House deadlock ends Sales-tax hike clears hurdle

By QUANE KENYON
AP Capital Writer

BOISE — The Idaho House has ended its long deadlock over tax increases; now it appears the battle will be on the House floor over a half-cent sales tax increase, a 1-cent boost or no increase.

At the prodding of Chairman Steve Antone, R-Rupert, the Revenue and Taxation Committee voted Friday 11-7 to send a half-cent sales tax increase bill to the House floor.

But it was put up for amendment, and Antone said he expects an effort to make the increase 1 cent. That could come as early as Monday.

Revenue and Taxation has been tied 9-9 for weeks on major tax bills. But Friday, Reps. Gordon Hollifield, R-Jerome, and John Brooks, R-Gooding, voted to send the bill to the House floor.

Minutes earlier, the committee voted down another tax increase bill, the latest in a long line to be defeated or stalled by the committee.

Only the five Democrats on the 18-member committee voted in favor of a bill boosting corporate taxes. It would have generated $13 million to $15 million per year by repealing the accelerated depreciation, job credits and investment credits voted by the 1982 session.

As the half-cent sales tax bill came up, Antone prodded committee members to do something. "If it gets to the floor, it's fair game for anybody," said Antone.

"We've been in session 67 days and we haven't sent any major tax bill to the floor. We need to get off dead center."

If it becomes law, the bill would make Idaho's sales tax rate starting July 1 3 1/2 percent. The rate is 4 1/4 percent now, but the temporary 1 1/2-cent increase voted last year will expire July 1.

The measure could generate $30 million annually.

Economy spurred despite price hikes

By ROBERT FURLLOW
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Wholesale inflation slowed to 0.4 percent in February despite a sizable increase in food costs and the biggest jump in more than four years in home heating oil prices, the government reported Friday.

A White House spokesman said the inflation report and separate figures showing a February spurt in home construction were "good news for everybody" and private analysts seemed to agree.

Meanwhile, the stock market shot higher in response to signs of progress toward narrowing the federal budget deficit. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks surged 19.96 to 1,184.36, and ended with a weekly gain of 44.60 points.

Late Thursday, President Reagan announced an agreement with Republican leaders in Congress on proposals to reduce the projected budget deficit by $74 billion over the next three years.

The plan received a cool initial reception from congressional Democrats and others. But analysts said stock traders had been looking for months for any sign of progress toward resolving the deficit deadlock, and seized on Thursday's development as evidence that a serious effort to get the deficit down had begun.

February's increase in the Labor Department's Producer Price Index for finished goods followed a 0.8 percent January rise that was the steepest in 14 months. So even though the rate of increase slowed in February, prices so far this year are still running at a pace that would give 1984 the highest inflation in the past 20 years.

But government and private economists said big food and energy price increases have been mostly due to bad winter weather and will fade this spring.

Gunmen kidnap U.S. envoy

By SAMIR GHATTAS
The Associated Press

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Three gunmen kidnaped an American diplomat in west Beirut on Friday, forcing him into a car at pistol point and speeding off. There was no immediate ransom demand or claim of responsibility.

William Buckley, 55, first secretary in the embassy's political section, was the third American kidnapped in the Lebanese capital in five weeks. His abduction came as heavy shelling in the capital violated the three-day-old cease-fire.

In Washington, State Department spokesman John Hughes said Buckley became a Foreign Service officer last year and was on his first assignment. A native of Medford, Mass., he had been a civilian employee of the Department of the Army since 1965 and served in Washington and Vietnam.

The U.S. government has been in touch with Lebanese officials, militia leaders and the Syrian government over Buckley's disappearance. Hughes said.

"We don't know who seized him," he added. Buckley was seized at about 7:30 a.m. by three gunmen as he left his apartment house in the Ras Beirut neighborhood of mostly Moslem west Beirut for the U.S. mission on nearby Elm Mreisseh boulevard, said embassy First Secretary Robert Pugh.

Pugh said Buckley had been assigned to Beirut since Sept. 9, 1983.

Mohammed Moussa, 23, manager of the 10-story apartment building on Tannoukhih Street, said the gunmen seized Buckley in the driveway of the building but did not harm him.

"Mr. Buckley walked by me, said 'hello' and left the building... He drove out of the parking lot, the narrow street leading out of the neighborhood only to find the driveway blocked by a white Renault 12," Moussa said.

Buckley stepped out of his car and one of three gunmen jumped out of the Renault. The man pointed a pistol at Buckley's head and forced him into their vehicle, which sped off, Moussa told a reporter.

"The whole thing took less than three minutes," Moussa said.

Buckley lived alone on the top floor of the 10-story al-Manar apartment building, the manager said. The apartment, previously occupied by Buckley's predecessor, Michael Johnston, who was among 17 Americans killed in the April 18, 1983, car bombing of the U.S. Embassy in Beirut.

Ras Beirut is a busy commercial district ringed by a few high-rise apartment buildings rented mostly to foreigners or Lebanese businessmen.

Buckley's building is at the end of a driveway just off Tannoukhih Street, about 300 yards from the seaside boulevard that rims a large chunk of west Beirut and passes through Elm Mreisseh. It is surrounded by a few old, three-to-four-story apartment buildings.

By Beirut standards, the area is considered relatively safe.

Delegates' expanded wilderness plan decried as 'extremist'

By The Associated Press
and The Times-News

BOISE — Idaho's congressional delegation has proposed adding just more than a half-million acres to the state's wilderness area, a figure that Gov. John Evans calls too low.

The recommendation, made Friday, is certain to stir opposition from conservation groups. The proposal represents less wilderness area than recommended by any group that has put forth a wilderness proposal, even the Idaho timber industry.

But the GOP-dominated Idaho House of Representatives voted 53-14 on Friday to advise Congress that it does not want any more land in Idaho designated wilderness. The resolution says that residents don't want any more — that the state already has more than 3.8 million acres of wilderness.

Sen. James McClure said Friday that the congressional delegation's proposal "balances the needs of both current and future generations."

It recommends adding 526,000 acres of wilderness, compared to the Idaho

Forest Industry Council's recommendation of 590,000 acres, and it would release millions of acres of federal Forest Service land for such uses as mining, timber-cutting and grazing.

The delegation's proposal is for about half as much wilderness as one made by Gov. John Evans, and it fell far short of the 2.9 million acres recommended by the Idaho Conservation League.

However, an aide to McClure said the congressional delegation also took into consideration the "no-new-wilderness" position of such groups as the Idaho Mining Association, the cattlemen, the wool growers and the Idaho Trail Machine Association.

Other conservation group proposals ranged upward to one made by the Earth First group, which had proposed adding more than 8 million acres of roadless area to Idaho's wilderness.

"My recommendation was roundly criticized on a statewide basis as being too low," Evans said Friday. Evans said the small wilderness

Urged wilderness near Magic Valley largely ignored

BOISE — Prospective wilderness areas near the Magic Valley largely were ignored by Idaho's congressional delegation in the wilderness recommendation it made Friday, Gov. John Evans and environmentalists say.

And those local areas that have been recommended for wilderness status were given only token consideration, they say.

"They left the Pioneer-Mountain out," Evans said of the proposed release to "multiple-use" of the 12,000-foot range east of Ketchum and Sun Valley. "There's no justification for that."

Also omitted under the plan is any wilderness area in the Lemhi Mountain range, which runs on a line between Idaho Falls and Salmon, he said.

And Evans criticized as "too low" the delegation's 41,000-acre proposed wilderness at Borah Peak, in the Lost River range east of Mackay, and the 145,000-acre wilderness proposed for the White Cloud Peaks, southeast of Stanley.

The governor's plan, which had included roughly twice as much total acreage, had called for a 125,000-acre Borah Peak wilderness and a 282,000-acre White Cloud-Boulder Mountains wilderness.

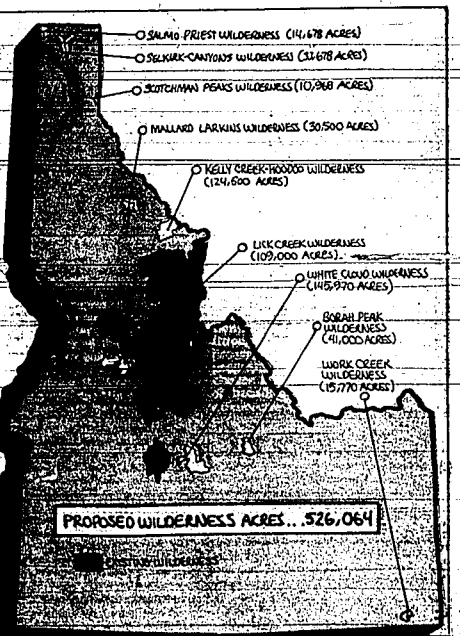

One Wood River Valley wilderness supporter, Ketchum Councilman Tim Crawford, said Friday that the plan is "arrogant."

"It makes me really mad when you realize all the time they have been talking with this... and then they (the Idaho delegation) come out and give the people of Idaho a slap in the face," he said.

