Gromyko takes tough line at UN

By O.C. DOELLING
The Associated Press

UNITED NATIONS — Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko of the Soviet Union delivered a stinging rebuttal Thursday to President Reagan's conciliatory overtures, calling for "concrete deeds rather than verbal assurances" from the White House.

He said U.S. policymakers "have a great deal to do if they want their words... to be trusted."

Gromyko, who is to meet with Reagan at the White House today, devoted most of his 75-minute speech before the United Nations General Assembly to sharp attacks on "absurd" American policies increasing the threat of war.

However, he left the door open for improved relations with the U.S.

"The Soviet Union believes it is precisely concrete deeds rather than verbal assurances that can lead to normalizing the situation in our relations with the U.S. The U.S.S.R. will not be found wanting. Every American, every American family should know that the Soviet Union wants peace and only peace with the U.S.," the 75-year-old foreign minister said.

He spoke in Russian and the Soviet U.N. Mission issued a 20-page English translation. As Gromyko spoke, the speech was simultaneously translated into the U.N.'s five working languages — English, French, Chinese, Spanish and Arabic.

Secretary of State George P. Shultz, who listened impassively from the second-row bank of seats assigned to the U.S. delegation, said as he left the hall that he did not like the speech.

"It is sad and disappointing that Mr. Gromyko should give us another misrepresentation of history and distortion of the peaceful and constructive role of the United States in foreign affairs," Shultz said.

"I can only say, as the president did on Monday, that we will try and try again to bring about more constructive relations with the Soviet Union in the interest of world peace."

Shultz, who conferred with Gromyko for three hours here Wednesday, did not applaud at the end of the speech — just as Gromyko refrained after Reagan's conciliatory address to the same forum Monday. In his speech, Reagan avoided all direct criticism of the Kremlin and called for a "new climate of understanding" and "concrete negotiations" with the Russians.

Gromyko generally reviewed known Kremlin positions, and did not react directly to such specific Reagan proposals as regular U.S.-Soviet Cabinet-level meetings.

He did say that "no attempt to substitute modifications in form for the substance of a policy and for the need to move away from militancy toward a policy of peace can be meaningful. This is just like a vessel with nothing inside."

While expressing readiness to negotiate arms control agreements with Washington, Gromyko repeated Moscow's insistence on withdrawal of the medium-range ballistic missiles NATO began deploying in Western Europe late last year. The Soviet Union eluded the deployment at the time as its reason for breaking off nuclear arms talks in Geneva.

In his speech to the assembly, Gromyko blamed the Reagan administration for the breakdown in negotiations.

The foreign minister said the United States deliberately wrecked negotiations to have an excuse for deploying the cruise and Pershing 2 missiles in Western Europe.

"And it did succeed in this," he said. "Juggling with words ostensibly in favor of negotiations is a false propaganda play, its purpose is obvious. Now they rejoice that they were able to begin the deployment of their missiles in Europe, as planned."

In contrast, he characterized the Soviet Union as being in "the vanguard of active champions of peace."

Mondale sees hopeful signs

By SARA FRITZ
The Los Angeles Times

NEW YORK — Democratic presidential candidate Walter F. Mondale, emerging from a 90-minute chat with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, said Thursday that there seems to be an "opportunity for significant progress" toward arms control when President Reagan meets Gromyko today.

Mondale's upbeat assessment ran counter to the impression created by Gromyko in a speech earlier in the day to the United Nations. The Democratic candidate appeared to be stepping up the political pressure on Reagan to produce a major breakthrough in U.S.-Soviet relations.

The Soviet ministry of foreign affairs responded to Thursday's meeting with a statement appearing to suggest that Mondale, if elected, would be more likely than Reagan to achieve an arms-control agreement.

The statement said that some of the ideas Mondale suggested, "should they materialize in Washington's policy, would open up certain possibilities for bringing the positions of the two powers closer and for subsequent agreements on arms limitations and disarmament, above all in the field of nuclear weapons."

Mondale met with Gromyko at the Soviet mission here one day before the Soviet leader plans to visit the White House for his first formal meeting with Reagan since the president's inauguration.

"I do believe there is an opportunity tomorrow to make significant progress," Mondale told reporters after his meeting. "It is just possible there is some opportunity in the arms-control field. I would hope for progress in other areas, but I have nothing to go on in the other areas."

He later added: "I think there's an opportunity. How much, I have no way of knowing."

Mondale, who pressed Gromyko to bring the Soviet Union back into the arms-control talks that they abandoned a year ago, declined to say precisely what the Kremlin leader told him to spur his sense of optimism. He cautioned that he could not predict the outcome of the Reagan-Gromyko meeting and noted "I'm not in a position to know what might be going on behind the scenes."

"No assurances, no guarantees, nothing of that kind was given," he said. "This is just an estimate on my part. You have to make certain judgements about what you think you're hearing and what it means."

Bailout worrying farmers' creditors

By JIM DRINKARD
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Representatives of the farm credit system, which holds one-third of the U.S. farm debt, said Thursday they are concerned about the precedent that might be set by the Reagan administration's credit bailout proposal.

System spokesmen told a news conference the administration plan was unlikely to help large numbers of financially troubled farmers.

"The plan, announced last week, calls for a moratorium on repayment of part of government loans to qualifying farmers and offers government guarantees for commercial loans if lenders are willing to write off at least 10 percent of those debts and reschedule payment on the balance."

"I'm concerned about the kind of precedent this may set," said

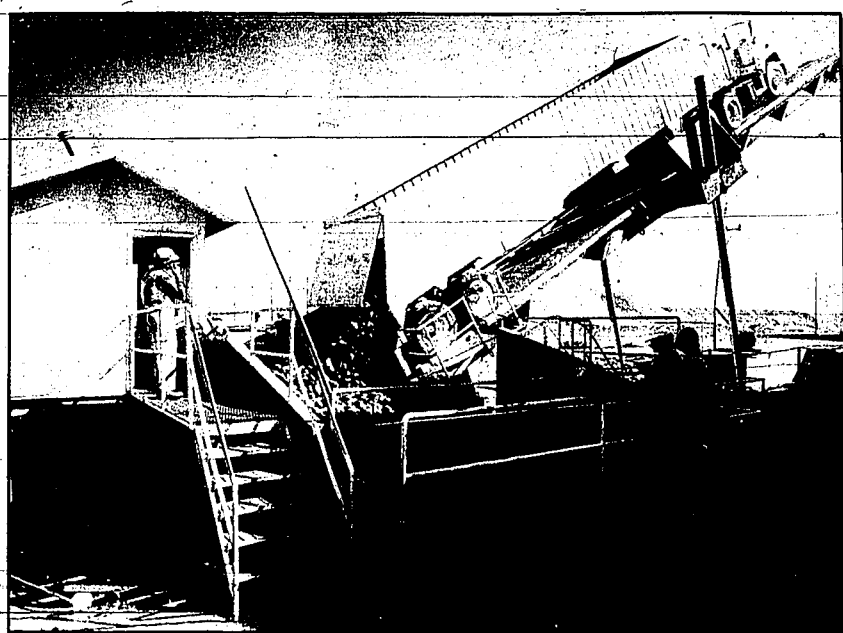

Malcolm Harding, president of the Central Bank for Cooperatives in Denver.

"Does this raise the specter of other industries that are in trouble asking the government to come in and provide some kind of financial support that would involve the forgiveness of debt by creditors?" he asked, citing the steel industry as a possible example.

"As lenders from the private sector, we're concerned about setting a precedent that will be proposed to solve problems in the future," Harding said. "I'm not saying it won't be helpful or won't work. I'm just concerned about it."

Ben Hauenstein, president of the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Wichita, Kan., said "there may be a few cases in which lenders would be

When man bites man, result can be downright painful

By LEE SIEGEL
The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — Man bites man more often these days.

And experts warn that serious infection or injury can occur when people fight with their teeth, "chomp" dentists' fingers or exchange "love nips."

"While most man bites aren't severe, many (are) indeed a worse problem than dog bites because they are much more likely to get infected," said Dr. Michael Callahan, chief of emergency medicine at the University of California at San Francisco. New York, the only major U.S. city where law requires doctors to report human bites, counted 1,581 last year — probably only half the actual number but still a 77 percent increase since 1977, said Martin Kurtz, director of the city Health Department's Bureau of Animal Affairs.

