

Idaho fire crews battle 3 big blazes

By United Press International

Gusty winds fanned flames across tinder-dry fuels Sunday as firefighters battled three blazes. Two of the fires covered more than 55,000 acres in southwestern Idaho. The third was a 9,200-acre man-caused timber fire in northeastern Idaho. Slight rainfall reported in southwestern Idaho-aided firefighters, officials said, but did little to slow the flames' advance over tall grass that dried during the summer months. National Weather Service forecasters in Boise, however, said more rainfall was expected in Idaho Sunday night, and high temperatures would drop to 60-70 degrees on Monday, aiding firefighting efforts after last week's high temperatures. "We're praying for rain," said a dispatcher with the Payette National Forest, where Weather Service forecasters said the state received its first snowfall of the season Sunday at Lick Creek Summit east of McCall.

A blaze that charred sagebrush and grass across 35,000-40,000 acres from Kuna Butte to Swan Falls raged out of control throughout the day Sunday, said Bureau of Land Management dispatcher Susan Shaver in Boise. She said 80 firefighters battled dense smoke caused by a temperature inversion during the morning hours, but then fought back fast-moving flames as winds began gusting later in the day. An attempt to drop retardant on the blaze from the air was called off, she said, when "the wind just blew the retardant away." She said fire bosses had made no estimates concerning when the blaze might be contained, but officials were beginning to make preliminary plans Sunday evening to send home some of the firefighters who were summoned from across the state Saturday when lightning ignited the blaze. The lightning strikes Saturday touched off two blazes on Kuna Butte, but officials said the fires quickly merged and moved south across the desert land as one fire. Spokesmen for the Burley and Shoshone BLM districts reported there had been no fires on federal lands in those districts as of Sunday night. However, crews monitored a 20-acre fire burning on private land outside of Strevell near the Utah border. Dispatchers said crews were watching the man-caused blaze to make sure it didn't jump fire lines because the flames threatened federal land. Firefighters out of Boise also contained a 4,000-acre lightning-caused fire in Shea Basin south of Swan Falls Canyon, officials said, while 11 spot fires ignited by lightning strikes in the Payette National Forest Saturday were expected to be extinguished by today. The lightning storm that moved through southwestern Idaho at about 6:45 a.m. Saturday also knocked out a transmission line, and about 6,000 Idaho Power customers in Boise lost electrical service for about seven

Governor dedicates Bliss cycle track

BLISS — Gov. John Evans joined motocross enthusiasts in the dedication of a new track here Sunday. The ceremonies included a ribbon-cutting by the governor. Gifts also were exchanged, as Evans presented Mayor Roland Zollinger with an official Idaho flag, while Evans was given a key to the city. The track, located west of Bliss, is on BLM land that is being leased to the city as a recreational site. The site encompasses 140 acres and includes a rodeo arena, as well as a proposed rifle range. After the dedication ceremonies (above), races were held in various classes of expertise and size (action at right). Evans remained to watch the action from a viewpoint overlooking the track. The governor remarked that he had seen motocross on television before but watching it live was a new experience. A $1-a-plate barbecue lunch was served after the ceremonies. The proceeds from the day's events will be donated to the city.

Council says cuts sharpen poverty bite

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Reagan administration budget cuts will cause "massive suffering" for the poor, and force many more Americans below the poverty line into hopelessness and despair, a congressional advisory council reported Sunday. Cuts in social programs "will result in a substantial increase in the number of poor, as those who hover just above the poverty level will sink into utter hopelessness," reported the National Council on Economic Opportunity. "The results are predictable — more crime, physical and psychological illness, broken families, racial division and the potential for violence." The 15-member council, established by Congress and appointed by the president to make annual reports on poverty programs, is scheduled for abolition by the Reagan administration. In its final report to President Reagan, the council termed administration tax, regulatory and punitive, and criticized administration plans to turn federal social programs over to states, which "have traditionally treated the poor with indifference, if not hostility." In a letter to Reagan accompanying the report, council chairman Arthur Blaustein said evidence shows federal anti-poverty programs work, provide necessary basic human and social services and help lift people out of poverty. In addition to the 25 million Americans still living in poverty, there are another 30 million "near poor" who could cross the line into poverty, Blaustein said. "If-considered policies cannot be allowed to drive whole segments of our citizenry toward hopelessness and despair," Blaustein said. "The council believes that the substantial budget cutbacks in human and social services programs proposed in your economic package to Congress represent a severe setback to the poor as a whole, and in particular to the elderly, to women, to minorities and to the young." The council said it is "gravely concerned" about cuts in federal social programs, the handing over of those programs to the states and the proposed elimination of the Legal Services Corp. "Each of these decisions taken alone would be painful, but taken together they will be absolutely devastating," the council said. The council challenged Reagan administration statements that the

Senate's OK seen likely for O'Connor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate is expected to vote overwhelmingly today — if not unanimously — to confirm President Reagan's choice of Sandra Day O'Connor as the nation's first woman Supreme Court justice. Plans are already being made for Mrs. O'Connor to take her oath at the court Friday at the end of the fall Judicial Conference meeting. Mrs. O'Connor, 51, stayed in Washington over the weekend to be on hand if any problems arose. None were foreseen. In Senate Judiciary Committee hearings week before last, Mrs. O'Connor emerged as an intelligent, hard-working nominee with conservative views and enough gumption to refuse to say how she would vote on future abortion cases. Chairman Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., then began trumpeting his enthusiasm over the Arizona appeals court judge and former Arizona state senate Republican leader, predicting she would be confirmed with little opposition on the Senate floor.

Thousands march in support of nuclear foes

AVILA BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — About 4,000 people took part Sunday in a peaceful march from the camp of the anti-nuclear protesters to the front gate of the Diablo Canyon nuclear power plant in a show of support. But only a fraction of that number were expected to be on hand today when another assault will be made against the plant's front gate. The Abalone Alliance, a coalition of 71 anti-nuclear groups, which claimed to be nearly 1,000 strong despite arrests of more than that number, said Sunday it will again storm the gates of the plant in an attempt to prevent its operation. The Nuclear Regulatory Commission was expected to issue the operators of the ocean-side plant a license today to begin low power testing. The 4,000 or so people, many of them business people and residents of San Luis Obispo, turned out Sunday for the legal march to demonstrate support for the anti-nuclear groups. About 20 more arrests for trespassing were made Saturday of anti-nuclear protesters who were camped in the hills on property owned by Pacific Gas & Electric Co. A San Luis Obispo County Sheriff's Department spokesman said that brought total arrests made during the past week to 1,108.

But Sunday, Abalone Alliance spokeswoman Sandy Leon said about 1,000 protesters were camped on private property and would make a two-pronged assault on the gates of the plant today. Despite the claim of about 1,000 more protesters to be thrown into the fray, other observers said there were far fewer, perhaps 500 with between 200 and 300 additional people arriving during the weekend.

Republicans join Democrats in trotting around globe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Republican National Committee accuses Democratic members of Congress of trying to keep secret their foreign junkets to "wild, exotic and distant destinations." But as that charge was made in the RNC's weekly Source magazine, the Congressional Record printed official documents listing rosters of all junketers between April 1 and June 30. The list showed plenty of Republicans joining the fun. While the Democrats named by the Source favored Africa and the Far East, Republicans listed in the Record — and many Democrats — showed a preference for Europe, particularly the Paris Air Show in June. The House records listed 28 Democrats and 18 Republicans traveling in that period. A previous list by the highly partisan Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee showed three Republicans not listed in Friday's Record. Among the Democrats traveling were House Foreign Affairs Committee Chairman Clement Zablocki, D-Wis., and Frank Annunzio, D-Ill., who visited New Zealand, Australia, Southeast Asia and "the fabled and romantic Fiji Islands," the article said. A trip to Africa included Democratic Reps. Howard Wolpe and George Crockett, D-Mich.; Berkeley Bell, D-Iowa; Richard Ottinger and Shirley Chisholm, D-N.Y.; and William Gray, D-Pa. The Republican travelers included assistant House leader Trent Lott, R-Miss., who attended the Paris air show and former GOP leader John Rhodes, R-Ariz., who accompanied a delegation led by Democratic Speaker Thomas O'Neill to Australia and New Zealand. Other junketing House Republicans listed in the Record included: •Don Ritter, R-Pa., Pakistan. •Carlos Moorhead, R-Calif., and Tom Tauke, R-Iowa, France and Austria. •Wayne Grisham, R-Calif., Robert Walker, R-Pa., and William Carney, R-N.Y., Spain, Denmark, Finland and France.

•Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo., who went to Switzerland; Peter Rodino, D-N.J., who went to Italy; and John Conyers, D-Mich., who went to Kenya. •John Fary, D-Ill., to Italy, Romania, Hungary and France; Geraldine Ferraro, D-N.Y., to France and Germany; James Howard, D-N.J., to France, Ireland and Germany; and Robert Roe, D-N.J., to France, Ireland and Germany. •James Scheuer, D-N.Y., Don Fuqua, D-Fla., Marilyn Bouquard, D-Tenn., and Ronnie Toppo, D-Ala., to Spain, Denmark, Finland and France. •Donald Pease, D-Ohio, to Brazil. •Elliott Levitas, D-Ga., to France and England. •Norman Dicks, D-Wash., to France, Ireland and England. •O'Neill, Dan Hostenkowski, D-Ill., Joseph Minish, D-N.J., Tom Bevill, D-Ala., Abraham Kazen, D-Texas, Charles Rangel, D-N.Y., George O'Brien, R-Ill., and Marty Russo, D-Ill., to Australia and New Zealand.

Youth holds open jaws of dead shark

Shark carcass found on walk - NEW YORK (UPI) - The carcass of a toothless shark was found late Saturday on the sidewalks of Manhattan's Lower East Side. Police said Sunday the 8 1/2 foot blue shark did not appear to have been dead for long. "Somebody apparently just dumped it on the sidewalk," a police spokesman said. Police said the carcass of the shark was found about 11 p.m. Saturday on a sidewalk at the intersection of East 6th Street and Avenue A. A spokesman for police Emergency-Service Squad 1, sent to retrieve the carcass, said all of the shark's teeth were missing. The spokesman said the carcass was placed in a body bag and handed off to the ASPCA to determine the cause of death.

CBS airs follow-up report

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (UPI) - CBS-TV Sunday broadcast a follow-up to a heavily criticized story it ran last week on the University of North Carolina's desegregation agreement because it was "the right thing to do," a network executive said. The broadcast on the "Sunday Morning" program featured comments from one of the original telecast critics - University of North Carolina President William C. Friday. Senior Executive Producer Chad Northshield said it was the first time in the program's 33-month history that such a follow-up piece was done. Friday said he was pleased with the follow-up and would thank host Charles Kuralt as soon as possible. Northshield insisted Sunday's telecast in no way stemmed from mounting criticism by Friday. Gov. James B. Hunt Jr. and other leading North Carolinians over the original story.

Beirut movie house bombed

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) - A bomb exploded in a crowded movie house in Moslem West Beirut Sunday, killing four people and wounding 25 others. A rightist group claimed responsibility for the blast - the fourth in four days. Police said four people, including a child, were killed by the 9-pound bomb, which rocked the Salwa cinema and triggered a fire which sent panicking moviegoers stampeding for the doors. An underground rightist group, "The Front for the Liberation of Lebanon from Foreigners," which admitted three fatal bombings in the last four days, claimed responsibility for the blast.

Iran executes 149 leftists

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) - Iranian firing squads killed at least 149 leftists in one of the largest series of mass executions in three months aimed at wiping out opposition to the Islamic regime, Tehran radio said Sunday. The radio said 106 "active members of the hypocrites" - the Mojahideen Khatol leftist guerrillas - were executed at Tehran's Evin Prison Saturday and that 41 other rebels were shot the same day in other parts of the country.

Kellogg doctor back on stand

BOISE (UPI) - A Kellogg doctor involved in conducting several tests of lead levels in Silver Valley children in the past 10 years will resume his testimony today in U.S. District Court in Boise. Dr. Ronald K. Planke of Silverton took the stand Thursday in the trial in which nine former Kellogg children claim that they were permanently harmed by lead pollutants emitted into the atmosphere by a smelter operated by Bunker Hill Mining Co. Attorneys for the children have demanded $20 million from Bunker Hill and its parent company, Gulf Resources and Chemical Co. of Houston, Texas. Planke testified Friday that he had received a letter from a state health official, stating he would honor the doctor's request that a medical followup of children involved in the lawsuit be discontinued. Planke said he received a letter in 1980 from Dr. Fritz Dixon of the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare, stating "I acknowledge your request that we decline to offer this service to the children of two families currently in litigation against the Bunker Hill Co."

Khadaffy assails U.S. plot

HAMBURG, West Germany (UPI) - Libyan leader Muammar Khadaffy accused the United States of plotting to poison him and threatened to attack NATO bases in Europe and the American fleet if he thought Libya was in danger. In an interview published Sunday in the West German news magazine "Der Spiegel," Khadaffy said he had received regular visits from American businessmen, journalists and politicians who he said had orders from the CIA to report on his daily habits. He said he had received information from Americans of Arab origin that the Central Intelligence Agency had made investigations into his eating habits. The unidentified "friends" in the United States warned him not to eat untested food.

Youth arrested near palace

LONDON (UPI) - A 17-year-old British youth carrying an air rifle was arrested outside Buckingham Palace Sunday, police said. A Scotland Yard spokesman said a search of the teenager's clothing produced the "offensive weapon." Police said the youth was held for questioning. They said he did not brandish the weapon or exhibit any threatening behavior, but they refused to comment on what prompted them to detain and search him.

Sadat plans to visit China

CAIRO, Egypt (UPI) - President Anwar Sadat will visit China during a trip to the Far East, Mayo, the weekly organ of his ruling National Democratic Party, reported in its Monday edition. The trip will begin Nov. 9 when Sadat heads for Japan, the newspaper said. During a recently completed trip to Peking, Foreign Minister Nihal Hassan Ali had said Sadat would make a visit to China.

Belize to accept U.S. aid

BELIZE CITY, Belize (UPI) - Hours before Belize was to become the world's newest independent nation, Prime Minister George Price said Sunday his country would accept U.S. military aid "if it is needed." At midnight Sunday, the United Kingdom was to be lowered for the last time over Belize, formerly called British Honduras, a British colony for 300 years. A British frigate anchored in the Caribbean will fire a 21-cannon salute and another 21-gun volley will be fired from the British governor's residence.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (UPI) - Opposition leaders Sunday hailed the government's decision to have Vice President Antonio Aureliano Chaves temporarily take over for ailing President Gen. Joao Figueiredo.

Chaves, 52, is scheduled to assume the presidency Wednesday, when he will become the first non-military man to head the government since the armed forces seized power in South America's biggest and most populous country in a rightist coup in 1964. "I think this constitutional handover is in itself a great event," Leonel Brizola, a major left-wing opposition leader said. "The nation is relieved and pleased." The decision to have the vice president take over Figueiredo's duties on an interim basis was made after the president suffered a heart attack Friday. When President Gen. Arthur da Costa e Silva suffered a stroke in 1969, a three-man military junta stepped in and ignored the civilian vice president. Doctors said Figueiredo, 63, who has steadily been fulfilling a 1979 and ignored the civilian vice president. Doctors said Figueiredo, 63, who has steadily been fulfilling a 1979

Inauguration pledge to return Brazil to democracy, must rest up to eight weeks.

A medical bulletin issued Sunday by Servidores Hospital said Figueiredo spent a good night and that his signs of recovery were "favorable." Presidential spokesman Carlos Atiles said Figueiredo's absence should not mean any policy changes because "the president and the vice president are well in tune with each other." Influential banker and politician Olavo Setubal said the taking over by Chaves shows that institutions are functioning in Brazil. "A left-wing congressman, Ailton Soares, said he was satisfied the constitution was being followed. The newspaper Folha de Sao Paulo quoted military analysts as saying that even if there are sectors in the armed forces opposed to Chaves, there was no chance a coup d'etat would be successful.

Divers search river for ship dead

OBIDOS, Brazil (UPI) - Divers braved man-eating piranha fish and strong currents Sunday to recover bodies of the 300 people feared dead aboard an overloaded Amazon River boat that went down in the murky, jungle waters. A spokesman for the U.S. Embassy in Brasilia said there were no immediate indications any of the victims were Americans. The Sobral Santos, an 80-year-old former rubber freighter converted to carry passengers and cargo, capsized and sank rapidly early Saturday as it was docking in Obidos, 2,000 miles northwest of Rio de Janeiro. Port Capt. Ello Palhares said the estimated death toll of about 300 still stood Sunday, but that "the figure might drop because it was not exactly known many people the boat was carrying. The captain of the Sobral Santos had been arrested and imprisoned, Palhares said. He said there were 178 confirmed survivors and that by Sunday morning only 10 bodies had been recovered - four adults and six children. A team of 15 divers went into the water to break into first-class cabins and clear cargo to reach passengers who drowned in the holds. But Palhares said the recovery operation was hampered by strong currents and the presence of the flesh-eating piranhas and candirus, a bloodsucking catfish. A list compiled from tickets sold in Santarem, 100 miles downriver, showed the boat was carrying 430 people, but survivors said another 80 to 100 people later transferred from two smaller boats that had engine problems. The boat had a registered capacity of 500. Authorities and passengers also said the boat was heavily overloaded with cargo and survivors said boxes stacked in gangways blocked some cabin doors and prevented people getting out when the vessel capsized. Raimundo de Oliveira, a survivor who also lived through the Amazon's previous worst shipping disaster in January when another overloaded boat sank killing 262 people, said passengers had warned the captain of danger.

Dutch police, nuclear foes tangle

DODDEWAARD, Netherlands (UPI) - Police using dogs, batons and teargas clashed Sunday with anti-nuclear demonstrators who erected barricades and staged salt-lus around a small nuclear power station during protests by 500 people. At least 10 people were injured and police made 13 arrests for public disorder, a police spokesman said. A spokesman for the protesters said at least 100 people were hurt in clashes with police. He said 10 people were injured at hospitals and the rest were treated for dog bites, cuts and bruises at a first aid post. A police official said the riot-equipped police with dogs moved in to take down barricades - and remove people who sat with arms linked across roads leading to the power station in Doddewaard, 42 miles southeast of Amsterdam and near the border with West Germany. There was no objection to peaceful demonstrations around the facility, he said. Police said 7,500 people were involved in the protest. The Anti-Nuclear Action Group, an umbrella organization including more than 30 regional groups, called the weekend demonstration in a bid to force the closure of the 58-megawatt experimental power station. Jan van Steenis, elected by the demonstrators as their press spokesman, said attempts would be made today to seal off the power station. "We interpret the harsh police response here to mean that the government refuses to act on the majority demand that the power station should be closed," van Steenis said. The demonstration came less than two weeks after the installation of a new coalition government that includes the strongly anti-nuclear Labor Party. Two nuclear power stations currently provide about 1 percent of the Netherlands' electricity.

Poverty

Continued from Page A1 president's economic program will help everyone by stimulating growth and creating jobs. He said the program would help the poor by providing them with the tools they need to get out of poverty. The "massive suffering" that will accompany the cuts in social programs "cannot be balanced by any credible long-range benefits from the administration's program even under the most optimistic economic assumptions," the council said. The council recommended, in part: Immediate imposition of across-the-board price-wage-and-profit controls. Restoration of the full funding of the food stamp program. Legislation that would expand government assistance for the establishment of farmers' markets and other forms of direct farmer-to-consumer marketing. Expansion of federal technical and material assistance to help set up vegetable gardens in low-income urban neighborhoods. Community Action Agencies become consumer advocates and participate in activities such as requesting supermarket stocks more low-cost generic brands. The president considered suspending import quotas. Continue development and expansion of the weatherization program. An energy stamp program for gasoline along the same lines as food stamps. Congress expand subsidized housing and urban homesteading programs.

Increase the number of housing cooperatives for low-income families. Administration rescind the cut back on Medicaid program and restore full funding.