Lil Ericson of Salmon, a member of the Idaho Conservation League, said the proposal is "ludicrous. In no way is it a compromise."

The bill was written for the mining • See REACTION on Page A2

Mystery plane bombs Sudanese city

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — An unidentified jet bomber struck four targets in the Sudanese city of Omdurman on Friday, and President Gaafar Nimeiri of Sudan accused Libya of ordering the raid, the official Egyptian news agency said.

The agency said the Soviet-built TU-22 bomber flew in from the southwest and dropped five bombs, hitting the chief government radio station, two houses and an administrative building in the city of 300,000 people near Khartoum, the capital.

The Middle East News Agency said an unspecified number of people were injured in the raid, but an American diplomat said two or three people were killed.

Egypt, which has a mutual defense treaty with Sudan, immediately sent its defense minister to Khartoum and pledged to stand by Nimeiri's pro-Western government against any further aggression.

In a statement distributed by the Egyptian agency, Nimeiri accused Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafi of ordering the raid. Nimeiri has repeatedly claimed Libya and Ethiopia were supporting southern Sudanese rebels.

Nimeiri was quoted as saying the raid "proves his conspiracy and his joint operations against Sudan in coordination with Ethiopia." He did not elaborate.

There was no word on the plane's place of origin. But the authoritative "Jane's All The World's Aircraft" says only Libya, Iraq and the Soviet Union have the TU-22, a long-range bomber known as the "blinder."

Sudan put its armed forces on full alert but there was no word on any military activity against the government.

In its dispatch from Khartoum, the Egyptian news agency quoted the Sudanese military command as saying "all air and land forces in Sudan have been put on alert to repel any attack."

"Sudanese air space has been secured against any possible aggression," it military added.

Egypt's defense minister, Field Marshal Abdel-Halim Abu-Ghazala, described the raid as a "dangerous aggression" and said military commands of the two countries would work together to confront any further action "now and in the future."

Idaho population growing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Idaho's population rose 3.3 percent during the two years that followed the 1980 census — as births outnumbered deaths by nearly three to one, according to the U.S. Census Bureau.

The updated estimates show that by mid-1983, the most recent period available, Idaho's population stood at 975,000, up from 944,000 on the day of the headcount.

According to the federal figures, the bulk of that growth occurred during the first half of the period, when the population jumped some 18,000.

Calm enforced Friday in troubled Miami areas

MIAMI (AP) — Police toting shotguns patrolled black neighborhoods amid sporadic rock and bottle-throwing Friday, after more than 240 people were arrested and 19 injured in a night of unrest sparked by a policeman's accidental in the death of a black man.

City officials gave strict orders to "crush lawlessness" and expressed confidence that they could head off the city's third full-scale riot in four years. The first of those was also provoked by a jury finding policemen innocent in the slaying of a black man.

"This town is calm. It's business as usual," City Manager Howard Gary said Friday. "We anticipate it's going to be that way this evening and we don't want to overreact."

But it was not business as usual for many downtown merchants, who said fear and uncertainty sharply cut the number of black and white shoppers who ventured onto the streets. Some schools also reported attendance down from normal.

An all-white jury took only two hours Thursday night to acquit Hispanic police officer Luis Alvarez of manslaughter in the death of a black man — a shooting that triggered Miami's last riot, in the Overtown section on Dec. 28, 1982.

Alvarez, 24, had been indicted on a manslaughter charge in the fatal shooting of Nevel Johnson Jr. at an Overtown video arcade. Alvarez said that he fired in self-defense against an armed suspect. That shooting touched off three days of rioting in which police killed a looter. Millions of dollars in damages were inflicted on businesses.

"As word of the verdict spread, crowds of mostly black youths flooded into the streets of Overtown, Liberty City and portions of Coconut Grove, looting warehouses, setting fires and tossing debris."

At least a dozen businesses were ransacked and several warehouses were torched. At least 19 people, including four police officers, received minor injuries.

U.S. journalist killed in Salvador

JOHN HOAGLAND — Dead U.S. photographer

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — John Hoagland, an American photographer working on contract for Newsweek magazine, was killed Friday during a gun battle between leftist guerrillas and army troops north of the capital.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman and an official at the Polyclinic Hospital in San Salvador, where Hoagland's body was taken, both confirmed the death. The officials asked not to be identified for security reasons.

Hoagland was with another photographer, Robert Nickelsberg, traveling on a road to cover a guerrilla attack on Suchitoto, 27 miles northeast of the capital, when they were caught in a crossfire.

Nickelsberg, under contract with Time magazine, said they had walked about a mile with some army soldiers when they were ambushed from behind by guerrillas about 14 miles north of San Salvador. They immediately look cover.

"We were 20 meters off the road behind a tree," Nickelsberg said, upon returning to the capital. "We got sprayed with bullets and one of them got him."

Nickelsberg said he was uncertain which side fired the shot because of heavy gunfire from both sides, but he added: "It could very well have been the guerrillas. It came at an unexpected angle."

"We were pinned down for 45 minutes more, the soldiers retreated and they left us behind. The soldiers wired up that they had a wounded journalist, but they said we would have to wait," Nickelsberg said.

He said an "army soldier" was wounded during the fighting. Nickelsberg said Hoagland passed out within 10 seconds after he was hit in the back and never regained consciousness.

Tax-hike bills almost done

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate and House committees are completing separate deficit-reducing bills that are remarkably close to what President Reagan has endorsed — a relatively painless potpourri of tax increases that would have great impact on low-American.

Neither the bill already cleared by the House Ways and Means Committee nor the version the Senate Finance Committee expects to complete next week would tinker with the individual tax cuts that were adopted in 1981 at the heart of Reagan's economic program.

Both bills, however, would affect millions of middle-income taxpayers, although most of the sting won't be felt until after this election year.

Included in one or both bills are proposed extensions of telephone and cigarette excise taxes that are set to expire, higher taxes on liquor, a much-reduced tax break for middle- and upper-income people whose earnings jump sharply in one year, repeal of a tax credit to encourage weatherproofing of homes, and at least a delay in the start of a new tax break for savers.

Poland steers clear of clash

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Polish leader Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski said Friday he wanted to avoid conflict with the Roman Catholic Church, but said militant priests should steer clear of politics.

Jaruzelski said Communist authorities were still threatened by domestic opponents, "weaknesses" among young people and workers and an economic crisis which has cut consumer spending to the 1973 level.

The premier and party leader made the comments in a two-hour speech that opened a Communist Party conference attended by 1,800 delegates.

"We want good relations with the Roman Catholic Church," Jaruzelski said. But he did not directly mention the dispute between the government and Catholic bishops over the removal of crucifixes from schools in this overwhelmingly Catholic nation. The confrontation is the most serious in many years.

"There are misunderstandings and conflicts, especially on the principle of separation of the church and the state, which is constitutionally sanctioned in all modern nations," Jaruzelski said in his closest allusion to the controversy.

Jaruzelski repeated previous complaints about militant priests and supporters of the outlawed Solidarity free-trade union who have attacked the government, during Masses, classes and lectures.

"Deep distaste is aroused by various mysteriously converted and edited individuals who flatter the church and misuse its prestige by turning temples into rally and show halls and carry politics into churches," Jaruzelski said.

Iran troops repel attack

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Iran claimed Friday that its troops repulsed a series of Iraqi counterattacks northeast of Basra, a day after Iraq reported heavy battles in the area.

The Iraqis, "helpless to attack the Majnoon Islands and unable to retake these islands, have now begun their counterattack from the Talmayh region," Iranian radio said.

Iraq has been trying to recapture the oil-rich sandbar islands, which Iran captured during an offensive into Iraq that started on Feb. 21.

"A desperate counterattack" Thursday was routed with heavy losses, the radio said. "Following today's (Friday's) battle, the enemy had either to flee or be taken prisoner."

Iraqi sources had no immediate comment on the Iranian reports.

Thursday's daily Iraqi military communique said 489 Iranian soldiers were killed and scores more wounded in two fierce pre-dawn battles east of Basra. Iraq's second-largest city, near the northern tip of the Persian Gulf.

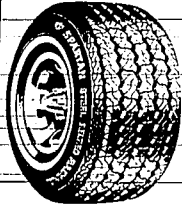

Iraq's Friday war communique, broadcast by Baghdad radio, said Iraqi war planes and helicopter gunships bombed Iranian positions east of Basra, "inflicting heavy damage and casualties on the enemy."

The ground forces continued to clash with the Iraqis along the southern sector of the battlefield, it added.

In Paris, the secretary-general of the Arab League, Chadi Kilibi, urged the European Common Market on Friday to appeal to Iran, a Moslem but non-Arab nation, to end the 43-month-old war with Arab Iraq.

Kilibi made the statement after an hour-long meeting with French President Francois Mitterrand of France, the current Common Market president.

Candidates set for weekend

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
AP Political Writer

From industrial Michigan to the Deep South and beyond to Puerto Rico, Walter Mondale is putting together a weekend surge to derailed Gary Hart's momentum.