The city has recorded 1,121 so far this year.

"It's a sign of the times," Kurtz said. "We have a more violent society. Unfortunately, people are now going back to the caveman instincts of biting rather than the gentlemanly art of punching." Callahan speculated that "maybe in recent years biting has become a more socially acceptable way of expressing aggression."

"The number has surprisingly gone up," said Dr. John Marr, who helped start New York's human bite reporting system and now is Exxon Corp.'s assistant medical director. "It used to be that human bites ranked third after dogs and cats. They now rank No. 2 after dogs."

No one counts the number of human bites nationally each year, but UCLA infectious disease specialist Dr. Eille J.C. Goldstein estimates they account for up to 10 percent of all animal bites, which include about 2 million dog bites and 400,000 cat bites each year.

Marr urged "increased recognition of the importance of human bites as a legitimate as opposed to humorous injury."

"There's a horror there," Kurtz said. "But some victims of human bites end up requiring plastic surgery. They get disfiguring wounds. They might get their noses bitten off, ears, parts of their face. And, of course, you have fingers and toes."

"Love nips," the least common type of

Will ease overcrowding Minico school bond issue wins approval

RUPERT — Minidoka County School District No. 331 succeeded in its third attempt in two years to pass a school bond issue.

The $5.95 million bond issue, which was proposed to alleviate the problem of over-crowded classrooms in the district, passed by a margin of 68.81 percent.

A margin of 66% percent yes votes were necessary to carry the election.

The bond proposal will pay for such major projects as a new 22-room elementary school to be built in the Rupert area to replace the 70-year-old Lincoln and Washington elementary schools plus a larger multi-purpose room at Minico High School.

Additional classrooms will also be built at Memorial Elementary School in Rupert, and at the Aceca, Paul and Heyburn elementary schools.

"A super effort has been put out by everyone. We are very happy to see this issue pass," says board Chairman Russell Holland.

Lost falcon may turn to humans for food

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES

TWIN FALLS — A young woman who works as a summer employee for the World Center for Birds of Prey near Boise is making an appeal across southern Idaho in the hope of finding her personal falcon.

The four-month-old female falcon, named "Ralph," disappeared last Friday afternoon during a regular daily exercise, which involves free flight.

Lesley Daniel, owner of the bird, said she simply flew out of sight, possibly harassed by other birds or frightened by noises.

Ralph was sighted about two hours later in Grand View and was also tracked there by means of a radio transmitter she was wearing.

However, Daniel said, the transmitter quit working.

"The bird is inexperienced. She was hatched in captivity and has always been in captivity," Daniel said. "She is what is known as an imprinted falcon, in that she relates to persons rather than her own kind."

Daniel said Ralph is very friendly and docile. She may eventually be forced by hunger to seek out a human or group of humans for help. The falcon may be inclined to swoop down near people.

She will probably land in front of someone and will be crying — wailing

Farmers stage demonstration at Chicago Board of Trade

CHICAGO (AP)—About 100 farmers from seven states rallied outside the Chicago Board of Trade on Thursday, charging that commodity speculators are driving farm prices to unacceptably low levels.

The farmers, some carried picket signs outlining their grievances. They later met with Thomas T. Cunningham, chairman of the nation's largest and oldest futures exchange.

There was no disruption of business.

The protest was led by Wayne Cryts of Purico, Mo., who drew national attention in 1981 when he removed grain he owned from a bankrupt elevator and then was acquitted of contempt-of-court charges.

Cryts said he will ask the Commodity Futures Trading Commission, the federal agency that regulates the futures industry, to set a minimum price for grains.

He contended speculators who sell large amounts of contracts "short" — without owning the product — to profit from falling prices are driving prices lower to the detriment of the farmers.

Such charges have been raised before. A joint congressional hearing held in Chicago last January, chaired by Sen. Roger W. Jepsen, R-Iowa, was unable to find any evidence that commodity speculators were manipulating prices.

The Board of Trade agreed at that time, however, to organize an advisory committee made up of representatives from major farm organizations.

Cryts said representatives of his group plan to attend the committee's next meeting to further voice their concerns.

One member of the panel, Ralph Weems, president of the American Soybean Association, said he feels the group's criticism is misdirected.

"I think they need to be directing their criticism at the true culprit, which is the high value of the U.S. dollar overseas," Weems said.

Cunningham said in a prepared statement: "The Chicago Board of Trade does not set prices. The Chicago Board of Trade acts more as a barometer registering the price changes for the rest of the world."

In an interview before the protest, Cryts said speculators who buy and sell the commodities play a key role in keeping prices below acceptable levels.

"There's absolutely no excuse for prices being where they are," he said.

Cryts said a reasonable level would be 90 percent of parity, a concept that became the goal of the Agricultural Adjustment Act.

AT&T wants 44% rate increase

BOISE (AP) — AT&T Communications, which handles telephone calls between Idaho residents and customers in other states, wants a 44 percent increase for the services it performs in the state.

And the firm wants to cut the fees it pays local telephone companies for access to its customers.

The Idaho Public Utilities Commission on Thursday, AT&T Communications said its current expenses in Idaho exceed operating revenue by $4.4 million per year.

And in a separate filing with the commission, the company asked the PUC to investigate what it called "excessive" access fees approved by the commission and paid to such companies as Mountain Bell, General Telephone, Pacific Northwest Bell and Continental Telephone Co.

AT&T claimed local access charges result in a net loss of 10 cents for every dollar of revenue collected.

Food poisoning strikes Dalles

THE DALLES, Ore. (AP) — The toll of people reporting food-poisoning symptoms rose to 192 Thursday in what public health officials said could be one of the largest salmonella outbreaks in recent Oregon history.

Nearly 2 percent of The Dalles' population was stricken by illness. Randy Skov, head of admissions at Mid-Columbia Medical Center, said said 28 people remained hospitalized Thursday. Five of whom were admitted Wednesday night. Another 12 people have been released from the hospital.

Tests were being conducted on the patients to determine whether salmonella bacteria caused the vomiting, diarrhea and cramps.

Trojan plant shut down again

RAINIER, Ore. (AP) — The troubled Trojan Nuclear Plant was shut down for the second time in a week after a steam relief valve failed to reclose, officials said Thursday.

The Collins lowered the pressure in the steam system until the valve closed at 1:35 p.m. Wednesday, about half an hour after the incident began, Portland General Electric Co. said.

"Trojan has been shut down and cooled down to permit inspection and testing of the steam relief valve," PGE said. The company said the plant should be producing power again by Thursday night.

PGE, which operates the plant, and the Oregon Department of Energy were investigating the problem.

Missing flier search stymied

BOISE (AP) — Searchers were frustrated again Thursday after continuing to scour the rugged central Idaho mountains for sign of a light plane reported missing on its way from Boise to Idaho Falls Tuesday with only the pilot aboard.

"It's just a matter of grinding it out now," said

Worthle Rauscher, administrator of the Idaho Division of Aeronautics.

Rauscher said 17 of 32 private and government planes volunteered from Boise, Idaho Falls, Salmon, McCall and Cascade were used Thursday to scan than 15,000 square miles of terrain. Search efforts were hampered to a certain extent during the early morning by valley fog and shadows, he said.

The single-engine Cessna was piloted by R. Craig Leonard, 34, of Idaho Falls. A search involving 25 planes began on Wednesday after Leonard, president of Leonard Petroleum Equipment Co., failed to arrive home as scheduled.

Foes of cult expect vote ploy

ALBANY, Ore. (AP) — Foes of Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh say more than 1,000 Oregon residents are expected to risk arrest by making a two-day voting expedition to Wasco County in November.

Jeanne Boles of Albany said the residents will try to counter the increased voting power of the Indian guru's disciples, who have brought in hundreds of "street people" to their commune-city, Rajneeshpuram.

Ms. Boles said plans call for people from throughout the state to go to The Dalles on Monday, Nov. 5, vote the next day and return to their homes. She said they probably will be arrested for violating state election laws.

Ellsworth Bunker dies at 90

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. (AP) — Ellsworth Bunker, U.S. ambassador to South Vietnam during the latter stages of the Vietnam War and a diplomat whose career spanned 35 years, died Thursday at age 90.