Cool, partly cloudy conditions to see summer out

Twin Falls, Burley-Rupert and Gooding-Vernonia areas: Partly cloudy late today and Tuesday. Continued cool. Lows under 30s to low 40s, highs under 60s to low 70s both days. Winds variable to 15 mph. Halley, Camas Prairie and Wood River Valley: Slight chance of showers today and Tuesday. Continued cool. Lows in the 30s, highs in the 60s both days. Northern Nevada and northern Utah: Fair through Tuesday, with gusty afternoon winds. Highs to high 40s and Tuesday in the 70s to mid 80s, overnight lows in the mid 30s to mid 40s. Synopsis: A band of clouds spread over most of Idaho Sunday, with light showers in the Helix Canyon area moving eastward into the central mountains. Temperatures around Idaho were mostly in the 30s to mid 40s Sunday afternoon. A cold front will pass through Idaho Friday, bringing a change in temperatures and the possibility of occasional showers. The regional outlook for the snowfall reported since last spring and came two days before the end of summer. Relatively cool and unsettled weather is expected to remain in Idaho beyond this week. The extended outlook for Wednesday through Friday calls for little change in temperatures and the possibility of occasional showers. The regional outlook for the period beginning this Saturday and ending Wednesday, Sept. 20, calls for near-normal temperatures. Predawn temperatures in Idaho Sunday included lows of 33 degrees in Malad City, and a frosty 21 degrees at Stanley. Nationally, temperature extremes Sunday ranged from a low of 24 at West Yellowstone, Mont., to a high of 106 at Palm Springs, Calif.

Fires

Continued from Page A1 hours, Idaho Power crews also were dispatched to the fire lines to keep power poles from burning, the utility said. Lightning Saturday also touched off another 20,000-acre range fire about 15 miles outside Mountain Home, Ms. Shover said, and 35 firefighters remained on the lines of that fire Sunday. She said fire bosses they were gaining an upper hand on the blaze, and they hoped to control the fire and begin demobilizing crews about midnight. That fire, located on both sides of Idaho Highway 67, threatened homes in a Mountain Home subdivision Saturday, but none of the structures were damaged. Hunters who flocked to the mountainous area of northeastern Idaho near Dubois Saturday for the opening day of the sage grouse season were believed to have ignited the 9,200-acre range and timber fire that was raging out of control Sunday. U.S. Forest Service spokesman Dick Heninger said 32 firefighters from Idaho, Montana, Utah and Colorado battled high winds and steep terrain Sunday as the blaze moved north to within one mile of the Montana border near the Continental Divide. Idaho National Guard troops also were summoned and were helping ferry equipment and men to the fire, located about 15 miles northwest of Dubois, he said. Heninger said the blaze was climbing toward the Continental Divide, and if it gets there, "I don't expect it to go beyond." "It's (the divide) the top of the ridge, and they should be able to hold it there," he said. Heninger said four aircraft dumped retardant on that fire throughout the day Sunday, while three bulldozers, two helicopters and eight tanker trucks also were used in the firefighting efforts.

Biographer charges he received 'envelopes stuffed with cash'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "Men came into Lyndon Johnson's office and handed him envelopes stuffed with cash" — even while he was vice president.

So says a forthcoming biography by Pulitzer Prize-winning author Robert Caro.

In excerpts from the introduction and the first of three volumes, published Sunday by The Atlantic Monthly, Caro depicted the late president as a man of unbounded energy, greed and lust for power who "entered the Oval Office the richest man ever to occupy it."

"And during his presidency, Lyndon Johnson piled atop the millions of dollars he had already made millions more," wrote Caro.

Members of Johnson's family could not be reached immediately for their reaction.

Caro's painstaking study of Johnson's background reveals a man of enormous complexity whose efforts to "obscure the facts of his personal life, his rise to power, and his use of power," were so successful that "no one knew him... no one saw him whole; not his wife... not his mother... not his intimates... not the citizenry."

And, Caro wrote, Johnson "left the presidency, and lived out his life, and died, with the American people still ignorant not only of the dimensions of his greed but of its intensity."

Johnson's financial affairs were only sketched in the introduction; presumably the details will appear in one of the later excerpts.

But, according to the introduction, "More significant than the dollar total of Lyndon Johnson's fortune were the methods he employed to accumulate it — for a detailed examination of such methods is an instructive lesson in the means by which, in 20th century America, a position of public power can be used to accumulate private wealth."

Operating like the robber barons who preceded them, Caro wrote, "the new economic forces — oil, gas, sulfur, defense, space and other new industries of the Southwest — raised him to power and, once he was in power, helped him to extend it."

"For years," he said, "men came into Lyndon Johnson's office and handed him envelopes stuffed with cash. They didn't stop coming even when the office in which he sat was the office of the vice president of the United States."

Caro won the Pulitzer Prize for biography and the Francis Parkman Prize of the Society of American Historians in 1975 for "The Power Broker: Robert Moses and the Fall of New York."

The first excerpts from "The Years of Lyndon Johnson" indicates the same kind of detailed, painstaking research of letters, documents and interviews.

If, he said, Johnson "threw himself into the pursuit of wealth with a furious, crazed, almost desperate energy, that energy characterized his work in other areas, as well."

Caro detailed the methods by which Johnson, in a few years, became secretary to a Texas congressman named Richard Kleberg, became so familiar with the inner workings of both Congress and the bureaucracy — and adept at manipulating both — that he made himself indispensable not only to his own congressman but to countless other officials and lobbyists. Ultimately, it made him a favorite of Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

Today's congressional secretaries are among the best paid in the nation, and a person holding the position Johnson held in the early 1930's as a young man in Kleberg's office would have an imposing title and a salary approaching $50,000 a year.

Johnson made little more than one-twentieth of that amount, yet worked 18- or 20-hour days for seven-day weeks, and in his "spare" time attended functions or organized clubs that could teach him more about the government.

But if his own existence in those years was spartan, the two assistants he ultimately acquired were even more so.

They not only worked almost the same all-consuming hours but were not allowed to drink coffee at work because raising and lowering the cup would mean stopping their typing. They were told that going to the rest room or ducking out for cigarettes were things to be done on their own, not office, time.

Yet here again the complexity of Johnson's personality displayed itself. Instead of detesting him for the rigidity of his rules, Caro wrote, they gave him a lifetime of almost worshipful loyalty.

Hinckley claims odyssey attempt to reach actress Foster

JOHN W. HINCKLEY JR. ... his letter verified

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John W. Hinckley Jr., accused of trying to kill President Reagan, says his cross-country odyssey before the shooting was an attempt to reach teenage actress Jodie Foster, the Washington Post reported Sunday.

Quoting from an unsolicited letter sent to one of its reporters — which the newspaper said it took elaborate steps to verify — the Post said Hinckley also objected to news accounts describing him as a drifter.

"You and the other journalists make it sound like I was some kind of a hobo or something. My recent cross-country ventures were necessary because New Haven was so far away. I would have traveled to Budapest to find Jodie Foster."

"Now that I'm in Maryland, she and I are much closer, in more ways than one," said the letter, neatly written in black ink on lined paper and postmarked Fort Meade, Md., the Post reported. It was signed, "Yours truly, John Hinckley Jr."

After Hinckley's arrest on charges of trying to kill Reagan and three others March 30, investigators found in his hotel room an unmailed letter to Miss Foster, a student at Yale University in New Haven, Conn., that led them to believe he tried to kill Reagan to impress the young star.

"Jodie, I would abandon the idea of getting Reagan in a second if I could only win your heart," the letter read. It asked her for "the chance with this historical deed to gain your respect and love."

Hinckley's letter to the Post, dated Sept. 7, asked that he not be called a "drifter" in future news accounts, the newspaper said.

"I may have done some drifting in the Fall of '80, but in the years prior to this, I was not roaming around the country," the letter read.

Hinckley, 27, the son of a wealthy Colorado oilman, has pleaded innocently to charges he tried to kill Reagan. White House press secretary James Brady and two lawmen in a splatter of gunfire outside a Washington hotel.

Investigators have determined he traveled from California to Washington, arriving by bus, and lived for a short time in Denver. He was arrested in Nashville, Tenn., in 1969 on weapons charges.

The Post said neither Hinckley's defense lawyer nor government officials involved in the case would discuss the letter.

Trying to verify the letter's authenticity, the newspaper said it sent Hinckley a letter to the return address given at Fort Meade, where Hinckley is being held. It asked Hinckley to initial and send back a photostat of the original letter.

On Friday, the newspaper received the photocopy initialed "JWH," along with a note dated Sept. 14 that said: "My lawyers are trying to hold the press coverage to a minimum and therefore will have nothing to do with reporters."

The note said Hinckley was sending along a "portion of a legal paper as proof that I am me," and was accompanied by what appeared to be part of a court paper filed in the case, the newspaper said.

After his arrest, Hinckley was taken to a federal prison in North Carolina for extensive psychiatric testing to see if he was competent to stand trial. The report has been submitted but is sealed.

Hinckley's lawyers have been given until Sept. 28 to decide if they will argue that Hinckley is not guilty on mental grounds.

Hyatt Regency in Kansas City looks toward reopening

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — With a redesigned lobby and a batch of Oct. 1 reservations, the Hyatt Regency Hotel is looking forward to its reopening 10 days from now.

Forced to close its doors July 17 when two skywalks crashed down on a crowded lobby, killing 112 people and injuring 187, hotel managers and owners plan a quiet reopening for the year-old building, public relations spokeswoman Ginny Vineyard said.

Four conventions are scheduled for the hotel in October and local reservations are pouring into the hotel's popular restaurants.

The three suspended skywalks have been replaced with a single walkway that is supported by columns anchored in the ground. Architects also filled in a pit-type bar area in the center of the lobby. Work on an outside elevator will not be complete in time for the reopening, renovators said.

Both the Hyatt Corp., which manages the hotel, and Crown Center Redevelopment Corp., which owns the building, have been named in more than a billion dollars in lawsuits.

Reagan near public decision on latest spending cutbacks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan is just days from final public decisions on new and controversial reductions in federal spending for the coming fiscal year.

Reagan, fighting to hold down a growing deficit, is expected by midweek to make known his decisions to cut nearly $30 billion from the 1982 budget, which Congress passed in July, for the fiscal year that begins Oct. 1.

The decisions will likely be announced in a televised address. Democrats asked time to reply before the White House even made a formal announcement of plans for the speech.

Reagan wants to hold the 1982 budget deficit to $42.5 billion, but high interest rates and some runaway spending programs have jeopardized that goal.

Many of the cuts he will announce are in social programs he once promised to protect.

"Now that I'm in Maryland, she and I are much closer, in more ways than one," said the letter, neatly written in black ink on lined paper and

The president, however, spent the weekend at Camp David. He was at his mountaintop retreat when the marchers showed up to press their demands that hard-won benefits for the poor and elderly be spared from the budget cutter's axe.

The president will see a group of private businessmen today to stump for a new kind of voluntarism that involves the private sector taking up some of the financial slack from the federal government.

He has scheduled a breakfast meeting with about 20 business and civic leaders to discuss "initiatives in the private sector" to provide jobs and aid the economy. It is the latest attempt to share up public confidence in his plan of budget and tax cuts.

Spy trial opens for former Army officer

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — A former Army officer goes on trial today on charges he sold top secret code information to Russia while working at the U.S. Embassy in Paris nearly two decades ago.

The government alleges that George Helmich Jr. received $131,000 from Soviet agents while he worked as the code custodian at the Embassy in Paris in 1963-64. He is charged with handing over manuals, parts and technical details of the KL-7 Cryptosystem, a device for encoding and decoding teletype messages.

Jury selection is scheduled to begin in U.S. District Court Monday morning.

The tall, sandy-haired Helmich, 44, left the Army in 1966, but the indictment returned by a grand jury in Jacksonville July 14 said he continued to maintain contact with Soviet agents.

The indictment said he received awards from the Soviet Union, including the rank of colonel in the Soviet Army, and was promised future payments.

He was arrested July 15 at the home of his mother and stepfather in Jacksonville Beach and has been held since then at a north Florida county jail in lieu of $400,000 bond.

U.S. Attorney Gary Belt said the information Helmich allegedly passed to the Soviets may have caused "very, very grave damage" to the United States, then involved in the Vietnam War.

Groups gain excess cash

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Informal groupings of congressmen and their research arms have collected almost $2 million outside the restrictions of House ethics rules, a civic organization charged Sunday.

The Better Government Association, a Chicago group, said through its Washington field office that legislators are exploiting "loopholes in the House Ethics Code" to "receive unlimited donations from outside interests."

It said these caucuses "collected almost $2 million last year from outside sources while taking advantage of an additional $1.7 million congressional subsidy."

It also charged that several caucuses — designed to provide legislative support services to congressmen with a common interest — have filed inaccurate and misleading financial reports with the clerk of the House.

The association said the number of caucuses has ballooned from three to more than 50 in the past decade, ranging in interest from the Shipyard Caucus to the Suburban Caucus, and in size from the Wood Energy Caucus to the Travel and Tourism Caucus.

Courts must pursue investigator funding

When the Idaho Legislature convenes next January, it's going to be facing an avalanche of requests for more state funding.

At the very least, lawmakers ought to consider restoring funding for the state court system's presence investigators. They were the victims of a budget-cutting move this year when the Department of Corrections had $450,000 lopped off its allocation.

Unfortunately, the impact of this move can't be evaluated in black-and-white figures on a ledger. But most judges are convinced that without presence investigators, the ability of their courts has been severely restricted.

In a day and age when citizens are crying for law and order, judges face sentencing individuals without complete knowledge of their backgrounds. In magistrate court, judges are finding they can't effectively supervise those persons placed on probation.

The Times-News illustrated just what can happen without presence investigators when it reported a case in 5th District Magistrate Court. If the judge had relied on the defendant's word as to his past record, the man would have gotten off with a relatively easy sentence. In this case, however, the judge prevailed but only because his suspicions caused him to double-check.

This ought not be the way our courts are operated. The state may be saving money by not having investigators, but what will be the long-term impact on the judicial system and society? If judges have to rely solely on a defendant's word, how effective can sentencing be?

Despite these questions and renewed pressure for calling for reinstatement of the service, a supplemental request for funds was turned down two weeks ago by state officials. It also appears unlikely Gov. John Evans will ask for renewed funding in his budget proposal for 1982.

The legal community may have to break with tradition and go directly to the Legislature this year to press its case. If equal justice under the law is truly our concern, then tradition must give way.

It's time for petitions

Although municipal elections are still some way off (Nov. 3), the time is now for candidates to be thinking of those positions.

The date for filing petitions to be placed on the ballot is Monday, Oct. 6, two weeks from today.

City council positions may not be the most glamorous of governmental or political posts, but they represent the most important part of local representation. These are the people who have direct control over the taxpayer purse-strings and they are the most accessible.

Voters should have a choice in all races. We urge those who want to serve their communities in some way to consider throwing their hats in the ring. See your city clerk for petitions and get them filed by the deadline.

The Times-News welcomes letters to the editor but will reject those it considers libelous or in bad taste. Each letter must be signed and should include the writer's mailing address. Letters of more than 400 words may be edited for length.

Democrats risk little by allowing Reagan to perform

The Washington Post Company

WASHINGTON — President Reagan may have been prodigiously far-sighted when, bidding for votes on his economic measures, he told some conservative Democrats that his "principles" would prevent him from campaigning in 1982 against those who had been helpful.

But he may be counting chickens that will not hatch. Asked by Fortune magazine if his promise did not make it "almost impossible" for Republicans to run against those Democrats, Reagan said: "Well, that could well be, but then by the same token, I'd like to feel that maybe some of those Democrats are doing some soul-searching as to whether they're in the right party."

There are precedents for such soul-searching. Senators Hayakawa,

Helms and Thurmond, and John Connally and Ronald Reagan, are former Democrats. But cautionary thoughts come to mind.

The most likely occasion for defections by Democrats is remote, in several senses. This occasion will not be 1982, but 1984, and then only if Ted Kennedy is the Democratic nominee. I have heard a Democratic senator hinting heavily, to community leaders back home, that he could not run as a Democrat if the party nominates Kennedy. Several other senators feel that way.

Second, the "right party" for conservative Democrats in 1982 may be a Democratic Party that is, on the one hand, not noticeably liberal and, on the other hand, is not perceived as implicated in Reagan's economic program. During the tax and budget debates, liberal Democrats thought their party sold its birthright by not losing with a clear liberal alternative. But what the party bought with its conservative alternative was insurance against the charge that it has learned nothing from the difficulties during the 49-year enactment of the liberal agenda.

The Reagan administration, by not trying to split the difference with the Democrats, and instead winning a clear partisan victory, saved the Democrats from sharing responsibility for a program that Sen. Howard Baker calls a "riverboat gamble" — a program doubled by a financial community that wants to believe in it, a program that already is enough off-target that the administration is cutting its primary responsibility: its defense program.

Third, the conservative Democrats who are supposed to be searching their souls and contemplating defection know that they do not have much to fear from staying put, because House races are less likely than other races to reflect national volatilities. Republican gains in 1980 were least dramatic in House elections. Republican gains averaged nine percentage points in the 34 Senate races, five percentage points over 1976 totals in the 13 states with gubernatorial elections, but an average of only three percentage points in the 435 congressional districts.

Fourth, politicians are not gamblers, at least not with their own security. As the President acknowledges, his promise not to campaign against certain Democrats makes unattractive (to say the least) the position of Republican challengers to those Democrats. By remaining Democrats, those congressmen enjoying immunity from presidential opposition have the double advantage of their districts' traditional loyalties, and current conservative sympathies.

Furthermore, they do not risk the danger that switching would make them seem flighty or more opportunistic than necessary. So the rational thing is to enjoy the free ride the President has promised, while waiting to see what the distant future (1984) brings.

And what might that future be? In the Fortune interview, Reagan smote Wall Street, which is feeling queasy about his program. He said "business leaders are probably a better indicator than the people on Broadway — Broadway, that's a Freudian slip, isn't it? — (I mean) on Wall Street." It is unclear on what basis Reagan distinguishes between Wall Street and "business leaders." In any case, a Wall Street Journal survey of business leaders reveals that they are planning on the basis of projections more pessimistic than the President's.

Reagan's core constituency is not on Wall Street, but on Main Street, real estate agents, small businessmen. Eighty percent of a savings and loans are in the red. For every $10,000 car a dealer buys for his inventory and finances at 19 percent he pays $158 a month. Since 1978, 1 percent of all dealers have gone bust.

In a recent 33-week period, 10,49 businesses failed, 41 percent more than in a comparable period last year. It is a massacre on Main Street. So this administration, by talking about Democrats switching parties, an describing 1982 as a "ratifying election," is giving hostages to political fortune.

CRISIS BY THE TIMES SYNDICATE

CRISIS

THIS IS WHAT WE CALL OUR AMERICAN DREAM. TRULY, IT'S A NEDDY SERIES.

James Kilpatrick

Toward excellence in education

Universal Press Syndicate

WASHINGTON — On August 26 Education Secretary Terrel Bell announced the formation of a National Commission on Excellence in Education.

Last week my brothers on Human Events, the national conservative weekly, jumped upon him all spraddled-out. They smell a fish.

Could be. My brothers dwell in the marshy swamps south of Capitol Hill, where the sunshine of good tidings rarely penetrates. They are a paranoid bunch, always fearing the worst, and this is perhaps understandable; the worst is ordinarily what they get. Thus Human Events perceives Dr. Bell's new commission as "stacked in favor of the education establishment," with only two identifiable conservatives among the 18 members.

So indeed it appears. The commission includes a sextet of doctors of education; a dentist from Girard, Kan., active in national school-board affairs; a former chairperson of the Virginia PTA; a gentleman who won his master's degree in health, physical education and recreation; a Harvard professor who served five years on the U.S. commission to UNESCO; and a former president of the American Association of University Women, always a bad sign.

Yet another member is A. Bartlett Giamatti, president of Yale, who distinguished himself earlier this month by a really assine assault upon the Rev. Jerry Falwell. On down the line is Gov. Albert H. Quie of Minnesota, well-remembered here as a patsy Republican in the House. The two certified conservatives, for the record, are Charles Foster of the Foundation for Teaching Economics, and Mrs. Annette Kirk, wife of the conservative philosopher Russell Kirk. You kind of wonder what a nice girl like Annette is doing with a gang like this.

