Hansen's sentence, decision today

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House Ethics Committee will announce today what it will recommend that the full House do about Idaho Congressman in closed-door session much of Thursday afternoon.

disciplinary action, such as stripping Hansen of his seniority rights, or censuring, which could require Hansen to stand before House members while a statement of criticism is read.

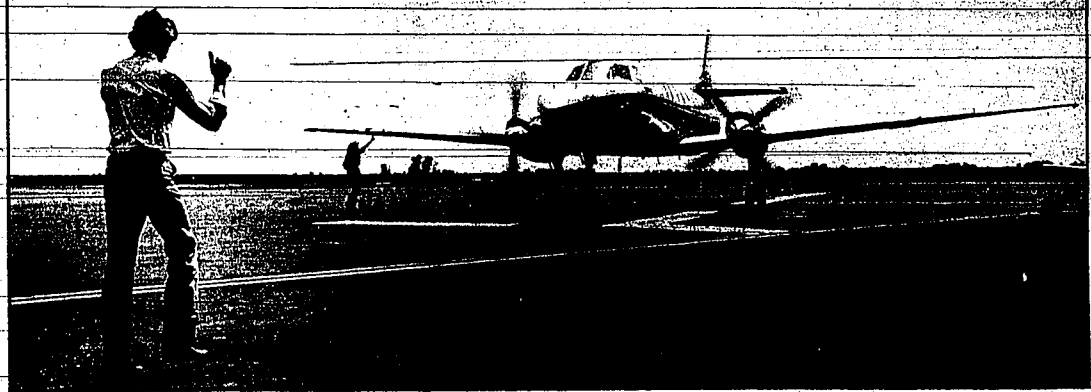

Incumbent Democrat Ralph Harding. After giving up the seat in 1983 for a race against Robert Church for the U.S. Senate, Hansen recaptured the post in 1974.

Some of them involved Texas billionaire Nelson Bunker Hunt. The transactions included $135,000 in personal loans to Hansen in 1981 by three Virginia men and a $61,500 loan from Hunt to Hansen and his wife, Connie, in her name in 1980.

Horizon snares subsidy

By BOB FREUND Times-News writer

Horizon Air has snared a federal subsidy to continue air service between Twin Falls and Boise for the next two years and, possibly, until 1988.

Horizon Airlines got the 'thumbs up' sign from the Civil Aeronautics Board Thursday okaying a federal subsidy for two daily flights to Boise board routinely approved a recommendation from its staff, said Jim Craun, one of two division chiefs for essential air services. The agency considers the route "essential air service" until 1988 because it had a carrier when airline deregulation was signed into law six years ago.

It operates an extensive air network to Salt Lake City and 60 other cities in the Pacific Northwest, he said. The size of the subsidy, which amounts to about $29 a passenger per flight, did not play an important part because all competitors were seeking relatively low subsidies, he said.

offer 40-passenger planes if traffic allows. The CAB's action had been expected by local officials. Horizon had been the favored carrier to land the service after Sky West Airlines of St. George, Utah, which also operates commuter service at Twin Falls, withdrew from the bidding in March.

Airport Board, applauded the Horizon subsidy, saying it could bolster traffic on the route. "It gives Horizon a little subsidy to run a rather low-profit route," he said. "What it will do is assist them to get that route built up."

shows potential. "Our approach today is we don't even want to bid on an 'essential air service' city unless we see a way to get off of the dole in the next few years."

Reagan would meet with Soviet leader

By MAUREEN SANTIAPU AP White House Correspondent

WASHINGTON - President Reagan said Thursday night he is willing to meet with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev without preconditions that a summit would produce concrete results.

I'm here for four years, I think they'll talk. An administration official, asked to interpret the president's remarks, said privately afterward, "There's a difference in tone, but not in policy, and that difference in tone is very significant because he's come a long way."

CSI sets budget on tuition, tax hikes

By ANNETTE CARY Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS - Both taxes and tuition will increase if the College of Southern Idaho board passes a proposed 1984-85 budget Monday night. Most of the increases would be used to grant $500 plus 6 percent raises to all employees after a year-long wage freeze. It would also cover a 25 percent jump in employee insurance costs.

not had a computer system to check residency. That brings the out-of-district county tuition increase to $22,000. That money would have closed a part of the gap between what Jerome and Twin Falls counties and out-of-district counties pay to have a student educated.

Actress calls for more wilderness

WASHINGTON (AP) - Actress Mariel Hemingway and Idaho leaders urged Congress on Thursday to add more land to a bill increasing wilderness in Idaho by 526,000 acres.

"We need to get those acres out of limbo," he said. And Craig said he was pleased that an aide to Gov. John Evans agreed, under questioning by committee members, that 1.2 million acres probably should serve as a ceiling to the wilderness proposals. Some groups urged adding triple that amount, up to 3.5 million acres.

strictly from the heart. It sounds strange but I don't want to see the little animals and fishes destroyed and see the environment I grew up in not having any control over it. She said, in answer to reporters' questions, "I do use the land a great deal. I have a horse, Ollie, and take pack trips - not as much as I used to. I've gotten lazy in my old age." Her age, she said, is 22.

the state having a total of 4.4-million acres of legislated wilderness. This represents 8.4 percent of the state's land mass and 21 percent of all the national forest land in the state," McClure said. "This means there would be over 4.5 acres of wilderness for every man, woman and child in the state of Idaho."

Reagan demands budget cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan reiterated his demand Thursday night that Congress slow progress in making further spending cuts or he will refuse to sign legislation raising taxes in order to trim budget deficits.

A nationally broadcast White House news conference, the president was asked whether he would accept a tax increase bill without spending cuts attached.

"Only if I had assurance that the spending (reduction) package was coming along," Reagan replied. He later said, "This has to go together."

The president spoke as congressional efforts to work out differences in deficit-reduction legislation passed by the House and Senate are producing more partisan acrimony than progress.

For the second consecutive day, negotiations on an overall budget outline disintegrated over the issue of how to enforce budget savings — the issue Reagan indicated he wants to see before he will accept tax increases.

If there is assurance that the appropriations bills are going to come up, that they're working on that also, I'm prepared to look 'em (Congress) in the eye and say, 'All right,'" Reagan said.

Meanwhile, tax writers from each chamber agreed on tax increases that would reduce the deficit by about $8 billion through 1987, bringing to around $45 billion the total approved so far.

Vehicle overturns, 4 injured

KETCHUM — Four children were injured early Thursday in a one-car rollover near Baker Creek on State Highway 75.

Idaho State Police reports in Twin Falls indicated a four-wheel drive vehicle driven by Colleen McDonald, 35, of Blackfoot, went off the highway about 8:45 a.m. The driver braked, the vehicle back on the roadway, then overturned, causing it to go off the opposite shoulder and roll over.

Mrs. McDonald, her husband and two children, Becky and Chris McDonald, ages 6 and 8, escaped injury.

Four others were taken to the Moritz Community Hospital in Sun Valley. ISP Trooper Gaylen Edwards identified the injured as Tara McDonald, 7; Monica McDonald, 5; Paula McDonald, 3 and Carlin McDonald, 4, all of Blackfoot.

No report was available from the hospital Thursday night on the extent of injuries.

Trudeau bids Canada farewell

OTTAWA (AP) — Pierre Elliott Trudeau bade farewell to his nation Thursday night, saying the 16 years since he became Canada's prime minister "were the period of adolescence of our country, a coming of age."

Trudeau, who is stepping down later this month, told a convention of his Liberal Party that the Liberal philosophy is to "tear down the barriers between what a country is and what it can become."

The speech was preceded by a series of tributes to Trudeau, punctuated by film clips of the highlights of his career.

Witness absent, trial delayed

TWIN FALLS — The hospitalization of a defense witness — who also is the defendant's mother — delayed the trial Thursday of 34-year-old Richard Ray Bradley, a prison inmate accused of raping a Twin Falls woman last fall.

The court resumed Thursday afternoon to allow the prosecution and defense attorneys and Judge Daniel Meehl to obtain the testimony from the hospitalized woman, Carmelae Jensen, said K. Ellen Baxter, the Twin Falls County prosecutor. The trial will resume Friday afternoon.

The prosecution had rested its case earlier in the day after calling more witnesses. Pamela Sorber, a forensic chemist for the state crime lab in Boise, completed the testimony she had begun on Wednesday.

A Boise police officer also testified about an Ada County rape case involving Bradley.

At the time of the assault, Bradley was out on bond awaiting sentencing on the Boise case. When he was arraigned on Twin Falls County charge, he was serving a six-year prison term for a conviction of attempted rape.

Surgery on twins goes well

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Siamese twin girls joined at the tops of their heads underwent nearly eight hours of surgery Thursday, and their third operation in a month went well, their neurosurgeon said.

The three-month-old girls — identified only as Patricia and Ashley — will have more surgery in two to three weeks as part of a series of operations aimed at separating them, said John Dwan, University of Utah Medical Center spokesman.

Dr. Theodore S. Roberts, the twins' neurosurgeon, said the surgery went well. They tolerated it well," Dwan said.

"I'm glad he'll need one or two more operations before attempting to separate them," Dwan said. "It's possible next time, but not probable."

Woman saves falling toddler

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — A 17-month-old girl was uninjured after she plunged from a second-floor balcony into the hands of a neighbor who hopped a fence to save the toddler, police said Thursday.

Cynthia Nevers said she was standing on the porch of her apartment Tuesday when a mallman screamed, "Get the baby!"

"I'm usually not good in emergencies," Mrs. Nevers said Thursday. "I just reacted. Thank God for the mallein."

Joseph Carroll was walking his talk Tuesday when he saw the child start to crawl under the balcony railing. Knowing he couldn't reach her in time, he yelled for help.

"I heard him screaming, 'Get the baby! Get the baby,'" said Mrs. Nevers, a 27-year-old mother of two. "I raced toward her and yelled at her to sit down. But she just kept crawling and got airborne."

Mrs. Nevers leaped a chain-link fence surrounding the building and caught the child by the arms as the youngster plunged toward the sidewalk.

broader relationship between our two countries."

Reagan previously has insisted that he would not go to a summit to ease tensions with the Soviets until the groundwork for success had been laid. Now, however, he softened that position somewhat: "There should be an agenda, a subject that both sides want to talk about and have some desire to get a settlement."

And, he said, there must be "the promise then that something might be accomplished."

Reagan said a Soviet return to the Reagan arms talks at Geneva is not a precondition to such a meeting.

He said he would be satisfied with a summit agenda covering "the general area of the things that you think could lead to better understanding. And that's good enough for me."

He's not insisting upon "a pre-constructed meeting," he said.

However, he added, "Right now we're getting a response from them that they want a carefully prepared agenda."

Earlier Thursday, a Kremlin spokesman had repeated the Soviet position that a summit should be carefully prepared and deal with issues that require the participation of heads of state.

He was asked several times if he was willing to take the first step toward a summit and did not reply directly. In fact, 15 of the first 17 questions dealt with the summit issue, and reporters persistently tried to get Reagan to clarify his remarks.

In the past, Reagan said, there have been meetings when both sides met "to say hello." Those meetings have raised great expectations and led to great disappointments, he said.

"I'm not going to play political games with this subject and go rushing out . . . That wouldn't do either one of us any good," the president said.

The president shrugged off a suggestion that the harsh things he has had to say about the Soviets and the communist system of government from time to time may have caused the Kremlin to be cool to talks.

"I don't think I've gone out of my way to call them names or anything," he said. He also pointed out that the Soviets have used harsh rhetoric about the United States.

The questioning turned to another matter — whether his campaign aides in 1980 had broken the law by obtaining documents prepared for briefing President Jimmy Carter for his crucial television debate against Reagan.

Reagan was reminded that he'd said he wanted to get to the bottom of the matter and was asked if he had talked to aide James Baker or William J. Casey, the CIA director and his 1980 campaign director. Baker has said he recalled getting such papers from Casey, but Casey said he had no recollection of giving them to Baker.

Reagan said he had talked to them. "One has no recollection and I can understand that," he said.

"I did give orders to the FBI to make this investigation thorough," he added. The Justice Department ended its investigation in February, saying it found no evidence of a crime.

Reagan asserted that "the so-called briefing book has never been in our possession. No one on this side ever saw it nor was it ever in our hands."

However, in the course of the investigation, Reagan campaign aides David Gergen and Frank Hofford produced copies from their files of what were identified as Carter briefing books.

and the high blue wilderness skies above them will remain a part of us forever is the question that is before this committee today."

Evans, in testimony presented by a staffer, called for 12-million-acre, mainly-to-protect-important-wildlife-habitat and watersheds.

"This is not only a quality of life issue, but an important economic issue as well," the Evans statement said. "I feel . . . the Idaho Forest Management Act of 1984 is in need of some significant modification before I can support it."

Evans said a "balanced approach" is needed. "We should be investing more money in intensive forest management in our more productive forest land and less money on expensive and uneeded roads," the governor said.

Petitions with more than 15,000 signatures urged preservation of more Idaho land as wilderness. The Idaho Wilderness Defense Coalition urged the hearing to add 3.35 million acres. The coalition also wants another 550,000 acres reserved for future planning, and 4.1 million acres released for multiple use.

Jerry Conley, director of the Idaho Fish and Game Department, called for adding 14-million-acre, or about 1.3 million acres more than the congressional delegation, Norman Guth, Salmon outfitter and guide and a member of the Fish and Game Commission, stressed the value of tourists drawn to the state's unspoiled natural areas.

Conley said the Fish and Game Commission wants more wilderness, based solely on the need to protect wildlife habitat. The areas recommended, he said, include habitat for caribou and grizzly, mountain lakes important for fishing quality, areas where mountain goats and bighorn sheep thrive and watersheds vital to protect water quality.

"As with all supply and demand cases, the value of our remaining wilderness will increase as the demand increases and the supply declines," Conley said.

"Therefore, Idaho's remaining wild lands and the unique opportunities they offer for high-quality hunting and fishing experiences in pristine settings are a nonrenewable, as well as state resource, to be preserved," he said.

Craig said Idaho needs to have the wilderness bill approved quickly. He contended that polls show Idaho residents feel the state has enough wilderness.

He said the congressional delegation agreed upon the bill to "settle the protracted, costly and too-often bitter dispute over the designation and use of Idaho's roadless areas."

Craig said Idaho's roadless area "supports a diverse and wide range of activities. There is no apparent reason why Idaho cannot continue to support these activities and still meet the needs of Idaho's citizens," he said.

Today's weather

Sounds like an excellent weekend

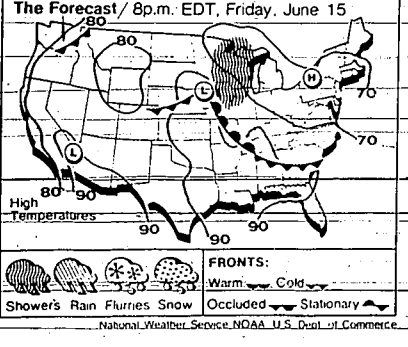

Twin Falls, Burley-Rupert, Jerome-Gering areas

Mostly sunny days and fair at night tonight and Saturday. Isolated late day thundershowers still possible both days. Highs mid 70s to the low 80s. Lows Friday night 45 to 50. Winds mostly light. Camas Prairie and the lower Wood River Valley:

Mostly sunny days and fair at night tonight and Saturday. Isolated late day thundershowers still possible both days. Highs upper 60s to the low 70s both days. Lows Friday night near 40. Winds mostly light.

Shoshone-Neveda and northern Utah:

Isolated afternoon thundershowers today. Increasing on Saturday. Southerly winds 10 to 20 mph during the afternoons. Highs in the mid-80s. Lows in the 50s and 60s.

Synopsis

A low pressure center near the California-Oregon and Nevada border continued to weaken Thursday, but was still strong enough to create plenty of thunderstorm activity in southwestern Idaho.

The National Weather Service said that outside the grip of the low, the remainder of the Gem State was still dominated by a moist, unstable air mass.

Scattered showers and thundershowers were reported at most stations throughout the state as a result of the air mass.

However, temperatures were near normal with 3 p.m. temperatures in the mid to upper 70s.

Sunday through Tuesday a few showers or thundershowers possible, mainly over the mountains. Otherwise dry with near normal temperatures. Highs in the 70s to low 80s. Lows in the 40s to low 50s.

The pollen count in Twin Falls on Thursday was 51 particles per-cubic meter of air.

The highest reported temperature Thursday was 86 in Lewiston, with the low recorded at 31 in Deadwood.

Bush breaks tie as Senate rejects ban on MX production

By LEE BYRD
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Senate, on the rare, tie-breaking vote of Vice President George Bush, defeated 49-48 on Tuesday night an attempt to ban 1985 production of the MX nuclear missile that one senator said offers only "the peace of the grave."

The surprisingly close call for the 10-warhead weapon comes on a proposal by Sens. Lawson Childs, D-Fla., and Charles Grassley, R-Iowa, to cut $2-billion for actual assembly of the missiles but allow $600 million to be spent to keep the production line "hot" for the future.

