Surplus could ease looming deficit

By QUANE KENYON AP Capitol Writer

BOISE (AP) — Idaho has an extra $4 million surplus in its general fund, State Auditor Joe Williams says. But despite the surplus, Gov. John Evans says it still appears likely state agencies will have to cut spending 3 percent in the next 11 months. Based on current revenue estimates, it appears the state will be about $23 million short of balancing the budget for the fiscal year which started Sunday, the governor said Thursday.

He will decide by July 23 whether to order the spending holdback. In contrast to earlier gloomy predictions, there's enough money left over from the state budget year which ended Sunday to pay for $3.1 million in special spending, with $4 million carryover, Williams said. That's good news for Idaho school districts. Among $9.1 million in one-time appropriations contained in a last-minute "Christmas tree" bill approved by the Legislature, education gets about one-third of the money. The spending was authorized only if there were enough surplus as of July 1 to cover it. The bill contains a $2 million appropriation to public schools for instructional supplies. The bill also appropriates $1.8 million to the state Board of Education for library purchases and new equipment for the state-supported colleges and universities. Boise State University gets an extra $200,000 for furnishings for the new Morrison Center for the Performing Arts. The College of Southern Idaho at Twin Falls and North Idaho College at Coeur d'Alene will split $100,000 for equipment purchases. And the state's vocational-educational programs get an extra $250,000 for equipment. State officials, including Evans, had been predicting worse things. "But they didn't check with me first," said Williams. His office keeps day-to-day accounts on the budget, and he says it has been apparent for the last three or four months that the state would wind up the year with a healthy balance. The $4 million is to go into a reserve account to get the state back onto an accrual basis for its payroll. Two years ago, when the state faced a deficit, the administration delayed paying some bills until after July 1, in effect shifting them into the next year's budget. Williams said it will take about $6 million to get the state back on a basis where bills are paid from the same budget year as, the obligations are incurred. It will be up to the Legislature to decide whether to use the "surplus" $4 million for that purpose, or to use the extra money to offset an anticipated deficit in the new budget year. Evans drew criticism from Republicans for predicting budget problems just before the May 22 primary elections. House Speaker Tom Stivers claimed Evans tried to make the Legislature look bad by predicting a financial shortage, when in fact there was none. See SURPLUS on Page A2

'Rats' create flood Dig up canal

By The Times-News and The Associated Press

JEROME — Muskrats are being blamed for a canal break northeast of here Thursday that sent a river of water through area hay and grain fields. Northside Canal Co. manager Ted Diehl said a 20-foot break in one of the company's irrigation canals occurred about 4 a.m. Thursday morning and probably is the result of muskrats undermining the canal's earth-filled bank. Diehl said the canal, one of the main ones in the North Side system, carried 300 second feet of water Thursday morning. "There's probably a rat hole that just broke through," Diehl said. He said company personnel had been monitoring rat activity on the canal for some time. Canal company and county highway department crews were able to close the break in the bank by 11 a.m. Thursday, but Clarence Miller, Jerome Highway District manager, said water continued to flow over the roads and fields. He said until the flow stops it will be difficult to evaluate damage to the highway. The break occurred four miles east and four and three-quarters miles north of Jerome. Miller said water had washed away at shoulders on several roads and three remained closed at 5 p.m. "The water collected along areas below the canal bank and is continuing to run. We expect it to drop down sometime tonight (Thursday)," he said. The county road just below the break reopened by early afternoon but those three others a mile or more away were still under water by evening.

Crop damage was reported heavy at several fields and some remained under water at 5 p.m. Donald Brehm, whose farm is four miles north and two and one-half miles east of Jerome, said he lost about 12 acres of beans and had six acres of corn and four acres of hay under water. The hay, he said, was already in the bales but had not been removed from the field. He said the beans are too small to survive the water and silt, but said some of the corn may be saved. The rupture sent water about two miles through farm fields and in depths of up to three feet over some county roads before channeling its way to another canal. No immediate estimates of damage were available. Diehl said after a final survey of the area about 5:30 p.m. that water was going down and he didn't expect damage to be too severe. He said there were several acres of crop damage on each of a number of farms. "One of the problems we had (in making repairs) was that we couldn't get out trucks to the break because of the mud. We had to haul in dirt and build a roadway as we went in," he said.

Ruling allows some improperly-seized evidence into court

By RICHARD CARELLI The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court, concluding a term that generally expanded police powers, Thursday weakened the 70-year-old "exclusionary rule" by deciding that evidence seized with defective court warrants can be used against defendants in criminal trials. The 6-3 decision marks the first time since 1914 that the nation's highest court has narrowed the "exclusionary rule" — drawn to deter police misconduct. The new decision permits exceptions based on the good faith of police officers who believed they did nothing wrong. On the last day of its 1983-84 term, the court said that when judges or magistrates make mistakes that violate a defendant's rights — and police reasonably rely on those court actions — the exclusionary rule generally should not come into play. "The marginal or non-existent benefits produced by suppressing evidence obtained in objectively reasonable reliance on a subsequently invalidated search warrant cannot justify the substantial cost of exclusion," Justice Byron R. White wrote for the court. But one of the dissenting justices, William J. Brennan, was sharply critical of the decision. "It now appears the court's victory over the Fourth Amendment (protecting against unreasonable police searches and seizures) is complete," Brennan said. Although the decision is limited to those occasions in which police get court warrants, its wording could lead lower courts to apply it to situations in which police acted in the reasonable — but wrong — opinion that no warrant was needed. Evidence seized in such warrantless searches someday also might come under the good faith exception created Thursday. But even in its limited form, the decision marks a major victory for the Reagan administration and law enforcement agencies nationwide that for years have blamed the exclusionary rule for letting criminals go free on technicalities. "I loved it," President Reagan said when asked what he thought of the court's ruling. In other decisions, the court: Ruled that the government lawfully may deny federal aid to male college students who fail to register for the draft. Freed tapes show Kennedy cajoling officials on rights

Analysts predict more search warrant use — A10

BOSTON (AP) — Nearly 10 hours of secretly recorded White House tapes released Thursday show an earnest President John F. Kennedy cajoling mayors, governors and congressmen to accept integration in the South and support his civil rights programs. The scratchy recordings, made 21 years ago in Kennedy's Oval Office, also include dramatic meetings between Kennedy and Martin Luther King Jr. "There is a danger we will face the worst race riot we've ever seen," the civil rights leader warns the president in a White House meeting Sept. 19, 1963, four days after a bomb killed four children at a black church in Birmingham, Ala. King asks Kennedy to send federal troops to protect the city's black community, saying, "Something dramatic must be done at this time to give the Negro in Birmingham, Alabama, a new sense of hope and a good sense of protection." But Kennedy expresses reluctance at sending troops, saying it would not get whites to accept integration. "It doesn't really make them face it," the president tells King. "First of all, we've got to get the white commu-

JOHN F. KENNEDY Tapes have been secret

King led 200,000 marchers to Washington and delivered his famous "I Have a Dream" speech. At that meeting, Roy Wilkins, then executive secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, tells the president the demonstration proved there was massive public support for civil rights. "It means that they — not Martin Luther King, or Roy Wilkins or Whitney Young (another civil rights leader) or Walter Reuther (head of the United Auto Workers union) — dreamed up this civil rights business. They feel it in their hearts." The tapes, released by the John F. Kennedy Library in Boston, cover conversations from March to October 1963. Kennedy was assassinated the following month, on Nov. 22, 1963, and King was shot to death in 1968. The period was a time of turmoil, when demonstrations and violence sparked by the civil rights movement swept through the South. Bombings and other disturbances led to Oval Office discussions on the use of federal troops to bring peace to troubled spots.

Seiberling chairs House panel Key lawmaker to survey controversial roadless land

By HAL BERNSTON Times-News writer

KETCHUM — A former anti-trust lawyer for Goodyear Tire Co. will fly into the Wood River Valley Sunday. His arrival is expected to cause quite a stir. He is Rep. John Seiberling, D-Ohio, the chairman of a congressional subcommittee that will have a large say in determining the final status of Idaho's eight million acres of roadless lands. Seiberling, the chairman of the House Subcommittee on Public Lands and National Parks, will tour the Wood River Valley area on Monday as part of a five-day glimpse of Idaho lands under consideration for wilderness status. Seiberling, a downhill skier and backcountry hiker, will fly into Ketchum from McColl Sunday on a route that will take him over the White Clouds. Then on Monday he will helicopter over the Pioneers, the Northern and Southern Lemhills, Mt. Borah and the Italian Peaks area near the Montana border. The flight is expected to be punctuated with brief touchdowns to take in some of the scenic vista points. Seiberling's Idaho visit, anxiously sought by state conservationists, will help the congressman to decide how much of the state's roadless lands should be included in a wilderness bill soon to be drawn up by his subcommittee.

All of the Pioneers, Lemhills and Smokies, along with large tracts of the White Clouds and Mt. Borah roadless areas have been excluded from a bill that Idaho Sen. James McClure has successfully lobbied through the full Senate. This bill designates only $26,000 of the state's eight million acres as wilderness. If signed by President Reagan, this bill would give Idaho a total of 4.4 million acres of wilderness. But before any Idaho wilderness bill becomes law, Seiberling's committee must have its say in developing a bill. And any differences between House and Senate wilderness bills must be ironed out in joint meetings between McClure and Seiberling before a final bill can win congressional approval. If those differences cannot be resolved, then the question of what to do with Idaho's roadless lands will await another session of Congress. Seiberling, who has received more than a 1,000 letters from Idaho conservationists urging additional wilderness designations, now appears miles apart from McClure in acreage figures for Idaho wilderness. Seiberling said earlier this year that he will recommend a minimum of 1.2 million acres of Idaho's roadless lands for wilderness status. That figure will go much higher if conservationists have their way. We're recommending 2.5 million acres for additional See TOUR on Page A2

Jackson defends his trips to Central America, Syria

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP)—The Rev. Jesse Jackson on Thursday defended his trips to Central America and Syria as having broken no law and charged the Reagan administration with using "diversionary political rhetoric" to question them.

"I shall challenge any (foreign) leader that I will ever meet to release political prisoners if they are there, and to feed the hungry people if they are there, and educate children if they are there," Jackson told a news conference.

President Reagan on Wednesday discouraged Jackson from going to the Soviet Union and seeking the release of Soviet dissident Andrei Sakharov. Referring to Jackson's trip to Cuba that won the release of 22 Americans and 26 Cubans, Reagan said that the Logan Act prohibits American citizens from conducting negotiations with foreign governments.

However, Reagan said the government did not plan to take action against Jackson for the Cuban trip.

Jackson said there were other political prisoners in the Soviet Union that could use his help, and that he still intended to visit the Soviet Union and South Africa, possibly before the general election in November.

"If our government will not interfere with my visa, and the Soviet Union will not stop me by disallowing a visa, I expect to lead a peace mission to the Soviet Union," he said.

President Reagan, touring a General Motors auto design plant near Detroit on Thursday, was asked about Jackson's desire to go to the Soviet Union. Reagan said he should consult with the State Department.

Asked if such a trip would cause a problem for the United States, Reagan replied: "I don't know. I'm sure the State Department will be working things out."

In Washington, State Department spokesman John Hughes said the department "would not stand in the way" of a trip by Jackson to the Soviet Union.

And as to discussing the Sakharovs with the Soviets, Hughes said: "I don't know that private citizens have had much luck in the Soviet Union with the Sakharovs." He suggested the Soviets might not admit Jackson for that purpose.

Jackson—the Democratic—presidential hopeful, is visiting family in Greenville through Saturday.

Regarding Sakharov, Reagan said on Wednesday: "I do believe that to intervene... on this very delicate matter — on Sakharov — ignores things that might be going on in the quiet diplomatic channels that we have going forward."

Jackson responded that the statement "may have been the first revelation that such negotiations are going on. If it had such negotiations are going on, I certainly do not want to come within a mile of them."

Michael Jackson gives earnings to charities

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Singer Michael Jackson, said Thursday he will donate to charity his money from his family's upcoming concert tour and that he no longer wants fans to be required to pay $120 for a chance to buy tickets.

"I want you to know that when I first agreed to tour, I decided to donate all the money I make from our performances to charity," Jackson said in a brief news conference appearance. Neither Jackson nor his manager, Frank Dileo, said how much money might be given to charity.