The commission includes five women, two blacks and one Hispanic. It will be headed by David Pierpont Gardner, president of the University of Utah. His name arouses no particular bubbles of gassy indignation. Dr. Gardner is a close friend of Secretary Bell, and the two together might produce a useful report. But as every child in Washington knows, the members of any given commission are immaterial; what counts is staff, and this commission's staff will be headed by Dr. Milton Goldberg, a career educationist. Thus we may reasonably expect a final report drafted in Educationese. It will have to be translated into English, and the report eventually will wind up, like 99 percent of all such reports, gathering dust on a high dark shelf. The effort will take 18 months and it will cost $785,000.

It seems a pity — for Secretary Bell's purpose is absolutely sound. His department operates on a $14 billion budget. Eighty-two percent of the money goes into programs for slow learners, handicapped children, poor readers and ordinary sluggards. Only 8.1 percent is aimed at the bright children in our public schools — the truly gifted and talented kids who have excellence in their genes.

In proposing to find means for inspiring and challenging the bright ones, Dr. Bell is risking a howl of "elitism," but he is an audacious fellow and can take the bellows of outrage. His avowed purpose is "to enhance quality and excellence." He means to encourage "the highest order of literacy and academic competence." He wants to see "special emphasis on writing with clarity and profundity, mastery of mathematics, spelling, basic science, economics, and principles of government in a democracy." He hopes to see foreign languages restored to their old importance in our public schools. He wears of mediocrity in education and he longs for top-flight teachers capable of nurturing top-flight students.

My guess is that every area of investigation assigned to the commission already has been thoroughly explored. It ought to be possible for a couple of good librarians, at minimum expense, to pull together every paper ever written on how excellence in public education is won or lost. But if the commission does produce a document that will tell us effectively how to keep the brainy kids from getting bored, we may yet forgive the $785,000 tag. Such a report would be cheap at twice the price.

House safe in 1982, Democrats figure

By CLAY F. RICHARDS
UPI Political Writer

WASHINGTON — If there is a smile on the face of Democrats these days it is because their chances of keeping control of the House in the 1982 elections are improving every day.

It is not President Reagan's current budget and high interest rate problems that are giving Democrats hope. Like most political observers they know the jury is still out on the president's economic program and it is far too early to tell what impact it will have on the 1982 elections.

But vital signs within the current and future House composition are looking much more hopeful for the Democrats than they did a few months ago.

Last month, it appeared that Republicans would gain at least half the 37 seats they needed to take control of the House through the 1981-82 reapportionment process. Some 17 seats moved in reapportionment from Northern and Midwestern industrial states to the Sun Belt.

This pointed to substantial Republican gains in the Sun Belt states. And early reapportionment plans in states like Indiana, Republicans drew lines that gave them clear advantages.

Almost singlehandedly, Rep. Phil Burton evened the score for the Democrats last week in California. Burton is the master fire-drawer in California and by the time he got done, Democrats stood to gain five seats.

Up until Burton did his deed, the GOP was counting on at least one and possibly two more seats in California.

There was also a fear that some of the Southern conservative Democrats — the so called Boll Weevils who supported Reagan on his tax and budget cuts — would switch parties. In fact, GOP Chairman Richard Richards and House Republican leader Bob Michel had reported some Democrats had made contact with Republican state chairmen back home to open negotiations.

But in a closed Democratic caucus last week, party leaders decided against taking any disciplinary action against the conservative Democrats because they voted with Reagan. The decision seemed to be a signal to the conservatives they are still welcome in the Democratic Party.

No Democrat is happier these days than Rep. Tony Coelho, the Californian who once thought his first chance as chairman of the House Democratic Campaign Committee was going to be a disaster.

While modest by comparison to the Republicans, Coelho said the committee's fund raising is going so well that it will be able to donate the maximum of $25,000 to each of the 50 Democratic candidates it has targeted.

Included are not only Democratic incumbents in trouble, but Republicans they feel are vulnerable and open seats up for grabs.

"I am predicting today that we will pick up a minimum of 10 seats in the House in 1982," said Coelho in a statement bolder than those he has made recently.

What is important is not just the figures, but that it would give Democrats a "working majority," so Reagan probably could no longer steal off enough Boll Weevils to get his programs through.

"We will not lose control of the House of Representatives," Coelho said.

Haig says radar plane sale will win Congress' approval

ALEXANDER HAIG
... opposition 'soft'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Opposition by 50 senators to selling sophisticated radar planes to Saudi Arabia is "soft," and President Reagan ultimately will win approval of the arms deal, Secretary of State Alexander Haig said Sunday.

Haig said the United States risks losing the diplomatic cooperation of the oil-rich Saudis in the Middle East if the sale of the AWACS — Airborne Warning and Command System aircraft — and other arms is denied.

He said the $8.5 billion arms sale is in the nation's broad foreign policy interests, which he said go beyond Israel's concern—that the arms technology transfer will jeopardize its security.

Haig, appearing on the ABC's "Issues and Answers" program, again rejected the proposal of Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, to modify the package to permit joint U.S.-Saudi control of the aircraft.

Haig said the arrangement would insult the Saudis and Glenn was unaware of what was workable.

Sen. Robert Packwood, R-Ore., has the signatures of 50 senators who oppose the sale, which must be voted down by majorities in both the Senate and House by Oct. 30 to be defeated. A defeat in the House is virtually certain but Haig said this was not so in the Republican-controlled Senate.

"That list Sen. Packwood has put forward is also replete with soft spots," Haig said. "I could name for you today two dozen senators who have already conveyed to us the sense of that letter is soft. They are ready to reconsider and objectively look at what we have to offer.

"It is a question of objective analysis by honest men who want to do what is right for the country, for the American people, for our foreign policy."

"I am very, very confident that a number of these men who put their name on an expression of concern — not a vote, not a vote — will reconsider and join the president in this important initiative."

The administration argues that the aircraft and other arms will let the Saudis guard their vital oil fields and bolster the overall security of the region against possible Soviet encroachment.

"That does not mean there are not risks for Israel in this sale," he said. "The greater risk would be not to proceed with the sale. The question is if it is the right step to take for the American people. We believe it is."

Haig said it was easy for a "very respectable and very competent senator" like Glenn to offer an AWACS leasing-sharing compromise from the sidelines. He said the arrangement would smack of a permanent American military presence and the Saudis would reject it.

Haig declined openly to criticize Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin for lobbying Congress against the sale.

"The issue is the United States must make these judgments," Haig said. "It bears the responsibility for a broader set of considerations than the government of Israel. We must follow through."

The Saudis were instrumental in securing the cease-fire in Lebanon between Israel and the Palestinian Liberation Organization and have sought to stop the rapid escalation in OPEC oil prices.

"The issue here is the participation and good will of Saudi Arabia in the peace-keeping process from this point on is an absolute essential for success," Haig said. "We need that kind of cooperation."

Stevie Wonder kisses a little girl during Saturday's Solidarity Day in Washington

Labor men hope Reagan gets Solidarity Day word

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Union leaders, cheered by the turnout of a quarter million "Solidarity Day" demonstrators against President Reagan's economic and social policies, hope U.S. workers will take heart and Congress will get the message.

The demonstration, which filled the Mall from the foot of the Capitol to the Washington Monument, rivaled the largest outcries against the Vietnam War a decade ago and brought together, in peaceful protest, workers and social activists of all ages, races, and occupations.

AFL-CIO Secretary-Treasurer Thomas Donahue, who presided over the 2 1/2 hour rally Saturday, compared its likely effect with Martin Luther King's 1963 "I have a Dream" demonstration at the Lincoln Memorial, which led to the Civil Rights Act the following year.

"What is important is . . . how it inspired people," Donahue said. "I think we look to the same kind of thing here."

He predicted it will help workers throughout the nation who are disheartened by administration "juggernaut budget-cutting" — and send a message to congressmen and senators who say their mail does not show opposition to Reagan's programs.

"These are the folks from home," he said. "They did send a message."

Machinists union President William Winpisinger said friends of labor in Congress "can take heart in this."

"I think it will pump them up," Winpisinger said. "They needed someone."

As for congressmen who have backed Reagan's program, Winpisinger pointed toward the White House and predicted, "They might get the feeling there's more to fear here than over there."

Jerry Wurf, president of the million-member American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, — which had the largest delegation at the demonstration — had a down-to-earth assessment.

"In spite of this marvelous turnout, there is no guarantee . . . that we will succeed. No guarantee," Wurf said. "It is just the beginning of a very difficult process."

White House communications director David Gergen told reporters Reagan monitored the event at his Camp David mountain retreat and felt that while the labor movement may think his economic program is wrong, a "foundation for a good relationship" remains firm.

"The president believes working men and women clearly need a break from high inflation, high taxes, high interest rates and high unemployment and as the country seeks those goals more and more, working people will come to see that they have a good friend in the White House," said Gergen.

Eleanor Smeal, president of the National Organization for Women, said Reagan's absence did not mean he will escape the consequences.

"Mr. Reagan can stay at Camp David, but he knows we're here today," she shouted. "He can stay at Camp David, but we will organize in the streets."

United Auto Workers President Douglas Fraser said the turnout proves organized labor still has some vigor and should inspire "greater political activism on the part of unions."

He said it "will hopefully stiffen the spine of some of our friends."

Electrical Workers President David Fitzmaurice acknowledged that many union members voted for Reagan last year, a point repeatedly noted by administration officials.

"They won't come out and admit they voted for Reagan," Fitzmaurice said. "But they are attacking his programs, so I think they are changing their minds."

U.S. calls home top diplomat in Havana

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States has recalled its top diplomat in Cuba for consultations, but Secretary of State Alexander Haig said Sunday the return of Wayne Smith does not signal a change in already-strained U.S.-Cuban relations.

Asked about Smith's return and reports the U.S. might be thinking of a harsher line toward Cuba, Haig, interviewed on ABC's "Issues and Answers," said, "No. The return of the representative from Havana is merely a periodic consultation recall."

Department spokesman David Nall said Smith "comes home periodically to consult with officials," and the department is "not trying to point out his trip as being anything out of the ordinary or anything more than one of these periodic consultation periods."

"The verbal skirmishing between the United States and Cuba has heated up recently, and Nall noted, "There have been a number of developments in recent weeks on the situation of U.S.-Cuban relationships. I'm sure there'll be a great deal to talk about."

Nall called such speculation "just that, speculation."

"I'm unaware of any pending change in our relations," he said.

Buildup first step in pact, Haig says

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration is serious about forging a nuclear arms control pact with the Soviet Union, but a buildup in American military strength is vital to the negotiations, Secretary of State Alexander Haig said Sunday.

Haig, interviewed on ABC's "Issues and Answers," said the administration had heard a lot of "rhetoric" from Moscow about reductions of nuclear missile stockpiles.

"We are ready to talk serious," he said.

The United States seeks a "just, verifiable, equitable arrangement" to take the burden of armaments off our people," he said.

Haig will meet Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko Tuesday during the U.N. General Assembly.

Guerrillas Red spearhead, El Salvador leader declares

NEW YORK (UPI) — President Jose Napoleon Duarte of El Salvador said Sunday the guerrilla war in his country is an international communist attempt to take over South America.

He also said his ruling U.S.-backed junta is willing to negotiate a solution with the guerrillas but only on condition they commit themselves to democracy.

Duarte, in the United States on a 10-day tour to gain military and political support, is scheduled to meet President Reagan today and said he would explain the international importance of the Salvadoran civil war to Reagan.

"The Salvadoran problem is not a local problem. It is a geopolitical problem. It is an attempt by the communist groups to take over South America," he said in an interview on CBS-TV's "Face the Nation."

Duarte refused to specify how much military aid his government needed to bring about a military solution, but said he is seeking $300 million in economic aid to sustain the nation's economy. He said such aid may come from the United States and other countries or from international aid groups.

JOSE NAPOLEON DUARTE
... South America target

Washington has earmarked $144 million for the junta in 1981. The figure included $109 million in economic aid and $35 million in military assistance. Congress has been asked for another $101 million in economic aid in the next fiscal year.

Duarte blamed communist nations for what he called a "very difficult situation" in El Salvador and singled out Nicaragua as the key country being used to supply guerrillas with arms from communist countries.

"There is no question that the Nicaraguan government is being used," he said.

He said equipment for the guerrillas was being flown in by plane and the government needed communications equipment to stop the flow, including radio systems and helicopters.

Duarte insisted his government remained willing to negotiate a settlement with the guerrillas if they committed themselves to democracy.

"The crux of the problem is they have to make a decision on whether they want democracy or violence. If they don't want to continue this violence, then we can discuss a solution," he said.

Duarte also said the six members of the Salvadoran security forces accused of murdering three American nuns and a lay worker would be brought to trial, but said evidence in the December rape-slayings was still being gathered.

Tomahawk cruise missile passes first night firing test

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States conducted its first night test of a Tomahawk cruise missile Saturday night, a Pentagon spokesman said Sunday.

Lt. Glenn Flood said the missile was launched at 7:40 p.m. MDT from the White Sands Missile Range in New Mexico. He said it was the "first night flight of a conventional land attack Tomahawk cruise missile."

The test was "part of a series of combined developmental and operational tests under the joint direction of a joint cruise missiles project and commander operational test and evaluation force."

The test, he said "was conducted in its entirety over the military range complex."

The Saturday night test "was the fourth time that the required high accuracy was achieved by using the Navy-developed Digital Scene Matching Area-Correlation guidance system," Flood said.

You will stop smoking on October 30.

Smokers makes it easy. Just give us one hour to prove it.

Take sixty minutes to find out how you can quit smoking. Forever. Easily. You will learn to quit smoking with NO scare tactics. NO willpower. NO "cold turkey" withdrawal. NO hypnosis. NO "climbing the walls." and NO shock treatments.

That's right. You get to keep on smoking while you learn how to quit — painlessly, without gaining weight.

Does it sound too good to be true? But, it is true. And hundreds of thousands of people all over the world have already quit smoking at Smokersenders.

Hundreds of major companies and organizations — including the Public Health Service (part of HEW) have already chosen Smokersenders to teach their own employees how to stop smoking.

So, come to a free introductory meeting this week and find out how to learn to quit calmly and comfortably. Leave your willpower at home and bring your cigarettes — by October 30 you won't want them anymore.

THIS WEEK ONLY! Come to a FREE introductory meeting Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday & Thursday (September 20 thru 24) at all three locations. Choose the day, time and location most convenient for you.

What's what

What's the most famous love scene in the history of motion pictures? A panel of judges on this matter concluded in Rome recently that the distinction goes to that piece of passion on the beach between Burt Lancaster and Deborah Kerr in the film "From Here To Eternity." Both were in bathing suits. Miss Kerr says she remembers it well. Sand in her suit rubbed her raw.

Q. Wasn't it Tallulah Bankhead who said, "I've made an ass of myself so many times I often wonder if I am one?"
A. No, Norman Mailer said that. Tallulah said, "I'm as pure as the driven slush."

No advertising director should forget the memorable words of the great Thomas Jefferson: "The most beautiful part of a newspaper is the advertisement." Frame that.

ELVIS

Q. How many books have been written about Elvis Presley since his death in 1977?
A. 37 paperbacks, 12 hardcovers.

Sir, the razormakers say it costs a little less than a nickel to shave your face.

Q. There's a Mother's Day and Father's Day. Why not a Grandmother's Day?
A. Don't know, don't know. In Bulgaria, there's a Grandmother's Day, January 20. It's no old tradition there. Just started in 1970.

Teenage truants in Ironton, Ohio, are locked up in jail one day for each day they skip school.

MULTIPLE BURIAL

King Richard I of England had made it clear before his death in 1199 that he wanted to be buried in France. And the French thought such an interment would make not one but several dandy historical sites. So they buried his head in Rouen Cathedral, his entrails at Charroux in Poitou, and the remainder in Fontevraud. As indelicate as this procedure may seem, it was a common practice for medieval kings of Europe.

Will you buy the claim that 50 percent of the grownups in France have never read a book?

Doctors say there is no colon cancer in countries where the people don't eat beef.

Most of the reported poisoning cases involve aspirin.

Horoscope

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good day to figure out any problems that have interfered with your progress in the past. Also, a good time to make plans and important decisions for the future.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A time to contact persons who can help you put across new ideas more efficiently. Relax at home tonight.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Financial affairs need your undivided attention now. You can get good results because of the position of the stars.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Ideal day to contact friends whose loyalty and interest in your welfare is unquestioned. Show your appreciation.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) A time when you can obtain important data, but be sure to keep it a secret. Follow your intuition.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Get together with good friends for business and social reasons. Try to help one who is having a difficult time.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) An important business activity should be attended now without fail. Seek the support of a higher-up at this time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You want to engage in new outlets but you must study them carefully first to be successful. New contacts can be helpful.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Handle new duties well and be sure to keep promises you have made. Take time to improve your appearance.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Cement better relations with associates and strive for more harmony in the future. Civic work can be satisfying now.

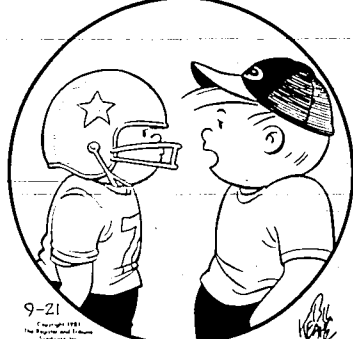

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You can easily perform duties ahead of you with precision. Find the right accessories for your wardrobe.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have fine talents that should be exercised now. Avoid one who wants to change your philosophy of life.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Make this a constructive day by making good use of your talents. Engage in a new interest that appeals to you.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have many interesting ideas to express, plus the ability to combine mental and manual chores wisely. Direct education along lines of troubleshooting for best results. Give good spiritual training early in life.

Half million devoted fans huddle in chill for concert

NEW YORK (UPI) — At least 500,000 fans huddled shoulder-to-shoulder under blankets in the evening chill on Central Park's Great Lawn Saturday listening to the melodies of Simon and Garfunkel, reviving the sounds they silenced a decade ago.

Police said the crowd was the largest ever to gather at the park despite occasional drizzle and temperatures in the low 60s. Some of the jean-clad music-lovers hailed the duo's two-hour concert as an "urban Woodstock" that harked back to the idealism of youth in the 1960s.

Musicians-composers Paul Simon and Art Garfunkel, who broke up their duo in 1971 except for a few occasional performances, played mostly old favorites, starting with "Mrs. Robinson" and ending with "Sounds of Silence." They were called back for a number of encores.

One of the songs apparently was an original composed by the duo. It was rumored that if the concert went well, they might reunite permanently.

Detective Joseph Wolfe said the crowd size was "unbelievable." He estimated the crowd at 750,000 people, but most other police officers present put the crowd at about 500,000.

"We came all the way out from L.A. because we heard they got back together and we wanted to see them," said Josefa and Seth Ellis, 26, from Los Angeles.

Jack Macey, 17, of Philadelphia, said it was "very nostalgic," although Art Garfunkel, left, Paul Simon perform in New York. He was only 7 when the duo broke up. "There are a lot of people here over 30," he said. "I love 60s music, but I was too young to appreciate the Woodstock era. I don't like the 80s music."

Guilt over death leads to man's surrender

MIAMI (UPI) — A man who was tormented by guilt for more than a year surrendered to authorities for the grisly burning death of a butcher during last year's Liberty City riots.

Police said Ivory Lee Pickett, 22, who left Miami after the riots, told them at the time of his arrest Friday, "It feels good to get it off my chest."

Pickett is being held without bond on a first-degree murder charge in the death of Emilio Munoz, 66, a butcher who unknowingly steered his car into a riot-torn area in the first hours of the

May 17, 1980 riot.

Munoz, police said, tried to swerve from a crowd of about 20 blacks, but crashed into a wall. The blacks then jimmied the car, turned it over, jabbed Munoz with sticks and set the car on fire.

Munoz died in the blaze.

Metro Detective John Lengel said Pickett could not avoid feelings of guilt even after leaving Miami.

"He knew he was being sought," Lengel said. "He knew that, in essence, even after moving away and trying to start over, the facts were still there. Let's face it, you're talking about one heckuva burden."

Lengel said it was Pickett who actually set fire to the car.

"It was a very hideous incident," he said, "no matter what race, color or creed you're talking about."

