

County approves third ambulance license

By MARTY TRILLHAASE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — It took Dennis Brodigan, the owner of Twin Falls Emergency Medical Services, more than two months to obtain an operating license in Twin Falls County.

This week, it took Bill Whited of Buhl roughly 10 minutes to get a similar license.

Whited, presently the manager of Magic Valley Emergency Service's office in Buhl, has obtained a license from the county commissioners to operate in the west end of the county. However, he says he doesn't intend to use the license unless Brodigan is successful in his efforts to buy out MVES owner Cloyce Edwards.

According to Commissioner Marvin Hempleman, Whited first approached him on the subject of a license three weeks ago. When Whited appeared in the commissioners' office Tuesday, he obtained verbal approval from all three commissioners within 10 minutes, Hempleman said.

That's a much different reaction than the one encountered by Brodigan, who first announced his intention to compete with MVES in late July. For roughly 14 years, MVES had operated as a virtual monopoly in the county, with the assistance of the county's ambulance regulatory ordinance. That ordinance gave the county commissioners the authority to approve or deny ambulance licensing requests on the basis of need.

Brodigan obtained his license on Oct. 9, following a series of public meetings and a great deal of controversy.

In the latest case, however, no public announcement was made, and no public hearings were called by the commissioners. And no inspection of Whited's ambulance units was conducted, as required by the ordinance.

Even county Prosecutor Harry DeHaan, who served as the commissioners' legal adviser during the Brodigan affair, hadn't been notified of the commissioners' decision until he was contacted by The Times-News on Friday.

DeHaan declined to comment on the matter, saying he "wanted to investigate."

Commission Chairman Ann Cover said the failure to notify the public of the move probably was an oversight. "I just didn't think about it, period," she said.

According to Hempleman, the difference in the way Whited's licensing application was handled stemmed from the commissioners' view that by granting Brodigan a license, a precedent had been set to grant ambulance licenses virtually on request.

Essentially, the commissioners now view the ambulance ordinance as a dead piece of paper, Hempleman said. "And until a new ordinance is drafted, ambulance licensing is a mere formality, he said.

"I don't think we really got any authority at this point," Hempleman said. "Once we let Brodigan in, we were pretty well opened up."

Hempleman said that another factor in the commissioners' decision was Whited's association with MVES. "Actually, I don't consider this a third one. It's just a break-off of one of the arms, and a new owner has taken over," he said. "In my own mind, if this had been an unknown quantity, I would have been a little more curious about it."

Whited told The Times-News he will not initiate his own service unless Edwards ceases his Twin Falls County operation. In the event that the ongoing negotiations between

We're broke! President orders partial shutdown as compromise eludes budget bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Most of the federal government went technically broke at midnight Friday because Congress failed to approve a compromise stopgap funding bill in time to keep the money flowing.

President Reagan ordered government agencies to start shutting down non-essential operations at midnight when they technically ran out of money.

A House-Senate conference committee met through the late night hours hammering out a compromise "continuing resolution" to provide operating funds for the government when current appropriations expired at midnight.

They were under a threat from Reagan to veto the measure if it wasn't as lean as he wanted.

But both the House and Senate, which would have to ratify any compromise, recessed for the night before a compromise could be referred to them.

At the White House, deputy press secretary Larry Speakes summoned reporters to his office and said, "The failure of the conference to act tonight leaves the administration with no choice but to initiate government shut-down procedures." Only "non-essential" functions are affected.

Speakes said essential employees such as air traffic controllers and the military will remain on the job, but others "will be furloughed without pay."

Speakes said the administration will seek to minimize the shutdown, required by law, in hopes that Congress "will act on the president's request for budget reductions."

Reagan has threatened to veto the funding bill if it doesn't cut spending as much as he wants. The conference committee was working to propose enough reductions to avert a veto but that would also gain congressional approval.

The House recessed until 10 a.m. EST today and the Senate until noon. Sen. Rep. Republican leader Howard Baker of Tennessee reported late Friday the conference members appeared to be making progress on their most sensitive area of disagreement — defense spending.

Rep. Joseph Addabbo, D-N.Y., suggested to fellow conferees that the Senate agree to cut defense spending by 2 percent. He pointed out that the "cut" would only last a few weeks until Congress passed another more generous defense funding bill.

Baker then told reporters the Addabbo compromise was "a possibility."

Baker had first said the committee would meet for "most of the night."

But after both houses recessed, he said the panel would probably not work into the wee hours of this morning. "Once you get passed the point of a missing the midnight deadline, there's no sense keeping them in two nights in a row," Baker told reporters.

Reagan hears of silver problems

BOISE (UPI) — Idaho congressmen and state officials launched another offensive Friday in their battle to halt the Reagan administration's sale of silver from the national stockpile.

The delegation met with the president and demanding an investigation into disposal of the precious metal.

Rep. Larry Craig, R-Idaho, said he "very vividly and clearly" told Reagan during a brief meeting at the White House that the silver sale will result in unemployment in Idaho's mining industry — "and it will be Reagan unemployment."

And following the meeting, Craig and Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, said they will continue to explore the possibility of suing the government in order to block the sale.

"That is still very much a real consideration in my mind and Sen. McClure's," Craig said.

Meanwhile, Idaho Gov. John Evans and Attorney General David L. Leroy requested committees in both houses of Congress to convene oversight hearings to investigate the manner in which the sale is being conducted.

In a Freedom of Information Act request to the General Services Administration, the two state officials also requested information concerning the sale's impact on the mining industry.

They requested "any documents in the possession of your agency concerning consultation between the GSA and representatives of the silver-mining industry or marketing experts on procedures to be adopted by you to minimize market disruption in connection with the sale."

Calling the sale "disruptive" and "arbitrary," the congressmen and state officials said they were increasing their protests because selling silver already is damaging the state's mining industry. Mining companies say they need a price of at least $9 an ounce to break even, they said, and last week's bids in the silver sale were as low as $8.07.

Bunker Hill Co.'s parent corporation also said low silver prices contributed to its decision to close the North Idaho minerals producer and lay off 2,100 workers, they said.

"I told the president that we've got high unemployment in North Idaho right now that's a result of the timber industry being down," Craig said in a telephone interview from his Washington, D.C., office. "Few people will argue that that's your (Reagan's) fault."

"But if our mines go down in North Idaho, they'll argue that it was the Reagan administration's actions that caused that unemployment. It will be Reagan unemployment and it doesn't need to happen."

Craig and fellow Congressmen McClure and Rep. George Hansen met with Reagan for about 15 minutes to deliver petitions signed by 8,000 North Idaho residents protesting the administration's silver sale.

"The president said, 'I'll look into it immediately. I was not aware that this was occurring,'" Craig quoted the chief executive as saying.

While Craig said he thought Reagan was aware of the Idaho congressional delegation's concern about the silver sale, he believed the president was not aware the action would damage the market, because the Office of Management and Budget was pressuring him to sell the metal to bring money into the national treasury.

Hideout

A couple of old goats found that an abandoned outhouse made a pretty good shelter from the snow flurries which blanketed much of the northern Magic Valley Friday morning. The pair, who found their refuge near the Mammoth Cave outside of Shoshone, may be spending quite a bit of time dodging snowflakes if the weatherman's forecast proves correct.

Gas-guzzling tax recommended

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A system of government-run $1,000 rebates and a tax on gas-guzzling cars were recommended by an environmental group Friday.

The measures will be recommended to push automobile fuel economy into the 40 to 60 mpg range for the rest of this century, the Environmental Policy Institute said.

Consumer preference for cars that use less fuel will not be enough to encourage gasoline mileage improvements, EPI said.

And because the Reagan administration has decided to leave to the marketplace any increases in fuel efficiency beyond the 1985 model year, some intervention must take place, the group said.

Federal regulations currently prescribe average fuel economies for U.S. cars through 1985, when they must average 27.5 mpg. The Carter administration had filed notice that it intended to set standards for the years beyond 1985, but that has been shelved.

Harriet Holtzman-Parcells of the Institute told a news conference consumer demand will not be enough in later years to encourage less oil consumption and less reliance on imports.

She said the amount of money saved in switching to a more fuel-efficient car is larger at the lower end of the fuel economy spectrum than at the higher end. For example, the difference between a car that gets 10 mpg and one that gets 15 is 333 gallons of gasoline a year, or a 50 percent increase in fuel economy.

But, the group said, the difference between a car that gets 35 mpg and one that gets 40 is only 36 gallons per year, or an improvement of only 14.3 percent.

Since driving habits usually remain constant, drivers don't notice dramatic improvements in terms of their gasoline bills when miles per gallon inch up at the higher end of the scale, the Institute said. As a result, it said, the government may have to step in with a program of rebates for people who buy cars that get 40 mpg and above. It suggested a $1,000 rebate, administered by the government and provided in cash, as a tax credit or through some other channel.

Watt's lease policy rebuffed

© Knight-Ridder Newspapers

WASHINGTON — In a rebuff to Interior Secretary James Watt, the House Interior Committee voted overwhelmingly Friday to urge the Reagan administration to halt mineral leasing on wilderness lands until June.

The resolution, offered by committee chairman Morris Udall, D-Ariz., and backed by key Republicans, told Watt in effect to freeze such leasing until Congress has a chance to review a 1964 wilderness protection law and perhaps tighten its leasing provisions.

The vote on the Udall resolution was 41-1, with Rep. Phillip Burton, D-Calif., casting the lone dissent.

By a bare 29-19 margin, the committee earlier had rejected Burton's motion to freeze all wilderness leasing until 1984.

Though the margin of victory on the Udall measure showed a broad, bipartisan consensus, the committee debate was sharply partisan.

Democrats accused Watt and other administration land managers of pursuing policies that would ruin the nation's wilderness preserves by opening them to oil, natural gas and mining interests.

Republicans countered that the Democrats were exaggerating the threat in an effort to undermine Watt, who has initiated a number of controversial mineral development policies that have angered environmentalists.

"It seems to me," Udall said, "that there's an attempt here to destroy these wilderness areas, that some in the administration have launched a pre-emptive strike on the laws written to protect them."

Udall charged that the administration was embarked on a deliberate campaign to change long-standing federal policy designed to put wilderness tracts off-limits to development until all other mineral resources had been exhausted.

He cited recent decisions by the administration to permit oil and gas leasing in California and New Mexico.

"This latest flap erupted when Rep. Manuel Lujan, R-N.M., complained that the administration had approved mineral leases for the 40,000-acre Capitan wilderness in his home state.

Charging that the leases had been granted by regional managers without adequate public notice or the required environmental impact statements, Lujan demanded that Watt clarify the administration's intentions.

Most federal services to continue despite Reagan's shutdown order

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If Congress fails to approve legislation to fund the government past Thanksgiving, most federal agencies will start shutting down non-essential programs.

"The government shuts down except for activities which are exempt," said Edwin Dale, spokesman for the Office of Management and Budget. "Generally these involve the protection of life and property and the national security."

The mail would still be delivered, Social Security checks would still go out and the borders would continue to be patrolled.

Other programs that would keep going include veterans' hospitals, supervision of the nation's financial system, air controllers, most of the Defense Department and those who conduct foreign relations at home or abroad.

Every agency, Dale said Friday, is now deciding which of its programs should fall into this exempt category.

The fact that current appropriations should be exhausted at the start of the weekend could give Congress a cushion because essential functions are conducted by the government Saturday and Sunday.

Dale said failing enactment of the money bill, "non-essential" branches of the government will report to work as on Monday — but only to get everything in order to close down their agencies. That would take several days with most employees being put on furlough.

There are about 2 million military federal employees and about 3 million civilians.

If Congress were to settle the matter by early next week, no one would leave their jobs.

The essential employees, Dale said, would have to work without pay until Congress forks over the money.

In-essential employees, he said, would be paid for the few days they work closing down their agencies.

All this, Dale said, comes from a stiff ruling made by Benjamin Civiletti, attorney general in the Carter administration. Civiletti ruled that government agencies cannot keep operating if Congress lets the funds lapse.

Previous to Civiletti's ruling, Congress on several occasions let funds lapse for periods of a week or more and the government kept going by juggling its funds around.

Saturday briefing

Air traffic down 1.5 percent

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Domestic air traffic in October was down 1.5 percent from last year, indicating the industry has adjusted to scheduling cutbacks because of the air traffic controllers' walkout, the Air Transport Association said Friday.

International traffic was up 4.3 percent, for an overall decrease in October of just 0.4 percent, the industry group said.

National carriers such as USAir and Delta made the biggest gains in traffic; association spokesman Dan Henkin said. Most trunk carriers, such as Pan American World Airways and Trans World Airways, reported losses.

In August, when the controllers' walkout began, overall traffic was down 7.8 percent and domestic traffic was down 9.4 percent from 1980. September traffic was down 0.2 percent and domestic traffic was down 0.6 percent.

Reagan aide reprimanded

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A White House spokesman Friday confirmed that a member of President Reagan's staff was "severely reprimanded for anti-Semitic remarks" during the controversy surrounding the sale of advance radar plans to Saudi Arabia.

Deputy press secretary Larry Speakes declined to name the staff member who was reprimanded.

Nathan Squamun, chairman of the conference of Presidents of American Jewish Organizations, told reporters Thursday that during a Jewish leadership meeting with Reagan, they complained that "anti-Semitism" was manifested in the debate on the sale of the AWACS, airborne warning and control systems planes.

'Brilliant' escapee captured

UNION CITY, Tenn. (UPI) — A former mental patient who held off dozens of police in a raging six-hour gun battle and then made a "brilliant" escape through the resulting smoke and flames was captured Friday and pleaded not to be shot.

Nathan Malroy, 37, was taken into custody about 3 a.m. near Paris, Tenn., 60 miles southeast of the little kindergarten house where he hid up Thursday and took on 75 police officers.

Late Friday a bond of $251,000 was set for Malroy on five counts of assault to murder and one of making harassing telephone calls to his neighbors. An attorney was appointed to represent him at a preliminary hearing Monday.

Five officers were slightly wounded in the battle which was so intense that officers had to send out for additional ammunition.

Habib returns to Middle East

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Presidential troubleshooter Philip C. Habib will return to the Middle East to try to avert the collapse of the shaky cease-fire between Israel and the Palestinians in Lebanon, the State Department said Friday.

"Although the Lebanon-Israel situation has remained relatively stable since the July cessation of hostilities, tensions have been rising lately," said department spokesman Dean Fischer.

Fischer said Habib will leave "after Thanksgiving," accompanied by Morris Draper, deputy secretary for the Middle East. He is expected to visit Syria and Saudi Arabia in addition to Lebanon and Israel on the "open-ended" trip lasting at least a week.