There have been published reports that Jackson and his brothers are guaranteed as much as $40 million. After Jackson's appearance, promoters announced a list of more cities on the tour, which begins tonight at Arrowhead Stadium in Kansas City.

Jackson, wearing sunglasses and his trademark glittering outfit, said he had asked tour officials to arrange a new ticket-distribution process, one that no longer requires a $120 mail order for a block of four $30 tickets.

Prospective buyers had to send in a $120 money order to get in the ticket lottery. People not picked at random to get tickets wouldn't get their money back for several weeks.

"There has also been a lot of talk about the promoter holding money for tickets that didn't sell," Jackson said, reading from a statement. "I've asked our promoter to end the mail order ticket system as soon as possible so that no one will pay money unless they get a ticket."

Detention of envoys protested

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department said Thursday the Soviet detention of two American diplomats while they were engaged "in their normal diplomatic duties" reflects a growing effort by Soviet authorities to isolate their people from foreigners.

John Hughes, the State Department spokesman, said the Reagan administration has lodged protests both in Moscow and the United States against the "violation of the immunity" of U.S. diplomats Jon Purnell and George Glass.

"Soviet conduct in this case has been reprehensible and totally uncalled for, and we condemn it," Hughes said. "We are absolutely satisfied that Mr. Purnell and Mr. Glass were not involved in an impermissible activity."

Hughes said Purnell, a political officer, and Glass, a consular officer, were detained by Soviet authorities for two hours Wednesday after being taken into custody while talking with a Soviet citizen on a Moscow street.

He said Soviet authorities also confiscated "as number of documents" that the Soviet citizen had given them. The American diplomats hadn't had an opportunity to examine the documents and didn't know their contents, Hughes said.

Hughes said the Soviets also seized items belonging to the diplomats. He said he didn't know the identity of the Soviet citizen or what the meeting was about, but another senior official suggested the meeting was related to the subject of Soviet dissidents.

But the senior official, who spoke on condition he not be identified, said even if the American diplomats were talking to a Soviet dissident, they were within their rights. It would be "a perfectly legitimate function" for them, he said.

Hughes indicated U.S. officials haven't ruled out the Americans were walking into some sort of a trap. "They were arrested awfully quickly," he said.

The department spokesman also said the Soviet actions violate the Vienna convention guaranteeing the immunity of diplomatic personnel from any form of arrest or detention. He said it also violates Soviet pledges at Helsinki and Madrid for freer contacts between Soviet citizens and others.

He said the violation of the immunity of the diplomats was compounded by the Soviet refusal to permit them to contact the embassy immediately.

Party card for Molotov

MOSCOW (AP) — Vyacheslav M. Molotov, the loyal lieutenant of Stalin who was denounced and kicked out of the Communist Party in 1961, has been readmitted to the party, Soviet officials said Thursday.

The 94-year-old Molotov was ousted during Nikita S. Khrushchev's de-Stalinization drive and branded a member of an "anti-party group." Reports that he has been rehabilitated have been heard in Moscow lately.

A Soviet Foreign Ministry Press Department spokesman told reporters who asked if the reports about Molotov were true: "Yes, it is true. We can confirm it." He said the decision had been made "recently" but would give no details and would not go into reasons for the action.

State nets record earning

BOISE (AP) — Thanks at least in part to high interest rates, the state received a record return in the last year by investing idle funds. State Treasurer Majorie B. Moon said Thursday the state received $18.6 million in the 47-month period last weekend. The previous one-year interest earning mark was $14.1 million, set last year.

The interest earned by the state was about $910,000 more than estimated by the Legislature when it worked on the state budget earlier this year.

Auditor Joe Williams reported earlier in the day that Idaho wound up with a general fund surplus of about $13.1 million as of July 1.

The Public School Endowment Fund, which now has about $160 million, generated $15.4 million during 1983; Miss Moon said. That's also a record.

The money goes for public school support.

An investment pool for local government generated $3,219,199 last year, Miss Moon said, also a record. The pooled investment fund has generated $2.2 million and $2.9 million in the last two years, she said.

Missing inmate is recaptured

BOISE (AP) — An Idaho State Penitentiary minimum-security inmate who failed to return from an eight-hour pass June 8 has been captured.

Warden Arvon Arave said Robert J. Gilman, 43, New Meadows, was apprehended in Nampa Wednesday night after an investigation led officers to a meeting between Gilman and his girlfriend.

Arave said Lt. Jerry Redmond, whose investigation led to the capture, stopped Redmond and his unidentified girlfriend at 8 p.m. Wednesday after the woman picked Gilman up in front of a Nampa restaurant.

Gilman offered no resistance. He was serving a 10-year sentence for lewd and lascivious conduct with a minor and was scheduled for parole early next year, Arave said.

Gilman was scheduled to be arraigned on escape charges Thursday in Fourth District Court in Boise, he said.

Assault suspect flees court

MALAD CITY (AP) — A man wanted for assaulting a police officer here is being sought after fleeing from the Oneida County courthouse.

Greg Nielsen, 20, bolted from officers before a preliminary hearing Monday on charges of forgery, resisting arrest and assault on a police officer.

Oneida County Sheriff Ken Wharton said Nielsen attacked him while trying to escape before another court appearance on June 20.

Wharton said an all-points bulletin has been issued for the capture of Nielsen, and law enforcement agencies are concentrating their search in southeastern Idaho and northern Utah.

Search continues for youth

LAMONT (AP) — Authorities say an aerial search for a 16-year-old Salt Lake City boy presumed drowned in the Teton River will resume today.

A Teton County sheriff's deputy said Wednesday authorities are hoping the body of Kyle Jensen will surface before the search resumes. A ground search is not planned, the deputy said.

Jensen disappeared Sunday while tubing on the Teton River near Fremont. Authorities said he is presumed to have drowned.

Money targeted for jobless

BOISE (AP) — The state of Idaho has been given more than $300,000 for special retraining programs for jobless workers at Kamiah and Pocatello.

Both areas have been hit hard by plant closures. On Thursday, Frank Casillas, assistant secretary of the Department of Labor, handed Gov. John Evans a check which will help retrain jobless workers in both communities.

About 190 Potlatch Corp. sawmill workers were laid off at Kamiah when the plant closed earlier this year. And just last weekend, Potlatch announced some 350 workers would go on temporary furlough at its Lewiston operation.

The state Private Industry Council will use $155,494 to train 75 to 100 workers in new job skills, officials said.

At Pocatello, the Bucyrus-Erie plant closed last year, causing similar problems. A grant of $154,612 will be used in Bannock County for retraining.

High court overturns ruling

BOISE (AP) — The Idaho Supreme Court has ruled unanimously that a district judge erred when he ordered dismissal of a federal court action brought by former employees of the Bunker Hill Co. at Kellogg.

The Supreme Court said Thursday District Judge James Towles could not issue the order because state courts have no jurisdiction over federal courts.

And the court said a union was not a party to the lawsuit, so it could not agree to seek dismissal.

The Supreme Court upheld most of a decision issued by former Judge James Towles in a lawsuit brought by Bunker Hill against the United Steelworkers of America.

Idaho Falls losing with generators

IDAHO FALLS (AP) — The City of Idaho Falls has lost about $100,000 this year because of problems with its three bulb turbines. But city officials say the loss is insignificant and will not affect electrical rates.

Electric Division Director Steve Harrison said the monetary loss is small compared to the $6.1-million Bonneville Power Administration will pay for debt service and the $17.1 million the city will collect in power sales to residential customers this year.

Last summer marked the first time the city had to shut down its plant because of design problems since it came on line in 1982, Harrison said. Problems with the turbines' generators will take about four months each to repair, he said.

The city sells all power it produces to BPA, which is the region's power wholesaler. BPA sells the power back to the city at a cheaper rate. BPA has contracted to buy the city's power until 1988.

This year BPA will pay the city about $32,000 for power produced, Harrison said. But because the turbines have been shut down and are not producing, the city will lose about $100,000.

Harrison, who is putting together the Electric Division's budget for next year, said rates would be increased next year only if BPA increases its rates.

BPA last raised its wholesale rates last November, causing about a 10 percent jump in city electric rates.

BPA officials said the next increase would not come until the summer of 1985.

College hires business dean

MOSCOW (AP) — The director of graduate programs for the University of Oklahoma has been selected to head the University of Idaho's College of Business and Economics.

That began when Charles McQuillen resigned the post in December 1982 to become executive director of the Idaho Board of Education.

The UI conducted three searches before hiring Dacey, who is also a business professor at the University of Oklahoma.

The selection of Raymond Dacey ends an 18-month search for a dean

Diplomat nabbed, tagged as 'baggage'

By BENDOBIN
The Associated Press

LONDON — Kidnappers grabbed a former Nigerian official Thursday who had vowed to bring down the government, a regime that ousted his government.

News reports said he was found at an airport cargo terminal, drugged and stuffed into a crate labeled "diplomatic baggage."

The reports said two other men were found in "diplomatic" crates at the cargo terminal of Stansted Airport, 30 miles northeast of London. Police surrounded a Nigerian Airways plane.

A police spokesman at Scotland Yard said he could not confirm the reports.

The former Nigerian transport minister, Umaru Dikko, and the two other men were reportedly taken under police guard to a hospital and questioned by detectives from Scotland Yard's anti-terrorist squad.

Nigeria's six-month-old military regime has called Dikko its "most wanted" man, but press reports quoted officials in Lagos as saying the government was not involved in Thursday's events. Dikko was reputed to have amassed more than $1 billion during the tenure of ousted President Shehu Shagari.

The British Broadcasting Corp. and Independent Television News said Dikko was in "satisfactory" condition. The domestic news agency Press Association quoted police sources as saying a man was dead.

The former transport minister was bundled into a yellow van at about 12:30 p.m. and driven away from his apartment block near Marble Arch in the central London neighborhood of Bayswater, witnesses told police.

Police spokesman Mike Cobb reported that witnesses said Dikko was struggling with his kidnappers, both black, as the van sped away.

The Foreign Office said it asked the Nigerian High Commission, or embassy, to explain why a member of its staff was at the airport Thursday.

Press Association said the first hint of a possible incident came when Stansted customs officers telephoned the Foreign Office and reported doubts about a diplomatic consignment, which normally would be immune from inspection, that apparently did not meet specifications.

The consignment was opened in the presence of a Nigerian embassy staff member. The report did not say why the consignment did not meet specifications.

The agency reported that a black man was seen being driven away in a black Mercedes from the cargo area, which was sealed off by police.

Dikko has been described in the press as Shagari's brother-in-law, but a campaign pamphlet prepared for last year's Nigerian elections denied this.

Mystery person buys $10-million painting

LONDON (AP) — An anonymous private collector paid a world record price of 7.37 million pounds, the equivalent of $10 million, in London on Thursday for a seascape painted by the British artist J.M.W. Turner.

The painting had belonged to the late Lord Clark, the art historian known as Kenneth Clark who presented the British television series "Civilisation."

Leggatt Brothers, the London art dealers who successfully bid for the picture called "Seascape: Folkestone" at a Sotheby's auction, would say only that they acted for "an anonymous private collector."

They refused to disclose the buyer's nationality.

There was a report immediately after the sale that the buyer was the Dallas Museum in Texas or another U.S. museum, but no confirmation could be obtained.

Attacks on ships resumed

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) — Iran resumed its attacks on commercial ships in the Persian Gulf on Thursday, "slightly damaging" a Japanese-operated oil tanker in an air strike far from the Iran-Iraq war front.

Nation's salvage sources reported there were no injuries to the ship's crew and that it was sailing toward the Strait of Hormuz. It was the first Iranian attack on shipping since June 10 and followed air strikes Sunday by Iraq on ships in the northern end of the Persian Gulf near Iranian ports.

Bahrain's Foreign Minister, Sheikh Mohamed bin Mubarak, meanwhile, was quoted as urging Iraq and Iran to stop raiding tankers and freighters, and warning that Arab nations in the Persian Gulf will fight back if attacked.

The 276,000-ton Liberian-registered Primrose, on charter to Japan Line Ltd., was hit 75 miles southwest of Iran's Lavan Island, in the southern sector of the gulf. The attack came about 15 hours after the Primrose had loaded 250,000 tons of crude from the Saudi Arabian port of Ras Tanura and departed for Europe.

