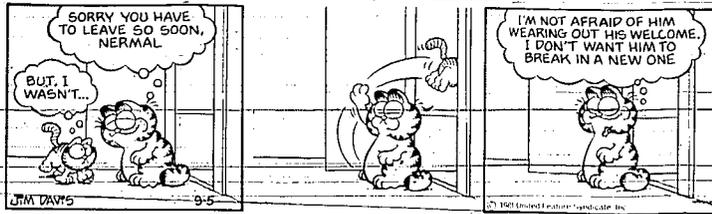

Admirers of President Calvin Coolidge point out it was he who said, "There is no right to strike against the public safety by anybody, anywhere, anytime."

Country folk live an average of five years longer than city folk. And vegetarians live an average of 10 years longer than nonvegetarians.

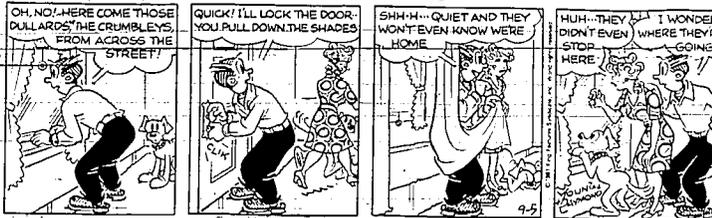

Even as long ago as a generation or so, Katharine Hepburn said, "Obviously, there comes a time when you are no longer the juvenile hero or the ingenue. But you can keep acting until you are 900 years old—if you could live that long."

That the horses of Shetland are exceedingly small is known by all. Few realize, though, that the cattle of Shetland are likewise diminutive.

Judge orders delay for Williams trial

ATLANTA (UPI) — An indefinite delay was ordered Friday in the trial of Wayne B. Williams, charged with two Atlanta slayings.

Williams had been scheduled to go on trial Oct. 5, but Superior Court Judge Clarence Cooper, who spent the day listening to defense motions, said a previous U.S. Supreme Court decision compels him to review the prosecution's evidence.

Cooper said he would schedule a later hearing on a move observers felt would shatter the prosecution's case against Williams — a motion that would bar evidence police gained in an interview with Williams.

The judge said defense demands for full-lists of potential witnesses and other items prosecutors planned to use "brought into play" a Supreme Court ruling in a Maryland case that requires a judge to privately review the case.

"It is perfectly obvious... that the court must review voluminous records growing out of this investigation," Cooper said, adding that "not in 30 days can the case progress to trial."

"It will be reset by the court," he said, "only after the court has passed on each and every motion."

Before Cooper ended the hearing for the day, prosecutors produced part of the evidence the defense had sought including a computer printout containing the names and addresses of more than 200 people interviewed by investigators.

The district attorney also gave the defense team three reports, consisting of 49 pages of scientific evidence and the tests used by investigators.

Williams was brought into court under heavy police guard for Friday's hearing.

It marked the first time Williams had left his 6-by-12-foot jail cell since Aug. 17, when he pleaded innocent to charges of killing Jimmy Ray Payne, 21, the 26th victim in the two-year-long string of slayings, and Nathaniel Caler, 39, the last and oldest to die.

The key motion submitted by defense attorneys Mary Welcome and Tony Axam contended Williams' constitutional rights were violated at about 3 a.m. May 22 when he was stopped near a Chattahoochee River bridge by stakeout officers who reported hearing a loud splash. Cater's body surfaced two days later a mile downstream from the bridge, and Payne's body was found a month earlier in the same section of the river.

The defense wants thrown out all evidence gained through questioning of Williams about the bridge incident which would greatly weaken the prosecution's case.

NBC's Brinkley announces retirement

NEW YORK (UPI) — After 38 years on the firing line for NBC and with his dream for a better prime time slot for his "NBC Magazine," finally a reality, David Brinkley suddenly called it quits Friday.

The announcement apparently took NBC management completely by surprise. No reason for Brinkley's decision to retire was given and there was no word on his future plans. He is 61.

An aide in Brinkley's Washington office said he would not talk with the press until next week.

"He's taking a couple of days off to get away from all this," the aide said. "He really doesn't want to talk to anyone right now."

As early as Wednesday, Brinkley's colleague, correspondent Garrick Utley, had been talking about the new fall season and the material Brinkley intended to bring to the "NBC Magazine" which premieres Friday.

"NBC News President William J. Small said Brinkley would appear on that episode and that his replacement as host for the show would be announced later."

"Everyone at NBC regrets that David has decided to retire after one of the most remarkable careers in broadcast journalism," Small said.

Pro-Iranian hitmen suspected

French ambassador ambushed in Lebanon

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Assassins waiting in ambush shot and killed French Ambassador Louis Delamare Friday as he was driving to his West Beirut home for lunch. Pro-Iranian hitmen were suspected.

Delamare, 69, died in the hospital several hours after being treated with bullets by four gunmen in a car, officials said.

The motive for the slaying was not immediately clear, but speculation focused on the possibility that an assassination squad backing Iran's Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini had been dispatched to kill the ambassador.

French interests in Lebanon have been targets of recent bombing attacks coinciding with a deterioration in relations between Iran and France over the French refusal to extradite ousted Iranian President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr.

On Aug. 6, an Air France office and two French banks in Beirut were bombed, causing "material damage but no casualties."

France and the United States joined in condemning the killing as terrorism.

According to reports placed together from police, the French embassy and radio accounts, the gunman stopped Delamare's car a few hundred yards from his Palais de Pine residence in the Barbir section of Moslem West Beirut at about 2 p.m. (6 a.m. EDT).

The gunman stopped the car and tried to open its back door. When they failed to do that, they opened fire at the ambassador, a broadcast by the Phalangist militia radio station said.

Officials said Delamare was hit by several bullets in the head, chest and abdomen.

"His condition was too serious and he died a few hours later," a French embassy spokesman said.

Delamare, who was married and had four children, was the third Western ambassador in Beirut to be targeted by assassins in the past five years.

In June 1976, during the height of the Lebanese civil war, gunmen kidnapped and killed U.S. Ambassador Francis J. Meloy and economic counselor Robert Warring. Last August, U.S. Ambassador John Gunther Dean narrowly escaped an assassination attempt.

Other lower-ranking diplomats periodically have become the victims of assassins or kidnapers in the many underground wars fought by rival Arab regimes and militias in Beirut.

An Arab League committee discussing ways of ending six years of Lebanese strife Friday tried to do something about the proliferation of arms in Beirut by announcing a ban on the shipment of weapons to militia groups, both Moslem and Christian.

Soviets begin maneuvers near Polish border

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet troops, tanks, planes and warships began military maneuvers near the Polish border and in the Baltic Sea Friday on the eve of the Solidarity labor union's first national congress.

The exercises, under the command of Defense Minister Dmitry Ustinov, were expected to last eight days. They got under way with state-run Radio Moscow accusing Solidarity of attacking socialism.

In Washington, U.S. officials said the maneuvers are unusual in scope and may be designed to intimidate Solidarity during its first congress.

While the White House said the exercises did not appear to be the beginning of a military invasion of Poland, the State Department charged the Moscow move as a violation of the 1975 Helsinki agreement for not giving full information about the maneuvers.

The war games pit a so-called northern army "based in the republics" of Estonia, Lithuania and Latvia — against a southern force in the Byelorussian military district.

In addition, the largest armada of Soviet warships ever assembled in the Baltic Sea, north of Poland, will take part in the exercises, Soviet reports said.

Soviet television showed columns of tanks and gave aerial views of vast stretches of green forest and winding roads included in the maneuvers zone.

Among the troops taking part in the maneuvers were veterans of the Soviet occupation of Afghanistan, the official Communist Party newspaper Pravda said.

The maneuvers will overlap with Solidarity's first national conference scheduled to begin in Poland's Baltic port of Gdansk Saturday.

The coincidence raised Western fears that the Soviets, angered by the union's growing power a year after its birth, would use the maneuvers as a threat of armed invasion.

The exact size of the maneuvers was not known, but the government newspaper Izvestia said Thursday there was "nothing extraordinary" about them and the forces involved were "extremely limited."

Soviet defense officials also refused to give information on the size of the maneuvers to diplomats from nations that signed the 1975 Helsinki Final Act.

The act, which Moscow also signed, requires a nation carrying out military maneuvers of more than 25,000 troops to inform co-signers of the exact size and area of the exercises, as well as their duration.

As the war games began, state-controlled Radio Moscow said "Solidarity and the so-called public self-defense committee KOS-KOR (dissident groups) have stepped up their attacks on socialism."

Agriculture officials locate horse meat source

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department said Friday most of the Australian beef impounded for the past week and a half turned out to be free of horse meat, except for that slaughtered in the Australian state of Victoria.

Tests found one instance of kangaroo meat so far in a shipment at the docks in New Jersey.

Meat from Victoria, which will remain impounded, represents about 19 percent of Australian beef now in the United States.

Initially, the Agriculture Department found horse meat shipped from the Profreeze plant at Richmond, Victoria. Additional horse meat was discovered to have originated at Jason Meats in Abbotsford, Victoria.

The Agriculture Department found horse meat from Jason Meats at a processing facility in Fort Wayne, Ind.

On Aug. 25, the U.S. government impounded all current Australian boneless beef imports, which are used mostly for hamburger, and tested it for traces of horse or kangaroo meat.

Assistant Agriculture Secretary C.W. McMillan said the department's Food Safety and Inspection Service tested samples from nearly 60 million pounds of boneless beef.

Most of the impounded meat will be released. Only meat from Victoria, which has 61 of Australia's 200 plants certified for exports to the United States, will remain impounded.

"We will continue to impound beef from Victoria because test results show the presence of horse meat in boneless beef shipments from plants in that state," McMillan said.

