Carol Conover outlines her characters with black tempera paint before filling in the colors

The holiday touch

Window-painting pleasure also profitable for Conovers

By BOB FREUND
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Roly-poly snowmen are sking down the display windows at Twin Falls stores this time of year.

Elves dance among the snowflakes. And ever-jolly Santa Claus totes a bulging sack of gifts for his annual drop down the chimney.

The longer you look at these happy Christmas caricatures, the more you suspect that many belong to the same jovial family. They seem to share a common personality.

Meet Ray and Carol Conover. They've brushed the personalities into Christmas figures on Twin Falls store windows for the past five years. This year alone, the Conovers have painted Santas and elves on close to 200 windows at 67 Twin Falls and Jerome shops.

Mrs. Conover, 36, a homemaker and part-time art teacher, has been window-painting for pleasure since her childhood. Her husband, 39, runs Conover Construction Co. But during the holiday season, their pleasure also becomes profit.

"I just take off four or five weeks every year and we paint," he says.

Their big, bold characters have grown into a holiday business for them — and a holiday stop for shoppers.

Some retailers contact them to arrange for a window of cheer. But the holiday painting season actually begins in late October, when the Conovers show their portfolio to merchants and schedule orders. They begin painting the week before Thanksgiving.

Some retailers merely want a reminder of the season, like the sking snowman at Miracle Water and Servisoff, off Blue Lakes Boulevard in Twin Falls.

"We just thought it would decorate the place up a bit," says owner Lynn Pettigall. It's a visual Christmas present for his patrons — and passers-by, he says.

"Most people want a Santa or snowman or an elf," Mrs. Conover says.

Others want paintings that approach murals. Some ask for a specific scene or for a painting that hints at what's inside the store, the Conovers say.

For instance, at the Donut House, off Blue Lakes Boulevard North, elves are at work stirring hot chocolate and icing the donuts, while Mrs. Santa Claus carries them to the table.

The cost ranges from $25 up to $250 for an elaborate, multi-window spread. It earns the Conovers some substantial Christmas cash, they say.

But whatever the cost, the merchants buy the Conovers' touch. The characters are big and bold; the colors are bright.

The style is "just lots of fun and cartooning," Mrs. Conover says. "We are trying to entertain the children as much as the business."

A twist of humor often emerges from their brushes. A cheery little critter hitches a ride on the snowman's

U.S. now prime terrorist target

By SEAN MCCORMALLY

WASHINGTON — Experts offered a composite picture Sunday of the terrorists threatening the United States — publicly-hungry thugs bent on spreading fear and disruption, some following orders from the Kremlin.

But FBI Director William Webster, while acknowledging "a rising concern" about terrorism, said the worry "outdistances the actual statistics."

"The United States is the No. 1 target" of terrorism worldwide, said Sen. Jeremiah Denton, R-Ala., chairman of the Senate Judiciary security and terrorism subcommittee. He pointed to Moscow as the primary funder of terrorism.

New security measures imposed in Washington — including concrete barricades at the White House — have generated a national debate over the nature of the terrorist threat within the United States. The heightened security was imposed in response to unspecified threats after bombings in the Middle East that killed 249 U.S. servicemen in Beirut and damaged the U.S. Embassy in Kuwait.

"We've had 31 (terrorist) incidents this year, compared to 51 or 52 last year; six deaths compared to 28;

IRA declares London bombing not authorized

LONDON (UPI) — The outlawed Irish Republican Army claimed responsibility Sunday for the car bomb outside Harrods department store that killed five people, including three Americans, and wounded 49 others.

But Scotland Yard denounced an IRA statement claiming it gave warning of the Saturday bomb blast to a charity group. Police officials said it was "not a warning, it was an invitation to death," because it did not identify the car and gave false information of its location.

In a rare conciliatory statement issued in Dublin, the IRA said the bombing had been carried out by its members, but without authorization by its army council.

The Irish Republican Army, the statement said.

It said the IRA "regretted" the "civilian casualties" and would take steps to ensure that such operations would not be repeated.

One victim was Kenneth Salvesen, 28, an American citizen living in London, a spokesman for Scotland Yard said. The spokesman said he did not know Salvesen's home town in the United States or why he was in the British capital.

Cmdr. William Huckleberry, head of Scotland Yard's C-13 anti-terrorist squad, said Saturday's bomb consisted of 25 pounds of 40-pound explosive, and was packed inside an old 1972 Blue Austin GT-1300 parked outside Harrods of the heaviest shopping day of the Christmas season.

in the United States are connected with "our activity in the Caribbean" — principally Puerto Rico.

Americans consider selves healthy but care system ill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — About 12 percent of Americans have trouble obtaining adequate health care and about 30 percent consider the country's health care system "sick," a private foundation reported Sunday.

At the same time, most Americans consider themselves healthy and say they are satisfied with their own doctors' hospitals, the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation said in its "Updated Report on Access to Health Care for the American People."

The report, based on a 1982 survey of 6,617 Americans by Louis Harris and Associates, found "strong feelings among a significant minority of Americans (about 30 percent) that the health care system is in such bad shape that it should be completely rebuilt."

The belief that "the health care system itself is 'sick'" is common even among those who are happy with their own medical treatment, the foundation said.

Even though the survey found access to basic medical care had improved since a previous study in 1976, it also reported some Americans still go without adequate treatment.

About 28 million Americans, or 12 percent of the total population, lack health insurance and have no regular source of medical care because they cannot afford it or they do not know where to go to obtain treatment, the report said.

"The burden falls disproportionately on blacks and Hispanics, as well as a growing class of have-nots — the uninsured," said Robert Blendon, senior vice president of the foundation.

About 20 percent of the country's Hispanic adults and 45 percent of blacks fall into the "medically disadvantaged" category, along with all of those who lack medical insurance, the report said. The same category also includes about 24 percent of the nation's poor, 33 percent of the unemployed and 6.2 percent of those over age 65.

However, the survey found that rural Americans are no longer at a disadvantage in obtaining medical care.

The report also found blacks more dissatisfied with the health care system than any other ethnic group. Black families are less likely than whites to obtain treatment when it is needed and less likely to consider themselves healthy, the report said.

The report also found a significant increase in rates of physician visits and hospital admissions for low-income Americans since Medicare and Medicaid began in the 1960s.

And it said more than 6.5 million families, or 9 percent of the total, have at least one member with a serious illness. Of that number, nearly one-quarter say the illness presents a major family financial problem.

Property taxes due on Tuesday

TWIN FALLS — This Tuesday will be the last day for Magic Valley-area residents to pay the first installment of their 1983 property and mobile-home taxes, and the full amount of their personal property taxes.

Payments not made to the county treasurer by 5 p.m. Tuesday, or which are not postmarked by midnight of that day, will result in delinquent tax accounts.

Property owners whose accounts become delinquent can expect to pay a 2 percent penalty, plus a 12 percent interest charge.

Twin Falls County Treasurer Juanita Stetler says tax collections in Twin Falls County have been slow so far this year.

The county expects to collect $11.62 million in real property taxes for itself and the cities and special taxing districts contained in it. That is $1 million more than last year, Stetler says.

So far, the county has collected about the same amount of money as it had at this time last year. But she says between $3 million and $4 million still is outstanding.

The expiring in Twin Falls County has been that two-thirds of yearly collections occur during the first installment period, she says.

Jerome County Treasurer Elsie Childers says that payments in that county are coming in well. Jerome County expects to collect a total of a little more than $5.5 million this year, she says.

Idaho law requires residents who miss paying the first installment of mobile-home taxes to pay the full amount, plus penalties; to the county sheriff on a distraint, or seizure, warrant.

Personal property taxes — assessed on items such as farm machinery and business equipment — must be paid in one installment. They also must be paid to the sheriff's department when they are delinquent, Stetler says.

State law says that ignorance of tax bills is no reason for failing to pay them. In particular, this law applies when taxpayers claim they have not received a tax notice, Stetler says.

American warships fire at Syrian gunners

By DANIELA IACONO
United Press International

BEIRUT, Lebanon — American warships slammed 60 shells into the mountains near Beirut Sunday in an effort to wipe out Syrian anti-aircraft gunners who moments earlier fired at U.S. reconnaissance flights.

To the north, Israeli gunboats shelled Palestinian targets in Tripoli and Israel again refused to guarantee it would let Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat and his men leave Tripoli in an evacuation starting today or Tuesday.

In the southern Lebanese port of Sidon, a guerrilla hurried as grenades at an Israeli military convoy, killing one Lebanese civilian and wounding two Israeli soldiers, the Israeli military command said.

The bombardment by two ships of America's Sixth Fleet marked the third time in five days the U.S. Navy has shelled positions held by Syrian troops or Syrian-backed militiamen in the mountains near Beirut.

Lebanese security officials said the shells hit Syrian positions in the Mcheyeh valley, once a Lebanese army training ground, and nearby Dihar al Balidar. There were no detailed reports on any damage.

"U.S. Navy ships off Lebanon today fired 60 rounds of 5-inch shells against anti-aircraft gun emplacements which had fired on U.S. Navy aircraft flying a tactical air mission over Lebanon," said Maj. Dennis Brooks, a U.S. Marine spokesman.

He said the guided missile cruiser USS Triconderoga and the guided missile destroyer USS Tattnall opened up after the crews of a number of F-14 Tomcats reported being attacked.

A Syrian military statement said Syrian gunners fired at the F-14s after they flew over their positions in the Metn mountains. It said the Americans fired back immediately.

"(The F-14s) were forced to return toward the sea, after falling to carry on their mission," the statement said.

Brooks said the planes from the aircraft carrier USS Independence "were on routine air reconnaissance at the time and returned safely to the carrier."

The shelling coincided with talks in Damascus between Lebanese Foreign Minister Elie Sami and his Saudi and Syrian counterparts on the withdrawal of foreign troops from Lebanon.

"The next meeting of the three foreign ministers of Syria, Lebanon and Saudi Arabia will be in Riyadh (Saudi Arabia) at the beginning of next month," Beirut radio said, dashing hopes for a speedy resumption of full talks between Lebanon's warring factions.

The last full meeting of Lebanese factional leaders in October in Geneva broke down without conclusive results on Lebanon's political future.

The naval shelling was part of a new policy of immediate retaliation for attacks on U.S. reconnaissance flights — U.S. officials say the flights help ensure the safety of the 1,600 Marines serving in Lebanon's multinational peace-keeping force.

In the past, Israeli gunboats hammered guerrilla targets in Tripoli as Arafat, the embattled chairman of the Palestine Liberation Organization, prepared to leave along with some 4,000 fighters.

Idahoan now Rhodes scholar

CLAREMONT, Calif. (UPI) — Rhodes Scholarships were awarded Sunday to 52 American college students. Among the winners was Jonathan Hay of Nampa, Idaho, a student at Williams College. Like other recipients, he will begin two to three years of study at Oxford University in England next October.

Harvard led all universities with seven Rhodes scholars, followed by Yale and Stanford with three each, while Princeton, Tulane and Columbia had two each. Nine winners have served as legislative interns, four black, 13 have participated in varsity sports, three are student body presidents, an equal number are accomplished musicians and others have worked in inner cities and developing nations. Eight winners were women.

Jet crash-lands, injures 27

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (UPI) — A Malaysian Airlines jumbo jet with 247 people aboard crash-landed in a swampy area near Subang Airport in a rainstorm Sunday night, injuring 27 people. The Department of Civil Aviation said in a statement that the plane crashed-landed in monsoon rains in a flat swampy area about 2,000 yards from the Subang Airport's runway, which is 18 miles from Kuala Lumpur, officials said.

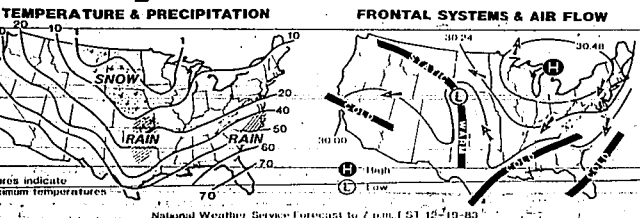

Rumsfeld, Egypt's chief meet

CAIRO, Egypt (UPI) — President Hosni Mubarak met with President Reagan's Middle East envoy Sunday and said American explanations about the U.S.-Israeli strategic cooperation pact were "convincing to a certain extent." Mubarak, who once called the U.S.-Israeli agreement "a disaster," met with U.S. envoy Donald Rumsfeld for two hours at the Kubbeh Republican Palace shortly after the American arrived from Beirut.

