Britons order Libyans to go home

By MARK S. SMITH
The Associated Press

LONDON — Britain broke diplomatic relations with Libya on Sunday and gave the 20 to 30 Libyans in their besieged London embassy a week to get out of the country.

The move came six days after a man firing a submachine gun from an embassy window shot to death a 25-year-old policewoman and wounded 11 Libyans demonstrating against Col. Moammar Khadafi's regime.

British officials conceded the killer would almost certainly go free with the other Libyans leaving the embassy.

In Tripoli, the Libyan capital, the Foreign Ministry issued a statement expressing "strong astonishment and displeasure" at the British move. It did not say when the embassy occupants would leave London.

The statement, carried on Libyan television with the broadcast monitored here, said: "This British decision has come amid an atmosphere of acute tension created by the British government, which paved the way for it by launching a racist campaign of hatred against the Libyan Arab people."

It added, however, that "The Libyan people are anxious to provide all security and care" for the 8,000 Britons living in Libya.

Richard Luce, the foreign office minister of state, said Britain ordered the expulsion of the embassy occupants because of Libya's "flagrant abuse" of diplomatic immunity. He termed the shooting a "totally unacceptable and unprecedented breach of British law, international law and the Vienna Convention on diplomatic relations."

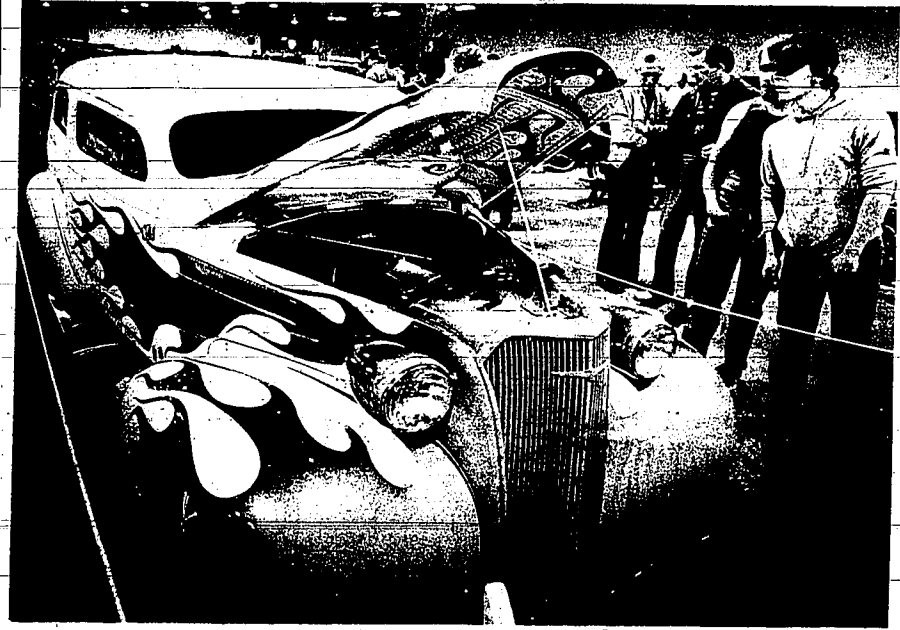

Luce, briefing reporters at the Foreign Office, said the British ambassador to Libya, Oliver Miles, and his staff would return home within the same April 29 midnight deadline given the Libyans.

The Reagan administration gave its full support to the British action, according to deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes, traveling with President Reagan aboard Air Force One to Honolulu.

Washington ordered Khadafi to close his embassy in Washington in 1981, citing its alleged "support for international terrorism." Shortly after Luce's announcement, a police car carrying two Libyan mediators drove into St. James's Square, where the Libyan Embassy is located.

Later a reporter for the Independent London Broadcasting Corp. telephoned the embassy and asked if the occupants would leave. "Yes, we have to," was the reply. The reporter asked if they would wait until the end of the seven-day period and the Libyan said, "Yes."

Authorities have estimated there are 20 to 30 people inside the embassy. Home Secretary Leon Brittan said the visas were issued by the British Embassy in London. See SIEGE on Page A2

Campaign shortened Ground rules alter election

By QUANE KENYON
AP Capitol Writer

BOISE — Idaho's May 22 primary election will be held as scheduled, but with some unusual ground rules in an unusual election year.

Gov. John Evans over the weekend ordered to call a special session of the Legislature on restricting. And that means the primary, and Idaho's presidential preference election, will be held May 22.

That gives candidates less than a month to campaign, because it wasn't clear until the governor's announcement whether the election would be postponed.

The Idaho Supreme Court last week ordered some special rules. They were required because a flurry of lawsuits, legal requests and motions delayed the filing deadline until last Monday.

That didn't leave enough time for the usual process of nominations to fill vacancies, printing of sample ballots, and a couple of weeks of absentee voting before the election.

have until May 4 to nominate candidates and get them qualified to fill ballot vacancies.

The Supreme Court decided that the usual requirement of filing nominating petitions would be waived for candidates selected to fill vacancies. Those candidates can get on the ballot by signing a declaration of candidacy and paying the $15 filing fee.

The court also granted an extra week for absentee voting. Absentee ballot postmarked on or before 8 p.m. election night will be counted, if received by an appropriate county clerk before 5 p.m. on Tuesday, May 29.

That could mean extremely tight races might not be decided until one week after the election.

Evans, observing the Easter holiday at his Malad ranch, said he found too little support for the latest reapportionment plan, and would not call legislators back to Boise to deliberate it.

Evans said recent court rulings and his decision against a special legislative session "assures that our County political party chairman

Reagan asks peace through 'readiness'

By JAMES GERSTENZANG
AP White House Correspondent

HONOLULU — President Reagan told an Easter Sunday audience on an island steeped in the nation's military history that the United States is determined to avoid war and pursue peace "by remaining strong and remaining ready."

At welcoming ceremonies at Hickam Air Force Base here, one of the stops on his approximately 11,000-mile flight to China, the president told a crowd of about 2,000 base employees that he was beginning "a long journey for peace."

"The mission we undertake is another careful, yet sure, step towards peace and friendship between the Chinese and American people," he declared.

Reagan, in resuming his slow progress toward China, wound up two days of rest at his California ranch Sunday morning and headed for another day of relaxation and briefings in Hawaii. He and his wife, Nancy, left Point Mugu Naval Air Station in California at 9:35 a.m. PST. Hickam Air Force Base, where Air Force One touched down at 12:49 p.m. local time, is almost within sight of Pearl Harbor, where the U.S. fleet was bombed in a surprise Japanese attack on Dec. 7, 1941, that led to the U.S. entry into World War II. The base also is hit.

The Reagans were met by Democratic Gov. George Ariyoshi and traditional leis of colorful flowers were placed around their necks by the governor's wife, Jean.

In his arrival remarks, the president said, "The United States is resolved to avoid war, pursue peace, and to do so by remaining strong and remaining ready."

"Hawaii remains key to this resolve and readiness," he said. "Your vigilance makes peace possible; your See REAGAN on Page A2

Criminal violence within families rises

By MICHAEL J. SPIFFEN
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — A Justice Department survey has found an average of 456,000 cases of family violence each year in this country, but an official said Sunday that this figure seriously underestimates the extent of the problem.

The department's Bureau of Justice Statistics said its National Crime Survey estimated there were 4,108,000 instances of violence from 1973 through 1981 in which the offender was either the spouse, ex-spouse, parent, child, brother, sister or other relative of the victim.

The bureau said this total represented 7.2 percent of all the violent crimes uncovered in the nine-year survey and was by far the smallest source of violence measured.

By comparison, strangers were responsible for 59.2 percent of the violent crimes during the period, and acquaintances were blamed for 32.7 percent of them. The relationship between victim and offender could not be determined in 1.9 percent of the cases.

The National Crime Survey is based on interviews every six months with about 132,000 Americans over age 12 who are asked whether they have been a victim of rape, robbery, assault, burglary, motor vehicle theft or larceny, regardless of whether the crime was reported to police.

Bureau Director Steven R. Schlessinger said the figures should shed light on "a serious problem about which little is known." But, he said, the figures "cannot and should not be used to estimate directly the extent of family violence in the United States."

"Undoubtedly, many more cases are not reported to either police or survey interviewers because (although) the victims do recognize the abuse as criminal, they feel too much shame to report it or they feel hopeless about the possibility of stopping abuse," Schlessinger said.

The survey found that the most common family violence — 57 percent of all crimes committed by relatives — occurred between spouses or former spouses, and 91 percent of these were attacks on women by their husbands or ex-husbands acting alone.

Although divorced and separated people represented only 7 percent of those surveyed, they reported about 75 percent of the violence between spouses and ex-spouses.

Women were three times more likely than men to be victims of family violence, the survey found. The only category in which males and females were victimized about equally was violent crime between siblings.

Fresh thunderstorms erupting in wake of Mississippi tornadoes

By ROGER PETERSON
The Associated Press

Fresh waves of thunderstorms rattled the Southeast with lightning, wind, rain and a few tornadoes Sunday, a day after storms from the same weather system spun off killer tornadoes in Mississippi and caused scattered flooding in Kentucky and Tennessee.

Since the middle of last week, 21 deaths have been blamed on the large storm system that also dumped up to 3 feet of snow on parts of the Rockies in Colorado.

The weather system's slow advance to the northeast spread rain and severe thunderstorms across parts of Alabama, Florida, Georgia and South Carolina on Sunday, and on the northern edge a mixture of rain, sleet and snow fell across parts of Iowa, northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin, with light snow in southeastern Minnesota.

Tornado watches and severe thunderstorm warnings were posted during the afternoon for parts of those four Southeastern states, and at least one tornado blew through Georgia's Fayette and Henry counties, causing some property damage but no injuries, the National Weather Service said.

The agency said another twister reportedly knocked down trees and power lines near Luthersville in Meriwether County, and others were sighted.

A small tornado touched down about 6 a.m. Sunday on the edge of the central Alabama town of Brent, uprooting trees, damaging several homes and a factory and causing scattered power and telephone outages.

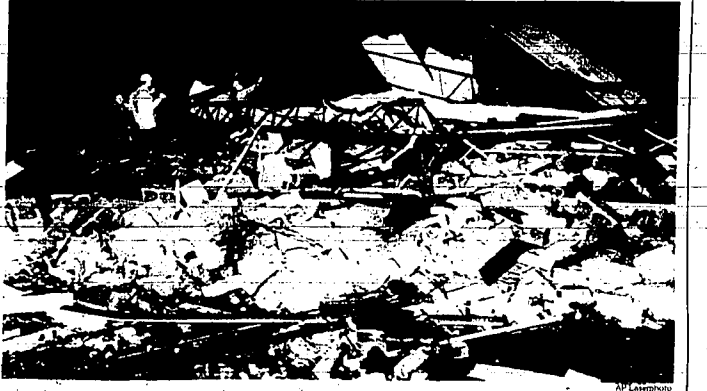

Another tornado caused minor damage at 9:22 a.m. Sunday to buildings and power lines near Maxwell Air Force Base on the edge of Montgomery, Ala.

In northern Mississippi, tornadoes killed at least 15 people and injured close to 100 Saturday night.

Seven of the dead were in Water Valley, a Yazoo County town of 4,500, along with 75 to 80 injured, said state Highway Patrol spokesman Bob Hickey.

"The town is in mass confusion this morning," Hickey said Sunday, with no electricity and no telephones. He said about two-thirds of Water Valley was flattened by the twister, which hit about 6 p.m.

Most of the dead and injured were in a shopping center where a supermarket, hardware store and convenience store were demolished.

of all Libyans in Britain would be carefully scrutinized and he would expect any absence would be found to "disturb the national interest." He said that in the future "only in the most exceptional circumstances will Libyan nationals be admitted to this country."