He said Australian Minister of Primary Industry Peter Nixon has announced discontinuation of operations at all independent boning plants in Victoria for at least 30 days to aid the investigation there.

Some products from Profreeze held at docks in New Jersey "have confirmed the presence of kangaroo meat as well as horse meat," McMillan said. "To date, these are the only valid findings of kangaroo meat."

Most of the boneless beef from Profreeze already has been destroyed, McMillan said.

Cooperative investigations by the Australian government and the Agriculture Department's Office of Inspector General are continuing, and both nations are taking new steps to make sure meat products are unadulterated and properly labeled.

The horse meat originally was discovered in a San Diego processing plant in a shipment of boneless beef from Profreeze. When more horse meat was found, the government took steps to impound all boneless beef.

Pre-holiday skid by stocks winds up at 15-month low

NEW YORK (UPI)—The stock market, finishing up its worst week in a month, skidded to a 15-month low Friday.

It fell when investors, tired of high interest rates, took off for the labor and weekend.

Trading was moderate.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which plunged 17.22 points Thursday, slumped 5.33 points to 861.68, the lowest level since it finished at 860.67 on June 9, 1980.

That put the closely watched average down 30.54 points for the week, the worst setback since it dropped 33.68 in the period ended July 3.

The New York Stock Exchange index lost 0.70 to 69.58 and the price of common stock index shed 1.01 to 337.28 and the price of a share dropped 25 cents. The National Association of Securities Dealers' NASDAQ index of over-the-counter issues lost 2.36 to 189.63, a 1981 low.

On the trading floor, Cenece was the one of the most active NYSE-listed issues, up 1/4 to 17 after an opening block of 250,000 shares at 16 1/2. National Medical Enterprises has made a 514-a-share offer for the company. Published reports said one analyst believed the company is worth $20 a share.

General Motors made the list with a block of 500,000 shares at 46 1/2. Other auto issues were mixed.

LTV Corp. was on the active list, up 1/2 to 18 1/2. The stock has been volatile lately as sales have picked up.

Superior Oil, which has been active in the stock, lost 3/4 to 34 in heavy trading. The week has been in the news since several company executives resigned and formed their own energy company.

On the Amex, declines topped advances by about 4:16 among the 781 issues traded at 4 p.m. EDT. Volume at that time totaled 5,430,000 shares compared with 5,190,000 traded Thursday.

Delphi International Oil was among the most active Amex issues, off 1/4 to 15 1/2. Dome Petroleum was up 1/2 to 15 1/2 in heavy turnover. Wang Laboratories class B made the active list, losing 1/4 to 27 1/2.

Translations not funny

A major auto manufacturer that began marketing its "Nova" compact model in the Latin American country discovered (too late) that the Spanish equivalent of the car's name is "no va," or "it doesn't go."

An Italian translation from English of a touch-toe drill had to be corrected, because it came out "the dentist takes off his shoe and sock and presses the drill with his toe."

A small-businessman, who gave an instruction booklet for Jakarta to an Indonesian exchange student, learned (also too late) that the term "software" came out as "underwear," "tissue" and "computer junk."

These are amusing examples of sloppy translations, but they can result in more than the red face former President Carter had when his remarks about the "desires" of the Polish people were transferred into their "uisis."

Translations that are not precise in contracts, divorce agreements, instruction manuals, shipping rules or even in private letters can—and have—cost millions of dollars in losses over the years. And a poor translation can not only harm delicate diplomatic relations, it also can ruin business deals—as it did for an American company concerned with heavy-duty "wrapping paper."

The language "scholar" hired by the corporation to handle the translation from English to Japanese created a hitherto unknown Japanese character that meant "he who envelops himself in 10 tons of rice paper."

How do you pick a translation organization with some assurance that what's translated into the foreign tongue, your English words will say what you mean them to say?

You cannot settle for a check of the references supplied by the translator. At a minimum, you must arrange a visit to the company to determine whether it is equipped to perform your translation or whether the translator is an individual freelancer, working with a few dictionaries out of a one-room apartment. According to Patricia Benser, president of the New York-based "A.L.A. Language Services," the largest translation organization in the nation that handles translations for most of the Fortune 500 companies, you should:

- 1) Find out if the translation company has a staff that includes attorneys, bankers, physicians, engineers in the various disciplines and others with the expert knowledge that may be needed in your translation. You may need more than an ability to speak the foreign language fluently. You could need a thorough knowledge of the technical terms of your subject as well.
- 2) Check whether the company has a library that covers your subject in the language with which you are concerned. An assumedly young translator, involved more than a minor "See you after Labor Day."
- 3) Ask to examine some of the organization's translations, whether these be communications similar to those in which you are involved or simply foreign language versions of an annual report of a U.S. business.

4) While in the office of the translator, look for the "Yellow Pages" and sales catalogs of foreign countries. Professional translation organizations must have these basic manuals if they are to stay up to date on the names and changes in language.

5) Find out how long the translator has been in the U.S. without a long trip back home. Benser makes the point that if a translator has been in this country more than six years, he or she will have lost touch with his or her native language.

6) Check whether the company works in "teams" on translations. Many efforts require the skills of a group of informed persons.

Benser, who must be considered heavily biased since she heads a company employing 157 persons) says "no product is considered satisfactory to send to a client unless it is produced three times by different persons."

7) If you're in advertising, be sure the translation organization has experts who know marketing and the media. Advertisers may, in ignorance, push costly products in foreign publications going to lower-income levels.

Yes, English is accepted as a language of international commerce. But while there are 385 million people who speak English, remember that there are 385 million who speak Urdu, plus 863 million who speak Chinese, and 187 million who speak Japanese.

J.D. WILLIAMS
Franklin County Prosecutor

Williams may seek AG's post

By MARTY TRILLHAASE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Franklin County Prosecutor J.D. Williams said Friday he most probably will run for Idaho attorney general next year.

Williams, 39, and president of the Idaho Prosecuting Attorneys Association, said he will make an official announcement sometime late this year or in early 1982. A candidacy committee will be formed within the next three weeks, Williams said.

The Preston lawyer was in Twin Falls Friday, lining up financial support for his intended campaign. He said he has commitments for roughly half of the $50,000 he plans to spend.

Williams will run as a Democrat for the post being vacated by Attorney General David Lavo, who has announced he will run for lieutenant governor next year.

Two Republicans have already indicated their plans to succeed Lavo. Jerome lawyer Jim Jones, twice defeated in his efforts to unseat Rep. George Hansen, R-Idaho, announced his candidacy last month.

Ada County Prosecutor Jim Harris has delayed officially announcing his candidacy until disposing of three murder trials, probably in November.

A confrontation between Jones and Harris over individual qualifications for the attorney-general post has probably made job experience the first major issue of the campaign, Williams said.

He says he's happy to respond to the issue, pointing out he has eight years experience as a private lawyer, nine years experience as a prosecutor and two years as a deputy attorney general.

"I think that Jim Harris and Jim Jones are good men. But I think they've pointed out that each of them lacks certain qualifications," Williams said. He noted that Jones has criticized Harris' lack of private law experience, while Harris has questioned Jones' lack of experience in criminal law.

Williams says he's been approached by a large number of county prosecutors to seek the post. He believes he can utilize the Idaho legal community as a base of support. He also plans to combine support from his native Eastern Idaho with traditional Democratic support from the state's northern counties.

"If we can split in the Ada-Canyon counties area, we'll win," Williams said.

If elected, Williams promises to increase emphasis on the Attorney General's criminal division, probably increasing his staff of lawyers by two, in order to assist local prosecutors to deal with rising amount of crime.

Williams also pledged to revitalize the Attorney General's consumer-protection efforts by either redirecting the office's funds or by obtaining additional funding through the Legislature.

Such a move is necessary to deal adequately with the increasing threat of white-collar crime in the state, he said.

Finally, Williams proposes to initiate a legal ombudsman to investigate complaints made by state penitentiary inmates. Such "preventative" proposals stem from his experience on a committee that reviewed the 1980 state prison rules, Williams said.

Four injured in plane crash at Jackpot

JACKPOT, Nev. — Four men were injured Friday afternoon when their small plane crashed shortly after takeoff from Jackpot.

According to the Elko County Sheriff's Office, the single-engine Cessna 441 crashed into a grass field near a golf course. An eyewitness said that the plane seemed to have trouble gaining elevation and apparently was caught by a gust wind as it was climbing. Seconds after the crash, the four men helped each other from the wreckage, and the plane caught fire and burned. The crash also caused a grass fire, which was extinguished by the Jackpot Fire Department.

Three of the occupants, James Hickman, 23, the pilot; James C. George of Lewiston; and Kim R.

Moran, 25, were treated and released at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital. Derek Laws of Rifle, Colo., was admitted and reported in satisfactory condition.

Reportedly, the men were returning to the Lewiston area after a job-hunting trip to Rifle, Colo. They had stopped in Jackpot for lunch.

Farmer's increasing income will offset program cuts

By STEVE LIPSON
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Increased farm income will offset federal budget cuts in many farm programs, including funding for soil conservation, according to one agriculture official.

"You need to look at the overall goal of this administration," said Everett Rank, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service administrator. The Reagan administration's goal is to strengthen farm prices, he said, so farmers will not need to rely on federal programs.

Rank, a 59-year-old former farmer from California, was in Twin Falls Friday touring Rock Creek and meeting with local ASCS officials and farmers. Rock Creek is the site of a pilot program that began last fall, financed in part with a $2.5-million federal grant, to reduce water pollution from agricultural runoff.

But the near $200 million the ASCS spends each year to help farmers pay for soil and water conservation measures is "a drop in the bucket," Rank said. "Money alone will not do it," he said.

