Casey: Secrets kept on minings

By W. DALE NELSON The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — CIA Director William J. Casey admitted Thursday that he failed to adequately inform the Senate Intelligence Committee about his agency's supervision of the mining of Nicaraguan ports, the panel said.

After a "very spirited" meeting at which Casey made the acknowledgment, Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, D-N.H., agreed to stay on as vice chairman of the panel. He had resigned Wednesday in protest of what he considered inadequate briefings by the spy agency. The CIA is required by law to brief congressional committees about intelligence activities.

"The committee agreed that it was not adequately informed in a timely manner of certain significant intelligence activities in such a manner as to permit the committee to carry out its oversight function," the panel said in a statement read by senators after the closed-door meeting.

"The director of central intelligence concurred in that assessment," the statement said.

It said the senators "agreed that there is a need for more thorough and effective oversight procedures, particularly in the area of covert activity." Senators agreed the committee and CIA representatives will meet next Wednesday to discuss such procedures.

The statement said Moynihan changed his mind about resigning, "at the request of the committee and in light of the director's acknowledgment.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, who drafted the statement along with Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., said its adoption followed "a very spirited, sharp exchange" with Casey and other CIA officials.

"There were strong statements made on both sides," he said. Casey "apologized for not having highlighted the question of the mining before." Moynihan said the committee was assured that there were no other covert actions going on in Central America, of which it had not been advised.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., chairman of the committee, said, "They (the administration) have a very heavy responsibility to us. We received a complete briefing on the history of the decision by the president to use mines in harbors in Central America."

In other developments:

• Attorney General William French Smith declined a request by Chairman Peter Rodino, D-N.J., and 12 other Democrats on the House Judiciary Committee that he appoint a special prosecutor to investigate whether the administration has violated the Neutrality Act in Nicaragua. Smith said there was "simply no credible support for the proposition that the Neutrality Act proscribes the conduct of official foreign policy."

• The House Intelligence Committee rejected a request by Rep. James Shannon, D-Mass., that it call upon the House to demand that President Reagan turn over information "concerning the Central Intelligence Agency and death squads in El Salvador."

• The administration appealed to a House subcommittee for quick action on emergency military aid to El Salvador, but was told it will probably have to wait until after the Salvadoran president to be chosen in a runoff election on May 6 takes office on June 5.

Reagan applauds Chinese advances

PEKING (AP) — President Reagan lectured the Chinese nation today on the benefits of capitalism and encouraged its communist leaders to move forward with their tentative economic liberalization.

At the same time, he used his first speech here to sharply criticize the Soviet Union, saying "America and China both condemn military expansionism—the brutal occupation of Afghanistan and the crushing of Kampuchea (Cambodia)."

In remarks prepared for an afternoon speech and later scheduled for broadcast on Chinese national television — before a video audience that reached 200 million — Reagan said that it was the profit motive that spurred America's development.

Also announced Thursday in Peking was a final agreement between the United States and China that will allow U.S. companies to sell nuclear power plant equipment to the Chinese.

Deputy White House press secretary Larry Speakes said the agreement would be initiated by U.S. Ambassador Arthur W. Hummel Jr. and State Commissioner Ja Welwen on Monday, before an audience that will include President Reagan and Chinese Premier Zhao Ziyang.

The agreement caps three years of negotiations. Formal signing will take place in about one month. The agreement will take effect unless both houses of Congress vote against it within 60 days of the signing.

Reagan announced the agreement in a speech to about 500-600 Chinese business officials and experts in U.S.-Sino relations.

Speaking in the Great Hall of the People, the president said: "The specter that have made the most spectacular progress in the shortest period of time are not the most rigidly organized nor even the richest in natural resources. No, it is where people, energy and build, where they have been permitted to think for themselves, to make economic decisions, and benefit from their own wits that society has become the most prosperous, progressive, dynamic, and free."

But mayor, supervisor fight City seeks to scrap San Francisco theme

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — San Francisco leaders are waging a battle of the ballads by the Bay, with politicians singing the praises of two rival candidates for the title of official city tune.

"Will it be the challenger, the zesty 'San Francisco,' made famous by carmine-lipped Jeanette MacDonald in the 1936 movie of the same name? Or will the city hang on to the sentimental 'I Left My Heart in San Francisco,' which Tony Bennett croons in such full, pear-shaped tones?"

"To me, it's as plain as the Golden Gate Bridge: San Francisco's pretor 'San Francisco,' Supervisor Quentin Kopp said Thursday.

On Monday, Kopp presented a proposal for the change to San Francisco supervisors, seven of whom co-sponsored the measure. The matter is slated for a May 3 public hearing before the board's Culture and Recreation Committee.

All of this has struck a sour note with Mayor Diane Feinstein, who has jumped to the defense of "I Left My Heart," saying she had been greeted by bands playing the song in her travels throughout the world. A change would make the city appear indecisive—said Feinstein, who threatened to veto any such change.

On Wednesday, after an informal San Francisco Chronicle poll showed that 73 percent of 34,238 voters went for "San Francisco," Warren Hinkle wrote a column promise that would give the city two official songs.

"Surely it does not behoove any city official to put down either of these marvelous melodies; instead, let's boost them both," she wrote to Kopp, who refused comment because he has yet to see her letter. "LARRY HINKLE: QUENTIN: we're both right. So let's unite. Who knows, we may not only compromise—but harmonize."

The musical mayhem began when San Francisco Chronicle columnist Warren Hinkle wrote an April 18 article castigating "I Left My Heart" as a "sentimental piece of musical garbaggio with its infantile drool of 'little cable cars climbing half way to the stars.'"

"When Hinkle wrote that column, it struck a nerve," Kopp admitted.

Gases fill sewer line; spark fire, evacuation

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — About 500 gallons of gasoline, pumped into a sewer drain by mistake, caused one fire, evacuation of homes in northwest Twin Falls and created problems at the city wastewater treatment plant late Thursday.

The gasoline caused fumes to collect in the sewer lines and rise through basement floor drains into homes, creating high potential for explosions and fire.

Warnings were immediately broadcast to people in a wide area of northwest Twin Falls. Residents were advised to report any odors of gas to police and fire department personnel.

"Police said a fire broke out at 136 Borah Ave. W., but there were no injuries or serious damages. The fire was under control by about 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Twin Falls Public Safety Director Tim Qualls said the local manager of the Mr. Gas service stations dumped the gas into the sewer drain at the store's service station at Heyburn Avenue and Blue Lakes Boulevard at about 4:30 p.m.

He was reportedly delivering the gasoline and mistook the sewer drain cover for the opening for one of the three gasoline tanks at the station. The station operators and the manager, identified by the fire department as Jim Lynch of Burley, were unaware of the accident until contacted by police, who were looking for a

Residents battle fire, leave home

By HAL BERNTON Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — It was about 6:30 p.m. when Betty Glandon first realized something was wrong at her house on 138 West Borah.

Glandon said she heard a loud pop in her basement that "sounded like someone slamming the door." The pop was the sound of a fire erupting in a drainage grate next to the natural gas furnace in her basement utility room, she said.

When Glandon went downstairs, she saw sooty smoke billowing out of the utility room and two small tongues of flame.

Glandon then raced upstairs and knocked on the door of an adjacent duplex to ask her neighbor, Jonathan Brown, for assistance.

Brown said he made his way through a cloud of black smoke to two separate, small fires. One fire blazed up from a grate located next to the furnace. The second fire, consuming a car seat and blanket, was located near the washing machine.

After an unsuccessful attempt to stamp out the flames, Brown said he retreated to the first floor, grabbed a pan of water and a rag to cover his mouth, and rushed back downstairs.

The smoke was so thick that "it was hard to see your hand in front of your face," he said.

"It was really strange. I've never seen anything like that," he said.

The fire was already out when Twin Falls firemen, and Glandon's husband, Tony, arrived at the home. Only the smoke remained.

Betty Glandon said the firemen put smoke extraction devices in the basement and then began to check nearby homes for other fires. In the meantime, an employee of the Three's Away bar came to the house and said there were gas fumes in the bar, said Mrs. Jonathan Brown. The bar is located less than a block away from the Glandon home.

By 8 p.m., the smoke had cleared from the basement, but the odor of soot and fumes lingered. The Glandons said they were going to play it safe for the rest of the evening and spend the night with relatives.

Hepworth accuses colleague of ethics violation

By PAT MARGANTONIO Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — City Attorney Fritz Wonderlich was accused of unethical conduct and being a "puppet" of the police department at a court hearing this week.

The charges came when attorneys for Maurice Guerry attempted to recover $25,000 for what they allege was "malicious" prosecution of their client on a charge of vehicular manslaughter.

"I couldn't sleep at night. I knew that I had put innocent people through this kind of mental anguish by this inexcusable action," said attorney John Hepworth.

"I felt at all times before that there was clearly probable cause," Wonderlich testified.

Those statements were typical of the heated exchanges, allegations and emotions heard throughout the hearing, which began Wednesday and ended Thursday with Fifth District Magistrate Judge Charles Brumbach taking the issue under advisement.

The 53-year-old Guerry, a Castleford area rancher, was accused of negligence in the death of 8-year-old Chad Lopez of Twin Falls on Sept. 21.

The charge was dropped March 28 at the request of the prosecution after the second day of Guerry's trial.

Hepworth — a longtime friend of Guerry's — claimed the charge was groundless. On his client's behalf he sought to recover from the city the costs and attorney's fee that went into the trial preparation. Under the criminal statute cited by Hepworth, "malicious prosecution and lack of probable cause had to be proven in order for the court to award the expenses, which totaled almost $25,000.

At the hearing, Wonderlich was the target of most of the allegations. Hepworth, his voice often quavering with emotion, claimed the defense's expert witnesses would have proven the accident was unavoidable, despite the blinding sunlight and the prosecution's claim that Guerry's windshield had been dirty, Hepworth said.

The boy was struck by Guerry's truck as he rode his bicycle off the sidewalk into Falls Avenue to avoid a city construction barrier.

Hepworth's associate, John Lezamis, testified he had provided their case's strong points and information from their expert witnesses to Wonderlich and Tim Qualls, the Twin Falls public safety department director, in an effort to discourage the city from pursuing the case.

Wonderlich also was provided similar information in a telephone conversation with another of his associates, Hepworth said.

Wonderlich, however, denied he was told any specifics by the defense attorneys. When he asked, Lezamis had told him "we'll show you in court," Wonderlich said.

"We shouldn't have to give it (the information) to you," Hepworth said. He alleged that Wonderlich's conduct violated the attorney's code of ethics.

Following the hearing, Wonderlich said he had acted ethically. Hepworth's "ridiculous" allegation should be taken with a "grain of salt," he said.

Wonderlich said there had been probable cause. He had asked to dismiss the charge at the trial because the testimony presented by prosecution witnesses was different than what he first understood.

In addition, the information from the defense's experts was irrelevant because Guerry shouldn't have been driving if he couldn't see because of the sunlight, Wonderlich said.

The hearing became heated when Hepworth took the stand.

FRITZ WONDERLICH Defends his decision

Briefly

Leroy backs Hansen campaign

POCATELLO (AP) — Lt. Gov. David Leroy is backing Congressman George Hansen's re-election bid, but says Hansen's legal troubles will be a problem for the Republican Party.

Hansen, a seven-term Republican from Idaho's 2nd District, was convicted earlier this year on four counts of filing false financial disclosure forms. He is appealing his conviction.

Leroy, a Republican, said Wednesday that he expects Hansen's conviction to be overturned, "but not until after the November elections. There is no doubt that Mr. Hansen's problems will be a difficulty for the party."

Planned down on the question of supporting Hansen or primary challenger Dan Adamson, Leroy said, "I was hoping you'd forget that part. But it wouldn't be fair for me not to give you an answer. I think Mr. Hansen would run better in November, and I will vote for him."

General dies in test aircraft

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A three-star Air Force general was killed Thursday when the secret test craft he was flying crashed on the Nevada Test Site, the Air Force said.

Lt. Gen. Robert M. Bond was killed when the Air Force called "an Air Force specially modified test craft" crashed on the site about 10:45 a.m.

Bond, 54, was vice commander of the Air Force Systems Command, according to a statement released from the command at Andrews Air Force Base in Washington, D.C.

Air Force officials refused to say what type of plane Bond was flying.

Business productivity rises

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. business productivity, the key government gauge of workplace efficiency, advanced at an annual rate of 2.6 percent in the first quarter of this year, the Labor Department said Thursday.

The 2.6 percent gain, which represents the productivity performance in private business excluding agriculture, was just under the advance registered in the fourth quarter of last year.

But altogether, the figures suggested continued improvement in a business indicator that private and government economists consider is a vital barometer of the ability of American business to cope with steadily mounting international competition.

Woman pleads guilty to holdup

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — In a surprise plea bargain, the wife of Underground leader Kathy Boudin pleaded guilty Thursday to murder and robbery stemming from the 1981 holding of a Brink's truck. "I feel terrible about the lives that were lost," she said.

Westchester County Court Judge David Ritter said he would sentence the 40-year-old former fugitive May 3 to a term of 20 years-to-life in prison on her guilty plea to one count each of murder and robbery. She could be paroled in the year 2001.

She could have faced 75 years to life if convicted of all 13 counts she faced.

Faith Christian leader cited

PLATTSBROUGH, Neb. (AP) — The Rev. Everett Slevien, director of the Holy Faith Christian School, was found in contempt of court Thursday and sentenced to eight months in jail.

Cass County District Court Judge Ronald Reagan said Slevien could be released temporarily if and when the grave judge assures that all former pupils had enrolled in schools certified by the Nebraska Department of Education.

Reagan said that if Slevien does not give those assurances, "I'd suggested he has committed a crime that is heinous."

Slevien, who ended a five-month exile from the state to appear in court, told Reagan he wanted to end the 7-year-old feud between the state and Holy Faith Christian School. The courts have issued several injunctions that the school should be closed because it is not certified by the state. Faith Christian supporters contend the state has no right to regulate the school, which they view as an extension of the church.

Panel stops death squad probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Intelligence Committee turned thumbs down Thursday on a Massachusetts congressman's bid to obtain intelligence documents that the congressman said would show whether the CIA is involved in death squad activity in El Salvador.

The committee, in a report on a resolution of inquiry introduced by Rep. James Shannon, D-Mass., said that after a "rigorous review of intelligence documents and records" it had "found no evidence of any agency complicity in death squad activities."

The panel recommended that the House reject Shannon's resolution, which would call upon the president to turn the documents over to Congress.

Drug may aid herpes symptoms

CHICAGO (AP) — While there is still no cure for genital herpes, an oral drug now being tested holds great promise to speed healing and reduce sufferers' chances of spreading the disease, doctors say.

"This antiviral agent acyclovir offers a genuine ray of hope to patients with herpes — both as an effective treatment and as a potential prophylaxis (preventive measure)," said an editorial accompanying a study of the drug in today's Journal of the American Medical Association.

The study is the first to establish in a comprehensive way that acyclovir is effective and lacks apparent adverse effects, the researchers said. If the Food and Drug Administration approves oral acyclovir, it could be one of the most widely used preventive drugs on the market, doctors say.

Police arrest Vegas strikers

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Police arrested about 100 striking union members who staged a sit-in protest Thursday at the Las Vegas Convention Authority offices, which has urged tourists to visit this glittering resort city despite the 25-day walkout.

The strikers were charged with trespassing after they refused a security chief's order to vacate the administrative offices at the city's Convention Center, said Metro Lt. David Swickert.

Spring blizzard stops traffic, dumps four feet on Rockies

By DAVID L. LANGFORD
The Associated Press

A massive spring blizzard buried parts of the Rockies under snow 4 feet deep Thursday, and snowplow operators said it was like driving into "a brick wall."

The storm earlier spun off tornadoes that crushed dozens of homes in the Plains.

The double-barreled storm prompted weather forecasters to warn of potential severe thunderstorms or twisters from northern Texas to Iowa. It unloaded heavy snow from Montana to Arizona and New Mexico, with accumulations as much as 4 feet in the Big Horn Mountains of Wyoming and the Black Hills of South Dakota with more on the way.

In southern Montana, 3 1/2 feet of snow covered the ground in places — with drifts up to 10 feet high — and forecasters said another 3 feet could fall before the slow-moving storm ends Friday.

Blizzard warnings were posted for southeast Montana and parts of northern Wyoming for snow blown by winds of 35 to 50 mph. "We haven't even felt the brunt of it yet," said

Great Falls, Mont., forecaster Mike Oard.

Donna Logan, who works at Bear Lodge at Burgess Junction, in northeast Wyoming, said it was the worst snowstorm there in at least a decade.

"We don't have any vehicles or snow machines for this," she said. "We think we have around 5 feet."

The Wyoming Highway patrol said 29-year-old Jane Farrell of Salt Lake City died Wednesday when her car skidded on a slushy road north of Rawlins.

Gas

gasoline leak about two hours later.

Lynch did not normally make gasoline deliveries, so he was not familiar with the sewer drain location, officials were told.

Police said the major problem area was north of Heyburn Avenue and west of Harrison Street in low areas where the gasoline fumes began rising.

Two large city water tankers were called into service and began flushing water through the sewer lines to carry the gasoline and fumes through the system to the city waste water treatment plant in the Snake River Canyon.

Officials said at 8:30 p.m. a meter reading on Heyburn Avenue showed only 1 percent gasoline content in the sewer line.

Police were "made aware of the problem when the Borah Avenue fire was reported shortly after 6:20 p.m. Intermountain Gas Co. began receiving calls about 6:30 p.m.

Working from the low area at 303 Harrison back up toward Blue Lakes Boulevard, fire and police officers, with the help of Intermountain Gas personnel, traced the source to the intersection of Blue Lakes Boulevard and Heyburn Avenue. They questioned workers at three service stations at the intersection.

They learned the Mr. Gas station had received 500 gallons of gasoline at about 4:30 p.m. Further investigation revealed it had been put into the sewer drain by mistake, Qualls said.

The families evacuated from homes in the low areas returned by 9 p.m., when warnings were canceled, police said.

Fire Battalion Chief Larry Crippen said Intermountain Gas received a call about 5:15 p.m. from a home on Harrison Street. The occupants said gas odors were extremely strong. At that point, Crippen said, it was dif-icult to tell what kind of gas it was but as other calls began coming in, gas company workers identified it as gasoline.

After three or four reports of gas smells in homes and businesses, the fire department received the report of an explosion and fire at the home on West Borah Avenue.

At the city waste water treatment plant in Snake River Canyon late Thursday night, several South Central Health Department officials and two men from the Environmental Protection Agency were working to dispose of the gasoline. Flavors were clearing fumes from the lines at the plant, Crippen said. It was not known whether gasoline had damaged the sewage disposal operation.

Guerry

"There was no talking to Wonderlich," he said. "Never had I been faced with such an 'I don't care attitude'."

Wonderlich testified about encountering the same type of attitude. Discussions with Hepworth ended "with him yelling at me," he said.

Hepworth also took aim at the police investigation of the accident, which he termed a "farce." In his closing argument, Hepworth accused Wonderlich of being a "puppet" of Qualls.

On the stand, Qualls said he felt Guerry should have been charged with felony vehicular manslaughter.

But the decision to pursue the charge belonged to Wonderlich.

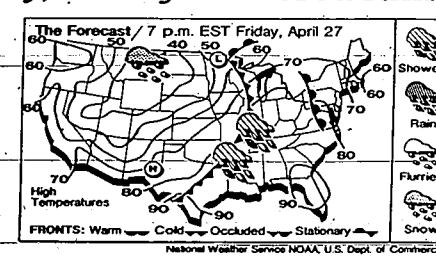

Following the hearing, Qualls said he had no comment. "I want to see what happens."

Wonderlich said he exercised his right not to prosecute at the trial. Hepworth replied he did it because he knew "you'd get your butt kicked" by the defense.

Mondale, Hart hurl barbs at president

By The Associated Press

President Reagan drew fire Thursday from the Democratic presidential hopefuls, as Walter F. Mondale said the Republican incumbent had "fucked the course" on education and Gary Hart accused him of driving up interest rates and adding to the troubles of the U.S. farmer.

The third Democratic candidate, the Rev. Jesse Jackson, called for automatic voter registration for all citizens 18 years old and over.

"And John Anderson, who attracted 7 percent of the vote as an independent presidential candidate in 1980, announced that he had decided against making another bid for the White House this year and instead would concentrate on organizing his National Unity Party.