Portillo warns of Cuba action

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo in an interview released Friday warned the United States it "would be a gigantic mistake" to take military action against Cuba or Nicaragua, as suggested by Secretary of State Alexander Haig.

In an interview with NBC television, the Mexican president said the only strain in otherwise "splendid" U.S.-Mexican relations is "problems of Central American and the Caribbean."

"The only problem that we have with the United States is the criteria — not on the substantive part, but on the methodology in dealing with the problems of Central American and the Caribbean."

Plane crash victims found

EDWARDS, Colo. (UPI) — Seven people were found dead Friday in the wreckage of a twin-engine executive airplane that smashed into a mountain ridge in the Colorado Rockies and careened into a state of flight.

Civil Air Patrol spokesman Bob Charleston said the plane was found at the 9,700-foot level 17 miles northeast of the Eagle County Airport, where the pilot had tried to land before radioing he was running low on fuel.

Charleston said the plane apparently struck a tree higher on the ridge, at about 11,000 feet, and crashed into the slope.

LT. Robert Montgomery of the State Patrol said the wreckage was sighted Friday morning by a patrol pilot who noticed a "lengthy snow disturbance implying the possibility of an aircraft impact path."

The plane had disappeared late Wednesday shortly after the pilot radioed he was low on fuel, Colorado CAP Capt. James Alsum said light snow was falling at the time.

AWACS tested

CAIRO, Egypt (UPI) — Two U.S. AWACS radar surveillance planes and eight F-16 Falcon jetfighters arrived in Egypt for the Egyptian-American military exercise under way in the western desert, U.S. military officials said Friday.

The AWACS aircraft, which flew into the country Thursday, will patrol Egyptian skies for about two weeks, the officials said.

Their return home will coincide roughly with the departure of the main body of some 4,000 U.S. Army and Air Force troops participating in the war games which began Nov. 14.

Ambulance

Edwards and Brodigan end with a purchase agreement. Whited said he will purchase an ambulance unit and operate in the west-end area.

He acknowledged the west end area is not a large market for ambulance companies.

But Whited said he believes the area is large enough to support one ambulance service. His operation now receives an average of 20 calls per month, he said.

"Buhl has had problems for years with having to use part-time personnel, and I just want to assure the people that there will be an ambulance in the west end at all times," he said. "That's all I'm trying to do. There's no big money to be made in the west end at all."

While not disputing Whited's right to a license, Brodigan questioned the methods employed by the commissioners.

"The amazing thing about it is, he got a license with a vehicle that he doesn't even have yet," Brodigan said. "It's politics. What can I say?"

Up to now, Brodigan has not entered the west-end market, and he has indicated that he will do so only if Edwards ceases operations. Whited's plans may change all that, however.

"It depends on if he is providing an adequate service in the west end of the community," he said. "If he is, then it would be foolish for me to go in there. But if he isn't, then I will have to pursue it."

Broke

The recess meant the government would be technically without operating money at 12:01 a.m. EST today.

Current appropriations for most government agencies and programs were to expire at midnight.

But the lack of funds was not expected to have any real effect until Monday morning if Congress has still not resolved the matter by then. If Reagan should veto the bill because it is not lean enough for him, "non-essential" government functions are likely to wind down.

An Office of Management and Budget spokesman said unless the "continuing resolution" is law by Monday, "non-essential" non-defense functions of the government will be quickly shut down.

As the conference committee got down to work just six hours before the midnight deadline, a key Democratic House member Rep. Jamie Whitten of Mississippi, said he would cooperate with the Republican-led Senate in producing a measure that makes the amount of cuts Reagan wants. But he said he would "strongly resist" any attempt to give Reagan discretion on how the cuts are made.

Federal judge blocks welfare cuts

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — A federal judge Friday blocked Reagan administration regulations that would have eliminated or curtailed welfare payments to 41,790 Pennsylvania families.

Government lawyers said ruling could be a nationwide precedent.

U.S. District Court Chief Judge Joseph Lord issued a permanent injunction against all the new regulations governing Aid to Families with Dependent Children because of a procedural error in the way the Department of Health and Human Services announced the new rules.

Families scheduled to lose their AFDC benefits were to forfeit an average of $13 a month, while the curtailments were to be an average of $4 a month.

The judge later denied a request by Justice Department and Commonwealth of Pennsylvania lawyers for a stay of the ruling, pending their appeal to the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit. State officials said they would abide by Lord's ruling pending their appeal, which was filed immediately after his denial of the stay.

The Philadelphia Welfare Rights Organization and Philadelphia Citizens in Action joined the federal suit against HHS Secretary Richard Schweiker and Pennsylvania Department of Public Welfare Secretary Helen O'Bannon.

"I have no means of knowing how many people this decision will affect throughout the United States, although I suspect it will run into the millions," Lord said, referring to the legal precedent set by his ruling.

Justice Department attorney Linda Cromwell said Lord's ruling was the first to challenge the federal regulations and "could set precedents elsewhere in the country."

Lord also specifically enjoined Pennsylvania from eliminating AFDC benefits to 17,840 households containing 53,523 people and curtailing benefits to another 23,900 households with 57,650 people.

Pennsylvania expected to save $2.2 million a month on benefit payments through the new AFDC limits. But if the federal government were to withdraw its share of the payments because of the state's non-compliance, Pennsylvania could lose another $3 million a month.

Pennsylvania adopted the federal AFDC regulations on Nov. 7, and on Nov. 9 began issuing benefits to new applicants. But for families previously receiving the benefits the cuts were to take effect Dec. 1.

Lord said HHS violated the Administrative Procedures Act governing notice and comment procedures by publishing the new rules as interim final regulations accompanied by a 60-day comment period. The APA requires new regulations first be published as proposals, then as interim final regulations and finally as regulations, to allow a longer, although unspecified, comment period.

The federal regulations, in line with legislation passed by Congress during the summer, were published Sept. 21.

The cuts were designed to save $11 billion over five years and trim the rolls of AFDC, the nation's largest welfare program, by 11 percent. About 3.9 million families — 11.1 million people — receive AFDC, with total costs of the program running $14.7 billion a year. Costs are split between states and the federal government.

Season's first storm dumps on Midwest

By United Press International

A storm dumping up to 14 inches of snow on northern and western Michigan, was blamed for the crash of a state police airplane that landed and flipped over on a slick runway late Thursday at Marquette County Airport.

High winds and snow snapped downed power lines across western Michigan and about 60,000 customers of Consumers Power Co. lost power. About 10,000 homes were still without electricity Friday evening, and Consumers said it could be Sunday before all power is restored.

Near Wellston, Mich., the driver of a car-carrier lost control of his vehicle Friday and it overturned, demolishing five brand new cars.

The storm that blanketed most of Minnesota with 12 to 14 inches of heavy snow was responsible for the death of two teenagers, the loss of power to 100,000 homes and the deflation of a fabric roof on the Hubert H. Humphrey Metrodome.

An unrelenting snowstorm in the nation's midsection killed more than a dozen people by Friday, causing plane crashes and traffic pileups and deflating the fabric dome of a stadium in Minneapolis.

Authorities reported 15 dead as well as numerous injuries because of the late fall snowstorm.

Two people were killed in Kenosha County, Wis., Friday when their car was struck by another that had gone out of control on a slippery road. The driver of the other vehicle fled on foot, police said.

A helicopter plunged into the icy Hudson River off New York City during a thunderstorm Friday, but both men aboard were rescued by a passing motorboat.

The pilot said he thought the helicopter had been struck by lightning, but investigators said there were no burn marks on the aircraft.

Japanese reports say Allen received watches

WASHINGTON (UPI) — National security adviser Richard Allen, under investigation for accepting $1,000 from a Japanese magazine that interviewed Nancy Reagan, is checking his records for other contacts with Japanese businessmen, an official said Friday.

The White House official said that Allen, who has served as a consultant to business firms in Japan, was looking over his personal files to help him recall any meetings he might have had with former clients since joining the White House staff.

In another development, the Japanese newspaper Mainichi reported in Saturday editions that Allen received two wristwatches in addition to the $1,000. "I might as well keep them both," the Tokyo newspaper quoted Allen as saying.

The newspaper quoted a reporter for the magazine that interviewed Mrs. Reagan as saying a gold-colored watch was delivered to Allen's office Jan. 16 and five days later he accepted a silver-colored watch. The administration took office Jan. 20.

Asked late Friday whether Allen had accepted the watches, Spokes said, "No comment."

The Justice Department, at the request of White House counselor Edwin Meese, is conducting an inquiry into the $1,000 the Japanese magazine gave Allen for helping to arrange its interview with the first lady Jan. 21.

Allen said he accepted the cash because such gifts are a custom in Japan and a secretary put the envelope in a safe in his former office in the Executive Office Building next door to the White House, where it was discovered in September.

He said he had planned to turn the cash over to the proper authorities but forgot.

Official portrait

The official portraits of former President Richard Nixon and Mrs. Nixon were hung in the White House Friday, seven years after Nixon resigned the presidency. Richard Nixon's portrait, painted by Alexander Clayton of Dallas, arrived at the White House Friday and was quietly hung on the State Floor along with other past presidents.

Republican leader scorns PACs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republican national chairman Richard Richards urged Congress Friday to revise federal election laws to give parties more influence than "obnoxious" political action committees.

Richards testified before the Senate Rules Committee on proposals to ease some of the contribution limits and disclosure requirements in the elections laws passed in 1974 to rectify Watergate-era campaign abuses.

Although Richards said he is philosophically in tune with some of the New Right groups he wants to diminish, "I think it is obvious to the whole scheme of things; people coming into a campaign and saying things for 'you' or 'against' you without any accountability" to the candidate.

Typically, political action committees spend vast sums of money — not limited by the Federal Election Commission — independently of the candidates, usually confining their efforts to negative campaign tactics against their ideological opponents.

Richards said the most important change in the law would be removing the ceiling on what parties can contribute to individual candidates.

Last year, each national and state party could spend $16,710 for each House candidate and contribute outright $5,000 in the primary and general election campaign. For Senate candidates, the national parties could spend 2 cents for each voting age resident of the state and give outright $17,500.

"It doesn't make sense for the Congress to limit campaign expenditures for political parties... and at the same time place no limits on independent expenditure groups who have no responsibility whatsoever and who have no accountability either to a candidate or the political party," he said.

Legislation sponsored by committee chairman Sen. Charles Mathias, R-Md., would raise from $1,000 to $4,000 the limit an individual can donate to a single candidate and from $25,000 to $40,000 for all candidates in one year.

Reflecting the robust GOP financial picture, Richards opposed increasing contribution limits for individuals. "The role and power of the 'fat cats' in the process has been diminished. The Republican Party is the party of the small donor," he said.

Democratic National Committee counsel Anthony Harrington, reflecting the comparatively puny resources of his party's treasury, said raising the limits on party contributions to individual candidates requires further study.

Harrington, Richards and Sen. Wendell Ford of Kentucky, the ranking Rules Committee Democrat, agreed the parties' positions on donation and spending limits at any given time depend on their relative strength.

The "in" party wanting to restrict limit contributions and spend more, and the "out" party wanting fewer contribution limits but more spending ceilings.

EPA's Gorsuch raps budget cuts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Environmental Protection Agency chief Anne Gorsuch, herself under attack for slashing the EPA budget, Friday attacked President Reagan's budget managers for proposing even deeper spending cuts.

"You should look elsewhere for reductions of the magnitude you suggest," she told budget chief David Stockman in a terse letter. "They cannot be sustained and they will only jeopardize the president's environmental and fiscal goals."

The additional cuts suggested by the Office of Management and Budget, she added, "smack of a bottom line in search of a reason."

Mrs. Gorsuch had proposed a budget for the 1983 fiscal year, which begins next fall, that would feature a 14 percent cut in jobs and an 18 percent funding slash.

Her proposal was criticized by some environmental groups and others as one that would weaken the EPA and Drayton, who served as an assistant EPA administrator during the Carter administration — said the additional cuts suggested by OMB would cut the EPA staff in half and reduce its real purchasing power by two-thirds.

The group said it hoped Mrs. Gorsuch's appeal to Stockman "is not just for political show. It is normal for OMB to 'give' a little back at this point

In the process to create the pressure-relieving impression that... agencies have 'won' something."

Mrs. Gorsuch said the latest OMB plan "puts in disarray a number of major redirections I have proposed for this agency. The unfortunate leaks of my Sept. 15 submissions (to OMB) indicate the kind of uproar that will accompany additional reductions of the magnitude that your staff suggests."

"The environmental commitment of this country is strong. It is deep, and it is powerful. The criticisms my request have been receiving are in many instances from the heart of the president's own constituency."

She said the additional OMB reductions "will be met with more severe criticism. I do not believe that your proposals, and I consider them just that, are realistic — fiscally or environmentally."

Two Episcopal priests found guilty for 'aiding the enemy'

MIAMI (UPI) — Two Episcopal priests who brought 402 Cubans to this country during the Mariel seafit last year were convicted Friday of trading with the enemy.

The Revs. Leo Frade and Joe Doss, both of the Grace Episcopal Church in New Orleans, were found guilty of violating the Trading with the Enemy Act, but innocent of conspiracy. The Rev. Roberto Perez, a Methodist minister from the Miami suburb of Sweetwater, was found innocent of all charges.

A nine-man, three-woman jury deliberated for seven hours before delivering the verdict.

No date for sentencing was set. The maximum penalty would be 10 years in prison and a $50,000 fine. Frade and Doss, both 38, were both released on their own recognizance and were told they were free to leave for their homes in New Orleans.

"I am disappointed at this point. But I don't think it's over yet," Frade said after the verdict.

Julian Murray, who represented both priests, said, "We have motions to file first, but there probably will be an appeal."

"We know what we did what we did was right. We acted in the name of Lord," Doss said. "We are still proud of what we did and I would do it again. I am disappointed, but it's not a matter of bitterness."

Frade, holding his young daughter on his knee, was visibly shaken and said he was not sure if he would do the same thing again.

"I am sad. It is kind of hard to bear it. I still have a lot of confidence in the system. It is still better than the Cuban system," Frade said. "Mr. Murray will continue the legal process. We have faith in God and we thank him for giving us the strength to go through this."

Frade felt he may have the victim of former President Carter's inability to stop the seafit. "Maybe we are paying for a lot of things that happened in the old administration," he said.

The clergymen said they hired a former World War II subchaser, renamed God's Mercy, and took it to Mariel, Cuba, May, 18, 1981, as an act of mercy. The ship returned to Key West, Fla., June 12.