The riots, sparked by the acquittals of four white policemen in the beating death of black insurance salesman Arthur McDuffie, left 18 people dead and turned the sprawling Liberty City ghetto into an inferno.

Husband caught, blackmailed actress Davis, Hughes

NEW YORK (UPI) — Bette Davis' first husband caught the actress in bed with Howard Hughes and blackmailed the couple for $80,000, an unauthorized biography of Miss Davis reports.

Excerpts of "Bette: The Life of Bette Davis," by Charles Hingham, will appear in Us magazine next week.

Hingham said Miss Davis' first husband, Ham Nelson, had the couple's home bugged and "burst into the bedroom," catching his wife and Hughes in bed.

"Hughes tried to punch Ham in the face," Hingham said. "He flubbed it. Ham said that the instant his recordings were released, Bette's reputation as a star would be ruined, because in those days adultery was a sin so serious that the Legion of Decency could wreck a career if they discovered it."

Hingham said "Ham blackmailed Hughes for $70,000 in return for agreeing to destroy the recording. He also demanded $10,000 from Bette."

Hingham also reported that Miss Davis spurned lesbian overtures from Joan Crawford, who "for years nourished a secret desire for Bette

Meet Mort Walker

creator of BEETLE BAILEY

Did you know that Beetle Bailey started his comic strip career on a college campus? Mort Walker created Beetle and his comic friends in the images of his fraternity brothers at the University of Missouri.

A few years later, in the early 1950s, Walker inducted Beetle into the Army because the Korean War was on, and Beetle has remained in the military ever since.

Walker started his career at the age of 14, selling gag cartoons to several magazines. When he was 15 he was working as a comic strip artist for a daily metropolitan newspaper. While attending Kansas City Junior College, he moved from the stock room of Hallmark Cards to the art department. At 18, he became chief editorial designer at Hallmark.

Today Walker produces four comics for daily syndication: "Beetle Bailey," "Hi and Lois" with Dik Browne, "Sam and Silo" with Jerry Dumas, and "Boner's Ark" under the name of Addison.

Walker lives in Greenwich, Connecticut. He and his wife have eight children.

Dear Abby

Maturity is what counts in dating game

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: My parents are divorced and my father is dating a 30-year-old woman. He is 45. Meanwhile, my mother, who is 42, is going with a 55-year-old man. I'm 14, so why can't I go with a 22-year-old guy?

How can both my parents say he is too old for me when my dad is 15 years older than his girlfriend, and my mom's boyfriend is 13 years older than she is?

DEAR OLD ENOUGH TO COUNT: "Age difference" your parents are concerned about. They probably feel that at 14, you're not sufficiently mature to handle a relationship with a 22-year-old man. (Few 14-year-olds are.) Count to 10 and simmer down, dear. Your parents want the best for you.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem talking to people. If I look someone in the eyes while speaking, my face turns red and I get all choked up inside — especially if I'm talking to a man. If I'm paid some sort of compliment, I can feel my face turn red and I have to look the other way.

When I'm with a group of people talking, I never say anything because my voice is so soft, no one ever hears me anyway. At work I have heard several comments on how "stuck up" I am because I don't talk to anybody. This makes me angry because there's no way I can defend myself and let people know I'm not stuck up, I'm just shy.

I saw a psychiatrist and couldn't even look her in the eye. She told me she couldn't help unless we communicated, but I couldn't get the words out even though I knew exactly what I wanted to say.

I tried group therapy. It cost me $75 and I didn't say two words during the whole session. I have no trouble writing my feelings, but I just can't express them verbally to anyone. It's driving me insane. I'm 21, blonde hair, blue eyes, 5-foot-9 and 135 pounds, and everyone tells me how great-looking I am, but I am beginning to despise myself because of my hang-up. Abby, please help me.

— DESPERATE IN DENVER
DEAR DESPERATE: For openness, please read the book, "Shyness: What It Is and What to Do About It." It's by Phillip G. Zimbardo, a Stanford University psychologist. It's one of the most helpful books I've yet to see about shyness, and is written in language that everyone is able to understand. If that doesn't help, write again. I have other ideas.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are having an argument, and we can't find anyone who can settle it, so please ask one of your consultants. He says there is just as much nutritional value in the vitamins you buy in a store as in the vitamins you get in food. I say he is wrong — there is no way you can imitate nature, that the vitamins you get in food are far superior to the synthetic vitamins manufactured in some laboratory. If I'm wrong I'll eat this newspaper. Thank you.

— FRAN IN FAYETTEVILLE, ARK.
DEAR FRAN: Start nibbling. The United States Public Health Service's Food and Drug Administration spokesperson says, "Synthetic vitamins, manufactured in a laboratory, are identical to the natural vitamins found in foods. The body cannot tell the difference, and derives the same amount of benefit from either source."

Bus planned for ISU homecoming

TWIN FALLS — Idaho State University alumni from Magic Valley are invited to join a bus trip to Pocatello for the 1981 homecoming game against Northern Arizona on Oct. 3.

Alumni interested in the bus-motel-game package are asked to call ISU resident center coordinator Marjorie Slotten at 734-4478 before Sept. 25 for reservations.

Plans include departing early Saturday morning, attending the homecoming parade, the game at 7:30 p.m. and the alumni dance at the Hilton. The bus will leave Pocatello at noon Sunday.

For information call Bob McElfresh at 733-9554 or John Crawford, 543-4347.

Magic Toastmistress to meet

TWIN FALLS — Magic Toastmistress Club will hold an organizational meeting at 7 p.m. Sept. 24 at JB Big Boy Restaurant.

President Vera Young will review upcoming schedule and events. Theme is "Idle Hands Are the Devil's Workshop — Get Going!"

Regular meetings are the second and fourth Thursdays of each month. Interested women are invited, call Young at 734-4647 or Ethel Martin 733-7966.

Asthma program schedules

TWIN FALLS — The Idaho Lung Association will sponsor a four-week Family Asthma program for asthmatic children and their parents for the first time in Twin Falls.

Mardo Eaton of Twin Falls, volunteer program coordinator, said the sessions will begin Oct. 22 with the location to be announced later. The program is designed to improve the family's understanding and management of asthma.

The disease is the most common chronic illness in children, she said, and causes a great deal of morbidity, school absenteeism and interferes with many childhood activities.

The program will provide up-to-date information on the causes, the pathophysiology and all aspects of treatment.

Families will be accepted to the program by physician referral only. There will be a $10 registration fee per family. For more information contact Eaton at 734-6507 or the Lung Association office at 444-6567.

Legion post honored

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls American Legion Post has been honored for outstanding promotion of the Legion Americanism program.

The citation, marking Twin Falls as the second highest of the 101 posts in Idaho, was made in a surprise presentation Tuesday night at the Legion-Auxiliary youth recognition dinner.

Marion Johnson of Boise, department adjutant, presented the certificate of service to Ralph W. Lacey, Post No. 7 commander, at the conclusion of the youth recognition banquet.

The annual youth dinner honored Legion and auxiliary sponsored Girls and Boys States, members of the Legion baseball team, oratorical and poppy poster contest winners, sponsors and teachers.

Weddings

MR. AND MRS. SCOTT ATKINS

Ussher Atkins

BUHL — Marjorie Ussher became the bride of Scott Atkins Aug. 1 at the First United Presbyterian Church in Twin Falls.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Ussher of Greenwood, Calif., and the bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Atkins of Buhl.

Rev. Steve Smith officiated and Mrs. Charles Allen served as organist. Kelly and Mark Pierce of Boise sang.

The bride wore a lace trimmed gown with a Queen Anne neckline, sheer sleeves and a chapel train. She carried a bouquet of daisies and roses.

Nora Constantino of Reno was maid of honor. Katie Hill Lammers of Moscow and Tara Ussher of Oceanide, Calif., sister-in-law of the bride, were bridesmaids. Steve Atkins of Boise, twin brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Bart Buckendorf of Nampa and David Hammerquist of Buhl were groomsmen. Steve Ussher, of Oceanide, Calif., brother of the bride, and Dan Brizee of Twin Falls, served as ushers. Barbara Browning and Terral Thompson were candle lighters.

A reception was held in the church Fireside Room following the ceremony. Sharon Gross, Phoenix, Ariz., aunt of the bridegroom; Beth Carlson of Crestone, Colo., aunt of the bride; Linda Davenport of Phoenix, Ariz., cousin of the bridegroom; Terral Thompson and Susan Noll of Twin Falls assisted.

The bridegroom's parents hosted a rehearsal dinner at the Holiday Inn and a barbecue at their home following the reception.

Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. Carlton B. Wood of Escondido, Calif., grandparents of the bride.

The bride is a graduate of Fallbrook High School and College of Idaho. She taught third grade at Lincoln Elementary School in Twin Falls and is now teaching in Fruitland.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Buhl High School and College of Idaho. He is employed by the Federal Land Bank in Ontario, Ore.

Following a trip to Yellowstone National Park the couple is residing in Fruitland.

RSVP 10 years old

TWIN FALLS — Senior volunteers in the eight county Magic Valley area will join some 270,000 volunteers throughout the U. S. Wednesday in celebrating the 10th anniversary of the Retired Senior Volunteer Program.

Willie Ruth Hanson, local director, said the RSVP program started Sept. 23, 1971, and the local program has been in existence the past seven years under sponsorship of the College of Southern Idaho.

Magic Valley senior citizen centers will observe the anniversary this week with special birthday cakes. RSVP workers serve in a variety of ways and must be at least 60 years of age.

All volunteers are eligible for insurance coverage for job-related accidents. They receive mileage reimbursements to and from their work locations, plus one meal if they are at work four hours a day.

RSVP participants are involved in many activities, such as Pink Ladies at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital, assisting with daily chores at local senior citizen centers by helping with meal preparation, setting tables, cleaning and helping make handicrafts that are sold to defray center costs.

Anyone wanting more information about the program is asked to call RSVP director Willie Ruth Hanson at 733-9554, Ext. 333.

Dissolve Jello in 1 1/2 cups of hot water. Add orange sherbet while hot and mix well. Add oranges and topping. Stir well. Pour into a mold or flat dish. It will set up fast.

Dr. Lamb

Withdrawal symptoms can be serious for coffee addicts

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Association

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read your column about people having a headache because of coffee withdrawal.

I want to tell you that stopping coffee suddenly causes lots more than a headache in me. In the '30s I thought I would quit coffee for awhile. One morning I ate my usual breakfast and went to work without any coffee. As the morning progressed, my head developed a throbbing headache and by 11 a.m. I was vomiting on the floor. I didn't make it to the toilet soon enough.

In 1963 I had a hernia operation. The week before I tapered off coffee for four or five days. Still on one of those days I vomited. Of course, I did it because I knew that on the morning of the operation I wouldn't get any breakfast and no coffee. The reason I have tried to stop coffee at times is it seems I play sharper handball and sleep better if I don't use it, but I always go back, having drunk it since I was a baby.

I am writing to you so you could enlighten lots of people due to an operation to taper off and get away from coffee or any other caffeine-containing drink before surgery. I have had two operations since I did this without any headache or vomiting.

DEAR READER — Thanks for your suggestion. While I have not seen people vomit from caffeine withdrawal, I have seen a lot of headaches and other symptoms when people who use a moderate amount of coffee stop it suddenly.

The effects of caffeine are discussed in more detail in the Health Letter No. 14-4, Controversial Beverages: Coffee, Tea, Colas and Chocolate, which I am sending you.

Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N. Y. 10019.

People are becoming more aware of the health aspects of these beverages as they read about caffeine and lumps in the breast, about warning labels on coffee for pregnant women and there is a recent report of the association of coffee with cancer of the pancreas (New England Journal of Medicine, March 12, 1981). It certainly does increase the level of anxiety in tense people.

It is a good idea to taper off these beverages if you are going to have to stop them for any reason, as you have suggested. It is also a good idea to avoid them before stressful procedures, such as dental work.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I need another opinion about having a hysterectomy. Will a hysterectomy cause a woman to lose her mind or cause any mental conditions? I've heard it would all my life. I'm 73 years old and need an operation.

DEAR READER — There is no way anyone can promise you that you will not have any complications, including mental ones, after an operation.

I can tell you that a small number of people do have some emotional problems after major surgery. We never know which patients will. And it is not only a hysterectomy but any major operation including open heart surgery. Usually such reactions, if they do occur, are temporary.

Millions of women have had a hysterectomy without such a rare complication. There is no reason to expect a person to have such a problem after surgery.

Some women do have emotional reactions after a hysterectomy, even if they are relatively young, because of their mistaken idea that it means the end of being feminine or being sexually attractive.

That is an individual mental response not caused by the surgery and is based on a lack of understanding.

Texas chili too much for hyenas

SAVUTI CAMP, Botswana (UPI) — Hyenas like dried soup and baked beans but steer well clear of Texas chili once they get a snout full of cayenne pepper.

Hyenas also have had breath. Limade these scientific observations in the middle of the night as my wife tried to imitate an octopus inside the safety of our Land Rover at this camp deep inside the confines of the Chobe nature reserve.

Her fears of being eaten alive by the hyenas rummaging through the 50-gallon rubbish cans were premature.

After tasting the chili they moved to the next camp, where Sue Parker of Johannesburg terrified them with a bloodcurdling scream when she awoke to find two of them staring into her puppet.

As the hyenas galloped across the creek bordering the camp, she forced her companions to fight the lions and both piled into a Land Rover already crowded with one couple.

The South Africans promptly abandoned their plan to sleep in tents and decided the interior of their Land Rover was a lot safer if not as comfortable.

With the exception of hot showers, Chobe, which covers 4,500 square miles in northern Botswana, is almost as wild as its sister reserve of Moremi. A narrow strip along the Chobe river can be reached in a normal passenger car from Zimbabwe, but the bulk of the area is restricted to four-wheel drive vehicles.

Visitors entering the reserve are given a leaflet explaining they are the guests of the animals, who can be dangerous and unpredictable.

"Although most of them will not attempt to harm a human being, a careless visitor may encounter and provoke one for some reason," it says. "Some young animals, such as lions, are merely curious and playful, but it is no joke to be played with by a 300-pound kitten."

The camp attendant, who stoked the fire for the hot showers, went from Land Rover to Land Rover to warn campers against three buffalo placidly grazing across the creek.

"Stay close to your vehicle," he said. "One of the buffalo is wounded and he has been charging campers."

He also advised us to look out for an elephant, which had become accustomed to raiding campers' food supplies, and a pair of lions sighted nearby.

African cattle herders living in the mud and wattle villages on the borders of the unfenced reserve take the lion threat seriously. As in centuries past, they still herd their cattle in their bush kraals (corrals) nightly and surround their homes with high fences of laced bamboo to form a protective stockade.

Cordless curling wand fits in purse

BOSTON (UPI) — A new cordless, portable curling wand operates on butane gas and is small enough to fit into a medium-sized purse.

The device heats in less than three minutes, has a built-in safety mechanism to regulate the temperature and can be turned off manually or automatically, by placing its cover over the barrel.

The Gillette Clicker can be refueled with ordinary butane sold at most drugstores and supermarkets. Refills last four to six weeks, the manufacturer says, based on an average daily use of 15 minutes.

City studies changes in construction terms

By SUSAN GALLAGHER
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS—Construction agreements between the city and developers could soon undergo changes intended to help balance future years' municipal budgets.

A proposal aimed at easing the city's financial burden in getting the streets, sewer and water lines it wants will be considered at City Council's regular meeting tonight at 7 at City Hall. A council work session is scheduled for 4 p.m. today at Mandarin House restaurant in the Blue Lakes Mall.

Proposed changes in construction agreements call for developers to pay the full cost of street development in residential subdivisions.

Presently, if a subdivision is built along a major collector or arterial street, the developer provides a standard-width street. The city then pays the cost of the additional width and depth necessary to meet major collector and arterial standards.

Another change under consideration would require developers to extend water and sewer lines to meet the city's size specifications. City officials said current policy requires that developers extend lines to meet the needs of their projects. If the city wants oversized lines, sometimes desired in anticipation of future development, the city pays the extra expense.

Under proposed modifications, developers would be allowed to deduct oversized line costs from development fees the city charges for sewer and water connections. If costs of oversized exceed fee amounts, city officials said, the extra expense would be paid by the developer.

The city staff has said use of development fees logically could be used for oversized lines because the fees were adopted several years ago as a means of funding capital improvements for the sewer and water systems.

Action on the proposal was postponed at a council meeting Aug. 10 so that developers would have adequate time to review the plan. Twin Falls City Manager Tom Courtney said. Officials said last week that they had received no comment on suggested changes.

Other items scheduled for tonight's council meeting include appointments to two Park and Recreation Commission positions. The terms of Commissioners Carolyn Matsuoka and Bob Newton are expiring.

Also on the agenda are federal funding of construction at Twin Falls-Sun Valley Regional Airport and second readings of two proposed zone changes. Council can hold three formal readings of proposed zone changes before acting on them.

One of those scheduled for second reading tonight involves a 103-unit housing development planned for the northwest corner of Locust Street and Falls Avenue. The property is zoned R-4—a residential area in which fourplexes can be built. The development firm, National Corp. of Twin Falls, wants the property variously designated R-4 planned unit development, R-6 PUD and R-6 PUD with an overlay of professional offices.

The other request has been filed by General Growth Corp., which wants to rezone 6.85 acres of its property northeast of the Blue Lakes Boulevard-Pole Line Road intersection. Those acres would enlarge General Growth's shopping center site. In addition, the corporation also has requested more flexibility in landscaping and right-of-way specifications originally agreed upon with the city.

In other city business, Courtney said no new information has been presented concerning a proposed 12 percent increase in garbage rates. Council action on the rate increase has been postponed pending receipt of accounting information from Parks and Sons Intermountain Inc., the firm which handles residential garbage disposal in Twin Falls.

Real estate business good in Ketchum area

BOISE (UPI)—Real estate agents across the country may be confronting hard times with high interest rates and poor economic times, but in Sun Valley—the almost business as usual.

"Considering the situation, I couldn't ask for a better setup," Leadville Realty broker Larry Wilde said. "I'd be hurting in another community."

"We aren't flush here, we aren't fat. But we're doing better than most other communities."

Hundreds of real estate agents from throughout Idaho will have an opportunity to see how well the Sun Valley area is faring this week when the Idaho Association of Realtors convenes at the resort community.

"The market has generally remained pretty good," said Eldorado Realty's Karl Bick, saying August was his best month ever for sales.

"What's happened this summer is that buyers have been reassessing the situation," Wilde said. "Buyers realized interest rates weren't going to drop so quickly, so now they've reassessed and are buying."

But most of the activity in Blaine County's real estate market has been in the "upper price ranges," said Roy Leventhal, chairman of the board of Mountain States Savings.

He said the "high altitude or $300,000-plus market" is faring well, although housing in the $200,000 and below range is soft.

Fumes discolor, peel house paint

PORT ANGELES, Wash. (UPI)—The state will investigate complaints that white houses in the city turned brown or lost their paint because of a noxious cloud that escaped from a pulp mill.

Port Angeles police reported at least 26 complaints from people who live within a mile of the ITT-Haymer mill.

Trusty walks off

TWIN FALLS—A Twin Falls County Jail trusty temporarily out of his cell walked away from his work site Sunday.

Area law enforcement authorities were looking for Chris Grammer, 21, who had been jailed on charges of petty larceny and trespassing, and on a felony charge of resisting arrest.

Adding that extra touch foster grandparent's role

By LAURY MASSHER
Times-News writer

WENDELL—Sixty-six-year-old Phyllis Hoschouer became a foster grandparent this week for Wendell Elementary School because she couldn't stand staying home alone, and she wanted to do something worthwhile.

"I think most people my age are alone and don't have any interest outside the home, but it's better if they get out and do something," Hoschouer says. "Now, I feel I'm doing something."

Hoschouer is one of 30 foster grandparents placed in schools this year by the College of Southern Idaho's foster grandparent program.

Principal Robert Kesler says the program is working well in his school.

"It's just like having your own grandma there," Kesler says. "The kids can hold her hand, sit in her lap, confide their problems in her and get an extra hug in now and then."

Kesler says Hoschouer furnishes some of the love that teachers always aren't able to provide.

Because teachers have 20 to 30 students to love that, they aren't able to supply the individual attention some students need, Kesler says.