In remarks prepared for delivery at Yale University, Anderson said, "For me, this is a time to cast away any personal ambition to run for the presidency in order to help chart out the future of our young and struggling

Meanwhile, Ann Lewis, political director of the Democratic National Committee, predicted Reagan will lose his re-election bid if 100 million Americans vote next November.

She said obtaining a record voter turnout is a key element of the Democrats' strategy and that the cooperation of Jackson in encouraging blacks to vote "is going to be very important."

Hart scored his second victory of the week Wednesday night with a win in the Utah caucuses. His campaign there was claiming 13 or 14 of the state's 22 pledged delegates, but Utah Democratic officials were reluctant to make any estimates because four of the state's 75 legislative districts had not reported. Mondale had picked one delegate, but when counting stopped Thursday evening he was still shy of the 20 percent threshold to win any more delegates.

Still, Mondale holds almost a 2-to-1 lead in delegates selected to date.

Reagan seeks jail for terrorist aides

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, vowing to "do whatever is necessary" to fight terrorism, sought authority Thursday to jail Americans who assist or "act in concert with" groups labeled by the secretary of state as terrorist.

Reagan also sent to Congress bills to establish federal jurisdiction over hostage-takings, tighten laws against airplane sabotage and provide rewards of up to $500,000 for information on terrorism.

"I am determined that my administration will do whatever is necessary to reduce the incidence of terrorism against us anywhere in the world and to see that the perpetrators of terrorist acts are brought to justice," Reagan said in a statement accompanying the legislation.

The most controversial part of Reagan's legislative package is likely to be a bill to imprison Americans for up to 10 years if they are convicted of supplying, training or acting "in concert with" an international terrorist group or the military of a foreign government — after it has been publicly designated a terrorist organization by the secretary of state.

The measure would empower the secretary to designate a group or country as terrorist when its "acts or likely acts of international terrorism" are judged a threat to U.S. national security or foreign relations, or to the physical security of American persons or property.

Further, the bill says a defendant charged with aiding a terrorist group cannot challenge in court the accuracy of the secretary's designation of the group as terrorist. The bill covers actions by Americans not only in the United States but "anywhere in the world."

"The legislation waives the criminal penalties, however, for any activities conducted by officials of the United States government, or their agents, which are properly authorized." That clause presumably would permit CIA backing for pro-U.S. rebel groups, such as those fighting against leftist Nicaragua or the Soviet-backed government in Afghanistan.

The bill's penalties also would not apply to sending medical supplies or providing medical training for humanitarian purposes.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said that if the bill is enacted, the initial list of governments covered by the law would include Cuba, Syria, Libya, Iran and South Yemen — countries already designated as "terrorist" by the State Department for the purpose of controlling military exports.

Senator blocks plan for a balanced budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, blocked a Senate Judiciary Committee vote Thursday on what he called a "phony baloney" constitutional amendment backed by President Reagan which would require a balanced federal budget.

Metzenbaum refused to yield the floor until the committee chairman, Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., was forced to adjourn the meeting at noon.

Thurmond did so to comply with a Senate rule that prohibits most committee meetings after the first two hours of a Senate session. He promised to try again next week to win committee approval of the proposed amendment.

"I hope there won't be obstructionist tactics used here," Thurmond said, warning of the alternative possibility of a constitutional convention to rewrite the entire Constitution, he said.

If 34 states vote to call such a convention, it must be held. So far, 32 states have voted for a convention.

"Vote against it," Thurmond lectured Metzenbaum, "but don't deprive this body of voting on it."

Metzenbaum responded that Thurmond "holds" the record for a Senate filibuster, 24 hours and 18 minutes, in 1957 when the Senate was debating a civil rights bill.

"There's no possibility, under this amendment, within this decade that we'll be anywhere near close to a balanced budget," said Sen. Joseph R. Biden Jr., D-Del., a Metzenbaum ally. "It's a simplistic amendment that is incapable of working."

Signals mixed in labor force

WASHINGTON (AP) — New applications for unemployment insurance payments totaled roughly 345,000 through mid-April, reversing a short-lived trend of rising claims for benefits, the Labor Department reported Thursday.

The weekly unemployment insurance claims statistics, which send only "mixed" signals on future U.S. labor market health, had soared by 53,000 in the week before.

But economists in and out of government acknowledge that this weekly fixture is among the most volatile of economic indices, and thus should be watched for long-term trends rather than week-to-week variations.

A year earlier, however, when the economy was in the early stages of recovery, approximately 488,000 new applications were placed with state employment service agencies, so the level of new claims in the week-ended April 14 was down by about 143,000.

First-time applications for basic, or state-paid regular unemployment insurance compensation benefits, show only how many applications were certified as eligible and how many were rejected.

U.S. copter strays too far

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Defense Department spokesman acknowledged Thursday that a U.S. Army helicopter strayed about six miles into Czechoslovakia's air space last week because of pilot error, but he denounced Czech jet fighter pilots for firing missiles and cannon at the aircraft.

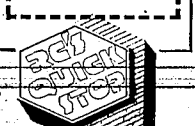

Spokesman Michael Burch contradicted reports by West German authorities that no such firing took place and said "the use of cannon and missiles was excessive and unwarranted."

Burch commented to reporters in making public results of an investigation by the U.S. European Command that found the unarmed Cobra helicopter flew across the West German border last Friday and then fled home undamaged after being chased by two Czech MIG-21 jet fighters.

Lobbying may need stricter regulation

If it wasn't Lynden Johnson who sold money to the mother's milk of politics, the old Texas gladiator would still have been pleased this year to see the lobbying money flowing so profusely at the Idaho Legislature.

Final reports for the state's 286 registered lobbyists show they spent nearly $94,000 in dining and lodging legislators in the recently-concluded legislative session.

The top 10 lobbyists in terms of expenditures account for more than 35 percent of the total; one lobbyist alone, representing restaurants, the tobacco industry and the beer and wine distributors, spent nearly $14,000.

There is nothing inherently wrong with the process of lobbying. The nation has many diverse groups with their own special interests. Many have goals which depend on legislation.

Out of the many competing perspectives comes legislative policy—arguments for and against—votes pro and con. Legislators themselves depend on lobbyists to provide important background information on various issues.

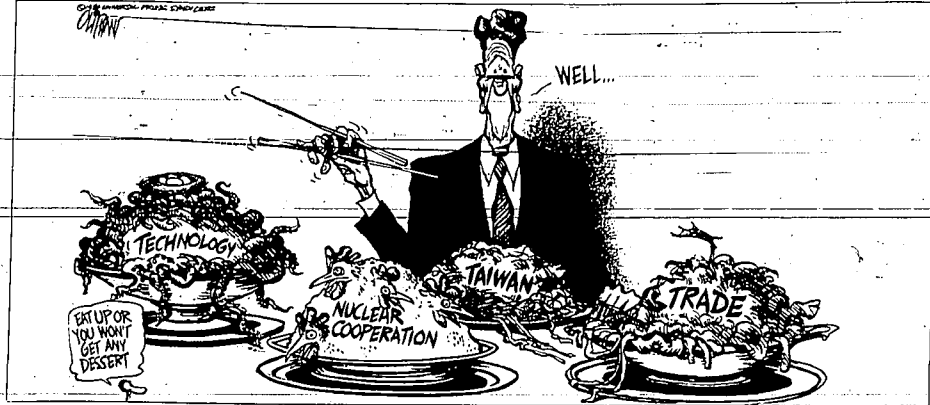

But money, the grease of legislation, can distort the process, too. One of the most disturbing long-range trends in American politics is the growth of Political Action Committees, PACs, which expanded their influence enormously in the election and lawmaking process, primarily at the federal level.

That trend is bound to trickle down to the state legislatures, where conflict of interest legislation is weak.

The Idaho Legislature has shown little inclination to regulate lobbying and campaign funding beyond minimum levels, and in the absence of strong public pressure, they are unlikely to go much further.

But that does not mean there isn't public concern for the integrity of the law-making process. We believe Idahoans want their legislation clean of unnecessary influence.

Lobbying, because it often involves social contact between legislators and lobbyists, can easily cross the line from appropriate to inappropriate behavior. It is a pitfall that bears watching in the give and take of the creation of legislation.

Judge dissolves District 23 'marriage'

John and Gordon have always seemed to hang pretty tight.

Reps. Brooks and Hollifield—elected together as freshmen in 1974—were both served five terms in the Idaho Legislature. They sat together on the same committees—Revenue and Taxation and Agricultural Affairs.

They sit one in front of the other on the floor of the House. And it's not uncommon to see them sitting together outside of the Capitol at some of Boise's more stately watering holes both during and after legislative hours.

During the 1983 session, the two District 23 representatives were awarded the "Monkey See, Monkey Do Award" by a rather dubious assemblage of Statehouse Journalists who had happened to notice that the two rarely split their votes.

This year, they were two of the nine votes on the House Revenue and Taxation Committee that stalled the sales tax bill that was needed to pay for the state's public schools reform bill.

They consistently stand up for the interests of Idaho Power and the Idaho Association of Commerce and Industry. United for Idaho—a political action committee that is comprised of many of the same members as is the commerce and industry association—was the single largest contributor to both of their campaigns in 1982. Idaho Power tossed $5,000 into the United for Idaho 1982 election pot. It was one of several companies to contribute that amount. No contributor gave more.

Now perhaps unwittingly, an Idaho district judge—in a move roughly analogous to the surgical procedure conducted on Siamese twins—has decided John and Gordon must be separated.

A reapportionment ruling from Dar Cogswell's courtroom in the Idaho Panhandle has severed the legislative tie between Jerome and Gooding counties. Consequently John and Gordon must now each seek to represent different constituencies with different interests and values.

John, best known for his anti-union stands, is seeking reelection in a district—Blaine, Camas, Gooding and Lincoln counties—which has exhibited strong Democratic tendencies in past elections. It is also a district that places a high value on education and the funding needed to ensure quality educational institutions and instruction. He has his work cut out for him. But so does Gordon.

Hollifield is off to a legislative district—Cassia, Jerome and Blaine counties—where the issues of water rights and access to water for irrigation evoke highly emotional responses.

Those responses often appear to be opposed to vesting in Idaho Power water rights for hydroelectric generation that are unsubordinated to future depletion for additional irrigation development.

Most important is the fact their respective primary opponents have hit on these key issues at the outset of their campaigns.

Which is not to say John and Gordon will be defeated. But if re-elected they will represent different constituencies and the magic of the marriage between Jerome and Gooding counties will likely be broken.

It will be a long time before the Idaho Legislature will again witness a voting bloc as consistent as that presented by the two incumbents from District 23.

American utopia focus of nostalgia

BOSTON—At the very end of "Swing Shift," the engaging new movie about the World War II home front, two returning soldiers are talking excitedly about the future.

Their subject is real estate and their dialogue is a symbol of the postwar return to normalcy. The men are home from war, the women are home from work, the goal is no longer victory, but home.

Watching from my seat in a darkened theater in the mid-1980s, I couldn't help being struck by this scene. These were the men and these were the motives that built the America we live in today.

This was the psychic chemistry that transformed something as ephemeral as an American dream into something as solid as a house on a plot of land with a mortgage.

In the years since World War II we have built nearly three-quarters of all the housing stock in the United States. Of all the 80 million housing units in the country, nearly two-thirds are single-family detached homes.

Our lives have changed enormously since then. The American Dream was shaped for men in civvies and women in aprons and a bumper crop of babies in baby cribs. But the dream is still the power over us. We judge ourselves by whether we can afford it. We live, literally and not altogether comfortably, within its walls.

It seems to me that we are rarely conscious of the mid-century heyday of it and yesterday's housing. We live with smaller and smaller families in larger and larger homes. Increasingly, we are working parents struggling to survive in communities built for breadwinners and homemakers. Millions of us spend our days traveling in triangles between work and home and child care, and spend our "free time" moonlighting at housework. Yet, as Dolores Hayden, UCLA professor and author of the new book, "Redefining the American Dream," writes: "Americans often say, 'There aren't enough hours in the day,' rather than, 'I'm frantic because the distance between my home and my work place is too great.'"

Where we live often predicts how we live. Just this month, the U.S. League of Savings Institutions reported that two-thirds of the first-time home buyers needed a second income for their purchase. Today we need two jobs to support one mortgage.

Yet our lives can end up as subdivided as our landscape. "Women use their time crisscrossing the city to stitch together parts of their life that have been torn apart," says Hayden. "It has been enormously hard for us to face these conflicts. Indeed we're told by the savings banks' report that the grown-up baby-boom children want a house just like the one that suited their parents. Our impulse to buy "real estate" is certainly encouraged by the tax structure and by the fear of inflation. As Hayden says, we think of ourselves as speculators as well as neighbors. We buy single-family detached homes because that's what's out there on the market.

Moreover, the suburban dream house fits our inclination to solve problems privately rather than publicly. If our elites are difficult, schools a disappointment, the streets scary, we take our families and flee behind distant hedges.

But I think there is a psychological component to this homing instinct. We are, as Hayden writes, the only people who replaced the vision of an ideal city with the vision of a dream house. A home-of-our-own is still the American utopia, only now it's the focus too of our nostalgia.

The children of that postwar generation who have been through profound changes of their own may find comfort in the old structure. As our family lives change mightily, perhaps we reassure ourselves with the familiar homes of our own childhood. As we break from tradition, we shore up the fences around our private lives.

"The home is so powerful as a cultural ideal that it's not necessarily something we ask a lot of questions about," says Hayden. But we need to do what Hayden has done, ask questions.

What does it "cost" us to squeeze our lives into postwar spaces? As Henry David Thoreau once said, "The cost of a thing is the amount of what I can live which is required to be exchanged for it, immediately or in the long run." It's time to calculate how much of our lives are lost in the dream world.

Ellen Goodman writes for The Boston Globe.

Letters/ 'Perhaps I'm biased, but to me an Idahoan is like vintage wine...'

State's interests come first

Once had a chat, rather heated, as it turned out with a Hansen supporter about Sen. Symms. I said that with all the journalistic talent in Idaho, it was strange that Symms made a bee-line for the land of the Kennedys, the state of Massachusetts, city of Boston, to procure a press secretary.

She informed me then that, "Oh, what do these little Idaho people know about national problems anyway..." Um-hum! She went on to say that you've got to know the ins and outs of Washington to be effective.

Well, perhaps if we gave our D.C. delegates a mandatory year in prison they'd be better able to cope with the "ins and outs" of that city.

Perhaps I'm biased, but to me an Idahoan is like vintage wine, best born here, and the longer aged the more exquisite the product. So when we elect people to Congress, I sincerely expect them to leave the finest vineyard in America to dig around in a weed patch.

Recent events, I'm sure, have tempered that lady's judgment of Wash D.C. ins and outs. A liberal judge, a black jury and a felony rap for an Idaho congressman.

But... waa, ssssss, ma'am, I reckon as how if ya ride your hoss into a herd of rattlers and ain't kerful, yer apt to end up walkin'. And it shure ain't the hoss's fault. Nor is it Idaho's! You left me with the impression that you earnestly put the man representing the state above the state of Idaho. Personally, I don't care a whit about the representative's politics, nationality, religion or whatever, I am just concerned that he has Idaho's best interests always at heart, always.

And when that man can no longer represent Idaho, I'm off him like a dirty shirt. And, if the representative is a true Idahoan, he'll understand.

Central America policy hit

Dear Sen. McClure: My wife and I write to you today to express our grave concern about the drift of U.S. policy in Central America.

amidst the political rhetoric and war-like statements emanating from Washington is a C. that voices of moderation can still be heard. We find it both ironic and very disturbing that, in the same week, our government declared a worldwide war on terrorism while supporting the "Contra" terrorists in Nicaragua. All terrorism is evil whether it is inspired by the communists or us. By supporting the terrorist acts of the Contras, we put ourselves on the same level as the communists and call the greatest attribute of America (our belief in the rule of law) into question before the court of world opinion. It is a tragedy that a nation of "laws not men" would choose to side with lawlessness to gain a small political advantage in a nation that represents no military, political or economic threat to the United States.

Why can't we leave these people alone? What can we possibly hope to gain by supporting terror in Nicaragua? Any objective observer of the situation in Nicaragua must see that our policy is hopelessly flawed. We believe that the time has come to quit this exercise in futility and allow these people the same right of self-determination we hold so dear.

The bullying tactics of our great and powerful nation against a small nation like Nicaragua are both disgusting and counter-productive.

Our government, through its heavy handedness is pushing the Nicaraguans into the waiting arms of the Russians and Cubans. If we leave them alone, we will find that their own internal problems will keep them occupied for years to come. Our belligerence against the Marxist government of Nicaragua scapegoats to blame its internal problems on and distracts the people of this country from seeking the internal equilibrium they need.

We also wish to express to you our total opposition to U.S. support of the government of El Salvador. This government (thanks to the generosity of the U.S. taxpayer) has shown that its greatest talents and abilities lie in waging sustained warfare against its own people. It has systematically engaged in error and the destruction of political opposition, through the use of death squads, including no small number of priests and nuns.

The president, whose policy you support, has said that the American people do not understand the situation in Central America. In fact, the American people understand very well and a large majority want no part of it.

In war, it is always the innocent and defenseless who suffer the most. U.S. arms shipments and support of the Contras have increased this suffering to intolerable limits. A U.S. military involvement in this area will result in a bloodbath of innocents that this hemisphere has never seen. What are we gaining with our policy in El Salvador? The killing goes on and on with no end in sight and we send in more weapons to ensure continued death and destruction.

It is time for our country to quit this senseless conflict and allow the people of El Salvador to determine their own future. We should bear in mind Washington's admonition that our country avoid "entangling foreign alliances." It was good advice then and now.

Students get the message

Recently, the international students at CSI hosted their annual International Students Day. By all accounts, it was a tremendous success. As international student advisor at CSI, I wish to thank several business persons in the community for their generous contributions: Pat Florence of Independent Meat; Mr. and Mrs. Bud Williams of Williams Foodliner; Jerry Swensen of Swensens'; Bill Workman of Ward's Cheese Haus; Frank Kroll of Coca-Cola Co.; and Ted McCurney and Andy Anderson of Safeway.

Community support through the years has given the international students at the college the message of friendship and understanding. PAULA EDMONDS HOLLIFIELD

Nuclear news encouraging

Hey, it's good news week. Thanks to our allies (for peace?), the West Germans, the Iranian spiritual and political guru Ayatollah Khomeini may well have "the bomb" within two years. I can hardly wait. But to my friends, that's not all the good news. The Reagan administration in all its compassion for the poor is about to strike a deal with China for 20 nuclear facilities just to help the "poor" sagging U.S. nuclear industry. Now won't that just make the world a safer and better place. I mean if we are real lucky, maybe Sen. McClure will offer to store the waste at INEL — temporarily, of course.

And to think just the other day I was feeling sorry for all those nukie groups — suffering like they do.

Give tourism honest chance

Dear Sen. McClure: Your intention to introduce legislation as to the amount of roadless public land in Idaho that will become wilderness is a bit premature. In light of pending value studies being done by the Idaho Department of Fish and Game and the Idaho Outfitters and Guides Association, you should put your legislation on hold until the whole economic impact story on Idaho is told. What if sustained proved to give Idaho the most stable income?

It is our understanding that the lumber industry has a three-year inventory at this time. It appears there is plenty of existing roadless public land available to log. Why eliminate roadless lands in Idaho from potential wilderness when their true value has not been determined.

Please give tourism an honest chance. Tourism is non-consumptive and will last as long as Americans want vacations in the clean air of Idaho's unroaded wild lands. DAVID AND SHEILA MILLS

Kennedy's body sent to family

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — David Kennedy's body was sent home to his family's Virginia estate Thursday while doctors, looking for a possible drug connection, studied tissue samples trying to pin down the cause of his death.

The body, resting in a casket packed in a cardboard shipping box, was sent aboard a commercial jet for the two-hour flight to Washington. A private Mass for the drug and alcohol-troubled son of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy will be said today at Hickory Hill, the estate of his mother, Ethel Kennedy.

He will be buried in Holyhood Cemetery in Brookline, Mass., where his grandfather Joseph P. Kennedy is buried.

Before her son's body returned Thursday, Mrs. Kennedy and several family members and friends knelt at the grave of Robert Kennedy in Arlington National Cemetery.

Kennedy, who spent Easter weekend at the Brazilian Court Hotel several miles from the family's seaside winter mansion, was found dead Wednesday morning, lying on the floor between two beds in a multi-room suite.

Cancer claims jazz great Count Basie

By DIANA JENSEN
The Associated Press

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — Count Basie, whose bright, simple piano style brought him international fame in the "swing" era of jazz, died in his sleep early Thursday of cancer, a disease his doctors never told him he had. He was 79.