The Trading with the Enemy Act is a rarely used statute used to expand presidential powers during times of crisis. President Carter used it in an effort to end the seafit which eventually resulted in 125,000 refugees pouring into the United States.

A fourth defendant, 39-year-old Ofelia Hutchinson, was cleared of the charge early Friday by U.S. District Court Judge Edward Davis. Davis noted Ms. Hutchinson was merely a nurse on the vessel used for the voyage, and was not involved in the planning of the trip.

Murray, representing Doss and Frade, disputed prosecution charges that the trip was a profit venture.

"They pursued the only responsible manner possible," Murray said. "Why did the government have to prosecute these two priests? Because they had the audacity to be proud of what they were doing — what they thought their government wanted them to do.

"Every boat that didn't make arrangements ahead of time brought back thieves, rapists, murderers, the insane — dumping them on the shores of South Florida. Every boat but one, and that one was the God's Mercy, I suggest that was the responsible way of handling it."

Prosecutor David Hammer countered the priests' knee-tall wet their trip to Mariel was against the law.

Increase in federal gasoline tax could gain support from Reagan

By BRUCE DRAKE
New York Daily News

WASHINGTON — Despite his often-stated distaste for new taxes, President Reagan is holding the door open on a proposal by his aides to raise the federal tax on gasoline next year.

The current four cents a gallon tax would be raised to seven cents and the increase would be shared with the states, a well-placed administration official said Friday.

The official, who asked not to be named, said Reagan made clear recently that he had not ruled out such an increase.

While the fuel tax hike has been discussed often as one way to help close the ballooning federal deficit,

White House aides are also looking at it as a device for making good on Reagan's longstanding promise to turn some federal tax sources back to the states so that they could take over many programs now run by the federal government.

The official said administration aides were working on two options: a formula that would share the increase in the fuel tax with the states and a different formula for sharing the fuel tax revenue if there is no increase.

The official also said that Reagan has made clear within the White House his commitment to keeping the federal revenue-sharing program in place until the federal government could find a "tax source" to give to the states in its place for sharing with local governments. (Currently, only city, town, county and other local governments receive revenue-sharing funds — not state governments.)

Reagan's aides are even working on a proposal for him that would increase funding for the revenue-sharing program that is popular with local governments because of the no-strings money it provides.

But the administration official said such an increase would be at the expense of cuts in other programs from which local governments get federal money.

The same official described the president as "intrigued" by the idea of finding a way to turn back to the states some portion of the income tax receipts collected by the federal government.

That idea has long been a pet proposal of Reagan's, one which he had mentioned in the last presidential campaign and previous ones.

'Accidentally perceived'

Haig wins Doublespeak award

BOSTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Alexander Haig won the 1981 Doublespeak Award Friday from The National Council of Teachers of English.

He was awarded for suggesting that three American nuns slain in El Salvador may have been shot because they were "accidentally perceived" to have run a roadblock.

The group bestowed the award — designed to recognize evasive, euphemistic, confusing or self-contradictory language — at its annual convention.

The Environment Protection Agency earned the title of first runner-up by forbidding the use of words like "hazard" and "cancer-causing" in its official communications.

The Moral Majority was named second runner-up for soliciting for funds to campaign against sex education by quoting passages from a book used in public schools "across the country," then saying it could name only two such schools.

The award for the most conspicuous example of doublespeak from a foreign source went to President Jose Napoleon Duarte of El Salvador for his response to allegations that government forces were responsible for the deaths of some 10,000 civilians.

"We will not deny that there may be certain abuses of authority by the security forces," Duarte said.

Haig was chosen on the basis of testimony before two congressional committees investigating the December slayings of the nuns and a religious lay worker, said William Lutz, head of the Committee on Public Doublespeak.

"According to Time magazine, the women had been shot in the back of the head, and three of them had been raped," Lutz said.

He said Haig told the House Foreign Affairs Committee, "Some of the investigations would lead one to believe that perhaps the vehicle that the nuns were riding in may have tried to run a roadblock, or may accidentally have been perceived to have been doing so."

Haig testified that the guards may have panicked and fired on the vehicle, injuring some of its riders.

Farm bill conference adjourns

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Reagan administration failed to persuade House negotiators to make further farm bill cuts Friday, so Senate Agriculture chairman Jesse Helms recessed the House-Senate conference for two weeks.

Conferees had reached tentative agreement on all issues after more than two weeks of meetings, but the administration said the four-year bill was $681 million too high due to dairy and grain programs.

"I agree that we are reasonably near an acceptable compromise," Helms, R-M.C., told House conferees who refused to budge when he tried unsuccessfully to get further concessions on dairy price supports.

Assistant Agriculture Secretary William Leshner had stopped short of threatening a presidential veto but warned that the situation was "grim."

House Agriculture chairman Kika de la Garza, D-Texas, wanted to adjourn for good and send the compromise back to the full House and Senate, but Helms refused, saying House members had "stonewalled" on dairy and grain provisions.

Enactment of the bill was jeopardized both by administration and House opposition.

Before recessing, the conferees agreed to make further cuts in peanut programs to defuse opposition in the House and reached a new deal on grain elevator bankruptcy provisions that Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., successfully added to the farm bill.

The administration said the dairy bill added $151 million in extra costs to the $10.6 billion Senate bill supported by the administration. Helms proposed freezing the milk price support level in any year that government purchases were projected to reach $1 billion. They were $2 billion last fiscal year.

But House negotiators rejected Helms' proposal by a 12-3 vote and refused to offer any other compromises.

Helms delayed proposing more reductions in the grain price supports. Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., forced further concessions in the peanut program when he threatened to get a House vote to demand that conferees adopt the House position that called for abolishing the peanut program.

Findley said the changes he forced set in motion a process that would end a system restricting peanut production to traditional holders of allotments and quotas.

"I hope it doesn't take 40 years to complete the process," he said.

Findley said he believed the latest compromise would reduce opposition in the House that had threatened to sink the bill because of peanut, sugar and dairy provisions.

To further defuse House opposition, the conferees discussed reducing the sugar support level to 17 cents a pound, down another half cent from an earlier compromise, but failed to act on sugar before recessing.

Earlier in the conference the House had agreed to Dole's language that would set rules and timetables for settlement when farmers' grain is tied up in bankrupt grain elevators.

House negotiators reversed themselves by an 11-2 vote because House Judiciary Committee chairman Peter Rodino, D-N.J., objected to putting the measure in the farm bill.

Korchnoi shocked as Karpov keeps chess title

MERANO—Italy—(UPI)—Soviet master Anatoly Karpov retained his title as world chess champion Friday and wired his joy to communist party boss Leonid Brezhnev.

Defector Viktor Korchnoi was in "shell shock" following his defeat in the shortest championship tournament of the past 60 years.

With age, fitness and steadier nerves on his side, Karpov beat Korchnoi by six games to two in the 51st day of the championship series.

Korchnoi, whose wife and son remain in the Soviet Union, resigned 90 minutes before the 18th game was to resume and did not appear at the chessboard.

"I am glad to inform you that your wish has been fulfilled," the 30-year-old champion said in a telegram to Soviet President Brezhnev.

Karpov drank "just a little vodka" during a quiet celebration dinner and told UPI in fluent English, "I always felt perfectly confident of victory."

"Now the title is mine until 1984, when the next challenge comes up," Karpov said. As the tournament winner, he received $260,000 in prize money and Korchnoi takes $160,000 as the loser.

Korchnoi, 50, quit the tournament after a game adjournment Thursday left his pieces in what experts said was a "hopeless" position.

"Korchnoi is in a state of virtual shell-shock," said his second, Michael Stean. "He has always been convinced that he could win the match, even when it was 5-2 against him."

At one point in the tournament, Korchnoi held a news conference and accused the Soviet Union of using his wife and son, who is in a labor camp, as psychological weapons against him in the chess championships.

Korchnoi, who defected to the West

Display board shows chessboard positions before Korchnoi conceded to Karpov

In 1976, said Karpov supported the policy to make sure of his victory. "I and all the members of the Soviet delegation have felt your everyday support and the concern and attention of our beloved country, for which we express our cordial thanks and filial gratitude," Karpov told Brezhnev.

Korchnoi's resignation gave Karpov the six wins required under match rules for victory.

Korchnoi conveyed his resignation by messenger, not bothering to put in an appearance at Merano's conference center. Experts said Karpov simply outplayed and outlasted the older challenger to keep the title he won by default when American Bobby Fischer refused to defend it in 1975.

A gruelling affair of endurance and physical stamina as well as mental brilliance, the tournament was the shortest world title match since 1921, when, playing under different rules, Jose Raul Capablanca of Cuba beat

German Emanuel Lasker 9-5 in 14 games. Under the current rules, the first person to win six games wins the tournament. Draws, of which there were 10, did not count. Karpov won the first, second, fourth, ninth, 14th and 18th games. Korchnoi won the sixth and 10th games.

"There's one big mystery to me," said Robert Byrne, a U.S. chess Grand Master commenting on the match. "What disoriented Korchnoi so badly at the start?" When the 18th game adjourned after Karpov's last move, the players each had only a rook and a knight left on the board in addition to the king. Karpov had four pawns against Korchnoi's three—at a point in the end-game when pawns are vital.

But Karpov also had two pawns on his left flank in advanced positions which made it virtually certain Karpov could get at least one of them to Korchnoi's back line. In chess a pawn becomes a queen—the most powerful piece on the board—if it reaches the opponent's back line.

Bill: TMI cleanup is research

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A House panel Friday approved a measure authorizing the Energy Department to complete virtually the entire $1 billion cleanup of the Seagrass Three Mile Island reactor under the guise of research and development.

The TMI measure, sponsored by Rep. Allen Ertel, D-Pa., was an amendment to a sweeping nuclear waste management bill under consideration by the Science and Technology Committee.

The Ertel amendment, approved by voice vote, still must be considered by the Interior and Energy committees before it goes to the House floor.

"It's not written in stone," Ertel said earlier. "It's the first federal recognition of the problem of any consequence."

Ertel said financing details for the TMI cleanup remain to be ironed out.

Under a Senate version of the nuclear waste management bill, the money would come from a central fund fed by a levy on utilities of 0.1 cent per kilowatt hour of generated nuclear power. This would immediately yield annual revenues of $250 million that could be used for the TMI decontamination.

The three-mile island utility, however, would contribute no more than its share of the levy, making the cleanup a subsidy from all nuclear utility customers.

Under the House measure, cleanup money for TMI could be borrowed from money initially deposited by all nuclear power plants. The bill would cover their eventual atomic waste disposal costs.

Ertel said General Public Utilities, the owner of Three Mile Island, would be required to pay the money back, possibly without interest, over an extended period of time.

One staffer said the beauty of the amendment was that "it's hard to see what cleanup costs would not fit its definitions."

Brady home 'for good'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — White House press secretary James Brady, shot in the head during a presidential campaign on President Reagan, is going home from the hospital Monday "for good," his deputy announced Friday.

Brady, 41, who has been recuperating in the hospital for the last eight months, had been discharged from George Washington University Medical Center by Thanksgiving.

His doctors said he has been working "very hard" on his physical therapy regimen to prepare for his release.

"Everyone who is directly involved" in his recovery "is very pleased," said Dr. Dennis O'Leary, the hospital spokesman.

"Jim Brady will leave for home for good on Monday," deputy press secretary Larry Speakes told reporters at the White House.

"We're very pleased at this news," Speakes said. "I know that Jim is pleased to get home."

Brady was the most gravely wounded during the attempt on Reagan's life. A gunman fired at Reagan as he emerged from a Washington hotel striking Reagan in the lung, a Secret Service agent in the stomach, a policeman in the neck and Brady in the head.

Brady's condition was so critical that his neurosurgeon, Dr. Arthur Koberne, said, "I don't think he can make it."

He has undergone four operations, three on the brain, since the shooting. He also suffered an epileptic-style seizure, pneumonia, rashes and other complications.

His recovery was viewed as a near miracle in medical circles.

U.S. suspends Aeroflot flights

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government Friday suspended U.S. flights of Aeroflot for one week beginning today to penalize the Soviet airline for flying over "sensitive" areas. An attorney for the carrier said the action is illegal.

The White House accepted the suspension recommendation by the Civil Aeronautics Board, a board spokesman said. President Reagan has the final word on all GAB decisions involving international routes.

James Burger, the Washington attorney representing Aeroflot, said the airline has not yet decided whether to appeal.

Vladimir Kourkov, Aeroflot's general director in New York, said most of the 400 passengers who will be affected already have been notified.

Kourkov said space has been found for some passengers on a roundabout series of Moscow-Europe-U.S. flights. "Some of them will stay here until the next available flight," he said.

The State Department sought the suspension because Aeroflot "threatened national security" Nov. 8 by flying over "sensitive" areas of southern New England where several military bases are located.

What's what

An advertising agency worked up a campaign for a cigar maker. It featured a lovely young woman who handed out cigars to men in various settings. But the campaign failed. Then the researchers went to work to find out why. They concluded that most men who receive cigars do so in a sort of macho defense of women. They know they're going to stink up the room, so to speak. The lighting of a cigar is another way to say, "That's tough, baby! If you don't like it, get lost!"

"Those who can, do. Those who can't, teach." So goes the ancient saying. But it doesn't go far enough, unfortunately. To know how to teach is quite a gift, and all too rare. Many of the world's best doers lacked that talent to teach. Take William Shakespeare, for instance. His daughter was illiterate.

Proposed warning sticker for packages mailed before Christmas: "Fragile Please Underhand."

EVERY NIGHT

Q. Waan't playwright Eugene O'Neill another of those impetuous fellows who proposed marriage on the first night he met his wife-to-be?
A. Quite so. In a Greenwich Village saloon, he sat down beside Agnes Boulton, and shortly thereafter, he said to her, "I want to spend every night of my life with you from now on. I mean this. Every night of my life." Their marriage lasted until her death 10 years later.

Q. All right, Louie, let's see you make a 6 out of the numeral IX by adding one column.
A. Nothing to it. Put an S—that's one continuous line, is it not?—in front of the IX.

FRENCH FLAG

Q. The flag of France has three wide vertical stripes—blue next to the staff, then white, and red on the outer edge. I say these stripes are exactly the same width, right?
A. No, sir, they appear so, but they're not. Wave lengths of colors create an optical illusion. To make them look equal requires the proportions: blue, 100; white, 110; red, 124.

It was about 15 years ago that an electronics firm in Virginia devised a special telephone switch to give the caller a warning after a certain time and then cut off the phone. Such devices are used throughout Japan now. Three minutes is the limit on pay phones. Then the caller has to put in more money and dial again. It was expected to go over big here, too, especially with parents of teenagers who wanted to control their phone time. But it didn't sell.

