Auto workers strike, keep talking

By EDWARD MILLER
The Associated Press

DETROIT — The United Auto Workers union struck 13 General Motors Corp. plants in nine states at midnight Friday in disputes over local issues.

The union said it would continue bargaining on a national contract.

It was the first coast-to-coast walkout in 14 years against the world's largest manufacturer, and took 59,000 of the UAW's 350,000 GM workers off the job.

UAW President Owen Bieber and chief bargainer Donald Ephlin said in a joint statement shortly before midnight that "the failure to reach agreements at the local level at some locations has made local strikes unavoidable at 13 GM facilities."

The statement said the union was "still making progress in some areas. However, we will continue the national negotiations and work without a new national agreement."

The struck facilities were assembly plants in Van Nuys, Calif.; Doraville, Ga.; Linden, N.J.; Arlington, Texas; Wilmington, Del.; Bowling Green, Ky.; Shreveport, La.; Wentzville, Mo.; and five plants in Michigan.

"It is official. The strike is on," said Jimmy Hyde, financial secretary of Local 10 in Doraville.

"We are in the process of preparing to picket the gates," said Ted Creason, assistant financial secretary of Local 633 at the GM Truck and Bus plant in Pontiac, Mich.

One motive for selective strikes over local issues might be that if GM laid off non-striking UAW workers at other plants, they might be eligible to collect unemployment insurance.

In Van Nuys, union official Pete Beltram, told workers "it's going down," and they grabbed picket signs and rushed into the streets, shouting: "It's going down! It's going down!"

Bruce Lee, a regional director for the UAW, said in Van Nuys that union officials told him that the negotiations came "that close" to success, holding his thumb and finger about an inch apart.

"When they say they're that close, maybe something can happen this weekend," Lee said. He said he would go to Detroit "on the first plane I can catch in the morning" to talk to Bieber.

Through much of the evening, negotiations had continued at GM headquarters in Detroit with no hint of progress, but growing word from around the country that certain facilities -- mainly assembly plants -- were being targeted for selective strikes.

Job security and wages have been the main issues in bargaining over a new pact to replace the one that expired at midnight EDT. The union's contract with Ford Motor Co. expired at the same time, but both sides agreed to extend it.

The UAW represents 350,000 workers at more than 130 GM plants in 27 states. Of the plants, only 29 are assembly plants.

Candidates' debates set for October

By EVANS WITT
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Ronald Reagan and Walter Mondale will debate each other before the American people twice next month, sources said Friday.

Top campaign officials will meet Monday to hammer out the final agreement on the confrontations.

A debate between vice presidential candidates George Bush and Geraldine Ferraro will also be scheduled next month, said the sources, who talked only on condition their names not be used.

A final agreement and a formal announcement on the debates had been expected Friday, but "the process began to drag," said one source.

White House Chief of Staff James Baker III and Mondale campaign chairman James Johnson talked Friday. The two will meet Monday at an undisclosed time and place to work on the debates, said Mondale spokesman Gayle Perkins.

"We still feel good progress has been made," she said.

Several sources familiar with the negotiations insisted most of the points of the agreement had been worked out.

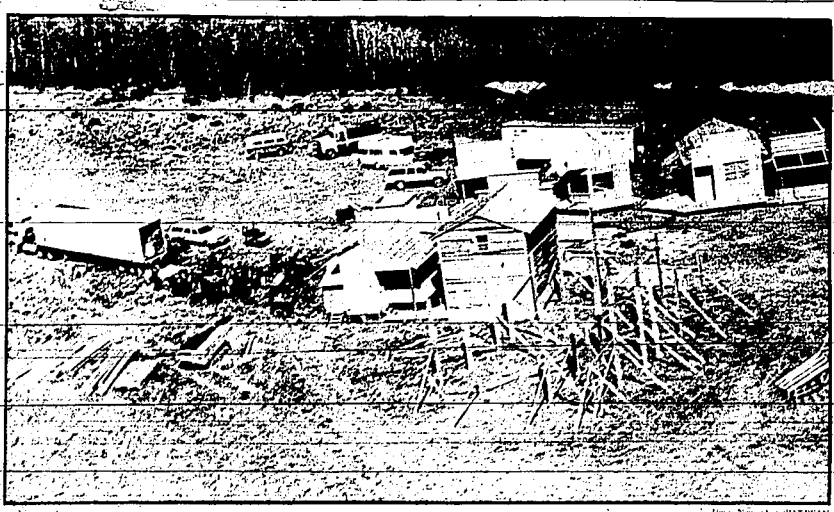

Mondale lambasts 'isolation' — A3

One source said the snag Friday seemed to be over the exact timing and location of the vice presidential debate — tentatively set for Oct. 11 in Philadelphia — stood in the way of agreement.

The sources said the debates -- to be sponsored by the League of Women Voters and certain to be nationally televised -- are tentatively scheduled to start with a Reagan-Mondale debate on Oct. 7 in Louisville, Ky. Then would come the vice presidential debate and the second presidential debate Oct. 21 in Kansas City, Mo. — just over two weeks in advance of the Nov. 3 election.

Earlier Friday at the White House, spokesman Larry Speakes said: "The debate dates, location, format, and sponsorship are matters still under discussion. Until there is overall agreement, there is no agreement."

A White House official, who asked that he not be identified by name, said the Monday campaign is jeopardizing the debates by discussing the negotiations openly.

Citrus industry hopes ban will be lifted soon

By PAT LEISNER
The Associated Press

TAMPA, Fla. — With the orange harvest one month away, state officials said Friday they hoped a federal ban on fresh fruit shipments caused by a citrus disease could be lifted within a few days.

Sen. Paula Hawkins, meanwhile, appealed for an embargo on citrus imports from Mexico, where the citrus disease apparently originated.

The quarantine, effective Friday, was ordered to stop the potential spread of the incurable citrus canker, which can kill fruit trees, to other producing states, including parts of California, Arizona, Texas, Louisiana and Hawaii. Florida produces 60 percent of the nation's citrus fruits.

The outbreak, the first in more than 50 years, was traced to Mexico, said Mrs. Hawkins. R-F-11, adding that she has asked Agriculture Secretary John Block to close the U.S.-Mexico border to citrus shipments.

"We now know it came from Mexico and we want the border closed until we know where in Mexico it came from," Mrs. Hawkins said in Miami.

However, the Florida Department of Agriculture's Division of Plant Industry in Gainesville questioned Mrs. Hawkins' claim. "Our pathologists say the strain we're seeing is not characteristic of the strain in Mexico," said spokeswoman Linda Perry. "The USDA is doing the investigating, and as far as we know, ... Woman calls for firing of CSI head

By ANNETTE CAHY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls resident plans to present the College of Southern Idaho Board with a petition asking that Gerald Meyerhoefer be fired.

The petition will be circulated by several area residents this weekend then presented by Debbie Schmechel at the monthly board meeting Monday at 5:30 p.m. in the administration building.

The petition, headed "Citizens for an Honest and Ethical Community College," reads: "We the undersigned believe it would be in the best interest of our community for the board of trustees of the College of Southern Idaho to release Gerald Meyerhoefer as its president.

"We believe," it continues, "Mr. Meyerhoefer has lost his credibility, and if the board chooses to keep him as president, they are seriously jeopardizing the credibility of our community college."

Schmechel says that she is involved in the issue as "a concerned mother." Her 11-year-old son heard discussions of a grade change for a CSI math class from an F to an incomplete for Steve Sutton, the son of former CSI coach Eddie Sutton, she says.

Her son asked numerous questions about the incident, and she had difficulty explaining to him how Meyerhoefer could have ethically changed the grade, she says.

Meyerhoefer says he decided the grade should be changed because college rules have not always been consistently followed.

CSI Registrar John Sims resigned because of the changed grade, saying it was "unethical," "illegal" and unfair to other students at the college who are required to abide by the rules.

Meyerhoefer says that from now on students will be required to go through the grade appeals procedure detailed in the college catalogue if they want a grade changed. A faculty committee is studying the college's grade policies.

Surgeons separate twin girls after 31 hours

The Associated Press

SALT LAKE CITY — After more than 31 hours of complex surgery, physicians separated 6-month-old Siamese twin girls joined at the tops of their heads, a hospital spokesman said.

Plastic surgeons from a team of 11 doctors at University of Utah Medical Center completed the operation Friday afternoon, placing skin flaps over the girls' exposed brains, which now have no protective skull covering at the top, spokesman John Dwan said.

The girls, Ashley and Patricia, eventually will have to undergo surgery to close their skulls with bone fragments taken from them in previous operations. The surgery, however, probably will not occur for several years, Dwan said.

The twins and their parents have not been identified at the family's request, and Dwan said they wish to maintain their anonymity after the operation.

"The operation is finished and the girls are back in intensive care," Dwan said. "But they face very severe risk and dangers. They'll be monitored very closely for the next few hours, days and weeks."

He described the girls' conditions as critical and said it was too early for the surgical team, headed by Dr. Theodore Roberts, to tell if the operation was a success.

Dwan said the doctors, while drained from the hours in the operating room, were "very excited and very excited. It was exciting seeing the girls come out of the operating room." ... See TWINS on Page A2

REP. TOM STIVERS Speaks on 'sensitive issues'

Hispanic leaders criticize Stivers' views

By MARILYN HAUKE ESSEX
The Associated Press

BOISE — Idaho House Speaker Tom Stivers drew sharp criticism from members of Idaho's Hispanic community after he spoke on what he called "some sensitive issues" during a conference on Hispanic affairs.

Stivers told participants at the Image de Idaho conference on Friday they need to keep an eye on Hispanics now in Idaho to make sure they understand American laws.

"Help us to keep those people advised that we do have a strong penal code in the United States," Stivers said.

On other matters, he told the group state agencies are overstuffed, repeal of Idaho's food tax would lead to increased bureaucracy, and bilingual education shouldn't be presented as a lesson in Hispanic culture.

Organization vice-president Rudy Pena said he thought Stivers was trying to say crime is a problem that crosses racial lines and affects all Idahoans. But Pena added he believes Stivers' comments easily could be misunderstood.

The House speaker pointed out felons are not found only in the Hispanic community, and said felonies committed by Hispanics are blown out of proportion by the news media.

Pena also objected to Stivers' comments on bilingual education. "Please don't let anyone be misled that we're going to set up bilingual education to teach Hispanic culture," Stivers said.

"Bilingual education means to me merely bilingual teachers who can bring children into the American culture."

"What is the American way?" asked Pena. "I thought we were all Americans."

Stivers said he wanted to establish a "solid partnership" with Image de Idaho to solve problems of the Hispanic community. He called for the creation of a state agency to deal with Hispanic affairs.

But Stivers said the partnership works both ways and that Hispanics needed to find some way to work within the system. "Don't stand outside and throw darts," he said.

Sergio Gutierrez of Boise said that while Stivers made some good points, he "made us feel like it's your problem and you're still on the outside."

"You're not going to escape the tax," said Stivers, contending that an estimated $16 to $18 million in lost food tax revenue would be made up by a one-cent increase in the state sales tax.

The one-cent sales tax increase would bring in about $60 million in additional revenue, he said. The $60 million not needed to cover losses from the food tax would be spent for increased bureaucracy, he said.

Stivers reiterated earlier claims that some state agencies are overstuffed.

Celia Longoria, who works in the Idaho Health and Welfare Department's family planning unit in Pocatello, disagreed with Stivers that the department is overstaffed.

Ms. Longoria said a staff of four in Pocatello sees about 100 patients a week. Rather than having too many personnel on hand, she said, the unit is "understaffed and overworked."

Old artillery shell defused

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A World War II vintage artillery shell was defused at the University of Utah's Research Park Friday, but authorities warned that the area could still be dangerous.

About 1,000 workers were evacuated from the park as a precaution, university officials said.

"It's been defused, but we're still concerned about whether or there are chemicals inside," said Lt. Ben Lemmon of the campus police department.

The shell was being left where it was found while experts attempted to identify its contents, Lemmon said.

The shell was discovered in bed of Red Butte Creek about 10:30 a.m. But authorities did not order an evacuation of the nearby Research Park until about 3 p.m., when soldiers from an explosives detachment nearby Fort Douglas found grey markings on the shell.

Home refuses Cuomo's gift

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Directors of a Roman Catholic home for unwed mothers Friday refused to accept a $1,500 gift from Gov. Mario Cuomo because they oppose his defense of legalized abortion.

"We believe that abortion is a horrible evil that kills babies and also destroys their mothers, spiritually and psychologically," said Sister Maria Paul and the Rev. Eugene Keane of Nazareth Life Center in Irvington.

The Catholic governor said in a speech at the University of Notre Dame Thursday that he personally opposes abortion. However, he said Catholics should not seek to make abortion illegal because such action would be an imposition of their views on others.

Cuomo's staff announced Thursday that the Catholic governor would make a $1 million donation to a home for 10 unwed mothers in Garrison, north of New York City, with money from Notre Dame's honorarium for the speech. But Sister Maria Paul and Keane, who run the home, issued a statement Friday rejecting the governor's gift.

Salvador can have more aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State George P. Shultz certified on Friday that the Salvadoran government is eligible for continued U.S. military assistance because it has made progress in curbing human rights abuses and in other areas.

The State Department report accompanying Shultz's memo of certification said the government of El Salvador "has demonstrated continued progress on land reform, free elections, freedom of association, the rule of law and the development of an effective judicial system, the termination of death squad activities and action against those responsible for such activities."

Under law, U.S. military aid could be suspended if Shultz is unable to certify progress in these areas. The report covers the 60-day period between July 2 and Aug. 31.

Preliminary winners picked

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Miss Minnesota played a classical piano opus to win the talent competition while Miss Mississippi, clad in chalk white, took swimsuit honors Friday in the final night of preliminaries at the Miss America pageant.

Miss Minnesota, Lauren Sue Green, 26, of Minneapolis, is a 1981 graduate of the University of Minnesota with a degree in piano performance.

Miss Mississippi, Kathy Manning, 22, of Drew, Miss., is a senior majoring in psychology and occupational therapy at the University of Mississippi.

The 10 finalists, who are announced during Saturday night's nationally televised pageant, will vie in evening gown, talent and swimsuit competitions for the title.

Gunmen slay mayor of Gaza

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Gunmen in a passing car shot and killed the mayor of a Palestinian city on the border between Egypt and the Israeli-occupied Gaza Strip on Friday, an army spokesman reported.

Maj. Shraga Kurtz said Abdel Hamid Mansour Kishia, the mayor of Rafiah, was taken to the Khan Yunis Hospital in Gaza where he was pronounced dead.

Economic 'dialogue' sought

MAR DEL PLATA, Argentina (AP) — Latin America's 11 most-indebted countries on Friday invited the industrialized nations to a "political dialogue" on the region's economic crisis, with the proposed meeting to be held by mid-1985.

Foreign and economy ministers of the Cartagena group said in a declaration issued at the end of their two-day conference in this Atlantic resort city that the "consistent gravity of the situation" made such a meeting crucial to resolving the debt question.