"It's a great loss. I hate to even think about it," jazz musician Lionel Hampton said. Basie was "one of the true greats of music. He had his own particular style. . . . It was one of the greatest styles you could hear."

"He'll be remembered as long as there is a world," said composer-pianist Dave Brubeck. "He was loved all over the world and all the jazz musicians had tremendous respect for him and he'll never leave us."

"He was the best. He was a cool person," said

Anita O'Day, who sang with Basie's orchestra in the 1940s. "Everything he played was always the right little riff in the right little place."

Basie, who began his career in the 1920s as a 33-night piano player, was hospitalized for treatment of a severe ulcer, but doctors soon learned he had pancreatic cancer, said Dr. Leo Schildhaus.

"Had he known or been aware that he had cancer — he had such a fear of it — he would have given up hope of living. Anyone that might have seen him in Hollywood would know that he did not look as though he had a problem," Aaron Woodward, Basie's adopted son, said at a news conference.

Basie was admitted to Doctors' Hospital Feb. 4 with jaundice, Schildhaus said. He said that condition was relieved but Basie had another upset, a bleeding ulcer. Basie was released from the hospital Feb. 19, then was readmitted March 27, Schildhaus said.

"The family was with him to the end," the doctor added.

He had performed at the Hollywood Palladium in California March 19, his last public performance before he decided to return to the hospital. He had also given a private performance in Los Angeles for a tribute to jazz singer Ella Fitzgerald.

Basie, born William Basie in Red Bank, N.J., embarked on his career as a piano player in a Chinese restaurant on the New Jersey coast, and went on through a series of appearances in theaters, speakeasies, hotels and nightclubs across the country.

"We just play music," he once said. "And we try to make it swing."

"Confidentially, I hated the name 'Count,'" Basie said in a 1982 interview. "I wanted to be called Buck or Hoop or even Arkansas Fats."

Florida senator discloses child abuse incident

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Paula Hawkins, R-Fla., disclosed Thursday that she was sexually abused by a 60-year-old neighborhood man when she was 5, and urged parents to be explicit in warning their children about which adult behavior is wrong.

"It affects you for a lifetime," Mrs. Hawkins said of the molestation, which occurred when her family lived in California. Equally traumatic, she said, was her ensuing court appearance before a judge who thought she was lying about the incident.

Mrs. Hawkins, 57, said her disclosure of the childhood episode was unplanned and extremely difficult — she had never even told her husband, she said — but she decided it was important to show that sexual abuse can happen to anyone.

The freshman senator spoke at the opening session of the Third National Conference on Sexual Victimization of Children, sponsored by the Children's Hospital, National Medical Center.

"I'm lucky. I told my mother," she said, adding that her parents believed her, supported her and helped her avoid lasting problems from the incident.

Mrs. Hawkins said the elderly neighbor who once reached inside her clothing had attracted children to his home by giving them candy and toys, and offering to baby-sit while their mothers went shopping.

She said the unidentified man involved was taken to court after her mother checked with other parents and learned that several neighborhood children had suffered similar abuse.

But when she appeared in court, Mrs. Hawkins said, "I was embarrassed and humiliated" because the judge treated her as if she were lying.

The elderly man was released and continued to abuse children, she said.

Now, she said, "when children complain, I believe them."

Mrs. Hawkins said the court memory is "very vivid...how tiny I was and how huge the other people were." The lawyers, she said, were "terrible."

"It took me a long time to get over it. If there is a scar in my mind, it's that we didn't win the case," she said.

School reform requires implementation

MOSCOW (AP) — The omnibus public school reform bill passed by the 1984 Idaho Legislature could be a great opportunity for a "disaster," depending on how well state and local officials cooperate in its implementation and how well follow-up bills are funded, said Jerry Evans, superintendent of public instruction.

The reform bill is expected to be nearly an hour of discussion during Evans' annual review of education legislation here Wednesday.

Evans told more than 30 local school officials the reform bill could be "a great big plus or a great big minus."

"The measure creates a career ladder system designed to reward teaching excellence and includes $20.3 million to bring the state's teachers 60 percent closer to the national salary average.

Evans said improvements in Idaho's public education system will depend on how local districts and the state Department of Education react to the bill. He explained that funding for the career ladder plan will hinge on the kinds of implementation plans the districts develop. Those plans are due May 1985.

"The foundation stone of this particular bill is a program of teacher excellence," Evans said. "This plan must be developed locally through a cooperative effort involving local trustees and the state Department of Education."

Evans outlined three different career paths in explaining a "generic" career ladder system.

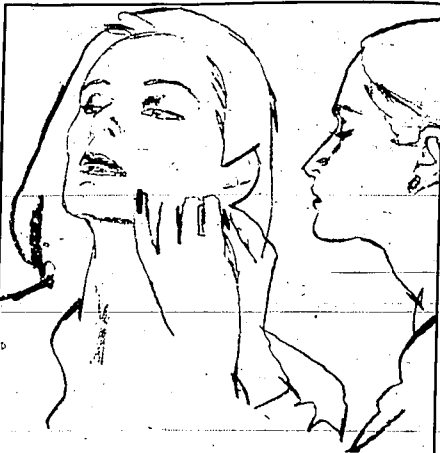

A "professional teacher" would be required to hold a bachelor's degree and have primary responsibility for classroom performance. A "senior teacher" would have a higher academic requirement and would do some work outside the classroom. A "master teacher" would be required to have a master's degree and would work throughout a school district as well as in the classroom.

Evans said the reform bill also includes a provision requiring a yearly evaluation of all teachers as a means of promotion along the career ladder.

Excellent teachers could be rewarded with extended contracts and sabbatical leaves, as well as salary increases, he added. "You can see the bill deals with more than just how teachers should be paid," he said.

Evans said the $20.3 million designated for salary increases should become part of each district's budget base. Each district will receive an additional $48 per student.

Jones hails accelerated death-penalty appeals

IDAHO FALLS (AP) — The Idaho Legislature's approval of a new law designed to speed up appeals in death penalty cases was "a major step forward," Attorney General Jim Jones says.

The new law requires defense attorneys to bring up all known challenges to the death penalty at one proceeding.

JIM JONES

Idaho attorney general

"It does not infringe on the rights of the criminals, but prevents repeated and frivolous challenges by death row inmates," Jones said here in a news conference.

"It should cut down the seemingly endless delays which we encounter in death penalty cases," he said.

But while he was pleased with the death penalty law, Jones said he was less happy that the Legislature did not settle the dispute over Snake River water rights. And he said he also was disappointed that the Legislature did not approve his proposals to compensate the victims of crimes.

Another new law is aimed at plugging loopholes on computer crime.

"We are going to see a tremendous increase in crime involving computers and the new law will give Idaho law enforcement personnel the necessary tool to combat it," he said.

Jones said legislation he and Gov. John Evans proposed would have ended the water right controversy.

"Our legislation would have allowed the state of Idaho to regain control of the main flow of the Snake River so that the state would be in a position of directing its own economic future," he said.

Hemlock victim recovers

BOISE (AP) — Sam Allen, hospitalized since Monday after ingesting water hemlock on an Gwyhee River float trip, has been released from St. Alphonsus Regional Medical Center.

Allen, 27, a Denver geologist, was the last of five rafters to be discharged after being treated for poisoning in the incident that claimed the life of assistant boatman Ken Kromer, 22, of Bonanza, Ore.

Although all five poisoning survivors ate the wild root similar to domestic parsnip, Allen was the only one to undergo the same kind of seizures that Kromer suffered before he died along the river in an isolated area of southeastern Oregon some 12 miles from Rome.

Allen and his companions waited for hours for help to arrive after being struck by the poisonous root.

House will be crowded

BOISE (AP) — When the Idaho House is remodeled to make way for 14 new members, it's going to get a bit crowded.

So much so that it appears the ceremonial House-Senate joint gatherings which have launched past sessions might be a thing of the past. There won't be room in the House for all 126 members of the Legislature.

Work crews Thursday completed knock-ups of how the House might be remodeled to make way for 14 new members.

A court-ordered plan being used for this year's election expands the House from 70 to 84 members. It adds 7 members to the 35-person Senate.

The expansion won't be much of a problem in the Senate, which already had four empty desks because of past changes in that body's size.

Workers dug out old mahogany desks from the cavernous basement of the Statehouse. They'll be refinished for the new lawmakers. But they won't have the inkwells they once had.

House Speaker Tom Stivers and other legislative leaders will decide details of the remodeling later. It's expected to be completed this fall, before next December's organizing session.

Wildlife panel snubs lobbyist

BOISE (AP) — A timber industry lobbyist traveled all the way to Sun Valley earlier this month to receive an Idaho Wildlife Federation award — only to find he wasn't getting the award.

A committee of the Wildlife Federation, the state's largest conservation group, rejected an award to the lobbyist on April 14, the day of the IWF awards ceremony at the group's annual convention.

Joe Hinson of Coeur d'Alene, executive director of the Idaho Forest Industry Council, had traveled to Sun Valley to accept the Conservation Forester of the Year award, one of about 10 yearly awards by the IWF.

Cliff Schneider, president of the Coeur d'Alene Wildlife Federation and chairman of the IWF awards committee, had told Hinson he would receive the award.

"It's unfortunate that Cliff told the guy that he was going to get the award and that he came down there," IWF President Bill Lelsi of Polatch said.

Lelsi and other federation officials say Schneider acted alone and did not inform the rest of the five-member committee that Hinson was even being considered for the award.

Schneider said the previous awards committee chairman had told him he could "act alone," because Hinson was the only person nominated for the forestry award.

"I really thought he deserved it," Schneider said. "He's pro-industry, but he's willing to sit down, listen and bargain — which is what it's all about."

Les Hazen of Twin Falls, awards chairman for many years, denied that he advised Schneider he could act alone on single nominations.

Hinson was nominated by members of the Coeur d'Alene Wildlife Federation for "promoting a state road-closure law to benefit big game and for mediating problems between industry and sportsmen," Schneider said.

Karl Holte of Pocatello, who was IWF president at the time, objected to the Hinson nomination two days before the awards ceremony, according to Schneider. Schneider said he could not locate Hinson to tell him not to travel to Sun Valley.

County-aid list altered

CHALLIS (AP) — Three central Idaho counties have been moved higher on the priority list for a $350,000 community development grant, due to the recent earthquake and flooding, officials say.

Glenn Phillips, president of Headwaters Development Corp., the entity formed to administer the money, said an application for the grant on behalf of Lemhi, Custer and Blaine counties was recently approved.

The federal Economic Development Administration grant will be available as interest-free loans to existing businesses or to establish new businesses to reduce unemployment in the three counties, Phillips said.

Headwaters is scheduled to receive the money in about 30 days.

The grant will be used to establish a revolving fund in the three counties. As loans and interest are repaid to the development corporation, that money will become available for loans.

Wool group head resigns from post

BOISE (AP) — Stan Boyd, executive secretary of the Idaho Wool Growers Association for more than five years, is resigning.

Starting next month, Boyd will work under contract with the National Wool Growers Association on a study of the domestic sheep and lamb marketing distribution system.

He has been secretary of the association since November, 1978.

He will handle special projects for the Idaho organization.

140 Libyans vacate London as 30 Britons leave Tripoli

By EDITH M. LEDERER
The Associated Press

LONDON — One hundred forty expelled Libyans flew out of London Thursday night and 30 Britons, mainly diplomats' families, arrived home from Tripoli.

The mass departures were the first since Britain broke ties with Libya last Sunday.

The Britons, led by Ambassador Oliver Miles' sons Hugh, Tom and Joe waving a big Union Jack, were greeted by Foreign Office ministers at London's Gatwick Airport.

"We're very proud of the way in which they have coped with the firing and difficult problems of the past 10 days," said Richard Luce, minister of state at the Foreign Office.

The white-and-gold Libyan Arab Airlines Boeing 727 took off from London's Heathrow International Airport at 7:25 p.m., about 25 minutes after the jet carrying the British left Tripoli.

British police ringed the Libyan Embassy, which has been blockaded since someone fired a submachine gun from an embassy window at demonstrators April 17, killing a policeman and wounding 11 protesters.

Julia Miles, wife of the British ambassador who stayed in Tripoli to oversee the embassy shutdown, told a news conference at Gatwick: "It's marvelous to be back. We've all been hoping this moment would come. It's been quite an ordeal."

Mrs. Miles led her companions in singing "Rule Britannia" and Britain's national anthem, "God Save

The Queen," as they left Libya on a scheduled British Caledonian Airlines flight that was delayed six hours.

The Libyans, mostly families of 40 diplomats and students still in their besieged embassy, waited about four hours after arriving at Heathrow. Many clutched British souvenirs.

Mrs. Miles said she had "no fears" for the safety of the 6,000 Britons still in Libya, most of whom are oil industry contract employees and their families, despite strikes and anti-British rhetoric broadcast by Libya's state-run media. "They're a tough lot and they're taking a calculated risk," she said.

Miles and 13 other diplomats still in Tripoli are expected to leave Saturday. Britain has given the rest of the estimated 200 Libyans being expelled until midnight Sunday to leave the country.

Island quiet after bloody food riots

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — This Caribbean capital — was calm Thursday, under tight military control after three days of bloody food-price riots.

The government said it would distribute U.S. surplus food free to the poor.

Hospitals said two people died Thursday of wounds suffered the day before, bringing the three-day toll to 54, most of them killed by gunfire from security forces. Hundreds of people were injured.

Luis Gonzalez Fabra, the presidential press officer, said "The problems are 95 percent over. Tomorrow everything should be back to normal." — new casualties were reported Thursday.

The poor were hardest hit by the price hikes. President Salvador Jorge

Blanco's office said Thursday that about $18 million worth of surplus chouse, powdered milk and flour provided by the United States would be handed out "free of charge" to the nation's poor "over a year's time."

Jorge Blanco's office also said the number of government stores, at which food is sold at reduced prices, would be doubled from the current 635. Senate President Jacobo Majluta said the legislature would seek to increase monthly wages for public employees from $125 to $200.

Gonzalez Fabra estimated that 20,000 people rioted, and conceded that while protests were expected, "We were surprised by the rioting."

Jorge Blanco charged in an emotional, nationally televised address late Wednesday that political opponents were behind the rioting, but his spokesman said many poor people were reacting to such price hikes as a bread roll going from five to 10 cents and sugar from 25 to 32 cents a pound.

"The issue was food prices for the poor. We touched the basic Dominican diet," Gonzalez Fabra said. He noted that a favorite snack among the poor is bread rolls and sugar water.

Gonzalez Fabra said the major task was cleaning up debris. He said brigades of city workers, police and volunteers were clearing away glass, rocks, burned tires and barricades.

Soldiers with automatic weapons kept watch on virtually every street in the capital. Jeeps and armored trucks moved past civilian traffic. Army helicopters flew overhead.

Lebanese build anew

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — President Amin Gemayel on Thursday named Rashid Karami, a Sunni Moslem, as prime minister and asked him to form a national unity Cabinet to try to end Lebanon out of a nine-year civil war.

"Let us put arms aside. Let us bury our hatreds and sectarian prejudice," Karami said in a statement broadcast live by all Beirut radio stations.

Karami, 62, is a pro-Syrian politician who has served as prime minister nine times previously. He is from the northern port city of Tripoli.

He replaces Shafik Wazzan, who resigned last February but had stayed on as caretaker.

Sources close to Karami said he plans to form a half-Christian, half-Moslem Cabinet with top leaders of the warring militias serving as ministers without portfolio, and their senior aides in key Cabinet posts. The sources spoke on condition they not be identified.

The current government structure, which gives Christians a majority of powerful posts, has been among the causes of rebellion by Moslems. Gemayel is a Christian.

Karami also said his government would work for the withdrawal of Israeli troops from southern Lebanon, for a swap of prisoners among the various militias and for a reorganization of command of the divided Lebanese army.

He said he would try to reopen Beirut's port and airport, which have been closed since Feb. 6.

Karami told reporters he expected to present his Cabinet lineup to the Maronite Christian president this weekend.

At France's embassy, meanwhile, gunmen fired from a speeding car at French gendarmes guarding the gate to the consular section of France's embassy in west Beirut at mid-afternoon, killing one French guard, police said.

Balloting dies in Brazil

ASILIA, Brazil (AP) — The militarily backed government defeated an opposition-sponsored constitutional amendment Thursday to reinstate direct presidential balloting in Latin America's largest country.

"Traitors!" shouted people in the galleries of Brazil's House of Representatives when the vote was counted. "The people will not forgive!"

Millions of Brazilians had demonstrated in favor of the measure, which called for the first popular presidential election since 1960, and polls indicated 80 percent of the citizens favored it.

The opposition's strength on the vote was its best showing in Congress since the 1964 military coup.

The vote was 238 in favor and 65 against, with three abstentions and 113 members absent — all but one from the government party. The measure needed 239 votes, a two-thirds majority, to pass the House.

Fifty-four members of the government party joined the opposition on the vote.

A few hours after the vote was announced, the army command said an unspecified number of prisoners were freed, roadblocks were removed and broadcast news censorship lifted.

Britain wants diplomatic code revised

LONDON (AP) — Frustrated by restrictions of the Vienna Convention on diplomatic behavior, the British government said Thursday that preliminary steps are being taken toward possible revision of the 23-year-old pact.

Rules on diplomatic immunity imposed by the pact prevented British police from storming the Libyan Embassy after a gunman in the embassy shot and killed a policewoman and wounded 11 Libyan demonstrators April 17.

Outraged members of Parliament have demanded that changes be sought in the convention. Home Secretary Leon Brittan, heading an emergency committee on the Libyan crisis, said Wednesday that Foreign Secretary Sir Geoffrey Howe would "consider whether to put forth proposals for changes" in the convention after he returns from an Arab trip Saturday.

A Foreign Office spokesman, who spoke on condition he not be identified, said Thursday that studies are in train "that could lead to British proposals for change in the Vienna document." However, the process is complex and lengthy.

The first step, British officials said, is to feel out international opinion on revising the convention. That has already begun in communications with a number of foreign governments, and Brittan said supportive messages have been received from the United States, Australia, Canada, Belgium and Norway.

Next, any proposed changes would be considered by the International Law Commission of the United Nations, which holds its next meeting in Geneva May 7-17.

The commission is "comprised" of 34 government-named legal experts. The British representative is Sir Ian Sinclair, legal adviser to the Foreign Office.

Findings of the commission go to the 6th Committee of the United Nations General Assembly, which could eventually call an international conference to revise the Vienna Convention.

The convention, which has been ratified by 141 nations, spells out conditions of diplomatic immunity. The restrictions have frustrated efforts of British authorities to find the gunman in the Libyan embassy or, in the unlikely event he is discovered, bring him to trial if he is a diplomat.

Article 22 of the convention says: "The premises of the (diplomatic) mission are inviolable." Article 29 says: "The person of a diplomatic agent shall be inviolable. He shall not be liable to any form of arrest or detention."

The convention also stipulates that diplomats must obey the law of their host country. But if they don't, they can only be thrown out, not prosecuted. The convention also would permit the Libyans or any other diplomatic mission to ship in and out of London crates filled with arms and explosives in the guise of "diplomatic pouches." Such diplomatic baggage is immune from search.

Several lawmakers called for changes in the convention when the House of Commons returned from its Easter recess.

"It is essential to distinguish between the necessary protection of law-abiding countries... and the need at the same time to avoid the convention being used merely as a cover for terrorism or murder," said Conservative Mark Carlisle.

Collision of Portuguese commuter train, bus kills 17

OPORTO, Portugal (AP) — A speeding commuter train plowed into a bus at a railroad crossing and hurled another 300 yards before derailling. Officials said 17 bus passengers died in the wreck.

one of the injured passengers on the bus.

He was hospitalized for minor injuries and shock. Authorities said 36 other people also were injured in the collision.

"The gates at the crossing were open. We started to cross the tracks, and then the train just appeared," said Jose Maria Rocha Moreira, 31, Portuguese railroad officials said the keeper of the gates at the crossing had a day off Thursday and arranged for a friend to look after the crossing.

Duarte Xavier Santos, chief officer of state-run Portuguese Rail's northern division, was heading the inquiry into the crash. He told reporters at the scene that the driver of the train, the stationmaster and three area crossing guards had been questioned.

Santos refused to answer questions about who was to blame for the 7:30 a.m. collision.

Big Saudi oil tanker damaged

Daily Telegraph, London

LONDON — A giant Saudi Arabian oil tanker was drifting out of control in rough seas in the Persian Gulf after being hit Tuesday by what is being described as "a projectile."