There are an estimated 7,500 Libyans in Britain, including 5,000 with student visas. Officials said about 4,000 of the students are here under Libyan government grants.

Lucie said the 8,000 Britons in Libya were not being advised to leave at once but should "consider their position carefully."

He added: "We have made clear to the Libyan authorities that we hold them responsible for the safety of our people."

Brittan said that as the Libyans leave an embassy, they would be questioned about their status and searched for arms and explosives. But he conceded the British would not be able to detect any weapons the Libyans take out in diplomatic bags, which are inviolate under the 1961 Vienna Convention.

"He said that 'as a matter of record' the investigation into Constable Yvonne Fletcher's death would continue. But government sources, who asked not to be identified, said there was little chance of finding the killer.

Queenie Fletcher, the victim's mother, said of the expulsion announcement, "If it means that no one else will get hurt, we're pleased."

Briefly

Guilt aids federal coffers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Conscience bothering you only a week after the income tax deadline? Can't forget about that little item you kept from Army days? Want to help reduce that monster budget deficit? Or just grateful to be living in the United States?

If so, the government has a special place for you and your money.

The Treasury Department's bureau of government financial operations handles four special accounts for Americans who want to contribute something extra to the government — or want to clear their conscience about something they should or shouldn't have done.

The oldest of the four is the Conscience Fund, set up in 1811 when "somebody sent us $5," William E. Douglas, commissioner of the financial operations — bureau, recounted in a recent interview.

Since then, the fund has collected a total of $4,814,352.24. Douglas said the biggest sum sent in was about $139,000 in 1950, when the account also received the most in one year, $70,285.47.

Last year, it got $238,370. The money goes into the general coffers for running the government.

Progress slow in Vegas strike

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Negotiators plodded toward a possible break in the three-week-old hotel strike while pickets paraded shirtless in the 80-degree heat along the Las Vegas strip on Easter Sunday.

Officials for striking unions met for the third time in four days to try to hammer out a new contract with the city's two huge hotel men under an agreement that could mean the beginning of the end of the strike against 32 hotels.

The two sides met for four hours Sunday afternoon, then broke for dinner and indicated they would be talking most of the night.

"It looks like we'll have another all-nighter," said Jeff McCall, secretary-treasurer of the powerful culinary union. "We've reached it sticky point now."

There are some points on the table which they won't modify and we won't accept," he said.

McCall said there are 10 major roadblocks in contract changes being sought by the Hilton and other hotels.

"They don't deal with economics," McCall said. "We haven't even talked money yet."

Congress to raise debt limit

WASHINGTON (AP) — As predictably as the cherry trees flowering that brings a glow of pink to the nation's capital each spring, the Treasury Department is seeking authority to borrow more money.

"Prompt action on the debt-limit bill is absolutely essential to permit the government to pay its bills," the Treasury says in what has become at least a twice-a-year ritual.

The government now has authority to run its total accumulated borrowing to $1.49 trillion, barely enough to get through April.

So, after Congress returns Tuesday from an Easter-Passover holiday, the Senate will turn its attention to Treasury's request that the debt limit be raised to just under $1.6 trillion for the next five months and — $1.81 trillion — through Sept. 30, 1985. That level already has been approved by the House.

The higher debt ceiling simply reflects the fact that Congress and the presidents over the years have spent money that must be borrowed. Many lawmakers use the debt-ceiling "renewal" as an occasion to proclaim opposition to big federal budgets — and then go back to voting for the spending that makes up the budget.

Minor quake rocks East Coast

By The Associated Press

A minor earthquake centered in Pennsylvania sent shock waves along the East Coast from Washington to New York on Sunday night, but no damage or injuries were reported.

"It shook the whole house. I can feel it going from one end to another," said Thomas C. Younif of Lancaster, Pa., about 15 miles north of the epicenter.

The quake, which struck around 6:40 p.m. MST, rocked buildings in a wide area of eastern Pennsylvania, said state police Trooper Willis, who refused to give his first name.

The quake measured 4.1 on the Richter scale, said Bruce Pressgrave, a geophysicist at the U.S. Geological Survey's National Earthquake Center in Golden, Colo.

Accused mass killer faces trial

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Otis Elwood Toole, lured with killer Henry Lee Lucas to a murder spree that might have claimed more than 100 victims, goes on trial Monday on charges of killing a 64-year-old man in a boarding-house arson.

It will be the first trial for Toole on the 10 murder charges he faces in Florida, Texas and Louisiana. Alleged to be partners in crime, Lucas and Toole are implicated in a stream of mayhem that authorities in 17 states believe may be the nation's largest mass murder.

Lucas has claimed he killed up to 360 people. Toole also claims the killed Adams Walsh, the wife whose abduction and slaying became the basis for a television special on missing children, but later recanted.

Boise forest open to wood cut

BOISE (AP) — The Boise National Forest will begin its 1984 firewood program on May 1, forest supervisor Jack Lavin reports.

Permits are available from the Ranger Stations at Mountain Home, Idaho City, Cascade, Lowman, Emmet and east of Boise and near Springs Area.

Permits are required except for recreationalists, campers, and fishermen who cut their wood in camp and don't remove it from the forest.

Trains collide; two people die

NEWCASTLE, Wyo. (AP) — Two eastbound Burlington-Northern coal trains collided Sunday when one stopped on the main line to pick up workers and the other struck it from behind, killing two crew members and injuring two others, officials said.

Five locomotives, 18 cars and one caboose derailed in the accident seven miles west of Newcastle, at a siding called Pedro, in northeastern Wyoming, said Burlington Northern spokesman Jack Martin in Denver.

Hart attacks legality of Mondale fund

By CAROLE FELDMAN
The Associated Press

The Rev. Jesse Jackson spent Easter Sunday advocating a war on poverty, while Gary Hart interrupted his holiday campaign break long enough to renew his charge that Walter F. Mondale was getting special interest money "through the back door and perhaps illegally."

Appearing on NBC's "Meet the Press," Hart said that "dozens, if not no hundreds," of independent committees supporting Mondale are receiving contributions from political action committees.

He said this raises questions about how independent Mondale would be in the White House and "whether he in fact can run his own campaign and — if he can't — can he run the government since he has said he doesn't want this support and his campaign says it does."

Hart has filed a complaint with the Federal Election Commission charging that the independent delegate committees are circumventing spending limits on presidential campaigns.

He said there are "dozens, if not no hundreds" of independent committees accepting political action committee money "through the back door and perhaps illegally, perhaps in violation of the laws."

Mondale has said he won't accept PAC money directly and "prefers" that independent delegate committees supporting his candidacy follow suit. "I want it done the way I suggested," he has said.

Mondale, holding an almost 2-1 delegate lead over Hart, was taking his second consecutive weekend off the campaign trail. He planned to head out

Monday for a week-long campaign trip to Maryland, Ohio, Indiana, Tennessee, North Carolina, Texas and Louisiana.

But he and his rivals for the Democratic presidential nomination were ignoring Vermont and Utah, the only states allocating delegates this week. Vermont has its caucus on Tuesday, with 13 delegates at stake. The Utah caucuses, postponed because they were scheduled to be held on the first night of Passover, are now scheduled for Wednesday, when 22 delegates will be up for grabs.

In Tennessee, which holds its primary May 1, Jackson said the efforts to combat poverty in the 1960s were a failure. "We need a real war on poverty for the hungry and the hurt and the destitute," he said.

Millions of Americans greet start of new life

By JIM PENSIERO
The Associated Press

Decked out in their spring finery, millions of Americans celebrated Easter Sunday by attending church services, strutting down city streets and hunting for eggs from California front yards to the decks of the ocean liner Queen Elizabeth 2 in New York Harbor.

For many, the day marking the resurrection of Christ nearly 2,000 years ago was a time to help the less fortunate, as charities from New Jersey to New Mexico served up ham dinners to those who couldn't afford their own.

In Water Valley, Miss., whipped by tornadoes Saturday evening, some 45 worshippers prayed in the rubble next to a church that lost most of its roof and back wall.

"On this Easter Sunday, we're thinking about the power of God and the Resurrection," the Rev. Guy

Reedy said to his small flock, who sat on chunks of broken concrete, piles of brick and wooden chairs pulled from the First Baptist Church. "We can look around at all this, and see the hand of God. He has spared us."

Meanwhile, in New York City, thousands of people marched up Fifth Avenue in cool but sunny weather in the city's annual Easter parade.

"Where's the parade?" Janet Bond of Chester, England, asked a police officer as the crowd milled around.

"You're in it," the officer replied. Marcher Bob Finn, 45, balanced on his head one of the parade's showiest bonnets — a 6-foot-high, 35-pound headpiece filled with eggs.

"I ate 'em all and I painted 'em all," Finn said.

In Wilmington, Mass., five anti-nuclear protesters were arrested for trespassing at the Avco Systems Division plant after slipping through a fence about 3:30 a.m. to celebrate Easter Mass, police said.

Charter bus driver cited for negligent homicide

PAROWAN, Utah (AP) — The driver of a bus filled with students on a ski trip was cited Sunday for negligent homicide in the deaths of two teen-agers killed when he fell asleep and the bus crashed, the Highway Patrol said.

Forty-three others were injured in the wreck Saturday morning about four miles north of Parowan on Interstate 15 in southwestern Utah. The bus was returning students from Orange County, Calif., high schools from a ski trip to Steamboat Springs, Colo. Trooper David Excell said the bus went off the right side of the highway and then veered off the interstate when the driver overcorrected and it rolled over in the median strip.

An investigation of the accident determined that driver Samuel Peyton "fell asleep at the wheel. We feel he had no intent to hurt anyone. But we simply feel he should have been more aware of the fact that he was tired and should have stopped the bus," Excell said.

Excell added that the 37-year-old driver was "greatly emotionally upset" about the accident.

Amy George, 17, of Dana Point, Calif., and Byron Hearne, 16, of Mission Viejo, Calif., were killed in the wreck.

The traffic citation, charging him with a misdemeanor, was issued to Peyton shortly before he was discharged Sunday from Cedar City's Valley View Medical Center.

Five others also were discharged from the medical center Sunday after being treated for various bone fractures. The other "victims" were treated at hospitals Saturday, then released.

Excell said Peyton was accompanied by two vice presidents of California Charters Inc., which owned the bus — one of six chartered by the Boy Scouts of America for ski trip. The Explorer Scouts run the ski clubs at the high schools.

CIA accused of directing Nicaraguan rebels

NEW YORK (AP) — Costa Rican government officials and anti-Sandinista guerrillas say the CIA has been supplying a Nicaraguan rebel group through airlifts and is directing the group's military strategy. The New York Times reported Sunday.

The officials and guerrillas told the Times the CIA had suspended aid to the Democratic Revolutionary Alliance several times, and recently threatened to reduce aid in order to direct military actions.

The Costa Rican officials, who were not identified, said the CIA had given tons of military equipment and hundreds of thousands of dollars to the rebels.

The guerrillas operate from bases in Costa Rica and are commanded by Eden Pastora Gomez, a former high-ranking official in Nicaragua's Sandinista regime.

The officials said most of the military supplies were airlifted into Costa Rican jungles aboard World War II-era Douglas DC-3s that apparently are based in El Salvador.

ABC News, quoting unidentified sources, reported Sunday night that the CIA has tripled the number of agents it has working in Costa Rica, and is funneling more than $400,000 a month to the Nicaraguan rebels.

The network also said the rebels are directed and controlled by the CIA from the rebels' military headquarters in "San Jose," Costa Rica. Orders are carried out on secret landing strips hidden in the rugged mountains of Costa Rica, it said.

