Walter Mondale wipes an eye after giving his weekly radio speech on Sunday

Mondale to meet Gromyko day before Reagan visit

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Walter F. Mondale, announcing that he will meet with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko one day before President Reagan, said Sunday that the Soviets have "nothing to gain" by delaying negotiations past the November election because "I'm tough and I know what I'm doing."

Vice President George Bush, meanwhile, defended the Reagan-Gromyko meeting against charges of election-year politics, saying, "It takes two to meet... Let's just be glad they are meeting."

"The Democratic presidential nominee said he will emphasize that the Soviets shouldn't delay negotiations in the hope of getting a better deal from him."

"The Soviet Union has nothing to gain from delay," Mondale said in his weekly paid radio speech. "If I am elected president, I will drive a tough bargain and I will not sign any agreement that fails to protect American security."

To underscore his point, Mondale said in a CBS News interview, "They won't be able to use me, I'm tough and I know what I'm doing."

Mondale and Gromyko will meet in New York on Sept. 27. The next day, Gromyko will travel to Washington to confer at the White House with Reagan.

Mondale has tried to make arms control and foreign policy the centerpiece of his campaign to win the White House, repeatedly criticizing the chill in U.S.-Soviet relations since Reagan took office in 1981. Mondale has noted again and again that Reagan is the first president since Herbert Hoover not to meet with the head of the Soviet Union and that arms control talks between the superpowers have been suspended since last December.

Reagan sought to calm any fears in the electorate with his announcement last Tuesday that he would meet with Gromyko. Mondale's announcement Sunday of his own meeting with Gromyko guarantees him at least a share of the spotlight when the Russian official visits the United States next week.

He made clear later that his session with the Soviet official "will not be negotiations. Only the president negotiates with foreign powers."

David Aaron, Mondale's chief adviser on national security, said Mondale was approached "unofficially" by the Soviets and informed that Gromyko was willing to meet with the Democratic nominee. Aaron declined to identify who first approached the Mondale campaign but he said he followed up the inquiry through official Soviet channels.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said the administration was not informed of the meeting in advance of Mondale's announcement and added, "We haven't much idea what it's about."

Persian Gulf tankers attacked by planes

By The Associated Press

MANAMA, Bahrain — Warplanes over the Persian Gulf scored missile hits on two oil tankers Sunday, one a Greek-owned vessel chartered by Texaco and the other a South Korean ship carrying oil for Sri Lanka. Six seamen were reported hurt and extensive damage was reported.

The raiders were not positively identified, but an officer on one ship reportedly saw Iranian markings on the planes. Shipping sources said the attacks were apparently Iran's response to recent sea and air strikes by Iraq against ships going to and from Iranian oil terminals.

Iran and Iraq also reported new fighting Sunday in their four-year-old conflict in the 733-mile war zone along their border.

Arab radio stations in the gulf region said the defense and foreign ministers of the six-nation Gulf Cooperation Council will hold an emergency conference in Saudi Arabia on Tuesday to discuss protection for commercial shipping. The six nations are Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, the United Arab Emirates, Bahrain, Qatar and Oman.

The two tankers hit Sunday were the Greek-owned, Liberian-registered Medheron and the South Korean-owned Royal Colombo, which was chartered by Sri Lanka's government-owned Ceylonese Shipping Corp.

The raids drew no immediate comment from either Iraq or Iran. Iraq ordinarily issues statements claiming responsibility almost immediately after it has attacked a ship. In addition, Iraq usually attacks ships near Iran's Kharg Island oil terminal, while Iran's retaliatory attacks are usually against ships in neutral Arab waters. Both Sunday attacks were in neutral, central gulf waters more than 200 miles south of Kharg.

The 122,000-ton Medheron, hit starboardside by a missile, was on its way to Ras Taura, Saudi Arabia, to pick up a shipment of crude oil for Texaco.

"My chief officer sighted the plane which carried the Iranian colors and markings visibly," the captain, Charalampos Koliadis, said in a ship-to-shore radio interview with

The Associated Press.

He said his chief officer and two other seamen suffered minor injuries.

"The damage to my ship is serious," Koliadis said. "There has been no fire, but the missile destroyed the bridge of my ship and about 30 percent of the accommodation quarters."

He said the Medheron was sailing under its own power toward Bahrain for repairs.

The 126,998-ton Royal Colombo was hit by a missile at about the same time but 70 miles to the west. The British-based Dutch marine salvage company Smit International and other companies sent tugboats to rescue the tanker.

Sources in radio contact with the Royal Colombo said the missile ripped through the engine room and injured three seamen, one critically.

"We lost radio contact with the Royal Colombo shortly after picking up the initial distress signal," one salvage company executive said. "It was on fire at that time. But we knew later in the day that the blaze was extinguished."

Japan consumers get taste of frozen Idaho spud snacks

BOISE (AP) — This month, millions of Japanese television viewers will see Idaho potato fields and mountains and watch an animated character by the name of "Mr. Ore-Ida" touting potatoes and Ore-Ida products.

Tokyo billboards, subways and newspapers will blast messages promoting five Ore-Ida Foods Inc. products from Tater Tots to Golden Crinkles. And a life-size potato-head, Mr. Ore-Ida, will greet shoppers in some of the 2,000 Japanese grocery stores expected to carry Ore-Ida products by the end of this month.

It's all part of a $4 million advertising blitz in Japan planned during the next year by the Boise-based company and its new Japanese subsidiary. It's designed to get the Japanese consumer snatching up Ore-Ida potato products and popping them into toaster ovens.

"We are the first potato manufacturer that has made a presence in Japan," said Dielmar Kluth, Ore-Ida vice president of sales and marketing. "It's exciting. It's a significant opportunity."

The Japanese subsidiary is Ore-Ida's first plunge into the international retail market. The company exports products for commercial use in 13 countries, including Hong Kong, Finland and Saudi Arabia, but never before has tried to push its products

Ore-Ida's Japanese version of potato products looks like this at grocery stores in a foreign country. The company is excited about the potential in Japan — a great market that just needs some developing, Ore-Ida officials said.

"The frozen food business is 10 years behind the U.S. There is a potato market developing, and nobody is taking advantage of it," said subsidiary President Lawrence D. Bagg, who is based in Tokyo.

Now, Ore-Ida plans to latch onto an opportunity that Kluth said may account for 10 percent of Ore-Ida's sales in five years. He won't disclose specific figures for competitive reasons, but he calls the potential Japanese business "sizeable."

To meet its goals, Ore-Ida needs to grab 30 to 35 percent of the retail market share for frozen potatoes in Japan, compared with its 60 percent retail share in the U.S. The company also needs to triple the amount of frozen french-fry products Japanese are eating at home.

Poorer nations' plight worsens, report says

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — In sharp contrast to the industrialized nations, many poorer countries last year found their economic plight worsening as they struggled with low growth, large foreign debts and high interest rates, the World Bank said Sunday.

Those countries were still reeling from the harsh recession that began in the industrialized world and the tight monetary policies rich nations followed to control inflation, the 147-member organization said in its annual report.

The twin punches from the industrialized world have "had a profoundly adverse effect on the rates of growth of many developing countries," it said.

But the organization said that "indications are that the economies of most countries will be stronger in 1984 than they were in 1983."

Still, it projected that overall growth rates would be under the average 4.8 percent clip of 1973-80.

Hansen files complaint

TWIN FALLS (AP) — Rep. George Hansen, R-Idaho, said he will file a complaint with the Federal Election Commission on Monday concerning an Idaho newspaper used to investigate him.

The Twin Falls Times-News said it received a $17,000 grant from a tax-exempt, non-profit foundation so a reporter could travel to Washington and investigate Hansen's campaign finances. Hansen charges the grant was awarded in an effort to discredit him.

Times-News Managing Editor Stephen Hartgen said.

"It said the group describes itself as 'strictly non-partisan,' and solicited applications from many news organizations in 1983."

The Project's executive director, Jim Boyd, told the Times-News the group has tax-exempt status from the Internal Revenue Service, Hartgen said.

Boyd said it derives its money from about 10 other tax-exempt foundations, which each contributed between $5,000 and $10,000 to launch the Project's program, according to Hartgen.

Miss America

Salt Lake City woman sticks to her conservative beliefs

By The Associated Press

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. — A weary but excited Shariene Wells, a Mormon Sunday school teacher, began her reign as Miss America 1985 on Sunday, speculating that "Miss Wells said she holds fast to her Mormon beliefs, does not smoke, drink or gamble, and would never engage in sex outside of marriage. She also said she opposes abortion and feels the Equal Rights Amendment is unnecessary."

After the controversy surrounding the resignation of former Miss America Vanessa Williams, she said, the judges likely wanted to choose a conservative woman.

"I guess they were looking for someone like me," she said.

Miss Williams, 21, of Millwood, N.Y., the first black Miss America in the pageant's 63-year history, stepped down in July after Penthouse magazine published nude photographs of her with another woman.

Suzette Charles, 21, of Mays Landing, N.J., who also is black, replaced Miss Williams and crowned her successor Saturday before a national television audience that pageant officials expected to be larger than recent years because of the controversy.

NBC officials said there was a "marked increase" in the number of viewers in the nation's three largest markets, New York, Chicago and Los Angeles. A count will be available later this week.

Miss Wells did not discuss the scandal during the annual morning after news conference with about 100 reporters, photographers and television crew members. And publisher Adrian Phillips asked reporters not to bring up what he called "ancient history."

 Asked whether she had any secrets that could mar her reign, Miss Wells, a Sunday school teacher in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, said she had lived her life "above reproach."
 "I live my values seven-days a week," she said.
 She said she was not the contestant whose nude pictures Penthouse publisher Bob Guccione last week said he would publish if the woman won. A spokesman for Guccione had said he would have no comment on the magazine's outcome.
 Controversy also surrounded first runner-up Miss Ohio, Melissa Bradley, 23, of Mansfield, who was allowed to continue in the competition despite the fact that she had been charged with shoplifting two years ago. She pleaded no contest and the charges were later dropped.

 The second runner-up was Miss Mississippi, Kathy Manning, 22, of Drew, Miss. Manning's agent, Susan Green, 26, of Minneapolis, was third runner-up.
 Miss Texas, Tamara Hextl, 21, of Fort Worth, finished as fourth runner-up, despite claims by state pageant director B. Don Magness that she had "all the parts it takes" to be Miss America.
 The comment — and Magness' statement that "there may not be a better body in the United States" — also created a small furor.
 A former professor at Northern Illinois University who tries to predict the winner based on data fed a computer this year selected Miss Kentucky, Kelly Lin Brumgren, 22, of Lexington. She finished in the top 10.
 Miss Wells was born in Paraguay and lived in South America until she was 7 years old and again between the ages of 12 and 16. Her 56-year-old father, Robert Wells, a former international banker and now a church leader, said he raised his seven children with "lots of love, prayers, and standards and strictness."

 In the talent competition Saturday night, Miss Wells played the Latin American classical harp and sang a medley of Paraguayan folk songs. She also plays piano, trumpet and guitar.
 A junior studying communications and broadcast journalism at Brigham Young University, she hopes to become a television news anchorwoman and plans to pursue a master's degree in business administration, specializing in international business and economic reporting.
 Miss Wells said she had not re-structured her life in any way simply to win the pageant. "I don't believe in being programmed. I believe in being prepared," she said.

Idaho

Hansen backers optimistic

BOISE (AP) — Idaho Republicans doubt about the re-election chances of Rep. George Hansen, R-Idaho, after his ethics conviction, are gaining optimism because of troubles facing Democratic vice presidential candidate Geraldine Ferraro.
 With the election less than two months away, Republicans are saying Hansen can defeat Democratic Richard Stallings, who held a 59-percent to 26-percent edge against the congressman in a June poll.
 "The question of whether Stallings has lost ground divides along party lines — Republicans generally say yes, and Democrats say no.

