Burley firms blaze

By BOB FREUND
Times-News writer

BURLEY — Flames shot through the roof of a quarter block complex of stores at the main corner in downtown Burley Tuesday night as firefighters battled a raging blaze.

The fire, which apparently started in the basement of K & K Magagnoli and Englehart Appliances, had been burning for more than four hours by press time and still was not under control at 10:30 p.m., according to fire officials.

Smoke billowed thick and high into the air from the moment the fire was reported by a passerby at 5:45 p.m. Fire departments from Burley, Rupert and Paul sent nearly 50 men to the scene and at least a dozen pieces of firefighting equipment.

Hoses stretched from throughout town to the two buildings involved.

Several hundred onlookers watched firefighters struggle against the flames, which grew from the basement of the building.

Firefighters perched in a snarlle poured jets of water into the second story on one side while hoses poured water in from several sides at ground level.

Inside the flaming businesses, the heat was intense.

"It's so darn hot it burns your ears and your hands," said one blackened Burley firefighter as he emerged from the flames, with his oxygen tank strapped to his back.

The smoke was so dense and the building was so dark, he said, that firefighters could barely see.

At about 9:30 p.m., Fire Chief Russell Vaughn said the fire was still not close to being under control.

"We've got a whole quarter block of building involved."

"We're still trying to get it," he said just before the roof erupted into flames.

Vaughn said two firefighters appar-

BOISE — George Hansen says he's the victim of "a gross miscarriage of justice."

And although he won't say if he will seek re-election to an eighth term as Idaho's 2nd District congressman, at least two Idaho Republicans are considering launching last-minute candidacies, should Hansen decide to hang it up.

"I will submit to the judgment of the citizens of Idaho on the underhanded insinuations that I have misused my office for personal gains," Hansen said Tuesday.

He said he always has considered himself a populist, and the public response to his conviction will help him decide whether to again do battle for his seat.

"So far the response has been very strong, very positive," he said in a telephone interview from his office in Washington, D.C.

Hansen said he will confer with party leaders, the public and Idaho's all-Republican congressional delegation before deciding whether to run again.

Hansen said late Tuesday that he will announce his decision today.

Hansen will have an extra week to make up his mind. A bill signed into law by Gov. John Evans Monday extends the filing period for Idaho's May 22 primary election from Friday to April 13.

Two state legislators — Sen. Dane Watkins, R-Idaho Falls and Rep. Bob Geddes, R-Preston — have expressed interest in the post. Watkins says he has nominating petitions for the seat circulating but says he won't oppose Hansen should the Congressman decide to seek re-election.

The seven-term senator, who chairs the Local Government and Taxation Committee, says if he chooses to run he should not be viewed as a "political opportunist."

"I'm not really out soliciting at this time," Watkins says. "I've got people who are coming to me and asking me if George doesn't run will you take it on?"

The only announced candidate for the Republican nomination for the post, Jerome County Prosecutor Dan Adamson, said Monday that any new candidates who rush into the race will be viewed by voters as political opportunists.

Watkins disagrees: "I think the people who are coming to me would like to see the seat remain Republican."

Sen. Adamson's assistant majority leader in the state House of Representatives, says he's considering running for the post but hasn't made a decision.

"As far as I'm concerned it would be the culmination of six months of encouragement — and, yes, if they want to call it that — it would be the opportunity," he said. Geddes called Hansen's odds of winning back his seat "slim."

Ethics committee to launch inquiry

By LARRY MARGASAK
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Rep. George V. Hansen, R-Idaho, convicted of filing false financial disclosure forms to Congress, now faces a preliminary inquiry by the House ethics committee.

The panel, formally the Committee on Standards of Official Conduct, must make a preliminary investigation to determine whether House rules of conduct were violated and whether a formal disciplinary proceeding should take place.

Under committee rules, an initial inquiry must be held if a House member has been convicted of a criminal offense that carries a sentence of at least one year in prison.

The committee's chief counsel, John Davison, would not comment on whether the inquiry has begun.

The inquiry would review the evidence against Hansen and determine whether it constitutes a violation over which the committee has authority. If such a violation is found, the formal disciplinary proceeding would take place.

Eventually, the panel could recommend a punishment to the House.

that could include a reprimand, a censure that requires the member to appear before the entire House, or expulsion.

Meanwhile, Hansen said he was conferring with his wife and "others whose judgment I respect," including Idaho Republican Party leaders, before deciding whether to run for another term in Congress.

Hansen legislative aide Jim McKenna said the congressman also has not decided whether to continue voting in the House.

The House code of conduct says a congressman "should refrain from voting on any question" if convicted of a crime punishable by at least two years imprisonment. But Hansen would not be required to stop voting.

"We don't want to do anything outside the standard procedure," McKenna said.

No sentencing date has been set for Hansen, who faces a maximum of five years imprisonment and a $10,000 fine on each of the four counts in the conviction.

The U.S. District Court jury made Hansen the first official to be convicted of violating the 1976 Ethics in Government Act.

Mondale sweeps New York

By DAVID ESPRO
The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Walter F. Mondale trounced Sen. Gary Hart Tuesday in the New York primary.

By doing so, he regained command in the quest for the Democratic presidential nomination. The Rev. Jesse Jackson had an overwhelming black vote and ran a strong third.

"For some reason, I love New York," Mondale told elated supporters at a Manhattan hotel. "I'll never forget what you did for me today, because in the words of the song, I know that if I can make it here, I can make it anywhere."

The richest and most bitterly contested election to date wasn't even close. Hart acted appraised his defeat by saying that Mondale "got me down to his level" in the campaign debate. "He won't do that again," he vowed.

Hart did not congratulate Mondale, saying "I still love New York and New York is going to love us next fall." He added: "This campaign goes on to Pennsylvania (next week), it goes on to Nebraska, to Oregon, to Texas and to California. And with your help, it goes on to San Francisco, site of the Democratic National Convention."

Mondale led 135 national convention delegates, Hart for 72 and Jackson 45. The former vice president began the day with 728.25 delegates to 440 for Hart and 93.50 for Jackson. It takes 1,967 to win nomination.

"We had a very good day today in New York," Mondale said with satisfaction. "Apparently we did well across the board." Mondale was pulling in 45 percent of the vote, to Hart's 27 percent. Jackson had 25 percent.

In Wisconsin's non-binding primary, Hart led Mondale 45 percent to 42 percent with 66 percent of the precincts counted.

In New York, Hart had expected to run neck-and-neck with Mondale. Instead he was in a close contest for second place with Jackson. TV network interviews indicated Jackson had won about 80 percent of the black vote.

"Our campaign must be taken much more seriously now," said Jackson. "We've run a good campaign. We did not get involved in the personality clashes."

Mondale put together an impressive showing with Jewish voters and voters from union households. NBC's poll showed Mondale had a 2-10 margin over Hart among Jewish voters.

"In New York, they (the Hart campaign) spent maybe three times, maybe four times as much money as we did," Mondale said. "But Americans weren't looking at that. Citizens of New York were asking that key question (who would make a better president) and I think that's why we won."

Mondale, forced by a federal spending limit to conserve funds for the primaries and caucuses still ahead, relied heavily on labor support and backing from Gov. Mario Cuomo and New York Mayor Ed Koch to guide his campaign.

Idaho teachers won't receive equal pay raises

By ANNETTE CARY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — All teachers will not be getting the same pay raise from the Legislature's appropriation of $20.3 million for higher salaries.

Questions of whether local school boards will use their share of the appropriation entirely for pay raises aside, the districts will not be receiving the money according to the number of teachers they have on staff.

According to research by the Idaho Education Association, the amount each school will receive per teacher will vary widely, with one Idaho school, Swan Valley, receiving twice as much money per teacher as Selma.

In the Magic Valley, Dietrich stands to receive the most money per teacher, $2,863, followed by Bliss with $2,559 according to IEA estimates. At the bottom of the Magic Valley scale is Blaine County school district, estimated to receive $1,813 per teacher and Camas County with $1,859, according to estimates.

The money will be distributed by State Board of Education determined funding units called support units. "A support unit is determined by the average daily attendance of the school, divided by a number determined mostly by school size.

For instance, an elementary school with 300 students attending are granted a support unit, roughly equaling a classroom size, for every 23 students. But a school with 289 students receives credit for a support unit for every 20 students.

The result will be that, for the most part, small schools or those that hire more teachers per pupil than their number of support units would indicate, will get less money per teacher.

Researcher Rob Nicholson says the IEA estimates are based on the current number of support units and teachers at each school, but those variables could change by next year. He also bases his figures on an estimate that $2.015 will be distributed per support unit.

That may be a little high, according to State Superintendent of Public Instruction Jerry Evans' estimate. He figures the amount will be about $2 less.

Twin Falls schools fall in the middle range for money estimated to receive per teacher, $2,066. But Assistant Superintendent Carl Snow guessed that the district will fall below the middle because six to eight more teachers may be hired, partly to meet new statewide graduation requirements.

He says distributing the $20.3 million according to the number of students in a school would be fairer.

Blaine County Superintendent Dick Jones was also critical of the support unit funding method, although he said he did not want to look a gift horse in the mouth.

Because his school is well-staffed — there are 107 teachers for the 96.3 designated support units — there will be less money to spread among the teachers.

"A school like ours that is forging ahead and trying to achieve excellence in education is penalized for it," he says.

But Dietrich Superintendent Wayne Perron thinks the money will be equitably distributed. The most a teacher can earn on the Dietrich pay scale is $17,538, just barely above the statewide average of $17,549.

The $20.3 million was appropriated to bring the average teacher salary to the nationwide average of $20,603 over the next two years, with 60 percent of the pay hike to be granted in the coming year.

Perron sees the distribution as a way to bring his teacher salaries up to the level they should be, compared to districts like Blaine County.

"I have no feelings like I'm making anything from anyone else," Perron says. "Teachers should be able to teach where they want to and make a comparable wage."

But Blaine County has the highest cost of living rate in the state, Jones says. "If it puts us in a precarious position when small schools offer rather massive raises," he adds.

All schools in the Magic Valley that will be receiving the most money per teachers pay the lowest wages now. Valley School teachers, who are allotted the third most money, make more on the average than Gooding teachers, who came in 19th in estimated raises according to IEA estimates.

Of particular concern to administrators at some of the schools falling near the bottom of the estimated funding list, is that they are more likely to have depended on override levies to pay for school programs and teacher salaries this year.

Blaine, ranked 21st in Magic Valley according to IEA estimates — Camas ranked 20th, Shoshone, 19th, Kimberly, 14th, and Cassia County, 8th. All operated on money from override levies this year.

Briefly

Terrorism defense mandatory

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State George P. Shultz said Tuesday the United States and its allies must engage in an "active defense" against state-sponsored terrorism, which he called "a weapon of unconventional war against democratic societies."

Second skeleton identified

SEATTLE (AP) — The second of four skeletons found earlier this week was identified Tuesday as a teen-ager on a police list of possible victims of the Green River killer, who may have murdered as many as 30 young women, investigators say.

The remains were identified by dental records as those of Sandra K. Gabbert, 17, of Seattle, reported missing in April 1983. The skeleton of a second young woman on the list — Terri Rene Milligan, 16, of Seattle, reported missing in August 1982 — was identified Monday.

Both died of "homicidal violence" of undetermined origin, said Vaughn Van Zant, an investigator in the King County medical examiner's office. He said it was likely each girl died shortly after she disappeared.

Judge rules for equal pay

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge said Tuesday the government must pay women in the civil service system the same as men with the same duties and responsibilities, regardless of where they are located.

Margaret Mary Grumble, a regional counsel of the Central Service Employees Union in Baltimore, said the Treasury Department before she was classified as a GS-14 and the agency's eight other regional counsels, as well as her immediate predecessor, all made more than GS-15.

A GS-14 has a starting salary of $42,722 a year, while a GS-15 begins at $50,252 per year.

Shuttle crew reaches cape

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Five astronauts who will fly the high-speed shuttle Challenger on Tuesday as the launch team prepared for a countdown that will send Challenger on a bold satellite rescue and repair mission.

"The satellite is up there, all ready for us to go get it," said George Nelson, top representative of the crew. Crew members in three F-38 jets from their training base at the Johnson Space Center in Houston.

Nelson has the risky assignment of flying free of the orbiting shuttle, maneuvering with a jet-powered backpack to capture the disabled payload.

Hart picks up a delegate

HARTFORD, Mont. (AP) — The final count of Montana's Democratic caucus showed that Gary Hart picked up another delegate, a state Democratic Party official said Tuesday.

The final count showed that Hart captured 12 of the 19 votes that were at stake in the March 25 county caucuses and Mondale received 7, Tony Jewett, party executive secretary, said.

The unofficial results had shown Hart with 11 votes and Mondale with 8.

Naval officers to converse

WASHINGTON (AP) — A U.S. Navy delegation will meet with Soviet admirals in Moscow next month for discussions aimed at heading off potentially explosive incidents at sea between their powerful navies, Defense Department officials said Tuesday.

High on the Moscow agenda will be the incident Monday in which the 37,000-ton Soviet carrier Minsk fired eight signal flares at the 3,900-ton U.S. frigate Harold Holt in the South China Sea.

The flares which struck the Holt did not cause structural damage to the frigate or injuries to its crew, said these officials, who spoke only on condition that they not be identified.

Cruise missile test success

DUGWAY PROVING GROUND, Utah (AP) — A cruise missile was successfully launched from the ground Tuesday, the 12th such firing of the computer-guided weapon and the 10th to go off without a hitch, the Air Force announced.

The cruise missile is an intermediate range, jet-propelled winged missile with an advanced laser guidance system, said Maj. Keith Folger, project coordinator. The low-flying device, which has a range of up to 2,000 miles and a top speed of up to 400 mph, could carry a nuclear payload.

The missile, whose launch was postponed Monday due to wet and windy weather, successfully navigated a 900-mile course, Folger said.

Smith to remain in cabinet

WASHINGTON (AP) — William French Smith, serving as attorney general until a successor is confirmed by the White House, will remain in the cabinet, Larry Speakes, chief White House spokesman, said Smith agreed to Reagan's request during a brief meeting in the Oval Office.

The attorney general was known to be anxious to return to his California law practice, as well as to take an active role in the president's re-election campaign. However, he has been blocked from leaving by the problems White House counsel Edwin Meese III has run into in winning Senate confirmation as Smith's replacement.

ently suffered smoke inhalation but he knew of no other injuries.

"As the flames engulfed the building, fire officials worried about the possibility of a natural gas explosion."

They pushed crowds back 200 feet. A 70-year-old Burley woman, Doreen Winchel, discovered the blaze at about 5:45 p.m.

She said she saw smoke coming up through the floor in the television shop. She went to the nearby Harris Theater and told Clifford Gowen, also of Burley, to turn in an alarm.

When he checked the blaze, the store front was thick with smoke. Despite efforts by firefighter to cool down the blaze, a neighboring building, the Harris Theater, started to burn.

Randy Kloor, who owns K and K with his father, wife and mother, said his service shop was located in the basement of the building.

A hail downpour connects the businesses in the building. "It is kind of a honeycomb, kind of a maze, down there," he said.

The business is seven years old. He and members of his family would like to buy the building from a safe distance.

Although they have fire insurance, "We'll just basically have to wait and see what happens," he said about the future.

Late Tuesday night it appeared that the L-shaped building would be close to a total loss.

That building was wrapped around an old building, the former Bank of America, at the intersection of Main Street and Overland Avenue.

Midway through the fire, the former bank building, which now houses the Lone Trail Art Studio and Gallery, appeared safe from the flames.

However, as the hours wore on, the flames also appeared to spread to the unprotected roof of the gallery. By that time though, much of the damage appeared to have been done.

The gallery had housed many delicate art pieces.

"Doreen, who owns the two-and-a-half-year-old business with his wife, Glena, said smoke already had done damage to many of the works of art inside.

"A lot of the merchandise we had was consigned by other people," he said.

The two buildings that make up the quarter block are owned by Carolyn Hessler and her aunt.

Her business, the L-shaped building where the fire erupted, include the Side Pocket, a used merchandise store, the Mint Bar, and one vacant business. On the second floor was a law office and vacant offices.

REP. BOB GEDESSES

Not an 'opportunist'

No decision yet

Hansen

"If I can move in and carry the party banner and get some broad-based support that would be one thing," Geddes says. "I'm not going to get in a race with a half dozen people at this time," he adds.

Hansen was convicted Monday by a federal court jury on four counts of violating federal personal financial disclosure laws. Sentencing date has not yet been set, pending a decision on defense motions.

Hansen said he was conferring with his wife and "others whose judgment I respect" before deciding his political future.

Earlier, state GOP Chairman Dennis Olsen said Hansen was strongly considering not running again. And a local Republican official in Hansen's home town, Pocatello, said Hansen should "seriously consider" the impact on the party and the state if he runs again.

Olsen said his comments do not imply that he, as party chairman, is pushing Hansen into a decision. The decision to seek re-election is up to Hansen, he said, and the advice he has given the congressman is that he should appeal.

"It is a technical violation of a law designed to avoid influence peddling or taking money and giving in return benefits to the donor. I don't think there is any indication that occurred."