Other views Anti-terrorism policy the proper thing to do

After the week's shocking events in London and Tripoli, anyone who doubts that the Reagan administration is on the right track in its get-tough policy against international terrorism still believes that the Ayatollah Khomeini leads a group of religious agrarian reformers.

Three years ago, in her excellent book, "The Terror Network," author Claire Sterling described in detail a "concerted assault on the shrinking area of the world still under democratic rule."

The wanton shooting of protesting demonstrators on the streets of London from the Libyan Embassy — recognized as Libyan territory under international law — is another form of assault on the freedoms of an open society.

So is Libya's response: Blaming London for the violence there because the British rejected its demand that the protest be banned, and besieging the British Embassy in Tripoli.

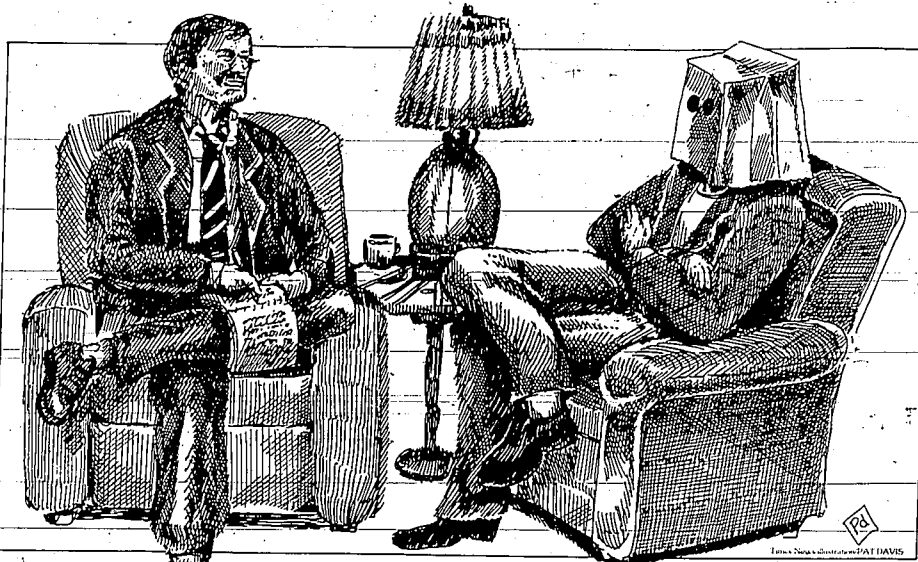

In approving a policy that includes preemptive strikes as well as reprisals against terrorism, particularly the state-sponsored variety, President Reagan is finally saying that open season on U.S. diplomats and other aides abroad is over.

The punctilious among us already are questioning details, apparently concerned that some Cuban-trained, PLO-armed, Libyan-financed Red Brigades might not be read his-her Miranda rights properly.

This is not to say that some aspects of the new policy won't need refinement and careful scrutiny. Expansion of domestic intelligence work by the FBI and other agencies cannot become license for witch-hunts and leaks to the press and Congress.

There is no question, however, that the time is past due to begin holding to account nations such as Iran and Libya, which openly condone — and use — terror as a way of doing business. The terror networks must be broken up, even if it means carrying the lesson to their host nations. Otherwise, the car bombs and gunfire so familiar in foreign cities will soon become part of our scenery as well.

Anonymous news

Growing number of stories without attribution harms credibility.

WASHINGTON — It's in the newspaper every day but you don't know his name.

Some people wonder if he really exists. Or if he's telling the truth. Or if he has an axe to grind.

Sometimes he is a woman, but you never know, because he is an "anonymous source." He, she, it, seems ever present. On one recent day:

• In Washington, a Reagan administration official "who spoke only on condition that he not be identified" said the United States is "capable and prepared" to retaliate against terrorist attacks on American officials abroad.

• In San Salvador, a military source "who requested anonymity for security reasons" said a large number of Democratic Force fighters were massed at the Honduran border to reinforce El Salvador rebels.

Years ago, sources might say, "Don't quote me, but ..." Now, someone who wants to pass information to a reporter but doesn't want his name attached to it, is likely to say, "Can we go on background?"

That means: "I'll agree to talk with you if you agree not to use my name or title." Instead, the reporter quotes an administration source or a Pentagon official or "an aide close to the secretary."

In Washington, a lot of information is put out on that basis. It is a practice that makes readers suspicious and sometimes angry.

At a time when the news business is under fire, stories without named attribution raise credibility questions.

How do readers know the reporter just didn't write fiction and attribute it to "an administration source"? How can they judge the truthfulness of what they read if they don't know the source?

Despite these questions, the practice has become so entrenched that it's almost become second nature to reporters and newsmen alike.

Readers might assume that "an official who asked not to be identified" was a "leaker," putting out news that would get him in trouble if his name were revealed.

That's sometimes, but not usually, the case. More often the source is an official, sometimes quoted by name elsewhere in the same news story, who has information that he considers too sensitive, for reasons of his own, to have directly attributed to him.

That's the source's problem, but not usually, the case. More often the source is an official, sometimes quoted by name elsewhere in the same news story, who has information that he considers too sensitive, for reasons of his own, to have directly attributed to him.

That explains the frequent use of such awkward phrases as "...who spoke only on condition that he not be named."

At the White House, hardly a day passes that some clerk talks to reporters under rules that conceal his identification. On "budget day," even, even the sampling error of the survey. When matched against Monday, Reagan led by 52 percent to 44 percent. Even that seems surprisingly close, given the general impression — even among many leading Democrats — that Reagan looks unbeatable.

Before taking on the Democrats in the fall, however, the Reagan men are first preparing party.

When the usual process of holding public hearings as part of the platform-writing operation for the Republican National Convention was canceled this year, the White House brass was accused of wanting to stifle public expressions of dissent from moderate Republicans.

"I won't deny that was part of the reason," says a Reagan-Bush re-election official. "But you should remember that not all of the troublemakers we could expect to sound off at platform hearings come from our left."

hundreds of reporters crowd an auditorium to question the secretary of the treasury, the head of the Office of Management and Budget and the president's chief economic adviser. They are candid or not, truthful or not, and it's all "on background."

Senators and representatives are in the business of generating, not shunning, publicity, but sometimes even they demand anonymity.

The first word of the resignation of Harrison A. Williams, D-N.J., in the asbestos episode came from a Senate colleague who would speak a reporter only "on background." And the first word of Richard M. Nixon's decision to resign from the presidency came that way.

Professional sources often speak "on background" for a simple reason: Their boss, the senator, wants his name in the paper, not his aide's. Reporters prefer to name their sources; names provide credibility.

Who a source is identified, other people can go to him for verification or amplification. And if the information turns out to be incorrect, the reader knows where it came from.

Officials speak to reporters on a not-for-attribution basis for a variety of reasons, not all of them altruistic. They want to give their views exposure. They want to float trial balloons. They want to sell reporters and readers on what they see as the indisputable logic of their behavior. Or they president says this, but what McFarlane says he means is this.

Often the anonymous source is someone at the very top, higher than even McFarlane.

Both men who served Jimmy Carter as secretary of state, Cyrus Vance and Edmund Muskie, held Friday afternoon "backgrounders" for State Department reporters, sometimes over drinks. Dean Rusk, secretary of state in the Lyndon Johnson administration, did the same thing in the same place.

Brian Carlson, a Foreign Service career officer who currently directs the department's press office, says of the State Department's memo on talking to reporters, "It's not a department regulation. It's not enclosed in a body of regulations, never been circulated as a department notice. To that extent, it's not official."

His boss, John Hughes, assistant secretary of state for public affairs and spokesman for the department, had never seen it until a reporter showed it to him in preparing this story.

The memo spells out four categories for dealing with reporters' questions:

• "On the record." That means the source can be quoted by name and title.

• "Background." The reporter can attribute the news to "State Department officials," "U.S. officials," "Administration sources" or "diplomatic sources" or a variation of those.

• "Deep Background." The writer can't even hint at his source. He must write it without attribution or with some vague phrase like "It is understood..." or "It has been learned..."

• "Off the Record." The information can't be used at all.

The department is not new. Ernest Lindley was Washington bureau chief of Newsweek in the 1950s. In those days, "deep background" didn't exist, so he invented it as a midpoint between "background" and "off the record" and it took his name.

Like the other ground rules, the Lindley Rule offered a tradeoff: more anonymity for more candor; more information but less attribution.

Hughes was a diplomatic correspondent for the Christian Science Monitor for many years and later served as editor of the Monitor and president of the American Society of Newspaper Editors. He discussed the practice of "going on background" in an interview.

"It simply affords the opportunity to be a little more forthcoming, a little more direct, without causing diplomatic embarrassment," Hughes said. "It's a way where an official can be a little franker, give a little more background to a situation that he could not if he's going to be quoted by name and title and be held accountable."

"But if you say, 'My editor's got to have an on-the-record comment,' you say, 'OK, here's the on-the-record comment.'"

Could overconfidence damage Reagan's huge popularity?

WASHINGTON — With President Reagan's popularity continuing to soar, his political strategists are beginning to see overconfidence as perhaps their greatest enemy.

Loye Miller Jr. over the past year, reports, "Such a strong upward trend on the part of an incumbent president seeking re-election is without precedent in Gallup's 50 years of polling experience."

Indeed, even though they have closed the platform-writing operation as much as possible, the president's handlers expect to have a difficult time avoiding embarrassment from the ultra-conservatives on the party's right wing, who made some sections of the 1980 GOP platform much stronger than the Reagan men wanted.

He said in a speech on March 23, 1983, that the United States seeks "a better military superiority nor political advantage over the Soviet Union. But he also has said that if a so-called "peace through strength" resolution for military superiority over the Soviets were passed by Congress, he would endorse it.

The moment of truth will come at the August GOP convention in Dallas, when the Reagan officials who will control the writing of the party platform have to decide what it will say about this.

But Winthlin is by no means the only pollster to find Reagan strong right now. The Gallup Poll, noting that Reagan's public approval rating has risen from 33 percent to 55 percent

Yet Gallup's figures also delineate the contradictions in Reagan's ratings that make his backers nervous.

That section regulated, in spirit at least, the SALT II agreement that in any future negotiations the United States and the Soviet Union should seek "parity" in nuclear strength rather than superiority on either side.

As president, Reagan has given conflicting signals on this point.

Loye Miller Jr. writes from Washington for Newsweek Service.

Smithsonian wages own Mideast 'war'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Smithsonian Institution, the world's largest museum complex, is embroiled in a Middle East political controversy over 11 artifacts housed in a museum in Jerusalem.

The dispute has prompted the cancellation of a touring exhibit, upset the Israeli government, drawn praise from a pro-Arab group and angered a congressman. The government-supported institution's board of regents will consider the controversy at a meeting May 7.

At issue are 11 items from the John D. Rockefeller

Museum in East Jerusalem, the Arab section of the city controlled by the Jordanians until Israel annexed it after the Six Day War in 1967.

The items were to be part of a larger, 320-piece traveling exhibit entitled the "Archeology of Israel." The other pieces came from outside East Jerusalem.

The exhibit originally was to open at the Smithsonian's Museum of Natural History on May 4 and run through July 15 before moving on to other cities. It was planned as a joint effort between the Smithsonian and the Israel Museum, a private institution whose board chairman is Teddy Kolek, Jerusalem's mayor.

Before plans were completed for the exhibit, the Smithsonian's staff asked late last year that 11 objects from the Rockefeller Museum be omitted because "their ownership is in some dispute," said Smithsonian spokesman Alvin Rosenfeld.

The Israelis then canceled the entire show because "the exhibition would have been incomplete without those items."