Bunker died at Brattleboro Memorial Hospital. He had been hospitalized since Sept. 13.

Alan Carter, a family spokesman, gave the cause of death as complications resulting from a viral infection. Bunker's wife, Carol Laiser Bunker, and daughter Ellen were with him when he died.

A funeral is scheduled Monday at a Brattleboro church, and a memorial service will be held in Washington, D.C.

Clemency for Barfield denied

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Hunt refused Thursday to grant clemency for Velma Marie Barfield, who is scheduled to die Nov. 2 for poisoning her boyfriend, saying she should "pay the maximum penalty for her crimes."

Mrs. Barfield, who also confessed to three other killings, had asked that her death sentence be commuted to life in prison.

The U.S. Supreme Court last month rejected her request for a new trial, and her attorneys said then they would forego further court appeals and focus on attempting to persuade Hunt, a death penalty supporter, to grant executive clemency.

Mondale

The Democratic nominee previously declared that Reagan's meeting should produce a scheduled U.S.-Soviet summit, a breakthrough in arms control or a promise of progress in human rights in the Soviet Union.

But Mondale rejected a suggestion that he was intentionally creating high expectations against which the voters will measure the outcome of the Reagan-Gromyko meeting. He insisted that his meeting with Gromyko was not politically motivated, but added that he would probably make another statement after Friday's meeting at the White House.

Mondale refused to recount any thing that Gromyko told him. He said that Gromyko's statements at the meeting were similar to his U.N. speech, that he spent most of his time talking about arms control with particular emphasis on the need to control weapons in space, which is a major theme of the Mondale campaign.

It was Mondale's third meeting with Gromyko in 10 years, and came at the invitation of the Soviets. Mondale's political advisers clearly hoped that the meeting would underscore his experience in foreign affairs and limit any political benefit Reagan might reap from his meeting with Gromyko.

"I told him all Americans are united in the desire for peace and for arms control," said Mondale, who spoke to Gromyko through veteran U.S. interpreter William Krimer. "I made a strong point that U.S.-Soviet relations were at a fateful moment (and) that each day that was wasted was dangerous for survival of the human species."

"I made a strong point that Reagan is our president and he (Gromyko) should not misconstrue the fact that we have a vigorous campaign going on, in any way, detract from the sheer hope of all Americans that progress would be made from that meeting and no benefit was to be gained by delay."

Mondale, who opened the meeting with Gromyko by making a 20-minute statement, said that he raised a variety of human rights issues. He declined to characterize Gromyko's reaction.

willing to forgive portions of a farm debt in return for federal guarantees.

But he said "it can't be widespread" because such losses raise the cost of funds to other borrowers in the farmer-owned cooperative banks.

The spokesmen said participants at a forum involving government, lending and agricultural leaders agreed that the ultimate solution to the problem of deepening farm debt delinquency lies not in credit help but in extending the economic recovery to the agricultural sector.

"We are not optimistic about the future income prospects for agriculture because of our tremendous ability to produce," said Gromyko, referring to "protected" growing surpluses of wheat and feed grains.

"If we had a three-point reduction in interest rates, that amounts to $6.6 billion a year (in reductions) in farmers' present indebtedness," said Hausenstein.

"If there is some weakening of the dollar so exports could be more effective, that would have a big effect. . . . In these areas we hope there will be some help for the American farmer."

because she will want food," the owner said.

The bird is trained to come to a lure and normally would not land on a person's arm, as some falcons will. An object whirled on the end of a string — even a human finger swinging in a circle by the lace — would attract the bird. If food is put on the lure, she will land on the lure and can be picked up — food, lure and falcon.

Ralph lives on a diet of raw meat, but it is important she not be fed any seasoned food since the seasoning could kill her, the falcon owner said.

People who saw Ralph in Grand View knew immediately she was not a wild bird, her owner said. She does not act like a wild bird. She was wearing a bell when she disappeared as well as two leather bracelets around her lower legs and a federal band that shows she was bred in captivity.

Daniel has contacted schools, police departments and the Idaho Fish and Game officials in her effort to recover her pet falcon.

"We have found in the past that falcons released from Boise follow the Snake River plain which leads me to believe she could well fly to the Twin Falls area."

The bird is not part of the Birds of Prey program, but is her personal falcon. She asked anyone sighting the bird to call the Fish and Game office, in Jerome, or contact her at Boise.

Sunny skies, cool air to prevail

Twin Falls, Burley-Rupert, Jerome
Sunny today and Saturday. Clear to low. Lows tonight in the 30s and in the 20s in the mountains; highs today in the 60s. Warner Saturday with highs in the 60s to low 70s.

Northern Nevada and northern Utah:
Northern Utah will be mostly fair through Saturday. Highs in the mid 60s to low 80s. Lows in the mid 30s and 40s.

Northern Nevada will have continued sunny days and clear nights through Saturday. Overnight lows generally in the 30s to low 40s. Highs in the upper 70s to mid 80s.

Camas Prairie and the lower Wood River Valley:
Sunny today. Highs in the lower 60s. Clear tonight. Lows to 25. Sunny and warmer Saturday. Highs in the 60s.

Synopsis:
A large high pressure system in the extreme eastern Pacific Ocean has edged slowly east into the northwestern United States. This has allowed skies over most of Idaho to remain fair with only partly cloudy conditions occurring over some mountain areas.

"An area of high pressure in west central Montana is predicted to keep warm and dry southerly winds over the state through the weekend.

The forecast calls for continued pleasant conditions, with warm weather continuing through the weekend.

Temperatures Thursday afternoon ranged from 67 in Madras to 49 in Malheur. No precipitation was reported in the state Thursday.

Winds were variable in direction in the afternoon, with speeds occasionally 15 to 18 mph in some of the southern valleys.

The agricultural outlook for September in Idaho shows no precipitation is expected through Tuesday. Conditions for hay and harvesting will be good. Daily evaporation rates will range from 15 to 25 inch. Soil temperatures for the potato harvest will fall below 45 degrees by 3 a.m., then rise above 45 degrees by 3 p.m.

The pollen count for Twin Falls Thursday was 91 particles per cubic meter of air.

Highest temperature in the state Thursday was 71 degrees at both Hagerman and Emmett, while the low of 20 was recorded at Stanley.

The extended forecast for southern Idaho indicates dry with seasonal temperatures Sunday through Tuesday. Highs in the upper 60s to mid 70s. Lows in the mid 30s to mid 40s.

The uproar over President Reagan's new remarks on the Beirut embassy bombing "built higher" on Thursday.

Former President Carter, Carter's CIA director and members of Congress blasted Reagan's account and the president himself said his words had been distorted.

Reagan set off the controversy Wednesday when he said in response to a question about security at the embassy building that the real problem was a lack of intelligence information that might have allowed U.S. officials to head off the attack in advance.

He spoke of "the near destruction of our intelligence capability before we came here" — a reference that congressional Democrats and other critics quickly disputed as an incorrect account of Carter administration actions concerning the CIA.

As the furor grew, Reagan's spokesman said Thursday that the president had meant a longer-term lessening of intelligence capability, not just a Carter breakdown.

"But in the meantime, Carter himself reacted heatedly, saying he had refrained from criticizing previous "deliberate misstatements of fact" from Reagan but that the new comment was "too gross in its implications to ignore."

Democratic presidential candidate Walter F. Mondale focused on his meeting with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, but he also admonished Reagan.

Mondale, who served as Carter's vice president, said Reagan "encourages terrorists and our enemies around the world to believe that we don't have an effective intelligence capability when we do" by saying the CIA is weak.

He also said Reagan is "dead

RONALD REAGAN
Says agencies indispair wrong" in suggesting he inherited a weakened intelligence network upon taking office in 1981.

After his session with Gromyko at the United Nations, Mondale said he won no commitments but "it's my judgment there is the possibility of an opportunity."

"I made a strong point that in my opinion U.S.-Soviet relations were at a fateful moment, that each day that was wasted was dangerous for survival of the human species, and urged that they give full weight to the possibilities and the opportunities tomorrow in their meetings with the president," Mondale said.