On Saturday in Michigan, we take our stand," the former vice president said.

Democrats in five states hold caucuses on Saturday to begin allocating 301 delegates in the contest for the party's presidential nomination. Latin American Democrats also are deciding how to allocate their three convention delegates.

And on Sunday, Puerto Rico holds a primary to allocate 48 of the commonwealth's 53 convention delegates.

The Democratic contest slumped down to a three-man race after Sen. John Glenn announced on Friday that he was "reluctantly" ending his candidacy after disappointing finishes in the early primaries and caucuses.

From an original eight-man field, that left Mondale, Hart and the Rev. Jesse Jackson.

In the final hours before Super Saturday, the candidates concentrated their efforts on Michigan and Illinois which holds its primary on Tuesday.

Saturday's lineup had Michigan allocating 136 delegates, South Carolina 41, Arkansas 35, and Mississippi 38. A handful of caucuses were scheduled in Kentucky, but the lineup of that state's 53 pledged delegates won't be known until March 31.

Unclear was the impact two dropouts might have on the results in the Deep South.

Sen. Ernest F. Hollings of South Carolina recently endorsed Hart, but party officials in his home state were predicting most of the delegation would be uncommitted.

"Most of us haven't made up our minds," said Beth Pinson, Greenwood County Democratic leader.

In Mississippi, one of the Southern states where Glenn was regarded as having strong support, the survivors were hoping to attract his backers and also were engaged in intensive drives to make sure their own people attend the state's 2,070 precinct caucuses.

Hollis Watkins, Jackson's state campaign coordinator, predicted a "slight victory."

"The closer we get and the more we hear from the precincts, the better we're looking," he said.

"We think we're well organized in Mississippi and Arkansas," said Robert Beckel, Mondale's national campaign manager. "We're not sure of the Hollings factor" in South Carolina.

Prosecutor urges jury in bar case

FALL RIVER, Mass. (AP) — Asking jurors to disregard "that myth that rape victims somehow invited the crime against them," a prosecutor Friday demanded the conviction of two men accused of raping a woman on a bathroom pool table.

But defense attorneys argued for acquittal, saying the woman who made the accusation was a willing participant who "knew in her mind and her heart that this was a consensual act."

Wrapping up one of two trials in a case that became a national rallying point for women's activists, prosecutor Raymond Veary told jurors, "Something very wrong happened to that woman in that bar."

Although Veary acknowledged there were varying stories, the assistant Bristol County district attorney said four witnesses "put Daniel Silva on top of her on top of the pool table when she was crying and resisting, and that, I say to you, is rape."

He asked the jury to convict Silva and Joseph Vieira of raping the 22-year-old woman at Big Dan's tavern in New Bedford on March 6, 1983. The woman testified she was held on the pool table and attacked as bar spectators cheered.

The closing arguments came after both sides rested their case in the afternoon trial of Silva, 27, and Vieira, 23, who are charged with aggravated rape. The jury will hear deliberations Saturday morning, sitting through 18 days of testimony by 30 witnesses.

Veary told jurors the woman may have lied about some of the details in the bar that night, but he said drinking and talking with men is not an invitation to rape.

Kennedy Jr. gets probation

RAPID CITY, S.D. (AP) — Saying the punishment had "nothing to do with your name," a judge gave Robert F. Kennedy Jr. a 10-year suspended sentence and placed him on probation Friday for possessing heroin.

Circuit Judge Marshall Young imposed a number of penalties on Kennedy, including continued drug treatments and 1,500 hours of community service. But he said he was impressed with the attitude shown by Kennedy, 30, son of the late U.S. attorney general and senator.

"I think you have a real good probability and possibility of overcoming your drug addiction," Young told Kennedy. "You're the only one that can solve these problems. You've taken some giant steps" in recent months.

Kennedy's 10-minute court appearance Friday came nearly a month after he pleaded guilty to a felony charge of possessing about two-tenths of a gram of heroin when he became ill aboard a flight from Minneapolis to Rapid City in September.

The judge said he believed it was in the best interest of justice and society to suspend imposition of sentence against Kennedy. A suspended sentence is the usual punishment for first-time drug offenders who aren't involved in selling drugs, the judge said.

Ambulance scandal ends

DALLAS (AP) — A nurse who argued with a man, scolded him for foul language and delayed sending an ambulance for his dying stepmother was fired on Friday, the Fire Department said.

In addition to the firing of nurse Billye Myrick, her supervisor, Capt. Donald Green, was demoted to Lieutenant, and other employees involved in the case were reprimanded, said department spokesman Bill Jernigan.

The actions followed an investigation into the delay in sending an ambulance for Lillian Boff, 60, who died before paramedics arrived at her home on Jan. 5.

Candidates must start filing under criticized district plan

By QUANE KENYON
AP Capital Writer

BOISE — Filing opens Monday for Idaho's May 22 primary election, and Deputy Secretary of State Ben Yursa said it will be under a redistricting plan under attack by a federal court lawsuit.

"We have no choice. It's 14-B unless there's last-minute compromise — and we don't expect that," said Yursa.

Idaho candidates thus will start filing Monday under a plan first approved by 1st District Sen. Ben Yursa in 1982, and expanding the 105 member Legislature by 21 positions.

Starting Monday, candidates have until April 6 to file nominating petitions. County clerks then have to check signatures on the petitions, to see if they are valid residents of the district involved.

Yursa said at least for the present, that will have to be done under 14-B, the plan calling for the election of 42 senators and 84 House members.

"Unless we hear something legislatively or from the courts, we will proceed under 14-B," Yursa said. "And I doubt we will see that."

The Legislature's been engaged in a dizzy whirl of negotiations and battles over legislative redistricting. But the net through Friday afternoon was no action.

Still pending is legislation that would move the primary election back to the end of August, and wipe out this year's scheduled presidential primary.

The Idaho Supreme Court ruled in the case that unless the Legislature came up with an acceptable redistricting plan this session, the next election would be held under the district court approved plan, 14-B.

House Speaker Tom Stivers and Senate President Pro Tem James Risch on Wednesday filed federal court action, challenging legality of 14-B.

They asked for a panel of three federal judges to decide if that plan should be thrown out, and a 1982 redistricting plan reinstated.

Cogswell and the Idaho Supreme Court agreed the 1982 plan violated the state constitution.

Senate balks at two school boards

BOISE — A plan to establish two state education boards, one for universities and one for public schools, has been killed by the Idaho Senate.

The Senate voted 22-13 on Friday against the proposed constitutional amendment. It required a two-thirds Senate endorsement for passage and eventually could have appeared on the state ballot.

After the proposal was voted down, Senate President Pro Tem James Risch tried to lead an effort to hold it for reconsideration on Monday. But opponents forced an immediate vote that killed the measure for good.

Sen. C.E. "Chick" Blyden, D-Pocatello, said in a debate on the Senate floor that a two-board system would drive up costs, infringe on local school boards' authority and lead to in-fighting.

The present system with one board overseeing all public education in Idaho has streamlined coordination of the state's education network, said

Blyden, whose wife, Diane, has been appointed to the Idaho Board of Education.

Critics of the plan recommended by an education task force also said they doubted the state could fund a second board $100,000, the amount projected in a fiscal-impact statement.

But Sen. John Barker, R-Buhl, said the lone board has too much to do. He held up the agenda and documents for one board meeting and said they were the thickness of a Boise phone book.

Lawmakers to ponder day-care licensing

BOISE (AP) — A proposal for mandatory licensing of Idaho day-care facilities is dead, but a panel of four legislators has been assigned to come up with a new plan by Tuesday.

The House Health and Welfare Committee on Friday voted 7-5 against the measure. Supporters claim it would curtail the number of children in day-care facilities.

Advocates of mandatory licensing say Idaho, the only state without mandatory licensing, is wide open for sex offenders and other violators seeking a place to set up day-care businesses.

Opponents of mandatory licensing say it will restrict parents' freedom of choice, inflate the cost of day-care and drive small-scale care facilities out of business.

Rep. Donna Scott, R-Twin Falls, told the committee on Friday the bill injected government where it didn't belong.

She advocated drafting a new measure confined largely to requirements for safety standards at facilities and police checks of operators' backgrounds.

Panel issues prison funds

BOISE — After being warned that the state could lose a costly federal court suit, the Legislature's budget-setting committee has reversed an earlier decision and approved $73,000 to help state prison officials begin easing overcrowding at the penitentiary.

"We could lose a lot more than that in one lawsuit," Sen. William Moore, R-Hayden Lake, said Friday after leading the majority that only a day earlier had approved a 1984 prison budget that provided no money for penal system improvements to cut the main prison population.

"Not all of us being perfect, we sometimes make an error in judgment," Moore admitted.

The committee voted unanimously to add the money to the budget for the correctional facility at Orofino, where space will be remodeled to house geriatric inmates beginning next spring.

Once the shift is made, the yearly cost will be about $300,000 but it will remove some 50 or more inmates from the main prison.