There is no indication George Hansen worked to the detriment of the constituents, Olsen said.

Tony Madson, chairman of the Blaine County GOP Central Committee, said Hansen "owes it to the state" to "seriously take a look at the impact of these actions and see what is best for the state."

"Clearly, from purely a political standpoint to avoid influence peddling with the way things are happening," Madson said.

Bannock County Democratic Central Committee Chairman B. Lynn Winnill said the conviction "might bring some sanity" to 2nd District politics.

"Maybe this will be the final expression of how Hansen has been an embarrassment for the state," Winnill said.

President designates Mother's Day

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan on Tuesday designated May 13 as Mother's Day, saying "Almost every woman in our nation looks forward to the rewards and joys of motherhood without overlooking the long-term effort that raising children demands."

In a written proclamation, the president said, "We are grateful to mothers for their willingness to give of themselves for their children's well-being to avoid influence peddling or taking money and giving in return benefits to the donor. I don't think there is any indication that occurred."

of themselves for their children's well-being in their offspring, for their love, for being wellsprings of hope, and for all the support they lend to us throughout life."

In a separate proclamation, Reagan designated the month of April as National Child Abuse Prevention Month.

Hart said he would contest the later primaries with a more positive campaign style. If the bruising New York primary "proves anything, it is that he got me down to his level. And he's not going to do that again," the Colorado senator said.

Wisconsin Democrats' "beauty contest" primary came in advance of next Saturday's caucus when 78 convention delegates will be elected.

NBC News said voter interviews indicated Mondale was running strongly among Democrats, but "If Hart wins, it will be because of his edge among Republican voters voting in the Democratic primary." Cross-over votes are permitted in Wisconsin.

President Reagan was piling up 84 percent of the vote in the Wisconsin GOP Primary. Reagan has 6 percent. There was no GOP ballot in New York.

Hart said in advance that the New York primary was not that critical to his chances for the nomination. But one aide, Frank Maniewicz, said a Mondale margin of 10 percentage points or more would be a "significant victory."

With 94 percent of the vote in it, Wisconsin, 593,433 or 45 percent. Hart, 358,972, 27 percent. Jackson, 337,495, 25 percent.

Lava stream slows

VOJCANO, Hawaii (AP) — Lava erupting from the volcano Mauna Loa appeared to be branching out in new directions Tuesday, possibly easing or delaying the threat to the city of Hilo.

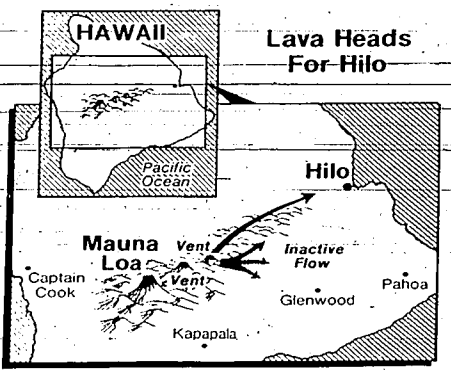

The longest flow has stopped within 5 miles of the city.

"There seems to be multiple flows developing, and that's good because it helps to spread the lava," said Robert Decker, scientist in charge of the U.S. Geological Survey's Hawaiian Volcano Observatory.

The new flows appeared to be forming from a lava pond at about the 6,000-foot level of the 13,677-foot-high volcano, and it did not appear to pose a potential hazard to Hilo, biggest city on the island of Hawaii with a population of 40,000.

"They are just minor break-ages" from the lava pond, said Jon Erickson, spokesman for Hawaii Volcanoes National Park.

Residents of the Kaunama area of Hilo, which could be threatened by the lava, said the uncertainty is taking its toll.

Irene McNichol, who lives alone in the neighborhood, said the suspense since the volcano erupted a week ago Sunday has made her lose sleep.

"The flow seems to get closer every night," she said. "The frightening thing is the flow, you can't see it during the day, but at night, oh boy."

Decker had said the volcano was putting out a "remarkably steady" amount of lava and said lava could directly threaten homes in Kaunama in the next several days if the eruption continued at that rate.

Scientists spotted the newest activity while flying over the area early Tuesday, but the weather was hampering additional observations.

"Weather conditions are deteriorating rapidly, there is cloud cover and high winds," said Kapa Maly, a Hawaii Volcanoes National Park spokesman.

Senate rejects aid cuts

By W. DALE NELSON
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Senate rejected efforts Tuesday to withhold all or part of President Reagan's $61.7-million military aid package for El Salvador until courts in that country obtain verdicts in the murders of four churchwomen and two labor advisers from the United States.

The lawmakers rejected by a 69-24 vote an amendment by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., to hold back 15 percent of the funds until there is a verdict in the slaying of two AFL-CIO representatives named down as they dined in a San Salvador hotel in 1981.

The labor officials were advisers to the Salvadorans on land reform.

The Senate then shelved by a vote of 53-39 an amendment by Sen. Arlen Specter, R-Pa., to hold back 30 percent of the funds pending a verdict in the murders of the four churchwomen in December, 1980. This vote also killed an alternative by Sens. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., and Christopher Dodd, D-Conn., to withhold all the money until there was a verdict.

Specter, a former federal prosecutor, voted to shelve the Kennedy amendment, saying the labor advisers' case was "a very complicated matter" but the case or the churchwomen was clear-cut.

"There is absolutely no reason why this case could not have been brought to trial long ago," he told the Senate.

Kennedy supported Specter's amendment, saying a similar provision was adopted last fall when Congress approved $65 million in military aid for El Salvador in the current fiscal year.

By rejecting Specter's amendment, Kennedy said, Congress "will be declaring that although it withheld the funds last year we are going to add more money this year to make up for it."

Kennedy's defeat on the issue of the labor advisers' case was his second in two days in the El Salvador debate. On Monday, the Senate rejected 60-25 his bid to slash the aid to $21 million.

Bill rewarding cutbacks in wheat plantings sent to Reagan's desk

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House passed and sent to President Reagan on Tuesday a bill rewarding wheat farmers who agree to limit their production this year and next, and doing the same for producers of other commodities in 1985.

The action came on a 374-11 vote approving a compromise that had been worked out between House and Senate negotiators last week. The Senate had ratified the measure late Monday.

A spokesman for Agriculture Secretary John Brock said Reagan was expected to sign the bill quickly. The Agriculture Department then will require for two weeks the period when wheat farmers can sign up for the revised 1984 price support program.

A handful of House Democrats complained that changes in the compromise approved Tuesday were unfair to growers of certain commodities and were merely political window dressing.

Rep. Glenn English, D-Okla., said the Reagan administration had opposed initial efforts to rewrite the commodity program, "until some senators began to waver about its election impact."

Rep. Tom Harkin, D-Iowa, who is running for the Senate in his state, said the measure was "a cruel hoax that offers no help to financially distressed farmers."

The bill began as an effort by some senators to improve the wheat price support program for 1984 and 1985. At the same time, the administration wanted to save $3 billion by freezing target price supports, the price farmers are guaranteed for their crops.

By encouraging farmers not to plant part of their land, the bill could help avert a potentially serious, price-depressing wheat surplus before Election Day on Nov. 6.

The measure includes a politically attractive feature that would give farmers advance payment this year of half their expected land-lending payments for 1985. That means government checks would arrive in the weeks just before the elections.

Blizzard buries plains

The Associated Press

A blizzard buried the buds of spring under as much as 2 feet of snow from Colorado to South Dakota on Tuesday. It trapped thousands of travelers in the plains, including scores who were stranded overnight in stalled cars and trucks.

Rescuers on snowblowers fought head-high snowdrifts on the lonely highways of eastern Colorado, looking for marooned motorists, and some local residents were reported missing, including the superintendent of Elizabeth public schools and a woman who left her home in Last Chance at noon Monday and hadn't been seen since.

The snowstorm was blamed for two deaths on Wyoming highways earlier in the week.

Five tornadoes touched down in Kansas on Monday night, causing minor damage and thunderstorms in the Southeast had dumped almost 4 inches of rain since Monday in the Louisiana towns of Alexandria and Port Ewell. Up to 3 inches of rain fell Tuesday along the flooding Suwannee River in North Florida.

Schools were closed Tuesday in much of western and central Nebraska, northwestern Kansas, 13 counties in northeastern Colorado, and much of southwestern South Dakota, where up to a foot and a half of snow had fallen. Many interstate highways in the region were barred.

In Mullen, Neb., 2 feet of snow had collected by Tuesday morning, with 14 inches coming down in the 12 hours ending at 7 a.m. In Kimball, Neb., in the southwestern corner of the state, 18 inches was on the ground, all highways were closed, and 600 travelers were waiting out the storm, including many who were taken into private homes.

Winds gusted to 67 mph at Burlington, Colo., where 15 inches of snow was measured, while Broken Bow, Neb., reported 13 inches and Cheney, Wyo., 10 inches. However, only about 3 inches collected in Denver.

Time for GOP to find Hansen replacement

For two weeks, the voters of Idaho have been carefully watching the trial of Rep. George Hansen, reading lengthy news reports and weighing the pro and con evidence as it has emerged.

A verdict is now in, and we believe a corner has been turned in the political history of Idaho and the 2nd District.

The law does not require that Hansen resign, but in our view, the Idaho Republican Party has an obligation to begin the process now of an orderly transition to Hansen's successor.

Time is of the essence. The filing deadline for the May 22 primary is April 13, less than two weeks away. Between now and then, the GOP — particularly its central committee — has the opportunity to come forward with a consensus candidate and, by doing so, can avoid two otherwise probable results:

One is that Hansen, relying on his residual support, will crush young and inexperienced Dan Adamson in the primary; The other is that Hansen, or Adamson, would then lose to Democrat Richard Stallings in the November election.

Historically, the 2nd District has been represented by a Republican in Congress. Occasionally, a Democrat has emerged from Republican divisiveness and held the seat briefly. The GOP then unites and hurls candidates against him until the seat is returned to the GOP fold.

But that pattern is not inevitable. We propose another scenario, in which the central committee, acting for the long-range good of the party, would search throughout the district for quality candidates.

This action presupposes what Idahoans now know: that Hansen is through and that both the party and the people of Idaho should disavow him.

Hansen's troubles are of his own making. It is he, not the party, who has disgraced the seat he has held. It is he, not the party, whose own ineptitude in the management of his personal finances has led to huge personal debts from people who want either access, favors or both.

Reason sometimes deserts desperate men, leading them to desperate acts. So do avarice and inflated self-importance.

Now, we must look ahead to the future. If the GOP is sincerely interested in the district and is not hypnotized by the dying embers of the past, it should now pick up the search for a strong, new candidate with both experience and respect among the people.

The party should serve the people, not one man. It should invest no more energy in saving Hansen or in defending his voting record. Instead, it should be considering how it can present a candidate or candidates in the May primary who can represent the district credibly and honorably.

The district has a Republican heritage, and only the default of inaction will allow it to pass to the Democrats. The GOP can allow that to happen by continuing to stick its head in the sand.

Or it can seize the hour and take positive, progressive steps to find quality candidates, urge one or more of them to run, and provide the backing necessary for a credible campaign.

Most Idahoans, we believe, withheld judgment about Hansen's guilt, relying on the deeply held principle that a man is innocent until proven guilty. Last year, when he lost a series of motions to have the indictments against him dismissed, Hansen said he welcomed the forthcoming trial where he would be vindicated.

This week, after being convicted of four felony counts of violation of the Ethics in Government Act, he took the same tack, saying he looked forward to an appeal.

Some of his most ardent supporters will claim that the trial was flawed. Some will even raise the ugly specter of prejudice, implying that a two-thirds black jury from Washington, D.C. was unfair. Some will blame a zealous prosecutor and perhaps fault Hansen's decision not to testify in his own defense.

But we think most Idahoans reject such arguments. Hansen has had his day in court and been found guilty by a jury. Such jury verdicts are rarely overturned.

At the least, Hansen's conviction has cost him his credibility in Washington. How can he represent the district effectively when he is likely to be perceived as a known influence peddler?

In our view, the people of the 2nd District and their political leadership should look to the future and how the district can best be represented in Washington by an individual who is untainted.

Despite a generally acceptable voting record, Hansen has disgraced us all. He has sullied the seat by secretly accepting hundreds of thousands of dollars in loans from people whose motives are at best suspect.

Worse, he has turned demagogue, seeing a conspiracy against him behind every government tree.

At his best, a politician should articulate constituents' noble ideals, their dreams and their hopes for the future.

Hansen insults the intelligence and integrity of the good people across this broad farming crescent who sent him to Washington to represent our high aspirations.

Yes, some of politics — like some of every profession — is base, mean, cruel and even dirty. Yes, challengers have been trying to pick off Hansen for years.

But that does not justify his intent to hide some $334,000 in what look like personal loans from both the eye of the law and the people of Idaho.

In the past two weeks, we believe, the winds of Hansen's support have changed in the district. The benefit of the doubt has become broad embarrassment and shame.

People see him now as no martyr, but simply a strident politician, ranting about every agency of government with which he comes in contact and communicating with his constituents by a condescending, sixth-grade level comic book.

The people of the 2nd District are waiting now for the Republican Party to take the lead for the transition to a new congressman.

There are times when the future lies with those who will stand up for it. This is one of those times for the 2nd District Republican Party.

Edwards qualified

In the article published on March 30 in The Times-News titled "Coroner calls" opponent Gary Thietlen a Democratic candidate for the office, took some cheap shots for the purpose of gaining political advantage over the present officeholder of the coroner position, but the ironic thing is that Cloyce Edwards, the present coroner, who has held the position for 16 years, has no intention of running for the office for another term.

First of all, Gary Thietlen indicated that the office of coroner has been run dishonestly and unprofessionally. For your information, Mr. Thietlen, the records are for public access if you should care to examine them. In fact, a double record system has been kept for the 16 years Cloyce has been coroner.

Let's compare qualifications, Mr. Thietlen. First your qualifications indicate that you are a registered nurse and work in patient care administration. On the other hand Cloyce's qualifications are as follows:

1. Two years military medical corpsman.
2. One of the first EMTs in the state of Idaho.
3. Eleven years on the police department in Twin Falls — the last eight years in the detective division.
4. Civil defense director for the last 16 years.
5. Graduated from the police law academy.
6. Graduate of the Idaho State College in civil defense management.
7. Only certified Air Medic in the state of Idaho.
8. Graduate of phase 1 and phase 2 career development schools in Spokane, Wash.

9. Received one of the only two merit award citations that was personally presented by Gen. W.F. Wyman for outstanding performance in the line of duty in the Second Division during the Korean War.

10. Chairman of the district board to start the EMS system in the state of Idaho.

11. One-time owner of 11 different ambulance services in the state of Idaho and Nevada.

12. Gary Thietlen stated in the article that the present hospital ambulance service is superior to that of the Magic Valley Ambulance Service under the ownership of Cloyce Edwards for 16 years service, and I don't know why this has to do with the coroner's office, other than just another cheap shot.

Mr. Thietlen, I think the facts speak for themselves. For one thing, private enterprises always can run a business cheaper and better, if managed properly, and that is a proven fact. Out of all those years of service, Cloyce's ambulances never missed passing an inspection. They were kept in better shape in winter and hot garages in summer. Also an ambulance was provided in the Buhl area for all of those 16 years and now the West End residents have none.

two years since he sold. Just wanted to set the record straight and thank the voters for their support in the past years.

MRS. CLOYCE EDWARDS

Arkoosh not judge

Those of us that are old enough to remember the radio and TV programs, Mr. District Attorney, remember very well and somewhat better than these words:

It is my duty as district attorney of this county to prosecute to the limit of the law, all persons committing crimes within this county, and to defend with equal vigor, the rights and privileges of all citizens.

On March 13, Gooding County Prosecuting Attorney John Arkoosh dismissed a criminal case, state of Idaho vs. Kenneth Ellis, slated for a jury trial, the next morning at 10 a.m. Just hours before the fact.

His reason for dismissal was simply reasonable doubt. A later statement that Gary with a news reporter present was "A waste of my time. I have better things to do."

The fact still remains that there were three witnesses standing within 10 feet of where the crime was being committed. Not one of these witnesses was called or talked to by Arkoosh, the county, or the state as to what happened on my property between Ellis and myself that day.

After Arkoosh and the judge found the alleged lost Ellis file and citations, this was the second lost set. Ellis was summoned in on Oct. 18, 1983, where he pleaded not guilty. On Nov. 23, our great county prosecutor wrote the following letter to Mr. Ellis:

Dear Kenny,
It is my understanding that you are delaying any sort of action against you, until such time as you, Mr. Douglas, and Mr. Hill can get together and come up, hopefully, with some solution to the problem. The thought here is that we are looking toward some sort of dismissal of the criminal charges against you.

In the meantime, I am sending a copy of this letter to the clerk of the court with the thought that this matter will be put on the back burner until we have some definite idea where we are going.

Sincerely,
John

This was a criminal case between the state of Idaho and Ellis. Arkoosh should not be contacting the defendant, in order to make deals, get something worked out to get criminal charges dropped against the guilty party. The duty of the prosecutor is to get all the information he can from all witnesses and to present the case to the jury to the best of his ability. They are the ones to decide whether a person is guilty or not in a criminal case. A prosecutor should not be allowed to be the prosecutor, the judge and the jury and dismiss cases because he has better things to do. If this is not right, why do we have laws? Should the biggest and fastest gun still rule in this country.