Earlier, the Senate had defeated by a more substantial margin, 55-41, a Democratic attempt to eliminate all $2.6 billion in production money for 21 missiles next year. President Reagan sought 40 missiles, but that figure was reduced to the Army's services committee, headed by Sen. John Tower, R-Texas.

The test came on Tower's motions to kill the anti-MX amendments.

Bush made the difference on the Chiles measure by rushing to the chamber when it became obvious that several Republicans would switch from the earlier tally.

"The Senate being equally divided, the Vice President casts his vote in the affirmative, and the amendment fails," Bush declared. The vice president, who cannot vote in any case except ties, cast the deciding tally on Nov. 8, 1983, on a measure to resume production of nerve gas weapons. The House killed that program.

Sen. Patrick J. Leahy of Vermont told the Senate that the "Peacekeeper" missile sought by Reagan promises "not the peace of the secure, but the peace of the grave."

Chiles won votes for his amendment by calling for a speedup in development of a single-warhead mobile missile, the "Midgetman," as an alternative to the heavier, and more vulnerable MX, which would be based in existing Minuteman silos.

And he stressed that while no MX missiles would be produced in fiscal 1985, his approach would keep the program alive by still allowing research and flight tests, possibly by some of the 21 missiles already on the assembly line.

Sen. Bennett Johnston, D-La., said "This allows us to have our cake and eat it too. We have a bargaining chip without buying it. We'll have the demonstrated ability to build," if the Soviet Union balks at arms control accords.

Republican Sen. Barry Goldwater, of Arizona, taunted the Democratic sponsor by declaring "I can't think of anything better than having (Soviet President Konstantin) Chernenko as a co-sponsor. Because we're doing the work for him," if the measure were to pass.

Leahy was joined by Democrats Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, Gary Hart of Colorado, Dale Bumpers of Arkansas and Jeff Bingaman of New Mexico in the attempt to strike all production money for the MX.

House OK's legal importation of labor

By MIKE FEINSLIBER
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The House approved a proposal Thursday to legalize the importation of tens of thousands of foreign workers to take the place of the illegal aliens who now enter this country every year to help harvest crops.

Critics said the proposal, adopted 229-172, would revive the infamous "Bracero" program of the 1940s and 1950s, in which Mexican field hands lived in squalor and were paid little.

The action may jeopardize final passage of the bill, Rep. Peter Rodino, D-N.J., told reporters after the vote.

The chairman of the House Judiciary Committee said he was "terribly disappointed" by the adoption of the amendment. He added that it may turn many previously supportive House members against the bill.

The proposal was offered by Rep. Leon Panetta, a Democrat who represents an agricultural area of California's central coast. It sought to fill the gap that would be created when a pending immigration control bill becomes law and makes it illegal to employ the undocumented workers who flow across the borders to help plant and pick crops.

Panetta said his proposal was adopted because the House realized "that if an immigration bill is to work, it must meet some special needs," such as the growers of perishable crops who need to recruit many workers quickly to harvest their crops.

The main sponsor of the bill, Rep. James Mazzoli, D-Pa., said that even though he opposed the amendment he believed it was possible to "clean it up" when House members iron out differences in the bill in conference with the Senate.

Mazzoli said passage of the amendment may erode some support but there was a "good chance" enough votes would hold for final passage.

The House also, however, rejected proposed labor safeguards to protect foreigners who would be allowed into the country to help with the crops.

The debate pitted growers against labor unions. The growers won.

"This will revive the very famous 'Harvest of Shame' where Americans have their tables supplied by exploited workers," said Rep. George Miller, D-Calif., after his labor-backed amendment was defeated, 256-134.

A chief safeguard concerned housing the foreign workers. The immigration bill provides that growers, who must now provide sleeping quarters for their temporary field hands, could give them a housing allowance instead. Miller charged the allowance would be inadequate and the workers would end up sleeping in the fields.

Mazzoli said the safeguards Miller proposed were unneeded. His bill, as drafted, is "sane, safe, proper and workable," Mazzoli said.

Most debate centered on Panetta's proposal. It was drafted in recognition of Western agriculture's present dependence on illegal aliens.

Because of its underground nature, there is no reliable count of the undocumented farm work force. The American Farm Bureau, the nation's largest farm organization, estimates there are 300,000 such workers.

As drafted by the House Judiciary Committee, the bill called for the expansion of the existing "H-2" program under which farmers can import labor if they certify that they can not find Americans able and willing to do the work.

But Panetta said that was not enough. He proposed creation of an additional "guest worker" program to make it easy to bring in large numbers of farm hands from across the border abroad on short notice, to harvest perishable crops.

Opponents said the Panetta proposal went too far, making it likely foreign workers would fill jobs that could be taken by unemployed Americans.

"This amendment would even offend a slave-driver," said Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Texas. "It's a rent-a-slave amendment. It will create the vilest, most evil conditions possible."

Nebraska rivers 14 feet over banks

By The Associated Press

Rivers surging up to 14 feet above flood stage chased scores of families from their homes in Nebraska on Thursday as thunderstorms producing hurricane-force winds and hailstones as big as softballs spread from the Rockies to Rhode Island.

At least 19 people have died this week as a result of tornadoes, flooding and a heat wave in the Northeast.

Damage in Colorado was estimated at as much as $350 million, a record amount.

The winds were clocked at more than 50 mph in Newark, Neb., breaking the wind gauge at the airport.

About half the western Ohio city of Piqua, population 21,000, remained without power Thursday afternoon, a victim of the violent thunderstorms in the East the night before that knocked out the electricity to 130,000 homes and businesses. Most of the entire city had been blacked out after lightning sparked a fire Wednesday night at the city's municipal power plant.

The thunderstorms, which also generated 26 tornadoes on Wednesday, continued Thursday, promising to break the week-long heat wave.

"There are two areas of storms, one from the Rockies to the western Plains and the other from Indiana to southern New England," said Harry Gordon of the National Severe Storms Forecast Center in Kansas City, Mo. "Storms like this aren't unusual. What's unusual is how widespread they are."

Nebraska Gov. Bob Kerrey, who declared southeastern Nebraska a disaster area as a result of flooding, flew Thursday to the town of Dewitt, about 40 miles southwest of Lincoln, where dozens of families were being evacuated. An emergency shelter was established at a Dewitt school and two were opened in neighboring Beatrice where the Big Blue River was almost 14 feet above flood stage.

All roads leading into Beatrice were closed by high water.

Flooding also forced evacuations along the Platte and Missouri Rivers. About 75 people were routed from their homes near Bellevue and 70 fled in Ashland. The Nebraska National Guard evacuated Camp Ashland on the Platte River.

In Ohlawa, Neb., 11 inches of rain fell in 24 hours.

In Baltimore, because of another hot day in the 90s, the National Flag Day Committee was forced to cut down its grand flag day celebration Thursday. The plans had called for assembling the largest human "flag" ever, with more than 7,300 children standing at Fort Mefferen to look like a U.S. flag from the air. Instead, 50 children, one from each state, took part in the ceremony.

But the really spectacular show was staged late Wednesday in the suburbs of Denver, where giant hailstones — some as big as softballs — and shattered glass injured at least 22 people, disabled about 20 police cars, and battered many other cars and trucks.

Police said the hailstones hitting the pavement sounded like gunshots. The ground was covered with hail 6 inches deep, with drifts up to 2 feet deep.

Hansen aide quotes are scurrilous mud

Four years ago, Idaho politics was marked by a mudslinging campaign between then-Senator Frank Church and his Republican challenger, Steve Symms, a campaign many Idahoans remember with chagrin. But the level of exchange didn't begin to approach the low-grade remarks this week from the shadowy top staff aide of Rep. George Hansen, James McKenna, directed against Hansen's opponent, Richard Stallings.

Stallings, in a press conference this week, squelched rumors about his personal life which have, perhaps not strangely, begun to circulate now that his challenge to Hansen is looking increasingly stronger. But McKenna, responding to Stallings' remarks, went well beyond the decorum and decency which we think a campaign in Idaho, or any state, ought to maintain.

He accused Stallings of inventing the rumors for political advantage. Then he called the history professor a "half-witted muckhead from Ricks College," a "bum," and a "moral snake." He termed the AFL-CIO members to whom Stallings spoke "Democratic grunts."

Although Hansen might consider it, we think he should, at the minimum, insist that his top employee apologize to Stallings for these scurrilous remarks.

But Hansen's mind today is likely to be occupied with how he is going to respond to the sentence that Judge Joyce Hens Green is to pronounce for his four felony convictions. The betting is that the judge will give George considerable time in jail.

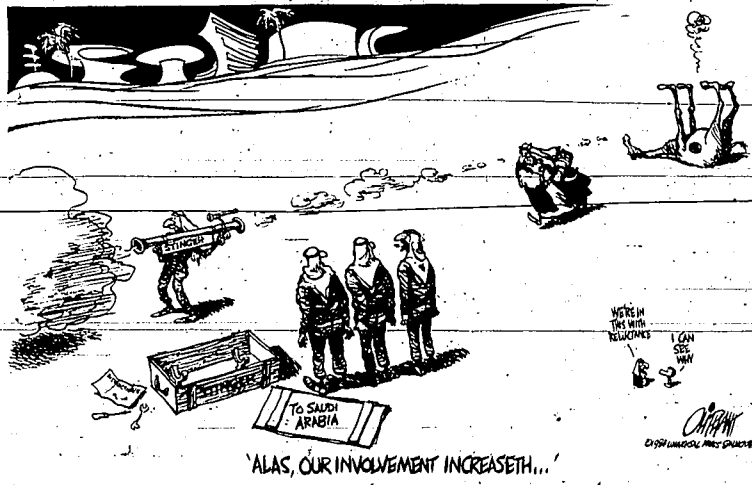

Maybe that prospect has rattled the normally cool and gravelly-voiced McKenna, whom we cannot here describe much more fully because he has rarely shown his face in Idaho.

On the witness stand at Hansen's trial, the New York native, attorney, and federal employee who now makes at least $34,400 a year for Hansen testified that he had never been to Idaho, except for a brief plane stopover. That was before a brief spring visit, when he came with George to help cut political losses with the home folks.

McKenna has shot fast from the mouth before. During Hansen's trial, he referred to the prosecutor as "somewhat of a lightweight and a fruit." He attributed his exclusion from the trial courtroom to the machinations of the Justice Department. He said the prosecutor considered him "George's Darth Vader."

Well, if McKenna has any "force," we think it ought to be directed elsewhere.

Slamming candidates whom he doesn't know anything about, from 2,000 miles away, in a state where he hasn't visited often enough to tell which direction the Snake River runs, is a tactic for other galaxies, but not for here. On these remarks, he's already at "warped speed."

Balancing acts for Idaho Democrats

The divisiveness that has dominated Democratic politics nationally in this election year may be matched at the state level when Idaho Democrats convene today in Boise.

Squabbles over the presidential race, platform planks and, most significantly for southern Idaho Democrats, the Swan Falls water rights issue, threaten to dampen the chances of the state's perennial minority party to improve its share of members in the Legislature, or to unseat incumbent Congressman and convicted felon George Hansen.

In many cases the differences, may be reconcilable. Steve Shaw, Idaho coordinator for Sen. Gary Hart's presidential campaign, says he is hoping to bolster the Colorado senator's first ballot showing at the national convention in November by earning "a Hart endorsement from the remaining uncommitted at-large Idaho delegate to be selected in Boise Saturday."

Shaw says he is committed to Hart, but won't hesitate to throw his support behind the party's nominee, presumably Mondale. "We're trying to work closely with the Mondale folks to come up with a party platform," all sides can support, Shaw says.

That platform, however, presents the second stumbling block the party must overcome to achieve solidarity.

Democratic Congressional candidate Richard Stallings last week said if the party adopts a platform plank opposing construction of the proposed New Production Reactor, he will disavow that plank.

The proposed plank originated with California Sen. Alan Cranston. Shaw says he estimates about half of Hart's 219 state delegates are sympathetic to the plank. He says he expects a similar percentage of the 22 uncommitted delegates and of the six Jesse Jackson delegates will be sympathetic to the plank. A smaller percentage of Walter Mondale's 128 delegates would support such a stand, he estimates.

The premature disavowal of the possible platform plank may lead to dissatisfaction among some of the party's new blood, particularly this year's "peace delegation."

But it is a politically expedient move for Stallings who is courting voters near the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory, a possible location for the project. Voters who oppose the weapons-grade nuclear reactor may feel put off by Stallings' disavowal of the proposed platform plank but they are unlikely to shift their support to Hansen from Stallings as a result of their disappointment.

Finally, the party will be tested on the issue of water allocation on the Snake River Plain.

Twin Falls attorney Lloyd Walker, a former Democratic Party chairman in Idaho, says the Swan Falls issue is the strongest issue in the state this year. It is one that Democrats can use to their advantage particularly in the Magic Valley if they are willing to assemble firmly behind it and behind the governor, he says. But the issue has fragmented both parties and such a consensus is unlikely. Gov. Evans has joined with Republican Attorney General Jim Jones on the issue, pushing for availability of water the future economic development on the Snake River Plain. Democratic leaders from the Idaho Senate, meanwhile, allied themselves with top Republican legislators in efforts to stifle Evans' proposals.

And with a few exceptions, most notably Sen. John Peavey, D-Carey, the issue has pitted Democrats against each other along north-south lines. Those from the party's north Idaho stronghold, for the most part, favor keeping the remaining water in the Snake River for power production and fish and wildlife values. Most Democrats in Republican-dominated southern Idaho have sided with development interests and the governor on the water topic.

The issue offers Democrats the prospect of large gains in state government but attempting to achieve a consensus on the issue could lead to excessive bloodletting and another division among party loyal.

The bloodletting in this case would likely again cast aside the interests of another element of the party's new blood — in this case, delegates with strong environmentalist and consumer-advocacy positions — in favor of what is perceived as a vote-getting issue.

The convention will probably hold down to a series of balancing acts this weekend and whether the final balance translates into political gains won't be known until November 7.

Time for a change at the top

If it isn't too much trouble could we have more pictures of Mr. Reagan like those in the Sunday June 10 issue? I think the people should be reminded daily of what the biggest trouble maker in history looks like.

It took the Chinese only a few minutes to see through this phoney, self seeking individual and decide not to translate his speech to their people.

In Ireland, even the good Lord denounced his deceiving statements by haling him and driving him from the podium. With all the facts and circumstances against this grandstanding clown, who is it that puts his image in front of us as a clean all American boy?

All the statements of a recovery are misleading, lower interest rates are a pipedream, the profligate and polluters spend this propaganda just to get this puppet reelected. In January, 1984 the unemployment rate (8.2%) was 30% higher than when Reagan took office in January 1980 (6.3%). Some recovery!

We need to move this man and his obsession for war from our capitol and also those that have supported his brainless policies. He is up to his neck in mistakes of which nuclear proliferation is only one instance.

The Democratic candidates are honorable men and a vote for Jesse Jackson as vice president will surely be a vote for peace. The other two, either one is better qualified for president than the two-faced phony we have in place now.

I do appreciate his picture now and then, his chestnut cat grin and pathetic wrinkled face reminds me to get the chicken out of the freezer. It's time for an honest change.

Why hospital's revenue is low

The article on the Twin Falls hospital in the May 31 caused me to look through my records of hospital costs. My first stay of six days was met with a bill of $39. This before the days of Medicare. My next stay was eight days and the bill $611. Another for three days, surgery $678. Then a knee replacement and seven days $3,868 with $20 for a nurse to steady me when I first got out of bed, two Bayer aspirin pills $12.50. Two years later another knee replacement and a bill of $578 and $672. All this just for room and meals.

Doctors and their associates were on top of that with separate costs amounting to thousands of dollars. X-rays were taken and sent out to an accomplice for examination. I saw the most outrageous padding of hospital bills but Medicare paid the bills without questioning the padded items. Four spoonfuls of milk of magnesia was $14.50. One doctor charged $62.50 for a ten-minute conversation and his bill paid as quickly as those who charged $10 to $20.

Now we have a hospital costing millions and the administrator, with all due respect, walling that people are not coming in, rooms are unused and 11 new nurses are hired.

Only 61 beds were occupied over the Memorial Day weekend and the X-ray equipment rarely used. Why? Simply because no one wants to go into a room where a wooden Indian disguised as an X-ray technician will have his assistant spend 10 minutes taking a picture and then sending it out for another accomplice to "interpret." And two weeks you have his answer and a whoopee for the hand. Does this give you a clue as to why the X-ray department is not producing the expected revenue?

A nurse in one of Idaho's leading hospitals told me that much of the hospital costs were due to the immense pile of paperwork required to meet Federal and State laws and to guard against lawyers searching for clues on which to file a negligence or a mal-practice suit. She said as many as four lawyers could be seen rummaging thru their files every day and the huge insurance premiums and staff of lawyers hired to defend the hospital added much to operational costs. So when you or Medicare pay those staggering bills they are for more than rooms, board and padded medicine costs.