Body remains deep in mine

SHIELDS, Ky. (AP) — One body remained trapped Friday night inside a coal mine where a massive rock fall earlier in the week killed four miners, the state mines and minerals commissioner said.

A third body, that of Johnny Lipford, 34, was being prepared Friday to be transported to the surface, Commissioner Willard Stanley said. Clearing the path to Lipford's body, provided additional space that could be used to store rubble removed as rescuers worked toward the remaining body, Stanley said.

Suspect released on bond

TORONTO (AP) — Cathy Evelyn Smith, the Toronto woman charged with murdering comedian John Belushi with a drug overdose, has been released on $100,000 bail pending an appeal of her extradition order to the United States, her attorney said Friday.

Defense attorney Brian Greenspan said Miss Smith was released from custody on Thursday, the day she filed her appeal of the extradition order. The appeal extends indefinitely the time she may stay in Canada before being extradited, he said.

Residents of North Carolina adding up Diana's damage

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Remnants of Diana's edge back toward sea Friday, and residents of North Carolina's storm-battered southeast coast left shelters to inspect the damage as the sun broke through the clouds for the first time in days.

"Until we can get into the communities and see what damage has been done, we don't know what the people need," said Russ Edmondson, a state spokesman, a day after the season's first hurricane spent its fury on land and was downgraded to a tropical storm.

Officials said Thursday that damages would probably run in excess of $25 million, and agents for four counties in the southeast corner of the state on Friday placed damage to crops alone at an additional $14 million. But officials said concrete figures would not be available for several days.

"It'll be devastating," said David Clegg, county attorney for Brunswick County, the hardest hit area.

"It's going to be in the millions for sure," he said. "The rural areas were hit as bad as the barrier islands. We've got flooding, wind damage, trees down, power lines down, lots of tobacco barns, down, lots of agricultural damage. . . . It'll be some time before we have the figures."

Teams of state, federal and local damage assessment experts began examining damage in New Hanover and Brunswick counties and the city of Wilmington.

"I got a lot of damage," said Kenneth Hollar, who owns a small two-story, two-building hotel at Carolina Beach. He added jokingly:

"I put my insurance agent in the hospital. He's over there in the mental ward."

Hollar said he weathered the storm at the motel and heard the roof of one building blow across the other. The side of the motel facing the beach was stripped of all wood trim.

"I'm not a person to get afraid and I'm not a highly religious man, but when this thing happened, I was a little scared," Hollar said.

Nearby, Cliff Smith Jr. was having a hard time cleaning up his small oceanfront store without electricity. He said he believed Diana "was a bigger, stronger storm and it lasted much longer" than Hurricane Hazel 30 years ago, but that Hazel caused more damage in the business district because high water burst through the seawall.

Hospital in Marrero, and most of the others were taken by crewboats to a nearby rig, said White.

"Of the 68 people on the rig, 42 were Zapata crew, 24 were various service personnel and two were Conoco representatives," White said.

"Everyone is accounted for." Earlier reports had said 76 people may have been on the rig.

He identified three people dead as Dalton D. Walker of Columbia, Johnnie W. Calton of Monroe, and Gilbert J. Jones of Lake Charles.

Their ages were not immediately known.

Fire, blast kill 3 on offshore rig

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — An explosion and fire tore through an offshore drilling rig in deep Gulf of Mexico waters Friday, killing four workers and critically burning three others, the rig's owner said.

The explosion, the cause of which was unknown, happened about noon MDT aboard the Zapata Lexington 26, said Barney White, a spokesman for Zapata Offshore Inc. in Houston.

One of the rig's 200-foot-tall natural gas exploration rigs had been standing in seas 1,465 feet deep about 120 miles southwest of New Orleans, he said.

The three buried workers were identified to West Jefferson Gov-drilling was being done, White said.

The fire was extinguished soon after the explosion, and conditions were good enough to get nine men back aboard the rig, White said.

The explosion caused no pollution, and the rig, although listing, was in no danger of sinking, White said.

"The rig is listing slightly, but it's stable," White said. "We do have power again in the rig and the fellows are going over it right now. We don't have a damage estimate yet."

The Coast Guard called in helicopters just before dark but said the cutter Point Seal would arrive later Friday night to monitor conditions.

The Hausen twins survived their surgery and are leading fairly normal lives in Clinton, Utah, some 25 miles north of Salt Lake.

The Hausen twins' parents, David and Patricia, have counseled the other "twins" parents for several months and were with them at the hospital all day Thursday.

room and be in separate beds for the first time in their lives.

Surgeons, however, were forced to sever some brain tissue shared by the twins, Dwan said, but he did not know how much. It also was too early to tell what effect the surgery would have on the girls' development, he said.

The twins already had undergone a series of five preparatory operations — 32 hours of surgery at Houston before being wheeled into the operating room Thursday morning.

Dwan said five neurosurgeons, two plastic surgeons and four anesthesiologists and support staff were involved in the complicated surgery.

The girls were born March 9 to a Utah couple stationed at an Air Force base in Southern California. The family has since moved to Utah.

The couple brought their daughters to the center for an initial hearing of the center's successful separation of conjoined twins Lisa and Elisa Hansen in 1979.

While the surgery was "fairly routine neurosurgery," the way the twins were joined posed problems, he said. The girls faced in opposite directions.

they have not reached any conclusions."

The senator's Washington press office later issued a statement, saying, "The origins of this particular strain of the disease are yet unknown, however, all evidence leads to the fact that it originated in Mexico."

Henry Hicks, Mrs. Haystack's press secretary, said in a telephone interview from his Washington office, "The suspicion is that it (the Florida canker) is a mutant of the Mexican strain."

The embargo, signed into effect Friday in Washington at the U.S. Department of Agriculture, affects fresh fruit and citrus plants. Assistant Agriculture Secretary C.V. McMillan said the immediate effect would be on lemons, lemons and some grapefruits — the only citrus crops now being harvested. The orange harvest is due to begin in about one month.

If no disease is found, growers will be allowed to resume shipments to non-citrus producing areas of the country.

"We hope the first fruit will start moving in just a few days," said Betsy Adams, a spokeswoman at the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service in Hyattsville, Md.

The quarantine is essential because the canker strain is unfamiliar to experts, USDA officials said. It will be two weeks before tests show whether the strain infests fruit as well as leaves and stems, where it was discovered.

Florida Agriculture Commissioner Doyle Conner and Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., met Friday in Washington with about 120 growers and nurserymen to discuss the potential threat to the state's $1.2 billion citrus industry.

The last time citrus canker hit the state's citrus industry, in 1913, it took 20 years and the destruction of 3.2 million fruit trees to wipe it out.

Conner took no action on a recommendation by his technical council to force more than 40 nurseries to destroy all stock bought this year from Wans Nursery in Avon Park, where the canker outbreak was discovered last month.

Report in error

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (AP) — The Associated Press reported erroneously Sept. 13 that the federal government halted all shipment of citrus from Florida on Thursday.

The ban was proposed Thursday and took effect Friday when it was signed by a U.S. Department of Agriculture official, Linda Perry, spokeswoman for the Florida Department of Agriculture's Division of Plant Industry, initially said the embargo was imposed Thursday.

Programs announced to aid rural economy

By DON KENDALL
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Agriculture Secretary John R. Block announced Friday a package of 1985 crop programs that could pump more than $2 billion in advance payments into the rural economy as farmers begin signing up on Oct. 15, three weeks before election day.

Block said "there are many producers who could use a little money" to pay off production expenses or get ready for next year.

"I don't think producers can afford to stand aside and run the risk of not having the kind of security this program offers," he said.

The payments are part of the government's acreage programs that affect next year's production of wheat, feed grains, rice and cotton.

In exchange for cutting back on 1985 plantings of those crops, farmers will be eligible for half of the estimated payments at the time they sign up. The enrollment period will continue through March 1.

According to the department's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, total direct federal payments to farmers under the 1985 program could range between $5 billion and $6 billion, compared with an estimated $4 billion to $4.5 billion for 1984.

In exchange, the agency tentatively projects that farmers may idle between 25 million and 30 million acres in 1985, compared with 30.4 million signed up in 1984.

Wheat farmers are expected to idle around 20 million acres under the 1985 program, while feed-grain producers may take about 6 million acres from production, including 4 million acres of corn land. No projections were available for cotton or rice.

Comparatively, wheat farmers in 1984 signed up to idle 20.8 million acres, and corn farmers 4.5 million acres.

The program details were announced by Block in Urbana, Ill., and by USDA in Washington. No dollar amounts were included in the official announcements, but other officials provided cost estimates.

In any case, farmers who want to qualify for basic price supports, target price protection and other benefits for certain crops will have to idle part of their cropland.

The feed grain program — including corn, sorghum, barley and oats — will require farmers to take 10 percent of their base acres from production next year in order to qualify for benefits.

Corn, which is the basic feed crop, will carry a target price of $3.03 per bushel in 1985, the same as this year. If market prices drop below the target — as expected — "deficiency" payments are made to bridge the gap.

When farmers sign up in the 1985 program, they will have the option of getting an advance payment — to half of the projected deficiency — or 47 cents per bushel of normal production.

Advance payments could be around $800 million, half of the $1.6 billion projected for corn farmers in 1985, agency officials said.

If a farmer accepts an advance payment and then fails to live up to the program requirements, the money must be refunded, plus interest.

Block announced that wheat farmers also will be eligible for advance diversion and deficiency payments at the time of signing up.

According to department projections, wheat farmers also will collect about $1.6 billion in 1985 deficiency payments, based on $1.08 per bushel, meaning that advance payments could be around $800 million at the time of signing up.

In addition, wheat, diversion payments could add another $500 million for 1985, including advances of around $300 million.

Preview of presidential debates

Mondale hits Reagan for 'arrogance,' 'happy talk'

By ROBERT FURLLOW
The Associated Press

Details for two presidential debates were falling into place Friday as Walter Mondale served up an aggressive preview of those face-to-face showdowns by calling President Reagan an arrogant candidate who spouts "happy talk" to avoid seriously addressing issues.

Mondale also labeled Reagan "the most isolated president in American history."

"I am not sure which is worse, the arrogance of Mr. Reagan's isolation or his confidence that the American people will let him get away with it," the Democratic nominee added.

Sources close to the debate negotiations said Friday that in addition to a pair of Reagan-Mondale debates, voters also will get a chance to see their vice presidential running mates square off in a third.

A final agreement and a formal announcement had been expected Friday, but "the process began to drag," said one source.

Mondale spokeswoman Gayle Perkins said White House Chief of Staff James Baker III and Mondale campaign chairman James Johnson did talk Friday and would meet again Monday to work on the debates.

In the meantime, Reagan, who spent the day at the White House, was asked about the isolation allegation as a Rose Garden economy for Hispanic educators and students.

"I did not feel a bit lonely out there," he replied.

Later, Mondale continued his attack before an enthusiastic crowd of about 4,000 people at a rally on the grounds of the state capitol in Lansing, Mich. He said Reagan had isolated himself in a "question-free zone."

Back in Washington, Vice President George Bush raised an issue the White House has not often mentioned during the election campaign, praising Reagan for decisive action in the Midwest "in spite of the tragedy" of the deaths of 264 U.S. Marines who were among the contingent sent to Lebanon.

"The president 'did the right and courageous thing' and will not be in history as a man who was not afraid to act," Bush said in a speech to the Jewish Republican Coalition. He said the "bottom line" of Reagan's action was that terrorism in the region has now diminished.

Geraldine Ferraro, the Democratic vice presidential candidate, received a four-minute plug from the administration's national security adviser, Robert McFarlane, at her home in Queens, N.Y., and then headed to Buffalo for a speech and fund-raiser.

In Buffalo, she accused the Republican Party of dealing in the kind of patriotism "that's manufactured on Madison Avenue."

"When someone finds jobs for the laid-off steelworkers in Buffalo, that will be a patriotic act," she told a partisan, cheering crowd.

Mondale, speaking at Washington University in St. Louis, won enthusiastic applause with some of his most strongly worded criticism of Reagan so far.

"I am not sure which is more damning, the emptiness of his happy talk campaign or the cynicism about the American people that it implies," Mondale said.

Since issuing his own plan for cutting federal budget deficits "on Monday," the former vice president has been trying to draw Reagan into spelling out the president's own plans.

The president, however, spent the week attacking Mondale's plan, giving no specific new information on what he might recommend if re-elected. His policies, he said, are well-known, and a second term would not change him in his basic position in favor of restraining both government spending and taxes.

On Friday, Mondale read a list of issues and asked whether Reagan ever talks seriously about what he will do "to control the environment" or to deal with civil rights or arms control or the economy.

"The answer is no," said Mondale. "New Reagan is not telling us where he is going to go. Instead, he is running around with campaign appearances, photo opportunities."

"I have an agreement that he will not talk to me during the campaign about any legislation," O'Neill, D.

Simpson: migrant bill will pass

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Alan K. Simpson, shepherding his controversial immigration control bill through a House-Senate conference committee, predicted Friday the measure will make it through Congress this session.

"We'll do it," Simpson, R-Wyo., told reporters. "We are not interested in wasting our time."

Simpson's cause also got a boost from House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., who said he would schedule the legislation for consideration by the House.

O'Neill said he had a package of Democratic presidential candidate Walter F. Mondale — that the subject will not be discussed.

"I have an agreement that he will not talk to me during the campaign about any legislation," O'Neill, D.

Mass. replied when queried about Mondale and the bill. "I'll run the Congress and he'll run for president."

At one point after the Democratic National Convention, Simpson said he feared the fate of his bill was "hanging by a thread" because of opposition expressed by Mondale and other Democrats in San Francisco.

But Simpson's hopes were renewed at stemming the flow of aliens breaching U.S. borders, makes it illegal for anyone to knowingly hire an illegal alien. It also provides for the nation's first mass amnesty for those aliens who can prove they have lived in the United States for several years.

Hispanics, such as Rep. Edward Roybal, D-Calif., are trying to block the bill, which they fear will encourage employers to discriminate against foreign-looking people.

Simpson, chairman of the Senate's immigration subcommittee, said negotiations to reach a compromise on the versions passed by the House and Senate were "right on schedule."

He said that since O'Neill and Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker Jr. had agreed "to provide a slot" when the bill emerges from the conference, he was confident it will be sent to President Reagan this session.

He also said he expected to be able to quell any concerns the administration might have about the costs of the legislation.

Drug worry rises: Shultz

WASHINGTON (AP) — Calling for redoubled efforts to curb international narcotics trafficking, Secretary of State George P. Shultz said Friday that the rest of the world is finally coming to realize that it is a global problem with global consequences.

"For a long time, foreign governments considered narcotics an exclusively American problem," Shultz said. "Today, that is changing."

While Shultz said some countries that are traditional suppliers of drugs are cooperating with the United States, he said the role of some Communist countries in drug trafficking is increasing. He mentioned Cuba and Bulgaria and also the leftist government of Nicaragua.