ARDELL E. HILL,
Hagerman

Odd scenarios shape up for convention

WASHINGTON — Surely, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy (D-Mass.) has refused to run for president more often than any one in history. (Guinness take note.)

Kennedy's latest demurrer might seem oddly out of place, coming in the midst of an increasingly bitter Democratic nomination fight in which he is not involved. But it was occasioned by the growing possibility that neither Walter F. Mondale nor Gary Hart will emerge from the final round of primaries on June 5 with the 1,367 delegates needed to claim the nomination.

Of course, if either candidate is within reach of that figure, bargaining or a bandwagon psychology should push him over the top. (Delegates no longer are bound to vote for the candidate they were chosen to represent.) But the farther the leader is from the magic number, the more difficult it will be to claim the prize before the July convention in San Francisco. "It is," one respected Democratic strategist said, "a very unpredictable and volatile situation."

Asked whether he would accept a draft, Kennedy said no. His name, along with six or seven others, has been raised as a possible compromise choice in the event of a deadlock at the convention. Such a deadlock still is considered unlikely — although not quite so far-fetched a notion as it was last summer, when many experts hooded at the idea that the nomination struggle would go beyond March.

Well, it has, and — unless one candidate sweeps such megastates as New York, Pennsylvania, Texas, and Ohio — there's a reasonable chance that it will continue into that final Super Tuesday, when voters in California, New Jersey, and several smaller states are set to the polls.

After June 5, a situation could exist in which (for example) Mondale led in delegates, but Hart claimed momentum and greater legitimacy, with a larger number of primary victories, an edge in the total popular vote, and a virtual sweep of the final circuit of primaries (California ought to be Hart territory, if he remains in contention by that time). Hart, with support from Jesse Jackson, then would argue that the convention rules had been rigged to give Mondale an artificial delegate edge. To thwart a dark horse movement — whether it emerged after June 5 or late in the primary process — both Hart and Mondale would make the case, which has respect in the party, that the nominee must be someone who slugged it out in the primaries.

TED KENNEDY
Maysay 'no' again

If the Democratic argument continues to San Francisco, a different sort of brokering will occur than the party has known in the past, the Age of Bosses being no more. Among the potential forces that could be expected to claim seats at the bargaining table are Southern white party leaders, blacks, and women.

Led by Georgia's Bert Lance, the Southern children are determined to have a role in any convention showdown, and there has been some talk of putting together an uncommitted bloc. If Mondale can't wrap it up during the primaries, this does not amount so far to a "stop Hart" movement, although

Jerome Watson

The Southerners believe no Democrat can win the presidency without a good showing in the South, and they are skeptical of the Coloradoan. Incidentally, the South, like the West, has gained delegate strength this year at the expense of the East and Midwest.

Jackson has made himself a formidable figure in the party, and whether or not he has a bloc of delegates large enough to play a swing role at the nomination table, he is certain to have what one party official called "moral influence." Jackson will want some changes in party rules and a voice in the platform, which he will want to strengthen on the left. The eventual nominee will want Jackson's enthusiastic support in the fall, when black turnout will be important.

Some party officials believe the most dramatic bargaining role could be played by women, who by official quota constitute half the delegates. The theory is that in a life-and-death struggle for the nomination, Mondale, Hart, a dark horse (or all of the above) might be seen as or seduced into promising the vice presidential nod to a woman.

Frequently named as possible choices for the second spot — although doubters say they lack the necessary stature and experience — are San Francisco Mayor Dianne Feinstein and New York's Geraldine A. Ferraro, an attorney and three-term member of Congress.

Republicans generally are seen as having a larger pool of big-name talent from which to choose a vice presidential nominee, but President Reagan is committed to running again with George Bush, and is unlikely to dump him in a counterattack. Democratic effort to make history and regain the White House by enlarging the gender gap into an unbridgeable chasm for the GOP.

Attorney challenges redistricting plan

By QUANE KENYON
AP Capital Writer

BOISE (AP) — A northern Idaho attorney says the Idaho Supreme Court should void the Legislature's latest redistricting plan, because it is unconstitutional.

Gov. C. Glenn "Al" Emswiler, notified the Supreme Court here on Tuesday that he's seeking a ruling against a redistricting plan signed into law by Gov. John Evans on Monday.

The high court, meeting in northern Idaho this week, immediately set Friday afternoon for a hearing on the plan's validity. The session will be held at the Nez Perce County Courthouse.

And Secretary of State Pete Cenarrusa, Idaho's election chief, said if Emswiler gets a ruling against the plan, the state's scheduled May 22 primary election may have to be postponed at least two weeks.

Up until Monday, Idaho's election officials were working under a court-ordered redistricting plan. It called for a legislature of 126 members, 21 more than at present.

But Evans signed a last-minute compromise redistricting bill approved by the Legislature in the final hours of its session on Saturday.

The governor said he was taking the action reluctantly, because the bill has a variation of more than 30 percent between districts. The court-approved plan used earlier has a difference of less than 10 percent.

Evans said constitutional lawyers have "serious reservations" whether the new plan will be approved by the Idaho Supreme Court.

Cenarrusa said when Evans signed the new bill Monday afternoon, it was almost the last possible moment. If a decision had been delayed, he said, election officials wouldn't have been able to certify candidates, get ballots printed and out to election clerks in time to allow absentee voting before the election.

"We can make the deadlines now, but it will be awfully tight," he said.

"I was hoping the governor would sign the bill. Otherwise we'd have been hanging out on a limb."

Some 23 legislative candidates filed under the old court-approved plan. Cenarrusa said those nominating petitions would be checked to see if voters signing the petitions live in the proper districts, under the new plan.

Six candidates filed for the new "floating" districts required under the court-approved plan. Those candidates may have to get new signatures.

If the court-approved plan is reinstated, Cenarrusa said that would be "another set of circumstances."

"It appears to me that it would require a special session of the Legislature to move the election back two weeks, or the court will have to move it," he said.

Consumer advocates target backers of initiative limits

BOISE (AP) — Consumer-advocacy groups are vowing to strive for the defeat of legislators who endorsed a measure that would make it harder to get an initiative on the Idaho ballot.

"Some of our fundamental rights are at stake," Idaho Citizens Coalition spokesman Al Fothergill said Tuesday.

He called the bill an "act of tyranny," and said it is one of the worst pieces of legislation in Idaho history.

The measure would increase to about 65,000 the number of voters' signatures needed to place an initiative on the ballot. That's about double the current number. The Idaho Conservation League claims the new legislation would give Idaho the toughest requirements of any state that has the initiative process.

Legislators endorsed the proposal, on the final day of their 1984 session, as a substitute for an earlier measure Evans vetoed.

Consumer groups plan political moves "so that some of the yahos (supporters) won't be back, and we won't have to look at them the next time around," Fothergill said.

He declined to specify which legislators will be targeted for defeat. Evans has said he's leaning toward a veto of the bill, which won legislative approval Saturday. Fothergill charged the legislation was handled in a last-minute fashion that excluded the public.

"It was what I call a sleazy activity of a majority of the Legislature," he said. He said legislators gave in to demands by the Idaho Association of Commerce and Industry and the Idaho Farm Bureau Federation.

Fothergill said big businesses in Idaho don't want to pull its share of the tax load and wants to restrict the initiative process for that reason.

The Farm Bureau had proposed the vetoed legislation that would have set up new rules for initiative petitions, including a requirement that petition signatures represent 33 of Idaho's 44 counties.

Critics of that measure said it was a rural backlash against the so-called 50-50 Initiative. Opponents of the 50-50 bill placed an unfair tax burden on industry and agriculture owners of residential property could have tax relief.

Fothergill said in a prepared statement Tuesday that most legislators don't trust people.

"They think we're OK when we elect them, but incapable of making wise decisions on anything else," he said.

Other groups opposing the legislation include the Idaho State Council of Senior Citizens, the Snake River Alliance, the Idaho Wildlife Federation, Common Cause and the Idaho Senior Citizens Lobby.

Air spraying prohibited at Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — Fathers of asthmatic children and doctors worried about long-term health risks have convinced the Moscow City Council to ban aerial crop dusting within city limits.

The council unanimously denied a request by Eountain's Flying Service to fly over the city and apply pesticides to about 120 fields either within or near the municipal border.

The more than 250 people at the hearing Monday night provided council members with a long list of problems they attributed to pesticides sprayed on wheat and pea fields surrounding the city.

Stacey Dean, an internal medicine specialist, said he treats 10 to 15 patients a year who have symptoms they blame on acute chemical exposure. Dean said the last year three of those people were farmers who came into contact with pesticides and two were joggers sprayed by crop dusters.

Dean said their complaints included headaches, nausea, dizziness, nose and throat irritation, skin rashes and a general feeling of sluggishness. "But what's worrisome is the long-term health risk," Dean said. "And that, unfortunately, is something we know very little about."

Farmers defended aerial spraying as a necessary — and well-regulated — part of life in a farming community.

Evidence hearing into second day

BOISE (AP) — An evidence hearing is in its second day here in connection with charges filed against a Pocatello recycling firm.

Pacific Hide and Fur Co. is charged with improper handling of electrical equipment containing the cancer-causing substance, PCB.

The criminal charges start April 16 at Pocatello and is expected to take two weeks.

The company has asked U.S. District Judge Marion to suppress some evidence gathered by the Justice Department in the case. Callister will rule on the admissibility of evidence before the trial begins.

GM backs car brakes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The brake system on General Motors Corp.'s 1984 X-cars reflects innovation and a good design choice by the automaker's engineers, an all-foreign-for-GM-controlled Tuesday.

Thomas Gottschalk, representing GM, won admissions from an expert witness for the government that several internal GM documents indicate the company's engineers made a point of implementing new design features to make the "cars' brakes safe."

GM is being tried in U.S. District Court on government charges that it put the 1980 X-cars on the market even though it knew they contained design defects.

Voters reject school prayer

FRAMMINGHAM, Mass. (AP) — Voters narrowly defeated a referendum to permit prayer in the schools, and backers of the measure said Tuesday they will accept the majority's wish and give up their campaign.

"I'm disappointed that school prayer lost, but the democratic system worked and we have to listen to it," said School Committee member Joseph P. Conlon, a vocal advocate of school prayer in this eastern Massachusetts town of 68,000 people.

"We have to listen to the voters. But I only hope this makes people in other cities and states work for school prayer."

The non-binding referendum was defeated Monday by 174 votes. With all 19 precincts reporting, 3,733 people voted against it and 3,559 voted for it.

If it had been approved and then implemented by the School Committee, Frammingham's 10,000 school children would have had the choice to recite each day a prayer based on language in the Declaration of Independence that acknowledges "the laws of nature and the nature of God."

Backers of the prayer held a 17-vote lead until the final precinct went against the proposal 150-159. Milly Katzman, who campaigned against the referendum, said that final precinct was "a typical area, a professional area, an upper-middle-class precinct."

About 24 percent of Frammingham's 35,000 registered voters participated in the election, and about 1,900 cast blank ballots on the school prayer issue. Also on the ballot were several political offices.

The referendum was placed on the ballot after citizens for a Democratic Response, an anti-abortion group, gathered 2,700 signatures in favor of school prayer.

out what they would say and we recite their decision right now," Joseph Cosby, president of the organization, said after the referendum was defeated.

"I think this is still a great idea, and I guess to a certain extent I'm hoping that this will encourage other people in other places," he said.

Mrs. Katzman, 55, a former teacher and mother of two sons in the public school system, said she was "delighted that the proposal lost."

Marc Field, a sophomore at Frammingham South High School, said most of his classmates think prayer is a private matter.

Fuss over misplaced letter led to shooting of singer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A misplaced letter that had nothing to do with Marvin Gaye triggered the argument between father and son that ended in the fatal shooting of the signed-soul singer, police said Tuesday.

Marvin Gaye Sr., 69, was arrested Sunday afternoon at his home, where he allegedly shot the Motown star after a domestic quarrel over a lost letter from an insurance company, said Lt. Robert Martin, commander of the detectives investigating the shooting.

Gaye Sr., booked for investigation on murder in the shooting of his son, is scheduled for arraignment today in Superior Court, the district attorney's office announced.

Martin, who previously said there had apparently been "bad blood" between father and son, said Sunday's argument over the missing letter began between the elder Gaye and his wife, Alberta, 71.

"He, in the process of looking, was yelling at his wife to help him find it. She didn't want to," he said.

"At one point Marvin Jr. interceded and indicated to his father that he shouldn't be yelling. One thing led to another and ultimately shots were fired," Martin said.

"There was 'no significant issue at all,'" he said. "The content of the letter was immaterial."

Gaye Jr., was pronounced dead at a hospital at 1:01 p.m. Sunday, the day before his 45th birthday. An autopsy confirmed he had died of two gunshot wounds to the chest. "Toxicological tests were continuing, according to coroner's spokesman Bill Gold."

The funeral was to take place at Forest Lawn-Hollywood Hills, but no details of time or day were released.

"The family has requested no publicity," said mortuary spokesman Don Roberts.

In the 1960s, Gaye was at the core of the Motown sound with such hits as "I'll Be Doggone" and "Pride and Joy." He faded from prominence somewhat during the '70s but came back with a Grammy-award winning work on the 1982 album, "Midnight Love."

House passes credit charge ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House overwhelmingly approved legislation Tuesday to prohibit merchants from imposing extra fees from credit card customers through mid-1985.

Passed on a 355-34 roll call, the measure moved over to the Senate, which last month sent the House a bill that would authorize such surcharges, up to 5 percent.

Merchants have been free to impose surcharges since Feb. 27, when a 10-year-old, three-extended federal ban on them expired. However, there have been no reports of any great movement to impose them because of concern that the extra fees could violate state and federal usury laws.

Rep. Frank Annunzio, D-Ill., the top manager of the House bill, said the measure — reimposing the ban through May 31, 1985, was drafted in the "utmost spirit of compromise."

But a Senate Banking Committee member who asked not to be identified indicated that the House bill will not see quick Senate action.

The source said it appeared that senators wanted to delay action to see the results of a campaign American Express has organized in an effort to get its 8 million U.S. cardholders to write Congress protesting surcharges.

Besides American Express, credit surcharges are being opposed by the other major card companies, the American Bankers Association and Consumers Against Penalty Surcharges, a coalition bankrolled by American Express and Visa.

Legislation to clearly legalize the extra fees is supported by the Federal Reserve Board, Federal Trade Commission, Consumer Federation of America and Consumers Union.

Advocates of such charges cite a study saying that because a merchant must pay a percentage of each credit sale to the card company, the cost of goods and services to all customers is raised by about $6 billion a year.

The bill passed by the House calls for a new study by the FTC and the General Accounting Office, the investigative wing of Congress, to determine the extent to which cash customers may be subsidizing card-users.

Las Vegas showgirls defy pickets

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Showgirls crossed picket lines to work on cocktail waitresses and hotel clerks Tuesday in the second day of a strike by 17,000 hotel-casino employees that has taken the sparkle out of the famous Strip.

Picketing continued at 30 resorts as many hotels—hitred—replacement workers by the hundreds. Six strikers were arrested on misdemeanor charges when picketing began Monday and six others were given traffic citations for jaywalking.

The showrooms and restaurants featuring the top names in show business were closed, but bars did a heavy business with showgirls filling in for the striking cocktail waitresses. Some of the showgirls also went to Vegas' front desk clerks in the hotels.

Pickets appeared more subdued than Monday, when drivers and pedestrians complained of being struck by signs. One woman reported her car's windshield was broken.

During the night, the Las Vegas Hilton reported a bomb threat which proved unfounded.

Hotel-casino business was brisk, with gambling continuing even though only limited food service was available.

Most gaming workers are not unionized and are continuing to work during the strike.

Guinea military takes over

DAKAR, Senegal (AP) — Military officers seized control of Guinea on Tuesday, eight days after the death of long-time President Ahmed Sekou Toure, in what they said was a bloodless coup aimed at preventing another "ruthless dictatorship."

The new leadership, calling itself the Military Redemption Committee, moved swiftly into the power vacuum caused by Sekou Toure's death. It sealed the borders and closed the airports of the impoverished West African country, barred public gatherings, suspended the constitution and abolished the only legal political party.

Communications broadcast by Radio Conakry, the state-run radio in the Guinean capital, said a curfew from 10 p.m. to 6 a.m. was imposed on the nation's 5.5 million people and the new military leaders warned of severe penalties for "looting and banditry."

"They said the takeover was without violence and was designed to create the bases for a real democracy."

The Radio Conakry broadcasts, monitored in neighboring Senegal, said the Military Redemption committee of 15 middle-echelon officers is headed by a Col. Lansana Koute.

A U.S. official in Washington, who asked not to be identified, had said earlier that it was believed Guinea's armed forces commander, Gen. Toyah Conde, was involved in the coup, but the communiques made no mention of him.

State Department spokesman John Hughes said the U.S. Embassy in Guinea had an initial contact Tuesday with representatives of the new government.

