Undecided voters primary target

By DAVID ESPO The Associated Press

Democratic presidential rivals Walter F. Mondale and Gary Hart barnstormed through the South on Monday, reaching out for undecided voters in a frantic, final day of campaigning before the delegate-rich round of primaries and caucuses on "Super Tuesday."

Dark horse contenders John Glenn, George McGovern and Jesse Jackson made their final appeals, as well. But public opinion polls and party leaders indicated the race was between Mondale and Hart in most if not all of the nine states where Democratic presidential contests were on the schedule.

Hart leading Mondale 2-1 in state polls; even in 2 others

By The Associated Press

Sen. Gary Hart leads former Vice President Walter F. Mondale in two of the five states holding Democratic presidential primaries Tuesday, while the rivals are neck and neck in two others, and Mondale holds a comfortable advantage in Alabama, according to polls commissioned by news organizations.

The poll represented a running average of surveys conducted on Saturday and Sunday of 350 likely voters in the Democratic primary and had an error rate of plus or minus 5 percent.

The Florida Newspaper Poll, sponsored by the Fort Lauderdale News and Sun-Sentinel, The Orlando Sentinel and the St. Petersburg Times and Evening Independent, found Mondale the choice of 32 percent of the 594 respondents and Hart the choice of 31 percent.

But results of additional polling by ABC and The Post later in the week suggested that Hart's lead may have declined to only four percentage points in recent days.

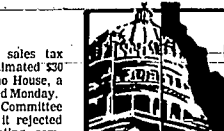

MASSACHUSETTS A poll of 699 likely voters by Harrison and Goldberg Inc. for The Boston Globe indicated that Hart held a comfortable, 46-27 percent lead over Mondale.

RHODE ISLAND A poll done for Providence television station WLNE released on the eve of the primary showed Hart leading Mondale with 47 percent of the support of 340 people who said they were going to vote Tuesday.

House gets half-cent sales tax boost

By SUSAN GALLAGHER The Associated Press

BOISE — A proposed half-cent sales tax increase that would generate an estimated $30 million will be submitted to the Idaho House, a legislative committee narrowly decided Monday.

IDAHO LEGISLATURE 1984

The bill's first hurdle wasn't cleared easily on Monday as committee members debated the proposal and their philosophical split on tax measures.

Rep. Robert Forrey, R-Nampa, He said Idaho residents don't want another tax increase.

Before endorsing the half-cent plan, the committee disagreed over the frequent 99 votes that kill measures instead of sending them to the full House for consideration.

"I don't like the threats to this committee, frankly," Mrs. Gilbert said. "If they want to do it, let them have at it," she said of the House Appropriations Committee's power to introduce tax bills.

Evans vetoes water litigation limits

By OLO JOHN EVANS

BOISE (AP) — Gov. John Evans, fulfilling a pledge he made early this year, has vetoed legislation aimed at ending the court involvement of the holders of some 5,000 water rights permits in the continuing battle over control of Snake River water at Swan Falls.

problems created by the state Supreme Court decision giving Idaho Power Co. priority to the water, Evans said he would not accept a bill limiting a massive court suit filed by the utility.

water rights permits to protect itself against possible investor claims that it had not done everything possible to preserve by the priority rights granted it by the state Supreme Court.

'Oral sub-lease' for Walker Center

By JANENE BUCKWAY Times-News correspondent

GOODING — The Walker ACT Center in Gooding may now have a lease on the land where it built its new $1.2 million home last year — but only on a one-year "oral sub-lease" instead of the long-term lease it wanted.

Oct. 1, 1984, with the stipulation that the Walker Center negotiate with the state.

When the building, which is connected to and operated in conjunction with the tax-supported hospital, was built, the state raised the yearly rental fee to the county from $175 to $1,712.

"We need them (Walker Center) and they need us," Thomas said in recommending acceptance of the check and the "oral sub-lease" arrangement.

In business relating to the adjacent Gooding County Memorial Hospital and its $212,000 deficit, Thomas said the county is considering reinstating a tax levy to provide funds for the hospital. A similar levy was removed from the county tax rolls in 1974, he said.

Governor vetoes $5 fine for speeding

BOISE (AP) — Accusing state lawmakers of fueling disregard for the law, Gov. John Evans has rejected legislation that would have reduced the fine for exceeding the controversial 55 mph speed limit to just $5, payable by mail.

"It appears to be a reaction against the national speed limit law," Evans said Monday in vetoing the bill. "Encouraging disobedience of the citizenry is not a proper course for Idaho to take."

The bill would have imposed the minimal fine on motorists charged with speeding violations between 55 and 70 mph. Those accused of violating the old 70 mph law would still be subject to higher penalties.

The vetoed measure now goes back to lawmakers for a possible override, requiring 47 votes in the House and 23 in the Senate. Although the Senate endorsed the reduced fine by 30-12 margin, the bill slipped through the House by only a 38-31 count. Other states, including neighboring Wyoming have enacted similar laws.

"In a free society there are proper ways to change a federal law," Evans said. "If the Legislature wants the national law changed, they should seek the change in the U.S. Congress."

In the wake of the Arab oil embargo in 1973, then President Richard Nixon backed by Congress ordered all states to lower the predominate 70 mph limit to 55 mph to reduce fuel consumption or face the loss of federal highway funds. Congress has ordered a complete study of the speed limit's impact, Evans pointed out, and the results of that review won't be available until August.

While the fuel-savings aspects are less important now than they were a decade ago, the governor said, the "slower" speed limit is still enhancing highway safety.

In Idaho alone, he said, the 55 mph speed limit can be credited with reducing traffic fatalities by 120 over the past 10 years.

"The dual benefits of saving energy and lives still deserve consideration," Evans said, reiterating that the reduced fine "would undermine public regard for the law, disregard for the law is debilitating to society."

House passes plan changing its own districts

BOISE (AP) — For the third time this legislative session, the Idaho House has passed a legislative redistricting plan.

But this one, approved 49-17 Monday and sent to the Senate, is unique. It creates new district lines for House members, but leaves the Senate alone.

The proposal is similar to a bill passed by the House earlier this month, but which was tabled by the Senate.

And both House and Senate passed an earlier redistricting bill which was vetoed by Gov. John Evans.

Rep. Walt Little, R-New Plymouth, suggested his bill as a compromise. He said it makes only minor changes in the redistricting plan approved earlier, but does not involve the Senate.

All redistricting plans approved in Idaho in the past have covered both House and Senate, but Little said it's not unprecedented for the House and Senate to have different districting plans.

Little said the latest proposal makes only minor changes from an earlier redistricting bill killed by the Senate. It calls for a house with 72 members, two more than at present.

Rep. Lyman Gene Winchester, R-Kuna, complained earlier that the redistricting plans were splitting his community between different legislative districts.

Little said that problem was corrected, and all of Kuna now is in the same district.

Minor changes also were made in the Bannock-Bingham-Power area and around Twin Falls, Little said.

Rep. John Sessions, R-Driggs, said he didn't like the way the Teton-Bonneville district was created.

Unless the Legislature acts this session, Idaho's next legislative election will be held under a plan approved by the Idaho Supreme Court.

Farm Bureau's brake on initiatives passes

BOISE (AP) — The Idaho Farm Bureau Federation has won a victory in the Idaho House.

The House voted 41-27 Monday afternoon for legislation making it much tougher to get initiatives on the statewide ballot.

The proposal, which was sponsored by and heavily lobbied by the Idaho Farm Bureau, now heads to the Senate.

"This will assure that initiatives on the ballot will be things of statewide interest and support, and not just local issues," said sponsor Rep. Dean Haugenson, R-Coeur d'Alene.

But Rep. James Stoltcheff, D-Sandpoint, noted that the Farm Bureau didn't speak up after the 1 percent property tax initiative passed in 1978, but sponsored the new legislation after the so-called "50-50" initiative lowered property taxes on homes and raised them on farms.

"We know pretty well why it's here," said Stoltcheff.

Lottery measure loses

BOISE (AP) — Another attempt to authorize state lotteries in Idaho has died in a House committee.

The House Ways and Means Committee voted Monday to reject a plan to launch Idaho lotteries, with proceeds to be dedicated to improving teacher salaries.

Rep. Lyman Gene Winchester, R-Kuna, presented the proposal to an afternoon committee meeting, but didn't get a single vote for it.

Lottery legislation is stalled in the Senate. The House State Affairs Committee earlier this session voted down a lottery bill.

Winchester's bill called for proceeds from the lottery, which he estimated at more than $20 million per year, to go for increases in state teacher salaries.

The bill earmarked the revenue for the Idaho Excellence in Education Act.

That legislation passed the House early in the session but has been stalled in the Senate Health, Education and Welfare Committee. Senate leaders say they won't allow it to come to a vote until the House approves some sort of tax bill to pay for it.

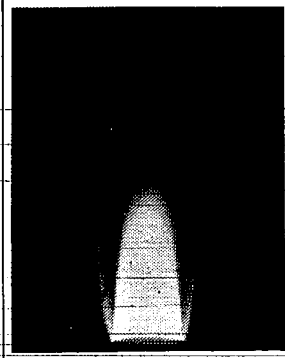

Winchester said his bill is an attempt to break the deadlock. He said work on the state budget is stalled over the tax issue.

"This would get both moving at the same time," he said.

Rep. Jack Kennevick, R-Boise, noted that even if the Legislature approves a state lottery, it has to go before voters in November.

It would be next year before Idaho could launch a state lottery, he said. "What happens if it fails to pass?" he asked. "Would we be faced with a special session?"

"We'd be no worse off than the stalemate we have now," said Winchester.

Gas water heating makes more sense than ever...

DOLLARS AND CENTS!

Gas water heating offers you significant benefits.

1 If you have a gas furnace and an electric water heater, change to gas water heating and your gas rate for both heating and water heating will go down 10% to 20% year around depending on the price of electricity in your area.

2 Gas heats water twice as fast as electricity. Wouldn't it be nice not to worry about running out of hot water? You can with a gas heater. Electric models heat 18 gallons an hour. Gas heats 37 gallons an hour. It's just that simple!

3 New gas water heaters have greatly improved efficiency. Older models have efficiency ratings around 65% or less. New high efficiency gas heaters are rated up to 85% efficient. Better insulation reduces heat loss. New burner design provides better combustion efficiency and improved flue design retains more heat in the tank.

A new gas water heater is easy to own.

1 Zero interest financing* We'll finance the water heater and installation at zero interest, no money down, payments of $15.00 a month. (Maximum amount for financing, $450).

2 $100 Cash Rebate* If you purchase a new gas water heater without using Intermountain's finance program, we'll give you a $100 cash rebate.

3 Financing for new furnace and water heater* If your gas furnace is 15 years old or older, you should consider installing a new high tech heating system. It could lower your heating bills by 25% to 40%. We'll finance your new furnace and water heater for no money down, payments as low as $20.00 a month.

* Subject to certain conditions including a gas water heater must replace an existing electric model and be rated at ASHRAE 90-75.

Child abuse toll tops 2,000 a year

By JEFFREY MILLS
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — More than 1 million American children are seriously abused by their parents annually and more than 2,000 of them die, a House committee was told Monday.

"Our best information says these numbers are on the rise," said Anne Harris Cohn, executive director of the National Committee for Prevention of Child Abuse.

Mrs. Cohn told a hearing of the Select Committee on Children, Youth and Families that every case of child abuse costs an estimated $2,000 or more in expenses for an investigation and short-term treatment.

"When a child must be hospitalized or put in foster care or a parent incarcerated, the costs rise significantly," she said.

"Abused children suffer a wide variety of developmental, emotional and physical difficulties. Some need to be institutionalized. Others need special education. Some become juvenile delinquents or teen-age runaways or teen-age drug addicts or teen-age prostitutes."

"But the time that happens, society pays," Mrs. Cohn said, adding that some abused children "become abusive parents or hardened criminals."

Mrs. Cohn said a study conducted by her committee indicated that programs offering support to new parents, especially around the time of birth, "have been significant in diminishing the chances of child abuse."

"All prenatal care programs should provide prospective parents with parenting education and other supports to ease the difficulties associated with having a new infant in the home," she said.

Mrs. Cohn said 15 states have established children's trust funds aimed at preventing child abuse. The funds are financed by surcharges on marriage licenses, birth certificates or divorce decrees.

She said her group has a goal of reducing incidents of child abuse by 20 percent by the end of the decade.

"We do not expect to be able to precisely measure the accomplishment of this goal. But we do believe that, with a continuing proliferation of a wide variety of community-based prevention programs which support new parents, educate children in how to protect themselves from abuse and assist those who have been victims of abuse, our goal can be met," Mrs. Cohn said.

School prayer debate to go for week

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., said Monday he will let debate on a proposed constitutional amendment to permit organized prayer in public schools run on for at least another week.

"There is no desire on the part of the leadership to speed things up unduly or act with great haste," Baker told the Senate as it began its second full week of debate on the measure, which President Reagan has made a major part of his re-election campaign agenda.

Baker also said that he hoped the Senate could shortly get around to voting on the many modifications that have been offered so far — including a proposed compromise crafted by Baker and other Senate leaders providing an option for silent prayer sessions.

"I would like to get started on the amendment process. At some point, you've just got to start voting," Baker told reporters prior to the start of Monday's Senate session.

Despite Baker's expression of some impatience with the Senate's slow pace on the school prayer amendment in his meeting with reporters, he talked about the need to move slowly in his address to the Senate, acknowledging the sensitivity of the issue and the depth of emotions on both sides.

"While negotiations might seem endless ... I'm willing to provide whatever time is needed, within reason," Baker told colleagues.

He said he planned to keep the Senate meeting on the amendment all this week "and if we have to go into next week, we'll go into next week."

Opponents of the amendment, led by Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., have threatened to drag out debate on the measure until June.

But Baker said that he won't file a filibuster-breaking cloture motion until or unless he determines that opponents are actually trying to waste time, rather than arguing the merits of the proposal.

AMA seeks treatment probe bar

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Medical Association filed suit against the Reagan administration Monday to prevent it from investigating treatment given to handicapped infants, saying such "intrusion" was declared illegal in New York's Baby Jane Doe case.

The suit asserts that the investigations "injure parents who are placed in tragic, stressful situations" and "constitute massive and unjustified invasions" of their privacy. It also charges that new regulations force doctors to violate medical ethics.

The suit comes as the Reagan administration pursues efforts to investigate whether handicapped infants suffer discrimination as a result of medical decisions denying them life-prolonging treatment.

