Hart, Mondale spar on issues

But Jackson objects, saying competition is trying to ignore him

By CAROLE FELDMAN
The Associated Press

In the waning days before the crucial New York primary, Walter F. Mondale won the endorsement Sunday of the New York Daily News. Gary Hart made a visit to an Italian neighborhood and the Rev. Jesse Jackson ignored his Democratic presidential opponents not to ignore him.

During a locally televised debate that highlighted the charges and countercharges between Hart and Mondale, Jackson said: "They don't have any right to go back on this again and ignore me. The issue to me is not the negatives. It's the attempt to neglect my presence. The issues I raise and the constituency I represent will not go away."

Hart called the sparring between himself and Mondale "penny ante," but the former vice president said the exchanges have not been petty.

The three saved some of their harshest words for the President Reagan, saying his administration was guilty of ethical failures.

"He is at this point the master of deceit," Jackson said.

Mondale called the administration "one of the lawfiests in modern history," while Hart described it as "one of the most marginally ethical in our lifetime."

All three candidates were vying for votes in delegate-rich New York, which will send the second-largest bloc to the Democratic National Convention in July. A total of 252 delegates will be at stake in Tuesday's primary; another 33 will be added to the delegation later.

A new ABC News-Washington Post poll released Sunday night said Mondale's lead over Hart was 11 percentage points, 2 points less than the daily "tracking" poll said a day earlier.

The latest poll of 326 voters likely to vote in the primary said Mondale was the choice of 41 percent. Hart had 30 percent and Jackson 22 percent.

The survey was conducted Friday through Sunday; it has a margin of error percentage points.

In a poll conducted earlier in the week, Mondale lead Hart by 7 percentage points, 39 percent to 32 percent.

Mondale, who has the support of Gov. Mario Cuomo and New York Mayor Edward Koch and was backed last week by the New York Post, was endorsed Sunday by the Daily News, which called him the "most influential vice president in the nation's history."

The News said Mondale "would restore many of the social programs that have been tattered by Reagan - education, nutrition, health, etc. - but essentially would steer a moderate sensible course."

"It knows this nation, its strengths and its weaknesses, as few leaders do," the newspaper said.

Robert Tidd finds his job a lot easier today than when he became Twin Falls school district's attendance officer 11 years ago. That year he filed 42 petitions, with 10 ending up in court. This year, he hasn't filed any. One reason may be an increased awareness of the importance of education. For a complete story, turn to Page A5.

Session a mixed lesson bag

By MARY STEVENSON
The Associated Press

BOISE — The 1984 Idaho Legislature proved that there are some issues that are never easy to handle, no matter how many times you try.

Reapportionment, education, and water rights were major stumbling blocks, dragging on until the final days of the session, which ended Saturday on Day 32.

Lawmakers struck out on water rights legislation, had some misses with education, but may have successfully found a compromise on reapportionment in the session's waning days.

Legislators opened the 1984 session wondering how to deal with a state Supreme Court decision that found Idaho's 1982 reapportionment plan

Officials evaluate legislators' work — A9

By contrast the Cogswell plan, known as 14-B, adds 21 seats to the Legislature, and creates huge districts called faterials.

Evans said he hadn't made up his mind on the latest bill.

"I think it's going to be difficult for me to veto," he said, citing the bill's strong support in both chambers.

"The Legislature does not want to turn on 14-B."

But he said the plan has a 34 percent deviation between districts, which might not be acceptable to the courts.

And he said it faces a court challenge from the same lawyer who successfully challenged the 1982 plan.

"Even if the new bill doesn't become law, the situation remains complicated."

The majority Republican leaders in the House and Senate have filed suit in federal court, asking judges to throw out the Cogswell plan; reinstate the 1982 plan, or come up with a plan of their own.

Education was a mixed bag in the Legislature this year.

Lawmakers sent the governor a sweeping public education reform bill that includes $20.3 million to raise the pay of teachers and school administrators.

The idea to bring the pay of Idaho teachers, which ranks low nationwide, closer to the national average.

But Evans says the $226 million lawmakers approved for public schools and the $78 million they earmarked for higher education are too low, and warned that public school districts will be turning up some of the teacher pay raise money to make ends meet.

From Reagan to families, missing soldiers still a priority

By TIM AHERN
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Moments after Col. Robert Anderson's F-4 jet fighter was hit Oct. 6, 1972, the Air Force pilot bailed out into the dense North Vietnamese jungle, where he landed safely and radioed for help.

Focus

war: what happened to Anderson and 2,489 other men and women who are still unaccounted for in the Southeast Asian conflict.

In many ways, Anderson is typical of the Vietnam missing in action. He was an airman — 80 percent of the names on the list are aviators — and the U.S. government has no clues to his whereabouts since his last radio transmission.

Nearly half the people on the list are known to be dead, and most of the others are believed to have perished. Still, however, questions persist as the government tries to close the books on the last of the 2.6 million people who took part in the war.

President Reagan has pledged that an accounting is the "highest national priority," and the Defense Intelligence Agency says it checks out all reports of sightings of possible American prisoners.

Eleven years after the American ground combat role ended on March 29, 1973, one of the recurring questions is whether any American captives are still being held. In 1973, 591

American prisoners of war returned to a joyful homecoming.

The official Pentagon position is that "although we have thus far been unable to prove that Americans are still detained against their will, the information available to us precludes ruling out that possibility."

Privately, Pentagon officials say they think there may be a few Americans being held captive. No one has any hard evidence, and these officials say they are going only on hunches.

While the Vietnam list of 2,490 names may seem long, it's far smaller than the lists of missing in action from the two major preceding wars. There still are 8,800 men unaccounted for from the Korean War and 78,000 missing from World War II.

A number of possible explanations have been advanced in the cases of airmen whose planes crashed.

Many probably were unable to bail out and perished in wreckage which was never found. Others may have died on the ground but their bodies were never recovered. Some injured pilots may have wandered off into the jungle and died without their bodies being found, or they may have been captured.

'Con' tricks town

By The Associated Press

DONNELLY — "Wild Willy" Anderson came to the ranching town of Donnelly last month, flashing gold nuggets and vials of placer gold.

He said he was wealthy and in search of property to buy. Within two weeks, he had written checks to buy three pieces of property, each in six figures. He borrowed $2,000 from the proprietor of a local restaurant, and a rifle from another man.

The property sellers were to meet Anderson at a "McCall" bank last Monday morning to finish the deal.

But he never showed up.

Wild Willy, the talk of Donnelly, apparently had skipped town.

Detective Sgt. Ray Earis of the Valley County Sheriff's Department said he would "ask the county prosecutor to issue warrants for the arrest of William Boyd Anderson, 38, on two counts of grand larceny and one of auto theft."

In miles at Oxbow, Ore., Earis said, Anderson stayed at Ryan's home while he was in Donnelly.

Earis said Anderson agreed to buy a six-bedroom house and 80 acres from Charles Wunsch for $40,000; the Donnelly-Egarty and Solon, also owned by Wunsch, for $122,500; and a house from Valley Properties for $175,000.

Anderson wrote checks for those purchases on an account known as Wild Willy Gold Company Inc., at the First National Bank of Oregon, in Portland, Earis said. The account was closed in February 1983, he said.

Anderson wrote Wunsch a check for the full amount of the restaurant purchase, Earis said. Anderson also wrote earnest money checks of $20,000 to Wunsch and $10,000 to Valley Properties, he said.

Wunsch's wife Shirley described Anderson as a "smooth talker" who "kept a very low profile."

While in town, Anderson borrowed a $300 rifle from Charles Wunsch, Earis said, and apparently took the rifle with him when he left.

Last Sunday, Earis said, Anderson borrowed $2,000 from George Christensen, who runs the restaurant. Anderson promised that he would repay Christensen, plus $300 for the help.

Christensen later received a bad check for $2,300, Earis said.

Israeli tanks blast at Syrian troops

By G.G. LABELLE
The Associated Press

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Israeli tanks shelled positions in Syrian-held Bekaa Valley Sunday for the first time in a year, and Prime Minister Shafik Wazzan met with the Soviet ambassador and criticized the U.S. failure to secure an Israeli withdrawal.

The leftist Christian Voice of Lebanon Radio Station said a column of Israeli tanks took positions on hills just north of the village of Meloukine, about 30 miles southeast of Beirut, and shelled Syrian positions.

It also said there were heavy exchanges near the villages of Sultan Yacoub, Yanta and the western slopes of Mount Hermon, or Jebel Shufin, whose summit is at the Syrian-Lebanese border, 40 miles southeast of the capital.

The Israeli military command said its artillery attacked and destroyed two guerrilla command posts in the Bekaa Valley that had been used to prepare attacks on Israeli troops.

The command said the shelling was a response to recent attacks that wounded eight Israeli soldiers.

It was the first time in at least a year that Israel used artillery to attack guerrillas in Syrian-held Lebanese territory. But Israeli planes have struck guerrilla positions eight times since the area was held by Syria or its Druse allies.