Protecting the nation's soil and water for future generations of farmers is a prime goal of the Agriculture

EVERETT RANK
ASCS administrator

Department, Rank said. But the long-range solution to erosion problems is to make farming profitable enough that farmers are allowed to solve their own problems, he said.

The Agriculture Department will try to allow more decisions about agriculture to be made down on the farm, Rank said. "All the smart people aren't in Washington," he said.

The mission of the ASCS during the Reagan years will be to act as a vehicle for implementing national agriculture policies in farm communities and to increase and stabilize farm income, Rank said.

"We are trying to get away from direct payments from the treasury to farmers," Rank said. "Those payments have never been anything but a temporary solution," he said.

Rank said the Reagan administration will work hard to encourage increased agricultural exports. "That's going to be the life of agriculture in this country," he said.

"We need to re-establish markets throughout the world. We have these products here," he said. "We are going to be competitive."

Asked what other measures the federal government can use to help increase farm income, Rank said federal officials can be more cautious when making comments about nutrition.

"I cited what he termed 'inconclusive studies about potential health dangers from consuming too much red meat, pork or cholesterol and the definitely negative impact those studies had on agricultural markets."

Ketchum time-sharing injunction try fails

HAILEY — The city of Ketchum failed Thursday in its attempt to win an injunction against the sale of time-shares in the Silver Birch Condominiums.

Fifth District Judge Ronald Bruce heard the city's arguments that the time-share sale would introduce a hotel-type use into a residential neighborhood, causing irreparable harm to the city.

Mayor Gerald Seiffert testified that Ketchum zoning law does not allow short-term occupancy in accommodations that the city defines as dwelling units — those with kitchens.

First Idaho Corp., which owns four Silver Birch units, argued that numerous existing condominiums and other dwelling units have been rented for short terms without city protest.

Firms specializing in property management contracts with absentee property owners rent their units to tourists during the ski season and the summer, the company said.

In addition, First Idaho argued that an injunction was unnecessary because First Idaho would refrain from finalizing any time-share deals until the applicability of Ketchum's zoning law could be tested in court on its merits.

Trial date set on burglary charge

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls man will go on trial later this month on a charge of first-degree burglary.

Serferino Cuellar, 29, remained at the Twin Falls County jail Friday in lieu of a $1,500 bond after pleading not guilty to the burglary charge in 5th District Magistrate Court.

Cuellar appeared before 5th District Court Judge Daniel Meehl after waiving his right to a preliminary hearing in 5th District Magistrate Court. Meehl was called to preside over the case after Cuellar's lawyer, Twin Falls County Public Defender Mike Waiz moved to disqualify 5th District Court Judge Theron Ward.

Instead of pursuing a reduction in his client's bond Friday, Waiz suggested Cuellar's trial be scheduled for Sept. 23.

Meehl tentatively scheduled the trial for that day, pending any objections by the Twin Falls County Prosecuting Attorney's office.

In other court matters, Ward denied a Twin Falls man's request for a reduction in his prison sentence.

Rudolph Trevino, 39, was sentenced to serve two consecutive prison sentences for second-degree burglary and accessory after the fact to second-degree murder.

Trevino pleaded guilty to both charges in 1978. Ward sentenced him to serve up to two years in prison on the burglary charge as well as a four-year fixed, or determinate, sentence on the accessory-to-murder charge.

Trevino attempted to win a reduction in sentence last year, claiming Ward had erred by failing to advise him of the full consequences of his guilty plea, failing to determine if there were sufficient reasons for accepting the guilty plea and failing to provide an interpreter due to the defendant's inability to understand English.

Former 5th District Court Judge James Cunningham denied the motion on May 12, 1980.

Trevino submitted a second motion on July 6 of this year, relying on several of the same arguments.

Arguing in favor of the motion, Twin Falls County deputy Public Defender Mike Powers asked Ward to change the fixed-term sentence to an indeterminate one, thereby allowing the state Board of Corrections jurisdiction in the case.

Under an indeterminate sentence, a judge sets only a maximum length of a prison sentence, thereby giving correction officials the authority to determine the date of release.

But Ward said the second petition presented no new reasons which would justify reversing Cunningham's decision.

Filer dog pound delays expensive

FILER — Delayed construction of Filer's new dog pound has caused withdrawal of a tentative $500 donation.

Filer police Chief James Trentham said the fact that the pound was not built by July 1 caused non-compliance with conditions of a proposed donation for pound construction.

The terms of the donation, offered by Elsie Schrempf on behalf of her late sister, Mabel Beavercomb, stated that up to $1,000 would be given. Half of the maximum was donated, Trentham said.

The police chief said Friday that the cinderblock pound, under construction this summer, still needs a roof, a door and indoor pens.

"That original $500 kicked off the campaign for donations," Trentham said. "We lost out on the rest of it because the council dragged its feet in getting started. The building has been at a standstill, with four walls erected, for about three months."

Filer Mayor Elden Ryals said delays arose "because there was nobody to do the work. We've used all volunteer labor, volunteer everything. We hope we can get the roof on next week."

Meanwhile, Trentham said, stray dogs are not being picked up in the community because both the old and new dog pounds are uninhabitable.

Normally, about four dogs are in the pound at one time, according to the chief, who said someone broke the lock on the old pound. The deteriorated facility has been criticized for inadequate ventilation.

Money spent for materials to construct the pound includes The Schrempf gift, $500 in miscellaneous donations, $1,000 from the Police Department budget and $2,000 from the city's federal-revenue-sharing money.

Rupert Council votes 31% electric rate hike

RUPERT — Electricity rates in Rupert will increase 31 percent, the city council decided this week.

The increase takes effect with September billings, and city officials said bills might arrive a few days later than usual because of the change.

Bonneville Power Administration, which supplies area electric companies with power produced at Columbia River dams, raised its wholesale rates 59 percent in July. Rates, however, are still lower than those charged by Idaho Power Co. to southern Idaho regions not supplied by BPA.

The Rupert Electric Department had been absorbing the increased costs by using cash reserves, according to city officials. Burley raised its electric rates 32 percent in July. Raft River Co-op in Malia increased its residential rates by 21 percent in April.

In other business, council voted Tuesday to draft an ordinance adopting the 1982 budget. General fund, water, sewer and garbage accounts in the budget total $1,523,951 or a 7.6-percent increase over the present year's budget.

Revenue-sharing money in the budget would be spent on street repairs and to make an annual payment on a new fire truck.

The council also authorized Klingenberg to publish notice of city election Nov. 3 for mayor and two council positions. The incumbents are Mayor Bill Whitton and council members Dwinelle Alfred and Ronald Kiebe.

Sheriff's office goes broke

NEWPORT, Wash. (UPI)—Pend Oreille County Sheriff Tony Montone believed his department broke Friday and ordered all patrol cars parked until further notice.

Bamonte said he expected the units would remain idle through the Labor Day Holiday.

Emergency appropriations for the department were tabled by the County Commissioners Monday. It was also noted that the sheriff had not submitted his request in writing, as required law.

The Commissioners and the Sheriff are at odds over just how bad off the sheriff's department really is and other things, too, according to reports.

"Things aren't as dire as they seem over there (at the sheriff's)," said Commissioner Elmer Armstrong. "There are only 8,000 citizens in this county and we have had a more passive type of law enforcement than this in the past."

Lapwai loses another top cop

LAPWAI, (UPI)—The revolving door for Lapwai police chiefs has whirled again, with the departure of the 16th top lawman from the northern Idaho community since 1970.

Chief Jack Rose has resigned to take what he said was a better-paying job in the Orofino Police Department.

Lapwai has a reputation for being tough on cops, and the one-man force has had a high turnover rate in the past few years.

"I wasn't run out," Rose said. "I'm leaving because there's a better chance for advancement here (at Orofino)."

Burglary ring may be broken

IDAHO CITY, (UPI)—A burglary ring responsible for as many as 21 burglaries at remote summer homes in August may have been cracked by Boise County authorities.

Two Caldwell men, accused of shooting an Emmet man last weekend during a burglary, have been implicated in at least five of the thefts, said Sheriff Stan Jensen.

The investigation began in early August, when a stream of burglary reports began to flow into the sheriff's office. Jensen said. It culminated on Wednesday when Boise County deputies and Caldwell police said they recovered about $5,000 worth of stolen goods from several storage areas in and around Caldwell.

James Lee Austin, 29, and Thomas Sunseri, 21, are in Ada County Jail on $25,000 bond. Each has been charged with five counts of burglary and four counts of grand theft, he said.

Blackbird Mine may reopen

SALMON (UPI)—A draft environmental impact statement on the reopening of the Blackbird Mine by Noranda Mining Co. recommends that the mine be reopened and a tailings dam and water reservoir be constructed on public land.

The purpose of the draft is to display the environmental and social impacts associated with reopening the mine under four alternative courses of action, said Tom Buchta, project coordinator for the Cobalt Ranger District of the Salmon National Forest.

The recommendation of the preferred alternative was based on an evaluation by an inter-disciplinary team of resource specialists, which considered environmental effects and concerns of the public and Forest Service.

Old church to be demolished

NEZPERCE (UPI)—The old Holy Trinity Catholic Church in Nezperce will be torn down in due time; quietly and without any notice to the public or press, says Father Urban Schmidt.

"It's not supposed to be a spectacle and that's what it's become," Schmidt said. "Each time there's more publicity, it becomes more of a spectacle."

A number of Holy Trinity parish members have been trying for more than a year to save the 75-year-old church as an historical building. But Schmidt said the parish at large voted to tear the building down.

The debate has grown into a bitter feud between the preservationists and those who want the church razed. At one point, the two sides were locked in a court battle.

BPA contracts draw lawsuit

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI)—Proposed new Bonneville Power Administration contracts with its direct-service customers will monopolize federal power in the hands of a few industrial users, a suit filed by 12 Northwest public utilities says.