On the subject of Reagan's remarks, Carter said in a statement released in Atlanta that the president "should apologize for these misleading statements to the American people and particularly to the many suffering families of those who have made the ultimate sacrifice of their lives in Lebanon."

He said three major terrorist bombing attacks on American installations in Lebanon in the past two years had "been brought about" by the president's own deeply flawed policy and inadequate security precautions in the face of proven danger."

Congressional critics said much the same thing, accusing Reagan of trying to shift the blame for the bombings, the most recent of which killed 14 people, including two Americans, at the embassy annex in East Beirut.

At the White House, Reagan chided reporters for having "distorted my remarks about the CIA."

He refused to elaborate, but presidential spokesman Larry Speakes said the president had not meant to blame the Carter administration but a decade-long "climate in Congress that resulted in inadequate funding and support for intelligence-gathering capabilities" during both the Ford and Carter administrations.

And Vice President George Bush, who was CIA director at the end of the Ford administration, said at a campaign stop in Saginaw, Mich., that agency contacts with sources overseas indeed had been damaged during the administration of Ford, a Republican, when CIA wrongdoing was investigated by congressional committees.

Asked if he thought Reagan was blaming Carter for intelligence failures that led even indirectly to last week's embassy attack, he said, "No. I don't believe that. I don't believe anyone can say that."

Speakes, elaborating on what he said were past cutbacks, said, "Specifically, human intelligence capabilities had been weakened considerably in that decade (the 1970s), partly because of lack of support, partly because of the confidence and trust abroad."

Blackwell says Ferraro song was a satire

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former White House aide Morton Blackwell said Thursday a song he sang about Democratic vice presidential nominee Geraldine Ferraro "renting spaces to the mob" was meant "obviously as satire."

Blackwell said he sang the song, "When Gerry Goes Back to Queens Again," to about 300 people at a fund-raiser Wednesday night that benefited the conservative political group he heads.

Blackwell said he wrote five stanzas of lyrics to the tune of "When Johnny Comes Marching Home Again," including one part that said: "Ferraro's fillings all have failed. She'll get it if she's not jailed."

Asked what he meant to imply, Blackwell said Thursday, "I don't expect her to go to jail, just back to Queens. Obviously it was satire."

The House ethics committee is looking into a complaint by the private Washington Legal Foundation, which alleges that Ms. Ferraro improperly claimed exemptions to congressional requirements concerning disclosure of a spouse's assets and liabilities.

Blackwell now runs the Leadership Institute, which conducts training seminars for conservative activists.

Three calls to Mrs. Whittlesy's spokeswoman, Mary Ann Melly, were not returned.

Texans to debate

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — U.S. Senate candidates Phil Gramm and Lloyd Doggett tangled Friday in the first of two scheduled debates, but it's likely more people will be worrying about who shot Bobby Ewing.

The scheduled 8 p.m. confrontation, to be broadcast on public television stations, has the dubious distinction of running opposite the season premier of the CBS-TV show "Dallas." The ratings giant has kept viewers guessing all summer about who pulled the trigger on villain J.R. Ewing, but instead shot his brother.

Reagan responsible for embassy deaths

It becomes plain that lives were lost in vain in the bombing of the American Embassy building in East Beirut. The authorities knew that the place was "highly vulnerable to surveillance, sniping, (rocket-propelled grenades) and vehicular bombing." In the pre-attack words of the Defense Intelligence Agency, and that necessary security arrangements (steel-bar gates, closed-circuit TV, shatterproof windows) had not been made.

Warnings of a specific action were discounted. Only the chance presence of an alert British guard seems to have kept the terrorists' van from driving under the building, collapsing it and thereby making the casualty list even longer than it was.

Is it Mr. Reagan's responsibility? You bet it is. Lebanon is no sunny meadow full of fluttering butterflies. It is a killing ground. This was the third major American government facility to be blasted within a year and a half, not to speak of individual Americans, both private citizens and officials, who have been caught up in the pervasive terror. Mr. Reagan had already determined Lebanon to be an unsafe place for fully armed American Marines. Yet he has kept thinly defended American diplomats in Beirut and failed to take adequate precautions for their safety.

Mr. Reagan likened the delays in security preparations to the delays experienced in remodeling one's kitchen. He is taking it on the chin for this casual, belittling remark, and he should. It is an evasion.

The official reason for keeping the embassy in Beirut was restated after the blast: to stick by the Lebanese government and to show one and all that the United States can't be intimidated. But, unfortunately, the Lebanese government is beyond profiting from any help that the United States is in a position to render. And the effort to show that the United States cannot be intimidated is showing that the United States, in this place, can be taunted with impunity. The personal courage of American diplomats does not alter this basic fact.

Walter Mondale had it right, we thought, when he said that President Reagan lets terrorists "humiliate us and push us around and kill our people." The echo of the Carter administration's experience in the Iranian hostage-taking is unmistakable. Jimmy Carter ended up with a widespread reputation for weakness; and the taint is still on his vice president, Mr. Mondale. But he brought every captive diplomat home safe and free.

Ronald Reagan continues to enjoy, in many quarters, a reputation for strength. But dozens of American diplomats and hundreds of American Marines have died in Lebanon at terrorists' hands, notwithstanding his repeated and so far empty promises to make the terrorists pay.

Letters/ Bill in Congress threatens constitutional right to practice religion

Hansen her clear choice

Religion and politics certainly don't mix! This letter is for all Jews, Christians, and other religions alike, because we all have one thing in common — we live in a country where we can practice the religion our conscience dictates us to participate in.

In Congress right now a bill is pending that gives the government control of religion. It states that the government shall have the right to say what is a religion and what isn't. Well, we all know that the government has recently recognized "Humanism" as a religion — a religion where you are your own God, there is no ultimate Creator.

In the bill, one of the items determining a religion is that both male and female have to hold the priesthood. Catholics, Jews, Mormons, Protestants (some branches), if that bill passes we will no longer be religions according to the government. There goes our constitutional right to practice religion as our conscience dictates.

Instead we would become as the Roman Empire being told what to think and how to think it — and the Roman Empire fell.

We know through years of experience, that Congressman Hansen fights for our rights. One lady said to me, "But he's been in so much trouble lately." — Yes, he has, but what kind of trouble has it been... money. He isn't in trouble with Idaho for his voting record, he fights for lower taxes, less government (including the IRS), religious freedom (remember Nebraska and the Idaho preacher).

He fights against abortion, gun control, government control of private free enterprise and religion! Sure he has financial problems!

That's what the big unions and government people want (use, because if he's broke, he can't keep running for Congress, and they don't want him there and they're trying to convince us that we don't want him there either.

I want my religious freedoms, even if it means voting for a Congressman in financial trouble. If he had lots of money, I'd question his honesty, but instead I look at his consistent, excellent voting record and I'm voting to keep him there. Please won't you, for a moment, consider your freedoms, especially the freedom to practice religion as we see fit, not as the government would like to tell us.

Vote for the man that upholds our constitution! Vote for George Hansen! MARY ANN STANGER Hansen

Corruption everywhere

Now that this college grading thing has been exposed, I will say "high school kids, watch closely."

Maybe things are better now, but when our son graduated a few years back, he submitted papers for scholarships. His grades were ultra, including 4.0 — how can you beat that?

Others were receiving awards in regard to scholarships, not our son. Three years later (even though we suspected much earlier) we found out from a person in the office, that our son's applications had been dumped in the waste basket in the office. They never left the school.

I hate the person sleeps nights. Despite that fact, he (with our help and his little wife working) has graduated four years from BYU and is on his way to further schooling to become a physical therapist.

We had to smile when we saw how the person that dumped his applications has climbed the ladder of success in a smaller town.

I had we known what was going on at the time, you can't see it. I wish I had known. I would have had one hell of a shake-up.

No wonder kids get discouraged. Thank goodness our son had the guts to say, "I'll do it without them." And he has! It hasn't been easy for any of us, but at least it's been done in an honest way — can you say the same, application dumpers?

How sad corruption is everywhere in our once lovely little town! Ho hum, so what else is new? Who said life is fair! HELEN AND WARD FREEMAN Twin Falls

District needs new blood

The longer a person is in power, the more corrupt he/she gets. That's why the president is only allowed two terms. It's a shame they don't do the same with congressmen. If they did, we wouldn't be wasting time trying to decide if Congressman Hansen should be re-elected. In my opinion, the answer is no. Regardless of how effective he might have been at one time, he cannot be now.