Almanac

By United Press International

Today is Saturday, November 21st, the 325th day of 1981 with 40 to follow.

The moon is moving toward its new phase.

The morning stars are Mercury, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.

The evening star is Venus.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Scorpio. William Beaumont, pioneer American army surgeon, was born November 21, 1785.

On this date in history:

In 1877, Thomas Edison announced the invention of what he called "The Talking Machine" (phonograph).

In 1938, Nazi forces occupied the western regions of Czechoslovakia and declared all people in those areas German citizens.

In 1963, President John F. Kennedy was greeted by cheering crowds in San Antonio, Houston and Fort Worth, Texas, with no portents of the tragedy to befall him as his motorcade moved through Dallas the following day.

'Old' youngsters to have some fun

HALLSVILLE, Texas (UPI) — Two boys in separate parts of the world, both prematurely aging from a rare disease, plan to meet face-to-face Nov. 29 at Disneyland, to have some fun and get to know each other.

"I pray every night," said Mickey Edwards, 9. "Sometimes I pray about Disneyland."

Mickey suffers from progeria, a disease that causes him to age at eight times the normal pace. At 9, he weighs 32 pounds and stands three-feet tall.

He is completely bald, and has the health problems of a 70-year-old man.

In South Africa lives Fransie Gerlinger, 8, who also suffers from the disease. A club has sponsored the California trip for Fransie.

"I'm going to like Fransie," Mickey says with conviction. "We'll be having such a good time we're not even going to think about progeria."

Mickey, the son of Cindy and Mike Edwards, is well known around his northeast Texas community. He has a reputation for packing large amounts of happiness into fleeting 24-hour days.

He said he is trying to eat more than he usually does because "Fransie weighs 40 pounds."

The youngster, who gets crutchy and tired like an old man, plays football to perk himself up. But he has to be careful, because his tiny body is fragile.

"When I'm sitting on the couch resting or when I fall down and try to get up, I feel older," he said, as his large blue eyes grow solemn. "Sometimes my ribs hurt."

Four years ago Mickey had a mild heart attack. He suffers from arthritis, and his nails on his fingers and toes have fallen off. He has trouble walking, especially the first thing in the morning.

Mickey and his mother know of only a few children in the world with progeria, and Mickey is believed to be the oldest of the kids.

Progeria is a disease without a cure, and the victims usually die of heart problems in their teens.

KATE'S CRITICS

Katharine Hepburn won an opening night ovation and good reviews for her return to Broadway. But New York newspaper critics couldn't find much to say. The New York Times wished they were watching the star in something else. And Howard Kessel began his critique in Women's Wear Daily: "Increasingly Broadway is becoming a zoo in which we pay exorbitant prices to stare at old movie stars."

"West Side Waltz," which toured the country earlier this year, is by Ernest Thompson, whose successful earlier play, "On Golden Pond," is now a movie starring Miss Hepburn with Henry and Jane Fonda.

ROYAL BORE

Britain's Prince Charles has confessed he shares a problem well known to uncrowned heads: getting people to listen to the speeches he's required to make. Addressing some mechanical engineers in London Thursday night, the heir to the throne said, "If I kept a diatribe, how on earth do I persuade anyone to pay attention and listen to what I am saying?" Even his wife, Princess Diana, isn't always thrilled by his speeches, he said. "How do I stop my wife from removing my pen while writing this, sitting on my fingers — telling me that I ought not to be writing long speeches, but doing something else?"

SLOGAN

Colorado has a new slogan to lure tourists to the Rocky Mountain state. But Gov. Richard Lamm says some of the losing entries in a contest are getting more attention than the winner. Lamm said Wyoming officials suggested, "Colorado — Just South of Paradise," and some other losers were along lines of "Getting High in Colorado." The governor noted the Colorado state flower is the columbine and said somebody — maybe a poor speller — proposed, "Colorado Concubine." The winning theme came from Bob Korber of Denver and Mrs. Charles Bullock of Colorado Springs whose slogan — "Colorado, Above All" — was picked from more than 1,000 entries.

GAME BOMBS

Whatever fun and games they have in Britain this Christmas, it won't be playing "Bombshell" makers of the children's board game — in which clumsy bomb disposal experts get blown up — have agreed to cease production and take it out of stores. "Bombshell" was advertised as "explosively funny," but there was disagreement about that. Prince Charles' proxy spoke of "incredibly bad taste." The game depicts "Major Disaster, Sergeant Jimmy Jitters, Private Tommy Twitters and Piper Willie Thumble" trying to defuse bombs. The player whose "expert" survives wins.

PINK SLIP

An exclusive dress shop in the Detroit suburb of Grosse Pointe is offering champagne, a fashion show and test drives of a $25,000 Lincoln Continental designed by French couturier Hubert de Givenchy. Lincoln-Mercury spokes model Jill Day says the idea is "partly psychological. A woman feels secure in here. She makes fashion decisions here — why not make economic decisions here."

Tacoma may pull out

More complications for WPPSS plan

SEATTLE (UPI) — The mottoballing of Washington Public Power Supply System plans and 5 will fall apart if Tacoma City Light doesn't pay its share of the costs, a WPPSS consultant warned Friday.

"It's a due-or-die," said Roy Folcen, a consultant to the 88 public utilities that own shares in the two nuclear power plants whose fate has become the Northwest's longest-running financial melodrama.

"People are tired," he said. "There is still a chance that it could fall apart."

Tacoma City Light was supposed to provide $18.2 million of the participants' $90 million share of the mottoballing costs, including $3.9 million for November and December bills.

Under a complicated mottoballing plan hammered out at the last minute in October, the public utilities agreed to put up $90 million and three private utilities and a dozen industrial power users agreed to provide the rest of the $150 million needed to give WPPSS until mid-1983 to decide whether to go ahead with the two plants or abandon them.

The participants will have paid their share of the December costs. But he said the other owners would probably not be willing to make up Tacoma's share, since the city is expected to provide 20 to 25 percent of the bailout costs.

"Frankly, I don't think that it is practical," he said. "I think Tacoma is the key."

As far as I know, it means termination of the process," Folcen told newsmen following inconclusive meetings of the system's board and its executive board.

It skipped its November payment and the Tacoma City Council this week delayed a decision on the entire two-month share, setting the matter for a vote next Tuesday.

Robert Ferguson, the supply system's managing director, said he would wait until after the city council decision to decide what course to recommend but promised the directors he would let them know by Nov. 30 or Dec. 1.

Ferguson said if Tacoma refuses to pay, WPPSS will "have to determine if participants want and need the plant and if the participants have the money to build the plant."

Although the immediate crisis was the chief concern at the meetings, the consultant said earlier participants are also having problems putting together a long-term agreement on the 20-month mottoballing, which negotiators had hoped to have in shape by Dec. 1.

"If Tacoma doesn't go forward, I will start due diligence and make the recommendations the next week," he told a news conference.

That's not all of the participants that we expected to take action have taken action," Folcen, of Vancouver, Wash., told the executive board.

If Tacoma comes in with its money, the participants will have to begin paying off $2.25 billion in bonds already sold to finance them.

He refused to say he would recommend immediate abandonment of the two plants — as he threatened last month when the complicated financing scheme almost fell apart.

"We're actually in a better condition than before because the bridge loan of $30 million in November gives us more time," he said.

Judge overturns zoning change for Noranda

BLACKFOOT (UPI) — A Bingham County zoning change that would have allowed Noranda Mining Inc. to build a $50-million cobalt refining plant near Blackfoot was overturned Friday by Seventh District Judge Arnold Beebe.

In order for Noranda now to build the refinery 10 miles outside of Blackfoot, the Bingham County Commission must revise the county's comprehensive plan.

Beebe said the county commission did not make the zoning change for property owned by Wynn Havens from agricultural to manufacturing in accordance with the county's comprehensive zoning plan.

He told the Idaho State Journal that the zoning change, in essence, constituted spot zoning, which is prohibited under Idaho law.

A group of Moreland-area farmers in July filed an appeal over the zoning change, saying commissioners did not have the authority to make that change and that proper procedures were not followed.

In overturning the zoning decision, Beebe agreed with the farmers, saying the changes for Havens' property didn't meet conditions of the comprehensive plan.

Beebe ruled that Havens' property, which Noranda has an option to buy, is located about 2.5 miles from the nearest point of manufacturing or industrial growth established under the comprehensive plan. The judge said the area is intended for agricultural uses, which are to "remain unfettered."

"The proposed change is not in accordance with these provisions," the judge said in his opinion. "The plan was enacted pursuant to the statutory mandate of the 1975 Local Planning Act."

Escapee from two prisons sought for Boise robbery

BOISE (UPI) — A Rhoda Island prison escapee was being sought Friday in connection with the armed robbery of two employees who were removing cash from night-deposit vaults at a downtown Boise bank.

He said Boise police suspected McGarraugh because the description the bank employees provided was "almost identical" to the Rhoda Island escapee and because of the similarities among the various Idaho bank robberies.

Boise police Detective Tony Wallace said Riley Paul McGarraugh, 27, was suspected in the holdup of the Idaho First National Bank at about 9 p.m.

McGarraugh had been transported to Pocatello from the Idaho State Penitentiary, where he had been serving an eight-year sentence on grand larceny charges out of Nampa, Wallace said.

McGarraugh escaped on Nov. 1 from the Bannock County jail in Pocatello, where he was being held pending arraignment on an armed robbery charge, said Pocatello police Detective Brad Hunt.

And Wallace said McGarraugh also was suspected in two other eastern Idaho bank robberies, in which procedures were virtually identical to the Boise holdup.

Wallace said a male and female employee were removing money from the night-deposit vaults when a man wearing a skilling mask confronted them with a handgun. He said the employees were told to hand over only the larger business deposits and place them in a green athletic bag.

Man sentenced on phony immigration document charges

BOISE (UPI) — A 42-year-old Nampa man was sentenced to three years in prison and fined $1,000 Friday for conspiring to sell counterfeit immigration documents to Mexican nationals in Canyon County.

U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service agents arrested Palacios June 10 at Mountain Home on charges of conspiring to sell and selling falsified immigration cards to Mexicans working in southern Idaho.

U.S. District Judge Marion Callister imposed the sentence after attorneys argued about whether Esiquio Palacios was a dedicated family man sorry for his actions — or whether he threatened witnesses in his case and had a violent and crime-dotted record.

In arguing for a stiffer sentence against Palacios, Harris attempted to present evidence that he said showed Palacios threatened the lives of potential witnesses in his case. But Callister disallowed the request, saying he could not consider anything that had not been mentioned in the report of the pre-sentencing investigation.

Callister suspended all but six months of the prison sentence in addition to ordering Palacios to complete three years of probation. Palacios, who had pleaded guilty, could have been sentenced to five years in prison and fined $5,000 on the felony charge.

Harris later said Palacios had a "history of violence... and of mayhem and assault." He said Palacios was part of a counterfeiting operation that "defrauded people who have barely enough to survive."

Assistant U.S. Attorney Donald L. Harris requested a stiffer sentence, saying Palacios deserved a long prison term and that the government should send a signal that those who prey upon immigrant farm workers will be dealt with harshly.

"It is important (for Palacios) not only to punish him," but to deter further victimization of aliens, Harris told Callister.

But William F. Gigray, Palacios' attorney, said Palacios was "somewhat of a victim himself" because he entered a document counterfeiting ring under pressure from a loner.

The judge granted a request by Palacios to delay the start of his prison term for one month to allow him time to liquidate his Caldwell repair business and find someone to care for his 5-year-old son, whom he said suffered from cerebral palsy.

He said Palacios pleaded guilty to the offense because he viewed it as the only way to rid himself of his burden — he has learned a very hard lesson.

Wall Street scores advance as takeovers dominate day

By FRANK W. SLUSSER United Press International

NEW YORK — Dominated by take-over situations, the stock market wrapped up an erratic week Friday by scoring a sharp and broad gain in moderately active trading.

Analysts said there was little in the news background to influence the market in either direction. Buyers took the initiative late in the session when they market did not collapse...

The Dow Jones industrial average, on a 0.67-point winner Thursday, gained 8.18 points to 852.93. But the closely watched average, which plunged 10.85 points Monday, gave up 2.95 points for the week.

The New York Stock Exchange index jumped 0.64 to 71.00 and the price of an average share increased 26 cents. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index rose 1 point to 121.71. Advances topped declines 1,047,509 among the 1,944 issues traded.

Best volume increased to 52,010,000 shares from 48,890,000 traded Thursday. Analysts said many investors were drawn to the market by the excitement created by U.S. Steel's surprise takeover bid for Marathon Oil. Energy and related issues attracted attention.

Transportation issues, which took a battering earlier this week, also recovered because many companies in this group have extensive oil and gas properties.

Still, large investors were re-strained from buying because of their concern about the nation's deepening recession and the uncertainty about how long it will last.

Composite volume of NYSE issues traded on all U.S. exchanges and over the counter totaled 62,179,410 shares compared with 57,625,600 traded Thursday.

The American Stock Exchange index rose 2.29 to 318.11 and the price of a share added 16 cents. Advances topped declines 357-229 among the 790 issues traded. Composite volume totaled 5,649,375 shares compared with 5,554,710 Thursday.

The National Association of Securities Dealers' NASDAQ index of OTC stocks gained 1.28 to 198.60. On the trading floor, Marathon Oil, which soared 27 1/2 points Thursday, was the second most active NYSE-listed issue, up 3 to 107.00 in trading.

The 805-share offer was bitterly attacked by Marathon officers, added 1/2 to 25 1/4. U.S. Steel offered to pay $125 each for 51 percent of Marathon's shares as part of a deal worth $6.4 billion. USS slipped 1/4 to 27 1/2 after a block of 100,000 shares at 27 1/2 and Mobil Corp., whose 805-share offer was bitterly attacked by Marathon officers, added 1/2 to 25 1/4.

Kerr-McGee rose 2 1/2 to 78 1/2, Union Oil of California 1 to 39 1/4, Ashland Oil 1 to 34 1/4 and Pennzoil 1 to 25 1/4. All have been mentioned in takeover speculation.

Firststone, which has offered to buy 10 million of its own shares at $11.50 each, was the most active NYSE-listed issue, up 1/2 to 11 1/2 in trading that included a block of 2,665,300 shares at 11 1/2.

Beatrice Foods was the third most active issue, off 1/4 to 17 1/2 with a block of 1,077,700 shares at 16 1/2.

IC Industries climbed 4 1/2 to 35 in active trading after the company offered to buy up to three million of its own shares at $36 each.