Training saving lives

SAN MIGUEL, El Salvador (AP) — U.S. Army advisers training medics for the Salvadoran armed forces believe they are making progress in their efforts to see fewer soldiers die needlessly.

Combat medics were almost unknown to the average Salvadoran army company before the U.S. Army began a crash program last May to train soldiers in the basics of saving lives.

"There are more of them who are brought in alive and more of them who are surviving," said one Western observer familiar with the team's work. He, too, spoke on condition of anonymity for security reasons.

Before the team started training medics, one of every three Salvadoran soldiers wounded in action against leftist guerrillas later died. The comparable wartime statistic in the U.S. military was one of eight.

"We are beginning to see the results," said one U.S. adviser at the army garrison in this city about 85 miles east of the capital. He and other members of the medical team agreed to be interviewed on condition that, for security reasons, they not be identified.

The U.S. medical advisers say that in the past, it was not unknown for a Salvadoran soldier to bleed to death on the battlefield simply because no one knew how to apply a tourniquet. Basic equipment, such as bandages, has been distributed since their arrival.

200 killed in rebel bombing

PARIS (AP) — The Angolan rebel group UNITA claimed responsibility Sunday for the bombing of a barracks in central Angola, and said the blast killed more than 200 people.

UNITA said two Soviet Army lieutenant colonels and 37 Cuban officers were among those killed. The rebel group's estimate of deaths from the Thursday bombing in the provincial capital of Huambo was higher than numbers reported in Yugoslav and Soviet news accounts published Sunday.

Tanjung reported from the Angolan capital of Luanda that about 30 people were killed and more than 70 injured when a jeep loaded with dynamite exploded in the town. The Soviet news agency Tass said from Luanda that 100 people died in the attack, which it termed a monstrous "crime."

UNITA — the National Union for the Total Independence of Angola — a guerrilla faction opposed to Angola's Marxist-Leninist government, said in a statement issued in Paris that the bombing was the beginning of a new campaign of urban terror.

Sniper fire rattles cease-fire

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Moslem and Christian militiamen traded sniper and rocket fire near the newly deployed disengagement force on Sunday, and three members of a Christian family were killed in an ambush south of Beirut.

Explosions echoed along the "green line" frontier between Christian east Beirut and mostly Moslem west Beirut.

Fifteen hundred policemen and draftees and 200 truce observers have been deployed in a buffer zone between the combatants in the last three days.

ANNOUNCING... A Revolutionary New Level Pay Plan That Pays You Interest!

Right now you can take advantage of Intermountain Gas Company's level pay plan which levels out your monthly gas bills. And we've added an attractive benefit if you participate.

Intermountain Gas will pay you 6% interest on your monthly credit balances.

(Certain Conditions Apply)

This bonus feature is a first in Idaho and it really revolutionizes the level pay concept.

How to Qualify:
To qualify for interest you must remain on the level pay plan for 12 consecutive months. Interest will be compounded monthly and credited to your account in the 12th month. If you move or discontinue your level pay plan before the end of the 12 month period, no interest will be applied to your account.

How Level Pay Works:
An estimate of the total amount of gas you will use over a one-year period is calculated based on normal winter weather. The projected cost is divided into 12 equal monthly payments. We'll read your meter each month and indicate the actual amount of gas used and the cost of each billing. Your level pay amount is analyzed periodically and adjusted if necessary.

How You Benefit:
With the level pay plan, you'll know every month what your gas bill is going to be. There'll be no surprises when cold weather arrives. And, during warm months when you build an account credit balance, you'll be earning interest on your money. Now, isn't that a comforting thought?

How to Participate:
This month's gas bill shows the level pay amount for your account. If you pay that amount, you'll automatically be on the level pay program. Your gas bills will remain the same and you'll earn interest, too. Join the level pay plan with a bonus, today! Only from Intermountain Gas Company.

School district probed for asbestos violations

IDAHO FALLS (AP) — The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has given Bonneville School District 93 one month to produce documents proving it inspected its buildings for asbestos.

Asbestos, which can cause lung cancer, was at one time widely used for fireproofing and insulation. The EPA estimates that about 14,000 schools nationwide contain asbestos. Those schools contain a total of 3 million students and 250,000 staff members.

A 30-day deadline notice was sent to District 93 last week, after an EPA investigator found last month that the district had failed to take the required steps to determine if school buildings contain asbestos, the EPA's Seattle office said.

District 93 Supt. Richard Goodworth said Sunday the deadline is the result of a misunderstanding.

Goodworth, who has been superintendent for less than a year, said he's been informed that the district did comply with EPA requirements and sent the information to the EPA some time prior to last June. But Goodworth said that the person responsible for those documents has since retired.

When the EPA's inspector came to the district there was no one there who could put their hands on the documents, Goodworth said.

"The district received word of the deadline late Friday. When the office opens on Monday, Goodworth said, 'We'll be trying to get in touch with the individual who's retired, to tell us where the documents are.'"

"To the best of my knowledge, the report that was submitted indicated no asbestos in any building in the district," Goodworth added.

The EPA will revisit the school district in 30 days. If it's determined that the district is not in compliance at that point, the agency could seek to impose payment of civil penalties. As of late March, EPA had taken that action in three instances. They involved the Philadelphia public schools and two small districts in Ohio and New Hampshire.

In those cases, the penalties ranged from $12,000 to $36,000.

Rivers recede; highway to reopen

ONTARIO, Ore. (AP) — The Snake River receded to below flood stage Sunday and was forecast to continue to drop, but the river remained "quite high" and southeastern Oregon flood victims could not yet return to their homes, authorities said.

The Snake River dropped to 118 feet Sunday afternoon at Welter in Western Idaho, the National Weather Service said. Flood stage is 12 feet.

"The flood warning has ended for the Snake river although the river remains quite high," the National Weather Service said. "It will continue to lower."

"It hasn't receded enough for people to return to their homes yet," said Ontario police dispatcher Cheryl Ziegler. "It hasn't gone down that far, and it may not even stay where it is," said state police Sgt. William Santo in Ontario. "The situation is still much the same."

Most of the people evacuated were from a 40-unit trailer park near Owyhee in eastern Oregon.

Flood warnings remained in effect for the Owyhee River below Owyhee Reservoir in eastern Oregon, and for the Portneuf River in southeastern Idaho.

The Owyhee Reservoir's outflow wasn't stemmed Sunday, but the National Weather Service said that weather conditions might permit reservoir operators to reduce the flow

Monday and help ease the flooding downstream.

"Despite warm temperatures today (Sunday) — cool overnight readings have helped further reduce the flow on Idaho rivers," the Weather Service said.

DEAR ABBY: I am the president of the South Philadelphia High School Alumni Association, and I have a question to make. We saw this item in your column in the Philadelphia Daily News, and we read it so much we used it in our newsletter. Dear Abby: What a thrill I just had! A former student of many years telephoned from across the country to tell me that I had made a difference in his life. He wanted to thank me for not giving up on him. He began his conversation by saying, 'You probably won't even remember me...' How wrong he was. Not only did I remember what he looked like, I even remembered his small, neat handwriting. "Abby, if any of your readers had a schoolteacher who has made a difference in their lives, please urge them to take a few minutes to let that teacher know. "One call from a former student has inspired me to hang in there with students I now have and will have in the future. —Ula Pendleton, Los Angeles "Dear Ula: Thank you for inspiring the following: Readers: Did you have a teacher who made a difference in your life? A teacher who encouraged you to stay in school when you wanted to quit? A teacher who believed in you and your ability to succeed when you had no confidence in yourself? A teacher who stayed late to give you the extra help you needed? If so, please phone or write that teacher and say thank you. It will make that teacher's day." Abby, because of that write-up, a lot of former South Philadelphia students contacted their former teachers, and it really made their day. Keep up the good work. I hope you don't mind. —BILL FISHER, HADDONFIELD DEAR BILL: It's a great idea that

L.M. Boyd What's what

A horse can't see the end of its nose.

In all the history of Iceland, there has been one, only one, armed robbery.

You've seen pictures of President Ronald Reagan swinging an ax at his California ranch home. More to it than exercise. Only he in that house comes from the sun and two fireplaces.

Esquimos and other gormels will tell you the tenderest piece of meat on the whale is in its forehead.

ACTION

Q. What's that New York City outfit that calls itself "G.O.A.L."?

A. Gay Officers Action League. It's a 51-member group of gays in the city's criminal justice system. Thirty-one are police officers.

Q. Didn't every Mississippi River boat have a gambler aboard?

A. Pritnear. Some "steambath" explains entertained the superstition that it was bad luck to set off without a professional gambler. Ever hear of George Devol of Marietta, Ohio? He was a professional card player who made his living on the Mississippi for 40 years, the most famous of the lot, according to the historical footnotes.

Q. What's the longest street in Chicago?

A. Western Avenue — 24 1/2 miles.

KISSING AND HUGGING

What you call "making out," my child, was known in your granddad's day as "pitching woo." But by the time your dad had reason to understand the expression, it was quaintly out of date, and "necking" was the common term, yea very common, while "making out" was synonymous with the also-common "going all the way." Our Love and War man in concert with our Language man keeps accurate notes on these matters. Pay attention. You don't want to miss what's new in this lexicon of lust. Like "exsultate," for example. It's today's word for extremely passionate kissing.

Amish children quit school after the eighth grade.

So you thought electricity travels through a wire, did you? Likewise. But no, it follows an electrical field that surrounds the wire.

'Carring' couple wins trophy without trying

By ANNETTE CARV
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — For car buffs, it was an orgy of sumptuous interiors and impeccable paint jobs reflecting rows of chrome and enough flames to make even Satan feel at home.

But for Jim and Lois Bolton of Twin Falls, the annual Rod and Custom Show in their home town was a bit of an embarrassment.

For two years, their 1932 two-door Ford sedan has swept the prizes at rod and custom car shows, gathering over 40 trophies. But this year's show at the College of Southern Idaho Expo Center was going to be different they vowed.

"These got too embarrassing," Lois says, waving her hand at the trophies displayed around the car, some taller than she. "We kind of felt like it was someone else's turn; we wanted to share with the others."

They had planned not to enter the show, but members of the Magic Valley Early Iron Club convinced them to at least display their Ford without entering the competition, says club secretary and treasurer Diana Wilkerson.

And so 115 entrants dutifully deleted the Bolton's Ford from their judging sheets. But the Bolton's still took home an extra trophy on Sunday night when spectators at the two-day show voted the car "People's Choice."

"It's the color" is Jim's explanation of the car's popularity. "If it was black it would not do nearly as well."

He and Lois spent weeks spraying 33 coats of paint over the classic boxy lines of their sedan. First came coats of black paint, followed by a white primer layer and then layer on layer of a candy-lined brandy wine, a "real grabby color," Jim says.

But the paint job was the least of their effort. For the last three years, they have come home from work and retired to the garage until the few hours of the morning to work on their Ford. It was the same on the weekends, Lois says, with time out for church.

"This is the third car they have fixed up, they say, not counting the car that started the hobby, a '31 Chevrolet coupe they fixed up to deliver papers and drive to school when he was 14."

By the time he met Lois, cruising Main Street, Twin Falls, he was driving a '40 Ford coupe and she was driving a 1937 Ford. "It was a marriage made in Ford heaven," Jim says grinning. "We both loved cars."

Lois does all the upholstery work, from the stitching on the doors to the detailed stitching on the seats on "my little old Bernina," she says. She also did much of the sanding on the Ford, working alongside Jim.

Other than the paint that ranges from black to candy-apple red under the play of lights, the car looks little different than it would have rolling off the assembly line in 1932 — outside that, is, inside, the Boltons have equipped it with just about every travel convenience known to man.