"Teachers don't have time to work with the students that are behind in their work," Hoschouer says.

During her first week at the school, she worked with two 7-year-olds who are behind in their reading and math, and already, she's seen progress.

"When I first came, one little girl was counting on her fingers," Hoschouer says. "At the end of the week, she didn't."

Hoschouer says one reason that children have learning problems is that they don't receive enough attention at home.

Kesler says that Hoschouer often spends time with students outside the classroom, and generally, the cats lunch with them daily.

Lunches and travel expenses are provided for the foster grandparents by the schools, according to Frieda Johnston, CSI's director of the foster grandparent program.

Johnston says that foster grandparents also are given a cash allowance of $2 an hour, a wage rate low enough that it doesn't interfere with Social Security.

"Some schools also offer a yearly physical," she says.

Johnston says all of the elementary schools in Twin Falls have foster grandparents, but more are needed.

"We can always find places for people," she says. Johnston says that the other school districts and organizations that employ foster grandparents are the Jerome, Burley and Valley school districts, the Gooding School for the Deaf and Blind, and the Early Childhood Learning Center.

One foster grandparent spent a summer learning Braille because she wanted to be more helpful to a blind child she worked with, but Johnston says there are no special requirements for becoming a foster grandparent.

"All that is needed is a desire to work with children," Kesler says.

Hoschouer encourages elderly people to become foster grandparents.

"I'm just sure that anyone who did this would enjoy it," she says. "I love my job. The time always passes too fast."

CSI schedules exhibition, sale of graphic art on Oct. 5

TWIN FALLS—An exhibition and sale of original graphic art will be presented Monday, Oct. 5, at the Herrett Museum Gallery at the College of Southern Idaho.

The sale and show will be from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The show will be conducted by Marson Graphics of Baltimore, a firm that specializes in exhibiting for sale collections—of original—etchings, woodcuts, lithographs—and serigraphs. Featured will be works by Chagall, Daumier, Fantin-Latour, Maitell, Houzart and Whistler.

A wide selection of works by noted contemporary artists such as Baskin, Coughlin, O'Connor, Kaczmarek and Eggers also will be included in the collection at CSI.

Prices for the prints will be $25, and a company representative will be present to answer questions about the work, the artists and the various graphic techniques employed.

For further information, call the museum at 733-5554, extension 136.

Franklin jury deliberates penalty today

Souvenirs of volcano area

Dan Jagelski of LaGrande, Ore., holds a section of charred log in his right hand and a chunk of pumice in his left, souvenirs of a summer spent working near Mt. St. Helens. A Forest Service employe, Jagelski was a member of a six-man team which selected areas for logging in the vicinity of the volcano, which erupted in May, 1980.

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — The jury that convicted white supremacist Joseph Paul Franklin of killing two young black male joggers has the former Ku Klux Klansman's life in his hands today.

The seven-man, five-woman panel found Franklin guilty Saturday of the 1980 racial slayings. Now it must decide whether the killer should be executed by firing squad or sentenced to life in prison.

Utah law requires separate jury hearings, first to determine guilt and then to consider the penalty in capital murder cases. But Franklin could waive jury participation and ask Third District Court Judge Jay Banks to decide the sentence.

In Utah, first-degree murder is a crime punishable by either life imprisonment or death before a firing squad.

The death penalty was last carried out in Utah on Jan. 17, 1977, when convicted murderer Gary Gilmore was executed by a five-man firing squad. Gilmore never appealed his conviction or death sentence. But outside the Utah Supreme Court must review all such sentences.

During Franklin's 15-day trial, 75 witnesses took the stand, including several who testified to his hatred for blacks.

But no prosecution witness positively identified Franklin as the sniper who gunned down Ted Fields, 20, and Dave Martin, 18, as they left a city park with their white girlfriends on the night of Aug. 20, 1980.

Prosecutor Robert Stott told the jury the state's case was circumstantial, but it "was an overwhelming body of evidence that, taken as a whole, leaves no doubt that Franklin was the gunman."

The case went to the jury late Friday and the panel deliberated for six hours before returning a unanimous guilty verdict at 12:43 a.m. Saturday on both first-degree murder counts.

When the guilty verdicts were read, Franklin's sisters — Marilyn Garzan and Carolyn Luster — sobbed quietly. Franklin showed no emotion, but defense lawyer David Yocom put his head in his hands.

In a brief statement to the news media after the verdict, Yocom said he believed the jury was mistaken. "I don't think the jurors are wise people," Yocom said. "I think the police here, the FBI and all the other police involved were looking for a scapegoat — and they found Joseph Paul Franklin."

State panel backs rejection of Northern Tier Pipeline

SEATTLE (UPI) — A seething report calling for rejection of the proposed $2 billion Northern Tier Pipeline has the backing of most of the state panel that is judging the project, the Seattle Times reported Sunday.

The Times quoted sources as saying most members of the Energy Facility Site Evaluation Council appear to favor the substance of the report by the council's administrative hearing judge, John von Reis.

However, council chairman Nick Lewis said there would be a lot of rewriting of the document.

Von Reis, who presided at the council's 16 months of hearings on the Northern Tier plan, recommended last month that the state not grant the company's application because of unanswered safety, environmental and economic questions.

The council spent 10 days behind closed doors studying his report. The panel is expected to send its decision on Northern Tier to the governor later this fall.

Northern Tier is seeking to build an oil superport at Port Angeles and a 1,500-mile pipeline to carry crude to the Midwest.

The project was granted special federal treatment by President Carter, who deemed it "in the national interest," but it still needs a Washington state license.

Von Reis said the pipeline should not be built because there are questions about how safe the 2-mile section of pipe under Puget Sound would be, because Port Angeles should not be subjected to the danger of fire and explosion from an oil port, and because there does not appear to be substantial need for the project.

The Times said there apparently was little disagreement over the first two of von Reis' concerns, but there was "blundering" over the question of need.

Ray Anderson of the State Energy Office, a council member, told the others in a report, "I do not find a real need for the pipeline." Anderson said there was a "definite trend" toward reduced oil consumption in the state and nation.

However, some eastern Washington representatives on the council reportedly argued that their area needs the oil the pipeline would provide.

USS Boise ends career in scrap yard

BOISE (UPI) — A 10,000-ton light cruiser named after Boise City is being cut up for scrap at a salvage yard in Brownsville, Texas, the Idaho Statesman reported Sunday.

The newspaper said the USS Boise, which was sold to Argentina in 1951, was sold this summer to the Consolidated Andy salvage yard in Brownsville.

Within about six months, the cruiser that helped sink six Japanese ships off Guadalcanal in a "very 1942 battle" will be gone. Its steel sold to Mexico to be recycled into girders and boilerplate, said Ted Albright, sales manager of the Texas scrap yard.

The news concerning the USS Boise comes days before the seventh biennial reunion of the 1,300 men who served on the ship during its eight-year commission from 1938 to 1946. The reunion of veterans of the Boise begins Wednesday in Chicago.

Layton trial jury goes back to work

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A federal jury deliberating the fate of Peoples Temple aide Larry Layton has again viewed parts of a video film taken during Congressman Leo Ryan's ill-fated journey to the Guyana jungles.

The 7-woman, 5-man jury also asked for another reading of testimony from Ryan's aide, Jackie Speier, who was near the San Mateo, Calif., Democrat during the trip and who held his head as he died in an airstrip attack near the temple commune at Jonestown that triggered the cult's mass suicide-murder ritual.

The panel, which has deliberated 16 hours and was given Sunday off, must decide whether Layton, 35, voluntarily joined a plot that led to Ryan's death and the wounding of U.S. diplomat Richard Dwyer on Nov. 18, 1978.

Jurors returned to the courtroom Saturday afternoon to view several sections of video tape recordings taken by NBC cameraman Bob Brown during Ryan's visit. Brown was one of three newsmen killed at the airstrip along with Ryan and a temple defector.

They also asked the judge to read testimony of Miss Speier, the first witness called to the stand by the prosecution.

Dwyer and a dozen others were wounded in a cross-fire of rifles and pistols aimed from a tractor-trailer and a dump truck.

Layton is the only surviving cult member charged with conspiracy. After the shooting, other members of the alleged plot — including cult physician Jim Jones — died in a mass murder-suicide in which 913 cultists perished.

Vision of bus wreck produces warning

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (UPI) — The Wyoming State Patrol has issued a statewide advisory to local law officers because of a psychic's vision of a school bus wreck.

A patrol dispatcher said Sunday the patrol is not accepting the premonition as true by issuing the advisory but said the patrol is not taking any chances.

The patrol advised law officers to be on the lookout for circumstances matching the vision.

A Cheyenne patrol dispatcher received a call last week from Gill Simms, a professor of an unidentified female psychic in Washington state, reporting the woman had a vision of a school bus colliding with a train in Wyoming. The patrol did not issue the advisory of the professor and psychic.

The vision contained vivid details, Sims said. He said the woman "saw" a Wyoming school bus, carrying children ages 7 and 8, colliding with a train hauling grain.

The woman could not predict when the accident would take place, Sims said, but said it would be in the near future and on a day when freezing snow would obstruct the bus driver's vision.

Courtship not typical, couple says

MERIDIAN (UPI) — Claude Brown and Margaret Whittaker were married in a typical ceremony in Meridian Saturday.

However, the 89-year-old Brown and his 87-year-old bride say there's nothing typical about their courtship. The courtship that lasted while the Browns were in high school lapsed for 60 years while each reared separate families, each happily married to a different spouse.

The Browns were high school sweethearts in 1911 and 1912. They last saw each other after Mrs. Brown graduated from high school in Blue Springs, Neb.

Brown was married in 1913, and Mrs. Brown married her first husband in 1914. Both were widowed after years of marriage, however.

Brown, a railroad brakeman for 30 years and a carpenter and garage mechanic for 12 years, said he started building a house after his retirement. But he decided the home was too big after his first wife died 20 months ago, and he set about locating his former sweetheart.

He said he finally located her in Meridian after contacting her relatives — and quickly asked her to marry him.

"I took her about a month to make up her mind, but she did," Brown said Saturday.

Nampa shooting suspect sought

NAMPA (UPI) — Police sought an unidentified suspect Sunday in the shooting of a 24-year-old Nampa man Saturday night.

Doctors at Mercy Medical Center in Nampa said Julian R. Fuentes was listed in satisfactory condition Sunday and had been taken out of the intensive-care ward, where he was treated for the gunshot wound Saturday night.

Police dispatchers said officers were seeking a suspect, who they refused to identify, and hoped to arrest the individual quickly.

They said a man stopped his car in front of a house where Fuentes was visiting at 9:48 p.m. Saturday. The man called Fuentes out of the house, shot him once and then drove away, officers said.

Costs of fire control occasionally top loss

MOSCOW (UPI) — Extinguishing forest fires sometimes costs more than the value of timber and other resources being burned, a University of Idaho forestry professor said.

Charles McKetta said he is studying firefighting costs of state and federal agencies in the Pacific Northwest under a $75,000 federal grant to determine what factors lessen and increase the cost of fire management.

The research, part of a national project sponsored by the U.S. Forest Service's Riverside, Calif., fire laboratory, will be used to make a computer model of up to 140 different fire management programs nationwide, he said. The model will allow foresters to identify the best way to fight fires for the cheapest cost by comparing expected costs to probable resource losses and the benefits of fire.

"We aren't expecting to displace local fire managers, but to give them an idea of what they can do economically," McKetta said. "Firefighting has been one of the last bastions of non-economic decision making."

He said fire suppression philosophies vary from one agency to another, and even within agencies. Some will selectively allow a fire to continue burning as long as it doesn't threaten residences, while others may strive to control all fires before they reach 10 acres.

Finding the costs of fire management in these agencies isn't always easy, McKetta said. Some costs are found in budgets that don't relate to fire management, such as training, capital and administrative budgets.

In one agency, for example, he said the wages of a 20-man "hot-shot" firefighting crew are $211 per hour, but adding in the necessary overhead costs brings the actual wages to $407 per hour, not including transportation.

Hatch, Garn divided over AWACS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Utah Republican Senators Orrin Hatch and Jake Garn have lined up on opposite sides on the debate over whether to sell AWACS radar planes to Saudi Arabia.

Garn, the state's senior senator, says he will vote in favor of the $3.5 billion sale, but Hatch has signed a resolution opposing the Saudi purchase.

Israel is vigorously opposing the sale, which President Ronald Reagan says will enable Saudi Arabia to defend itself against the Soviet Union or militant Arab nations.

Garn says he supports the Saudis because they represent "a voice of moderation in the Arab world and a critical source of oil for the West. He added that the AWACS planes are primarily designed as a defensive system and could not "effectively coordinate an attack against Israel with the aircraft."

Sex with clients should be felony, leaders say

Advocacy group goes after shady counselors

SEATTLE (UPI) — Unlicensed mental health counselors should be subject to state control and sexual relations between counselors and their clients should be made a felony, says a new advocate group.

"Stop Abuse By Counselors is a group founded in western Washington by women who cite increasing evidence that some unprofessional counselors are taking advantage of unwitting patients."

"The problem is that there is a place to complain," said Shirley Siegel, a Tukwila housewife who founded the organization with the help of state Rep. Georgette Valle, D-Seattle.

Mrs. Siegel said she was sexually abused by a counselor years ago but only recently discovered how many other women had similar experiences.

For example, Colleen Cristel of Seattle said her sessions with the director of a counseling group "ended up in wrestling matches."

"He reminded me of (People's Temple organizer) Jim Jones," she said, "winning control over you and then demanding control over you."

Mrs. Siegel said, "The situation perpetuates a safe environment for unscrupulous counselors." She said sexual activity between a counselor and client should be considered third-degree rape.

The only mental health professionals required to get a license are psychiatrists and practicing psychologists. Thousands of other "counselors" — including everything from human potential gurus to hypnotists — can legally set up a clinic and take patients.

"These people have a major impact upon the citizens of the state because they counsel people on all aspects of living," Rep. Valle said.

A small group of reputable counselors and consumers, including Mrs. Siegel, has come up with a draft of legislation they would like to see become law. It would require all counselors to be licensed and to have either a master's degree in counseling or an equivalent amount of training.

Dr. Delbert M. Kole, director of the mental health division of the State Department of Social and Health Services, said there is a need for more control over unlicensed counselors.

"There is growing literature about male therapists and female clients as far as sexual activity is concerned, but nobody knows how prevalent it is," Kole said.

"Clients come in when they are experiencing serious problems and are looking for some authority. They are in a vulnerable position and many who do not know what to expect can be manipulated in a destructive way."

Assistant State Attorney General Jay Uchida said his consumer protection division advises clients with complaints to file civil suits against the organization or counselor.

Sgt. Dick Ramo of the Seattle Police Department's sexual assault unit said that aside from court action, there's not much that can be done against abusive counselors.

"We would have to establish that a crime occurred," he said, "and when you get therapy it is hard to show that something took place against a person's will."

Polish minister warns nation

Pope greets Sunday crowd from behind bulletproof glass shield

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — Prime Minister Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski met with his cabinet Sunday in the second emergency session in a week and warned Poles it will not be easy to survive the winter because of the crisis in the nation.

The official news agency PAP said the cabinet — the Council of Ministers — briefed provincial governors and mayors of major cities on "urgent matters resulting from the country's present political, social and economic situation."

"The government took a number of indispensable decisions," PAP said. "It evaluated the readiness of the state authority bodies and specified measures designed to meet various needs and contingencies."

In another development, Poland's Roman Catholic church backed the Solidarity labor union in a call for less government control of the mass media.

PAP gave few details of the cabinet meeting, but said the measures taken included "emergency steps" in market supply and the economy.

"In the crisis conditions, it will not be an easy thing to survive the winter," PAP quoted a cabinet statement as saying. "However, there are real chances for such survival under the basic condition that law, order and discipline must be assured together with better activity of state administration and society."

It said a new system of planned power cuts would be introduced.

Polish television quoted Deputy Prime Minister Janusz Obodowski, head of the state crisis team, as comparing the current economic situation to "the wartime economy."

It was the third cabinet session in a week; and the second described as "emergency." An emergency session Thursday issued a tough statement condemning Solidarity policy and vowing to combat "counterrevolution."

Polish primate Archbishop Jozef Glemp presided over a harvest-blessing festival in his home parish of Olstyn and, PAP said, appealed for peace, work and dignity in resolving the crisis between the government and the independent Solidarity labor union.

In what amounted to official admission of the failure of rationing,

PAP said, "from many parts of the country comes news about a further worsening of market supply difficulties. This deals mainly with meat and meat products, detergents and articles of personal hygiene and some industrial products, including winter clothing and footwear."

In the western province of Gorzow, "the situation is considered critical. There is not enough meat to cover market demands there," the news agency said.

It said also there was not sufficient flour for bakeries to supply enough bread for the region.

In Lodz, Poland's second largest city, PAP said meat delivery was getting worse. "The city needs 140 tons a day, and the daily purchase is only 100 tons," it said.

Lodz, with 800,000 people, was the scene of dramatic anti-hunger demonstrations and marches during the summer, and although meat is rationed, people sometimes wait 20 hours or more in line at butcher shops to purchase their quota.

The only bright spot, the report said, was in Lublin, in eastern Poland, where flour has been taken off the rationed list because of the good harvest.

In churches around the country, priests read a pastoral letter from Poland's bishops backing Solidarity's demands for access to the mass media.

"Limiting freedom of words is intolerable," it said. "It is unacceptable for there to be a monopoly of one social group or one ideology in spreading their views via the social mass media."

"The influence of mass media is so deep that it must be under social control. This control should have institutional forms and legal rights and boundaries... Readers, speakers, listeners have the right to actively use the mass media, to make public their opinions. Creation of a possibility for that is among the duties of editors," it said.

Pope says Poland should solve its problems without interference

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (UPI) — Pope John Paul II said Sunday his native Poland should be "allowed" to solve its problems without outside interference and a "new spilling of blood."

Speaking to about 10,000 people at his summer villa, the pope also prayed for peace in the violence-torn Central American nations of El Salvador and Guatemala.

"Too much Polish blood was spilled during World War II for people to be able to talk or think about a new spilling of blood," the 61-year-old pope said in Polish.

"We know very well that the important and difficult things must be resolved through dialogue and not through confrontation. The experience of the past year has shown that Poles are capable of solving these difficulties through peace, without violence and without the spilling of blood."

"A nation that has paid such a price for its independence has a right to decide things independently," he said to the applause and cheers of several hundred Poles in the audience who began singing the Polish national anthem.

"This right of independent decision making is the principle of the international order. One must respect it because this is required by a true desire for peace."

The pope's appeal was one of his most explicit regarding the possibility of violent confrontation in his homeland between the Communist regime and the independent Solidarity trade union or intervention from the Soviets.

The plea for Poland came after the pope called for prayers for El Salvador and Guatemala.

"I ask you to pray to the mother of God for those brothers and sisters so sadly tried in Salvador," he said, "to pray that internal peace, so desired, can reign in a society in which several thousand men and women, among them an archbishop, Monsignor Romero, have been killed, the victims of a fratricidal struggle."

New Caledonia faces strike today

NOUMEA, New Caledonia (UPI) — The political group seeking independence for the French Pacific island colony of New Caledonia Sunday called a 24-hour general strike for today to protest the assassination of one of its leaders.

Pierre Declercq, 43, secretary-general of the Union Caledonie Party, was killed Saturday by a shotgun blast fired through a window of his office in the capital of Noumea.

No group claimed responsibility for the killing, but Yann Uregel, leader of the New Caledonia Independence Front, blamed the slaying on a shadowy group of French settlers who came to the island chain from Algeria.

Saying the killing was "tantamount to a declaration of war" against the island's native Melanesians, Uregel called a 24-hour strike for Monday to protest the assassination.

The death of Declercq, the independence movement's principal spokesman in the semi-autonomous territorial assembly, is sure to heighten tensions between French settlers and New Caledonia's pro-independence native population.

Of a population of 140,000, about 56,000 are Melanesian while the remainder are mostly European, with the majority French.

The strike called for today is expected to disrupt all public services in Noumea and limit operations at the giant nickel plant on the outskirts of the capital.