The Lebanese army and Druse rebels traded tank and artillery fire and rockets in the mountains east of Beirut and there was sporadic sniping along the "green line" dividing Christian east Beirut from the city's largely Syrian or Druse western sector. No casualty reports were available.

Wazzan, the caretaker prime minister who is expected to leave office once a new Cabinet is formed, met with Soviet Ambassador Alexandre Soloviev.

"We are turning a new page and we have to get benefit from all our friendship in the international and Arab world," Wazzan said in a statement broadcast on government radio.

"Since the Israeli occupation, we contacted the United States, which has the most influence on Israel," Wazzan said. "Despite this," the United States itself announced its failure in its effort to secure any Israeli withdrawal from Lebanon.

Youth center worries people
ST. ANTHONY (AP) — People living near the Idaho State Youth Services Center have asked for protection against escapees who they claim have threatened lives and stolen or damaged private property.
A group of local residents met with YSC administrator Kurt Friedlander last week to ask for a fence around the center and a whistle to be blown when students escape.
Friedlander agreed to support a move to obtain funding for a fenced review, promising that blowing a whistle would upset other students in the facility's cottages, group member Todd Mace said.
In the meantime, a telephone alert system has been established to warn residents when there has been an escape.

State panned on waste issue
BOISE (AP) — A group of Owyhee County residents say the 1984 Idaho Legislature fell short of solving the state's hazardous-waste problems, including the danger of contamination from EnviroSAFE Services Inc. in their area.
But a major business and industry group gave legislators a mixed review, praising them for restraint in some areas but criticizing a 10-percent hike in waste-disposal fees.
Those were two key reactions to the 1984 session's accomplishments in hazardous-waste legislation. After considering a dozen proposals, lawmakers approved one major bill on state law.
For the first time, state fees would be charged for disposal at commercial hazardous-waste disposal companies and on shippers of hazardous waste anywhere in the state. Money would help pay for enforcement, environmental testing and handling of any accidents and contamination.
The new fee matched existing Owyhee County charges, bringing total fees at EnviroSAFE to $40 per ton.

Tugs try to save cruise liner
MIAMI (AP) — Two of the world's most powerful tugboats enlisted Sunday in efforts to pull the cruise liner S.S. Rhodody off a sand bar near Grand Cayman Island where it stuck last week, company officials said.
The 24,000-ton Rhodody ran aground Wednesday, about 100 yards off the island's coast, on the third day of a six-day cruise to the Caribbean and Mexico. No injuries were reported.

Polish defector kills himself
ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — A man who defected to the United States from Poland by jumping his car, has committed suicide by hanging himself with a bedsheet in his room at the Alaska Psychiatric Institute.
Tadeusz Majchrzak, 33, had been taken to the facility from Kodiak, where he was held, threatened suicide. The Anchorage Times reported Sunday.
Alice Knowles, a Polish-language interpreter in Kodiak who worked with several Polish defectors in late 1980, said Majchrzak was taken from a fishing boat March 23 or 25 after telling other crew members he planned to kill himself.

3 'Green River' bodies found
SEATTLE (AP) — Two more skeletons were found Sunday, bringing to three the number found over the weekend, and police were investigating whether they should be added to the list of 16 victims of the Green River Killer.
The three "obviously" were candidates for the list of victims in the serial killings because more than one was found in the same area, said Capt. Frank Adamson, who heads the 46-member Green River Task Force.

Legislator survives plane crash
DOUGLAS, Wyo. (AP) — An airplane piloted by Wyoming Senate President Eddie Moore crashed and burst into flames as it landed at the Douglas airport Sunday, but there were no serious injuries to the four people aboard, authorities said.
The airplane was making an approach under overcast skies with some snow about 2 p.m. when it touched down short of the runway, in a grassy area, a spokesman for the Converse County Sheriff's office said.
The landing gear collapsed and the twin-engine Cessna skidded across a runway apron and broke into flames, said Sheriff's Deputy Robert Miller.
Moore, his wife Rhoda, Henry Turner and his wife Fayella, climbed out without serious injuries, Miller said.
A spokesman at Converse County Memorial Hospital said all four were in stable condition, but would release no other information.
The wreckage and the crash site were closed, pending arrival of federal investigators from the Federal Aviation Administration and the National Transportation Safety Board, Miller said.
Miller said one wing and the undercarriage were burned, and an eyewitness said wreckage of the landing structure was scattered across the apron of the runway.
The couple were returning from a vacation in Barre, Calif., officials said.

Mondale outdistanced his rivals in caucuses Saturday in Kentucky, where he won 12 delegates, and in the Virgin Islands. However, 15 of the 36 delegates selected at the Kentucky meetings will go to the San Francisco convention uncommitted.
With the results Saturday, Mondale has 731.25 delegates; Hart has 437, while Jackson has 93.5. A total of 1,967 are needed to win the nomination.
Hart criticized Mondale on Sunday, stopping in Little Italy to visit a clothing store and a pasta shop and to have lunch.

operated virtually around the clock "bases" in Southeast Asia and from four aircraft carriers that operated in the South China Sea.
American pilots flew more than 1.8 million missions, and 3,500 B-52 bombers accounted for an additional 117,794 flights. Helicopters, widely used in warfare for the first time, made 11.8 million sorties.
Many of those flights encountered fierce ground fire and more than 3,000 planes and 4,000 helicopters were shot down.
Although many of the pilots were recovered, hundreds of others were lost when their crippled planes crashed into the sea. They are considered unaccounted for, even though there are no hopes they have survived.
Hundreds of other planes and helicopters crashed in the dense jungles, where ground cover was so thick that it hid wreckage unless rescuers were literally standing on it.
The Pentagon says it knows for sure that about 1,200 of the missing were killed. In those instances, planes were soon to crash and burn or plunge into the sea, or a man was seen disappearing when hit by an artillery round or rocket.
These men are listed as unaccounted for, however, because there is no physical evidence — such as an identifiable body part — like a fingerprint — to support claims by witnesses and rule out the possibility, however slight, that the Americans escaped harm.

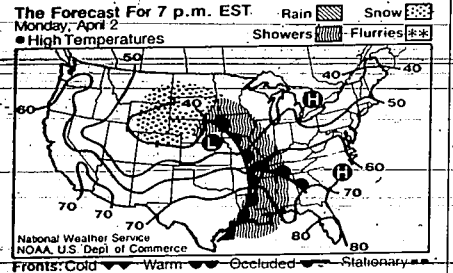

In the pasta shop, Hart made lettuce. "It's fun," he remarked.
His wife, Zoe, noting the apron that Hart wore, said: "Just like home."
Earlier Sunday, Hart told interviewers on CBS' "Face the Nation" that he would not send U.S. troops to El Salvador to prevent a communist takeover.
"I think we can prevent it by other means," he said, including medical and financial aid.
Jackson, meanwhile, preached at Bethany Baptist Church in Brooklyn and urged voters to turn out in record numbers for the primary. Referring to the death of Martin Luther King Jr. April 4, 1968, Jackson urged voters to "move from the crucifixion of 1968 to the resurrection of 1984."
He described April 3 the date of the New York primary, as the "eve of the crucifixion" and added: "We will have a chance to go to the polls and move the stone away."
Jackson said that if he loses his quest for the Democratic nomination, the "ultimus test" — to determine whether he supports one of his rivals is "whether they pledge to enforce energetically the Voting Rights Act."

for improving higher education from a task force funded by the Idaho Association of Commerce and Industry.
But most of those recommendations — including implementing tuition for the first time ever at Idaho's state colleges and universities — are among the session's fatalities.
The Swan Falls-Snake River water rights issue, pitting the rights of power producers against those of irrigators, was a time-consuming effort that ended in failure, as it had the year before.
Lawmakers have been trying since 1982 to reverse the effects of a state Supreme Court ruling that gave Idaho Power Co.'s water rights at Swan Falls Dam priority over the rights of other users.
Evans and Attorney General Jim Jones endorsed efforts this year to put the power company's rights at the dam second to the rights of others, a process called subordination.
But although several bills doing that made it through the House, they could never make it through the Senate.
The power company filed suit last year against the holders of 7,500 Snake River water permits, and legislation that would free 5,000 defendants from the lawsuit has cleared the Legislature twice, the last time on Saturday, adjournment day.
Evans vetoed the first bill when it reached his desk without accompanying subordination legislation.
He hasn't decided what to do about the latest lawsuit bill, but said he's been told that the number of defendants in the lawsuit appears to be lower than previously reported.