Dr. James H. Sammons, executive vice president of the American Medical Association, said, "The AMA believes without reservation that medical decisions involving the care of severely handicapped newborns should be the responsibility of the parents in consultation with their physicians and other professionals on the medical treatment team."

Last Friday, the Reagan administration asked a federal appeals court to reconsider a ruling that barred it from investigating the hospital treatment of Baby Jane Doe, a child born five months ago with an open spinal column and an abnormally developed head.

Her parents opposed corrective surgery, and the federal government sued University Hospital in Stony Brook, N.Y., in an unsuccessful effort to subpoena her medical records for a civil rights investigation.

Bar rape prosecutor rests case

FALL RIVER, Mass. (AP) — The prosecution rested its case Monday against two men charged in a barroom gang rape after a policewoman testified she interviewed a hysterical rape victim who "couldn't believe what had happened to her."

Detective Sandra Grace was among 20 witnesses called by prosecutors before they rested their case against Daniel Silva, 27, and Joseph Vieira, 28, who are being tried separately from four other defendants.

Mrs. Grace said she interviewed the 22-year-old woman hours after the woman reported being raped on a pool table at Big Dan's tavern in nearby New Bedford on March 6, 1983.

"She was hysterical and in a state of shock," said Mrs. Grace. "I got the impression that she couldn't believe what had happened to her."

Earlier, in the separate morning session for the four others, another police officer testified that two of the men admitted they held a screaming woman on a pool table while she was raped.

Detective Kenneth Gormley said the admission came from defendants John Cordeiro and Victor Raposo on March 7, 1983.

According to Gormley, Cordeiro went to the police station and "told us that he wanted to tell us what he did. He said he was sorry. He said he was drunk, but that was no excuse for what he had done."

Gormley said Cordeiro told of meeting a woman while playing pool at Big Dan's. He said the woman kissed him and asked to leave with him, but then changed her mind as he and Raposo started to leave the bar.

The detective said Cordeiro and Raposo decided to stay for another drink and found the woman on the barroom floor with "Alfalfa," — Silva — on top of her.

Cordeiro said Silva then took the woman to the pool table and climbed on her, Gormley testified.

Gormley said Cordeiro told him "he and Victor held her legs while the other man" tried to have intercourse with the woman.

Cordeiro said he then held the woman's head and made her perform oral sex on him, Gormley testified.

The policeman said Cordeiro told him "she was screaming and trying to push them away."

"We asked him why he hadn't assisted the girl. He said he was sorry, he wished he had."

Air cleanup push likely

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dying trees in Eastern forests could force the government to speed up plans to clean up the nation's air, Environmental Protection Agency Administrator William D. Ruckelshaus said Monday.

"It's conceivable we've got wider spread economic effects than we've discussed so far," Ruckelshaus told reporters.

Slowed growth and even deaths of some trees have been documented at several points in the East, particularly at high altitudes. Studies of tree rings suggest the slowdown started about 1960 and has worsened in the last decade.

Similar problems in Germany have progressed further, Ruckelshaus noted.

"They have higher pH, more ozone, more severe pollution problems in Germany than we do here," Ruckelshaus said. "We think that that is perceived as happening more rapidly, or is happening. It would accelerate the time frame in which we have to act."

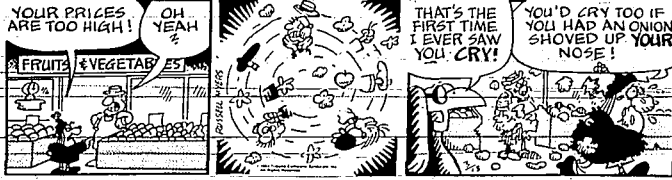

Acidity is measured by a quantity called pH.

Inmate off death row after 34 years

SHIGEYOUSHI TANEGUCHI
Found innocent in retrial

TOKYO — A death row inmate who spent 34 years behind bars and faced the gallows for allegedly killing a black market rice dealer was freed Monday by a court decision that nullified his sentence and declared him innocent.

Supporters cried "Banzaai!" when word of the outcome of the retrial for Shigeoyoshi Taneguchi, 53, spread outside the district court in Takamatsu, on Japan's main southwestern island of Shikoku.

"Everything I see is glittering," Taneguchi said in a news conference outside the courthouse. "All I want to do now is to go back to my village and till the land."

The Kyodo News Service said Taneguchi is entitled to receive the equivalent of $228,000 in indemnity for the years he spent in prison.

"In my first years (in prison), I was very angry at the prosecutors, policemen and judges in my case. Now, I have no feeling of hatred against them," Taneguchi said.

Among the crowd at the courthouse was Sakae Menda, 57, the first man to be declared innocent in Japan in a retrial. His conviction was reversed in July, also after spending 34 years in prison.

In Taneguchi's case, the second such reversal, district Chief Judge Kiyoshi Furuchi ruled that prosecutors' evidence was inadequate for a conviction.

Taneguchi was accused of the February, 1950, robbery-slaying of a 63-year-old black market rice dealer. The equivalent of $36 was taken from the victim.

Taneguchi, then 19, was arrested a month after the killing and has been in prison ever since. He was convicted and condemned to death by hanging in 1951.

Police said he confessed during four months of questioning, and that blood on his trousers matched that of the victim, Taneguchi said in court he was coerced into making a confession and challenged the results of the blood tests.

Taneguchi's initial appeals were rejected, and the death sentence was upheld by a 1957 Supreme Court ruling.

Although appeals are rarely granted in murder cases, they have been routinely used to delay execution in Japan. Among the most famous cases still pending is that of Satarachi Hirotsawa, 92, who has spent 36 years in prison for a 1948 bank robbery and murder.

Drinking, napping puts burglar in jail

DENVER (AP) — Too much wine and too little sleep apparently felled a would-be burglar, found snoozing beside a safe with a half-empty bottle and an assortment of tools within easy reach, police said.

Richelle Martin, 24, of Denver, was arrested Saturday after a security guard found him asleep in an office at a north Denver building, according to police reports.

The security guard, James Durham, told police he found the napping suspect snoozing beside a safe, with the wine bottle and various tools scattered beside him.

Durham handcuffed the man to a desk and called police. Martin was roused and advised of his rights, then arrested, police said.

Martin was being held in the Denver City Jail for investigation of burglary.

Police said Martin entered the building by breaking a door window and unlocking the door.

Rodger McDowell Jr., another security guard, said Martin was spotted about 12:45 a.m. Saturday and "said he was a construction worker running some wire through a wall."

Wrong numbers lead to monster phone bills

BEDFORD, N.Y. (AP) — A woman was still complaining about a whopping $109,000 telephone bill when a couple in a neighboring community reported they got one for $61,000, mostly for calls they never made.

The telephone company look both customers all the hook for the bills, which included charges for calls around the globe, officials said Monday.

The latest mammoth bill was reported by Connie and John Weinstock of Golden's Brake, who said their February bill of $61,000 covered 550 pages. Most of it was a four-day binge of calls around the globe that included charges from Sri Lanka, China, Germany, Sweden and other countries.

Earlier, Jane Landenberger of Bedford got a bill for $109,504.86, almost all of which was charged to her credit card number.

When a telephone company representative interrupted a call by Mrs. Landenberger last week to tell her that her phone bill was "excessive," she hung up.

"After all, it was a mistake, right? But when she heard it would take a truck to deliver the 2,578-page tab, her composure began to disintegrate.

"That's what made me think 'Holy Catfish, I really have got a big bill!'" she recalled Sunday night.

The Westchester County woman said she knew something was amiss in the huge bill listing calls to and from places all over the world, all charged to her telephone credit card.

"They were from all over, to all over," she said. "Libya, England, Japan — you name it."

Just who had made the calls was not clear, but New York Telephone Co. accepted Mrs. Landenberger's word that it wasn't her. The company agreed to take off $109,492.86 from the bill, leaving her with a February telephone bill of a more modest $47.03.

The company also changed her credit card number and declared the old one invalid. That stopped the calls, and also ended one of the more puzzling and wearying periods in Mrs. Landenberger's life.

New York Telephone said it was investigating the calls to determine who had made them. The culprits, apparently a number of them, could have ranged from college pranksters to big-time drug dealers. The New York Times said in today's editions.

It started in January, when she began getting strange calls at all hours of the day and night from operators asking her permission for third-party calls to and from distant cities. She said she always denied authorization, Mrs. Landenberger said. The calls were frequently from Miami and environs.

When her January telephone bill arrived, it was for $300. The telephone company agreed to delete the excess charges from her bill, and promised to change her credit card number. But, she said, someone apparently forgot.

Police give latest works poor reviews

NEW YORK (AP) — An artist exhibited his work in Lower Manhattan over the weekend, and the reviews from city police were poor.

The Police Department bomb squad recovered seven of artist Ted Rosenthal's works — painted empty propane canisters welded to a black box in a day-long effort Sunday, said Sgt. Ed Burns, a police spokesman.

"He puts artwork up every year," said Burns. "Usually the theme is pornography, but this year it was bombs."

Police cordoned off the area around each object that was found. The first was reported at 11 a.m. about 12 feet up the side of a building.

Rosenthal reportedly left for his home in Cincinnati after placing the objects around town during the night.

A woman at the Gracie Mansion Gallery, where Rosenthal's work has been sold, told the New York Daily News that the artist often displays his work outside.

"Usually they get stolen," she was quoted as saying. "I asked him what those sculptures were and he said, 'Oh, it's a bomb.'"

"I don't think he knew what was going to happen," she added.

Burns said the artist might be charged with being a public nuisance, "if they catch him."

Blockade retains purifiers

McKEESPORT, Pa. (AP) — Backed by horses and police cars, city garbage trucks and earth movers on Monday blocked the departure of an Army Reserve water purifier that had helped residents cope with contaminated tap water for more than a week.

"It looked like we were going to war," said Maj. John Chasarik, the officer in charge of the 11-man reserve detail that gave away an estimated 100,000 gallons of pure water to residents.

"The city blockaded us. They had backhoes with their booms extended all the way and garbage trucks all around us. The county was waiting in relief about two streets away," Chasarik said.

The cordon was removed around noon when local authorities learned the reserve would keep two water-purifying units in McKeesport until next Wednesday.

The Army Reserve's 48-hour extension was announced Sunday night by U.S. Sen. Arlen Specter, D-Pa., but city officials apparently did not hear about it until after the blockade had begun.

Tom Foerster, chairman of the Allegheny County Commissioners, and Police Superintendent Robert Krone did not return phone calls Monday to The Associated Press.

Microscopic parasites, called gardia, infesting McKeesport's aged water system have caused intestinal disorders in at least 182 people, Allegheny County Health Department spokesman Guillermo Cole said Monday.

County health officials last month warned some 45,000 people in McKeesport Municipal Water Authority to boil tap water or obtain purified water elsewhere while authorities try to correct the problem.

Meanwhile, local officials are negotiating to have the state and federal governments declare a state of emergency in McKeesport and release funds to keep the Army Reserve units in place longer.

Monday's demonstration "shows the concern they have over this. They're very serious," Chasarik said.

Had his orders not been changed, Chasarik said he would not have tried to break through the blockade of the unit near City Hall.

"I'd have called my higher ups and said, 'Hey, they won't let us out,'" he said.

Witnesses said county police horses, 15 to 20 heavy trucks and pieces of road-working equipment and a mobile police command trailer arrived in McKeesport around 7 a.m. and waded several blocks away while city equipment encircled the reservists. About 20 county sheriff's cars were also on standby several miles from McKeesport at the Allegheny County Airport.

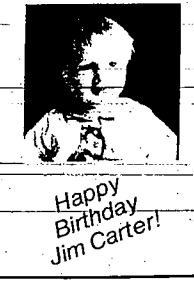

The other water purifier, in a schoolyard in another section of the city, was not affected, Chasarik said.

Joseph Moses, director of the Allegheny County Maintenance Department, said the county forces were on hand "because we had an alternate plan" in case the Reserve ordered the units to leave.

Moses said he was "not at liberty" to disclose the plan, but he said he could not deny reports that the county was ready to participate in the blockade.

At a meeting Monday in McKeesport, the county commissioners declared a state of emergency and agreed to reimburse the Army Reserve for the purifiers, which Foerster said cost about $8,000 each per month.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Monument has settled into the ground a little bit since it was completed a century ago, but because a bronze marker is missing, it might take another decade to determine exactly how much.

The National Geodetic Survey took bearings on the 555.5-foot monument Monday, using two new, stainless steel benchmarks placed securely in opposite corners of the lowering structure.

It will be five or 10 years before any change in the position of the monument would be large enough to be detected by new measurements, said Charles G. Whalen of the Geodetic Survey.

That is because the National Park Service — without telling the survey — removed a bronze marker the survey had been using every 10 years since the 1920s to check the position of the monument.

The old, four-inch bronze disk had been set in the granite doorknob of the monument's main entrance. Both the doorknob and the benchmark were removed by the park service, which operates the monument, for installation of a concrete ramp for handicapped visitors.

The Geodetic Survey did not learn of the marker's removal for several years. Had they been informed at the time, survey officials said, new markers could have been placed and related to the old marker to allow comparison of future measurements with previous ones.

That is no longer possible, because the hand-capped ramp makes it impossible to determine exactly where the missing marker was, officials said.

So the new, stainless steel markers were installed last week, and the first measurements were taken Monday from the markers to other, stable benchmarks at the Smithsonian Institution, the White House and other nearby sites.

Despite all this uncertainty, Whalen said, there is no threat to the monument itself.

Make Fido mind Any dog can

BURLEY — Can a little dog from the streets of Burley find success and happiness among the aristocrats of dogdom?

"You bet she can," says Virginia Hansen of Burley, who is literally a card-carrying dog trainer.

She is certified as a trainer for companion dogs (C.D.), companion dogs excellent (C.D.X.) and within a few weeks will be the only certified person in the state of Idaho to train utility-class dogs (U.D.), she says.

The licensing organization for certified dog trainers is the National Association for Dog Obedience Instructors.

Hansen says her street-dog client is Ginger, a red Doberman puppy that was left in the outside retaining pen at the Burley Animal Control facility a few weeks ago.

She and animal control officer Walter Roberts got their heads together and came up with an idea to help find a home for Ginger and at the same time promote dog adoptions from the animal shelter, says Hansen.

The idea is to choose a dog from the shelter to be trained by Hansen on her Monday night dog obedience training class for the Mini-Cassia Community Education Program.

Ginger is being put through the paces along with an assortment of thoroughbred and mixed-breed pets, says Hansen.

"Our ultimate goal is to demonstrate the desirability of shelter dogs as potential pets," she continues.