 Republicans say the biggest influence on Hansen's standing is the controversy over Ms. Ferraro's financial disclosure reports.
 That has demonstrated to voters that elected officials other than Hansen have problems following the rules, said Elaine Phillips, Twin Falls County Republican chairman.
 "It has taken a lot of pressure off of George," Ms. Phillips said. "People are saying that if it wasn't for George, her problems would not have sur-

The House Ethics Committee is investigating Ms. Ferraro after examining her personal financial reports filed under the 1978 Ethics in Government Act. In April, Hansen was convicted on four charges that he failed to properly report $334,000 under the same act.
 Hansen faces a $40,000 fine and up to 15 months in prison. He has appealed his conviction.
 Ms. Phillips said Hansen also is catching up with Stallings because of the Democrat's campaign.

Border Patrol figures stay up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department announced Sunday that for the second year in a row, the U.S. Border Patrol has apprehended more than 1 million aliens trying to enter the United States illegally.
 About 3 million illegal immigrants successfully enter the United States each year, but most return to their native countries, the Immigration and Naturalization Service has estimated.
 Justice Department spokesmen said the apprehension rate through Saturday applies to the southern U.S. border and is running 2.2 percent over the rate of last year, when 1.1 million immigrants were stopped there and 1.2 million illegal aliens were caught nationwide.
 Attorney General William French Smith praised the new figures, calling them "a tribute to the great job the men and women of the Border Patrol are doing."
 "This is a tough law enforcement job, done professionally and humanely by the men and women of the Border Patrol," he said.

Soviets hold Americans, ship

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Five Americans whose supply ship vanished near Soviet territory remained in detention Sunday at a hotel in Siberia, U.S. authorities said, but a Soviet official predicted the incident would be resolved "very quickly."
 Curtis Kamman, charge d'affaires at the U.S. Embassy in Moscow, said Sunday the crewmen were being detained in a hotel in Provideniya, a port city on the southeast tip of the Chukotka Peninsula about 250 miles west of Nome, Alaska.
 An embassy spokesman told The Associated Press that inquiries about the Americans were being made to the Foreign Ministry in Moscow, which would not immediately "confirm the circumstances of their coming into Soviet hands."
 A Soviet news account of the incident said the five were rescued.

Mulroney swearing-in today

OTTAWA (AP) — Brian Mulroney, promising to create new prosperity in Canada, will be sworn in Monday as prime minister of the country's first strong Progressive Conservative government in more than 20 years.
 Mulroney, an electrician's son who became a lawyer and president of a mining company, has kept the membership of his new Cabinet a closely guarded secret, to be disclosed Monday afternoon at the ceremonies.
 The Tories swept to power in the Sept. 4 election, electing 211 members to 40 for the Liberals of outgoing

During the transition, Mulroney has kept quiet about what his first moves would be after replacing the Liberals who governed Canada for all but nine months of the past 21 years.
 The only Progressive Conservative government in that time, under Prime Minister Joe Clark in 1979-80, did not have a majority in the 252-seat Parliament and was defeated by a combined vote of the Liberals and New Democrats.

Ocean seen as 'next frontier'

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the United States more than-doubled in size by its extended maritime jurisdiction, federal agencies are using the Year of the Ocean 80 press studies of the new territory and its resources.
 The 200-mile Exclusive Economic Zone, proclaimed last year, is a "major new frontier" that may provide a special bonus in mineral and energy resources, Dallas Peck, director of the U.S. Geological Survey, told the Oceans '84 Conference in Washington last week.
 And Interior Secretary William Clark said the acquisition was made at a time when additional areas for mineral exploration are desperately needed.
 "The United States needed new target areas in which to search for some 20 strategic materials that are now imported, Clark said, and "we have already found areas favorable for a variety of energy and mineral resources including oil and gas, lead, zinc, cobalt, nickel, silver, cadmium and manganese."
 "Knowledge gained in the next five to 10 years will, I am convinced, tell us more about the ocean floor and what lies beneath it than has been accumulated through all the prior millennia of exploration," Clark said.

U.S. eyes jets in Nicaragua

WASHINGTON (AP) — A senior State Department official said Sunday that deployment of sophisticated Soviet-made jet fighters in Nicaragua would be a "serious development."
 Assistant Secretary of State Richard Burt also said Kremlin involvement in Central America would be among key issues discussed at President Reagan's Sept. 28 meeting with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.
 "You can be sure that the Soviet role in Central America will be addressed" during the Reagan-Gromyko meeting, Burt said on ABC-TV's "This Week With David Brinkley."
 He added that "the delivery by the Soviet Union of advanced weapons — including supersonic fighters — to Nicaragua would be a serious development."

Evans wants 'veto-proofing'

BOISE (AP) — Gov. John Evans says that in order to maintain a "veto-proof" Senate, Idaho Democrats must elect at least 15 senators in November.
 "If we should lose that veto-proof Senate, we'll be in a heap of trouble," Evans warned Democrats at a fund-raiser Saturday. He said if fewer than 15 Democratic senators are elected, Idaho will have "law by the Legislature and not law by the executive."

The governor and his wife, Lola, spoke to approximately 175 picnicers who paid $12.50 a person or $35 a family to attend the Democratic southwest regional fund-raiser for legislative candidates.
 Profits from the event will benefit candidates in the nine counties of the southwest federal district and Ada County, said Rita Gallaz, co-chairperson of the event.
 Evans said he believed Idaho's new federal districts will help Democrats

In this year's elections. The governor said he was confident Democratic candidates, on both the state and national level, stand a good chance of winning in November.
 "We'll win because we're on the right side of the issues. Our heart is in the right place," Evans said.
 He said the state's agriculture, forestry and mining industries have suffered setbacks rather than growth under the Reagan administration.

Fire destroys State Bar building

BOISE (AP) — An arson fire at the headquarters of the Idaho State Bar Association destroyed papers and documents in the basement, and did minor damage to the building, Boise Fire Investigator Joe Daugent said Saturday.
 The Friday night fire actually was four separate fires set in the basement, Daugent said. Three of the fires were within two or three feet of each other, and the fourth was in another room 25 feet away, he said.
 "The fires were set by lighting papers stored in the basement of the building with a cigarette lighter or similar device, Daugent said.

 Daugent said neither he nor Boise police, who also were investigating the fire, had any suspects in the case as of Saturday. Interviews continued Saturday, and will resume Monday.
 But the biggest destruction was to the state bar's records, some of which were destroyed, said Debbie Carrell, state bar bookkeeper and personnel officer. She did not know if copies of the documents were stored elsewhere.

Today's weather

More of the same: sunny and warm

Twin Falls, Burley-Rupert, Jerome-Garden City
 Sunny and warm through Tuesday. Highs should be in the 80s, lows in the 60s.
 Northern Nevada and northern Utah:
 Isolated thunderstorms mainly in the mountains. Otherwise, fair to partly cloudy through Tuesday. Lows in the mid 40s to mid 50s. Highs in the 80s to lower 90s.
 Camas Prairie and the lower Wood River Valley:
 Mostly sunny through Tuesday. Highs near 80 and lows near 40.
 Synopsis:
 Warm, dry weather should continue throughout Idaho during the next few days because of a high pressure system centered over the Southwest. There is a slight chance of thundershowers in the southern part of the state on Tuesday and in the north on Thursday. Otherwise, Idaho should have a dry week.
 Temperatures ranged from the mid-70s to low 80s at mid-afternoon Sunday. The state's high temperature of 88 was recorded at Caldwell and Weiser, while Starbuck had Sunday's low of 28.

Pope recommends 'vision' for Canada

WINNIPEG, Manitoba (AP) — Pope John Paul II, in the prairie heartland of this immigrant nation, urged Canadians on Sunday to strive ever harder to achieve their "creative vision" of a multicultural society.

Quoting one of his predecessors, John XXIII, the pontiff told a throng of at least 100,000 at an outdoor Mass that justice is served by helping ethnic minorities. "Especially in what concerns their language, culture, customs,"

John Paul II comments came in a province and a country — whose two original immigrant groups, the majority English speakers and the minority French, still argue over language rights. The federal government was made officially bilingual in 1969, but language disputes persist on the provincial level.

Earlier Sunday, sticking to the theme of his Manitoba visit, "Faith and Culture in a Multicultural Society," the pontiff stopped by a Ukrainian Catholic cathedral, where he eulogized a recently deceased Ukrainian cardinal who was long a symbol of anti-communism in the Soviet Union.

On the eighth day of his 12-day Canadian visit, the papal jetliner landed on a clear, crisp morning in Winnipeg, gateway city to the Canadian West, after a flight from Toronto.

As he often does, he broke away from his schedule to walk over to a waiting airport crowd, kissing children, blessing adults and delighting photographers.

Later Sunday, he was flying to Edmonton, Alberta. On Monday, after another outdoor Mass for tens of thousands, the pope will have a rest period. He is expected to spend a few hours at a retreat in Alberta's Inspiring Rocky Mountains.

Tens of thousands of people arrived hours early at the Winnipeg Mass site, in Bird's Hill Park overlooking the Red River. Some, in campers, packed automobiles and tour buses, had traveled hundreds of miles to this city in the fertile, pancake-flat prairie, including Eskimos who had journeyed south from near the Arctic Circle and Americans who came north from the nearby Dakotas and Minnesota.

"It's a once-in-a-lifetime privilege," said Anne Vranek of Fourbault, Minn., a devout Catholic who said she had planned the trip since spring.

"He's our leader, he's our special leader and our pontiff!"

Manitoba's 318,000 Catholics, one-third of the provincial population, include dozens of ethnic groups. Among recent arrivals are hundreds of Vietnamese, Laotian, Cambodian and Polish refugees.

The pope, speaking in both French and English, addressed this ethnic diversity in his homily, saying the Gospel can help harmonize cultures in a pluralistic society.

He called on Canadians to remember "that the greatest richness of your multicultural character is to be able to reach out and help others."

Princess Diana leaves the hospital with her new son, Henry

Princess Di takes new baby home

LONDON (AP) — Smiling to a cheering crowd, Princess Diana took home from the hospital Sunday her one-day-old second son, Henry Charles Albert David.

The baby, third in line to the British throne, will be known to his family simply as Harry.

Diana, 23, wore a red coat and cradled the infant swaddled in a white shawl as she left the hospital, 22 hours after a routine birth. Her husband, Prince Charles, 35, accompanied Diana and their new son home to their London residence, Kensington Palace.

The princess blushed as the crowd of about 1,000 people, some of whom had waited through the night outside London's St. Mary's Hospital, waved Union Jacks and called out, "Hurray, Harry!"

The royal couple's first child, two-year-old Prince William, visited his mother and baby brother for 15 minutes earlier.

William, looking confused by the phalanx of photographers, arrived with Charles, but left holding the hand of his nanny, Barbara Barnes. He gave three small waves to a delighted crowd.

The baby, taken home in a three-car motorcade at the start of a life of wealth, privilege and constant publicity, bears the name of England's famed Henry VIII.

"They chose the name Henry simply because they both like it and also because there is no other member of the royal family at present with that name," said a Buckingham Palace spokesman. "The other names all have family connotations."

Prayers of thanksgiving were offered at Sunday church services around the country in this strongly monarchist nation for the birth of Prince Henry, who ranks behind Charles and William in the line of succession. He joins them as a Prince of Wales.

Bells pealed for three hours Sunday across the Gloucestershire village of Tetbury, where Charles and Diana have their country residence, Highgrove House.

The palace said the royal family will call the new prince Harry. The affectionate diminutive is in contrast to palace instructions that William must never be referred to as Bill, or Willy.

UAW, GM chiefs resume discussion

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers union and General Motors Corp. resumed contract bargaining Sunday with the company under increasing pressure from spot strikes against 13 GM plants.