The utilities seek an injunction against the BPA's contracts in U.S. 9th Circuit Court of Appeals. Judges Alfred T. Goodwin and Otto Skopp Jr. will hear a preliminary question Sept. 9 over granting a stay on the new contracts, pending a decision on the injunction itself.

A date for hearing opening arguments on the injunction has not been set.

Attorneys for both sides agreed to the Sept. 9 at a hearing Tuesday before the two judges in federal circuit court.

In a brief filed Monday, the utilities argued that "the new contracts offer the industrial purchasers 20-year, non-reducible contracts, at a time when the (BPA) administrator projects he does not have the resources to serve his load obligations now, or in the near future."

The utilities declare that existing law limits industrial customers—mainly aluminum companies—to the amount of electricity they could buy under 1975 contracts.

Yet, the lawsuit charged, the new BPA contracts guarantee at least 10 industrial customers more power than they could buy under their 1975 contracts.

Gerald R. Garman, director of power management for Seattle City Light, said in an adjoining affidavit that the BPA contracts could mean the federal marketing agency would serve a non-firm load to an industry, while causing the curtailment of a firm preference load, like public utilities.

"Curtailment," Garman said, "means turning off the lights."

The plaintiffs are the Central Lincoln People's Utility District, Eugene Water & Electric Board, Seattle City Light, Tacoma Department of Public Utilities, Clatskanie People's Utility District, Northern Wasco County People's Utility District, Public Utility District No. 1 of Clatsop County, Public Utility No. 1 of Snohomish County, Public Utility District No. 2 of Grant County, Public Utility District No. 1 of Douglas County (Wash.), and the Tillamook People's Utility District.

Franklin bragged he'd 'get a black'

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—White supremacist Joseph Paul Franklin bragged that he came to Utah to "get some blacks" just three days before two black toddlers were shot to death by a sniper, a former prostitute testified Friday.

Mickie McHenry Farman-Ara told a Third District Court jury that Franklin boasted of his hatred for blacks, especially black pimps, during a date on Aug. 17, 1980.

"He said he was in town to get some blacks," she told the seven-man, five-woman panel assigned to determine if Franklin, 31, Mobile, Ala., is guilty of first-degree murder in the Aug. 20, 1980, ambush slayings.

I mentioned these two black pimps I was having trouble with, and he said he'd like to kill every pimp in Salt Lake," she said.

According to her testimony, the couple drove around Salt Lake, then went to a motel, where Franklin paid her to engage in sex. Mrs. Farman-Ara said after they left the motel, Franklin insisted she take him to her house so that he could talk to her roommate.

"He wanted to make sure there were no black people at my house, and that I never dated blacks," she told the seven-man, five-woman panel.

"He said, 'If there are any in there, I'm going to kill all of you for lying,'" she testified.

Prosecutors allege Franklin—a former member of the Ku Klux Klan—was so angered at race mixing he saw in Liberty Park that he hid in a nearby vacant lot and gunned down

Ted Fields, 20, and David Martin, 18, as they left the park accompanied by two teenage white girls.

Franklin gave his own opening statement during the first day of arguments Thursday, taking advantage of permission from Judge Jay Banks to act as co-counsel in the case.

But he has left all cross-examination of witnesses during two days of testimony to former Salt Lake County Prosecutor David Yocum, who, along with former Utah Supreme Court Justice D. Frank Williams, is assisting the defendant.

Yocum kept Mrs. Farman-Ara on the stand for more than an hour, grilling her about her recollection of the evening she spent with Franklin.

He accused the witness of making up details to fit accounts of the crime she read in newspapers or learned from county investigators. And Yocum said the witness' memory seemed to have improved greatly between March of 1981—when she testified at Franklin's federal court trial—and the current proceedings.

A U.S. District Court jury found Franklin guilty of violating the civil rights of the two victims by killing them, and sentenced to two consecutive life terms in prison, but could face a firing squad if convicted on the state charges.

Under cross examination, Mrs. Farman-Ara said her memory had indeed improved in recent months "because I'm not out prying or drinking anymore."

EPA to delay Bunker regulations

BOISE (UPI)—The regional office of the Environmental Protection Agency has promised to support a two-year delay of a deadline to reduce lead pollution at the Bunker Hill Mining Co.

But the task force hoping to keep the financially troubled mine open said two years would not be long enough to help attract buyers who would keep the mine open.

Bunker Hill, a lead, zinc and silver mining and smelting operation at Kellogg, is scheduled to go out of business by the end of the year, costing some 2,100 workers their jobs.

To help attract a buyer to keep the company open, Gov. John Evans, Idaho's congressional delegation and Kellogg-area officials are seeking ways to delay the cost of new environmental controls.

In a letter to the governor, regional EPA Director John Spencer said he would support a request from Evans for a two-year extension of the November 1982 deadline for meeting lead emissions standards.

"In all honesty, it is not what we hoped for," said Dale Lavigne, Osburn, chairman of the Silver Valley Economic Task force, Prospective buyers and the smelting industry need a five-year moratorium on enforcement of lead standards, he said.

Evans said he was somewhat disappointed by Spencer's letter because it was not more specific "as to what can be done." Evans said he understood EPA's restraints under the federal Clean Air Act.

A two-year extension is the most the EPA can grant in one step, said Bob Jacobsen, regional public information director of the EPA.

But as long as an areas shows reasonable progress toward achieving the standard, EPA can choose not to seek sanctions, Jacobsen said.

Energy grants given in Idaho

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Nineteen public agencies in Idaho will receive a total of $740,174 in federal money for conservation projects to improve the energy efficiency of their facilities.

Idaho Falls Consolidated Hospitals, Inc. received the largest grant of $160,275, followed by Hooper Elementary School in Soda Springs with $120,750 and Parker Elementary School in St. Anthony, which was awarded $87,658.

Other agencies receiving the grants were Bannock County, Bannock County Courthouse and Jail, Clark County schools in Dubois, the College of Southern Idaho in Twin Falls, the Department of Health and Welfare in Blackfoot, the Youth Services Center in St. Anthony and school districts in Grace, Roberts, Shelley, Rexburg, Lava Hot Springs, Arimo, Parma, Leadore, Irwin and Wendell.

McClure asks Bush for Bunker moratorium

BOISE (UPI)—Idaho Sen. James McClure has asked Vice President George Bush, chairman of the President's Task Force on Regulatory Relief, to support a five-year moratorium on future environmental regulations affecting Bunker Hill Mining Co.

McClure spoke with Bush by telephone while the vice president was vacationing in Maine.

"I outlined the situation in the Silver Valley," McClure said. "I explained that entire communities were being crippled, partially because of government regulations."

McClure said he also briefed Bush on the Idaho congressional delegation's request to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency for a five-year moratorium on future air quality regulations, saying "the moratorium is vital to the hope of securing a buyer of the Bunker Hill smelting complex."

Bruins 'sputter' past Jerome, 21-15

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

JEROME—Twin Falls' sputtering offense clicked just enough to slip past the determined Jerome Tigers 21-15 Friday night.

The Bruins, who put the ball on the grass five times in the first 17 minutes, played virtually the entire game on Jerome's side of the 50-yard line, piling up 326 yards in rushing but couldn't sustain anything.

The embattled Tigers were nearly a model of proficiency. They scored two of the three times they got across mid-field and took the lead in a game-opening march that Twin Falls couldn't stem. Brain Coach Bill Jones walked from the field a happy winner but also a confused one.

"I'm baffled," he said, after enumerating the times his Bruins had the ball in scoring position to no avail. "I thought we were a better football team than this."

"I felt the deciding factor was we used our plays one way while Jon (Coach Jund of Jerome) had a lot of people going both ways. They started wearing down later in the third quarter. If it hadn't been for that, who knows what the score would have been."

Jund, who was hanging on throughout the night, came out

"pleased" with his charges, especially after they bounced back with the final score of the night and then punched across the two-point that kept their hopes alive for a miracle comeback.

"We just started running out of gas in the second half. We just didn't have the fresh people to match up with them. But I'm pleased with the guys. They played a gutsy game."

There was a definite reminder of Twin Falls' opener against Burley when the game opened as Twin Falls reeled off 31 yards in two plays and then fumbled at mid-field.

From there, Zane Ostler and Rusty Palmer did most of the ball packing as the Tigers drove to a touchdown.

Quarterback Bob Stone kept it alive with a three-yard gain on fourth and two situation and finally Palmer belted in from the one with 6:24 left in the first quarter. He also booted the point after.

Immediately Twin Falls put on a reply drive, Larry Hurt almost getting it all on the second play when he romped 63 yards for an apparent touchdown but was ruled to have stepped out of bounds on the left sideline.

The Bruins kept pounding until fumbling at the Jerome 18. Four plays later, Lance Sellers gave Twin Falls another golden chance by blocking a punt to set up possession on the 27. Twin Falls moved to a first down at the 11 but Jerome held at the eight and a Brent Standing field goal attempt went wide.

On its next possession Twin Falls moved to a first down at the Jerome 28 before Jerome again held.

Then as the waning seconds of the half ticked away, Jerome punted to its own 38-yard line. Three passes fell incomplete but again Jerome had to punt, setting Twin Falls on the 29-yard line. With 12 seconds left in the half, Brock Miller hit Steve Galley with a bomb and Standing tied it with his kick.

"That touchdown just before halftime really hurt us," Jund said later. "We had taken their shots and turned them back and then they hit a bomb on us. I think that took some of the wind out of our sails and made that touchdown early in the third quarter a lot easier for them."