Today's weather

Partly cloudy; windy during afternoon

Twin Falls, Burley-Rupert, Jerome: Gooding areas.
Partly cloudy today with a few mountain showers, becoming windy this afternoon. Fair tonight, but with showers and weather on Tuesday. Overnight lows, low 20s to low 30s. Highs 40s to mid 50s today and 50s to 60s on Tuesday.
Casta Francis and Good River Valley: Partly cloudy with a few mountain showers today. Fair afternoon winds. Highs 45 to 50. Fair and cool tonight. Lows in the upper 20s. Highs today 50 and on Tuesday 50 to 55.
Northern Nevada and Utah: Mostly sunny and warmer today in Nevada turning fair but cold tonight. Increasing clouds in the northwest with a chance of showers Tuesday afternoon. Lows in the upper 20s. Highs both days mid 40s to mid 50s.
Utah will have some scattered snow or rain today over the 10,000'. Partly clearing tonight and part cloudy but warmer on Tuesday. Lows in the low 20s to low 30s and highs 40s to near 60.
Synopsis: Low moisture and instability will remain in Idaho through today to produce a few showers, especially in the mountains. High pressure is building in the Pacific Northwest, expected to bring partly cloudy skies to most of the state sometime today.
Winds will be quite strong in the southern part of the state Sunday afternoon. Northwest winds up to 30 mph with some stronger gusts were reported in Treasure Valley. The Upper Snake River Plain had strong winds and light Magic Valley lighter winds measured only 10 to 15 mph.

Temperatures around the state at mid-afternoon Sunday were mostly in the upper 40s and 50s. Boise and Mountain Home recorded temperatures of 86 and 87 respectively. The highest reading Sunday was 65 at Haerlem. Lows Sunday morning were mostly in the 30s in the north and western valleys were in the 20s and 30s. The coldest reading was 11 degrees at Starbuck.
The extended forecast for southern Idaho calls for a chance of showers Wednesday becoming more likely Thursday but decreasing by Friday. Cooler with highs Wednesday in the 50s, dropping into the 40s on Thursday and Friday. Lows in the 20s except locally in the low 30s in western valleys.

Acclaimed soul singer shot to death

MARVIN GAYE
Apparently shot by father

By JOHN ANTCAK
The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — Marvin Gaye, the smooth-voiced soul singer who topped the charts in the 1960s with such hits as "I Heard It Through the Grapevine," was shot and killed Sunday by his father after a fight, police said.

Gaye was at his parents' home on the eve of his 45th birthday when he became involved in the fight and was shot twice in the chest with a handgun, said Lt. Robert Martin. Police later booked his father, Marvin Gaye Sr., 69, for investigation of murder, said Sgt. Mike Pattee. The elder Gaye was being held without bail.

"He became involved in a physical altercation with his father" around 12:30 p.m., Martin said. "Marvin Sr. subsequently armed himself with a handgun of unknown caliber and fired several rounds."

Gaye, whose career spanned nearly 30 years, was taken in critical condition to Calfornia Hospital. He was pronounced dead at 1:01 p.m., said hospital spokeswoman Michelle Barker.

The argument between father and son began Saturday night "over some insurance dealings," Martin said, adding the fight resumed Sunday as Gaye first ordered his father into the younger man's bedroom and then ordered him out again.

After the two men pushed at each other in the hallway, Martin said, the elder Gaye got a .38-caliber handgun and fired two shots into his son's chest, Martin said. Gaye's mother, Alberta, 71, who witnessed the shooting, ran to the next-door home of her son, Frank, who called police.

Martin said the singer's body was found in an upstairs bedroom.

Best known for the 1968 hit, "I Heard It Through the Grapevine," Gaye was born in Washington, D.C., on April 2, 1939.

"Just like Muhammad Ali was built to box, I was built to sing," he once said.

He began his career with the vocal group the Rainbows in the 1950s and his last completed album, "Midnight Love," won acclaim for the comeback hit "Sexual Healing," which won two 1983 Grammy awards.

He was nominated for a 1984 Grammy for "Midnight Love."

This year, "I Heard It Through the Grapevine" was re-issued and featured in the film soundtrack of "The Big Chill."

On April 1, the British take their morning newspapers with toast, kippers and a grain of salt.

But it's not always easy to separate fact from fancy.

For example, The Sunday Times reported on Page 3 that a 50 million-pound ($72-million) project will be launched in June using driverless, computerized buses in the capital.

Accompanying graphics explained how a worker at a remote-control center would be able to guide eight double-deckers at a time up Regent Street, down Oxford Street, around by Charing Cross and through Piccadilly Circus.

The project is "designed to ease congestion and win exports for Britain," the article said. It added: "Secret early-morning test runs for the bus — official title, the Lock-On Overland Facility — have gone well."

Later on, Sunday Times readers found a review of a new book called "Dictionary of Real English," edited by Professor Max Walwright, Universities Press.

"At last! A dictionary which celebrates the way people really speak and has no truck with so-called correct English," the reviewer exulted.

Here is a dictionary that tells you to laugh at anyone who says "whom," not to worry whether there's a difference between "uninterested" and "disinterested." To go ahead and say "pretty unique" if you feel like it.

Walwright's contribution to lexicography, the reviewer said, "represents a huge breath of fresh air in the stuffy world of British pedantry."

Both the bus article and the book review were written deadpan, but an editorial confessed they were April Fool's Day plans.

"Both innovations tell us much about the dismal tenor of the times — or maybe it is just something to do with today," the editorial said.

U.S.-Honduran troop maneuvers started

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP) — U.S. and Honduran troops on Sunday began a three-month series of joint military maneuvers that will include building airstrips near El Salvador and Nicaragua, the Honduran government announced.

The government said the maneuvers are proceeding as scheduled despite a shakeup Saturday in the Honduran military command.

"The events of the last hours ... are not an obstacle for the beginning of the joint exercises between the armies of the United States and Honduras, which are taking place unimpeded," a government statement said.

On Saturday, the government announced the forced resignation of Gen. Gustavo Alvarez Martinez, the armed forces chief who was considered the most powerful figure in the government.

No reasons were given for the ouster of Alvarez Martinez, who is said by military sources there to be in Costa Rica, where "he has been granted asylum."

Hawaii lava flow still creeping near homes

VOLCANO, Hawaii (AP) — A lava flow kept crawling toward outlying homes in Hilo on Sunday, and officials said the threat to the city was "still real" as Mauna Loa's massive volcanic eruption entered its second week.

"The estimated average volume of lava is 1 million cubic meters per hour, which is about what it has been all along," said Kupa Mall, a ranger at Hawaii Volcanoes National Park.

Reports earlier Sunday that the output of lava from a fissure at the 9,400-foot elevation on the 13,677-foot mountain had decreased between 20 percent and 30 percent since Friday,

"apparently represented only a fluctuation in what appears to be a pattern developing for Mauna Loa," Mall said.

Scientists believed increased rumbling on Sunday indicated a slight increase in the volume and possibly a fresher magma with a higher content of gas coming to the surface, he said.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT TO HOMEOWNERS!

Intermountain Gas Company has Federal Cash Subsidies* up to $1,250 available for the purchase of HIGH TECH GAS HEATING EQUIPMENT and CEILING INSULATION.

Now you can upgrade your home's heating system with a high tech gas furnace for an annual savings of 25% to 40% on your heating bills ... or have additional ceiling insulation installed to reduce heat loss and lower your heating and air conditioning costs ... and get a maximum cash subsidy of $1,250.

QUALIFICATIONS:

These Federal Cash Subsidies are available for the purchase of:

- High tech gas heating equipment.
- Ceiling insulation.

The amount of cash subsidy received is determined by:

1. Family's gross income.
2. The seasonal efficiency rating of the gas heating equipment purchased.
3. The value of existing ceiling insulation.

Depending on your circumstances you could qualify for a cash subsidy of up to $1,250.

REQUIREMENTS TO QUALIFY:

Ceiling Insulation.

To qualify for a Federal cash grant, the proposed ceiling insulation must achieve a 7-year payback level as calculated through an energy audit conducted by Intermountain Gas. Ceiling insulation cannot be financed through the company's finance program. The balance due after subsidy must be paid by the homeowner upon completion of the job. Insulation installed by the homeowner also qualifies for this program.

High Tech Gas Heating Equipment.

To obtain a cash subsidy, you must be heating your home at the present time with natural gas or oil and you must use Intermountain Gas Company's finance program to convert to high tech gas heating. The company's $200 rebate program for the purchase of high tech gas furnaces does not apply under this subsidy program.

For further information about this new Federal Cash Subsidy program, contact:

Baltimore will be poorer for the loss of the Colts. Baltimore has already been poorer for the way that owner Robert Irsay has turned one of professional football's most successful franchises into its least successful, dissipating the talent on the field and repudiating community good will off the field.

The National Football League will be poorer for the loss of the Baltimore market. This is, where NFL mania — single game tickets impossible to find, season tickets left in wills and contested in divorce suits — began, before it spread to other cities in the '60s. Who thinks that Indianapolis even with a weather-proof stadium will duplicate Baltimore's '86 straight sell-outs? Probably no one in either the National Football League or in Indianapolis believes that will happen.

Indianapolis has not been that good a franchise for the National Basketball Association, in the sport about which Hoosiers care most. One thing the Colts will not do out there is share in the enduring loyalties that Hoosiers have built up for the mighty football traditions at Indiana, Purdue and Notre Dame universities.