The walkouts, called after the UAW contract with the world's largest manufacturer expired at midnight Friday, had little initial effect because most of the targeted plants "don't have been working" over the weekend even without the strikes. But full production had been scheduled for dawn Monday, and if the walkouts continued many of the more than 100 GM supply plants soon would have no place to ship their products.

UAW President Owen Bieber argued in the Detroit UAW headquarters just before 10 a.m. Sunday, saying "there's some tough issues still up there," referring to the fifth-floor bargaining rooms.

"A lot of work remains to be done," Bieber said.

Several union sources, however, said progress was being made on job security and wages, the union's top two issues, and a settlement could be forthcoming before Monday's full shifts.

On Saturday night, GM bargaining Pat Crane, in response to a question on when a there might be a settlement, replied "probably tomorrow." Crane, however, was out of sight Sunday and unavailable for interviews.

The UAW has said the main issue in the talks is job security, a bid to keep the automakers from farming out work to plants overseas. It also is seeking wage and benefit increases, including the first raise in three years of its $9.63-per-hour basic wage. The union gave up billions of dollars in contract concessions two years ago when the industry was losing money. A total of 62,000 of the 350,000 workers covered by the pact walked off their jobs when the contract expired.

Bieber has contended that the strikes were over local issues, but leaders at the local level have said they went on strike to back up Bieber at the bargaining table.

At GM's assembly operations were struck — enough to cause rapid backups of supplies and stop production of many of GM's most popular cars.

The 10th plant affected was GM's research center outside Detroit.

Only one of them was scheduled for weekend work, through some workers at two Ohio and New York plants which were not struck stayed away, forcing some shift cancellations.

The union hit GM where it can hurt most. Dealer stocks of cars made at most of strike-bound plants are critically low.

Supplies of the popular Pontiac Fiero sports car are adequate for an estimated 22 days. Dealers prefer to have 60- to 70-day supplies.

Balloonist to try trans-Atlantic flight

BEDFORD, Mass. (AP) — Balloonist Joe W. Kittinger flew away from obstructing clouds and rose to faster air currents Sunday as he headed for the home stretch in what he hoped would be the first solo trans-Atlantic balloon flight.

"We don't see any problem," said Jim Mitchell from the backup team's headquarters at Weather Service Corp. in Bedford, Mass. "But there's hardly anything more uncertain than flying a balloon over the Atlantic."

Team members hoped Kittinger, 56, would land Monday. "We'd settle for a peat bog in England," quipped Mitchell.

"He said this morning he was looking to the east," Mitchell said Sunday. "He sounded very good. He was in good spirits."

Kittinger, of Orlando, Fla., lifted off Friday night from Caribou, Maine, in the 10-story, helium-filled Rosie O'Grady Balloon of Peace, hoping to land in Ireland, Great Britain or France.

By Sunday afternoon, he was sailing at 11,000 to 12,000 feet at 60 to 70 mph, higher and faster than while he was trapped under a cloud cover a day earlier.

Kittinger had traveled 1,950 miles and was 750 miles west of Shannon, Ireland, by Sunday afternoon.

Saturday's clouds shielded the balloon and didn't allow the sun's heat to expand the helium, preventing Kittinger from rising to the high-speed winds. The clouds also forced Kittinger to expend more ballast than anticipated, so he had to decide whether to descend or push on despite the dwindling supply.

"He's kind of thin on ballast but he thinks he can make it," Mitchell said Saturday. "It's going to be interesting."

Kittinger is the sixth man to try crossing the Atlantic alone by balloon. None of the others made it, and two died trying.

Kittinger set a world distance record in a 1,000-cubic-foot helium balloon in July 1982, with a flight from St. Louis to Quebec, 1,349 miles in 48 hours.

He manages the Rosie O'Grady flying circus in Orlando, Mitchell said, adding that the "peace" part of the balloon's title doesn't mean much. "It's really just an adventure," he said.

Mitchell said that despite Saturday's cloud cover, the Rosie O'Grady reached speeds of 40-50 mph while traveling at about 10,000 feet.

Billy Graham gets heavy security

MOSCOW (AP) — Dozens of undercover security men watched and photographed a crowd of about 300 Russian Orthodox members of Moscow's Church of the Resurrection on Sunday during a brief address by the Rev. Billy Graham.

The American evangelist told the crowd of mostly elderly women that "in the last few years, we've had a little encouragement about peace in the world," and mentioned that President Reagan and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko plan to meet in Washington on Sept. 28.

"We can pray that it will be a good conference and that it will lead us toward peace," Graham said.

His statement was probably the first word of the official meeting for many of those at the ornate, icon-studded church. Soviet news media have not yet mentioned it.

On Saturday night, security forces had closed off the Moscow Baptist Church, barring reporters and some invited guests during Graham's sermon to about 1,500 people there.

Orthodox church official Metropolitan Filaret introduced Graham on Sunday, calling on the congregation to "greet the American people with feelings of love and praise, and with the hopes that the dark clouds of unfriendliness will pass away and by our common efforts peace will ring over the world."

Graham's sermon of less than 20 minutes dwelled on salvation and the need for people to know Jesus Christ.

Several women, asked after the service if they had known in advance that Graham would be speaking, said they did not.

The 65-year-old Baptist minister, on a 12-day tour, has been in the Soviet Union for a week.

Steel trading limits hurt in the long run

The coincidence of a controversial executive decision on steel imports and the presidential election appears to be not an accident but the result of careful planning by protectionists determined to build trade walls around the U.S. steel industry.

President Reagan has until Sept. 22 to act on a recommendation of the International Trade Commission for new tariffs and quotas on a variety of steel imports. Pressure from the steel industry itself is being reinforced by Midwest Republicans who have told the president that the fate of the party in their region largely depends on his implementation of the new import restrictions.

Those who make that fiercely partisan argument may be the Democratic Party candidate, Walter Mondale, has chosen a course of timidity, embracing domestic content legislation and showing little enlightenment on the broader issues of trade. But perhaps the politicians sell the voters short. New steel trade barriers would be most unfortunate for the United States. In effect, the interests of the consumer and the long-term interests of the nation and the steel industry itself would be traded for short-term and largely illusory gains. Protection in the future, just as protection in the past, will only nurture all that is wrong with an American industry that has neglected modernization and often preferred diversification to competition.

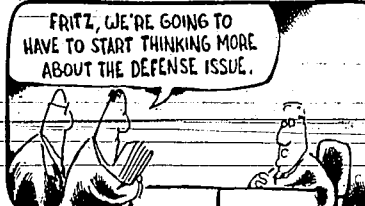

Fortunately, there are precedents for confidence that Reagan may turn aside these dangerous if beguiling arguments. He may do what he did last week, when he opposed more stringent quotas on stainless steel and steel strip products, and when he refused the ITC proposal for tariffs and quotas on copper. Furthermore, the case for free trade is strengthened by improving performance in key segments of the American industry despite surging imports, and by clear evidence that progressive elements of the industry can compete in the world market.

The steel decision is immensely important in international trading terms. To do what the ITC has suggested would disrupt Third World country exports to this nation at a time when those sales are crucial to debt servicing and to creation of new markets for American exports. It could place in jeopardy a trading relationship with Canada that is a model of reciprocal benefits. It would invite retaliation against agricultural exports from the United States, a reality reflected in the opposition to these restrictions from farm groups.

Every American would share the inflationary burden of new steel quotas and tariffs. Opponents estimate the cost at $10 billion a year. For what? To protect an industry that has almost invariably used protection to postpone modernization, to guard jobs that can only be truly protected by a reinvigoration of the industry through open competition.

Evans may lose votes over wilderness

BOISE — The man who's the most visible this week in Idaho's long-running debate over wilderness, Gov. John Evans, may be the person losing the most votes over the issue.

And a major Idaho political figure, Republican Sen. Steve Symms, could be benefiting from his low profile in the controversy.

"Every acre he adds to wilderness in northern Idaho costs him a vote," pruned a northern Idaho Democrat this week as Evans worked in Washington for a wilderness agreement.

Idaho already has more than 3 million acres of federal land permanently classified as wilderness. That closes it to development, mining and logging.

There are some 8 million acres under study for possible wilderness. Mining and logging interests have pushed for years to get the interminable studies ended, with some land classified as wilderness and the rest released for "multiple use."

The Republican congressional delegation earlier this year announced it wanted to add 526,000 acres as permanent wilderness, with the rest of the land under study to be released. That was a surprising figure, because it was less than even the forest industry recommended.

It drew immediate condemnation from environmental, conservation and wildlife groups. It appears now that was a negotiating ploy, and the GOP delegation planned to go up from that figure.

Rep. Larry Craig, whose 1st District includes most of the contested areas, has spoken recently of a "cap" of 1 million acres.

And Sen. James McClure, the chief author of the bill and the man who will control its passage, has said in recent days that if there are any additions to the original 526,000-acre proposal, they should be "quality" wilderness areas, not marginal areas.

Symms has endorsed the McClure proposal, but has been less visible in the wilderness debate.

The governor has been talking about adding 1.2 million acres. The chief figure in the House, Rep. John Seiberling, D-Ohio, chairman of an Interior subcommittee which handles wilderness bills, made a trip to Idaho last summer and afterward said he'd like to see up to 2.9 million acres of new wilderness in Idaho.

GOV. JOHN EVANS Working for compromise

Quane Kenyon

The Idaho Conservation League has been urging about 3.4 million acres. And an extreme environmental group has even suggested wilderness protection for the entire 8 million acres under study.

Evans has to face a careful balancing act. Ever since 1970, Democrats have had the support of conservation, wildlife and environmental groups.

But timber sales mean jobs in northern Idaho. Loggers and lumber mills alike fear that if logging is permanently banned on millions of acres of prime federal forest land, that will cut the supply of available timber.

And northern Idaho has been the place statewide Democratic candidates have been the strongest.

That puts Evans in a tough position. If he doesn't work for a large wilderness area, he could lose support of the environmental groups which have worked for him in the past. If he does, he could lose many votes in the north.

Symms says he has reluctantly supported the 526,000-acre proposal, as a means of ending the long-running debate. That won't win him many votes among conservationists — but few support him, anyway. And that stance will win him a lot of votes in northern Idaho.

Evans hasn't committed himself to any political race in 1986, but many state political leaders think he's leaning toward taking on Symms for the U.S. Senate.

Jean Terra, Evans' press secretary, said the governor hasn't been consulting votes on the wilderness issue. "He's working for a wilderness figure that he feels is supported by a majority of Idahoans," she said. "Votes or the loss of votes has not been a consideration."

Evans went to Washington this past week to work on wilderness, but didn't even visit with Symms, although he did confer with McClure and Craig. There is less disputed wilderness area in the 2nd Congressional District, so incumbent Rep. George Hansen and Democrat challenger Richard Stallings haven't been deeply involved in the debate.

Symms says he bumped into Evans while the governor was waiting in McClure's office. He says Evans didn't seek his advice on the wilderness issue.

"If he had, I would tell him," said Symms. "If he remembered the people who elected him, he would get off the (wilderness) bandwagon. He wouldn't carry water for the Sierra Club, he would carry water for the people who elected him."

Symms said he feels he made a mistake by even agreeing to go along with the 526,000-acre proposal. "I made a compromise to go along with the McClure bill. But I'm skeptical that it can be settled," Symms said.

Letters/ Rep. Hansen questions funding sources for Times-News investigation

Hansen questions query

I was contacted today (Thursday) by your reporter, Rick Shaughnessy, who appears to have spent the better part of the past two months trying to produce some reportable mud about my personal life. I informed Mr. Shaughnessy that I was continuing a policy of refusing to talk to him on such matters on the basis of his personal involvement in the election campaign of my political opponent and his recent admission that you have me targeted.