Playboy Enterprises (ex-dividend) rose 3/4 to 7 1/2. The company, which recently sold its gambling interest in London, said it plans to sell its Lakes Geneva, Wis. and Great Gorge, N.J., hotels to Chicago real estate investor Eugene Golub and Americana Hotels Inc. for $42 million.

McDonnell Douglas (ex-dividend) gained 1/4 to 33 1/2. The navy picked McDonnell Douglas to develop its next VTX trainer plane, a project potentially worth $2.2 billion.

Southland Royalty, which said it is increasing its exploration budget, gained 2 1/2 to 27 1/2 in heavy trading. On the Amex, Dome Petroleum, which is expected to merge soon with Hudson's Bay Oil & Gas, was the most active issue, up 1/2 to 12 1/2. Hudson's Bay finished unchanged at 42.

Houston Oil Trust was second on the active list, up 1/2 to 18 1/2, and McPath, a 5 1/2-point winner Thursday, was third, up 1/2 to 20 1/2. Corning Glass has agreed to buy the 91 percent-owned McPath stock that it doesn't already own for $150 million.

that most of the violations occurred in the company's Salt Lake City depot. He said similar violations were not detected in Albertson's major distribution centers in Boise, Portland, Ore., and Orlando, Fla.

The government attorney told Taylor that Albertson's had been "more than cooperative" in correcting violations and helping federal officials investigate the violations.

He said the government and the company had discussed the violations once before the charges were filed. He said the two sides agreed it would be best to "dispose of" the case by filing the charges and seeing them through court.

Albertson's attorney Robert Baker told Taylor the company intended to obey all government rules and regulations. He said the violations resulted from "a lack of attention to detail" rather than deliberate action.

He cited as reasons for the violations a communications breakdown between corporate officials in Boise and Salt Lake City over documentation of truck operations and a computer foul-up that kept accident reports shielded from employees who handled insurance and government reporting chores.

Albertson's draws fine for trucking violations

BOISE (UPI) — Federal Judge Fred M. Taylor fined Albertson's Inc. $5,200 Friday on 26 counts of failing to report traffic accidents and document the qualifications of company truck drivers.

Executives of the Boise-based supermarket company pleaded guilty to the procedural violations after company and government attorneys outlined a plea-bargaining agreement to the judge.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Warren S. Derbridge said Albertson's agreed to plead guilty to 26 charges in return for the dismissal of two other counts and a recommendation that minimum fines be levied.

Taylor then imposed a minimum $200 fine on each of the 26 counts. Derbridge said the other two counts were dropped because the company had proved that the violations cited in the two charges did not occur.

Albertson's was charged with failing to report to federal officials eight traffic accidents involving its delivery trucks during 1978 and 1979. The charges also accused the company of failing to have medical examinations, certificates and proof of driver's test results for its truck drivers.

Derbridge told the judge during the U.S. District Court proceeding Friday

Grain futures

CHICAGO (UPI) — Wheat and oats were lower, corn narrowly mixed and soybeans up all the close Friday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Wheat was off 1/2 to 2 1/4 cents, corn up 1/8 to 1/2 to 3/4, and soybeans up 1/8 to 1/4 cent. Wheat's poor technical showing dropped prices, however good commercial pricing at the lower level held the declines.

Wheat, corn and soybeans settled at or near last session's close. A commercial firm was picking corn at the close with one commercial firm buying wheat. Traders assumed new long corn/shoot wheat and long soybean when wheat, corn, flour, soybeans and soybean meal were selling.

January soybeans broke through the $8.50 per bushel technical resistance point and settled at $8.50. Commissioned buy orders were filled, 100 contracts. Weather Thursday and Friday across much of the Midwest brought traveling to a standstill.

The outside markets were mixed.

West German gas buy largest East-West deal

BONN, West Germany (UPI) — A West German firm sealed the largest East-West trade deal in history Friday, a $45 billion dollar gas purchase from the Soviet Union.

The United States opposed the deal for fear it would make its allies too dependent on Soviet gas.

The agreement to buy 10 billion cubic meters of gas per year, supplied through a yet to be built, 3,000-mile long pipeline from Siberia, came two days before a visit to West Germany by Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev.

The timing was believed to be more than coincidental.

The Essen-based firm of Ruhrgas AG announced the deal but did not immediately disclose the price of the gas, a sticking point in 18 months of complex negotiations with the Soviets.

However, company officials said the deal was expected to net the Soviets $45 billion in hard currency by the year 2,008.

Regan meets with leaders

Japan promises to ease trade surplus

TOKYO (UPI) — Treasury Secretary Donald Regan said Friday that Japanese officials have assured him they will cooperate in reducing Japan's huge trade surplus with the United States.

"The premier assured me he will give it top priority," Regan told reporters after a 30-minute meeting with Prime Minister Zenko Suzuki and other Japanese officials.

"They realize the seriousness of the problem and intend to do something about it as quickly as possible," Regan said of the $15 billion trade surplus on the last day of a two-day stopover en route home from Peking.

"Since trade is a two-way street, I think they can open up their markets a little more," buying made-in-America goods to cut the surplus, Regan added.

In a speech to the Japan National Press Club, Regan said the United States did not expect to be able to always balance its imports and exports country by country, selling Japan or other nations as much as it buys from each of them.

"However, the very large size and rapid growth of Japan's trade surplus with the United States reflects, in part, an artificially distorted trading pattern which can be brought into balance only when Japan opens its domestic markets more to U.S. manufactured goods," he said.

The U.S. Embassy diplomat in charge of economic matters, William Barraclough, asked the Japanese in a letter on Monday to abolish tariffs on 29 items, including computer parts, plywood, beef and oranges.

Barraclough wrote the unprecedented letter, which he said expressed the "official view" of the Reagan administration, in response to Japanese requests for specific examples of items the United States considers barriers to trade with Japan, Regan said.

The letter warned the trade surplus, estimated to hit $20 billion next year, was becoming a political problem that demands speedy action.

"I would say the time is growing short," Regan said. "I urged the prime minister this morning to take the initiative. In this economic problem area, rather than letting it fester."

Suzuki said Wednesday it would be difficult for Japan to act on the tariff problem because the tariffs involve agreements with various countries. But Regan said the prime minister told him he would study the matter.

Saudis target of Iranians

ANKARA, Turkey (UPI) — Millions of demonstrators demanded death for "madman" Saudi Arabian Crown Prince Fahd in rallies held across Iran Friday to denounce his peace plan for the Middle East, Tehran radio said.

"This madman Fahd must be executed," shouted the marchers, "several million" of whom converged on Tehran University grounds during the officially-approved event, Tehran radio reported.

The call for Fahd's death was contained in a recorded section of the demonstrations broadcast by the radio and monitored in Ankara. The volume of the broadcast dropped during the replay of the slogan and the newscaster omitted any mention in the news summary.

The anti-Saudi demonstration reflected a further deterioration of relations between the two Muslim countries. It apparently was prompted at least in part by militants seeking retaliation for alleged mistreatment of Iranian pilgrims in Saudi Arabia.

Addressing Friday worshippers inside the university grounds, Mallis speaker Hashemi Rafsanjani dismissed the Fahd peace plan as "a maneuver for giving hope to the same gentlemen who gather to support Fahd's plan."

Paisley predicts general strike

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Protestant extremist leader Rev. Ian Paisley charged Friday the British secret service was out to kill him.

He predicted massive support for a general strike to force Britain to crack down on the IRA.

However, Protestant businessmen, politicians and even the paramilitary Ulster Defense Association rejected Paisley's strike call, saying Northern Ireland's battered economy could not stand the strain of further hardship.

Their stand dealt a major blow to Paisley's campaign to make the province "ungovernable" to protest what he sees as a lack of security responsible for the IRA assassination of his friend and fellow Protestant militant, Rev. Robert Bradford, last week.

Paisley called a news conference to lobby support for the one-day strike Monday, to demand the resignation of Northern Ireland's police chief and to loudly repeat a few threats and charges.

Kremlin: We pose no threat

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Kremlin released its own assessment of the East-West military balance Friday and said the Soviet Union "poses no threat to either West Europe or the United States."

The assessment, in a booklet entitled "The Threat to Europe," was released as part of the Kremlin's campaign to discredit the arms proposals made by President Reagan in a speech Wednesday. It was also meant to dispute the figures Reagan cited as well as those contained in a Pentagon study, "Soviet Military Power," published last month.

However, the 74-page Soviet assessment contained no figures for nuclear missiles or other weapons systems, whose reduction is to be discussed in Soviet-American arms talks in Geneva Nov. 30.

Instead, the Soviet study concentrated on intentions and what it said was an alarming Western military build-up threatening the Soviet Union.

Tropical storm rips Philippines

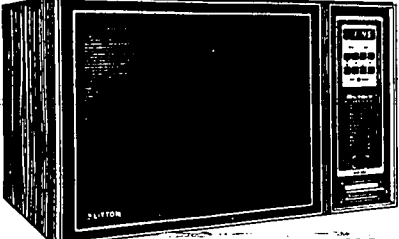

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — Tropical storm Hazen tore through the coconut-producing region of Quezon province Friday, uprooting trees and huts and leaving 2,000 people homeless.

Only two people were reported injured after the storm swept across the province, 56 miles south of the capital, and headed out over the South China Sea Friday evening.

Hazen, classified a typhoon earlier this week with peak winds of 115 mph, collided with a cold front from China that blunted its impact on the Philippines.

Jenny Hannah of Twin Falls gets a sendoff from her classmates as she departs for the Junior Olympics regional meet

Girl gets 'Olympic' sendoff

Jenny Hannah 'walks' thanks to donations

TWIN FALLS — Jenny Hannah will be able to walk, thanks to the generosity of nearly a score of local citizens and businesses.

Jenny isn't crippled or injured. She won a Junior Olympics qualifying race in the 3-kilometer walk at Pocatello on Nov. 7.

But her family lacked the funds to send her to this weekend's regional competition in Tacoma, Wash.

So Nancy Campbell, a teacher at Lincoln Elementary School, where Jenny is a straight-A student, and who knew of the youngster's plight, decided to act.

Since the Pocatello event, Campbell, Twin Falls Mayor Hank Woodall and others have raised approximately $500, enough to send Jenny and her mother, Mrs. Donna Hannah, to Tacoma.

Among the contributing organizations were: the Independent Meat Co., Coors of Magic Valley, Magic Carpet Travel, the Chamber of Commerce, T-Shirts Plus and First Christian Church.

Jenny and her mother received a warm sendoff Friday afternoon at Lincoln Elementary.

The school's students presented Jenny with a T-shirt, donated by T-Shirts Plus, and Mayor Woodall and his wife were there to take the Hannahs to Boise, from which Jenny and her mother will depart for Tacoma.

Father, son pot case goes to district trial

By MARTY TRILLIHAASE
Times-News writer

—SHOSHONE — A Shoshone-area father and son, who state narcotics agents say operated a commercial marijuana operation, will answer to felony charges in Fifth District Court.

Calvin Norman, 42, and Mark A. Norman, 21, were bound over to the district court, following a preliminary hearing in Shoshone on Friday. Magistrate Judge Daniel C. Huributt Jr. concluded that Doug Rose, the Lincoln County prosecutor, had presented sufficient evidence against the Normans to justify the move.

The two men were arrested Nov. 4 at their residence six miles north of Shoshone. Acting upon information provided by informants, Lincoln County Sheriff's deputies and Idaho Bureau of Narcotics officers searched the property and allegedly found a converted greenhouse where marijuana plants were being cultivated.

Police say that about 50 to 55 pounds of marijuana were confiscated.

Both men were charged with manufacturing a controlled substance, possession of a controlled substance with intent to sell and conspiracy to violate the state's Uniform Controlled Substances Act.

With the exception of the manufacturing count against Mark Norman, Huributt ordered the defendants to answer to all of those charges in district court.

The three-hour-plus hearing produced no new revelations about the case with one exception: Donald E. Peak of Shoshone was identified as one of the informants.

Called to the witness stand by Rose, state narcotics Officer Greg Harris testified that he and other agents found a lambing shed on the Norman property that has been converted into a greenhouse. Along with some 150 marijuana plants found in the structure, the agents discovered the structure had been equipped with insulation, heating units and fluorescent "growth" lamps, he said.

Harris said that some four pounds of partially processed marijuana had been found in the trunk of a car registered to Mark Norman. At the time the police served the search warrants on the defendants, the car's engine had been running, he said.

The confiscated material was transported to the state forensic laboratory in Pocatello, where chemical analysis determined the substance to be marijuana, he added.

Former Lincoln County Sheriff Bill Anderson testified that he remained in the house with the two defendants during much of the search. Anderson, now a deputy under Lincoln County Sheriff Darwin Mills, said he overheard Merrill Kelley, the narcotics bureau regional supervisor, ask Calvin Norman if there was any more marijuana on the premises. Anderson said he overheard Norman reply that there wasn't.

Defense lawyer Greg Fuller utilized much of his cross-examination as an opportunity to gather more information on the case from Rose's witnesses.

Specifically, he called Kelley to the stand and succeeded in getting the name of the informant, Peak.

Republic Airlines adds Saturday Denver flight

TWIN FALLS — Republic Airlines will add a Saturday-only flight to Denver from the Twin Falls-Sun Valley Regional Airport, beginning Dec. 1.

Republic spokesman Don Cooper said that if the flight gets enough traffic, it will be expanded to seven days a week on April 25.

The flight will originate in Seattle at 9:45 a.m. and arrive in Twin Falls at 12:51 p.m. The flight will depart Twin Falls at 1:15 p.m. and arrive in Denver at 3:09.

Connecting flights on Republic in Denver can be obtained for Memphis, Birmingham, Milwaukee, Green Bay, Minneapolis and Duluth, Cooper said.

The flight from Denver to Twin Falls leaves at 12:40 p.m., arrives at 2:56 p.m. and continues to Seattle at 3:20.

Christmas tree permits go on sale for public-land sites

TWIN FALLS — Public land managers are offering Christmas tree permits in portions of the Magic Valley.

Beginning today, the Ketchum Ranger District and the Sawtooth National Recreation Area will begin issuing such permits for $1 from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on weekdays and Saturdays. The SNRA headquarters, located 12 miles north of Ketchum, also is open on Sundays.

The Twin Falls and Burley Ranger districts of the Sawtooth National Forest will sell the permits for the Magic Burn Area, located south of Hansen, and the Raft River Division, located south of Almo, on the weekends of Dec. 5-6 and Dec. 12-13.

Details on the location of the permit areas can be obtained from the two districts during office hours Monday through Friday.