Lloyds of London, the main source of shipping information around the world, said it appeared that the tanker, on Saudi Arabia's coast, was hit by a missile or had struck a mine. The ship was fully loaded and outward bound from the Iranian oil terminal at Kharg Island.

In whatever way the Saudi Arabian-registered tanker was damaged, it represents a serious embarrassment to Iraq, according to diplomats in London. Iraq has declared the area around Kharg Island a "prohibited zone" and warned that it would attack any vessel that entered the area.

But Saudi Arabia has been one of Iraq's main backers in its 3½-year-old war with Iran. It is estimated that the Saudis have given Iraq at least $25 billion to sustain its war effort.

According to reports from the gulf, the master and chief engineer remained aboard the Saudi tanker after 24 crew members were taken off. One crew member was reported missing.

Three Dutch salvage tugs were said to be with the ship, which was burning after apparently suffering damage in the starboard quarter close to the crew's quarters. There was no word from Iraq about any military action in the area, about 70 miles from Kharg Island.

First indications were that some 3,000 tons of heavy crude oil has spilled, and that the ship was still leaking.

"This is clearly a most dangerous situation," shipping experts in London said. Iraqi officials refused to comment Thursday night but it was clear they are deeply concerned.

There are only a small number of Saudi-registered tankers, most of them used to carry oil from Saudi terminals or as floating storage tanks for the strategic supplies Saudi Arabia has built up as a cushion against Iran's threat to block the entrance to the gulf.

Cosmonauts repair Salyut

MOSCOW (AP) — Two cosmonauts took a five-hour space walk Thursday and worked on the propulsion system of the Salyut 7 orbiting space station, the Soviet news agency Tass reported.

The cosmonauts Leonid Klim and Vladimir Solovoy, also were outside the space station on Monday, and Tass said they planned more work outside the station.

Tass said the cosmonauts went out Thursday to "replace the orbiter's integrated propulsion unit for the first time." It said they installed a valve on a "switched off" part of the Salyut 7's engine system.

In December, Soviet space officials said at a news conference that the Salyut 7 has a main engine and an auxiliary backup engine. They said there had been a fuel leak in one of the engines last fall and that it had been switched off.

Klim, Solovoy and a third cosmonaut, Oleg Atkov, began their space mission on Feb. 8. The Salyut 7 has been in orbit since April 1982.

Money yanked from schools after violations

JERRY EVANS Gives Buhl a break

By ANNETTE CARY
Times-News writer

BÜHL — The Cassia County and Buhl school districts will have money withheld from state payments in July, although the penalty will be less than expected for Buhl.

Both schools overcharged the state on reimbursable transportation costs for the 1981-82 school year. Buhl overcharged for the preceding year also.

They were not alone. Twenty-nine of the 25 districts randomly audited by the state in the last year were found to have reported excessive costs.

Those districts will have the over-reported funds withheld from state payments this summer, State Superintendent of Public Instruction Jerry Evans said last week. But State Department of Education support services supervisor Wayne Phillips reports that this week Evans decided to give Buhl a break on the first year, because it was the only school district audited for two years.

Over both years, the overpayment came to $41,500, but only half that amount will be withheld, Phillips says.

In Cassia County, the overpayment was $17,442, a little more than the average overpayment of about $14,000 to audited districts of all sizes.

Cassia Superintendent Norman Hurst says the money is a small enough amount that the district won't hurt much. It is only about 4 percent of the transportation budget, he says. The district has already made the adjustment in the coming year's budget for the cut, he says.

Most of the overcharges in Cassia County and other districts were for transportation to extracurricular activities, including events considered field trips by districts but extracurricular activities by the state. Under Idaho law, school districts can be reimbursed for up to 85 percent of the cost of fuel and drivers for busing students to and from school and on field trips.

The state regulations were difficult to understand, Hurst says. The state department's transportation consultant, Jim Marconi, says the state has clarified the regulations after the transportation costs reported by Buhl and Cassia County school officials were reviewed in May.

Both districts are now complying with state law in reporting transportation costs, the superintendents say. Buhl also is planning to make additional changes to comply with state regulations and to follow recommendations of the state.

Slightly more than $12,000 of Buhl's overpayment was for transportation costs for vans that did not meet state or national school bus regulations, Pratt says. A van used for handicapped students and a van used for transporting students on field trips needed to be yellow, on a one-ton chassis and have a stop-arm to qualify for fuel and salary reimbursement from the state.

Next year, the district will contract its transportation of handicapped students. That means the handicapped transportation that costs the district about $5,000 now will cost the district $16,000 plus expenses next year, Pratt says. Half of the $16,000 is for a first-year fee, because the contractor has to purchase a special bus.

In the past, the district has taken care of about half of its transportation and contracted the rest. But the state department has advised the district to do it all one way or the other.

Since the district cannot afford to purchase the equipment it needs to provide the service itself, all busing will be contracted next year at a higher cost than the present system.

County alters hospital staff

GOODING — Two additional members to the Gooding County Memorial Hospital Board of Trustees will be named next month.

Will Thomas, chairman of the Gooding County Board of Commissioners, says the commissioners will name the two new hospital trustees at its next meeting May 14.

The commissioners agreed in February to add the two new members at the request of a citizens group that formed when financial and administrative difficulties came to light at the hospital last fall.

The group, Citizens Committee to Save Our Hospital, gave the county commissioners the names of eight people they wanted on the board and said they were willing to serve.

However, Thomas says, the commissioners are not obligated to appoint any of the citizen committee's choices.

"I think we're going to take certain individuals into consideration and will pick who we think will do the hospital the most good," says Thomas.

Thomas does say the people under consideration will include those named by the citizen's group.

Jim Muscat, co-chairman of the citizens committee, says he hopes the commissioners do appoint people on his group's list.

"I'd be a little unhappy if it (if the Businessman praised as 'Man of the Year'

By LUCY OSBORNE

GOODING — Earl Greenawalt is Gooding's man of the year.

Honors came at the Chamber of Commerce Citizen of Year Banquet Tuesday, where Greenawalt was paid tribute for his community service.

Friends and business associates verbally expressed their admiration for Greenawalt, who they say has steadfastly worked for the betterment of the community for the past 33 years.

Larry Robertson, a fellow business colleague, cited Greenawalt's superior leadership ability, an art he says has contributed to business success for both Greenawalt and the community.

A native of Idaho, Greenawalt was born and educated in Pocatello. He located his furniture and appliance store in Gooding in 1951.

Greenawalt said when he was named Gooding's citizen of the year, "I was terribly surprised and pleased.

"I work on the theory that nobody asked me to come to Gooding and nobody asked me to leave. I happen to like this place very much."

Greenawalt and his wife, Betty, have four children.

The annual citizen of the year banquet is sponsored by the Gooding Chamber and the Gooding Chapter of Business and Professional Women's organization.

Other nominees this year for the distinguished citizen honor were Dr. Marion Klinger, accountant Tom Jones and his son, a Gooding lawyer who died March 10, 1984.

Rail-station closure aired at PUC

By HAL BERNSTON
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Union Pacific Railroad officials tried to assure two Public Utilities Commissioners Thursday that closing four Magic Valley "train" stations would not hurt service.

During an afternoon hearing in the Twin Falls City Council chambers, the railroad officials testified that their proposal to close the stations was an efficiency move dictated by the computer age, not a prelude to abandoning profitable branch lines in the Magic Valley area.

Their testimony was contested not by farmers, but by railroad union representatives, who claimed customer service would suffer from the loss of the personal touch offered by station agents.

The hearing was called by the PUC to help commissioners rule on a request to close the Buhl, Burley, Minidoka, Jerome and Shoshone stations, all of which are now manned by individual agents. These stations would be replaced by teams of computer-assisted agents already operating at Twin Falls and Rupert.

So far, the proposal has spurred few written protests from the Magic Valley, said PUC commissioners Richard High and Perry Swisher. And Buhl Mayor James Barker, after consulting with town shippers, wrote a letter earlier this year supporting the plan, they said.

The lone public witness during the afternoon testimony was a Rupert chemical salesman, who said he liked the way the Shoshone agent helped him with freight shipments.

"I'm quite concerned," said Marvin Looslie, a sales representative for an Illinois firm. "The Shoshone service has been very good and I don't see how I could have as good of personal attention with anyone else."

L.D. Tomblinson, a Pocatello-based Union Pacific supervisor, said that a new generation of computers has made station agents expendable middlemen who should be eliminated to help cut the overhead.

Without increased efficiency, the railroad cannot regain business lost to truckers, who benefit from the taxpayer-subsidized In-

Church-state relations posed in open forum at CSI class

TWIN FALLS — Church-state relations will be the topic of an open forum arranged by College of Southern Idaho students in Harry Massoth's religion classes.

The class decided to sponsor the forum Monday at 7:30 p.m. in Room 117 of the Shields Building because of concern over the growing number of issues inflaming the historic wall between church and state.

Representatives from the religious and public sectors of Magic Valley have been invited to speak. They include Sen. John Barker of Buhl; the Rev. Barbara Upp, president of the Twin Falls Association of Churches; LDS Institute Director Brent Lundgren; Frank Berry, principal of the Twin Falls Christian Academy and an unnamed representative of the Twin Falls school district. Massoth will moderate.

"Debates over a number of church-state issues, ranging from school prayer and evolutionary theory to tax law and church politics have been intensifying for over a decade," Massoth says.

Yet few workable solutions have been proposed in any of these concerns. The class members thought it would be timely and appropriate to take a good look at some of these issues, to find out how a few local leaders viewed them and to seek some viable solutions before the conflicts become more serious," he says.

The panelists will be asked to discuss the trends causing the debate to intensify and what religious and philosophical beliefs and social conditions tend to perpetuate disagreement on church-state issues.

They also will address what role religious leaders and officials in government and education should play in resolving problems.

Area school-contract discussions quietly begin

TWIN FALLS — Negotiations between the Twin Falls school board and teachers opened quietly Wednesday night.

The teachers presented a list of items they wanted to discuss, but negotiations have not proceeded to discussions of specific requests yet, says Jana Roy, head of this year's teachers' bargaining team. The items the teachers want to discuss include flexible leave, insurance, class-load relief, salary, leave-of-absence and extra-duty pay, she says.

The teachers have not made requests yet about how they want the district's share of the $20.3 million appropriated for salary increases statewide to be divided among teachers or how the money should be split—between teachers and administrators.

"We are kind of waiting to see what the district does," they say.

Terry Gilbert, director of the Idaho Education Association in Magic Valley, says he expects the earmarked funds to be a hot topic in negotiations throughout the valley.

Teachers will be asking for a cost-of-living raise in addition to the money the Legislature appropriated to close 60 percent of the gap between Idaho teachers' salaries and the average teacher's salary nationwide.

"A real conflict may come up," he says. "I do not know if it will be an easy year. But I sense both sides, generally speaking, would like a smooth session."

Superintendent Gary Piller, the spokesman for the school board, was unavailable for comment Thursday.

Highway district hunts funds to save Clear Lakes Grade

By KAREN MAIN
Times-News correspondent

WENDELL — It may be an uphill battle, but the West Point Highway District of Gooding County wants to reconstruct or reroute the Clear Lakes Grade that winds down the Snake River Canyon between Wendell and Buhl.

The highway district is concerned that the 2.2 miles of road, which is the only river crossing between the Perrine Bridge and Hagerman, can no longer handle traffic. A majority of the more than 35 local residents who attended a meeting at the West Point Grange voted in favor of relocating the deteriorating road.

"But because the rural highway district has a limited annual budget of $57,000, local officials said they probably will need some help from Gooding, Twin Falls and Jerome counties and major road users.

Russ Weaver, a West Point Highway Commissioner, said that when the grade was constructed in the early 1930s it was adequate for the times.

But now some traffic counts have shown that in a 24-hour period the road is used by 1,200 to 1,800 vehicles, many of which are trucks from nearby industries, he said.

The road is only 18 feet wide, the upper end has a 10 percent grade, rocks from the cliff face fall on the pavement, the curves are hazardous and access to the country club and trout farms in the canyon is dangerous, he said.

In addition, the natural spring foundation of the canyon sides erode the formation of the road and the high water table at the bottom of the grade makes it unstable, he said.

"It's a wonder we haven't had some very bad accidents, but I think it's just a matter of time," Weaver said.

Clear Lakes Grade can be reconstructed, it can be rebuilt nearby or it can continue to deteriorate until it cannot be used by certain types of traffic, he said.

"This third alternative I don't want to see happen," Weaver said, but the highway department can not continue to devote 50 percent of its time and a large portion of its budget on 2.2 miles of road when it is responsible for 40 other miles of road.

And if the road is reconstructed, Weaver said many of the same problems would still exist and the reconstruction could affect the springs which run down into fish farms.

Gooding County engineer, Gerald Martens, said it would cost approximately $1.1 million to reconstruct the road and $1.3 to $1.8 million to relocate it with a grade that would not exceed 7 percent.

Regardless of whether the road is rebuilt or rerouted, the district is too small to pay for construction that could start in three to four years, Gooding County Commissioner Bob Tupper said.

The Federal Highway Administration gas tax probably will pay for 80 percent of the construction, but local sources will need to supply the remaining money, he said.

Besides the local highway district, the money could come from Gooding County and adjacent counties, he said.

Some money also could be solicited from the local agricultural and fish farm companies and other heavy users of the road, he said.

"The money to come up with to pay for a project is always a sticky thing," said Lew Pence, the Wood River Resource Area Project Coordinator.

But if the grade is not repaired or replaced, the cost to local industries to truck their goods by the other routes across the river at Hagerman or Twin Falls could run into thousands of dollars, he said.

Clear Lakes Grade not only benefits Gooding County, it also has economic value to Jerome and Twin Falls counties, Weaver said. "So we're going to ask everybody to help," he said.

Pupil heads to national math contest

JEROME — A Jerome Junior High School student and his teacher will be going to Washington, D. C., in mid-May to represent the state in national mathematics competition.

David Jackson, one of four members of the Jerome math team, was selected for the state team when he placed first among the students in statewide writing competition in Boise. He also placed third in a special topics and oral competition open only to the top 10 contestants in the state.

Jerome's junior high school math teacher, Marla Scofield, will coach the Idaho team during the national event next month.

The four Jerome "mathletes" won state team competition in the Boise meet earlier this month. On the Jerome team in addition to Jackson are Pamela Van Zanien, Clint Powell and Glenn Leavitt.

Mrs. Scofield took her four top math students to Boise for the state's first contest, part of a nationwide program designed to enhance math skills at the junior high school level. The state contest with 10 teams entered from all parts of the state covered a full day of math competition and tests for the junior high school students.

Math Counts is also designed to better prepare students in high school college math work. It is sponsored by the National Society of Professional Engineers, the CNA Insurance Companies and the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics, the National Science Foundation and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

It was sponsored by the Idaho Society of Professional Engineers, Scofield said.

Contestants are from the seventh and eighth grades. The top four individuals in written competition were selected to make up the state team for the Washington, D.C., trip. Others who will represent Idaho are Mac Stevens of Rathdrum; Dawn Hamilton of Nampa and Evelyn Brady of Menan.

Trophies were presented by the engineers organization to the Jerome team and top individual winners.

Scofield was selected to coach the state delegation by having her school win top team competition in Idaho.

Arts-science fair develops youngsters' abilities

GOODING — Frann Junior High School in Gooding was the scene of the recent Youth Arts and Sciences Fair. Started by a group of volunteers, the fair encourages area students to develop interests and abilities beyond regular curriculum.

The idea for the fair "came from a group of parents interested in enrichment and opportunities," said Amy Walker, a volunteer from the "Sherry" fund of Wendell who was the driving force behind the idea.

Sherry Oliver of Wendell; Bobby Madsen, Trade Crow and Leah Tolzoff of Gooding; and Joan Wise of Hagerman, were very pleased with the results of the fair this year.

Walker said the fair was the "seed for a program that will be very exciting for the children." Changes likely will be made in the future, the panel of volunteers would like to expand all of the areas of competition.

Also, this year's celebration again will be featured. These include the western music jamboree and barbecue, a western parade, Las Vegas night, a junior rodeo, a jail and an all-star football game.

Also, this year's celebration will feature a saloon crawl, flea market, buffalo chip throwing contest, teen dance and skate night, among other events.

Aimed at Fourth District schools, the fair gives students who have special interests a chance to express themselves and meet other students with similar goals.

Students from Glenns Ferry, Fairfield, Richfield, Dietrich, Shoshone, Gooding, Bliss, Hagerman and Wendell participated in five major categories:

science, art, writing, computer science and photography.

Ribbons and $2 were awarded to each student placing in competition, with a grand prize for each junior and senior division of a $50 savings bond.

Grand prize winners were: Junior division science, Rusty Jones, Bliss; senior division science, no entries; junior division art, no winner named; senior division art, Will Walker, Glenns Ferry; junior division writing, Laura Hansen, Wendell; senior division writing, Traci Sims, Bliss; junior division computer science, Eric Standa, Bliss; senior division computer science, Derry Bryson, Bliss; junior division photography, Stacy Madsen, Gooding.

Walker said the team of volunteers, including Verla Flores and Doug Andrews of Bliss, Patricia Gaw, Donna Wagoner, Roe, Emma Coleman and

Jerome water tank work to begin

JEROME — Construction is scheduled to begin, probably in June, on the new million-gallon water storage tank and distribution lines for Jerome's water system.

Public Works Director Lanny Sloan said Wednesday the city has received confirmation of a $500,000 grant from the Department of Economic and Community Development to complete the water system expansion. Funds were approved last year and Sloan said he was advised Wednesday the money is now available.

"This means we can go ahead and call for bids at an early date and hopefully award a contract and start construction in June," he said.

The city has already drilled a well in the east area of town to help improve water pressure and service in newer residential areas. Funds for the well were received last year and the well was completed last fall.

Tombilson said the commissioners that even with the demise of the local agents, customers would still "talk to a person — not a computer" when calling a service center. And the central agents would still "call people by their first names on a very friendly basis."

GOODING — Rosary for Lucy A. Arringa, 69, of Gooding, who died Tuesday, will be recited at St. Elizabeth's Catholic Church in Gooding at 8 p.m. today. Mass will be celebrated at 8 p.m. on Saturday, also at the church. Cremation will follow. Friends may call at Denary's Gooding Funeral Chapel today through Saturday.

ADDIE M. WATERMAN
BURLEY — Addie M. Waterman, 97, a Burley-area resident, died Thursday at Cassia Memorial Hospital.

The service arrangements are pending and will be announced by the Payne Chapel in Burley.

TWIN FALLS — The Times-News incorrectly indicated in Thursday's edition that David Newman of Twin Falls was discharged from the U.S. Navy in 1982. He actually was discharged in October 1981. Newman was pictured Thursday protesting the government's action outside the Navy recruiting station at Twin Falls.

Correction
A spokesman for Kimberly Nurseries advises that decorative bark used as mulch should be spread 12 inches deep. The depth was incorrectly reported in a story in the garden section of Thursday's Times-News.

Correction
Only one of three men cited on a charge of disturbing artifacts was a head of the Idaho Archaeology Society. A headline on the story in Thursday's edition implied otherwise. The story was correct.

Western Days plans forming

TWIN FALLS — Planning has begun for Twin Falls Western Days, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce this year from May 29 to June 3.

Several events from last year's celebration again will be featured. These include the western music jamboree and barbecue, a western parade, Las Vegas night, a junior rodeo, a jail and an all-star football game.

Also, this year's celebration will feature a saloon crawl, flea market, buffalo chip throwing contest, teen dance and skate night, among other events.

In preparation for Western Days and in order to raise funds, a western costume ball has been scheduled for May 18 at the Turf Club. Tickets for the 8 p.m. event will cost $10, and can be purchased from the Chamber of Commerce.

Sponsors for Western Days this year include the Chamber, the United Way of the Magic Valley, the American Cancer Society and the CSI Rodeo Club.

Those interested in participating in any event should contact Jerry Benton of Wes Gates at 734-5838.

They encourage those planning to participate in the western parade to obtain entry forms as soon as possible.

County service officer named

FAIRFIELD — Lyle Hupfer has been appointed as the Camas County post service officer for the Elmer Miller Post of the American Legion in Fairfield.

The appointment came at the request of the post officers.

As post service officer, Hupfer works with area veterans and their families in several ways.

"If a veteran needs to get into the VA hospital in Boise, I help him out," he said.

Hupfer said he can also provide assistance in getting pensions or other compensation for the veteran.

"If they need something, I'm their boy," Hupfer said.