Besides air conditioning and cruise control, the dashboard features an on-board computer that tells the Boltons anything from how much gas they have left to their estimated time of arrival.

But little else on the car is expensive. There is less chrome on the Ford than on many of the other cars displayed — too expensive, Jim explains. And they have accumulated the parts like the $80 authentic cow lights under the windshield over the last 18 years.

Both are emphatic that the time was well-spent. "There is a lot of satisfaction for having hand-built something that is usable, that is unique," Jim says. "And sometimes we still cruise Main Street," Lois says.

Dale Fisher pulls a frame from one of his hives in the countryside east of Kimberly

Raising bees enjoyable part-time job for engineer, farmer in partnership

By JOE NEAVE
Times-News correspondent

KIMBERLY — The day is cool and overcast and around and around the white hive box bees are humming, hundreds of them, buzzing in erratic circles by the entrance.

It is not good weather for handling bees and Dale Fisher, their keeper, is wearing a dark blue jacket with a fur-lined collar, exactly what he says are the wrong clothes for bee handling.

Engrossed in explaining beekeeping, he takes the cover off the hive and gently removes one of 10 frames, exposing a mass of bees at the hive's entrance. He says, "They're all like that, they're all like that."

"These are my Italians," he says, referring to the strain he raises. "As far as I'm concerned they're the most ethnically pleasing." "They're a nice yellow color, they were Carniolans, they'd look like a mess of tar in there, all dark brown."

He slips the frame back into the box and replaces the lid. Bees are diving bombing his arms and beginning to cluster on the fur of his jacket collar. Unfazed, Fisher picks up a bee by grasping its wings and holds it out for inspection, pointing to the pollen caught on one of its straggling rear legs. By the color he can identify the pollen source.

He is in a back yard in Kimberly, and the bee he is holding might have picked up the pollen from anywhere inside a five-mile radius of the hive. A dog frisks about Fisher's knees, snapping at the droning insects and wagging his tail. The dog and Fisher are used to this sort of thing. Fisher laughs and shakes a knot of them off his collar.

"I'm not exactly dressed for this today," he says. "With this gear I won't handle them any more." Fisher and Keith Egbert, his partner, are owners of the Honey House in Kimberly. They are known in the beekeeping world as sideline-ers.

"That means we have other jobs, but are still in it to make some money," Fisher explains. "We distinguish three types of beekeepers. There's sideliners, like us. Then there are arm enough to be more registered with the state. The larger keepers in the area are Hancock in Jerome and B & B Apiaries in Buhl. They have about 250 colonies. The hobbyist is the other type—the guy who just likes bees."

Fisher and Egbert formed the Honey House in 1980 to market the products of their own colonies. They soon found, however, that other hobbyists in the area needed help and supplies that commercial beekeepers were unable to give. So they expanded into a product supply line, and have been giving classes in beekeeping through the College of Southern Idaho.

"We recommend that hobbyists take the class before they begin to get too seriously into things. It's a 16-hour class we've been teaching for four or five years, and in that time a person can learn enough to decide if they really want to do it. About half

Honey harvesting deeply entrenched in centuries of history, culture, lore

By JOE NEAVE
Times-News correspondent

KIMBERLY — Man has been harvesting honey ever since he first discovered it, and sticking it in his mouth found it was good.

The Chinese and Egyptians made around the first attempts at controlling and managing bees by creating artificial beehives for them. These were crude affairs of clay and mud, but were basically the best—that apian-House-in-Kimberly technology could come up with for several thousand years. This all changed in 1851, when Rev. Lorenzo Lorraine Langstroth, the father of modern beekeeping, discovered the principle of bee space and a far more efficient form of production.

Today, all bee colonies must be registered with the state Department of Agriculture, which inspects regularly to help control American foulbrood—a deadly and highly contagious disease which afflicts colonies in the country.

Once a year inspectors come to check your colony. The bees themselves are purchased one of two ways—in a package, which is two to five pounds of bees—with a queen that can be sent through the mail, or by nuc, a nuclear hive that includes bees, brood queen, pollen and comb. The nuc cost a bit more than $32, but will immediately begin honey production. Bees bought by the package need to spend their first six weeks or so building a comb, so honey is the least expensive to produce, is

He says a number of methods of production and a wide variety of helpful and not so helpful tools are available, and the cost can rise or fall accordingly.

"The least expensive to produce, is comb honey," Fisher says. "It's made in standard frames. To market it, some people sell the whole frame, comb and all, wrapped in plastic wrap. You've got to understand that. Extracted honey (the clear, bottled variety not including comb) uses the comb over and over. It's more efficient and a little more," he says.

Helps history buffs, architects

Library branches out as historical record for Magic Valley

By ROBERT DOYLE
Times-News correspondent

KETCHUM — Last year, a Ketchum architectural firm faced a dilemma. It had been hired to restore a Halley building to its original appearance, but no one was quite sure what changes, if any, would be necessary.

To the rescue came the Regional History Department, a newly created branch of the Community Library of Ketchum.

The department had already collected over 1,100 photographs — and among those photos were several pictures of the building in question. With this graphic record, the architects had what they needed to recreate the past down to the last detail.

"We're here to help history buffs, or in the case of the architectural firm, anyone who has an interest in the area's past," says Ginger Stang, the Regional History Department's librarian.

"And when I say area, I mean Jerome, Gooding, the Wood River Valley, Twin Falls and most of south central Idaho."

"In fact, much of the impetus to begin collecting and compiling local data came when the library was the recipient of a wonderful collection of oral history tapes from Miriam Breckenridge, a Twin Falls resident."

William has spent countless hours recording material pertinent to the area's sheep industry and her contribution added to the library's small but growing resource of local history.

"The arrival of these tapes coincided with work being done by Deanne Thompson, a Halley resident, who was collecting material for the Halley Centennial. Deanne Thompson and took over the task of cataloging and classifying all this information," says Stone.

And from those beginnings was the result, a section of the community library devoted exclusively to local history. Best of all, these are primary resources, history told and/or recorded by those who lived it," Stone adds.

"Today's technology makes it possible to record and preserve that past in a way not available to previous generations," says Head Librarian Dorothy Thomas.

"How I wish I had recorded my own ancestors, everyone has a story to tell and each story makes a contribution to our knowledge of a way of life — a way of life that might otherwise be lost. This department was created to insure that doesn't happen. We're going to do our best to reach every person who can share their collections or memories of this area's history."

This is no small task. Librarian Stone works a 40-hour week, making copies of photographs, microfilming diaries and cataloging all materials that come into the library. Under the heading of oral history, there are 16 tapes with 100 different narrators. Historians need the library can hear the taped voice of Averell Harriman, Sun Valley's founder, or stories are vital to any comprehensive understanding of Idaho's history.

Despite the work of numerous volunteers, there still exists a backlog of individuals whom the library would like to get on tape.

Those who wish to help need only call the library at 726-3493. They'll soon find themselves with a tape recorder in hand, listening to a story that will enrich the life of the interviewer, while providing valuable source material for the library's collection.

For those who wish to utilize the Regional History Department, there is a simple criteria: "For scholarly and educational purposes, access is gained by filling out a request which is presented to the head librarian. If approved, a 'researcher's agreement' is signed, and all materials are made available. Hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily Monday through Friday."

Stang says she is willing — she knows that the near future, someone will come to her and say, "I'm here to write the definitive history of this area. Can you help me?"

Ex-assessor: Tax system needs 'a total revamp'

By RICK SHAUGHNESSY
Times-News writer

JEROME — Bill Kersey, a Jerome real estate agent and former county assessor, says Idaho's system of taxation requires nothing less than "a total revamp."

The 53-year-old son of a blacksmith, a candidate for Senate from the district that includes Jerome, Cassia and Minidoka counties, says he wants to abolish the personal property tax and enforce uniform methods of property assessments between counties.

Because assessments are not uniform, Jerome County property owners are being overtaxed for the community college and school districts that overlap with Twin Falls and Gooding counties, he says. Jerome County assesses properties at full market value, while Twin Falls and Gooding assessments are not up to the full market value required by state law, Kersey says.

He also is critical of the number of exemptions contained in state tax laws.

Kersey, who served four years as a Democrat while assessor, has changed to the Republican party for his Legislative race, which begins with primary opponents Keith Huetig, a Hazelton farmer, and Lynn Tomlinaga, a Paul farmer. Kersey says he left the Democrats because he couldn't support the Democratic platform.

Kersey says he supports right to life and also thinks Idahoans should choose for themselves whether the state runs a lottery.

Kersey attended schools in Jerome, Camas and Casco counties before enlisting in the Navy in 1947. In the service he completed medical and sanitation programs. He holds two associate's degrees from the College of Southern Idaho, one in bacteriology, the other in real estate.

He says he is particularly interested in the state's nuclear and hazardous waste storage industries.

"I have realized the only way to protect what you have is by being active," he says. He says he is concerned about contamination of the Snake River aquifer from lithium and uranium from the settlement ponds at the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory near Arco.

"We should not allow other states to send radioactive or chemical wastes into the state," he says, explaining that the situation caused by those practices threaten the quality of life on the Snake River Plain.

Ketchum, Sun Valley officials juggling plan for broad tax

By DAVE LEWIS
Times-News writer

KETCHUM — With a new option tax for resort areas approved by the Idaho Legislature, Ketchum and Sun Valley officials are thinking about a broader-based tax than the one they now have.

He says this is because state law prohibits eligible cities from taking the matter to the voters within one year of the last time they voted on it.

Jaquet says Ketchum will begin to hold hearings this summer to determine the package the city will present to voters, asking to change the tax to include areas of the city's economy not covered by the current tax.

owners when they sought to renew the tax. The Sun Valley Co. filed suit against the city of Sun Valley to challenge the constitutionality of the tax and the Wood River Lodging Association, filed a similar suit against Ketchum in an attempt to abolish the tax.

Three remain hospitalized after two-car crash

BUHL — Three people remain in the hospital following a two-car accident Sunday night east of Buhl that closed a section of Highway 30 for more than an hour.

Baldwin has been cited for failure to yield at an intersection.

Shauna Jones, 18, of Twin Falls were passengers in Baldwin's pick-up.

Jack Brown, Sun Valley, administrator, says City Hall will contact businesses this spring to get them involved in the process of changing the law.

Alan Penney, owner of the River Run Lodge in Ketchum and a member of the lodging association, says the group will keep its suit active against the city until it sees what changes in the local option law are made by the city and approved by the voters.

decide afterwards that they don't, and that's fine," Fisher says.

Boxes of pre-cut parts for hives are stacked in Egbert's shed, nestled against air blowers, smokers, and stainless steel radial extractors — drums that whip the honey out of the bees with centrifugal force.

But equipment is a personal choice, and I think it's not to wear. Over a year's time I'll get stung 200 to 300 times, but Keith, who wears the equipment, will only get stung three times.

"Beekeepers are a funny group," Fisher says. "They're very independent. A form of hunter-gatherer like the Indians. We don't add anything to the land, but we don't take anything away, either. Just carefully why I keep bees is hard to articulate."

GOODING — The water level of the Big Wood River near Gooding was declining Sunday night, although some farmland still lay under water, according to Watermaster Reid Newby.

all his care on only a few colonies, thus giving him the chance to do everything right, Fisher says.

"Bees communicate by smell, and are extremely sensitive to odor. Large mammals are their main predators, so through evolution they've become accustomed to attacking anything that smells like leather or fur.

"Bees are a perceived problem. People think they sting a lot, but it's just not true. Unless you step on one or go klick a hive, there's very little chance the average person will be stung."

Gooding police still were watching the river, but not as closely as earlier in the week when flooding was at its peak, covering farmland along some parts of the river and surrounding a few homes, reported a Gooding police dispatcher.