"If we don't get the prison population down, we're going to be out a whole lot more than $300,000," said Rep. Tim Tucker, D-Port Hill.

Beans Inc. chief says he was 'brow-beaten'

By The Associated Press

SALT LAKE CITY — James R. Woods, the former Sallinas, Calif., mayor who is standing trial for fraud on charges that resulted from a fire at his bean warehouse in Filer, took the stand in his own behalf Friday and told jurors that he settled for only a portion of what was actually owed him.

Woods said he was "brow-beaten" by insurance companies into settling for less than the actual loss he suffered at his Beans Inc. warehouse in Filer.

Additionally, he said one claim — involving how many bags of beans he had stored there — was filed on the advice of an insurance agent and an attorney.

Woods is accused of fraud-related activities stemming from the July 1979 fire in Filer. He is the owner of Commodity Marketing Inc., the parent company of Beans Inc.

Also charged is Martin K. Taylor of Madera, Calif., who authorities believe set the fire.

During Friday's testimony, ending the third week of the trial, which is taking place before U.S. District Judge David K. Winder in Salt Lake City, Woods said he took a $500,000 beating on inventory claims.

He said he calculated that 29,025 bags of beans, each weighing 100 pounds, had been lost in the fire. Testimony earlier had set the value of each bag to be worth $19 or $20. As such, Woods said he filed for $664,000.

The insurance company paid between $120,000 and $150,000, Woods said, although it was an insurance company advice that he filed for 29,025 bags.

The trial is being held in Salt Lake City because the insurance claims were sent there for processing.

Woods said he personally made-up the roughly $500,000 difference, most of which was owed to farmers who were storing beans at his warehouse.

However, the government, during its earlier presentation, said that Woods set the fire to cover mass shortages of beans. He also was facing an audit by the state of Idaho to determine the extent of any inventory shortage.

Woods testified Friday that he personally inventoried the warehouse beans prior to the fire, and "we were in a long position."

In addition, Woods said the insurance companies also refused to pay the amount of the full loss on his warehouse equipment.

proving his ownership of the equipment, but Bammerlin said "this is the way insurance companies work."

Woods said he countered that he would settle for $185,000, but that Bammerlin refused without consulting the company.

He said they eventually settled on $156,000, and after "getting brow-beaten that hard" by Bammerlin, "I bit the bullet; I accepted."

The trial is expected to go to the jury next week.

Pete Busch challenged his opponent, Sen. James McClure, and criticized U.S. policy in Central America during his speech

To Central America Busch: Send butter not guns

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Pete Busch told a group of Magic Valley residents Friday night that Central America needs food, medicine and education — not arms. Speaking at a "Central America Awareness Week" program in Twin Falls, Busch, a Democrat who will be Sen. James McClure's challenger in the November election, said he is opposed to "limited war."

"If we are going to have a war, let's declare it and go for it," said Busch, who lives in Lewiston.

"Why, nearly 40 years after World War II ended, do we have 350,000 occupational troops in Europe? Our economy is based on war."

Busch, a veteran U.S. Marine Corps pilot with 400 combat missions during two tours of duty in Vietnam, said he also had been a Department of Defense staff member in Washington, D.C. What he learned there sent him back to Idaho to "hide out," he said.

But, Busch said, he also is committed to changing the direction of his country — a belief that has drawn him "out of hiding and into the political ring."

Busch said the Department of Defense is marketing terrorism in Central America and other parts of the world.

He said that McClure voted to send American Marines to Nicaragua "in the same week he voted against veteran benefits at home."

"In 1972, one of our biggest defense spending years while I was with the Defense Department, our defense costs were $78 billion," Busch said. "Now, when we are in peace, why does our president propose a $305 billion defense budget?"

He said that while McClure has voted against women's rights, school lunches and increases in Medicare and Social Security benefits, he repeatedly has voted for bigger weapons and more defense spending.

"He also wants to put a greater amount of nuclear waste at the source of my drinking water, and I resent that," Busch said.

Prior to Busch's talk, a film, "Report from Nicaragua," documenting the revolution there and depicting United States intervention, was shown.

Members of the Central America Awareness Week committee also circulated petitions, which they said will be sent to Congress, urging that the United States immediately withdraw its men and weapons from Central America.

Creditors want Gooding hospital to pay with cash

By JANE BUCKWAY
Times-News correspondent

GOODING — A shortage of cash has become an urgent problem at Gooding County Memorial Hospital, hospital officials say.

Hospital administrator Dr. Duane Cutright told the hospital board Thursday night that publicly in recent weeks about the hospital's financial problems has caused its creditors to begin requesting cash payments.

"It's really a cash-flow problem," board member Rod Spackman said. "If we had the half-million dollars our books show in accounts receivable, we could pay our bills."

Spackman also questioned where a $12,000 deficit figure, reported recently in The Times-News and the Gooding County Leader, had come from.

"How did you get that figure? We don't have that kind of a deficit," he said.

Spackman then said that perhaps county Prosecutor John Arkosh had provided the information to the Gooding newspaper.

Arkosh, who had heated exchange with Spackman, Rick Beasley, the Gooding County Leader editor, said that Arkosh had not "stipped me a scrap of paper with that figure."

But later in the evening, county commission Chairman Will Thomas asked the board exactly how much money would be needed to meet the hospital's present needs.

"As close to that $200,000 figure as possible," Cutright replied.

The administrator said the $200,000 figure was one he had put together "to give an idea of where we stand."

He also said the additional funding is needed because of $150,000 in uncollectable debts on the hospital's books.

Methods for providing additional money to the hospital, including the possibility of re-establishing a tax levy, were to have been discussed by Arkosh at Thursday's meeting, but he was not in attendance.

Thomas told the board that the county no longer could spend the bulk of its federal revenue-sharing funds on the hospital. Other funding would have to be found, he said.

This year, the county's budget has earmarked $20,000 in property-tax revenues and $70,000 in revenue-sharing funds for the hospital.

The board agreed that additional funds will have to be raised quickly, and also it agreed that a bond-issue election or a property-tax override vote would be too time-consuming to meet the hospital's immediate needs.

Cutright said the hospital actually has given the county about $200,000 worth of service "by providing Medicare and Medicaid services, absorbing bad debts and providing medical indigent care that would have had to be provided elsewhere at greater costs. Thomas agreed that county funds used to support the hospital keep the county's indigent costs down. He also agreed that such cuts would increase by more than the hospital's present county subsidy if the hospital ceased to operate.

Spackman said that public opinion on whether or not to continue county support for the hospital should be assessed.

He asked the vice chairman of the Citizen's Committee to Save Our Hospital, Clara Wood, to enlist the aid of her group to determine what public sentiment is on the question.

commissioners made cuts to get rid of what they saw as an "excess" in its budget, he said.

Then, when the limitations of the One Percent Initiative came, the hospital was unable to increase its budget enough to cover rising costs, Cutright said.

Other factors also have contributed to the hospital's problems and account for its $200,000 in bad debts, he said.

Among these are the establishment of fixed Medicare and Medicaid rates by the federal government, Cutright said, regardless of how long a patient stays in the hospital.

The hospital also has gone into debt because poorer families seem to require more medical care than more affluent ones, he said. And because it is a community hospital, it cannot refuse care to Medicare or poor patients, he said.

Cutright said he is making cuts in employees' hours and elsewhere to cut operating costs.

"We still have hope," he hopes the hospital will balance its budget and

Buhl man relishes his Irish heritage

By JOANNE CRANER
Times-News correspondent

BUHL — Jerry Murphy, who wants to keep his Irish family heritage alive and well, goes a bit further than the "wearing of the green," on St. Patrick's Day.

Ever since Murphy moved to Buhl a little more than four years ago, he's been trying to rally a St. Patrick's Day parade. And although he's not been successful yet, he says he hasn't given up trying.

The one thing he has done since moving to Buhl — from a small community in Minnesota, which he says did have a St. Patrick's Day parade, although there were only seven Irish families living there — is to make a big production of decorating his office on the day.

This year, Murphy's wife, Kathleen, and their older children pitched in to help adorn his office with green crepe paper, shamrocks and leprechauns, all depicting the land from which his great-grandfather came.

Year-round, a shamrock plant sits on his office desk. The shamrock, Murphy says, was used to represent the trinity when St. Patrick introduced Christianity to Ireland. The triple leaf represents the Father, the Son and the Holy Spirit, respectively, Murphy says.

St. Patrick, a Roman, is honored today for driving serpents, a symbol of Satan, out of Ireland, he adds.

Murphy says that as a child, he learned to dance the Irish jig and sing such American-Irish songs as "Danny Boy," activities that he continues today at his Buhl home.

And visitors to the Murphy home even have the opportunity of kissing a Blarney stone — a paper-mache Blarney stone likeness, that is. The real Blarney stone is in Blarney Castle, near Cork, Ireland, and is said to impart a skill in flattery to those who kiss it.

In Minnesota, Murphy says, St. Patrick's Day festivities began with mass, followed by a meal of corn-beef-and-cabbage, and an evening parade.