Hupfer said he has had a few difficulties with various offices in Boise, due to the fact that most of the counties in Idaho have gone to the county service officer program. Because of this, some veterans' administration offices are reluctant to recognize post service officers, he said.

Hupfer will work out of his home with office hours from 10 a.m. to noon and 1 to 3 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays. He also will make appointments at other times and conduct house calls.

Child-abuse films presented

HAILEY — The Blaine County prosecuting attorney's office will show two child-abuse prevention films, "The Lures of Death" and "Ordinary People."

The first showing will be 7 p.m. Tuesday at the Hailey Elementary School, and the second 7 p.m. Wednesday at Hemingway Elementary School in Ketchum.

Parents of young children are encouraged to attend. Admission is free.

Correction

TWIN FALLS — Due to a typographical error, The Times-News incorrectly reported a date in an article on Nyle Jones, who is seeking increased benefits from the Veterans Administration.

The story reported that Jones had a heart attack in December 1973. The correct date was in December 1982.

Ex-administrator seeks wages

TWIN FALLS — The president of National Corp. of Twin Falls, formerly Sierra Investment Corp., has gone to court to obtain more than $400,000 in wages and damages.

John Hadley alleges in a lawsuit filed in Fifth District Court that National Corp. unilaterally is breaking his employment contract, even though he has fulfilled his end of the agreement. Hadley began a six-year contract as chief executive of Sierra Investment and its successor National Corp. on May 8, 1981, the suit says.

Hadley is seeking $108,000 in wages, $42,300 in fringe benefits and another $250,000 in damages related to lack of development of 25 acres of land east of the Sierra Life Insurance Co.'s headquarters in Twin Falls. National Corp. is a wholly owned subsidiary of Sierra Life Insurance Co.

Top officers of Sierra Life's parent company, George Washington Life Insurance Co. of Atlanta, could not be contacted for comment despite repeated attempts. However, a spokeswoman said the company would have no comment on the lawsuit.

Police investigating forgeries

JEROME — A joint investigation is under way by Twin Falls and Jerome city police into a series of forgeries.

Capt. Milo Alonzo of the Jerome Police Department said 15 checks, representing a total of $2,785, were cashed in Jerome. He said the First Security Bank of Jerome contacted the department Tuesday to report the 15 checks had been written on the account of Allen and Ruth Blamires of Jerome. The checks range from $100 to $400 each, Alonzo said.

No arrests have been made, but a number of the checks also have shown up in Twin Falls and the two departments are cooperating on the investigation.

Subdivision residents seek road repair

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

JEROME — Residents of the Big Little Ranches subdivision in the south end of Jerome County have renewed their appeal to the Jerome County Board of Commissioners for help in road repairs and other needs.

Commissioners met May 7, 1:30 p.m., as the time for a meeting with representatives of the homeowners' organization from the subdivision.

Asked to also attend the meeting will be Gene Bosserman, the subdivision developer, and Jerome Highway District representatives.

The commissioners indicated the meeting is not called to hear complaints, but rather to work for a solution to the problems.

Last week, commissioners said they have been told that during the first warm weather and rain, vehicles were stuck in the muddy roads of the subdivision. It also was noted that in some cases, heavy equipment had difficulty pulling the stuck vehicles out without also getting stuck.

An agreement was reached last week between the county and developer in an effort to set aside funds from the sale of additional lots to be used for paving of the main roads and improving others.

But residents say there has been little improvement, despite constant appeals for better roads.

In other business Monday, commissioners heard a report from Civil Defense Director Mario Dairy and Sheriff Etta Hall on weatherproofing windows in the Courthouse. Dairy said his survey of the building shows 101 windows need insulation in the form of storm windows. He said he has received an estimate of $12,459 on the work.

He said there is a constant draft of cold air on windy days in offices along the west side of the old part of the building, including the sheriff's office, treasurer's office and courtrooms.

"I was surprised how many small electric heaters I found under desks in these offices. Workers are having a hard time keeping warm on cold days," he said.

Dairy and Hall said conditions created a severe heat loss in winter and boost energy costs. Hall said he would be able to have the building custodian caulk windows for some improvement, but he agreed storm windows are needed in most of the old part of the Courthouse.

Engineer says aged school gym won't collapse

By JANENE BUCKWAY
Times-News correspondent

SHOSHONE — The Shoshone High School gymnasium is not in "imminent danger of collapse."

Engineer Jim Coleman told the school board Monday the gym has some problems, but is "structurally sound and reasonably safe."

An engineer's study of the building was ordered when cracks began to appear in the walls with separation along the ceiling beams and in the floor. School officials said the cracks began appearing after last fall's earthquake.

When Coleman looked at the building several weeks ago, he told the board the building appeared to be moving and had aged "30 years" in just a few weeks.

The report presented Monday says the building has experienced a speeded-up aging process, and that the earthquake did contribute.

According to the report, most of the building's problems are due to poor design, poor construction and craftsmanship. The most serious problem is a lack of adequate steel support in the concrete block walls, the engineers say.

The report also shows that the exterior foundation has settled more than the interior structure, causing added stress.

The study is continuing and Coleman says his crew will continue to monitor the cracking to determine the extent of any ongoing problems.

When questioned by the board, the engineers said the building could, be very dangerous in the event of another earthquake.

The final engineer's report is not complete because, Coleman said, "The more we look, the more questions we have."

He did say, however, the report should be ready in the next two weeks and should contain suggestions for dealing with the building's problems. He added that the engineers and architect are trying to find cost-effective ways to arrest the problem and not just add "cosmetic cures."

Forest Service reviews Stanley Basin grazing

STANLEY — The U.S. Forest is in the process of reviewing its grazing practices for cattle and horses on rangelands in the Stanley Basin and is asking for public responses to help in the process.

The current plan was developed in 1972 and now includes possible conflicts between grazing livestock and other resources such as fish, wildlife, recreation and streamside vegetation, says Al Ashton, superintendent of the Sawtooth National Recreation Area.

As part of the planning process for the plan update, the Forest Service has worked with various groups and has prepared a draft list of issues, concerns and management alternatives, which is available to the public, Ashton says.

These are available through the SNRA Stanley Zone manager's office in Stanley or from Ashton's office in the headquarters building north of Ketchum.

Among the issues are stream bank stability, cover for fish created by streamside vegetation, cattle conflicts with recreation activities along the Salmon River and Stanley Lake Creek, cattle drifting into the community of Stanley, the impact of reduced grazing and continued increases in big game numbers that could adversely affect livestock operations.

The Stanley Basin grazing allotment is located primarily north and west of Stanley, but includes a narrow strip along the Salmon River east of Stanley to the Subbeam area and a small pasture in the Marsh Creek area. Approximately 8,000 acres are included in the allotment on which more than 1,400 cows and calves graze between mid-June and the end of October each year.

Vietnam vets slate meeting

FILER — The Idaho Vietnam Veterans Leadership Program organization will show a slide presentation of the dedication of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial at 7:15 p.m. Friday at the American Legion Hall in Filer.

Steve Neff of Orofino, a Marine veteran, will conduct the program. Max Brown of Boise, state director of the Idaho Vietnam Veterans Leadership Program, also will be present.

Symphony's final concert showcases talent

By TERRY RICH HARTLEY
Times-News correspondent

TWIN FALLS — In its third and final concert of the season, The Magic Valley Symphony will showcase the talents of four Magic Valley residents. The musicians, all scholarship recipients, will be performing with the symphony May 4 at 8 p.m. in the College of Southern Idaho Fine Arts Auditorium.

In commemoration of its 25th season, the symphony awarded $2,500 to these four musicians.

Jed Moss, who won the first place prize of $900 in the college division, will play the Liszt Piano Concerto No. 1.

Nancy Bondurant, winner of $600, will play Hummel's Concerto for Orchestra and Bassoon in F, while third place college division winner, Karen Connolly, who received $400, will perform Handsskin's Concerto for Viola.

Julie Edwards is the $600 high school division winner and will play the third movement of Concerto No. 1 for Piano by Muczynski.

Moss, a student at the University of Utah, is a graduate of Jerome High School where he was pianist for jazz band and accompanist/vocalist for the Choralists. Receiving consecutive superior ratings in the Idaho Federation of Music Clubs, he was also the winner of the Smith, Hackney and Ronk Memorial Scholarship, and the state winner Mason Hamlin High School music auditions in Caldwell. Other honors come from the "College of Your Choice" scholarship by the Idaho Federation of Music Clubs, as well as first place in the Mu Phi Epsilon scholarship contest and various other awards at the University of Utah.

Bondurant is a graduate of the North Carolina School of Arts and received bachelor of music magna cum laude and master of music degrees from Temple University.

Listed in Who's Who Among American High-School Students as well as the same listing for colleges and universities, Bondurant was a recipient of the Idaho Federation of Music Clubs Scholarship and was the Rocky Ridge Concerto Competition winner in 1980 and 1982.

She has been a guest artist at Immaculate College and Beloit College, and was principal first two different years at the Rocky Ridge Festival Orchestra. From performances with the Magic Valley Chamber Orchestra 1975 through 1977, she has gone on to perform with a large number of other groups including the San Diego Youth Symphony, the Chautauque Music Festival Orchestra and the Rocky Ridge Festival Orchestra.

KAREN CONNOLLY
Performs on viola

Connolly, a graduate of Twin Falls High School, studied viola and violin with Julienne Slaughter and represented Twin Falls at All State and All Northwest Music Festivals.

Presently a business major at the University of Idaho, she plays viola in the U of I Symphony and the Faculty String Quartet. Connolly has appeared with the Washington-Idaho Symphony, Spokane Symphony,

NANCY BONDURANT
Winner on bassoon

Magic Valley Symphony and in many Magic Valley Dilettante productions. Julie Edwards studies under Georgia Blastock and has done so for seven years.

A junior, Edwards plays flute with the Filer High School Band and accompanies the chorus on the piano. She has received several Idaho Federation of Music Clubs superior ratings and wins the praises of Blastock for being a dedicated talent.

JED MOSS
Lauded on piano

The premiere of "Commemorations", a piece for orchestra, will be the finale of the concert. The composer of "Commemorations", Ted Hadley of Twin Falls, is the co-winner of the symphony's state-wide composition contest that was held this year in celebration of its quarter-century anniversary.

Lynette Hart, a Hailey resident, and

JULIE EDWARDS
High school winner

Hadley both received $1,000 for their symphonic works. Hart's "Autumn Symphony" was premiered by the Magic Valley Symphony in February, and Hadley will have the privilege of conducting the premiere of his own work at the Friday concert.

Tickets can be purchased at Warner Music, the CSI bookstore, or at the door. There will be no reserved seating.

Western poster released

SUN VALLEY — The poster for this summer's "The Women's West 1984" is now available at the Sun Valley Center for the Arts and Humanities at a price of $5, says Marcia Jones, project director.

The poster for the second annual conference on the role of women in Western history features a drawing by American Indian artist Juane Quick-To-See Smith of Corrales, N.M., titled "Berry Pickers."

Smith's work is included in the Corcoran Museum's "35th Biennial Exhibition" of work done by contemporary Western artists in Washington, D.C., Jones says. Her work also has been featured in solo exhibitions in New York, San Francisco, Scottsdale, Ariz., Pittsburg and Venice, Italy.

Critical reviews of Smith's work emphasize her ability to blend modern American art with traditional American Indian art forms, Jones says.

This year's Women's West conference will take place July 11-14 at The Yarrow in Park City, Utah. During the conference experts will present new research on the theme of the West as a liberating force in women's lives. In addition, educators have been invited to present workshops on teaching Western women's history, Jones says.

The conference is sponsored through the Institute of the American West, the humanities arm of the Sun Valley Center.

The $5 price on the poster will last through the conference. After July • See POSTER on Page B3

'Up With People' rides anew

By JOFNEAVE
Times-News correspondent

TWIN FALLS — Maureen Chavis, with the help of area residents, is making arrangements now for the arrival of the 103-member cast of "Up With People," a singing and dancing group that will be performing May 8 in the College of Southern Idaho Gymnasium.

Chavis, a member of the cast, says her job is to promote the show and make sure there are enough host families willing to allow cast members to stay in their homes. She says she arranges host family meetings and finds things for the cast to do, like visit hospitals and school.

She said families are still needed to provide room and board and some transportation for the students for three nights, May 6-8. Those interested should call Chavis or Stuart Taylor at 733-7260.

Chavis said she became involved with the singing and dancing company when her family in Portland, Ore., hosted several cast members.

"I interviewed in June of 1982," Chavis said. "I went to their show and was fascinated, and the cast members who were staying with us kept telling me to interview. I finally worked up my courage and I made it. It was really nervous though, because it's so competitive."

The primary attribute "Up With People" looks for in an interview is personality, Chavis said. Cast members must also have graduated from high school and be between the ages of 17 and 25.

"They don't care if you've sung from the age of two or had ballet lessons. It's nice if you have, but the main thing is if you can get along with 100 members and are mature. That's good, because otherwise we'd probably have a lot of prima donnas."

"Most of us don't think of it as a step into show business. It's more of an educational experience. Glen Close star of the movie 'The Big Chill' is the only person I know of who went into acting who had been in the show."

Following performances in the United States, Chavis said the company will go to Europe. Cast members who hail from Sweden, Denmark, Holland and Belgium should help the group become accustomed to European life.

"We've learned songs in Swedish and Polish," Chavis said. "Polish is a very strange looking language, but it wasn't hard to learn. They'll probably have to carry me on the plane to Europe. I'll be so excited."

The touring company that will visit Twin Falls travels in buses and has several trucks to haul equipment. Cast members are responsible for putting up the sets and doing all stage work, as well as performing. Prior to each show there is a full-scale rehearsal, Chavis said.

"My favorite dance is the 50s medley. Even though we've done about 25 shows so far, we still need to work on certain things. And people are constantly switching places," she adds.

TWIN FALLS — Martha Squires of Beaverton, Ore., and a former Twin Falls resident, will conduct a vocal workshop May 5 and present a concert at 2:30 p.m. May 6, both at the Renaissance Academy of the Arts.

A soprano, Squires is a former student of Marty Mead and Sharon Warner, both of Twin Falls.

While living in Twin Falls, she sang in several Dilettante musicals and may be remembered as Ethel Toffelmeyer in the group's first production of "Music Man."

She served as secretary of the Dilettantes, belonged to the Twin Falls Music Club and sang the role of the old maid in the club's production of "The Old Maid and the Thief," which was performed 18 years ago.

After moving to Portland, she sang in the Portland Opera Chorus for 16 years. She has had leading roles in the "Marriage of Figaro" and "The Medium" and was soloist for the Oregon

Bluegrass band to perform

TWIN FALLS — The sounds of the country pop and bluegrass band, "The Shoppe," will be featured in a concert Thursday in the Twin Falls High School Gymnasium.

The 8 p.m. concert will be a return engagement for the Dallas, Texas, based group, and is sponsored by the Twin Falls County Mounted Sheriff's Posse. The group performed last August at the Twin Falls County Fairgrounds.

"They are back because the people enjoyed them so much last year," says Bruce Arango of Arango and Associates, the firm that is producing the concert. "When they played at the fairgrounds last year, they received a standing ovation — and it was raining."

The Shoppe has traveled from coast to coast and shared the stage with such notables as Bob Hope, Barbara Mandrell, Dolly Parton, Charley Pride and The Oak Ridge Boys.

The group also has released two singles from an album entitled "Trying to Get It Straight" in 1980, which both appeared in Billboard Magazine's Top 100 hits. The singles were titled "Three Way Love" and "Star Studded Nights."

Since 1980, two other singles have been released by The Shoppe. The singles, "Dream Maker," and "Doesn't Get High on Love Anymore," have also reached the charts. In fact, "Doesn't Get High on Love Anymore" skyrocketed all the way to the number 33 position on the national hit list.

Prices of admission for the concert are $6 for single persons, $18 for four people and $24 for a group of six. Tickets can be obtained by calling 733-2044.

Despite her successes, MacLaine really calm

By DOLORES BARCLAY
Associated Press writer

NEW YORK — The entertainment world may be celebrating her movie triumph and she may be the hottest Broadway ticket in town, but you'd never know it from being around her. Shirley MacLaine is calm. Real calm.

The voice is softer, the staccato pacing gone. The arms and hands, expressive tools of a woman who has courted controversial causes, are at rest.

There's no boasting or bleating or sudden turns to prima donna at being named best actress for her role as the mother of a dying daughter in "Terms of Endearment" or over writing a best-selling book, "Out on a Limb."

She should at least be chewing her nails in anticipation of another performance of her one-woman show that opened this month at the Gershwin Theater.

But the pressures of a return to Broadway are nonexistent for this performer, who turned 50 on April 24. She has no need to re-evaluate her life to put things in the right perspective.

"I think all this wonderful stuff is the proper perspective," she said. "I'm learning more and more that life is like this. I really do believe we are not just physical beings and intelligent beings, but we're also spiritual beings. When you get that spiritual part of the triad more in tune, then everything is more in harmony."

She spoke quietly from the floor of her living room in a duplex overlooking the "East River." Wood burned slowly in the fireplace, taking the chill off a rainy April day. Spring buds filled the room with fragrance.

"Oh, yes, the flowers are special," she said, with a smile. "It was a gift from friends. They just wanted to welcome me home."

Friends and inner tranquility are important in her life right now, and she's quick to admit it took a long time to find that most elusive of human conditions, peace of mind.

"My most treasured times now are being with friends who I can talk about life to," she said. "I find I really need more time alone now to reflect. You can call it prayer or meditation."

"I was spending all these years traveling to try to find out who I was," she said. "I wasn't traveling to see a new culture. — I was learning about myself. I've been addicted to finding out about myself all my life."

Friends told Miss MacLaine that her quest for inner peace was self-indulgent. She disagreed. "It's more painful for me not to know the truth than to know it. I can't celebrate anyone else unless I celebrate myself."

Authors invited to audition

By DOLORES BARCLAY
Associated Press writer

TWIN FALLS — Senior high school music students are invited to audition for a scholarship for the College of Southern Idaho Summer Music Camp scheduled to be held the last week in June.

Competition will be held from 10 a.m. to noon Saturday at the Renaissance Academy of the Arts at 505 Second Ave. E. in Twin Falls.

and Vanessa Redgrave, was once one of Hollywood's "naughty girls" — an actress outspoken and unconventional.

She sprang from middle America, a southern Baptist from a "Wonderbread family," to elevate defiance of convention to a fine art. She defied former President Richard Nixon's policies in Vietnam and championed civil rights and sexual freedom.

Framed pictures of former President Jimmy Carter, Cuban President Fidel Castro and the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy are prominently displayed in the apartment. A collection of African treasures and Oriental carvings line the window ledge.

They're from another moment in the Shirley MacLaine continuum. It was a time when she traversed the world trying to "discover" herself. She worked with orphans in Calcutta, lived in a Masai village and escaped a coup d'état in the Himalayan kingdom of Bhutan.

She's living in Manhattan now for the run of her Broadway show, but otherwise she prefers her home in the Pacific Northwest where she said she is spiritually fed by the trees and flowers.

"I write better there. I sleep better there and I love the rain," she said. She stays in shape with long mountain hikes, which also allow her to meditate. Her face is relatively unlined and she has returned her hair to red after "letting it all hang out" in middle-age honesty for "Terms of Endearment."

Few graying actresses would be willing to remove the hair dye and let the aging show. "When I saw the first closeups in the dailies, I knew that kind of commitment goes through to your soul," Miss MacLaine said. "But they made me look worse. The harsh lighting was deliberate."

Miss MacLaine began in show business as a Broadway hooper and eventually got her break as Carol Haney's understudy in "The Pajama Game."

She made her film debut in 1956 in "The Trouble With Harry."

Author views odd history

"The March of Folly: From Troy to Vietnam," is the latest book by Barbara Tuchman, a Pulitzer Prize winning author and historian.

The theme of the book is this: A phenomenon noticeable throughout history regardless of place or period is the pursuit by governments of policies contrary to their own interest.

One type of misgovernment is folly or perversity, that is, the pursuit of policy contrary to the self-interest of the constituency or state involved.

In order to qualify as folly for Ms. Tuchman's book, the policy adopted had to meet three criteria: First, it must have been perceived as counterproductive in its own time; second, a feasible course of action must have been available; and third, the policy in question had to be that of a group, not of an individual, and it had to persist beyond any one political lifetime.

Ms. Tuchman cites numerous examples, and concentrates on several specific cases: the Trojan War, the Renaissance and the Protestant succession, the American Revolution and the Vietnam War.