Soviet navy goes to sea

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Battle groups from two Soviet fleets steamed Tuesday in the Norwegian Sea in what NATO monitors said could foreshadow the largest Soviet naval exercise ever held in the Atlantic.

Heading from Norway's North Cape to the Faeroe Islands north of Scotland, the armada numbered 23 warships, 5 support vessels, an amphibious warfare ship and an unspecified number of submarines and aircraft, the Norwegian Defense Command said.

British and Danish naval sources said the rapid buildup of Soviet naval firepower dovetailed with other Soviet and Warsaw Pact exercises in widespread areas of the world.

Dozens of Soviet, East German and Polish vessels were holding gunnery and other exercises along the Baltic Sea coast from Lithuania to northern Poland.

Soviet ships were conducting maneuvers in the Mediterranean Sea and the Indian Ocean.

The helicopter carrier Leningrad sailed from Cuba, where it arrived last week.

Beirut snipers keeping busy

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Lebanon's warring factions sniped at each other and exchanged mortar and rocket fire Tuesday in central Beirut, shaking the already fragile cease-fire.

Several artillery duels also were fought along the "green line" that splits Beirut into Muslim and Christian halves, and in the central mountains. Several shells fell on residential neighborhoods in the capital.

Police said one person was killed and nine wounded overnight in Beirut's Shiite-populated southern suburbs.

Explosions in the mountains could be heard shortly before noon, but it was unknown if Druse militiamen or government soldiers were firing.

On the political front, senior military officials of from all sides met to consider a new plan for "flexible zones" to separate the combatants and secure a cease-fire, sources said.

Lebanese army commander Gen. Ibrahim Tannous was among those at the evening meeting, but political representatives on the "higher security-political committee" did not attend.

Special bond keeps peace

Way to help battered women

By PAT MARCANTONIO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — An obscure Idaho law may be one way to prevent domestic violence by allowing a judge to place a "peace bond" on a husband who threatens to beat his wife.

The law is a relief to those women who thought there was nothing to help them, says Lura Morgan-Renk of Twin Falls, one of the founders of a group that aids battered women.

The subject of the peace bond, as it is called, arose when Dennis Voorhees, Twin Falls County deputy prosecutor, addressed a meeting of the Magic Valley chapter of the National Organization for Women. One woman had asked whether there was anything that could be done to protect people against violence. Voorhees replied there was, but it was not used by prosecutors. In fact, he had to dig through the Idaho Code to find it.

If a woman fears a beating or other abuse against her, she may go into magistrate court and present evidence, the prosecutor says. To back up her claim, the woman could testify that she and her children have been beaten previously by her husband, ex-husband or even boyfriend, Voorhees says.

If there is "just reason," the magistrate judge could issue an arrest warrant for the person the complainant fears.

The potentially threatening person then will be brought into court to present his own evidence. If it appears there is no basis, he will be freed.

If, however, there appears to be cause for fear, the judge may require the person to post a bond not exceeding $5,000 "to keep the peace towards the people of this state and particularly for the informant." The bond would be valid for six months, and may be renewed for a longer period of time.

If the husband does assault the woman, he will lose the bond, as well as face possible prosecution for his actions, Voorhees says. Refusal to pay the bond can land the person in jail.

The procedure has not been used in the county because it isn't well known, Voorhees says. Also, it is a "difficult area."

Magistrate Judge R. Michael Redman of Twin Falls says he professes "ignorance due to lack of experience." It never has been used or even requested in his courtroom.

Redman also calls it a "strange animal," although the concept is similar to one allowed in child-support cases. In that instance, a wife may ask the court to order a bond on her husband to assure continued support payments.

Magistrate Judge Morgan-Renk says she has used the law.

Intermountain Gas wants rates sliced

BOISE — Natural gas customers throughout southern Idaho most likely will get a small break in their bills because of a wholesale price war.

Intermountain Gas Co. has asked state regulators for authority to cut its rates a little more than one-half cent per therm on May 1. The savings would be about $2.00 a year for the average residential customer.

"What we're seeing now is average benefitting from the competitive war going on in the industrial market," said Bill Chapman, intermountain director of communications.

Domestic producers recently have been offering gas at much lower prices than Canadian suppliers, he said. "What the Canadians have done is (that) they have offered the industrial marketplace quantities of gas at a special discount," Chapman said.

But residential customers as well as the large, industrial customers will get the benefit, because Intermountain has asked all customers the same rate term for natural gas. The utility buys from a number of suppliers and spreads its costs evenly to customers, Chapman says.

The reduction was sought from the Idaho Public Utilities Commission last Friday. It comes on the heels of Intermountain's request last month for a 7.2 percent boost in natural gas rates. That increase of about 3 cents a therm actually is being sought by Northwest Pipeline Corp. of Salt Lake City to offset increased gas costs, said Chapman.

"If (both) those rates were in effect now, the residential customers' rate still would be lower than (that) on April 1, 1983," he said. Chapman said there were two substantial decreases in natural gas rates last year.

Kids counting on spot in math club

By ANNETTE CARY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Outside the sun was shining on classmates playing soccer over their Tuesday lunch hour but Nasser Award was inside working math problems as fast as his second-grade fingers could wade.

"I like math," he explains as if nothing could be simpler. And he also wants his name posted on the Harrison Elementary School Bulletin Board as a member of the 50 in a Minute Club.

So do the other students mulling numbers and surreptitiously counting on their fingers as they hunch over the library work tables. After all, they have given up a beautiful spring noon recess for repeated math quizzes to see if they can solve 50 problems in 60 seconds.

If their addition answers are correct they join the club, and begin moving up its ranks by working the same feat with subtraction, multiplication and finally division problems, principal Bill Stover says.

"By the time kids finish the second grade, they need to know their subtraction and addition facts cold turkey," he says. "By the third grade they have to know their multiplication facts as well. There is no way they are going to succeed in math if they don't know these facts."

Third grade teacher Kathie Chism, who started the program agrees. "If they get a good basis now, it really helps them later on."

The 50 in a Minute Club is only one of the new math programs at the school. Last year, Stover decided that if anything should be set as a goal in the school struggling to deal with overcrowding, it would be a better math program.

Standardized test scores were not low, Stover says. But he thought that in the 20 years he has been at Harrison Elementary, math has not been given the emphasis of other academic areas have.

He started the new math program by purchasing computers for each grade level and programming them with math software. He also encouraged interested teachers to divide their students into four separate ability groups for math lessons, so advanced students could advance rapidly.

Then, at Chism's suggestion he started the math club. It has proved so popular — he has to limit the number of students who sign up for his twice-weekly quiz sessions — that next year he is planning to expand the club's activities.

Students who can work the problems fast enough may meet after school to play math games, learn about computers and learn how professionals like scientists and archeologists use math.

But this year, just getting their name on the bulletin board is enough of an award for the students to keep trying.

One second grader seemed confident that he would make the addition club, but said it might be next year. "Look Mr. Stover," he said. "I did 11. Last time I only did four."

Developer offers junket to city officials

By DAVE LEWIS
Times-News writer

KETCHUM — The potential operator of the hotel in the proposed Greyhawk development in Ketchum offered to take city officials to Washington, D.C. to observe one of its other facilities.

Regent International, a world-wide hotel operator, made the offer through its local representative, Dick Fenton, Tuesday at a Ketchum City Council meeting.

Fenton says the company is willing to do whatever is necessary — pay airfares and provide lodging — to get the hotel operator and city officials together if those officials think it is necessary.

Fenton says the offer is not an attempt to influence the council's decision on the proposed project, but is an attempt to accommodate a request by council members to meet with the probable hotel operator.

If a site inspection of a Regent hotel is made a condition of approving Greyhawk by the council, the hotel operator is willing to go to any expense to see that it is done, says Fenton.

"We're happy to incur any expense to get them to the point where they are to learn the type of facility being proposed for Ketchum and an opportunity to judge its operator."

Such information is important for the council to make a final decision on the project.

hotel in Washington, D.C. April 15, Fenton says.

Greyhawk's principal developer, Daan Development Inc. of Canada, was not involved in the offer, he says.

Ketchum Mayor Jerry Selfert says he sees nothing wrong with members of the council viewing Regent's Washington hotel.

He says it will give them a chance to learn the type of facility being proposed for Ketchum and an opportunity to judge its operator.

Such information is important for the council to make a final decision on the project.

Cities, counties got some help

By RICK SHAGHNESSY
Times-News Capitol Bureau

BOISE — City and county governments were among the big winners this year at the hands of the Idaho Legislature, with Gooding, Ketchum and Sun Valley emerging from the 1984 legislative session in particularly good shape.

Wood River Valley cities were rewarded for an intense lobbying effort that resulted in the approval of a bill to expand the base of goods and services upon which a resort city's local option sales tax can be collected.

Under Idaho law, resort cities can collect a sales tax of up to 5 percent on hotel rooms and liquor by the drink. If approved by Gov. John Evans, those cities will now become eligible — with approval of a 60 percent majority of voters — to expand that tax to include all items subject to the state sales tax.

The cities would also be allowed to exempt certain items from the tax.

Ketchum and Sun Valley voters both approved renewals of their 5 percent "used and drink taxes" in last November's elections despite strong opposition from bar and resort owners.

Evans is expected to sign that bill this week.

Both Gooding County and city will benefit from an accelerated construction program approved for the Gooding School for the Deaf and Blind.

The proposed $8.5 million project includes $4.8 million for the construction of new buildings and $1.2 million for the remodeling of remaining buildings. Brian Chase, administrator of Idaho's Division of ELDERLY WORKERS, says he expects the State Building Authority to grant final approval for the financing and design work within two weeks.

Construction is tentatively scheduled to take place between April 1985 and September 1986 under the accelerated schedule. Legislators were told the accelerated program will save the state $12.7 million over 20 years.

The Gooding school's budget also fared well at the hands of the Legislature, which approved a 12.9 percent increase for the school's regular budget — one of the largest percentage increases in an education budget. The school also received a special $45,000 special appropriation for equipment acquisition.

The College of Southern Idaho did not fare nearly so well as other Magic Valley institutions and interests this year. Its 5.6 percent funding increase is among the lowest percentage increases of those granted to educational budgets.

The school will also divide a special $100,000 equipment appropriation with North Idaho College, the state's other junior college.

The school's vocational education program should fare better than the academic funding provided by the Legislature. Lawmakers approved a 7.9 percent increase in the voted budget and appropriated an additional $250,000 for equipment acquisitions.

All Idaho cities and counties should benefit from the permanent 1 percent sales tax increase scheduled to take effect July 1.

Adamson files papers on bid for Hansen seat

By The Associated Press
and The Times-News

BOISE — Less than a day after George Hansen's collection on four felonies, Dan Adamson, Jerome County prosecutor and farmer, filed his petition of candidacy for Hansen's congressional seat.

Adamson, 32, told reporters his selection of a filing date had nothing to do with the Hansen verdict. He has been an announced candidate for the post since Nov. 2.

Adamson and Hansen will challenge each other in the Idaho primary election if Hansen files for the post. The seven-term Idaho congressman has not yet announced whether he will seek re-election.

He was convicted Monday on four counts of failing to disclose financial information required under the Ethics in Government Act.

Hansen's conviction will not be a campaign issue, Adamson said, but he acknowledges his campaign will be helped by the Hansen case.

"I don't think I have to be knocking anyone over the head," Adamson said.

He also said he would not work against Hansen if the congressman won the Republican nomination.

Adamson has contended since his campaign's inception that Hansen's conservative positions are not at issue. He has said that Hansen has been ineffective in his position because of the amount of time required to resolve his personal and financial problems.

Adamson said he has spent $50,000 to $65,000 on his campaign. About $40,000 of that was his own money, he said.

Wilderness bill gets mixed reviews at hearing

By HAL BERNTON
Times-News writer

WASHINGTON — Conservationists and industry officials debated the economics of Idaho's wilderness at a Tuesday Senate hearing on Capitol Hill.

The hearing was called by a Senate Energy and Natural Resources subcommittee, which is considering the Idaho wilderness bill, introduced by the state's two U.S. senators, James McClure and Steve Symms. The bill proposes to open up about $26,000 of the state's eight million acres of unclassified roadless areas to mining, logging, and oil and gas exploration.

Timber, mineral and oil industry officials testified in favor of the deletion's bill, claiming that the state cannot afford to lock up resource-rich lands.

"Over half of Idaho's total timber industry employment is dependent upon prompt, sure release of the roadless areas not designated as wilderness," said Joseph Hilsen, executive director of the Idaho Forest Industry Council.

Fred Birdsell, a Conoco Inc. official, also pushed for future development as he praised the Idaho delegation's efforts to exclude potential oil and gas areas from wilderness classification.

Birdsell said, "Oil in Idaho is now little more than a gleam in the geologist's eye." He labeled the area around Palsades Reservoir as "one of the most promising exploration areas in the west."

And Atlantic Richfield's Ben Costello spoke of the "significant mineral potential" of the lands near the Sawtooth National Recreation Area and in the White Clouds.

Conservationists argued the economics of tourism, which they said requires large wilderness acreages to thrive.

John Barker, an Idaho outfitter, told the subcommittee members that the reduction of roadless areas proposed in the delegation's bill "would have a devastating effect" on the state's $55 million-a-year outfitting and guide industry.

Barker was part of a long parade of witnesses testifying against the bill.

Opponents included state Fish and Game officials, an aide to Gov. John Evans, maverick timber industry executive Walt Minnick and singer Carole King.

Minnick, president of the Boise-based Trus Joint Corp., said the bill "mandates a large, growing and open-ended subsidy to timber producers who are perfectly capable of standing on their own two feet."

Minnick cited a recent Congressional Research Service study that said Idaho's public timber sales ended up losing money for the government. He challenged McClure and Symms to put an end to subsidized timber sales, an action he said would hurt forestry activity on much of the state's

$200 a month

Jerome workers seek raise

By BONNIE BAIRD-JONES
Times-News writer

JEROME — County employees in Jerome have asked the Jerome County Commission for a $200 per month raise across-the-board pay hike, plus 10 percent for tenured workers.

The request was reportedly made in an executive meeting at 9 a.m. Monday attended by several department heads. Commissioners also met Tuesday in a closed session. Commission Chairman Carl Butler said Tuesday evening the matter of employee salaries and a job grading and evaluation system were among things covered in Tuesday's work session.

"We are going to have to make some budgetary decisions," he said. "I would say we should have a decision probably within the next two weeks."

Next Monday is the date scheduled for commissioners to set department head salaries, and several county officials say they also hope the commissioners can make some plans for employee pay at the same time.

Elected department heads in Jerome County currently receive $16,500 per year, except for Sheriff Elza Hall, who is paid an additional $100 per month for his part-time work as county courthouse custodian.

Butler said he understands the pay proposal presented Monday morning also includes department heads.

"I would like the commissioners may not grant that amount, commissioners have taken the proposal under consideration."

Workers have not had a pay raise for two years and the request presented Monday takes this into consideration. Department heads were given a pay raise two years ago, but it was cancelled by county commissioners because of county financial conditions, leaving their salaries frozen for three years.

One county employee said his pay scale is now about 40th in the state, or very near the bottom of the list. However, the county is the second highest in the state as far as property tax revenue, he added.

Hall, one of the department heads meeting with the commissioners — Monday, said his own department brings in all but about $100,000 of its $268,000 annual budget. He said the figure is increasing as more federal prisoners are being housed in the county jail through the illegal alien program.

An organization of county employees seeking salary increases hired attorney Greg Fuller to plead their case for better salaries.

Fuller said Tuesday he did not know about the Monday appeal to the commissioners until a few minutes before the meeting and that he did not attend. He said he concurs with the proposed pay hike request, but at the present time he is planning to continue legal efforts on behalf of the workers.

Fuller earlier announced plans to circulate petitions for a special election to let the public decide the salary question.

Fuller said he understands commissioners have said they won't be intimidated by him and he adds, "I have no plans to intimidate them. I just think it's time the county workers received a reasonable wage and I have to help them get it. If that's intimidation then I guess that's what I'm doing."

Burley gets break on project cost

By THOMAS MOHR/LANG
Times-News Correspondent

BURLEY — Members of the Burley City Council met in a pleasant surprise this week when city electrical Superintendent Don Hill presented a third change order for the city's new electrical substation.

The change order, unlike the two that preceded it, was for an $816 credit to the city for material and labor the city donated toward the new substation.

The two previous change orders were for unanticipated increases in the cost of the substation's construction. The council also approved a progress payment for the substation to the main contractor, Wasatch Electric of Salt Lake City, for $71,804.

The payment leaves a balance on the substation at $15,840.

Hill reported that the three feeder lines to the new substation have been energized and said the closeout of the construction should occur within two weeks.

Other business, the council voted to maintain a road to a recently sold piece of Bureau of Land Management property in Burley. The state will give the city title to the road. The property, located north of the Burley Livestock Commission yards, will be used for a new irrigation equipment business.

Mayor Charles Shaddock stressed that the city would only keep the road cleared and graded and would not agree to blacktop it.

The council also approved the hiring of two part-time employees for the city's sanitation department and one part-time employee for the city golf course.