The man has been accused of breaking a law, not just once but several times and I'm sorry but "we all make mistakes" just won't cut it this time. Even if, as he says, he is being framed, what good will that do? His credibility is gone. He can't help Idaho now, he can't even help himself. We need new blood in Washington, not old troubles. CHERI ATTX Twin Falls

Support for Hansen grows

It seems that in one again The Times-News has outdone itself in its quest to uncover astonishingly bad news about Congressman George Hansen. As one of his supporters, I have to smile at your attempts to discredit him by (may I quote the national reporter on the "Party Line" interview) inaccuracy, distortion, innuendo, guilt by association, and smear.

George will end the election again in spite of the Times-News and in spite of the fact that a small group of mediocre attorneys consider it stylish to attack the congressman.

I don't particularly care for the "Moonie" church either, but they must be afforded the same freedoms as any other church. Which church would you have the congressman defend before you would applaud instead of criticize?

There is a story of a man in a society with ever-increasing government bureaucracy that didn't step forward and say no when a religion was attacked by the government — because he wasn't of that religion, nor did he step forward and say no when the government attacked a particular race because he wasn't of that race, nor did he step forward when the government attacked a philosophy that wasn't his.

He lived in Germany at the beginning of Hitler's time. George steps up and says no each and every time the government attacks our basic freedoms. Does anyone honestly believe that a semi-socialist from Rexburg who can't decide whether or not to support his own party, who can't decide where he stands on our most important issues, who runs his campaign on smearing his opponent, I repeat, does anyone think he'll say no to government intervention of anything?

In closing, be sure and keep up the good work. Every blow you strike the congressman makes him stronger and brings more support to his cause. Consider also renaming the Times-News. Call it the LEPPS (Liberal Eastern Press Supporting Stallings). DAN BEARD Twin Falls

Ads aim to generate GOP solidarity

Unrestrained by competition for his own seat in the Idaho House of Representatives, Idaho Falls Republican J.F. Chadband has struck out on a bold new mission to enlist the support of fellow Republican legislative candidates for his party's embattled congressman, Rep. George Hansen.

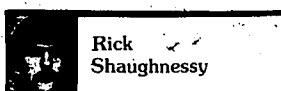

Chadband's proposed effort — a series of newspaper ads, consisting of a Hansen "fact sheet" bordered by pictures of Republican legislative candidates — is aimed at promoting solidarity among members of the state's perennial majority party around seven-term incumbent Hansen.

But the effort could prove as disconcerting to moderate members of the party as was their obligatory display of support for Hansen at the party's convention in Sun Valley in July?

The Sun Valley showing for Hansen belied the quiet division among Republicans over the four-county convicted felon congressman. It is a division that Chadband himself recognizes.

"I realize we have, in the Republican Party, a wide spectrum from 'hard core' supporters of George, to the non-supporters, but I feel that with wide distribution of this fact sheet to tell George's side of the story, we can win in November," Chadband wrote in an undated letter to legislative candidates.

The polite response of, "I support the party ticket," won't suffice for Chadband's sake when the question poses of a legislative candidate is:

Rick Shaughnessy

"Do you support George Hansen for re-election?" Several Magie Valley Republican candidates have indicated they will not participate in the ad campaign.

Sen. Wesc Truinson is one who will not participate. He is engaged in what could easily be the closest legislative race in the valley. A court-ordered reapportionment plan has pitted the one-term incumbent from Wendell against Sen. John Peavey, a Republican turned Democrat who has spent a total five terms in the state Senate between the two parties.

In 1982 voters from the four counties that compose Trounson's district gave Hansen only 46.9 percent of the vote to Democratic challenger Richard Stallings' 53.1 percent. Gov. John Evans netted nearly a 14 percentage point margin of victory over Republican challenger Phil Batt in the district in that same election.

"It doesn't mean I'm against Hansen. But I'm not going to be included in an ad with other legislators," Truinson said.

Sen. Laird Noh, R-Kimberly, who is running unopposed in the general election, says he also will decline the opportunity to appear in the ad. He declined to disclose his reason for not participating.

Two candidates for the House of Representatives who have also expressed interest in being Speaker of the House when the Legislature convenes in January — Speaker Tom Stivers of Twin Falls and Rep. Steve Antone of Rupert — appear to be noting out on their decisions whether to participate in the Hansen ad. Antone termed the situation "ticklish." He said he had been approached for a donation to help defray the costs of printing copies of Chadband's "fact sheet" but declined to contribute.

He said if he is asked to appear in an ad he "would have to consider it."

Stivers was even more evasive. He said he hadn't seen Chadband's proposal and couldn't comment on it until he was familiar with it. However, Stivers' claim of ignorance on the proposal is challenged by statements from two other legislative candidates who say Stivers attended a meeting between Chadband and Magie Valley legislative candidates where the proposal was discussed.

Sen. Denton Darrington of Declo said he will appear in the ads. If asked, he said he did Reps. Vard Chatburn of Albion, Mack Neibaur of Paul and Noy Brackett of Twin Falls. Garry Robbins, a Dietrich dairyman and accountant who is seeking a first term in the House, said he would probably participate.

Rep. Donna Scott of Twin Falls said she would agree to appear in an ad but she added "it could endanger my marriage." Scott attended the Magie Valley meeting with Chadband and provided a $15 donation to be used to print the "fact sheet."

"If everyone else agrees to it, I would not hesitate to have mine (picture) included," she said. "I would prefer no ad," she added. "I'm caught between a rock and a hard place because I'm on the ballot with that man... I'm a party person," she said.

Attempts to contact other candidates for comment were unsuccessful.

Rick Shaughnessy covers politics for The Times-News.

Hoax carries an unmistakable byline

BOSTON — In the annals of publishing, it will go down as the Doris Lessing Hoax. Not once, but twice, the much-acclaimed, praised and "bankable" British author wrote novels under a pseudonym.

As Doris Lessing, she had known "success" for decades with 25 books to her credit. "The Golden Notebook" alone sold 900,000 copies. But as Jane Somers she was a modest "failure." And that, she said, was the point.

"I wanted to highlight that whole dreadful process of publishing that nothing succeeds like success," said the author who finally confessed that she dunnit. "If the books had come out in my name, they would have sold a lot of copies and reviewers would have said, 'Oh, Doris Lessing, how wonderful.' As it is, there were almost no reviews, and the books sold about 1,500 copies here (Britain) and 3,000 in the United States."

So we are told that the ruse was devised as a monument to the unknown writer — to save 10,000 eggs bloodied by the paper cuts of rejection slips, to vindicate all the paranoia about the publishing world. After all, Doris Lessing's own British publisher rejected Jane Somers' novel. After all, not one reviewer recognized the real writer. After all, if Doris Lessing could't sell unless she were Doris Lessing, well...

It was a wonderful scam that produced a rash of embarrassment in the book world. But I suspect that her motives were more complex than that. Here is a woman who has spent her life wrestling with questions of who-am-I. It's unlikely that she would throw her name away for a cause. If she was toying with the book industry, I suspect that she was playing a more intriguing game with her own identity.

There is in all this a simple desire to masquerade, an intrigue as old as the prince and the pauper. People born with names such as Kennedy or Rockefeller must sometimes wish they were called Smith. But Lessing is one of those people who "made a name for themselves." She is not the only one to then worry if she is just valued for the name.

There is, in many successful people the fear that they are frauds protected by fame. Many wonder if they could do it again, re-make it on their own. In the preface to these novels now being published under her own name, Doris Lessing says she wanted to know how she would fare "as a new writer without benefit of a name."

Lessing says now of her experiment, "I never crossed my mind that people would guess my identity when my first book came out." She even dropped hints. But when Jane Somers walked into the public square nobody saw Doris Lessing.

This woman is too world-wise to be victimized by vanity. The point of her experiment was, I am convinced, to address in public a theme that haunts her writing: Life is too fragile if your identity is solely defined by others; it is hard, a lifelong task to go on defining and redefining yourself.

This extraordinary, vulnerable piece of personal risk-taking, this profound hoax carries the unmistakable byline of Doris Lessing.