Uregel said further demonstrations are planned for Thursday, the 12th anniversary of the French settlement of New Caledonia, 1,100 miles east of Australia.

Stewardess dies during Atlantic trip

LONDON (UPI) — A World Airways stewardess was killed on a trans-Atlantic flight Sunday when she got trapped in the elevator connecting the main passenger deck of a DC-10 with the galley, airline officials said.

The airline gave no more details as to how Karen Williams, 24, of Washington, D.C., died, except to say the accident occurred as she entered the self-operated elevator that carries crewmembers to and from the kitchen below the main deck of the DC-10.

Four doctors among the more than 300 passengers on the Baltimore to London flight rushed to treat her but she died instantly. "No one else was involved," a World Airways spokesman said.

Thomas Hughes, World Airways European vice president, said there never had been a problem with the elevators on the DC-10, which have been in service for nine years.

Vikings, Browns cop first wins of season

Field goal tips Lions

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — A 15-yard un-sportsmanlike conduct penalty against Tommy Kramer proved to Minnesota Vikings' Coach Bud Grant that his quarterback had his head back in the game.

"It showed me that he had all his faculties back," Grant said of Kramer, who led the Vikings to a 26-24 victory over the Detroit Lions Sunday in Kramer's first start this season.

Kramer's bell had been rung on a sack midway through the fourth quarter.

"He had been flattened," Grant said. "Somebody got him right on the chin. He was out. The fight was over if he was in the ring."

Rookie Wade Wilson came in for one play, but then Kramer rushed back onto the field, chasing an official to complain about the lack of an interference call on Wilson's throw to Sammy White.

That was all Grant needed to see to insert Kramer back in the lineup. A couple of possessions later, Kramer led the Vikings to Rick Danmeier's 20-yard game-winning field goal with 4 seconds left and give the Vikings their first win this season.

Kramer had been sidelined since Aug. 27 with a knee injury, but was pressed into duty when backup quarterback Steve Dils suffered a shoulder separation last Monday. Kramer responded by completing 25-of-42 passes for 333 yards, including a 4-yard touchdown pass to Joe Senser and a 59-yard scoring strike to Ted Brown.

Detroit Coach Monte Clark said he had expected Kramer to quarterback the Vikings, despite rumors that Wilson would start.

"I wanted more pressure on Kramer and we never got it," Clark said. "It took us quite a while to get to him."

Grant said the two teams were evenly matched. "All that was settled was that we were ahead when the game was over," he said. "If it had gone on, the lead would have gone back and forth."

The victory gave Minnesota a 1-2 record. Detroit is also 1-2.

A 34-yard run by Brown and a 43-yard pass from Kramer to Terry LeCount helped move the Vikings on their first drive to the Detroit 1. Brown capped the 80-yard drive with a 1-yard TD plunge and Danmeier's kick gave Minnesota a 7-0 lead that held for the first quarter.

Cleveland quarterback Brian Sipe dives for a first down ahead of Bengal Eddie Edwards

Draw sinks Bengals

CINCINNATI (UPI) — The Cleveland Browns managed to win their first game of the year Sunday, thanks to consecutive 12-yard draw plays in the final five minutes that even surprised the man who made them work.

Mike Pruitt ran both the draws — the second one good for a touchdown with 4:20 to play that provided the winning points in Cleveland's 20-17 squeaker over the Cincinnati Bengals.

With Cleveland leading 13-10 with just under five minutes to go, Pruitt dashed 12 yards on a draw down to the Cincinnati 12. When Pruitt returned to the huddle, he heard an unusual call for the next play.

"I was surprised because they (coaches) had sent in the second straight draw," said Pruitt. "I thought they must be crazy. I figured Cincinnati will be waiting on it."

But the Bengals weren't and Pruitt raced into the end zone with Cleveland's game-winning touchdown.

"I guess what all this shows," added Pruitt, "is that those guys upstairs (Browns' coaches) are a little smarter than me."

The victory was important for Cleveland which had lost its first two games. Also, a loss to Cincinnati would have staked their AFC Central rivals to a 3-0 start.

"For the last three weeks we've been waiting for everyone to play in concert," said Browns Coach Sam Rutigliano. "Today for the first time we had balance. I'm very happy that a lot of people got involved."

Cincinnati nearly pulled off its third straight comeback win.

Two weeks ago, the Bengals trailed Seattle 21-0, but rallied and won 27-21. Last week, Cincinnati overcame a 14-0 deficit at New York and dined the Jets 31-30.

Sunday, Cincinnati spotted Cleveland a 13-0 lead and might have come all the way back had it been able to get the ball back in the closing two minutes.

"I didn't expect to go through the season undefeated, but I really didn't figure to lose this game," said Bengals Coach Forrest Gregg.

"We missed two important field goals. We didn't tackle well. We had a nothing offense the first half. Pruitt's score on the draw gave Cleveland a 20-10 lead, but the Bengals got a 1-yard TD burst from Pete Johnson with 1:57 remaining to pull within 20-17.

Impossible dream

Converted cornerback snares St. Louis winner

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Roy Green's impossible dream came true Sunday in the St. Louis Cardinals' 40-30 victory over the Washington Redskins.

"During the preseason in Seattle, I was talking to Jimmy (Hart) and told him I dreamt I caught a touchdown pass from him," said Green. "We both laughed. This was before I was even thinking about playing offense."

Green, a defensive back in his first two years with the Cardinals, was used as a wide receiver for the first time last week in a loss at Dallas and caught one pass. He got his first pro coverage as a receiver against the Redskins, and hauled in a 58-yard scoring pass from Hart to turn his dream into reality.

"Playing defense has helped because I can walk up to the line and know what kind of defense they're in," said Green. "I had only single coverage on the touchdown because they knew I didn't have any experience and weren't going to waste two men on me."

St. Louis Coach Jim Hanifan, who used Green against Washington as a fifth defensive back in passing situations, said Green will continue to perform double duty for the Cardinals.

"He did an outstanding job at wide receiver, and also had an interception," said Hanifan. "He will continue to play offense. I don't think there's any reason to get him out of there."

St. Louis quarterback Jim Hart said he couldn't remember when a Cardinal player was used both on offense and defense in a game, and Washington strong safety Tony Peters said the same for his team.

"It's got to be one of the first times in years a play has been able to do it," Peters said. "Green's double duty. He played an excellent game." Green's scoring reception was one of several big plays turned in by St. Louis, which also got a 50-yard punt return for a score by rookie Stump Mitchell.

The victory was the first of the season for St. Louis, while rookie head Coach Joe Gibbs is looking for his initial triumph at Washington after three games.

Washington quarterback Joe Theismann finished with the best game in his 8-year career, with 25 completions in 37 attempts for 388 yards and four touchdowns. Two of the scores — a 20-yard pass to Rick Walker and a 10-yarder to Ricky Thompson — came in the final quarter when the Redskins were playing catchup.

Hart, returning from a knee injury that kept him out of last week's game, hit 12-of-22 passes for 226 yards against a pass defense that was rated tops in the AFC before the game. He hit six straight passes in the second half when St. Louis put together an 80-yard drive that used more than seven minutes of the clock and ended early in the final quarter with a 6-yard TD pass to Dave Stiel for a commanding 35-17 lead.

Cards' Roy Green gets end zone "high five"

The Cardinals first score came on a 7-yard run by Otis Anderson after Redskins punter Mike Connell dropped the snap from center, giving St. Louis the ball on the Washington 13. Green, a defensive back his first two years in the league, finished with four receptions for 115 yards. He first was used as a wide receiver last week against Dallas, catching one pass. Green got his first pro start at wide receiver against Washington and also was used as a fifth defensive back in passing situations, intercepting a pass to end the final Redskins threat. The Redskins had the worst rushing attack in the league going into the game.

Sack-hungry Dolphins hang year's first loss on Oilers

HOUSTON (UPI) — The sack is back for the Miami Dolphins, but it took a strategic quarterback switch Sunday in addition to a top notch defensive performance for the Dolphins to remain unbeaten this season.

Don Strock, who hadn't played since preseason, replaced regular quarterback David Woodley in the second half and tossed a 3-yard touchdown pass to running back Audra Franklin to secure a 16-10 victory over the Houston Oilers.

The Dolphins defense, meanwhile, did not allow the Oilers to sustain one drive all day, and except for one play the effort was "one of our strongest defensive games ever," Miami Coach Don Shula said.

Middle guard Bob Baumhower sacked quarterback Ken Stabler four times to lead an assault on a passing pocket unheard of in recent Dolphins history. In all, Miami defenders racked up eight sacks — one short of tying the club record.

All of last season, Miami had only 27 quarterback sacks, and thus far this season the Dolphins have 16.

"Baumhower was outstanding for us today," Shula said. "I thought we did a good job on Earl Campbell."

"We made one defensive mistake on the touchdown pass."

Houston, held to three first downs in the first half, got one of them on the bomb that most people did not think Stabler could still throw. Wide receiver Ken Burrough caught Stabler's long ball in the first quarter for a 71-yard TD and a 7-0 Oilers lead.

"We can make them respect the long ball now and the short ones will come easy," Burrough said. "Otherwise, we did not execute today as an offensive team. We lost the game together."

Stabler was more critical of his offense in the Oiler's first loss.

"We didn't play worth a damn. There were too many sacks, too many penalties. The defense played a good game but we didn't carry our share of the load on offense," he said.

"Miami's a good group. We had trouble picking up what they were doing. They were giving us a lot of different looks with their linebackers and down people."

Shula said he went to Strock because of his experience over second-year pro Woodley.

"The Oilers gave us a lot of different coverages and Strock had more experience. It paid off today," he said.

Field goals of 42, 37 and 27 yards by Uwe von Schamann were all the Dolphins generated before Strock drove them 40 yards to the winning touchdown.

Strock, who had completed 24-of-26 passes in the preseason, opened the second half at quarterback in his first appearance of the regular season. Woodley had completed 11-of-22 passes for 82 yards, but he continually overthrew open receivers.

The Dolphins' defense pinned Houston inside its 10 midway through the fourth quarter after a Miami punt was downed at the 1. Houston punt went deep from its end of the field and Miami's Tommy Vigorito called for a fair catch at Houston's 50.

On third-and-4 at the Houston 34, Strock passed 19 yards to Harris. The touchdown pass by Strock ended a 10-quarter dry spell that the Dolphin offense had had against the Oilers.

Houston linebacker Ted Washington's interception of a Strock pass, which ricocheted off the shoulder of receiver Durlie Harris, allowed the Oilers to overcome a 9-7 halftime deficit on Tomi Fritsch's 40-yard field goal.

Dolphins' middle guard Bob Baumhower sacked Stabler four times as Miami's defense pounded the Oilers' quarterback. In all, Miami collected eight sacks, one short of the team record.

The victory was Miami's first in its last nine games against AFC Central Division teams. Houston had beaten Miami in the last two meetings, including a 1978 playoff game.

The Dolphins played the second half without the entire backfield it had used in two earlier victories over St. Louis and Pittsburgh. The two starting running backs Sunday, Tony Nathan and Woody Bennett, were injured in the first half. They were replaced by Franklin and Vigorito.

Vigorito's 21-yard punt return in the first quarter set up the first score of the game, a 42-yard field goal by von Schamann.

On Houston's possession following the field goal, wide receiver Burrough ran past cornerback Gerald Small and took Stabler's pass which covered 45 yards for a touchdown.

Miami came right back on its next possession with the help of a 19-yard interception penalty against cornerback Greg Stenrick to drive 54 yards to von Schamann's second field goal, a 37-yarder.

Before halftime von Schamann put the Dolphins into the lead with a 27-yard field goal. Two plays earlier, Woodley's pass to Nick Griantino in the end zone was wiped out by a holding penalty called on tight end Joe Rose.

Miami defensive end Doug Belters had two quarterback sacks to go with Baumhower's four, and the other two sacks were gained by linebacker Earnest Rhone and defensive end Vern Den Herder.

Oilers' running back Earl Campbell, who returned to form after a shoulder injury, rushed for 78 yards on 19 carries.

Patriots, Cowboys collide tonight

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — The New England Patriots, who had to fight town officials just to play the game as scheduled, battle the explosive Dallas Cowboys Monday night in a matchup of the highest scoring teams of 1980.

The Patriots rolled out the front office artillery in July to convince the town selectmen (administrators in New England states) the usual Man, day night rowdiness in the stands and parking lots was not enough to warrant cancellation of a visit by "America's Team." The selectmen themselves agreed, reversed their decision and allowed the game to start at 9 p.m. EDT.

So against a backdrop of beeped-up security around Schaefer Stadium and bouncers walking the aisles, the Patriots try for their first victory of the season. It may be too early for a "must-win" but the Patriots desperately need a victory to avoid falling out of sight early.

"It's an important game for them, but it's more important for us because they're 2-0 and we're 0-2," said New England cornerback Ray Clayborn, who grew up as a Cowboys fan. "We know it's going to be a challenge."

The Patriots offense hopes to have game-breaker Stanley Morgan back in the lineup. Morgan, the All-Pro wide receiver, has missed the first two games and his absence has had a "severe" impact on the offense. Coach Ron Erhardt said Morgan likely would be ready to play, but he couldn't say for how long.

Also a question mark is halfback Vagas Ferguson, who also has missed the first two games. Rookie Tony Collins has filled in admirably for Ferguson but there's no one on the bench to give Collins a breather.

The Patriots, who started 44 points last year, have always been able to put points on the board. It's their defense that usually is iffy, and this year New England is last in the league against the rush, allowing 469 yards.

And the NFL's leading rusher, Tony Dorsett, is off to his best start for the Cowboys with 261 yards and 37 carries. "Our running game has been going real good," said Dallas coach Tom Landry. "Tony is stronger, more confident, he's had a great start. And his attitude has been tremendous."

Flak-clad Bartkowski leads Falcons to win

ATLANTA (UPI) — Steve Bartkowski, wearing a flak jacket to protect his cracked rib and a brace on his right knee, threw three touchdown passes and Tom Pridemore returned a pass interception 101 yards Sunday to lead the Atlanta Falcons to a 34-17 victory over the San Francisco 49ers.

Bartkowski, who injured his rib last week at Green Bay but returned to that game to lead the Falcons to a come-from-behind victory, threw a 29-yard TD pass to Alfred Jackson in the opening minutes of the game, threw an 18-yard scoring pass to Lynn Cain with 3:57 left in the first quarter, and threw a 15-yard TD pass to Alfred Jenkins with 4:57 left in the first half.

Bartkowski, who completed 13-of-22 passes for 208 yards before leaving the game midway through the final quarter, also had a 13-yard touchdown pass to Wallace Francis late in the first quarter nullified by a holding penalty and threw a 67-yard pass to Jenkins late in the third quarter that carried the ball all the way down to the San Francisco 1.

That time, however, the Falcons were unable to punch the ball in on three running plays and settled for an 18-yard field goal by Mick Luckhurst, who also kicked a 47-yarder in the first quarter.

The 49ers, down 24-10 at half time, appeared on route to closing to within a touchdown when they took the second half kickoff and drove to the Atlanta 7. But Pridemore intercepted a Joe Montana pass 1 yard deep in the Falcons' end zone and raced down the right sideline for that team-record 101 yard score.

Bears 28, Buccaneers 17

CHICAGO (UPI) — Quarterback Vince Evans' 7-yard touchdown run snapped a 14-14 tie late in the third quarter and his 18-yard TD pass to Dave Williams provided an insurance score to give the Chicago Bears a 28-17 victory Sunday over the Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

The Bears, 1-2, turned two interceptions thrown by Tampa Bay quarterback Doug Williams into scores in handing the Buccaneers their second loss in three games.

Jeff Fisher added an 88-yard punt return for a touchdown for the Bears, who had been contained by Tampa Bay's defense throughout most of the first half.

With the score tied 14-14, safety Lenny Walterscheid intercepted a Williams pass at the Bears' 16. Evans guided Chicago 84 yards in 11 plays, culminating in his 7-yard TD run with 6 seconds left in the third quarter. It put the Bears ahead to stay.

A 32-yard field goal by Garo Yepremian with 12:23 left in the game cut the Bears' lead to 21-17. But the Bears finished a time-consuming ground-oriented drive that took more than 7 minutes off the clock. Evans hit Williams on the 18-yard TD with 5:14 remaining to put the game out of reach.

Walter Payton, held to just 19 yards in the first half, was the key man in the drive. He wound up with 64 yards in 21 carries.

Raiders 20, Seahawks 10

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI) — Jim Plunkett passed for one touchdown and ran for another Sunday and Derrick Jensen, filling in for the injured Mark Van Eeghen, ran for 81 yards, including a touchdown, to lead the Oakland Raiders to a 20-10 victory over the Seattle Seahawks.

Plunkett ran 13 yards on a broken pass play the first time the Raiders had the ball for a 70 yard, and after Efren Herrera kicked a 26-yard field goal for Seattle, the Oakland quarterback passed 29 yards to Morris Bradshaw for a 13-0 halftime lead.

Zorn completed 21-of-39 passes for 258 yards, but most of his completions came the last two times the Seahawks had the ball and the Raiders were in a prevent defense.

Both drives, though, ended in Seattle losing the ball. After Zorn hit on 6-of-8 throws for 116 yards, a little more than two minutes left, he was forced to run on a broken pass play, picked up 14 yards but was stripped of the ball by Ted Watts with Burgess Owens grabbing the loose ball.

Broncos 28, Colts 10

DENVER (UPI) — Craig Morton threw for four touchdowns and passed the 25,000-yard career mark Sunday in sparking the Denver Broncos to a 28-10 victory over the Baltimore Colts.

Before leaving the game early in the fourth quarter, Morton produced 281 yards, bringing his career total to 25,166 yards and passing retired Miami quarterback Bob Griese for the No. 14 spot on the all-time career yardage list.

Baltimore's 10 points were all scored in the third quarter and came on a 21-yard field goal by Mike Wood and a 62-yard TD run by Curtis Dickey — the longest run of his professional career.

The opening quarter produced numerous turnovers. Morton was intercepted on Denver's first three possessions. The second interception was picked off by cornerback Larry Brazil, who promptly fumbled and Denver's Ron Egloff recovered.

Three plays later, with Denver in leading position on the Baltimore 16, Colt defensive tackle Bubba Green batted one of Morton's passes into their, then again tackled him before it reached the ground.

The Broncos, however, made up for their early mistakes in the second quarter to produce two long drives for touchdowns. Morton hit Egloff for a 7-yard touchdown pass. On the Bronco's next possession, Morton completed a 29-yard scoring strike to wide receiver Steve Watson on a 10-yard drive of seven plays.

In the second half, Watson caught passes of 18 and 49 yards from Morton for two more TDs.

Giants 20, Saints 7

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (UPI) — Phil Simms carved up an inexperienced New Orleans secondary for 322 yards, including a 12-yard touchdown pass to Gary Shirk, and Joe Danolo kicked a club-record 65-yard field goal Sunday to lead the New York Giants to a 20-7 victory over the Saints.

Simms, who entered the game with a 41 percent completion average, clicked on 20-of-41 attempts against a Saints' defense that started rookie backs Johnnie Poe and Frank Watterell.

New Orleans, 1-2, couldn't advance past the Giants' 36 until a fourth-quarter scoring drive, engineered by rookie quarterback Dave Wilson and capped by Wayne Wilson's 2-yard TD run with 6:34 to go.

New York, 2-1, also scored on a 20-yard field goal by Danolo and a 1-yard run by Billy Taylor while the Saints' offense appeared lost without the services of veteran quarterback Archie Manning, who missed the game with a hamstring injury.

Backup Bobby Scott, who hit on 10-of-15 passes against Los Angeles last week, could complete only 3-of-15 before Wilson took over in the final period. George Rogers, the No. 1 pick in the draft who set a Saints' record with 162 yards rushing against the Rams, was New Orleans' only effective weapon with 75 yards on 20 carries.

Rams 35, Packers 23

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) — The Los Angeles Rams, led by backup quarterback Jim Zorn, scored three touchdowns in a 71-0 span of the second half to lead to a club-record 35-23 victory over the Green Bay Packers.