An interesting thing brought to light in my search thru old files was that in 1973 our car insurance was $161.20. In 1984 the same policy was $412.00. That year our electric bill was $17.60 for the month of January, in 1984 for the same month the bill was $181.25. So maybe the hospital administrator isn't as crazy as on first thought.

However hospital and doctor charges must be regulated by laws or the public will rebel. This will mean socialized health as in England today. Many hospital bills today are from $125,000 to $150,000 and Medicare is in the hands of politicians and you are the sheep waiting to be shorn.

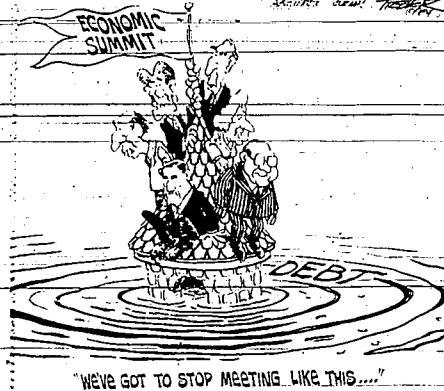

Thought for today, "Discussion is an exchange of ignorance. Argument is an exchange of ignorance."

Letters/ Perspectives differ in Magic Valley, eastern Idaho

Few new jobs for Idahoans

This is a two part letter. Both parts are about different perspectives maintained by Eastern Idahoans and residents of the Magic Valley.

The George Hansen support is disgusting! I'm a great believer in the judicial system in this country. And to scoff at the Department of Justice as George Hansen and his constituents have is an embarrassment for Idaho. You can run all the "stop signs" you want, but when you get caught you pay!

The evidence was so strong that an appeal has been denied. We have heard nothing after George's meeting with the ethics committee. I'm sure we would have if the response had been positive.

It appears that a prerequisite for politicians is an ego that goes beyond embarrassment. Sadly enough these politician followers can not admit to mistake.

Isn't he a four-count felon?

I'd be in prison, like most people. How long are they going to withhold judgement? I'll answer the election? Then George can operate his elected duties from a Watergate country club.

The second part of this letter is in reference to an NPR at INEL.

I have written before about what a target the NPR will make INEL in the event of a war. INEL is probably in the top ten as it is!

So in conclusion I have these recommendations for Eastern Idaho (Idaho Falls) or should I call them pleas. Get rid of George!

As far as the NPR is concerned, I'll make another comparison with Alaska. The pipeline is making them money. No state tax. They get money back! I think Idaho should follow suit.

If Idaho is going to get the nation's toxic waste at Grandview, the nuclear waste at INEL, plus a nuclear bullet factory, I ask Eastern Idaho since you're in so tight with George and he knows how to make money and he is so full of great deeds, you should be able to swing George into swinging us on to easy street.

Idaho Falls is already making a bundle off INEL, but think of the rest of Idaho. If you're going to mess it up, we might as well make some money. When you pull it off, will we forgive you?

Handicapped access poor

We just returned from the Southern California area on vacation and realized how far behind our Twin Falls area is in dealing with the handicapped parking.

Upon entering parks, malls and shopping centers in California handicapped parking was clearly marked and there was adequate space allocated for cars with handicapped passengers as well as clearly marked wheelchair ramps at the curbs.

What a disappointment to drive into the Blue Lakes Mall and discover no designated parking whatsoever for the handicapped and the handicapped ramp (not marked) at the main entrance to the mall full of water. Why do we have such a beautiful mall and yet we are so far behind the times in parking for everyone?

I realize that we people with handicapped children and adults are a small proportion of your customers but I think your mall manager should become more professional and get updated on what is going on in other parts of the country for the handicapped. Perhaps the mall manager would like some suggestions as how to mark off the parking lot for all parking as it is evident that she has never dealt with heavy traffic situations as well as handicapped parking.

June 15 Handicapped Awareness Day in Magic Valley. We therefore, felt this an appropriate time to make people aware of this problem.

Wreckage filled an area between Motley and Pillager where two coal trains collided

Violent coal train collision produces at least one death

MOTLEY, Minn. (AP) — Two Burlington Northern coal trains slammed head-on in a fiery crash Thursday that derailed 50 cars and left a pile of smoldering metal 4 feet high.

One crewman was killed and two others were missing and feared dead. The train collision on a stretch of track between Motley and Pillager, in north-central Minnesota, was "the worst train accident I've ever seen," said Burlington Northern Vice President Don Scott.

"It sounded like a tornado," said Andrew Palfe, who lives about 200 yards from the scene. "We heard an impact and then there was a screeching, a howling. I just laid there. I thought I was dreaming."

A full coal train of 110 cars was heading east to Superior, Wis., to deliver coal to Great Lakes ports, and an empty 80-car train was headed west, apparently to coal fields in Montana or Wyoming, when they collided in the heavily forested area 140 miles north of Minneapolis, said Brian J. Sweeney, a Burlington Northern spokesman in St. Paul.

The accident occurred on a mile-long piece of straight track.

Each train carried a crew of four, said Sweeney, two in the engine and two in the caboose.

The body of one crewman, whose name was not released, was found in the wreckage, and authorities feared the two missing men, also not identified, were dead. A fourth crewman, brakeman Mark Phillips, 32, leaped from one of the trains seconds before the crash, breaking his wrist and his leg. He was in stable condition at St. Joseph's Hospital. The four other crewmen escaped safely, and only one was identified.

All the men were from Superior, Wis., said Scott.

Jim Johannsen, one of the survivors, said curves east and west of the scene prevented the two engineers from spotting each other before it was too late.

Scott, who said the accident was under investigation, explained: "This is not a signalized piece of track. There are no red and green lights, so the trains move under the direction of a dispatcher who issues orders permitting the trains to move. He's located in Minneapolis."

He declined to speculate whether a wrong signal had been given or if one of the trains had entered the track without receiving clearance.

Sweeney said the company did not know why the trains were on the same track.

The accident is being investigated by both the railroad and the National Transportation Safety Board, and "it could be several weeks before the final results are out, he said.

The impact ignited the engines and scattered debris over a quarter-mile area.

Bill Muechel said he could hear the roar of the fire from his home half a mile away. "We got up and we could see big flames and a heavy cloud of smoke," he said.

The railroad brought in cranes, bulldozers and other heavy equipment to help move the wreckage, a pile of twisted metal 40 feet high. Crews pumped diesel fuel from the wrecked engines to lessen the danger of further fire before beginning to move any of the damaged cars.

Jail term for Tylenol extortionist

CHICAGO (AP) — A man convicted of trying to extort $1 million from the makers of Tylenol after seven people were killed by cyanide-laced capsules of the painkiller was sentenced Thursday to 10 years in prison.

James W. Lewis, 37, was sentenced by U.S. District Judge James J. McGarr. He had faced a maximum 20-year prison term and $10,000 fine.

Lewis was not charged in the fall 1982 killings in the Chicago area, in which cyanide capsules were inserted into Tylenol bottles planted on store shelves. The case has never been solved.

But Lewis admitted at his trial last year that he wrote a letter to Johnson & Johnson Co., parent company of McNeil Consumer Products Co., the makers of Tylenol, demanding the money to "stop the killing."

And U.S. Attorney Dian K. Webb repeated during the sentencing hearing his contention that the extortion attempt "is a confession that he did the Tylenol murders. It also gives him a motive to do the murders."

Webb, whose remarks were made in a bid for a stiffer sentence, stressed that he was not officially charging Lewis with the deaths because there is insufficient evidence.

Lewis' lawyer, Michael Monaco, argued that Lewis never meant to collect the money.

Sentence reduced for youth

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) — Wyoming Gov. Ed Herschler on Thursday reduced the sentence of 17-year-old Richard Jahnke for shooting his abusive father to death, and said he would allow him to serve it in a detention center instead of state prison.

Herschler said Jahnke must serve a term of three years and 13 days at the Wyoming Industrial Institute in Worland, and undergo 60 days of psychiatric counseling and evaluation.

Jahnke was tried on charges of first-degree murder but was convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to 5-to-15 years in the state penitentiary.

The Wyoming Supreme Court last week upheld that sentence, which would have forced Jahnke to spend a minimum of five years behind bars.

Toxic fire rages in Florida

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Firefighters ringed a warehouse with earthen dikes and sprayed foam Thursday to smother toxic smoke spewing from the smoldering remains of a fire that forced hundreds of residents to flee.

Flames had shot 30 to 40 feet in the air after the blaze broke out about 10:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Farmer's Mutual Exchange. By sunrise, the flames were out, but smoke filled with dangerous chemical fumes from smoldering fertilizer and pesticides continued to pour from the ruins northwest of town until midday.

Weinberger, Chinese official reach military agreement

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger and Chinese Defense Minister Zhang Aiping have reached agreement in principle for the first sale of U.S. weapons and military technology to China, Pentagon sources said Thursday.

These sources, who spoke on condition they remain anonymous, said the United States will probably sell the communist nation Hawk air defense missiles, TOW anti-tank missiles, improved artillery and some military technology.

Ultimately, these sources said, the Chinese are expected to produce TOW missiles in their own plants, perhaps under some form of licensing.

No formal agreement was signed before Zhang, after three days of talks here, headed for a tour of some key American military bases and defense production plants on a visit due to end June 23. Zhang, the first defense minister of the People's Republic of China to visit the United States, will

CASPAR WEINBERGER
Makes reported deal travel to Canada after his U.S. tour. The transaction would be the first U.S. sale of weapons and military technology to the communist government that has ruled China.

The Defense Department issued a statement saying that Weinberger and Zhang had expressed "pleasure over the success of the meeting."

The statement spoke of "the possibility of agreements being reached in the future." Officials said this was a reference to expected formal signings to carry out the agreements reached in principle.

Pentagon sources said the arms sales probably will unfold publicly later when formal notifications are sent to Congress. No dates were set.

According to these officials, the Chinese delegation was reluctant to make any public showing of an arms purchase agreement during its visit here because Zhang and the Chinese leadership did not want to make a public point of an increasingly close association with the United States.

There has been a gradual movement toward U.S. arms sales to China starting with a visit to China by then-Defense Secretary Harold Brown in 1980.

Senate stalls bid to set drinking age

WASHINGTON (AP) — A drive to speed Senate passage of legislation setting a nationwide minimum drinking age of 21 was sidetracked Thursday by senators seeking to toughen state drunken driving laws.

Sen. Lowell P. Weicker, Jr. R-Conn., said he would push an amendment that would require states to set jail terms and loss of driving privileges for anyone convicted of drunken driving, or risk losing some federal highway funds.

"It isn't fair to dump all the blame on the kids," said Sen. Charles Mathias, R-Md., explaining in a floor speech why he was supporting efforts to broaden the legislation.

As sent to the Senate floor, the proposal by Sen. Frank Lautenberg, D-N.J., would have withheld a portion of federal road money from states that did not require people be 21 or older before they could legally purchase alcoholic beverages.

Supporters of the Lautenberg measure, similar to a bill that has passed the House, say it is intended partly to discourage teenagers from driving across state borders to buy alcoholic beverages they are forbidden to purchase at home because of tighter age restrictions.

The Lautenberg bill would give states two years to raise their minimum drinking age to 21. Failure to do so would result in withholding of 5 percent of their federal highway funds in the third year and 10 percent in the fourth year. The states would receive withheld funds retroactively when they complied.

Survivors of Bataan ask for right to sue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Survivors of the World War II Bataan death march, describing their "living hell" during captivity, asked Congress Thursday for the right to sue Japanese companies that profited from their slave labor.

They urged members of a House Judiciary subcommittee to back a bill that would allow them to take their cases to the U.S. Claims Court.

The former defenders of Corregidor and Bataan in the Philippines told of savage beatings, near starvation, hard labor and almost no days of rest when they were sent to Japanese factories to replace men sent to fight the allies.

"When we came back in 1945, we were supposedly heroes and now... they don't know what a Bataan veteran is, what we went through. We're refreshing their minds," Agapito D.

Silva, of Albuquerque, N.M., told reporters after the hearing.

The bill's sponsor, Rep. Manuel Lujan Jr., R-N.M., added, "The bottom line of this whole thing is that those companies profited from the work of these POWs. They should pay wages. In most instances, with people that are held by other countries, they do not put them to work in private companies and this is the basic difference."

A 1951 treaty between the United States, its allies and Japan bars suits by war prisoners against the signers' governments.

U.S. defenders at Bataan surrendered on April 9, 1942, and Corregidor fell on May 6. The Japanese forced about 60,000 prisoners, to march 70 miles to prison camps, and thousands died from starvation or maltreatment.

FAA head rejects negligence charge

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of the Federal Aviation Administration rejected charges Thursday that his agency is overlooking safety violations at Continental Airlines and told Congress that intensive surveillance "has shown the airline is being operated safely."

Donald Engen, who took over the FAA last March, said the agency has received 184 reports of possible safety violations at Continental from the airline pilots' union and has investigated or is continuing to look at all of them.

He said six enforcement actions are being prepared against the airline, but did not go into details as to what kind of violations they involved.

Engen acknowledged that the number of incidents being reported involving Continental appears to be more than normal, but attributed that to the intensive scrutiny the carrier is undergoing from the pilots union.

Ag dean: Farm development a must

By QUANE KENYON
AP Capitol Writer

BOISE — The farm industry of Idaho and America is in about the same place as the U.S. auto industry was a quarter-century ago. It is pre-eminent in the world, but unless American agriculture moves ahead, it probably will fall from the top, says a University of Idaho dean. Other countries developed their automobile industries, but Detroit did not move ahead at the same rate, said Raymond Miller, dean of the College of Agriculture at the Moscow school. And as a result, Miller told the Idaho Press Club on Thursday, the American automakers suffered because they couldn't compete. The same thing might happen to Idaho farmers. "We are right on the brink of having that happen to agriculture, too," Miller said. "We are not competitive in some commodities." Miller just returned from an Asian trip. He went to Pakistan to help launch an irrigation development. His trip to the People's Republic of China helped cement an exchange agreement with a Chinese university. But he said agriculture, Idaho's number one industry, faces the same "movement of technology" from developing nations as the automakers ran into. Countries such as Japan have been developing "human resources" into a highly trained, educated, motivated work force. As a result, Japanese steelmakers can make steel at $400 per ton, compared to $600 to $650 in this country. And soon, when India gets into the steel business, that low-wage country will be producing steel at $250 per ton, he said. The answer is improved technology and output, so this country can remain competitive. But part of the problem is attitude, Miller said. Some countries such as Japan work hard to develop youth; that's de-emphasized in the country.

Board to consider finding ISU chief

POCATELLO (AP) — The State Board of Education will decide how to choose an acting president for Idaho State University at its regular meeting June 21-22 at Rexburg, says Chairman Clint Hoopes. ISU President Myron Coulter leaves July 31 to become chancellor at Western Carolina University in Cullowhee, N.C. "I don't think anyone knows just exactly what the final procedure will be," Hoopes said, but added the board probably would select someone to replace Coulter temporarily from current ISU administrators or from outside the Institution. He said "two or three" board members had mentioned the possibility that an acting president would be appointed from outside ISU ranks. "I can't see anything wrong with that if you find the right person," Hoopes said. State Board member Diane Blythe, of Pocatello, agreed. She said she couldn't speak for the entire board, but suggested that because of dissension and bickering among the faculty at ISU, an outside acting president might be helpful to the institution.

Evans returns from Taiwan business trip

BOISE (AP) — Representatives of Taiwan's business community may visit Idaho by the end of the summer to begin trade arrangements in Idaho, says Gov. John Evans. Evans returned from Taiwan Thursday after formalizing an agreement making Taiwan a sister state of Idaho. It was the first official act of Taiwan's new governor, Chiu Chang-huan, Evans said. Evans said the agreement will open up trade and cultural relationships between the province and the Gem State. The governor said he met with Taiwan business leaders who tentatively agreed to visit Idaho in August. "This is good business for Idaho's businessmen," he said. Meanwhile, Evans said he will be sending film clips to Taiwan to promote the state's tourist industry at the request of James Song, director of Taiwan's government information office. Song told Evans the people of Taiwan know little about Idaho, but expressed an interest in learning, the governor said. "The sister state agreement stems from a resolution passed by the 1983 Legislature. A group of Idaho legislators and business leaders traveled to Taiwan last year to sign the agreement, with Evans formalizing the pact Monday. Responding to other questions from reporters, Evans said he remains uncommitted in his choice for the Democratic presidential nomination. Evans, a likely delegate to the Democratic convention, said, "I would be pleased to see a Hart-Mondale ticket."