The damage is minor, and there's no need to send salvage tugs to help out the tanker, said a spokesman for the Dubai Marine Salvage Association, reached by telephone from Bahrain.

The Primrose was attacked in international waters, far from the military operations zones of Iraq and Iran, shipping sources said. Iran and Iraq have been at war since 1980.

The sources noted that oil tankers were easy targets for modern aircraft. They speculated the Iranians wanted to remind the world, and particularly Iraq and its Arab financial backers in the gulf, that they will respond to Iraqi attacks on Iranian ships.

Despite the attack, the Primrose was proceeding "at full speed" toward the Strait of Hormuz, the spokesman said, adding there were no injuries to the crew of 30 Japanese.

No details were immediately available on the type of jets or rockets used in the attack.

In Tokyo, a spokesman for Japan Lines said the tanker was hit twice as one projectile penetrated an engine room boiler but there was no explosion.

U.S. envoy meets with Soviet chief

MOSCOW (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Arthur Hartman and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko met for about an hour on Thursday, but an embassy spokesman would not say what was discussed.

"They met for a bit over an hour," said the spokesman, who spoke on condition he not be identified. "They discussed questions of mutual interest." He said he could not elaborate.

The official news agency Tass reported the meeting, but gave no details other than to say Hartman had requested the meeting.

The U.S. Embassy official would not respond to questions about whether the meeting was to discuss the recent U.S. announcement that it accepted a Soviet request to meet in Vienna this fall to talk about banning weapons from space.

It was also considered possible that Hartman wanted to discuss the Soviet detention of two U.S. diplomats on Wednesday. Political officer Jon Purnell and consular officer George Glass were detained for two hours for "talking to a Soviet citizen," according to an embassy spokesman.

Anatoly Dobrynin, the Soviet ambassador to Washington, arrived in Moscow on Wednesday and said the United States and the Soviet Union were "negotiating" about whether the Vienna talks could be held.

The United States accepted the July 29 Soviet request to hold space weapons talks this fall, but said that Moscow should also be willing to discuss other nuclear arms issues.

Hartman's last announced meeting with Gromyko was in April.

Russian forgiven

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Egypt said Thursday it had decided to resume full diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union but stressed the move would not affect its close ties to the United States and other Western nations.

Osama El-Baz, director of President Hosni Mubarak's political office, told a news conference no date has been set for the exchange of ambassadors with the Soviet Union. But the usually authoritative newspaper Al-Ahram, said the move was expected by early August.

Retail sales stronger

By CHRISTOPHER LINDSAY
AP Business Writer

The nation's major retailers reported Thursday they had strong sales in June compared with June 1983, but said the gains had slowed a bit from earlier in the year.

June sales were up 7.5 percent at Sears, Roebuck & Co., the nation's largest retailer, sales were up 6.3 percent at Target Corp., 17 percent at J.C. Penney Co., 11.7 percent at Federated Department Stores Inc. and 14.6 percent at Dayton-Hudson Corp. Those stores are the second through fifth-largest retailers, in terms of 1983 sales.

Earlier this year and for all of 1983, the post-recession sales increases reached double digits, with some 20 percent higher.

Robert Christian, chief economist with the National Retail Federation in Philadelphia, said the more dramatic increases registered earlier in the year were comparisons with "the pits of the recession." He said the June figures were much more reasonable.

Jeffrey Edgerly, retail store analyst with the Wall Street firm Merrill Lynch Inc., said his company expected increases through the second half of the year to be similar to those posted in June, as retailers keep their eyes on the Christmas season.

"When you make all your money," Edgerly said, "many retailers tally 50 percent of their sales in the final three months of the year."

The sales reports coincided with the release Thursday of a survey by the Conference Board, a business research organization, that said consumer buying plans were at the year's highest level last month.

Families with plans to buy new cars rose to 10 percent of those surveyed in June from 8 percent the previous month, the Conference Board said. Home-buying plans, which were 57.6 percent in May, remained about the same, 5.8 percent versus 5.7 percent; while plans to buy new appliances rose to 34 percent from 27 percent.

Sears, the world's largest retailer, said its sales last month, with major gains in appliances and home entertainment merchandise, were a record $2.52 billion, up from $2.35 billion in June 1983. That month in turn was particularly strong month compared with the depressed sales of June 1982.

For the retailing fiscal year, which begins with February, Sears' sales were a record $102.26 billion, up 6.8 percent from $9.61 billion.

Second-ranked K mart cited gains on seasonal goods such as fans and air conditioners. In reporting its sales increase, sales totaled $1.96 billion, up from $1.84 billion.

For the fiscal year, sales were $7.75 billion, up 6.9 percent from $7.24 billion.

J.C. Penney, ranked third, said sales in June reached $1.11 billion from $945 million a year ago. For the year, sales were up 17.6 percent to $4.48 billion from $3.81 billion.

Federated, which operates chains nationwide under a number of names, said June sales reached $117.2 million, compared with $73.1 million a year ago. For the year, Federated said sales were up 11.9 percent to $3.55 billion from $3.17 billion.

Fifth-ranked Dayton-Hudson said June sales rose to $68 million from $69 million. For the year, the increase was 16.8 percent to $4.83 billion from $2.43 billion.

Discounting the revenue of newly opened stores, Dayton-Hudson's sales were up 8.3 percent in the month and 8.4 percent for the year.

In other sales reports: Sixth-ranked Montgomery Ward, a subsidiary of Mobil Corp., reported a June sales increase of 9.6 percent to $95 million from $54 million.

No. 7 F.W. Woolworth Co. said domestic and foreign sales for June were up 5.3 percent to $65 million from $50 million.

Wal-Mart Stores Inc., the swifly expanding regional discount operation headquartered in Bentonville, Ark., said June sales rose 44 percent to $325 million from $226 million.

Discounting newly opened stores, Wal-Mart's sales were up 23 percent in June and 19 percent for the year to date.

May Department Stores Co., the No. 9 retailer, said June sales were $408 million, up 12 percent from $365 million.

Tenth-ranked R.H. Macy & Co. Inc. said June sales were $389 million.

Interest fears drag stocks down

NEW YORK (AP)—Concern over interest-rate prospects sent stock prices tumbling Thursday in the lightest trading in more than six weeks.

Precious-metal stocks recorded some of the biggest losses as the price of gold and silver fell to their lowest levels in nearly two years.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks dropped 9.72 to 1,123.56, wiping out the 4.20-point gain it posted on Tuesday, before the July 4 holiday.

Volume on the New York Stock Exchange, however, was plentiful, with a record of 69.96 million shares in the previous session and the lightest total since a 64.90-million share day on May 14.

Brokers said activity was expected to remain light through the end of the week, with a good many investors taking an extended Independence Day break.

Among mining stocks, ASA Tell 3/4 to 5 1/4; Homestake Mining 2 1/2 to 2 1/4; Asarco 1 1/2 to 2 1/4; Campbell Red Lake 1 3/4 to 2 1/4; Callahan Mining 1 1/2 to 1 3/4; and Hecla Mining 1/2 to 1 1/4.

Holiday issues led the active list, down 4 1/4, at 20 1/2. The company estimated a 10 percent earnings decline for the second quarter.

Hughes' Total dropped 3 1/2 to 11 1/2.

Soviets buy more wheat

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Soviet Union has bought an additional 225,000 metric tons of wheat about 6.3 million bushels—for delivery this year under a new long-term agreement that took effect last Oct. 1, the Agriculture Department said Thursday.

After a three-month absence in the U.S. grain market, the Soviets resumed purchases last week. Counting the latest sales purchase since last Friday total nearly 1.43 million tons, all wheat.

Although the latest surge of buying is substantial, by no means is it a record pace. In one week of July 1975, for example, the Soviets bought 9.8 million tons of U.S. grain.

The sale was reported to the department by private exporters, as required by law. No prices or other details were disclosed.

However, the department says the latest estimated farm price of wheat is $3.35 per bushel.

Mortgage rates soar by 14%

WASHINGTON (AP)—Home the average fixed-rate mortgage hitting 14.75 percent.

The new rate was up from 14.35 percent in May and it marked the third straight month that the average mortgage rate has been above 14 percent, according to the Federal Home Loan Bank Board said Thursday.

After rates hit 14.08 percent in October they declined to 13.69 percent in February before starting to rise again.

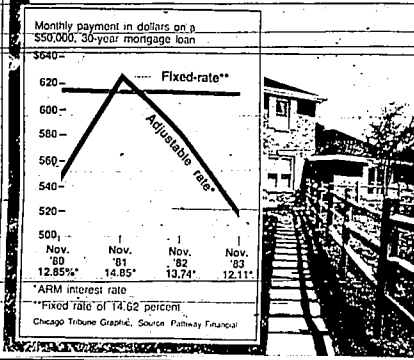

Housing industry officials have blamed rising mortgage rates for a fall-off in sales. The government reported last week that sales of new homes declined in May for the third consecutive month, dropping 4.4 percent to an annual rate of 612,000 units.

Rates were also up in June for adjustable rate mortgages, which accounted for 65 percent of all mortgages taken out during the month.

Consumers paid an average of 12.28 percent for adjustable rate mortgages with limits on the amount rates can change, compared with 12.64 percent in May and 11.90 percent in April.

For adjustable rate mortgages with unlimited changes, the average rate was 12.84 percent for June. This was up from 12.44 percent in May and 12.43 percent in April.

Comparing mortgage loans

Adjusted changes have higher rates because they are usually locked once every three years while the rates on capped mortgages are generally adjusted once a year.

The number of major lenders offering fixed-rate mortgages rose slightly in June to 72.9 percent, up from 70.5 percent.

The percentage offering adjustable rate mortgages with limited rate changes also increased to 45.4 percent from 43.6 percent. However, the number of lenders offering adjustable rate mortgages with no limits dropped slightly to 50.1 percent from 50.9 percent.

Ruling to boost use of search warrants

By MICHAEL WINES
Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — Law enforcement officials and civil libertarians alike agree that Thursday's Supreme Court decision narrowing the 70-year-old exclusionary rule will trigger a jump in the number of search warrants sought and obtained by police.

But although enforcement experts say that will lead to swifter prosecution of lawbreakers, critics forecast an equally swift rise in police searches of innocent people — with potentially dramatic effects on the average citizen's right to privacy.

Such differences separate the two sides on almost every question surrounding the impact of the court's decision, already viewed as the most important criminal justice opinion in years. The court's 6-3 ruling creates a "good-faith" exception to the exclusionary rule, allowing judges to admit illegally seized evidence if police believed they were acting legally at the time of the seizure.

Enforcement officials, who argue that the suppression of illegally seized evidence allows criminals to escape jail through legal loopholes, were elated. San Diego County District Attorney Ed Miller, president of the National District Attorneys Association, called the ruling "a great day for the American public and for law enforcement."

Attorney General William French Smith said the decision "gives recognition to the principle that the ascertainment of truth is a priority in our criminal justice system."

But James J. Fyfe, a 16-year veteran of the New York City police force who is a senior fellow at the Washington-based Police Foundation, differed. "This really opens the door for those few bad cops" who are likely to abuse the search warrant procedure, he said. "There's no remedy for an unreasonable search anymore."

The decision stems from a Burbank, Calif., case in which a U.S. District Court disallowed the admission as evidence of quantities of cocaine and other drugs seized under an illegal warrant.

The Burbank policeman who oversaw that 1982 case was jubilant. "No innocent person ever went to jail because of the exclusionary rule," Lt. David Newsham said. "It only put guilty people back onto the street."

"It's a landmark decision in the right direction for law enforcement," added Assistant Los Angeles Police Chief Robert Vernon.

Protection against unreasonable search and seizure is the essence of the Fourth Amendment to the Constitution, written to protect citizens from searches like those staged by British soldiers in colonial America. The court previously has held that evidence found with an illegal search warrant could not be used in a trial, even if it proved criminal conduct.

Civil liberties experts charge Thursday's ruling renders that deterrent toothless, because it allows illegal evidence to be thrown out only if a warrant is issued recklessly or unreasonably.