Pancoast receives 25 years in Morgan death

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Marvin Pancoast, who said he beat model Vicki Morgan with her son's baseball bat to stop her incessant complaints about financial problems, was sentenced Friday to 25 years to life in prison for first-degree murder.

Los Angeles Superior Court Judge David Horowitz denied defense motions for a new trial or sentence reduction for Pancoast, 34, who pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity.

Pancoast, who was living with Miss Morgan when she was slain July 7, 1983, and who once called himself her "little slave boy," freely confessed to police that he had bludgeoned her. Defense attorney Arthur Barenis, who called Pancoast a chronic confessor who lied about the killing, said he would appeal on grounds that Horowitz erred by allowing the confession to be used as evidence and that separate juries should have considered guilt and sanity among other issues.

Pancoast was convicted in July of first-degree murder and found sane three weeks later by the same jury. Two other jurors on the panel had held hands and prayed for him before announcing the verdict.

"I was very gratified that the case was appropriately concluded," said Deputy District Attorney Stanley Weisberg. "The defendant was sentenced for the crime he committed, and it's over."

Weisberg said the penalty was the maximum possible, because there were no special circumstances that would have made Pancoast eligible either for the death penalty or life in prison without parole.

Barenis contended during the trial that Miss Morgan, the former mistress of the late Alfred Bloomington, kept tapes of herself and other people — including government officials — engaging in sexual activities and "lived in constant fear for her life."

"I seriously doubt this is the end of the sex-tape issue," he said Friday.

Programs announced to aid rural economy

By DON KENDALL
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Agriculture Secretary John R. Block announced Friday a package of 1985 crop programs that could pump more than $2 billion in advance payments into the rural economy as farmers begin signing up on Oct. 15, three weeks before election day.

Block said there are many producers who could use a little money "to pay off production expenses or get ready for next year."

"I don't think producers can afford to stand aside and run the risk of not having the kind of security this program offers," he said.

The payments are part of the government's acreage programs that affect next year's production of wheat, feed grains, rice and cotton.

In exchange for cutting back on 1985 plantings of those crops, farmers will be eligible for half of their estimated payments at the time they sign up. The enrollment period will continue through March 1.

According to the department's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, total federal payments to farmers under the 1985 programs could range between $5 billion and $8 billion, compared with an estimated $4 billion to $4.5 billion for 1984.

In exchange, the agency tentatively projects that farmers may idle between 25 million and 30 million acres in 1985, compared with 30.4 million signed up in 1984.

Wheat farmers are expected to idle around 20 million acres under the 1985 program, while feed grain producers may take about 6 million acres from production, including 4 million acres of corn. laid. No projections were available for cotton or rice.

Comparatively, wheat farmers in 1984 signed up to idle 20.8 million acres, and corn farmers 4.5 million acres.

The program details were announced by Block in Urbana, Ill., and by USDA in Washington. No dollar amounts were included in the official announcements, but other officials provided cost estimates.

In any case, farmers who want to qualify for basic price supports, target price protection and other benefits for certain crops will have to idle part of their cropland.

The feed grain program — including corn, sorghum, barley and oats — will require farmers to take 10 percent of their base acres from production next year in order to qualify for benefits.

Corn, which is the basic feed crop, will carry a target price of $3.03 per bushel in 1985, the same as this year. If market prices drop below the target — as expected — "deficiency" payments are made to bridge the gap.

When farmers sign up in the 1985 program, they will have the option of getting an advance equal to half of the projected deficiency payment, or 47 cents per bushel of normal production.

Advance payments could be around $800 million, half of the $1.6 billion projected for corn farmers in 1985, agency officials said.

If a farmer accepts an advance payment and then fails to live up to the program requirements, the money must be refunded, plus interest.

The 1985 wheat program was announced last June 15. It will require farmers to idle 30 percent of their base acreage to qualify for support benefits. That will include 20 percent straight acreage reduction and 10 percent for cash "diversion" payments.

Wheat, cotton and rice will have diversion payments in 1985, while none will be provided for feed grain producers.

Block announced that wheat farmers also will be eligible for advance diversion and deficiency payments at the time of signing up.

According to department projections, wheat farmers also will collect about $1.6 billion in 1985 deficiency payments, based on $1.08 per bushel, meaning that advance payments could be around $800 million at the time of signing up.

In addition, wheat diversion payments could add another $500 million for 1985, including advances of around $300 million.

Economy slows as wholesale prices drop

By SALLY JACOBSEN
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Wholesale prices slipped 0.1 percent in August for the first decline in nine months, the government said Friday.

That was one of a series of economic reports analysts said signaled the economy was still sliding — maybe just a bit too much — from its frenzied pace early in the year.

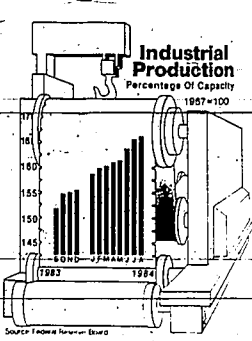

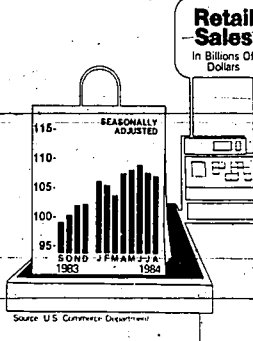

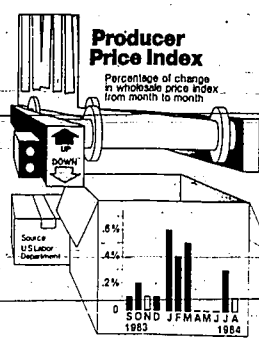

The White House could find nothing wrong in the three reports. Spokesman Larry Speakes said they meant the nation is entering "the fall season with a stabilizing economy poised for long-term growth with low inflation."

But some analysts said the figures, including a 0.8 percent drop in retail sales and a slight 0.2 percent increase in industrial production, raised the question of whether the recovery is starting to run out of steam.

Even so, all the economists agreed the fresh figures should only give the Federal Reserve, Board reason to ease, if ever so slightly, its tight grip on the money supply and let interest rates drift downward.

"These numbers say, 'Hey, Fed, you can be more accommodative,'" said Donald Ratajczak, forecaster at Georgia State University, who like other analysts sees hints the central bank has been supplying more money to the banking system recently.

Any decline in interest rates could only help President Reagan in this election year. Interest rates have stayed unusually high, one of the few negative marks on the administration's economic report card.

One of the bright spots this year has been inflation and the fresh Labor Department report only polished that still more.

The department reported that last month's decline in its Producer Price Index for finished goods was spurred by a 0.1 percent drop in food prices, the fourth decline in five months.

Gasoline costs were down a sharp 4.2 percent, the steepest plunge since March 1983.

The overall decline — the first since a 0.1 percent drop last November — meant that wholesale prices have come up in only one month out of the last five. They advanced a seasonally adjusted 0.3 percent in July and were unchanged in the three previous months.

Through August, those prices rose at an annual rate of just 2.4 percent, prompting analysts to forecast a gain for the whole year in the range of 2.5 to 3.5 percent. Those prices advanced 0.6 percent in 1983.

The fast growth pace of the economy in the first quarter of the year had raised fears by some that inflation would surely revert to a much higher clip. That hasn't occurred yet, but analysts still predict the pace will pick up in coming months, due partly to expectations of higher energy prices.

Meanwhile, the Commerce Department reported that the August slump in retail sales, down to a seasonally adjusted $106.2 billion, followed a steep 2 percent plunge in July.

The August gain reported by the Federal Reserve Board in production at the nation's factories, mines and utilities, was the smallest increase in nine months. It reflected a decline in production of both steel and autos.

The reports "are all unambiguously pointing to a rapidly sliding economy," said Allen Sinai, chief economist for Shearson Lehman-

American Express. Ratajczak said the reports show "a slowing economy with no inflation."

Administration officials agreed. The Commerce Department's chief economist, Robert Ortner, said, "We have been expecting to see the economy slow down and apparently it is finally here."

Said Sinai, "There's an increasing risk the data suggest that the economy might be fizzling out. I don't think that's going to happen. But it's a question that has to be asked."

Ortner acknowledged that worries about "under-heating" of the economy might crop up. But he said, "Don't count the consumer down and out. Incomes are growing and confidence is still very high."

The Labor Department, in its August inflation report, offered these details:

- Pork prices fell 5.9 percent and poultry prices were off 4.9 percent.
- Egg prices plunged 4.7 percent and costs for beef and veal slipped 0.1 percent.
- Dairy product prices fell 0.4 percent.
- Prices for fresh vegetables rose 11.3 percent and fresh fruit prices up 1.7 percent.
- Food prices advanced 1.4 percent in July after falling in the three previous months.
- Home heating oil prices tumbled 4.6 percent but natural gas prices surged 1.7 percent.

JANET GAYNOR
Won first Oscar for actress

Ex-movie queen dies at age 77

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Janet Gaynor, a reigning Hollywood beauty in the 1920s and '30s and the first actress to win an Academy Award, died Friday of lingering injuries suffered in a traffic accident two years ago.

She was 77.

Miss Gaynor, who specialized in sentimental portrayals of elegant, vulnerable women, died at 1:45 a.m. at Desert Hospital, said hospital spokesman Joe Burinskas.

She was one of the few actresses to successfully move from silent pictures to the "talkies." Of her silent-film roles, she recalled later she usually played "a wall who was waiting for my knight on a white horse."

Miss Gaynor's physician, Dr. Bart Apfelbaum, said she had never fully gotten over the effects of the traffic accident two years ago in San Francisco, which also injured singer-actress Mary Martin, and this is essentially the cause of death, that she never recovered."

"All through her illness, she maintained a wonderful attitude and was truly loved by everybody that helped take care of her," he said, adding that Miss Gaynor had been hospitalized "numerous times" since the accident for treatment of pneumonia, among several other ailments.

Miss Gaynor suffered 11 broken ribs, a severely fractured pelvis and abdominal injuries in the September 1982 accident. Following a lengthy hospitalization, she returned to her Desert Hot Springs home.

Miss Gaynor's husband, producer Paul Gregory, suffered two leg fractures and Miss Martin's manager, Ben Washer, was killed.

Miss Gaynor won an Oscar in 1929 for her performance in three silent films: the first Academy Award for best actress. The movies were "Seven Years in Heaven," "Street Angel" and "Sunrise," produced in 1927 and 1929.

In a 1971 interview she said the awards ceremony at the Hollywood Roosevelt Hotel "was like a small church social compared to the opulence and high-geared importance of today's affair."

She was voted one of the industry's top movie-makers in the Motion Picture-Herald-Fame Poll during 1932, 1933 and 1934.

Born Laura Gainer in Philadelphia on Oct. 6, 1906, she moved with her family to San Francisco, where she said her first acting job was selling shoes.

"I had to act from start to finish on that selling job," she once recalled.

Physicist wins libel suit but receives only $1 award

ATLANTA (AP) — A federal jury decided Friday physicist William Shockley was libeled by a newspaper article comparing his genetics proposals to those of the Nazis, but awarded him only $1 in actual damages and no money in punitive damages.

The Nobel Prize-winning scientist had been seeking $1.25 million in damages for the article, published in 1980 in The Atlanta Constitution, which he said libeled him.

Shockley, who shared a Nobel prize in physics in 1956 for his role in the invention of the transistor, was seeking damages against Cox Enterprises Inc., owner of The Atlanta Constitution, and former newspaper writer Roger Witherspoon for the article, which he said libeled him by comparing his controversial proposal for voluntary sterilization of the "genetically disadvantaged" with Nazi genetic experiments in World War II.

"The verdict is inadequate," Shockley said after the decision was announced. "The Constitution has not in any way been punished for libel and this will encourage the press to take equal freedom in libeling others."

Shockley said he would talk to his lawyers about whether to appeal the decision.

Al Norman, an attorney for the newspaper and for Witherspoon, said: "To the extent of (paying) 50 cents apiece, we came out close to winning. Total victory would have been zero."

Questioned further by reporters, Norman said he did not "attach cosmic implications" to the jury's decision to find in Shockley's favor. And Norman said defense attorneys would discuss the verdict among themselves later.

Witherspoon said he did not "view it as a loss. . . . If they had thought I was reckless or was out to get the guy — anything other than give him a fair shake — he would have gotten a heck of a lot more than a buck and there would have been punitive damages as well."

The six-member jury deliberated for a total of about three and one-half hours, after hearing the judge tell them that only the alleged libel — not Shockley's controversial genetic theory — was on trial.

"You are here to try a case of libel. You are not here to determine the validity of anybody's plans or programs."

Study of vet stress planned

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Veterans Administration awarded a $3.6 million contract Friday for the first full-scale study of post-traumatic stress disorder, a psychiatric problem believed to have affected thousands of Vietnam combat veterans.

The contract for the 3.5-year study, ordered by Congress last year, was awarded to the Research Triangle Institute of North Carolina.

Post-traumatic stress disorder, which has been recognized as a valid mental disorder and psychiatric syndrome by the American Psychiatric Association, is characterized by flashbacks of combat, anger, alienation, reduced involvement with the outside world, memory disturbances, anxiety and depression.

"The study findings should help us determine how many Vietnam-era veterans have these problems and evaluate the effectiveness of our programs for providing assistance to them," said VA Administrator Harry N. Walters.

Indictments set in 4 deaths

TOMS RIVER, N.J. (AP) — A grand jury on Friday indicted an amusement park and two executives on manslaughter charges in the deaths of eight teen-agers trapped when a "haunted house" erupted into flames four months ago.

Ocean County Prosecutor Edward J. Turnbach said the indictment unsealed Friday charged the Six Flags Corp. and Great Adventure Inc. with aggravated manslaughter for "recklessly causing" the deaths at the park's haunted Castle attraction May 11.

The second count of the indictment charged Larry Cochran and David Paltzik, with manslaughter for "reckless conduct in connection with the deaths."

Cochran was general manager of the park from Oct. 13, 1977, to Sept. 6, 1982, and is currently executive vice president of Six Flags Corp., the parent firm of the Six Flags Great Adventure park where the deaths occurred, Turnbach said.

A sea of followers surrounds Pope John Paul II's special vehicle during his tour of Halifax

Pope seeks help in effort to protect rights of the poor

By VICTOR L. SIMPSON
The Associated Press

TORONTO — Pope John Paul II asked leaders of other faiths Friday to join him in a crusade to keep technology and the profit motive from trampling the rights of workers and the poor.

"The needs of the poor must take priority over the desires of the rich; the rights of workers over the maximization of profits," the pontiff declared at an ecumenical service in Canada's industrial heartland.

On the sixth day of a 12-day Canadian tour, John Paul received a tumultuous welcome here in Canada's biggest city, a steel and glass metropolis of 3 million people, rich in ethnic and religious diversity.

His schedule Friday included a nighttime rally with Polish Canadians in Toronto's baseball stadium.