Following the parade, the children were put to bed, and their parents visited the tavern to sing and dance, with a dance contest often completing the evening's festivities.

As Murphy sits and talks about the Irish reminders of his past, one can't help but notice he is wearing green-and-white tube socks, an all-green jacket and the green-and-white hat. Not much chance of him getting pinched on St. Patrick's Day for not wearing green.

As an aside, Murphy notes that as an Irishman, he would have loved to work at the official company headquarters of Rangan's Inc. of Buhl, where he is employed as a nutritionist.

Return of purloined court notes puzzles officials

By ANNETTE CARY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Apparently stolen court notes, which have been requested for evidence in a lawsuit against the county, have been returned anonymously.

Fifth District Court magistrate Judge Charles Brumbach says he became nervous when he received a large envelope concealing a bulky, heavy item in the mail Thursday.

His name and address were spelled out in gold and black paste on letters "like a ransom note," he says. Suspecting a bomb, or some other threat, he took the package next door to the sheriff's office.

Sheriff James Munn says he "opened it very gently." But instead of a bomb, he found copies of notes from a magistrate court hearing that apparently were stolen from the desk of court reporter Robert Everson on Aug. 29, but had never been reported stolen.

Thursday, the documents were formally reported missing, and Munn turned them over to the Twin Falls police later in the day. Detective Gary Corder said Friday that detectives were processing the documents for fingerprints.

The clerk's shorthand notes were from a preliminary hearing on a charge of grand theft brought against Larry Featherston of Twin Falls. Brumbach heard the case last April 22 and dismissed the charges.

Because the case would not proceed to district court, Everson says he did not transcribe his notes.

However, in September, Featherston requested a transcript and agreed to pay a $200 fee for the transcription, Everson says. Featherston paid the money, and Everson left the transcripts on his desk when he went to lunch, the clerk says.

But when he came back that afternoon, he could not find his notes, he says. At the time, he thought they might be misplaced so he searched the office, he says. When he could not find them, he returned Featherston's money, but he could not find his notes, and therefore could not make the transcript.

Featherston accepted the money, but about five months later, his attorney again requested that the notes be transcribed to be used as evidence in a lawsuit.

That was only days after Featherston, along with his wife, Carol, and Jack and Geraldine Parrott of Jerome County, filed a $9 million lawsuit against the county.

The defendants in the suit include: Twin Falls County Prosecutor Harold Deitman; Munn; his court deputy, Harold Jensen; Idaho State Police Sgt. Ed Strickfaden, and Carmen Bolton of Twin Falls.

The suit centers around allegations that law-enforcement officials in Twin Falls County mishandled claims that a horse trailer had been stolen.

Featherston has said the horse trailer was seized by officials on Feb. 2, 1983, on the grounds that it belonged to Bolton.

Nine days later, Featherston was arrested on charges of grand theft after he attempted to sell a pickup that Bolton claimed belonged to, in part, to him.

Featherston's attorney in the suit — filed in U.S. District Court in Boise — Thomas McCabe, says he still wants copies of transcripts of Featherston's preliminary hearing to use as evidence in the lawsuit.

In the second request for the transcribed notes, made Feb. 27, the lawyer told Everson that the documents were not available, he wanted to know why. Everson replied with a document that stated it was his "belief that said notes were stolen."

Eight days earlier, Everson had reported the

Kissinger is primary target

By DAVE LEWIS
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Democratic presidential candidate Lyndon H. LaRouche brought his campaign to Idaho this week.

He is seeking to get his name on the state's primary ballot and to gather a state of candidates for state and local offices.

LaRouche, a Virginia economist, is campaigning in favor of such things as developing a laser-beam weapons program, nationalizing the Federal Reserve System and returning the dollar to the gold standard.

He is also running, he says, to get former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger out of the government and to put Federal Reserve Chairman Paul Volcker out of a job.

These two men are responsible for American foreign policy and economic ills that will lead to the nation's collapse, says Mark Calvey, the Northwest coordinator for the LaRouche campaign.

Calvey says LaRouche is offering the American people the change in leadership that they want, and one that no other candidate, including President Ronald Reagan, can provide.

"The problem is a question of leadership in a crisis," says Calvey, who was interviewed Thursday while on a two-day tour of the state to gather support for LaRouche.

On the defense question, Calvey says LaRouche endorses reaching parity with the Soviet Union on nuclear arms, and reaffirming the U.S. commitment to defending Europe.

Along with developing laser-beam weapons, Calvey says LaRouche would share the technology with the Soviets and invite them to participate in a policy of "mutually assured survival," rather than continue the two nations' policies of mutual destruction through nuclear-arms proliferation.

LaRouche also claims that development of laser-beam weapons would stimulate a technology boom that would "open an economic recovery" for the United States, Calvey says.

LaRouche will broadcast a challenge to what he calls the Hart-Mondale Democratic ticket today in a one-hour nationwide broadcast on the NBC television network. LaRouche will feature highlights of his plan to create 3 million jobs through expansion of exports into the Indian and Pacific oceans' basin, which he says is the world's largest market for capital goods, Calvey says.

The broadcast will begin 9:30 p.m. over Twin Falls television station KCMVT.

LaRouche is no stranger to presidential campaigns.

He ran on his own U.S. Labor Party ticket in 1976 and as a Democrat in 1980. He is the founder of the Executive Intelligence Review magazine and operates his own intelligence network, Calvey says.

Earlier this month, NBC broadcast a news "expose" on LaRouche, a show Calvey terms "slenderous" and for which LaRouche is filing a $80 million libel suit.

Calvey says LaRouche will enjoy a number of late primaries, including Idaho, to steam-roll his way to the Democrat nomination.

The main target of LaRouche is Kissinger, who Calvey says is a conscious agent of Soviet world domination. He says most of the nation's leadership either willingly or unwittingly endorses Kissinger's policies.

As a result, Calvey said, LaRouche has made Kissinger the key issue of his campaign.

Walker Center offers drug class

TWIN FALLS — A second session of a drug-dependent lifestyle seminar is being offered through the Walker Center for Alcoholism and Chemical Dependency Treatment's outreach counseling service at Magic Valley Regional Medical Center in Twin Falls.

Outreach counselor Trish McGee says community response to the first seminar, which ended earlier this month, warranted a second program of classes. They are meant to offer direction and hope to families with an alcoholic or drug-dependent person, she says.

The following is a schedule for the six-week seminar, which will be held on Thursdays from 7 to 8 p.m. in the hospital cafeteria.

- March 22: What are mood-altering drugs and do we have a drug-dependent culture?
- March 29: A portrait of the chemically dependent family.
- April 5: How the family encourages drug dependency.
- April 12: Setting the limits with love — the family intervention process.

- April 19: Twelve steps to rehabilitating the chemically dependent family.
 - April 26: Warning signs of the discouraged child — a high risk for chemical abuse — and how to prevent or stop abuse.
- For more information about the seminar, call the hospital and ask for McGee.

"They aren't really transients. They are people who are moving and are in need of things. Some are the bum type, but most are not."

"Maybe they'll start out in Oklahoma because they hear there is a job somewhere, or maybe that jobs are better in Washington, but they run out of money on the way. You've got a guy and his wife and a couple of children. They've run broke; they need gas; they need lodging. What do you do with them?"

What's what

Not just hundreds but thousands of one-finger piano tunes were written in the previous century. So how do you explain the fact that only one of those compositions -- published at Scotland's Glasgow in 1877 -- survived? You may have heard it. "Clogstick."

If those dollar bills in your pocket don't have holes in them, no doubt they're not real money. You say you can't see the holes? Get a microscope. All the paper on which U.S. currency is printed is riddled with little invisible holes.

Every so often some legislator evidently thinks it cute to pass a ridiculous law, ostensibly to prove the inattention of the other lawmakers. In Idaho, for example, it's illegal to fish for trout from the back of a graffe.

SWALLOW GOLDFISH

Q. When did the old goldfish-swallowing fad first hit the colleges?

A. In 1938. At Harvard. An undergrad downed such a live fish to get the attention of his beer-drinking compatriots, and on challenge repeated his performance before a larger crowd. Soon, in a psychological epidemic, students worldwide so performed. The whole thing was revived in 1968, but didn't spread as far that time.

Q. What do ostriches feed their young?

A. Eggs. The female ostrich lays maybe two dozen eggs. Some hatch early. To feed the first little birds, the mother cracks the unatched eggs.

BARNUM

The renowned showman P.T. Barnum, ailing at age 80, said he wished he could read what the newspapers would say about him after his death. So on March 24, 1891, the editor of The Evening Sun in New York City honored his wish immediately in a tribute, which included his obituary. Barnum died two weeks later.

The great French mathematician Blaise Pascal was really trying to create the impossible -- a perpetual motion machine -- when he invented the game of roulette.

In Dyersburg, Tenn., it is a violation of a local ordinance for a woman to telephone a man for a date.

Any science student will tell hot water would break a thick glass more quickly than a thin glass.