Sentencings for tax evasion

POCATELLO (AP) — Four eastern Idaho residents were each sentenced to three years probation Thursday in federal court on tax-evasion charges. Three of the defendants also must perform 150 hours of community service each. Bret D. Kunz, 25, who pleaded guilty in May to two misdemeanor counts of willful failure to file income tax returns for 1980 and 1981, was placed on three years' probation and ordered to perform 150 hours of community service on each count. The sentences are to run concurrently. Kirk Nilles, 33, who pleaded guilty in May to failing to report actual income on a tax return for 1980 and to willfully furnishing his employer an inaccurate W-4 withholding form, was placed on three years' probation and ordered to perform 150 hours of community service on each count. The sentences are to run concurrently, a court spokesman said.

Two other counts of the four-count indictment, all misdemeanors, were dismissed in a plea negotiation. Landon C. Hayes, 20, was also placed on three years' probation and ordered to perform 150 hours of community service for failing to accurately report his gross income on his 1980 income tax. A second count of the two-count indictment was dismissed in plea bargaining, a court spokesman said. Nilles and Hayes told U.S. District Judge Marion Callister in May that they had filed the tax returns in question. Carin Humble, 28, who pleaded guilty to failing to file the appropriate tax return for 1981, received three years' probation, a court clerk said. Sentencing was set July 17 for Lynn V. Humble, 28, who was found guilty Wednesday afternoon on three misdemeanor counts of willful failure to file an income tax return.

Gulf states support passage, coexistence

By ALY MAHMOUD
The Associated Press

MANAMA, Bahrain — Foreign ministers of the six-nation Persian Gulf alliance said Thursday they intend to emphasize diplomacy and peaceful co-existence to protect their oil tankers from Iranian attacks.

Members of the Gulf Cooperation Council "are motivated merely and strictly by a desire for self-defense," Kuwaiti Foreign Minister, Sheikh Sabah Al-Ahmed, told the London-based Al-Hawadeth magazine.

"We contemplate no revenge against anyone, because we abhor war," he said. "We have no intention of declaring war on anyone. All we ask of others is to cease committing aggression on us."

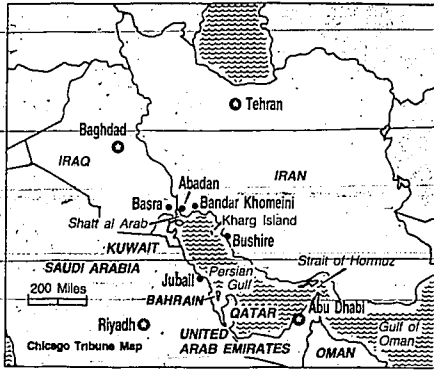

Iran and Iraq exchanged artillery fire along their border, according to war communiques received in Nicosia, Cyprus. The front had been relatively calm since Tuesday, when the two sides began abiding by an agreement to stop attacking civilian targets.

In the United Arab Emirates, there were reports that Iran has been reinforcing its garrison on the Persian Gulf island of Abu-Musa, 70 miles southwest of the Strait of Hormuz. Sources said there may be as many as 2,000 Iranian troops on the island and the buildup may be linked to Iranian threats to search ships in the strait.

The Arabian foreign ministers concluded three days of private meetings in the Saudi Arabian city of Jeddah.

The alliance, composed of Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, the United Arab Emirates, Bahrain, Qatar and Oman, supports a United Nations resolution of June 1 that condemns "aggression" against Kuwaiti and Saudi shipping, according to a statement issued by the foreign ministers.

Iraq imposed a sea and air blockade on Saudi's Kharg Island oil shipping terminal and attacked ships in the area. Iran retaliated by raiding vessels in Saudi and Kuwaiti waters, leading to Gulf Cooperation Council complaints to the Arab League and the U.N. Security Council.

"The resolution is an embodiment of a determination to ensure territorial security for countries that are not parties to the conflict," said the statement.

The Gulf Cooperation Council has "condemned the aggressions with the spirit of the U.N. Charter, which calls for peaceful coexistence," it said.

The official Qatar News Agency said gulf defense ministers would meet in Saudi Arabia in the near future to lay down plans for the protection of "security and sovereignty" of the region. It said the ministers would put together strategy for a unified defense plan.

U.N. Secretary General Javier Perez de Cuellar, architect of the agreement to halt attacks on civilians, was reported to have reached an understanding with Iraq on means of monitoring the arrangement. A U.N.

spokesman in New York said Iran had not yet responded to the proposal.

The moratorium on civilian attacks was the first positive response to mediation by Iran since the war broke out in September 1980. The partial cease-fire led to hope among some Arab diplomats and government officials that a broader agreement eventually might be reached.

Iraq said its gunners and combat patrols killed an Iranian soldier and destroyed a bunker and military vehicle in attacks across the border. The fighting took place in the northern mountain region, the communique said.

Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency said heavy shelling persisted in the central sector of the war front.

On the southern front Iranian artillery destroyed a munitions dump, a motor pool and several bunkers "with their crew," the Iranian news agency said.

Court convicts 2 following attacks

JERUSALEM (AP) — A Jerusalem district court on Thursday convicted two men in connection with a wave of Jewish attacks on Palestinians in the Israeli-occupied West Bank, the Justice Ministry announced.

One of the men was convicted of membership in the underground ring, becoming the first of the 24 suspects in the case to officially admit the existence of the organization that was exposed in April after a foiled plot to blow up Palestinian-owned buses.

East bloc raps West at summit

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union and nine communist allies ended a three-day summit Thursday with statements blaming the world's economic troubles on the West and accusing the United States and its allies of locking the Kremlin in "a dangerous test of strength."

During the meeting of the 10-nation Council for Mutual Economic Assistance, called Comecon, the Soviet Union agreed to peg its oil prices to the world market — an apparent concession to some East European nations.

Boris Gostev, deputy head of the Communist Party economics department, told reporters the first Comecon summit in 15 years also adopted a program intended to tighten economic integration and cooperation within the alliance.

Part of the plan, Gostev said, is to increase coordination of communist countries' five-year plans, promote direct relations between economic enterprises in the Comecon states and hold summit meetings on a regular basis, perhaps during each five-year period.

The meeting, held in the Grand Kremlin Palace, was attended by the party chiefs of the Soviet Union, its six East European allies, Mongolia and Vietnam.

Israeli units wage battle for 2 hours

By The Associated Press

Israeli soldiers in southeast Lebanon fought a two-hour gunbattle Thursday with attackers firing from behind Syrian lines, the Tel Aviv military command said. It was not clear whether the attackers were Syrians or Palestinian guerrillas.

No Israeli casualties were reported. In Beirut, Lebanese President Amin Gemayel and Prime Minister Rashid Karami held a closed-door meeting on security developments and reportedly discussed an expected visit by Abdul-Halim Khaddam, Syria's vice president and chief mediator in Lebanon's civil war.

Sporadic machine-gun fire was reported along Beirut's Green Line frontier throughout the day Thursday, and police said two people were killed and six wounded.

The Israeli command said one of its military convoys came under fire near Qar'ouq, four miles from the Syrian border in southeast Lebanon, and Israeli troops fired back with light arms and tank cannon at the source of the shooting.

Americans seized by Angolan rebels

By PATRICK REYNA
The Associated Press

LISBON, Portugal — Angolan rebels said Thursday they seized 11 foreigners, including some Americans, during an attack in which at least 210 government soldiers were killed.

The National Union for the Total Independence of Angola, known as UNITA, said in a statement released in Lisbon, Portugal, that its captives were "of American, Portuguese and Colombian nationality."

UNITA's statement, signed by Chief of Staff Demostenes Amos Chilinguita, said 30 Cuban soldiers also were killed in the attack. It said UNITA suffered 15 dead, 35 wounded and two missing in seven incidents on Wednesday.

The statement did not identify the foreigners, or give any other details about them. It was not clear whether they were captured in fighting Wednesday in the town of Kibala in central Angola, or taken from their homes as UNITA has done in the past.

In Washington, State Department spokesman John Hughes said press reports were the only information he had about the captured Americans. Administration officials are looking into the matter on an urgent basis, he said.

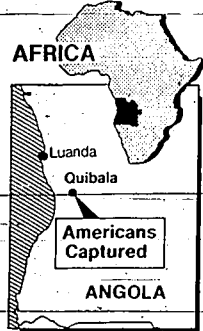

The rebels normally refuse to divulge the identities of their captives until shortly before their release.

UNITA spokesman Jardo Mueculla told The Associated Press in Lisbon the hostages would be marched to secure rebel bases hundreds of miles to the south.

"They will receive our traditional hospitality," he said. But he warned that their safety could be jeopardized if government forces intervene.

UNITA has been fighting President Eduardo dos Santos' Marxist government since losing a civil war that followed Angola's independence from Portugal in 1975. Dos Santos won the civil-war with Cuban and Soviet aid, and UNITA is fighting to oust the remaining 25,000 to 30,000 Cuban troops.

"We lament the capture of American citizens, but incidents of this sort will remain inevitable as long as the civil war continues."

Snow, cold claim 4 children

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Four children died of exposure and a number of injuries — some were isolated by snow and freezing weather that swept across parts of South Africa on Thursday.

The first major storm of the southern hemisphere winter brought almost two feet of snow to much of eastern South Africa. Winter usually runs from June through August, but snow is rare — in most of the country.

Four school children failed to return to their rural village in the eastern province of Natal on Wednesday afternoon, and searchers found their bodies in the bush after nightfall.

They apparently tried to walk home through the storm, and died of exposure. Three victims, ages 14, 12 and 10, were from one family. The fourth victim, 10 years old, was a member of another family.

South Africa's mountain peaks usually receive a dusting of snow once or twice a year. Thursday's storm was caused by a cold front from Antarctica that moved north and collided with warmer air drifting inland from the Indian Ocean.

Swiss get lectures from pope

FLUELI, Switzerland (AP) — Pope John Paul II, preaching in front of snow-covered Alpine peaks on Thursday sternly lectured the Swiss to prevent their prosperous banking system from leading to war and injustice and urged them to lend a helping hand abroad.

The Roman Catholic leader, on the third day of the first papal tour in Switzerland in five centuries, told a crowd of about 11,000 people: "As a democratically constituted society, you must watch vigilantly over all that goes on in this powerful world of money."

Swiss voters on May 20 resoundingly defeated a Socialist proposal that would have drastically watered down Switzerland's banking secrecy law, a central feature of the system. The proposal would have diminished Switzerland's attractiveness as a haven for fugitive funds from abroad, which Socialist party leaders estimated exceed 100 billion Swiss Francs, or about $4 billion.

"Above all, be vigilant that, with your business and your banking institutes, you offer the world a service of peace and not — perhaps indirectly — an opportunity to promote war and injustice," the pope said in his sermon during an outdoor Mass in an Alpine town meadow.

"Make your own the troubles of other nations and offer a helping hand beyond your own frontiers — and that on the level, too, of your public organs and financial resources," the spiritual leader of the world's more than 790 million Roman Catholics said. He delivered his sermon in German.

Flueli is the birthplace of St. Nicholas von Flue, a mystic whose meditation is credited with preventing the breakup of the Swiss confederation in the 15th century.

Church bells rang out in this chalet-dotted village as the half-dozen helicopters carrying the papal party thundered between the towering Alpine peaks before the start of Mass.

A brass band played as John Paul walked across the meadow to the simple tent where an altar had been set up.

During his sermon, the pope said Switzerland "cannot rely today simply on law formulated in the past."

Mother of first Russian to fly in space dies at age 80

MOSCOW (AP) — Anna Timofeyevna Gagarin, mother of the cosmonaut who became the first man in space, Yuri Gagarin, has died at age 80, Soviet television announced Thursday.

Mrs. Gagarin died "suddenly" on Tuesday, according to an announcement read on the evening news. No other details about her death were provided.

A brief official obituary praised Mrs. Gagarin in the manner usually accorded the Soviet Union's heroic citizens. It said her life, spent mostly as a peasant on a Russian collective farm, was "a remarkable example of selfless labor."

Gagarin made the first manned space flight on April 12, 1961. He died in a 1968 plane crash.

CALLING LONG-DISTANCE IN IDAHO?

Mountain Bell makes it easy.

Just as always, simply dial 1 + the number. That's all it takes to place direct-dialed calls within your calling area. And since you already have our service, you can make that call right now.

A word about calling areas. As a result of the Bell System breakup on January 1, 1984, federal ruling divided Idaho into two long distance calling areas. The boundaries of each area are outlined on the map. We handle all calls made south of the Salmon River.

That means that a call placed from Boise to Pocatello, for instance, would be listed on your phone bill as a Mountain Bell call. But calls placed from one area to another — from Boise to Lewiston, for example — would be carried by another long distance company of your choice.

If you've chosen AT&T Communications to carry these calls, the charges will appear under the AT&T portion of your Mountain Bell bill. However, you may have the option of choosing other companies besides AT&T. Check local advertising or your Yellow Pages for these companies.

Find out more with our free road map and long distance brochure. The brochure contains a handy road map of Idaho, with your long distance calling area boundaries clearly marked for quick reference. Plus, it provides detailed information about our service, including the wide range of home and business features we offer.

To receive your brochure, fill out the coupon below and send it in to us. Or call our "Let's Talk Center" toll-free at 1 800 555-5000. Discover how easy long distance calling can be when you call on Mountain Bell.

City faces tough funding choices

By DAVID MOFFAT
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — For Twin Falls city officials halfway through the process of setting a preliminary 1984-85 budget, the good news is there will be some discretionary money to spend next year.

The bad news is requests for funding seem to be proliferating as never before.

The bottom line for the Twin Falls City Council, which must make the final decisions, is that choices may have to be made between competing interests in a way they have not had to in recent years.

For the past several years, the summer budget-setting process has offered little controversy as the council attempted only to retain city service levels and take care of the most critical capital needs.

The main controversy this year may surround a capital improvements fund that may have as much as $2.4 million in it, says City Manager Tom Courtney.

Out of this will have to come money for such routine requests as new police cars and such special projects as a new swimming pool.

City finance director Bryce King says the $2.4 million comes from a variety of sources.

Among these are a projected $300,000 in new sales tax revenue — the result of the Legislature's decision to raise the state sales tax and share some of this money with cities — and an estimated $400,000 in federal revenue sharing money.

But the city also is planning to commit close to $1.25 million in surplus reserves on a one-time basis, King says.

Part of this money represents "carry-over" money budgeted this year, but not spent, such as $250,000 for a new pool.

As such, this money reflects the city's tendency to budget conservatively, pinch pennies and re-allocate "the difference," he says.

But the "drawing down" goes farther than this, Courtney says. Because of computer projection techniques and close financial control, the city can afford to get by on a smaller cushion, he says — although maintaining a 20-25 percent reserve in most funds continues to be a major goal, he adds.

Among some of the major projects competing for attention from the City Council are the following:

- *$750,000 for a new swimming pool, no matter what plan finally is devised to pay for it.
- *A major effort to maintain and rebuild city streets. Mayor Emery Petersen says this could include a minimum of $250,000 for sealcoating and $250,000 for reconstruction.
- *$150,000 to convert street lights to more cost-effective sodium bulbs.
- *A request for a 15 percent budget increase from the library to increase hours of service.
- *A request from the downtown business improvement district to pay off the remaining $200,000 owed on the downtown city parking lots, which would eliminate parking meters. Getting rid of meters in the lots could help the downtown more competitive with a planned new shopping mall, BID board members believe.

- *As much as $500,000 for a new city shop building for the water, parks and street department.
- *A city employee committee request for a 4.5 percent cost-of-living increase, plus an increase in longevity pay.
- *A request from the city firefighter union bargaining committee for a cost-of-living increase this year, as well as an increase they say they did not receive last year.
- *A request for repairs to the golf course clubhouse.
- *$35,000 for three new police cars, $50,000 for a new front-end loader, and $25,000 for a new hydraulic lawn mower.

Young salmon are loaded from hatchery raceways, lower right, into a tanker truck for transportation to the drop-off point.

Salmon released; effects to come

By HAL BERNTON
Times-News writer

HAGERMAN — For 327,000 young Chinook salmon, life in the crowded confines of a Hagerman hatchery ended Wednesday morning with the whir of a fish pump that sucked them up and dumped them in the cool darkness of a tank truck.

Safe within the oxygen-enriched waters of the truck tanks, the Chinook smolts traversed the deserts of southern Idaho. Late Wednesday evening, they were finally released some 500 miles to the northwest near the confluence of the Snake and Pollatch Rivers.

For most of these fish, the Pacific-bound voyage they have now begun represents a final farewell to Idaho. More than 99 percent will fall prey to predators, fisherman, disease, hydro turbines and the harshship of barge and truck travel around treddams.

Less than one-half percent of the 327,000 fall-run

Chinook are expected to fight their way back upstream to spawn in Snake River gravel beds along the Idaho-Washington border. With these hardy few, rest, fishery biologists' hopes for the survival of Idaho's fall salmon runs.

For unlike steelhead, who have responded to hatchery release tactics with a heartening surge in return spawners, the Idaho salmon run continues to decline.

Investigation retold in trial

By PAT MARCANTONIO and DOUG WRIGHT
Times-News writers

TWIN FALLS — The police investigation that followed the shooting of two people last summer was described Thursday as the murder trial of Keith Max Rosencrantz entered its fourth day.