Ellen Goodman writes for The Boston Globe.

Senate sends out cut defense budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate on Thursday sent President Reagan a compromise, $297 billion defense plan that gives him less than half the spending increases he sought and puts the MX-missile on a perilous political hold for six months.

The voice vote, following House approval a day earlier, completed legislative action on a Pentagon authorization bill that had tied Congress in knots since the two chambers passed vastly different versions in June.

But Reagan's retreat on the MX and his overall spending targets broke the logjam a week ago, enabling House-Senate conferees to resolve more than 1,200 differences over the defense budget, which accounts for more than one-third of federal spending.

While the authorization measure technically calls for obligating $297 billion in the fiscal year that begins Oct. 1, a companion spending bill that actually provides the money will be capped at $292.9 billion under an agreement by House Speaker Thomas

P. O'Neill, D-Mass., and Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn.

That represents a cut of more than $20 billion from the $313.4 billion military budget submitted by Reagan early in the year, though it is still a 5 percent "real" — or inflation-adjusted — increase over the current year.

Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, the Armed Services Committee chairman who had vehemently fought for an increase of at least 7.5 percent earlier, said the compromise is "one that can be supported by every member." And, he said, it means Reagan "has satisfied his 1980 pledge to strengthen national defense," despite falling way below his original demands.

There was virtually no debate on the final authorization package, and it sailed through without a roll call vote, in marked contrast to the raucous debate that lasted for weeks in both chambers more than three months ago.

Briefly

Capitol security increased

WASHINGTON (AP) — Security was increased at the two vehicular entrances to the U.S. Capitol grounds Thursday, but a spokesman for the Capitol Police said the action was not prompted by any specific threat.

Sgt. Karen Magee said a police car manned by a single officer had been assigned to 24-hour duty just inside the checkpoints at the north and south entrances.

The "scout cars" were put in place in order to ram any unauthorized vehicle that might try to enter the parking lot area on the east side of the Capitol, Ms. Magee said.

"It's been in the works for some time," she said. "We haven't received any specific threats."

More citrus nurseries to burn

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (AP) — Pest-eradication workers added four more nurseries to the burn list for citrus canker Thursday, but more groves and packing houses were cleared for shipment to out-of-state fresh fruit markets.

The four nurseries brought to 11 the total known to have received young trees and budstock from six major suppliers where the bacterial disease has been found, said spokesman Wayne Baggett of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Under state and federal regulations, the 11 nurseries will have those plantings destroyed, along with any vegetation kept within a radius of 125 feet of them.

The canker, which bleaches fruit and eventually destroys trees, was first discovered Aug. 24 in Ward's Nursery in Polk County, which supplied 40 other nurseries and groves throughout the 760,000-acre citrus belt.

MX test launch gets delayed

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — An MX missile test launch was delayed at least 28 hours Thursday by a computer failure that caused its guidance system to shut down shortly before blastoff, officials said.

The flight was rescheduled for midday today, said Airman First Class Bruce Fredette.

A computer disk drive, or memory, in a piece of ground support equipment failed, causing the missile's on-board guidance system to stop automatically, Fredette said.

The test was to be the sixth for the MX. The tests are scheduled to continue through 1986.

Loan officer indicted in fraud

CHICAGO (AP) — The former energy loan officer of the failed Penn Square Bank has been indicted on 16 federal counts of wire and bank fraud, federal authorities said Thursday.

The announcement came hours after he was cleared of criminal charges stemming from bad loans that led to the bank's collapse.

The indictment announced Thursday against William G. Patterson concerns an alleged loan-fraud scheme involving Penn Square and Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Co., said U.S. Attorney Dan K. Webb in Chicago.

Patterson was found innocent earlier Thursday by a federal jury in Oklahoma City of the last two of 25 charges of wire fraud, misapplication of funds and making false entries in a multi-count indictment that accused him of actions that led to Penn Square's 1982 failure.

Financier hit with indictment

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Financier J. David "Jerry" Dominelli, jailed since May 1 on charges of defrauding clients of as much as $60 million, was hit Thursday with a new 20-count indictment relating to the collapse of his investment empire.

The filings will mean at least a 30-day delay in Dominelli's federal trial, which was supposed to begin Tuesday, said Assistant U.S. Attorney Bob Rose, who announced the indictment.

Rose said the new counts accuse Dominelli, 43, of participating in two schemes intended to defraud investors, and of bankruptcy fraud — the charge on which he originally was arrested.

In addition to the civil and criminal proceedings related to the collapse of his La Jolla-based J. David & Co. investment firm, Dominelli is accused of conspiring with San Diego Mayor Roger Hedgecock and two others to pump large sums of J. David money into Hedgecock's 1983 mayoral campaign.

Storm hits coast

MIAMI (AP) — Tropical storm Isidore whisked across the southeast Thursday, bringing heavy rains and up to 50 mph winds that eroded beaches and flooded roads.

The Florida Highway Patrol reported no major accidents stemming from the ninth named storm of the 1984 Atlantic hurricane season.

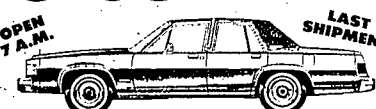

The weather service said the storm would bring heavy rainfall to southern Florida.

INEL guard accidentally shot

IDAHO FALLS (AP) — A decision will be made today whether a coroner's inquest will be held into what officials are calling a freak accidental shooting of a security guard at the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory, Butte County Sheriff Darrell Richards said.

Brent London, 34, of Wapello, an employee of American Protective Service of "Oakland, Calif.," was shot and killed shortly before midnight Wednesday in the security guards barracks at the end of the evening shift, according to INEL spokesman Peter Mygatt.

American Protective Services provides security at the eastern Idaho facility.

London, a member of the INEL anti-terrorist team, died when an automatic pistol fell from another guard's holster, hit the floor and discharged. Mygatt said there was no question that the incident was an accident.

Mygatt said it was not known why the weapon's safety failed to prevent the discharge, and that will be part of the investigation.

Court upholds drug rulings

BOISE (AP) — The Idaho Court of Appeals has upheld drug convictions in two separate cases, ruling in each that a judge had probable cause to issue a search warrant for drugs.

The court sustained the three-year prison term given to Charles James Crabb in an Elmore County case. He was convicted of illegal possession of cocaine, methaqualone and methamphetamine.

Ronald S. Walker was convicted of possession of marijuana with intent to sell, in an Oneida County case.

Crabb contended there was insufficient basis for a magistrate to issue a search warrant for his mobile home, because the information was not based on direct testimony about his involvement.

But the Court of Appeals said a magistrate needs to have "probable cause" but does not have to have direct proof, when issuing a search warrant.

Officer cleared in shooting

BOISE (AP) — Boise policeman Keith Aller has been cleared in a shooting incident that left a Coeur d'Alene teenager wounded after an early morning chase on the city's north side.

Police Chief James Montgomery said an investigation by the internal affairs and homicide divisions found that all procedures were properly followed.

According to Montgomery, Chad Gerald Sand, 17, was shot and wounded early Thursday morning after he attempted to elude police following a chase toward the Bogus Basin ski area.

Montgomery said Sand faces charges of aggravated battery, reckless driving, possession of stolen property and failing to yield the right-of-way to an emergency vehicle.

Petition drive hits roadblock

SANDPOINT (AP) — Organizers of a petition drive calling for a special election on the Bonner County road system have learned they need almost double the 100 signatures they have collected.

They originally thought they needed to collect 5 percent of the number voting in the last countywide election. But County Attorney Jim Hunt told them Wednesday they must have signatures of 5 percent of the county's registered voters.

Pocatello girls home to close

POCATELLO (AP) — The South Idaho Girls Home in Pocatello will close Oct. 17, Idaho Youth Ranch officials said.

Idaho Youth Ranch, a private organization, has operated the facility for troubled teen-agers for the past four years, said Jeannette Grimmert, facility director.

Caseworkers and school officials who have heard the news are upset, Ms. Grimmert said.

She said that when the Pocatello home closes, the closest in-residence treatment center for girls in this area will be the McCauley Home in Buhl, where the program is not as intense.