During the course of the conversation, he admitted to me that he had, with your knowledge and consent, accepted a grant from the Center for Investigative Reporting, a tax-exempt organization based in Oakland, Calif., for the specific purpose of funding his extended attempt to involve me in a politically harmful story.

This fact alone raises in my mind serious questions about the use of your local newspaper for racial, ideological purposes. While I have no objection that the Gannett organization would stoop to such activity, it seems a misuse of the trust which your readers repose in the Times-News. No public acknowledgement is made ever that Shaughnessy is paid, as a hired gun, at least in part, by an organization with direct links to the Stern Fund in New York and the Institute for Policy Studies (IPS), the most notorious left-wing think tank in Washington; not to mention the Playboy Foundation, one of the most corrosive influences in destroying the moral fibre of America.

No comment is necessary about the ethical considerations involved in a kind of leasing of your newspaper's circulation to radical leftist organizations. It does appear to me that you owe your public a frank acknowledgment of the connection of your editorial content with organizations with an open ideological commitment to the destruction of the free enterprise system. I can understand political opposition based upon clearly stated criteria, but I cannot understand and political opposition based upon premises which are not and apparently cannot be openly admitted.

An attempt to verify the funding of Shaughnessy by these leftist forces only strengthens my misgivings. Although he admitted to me personally that the Center for Investigative Reporting (CIR) was funding him, and that the Stern Fund was the ultimate source of that funding, Dan Noyes, a founder and director of the CIR, went to great pains to deny that CIR had ever heard of Rick Shaughnessy. In connection with the group so disreputable that they are forced to lie about the connection with the Times-News.

I think that it is time that the Times-News either stops pretending to objectivity or explains itself to its own readers.

GEORGE HANSEN
Member of Congress

Editor's note: The group which funded Shaughnessy's trip to Washington was the Project for Investigative Reporting on Money in Politics, Madison, Va., not the Center for Investigative Reporting. The Times-News regrets the error.

Letter offers choice

A young boy is out playing with his school friends one afternoon. They start throwing rocks at one of the neighbor's houses. An errant throw crashes into a picture window. The young boy returns home and tells his mother that he has done nothing wrong because the other kids on the block were throwing rocks too.

This story represents the spirit of argument used in a recent guest opinion that appeared in several Idaho newspapers. The article, written by Mrs. George Hansen, tried to make excuses for her husband's financial and legal problems.

Mrs. Hansen argues that the ease of Geraldine Ferraro and George Hansen reeks of a double standard and selective government prosecution. Her attempt to defend Mr. Hansen's problems relies on an excuse that no mother would accept: "The voters of Idaho's second congressional district will not accept it either."

Just because the other kids were also throwing rocks doesn't make it right. Nor can Mrs. Hansen justify her husband's legal problems by saying Geraldine Ferraro and others are doing it too. Her argument is nothing more than a smokescreen and diversion away from her husband's own problems.

The fact is Mr. Hansen has been convicted on four felony charges of filing false financial disclosure statements. He is the first elected official to be prosecuted and convicted under

1978 Ethics in Government Act

The 1978 Ethics in Government Act. The congressman has had his day in court. Mr. Hansen was also reprimanded in a lopsided vote by the House of Representatives.

He has lost trust both with the people who elected him and with other members of Congress. He has become an embarrassment to Idaho.

Vice presidential candidate Ferraro's financial disclosure problems should not be compared to Hansen's case. The two cases are different in many ways. Ferraro has also made a full disclosure of her family's financial affairs. In fact, the release of her and her husband's income tax returns goes beyond the requirements of the law.

If Ferraro has violated any federal law, the Reagan Justice Department should apply the same standards they used in Mr. Hansen's case. And the House Ethics Committee should be even-handed in its treatment of members.

Regardless of the legal questions involved in Mr. Hansen's financial problems, I believe there is also a moral issue involved. The public has a right to demand a high degree of integrity and openness in government. Public trust and confidence is an important part of our political process and a legitimate campaign issue.

Our financial disclosure laws were enacted so the voters would know who has financial ties to their leaders. The public deserves to know from whom candidates get their money and what influence that could have on their voting record. It is an important law and needs to be enforced.

Even Mr. Hansen's own political party has gone on record in support of full financial disclosure by all high public officials.

Apparently he does not support this part of the Republican platform. The congressman has refused to make a full disclosure of his personal financial affairs. As a result, his public trust and confidence has eroded.

Mr. Hansen is not a victim of selective prosecution or double standards. He is the victim of his own financial and legal problems. Even if Ferraro and other congressmen are charged with similar financial disclosure violations, Hansen is not vindicated.

During all of this public debate and controversy over financial disclosure laws, Mr. Hansen needs to be reminded that he is running against Richard Stallings, not Geraldine Ferraro or Tip O'Neill.

This campaign offers our voters a real and important choice this election year. Idaho deserves a full-time congressman who is committed to effective, honest, and capable leadership.

Boys return to school after year at home

By ANNETTE CARY
Times-News writer

HOLLISTER — Phillip Scott, Jonathan and William Auth showed up at Hollister Elementary for the first day of classes after a year of less conventional schooling that threatened to land their parents in jail.

Their year of school in the family's home was successful, their father says. "But we simply found that the social part of the equation is more important than we gave it credit."

Twin Falls County Prosecutor K. Baxter dropped criminal charges against Phil and Suzanne Auth last week after they had their son Phillip Scott, 9, begin attending public school again.

Last fall, the Filer District School Board asked the county to prosecute the Auths for falling to send their children to public school. But when the case dragged on to the end of the school year and still was not settled, Harry DeJahn, then prosecutor, struck a deal with the Auths. If Phillip Scott — the only child old enough to fall under the purview of Idaho's Youth Rehabilitation Act a year ago — attended public school this year, the charges would be dropped. Baxter says her office routinely honors promises made by the former prosecutor.

Phillip and Suzanne Auth decided to teach their three oldest boys at home last year rather than sending Phillip Scott to third grade, Jonathan to first grade and William to kindergarten at Hollister Elementary School.

"It's something I always wanted to do before they ever started school — for the whole person," Suzanne Auth said last year. "As an individual, most kids go through an age where they are very unsure of themselves. There's a lot of peer pressure. If they are accepted at home and feel confident about themselves, they can confidently make sound moral choices."

When Phillip Scott had last attended public school in Hollister, she was concerned that he was unsure of himself and afraid to make friends, she said. She thought that at home he would get the individual attention he needed, she said.

The boys did get plenty of individual attention, says Phil Auth now.

"It was a grand year just from the standpoint of being more family oriented, doing more together," he says. "Intellectual-wise, they learned a lot." Lessons during the year ranged from programming a home computer to dissecting a deer's head dragged home by the family dog. Both parents used to teach in area schools.

But the children missed their friends. And the Auths found it was difficult to motivate them without the "friendly competition" of classmates of similar ages and abilities, even though they worked hard at getting the children to challenge themselves, Phil Auth says.

"The children are ambivalent about being back in school. They appreciated what we were doing and liked the individual attention, but missed their friends," their father says.

"I want to go to school one year here, one year in Hollister, one year here, until I go to college," Jonathan, now 7, said last year after a few months of home school.

At the time, the Auths said they did not plan to make the home-teaching arrangement permanent. Ideally, they would have liked to start a small cooperative school with other parents who had similar educational values, they said.

But they were unable to organize a school. And when the State Department of Education told them they had to be willing to take in other students and put up a sign to be registered as a home school, they declined to do so.

The Auths thought about forming a cooperative school this year that would be even more community and family-oriented than the tiny Hollister school, but were again unable to organize it.

Phil Auth says he plans to compromise by becoming more involved in the Hollister schools.

He also wants to supplement what the boys learn by teaching special classes at home in subjects the boys decide interest them, he says.

Ex-stuntman breeds, trains champions

Pursues interest in working with horses

By MICHELE SNYDER
Times-News correspondent

RUPERT — From the bright lights of Paramount Pictures to the ranch in Rupert, came mild-mannered and down-to-earth Bob Sargent, who is not the Hollywood type at all; merely a talented horse trainer and breeder.

He and his wife, Eleanor, are the proud owners of several "top quality" Arabian horses with national champions in their bloodlines.

Sargent, whose breeding efforts has resulted in some champions of his own, is particularly pleased with his stallion Kit Comet, whose father and grandfather were owned by Wayne Newton.

Wendell Dean of Mindoka bought Kit's father, Derkit, from Newton. That is when I bred my Arabian mare to Derkit, and, as a result, we had Kit Comet, who placed in the top 10 year in the Maiden Western competition in Eugene, Ore."

The top junior rider, Nicky Hyman, rode Kit Comet at a recent Class A Arabian Horse Show in Boise, where Kit also won reigning cow horse as a 5-year-old and Hackamore Class.

Another Arabian Sargent radiates with pride over is Josenetta, a chestnut colored, five-month-old filly that walked away from the competition reserve junior champion.

Other winning horses have contributed to the numerous ribbons and trophies at the Sargents' home. In fact, the awards are stacked to the point that the addition the couple is building onto their home will be a welcomed relief.

The main purpose for the room, says Sargent, however is to give students — in addition to training and breeding Arabians, he gives riding lessons — a place to stay as they wait for their parents to pick them up.

"Some of the kids work at the ranch to pay for their riding lessons," says Sargent. "They can clean out stalls, groom and feed the horses. The older, more experienced kids can work with the horses who are not fully broken."

"I start a beginning rider on Nadjah because she is a good kids horse. She's a 15-year-old Arabian, very tame, and very well trained. Kids are more comfortable with her."

Sargent says he stresses to his students that if they communicate their desires to the horse in a relaxed manner, the horse will cooperate with them.

"I tell the kids that they're going to reap what they sow. If they're nervous, the horse will be nervous," adding that self-discipline is a very important concept children learn in dealing with the horses.

Sargent says his appreciation for the Arabian horse comes from the fact it is so different from other breeds. He says the Arabian has a better spread of oxygen because they have smaller blood cells and their shorter backs make them a good weight carrier. He explains by saying if one sits on a long board, it will bend in the middle, whereas a shorter board will not bend.

"Horses backs are the same way," Sargent says. The Arabians have a higher tail carriage, that gives them a more "classic look," and a "large heart and lung cavity for a greater expansion capacity."

"The Arabian," says Sargent, "is the oldest purebred horse in the world," adding there is documentation to prove these horses were around "before Christ."

Upon entering the stables, Sargent is known by his students and helpers to walk over to his radio to tune in KICR, the local Christian radio station, or he will insert one of his many gospel tapes.

Sargent says, "This helps add to the spiritual emphasis I wish to have here. You never know when someone might hear something that will help them."

"We get a lot of hurting people out here, and we believe this ranch is used for Jesus to minister to these people. This is an ideal place for troubled and restless teenagers. They can find healing here because the ranch helps get their minds off of themselves for a while and onto something more positive and constructive."

But teens aren't the only ones who benefit from the atmosphere at the ranch.

Andy Smith is a middle-aged man who says he has found happiness and a sense of self-worth at the ranch. Because he has been unable to work at his regular trade due to a bad heart, he says he had experienced a certain amount of depression until I met Bob and began helping him out at the ranch. Instead of being idle, I can be useful here."

Sargent says he depends a great deal on Smith, and his knowledge about the anatomy of horses. Smith helps him curtail potential problems by watching for certain warning signs that might show up in the Arabians' muscles, he says.

One of Sargent's adult riding students, Barbara Betke, says Sargent's gentle teaching methods and the relaxed atmosphere on the ranch make her feel comfortable.

"The time I spend out at the ranch is comforting to me. Putting time and attention into an animal I think does something positive for a person's state of mind," she says.

Leslie Couch is a 4-H leader who spends much of her spare time out at the ranch. She says even though she was first runner-up to the rodeo queen years ago, she never really knew how to ride correctly until she began learning from Sargent.