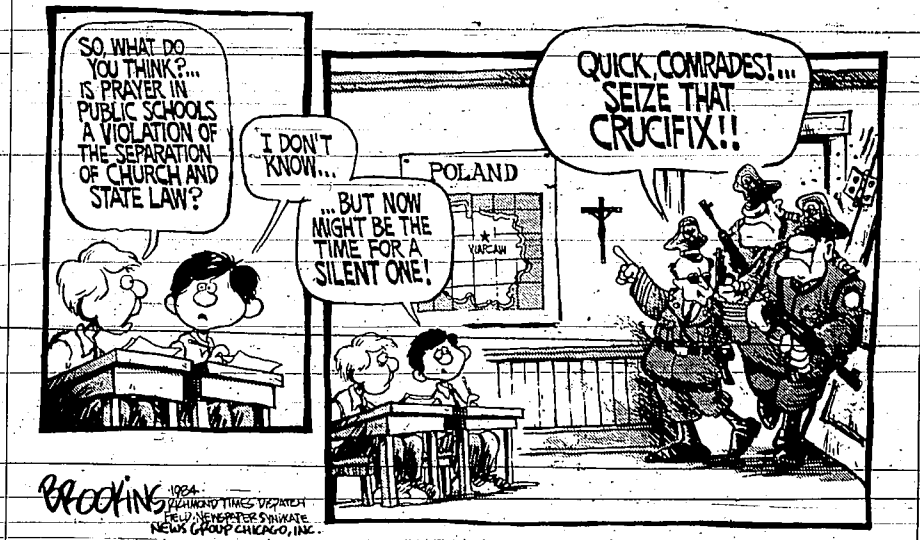

The owners of the National Football League know how important Baltimore has been to their organization's rise to dominance of autumn spectating in the country. Although several cities are lined up for an expansion franchise, the NFL should put Baltimore at the top of the list. It should also induce Mr. Irsay to pick a more suitable name for his team in Indianapolis. The name Colts was chosen by Baltimore fans and should be retired temporarily, kept in readiness for the next NFL franchise here.

Mayor William Schaefer and Gov. Harry Hughes deserve praise for their doggedness in trying to keep the Colts here and their willingness to put up with Mr. Irsay. But as the details of the last ditch offer come out, many Baltimoreans will be relieved that it was rejected. The worry now must be that any franchise owner will adopt Mr. Irsay's repugnant tactics and auction their properties to every local booster in the country.

The condemnation route as a means for keeping the Colts here should be weighed carefully. It has attractions, although arguments have been advanced against its strength in law and its wisdom as a message to prospective franchise owners.

Given Mr. Irsay's track record, the possibility persists for his agreement with Indianapolis to break down, stranding his moving vans somewhere on Interstate 70. The chances are, however, that he has become Indianapolis's problem. Baltimore's problem is filling Memorial Stadium on autumn Sundays. The National Football League's problem is restoring the integrity of its franchises and the loyalty of its fans.

Company turns prayers commercial

"The 'Godbox,' a new product which provides a direct communication line to heaven, is now being offered for only $1.35," announces the advertisement that arrived in the mail. "Godbox answers prayers with miraculous results. Unconditional money-back guarantee!"

A new enterprising business calling itself A Creative Co. has found a way to market God's word — a way to sell us God's very own miracle. Answering Service, with a one-time-only charge. And if your prayers aren't answered, as a consolation prize, you can ask for your money back.

According to Jerry Goossen, one of the founders of the Godbox company, "You simply write your problems or desires on a pre-printed prayer sheet, drop the prayer in the box, and let God take over." No psychic muffs or fuss. Drop your burdens in the box and forget about them. Like a wishing well that goes up instead of down.

The U.S. Postal Service delivers letters to Santa Claus, but they apparently haven't discovered the mail route to heaven. At least they haven't advertised it, if they have. AT&T obviously missed a market on long-distance phone calls: "Hello, God? I need your assistance. My rates would probably be exorbitant, and I'm sure you wouldn't get your money returned if your requests were turned down."

Think of how the Godbox might have solved the prayer in the schools controversy. A school principal could simply mail a Godbox to the outside of his office door and allow students, teachers and staff to drop prayers in whenever they felt so moved. A holy suggestion box. All the hotly debated objections to group prayer, leading a sanctioned prayer, or pressuring a child to pray are eliminated. However, I do think that the prayers should be required to be written in correct grammar. God shouldn't have to be an editor, too.

If I could sarcastic it's undoubtedly because I was raised to think of religion as a private matter. My father wouldn't even answer a Census Bureau's question asking him to state his religion.

Charles Levensdosky

"My religion is none of their damn business," as he so colorfully put it. At some fundamental level I agree, especially when it comes to prayer. And I am naive enough to be offended by those who market God. It seems inherently garish.

Ads with such an unmarked approach project the idea that consumer-oriented America believes God is the Moderator for the Big Game Show in the Sky. All we believers have to do is manage to be on-stage and there are heavenly gifts behind those curtains that will soon be ours. There is a consumer mentality in this kind of praying. In this kind of marketing of prayer, "Give me... give me..." Perhaps that is what offends me most. Whatever happened to prayer as meditation, as communion with one's God?

Goossen, who sounds open and sincere, says he came to use the idea when he was having difficulties in his life and a friend suggested that he write his problems down in the form of a request to God. His original "Godbox" was one of those boxes which banks use to mail out new checks. I don't want to suggest that the prayer-check connection may be the profitable leap which led Goossen to market his box. Whatever the origin, it seems to have worked for him.

Goossen is willing to admit, the prayer-in-a-box notion isn't original. Numerous self-help groups use the concept. However, the idea is much older than that. Goossen has missed a marketing wrinkle by not comparing Godbox to a miniature Ark of the Covenant, the chest which is believed to have contained the remains of the stone tablets on which God wrote the Ten Commandments for Moses.

And the concept of a special place for written prayers is more universal than the Judeo-Christian heritage. In 1981, prayers were written on strips of paper, which were attached to wheels which turned in the wind, the prayer-wheel. In Japan some believers tie prayers like ribbons on trees.

Isn't the concept of writing prayers down that is offensive? Is the cheapening of prayer through this kind of marketing which offends. As if we mortals could guarantee God's attention for our own problems, much less anyone else's. Or, blithely promise as the elcher on the ad does, "Godbox, the gift that keeps on giving — year after year." There's the rub. God has been reduced to a genie in a bottle.

GOP strategists respect Mondale, become wary of Hart

WASHINGTON — President Reagan's campaign strategists have an agreement not to publicly rate their potential Democratic opponents.

But privately they are watching with fascination the donnybrook between Fritz Mondale and Gary Hart as well as Jesse Jackson's sideshow.

They love to see the Democrats beating on each other, on the logical theory that such infighting will make it harder for the opposition party to unite against the Reagan-Bush Republican ticket in the fall.

But a new strain of respect — and wariness has filtered into the GOP campaign chieftains' conversations as the Democratic warfare progresses.

Initially, most of the Reagan-Bush coaches were delighted when Sen. Hart of Colorado upset former Vice President Mondale in the Loye Miller Jr.

Feb. 28 New Hampshire primary. They considered him an ultra-liberal to the left of Mondale and a political maverick who would not wear well.

"Jimmy Carter succeeded eight years ago because he was, like Hart, new and different," says one Republican aide. "But from the way that worked out, Carter has given political outsiders a bad name."

But now that Hart has proven he can draw support from large numbers of certain types of voters, particularly independents, he makes the Republicans nervous.

"Hart would probably run stronger than Mondale among certain constituent groups that we hope to get away from the Democrats," a top

Reagan-Bush strategist says.

Mondale also gives the other side pause, at least more so than he had earlier in the campaign.

One GOP faction still relishes the prospect of running against the former vice president because, as Republican pollster Robert Teeter puts it, "Ronald Reagan against Fritz Mondale is Ronald Reagan against the New Deal, and the New Deal's tie is past."

But the Reagan commanders have a good deal more respect for Mondale than they did a few short weeks ago. Most say that the Mondale they have seen, as he finally cut his losses to Hart and fought his way back into the race, has shown guts and impressive grace under pressure.

"The Mondale we see today is a far better candidate than the Mondale we saw up in New Hampshire," a top Reagan adviser says.

"When he got in trouble, he got good — not so fuzzy and wishy-washy. He's sharper and he's tougher, and that has to be worrisome."

Some of the best political minds on the GOP side believe it's impossible to predict now which Democrat would be the most potent opponent.

"The situations, the actions, the events that will determine that probably haven't even happened yet," says pollster Teeter. "With the front-loaded primary schedule, I thought we had gotten to the point that a nomination fight would never again last all the way to the convention. But now I wouldn't be surprised to see Mondale, Hart and Jackson still going at it when the Democrats get to San Francisco."

On the Democratic side, there are a lot of veteran Mondale fans who are pleased that he has improved as a candidate, but believe he would be even better if he were made more accessible, both to the press and to voters.

Enhancing federal revenue starts with imaginative ideas

As you know, folks, our country's finances have gone a bit awry. We are beset with a whooper of a federal deficit.