The Bureau of Land Management's

Burley District began offering $1 permits for juniper trees this week. Two of the BLM's cutting areas are south of Oakley, while a third is in the Nibbs Creek area near Malta.

The permits may be obtained during office hours at the BLM district office, located two miles south of Burley. They also may be purchased at the BLM district office in Twin Falls, located in the county zoning building adjacent to Magic Valley

Memorial Hospital, on Wednesday, Dec. 2, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Sawtooth Forest supervisor Paul Barker is encouraging families to enjoy an outing in the forest while obtaining their holiday tree.

But he also warns, "People should be aware of regulations connected with this activity, to help retain the beauty of our forest."

"Consider the growth potential of the remaining trees," he advises.

"Cut from a thicket of trees, if possible, and cut smaller trees, leaving the tallest, most vigorous trees to beautify the forest."

The restrictions that apply on federal land include:

- A $1 permit is good for an eight-foot tree. Taller trees are an additional 50 cents a foot. Permits should be attached to the tree after cutting.
- Do not cut trees on private or state lands within national forest boundaries, within 200 yards of campgrounds, organizational camps or summer-home areas, adjacent to streams or within 200 feet of any highway.
- All stumps should be cut to within six inches of the ground's surface — not the surface of the snow.
- Do not remove the top of a large tree for use as a Christmas tree.
- Do not cut Englemann or blue spruce trees.

Anna Maria Alberghetti

Singer goes 'commercial,' captures public eye

By STEPHANIE SCHOROW
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Whenever Anna Maria Alberghetti steps out on stage, she takes first things first.

"I see the question on your faces," she tells the audience. "The answer is: Yes, I really use Good Seasons Italian Dressing."

Anna Maria Alberghetti achieved recognition as a teenage operatic prodigy, a film actress, a Broadway star and a nightclub singer.

But the job that made her a household word was telling TV audiences about the great taste of Good Seasons Italian Dressing.

Movie buffs and TV addicts may remember her appearances in films of the 1950s and TV variety shows. Broadway fans will recall her award-winning performance as Lili in the musical "Carnival."

Yet, it's her Good Seasons commercials that ensured her immediate recognition by the stewardess, the pilot and the passengers on the plane that brought her here for a stint in Jackpot.

"The power of TV is really unbelievable," she said in an interview Friday. Those who do not know Anna Maria, the singer, know "Ann Maria," the Italian-salad-maker, she says.

A maker of the Hollywood star-making machinery, Alberghetti does not consider commercial work a comedown.

"If it's good enough for Laurence Olivier, it's good enough for me," she explains in her poised yet gentle voice. "I hope I'll be doing it for another 40 years. There's no stigma attached to it at all."

Besides, she says, advertising work is very lucrative. She'd have to perform in at least 30 concerts to equal the benefits of her salad-dressing contract, she says.

Alberghetti will appear tonight and Sunday night in Jackpot, performing popular tunes, musical comedy numbers and Italian songs. It's a repertoire she's been performing at concerts and nightclubs throughout the country.

Also appearing will be comedian Hank Garcia, who starred with Jane Fonda and George Segal in "Fun with Dick and Jane."

Arriving at the Twin Falls airport, Alberghetti's luxurious fox fur coat flashes "stardom." But underneath, she wears a simple gray blazer and gray corduroy slacks. Her fire-engine red fingernails clamor for attention; otherwise, her attire is as relaxed as her conversation.

A thin gold bracelet, with a sprinkle of diamonds, half-hidden by a sleeve on one wrist, is balanced by a business-like watch on the other.

Alberghetti was born in Pesaro, Italy, in 1936. Her father was a cellist and a baritone, who had sung with a number of famous Italian opera companies. Her mother was a pianist.

Anna Maria began singing at the age of 6, and the family moved to the United States when she was 13. That year, she made her New York debut at Carnegie Hall, followed by other solo performances and TV appearances.

Convicted robber gets 4 months at NICI

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls man, convicted of armed robbery earlier this year, was ordered Friday to spend the next four months at the North Idaho Correctional Institute at Cottonwood.

Daniel Robert Welch, 25, sought to avoid incarceration for his part in the March 8 holdup of United Oil, 1922 Kimberly Road, Welch pleaded for leniency before Judge Theron Ward in Fifth District Court, citing past problems with alcohol abuse and his efforts to rehabilitate himself.

Last month, Ward granted leniency to co-defendant Robert Elwood, when he placed the 28-year-old Ogden, Utah, man on a two-year probation.

Friday, Welch's lawyer, Golden Bennett, attempted to obtain the same result, saying that his client had undergone therapy at an alcoholic treatment center in Kansas.

Alcohol counselor Ella M. Nelson of Twin Falls testified that Welch had a good chance of successfully completing probation if he continued to abstain from alcohol and mind-altering drugs. She said that she did not believe imprisonment would benefit the defendant.

But Prosecutor Harry DeHaan questioned the sincerity of the defendant's efforts to rehabilitate himself, noting that such efforts came after the defendant's arrest.

DeHaan said that some imprisonment was required to impress upon the defendant the seriousness of the crime.

He said that Welch had a long history of prior misdemeanor offenses.

Under the terms of Ward's decision, Welch was sentenced to serve up to five years in the state penitentiary. But the execution of that sentence was suspended, and Welch was ordered to spend 120 days at the north Idaho facility.

Generally, inmates placed in that program are given an opportunity for a probation at the end of the four-month period.

Ward also ordered 22-year-old Robert Kenneth Easter of Twin Falls to a 120-day term at the NICI facility in lieu of a suspended five-year prison sentence.

Easter, along with his 21-year-old brother, Rodney Eugene Easter, pleaded guilty on Sept. 25 to grand theft.

The two men admitted stealing iron fittings from PMF Inc., 261 Addison Ave. W., on July 17.

Ward suspended a five-year prison sentence imposed on Rodney Easter and placed the defendant on a two-year probation.

But Ward said the elder Easter's prior criminal record warranted harsher treatment.

In a final case Friday, 29-year-old Rick Dean Harmon of Hansen pleaded innocent to a charge of aggravated assault.

Harmon is accused of pointing a pistol at Marion Tanner of Hansen. The alleged assault reportedly stemmed from a landlord-tenant dispute.

No date for Harmon's trial has been set.

Two are arraigned on theft charges

TWIN FALLS — Two Twin Falls residents faced theft-related charges Friday in Fifth District Magistrate Court.

Betty Lee Curl, 20, and Larry Jones, 24, were arraigned in magistrate court on the felony charges.

Curl, who remained in the county jail Friday on a $500 bond, is charged with grand theft for stealing an automobile.

Jones, who was released from custody on his own recognizance, is charged with second-degree burglary.

Curl is accused of taking an automobile owned by Lois Adell Thompson of Twin Falls. On Nov. 11, Thompson told Twin Falls police that a station wagon was missing from her residence at 110 Quincy St.

On Nov. 14, Curl was apprehended by Ely, Nev., sheriff's deputies. According to the charges, the defendant was found in possession of the automobile.

Twin Falls police arrested Jones on charges that he took two rings from Bill Biondi's residence, 204 Carney St.

Biondi first reported the rings missing on Nov. 14. One ring was later found in the possession of a motel employee manager. The other was located at a local pawn shop, according to police.

The public defender's office was appointed to represent both defendants.

Ex-inmate drops habeas corpus writ

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls man who had contested his conviction on a battery charge has dropped his request for a Fifth District Court hearing on the matter.

Last month, Reuben Moses Jones III, 27, filed an application for a writ of habeas corpus, alleging that his constitutional rights were violated when magistrate Judge Charles Brumbach refused to appoint a lawyer on his behalf.

Jones pleaded guilty to battery on June 25 and was sentenced to spend six months in the Twin Falls County Jail.

Acting on the complaint, Judge Daniel Meehl of the Fifth District Court appointed the public defender to represent Jones. As a result, deputy public defender Mike Powers approached magistrate Judge Melvin Edwards, requesting an early release from jail for his client.

Tuesday, Jones was freed after spending nearly five months in jail.

Because the action took the form of an early release for good behavior, under a recommendation from Sheriff James Munn, Jones still had the option of proceeding in district court on the writ of habeas corpus.

But Powers said Wednesday that the matter will be dropped. Powers said that the defendant's major request was granted when Meehl appointed a lawyer on his behalf.

Alert residents help break burglary case; two arrested

GOODING — The cooperation of alert Gooding County residents resulted in the arrest of two burglary suspects and the recovery of a quantity of stolen property, Sheriff Robert Aja said Thursday.

He said his department received a tip Wednesday morning from an observant citizen residing northeast of Gooding. This, along with a "keen observation" by off duty Gooding police Officer Steve Spencer, resulted in an investigation by the Sheriff's Department into recent burglaries in Gooding and Elmore counties.

And as a result, Aja said he arrested Larry Henry Knuff, 47, and Donald White, 26, no addresses available, Wednesday night in Bliss.

Another report from a citizen in the west end of the county led officers to recover part of the property stolen in the two counties, he said.

The two suspects were in custody Thursday night in the Gooding County Jail, and bond was set at $25,000 each.

Mentally handicapped home review set Monday by IHSA

TWIN FALLS — A proposed intermediate-care facility for the mentally handicapped will be reviewed by the Sub-area Advisory Council of the Idaho Health Systems Agency this Monday at 7:30 a.m. in the Twin Falls County judicial annex.

The council will review a certificate-of-need application from Gem States Homes Inc. to develop a medical shelter-care facility in the Twin Falls area.

The council also will consider a certificate-of-need application from Magic Valley Memorial Hospital for the purchase of a CAT scanner.

Wendell will labor under 'baby boom'

By TERRELL WILLIAMS

WENDELL — There will be almost as many city clerks as births in the community of Wendell over the next few months.

A new deputy clerk is in training at the city's office. Helga Stump, who is learning the deputy clerk's duties, will replace Betty Reed, who plans to take a maternity leave in late December.

In April, Stump will take a maternity leave and be replaced by Reed.

And in May or June, both women will work part-time to fill the 40-hour-per-week position.

Wendell City Council voted Thursday to increase Stump's hourly wage from $3.50 to $4.75.

In other council business, fire Chief Keith Hosack reported that the new fire truck, purchased jointly by the rural and city fire departments, is due to arrive in about two weeks.

"It'll be under the Christmas tree," according to Councilman Mike Wetzelstein.

The council authorized Hosack to purchase 21 new helmets, costing $42 each, for the volunteer firemen. The city will pay one-third of the cost, the rural district will pay another third and the firemen will pay the rest.

In the White Mortuary Chapel with Father Albert Allen officiating, Friends may call at the chapel this evening until 9 p.m., Sunday, and until noon Monday. Burial will be in Sunset Memorial Park.

Drug abuse seminar slated

TWIN FALLS — Registration is in progress for a free seminar that will examine ways that family communication can help prevent teenage drug abuse.

The seminar will take place each evening from Tuesday, Dec. 1 through Friday, Dec. 4 from 7 to 10 p.m. in the Cedars Room of the Littletree Inn in Twin Falls.

The seminar is co-sponsored by the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare, and "We Care," a recently formed citizens group interested in educating the public about drug-abuse problems.

For more information or to register, call Dr. Henry Robinson at 934-4351 or Carl Bergstrom at 934-8461.

In final arguments, Fuller conceded that the prosecution had demonstrated sufficient probable cause existed against his clients on the possession-with-intent-to-deliver charges. But he argued that Rose had not demonstrated sufficient evidence of a conspiracy to break the law between the two men, as well as the drug-manufacturing charge against the son.

While agreeing with Fuller that Rose had not demonstrated enough evidence to warrant binding the younger man over on the manufacturing charge, Hurblitt sided with the prosecutor on the conspiracy charge.

Rose had argued that since Mark Norman's car engine was running and since clothes and marijuana have been found in the car, one could reasonably assume that one of the defendants was planning to take a trip. Given the delicate nature of marijuana plants, one could reasonably assume that the defendants had agreed that one would remain at the residence and care for the plants, Rose said.

QUESTION...

It is my understanding that you collect eyeglasses for shipment to a charitable group — please tell me about this.

ANSWER...

There is a non-profit, charitable organization in Short Hills, New Jersey, known as "New Eyes For The Needy" for whom we have been collecting eyeglasses that no longer have a useful purpose.

This organization has dedicated itself to gathering eyeglasses from all over the United States and Canada for distribution to those people in this country and abroad who need corrective lenses but cannot afford to purchase them.

If you have eyeglasses in your home that are no longer useful please drop them by our office and we will see that they are carefully packed and forwarded to this excellent philanthropic group.

Bowl scramble will clear up today

By FRED McMANE
UPI sports writer

A scramble for bowl bids and battles for state bragging rights highlight the final weekend of activity today in college football.

Bowl bids will be extended today, beginning at 4 p.m. MST, and, while many of the spots have already been decided upon by the various bowl committees, there are a number of key games that will help decide post-season participants.

The most important games will be contested in the Pacific 10, Southwest and Big Ten Conferences with berths in the Rose and Cotton Bowls at stake.

In the Pac-10, the two key matchups are 12th-ranked Washington State at 16th-ranked Washington and 13th-ranked UCLA at ninth-ranked Southern California. Washington State, Washington and UCLA are all in the running for the Pac-10 title. A victory by Washington State over Washington would send the Cougars to the Rose Bowl for the first time in 51 years, but Washington can go if it wins and Southern Cal beats UCLA. UCLA will get the bid if it wins and Washington beats or ties Washington State.

Sixth-ranked Michigan, 17th-ranked Iowa and 18th-ranked Ohio State are in contention for the Big Ten title and a berth in the Rose Bowl.

Michigan, like Washington State, can control its destiny. If the Wolverines beat Ohio State at Ann Arbor, Mich., they would make their fifth trip to the Rose Bowl in the last six years. If Michigan loses to Ohio State and Iowa beats Michigan State, the Buckeyes and Hawkeyes would tie for the title but Iowa would get the Rose Bowl bid on the basis of not having been there in 22 years. Ohio State can go if it beats Michigan and Michigan State beats Iowa.

The Southwest Conference representative in the Cotton Bowl could be decided Saturday. With conference leader Southern Methodist on NCAA probation and ineligible to play in the Cotton Bowl, 10th-ranked Arkansas and seventh-ranked Texas are in the running. Arkansas plays

SMU Saturday and if the Razorbacks win, they still would need Texas to lose one of its two remaining games — against Baylor (Saturday) and Texas A&M (Nov. 28) — to get the bid. If Texas beats Baylor and SMU beats Arkansas, then the Longhorns would get the nod.