After his jetliner landed here from Nova Scotia, the papal motorcade drove seven miles into the city center. Tens of thousands of Canadians and American tourists — packed the sidewalks, cheering, waving yellow-and-white papal flags, running or bicycling down the streets to keep abreast of the glass-encased "pop mobile."

"There he is! There he is!" they shouted.

Said 10-year-old Marcella Foulkes: "It's probably as close to God as we'll ever get."

At St. Paul's Anglican Church, the vicar of the world's more than 700 million Roman Catholics prayed with leaders of other Canadian faiths, among them Anglican, United Church and Greek-Orthodox ministers and Jewish rabbis.

The pope, who in talks Wednesday and Thursday in Canada's Atlantic provinces had denounced the "race for profit" and the "injustice of unemployment, turned again in Toronto to a defense of workers."

He told the ecumenical gathering that although rapidly expanding technology benefits humanity, "it has also ushered in a technological menality which challenges Gospel values."

The pope said technology presents three temptations: To develop it for its own sake, instead of using it to "serve man; to develop it according to "the logic of profit and constant economic expansion" in disregard of the rights of workers and the poor; and to develop it in order to preserve power, rather than to enhance freedom.

The needs of the poor and of workers must come first, he said.

"These challenges present us with important areas of ecumenical collaboration and form a vital part of our mission of proclaiming the Gospel of Christ," he added.

Speaking of the ecumenical movement, John Paul said his six years as pope have "confirmed even more in my heart the evangelical obligation of seeking ... the ways of drawing closer and of union."

The pope's first stop in Toronto Friday was at a Peace Garden near City Hall, where he lit a Eternal Flame.

Japanese earthquake sends slides into mountain village

TOKYO (AP) — A strong aftershock rocked central Japan Saturday, following a severe earthquake that sent huge landslides tearing through a mountain village and blocking roads.

One man was known dead and at least 28 people were missing and feared buried by mud or rocks from Friday's quake.

It registered 6.9 on the Richter scale, the Central Meteorological Agency said. The quake struck hardest in Otaki, a village of 2,300 people at the foot of a mountain 120 miles northwest of Tokyo.

An aftershock measuring 6.4 on the Richter scale hit Saturday morning, about 22 hours later, the agency said. Its epicenter also was in Nagano prefecture about 10 miles from Otaki.

Police said there were no immediate reports of damage or casualties from that tremor.

The only confirmed death — a 65-year-old man — was in Otaki, and eight other people were reported injured in the landslides triggered by the first quake. All of those reported missing after that tremor were in or near Otaki.

In Tokyo, the quake set buildings swaying for 30 seconds. Some high-speed "bullet train" service west of Tokyo was temporarily halted so tracks could be checked for damage, a customs procedure in earthquake-prone Japan.

MOTOSUKU Tsukada, an officer at Nagano prefectural police headquarters, said police listed 28 people as missing.

The missing included 11 men feared trapped near a stone quarry; six men who had been working on a dam; and four people who had been working in a forest near the village.

Also missing, police said, was a family of four who had been staying at an inn that was swept away by a mudslide just outside Otaki.

Billy Graham returns to Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham returned to Moscow from the Estonian capital of Tallinn on Friday, saying he believes his 12-day tour of the Soviet Union is important because "one of the greatest contacts we can make is in religion."

Interviewed by The Associated Press on the plane from Tallinn, Graham said that trade, political and cultural exchanges between the United States and the Soviet Union are always good.

On political contacts, he said, "I hope this can be renewed after the (U.S. presidential) election and after things here (in the Soviet Union) are more certain."

He did not elaborate, but added that links between churchmen are also important.

"I think one of the greatest contacts we can make is in religion, because the Soviet people are very religious," he said.

To back his assessment, Graham quoted figures saying that an estimated 40 million Soviets adhere to the faith of the Russian Orthodox church and 60 million to Islam.

Soviet census in 1979 lists a population of 262.4 million, he said, officially atheist nation.

Graham said there also are "half a million" Baptists and 20 to 30 other denominations with followings in the Soviet Union.

The theme throughout his trip has been the need for atheist communists and Soviet and American Christians to work together for peace.

Asked whether he thought he was stressing the peace drive at the expense of raising human rights issues, Graham said he would raise some of these issues "toward the end of my tour."

Salvage crews retrieve sunken lethal cargo

OSTEND, Belgium (AP) — Salvage crews on Friday retrieved nine more barrels of uranium hexafluoride from a sunken French freighter in the North Sea, bringing the total to 10.

That is a third of the ship's radioactive cargo.

A 30-member salvage crew, taking advantage of a second straight day of mild weather after a week of storms, worked virtually round-the-clock starting Thursday morning to recover the containers.

Ten of the sunken freighter's 30 steel containers of uranium hexafluoride have been placed on a pontoon anchored off the wreck, said Myra Giltay, spokeswoman for the Dutch salvage firm of Smit Tak International. The first container of the radioactive material was recovered from the 4,210-ton Mont Louis on Thursday.

Ms. Giltay said the three containers retrieved during the night were sealed tight and in good condition.

"There is no danger of an explosion ... They are in good condition," she said.

She was referring to the violent reaction that can occur when uranium hexafluoride comes into contact with water.

"There was no word on the condition of the other containers retrieved later Friday.

She said of 22 empty containers aboard the vessel, 15 have also been retrieved.

PG-13 Rating Introduced

A new rating category is in place as of July 1. This new category is inserted between the current PG and R ratings. It is designated as "PG-13: Parents are strongly cautioned to give special guidance for attendance of children under 13. Some material may be inappropriate for young children."

The revised five-category system of the voluntary film industry rating program is now as follows:

- G: General Audiences, all ages admitted.
- PG: Parental guidance suggested. Some material may not be suitable for children.
- PG-13: Parents are strongly cautioned to give special guidance for children under 13. Some material may be inappropriate for young children.
- R: Restricted, under-17 requires accompanying parent or adult guardian.
- X: No one under 17 admitted.

All films rated after July 1 will be given ratings under the new five-category system.

Storms kill 34, injure 278 in China

PEKING (AP) — Typhoon Ike and two other storms that struck southern China between Aug. 21 and Sept. 6 killed 34 people and left another 278 injured, the government announced Friday.

The official Xinhua news agency quoted a Ministry of Civil Affairs official as saying the storms destroyed about 38,000 homes, damaged more than 494,000 acres of farmland and washed away 20,000 tons of grain.

Typhoon Ike killed 13 people near the southern coastal city of Beihai, the official English-language daily reported Thursday. No breakdown of casualties was given for the other two storms.

Morocco sees first election since '77

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — Thousands of Moroccans lined up at polling booths throughout the country Friday to vote in the nation's first legislative elections since 1977.

A swing to the left was widely predicted, but a landslide was considered unlikely in this tradition-bound Arab nation.

More than 7.5 million men and women were registered to vote, with the results to be announced Saturday.

Geothermal water burns man

PRESTON (AP) — A Colorado man who fell into a geothermal hot water pool 15 miles north of here was in critical, but stable condition Friday at the University of Utah burn center in Salt Lake City. Authorities said Currie Lockett, 44, Boulder, Colo., suffered second-degree burns over 62 percent of his body, said a hospital spokeswoman. A Franklin County sheriff's deputy said authorities are continuing to investigate how the mishap occurred some time Thursday. The deputy said he knew little about Lockett, but said he thought he was a part-time farmer.

Toxic tailings cleaned up

HOWE (AP) — Tailings containing toxic heavy metals from an old lead mine 13 miles northwest of here have been removed from a former creekbed to prevent possible contamination of the Little Lost River. The clean-up cost the Bureau of Land Management $63,500, and the federal Environmental Protection Agency has removed the site from its list of hazardous areas. Arrowhead Sand, Inc., of Roberts cleared away the contaminated soil last fall and buried it for the Idaho Falls BLM District. Arrowhead buried about 20,000 cubic yards of mill tailings in a pit away from North Creek and re-seeded the area. More tailings were buried this summer to complete the project, a BLM spokesman said. The pit and about seven miles of the streambed also were fenced to prevent livestock from entering the area.

Fire chief takes state post

POCATELLO (AP) — Fire Chief Hal Cai has resigned from his $31,000-a-year post to become a state deputy fire marshal. Cai joined the Pocatello Fire Department as a firefighter in 1956 and was named chief in 1975. The salary in his new position will be about $23,000, the office of the state fire marshal said. Cai will remain in Pocatello and will be responsible for developing fire-prevention programs. A search for a new city fire chief is under way, Pocatello City Manager Charles Moss said.

Parks department head quits

BOISE (AP) — Dale Christiansen, director of the Idaho Parks and Recreation Department since 1976, has resigned, saying he wants to teach at the university level. A department spokesman said Friday Christiansen resigned effective next Friday, and said he planned to enter the University of Oregon to obtain a doctor's degree in leisure study and services. The Parks and Recreation Board announced it will meet in an executive session next Thursday to accept Christiansen's resignation and start the search for a successor. Bob Meinen, deputy director, will serve as acting director. Christiansen, 53, was Portland's city parks director before accepting the Idaho job.

Andrus named college trustee

CALDWELL (AP) — Cecil D. Andrus, former Idaho governor and President Jimmy Carter's interior secretary, is one of three new members of the College of Idaho Board of Trustees. Also seated on the board were Dr. Eugene Holsinger of Burley and Coco Ickes of Caldwell.

Students raise auditorium funds

THOMAS (AP) — Snake River High School students are staging a $600,000 fundraising campaign to finish auditorium construction that voters refused to finance. Students will seek donations from each of the 1,700 households the school serves. Student Body President Ed Gorder said. A talent show and other fundraisers also are planned.

Noted law teacher dies

MOSCOW (AP) — Dr. William Brockelbank, professor for 23 years at the University of Idaho College of Law, is dead at the age of 89. Brockelbank taught law at U of I from 1949 until 1966. He was regarded as an authority on community property law, and his 1963 text on the subject was used widely—in community-property states, said Albert Menard, retired dean of the U of I law school. According to Who's Who in America, Brockelbank was born in Ontario, Canada, in 1895. He earned a bachelor of law degree from Harvard College, was an English barrister and won a doctorate of law degree from the University of Paris in 1934. Before coming to Idaho, Brockelbank was a professor, lecturer or lawyer in Alabama, Pittsburgh, Paris, Kansas, Vancouver, B. C., and Kansas City, Mo. He settled in Moscow in 1943 and lived there — with the exception of a year in New Zealand — until his death on Tuesday.

BOISE (AP) — Judges may impose special restrictions on persons placed on probation, even to the point of forbidding them to marry or even associate with persons considered bad influences, the Court of Appeals says. The court on Friday approved probation restrictions ordered by 4th District Judge W.E. Smith for a young woman who pleaded guilty to a felony charge of passing a forged check. As a special probation condition, Smith ordered HOBIE DAVIS, described as naive, immature and easily influenced, not to see or associate with an Idaho State Penitentiary who had been convicted of 10 felonies. The woman argued in an appeal against the order that her relationship with the convict had nothing to do with the criminal charges against her; therefore the condition that she have no contact with him bears no reasonable relationship to the purpose of probation. But the Court of Appeals said as a probationer, "society has the right to impose stringent limitations on behavior." This may include restrictions on important liberties such as the right to travel, to change jobs or residences, or even to marry. "Allowing probation authorities to monitor and enforce such limitations helps ensure that those under supervision will not revert to their former pattern of criminal conduct," the court said. The woman also claimed it was impossible for her to meet the probation terms, because she has deep emotional ties to the man and his family.

The court discussed a 1960 case, in which an alcoholic won a ruling that it was impossible for him to meet a probation term requiring him to abstain from alcohol for one year. But the court said it should be noted that there is a distinction between "impossibility" and "unwillingness." "Here, the district judge believed that Davis could make a choice. He expressly stated that the condition was not impossible for her to fulfill. We agree," the court said.

Harvest to bring drop in jobless rate

BLACKFOOT (AP) — Bingham County's unemployment likely will drop to its lowest rate of the year when the potato harvest is in full swing, employment officials say. The jobless rate plunged to a 1983 low of 5 percent during the harvest last year. "It appears the same thing will happen this year," said Blackfoot Job Service Manager Wade Virgin. His office predicts 1,800 people will find temporary work in the fields of Bingham County, one of Idaho's prime potato-growing areas. The county's unemployment rate was 5.9 percent in July, the last month for which local rates were calculated.

Pocatello teachers agree to contract

POCATELLO (AP) — The Pocatello School Board and its teachers have agreed on a 13 percent, $1.4 million pay increase after five months of negotiations. The package endorsed unanimously by the board and a record 93 percent of teachers also provides a 1 percent increase in fringe benefits.

The agreement ended marathon negotiations that began with the teachers requesting a 20 percent pay increase and the board offering 7 percent. The new contract increases base pay by $600 and revamps the salary schedule so teachers can achieve maximum pay within 11 years, instead of 16.

Tupperware to bring more jobs to Jerome

By The Times-News and The Associated Press

JEROME — Tupperware Co. is moving new jobs into its plants at Jerome and two other U.S. localities as a result of changes at the factory where the company was founded.

Tupperware's first factory at North Smithfield, R.I., will stop producing the plastic food containers and dishware that have made the company famous and start molding plastic parts for outside customers, executives announced.

"To try and save as many jobs in Rhode Island as possible, we are now aggressively trying to get outside custom-molding work," Tupperware president John Ansley said in a letter to the plant's 700 employees Thursday. The company will transfer the work to its three remaining plants, bringing them up from about 55 percent of capacity to 75 percent, vice president of personnel James G. Hagan said.

The Jerome plant will add at least 60 employees during the next two to three months to absorb its share of the North Smithfield work, said general manager John Forbes on Friday. The plant now employs 550 production and 50 administrative workers.

"I would think it would be pretty much all local employment," he said. "It would be running more machines than we are running now."

The transfer could boost production at Jerome as much as 15 percent, Forbes said. "It's a positive thing for Jerome and should improve our situation here," he said. The North Smithfield plant is the factory where Earl Tupper founded the business 30 years ago. Tupper, who was a chemist, died last year.

James G. Hagan, vice president of personnel and a former Rhode Island state senator, said from Florida that the decision to turn the building into a custom-molding plant was prompted by lagging U.S. sales and the inefficiency of the four-story plant.

He also cited higher energy costs in the Northeast, noting that it now costs from $2 million to $3 million a year more to produce Tupperware in Rhode Island than at Tupperware plants in Jerome, Halls, Tenn., and Hingham, S.C.

Hagan said it is less expensive to make molded plastic parts for outside customers such as automotive or cosmetics manufacturers because they are shipped out immediately.

At North Smithfield, nearby buildings must be rented to store inventory for Tupperware dealers.

The conversion most likely will mean substantial layoffs in the 700-employee work force. About 300 people have been laid off from the plant during the last couple of years from its peak of 1,000 workers.