Horses have played an important part in Sargent's life since his early days as a rodeo cowboy. He got into breaking horses in 1951 and his start into the "show end of it" in 1955.

"I went to work for Phillip Wrigley, who owns Catalina Island and Wrigley Chewing Gum. He owned several Arabian horses and he hired me as an assistant trainer. Some of those horses ended up being world champions."

After working for Wrigley, Sargent acquired a job with Paramount Pictures.

Sargent tells how, in the older cowboy movies, the horses "fall" as a result of being tripped by a wire that was rigged up over their feet."

The Humane Society eventually intervened on behalf of the horses, and movie studios had to begin hiring horse trainers to teach the horses to "fall" on their own.

Sargent was one such trainer in Paul Newman's movie, "Nevada Smith."

He laughingly recalls some of the Respect is key to working with Arab clients

SUN VALLEY — With the potential for trade between Idaho industries and Arab states made apparent this week in Sun Valley, the question for many Idaho — agriculture and industrial businessmen may be: How do I get started?

The answer many gave at the conference, "An American-Arab Dialogue on Trade, Investment and Technology Transfer," was that it is relatively easy, all you have to do is look in the right place.

The only precautions were that you choose carefully who you deal with in getting started and respect your Arab client or partner and the way he lives. Otherwise, your adventure may be futile or disastrous.

A starting point can be discovered at the U.S. Department of Commerce office in Boise.

At the office that opened last February, businessmen can get the "how-to's" in getting started in exporting, says Janet D. Lenz, international trade specialist in the office.

Calling upon the vast networks of the Commerce Department and the U.S. Foreign Service, Lenz can match businessmen with foreign markets and major projects around the world.

Through her communications network, she has direct contact with all U.S. embassies around the world.

Lenz also is the executive secretary of the Idaho District Export Council, a group that has Lt. Gov. David Leroy as its chairman.

The group brings together the leading active businessmen in Idaho to various industries.

But, there are other places, public and private, where businessmen can go for information and help.

"They're a lot of people out there who can help you to get involved in foreign markets," J. Phillip Hinson, director of Middle East affairs for the headquarters of the U.S. Chambers of Commerce, told the conference.

Among these are:

- The U.S. Chambers of Commerce, which has information through its national headquarters and also has branches throughout the world.
- The Overseas Private Investment Corporation, a government agency providing services for Americans interested in investments abroad.
- The Agency for International Development, the principal agency for dispensing non-military foreign aid. This agency doesn't deal with the richer Arab nations, but does with the poorer ones.
- The International Finance Corp. can provide technical services for obtaining financing with foreign and U.S. regional banks.

Lenz also can arrange appointments for Idaho businessmen with visiting businessmen when they pass through Idaho.

Since the office opened, she says, it has been busy helping arrange Idaho businessmen get together with their foreign counterparts.

"I've had a tremendous amount of response," Lenz says. "I think people in Idaho were missing some direction (in how to find foreign markets)."

Most of Idaho's exports go to the Pacific rim nations in the Far East, such as Japan, she says.

But, with the Middle East wanting to upgrade its agricultural base, Idaho businessmen have an opportunity to market their products there, she says.

Because the U.S. Department of Agriculture handles all commodities, Lenz's office cannot give direct help to commodity dealers. But, it can put them in touch with the appropriate people in the Agriculture Department.

Wildlife club gets geese nesting boxes

By DIANA HOOLEY
Times-News correspondent

GLENN'S FERRY — What's good for the goose is good for the gander, and what's good for both of them, said Glenn's Ferry Wildlife Club Secretary Don Flock, is goose plant forms.

Flock said the club is putting up 30 of these nesting boxes as a fall project.

"Porsium and mink will eat geese eggs on the ground. There's also a possibility the nests will be destroyed when the water level raises. With the forms, we get the nest high enough to protect it from predators," said Flock.

Flock said the geese still have to drive off hawks and other birds of prey from the nesting boxes.

"In the spring, Flock said the Wildlife Club will restrict the boxes to a fish-rearing pond in Glenn's Ferry.

Flock added that goose plant forms are built throughout the country in the fall to keep the geese flock population up.

Another project the wildlife club is continuing to work on, said Flock, is a fish-rearing pond in Glenn's Ferry.

Flock said the club had thought they could use the treated sewage water from the city, but was disappointed to find out the water contained too high levels of some minerals for the trout fry.

The latest development in the project, said Flock, is to build a pond close to the river on leased city ground. Flock said the club plans to dig a hole allowing river water to run through.

Screens will be installed at each end of the pond, to keep the trout fry in the pond until maturity.

"The club will get the fry from the Fish and Game Department," said Flock, and the club will buy feed for the trout. Flock said the club hopes to make Glenn's Ferry a good trout fishing area.

One final detail to be straightened out before the pond can be built, said Flock, is incorporating the Glenn's Ferry Wildlife Club. Flock said the club has applied with the state for status as a non-profit corporation to keep the insurance liability rates on the pond at a minimum.

Last year, Flock said the club sent a recommendation to the Fish and Game Department to close Bennett Mountain for chukar hunting.

Flock said the Fish and Game Department on the recommendation and there will be no chukar hunting on Bennett this year.

Eaton talks on disabled

TWIN FALLS — The eleventh annual meeting of the Magic Valley Rehabilitation Services will be held Wednesday, September 19 at 7 p.m. at the Turb Club in Twin Falls.

The speaker for this year's meeting will be Curtis H. Eaton, vice-president of the Twin Falls Bank & Trust. Eaton will share his views about how to forge community coalitions to improve social and economic opportunities for people with disabilities.

The meeting is open to the public. Anyone interested in attending should telephone 734-4112.

BLM extinguishes two fires near Three Creek location

THREE CREEK — Bureau of Land Management firefighters Sunday extinguished two man-caused range fires in the Three Creek area, a Boise BLM fire dispatcher said.

One burned 45 acres of cheat sagebrush at Three Creek Road and Balanced Rock Road. The other was a one-acre blaze about three miles south and west of that fire.

The fires definitely were man-caused, the dispatcher said, but she did not say whether they were accidental or deliberate.

BLM firefighters drove from Boise to fight the fires.

Accidental shot kills boy

OAKLEY — An 11-year-old boy was killed Sunday evening when he was accidentally shot by his brother while the two boys were shooting birds in their back yard.

Gerald Wade Peterson, 11, of 325 S. Bay St., in Oakley, was pronounced dead at Cassia Memorial Hospital, Cassia County deputy sheriff Lou Jones said late Sunday.

He and his 16-year-old brother Kent Bedke Peterson, the sons of Muriel Bedke Peterson of Oakley, had been shooting killdeer behind their house.

"They thought the gun was empty," said Jones. Kent playfully turned toward his brother and pulled the trigger. The bullet struck 11-year-old Gerald in the side, the deputy said.

Another brother, Barry, was trying to revive him with mouth-to-mouth resuscitation when Jones and an ambulance arrived. But further efforts by both the ambulance crew and the hospital emergency staff failed. The young boy died at or before getting to the hospital, he said.

other jobs that were handed to him such as in the movie "Three Violent People" with Charlton Heston, Ann Baxter and Tom Tryon.

"Since my height and stature was similar to Tom Tryon's, I had to stand in for him and sweat while the camera men set up the lighting. As soon as everything was just right, they would boot-me out and Tryon would move in all fresh and ready to go."

"I also rode atop a steep hill in his place in "Three Violent People."

"In Jerry Lewis and Dean Martin's last movie together, "The Partners," "if there was a need for an extra cowboy somewhere, I was one. One day I'd be with the cavalry going one direction, shooting and the next day I'd be a bandit, going the other direction, shooting... riding the same horse."

He says he brought two horses, including one good mare, with him and have been breeding off and on since then to acquire what I've got now."

What he has now is around 15 head of good quality Arabian horses which he has built up from that "one good mare."

With the glamour of Hollywood behind him, Sargent says he is happy with his life, now, where things move at a slower pace. He pours his whole heart into what he does, keeping current with the American Horse Show Trade Book.

He says since "they would be judged according to the rules in the book, it would be better for them to learn to ride correctly the first time, rather than to go back and have to learn the correct way later."

L.M. Boyd
What's what

Lot of people devoutly believed some experts could judge a subject's character truly by feeling the contours on said subject's skull. Phrenology, this pseudo science: It was so big in the 1800s the sardonic Herman Melville had his character Ishmael examine the head of "Moby Dick," the whale, and pronounce the findings: Low in Self-Esteem, high in Animal Propensities.

A computer labman of accident rates now shows yellow fire trucks are twice as safe as red fire trucks. Maybe it's the color, don't know. Am told the red trucks on the whole are a lot older than the yellow trucks.

BINGO
Q. Do most of the Indian reservations permit Bingo games?
A. Not most but many. About 80 of the 290 reservations are making money with Bingo. The Seminole in Florida reportedly get almost $20 million a year out of it.

Q. How did the great George Herman Ruth come to be known as "Babe"?

A. At age 18, he joined the Baltimore Orioles, managed by Jack Dunn. Other players called him "Jack's baby." Pretty soon, it was just Babe.

Q. How come the Chinese are such whizzes at table tennis?

A. The late Chairman Mao half a century ago decreed it ideal exercise for the Red Chinese Army. Cheap equipment. Not much space. It turned into the No. 1 sport there.

GHOSTS
The ancient Greeks had no respect for ghosts. They thought ghosts were clumsy and silly. Wasn't until much later in world history that other believers came to think of ghosts as sinners.

Daily Horoscope

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A pacific attitude today will bring you big dividends whereas a belligerent stance will cause you to have considerable confrontation with those whom you have usual association.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Although you desire to go off on some tangent or other, it is best to establish better relations with your partners.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Get busy improving real estate and don't argue over collections or payments. A fellow worker can prove very cooperative.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Avoid that annoying partner and be with friends who can show you a good time and be happy.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Avoid an argument with a co-worker and concentrate on those who live with you.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) If you get an important friend to accompany you, you can handle that problem with a partner more easily.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Talk to a money expert and find out how to utilize income appreciably and then full-speed ahead on new ideas.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You are very charming today and can make friends of real worth who can be of help to you in the future.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Make sure you do not over-do today and spoil your health, but take time to consult with experts in your field of endeavor.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Listen to the views of others more today; otherwise you could lose much you need.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Make sure you follow directions of higher-ups and you can easily get a promotion. Show that you are clever and wise.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You are inspired to gain your deepest aims and can do so provided you don't get confused by trying to handle too much.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Study how to make your home more charming and functional and get ideas from kin, also. Listen to a partner's views.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have so much idealism and imagination that others could very easily misunderstand him, or her. It is through these very qualities that the greatest amount of success can come during the lifetime. So, be sure to give a very fine college education.

Big Sky under the Ax(ers)

By The Associated Press

The passing of Mike Mendoza helped Northern Arizona score the first Big Sky Conference victory of 1984 with a 42-21 weekend win over Weber State.

Saturday game in Flagstaff, Ariz., marked the third straight victory for the Lumberjacks, now 3-0 for the season.

In non-conference games over the weekend, Montana boosted its season record to 2-0 by edging Portland State, Nevada-Reno is 1-1 after exploding in a 61-35 victory over Texas A&M and Idaho State also is 1-1 following a 47-23 win over Chico State.

Montana State stands an even 1-1 for the season after falling to Eastern Washington, 21-16, as does Idaho following its 23-7 loss to Fullerton State. The loss to Northern Arizona leaves Weber State 1-2 for the season, while Boise State, idle last week, is 0-2. The spotlight in the Big Sky opener focused clearly on Mendoza as he passed for 233 yards and hit 21 of 37 attempts in the effort against Weber State.

Mendoza and junior fullback Kris Youngers each scored 1-yard touchdowns on the ground. The Lumberjacks, who finished 4-7 last year, picked up 76 yards on the ground, with senior fullback Jerry Holder leading the way with 42 yards before a crowd of 8,476.