That came on Twin Falls' first possession with junior Mike Rice making his first appearance at quarterback. Doug Tate put teeth in the drive with a 22-yard romp and Rice kept it going with a 14-yard burst on a third and eight. The latter put the ball on the six and Rice bootlegged across on the next play. Standing converted.

But after that it was back to marching down the field and not scoring as Jerome had the ball five times without a first down.

Minico whips Burley

By CHRIS HART
Times-News writer

BURLEY—While lightning flashed occasionally in the dark sky, Minico High School sent plenty of lightning bolts shooting through Burley's field Friday night.

When the electric football storm finally ceased, Minico had a 32-12 victory over Burley, improving the Spartans' record to 2-0 and marking the first time since 1974 they had beaten Burley twice in a row.

Minico's "gumption" came in three forms: quarterback Darrell Tracy's accurate passes, fullback Kirby Bright's powerful dashes a Spartan's ferocious defensive rush.

"I think they (Minico) wanted the ballgame a little more than us," Burley Coach John Billez said. "I think we came out a little flat. What was frightening was that Minico Coach Red Halverson appeared to take all this in stride."

"I'm satisfied. He's okay," was all Halverson said about Tracy's effective passing (15-29, 146 yards and one TD) out of the Spartans single wing formation.

As for Bright, who gained 144 yards on 25 carries and scored three touchdowns, Halverson explained that Burley's defense was fit to yield such a performance.

"They were overshifting us so hard, and we were trying to comeback to the weak side," Halverson said.

"Twenty-two power," run mostly up the middle was the play Bright and the Spartans often ran successfully.

Minico's defense constantly turned in big plays. Linemen Nile Widmore, Jack Dessel, Steve Son and Greg Pozernik proved most devastating.

After building a 20-12 halftime lead, Minico continued its assault by driving 50 yards in 10 plays for another score. Bright's one-yard run with 8:22 left in the third quarter.

Bright closed the scoring with 2:05 remaining in the game, climaxing a 54-yard march with a two-yard run.

Halftime climaxed a wild offensive show put on by the two in the first 24 minutes. Scoring plays were produced from the first spot off scrimmage to the final seconds in the half.

After taking the opening kickoff, Burley's Dennis Konrad broke open a simple off-tackle play and romped 59 yards to paydirt. The pass-failed on the conversion attempt, but Burley led 6-0.

Not to be denied a score on its opening drive, Minico battled right back. With 6:45 left in the initial quarter, quarterback Darrel Tracy spotted Lynn VanEvery standing in the end zone for a six-yard touchdown reception. Jay Miller hit the conversion, then minutes later added a 31-yard field goal early in the second quarter to put the Spartans a 16-6 lead.

Minico's defense then took over the point protecting duties. With Burley on its own one-yard line and facing a third and 23 situation, quarterback Kelly Keicher threw an option pitch out of the end zone, giving Minico a safety.

Minico's defense on the drive was fierce, just as it had been with the exception of the one broken play that opened the game.

Minico then extended its lead to 20-6 on Kirby Bright's three-yard plunge and conversion then Keicher rounded out the scoring, scrambling out of the pocket and into the end zone for Burley's second score and final score.

Wood River defensive back D.J. McMurdo gets a grip on Wendell High's Charlie Brooks to make a tackle during Friday's opener for the Wolverines

Reynolds paces Wood River past flu-plagued Wendell

HAILEY—Tracy Reynolds scored twice in the first two quarters Friday to lead Wood River past Wendell 14-0 in the Wolverines' 1981 opener.

Reynolds put Wood River on the board first midway through the initial period on a four-yard run, then added the two-point conversion to make it 8-0.

The 5-9, 155-pound senior then added the insurance marker in the second, shooting across from the seven. Reynolds ended up with 63 rushing yards and two receptions for 47 more.

"Things went well for the first game," fifth-year Wood River High Coach John Hopkins said. "Of course we made a few mistakes, but nothing more than the usual jitters."

Quarterback Zane Drussell spearheaded the Wolverines' offensive attack, going eight-for-18 in the passing department for 92 yards. Lee Rittau added three catches on offense and picked up 10 unassisted tackles playing linebacker on defense.

With Rittau leading a stingy trio of linebackers, Wendell failed to mount any serious threat.

Wendell's Rod Hegi and several other Trojans played despite having the flu. Hegi netted 47 yards while Todd Thaele added 27 and Charles Brooks had 23.

"We had to bring up several junior varsity players for the trip because of the flu," Wendell Coach Frank Stevens said. "But that's no excuse. We didn't execute well. The whole game was the first quarter. They scored those two TDs and after that we held them pretty well."

Wendell suffered five fumbles in the game to slow any offensive drives.

The game marked the end of the afternoon games for Wood River. Lights will be installed over the field next week, according to Hopkins. They were supposed to be put in by Friday's game, but Idaho Power was unable to install the poles.

Wood River travels to Jerome next Friday for a South Central Idaho Conference contest while Wendell, 1-1, entertains Valley in a Canyon Conference opener.

Just two points from victory, No. 2 Jaeger falls

NEW YORK (UPI)—Andrea Jaeger, two points away from a runaway victory, completely lost her touch and was ignominiously dumped from the U.S. Open Tennis Championships Friday.

Andrea Leand, a 17-year-old amateur playing in her first professional event, ousted the second-seeded Jaeger in three sets.

Jaeger, the subject of controversy because of her No. 2 seeding, led 5-2 and was serving at 30-0 in the eighth game of the second set, but Leand, admitting later, "It's a little overwhelming to go on court and play Andrea," fought back to win the next five games and then complete the upset, 1-6, 7-5, 6-3.

Jaeger, who is only 16 but ranked second in the world, was forced to withdraw from a tournament last week with a shoulder injury. She said the shoulder bothered her during warm-ups "and the doctor rubbed something in it, but I'm not going to blame it (the loss) on anything."

"I let her get back in the match and she took advantage," Jaeger said, then, shrugging off the affair, she added, "If life ends after losing the Open or Wimbledon, you're definitely hurting."

Kathleen Horvath, at 16 the youngest player left in the Open, also produced an upset when she beat 10th seed Mima Jausovec of Yugoslavia, 6-4, 6-7, 6-3.

There was a near upset of major magnitude in the men's singles, but fifth seed Jose-Luis Clerc survived a final set tie-break, 7-3, to hold off Tim Wilkinson, 6-4, 5-7, 6-4, 5-7, 7-6.

Earlier, defending women's champion Chris Evert Lloyd and three-time Open champion Jimmy Connors won their second-round matches, as did Guillermo Vilas, Gene Mayer, Eliot Teltscher and Roscoe Tanner among the men and Tracy Austin, Martina Navratilova, Hana Mandlikova and Pam Shriver among the women.

Second seed Bjorn Borg, who always dreads the inevitable final match at the Open, survived the crisis with a 6-4, 6-4, 6-4 victory over Larry Stefanki in the feature night match, carrying him into the third round.

Leand, who won the women's singles and mixed doubles at the recent Macerblah Games, said that a change of strategy turned the match around for her.

"The hardest part of Evert's day was getting out of bed at 8 in the morning. Connors had to work a little harder than expected before subduing Marco Ostoja of Yugoslavia, ranked 157th in the world, 7-6, 6-4, 6-3.

Evert, seeking her sixth Open crown in the last seven years, won the first 10 games to crush Kate Latham, 6-0, 6-1, on an outside court. In two matches thus far, Evert has dropped only three games.

"I felt really good and I was moving well," Evert said. "I feel that's the key to my game, when I'm moving well."

Vilas, the 1977 Open champion and sixth seed, beat Raul Ramirez, 6-1, 6-3, 6-2; Mayer, seeded seventh, beat Fritz Buchning, 6-4, 6-2, 6-3; Teltscher, No. 8, routed John Austin, 6-2, 6-2, 6-2; and No. 9 Tanner overcame Chris Delaney, 4-6, 6-4, 6-4, 6-1.

Third seed Tracy Austin, who said she was "really psyched up for this match," beat Betsy Nagelsen, 6-3, 6-0; No. 4 Navratilova defeated Anne White, 6-2, 6-3; No. 5 Mandlikova beat Candy Reynolds, 6-4, 6-4; and No. 8 Shriver had no problems with Jeanne DuVal, 6-0, 6-3.

Other men's seeds advancing included No. 11 Peter McNamara, No. 12 Johan Kriek, No. 13 Yannick Noah and No. 16 Brian Gottfried.

Among the women, No. 7 Wendy Turnbull, No. 9 Virginia Ruzei, No. 11 Barbara Potter and No. 14 Kathy Jordan made successful advances to the third round, with only Ruzei forced to go three sets.

However, No. 15 Sue Barker of Britain withdrew because of leg cramps after splitting the first two sets with Sharon Walsh.

In other night matches, No. 15 Vilas Gerulaitis beat Colombia's Alejandro Cortes, 7-5, 6-0, 6-1, and Sylvia Hanika of West Germany, seeded sixth, defeated Renee Blount, 7-5, 6-2.

Late Buhl fumble leads to 15-14 Kuna win

BUIH — A fumble at the six-yard line gave Kuna seven points late in the fourth quarter and a tough 15-14 decision over the Buhl Indians Friday night.

The fumble, which ended in a short touchdown plunge by Pat Reed and the clinching extra point by Rob Hill, came after a succession of fumble exchanges.

It started when a fumble apparently stalled a Kuna bid at the Buhl 30 yard line. But Buhl fumbled right back, then stopped the Kavenen. But after a penalty, Buhl fumbled again at the six yard line this time the Indians couldn't hold the favored third district crew.

Three plays later Reed plunged in for the touchdown. Buhl, then, went with a play that called for the ends to come off to corners and the linebackers to strike up the middle. But Kuna held off the added pressure. Hill made the decisive play.