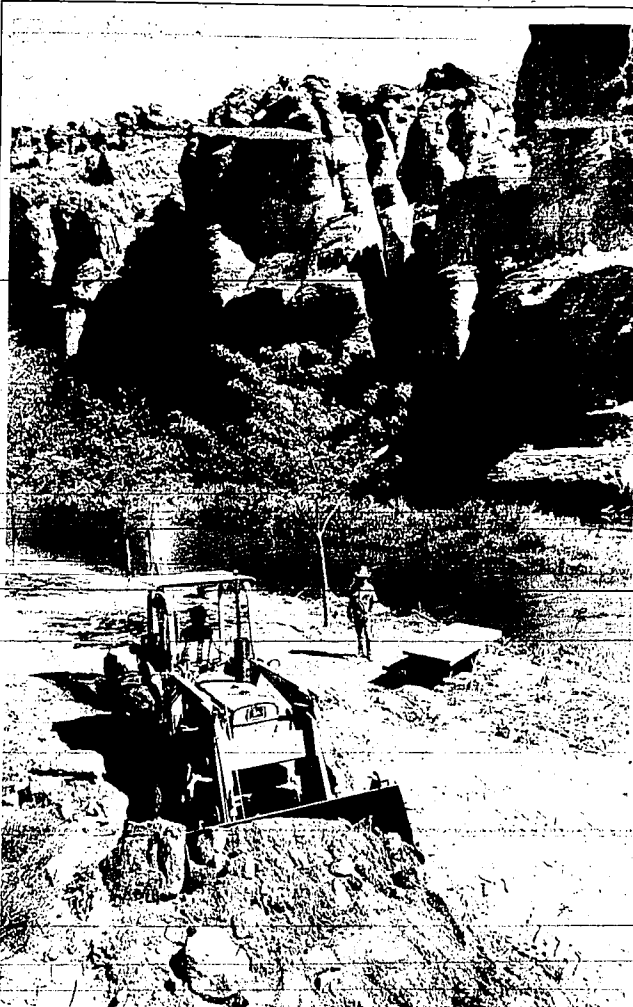

Hagan said the 150 people employed in product development, engineering and research and development functions will not be affected by the change.

Ansley said in his letter that the company is working to fill the plant's production capacity. "We hope by the end of the year to be running at least the same number of machines on custom molding as we are now running to produce Tupperware," he said. Hagan and Margaret P. MacKimm, vice president of public affairs for Dart & Kraft Tupperware's parent company at Northbrook, Ill., said Tupperware suffered a sharp drop in U.S. business during the last two years as the economy has been recovering from recession.

Tupperware sells its products exclusively at "parties" conducted by dealers in private homes. "Direct selling" companies like Tupperware usually do very well in economic upturns, when their part-time work sales forces, largely women, are looking for additional sources of income to supplement the family budget. When the economy improves, the dealers drop part-time jobs for full-time work, the two officials said.

Tupperware also operates 17 foreign factories, including ones in Mexico and Canada.

County parks department workers begin removing dirt washed into Balanced Rock Park

Flood-damaged park repaired

CASTLEFORD — A backhoe lumbered down into Salmon Falls Canyon Thursday as the Twin Falls County workers began a major clean-up of the flood-damaged Balanced Rock County Park.

The park was submerged by the spring flood triggered by the Salmon Falls Reservoir spill. The flood, which was caused by a backed-up culvert that dammed up the creek and then gave way, sent a surge of water into the park. When the waters receded, the bridge to the park was washed out and the eight acres were covered with up to eight inches of silt.

About a month ago, a temporary road opened up the park again to visitors, said Parks Supervisor Darrell Heider. Heider said county crews will work on the clean-up throughout the fall and expect to have the park back to normal by spring. Already, some visitors are using the park again, Heider said.

The park was created with money provided by the county government and a federal conservation program.

Balanced Rock, which is designated as a National Historic Monument, is located about a quarter of a mile from the county park.

Tensions built on misunderstanding

Trade possible with Mideast

By DAVE LEWIS Times-News writer

SUN VALLEY — Despite political and cultural barriers and a drop in oil revenues, trade with Arab nations presents an excellent opportunity for American businesses, an Arab business leader said in Sun Valley Friday.

"In comparison to the boom (oil production) years, there is less money to spend now. But nevertheless, the Arab markets are the most exciting that exist today," said Abdallah T. Dabbagh, secretary-general of the Council of Saudi Arabian Chambers of Commerce and Industry.

Dabbagh spoke on the first day of a two-day conference on improving trade relations between the United States and Arab states in Sun Valley. The conference is sponsored by several groups concerned with building cultural and business ties between Arabs and Americans.

Dabbagh said trade between the United States and Arab states has dropped substantially since 1981, primarily because of a drop in oil revenues caused by a world-wide oil glut.

But, he said, Arab-American trade is also hurt by the Arab's resentment of America's support of Israel and "negative stereotypes" of Arabs held by Americans.

Because of America's steadfast support of Israel, many Arab states have turned to other industrial nations for trade, he said.

At the same time, "anti-boycott" laws enacted after the 1973 oil crisis have made Arab-American trade more difficult, Dabbagh said.

He said Arab-American tensions are built on a misunderstanding and the pro-Israel lobby in the U.S. that threatens Arab interests.

"There has been a campaign to undermine the American businessman's efforts in Arab nations," Dabbagh said.

As a result, Japan has replaced the United States as the Arab state's largest partner in trade, he said.

Dabbagh also said trade with Arab states is hurt by American stereotypes of Arabs.

Resentment from the oil boycott, the impression that all Arabs and Arab states are the same, the belief the oil glut has depleted Arab bank accounts and the image of the dishonest Arab businessman all hinder trade relations, he said.

Arab political systems are diverse, there is still plenty of money and there are both trustworthy and untrustworthy Arab businessmen.

If both Arabs and Americans overcome these stereotypes and other barriers, he said, there is an opportunity for increasing trade between the two.

"Our doors are open. Let's get to know each other and understand each other. Let's do business together," Dabbagh said.

The conference, "An Arab American Dialogue on Trade, Investment and Technology Transfer," also is trying to give American business people the knowledge for entering Arab markets.

Advice is plentiful, and American businessmen with experience in Arab states say the opportunity is there if Americans are honest and patient enough to learn Arabian culture.

James Draper, a businessman who, among other things, has sold irrigation products to Arabian states, says Americans should take the time to understand Arab culture to help build business ties and opportunities.

Arabs will offer foreigners food and invite them to take part in their religious holidays in an effort to show that their culture is about, Draper said.

Stability of the Middle East threatened

Iraqi asks for end to war

By DAVE LEWIS Times-News writer

SUN VALLEY — The United States and other Western powers should pressure Iran to end the Iran-Iraq war, because Iraq's defeat would threaten the West's long-term interests in the Middle East, the ranking Iraqi official in the U.S. said Friday.

"If Iran wins the war, it would threaten the stability of the entire Middle East and the West's supply of the region's oil," said Nizar Hamdoun, Iraq's chief diplomat to the U.S.

Hamdoun fills the role of an ambassador, but does not hold the title, because his country does not have formal diplomatic relations with the United States.

Speaking in Sun Valley before a group interested in improving the trade relations between Arab countries and the U.S., Hamdoun said the West should not take the four-year-old war between his country and Iran lightly.

He said Western nations are wrong in thinking the outcome of the war will have little consequences on their interests in the region.

"This war, however, represents an implicit danger that could rise at any time," Hamdoun said in his speech, which was billed as the first official Iraqi statement in the U.S. on the war and its effects on Western interests in the region.

All Middle Eastern states face an internal threat from Iran, because the government of the Ayatollah Khomeini wants to export its religious revolution throughout the Middle East, Hamdoun said.

If it succeeds, he said, traditional national borders would fall because states would be based on religion, not on geography or race.

"Thus, I realize the whole region is falling under the influence of the Iran-Iraqi conflict and awaiting its outcome," he said.

When the war began, Iran thought it could overrun Iraq because many Iraqis are from the same Islamic sect as the majority of Iranians, Hamdoun said.

However, Iraqis seek to have joined together to fight non-Arab Iran to preserve their historical, Arab state, he said.

If Iraq fails, he said, moderation in the Middle East is threatened and another oil crisis could cut off the supply of oil to Western nations, Hamdoun said.

Therefore, the United States and other Western powers should increase their pressure toward moderation to preserve the stability of the region, he said.

Hamdoun said he realized the United States has placed pressure on Iran, but it should increase the pressure.

Western nations have many reconciliations about the Iran-Iraqi conflict and the consequences of its outcome, Hamdoun said.

The fear of many that Iran will fall to communism if defeated is unfounded, he said.

The Soviet Union does not want Khomeini or his zealous religious followers because they would threaten the stability of Soviet states in Central Asia that are heavily populated by Moslems.

Police are withholding the names of both suspects, because of their juvenile status.

Qualls said the arrests came after an investigation triggered by a report from an informant, who provided details of the incident.

Neither of the youths charged with the crime have prior criminal records, Qualls said.

Oakley shooting victim dies

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A weekend shooting spree in a southern Idaho farming community claimed its fifth life Friday.

Officials at LDS Hospital here said Levi Eklund, 27, of Oakley, died at 4:10 a.m. today of complications from gunshot wounds suffered Sunday.

Eklund was one of six persons shot by Juan Guerra, 33, a Peruvian national who was working in the area as a farm laborer. Police said the man shot and killed his estranged wife, Shirley Denise Guerra, and their two infant children before committing suicide.

Eklund and another man, Billy Gee, 22, Oakley, both were shot by Guerra early Sunday. Gee remained in fair condition late Friday at a Pocatello hospital. Cassia County Prosecutor Al Barrus said it wasn't until Thursday that county officials were able to reach members of Guerra's family in Peru and inform them of the tragedy.

Police said Eklund and Gee had been socializing with the Guerras at an Oakley Tavern, then all four went when the bar closed. An argument later erupted; and Guerra shot and wounded his wife and the two men.

He left the men and took his wife to his home, where she was shot and killed. Several hours later, Gee was able to drive and summon help.

Eklund was treated initially at Burley then transferred to Salt Lake City where he remained until his death Friday.

Misunderstandings about invitation, campaign manager

Prosecutor candidate issues retraction

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES Times-News writer

JEROME — David Thompson, independent candidate for Jerome County Prosecuting Attorney, said Thursday there was apparently a misunderstanding about whether he received an invitation to the Idaho Prosecuting Attorney Association meeting in McCall last month.

He received a letter from the association headquarters, Thompson said, telling in detail about a November meeting and inviting him to attend. The letter included an attachment that was the year's calendar for association events.

One of the listings was a McCall conference.

"I certainly didn't consider this an invitation to attend," he said. "But apparently my opponent (Marlene Weed) inquired about it and was told the event was open to candidates. She attended and I didn't."

Thompson had written a letter to the current Jerome Prosecutor Dan Adamson, charging Adamson had informed Weed but no other candidate in the county that the meeting was open to candidates.

"I certainly don't want to blame someone for something they didn't do, and apparently I was wrong," Thompson said.

Thompson said he was upset by a previous letter of endorsement for Weed by a north Idaho prosecutor who stated she was the only candidate who made the effort to attend although others were invited. Thompson said he would also retract his assertion that Weed's husband, Harry Weed, is a "professional" campaign manager.

"I don't take his (Harry Weed's) word for the fact he worked in California as a volunteer, not a professional," the candidate said. "By the time the story got to me, it was apparently a bit exaggerated."

Adamson exchanged words with Thompson about the letter Tuesday, saying nothing that he was accused of by Thompson was true.

IFF donates 4-H purchases

TWIN FALLS — If anyone dares to ask "Where's the beef?" from last week's 4-H and Future Farmers of America Pat Stock Sale at the Twin Falls County Fair, Idaho Prozen Foods Corp. has an answer.

Some will be feeding children, the needy and senior citizens.

The potato processing company is donating the meat from two steers purchased at the sale to 10 United Way agencies that provide daily meal service in the area. IFF officials announced the agencies, which include six senior citizens groups, the Salvation Army, Magic Valley Alcohol Rehabilitation, the Party Childhood Learning Center and the McAuley Home for Girls, will use the beef to supplement their existing meal programs.

IFF purchased the 1,219-pound reserve grand champion steer shown by Scott Young of Hansen and a 1,094-pound steer shown by Teresa Hamby of Twin Falls at the annual Pat Stock Sale, which was held Sept. 6.

Sandy Thomas, executive director for United Way of Magic Valley, said the IFF donation is the first of its type for United Way. Meat will be divided among the agencies according to the numbers of people served by each.

BLM publishes permit rules

BOISE — The Federal Register has published final Bureau of Land Management rules for regulating public recreation permits. Idaho State BLM director Clair Whitlock said the revised rules will outline new penalties for prohibited activities, set up new fee schedules, allow BLM officials to waive permit fees to educational and scientific institutions and outline an appeals process.

The regulations were published in the Aug. 29 Federal Register and become effective Sept. 28.

Burley computer class held

BURLEY — The College of Southern Idaho Continuing Education Office in Burley is offering a one-credit word processing course which will run for five weeks. The course will consist of hands-on activity using the Wordstar word processing software on Kaypro computers, a CP/M operating system. The class will be limited to the first 12 people paid. Class begins Sept. 19 and runs from 7 to 10 p.m. and the fee is $45. For more information or to register, call the Burley Community Education office at 678-1100.

It's berry picking time in mountains

TWIN FALLS — Crisp nights and cool days have begun to paint fall colors in the Sawtooth National Forest, forest service officials report.

With more good weather predicted for the weekend, woodcutters, fishermen, backpackers and bow hunters will probably be heading for the forest.

In the Burley Ranger District, visitors will find an excellent crop of ripe chokecherries and elderberries. The berries can be found mainly in the Sublett and Albion Divisions, with North Helder in the Sublett Division especially good for chokecherries.

The Twin Falls Ranger District recommends the newly reconstructed Deadline Ridge road to visitors looking for a scenic tour. The Trapper Creek and Big Cedar roads are still very rough, however, and recommended for 4-wheel drive use only. Big Cedar road is still closed.

For woodcutters, recommended areas include Buckskin Ridge, Eagle Springs, Ecklund Creek and Basin Patch north of Bostetter. Firewood permits can be obtained at the ranger district office Monday through Friday or at the trailer located at Diamondfield Jack's parking lot.

On the Fairfield District, Pioneer Campground is closed to maintain the parking lot. The work should be completed early next week. In the meantime, fishing is still reported good to very good, with fly-fishing best.

The Ketchum Ranger District reports all campgrounds are still open, but the Little Wood River drainage road from the top of Marmion Hill to Kale Creek is permanently closed.

Kimberly teachers take contract offer

By CAROLYN MILLER
Times-News correspondent

KIMBERLY — Kimberly Education Association negotiator Gayle Wilson announced at the Kimberly School Board meeting Thursday that the Kimberly teachers had accepted the trustees' contract proposal.

The provisions of the new contract establish a fringe pool benefit for all certificated employees at the rate of $10 per month, says Wilson. Part time employees will be paid the fringe pool on a pro-rated basis according to their hours of service. The fringe pool benefits extend through out the yearly contract.