Detroit apartment fire kills 6

DETROIT (UPI) — A fire raged through an apartment house for elderly and handicapped people Sunday, gutting the 40-unit building and killing at least six people. Blister cold postponed the search for other victims. The fire sent the roof collapsing through all three floors, and left only portions of the walls standing.

Today's weather

Fog, clouds, snow — and colder, too

Twin Falls, Burley-Rupert, Jerome: Gooding areas: Patched fog today and Tuesday. Otherwise partly cloudy early today, then clouds and chance of snow increasing late in the day and Tuesday. Highs in the 20s both days. Lows tonight 5 to 15 degrees. Camas Prairie, Halley, Wood River, Valley: Partly cloudy early today, becoming cloudy with a chance of snow late today and Tuesday. Highs 15 to 22 both days. Lows tonight 5 above zero to 15 below. Northern Nevada and Utah: Mostly cloudy through Tuesday over Utah with scattered snow at times. Colder tonight and Tuesday: Highs 25 to 35 today and 20 to 30 Tuesday. Lows 5 to 20 tonight. Period of light snow over Nevada through Tuesday. Colder with highs in the 30s today and in the 20s Tuesday. Lows tonight 15 to 25. Synops: A weak storm system moving southward out of British Columbia brought light snow to Idaho on Sunday. Cold temperatures will persist as a steady westerly flow carries Arctic air across the Pacific Northwest. On Sunday, light snow moved into the Magic Valley about midmorning. Snow fell in the north during Saturday night, spreading into the central and southeastern sections on Sunday. New accumulations amounted to less than an inch at most places and water equivalents were less than 10 inch. The snow ended during Sunday night as the storm moved eastward. However, a traveler's advisory was issued warning of hazardous driving conditions, as wet roads at lower elevations, frost and snow above on mountain roads. The advisories did not include the Panhandle, where the snow ended Sunday afternoon. A traveler's advisory warning of snow-covered roads and locally poor visibility at higher elevations was issued for northeastern Nevada Sunday afternoon. Snow was expected to continue across Elko County today. Mid-afternoon temperatures Sunday ranged from 8 above zero at Idaho Falls to 27 at Boise and Mountain Home. The state's warmest reading was 30 degrees at Boise and Lewiston. Stanley's 23 below zero was the coldest morning low, as minimum readings ranged up to the 20s in western Idaho. The extended forecast for the Magic Valley and southern Idaho calls for Wednesday through Friday to be cold with snow likely late Thursday and into Friday, but otherwise dry. Highs will range from 15 to 25, with lows zero to 10 above in the west and from 15 below zero to near zero in the east. Elsewhere in the nation Sunday, the warmest reading reported was 81 degrees at Key West, Fla., and the coldest was 36 below zero at International Falls, Minn.

Nakasono party loses ground

TOKYO (UPI) — Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasono's pro-American ruling party failed to gain majority in national elections Sunday, with three Cabinet members losing their seats in the lower house of Parliament. With an 511 seats decided in unofficial returns, the Liberal Democratic Party held 259 seats; a loss of 34 seats from its pre-election strength in the chamber and six seats short of a simple majority of 256 seats.

The Socialist Party, Nakasono's main political opposition, increased five seats to 112 and the Komei-to (Clean Government Party), backed by a neo-Buddhist organization, had 58, an increase of 25 seats. The moderate Democratic-Socialist Party won 38 seats, an increase of six seats and the Communist Party lost three seats to 26. Minor parties took 11 seats and 16 independents, including eight pro-LDP candidates, were returned.

U.S., Bonn ink missile pact

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Nuclear missiles now in service in West Germany will be replaced by anti-aircraft missiles with conventional warheads under a new U.S. agreement with Bonn, it was reported Sunday. The New York Times reported the text of the U.S. agreement with Bonn signed Dec. 6 that would replace Nike Hercules nuclear missiles with 2,560 long-range Patriot anti-aircraft missile. As part of its defense of West German and U.S. air bases, the European nation will acquire 850 short-range Roland anti-aircraft missiles, a surface-to-air missile that travels at supersonic speeds up to a height of 18,000 feet with a range of 4 miles.

Salvadoran raps U.S. stance

A far-right Salvadoran leader, frequently linked to death squads, Sunday lashed out at "every form of terrorism" but criticized the United States' efforts to bring about a crackdown against the paramilitary groups it says are run by army officials. "We reject energetically the use of violence, kidnapping, murder, blackmail and every form of terrorism," Roberto d'Aubuisson said in a speech following his nomination as presidential candidate for the far-right National Republican Alliance, or ARENA party. D'Aubuisson, who is president of the 40-member Constituent Assembly, named assembly Vice President Hugo Barrera as his running mate.

Nation's midsection shivers in temperatures below zero

By LINDA WOLOHAN, United Press International

Temperatures plummeted past the 20-below-zero mark in the Midwest Sunday, shattering century-old cold records.

New York State was hit by a "classic" storm that dropped 4 feet of snow.

At least eight deaths have been blamed on the latest snow and cold — two each in Utah, Montana and Louisiana and one each in Mississippi and Iowa.

An overnight snowstorm off Lake Ontario dumped up to 4 feet of snow on Plattsburgh, N.Y., but police said plows kept up with the snowfall and storm-hardened residents took the conditions in stride.

The coldest spot in the country Sunday was International Falls, Minn., where the mercury set a record low of 38 below zero. Havre, Mont., got down to 34 below zero. The wind chill factor hit 60 below in parts of North Dakota.

Low-temperature records went crashing across Iowa Sunday, and National Weather Service forecasters predicted the worst may be yet to come. Atlantic, Iowa, recorded a low of 28 below zero Sunday, breaking an 1896 record. Mason City plunged to 25 below and Waterloo and Fort Dodge dipped to 20 below.

The temperature at Chicago's O'Hare International Airport dropped to minus 10 degrees, breaking a record set in 1844. A 99-year-old record low was broken in Springfield, Ill., Sunday night when the temperature fell to 10 below, with the mercury still headed downward.

Cold-weather records fell across Minnesota, where about 5,000 Marines from Camp Ripley, N.C., and Norfolk, Va., shivered through winter training exercises at Camp Ripley.

Lt. Gerry Knowles, Jacksonville, N.C., said none of the Marines suffered severe frostbite, despite camping out in the 30-below temperatures.

"A couple of Marines had mild hypothermia but there were no major injuries," Knowles said. "We've never been out in this cold. Most of us had never been out in this cold."

La Crosse, Wis., got down to 25 below zero, with 18 below recorded at Green Bay — both records for the date. The Wisconsin Automobile Association reported 1,200 calls for service during the day as the bitter cold stalled cars.

The bitter cold swept across Missouri, where daytime wind chills hit 30 below. The temperature hovered around zero in Kansas City, Mo., and light snow fell in St. Louis, where the wind chill hit 10 below.

The American Automobile Association in Kansas reported about 300 calls for assistance by late Sunday afternoon, as the frigid temperatures drained car batteries.

The southern Plains were not much warmer, with temperatures venturing only into the teens over western and northern Texas Sunday night.

But not before the seven Conover children, ages 1 to 14, see their parents' work. It's part of the family's Christmas celebration."

"We've had no Midwest terrorism incidents in the United States this year," the FBI chief said, "and I think that's reasonably significant."

Denton, on CBS' "Face the Nation," cast the issue in the terms of global struggle President Reagan often uses.

"The senator said he sees a pattern of terrorism since the late 1960s that is 'cutting off our access to materials, cutting off our access to trade.'"

"For example, the Soviet Union has told Cuba that whatever she, Cuba, does in Latin America is to have — and this is a direct order — as its primary object the destabilization of the United States," Denton said. "The United States is the No. 1 target."

"There are independent terrorist groups operating," he said. "But the Soviet Union has made prospect about their support for terrorism — black and red — and do direct some very much specifically against our interests."

Also appearing on the CBS program were Mayor Ed Koch of New York and Daryl Gates, Los Angeles chief of police.

Koch said his city is "better protected" against terrorism than any other in the world, thanks to close cooperation between his police and the FBI, but added, "No city is impervious."

Noting there have been just three bomb incidents in his city this year, compared to a dozen last year, Koch offered a possible reason — "Terrorist groups don't want to alienate their supporters at the United Nations by engaging in terrorism here."

The mayor said bluntly that anyone who attacks police or the public is "nothing but a thug."

Recalling the 1972 Black September attack against Israeli athletes at the Munich Olympics, Gates — whose city is the site of the 1984 Summer Olympics — declined to speculate on what might be "the major threat, the major target" during the games. But he said the threat is real.

Firemen help woman from aerial ladder

Flash fire kills resident of hotel

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A five-alarm fire swept through a modern midtown hotel Sunday, sending dozens of guests scrambling into the street, blowing out windows and gutting eight floors.

One woman was killed and 37 other people injured. The blaze, which was under investigation, cleared the modern, 400-room hotel of 180 guests and about 50 staff members at 9 a.m. MDT Sunday, Fire Chief Gerald Cullen said.

Traffic on the busy avenue in front of the hotel was halted for four hours, as 160 firefighters battled the blaze. At least 10 of them were injured in the process.

The firefighters took two and a half hours to control the conflagration, rescuing guests with aerial ladders. They resuscitated one woman, unconscious in her eighth floor room, and dragged her downstairs to safety, Cullen said.

'Evil I' damaged by blaze on ship

NEW YORK (UPI) — A fire broke out aboard the former Navy aircraft carrier USS Intrepid Sunday at its permanent home on the Hudson River, forcing the evacuation of everyone on board, fire officials said.

There were no reports of injuries. The one-alarm blaze aboard the vessel that now serves as a Sea-Air-Space Museum began at 11:02 a.m. MST and was under control by 11:34 a.m., said Robert Asch, a fire department spokesman.

Drinking age threats aren't needed: Dole

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Transportation Secretary Elizabeth Dole said Sunday it is not necessary to threaten states with punishment for refusing to raise the drinking age to 21 because states already are moving "in that direction."

Mrs. Dole, appearing on NBC's "Meet the Press," also said deregulation of transportation industries and a lighter department budget would not affect consumer safety.

The Reagan administration is committed to safety, she said, citing a recent rise of automobile recalls and the decertification last week of Air Illinois airlines.

In a report to President Reagan last week, the Presidential Commission on Drunk Driving said a nationwide drinking age of 21 should be established on a state-by-state basis. If states refuse to do so, the panel said they should be denied federal highway construction aid.

Reagan has rejected the idea of such penalties as coercive federal meddling in state affairs.

Nineteen states have laws setting the drinking age at 21 for all alcoholic beverages, Mrs. Dole said. "The momentum is in that direction."

"We should let the states have an opportunity to put these laws in place. If they design it themselves, I think there is more of an effort for enforcement and it's more effective," she said.

Rep. Michael Barnes, D-Md., a member of the commission, said Sunday on Cable News Network's "Newsmaker Sunday" program he "regretted tremendously" the president's stand "to sort of undercut his own commission."

"Every state that has raised the drinking age from 18 to 21 has experienced immediately a big drop in deaths of young people," Barnes said.

The commission said 25,000 U.S. drivers die each year because of "irresponsible use of alcohol."

Mrs. Dole acknowledged traffic fatalities could be cut by 50 percent if drunken drivers were eliminated from highways and all drivers used seat belts.

She also said the 15-year-old safety-airbag controversy would be resolved by spring.

Mrs. Dole said she has "tried to provide market incentives for the airbag" by contracting a new Mexico company to supply the bags in police cars in about six states and that the General Services Administration will test 5,000 cars with airbags.

AN OPEN LETTER TO FOSTER-MARSHALL CUSTOMERS

If you have had your investment account with Foster and Marshall, you're aware that they have closed their Twin Falls Office.

You have been given the choice of transferring your account to Boise or another city. However, you have another alternative, keep your investments in Twin Falls thru First Affiliated Securities, Inc.