Kuna started the game by living-up to its reputation as one of the third district A-2 powers. The Kavenen controlled the ball for 7:12 and the linebackers at the line all the way before Reed scored on a short drive. He also added the two-point conversion.

But after that Buhl's smaller defense played well and the Indians converted on a couple of chances to take the lead.

The Indians pulled to within two yards they put together a drive after a Kuna punt. The payoff came on a seven-yard strike from Charles Carter to Brady Ray. But Kuna stopped the two-point play.

In the third quarter a bad center snap to the punter set Buhl up on the Kuna 10-yard line and the Indians immediately capitalized. Kuna clipped in with a five-yard penalty before on third down Carter sneaked across for the touchdown. He then rolled out for the two-point conversion and a 14-8 lead.

That stood up until the fatal fumble at the six yard for four minutes to play.

Hagerman 30, Glenns Ferry 14

GLENN'S FERRY — The dominating Hagerman Pirates rolled up a 30-14 victory over Glenns Ferry Friday night.

The Pirates, having a considerable size advantage, dominated both sides of the line of scrimmage in the first half. Brent Jenks got things going with a 40-yard run in the first quarter and Troy Brown threw to Rich Claxton for the two-point conversion.

Hagerman showed it out of reach with a 16-point second period. Jenks took a three-yard pass from Brown for the first touchdown and Brad Arriga blocked the extra point. Minutes later, Mike McAdams broke a 27-yard scoring run but Hagerman stopped the point-after run. Just before halftime, Arriga drilled a 28-yard field goal.

Rodriguez came to offensive life in the second half and tried to get the Pilots back into the game. He completed 14 of 24 passes for 194 and added another 80 on the ground but Hagerman helped frustrate those statistics with three interceptions.

Rodriguez put Glenns Ferry on the scoreboard with a one-yard run in the third quarter and then cut the deficit to 28-14 in the final period with a 20-yarder. He also ran the two-point conversion across.

But McAdams wound up the scoring for the Pirates, diving across from the three.

The victory evened Hagerman's record at 1-1 while Glenns Ferry was playing its opening game.

Cambridge 66, Shoshone 18

KUNA — The Cambridge Bulldogs used nine people to score a variety of ways Friday and handed Shoshone its second lopsided loss of the season, 66-18.

In only their second game as an eight-man football team, the Indians allowed Cambridge to explode for 28 first-quarter points, quickly turning the game into a rout.

Jeff Crockett scored on runs of seven and 45 yards, Mike Atkins added runs of five and 12, Kevin Lakey caught a two-yard touchdown pass from quarterback John Rolland. Lavelle Braum converted a Shoshone fumble into six points with a five-yard run. Pat Peters and Bob Mink added runs of 10 and 45 yards respectively. Ron Shirts and Buddy Wagner scored two points each on PATs.

With the contest securely tucked away and with Cambridge's starters on the bench, Shoshone put its first points on the board in the fourth when sophomore Dennis Conklin squirted across from the six.

Minutes later Rusty Warbis made it 60-12 with a seven-yard plunge and Blake Kinghorn and quarterback Doug Astle connected on a 15-yard pass to round out the scoring late in the contest.

Shoshone faces an even larger task next week when it travels to Glenns Ferry. Both teams will play their usual offense — Shoshone eight-man and Glenns Ferry 11-man — while the Indians will put 11 men on the field on defense and the Pilots eight.

Kimberly 36, Murtaugh 18

MURTAUGH — Senior Quarterback Rocky Eller ran for two touchdowns and passed for one as the Kimberly Bulldogs scored all their points in the first half and defeated Murtaugh 36-18 Friday night.

Kimberly's first score came when Eller scampered 33 yards in the first quarter and the Bulldogs never looked back.

Eller hit junior Kevin Holcomb for a 33-yard pass for six more in the middle of the first quarter and the Bulldogs' offense kept adding until halftime.

"We were scared," Murtaugh Coach Jim Anderson said of his team's lukewarm performance in the first half. "Kimberly moved the ball really well in the first half and our defense didn't get fired up in the second half."

Murtaugh finally scored in the third quarter when Roy Nebeker hooked up with Barry Messner on a 69-yard pass play. Nebeker added another score with a one-yard run late in the third period.

Kimberly is quick off the line on defense. In fact, they were quicker than our offense," Anderson said. Kimberly remains undefeated and held Wells' Navy next Friday night.

CASTLEFORD — Rod Adams broke open a left-side counter play and scampered for 42 yards as Oakley defeated Castletford 8-0 Friday night in the first Magic Valley Conference game of the season.

Adams broke loose in the second quarter giving the Wolves plenty of time to catch up. But penalties — 90 yards of them — and four "dropped touchdown passes" killed Coach Randy Clark's crew.

"We had the chances but we blew it," Clark said following the team's first setback. "We got close several times, but something always happened."

Castletford marched the ball down the five-yard line, but went straight back from there thanks to penalties.

"We also had four passes dropped that literally would have been touchdowns," said a disappointed Clark. "We didn't play very well at all."

Not only did Castletford lose the battle on the field, but it also lost the services of two players for three weeks, according to Clark.

Top back Dave Enns and Richie Owens separated their shoulders and will be sidelined for three weeks.

Oakley, 1-1, travels to Malta to play Raft River Friday and Castletford plays Murtaugh.

Cascade 44, Camas City 6

CASCADE — The passing combination of Tim Hamilton to Dave Baxter proved too much for Camas County Friday afternoon as Cascade rolled to a 44-6 eight-man victory.

Cases opened on a 94-yard bomb from Hamilton to Baxter — but only after the ball deflected off a Camas County defender in the first quarter. Early in the second, Cascade used the fleetler, Hamilton passing into the flat to Dale Miller who lattered off to Tom Brown to complete the 12-yard play. Just before halftime, Scott Battles picked off a Musher pass and returned it 30 yards to score.

The Hamilton to Baxter combination clicked on touchdown passes of 33 and 38 yards in the third quarter and in the final period Hamilton wound up scoring on a 13-yard run.

Camas County barely kept the shutout in the waning minutes when Dave Lemons and Dave Simons hooked up on a 65-yard scoring pass.

Valley 58, Hansen 0

EDEN — Hansen completed a dismal three passes and ran for only 50 yards as Valley's offensive unit had a wild evening and came up with a 58-0 thrashing of the Huskies Friday night.

Valley scored 30 points in the first half and added 28 more in the second half for their second win.

Marlin Musman opened up the scoring with a five-yard run in the first quarter and added a 55-yard dash in the second with various Viking players scoring in between.

Gary Taylor scored his second six-point in the third quarter with a 62-yard run. Musman added another touchdown with a 63-yard punt return minutes later.

"It was a great team effort," Valley Coach Forrest Fonesbeck said. "Our defensive line played well and gave up very few yards."

Valley's Jamie Garcia became the seventh Viking to score with a four-yard run late in the fourth quarter.

POCATELLO — The Jerome boys lived up to expectations but the Twin Falls girls dropped to third Friday in the opening cross country races of the season.

Coach Tim Finney's Tigers, headed on a one-two finish by Robin Meln and Kevin Foote, scored 44 points to beat Highland at 56 and Pocatello at 71.

Idaho Falls took the girls division with 60 points, followed by Pocatello at 65 and Twin Falls with 67. Jerome was fourth with 115.

Not helping the Twin Falls' girls was the fact that senior Tammy Gurd did not run because of the flu. Bruin senior Julie Yergensen was the individual winner and Nancy McInnis and Sandy Ford finished in the top 10 but the Bruins couldn't hold off their Gem State Conference rivals.

Although Dunne said earlier in the week he doubted his Tigers were in sufficient condition yet to make a strong run for the team title, he admitted Friday night to being "a little worried" about how close the Class A schools had run to the Tigers.

Jerome then put together three first downs — one on a triple grab catch by Kevin Husey to the Twin Falls 37 before the Bruins held. After a first down, Twin Falls was hit with a fighting penalty and the play was nullified. Twin Falls recovered for Jerome. On fourth and 10, Stone lofted a pass into the end zone where Palmer ran underneath it for the touchdown. Palmer then went off tackle for the two-pointer with 1:12 remaining.

But when Twin Falls came up with the on-sides kick, the outcome was sealed.

DECO — Quarterback Kelly Kidd's 173 yard offensive output was all the Deco Hornets needed to overcome Raft River 14-0 Friday night.

Kidd went 12 for 19 through the air for 125 yards and rushed for 48 yards more as the Hornets remain undefeated.

Kidd's main target all night was Todd Ashner who caught nine passes for 89 yards.

"Our defense held real good in the first half until our offense got going in the second half," Deco Coach Mike Matthews said. "It was a good showing for our team."

Deco Butters got the Hornets on the board in the third quarter with a three-yard run and Lamont Kowitz's five-yard dash in the fourth period rounded out the Deco scoring.

Deco racked up 358 yards of total offense with 159 coming via the air and 199 on the ground.

Deco hosts Filer next Friday while Raft River, 1-1, hosts Oakley the same evening.

Cruz, Zisk power Seattle past Boston

By United Press International
Julio Cruz went three-for-five, including a three-run homer, and Richie Zisk, the AL's batting leader, added a solo shot Friday night to power the Seattle Mariners to a 5-2 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

Earlier, in the completion of a game suspended on Thursday night, Jim Simpson tripled in Dave Henderson in the 20th inning to give Seattle an 8-7 victory.

In the regularly scheduled game, the Mariners took a 4-0 lead in the second and rookie Bob Stoddard, 1-0, made it stand with relief help from Mike Parrott.

Stoddard was making his major-league debut and is the first pitcher developed in the Seattle system to start a game for the Mariners.

Gary Gehr led off with a walk and eventually scored on a single by rookie Paul Serna in his first major-league at-bat. Serna's hit followed a single by Terry Bulling and Cruz cleared the bases with a drive into the left field screen for his second homer of the season and seventh of his career.