Burt Neuborne, legal director of the American Civil Liberties Union, predicted the decision will trigger "a quantum upsurge of police intrusion into the lives of law-abiding Americans."

Neuborne said, "The court's reading of the exclusionary rule may be perfectly adequate to deal with a policeman who violates the exclusionary rule in bad faith. But it's completely inadequate to deal with a policeman or a magistrate who simply hasn't given serious consideration to Fourth Amendment values before he acts."

About 15,000 of the officials empowered to issue search warrants are justices of the peace, many without legal training, Neuborne and others noted.

The court's decision will lead police to shop for officials who will grant warrants with little justification, predicted California attorney Marshall W. Kruse, a member of the National Assn. of Criminal Defense Lawyers.

Arson likely in fatal blaze

BEVERLY, Mass. (AP) — An arsonist apparently set two fires in a seedy rooming house that quickly turned the building into an inferno and killed 14 down-and-out residents, a state official said Thursday.

While investigators made the arson determination, officials tried to identify six of the badly charred victims through dental records and jewelry found on their bodies. A forensic dentist had identified three victims by mid-afternoon. Five were identified Wednesday.

The fire was "a case of deliberate arson," said Mayor F. John Moahan, calling it "a horrifying development in a horrifying story."

Shuttle launch to be decided

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — No decisions are expected until next week on a new launch date for the space shuttle Discovery and whether the ship's maiden flight will be modified, NASA said Thursday. A determination could be made next Tuesday, said an agency spokesman. The launch was aborted June 26, just four seconds before Discovery was to lift off with a crew of six. A computer ordered a halt to the engine firing sequence when it detected the failure of an engine valve to open. Analysis of the failure is continuing, with "loose insulation" on a liquid hydrogen fuel line considered a possible candidate for blame.

Robots evolve to modern art

Artist finds materials anywhere

By PAT BEAN
Times-News writer

BOISE — Clayton Bailey finds art objects in funny places — Junk yards and flea markets.

And what he has been finding recently has been going into the creation of a series of fanciful robots, which are now on display at the Boise Gallery of Art through Aug. 5.

The University of California ceramicist's robots are made from teapots, clocks, radios and vacuum cleaner and bicycle parts, among other things.

Strictly a tongue in cheek exhibit, the Boise exhibit a variety of electronic behaviors — from flashing lights to playing a built-in radio. Exhibit viewers can press buttons and step on floor pedals to their host's content.

As one wanders through the exhibit, laughter can be heard from various spots around the gallery.

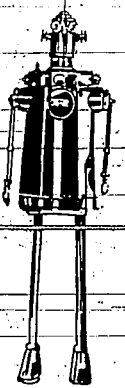

One corner in particular seems to be the catalyst for loud guffaws. The object of the light-heartedness turns out to be an adult robot with a working drill placed in an obvious position on a definitely male robot. No more explanation on this one — one has to see it for himself.

One robot, entitled ape guard, has red-flashing eyes. Another comes complete with a built-in clock radio.

It's not your average art exhibit, that's for sure.

Nor is Bailey's accompanying exhibit also on display at the gallery. It's "Dr. Gladstone's Bigfoot Museum," an earlier work created by the artist that pokes fun at the world of science.

Review

If you're in the neighborhood of Boise between now and Aug. 5, a visit to the gallery just may prove a chuckle or two. Just don't take the artist seriously — he evidently doesn't take himself that way.

Gallery hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Friday and noon to 5 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday.

Cast of 100 offers music, and more

By TERRY RICH HARTLEY
Times-News correspondent

TWIN FALLS — There's gonna be trouble, my friends, right here in River City. And it will be in the form of "The Music Man" presented by the Kimberly-LDS State at the College of Southern Idaho Arts Auditorium July 12, 13, and 14.

Lynley Freeman is producer of this burgeoning musical comedy that has a cast of approximately 100. MaryAnn Stanger is director. John Hunt plays the lead role of Harold Hill and Renee Allen has the lead female role of Marian Paroo.

"The Music Man," book, music and lyrics by Meredith Willson, is a musical comedy based on Willson's memories of his childhood in Iowa.

His protagonist, Harold Hill, is a slick, conniving salesman of musical instruments and band costumes.

He travels across the Midwest promising townspeople he will deliver these instruments and provide free music lessons if they will pay him in advance.

One small problem: Hill doesn't know the slightest thing about the instruments and couldn't give legitimate lessons even if that was his intent. He simply takes the money and absconds.

However, when he reaches River City, Iowa, in 1912, the con-man is felled by two unforeseen developments — He falls in love with the local librarian-piano teacher, Marian Paroo — the only one who really knows he is a crook but is willing to ignore this unsavory fact because she loves him.

The other development is the contagious spirit generated in the town for song and dance that infects even our charlatan.

The author got many of his ideas for the musical from his own background since he spent his early years in that type of environment. Going on from these small town beginnings to make his own mark in musical circles, Willson played flute and piccolo in John Phillip Sousa's band and continued by writing books, songs and, of course, musicals.

"The Music Man" brought Willson his greatest acclaim with Tony and Grammy awards. The author died June 16 of this year.

Musical director Gene Conley, choral director Pat Bates, and choreographer Krista Kely are kept busy from all this action which includes 19 musical numbers and virtually never-ending action.

Songs include "76 Trombones," "Pick-a-Little, Talk-a-Little," "Rock Island" and "Goodnight My Someone."

Female lead, Renee Allen says they have been working on the play since tryouts at the end of April and, "We're coming along real well," she adds.

Publicity director, Reed Tucker, agrees with that and then some. "This is on the same par with Dillillane or Northside Playhouse," Tucker says, "only we don't perform as often."

"By the time you get a full cast, orchestra and everything together, it's a full undertaking," he says, adding, "We paid $600 just for the script."

Tucker, who also plays the mayor of River City, says the musical will last about two-and-a-half hours, the characters will be in theme costume, and setting will include realistic background scenery.

"I don't want to give out the impression that this performance is only for LDS members," Tucker says emphatically. "It's open to the public and we're soliciting all the support we can get."

General admission for "The Music Man" is $4 adults, $3 students 17 and under. Tickets can be purchased at Crowley's Drug, Sounds Easy, Tucker Lumber and Kids Clothes and Toys in Twin Falls; Sounds Easy in Kimberly; Hendrickson Sewing Center in Jerome; Sounds Easy in Burley. Phone reservations may be made by calling 423-4373, afternoons.

Wood River's festival opens on brass quintet

SUN VALLEY — In a natural amphitheater of surrounding mountains, with the swiftly moving waters of Trail Creek muttering in the background, the Heritage West Brass Quintet opened the third annual Wood River Music Festival with an outdoor concert before a sellout audience of picnicers at Sun Valley's Trail Creek Cabin.

This was the first of six performances sponsored for the Sun Valley Center for the Arts and Humanities — still to come are performances July 7, 9, 11 and 15.

This concert series first came about through the efforts of Bud and Ellen Green, who moved to Sun Valley from their native Minneapolis, and found no replacement for the Minnesota orchestra's classical music they so thoroughly enjoyed. Being people of action, the Greens were instrumental in bringing the Bakken String Quartet of Minneapolis to the Wood River Valley and three years ago, the Wood River Music Festival was born. This year, in addition to the Bakken String Quartet, the Heritage West Brass Quintet from Salt Lake City also will be on the program, along with pianists Jay Mauchley, and Alexander Braginsky.

The performances will feature classical composers from Mozart to Mendelssohn, interspersed with the works of popular music composers, Scott Joplin and John Phillip Sousa.

Many of the compositions were written specifically for chamber orchestras and both the Brass quartet and Bakken string quartet describe themselves as chamber music groups. Bruce Roberts, Heritage West's french horn player, calls chamber music "soloists who come together to play a smaller version of what a full symphony performs."

Heritage West's trombonist, Randy Thornton, said, "It's more intimate. Chamber orchestras were designed to do what the same implies, play in people's chambers. Translated, that means any large room in the house. The wealthy often kept house musicians in lieu of hiring a full symphony to entertain their guests."

When asked if all five musicians were from the Salt Lake area, Thornton said, "Four of us are. However, the tuba player is from Honolulu, which does make it difficult to arrange practices."

The Heritage group may not practice together that often, but it wasn't apparent to the overflow au-

'Temple of Doom' is edged

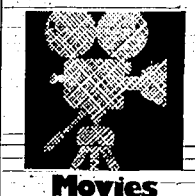

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Cannonball II" and "Cannon the Destroyer" made big splashes at theaters over the weekend, knocking "Indiana Jones and the Temple of Doom" a couple of notches down the list of top-grossing movies.

The new movies — both sequels — landed third and fourth among the leading films in the United States and Canada last weekend, dropping "Indiana Jones" to No. 5. But the new kids on the block could not displace "Ghostbusters" and "Gremlins," which went one-two for the fourth straight week.

"Cannonball II," a star-studded racing yarn in which Burt Reynolds, Dom DeLuise, Dean Martin and Sammy Davis Jr. reprise their roles from the 1981 original, Yeared away from $8.3 million at 1,778 theaters Friday through Monday, the entertainment newspaper-Daily-Variety said Tuesday.

"Cannon the Destroyer," with musician Arnold Schwarzenegger joined by former basketball star Wilt Chamberlain and singer Grace Jones, grabbed a hefty $6.9 million at 1,120 screens for the weekend.

"Indiana Jones" could do no better than fifth in the face of the new competition, taking in $5.7 million at 1,546 screens. However, all these movies still looked like also-rans when compared with the huge $126 million "Indiana Jones" has grabbed in its first six weeks of release.

The only film that conceivably could accrue more than "Indiana Jones" this summer is "Ghostbusters," which has tallied $30.5 million in four weeks. The film starring Bill Murray, Dan Aykroyd and Harold Ramis showed little sign of fading, commanding a strong $11.2 million at 1,464 theaters last weekend.

"Gremlins" did not go away either, posting $9 million at 1,511 screens for a $70.4 million total in four weeks.

Another new release, "Bachelor Party," finished No. 6 for the weekend with $4.8 million at 1,081 theaters, while "The Karate Kid" was seventh with $4.5 million at 838 theaters.

Here are the top 10 grossing films last weekend, with studio, number of weeks in release, weekend gross and total gross.

- "Ghostbusters," Columbia, $11.2 million, $30.5 million, four weeks
- "Gremlins," Warner Bros., $9 million, $70.4 million, four weeks
- "Cannonball Run II," Warner Bros., $8.3 million, one week
- "Cannon the Destroyer," Universal, $6.9 million, one week
- "Indiana Jones," Paramount, $5.7 million, $126 million, six weeks
- "Bachelor Party," 20th Century Fox, $4.8 million, one week
- "The Karate Kid," Columbia, $4.5 million, $12.4 million, two weeks
- "Rhinestone," 20th Century Fox, $3.5 million, $11.5 million, two weeks
- "Star Trek III," Paramount, $3.1 million, $39.7 million, six weeks
- "Top Secret," Paramount, $3.1 million, $9.3 million, two weeks

Duncan Idaho's clone comes back

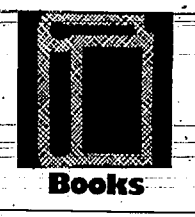

By WAKA TSUNODA
Associated Press writer

Nearly 20 years ago Frank Herbert burst on the science-fiction scene with a novel simply called "Dune," which told the story of a planet of that name.

The planet was on the verge of dehydration, and the natives dealt with the problem by wearing "still suits" that enabled them to reclaim their body moisture and live on a few ounces of water daily.

This scarcity of water inevitably produced a unique culture, and Herbert's description of every aspect of it won him awards and a cult following of fans. The book became the subgenre of "ecological" science fiction.

Since then, the author has written sequels "Dune Messiah," "Children of Dune," "God Emperor of Dune." Now comes the fifth, "Heretics of Dune."

sort of clone — of a man named Duncan Idaho is growing up. He was a character in the original "Dune." Elsewhere, a young girl named Sheeana, who seemingly has the ability to command "giant sandworms," which some believe to be gods, is also growing up.

Review

"Heretics," like the others, is not nearly as impressive as the original "Dune," in the sense that there is no new spectacular flight of imagination. As the book opens, the "ghola" — a sort of clone — of a man named Duncan Idaho is growing up. He was a character in the original "Dune."