And with the testimony, both the defense and prosecution seemed to lean toward the prosecution's score points for their sides.

Under cross-examination by defense attorney Jeff Stoker, prosecution witness Dennis Chambers, a Twin Falls police detective, said he determined that the fingerprints taken of the alleged murder weapon did not match those belonging to Rosencrantz.

The prosecution earlier had introduced into evidence a 12-gauge pump-action shotgun found at the Buhi residence of 36-year-old Cathy Alice Gittel the night of June 18. A wounded Rosencrantz and the bodies of Gittel and Michael Wayne Lee, 26, of Twin Falls also were discovered at the house.

Rosencrantz, 31, of Castleford faces two first-degree murder charges in connection with the deaths of Gittel and Lee, who suffered wounds to the chest area.

Buhi police officer Craig McCoy testified he had lifted some fingerprints on the shotgun. The only distinguishable print, however, was found on the barrel.

The ownership of the weapon also was mentioned, but not established. Lt. Ron Romero of the Buhi police department said on the stand that he had unsuccessfully tried to trace ownership through a federal agency. The gun, however, was so old the agency couldn't help.

Romero's other testimony seemed to lean toward the prosecution's contention that the shootings were premeditated.

Romero said that a car found at the house was registered to Rosencrantz. During the Wednesday session, Elroy Keane had testified that Rosencrantz had given him the keys to his car, saying "You put these somewhere, so I won't go anywhere tonight."

Another prosecution witness, Twin Falls County Deputy Gary Kaufman also testified about Rosencrantz's alleged self-inflicted wound, which resulted later in the loss of his arm. Rosencrantz was treated for a "gaping wound under his left arm," he added.

Admission of Kaufman's testimony was unsuccessfully protested by Stoker, who called it "improper." A tape of the conversation between Rosencrantz and Kaufman "says it better," Stoker added.

Override included in school budget

By JAENE BUCKWAY
Times-News correspondent

SHOSHONE — An $851,794 budget was adopted by the Shoshone School Board this week.

The 1984-85 budget includes a $100,000 tax override approved by residents May 29 and the five percent revenue increase allowed by state law. Superintendent Kenneth Crothers said.

He said Shoshone lost one state classroom support room of $27,910 because of declining enrollment. State allotment is based on average daily attendance and officials estimate 265 students will attend Shoshone schools, grades kindergarten through 12 in the fall.

Some teachers' salaries were given for the coming year, but these increases are paid for by the money the state Legislature approved specifically for that purpose, board Chairman Rusty Tewes said.

The teaching cost for the high school is down from last year, however, since 1.5 teaching positions were eliminated this spring.

Levy for more classrooms will go to voters

By DAVE LEWIS
Times-News writer

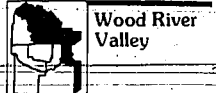

HAILEY — Blaine County voters will be asked late this summer to approve a plant facilities levy for adding new classrooms to the school district without building a new school.

In making the choice, the Blaine County Board of Trustees Tuesday rejected a building bond levy in favor of the flexibility of the savings in interest payments the plant facilities levy will bring.

The board also decided against building a new middle school in Hailey because it did not think the alignment of grades II would create the best for educational purposes.

Instead, the district will improve and add onto its existing six schools from Carey to Kelchum.

Trustee Peter Flood says the board made the decision not to build the new school on the advice of district administrators, who said the mid-school would create an undesirable alignment of grades in the district.

However, following the administrators' advice, the board voted to change the junior, high and high school alignments to grades seven and eight, and grades nine through 12, respectively, Flood said.

The junior high is now grades seven through nine and the high school grades 10 through 12. The elementary alignments will stay the same, he said.

Flood said the alignment of grades was the major reason for declining on the plant facilities levy, but the concept also was attractive for other reasons.

"The levy can run for up to 10 years and during that time, the district will be able to alter its building program if the needs change from what is now projected."

Officials expect the district to grow by 25 percent in the next decade with needs for up to 22 new classrooms, Flood says.

Through a bond issue, the district would receive all or most of the money at one time. Although it would be able to complete the construction program in a shorter time, the board was afraid that changing conditions would prove their best projections wrong, leaving too many or too few classrooms at one or more schools.

The board also wanted to give the county's taxpayers any break it could.

Flood said.

If it sold bonds, Flood said, the taxpayers would have to pay up to $2.3 million in interest payments on an about $4 million issue.

However, with a plant facilities levy, there is no interest as the district will receive the tax payments directly from the county spread out over the term of the levy.

The board has set the election for either August or September. Tentatively, the bond will be set at about $3.9 million with the district taking in $560,000 each year for six years.

A tentative building schedule also has been set beginning in 1985 with eight new classrooms being built at Bellevue Elementary School, which is expected to see the most growth in the immediate future.

From there, the district would add classrooms or make other improvements where it thinks they are needed most.

Councilman to resign

KIMBERLY — Councilman Michael Langford announced his plans to resign from the Kimberly City Council June 30, citing an out-of-state move as the reason he is relinquishing the post.

"I have enjoyed my experience on the council and appreciate the insight it has given me on the functions of city government," Langford told The Times-News following his Tuesday announcement to the council.

"As a councilman I think I have been able to bring about changes for the better, and I hope the city will continue to progress under the direction of the present council."

He added his only disappointment was not having as much time this year to devote to council activities as he has had in the past.

Currently in his third year of council service, Langford was instrumental in forming the Kimberly Recreation Council two years ago. He also served on both the city library and zoning boards.

Mayor Ron Jones will appoint a successor to Langford subject to council approval at next month's regular city meeting.

Lack of money kills Jerome air show — maybe for good

by BOB FREUND
Times-News writer

JEROME — The Jerome Air Show, an annual flying spectacle for the past four years, won't climb, loop and soar into the skies over the Jerome County Airport this summer.

The show, which has drawn spectators from as far away as Boise, has been canceled for at least this year by lack of financial fuel. Its future is — in the words of organizer Marva Walters — "uncertain."

She and husband Mark, who manage the airport and own Valley Flying Service Inc., have run the exhibition since it began in 1978 as a day-long barbecue to show off the airfield to the public. In 1980, it became the Jerome Air Show and grew to a two-day slate of professional acts.

But the husband-wife team also has absorbed its losses.

"Over the last four years, it's cost us personally about $10,000," Marva Walters says.

They no longer can afford the financial drain.

"We had to look at it just like a business and say, 'We couldn't do it,'" she says.

Behind the immediate red ink have been other costs, such as time taken away from the crop dusting service and another former business, the Prop Stop restaurant-bar.

Last year, Walters had to hire a manager to run the Prop Stop for a month so she could spend time arranging details for the show.

Volunteers to set up equipment and to sell the show to the public also has been in short supply, she says.

"We've about run out of volunteers," she says. "Everybody shows up on the day of the air show when all the glory is... but it's hard to get the footwork done prior to that."

Once arranged, the Jerome Air Show thrilled ground-bound spectators with acts as diverse as the Ray-Ban-Golf aerobatic team with its supercharged, blurring planes and the Canadian Air Force's Snowbirds, a precision team flying jets.

But the show's receipts suffered both from the weather and the public's desire to get something for nothing, Walters says.

"The weather never has been so bad we couldn't fly at all, but it has been bad enough so that people didn't want to come and watch it," she says.

When scheduled in June, the weather was cool, cloudy and threatening rain, and heat has discouraged crowds during August. Last year, the temperature was 105 degrees at the airport one day at the show, Walters says.

A healthy dose of out-of-town advertising for the event from the state tourism funds helped draw close to 5,000 spectators.

Still, the Walters lost about a quarter of the show's $21,000 expenses. "We thought last year would really make the difference (financially) and last year it cost us almost $5,000," she says.

The airport's location near U.S. 93 and along Idaho 25 also didn't help. Instead of paying the $5 admission fee ($3 for children), people would pull their cars over to the side of nearby roads, park and watch the show for free, Walters says.

Although the Walters started planning this year again, they pulled up short when they discovered that Mountain Home Air Force Base had scheduled an air show featuring the U.S. Air Force Thunderbirds on Aug. 3, the same day as Jerome's show. Other towns, such as Idaho Falls, Challis and Ontario also had booked summer shows, she says.

It's too late for Jerome to try a full-scale exhibition this year.

However, Walters still is thinking about scaling down to the same type of one-day festival that gave the air show its first wings six years ago.

The idea is still good, she says. "I've always felt the air show could be a success," she says. "But we can't continue to carry it ourselves."

Other shows, such as Idaho Falls, have solicited sponsors to back the presentations. Those attempts have been only partially successful in Jerome and Twin Falls, she says.

"Maybe people will miss it enough that we will get some type of involvement, and that's what we hope," says Walters.

"What we need is an organization that is willing to take it on and do the footwork," she says. Otherwise, it is not certain whether the show will ever be revived.

Jackpot vandalism probed

JACKPOT, Nev. — Law enforcement officers in Jackpot are continuing to investigate a series of cases of vandalism at the Jackpot airport.

Officials said 32 airport runway lights were broken last week. The airport was continuing to operate in spite of the damage, but without the full number of lights on the ends of the runway.

Jay Snyder of Jackpot said the damage would amount to several thousand dollars. He said the lights, known as threshold lights, are bright red on one side, to mark the end of the field as a plane is landing, and a blue-green on the other side, to mark the runway for landing.

Once the plane is on the field, the blue-green lights reverse to red, indicating a plane is on the runway.

He said the damaged lights will be replaced, but in the meantime lights have been spread apart for coverage of the runway.

Comments on nuclear plants

BURLEY (AP) — The Bonneville Power Administration will solicit public comments in Burley on the future of two nuclear power plants still proposed by the Washington Public Power Supply System.

Whether the plants are accelerated, stay at their current schedule or are delayed or terminated significantly affects BPA's budgets and rates, the agency said.

The June 26 meeting in Burley is one of six throughout the Northwest on the future of the plants at Hanford and Satsop. Both have been on delayed construction schedules, and for planning purposes BPA has assumed work will resume in the next several years and the plants will begin operating in five to seven years.

BPA officials believe power from the plants will be needed by that time, and they have already sunk more than $4.5 billion into the facilities. The Northwest Power Planning Council has already determined that the Satsop plant would be cost effective. It has not studied the Hanford facility.

P & Z decision upheld

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls County Board of Commissioners has upheld a Twin Falls County Planning and Zoning Commission decision to deny the rezoning of 18 acres of agricultural land along the Snake River Canyon north of Filer.

The decision, announced Wednesday, reflects the commissioners' feeling the proposal would have allowed overly dense residential development, and would not have been in conformity with the county's comprehensive plan. Commissioner Marvin Hempleman said Thursday.

Hempleman said the board also was influenced by the opposition of a number of neighbors at a public hearing Monday.

The rezoning was proposed by Gene Huggins for land he owns between a county road and the canyon rim west of Pigeon Cove.

Huggins proposed dividing the property into 13, 1.25 acre lots, claiming the land is better suited for houses than crops, because of its long, narrow configuration, among other factors.

Because of previous land use decisions, denial of the rezoning means three further residences can be built on the land without further appeal to the county. Zoning Administrator Lee Taylor told the commission in mid-May.

Welfare fraud arraignment

JEROME — Pearl Marie Hansen of Filer was arraigned in Jerome County Thursday on welfare fraud charges involving use of food stamps.

The woman appeared in Fifth District Magistrate Court on charges brought by the Jerome office of the Department of Health and Welfare.

Two counts allege the woman obtained $60 worth of food stamps between Nov. 1 and Nov. 30, 1983 by making false statements to the Jerome welfare office staff.

The second count charges that during the month of December, 1983, she obtained food stamps in the amount of $133, also based on false statements.

The complaint against Hansen was filed May 2. She appeared without counsel Thursday before Magistrate Roger Burdick and requested public defender services. The court approved appointment of the public defender and entered a plea of innocent on her behalf. The court also ordered trial set.

Obituaries

Doris Winifred Erb

BURL — Doris Winifred Erb, 71, of Nampa, formerly of Buhl, died Wednesday at her home.

She was born Feb. 7, 1913 in Buhl to Clarence and Vida Ward. She was raised and educated in Castletford and graduated as valedictorian from Castletford High School.

She attended Gooding College and later graduated from Albion Normal School with a teaching certificate.

She began her teaching career in Hollister and later taught in Buhl, Castletford, Filer, and Lucerne. She married Roger M. Erb on June 24, 1938 in Twin Falls.

They settled in Buhl, where they both taught school.

They moved to Guthrie Center, Iowa, in 1949, where they farmed until returning to Buhl in 1951. They moved to Nampa in 1958, where they have since resided. She retired in 1972 from teaching.

She was a member of the Nampa First United Methodist Church. She had been active in establishing the Nampa Art Guild and had served as president.

She had also won many awards for her paintings.

She was also a member of the Order of the Eastern Star in Guthrie Center.

She is survived by: her husband, one son, Roger Dennis Erb of Salt Lake City, Utah; one daughter, Julie Sue Erb of Boise; one sister, Mildred Houk of Boise; two grandchildren and several nieces, nephews and cousins.

The family suggests memorial contributions to the American Heart Association at 3236 Elder St., Suite 140, Boise 83702.

Services will be conducted at 10 a.m. Saturday at the Alsp Funeral Chapel. Interment will follow at 3 p.m. Saturday in the Buhl Cemetery.

Services

RUPERT — The funeral for Constance E. Remsburg, 79, of Rupert, who died Tuesday, will be conducted at 11 a.m. Saturday at the Rupert United Methodist Church. Burial will be in the Rupert Cemetery. Friends may call at the Hansen Mortuary, this afternoon and evening and at the church one hour prior to services on Saturday.

HAGERMAN — Memorial services for Edith K. Holt, 81, of Hagerman, who died Dec. 19, 1983 at her home, will be conducted Saturday at 10:30 a.m. at the Hagerman Cemetery.

WEIHS, NEV. — Funeral services for James S. Ford, 61, of Wells, Nev., will be held 11 a.m. Saturday at Reynolds Funeral Chapel. Burial will be at Sunset Memorial Park. Friends may call today and Saturday at the funeral chapel until time of services.

Hail as large as golf balls pounds through Hollister

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES Times-News writer

HOLLISTER — Hailstones, described by residents as larger than golf balls, pounded the Hollister area about 6 p.m. Thursday, breaking windows, damaging vehicles and pounding gardens and crops.

Most farmers, however, estimated crop damage would not be serious because grain and hay are still in early stages.

John Peters said his grain is still green and not very tall.

"If it were headed we would have had a lot of damage," he said. "The wheat and hay will probably both come out of it."

He said he collected about two dozen of the large hailstones and put them in his freezer. Why he saved them, he said, he doesn't really know except that they are the largest he has seen.

Several people reported automobile windshields were shattered or pounded out and many cars were left with dented hoods and roofs.

Anita Turer, who helps operate the Rogerson store, said there was no damage at Rogerson and no hail. But she said her husband was driving home from Twin Falls area on the foothill road when the storm hit.

About 15 miles northeast of Hollister, she said, giant-sized hail battered his truck, damaging windows, stripping off chrome trim and denting the hood.

"I've never seen anything like it," she said. "We have also heard of a number of homes in the town of Hollister where windows were broken out and other buildings damaged."

Cattle and other livestock that were in fields and pastures broke through fences in an effort to escape the fury of the hail.

Mrs. Kent Henstock said a steer in a pasture became frightened and jumped the fence.

"It was frightening. The sound on the roof made us think it was coming through," she added.

Hail, but smaller in size, was reported south of Twin Falls and Kimberly and wind, rain and some hail struck the Mini-Cassia area.

Salmon

Continued from Page B1 got virtually wiped out by the dams," said Rod Duke, a fisheries biologist for the state Fish and Game Department. "Without the Hagerman program they would be out of sight in a few years."

The Hagerman program — managed by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service — is part of a region-wide effort to help restore salmon runs lost to the great dam-building boom of the post-war era, in which eight major dams were constructed along the lower Snake and Columbia Rivers.

Duke said the fall-run Salmon, who normally spawn right in the main riverbeds, were particularly vulnerable to the ecological havoc wrought by the dam construction. The number of returning fall spawners once numbered more than 100,000; in 1983 only 1,500 spawners managed to make it back to Idaho; Duke reported.

The Hagerman hatchery began its salmon rescue operation in 1978, when it hatched out its first broods of chinook from eggs milked from fall spawners.

The salmon fry are transferred out of the hatchery to outdoor raceways, where they are raised to about nine months of age and developed into the smolt stage that marks their readiness for the ocean migration.

On Wednesday morning, this year's batch of salmon smolt was herded into the corners of several narrow concrete raceways by hatchery official Tom Shaw. A screened-pump ending-stuck into the raceway then lifted the fish into a metal funnel, some 15-feet high. The fish tumbled through the funnel and slid down through a metal screen into one of five separate tanks built onto the truck trailer.