Wilson also said the contract allows teachers a base pay of $13,200 on a new progressive schedule with salary increases depending on years of experience and degree of education.

Wilson says the provisions of the contract agreement are effective as of Sept. 6, 1984 and will continue to be in force until Sept. 5, 1985.

In other business:

- Kimberly Superintendent Richard Bauser discussed the State Board of Education's new 90 percent allowance rule, noting the district "will make every effort to comply."
- Bauser said parents will be strongly encouraged to monitor their child's attendance to avoid the student missing any more class time than is absolutely necessary.
- "If a parent feels their child can qualify for a hardship situation, they may fill out an attendance waiver request form and submit it to the principal," says Bauser. "Upon the recommendation of the principal and the superintendent a waiver may be granted."
- Jim McClellan, Kimberly high school principal, informed the trustees of the new "abbreviated" schedule, which will allow students to attend class in compliance with the 90 percent rule when an assembly or school activity is scheduled.
- The seven, 50-minute school periods will be shortened to 45 minutes, allowing ample time at the end of the school-day for approved school activities, says McClellan.
- Two newly appointed trustees were given the official trustee's oath. The new zone 3 member is Mary Fisher, a physics professor at the College of Southern Idaho. Zone 4 will be represented by Kimberly Police Chief Jim Campbell.
- Ken Taylor, school board chairman, reviewed the A.E. Hymer Energy Grant from the Department of Energy, Denver, Colorado.
- Taylor said the grant had been offered to the Kimberly district at $25,612. He says the monies provided by the grant will be used to improve the energy efficiency of the junior high school and gymnasium. Taylor also said, available matching funds will be provided by the school district.
- Trustee Carol White said an energy audit conducted by McMech Engineering, Twin Falls indicated the money spent on the proposed energy efficiency improvements for the junior high and gym should be returned in "expenses saved," over the next five to seven years.
- The trustees approved acceptance of the grant.
- The new tax credit privileges being extended to public schools was discussed by Bauser. He said "with the new 1983 legislature tax credit provision, individuals and corporations can make meaningful contributions to public schools with minimal out-of-pocket expense," adding "any contributions would be greatly appreciated."

Truck rolls, driver OK

BURLEY — A truck rollover on I-81 near the Cotterel port of entry Thursday afternoon resulted in a call for police, ambulance, wrecker and extraction equipment.

Officers said the driver of a grain truck that rolled over about 3 p.m. was pinned in the wreckage and apparently injured.

Officers said the first emergency vehicle on the scene was a wrecker. The operator "rocked" one of the overturned truck to pull it back on its wheels.

In the process, he inadvertently pulled the door off and the victim crawled out, wiped the dust from his face and walked around the truck to inspect the damage.

Thomas Bateman, an employee of Norman Farms, said he was not hurt and didn't need to go to the hospital.

HALIFAX, Nova Scotia (AP) — advance of Michael Jackson. Tapping his toes to "Singin' in the Rain" or kissing the brow of a critically ill child, Pope John Paul II finds renewed vigor in meeting the young — and invariably falls 45 minutes behind schedule. The 64-year pontiff seems to shed years and the weariness of his Canadian journey when he joins with a rain-soaked audience of young people in a hand-clapping refrain; "He's Got the Whole World in His Hands." Sometimes the pope appears to be dozing off when some bishop drops on a caudal discourse. But his attention never wavers at the young events like the huge rally in Montreal, where he filled Olympic Stadium in

Catholics challenge official church position on abortion

WASHINGTON — A group of 55 Roman Catholic theologians on Friday challenged the notion that their church speaks with one voice on the issue of abortion, and they cautioned bishops against trying to penalize priests or politicians who disagree with them. In a statement issued in the wake of a New York archbishop's criticism of Democratic vice presidential nominee Geraldine Ferraro's stand on abortion, the theologians said: "Statements of recent popes and of the Catholic hierarchy have condemned the direct termination of pre-natal life as morally wrong in all instances. There is the mistaken belief in American society that this is the only legitimate Catholic position. In fact, a diversity of opinions regarding abortion exists among committed Catholics. A large number of Catholic theologians holds that even direct abortion, though tragic, can sometimes be a moral choice. "There is no common and constant teaching on ensoulment in church doctrine, nor has abortion always been treated as murder-in-canonical history," the theologians said. Daniel C. Maguire, a theology professor at Marquette University and former priest, released the statement at a news briefing called by Catholics for a Free Choice, a lobbying group that opposes efforts to outlaw abortion. Maguire said 2,000 Catholic theologians and Biblical scholars were asked to sign the statement. Among those who declined were 71 "who told us they agreed with the statement entirely, but they were afraid they would lose their jobs if they signed it, because there is so much pressure on this issue," he said.

Archbishop John J. O'Connor of New York has said the church's stand on abortion is "monolithic" and accused Ms. Ferraro of "misrepresenting the church's position. A group of New England bishops has said abortion should be regarded as the key issue in the current campaign. The congressman from the New York City borough of Queens has said repeatedly that she personally opposes abortion, but doesn't seek to impose that view by law on others. O'Connor also has quarreled in public with New York Gov. Mario Cuomo, who has taken a stand similar to that of Ms. Ferraro. Frances Kissling, executive director of Catholics for a Free Choice, said only a handful of the 55 theologians "at most" — belong to her 5,000-member organization. The theologians said polls have shown only a small minority of American Catholics disapprove of abortion in all circumstances. "Catholics — especially priests, religious, theologians and legislators — who publicly dissent from hierarchical statements and explore areas of moral and legal freedom on the abortion question should not be penalized by their religious superiors, church employers or bishops," they said. "Theology, said Maguire, "is not just counting bishops' noses. He also suggested that bishops who align themselves with conservative, anti-abortion politicians might be "indirectly promoting abortion. "By tilting things in the direction of conservative politicians who, as in Reaganomics, are going to strip the lower class and create more poverty and more chaos and more unwanted pregnancies and more abortions...

they're also being pro-abortion, in effect," he said. Asked to name a pope who supported his view that theologians and church members are entitled to their own views on moral issues, Maguire mentioned "Pope Alexander VIII in 1690." More recently, he said, "on these pelvic issues, there's a tremendous rigidity." J. Giles Millhaver, a Brown University professor of religious studies and former Jesuit, said church officials have always condemned abortion, "but before the 19th Century they didn't believe it was killing a human being until six weeks along in the pregnancy." Ms. Kissling said the bishops "cannot pull out the vote on this issue... Nobody tells Catholics how to vote."

Wall Street posts solid gain

By CHET CURRIER
The Associated Press

NEW YORK — The stock market weathered some late selling to post its second straight broad gain Friday. That was the reaction as Wall Street got some hoped-for signs of a cooling economy.

Savings and loan issues and stocks involved in takeover developments were among the standout performers in the busiest session in more than a month at the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose 9.27 to 1,237.52, bringing its gain for the week to 30.14 points.

Big Board volume totaled 137.42 million shares, up from 118.58 million Thursday and the heaviest total since a 171.03 million share day on Aug. 10.

Gainers outnumbered losers by more than 2 to 1 on the Big Board, and the NYSE's composite index rose .57 to 97.65.

Nationwide turnover in NYSE-listed issues, including trades in those stocks on regional exchanges and in the over-the-counter market, totaled 161 million shares.

Standard & Poor's index of 400 industrial adjusted .75 to 191.15, and S&P's 500-stock composite index was up .84 at 168.78.

Concessions pass

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In a second round of voting, members of Western Airline's largest union have ratified new pay and productivity concessions designed to return the financially-troubled carrier to profitability.

Results of the new vote by the Air Transport Employees were announced Thursday, just one week after members of the union narrowly rejected the company's proposal.

Most actives

NEW YORK (AP) — Sales, 4 p.m. price and net change of the 15 most active New York Stock Exchange issues, trading nationally more than 1 million shares.

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — Truck and rail bids for the 15 most active New York Stock Exchange issues, trading nationally more than 1 million shares.

Potatoes

CHICAGO (AP) — USDA Market Edoles reports for shipping potatoes, Sept. 14 Thursday.

Table with columns for variety (e.g., Burbank, Red), quantity, price, and change.

The NASDAQ composite index for the over-the-counter market rose 2.26 to 255.60. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index closed at 216.38, up 2.25.

The market's latest upswing got its start Thursday amid expectations of new evidence that the economy was slowing, paving the way for a possible decline in interest rates.

Those hopes were fulfilled by the government's reports Friday morning of a 0.8 percent drop in retail sales and a 0.1 percent decline in the producer price index of finished goods for August.

In addition, industrial production rose 0.2 percent in the same month, down from 0.9 percent in June and July.

Also working in the market's favor was word from the Federal Reserve late Thursday of an unexpectedly large $2.1 billion drop in the basic measure of the money supply for the latest reporting week.

After falling sharply on Thursday, interest rates turned upward in the bond market Friday, that apparently prompted some stock traders to stop their selling late in the session.

The Dow Jones industrial average retreated from a gain of about 14 points, but then steadied just before the close.

The day's biggest percentage gainer was Sedco, up 8 1/2 at 46, trading in the over-the-counter market. Activity in the stock was halted on the NYSE as the company considered a takeover bid.

Late in the day Schlumberger Ltd.

said it had agreed on a plan to acquire Sedco.

Wall Disney Productions gained 3 1/2 to 62 1/2. A group led by investor Irvin Jacobs sold 100,000 shares of the company's common stock, considering seeking control of Disney.

Among the interest-rate-sensitive S&L issues, H.F. Ahmanson rose 1 1/2 to 23 1/2; Golden West Financial 1 1/2 to 16 1/2; Great Western Financial 3/4 to 24; and American Savings & Loan of Florida 3/4 to 10 1/2.

On the downside, Caterpillar Tractor fell 4 1/2 to 34 1/2, the company, which had previously been looking for a profit this year, said Thursday it now expects a loss.

"The only man who can change his mind is a man that's got one."
— Edward N. Westcott.

A free finesse at trick one presents a nearly irresistible temptation, but it cannot hurt to take a second look. Sometimes it pays to change direction.

Dummy covered West's club nine with the 10, but East refused to cover. (Had East covered, the game would have made easy.) South then drew trumps and cashed the club king, confirming his worst suspicions. Dummy's clubs could no longer be established and South's game fell one short.

South makes his game if he refuses the "free finesse" at trick one. Instead of covering West's club nine with the 10, he wins the nine with his king. Trumps are drawn and a club is led to dummy's ace. The marked ruffing finesse against East's club queen is taken and dummy's last trump provides the entry to run the clubs. The defenders are held to only three tricks and a change of mind by South results in a change of score.

Be careful of those free finessses. Sometimes they cost more than the price tag indicates.

Coming through

Bart Kelsey (33) hurried through the Filer Wildcat defense for four touchdowns Friday night, as Declo beat Filer 42-6. Kelsey caught two Brad Matthews passes for scores and ran for two more. After holding a one-touchdown lead at halftime, Declo exploded for 28 points in the second half to put the game away. For stories on this and other games, see Page D3.

Ram offense hurries win over Bruins

By CHRIS HAFT
Times-News writer

POCATELLO — Highland's haste was no waste Friday night, as the Rams used a no-huddle offense to help them score two second-half touchdowns and defeat the Twin Falls Bruins 21-6 at the ISU Mildome.

"The Rams held a 7-6 halftime advantage thanks to Chris Ostler's 40-yard return of a blocked punt for a touchdown just 43 seconds before intermission. Yet the real edge belonged to the Bruins. They outplayed us in the first half," Highland Coach Dirk Koetter later admitted.

To right themselves, the Rams began employing their no-huddle offense after receiving the second-half kickoff. Its effects were felt immediately.

In seven running plays and less than two minutes, Highland surged 76 yards to score on John Ganske's 7-yard run with 10:02 left in the third quarter.

Soon afterward Highland regained possession and was driving for another score, but Jon Sander's second interception in the end zone ended that bid.

Still, the point was made: This no-huddle offense was the difference. That the Rams accomplished most of their yardage with the run — the pass is their characteristic weapon, and Twin Falls' notorious vulnerability — enhanced its stunning quality.

"There are things you prepare for all week-end-things you don't, and we worked hard all week on pass defense," Twin Falls Coach Bill Jones said.

Jones explained that the Bruins' first-half tactic of sending "six or seven" defenders after Highland quarterback Mark Arstein instead of the customary five prompted Highland's strategic shift.

Explaining why Highland's offense worked so well, Jones said, "You can't get the defense (called), so you've got to adjust with your linebackers. That's fine if you've worked on it all week because then you're able to continue what you were doing."

Meanwhile, Koetter had had an inkling that Twin Falls would put heavy pressure on Arstein. Thus, the Rams had practiced running the no-huddle offense all week.

"We knew they weren't going to sit in their base defense," Koetter said.

Skyline shuts out Minico's prospects

By STEVE CRUMP
Times-News sports editor

IDAHO FALLS — Minico Coach Doug Bailey, surveying the Spartans' 12-0 shutout at Skyline Friday night, said he thought his team had improved in one important respect from its first two losses of the season.

"We're a little hungrier now I think," he said. "Actually I thought our offense did a good job tonight even though we didn't get on the scoreboard. Skyline's a good defensive team."

The setback in Minico's Gem State Conference opener was doubly damaging to the Spartans, who had hopes of qualifying as the league's representative in the Class A-I lower division playoffs. The five teams in the conference — Minico, Skyline, Pocatello, Blackfoot and Idaho Falls — that are classified in the lower division will send two representatives to the playoffs, and unless Minico wins its remaining three games against those opponents the Spartans won't be playing in post season. Skyline, which had also lost its first two games of the season, looks as if it could be.

The Grizzlies limited Minico to minus 25 yards rushing and just 129 yards total offense despite being penalized for 124 yards in the game. Once Skyline got the lead in the first half, its junior-dominated corps of linebackers and defensive tackles took off on senior quarterback Todd McKeenzy, who ended the game with minus 36 yards rushing. But McKeenzy still completed 12 of 20 passes for a 155 yards, which gave Bailey more to smile about.

"It was the same old story," he said. "We got down early and that made us have to play differently. I thought we moved the ball real well, but those early mistakes just killed."

The Spartans got away with a big mistake when junior tailback Dalton Helmer fumbled on the Minico 45.

Valley staves off Wendell's offense

By BRAD BRELAND
Times-News writer

EDEN — Bill Hardy tossed three touchdown passes and ran for another as the Valley Vikings dropped the Wendell Trojans 26-8 in a Canyon Conference showdown Friday night.

Two of the touchdown passes were caught by T.J. Kincaid. The 5-11 running back pulled in passes of 11 and 13 yards in the victory.

"The Hardy kid did what he had to do against them," said Valley Coach Forrest Fonesbeck. "And Kincaid really came through when we needed him."

Wendell Coach Jack Lancaster was disappointed with his team's performance. "Every time we made a big play, we got it called back because of a penalty. You can't make many mistakes against Valley and expect to win," said Lancaster. Wendell fumbled the ball four times in the game. The Trojans were penalized 55 yards in the second half after threatening to score. But every time Wendell would knock on the door, a Viking would answer.