Elsewhere, a young girl named Sheeana, who seemingly has the ability to command "giant sandworms," which some believe to be gods, is also growing up.

And Mother Superior of "Bene Gesserit," an ancient school of mental and physical training, obviously has some design for them. What is it? Unfortunately, it turns out to be nothing worth waiting for.

Besides, the novel is so full of incomprehensible jargon of Herbert's invention that it is impossible to make any sense out of it without studying the just-released glossary of terms and all.

Anyone who wants to begin from the beginning, however, can now do so. Coinciding with the publication of "Heretics," the publisher reissued the original "Dune" — glossary of terms and all.

What's what

Would you describe as "degrading" that vehicle known as the "rickshaw"? Certainly, contend officials in India's Calcutta. They've burned 18,000 rickshaws so far. The men who pull them, however, don't feel all that degraded, saying "It's a living." Or words to that effect. A missionary invented the "rickshaw" in Japan and other missionaries popularized it throughout Southeast Asia. To convey godliness, presumably.

Q: Who invented that Oriental medical treatment called acupuncture?

A: Chinese soldiers of 5,000 years ago, according to a generally-accepted legend. When ever wounded by arrows, they realized their other aches and pains disappeared.

Q. How many U.S. Navy women are qualified to fly jets, multi-engined aircraft and helicopters? A. Eighty, at last report. And 13 of them are on active duty as helicopter pilots.

CESARIANS

One out of four babies hereabouts now is born by cesarian. In 1946 one out of 50 was so delivered. Why this change? asks a client. It's safer — for the doctor. Or so says a medical researcher. What the obstetrician fears most, this authority contends, is the malpractice suit.

Woman embarrassed by lack of math skills

DEAR ABBY: So you think you've heard it all? Well, please don't make a face or roll your eyes up into your head when you find out what I want.

First off, I am no dummy, but there are times when I think I am. There may be others who suffer from the same problem. I, so, you may print this but for heaven's sake don't use my name.

Abigail VanBuren
Dear Abby

I am a 22-year-old married woman who is absolutely stupid when it comes to math! I can count money, and if I take my time I can figure out how much to tip, but if I'm in a big hurry I draw a complete blank! Recently I went to a sale where all merchandise was marked 25 percent off, and I felt like a fool because I couldn't figure how much I'd have to pay for a dress marked $110.

I know they offer classes for people who are illiterate, but how about people who need to learn math from the bottom up? I'm ashamed to admit I need that kind of help. (Nobody would believe it.)

PENNSYLVANIA DUMMY
DEAR PENNSYLVANIA: I wouldn't call anyone a "dummy" who recognizes a problem and seeks to solve it. Call your county department of public education and explain your need to learn math "from the bottom up." Inquire about adult education classes and private tutoring, and your problem should be as simple to solve as adding 2 and 2. (It figures.)

DEAR ABBY: I've followed your Fat Fannie Panty-Hose comments with amusement and feel it is my duty to share with you one more use for old panty hose - Fat Fannie or otherwise. I cut the leg portion into three pieces, and use them to tie up my tomato plants. The stretchy material doesn't "bite" into the stem as the plant continues to grow.

- IRENE IN COLUMBUS

DEAR IRENE: Thanks for an idea tomato growers will dig. Panty hose were created for "tomatoes" in the first place.

DEAR ABBY: "Animal Lovers" letter suggesting caution in giving dogs to new owners by way of want ads brought to mind a story I heard.

There was this sicko who collected kittens - he answered ads reading "Free to good home." Upon investigation, it was found that he collected kittens to feed to his pet boa constrictor!

How can we protect these helpless creatures?

- ANOTHER ANIMAL LOVER

DEAR LOVER: Never give more than one pet to a person. And before giving the "helpless creature" away, be sure to tell the prospective owner that you will be dropping by from time to time to see how the little fellow is getting along.

CONFIDENTIAL TO OLD-TIMER IN PASADENA: Before you put down the youth of today, read this: "Our youth now love luxury. They have bad manners, contempt for authority; they show disrespect for their elders, and love chatter in places of exercise. They no longer rise when elders enter the room; they contradict their parents, chatter before company, gobble up their food and tyrannize their teachers."

Socrates wrote that in the fifth century B.C.

DEAR ABBY: I am engaged to a lovely woman, but we may have a problem.

When her phone rings and I am present, she says, "I can't talk to you now, I have company" - never "My fiancé is here."

She says the callers are old boyfriends who just call to talk to her. Someone who has known her longer than I have told me that she used to be a call girl, so I asked her if it was true. She didn't give me a straight answer, she just smiled.

Now I'm beginning to wonder, Abby, do call girls ever marry?

Getty hunting for Triumph's riches

By DAVE LEWIS
Times-News writer

HAILEY — Getty Mining Co. has begun exploratory work at the old Triumph mine northeast of Hailey, a company official says.

"We've made an agreement with the owners there to go in and look at it," says Paul Riddell, U.S. minerals exploration manager for the company, a wholly-owned branch of Getty Oil Co.

Riddell says the company now has drill rigs on the site, which are preparing to take samples to determine the value of the minerals at the historical Blaine County mine site.

"We thought we would give it a go and see if we can come up with anything interesting," Riddell says.

Riddell says this is the first time his company has been on the site and downplays the company's presence there.

"It's just this sort of a routine program," he says.

Getty has filed the required, but confidential, plans with the Idaho Department of Lands and the Shoshone District Office of the Bureau of Land Management for operations in Blaine County, officials say.

The company, however, has not filed a plan with the U.S. Mine Safety and Health Administration in Boise as required by the Mine Safety and Health Act of 1977, says William Blain, a federal mine inspector.

"As of this date, we haven't received anything," Blain says.

Getty is subject to a fine if an inspector visits the site and the company is working without complying with the requirement, Blain says.

Triumph Minerals, Inc. owns 32 patented mining claims in the area, says Rupert House, president of the corporation. Its claims include the Triumph, North Star and Independence mines that connect each other in the area.

The Triumph and North Star front the valley of the East Fork of the Big Wood River while the Independence fronts Independence Gulch to the north and near the Elkhorn section of the City of Sun Valley.

House says Triumph Minerals also own adjacent unpatented claims in the area.

House says the lease with the oil giant is confidential and he cannot comment on it.

The Triumph and other mines in the area were first opened in the early 1800s, House says, have operated off and on throughout the first half of the century.

House says miners worked there in 1929 and 1930 and from 1933-51. It again opened for a short time in 1973, he says.

Getty is the second major oil company that has sent 15-minerals division into Blaine County to explore this summer.

Exxon Minerals Co., the mining division of the nation's largest corporation, based on sales, has staked close to 1,000 claims in Blaine County and has acquired several state and private mineral leases.

Exxon is now drilling on its mineral holdings that include around 25,000 acres of Blaine County terrain.

Riddell says that Getty's interest in the Triumph Mine is in precious and base metals. The primary ore in the Wood River Valley and the Triumph Mine was galena ore, a combination of silver, lead and zinc. Riddell says the Triumph also has traces of copper.

Getty has also taken a few unpatented claims around the Triumph Mine and last year staked 39 claims at the old Mascot Mine that is east of the Triumph, further up the East Fork Canyon.

Tom Markland, chief of the Bureau of Minerals for the state Land Department, says that Getty also has sent the required certified letter to his office for exploration of the Mascot Mine. However, he says, the Mascot letter is not marked "confidential" as is Getty's other notification for work in Blaine County.

Mexican women hosted by families

TWIN FALLS — A group of young Mexican women, eager to learn about America and share their knowledge about Mexico, arrived Thursday to begin a four-week stay in the Magic Valley.

The women, who are co-sponsored by the Ma Tre Val Council of Camp Fire, Inc. and the Experiment in International Living program of Brattleboro, Vt., will live with selected families in Jerome, Twin Falls and Buhl during their stay, says Mary Lou Keenan, executive director of the Ma Tre Val Council.

The purpose of their stay here is to promote an exchange of different cultural ideas between Mexican and American families, adds Keenan. Through family and group activities, the Mexican women will learn about American life and also share their own way of life with their hosts.

The Experiment in International Living, a non-profit organization with affiliates in more than 50 countries, has been conducting this type of educational exchange since its establishment in 1932, says Keenan.

"This year alone, she says, some 2,000 Experimenters will come to the U.S. from nearly 60 different nations, and almost 1,000 Americans of all ages will visit Europe, Latin America, the Middle East, Asia and Africa on similar homestay and study programs.

"This year marks the first time, however, that the Ma Tre Val Council has been involved with the program of homestays, says Keenan.

The group of women, all of whom speak English, will be available to talk to individuals or organizations about Mexico during their stay, says Keenan. For more information or to arrange a meeting with one of the women, call her at the Camp Fire office at 733-6214.

City stymied by traffic jam

By ANNETTE GARY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — After the last blaze of color and the final ear-splitting boom, thousands of Twin Falls residents turned homeward on the Fourth only to find themselves sitting out a mind-numbing traffic jam.

Congestion after popular events at the College of Southern Idaho is nothing new. CSI officials have discussed the possibility of opening North Campus Road onto Blue Lakes Boulevard for several years now, including talks last week between city manager Tom Courtney and CSI President Gerald Meyerhoeffer. But the problem may have hit a new high Wednesday night.

The town hasn't had such a taste of big city life within its limits since 1979, when the last fireworks display was held, say Twin Falls police. Or if you listen to most of those who waited while police unsmiled the mess, it's never had such a jam.

The rarity of the occasion might have accounted for the generally good tempers. A few drivers hedged their luck, nudging bumpers and playing chicken for a spot in the lanes. But unlike traffic waits in more metropolitan areas, few horns tooted and little name-calling occurred.

It was, however, a "real-test-of-patience" and an "ever-loving mess," holiday revelers recalled on Thursday. But other than the annoyance of spending over an hour leaving the campus after 35 minutes watching the fireworks, little damage, not even a fender-bender — resulted.

Twin Falls police say they were prepared for the traffic. Well, almost. The back exit from the College of Southern Idaho went unsuspected by three officers and three cadets wove order into the mass of cars leaving the campus on Falls Avenue and at the intersections at Blue Lakes Boulevard and Washington Street.

It was where drivers were fending for themselves that they had to wait the longest. "No one was giving up their place in line," one young man said after spending an hour waiting.

Vandals spark curfew ordinance for Jackpot

By DAVID MOFFAT
Times-News writer

JACKPOT — The Elko County Board of Commissioners is set to act Thursday on a recommendation from the Jackpot town advisory board that a curfew be established for teenagers.

The recommendation was approved by the five-member board at its last meeting in June. Because Jackpot is an unincorporated township, however, ordinances affecting the town can be adopted only by the commissioners.

Jackpot Justice of the Peace Jay Snyder says the curfew proposal surfaced after a recent act of vandalism, in which someone knocked out a number of lights on the Jackpot handing strip.

But the idea of a curfew for those under 18 years of age has been raised a number of times in the past, he said, as a result of worries over kids' safety, other acts of vandalism and absenteeism from Jackpot schools.

One board member who pushed for the curfew, Sharon Felman, says tardiness and absenteeism are worse in Jackpot than in the schools of any other Elko County town.

A "21" dealer and mother of a 13-year-old son and a 15-year-old daughter, she says she was surprised more opposition did not surface at a town meeting. She takes this to mean people believe "the kids belong inside, especially on school nights."

Western States Hollering Contest proves howling success

By DAVID MOFFAT
Times-News writer

JACKPOT — The annual Western States Hollering Contest, sponsored by Cactus Pete's Casino, was a howling success Wednesday, event organizer Carl Hayden, publicist for the casino, said Thursday.

Top honors went to Margaret Halvorsen, a former national hog-calling champion from Lake City, Iowa.

In a special "call-off" she bested Janet Ward, a casino bartender defending her 1983 title.

The two had distinguished themselves from a field of eight — deliberately small to assist in the work of three judges situated at different distances from the contestants, Hayden said.

"Originality, volume and endurance," are what it takes to win the championship, according to Hayden.

But in the "call-off," endurance was the deciding factor as Ward hollered for 13 seconds on one breath and Halvorsen 17 seconds.

Hayden says the contest grew out of a "re-enactment of the days before radios and telephones," when neighbors set aside their work at 5 p.m. to listen for howls from neighboring farms.