First Affiliated Securities is a nationwide brokerage firm, tenth in size, with 104 offices. We are a major division of American First Corporation, a publicly owned financial services firm with assets of over 100 million dollars.

Of course, you can transfer your account to other stock brokers in Twin Falls and you'll probably be solicited to do so. But consider our strength, depth of organization, diversity of services, and most important the quality of your individual investment advisor and we think you'll agree that these benefits are more meaningful to your valued savings than they may be with a newer organization of less substantial resources, less experience, and relatively inexperienced personnel.

First Affiliated Securities has been in Twin Falls since 1978. Our office is in the First Interstate Bank Building at Main and Shoshone. However, more important to you are our financial planning skills; for example, our Registered Principal in Twin Falls is also a Certified Financial Planner (one of five in Idaho and the only one in Twin Falls) and a Registered Investment Advisor with the Securities and Exchange Commission. Therefore, our Twin Falls office offers you many more benefits than just a stock broker. In fact, if you've been a client of Foster Marshall or any other broker, you've tried a stock broker, now we invite you to move up and benefit from the rewards of associating with a Certified Financial Planner — you'll be glad you did.

We invite you to phone or complete the form below and send it to our office. We'll see to it that you have a Certified Financial Planner.

Move mail by air, not postal chief

The U.S. Postal Service may be accustomed to being kicked around by an unsympathetic public over high costs and erratic service, but the decision of Postmaster General William Bolger to lease an executive jet for $47,000 a month is worth every bit of the criticism it is likely to get.

Bolger offers the standard reasons why he needs a $1.7 million jet at his disposal: he flies a lot and can't get to small cities; he wastes time in airports waiting for commercial flights; and he and other Postal Service officials can schedule their time more efficiently.

None of these reasons wash. What we have here is a government official so pumped up with his own self-importance that he thinks he needs to fly around the United States at whim, in what amounts to a personal jet.

Sadly, he's not alone. Military planes routinely fly government officials and congressmen hither and yon, and the Federal Aviation Administration maintains four jets, like the one Bolger is using, for use by federal officials.

Why can't Bolger at least use one of those? His explanation is that they're tied-up and it isn't convenient. Well, tough. How about him rescheduling? Naw, that would soak up his valuable executive time.

Given the mess the Postal Service has been in in recent years and the outrageous salaries it pays — more than $10 an hour to start for a beginning letter-sorter — we think Bolger would do better to stick around Washington more anyway, and when he has to, fly commercial coach just like the rest of us.

To be sure, he would have to hunker down with the people out there, but guess, maybe he'd learn something riding in the cramped seat of a three-abreast coach flight.

We'd recommend that he simply introduce himself to his seatmate as someone who "works in government" and that he ask the person next to him to evaluate the postal service in America. Bet he'd get an earful.

Bolger can avoid all of this by riding in a private Postal Service jet, but the cost of $47,000 a month will come out of your hide when the rates go up. Think of that the next time you send an "airmail" letter.

Presence in Lebanon totally political

WASHINGTON — After a generation in public office, one develops a very thick skin, or at least a relaxed tolerance, for the official statements of our elected leaders.

But once in a while, some utterance jabs through that thick skin and exceeds the limits of tolerance. At a short press conference in which he set forth two possible conditions under which U.S. Marines could be withdrawn from Lebanon, President Reagan said, "No decision that I am going to make on anything of this kind is related to the election, or the conventions, or anything political."

Oh, come now. That just plain exceeds the bounds of credibility. Our presence in Lebanon is rooted in politics, saturated with politics. Our eventual withdrawal from Lebanon will be, too.

"Politics," in a democracy, is not a dirty word. It is the system by which the will of the majority is transformed into the actions of the government.

It does not take an election or a convention to tell the president or any other elected official what the will of the majority is. There are more polls than they want to read, more letters and telegrams than they want to answer.

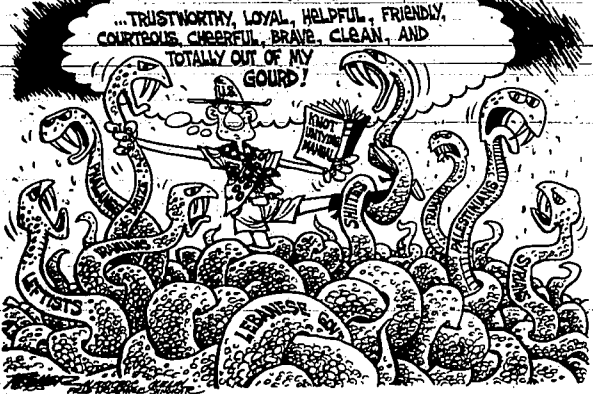

There has been a change in the mood of the nation as the public saw a change in the weather when a cold front passed through. Newspapers that praised the U.S. action when the Marines went in now are saying we must find a respectable way to get them out. Columnists who said the Marines' presence was helpful now are saying it is harmful. Polls show a majority of the people of the United States want the Marines out.

Anyone who believes that our leaders are not swayed by this has never understood the system; and when the president says he will not be, he is not credible.

Other leaders are already responding to the voice of the people. On Wednesday, Reps. Lee Hamilton, D-Ind., and Les Aspin, D-Wis., released a letter telling the president he had oversteered our state in Lebanon and had not pushed the Gemayel government hard enough to compromise with other factions.

Hamilton and Aspin are not knee-jerk liberals. They were leaders in the moderate faction that supported the president when Congress approved an 18-month stay for the Marines. Now they are putting distance between that vote and the current mood.

Politics permeates the day-to-day conduct of U.S. operations in Lebanon. When Syrian anti-aircraft batteries fired at U.S. reconnaissance planes, we launched an air strike against them and lost two planes. One pilot was killed and another captured. It was promptly leaked in Washington that the president had not wanted the air strike, but had wanted to use the 16-inch guns of the battleship New Jersey.

Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger, in an endearing display of innocence, explained the use of the planes by saying they were more accurate. "Sometimes the first round doesn't hit its target," he said of the big guns. Sometimes the second doesn't, either, or the third. If the bombs from the planes had all hit their targets, the shelling would not have been necessary.

This time, when the Syrians fired at our reconnaissance planes, we decided we did not need accuracy and blasted away from the New Jersey. It was a political decision, not a military one. We didn't lose any planes, and we didn't lose any pilots. We don't know whether we hit anything (the Syrians say one of their soldiers was wounded) but it made some great pictures for the evening news and was supposed to send a message to the Syrians.

It didn't send much of a message. The last time the New Jersey was used was in Vietnam. Then, as now, the papers were full of some statistics about its 16-inch guns, its 17-inch armor, its 1,900-pound projectiles and its bug crew.

On Wednesday, one proud Marine said, "The New Jersey can lob a Volkswagen 23 miles inland and hit a tennis court with the sucker." Every tennis court in Vietnam must have been piled deep with Volkswagens, but it didn't change anything. Change came only when politics demanded it. That is what government with the consent of the governed is all about.

Otis Pike, a former congressman, writes for Newhouse News Service.

Letters

God points the way

In reference to Will Chamberlain's letter of Nov. 9 decrying the recent film on Mormonism shown in various churches.

Mr. Chamberlain, anyone who tries to get to heaven by any other way than a saving knowledge of the Lord Jesus Christ is calling Jesus a liar. Praying to statues is nothing less than idolatry. Trying to get to heaven by being a good husband and father or doing nice deeds for people is nothing less than works. God's word records what Jesus thought of those who sought to get to heaven by keeping the law (good works). He called them vipers and hypocrites.

To teach any other doctrine than that Jesus humbled Himself by taking on the form of man, was born of a virgin, shed His blood and died on the cross as payment for the sins of the whole world, is to call God a liar.

Why is it acceptable for fast-food chains, laundry soap makers, potato chip factories and drug companies to name names and leave no doubt in anyone's mind as to which product is good and which one isn't, and it isn't acceptable to tell someone that according to God's word he's going the wrong way and if he doesn't turn to Jesus and ask to be saved from his sin, he'll burn in hell forever?

Mr. Chamberlain, God loves the sinner but He hates the sin. To be pleasing to Him, we must hold the same attitude: "But God commendeth His love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us." Romans 5:8.

Wrong ones affected

This letter is in reference to the new 90 percent attendance policy at the high school.

The intention was to keep those students who make a practice of missing class from being absent so often. However, it is actually affecting those students who are involved in extracurricular activities, such as athletics, music or FFA, more than those who are causing the problem. For example, last year the Twin Falls track team missed portions of six school days in order to be present at out-of-town meets. This would leave the track participants with only three days for possible absences before they would lose the credit for those classes which they missed. Nine days is obviously not enough.

In my opinion, this policy is a mistake and should not have passed. Those students whom it was intended to affect are still going to be absent the maximum days they can be. The school board should either lengthen the number of days a student can be absent or find a better alternative.

Reagan popular but no GOP growth

WASHINGTON — Following President Reagan's landslide victory over Jimmy Carter in 1980, many seasoned political observers began to speculate that a major "realignment" of party loyalties was on the way.

They noted that millions of citizens who normally vote Democratic, particularly blue-collar workers in industrialized areas, had deserted their old patterns to support Reagan.

And this occurred against the background of a strong Republican trend which cropped up in new voter registrations over the previous two years.

Although Democrats have outnumbered Republicans for decades, of 1.1 million voters registered from 1978 through 1980 in 28 states that identify voters by party, Republicans registered 1.6 million, or 38 percent, to 29 percent for the Democrats.

Many jubilant Republicans, particularly conservatives, looked to the "Reagan Revolution" of November, 1980, to crystallize this trend into a permanent shift of Democrats to the Republican Party. They looked for the GOP to catch up with the Democrats, or even to surpass them in membership for the first time since the early 1920s.

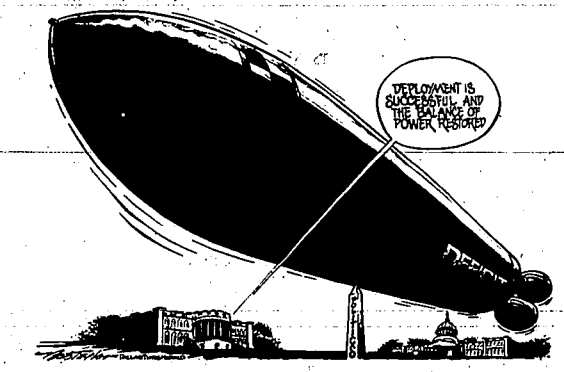

In the revised edition of his book "Dynamics of the Party System," Brookings Institution political scholar James L. Sundquist has written: "The analogy was 1932. In that year, the then-majority Republican party was overwhelmed by the rapidly rising Franklin Roosevelt defeated Herbert Hoover. Within four years . . . Roosevelt succeeded in converting the anti-Hoover, anti-Republican protest vote of 1932 into a pro-Roosevelt, committed Democratic majority and a new political movement."

In place, to be solidified and carried into effect, state by state, over ensuing decades. Could the Republicans, after 1980, similarly convert the anti-Carter, anti-Democrat protest vote into a durable Republican majority?

The starry-eyed Republicans should have stopped to remember that there was another, more recent and much less encouraging analogy — 1952 when Republican Dwight Eisenhower won the presidency in a victory similar to the Reagan landslide.

Then, too, there were great predictions of realignment, based upon Eisenhower's father-like popularity and his success in negotiating a quick end to the Korean War.

But the realignment, the reinvolvement of the Loye Miller, Jr.

Reaganomics. "The electorate did not 'buy' the Reagan revolution. . . . It was saying, 'Let's try it and see if it works,'" writes Schneider. "Reagan had to rely on the success of his program to demonstrate the validity of his ideas. That is how the New Deal became consensual in U.S. society; people believed in it because it worked."

Now, he observes, "The evidence is clear; there has been no Reagan revolution in public attitudes toward government. . . . While people believe the recovery is real, they do not believe Reaganomics offers a long-term solution to the nation's economic problems."

Reagan's personal popularity remains so great that he may well get re-elected anyhow next year. But that popularity has not created great Republican growth.

Loye Miller Jr. writes from Washington for Newhouse News Service.

Hints of legislative harmony vanish in time for session

Just when prospects appeared the grimmest, we Idahoans have been delivered from the jaws of adversity.