And as you probably know, our leaders are laboring to do something about it. They are willing to take any short, sharp cut that would offend the electorate in this election year.

But what you probably don't know is that the Reagan administration has hatched a series of tax hikes, excise and revenue enhancement measures, to address the situation.

I know, I know. A lot of partisan types of the opposite party have been saying Reagan is willing to spend federal dollars on all those silly missiles and tanks and other things with a thousand-dollar bolts, but that he is not willing to tax the populace to the extent necessary to pay for his generals' toys. That is simply an unfair criticism of our president.

Dick Manning

Poor people, however, are used to not having money—and so suffer less when their cash is confiscated.

So with that principle in mind, the administration has devised some new taxes, which I am prepared to unveil here today. But first a word of caution. My source on this happens to be a skid row wino from Washington, D.C. Now as winos go, he is an unusually well-informed dervish, but he does have a tendency to stretch the truth just a tad. I report what he told me with the warning that it might be a fabrication.

Here is an outline of the new series of taxes Reagan will propose:

The Doesn't-It-Do-You-Poor-Heart-Good-To-See-Nancy-Look-So-Splifty-Tax. This levy was devised when it came to the attention that the poor are unable to afford designer dresses and fancy china. Poverty stricken people are, however, getting vicarious thrills from watching our first lady cavort about in all manner of finery.

If it helps me to enjoy her splendor that much, they had better be willing to pony up.

The tax will fall on anyone with an income of less than $20,000. Proceeds will help keep Nancy looking real good.

The Coal Tax: This measure will help solve a problem. It seems that James Watt gave away a good chunk of the nation's coal at bargain basement prices. The price of something must be done to replace the reserves.

Two classes benefit from cheap coal: People who use it for heat and industrialists. We certainly can't penalize industry for burning coal; that use is needed for the production of acid rain.

Therefore, the tax will fall on people who use coal for heat. And since they probably don't have any money left after buying the coal, Reagan will propose an in-kind tax. They will be asked to mail the IRS a box of coal.

Proceeds will be buried in Utah so that future secretaries of interior will have a resource to squander.

The Bankrupt-Farmer Tax: Farmers have had the poor taste to go broke at an alarming rate in recent years. This is placing a burden on bankruptcy courts. Because broke farmers are causing this burden, they will be asked to cover the extra costs.

But this creates a bit of a problem; by defaulting, broke farmers have no money. The administration came up with a novel solution. Bankrupt farmers will have to surrender their first-born children to the IRS. The youngsters will be sold into slavery. Excess proceeds from this tax will be used to cover payments to corporate farms that have earned PIK payments in excess of $4 million for not growing grain on swampland.

The Liberal-Democrat-and-Godless-Communist Tax: Members of these groups have been causing the administration to waste all sorts of time, energy and money defending its positions on a wide variety of issues. If they are to enjoy the privilege of disagreeing with our president, they too can pay for it.

Henceforth, all members of the above groups will fork over 50 percent of their gross income to the IRS. Members of the American Civil Liberties Union will pay an extra 10 percent surcharge.

Proceeds of the tax will pay for the administration's efforts to dismantle civil rights legislation.

Now I know some of these taxes may hurt a few of you just a bit, but they are meant to solve a serious problem. We must make sacrifices.

And you have to admit, these taxes are about as fair as anything else Reagan has done.

Keeping students in class is calling for Tidd

By ANNETTE CARV
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls school district attendance officer Robert Tidd is spending a lot less time at the courthouse these days. This year he has filed no petitions in magistrate court against parents who do not send their children to school. And he's keeping his fingers crossed that Twin Falls can carry this perfect record to the end of the school year.

That's quite a change from his first year with the district, after retiring from a sales job 11 years ago. During the 1972-73 school year he filed 43 petitions — 18 ending up in court.

"It was chaos," he says of his first year on the job. "There was a passive attitude not only of the children, but the parents, too. They thought I didn't go to school, Grandpa didn't go to school, and there ain't no sense this brat going to school. He ain't no smart anyhow."

But since the start of the 80's there has been a growing awareness of what a child can gain from school, bolstered no doubt by Tidd's salesmanship.

"My son can't read" is an excuse Tidd hears every year, he says. "When the child is in school he is just in limbo. He's ashamed. The parents do not want him to be ashamed, but they are unaware we have the facilities to put him on his feet."

That's where Tidd's years of sales experience comes into play. "Are you a reading instructor? Is anyone in your family?" he asks.

With a seoful look, a nod of his head and a quiet voice he continues. "Well, we have experts in that. Do you mind if we test your son to see what he does know? Then we can get him into a remedial program with people who can help him."

Most parents are easy to sell on good school attendance after he has a chance to talk with them. Usually parents of habitual truants are newcomers to Idaho and not used to schools with educators who follow attendance so closely, he believes.

"After people get here they are so pleased about how closely we look after the kids," he says. "That's why we get so much cooperation."

The parent of any student who does not have an excellent attendance record receives a telephone call if the child misses a day or just doesn't show up for second period when he made it to first.

And even parents of students with the best attendance records get a call if the student misses more than one day without the teacher hearing from the family. If there is no phone, Tidd stops by the home.

Of course, there are a few cases of kids playing hooky who try to intercept the call to their parents. But it is difficult for a 10-year-old to imitate an adult voice or even maintain his composure. One youngster was flustered enough to lie. "I'm my brother," when Tidd called to find out who he was not at school.

But most kids playing hooky find it is not as fun as they thought. Just to make sure they will not do it again, they may get seven hours of after-school detention and be asked to read a two-page attendance document to Tidd and their parents. That's enough to bore most kids into staying in school in the future, Tidd says.

But still serious truancy problems are not quite a thing of the past. Last year he filed a petition in Fifth District Magistrate Court against parents who were keeping their children out of school so they would not be exposed to any religious discrimination.

Tidd traced their move across the West to Idaho, finding that they had claimed to belong to at least three widely different religious ethnic groups in recent years. But before the case reached prosecution, "they disappeared in the night," he says.

Tidd also works to keep students in school after their 16th birthday makes dropping out a legal alternative. However, a tight job market is making his job easier, he says.

"They are aware of the fact they need better skills to qualify in any industry," he says. And if they are not, a visit to the local employment office can usually convince them, he says.

When one 16-year-old girl told him she planned to drop out to find a job, Tidd cheerfully suggested they find her one together, he says. But the only job she qualified for was an opening for a dishwasher that 25 other persons also were seeking. When the job went to a college graduate, it was not difficult to persuade her to continue her education, he says.

"Tidd will turn 70 at the end of this year, but he doesn't plan to retire. 'I like the work I'm doing,' he says simply.

Anti-Catholic drive comes to region

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Anti-Catholic posters, pamphlets and signs have been showing up in Twin Falls this past week. Some of the materials, which have also been turning up in other major Idaho cities, allege that broadcasting systems and magazines are controlled by the Vatican.

Twin Falls police report that posters and stickers have been pasted on vacant buildings, over billboards and on bulletin boards in downtown Twin Falls.

Officers say it is apparently an out-of-state group that came into town to distribute the posters and material and then left.

One of the major displays appears on a vacant building owned by Western Realty and Appraisal Co. It is located on Main Avenue East across from the Western Realty and Appraisal offices. Some were also found on property along Kimberly Road, police say.

Building owner L. James Koutnik said his property, located across from Western Realty, is the former Magic Valley-Security headquarters. It is for sale, he said, adding he will now have to go to the expense and trouble of removing the stickers before he can sell.

"They are put on with some type of glue and will not peel off," he said. "It isn't going to be easy to remove them, and to make matters worse, they are pasted all over the front window and doors and on the side of the building."

Koutnik said he first noticed the material Friday, but said one of his employees said he saw them about a week earlier.

The St. Edward's Catholic Church has also had a visit from an anti-Catholic group, said The Rev. Perry W. Dadds, pastor of the church.

He said on March 21 some one or persons apparently slipped into the church and unnoted put about 400 anti-Catholic pamphlets in prayer books kept in the church pews.

"I would guess it's a group of fundamentalist protestant-individuals with strong anti-Catholic beliefs," Dadds said. "From time to time we do get some action from such groups."

However, Dadds said whoever distributed the pamphlets is apparently backed by a well-organized and funded group.

"It took about two hours to remove them from the books," he said. "They were in not all, but about two out of every three of the books in the church."

He described the material as well prepared, but viscerously anti-Catholic.

"It is very misleading and apparently distributed by individuals who do not realize they are trespassing on the law or infringing on the religious beliefs and faith of others," the local priest said.

He said the pamphlets attack the Catholic faith as not following the Bible's teachings.

"I regret that they see fit to attack us, but I do not feel threatened by their actions," Dadds said.

With drug problems Home sought for youngsters

By TERRY RICHLARTLEY
Times-News correspondent

TWIN FALLS — In a unanimous vote, the Region V Department of Health and Welfare Advisory Board decided to back a proposal to build a residential facility that focuses on youthful drug and alcohol addicts.