Illinois St. rolls Alabama

By The Associated Press

Lou Stefanovic hit an 18-foot jumper with eight seconds left to lift Illinois State to a 49-49 first-round victory over Alabama in the NCAA Midwest Regional basketball tournament in Lincoln, Neb., Friday night.

The basket capped a comeback second half for the 23-7 Redbirds and sidelined Alabama with an 18-12 record.

Rickie Johnson's three-point play with 7:25 to play gave the Redbirds their first lead of the second half, 43-42. With 41 seconds left, Brad Duncan scored to boost Illinois State's lead to 47-42.

Baskets — by Alabama's Terry Williams and Bobby Lee Hurt cut the margin to one, 47-46, with 1:55 to play. Williams hit a jumper from the free-throw line with 41 seconds left to put Alabama back up 48-47.

Stefanovic then hit his 18-footer to lift the Missouri Valley Conference co-champions to the victory.

The Tide's Eric Richardson fired a jumper from the side with two seconds left but the shot bounced off the rim.

Michael McKenney and Hank Corley had 10 points each in the balanced Illinois State attack. Hurt and Williams had 10 each for Alabama.

In Milwaukee, guard Lancaster Gordon scored 17 points, including six during a 15-4 run at the start of the second half, to lead Louisville to a victory over Morehead State in the first round of the NCAA Midwest Regional basketball tournament.

Louisville, 23-10, advanced to Sunday's quarterfinal round here against 12th-ranked Tulsa.

Louisville broke the game open late in the first half with eight straight points to go up 29-18. Morehead State's Arthur Sullivan hit a jumper just before the half ended to cut the margin to 29-20.

and Miami of Ohio met in a first-round nightcap Friday night.

By defeating Reno, the Huskies, 23-6, earned the right to face 14th-ranked Duke here Sunday in a second-round game.

Schrempf, second in the voting for Pacific-10 Conference Player of the Year this season behind Oregon State's A.C. Green, had 14 of his points in the second half. Seven-foot freshman Christian Welp, a countryman of Schrempf, added 18 points for the Pac-10 co-champions.

Schrempf pulled down a game-high 13 rebounds and Welp had 10.

Curtis High, brother of Johnny High of the National Basketball Association's Phoenix Suns, led the Reno attack with 21 points, followed by Tony Summers with 12. High had 13 of his points in the opening half for the Big Sky Conference champion Wolf Pack, 17-14.

With a 10-3 spurt in the final 3:56 of the first half, Washington led 32-24 at the intermission, but Reno came back and tied the score at 32-32 scoring the first eight points of the second half.

Welp put the Huskies ahead to stay at 37-34 with a three-point play 5:25 into the second half.

With Washington ahead 47-44, the Huskies outscored the Wolf Pack 9-2 in a span of 4:01 for a 56-49 advantage.

Villanova 84, Marshall 72

In Milwaukee, Frank Dobbs triggered an 18-2 spurt by Villanova in the second half with six points, lifting the Wildcats to a victory over Marshall in the first round of the NCAA Midwest Regional basketball tournament.

Villanova, 19-11, advances to Sunday's second round here against sixth-ranked Illinois.

Virginia 58, Iowa 57

In East Rutherford, N.J.; Othell

Wilson scored 17 points, including a driving one-handed shot with five seconds to play, to lead Virginia to victory over Iowa in the first round of the East Regional NCAA tournament.

After Wilson's basket, Iona's Rory Grimes had a chance to tie the score from the foul line with two seconds remaining. But Grimes, who missed all 12 of his shots from the floor and his first two free throws, sank the first foul shot but missed the second.

Kenton Edella ripped down the rebound to send Virginia, 18-11, into the second round Sunday against eighth-ranked Arkansas. Wilson hit eight of his nine field goal attempts.

Kleinkopf gets good news twice

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls' mile relay team won the final event of the day to end a three-team battle for the boys' division title in the opening track meet of the season Friday.

Coming into the meet, the Bruins had 77.5 points, followed by Pocatello at 57 and Jerome 70. The victory, built on the margin junior Doug Zakalyk opened on the third leg, led it for Twin Falls and when the frustrated Pocatello anchorman threw the baton at the finish line, his team was disqualified and Jerome jumped into the second spot.

Twin Falls girls, not winning a relay, won the girls' division with 82 points, 20 ahead of Minico.

"In many respects the girls outperformed the boys today and that was surprising to us," said Twin Falls Coach Jerry Kleinkopf of the Bruins' victory.

Zakalyk paced Twin Falls to the win by taking both hurdles and adding a fourth in the long jump while Terry Molyneux celebrated by being the top jumper for the first time in his career, in the 800 by hauling the heavy baton home first in a dual with Jerome and Lance Glines.

Pocatello dominated in the sprints as Jerry Robinson, the sprinter who won the 100, grabbed the quarter.

Twin Falls substantiated Kleinkopf's pre-season belief that the Bruins' relay events would be improved this year. They won three of the four and finished second in the other.

Jerome was paced by powerful Gary Hulsev who won the shotput at 55-5 and the discus at 172-4.

In the girls' division, Twin Falls came up with enough depth and first places to offset a poor showing in the relay.

Welcomed to the team was junior Amber Welty, a transfer from New Mexico, who nipped defending District 4 champion Charlotte Winward of Minico in the 100-meter hurdles and grabbed the anchor spot in the 400-meter relay.

Junior Malin Miller jumped a 17-foot-8 3/4 long jump on her first effort to maintain the family tradition, carried over the first three years by graduated sister Macie Junior. Christie Shertwine became the heir apparent to the district short-sprint title that Sally Butts held for three years by taking the 100 and sophomore Lisa Williams, who has a steel hip socket, ran off with the 800.

Minico showed good quality strength as Winward placed second in the 100-meter hurdles and ran away with the intermediates. She also anchored two winning relays. The Spartans piled up a lot of points in the baton events and served notice that qualifying relays, out of district this year will be difficult for the Bruins.

The Castano sisters, Idella and Dahlia, participated in most of those victories and Idella took the quarter.

Jerome's Jon James claimed the 200-meter title and was runner-up in the quarter- and 100-meter dash.

Duncan, Reher and Bazzoni provided some individual events. Duncan, placing second in the 400-meter, and joined with the other three to help the Spartans dominate the relays.

Team scoring — 1. Twin Falls 81.5, 2. Jerome 60.5, 3. Pocatello 77, 4. Minico 51.

In NIT opener Weber St. steamrolls Fordham

OGDEN, Utah (AP) — Junior forward Randy Worster paced Weber State College with 20 points and led the Wildcats to a 75-53 victory over Fordham in the first round of the NIT here Friday.

Worster also grabbed 10 rebounds, got the WSC fast break rolling and opened the Wildcats' offensive attack.

The win keeps Weber's 237 season alive and the team travels to Lafayette, La., Monday to play the Ragin' Cajuns of Southwest Louisiana.

Fordham finished its season at 19-15.

Weber opened up a 10-point lead just before the end of the first half when the Wildcats outscored Fordham 12-4 during a three-minute stretch, shooting 75 percent from the field compared to 48 percent for Fordham.

In the second half, Weber continued to shoot well and was led by John Price, who finished with 15, and Charles Carradine with 13. Greg Jones added 12.

Weber's biggest lead was 13 points, 59-46, with 8:24 to play.

The Weber cooled off and Fordham started crashing the boards. Steve Samuels picked up the first eight points for Fordham in the second half, led the comeback drive and finished the game with 23.

He was the only Ram in double figures, however, as Dave Roberson and Tony McIntosh each finished with nine.

Fordham was able to cut the Weber lead to five points, 61-56, with 9:22 to go. The Wildcats were able to keep it out of reach at the foul line.

Weber was 60 percent from the floor, while Fordham was 41.7 percent.

"They were beatable," Fordham Coach Tom Penders said. "We wanted to get the ball inside, but they've got a very good ball club and evidence is in the shooting percentages. And we're not going to win any games when we shoot 41 percent."

In the field, at least, the Bobcats seem about as strong as they were last season, when they earned a third-place finish in the Class B state tournament.

However, none of Burley's current group of pitchers won a varsity game last year. All of the Bobcats' 12 victories in 1983 were achieved by either Jim McCord, since graduated, and Eric Rodriguez, who moved back to Wyoming. To compensate, Coach Dean Satterfield is counting on left-handers Aaron Taylor and righties Darrin Wood, Scott Barrett, Scott Asson and Kory Knopp.

Otherwise, Satterfield feels optimistic. "I would think our defense would be pretty good if we could get some work on it," he said, noting that the Bobcats, like other area teams, Play ball? Indoors, maybe. The three area high school baseball teams are scheduled to begin their seasons this weekend, but wet weather has washed out one team's opener and threatens the first batch of games for the other two.

The Twin Falls Bruins, slated to face Bonneville today in a Gem State Conference double-header, won't because the Harmon Park grounds remain unplayable. "If we hadn't had any moisture all week we might have gotten on, but it's awfully wet," Twin Falls Coach Bill Ingram said.