Joe Rudi cut the deficit to 4-1 in the fourth with his sixth homer of the season but Zisk answered leading off the fifth with his 14th homer and later singled to tie up his average to .380.

Zisk's single in the seventh chased loser Frank Tanana, 3-8, who is 0-4 since the strike ended.

In the 20th inning of the suspended game, Henderson singled to left with two out off loser Bob Stanley, 7-6, the seventh Boston pitcher. Simpson then lined his triple to right center to score Henderson.

Harris, 3-4, worked seven innings, allowing only four hits, striking out seven and walking one. Nell Allen pitched the final two innings to pick up his 14th save. Ellis Valentine homered for New York.

Philadelphia 7, Cincinnati 6

Geoff Zahr, 9-7, picked up the win. The second game will be played as part of a Saturday afternoon twin bill.

New York 4, Kansas City 0
At Kansas City, Willie Randolph tripled and singled and scored twice to back the combined three-hit pitching of Rudy May, 6-8, and Ron Davis, who picked up his sixth save.

May retired 17 straight batters at one point. The loser was Dennis Leonard, 7-10.

Texas 3, Detroit 2

Astros' hurlers provide 9th straight

By United Press International
The Houston Astros' pitching staff is about as stingy with runs as the late Jack Benny was with a dollar.

The Astros got another standout pitching performance from Nolan Ryan and reliever Joe Sambito Friday night and defeated the Montreal Expos 5-0 for their ninth consecutive triumph.

During their winning streak, the Astros' pitchers have allowed just 12 runs.

Cesar Cedeno drove in three runs and Nolan Ryan and Joe Sambito combined on a three-hitter in pacing the Astros' victory.

The Astros took a 1-0 lead against Bill Gullickson, 4-7, in the third inning when Jose Cruz hit a two-out single, stole second and scored on a single by Cedeno.

National

had four hits, singled home Phil Garner.

Cedeno doubled home another run in the ninth and scored on a wild pitch by Tom Gorman.

Ryan, 8-3, had a no-hitter for 6-13 innings before Andre Dawson singled. Ryan allowed two hits and struck out seven in seven innings with Sambito pitching the final two innings to earn his eighth save.

In a West Coast night game, Chicago was at San Francisco.

John Littlefield, who pitched the seventh inning, got credit for his second victory against three losses. Rookie Eric Show earned his first major league save as he checked the Pirates through the final two innings.

St. Louis 7, Los Angeles 2

Rookie John Martin doubled in two runs and tossed a five-hitter in leading the Cardinals to a triumph over the Dodgers.

The victory boosted Martin's record to 5-2 while Dave Goltz, 2-3, took the loss.

In the second inning, Darrell Porter walked and Mike Ramsey singled before Martin delivered a two-run double. The Cardinals added a run in the third on singles by Ken Oberkell and Keith Hernandez and an infield out.

Porter delivered a two-run single in the fifth and, in the seventh, Hernandez doubled for his third of four hits and scored on Porter's single. Oberkell singled in Ramsey in the eighth for the final St. Louis run.

Track

Moses, Coe race winners, record 'disappointing' times

ROME (UPI) — World record-holder Edwin Moses of the United States and Britain's Sebastian Coe gained their expected victories Friday night at the third World Cup track and field games, but had to settle for disappointing times.

By anyone else's standards, Moses' 400-meter hurdles time of 47.37 seconds, which won him the World Cup title for the third consecutive time, was exceptional. But the long-striding American was looking to break his world record of 47.13.

The 26-year-old 1976 Olympic champion had to settle instead for only the fourth-best time ever. It was more than good enough to leave East German Olympic-gold medalist Volker Beck straggling eight meters behind for second place in 49.16.

Beck was the luckiest ever Olympic champion in Moscow last year when Moses had to miss defending his title because of the U.S.-led boycott.

Moses, who chalked up his 69th consecutive victory and has been undefeated for four years, said later he had been unsettled by having to run in the unique ninth lane which had been installed in Rome's Olympic Stadium so that host nation Italy could compete in the nine-team event.

"It's difficult to run in lane nine because there's not enough of a turn compared to the middle or inside lane," Moses said. "I felt a bit flat overall. I've been out of training for five to seven days following my injuries."

There was an equally convincing victory for Coe, who was runner-up in the European team against the United States, Asia, America, Oceania, Africa, the Soviet Union, East Germany and Italy.

Coe, the odds-on favorite to win the 800 meters, in which he holds the world record at 1:41.72, did not disappoint his followers with an explosive turn of speed 300 meters out to win comfortably in 1:46.16.

The Soviet Union's Mikhail Mokriy led through the first lap, followed by East German Delfo Wassenknecht. Coe, the 23-year-old British star, winner of the Olympic 1,500 meters and a silver medalist in the 800, surged to the front on the back straight, and when Wassenknecht moved into his shoulder, the world record-holder replied with another explosive kick.

While Coe surged on to win by 10 meters, American James Robinson came through late to take second place in 1:47.31, just ahead of the fading Wassenknecht. One of Britain's other Olympic gold medalists, sprinter Allan Wells, nearly was beaten in the 100 meters, where only a desperate dip at the line gave him the verdict over Ernest Obeng, the African representative from Ghana.

The 28-year-old Scotsman clocked 10:20 seconds to Obeng's 10:21. East German Frank Emmelmann placed third in 10:31.

There was disappointment, however, for Carl Lewis, the American sprint-long-jump star labeled as the second Jesse Owens. In the 20-year-old American finished last in 10.96, nearly a second down on his 1981 world-leading time.

Hockey

Americans wary as Soviets get chance for puck revenge

EDMONTON, Alberta (UPI) — The Soviet soldiers of hockey, 18 months after the debacle that created red-faces and "purged" roster, meet the USA at the best possible time for revenge today in the third round of the Canada Cup Hockey Tournament.

"We expect that they will be a bit sour coming in here," said Olympic hero Steve Christoff, one of seven players from the Lake Placid Winter Games who make up the 23-member American team.

"We will have to be 100 percent ready for them. They are the world champions but I expect they still have not forgotten the Olympics."

"The Soviets remain virtually non-committal about the confrontation, repeating the party line that it is important to win all tournaments but that the world championships held in Europe are much more important."

"No one on the U.S. team was taking them at their word. But the Americans, who have a 1-1 record, could have faced the Soviets under more favorable circumstances. They were playing their third straight game in six days, with the last being a grueling 8-3 loss Thursday to the swift all-stars from Canada in a game that had 60 minutes of NHL-style hitting.

The Canadians, 2-0, take on Czechoslovakia, 1-0-1, while Finland, 0-2, faces Sweden, 0-2, at Winnipeg Saturday.

A loss would probably drop the U.S. into a tie with Sweden for fourth place in the six-nation tournament, with games against Czechoslovakia and winless Finland remaining before the two-worst teams are culled for the semifinals.

Coch Bob Johnson held a closed meeting with his players following practice to stress the importance of the Soviet game and put the remaining tournament games in perspective.

Johnson was concerned that Team USA was in the throes of a letdown at just the time it needed to play its best game of the tournament.

"I told them that in this tournament the pace-and-tempo is going to increase in every game," he said. "So in every game they have to become one notch better. In the last game against Canada both teams were making line changes every 30 seconds — whom, whom, whom."

"It's the teams that get better gradually every night that are going to get into the finals. The Soviets are coming in here charged up. No matter what they say."

Johnson said that the U.S. battle strategy, which stresses having a forward who continually rolls in to help the defense, might work better against the USSR than against the forechecking Canadians.

Christoff agreed. "We will have to make an adjustment or two, but they skate clean patterns, zig-zagging around a lot. We will have to stand in their way on the wings and the alleys instead of trying to chase them out," said the Minnesota North Stars left winger to compare the forthcoming collision against the Soviets with the one at Lake Placid, but said Saturday's game was still critical.

"I have played about 150 hockey games since Lake Placid and I have forgotten how it felt — even how we played," he said. "I am still very proud of the whole thing, though."

"This game is different. We are professionals and there are many older players who were not on the Olympic team but are first-rate NHL players. This game will be one of those that you will want to play very, very well because you will be looking back on it for years to come."

"It's not the same at all," said Minnesota center Neal Broten. "We very much want to win. But at Lake Placid we had been together for a long time and we were peaking leading up to the tournament. Here we have just been brought together for one month. It is not the same."

Johnson said that he may move Mark Howe from his forward position back to defense and move Bob Miller onto a line with Dave Christian and Tom Goheen.

He was also in doubt about starting 37-year-old goalie Tony Esposito, who took his customary day off from practice.

"It will be either Steve Baker or Esposito," Johnson said. "I will decide on the day of the game. Tony has had three very tough games (including an exhibition match against the Czechs last weekend). We will have to see how he feels."

Chicago coach wins NASL honors

NEW YORK (UPI) — Chicago Sting coach Willie Roy, who led his team to the Central Division title in 1981, has been named the North American Soccer League's coach of the year. It was announced Thursday.

Roy, who was born in Germany but grew up in Chicago and attended the University of Chicago, won the honor by an "overwhelming margin" on ballots cast by the NASL's general managers and coaches.

Under Roy's guidance, the Sting compiled a record of 23 wins and nine losses, for 105 points, second only to the Soccer Bowl champion New York Cosmos.

With the award, Roy becomes the first person in the NASL's 15-year

Vikes, Bucs open season with newcomers in starting roles

By United Press International

The shuffling of jobs has been completed, and the National Football League is set to open the 1981 season in Tampa, Fla., tonight when the NFC champion Minnesota Vikings meet the Buccaneers.