Weber State opened the game by fumbling the opening kickoff to the Lumberjacks on Weber State's own 30-yard line.

Weekend games also saw Nevada-Reno establish itself as an offensive team by pummeling Texas A&M in a game with more than 1,000 yards of total offense.

Nevada-Reno junior Johnny

Gordon achieved 167 yards rushing on 19 carries and tied school and Big Sky records with five rushing touchdowns.

Backfield teammate Eric Jenkins added 123 yards on the ground, and quarterback Eric Beavers hit 20 of 33 passes for 261 yards and one touchdown.

Montana Coach Larry Donovan said his squad's defensive effort against Portland State on Friday was typified by tackle Ward Crawford's game-saving block of Terry Summerfield's two-point conversion pass with 27 seconds remaining.

"We got the big plays from everyone off the bench — when we needed them," Donovan said.

Montana quarterback Marty Morhinweg made a painful fourth-quarter exit after being felled by a twisted knee that could keep him out of this week's conference game against Idaho State.

A record-setting pass attack by Montana State wasn't enough to offset the smooth performance of Eastern Washington quarterback Rick Worman, who threw for two touchdowns in Saturday's non-conference game at Spokane, Wash.

Worman's 18-yard touchdown pass to tight end Eric Riley one minute into the second half staked Eastern Washington to a 21-3 lead, and the Eagles maintained a comfortable edge throughout the game.

Idaho State fullback Merrill Hoge scored two first-half touchdowns to help the Bengals roll to an easy 47-23 win over Chico State, but ISU Coach Jim Koetter is uneasy about the game's six turnovers.

"The turnovers bothered me because all except one were our being careless," Koetter said. "It's a concern. You can't continually lose that many turnovers and beat good football teams."

ISU had four turnovers in its 16-14 loss to Texas Tech a week ago. Fullerton State proved too much for Idaho as the Vandals' tried unsuccessfully to battle back, a tough defensive and a major injury.

The passing of Damon Allen helped Fullerton shut out Idaho in the second half while scoring 28 points. An injury to quarterback Scott Liffman — a broken collarbone which could end the season for the sophomore — took away much of the Vandals' passing threat.

Conference play intensifies this week when Nevada-Reno takes on Boise State, Montana State plays Idaho and Montana plays Idaho State.

In non-conference football, Northern Arizona meets Pacific and Weber State travels to Oregon to play Portland State.

Turnabout: Redskins win, Giants don't

By DAVE GOLDBERG
The Associated Press

More NFL — B2

WASHINGTON — The Washington Redskins didn't have an interception all season and the New York Giants' Phil Simms hadn't thrown one. Enter Vernon Dean.

Dean, inserted at cornerback in a leaky Redskin defense, picked off three passes by Simms, including one he returned 36 yards for a fourth-quarter touchdown as the defending National Football Conference champions registered their first victory of the season after two losses, 39-14 over the New York Giants. It was the first loss of the season for the surprising Giants.

Dean, who replaced Anthony Washington at right cornerback after Washington was exploited in losses to Miami and San Francisco, had the first interception of the season for the Redskins defense in the second quarter.

But it was early in the fourth period, two plays after Mark Moseley's 21-yard field goal had given the Redskins a 16-14 lead, that he turned the game around.

On "first" and 10, Simms tried a pattern that had succeeded all day, over the middle to Bobby Johnson, but Dean stepped in front of the receiver, grabbed the ball, circled left and raced unopposed into the end zone to run the lead to nine points.

Curtis Jordan, subbing for injured free safety Mark Murphy, put the game away, picking up a fumble by Lionel Manuel and racing 29 yards for another touchdown with 8:03 remaining.

"I was just in the right place at the right time," said Dean, who later had an end-zone interception that killed a late Giants drive. "They just threw the ball up for grabs and I caught it."

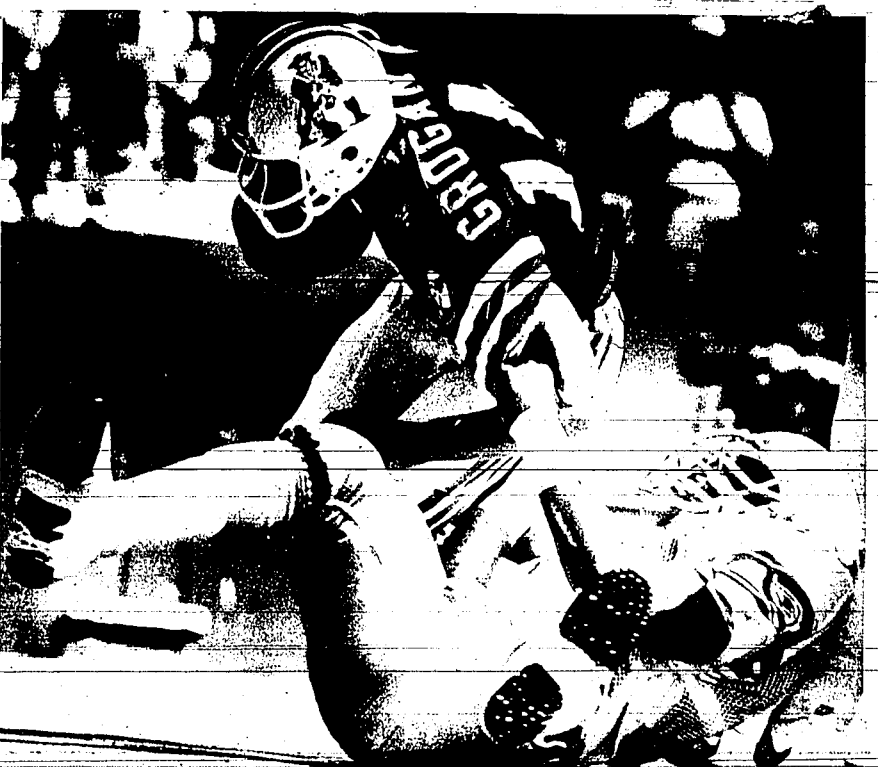

"I saw him there," Simms, who finished with 22 completions in 45 attempts for 347 yards, said. "What can't I say? I threw the ball, he stepped in front of the receiver and he took it."

Washington Coach Joe Gibbs, relieved that he's not 0-3 in a year the Redskins hope to become the first NFC team to go to three straight Super Bowls, saw the secondary's performance as vindication for a unit blamed for the two losses.

"I thought the defensive backfield was firing some shots," Gibbs said. "Vernon, in particular, looked good jumping in there and playing so well."

The Giants took a 14-13 lead 3:47 in the second half on a 27-yard touchdown pass from Simms to Johnson on the first play after a rare fumble by John Riggin.

The Giants put on a drive after Dean's touchdown, but Ali Haji-Sheikh, a Pro Bowler last season, missed a 37-yard field goal.

New England Patriots quarterback Steve Gron holds on to the ball as he is sacked by Seattle's Jeff Bryant Sunday

Seahawks blow big lead, lose to Pats

By HOWARD ULMAN
The Associated Press

FOXBORO, Mass. — Tony Eason sparked a New England comeback by throwing for two touchdowns and running for another, and Mesi Tatupu scored twice as the Patriots changed back from a 23-0 deficit to beat the Seattle Seahawks 38-23 in the National Football League Sunday.

The Patriots improved their record to 2-1, Seattle, trying for a 3-0 start for the first time in its nine-year history, also lost.

Eason replaced ineffective quarterback Steve Gronow with 9:07 left in the first half after Seattle had jumped to its 23-0 advantage on two touchdowns within a minute. Paul Johns scored on a 47-yard punt return and Kenny Easley ran back an interception 25 yards for another score with 9:16 left in the half.

With 1:53 left in the second quarter, Eason got New England's initial first down on the team's first pass completion of the game. He capped that 44-yard drive with a 25-yard touchdown run that made the score 23-7 at halftime.

Eason, a second-year pro from Illinois, threw a 2-yard touchdown pass to Derrick Ramsey on the Patriots' first possession of the second half, and Tatupu scored on a 1-yard run two series later to close the gap to 23-21.

With 6:31 remaining, New England went ahead for the first time when Tony Franklin, obtained from Philadelphia in the off-season, connected from 32 yards on his first field goal attempt as a Patriot to make the score 24-23.

The Patriots padded the lead with 5:30 to go on Tatupu's 10-yard touchdown run and with 1:56 left on Eason's 15-yard scoring pass to rookie Irving Fryar.

The Seahawks had taken a 9-0 lead after the first quarter on Norm Johnson's 42-yard field goal and Dave Krieg's 41-yard touchdown pass to Darryl Turner.

Franco Harris, playing his second game for Seattle since being waived by the Pittsburgh Steelers, rushed 10 times for 13 yards. That boosted his career rushing total to 12,009 yards, 393 less than record-holder Jim Brown's total of 12,312. Harris is only 34 yards ahead of Chicago's Walter Payton.

In other games Sunday, it was Minnesota 27, Atlanta 20; Chicago 9, Green Bay 7; New York Jets 43, Cincinnati 23; St. Louis 34, Indianapolis 33, and New England 38, Seattle 23; Tampa Bay 21, Detroit 17; San Diego 31, Houston 14; Los Angeles Raiders 22, New England 20; Pittsburgh 24, Los Angeles Rams 14; San Francisco 30, New Orleans 20 and Dallas 23, Philadelphia 17.

Denver was at Cleveland in a late Sunday game.

Miami will be at Buffalo on tonight.

After the Bills' effort — or lack of it — in a 37-7 loss to the St. Louis Cardinals in its last game, Buffalo can only hope that the enthusiasm carries over.

The Bills showed up physically but not mentally against the Cardinals, and a similar effort against the powerful Dolphins could be disastrous.

One would think the last opponent the 0-2 Bills would want to face is Miami, a convincing winner over two tough teams, the Washington Redskins and the New England Patriots.

Florida fires Pell anyway

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The University of Florida relieved Charley Pell of his coaching duties Sunday in the wake of a 21-month NCAA probe of the school's football program and named Assistant Coach Galen Hall as his replacement.

Pell, 43, whose Gators beat Tulane 63-21 Saturday, had offered his resignation Aug. 26, but asked that he be allowed to remain as head coach through the end of the season.

But UP President Marshall Criser ended Pell's six-year stay with the school Sunday, just five days after the National Collegiate Athletic Association notified his office of 107 alleged violations against the football program.

O'Meara wins Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Mark O'Meara turned back the challenge of Tom Watson with a front-running round of 4 under par 68 and scored the first victory of his pro career by a 5-shot margin Sunday in the Greater Milwaukee Open.

O'Meara, four times a frustrated runner-up this season, claimed the first title in four years of PGA Tour activity with a 272 total, 16 shots under par on the 7,019 yard Tuckaway Country Club course.

Colorado griddler critical

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Tight end Ed Reinhardt of the University of Colorado football team remained in critical condition Sunday following brain surgery for an injury suffered during his team's game against Oregon.

Reinhardt, ranked No. 2 in the nation in pass receiving before Saturday's game, was hurt late in the fourth quarter when he was tackled by two Oregon players.

Whitworth sweeps Safeco

KENNY, Wash. (AP) — Veteran Kathy Whitworth proved Sunday there's no substitute for experience, shooting a 2 under par 70 in the final round to win the $175,000 Safeco Classic.

Canada takes 1-0 lead

CALGARY, Alberta (AP) — Michel Goulet scored two goals and set up another Sunday night, leading Team Canada to a 5-2 decision over Sweden in the first game of the Canada Cup final.

The host Canadians can clinch the title with a victory Tuesday night in Edmonton.