Few lead shifts in state women's bowling

TWIN FALLS — With two weeks left in the Idaho State Women's Bowling Tournament, very few leads changed in the eighth weekend of action at the Bowldrome and Magic Bowl.

Mae's Southpac Magic, a team comprised of bowlers from Twin Falls and Boise, held onto the top spot in the Class A team standings with 2,814 points, while Jim's Construction from first place in the Class B event with 2,455 points.

Larrie Hash from Filer stayed on top in the Class B division with her state record of 1,732 points in the Individual all-events competition while two Magic Valley bowlers remained in second place. Kay Gillespie held on to second place in the Class B category behind Hash with 1,681 points and Jo Groesbeck from Mini-Cassia is second in the Class C event trailing Boise's Chris Bauer by five points.

Diane Jones of Twin Falls remains in first place in the Class C division of the singles competition with 586 points, while Caldwell's Lori Wilmoth also stayed in first place in the Class A standings with 654 points. The major change in the singles events came when two Mini-Cassia bowlers took over first place in two divisions. Elaine Larson knocked Righty's Jo Mae 2 out from the top spot in the Class D event by 29 points and Jerri Hutchison sent Alta Wright from Idaho Falls to second place as the Mini-Cassia bowler edged Wright by five points.

There were no changes in the top spots in the doubles competition as Peggy Answorth and Hash from Filer were still in first place in the Class B event holding a 71-point lead over Sheri Hill and Kay Gillespie from Twin Falls. Lois Hanson and Sue Cameron from Twin Falls remained in second place trailing Preston's Sandra Hubbard and Ruth Owens by three points.

76ers survive; L.A. goes on

New York, Denver, Phoenix also triumph in NBA playoffs

By The Associated Press

Julius Erving scored 11 of his 27 points in the fourth quarter and Moses Malone added 21 points and 17 rebounds as the defending world champion Philadelphia 76ers defeated the New York Nets 100-100 Sunday in East Rutherford, N.J., to remain alive in the first round of the National Basketball Association playoffs.

Maurice Cheeks added 19 points, including a crucial layup with 25 seconds to play after a steal, as the 76ers cut the Nets lead in the best-of-five series to 2-1. The fourth game of the series will be Tuesday night at the Brendan Byrne Arena.

Erving sank a driving basket with 1:09 left and hit one of two free throws 24 seconds later to give the 76ers a 102-100 lead. Cheeks then intercepted Albert King's pass to Michael Ray Richardson near midcourt and converted it into a layup with 25 seconds remaining to give Philadelphia a 104-100 advantage.

Clint Richardson added a layup with 12 seconds to play after Erving made a steal. Erving closed out the scoring with two free throws with five seconds to play.

The 76ers built a six-point lead midway through the fourth quarter but the Nets stormed back behind "Alber" King who hit a pair of free throws in the final period. The Nets had seven of their 23 turnovers in the fourth quarter.

The 76ers looked as if they might pull away in the third quarter when they scored nine straight points to take their biggest lead up to that point at 76-69. But the Nets got their fast break going and scored seven of the final nine points of the quarter to trim the deficit to 78-76 heading into the final period.

Lakers 106, Kings 102

At Kansas City, Mo., Mike McGee, Ervin "Magie" Johnson and Kareem Abdul-Jabbar triggered a quick Los Angeles getaway and helped squeak a late Kansas City rally as the Lakers trailed to a three-game sweep of the Kings.

The Lakers, champions of the Pacific Division of the Western Conference, will meet the winner of the Seattle-Dallas series in the conference semifinals.

Abdul-Jabbar led the Lakers with 27 points, McGee had 22 and Johnson 17. Bob McAdoo had 19 off the bench.

Abdul-Jabbar, who earlier this year became the NBA's all-time scoring leader, got the first bucket of the game to give the Lakers a lead they never relinquished.

The Kings, who have beaten Los Angeles only twice in their last 23 meetings, trailed 59-43 at halftime and 84-72 at the end of three quarters. But Larry Micheaux and Reggie Theus led the Kings in a fourth-quarter surge that saw them slice the lead to 93-88 at 4:49 left.

Abdul-Jabbar hit a stiff shot and a skyhook, and Johnson converted a pair of free throws to restore the Lakers to a 99-88 advantage with 3:29 left.

Nuggets 121, Jazz 117

At Denver, guard Rob Williams scored 10 crucial points down the stretch as Denver pulled away past Utah.

in the best-of-five Western Conference first-round series. Game 4 is scheduled for Denver Tuesday night.

The Nuggets, who trailed by as much as 13 points in the first half, whittled the deficit to four, 64-60, at the half. Dan Issel's 3-point play early in the third quarter gave Denver its "first" lead since midway through the opening quarter, and the lead then seeped until Williams took charge with 4:12 minutes left in the game.

Williams, who had scored only 10 points up to that time, hit an 18-footer to give the Nuggets a 104-101 advantage.

He then sank a 3-point basket from the baseline with 4 minutes left for a 107-103 lead. Then, with 2:40 remaining, he sank a 20-foot jumper to push the Nuggets to their biggest lead of the game to that point at 112-107.

Two free throws by Issel, two more by Karl Vandevoghe and a jumper by Alex English pushed the Nuggets lead to 118-108 with less than 2 minutes to go. Williams tacked on three insurance free throws to help account for the final margin.

Suns 106, Blazers 103

At Phoenix, Walter Davis scored 12 of his 27 points in the fourth period and Maurice Lucas had two crucial baskets in the final minutes as the Suns took a 2-1 lead over Portland in their best-of-five playoff series.

Game 4 in the Western Conference quarterfinal series will be in Phoenix Tuesday night.

Down 54-53 at halftime, 80-73 after the third quarter and 101-96 with 2:31 to go in the game, Phoenix took a 102-101 lead with 1:31 left on Kyle Macy's jumper and back-to-back baskets by Davis in a 19-second span.

Lucas, an ex-Trial Blazer, tipped in a Larry Nance miss with 1:12 remaining and added a jumper for a 106-101 lead with 40 seconds remaining.

Jim Paxson cut Portland's deficit to 106-103 on two free throws with 29 seconds left, but missed a 3-point try at the final buzzer.

Knicks 120, Pistons 113

At New York, Bernard King scored 46 points, tying the New York postseason record he set just two nights earlier, to give the Knicks a 2-1

Montreal right-hander hurls five-inning gem

Rain-delay doesn't spoil Palmer's perfection

ST. LOUIS (AP) — David Palmer, who set down 15 Cardinals in a row to notch a rain-shortened, five-inning perfect game, had more than just the St. Louis weather to worry about.

The Montreal Expos' right-hander had to suffer through a one-hour, 17-minute rain delay Saturday night before he knew his pitching was officially perfect.

Palmer fired the National League's first no-hitter and the second in the majors this season as the Expos beat the Cardinals 4-0 in the second game of a twilight doubleheader. Jack Morris of the Detroit Tigers pitched the season's first no-hitter on April 7 in the American League.

The start of game was rain-delayed more than 30 minutes after Montreal won the opener 6-3. Then it was halted with Montreal batting in the top of the sixth and finally was called at 1:05 a.m., EST.

Palmer, who missed the entire 1983 season following elbow surgery, admitted that during the no-hitter game he called he had to battle his nerves.

"I was trying to keep mentally ready. I didn't want to start celebrating," he said. "At the same time, a perfect game looked good. The good Lord was looking after me. I'm going to remember this for a long time."

Palmer's perfect game was the 16th in major league history and the fourth to go fewer than nine innings. The last to go was by Denny Chance of the Minnesota Twins in 1967 against the Boston Red Sox.

But Palmer, who pitched the first Expos no-hitter since Charlie Lea on May 10, 1981, said he's not disappointed an asterisk will accompany his name in the books.

"It was a five-inning perfect game, but I still go down in the record book and I'll take it," the 27-year-old said.

Palmer struck out two batters and allowed only two balls in the air — a hard line drive by Andy Van Slyke to second baseman Bryan Little in the fourth inning and George Hendrick's routine fly to right fielder Jim Wohlford at the start of the fifth.

"I was just trying to keep the ball down and make them hit it at somebody," he said.

Palmer said he was able to stay loose on the cold, damp night with the aid of a rubber sleeve extending from his wrist to his elbow.

His mound opponent was the same pitcher who tossed a no-hitter at the Expos last Sept. 26 — Bob Forsch, who on this occasion yielded six hits in five innings.

Palmer's potential has been blunted by injuries and just plain bad luck during his four-year career with Montreal.

"I've had games where I've thrown just as well, but the ball would find a way through," he said. "(Bobby) Ramos called a super game. We established the breaking ball in the first inning, but I didn't throw it much after that."

"I've had my bad luck in the past three years, but maybe my luck has changed."

Changing to a fall schedule could mean doom for USFL

One must admire the United States Football League for functioning efficiently.

The league helped itself get started the right way by securing viable television deals. It has sustained itself, in part, by luring big-name college stars such as Herschel Walker, Mike Rozier, Marcus Dupree and Steve Young onto its teams. After last year's initial season, it increased its availability to the public by expanding from 12 to 18 ballclubs.

Now it appears the USFL is prepared to destroy itself as smoothly and effectively as it began.

The proposed shift to a fall schedule, reportedly favored by 12 of the league's 18 owners, could be the USFL's death knell. Given its existing status — uneven attendance, indifferent fan interest — the league already is gasping for air; moving to a fall season would assist it entirely.

This has nothing to do with the USFL's overall level of performance, which, until that point, however, was positively saturated with sports; the lukewarm response to the USFL indicates that the average fan's appetite was sated before the league even began.

Consider what the USFL faces nowadays.

Chris Haft

Its position is hardly enviable, for it has not established itself as a definite recreational or entertainment alternative in the minds of Americans.

Some of the league's teams, such as Jacksonville or San Antonio, face little or no competition from other professional franchises. But many have to contend with the advent of major league baseball shortly after the USFL season begins, and the competition is often one-sided.

For example, during a recent visit to the San Francisco Bay Area, I found that nearly everybody interested in sports — friends, sports writers and broadcasters, people in bars — were discussing the Giants and the Oakland A's. If baseball wasn't the topic, the NCAA basketball tournament was. The Invaders, Oakland's USFL entry, was less than a mere afterthought. One columnist even challenged his readers to name three players on the Invaders' roster.

Then there's the climate factor, raised initially when the league began last year. Those doubting the league's success claimed that if bad weather doesn't keep fans from the stadium, good weather will — potential ticket-buyers will go fishing, water-skiing, sun-tanning or the like.

Or they'll go to a baseball game. Friday in Chicago the Blitz drew 11,713; the Cubs 22,049. Try Los Angeles, where the Dodgers attract 35,000 on a bad night and the Express, even with Steve Young, get crowds like last week's 10,409.

Domed stadiums don't compensate for the weather problem. The Breakers, who play in the New Orleans Superdome, had been drawing quite well. But Sunday only 299 went indoors to watch them face Denver. Apparently, allegiance isn't growing.

Another element rarely considered is audience interest in areas like the Magic Valley. If Twin Falls is any indication, the USFL has failed miserably in engaging fans on the periphery. We're important, for we boost ratings.

Though we can't attend games, we certainly can watch them on television. And that's just it: How many of your acquaintances approach you and ask if you caught that hot Houston-Arizona game the other night, or if you want to get together and watch the Gunslingers duel the Generals? They don't, because they're consumed with golf or softball.

Now think how the USFL would fare if it started playing in the fall — battling heads with the mighty NFL. All the newer league would get for its troubles are a gigantic headache and probably a shower of red ink.