But after all the player transactions—including trades, cuts and retirements—the Vikings find themselves with a No. 2 quarterback opening the season while Tampa Bay will open with three rookies.

Vikings quarterback Tommy Kramer suffered a sprained knee in an exhibition game and will be replaced by Steve Davis.

"I really doesn't matter because I prepare every week as if I were going to start," said Davis, who started one game last year and led the Vikings to a victory over Washington. "I get just as much preparation time as Tommy does."

For the Buccaneers, linebacker Hugh Green, fullback James Wilder and cornerback James Holt—three of Tampa Bay's first four draft choices—will start.

"Because he has a handful of rookies, Tampa Bay Coach John McKay is at a loss when it comes to analyzing his team."
"At times I have seen the makings of a very good team in our play," he said. "Our early draft choices appear ready to contribute and our passing game has been sharp. I think we have the makings of a good defense, but there are so many players in new positions we can't be certain of that until things get started."
"I remain puzzled by my inability to generate any kind of consistent running game."
Quarterback Doug Williams, who enjoyed the best passing year of his three-year career in 1980, will have newly-acquired Theo Bell and Gordon Jones as the wide receivers and a backfield of Wilder, a No. 2 pick from Missouri, and tailback Ricky Bell.

The Vikings acquired running back Tony Galbreath from New Orleans to add some zip to a running game that ranked 27th in the league last year. Ted Brown, who ran for 912 yards, will team with Galbreath. Dills will direct a passing attack that ranked third in the league thanks mainly to wide receivers Ahmad Rashad and Sammy White and tight end Joe Senner.

"Traditionally we've had close, low-scoring games against Tampa Bay, but there always are exceptions, like when we beat them 38-30 last year," said Vikings Coach Bud Grant. "I think this game will bring together two teams trying to prove that 1-3 in the pre-season didn't mean a thing."
Minnesota holds a 5-2 edge in the series, including victories in the last three games.

In Sunday's game, it will be Baltimore—at New England, Kansas City at Pittsburgh, the New York Jets at Buffalo, Oakland at Denver, Seattle at Cincinnati, Dallas at Washington, Green Bay at Chicago, New Orleans at Atlanta, Philadelphia at the New York Giants, San Francisco at Detroit, Houston at Los Angeles and Miami at St. Louis.

San Diego meets Cleveland in the Monday night game. The Raiders' open defense of their Super Bowl title against the Broncos and rookie coach Dan Reeves, Reeves, at 37 the youngest coach in the league, has made a number of player moves in an effort to get his team back in the playoffs. He cut quarterback Matt Robinson and running back Jim Jensen in favor of Steve Deberg, acquired from San Francisco—and Tony Reber.

Quarterback Jim Plunkett, who took over the Raiders' offense in the sixth game last season, will attempt to continue his remarkable success. He replaced Dan Pastorini and led the Raiders 2-3 at the time; a Super Bowl triumph over the Philadelphia Eagles.

GEORGE ROGERS prepped near Atlanta

Saints' Rogers makes pro debut in home town

ATLANTA (UPI)—Heisman Trophy winner George Rogers makes his pro debut in his home town Sunday when the New Orleans Saints visit the Atlanta Falcons—in their NFL regular-season opener.

Rogers, who rushed for 111 yards last week against Detroit, spent his early years in Atlanta and played his high school football in Duluth, Ga., 25 miles northwest of Atlanta. While Sunday will be his first professional appearance in his native city, he played in Atlanta twice, against Georgia Tech, while at the University of South Carolina.

Sunday also marks the regular-season debut with New Orleans for Saints Coach Bum Phillips. Phillips was head coach the previous six seasons at Houston—directing the Oilers to the playoffs the last three seasons.

"The first game is very important for any new regime," said Falcons

Coach Leeman Bennett. "We expect the Saints (9 1/2-point underdogs) to come in with all they have. In addition to the natural rivalry, the fact that it is Phillips' first game at New Orleans and the debut for George Rogers gives it added significance."
It is logical for the Falcons to be favored. They have only one new starter, rookie cornerback Bobby Butler (Florida State), in a lineup that posted a 12-4 record last year while the Saints won only one game a year ago, and are starting four rookies on defense.

But Bennett is cautious. "The Saints still have an explosive offense and are improved on defense," he said. "We think they will be one of the most improved teams in the league and expect to have all we can handle."
"We have to eliminate the mental errors that plagued us throughout the preseason (when the Falcons went 2-3 with two of those losses by one point)," he added. "While we won against Tampa Bay (27-7), we still made too many mental errors and had too many penalties. We can't make those mistakes and expect to win in the regular season."

The Saints, led by Rogers (who rushed for 247 yards on 57 carries) and veteran quarterback Archie Manning (who completed 64 percent of his passes), were 2-1 in pre-season and Phillips says he's pleased with their performance.

"We played a lot of young people, especially on defense and were able to accomplish some things," said Phillips. "We played hard and showed we can stop the run. I'd have liked two more pre-season games to get ready, but generally I'm impressed."
The Saints' defense against the run will face one of its stiffest tests in the opener while trying to stop Atlanta's 1-2 ground punch of William Andrews and Lynn Cain, Andrews, who rushed for a then team record 1,023 yards as a rookie in 1979 and 1,308 yards last season, and Cain, who rushed for 915 yards last season after coming off a knee injury, were used sparingly in pre-season. But Andrews, who gained 99 yards in nine carries against Tampa Bay, averaged 6.8 yards per carry, Cain 4.4.

The Falcons offense got a big boost at midweek when quarterback Steve Bartkowski said he would be ready to start Sunday even though he jammed his thumb nine days earlier.

"I think I've worked the soreness out and I'm encouraged," said Bartkowski, who threw for 3,544 yards and a league-high 31 touchdowns last season. "I expect to play."

"I feel he'll be all right by game time," said Bennett.

Cardinals like Lomax, he could play soon

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—When the St. Louis Cardinals open the regular season Sunday against the Miami Dolphins, Neil Lomax will be there, standing on the sidelines holding a clipboard.

Neither Lomax nor the Cardinals know how long it will be before he returns to the field to someone else.

Lomax, the record-setting quarterback at Portland State, whom the Cardinals found available on the second round of the annual NFL draft, was to be groomed as the eventual replacement for Jim Hart, who, at 37, is entering his 16th year with the Cardinals.

But based on his performance in his first three pre-season games, the Cardinals may be faced with the knowledge that Lomax is ready to play before Hart is ready to retire.

"Jimmy's the quarterback, but I'm in a situation where I've got to be ready," Lomax said. "I know I'm not ready to go out and start a game and do the things Jimmy can do. But I'm in a situation where I've got to be ready. My whole goal is just to go out and learn and grow."

When the Cardinals drafted Lomax—who passed for 106 career touchdowns at Portland State, a Division I-AA school—both the team and Lomax said there would be a learning period before he would be ready to step in as the regular quarterback.

That learning period didn't take nearly as long as either had expected. Lomax' first pass as a professional quarterback was a 38-yard completion. In three pre-season games, he completed 19 of 27 passes for 231 yards and a touchdown, with no interceptions.

"I've been surprised, and I think the coaches have been pleased, at how quickly I've picked things up," Lomax said. "I have confidence in my God-given ability. But I know it will take a few years."

"I know I can throw the ball well. I think I need more work on recognition of defenses and play calling. I want to improve every practice. If I see on the films that I'm doing things wrong, then I try to correct that."

"It has a snowball effect. I get more confident with every practice. When I complete a difficult play, then I don't hesitate as much before calling another difficult one."

Coach Jim Hanifan believes the 22-year-old Lomax has an "accurate gauge" by which to judge future expectations. "He's doing better than one could expect," Hanifan said. "He's shown a great deal of poise and he understands the offensive scheme of things. He's done everything we've asked of him and performed very, very well."

Lomax was billed as the top quarterback available in last year's draft and a certain No. 1 draft pick, but Hanifan believes many teams were scared off by his lack of major-college experience and the run-and-shoot offense at Portland State.

"The great thing is the young man was in a situation where he threw the living heck out of the ball," Hanifan said. "I don't care whether it was drop back, sprint out or roll out. He knows how to read coverages extremely well. And he seems to have a sixth sense, an innate ability to see some things we don't."

The 6-2, 215-pound Lomax, who holds 90 Division I-AA records, does not hide his desire of wanting to be the Cardinals' starting quarterback—whether it is next week or next year.

"I have to program myself for a starting position," Lomax said. "This year will be a good experience to see what the NFL is all about—the travel, the games. Watching and learning has been and will be a big help."

"I know right now Jimmy is better than me in most parts of the game. I think my arm may be a little bit stronger, but he has a better mind and picks out receivers better."

Hart, who ranks in the top five in three of the four major career categories for quarterbacks, can also see the day coming when Lomax moves into the Cardinals' starting lineup.

"He's as poised and polished as any young quarterback I've ever seen," Hart said. "He gets nervous and rattled at times, but he seems to handle it very well. He seems to handle it in a positive way."

"I don't feel as though I'm the old campaigner or the old quarterback. I still feel young and as if I haven't played as long as this. I'm sort of taken aback when I get respect from a young guy like that."

We present a bridge problem first shown by a Scotman named Gray in a 1940 "Bridge World Magazine" and in this column in 1970. Gray describes the hand as actually being played, but we assume he took a bridge writer's privilege and made it up. Anyway, South opened with five notrump and North raised to six.

The queen of diamonds was won by South's ace and now South cashed his three ace-king-queens to come down to the end position:

According to Gray, South conceded down one at this stage of the proceedings. Do you readers see how he could make two of the last three tricks and his contract?

All he had to do was to lead the deuce of clubs. If West took the suit, Jack, dummy's 10 of that suit would be his second winner. If West chucked the diamond Jack, South could lead a diamond to him.