Obituaries

Jess L. Rainbolt

TWIN FALLS — Jess L. Rainbolt, 67, of Twin Falls, died at a Boise hospital Monday of a short illness.

Born Dec. 2, 1916, in Dubuque, Ariz., he grew up in Arizona and California.

He entered the Army in 1939 serving as a military policeman in Alaska until he was discharged.

In 1943 he came to Twin Falls where he had since resided.

He married Marie Fink in Elko, Nev., April 15, 1962.

For 20 years, he operated the QUICK FIX Potato Co. in Twin Falls and had been a contractor for the Idaho State Penitentiary Co. until retiring in 1982.

He was a life member of Elks Lodge #107 in Twin Falls, a member of the Disc Golf and Amateur Veterans and a former commander of the Twin Falls American Legion Post.

Survivors include his wife of 21 years, Fink; his mother, Ethel Pleasant of Mesa, Ariz.; a son, Eric B. Rainbolt of Wenatchee, Wash.; two stepsons, Jerold A. Fink of Cincinnati, Ohio, and Paul L. Suspect accused of biting officer

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls man accused of biting the hand who arrested him was charged Monday in District Judge's Court.

Paul Eugene McBride, 22, of 337 Second Ave. E. pleaded innocent to misdemeanor charges of malicious destruction of property, driving without privileges and resisting arrest.

According to a complaint filed with the court, McBride's car was stopped early Sunday morning by a Twin Falls city officer at 252 Blue Lakes Blvd. N.

McBride then began to "struggle" with the officer and bit him on the finger, police allege. After he was subdued,

"In some cases, we were led to believe, there was nothing for a woman to do until she had filed for divorce or had legally separated," she says.

But it is not the only measure, however. A restraining order that demands a person keep his distance without any court action can be sought through civil procedures, Redman says.

Recent use of the civil order may have been one reason why the peace bond has been forgotten, he speculates.

Morgan-Renk admits the restraining order is one solution. But, she adds that many women don't have the money to pay for an attorney to litigate the action, while a peace bond would be handled through the pro-

McBride was placed in a city car and began to kick hard enough to break the dash, police say.

Injuries to the officer were minor. There was no damage estimate to the McBride was being held in the Twin Falls County Jail on a $500 bond. A trial will be scheduled on the charges.

Pool to get a bubble

WENDELL — The community swimming pool in Wendell will soon have a "bubble" insulated cover to conserve heat in the water.

Mountain Bell, represented by exchange manager Alton Peterson, donated an initial $20 Wednesday to begin the purchase of the $2,000 cover.

"We do like to support the community we're involved with," Peterson said, adding that he is a "contact person" of Mountain Bell for other groups seeking donations for community projects.

Judge Bob Smith of Houston presides over the largest Justice of the Peace system in the state. He says the peace bond is a "real success and one of the greatest tools to prevent domestic violence."

In 99 percent of the cases where a peace bond is issued, some type of domestic situation is involved.

"The bonds are a preventative measure as compared to a woman filing a criminal complaint after she's been assaulted," Smith says.

Aside from potential use in domestic spats, peace bonds also may be demanded in other situations. For instance, one may be levied in the case of a threatening neighbor, Voorhees says.

Greyhawk

Selfert says he does not think Regent's offer was an attempt to influence the council's decision on Greyhawk. He adds, they could not even if they tried.

Councilman Tom Hold says he believes such a trip would be beneficial, but says he would go only if a non-profit, independent organization paid for it.

He says the city cannot afford to pay for the trip.

"I don't think from the city's standpoint, we can justify it," he says.

Hold says since Greyhawk is a controversial issue, people will see the city as an attempt by the developer to "buy" the council's vote.

"You have to be above public suspicion," he says.

"I don't see how we can take their money on a controversial issue like this," he says.

Councilwoman Sue Wolford says she did not take the offer seriously and has not given it any consideration.

Wilderness

Symms told Minnick that Forest Service roads were sometimes overbuilt, but that they benefited recreationists as well as loggers.

Keith Stonebraker, chairman of the Idaho Fish and Game Commission, urged the subcommittee to more than triple the proposed wilderness acreage to 1.765 million acres.

Ernest Day, a Boise resident, called the delegation's proposal "a wilderness extinction bill."

"We're being asked to trade off... our most precious places, in exchange for mostly ineffectual timber sales which must be subsidized with public funds," Day said.

Singer Carole King, an outspoken Montana critic, questioned whether "the Idaho delegation thinks they can get away with sealing the wilderness from our grandkids."

King said that the bill was designed to "give a substantial amount of our wilderness away to the interests that pay most of the Idaho delegation's campaign expenses."

Al Reynolds, a Blaine County commissioner, urged the subcommittee to approve expanded wilderness areas in the Pioneers, White Clouds, and Lemhi.

"Very few conflicts would be involved" in designating these areas as wilderness, Reynolds said.

Prison plan wins backing

By DAVE LEWIS
Times-News Writer

BOISE — Plans for converting the old tuberculosis hospital in Gooding into a prison for inmates with chronic health problems gained endorsement of Western corrections directors in Reno in late March, says Al Murphy, director of Idaho's Department of Corrections. The plan will now go to the Western Governors' Conference in May for that group's endorsement.

Murphy says the probability of converting the 37-year-old building to a prison facility seems to be increasing.

"I think we have a good shot at it now," says Murphy, who admits he was skeptical about its chances at first.

Murphy says corrections directors from 11 states, including himself, approved the concept for the regional center for inmates who need special attention because of health, mental or age problems; at a meeting in Reno, Nev., two weeks ago.

Anticipating the endorsement of the governors, Murphy says he is moving ahead with the search for an operator to run the facility — possibly the U.S. Bureau of Prisons or perhaps a private organization.

Although he prefers to have the federal prisons bureau run the facility, Murphy says he would not mind if it was run by a private operator.

Private operation of certain prison facilities is an idea gaining acceptance across the United States, he says.

Murphy says he is in the process of sending information on the facility to the federal prisons bureau so it can look at the possibility of converting the hospital's use.

The placement of prisoners needing chronic care for health or mental handicaps has been a growing problem in prisons, Murphy says. As a result, the idea of a special, regional prison to house them is attractive to correction directors.

The cost of caring for prisoners with special problems is greater than that of regular inmates, especially in small groups, which is the case in most prisons, Murphy says. It costs about $15,000 to $15,000 more each year to care for each inmate needing special care.

If prisoners with chronic health problems are lumped together in one facility, he says, the cost of their care would drop substantially.

Murphy also says there are problems mixing blind, crippled or old prisoners with healthy inmates.

Johnny Horizon books visit

TWIN FALLS — It's been 15 years since Bureau of Land Management officials proposed to Twin Falls County commissioners that a one-day program known as Johnny Horizon Day be observed locally.

Long since forgotten in most communities and counties, the Twin Falls tradition continues and has grown every year, says a pioneer of the program, William L. Chancey.

Johnny Horizon Day is another term for a county-wide spring clean-up day. Always held on the first Saturday of May, this year's campaign is set for May 5.

Chancey, who still heads the drive, said individuals and organizations are being asked to plan now for their roles in the effort.

In the past, several hundred young people and adults have volunteered to collect the winter's accumulation of trash from roadsides, parks and public rights of way.

Now sponsored by the Twin Falls Lions Club, the effort gains support and cooperation from numerous public agencies and organizations. Areas are assigned to various 4-H clubs, Boy Scout troops, Camp Fire and individuals.

Chancey said landfills in the county are open free on Johnny Horizon Day to encourage persons to bring in trash from their own property, as well as that collected along roadways.

Water quality is issue

BOISE — The Department of Health and Welfare's Division of Environment will host a public meeting at Twin Falls Wednesday to discuss proposed environmental protection priorities for next year.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Mental Health Services Conference Room, 823 Harrison Street.

The proposed priorities — a listing of special areas of emphasis during fiscal year 1985 — include the Billingsley Creek Water Quality Study, a hazardous waste small-quantity generator survey, abandoned wastes sites, and toxic air pollutants.

Staff members from state office and the federal Environmental Protection Agency will be available to answer questions from the public on the priorities proposed for the agreement between Idaho and the EPA. They also will answer general questions on water quality, hazardous materials, and air quality programs.

Copies of the draft of the proposal are available at the Division of Environment, Field Office, 963 Blue Lakes Blvd., Twin Falls.

U.S. policy meeting topic

TWIN FALLS — The Magic Valley Central American Task Force will meet Wednesday at 2 p.m. at the Emporium in Twin Falls.

The group plans to discuss arrangements for a May panel discussion on U.S. policy in Central America.

At this point, plans call for four speakers to participate on that panel, two in support and two against U.S. policy, says spokesman Jim Chappin.

The group sponsored a similar session at the College of Southern Idaho several weeks ago.

Those interested in Central American issues are invited to attend the Wednesday meeting, says Chappin.

The Emporium is located at Second Avenue South and Shoshone Street.

Tax help available

TWIN FALLS — Volunteer tax counseling for Magic Valley senior citizens and low-income persons is available.

These manning tax booths in senior citizen centers say the service is free and will continue through April 14.

Earl Haroldson of Twin Falls said qualified persons who need assistance with their tax returns or need to know if they must file returns may come to the senior citizen center nearest their home or may call for information and advice.

He said counselors would like to have persons who need assistance contact them as soon as possible to avoid a rush of business just prior to the April 15 filing deadline.

Haroldson said volunteers are available on Tuesdays from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Twin Falls center at 934 Fourth Ave. W. and persons may call the center for an appointment or drop-in during these hours.

Assistance is also available from the free tax consultants at the Valley Vista Village at Caswell and Rose Street North, telephone 733-3500, Tuesday through Thursday all day and Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Services are available at the Burley Post Office, Room 5, Haroldson said, and at the Jerome Senior-Citizen Center Wednesdays from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. by appointment.

Haroldson said business was brisk in February when persons were filing for tax refunds but it has slowed down, probably until near filing deadline.

He said low-income, elderly persons who do not need to file a tax return may obtain assistance from the volunteers in getting their grocery credit of $30 per person or $60 per couple over age 65.

Blaine candidates sign up

By DAVE LEWIS Times-News writer

HAILEY — One commissioner and the sheriff have filed for re-election in Blaine County, leaving one commissioner, the prosecuting attorney and the coroner positions without candidates as of Monday afternoon.

Marie Ivie, the county clerk, says Commissioner Rupert House and Sheriff Dennis Hynes, both of whom are finishing their first four-year terms in office, have filed for re-election. Both are Republicans and as yet unopposed in the May 22 primary.

Candidates now have until April 13 to file for election as Gov. John V. Evans signed the new reapportionment bill passed by the Legislature, which contains a clause to extend the filing deadline the additional week.

House, 50, is running on a conservative platform that would restrain the role of planning and zoning in the county. He identifies two issues he is concerned about: protecting private property from the flood of the Big Wood River and allowing historical, but non-conforming, commercial uses to remain where they are.

"I'm in favor of landowners to be able to take care of their property. And I'm in favor of the county to be able to protect (its) road and bridges and irrigators protecting their headgates," House says.

With the Big Wood River flooding the last few years, House links too many restrictions have been placed on owners who are trying to protect their property.

He says landowners should be able to act on their own. "First, we're having to go through planning and zoning procedures to protect their property. He thinks 'too much' emphasis is placed on rip-rapping and that troublesome stream features, like sand bars, could be removed to stop erosion.

House also says the county should allow the owners of long-standing commercial businesses not in commercial zones to improve their property rather than trying to force them out. He says that zoning regulations are forcing non-conforming businesses to close.

County zoning laws now prohibit the expansion of those businesses not in a commercial zone and prohibit owners from upgrading their property. House says that restriction is forcing people out of business and needs changing. "There should be some way so they have a little incentive to improve their property," he says.

House says these problems could be avoided if common sense were used in applying county zoning.

House is supervisor of the city of Hailey's street department and was a miner in the Wood River Valley until the industry died in the 1960s. He was foreman at the Triumph Mine north of Hailey and the Queen of the Hills Mine near Bellevue before going to work with the city in 1971.

Haynes says he is running to continue the work he began in the last four years. He cites the modernization of the sheriff's office and additions that have improved the efficiency and effectiveness of the office.

Among the accomplishments, he cites a training addition to the office, a reworking of its records, a new criminal investigator, a sex-offense officer and a neighborhood watch program in the county's subdivisions.

"I'd like to continue serving Blaine County as sheriff and modernizing the department to better serve the public," he says.

Haynes first ran for the sheriff's position in 1972, but did not run in 1976. He beat incumbent Democrat Orville Drexler in the 1980 general election. He served as Ketchum police chief from 1969 until he became sheriff in 1980.

Of the other positions open, Commission Robert Gardner has not yet filed for re-election. Gardner is at the end of his first two-year term on the board.

Prosecuting Attorney Keith Roark is undecided about seeking re-election. He said he is weighing several opportunities, including re-election, but has not made up his mind.

Firemen want hunks of beef

Helpings, not calories, counted

By ROB KASPER
Baltimore Sun

Talk about fire house food, you're talking meat and potatoes — and plenty of both.

This is the food that guys cook. Big steaks with baked potatoes. Roast beef, stewed tomatoes, string beans and mashed potatoes and gravy. Meatloaf. Pigs in a blanket. Liver and onions.

Mention salad at the fire house, and guys will tell you that salad, like a beautiful woman, should never be alone. Both should always be accompanied by a hunk of beef.

That is what I heard over the past few days when I visited fire houses around Baltimore and talked to firemen about eating. It was refreshing. When you work in an office, all you hear at lunchtime is talk about calories. Firemen I talked to didn't count calories, they counted helpings.

And while we office workers talk about "working out" at a spa, firemen talk about "working out" their meals. Sometimes they work them out before they get to the main course.

I was sitting in Oldtown firehouse as a batch of New York strip steaks journeyed toward the oven when the Intercom crackled. Lt. Robert Maclellan and fireman Dave Cronin bolted from the kitchen.

Before you could say "hold the pepper," they slid down the fire pole and hopped on a fire truck. They were, I was told, checking out a report of liquid leaking onto a nearby city street. Later the men were reunited with their supper.

When I telephoned Jack Grover, the cook at the firehouse of Engine Company 21, he said he was just pulling a big hunk of beef out of the oven.

But 20 minutes later when I got to the fire house, the beef was there but he wasn't. He had jumped on a hook and ladder truck that was responding to what turned out to be a false alarm.

The roast beef, along with the stewed tomatoes, mashed potatoes with gravy and string beans were being kept warm at the fire house by a few other firemen until Grover and his colleagues got back.

"That was lunch," said Grover on his return. He is one of the three cooks of Watch B at the firehouse. "And everybody gets seconds."

The rotating seems to be part of being a fireman.

"Firemen," said J. Austin Deitz, former firechief of Baltimore county, "have never been shy about going to the table."

"You work those long shifts, and back in my days we used to work those 24-hour shifts, and you look forward to a big meal."

Nowadays most fire houses divide the week into three shifts of watches. Each watch gets its own cook and chips in for the cost of the eats.

In some fire houses, such as Oldtown, the men cook every other day. In others, such as the one at Roland and Union, they cook every day.

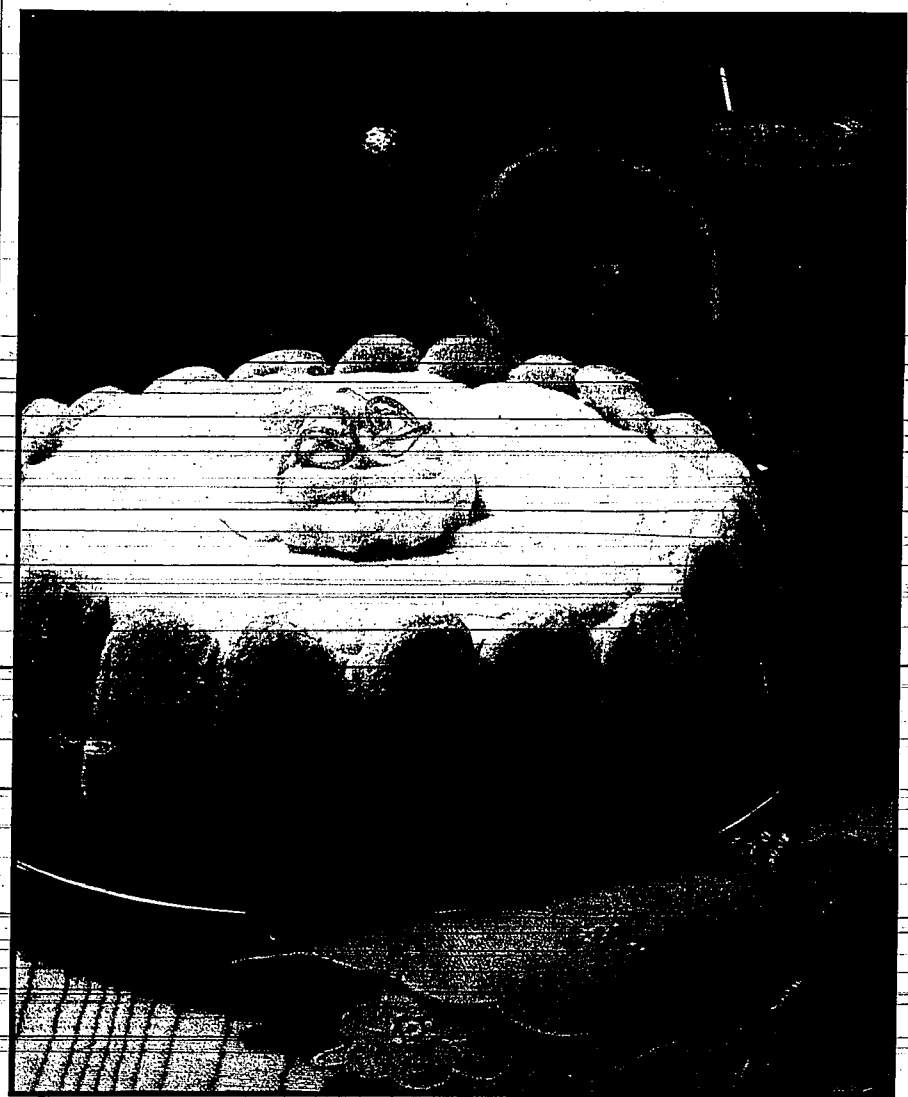

"We've got a bunch of good guys," said Grover, one of the three firemen who do the daily cooking for the 11 or so firemen of the B-watch. "And it's cheaper than packin' a lunch."