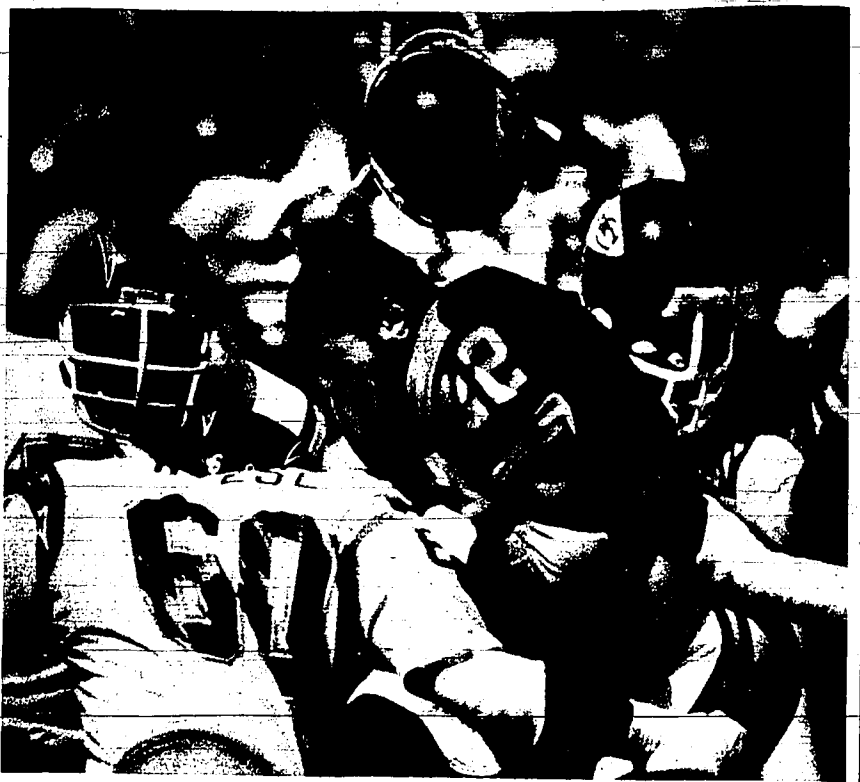

It was the Rams' first win in three games while Green Bay fell to 1-2.

Trailing 16-14, the Rams moved into a 21-16 lead late in the third quarter on a 30-yard touchdown pass from Ruitledge to Drew Hill.

Los Angeles boosted its lead to 28-16 early in the final period on a 2-yard TD run by Cullen Bryant and on Green Bay's next play, Pat Thomas intercepted a Lynn Dickey pass and returned it 64 yards to the Packers' 11.

The plays later, Wendell Tyler crashed over from the 1 to give Los Angeles a 35-16 lead with 5:22 left in the game.

Green Bay closed out the scoring with 5:00 left on a 19-yard TD pass from Dickey to James Lofton, who made a sensational catch in the end zone.

Fouts guides Chargers past Chiefs

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Dan Fouts the individual may have come up a bit short, but not Dan Fouts the team player.

The San Diego quarterback saw his NFL-record tying string of consecutive 300-yard record being halted at four Sunday but his arm still carried the Chargers to a 42-31 victory over the Kansas City Chiefs.

Fouts completed 22-of-43 passes for 284 yards and three touchdowns and Chuck Muncie added 53 yards rushing and two more scores as the Chargers claimed sole possession of first place in the AFC West with a 3-0 mark. The Chiefs fell to 2-1.

"Fouts didn't get the yardage but he was effective with his passing game," said safety Gary Barbaro, who had one of the three Kansas City interceptions of Fouts. "He scored the points he needed. What good would 300 yards do if you don't have enough points to win the football game? If you ask him I think he'd take the win over the yards."

"We won the game," concurred Fouts, "that's all the really matters."

Fouts threw TD passes of 13 yards to Kellon Winslow, 29 yards to James Brooks and 12 yards to Eric Stevers as the Chargers built a 28-7 lead late in the first half.

Muncie added a 1-yard TD run in the second quarter and a 3-yard scoring run in the third in his 17 carries. He also caught nine passes for 91 yards as the Chargers beat Kansas City for the fifth straight time.

Kenney hit Al Dixon with a 7-yard pass with 1:19 left in the first half to cut the San Diego to 28-14 and the Chiefs then pulled to within a touchdown on a 3-yard scoring run by Ted McKnight at 4:22 of the third period.

Muncie restored the 14-point cushion with his 3-yard scoring run three minutes later to cap a 65-yard, six-play drive but Kansas City again pulled within seven on a 4-yard run by rookie Billy Jackson late in the third period.

The Chiefs moved to the San Diego 18 with their first possession of the final quarter but two incomplete Kenney passes forced the Chiefs to settle for a 37-yard field goal by Nick Lowery.

The Chargers then ended Kansas City's next two possessions with interceptions by Jones and Willie Buchanan. Buchanan finished the day with two interceptions and a fumble recovery. The loss offset a brilliant showing by Kansas City wide receiver J.T. Smith who caught nine passes for 138 yards.

Steelers end drought, rout Jets 38-10

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — For the first time since their Super Bowl years, the Pittsburgh Steelers Sunday literally ran roughshod over their opponent.

It meant their first victory of the season after two losses, a 48-10 bullying of the winless and dispirited New York Jets.

And the fact that their rushing game clicked the way it did in the heyday of the Rocky Bleier-Franco Harris tandem — for a whopping 343 yards — left the Steelers feeling like their old unbeatable selves once again.

"We were getting four yards on first down and you could see the confidence building in the football team," said quarterback Terry Bradshaw, who passed for 225 yards and joined the running act with 41 yards and one touchdown, a 1-yarder, on the ground.

"It's a good feeling, doggone it, especially the running game," Bradshaw said. "We resurrected that, didn't we? If we can rush for that much yardage, we won't lose another game all year."

Bradshaw, who left in favor of Cliff Stoudt early in the fourth quarter, said he saw no reason to pass during the second half.

"We went up and down the field running. Ain't no sense in throwing it." Bradshaw said.

The Steelers scored all five of their touchdowns by rushing, tying a team record for TDs running set in 1976. They rushed for a total 343 yards, the second most in Coach Chuck Noll's 13-year career. For the day they amassed 566 total yards.

Russell Davis keyed the attack with 100 yards and second-year running back Frank Pollard ground out 79 yards in 12 attempts and two TDs. Harris racked up 68 yards in 13 carries while Sidney Thornton also scored on a 1-yard burst.

"To say we needed this game badly would be an understatement," Noll said. "I think our football team felt that way. We got four great quarters of football from both the offense and the defense."

"I think our team felt we had to prove that we could still play the game. The last couple of weeks, it reached a point where questions were beginning to be asked about our team."

The Jets had reached the same point after their first two losses, and the third did nothing to improve the situation.

"At halftime, we sure didn't look like a demoralized team, but it looked like some of the guys just gave out in the second half," said the Jets' beleaguered coach, Walt Michaels.

The Steelers, who were just inches away from a sixth TD when the game ended, also got a 25-yard field goal and five extra points from rookie Dave Trout.

The hapless Jets scored on a 47-yard field goal by Pat Leahy and a 17-yard pass from second-string quarterback Pat Ryan to Freeman McNeil.

The Steelers, who beat themselves with mistakes in their first two losses, played nearly flawless football Sunday.

Pollard fumbled the ball away on the Steelers' first series of the game, but they committed no more turnovers after that. Later in the period, a Davis touchdown burst of 1-yard was called back by a holding penalty.

against Ray Finney but the Steelers settled for Trout's field goal.

Otherwise, Bradshaw led an offense fairly well balanced between the run and the pass, allowing Pittsburgh to control the ball for long periods of time.

Detroit regains division lead

By United Press International

They let first place slip away from them for a while, but Sunday the Detroit Tigers snatched it back. Lou Whitaker doubled home Lynn Jones with the go-ahead run in the ninth inning and Steve Kemp followed with a three-run double to make Jack Morris a 13-game winner and give the Tigers a 5-1 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

American League

The decision, combined with Milwaukee's loss in Baltimore, put Detroit back on top in the Eastern Division, a half game ahead of the Milwaukee Brewers and Boston Red Sox.

Boston 4, New York 1

At Boston, Tony Perez drove in three runs with a pair of homers off Tommy John, 9-6 and Bruce Hurst and Bill Campbell combined on an eight-inning lead in the fourth with his seventh homer of the season, which followed a leadoff single by Dave Stapleton. He added his second homer in the sixth when he hit a 1-2 John delivery into the center-field bleachers.

Toronto 6, California 3

At Toronto, Ted Cox knocked in three runs, one with a solo homer, and Buck Martinez delivered the tie-breaking single in the fourth inning to lift the Blue Jays. Geoff Zahn, 9-11, was the loser.

Baltimore 8, Milwaukee 2

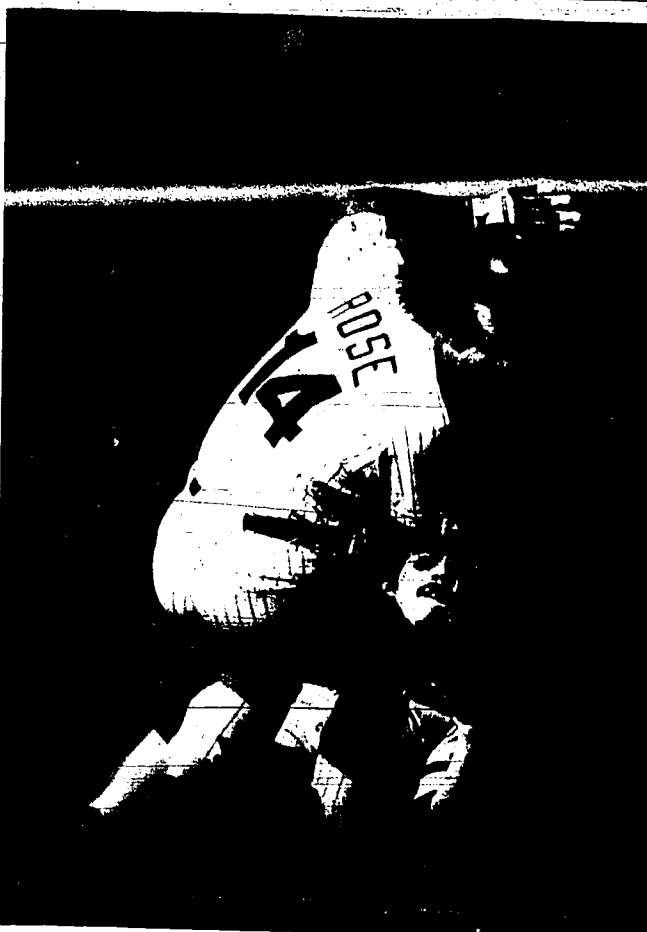

At Baltimore, Lenn Sakata drove in five runs with a pair of home runs and two singles to back Jim Palmer's five-hitter and power the Orioles. Sakata, who boasts three of his six career home runs against Milwaukee, homered off losing pitcher Mike Caldwell, 11-9, to ignite a four-run first inning and blasted a three-run shot in the third off Reggie Cleveland. Palmer raised his record to 6-8.

Chicago II, Oakland 3

At Chicago, Richard Dolson by permitted just two hits and received relief help from Lamar Hoyt to lead the White Sox. Dolson, 9-7, gave up a homer to Dave McKay and a triple to Rob Piccolo in the Oakland sixth and then allowed a sacrifice fly by Dwayne Murphy. Jim Morrison drove in two runs with a sixth-inning homer and Carlton Fisk drove in two runs to highlight a four-run seventh for the White Sox.

Seattle 3, Kansas City 2

At Seattle, Tom Pagiorek doubled in the tie-breaking run in the seventh inning, lifting the Mariners. Left-hander Floyd Banister, despite being touched for 11 hits, went the route to raise his record to 7-8. Dennis Leonard fell to 10-11.

Houston buries Giant title hopes

By United Press International

Tony Scott and Nolan Ryan played the role of carpenters Sunday. They each drove a nail in the San Francisco Giants' coffin. Scott had four hits, including a home run, and Ryan hurled a seven-hitter and struck out eight as the first-place Astros put the Giants one game further back in the National League West race with a 7-3 triumph.

National League

San Francisco trails Houston by 4 1/2 games with only 13 games left, as the Giants lost what manager Frank Robinson termed "the most important game of the season for us."

Ryan, 9-5, allowed three runs in the opening frame, then stifled the Giants the rest of the way while letting Scott and his teammates provide the offense.

New York 7, St. Louis 6

At New York, Mookie Wilson, whose error allowed St. Louis to take a lead in the top of the inning, hit a two-out, two-run homer in the ninth to propel the Mets. The decision gave the Mets a sweep of their three-game series and pulled them within 2 1/2 games of the first-place Cardinals in the NL East. With two out in the ninth, Frank Taveras doubled off Bruce Sutter, 3-4, and Wilson followed by hitting his third home run of the season. Neil Allen, 6-5, picked up the victory.

Montreal 4, Chicago 0

At Montreal, Bill Gullickson, 5-8, tossed a three-hitter, striking out 13 to pace the Expos. Gullickson notched his second shutout and third complete game of the season: Mike Griffin, 2-4, lasted only 2 1/3 of an inning.

Philadelphia 5, Pittsburgh 4

At Philadelphia, Pete Rose singled home the go-ahead run and Mike Schmidt added his 27th home run of the season in a four-run seventh to boost the Phillies.

Cincinnati 5, Los Angeles 1

At Los Angeles, Cincinnati Dan Driessen had three hits and three RBI and scored another and Mario Soto snapped a personal three-game losing streak with the victory over the Dodgers.

Atlanta 3, San Diego 1

At San Diego, Claudell Washington singing in Ed Miller from second base with none out in the 11th and Jerry Rostyer followed with another RBI single to lift the Braves.

Reliever Al Hrabosky, 1-1, got the win and Rick Camp gained his 15th save. Steve Mura, 5-14, was the loser. In the 11th, pinch-hitter Larry Whisenton opened with a walk and Miller ran for him.

Weiskopf snaps three-year losing streak, earns second million

ABILENE, Texas (UPI) — Tom Weiskopf has been trying for a long time to get rid of an unlucky number and he managed to do it in a big way Sunday in the LaJet Classic.

Weiskopf, who had stalked off the course in disgust only 24 hours earlier, put together a solid, calm round of 4-under-par 68 in blustery winds Sunday to win the tournament and become only the fourth player ever to surpass $2 million in career earnings.

The lanky Weiskopf won on the tour for the first time in more than three years.

"It has been frustrating not winning," Weiskopf said. "I'm a very superstitious and I had won 13 tournaments. Now that it is 14 maybe I am over the hump."

Weiskopf said it was second best tournament he had ever played (his British Open victory being the best).

"The people here probably saw me at my best," said Weiskopf. "And it is an awfully good golf course to win on. You look at the leader board and most of the top players have won a tournament."

"I was discouraged yesterday. I had played good but putted bad. But I putted a lot better today."

Early in the round, eight players were within one shot of each other, but the steady Weiskopf took the lead for good with back-to-back birdies at the 8th and 9th holes and finished out the day without a bogey.

He fired a 72-hole total of 10 under 278, two shots ahead of runner-up Gil Morgan, over the par-72 Fairway Oaks Golf Club course.

Tied for third at 281 were Craig Stadler, Fuzzy Zoeller and Tommy Valantine. All three shot 70 Sunday. Morgan won $37,800 for his second-place finish and the threesome that tied for third each took home $18,200.

Weiskopf captured a tournament in England last month, but he had not won on the American circuit since he took the 1978 Dorset Open. The LaJet victory was his 14th United States triumph and it boosted his career earnings to $2,002,555.

Only Jack Nicklaus, Lee Trevino and Tom Watson have earned more than $2 million on the golf tour. The triumph also lifted his money winnings for 1981 to $173,110, which places him 17th among his fellow competitors.

Weiskopf began the day with a one-shot lead over five players, but he had not been at all happy with the 2-under 70 he shot in the winds Saturday.

"I don't look happy. I don't sound happy and I'm not happy because I putted like an absolute jerk," Weiskopf said when he walked off the course. He then added — "that's all I want to say because if I say anything else it might be something I regret."

Weiskopf's putting woes were cured in a hurry Sunday. He started the day with five straight pars to remain at 6-under while Valantine moved from a shot behind to a shot ahead. But Weiskopf birdied the par-6th, par-38th and par-58th to make the turn in 3-under 33. Then, on the back nine Weiskopf reached the green at the par-5 14th in two and two-putted for another birdie.

"The biggest disappointment in the tournament was suffered by Valantine, who had week had an excellent chance to win the Pleasant Valley Classic only to shoot 72 and finish tied for eighth."

Valentine opened the LaJet event with a 6-under 66, but after three rounds had made one triple bogey, three double bogeys, six bogeys, 16 birdies and two eagles. He played a more consistent round Sunday, but it was not enough to overtake Weiskopf.

Allen and Matsuoka cop city tennis titles

TWIN FALLS — Al Allen rallied from a first-set deficit to top Ron Blake and capture the men's A singles title in the Amalgamated Sugar Twin Falls Closed Tennis Tournament Sunday.

Leon Smith took the 35 and older singles by downing Emery Peterson 6-7, 6-1, 7-5. Carolyn Matsuoka wore the women's A singles title after defeating Maryann Robbins 6-2, 5-7, 6-4. That division's doubles award went to Robbins and Jan Middleton with a 6-3, 7-5 victory over Matsuoka and Josephine Walker.

Haynie wins tourney

HIGH POINT, N.C. (UPI) — Sandra Haynie, holding off challenges from Judy Clark and Martine Floyd, won a $165,000 LPGA tournament by one stroke Sunday with a key birdie putt on the 17th hole.

Haynie, Clark and Floyd were tied at 6-under on the 18th hole. Floyd fell out of the race with a bogey on the 16th hole and Haynie put it away with a six-foot birdie putt on the 17th, giving her the 40th victory of her career.

Haynie, 41, of Dallas, said the victory had special significance because it was her first since 1975 when she won into semi-retirement, playing in only 17 events in the previous four years.

"There was a time when I didn't know if I would ever play golf again, much less win," said the former U.S. Open and LPGA Champion.

Ptacek wins Idaho Open in overtime

ELKHORN — Boise assistant pro Ron Ptacek was rewarded for a weekend of "hanging in there" Sunday when he won the Idaho Open Golf championship in a sudden-death playoff.

Professional Tom Sanderson said darkness would have precluded any more play Sunday night. Part of that was due to an hour's late start because of frost on the Elkhorn greens early Sunday morning.

Breaux, who spent the first two days trying to catch up with Salt Lake City's Don Branca, and Ptacek wound up the regulation 54 holes knotted at 214.

Both parred the first hole — Breaux making a 15-footer to halve it in light that was just about too dim to see in.

U.S. claims 20th Ryder Cup decision

WALTON HEATH, England (UPI) — The United States golf team stormed to its 20th triumph with a convincing 18½ - 9½ point victory at Walton Heath golf course.

The U.S. victory in the series left Europe's non-playing skipper John Jacobs saying mournfully, "Quite honestly, I don't know how we are ever going to beat them."

Europe took a 4½ - 3½ point lead on a storm-tossed opening day, but any talk of it was wiped away by the American clutchers for the first time since 1957 was quickly put to rest.

Hale Irwin beat Spaniard Jose Maria Canizares by one hole, Jack Nicklaus downed Ireland's Eamonn Darcy by 3 and 3 and Ray Faldut defeated Britain's Peter Oosterhuis by one hole.

Trevino sees need for format change

WALTON HEATH, England (UPI) — Lee Trevino and Tom Kite are both convinced that changes must be made to the Ryder Cup format to give Europe a better chance of winning, and boost the image of the 54-year-old golf match in the United States.

fantastic spectator success in Britain, but it has never really taken off in America.

the 18th, and wait for the action. It happens on tour but in a match like the Ryder Cup it can be a waste of time because so many games don't make it to the 18th hole."

"I'm not saying that the result would have been any different with them in the team, but I am sure that their experience would have contributed towards it being closer."

West German netters win

SAO PAULO, Brazil (UPI) — West Germany beat Brazil 3-2 Sunday to earn a place in the premier division of the 1982 Davis Cup tennis championship.

"I believe that it would be a good idea to run the match on a holes up basis so that every game went down the 18th. This would ensure television of good coverage all the way through the match."