BO JACKSON Separated shoulder

Auburn loses Bo for season

AUBURN, Ala. (AP) — Auburn All-American Bo Jackson, his right shoulder separated during the Tigers' 35-27 loss to Texas, will undergo surgery and will likely be sidelined for the rest of the season, a team spokesman said Sunday.

Doctors at the Hughton Clinic in Columbus, Ga., examined Jackson's shoulder Sunday and determined that it was completely separated.

Surgery has been scheduled early Monday, a team spokesman said.

The 22-year-old junior was injured on a 53-yard run in the third quarter as Texas' All-American safety Jerry Gray tackled him near the sidelines.

Jackson returned to the game, carried the ball three times and made a 1-yard touchdown run that was called back in the fourth quarter.

Coach Pat Dye said he did not know Jackson had been injured until well after the fact.

"It happened on the long run late in the third quarter," Dye said. "I didn't know it happened. He even went back in for a couple of plays."

In a statement issued through Auburn's sports information office, Jackson said he was looking forward to the start of baseball season next spring.

"They are going to operate Monday and make me as good as new," he said. "I should be 100 percent by the spring in time to play baseball."

Jackson, who has lettered in football, baseball and track at Auburn, said he knew that the injury was bad when he was tackled after the run.

"As soon as I hit the ground I knew right off the bat that I had hurt myself bad, but I didn't tell anyone because I wanted to play. I went back in and played several snaps, but I knew I was hurt. When they examined me, they could feel the bone. We knew it wasn't broken, but we knew it was a bad injury," Jackson said.

He requested that he not be contacted at the hospital.

Jackson, who has lettered in football, baseball and track at Auburn, was held to a season-long 35 yards rushing by Texas last year. On Saturday, he ran 14 times for 103 yards and a 5-yard touchdown. He returned to Auburn aboard the team plane after the game.

He was a leading candidate this year for the Heisman Trophy.

Reserve quarterback leads hapless Bucs to upset of Lions

By The Associated Press

Steve DeBerg came off the bench to pass for 195 yards and two touchdowns Sunday as the Tampa Bay Buccaneers rallied from a 14-point deficit to beat the Detroit Lions 21-17 in a National Football League game in Tampa, Fla.

DeBerg replaced Jack Thompson in the second quarter and directed all three Tampa Bay scoring drives, including a seven-play, 81-yard march leading to his game-winning 53-yard TD flip to Jimmie Giles with 3:11 remaining in the game.

The victory was only the third for the 1-2 Buccaneers in their last 19 games, while the defending NFC Central Division champion Lions lost for the second time in three starts in 1984.

DeBerg replaced Thompson with 7:36 remaining in the first half and directed scoring drives on two of them, netting three possessions as the Bucs rallied from a 10-0 deficit.

NFC

DeBerg's 5-yard TD pass to Gerald Carter cut the Lions' lead to 14-7 with 1:54 left before intermission and the Bucs drove 79 yards in 16 plays to tie the game on James Wilder's 29-yard run 8:30 into the third quarter.

Detroit's quarterback—Gary Danielson played a key role in the Lions' 9 quick start.

He stunned Tampa Bay on the third play of the game, teaming with wide receiver Mark Nichols on a 77-yard touchdown play and later ran final four yards of a 13-play, 47-yard drive that gave the Lions a 14-0 lead midway through the second quarter.

The Lions, capitalizing on Mike Cofer's recovery of a Wilder fumble at the Tampa Bay 13, took a 17-14 lead on Ed Murray's 28-yard field goal with 3:50 left in the third quarter.

DeBerg, who completed 18 of 27 passes, highlighted the Bucs' game-winning drive with completions of 23 yards to Jerry Bell and 21 yards to Kevin House.

Chicago 9, Green Bay 7
In Green Bay, Wis., Chicago's Bob Thomas kicked three field goals and the Bears' defense completely dominated the Green Bay Packers to take victory.

Chicago's Walter Payton closed to within 337 yards of Jim Brown's all-time rushing mark of 12,312, carrying the ball 27 times for 110 yards.

Thomas' decisive field goal was a 23-yarder with 11:11 left in the game that gave the Bears their 9-7 lead.

Green Bay's Eddie Garcia was wide left on a 49-yard attempt with 4:54 to go that would have put the Packers ahead.

Thomas also had an 18-yard field goal in the first period and a 49-yarder in the second quarter as the Bears remained unbeaten in three games. Green Bay fell to 1-2 with its second straight loss.

Green Bay sustained only one successful drive against the fired-up Bears' defense, with fullback Jessie Clark giving the Packers a 7-6 lead on a 1-yard run with 4:21 remaining in the first half.

The Bears also played over two quarters without quarterback Jim McMahon, who had a back injury. Bob Avellini came in to complete 11 of 17 passes for 133 yards.

Minnesota 27, Atlanta 20
In Minneapolis, rookie running back Alfred Anderson of Minnesota threw a 43-yard touchdown pass to highlight a 21-point third quarter and Jan Stenerud, the National Football League's oldest player, kicked a team record 54-yard field goal, leading the Vikings to a victory over the Atlanta Falcons.

The triumph was Minnesota's first in three games under Coach Les Steckel. The loss dropped the Falcons' record to 1-2.

The score was tied 6-6 before the Vikings broke loose for three touchdowns in the third quarter. St. Louis 34, Indianapolis 33

In Indianapolis, Neil Lomax hurled fourth-quarter touchdown passes of 46 and 56 yards to Roy Green and Neil O'Donoghue kicked a 46-yard field goal with seven seconds to go, rallying the St. Louis Cardinals to a victory over the Indianapolis Colts.

Indianapolis seemingly had the game in control after Phil Smith scored on a 96-yard kickoff return and Tate Randle set up another touchdown with a 55-yard return of a pass interception.

But the passing of Lomax quickly brought the Cardinals back in the game early in the final period.

San Francisco 30, New Orleans 20
In San Francisco, five interceptions by San Francisco's secondary and a fine effort by quarterback Matt Cavanaugh after Joe Montana was hurt gave the undefeated 49ers a victory over the New Orleans Saints. Cavanaugh fired a 22-yard touchdown pass to Earl Cooper in the fourth quarter to give the 49ers the lead, 24-20, after Saints reserve quarterback Ken Stabler rallied his team from a 17-0 deficit after replacing the injured Richard Todd. Ray Werschling booted three field goals, including a 28-and-40-yarder in the final period that clinched the game.

Dallas 23, Philadelphia 17
In Irving, Texas, Dallas flanker Mike Renfro wobbled his first professional pass 49 yards into the arms of wide receiver Doug Donley for a trick-play third period touchdown, giving the Cowboys a victory over the Philadelphia Eagles.

With Dallas ahead 16-10, quarterback Gary Hogeboom, making his first start in Texas Stadium, lateraled the ball across the field to Renfro, who fumbled a dying duck pass over the head of Eagle safety Wes Hopkins.

Raiders pull out patented last-minute win in Kansas City

By The Associated Press

The Los Angeles Raiders beat the Kansas City Chiefs 22-20 Sunday in Kansas City, Mo., in classic Raider style, says the losing coach.

"They won with a big play — which is the nature of their team," said John Mackovic, whose Chiefs were leading for the first 20 minutes of the game.

"That is the way they like to win — with a big play when they need it. And that's what happened."

Jim Plunkett's fourth interception had led to a 5-yard Herman Heard touchdown, which boosted the Chiefs into a 20-19 lead with 4:41 left.

Bill Buck came back to the Raiders, slipping 73 yards in six plays, including a 42-yard reception by Malcolm Barnwell to the Kansas City 6. Seconds later, Chris Bahr won it with a 19-yard field goal with one minute remaining.

AFC

"It was a must situation," said Barnwell. "We had to get the job done. We had to go for it. The line gave Jim time and Jim picked it out and found me open."

"It was one-on-one and Plunkett threw a perfect pass on a deep corner route," said Mackovic. "He made an excellent throw."

The Chiefs, 2-1, mounted a 13-0 lead, but that evaporated by the middle of the fourth period. They regained the lead when safety Lloyd Burress stole a punt pass at the Raiders' 45 with 6:45 to play, and the Chiefs needed only six plays to reach the end zone.

"It was one-on-one and Plunkett threw a perfect pass on a deep corner route," said Mackovic. "He made an excellent throw."

The Chiefs constructed their first-half lead on two Lowery field goals and Kevin Ross's 71-yard interception return of a Plunkett pass.

Ross, a rookie cornerback, was flagged for pass interference in the end zone in the fourth period and the 25-yard penalty set up Frank Hawkins' 1-yard touchdown plunge that gave the defending Super Bowl champions a 16-13 lead.

Red Martin intercepted a Todd Blackledge pass moments later and the Raiders converted it into a 29-yard Bahr field goal for a 19-13 lead with 8:07 to go, silencing a crowd of 75,111.

New York 43, Cincinnati 22
In East Rutherford, N.J., Freeman McNeil scored two touchdowns and Pat Leahy kicked a 42-yard high five field goal as the ball-hawking New York Jets whipped the Cincinnati Bengals with 30 second-half points.

Burned by an 80-yard touchdown bomb by Ken Anderson at the start of the third period, the Jets' defense turned things around later in the second half when they intercepted three passes by Anderson and recovered a fumble, turning all four turnovers into scores. The Jets also intercepted an Anderson pass in the first half.

Pittsburgh 24, Los Angeles Rams 14
In Pittsburgh, David Woodley passed for two touchdowns and the Pittsburgh Steelers' defense scored another, shut down Los Angeles running back Eric Dickerson and knocked out quarterback Vince Ferragamo in a victory.

The Rams jumped into a 7-0 lead on Ferragamo's four-yard, first-quarter scoring strike to Duayne Crutchfield, but struggled offensively after Ferragamo left with a broken finger midway through the second quarter.

The Steelers, 2-1, struck for two touchdowns within a 1:15 span in the second period to turn the 7-0 deficit into a 14-7 lead they never lost.

San Diego 31, Houston 14
In San Diego, the Chargers' Kellen Winslow caught 10 passes for 146 yards Sunday and Ernest Jackson, filling in for the departed Chuck Muncie, ran for three touchdowns as San Diego handed Houston an NFL record 19th straight road loss.

Winslow, who last week ended a six-day "retirement" by signing a renegotiated contract extension reportedly for nearly $1.5 million through 1986, caught seven passes and 104 yards in the opening two periods, when Dan Fouts directed the Chargers to touchdown drives of 60, 90, 77 and 80 yards.

Denver 24, Cleveland 14
In Cleveland, John Elway directed the Denver Broncos to 17 points during the final five minutes of the first half, firing touchdown passes to Clint Sampson and Butch Johnson for a victory over the winless Cleveland Browns.

Denver climaxed its first-half scoring surge when Rich Karlis booted a 25-yard field goal four seconds before the intermission after Denver defensive end Rulon Jones shook the ball loose from Cleveland quarterback Paul McDonald at the Browns' 11-yard line.

Denver closed out the scoring in the nationally televised game when rookie Tatum Rostrom streaked 62 yards for a touchdown after picking off a pass by McDonald with 37 seconds left. It was Rostrom's first NFL interception and the third McDonald had been intercepted in the game.

Detroit could clinch today

By The Associated Press

Doubles by Lou Whitaker, Kirk Gibson and Chet Lemon keyed a four-run Detroit first inning Sunday as the Tigers rolled to an 8-3 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays in Detroit, reducing their magic number to two in the American League East.

It was the second victory in the three-game series for the Tigers, who swept all three games in a similar showdown in Toronto last weekend.

The Tigers, who lead the Blue Jays by 12 games, could clinch their first division title since 1972 today. Any combination of Detroit wins and Toronto defeats would give them the lead.

Four Detroit pitchers combined on a six-hitter.

Juan Berenguer, 9-10; scattered three hits in the five innings he worked. Bill Scherrer started the sixth and Aurelio Lopez took over in the seventh for Detroit. Willie Hernandez pitched the ninth.