There were disturbing signs earlier this year that a delicate political harmony might destroy the annual circus that is the Idaho Legislature. But happily, that has turned around this week. Our primary form of entertainment has been saved.

So step right up folks, grab your front-row seats and place your bets. The Cowboy Congress is about to convene.

Further, we are happy to report, it will feature in center ring that manifest silliness that has made it the best show in town these many years. Get ready for the demonstration of muscle-headed, contrary, contentious and strident partisan politics that we know and love so well.

You all know about the level of debate I am talking about. It generally begins with Gov. John Evans issuing a pronouncement such as:

Dick Manning

"I like ice cream." The Republican majority immediately reacts with outrage. In a matter of hours they whip through committee and both houses a bill declaring ice cream a public menace and outlawing commerce in same within the confines of the state.

The issues may be different, but the principle generally holds true on just about any topic you can name.

It would be a sad day indeed for us circus-goers if anyone did anything to undermine this time-honored tradition. What would we do for fun if the annual donkeybrook degenerated into a placid state of reason?

And earlier this year, it appeared as if that very thing was about to happen.

The issue was education, or more specifically teachers' salaries. A string of commissions, panels and experts concluded that if we are to offer our children a quality education, we may want to consider offering our state's teachers a decent wage just so our schools might attract and hold competent employees.

Granted, the idea of quality education is a radical one, but it seemed worth a try to some folks, including the governor.

And although there were some bones of contention, the GOP muckamucks huddled and decided a general agreement with the basic premise that teachers in Idaho deserve to make at least as much money as a guy who moves pipe on the average legislator's farm. Amazing. We have the basis of agreement here. Something is definitely amiss. But despair not, dear reader. Things do change. And change they did last week when the governor delivered his annual budget address. Evans wants to increase state spending by $105 million; about $56 million of that amount would cover the cost of beefing up education.

True, not all of the increase would go to schools. Evans proposes to fritter away some of it on such items as granting a 5 percent raise to state employees (they got zip last year) and keeping our public buildings from falling apart. But we can forgive him these indiscretions since most of the money goes for what most of the state agrees must be done — improving education.

So how did our legislators react to Evans' electric? Immediately, the state's air was backs of the members of the Legislature's majority. Geez, John, they were all in favor of teachers' raises, but that was before you told them they had to pay for them.

"That's nearly obscene," wheezed House Speaker Tom Silvers. "Socialistic. We see in this request the influence of the Socialist Party," opined Rep. Robert Forrey of Nampa. "We're here to support what the government educational empire should not have any more money," croaked Lyman Winchester of Kima.

Now that's more like it. That's just the sort of thick-skulled myopia we Idahoans expect from our leaders. I must admit, the boys had me worried there for a while, but I'm glad to see they have finally come to their senses.

Before they did, there was a real threat that this session of the Legislature might actually accomplish something positive. I'm glad that's over.

Fire destroys fraternity house

AUSTIN, Texas (UPI) — A suspicious fire destroyed a University of Texas fraternity house Sunday a week after a woman died in a similar fraternity row fire, officials said.

Two of the eight residents of the Alpha Tau Omega house were injured in the fire that forced them into near-freezing temperatures. Fire Department Capt. Danny Stamper said investigators had not ruled out arson as a cause of the fire.

Stamper said 35 firemen fought the blaze, which started at 5:20 a.m. MST, for two hours before it was put out. A fire department mechanic was overcome by smoke and treated at a hospital.

The injured students, who jumped from the building to the lawn, were also treated and released from the hospital.

Meese: Reply was 'shorthand'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Presidential counselor Edwin Meese said in an interview published Sunday he was "shorthand" when he made his controversial comments on hunger in America and his remarks were misunderstood.

Meese told The Washington Post he had shortened his usual response to the issue when he told wire service reporters Dec. 8 he had seen no "authoritative figures that there are hungry children" in America.

"I was shorthand because the question was not really directed at hunger. It was directed at budget cuts and deficits," Meese told the Post.

"It was kind of a tangential issue rather than a major issue. If people had concentrated on the whole statement, nobody could quarrel with it. But they took something out of the beginning and something out of the end and they made it sound like my whole statement."

China shipping talks collapse

PEKING (UPI) — Negotiations between the United States and China on a new shipping agreement have collapsed and Peking is expected to impose new restrictions on U.S. vessels using Chinese ports, industry sources said Sunday.

No formal announcement was made but the sources, informed of the negotiations, said the talks broke down in Washington during the weekend with no date set on resuming the negotiations.

In Washington, official spokesmen had no knowledge of any talks. The former maritime agreement expired in September but was given a 90-day extension to continue the talks.

Avoid projections, TV asked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A House subcommittee chairman called on television networks Sunday not to "interfere with" Americans' right to vote with early Election Day projections of winners.

Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., chairman of the House Judiciary civil and constitutional rights subcommittee, wrote ABC, CBS and NBC officials that increased voter participation is "a vital national interest" and that exit polls discourage voting — particularly in the West.

The California Democrat said the networks' 1980 election-day projects caused at least 3 percent of westerners not to vote.

Edwards said a resolution would be introduced in Congress in January calling upon the broadcast media "to voluntarily refrain" from announcing Election Day projections until all polls have closed.

Gunman shoots coeds, self

ITHACA, N.Y. (UPI) — A gunman described as "an obsessed lover" shot two Cornell University coeds to death in their dormitory room, then shot himself in the head during a police chase, police said Sunday.

Police said Su Yong Kim, 26, of New York, was listed in critical condition at Upstate Medical Center with a self-inflicted head wound. The names of the victims were withheld until families were notified.

Police and a student who said he heard the shootings said Kim apparently entered the dorm at the school's north campus No. 7 shortly before midnight Saturday and began arguing with a woman who lived there.

The gunman pulled out a rifle and held the woman, her roommate and four other students hostage in the room, said sophomore Larry Cohen, who lived next door to the victims.

Reagan slates efforts to gain aid for hungry

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan spent the weekend in Washington for a series of yuletide events and plans to push today for a nationwide volunteer effort to feed the hungry for Christmas.

On Tuesday, Reagan is expected to hold a nationally broadcast news conference, his first in almost two months and only the seventh this year and 21st of his presidency.

The president and first lady, who last week had children of diplomats and members of the press over for Christmas parties, threw parties Saturday for the Secret Service agents and military aides who serve them and Sunday for the White House domestic staff and aides who work for the president in the Executive Office Building next door.

Reagan will proclaim today as national "Care and Share Day" to recognize the efforts of the food industry and civic clubs that donate canned goods to the poor at Christmas.

In a new effort by the president's office on private sector initiative, the administration will call for more cooperation, asking companies to distribute food directly from their warehouses through service clubs.

Delight her, for Christmas.

Marcos squalls about 'plot'

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — President Ferdinand Marcos Sunday charged that the Roman Catholic clergy and middle class were plotting to topple his 18-year-old regime.

Marcos, secluded in the mountain resort of Baguio, told reporters the conspiracy of the "clergy-bourgeois clique" had been discussed in a communist document "which fell into the hands of government authorities."

The most outspoken churchman in the Philippines, the only Roman Catholic country in Asia, is Cardinal Jaime L. Sin, 54. Sin in recent weeks has urged Marcos to begin the process of national reconciliation or face a bloody upheaval.

French seek stolen secrets

PARIS (UPI) — Security services are investigating a theft of a van containing unidentified defense material, the defense ministry confirmed Sunday following newspaper and radio reports.

The newspaper Le Journal de Dimanche said the armored van carried a package of unspecified sensitive materials addressed to an electronics company in Paris. The driver told police he also had left security passes for military bases in the van's glove compartment, the newspaper said.

The defense ministry statement said the van vanished Tuesday in the town of Apt in southern France while "making a delivery on behalf of Aerospatiale", the state-owned firm that makes military equipment including Exocet missiles.

Abductors cut off lad's ear

ROME (UPI) — The kidnapers of jewelry heiress Anna Bulgari Callesani and her son directed family friends Sunday to a bloody severed ear believed to have been hacked from the youth and threatened to kill both hostages unless their ransom demands were met.

The kidnapers, believed to be a Sardinian gang, telephoned family friends to report the 17-year-old's ear had been left in a trash can in the center of Rome.

The friends found the ear and gave it to authorities. Police scientists said they believed the severed organ was from the youth, whose family has exclusive jewelry stores in Rome, Paris, Geneva, Monte Carlo and New York.

Bus crash claims 34

GENOVA, Italy (UPI) — A military bus carrying young Italian sailors to a major league soccer game plunged 200 feet from a highway overpass in a three-rainstorm Sunday, killing at least 34 people and injuring four others, police said.

Rescue workers said the death toll is likely to climb.

The bus, carrying 33 sailors in civilian clothes, crashed in the morning about 7 miles south of Genova as it headed to Turin for Sunday's big game between Juventus and Inter-Milan.

Rescue workers pulled 24 bodies and three injured passengers from the twisted wreckage and could see more victims trapped inside, police said.

The fourth injured passenger managed to pull himself out of the bus before rescue workers arrived and wandered into a nearby village.

Three of the four injured victims were in serious condition, police said.

Madrid disco owners queried after fatal blaze

MADRID, Spain (UPI) — Police questioned five dance hall owners Sunday for possible criminal negligence in a fire that destroyed a crowded basement discotheque, killing 62 people.

Madrid Judge Jacobo Lopez ordered the detention of the five men after questioning 21 of the employees and patrons who escaped Saturday's early morning blaze at the downtown "Alcala 20" disco, one of Madrid's most popular nightspots.

Although officials of the city and provincial government had said earlier that the disco met all safety standards when it opened two months ago,

"There are elements that could point to possible negligence, to a crime of omission," said a court source.

Some survivors said at least one of the disco's six emergency exits was locked and another was blocked by an iron railing. Firefighters said other exits, which led up narrow, poorly lit stairwells that quickly filled with dense smoke and toxic fumes, were badly marked.

Most of the victims died of suffocation or from being trampled and crushed by the panicked crowd of some 600 young people when the fire broke out shortly before the 5 a.m. closing time.

A count of recovered bodies brought the death toll at 62, authorities said, including one woman who died of burns and smoke inhalation in the hospital Sunday morning. Six others of 25 injured patrons remained hospitalized.

The cause of the fire remained unknown, although some police officials speculated it was sparked by a short circuit in the disco's complicated lighting system.

GHOST OF CHRISTMAS SPIRITUAL

HAPPY CHRISTMAS FROM THE SWENSEN'S!

Through the years it has been sad to watch the disappearance of Christ from the celebration of his own birthday. The removal of Christ from Christmas seems to have gained a lot of momentum in the commercialization of a non-commercial event, and now it's even more disheartening to watch the prospects of Christ being banned from public life by a few atheists, the deceptively high-purposed sounding American Civil Liberties Union in cooperation with a bevy of non-elected, non-accountable to voters — tenured for life judges with a secular agenda for America's future, who seem to forget that our Pledge of Allegiance is to One Nation Under God. Swensen's fervently hope that our country will continue to be established on a public and private belief in God as it was in the beginning, and that the public remembrance of the birthday of the Son of God will not disappear and become merely a Christmas Ghost.

Apples are the ultimate healthy, plus delicious, plus inexpensive snack. They're much less than candy bars, chips, snacks, pop, bakery stuff, and more fun to eat. Less calories per munch tap!

What's what

The first "inclined elevator," now known as the escalator, was installed around the turn of the century in a London department store called Harrod's. The management served brandy to riders who said they felt faint. It was the standard medication of the era for vertigo. And there are those who now believe that the epidemic of fainting spells in those years was prompted primarily by ladies who thought it high time for a drink.

When Tom Selleck reached his 21st birthday, his dad gave him a gold wristwatch — as a reward for abstinence. On the list of what he abstained from are smoking, drinking and swearing. No mention of romantic hanky panky. That wasn't part of the deal.

The youngster who runs away from home once is not so unusual. Nor is the youngster who runs away from home habitually. But the youngster who runs away from home twice and only twice is a rarity.

YOUNG WIDOWS
 Q. How many 14-year-old widows are there in the United States?
 A. About 300, probably. That would be a typical count for any given year.

Q. What country is the North Pole in?
 A. No country. It's in the Arctic Ocean. Actually, the North Pole is not a real place, anyhow. It's a frame of mind in a power outage.