Minico and Burley were supposed to escape to the Boise area to commence their campaigns. The Spartans met Meridian Friday in a twinned and face

The Bruins will definitely be bolstered by their stable crop of returnees. Infield starters Scott Morgan and Cory Federico return, as do left fielder Scott Mallock, left-hander Nathan Burke and utilityman Tim Crossman. "We've got a pretty good nucleus, I think," Ingram said. Twin Falls' infield should be solid at the corners with Morgan at first and Federico, formerly a second baseman, moving to the hot corner. Todd Jones and Matt Harr are battling for the shortstop's job, while Derek Kosen and Rob Ellis are vying for Federico's vacated second base spot.

As is the case with most teams, the Bruins remain unsure of how their pitching will fare. Ingram hopes that the veteran Burke can lead the staff. Supplementing Burke will be pitching newcomer Burke will be pitching more than one position, then you've been paying attention. "I'm afraid when we make a pitching change we might make odd changes in the field also," Bridges said with a laugh.

"We're not very proven," he admitted. "We hope to get a lot of strikes out of them and hope our defense will hold up." Among those complementing Smith on the Spartans' staff will be Tom Vaughn, Gabriel Fuentes, Von Peterman and Troy Winmill.

Smith will probably play first base whenever he isn't pitching. Joining him in the infield are veteran second baseman Greg Schow, shortstop Fuentes and possibly Fernie Zamora at third base.

The outfield includes Smith, Michael Chavez, Kory Thurston, Zamora, Vaughn and Peterman. Peterman will also share the catching duties with Todd Winmill.

If it appears some of the Spartans will be playing more than one position, then you've been paying attention. "I'm afraid when we make a pitching change we might make odd changes in the field also," Bridges said with a laugh.

Can West stars overcome East's firepower?

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — If point potential is the criterion, the East boys should maintain their long domination of the Easter Seals Magic Valley All-Star Basketball Game Monday night.

When the two square off at 7 p.m. Monday at the College of Southern Idaho gymnasium, Coach Sam Wiseman will have the triumvirate in Minico's Kent McKenzie, Burley's Greg Boyd and Carey's Brad Tinney which will be worth 75 points if they'd all hit their average.

Of course, that isn't going to happen because there will only be one ball on the court at any one time. But consider McKenzie was probably the best shooter in Magic Valley through February, raising his seasonal average from 12 points over 18, a major jump in the final third of the season. Boyd had six nines in the 30s — plus one at state when he was helping the Bobcats nail down a third in the A-2 competition. And Tinney bids goodbye to Magic Valley fandom as the all-time district scoring champion with 622 points in 20 games.

If those three aren't enough,

Hansen's 6-foot-5 Steve Elman averaged 24 points per game. Kimberly's Scott Livingston was at 17 and Dietrich's Devan Hubert was at 20. Rounding out the east list are a pair of 6-5 Bobcats in Dan Egbert and Rich Ralphs, both double figure average scorers, probably the best point guard in the district in Minico's Greg Schow and Pratt Matthews, who started three years at Murtaugh and averaged in double figures every year.

Basically, the eastern team is outside-oriented. Although several are listed as inside players, all but Elman are comfortable on the wing perimeter.

This is just about the opposite of the West team which is given the nod on inside defense, largely because hulking 6-5 Gary Hulsey, remarkably quick off his feet despite his 250-pound frame, is a proven shot blocker and intimidator. And, although he's best known as an outside player and was recruited by Brigham Young University for that purpose, Twin Falls' Andy Toolson, whose length of arm exaggerates his 6-5 stature, also can swat.

The West has some firepower. Toolson set a Twin Falls scoring record and averaged nearly 22 points per game in leading the Bruins to the Gem State championship. But the truth is, the voters didn't provide the balance in the West that they did in the East — largely because the most effective westerners were inside players.

Alan Sample, 6-3, had a fleecy 24-point average playing center at Castleford — but he didn't run into as many 6-5 folks in the key as he will Monday night. Gooding's Bart Hulcheson, who at 6-7 is the tallest by far in the game, wasn't a consistent scorer but did have some good nights. Flier's Greg Jarolimtek and Wendell's Brian Gough usually did their scoring inside.

The West's outside game will be provided by Ben Sackett of Flier, Troy Prairie of Jerome and Darren Stuart of Twin Falls. Wood River's Mike Williams and Toolson can play guard and that would give West Coach Lloyd Garey of Flier a chance to put a starting team on the court that averages 6-5.

While the East has more ways to attack offensively, the difference could come in the game's only change from regular rules. Both sides must play man-to-man defense. Some of the players haven't had much experience in that area.

The game will be played in eight-minute quarters because of it is part of a double-header, preceded by the girls' get-together at 7 p.m.

Dallas TE DuPree retires

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Tight end Billy Joe DuPree, who played in 191 consecutive National Football League games for the Dallas Cowboys, announced his retirement Friday.

DuPree said he wanted Coach Tom Landry to realize he needed to draft another tight end but added, "I told him if he got into real trouble he might want to give me a call."

He said Landry tried hard to talk him out of retiring. "I got out of bed with the flu to talk to Tom and he almost convinced me to come back," DuPree said.

Landry said he would leave the door open for DuPree's return should there be a problem.

DuPree, a No. 1 draft choice out of Michigan State in 1973, caught 42 passes for 680 yards in 1976, his best season.

He was ranked as one of the Cowboys' finest blockers.

DuPree made about $170,000 last year and Landry had already told him he had a place on the 1984 roster if he so wished.

Last season, DuPree lost his starting job to Doug Cosbie.

Okamoto leads Conquistadores

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Japan's Ayako Okamoto birdied the last two holes Friday to tie the Patty Sheehan at 8-under-par 136 through the second round of the $150,000 Tucson Conquistadores LPGA Open.

Okamoto, 32, drilled in nine-foot putts on the 17th and 18th holes to finish with a 5-under-par 67 on the 6,346-yard, par-72 Randolph North golf course.

Sheehan posted a 67 earlier in the day.

Lauri Peterson also shot a 67 and was one stroke back halfway through the tournament.

Debbie Massey was two strokes behind the leaders at 138 after shooting a 67. She finished Thursday's first round at 71, three strokes off the pace.

Defending champion Jan Stephenson blew a 2-over-par 74 Friday for a 143 total and last week's winner, Chris Johnson, carded a 71 for 140. Both had been one stroke back after the first round.

Irsay said to favor Phoenix

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Baltimore Colts owner Robert Irsay appears to be leaning toward Phoenix as a new home for his National Football League team, according to Phoenix business leaders who met with him.

"I think he wants to come to Phoenix," Keith Turley, chief executive officer of Arizona Public Service Co., told a reporter Friday. "And that's not the only surprising thing we'd see rather play football in the winter? Baltimore, Indianapolis or Phoenix?"

"I felt we had a very positive meeting," said real estate developer Eddie Lynch. "I was quite encouraged. He expressed interest in our package and I had the definite impression that he was leaning toward Phoenix because we are the heart of the Sun Belt's growing economy and because of our area's wonderful lifestyle."

Fisherman captures Iditarod

NOME, Alaska (AP) — He struggled for 12 days, 15 hours and seven minutes through some of the meanest country in Alaska, but fisherman Dean Osmar hung on Friday to win the $100,000 Iditarod Sled Dog Race from Anchorage to Nome.

"I feel great. I feel as great as I have in a long time," the 37-year-old musher from Clam Gulch said early Friday after driving his 11-dog team into Nome.

Osmar won $24,000 when his lead dogs, Bullet and Red, trotted under the garbled spruce tree that serves as the finish line. That's in addition to the $2,000 he won for leading at the mid-way point in the 1,125-mile race, and the $1,000 he collected for being "first into Nome" on the Yukon River.

Stacia Bulcher of Manley drove across the finish line in second place about 1½ hours later to win $16,000. She also finished second in 1982.

Osmar and the other 66 mushers who started the race March 3 in Anchorage had to battle spring-like temperatures most of the way. Nearly one-third of them drove as warm days melted ice and snow on many parts of the trail, leaving dog teams belly-deep in water.

Cowboys sale reported final

DALLAS (AP) — A consortium headed by Dallas businessman H.R. "Bum" Bright has made a deal to purchase the Dallas Cowboys for an estimated $75 million, a Dallas television station reported Friday.

The report by WFAA-TV quoted sources as saying that the Cowboys should be under new ownership by next week. But Cowboys spokesman Doug Todd discounted the report.

"That's just the semi-weekly rumor," Todd, contacted by phone at his home, said. "The report is news to us."

The television station said a source close to Bright's group confirmed the deal had been made. One of Bright's company officials said he would neither confirm nor deny the report. WFAA said.

NFL rethinking ban on undergraduates

By BRUCE LOWITT
The Associated Press

NEW YORK — The National Football League is trying to work out a plan to include undergraduates in its draft of college players, The Associated Press has learned.