"Originality" as a criteria grew out of the various intonations a skillful farmer could use to send a complex variety of messages, such as "to the chores, or milk the cow — I'm going to town tomorrow," he says.

Halvorsen, who has been a school teacher for 41 years, and hopes to remain one for 50 before retiring, Hayden said.

She heard about the Jackpot contest from a friend who had listened to a report of it last year on a Carroll, Iowa, radio station. She then entry in the contest this year with a trip to visit western relatives, he said.

Although hollering and hog-calling are different skills, Hayden said Halvorsen gave a rendition of her winning hog-call the night before the hollering contest. The occasion was a performance by "The Links," a Reno-based band, in the gay surroundings of the casino dinner showroom.

"She started it as the coarse voice of a hog, and wound it up with the squealing of suckling pigs," he said.

"It was spontaneous, but really good," Halvorsen has succeeded in a sport dominated by men, Hayden said.

She told him she once had to force her way into the Iowa state contest against 25 men.

When the judge told her the contest was limited to men, she asked the pointed question, "Where does women's lib fit into this?"

Hayden said she had no answer at the ready, the judge allowed her to enter the contest, which she promptly proceeded to win, he said.

TWIN FALLS — Only seven states in the nation had state and local tax rates lower than Idaho in 1982, according to a watchdog non-profit agency.

An Associated Taxpayers of Idaho newsletter also says Idaho has the lowest total state and local tax rate of the 11 western states.

And it says Idaho residents paid only 77 cents in federal taxes in 1983 for every $1 of federal grants they received.

The profitability of this tax-to-aid ratio was exceeded by only 13 states, the most heavily taxed being Texas and the least heavily being the District of Columbia and Vermont.

In 1982 each dollar of federal aid cost 84 cents, making Idaho the 10th best "deal" among the 50 states.

The association, whose president is Russell Westerberg, is dedicated to lower taxes and greater tax accountability.

As such, its newsletter generally showed an improving situation in relation to the other states. Idaho dropped two notches from 41st among the states in 1981 in terms of its state and local tax level. In the last 15 years Idaho's ranking in this regard has dropped 14 notches, from 29th position overall in 1968.

The organization claims this means "several other states have been increasing taxes at a faster rate." Inflation and the property tax limitations enacted by the Legislature in the wake of the One Percent Initiative may also be partially responsible.

The 1982 figures on state and local taxes, which come from the U.S. Department of Commerce, are the most recent available to the organization.

As such they do not represent the 1.5 cent "temporary" increase in the state sales tax in 1983, or the permanent retention of 1 cent of that increase this year.

Sue Bowman, assistant to Westerberg, says it is reasonably safe to assume Idaho's ranking will be on the rise again because of this increase.

She said the organization does not have the capability to tell how much of a rise will be involved, however, because tax packages have been passed by a number of other states recently.

Larry Schlicht, deputy administrator of Governor

Evans' budget office, says nearly 36 states passed major tax increases in either 1982 or 1983.

While he agreed Idaho's sales tax hike probably sent it back up in the rankings, he speculated that jump might not have taken it out of the low 40s or high 30s.

According to the association, each Idahoian paid an average of $668.67 total state and local taxes in 1982, up from $208.47 the year before.

Other highlights of the report are as follows:

- Idaho ranked 36th out of the 50 states in per-capita income of its residents, a measure of wealth, in 1982. It was 37th in 1981.
- As in 1981, Idaho was 45th among the states in terms of total expenditures by its state and local government in 1982. The state has dropped from 32nd place in 1977.
- In only two areas is Idaho not at the bottom of the list of 11 western states for either taxes collected and expenditures made. These areas are property taxes collected and expenditures made for higher education, in which it ranks ninth.
- The number of state and local government employees declined 1.8 percent from 1981 to 1982 to 45,194. The number of state and local government employees had increased steadily during the 1970s.

Teenager shot in mouth by an unknown assailant

RUPERT — A Rupert teenager was wounded in the mouth by an unknown assailant while he and three companions were setting off fireworks on the bank of the Snake River the night of July 4th.

The boy, whose name and age will not be released until today, was "listed in stable condition Thursday evening at LDS Hospital in Salt Lake City."

The incident occurred about three miles south and almost two miles east of Rupert, said Mindoko County Chief Deputy Bob Nevarez. At about 11 p.m., the four teenage boys from Rupert were lighting fireworks when a vehicle "suddenly appeared." They scattered and later returned to the area, when they thought the vehicle had gone. The teenagers continued to set off the fireworks when a shot rang from the vehicle and the boy fell.

The dazed teenager was taken to Mindoko Memorial Hospital by his companions, who also were unidentified. The boy was transferred to Bannock County Hospital in Pocatello and later to the Utah facility. A bullet had hit the boy in the mouth and lodged in the back of the neck, Nevarez said.

"A description of the vehicle was unavailable. All the boys could say was that a shot was fired and before they knew it, the boy went down covered with blood," Nevarez said. The area where they were playing was unlit.

"They were just out there setting off fireworks, minding their own business," Nevarez said.

Nevarez wouldn't release the boy's name Thursday because he said the case still was under investigation.

Jailer jumped by inmates in unsuccessful bid for freedom

BURLEY — Assistance from four jail trustees "foiled" an escape attempt by two maximum security prisoners in Cassia County jail Wednesday night.

A jailer, Stan Passey, 31, of Burley was jumped by two prisoners about 10 p.m. as he was making the night lock-up, according to Under Sheriff Billy Crystal.

Passey required medical attention, Crystal said, and was treated at Cassia Memorial Hospital and released.

Donald Garibaldi, 29, and Stan Harnek, 19, were arraigned in Fifth District Magistrate Court in Burley Thursday on charges of attempted escape, assault of a jail officer and as persistent violators. Bond was set at $100,000 each and they were remanded to the county jail.

Crystal said Passey was making a routine evening lock-up of all of the jail's cells. He called down the hallway advising all prisoners to return to their cells and then closed the cell doors with the electrical locking equipment. As he walked back into the hallway area to see if everyone was accounted for, he was jumped by two men in the maximum security area.

"Two inmates were hiding in the shower area," Crystal said, "and as he walked by they jumped him and knocked him to the floor. He was knocked around pretty good, but he was able to yell for help."

Crystal said the four trustees who were not locked up heard his cries and one ran to the nearby dispatch area at the front of the jail and notified the dispatchers of the situation. The three others went to Passey's assistance and were able to subdue the two suspects.

One of the suspects had a radio battery in his fist and the other had a soft soled shoe. Otherwise they were not armed, Crystal reported.

He identified the trustees as Russell Pipher, William Powell, Todd Call and Don Harverson, all of the Burley area. The four were serving sentences for various reasons and had been assigned work duty around the jail and law enforcement building, he said.

"We plan on giving them some type of commendation for their willingness to assist the deputy and alert authorities," Crystal said. Harnek was in jail on armed robbery charges and faces similar charges in several other areas, according to Crystal. Garibaldi was being held on a second degree burglary charge. Crystal said both are "drifters" and both were waiting further court appearances when the incident occurred.

Jerome officials seek cost cuts for water system improvements

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

JEROME — The water system improvement project in Jerome will require some economizing measures to keep it within the available funding. Jerome City Council members Tuesday night approved substituting 12-inch pipe for a proposed 14-inch pipe in the water line portion of the improvement.

Public Works Director Larry Sloan said engineers have indicated the 12-inch pipe will be adequate and will carry all of the water the new well and pumps can produce. The lines will carry water from the well to the new millage water storage tank at the Ross Enterprises of Jerome in the contract for the water lines and pump house.

Another decision Tuesday night calls for eliminating the brick exterior of the pump house and substituting a permanent metal siding. Sloan said about $12,000 will be saved on the pipe substitution and another $6,000 on the exterior of the pump house.

Depending on the amount of rock found in excavation work, Sloan said, it may be possible to revert back to plans for bricking the building. Sloan said Ralph Thornton Construction Inc. of Burley, the contractor for phase one of the project began work on the tank site last week. He said very little rock blasting has been necessary. The tank, he said, was also ordered last week.

Council members also approved plans for installing drive-in mail boxes in an island area of the alley behind the Jerome Post Office and City Library.

Sloan said plans call for blocking off the mail boxes with metal posts and painting the island. It will be possible to deposit mail from vehicles driving on either side of the island.

Capt. Mito Atencio told the council funds for the community diversion coordinator salary for the coming year have been delayed. The money was expected to be allocated June 27, but the application did not clear through county council in time for the current appropriation. A new application will be made for funds expected to be available later this summer.

Dispute over money leads to shooting

RUPERT — A Rupert man was shot in the arm Tuesday night after an alleged dispute over money.

Joe Ferrell, 40, who resides on the 700 block of D Street, was wounded in the elbow area of his left arm with a rifle, according to a Rupert police report. He was taken to Minidoka Memorial Hospital for treatment and discharged Thursday.

James Lockett, 26, of Burley is suspected in the shooting. Lockett has been charged with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to commit murder, police report. He was being held in Minidoka County Jail in lieu of $24,000 bond.

The shooting occurred at Ferrell's residence at 11 p.m. Lockett was taken into custody shortly after Burley police report.

out the traffic. "Not until I ran into traffic and held up my hand."

Where police were stationed, the traffic flowed more smoothly. Cpl. Danny Crafton drew up plans for the exit with the care of a general going into battle, but there was nothing to be done to speed up the progression from the CSI parking lot onto the road, he says.

Our object was to keep Falls (traffic) moving to clear the CSI parking lot and the surrounding area," he says. "We ran the congested streets as clean as we could."

An officer and a cadet worked each intersection, switching traffic lights manually and directing traffic with plenty of "thank yous" and brief chats with drivers through open car windows.

Actually, it was a good night to be on traffic patrol in Twin Falls, Crafton says. Except for after fireworks displays and county rodeos, he rarely gets to put his police academy training and 14 years experience in directing traffic to much use.

"I have to admit, it was a pleasant experience," he says. "Directing traffic, I see a lot of people I don't see often."

Chamber of Commerce director Mike Dalton says no one complained on Thursday about the traffic jam, but the phone rang 30 or 40 times with callers complaining the fireworks displays, including "Kicker" from Moscow, Idaho, who was pleased to find a miscreant left behind.

City moves to correct building violations

GOODING — City building permit procedures were clarified by the Gooding City Council Monday.

Last month, city attorney Cecil Hobbey expressed concern that permit applications were not being presented to the council until after construction had actually begun and the practice was against the city's own procedures.

Mayor Gene Heller told the council Monday he had reviewed the situation with building inspector Marvin McCure and Hobbey, and the city's present procedures are in keeping with the International Building Code.

Once a building has been inspected by McCure, he can certify that it meets building code requirements and issue a permit.

Permit fees are paid to the city and the permit applications are presented to the council to approve the fees, Heller said.

Councilman Bob Maline added that the building inspector's report was given like a police or fire report, simply to make the council aware of what building was going on in the city, but the council did not actually approve the permits.

Heller said the Gooding building ordinance is written to incorporate the state code and this is the way it is set up to be administered.

In other business the council approved use of a small lawn area around the city pump house, across from East Park for a dog obedience training school on Saturday after-

Curfew

Feltman says in a town open 24 hours a day, it is not uncommon to see kids just "out on the town" at 1 a.m.

Whether it be in a casino game always manage to find some place to meet, especially if their parents are working a night shift, she says, and the late hours are not conducive to early arrival at school the next day.

Under the law, parents could be prosecuted for kids caught out after hours in Nevada, the penalty for the misdemeanor would be up to a $1,000 fine or a six-month jail sentence.

Feltman says, however, "The idea is not to go around slapping fines on any parent whose child may be out after hours, and the curfew certainly will be ignored if a teenager has a late-night job or some special event is planned. But if a certain kid is "notorious," the ordinance will allow action to be taken, she says.

County Manager George Donohue would not speculate Thursday whether the commissioners would pass the recommendation next week.

or ask to study it more. In Elko County curfews are "nothing special," he said. "But once you put it on the books, it's always a matter of enforcing it."