The roast beef lunch, he said, came to $6 a man.

As for the problem of menu planning, Grover said: "We try to cook whatever the wife isn't going to fix for supper. Like liver and onions. Some of the wives don't like it, but the guys do."

Oysters? We had oysters a couple of days ago, when the supermarket put them on sale. We had oyster stew.

Gingered grapefruit soufflé cake teams ladyfingers with pink or white grapefruit juice for an airy treat.

Citrus tops for light meals

It's spring and time for lighter-type desserts — a ready favorite as Americans become more health conscious and more women are spending more time in the office than the kitchen.

Hostesses who specialize in desserts flavored and garnished with citrus fruits have developed a number of lighter desserts refreshed with the taste of oranges or grapefruit. Some of the newer desserts favored when people get together for relaxed conversation, dessert and coffee are airy pies and cakes made with grapefruit.

Gingered grapefruit soufflé cake teams ladyfingers with pink or white grapefruit juice, and grapefruit angel pie is a taste of paradise for lovers of featherweight meringue and a zesty custard filling. Calorie-watchers will both relish and appreciate icy grapefruit colada snow.

GINGERED GRAPEFRUIT SOUFFLE CAKE

- 2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
- 1 cup sugar, divided
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 4 large eggs, separated
- 2 1/2 cups grapefruit juice
- 1 teaspoon chopped, candied ginger

- 1/4 teaspoon grated grapefruit peel
- 1 cup heavy cream, whipped
- 2 packages (3 oz. each) ladyfingers, split
- Whipped cream for garnish (optional)
- Grapefruit peel "knots" for garnish (optional)

GRAPEFRUIT ANGEL PIE

- 4 large egg whites at room temperature
- 1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar
- 1 cup sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla
- In small bowl beat egg whites and cream of tartar until soft peaks form. Gradually add sugar, 1 tablespoon at a time, beating until sugar is completely dissolved and meringue is smooth and glossy and stands in stiff peaks (about 20 minutes). Beat in vanilla. Pipe or spoon mixture into a 9-inch greased pie plate. Bake in 275 degree oven 1 hour; turn oven off and let stand in oven 1 hour longer. Fill with grapefruit-filling— Chill several hours or overnight. Yield: 8 servings.

GRAPEFRUIT FILLING

- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1/4 cup cornstarch

- 1 1/2 cups grapefruit juice
- 3/4 cups water
- 4 egg yolks, lightly beaten
- 1 tablespoon unsalted margarine
- 1 cup heavy cream

In medium saucepan mix sugar and cornstarch. Gradually stir in grapefruit juice and water; cook over medium heat until mixture boils and thickens. Stir constantly. Gradually beat hot mixture into beaten egg yolks; stir over low heat until thickened. Stir in margarine; cover; chill. Beat heavy cream until soft peaks form; fold into grapefruit mixture. Spoon into meringue shell.

GRAPEFRUIT COLADA SNOW

- 1 1/2 cups water
- 1 can (6 oz.) frozen concentrated grapefruit juice, thawed, undiluted
- 1/2 cup canned cream of coconut
- 1/2 cup gin
- Combine all ingredients. Pour into a metal 9 by 5 by 3-inch pan. Freeze until firm, 1 1/2 to 2 hours. Let stand 5 to 10 minutes at room temperature before serving. Spoon into chilled serving dishes. Yield: 6 servings.

Early spring best time for pruning most trees, shrubs

REXBURG — Early spring is the best time to prune most trees and shrubs, a time when it is much easier to see what to prune without leaves on the plants.

It is also the most natural time, just before new growth when plants can quickly heal the wounds.

There are two exceptions to early spring pruning. "Flowering shrubs should be pruned after they bloom so you don't prune off any flower buds. And trees with excessive sap flow (referred to as bleeders) should be pruned either before or after the heavy sap-flow period.

Maples and birches are the main trees in our area that fall into this group. With these trees, you should make one small cut and wait a minute or two to find out whether the sap is flowing.

Most established ornamental trees and shrubs do not require a lot of pruning unless size or shape needs to be changed. The main yearly pruning job is to remove branches that are broken or cross or rub against each other. Usually, the smaller or weaker of any two branches is removed, long or out of place branches can be shortened or removed to improve the shape of a plant.

If an entire branch is removed, it should be pruned as close to the origin as possible so that no stub remains. When a branch is shortened it should be cut just above a bud or side branch. This eliminates dead stubs which are unsightly and can become diseased.

When plants are pruned to be thicker or bushier, because three or four branches will grow where one was pruned. Pruning a branch to a larger branch (in other words, removing it entirely) will usually result in a thinner or more open appearance.

Pruning to a smaller side branch does not change the density of a plant. The last two types of pruning cuts are usually the best to use when reducing the size of an overgrown shrub.

Hedge shears should never be used except on hedges or plants that you want to grow in a dense geometric form, such as upright junipers. Everytime you prune with hedge shears the growth becomes thicker.

Pruning trees need annual pruning to produce the optimum amount of fruit, well distributed throughout the tree. Young fruit trees need some training to develop strong, well located branches.

For more extensive information on pruning, you may want to purchase a booklet from a nurseryman or the county agricultural agent. I have a leaflet on pruning which may be obtained by sending $1 and a stamped self-addressed long envelope to Allen Wilson, care of Lorayne O. Smith, Lifestyle editor, Box 548, Twin Falls 83401.

Arkansas senators extol the virtues of rice for the record

By NANCY J. SCHWERZLER
The Baltimore Sun

WASHINGTON — First there was Senate bean soup, then chili wars between senators who claimed their pungent tomatate specialty was the only authentic recipe. Now there is a new entry in the Senate's food lore: the Arkansas Rice Pillbuster.

The marathon filibusters of the past — when senators talked and read telephone books or anything else they cared to bore their colleagues with until the speaker dropped from exhaustion or cut a deal — have been replaced in recent years with much more civilized affairs.

Now, when senators say they plan to have "an extended debate" on a bill, they talk a bit, ask for long quorum calls, and before too long all agree to turn to other legislation for a while before eventually coming back to the disputed bill.

However, there was recently a good-natured glimpse of the way things used to be.

As the Senate worked on a farm bill, with something for wheat and corn growers and other special agricultural interests, two rice-state senators decided it was time for a riceathon.

Sens. David Pryor, D-Ark, and Dale Bumpers, D-Ark, took to the Senate floor with cookbooks and a rice amendment in hand to extol the virtues of rice and some help for the ricegrowers. Pryor began to read the ingredients for "a very, very famous recipe for Arkansas rice casserole, six servings."

"By the way, this is very serious. This is a very fine casserole made with rice," Pryor said as gales of laughter interrupted his reading.

"I am always a little discomfited when people start reading recipes on the floor," said Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., who can smell a filibuster cooking a mile away.

Entering into the spirit of the cooking contest, Sen. Spark Matsunaga, D-Hawaii, suggested that a dash of Hawaiian pineapple might perk up the Arkansas rice dish.

And in deference to one of the legislative masterminds of the Senate, Sen. Russell Long, D-La.,

Pryor offered another "very famous" recipe for red beans and rice, cooked up by Long's wife, Carolyn.

"Mr. President, from time to time, as members bring to me the other very famous recipes from our country and our wonderful cooks, friends here in the Senate, I may read some of these into the record so that our colleagues would be aware of these very delectable rice dishes," Pryor said.

In other words, let's cut a deal on the rice amendment or you could be in for a long lunch.

As Pryor huddled with other senators to work out a compromise, Bumpers took to the floor with a long reverie on the gustatory and health benefits of rice, and even offered a rice travelog.

"There is some medical evidence that people who eat a regular diet of rice very seldom, if ever, have colon cancer," Bumpers intoned.

Then it was his introduction to rice as a child. "As a child I did not even like it," Bumpers said. "My mother used to fix rice in a way that we could mix cream and sugar with it and we used it for dessert. I never really liked it until I had been gone from home and was a college student."

Then there was the trip to Iran, where Bumpers discussed the relative merits of Arkansas rice and Iranian rice with the Shah of Iran. But that tale was interrupted. "Well, I understand we have a deal on an amendment, so I will stop here." Bumpers said to roars of laughter from his colleagues.

The compromise was then approved. But just in case the recipes offered by Pryor were not enough to whet the appetite of his fellow senators — or if there's another agriculture bill in the future that he thinks needs a little rice sidelish — Pryor promised, "I do not only have my hands but also I have in my office some of the most fantastic cookbooks that deal with nothing but rice and rice dishes."

Patrons nettle cashiers

By MARTIN SLOANE
United Feature Syndicate

I recently asked supermarket cashiers "What do shoppers do that bothers you most?" Here, from the other side of the checkout counter, is a gripe list that considerate shoppers should pay attention to.

Gripe No. 1 — The Customer Who Forgets The Coupons: "One of the things that bothers me most is a shopper who purchases $100 worth of groceries and then remembers she had $20 worth of coupons, just as her husband starts to carry her shopping bags out of the store." — L.K., Brooklyn, N.Y.

Gripe No. 2 — The Customer Who Is Quick To Accuse the Cashier: "I can't understand why some customers get so angry and start accusing the cashier when a mistake is made. I would never cheat or overcharge a customer on purpose. But I am human, and occasionally I do make a mistake. When I realize a mistake has been made, I make every effort to correct it." — Evelyn C., Wilmington, Del.

Gripe No. 3 — The Customer Who Doesn't Report An Undercharge: "How many customers will tell a cashier when they spot an item that has been rung up for the proper price? Honestly, should work both ways. If I make a mistake and undercharge a customer, I think that customer should tell me about it; so the mistake can be corrected." — Mary S., Chicago, Ill.

Gripe No. 4 — The Customer Who Tries To Redeem Coupons For Products That Are Not Purchased: "I call this customer a 'coupon pusher' because she tries to get you to take coupons for products she hasn't purchased. If you object, she will swear that 'all the girls take them.' She doesn't realize that I could lose my job if I were to take a coupon for an item that wasn't purchased." — Brenda R., San Diego, Calif.

Gripe No. 5 — The Customer Who Times The Cashier For Higher Food Prices: "When a customer wants to complain about higher prices, it's the cashier who usually takes the abuse. We have no control over the prices the store charges. In fact, when we do our own shopping at the store, we pay the same prices!"

SMART SHOPPER AWARD

My Smart Shopper Award goes to Sue Northern, from Indianapolis, Ind., a smart shopper who is "ever ready" for a bargain. On an excited "I just made my first Triple Play" discount store had Eveready batteries, regularly $2.19, on sale for $1.39. I had a 30-cent coupon, so the package of batteries only cost me $1.09. When I got home, I had a proof-of-purchase for a $1 refund. I replaced the dead batteries in my flashlight for 9 cents, and an envelope and a postage stamp.

Readers whose smart shopping experiences appear in this column receive a free copy of my refunding magazine, The National Supermarket Shopper. Write to me in care of this newspaper.

DALLAS — Orviato has been a wine-producing town since the time when Northwest Roman Italy was called Calabria by the ancient Romans.

According to Burton Anderson in his definitive book on Italian wines, "Vino," the Etruscans dug elaborate wine cellars in the volcanic rock of Orviato to utilize the force of gravity and the natural insulation of underground rock. The grapes were crushed at ground level, fermentation took place at the next level, and the finished wine was stored at the lowest level.

The traditional wine of Orviato is a soft, mellow, slightly sweet or abboccato wine. Since California technology in the 1960s was some of the major producers of Orviato, a new style of wine has emerged.

This Orviato secco is dry, crisp, and easy to drink.

The grape varieties allowed for Orviato are trebbiano, malvasia and grechetto. The Orviato zone, in the southwestern part of Umbria, overlaps into the adjacent region of Latium. Wines from the areas closely surrounding Orviato are called classico.

Our tasting panel sampled some Orviato secco wines. For those who like dry wines, these are good sipping wines. They also would go well with a light chicken dish or a seafood dish.

1. Antinori, Castello della Sala, Orviato Secco Classico 1982. Pale yellow color; light, green apple nose; well-balanced, with light, smooth, fruity flavors in the mouth; light body; clean finish.
2. La Fontana, Orviato Secco Classico 1982. Yellow color; full, herbaceous nose; well-balanced, with intense, fruity flavors in the mouth; light body; short finish.
3. Marina, Orviato Secco Classico 1982. Very pale yellow color; light, apple nose; well-balanced, with round and fruity flavors in the mouth; light body; long finish.
4. Decagnano del Barbi, Orviato Secco Classico 1982. Very pale golden yellow color; light, clean nose; well-balanced, with light, pleasant, intense flavors in the mouth; light body; clean finish.
5. Vaselli, Orviato Secco Classico 1982. Pale yellow color; light, slightly oxidized nose; intense flavors in the mouth; light body; short finish.

Rice

We Americans should cook with rice, so we can eat more rice," Pryor said.

From the "Congressional Record" cookbook, the following are the Arkansas senators' rice recipes.

SENATOR PRYOR'S FRIED RICE

1 cup uncooked rice
1 cup water
1 can (10 1/2 ounces) beef consommé
1 can (4 ounces) sliced mushrooms, drained
Butter, 1/2 stick
1 bell pepper, sliced
Eggplant, chopped, 1 jar or 2 ounces
1 onion, sliced
Salt; 1 teaspoon
Hawallian pineapple (optional, and probably not advised)

"Mr. President, to properly make Arkansas rice casserole as delicious as it should be, preheat oven to 375 degrees; Mix (ingredients) together and pour into a 9x12-inch greased baking dish. Cover and bake for 1 hour. And it freezes very, very well."

"If the Senator will yield, do not forget the pineapple, Hawallian pineapple," interjected Sen. Spark Matsunaga, D-Hawaii.

"I have several recipes, I say to my distinguished friends from Hawaii; that combine Hawallian pineapple with Arkansas rice — or Mississippi rice or Texas rice or Louisiana rice," Pryor said.

CAROLYN LONG'S RED BEANS AND RICE

1 pound dried red beans (soaked overnight, then drained)

1 ham bone or leftover ham or bacon drippings
6 cups water
2 pounds smoked link sausage, cut in 1-inch pieces
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon hot pepper sauce
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1 large bay leaf, crushed ("This is a key ingredient.")
2 tablespoons parsley, chopped
1 medium onion, chopped
1 clove garlic, chopped
3 cups cooked rice

In a large dutch oven or kettle, add all ingredients, except rice, and bring to a boil, stirring frequently to prevent sticking. Reduce heat to low and cook slowly for several hours, stirring occasionally. If necessary, add heated water if beans are not tender or become too dry. If you prefer a thick gravy, mash a few beans and cook longer. Serve over cooked rice. Serves eight.

"I thought that I would be derelict if I did not inform my colleagues about one of the very famous menus in the State of Louisiana," Pryor said in introducing the recipe from the wife of Sen. Russell Long, D-La.

Seat belts required on some school buses across nation

DEAR ABBY: Who says that there aren't seat belts in school buses? Federal law requires seat belts in all school vans and small minibuses manufactured after April 1, 1977.

Although seat belts are not mandated for larger school buses, any school district that wishes to equip its larger buses with seat belts is free to do so.

In the Greenburgh School District in New York, seat belts have been on large school buses since 1970. Over 90 percent of the children use their belts. Bus drivers report fewer disciplinary problems. And they haven't had a single incident of a seat belt being used as a weapon.

But most important, many children have for the first time started using seat belts in their family cars. They have learned an important safety habit that is reinforced on the school buses twice a day, 183 days a year.

By the way—the letters that you recently published gave your readers the false impression that seat belts on school buses are dangerous. Such arguments were discarded in my ago.

—ROBERT A. BURNS, M.D., DALTON, GA.

DEAR ABBY: Obviously Jennifer from Trenton has never ridden a school bus equipped with seat belts. In our school district, they have a definite purpose: to keep bodies from flying around in case of an accident. Abby, we'd never use them as weapons!