"I hope these all come back 40 pounders," said Larry Moats, a hatchery maintenance supervisor, as he watched the fish flow through the pump hose. "I really miss fishing for salmon."

After the last few salmon were netted out of the raceways, the tanks were topped-off with a final spray of cool spring water. Tank hatches were shut, oxygen and aeration line support systems were checked and doublechecked, and then the truck took off down the road.

About a half-hour later, Shaw received a troubling phone call from Mike Jacobsen, the fish-truck's driver. The truck's primary generator that powered the aeration system had broken down, forcing an emergency stop and a changeover to a back-up generator. If the back-up generator went out of commission, the transfer would have to be stopped and the fish rescued by a standby tank truck.

Shaw hoped for the best and told the driver to continue on towards his Clarkston, Wash. destination. Shortly after 8 p.m., the truck arrived at the release site and the fish were pumped into the river.

Budget

A half-time teacher's aide has been added to the elementary staff to help with a large first-grade class. Crothers said.

The budget was adopted after a formal hearing at which no public testimony was given.

In other budget matters, the board set Aug. 7 as the date for a special election on the plant facilities levy.

A plant facility levy is a special tax separate from the school district operating budget and used specifically for major repair of the school building and school buses.

Strohman has had two $15,000 levies for a total of budget of $30,000 annually.

League officials downplay reduced slates

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Gem State Conference principals and athletic directors said Thursday that rumors of reductions in lengths of high school football and basketball schedules are greatly exaggerated.

In fact, they said Class A-1 and Class A-2 schools may seek permission to increase basketball games to 22.

Principals and athletic directors of the Gem State Conference, after unanimously voting Monday on a resolution, are beginning the 1985-86 school year, made these points among others as they opened their two-day summer meeting here Thursday.

But critical to all discussion, which covered baseball and football playoffs and the financial costs attendant to those competitions, was an apparent lack of coordination or communication with the superintendents of these same schools. At an earlier meeting, the superintendents adopted recommendations that directly opposed the positions ostensibly held by the league.

Concerning the matter of reduced athletic schedules, Dick Bigelow, outgoing principal at Skyline High of Idaho Falls, said the media has played the reductions prominently but overlooked the most important factor — those reductions are proposals only as administrators prepared contingency plans for the State Board of Education's new 90 percent attendance rule.

"It is true the Gem State principals included cutbacks in schedules as possible methods of meeting that rule, but that was when the 90 percent rule was starting us in the face and, without guidelines, we had to find some answers," Bigelow said. "Now that the requirements of 90 percent have fallen into place, we see perhaps not all these contingencies are needed."

The new two-tiered Class A-1 state football playoffs, also, have led to suggestions of reducing the state-allowed number of football games from 10 to nine. This brought criticism from conference athletic directors, the men closest to athletic budgets.

Highland High Athletic Director Bob Good remarked on the irony of discussing cutbacks in football at this point.

"We (A-1 schools) are instructed by the state (activities) association and our (A-1) superintendents to help the Boise schools fill their football schedules. We are adding Madison as a member of our conference, raising us to nine teams. They are reducing the number of teams in the playoffs from the original eight to six and now to four for this fall. At the same time, it is suggested it would all work better if we reduced the number of games to nine.

"That's $4,000 out of our budget every other year. It's cutting out our bread and butter," Good said.

The most common phrase of the day, however, was "spinning our wheels," prompted by a list of "recommendations" that the conference's A-1 superintendents have endorsed and sent to the state association.

In most areas critical to athletics, the superintendents were directly opposed to the programs and studies that had been developed through Gem State coaches, athletic directors and principals' associations.

These conflicts were particularly evident in the areas of football and baseball, the latter sport having been made a matter of principle by the conference this past season in the hope of obtaining sanction by the Idaho High School Activities' Association of a "state playoff" and formalizing representation and site rotation."

The Gem State Conference last fall, with the blessing of the superintendents, voted to hold a conference tournament in direct conflict with the usual state invitational. This caused some uproar, particularly in the Idaho Falls area, among fans and was generally opposed by league's baseball coaches.

"We've spent more time discussing baseball the past few years than all the other sports combined," said one administrator. "If the truth were known, most of our superintendents would prefer simply to abolish a baseball program and have it picked up in the summertime by the American Legion."

"I would like to know just who we are dealing with," said Bigelow, trying to define "the leadership" of the current invitational committee.

Crowd at top in U.S. Open

MAMARONECK, N.Y. (AP) — Hale Irwin, twice a United States Open Golf Champion, fired a 2-under-par 68 Thursday and was tied with three others for the lead in the storm-struck first round of the national championship.

Sharing first place with Irwin were Hubert Green, another former winner of this prestigious tournament, Jim Thorpe, who has yet to win any tournament on the PGA Tour, and Mike Donald, who has never finished higher than third in five years on the Tour.

The opening round was suspended for 45 minutes by a violent thunderstorm which struck the Winged Foot Golf Club course just as Irwin was finishing.

Irwin won his first U.S. Open title ten years ago, the last time it had been played on this difficult course in the northern suburbs of New York, and again in 1979.

Green, the winner of this title in 1977 but in a deep slump for two seasons, had his round interrupted by the storm that raked the course with winds, rain and lightning.

Donald was delayed by the storm and he finished in the deep shadows of early evening.

Moments later, darkness halted play for the day with six players stranded on the course. They will complete first-round play beginning at 7:30 a.m. EDT today. None of them had a chance to move among the leaders.

A single stroke off the pace of 69, 1-under-par on the course that was softened by overnight rains, were former Masters champion Seve Ballesteros of Spain, national amateur champion Jay Sigel, Curtis Strange, Fred Couples, Lenzie Clemente, Nick Seif and David Gumpel.

Among the group at par 70 were steady Gil Morgan, the non-practicing optometrist who has recorded five third-place finishes this season, Australian Greg Norman, Morris Hataky, Andy Bean, Mike Sullivan and club pro Fran Marzullo.

Nick Seif, age 44 seeking a record fifth U.S. Open title, said he was satisfied with a 71.

"I'm quite happy to be in with a 71. I think I'll play better as the week goes on," said Nicklaus, who broke a two-year non-winning string two weeks ago.

Others were not so happy.

Defending champion Larry Nelson got it in the wet, clinging rough on the eighth hole and moved it only 6 feet on one swing. The grass turned his club on another swing and produced a semi-slash. He eventually reached the green in 5 and 3-putted. He played the front 18 in 43 and stroled away with an 82 total.

Masters champion Ben Crenshaw bogeyed five of the first seven holes he played and recorded a fat 80.

Tom Kite, who makes a habit of top-10 finishes, put himself in a catch-up position in a struggling 75.

And Lee Trevino, the still-sucy 44-year-old who won the first of his

JIM THORPE
In four-way deadlock

two American national championships in 1908, had it 4-under-par and was leading the tournament alone after 12 holes. But he dropped a shot in a bunker on the 13th, went from bunker to rough and double bogeyed the 14th, then hit two trees and double bogeyed the 16th. His round of 71 included four on the back.

The problems were not confined to the players on the course.

Some found a problem even getting to the course.

Irwin, for example, was among the scores of participants "trapped" in a massive, gridlock traffic jam on the narrow roads winding through residential areas. He had to abandon his courtesy car in the jam and "walked to the clubhouse in a fury."

"I'm wondering," said Nicklaus, "how we're going to get to the course tomorrow. It could be a problem."

Galvin Peete had an even more severe problem. He was treated and released at a local hospital after collapsing on the course. He said later he had become faint from dehydration.

Arnold Palmer had no problems at all. The 54-year-old Palmer failed to a quality for this event. For the first time in 32 years, he was among the missing at a first round. He spent the day practicing for the PGA Championship at Shoal Creek in Birmingham, Ala., and shot a 67.

Tom Watson, the five-time British Open champion and this year's leading money winner, was breezing along at 1-under-par and was among the leaders before he was ambushed by bogey on the 11th and a double bogey on the 12th. He finished at 72, 2-over-par.

Hal Sutton, the PGA Ulls holder, had the same total.

Irwin, winner of the Bing Crosby tournament earlier this year, putted the first hole and was 2-over-par after four holes.

"I was thinking, 'new, isn't this a lovely way to start?'" Irwin said.

But he battled his way back with birdies on the next two holes, got under par with a 15-footer on the 11th and took a share of the top spot when he holed a bunker shot.

Piggyback?

Burley's Eyle Martindale survived this pickoff himself from Valley first baseman Mike Sorrentino and eventually managed to untangle himself in American Legion action Thursday night in Burley. For more on this and other Legion games, turn to Page B6.

Hearn-Duran confrontation tonight

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — There's been nothing so lovely as a championship fight in June for Roberto Duran, who will challenge Thomas Hearn for the World Boxing Council super welterweight title tonight.

- June 26, 1972: Duran stops Ken Buchanan in the 13th round at New York and wins the world Lightweight title.
- June 2, 1973: Duran knocks out Hector Thompson in the eighth round in Panama and retains the Lightweight title.
- June 20, 1980: Duran scores a 15-round unanimous decision over Sugar Ray Leonard and wins the WBC welterweight title.
- June 16, 1982: On his 32nd birthday, Duran stops Davey Moore in the eighth round at New York and becomes the World Boxing Association junior middleweight (super welterweight) champion.

Duran is confident he will celebrate his 33rd birthday Saturday as the WBC 154-pound champion.

"I'll beat Thomas Hearn by a knockout," said Duran. "I'm much better than he is."

When the opening bell rings, Duran will become a challenger instead of a champion. The WBA has ruled that he will have title recognition withdrawn if he fights Hearn before making a mandatory defense against Mike McCallum.

Hearn is just as confident that he will make Duran take a June swoon in the scheduled 12-round bout at a 26,000-seat outdoor stadium on the grounds of Caesars Palace.

The 25-year-old Hearn was a 5½-2 favorite to win the bout, which will be broadcast live on pay and closed-circuit television in the United States and which will be seen live and on a delayed basis in 27 other countries. It is scheduled to start about 6:30 p.m. EDT.

Each fighter reportedly is getting in the neighborhood of $3 million, and the winner probably will get a match against Marvelous Marvin Hagler, the undisputed middleweight champion.

Duran challenged Hagler here last Nov. 10 and lost a 15-round unanimous decision, which most ringiders felt wasn't as close as the official scoring. Hagler had two wins the last two rounds to win the fight on the three officials' cards.

However, Hearn said: "I was impressed by Duran's performance. In fact, I gave him the decision over Hagler. He dictated the fight. He took the fight to him, had him backing up. He outboxed him."

"He won't dictate my fight," Hearn also said. "Hagler showed Duran too much respect. Too much. I don't dislike Duran, but I won't be respecting him Friday."

The 6-foot-11 champion from Detroit wants to be known as the "Hit Man" again.

"I think 'Hit Man' is appropriate for this fight. I plan to use my ability to punch," said Hearn, adding that injuries to his right hand, which limited him to one fight in 1983, have healed.

ROBERTO DURAN
Invincible in June

Hearn is known as a boxer, not a slugger. He gained the name "Hit Man," which he disliked, as an amateur, by scoring 30 knockouts in winning his first 32 pro fights.

But since being stopped in the 14th round by Sugar Ray Leonard in a battle for the undisputed welterweight title here Sept. 16, 1981, Hearn has scored only two knockouts in winning six fights.

Superintendents should keep their noses out of athletics

TWIN FALLS — It always has been the contention here that athletics should in no way be dabbled with by superintendents. In fact, it's reaching a little to let principals have any say in the matter.

We realize that in the closely-adhered-to pecking order of public education, that isn't possible. But every time a superintendent, athleticly grounded in earlier life or not, touches things, there's an explosion.

For example, assistant Twin Falls Superintendent Carl Sorey was cited by The Associated Press earlier this week as saying that Twin Falls would give up a regular season game to help a four-team state playoff.

In the A-1 Division 1 football playoffs, Twin Falls isn't going to state very often — each time the moon turns blue is the closest guess. Our view is that it seems ridiculous to contemplate giving up a $2,500 game with

Larry Hovey

Jerome, year-in, year-out, simply so Borah or Capital or Highland or Coeur d'Alene can decide who the state champion is before Thanksgiving.

And Snow's sports fall through and through, coming to this district as an assistant football coach. He has excellent athletic credentials and gives of his time unstintingly as an official at various events.

Although we beat the drums for a state grid playoff for many years before it came into being, it currently is so politically warped that we would heartily endorse an 11-game schedule for everyone and let the public guess who the best was. This year Idaho will crown six (count 'em, six) football champions and it's still anyone's guess.

It seems completely insane that in a time when expenses are practically pushing athletics out of existence that the halved panacea is reduction in schedules. Just the exact opposite is true. The major costs of all programs, athletic or not, are there on the first day of practice. Belt tightening certainly helps. But finding additional revenue is the more logical answer and more gate opportunities are the cheapest and easiest ways to accomplish that.

Consider the cost of dressing 85 football players from helmet and shoulder pads on down and then compare that to a $400 bus rental to play a game in Pocatello and you should see the reasoning. Next year Pocatello comes back.

But back to our original premise. Superintendents tend to carry an aura of infallibility about them. The minute a man is hired by a school board to be "superintendent" he considers himself divinely gifted with infallible insight. Or, "Don't bother me with the facts, I'll come to the right conclusion on my own."

Superintendents tend to think they own all schools, which is a fact contested only by custodians who know they do.

So when the A-1 superintendents look their omnipotence to a communal site, their inspired delusions were, of course, conflicting in and of themselves but what the Gem State Conference superintendents did to their principals and athletic directors is, simply put, grounds for divorce, a sham — and a clear display of ignorance of what was happening in their own alignment. The Gem State Conference superintendents flatly walked to the Boise power trust.

They chopped away what one suggested was "a very courageous stand" to equalize the siting, representation and input on the state baseball playoffs. The conference had hoped, by replacing state invitational participation with a conference playoff of its own, to win those equalization rights. The superintendents voted to keep the state playoffs on an invitational basis, period. No instruction to enlarge the planning committee, rotate sites, etc.

One must remember that when it rained and snowed out the state tournament in Idaho Falls in 1980, the Boise-Lewiston faction decided that city would never be eligible as a host site again. Two years ago, Twin Falls High got a letter from the faction stating that due to unspecified reasons, the Bruins no longer held the host designation and the

NCAA sticks with new academic requirement

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The NCAA chose Thursday not to change a new academic requirement and took issue with coaches who say the rule could cause a great number of players to become ineligible.

"I do not foresee wholesale ineligibility," Steve Morgan of the NCAA enforcement department told The Associated Press. "There may be some institutions where there is a problem with compliance. But if there are multiple numbers of athletes at the same school that are ineligible, it would surprise me."

The "Satisfactory Progress Rule," adopted by vote of NCAA schools at the Jan. 1983 convention, becomes effective Aug. 1. It states that a student-athlete must, by the third year of his enrollment, declare a designated program of studies leading to a degree. The rule is aimed at players who spend their college careers as "eligibility majors," drifting from one easy course to another with no intention of earning a diploma.

Dick's Pharmacy of Twin Falls placed first last year, but will not compete this year.

T-shirts will be awarded to the members of the top four teams in each division, and most valuable players and batting leaders will be singled out in addition to these awards, players hitting triples will receive a coupon for a glass of beer at the Ground Round and those hitting home runs will receive a coupon for a schooner.

Games will begin at 9 a.m. both days, with both divisional championship games played at 4:30 p.m. Sunday. For more information, call Pat Labrum at 733-0800, extension 266.

Many football coaches, including Texas' Fred Akers, said last week that some schools could have major problems if the NCAA Council did not "provide some relief" from the rule.

An NCAA official told the AP last week that the number of players losing their eligibility could be in the "hundreds," but Morgan said Thursday the overall number of players affected cannot be known at this time.

"But I believe the situation is more under control than many of the coaches thought," he said. "When you talk about 200 schools in Division I that are subject to this rule, then you can obviously get 'hundreds' without having very many individuals affected at each institution." Morgan noted that the Council had significantly altered the interpretation of the rule in April. "The basic language at the '83 convention said that by the third academic year a student-athlete had to declare a major," Morgan said. "Then, on the recommendation of the academic testing committee, the term 'major' was judged to be too restrictive. So we made it read... 'designate a specific program of studies.'"

Morgan said the administrative committee of the Council decided Thursday to "develop exactly what a student needs to do to designate a program of studies. Basically, they stated simply that the student needs to indicate in writing what degree he is working toward. He will then need verification from the appropriate academic official. For example, if he says he's going to pursue a degree in journalism, the chairman of the journalism department must verify in writing that he has been admitted to a program of studies which will lead to a degree.

"If a student is not in a position after two years to even designate a program of studies leading to a degree, he will become ineligible," Morgan added. "It seems to be very unlikely that we will have large numbers of students who can't do that."

Champions enjoy boisterous return

BOSTON (AP) — Boston's new Roman Catholic archbishop gave a high-five to Quinn Buckner, Larry Bird gave a ribbing to Los Angeles Lakers superstar Jack Nicholson, and the world champion Celtics gave thanks to a quarter-million cheering fans.