The opponent in the Cotton Bowl for the SWC representative is expected to be fourth-ranked Alabama. Alabama (8-1) is idle Saturday and closes its season on Nov. 28 against Auburn.

Fifth-ranked Nebraska, which plays arch rival Oklahoma Saturday, has already clinched the Big Eight Conference title and a berth in the Orange Bowl and the Cornhuskers are expected to meet second-ranked Clemson in the Jan. 1 tilt at Miami, Fla. Clemson, which sports a 10-0 record, closes its regular season Saturday against state rival South Carolina.

The Sugar Bowl is expected to be filled by top-ranked Pittsburgh and third-ranked Georgia. Pittsburgh (9-0) has two games remaining — against Temple Saturday and Penn State on Nov. 28 — but can be expected to get the bid if it beats the Owls. Georgia (9-1) has one game left, against Georgia Tech on Nov. 28.

One top 10 team which could be left out of the four major bowls is Southern Mississippi (6-0-1). With games remaining against Louisville and Lamar, the Golden Eagles seem virtually certain of going unbeaten, yet may be relegated to the Gator Bowl unless South Carolina can spring an upset against Clemson. If that happens, it could change the minds of the Orange Bowl committee members in favor of Southern Mississippi.

Other important contests today are Harvard at Yale, which will decide the Ivy League championship, and Utah at Brigham Young, which will decide the Western Athletic Conference title and a berth in the Holiday Bowl.

Also on tap today are a number of contests which have no bearing on the post-season or league championships but which are nonetheless important because they are traditional rivalries. They include Purdue at Indiana, Lafayette at Lehigh, Mississippi at Mississippi State, Oregon State at Oregon, VMI at VPI and California at Stanford.

CSI Eagles go international

Australians visit tonight before Chinese hit town

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — With its first domestic victory under its belt, College of Southern Idaho goes international for its first two home encounters this weekend.

The Eagles, who sputtered throughout the first half and then closed with a rush to whip Dixie 70-53 Tuesday, will entertain the Australian National Junior Team at 8 p.m. today and the People's Republic of China at the same time Monday.

Just what CSI will be facing in the way of talent against Australia isn't known. The team, after three showings in Hawaii, didn't arrive on the mainland until Friday. The Australians weren't due to arrive in Twin Falls until about 1 p.m. today and tonight will be their first performance.

Although the Australians have some size, their degree of proficiency isn't known.

About the only Eagle who knows anything about the game is freshman Brad Blaine who accompanied an American high school all-star team on a tour of Australia last summer.

Even Blaine's assessment isn't that reliable since his team played 18 games over there and, consequently, wasn't facing an all-star aggregation. "They had some pretty good size but they seemed to be behind us (Americans) in shooting and ball handling," Blaine said. The Americans won all 18 games in Australia and had won every game since then.

"I think I recognize a couple of the names on the roster that Coach (Dave) Campbell showed me but I can't be sure," Blaine said. Two of the 12 Australians who will be performing here are in high school. They will be of similar age to CSI's players since the international junior designation means under 21 years of age. The Australians will be 18 to 20 years old.

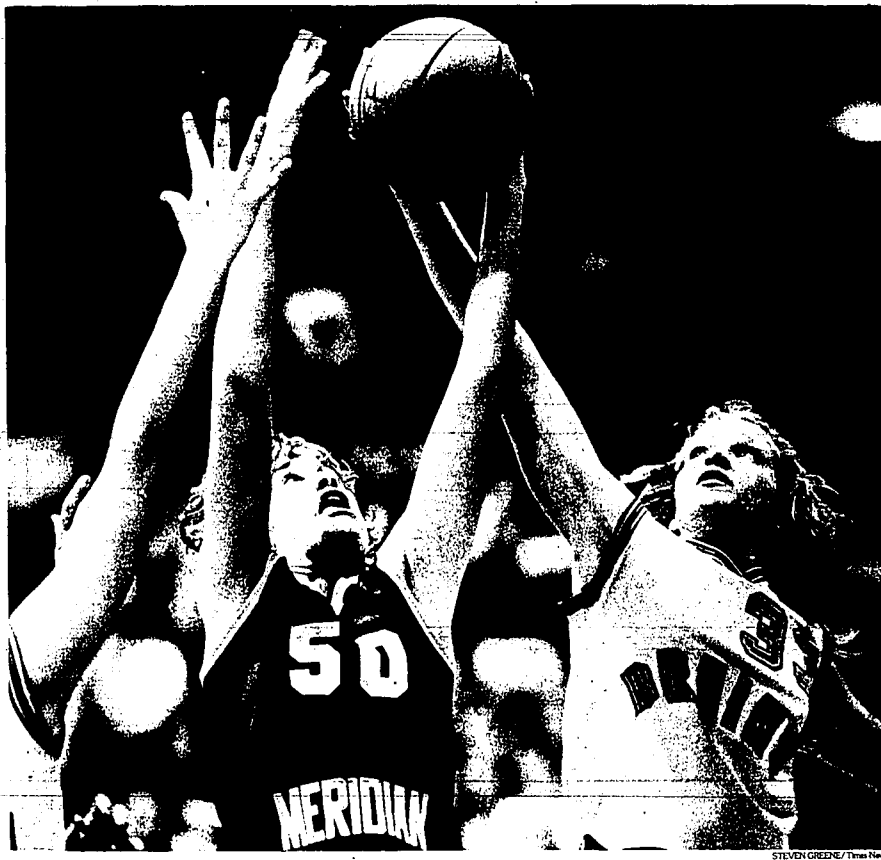

Their tallest man is 6-8 Simon Cottrell at 6-9 with two others, Robert Barton and Graham Fardell at 6-6. The three 6-5 players are Michael Johnson, Karl Luke and Robert Scriceni. Damian Keogh, Tim Morrissey and Mark Kitching at 6-4 and the guards are Eric Dave, Brett Flanigan and William Ward, all 6-0 to 6-2.

It means that CSI will have a height advantage in addition to home court. The Australian team remains in the Intermountain and Pacific Northwest areas through Dec. 6. They will play Snow, Utah Tech and the Weber junior varsity before going north to meet junior varsity teams from Puget Sound, Washington, and Pacific Lutheran plus Tacoma Community College.

"Since we don't know anything about them we'll just go out expecting that we have to play well," Campbell said. "It would kind of help if they played somewhere around here before coming to Twin Falls since it would give us a chance to pick up a line what they like to do." In both international games, CSI will be dealing with international rules, which include the 30-second clock. Among the other noticeable differences fans might see will be the three-step motion. This becomes very obvious on offensive moves that end in layups. In this country only two steps are allowed. With three being legal, some of the big guys can pick a basketball up off the dribble, near the midcourt line and in three steps swoop in for a dunk.

The floor will look different because international rules require an 18-foot three-second lane. The backcourt rule also is waived. An offensive team has 10 seconds to move the ball into forecourt as it would in this country.

But once across, the backcourt restriction is off. This presents some interesting delay games — throwing the ball from under your basket to under the other team and then bringing it back up, etc. That now is limited by the 30-second clock.

Twin Falls senior Lisa Krahn stretches to get an arm on the ball as she battles Meridian's Kari Johnson under the boards.

Shoshone, Hagerman clash for Camas title

FAIRFIELD — Shoshone and Hagerman will square off for the championship of the Camas County Prairie Roundup tonight at 9 p.m., as both won easily in the first round Friday.

After trailing at halftime 19-16, Shoshone outscored Dietrich 28-12 in the second half to get into the championship, while Hagerman's Kristin McFadden led the Pirates to a 38-23 decision over host Camas County.

Shoshone came back in the second half as the Indians dominated the offensive rebounds. For the game, the Indians offensively rebounded Dietrich 18-8.

Shoshone was led in scoring by Lee Ann Osborn's 14 points while Dietrich's Betsy Meyer and Lisa Perron combined for 16. Dietrich's Glenda Fowers took the rebounding title with 12. Shoshone and Dietrich are 2-1 overall for the season.

In the late game, McFadden's 25 points and 16 rebounds was all the Hagerman Pirates needed to overpower Camas County.

The Musers were in the game all of the first half, trailing 18-15, but McFadden and a horrible fourth quarter shooting percentage kept victory away from Camas County. The Musers were one of 17 from the field in the fourth.

"It looks like McFadden had a fantastic game and taking nothing away from her, we just didn't defend her," Camas Coach Ed Blankenship said.

The Musers were led in scoring by senior Barbara Hinkle's 10 point effort. "Believe it or not we were in the game until the fourth quarter when the one for 17 raked it up. Let's just say we were passive and inept," Blankenship said of the game.

Camas was rebounded 37-36 and committed 42 turnovers to Hagerman's 22.

Shoshone 40-20, Hime 10-2, Eden 3-0-4, Osborn 7-0-14, Shimer 6-0-2, Norman 2-0-4, Fitzgerald 1-0-1, Kerner 0-0-0, Wicks 1-0-1, Totals 11-21-44. Fouls 11. Rebounds 42. Turnovers 12.

Hagerman 38-23, Hime 1-0-2, Thors 0-1-1, Hulme 2-0-4, Campa 0-1-1, Bright 1-0-1, Wagner 1-0-2, Totals 15-16-36. Fouls 10. Rebounds 37. Turnovers 22.

Camas County 23 Muller 1-0-2, Hinkle 3-0-10, Young 2-1-3, Huntington 2-0-8, Lerosa 0-0-0, Totals 11-14-22. Fouls 12. Rebounds 38. Turnovers 42.

Foul troubles plagued 6-7 Warrior center Tressa Spaulding

Cold finish dooms Bruins' upset try

Meridian gains 34th straight

By MARY CLEMONS
Times-News sports editor

TWIN FALLS — Scoring just three points in the last six minutes, Twin Falls frittered away a chance to pull the biggest upset of the girls basketball season Friday night.

The Bruins, shaking off two poor previous performances, knotted the score at 30-30 against mighty Meridian with 6:21 left but managed just one point the rest of the game as the Warriors won their 34th consecutive game, 42-31.

Melanie Taylor's rebound shot pulled the Bruins into a 30-30 deadlock, the first time Twin Falls had been tied or ahead since the opening minutes.

With 6-7 center Tressa Spaulding already out of action with five fouls, Meridian's Kelli Kenyon put her team ahead 31-30 with a free throw at the 5:55 mark.

Marsha Dewpe countered with one charity toss with 3:34 left for a 31-31 tie. That's when the Warriors, who made just four of 39 field goal attempts in the second half, ended the Bruins' upset hopes: Kelli Justice hit from the corner and was fouled. She missed the free throw, but Kenyon came up with the rebound. The four-point play put Meridian up 35-31 and the two-time A-1 state champions pulled away.

Twin Falls managed just one of 16 floor efforts in the last quarter and 11 of 25 free throws for the game. "I guess it was a matter of who was worse," Meridian skipper Emery Roy said. "I hope things get better before long."

The Warriors are 2-0, but Roy said his squad suffered through a similar four-plugged win over Mountain Home to start the season. Kenyon and Spaulding are the only two returning starters from last year's squad and Roy said the team must find scoring punch from other players if it is to win a third crown.

Kenyon was the only player in double figures with 15 while Spaulding, limited to less than 15 minutes of playing time, had six. Kari Johnson, a reserve, notched eight.

Twin Falls, now 0-3, showed from the outset they might give the Warriors a good run. Taylor and Lisa Krahn combined for the first four points of the game.

Kenyon responded with two baseline jumpers and a layup in a span of 43 seconds for a 6-4 Meridian lead. Spaulding added a three-point for a 9-4 deficit and the Warriors were on their way to a 11-point lead at 19:01 minute into the second quarter.

The Bruins struck back as Krahn sandwiched two fielders around a jumper by Tony Martinez. The six-point outburst pulled the Bruins to just a 19-14 deficit and Kathy Anderson's layup tied the game at 19:19 in the half before Johnson hit a free throw and field goal for a 25-19 Meridian lead at the half.

Buhl drops Gooding 38-28

GOODING — Buhl caught the Gooding Senators ice cold in the third quarter to build up the lead and move into a 34-29 victory Friday night.

Gooding had taken the lead 20-19 when Kelly Fosco hit a half-court shot with two seconds left in the half.

Buhl shifted to a 1-3 zone and that stymied Gooding's offense. The Senators didn't score the entire quarter. Buhl wasn't a lot warmer as Karl Easton pumped through all six in-dian points.

Buhl was enough as the teams matched baskets through the final eight minutes.

Gooding, which entertains powerful Valley Tuesday night, won the preliminary 34-28 as freshman Karla Skabronski scored 26 points.

Oakley 49, Hansen 48

OAKLEY — Stephanie Hernandez came up with some key buckets and rebounds in the closing three minutes to help the Oakley Hornets slip past the Hansen Huskies 49-48 Friday night.

In avenging a 41-24 loss to Hansen earlier in the season, Oakley put up a solid shooting offensive, getting 10 points while sophomore Cherylynn Severe hit 16 and freshman Sheri Judd added 15.

Hansen led by three points with three minutes left but then saw its scoring punch in the form of Audrene Hogan and Laurie Waldron walried to the sidelines.

FILER — Wendell's Bonnie Traugber scored 13 points and Filer shot 15 percent from the field to give the Trojans a 36-32 win Friday night.

Filer led at the three-quarter mark 23-21, but was outscored 15-9 in the final eight minutes.

The Wildcats were 11-73 from the field and only shot 36 percent from the free throw line.

Filer had many opportunities to score from the line, with Wendell committing 28 fouls.

They had poor shooting and they just out-hustled us. They were just quicker," Filer Coach Bill Heaps said. "We are having a hard time finding the basket."

Wendell jumped out to a 10-5 lead at the end of the first quarter, but Filer closed the gap to 17-15 at the half.

Bruins

Kenyon's jumper from the wing put Meridian up 27-19 to start the second half, but she deposited herself on the bench with four fouls and Twin Falls made its move.

Taylor's short jumper and Dewey's two free throws just three seconds into the final quarter cut the Warriors' cushion to 29-27.

Spalding's free throw made the lead three before she fouled out seconds later.

Getting one of America's tallest female cagers off the floor didn't help the Bruins' poor shooting touch however. The Bruins then hit the game twice before Meridian took control.

Twin Falls missed its last 13 shots. "We had them and then we let panic get to us and we let it slip away," Anderson said. "We kinda lost control and didn't contain them. I'm pleased despite the loss. This was no comparison to our two other games. Tonight we hustled up and down the floor, played good defense and showed some offense. It was good effort."

Twin Falls hosts Bonneville Monday night. The Bruin jumper variety carried a split with a 23-20 triumph in the preliminary game.