—BECKY EAST AND DANIELLE TORNELLO, ARDSLEY, N.Y.

DEAR ABBY: For 30 years I have crashed vehicles and studied roadway collisions and injuries. More than 20 of these years were spent at UCLA's school of engineering and medicine. Included in these studies were dozens of this country's worst school bus and motor coach accidents.

- A few facts:
1. In order to reduce the number of accidents, school bus drivers are generally required to have special driver training and to use seat belts.
 2. If any vehicle falls into the water, the seat-belted occupant generally remains conscious. It only takes 3-4 seconds to unlatch a belt.
 3. School buses are generally quite safe and accidents cause a small number of deaths; however, a large number of injuries do occur every year. If you doubt this, just ask the oral surgeons and plastic surgeons' associations who have official records on the number of children injured in school bus accidents.
 4. Seat belts can't easily be used to "knock out" each other's (students') brains. They are lightweight and are relatively short in length. School books are 10 to 20 times heavier.
- But most important—seat belts do work—and the school years are the best time to form good habits. How can we expect adults to use seat belts to reduce injuries if we don't teach our children to use them on school buses?

Abigail VanBuren Dear Abby

—ARNOLD W. SIEGEL, ACCIDENT RESEARCH AND SAFETY ENGINEER, ENCINO, CALIF.

DEAR ABBY: My school board, District 72 of Skokie, Ill., recently voted to install seat belts on the four new buses it will purchase for September 1984. These belts will protect our children during lateral collisions, bus rollovers and sudden stops.

We wish to present a consistent message to our children: Buckle up for safety in all motor vehicles!

—LAURA G. SCHWARTZ, SKOKIE

THE ACES® BOBBY WOLF

"I would often be a coward, but for the shame of it." - Ralph Connor.

All but a coward would fail to bid with today's South hand-Making-40-doubled-five-level contract would be another matter.

South ruffs the opening spade lead and can quickly count up to 10 tricks in the red suit. From where will an eleven trick come?

The bidding rules out the normal play in clubs, so another answer must be found. Here's, how Byron Greenberg - of Houston, Texas, solved the problem.

"After ruffing the first spade, Greenberg drew trumps, happy to discover the nice trump break. Next a heart was led to dummy's nine for another spade ruff. The heart king was cashed, and the heart queen was overtaken in dummy to cash the last heart. A third spade was ruffed to enter to a 6-3 spade-split-and-South-and-East were left with only the club suit.

A low club was led toward dummy-and-the defense was stuck-West bravely put up his club jack, and dummy's 3-king went to East's ace. East could do no better-than-cash-his-queen-and-Greenberg's club 10 won the vital trick.

Had-West-played-the-club deuce instead of the jack, dummy's eight would have gone to East's nine, and dummy's club king would have netted the game-going trick.

ANSWER: Four hearts. Three-no-trump might be a winner, but playing in the 5-4 major suit fit should prove best.

"Where the willingness is great, the difficulties cannot be great."
-Nicolco Machiavelli.

Today's slam can be tough or easy; it all depends upon what South discards on dummy's high diamond.

Dummy's Jack 10 is covered by East's jack, and South wins the ace. Trumps fall in two rounds and South can enjoy a discard on dummy's high diamond.

How should he proceed?

If he takes the high diamond and discards a spade, he has some chances but not the best. A trump trick won by South and a spade led to dummy's queen in hand. If he takes the ace from the king, East wins and exits safely with a third spade, and South is forced to fall back on the club finesse.

This finesse will either end the slam or goes over.

A better plan is to cash the top clubs in a try to drop the doubler queen. When this fails, South's club jack is discarded on a high diamond and a club is ruffed to establish the suit. Dummy's trump queen provides the vital entry and South takes

Wendell thins show strength in first meet

By BRAD BRELAND
Times-News writer

WENDELL — In their first meet of the season, Brian Gough and Eric Weinmeister captured a pair of first places as Wendell boys clubbed the Hansen, Castelford, Hagerman and Gooding track-and-field teams in a five-way track meet Tuesday afternoon.

The Trojans' girls' mile relay team edged the Senators team by one second to claim the girls' team title.

Gough won both the shot put and the discus to pace Wendell. Hansen's Steve Elman also won two events, the high jump and the triple jump.

"He went to state in those two events last year," said Hansen Coach Sam Wiseman. "He seems to do real well in these early meets."

Gough tossed the discus over 125 feet, while throwing the shot almost 43 feet.

Weinmeister captured the 100- and 200-meter dashes, edging out teammate Bret Thackeray in the 100 and Elman in the latter race.

Hansen's Laura Gates won three events at the meet: the long jump and the 100 and 200.

Gooding's Lisa Graves won the discus and shot put events. Graves beat Wendell's Jodi Kooz in the discus by 21 feet and edged Castelford's Gina-Eunsuma by less than a foot.

"This was the first meet where she threw the shot put," said Senators Coach Jolene Phoe. "She's been working real hard preparing for that event."

Carlton scores 301st victory as Phillies shut-out Atlanta

By The Associated Press

Steve Carlton allowed two hits over seven innings for his 301st career victory and Mike Schmidt belted a home run as the Philadelphia Phillies blanked the Atlanta Braves 5-0 in a season-opening game Tuesday night.

Carlton walked one and fanned six, hitting his all-time leading strikeout total at 2,315. Bill Campbell acquired from the Chicago Cubs in March, took over to start the eighth and went the final two innings, yielding two hits.

Schmidt gave the defending National League champions a 1-0 lead in the first inning when he cracked a 1-0 pitch from Len Barker over the center field fence. It was the 390th career homer for Schmidt, including 33 against the Braves, 21 of them in Atlanta.

Ivan DeJesus started a two-run fifth for the Phillies with a single up the middle. After Carlton sacrificed, Juan Samuel was hit by a pitch.

Len Barker (1-0) pitched 5 2/3 innings and Samuel also scored on the play when right fielder Claudio Washington threw wild to the plate for an error.

The Phillies added another run in the sixth when Ron Hayes singled to right and scored when Bo Diaz doubled to center. A sacrifice fly by Garry Maddox drove in Schmidt, who had walked, in the eighth.

Carlton, the 39-year-old veteran who became baseball's 16th 300-game winner last September. He pitched singles to Dale Murphy in the first inning and Rafael Ramirez in the fifth. The left-hander, who went 15-16 in 1983, is trying to rebound from his first losing season in 10 years as he enters his final year.

Rain earlier in the day held the opening-night crowd to 34,331. St. Louis 11, Los Angeles 7.

In Los Angeles, Darrell Porter homered, tripled and singled as the St. Louis Cardinals pounded Fernando Valenzuela and the Los Angeles Dodgers in their season opener.

Porter lashed a solo homer in the second inning and tripled in another run during a five-run Cardinal outburst in the fourth that gave them the lead for keeps.

Valenzuela was tagged for six runs on eight hits and two walks in the three-inning game. Dan Plescha, who replaced St. Louis starter Dave LaPoint with two runners on base and none out in the third, pitched four scoreless innings to get the victory.

Chicago 5, San Francisco 3

In San Francisco, Jody Davis drove in two runs with a double and Keith Moreland and Ron Ege each hit solo homers to lead the Chicago Cubs to victory over the San Francisco Giants. New Cubs manager Jim Frey got 12 hits from his revamped lineup, including two doubles and a single by Larry Brown.

Montreal 4, Houston 2

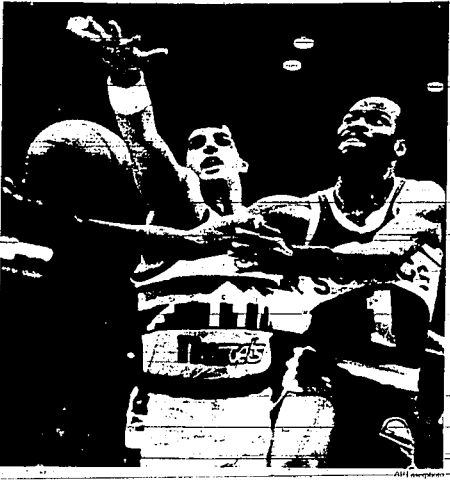

In Houston, Andre Dawson's RBI triple snapped an eighth-inning tie and pinch hitter, Miguel Dilone added a two-run single, lifting Pete Rose and the Montreal Expos over the Houston Astros in a season opener.

Rose, who was released by Philadelphia after last season and signed with the Expos, went 2-for-5 in his Montreal debut. His two hits gave him a career total of 3,992, 199 behind Ty Cobb's all-time record of 4,191.

San Diego 5, Pittsburgh 1

In San Diego, Eric Show and Rich Gossage teamed on a three-hitter and Kevin McReynolds and Carmelo Martinez homered. San Diego Padres downed the Pittsburgh Pirates in the National League baseball opener for both teams.

Show, San Diego's winning pitcher last season, had trouble only with the Pirates' Marvell Wynne, who had two doubles and a triple for the Pirates' only hits. Show struck out four and issued a single walk in his seven innings.

Seattle's Gus Williams goes under Danny Schayes to score.

Davis leads Suns into playoff spot

By The Associated Press

Walter Davis scored 15 of his 25 points in the fourth quarter Tuesday night as the Phoenix Suns rolled for a crucial 113-109 National Basketball Association victory over the Kansas City Kings.

The victory vaulted Phoenix, 38-41, past the slumping Kings, 35-41, into the seventh spot in the Western Conference playoff picture and ensured the Suns of the eighth and final spot should the two teams tie by taking the regular-season Series 2-2.

John Starks led the third quarter, Phoenix used a 10-0 spurt midway through the final period to take the lead for good at 101-92 with 2:38 left with Davis accounting for six of the points.

Davis' jumper with 1:14 remaining made it 105-97 before Reggie Theus got Kansas City back in the ballgame on a three-point play and jumper.

A three-point play by Dave Tobisch with 35 seconds to go got the Kings within two at 107-105, but Davis followed with a three-point play of his own 17 seconds later for a 110-105 bulge.

James Edwards' three free throws down the stretch sealed the Suns victory and their 23rd homecourt win in 38 games here.

Washington 106, Indiana 94

In Landover, Md., Jeff Ruland scored 18 points and had a career-high 13 assists to help Washington break Indiana's four-game winning streak with a victory.

Ruland also grabbed 13 rebounds as he achieved the second triple-double (totaling figures in points, rebounds and assists) in his career.

Boston 98, Cleveland 86

In Richfield, Ohio, Larry Bird scored 12 of his 29 points in the third quarter as the Boston Celtics turned a four-point halftime lead into a 19-point margin on the way to a victory over the Cleveland Cavaliers.

Bird, who scored all his points in the first three quarters, rallied the Celtics from an early eight-point deficit with 17 points in the second period as Boston took a 32-4 lead at the half.

Detroit 118, Philadelphia 115

In Pontiac, Mich., Bill Laimbeer scored 26 points, including five in the final 24 seconds, and grabbed 17 rebounds to carry the Detroit Pistons to victory over the Philadelphia 76ers.

The Detroit victory, the Pistons' fourth in their last five games, broke a three-game Philadelphia winning streak.

The Sixers, who were led by Andrew Toney's 26 points, played without starting guard Maurice Cheeks and sixth man Bobby Jones. Both missed the game due to sore right knees.

Milwaukee 109, New Jersey 92

In Milwaukee, Marques Johnson scored 12 of his game-high 30 points in the third quarter to trigger a 30-16 outburst that carried the Milwaukee Bucks to a victory over the New Jersey Nets.

The victory kept Milwaukee tied with the Detroit Pistons for first place in the Central Division with identical 45-31 records. The Nets fell to 40-35. They were hit three straight baskets at the start of the third period to turn a 53-49 halftime deficit into a 55-53 Milwaukee lead. With the Bucks out in front (57-50), they went on a 12-4 run to lead 75-54 with 2:19 left in the period.

The net went on to 75-69 advantage at the end of the quarter.

Portland 91, Dallas 88

In Dallas, Jim Paxson hit three free throws and Calvin Natl scored on a tip-in in the final 18 seconds as the Portland Trail Blazers defeated the Dallas Mavericks.

Pogled was leading 86-84 when Natl tipped in a miss by Darnell Valentine. Rolando Blackman hit two free throws to make it 88-86, but then fouled Paxson, who hit both free throws with 11 seconds to play.

KC belts Yankees in opener

By The Associated Press

Bud Black and Dan Quisenberry combined on a three-hitter, and Onix Carrington hit Ron Guidry's first pitch of the season over the left field fence, boosting the Kansas City Royals to a 4-2 victory over the New York Yankees before a crowd of 10,006 in the season opener Tuesday in Kansas City.

Black, a left-hander who began the 1983 season in the minor leagues, retired the first 12 Yankees he faced before he gave up a lead-off single to Don Baylor and home run to Dave Winfield in the fifth.

Quisenberry, whose 45 saves last year set a major league record, earned his first save of 1984 by pitching the final two innings, giving up one hit.

up eight hits and all four Kansas City runs in five innings.

Frank White doubled with one out in the first and made it 2-0 when Steve Balboni, a former hit king in the major league prospect, hit an RBI single.

Darryl Motley tripled leading off the fourth and gave the Royals a 3-0 lead on Don Slaught's sacrifice fly.

White filed to deep center in the fifth, and landed on third base when Omar Moreno dropped the ball at the fence. Hal McKae's sacrifice fly brought him in with the fourth run.

It was the third season opener in a row that Winfield has hit a two-run home run.

Detroit 11, Minnesota 1

In Minneapolis, Detroit's Jack Morris and two relievers combined on a five-hitter and Darrell Evans hit a three-run homer in his American League debut as the Tigers romped past the Minnesota Twins in the season opener for both teams.

Morris, who led the American League with 232 strikeouts last year, surrendered all five Minnesota hits and fanned eight in seven innings. He did not walk a batter. Aurelio Torres pitched the eighth and Willie Hernandez worked the ninth.

Cleveland 9, Texas 1

In Arlington, Texas, Julio Franco's bases-loaded triple backed Rick Sutcliffe's seven-hit pitching, carrying the Cleveland Indians to a 9-1 victory over the Texas Rangers in the American League opener for both teams.

Franco's second-inning shot over center field. George Wright's head keyed a six-run outburst off Texas starter Charlie Lough.

In a late game, it was Milwaukee at Oakland.

Frustration starts Cougars' star thinking

Akem Olatujun, Houston Coach Guy Lewis display feelings plainly after loss in finals

By TIM COWLISHAW
Dallas Morning News

SEATTLE — The frustration of losing the big one for the second straight year set in quickly.

So quickly for center Akem Olatujun that Houston fans might hold off on these season ticket purchases if they're expecting to see the 7-0 Nigerian play another year.

Sunday Olatujun said he had definitely decided to return for his senior year. Monday night, his only comment was, "I really don't know. I'll have to go back and think about it. I'm not going to talk about it."

But he didn't hesitate to talk about his inability to get the ball. Olatujun was 4-for-9 in the 34-75 loss to Georgetown and took just 14 shots in two games at the Kingdom.

"We were selfish," he said. "You can't win the big one playing selfishly. I worked hard to get open. But we have been playing like this all year long. You have to play team ball to win the national championship, and we didn't. We played good enough to get back. I don't care who's going to read it. I'm just saying how I feel because this is a very important game."

"I told the coaches and the players at halftime that I wanted the ball more, but I didn't get it."

Houston coach Guy Lewis said, "I think Akem's wrong. We were trying to get the ball to him but couldn't because of Georgetown."

The Hoyas had more trouble stopping Alvin Franklin, who, penetrating from the point guard position, scored 17 of his 21 points in the second half. But Franklin scored only three points in the last 10 minutes after being shifted to the wing.

"We switched Reid Gettys to the point because we wanted to get the ball to Akem and that took me out of the offense a little. I wasn't upset. I'm sorry Akem feels that way because we did try to get him the ball," Franklin said.

Houston forward Benny Anders, who came off the bench to hit two baskets late in the first half, said, "Georgetown plays 10 or 11 players, and so I knew it was going to be a battle of the benches. I thought our starters were getting a little tired, and I wish we would have gone to our bench more."

"This ticks me to death to lose here again. We've been here twice, haven't won it — but I don't know what we need," Anders said. "Rebounds and free throw success would help." The Hoyas won the boards, 52-26, while Houston hit 13-of-22 (59 percent) from the line, missing four one-and-ones.

For Guy Lewis, loser for the third time in a national championship game, the frustration was probably not as great as it was last year when the Cougars were heavy favorites against North Carolina State.

"Georgetown has a great team, we found that out. We have to be able to hang our heads about it," he said.

Hoyas coach John Thompson agreed. "They were here last year and lost some great players but still managed to make it back. That's what I mean by a great program. We made it here two years ago and lost some players, and we weren't able to make it back the next year," he said. "The knowledge that 51 other teams in the NCAA tournament ended their seasons with losses wasn't much consolation."

"This was more disappointing than last year," Michael Young said, "because this was the end of my college career."

"Akem will get another chance — if he wants it."

Fans praise Hoyas' defense but offense produces crown

By DAN BARREIRO
Dallas Morning News

SEATTLE — Georgetown had just won the national championship Monday night when the Hoyas fans started a chant: "Defense! Defense! Defense!"

It seemed like the right thing to say. Hadn't the Hoyas won all season with defense? Hadn't they tormented teams all season with quick hands outside and Patrick Ewing inside?

And yet, it was Georgetown Coach John Thompson who said Monday night: "I don't think we played exceptionally good defense tonight."

Trunk of injuries: Georgetown beat Houston, 84-75, for the national championship with an offense that just wouldn't quit.

"We spread the floor and just punched the ball in," said freshman forward Michael Graham, using, perhaps, an unfortunate choice of words for a team with Georgetown's reputation.

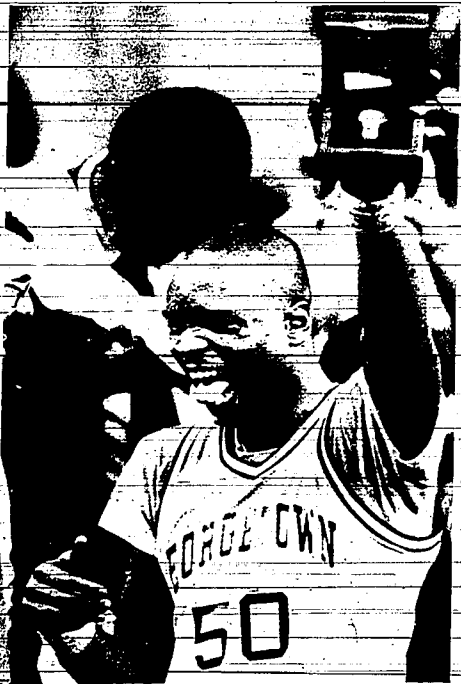

"Georgetown scored inside and out, and Houston never figured out a way to do anything about it. Five players scored in double figures for the Hoyas, whose bench outscored Houston's, 43-11. Ewing (10 points) and Graham (14) scored inside."

And freshman forward Reggie Williams, who has as quick a first step as anybody in the country, hit from everywhere. Williams scored 19 points, 13 in the second half. "Coach doesn't mind if I miss when I take good shots," said Williams, who along with Graham, started the game on the bench. "I was taking good shots, and they were falling."

And the unselfish Hoyas, who shot 56.7 percent, smartly kept getting the hot man the ball. That was not at all surprising to Thompson. "Before the season started," he said, "I said I felt very good about this team. That had nothing to do with how many games I thought we'd win. That had to do with the cohesiveness of the players."

It was, of course, a happy moment for Thompson, whose Hoyas had lost to North Carolina in the national championship game two years ago. "This year has been one of the most difficult I've ever had as a coach considering all the ups and downs emotionally," he said. "Anytime you accomplish your goals you feel good," said guard Fred Brown. "I just think it's a beautiful feeling. I'm glad for my teammates and the coaching staff."

Thompson got a big hug after the game from former Boston Celtic Georgetown's Michael Graham waves personal NCAA trophy. Teammate Bill Russell, who said: "I couldn't be any happier if he were my brother or my son."

As a former coach, did Russell give Thompson any advice before the game? "He didn't need any help from me," Russell said.

"I've had an obsession with winning the national championship, so much so that I'd wake up in the middle of the night saying, 'National championship,'" said Thompson. "Now I've got the monkey off my back, and now

I can make some decisions. I don't want to be a John Wooden. I don't want to win 10 national championships. He's got to be an Ironman for doing that."

Thompson's Hoyas have received much criticism for so-called paranoia of the media. The term "Hoya Paranoia" has been attached to the team by some publications.

Said Thompson: "If Hoya Paranoia makes us the way we are, maybe someone else better catch it."

Arbitrator calls for reinstatement of suspended Kansas City players

By JOHN NEILSON
The Associated Press

NEW YORK — A baseball arbitrator has ruled that suspended players Willie Wilson and Jerry Martin should be reinstated on May 15, the commissioner's office announced Tuesday.

The ruling came after Wilson of the Kansas City Royals, and Martin, a former Royal who has signed with the New York Mets, filed a grievance of one-year drug suspensions levied by Commissioner Bowie Kuhn last Dec. 15.

At that time, Kuhn said he would review the players' cases on May 15 with possible reinstatement coming no sooner than that date. Kuhn made no guarantees the players could resume playing at that time.

Impartial arbitrator Richard J. Bloch made his decision after three days of closed-door hearings last month in Tampa, Fla.

"While my decision of last year made provision for review of the suspensions on May 15, I very much regret that Mr. Bloch did not find it appropriate to leave it up to me to decide the nature of my May 15 review, and the date of their reinstatement," Kuhn said in a statement.

The commissioner's office said the arbitrator had made no decision on the grievance of another former Royal, Willie Atkens, who also was suspended for a year subject to the same revision. Atkens was traded to Toronto.

Bloch, who handles grievances as part of baseball's collective bargaining agreement with the union, said the reinstatement would stand "unless he (Kuhn) finds that aspects of their individual behavior in the interim require the continuance of the suspension."

All three players were convicted last November in federal court in Kansas City, Kan. of attempted possession of cocaine. They were fined and ordered to spend three months in federal prison. Another former Royal, pitcher Vida Blue, later pleaded guilty to charges of possession, but, at the request of the prosecutor, Kuhn's office delayed action in that case.

The following month, Kuhn suspended the three former Royals along with Los Angeles pitcher Steve Howe, who went into drug rehabilitation clinics three times last year, was suspended for a year without chance for early reinstatement. Howe did not file a grievance.

In making his ruling, Bloch upheld the right of the commissioner to impose disciplinary suspension and probation in appropriate cases of drug activity by players," Kuhn's office said. "However, he also concluded that the suspensions of the two players for a period of one year, subject to possible reinstatement on May 15, 1984, should be modified."

The Major League Players Association filed the grievance on the players' behalf, in part, because it felt the suspensions were too severe in light of the prison sentences.

Bunge rallies, upsets Austin

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Bettina Bunge rallied in the final set to upset Tracy Austin 4-6, 6-1, 6-2 Monday night in first-round action in the $25,000 Carla Blanca Women's Invitational tennis tournament at the Forum.

Bunge advances to face second-seeded Andrea Jaeger in Tuesday night's semifinals of the six-player event while the winner of the Temesvari-Bonder match plays top-seeded Chris Evert Lloyd.

Jaeger and Lloyd each had first-round byes.

Bunge, playing out of Coral Gables, Fla., was down 0-2, love-30 in the final set before winning the final six games and the match. Tournament officials said Austin, of Rolling Hills, Calif., had suffered a groin injury during the match. She is attempting a comeback from a series of injuries that sidelined her for much of 1983.

Bunge and Austin had never played each other before Monday night.

Kelly to address CSI dinner

TWIN FALLS — Victor Kelly, the quickest Eagle in College of Southern Idaho history, will be the featured speaker at the College of Southern Idaho Awards banquet.

The banquet, which will honor all CSI athletes for the year, is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. April 24 at the Turf Club, according to CSI Booster President Roy Raymond.

Raymond said seating capacity will be at a premium and noted that booster reservations must be requested by April 10. He said after that time, the "general public will be invited if there is seating available."

Reservations should be mailed to the CSI athletic department, Box 1239, by April 10.

Raymond said the evening would begin with a no-host cocktail hour at 6:30 followed by dinner at 7:30 p.m.

Kelly, currently working with youth in a division of the Washington, D.C., police department, was a member of the 1971 CSI team that placed second in the national junior college tournament and then led the national tournament in scoring as a sophomore in leading the Eagles to fourth place.

Coach returns to Lafayette

EASTON, Pa. (AP) — Bill "Butch" Van Breda Kolff, veteran college and professional coach who led one of the National Basketball Association's most talented teams, was named Tuesday as basketball coach at Lafayette College, where he began his head coaching career in 1951.

Van Breda Kolff, 61, who most recently coached at a high school in Mississippi, replaces Will Backley. Backley resigned March 13 after posting a 12-17 record this past season and a 44-66 mark in four years at Lafayette, which plays in the East Coast Conference.

Lafayette's athletic director, Olay B. Koller, called Van Breda Kolff "a proven winner and a great personality," but added, "I think we all were most impressed by his ability to teach the game."

"This is fun, and a whole new lease on life," said Van Breda Kolff. "I've always loved Easton and Lafayette. Let's just say I've matured since my first time here."

Van Breda Kolff coached Lafayette for four years, beginning in 1951, and posted a 68-34 mark. He led the Leopards to their best season ever in 1954-55 when the team went 23-3 and received a berth in the National Invitation Tournament.

BSU draws 95 for practice

BOISE (AP) — About 95 prospects turned out for the opening of spring football practice for Boise State University.

Equipment was issued Monday and spring training started Tuesday, pointing to the April 20 alumni-Varsity game in Bronco Stadium.

Coach Lyle Setenich said he's working to fill the fullback and tailback spots in the backfield, but has several good quarterbacks to choose from.

Tailback Rodney Webster graduated, and backup sophomore Greg Harrison is out because of injuries.

But BSU will return starting quarterback Hazzen Chonates, a freshman last season; senior Gerald DesPres and Todd Anderson, a transfer from University of Oregon.

James McNorton, a 6-foot-7, 220-pound senior on BSU's basketball team, has turned out for football and is trying out for tight end, Setenich said.

McKinney wins slalom event

PARK CITY, Utah (AP) — Tamara McKinney of Squaw Valley, Calif., showed why she was the overall World Cup giant slalom winner in 1983 here Tuesday. She beat her closest challenger, Christin Cooper, Sun Valley, Idaho, by nearly a second on the first of two runs in a Subaru Cup Challenge Race.

McKinney's time on the first run was 1:06.42. Cooper's was 1:07.33. McKinney finished the day with a combined time of 2:08.70 in the giant slalom. Cooper was second; Cindy Nelson, no hometown given, third.

The final event of the eight-race series will be held Wednesday when the men return to Snowbasin and the women come back to Park City.

Eagles, BYU slate twin bill

TWIN FALLS — College of Southern Idaho will entertain the Brigham Young University junior varsity in a double-header this afternoon at Frontier Field.

Coach Jim Walker said the twinbill was rescheduled from the first date of the season which was weathered out. The Eagles will leave for a tournament in Treasure Valley Thursday.

Game times 1 p.m.

Scholarship guard advances

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — A bill that would prohibit Nebraska colleges and universities from lifting athletic scholarships if a player is injured has won routine second-round legislative approval.

Lawmakers advanced LB764 to final floor consideration on a voice vote Tuesday.

Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha, who sponsored the bill, said it is designed to protect athletes who are injured "in service to their school."

Chambers said some Nebraska state colleges admit that if an athlete is injured, the scholarship may be taken away.

Oilers, Stars ready for NHL playoffs

By BARRY WILNER
The Associated Press

Hockey

The Edmonton Oilers and Minnesota North Stars, division champions in the Campbell Conference, say they are ready to show they have learned their lessons well.

The Oilers, who won the overall National Hockey League points race with 119 (57-18-5) as they ran away with the Smythe Division, and the Norris Division-champion North Stars — whose 39-31-10 record pales in comparison to Edmonton's — have been playing things hard way in recent playoffs. But players on both teams claim they are ready to erase the memories of postseason failures as the Stanley Cup tournament begins tonight.

Edmonton opens at home against Winnipeg and Minnesota hosts Chicago.

"We've got to be aware of mistakes and afraid to make them but not so it affects your play," said Edmonton defenseman Kevin Lowe, recalling that the Oilers stormed through the first three rounds of the 1983 playoffs, only to be shut down and swept by the New York Islanders in the finals. "We've got to be loose. And if we play like we did all season against the Jets... there can be no way we lose to them."

The Oilers, who swept the Jets in the best-of-five opening round last year, won all eight meetings with Winnipeg this season.

"I'm not a great believer in psychological advantages," said Oilers defenseman Paul Coffey. "Sure we've beat them every game but we've lost all those games to the Islanders, 10 in a row, and yet I still feel we can beat them. I'm sure they're thinking the same way against us."

"The year we lost to the Kings (1982), we wiped them a couple of times during the season... and look what happened. The Jets have nothing to lose and we have everything."

The North Stars were 6-2 against Chicago this season after battling the Black Hawks for the Norris title last year. But the Hawks — who beat Minnesota in five games last spring — fell all the way to fourth place in the division.

Still, the North Stars are being cautious.

"I think we have more knowledge of what it takes to win now," said Brian Bellows, who has emerged as the Stars team leader and top goal-scorer. "We have the team atmosphere and feeling. If another team wants to beat us, it will have to work extra hard to do it."

"We need to concentrate on a lot of little things, know when to take chances. I think we know you have to be a grinding team in the playoffs and we're ready to try to be that type of team."

Elsewhere Wednesday, it will be Detroit at St. Louis; Vancouver at Calgary; Quebec at Buffalo; Montreal at Boston; the New York Rangers at the four-time champion New York Islanders, and Philadelphia at Washington.

The Capitals also want to show they learned from last year, their first appearance in the playoffs.

when they fell to the Islanders in four games.

"Our team has more experience," said Mike Gartner, the Capitals' leading goal-scorer with 40. "Last year we had only one year to get used to one another. It was our first playoff in history; we weren't expected to do much. This year, we will be better prepared."

Washington had the NHL's best defense this season, anchored by defenseman Rod Langway and backed by goalies Pat Riggin and Al Jensen.

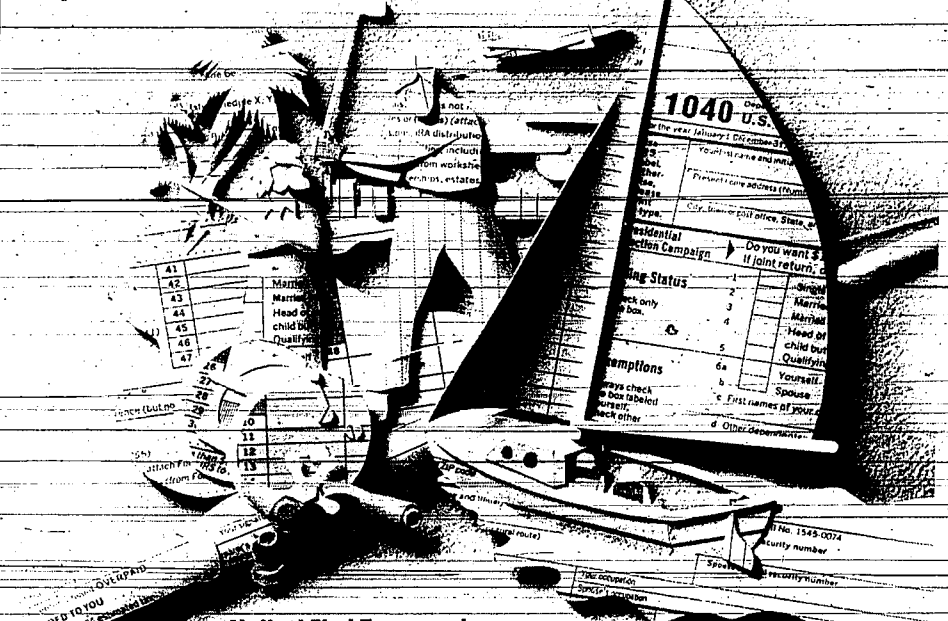

"We are in a better position, nailing down home ice, than last year," Riggin said. "We're a little bit inexperienced against a championship hockey club but we are learning every day."

The real teachers in the NHL are the Islanders, who are seeking their fifth straight Stanley Cup, equaling the feat of the 1956-60 Canadiens. But the Islanders are anything but cocky about their status as champions.

"The team has to believe in itself," noted center Bryan Trotter. "I respect all teams. Any team in the playoffs deserves to be there. Our management deserves a lot of credit because they don't allow us to take anybody lightly."

Put Your Tax Bill Into Retirement

United First Teamwork shows you how with IRA and Keogh retirement accounts

You can turn your tax bill into an immediate tax deduction, and high tax-sheltered interest with an Individual Retirement Account or Keogh Plan at United First.

Every working person qualifies for tax-sheltered retirement savings and you can start an IRA with just $100 or more.

Tax Deduction

Any contribution you make to a United First retirement account is deductible from total income on your tax return.

You can contribute up to $2,000 a year to an IRA. If both husband and wife work you can contribute up to $4,000 on a joint return.

A Keogh Plan, for self-employed people, lets you deduct up to 15% of your income up to $15,000 for 1983 ($30,000 in tax year 1984).

You can make contributions to your IRA or Keogh up to your tax filing date, April 15 for most people.

High Tax-sheltered Interest

At United First you can choose from a variety of high earning, insured investments with fixed or variable rates.

And all taxes on the interest are deferred until you withdraw your funds, so your money has even more earning power.

Expert Service

We'll work with you to design a tax-sheltered retirement plan to meet your goals, and get the most from your money. We'll show you all the ways we can help your tax situation now and your retirement years later.

And at United First there are no service charges or fees.

So put your tax bill into retirement with the help of United First Teamwork. You'll be assured of a high return on your money and service from experts.

Substantial penalty for early withdrawal on all savings certificates.