Hansen says she follows three basic methods in training dogs: Getting the dog to understand what is expected of it, convincing the dog that it must do as it is told (the "clicker" is used to reinforce all commands) and praising the dog at the end of each exercise.

"Everyone likes a pat on the head," says Hansen.

She goes on to say that obedience

Bills would blunt rulings on fish farms

By RICK SHAUGHNESSY
Times-News Capitol Bureau

BOISE — A Senate committee introduced legislation Monday aimed at negating one of several precedents set in a court decision denying construction of a Gooding County trout farm.

Another bill, which was already introduced by the committee, is aimed at amending other areas of the Magic Valley legislation known in some Statehouse circles as "the knife" for its tendency to cut what he perceives to be the fat in proposed budgets for state agencies and programs.

But today he'll propose to the House Revenue and Taxation Committee that personal income tax brackets be expanded to net the state an additional $18.5 million annually.

"The Trout Co. decision puts burden on applicants (for water permits) that are virtually impossible to meet," said Ron Dunn, director of the department, in support of the legislation.

That decision was handed down in a case that pitted the state Department of Fish and Game and property owners on Billingsley Creek against the trout company headed by Rick Eggleston of Buhl.

Fish and Game opposed the proposed fish farm on the grounds it would damage the existing trout fishery on the creek. The property owners argued that the ensuing stench from what would have been the ninth fish farm on the creek would hurt the value of their properties and the aesthetic and recreational qualities of the creek.

The parties argued the water quality of the creek would be reduced to a level below acceptable standards as set by the state Department of Health and Welfare. And they questioned whether the company had financial resources needed to bring the project to fruition.

In the decision on the Trout Co., the court held "the applicant has the burden of proof to show that his project is worthy of the issuance of a permit."

"This means that the design of the proposed facility should be final, detailed and not schematic. Unless this is the case, the project cannot be properly evaluated for financing or effect on the public interest," the court ruled.

Sen. William Ringert, R-Boise, said the bill that was introduced today

Local PCA seeks advice

Huddling with its borrowers

By BOB FREUND
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Worried about its image in the Magic Valley, the Eastern Idaho Production Credit Association now is asking its borrowers for advice.

During the past two weeks, officials from the Pocatello-based PCA — including President J. Elden Hill — have approached more than 110 members at small meetings in the Burley, Jerome, Twin Falls, Buhl and Gooding areas.

The PCA is hoping the borrowers who attend the face-to-face talks will "go back to the coffee shop" and spread the facts and not the rumors," said Andy Wiseman.

The Eastern Idaho PCA also is changing the way it deals with its members.

A periodic newsletter now is on the drawing boards, and the recent meetings with members may grow into regular advisory committees.

Loan officers already have been ordered to make personal visits to their clients to get better acquainted with their operations. The PCA also will field financial management and marketing seminars for members, Wiseman and Hill said.

"We needed these meetings to find out from our borrowers how we can better serve them," Hill said in a prepared statement.

There has been a lot of misunderstanding concerning our acquisition of the territory formerly served by the now liquidated Southern Idaho PCA," he said. "We want people to know the facts."

The Eastern Idaho PCA picked up the eight-county territory served by the Southern Idaho PCA in December, after it was taken over by federal officials and dissolved by its directors because of large loan losses.

Although local offices have remained open for services, the change has triggered rumors about the Eastern Idaho PCA's lending practices and its acceptance of former Southern Idaho borrowers' accounts. Those not accepted by the Eastern Idaho PCA are generally going to the Southern Idaho PCA's liquidating agents.

Wiseman said Monday the Eastern Idaho association has watched its lending volume in the Magic Valley slide from $83 million to about $50 million since acquiring the territory on Dec. 9. But, February traditionally also is the lowest point of the year in lending for PCAs, because it is after farmers have paid their outstanding loans and before they have taken on new ones to grow crops, he points out.

Members at the recent meetings were interested in the difference in interest rates between the PCA and area banks, he said. Right now, members in the Eastern Idaho PCA are paying 65 percent less than they were with the Southern Idaho PCA, but 5 percent more than other Eastern Idaho members. The difference is

House panel OKs school renovation

By The Associated Press
and The Times-News

BOISE — A proposal launching a major renovation of the state school for the Deaf and Blind has moved a step closer to reality.

The House State Affairs Committee on Monday unanimously approved a resolution authorizing an $8.5 million renovation and reconstruction project at the Gooding school.

Although the resolution doesn't carry any specification of money, it will obligate the state to paying $8.5 million through 1987.

The resolution cleared the Senate earlier and under normal procedures will come up for a final House vote before the end of the week.

The project calls for the State Building Authority to issue bonds to pay for the reconstruction project.

Public Works Director Brian Chase said the school's construction would have to pay $2.5 million in 1985, $3 million in 1986 and $3 million in 1987 to repay the bonds.

An architect will be selected next month, and plans should be completed by December.

Construction could start near April, and the renovation project should be finished by September of 1988, Chase said.

Many buildings on the Gooding campus are outdated and costly to operate, he said. But through improved operating efficiency and reduced energy demand, the project can pay for itself, he believes.

The plan calls for construction of a new high school and elementary school on the Gooding campus, as well as renovation of other buildings to provide the necessary classrooms.

Superintendent Kelth Tozlin said earlier that many of the buildings fail to meet current safety codes. And the high school was condemned after the Oct. 26 earthquake aggravated structural problems.

Although the high school is the only immediate hazard that must be replaced, Tozlin says the other construction and renovation proposed eventually will be needed to meet increasing enrollment, and the state could save money by doing all the work at the same time.

School administrators estimate, based on current projections, that the resident student population will increase from about 140 students to 190 by the end of the century.

They also expect the number of non-resident students to jump from 250 to 600 in the same period.

Mack 'the Knife' Neibaur pushes for ways to raise money

By RICK SHAUGHNESSY
Times-News Capitol Bureau

BOISE — For a politician with a conservative, anti-tax increase reputation, Mack Neibaur, R-Paul, has spent a lot of time this year promoting revenue-raising schemes. The Magic Valley legislator is known in some Statehouse circles as "the knife" for his tendency to cut what he perceives to be the fat in proposed budgets for state agencies and programs.

But today he'll propose to the House Revenue and Taxation Committee that personal income tax brackets be expanded to net the state an additional $18.5 million annually.

What is most surprising is this is Neibaur's third revenue raising proposal. On Friday, the taxation committee introduced another of his proposals — one designed to net the state more funds through minimum income taxes on individuals and corporations, repeal of the state's investment tax credit and other changes.

And earlier this session, he proposed the Legislature retain 1 percent of the 1.5 percent temporary portion of the state's sales tax that is scheduled to expire July 1. Neibaur says now that wasn't a good idea.

"The one thing I get more than anything else is the credibility of the Legislature is at stake with the sales tax," Neibaur says in his conversations with constituents.

Neibaur's latest proposal wouldn't affect persons with adjusted gross income of less than $5,000. The greatest tax increase under his plan would impact those with adjusted gross incomes in excess of $10,000.

Returns within the $10,000 to $20,000 range would be subject to a 1.5 percent increase in the marginal tax rate — the tax levied on income above $10,000. Those with incomes above $20,000 would be impacted by a 2.5 percent increase on the adjusted gross income above that amount and would be subject to the 1.5 percent increase on income between $10,000 and $20,000.

The out-of-pocket costs incurred by Idaho taxpayers would be $11 million, Neibaur says. The federal government would be impacted for an additional $7.5 million in foregone revenues caused by the increased state payments, he says.

When asked if it was prudent to take $7.5 million away from the federal government at a period when its budget deficits are severe a problem, Neibaur commented: "If the federal people would do as good a job as we do keeping down spending, I would worry about it."

One thing Neibaur says he is worried about is getting someone to represent him before the tax committee on the proposal. The Joint Finance and Appropriations Committee, on which he serves as vice chairman, meets at the same time as Revenue and Taxation.

And given the delicate balance of liberal and conservative legislators serving on that committee, Neibaur says he fears if he is absent the liberals may get the upper hand and approve budgets at levels the state cannot afford.

Neibaur says all of his revenue-raising proposals have been in the direction of setting budgets and adjourning. Without revenue, that isn't possible, he says.

And the pressing need for revenue has caused another legislator to act out of character.

Chopper to the rescue of wandering reporters

By DAVE LEWIS
Times-News writer

HAILEY — Three back-country skiers were picked up by helicopter Monday evening after being a day late from a mountainous trip between the drainages of the Big Wood and Little Wood rivers.

The adventurers were in excellent condition and nearing the end of their trip when picked up. They were delayed on the expedition because of equipment breakdowns, poor snow conditions and because they misjudged the distance of the trip.

"It just took longer than we realized it would," said Jeff Coupe, one of the three skiers, after being returned to Hailey by helicopter.

Coupe, 28, of Hailey, David Moffat, 26, of Twin Falls, and Joe Robinson, 26, of Ketchum, were put aboard a U.S. Army helicopter from Mountain Home Air Force Base and a civilian helicopter from Twin Falls at about 5:45 p.m. after a one-hour search from Hailey.

The three left March 8 on the trip from Triumph on the East Fork of the Big Wood River and traversed Johnstone Pass at an elevation of about 10,000 feet into the headwaters of the Little Wood River.

They had parked a car about two miles north of the Little Wood Reservoir to return home in and intended to reach the end of the Journey Sunday evening.

However, they were late in starting the trip because of work commitments, Coupe broke a tip of one ski. Robinson tore a boot binding loose and warm weather caused snow conditions to deteriorate, making their trip very difficult.

With their skis breaking through the snow, they said, at times they could not get one-quarter of a mile an hour. The trip was about 40 miles in length.

The skiers said they would not have reached the end of the trip until Tuesday if they had not been picked up. Coupe is a sports writer with the Wood River Journal in Hailey, Moffat is a Times-News reporter and Robinson works at a Ketchum Ski rental shop.

None have had extensive back-country winter skiing experience.

The search for the three began Monday afternoon when Moffat and Coupe failed to report to work.

Blaine County Sheriff Dennis Haynes arranged for the Army helicopter and the civilian craft, operated by Joe Sorenson of Twin Falls, to cover the route of the skiers.

The Army helicopter found the three skiers about six miles from their automobile. They were eight miles north of the Little Wood Reservoir at the time.

The fliers followed the skiers' tracks through the snow from East Fork to where they were found.

Obituaries

Zella Her-Bice

TWIN FALLS—Zella Her-Bice, 101, of Twin Falls, died Friday at the Nampa Care Center.

Born Sept. 23, 1882, in Osceola, Neb., where she was educated, she married George Bice on Dec. 10, 1896. After her marriage, she lived in Payette until moving to Twin Falls in 1907. They were among the early pioneers of the Twin Falls tract, where they purchased a farm south of town and built a home. They lived on the farm until moving into town in 1933. Mr. Bice died Dec. 8, 1951.

Mr. and Mrs. Bice helped establish the Methodist Church in Twin Falls, and she was a charter member of the Unity Club. She was a registrar and worked on the election board for 25 years, giving it up at the age of 90. She lived at Heritage Retirement Center in Twin Falls for several years before moving to a nursing home in Nampa to be near her son.

Surviving are: two sons, Clifford M. Bice of Santa Maria, Calif., and Luther R. Bice of Nampa; two daughters, Anita V. Torrens of Federal Way, Wash., and Alice R. Diller of Tucson; eight grandchildren; 11 great-grandchildren; 12 great-great-grandchildren; and three great-great-great-grandchildren. She was preceded in death by a son and a granddaughter.

The funeral will be held Wednesday at 2 p.m. in the First United Methodist Church in Twin Falls with the Rev. Greg Lindsay officiating. Burial will be in Twin Falls Cemetery.

Eduard C. Purves

TWIN FALLS—Edward C. Purves, 69, of Twin Falls and Tucson, owner of Closs Book Store in Twin Falls for 30 years, died Saturday in Tucson.

Born in British Columbia on July 11, 1916, he owned and operated Closs Book Store in Twin Falls from 1948 until 1963. Since his retirement, he and his wife had been spending recent winters in Arizona.

Mr. Purves was a member of the Elks Club No. 1183, American Legion No. 7 and the Blue Lakes Country Club, all in Twin Falls.

Surviving are his wife, Genevieve "Gennie" Purves of Twin Falls; a daughter, Janet H. Cummins of Twin Falls; a sister, Betty Wachler of Tigard, Ore.; and seven grandchildren.

Plans are pending to hold a memorial service at the Christian Center of Magic Valley with Pastor Shekon Slagel officiating. Burial will be in Sunset Memorial Park in Twin Falls.

The family suggests memorial contributions be made to the American Cancer Society.

Beryl of Meridan

Beryl of Meridan, a stepdaughter, Beverly Peterson of Ortiga, Wash.; her mother, Mrs. Mabel Budd of Hazelton; a brother, Regis S. Budd of Hazelton; and three brothers, Rev. Jay B. Budd of Reynoldsburg, Ohio, Dale E. Budd of Hazelton and James F. Budd of Burbank, Calif. She was preceded in death by her father, James F. Budd, a daughter, Lena, and a brother, Lt. Beryl D. Budd.

The funeral will be held Wednesday at the Valley Christian Church in Twin Falls, with the Rev. John Dewey officiating. Burial will be in Sunset Memorial Park.

Friends may call at Reynolds Funeral Chapel in Twin Falls today and from 9 to 11 a.m. on Wednesday.

Mr. Budd's obituary memorial contributions be made to the Idaho Chapter of the National Arthritis Foundation, designated for scleroderma research.

Monica A. Boettcher

RUPERT—Monica A. Boettcher, 79, of Rupert, died Monday at Mindoka Memorial Hospital.

Born May 4, 1904, in Krakow, Neb., she attended school in Nebraska. She married Herbert W. Boettcher in Columbus, Neb., on Sept. 5, 1922. They moved to Klamath Falls, Ore., in 1942. Mr. Boettcher died in August 1962. She moved to Rupert in August 1963.

Mrs. Boettcher was a past member of the American Legion Auxiliary in Klamath Falls; the Catholic Church and the Arts and Crafts Club.

Surviving are two daughters, Ruth Della of Heburn and Jacqueline Wick of King of Prussia, Pa.; three sons, Richard S. Boettcher of Boise, Ore., Herbert Boettcher Jr. of Klamath Falls, and Charles D. Boettcher of Heburn; a sister, Victoria Spotoski of Fullerton, Calif.; and four great-grandchildren. She was preceded in death by two brothers and a sister.