Oldest, and youngest, named to baseball All-Star Game

NEW YORK (AP) — Nineteen-year-old rookie Dwight Gooden of the New York Mets, the youngest player ever named to an all-star team, and 45-year-old Phil Niekro of the New York Yankees, one of the oldest, were among the 16 pitchers named to take part in Tuesday's All-Star Game in San Francisco.

Gooden, who leads the National League in strikeouts to go with a 7-5 record and an ERA of 3.15, is one of four starting pitchers named by Manager Paul Owens of Philadelphia to a National League team that also includes four relief pitchers.

"It's been an unbelievable year," said Gooden. "From Class A last year to the All-Star Game this year, I'm looking forward to contributing to a win."

The other starters are Joaquin Andujar of the St. Louis Cardinals and Charlie Lea of the Montreal Expos, tied for the major league lead with 15 wins, and Mario Soto of the Cincinnati Reds, who has a 9-1 record.

They are joined by Bruce Sutter of the St. Louis Cardinals, who leads the NL with 20 saves, Jesse Orosco of the Mets, Al Holland of the Philadelphia Phillies, and Rich Gossage of the San Diego Padres. Holland and Orosco are the squad's only left-handers.

The knucklingball Niekro, who was named to the National League all-star team while with the Atlanta Braves, has an 11-4 record with a 1.84 ERA in his first American League season. He is the second oldest player named — only Satchel Paige, a member of the 1963 American League team at the age of 47, was older.

The other American League pitchers chosen by Manager Joe Altobelli of the Baltimore Orioles were 12-game winner Jack Morris of Detroit, Mike Boddicker, 10-6 of Baltimore, Richard Dotson, 11-4, of the Chicago White Sox, and Dave Stieb, 9-3, of Toronto.

Altobelli also selected relievers Dan Quisenberry of the Kansas City Royals, who leads the majors with 22 saves, Bill Caudill of the Oakland A's and Willie Hernandez of the Tigers. Hernandez is the AL's only left-hander.

In addition to Gooden, Lea and Holland will be making their first all-star appearances. Gossage will be on his eighth all-star squad, six of them in the American League; Sutter on his sixth; Andujar and Soto on their third, and Orosco on his second.

Gossage, who has 14 saves this season, was surprised to learn of his selection. "It's always an honor and a privilege because the manager picks the pitchers. I'm impressed that he (Paul Owens) picked me."

"There are so many great relievers in this league and there are so many who deserve it,

I wouldn't have been disappointed (not making it)," Gossage added.

Orosco, who has saved 18 games this year as the Mets have fought for first place in the NL East, said, "Of course we (the NL) lost last year, so this year I hope to contribute to a win. What makes it so exciting this year is that we're (the Mets) doing so well as a team and that makes my selection even more meaningful."

In the American League, the selections were the first for Boddicker, Dotson, Caudill and Hernandez. It will be the fourth appearance for Stieb, third for Quisenberry and second for Morris.

Get-acquainted play miscues tourney start

By LAIRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

BURLEY — Par wasn't worth a lot for practice rounds Thursday, but when the Idaho State Men's Amateur Golf Championship gets under way this morning at Burley Municipal Golf Course, things could change again.

Most of the 172-man flight participated in a get-acquainted session with Burley many and none enjoyed it any more than Caldwell's Larry Bull, who carded a 31 on the front side and ended the day with a seven-under 64. Bill Stanwood of Caldwell, who won this title at Elkhorn, had a 68 and Pocatello's Dave Mollitor, who won the last time this tourney was played in Burley, didn't have any numbers to disclose but noted "I felt I played well." That is ominous in his application.

One who didn't take a look at the course was Payette's Scott Masling, who stayed home and tended the furniture store while father Cliff Masling teamed with Weiser's Joe Malay to represent in the Jackpot two-man best ball tournament on Thursday.

Scott is considered a prime favorite every time he tees it up.

The championship flight grew to 52 players with the addition of two-time Gem State Conference high school player-of-the-year, Jason Meyerbecker of Twin Falls. He and his brother Steve, a Boise State team member, entered the event, but Jason's name was overlooked on the original pairings.

It was the size of the field that led Mollitor to put things into perspective on the tournament's eve.

"When you have 52 in the championship flight with 0-4 handicaps, you can about flip a coin," said the two-time champion. "The course does not have an extreme amount of trouble to it and it is in great shape, particularly the greens which have good speed to them and are putting true. The good putters are going to be the ones to come out on top in the long run. And the people who have shown up well previously are going to show up here and any course they put it."

For himself, Mollitor noted "I've played as much golf in the last six days as I have all year and my biggest problem is curbure. But he added more seriously, "I'm putting better than I have in a long time. In fact, it takes me back to 1975 when I won it here. And going in feeling that you are putting well is always nice. If I can make a few putts I have every chance of being in contention."

He said he felt the greens were exactly to the liking of Masling, another noted putter. Mollitor is in position to understand Masling's standard right now. They combined to win the Holiday Inn two-man best ball at Highland of Pocatello last week, carding a 13-under 59 the second day.

While Mollitor believes there are a large number of golfers in this field capable of taking the title, he cautioned "anyways have to talk about the locals. Being home should help them especially with the greens where they might understand some of the putting. The 'overcast' and 'the way the puts roll on certain sections of the green is different. A lot of us might not. That could be worth two or three shots to them, over the tournament and that could be enough. So I don't overlook guys like Glenn Blakeley, Terry Spackman, Dave Parker, Ken Huizinga and guys who have established themselves on this course."

Blakeley, who won his state title in McCall a few years ago, isn't as positive being at home is the aid of out-of-towners think.

"It's a challenge to win on your own track," he pointed out, because the local gallery expects more from local heroes. "I had a 69 in practice (Thursday) with four bogeys so I feel pretty good about there. I haven't been playing that well but maybe I'm peaking about the right time. The course is in good shape and playing well. I feel pretty confident."

The championship flight will tee off from 12:30 to 2:40 p.m. today and take the early starting time Saturday. That will put it back for the afternoon on Sunday's concluding round.

Host Professional Earl Simpson noted the state putting tournament will begin with qualifying at the conclusion of play today. The putting championship will be decided late Saturday afternoon, followed by the social highlight — a steak fry at 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

Seeded No. 3, Hana Mandlikova returns shot to Chris Evert Lloyd during losing match

Navratilova, Evert Lloyd try a 4th Wimbledon match

By BOB GREENE
The Associated Press

WIMBLEDON, England — Playing at the top of their games, top-seeded Martina Navratilova and No. 2 Chris Evert Lloyd stormed into the women's singles final at the Wimbledon tennis championships with easy straight-set victories Thursday.

Lloyd ripped through Czechoslovakia's Hana Mandlikova, the No. 3 seed, 6-1, 6-2 in 46 minutes. Navratilova, seeking her third consecutive singles title here at the All-England Lawn Tennis and Croquet Club, needed 68 minutes to stop fellow American Kathy Jordan 6-3, 6-4.

Saturday's final will be the fourth time Navratilova and Lloyd have battled for the title on these famed grass courts. Navratilova has won the previous three — in 1978, 1979 and 1982.

Three of favorites for the men's championship still are in the running, including No. 1 John McEnroe, No. 2 Ivan Lendl and No. 3 Jimmy Connors. In today's semifinals, McEnroe will face unseeded Pat Cash of Australia, while Connors, twice a winner here, will take on Lendl, who captured his first Grand Slam title last month when he won the French Open.

The men's championship match will be played Sunday.

Navratilova, rapidly establishing herself as one of the best women players in history, was devastating against Jordan, who played one of her best matches on this sunny, warm day.

"I could have played better for some games, but all-around I think I played and served pretty well and didn't make any glaring mistakes," Jordan said. "I... tried as hard as I could to make good returns and Martina still passed me with volleys."

Heavily favored to win her fifth consecutive Grand Slam title, Navratilova began the match with a double fault. The center court crowd broke into laughter when she turned around and offered her racket to the Royal Box, which included the Duke and Duchess of Kent.

She then "hid" a serve, and so did Jordan, after Navratilova fought her to deuce, aided by double-faults on the third and fourth points.

Jordan then took Navratilova to deuce in a game that featured both players at the net, trading volleys on a point punctuated with a smash. But the four-time Wimbledon champion took the tie point on a remarkable forehand half-volley down-the-line passing shot, then held when Jordan netted the ensuing service return.

Jordan held service again, knotting the score at 2-2 and bringing up what turned into the pivotal game.

"In the fifth game, Navratilova held love, ending it with her first ace of the match. And when she walked to her chair for the changeover, her spirit and confidence appeared to be soaring.

Heat toll Express may be facing 125-degree handicap

By The Associated Press

The Los Angeles Express, forced to give up its home-field advantage in Saturday's United States Football League playoff game against the Arizona Wranglers, now has to confront another disadvantage — the heat.

The National Weather Service said a temperature of 105 degrees with 20 percent humidity is expected in Tempe, Ariz., by the 12:30 p.m. MST kickoff time for the Western Conference championship game. But it may reach 125 degrees down on the natural grass playing surface of Sun Devil Stadium.

On Sunday, the Birmingham Stallions will host the Philadelphia Stars in the Eastern Conference final.

Express Coach John Hadl already has made the adverse conditions a public issue, saying "somebody could actually die in that heat."

Arizona Coach George Allen laughed at the comment. "I think John's made too much of it — guys dying and stuff. There's a lot of games played in heat. We've played several in worse conditions on AstroTurf and I'm sure LA has Joe Allen's back. Heat has nothing to do with it. If you have a job to do, you do the job. Heat, that's the least of our problems."

But Allen added that his club has an advantage "because we've practiced in the heat here all year. It's nothing new to us."

"LA's coming over here and practicing Friday. If there's one thing I learned from being in the National Football League and taking my teams to Minnesota to play the Vikings in the cold, I learned that you don't get used to the weather."

Hadl said "the first half isn't going to be that tough. It's the second half that shows your conditioning. I think we're mentally tough. It's just a matter of going out and sustaining ourselves for 60 minutes. The heat's there, but it's an equal situation for both sides."

"The winner of this game goes to Tampa Bay (for the July 15 title game)," added Hadl. "The motivation is there. We got no excuses. If we use the heat as one, then we don't deserve to go."

The nationally televised game was to have been played in the Los Angeles Coliseum until the Pacific Division champion Express ran into scheduling conflicts with the U.S. Olympic Committee. They tried to switch the site to the Rose Bowl or Anaheim Stadium with no success.

Hadl said he also tried to convince ABC-TV to change the starting time to mid-morning or early evening or get NFL officials to switch the game to Sunday in Los Angeles.

"The league has already decided it will be here and ABC has decided to stay with the 12:30 start," Allen said. "I just hope there's not too much written about the heat. It could overplay what's taking place. We have a championship game here in our first year in Phoenix and it's something special."

"But we're not going to have much of a crowd and that's because of the heat. We need a big, enthusiastic crowd and I hope they don't stay away."

Wrangler officials hoped to attract a season-high attendance figure of 50,000 at 70,021-seat Sun Devil Stadium, but now expect between 30,000 and 35,000. The game will be blacked out on local television. If ticket sales don't surpass 35,000 — the club's previous best-crowd.

Arizona, the Pacific Division runner-up, made the playoffs as a wild card entry after beating the Express 35-10 here June 23.

All-star spectacles become jaded by time, over-exposure

TWIN FALLS — It was the biggest building I've ever seen.

I stood there, at the bottom of "cardiac hill," taking in Candlestick Park. I was walking with my mother and aunt for my uncle, who was lost somewhere in a sea of chrome trying to park the car. In one hand was a copy of the old San Francisco Call-Bulletin, which had printed the starting lineups for the game and a scorecard on the front page that morning. Not that I needed it. I had the starting lineups for the 1961 All-Star Game memorized.

For a 9-year-old, the idea of going to a major league baseball game was wondrous. But this, of course, was not just any major league baseball game. It was the All-Star Game, the first mid-summer classic ever played west of St. Louis.

The All-Star Game will return to

Steve Crump

Candlestick Park next Tuesday, to no particular excitement. In the ensuing 23 years, the 9-year-old, most of the other 44,114 fans in attendance that day and San Francisco have become jaded about such spectacles.

The Giants are looking for a new stadium, closer to downtown San Francisco than the glen-battered ghetto neighborhood called Hunter's Point where Candlestick Park was built 25 years ago. San Francisco hasn't had a pennant in 22 years — for the rest of us baseball is no farther away than the TV set on any day of the week. The All-Star Game, sad to say, is just one more.