The two squads exchanged turnovers in the first quarter with Valley striking paydirt with 1:30 left. Hardy ran the ball into Wendell territory and connected with David Severance who took the ball to the 14-yard line. Hardy then connected with Kincaid and Valley was up by six.

Wendell struck back when Brett Thackeray hit Andy Swanson on the first play of the second quarter with a 52-yard pass play to the 15-yard line.

Wendell got to the five-yard line before Chad Hope was hit hard and fumbled the ball into the end-zone where Eric Weinmeister fell on it and Wendell took the lead. But that would be the only touchdown Wendell would score.

On Wendell's next possession, Todd Zeller picked off a Thackeray pass and returned it deep into Trojan territory.

After a 10-yard scamper by Eric Buschhorn, Hardy connected with Ryan Clark for the score.

Wendell received the kickoff and was pushed back to the 15-yard line. With 50 seconds left on the clock, Weinmeister fumbled and Severance recovered.

Twelve seconds later, Hardy found Kincaid wide open for the score and Valley led by 10 at halftime.

In the third quarter, the Trojans were driving, but Weinmeister fumbled and Clark fell on the ball. "The drive for Valley stalled, but Wendell got a break when they recovered a bad snap on the ensuing punt.

Wendell threatened taking the ball to the five-yard line, but penalties cost them and moved the Trojans back to the 13-yard line.

Thackeray faded back to pass but was tackled to end the Trojan drive.

Valley took over and Hardy took the ball 13-yards on a quarterback keeper to put the ball in the coffin.

WENDELL... VALLEY... Kincaid 12 pass from Hardy (run failed) Weinmeister fumble recovery in end zone (Weinmeister run) Clark 27 pass from Hardy (pass failed) Kincaid 11 pass from Hardy (run failed) Hardy 10 run (Severance pass from Hardy)

USOC unhappy about surplus funds disbursement plans

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The head of the U.S. Olympic Committee said Friday he would protest a plan to give part of $25 million in Olympic reserves to Third World nations if it cuts into the USOC share of a $150 million surplus.

But Col. F. Donald Miller said that to the best of his knowledge the plan would not jeopardize the USOC's 60 percent share promised in a contract with the Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee.

"If it impacts on any part of the 60 percent of the net, we would take exception," Miller said in a telephone interview with The Associated Press from USOC headquarters in Colorado Springs, Colo.

On Tuesday, LAOOC President Peter V. Ueberroth mentioned the Third World plan and, when asked if the USOC might be shortchanged in the deal, he said: "No, we won't let that happen."

Toit of that assurance Friday, Miller said: "Then, there's no problem."

He said the USOC and LAOOC would meet Wednesday and discuss the plan. "We hope it will be explained," he said, adding that he would decline any further comment until he knows for sure how the funds would be distributed.

"We have to make sure (the LAOOC) maintains the provisions of our contract," Miller said Thursday in a telephone interview with the Los Angeles Herald Examiner.

Under a surplus-distribution plan announced Monday by Ueberroth, the USOC would get $75 million up front — which Miller said was the proper 60 percent of the $125 million being distributed — while the LAOOC-administered Amateur Athletic Foundation would get $50 million to administer amateur sports programs in Southern California.

The undistributed $25 million remaining from the $150 million surplus would go into a reserve account to "take care of the unexpected," the LAOOC plan says.

"To pay any bills that are outstanding, and some are in dispute," Miller added Friday.

On Tuesday, however, Ueberroth said he had spoken with the International Olympic Committee "about using some of our funds which are in this reserve to help Third World nations...the nations that did come to the Games, and help them benefit from the success."

Ueberroth said "it won't require a charter change, but the plans really aren't formulated yet."

Miller said any donations to other countries could come from the balance of the reserve not earmarked for the USOC, "but in respect to our (share)...I expect them to maintain their contractual agreement."

After the USOC gets its 60 percent, it would send 20 percent of its take to the national governing bodies of the U.S. sports federations.

Christopher Knapp of Texas, chairman of the USOC Athletes Advisory Council and USOC executive board member, said that while it might not "look good" for Olympic officials squabble over money, "a deal's a deal."

"Just because you make a lot of money, that's no excuse for not sticking to the deal," Knapp said.

"The public is assuming this is a gift," said Dr. Ivie Dennis, another USOC official. "The thing that everyone forgets is that (the USOC) were the financial underwriters for the Games—just as we were to share in the risk of deficits, so we expect to share in the profits."

Malay clinches Cactus Pete's title

JACKPOT — It's usually hard to pick out one of eight birdies as the reason for a victory from Weiser's Joe Malay had one available after clinching the Cactus Pete's $20,000 Amateur Golf Championship Friday.

"It was on No. 10. I hit a seven iron well above the hole on the right side and got it down. You have to birdie the five pars on this course and that birdie, just when I was looking at a five or six, I think was the pivotal shot. I had other birdies after that but that was the one that got me going," he said.

Malay fired a three-under par 69 Friday to claim the championship at 141 while Jim Malay of Weiser followed him home with a two-over-146.

Defending champion Perry Hanchey, Twin Falls, carded a two-under 70 to wind up third with 147.

In net, steady Doyle-Dugger, Twin Falls, claimed first with a 136 while Jim Packard, Twin Falls, was second at 140 and Tom, Miller, Jackpot, was third at 141.

Malay thus won the championship in his first appearance in the tournament.

"I've won other things here and played in quite a few of the other tournaments but this is the first time I've been able to get free to play in this one because it usually is played on week days," he said.

Malay acknowledged that eight birdies usually adds up to something better than three under — but "I made a lot of stupid bogies, too," he laughed.

Hanchey said he felt the major difference in the tournament was the weather. Due to traveling across the country on Thursday, Hanchey, along with Burley's Terry Spackman and Glenn Blakeley, teed off in the afternoon — and ran into a wind storm.

"If the wind doesn't come up this afternoon, it's too-much to make up," said Hanchey after posting his 70. The wind stayed calm for the afternoon squads.

Dugger had his chances to win it but couldn't keep it under par.

"I got some birdies but everyone time I got one I immediately picked up a bogey. I was never two under but I was one under a lot," said the veteran who had back-to-back par rounds to claim the net title.

Jimmy Packard, a former professional, couldn't remember the last time he won anything in net. The same was true of Dr. Chie Cutler, Twin Falls, who won the net lap money for the last round. Terry Spackman, Burley, won the gross lap with an even par 72.

First-day leader Ken Hutzling, Burley, said "the wheels came off on the last two holes," as he carded a pair of double bogies and fell out of the money.

In the first flight, Bob Saxvik of Burley backed "my best round ever here," an opening 74 with a 76 Friday and wound up tied for the title with Salt Lake City's Dave Williams. Williams was consistent at 75-75.

Chris Israel, Twin Falls, closed in for third while Herb Peschel and George Bendere, Mountain Home, rounded out the gross prize list.

Cliff Masingill, Payette, shot a 133 to win the net honors, followed by Kay Riley at 135. Bob Miller, Longview, Wash., banked an early lead by shooting two under over the final six holes, to share third place with Roger Kunz. Bob Clark was alone at 138 for fifth.

Ketchum's Carl Mullins, who started shooting well in the Magic Valley Amateur two weeks ago, kept it going to claim the second flight gross prize. He was followed by Harold Uffelman, Francis Kaiser, Dee Pruitt, Bruce Meacham, Dave Devenport and Andy Dipani.

Norm Adams became the third of that surname to win first place in the four-day tournament, claiming net. Ken Fierro was second with Bryan Mason and Cecil Melling tied for third. Stan Elison was alone in fifth place.

Muncie gets held back pending drug testing

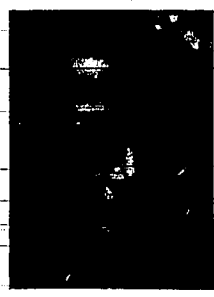

MIAMI (AP) — Commissioner Pete Rozelle has ordered running back Chuck Muncie to undergo a complete drug evaluation and barred the national Football League "until successful completion of any prescribed treatment."

The league took the action following Muncie's short stay at the Miami Dolphins' training camp on Friday when team officials said he failed a urine test.

"We just got late word from the doctor's office that Muncie failed the physical," Coach Don Shula said during an impromptu news conference.

Shula said Muncie passed the orthopedic half of the physical, but failed the urine test. Muncie told reporters that traces of THC, the active ingredient in marijuana, were discovered, though Shula refused to confirm or deny that.

Black's scoring run lifts Jerome past Eagles in overtime

JEROME — Tracy Black squirmed 10 yards off tackle on the first overtime play Friday night to lift the Jerome Tigers to a 20-14 victory over the Marsh Valley Eagles.

The victory came after the Tigers couldn't convert on a last-minute fumble in regulation as a field goal went wide and the Jerome defensive unit then shut out the Eagles on their opening overtime opportunity.

Jerome took the lead after a four-yard Marsh Valley punt went out of bounds on the Eagle 24. On the first play, Jund hit Black blocked the touchdown and Black booted his second extra point.

Marsh Valley came back to force the overtime in the closing minutes. The Eagles first saw a 65-yard run led by D. Pennington.

Jerome then was "stymied" on its closing drive but two plays after turning the ball over, Todd Amundson scooped up an Eagle fumble and raced about 20 yards to the Marsh Valley 19. A pass to Amundson picked up five but the next two Jund penalties fell incomplete, leading to a third quarter play by Amundson with 17 seconds left.

Declo 42, Filer 6

FILER — Declo used the running of Bart Kelsey and the throwing of Brad Matthews to explode for 28 second-half and beat the Filer Wildcats 42-6.

A 56-yard bomb from Matthews to Kelsey started Declo's scoring in the first quarter but Filer bounced back into a tie as the second quarter opened. The payoff came on a five-yard run by David Hartman.

Declo regained the lead before halftime when Kelsey banged in from eight yards away.

Filer's defense controlling Kelsey's offense came in the second half with big plays. A 55-yard screen to Kelsey set up a six-yard scoring strike to Butlers and minutes later the Matthews-to-Kelsey combination clicked for another 49-yard scoring bomb.

O'Meara leading in Milwaukee play

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Mark O'Meara, a frequent challenger but not yet a winner, coaxed a no-bogey, 4-under-par 68 from chilly winds and a drizzly rain and took a one-stroke lead Friday in the second round of the $200,000 Greater Milwaukee Open Golf Tournament.

O'Meara, who has recorded four runner-up finishes this season but has yet to take his first professional title, finished two trips over the 7,010-yard Tuckaway Country Club course in 135:9 under par.

"With the rain and the wind, conditions were much tougher today," O'Meara said. "When it's like this, you just try to stay away from the bogeys, and that's what I was able to do."

"I'm very pleased to be where I am. It's still anybody's ballgame, but if I can keep hitting the ball the way I have, I have a good chance."

Barber, Thomson in Seniors tourney lead

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Two-time champion Miller Barber finished a 4-under-par 68 Friday for a 138 total, and Pat Thomson duplicated his opening-round 69 to gain a share of the lead in the World Seniors Invitational golf tournament.

Barber and Thomson are at 6-under-par for the tournament, one shot ahead of Art Silvestrone, who came down from a first-round 73 to a 66 on the Quail Hollow Country Club course.

Arnold Palmer, who received a new driver this week from a manufacturer, pulled into contention with a 69 and a two-day total of 140. Defending champion Doug Sanders is alone at 141.

Richfield 30, Rockland 8

RICHFIELD — Led by the rushing of sophomore fullback Todd Swainston, the Richfield Tigers thumped Rockland 30-8 in Sawtooth Conference action Friday.

Swainston started quickly, as he scrambled 66 yards on Richfield's first possession for a touchdown. That set the score at 8-0 after a completion for the point after from quarterback Kenny Preston to Chad Ward.

On the fourth offensive play for Richfield, Swainston tore for a 61-yard TD run only to have called back. In the latter part of the quarter, Swainston gained vengeance with a 77-yard TD run.

"He ran well," said Richfield coach Leroy Johnson of Swainston's 200-yard effort. "He's got a little speed and a lot of power."

A Barry Ward to Glenn Hiatt PAT completion brought the 16-0 mark. Rockland finally scored late in the second when three Richfield penalties and a fumbled punt set the Bulldogs three yards from the Tiger goal. Rockland's Lee Ralphs broke in for the score and then completed a PAT pass for the 16-8 halftime mark.

In the third quarter, a Richfield TD pass from Barry Ward to Lancer Erwin was called back before Swainston came back with a 19-yard sweep and another touchdown run. A Preston completion to Hiatt added the conversion and a 24-8 score.

Preston in the fourth for a severe injury TD pass, before an incomplection for the conversion.

Along with good containment from an overmatched defensive backfield, Richfield was able to halt the Bulldog attack with four sacks from defensive end Tracy Swainston.

Buhl's second moment of happiness followed soon after, Gary Brown and Howard Hocking up on a 21-yard scoring play.

But American Falls turned that away with its final score, Wright going in from the eight with 3:02 left.

Am. Falls 42, Buhl 14

AMERICAN FALLS — Five fumbles and a blocked punt made things easy for the undefeated American Falls Beavers Friday night when they rolled over the Buhl Indians 42-14.

The Indians fumble troubles came largely in the first half, falling behind 2-0. Their two touchdowns came on homerun plays as the Indians couldn't sustain a march.

Buhl had the first scoring chance, recovering a fumble on the American Falls 20 on the second play of the game. But the Indians returned the favor and then fumbled the ball away on their next possession. Doug Hamilton quickly made that payoff, sweeping the right side for 40 yards and the first touchdown. A time Eames to Trevor Werka pass got the lead.

Buhl scrambled on the first play after the kickoff, forced a punt and then muffed the kick at its own 15. On fourth down, Eames hit Hamilton for the second score and another pass made it 16-0. In the second period, a bomb to Scott Muir carried to the Buhl 25 and on another fourth down, Eames hit Brad Stocking for the touchdown.

Brian Howard quickly nullified that when he returned the kickoff 75 yards and then tacked on the two-pointer to make it 22-8 at intermission.

A blocked punt gave American Falls the lead one as the third quarter opened and Hamilton immediately punched it in. Scott Wright ran the conversion across. Hamilton then picked up his fourth touchdown from three yards out.

Kimberly 37, Wood River 12

HAILEY — Kimberly proved once more why no one can look beyond it in the Canyon Conference race Friday as the Bulldogs thumped Wood River 37-12.

Bret Wright led the scoring barrage with two touchdowns, the first coming off a 35-yard punt return in the initial quarter of play. His second — and the visitors' final score — came on a 28-yard run.

Wood River's problems started with the turnover to Wright and culminated in a 37-yard interception by Bulldog John Davis. Before the first quarter had expired, the hosts were down 21-0, thanks to 13-yard spurt by Kimberly's Troy Jackson. Davis took a 28-yard pass from Curt Holcomb and the same combination converted in the fourth quarter.