The rosary will be recited Wednesday at 2 p.m. in the Hansen Mortuary in Rupert. Mass will be celebrated at 10 a.m. Thursday at the St. Theresa Catholic Church of the Little Flower at Burley, with Father Enrique Terrizas as celebrant. Burial will be in Paul Cemetery.

Friends may call at Hansen Mortuary Wednesday afternoon and evening.

The family suggests memorial contributions be made to the extended care unit of the Mindoka Memorial Hospital.

Earl Lester Baum

TWIN FALLS—Earl Lester Baum, 68, of Twin Falls and formerly of Hazelton, died Sunday at Magic Valley Regional Medical Center after a short illness.

Born July 30, 1895, in Decatur, Ill., he and his family settled in the Greenwood-Hazelton area in 1920. He farmed there until he retired in 1972 and moved to Twin Falls.

Mr. Baum was a veteran of World War I, serving in France, and had been a member of the American Legion for 61 years.

Surviving are: a son and daughter-in-law, Glenn E. and Neta Baum of Twin Falls; four grandchildren—a brother, Orville N. Baum of Baker, Ore.; a sister, Erle Baum Urle of Portland; five step-grandchildren; eight great-grandchildren; and 25 step-great-grandchildren. He was preceded in death by his wife, Luvora May Willis Baum, a son, Vern, 11 brothers and sisters, and two great-grandchildren.

The funeral will be held Wednesday at 10:30 a.m. in the 10th Ward Mormon Church in Twin Falls, with Mark Cudler officiating. Burial will be in Sunset Memorial Park.

Friends may call at White Mortuary in Twin Falls today from 10 a.m. until 9 p.m., and at the church on Wednesday from 9 until 10:15 a.m.

Lewis H. Goodwin

Dilettantes add 'Annie' matinee

TWIN FALLS—People who haven't been able to see the stage play "Annie" at the College of Southern Idaho will get one extra chance.

The Magic Valley Dilettantes, which in staging the musical production, has added a matinee performance at 2:15 p.m. Saturday because of large public demand, says Dilettantes President Tom Driscoll.

Tickets for the additional performance are on sale at the ticket booth in the Blue Lakes Shopping Center in Twin Falls. Reservations can be made by calling 733-5766 between 12:30 p.m. and 5:30 p.m.

People who already have reserved tickets for any of the four matinee performances must pick them up at least 24 hours before the show, Driscoll says. Unclaimed tickets will be sold at the door, he adds.

"Annie" will be presented at 8:15 p.m. Thursday and Friday and at 2:15 p.m. and 8:15 p.m. Saturday in the Fine Arts Center at CSI.

Dog

Instructors invariably have more trouble with handlers than with the dogs themselves.

"When you put a tooth into the command, the dog's tail will drop — The owner thinks, 'Oh, I'm being too tough.'"

"He apologizes to the dog for being mean and then backs off from the command.

"At that point, the score reads Dog-1, Owner-0," says Hansen with one of her characteristic chuckles.

"Any owner who has the desire to train a dog can," she says. "We haven't had to bar a dog from class yet."

Ginger was a questionable-looking specimen when she first arrived at the shelter, says Hansen.

Starving and uncared for, the animal was undersized, her spine was bowed, her coat dull and her expression definitely "hang-dog," says Hansen.

In addition to adding that she was "an unlikely-looking candidate for top dog."

But Hansen says Ginger showed spunk and intelligence, two qualities which make any puppy likely to defeat the aura of insecurity that surrounds unwanted and uncared-for animals.

Despite a illness setback, probably brought on by neglect and overeating — a trip to the veterinarian, Ginger is performing well, says Hansen.

She says she tries to spend an hour each day working with Ginger, helping her to socialize, a process which the dog had probably missed before showing up at the shelter.

charged to increase reserves against bad loans, Hill has said.

The banks can undercut the PCA's rate, which now is hovering around 12.9 percent, because they can adjust their rates according to the risk of the loan. The Eastern Idaho PCA must charge the same rate to all borrowers, Wiseman said.

Eastern Idaho's policies on security loans also has raised questions. The Pocatello PCA has been verifying the security on all loans since taking over the PCA, Wiseman said.

The management wanted to move into the eight counties because of their great agricultural potential, he said.

Hill said the Eastern Idaho PCA wants to erase any confusion and to reach out anew to its borrowers.

"It is difficult for people to realize that there are two PCAs in this area: a liquidating one (Southern Idaho PCA) and one that is alive and well (Eastern Idaho PCA). We hope people can make that distinction."

Boy wounded in 'shoot-out'

BURLEY—A 15-year-old Burley boy was taken by helicopter to Pocatello Monday evening after a mock "shoot-out" ended in tragedy. He was listed in serious condition.

Burley police said the victim and his 12-year-old brother were apparently playing with air rifles when the shooting occurred about 6:20 p.m. at their home. Officers said the shooting was an accident.

A BB from one of the guns entered the older boy's head, apparently causing brain damage, officers said. Names of the boys were being withheld pending further investigation.

would also be that it would allow a general description of proposed facilities to be sufficient for purposes of approving an application for a water permit. — Ringer said the proposed plan to overcome that part of a court ruling was written by Twin Falls attorney John Rosholt and was endorsed by the Idaho Water Users Association.

The committee put off until Wednesday consideration of the other bill aimed at obviating most of the other court findings on Trout Co. That legislation would statutorily eliminate the need for the "bird-the-hand first-aid" requirement.

But earlier held were needed before an application could be approved.

That legislation also specifically addresses the question of whether the Department of Water Resources should enforce the water standards of the Department of Health and Welfare.

"The director shall not have any authority to require, as conditions of the permit, compliance with any other laws other than those pertaining to the appropriation and measurement of water," the bill states.

ter, Rep. Lyman "Gene" Winchester, R-Kuna, among the most outspoken of conservatives on the fiscal and social issues, unsuccessfully attempted to have a lottery bill introduced Monday.

Winchester's proposal, which was drafted by the House Ways and Means Committee, would earmark the proceeds from a state-run lottery to be used to fund a $20.3 million salary equity proposal for teachers.

The salary proposal, which is accompanied by public education reform measures, is one of the spending bills that has frustrated efforts to balance the state budget. Winchester said estimates that a state lottery would net about $20 million a year, make it particularly suitable as the companion to the education reform proposal.

He called it a "go home bill," meaning it would solve the stalemate and end to the session.

Committee members, however, questioned Winchester on what may be flaws with the plan.

The lottery has to be authorized by a constitutional amendment approved by voters in November. The Legislature would need to approve enabling legislation, making it doubtful lottery income could supplement state coffers in the next fiscal year.

Delay causes dropping of drug charge

BY PAT MARCANTONIO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Due to "human error," a felony drug charge against a Burley resident was dropped Friday in Fifth District Court in Twin Falls.

Kurt Blaine Higgins, 29, of 322 W. 18th St. was charged last summer with selling LSD in Twin Falls County. He pleaded innocent in August. The case then was supposed to be scheduled for trial.

A date for the trial, however, never was placed on the court calendar.

As a result of the "unnecessary" delay, Higgins' attorneys had requested a dismissal of the charge.

Kandance Kemp, the Twin Falls County deputy prosecutor, said Friday the case had "fell through the cracks." The prosecutor's office hadn't wilfully delayed the trial for Higgins, who has been out on bond since his arrest, she said. It was a case of human error.

Higgins' attorneys, the firm of Church, Church and Snow, said the law stipulated that if a case was not set for trial within six months, it should be dismissed.

Judge Daniel Hurlbutt agreed the law made no accounting for human mistakes and dismissed the case.

Kemp couldn't be contacted later about whether the charge can be refiled.

In other cases heard Friday:

- Doyle Ray Harkey, 31, no address available, pleaded guilty to burglarizing a truck on Nov. 15 at the Berger Store, six miles south of the U.S. 93-30 intersection.
- Harkey told Hurlbutt he thought the truck belonged to someone who owned him money. So, he took a chain saw and tools from the vehicle.
- A pre-sentence investigation was ordered by Hurlbutt. Harkey was released until further proceedings.
- Gerald Wayne Anderson, no age available, of Jerome admitted burglarizing a van in Twin Falls on June 8. Anderson told Hurlbutt he reached into the van and took a purse.
- Hurlbutt accepted Anderson's plea to the charge of second-degree burglary. A pre-sentence investigation will be prepared. Anderson was released pending sentencing.
- Michael Cupp, 18, of 518 Second Ave. E. in Twin Falls pleaded guilty to burglarizing two trucks in Twin Falls on Nov. 8 and Dec. 12. A pre-sentence investigation was ordered for Cupp, who was released on his own recognizance.

• Robert D. Graham, 18, of 1036 Blue-Lakes Blvd.-N. in Twin Falls pleaded guilty to burglary. He admitted breaking into the Wolverton International farm equipment business, at 161 Third Ave. W. in Twin Falls on Feb. 7.

Graham was released on his own recognizance while a pre-sentence investigation is being prepared.

Graham's accomplice in the break-in, Timothy I. Mason of Twin Falls, pleaded guilty last week to the burglary.

Barker defends his act against repeal effort

BOISE — Sen. John Barker successfully defended Monday his Responsibility Act against an effort to repeal it.

On Feb. 6 the Senate Health, Education and Welfare Committee, which Barker chairs, failed to send the repeal proposal to the full Senate for a vote.

After the year is up, if the results are just modest and there are lawsuits, the Legislature could kill the bill and rescind the action, he said.

Barker says that it is the opinion of one member of Congress, and it is likely others could be found to support either side.

Senate to vote on water plan control move

BOISE (AP) — A proposed constitutional amendment giving the Idaho Legislature authority over any future changes in the state water plan is headed for a vote in the full Senate, but with less than a ringing commitment.

The measure is prompted by a state Supreme Court decision holding that the Idaho constitution bars the Legislature from any control over the water plan policy decisions of the Water Resource Board.

no-committee member singled out any policy for criticism, but Sen. John Peavey, D-Carey, complained that without provisions for at least some kind of legislative review, "there's no way to control that board whatever."

Under the proposal, any changes in the 1978 state water plan adopted by the board could not take effect until the Legislature approves them.

Senators want wolf recovery area trimmed

By RICK SHAUGHNESSY Times-News Capitol Bureau

Rocky Mountain Wolf Recovery project is restricted to about 3.75 million acres of U.S. Forest Service lands that have been given "wilderness" designation and that 3 million acres of forest service lands "now-managed for multiple use" be removed from the plan.

provide for the development of reasonable guidelines that land management agencies can use to resolve conflicts between wolf recovery and multiple use if such a conflict arises," he wrote.

Minnesota is scheduled to assume responsibility for selected wolf control but that transfer has been delayed by a challenge in federal court, he added.

At the request of the Idaho Wool Growers Association and the Idaho Farm-Business, the Resources and Environment Committee voted unanimously to recommend the proposal to the full Senate.

"This urges Congress and the (federal) Fish and Wildlife Service that the program be kept within the realm of common sense," said Stan-Boyd, executive secretary of the Wool Growers association.

That proposal died in the Senate on a 16-10 vote after it had been approved by the house.

Two Magic Valley area senators who serve on the committee — Laird Noh, R-Kimberly, the committee chairman, and John Peavey, D-Carey — are members of the wolf growers organization.

London police defuse bomb planted at Arab nightclub

By EDITH M. LEDERER
The Associated Press

LONDON — Police dismantled a two-pound bomb at an Arab nightclub in the heart of London Monday night — the latest incident in a bomb blitz police blame on Libyan terrorists.

Four bombs went off in London and Manchester over the weekend, injuring 26 people. Four other devices were detonated by police in what they described as "controlled explosions."

Most of the victims were Arabs. Scotland Yard said the bombs apparently were aimed at opponents of Libyan leader Col. Muammar Khadafi.

The latest device was found by a janitor in a cardboard box under a bench at the Omar Khayyam night club and restaurant on Regent Street, one of London's most fashionable shopping thoroughfares. The club had not opened for the evening, and a Scotland Yard spokesman said the bomb may have been planted early Saturday morning along with the others in London and failed to go off.

All traffic was halted on Regent Street from Piccadilly Circus to Oxford Circus after the bomb was discovered at 7 p.m. The area remained closed for about four hours while police searched for other explosives. The spokesman said none was found.

Bomb squad detectives dismantled the device, which the spokesman said was similar to those that exploded Saturday at another nightclub frequented by Arabs and at a news stand that sold Arab papers.

The Omar Khayyam is a basement nightclub popular with Egyptians and Libyans. It is in a six-story building that also houses the London offices of the Royal Jordanian Airline. Almost 50 customers in nearby Verrey's Restaurant were locked inside while the bomb squad was at work. "Most of the customers just carried on drinking and some decided to stay and eat here," said general manager Grayburn Owen.

Scotland Yard said the chief-of-its anti-terrorist squad would join international police talks Tuesday in Paris on surveillance of suspected Libyan terrorists.

Libyan diplomats were called to the Foreign Office earlier and warned that if their government did not take steps to halt fighting among Libyan groups in Britain it would "seriously affect" relations between the two nations.

Libya has denied involvement in the bombings.

Both sides claim victory in marsh

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Iraq said it repulsed an offensive in the marshland east of Basra on Monday, killing 4,157 Iraqis. Iran claimed its forces advanced in the area and killed 150 Iraqi soldiers.

The battle occurred a few miles from the border near the southern provincial capital of Basra. Iraq's second largest city, and near Iraq's oil-rich Majnoon islands, which Iran controls. The reports came on the eve of an emergency meeting of Arab League foreign ministers in Baghdad, Iraq, to discuss the 42-month war.

Neither battle report could be confirmed independently. Foreign journalists rarely are allowed into war zones during battles. U.S. military intelligence has said the battle claims of both sides are exaggerated.

Baghdad radio reported that "only those (Iranian soldiers) who chose to surrender" survived fierce fighting that began late Sunday. Among the dead soldiers were a number of ranking officers of the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's revolutionary guards, the radio said. Tehran radio said Iranian forces advanced on enemy lines, claiming new positions. "After achieving their goals, they reinforced their defensive lines and the newly occupied position, and inflicted more losses and casualties upon the enemy in heavy firing," it said.

Baghdad radio also reported Monday that at least 17 of the 21 Arab League countries had agreed to attend Tuesday's emergency meeting called by Iraq. The meeting comes at a time of some of the most intense fighting in the war.

Rockets, shells rock Beirut

By EILEEN ALT POWELL
The Associated Press

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Beirut shuddered under heavy exchanges of rocket and artillery fire Monday night as leaders of the Muslim and Christian factions met in Lausanne, Switzerland, seeking an end to the bloody civil war.