She asks basic questions. Why, for example, did the Trojan rulers drag a suspicious-looking wooden horse inside their walls, despite every reason to suspect a trick? Why did successive ministries of King George III insist on coercing rather than conciliating the American colonies? Why did the United States persist in Vietnam despite accumulating evidence that its goals were unattainable?

Ms. Tuchman says government leaders often seem incapable of learning from past mistakes. And she warns that folly in government, while survivable, is less affordable than it was in years past.

Idaho's landscape a movie's canvas

By CHRISTOPHER WILLIAMS
Times-News correspondent

BOISE — Whether cinematographers have needed footage of Switzerland, Canada, New York or the mountains of Austria, Idaho's varied landscape has long provided moviemakers with the perfect canvas upon which to create their productions.

Eleven feature length movies containing scenes filmed in the Gem State will be shown during the All-Idaho Film Festival May 3 through May 6 at Boise State University.

In honor of the festival, sponsored by the BSU Programs Board, Gov. John Evans has also declared April 31 through May 6 Idaho Film Week.

The festival will begin on Thursday, May 3 at 7 p.m. in Room 112 of the BSU building. Being with the black and white production of "Come and Get It." Edna Ferber's tale of Wisconsin was shot on the North Fork and Clearwater rivers.

Filmed with "Come and Get It" will be the 1937 comedy "Met Him in Paris," which, although shot in Sun Valley, was set in Switzerland. The film, starring Claudette Colbert, Melvyn Douglas and Robert Young, was shot on property owned by a silver prospector in a remote corner of the valley.

According to research done by BSU professor Tom Trusky, movie crews around the world have viewed scenes of Idaho — from Wallace to Sun Valley, beginning in 1938.

"Trusky has worked for several months ferreting out and acquiring the films, he says. Several notable celebrities such as Clint Eastwood, Jeff Bridges, Sondra Locke and Esther Williams among many others have been invited to attend the showing of the films in which they starred or directed, he says.

Five of the 11 films to be shown feature the resort area of Sun Valley. Both "Sun Valley Serenade" and "Duchess of Idaho" were set in the town, while "Met Him in Paris" used scenery from Sun Valley to represent Switzerland.

"The Moral Storm" and Marilyn Monroe's "Bus Stop" also used scenes from Sun Valley as the mountains in Austria, Germany and Montana.

Other movies to be shown throughout the week-long festival include "Northwest Passage" shot near McCall, "The Wild River" filmed near the Selway River and starring Stewart Granger and Cyd Charisse.

Some more recent films will close out the festival including "Breakheart Pass," filmed near Lewiston and starring Charles Bronson, Ben Johnson and Jill Ireland. Also featured is Clint Eastwood's "Bronco Billy," filmed in Boise and Meridian. The multi-million dollar box office failure "Heaven's Gate" will complete the series. The picture was shot on location in Wallace, Idaho and Western Montana.

Admission to each showing is $2.50 for the general public, $1 for senior citizens, children and BSU students and personnel. All of the movies will be shown in Room 112 of BSU's Education Building.

Banish Misfortune's repertoire ranges from troubador songs to modern compositions

Alaskans offer varied sound

By CHRISTOPHER WILLIAMS
Times-News correspondent

TWIN FALLS — A trio whose repertoire ranges from troubador songs of the Middle Ages and Renaissance periods to original compositions influenced by jazz and swing sounds will be featured in a concert Wednesday at the Renaissance Academy of the Arts, 505 Second Ave. E.

"Banish Misfortune," comprised of Lauren Pelon, Rusty Sabella and Kirk Johnson will perform the 8 p.m. concert. Based in Alaska, Banish Misfortune has toured their home state in the past seven years, performing in over 200 Alaskan communities.

The group has twice been the featured soloists with the Fairbanks Symphony, and has also toured extensively throughout the United States, Canada and New Zealand. The trio has appeared on National Public Radio and has been featured on a PBS television special called "Blending Traditions." In addition, the group has two albums to its credit, including "Frestest Fancy" and "A Health to the Company."

"I see the music of Banish Misfortune as a blending of existing traditions and forms into new textures, borrowing happily from the old to create in the process a new sound," says Pelon.

Rick Strickland says Banish Misfortune uses many different instruments and also does a lot of a capella singing. The group plays Celtic music from the early 1500s and 1600s, he says.

"They were here last fall and were really well received," Strickland says. "We are telling everyone to get their tickets early because we are expecting a good showing."

The price of admission for the concert is $5 for adults; $1.75 for senior citizens and students and $7.50 for an entire family. Tickets are on sale at Ann's Hallmark, Warner Music, The Sunshine Corner and The Music Center.

Applications open for folk festival

HAILEY — Applications are now being accepted for two events at the eighth Annual Northern Rockies Folk Festival in Hailey, to be held July 27-29.

Artisans and craftspeople will be accepted to the Arts and Crafts Fair, based on traditional values of their work. Some categories are glass, pottery, weaving, leather, quilting, doll making and woodworking. Also invited are people and clubs who wish to sell ethnic or traditional food.

For information and applications, contact Sheila Kelley at 788-3880 or Hal Cannon at 622-9371. Deadline for returned applications is June 15.

The five-day folklore workshop, July 25-29.

The primary emphasis will be on presentation of folk literature in the classroom, and the subject should interest English and social studies teachers in particular, though fellowships are not restricted to teachers of these subjects.

During the folklore workshop there will be numerous demonstrations given by Idaho folk artists and musicians. Also covered will be introduction to folklore, Hispanic folk narrative, folk poetry and the ranching experience.

Faculty members will include Gary Stanton, who is completing fieldwork on cowboy poetry; Steve Sloprian, Idaho Folk Arts coordinator; and John McDowell, professor of folklore at Indiana University.

Idaho teachers who wish to apply for a fellowship should send a resume and letter stating why you would like to attend the workshop and how they can put knowledge gained to use. Send letters to Hal Cannon, Institute of the American West, P.O. Box 656, Sun Valley, Idaho, 83333. Application deadline is June 15.

The Northern Rockies Folk Festival is sponsored by The Institute of the American West, a division of the Sun Valley Center for Arts and Humanities in cooperation with the Idaho Commission on the Arts. The event is free and open to the public and runs each day from 10 a.m. until dark.

What's what

Psychiatric researchers have documented a rare malady called "Sign of Sleepy Phobia." Those who suffer from it reportedly become extremely irritated and anxious when they see somebody dozing off. In their search for case histories, the researchers say they've found an excellent starting point in divorce court records.

Our Language man is collecting ways to say "No." Samuel Goldwyn's "Include me out," for example, and Napolean's "Not tonight, Josephine," and Cole Porter's "Miss Otis refuses." But these are all old-timers: The standard "No" of today is "No way, Jose!" Who first said that?

SINGLE PARENT

Q. You said one out of five unmarried women has seriously considered the notion of having a baby and bringing it up by herself without benefit of a matrimonial partner. How many of the unmarried men have seriously considered doing this?

A. One out of four.

Q. How long does it take to train a lady wrestler?

A. At least six months. More like a year. Hardest thing she has to overcome is said to be her natural fear of falling.

Q. How much of Sweden's population came to America during the great exodus from there in the 19th century?

A. About a third, finally.

SMILE

More stalplint notions: "If you can smile when everything goes wrong, you're a repairman." I need to write a book for men called "Do It Herself?" ... "The most expensive vehicle to operate is the shopping cart."

Under the law of Indiana, any man who "habitually kisses human beings" cannot wear a mustache.

The unique fingerprints show up on the fingers of the fetus at about three months.

Daily Horoscope

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day of mixed blessings. Until noon, you will find it imperative that you handle conditions which have not entirely run their course. Steer clear of the conventional.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Early in the morning, you will find it imperative that you handle conditions which have not entirely run their course. Steer clear of the conventional.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Be sure to keep promises made to friends in the morning. Let the evening be a happy one with one you love.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Spend the morning handling vocational work well. Have more consideration for your family in the evening.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Carry on with talks with that fascinating new contact in the morning. Complete studies on some new, interesting course.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Early get your bills paid and make collections that are possible. Then get into activities that appeal to you.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 21) More talks with partners are needed before you can get agreements working out right. Be charming with the one you love.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Use neat touch and fine finish on work you are doing. Get together with dynamic partners for good results. Use your finest talents.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Show more devotion for your mate, and then get right into the tasks ahead of you. Plan entertainment wisely.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Handle tasks connected with kin early in the day. Join friends for fun to relieve tensions you are under.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Clear your desk of all that paper work in the morning, and later you can retain others who can be helpful to you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Take care of important business matters; then you can run off to pleasures that please you very much.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Early handle that intimate affair, then do whatever will improve any property you may have. Visit friends.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY, he or she will be one who will be highly introverted and shy, so treat kindly and teach to come out of his, or her shell early in life, and express the self. Some musical training is wise here.

Talk-show host visits Twin Falls

By CHRISTOPHER WILLIAMS
Times-News correspondent

TWIN FALLS — Three celebrities — two movie stars and a talk-show host — will be in Twin Falls May 4-6 at the King Videocable office to take part in the cable company's Family Fun Weekend.

Donald Duck and Mickey Mouse will be on hand May 5, and will be available for picture taking between 11 a.m. and 6 p.m. at 261 Eastland Drive.

BILL HARRIS
Hosts Showtime specials

One instant photo with Mickey or Donald will be provided to each family visiting the cable office that day, says Chris Talkington, general manager of the cable company.

Bill Harris, the host of Showtime's "Hollywood Closeup" whose shows feature movie and music industry stars, will be hosting the Family Fun Weekend. He will conduct several movie trivia contests, with participants to be chosen from the visitors gathered at the cable office.

Talkington says The Family Fun Weekend will include a free preview of Showtime and The Disney Channel services. King Video will give out a free Mickey Mouse watch with every new Disney Channel subscription, he adds.

Mickey Mouse and Donald Duck will also appear at the beginning of the March of Dimes Walk-a-thon on May 5 at about 9 a.m. The characters will likely be used as official starters of the event, Talkington says.

Gap-crossing dance set

TWIN FALLS — The 15th annual "Generation Gap Spring Dance" will be held Friday, May 4 from 7 to 10 p.m. in the Vera C. O'Leary Junior High School gym.

The theme, "Where's the Beat," was submitted by ninth grader Alex La Beau and Susan Piller.

Disc jockey Chris Kinsel will play music from today's "beat" as well as from past generations. Special dance entertainment is planned for intermission.

This year's Gap Dance is particularly meaningful because it marks the return of its founder, Duke Wiseman, as principal of O'Leary Junior High. Fifteen years ago, Wiseman started the yearly tradition at the old O'Leary as a way of bringing parents and their children together. Once again, parents are especially invited to this dressy dance to exchange dances with their student children and share an evening of fun.

Grand-prize winner in the poster contest was Wendy Miller. Other winners were Clark Curtis, John Armga, Carrie Galindo and Rod Gano.

Tickets are available at the door at a cost of $5 per family, $1.50 per student or $2 per adult. Funds raised sponsor the dance and other PTSA school projects.

Proust's housekeeper dies

PARIS (AP) — Celeste Albaret, the secretary, housekeeper and nurse of French novelist Marcel Proust for the last nine years of his life, has died at age 92, her family announced Thursday.

Mrs. Albaret, who was mentioned by name in Proust's autobiographical work "Le Temps Retrouve" (Time Rediscovered), died Wednesday of emphysema at her home.

In two weeks, "Celeste," a film based on her life, is to open in French movie theaters. The movie shows the last months of Proust's life as seen through Mrs. Albaret's eyes.

Panty-hose strainer deters hearty eater

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I have a friend who cooks catfish to perfection. We have always enjoyed it until he recently remarked that he prefers to strain the grease (to be reused) through a large panty hose given to him by a heavyset ladyfriend.

Abigail VanBuren
Dear Abby

This offhand remark has disturbed me to the point of being unable to enjoy catfish prepared by my friend.

Is his method of straining in any way dangerous? Even if the panty hose were well-laundered, is there a possibility of germ infiltration, with the danger of hepatitis or some other disease?

Please contact your experts and let me know if I have reason to worry, or is it just a silly hang-up I should overcome?

It seems to me that catfish strained through my laundered shorts wouldn't be any different than catfish strained through panty hose.

—LOVES CATFISH IN MISSISSIPPI

DEAR LOVES: In all probability, you are needlessly worried because the high temperature of hot grease should eliminate the danger of germ infiltration. However, I can understand how the psychological aspect of the whole thing could conceivably spoil your appetite.

Buy your friend a pair of Fat Fanny Panty Hose (yes, there are such things) and ask him to replace the "original" panty hose "strainer" with a brand-new one.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 21-year-old male college student with a serious problem: Indefatigability.

In the last six years, I've had four serious love relationships (one at a time) with four of the most terrific girls a guy could ever ask for, and they've all ended for the same stupid reason. I was caught cheating with another girl. Not one of these sexual encounters meant a thing to me. They were all one-night stands with girls I hardly knew.

Why do I keep running meaningful relationships with decent women I really love and care about? What is my problem?

—HEARTBREAKER HEARTBREAKER:

Perhaps you unconsciously set yourself up to get "caught" because you don't really want a serious commitment. It's also possible that you feel you don't deserve a meaningful relationship with a decent woman.

Find a therapist who can get to the bottom of this destructive behavior, or the heart you will ultimately break will be your own.

DEAR ABBY: This is for all the lazy people in the world who don't want to accept any responsibility:

Once upon a time, there were four people named Everybody, Somebody, Nobody and Anybody. When there was an important job to be done, Everybody was sure that Somebody would do it. Anybody could have done it, but Nobody did it.

When Nobody did it, Everybody got angry because it was Everybody's job. Everybody thought that Somebody would do it, but Nobody realized that Nobody would do it.

So it ended up that Everybody blamed Somebody when Nobody did what. Anybody could have done it in the first place.

—THERESA G. IN MILWAUKEE

DEAR THERESA: I have seen several versions of this piece, but yours is the only one anybody can follow. There's a message for everybody here. I hope nobody misses it.

DEAR ABBY: I am going with a very fine young woman. She has been married before. (So have I.) I would like to ask her to marry me, but she has made it plain that she does not want a ring of any kind. She is very low-key and doesn't care for diamonds or anything flashy. Any suggestions?

—A MAN OF MEANS

DEAR MAN: Give her a pearl necklace — with no strings attached.

CONFIDENTIAL TO C. LEE IN SAN FRANCISCO: What did you expect? This is the year of the rat.

(Problems? What's bugging you? Unload 'em. P.O. Box 38822, Hollywood, Calif. 90038. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Bad vision causing wrecks

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — From routine driving to lengthy trips, poor or tired vision plays a major role in highway accidents and deaths, according to The American Optometric Association, which offers some tips to make driving safer in all weather and all seasons:

- Start your vacation preparation with a thorough vision examination — to insure that you see effectively ahead, to the sides, and near.
- If you need a visual correction, pack a pair of eyeglasses or contact lenses to avoid the possibility of having to replace broken glasses or a lost lens in a strange city.
- Obtain quality sunglasses.
- To lessen eye fatigue on long trips, try blinking frequently or shifting your eyes periodically in quick, continuous movements.
- If you find yourself tense and squinting, deliberately relax your face muscles and take several deep breaths. The extra oxygen will help you relax and increase the eyes' ability to adapt to light conditions.
- Do not drink, smoke excessively, or take drugs while driving.

Austrian woman advertises for spouse

ROCK SPRINGS, Wyo. (AP) — An Austrian woman has picked this energy boom town to prospect for a husband. Ranchers and politicians between the ages of 45 and 60 are preferred, she wrote.

Dina Rupp of Fehmiellen placed an ad in the Rock Springs Rocket-Miner that included a photograph of herself and her home address. She sent the text and photograph to Mayor C. Keith West, along with a letter of explanation and money to pay for the ad.

"A fan of America is needing your help," the letter to West said.

"Wyoming is the land of cowboys. I love this country, her inhabitants and animals. I want to spend my holidays there in May 1984. Time is running." West said he was happy to oblige with the request to venture into the area of marriage broker business. He placed the ad and also posted the woman's letter around Rock Springs City Hall.

Gooding State upsets Carey for track title

By The Times-News
CAREY — Gooding State's boys pulled off unexpected victories in three individual events, a double in the distance races and a stunning upset in the mile to capture the Northside Conference track championship here Thursday.
It was the first conference title in years for Coach Jerry Wilding's crew, which was the runner-up in last year's Northside meet, and a big upset for defending champion Carey, which had beaten all of its Northside foes in two previous meetings this spring.
In the girls' competition, Camas

County won its second straight league title with a narrow victory over Bliss. In the last conference meet two weeks ago, the Bears had outdistanced the Mushers by 36 points.
Gooding State's John Spreen, who had already won the 3,200 meters, doubled in the mile to nail down the boys' team title for the Redskins. Then the Gooding State mile relay team of Brian Patterson, Barry Jensen, Brad Snow and Roddy Cabbage stunner Carey by 18 seconds in the 1,600 relay to give the Redskins 133 points to 119 for Bliss. Carey finished third—at 115—followed by Camas County at 96 and Richfield with 67.

Dietrich and Ketchum Community school did not send teams to the meet. Camas girls rolled up 143 points to 138 for Bliss. Carey was third at 131, followed by Richfield with 51 and Gooding State with 17.
The conference will hold a separate pre-district meet here next Thursday to determine the qualifiers for the District 4 A-3 championship to be held in Jerome May 10-11.
Gooding State's John Rhoades captured the 100 meters in 11.8 seconds, upsetting Bliss' Doug Andrews by one-hundredth of a second. The Redskins got a second upset in the quarter mile, where Cabbage turned in a 55.9-second performance, and another in the triple jump, where Cabbage leaped 36 feet 11 1/2 inches to upset Kendall Peck of Carey, who had won the event in the two previous meets this season.

Spreen, as expected, captured the distance events handily, running a 13:22.9 two-mile and a 5:16.2 mile.
Gooding State also picked up second-place finishes in the half mile, the 200, the 800 relay, the pole vault and the long jump.
In the girls' competition, junior Margi Lemmons was a one-woman wrecking crew for the Mushers, winning the 400, the 800 and the mile. Teammate Mindy Funkhouser won Lemmons' 400, the low hurdles, and Camas also picked up victories in the high jump and the shot put.

Bliss won eight events, but couldn't accumulate enough place points to compensate for Camas' depth. The Bears' Michele Hobbey and Shea Benscoter won two events apiece, while Hobbey ran on both of Camas' winning 400 and medley relay teams and Benscoter anchored the quarter-mile relay.

Nets oust Sixers

By The Associated Press
Michael Ray Richardson and Otis Birdsong each scored 24 points as the defending New Jersey Nets upset the Philadelphia 76ers Thursday night to win their first-round best-of-five National Basketball Association playoff series.
The Nets, who won the first two games of the series here and lost the next two at home, outscored the 76ers 12-11 in the final seven minutes to win the first playoff series in the NBA history of the franchise.
The 76ers led 96-94 with 2:51 remaining. Then Richardson scored to tie the score 96-96 with 2:36 left. Albert King then hit two free throws at 2:19 to give the Nets a lead they never lost.
The Sixers scored only two points in the last 2:51.
It was the first time that Philadelphia has been eliminated from a first-round playoff series since it lost 2-1 to Buffalo in 1976. The Sixers have been in the championship final three of the last four years and won it all by sweeping the Los Angeles Lakers in four games last season.

Nets' Darryl Dawkins peers over Moses Malone as Malone moves to the basket for 76ers minutes of the second quarter as the Bucks opened up a 40-22 bulge from which the Hawks never recovered.

Mavericks 105, Sonics 104
At Dallas, forward Jay Vincent hit two free throws with 17 seconds left to play in a wild overtime and the Dallas Mavericks advanced to the second round of the with a bizarre 105-104 victory over the Seattle SuperSonics.
Dallas will travel to Los Angeles to meet the Lakers at 12:30 p.m. PST Saturday. In the first game of a best-of-seven series.

The Mavericks outlasted the Sonics three games to two in their five-game series but the drama lasted until the final second of overtime.
With Dallas leading 105-103, Tom Chambers—of the Sonics—made a basket with one second left.
Vincent then in-bounded the ball by bouncing it off Chambers' chest.
Chambers caught the ball but the clock never started and referee Mervyn Mathis signaled the game over, saying, "If the ball hits a man in bounds the clock should start."