Westhead calm about firing

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Paul Westhead, fired as the head coach of the Los Angeles Lakers, Friday chose to remember the good times instead of the way he was dismissed.

Westhead was fired Thursday by team owner Jerry Buss after Laker star Elvin "Magic" Johnson singled the coach out as the reason for his unhappiness and the team's lack of start this season.

The Lakers got off to a slow start this year under Westhead's somewhat complicated offense but had won their last five games before the coach was dismissed.

Westhead was replaced by two men — former assistant Pat Riley, who will officially be the team's head coach, and former NBA great Jerry West, who was appointed interim head coach.

Westhead, a former Laker assistant coach, took over the team in 1979 after head coach Jack McKinley sustained a serious head injury in a bicycle crash.

Westhead was replaced by two men — former assistant Pat Riley, who will officially be the team's head coach, and former NBA great Jerry West, who was appointed interim head coach.

and I hold no grudges against anyone in the Laker organization." Westhead said his only goal was to look for another coaching job, preferably in the NBA. He reportedly was given a four-year, $250,000-per-season contract several months ago and said he was confident the Lakers would honor their contract.

"Jerry Buss had indicated verbally that the agreement would be honored," Westhead said.

But he made it clear he wouldn't be content to just accept the money and take a long vacation, saying he hoped NBA teams would contact him about a possible coaching job.

"I'm disappointed," said Westhead, who compiled a 102-92 record with the Lakers. "But I am a career basketball coach. I deal with basketball. My job is to win games. When you're a career person you do what you do best."

Westhead disagreed with Buss's comment that the Lakers' running game had been slowed down by the newly implemented offense.

"I relentlessly pursued a running game," Westhead said. "I am a fastbreak basketball coach."

'Low life' trio of '80 nearing playoff berths

BY JOE CARNICELLI
UPI Executive Sports Editor

A year ago, the Denver Broncos, the Cincinnati Bengals and the New York Jets were in the lower echelon of the National Football League. This year, with the season entering the home stretch, all three are making big moves toward playoff berths.

Denver, which finished 8-8 a year ago and saw Coach Red Miller fired at the end of the season, is 8-3 and holds a one-game edge over Kansas City in the AFC West. Cincinnati, 6-8 last year, is 8-3 and has a two-game advantage over Pittsburgh in the AFC Central while the Jets, 4-12 a year ago, have bounced back from a 0-3 start to battle Miami for the AFC East lead.

The Broncos and Bengals met Sunday in Cincinnati and one is bound to maintain its playoff advantage. The Jets take on the Dolphins in New York for first place. Miami is 7-3-1 and holds a 1-game edge over the Jets, now 6-1-1 after going 6-1-1 in their last eight games.

The Broncos probably will have to face Cincinnati without starting quarterback Craig Morton, who was leading the NFL in passing before being injured in last week's victory over Tampa Bay. Rookie Coach Dan Reeves has indicated that Steve DeBerg, who finished up last week, will start if Morton's sprained right shoulder does not respond to treatment.

DeBerg was 10-of-15 for 70 yards and one touchdown against Tampa Bay.

"It would be great if the next couple of weeks I could play and Craig got healthy," said DeBerg, who was obtained from San Francisco earlier this year. "He's so valuable and we need him in the playoffs.

"I see my value coming next year after I've been exposed to this system for a year. No matter what I do now, it will be hard to outshine what Craig's been doing. He's having a great year and he's so motivated because this year may be his last."

Cincinnati quarterback Ken Anderson ranks just behind Morton in the passer ratings. Morton has thrown for 2,412 yards and 19 touchdowns while Anderson, apparently healthy after being hobbled by injuries the past few seasons, has thrown for 2,312 yards and 16 TDs. Anderson's six interceptions give him the lowest interception rate among NFL passers.

Bengals Coach Forrest Gregg is regarded as a stern taskmaster and his strict discipline seems to have turned the Bengals around this season.

"We were a team desperately in need of direction and discipline," said linebacker Jim LeClair.

"He is such a positive person himself," added guard Dave Lapham. "I think teams reflect the personality of their head coach and he is a tough, disciplined individual himself."

The Jets' game against Miami will be their biggest in 12 years, since a loss to Kansas City in the 1968 playoffs. They have not approached first place at this stage of a season since then.

The Jets enter the game with a bit of a hex over the Dolphins: New York has won six and tied one game in their last seven meetings. The tie came earlier this season.

"We want everyone to continue to play loose," said Jets Coach Walt Michaels. "When you play tight, you make mistakes. We have to realize that it's just one game. We have four more after it. It's an important game but we can't put too much emphasis on it. When you think one game's more important than the others, that's when you go out the next week and get your cars knocked off."

Michaels will have a problem at quarterback. Richard Todd suffered a broken rib in a victory over New England last week and backup Pat Ryan injured his ankle in the same game. Both worked out lightly during the week and a decision will be made today as to who is healthy enough to start.

In other games Sunday, Washington is at Dallas. Seattle at Kansas City, the New York Giants at Philadelphia, Green Bay at Tampa Bay, Pittsburgh at Cleveland, Oakland at San Diego, New England at Buffalo, San Francisco at Los Angeles, Detroit at Chicago, New Orleans at Houston and St. Louis at Baltimore. Minnesota is at Atlanta Monday night.

Dallas' loss to Detroit last week dropped the Cowboys' game behind Philadelphia in the NFC East. The Cowboys' game of a Washington team that has won four in a row and five of its last six after a horrendous 0-5 start.

Kansas City, looking to make a move in the playoff race, takes on a revitalized Seattle team that has won three of its last four, beating the Jets, Pittsburgh and San Diego.

Philadelphia is a heavy favorite over the Giants, who lost quarterback Phil Simms for the season last week with a separated shoulder. Green Bay has won three in a row to pull to 5-6 while Tampa Bay has fallen to 5-6 by losing four of its last five.

Pittsburgh (6-5) and Cleveland (5-6) will be doing for survival in the AFC Central race and the same is true in the AFC West, with Oakland (5-6) facing San Diego (6-5), which has slumped badly after a good start.

San Francisco, with a 3-game lead in the NFC West over Atlanta and Los Angeles, could just about eliminate the Rams with a victory today.

Hole in the roof

A workman (far right) checks the damage to the fabric roof at the Hubert Humphrey Metrodome in Minneapolis. The huge tear resulted from a collapse of the entire roof Thursday night. The weight of a foot of snow caused the collapse. The dome, costing $55 million, is scheduled to open in April, 1982. It will house the Minnesota Twins and Vikings.

State all-star contest could be revived soon

TWIN FALLS — Idaho's State High School Coaches Association is moving toward several new goals and will present its recommendations for state approval early next month.

Gordon Hogan, Kimberly, a member of the state board, said one major item will have the association sponsoring a state football all-star game. If those plans reach fruition, the game will be played next August in Twin Falls.

However, there are several things that must be overcome, including expenses. Cost of the game is nearly prohibitive since it requires feeding and housing the players for 10 practices plus insurance and other things. Idaho tried an all-star game in Boise two years ago and came up with $60,000 in expenses. It didn't draw enough to cover the costs and was dropped.

Hogan said the association hoped to be able to trim some items from the budget and bring it into the realm of breaking even.

The association also will press recommendations made previously concerning state playoffs but vetoed by the board last year.

The first concerns selection of officials. To hold down costs, the state has been hiring officials from the host district. This has resulted in several teams feeling they've been "homered."

The association suggests that two officials from each of the participating districts be selected or, barring that, a four-man team from a neutral district be assigned.

Coaches will also ask that all state championship games be played on neutral sites.
Hogan noted Hometown of the state A-3 Championship and didn't leave the home field in three playoff games. He said coaches felt this, along with host district officials, represented too great an advantage for one team.
A recommendation from the third (Boise) district will ask the state to outlaw use of any public school facilities for any type of athletic off-season programs over the final two weeks of July.

Standing, Kiesig tie for women's lead

TWIN FALLS — Five women bowlers finished within a pin of each other last week in a tight race for the high game honors in The Times-News Bowling Honor Roll.
Reve Standing and Vickie Kiesig tied for the honor a 223 while Kathy Sherman, Connie Patterson and Sam Wojcik were each one pin back at 222.
The competition for the women's high series was just the opposite, a blow out. Standing rolled a 629 series in the So-Journers League for a 42-pin victory over Sherman.

On the men's side, Rick Harrison and Art Brown both topped the 250 mark. Harrison took the top high game spot with a 266 in Sh-Boom League play while Brown notched a 256 in the Pintrippers League.
Mike Clark of the Moonshiners League rolled a 671 series to grab top series honors while Dennis Shafer was second with a 653 in Valley League action.

Al Phillips led the senior citizens' high-game charts-with-games-of-222 and 213 while also taking the series honor with a 626.
Michael Ward of the Bruin Prep League, was the only youth with a game over 200 as she rolled a 210. Cindy Fry led the youth high series with a 523 score in the Bruin Prep League.

Norman Vincent Peale still fights the prophets of doom

By BARBARA KANTROWITZ
Knight-Ridder Newspapers

NEW YORK — It is Sunday morning. In other parts of the city, people are just waking up, or trudging home with thick copies of the Sunday newspaper, or heading for brunch in restaurants filled with hanging plants and conversation.

The Rev. Norman Vincent Peale is at the pulpit of the Marble Collegiate Church on lower Fifth Avenue doing what he has done almost every Sunday for half a century. He is smiling despite the prophets of doom, a preacher of simple virtues in a world that seems to get more complicated every second.

The pews are packed with people who have come to hear his message. People who have read his book, "The Power of Positive Thinking," or one of the 27 other inspirational volumes — the latest book is "Dynamic Imaging" — that have made him one of the best-selling religious authors of all time. People who have read his newspaper column or heard his radio programs or seen him on television. People who have listened to him speak at sales conferences and conventions. They have come to hear The Word. And he gives it to them.

"Anybody in his right mind would like to have joy of that quality and character. And let me say: 'You've come to the right place and at the right time.'"

He stands in front of a deep, red-velvet curtain. Behind him, sits the choir, dressed in gowns of slightly paler red. An American flag is hung at one side. An unannounced bright light streams down from the balcony and illuminates the platform where Peale is speaking. It is for the television cameras that beam this message all over the country. His wife of 51 years, Ruth Stafford Peale, sits nearby.

Over the years, Peale, 83, has had his share of controversy and criticism. He has been accused of being the minister of materialism, the theological equivalent of Dan Carnegie. But he has endured because he knows how to get his message across. The times may have changed, but his style, his wife says, has stayed the same. It is a mixture of folksy anecdotes, Biblical references and a precise sense of timing.

He speaks without notes. Occasionally, he pulls a newspaper clipping or a letter out of his pocket to tell a story. Short, somewhat chubby and wearing wire-rimmed glasses, he is everybody's favorite relative, a kindly grandfather who knows how to live up a family gathering.

After the sermon is over, he introduces 75 new church members. He smiles as he greets each one.

Peale gave his first sermon in the early 1920s. He was a young seminary student then, a Midwestern minister's son who had had one thought he would be a reporter.

"The first sermon I ever gave was in Hancock, N.H., in the Congregational Church there, on a cold January day. And it was the kind of church where they had a big stove in the middle and a big pipe that went up, and those who sat near the stove were warm, maybe too warm. Those who sat back further were freezing to death."

"I talked for exactly eight minutes. That's all the material I had, and I closed it out by having them sing a couple of hymns and so forth. But I think since half of them were roaring and the other half was freezing, it didn't make any difference. That church is still there. I drive by it sometimes."

When he came to the Marble Collegiate Church in 1932, church attendance was down, the country was in the midst of the Depression and he invented a number of new techniques to draw people in.

In 1937, Peale and a psychiatrist, Dr. Smiley Blanton, founded the American Foundation for Religion and Psychiatry in the church basement to help deal with the emotional problems of the members of the congregation. The ideas he developed there later became the basis for "The Power of Positive Thinking."

In 1940, he and his wife started the Foundation for Christian Living in Pawling, N.Y., the upstate town where they have their summer home. The foundation, which employs about 125 people, distributes copies of his sermons and provides a number of other services, including Dial-A-Prayer.

He and his wife also put out a monthly magazine, Guideposts, which has a circulation of more than 3.5 million. He also has made a point of speaking to businessmen at sales conventions in an effort, he says, to draw in people who would not ordinarily go to church.

But the most important ingredient in his success has always been his style.

"I think if you gave 15 minutes of closely argumentative, analytical literary thought, the only people who would hang in there with you would be the professors of English literature or some Biblical theologian, and there aren't too many of them."

"The people who come into that church are just average, ordinary people, the finest people God ever made. They're all children grown up, and everybody likes a story."

When Peale wrote "The Power of Positive Thinking" in 1952, he became — almost immediately — a household name. The book sold two million copies in the first few years and was on the best-seller list for three years.

Although the people who bought it seemed to like it, there were critics who thought it was encouraging materialism. Instead of spirituality, and implying that faith could bring riches.

It is a criticism that still bothers Peale.

Buhl workshop will teach the meaning of Christmas

BUHL — A four-week workshop on how to simplify Christmas will begin this Sunday at 9:45 a.m. at the United Presbyterian Church in Buhl.

Ruth Perkins, who will lead the evaluation and discussion series, says that most people look upon the Christmas season with a mixture of joyful anticipation and dread. "Some of us have the vague feeling that we've lost sight of what we are celebrating. And we all brace ourselves for the extra expenses and onslaught of Christmas commercialism," she said.

The study material that will used to simplify Christmas is entitled "Unplug the Christmas Machine." The material, used in more than 30 cities around the country, by seven different denominations since 1978, was developed for an adult education group at an Oregon college, she said.

Perkins will begin the session by having participants evaluate what is important about Christmas and describing those celebrations that they "remember with joy."

The four consecutive Sunday morning sessions are open to the public.

Give sensible signals

South finds himself in an unusual six spade contract because North has overbid to get there. West opens the ace of clubs. East plays the deuce and South drops his king.

West looks at the deuce of diamonds and leads his deuce of diamonds. Dummy's nine forces East's jack. South takes his king, draws trumps, leads his seven of diamonds, finessees dummy's 10 and gets to discard a heart on the 10 diamond.

West is mad at East. He wants to know why East used the deuce of clubs as a suit preference signal for a diamond shift. Of course, East's play of the deuce was nothing more than a normal play of the low card to tell West that East had no interest in a club continuation.

But even if East and West were playing some silly system in which every card was a suit preference there was no reason for West to think of a diamond.

If East held that king he was being kind to West. It is even more important to realize that every play is a signal.