Gen. Paul X. Kelley, the U.S. Marine Corps commander, visited American troops still in Lebanon and conferred with the Lebanese army commander.

State-run Beirut Radio, in a report from Lausanne, said the Lebanese leaders had agreed to a "complete and comprehensive cease-fire," but officials involved in the negotiations denied that. A Lebanese government spokesman in Lausanne said parallel commissions had been set up in Lausanne and Beirut and they would work through the night on plans for a cease-fire.

President Amin Gemayel had opened national reconciliation talks with an appeal for an end to nine years of "insane war." The Lebanese leaders were reported sharply divided over a Christian proposal to subdivide Lebanon into Swiss-like cantons, or mini-states, to help end the sectarian conflict. Rains slowed the fighting between Christian and Moslem militias during the day, but both sides unleashed repeated barrages after nightfall.

At least 20 people, including 12 children, were killed and 80 were wounded in Moslem west Beirut in the nighttime shelling, according to police and hospital sources.

No overall casualty figures were given for Christian sectors. The Christians-Voice-of-Lebanon radio station said four teenagers were wounded in the Christian suburb of Jisr al-Pacha and three people were injured when shells hit the Christian town of Hadath, south of Beirut.

It said artillery rounds crashed into residential neighborhoods of Christian east Beirut late into the night.

The Moslem Voice of Arab Lebanon radio station reported that Christian gunners shelled the Moslem neighborhoods of Zekak Blatt, Basta, Saïyeh al-Jamir and Bourj Abi-Haidar with long-range artillery. It said 155mm phosphorus shells hit west Beirut and ignited several fires.

There was sporadic fighting during the day in Beirut, with Moslem militia trading rocket, mortar and machine-gun fire with Lebanese army troops and Christian irregulars along the "green line" that divides west and east Beirut.

The nighttime shelling began with the first target being three Christian neighborhoods adjacent to the "green line" — Ashrafieh, Furn el-Chebbak and Ein-Rumaneh — and Hazmieh, a Christian community southeast of the capital. Beirut radio said the barrages soon spread to the Moslem neighborhoods of Mazra, Tareek, Jadida and Mousaltbeh in West Beirut; Moslem suburbs south of the city also were hit.

Artillery exchanges between Druse gunners and Christian militia were reported in several villages in the Kharoub region north of the Israeli army's defense line at the Awali River in southern Lebanon.

At one point, Beirut was rocked by the noise of unidentified reconnaissance jets breaking the sound barrier, thunder from an incoming storm and mortars exploding on both sides of the "green line."

Police said 26 people were killed and 80 wounded in weekend battles in and around Beirut and on the Druse-controlled hills east of the capital.

U.S. vessels to wave flag again

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The United States will resume show-the-flag cruises by major U.S. naval units off the Central American coast as elections in El Salvador draw closer, Pentagon officials said Monday.

A battle group consisting of the 79,000-ton carrier America and three other ships will leave the Virgin Islands late this week to sail in international waters off Central America.

The operation was viewed here as a warning to Nicaragua not to meddle in the Salvadoran elections. Meanwhile, unarmed U.S. Army reconnaissance planes were reported to have begun flying into Salvadoran airspace from neighboring Honduras, searching for concentrations of leftist guerrilla troops that might attempt to disrupt the elections late this month.

The Defense Department announced Feb. 8 it would send OV-10 Army planes to Honduras to conduct "peacetime reconnaissance missions." Pentagon sources indicated at the time that the planes probably would fly over El Salvador, where U.S.-supported forces have been battling leftist insurgents.

The appearance of the carrier America and its escorts would mark the first time the United States has sent a naval battle group to waters off Central America since summer 1982.

Pentagon sources, who spoke only on condition that they not be identified, said the America will cruise in those waters for a limited time and then probably will be replaced by cruisers and destroyers who will maintain a U.S. naval presence in the region for several months.

The U.S. Navy long has used the Caribbean for fleet training and maneuvers, and has about 30 ships spread over a wide area.

Last month, without any fanfare, the Navy held a readiness exercise in the Caribbean—and the western Atlantic involving 33 ships, including two aircraft carriers.

This time, however, Pentagon officials made clear they want the cruise-of-the-America and its naval escorts to be regarded as a show of American concern about possible outside intervention in the Salvadoran elections.

These officials said the number of U.S. military personnel in Honduras has increased to about 1,700 men, the biggest force since seven months of U.S.-Honduran military exercises ended in early February.

The Pentagon said last month that U.S. troop strength probably would peak at about 1,700 personnel between exercises. The next maneuvers probably will begin in June.

Officials here denied there is any concentration of U.S. personnel along the Honduran-Nicaraguan border. They said most of the 1700 Americans in Honduras are situated in the vicinity of an air base at Palmerola.

It was understood that small numbers of U.S. troops, primarily from the Southern Command in Panama, will conduct what they describe as "limited, small-scale readiness exercises" in Honduras in March and April.

Sailors to relive ancient journey

SPETSAI, Greece (AP) — A score of oarsmen plan to set out this spring in a Bronze Age-style open boat to test the legend of Jason and the Argonauts' quest for the Golden Fleece.

The Argo, a 54-foot vessel built of pine, is getting its final fitting out on this Greek island. Its crew will attempt to take it on a 3,000-mile, round-trip voyage north through the Aegean and into the Black Sea to Soviet Georgia.

"We want to try and establish how historical the Jason legend was. It's the earliest Western voyage story—that exists," British explorer-Timothy Severin, who will captain the Argo, said in an interview.

According to Greek mythology, Jason and his crew set sail from Iolcos in central Greece a generation before the Trojan War.

"In line with current archeological thinking, that would have been around 1200 B.C.," Severin said. He believes the legend had its roots in tales told by the first Greek sailors who explored the Black Sea.

"It's very rare for an epic to be entirely imaginary. There's a kernel of truth in it somewhere that stands up to examination," he said.

The modern Argo, named after its mythological ancestor, was designed by a British naval architect, Colin Mudie, who tested a model of the vessel in a tank to make sure it was seaworthy.

For local shipbuilder Vassilis Dellimitros, 53, it's the most difficult project he has worked on.

"It's a real challenge to build a boat entirely of wood without using any nails at all," he said in an interview. "I took it on for fun — after all ancient shipbuilders can't have been better than us."

Instead of nails, tongue-shaped pieces of wood are slotted into the ship's planking, and joints are reinforced with round wooden pegs. The rowers will sit two to a bench, each pulling on a 14-foot oar.

"We ransacked the texts of Homer's Odyssey and the archeological evidence to get as close as possible to a late Bronze Age galley, a fast passenger ship of that time," Severin said.

NCCA tourneys open with underdog battles

By MIKE HARRIS
The Associated Press

They are considered the 10 sacrificial lambs, the cannon fodder. And they couldn't be happier.

None of the schools that open the NCAA basketball tournament tonight in Philadelphia and Dayton, Ohio, are expected to be around when the Final Four meet at Seattle, Wash. March 31.

Nevertheless, each earned an automatic berth to the expanded 63-team tournament by winning championships in the 10 weakest of the 29 NCAA Division I conferences — as decided by the nine-man Division I Basketball Committee.

Princeton, 17-9, faces San Diego, 19-9; Richmond, 20-9, meets Rider, 20-10, and Northeastern, 26-4, plays Long Island University, 20-10, in a tripleheader at the Philadelphia Spectrum, while Morehead State, 24-5, opposes North Carolina A&T, 22-8, and Houston Baptist, 24-6, meets Alcorn State, 20-9, in a doubleheader at Dayton.

The five winners will join the automatic qualifiers from the other 19 conferences, as well as 24 at-large entries for first-round action at sites around the nation this weekend.

"It's hard to say without being overemotional how good it feels to be in this tournament," said Houston Baptist Coach Gene Iba, whose team boasts four African imports on its

Longshots don't mind putting 'impossible dreams' on the line

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Four longshots for the National Collegiate Athletic Association basketball title put their impossible dreams on the line here tonight in the tournament's preliminary round.

Morehead State of Kentucky, winner of the Ohio Valley Conference, meets North Carolina A&T, the Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference champion, and Alcorn State, in the third straight NCAA appearance as the Southwest-Atlantic Conference representative, faces Houston Baptist, winner of the Trans America Athletic Conference.

Although all four teams are longshots to win the NCAA championship, North Carolina A&T Coach Don Corbett notes last year's titlist, North Carolina State, also was a longshot.

"We're peaking at the right time, winning our last 10 games," Corbett said of his 22-6 team. "We have a decent club. We have some quality players. I just hope we play well in the first round."

"Wasn't there another team in North Carolina that peaked about the same time last year?"

North Carolina A&T is led by 6-foot-8 senior Joe Binion, player of the year in the MEAC the past three years.

"What I'm worried about most is running into a team with a legitimate center," Corbett said. "We're OK at every other position, but we don't have that inside threat." Morehead State, 24-5, is deep and balanced with seven seniors. Guard Guy Minnifield, center Jeff Tipton and forward Earl Harris average just over 12 points per game each.

The winner of the Morehead State-North Carolina A&T game will face Louisville at Milwaukee Friday in the Midwest Regional. Morehead lost to Louisville by 35 points during the regular season.

The winner of the Alcorn State-Houston Baptist game will advance to the Midwest Regional against Kansas at Lincoln, Neb., Friday.

Alcorn State, 20-9, is making its fourth NCAA tournament appearance in the past five years.

"We want to try to win a couple of games in the playoffs," said Alcorn State Coach Dave Whitnev "If we don't, we'll be happy just to be in that number and you can't overlook the $150,000."

Whitnev must figure out a way to stop Houston Baptist's 6-4 center Ancel Lavodroma of the Central African Republic, who averages 12.6 points and 7.1 rebounds per game. Houston Baptist has a 24-0 record.

"There's probably only about three people who know how Tiel and they stood over in that gym with me seven years ago and we had three scholarship players," Iba said. "We were just trying then to do everything possible not to get embarrassed."

Princeton, 17-9, faces San Diego, 19-9; Richmond, 20-9, meets Rider, 20-10, and Northeastern, 26-4, plays Long Island University, 20-10, in a tripleheader at the Philadelphia Spectrum, while Morehead State, 24-5, opposes North Carolina A&T, 22-8, and Houston Baptist, 24-6, meets Alcorn State, 20-9, in a doubleheader at Dayton.

The five winners will join the automatic qualifiers from the other 19 conferences, as well as 24 at-large entries for first-round action at sites around the nation this weekend.

"It's hard to say without being overemotional how good it feels to be in this tournament," said Houston Baptist Coach Gene Iba, whose team boasts four African imports on its LIU after the teams got into a brawl in a game at the New York school during the 1982-83 season.

After Tuesday's preliminary round, first-round action will be held Thursday and Friday.

The winner of the Northeastern-LIU game will play Virginia Commonwealth, 22-6, at the Meadowslands Arena in East Rutherford, N.J., while the Houston Baptist-Alcorn State winner meets Kansas, 21-9, at Lincoln, Neb. The Rider-Richmond winner plays Auburn, 20-10, at Charlotte, N.C.; the winner of the NCAA runner-up, travels to Pullman, Wash., as the top seed of the West Regional, where it will be joined by Oklahoma, 29-4, 1966 champion Texas Tech, 27-5, and two-time national champion Duke, 24-9.

In the Midwest Regional, sentiment favorite DePaul, 26-2 — with 70-year-old Coach Ray Meyer heading for retirement — is seeded No. 1. The Blue Demons, losers in their opening tournament games in 1981 and 1982 and who failed to make it to the tournament last season, will be joined in the Midwest by 1983 NCAA runner-up Houston, 28-4; Purdue, 22-6, and Wake Forest, 21-8.

Kentucky, 26-4 and a five-time NCAA champion, is the top seed in the Midwest Regional, where the Wildcats will be joined by Tulsa, 27-3; Illinois, 24-4, and Maryland, 23-7.

Notable by their absence from the field are 1983 NCAA champion North Carolina State, which will play in the 32-team National Invitation Tournament, and 10-time NCAA champion UCLA, which finished fourth in the Pac-10 Conference this season and rejected a bid to the NIT.

Holmes, Coetzee agree to matchup

Battle for a unified heavyweight title

NEW YORK (AP) — Larry Holmes and Gerrie Coetzee will meet either June 1 or June 8 for a unification of the International Boxing Federation and World Boxing Council heavyweight championships, a fight that is expected to produce record closed circuit and pay television revenues.

The announcement was made Monday by Mike Cohen of Mike Cohen Communications in New York, representing JPD Sports with Murad Muhammad — in association with Cedric Kushner Productions, Ltd.

Holmes, unbeaten in 45 professional fights with 32 knockouts, quit in 1982 as WBC champion and was named heavyweight champion of the new IBF at that time. Coetzee, from South Africa, knocked out Michael Dokes last year to win the World Boxing Association crown, raising his career record to 29-1 with 18 knockouts.

Tim Witherspoon won the vacated WBC title last Friday night by outpointing Greg Page in 12 rounds at Las Vegas, Nev.

It is expected that Holmes will earn in excess of $8 million and Coetzee more than $3 million for this fight, which has been the object of much speculation and bargaining among promoters.

Cohen said that the exact date and site of the bout will be announced later this week, with Las Vegas reportedly the leading site.

The go-ahead for the fight came only after agreements and releases were signed by Don King Productions, which had partial promotional rights to Coetzee.

Cohen said that Momentum Enterprises will handle the closed circuit and pay TV broadcast, which he said were expected to challenge for the largest payout in boxing history. The 1982 fight between Holmes and Gerry Cooney, believed by many to be the biggest closed-circuit show ever, reportedly generated about $28 million in receipts.

Player and coach take state honors

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls High School senior Andy Toolson has been named player of the year in the Gem State Conference and his coach, John Astorquia, has been selected coach of the year by the league's basketball coaches.

The GSC's all-conference boys' and girls' selections were made at a meeting of the coaches Monday.

Toolson, who led the league in scoring with a 21-point-per-game average and in field goal percentage with a 58 percent mark, was also a first-team all-league pick.

Toolson, a 6-foot-5 guard-forward, holds the Twin Falls High career and single-game scoring records. He is bound for Brigham Young University next season on a basketball scholarship.

Astorquia led the Bruins to their second consecutive league championship this year with an 18-2 regular-season record.

Two members of the District 4 A-1 champion Minico Spartans, who took the place in last week's tournament in Pocatello, were also named to the league's dream team. They are Kent McKenzie, a 6-4 senior forward who averaged 13.8 points, and Greg Schow, a 6-0 senior point guard who ranked led the conference in assists this year with 112.