"I think the format has to be changed so that the result is closer," said Kite. "I don't know how we can do that but I am sure there must be a way. I think Europe might have slipped up in the way they selected the side because Brian Barnes, Severiano Ballesteros and Tony Jacklin, three of the most experienced players, didn't compete."

"I am of the belief that sooner or later Europe will win, but no American will want to be on that losing side. I know that the lowest point of my golfing career came when we lost the Walker Cup in 1971. It really hurts to lose when you are playing for your country."

Sixty hostile protesters greet Springboks at N.Y. airport

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — The South African Springboks rugby team — driven out of Chicago by protesters opposed to its country's policy of racial segregation — was met at Albany County Airport Sunday night by 60 hostile demonstrators.

A brief scuffle broke out between one protester and a man who apparently was working as an airport security officer when the team arrived aboard American Airlines flight 596 from Chicago. However, no arrests were reported.

In Chicago, two people were arrested when they pushed past security guards as the team was boarding the plane at O'Hare Airport. About a dozen members of a group calling itself Stop the Apartheid Rugby Tour demonstrated at the gate.

The scuffle broke out in the terminal of the Albany County Airport when a protester approached a few of the athletes. A man who refused to identify himself but apparently was working as an airport security officer grabbed the protester. He dragged him about 10 yards and let him go.

The demonstrator, John Ragus of Albany, and about 60 other protesters marched and chanted outside the terminal.

Michael Dollard, a spokesman of the Capital District Committee Against Apartheid, said, "Our goal is not to disrupt things. We're strictly making a point. We want to make absolutely sure that when the Springboks come off, that they know they're not welcome here."

Tom Selfridge, president of the Eastern Rugby Union, which is co-sponsoring the Springboks tour, refused to say where the 35-member team would be staying.

The manager of the team said the South African players were driven out of Chicago.

"You could say in a certain way they drove us out, but the most important thing was to play the game and that we managed to do," said manager Johann Claassen.

The Springboks, keeping the site of their match secret until the last minute Saturday, defeated a team from the Midwest Rugby Union 46-12 in Racine, Wis., thwarting efforts to stop the match. Two demonstrators, one white and one black, were arrested for disorderly conduct at the game.

The Springboks had planned to play a rugby match Tuesday at Albany's Bleecker stadium. But the game was cancelled when Gov. Hugh Carey told Albany Mayor Frastus Corning II he would not provide state police or National Guard protection for the match.

U.S. District Judge Howard Munson is scheduled to a motion filed by lawyers for the rugby players to overturn Carey's decision at 9 a.m. Monday.

Lee said that after the team's presence ignited a riot in New Zealand, "the team thought these people here are a piece of cake.

Metcalf unspectacular in St. Louis return

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Terry Metcalf almost thought he was going back in time and looking in a mirror.

Metcalf, now a member of the Washington Redskins, made his first appearance in St. Louis Sunday since he bolted the Cardinals three years ago and joined to the Canadian Football League.

He was greeted by a mixed reaction from the crowd and by a rookie St. Louis kick returner named Stump Mitchell, who is trying to duplicate Metcalf's heroics in the mid-1970s with the Cardinals.

"I figured I'd here some boos," Metcalf said. "I wasn't going to let it bother me. I heard it when I was here. I thought it would get me even more psyched and it did, but the ball bounced their way."

Metcalf was limited to returning-kicks for much of the game as the Redskins elected to go with a single back, two tight end offense, and he gained 140 yards on eight returns.

He also rushed three times for 18 yards and caught four passes for 69 yards, including a 32-yard reception late in the game that set up the Redskins' last touchdown in the 40-30 loss.

"I thought I would be a little more involved, but Wilbur Jackson was running well and that's probably the best we've moved the ball all season," Metcalf said. "This one probably meant a little more to me personally. But there will always be a next time."

"This was a game I really wanted, especially here. Unfortunately it just didn't turn out that way."

Metcalf said the play that turned the game around was a 50-yard punt return for a touchdown in the second quarter by Mitchell, the same kind of magic Metcalf used to perform when he was with the Cardinals.

"That really picked up their team," he said. "It seemed like they had the momentum from then on. (Mitchell) is a good returner. We knew that after watching the films. He broke one and it hurt us."

Mitchell, who at 5-foot-8 is about the same size as Metcalf, also tackled Metcalf twice on kickoff returns. Mitchell, a ninth-round draft choice from The Citadel, said he was hoping to talk to Metcalf after the game but didn't get a chance.

"I admire Terry because he's a small back and I'm a small back," Mitchell said. "He's an inspiration to me."

Knoetze asks Supreme Court to rule visa cancellation illegal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — South African boxer Nikolaas "Kallie" Knoetze wants the Supreme Court to rule that the State Department illegally revoked a visa that let him enter the United States for a 1978 fight.

Knoetze, a world-ranked boxer, claims the Carter administration took back his visa in response to intense political pressure from American civil rights leaders and the Southwestern African People's Organization.

SWAPO is a black group that opposes the white-dominated South African government's rule over South West Africa, also known as Namibia.

Knoetze told the justices the State Department acted without granting him a hearing and that the revocation proceeding "was not conducted with any element of fairness."

"The Secretary of State failed to provide Knoetze any opportunity to refute the prejudiced communications (from SWAPO and civil rights groups) despite the fact that his whereabouts (in Miami) were well known," his lawyers argued.

Among those urging Knoetze's deportation were the Rev. Jesse Jackson and National Urban Coalition President Carl Holman.

"The controversy stemmed from Knoetze's guilty plea in South Africa to making several false statements while serving as a police officer, in an effort to persuade officials to drop assault charges against a fellow officer. The State Department said his conduct involved "moral turpitude."

SWAPO initially accused him of involvement in the 1976 shooting of a black youth in Soweto Township, South Africa, during a riot. The State Department later absolved him of guilt in the incident.

The boxer entered the United States on a "non-immigrant visa" for a fight against Bill Sharkey. The U.S. Counsel in South Africa issued him the visa because it believed his offense fell within the category of a misdemeanor "petty offense."

But after he was in the country, the State Department revoked the visa, prompting his attorneys to obtain a court order blocking his deportation and enabling Knoetze to fight.

Unitas ends association with Colts

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Hall of Fame quarterback Johnny Unitas has been dropped as a speaker for the Baltimore Colts because of his connection with a gambling magazine, the club's owner said Sunday.

"I think it is utterly ridiculous, but it doesn't bother me at all," said Unitas, adding he had no contract with the Colts so no real ties were broken and no speaking engagements had been scheduled.

Unitas said he has made about a dozen public appearances for the Colts since 1977, but none the last year. He said he was paid per engagement and had no agreement with the team.

NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle ordered Colts owner Robert Irsay to sever Unitas' ties with the club after Rozelle learned Unitas was employed by The Huddle, a publication aimed at football gamblers.

An ad in the magazine said Unitas could provide inside information because of his contacts with NFL players and coaches.

Unitas said the ad copy was incorrect and that it had been rewritten. He said any information he could provide comes from news reports and "people from around the country." He said he had no inside contacts on NFL teams.

Unitas said Rozelle did not contact him and should have if there was a problem with the magazine.

Unitas played 17 seasons for the Colts, setting club and league records in several offensive categories. He was the NFL's Most Valuable Player three times and led the team to a victory in the 1970 Super Bowl.

WAC loser expected tight game

By United Press International

It's not often one hears a coach, especially a losing coach, say such-and-such a game was about what he expected, but what Ken Hatfield of Air Force had in mind was something more general than the outcome.

"It was tough and hardfought," he said Sunday, after his Falcons had lost to Wyoming 17-10. "The game turned out just as I thought it would."

The Wyoming-Air Force defensive battle, a near-standoff, was one of only two games Sunday between Western Athletic Conference teams in the still-young 1981 season.

In the other one, Brigham Young's powerful offense manhandled a groggy Texas-El Paso team, giving the Cougars a 65-8 victory, a 2-0 conference record and the lead in the WAC standings for the second straight week.

Wyoming and San Diego State were tied in the No. 2 spot with 1-0 records, although San Diego State was idle.

In El Paso, BYU quarterback Jim McMahon completed 21 of 31 passes for 267 yards and four touchdowns, extending the Cougars' unbeaten streak to 15 games — the longest in the nation.

McMahon also set an NCAA record with his 14th straight game over 200 yards passing — and he left the field in the third quarter. He had been tied with Chuck Hixson of Southern Methodist University.

Buck tops Sage gymnastics team

ONTARIO, Ore. — Sue Buck led the Sage Gymnastics class three team in the Junior division with a second place all-around title in Ontario on Saturday.

Buck racked up a first place in the balance beam, second on the uneven bars, third in the vault and fifth in the floor exercise. Josie Waters was right behind Buck with a third place all-around while Curt Waters was fourth and Michelle Peterson scored a fifth place in the all-around.

Other Sage performers who had good showings were Terrie Jerrell, Karen Giesl, Kris Horner and Alice Hayes.

Wendy Bennett led the children's division with a fourth place all-around. Bennett finished third in the beam and fourth on the bars.

Lori Williams was fifth in the all-around in her first-ever competition.

Sage travels to Idaho Falls Friday for a meet with the Teton Athletic Center and meets Sports World in Pocatello Saturday.

Dixon has distance championship

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Rod Dixon, formerly of New Zealand and now living in Reading, Pa., lowered his own record from 1:03.39 to 1:02.12 Sunday in winning the Philadelphia Iron Man Run of 12 miles for the second straight year.

Dixon came from behind in the last 200 yards to beat Kirk Pfeiffer of Boulder, Colo. Pfeiffer's time of 1:02.16 set by Stan Mavis of Boulder, in January 1980.

Since Dixon is not an American citizen he cannot hold the American record. The course stretched through center city and into Fairmount Park.

Coyotes run for ski scholarships

CALDWELL, Idaho (UPI) — The College of Idaho's ski team will conduct a "Border-to-Border Run" across the state on Oct. 10-12 to raise money for skiing scholarships to the school.

Ernie Messner, coach of the team that twice has won national championships for skiing, said students will be contacting businessmen during the next few weeks to obtain sponsors for the event.

Thirty members of both the men's and women's teams will participate in the relay-style run, which will involve each participant running about 15 miles over the 400-mile course, he said.

The course will begin at the Wyoming border near Victor, and runners will work their way through Idaho Falls to Arco, then to Hill City, Mountain Home, Kuna, Nampa and Caldwell, finishing the course at the Oregon border near Homedale.

Pisarenko leads weightlifters

LILLE, France (UPI) — There is a new world's strongest man. Anatoly Pisarenko Sunday won the super-heavyweight (over 243 pounds) title to climax the Soviet Union's triumph in the 35th World and European weightlifting championships.

His victory gave the USSR five titles to Bulgaria's four in the 10 divisions of the 47-nation championships.

Pisarenko, 22-year-old army officer from the Ukraine, totaled 937 pounds, a snail of 413 pounds and a clean and jerk of 524 pounds to maintain the Soviet Union's run of having lost the title only twice both through injury, since American Paul Anderson's gold medal at the 1956 Olympics.

East Germany's Senno Salzwedel was second and Poland's Tadeusz Rutkowski third.

Yankees sign No. 1 draft choice

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Yankees Saturday signed outfielder John Elway, their first pick in the 1981 amateur draft, to a minor league contract. It was announced.

Elway, a 21-year-old Stanford University junior, will play college football for the next two seasons and play in the Yankee farm system during the summer, a team spokesman said.

Elway, a native of Granada Hills, Calif., is Stanford's quarterback.

Simon clinches tour cycle title

MORZINE, France (UPI) — French professional Pascal Simon Sunday won the 13th stage of the 19th Tour de L'Avenir cycling race and virtually assured himself of an overall victory when the tour ends Monday.

Simon attacked the mountainous circuit, with the formidable La Ramaz and Joux-Verte ascents, in top cycling form, covering the 153.5 kilometer distance from Saint-Julien-en-Genevois to Morzine in four hours, 28 mins 12 seconds.

Leach returns to Flyers' camp

PORTLAND, Maine (UPI) — Reggie Leach returned to the Philadelphia Flyers' training camp Sunday, five days after angrily walking out in a dispute over his contract.

Leach, who is in the option year of his contract, left camp Wednesday after the Flyers refused his request to negotiate a new extension to the pact. At the time of his departure, Leach said he and the Flyers were "far, very far apart."

Leach, 31, celebrated his return to the team with two goals and two assists in a scrimmage.

Kent collects Pocono honors

MOUNT POCONO, Pa. (UPI) — George Kent of Horseheads, N.Y., won the 31st annual Race of Champions Sunday at Pocono International Raceway.

Finishing well ahead of Jamie Tomaino of Tinton Falls, N.J., Kent previously had never finished higher than fourth. He earned $9,000 for his victory.

Kent took the lead on the 52nd lap and held the advantage over the 51-car field for the final 70 laps. Tomaino took second place when he passed Tony Hirschman of Northampton, Pa. on the next-to-last lap. Jerry Cook of Rome, N.Y., was fourth and Billy Griffin of Elmira, N.Y., fifth.

Defending champion Richie Evans of Rome, N.Y., was forced to retire after only eight laps when his car developed suspension problems.

Bonnett cruises to 500 victory

DOVER, Del. (UPI) — Neil Bonnett, a junior member of stock car racing's Alabama gang, inherited a nearly one-lap lead late in the race at Delaware Downs Sunday and cruised for 64 laps to win a 500-mile NASCAR race.

Bonnett, who had led five times during the afternoon, took over when sentimental favorite Harry Gant blew an engine on lap 436 after leading for nearly 200 laps.

Darrell Waltrip, the only other driver in the lead, slipped over the Winston Cup point lead with a second place finish. Bobby Allison, leader of the Hueytown, Ala. crew, finished third, three laps back.

Ron Bouchard was fourth and Californian Joe Ruttman was fifth. Bonnett was driving one of only four Fords in the race, the others were driving General Motors products.

Gant, who has not won in three years on the grand national circuit, followed Richard Petty past Bonnett on the 241st lap and was behind only briefly until he blew the engine.

Waltrip's second place finish boosted him two points ahead of Allison, who had taken a three-point lead into Sunday's race. Allison had led since the first race of the 1981 season. It was the ninth straight time Waltrip had finished ahead of Allison in his drive to take over the point lead.

The 41-year-old Gant, a veteran of short-track racing, had finished second six times this season and nine times since moving up to stock car racing's top level.

There were only four caution flags, covering 22 laps in the four-hour event on the treacherous Dover track. Laps 241 to 500 were run entirely under the green flag, causing many of the 15 lead changes involving nine different drivers.

It was the second triumph in three weeks for Bonnett, who won the Southern 500 at Darlington, S.C., Labor Day.

In all, Bonnett led 186 laps of the race, holding the lead four times. His longest stretch in the lead was an 88-lap stint from lap 147 to 234 before giving up the lead to Dale Earnhardt.

Mears wins everything in Michigan

BROOKLYN, Mich. (UPI) — It was Rick Mears' weekend at Michigan International Speedway.

The Bakersfield, Calif., driver won the pole, won the race and won the PPG Indy Car World Series Championship for 1981. Mears takes home $19,015 for his Detroit News Grand Prix victory and later this year will receive a $75,000 bonus for the series championship.

Mario Andretti of Nazareth, Pa., almost spoiled Mears' day. Andretti took the lead on lap 66 of the scheduled 75. Mears retook the lead on the white flag lap and crossed the finish line about 1 1/2 feet ahead of Andretti's nosecone.

Because of a malfunction in visual display equipment used by the flagmen to count laps, the white flag fell on the 73rd lap and the checkered flag fell on the 74th, just as Mears nudged the nose of his race car into the lead.

Under CART rules, the race was declared complete.

Al Unser, Bill Alsup and Gordon Johncock rounded out the top five finishers of the problem-shortened Indy car event.

Both the Bosch-VW Super Vee event and the American Speed Association stock car race which followed were marred by protests.

"Idaho First is a professional banking institution. They have a broad base - a lot of expertise."

Today, more than ever, you must keep every dollar working for you — all the time. That comes easier if you have a bank working for you, too.

Take the Idaho First cash management system. It can perform wonders in controlling cash flow, orchestrating the borrowing and investing of funds and in making a constant analysis to minimize cash costs.

It's the continuous control of your money that counts.

"We've initiated a program of cash analysis on a daily basis and Idaho First has been able to work with us on both lending and giving us a source of investment for idle funds.

"You have to trust your banker. We have that kind of relationship with our bank — with Idaho First."

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE FIFTH JUDICIAL DISTRICT OF THE STATE OF IDAHO, COUNTY OF JEROME, MAGISTRATE DIVISION DON COTE PROFESSIONAL PAINT & GLASS, Plaintiff, vs. ED WILBURN and MARTHA Z. WILBURN, Husband and Wife, Defendants Case No. 1455 ORDER FOR PRE-HEARING WRIT OF ATTACHMENT AND ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE

Upon reading the Affidavit of Complaint and of the plaintiff, Application for Writ of Attachment and for the writ of Attachment, I have considered the affidavits in support hereof, and good cause appearing therefor, I HEREBY ORDER AS FOLLOWS:

1. That the Clerk of the above-entitled Court issue a writ of Attachment requiring the Sheriff of Twin Falls County, Idaho, to attach the real property specifically described in the Writ of Attachment pending the Order to Show Cause and to provide for the writ of Attachment to be served upon defendants, by personal service or publication of a notice in the Times-News in three consecutive issues prior to the hearing date—6:00 a.m. to 10:00 a.m.—in case of publication, copies of said documents shall be served by certified mail return receipt requested to defendant's last-known address, 454 Riverside Drive, Twin Falls, Idaho 83301.

2. That the defendants, Ed Wilburn and Martha Z. Wilburn, husband and wife, are hereby directed to appear before the Court on Wednesday, September 7, 1981, at 10:00 o'clock a.m., and show cause, why the Writ of Attachment in this matter should not be continued in full force and effect during the pendency of this hearing.

3. The defendants are informed that they may file affidavits on their own behalf at the time of the hearing mentioned above and may also at or prior to such hearing file with the court written undertaking to the issuance of the Writ of Attachment in accordance with provisions of Section 8-506(c) of the Idaho Code. The defendant further informed that if they fail to appear at the hearing scheduled above, the Writ of Attachment previously issued will remain in full force and effect.

4. That in the event that defendants wish to contest this Order, they shall appear before the Judge of the above-entitled Court on the above-mentioned time and date. Defendants may produce testimony and evidence at said hearing or cross-examine plaintiff's witnesses. Defendants advise the Court and plaintiff's counsel of their intention to do so at least 24 hours prior to said hearing. Plaintiff will produce testimony and evidence at the Order to Show Cause hearing and will cross-examine the defendants.

5. That on the 3rd day of September, 1981, ROGER BURDICK, Magistrate, presiding on September 19, Sunday, September 20, Monday, September 21, 1981.

of both major suits but he wasn't happy with his jack-high trump suit and passed at game level.

Alan: "On a lucky day the diamond finesse would work, and South would wrap up thirteen tricks after the heart opening."

Oswald: "West's lead of the heart ace implied that he had a high heart and most East players would play the king of hearts at trick one. South would win with the ace and lose the diamond finesse. Then the unfortunate East would lead a second heart. South would take his queen and never lose a spade trick."

Alan: "This particular East, poker expert Bobby Baldwin of Tulsa and Lass Vegas, finessed against his partner and played his jack of hearts at trick one. He felt sure that West hadn't underbid an ace after that bidding. Now when South won with the queen, Bobby knew that there was no future in the heart suit. When he got in with the king of diamonds he led a spade and West cashed two spade tricks."

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Oswald: "North's jump to five diamonds was an intriguing way of asking South to bid a slam. If South could take care of both major suits, South could take care

PET OF THE WEEK

Two tiny puppies. Both male. One is a tiny black Rot Terrier with stand-up ears. The other is a brown/black fluffy puppy. Both will be tiny when full-grown. Good for apartment living. Very, very cute! First one goes as Pet of the Week.

Hound Pound - 139 Sixth Ave. W. 5-7 P.M. 733-0860
Impoundment fees waived because Pepsi Cola Bottling Company has sponsored this dog. Vet & license fees still apply.