Q. What's the "age of consent"?
 A. You mean its definition? That's the age at which a girl legally can engage in physical romance of her own free will without submitting her partner to a charge of statutory rape. It differs in different states: Youngest age of consent is age 12 in Delaware, Mississippi and North Carolina.

SPENDING TICKETS
 Certainly is a lot of money in speeding tickets. In one recent year, the law offices of Kendrickton, Texas, handed out 5,365 citations along the Houston-to-Corpus Christi highway. That town of 800 people thereby grossed $112,000.

After the great white shark attacks you, he spits you out. That's not good news. Too late. You go into shock. And he shows up again shortly. It's a pattern the naturalists have put on record.

Calendar makers have turned out twice as many varieties for 1984 as the year will have days.

Am told honeybees run about 5,000 to the pound.

Daily Horoscope

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A full moon day which allows you to arrange communications... conferences and mental ingenuity of all kinds, especially where transportation matters are involved. Your reasoning power is good.

Keep an eye out for good business ideas. Take no risks while driving. GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Begin the week by stating what your needs are to those who can help you. You have the opportunity to make good friends. Be happy.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Make a workable plan for changes to make in order to get ahead faster in your career. The evening is best spent quietly at home.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Wind in partnerships are in the changes, so accept new regime intelligently. Entertain new friends in the evening. VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) The full moon may cause higher-ups to vent their anger on you, so steer clear. But be conscientious in your work. Do some dancing.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Begin working on plans that you formulated over the past weekend. Try to get the information you need. Learn to be more articulate.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Contact experts who can assist you with important business affairs. Change your attitude. Show affection for your mate. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Many new activities are possible because of the full moon. Show partners that you are cooperative. Be kind and considerate.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You are very enthusiastic about getting your work done. This can bring you greater benefits. Relax at home in the evening.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Ideal day to see those who can assist your in personal and creative matters. Show more affection for the one you love tonight.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Handling fundamental affairs is important today, so put aside other activities. Being prejudiced at home could spoil the harmony existing there.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY, he or she will be someone who will be inventive and have nimble fingers so give a fine education so that these abilities can be well coordinated. This is one who will be very articulate. There could be fame in this chart.

Donations to charities spread cheer

DEAR ABBY: Almost 10 years ago my letter—arrived too late to run before the Christmas holidays, so you published it in January. I am hopeful you will receive it this year in time to make the Christmas deadline.

—EUGENE F. MEGYESY, TULSA
DEAR EUGENE: I did, and I thank you for a generous gift, as well as a novel idea that is well worth repeating.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I solved the problem of what to give the people on our Christmas gift list who have everything—including a collection of white elephants from previous Christmases.

We sent them checks (made out to them personally) in the amount of whatever we would have spent for a gift, and on each check we wrote, "Please sign this over to your favorite charity. Holiday cheer to you!"

Abby, there are so many worthwhile charities, why spoil the holiday by fretting and shopping for unneeded gifts for people who are doing the same for us? We submit this idea in the hope that it will appeal to grown-ups who want to double their giving.

Abby, since you are probably among those who have everything, please accept the enclosed check for your favorite charity as our gift to you. God bless you and yours.

—EUGENE F. MEGYESY
DEAR ABBY: First some facts: I live more than 1,000 miles from my parents, who have been married for 45 years. I've been able to visit them only a few times since my marriage 19 years ago, but I keep in close touch by phoning once a week.

Abigail VanBuren Dear Abby

My husband, two children and I visited them recently. They have a four-bedroom, two-story home, but there was room for only one extra person to sleep, so I slept on the living room sofa and my husband and children stayed nearby with relatives.

I couldn't unpack because there was no place to put anything. My clothes were on doorknobs and the backs of chairs. I was not allowed in the five upstairs rooms, which for the last seven years have been off limits to everyone but my parents, because nobody could walk through them.

No closet door will close. Five inches of counter space in the kitchen is maximum. My mother refuses to throw anything away. The place is a warehouse of broken appliances, old clothes, newspapers, food etc.

My two brothers who live nearby said they gave up years ago. Dad says if he even mentions throwing anything away, Mother creates a terrible scene. When he discards something, she retrieves it from the trash!

The place is an obvious firetrap, but we can't do anything about it. Can you suggest something?

—CONCERNED DAUGHTER
DEAR CONCERNED: Face it, your mother is a very sick woman, and if your father has lived under those conditions for seven years, he's sick, too.

Your brothers should arrange for physical and psychiatric examinations for both parents. If they refuse medical examinations, implore your family doctor to make a house call. The fire marshal and a public health official should also be summoned to examine the premises. Please don't wait until a tragedy occurs. Your parents looked after you. Now it's your turn to look after them.

Rupert woman wins Miss Deaf Idaho crown

By JANENE BUCKWAY
Times-News correspondent

GOODING — Holly Parker of Rupert is the first Miss Deaf Idaho.

Parker received the crown during a pageant Saturday evening at the Idaho State School for the Deaf and Blind in Gooding.

In addition to the crown, Parker, 19, was chosen "Miss Congeniality" by her fellow contestants — Marlene Brown of Gooding and Ann Burton of Blackfoot.

Brown earned the talent and appearance trophies at Saturday's competition. Miss Deaf Idaho is the daughter of Keith and Maurine Parker. She is a sophomore at Gallaudet College in Washington, D.C., the world's only liberal-arts college for the deaf.

She is majoring in counseling and deaf education, and plans to work with problem juveniles. She is a 1983 graduate of the state school.

Parker says she entered the pageant to improve her self-confidence and learn about her own potential. "I'm glad I won," she said in sign language afterward. "It will give me a chance to show the world what deaf women can accomplish."

The pageant was sponsored by the Idaho Association of the Deaf. "Deafness is not a handicap; it is a challenge" was the theme of the event.

Parker now will represent Idaho in the 1984 Miss Deaf America pageant, which will be held in Baltimore the first week of July.

In the crush of well-wishers following her crowning, Parker said she had not had time to absorb the full meaning of the moment.

Jerry Wilding of Gooding, the general chairman of the event, said the pageant went well, and he expressed pleasure at seeing more than 200 people present for the show.

Also taking part in the pageant were: master of ceremonies Johnny Whitaker, a television personality who is hearing-impaired; the current Miss Deaf America, Barbara Tubbs from New York state; the Miss Deaf District of Columbia, Dorris Wilding, the daughter of Jerry Wilding; and the Miss Deaf Utah, Nana Hix.

Perhaps the most challenging part of the competition was the talent contest.

How do you entertain an audience of both deaf and hearing persons when you are deaf and unable to speak? The girls did it in two ways — by sign-giving and through pantomime. Parker presented a pantomime called "Death Valley Dilemma." Her animated presentation let the audience see a struggle among a horse, a rider and a hungry buzzard, with the horse and rider coming out victorious.

Miss Deaf Rupert, Holly Parker, reacts as she is named the first Miss Deaf Idaho.

Treatment plant trial in 7th week

By DAVID MOFFAT
Times-News writer

BOISE — The trial of the city's damage suit against the manufacturer and designers of its ill-fated waste-treatment plant will enter its seventh week in U.S. district court in Boise today.

Lawyers for the city say they are optimistic that their side has been well presented, and they say the real issue now has become how much money the six-person jury will choose to award.

But the validity of that assessment will not be known until January, as presentation of evidence continues at a snail's pace.

In the last two weeks, the jury has heard various pieces of the city's case against the chief defendants — California-based Envirotech Systems Inc. and Neptune-Microfloc of Corvallis, Ore. Both companies supplied major components of the plant.

It now is hearing the testimony of Ed Cryer, a chief engineer for James M. Montgomery Consulting Engineers of Boise.

The city hired the firm in 1978 to evaluate the plant, following a period of 18 months when it had failed to meet federal standards. Cryer supervised this effort, which led to a report that no changes in operating technique could make up for the improper design and equipment.

The jury next will hear from Mike Gann, the city's sewage-treatment supervisor since 1978.

Over the past two weeks, a variety of angles have been explored.

Jack Hammond, the principal design engineer on the project for Hamilton and Voeller, the city's engineer at the time, was on the stand for six days.

A key figure from the city's point of view, Hammond explained the negotiations leading up to the inclusion of products made by the two companies in the plant.

Among other things, Hammond explained what the companies told him about how their equipment would perform.

Another key city witness was John Priestler. Also an engineer for Hamilton and Voeller, he explained attempts to make the plant work after it went on line in 1976.

Priestler explained how Envirotech had personnel on site for months, but it still could not get the sludge-processing equipment, which it had provided, to work as promised.

The city contends that the Envirotech knew its equipment would not work before it sold it to the city.

To show this, passages have been read from the depositions of several Envirotech employees, including Tony Campan, a salesman; Sid Howard, a supervisor; and Orris Albertson, the company's top research and development engineer.

In the past two weeks, jurors also have heard passages from the deposition of George Pankey, a former Hoover vacuum salesman, a Jamaica battery-factory manager, and medical-dental equipment dealer, who invented the "secondary" treatment system incorporated in the design of the plant.

Pankey's system was purchased by Neptune-Microfloc before being sold to the city, although Pankey retained an interest in it.

The city's lawyers claim that Neptune-Microfloc misrepresented the effectiveness of this equipment.

Passages from the depositions of Stu Hunter and Al Schlichter, Neptune-Microfloc engineers, were read in an effort to show this.

Eagle Air Service going after route between Twin Falls, Boise

By BOB FREUND
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A fledgling air service, which currently operates only one small plane, says it can fly to Boise cheaper than any of the four large regional carriers now bidding for the rights to that route.

Eagle Air Service Inc. of Twin Falls is bidding $25,000 less than Cascade Airways, the lowest offering to date.

The federal government has announced it will pay an air carrier to fly the route between Twin Falls and Boise because it is categorized as "essential air service."

Citing its own survey of area businesses, the 3-month-old charter company also is disputing claims by the Twin Falls Area Chamber of Commerce that the public won't climb aboard small prop-driven planes to go to Boise.

Passengers "aren't really concerned with the type of airplane," says Terry Sheppard, a partner-owner of the firm.

"We feel like the community will patronize it despite the size of an aircraft because of our frequency (of flights) and low rate," he says.

Close to 250 returns from a 1,000-card mail survey of the Magic Valley show a lopsided preference for better schedules and lower prices, over the type of aircraft, says Joseph A. Alves, the chief of operations. All but a few respondents said they wouldn't hesitate to fly a smaller craft, he says. Among those were important area corporations, such as Independent Meat Co., Idaho Frozen Foods and Armalgamated Sugar Co., he says.

Alves, who also is the chief pilot, says Eagle went into business on the wings of corporate charter and cargo express service. It originally was based at Buhl, but recently moved its headquarters to the Twin Falls-Sun Valley Regional Airport.

Late last week, the charter service told the federal Civil Aeronautics Board that it can fly two round trips daily between Twin Falls and Boise for a $180,000 yearly subsidy. Cascade Airways of Spokane previously had been the lowest bidder at $205,000.

Eagle would fly under the name of Corporate Express, Sheppard says. It intends to lease two Navajo Pilgers, one outfitted for 10 passengers and the other a seven-seat air limousine designed for in-flight business use, he says.

Its daily round trips would leave for Boise early in the morning and at mid-afternoon, returning to Twin Falls at noon and in late evening. The schedule is geared to one-day business trips and to connections with other carriers at Boise's airport, Alves says.

Eagle filed its bid two weeks after they were due, and then had to add more information for the federal agency, he says. CAB Western Region director John Smith says the agency will accept the bid.

But Eagle also must qualify as a commuter air carrier before getting full consideration. The CAB's policy is to try to help bidders qualify, Smith says. Alves and Sheppard say that Eagle is capable of meeting Federal Aviation Administration standards for a commuter carrier.

Pesticide issue before council again

By DAVID MOFFAT
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The residents of Twin Falls' Buena Vista area will bring their complaints of pesticide contamination before the City Council again this evening.

They will be backed by further testimony from Dr. Charles Scott, a Boise toxicologist who first appeared on their behalf before the council on Nov. 21.

At the meeting, which will begin at 7 p.m. at City Hall, the council also will take up the matter of endorsing Pacific Express, a jet airliner, as the city's choice to provide subsidized "essential air service" between Twin Falls and Boise.

A proposal to raise golf fees next year also will be on the agenda.

Scott says he wants to address the report of the city's special scientific advisory committee, which studied the pesticide question earlier this year and was chaired by Councilman Gale Kjeinkopf.

Largely on the basis of that report, the council decided against adopting special zoning laws that would have regulated pesticide-storage within the city. These were first proposed by the Buena Vista residents last spring.

Last week, Scott submitted a written report to the city, documenting several of the points he made at the Nov. 21 meeting.

In a letter accompanying approximately 65 pages of photo-copied material, Scott said the scientific committee did not differentiate between the evaluation of risk and the acceptance of risk.

If any chance of danger exists, he said, the city should err on the side of safety, and not wait for irrefutable scientific proof.

From the point of view of choosing a safe level of pesticide exposure for the Buena Vista community, they feel that the permissible exposure limit should be set at zero," he wrote.

Scott also wrote that there is much that is unknown about the effects of pesticides on human beings, especially as a result of "continuous" exposure. He says he does not believe the city has compiled enough "objective proof of certainty of the safety of pesticide fumes and continued exposure of the Buena Vista residents."

Council's consideration of Pacific Express will follow that company's endorsement by the Twin Falls-Sun Valley Regional Airport board last week.

Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce director Mike Dolton said at that time that a community's recommendation carries weight with the federal Civil Aeronautics Board when it falls down to decide how to allocate federal subsidies for "essential air service."

The company is the only one of five airlines interested in the subsidy promising to use jets on the route. But it also is asking for the greatest amount of federal money, and it is proposing the most-limited schedule — only one round trip per day.

The city's golf advisory board has recommended raising the cost of all season passes, except for college students and juniors, by $10 per person next year. It also has recommended a $1 increase in weekend greens fees for adults.

During the last fiscal year, the municipal golf course earned $128,000 against $101,000 in expenditures. However, the board says increased fees are needed to pay for physical improvements and the replacement of equipment.

Jackpot residents can obtain local information from TV

By DAVID MOFFAT
Times-News writer

JACKPOT — Residents of Jackpot in search of up-to-date information on road conditions, winter clothing, who's playing at the casinos and what's happening at school can now turn to an unusual source — television.

Two weeks ago, the Jackpot Lions Club took over operation of Channel 13 on the Jackpot cable TV dial. The club's plans are to develop KJPT as a community-service station.

John Broxmeyer, the Lions Club president, who works in the poker room at Cactus Pete's casino, says the station can play a key role in Jackpot.

The town has no radio station. As a result, residents have no place to turn to for accurate weather forecasts, up-to-date road reports and such community services as a calendar, shopping guide and a listing of school programs and church services, he says.

In the future, the club also plans to work closely with the town's new newspaper, the Jackpot Review, he says.

Four Lions Club members also will be on call 24 hours a day to provide emergency bulletins.

Broxmeyer says the Lions Club hopes to pay the maintenance and operation costs by running limited advertising at reasonable fees.

All this can be provided using a color video programmer, presently secured in an office in The Horseshu casino. The words and images are backed with stereo music from Boise radio station KBOI, he says.

It cost about $5,000 to get the station on the air. The club held two raffies earlier this year to obtain some of the money.

They also received $1,500 from Chuck and Leo Cunningham, and their sister Connie, as a gift in memory of their father.

The owner of Jackpot Antenna Vision, the cable TV service, K. Leland Smith of Ontario, Ore., donated the material and labor.

The station will join 11 commercial stations already on the Jackpot cable dial. These come in by means of satellite and microwave, says Mike Cunningham, a maintenance worker at Cactus Pete's, and Smith's local representative.

The channel will join: KMTV from Twin Falls; KBOI, KTUV and KAID from Boise;

and KIVI and KTVR from Nampa, he says.

In addition, Jackpot viewers can see: WGN, the Chicago Tribune-owned superstation; WTBS, the Atlanta-based Turner Broadcasting superstation; CNN, the Turner all-news channel; HBO, the pay-TV movie channel; and ESPN, the all-sports channel.

Cunningham says Smith specializes in setting up cable television systems in out-of-the-way locales. He says Smith got into the business as a television repairman in the early 1970s.

Seattle in its first playoffs...

By TOM GREEN
United Press International

NFL

SEATTLE — The Seattle Seahawks saved their best performance of the season for a game that was probably the most important in the eight-year history of the franchise.

No longer content to be doormats or chasers under head coach Chuck Knox, the Seahawks thoroughly dominated the New England Patriots in a 24-6 win Sunday that put Seattle into the playoffs for the first time in the club's history.

"In the past we've always been in the position of wanting to win the last game to build for next year," said wide receiver Steve Largent, who has been with the club for all eight of its seasons. "Now, finally, this game meant something."

Seattle, 9-7, which won its last two games of the regular season to earn playoff berth, hosts Denver Saturday in the Klingdomme in the battle between the two AFC wildcard teams.

Quarterback Dave Krieg and rookie running back Curt Warner joined Largent to provide the Seahawks with most of their offensive lift in their victory over New England.

Krieg fired touchdown passes of 48 yards to Largent and 16 yards to Dan Dornnick, and ran two yards for Seattle's only other score. Krieg, who led the Seahawks to a 5-3 mark over the last half of the season when he replaced Jim Zorn as the starter, completed 13-of-21 passes for 230 yards and the two scores.

Warner rushed for 116 yards on 26 carries to wrap up the AFC rushing title in his rookie season, finishing the year with 1,449 yards.

But for one of the few times in the second half of the season, Seattle also got a solid performance from its defense, which harassed New England's rookie quarterback Tony Eason with a hard pass rush and limited the Patriots to just one score.

"We executed as well as we probably have all year," said Seahawks safety John Harris.

The Seahawks thus become the third team Knox has led into post-season play in his 11 years as a head coach in the NFL. Knox, who previously took the Los Angeles Rams and Buffalo into the playoffs, turned the Seahawks from a team with three straight losing seasons into a playoff club in his first year in Seattle.

"What makes Chuck Knox a playoff coach is his approach," said guard Reggie McKenzie, a 12-year veteran who was acquired by Knox in the off season.

"He's a George Allen type — the future is now. With a club like this, a lot of people say build for the future. Forget that. The future is now."

"You have to go and get the ballplayers who know how to win, with the seasoning and who've been there, who know how to suck it up in the clutch."

New England got its only score late in the second quarter on a 33-yard pass from Eason to Derrick Ramsey. Eason, who suffered a slight shoulder, was replaced in the fourth quarter by Mike Kerrigan.

New England, 8-8, was one of four AFC teams still in contention for the final wildcard spot when the day began. But a combination of Cleveland's 30-17 victory over Pittsburgh and Buffalo's 31-14 loss to Atlanta meant the Patriots were eliminated from contention as their game with Seattle got underway.

"We hated to end on a down note," said New England coach Ron Meyer. "I don't know if (it knowing they were out of the playoffs) did anything to us."

The Seahawks thus become the third team Chuck Knox has led into the playoffs in his NFL coaching career. Knox, who previously took the Los Angeles Rams and Buffalo into post-season play, turned the Seahawks from a club with three straight losing seasons into a playoff team in his first season in Seattle.

The Seahawks opened the scoring on a 29-yard field goal by Norm Johnson with 4:21 left in the first period and led the rest of the way.

... but not New Orleans

By MIKE RABUN
United Press International

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The Los Angeles Rams gave the New Orleans Saints their worst case of heartbreak ever Sunday and at the same time, moved into the Super Bowl chase for the first time in three years.

Los Angeles' offense produced only three points all day but they came within two seconds to go and finally ended a bizarre afternoon in which the Saints came within inches of making it to the playoffs for the first time in their 17-year history.

The winning field goal was a 42-yarder by Mike Lansford, a kick that sailed just inside the left upright and gave Los Angeles a 26-24 win. As it did, the Rams claimed at least a wild card berth in the playoffs — courtesy of Chicago's upset win over the Green Bay Packers.

If San Francisco should lose to the Dallas Cowboys Monday night, the Rams would inherit the NFC West championship. At the very worst, Los Angeles will visit Dallas the day after Christmas for the NFC's wild card game.

New Orleans appeared ready to end its years of frustration after rookie guard Steve Korte recovered a fumble by teammate George Rogers in the end zone with 3:47 to play — a touchdown that gave the Saints a two-point lead.

The Saints even regained possession of the ball and had a fourth down, needing three yards for a first down, at the Los Angeles 32 with two minutes remaining in the game.

At that point New Orleans coach Bum Phillips chose to punt the ball rather than risk a field goal.

That gave the Rams one last chance and they made the most of it, with Vince Ferragamo directing his team from its 20 down to the New Orleans 25. The key play was a 35-yard throw to Preston Dennard as the Rams were facing a 2nd-and-25 at their 43 with 30 seconds to go.

"This is what the NFL is all about," said Lansford. "I knew all the way down on that drive that it would probably be up to me. I'm happy for the Rams and everybody associated with them."

But there was no happiness on the Saints' side. Their history has been marked with frustration and that frustration reached a high water mark Sunday.

"We fought a good fight but we just didn't fight hard enough," said Phillips, whose eyes were red from crying. "We used everybody and they played as hard as they could."

"I chose to punt the ball down there (late in the game) because a field goal attempt might have been blocked or it might have been missed. And if we missed, it would have given them good field position. I was going to make them beat me and that's what they did."

Until Lansford kicked his field goal, all of the Rams points had come from either their defense or specialty teams.

To start with, Los Angeles' Jack Youngblood tackled New Orleans quarterback Ken Stabler for a safety late in the first period and then Henry Ellard gave the Rams a 9-7 halftime lead with a kickoff return of 72 yards.

Los Angeles added two touchdowns in the second half on interceptions. Detroit celebrated its first title of any kind since its World Championship year of 1957, by scratching out a 23-20 victory Sunday over the Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

The Lions had actually clinched the NFC Central Division title before their game. Chicago's 23-21 victory over Green Bay earlier in the day wrapped up the title for Detroit.

The last of Ed Murray's three field goals, a 35-yarder with 8:52 to play, broke a 13-13 tied and relief quarterback Gary Danielson led the Lions' win with a 6-yard touchdown pass to rookie receiver Jeff Chadwick with 2:31 left.

"I don't know who we play or where," Detroit coach Monte Clark said. "We're going to take a couple of days off. We don't want to get too far away from football, though, so we'll come back Wednesday, Thursday and Friday and work against ourselves."

"This is what we work for. It's something we worked hard for."

"There was a lot of determination,"

Take that, cad
Los Angeles Raiders' tight end Todd Christensen gets a wobbly grip on a pass in the end zone from quarterback Jim Finkbeust as San Diego's Billy Ray Smith grabs him in the first quarter of the Raiders' 30-14 victory Sunday. Christensen dropped the pass, but the Raiders wrapped up the home-field advantage for the upcoming AFC playoffs with the victory.

Sims signs on with Detroit and USFL

PONTIAC, Mich. (UPI) — Billy Sims admitted Sunday he has signed two five-year contracts — one on July 1 with the Houston Gamblers of the USFL and a second on Friday with the NFL Detroit Lions.

But he also admitted he signed the Detroit contract against the advice of "Eddie Ginter's."

"The Lions' lawyers tried to advise (general manager) Russ (Thomas) not to sign me," Sims said. "But he wanted to do it."

"We feel we have a binding contract with Billy," Detroit owner William Clay Ford said. "I guess it (the two contracts) means a problem for some body."

"Dr. Jerry Argovitz, the one-time dentist who used to represent Sims but now is a part owner in the Houston USFL franchise, held Sunday the news that Ford signed a contract with the Gamblers on July 1.

Lions get first title since 1957

By RICHARD L. SHOOK
United Press International

PONTIAC, Mich. — The Detroit Lions don't know who they play or where they play in two weeks — but they do know they're in the playoffs.

Detroit celebrated its first title of any kind since its World Championship year of 1957, by scratching out a 23-20 victory Sunday over the Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

The Lions had actually clinched the NFC Central Division title before their game. Chicago's 23-21 victory over Green Bay earlier in the day wrapped up the title for Detroit.

The last of Ed Murray's three field goals, a 35-yarder with 8:52 to play, broke a 13-13 tied and relief quarterback Gary Danielson led the Lions' win with a 6-yard touchdown pass to rookie receiver Jeff Chadwick with 2:31 left.

"I don't know who we play or where," Detroit coach Monte Clark said. "We're going to take a couple of days off. We don't want to get too far away from football, though, so we'll come back Wednesday, Thursday and Friday and work against ourselves."

"This is what we work for. It's something we worked hard for."

"There was a lot of determination,"

Clark added. "This is the best Danielshorn's unity and atmosphere we've ever had here. This is the greatest bunch of people, the most mature, we've had."

"I want to congratulate Detroit," Tampa Bay Coach John McKay said. "They deserve to win. I'm sure they'll represent the NFC Central Division well."

"As for us, 2-14 says it all. It's going to be a long winter. There will be a lot of changes."

"It's a funny thing, but I think if we had had an NFL placekicker this year and gotten a few breaks we might be drinking champagne instead of this."

Detroit, which got off to a 1-4 start, finished the regular season 9-7. The Lions made the playoffs as the wildcard team in 1970 and again last year when they qualified for the post-season tournament because of a strike.

Detroit was the only team in history to make the playoffs with a sub-500 record 4-5.

Billy Sims also scored a touchdown for the Lions on a 3-yard run in the second quarter.

Jack Thompson did his best to keep Detroit from winning with three touchdown passes but an inability to break the tie.

Danielshorn came on when starter Eric Hipple sprained his left knee in the third quarter and completed 9 of 12 passes for 143 yards. He steered the Lions 30 yards and hit rookie Chadwick with a 6-yard pass to put Detroit ahead 23-13 with 2:31 left.

Sims gained 56 yards in 15 carries to end the season with 1,040 yards, the third time in his four years with Detroit he has reached 1,000 yards.

Thompson completed 23 of 42 passes for 373 yards.

Another NFC team, the Washington Redskins, are celebrating after clinching the NFC East title with Saturday's 31-22 victory over the New York Giants.

The Redskins, 14-2, received their early Christmas present — 116 days off. They won't report back to begin practices for the playoffs until Friday.

Washington will open the playoffs at RFK Stadium on Dec. 31 or Jan. 1. If Dallas wins the Dec. 26 NFC wild-card game, the Redskins will play on Jan. 1. If Dallas loses, the Redskins will play on Dec. 31.

"The time off is so very important to us right now because we have so many players banged up," said Redskins Coach Joe Gibbs.

get field goals again cost Tampa Bay a victory.

Tampa Bay twice passed up field goal opportunities inside the Detroit 13 and both times turned the ball over on downs. Dave Warmko, signed by the Bucs after Bill Capece missed an extra point on a field goal a week ago, also fumbled an extra point try and stubbed a 29-yard field goal attempt.

Tampa Bay even used guard George Yarmo to kick its last extra point.

Thompson threw touchdown passes of 4-yards to tight end Jerry Bell, 20-yards to wide receiver Kevin House and 13-yards to wide receiver Gerald Carter.

The 13-yard pass to Carter came with 1:17 to play but Tampa Bay never got the ball again.

Tampa Bay held a 13-10 halftime lead thanks to Thompson's pass to House with 1:12 left in the second quarter. Detroit linebacker Jerry Cobbs intercepted a Thompson pass and returned it to the Tampa Bay 28 to set up a 36-yard field goal by Murray for a 13-13 tie. Cobbs had earlier recovered a fumbled pass that Murray turned into a 34-yard field goal.

Tampa Bay returned to ball over on downs on the Detroit 5 and the Lions marched 75 yards so Murray could kick a 38-yard field goal with 8:52 left

Idaho rallies to topple Mesa State

Arkansas' Lou Holtz 'burned out', calls it quits

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (UPI) — Arkansas football Coach Lou Holtz, said he was "tired and burned out" following his worst season at the school, resigned Sunday, said Athletic Director Frank Broyles.

"I have a sad duty to perform — to announce that today I have accepted Coach Lou Holtz's resignation as head football coach at the University of Arkansas," Broyles said in a statement. "He is tired and burned out. A search for his replacement will begin immediately."

"This is a totally demanding profession which takes a terrible toll on coaches and their families."

Arkansas finished 6-6 this season, its poorest record during Holtz's seven years with the Razorbacks.

Broyles, reached later in his office, would not say whether Holtz had been fired. He said only his statement was "substantially different" from reports that Holtz was leaving against his will.

In the statement, Broyles said he picked Holtz as his successor because he thought Holtz was as good as any coach in the country.

"That opinion has never changed and remains true today," Broyles said. "He is an excellent coach."

Holtz's plans were not known. Officials of Rutgers University reportedly were in Fayetteville last week trying to recruit Holtz. But Holtz said then he planned to stay at Arkansas.

Sports information director Rick Schaefer said Holtz and Broyles would have no further comment until news conferences today.

Kansas City buries playoff-bound Broncos

By United Press International

Denver may be a playoff team for the first time in four seasons but Coach Dan Reeves has a lot of work to do before taking his Broncos into the AFC wild card game Dec. 24.

The Broncos, who clinched that wild card spot last week with a 21-19 victory over Baltimore, were embarrassed in the season finale Sunday by the going nowhere Kansas City Chiefs, 48-17, and will limp into the post-season with a 9-7 record.

"It was a bad game," Reeves said. "They beat us — they beat us bad. There's not a whole lot to say. We were just standing around. We didn't hit anybody, didn't get after anybody. I don't know why but we were just going through the motions. We've got to forget about it and get ready for next week and whoever it is, wherever it is."

AFC West

Lucious Smith returned an interception 58 yards for a touchdown on the third play of the game to trigger a 21-point Kansas City outburst in the opening 10 minutes and the Chiefs went on to score the most points against the Denver defense since 1968.

Bill Kenney capped that first-quarter outburst with touchdown passes of 48 yards to Carlos Carson and 17 yards to Willie Scott to give the Chiefs a 21-0 lead and enable them to snap a four-game losing streak before the smallest crowd in the 12-year history of Arrowhead Stadium — 11,377. The game was played in zero-degree temperatures.

"The game got out of hand early and it snowballed on us," Reeves said.

"We got down 21-0 real fast and this was tough weather to play catch up in. It's not easy to throw in this weather."

Theoelis Brown also rushed for two touchdowns. Stephen Falge caught a 22-yard scoring pass from rookie Todd Blackledge and Nick Lowery kicked field goals of 38 and 43 yards as the Chiefs scored The Kansas City defense intercepted four John Elway passes and recovered a fumble as the Chiefs closed out their first season under coach John Mackovic with a 6-10 record.

Smith stepped in front of receiver Clint Sampson on Elway's first pass of the game and carried it 55 yards up the left sideline, breaking an attempted tackle by the Denver quarterback at the 18 for his first professional touchdown 67 seconds into the game.

"A 22-yard punt by Luke Prestridge a short time later gave the Chiefs possession at midfield. Kenney lobbed a pass over the head of Pro Bowl cornerback Louis Wright to his own Pro Bowl receiver Carson streaking down the right sideline three plays later to increase Kansas City's advantage to 14-0 at 7:13.

Another 28-yard punt by Prestridge on Denver's next possession coupled with a 19-yard return by J.T. Smith set the Chiefs up at the Broncos' 28 and Kenney found Scott over the middle on the fifth play for a 21-0 lead at the 10-minute mark, helping Kansas City to avenge a 27-24 loss in Denver earlier this season.

In Los Angeles, Jim Plunkett threw for 332 yards and Marcus Allen rushed for two touchdowns, helping the Cardinals win the home-field advantage through the playoffs with a victory over the San Diego Chargers.

The Raiders, 12-4, will meet the Pittsburgh Steelers in the AFC divisional playoffs in two weeks at the Coliseum. The Chargers finished a disappointing season at 6-10.

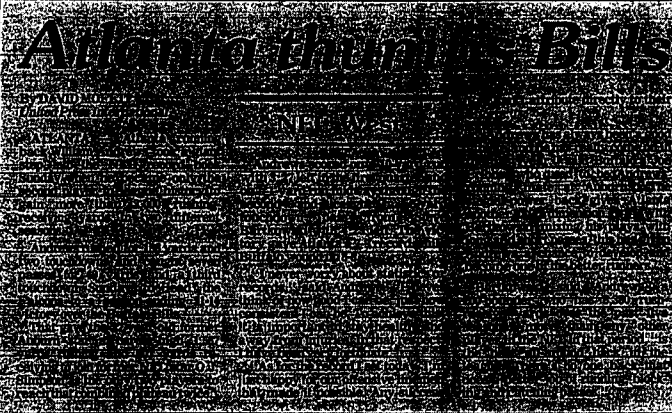

Plunkett, who lost his job early in the season but regained it by injury, was 21-of-30, throwing one TD and one interception. His 4-yard pass to Cliff Branch 72 seconds into the fourth quarter gave Los Angeles a 23-14 lead.

Allen, the NFL's Rookie of the Year in 1982, scored on runs of 8 and 5 yards and his 72 rushing yards gave him 1,014 for the season. Allen's 5-yard scoring run with 7:13 left led the victory.

for the Raiders. Luther, who started because Fouts injured his right shoulder last week, was 20-of-36 for 236 yards, one touchdown and one interception.

Muncie led San Diego's rushing attack with 77 yards on 18 carries. Ahead 13-7 at halftime, Los Angeles took a 16-7 lead 3:44 into the third quarter when Bahr kicked a 29-yard field goal. Muncie capped a 75-yard San Diego march that took more than 9 minutes of the third quarter when he squirmed over from two yards out with 2:03 left in the period.

Branch's TD catch early in the fourth period came after Plunkett connected on a 41-yard strike down the right sideline to Malcolm Barwell. Allen's 5-yard scoring run midway through the period capped a 68-yard drive in which Plunkett hit on four passes, including an 18-yarder to tight end Todd Christensen.

49ers face Dallas tonight

Idle San Francisco makes playoffs

By WILLIAM D. MURRAY
United Press International

SAN FRANCISCO — Joe Montana and his San Francisco 49ers team received a Christmas present a little early this year — a playoff berth Sunday courtesy of the Chicago Bears.

The Bears topped Green Bay 23-21 to eliminate the Packers from the post-season playoff picture and insure the 49ers of at least a wild-card berth depending on the outcome of San Francisco's Monday night game against the Dallas Cowboys.

If the 49ers win, they will be the champions of the NFC West and host a second-round playoff game. If they lose, Los Angeles becomes the champion on the strength of a better division record (5-1 to 4-2) and San Francisco becomes the NFC's second wild-card team.

Dallas' playoff fate was decided Saturday as the Washington Redskins defeated the New York Giants 31-22 to clinch the NFC East crown.

Because the Cowboys have the second best record in the NFC, they will host the battle between the conference's wild-card against either San Francisco or Los Angeles.

That means if San Francisco loses to Dallas on Monday night, the same two teams will meet again on Dec. 26 in Dallas and that could be a fate worse than death for the 49ers.

The last time San Francisco was able to win in Dallas was 1969, the first year the Cowboys were a franchise. Since then they have dropped three other contests — two playoff games — on visits to Texas and come away with one tie.

To win, 49ers quarterback coach Paul Hackett says San Francisco must control the fearsome Dallas pass rush.

"I look at them and I think their pass defense depends a lot on those front four people," Hackett said. "It's not particularly good after that. As far as the back seven guys are concerned, they're not great pass defender-type guys. But if you don't neutralize that front four, you're in trouble."

The key for Dallas, is to prevent the 49ers from getting the big play.

The Cowboys remember too well what happened the last time the two faced each other in a playoff game — the 1981 NFC championship game.

Under a fierce pass rush with just 51 seconds left, Montana rolled out of the pocket and launched a prayer into the endzone that was answered by Dwight Clark as he made "The Catch" and gave the 49ers a 28-27 victory and the NFC title.

San Francisco went on to defeat Cincinnati 26-21 to win Super Bowl XVI.

Cowboy defensive back Everson Walls — the man Clark beat on the play — says he's been waiting two years to redeem himself.

Tigers win American Falls tourney

AMERICAN FALLS — The Jerome Tigers crowned three individual champions and claimed the championship of the American Falls wrestling Invitational Saturday.

The Tigers won with 142 points, finishing 11½ ahead of runner-up Rigby.

Rigby had three individual winners, also, but couldn't match Jerome's auxiliary points. Buhl had two champions and wound up in sixth place among the 12 competing teams:

- 1 — Jerome, 142, 2 — Rigby, 127, 3 — South Fremont 101½, 4 — Soda Springs 101½, 5 — Marsh Valley 96, 6 — Buhl and Salmon 87, 8 — Bear Lake 80, 9 — American Falls 59, 10 — Snake River 47 ½, 11 — Aberdeen 29, 12 — Declo 17.

Individual Champions

- 78 — Coak, Rigby, over Baska, SF; third-fourth, Rubler, Jer, and Stumps, Bear Lake.
- 105 — Mobley, Rigby, over Wilson, AF; third-fourth, Grier, Soda Springs, and Gardner, SF.
- 113 — Humphries, Soda, over Ellis, Snake River; third-fourth, Quale, SF, and Egner, Jerome.
- 118 — Anderson, Rigby, over Barton, Salmon; third-fourth, Erickson, SR, and Barclay, Aber.

126 — Young, SF, over Blanchard, NV; third-fourth, Prater, Buhl, and Thomas, SR.

- 131 — Meadows, Jer, over Lieb, MV; third-fourth, Jackson, Aber, and Blanchard, SF.
- 138 — Beck, Jer, over Jensen, SF; third-fourth, Crane, Bear Lake, and Bowles, SS.

143 — Furness, Rigby, over Thompson, SS; third-fourth, Christensen, Jer, and Lusk, AF.

Cards make it seven of 10 with easy win over Eagles

By TIM BRYANT
United Press International

ST. LOUIS — Rather than look at it as the end of an 8-7-1 season, the St. Louis Cardinals rose Sunday's 31-7 victory over the Philadelphia Eagles as the start of good things to come.

"We had two seasons this year," Cardinals wide receiver Roy Green said. "We started off 1-5. It would have been easy for us to quit. We did not. We bounced back and played better ball than any team in the league for that period of time."

The Cardinals won seven of their final 10 games and were in slim playoff contention until the next-to-last game of the season. Green said the team's talent and consistency through the final weeks will carry over to next year.

"I accomplished most of the things I wanted to this year except get in the playoffs," he said. "I think that's going to turn around next year."

Otis Anderson, who led the Cardinals' ground attack with 156 rushing yards, said divine intervention helped his team's performance in the frigid temperatures.

"You've got to thank the Heavenly strength to be out there in that weather," Anderson said.

Eagles Coach Marlon Campbell offered no excuses for his team, which was held to only 14 yards rushing.

"We didn't get anything going offensively," he said. "We didn't get anything going defensively. They took it to us pretty good. I can't question the effort of my people. They came here with a good attitude and wanted to win the thing."

Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year

ProFootball Browns win, but no playoffs

By JOHN SFEITZ United Press International

CLEVELAND — Brian Sipe ripped Pittsburgh's pass defense to shreds Sunday, throwing four touchdown passes to lead the Cleveland Browns to a tight-fisted 30-17 victory over the Steelers.

But the Browns later lost a chance to make the playoffs as an AFC wildcard team when Seattle beat New England to gain the playoff berth. Denver won the other AFC wildcard slot.

"It was gratifying for all of us," said Sipe. "The last two weeks were close to fracture for us."

That was a reference to consecutive losses to Denver and Houston. A victory in either game, coupled with Sunday's triumph, would have given Cleveland a spot in the playoffs.

"They did what they had to do," Browns' coach Sam Rutigliano said of his players, who finished the season with a 9-7 record. "We're going to have a good evening. If we're going to be here (in the playoffs) Saturday night, the sun is coming up tomorrow morning, either way... Our guys should go out and enjoy what they did."

The game followed the pattern of Cleveland's recent games, with several outbreaks of fighting.

AFC Central

The Browns' last scoring drive proved a large-scale brawl in front of the Browns' bench.

The fight began right after Sipe rolled to the right and uncorked a long pass that appeared to have been intercepted on the Steelers' 1-yard line. Just after Sipe let the ball go, linebacker Jack Lambert knocked him to the frozen turf and was whistled for a flagrant personal foul penalty.

Lambert was thrown out of the game and the Browns got the ball on the Pittsburgh 15. An interference call moved the ball to the 1-yard line and Sipe hit tight end Harry Holt for a touchdown two plays later.

"I just regret that I missed what followed," Sipe said. "But it looked pretty good from the ground. Two years ago I gave him the same shot (opportunity). He should wise up and not do it in front of my bench."

Sipe, who finished with 14 completions on 22 attempts for 189 yards, refused to comment on whether he will be back with the Browns next season or sign with the New Jersey Generals of the United States Football League, as has been rumored.

The Browns did announce Sunday that backup quarterback Paul McDonald, who also filled with the USFL, had signed a series of four, one-year contracts with Cleveland.

Rutigliano called Sipe "a winner" and said "he is still a Cleveland Brown" as far as he is concerned.

Steeler Coach Chuck Noll simply said his team failed to play well.

"It is obvious that they played much better than we did and they deserved to win," he said. "It's as simple as that. We didn't execute effectively, defensively and in the kicking game."

Pittsburgh trailed 23-10 at the half and didn't score again until backup quarterback Mark Malone hit Franco Harris for a touchdown pass as time ran out.

Sipe completed 7-of-14 passes for 153 yards and three touchdowns in the first half to give the Browns a 23-10 lead at intermission.

Cleveland's first score came on a 6-yard strike from Sipe to rookie Rocky Bleck that made the score 6-3 as Matt Bark missed the extra point.

The Steelers had scored on their first possession, moving 30 yards in nine plays to set up a 34-yard field goal by Gary Anderson.

Sipe's second touchdown pass came in the second quarter after safety Al

Gross picked off a Cliff Stoultz pass and returned it 18 yards to the Pittsburgh 34. Cleveland ran the ball to the 3-yard line on a series of short gains by Mike Pruitt and Sipe hit Holt with a 3-yard touchdown pass on the seventh play of the drive.

The Steelers made it 16-10 in the second period on a 3-yard run by Stoultz, who moved Pittsburgh 71 yards in nine plays.

Sipe's third touchdown pass came with only one second left in the half, a 4-yarder to Ricky Feacher. The Browns were helped on the nine-play, 51-yard drive by a pair of Steelers penalties, the most costly a roughing-the-passer call against Keith Gary that gave Cleveland a first down on the 8-yard line.

The National Football League playoff sweepstakes yielded its 10 lucky winners on the final weekend of the season and all that needs to be determined now is the exact order of play.

Miami, the AFC East champion, crushed the New York Jets 31-14 Friday night to wrap up a home field advantage for the opening round. Pittsburgh, the AFC Central champion, lost to Cleveland 30-17 Sunday and will be at Los Angeles either Dec. 31 or Jan. 1 to face the Western Division champion Raiders.

Strife-ridden Colts overcome Houston

By CARL KORN United Press International

BALTIMORE — Despite controversy that threatened to swallow up the young Baltimore Colts, coach Bruce Kneebly was the proud proprietor of his team's play in winning its seventh game of the season.

The Colts, winless in 1983, used big plays by those counted on to be the team's main weapons to defeat the Houston Oilers 30-10 Sunday and finish the season 7-9.

"It was a very meaningful win for us in many respects, considering all the circumstances," Kneebly said. "We stayed in there throughout the entire ballgame. I want to congratulate the players who could've easily have folded."

The Colts were rocked this week by allegations from former Baltimore defensive back Derrick Hatched that Kneebly punched him during an altercation in November.

That and the knowledge that star halfback Curtis Dickey probably would turn to the USFL next week, left the team's morale suspect.

But Kim Anderson returned an interception 71 yards for a touchdown and Raul Allegre kicked two field goals to hand Houston its 14th loss.

AFC East

Anderson cut in front of Houston's Donnie Crain, picking off of Crain's backfield and kicked off Oliver Luck's swing pass, racing down the right sideline for a touchdown.

Baltimore's Mike Pagel hit tight end Earl Beach for a 12-yard touchdown pass late in the fourth quarter to seal the victory.

Halfback Curtis Dickey, who is expected to sign a USFL contract next week, ran for 110 yards to key Baltimore's 191-yard rushing attack.

Anderson's interception returned for a score in the second quarter snapped a 3-3 tie forged by a 34-yard field goal by the Oilers' Florian Kempf and a 48-yarder by Allegre.

The 10-3 halftime score didn't accurately represent the inept two quarters of football witnessed by a near-empty Memorial Stadium crowd.

Pagel completed just two passes in the first half while Houston fullback Earl Campbell — who has demanded an off-season trade — took 16 carries to amass 45 yards.

Bears keep Pack from NFC playoffs

By RANDY MINKOFF United Press International

CHICAGO — Kicker Bob Thomas, still shivering from bone-chilling cold, said he saw the "ironies" in his 22-yard field goal with 10 seconds left that gave the Chicago Bears a 29-21 win over the Green Bay Packers at frozen Soldier Field Sunday.

A similarly dramatic field goal by the Packers' Jan Stenerud in overtime two weeks ago in effect knocked Chicago from the playoffs.

On Sunday, in wind chill of 34 below zero, it was Thomas' turn to return the favor, as his kick eliminated the Packers from post-season play.

"Yes, it was ironic that we kept them out after Jan's kick knocked us out," said Thomas, who had earlier missed from 38 yards. "There were a lot of ironies to it."

A muffed extra point following a touchdown by Jim McMahon, who had thrown for two touchdowns, nearly cost the Bears' the game as holder Brian Baschnagel mishandled the snap.

NFC Central

Green Bay came back to tie when Paul Coffman caught a 5-yard touchdown pass from Lynn Dickey, who threw for another and ran for a TD, with 3:08 remaining. But the Bears drove six yards in 10 plays, capped by Thomas' kick.

"The game was a great compliment to our kids. They hung in and played well enough to win against a team in the running for the playoffs," said Bears' coach Mike Ditka, whose club finished 8-8, same as Green Bay. "For a change, we came back and won a game in the final two minutes."

NOTICE OF INTENDED RULE-MAKING

In compliance with Section 47-223(a)(1), Idaho Code, notice is hereby given that the Idaho Department of Health, Division of Health, has initiated rule-making. The proposed rule-making under Docket Number 0219-8301, involves the amendment or repeal of the existing Food Service Regulations promulgated under the authority granted in Section 39-1601, Idaho Code, and in Section 39-1701, Idaho Code, for the purpose of implementing the amendments of Sections 39-1601 and 39-1701, Idaho Code, effective as soon as possible.

The following is a descriptive summary of the substance and the intended principal issues involved:

The present Food Service Regulations were promulgated and went into effect in February, 1975. Since that time, there has been an accumulation of changes which have become necessary for the maintenance of a smooth operation program. Some of these changes have significant impact on the public through the decrease in regulations which will save money for those being regulated.

In addition, we have been requested to renumber all regulations to be consistent with the new specified numbering system, to be uniform and cost-effective to update and renumber at the same time.

The time limits specified below, any person can review the proposed rules, and submit comments to the proposed rules, and any individual or entity may be affected by the proposed rules is encouraged to submit written request for a hearing at the address specified below, on or before January 3, 1984.

DATED this 26th day of November, 1983.

LEGAL NOTICE

The following is a descriptive summary of the substance of the proposed rules and the principal issues involved:

This proposal is for the purpose of changing the portion of these regulations that relate to the legal authority to promulgate and enforce regulations.

The proposed rules are designed to include additional references which state that the Department of Health and Welfare is the legal authority to promulgate and enforce regulations.

Within the time limits specified below, any person can review the proposed rules in the DHSW Administrative Procedure Section or in any of the regional administrative offices of the Department. Copies of the proposed rules will be made available upon written request specifying the docket number cited above.

Anyone can submit written request regarding the proposed rules, and any individual or entity may be affected by the proposed rules is encouraged to submit information concerning the anticipated economic impact of the proposed action. For assistance on technical questions concerning the proposed rules must be directed to the undersigned and delivered on or before January 3, 1984.