Other first-team boys picks were Todd Hansen, a 6-4 senior forward from Idaho Falls High School, Scott Seadall, a 6-5 senior center from Bonneville; Bill Parrish, a 6-5 senior center from Highland; and Doug Williams, a 6-3 junior forward from Pocatello.

Darren Stuart, a 6-3 senior guard from Twin Falls, was a second-team selection, along with Minico's 6-4 center Brad Croft and the Spartans' 6-1 guard Carl Bailey. The Bruins' junior forward Jason Meyerhoeffer was an honorable mention choice.

Girls' first-team selections were Tracy Hammel, a 5-5 senior guard from Bonneville; Susie Collins, a 5-8 senior forward from Pocatello; Laurie Romaneko, a 5-10 senior center from Pocatello; Andrea Smith, a 5-8 senior forward from Idaho Falls; Nancy Nite, a 5-8 senior forward from Blackfoot; and Dee Dixey, a 5-9 senior forward from Idaho Falls.

Twin Falls' Alma Hernandez and Karle Willey were second-team selections, while Minico's Margaret Lowry and Tina O'Donnell were honorable mention choices.

Team racks up record during bowling tourney

TWIN FALLS — A team representing the Mini-Cassia team of Rupert and Burley set a state record with a score of 2,680 during a "high-S" event held in conjunction with the Idaho State Women's Bowling Tournament here this weekend.

The record was set during a competition among the top five bowlers from each of 35 women's bowling associations around the state. The Mini-Cassia team's score set a new "A" division mark.

Mini-Cassia was led by Cathy Wall, a bowler with a 171 average, who rolled a 272 game and 622 series.

Finishing second in the event was the Nampa team, with a 2,750.

The Salmon team won the B division.

In the state tournament, another A division record fell to Mack's Southpaw Magic of Boise and Twin Falls, with a score of 2,194. Mack's finished nearly 200 points ahead of the second-place team, Coca-Cola of Pocatello.

Last weekend's competition was the second of 10 weeks of eliminations being held at two Twin Falls bowling lanes.

Magic Valley bowlers continue to do well in the tournament. Larry Hash of Buhl led the B division all-event scoring last weekend with a 1,732 while Diane Jones of Twin Falls paced the C Singles division with 586.

Hash and Peggy Ainsworth of Buhl continue to lead the B doubles with a 1,212.

A's clubhouse clown quietly plots at pranks of revenge

By ERIC PREWITT
The Associated Press

PHOENIX, Ariz. — Bill Caudill sat in the Oakland A's clubhouse an hour before gametime, mulling a pair of blue shoes onto a wooden home plate.

"What are you supposed to be doing?" coach Ron Schueler asked.

"I'm working on my curveball, loosening up the wrists," the pitcher replied, continuing his P game clown.

Caudill was among the pitchers scheduled to work that day against the Milwaukee Brewers in the A's exhibition season opener, so he had permission to be in the clubhouse.

Schueler shook his head, shrugged and walked away. The A's realized they were getting a clubhouse comedian, as well as a pretty good reliever, when they traded for Caudill.

The right-hander's record was just 2-8 last season, but for a second consecutive year he had 26 saves for a Seattle team which didn't have all that many leads for relievers to preserve.

"I'm just going to turn him loose in the clubhouse. You can't cramp that man's style," says Manager Steve Boros, who has no team rule against mutilating Seattle Mariners' shoes and is counting on Caudill being the No. 1 stopper out of the A's bullpen.

"I stole these shoes from Rene Lachemann two years ago in Baltimore. They were a new pair, and we lost eight straight games when he was wearing them. He thinks I burned them in a tunnel at the stadium," Caudill explained as he poked away.

"But those were just some old shoes I burned. These are the real McCoy and I've waited two years to give them back. They'll bring tears to his eyes."

That wasn't quite the case when Caudill made his pre-game presentation to Brewers Manager Lachemann, who managed Seattle for two years.

"You're giving them back, huh? I knew all along the ones you burned weren't mine. I caught them before they went down," Lachemann said.

"On this plate rests a big man's shoes. Thanks for the memories, Baltimore, 1982." "Cuffs," Caudill had written on his clubhouse-made plaque.

"Cuffs" is a nickname Caudill acquired, according to the A's press guide, "with the help of the police while celebrating one night in Cleveland."

On another Mariners' road trip, the mysterious "Mr. Jello" struck against Lachemann.

"We were in Chicago and his hotel room was vandalized. We knew he would be getting back to the room late," Caudill recalls. "All the light bulbs were removed, his clothes were hidden, and the toilet and sink were filled with Jello."

"The speaker was out of the phone, so when he called down to the desk, he could hear them but they couldn't hear him."

"Although I wasn't a physical part of it, I did plant the idea."

Lachemann says, "I knew that Larry Andersen and Joe Simpson were in on it, and I found out later that Richie Zisk was, too."

"I don't think Caudill had anything to do with it."

"I had was an easy target, easy prey," says Caudill. "I haven't messed with any other managers. Not yet."

Joe Morgan and Dave Lopes, two of the smallest players on the A's, found tiny hats, shorts and other clothing items pinned to their clubhouse lockers early in the spring training.

Nice came arrangements of doll house furniture in the lockers.

"I've got about eight suspects," Morgan said.

Yes, Caudill was one of them.

"Who, me?" the pitcher said.

Dallas Morning News

Here's a region-by-region look at the NCAA basketball tournament, which begins tonight.

EAST REGIONAL
Let's call this the Cerebral Regional. North Carolina's Dean Smith, Arkansas' Eddie Sutton and Indiana's Bobby Knight will be diagramming the X's and O's here. Interestingly, the top three seeds — No. 1 North Carolina, No. 2 Arkansas and No. 3 Syracuse — all lost their last games.

The Tar Heels (27-2), who have the advantage of playing their opening round game in Charlotte, N.C., suddenly look relatively human. They lost two games within the last month and have struggled in others. They have the best talent — Michael Jordan, Sam Perkins, etc. — but neither Temple nor St. John's is as pushover a team as they seem to be. The regional semifinal opponent in Atlanta.

Arkansas (25-6) owns one of the two victories over North Carolina and has been playing well lately. Alvin Robertson has proved to be a capable replacement for Darrell Walker, and Notre Dame should never have let Joe Kleine get away — Syracuse (22-8), which is quarterbacked by third-rounder Pearl Washington, has had trouble all season against teams with big centers, and the 6-11, 250-pound Kleine is one big center.

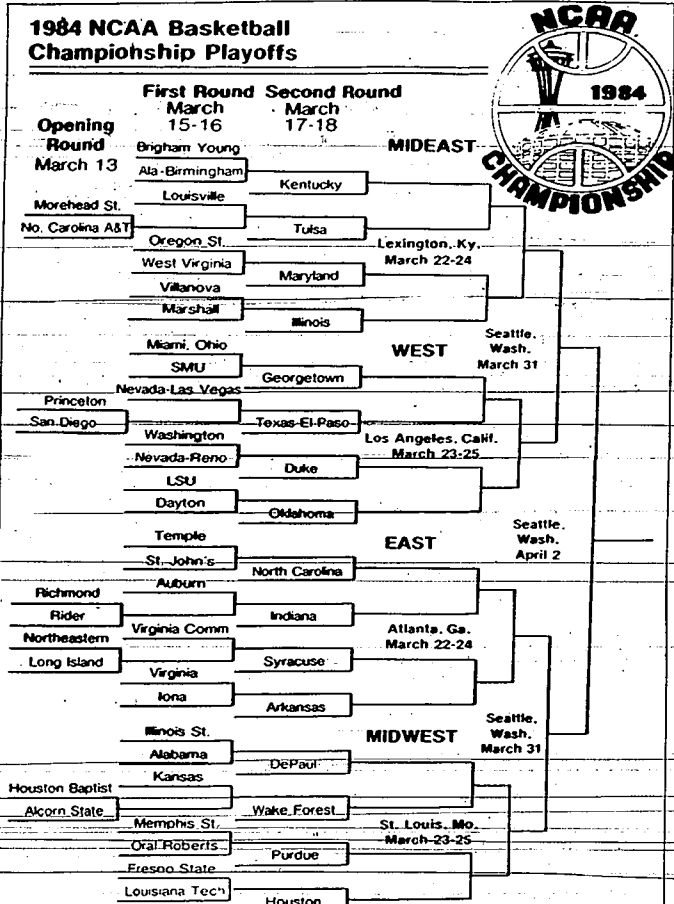

MIDWEST REGIONAL
Let's call this the Coach-Sure-Can-Recruit Regional, But Can He Draw An X?
Joe B. Hall and Lefty Driesell will coach here.

Another year, another possibility of a Kentucky-Louisville match-up. Kentucky managed to duck Louisville two years ago by losing to Middle Tennessee State. The Cardinals won last year's match-up in the Midwest.

Kentucky got some revenge early this season. The Cardinals are not near as good as they were in last year's Final Four season, but should Kentucky and Louisville meet again in a Midwest semifinal game on the Wildcats' home court at Rupp Arena, don't bet against the Cardinals. The Wildcats may have the Twin Towers, but they also have Joe B.

Maryland's biggest liability is also its coach. A Kentucky-Maryland regional final would be an interesting battle between two coaches who can recruit, but never seem to have their teams tournament-ready.

MIDWEST REGIONAL
Let's call this The Old Coaches Never Die. They Just Keep Winning Regional.
Between them — DePaul's Ray Meyer and Houston's Guy Lewis have been coaching for a million years. Neither has his most talented team ever this time around, but both teams are hungry and have played far beyond what was thought to be their potential.

DePaul may be the No. 1 seed, but Houston should be the clear-cut favorite. Why? One name: Akheem Abdul Olajuwon. He showed he's ready for the NCAA Tournament by turning in consecutive triple doubles (double figures in scoring, rebounding and blocked shots) in leading the Cougars to the Southwest Conference post-season title.

A lot of people like Wake Forest. The Deacons have shown the ability to beat teams they should beat, but they have not had much success against the better teams they have played.
WEST REGIONAL
The Coaches With Little Respect From The Selection Committee Regional. Last year Terry Holland had the best big man in the nation, Ralph Sampson, but was banished here. This year, John Thompson has one of the best big men in the nation, Pat Ewing, and Big East championship — and he was still banished from the East.
The second-best team in the region, Oklahoma, comes from the Big Eight. The No. 3 seed is Duke of the ACC. No. 4 Texas-El-Paso hardly plays near the Pacific. Can't anybody outwest play this game?

The most interesting potential match-up is Georgetown and Oklahoma. Ewing versus Wayman Tisdale. Is there a team playing better basketball than Georgetown? Is there a team with more talent? Thompson may get the respect he deserves — from the selection committee by winning it all.
Texas-El Paso is a highly disciplined team with a great coach, Don Haskins, but the Miners lack a big man. Fred Reynolds and Luster Goodwin, however, are magnificent supporting players.

scored them all on a grand slam homer by Mike Acendo to narrow the deficit — 10-6. Then in the seventh inning, Don Robitaille hit a single shot before Burger retired Coach Bosh in order in the eighth and ninth innings.
VanEvery led CSI with three hits in four trips to the plate in that game, with two runs, batted in — Mike Federico was 2-for-4 and scored two runs.
In the nightcap, some daring baserunning and clutch singles hitting centered the Eagles two runs in the seventh and four in the eighth, enough to hold off Glendale 11-6.
CSI freshman right-hander Tim Peters scattered two hits and struck out three through five innings, allowing the Eagles to take a 5-0 lead. In the seventh, VanEvery led off with a 410-foot triple to center field, and Jeff Schow scored him with a single to right. Schow then stole second and third, and then stole home on a pickoff play at first base.

Glendale scored twice in the bottom of the inning, but CSI produced four more runs in the eighth. Shawn Humberger walked, Steve Caputo got aboard on a bunt single and both of them advanced on an error by the catcher. Federico singled in Humberger, VanEvery walked and Caputo scored on a fielder's choice. Blake Jensen then delivered a single to right that scored Federico and VanEvery. Schow was 2-for-4 in the game with an RBI and five stolen bases, while Federico went 2-for-5.
On Saturday, the Eagles got two home runs apiece from Shell Scott and Jim Kotkas to bombard Dixie College 14-4 and 13-9 in a doubleheader in St. George, Utah. CSI had 23 hits for the day, with VanEvery going 4-for-6, Schow 5-for-10 and Kotkas 6-for-10.

The Eagles will travel to Phoenix tonight to take on Phoenix College in a single game at 7:30 p.m., then move on to nearby Mesa for a doubleheader with Mesa College of Wednesday. CSI will return home for its home opener against the BYU V's next Saturday.

Landry sets record, Federals beaten again

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — Greg Landry threw three touchdown passes — including two to Trumaine Johnson — and set a United States Football League record for consecutive completions as the Arizona Wranglers beat the winless Washington Federals 37-7 Monday night.
Landry, who finished with 23 completions in 31 attempts for 285 yards with one interception, hit his first 11-yard touchdown pass to Johnson 6:33 before halftime.
Brown also thwarted Washington's lone scoring opportunity of the first half with an interception in the end zone on the last play.

Arizona place-kicker Frank Corral, victimized by a low snap on a first-quarter extra-point attempt, was wide left on a 35-yard field goal try 4:22 into a scoreless third period.
Corral was successful on a 47-yarder 4:07 into the fourth quarter for a 30-0 bulge before Washington avoided a shutout on Reggie Collier's seven-yard pass to Ricky Simmons with 36 remaining.
Spencer closed out the scoring on a one-yard touchdown run with eight seconds left.
After safety Bruce Laird recovered

Combined with five straight in Arizona's previous game, Landry had 16 straight completions to surpass the league standard of 15 set last year by Bobby Scott of New Jersey and Johnnie Walton, then of the Boston Breakers.
The Wranglers led 27-0 at halftime and coasted from there in improving their record to 2-1. Washington fell to 0-3 before a crowd of 25,218 at 70,021-seat Sun Devil Stadium.
Tim Spencer's one-yard run capped an 11-play, 91-yard Arizona drive for a 7-0 lead seven minutes into the game.

Thomas signs for 'lifetime'

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Isiah Thomas became one of the highest-paid players in the National Basketball Association Monday when he signed a "lifetime" contract with the Detroit Pistons.

The agreement will extend Thomas' contract with the Pistons another 10 years through the 1994-95 season, said William Davidson, the club's managing partner.

Terms of the contract, reportedly worth $10 million-$12 million, were not disclosed.