Craziness reigned on the plaza outside the grim, greyish walls of City Hall Thursday at a celebration honoring the newly crowned kings of the National Basketball Association.

A crowd estimated by police at 250,000, many dressed in Celtic green, waved banners and home-made signs, chanted "Beat L.A., beat L.A.," and strained their bodies to get in the background of live television pictures.

Sally Hayward, looking like a combination of Boston's cigar-smoking General Manager Red Auerbach, singer Michael Jackson and a leprechaun, said she arrived at 7:30 a.m. to get a front row view of the 23-minute ceremony that began at 1 p.m.

The 20-year-old secretary from Boston was holding a cigar, wearing one bright green glove on her left hand and decked out in the same bright green from the top of her plastic derby to the soles of her shoes.

"You know the guy on the (Celtics) emblem?" she said, referring to the basketball-spinning leprechaun on the Celtics logo. "I'm his daughter today."

Joe Kane, 17, of Salem, stood nearby, shouting, "Forget the Sixers, forget the Lakers. The champions are right here."

By beating the Los Angeles Lakers in Tuesday night's seventh and deciding game of the NBA finals, Boston succeeded in the Philadelphia 76ers as champions.

After several hours of loud music, shouting and flagpole climbing by fans, the moment they waited for arrived.

Bird, wearing a baseball cap with a patch saying "Gibson Coal Terre Haute, Indiana," was the first Celtic to appear on the balcony overlooking the crowd. Eventually, all the casually dressed players, except Cedric Maxwell and Scott Wedman, walked out into the crowd's view.

Master of ceremonies Johnny Most, the Celtics' radio announcer, called the team's climb from being swept by Milwaukee in last year's Eastern Conference semifinals and being down 2-1 in this year's finals, "the greatest comeback of any team in history."

Then he introduced Boston Mayor Raymond Flynn, a former Providence College basketball star, calling him "a guy who didn't make the Celtics team but made everything else he tried."

Flynn called Boston "the basketball capital of the world," and presented a plaque to the Celtics and a large chalk drawing to Auerbach that depicted Auerbach and several players.

"I always thought we had the greatest fans in the world. Now I know it," said Auerbach, the architect of Boston's league-leading 15 titles. "You helped us win it. Thank you. Thank you. Thank you."

Archbishop Bernard Law told the crowd that "the Celtics deserve a high five." He and Buckner, Boston's substitute guard, then slapped palms above their heads.

Bird, who caused a stir by an obscene comment about Moses Malone at a championship celebration at the same site after the Celtics had beaten the Houston Rockets in 1981, then stepped to the microphone.

He saw in the crowd a sign similar to one which provoked his 1981 remarks. But the word "Moses" was crossed out and "Magic," a reference to Laker guard Earvin "Magic" Johnson, was substituted.

Cowboys split twinbill with Rexburg

REXBURG — Southpaw Nate Burke scattered seven hits here Thursday, helping the Twin Falls Cowboys rebound from a first-game loss with a 5-2 victory in the nightcap of an American Legion double-header.

Burke's cause was aided by a 3-for-4 performance at the plate by Scott Morgan, a two-run homer by Scott Matlock, and by a 2-for-2 outing by Matt Harr.

In the first game, knuckleball-throwing left-hander Robert Jensen stymied the Cowboys on three hits, winning 4-1.

The Pirates got three runs off Cowboy starter Darren Stuart in the first inning on two singles, a walk, an RBI single by Jensen and a throwing error. Rexburg added a run in the fourth inning on a walk, a stolen base and an RBI single by Tony Mortensen.

Twin Falls averted a shutout in the sixth when Dave Sloten walked, went to second on a passed ball and scored on an error by the center-fielder.

Jensen fanned 14 Cowboys.

In the nightcap, the Bruins took a 2-0 lead in the second when Matlock chased home Morgan with his home run. Rexburg picked up a single run in the bottom of the inning when Paul Carter singled, stole second and scored by a single by Mike Ashley.

Twin Falls made it 3-1 in the fourth when Casey Barbolomew singled, and went to second on a wild pitch and scored on a double by Morgan. In the sixth, Morgan singled, stole second and scored on a single by Harr.

Rexburg made it 4-2 in the sixth on Preston Berry's home run, but the Cowboys picked up an unearned run in the seventh when Kirk Slater reached on an error, went to third on a wild pitch and scored on a wild pitch.

The victory improved the Cowboys' season record to 6-4 and their conference mark to 3-1. Rexburg is now 5-5 for the season and 1-3 in league play.

Twin Falls will return to Frontier Field Sunday for a conference double-header against Pocatello. Game time is 1 p.m.

3-way Mayflower tie

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Donna H. White and rookie Juli Inkster both had 13 pars and five birdies to share the lead with Jo Ann Washam after Thursday's opening round in the $250,000 Ladies Professional Golf Association Mayflower Classic.

All three leaders credited soft greens with contributing to Sunday's par 67 at the 6,132-yard Country Club of Indianapolis course.

The leaders held a two-stroke edge over their top challengers.

Rookie Heather Drew, who missed the cut in nine tournaments this year and failed to qualify for another, shot a 3-under-par 68 "Turkey" which earned only $903 in tournament play this year and never placed higher than a tie for 42nd, and tied with Japan's Atsuko Higake, veteran Sandra Palmer, rookie Mary DeLong, France's Anne-Marie Pall and Sharon Barrett.

Australian Jane Lock, rookie Mary Beth Zimmerman, Debbie Skinner, Patti Rizzo and 1981 Mayflower champion Debbie Austin were another stroke back.

Hall of Famer Kathy Whitworth, trying to break her deadlock with retired Sam Snead for the most victories by a professional golfer, was one of seven women tied at 71.

Washam had the only bogey among the co-leaders, posting it on the par-4, 315-yard No. 6 hole after leaving a sand wedge shot in a bunker.

A boot sparks carver's hobby

By DARLENE WILLIAMS
Times-News correspondent

TWIN FALLS — Encouragement from a passerby on Christmas Day in 1979 was the catalyst for D.O. Welker to begin a woodcarving hobby.

He and his wife, Afon, were spending their first Christmas away from home — staying in a campground in Blythe, Calif.

He says he was sitting on a park bench outside their motor home, just whittling on a piece of wood.

"A lady came by and asked what I was making. I told her I wasn't making anything and she encouraged me to make something constructive. She brought over a woodcarving magazine with an old miner's boot in it.

"The boot was the first thing I carved," recalls the Twin Falls man, who retired from the insurance business in 1976.

Although Welker says he has worked with about 40 different types of wood from all over the world, he likes to work with ironwood the most.

Welker says ironwood is one of the hardest and heaviest woods around — "so dense it will not float in water."

It is found in the rocky, dry desert washes of southern Arizona, California and Mexico, says Welker, noting he gets his ironwood from Arizona.

Until a year ago, he says he was able to collect ironwood from the Arizona desert, but because it is becoming scarce, the Bureau of Land Management recently prohibited cutting down ironwood trees.

"Now I get it from campers who use the wood for firewood," Welker said.

"I like the beauty of the wood. You don't have to polish into the cultural and psychological impact of wood. The beautiful colors from tan to dark coffee brown appeal to me."

Welker does his woodcarving on the patio outside his Twin Falls home.

When one walks inside his home, heavy ironwood lamps and bowls

Many of D.O. Welker's carvings, like this pair of egrets, are made of ironwood can be seen in his living room.

In the den, an ironwood carving of his hunting dog Snap, a Hungarian Vizsla, is especially meaningful to him.

Another carving in the den is a buffalo, which Welker said originally was carved from about a 40-pound piece of ironwood. He says he was also able to make several other carvings from that one piece of wood.

In his family room, a collection of carvings, ranging from an assortment of birds and animals to clocks, gavels and belt buckles can be seen.

On another table in the family room, one can see carvings of miniature wooden boots Welker said he especially enjoys making.

Included in his collection is a black walnut cactus when he carved from an old courthouse banister torn down in North Carolina. A friend brought that particular piece of wood to him, he said.

Many of the woods he has carved have been given to him by friends.

When he travels, he said, he is always looking for new woods to use and collects as many types of wood as he can get his hands on.

Welker said he gets his ideas for carving from magazine pictures and the habitat he sees while camping, such as the "Arizona road runner found in his home."

"Each carving requires many hours of work and takes me anywhere from two days to a week to complete. I get satisfaction out of creating things people enjoy," says Welker adding that he is proud to say his woodcarvings have found homes in 35 states and Canada and have appeared in various art shows in Idaho and in the National Rock and Gem show in Quartzsite, Ariz.

Cute and gory don't mix well

'Gremlins.' A version of things that go bump during the night

By PAT MARCANTONIO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — They are the stuff of kiddie nightmares. Scaly nocturnal beings who love to play dirty tricks on humankind.

These little horrors are no longer confined to dreams, but are the stars of the summer's newest smash, "Gremlins."

Set in the middle-American town of Kingston, the somewhat shy, but still All-American Billy Peltzer struggles to support his family without the aid of the local bank. Billy's dad Rand is an inventor of devices that usually spatter ingredients all over the user.

On one of his travels, Rand finds his son the perfect Christmas gift in a mysterious Chinatown shop. It is an out-of-this-world, purring, singing ball of fur with expressive eyes called a Mogwai. As its former owner warns, with it comes "great responsibility."

The live creature also comes with ominous instructions. Don't place it in bright sunlight. Don't get it wet. Don't feed it after midnight.

Of course, the rules are broken and the consequences are more Mogwai's. This group, however, aren't as loving as the original Mogwai named Gizmo by Rand. The new batch is mischievous, clever and led by a particularly anti-social one named Stripe.

Worse, the little balls of fur don't stay cute for long. And with their metamorphosis into the bat-eared, toothy gremlins does the film kick into high gear.

Besides eating, you see, these nightmares love to have fun — usually at the expense of humans. They waste no time in making the people of Kingston their targets and teachers.

In one of the film's best eye-filling scenes, the army of gremlins invade a bar and mirror all of mankind's bad habits and vices. One gremlin is puffing on five cigarettes at one time.

Another break dances in pink legwarmers. Another flashes Billy's girlfriend, who is forced to tend bar for these little imitators. In one corner, a gremlin poker game is an exact replica of a human version except that its players have claws and snake eyes.

Through and through "Gremlins" is a spoof of old movies dressed in the technology and gore of the 1980s. Besides watching the gremlins, it is as much fun to catch the trivia from the old films.

Movies

Kingston, for example, is right out of Frank Capra's classic, "It's a Wonderful Life." The town is Christmasy quaint and terrorized by a rich tyrant. In "Gremlins," Polly Halloway of television's "Alice" is the nasty saint. Her performance is reminiscent of Margaret Hamilton as the bike-riding Elvira Gulch in the "Wizard of Oz."

There are also movie-buff tidbits from "Forbidden Planet" and "The Time Machine."

Despite its ingenious unfolding, the movie is full of its own demons. It lacks the magic of the slow, it honors the beginning is slow. And ending man Zach Galligan as Billy is no James Stewart.

Executive producers Steven Spielberg and Frank Marshall, of "Indiana Jones" fame, director Joe Dante and writer Chris Columbus have given the audience plenty to see.

But they also are stricken with a case of "terminal cutes." Billy and his girlfriend are cute. The town is cute. Gizmo is cute on the verge of being sickening. Such may not be so hard to swallow in the name of spoof if it wasn't for the bloody fights caused by the scene-stealing gremlins. In this case, cute and gory don't mix.

"Gremlins" is one version of things that go bump in the night. For those wanting more substance with their scare, an edition of Edgar Allan Poe would work as well.

Music videos keep rock themes, but change art form

By EMILY YOFFE
The Washington Post

The Most curious thing about the evolution of what are called music videos is that while the essential themes of rock and roll have not changed — broken hearts, rebellion and celebration of youth — the art form used to illustrate these subjects is full of dancing Nazis, prostitutes and death.

For those without cable television, and therefore without Music Television — MTV — the chance to be mesmerized by rock videos has been limited to the occasional paltry offerings of commercial television. The only real way to appreciate the cultural and psychological impact of videos is to find a friend who is wired for cable and then spend a day watching the 100 or so film clips that run in an eight-hour period. You can leave your cerebrum at home.

As in all musical drama, there are certain leitmotifs. One is that the rockers themselves, no matter how aged, remain honorary adolescents. Adults are portrayed as a loathsome species: males are either evil businessmen, abusive fathers or fat slob; females are either prostitutes, covering mothers or wretches in curlers. The horrors of adulthood are often resolved by the timely appearance of a nuclear holocaust.

Instead of the expected rush of disconnected images, many videos are linear — three to four minutes of the band performing. Sometimes the same decadent images are seen over and over, numbering, not shocking. After eight hours of MTV, one might rejoice in the narrative drive of a well-made Wheaties commercial.

Hard as it is to believe, scripts are written for these things. For many, the creative process is not as simple to explain as it is for 30-year-old Jeff Stein, director of The Cars' latest video: "It's quite easy to come up with these images," says Stein. "Just take a lot of hallucinations in your younger days."

Director Jay Dubin, however, sees the process in more deliberate terms. His video, "Music Time," was meant to recast the image of the rock group Slyx — (from the river of the same name). "The group was serious, an extremely serious act. They felt they were losing the youthful approach. They wanted something more zesty, bubbly."

"Music Time" is an innocuous little

'Magical Strings' Philip, Pam, Geoffrey, Brenin, Morgan, Marshall and Brittany Anne Boulding

Boulding family brings Celtic music to town

By TERRY RICH HARTLEY
Times-News correspondent

TWIN FALLS — A bit of the Celtic charm is coming to the Renaissance Academy of the Arts Sunday.

Philip and Pam Boulding of "Magical Strings" will be performing original compositions and arrangements of traditional Celtic music on both wire and nylon-stringed Celtic harps, hammered dulcimers, field organs and pennywhistle.

Their musical tapestry is woven from the music of Ireland, Scotland and Wales, and from their own works blossoming from the same tradition.

The music runs from lively dance tunes to gentle melodies of the ancient bards.

"Magical Strings" has toured throughout the U.S. and the British Isles, where in 1981 they won first place in the group competition at the BI-Centennial Harp Festival in Granard, Ireland.

Also, their album "Spring Tide" was named album of the year by the British magazine

"Albion Sunrise."

At home in the Pacific Northwest, the Bouldings run their own well-respected School of Magical Strings, where they teach classes in harp and hammered dulcimer, and where they design and construct their own instruments.

They concertize regularly throughout the region including Canada, where they were selected to be included on the first recording of the Vancouver Folk Music Festival in 1980.

Largely self-taught, Philip Boulding has developed a style independent of classical training methods; a style which has won the praise of many noted performers, and even been likened to "Turkish O'Carolan" (17th-Century-Irish-harpist and composer) and placed on par with Alan Silvestri.

Beginning his musical training with the violin, Boulding not only learned to perform, but to build Individuals or groups interested in participating are asked to call 543-6131 or 543-9380 on or before June 18.

'Miracle' returns for last showing

TWIN FALLS — "It's a Miracle," a musical about the traditions of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints will be performed Wednesday in the College of Southern Idaho's Fine Arts Auditorium.

Written by Joy Saunders Lundberg and Janice Kopp Perry, "It's a Miracle" uses music and multi-media style to tell the story of a Mormon youth, Michael Drake, and his development into an effective missionary for his church.

Beginning with Drake as an Elder who is preparing to leave the mission field, he meets his guardian angel and, through a series of flashbacks, the play shows the growth and development that lead to his acceptance of his mission call, his adventures and near misadventures of the mission.

Slides and film are used to provide background and give variety to the story.

One five-minute movie, "Angel in Action," is always greeted with hearty laughter, and has won three first-place awards in recent film festivals.

This will be the last performance of the show in Twin Falls by the national touring company, which will take the play throughout the Northwest and return to Boise for the balance of the year.

Tickets are available at Bell's Family Book and Crowley's Pharmacy in Twin Falls, The Book Plaza in Burley and The Bookstore in Rupert; also at the door. Admission is $6 adults, $5 children, or $5 for adults in groups of 30.

Registration still open

TWIN FALLS — Registration and placement for "Music Fest '84" will be held from 9 a.m. to noon Saturday in the Fine Arts Center at the College of Southern Idaho.

Although the deadline for registration came earlier this week, the continuing education office, can still accept a few more students for the junior-high-and-senior-high-school music camp.

The fee for the sessions, which will run June 25-30 at the college is $75, which includes lunches during the week.

The music camp, the first of its kind in Magic Valley, will allow students to expand and develop their musical talents and explore a variety of music areas. They will have opportunities for working in large groups, small ensembles and private lessons will also be available. For more information call 733-9554, ext. 244.

Daniel Stern, Boise Philharmonic director, will be featured as special guest conductor for orchestra. Two CSI conductors, Carson Wong and Larry Curtis, will lead choir and band groups.