During a board meeting this past week, regional manager Stephen Anderson said five percent of the Health and Welfare budget is now directed toward aiding youthful addicts, but that it was all being done on an outpatient basis. "Outpatient treatment," he said, "address all the needs," he said.

A report was passed around that cited a review conducted by the Alcohol Rehabilitation Association in September of 1983. The review stated, "66 percent of the population of the Youth Services Center has been categorized as dependent or continuing users of substances."

According to the report, target populations would be youths with a job history that is insufficient to lead to serious dysfunction, with family, peers, school and the justice system. Ones who are so impaired as to not benefit from outpatient treatment only.

It appears, the report states, that of the youth having serious problems in family, schools and courts, about 40 percent are substance users. Anderson, saying that adult facilities are not equipped to handle the youth, pointed to the problem of mixing adults with adolescents.

Two budgets were proposed, one for a leased 10-bed facility at $220,000 per year, another for a 20-bed center at $349,000 per year. Anderson said the money would have to come "out of money already allocated for substance abuse rather than any new source."

Board member Claude Ballard summed up the feelings of the group by saying, "I think we should back it. If you don't get them while they're young, they're lost. I think the biggest part of these kids' problems is drugs and alcohol."

In this early stage, no site has been chosen for the center, but the consensus was, that if it does become a reality, it will probably be located in western Idaho.

On another matter, Willie Uhrig, Twin Falls city supervisor, and Buddy Schanz, regional trainer, gave the board a short course in lesson on becoming a job stamp examiner. Volumes of paperwork were passed around, and they performed a mock interview with Schanz as the examiner and Uhrig as the applicant.

Referring to a rule stating that an applicant must receive his food stamps within 30 days, Judy Brooks, regional supervisor for medical and financial services, said, "You may hear of Idaho not making the time frame." She said that they had asked the Legislature for 23 new eligibility examiners statewide but only got nine. Of her allotment of two, she opted instead to hire clerical specialists.

Brooks said, "It's a madhouse," adding that, since a federal rule change in January requiring monthly reporting, 1,300 status reports a month have been "flooding into her office." With a 25-percent staff-manning rate, she said, "there's a lot of stress in the office," she said. "And with our staff of 21, we have three other major programs to deal with."

Concerning legislative matters, Anderson told the board that a new youth rehabilitation measure has been sent to the governor which, if signed, will change how Health and Welfare, and the courts deal with youthful status offenders.

"Now, many offenders are not being charged with serious crimes, but, instead, plea bargain or face lesser offenses. Beginning July 1, it won't be that way," he said, adding that the measure would remove status offenders from the Youth Rehabilitation Act.

On child care licensing, he was disappointed that the bill failed in the House committee, saying, "We have the responsibility to license without the authority to back it up."

"I'm very pleased. It's been a very serious problem for the counties."

Citizens seek professional analysis of overcrowded schools

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

JEROME — Members of a citizens committee examining overcrowding in Jerome schools are asking the Jerome School Board for professionally prepared cost studies on proposals for remodeling as compared to new construction.

Committee members say they are offering the two alternative plans now instead of a single proposal because they believe the decision should be based on the cost taxpayers will be asked to shoulder.

The 22 citizens, headed by Homer Pringle as chairman, have been meeting the past two and one-half months at the request of the Jerome School Board. Their assignment is to find a solution to the problem of needed classrooms in view of recent bond issue election failures.

The committee studies have indicated 20 additional classrooms will be needed by the time the district can fund and build the added space.

In the first proposal, the committee studies indicate the community favors remodeling and adding on to existing school facilities rather than, undertaking a new building program.

In keeping with this, the first proposal calls for determining cost estimates for adding 15 classrooms to Jefferson Elementary and the Jerome Junior High School buildings. Both proposals call for relocating the vocational agricultural facilities at the senior high school and remodeling the existing vocational building into five junior high school classrooms.

Currently, students are bused from the senior high to the junior high for vocational classes. This represents about $10,800 in transportation costs per year, reduces class time and causes inconvenience to students and instructors, the committee report shows.

If the change were made immediately, the five added junior high school classrooms could be available for the start of the 1984-85 school year.

The second proposal would be to build a new elementary school consisting of 15 classrooms and appropriate support facilities in addition to classroom space gained by relocating the vocational classes.

The committee recommends the board consider one of several available sites, all within a mile of Jerome, if a new building becomes the problem solution.

The proposal calls for a design that would allow addition of future classrooms at a minimum cost.

"To obtain the most value for our tax dollars and to determine which of the two proposals will best serve the community," the committee report states, "the board should make use of all available school and community expertise and labor."

The committee suggestions also call for use of local contractors and other experts and for teacher and staff input in plans and costs if the new building proposal proves the most inexpensive.

Studies and community contacts made by committee members show an overwhelming community support for reinstating regular kindergarten classes as soon as possible.

The election season

Filing goes slowly for Lincoln County openings

By JANENE BUCKWAY
Times-News correspondent

SHOSHONE — Candidate filings for county office have been slow in Lincoln County.

There are six positions to be contested this year: a four-year commission seat in District 1 (North Shoshone), a two-year commission seat in District 2 (Richfield), prosecuting attorney four-year term, county clerk to fill the remaining two years of a four-year term, a four-year sheriff position, and county coroner for two years.

The deadline for filing is 5 p.m. April 6, Idaho's Primary election will be held in May.

Clerk Dana Sturgeon said Friday only one candidate, Everett "Buck" Ward, a 10-year veteran of county government, and the incumbent commissioner in District 2 has filed. Ward is a Democrat.

Sturgeon, a Republican, said she will seek election to the clerk's position. She was appointed clerk in January following the resignation of Linda Stevenson, who was elected to a four-year term in 1982.

Incumbent Sheriff Darwin Mills, also a Republican, is finishing his first four-year term. He said Friday he will seek re-election.

Sturgeon said only one other filing petition has been secured from her office. She explained that a county resident picked up the form and she does not know for which office it might be filed.

Other incumbents are: Burrell Williams, Republican commissioner in District 1, who was first elected in 1976.

Prosecuting attorney Douglas Rose, also Republican, has served

Gooding voters to settle six position vacancies

GOODING — There are six county government positions to be decided in Gooding County this election year.

The open positions are: county commissioner for District 1 (the Gooding area) a four-year term; county commissioner in District 2 (the Hagerman area), a two-year term; prosecuting attorney, a four-year term; county coroner, a two-year term; sheriff for a four-year term; and county assessor to complete the remaining two years of a four-year term.

By the middle of last week, six candidates had announced for office, including Ron Stroud of Bliss for the second district commission seat, John Horn and Lynn Nelson for prosecuting attorney, Doyle Pegmarre for assessor and Dowell Dugmar and Gary Loder for county coroner.

Pugmarre is the only incumbent to file a petition so far. He was appointed to the assessor's post last fall, after Brent Giesler resigned the position.

Other incumbents include: first term commissioner, Robert Tupper in the second district, veteran commissioner Will Thomas in the first district and Robert Aja filling his first four-year term as sheriff.

Incumbent prosecutor John Arkoosh, who has held the position less than a year, announced two weeks ago that he would not seek re-election.

A declaration petition containing five, but not more than 10, from qualified, properly registered Gooding County voters, and a $40 filing fee must be given to the county clerk's office before 5 p.m. Friday, April 6.

Police hunt for missing woman

GLENNIS FERRY — Elmore County officers were joined by aircraft and sea and rescue volunteers Sunday in a search of the Snake River area for a missing King Hill woman.

Elmore County Deputy Sheriff George Menzik of Glenns Ferry reported missing by her family Friday afternoon and apparently left her home around 4 p.m. on foot. He said "I don't know if she was depressed recently. He theorized she may have wandered off and become lost or has gone into the river. He said her home is on the high area out of King

Hill, about a half mile from the river.

Between 50 and 60 volunteers assisted in the two-day search effort. A helicopter from the Mountain Home Air Force Base search and rescue unit was donated Saturday and again Sunday. Rancher James Kosi, a neighbor also donated the use of his private helicopter to fly Menzik on a search of the river and sagebrush areas from King Hill. An air force officer from the air force base volunteered his light plane for an aerial search, Menzik said. In addition to volunteers on foot a mounted patrol also has been activated.

"So far we have found exactly nothing," the officer said. "She took a blanket and pillow with her when she left home and we have been hoping to spot these from the air. Of course we are asking anyone who may have seen her or has any information to contact the sheriff's office."

Menzik said the search will resume at 7 a.m. today. Idaho State Police are directing the search effort. Menzik said, with the assistance of several Elmore County officers. He said he plans to use his boat on the river today, but he added that the river is too high for dragging operations.

Son's drug abuse hurts parents most

DEAR ABBY: Some time ago you devoted an entire column to the drug problem. I was so impressed I gave it to the principal of the Mason City (Iowa) high school, who in turn made copies and gave them to other school officials.

Please run it again, Abby. It's needed even more today.

Abigail VanBuren
Dear Abby

DEAR MR. H.: I agree. And here it is.