Mathis was overruled by Jake O'Donnell after a 10-minute conference with O'Donnell saying, "The clock should have been started but it wasn't. We have to play it."
The Hawks were called back from the dressing room with a hostile crowd of 9,001 fans and Dallas Coach Dick Motta in a rage.
However, Steve Hawes' in-bounds pass was caught by Mark Aguirre and the Mavericks scored the victory.
Seattle blew a six-point lead in the final 66 seconds of regulation.

180 athletes should enter CSI biathlon

TWIN FALLS — About 180 competitors are expected to take part Saturday in the inaugural College of Southern Idaho Biathlon.
The biathlon, an event that features distance running and cycling, will feature both individual and team competitions. Individuals are scheduled to begin the 24.3-mile course at 10 a.m. at the flagpole on the CSI campus, with teams to start a half-hour later.
About 90 people had signed up as of Thursday afternoon, but CSI track coach Karl Kleinkopf is expecting about twice that many by race time Saturday.
"A lot of it depends on the weather, but we're hoping for a good turnout," he said. "This is a fund-raising event for CSI and we're hoping for a lot of participation."
Registration will remain open today and before the race Saturday. The $10 individual registration fee — $20 for teams — can be turned in today in the Student Senate Office on the CSI campus. Pre-race registration will begin about 7:30 Saturday morning at the starting line and continue until about a half hour before the race.
"The pre-race process will take some time because we have to inspect everybody's bike," said Kleinkopf. "I would hope that anyone who wants to participate would try to be there by 8:30 at least."
The course, which will involve a run of 4.3 miles and 20 miles of cycling, will start on the CSI campus, run north on Washington Street to Pole Line Road, west on Pole Line to Grandview Road, south on Grandview to Falls Avenue, and east on Falls to the campus. The bike route will run from the campus, north on Washington to Pole Line to a point nine miles west on Pole Line, where competitors will turn around and retrace the course back to the campus.

"A lot of good runners are not necessarily very good bikers, so we're getting a lot of good runners entering as part of teams," said Kleinkopf. "We're getting a number of people from Sun Valley who have run in triathlons in the past. In fact, that's been the bulk of our entries up to this point."
Eight $25 gift certificates will be awarded to the winners.
"We're not going to break it down into age groups this year, but we will recognize the top finishers in each group at the awards ceremony," said Kleinkopf. "Next year, we probably will award prizes to age-group winners, but we're just getting this thing organized this year and will try to raise some money from this for the track team."
The race, which is being co-sponsored by the CSI track team and the CSI Student Senate, has three commercial sponsors as well: Donnelly's Sports, Valley Schwinn and Idaho Frozen Foods.

Bucks 118, Hawks 89
At Milwaukee, Marques Johnson and Junior Bridgeman sparked an 18-point rally at the start of the second period that carried the Milwaukee Bucks to a 118-89 victory over the Atlanta Hawks the deciding game of their series.
The Bucks will open second-round play Sunday at home against the New Jersey Nets. It will be a best-of-seven series.
Sidney Moncrief scored six points during a 10-0 spurt in the first quarter that gave the Bucks a 14-0 lead. They went on to a 22-18 advantage at the end of the period.
Johnson and Bridgeman then each tossed in six points in the first six

Say team may be sold to Twin Cities group Twins ignore move rumor, talk of sale

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — A Minnesota Twins official, downplaying rumors of a franchise move to Tampa, Fla., said Thursday he is optimistic that the American League team will be sold soon to a Minneapolis-St. Paul group.
Twins Executive Vice President Bruce Haynes refused to name members of the local group, but the St. Paul Dispatch reported that Minneapolis envelope executive Harvey Mackay and Minneapolis banker Carl Pohlad are interested.
Mackay is chairman of a Twin Cities task force committee dealing with the sale of the team. Pohlad is chairman of F&M Marquette Bank.
"I think we're close," Haynes said of the negotiations. "I'm very optimistic at this point. They (the talks) could come to a head at any time."
Twins owner Calvin Griffith said Wednesday he may decide by July whether to sell the 52 percent controlling interest owned by his family. Haynes indicated the decision already may have been made and that a sale is likely before July.
"I think it could be sooner," he said. "We're trying as hard as we can to keep it here. It may not even take that long, though."

Haynes downplayed the sale Wednesday of minority stock to four Tampa, Fla., businessmen. The group, headed by construction magnate Bill Mack, was reported to have paid $11.5 million for the 42.14 percent interest in the baseball team owned by Washington D.C. insurance executive W. Gabriel Murphy.
"Tampa interests have been pursuing the Twins' majority stock, but both sides claimed no further deal was involved in the purchase. Haynes emphasized that the stock owned by himself, his mother, Thelma Haynes, and Griffith will not be sold.
Published reports Thursday in Tampa said the group there was still trying to obtain the stock owned by Griffith and that a 46,000-seat dome coliseum will be built as soon as there are assurances of the team moving to the area.
In another development concerning Florida and major league baseball, a group based in St. Petersburg, a city 25 miles west of Tampa, said it still plans to build a stadium to house a major league team.
Bill Bunker, executive director of the group in St.

Petersburg, said his group will continue to work toward its goal.
"The purchase of the Twins' stock is interesting, but it doesn't change our plans a bit," Bunker said. "All it means is that they've purchased a minority interest in a baseball team that's playing someplace else."
Mackay said the group did not cause "even a blink" for the task force. Haynes expressed surprise that the group purchased a minority interest.
"We were kind of surprised," said Haynes. "We have not given them a contingency at all, no first right of refusal. If they think they're going to get ours, they kind of put in the come line. They're just rolling the dice, I guess."
"I certainly wouldn't want 42 percent. What was it, 11.5 million? That's a pretty good crap shot," added Haynes.
Mackay has remained optimistic the club will be sold to a local group. But he would not confirm that he is part of the group bidding for the Twins. "In my judgment, the fact that the (Murphy) stock changed hands is not a factor," he said.

Canadian joins Jets

NEW YORK (AP) — Cedric Minter, who scored the winning touchdown for the Toronto Argonauts in the Canadian Football League's championship game last fall, has signed with the New York Jets of the National Football League, the Jets announced Thursday.
Minter, who played college football at Boise State and high school for Borah, had played for Toronto for the three years.
During his CFL career, he has the 5-foot-10, 190-pound running back carried the ball 499 times for 1,977 yards, a 4.8 average, and scored 15 touchdowns. He also caught 127 passes for 1,643 yards and eight TDs.

Last season, he scored the winning touchdown with 27 seconds left in Toronto's 41-36 win over Hamilton for the eastern championship. He scored more than three minutes left as the Argonauts beat British Columbia 18-17 in the Grey Cup, the CFL's championship.

Olympic criticism halts torch lighting

ATHENS, Greece — Greece's Olympic Committee Thursday canceled arrangements for next week's traditional Olympic flame-lighting ceremony because of a dispute stirred by Greek accusations of "leakage of pollution" from Greek sports officials, according to an announcement from the committee.
Officials said it was likely the International Olympic Committee would have to take over the flame lighting.
"The Greek Olympic Committee can have no involvement in the flame issue, and it is up to the International Olympic Committee to make the flame available for the 23rd Olympic Games," the committee said.
It was not immediately clear whether the May 3 ceremony in the ancient sanctuary, in which the torch is lit by the rays of the sun, would take place.
The committee also resigned from all responsibility for helping get the Olympic flame from Greece to Los Angeles, where it will burn at the Summer Games, due to open on July 28.
The flame was to have been transferred by a heat impulse via underwater cables from Athens to New York.

The Olympic flame controversy started four months ago when the Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee decided to allow commercial sponsorship of the torch relay across the United States to raise money for charity.
The torch is due to travel 11,800 miles through the United States, with sponsors paying $3,000 for each of the nearly 19,000 kilometers covered.
Greek accusations of "leakage of pollution" from Greek sports officials, according to an announcement from the committee.
On Wednesday, Greece's Amateur Athletics Federation (SEGAS) asked Greek track and field clubs to decline participation in the flame-lighting ceremony and torch relay across southern Greece to the capital.
"We ask clubs to refrain from choosing athletes to take part in the kindling ceremony and transfer of the torch to Athens as a strong protest against commercialization of the Olympic flame," said SEGAS' letter to its members.
The secretary of the Greek Olympic Committee, Athanasios Tziartanos, said government sports officials had sent a circular to provincial officials asking that high school students be banned from running with the torch.
"The Greek Olympic Committee no longer has any interest in the flame for the Los Angeles Games."

State horse commission ousts director

By BOB FICK
The Associated Press
BOISE — In a major policy change accelerated by budget problems, the Idaho Horse Racing Commission has dismissed Director of Administration Israel Merrill and turned over his responsibilities to the state Department of Law Enforcement.
"Commission Chairman Russell Westberg said Thursday that Merrill was aware that his job amounted to only a special assignment when the former Democratic state senator from Blackfoot resigned from the Legislature last September to take the $30,000-a-year job.
But while Merrill, who indicated he expected to be with the commission for several years, was hired to organize the commission's clerical staff, Westberg admitted, "I personally thought it would take longer than it did."

The fact that the race track in Coeur d'Alene did not have a spring meeting this year probably aggravated the commission's financial problems and accelerated the decision to reorganize, Westberg said. The commission is financed by a percent of the money bet at the state's tracks.
The commission has already begun looking for an executive racing secretary, but Westberg said it will be next month before a decision is made on exactly what the new job will entail or whether it will even be a fulltime post.
Merrill said the duties of Gary Campbell, director of racing and training, will be assumed by a state steward who will oversee summer operations at Idaho's tracks. He said Campbell had notified the commission several weeks ago of his intention to resign.
With the Department of Law Enforcement taking on the enforcement responsibilities of the commission, Merrill said there was no longer any need for a paid staff other than parttime summer help during the racing season.

Attempting to downplay the reorganization, Merrill said the commission's decision came in a closed-door meeting last week. "I knew they were going to do something for quite some time."
"My purpose there was to kind of see the course we were going on was not going to work and we were going further and further toward being broke," Merrill said in a telephone interview.
Under the previous policy, he said, the commission would have run out of money by fall, leaving it unable to pay its staff anyway.

Kingman belts two homers to lift A's past Toronto

By The Associated Press

Dave Kingman hit two homers and drove in five runs to lead the Oakland A's to a 7-1 victory Thursday over Toronto, which had four solo homers, two from Willie Upshaw and one each from George Bell and Jesse Barfield.

Kingman now has nine homers and 24 RBI, both leading the major leagues. Kingman has 21 RBI in his last 10 games, nine on the road.

"I really don't know how to describe it," Kingman said. "It's kind of an unconscious feeling when you have such a start like this."

Kingman, who came over from the National League's New York Mets, and he says he likes the new role.

"I can stay fresh, you stay strong," he said. "All you have to concentrate on is baserunning and hitting. I'm really excited about it."

Kingman's first homer, a two-run shot, came in the fourth inning to give Oakland a 2-0 lead. He hit a three-run homer in the sixth.

The Blue Jays got three of their home runs consecutively off Mike Warren in the sixth by Upshaw, Bell and Barfield to cut the A's lead to 6-4.

In other American League play, Brook Jacoby hit a tie-breaking homer in the eighth inning to boost Cleveland to a 5-4 victory over Chicago and give the Indians their fourth straight victory. The White Sox have lost five of their last six games.

Greg Walker homered for Chicago in the fourth.

Dave Engle hit a tie-breaking single to cap a two-run seventh inning, and the Minnesota Twins defeated the New York Yankees 4-2. Houston Jimenez forged a 2-2 tie in the seventh when he tripled and raced home on Willie Randolph's error on the relay.

Tom Brunansky homered for Minnesota in the eighth inning.

Don Sutton and Rollie Fingers combined on a seven-inning, and Paul Molitor had three hits to pace the Milwaukee Brewers to a 2-1 victory over the California Angels. Sutton worked into the eighth, and Fingers struck out the side in the ninth for his third save.

Alvin Davis ripped a two-run homer off Bob Stanley in the 10th inning to lift the Seattle Mariners to a 6-5 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

Stanley, 1-2, had retired the first nine batters he faced before allowing a singled to Barry Bonnell, who had homered earlier, with two out in the 10th. Davis then smacked his fifth homer into Boston's bullpen in right field.

Mike Flanagan scattered eight hits, and the struggling Baltimore Orioles punished three Kansas City pitchers for 17 hits in a 11-3 rout of the Royals. Flanagan, 2-1, who was sidelined almost three months by a knee injury last year, struck out four and walked one in the win.

control until the ninth inning when he yielded a two-run homer by Steve Balboni, his third.

The Detroit Tigers scored four runs in the first inning, sparked by Barbaro Garbey's two-run single, and survived three Texas home runs to beat the Rangers 7-5, winning their seventh straight game and 16th of 17 this season.

Doug Bair earned the victory in relief of Dave Rozema. Bair entered in the fifth and pitched two innings. Aurelio Lopez pitched the final 2 2/3 innings for his second save.

Bobby Jones, Harvey Folley and Pete O'Brien homered for the Rangers, with Lance Parrish hitting his fifth for Detroit.

In the National League, Pedro Guerrero hit a three-run homer in the first inning, sparked by Mike Marshall followed with a solo homer that gave the Los Angeles Dodgers a 6-5 victory over San Diego. Both homers came off San Diego's Dave Dravecky.

Craig McMurtry worked out of trouble in three of the first four innings and outdueled Jeff Russell as the Atlanta Braves beat the Cincinnati Reds 2-1.

Greg Maddux stranded eight runners in the first four innings when McMurtry, 2-2, went through a wild streak, walking five and allowing three hits. But McMurtry then settled down and didn't yield a run until Dan Driessen led off the eighth with his first homer of the season.

A-3 tracksters meet at Kimberly

KIMBERLY — The continuing battle for supremacy among Magic Valley's Class A-3 track teams will take a new twist here today when Valley, Declo and Wendell get together at the Bulldog Classic.

Valley, the defending District 4 boys' champion, and Declo — a team that has beaten the Vikings twice in three meetings this season — will get a look at Wendell, a team that has dominated A-3 boys' competition on the west side of the Valley.

The three teams will join host Kimberly, Filer, Castletown, Murtaugh and Hansen for the meet, which is scheduled to begin at 2 p.m. The matchups should be classic:

Track

Wendell's strength in the sprints against Declo's domination of the field events contending with Valley's depth and prowess in the distance events and relays. The three teams have met once before this season — at the Magic Valley Classic in Jerome 10 days ago — but that was a non-conference meet dominated by the area's A-1 and A-2 schools.

"It's tough to tell about any given meet," says Declo Coach Mike Matthews. "You never know what team is going to take points away from whom."

Today's meet should be a good predictor of the Canyon Conference meet, scheduled here next Wednesday, and of the district A-3 championship, to be contested in Jerome on May 10-11.

There is little suspense about the girls' competition. Filer, which handily won both Valley's Monte Andrus Invitational and the Declo Classic earlier this month, should have little trouble with today's field. The big test will come at the conference and district meets, where the Wildcats must contend with defending Canyon and district champion Glens Ferry.

Jazz 127, Nuggets 111. At Salt Lake City, Adrian Dantley scored 30 points, Rickey Green had 29 and Darrell Griffith 24 as the Utah Jazz whipped the Denver Nuggets 127-111 to win their best-of-five series and advance to the Western Conference semifinals.

The Jazz, appearing in its first playoff series of the 10-year history of the franchise, led by as many as 14 points in the first half and pulled away from a four-point lead in the fourth quarter by scoring 10 straight points to record its biggest margin of victory in the series.

Denver, the No. 7 seed in the Western Conference, was led by center Dan Issel's 25 points, and 24 from forward Alex English. But the other member of Denver's big three, Kiki Vandeweghe, scored only 10 points — down from his playoff average of 23.3 — as the Jazz were able to finally curtail the prolific trio.

Utah, the Midwest Division champion and the conference's second seed was to play the winner of the Portland-Phoenix series in the semifinals beginning Sunday.

The Jazz never trailed after pulling ahead of the Nuggets 11-9.

Taylor's Special finished an easy first at Blue Grass Stakes

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — William F. Lucas of Louisville, who had been going to the Kentucky Derby since 1919, should have more than a rooting interest when the famed race is run May 5 at Churchill Downs...he owns Taylor's Special, who Thursday won the $181,050 Blue Grass Stakes at Keeneland.

"It's a wonderful thrill," the 73-year-old Lucas said of the strong possibility of having a starter in the Derby for the first time.

Trainer Bill Mott said that barring the unforeseen, Taylor's Special, who also won the Louisiana Derby winner, will go to the post in the Kentucky Derby.

However, jockey Pat Day, who gave Taylor's Special a thoroughly professional ride in guiding the colt home, by 3 1/2 lengths over stretch-running Silent King, might not be on him May 5. Day is committed to ride Van Dyke, but that colt has not raced since March 31 after contracting a fever and might not start in the Derby.

"I thought that was one of his strongest races yet," said the 30-year-old Mott after Taylor's Special won his fifth race in six starts this year. "He's shown improvement over his last three races and he looked strong."

"He didn't feel pressured any part of it," said Day, who put Taylor's Special into the lead on the backstretch. "We was well within himself all of the way."

Silent King, who was a eighth, 14 lengths back with little more than three-eighths of a mile to go, put on closing rush and finished 2 1/2 lengths in front of Charmed Rook, an 80-1 longshot.

"He ran fast and I think he deserves a chance to run in the Kentucky Derby," said jockey Bill Shoemaker, who was looking for his seventh Blue Grass victory," and "if they want me, I'll ride him back."

Flight Over finished fourth, another five lengths behind Charmed Rook. Taylor's Special earned $117,682 for his fifth victory in six starts this year. His career bankroll now stands at $353,739.

The winner returned $5.60, $3 and $2.60. Silent King, owned by Hawksworth Farm and trained by Grover Delo who owned and trained Spectacular Bid, the 1979 Blue Grass and Kentucky Derby winner, paid $3.60 and $3.20.

John C. O'Neill's Charmed Rook paid $2.20.

Official confident Soviets will attend

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Peter Ueberroth, president of the 1984 Olympic Organizing Committee, said Thursday after meeting with Soviet officials, he is confident Russia will send its athletes to participate in the Olympics here.

But he called on the highest levels of U.S. government to extend a hand to the Soviet Union as an important step in assuring Soviet participation.

"Asked what sort of response he wanted from the government, he said, 'This is up to them. I have no authority or right to put words in the mouth of our government.'

As for the Russians, with whom he met this week in Lausanne, Switzerland, Ueberroth emphasized: "I feel they're going to be at the games."

"You don't go through those exercises without intending to be here," he said.

Another crucial issue, he said, was reassuring Soviets that their athletes would be welcome. The Russians have expressed concern about planned anti-Soviet demonstrations in Los Angeles.

"If you want to judge the American people, judge them by their actions," he said he told them.

On a separate matter, Ueberroth announced that Bangladesh had reversed its earlier decision not to come and now plans to participate in the Olympics.

As evidence of Soviet intentions, Ueberroth noted that within the past 24 hours the Soviet National Olympic Committee and Intourist, the official Soviet travel agency, made a payment of $86,000 for spectator tickets for the games.

Ueberroth said a deadline for a Soviet decision was June 2 but "I'm sure they will tell us some time before that."

Ueberroth returned Wednesday from Lausanne, where he met with Soviet National Olympic chief Marat Gramov and members of the international Olympic committee. The meeting was demanded by the Soviets, who had alleged violations of the Olympic charter by the United States. The Russians cited a U.S. request that the Soviets deliver a list of members of their Olympic delegation to the U.S. Embassy in Moscow.

At the meeting, the Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee headed by Ueberroth agreed to allow the list of participants to be delivered directly to the LAOOC rather than through diplomatic channels.

Ueberroth said the meeting also allowed for the two sides to discuss "problems that are real" as well as "problems destined to just irritate... that don't have much substance."

One of the real problems, he said, was the availability of certain types of food, and he said the Russians' concerns about such things is further evidence they plan to participate.

Graham, McCord share Houston lead

THE WOODLANDS, Texas (AP) — Lou Graham and Gary McCord, who have missed 11 cuts between them this season, carved out six-under-par 65s Thursday to share a one-stroke lead in the first round of the $500,000 Houston Open golf tournament at the Woodlands Country Club.

Graham ran in a 12-foot birdie putt to start his round and finished by chipping in for a 35-foot birdie on the final hole to cap his best round of the year after missing the cut in six of 11 tournaments.

McCord's first swing of the round was a poor drive off the 10th tee that led to a bogey, but he rallied behind an accurate putter. McCord has missed the cut five times in 12 tournaments. Tony Sills and Bobby Wadkins led a group tied for second with rounds of 66 and could have shared the lead had they not faded on the final holes.