Toronto's Bryan Clark, 1-2, who failed to survive the first inning, was pounded for four hits and four runs.

Whitaker doubled to start the Tiger first. Alan Trammell walked and Gibson doubled to score Whitaker. Barbara Garbey's two-out infield single drove in Trammell and Gibson, then Lemon doubled Garbey home to chase Clark.

Marty Castillo put a 3-2 pitch from Dennis Lamp into the lower left field seats for his third home run leading off the Detroit second.

American

Minnesota 2, Texas 0
In Arlington, Texas, Frank Viola and Ron Davis combined on a five-hit shutout as the Minnesota Twins beat the Texas Rangers to remain in first place in the American League West.

Viola, 17-12, struck out five and walked three over 7 1/2 innings. Davis finished for his 27th save.

Ranger starter Dave Stewart, 5-14, scattered seven hits over 7 1/2 innings in a losing effort.

Minnesota scored in the second when Gary Gaetti singled with one out, moved to second on a wild pitch and scored on Chris Spier's single to right.

Kent Hrbek hit a one-out double, went to third on a groundout and scored on third baseman Buddy Bell's fielding error on Gary Gaetti's ground ball.

Kansas City 4, Seattle 2
In Seattle, Frank White and Steve Balboni cracked two-run doubles as the Kansas City Royals defeated the Seattle Mariners to remain tied for the American League West lead.

Balboni's two-out, sixth-inning double off the left-center field wall broke a 2-2 tie and made a winner of Charlie Leibrandt, 10-7, who allowed five hits over six innings.

Joe Beekwith pitched three innings and earned his second save.

White's double came in the first. With two outs, Darryl Motley doubled to right-center. Jorge Orta walked and White followed on a 1-2 pitch off the center field wall.

The Mariners cut the deficit to 2-1 in the second on Dave Henderson's one-out homer, his 14th of the season.

Seattle tied the game in the fifth on Jack Perconte's sacrifice fly that scored Spike Owen. With one out, Owen walked, stole second after Leibrandt had picked him off first, and went to third on a wild pitch.

California 4, Chicago 2
In Anaheim, Calif., Bobby Grich, batting .720 against the White Sox this year, lashed a double and a pair of singles and Daryl Scallion had a homer and two RBI as the California Angels downed Chicago.

With their fourth straight victory, the Angels stayed in the thick of the American League West race.

Grich snapped a "11 tie with a run-producing single in the fifth inning after singling and scoring California's first run in the third.

The three hits raised Grich's totals against the White Sox this season to 18 hits in 25 at-bats, and he also has 10 runs batted in against Chicago in 1984.

Boston 5, New York 3
In New York, Jeff Rive drove in four runs, two of them with his 27th

Second-place teams slow down Cubs, Padres

By The Associated Press

Darryl Strawberry had three hits, including a homer, and knocked in five runs to pace the New York Mets to a 9-3 victory over the National League East-leading Chicago Cubs Sunday in Chicago.

The Cubs' "magic number" remained at five. Any combination of five victories by the Cubs or losses by the second-place Mets would give Chicago the National League East pennant.

Bruce Berens, 12-13, limited Chicago to two hits, struck out seven and walked seven in the first seven innings as the Mets won their first game of the season at Wrigley Field. Ed Lynch pitched the final two innings, giving up an RBI double to Leon Durham in the ninth inning.

Steve Trout, 12-7, pitched six innings, giving up 10 hits and six earned runs.

The Mets opened scoring in the first. Mookie Wilson singled, stole second, and scored on Kelvin Chapman's single.

Chicago took a 2-1 lead in the third. Trout and Bob Dernier walked, and

National

Third Boston hit an infield single to load the bases with two out. Durham's single scored Trout and Dernier.

Strawberry, Roy Knight and Mike Fitzgerald scored to start the fifth as the Mets took a 3-2 lead.

Strawberry scored when he tried for third on Knight's single, and left fielder Bosley threw wildly past the base. Fitzgerald knocked in Knight from third.

With one out in the Mets sixth, Keith Hernandez and George Foster singled. Both scored on Strawberry's single, which chased Trout in favor of Dernier.

Ron Meridith, making his first major league appearance, pitched the seventh for Chicago. He walked Chapman, and Hubie Brooks reached on Ryan Sandberg's error before Strawberry crushed the first pitch for his 22nd homer. The five RBI tied his single-game high.

Houston 10, San Diego 9
In Houston, rookie Glenn Davis

drove in the winning run with an eighth-inning sacrifice fly, and Mark Bailey hit two home runs as the Houston Astros eked out a victory over the San Diego Padres.

The Padres' "magic number" remained at six. Any combination of six San Diego victories or losses by Atlanta and Houston, which are currently tied for second place, would give the Padres the National League West championship.

Dave Smith, 4-3, was the winner in relief. Rich Gossage, 9-6, took the loss.

Houston went into the eighth trailing 9-8. Bill Doran started the winning rally when he walked. Kevin Bass singled and, one out later, Jose Cruz was walked intentionally to fill the bases. Gossage's first pitch to Davis sailed to the backstop, scoring Doran as Bass went to third. Davis then lined a sacrifice fly to deep left, scoring Bass.

The victory moved Houston into a second-place tie with Atlanta. 8 1/2 games back of the Padres.

Each team scored in the first inning. Alan Wiggins doubled and then scored when Astros right fielder Bass mishandled the ball for a two-base error. Davis singled home a run for the Astros.

Atlanta 7, San Francisco 5
In Atlanta, Randy Johnson's bases-loaded double in the fifth inning drove in two runs and propelled the Atlanta Braves to a triumph over San Francisco despite two home runs by Chili Davis of the Giants.

Monsters 7, Philadelphia 4
In Philadelphia, pinch-hitter Max Venable drove in two runs with a bases-loaded double, capping a five-run eighth inning as the Montreal Expos took advantage of some shaky Philadelphia fielding to post a victory.

Los Angeles 7, Cincinnati 5
In Cincinnati, Steve Sax and Dave Anderson drove in runs in the top inning to send Los Angeles to a see-saw victory over the Cincinnati Reds, extending the Dodgers' winning streak to five games.

St. Louis 8, Pittsburgh 7
In St. Louis, David Green blooped a two-run single into right field with one out in the 10th inning, boosting the St. Louis Cardinals to a victory Sunday over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Reader's good deed has unhappy end

DEAR ABBY: The letter about finding a suitcase with no identification in the middle of the road reminded me of something I will never forget.

Several years ago, my husband, a cross-country truck driver, saw a small suitcase in the middle of the highway, so he pulled off and got it before it was run over. It had no identification, but it contained some pictures of a beautiful little boy, from the time of his birth until approximately 6 years old.

On some large colored pictures was the name of a photographer's studio in a small Wyoming town, so we called the studio (we live in

Abigail VanBuren
Dear Abby.

Oklahoma) and described the pictures. We were told the pictures belonged to the John Brown family (made-up name), and they gave us the family's address and phone number in Wyoming.

We called their home and were told the little boy and his parents had gone to visit the grandparents in Colorado, and they gave us their number. I called the grandparents and told them about the suitcase. They thanked me nicely, said the Browns had not arrived yet and asked me to please send the suitcase to them in Colorado.

I packed up the suitcase, insured it and sent it to Colorado with my name and address.

I heard nothing for three months. Then a letter from Mrs. Brown came, accusing me of finding a second suitcase that was lost at the same time! She said it contained some expensive jewelry, and she practically called me a thief! That ungrateful woman never even thanked me for shipping the suitcase with those precious pictures. Nor did she offer to reimburse me for the phone calls and postage.

That sure taught me a lesson!

DEAR MARY C., OKLAHOMA CITY
"Lesson"? And what was the "lesson"? I hope it didn't sour you on the whole human race. Don't stop doing good deeds for strangers; for every lemon like Mrs. Brown, there are 100 peaches like you, Mary C.

(Comely? Get Abby's updated, revised and expanded booklet, "How to Be Popular" - for people of all ages. Send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped (37 cents) envelope to Abby, Popularity, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.)

Couple celebrates 50th anniversary

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls Senior Citizens will hold a yard sale from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Thursday at the center, 339 Fourth Ave. W., Twin Falls. Proceeds will go to the building fund.

Workshop for women held

TWIN FALLS — A residential weekend workshop to provide a "psychological journey for women" is scheduled Sept. 28-30 at a residence on the Jerome Golf Course. Entitled "Return to the Goddess," the workshop will be a psychological story of the Summer goddess, Inanna, as a framework. Leaders include Ella Nelson-Ragle, Twin Falls counselor who now lives in Walnut Creek, Calif.; Sharon Melanson, Vancouver, B. C. and Mary Possley, Houston, Tex.

For more information call 734-5888 daytime and Evelyn Mallee, 734-6753 evenings. Costs $50 with early registration by Sept. 18 set at $80. The $30 non-refundable deposit/reservation will apply to the tuition.

Housekeeping seminar set

PAUL — A seminar on taking the chaos and clutter out of housekeeping will be given free of charge from 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Saturday at the First Baptist Church in Paul.

Vicki Church, leader, said the seminar, entitled "From Pigeon to Paradise," is based on a book published in 1977 by sisters Pam Young and Peggy Jones, entitled "Stacked Home Executives."

Babysitting will be available at the church for $1 per child. Participants are to bring a sack lunch for themselves and their children. Coffee and punch will be furnished.

Pre-registration begins Monday and ends Wednesday. For more information call Vicki Church, 423-0202, after 6 p.m.

Somebody needs you

"Somebody Needs You," a public-service column that appears each week in The Times-News, is designed to make those in the community who need volunteer help with those who can provide it.

Grandpas and Grandmas needed! A number of single-parent families and college students in the area would like to "adopt" single and couple grandparents. Don't miss this opportunity. You can choose your own family. Call Volunteer Programs at 734-7583.

School volunteers are badly needed in many local schools. A few hours a week could make a big difference in a child's life. Call Volunteer Programs or your nearest school district.

If you need a volunteer, call Bruce Bennett at the College of Southern Idaho at 734-7583 to have it appear in this column.

are-needed-to-tutor-native-adults-one-to-one in basic reading, writing, and arithmetic. Our volunteers can tutor non-English speaking adults to help them learn to understand and speak English. If you have high school education or equivalent and a willingness to share your knowledge with someone who wants to learn, contact the Basic Skills Volunteers nearest you at 734-9554, 324-8855, 934-1089, 540-8271, or 678-1100.

Make friends, have fun and help other people at the same time. Volunteer always needed are the local senior citizen's centers. Just give the nearest center a call. They need your help.

Would you like a nice quiet place to volunteer; with plenty of intellectual stimulation and some great people to work with? Area public libraries need your help. Call the library nearest you.

THE ACES BOBBY LEWIS
"Man is a complex being he desires bloom... and lakes die." - Gil Stern.
South developed a hasty plan to make today's small swim. It turned out to be the right plan for 12 lakes but a rotten plan for 11.
South won the spade lead and got his ace and queen of clubs out the way quickly. Next he led a heart to dummy's ace to cash dummy's hearts leaving a long club with East. He then switched back to hearts and the house fell in West. East turned up with four hearts. East got a heart and a club, and South's slam went one down.
Would it have been better to try two diamond finesses, giving up a sure club trick to gain an extra trick? Not really. That's not where South made his mistake.
The best (and winning) plan is to cash the ace and queen of clubs and then duck a heart trick completely.
East wins and returns a diamond but South refuses to finesse. A heart is led to dummy's ace to cash dummy's clubs (South discarding diamonds), and South now claims his 12 tricks for slam and rubber.
Had hearts been 3-3, the intentional loss of a heart trick would have cost 30 points. When East has four hearts, the duck gains 140 points. Surely one can afford to give away 30 points to better ensure collecting over 140!