"They're a team you can't spot two touchdowns to," said assistant coach John Jacques of Wood River. "They capitalized on two mistakes right off the beginning, then it was a fairly even ball game."

Wood River's two scores came on a 37-yard interception by Nelson unleashed two passes to receiver Danny Wells. The Wolverines dropped to 0-3, while Kimberly is still undefeated, at 3-0.

Gooding 34, Glens Ferry 13

GOODING — In the first Canyon Conference clash for both clubs, Gooding amassed nearly 400 yards to bury Glens Ferry 34-13 Friday.

Quarterback Todd Simis passed for 283 yards, hitting receivers with regularity. While the Pilots attempted to stop Simis, fellow junior Danny Dally scored twice on short runs.

One of the targets Simis hit in the early going was John Weeks. Weeks, in his first football game, ran 30 yards to score Gooding's twentieth unanswered point.

"I guess that's what it's all about," missed assistant coach Jeff Jeffries after the game. "It was his first game in his life and the first catch in his life."

Oakley 7, Raft River 0

OAKLEY — Undefeated Oakley remained that way, but just barely, as Raft River nearly upset the Hornets tonight.

The game's only score came with less than two minutes to play when running back Steve Manning went off the left side from five yards away. The kick was good and the score stood at 7-0, Oakley.

Oakley may have paid the price, however, as quarterback Cory Woodhouse suffered a broken collarbone in that final quarter of play.

According to assistant coach Sid Nelson, Raft River missed a 30-yard field goal try late in the third quarter. The boot was wide to the right.

Muffin Spencer-Devlin eyes her approach shot in Friday play

Friday, making club selection tough and drying out the greens on the 6,202-yard Meridian Valley Country Club course at Kent: just south of Seattle.

The winds were estimated between 20 to 20 mph, and officials said a tent and a tree were blown down and two picnic tables were blown over.

The best score of the day was turned in by Australian Karen Permezel, who finished with a 68 for a 141 total.

Spencer-Devlin, 30, runner-up in two tournaments this year and No. 2 on the LPGA money list in 1984 with $65,148, had three birdies and three bogeys.

All alone in third place at 140 was Beverley Davis, who carded a 72.

Helping keep the Pilots scoreless for three quarters were linebacker Matt Bury, who led Gooding with 17 tackles, and corner Ben Yore, who added 11.

Glenns Ferry's Rob Inshart brought a shutout with a short burst to the end zone, which was shortly followed by Rick Crane's two-yard touchdown.

Burley 20, Rigby 0

BURLEY — The Burley Bobcats just won't let Rigby get two first-quarter touchdowns and rolled to a 20-0 Cross State Conference victory Friday night.

Alex Alexandrez and Steve Peterson connected on the first Burley touchdown, a 38-yard aerial. But the point-after kick failed.

Burley got the kick before the period ended, however, when David Smith scooped up a Trojan fumble at the 40-yard line and rambled into the end zone. Alexandrez collaborated with Peterson for the conversion pass to make it 14-0.

Nothing happened on the Burley side until the end of the third quarter when Peterson connected on a 18-yard pass to Peterson. Bury's defense, anchored by its defensive line of Alex Hamilton, Dave Smith, Evey Woodbury and Travis Mabe, limited Rigby to two yards rushing and the Trojans had to be content with 35 yards in 11 attempts. Burley accumulated 189 yards rushing — Brett Udy picking up 107 in 14 tries — and Alexandrez added 124 more through the air.

The Wolves, trailing Oakley in the Magic Valley Conference by a game, jumped ahead in the first period when Barry Henke took in a 24-yard scoring strike from Gary Reynolds. Rick Owens ran the conversion across.

But Murtaugh cut the deficit to two in the second quarter when Travis Stastny Stastny and Shane Stastny collaborated on a 50-yard bomb. Castleford stopped the conversion run to lead 6-6 at halftime.

LEADORE — Overwhelming the Leadore defense, Coach Frank Miller and his Shoshone Indians thrilled the Trojans 62-0 in a non-conference grid-iron battle.

Led by tailback Charles Sandy, who ran for 126 yards, on five rushes, Shoshone scored three times in the first quarter and never looked back.

Sandy combined runs of 70 and 38 yards for the first two scores and sprinted 60 yards after an interception in the second quarter for another TD. Wade Cooper hit Kelly Duffin for the conversion and the 30-0 mark at that point.

Junior safety Tim Rowan capitalized on another interception for Shoshone in the third quarter and ran it back 23 yards for a touchdown. Backup quarterback Matt Aslett ran for the conversion and the Indians led 30-0.

"We pretty well dominated the game, but they're a young team that never gives up," said North Gem Coach Frank Bunce late Friday night. "They played very well at times."

Lewis ends season by assailing critics

TOKYO (AP) — Carl Lewis, winner of four Olympic gold medals, ran his last race of the season Friday, then backed critics who have called him an opportunist, saying people have "jumped on" him because of his prominence in track and field.

The 23-year-old Lewis won Olympic gold medals in the 100-meter and 200-meter dashes, the long jump and the 400-meter relay.

But he met with some criticism at the Los Angeles Games because he passed his final four attempts in the long jump.

Lewis won the gold medal with a leap of 28 feet, one-quarter inch, but many fans had hoped that he would try and break the 16-year-old record of 29-2 1/2 held by fellow American Bob Beamon.

"It's pretty short and clear. I've always been the same way, and I've always run the same way," Lewis said.

"All of a sudden, people are saying I'm an opportunist in 1984, when they weren't saying that in 1981."

CSI runners fall short

"It proved we're horribly out of shape, but this group will accept a challenge," Kleinkopf said. "They're a good group of kids to work with."

In their triangular meet, the CSI girls placed third with a total score of 46, behind Ricks College at 38 and Idaho State University at 36. Ricks' Cathy Williams, a native of Ireland, took individual honors at the 19.18 mark along the 5,000 meter course.

Spencer-Devlin eyeing first LPGA tour win in Safeco

KENT, Wash. (AP) — Victory starved Muffin Spencer-Devlin, a six-year Ladies Professional Golf Association veteran still seeking her first tour win, grabbed the halfway lead of the $75,000 Safeco Classic by managing to shoot a par 72 in a strong wind Friday.

It's the first time in her professional career that she has led at the midway point of a 72-hole tournament.

Her 36-hole total of 138, 6-under-par, was one shot better than four rookie Marta Figueras-Dotie of Spain.

Figueras-Dotie double bogeyed late in her round and finished with a 1-over-73.

Hailey trips Bliss in soccer

BLISS — In Southern Idaho Soccer League action Friday, Hailey dominated Bliss 5-1 in an apparent one-sided battle — but only on the surface.

"At times we really played with them," Bliss coach Jerry Couch said of stats that included more goals saved for the Bliss squad. "They just did a little better job at getting it in."

Hailey, a new club in the league with coach Eric Larson, led 1-0 at the half after Jim Chesley scored early. In the second half, Hailey's Brad Jaques scored quickly before an onslaught by teammate Richard Watkins scored two goals. In the second half, including two in less than a minute, Bliss scored its lone goal when Larry Williams slapped a penalty kick for the 5-1 finish.

AFA will get stiff test today

By JOHN MOSSMAN
The Associated Press

After his team followed up an impressive 34-16 victory over San Diego State with an eye-opening 7-7 rout of Northern Colorado, Air Force football Coach Fisher DeBerry might justifiably have been touting his team for a national ranking.

The Falcons boast the third-best offense in the country, averaging 549 yards per game. They have 476 yards per game rushing, which ranks No. 2 nationally. Defensively, the Falcons stand third in this week's NCAA statistics, yielding just 181 yards per outing.

DeBerry, however, insists he is serious when he says, "I still don't know how good we are."

He figures to have an answer late this afternoon when his Falcons visit Wyoming in a key Western Athletic Conference game. "The real test will come this week," said DeBerry, whose team puts a 10-game winning streak on the line.

Two other conference games are on tap this weekend. Hawaii visits Colorado State, and Texas-El Paso is at San Diego State. Eighth-ranked Brigham Young puts the nation's longest winning streak (13 games) on the line when it entertains Tulsa, Utah is at Tennessee, and New Mexico plays host to West Texas State in non-league games.

Saturday's game in Laramie features a rare matchup of wishbone teams. Only a half dozen major-college teams are using the wishbone formation this season.

"Air Force runs more of a true wishbone than we do," said Wyoming Coach Al Kincaid. "They depend more on the run. They've run so well they haven't had to throw. Defensively, they're very much improved from last year."

Wyoming brings a 1-1 record into the game. The Cowboys beat South Dakota 31-13, then were bombed, as expected, by top-ranked Nebraska 42-7. Kincaid has some of the same questions DeBerry has. "We've played a Division II team and the top Division I team in the nation," he said. "This week we should find out what kind of team we have. We've had two great games with Air Force the last two years, and this should be another one."

The Falcons won 44-34 at the academy in 1982, and Wyoming countered with a 14-7 decision in Laramie last year.

Both teams have played solid defense, but Kincaid is upset with the slow progress of his offense. "I know we would have to be patient, but my patience is wearing thin," he said.

Hearns puts welterweight title on line

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — Thomas Hearns will defend the World Boxing Council super welterweight championship Saturday in this city of 77,000 when he fought six years ago as a teen-ager of considerable promise.

Fred Hutchinson, the WBC's No. 3-ranked contender, will be the opponent in what Hearns plans as his next-to-last defense of the 154-pound class title before moving on to a hoped-for showdown against middleweight champion Marvelous Marvin Hagler.

Emmanuel Steward, Hearns' manager-trainer, said the champion would make another defense in late November or early December against possibly Davey Moore, the former World Boxing Association champion, or John "The Beast" Mugabi of Uganda.

Hearns, who will be 26 Oct. 18, first fought in his city 90 miles north of his hometown of Detroit when he knocked out Billy Goodwin in the second round Feb. 17, 1978. It was Hearns' sixth pro fight and his fifth knockout.

The Hit Man was being mugged. He also fought here in his eighth fight, knocking out Tyrone Phelps in the third round March 31, 1978, and in his last appearance here, he knocked out Sammy Rookard Jan. 31, 1979. That victory gave Hearns 16 knockouts in 16 fights.

"The Hit Man is back" read flyers to hype today's scheduled 12-round match.

Of course, the promo refers to his return, but it seems the Hit Man also is back mentally and physically as a fighter.

Hearns scored 30 knockouts in winning his first 32 fights and the WBA welterweight title. But in his first seven fights after suffering his only loss, he never stopped in the 14th round by Sugar Ray Leonard for the undisputed welterweight title, Hearns had to go the distance four times.

Holtz sees nothing humorous about Nebraska

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
The Associated Press

What's this? Lou Holtz without a wisecrack?

The same Lou Holtz — star of (1) late-night TV, with his magic tricks, one-liners and rapid-fire chatter and (2) gridiron, with a 107-33 record in 15 years as a head coach — who quipped at the start of practice that "all we want is a game ball and enough money to cover the hospital bills in Nebraska."

The very same Lou Holtz, who debuted as Minnesota's head coach with a 31-24 victory over Rice last week, has nothing funny to say about Saturday's trip to No. 1-ranked Nebraska, which destroyed the Golden Gophers 54-13 a year ago, Minnesota's worst loss in 102 years of football.

"We scouted Nebraska in its 42-7 win over Wyoming last weekend," Holtz said with a grimace rather than a grin, "and it would appear that we will be facing a typical Nebraska team. They had over 500 yards of offense and we think they are simply an awesome team."

"We know we'll be facing a real challenge. It's difficult playing in Lincoln. We just have to convince our players we have a chance."

No one has convinced the oddsmakers who have made Nebraska a staggering 38-point favorite. Even Nebraska's Tom Osborne, normally a warrior, can only say that "(1) 'we're a good football team' but we've got a lot of things to improve" and (2) that Holtz is "pretty innovative and a good motivator."

Not all of Saturday's contests are expected to be as lopsided as this one. In games pairing members of The Associated Press Top Twenty, third-ranked Michigan entertains No. 16 Washington, fourth-ranked Texas is home against Auburn at night, No. 12 Penn State visits Iowa, which is tied for fifth with Miami, and No. 15 Oklahoma is at No. 17 Pitt.

Elsewhere, Miami plays at Purdue, seventh-ranked UCLA entertains Long Beach State, No. 8 Brigham Young is home against Tulsa, and Washington State visits No. 9 Ohio State. Second-ranked Clemson and No. 10 Boston College are idle.

In the Second Top, Bowling Green is at No. 13 Oklahoma State, No. 14 Southern Methodist at Louisville at night, No. 18 Florida State at Kansas, and No. 19 Alabama at Georgia Tech. Southern Cal, the No. 20 team, is not scheduled.

The Washington-Michigan game (CBS, 10 a.m. MDT) kicks off a nationally televised tripleheader. It will be followed by Oklahoma-Pitt (ABC, 1:30 p.m. MDT) and Auburn-Texas (ESPN, 5:30 p.m. MDT).

Although Washington's Don James — an assistant coach at Michigan in 1966-67 — was not happy with his team's offense in last week's 26-0 victory over Northwestern, he was more than satisfied with the defense.

"We can't ask for much more," he said. "All the takeaways (four interceptions, three fumble recoveries), the blocked field goal, keeping them off the scoreboard... it was just a great day defensively."

Like James, Michigan's Bo Schembechler said he doesn't think the Wolverines "played that well offensively." But the defense intercepted Miami's Bernie Kosar six times in a 22-14 victory.

"We have to get up for Washington," Schembechler said, "but we also have to get up for Wisconsin the next week because they will be one of the favorites to win the Big Ten. That's the way football is and that is why there probably will not be too many teams going through Auburn."

One of those who won't is Auburn, the preseason No. 1 choice. The Tigers are out to avenge (1) their loss to Miami in the Kickoff Classic and (2) last year's 20-7 licking by Texas, their only blemish but enough to probably cost them the national championship.

After almost three weeks off, Auburn's Coach Pat Dye describes his team as "still an unknown quantity. I hope we didn't see the real personality of this team in New Jersey (the 20-18 loss to Miami)."

Dye called the game against Texas "the most important game of the season. We need to show more intensity and leadership than we did against Miami. We made some mistakes along the line in preparing for the Miami game. We just didn't play the way an Auburn team is supposed to.

"We didn't want to kill the team early in fall practice. We needed to work the people who were going to play more than we did. We have worked some on Texas and a lot on Auburn."

It will be the opener for Texas, whose only setback a year ago was 10-9 to Georgia in the Cotton Bowl. The Longhorns lost 22 players who were drafted or signed with pro teams and injuries have further reduced the ranks of returning lettermen.

"This is the youngest team we've had in my eight years of coaching at Texas," said Fred Akers. "We've never had this much rebuilding to do. Injuries have compounded the situation, especially in the offensive backfield (Rob Moershell, who started eight games at quarterback last year, was moved to tailback less than two weeks ago)."

"I don't expect our kids to play flawless football, but I do expect them to play with enthusiasm and aggressiveness."