Ron Streck birdied two of the last three holes and Ed Eagan also charged with birdies on the final two holes to also share second place with 66s.

McCord started slowly with a bogey on his first hole, No. 10, after hitting a poor drive. McCord's putter warmed up however and he ran in birdie putts of eight feet on No. 11, 18 feet on No. 15 and 25 feet on No. 18 to make the turn at three under par.

McCord had three more birdies and no bogeys on his final nine holes, including 20- and 15-foot birdie putts on Nos. 4 and 5.

Lady golfers hold potluck

GOODING — The Gooding Ladies Golf Association will hold its kickoff potluck luncheon May 5 at 1:30 p.m. at the country club. All interested ladies are welcome. Association dues are again $5 and must be paid no later than June 1 to be eligible to play in this year's activities with the exception of the Zoe Miller tournament which is open to all women.

Other events scheduled are:

- May 8-6, the Zoe Miller tournament for the Cancer fund, open to all women;
- June 13, Gooding Ladies Juniors Henderson Invitational; June 18, Chapman; July 10, Inter-city; and Aug. 22, Club championship.

U of I sets Silver-Gold Game

MOSCOW — The University of Idaho will hold its annual Silver-Gold Game tonight, culminating spring football practice. Vandal head coach Dennis Erickson has divided his coaching staff for the scrimmage. A "player draft" was held Monday afternoon by the respective staffs to divide the team evenly.

"I expect this year's Silver and Gold Game to be one of the most competitive that has ever been held," said Erickson. "We have a lot of experienced players this spring and because of those numbers of both offense and defense, I anticipate a close game."

Kickoff time will be 7 p.m. PST in the Kibbie Dome.

Beginner's riding class offered

TWIN FALLS — Horse riding classes for beginners are available now from Silver Tree Farms south of Twin Falls.

The sessions are scheduled for Thursdays at 7 p.m., according to instructor Marta Pfister. No experience is necessary and it is not necessary to own a horse, Pfister said.

Lessons will include care and grooming, how to buy and use tack, proper ground techniques and basic elements of riding.

Further information is available by phoning 734-7156. Silver Tree Farms is located two miles south and a mile east of the Pay 'n Pack Corner south of Twin Falls.

CSI-Ricks game rescheduled

REXBURG — The resumption of the weather-plagued baseball series between the College of Southern Idaho and Ricks College that will determine which team advances to the Region 18 playoffs has been rescheduled for next week.

The Eagles beat the Vikings 2-1 in Twin Falls last Tuesday in the first game of a weather-shortened double-header. If CSI wins two of the next three scheduled games here, it will get the berth at regionals.

Two of those games are scheduled to be played here next Tuesday, starting at 1 p.m. Should Ricks win one of those games, one and possibly two more games will be played on Wednesday, also starting at 1 p.m.

Ricks, which has yet to play a home game this spring because of weather, had a scheduled double-header with Utah Tech snooked out here Wednesday.

The loser of the CSI-Ricks still will have a shot at making the playoffs; provided it can beat Clackamas Community College in a one-game playoff. The Region 18 series will be played during the third week in May in either Coeur d'Alene or Ontario, Ore.

Oilers snatch All-American

HOUSTON (AP) — The National Football League Houston Oilers announced Thursday they reached tentative agreement to sign Nebraska All-American offensive lineman Dean Steinkühler, who will be the second choice overall in next week's NFL draft.

"What we must now do is get the contract written and agree to the exact language," Oiler General Manager Ladd Herzog said. "This takes time but I am confident that we will get this matter settled and have Dean in town tomorrow (Friday)."

"I feel great," Steinkühler said in an interview with Houston radio station KIKK. "I couldn't be more happy. It's the place that I wanted to go to and life I said before, Houston has a good program and they've got a lot of young players."

The New England Patriots, who own the No. 1 pick in Tuesday's draft, already have signed Steinkühler's teammate, wide receiver Irving Fryar.

"I haven't signed anything yet," Steinkühler said. "But I think everything is pretty close at this time."

Player undergoes treatment

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Jim Eisenreich of the Minnesota Twins was placed on the 15-day disabled list Thursday to undergo treatment for a nervous disorder that has plagued him since he entered major league baseball two years ago.

"He had been feeling along fine, but he's been very sluggish," said Tom Mea, Twins public relations director. "He's been very slow with the bat. We feel that the medication (Eisenreich is currently taking) is the answer."

Eisenreich will undergo treatment as an outpatient at a Minneapolis-area hospital. The nervous disorder, which causes muscle twitching and hyperventilation, prompted him to temporarily quit baseball last season.

"We're going to have him undergo a new course of treatment," said Mea. "If it's the therapy type of thing." As for the outfielder's return, he said: "We're optimistic, but we're far from confident."

Eisenreich was batting .259 with 27 at-bats, two RBI and two stolen bases.

Golfer's blind-draw slated

TWIN FALLS — The Canyon Springs Men's Golf Association will hold a blind-draw scramble in conjunction with their monthly business meeting Wednesday.

The scramble, open to association members only, will begin from a shotgun start at 6 p.m.

Highlighting the meeting following competition will be discussion of the new slope-handicap method by Idaho Golf Association executive secretary Wayne Berry. A film on the rules of golf will be shown. In addition, drawings for and schedule of the men's twilight league will be finalized.

Houston star sets conference

HOUSTON (AP) — Akem Abdul Olajuwon, the star center of the University of Houston's basketball squad, has called a news conference for Friday to announce whether or not he will play his final year of collegiate ball or turn professional.

The news conference is set for Friday afternoon. It was announced Wednesday by school officials, who emphasized that Olajuwon, not the university, was calling the news conference.

Olajuwon, the nation's leading collegiate shot blocker, helped the Cougars make the NCAA championship Final Four tournament three consecutive years.

Houston sports information spokesman Jay Goldberg said that Olajuwon had requested the news conference to announce his intentions.

During the Final Four tournament at Seattle, Olajuwon announced that he would stay in school. There has been speculation, however, that the 7-foot Nigerian would sign a lucrative contract with a National Basketball Association team.

The Houston Rockets and Portland Trailblazers will flip a coin next month to determine who will get the first pick in the NBA draft. Olajuwon has said he would be happy to play for either.

Young gymnasts meet for Boys' state tourney

TWIN FALLS — Some 110 young gymnasts from throughout Idaho will gather at Sage Gymnastics tonight for the Idaho State Boys' Gymnastics Championships in classes II, III and IV.

Several Twin Falls gymnasts are favored to qualify for the regional meet, which will be held next month in Billings, Mont. The top three finishers in each event in Class III will win the right to compete at regionals.

They include Ryan Miclak, 10; Shane Newton, 13, and Ron Burgess, 15. Two other Sage gymnasts, James Lewis and T.J. Newton, have already qualified for regionals through their performances in earlier events.

Two other Sage gymnasts, Ryan Whitesides, 11, and John Anderson, 10, are expected to do well in Class IV competition.

Miclak is expected to contend for state honors on the rings and bars, while Shane Newton should be strong on the high bar and Burgess in floor exercise. Whitesides will be a contender on the high bar and Anderson should be in the running for all-around honors.

Lewis qualified for regionals in floor exercise, and T.J. Newton will go to regionals in the vault.

In addition to Sage, the Gem State Academy and Wings clubs of Boise will be on hand, as well as clubs from Idaho Falls and Pocatello.

Competition is scheduled to get under way at 6 tonight at Sage, and will resume at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Canadian bets won't be blocked

MONTREAL (AP) — The Canadian government chalked up a major victory Thursday when a Quebec Superior Court judge ruled that baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn and 11 major league baseball clubs do not have the legal right to challenge in court Canada's planned sports betting pool.

The ruling by Justice Claude Benoit, however, does not stop National League president Charles Feeney, American League president Robert Brown and 15 major league baseball clubs from continuing their legal battle against the government's betting scheme to be based initially on baseball scores.

The baseball teams' request for an injunction will go ahead in Quebec Superior Court as scheduled May 1.

Benoit upheld federal arguments that Kuhn and 11 of the 26 clubs were partnerships or associations, not corporations, and thus not legally entitled to take such action in a Quebec court.

Dismissing the judge's ruling as a "technicality," Kuhn's lawyer, Robert Mongeon, said: "The whole thing will go ahead and Kuhn will remain involved as awitness in this case."

However, government lawyer Richard Mongeau told reporters he was pleased by the decision: "It is much more than a technicality," he said.

The judge's decision comes down one week after federal lawyers presented motions to remove Kuhn and some of the baseball clubs from the suit.

The court case began three weeks ago when Kuhn, the National and American League and 26 baseball clubs filed a petition to stop the federal government's new corporation from operating its pool.

The petitioners argued that the betting scheme, scheduled to begin in mid-May, would tarnish the game's family image and its "unblemished record of integrity."

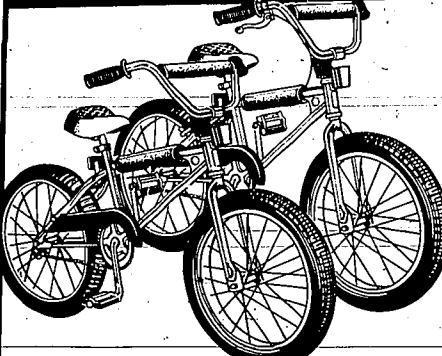

Kuhn and the baseball clubs also contend that in launching the scheme, the government would violate copyrights and trademarks held by the American and National League clubs.

Tandy reports income gain

FORT-WORTH, Texas — Tandy Corp., which owns Radio Shack electronics stores, reports a 9 percent increase in net income during the third quarter of its fiscal year, which ended March 31.

The corporation's earnings came to $62.5 million, up from $57.3 million in the third quarter last year. Sales were 11 percent higher than last year at $656.1 million. Tandy earned 60 cents per share of common stock during the period.

Radio Shack operates a store in Twin Falls. Dealerships are located in Burley, Gooding, Hagerman, Halley and Jerome.

JB's directors vote dividend

SALT LAKE CITY — The board of directors of JB's Restaurants Inc. has approved a third-quarter cash dividend of five cents per share payable on May 25 to stockholders of record on May 11.

The corporation posted a 34 percent increase in net income for the six months ending March 31, president Clark D. Jones said. It operates JB's Big Boy Family Restaurants in Twin Falls and Burley, as well as the Sportsman's Broiler restaurant in Twin Falls.

Sky West earnings take off

ST. GEORGE, Utah — Sky West Aviation Inc. boosted its earnings greatly in the third quarter ending Dec. 31, compared to its lackluster performance a year earlier, company president Jerry Atkin said.

Sky West reported a net income of $397,716 on revenues of $3.7 million during the three months. The airline and its rental car subsidiary had taken in only $26,959 in profits from October through December in 1982, according to company figures.

Results for the nine-month period ending Dec. 31 also show substantial gains. Net earnings came to $1.1 million, more than 2½ times the earnings for the same period in 1982, the company said. Total revenues were up 29.2 percent to $11 million for the period.

Atkin said he expects year-end figures to be very close to the nine-month earnings. Profit margins have been held down by intense competition with other carriers, such as Horizon Air, he said. Sky West's fiscal year ends on March 31. The company's annual report will be issued around June 1, Atkin said.

Sky West serves Twin Falls and other Idaho cities.

BOISE (AP) — AT&T Communications wants to sell a new telephone calling plan in Idaho.

The company has submitted its Volume Discount Calling Service for consideration by the Idaho Public Utilities Commission.

AT&T is promoting the optional plan as a money-saving service for customers who frequently place calls between southern and northern Idaho.

Under the proposal, customers would pay $8 a month for the first hour of calls between the two ends of the state; if those calls are placed during the night and weekend discount-rate periods. After the first hour, a rate of 10 cents per minute would apply.

A $4 service connection charge would apply to customers subscribing to the service more than 60 days after it takes effect, AT&T spokesman Bob Little said. An effective date would be determined by the PUC.

St. Regis profits escalate

NEW YORK (AP) — St. Regis Corp. said its profit in the first quarter soared 121 percent to $27.1 million from $12.3 million in the first three months of 1983, thanks to strong sales of its paper, packaging and construction products, and to effective cost-cutting and productivity improvements.

The company, which also has insurance services and energy resource operations, said profit per share jumped to 70 cents from 31 cents a year earlier, and revenue rose 19 percent to $775 million from $651 million.

William R. Haseltine, chairman and chief executive, said "The strength of our first quarter is due to the continuous improvements at our primary mills — printing paper, kraft and newsprint." He said higher prices for paper and newsprint also helped results.

SoCal-Gulf merger wins OK

By MATT YANCEY
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Federal Trade Commission on Thursday tentatively approved Standard Oil Company of California's $13.2 billion takeover of Gulf Corp.

It is the largest corporate merger in history.

The commission voted 4-1 not to challenge the merger as anti-competitive on the condition that SoCal sell 30 Gulf terminals, 4,000 Gulf service stations, a Gulf refinery and interests in two oil pipeline companies in areas where SoCal and Gulf overlap.

A consent decree allows SoCal, the fifth largest U.S. oil company, to begin acquiring the 165 million shares of Gulf stock immediately at $80 a share. Gulf, based in Pittsburgh, is the nation's sixth largest oil company.

The merger would result in creation of the third largest oil company, behind industry leader Exxon and Mobil Corp. The FTC must allow 60 days for public comments before it makes a final ruling on the merger.

Under a companion agreement, SoCal must continue to operate the two companies independently and cannot take immediate control of Gulf's estimated 1.9 billion barrels of domestic crude oil reserves and 5.7 billion trillion cubic feet of natural gas.

Only when SoCal finds acceptable buyers for the divested Gulf refinery, pipeline interests and Southeastern wholesale and retail marketing outlets can it take over the oil and gas reserves.

The consent decree gives SoCal six months to find buyers for the divested properties which are

Oil stocks pace strong rally on Wall Street

NEW YORK (AP) — Oil and technology shares paced the stock market to a broad advance in heavy trading Thursday, and the Dow-Jones industrial average climbed to its highest level in five weeks.

Real, chemical, drug, telephone and financial issues also rose, but mining stocks retreated.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial shares climbed 11.72 to 1,175.25, its highest level since March 20, when it stood at 1,175.77.

Gainers led losers 2 to 1 on the New York Stock Exchange, whose composite index rose 0.91 to 92.89. Big Board volume swelled to 98.00 million shares from 82.50 million in the previous session.

Prices were ahead for most of the session, boosted by higher bond prices and declines in short-term interest rates.

The rate on three-month Treasury bills, for instance, slipped to 9.25 percent from 9.61 percent late Wednesday. And the rate on overnight loans between banks stayed at 10.625 percent for most of the day.

Brokers were encouraged that, unlike recent sessions, the broader market rallied the Dow acceptable to the FTC.

"We'll shortly begin taking the necessary steps to accept the tendered Gulf shares and we'll begin paying for them as soon as practicable," said Guy Carruthers, chairman and chief manager for Chevron U.S.A., SoCal's wholly owned domestic subsidiary.

Carruthers said SoCal's tender offer, initiated in early March, will remain open until midnight tonight. No decision has been made whether to extend the offer, he said.

As of Tuesday, SoCal had firm agreements for the purchase of 133 million shares or 80 percent of Gulf's stock.

Gulf agreed to the "white knight" takeover by SoCal in early March to counter what Gulf management viewed as a hostile attempt by T. Boone Pickens Jr., chairman of Mesa Petroleum Co. in Amarillo, Texas, to seize control of Gulf.

SoCal, which spent an average $9.61 per barrel in exploration and development costs for new reserves between 1978 and 1983, is getting Gulf's oil and gas reserves at a cost of about $4.90 per barrel.

"The FTC is promoting instead of preventing takeovers which reduce competition and lead to higher consumer prices for gasoline and other petroleum products," said Ed Rothschild, assistant director of the Citizen-Labor Energy Coalition.

Jones industrial in a substantial move ahead.

However, Ralph Acampora, technical analyst at Kilder, Peabody & Co., cautioned that many of the market's recent upswings have been false starts as Wall Street debated whether a slowdown in the economy will lead to lower interest rates.

Stronger corporate earnings in the first quarter, such as in the oil industry, also has contributed to investor confidence toward stocks, analysts said.

Texaco rose 1 to 41½, Exxon gained ¾ to a 52-week high of 42½.

Negotiate salary check to benefit you

You are negotiating your salary check — in payment for your first job or as a raise from your previous level.

You know how significant your flexibility as well as assertiveness can be in handling this delicate issue; you are aware that decisions you make in this one discussion can have a major, long-time effect on your income and life.

As just one illustration, if you, as an employee, consistently underprice yourself by $5,000 in salary negotiations throughout your career, you will forfeit hundreds of thousands of dollars over a lifetime. Your whole life and lifestyle will be altered.

There are, though, several clear-cut rules to guide you, starting with the simple rule: Find out first as much as you can about your potential employer. This is an extremely delicate subject. Don't tell yourself a specific figure until you've found out all you can. You might, for instance, remark, "I understand the range for this job is between $... and $... and this seems right. Is this the range in your organization?"

How simple, yet how revealing! You might, say, receive an offer that exceeds your expectations for a specific job. Neither jump to grab it nor kick yourself for not asking for more. The point of negotiating an offer is not to stretch your employer to the breaking point but to strike a deal that satisfies both you and the company.

Many variables are involved, stresses William V. Morin of Drake Beaman Morin Inc., an officer of one of the nation's leading placement firms and co-author of a new job search book, "Parting Company." He suggests you actually list your own concerns and take the document with you to the interview. The topics might include: salary, bonus, stock options, company incentive programs, expense account, staff, employment contract, "perks," etc.

"During your negotiation, link each item to the job itself. How does it relate? How will it affect your ability to perform? Your satisfaction with the position and the company?"

- Take your time. Making a demand or even a suggestion before an employer has decided he wants to hire you is particularly dangerous.
- Be sure in advance of what you are willing to give up. If the job is exactly what you've been seeking, you can afford to be extremely flexible as you negotiate.
- While you're negotiating, Morin emphasizes, relax. Don't think in terms of facing an adversary but of two parties aiming for the same goal.

Briefly review your understanding of the job. This opens the discussion with an agreeable subject while connecting it to job specifics. Talk about what needs to be done and how well suited you are to do it.

- Have a salary goal and a lowest acceptable figure in mind. Tie your goal to your experience and to the demands of the job.
- Don't get stuck early in the negotiations. If the potential employer says, "I'm not sure I can match that, but we shouldn't be too far away from each other," move on to some other concerns — say, benefits — and then return to salary discussions later.

• Be certain to bring up benefits. On this, don't be bashful, for "perks" can add thousands of dollars to your income. If your immediate requirements cannot be met, try an alternate course of action. For instance, ask that an earlier than normal review be built into your agreement. If the starting salary offered is below your needs. That way, again, compensation is directly related to your job performance.

Basically, you are the only one who really knows the best direction to take in salary negotiations. Morin says... The characteristics of particular offers multiplied by the diversity of your individual needs indicates that no two negotiating situations will be precisely alike.

But the fundamentals never change. Be prepared and know what to ask for. Then you can turn any salary negotiation into a positive experience for both personally and financially.

Mobil, Sohio earnings higher

By The Associated Press

Mobil Corp. and Standard Oil Co. of Ohio posted sizable first-quarter earnings increases Thursday, continuing the industry trend, while Texaco Inc. reported its latest profit was about the same as a year ago.

Mobil, the nation's second largest oil company, said its first-quarter profit was $380 million, a 52 percent increase from $250 million earned in the first quarter of 1983. Revenue rose 4.9 percent to $15 billion from $14.3 billion.

Texaco, No. 3, which acquired Getty Oil Co. for $21.1 billion in February, said its first quarter profit was $301 million, including earnings results from Getty as of March 31 and costs associated with its acquisition. Texaco earned $136 million, or 44 cents a share, in the first quarter of 1983. Revenue fell 2.2 percent to $9.1 billion from $9.3 billion. Sohio, No. 13, said its first-quarter earnings were $381 million, up 38 percent from $277 million. Revenue was up 5.4 percent to $2.92 billion from $2.77 billion.

ANSWER: Yes, the non-trumper promises stopping in unbid suits. Minimum stoppage should be Q-x-x.

Dear Mr. Wolff: Partner, and I, pay non-trumper. If responder first bids Stayman and then two of a major over opener's two-diamond answer, how strong is responder?

No Game, Detroit, Mich.

ANSWER: He has a five-card suit and no more than seven HCP. Some play this sequence to show a four-card five-card major. With less they merely sign off in the major. Opener do not promise any number of points, emphasizing instead a 4-1 distribution in the majors.