Sentencing slated

CALDWELL (AP) — Diane Ceruda, 32, Caldwell, is to be sentenced Oct. 9 on a misdemeanor manslaughter charge in connection with a June traffic death.

The woman was charged with causing a June 6 accident near Nampa, which resulted in the death of motorcyclist Jerry Sweet, 41, of Nampa.

City officials said the woman entered a guilty plea on Thursday to the misdemeanor charge after plea-bargaining.

BOISE (AP) — State Corrections Board member Kent Remington has temporarily relinquished his duties pending the outcome of an attorney general's investigation into whether he improperly used his position for personal gain.

"At this point, we really can't say much about what we're looking into or any sort of a timetable to complete the investigation," Attorney General Jim Jones said Thursday.

Gov. John Evans, who appointed the St. Anthony agribusinessman to the Corrections Board two years ago, asked for the investigation earlier this week after inquiries by The Associated Press.

Evans' legal adviser Pat Costello said the governor also immediately asked Remington, a contributor to past Evans campaigns, to give up his Corrections Board responsibilities until the inquiry is completed.

"Kent agreed to step aside" on Tuesday, Costello said. "The attorney general has agreed to complete it as quickly as possible."

Remington, 54, was not immediately available for comment Thursday. But his wife said he would have nothing to say about the investigation until it was completed.

"He's done nothing wrong," she said.

Corrections Director Al Murphy refused comment on the investigation, and Jones declined details, saying, "I don't want to compromise the situation."

Although the specific allegations against Remington were not publicly disclosed, officials close to the probe, who requested anonymity, said it centered on Remington's possible use of his position and connections with the correction system's Prison Industries program for personal financial gain.

A part of the investigation involves allegations that Remington was hired by the corrections department to deliver goods produced by inmates to the civilian customers who bought them, the officials said. The Corrections Board oversees the department's operations.

Since the investigation began, public access was halted to records normally open concerning operations of the Prison Industries program.

Investigator Russ Renuau said those records were impounded by the attorney general's office.

Renuau said his investigation should be complete within a week unless "it snowballs into other allegations."

The Prison Industries program, which provides inmates with work, is a multimillion-dollar yearly business involving agriculture and light industries including furniture manufacture and vehicle repair.

Group wants open water rights talks

BOISE (AP) — Arguing that the issues are too important to be settled in private, a self-styled citizens group has blasted state officials and Idaho Power Co. for their efforts to settle the long-standing Snake River water rights dispute behind closed doors.

"It is obvious from past performance that none of these parties has a genuine concern about what happens to the electric charges for the everyday person," said Al Fothergill of the Idaho Citizens Coalition.

Amid the wrangling over whether the utility will have priority rights for hydropower or other users for farming and development, principals in the negotiations toward a settlement have said a compromise may be days away.

Attorney General Jim Jones, who has been at odds with Idaho Power over the water rights question for months, said key elements of a settlement involve increasing the minimum stream flow of the Snake River and revamping state water rights laws.

The utility, in pressing for its priority claim, has warned that if it loses water rights on the river, power customers can expect huge rate increases as alternatives to cheap hydropower must be employed.

"No decision on this issue should be made without broader input from electricity consumers," said Fothergill, whose organization has often opposed Idaho Power in public proceedings but now finds itself allied with the utility.

"The Swan Falls decision will determine not only how our remaining water will be used, but also how high our electric bills will be for a long time to come," Fothergill said.

Although the current negotiations, taking place almost daily, have been confined to state government and utility officials, Jones has indicated that the ultimate agreement would likely require approval from state lawmakers or other public agencies.

Coalition: wilderness bill on hold

BOISE (AP) — There is virtually no chance Congress will pass an Idaho wilderness bill before the congressional adjournment in a week, the leader of the Idaho Sportsmen's Coalition says.

Ron Mitchell of Boise said the wilderness issue will not be resolved because Idaho Republicans Sen. James McClure and Rep. Larry Craig have refused to make significant compromises.

Congressional aides have said McClure still is negotiating secretly with Morris Udall, D-Ariz., chairman of the House Interior Committee, and John Seiberling, D-Ohio, chairman of the House Public Lands and National Parks Subcommittee.

Mitchell said he and several other members of the Idaho Wilderness Defense Coalition returned last weekend from two weeks of meetings and lobbying in Washington, D.C.

Ten Democrats in the House now have agreed to co-sponsor the group's 3.3-million-acre wilderness bill, Mitchell said.

"They are convinced these lands are of national significance," he said. "They are vast and spectacular in both scenery and wildlife resources."

But McClure and the rest of the Idaho delegation, which compares to a 525,000-acre bill, is unwilling to consider a compromise above 1 million acres of wilderness, Mitchell said. Anything less than 2 million acres would be "ridiculously low," he said.

Mitchell said McClure and the Idaho timber and mining industries now feel they can "get a better deal" by delaying wilderness action until next year. It is expected that by then, the U.S. Forest Service will have completed studies of potential wilderness areas.

With the studies, logging and other development could begin in roadless areas that the Forest Service decides do not merit wilderness classification.

But a Seiberling aide said it stands to reason that "a very busy senator and two very busy congressmen" would not spend their time talking if progress wasn't being achieved.

Idaho students score well on college tests

BOISE (AP) — Idaho high school students are continuing to score above the national average on two college entrance tests, although the scores this spring were slightly below the best scores ever posted by state students.

State education officials said the Idaho scores on the Scholastic Aptitude Test were much higher than the average regionally or nationally while those for the American College Testing Program were only slightly higher than the national average.

They also said that in the case of the SAT test, only a fraction of Idaho high school seniors actually take it. This spring, only 1,200 of the more than 13,000 seniors took that test.

But on the SAT this spring, the college-bound Idaho seniors scored 30 to 60 points higher than either the regional or national average.

On the verbal section of the SAT, the Idaho average was 480, down slightly from the 486 of three years ago, but well above the western regional average of 430 or the national average of 426.

In the mathematics section, Idaho students averaged 512, down from last year's 513, but again above the regional average of 482 and the national average of 471.

On the ACT, taken by just over half the high-school seniors in the state, the overall average mark was 18.9 out of a maximum total of 36. That compares to the national average of 18.4 although it's below the state's best mark of 19.3 in 1975.

The scores of Idaho students exceeded those of the national average in the tests' English, social studies and natural sciences sections, but fell slightly below the national level in math. The Idaho math score averaged 17 while the national average was 17.3.

According to the state officials, Idaho's women seniors scored better than the men in the English section but trailed the men in the other three parts of the test.

Chernenko lauds military

MOSCOW (AP) — President Konstantin U. Chernenko said Thursday that the Soviet Union must strengthen its defenses because of threats to world peace by the "growing aggressiveness of imperialism," official news agency Tass reported.

Chernenko's remarks came during a ceremony in which he received the Order of Lenin and the Hammer and Sickle Medal.

Chernenko did not single out any nation as an aggressor. He lauded his predecessors, Yuri Andropov and Leonid Brezhnev, for their work in strengthening the nation.

S. African students boycott

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — More than 115,000 black students boycotted classes for a second consecutive day Thursday after weeks of sporadic unrest in South Africa's black townships, school officials said.

In the townships surrounding Johannesburg, where rioting in the past month has claimed more than 60 lives, police reported incidents of stone-throwing at buses and police cars but no major clashes.

Train crash leaves 10 dead

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Three freight trains collided near the town of Catumbela in the African nation of Angola, killing 10 people and injuring seven others, the official Angolan news agency reported Thursday.

The Angop agency's report quoted Melo Sampaio, director-general of the Benguela Railroad, as saying the crash last Saturday was caused by the excessive speed of one of the three trains, traveling from the Angolan port town of Lobito.

Karpov leads in chess match

MOSCOW (AP) — Defending champion Anatoly Karpov took a 2-0 lead over fellow Soviet Garri Kasparov Thursday, winning the sixth game of their world championship series on the 70th move.

The other four games were draws. The winner is the first player to capture six games.

Iranian diplomat assaulted

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP) — Anti-Khomeini Kurdish protesters wielding sticks assaulted Iran's ambassador to the Netherlands in his office Thursday and brawled with other embassy staff members, authorities said.

Police arrested 19 Kurds, all opposed to Iran's Islamic Republic under the revolutionary patriarch Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, and "sharply condemned" the incident, the Foreign Ministry said.