DEAR ABBY: Recently, a 17-year-old Florida boy pleaded guilty to possessing hallucinogenic drugs. He also had been charged with violence toward a Miami Beach police officer. Judge Alfonso Sepe sentenced the youth to one year in the county stockade and four years' probation. The comments of the judge so impressed me that I ordered the transcript from the court reporter so that I may read it to my own children.

Your column is so widely read I am sending you the "lecture" Judge Sepe gave that boy in the presence of his grieving parents. Please publish it, and give it the national forum it deserves.

MRS. A. L. CATES, MIAMI
DEAR MRS. CATES: Hardly do I devote an entire column to one letter, but I agree, this is worth it.

Judge Sepe spoke directly to the youth and said, "Do you know who is going to serve that year? Not you, your mother and father will serve that year."

"That is what's wrong. THEY get sentenced. They get sentenced for a lifetime."

"You serve a year. Your body is in the stockade for a year, but your soul is tormented for a lifetime. Why?

Because you are a selfish, spoiled boy, that's why.

"There is no punishment in the world that I could inflict upon you that could in any way compensate for what you are doing to your mother and father. I have not spent 5 cents raising you. I don't know you from Adam. But your mother and father have put their lives, their hearts, their sweat, their money and everything else they have into bringing you up. And now they have to sit in this courtroom and listen to a total stranger who had nothing to do with your upbringing scold you and put you in jail.

"This is at a time when phony kids your age are yelling, 'You adults have your alcohol, we want our drugs; you have polluted our water and our air, you have polluted this and that,' and all the rest of the garbage that comes out of your mouths.

"Meanwhile, you put yourself above everybody else. I feel sorry for you.

"I want you to think of this for one year, and the reason why I say it:

"If you are sick, a doctor will treat you and he won't be on drugs. The lawyer who represents you won't be high on drugs, and the people in whose custody you'll be won't be on drugs.

"Your astronauts are not on drugs, and your president is not, and your legislators are not.

"And your engineers who build the bridges that you drive across and the tunnels that you drive through are not on drugs, and those who build the planes that you fly in and the cars that you drive are not."

"Neither are those who build the bathrooms that you stink up with your lousy, rotten drugs."

"None of them have been on drugs, and this is because of people like your mother and father."

"But in the world of the future, the same may not be true. Teachers, doctors, lawyers, legislators — products of the new drug-oriented generation — may well be high as kites.

"You won't know whom to send your child to, or whom to trust your life to."

Sepe sighed and closed the case file. "Let's see what kind of world you leave to your children," he said "before you talk about the world that we left to ours."

(Every teenager should know the truth about drugs, sex and how to be happy. For Abby's booklet, send $2 and a long, stamped (7 cents) self-addressed envelope to: Abby, Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 38922, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.)

FRENCH BREAD

1 package of dry yeast dissolved in 1/2 cup warm water
 1/2 cup warm water
 1 tablespoon oil
 1 tablespoon sugar
 1 teaspoon salt
 5 cups white flour
 Add dissolved yeast to next four ingredients. Mix well. Add flour gradually. Make ball and let stand for 10 minutes. Repeat five times. Form two long loaves on greased cookie sheet. After forming the loaves, slit top five times with a sharp knife. Let rise for 30 minutes. Bake in 350 degree oven for 25 minutes.

This was my mother's speciality. She still makes it often for church functions. It is super easy to make and great to eat.

Daily Horoscope

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Until late afternoon, you have all sorts of interesting ideas and modes of procedure by which you will be able to advance your affairs. In fascinating new avenues of expression.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Unpected happenings can occur early that will bring you pleasure and happiness, and later you get fine ideas for progress.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20) If you study the actions of your mate, you will know better how to have greater rapport in the future.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) An associate wants to be more helpful and should be given the chance to do so. Be alert to what is happening around you.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to Jul. 21) If properly attuned to your planets, you should be starting the new week with more enthusiasm than usual.

Leo (Jul. 22 to Aug. 21) You may get an unexpected invitation that should be accepted, since you could have a fine time—Your mate will go ahead with your idea.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) A good day to get that situation improved at home to the satisfaction of all who dwell there. Be happy.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Stop all that angling, and be more adroit with partners. State your plans for the days ahead. Plan for a big expansion.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You need to use more modern measures if you wish to improve your financial status. Put your practical ideas in motion.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 22) You are anxious to discuss your practical ideas with others, but be sure it is with those who can really be helpful.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 to Jan. 20) Be more concerned with theory than the practical. Do something dramatic that will make your loved one more affectionate.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Consider those persons you want to add to present roster of friends, and make overtures in such directions. Take it easy.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Many situations occur in the outside world that will give you a chance to get ahead in a more modern way.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY, he or she will have a fine imagination and advanced practical ideas, and will catch the eye of bigwigs who can pave the way to big success in life. Your progeny will do things differently from others, so do nothing to change this.

Party leaders view session differently

By MARY STEVENSON
The Associated Press

BOISE — Gov. John Evans says it was "frustrating." The head of the Senate Republicans gives it an "A," but the leader of the Senate Democrats only gives it a "C."

They're all talking about the 1984 session of the Idaho Legislature, which adjourned Saturday in its 83rd day after numerous battles over reapportionment, water rights, education, and other issues.

"It's been a frustrating session," said Evans, whose Democratic Party is a minority in the House and the Senate.

"The major achievement has been for education, but I'm disappointed."

Evans lauded the passage of a public education reform bill that contains $20.3 million to raise the pay of teachers and school administrators, but he lamented the two major education funding bills lawmakers left him, saying that $226 million for public schools and $78 million for higher education aren't enough to maintain programs.

Evans hasn't acted on the bills and said it would be difficult to veto them. But he warned that they force public school districts to dig into the teachers' pension money to use in their budgets.

Evans predicted that the education question, and other things that have disappointed him, like the Legislature's failure to create a Department of Commerce, will be issues in this election year.

He said he won't come to a decision on a last-minute reapportionment bill the Legislature passed until Monday or Tuesday, but said it will be hard to veto because of the strong support it had.

A high point of the session for Evans was passage of legislation reversing the effects of a state Supreme Court ruling and heading off massive increases in power rates.

He also praised the emergency winter feeding program for wild game during this year's unusually harsh winter, an effort that included increased funding for the state Department of Fish and Game.

Senate President Pro Tem James Risch, R-Boise, who gives this session an "A," said, "We probably had some of the toughest problems that have ever faced a Legislature."

He declined to choose the high and low points of the session, but said, "I think everything was acted on that needed to be acted on."

Risch said lawmakers faced "a shortage of money in a time when we were trying to reform the educational system," but said, "I think the people of Idaho can be very satisfied."

He cited the public education reform bill and the 1-cent sales tax increase as important actions the Legislature took.

Senate Minority Leader Kermit Kiebert, D-Hope, gave the session a "C."

But he said a major accomplishment was that "We finally got reapportioned at the 11th hour."

"We've made some great strides in education," Kiebert said, adding that "We were somewhat of a failure dealing with the hazardous waste question."

He said funding for education was a disappointment, but praised the education reform bill.

Potato demand is changing

REXBURG (AP) — Fast-food restaurants' demand for baking potatoes could lead to an oversupply of spuds that don't meet the restaurants' size requirements, a Rexburg farmer says.

But Gary Ball says that's not a big problem, considering when Wendy's hamburger chain appears to be doing for the Idaho potato industry.

In the long run, restaurant demand for bakers will stabilize the industry, says Ball, a grower and vice president of the National Potato Council.

In a typical crop of potatoes, only about 3 percent are the 10-ounce size wanted by Wendy's, which is plow-neering the use of baked potatoes as fast food.

"We'll have burdensome supplies in all the other sizes," Ball says. But growers think the rejects can be marketed, and they're urging other fast-food chains to choose a smaller size potato if they add spuds as a menu item.

Wendy's began marketing its stuffed potatoes in October and says they account for up to 20 percent of the chain's food sales.

"I think the potato is going to be with Wendy's for years," says Dale Nagy, the chain's franchise president for Idaho.

Ball expects fast-food marketing to increase consumption of potatoes nationwide. He also expects Americans to increase the quantity of potatoes they eat during the summer.

Farmers will have to research ways to improve their crops so more of the tubers, which are produced here, are marketable, he said.

Sheriff cites faults in jails

REXBURG (AP) — Madison County Sheriff Lionel Koon says towns and counties across America share common problems involving inadequate jails, treatment of juvenile offenders and medical care for indigents.

Koon, president of the Idaho Association of Counties, ought to know.

On his way to a National Association of Counties conference in Washington, D.C., he got a firsthand look at the way local governments try to deal with those concerns.

Koon said he stopped in small towns along his route, talked to businessmen and read local newspapers.

He found substantial jails in most of the towns he visited.

Diet Pill Breakthrough

New Proven

Diet Pill Gives

Fast Weight Loss

Pill Works Without Dieting

SANTA BARBARA, CA (Exclusive) An amazing new diet pill has been developed that has proved remarkably effective. This fantastic pill allows you to lose 10-20-30 pounds and more — easily and quickly. Best of all, you can eat your favorite foods and still lose pound after pound, starting from the very first day until you achieve your desired weight.