However, Thomas' lawyer, George Andrews, said the deal would make the former Indiana University star "by far the highest-paid point guard in the NBA."

Another Andrews client, guard Earvin "Magic" Johnson of the Los Angeles Lakers, has a contract reportedly worth $25 million over 25 years, but the lawyer said he does not consider Johnson a point guard.

Church tourney pairings set

TWIN FALLS — Four games on Monday, March 19, will open the Magic Valley Church League basketball tournament.

Games scheduled in the first round at Robert-Stuart Junior High that evening match Twin Falls Reformed and Salvation Army at 7:30 p.m. and First United Methodist against Immanuel Lutheran A at 8:20 p.m.

First round games that evening at O'Leary Junior High pair First Assembly with Immanuel Lutheran B at 7:30 p.m. and First Baptist against Redeemer Lutheran at 8:20 p.m.

The top four teams in the circuit received first-round byes. They are the undefeated league champion, St.

Edward's, runner-up Grace Baptist, and third place First Presbyterian and Trinity Lutheran of Eden.

The double elimination tournament will continue through March 29, said Rev. Robert Seaman, league president.

Cyclists schedule meeting

TWIN FALLS — The Magic Valley Cyclists will hold their March meet tonight.

The agenda will include this summer's practice and competition schedules. U.S. Cycling Federation dues cards will also be available.

The meeting will held at the home of Rich Nystrom, 1099 Redwood Circle, at 7 p.m. Further information can be obtained by phoning 733-4110.

Disco fall hurts Thompson

SEATTLE (AP) — Seattle forward David Thompson was injured during a weekend incident at Studio 54, a posh New York disco, and will be unable to play the rest of the National Basketball Association season.

SuperSonics officials said Thompson tore ligaments in his left knee when he fell down a flight of stairs after he was bumped. Team members who were with Thompson said there was a scuffle, a punch was thrown and then Thompson tumbled down the stairs.

Thompson was treated for bumps and bruises at Roosevelt Hospital in New York early Saturday and then released.

Team physician Dr. David Cargis gave Thompson an arthroscopic examination in Seattle on Sunday and found that Thompson had torn ligaments in his knee.

Boise's Breaux tops pro-am

TWIN FALLS — Jerry Breaux of Boise shrugged off Idaho's longest winter to post a six-under par 66 and lead all scorers in the first pro-am golf tournament of the season Monday.

Breaux had nine birdies, a bogey and a double bogey over the 72-par Blue Lakes Country Club course.

There was a jam at 71 behind him in the pro sweeps with Bob Eames of Idaho Falls, Bob Campbell of Boise, Ken Sparks of Boise and Rick Longhurst of Elko, all sharing second.

Campbell's Boise crew of Cliff Grossman, Howard Todd, Ted Hendrick and Dan Webster took the two-best-ball division title with a 25-under par 119. They were followed by Boise professional Stoney Brown and amateurs Jim Sinclair, Lee Bagby, Shoup Gorton and Bert Poole at 121 with pro Ken Sparks and amateur Ken Beauchamp, Bill Rundell, Earl Morrison and Steve McIntyre all at 122.

Five teams were knotted at 123.

In the amateur division, Perry Hanchey of Twin Falls and Ken Johnson, Idaho Falls, led the 6-11 handicap division with even par 72.

Hanchey arrived at his total in an odd way, birdying three of the first four holes to wind up even.

Two strokes back was Scott Hayes, Blackfoot while Dave Driscoll, Twin Falls, had 76 and Wayne Berry, Boise, 77. In net play, Cliff Grossman, Boise, won with a 65, two strokes ahead of Chris Abend, Blackfoot. Kent Beauchamp, Boise, and Norm Thomas, Twin Falls, had 71s with Dutch Standley and Chris Israel, Twin Falls, and Mike Martisl, Elko, at 72.

In the 12-over handicap division, Spec Haslam, Twin Falls, ran off with gross honors at 77, six ahead of Twin Falls' Bob Skrederstu. Andy Anderson, Boise, had 71s with Flynn and Milo Pearson, Twin Falls, 86s.

Acc Hansen was the net champion with a 68 with Dick Lingnaw, Jerome; Shoup Gorton, Boise, and Ross Bevan, Twin Falls, all at 70. Pat Armstrong, Boise, had a 71.

West squad takes court

FILER — Filer boys' basketball Coach Lloyd Garey, who is coaching the West team in the 12th annual Magic Valley-Eastern Seals All-Star Game next Monday, will hold his first practice this afternoon.

That session is slated for the College of Southern Idaho gym in Twin Falls at 4 p.m.

THE ACES® BOBBY WOLFF

"Great wits are sure to madness near allied,
And thin partitions do their bounds divide."
— John Dryden.

In the semifinal round of the 1983 World Championship, one player ventured a slam, off two cashable aces. A defender, looking at both of the aces, risked a double. The slam made. Were both players close to madness or was there a plausible explanation?

The bidding was artificial. Two diamonds showed a weak two-bid in heart, two no-trump asked for more information, three diamonds showed a maximum with excellent distribution, and six hearts said, "I want to play the hand."

West led his ace of hearts to look at dummy. What he saw was not too alarming. After all, West did have the spade king, even if the club ace was not cashable. What about that club ace? Would it cash? Impossible, of course. If declarer held a singleton club, why didn't he bid Blackwood to inquire about black?

Understandably reluctant, West led a second heart. Dummy's king won, the spade jack was led to the ace, and two of dummy's spades went on two high diamonds. The spade 10 proved the king for dummy to ruff, and dummy's four clubs were discarded on the good spades.

South was Alan Sontag of The Aces, who was amazed but grateful to score the shaky slam. Why did he bid as he did? Good reason. Alan placed North with both trump honors as part of his maximum weak two-bid. If so, a Blackwood inquiry would have elicited a five-heart response (five-ace Blackwood), making North declarer. Alan decided to play the hand himself to protect against a spade lead through his A-Q. Ergo, six hearts by South.

Wall Street strike for Mobil

Superior Oil an industry leader in amount of reserves held

By STEVEN P. ROSENFELD AP Business Writer
NEW YORK — Mobil Corp., with its $5.7 billion agreement to acquire Superior Oil Co. stands to gain an industry leader in finding oil without the headache of major antitrust objections...

These high exploration costs reflect the difficulty of finding new reserves in remote locations. Last year, for example, a group of oil companies that included Mobil sank $1 billion into an exploring well in the promising Mukluk area off Alaska's north coast but found only water.

Just concentrates on finding and producing oil and does not refine or market petroleum products. That should make a takeover by another oil company "a much purer, cleaner undertaking," said Sanford Margoshes, an analyst at Shearson-American Express Inc. in New York.

Merger gusher launches investigations

By WILLIAM KRONHOLM The Associated Press
WASHINGTON — Alarmed by a gusher of oil company mergers, a half dozen congressional committees are launching investigations into the trend while lawmakers are pressing legislation that would put pending mergers on hold.

$13.2 billion purchase of Gulf Corp. and Texaco Inc.'s $10.1 billion acquisition of Getty Oil Co. The most recent big merger agreement was announced Sunday — the $5.7 billion takeover of Superior Oil Co. by Mobil Corp.

But he said the reason for his industry support "is getting wells drilled, getting production" — and mergers don't move toward that goal. "The end result of this (merger) activity will be fewer and bigger oil companies," Johnston said.

Heinz income, earnings rise

PITTSBURGH, Pa. — H. J. Heinz Co., which owns Ore-Ida Foods, is reporting a 9.7 percent increase in net income and a 13.8 percent boost in earnings per share during the third quarter of its fiscal year, which ended Jan. 28.

M-K receives overhaul job

BOISE (AP) — Morrison Knudsen Co. Inc. has received a $30 million contract to overhaul the Metrol-North commuter rail line of New York.

Expansion spending to climb 12%

WASHINGTON (AP) — Business executives plan to increase spending for modernization and expansion by 12 percent this year, the best gain in 12 years, the government reported Monday.

spending should ally faster than the current recovery could fizzle out. The expected increase was revised upward from a 9.4 percent jump projected in January by the Commerce Department.

Manufacturing industries plan a 16.3 percent increase with the largest boost coming from the automobile industry, which plans to hike capital spending by 34 percent.

OPEC advised to hold line on prices

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — An OPEC committee has recommended the cartel keep oil price and production policies unchanged from the levels established a year ago, when the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries cut prices for the first time ever.

Competition could rouse non-profit U.S. Postal Service

In 1983, the non-profit Postal Service posted a surplus of $616 million on top of a 1982 surplus of $202 million — two years of surpluses in a row.

And yet there is a real possibility that you and I could be paying a record high of 23 cents for a first-class stamp by October to cover the costs of our dismal, discourteous, declining service.

Before I write another word, I admit that Manhattan, where I live, is an area into itself. In fact, one congressional source told me that Postal Service officials themselves talk about New York City and about the rest of the United States as though they are utterly unrelated.

If you live in a small town in the Midwest, you may grumble if your mail is delayed a day or so. In New

Sylvia Porter

York we expect mail to be delivered days, weeks, even months after being posted. I have the envelopes to prove the almost incredible intervals between mailing and delivery. In my town, millions of pieces drift through the mail, lending ever-increasing credibility to the oldest excuse in the book: "The check is in the mail."

You must recall what happened at Christmas. (I received a card last week that was sent the week before the holiday!) The Postal Service itself says that mail delivery was the worst in years — although it has explanations to justify the unjustifiable.

- Catastrophic weather conditions caused bottlenecks at several key mail transit points, such as Atlanta and Dallas-Fort Worth, and the bottlenecks choked off the flow of mail.

- Holiday mail reached a new all-time high, contributing to the record snafus. The total: nearly 10 billion pieces, an increase of 800 million over 1982's season.

The situation has become so grim in New York that Rep. Bill Green, R-N.Y., is trying to meet the regular and loud complaints of his constituents by devising a new way to deal with the problem.

One possibility — now under discussion: to make the Postal Service's own published performance standards mandatory. Then, if the standards were not achieved, first-class mail delivery would be opened to competition. Obviously, a solution of this sort would be tough to enact — but if it just puts the Postal Service on notice that we won't accept endless delays and guessing games about which day of the week a promised letter will arrive, it will have made an important contribution.

The congressional committee that oversees the Postal Service has no plans now to introduce legislation to improve mail service and, according to one staffer, legislating standards will be both difficult and controversial.

Nationally, the Postal Service has met its goal of 95 percent delivery of first-class mail (with stamps attached) on the next business day within a local or metropolitan area since 1979. (I find this as hard to believe as swallowing a postal meter — but that's what the claim is. I can't always be in that leftover minority.) For 1983, it was 96 percent. Here in New York, the percentage dropped below 90 percent in '83.

That standard is based on first-class mail received at the post office for distribution by the mail carrier and that had been postmarked before 5 p.m. on the previous day.

Metered mail, which has a different time frame, fared much worse. So did two-day and three-day mail delivery. Second-day mail is that delivered within a 600-mile radius from where it was posted. Third-day includes longer distances. Although the standard for both is 95 percent, second-day delivery performance was 88 percent in 1983 and third-day was 89 percent.

(The latter represents a 1 percent drop since 1982.)

Volume, though, rose to 119.4 billion pieces, up 4.7 percent over 1982.

Meanwhile, the Postal Service is pushing its much-heralded ZIP plus 4, also known as the 9-digit ZIP code. The Postal Service doesn't dare claim we'll receive our mail faster, but ZIP plus 4 is supposed to speed up the sorting process, eliminate errors and reduce costs.

This is so much fantasy to me. I just want my mail in reasonable time. I love my mail carriers, who love me back when they see my eyes as I finally find a long-sought letter. If competition would help, come on!

estimated there is a one-in-three chance that SoCal's bid for Gulf may be thwarted because of the backlash.

Mobil, the second largest U.S. oil company after Exxon Corp., said it has an agreement to acquire about 22 percent of the stock in Superior from the family of the company's founder, the late William Keck, and six charitable trusts for $45 a share. It also said it received the support of Superior's management for a bid to acquire the remaining shares for $45 a share in cash or securities.

Details have yet to be disclosed, but the $45-a-share price is nearly 50 percent higher than what the stock traded for a year ago.

Superior's stock rose 25 cents a share after the deal was announced to $39.50 at midday. Mobil's stock, meanwhile, dropped 1 1/2 cents to $30.12 1/2 a share.

oil cheaper on Wall Street than they can drill for oil in the fields of this country."

In the House, meanwhile, Rep. James J. Florio, D-N.J., said he would introduce legislation this week putting a hold on oil company mergers. Florio is chairman of the House Energy and Commerce subcommittee on commerce, and said his subcommittee would move on the legislation quickly.

Florio and Rep. Phil Sharp, D-Ind., chairman of the House Energy and Commerce subcommittee on fossil fuels, also announced their panels would hold a joint hearing March 21 about the mergers.

In addition to those hearings, the House Judiciary Committee is planning hearings on hostile takeovers, such as an effort by Mesa Petroleum to seize control of Gulf. Three Senate panels, the Judiciary Committee, the Banking Committee and a subcommittee of the Energy Committee — also have scheduled hearings on the subject.

Farm research case goes to trial

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Trial began Monday of a suit charging that the University of California's tax-funded research on farm mechanization is aiding large farms at the expense of small growers.

The lawsuit filed on behalf of the Davis-based California Agrarian Action Project and 17 farm workers claims that the UC system's emphasis on developing labor-saving machines has hurt small farmers and cost agricultural workers their jobs.

There is "no credence to any of the charges," said J.B. Kendrick, UC's vice president for agriculture and natural resources.

The university says mechanization has proved as inevitable in agriculture as it has in other industries and that agricultural employment has not decreased because of it.

The suit claims that private grants to the university by farm machinery manufacturers, growers and chemical companies have unfairly influenced UC's selection of research and development projects.

In turn, sponsors of the research projects receive special reports, laboratory samples and other data not available to the public, according to the suit.

It accuses the university system of giving improper "gifts" to private interests and of failing to follow federal mandates to use research funds to serve the needs of workers and small farmers.

"These gifts have a leveraging effect on tax funds," said Paul Barnett, a spokesman for California Rural Legal Assistance, which is representing the plaintiffs. "They give a dollar and get 10 dollars' back in research."

University attorneys contend that of 69 research projects cited in the suit, only a "minor component" involved the development of labor-saving farm machinery.

"Industrialization has been a fact of American life for the last 150 years," the university said. "Mechanization of agriculture recapitulates what has already taken place in thousands of shops and businesses across America."