A few teams would actually draw fairly well. New Jersey, with Walker and owner Donald Trump's aggressive promotion, might not suffer much, especially if New York's Giants and Jets were struggling. The same goes for New Orleans and Tampa Bay. USFL squads could conceivably outdraw their NFL counterparts in those cities; the Saints and Buccaneers lack a profoundly devoted following.

But can you imagine the plight of the Washington Federals? Who'd remember them during weeks that the Redskins played Dallas? And what about Philadelphia, a city whose newspapers devoted pages and pages to the death of Norm Van Brocklin, an ex-Eagles hero? The Stars surely would fall from the sporting sky.

Let's you believe teams in non-NFL cities like Birmingham and Oklahoma (Tulsa) would thrive, recall how college football has made itself such a custom in those areas. Fans there won't devote themselves to a second-rate pro league when the Crimson Tide or the Sooners take the field.

The USFL can't be compared to the old AFL or the short-lived WFL. The former was spawned at a time when football's popularity was burgeoning; the latter was poorly managed, something the USFL is not.

The USFL is alluring because fans already have enough sports to satisfy them. The overlapping schedules — nearly every pro league operates in October, for instance — illustrate this gut.

We're getting sports choked down our throats. Something has to be spit out, and it appears the USFL could be the first to go.

Phils' Samuel not a second-rate 2nd sacker

By The Associated Press

Philadelphia Phillies Manager Paul Owens gave Juan Samuel the second base job last winter to allow the rookie time to concentrate on opening the season in prime form.

Owens has not been disappointed. Samuel had a pair of hits, including his first home run, batted in two, scored three and stole two bases as the Phillies beat the visiting New York Mets 12-5 Sunday.

"I wanted him relaxed," Owens said of Samuel. "I knew there was no way he couldn't do the job. "I had to let him know that there was no gun at his head. Samuel is hitting .280 and has stolen 10 of the 20 bases credited to the Phillies so far this season.

"He's the ideal leadoff man," Owens said. "He gets on base. "Samuel, who won the job after the Phillies released Joe Morgan last winter, said Owens' strategy has worked as planned.

"It was a lot easier to relax knowing I have the job every day, knowing that if I go 0-for-4 I'll be in there the next day," he said.

Samuel opened the Phillies' first with his first homer of the season for a 1-0 lead. The Phillies sent 10 men to the plate in a five-run bat-around in the second.

Starting pitcher Charles Hudson held the Mets scoreless until the fifth when Ron Gardhire and George Foster singled and scored ahead of Darryl Strawberry's fourth homer of the year.

The Phillies boosted their lead to 8-3 in the sixth when Mike Schmidt got a two-out single, his third hit, and Joe Lefebvre socked a homer, his second of the season.

New York made it 9-5 in the seventh when Gardhire and George Hernandez singled. Foster singled home one and Strawberry the other with his fourth hit, the first time he had that many as a major leaguer.

At Atlanta, Craig Reynolds and Enos Cabell belted solo home runs as Houston trimmed the Braves in a game which was delayed by rain for 41 minutes in the fifth inning and held up again for 29 minutes in the middle of the sixth.

Reynolds broke a scoreless tie in the third when he smacked a 2-2 pitch from Pete Falcone 83, over the right field fence. It was his second of the year.

Two outs later, Cabell hit his first of the season over the center field fence on a 3-0 count.

The homers were only the fourth and fifth of the year for the Astros, with four of them coming in the three-game series with the Braves.

At St. Louis, Jeff Leonard sent the Giants ahead with a three-run homer in the third inning. Manager Frank Robinson fielded a greatly altered starting lineup which produced a season-high 17 hits off four Cincinnati pitchers. Gene Richards, starting in right field for the first time in his eight-year big league career, led the attack with four singles.

Leonard's homer, his third of the season, was a drive to left on a 3-2 pitch from Cincinnati starter Frank Pastore 0-2.

Dodgers 15, Padres 7

At Los Angeles, Mike Marshall rapped five hits and drove in six runs and Steve Yeager drove in four runs to lead the Dodgers. Marshall's total included a pair of home runs that helped the Dodgers to their third victory over the National League West Division leaders. Yeager had two hits, including a bases-loaded double that sparked what turned out to be the winning rally in the first inning.

The Dodgers put together an 18-hit attack, which featured four homers and seven doubles.

Expos 4, Cardinals 2

At St. Louis, undefeated Bryn Smith won his fourth game with late relief help and Andre Dawson drove in three runs with a homer and a single for Montreal.

Smith, 40, gave up eight hits, struck out three and walked one in 7 1/2 innings before needing relief help from Gary Lucas. Lucas gave up a run in the eighth on Darrell Porter's sacrifice fly before Jeff Reardon came on in the ninth to record his fourth save.

Joquim Andujar, 2-2, set down 10 batters before walking Bryan Little on a full count with one out in the fourth.

St. Louis first baseman Andy Van Slyke missed a pitch off from Andujar, sending Little to third. After Tim Lincecum delivered an RBI single on a checked swing, Dawson hammered an 0-2 delivery by Andujar over the fence in left field for his first homer of the season.

Giants' Gene Richards slides home safely while Reds catcher Dan Bliardello awaits throw.

Lemon helps sweeten Tigers' attack with 4 hits in 9-1 drubbing of Chisox

By The Associated Press

Chet Lemon thinks the Detroit Tigers will be a better team if he is just average.

Lemon, a notoriously slow starter, raised his batting average to .367 with a 4-for-4 performance Sunday to help the Tigers thump the visiting Chicago White Sox 9-1.

"When I first came here, I felt like I had to hit some home runs," Lemon explained. "This year, we've got plenty of guys who can hit for power, so I'm concentrating more on just getting base hits. I think that's the way I can help our team the most and that's what counts — winning."

Lemon led an 18-hit assault against five Chicago pitchers, including infielder Mike Squires, as the Tigers completed a sweep of their three-game series.

(Manager Tony LaRussa) had told me before that he would use me in a game, but when he pointed to me, I still didn't know who he was pointing at," said Squires, who hadn't pitched since the minor leagues, five years ago. "I guess it was a little thrill."

Juan Berenguer, seeing his first action of the 1984 season, allowed just two hits in seven innings to get the victory. He struck out seven and walked one. Reliever Aurelio Lopez gave up one hit in the eighth and Willie Hernandez gave up two more hits in the ninth as the Tigers improved their record to 12-1, best in the majors.

Squires, a left-hander, started the game at first base and moved to third base to start the eighth. The Tigers pounded reliever Britt Burns for five runs in the eighth and Squires relieved Burns with two outs and runners on first and second.

"We'd used a lot of pitchers and we were getting the stuffing knocked out of us," Squires noted. "We just wanted somebody out there who would just throw strikes."

Tom Brookens filed out to left on Squires' second pitch to end the inning.

Alan Trammell singled in the Tigers' first and scored on Gilson's fourth homer of the year, a towering blow into the upper right field seats on a 3-2 pitch off Chicago starter Tom Brennan, 0-1.

Detroit added two runs in the fifth as Trammell walked, Darrell Evans doubled and Larry Herndon scored on Gilson's fourth homer of the year, a towering blow into the upper right field seats on a 3-2 pitch off Chicago starter Tom Brennan, 0-1.

Angels 9, Blue Jays 6

At Toronto, Doug DeCinces and Bobby Grich drilled two-run homers in the seventh inning to rally the Angels. DeCinces and Grich both connected off Jimmy Key, 2-1, as the Angels won their fifth consecutive game.

Trammell 4-3 in the seventh, Fred Lynn singled and DeCinces followed with his third homer of the season. After Reggie Jackson collected his fourth hit of the game, a single to left, Grich connected for his second homer.

Rangers 4, Yankees 0

At New York, Mickey Rivers' run-scoring single broke a scoreless deadlock in the eighth inning and Danny Darwin and Mike Mason blanked New York on seven hits for the Rangers.

The effort by Darwin and Mason extended New York's scoreless-inning streak to 24.

At Baltimore, John Butcher, who has a history of success against the Orioles, checked them on six hits for the Twins. The defeat gave Baltimore's defending world champions a 4-11 record, tying Baltimore's 1955 and 1982 teams for the worst start in the team's history.

Butcher is 2-1 for the season, with both of his victories over Baltimore. He also hurled a one-hitter last season over the Orioles, against whom he has a 3-0 lifetime mark.

Red Sox 12, A's 8

At Boston, Tony Armas lined three hits, including a two-run triple during a six-run fourth inning, and Rich Gedman, Mike Easler and rookie Jackie Gutierrez belted homers Sunday, powering the Boston Red Sox to a 12-8 victory over the Oakland A's.

Designated hitter Dave Kingman accounted for three of the five runs off Boston starter Dennis Eckersley, 1-2, with his sixth and seventh homers of the season.

New Jersey runs past Maulers, 14-10

USFL roundup

By The Associated Press

Herschel Walker and Maurice Carthon ran for four-gauge touchdowns in a driving rainstorm and the New Jersey Generals held off a last-minute Pittsburgh scoring threat for a 14-10 victory over the host Maulers Sunday in the United States Football League.

Carthon ran 16 yards for the winning touchdown with 5:21 remaining after the Maulers, blowing a fourth-quarter lead for the third consecutive game, had opened up a 10-0 halftime lead with the help of three key Generals' turnovers.

The Maulers, with Glenn Carano throwing for two first downs, marched to a third-and-one at the Generals' 2 with 45 seconds to go when Amos Lawrence, subbing for an injured Mike Rozler, was thrown for a 4-yard loss by cornerback Terry Daniels and linebacker Jim LeClair.

Carano then had his fourth-down pass intended for Greg Anderson batted down by Greg Johnson in the end zone and the Generals were able to run out the clock.

The anticipated Heisman Trophy duel between the last two winners of college football's top award, Walker and Mike Rozler, never materialized.

Rozler led the Maulers in the first half with a mild concussion, after running five times for 20 yards, and never returned. Walker ended with 152 yards on 25 carries.

Federals 31, Invaders 17

At Oakland, Washington's Curtis Bledsoe rushed for a team record 165 yards and scored two fourth quarter touchdowns to lift the Federals over the Invaders in a battle of the last winners in the USFL.

Bledsoe led the Federals, 1-8, to their highest scoring game of the season. Oakland, 0-9, squandered a 10-7 halftime lead.

After Jeff Brockhaus kicked a 35-yard field goal with 12:53 to go in the third quarter to tie the game at 10-10. Washington went ahead for good with a 3-38 left in the period when quarterback Mike Hohensee handed off to halfback Billie Taylor. Taylor laterated back to Hohensee, who ran two yards for a touchdown. The play capped a 73-yard, 11-play drive.

The game was played before a record low crowd of 18,828 fans at the Oakland Coliseum.

Philadelphia 20, San Antonio 14

At San Antonio, quarterback Chuck Fusina fired two touchdown passes and Philadelphia came up with two key interceptions as the Stars toppled the Gunslingers.

Cornetback Bill Hardee sealed San Antonio's fate and helped boost Philadelphia's record to 8-1 when he intercepted quarterback Rick Neuheisel's pass in the end zone with 12 seconds left in the game.

With five minutes to play, free safety Mike Lush dashed another Gunglinger opportunity when he intercepted a halfback pass by Don Richards at the Philadelphia eight.

Fusina finished the game with a career high of 296 yards by completing 22 of 31 passes.

New Orleans 20, Denver 18

At New Orleans, Buford Jordan ran for 182 yards and two touchdowns to lead the Breakers.

The Breakers narrowly avoided overtime — and a possible loss when backup Gold quarterback Fred Mortenson hit Kevin Williams just out of the end zone on a two-point conversion try that would have tied the game with 31 seconds left.