Other instructors will include Camille Cox, vocal, piano; Janie Griff, piano, oboe; Skip Leon, stage band, woodwinds; Mary Mead, vocal, and Bruce Whitehead, brass.

"There will be master classes in piano, strings and vocal and small ensembles in brass, music theory, percussion, piano, stage band, strings, vocal, woodwinds and accompaniment.

Art classes beginning soon

KETCHUM — Community art classes sponsored by the Sun Valley Center for the Arts and Humanities in Ketchum will begin during the next two weeks.

Classes offered include: watercolor classes, 7 p.m. June 18 through July 23 at the Community Studio for a fee of $45; painting from photos, 7 p.m. June 19 through July 24 at the Community school for a fee of $50; live drawing, 7 p.m. June 27 through Aug. 8 at the Old Ketchum City Hall for a fee of $50; and drawing young people, from 10 to 11 a.m., Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays June 19-23.

New crop of shows no better than the usual

By JERRY BUCK
The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — There's this new show about a talking car, named Mr. Model T, who says funny things like "Ooga! Ooga!" and gets into lots of scrapes and wrecks on the side as a private eye with a handsome but mysterious model named Pierce Arrow.

We're only kidding, folks, but that gives you some idea of what the fall television season holds in store.

ABC's got a show called "Streetsweeper" that goes 40 miles an hour. This crime-fighting machine is almost as smart as "Airwolf," although it doesn't hover as well, except when it hits a bump at top speed.

Television is a medium of illusion, and the biggest one of all is that each year's new crop of shows seems to be worse than what has gone before. It would be hard to equal some of the clinkers of the past, although this past year, "Mama Malone" came close. So, the new shows from ABC, CBS and NBC probably are no better, and no worse, than anything seen before. Indeed, a lot of them resemble shows seen before.

NBC's "Highway to Heaven," about a probationary angel trying to win his wings by performing good deeds on Earth, has a familiar ring. The difference, and it's a critical difference, is Michael Landon. If anybody can make sentiment and schmaltz palatable, it's Landon.

NBC's "Hot Pursuit" also NBC's is a variation of "The Fugitive." Here, a husband and wife are on the lam, from the cops and a would-be assassin. The wife is a test car driver. Nach, for all those cases.

There's an abundance of detective shows, most of them with cute twists: • Lynda Carter and Lon Anderson take over the detective agency left to them by their late husband (for one of the two, ex-husband) in NBC's "Partners in Crime."

• Jon-Erik Hexum and Jennifer O'Neill pose as fashion photographer and model to put out fires in the world's hot spots in CBS' "Cover Up."

• NBC's "Hunter" is about "a pair of unorthodox undercover detectives trying to stay out of hot water at headquarters." At last, something different.

ABC continues to find variations on "The Love Boat" and "Fantasy Island" theme. "Paper Dolls" is about the "fast-paced, dazzling world of fashion." All that's gold is in "Glitter," the magazine (and show) that tells all. There's also "Finder of Last Loves," in which Tony Franciosa is a cupid who tracks down the love from your past. Count on Aaron Spelling and Douglas Cramer to make this work.

The show that sounds the most intriguing is CBS' "Murder, She Wrote." It's about a celebrated mystery writer who has a penchant for solving crimes. It stars Angela Lansbury as the Agatha Christie-like writer, reason enough right there to watch. If you need further encouragement, the creators behind it are Richard Levinson and William Link ("Columbo," "McCloud") and Peter S. Fischer ("Ellery Queen," "Columbo").

'Color of Light' an absorbing book

By CARON DEEGAN
The Associated Press

"The Color of Light" by William Goldman (Warner Books, 355 Pages, $17.50) is the story of a young writer named Chub Fuller.

Readers of Goldman's previous novels, which include "Marathon Man," "Magie" and others, may find this choice of subject matter mundane. But "The Color of Light" is neither boring nor disappointing. It is absorbing. Not a single character or incident is wasted.

Fuller is a young, gifted, writer who meets the crippled Stanley Kitchel while both are students at Oberlin College in Ohio. Kitchel must make his way through life on crutches, but his father runs Sun Press in New

Books

Review

York City, which makes Kitchel a young man with very powerful connections.

Kitchel encourages Chub to write; and he backs up his encouragement with tangible results. Sun Press publishes Chub's collection of short stories and offers him an advance on his first novel. Chub moves to New York City. But when the writing doesn't go well, he escapes back to Oberlin, where he spends a semester teaching a writing course. Chub incurs the wrath of one of his students, a 200-pound deranged giant named Peter Hungerford. Chub is certain that Hungerford will try to kill him some day. Meanwhile he returns to New York ad to a life not as a writer, but as a researcher for other authors.

His efforts at marriage are as successful as his efforts at writing fiction. He marries a former college friend, B.J. Peacock, who has a 5-year-old daughter from a previous marriage. Chub loves both the mother and the daughter; but, unfortunately, B.J. begins to compete with Chub for her daughter's affection. Disaster strikes.

In the final pages of the novel, Chub is in his early 30s. He is still a researcher with an antagonistic girlfriend as well as a publishing "groupie" named Sandy, who loves both Chub and his collection of short stories. A tragic incident involving Sandy drives Chub back to his writing, much to the delight of his friend Kitchel, who now heads Sun Press. However, Chub's optimistic hopes for the future are soon shattered. To say more would ruin both the story and the ending for the reader.

instruments as well. Before he was out of high school he had trained and become well established as a guitarist. He turned to making guitars in 1971.

His involvement with Celtic music began with an introduction to the hammered dulcimer via a recording, from which he was able to design and build the first dulcimer he had ever seen. Boulding played with the "Wild Rose String Band" for a couple years and now plays dulcimer duets with his wife.

However, in what he calls "fulfillment of an inner inspiration," he took up the Celtic harp in 1975 and it has since become his principle instrument.

Pam Boulding began playing the piano at age 4 and was classically trained until she turned her attention to painting and sculpture in college. She earned a bachelor of arts degree and completed work toward a master's of fine arts degree. Her work has been widely exhibited and has received several awards.

The Bouldings perform as a duo but are sometimes accompanied by their five children, Geoffrey, Brenin, Morgan, Marshall and little Brittany Anne. The children perform mime and dance, and play violin, cello, piano, harp and glockenspiel.

Curtain time is 7:30 p.m. and tickets are available at the door only. Admission is $4 adults, $1 students and seniors; and $10 for the entire family.

Unpredictable is word for David Letterman

By GABY RODGERS
Special to Newsday

Unpredictable is the password for "Late Night With David Letterman." Unpredictable is what is keeping a growing audience cliff-hanging at the red-eye hour of 12:30 a.m. and has produced ratings high enough for NBC to renew the laid-back host's contract for another two years.

Letterman has graduated onto the traditional interview-talk-show format (complete with band and off-beat leader) stylistic borrowings from such sources as "Saturday Night Live," "Second City," and "Monty Python" to create a unique comedy show where anything can happen.

The result is that a wildly loyal audience of mostly college kids and Yuppies is in love with such Letterman features as "Stupid Pet Tricks," "Bad Phone Calls," "Viewer Mail," "Small-Town News" and "The Panicky Guy," connected by a staff of eight post-collegiate writers, who gather daily in the make-up room to watch the taping on the monitor and take notes.

Also appealing to the sophisticated young audience is the way the show uses the halls of the RCA Building and the streets of midtown Manhattan for imaginative remote sequences that are seamlessly woven in with studio antics performed in front of an audience.

During an interview in his office at NBC, Letterman appears bone-thin from jogging eight miles a day, with a tweed hat pulled around his ears, and far from jubilant. A sense of impending doom seems to cloak his boyish, Huckberry Flinn face.

In answer to questions, he puts two feet up on the desk and winds up a pink elephant toy that waddles back and forth on the desk. To break the ice, he is asked: "Is it true that you were born April 12, 1917, in Indianapolis—the first mobile home manufactured in central Indiana?"

More discomfort shows on his face; the item is old and no longer funny, he says.

Now he starts to notice his guest's discomfort. It's not that he's trying to hide anything; it's just that he sees celebrities daily on TV making asses of themselves, and he's afraid that he'll do the same. He doesn't like looking silly.

Ah! Letterman, skilled comedian, is dead serious off-camera. Answering personal questions makes him uncomfortable. His eyes start twitching.

There's a shift—to the subject he cares about the most: how to keep the magic going every night with the right balance of entertainment and off-beat humor.

Recurring rumors that someday he will replace Johnny Carson on the "Tonight Show," and that he will marry his writer of remote sequences, Merrill Markoe, are left unprobed.

"You'll see things on our show that you're not going to see on other television shows in America," says Letterman. "Our approach to guests is different."

Letterman's goal is to get guests to be funny. "We'd rather spend 30 seconds with somebody in cameo than 10 minutes floundering about his new movie, marriage or would he/she like to live in Vegas."

Videos

ditty about having fun. Some lyrics: "I like fast girls, I don't know what's come over me, they make me do things I don't do ordinarily. . . I like fast food, the burgers all taste the same to me." Dubin, 31, says that even now, "I have no idea what (the song) about. I'm not a musician. I'm a film person."

A&M records spent about $125,000 and built 16 sets, including an entire city block, to help Dubin shoot STX. And the video does have a frenetic, comic-book quality. For the line about fast girls, a man dressed in a dog costume chases the wannabe of a pretty young woman in a pink prom dress.

To accompany this line, "They do not care about my history," Dubin had lead singer Dennis DeYoung don what looks very much like a Nazi storm trooper's uniform and lean menacingly over what looks very much like a group of elderly Jewish vacationers at Miami Beach.

"It's not a Nazi; I was very careful not to make it a Nazi. It's an Argentinian," Dubin says. After some prodding he says that when the wardrobe person read his script, she originally supplied a costume sprinkled with swastikas. "I said no, no, no." After some more prodding he adds that his inspiration for the scene came from a face in the news.

"At the time there was a big hoopla about the fellow they just deported . . . (Klaus) Barbie," says Dubin. "I thought about a guy hiding."

"It's impossible to be totally non-offensive," he says, "but I didn't want my grandmother never to talk to me again. I come from a Jewish background. I just thought it was a gag that worked in the three seconds it took to set it up and resolve it."

Dubin, who also directed Billy Joel's "Upbeat Girl" video and John Cougar Mellencamp's "Authority Song" video, as well as commercials for pimple pads and toilet bowl cleaners, says a lot of other directors are doing offensive videos he doesn't like. "I have a little boy; I don't let him watch MTV because of the incredible sadism."

Being offensive is parcellately a cause for director Graeme Whiffler. In his video of the song "Cool Places" by Sparks, a wall on one set displays photographs of Mary Jo Kopechne and John F. Kennedy.

What's what

Do the Nevada gambling casinos give out free sandals to women who show up in high heels? If not, why not? It has been proved a woman in high heels typically can play the slot machines for only two and a half hours, while a woman in flats can play for four hours.

After age 40, sir, you can expect to start getting shorter. By about a quarter of an inch every decade.

Q. When was the last time the bow and arrow was the primary weapon of a major battle force?

A. In the late 1500s when Spanish archers of the Armada attacked in 1588. English soldiers with guns. That did it. In world class combat, the bow and arrow was all done.

DRIVERS

Wouldn't it do in this welcome age of equality to make too much of the differences between men and women, but it's still a fact that far more men than women run stoplights while far more women than men switch lanes without signaling.

Q. What's the marital status of actress Bette Davis?

A. Widowed once, divorced thrice. When asked if she expected to marry again, she said no, she was too set in her self-interests.

Bullfrogs croak with their mouths closed.

SUICIDE NOTES

Not infrequently are suicide notes found in the personal belongings of people who die natural deaths. When these notes were written is rarely known. The letters of same date usually date them, presumably because they're not sure at they write exactly when they'll commit, if ever. Such notes cause concern. Investigators wonder if any heirs know about the notes. Genuine suicide notes, it's believed, are almost always actual murders.

Dr. Alexis Carrel, the French surgeon who generations ago invented the technique of sewing severed blood vessels back together, learned his craft from a lacemaker.

Medicos think one out of every 12 people never catch colds.

A thousand years before Christ, the Olmec civilization along Mexico's gulf coast used penicillin.

Most common symptom of depression, it's said, is fatigue.

Female goats have beards, too.

Daily Horoscope

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Depile a tendency on the part of a number of persons to be despulative. There is a strong undercurrent of benefits through using your charm and magnetism.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Any tensions with outside associates should be forgotten, and more affection should be shown for true rapport.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Don't try to force that new plan of action on others. Study ways to make your property more valuable and charming.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You are full of magnetism and sparkle and can gain the favor of those around you easily. Do something thoughtful.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Tonight is fine for happiness with the one you love, if you are more affectionate. Drive very carefully during the day.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Get together with good friends and show more affection so that the future can be happier with them.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Put more energy into your work and gain more benefits. The evening is best spent at home with kin.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Good day to get into the outside world and make important new contacts. Plan that trip you want to take for pleasure, but count cost.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Ideal day to show special thought for you male so if you have greater support. Trust only your closest ties and be wise.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Doing whatever will please your partners can bring in greater benefits now and in the future.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Ideas for self advancement are no good, but if you do your regular work well, you get fine benefits just the same.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) After your work is done you can have a delightful time with good friends at mutually liked amusements.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) A good day to be at home as much as you can and entertain those who can be of help to you in the future.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY: he or she will be very good at any profession dealing with the public in general so start the education along such lines and the career can start quite early in life. Teach to handle own financial affairs so as not to get ripped off by others.

Parent wants to ban all sex talk

DEAR ABBY: I very carefully select what I watch on TV because I don't want my children to see. I will not allow people with low moral standards to influence my children's lives in any way.

We don't go to PG-rated movies because I don't believe in forcing my children into early maturity. If there is even a glimpse of something sexual they should not see — regardless of how brief — they are better off not seeing it.

It is very disturbing to know that many of my children's friends get to see PG- and even R-rated movies, then they tell my children what they have seen. When I am within hearing distance I can stop the conversation, but there are times when I am not around; therefore, I am forced to tell them to refuse to listen to such talk when one of their friends starts in with it. If persistence prevails, then they are to leave that child alone.

I explain to my children that the child knows no better and the fault lies with the parents, which is unfortunate, as it makes that child an undesirable playmate.

You may not agree with me, but I can assure you that I am not alone.

CONCERNED MOTHER: Your concern is commendable. Too many parents make no effort whatsoever to prevent their children from watching violence and vulgarity on TV, or attending PG-rated movies.

But when children go to school, there is no way for parents to censor what they hear from other children. In fact, what's forbidden is usually more attractive.

The most parents can do is to try to give their children as much wholesome guidance as possible, and trust them to make wise choices.

DEAR ABBY: I'm presently sharing an apartment with a friend I'll call Carol. She's getting married in three months, which will leave me with no place to live. I can't afford this apartment alone.

Carol feels terrible about leaving me out in the cold, so she's offered to let me move in with her and "Charlie" (her fiancé) until I can make other living arrangements.

Here's the problem: Charlie has made some passes at me in the past, which makes me leery about moving in with them. What should I do? I've already told Carol I'd move in with them, and if I tell her I've changed my mind, she will be hurt and want to know why.

Should I tell her about Charlie? (It would devastate her.) Or should I go against my Christian principles and lie?

—THREE'S A CROWD

DEAR CROWD: Tell Carol you've changed your mind. Simply say, "Three's a crowd." That's no lie.

(Getting married? Send for Abby's new, updated, expanded booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding.")

THE ACES BOBBY WOLFF. Dear Mr. Wolff: Does your advice about avoiding sacrifices at rubber bridge apply to bridge scored in IMPs?

ANSWER: Sacrifices at rubber bridge are usually losing propositions unless you can find a very cheap payoff against a "certain" vulnerable game or slam. At IMPs the scoring table is different. Against a vulnerable game, if one finds a sacrifice of 300 points, one may gain as much as seven or eight IMPs. Just as important, if one misjudges and goes down 700, the loss is very small. In either game, sacrifices against contracts headed for failure are big losers.

East has only one opportunity to signal West in the play of today's no-trump venture. A tepid message is likely to produce a tepid result. An emphatic message will make it easy for West to beat the game.

West leads his fourth-best heart and East's heart jack forces South's king. A low diamond is led to dummy's king and a low diamond is returned from dummy.

Should East signal with his lowest club to discourage in that suit or should he encourage with the spade seven?

If he signals in either black suit, West most likely will go astray. When South's diamond jack loses to West's queen, West may reason that South has false-carded in hearts and he may well try to reach East via a spade shift for the obvious heart-lead-through-South. If that happens, it's curtains for the defense and South wraps up a lucky overtrick.

How should East signal on the second diamond? The rule of eleven gives him his answer. West's lead of the fourth-best seven leaves four-higher-cards-in-the-other-three-hands. The eight in dummy and South's king account-for-two-of-them, and East's Q-J account for the other two. Clearly West's hearts are ready to