Or maybe it just pales in comparison with the first one.

Mickey Mantle was there that day, as was young Roger Maris, who had 33 home runs at the time. That was Warren Spahn unwinding in the bullpen, and if you adjusted your binoculars just so you could make out the 5 o'clock shadow on Roberto Clemente's face, Willie Mays stood behind home plate, playing pepper with Luis Aparicio and Johnny Temple, and in the batting cage Moose Skowron launched awesome batting practice home runs over the chain link fence in right-center field.

It was like the Elysian Fields; a regiment of bubble-gum boys gathered in a gleaming amphitheater of slate gray, pale orange and manicured green.

Clearly, it was not an ordinary day. The game started in humid 81-degree weather, and the papers said 17 people succumbed to heat exhaustion and five more to heart attacks before umpire Stan Landes raised his right hand and yelled "Play ball!"

We were sitting in the cheap seats, far off the left field line, and the left-fielder was no more than a speck in the distance. I spent the first four innings deep in thought, deciding whether to spend my allowance to acquire a Giants' cap or a Dodgers' cap at the nearby concession stand. By the time I returned to my seat with a Giants' cap, Sandy Koufax was working on a three-hitter and the Nationals led 2-1.

Then a curious thing happened. Midway through the seventh inning, gusts of wind — 20, 30, maybe 40 miles an hour — began to sweep in from the Bay. The temperature dropped 30 degrees in 30 minutes, and the pitchers in the bullpen tossed blankets over their feet to keep warm. Dust storms swirled around the infield and eddied throughout the stadium, sending caps sailing, sun dresses flapping and my Call-Bulletin scorecard flying.

Then in the top of the ninth, disaster struck in the form of a crisp single over second base by Al Kaline that scored a run and cut the Nationals' lead to 3-2. Koufax walked Maris, and Pittsburgh Pirates manager Danny Murtha strode to the mound, spitting tobacco juice along the way. Koufax was gone, and in his place was a San Francisco Giants' right-hander of no particular distinction named Stu Miller.

Rocky Colavito strode to the plate. Had so many fans not been scurrying for lost

Stars of new generation join NL oldsters in starting lineup

OZZIE SMITH Cards' shortstop

NEW YORK (AP) — Ryne Sandberg, Darryl Strawberry and Tony Gwynn, three members of the National League's new generation of stars, have been selected by the fans to join five all-star veterans in the NL's starting lineup for Tuesday's 53th All-Star Game in San Francisco.

Sandberg, the Chicago Cubs second baseman who leads the majors with 112 hits and 11 triples, came on in late in the voting and finished with 1,099,324 votes to beat out Steve SanDiego of the Los Angeles and San Diego's Alan Wiggins, the early leaders at second base.

The New York Mets' Strawberry, the NL Rookie of the Year in 1983, led all outfield voters with 1,565,044. The San Diego Padres' Gwynn, leading the NL in batting with a .351 average through Wednesday, was third in the outfield voting with 1,116,657.

Baseball

Joining them in the starting lineup, chosen by fans across the country who cast 6,333,903 ballots, will be San Diego first baseman Steve Garvey, the leading vote-getter in both leagues' shortstop Ozzie Smith of the St. Louis Cardinals, third baseman Mike Schmidt of the Philadelphia Phillies, catcher Gary Carter of Montreal and Atlanta Braves centerfielder Dale Murphy, the league's MVP for the past two years.

"This is one of the greatest things that ever happened to me," said Strawberry, who is hitting just .262 with nine homers and 24 RBIs and has been in a slump for two months. "I'm kind of disappointed that I won and didn't play well. But a lot of the voting has to do with how I play on the road. Every time I get on the road, it's 'aha-boom.'"

Garvey, hitting .285 with four homers and 46 runs batted in, was the NL's starting first baseman from 1974 to 1980, but missed out the past three years. He led the batting with 1,701,003 votes to 1,041,426 for New York first baseman Keith Hernandez, one of two runners-up to receive more than a million votes.

Schmidt, batting .297 with 16 homers and 56 RBIs, was second in the over-all voting with 1,638,291 votes and beat out San Diego's Graig Nettles, the other runner-up to pull more than a million. Nettles received 1,041,156.

Murphy, coming on after a slow start, is batting .278 with 19 homers and 51 RBIs. Smith, who has won four Gold Gloves for his slick fielding, led the starting shortstop for the second year in a row, receiving 1,514,455 votes. Carter earned his fourth consecutive starting catcher assignment with 1,067,704 votes.

American League starters, announced Wednesday, include catcher Lance Parrish, second baseman Lou Whitaker and outfielder Cecil Lemon of the Detroit Tigers; first baseman Rod Carew and outfielder Reggie Jackson of the California Angels; shortstop Cal Ripken Jr. of the Baltimore Orioles; outfielder Dave Winfield of the New York Yankees; and George Brett of the Kansas City Royals, the American League's leading vote-getter.

The NL and AL reserves, selected by the All-Star managers, will be named today.

Bosox's timber unloads on California's pitching for 17 hits

By The Associated Press

The Boston Red Sox overpowered the California Angels 12-7 Thursday night, using a grand slam homer and six runs batted in by Dwight Evans and Jim Rice's three-run homer.

Evans had a bunt single after Wade Boggs started the first with a single to center. Rice, who hit a grand slam Wednesday, then hit the first pitch over the left-field screen for his 18th homer.

The Red Sox unloaded a 17-hit attack against Geoff Zahn and relievers Bruce Klison and Doug Corbett. Marty Barrett had three singles, scored three runs and drove in a run for Boston, while Bill Buckner had four hits and Mike Essler and Evans had three each. Tony Armas drove in a run with a second-inning single, extending his hitting streak to a career-high 18 games.

Elsewhere in the American League, Ron Washington's two-run triple triggered a five-run sixth inning to lift Minnesota over New York 5-4.

Yankees starter Ron Guidry had a two-hitter through five innings. But the Twins' Dave English walked to lead off the sixth and Kent Hrbek singled. Gary Gaetti grounded out, then the Twins' third fly consecutive. Jim Watters tripled to center fielder Ken Griffey's glove to tie the score 2-2. Dave Meler slammed a ground-rule double to almost the same spot. Houston Jimenez got an infield hit and Kirby Puckett singled through Guidry's legs to score Meler and chase Guidry. Mickey Hatcher then greeted reliever Jay Howell with another single to score Jimenez for a 5-2 lead.

Dave Winfield went 3-for-4 to raise his league-leading batting average to .377.

Kirk Gibson's three-run homer highlighted a six-run ninth inning as Detroit snipped a four-game losing streak by beating Texas 7-4. With one out, Chuck Lumber and Larry Herndon singled and, one out later, pinch-hitter Johnny Ray walked to load the bases. Lou Whitaker singled to score two runs and Alan Trammell singled to tie the score. Gibson followed with his 12th home run of the year.

Kansas City led Baltimore 2-1 with two out in the bottom of the fifth when a heavy thunderstorm wiped out the game. The rain came with an 8-2 count on Al Bumbry, who had words with plate umpire Al Clark on the previous pitch.

Jim Gantner and Robin Yount drove in two runs each and Ben Oglive hit three hits to lead Milwaukee past Oakland 7-5 for the Brewers' fifth straight victory.

Willie Upshaw drove in four runs with two hits to pace Toronto to a 10-4 victory over Seattle. Upshaw, who entered the game with three hits in his last 42 at-bats and an 11-game streak without a hit, hit three homers. Toronto's four-run first inning then capped the four-run second with a bases-loaded triple.

Greg Walker homered with two out in the bottom of the ninth in LII Chicago to a 7-6 win over Cleveland. Dave Nelson, in his first major-league appearance, pitched three scoreless innings of relief to gain the victory.

Jerry Mumphy doubled home a pair of first-inning runs, then Mike LaCoss and Bill Dawley made it stand up for a 2-1 Houston victory over Montreal. LaCoss gave up three hits in eight innings and Dawley surrendered one hit in the ninth as he earned his first save of the year. He had 14 last season.

Charles Hudson pitched a four-hitter for his first major league shut-out and Kiko Garcia's infield out scored the only run as Philadelphia edged Atlanta 4-0 in a game called after seven innings due to rain.

Right-hander Scott Sanderson, fresh off the disabled list, pitched five shutout innings, and Ron Cey hit two homers, powering the Chicago Cubs to a 9-3 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

Brad Gulden's wild throw into flight field in the seventh inning on an attempted pickoff of Ron Gardehinre enabled Mike Fitzgerald to score from second base and give the New York Mets a 4-3 victory over the Cincinnati Reds. The game was called after a two-hour rain delay with one out in the ninth and Dan Driscoll pinch hitting.

Joaquin Andujar, Ken Camen and Bruce Sutter combined on a three-hitter and George Hendrick hit his sixth home run of the year to lead the St. Louis Cardinals to a 9-0 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers. Tony Gwynn, who doubled home a first-inning run, drew a bases-loaded walk with two outs in the ninth inning to force in the winning run as the San Diego Padres defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates 2-1.

JACKPOT — Van Evans and Richard Driggs of Utah led from start to finish to earn the low score in the two-day Silver Star Classic two-man best ball tournament here Thursday.

They were followed by Ken Pierno and Kay Riley of Ogden, Utah, at 67; Dan Uvriate and Bert Elliott of Elko, Nev., and Lew Montrose and Pete Banhart of Mountain Home, at 70; Hal Young and H.P. Smith of Utah at 71, and Mickey Duggers and Doyle Dugger, Twin Falls, and Larry Evans and Kim Holland of Utah, all 73.

Bob Moody of Twin Falls, and Bill Brake of Flair, combined to win the third flight at 265 with K.J. Vanderwerff and Elaine of Jensen, Utah, at 268. Western Open lead shared by a longshot

OAK BROOK, Ill. (AP) — Danny Edwards took advantage of what he called "optimum conditions" and shot a 5-under-par 67 tying longshot Loran Roberts for the first round lead Thursday in the $100,000 Western Open Golf Tournament.

"The golf course is just fabulous, the weather was beautiful and you've got a lot of great players. That tends to produce some low scores," said Edwards, whose younger brother David won the Los Angeles Open earlier this season.

The scores, in fact, were the lowest in history on the usually-difficult Butler National Golf Club course, which has served as the site for this tournament since 1974.

Continued from Page C3 possessious and cover, the atmosphere would have been electric. Miller went into his stretch, looked over his left shoulder at Maris. Then suddenly, the pitcher lurched two steps forward, and Landes was running out of behind home plate, pointing at the base umpire. He in turn was pointing at the second and Kline, who had been on second, to third — Miller had balked. Miller protested loudly, claiming he had blown off the mound. Landes said it didn't matter; it was still a balk. Then Boyer committed the first of two embarrassing errors when he booted Colavito's grounder, sending Kline home with the tying run.

My uncle missed all that because he had been dispatched in the middle of the eighth inning to go get the car. It took him an hour to get back through the traffic to the front of the stadium. My mother, aunt and I stood there, amid the swirling dust storm, watching the stadium empty. I finally spotted someone in a Giants uniform that I thought looked like Stu Miller, standing close to the National League dugout. I ran down to the railing, leaned over as far as I could and stuck my program over his shoulder. He turned halfway around, took the book and signed it. I still have that autograph today.

I'm not sure whether Lee Menshaw was the Giants' clubhouse boy, batboy or being practice pitcher, but it didn't matter much. He wore a uniform and this was the All-Star Game. I wonder if Lee Menshaw, wherever he is, will be watching again next Tuesday night?

BOBBY WOLFF

The unfortunate thing about this world is that good habits are so much easier to give up than bad ones.

NORTH 7-6-A... WEST K 5-4... EAST K 10-9... SOUTH A Q J 10-9... Vulnerable: Both Dealer...

South had an easy time with today's spade game... Dummy's heart queen was the first finesse and a trump was led to South's queen...

Dummy for what was destined to be the last time... South correctly took the winning diamond finesse and the defenders were held to only one trump...

South now loses a club and a diamond, and the game goes one down... Unless your side must win the lead as soon as possible, it seldom pays to tell declarer.