Jordan, in his third 100-yard game of the season, this time gained the most single-game yardage ever by a Breaker running back.

It was Denver's second defeat of the season and led both teams with 7-2 records.

Jordan's touchdowns came on a nine-yard burst in the first quarter, and a 13-yard sprint in the third quarter.

Tim Mazzetti added field goals of 29 and 22 yards, getting his first one with 1:51 left in the first half and his second midway through the fourth quarter.

Most of Denver's points "came off the toe of kicker Brian Speelman. Speelman kicked field goals of 39 yards in the first quarter, 31 yards in the third quarter, and 26 yards and 31 yards in the fourth quarter.

Mortenson led a 78-yard touchdown drive in the waning seconds, hitting wide receiver Leonard Harris with an 18-yard scoring pass with 31 seconds left in the game. That was followed by the abortive two-point conversion attempt.

In the second half — never got closer than seven points in the fourth quarter. Tripucka scored 19 and King 16 in the final quarter.

In the nine-games-between-New-York-and-Detroit this season, King has scored no fewer than 32 points.

Detroit, hit 12 points in a span of 3:04 in the third quarter after the Pistons had scored eight straight to help cut a 10-point halftime deficit to 58-47. King's spurt made it 73-54 and the Knicks went on to lead 94-59 with 1 1/2 minutes to go in the period.

The Pistons, who hit only 32.6 percent of their shots and scored a season-low 36 points in the first half, outscored the Knicks 13-2 in the final seconds of the third quarter to pull within 86-72.

Detroit, despite 40 points from Kelly Tripucka and Isiah Thomas' 29 — all in the second half — never got closer than seven points in the fourth quarter. Tripucka scored 19 and King 16 in the final quarter.

In the nine-games-between-New-York-and-Detroit this season, King has scored no fewer than 32 points.

U.S. Olympic cagers hold trial games

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Wayne Tisdale scored 16 points and Tim McCormick 16 and the White team overcame a 12-point halftime deficit to beat the Blue 81-79 Sunday in the windup game of the U.S. Olympic Basketball Trials.

Two free throws apiece by Joe Kleino and Johnny Dawkins in the last 13 seconds earned the White team a 69-64 triumph over the Blue in the opening game before a crowd of 16,023 at Indiana University's Assembly Hall.

Because of injuries and illness that cut into the available man-power, both games were changed from the usual 20-minute halves to four eight-minute quarters.

Patrick Ewing, suffering from a cold, missed the second game hitting in warmup clothes on the Blue bench.

With no Ewing to fend off his shots, Tisdale bombed away for 16 points in the first half, including 14 of his team's points in a row. He wound up 10 of 15 from the field overall.

College basketball

McCormick made two free throws with 18 seconds left to give the White an 87-76 lead. Then the Blue's Michael Jordan's connected on a three-point play with eight seconds left.

John Stockton added one foul toss with two seconds remaining.

After Tisdale, guarded by Bobby Lee Hunt, hit his seventh and final goal, the Blue bounced back to run off 18 straight points and grab a 42-30 halftime lead.

The White got back into the game by running off 10 consecutive points and led after three quarters 58-56.

The score was tied five times in the fourth quarter, the last at 70-61, before McCormick hit two fouls at 2:13 and the 6-foot-1 Stockton put back a rebound, then canned two free throws to put the White ahead 76-70.

The Blue cut the margin to 77-76 on Leon Wood's jumper with 45 seconds left, but never regained the lead.

For the losers, guard Leon Wood led the way with 18 points, followed by Jordan with 15, Roosevelt Chapman 12 and Hurt 11.

Chuck Person contributed 11 points and Alvin Robertson 10 for the White.

In the opener, the White outscored the Blue 9-2 over the last 2:06 after Ron Konchak's goal had given the Blue a 62-59 lead. Chris Mullin hit two free throws, Lancaster Gordon added three points before Kleino hit a pair of free throws with 13 seconds left.

Jim Master's jumper with six seconds left cut it to 66-64, but Dawkins then hit his free throws with four seconds remaining.

The White led most of the way, leading at halftime 32-30 when Dawkins, fighting for a guard spot, scored 10 of his team-leading 18 points.

The Blue then went on a 10-0 spree — eight of the points coming at the start of the fourth quarter as Vern Fleming and Jeff Turner each scored two goals.

Turner's outside shooting and Jay Humphries' deadly accuracy helped the Blue move ahead for the first time, 58-56, with 3:30 remaining.

Mullin's three-point play put the Blue in a 62-59 lead. Humphries and Konchak connected before the White pulled it out on the foul line.

Faldo undaunted by Kite's charge

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Tom Kite's blistering challenge, five birdies in the first 12 holes, did not surprise Nick Faldo, who won the Sea Pines Heritage Classic golf tournament by a single stroke Sunday.

"I knew Tom was going to make a run," Faldo said after his no-bogey round of 69 had blunted Kite's charge and secured his first American PGA Tour victory, and the first by an Englishman in U.S. soil since Tony Jacklin won the Greater Jacksonville Open in 1972.

"Tom made it a tough day," said Faldo, 26, the leading golfer in Europe last year.

"I knew I had to shoot under par. I had to keep going forward. You can't shoot par or one over and win over here."

I was just trying to hang on, make one putt, make one birdie.

"And it came right for me in the end," he said.

"This was my No. 1 goal for the season, to win in this country. I'm thrilled to bits."

He won it with a 270 total, 14 under par and matching the record on the difficult, deeply-respected Harbour Town Golf Links.

Kite, a little-contender in the Masters last week until he hit into the water on the 12th hole, applied the pressure with a brilliant effort, a 69 with a 10-putt bogey-66 and finished with a 271 total.

"I played well," Kite said.

"I have no complaints. I wish the results had been different, of course, but Nick played well. He did what he had to do."

"It hurts to play that well and not win," Kite admitted, but said it was a much milder disappointment than in the Masters.

"I was really down there, really down," he said, "I didn't play as well as I can there."

"This is a lot different. I hit 16 greens, didn't make a bogey, shot 66. When you do that and somebody beats you, there's not much you can do about it."

Kite, twice a Vardon-Trophy winner, came from a tight hole on the pace in cloudy, hazy weather, and tied Faldo for the lead with a birdie on the 12th hole.

But Faldo, winner of five European titles, broke from a tight hole on the 13th, and held the lead with a six-foot putt for birdie on the 15th, then parred in from there — all he needed to do to collect $72,000 from the total purse of $100,000.

He nailed it down with a gritty performance on the 18th. His approach ran through the green and stopped on the edge of a bunker. Using a bunker-saver-66 and finished with a 271 total.

"I played well," Kite said.

Fergon edges King, Stacy to take S&H event

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Vicki Fergon, winning for the first time in three years, edged out King and Stacy to capture the $150,000 LPGA S&H Classic by one stroke.

The 1979 Lady Stro's champion started the day with a behind third-round lead behind King, Stacy and Ayako Okamoto and finished with a 72-hole total of 138-299 over 275 over the 6,023-yard Pasadena Yacht & Golf course.

King, who sent a 9-foot putt for birdie on the 18th hole just right of the hole, was next at 276, while two-time defending champion Stacy was two shots off the pace at 277.

Alex McKeown, regional sales controller of the top spot with a six-foot putt for birdie on the 15th, then parred in from there — all he needed to do to collect $72,000 from the total purse of $100,000.

He nailed it down with a gritty performance on the 18th. His approach ran through the green and stopped on the edge of a bunker. Using a bunker-saver-66 and finished with a 271 total.

"I played well," Kite said.

despite taking a two-stroke penalty for playing the wrong ball on the 16th hole.

Fergon, who won $22,500 to boost her 1984 earnings to $28,846, bogeyed the first hole but finished with four birdies on the front nine to make the turn tied with King at 13-under-par.

The team will compete in the Women's Kemper Open, lost her share of the lead with a bogey on No.

10. Stacy, meanwhile, birdied the hole to go 13-under and atop the leaderboard with Fergon.

Fergon, an eight-year pro with career winnings of $238,706, took sole possession of the lead when Stacy bogeyed No. 12 and held a two-shot advantage after King and Stacy both dropped a stroke with bogeys on the par 3, 156-yard 13th.

Navratlova rips Evert Loyd

AMELIA ISLAND, Fla. (AP) — Martina Navratlova continued her streak and ended one for Chris Evert Loyd as she demolished the defending champion 6-2, 6-0 to win the $250,000 Women's Tennis Association Championships Sunday.

In winning, Navratlova extended her string to 10 straight victories over Evert Loyd.

"It was the worst beating I have ever suffered during her professional career and the first loss as a pro on Florida clay courts after 84 straight victories."

"I'm embarrassed," said Loyd. "Martina played great tennis and I congratulate her."

Loyd held serve once in a match that lasted only 51 minutes.

"It's too bad it wasn't a better match for the people who wanted to see one," said Navratlova.

The last thing I expected was a match like this."

Navratlova won $32,000 while Loyd, who had won 29 straight matches at Amelia, took home $16,000.

"I wasn't nervous at all before the match," said Navratlova.

"I usually have a ... anxiety attacks. But I had all day to stay out there and I felt I could win."

Loyd, who still owns a 30-28 lead over Navratlova in matches, said she could not explain her poor performance.

"I don't know why, but I played a terrible match. She never let me in the match," said Loyd.

Wilder, the No. 2 seed in the event, collected $32,500.

Casper wins Seniors event

SUN CITY, Ariz. (AP) — Billy Casper sank a 45-foot putt on the 14th hole to take the lead, then held on to win the inaugural $200,000 Senior PGA Tour Roundup by two strokes over Bob Stone Sunday.

The 52-year-old Casper, a PGA Hall of Famer from Mapleton, Utah, started the day tied for second place — two strokes behind Stone.

But Casper carded eight birdies on the 6,672-yard Hillcrest Golf Course and watched Stone suffer by losing three strokes behind.

Casper finished with a final round of 7-under-par 65 — which tied the course record set in 1981 by Hollis Stacy in the LPGA Sun City Classic and was equaled Saturday by George Lanning, who Sunday fell out of contention. Casper had a 14-under 202 total in the 54-hole event for pros age 50 and older.

Stone, 53, of Independence, Mo., posted a 3-under 69 Sunday for a 12-under 204 total and $18,000. He is still seeking his first tournament victory since the 1970 Florida Citrus Open.

ATLANTA (AP) — Harvey Glance sprinkled 100 meters in 10.29 seconds to win the event in the Martin Luther King Jr. Freedom Games at Emory University Sunday.

Glance, a 27-year-old former Auburn star who has returned to the school to train for his bid to be selected for the U.S. Olympic team a third time, beat Sam Crady of Tennessee, who was timed at 10.29 seconds.

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (AP) — Unseeded Henrik Sundstrom upset fellow Swede Matt Wilander 6-7, 7-5, 6-2 Sunday in the championship match of the $405,000 Monte Carlo Jacomo Open Tennis Tournament.

The two-hour, 48-minute match was the first major event won by the 29-year-old Sundstrom, who earned $65,000.

Vegas boxers win tourney

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Las Vegas won the team title of the 57th National Golden Gloves boxing tournament, thanks to fighters from the state of Washington, who represented the region.

"What more can I say?" asked Troy Simmons, the team's coach. "We had a bunch of kids who came together and fought their hearts out."

That's what the fighters from Las Vegas were. Les Fabrik, 117; Robert Shannon, 119, and Mylon Watkins, 142.

Saturday night's victory by Watkins, 16, a Tacoma, Wash., high school senior, may have been sweetest. He thrashed defending champion Louis Howard on Friday and then outboxed rugged Michael Godeau of St. Louis for the title.