No Dieting Necessary

According to the manufacturer, the pill does all the work. There are NO special menus to follow, NO calorie counting, NO exercise and NO hunger pangs.

Nutri-Thin contains no drugs, caffeine or preservatives. Take the pill with a glass of water before each meal and the amazing combination of powerful ingredients is so effective that weight loss actually begins immediately.

Papain and Daily Vitamins

The unique and powerful blend of ingredients is what makes this pill so successful. Nutri-Thin contains Papain, the natural digestive enzyme of papaya. Papain works in the digestive system to aid and greatly accelerate the digestion of food you eat. It contains a substance to help eliminate bloating and puffiness, and in addition it is fortified with 100% of the recommended U.S. Government Daily Vitamin requirements necessary for health and energy.

Amazing Glucomannan

Nutri-Thin contains an effective amount of "Glucomannan," a natural dietary fiber used in Japan for over 1500 years. Glucomannan expands in our stomach and gives you a full and satisfied feeling all day long. It increases metabolism and thus speeds up the burning of excess fat at a rate that will amaze you.

Reports indicate fast and easy weight loss from formerly overweight people who are now slim and attractive again.

Nutri-Thin Now Available

Order directly from the manufacturer by mail. Send $12 for a 15-day supply, $20 for a 30-day supply, or $35 for the economy 60-day supply. Send cash, check or money order, plus $1 postage and handling to: Nutri-Thin Products, 32 West Anapamu, Dept. 12-B, Santa Barbara, CA 93101. VISA OR MASTERCARD OK. Send card number, expiration date and signature. FOR FASTER SERVICE, CALL TOLL FREE: 1-800-824-7888, OPERATOR 376 (For credit card orders only.) Unconditional money-back guarantee if not completely satisfied.

Michigan marches to 6th win in row

By The Associated Press

Novo Bojovic booted four field goals as the unbeaten Michigan Panthers shot down the San Antonio Gunslingers 26-10 in a United States Football League game Sunday in Pontiac, Mich.

Bojovic hit from 30, 22, 43 and 40 yards as the Panthers posted their sixth straight victory this season and 12th consecutive over the last two years.

However, the victory was a costly one for the Panthers, who lost star wide receiver Anthony Carter with a broken left arm in the second quarter. The University of Michigan All-American will be out indefinitely.

Terry Miller added a 16-yard run for Michigan while quarterback Bobby Hebert fired a 19-yard TD pass to rookie Walter Broughton midway through the final quarter to ice the game after San Antonio pulled to within 16-10.

Bojovic gave the Panthers a 5-0 lead on a 22-yard possession, capping a 74-yard, 11-play drive with a 50-yard boot. Running back John Williams rushed six times in the drive for 47 yards.

Miller made it 10-0 in the second quarter, sweeping left and to score from 20 yards on two plays after Carter was hurt making a 22-yard pass reception.

Bojovic's second field goal made it 13-0. Hebert connected from 43 yards on the last play of the half.

Bojovic added a 40-yard field goal late in the fourth quarter, while Nick Mike-Mayer hit a 33-yarder for San Antonio, 1-5, in the final quarter.

USFL

Pittsburgh, 28, Oakland 14 In Pittsburgh, Glenn Carano threw three touchdowns passes to Jackie Flowers to lead the Pittsburgh Maulers to a victory over the winless Oakland Invaders.

Flowers, playing his second game for Pittsburgh since being acquired in a trade, caught five passes for 140 yards as the Maulers, 2-4, registered their first home victory.

Denver 17, Arizona 7 In Denver, fullback Harry Sydney rushed for 111 yards and a clinching fourth-quarter touchdown, and a swarming Denver defense shut down one of the USFL's most potent attacks as the Gold-drafted Arizona Wranglers.

In the key Pacific Division matchup witnessed by 31,669 fans, Denver raised its record to 5-1 and took a two-game lead over Arizona, which fell to 3-3.

Philadelphia 28, Tampa Bay 24 In Philadelphia, Kevin Bryant, recovering from a leg injury that kept him out of practice all week, ran for 114 yards and three touchdowns as the Philadelphia Stars defeated the Tampa Bay Hillbillies.

The Stars rolled to a 21-0 halftime lead and took advantage of three bandit turnovers in the second half as they improved to 5-1 before a crowd of 30,270.

Memphis 27, Jacksonville 14 In Memphis, Tennessee, rookie quarterback Walter Lewis and kicking specialist Alan Duncan provided the bulk of the offense in the Memphis Showboats' victory over the Jacksonville Bulls Saturday night.

Lewis threw for two touchdowns and ran for another before Duncan's 32-yard field goal on the last play of the game enabled the Showboats to prevail.

CSI women shine, but not Eagle men

OGDEN, Utah — The College of Southern Idaho women's team had several strong performances Saturday, but CSI men's team was a disappointment at the Weber State Invitational track meet.

Bolestered by freshman Macie Miller, the Golden Eagle women placed fourth in the eight-hurdle race with 26 points. Weber State won with 78 points; while Brigham Young had 77 and Utah State 35.

But the CSI men scored just 5 points, finishing last in a seven-team field.

Miller won the long jump with a leap of 18 feet, 3/4 inches, finished second in the triple jump with 38-11/4, took third in the 100-meter hurdles in 15.61 seconds and ran a leg in the 400 relay team that placed third in 48.85.

Angela Knight finished second in the open 400 in 58.37, while Mary Reed took fifth in the long-jump-judition with 47 points.

CSI will host its invitational meet next Saturday in Brain Stadium with a 10-event field and three events in the women's competition.

BSU sweeps tri-meet with ISU, Montana

BOISE (AP) — Boise State University took advantage of the home turf advantage Saturday as the Broncos swept both men's and women's team titles in a three-way track and field meet with Idaho State University and the University of Montana.

The men's team won with Boise State 61, Montana 67 and Idaho State 51. In women's competition it was Boise State 71, Montana 61, Idaho State 37.

BSU men took six first-place finishes to four each for Montana and ISU. The Bronco women also won six events.

Meet records were set in men's competition by BSU's Jake Jacobs in the high jump, 7-foot 2 1/4 inches; Peter Held in the 100-meters, 10.52; Dan Tarter in the discus, 169-feet 10 inches.

Montana's Scott Zanon in the javelin, 215 feet; Bryant Bannister, unattached, in the 400-meter high hurdles, 52.54; and Montana's Gordon Rutenber in the 5,000-meter run, 14:53.87.

In women's competition, meet records were set by ISU's Tina Ostro in the 5,000-meter run, 17:41.02; the BSU 4x100-meter relay team, 47.52; Montana's Lucia Wanders in the 1,500-meter relay, 4:42.41; Montana's Shawna Hanley in the javelin, 141-feet 2 inches; Montana's Sherry Dodge in the discus, 146-feet 3 1/4 inches; BSU's Debbie Florke in the 200-meters, 25.82; the Montana 4x900-meter relay team, 3:54.20; Montana's Gina Castagna in the 400 meters, 58.18; and ISU's Tonya Scarborough in the high jump, 5-feet 8 inches.

While there are a lot of underdogs dominating the Oakley girls' squad this year, Coach Bruce Beckie is counting on senior Leslie Bedke to be tough in the low hurdles this year. Bedke won the district title in the 300 IM's last spring with a time of 49.7. Senior Cheryl Sever will participate in the distance events for the Hornets.

Dave Pickett and Gus Gorringer are the only two seniors back for Oakley's boys team from last year. Pickett will be a distance runner, while Gorringer will run the sprint.

Junior Steve Buckley and sophomore John Oldham will compete in the field events for Oakley.

Next: Glenns Ferry, Shoshone, Gooding State, Wendell, Richfield, Hamlet, Castledale, Hageman, Dietrich, Bliss, Gooding.

THE ACES[®] BOBBY WOLFF

WOLFF

THE "learned is happy, nature to explore, the fool is happy that he knows no more."
— Alexander Pope

Which of his long minor suits should South develop first? If the answer comes quickly, look again. A trap may lie behind either door. South Larks East's spade king with his ace and leads the diamond jack for a losing finesse. Back comes a spade to knock out South's queen and it's over quickly. South can't right-trick twice when East wins. In first club, the defenders collect a total of five tricks for one down.

Wrong suit first? Let's try clubs. South wins the bid and leads a club to dummy's king and East's ace. A spade comes back and South tries to run the clubs. No luck there, so he tries the diamonds. South wins the bid and leads the diamond jack for a losing finesse. Back comes a spade to knock out South's queen and it's over quickly. South can't right-trick twice when East wins. In first club, the defenders collect a total of five tricks for one down.

It's right to play diamonds first, but in a different way. East's takeout double is a warning. This is a high card suit and South should make use of that information. After the first spade, South should lead a diamond. East will lead a club. South can't right-trick twice when East wins. In first club, the defenders collect a total of five tricks for one down.