The move is the result of the emergence of the United States Football League, which signed prized undergraduates Herschel Walker and Marcus Dupree as well as several potential first-round NFL draft choices, and the successful suit against the USFL by University of Arizona dropout Bob Boris.

NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle said there is little likelihood of undergraduates being included in this year's college draft, set for May 1. But the fact that the league's owners are considering including them is a dramatic departure from NFL policy. "The discussions have just been in general terms right now, but the league feels, in view of the Boris case and the loss of Walker and Dupree, that it has to do something to retain a share of good players," said a source close to the NFL, who requested anonymity. "We're trying to work out the details. We don't know yet what we can live with."

The league conducted committee meetings this week in Maui, Hawaii, in preparation for the full owners' meetings next week in Honolulu. Some of this week's Competition Committee meetings were attended by officials of the NFL Players Association, including its executive director, Gene Upshaw.

One question to be resolved is whether undergrads who are drafted but decline to turn pro could become free agents before their college eligibility expires.

Under the existing collective bargaining agreement, the rights to a drafted player who declines to sign are retained by the drafting club for one year, and the player then becomes draft-eligible again. If he again fails to sign within a year, he becomes a free agent, able to negotiate with any team. There is concern that a star undergraduate who is drafted before his junior and senior seasons could be a free agent upon the expiration of his eligibility.

Under NCAA rules, a player loses his college eligibility only after negotiating with a professional team, engaging an agent or declaring himself eligible for the draft. Just being drafted, the NCAA said, would not cost a player his eligibility.

Australian ties record at Bay Hill

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Australian Greg Norman matched the course record with a 9-under-par 63 and took a 2-stroke lead Friday in the second round of the $400,000 Bay Hill Classic.

"That's the best score I've had in competition," said Norman, who has collected 31 titles around the world but has yet to win on the American PGA Tour.

And that's the next goal for the hawk-faced man with the hair bleached white by the sun.

"You can win around the world," he said, "but people don't take much notice of you win on the American Tour. That's what I have to do to climb the next rung on the ladder."

In order to accomplish that goal, he's established a permanent residence in this country, has a home on the Bay Hill Classic, and said he plans to play the majority of his golf on the U.S. tour this season. He was a playoff loser in this event last year.

Norman, 29, who won seven international titles last season and opened the 1984 campaign with a victory in the Australian Masters, scattered seven birdies and an eagle across his card, and registered neither a bogey nor a 5. The effort matched the course record set by Andy Bean in 1981.

Smashing debut for Bruins

TWIN FALLS — With six seniors and all the players who placed second in state last spring returning, the Twin Falls High school golf team opened the Gem State Conference regular season Friday with a smashing victory.

Playing at their home course in Twin Falls, the only course in the league that is currently open — the Bruins tied a 295 against a 314 for runner-up Highland.

Scoring for the Bruins were juniors Jason Meyerhoeffer and Flynn McRoberts and seniors Jeff Sutherland and John Rasmussen. Coach Al Rohweder thus had to put seniors Tom Leen, Greg Hansen, Craig Jones and Larry Waldron on the jayvees along with Mickey Grefenson, a junior. Had the jayvees counted in varsity, the Bruins would have gone 1-1 since only one of the nine scored more than 76.

"The athletic directors made some changes in the conference way of doing things this year that I don't agree with," Rohweder said. "This year you play five men on the varsity, dropping the highest score for varsity scoring purposes. But the player dropped automatically goes to the jayvee score."

Team scoring: 1. Twin Falls 295, 2. Highland 313, 3. Idaho Falls 320, 4. Pocatello 323, 5. Snyton 322, 6. Minico 320, 7. Bonnevile 304, 8. Blackfoot 307.

Individual bowlers: Twin Falls—Meyerhoeffer 70, Sutherland 74, Rasmussen 79, McRoberts 74.

Friday stock surge caps strong week

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK — The stock market capped off its best week since last June with a strong advance Friday, responding to signs of progress toward narrowing the federal budget deficit.

Energy and blue-chip industrial stocks paced the advance, which came on the heaviest volume in five weeks.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial climbed 16.96 to 1,164.36, bringing its gain for the week to 44.60 points. The last time it had a better week was last June 13-17, when it rose 46.06 points.

Volume on the New York Stock

Exchange reached 118 million shares, up from 79.52 million Thursday and the largest total since 128.19 million chopped hands on Feb. 9.

Late Thursday President Reagan announced an agreement with Republican leaders in Congress on proposals to reduce the projected budget deficit by $74 billion over the next three years.

The plan received a cool initial reception from congressional Democrats, and some analysts played down its significance as a major breakthrough in dealing with the budget problem.

Interest rates in the credit markets, after falling late Thursday, turned upward on Friday's activity.

Gulf Oil jumped 6 1/2 to 72 3/4, and Superior Oil was up 1 1/4 at 39 3/4, both in heavy trading. The Reagan administration formally declared its opposition to a legislative proposal that would block pending takeovers of the two companies and other oil-company mergers.

Blue-chip and technology issues showing gains of a point or more included International Business Machines, up 1 1/4 at 113 1/4; Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing, up 2 1/4 at 77 1/4; Motorola, up 2 1/4 at 116 1/4; Texas Instruments, up 1 1/4 at 137 1/4; and Hewlett-Packard, up 1 1/4 at 38 1/4.

On the downside, Federal Express fell 3 to 32 3/4. The company reported higher quarterly earnings Thursday, but analysts said the increase fell short of advance estimates on Wall Street.

In the daily tally on the Big Board, advancing issues outnumbered declines by almost 3 to 1, and the exchange's composite index jumped 1.06 to 91.73.

Nationwide turnover in NYSE-listed issues, including trades in those stocks on regional exchanges and in the over-the-counter market, totaled 136.19 million shares.

Standard & Poor's index of 400 industrials rose 2.30 to 130.21, and S&P's 500-stock composite index was up 1.86 at 159.27.

The NASDAQ composite index for the over-the-counter market gained 4.06 to 253.37. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index closed at 212.42, up 1.79.

Employers set to hire over 3 million in '84

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's employers expect to hire more than 3 million people this year, reflecting optimism about the business outlook after years of economic stagnation, Dun & Bradstreet Corp. said Friday.

About a third of those new jobs will come in businesses with fewer than 20 employees and nearly three out of every four new jobs will be in companies with fewer than 500 employees, according to the projections by the business information company. The forecast is based on a survey of 5,000 companies.

A year ago, Dun & Bradstreet forecast the addition of 2.5 million jobs in 1983 as the economy emerged from recession, a projection it later raised to 3 million.

Businesses wound up filling about 4 million new jobs in 1983, and the 7.8 percent civilian unemployment rate in February was the lowest in 2 1/2 years.

The nation has suffered through almost five years of economic stagnation. To survive, most firms placed heavy emphasis on reducing overheads and increasing efficiency.

As a result, America's businesses are lean and mean and eager to get back to high levels of productivity, said Joseph Dunne, corporate economist and chief statistician for Dun & Bradstreet.

According to the survey, 32 percent of the companies said they expected to increase employment, 63 percent said they had no plans to add workers and 5 percent said they expected to reduce employment.

Companies with under 20 employees, which made up slightly more than a fourth of the businesses surveyed, will account for 33.9 percent of the new jobs, the study said. Companies with more than 25,000 workers, accounting for nearly 5 percent of the surveyed businesses, are projected to provide 7.6 percent of the new jobs.

Write a want ad that sells

Put yourself in the buyer's place. What would you want to know? List the item's age, condition, size, brand name, model and approximate value. If you're selling a car, state the type of transmission, mileage, it's low, and special equipment.

Don't Embellish

It's risky business to exaggerate and it won't increase your chances of success. Misleading information may get a buyer to your house. It may also get you a punch in the nose.

Include Price

Surveys indicate that buyers are more interested in merchandise when they know the price. This applies to everything from household furnishings to automobiles. Good merchandise, priced fairly, is the best guarantee of success.

Be Available

A telephone number is fine if you're at home when your ad is published. If you're not going to be home, state the time you will be. Most people won't call back twice.

These suggestions can help you get started.

THE ACES® BOBBY WOLFF

"If you never stub your toe, you may be standing still." - Arnold Glasow.

Try your luck with this challenging deal. Examine the bidding and the dummy (North), cover the East-West cards with your thumbs, and see if you can find the best play to take 11 tricks.

You win dummy's club ace with misgivings. With a different lead, you would have had time to discard a diamond on dummy's spade king. How best to play to avoid losing three diamond tricks?

The "normal" play of a low diamond to South's king loses. West takes his diamond ace and leads a trump. South wins and leads the diamond nine, and West's 10 is overtaken by East's jack for a second trump lead. Now South loses three diamonds, and five hearts goes one down.

Ace Bob Hamman knew what to do in the final of the Fall National Championships. West's strong bidding told him where the diamond ace should be, so Bob led a low diamond to the king (instead of to his king) at trick two. West won and led a trump, but Bob countered by leading his king of diamonds next. West won the ace, but the opponents could not manage a second trump lead. Bob was therefore able to ruff his third