The university also cites census data showing an increase in the number of small farm operators in California in recent years and reflecting a growth in domestic workers from 192,000 in 1969 to 224,000 in 1980.

Teamsters strike IML

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The Teamsters union has ordered a strike against IML Freight Inc.

IML spokeswoman Perry Twitchett said the strike was called late Sunday night and could affect two-thirds of IML's 1,200 employees.

But she said it was unclear how many employees actually were on strike because some apparently were crossing picket lines to go to work.

Repeated efforts were made to reach union officials by telephone Monday morning, but they were unavailable for comment.

Twitchett said company officials were uncertain as to what the union hoped to gain from the strike. But she said union leaders apparently were unhappy because the company closed down its eastern terminals, laying off 700 employees.

She said the closure was recommended by an auditing firm as part of the company's reorganization under Chapter 11 of the Federal Bankruptcy Act.

Grand Central's sales $70 million

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Grand Central Inc. Monday reported gross retail sales amounting to $70.4 million during the second fiscal quarter ending Jan. 29.

The company had sales of $72.6 million for the same period a year ago.

After-tax earnings for the period were $1.1 million, or 49 cents per share, compared to $139,729 or 6 cents per share last year, a company statement said.

The firm closed down a store in Amarillo, Texas, during the quarter, and continues to operate 31 stores in Utah, New Mexico, Idaho, Nevada and Wyoming.

Average tip in restaurant amounts to 14% of the check

By JIM LUTHER
AP Tax Writer

WASHINGTON — A new study finds the average tipper leaves the waiter 14.3 percent of the bill — a conclusion that may complicate efforts by restaurant workers to get relief from a toughened tax law.

Waiters and waitresses are complaining that the new law, enacted in 1982, assumes they are tipped at least 8 percent of the check. In fact, they have complained so much that the Senate Finance Committee has voted to weaken the law.

Meanwhile, the Internal Revenue Service released a study based on responses from nearly 13,000 households who kept a diary on their eating-out habits in 1982.

Among the conclusions: Americans ate out on 14.8 billion occasions during the year, spent $85 billion on food and left $6.2 billion in tips. They tipped only about 30 percent of the time, which, the IRS said, reflects chiefly the fact that about half the meals were served by fast-food places where tipping is not customary.

The IRS noted the 14.3-percent rate differs markedly from estimates made by other government agencies but pointed out the other studies were based on information supplied by people who receive tips.

"Although we cannot be certain what fraction of this tip-income was taxable, we can be fairly certain that almost all of it was reportable income," wrote Robert B. Pearl of the University of Illinois and Kevin F. McCrohan of George Mason University, who supervised the research.

An IRS estimate that only 15 percent of taxable tips are ever reported as income prompted Congress to write a new law that, in effect, requires waiters in restaurants with 11 or more employees to prove they are not tipped at least 8 percent. The Finance Committee has voted to exempt restaurants if a majority of employees can demonstrate a tipping rate under 8 percent.

The number of tax returns filed so far this year is still running behind the 1983 pace, but the gap is narrowing. During the first 10 weeks of 1984, the IRS had received $7.7 million individual returns, compared with $9.6 million a year ago.

Of the 17.9 million processed this year, 11.2 million were getting refunds. Those checks total nearly $7.9 billion, compared with $9.5 billion a year ago; the average refund is up to $702 from last year's $687.

The filing deadline is April 15.

Installing a solar heating system in your home may qualify you for a tax credit of up to $4,000, but don't try to claim the credit for any part of the system that can do something other than save energy.

A new revenue ruling by the IRS discusses a taxpayer who built a lean-to solarium onto his home. Barrels of water were installed under the tile floors to store heat from the sun; a duct flows warm air from the water to flow into the original house.

Because they serve more than one purpose, the IRS held, the foundation, tile floors and sliding doors do not qualify for the credit. The water barrels, insulation, louvers, ducts and thermostats qualify.

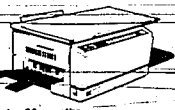

A payment reimbursing a county for keeping a teen-ager in a juvenile detention center is not a deductible expense, the Tax Court says. Ruling in a California case, the court denied most of a deduction claimed by a father who, under orders of a juvenile court, repaid the county for keeping his son for 158 days. Such expenses are personal in nature and not deductible, the court ruled.

However, the father was allowed to deduct a part of the cost of reimbursing the county for the son's medical expenses.

In a private ruling, the IRS has allowed a parent to deduct the prepaid cost of assuring a mentally-retarded son receives lifetime care in an institution.

Six Twin Falls Girls' Staters named

TWIN FALLS — Six Twin Falls High School Juniors have been named delegates to the annual Girls' State program.

This year the event will be held June 17-23 at Northwest Nazarene College at Nampa where delegates will receive training in legislative procedures at state and local levels.

Twin Falls delegates are Blythe Moffitt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Moffitt; Tammy Krause, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Krause; Elizabeth Allard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Allard; Jennifer Hovey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Hovey; Melanie Lamborn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Lamborn, and Caryn Crowley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Crowley.

Sandy Gillette, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grant W. Gillette, is the alternate.

Moffitt has taken ballet, jazz dancing and piano lessons. She is French Club secretary, member of Girls' League and Bruin Club and a varsity cheerleader. The Rotary Club is helping with her expenses.

Hovey teaches violin and viola at the Renaissance Academy of the Arts and is involved in cross country, winter and spring track. She is president of the Twin Falls High School orchestra. Her contributor is the Twin Falls Kiwanis Club.

Crowley is treasurer of her Junior class and is active in the Madrigals and Chamber Singers. She has been secretary-treasurer of orchestra and is attending All-State Orchestra this year. She also belongs to the Sawtooth Country Cloggers. The 20th Century Club is helping with her expenses.

Krause moved here from Phoenix, Ariz., six months ago. She was on the homecoming committee and a cheerleader and was active in student government and tennis. She belongs to Girls' League, French Club and student government. Her sponsor is the Altruism Club.

Allard is active in her church youth group, Stamp club, debate and 4-H. She is German Club secretary and belongs in the Magic Valley and American Dairy Goat Association. She received superior ratings in solo and concerto piano divisions of the Music Club Junior Festival and will attend summer camp at an East Coast conservatory. The Soroptimist Club will help with expenses.

Lamborn is involved in dancing, piano, art, voice and guitar and church activities. She is president of her youth group and is on the debate team. She was sophomore class treasurer and is president of the junior unit of Girls' League. Her contributing sponsor is the Twin Falls Republican Central Committee.

OPEN YOUR IRA NOW!

Plant the seed and watch it grow for your retirement.

- If you are single, maximum annual contribution is $2,000.
- If you are married and only one works, maximum annual contribution is $2,250.
- If you are married and both work, maximum annual contribution is $4,000.
- Even though you are covered by a qualified retirement plan (pension plan or profit sharing trust) you can have your own IRA.

Open your IRA (Individual Retirement Account) before April 15 and the money you put in can be deducted from your taxable income for 1983.

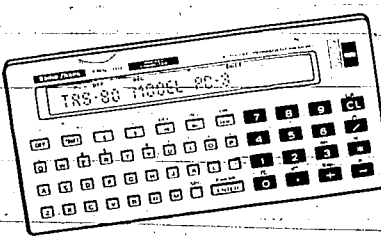

The total contribution you make each year is a deduction from your taxable income and the interest earned is tax free until you retire. At that time you'll probably be in a lower tax bracket. Funds in an IRA can be withdrawn beginning at age 59 1/2. Federal regulations require a substantial penalty for early withdrawal. Your money will earn high interest and there are no service charges. Come in soon and let's discuss it.

Product fights perspiration

DEAR ABBY: I think I can help "Dripping Wet in Pa.," who perspired so severely that she had embarrassing "rings" on her clothes that reached down to her waist.

I had the same problem and had to use two sets of dress shields at once, which weren't enough most of the time. At work I would make frequent trips to the restroom to stuff Kleenex under my arms!

Abigail VanBuren
Dear Abby

I finally asked my doctor if he knew of anything to relieve excessive underarm perspiration, and he wrote a prescription for Drysol. Any pharmacist can make it up; the formula is in his pharmacist's book.

There are instructions to follow, and a warning: People who have a sensitivity or allergy to aluminum chloride shouldn't use it. Also, it shouldn't be used on recently broken, irritated or shaven skin.

I hope this helps. For me it was a miracle that changed my life!

— DRY AT LAST IN ARIZONA

DEAR ABBY: I rarely recommend a product, but because so many readers write to praise Drysol, I feel compelled to do so. It's manufactured by Persol and Covey Inc. in Glendale, Calif. 91201, and a doctor's prescription is required to obtain it.

DEAR ABBY: I know my husband loves me, but for some strange reason he seems to get pleasure out of scaring me.

One morning at 4 o'clock he suddenly threw his whole body on top of mine, awakening me out of a sound sleep. I was terrified, thinking I was being attacked. I screamed! He thought it was funny. He will often sneak up behind me and grab me, or surprise me with a loud, sudden noise.

What's with him? I've asked him to quit it, but he says I'm a poor sport because I can't take a joke. Abby, these so-called jokes scare the living daylights out of me, and he knows it. Am I in the wrong or is he?

— STARTLED WIFE

DEAR WIFE: He is. His repeated "jokes" have not been coming from love — they are hostile acts, thinly disguised as childish pranks. If he continues playing this cruel game after you've asked him to quit, you qualify as an abused wife. Color him cruel, with a touch of yellow.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing to you because you are responsible for this problem.

I am a newlywed widower, age 77, and my bride is 70. She is my second wife and I am her fifth husband. (The Lord released her from her first two and the judge released her from her last two.)

The problem is she cannot understand why I need to sleep alone. Tears and arguments follow when I try to leave her and go into another room to sleep.

That is not to say that we never share a bed. We do. But when it comes to sleeping, I must have my own bed. I am a very restless sleeper who changes positions often, and I feel inhibited from moving if I have to worry about disturbing a bed partner.

I also snore. And when I tried to explain it to my bride, she said, "Dear Abby said, 'Snoring is the sweetest music this side of heaven. Ask any widow.'"

Abby, did you really say that?

— TROUBLED BRIDE/GROOM

DEAR TROUBLED: I plead guilty as charged.

(Getting married? Whether you want a formal church wedding or a simple, "do-your-own-thing" ceremony, get Abby's booklet. Send $1 plus a 10¢ self-addressed, stamped 10¢ cent envelope to: Abby's Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 38822, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.)

3 Kimberly boys earn Eagle rank

KIMBERLY — Three Boy Scouts from Kimberly were presented the Eagle rank at a Court of Honor held recently at the Kimberly Second Ward of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

Trevor Daw, son of Edwin and Karen Daw; Mark Jeske, the son of Fred and Shirley Jeske, and Glenn Taylor, son of Tom and Kathy Taylor, all of Kimberly, received the honor.

Daw, an eighth grade student at Kimberly Junior High School, has served as patrol leader of Troop 88 and now is senior patrol leader. Kent Allen is scoutmaster for Troop 88. For his Eagle project, Daw planned and organized the painting of the bleachers at Kimberly City Park.

Jeske, a sophomore at Kimberly High School, is captain of the Varsity Scout Team 88, of which John Andrew is coach. Jeske refurbished the flag pole at the Kimberly Mormon Church and organized the posting of the flag each Sunday for his Eagle project.

Taylor, also a Kimberly High School sophomore, has served as a staff member at Camp Bradley Scout Camp. For his Eagle project, Taylor repainted the lines on the city tennis courts.

Tea potent brain stimulant

DEAR DR. LAMB — I recently had a disagreement with my daughter-in-law about the amount of caffeine in tea and coffee. I told her that tea, pound for pound, had as much caffeine as coffee. But she claimed her nutritionist said tea wouldn't harm her.

She drinks approximately six, 12-ounce cups of tea a day and smokes a pack-and-a-half of cigarettes. Then she wonders why she's flighty and nervous. What's your opinion?

DEAR READER — The fact is, tea does contain caffeine. And it also contains theophylline, which is a potent brain stimulant. You usually hear about caffeine, but theophylline may even be a more powerful brain stimulant.

Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

because prolonged intraocular pressure can lead to glaucoma and blindness. How you should be treated depends on what's causing it.

There's nothing to accomplish by exercise, other than weight reduction, to reduce high eye pressure. And there's very little you can do in terms of diet other than eliminating body fats. An exception might be limiting your salt intake.

Certainly none of these measures should in any way replace your good medical treatment.

DEAR READER — I said 26 was high for the pressure inside the eye. Normal is usually 10 or less, depending on the test procedure. I'm glad you're being treated.

It depends upon how tea and coffee are brewed. From leaves, bags, instant or decaffeinated — the amounts of caffeine and theophylline.

It follows that with the caffeine and theophylline in tea, your daughter-in-law is getting a lot of stimulus to her brain, which was just the opposite effect of tranquillizers. Too much caffeine is one reason a major segment of the population is "edgy" and anxious.

Cigarette smoking also increases the adrenaline released in the body. That also contributes to anxiety. With that combination of tea and cigarettes it's no wonder your daughter-in-law is nervous.

Now remember that "a person convinced against his will is of the same opinion still." So, give her the Health Center's Contraversal Beverages: Coffee, Tea, Colas and Chocolate, which I'm sending you, and let her make up her own mind. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

If she decides to quit the tea, she may need to taper off slowly to avoid excessive fatigue, sleepiness and headaches.

DEAR DR. LAMB — You said that 26 was high for eye pressure. I have 24 and am using eye drops. Can I help myself by some exercises or foods such as sunflower seeds? The ophthalmologist shrugged and said it's like getting hair part of getting old. I'm terrified of being blind.

"If these Pioneer brand hybrids are the ones to beat, I figure they're the ones to plant."

Seems every year, some seed corn companies go to a lot of trouble comparing their numbers to Pioneer brand hybrids—that's fine. But why take chances on hybrids that only claim to be as good as Pioneer, when you can plant the real thing?

3950 An early season number that can take on higher plant populations to extend its yield. It averaged 133 bu./A in 31 Utah and southern Idaho weigh wagon competitions last fall, an 11 bu./A advantage over competitive numbers.

3906 A slightly earlier companion to 3901 with solid yield credentials. In 54 weigh wagon competitions last year, 3906 averaged 129 bu./A. Stands strong and holds onto its ears.

3901 Well known for producing big yields of fast drying grain in 65 southern Idaho Utah weigh wagon competitions last fall, 3901 averaged 134 bu./A—a full 16 bu./A more than its competition. Fast drydown lets you harvest early and reduce drying costs.

Why not see your local Pioneer dealer and get your hybrids on order today:
