Hundreds flee from Nevada storm

By ROBERT MACY
The Associated Press

OVERTON, Nev. — Thunderstorms swelled the Muddy River until it poured over its banks here Sunday, flooding up to 150 homes and forcing hundreds of people to escape the waters.

Lightning from the same storms knocked out power to about 10,000 customers, including Nellis Air Force Base, authorities said.

In Las Vegas, police said that nearly every intersection was flooded and warned motorists to stay off roads. Officers said a few homes were evacuated.

There were no reported injuries, but the Moapa Valley towns of Moapa, Glendale, Logandale and Overton, with a combined population of about 5,000, were flooded and blacked out. In the valley 50 miles northeast of Las Vegas, firefighters and Nevada Power Co. officials said.

"We're talking 110, or 150 (homes flooded)," Red Cross volunteer Raymond Dominguez said.

One tornado was verified by the National Weather Service but apparently caused no damage in the sparsely populated area, he said. The Red Cross set up three shelters, where about 450 evacuees had signed in, he added.

Nellis Air Force Base, 10 miles northeast of Las Vegas, was to have provided power to the valley after earlier blackouts, but then Nellis blacked out Sunday afternoon, taking the Moapa Valley with it, said Nevada Power Co. spokesman Murray Westgate.

"We don't know where the lines are down and where the floods have struck," he said. "Lightning strikes in the area are striking power poles. Because of the weather, we've had difficulty in getting our crews to these poles. "I can't give you an estimate of when those people will be back," he said.

Water poured off the mesas which surround the lush 640-square-mile valley, pooling in low-lying residential areas, including the Robin's Nest Trailer Park, where a dozen people were evacuated.

Residents sandbagged their homes as the Muddy River poured over its banks in Moapa, Glendale, Logandale and Overton. The river also flows along part of an Arabian horse ranch owned by entertainer Wayne Newton, but the horses were not endangered, officials said. Some flooding was reported along Interstate 15, the main artery between Las Vegas and Salt Lake City, and Clark County authorities rescued four people who were trapped when their motor home was swamped on the freeway.

The Hidden Valley Ranch, a major dairy farm, was flooded and some 200 people were evacuated from a trailer park near Glendale, 50 miles northeast of Las Vegas.

The river first hit Moapa, where an Indian reservation is located, then headed south. See STORMS on Page A2

Beauty cries foul

Action set on Miss America

By DOLORES BARULAY
The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Vanessa Williams, the reigning Miss America, said Sunday she did not remember ever signing a release for nude photographs taken of her with another woman two years ago, and that the pictures were to have been private.

The pictures, published in the September issue of Penthouse magazine, prompted Miss America Pageant officials to request Miss Williams' resignation. The 21-year-old, Millwood, N.Y., beauty queen was to announce her decision at a Monday afternoon news conference, but declined to reveal it Sunday night.

"I guess no one owns the right in the pictures. It's a legal question," she said in a telephone interview with The Associated Press. "I don't recall signing anything with Tom (Chappel). I remember signing a stat sheet as a model. Every model at the registry had to fill one out."

Miss Williams said from her lawyer's Westchester office that she was assured by Chappel that the pictures were to be artistic photographs, never to be shown publicly, and that she would not be identifiable in them.

The magazine, meanwhile, has hit the streets in some cities, and newsstand dealers reported they were selling quickly.

New advice issued for day after World War III

By BARTON REPPERT
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — A special 25-minute film readied for nationwide broadcast in case there is an imminent threat of atomic war would caution Americans that "the greatest danger is hopelessness, the fear that nuclear attack would mean the end of our world."

If such an attack actually took place, radio messages already recorded by the government would urge survivors to try to contact their families and employers by filling out "Safety Notification" and "Emergency Change of Address" cards at post offices still in operation.

"These are among contingency plans presented in painstaking detail in a new book, 'The Day After World War III,' that has focused fresh attention on civil defense programs of the Federal Emergency Management Agency.

Author Edward Zuckerman, who spent nearly three years researching and writing the book, said he doesn't agree with critics who contend that all civil defense efforts would prove useless.

FEMA's plans for evacuation of cities and other emergency measures, he said, "would definitely save some lives in a nuclear war. Maybe not a lot. We don't know."

However, Zuckerman said in an interview, "you have to look at the role civil defense planning plays in the arms race." With civil defense capabilities viewed as of Italian descent, the U.S.-Soviet strategic balance, the issue "becomes one more bargaining chip on the table in the confrontation between the two nations."

"The Russians can look at our planning, and even if our planning isn't going to work, they can just — be scared by it. Just as we look at Russian civil defense and are scared by it," Zuckerman said.

The Soviet Union has a large-scale civil defense program, including an extensive system of blast shelters for the country's leadership as well as workers at key plants. According to a report issued by FEMA last year, the Soviet program involves more than 100,000 full-time personnel at an estimated cost of about $3 billion annually.

Legal view of divorce can mislead

"Gradually it got so it was like walking into a strange house," says Harry of Jerome about the death of his 18-year marriage. "Finally one night after supper, she said she was going to get a place of her own and I said, 'Fine.' "You can't become nonchalant about marriage. When it ends you think, 'My God, what happened?'"

By PAT MARCANTONIO

TWIN FALLS — On paper, the legal reasons for divorce are curt, sterile and vague. "Unhappy differences have arisen between the parties and these differences have become so great that they are no longer reconcilable," states one case filed in June in Twin Falls County. Its lone representative of most. Until the addition of the term of irreconcilble differences, the stories behind the breakups often were revealed in the legal documents. They now are masked and condensed to a short paragraph or two.

But splintered relationships are not so easily explained in real life.

"I've got nothing against my wives," says Floyd, a veteran of three marriage ceremonies who looks like a colorful figure from the old West. "I never treated them bad. Just couldn't live with them."

A California native now residing in Twin Falls, Floyd is frank about his marital failures. His first wife of 20 years and mother of his five children was of Italian descent. "She was a good woman" but her family always came first and that bothered him. "I was fed up."

So he left home and found another woman, who became wife number two. She was an executive secretary and as he later found, she claims, also was a heroin addict. She spent most of their marriage in treatment, he adds with sadness in his voice.

He doesn't want to talk much about his third wife. "I was probably lonely when I met her."

They parted three years ago after four years of marriage.

Often the roots of dissolution begin when one spouse refuses to grow with the other. Like the Billy Joel song, a partner wakes up to find a stranger in the bed.

Married for more than a decade before her divorce, Loretta of Twin Falls says "I was too young to be married. I tried to be somebody who I was not. I tried to live up to an image, the perfect housewife, the perfect everything."

The marriage went on the back burner, behind the couple's farm and logging business, she adds. They worked well as business partners, but the business of marriage was too much for them. "We never had fun together."

Linda of Kimberly says she believes her husband of 12 years couldn't handle the responsibility of family life, especially after the birth of their four children. He seemed to shun it in favor of outside activities, like bowling and golf.

"Maybe I should have gone more places with him. (But) I felt, 'What more could I have done? What more does he want?'" See DIVORCE on Page A3

Resentment, guilt often continue after divorce becomes final

When her husband of 12 years walked out on her and their four children, says Linda, "I had a lot of hate inside me. Here we had planned all these things, and then boom, all of a sudden, he walks out on the whole thing."

By PAT MARCANTONIO

TWIN FALLS — The bonds of marriage aren't severed with the divorce decree.

The ensuing withdrawal pains can be compared to the grief and other emotions prevalent after the death of someone near and dear.

"You're angry. You try to deny the whole thing. Then, acceptance of the inevitable.

Bill says he resented his spouse, who tired of being a wife and mother after five years of matrimony.

"They had a beautiful daughter and home and good jobs. It was a shock she wanted out. Worse, she snubbed the idea of counseling, adds the Kimberly resident.

"To me, marriage is permanent and a big responsibility and I take two to make it work. I felt I'd give it my best shot." His indignation was not so much from her rejection of him as

"everything" about the situation. "I felt badly for my daughter."

David, a Twin Falls lawyer who recently divorced from his wife of five years, also felt the cessation of a household. "The loss of a wife hasn't been as painful as the loss of a family."

Unlike death, divorce often carries the added weights of guilt, shame and failure.

Judy McAllister, a Twin Falls family therapist, says no matter who files for divorce, both parties suffer guilt.

A 23-year-old from Twin Falls, Amanda blamed herself despite her husband's concession that he was homosexual. "I begged him to stay and told him he even could go out with other men. I thought I should have been more of a wife. It's easy to blame yourself and feel sorry for yourself."

She turned to counseling. Now, Amanda says, she doesn't want him back. "I deserve better."

Anne, a middle-aged Twin Falls woman, lost her first husband to another woman. "I felt ashamed because I was the only one in the family (who divorced)."

Ramona of Twin Falls adds, "It was hard to See FEELINGS on Page A3

Divorce

 Her second husband was good with her children until they became teenagers, Linda adds. "They were good kids, but he was critical."
 She was thrilled when one of her sons went to Boys' State. Her husband's reaction was "So what?"
 Dan of Twin Falls says his 22-year marriage was happy while it lasted, but it finally fell victim to a pattern of sameness.
 "I just did my thing and she did hers. You don't realize it's happening." It happens more and more in our age bracket, says Dan, who is in his 50s. As long as the children are there, you do things together. When they left, she didn't have enough at home to keep her busy, he adds. She began leaving him for weeks at a time to spend with friends and relatives. "That's how we grew apart."
 "She's very content now and she feels strong now. She doesn't depend on me."
 Harry of Jerome is an attractive man who looks younger than his 50-plus years. His first union — two others followed — expired partly because of a lack of a sex life. She was a preacher's daughter who had it drummed into her head that sex was bad, he says.
 With a later wife, he went to the other extreme. They could have

divorce

A FAMILY TRADITION
 spent 24-hours in bed, he says, but nothing else was there.
 Stereotype reactions to divorce paint men as the culprits of marital terminus. They chase younger women. They abuse their wives. They become drunks. They watch sports.
 Ramona of Twin Falls says her husband was hooked on sports and she hated them. "Now I like sports. It was that I resented the fact that they seemed more important (to him). I didn't recognize that I was angry."
 Yet to adapt an old saying, it takes two to divorce. Though her second husband verbally abused her and eventually kicked her children from her first marriage out of the house, Linda thinks she may have been too involved with her children.
 "Maybe I didn't give enough of myself."
 Harry admits his five-month unemployment stint added to the strains on his first marriage. Her years of working nights contributed to her exhaustion at home, Ramona adds.

Though lack of communication is not listed as a set grounds for divorce, it should be. Problems in marriage fester with non-communication until it is too late for them to be healed.
 For David, a successful young Twin Falls lawyer, his wife's announcement that she wanted a divorce came out of the blue. "I thought I was a great guy. (But) I wasn't paying close enough attention to what was happening with the other person and that's critical. I understood her pressure, but I didn't convey that I knew it."
 Ramona adds, "I used to get a lot of 'I love you's' but nothing that showed it. There's nothing worse than being alone when you're with someone."
 She used unconscious tools to express her dissatisfaction. "I went through a period that everything I cooked, I burned and I'm a good cook. If my husband was not interested in what I was doing, I stifled it."
 Some considered and tried counseling to patch problems. But it seemed the gesture was too late. Harry says his wife never met their appointment with a counselor. "I figured; what's the use?"

 admit I had made a mistake in the choice I made." After the divorce, "your emotions are out of whack."
 Linda of Kimberly says her second marriage was bad for a long time. But she tried her best to keep it going, partly because she didn't want another divorce on her hands.
 When her efforts proved fruitless, "I really felt like a failure."
 The loss of a person to support you, McAllister adds, is more devastating than loss of a warm body beside you at night. "When you're depressed, the last thing you think of is sex."
 The termination of a sex life may be tougher on a man in some respects. Men respond more directly to visual cues, like women in tight dresses, says McAllister.
 After a divorce, a man can be as easily sexually stimulated as ever — unless he's depressed.
 A woman, on the other hand, responds more to tenderness and romance. As a result she may go for a long time without sex.
 Some women may find solace for their loneliness in promiscuity where they achieve the closeness without the attachments, McAllister says. From the marriage, sex may have become a mechanical act that can be performed in a promiscuous way.

 Yet the relief from a good time in bed can result in guilt later.
 "I hate for women to go through that (guilt) because it's okay for men to be promiscuous in our culture, but not okay for women to express — the same — feelings," McAllister says.
 Divorce brings other tremendous adjustments. Rita Larom's whole value system underwent an overhaul. Her identity was tied to family, says the Twin Falls woman. She had believed that a relationship should be maintained at any price. "It was the expectation of community, church and her family."
 McAllister says spouses often become so identified with their partner that they don't know who they are after a divorce. There is a crisis of confidence where they question, "Who am I? Can I survive the loss the love?"
 Cathy's adjustment to singlehood was traumatic. After she left her husband two years ago, she went from a large comfortable house to a small apartment, from being an active mother to being alone. She had worked because she wanted to. But after the divorce, it was a matter of necessity.

 The result was severe depression, which she overcame with the help of medication and a therapist.
 Eleanor, who also lives in Twin Falls, says the toughest part after the divorce was becoming suddenly responsible for everything — from the bills to the children.
 Yet, time is one of the best healers for the pain of divorce. And it takes plenty of it to repair the fabric of your life, to return to the day-to-day routine, McAllister adds.
 From a practical standpoint, this means a spouse learning to cook for himself after years of "dinner-ready-on-the-table."
 Healing, however it comes, is necessary for the sake of the future. Like history, divorcees who don't learn from the past may be doomed to repeat it. The same patterns from the old marriage can be carried, like luggage, to the new one.

Amnesty gets modest praise as Poles mark anniversary

By MATTHEW C. VITA
 The Associated Press
 WARSAW, Poland — Poland marked 40 years of Communist rule Sunday with hundreds of political prisoners awaiting freedom under an amnesty and with one prominent jailed Solidarity figure allowed three days' leave from prison to see his ailing mother.
 The amnesty, announced Saturday, drew cautious praise from Roman Catholic Church and Western officials, but was viewed cynically by some Solidarity leaders.
 One of those expressing reservations was the man let out of prison Sunday on compassionate grounds, Andrzej Gwiazda, a former deputy chairman of the outlawed labor movement's ruling body and one of seven senior Solidarity leaders who will be freed under the amnesty.

 Gwiazda, now on a three-day furlough to visit his 77-year-old mother in the hospital, said authorities arrested well-wishers outside his home Sunday.
 Reached by telephone at his apartment in the Baltic port of Gdansk, Gwiazda said he was furloughed because of the amnesty but questioned authorities' motives in freeing political prisoners.
 "It is a gesture of conciliation, but not with us nor with society," said the 49-year-old engineer.
 "This amnesty is only to get some dollars," he said, referring to the possibility the United States and Western Europe may ease sanctions.

 Parliament voted Saturday to free 652 political prisoners and as many as 35,000 common criminals, representing almost half the total prison population, but not those being held in connection with acts of high treason, espionage and sabotage.
 Fifty-one of the political prisoners have already been sentenced and the rest are awaiting trial.
 Justice Ministry officials said some prisoners could be released Monday and women and young offenders would be set free first. Officials said all those covered under the amnesty would be out of jail within 30 days.

Israelis to choose new government

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israel's opposition Labor Party sees victory ahead in Monday's national elections. But Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir's Likud bloc, buoyed by late support from Menachem Begin, said Sunday it has the best chance to form a government.
 Begin, the popular former prime minister and founder of the Likud Party, broke a lengthy fast Sunday to endorse Shamir.
 The 70-year-old Begin said when telephoned by The Associated Press at his Jerusalem home, "I hope the Likud wins the election and that Mr. Yitzhak Shamir will form the next government."

 He declined to answer further questions.
 But the endorsement, which Likud officials said could be crucial in swaying undecided voters, may come too late to save Likud.
 Israel radio said it would not air the report because as a state institution it cannot broadcast items that might affect the election outcome. Israeli newspapers which appear Monday morning, when polling stations open, are under no such constraint, however.

 Two independent polls published on the eve of the elections both showed Labor leading Likud, but winning fewer than the 50 seats in the 120-seat Knesset, or parliament, that Labor says it needs.

Officials ponder fate of drifting Soviet girl

BRainerd, Minn. (AP) — A 14-year-old Soviet girl whose dream is to become a star-ice hockey player has been living in the United States for two years without family or home, drifting from city to city in pursuit of her goal, authorities say.
 The story of Valery Skvoron came to light last week when the owner of the Minnesota Hockey Schools —

Minnewawa Lodge on Clark Lake, north of Brainerd, told authorities he had learned from the girl that she was in the United States illegally and had no home. The school's owner and head coach, Chuck Grillo, contacted the Crow Wing County sheriff's department.
 Sheriff's Investigator Sgt. Frank Ball pieced together the girl's story, after cutting through red tape with the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service and getting nowhere with the Soviet Embassy.

 The INS "said she does have a file and she's what they call a 'stayover,'" Ball said Friday. "She was due to be deported in July 1983, but nobody can find the file. They don't know what to do with her until they find the file."

Other views Americans concerned

If the Soviet government was in any doubt that concern over the fate of Soviet dissident Andrei Sakharov runs across the entire American political spectrum, that doubt should now be dispelled.

According to reports that are still unconfirmed, Sakharov, the most prominent member of the beleaguered Soviet human-rights movement, is being given mind-altering drugs at a Gorky hospital in an effort to force him to abandon his long and valiant struggle for human rights in the Soviet Union.

At this point it is impossible to know whether the reports are true. But they come from Moscow sources considered reliable by Sakharov's stepchildren, who now live in Newton, Mass., and by Great Britain's Keston College, which monitors Soviet dissident activities.

President Reagan has called for a "full accounting" of the whereabouts of Sakharov and his wife, Yelena Bonner. The platform of the Democratic Party, holding its national convention in San Francisco, promises that a Democratic administration would "not be silent" about the treatment of Sakharov and other Soviet dissidents. Black leader Jesse Jackson has said that he will attempt to negotiate Sakharov's release from internal exile during a planned trip to the Soviet Union.

Sakharov, a physicist who won the Nobel peace prize for his outspoken defense of human rights and his calls for disarmament, is said to be confined to a special unit of the Semashko Hospital in Gorky, where he has been living in Kremlin-imposed exile since 1980. There, according to the reports, he has been under psychiatric treatment for several weeks in an effort to induce him to sign a statement renouncing his human-rights activities.

Although the use of psychotropic drugs on Sakharov is alleged in the reports, there is some speculation that the use of hypnosis is more likely because that is the specialty of a leading Moscow psychiatrist who is said to be involved in the case.

Because of his prominence inside and outside the Soviet Union, Sakharov has enjoyed a certain immunity to the more extreme methods of repression used by the security police. If the current reports turn out to be true, it means that the Kremlin has decided to put an end to the Sakharov problem—regardless of angry reaction from scientists and human-rights groups around the world.

The reported abuse of Sakharov in the name of psychiatric treatment is not unique or even unusual in the Soviet Union. As the Kremlin sees it, the Soviet Union is the most just and humane society in the world. Obviously, any Soviet citizen who doesn't agree is mentally ill.

The World Psychiatric Association censured the Soviets in 1977 for putting political dissidents in mental institutions, where some have been treated with special cruelty.

The Soviet practice of locking up politically troublesome citizens is, unfortunately, an established fact. The only question is whether Sakharov is indeed the latest and most prominent victim.

This Republican likes Stallings

Except for their adjournment, it is difficult to recognize any significant achievement coming from the Idaho Republican conclave at Sun Valley.

Like so many people in this state, I too am nauseated with the endless whining and wailing recitations of George Hansen. Of course, one should remember that most convicted criminals have never learned to shoulder responsibility for their unacceptable behavior.

Though I am a registered Republican, I have never voted for George. He has never impressed me as one I would choose to represent me. His subsequent actions in this long financial fiasco have only served to justify my consistent evaluations of him.

I agree with his peers and the trial judge in this case. To me he plainly deserves the slammer. Our several contacts in the nation's capitol are quick to chide us about Idaho's convicted felon.

Then, without exception, they assure us that even a lamp post at the zoo has more credibility in Washington than does George Hansen.

So what good could he possibly do for any of us? He has further disgraced himself and this state by denouncing and ridiculing the very government he pretends he is worthy to serve. We certainly can no longer afford him.

—The church to which George and I belong does not teach us dishonesty in any disguise. Quite the opposite! We are taught to live within our means and to be scrupulous in paying our debts, even if doing so would reduce us to getting off our duffs and going to work.

It is very obvious that decent people of character and integrity must band together and refuse to support a convicted criminal. To this end I pledge my full support and efforts to Richard Stallings; and if contacted will assist his campaign in any way I can. I can foresee absolutely nothing to impede "Republicans for Stallings."

Time for Idaho to enter 1980s

The only thing that Big George "the bullfoot" Hansen has done for Idaho is give it a poor reputation. Idaho people should not only be embarrassed, they should be mortified that a man of his stature continues to maintain a seat in the U.S. House.

At least, the House is smart enough to see George's character, they have kicked him out of every committee possible. All George has ever fought for is trying to keep the money he has swindled from supporters under his breath.

Idaho, don't you think it's time that we elect someone which can have an active and respected voice in the House? George Hansen cannot possibly do that considering his position with the House. It's men like Hansen which keep Idaho stagnant. We must move on.

As far as George's opposition and charges; how can someone have too much opposition when more than $100,000 disappears? And then reappears in a mysterious bank account?

Anyway, George Hansen is no longer capable of supporting Idaho in a helpful way, it's time for a new beginning. Bring on the 80s.

Foreign policy brings center position

WASHINGTON — Tocqueville and other worthies are constantly being cited to prove that democracies lack the constancy and focus to run a good foreign policy.

Many heads nod in assent at the suggestion that elections introduce great distortions into our policy. To which I say: nonsense. Thank heavens for elections. Thank heavens in particular for the 1984 campaign. Its influence so far is generally benign.

The 1976 election, shadowed by Vietnam and Watergate, did produce a distortion: a president, Jimmy Carter, who is still speaking of foreign policy — as he did at the Democratic convention Monday — as therapy and moral balm. The 1980 election, shadowed by Afghanistan and Iran, also produced a distortion: a president, Ronald Reagan, who is still speaking of foreign policy — as he did on Captive Nations Day Monday — as struggle and a moral crusade.

So vivid are the perceptions of both Carter's and Reagan's excesses, however, that both political parties are being tipped toward the mainstream this year. Each retains, and will certainly broaden, a view of the other as representing an extreme. The substantive motion, however, is going the right way.

Consider that Tuesday on the convention floor the Mondale forces soundly defeated two stiff challenges to the Mondale foreign-policy platform — on defense spending and the conditions of use of nuclear weapons — that Jesse Jackson had raised from the left.

A similar challenge, embodied in Gary Hart's terms of military intervention, Mondale decided to let pass. He did, however, object to the "vagueness" of the Hart language and promise to offer "clarifying language" indicating his disagreement with it.

That same day President Reagan was making front-page news at the White House by coming to agreement with the Soviet Union on the "modest but positive" step of upgrading the hot line the two nations set up after the Cuban missile crisis of 1962. This is one of a number of small things he has undertaken to get more on the right side of the peace issue.

You could say that both presidential candidates are tilting to the center, or seeming to, in a way calculated to deprive the other of a campaign issue. Mondale is reducing his exposure to charges of being soft and Reagan his to charges of being a nuclear cowboy. The latest gestures will not expunge these charges from the campaign, but they show the way both contenders think the wind is blowing.

On this score, there is confirming evidence from the new "Great Decisions" poll of the Foreign Policy Association. On the question of relations with the Soviet Union, only 3 percent of the tabulated ballots were ready to "give priority to a military buildup and recognize that U.S.-Soviet interests are irreconcilable." A strong 57 percent would "maintain military strength but take the initiative to reconcile U.S.-Soviet differences," while some 37 percent approved giving "priority to cooperation and reconciliation of those differences." Politically — and in my view — in policy, the place to be is with the 57 percent.

The same poll asked what would most likely strengthen U.S. security. The answers averaged out to 23 percent for building up strategic forces, 15 percent for building only second-strike forces, 32 percent for a freeze, 15 percent for cuts. The Democratic convention, I thought, pointed mostly the same way. Its emphasis on peace issues as distinguished from defense issues was unmistakable. I regret that discretion led Mondale to sidestep a floor fight on the Hart intervention plank. Still, the political space seems to be there for Mondale to pursue a policy that will not isolate him from the mainstream.

Partisans of either party may grumble at the spectacle of the other party's stealing some of its campaign thunder. In recent years, however, the foreign-policy choice has seemed to be between dramatic new departures, which have too often produced polarization and frustration, and a more steady, incremental, even plodding approach, with the promise of finding and building an essential stabilizing measure of public support.

Strategy calls for Bush to be dragged into the campaign

The president and his chief political advisers were watching the Democratic National Convention last Thursday in the upstairs sitting room of the White House. After seeing the reception Geraldine Ferraro got, one of the aides said, "Well, are you now convinced, Mr. President, that we still have a gender gap?"

The president said, "I've done more for women than any president in history."

"You know that and we know that. But the country doesn't know it. You've got to fight fire with fire."

"You mean dump George Bush as my running mate?"

"Not necessarily. Can we get him over here?"

The president picked up the phone and said to the operator, "Is Vice President Bush in town?"

"Yes, sir, he's in his burning. Good, ask him to come over." The president hung up. "I appointed the first woman to the Supreme Court. The women didn't hold a 20-minute demonstration in Moscone Hall when I did that," Reagan said.

you like my running mate?"

Vice President Bush came into the room dressed in tennis whites.

"You've got the way I'm dressed, sir. But you told me you didn't want to see me until next Tuesday."

"It's all right, George. I'm glad to see you any time."

Bush looked around at the grim faces on the president's staff. "Oh no, don't tell me I have to go to another state funeral."

"Sorry about the way I'm dressed, sir," the president said. "Have you been watching the Democratic National Convention?"

"On and off. They're in a mess, aren't they?"

"Yes and no," the president said. "The boys are very concerned about Geraldine Ferraro on Mondale's ticket. It could upset our entire campaign strategy."

"Don't worry about that, sir. I can handle Rep. Ferraro. Hey, I heard a very funny joke in the tennis locker room about Geraldine and Fritz."

"Cool it, George. We can't tell any Ferraro-Fritz jokes in the White House. If just one leaks out to the press, we're dead."

"Well, what do you want me to do?"

Mike Deaver cleared his throat. "George, would you have any objection to showing up at the Republican Convention in drag?"

"You've got to be kidding!" Bush said. "Mr. President, they are kidding, aren't they?"

The president said, "The boys think it might help us with the women voters."

Deaver said, "We have the guy from Hollywood who did Dustin Hoffman's make-up in 'Bootsie,' and he'll do a wonderful job on you. There'll be a woman in America who will recognize you."

"I won't do it," George said. "I don't care how many votes it brings to the party. Besides, I have nothing to wear."

Jim Baker said, "Just try on one of Nancy Reagan's Adolfo suits. If it doesn't look good on you, we'll be the first to tell you."

"How long do I have to go in drag?" George said as he slipped on a skirt.

"Only until November," Deaver told him.

"After that, you'll be your own man."

Party lines now optional, but privacy costs

By BOB FREUND
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS. — No more waiting for the party line to clear. No more clicking on the line when a party line partner wants to make a call.

To many rural telephone users, the arrival of private phone service has been an event worth anticipating. For decades, the only way many could get a phone has been to tie into a party line.

The long-awaited change recently has come to the 579 party-line users in the Twin Falls area. Although they don't have to switch until mid-1985, the customers can jump off the party line and on to a private line right away. Affected are the 733, 734, 735, 736 and 737 exchanges.

Twin Falls and other Magic Valley communities are being outfitted for OPUS — One Party Universal Service — in a $40 million project that began in 1981 and will be completed by 1988.

Mountain Bell now is encouraging Twin Falls party line patrons to grab the chance to switch now. Until July 31, it is waiving the normal $25.50 service charge and allowing subscribers to change for free. That's a significant savings.

But party-line users also may gulp when they find out where their phone bill will be headed once they make the change.

The monthly rate for basic service — that allows unlimited local phone calls — will climb anywhere from 24 to 111 percent. Most patrons will be paying in the neighborhood of between 45 and 67 percent more, according to Mountain Bell rate schedules.

For customers living close in to the city zone, where the central switching office is, the increases are relatively minor. For instance, a patron on a four-party line within the city of Twin Falls actually will wind up paying only $3.21 a month more for basic service by signing up for a private line. The basic monthly rate, which entitles customers to unlimited phone calls in the Twin Falls area, now is $10.88.

Only a handful of party lines remain in the city, though. Most party lines exist out in the country, and rates in rural areas go up the further the phone is from the central office. So, four-party customers outside the city instead are starting at increases ranging from $5.55 a month to $11.43 for switching to private lines.

The rates for people with two-party lines rise less drastically because they have been paying for higher level of service in the past.

The extra price for a single line for them ranges from $3.71 a month to $6.02.

Anyone who has a private line in the farthest zone from the main office, which reaches to about five miles north of Hollister, is paying $21.72 a month for basic service, according to the rate schedule.

Mountain-Bell officials and, apparently, state regulators say the zone system makes a lot of sense.

"The further away from a central office, the more expensive it is to provide telephone service," says Mountain-Bell spokesman Steve Guerber. "If we don't charge the customer who generates the cost by deciding to live-miles-and-miles-out-in-the-country... then the other customers get charged for it."

Actually, the dense concentrations of phone patrons inside the city are paying for most of the outlying phone system anyway, he says.

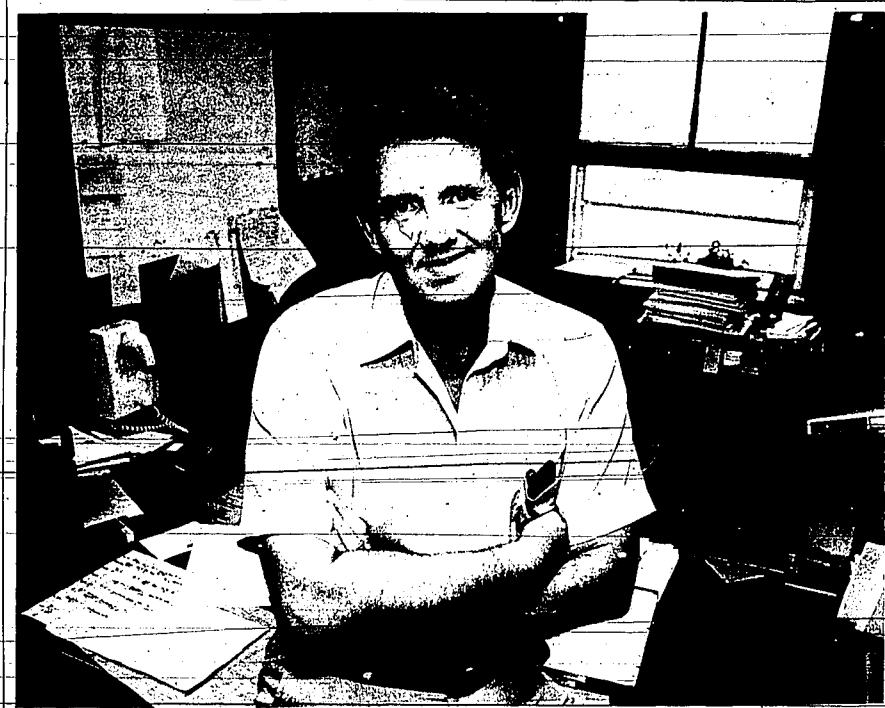

"Rural people are subsidized by rate payers in the city. There's no question about that," Guerber says. If they were to pay the full price, few people could afford a phone, he says.

By June 1, 1986, everyone in the Twin Falls service area will have a private line, whether they want it or not. Of course, Mountain Bell would rather switch phones over right away. Company officials also report much interest in getting lines changed.

The phone company can point to distinct advantages of single line service. The obvious one is privacy. The single lines also can handle special services, such as call forwarding — and — can — carry — computer transmissions.

But are the advantages worth the extra cost?

Robert Hutchin plans only some fine tuning for the Castleford School District — the organization he begins to lead this fall

Farm country lured superintendent

By ANNETTE CARY
Times-News writer

CASTLEFORD. — New Castleford Superintendent Robert Hutchin says he has few changes planned for the district.

"I understand the teachers are satisfied with the way things are," he says, after starting work last week. "I hear the standardized achievement scores are quite high. That speaks well of the district and the teachers. Looking at that, I wouldn't anticipate making any vast changes at all."

He may be taking a look at the curriculum and forming committees to help him, however.

The middle school math program could become more flexible, so both slow and fast learners could work at their own pace, he says. And he would like to see the reading program from kindergarten through high school, and possibly the high school offerings, studied by school officials, even though he emphasizes that no changes may be necessary.

"For a school district this size, the offerings look fine," he says.

The school's size was one of the factors that attracted him to Castleford, he says. From 1975 to 1983, he served as assistant superintendent in Newberg, Ore. But over the years the town became a satellite of Portland and Hutchin became tired of "traffic and breathing bad air," so he took a job as a psychologist in a Thompson Falls, Mont., school for special education students.

He applied for the Castleford position to return to school administration and to continue living in a small, rural community, he says.

"By past experience as a teacher, I found farming communities good places to work," he says. "I like the attitude of the kids and the attitude of the parents. Parents respect the school and support it."

That attitude is passed on to their children who "tend to be a little more serious about school than kids in larger towns. Maybe they are more appreciative of education."

Hutchin's immediate goals are to become familiar with the district and to work on plans for a new high school to be paid for with a $1.05 million bond levy passed in May.

He would like to have architects' plans approved by Monday so the district can start receiving bids in time for an early fall groundbreaking. Then construction could be completed by the time the 1985-86 school year begins.

He is also juggling classes to compensate for the one classroom, much of the library and half of the typing room that may have to be torn down to make room for the new high school building.

The loss of space will not make any difference in the high school offerings, however, and the library will be relocated and open as usual.

Salmon Falls link set Road opening to South Hills

By DAVE MOFFATT
Times-News correspondent

TWIN FALLS. — Motorists should be able to travel all the way into the South Hills on a temporary section of the Rock Creek Road by next week, reports the director of the Twin Falls Highway District.

At the same time, bids will be opened Monday to construct a temporary crossing of Salmon Falls Creek at Balanced Rock, with the goal of opening that farm-to-market crossing by harvest time.

Both projects were necessitated by spring flooding that caused an estimated $1.3 million damage to roads in Twin Falls County.

Runoff from the South Hills washed out about a mile of the Rock Creek Road, cutting it completely in places. The Balanced Rock Grade washed out after a culvert there blocked up with debris borne down Salmon Falls Creek Canyon as a result of spills from the dam above.

Clyde Burney, director of the Twin Falls District, says two gravel lanes will be opened through damaged sections of the Rock Creek Road sometime next week.

The approximate $53,000 cost of the project is being split by the district and the U.S. Forest Service in hopes of reimbursement later this summer from the Federal Department of Transportation.

The loss of the Balanced Rock Grade is a problem for farmers in the Castleford area, who normally use that crossing to bring their potatoes to Twin Falls, Burney says. It is 42 miles farther to truck produce north to U.S. Highway 30, then southeast through Buhl.

Burney said he did not know the type of temporary crossing that would be installed at Balanced Rock or its cost, which will be split between the Buhl and Twin Falls districts.

The districts are hoping reimbursement for the full cost of temporary and permanent repairs to the two sections of highway, plus Lily Grade will be forthcoming from Washington, D.C.

A request for money was made earlier this summer under emergency repair provisions of the Federal Aid Secondary Road program. Burney says he does not know when action will be taken on that request by the U.S. Department of Transportation.

Recreation center greeted by growth

By GRANT J. HANSEN
Times-News writer

BURLEY. — The opening of the new Soroplotist Recreation Center last January created a lot of interest in indoor recreation activities and has resulted in increased participation, from 30 to 700 people.

"We have increased from four to 44 indoor, non-sports programs," says Ron Ploger, recreation director for the city of Burley.

The recreation center, which is located at 2435 Overland Avenue, offers ceramics, art, dance and aerobic classes as well as a Pee Wee day camp for children ages 4 to 9. A room is available for community meetings, receptions and anniversaries. Service groups can rent a room for $5 per hour and private groups for $7 per hour.

"One of the goals of the city council and recreation department is to have a self-supporting facility," Ploger explains.

The idea for a recreation center was developed in 1982 by Mayor Chuck Shaddock and Ploger, who wanted to organize an indoor recreation program. The city had title to a 3,000 square-foot house next to the Gen Cemetery. They approached the Burley Soroplotist Club about donating money to remodel it, buy kilns and other equipment and furniture.

Marion Walker, the Burley Soroplotist president for 1981-82, said the organization had been saving money for an indoor swimming pool for several years, but the costs had proved too prohibitive. They decided that they must do something else with the $10,000 they had saved, she says.

"When city officials presented their plans for a recreation center to us, the members were excited and wanted to participate." The figure that they (Shaddock and Ploger) came up with was $12,000, which "we contributed," she notes.

The Burley Soroplotists received an award from the Soroplotist dis-

Camp for recreation vehicles planned at Magic Reservoir

By JANENE BUCKWAY
and Swen

SHOSHONE. — Improved recreation facilities at Magic Reservoir are being planned by the Bureau of Land Management.

The Magic Recreation Area Management Plan completed by the BLM district offices in Shoshone July 16 includes development of a recreation vehicle campsite at Dinosaur Ridge on the southeast shore of the lake.

Magie Dam was constructed by the Idaho Irrigation Company in 1909 to provide irrigation water to the Richfield, north Shoshone and north Gooding areas.

BLM Outdoor Recreation Planner Dick Kodeski, of Shoshone says during the 75 year history of the dam and reservoir, the site has become a favorite outdoor recreation and fishing area, drawing people from around the region.

A use study conducted by the BLM at Magic Reservoir a few years ago, shows 45,000 visitor use days annually. Kodeski adds that most of that use is concentrated in the summer boating and fishing season.

"The area serves lots of people and we would like to be able to serve them well," Kodeski said.

He explained that the reservoir is an excellent, high quality fishery. The man-made lake is stocked with fish by Idaho Department of Fish and Game and the fertility of the water helps them grow big," he added.

Fishing is the most popular activity at the reservoir, but Kodeski says many people combine fishing and camping and that boating, water skiing and wind surfing are growing in popularity at the scenic waterway.

Several public agencies, the BLM, Fish and Game, Wood River Resource, Conservation and Development Area, Idaho Department of Parks and Recreation and the county commissions of the eight Magic Valley counties, along with recreation clubs and private sportsmen have been working on the plan for Magic Reservoir.

"We (BLM) manage 14,770 of the 21,544 acres in the Magic Recreation area, so we were the logical ones to handle the plan, but we've had a great deal of public input," Kodeski said, adding that the BLM got involved because of the large numbers of complaints and concerns that have been voiced to that agency.

Three major areas of action are being considered: development of the recreation site at Dinosaur Ridge, complete with electric hook-ups, shade, water and an RV waste dump; improved access to the area, including new access at Dinosaur Ridge and Myrtle Point and additional parking turn outs for fishermen along the Richfield Canal; and establishment of "length of stay" regulations.

The plan proposes that campers within 100 yards of the high water can only stay in the same camp site for 10 continuous days and that campers within 1/4 mile of the reservoir can only stay at the same place for 30 days.

Kodeski explained there have been some problems in the past with people settling up "permanent camps," complete with gardens, flag poles, boat docks and building foundations.

The purpose of the plan is to provide the most quality recreation to the most people with a minimum of disturbance to the natural features of the area, said Kodeski. He said actual construction of the improvements will begin as funding is available.

"We hope to have the plan implemented in the next 4-5 years," he said.

The plan also contains a back-up proposal for development of campsites at Moonstone Recreation Site or Lower Poison Creek on the north end of the reservoir near where Carnas Creek enters the lake. If the numbers of campers using the lake indicates more space is needed or the Dinosaur Ridge site proves unfeasible.

Kodeski said the Dinosaur Ridge area is the preferred site because it is on the steep, eastern shore of the lake and would be the last area to be left "high and dry" as the water recedes during the irrigation season.

School board reorganizes, adopts raises for some workers

By SARAH MURPHY
Times-News correspondent

RUPERT — Bob Harman of Rupert was sworn in this week as a new member of the Board of Trustees for the Minidoka County School District. Harman replaces outgoing trustee Lynn Schodde of zone five.

Board Chairman Richard Swensen presented Schodde with a plaque commending his outstanding performance as a trustee for the Minidoka District from 1981-84.

A new chairman, Russell Holland, was unanimously elected by the board to replace Swensen who has served as board chairman for the past two years.

In other business:

• The board adopted a five percent increase in the salaries for non-certified personnel who serve on the Migrant Education Resource Committee.

Minidoka Superintendent Gene Snapp said that cut-backs in state funds have practically eliminated MERC at Nampa.

The cut-back is causing a transfer of services and equipment to the Minidoka center, which will be serving the needs of migrant education in a great deal of southern Idaho, said Snapp.

• The board rescinded an earlier decision to transfer sixth and seventh grade students from East-Minico Junior High school to West Minico Junior High.

The move was originally slated to equalize the student populations in the two buildings, alleviating an overcrowding situation in the district by transferring 30 students from East Minico to the less crowded West Minico building.

Snapp said that he had been informed that the Paul Housing Authority would be increased to 80 family units by August 27, possibly increasing the student population at West Minico by 40 students this fall.

The board ruled that they would transfer only the sixth grade students, as previously planned, leaving the seventh graders in their presently assigned buildings.

The board also ruled that East Minico seventh graders desiring to be moved to West Minico would be moved on request.

• The board delayed action on the 90 percent attendance policy until their August meeting. This will allow district trustees more time to consider and discuss the provisions of the guidelines set down for use by Idaho school districts by the State Commission on Educational Excellence.

Snapp said the Minidoka district is making a great effort to comply with the committee's recommendations in order to increase the opportunities for good instruction in district classrooms.

"Every effort has been made, and will be made, to do the best we can," said Snapp.

• The board decided to set a date for a new bond proposal election for sometime in early September. The exact date will be set at a special meeting in late July or early August, said Snapp.

He went on to say that the district's financial consultants have advised him that the bond market will improve by September giving the district the advantage of offering bonds at a better rate of interest.

Snapp also pointed out that the new bond proposal will be increased to just under $6 million as compared to the $37 for the same package turned down by district voters last November.

"The longer we delay in passing a school bond issue, the more money it will cost us," he explained.

• The board voted to advertise bids for five new diesel 65-passenger buses to be opened at the August meeting.

District Transportation Superintendent Lou-Freeze said that the diesel-powered buses cost the district six cents per mile, half the maintenance and operating expenses of the gasoline-powered units.

• The board ruled that the prime concern of school bus transportation is the safety and adequate protection of the pupils.

Because of this concern, the board adopted a new policy that states that "no authorization shall be granted to school bus drivers to allow their pre-school-age children to accompany them on the bus."

• The board "regretfully" accepted the resignation of West Minico Junior High School's principal, Mike Chesley; to allow him to go to Arizona for family reasons.

A resignation was also accepted from district teacher, Sharon Ostermeler.

DUI charge issued after crash

MOUNTAIN HOME — A 22-year-old Twin Falls woman, Valerie Massee, was being held in the Elmore County Jail Sunday awaiting arraignment on a charge of aggravated driving while under the influence of an intoxicant.

State police in the Boise district said Massee, accompanied by a passenger, Deborah Vincent, 19, of Jerome, were traveling east on Interstate 84 about one mile east of Hammett. Massee's vehicle crashed into the rear of another east bound vehicle driven by Richard Wheeler, 56, of Boise.

The collision knocked the Wheeler vehicle out of control, officers said, and it rolled over into the median. Wheeler and his five passengers were injured. He and four of the persons in his car were thrown out. His wife, Lucille Wheeler, remained in the car. Massee and her passenger were uninjured.

Elmore County sheriff's officers said Massee is scheduled for arraignment today in Mountain Home.

Climber dies after 200-foot plunge

ELKO, Nev. — A plunge 200 feet down a cliff in Lamolite Canyon southeast of here Saturday claimed the life of a young Hammett, Idaho resident Saturday afternoon.

Lt. James Ruble of the Elko County Sheriff's office identified the victim as Keith Luker, 20, who would have been 21 on Tuesday. Luker and three other men were climbing in the canyon about 1:30 p.m. when Luker lost his footing and fell from the top of a cliff in the canyon area.

Officers said his companions went for help and Luker was dead when officers arrived at the scene.

It was necessary for officers, assisted by a search and rescue unit member, to hike up the canyon wall to where Luker fell and carry the body back down to a waiting ambulance. Elko County officials said it was not known if Luker was an experienced climber. Other members of the climbing party were not injured.

trict for the best community project.

"We are proud of it (the center). If they (Recreation Department) need anything, we will be glad to donate more," Walker states.

The city has contributed the labor for the remodeling, plumbing, electrical, painting, and general maintenance. At the present time, the city is tearing down the old patio roof and replacing it, reports Shaddock.

To prevent any additional costs to the city, the instructors for the classes are contracted on a percentage of the program revenues. The remaining money goes for maintenance and utilities.

"Our goal is to have it open for a 10-hour day. We will hire a director or a secretary to coordinate the programs. We don't want a large program, and we want it to be self-supporting. We are hopeful that it can

Phones

Some party line users may figure the freedom to use the phone at any time is worth it. Others may figure the extra price is too steep and hold out until they're forced to change.

Don Tomkins, who lives south of Twin Falls in the farthest zone, will have to pay $11.43 more every month if he buys a single line. He figures he can save $240 until he has to switch in 1986. So, "I'll stay on the four-party line for the next two years," he says.

Even a cut-rate package wouldn't soften the increase much because they base fees on the distance of each local phone call.

The state PUC approved the zone fee system used by Mountain Bell back in 1979. With recent changes in the phone industry, the commission is taking another look at how Mountain Bell prices phone service in the state. The zone system, access charges and other issues are on the schedule, says Marsha Smith, deputy attorney general assigned to the PUC, who works with Mountain Bell issues. The commission has said it will hold field hearings throughout the state if it is asked by citizens, she says. They can do that by contacting the PUC in Boise.

But the hearings most likely won't change one trend that is becoming more obvious. Local phone service will become more costly, and those farthest from the main stations will be paying more of the costs of putting telephones in their homes or businesses.

Rerun letter on teenager's death angers Missouri reader

DEAR ABBY: For years, the first thing I used to read in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat was your column, but you have just lost a reader.

Abigail VanBuren
Dear Abby

Why? Because I hate your reruns! These people who ask you to print a letter because they think it's so good, let them get a scrapbook and save the ones they like; so the rest of us won't have to be bored with them.

"Please, God, I'm Only 17," about the dead teen-ager in a car wreck, is one I really hate. I don't feel sorry for some jerk kid who kills himself doing 80 mph in a souped-up jalopy. I see kids like him every day around here, bouncing up and down in their seats, hitting the roof of the car with their heads.

dope or drunk on beer they can't feel a thing. And they all turn up their radios so loud you can hear them a block away.

This may sound cold to you, but if they kill themselves, it's fine with me; there's just one less nut on the road.

Like I said, Abby, you just lost a reader in St. Louis.

—FRED D., ELDON, MO.
DEAR FRED: Sorry, I hate to lose a reader, but I've heard from hundreds of readers (mostly teenagers) urging me to run that letter every year. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: I am a 16-year-old boy—and I usually have fairly good control of my emotions. I mean, it takes a lot to make me cry, but when I read that letter in your column

"Please, God, I'm Only 17," I couldn't hold back the tears. I just never had anything hit me like that letter did.

It made me realize a lot of things. For one, it made me realize how much it would hurt my parents and grandparents if I ended up like that kid did, all because I chose to drive faster than I should.

It also made me promise myself that I would never, never take a drink of anything—not even beer—and then get behind the wheel of a car. I also promised myself that if I am in a car and the driver starts to drive recklessly or foolishly fast, I will try to talk some sense into him—or her—and if I can't, I will insist on being let out of that car, no matter where I am—or what time it is.

Thank you, Abby, for printing that letter. Please run it every spring just before the kids have their proms because that's the time most kids get killed in car accidents.

I never realized how much one letter could change my life. Keep up the good work.

—RICK IN INDIANA
DEAR ABBY: I just read your column about weddings that were stopped when the question was asked, "If there is anyone present who knows why this couple should not be joined in holy matrimony, let him speak now or forever hold his peace."

I would like to add my own experience—I was a 19-year-old bride in 1933. The man I was about to marry was 26, and we had gone together for two years.

We walked down the aisle of a little country church filled with friends and relatives. When the preacher asked if anybody present knew why we shouldn't be married, I spoke up and said, "I cannot marry Allen (his real name) because when he asked me to marry him, I told him I would on the condition that he never take another drink of whiskey again. He swore he wouldn't with his hand on a Bible, but as we were walking down the aisle I smelled liquor on his breath!"

The guests were shocked, the wedding was called off and my daddy said he was proud of me. Allen left town, and two years later I married a nice non-drinking man. Next May we'll have been married 50 years.

—TRUE STORY FROM NORTH CAROLINA

L.M. Boyd What's what

To replace human nose tissue, early plastic surgeons cut a long flap on the scalp and folded it down to grow in place. Later, they severed the scalp connection, and trimmed, and routinely needed a haircut on the nose.

The impoverished people of Peru, Mass., didn't know how they could survive in the early 1800s. So the town's bigwigs held a public auction. And sold off the poor people as servants.

That pox called chicken incubates just about as long as does a hen's egg before it hatches, thus the name.

SOVIET JOB

Q. What's the most popular occupation of college graduates in the Soviet Union?
 A. Taxicab driver. Or so it's reported in the Chronicle of Higher Learning. The chance to pick up extra money is what reportedly interests those drivers. They can sell vodka to passengers.

Q. How come nobody knows where coconut palms originated?

A. Because coconuts float. They drift thousands of miles and take root wherever they wash ashore.

Q. In computer lingo, what's a "logic bomb"?
 A. Hidden instructions in software. Example: A logic bomb can be written into a program to make it self-destruct after so much usage, unless the user pays a renewal fee to extend.

IN THE STICKS

It was the literary conversationalists, not the blue-collar talkers, who coined the phrase "out in the sticks" to mean unlovely rural places. Originally, some claim, this was an allusion to mythology's notion that souls went to Hades by crossing the River Styx.

Consider yourself a Seasoned Citizen, too. If you remember the old Indian motorcycle, first of this country's power two-wheelers. Started in 1901. Folded in 1953.

Big hens don't necessarily lay big eggs. Sounds like a moral from Aesop, but it's not. A small biological fact, nothing more.

In both Pennsylvania and North Carolina, it's against the law for a clerk in a wine store to recommend this over that.

You can get 1,200 copies of the National Geographic out of one cord of wood.

Daily Horoscope

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Start the new week wisely by putting in motion the practical decisions that you made over the weekend, for as soon as they are completed you will be able to devise a better course of action.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) - The practical side of life needs better organization. Some special thought for the one you love pays off well.

TALIBUS (April 20 to May 20) You made decisions over the weekend and now is the time to put them in effect. Look to friends for assistance.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Seek best manner to gain your secret aims early and then be with good friends at amusements. Drive carefully.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) A good pal will join in some fine idea you have, but later do your part of necessary work privately.

LFO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Get busy at career work and later you can be with those who can assist you to gain personal wishes. Show that you are sane.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Concerns are not the primary concern; them in operation as quickly as possible, and then bring them to the attention of the public.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You can handle business affairs very well so with practical-minded persons and then you can find a better way to get ahead.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get into the practical matters that are important with those in the outside world early, then do whatever will please your partners.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Week begins properly if you concentrate on the tasks at hand and complete them, then you can be concerned with new ideas.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Work on creative ideas and make them practical and profitable and do the work required. Listen to your mate's desires.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Make sure you keep any promise you made to family during the weekend, then later gad about town happily.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Find the right way to deal with contacts so they get good results and later you can be happy at home with kin.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have much ability in the field of building and accumulate a good deal of money early in life, but should be taught to be more cooperative with others and show more generosity where needed. This will be a most worthwhile citizen.

Parties face unique decisions

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Geraldine Ferraro's selection as the Democrats' vice-presidential nominee leaves the brain trusts of both Walter F. Mondale and President Reagan wrestling with decisions unique to a presidential campaign.

With Ms. Ferraro's star on the rise, Mondale must be careful not to let his own stature be eclipsed by his running mate. Voters might not cross town to hear Mondale, but they probably will go to great lengths to lay eyes on the first major woman vice presidential candidate. But "if you pull the lever for Ferraro, you pull it for Fritz too," said Democratic operative Bill Bronrott.

On the other side, President Reagan, never a hero of the feminist movement, is sure to send administration women out on the campaign trail to counter the novelty of Ms. Ferraro's candidacy.

Political analysts believe that role will be played mostly by Transportation Secretary Elizabeth Dole, a team player known for her political savvy. A quick-witted bureaucrat, Mrs. Dole is credited by women Democrats as having the ability, experience and stature to lackie Ms. Ferraro on the issues.

But Mondale supporters say the Republicans have few other women who can command enough national attention to keep GOP feminists from bolting the party in November.

"I don't like Reagan's politics and I don't care for Mondale either but now that Ferraro is here it gives me another option," said one California GOP feminist.

Kidnap victim relates tale of fear

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wealthy kidnap victim Edith Rosenkranz told Sunday how she was kept blindfolded for 48 hours and threatened with death as she was driven through the nation's capital in a van, relying on faith for strength until her release minutes before her abductors were arrested.

Rosenkranz, pharmaceutical millionaire and tournament bridge player, told a news conference. She said her captors were "not rough" but "they said they might kill me if I did not do what I was told."

"I always had great hope it would end well," she said. She said she was blindfolded throughout her two-day captivity. She said, however, she never feared for her life. Mrs. Rosenkranz was released Saturday night three blocks from the White House after her husband dropped a briefcase containing what police called a "substantial" ransom in an Alexandria, Va., parking lot. Authorities refused to say the amount but Washington television stations said it was $1 million.

Congressmen back to work

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress ends a three-week recess and returns to work Monday facing an election-year agenda dominated by controversial issues that divide President Reagan and Democratic challenger Walter Mondale.

The stack of unresolved issues include: proposed changes in immigration law, covert U.S. aid to the CIA-backed Nicaraguan rebels, authorization of more MX missiles and sex discrimination on college campuses.

Mondale's nomination as their party's presidential nominee gives congressional Democrats an official leader around whom they can rally for battle in the final weeks of the current session.

Mondale has consistently rejected legislation to change the immigration code, while the White House is supporting a version of the Simpson-Mazzoli bill passed by the Republican-dominated Senate.

This bill, which would grant amnesty to as many as 7½ million illegal aliens, is significantly different than the version that squeaked through the Democrat-controlled House on a 216-211 vote June 20.

The House eliminated criminal sanctions for employers who knowingly hire illegal aliens and added language allowing unlimited entry of temporary workers to harvest crops.

Comatose girls to be sent home

BALTIMORE (AP) — Two mothers are converting living rooms into bedrooms for this week's return home of their two comatose daughters, five months after the neighborhood friends nearly drowned in an icy stream.

Rachel Kirtscher, 9, and Danielle Casper, 8, stand little chance of recovering in "any substantial fashion," according to their doctor. But their mothers say they hope a home environment will do what medicine has not.

"I didn't bring my daughter into this world to have her lying in a hospital," Joan Kirtscher, Rachel's mother, said last week as she cleaned the floors and walls of the room that will be her daughter's new bedroom. "I love my child too much to do that."

"I keep hoping and praying for a miracle. You've got to," she said in an interview at her two-story brick home in northeastern Baltimore. "If I let go, then Rachel and Danielle will get too. You just can't do that."

Rachel and Danielle suffered extensive brain damage when they plunged through the ice of a stream near their homes Feb. 8. Now both are in good enough condition to leave the Johns Hopkins Children's Center, said Dr. John Freeman, director of pediatric neurology.

Rachel is scheduled to go home Monday and Danielle Thursday; both will require round-the-clock care which the hospital has been teaching their mothers to provide.

CALLING LONG DISTANCE IN IDAHO?

Mountain Bell makes it easy.

Just as always, simply dial 1 + the number. That's all it takes to place direct-dialed calls within your calling area. And since you already have our service, you can make that call right now.

A word about calling areas. As a result of the Bell System breakup on January 1, 1984, federal ruling divided Idaho into two long distance calling areas. The boundaries of each area are outlined on the map. We handle all calls made south of the Salmon River.

That means that a call placed from Boise to Pocatello, for instance, would be listed on your phone bill as a Mountain Bell call. But calls placed from one area to another—from Boise to Lewiston, for example—would be carried by another long distance company of your choice.

If you've chosen AT&T Communications to carry these calls, the charges will appear under the AT&T portion of your Mountain Bell bill. However, you may have the option of choosing other companies besides AT&T. Check local advertising or your Yellow Pages for these companies.

Find out more with our free road map and long distance brochure. The brochure contains a handy road map of Idaho, with your long distance calling area boundaries clearly marked for quick reference. Plus it provides detailed information about our service, including the wide range of home and business features we offer.

To receive your brochure, fill out the coupon below and send it in to us. Or call our "Let's Talk Center" toll-free at 1.800.555-5000. Discover how easy long distance calling can be when you call on Mountain Bell.

Renwick reels in triumph at tennis tourney

By FLYNN MCROBERTS
Times-News correspondent

TWIN FALLS—Ron Renwick has done enough fishing for the meantime. Now he's ready to reel in another type of trophy.

Competing in his first tourney this summer after taking an "angler's vacation" from the courts, Renwick downed top-seeded Jess Olavarria, 7-6, 6-2, for the men's A singles title at the KLIX-Idaho First tennis tournament Sunday.

"I went into 'retirement' to go fishing... but I got bored, so now I'm back," the Jerome chiropractor said.

Commanding most of the match, Renwick used strong net play to push passed Olavarria. He pulled out the first set with a 7-4 tiebreaker and simply outdistanced Olavarria in the second set.

"I just played well... at the net," Renwick said, "and forced him to pass me or miss."

Renwick came to the finals after topping No. 2 seed Andy Crane in quarters and Paul Horner in three tough semi-final sets. Olavarria had defeated Dave McBryant in semis, 5-7, 7-6, 6-0, but only after breaking McBryant's match point service in the second set.

Second-seeded Laura Rice fought back to beat top-seeded Susan Whitney in three sets for the women's A singles crown. The win was Rice's first in the singles division, and she said that it was "encouraging to finally win one."

Filtering in the second set of the 7-5, 1-6, 6-3 match, the college-bound freshman found Whitney's volley a tough obstacle.

"She's really consistent... and places the ball well," said Rice, who will head to Stanford University this fall. "I had to concentrate more — prepare for each shot."

Rice beat Mary Hoag in the semi-finals, 6-4, 5-7, 6-3, while her fellow classmate Tricia Swartling fell to Whitney, 3-6, 3-6.

In the men's 35 singles finals, reserved only for players over age 35, Tom Baird will volley with Renwick in a match, to be played later due to the weekend's rain.

Olavarria combined with Andrew Westergen to topple Renwick and Andy Crane in the finals of the men's A doubles, 6-0, 6-1.

The finals of the women's A doubles, pitting Swartling and Rice against Whitney and Cindy Howe, was delayed by rain and will be determined later this week.

In the men's B singles, Len Davidson of Jerome blew past Ed Coats of Twin Falls, 6-3, 6-4, after defeating Scott Atkins of Burley in three semi-final sets. Coats beat Randy Stone of Burley in the semis.

Margie Atkins easily took the women's B singles title from Lou Groat, 6-0, 6-2.

The Burley pair of Randy Stone and Scott Atkins narrowly defeated the father-son team of Eric and Sean Sadler in the men's B doubles final. After scores of 7-5, 4-6, in the first two sets, the Sadlers came back from a three game deficit in the third only to lose 6-4.

Sisters Amy and Cathy Braegger stole the women's B doubles match from Denise Bohm and Carolyn Kemper in three sets. Losing the second set 1-6, the Braeggers bounced back to finish the match 6-4, 1-6, 6-3.

Westergen and Jenny Sacco defeated Annie Sloat and Kip McKelvey, 6-1, 6-2, in semis and will face Susie Hoag and Paul Horner in the A mixed doubles finals later this week due to rain delays.

Progress in B mixed doubles action was slow Sunday, but the finals will set the winner of a late Sunday night match against Bob and Mary Hoag later in the week.

Darlene Wagner finished off Lisa Bollinger in two sets, 6-2, 6-4, to capture the women's C singles. Both Wagner and Bollinger had rough three-set semi-final rounds. While Wagner fended off Rachael Rupprecht, 6-3, 3-6, 6-4, Bollinger went the distance with Jodi Lambert, 6-2, 6-4, 6-3.

The men's C singles consisted of a round robin competition, won by Brien Carter. A list of results appears in Scores and Stats, Page B2.

Ballesteros, king of 'Road,' makes British Open domain

By RICK REILLY
The Los Angeles Times

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland — You are not champion on the Old Course until you find the nerve to seduce her heart. No. 17, the Road Hole, Spain's Severiano Ballesteros found it Sunday. America's Tom Watson did not.

Tied with Watson for the final-round lead of the British Open, Ballesteros made one of the toughest pars of his life at the 401-yard 17th. Minutes later, Watson hit a 2-iron over the green, over the road and off the wall to make bogey and the King of Spain had conquered Scotland.

With a birdie on 18, Ballesteros finished 12-under-par 276, two better than Watson and two better than Germany's Bernhard Langer, who also birdied the final hole, to become the first non-American to win the event since he won his first British Open in 1979 at Royal Lytham.

"How can I tell you how great I feel?" Ballesteros said in his cautious English. "It is great to win the best tournament in the world on the best course in the world."

Watson had hinted this week that he shared those sentiments, or at least cherished the British Open and the Old Course, and maybe that's why it looked like it hurt so much as he sat arms crossed and head down during Ballesteros' acceptance speech.

A win Sunday would have given him three straight and six total British Opens, tying Harry Vardon's record set in 1914. Instead, one of the game's trust clutch players had died when he had to do.

"Don't feel bad, Tom," Ballesteros said in his brief speech. "I know you were looking for your sixth, but you're still young enough to do it."

Ballesteros is 27. Watson is 35.

Perhaps that is why it took to beat the Road Hole — youth, or the fearlessness that comes with it. Or perhaps the bravado of a Spanish bullfighter. Whatever it was, it was inside Ballesteros as he walked to the 17th tee Sunday with all the heat and history of Watson's chase stearing his collar.

Ironically, Ballesteros had gone 5-5 the first three days against "The Lady" (as Watson had referred to 17 after a double-bogey there Friday).

But at the 18th green, he expresses the jubilation reserved only for the tournament's victor

No disgrace, that. Of the 668 times the Road Hole was played, this week, players left it with bogey or worse 310 times.

And as Ballesteros walked to the tee Sunday, stone even with Watson at 11-under par, he knew the trophy was to be had or squandered in the next 461 yards. "I will make par there tomorrow (Sunday)," Ballesteros had promised after the third round. "If I don't I'll play it again Monday."

He can take Monday off.

"I told my caddy at the 17th, 'We have to get this hole this time,'" Ballesteros said. "To make four is like a birdie."

Ballesteros hit his drive in the right rough — precisely the same spot he'd hit it the three previous days — and found himself with the same weary 6-iron in his hands that hadn't carried him to the green any of the three days.

But on a day when a championship was to be won, Ballesteros made the 6-iron sing. It flew 200 yards to clear the infamous Road Bunker, then checked up and stopped 20 feet from the pin. He strode up to it, saluted the giant crowd there with his putter and calmly two-putted for par. "That was very important that four."

Ballesteros said in the understatement of the millennium.

In the twosome behind him waited Watson and the rookie Ian Baker-Finch, the third-round co-leader who shot 79 to finish in a tie for ninth at four-under-par.

Knowing he needed par to stay even, Watson bravely floated his drive down the out-of-bounds wall on the right, then hit a 2-iron over the trap, over the green, over the road and off the wall. It settled 18 inches from it, leaving Watson no option but to jab at it with a 7-iron without benefit of a full swing. Still, Watson had looked catastrophe in the face before and walked away grinning. On the 17th green at Pebble Beach in the 1982 U.S. Open, Watson faced an impossible downhill chip with the tournament on the line and holed it.

But the Road Hole does not deal in miracles. Watson's jab skittered 20 feet by the hole, just as he heard the roar at 18 for Ballesteros' birdie. Watson did not make the putt.

"I knew what kind of shot I had to make and I didn't make it," Watson said grimly. "I had 210 yards to the hole and I couldn't decide between a 2-iron and a 3-iron. I tried to draw the shot in and I just pushed it. I pushed it."

Worse, with Ballesteros' icing birdie at 18, Watson had to make eagle to tie. "I'm 93 yards out and the ball is in the air and that was history," he said.

"I just could never put any distance between me and the field," Watson said, and that is how it seemed meant to be — Watson and Ballesteros birdieing and bogeying as they went back and forth and all the while knowing that it would come to 17.

When Ballesteros beat Watson, there he had won the tournament and he dedicated it to his mother.

Club, tip help Hanchey win at Burley

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News sports writer

BURLEY — A lesson from an amateur and a buffer borrowed from a professional proved the difference Sunday as Twin Falls' Perry Hanchey fought through overtime to win the Burley Amateur Golf Championship.

Hanchey, who won the title two years ago and finished second in 1983, ran in a five-foot birdie putt on the first overtime hole to beat veteran Gordy Crockett of Caldwell and Carey McNeal, a Wyoming product by way of Boise State University's golf team.

Those three got into the playoff after seemingly everyone in the championship flight had put himself into contention — only to fall back.

At one point defending champion Glenn Blakeley of Burley moved six under par by birdying nine and 10 but then took a double bogey on the par-three 12th. His first shot landed in the lake and a bogey four holes later ended his reign.

Hanchey, playing two foursomes in front of the leaders, was four under after 12 and then lipped out a chip shot on the 13th. "That hit enough of the hole I couldn't believe it came back out," he said.

Coming up the par-five 18th, a lot of players had chances — because it isn't an impossible eagle hole and most of the long hitters figure on good birdie tries. Crockett took advantage of the hole for a birdie to get into the playoff and also used a little gamesmanship on Hanchey, who saw his birdie putt break sharply left.

Both Crockett and Hanchey had similar lines and Hanchey studied hard as Crockett rolled his birdie into the cup. Hanchey figured he had the line and was amazed to see the break.

"His putt went pretty straight, almost right a little. I figured it might break a little but I shouldn't give up the cup," Hanchey explained. "I put a smooth roll on it and I couldn't believe it when it took it."

After the sharp break, Hanchey looked at Crockett who was having a good laugh. "I cut mine," he says to me," Hanchey said with a smile.

The playoff started in a mild drizzle and Hanchey had the immediate advantage with a fairly long drive left of the defending tree line. Crockett hooked his tee shot under a newly-planted pine and was given a free drop. His second shot caught the trees and bounced the ball into the 18th fairway. McNeal's tee shot, too, was well left and on a downhill lie. He tried a long fairway wood and scuffed it back into the tree line.

Hanchey had an open shot, provided he could get it over a tree.

"Two years ago I changed my swing to keep the ball lower; I used to hit everything high. I don't know why but I started thinking about that situation last night and this morning I went out to (Twin Falls) Munt to buy a five-wood. (Assistant Pro) Mike (Hamblin) said they didn't have one."

Doctor: Fixx's death shouldn't cow joggers

NEW YORK (AP) — The death of noted runner Jim Fixx from a heart attack while jogging should not overshadow the benefits of running and other vigorous exercise for the heart, a researcher and a running club executive said Sunday.

"Overall, people seem to do better if they exercise than if they don't," said Dr. David Siscover, an internal medicine specialist at the University of North Carolina Department of Medicine in Chapel Hill. "I don't think that Jim Fixx's unfortunate death changes that. It's a matter of trying to weigh the benefits and the risks."

Fixx, 52, whose best-seller "The Complete Book of Running" helped launch the jogging craze, collapsed Friday in Hardwick, Vt., during a solitary run. His body was found by a passing motorcyclist about 50 feet from the motel he checked into an hour earlier. An autopsy Saturday showed he had died of a heart attack caused by serious heart disease.

Siscover, chief author of a 1982 study that found vigorous exercise helps protect against sudden heart failure, said Fixx's death shows there is a risk in jogging and other vigorous exercise. Such risks must be recognized and studied, especially with exercise becoming more popular, he said. But people shouldn't rule out exercise just because they hear about deaths like Fixx's, he said.

"The thing to keep in mind is that people who don't keep dead (while exercising) don't make the news. People who do drop dead do make the news if they happen to be prominent people," he said.

To put Fixx's death in perspective, one would have to consider everyone who exercises and the hours they spend at it, and compare them to people who don't exercise, he said. The evidence shows that people who exercise regularly have less risk of heart attacks than those who don't, he said, and that the benefits generally outweigh the risks.

The sudden death of a healthy person like Fixx is "not a common event," he said. But people should start exercising slowly and heed warnings like chest pain or unusual shortness of breath, he said.

He also said scientists aren't sure exactly why exercise lowers the risk of heart disease.

Fred Lebow, director of the New York City Marathon, said very few of the estimated 35 million recreational runners die of heart attacks, compared to those who don't exercise vigorously.

Poky defeats Buhl for 'B' Legion title

By CHRIS WALTON
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Pocatello Runnin' Rebels took home the championship trophy Sunday from the delayed District Four American Legion B Tournament by defeating the Buhl Indians 8-3 in the final at Frontier Field.

The tournament, originally scheduled for Atkinson Park in Ketchum, started there and was moved to Twin Falls after rain postponed four straight games.

Pocatello's big break came in the sixth inning when Buhl pitcher Mike Crowley became erratic and walked Brian Milward, Kevin Hall and Troy Sweat, then threw low to first on Danny Davis' ground ball. Tim Pearson then singled and Bob Jenkins tripled to end the five-run inning.

Crowley led off Buhl's seventh inning with a single, then went to second on a ground out and scored on Darin Strickler's sacrifice fly, but that was all the Indians could muster.

Buhl struck first in the game when Crowley walked, stole second and scored on an error in the first inning, but the Rebels got the run back in their half.

In the preceding game, Buhl handed the Rebels their only tournament loss with a 6-2 victory. Darin Strickler scored the go-ahead run on a Tommy Fleming single in the third.

Buhl got off to a quick start in that game, Mark Laing scoring on David Cooper's single in the first inning. Pocatello's Todd Webb drove one home in the third to tie the score, but Buhl countered again in their half when Fleming singled in Strickler. Brian Howard scored on a wild pitch an inning later to put the game out of reach.

A high point in the tournament was Jerome pitcher Brett Koepnick's five-inning no-hitter over Wood River.

Royals 'Slaughter' Baltimore

By The Associated Press

Don Slaught may be the only American League hitter who consistently fattens his batting average against the Baltimore Orioles.

Slaught, who has been struggling all year, turned in his second four-hit game in three days against the Orioles Sunday to lead the host Kansas City Royals to an 8-4 victory over Baltimore.

Slaught reached base 12 times in 16 plate appearances as the Royals took three out of four games from the Orioles over the weekend. For the first time, Slaught is hitting .257 against the league and .457 against the Orioles.

"Things like that happen. You can't explain it," said Royals Manager Dick Howser. "The Orioles probably have the best five-man rotation in the league. But one thing is the fact that Slaught is starting to hit the ball well and we've been playing Baltimore."

When he's swinging the bat well, he can hit anything.

Slaught, who has a current hot streak to a series at Oakland just prior to the All-Star break.

Phillies' Carlton subdued Atlanta

By The Associated Press

Atlanta first baseman Bob Watson is a veteran who can size up an opposing pitcher about as well as anyone. After the Braves were defeated by the visiting Philadelphia Phillies Sunday, Watson sized up winner Steve Carlton as being tough as anyone.

"He comes in with two fastballs away, and then he comes in with a breaking ball down and in," Watson said. "An awful lot of guys have trouble laying off that first pitch."

Watson, whose first homer of the year came off Carlton's reliever Al Holland in the ninth, said he has noticed very little change over the years in Carlton's delivery.

"He has great command of that breaking ball," said Watson, who popped out, walked and lined out against Carlton. "He sets you up with the fastball, which he keeps away and gets you out with the breaking ball. He makes the batter adjust."

Carlton's victory, the 39th of his career, moved him into 11th place on the all-time major-league list in victories.

In stock, I told him why I wanted it and he said 'well a minute' and came out with this buffer. I guess it's his dad's and as far as I know, (Head Pro Don Hamblin) doesn't know I have it, let alone that it won me a tournament," Hanchey said.

"That's also where the lesson came in."

"It hit irons off the tee six times yesterday because I didn't know where the fairway was going to go," Hanchey said. "Joe (Malay of Weiser) stayed with me last night and after supper I got him to go out to Muni and give me a lesson. It was just a matter of getting my hands higher. I had flattened my swing too much."

"Until Joe gave me that lesson I couldn't hit the shot I made (on the second shot) today. The buffer was ideal for it. All I had to do was make sure I got it over that tree," Hanchey said.

He wound up 20 yards from the green and knocked it within five feet.

Meanwhile, McNeal and Crockett were struggling off their earlier woes. McNeal approached to within 15 feet and dropped the putt for a par. Crockett's third shot stayed right of the green-but his wedge put the ball within 18 inches. Hanchey had to make the winning birdie putt or remain in a three-way tie.

Andretti nips Sneva at Michigan 500

BROOKLYN, Mich. (AP) — Determined Mario Andretti, holding off charging Tom Sneva over the last 20 laps, won the crash-filled and injury-marred Michigan 500 by less than a car-length Sunday.

The race, which took nearly four hours to run, was punctuated by a series of wild crashes — including one in which Chip Ganassi was critically injured.

The 27-year-old from Pittsburgh, Pa., suffered severe head injuries and possible fractures of the lower extremities when he tagged the wall on lap 148 of 200 while racing at high speed through turn two of the two-mile, high-banked oval.

Ganassi came off the wall into the car of Al Unser Jr. and both cars skidded off the banking, through the grass and into a steel guardrail. Ganassi's car whipped around, slapping the guardrail with the top of the open-cockpit car.

The 22-year-old Unser, son of the three-time Indy 500 winner, suffered less severe leg injuries.

Just as Andretti's Lola was crossing the finish line for his third victory of the season, 1981 Michigan 500 winner Pancho Carter was trying to pass Rick Mears on the backstretch in a battle for third place.

Carter suddenly lost control, skidding sideways into the outside wall. The fiberglass shell of the car exploded into hundreds of pieces, and Carter's cockpit flipped down the track, coming to rest upright in the grass.

He was pried out of the car and taken to the Infield hospital, but initial reports indicated that Carter was not seriously injured.

Another driver, Phil Krueger, wound up in a Jackson, Mich., hospital with a mild concussion, leg injuries and a possible dislocated thumb.

Andretti, who early in the race lost valuable time with a dropped valve, somehow regained a lost lap after his crew made the necessary repairs.

The 44-year-old former world driving champion and 1963 Indy winner regained the lead during a caution period on lap 204. He stayed there the rest of the way, but did not have an easy time of it as Sneva, the 1983 Indy winner, came after him.

Sneva, driving a March, led several times in the race, but was back to sixth after pitting during the last caution period. He moved up to second place on lap 231 and began to close on Andretti's Budweiser-sponsored Lola.

The difference was less than a second by lap 237, and Sneva tried to get around Andretti on the inside as the two roared through turn one eight laps from the end.

Andretti held on and Sneva tried him on the outside the next time through — the "first" turn, pulling alongside but never getting past.

That's the way it went the rest of the way, with Sneva — who started next to pole-winner Andretti on the front row — trying every maneuver at his command to get past and Andretti barely holding him off. The final margin of victory was .022 seconds.

On Lewis' first jump, 26-1, the wind was about 7 mph. His second jump — the winning performance — was marred by a wind of nearly 20 mph.

And on his third jump, 27-3/4, it was close to 14% mph.

"The wind hurt a little bit," conceded Lewis. "It plays with your steps and the way you run. The wind threes me off a little, but it was not that bad. What really was bad was the cold weather."

Each of his jumps Saturday night was wind-aided, and would not have counted as a record. The maximum allowable wind for record consideration is 14.7% mph.

On Lewis' first jump, 26-1, the wind was about 7 mph. His second jump — the winning performance — was marred by a wind of nearly 20 mph.

Unseasonal Sacramento weather stifles Lewis

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Sacramento, usually one of the hottest and calmest cities in the nation during the summer, caught a stretch of freakish cold and wind during the International Summer Games, and it played havoc with the performance of Carl Lewis and other athletes.

Lewis was noticeably affected by the cold temperature that dipped into the 50s and the strong winds that reached gusts of 25 mph Saturday night in Hughes Stadium at Sacramento City College.

Instead of making a strong run at Bob Beamon's world long-jump record of 29 feet, 2 1/2 inches, which he had hoped to break, Lewis had to settle for a winning leap of 28-1. He quit halfway through the competition, taking only three jumps instead of the maximum of six.

It was his 36th consecutive victory in the long jump and the 21st time he's soared over 28 feet for the 21st time.

"The weather was not very good," said Lewis, who has twice jumped 28-10 1/4 twice and once soared past 30 feet, only to have the effort nullified by a close foul call. "I didn't want to risk injury."

Each of his jumps Saturday night was wind-aided, and would not have counted as a record. The maximum allowable wind for record consideration is 14.7% mph.

In the handicaps, Leland Sabn won the event and Enos Hand placed first in the veterans class. Deann Ward took honors in the ladies events, while Handy won the junior title.

Hoch finished with a 72-hole total of 14-under-par 266, which tied the tournament record he set in 1980 and that was equaled last year by Danny Edwards and Morris Hataszky.

Hoch was five strokes better than Dave Stockton, Vance Heafner and George Archer, who tied at 271.

Hoch also set a record for the tournament's biggest victory margin. The previous 3-stroke record was set by Hoch in 1980 and Sam Adams in 1973.

Whitworth garnered No. 85 in Rochester, N.Y. (AP) — Kathy Whitworth surprised Sam Snead as the winnress professional golfer over Sunday, paring the first hole of a sudden-death playoff to defeat Rosie Jones in the Rochester International LPGA tournament at Locust Hill Country Club.

Jones, who lost the U.S. Women's Open a week earlier with a bogey on the final hole, hit her approach shot at No. 1 into the left rough, left her chip about seven feet short and missed the putt by inches.

For Hall of Famer Whitworth, 44, it was the first victory of the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour since the Women's Kemper Open in March 1983. It was also her 85th victory in an LPGA career stretching back to 1958 and broke her out of a tie with Snead that she had called many a creation of the media.

Snead is credited by the PGA with 84 professional victories.

In the super six races with drivers from Boise, Steve Hopkins won the main event and Mike Henderson took honors in the trophy dash.

Race forced the cancellation of the races on Saturday night and race officials ran events Sunday.

Hoch wins Quad Cities golf

COAL VALLEY, Ill. (AP) — Scott Hoch fired a 4-under-par 66 Sunday to run away with his second Quad Cities Open golf tournament title and pick up $36,000.

Briefly in Sports

Rain wipes out ballgames

Rupert — Sunday's American Legion baseball contest between the Minico Sage and the Boise Senators was cancelled because of wet field conditions.

The game was tentatively re-scheduled for Friday at 5 p.m.

Twin Falls' game with the Boise Gems on Saturday was also called off because of wet field conditions. The game between the Cowboys and Meridian scheduled for Sunday was also wiped out.

Burley group captures shoot

Twin Falls — The Ponderosa Gun Club from Burley took the Southern Idaho Championship team honors this weekend in the Coors Southern Idaho Championship Shoot.

The winning team got 122 points out of a possible 125 in the three-day competition.

Dan Bonillas won the overall title in the competition. Dean Handy from Kimberley won the junior competition and Hazelton's Joe Nelson won the AA event.

On Friday, Bonillas beat A.L. Hanson of Twin Falls in a shootout after both shooters scored 100 in the AA event. Dave Diamond also scored 100, enough for the A title.

Ron Pope of Twin Falls won by a shootout in the B division as did Jerome Art Van Voorhees in the C division. Wayne Atkins of Koley won the D event.

In the doubles competition, Steve Fahnenwald won the event. Bob's Carl Kolly was a winner in the B class while Sun Valley's Rod Thomas was first in the C division.

In the handicaps, Leland Sabn won the event and Enos Hand placed first in the veterans class. Deann Ward took honors in the ladies events, while Handy won the junior title.

The reports from the financial markets are clear.

Interest rates are on the rise again. Will the climb continue? Will higher rates again price consumers out of their automobile, housing and furniture markets?

The Times-News checks where interest rates are and where they might be headed in its Economic Indicators report on July 29.

A local panel of experts analyzes credit and consumers; political reporter Rich Shaughnessy tells how the November elections might affect the interest rates you pay.

REGISTRATION INFORMATION FOR FALL SEMESTER, 1984

BEFORE YOU REGISTER FOR ACADEMIC OR VOCATIONAL CREDIT COURSES:

- STEP A. Apply for admission if you are: (1) A new CSI Student or (2) A returning student (after an absence of one or more semesters). Send all admission materials to the CSI Records Office.
- STEP B. If you are a degree-seeking or certificate-seeking student, have the following items sent to the CSI Records Office: (1) High School Transcript, (2) ACT, SAT, GED, or GATB score, and (3) College transcript. NOTE: ACT or SAT scores are not required for admission except for Registered Nursing. However, they are strongly recommended to help in student advising.
- STEP C. All new CSI students who are degree-seeking or certificate seeking students, whether part-time or full-time, must take the CSI Skills Assessment. Students with vocational majors must also take the GATB. EXCEPTION: Transfer students with passing grades in math and English will not have to take the CSI Skills Assessment. THESE TESTS MAY BE TAKEN AT THE CSI STUDY SKILLS CENTER EVERY MONDAY THROUGHOUT THE SUMMER; CALL 733-9554, EXT. 351 FOR TEST APPOINTMENT.
- STEP D. Check the priority Registration Schedule for time and date of your registration.

REGISTRATION PROCEDURES FOR ACADEMIC OR VOCATIONAL CREDIT COURSES:

All students registering for credit classes will be given the following priority. Check Registration Schedule for your appropriate time and dates.

1. Continuing Students (those students who registered for credit courses the semester preceding the current semester).
2. New and Returning Students (new students and those students who are returning after the absence of one semester or more) who completed necessary admission and testing requirements.
3. Walk-in Students who did not complete admission and testing requirements prior to the start of registration.

ACADEMIC STUDENTS

- STEP A. Students will meet with advisors located in the main cafeteria on the second level of the Taylor Administration Building. Class schedules will be arranged at that time.
- STEP B. After Schedules are arranged, students will proceed to the computer terminals to register for classes. These terminals are located in the Records Office on the main floor of the Taylor Administration Building.
- STEP C. After classes are registered on terminals, each student will receive a student ID card in the Records Office.
- STEP D. After receiving their ID cards, students will take their registration packets to the Business Office for payment of tuition and fees. The Business Office is located on the first floor of the Taylor Administration Building.
- STEP E. After payment of tuition and fees, take copy of class schedule to the Bookstore to buy books and supplies.

VOCATIONAL STUDENTS

- STEP A. Students will meet with the advisors located in the Vocational Center to arrange class schedules.
- STEP B. After schedules are arranged, students will proceed to the computer terminals to register. These terminals are located in the Vocational Center.
- STEP C. After classes are registered on terminals, each student will receive an ID card in the Vocational Center.
- STEP D. After receiving their ID cards, students will take their registration packets to the Business Office for payment of tuition and fees. The Business Office is located on the first floor of the Taylor Administration Building.
- STEP E. After payment of tuition and fees, take copy of class schedule to the Bookstore to buy books and supplies.

DAVID ELLIS RETURNS!

David Ellis, President of College Survival Incorporated, will again be the guest speaker at the All-Student Orientation in 1984. Mr. Ellis returns for a second year after conducting a very positive orientation last fall at the College of Southern Idaho. Ellis, former college instructor and counselor, will continue the theme "Strategies for College Success" but will conduct his presentation with a slightly different format.

Mr. Ellis will kick off orientation at 9:00 am Monday, August 27. All new, continuing, and perspective students won't want to miss this.

*NOTE: All-student orientation is a required activity for all students attending fall semester, 1984.

Refunds of tuition will be made only when the students have completed withdrawal procedures with their counselors. Refunds are made according to the following:

- A. Refunds of 100% — less $10 prior to August 25
- B. Refunds of 75% — prior to September 9
- C. Refunds of 50% — prior to September 22

Students living outside of Twin Falls or Jerome counties but within the State of Idaho will be charged out-of-district fees in addition to the regular tuition and fee cost. The students-home-County may pay the out-of-district fee providing the student meets the requirements of Section 33-2110A and 33-2110B of the Idaho Code in all respects. Excerpts from the Code are as follows:

"No County shall be liable for out-of-district tuition unless the Board of County Commissioners of the County has first verified to the Junior College in writing the fact that the student is a resident of the County".

and

"A resident student is any student whose parents or court appointed guardians are domiciled in the Junior College district and provide more than fifty percent (50%) of his support".

A completed Certificate of Residency is required from all out-of-district students. If certification is not received the student will be required to pay the fee normally charged to the County. A new certificate must be obtained each year that you attend the College of Southern Idaho.

The Certificate of Residency blanks are available from the College Business Office, counseling offices, and most County Commissioners offices. Each out-of-district student should obtain Certification from their County Commission.

IMPORTANT INFORMATION!
ALL-STUDENT ORIENTATION

The College of Southern Idaho is launching the second year of an exciting new orientation program designed to help you become more informed about the college and its programs.

The orientation sessions provide you an excellent opportunity to get familiar with faculty, staff, and administration here on campus. This will also give you an opportunity to meet fellow students and friends.

The Monday, August 27 sessions are REQUIRED FOR ALL STUDENTS, both new and continuing. Tuesday through Friday you may attend sessions when they do not conflict with your regular classes.

See you Monday, August 27 at 9:00 am in the Fine Arts Auditorium!

VOCATIONAL EDUCATION

The College of Southern Idaho Vocational-Technical School aims to meet the needs of this area. New programs are added each year and continuing programs are constantly updated. The staff works closely with local business and industry to keep training current. Each vocational program has an advisory committee comprised of area business leaders in their chosen trades. These committees assist in formulating curricula.

The vocational administrators also work with businesses in bringing specialized computer training to these businesses. The Mobile Industry Training trailer, a fifth-wheel trailer converted to a computer classroom, takes computer classes anywhere in Magic Valley where 10 people are interested in a particular class.

Anyone having suggestions for new program needs should contact the vocational school.

DR. ROY STRAWSER
Academic Dean

AN ACADEMIC EDUCATION

It has always been the philosophy of the College of Southern Idaho that it exists to help students develop skills, values and attitudes necessary for effective living.

Academic Dean Dr. Roy Strawser has a broad definition of an "educated" person. He believes this person must be able to think and write clearly. He elaborates on this concept by saying this person should have a critical appreciation of the ways we gain knowledge and understanding of the world and universe. Dr. Strawser believes this should include intellectual experiences in the literature and arts, history, social science, as well as mathematical and experimental methods of physical, biological and health sciences.

The dean feels an educated person must also be aware of other cultures and times, to provide a reference to the wider world within which we exist. He also feels there is a need for understanding of and experience in thinking and dealing with moral and ethical problems in order to make the best personal choices. He also contends an educated person should strive to obtain depth in a particular field of knowledge.

These are the goals he sets for the academic portion of the campus. Dr. Strawser says this criteria is used in employing programs and faculty to best meet long-range goals for College of Southern Idaho students.