Police said the mole, which grew out of demonstration against the Khomeini regime, ended after a Dutch policeman fired a shot into the ceiling of the embassy building.

Iranian Ambassador Hossein Tajardoun was taken to a local hospital by ambulance and returned to the embassy after receiving two stitches for a head wound, said an embassy spokesman speaking on condition of anonymity.

The Kurds are a minority pastoral and agricultural people living in the Iran-Iraq border region who have resisted central government control for centuries.

During the brawl, the attackers used office ash trays, staple machines, a typewriter and chairs as weapons against 15 embassy staff members, said police spokesman Marix Eysink Smeets.

The main fight occurred on the mezzanine, but there was also fighting in several other areas of the embassy, said Smeets.

Egypt urges peace effort

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — President Hosni Mubarak urged the United States on Thursday to "double its efforts" for Middle East peace following the restoration of relations between Egypt and Jordan.

At the same time, Algeria and Iran joined hard-line Syria and Libya in denouncing the Jordanian move.

In a telegram to President Reagan, Mubarak called on the United States to take advantage of the Jordanian decision and launch a diplomatic offensive in the Middle East.

"We are confident that the United States, under your leadership, will not hesitate to double its efforts toward achievement of a just and comprehensive peace in the area that would preserve for all peoples their legitimate right to a free and secure existence," Mubarak told the American president.

BPA chief acts reluctant about surcharges

By HAL BERNTON
Times-News writer

BURLEY — Bonneville Power Administrator Peter Johnson hinted Thursday he would be reluctant to impose 10 percent surcharges on regional public utilities that fail to comply with model conservation standards developed for new homes by the Northwest Power Council.

Declaring he prefers "incentives to surcharges," Johnson likened the imposition of penalty rate hikes to trying to accomplish a goal "by hitting someone over the head with a two-by-four."

The surcharges were a hot topic of discussion at an annual BPA meeting in Burley attended by about 75 northern Idaho and northern Nevada public utility officials. Under powers granted in the Northwest Power Act, Johnson "has the authority to levy surcharges on BPA electricity sold to utilities that fail to adapt the model conservation standards by a January 1986 deadline.

Steve Tuft, an attorney for the Heyburn city utility, challenged the economics of the model standards and urged further study before they are mandated.

"There is the perception here of (BPA) grabbing something and then hoping they are cost-effective," Tuft said.

The BPA is now helping to finance the construction of 700 single-family homes that will meet the model conservation standards. The agency plans to monitor the homes to measure the benefits of conservation, but so far has collected very little data.

Tuft said Heyburn city officials would have a difficult time enforcing the new standards and he questioned their adaptation in a period of a regional power surplus.

Johnson told utility officials that he would not turn a deaf ear to their complaints.

"We are listening when we come out here," Johnson said. "You need to tell us how you see us, because that sinks in. We can become self-serving if we just set in Portland and stare at four walls."

Northwest Power Council Commissioner Bob Saxvik, who was contacted after the meeting, disputed Tuft's charge that the conservation standards were hastily drawn up.

"We think they are of a definite benefit to the consumers as a long term investment to conserve energy. For the region, they are a cheaper alternative than coal-fired power plants," Saxvik said.

"The standards were developed out of a public hearing process in which a number of builders attended," he said.

Good news focus of meeting

BURLEY — In recent years, Bonneville Power Administration's annual regional meeting has been dominated by the financial nightmare of the unfinished Washington Public Power Supply System nuclear plants.

But this year BPA administrator Peter Johnson "wanted to talk about some good news."

Johnson said BPA had survived a "firestorm of change" and was now making sound policy decisions rather than acting on "delusions and assumptions which could not be borne out in fact."

Despite the financial difficulties caused by WPPSS, Johnson said the BPA will be able to make a long-deferred $218 million interest payment to the federal government this month.

Johnson spoke of "new realities" that forced the large rate hikes of recent years but have also put the BPA on a sounder financial footing.

Survey says handicapped access poor

By ANNETTE CARY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — "You can't get there from here," says Larry File about downtown Twin Falls.

Even though he lives only a short drive away from the mall, shopping there is a time-consuming, exhausting chore because curbs and decorative cement barriers form an obstacle course for people confined to wheelchairs, he says.

He and other members of Handicaps in Motion are organizing with the Business Improvement District to make the downtown mall more accessible to the handicapped.

In two surveys of the downtown area, members found that 17 curb cuts or ramps and six additional parking spaces reserved for the handicapped are needed.

Chris Valencia, coordinator of the BID, agrees that changes need to be made. But they won't come quickly, she cautions members of the handicapped group who want work started this fall.

The BID is researching federal and local grants available to pay for the project, she says. It has not had a chance to get specifications for improvements, but preliminary research indicates that curb cuts cost as much as $1,000 to $1,200 each, she says.

The BID may be able to find less expensive ways of making the area more accessible to the handicapped, however, such as installing ramps over raised borders in parking lots, she says.

"Now, none of the downtown parking lots are accessible to people in wheelchairs, File says. A cement border, planted with trees and shrubbery in places, keeps cars from entering the alley behind the store from the parking lot and, subsequently, wheelchairs from crossing to the store.

The three spaces for handicapped parking downtown are also impractical, File says. They are spaced far enough apart that a car in the next parking place does "leave people in wheelchairs enough room to maneuver between cars."

But once they get out of their cars, they face the impossible task of jumping the curb on to the sidewalk or wheeling down the street to the nearest alley with a ramped edge for cars.

"Can you imagine wheeling up or down Shoshone to get to an alley?" File asks. Now he cruises his car around downtown until he finds a parking space near an alley or a drive-in bank drive, he says.

It's not a good solution, though, he says. By the time handicapped people pull their bodies in and out of a car and get their 45-pound wheelchairs in and out, they may be tired without having to wheel blocks from parking places to store, he says.

Curb cuts and more handicapped spaces could also help people who need the help of walkers and those who have had a stroke or have cerebral palsy, File says.

The group's next project will be educating local business owners about barriers in their businesses like heavy doors, narrow aisles and steps into their stores, File says.

Farmers band to fight off foreclosures

By BOB FREUND
Times-News writer

JEROME — An alliance of Magic Valley farmers is mustering political heat to try to hold back foreclosures threatened by two government-backed agencies.

Representatives from the Magic Valley Farm Borrowers Association today will ask U.S. Rep. George Hansen to press for fast action in getting a new loan guarantee program for debt-troubled farmers started in Idaho. The U.S. Farmers Home Administration is fielding the program.

"We want to see if we can get all of his colleagues together and get (U.S.) Secretary of Agriculture John Block and Bill Norberg of the state FmHA office to enact the so-called bailout plan — the president's farm plan — within 30 days," said Galen Guthrie of Shoshone, president of the Magic Valley Farm Borrowers Association.

The group, which met in Jerome Wednesday, also wants the state's congressional representatives and senators to pressure the Farm Credit Administration to adhere to its own regulations about liquidating bad debts. The FCA oversees production credit associations.

"I says the first thing the liquidator does is formulate work-out plans," said Harry DeHaan, an attorney representing a number of borrowers.

Agents for the Southern Idaho Production Credit Association, which now is settling accounts of farmers that owe money, consistently refuse to allow farmers to rearrange financing so that they can work their way out of debt, DeHaan and others have charged.

The Southern Idaho PCA went out of active lending last December after the Farm-Credit Administration said it was on the brink of being insolvent. Officials for the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Spokane, which is conducting the liquidation, deny the charges.

The Magic Valley Farm Borrowers Association has been advising farmers for more than a year on ways to avoid losing their farms using the FmHA's own rules and, as a last resort, federal bankruptcy law.

Guthrie urged the group's members to contact Idaho's congressional delegation and said association officers would press both points with Hansen, Rep. Larry Craig, Sen. James McClure and Sen. Steve Symms.

A number of the farmers attending the borrowers' meeting Wednesday night also belong to the Southern Idaho PCA Borrowers Association, which banded together within the last few months.

DeHaan, the Southern Idaho PCA association's attorney, said Wednesday the group now is researching whether the Idaho borrowers can join in some court challenges in Oregon against federal officials who closed

FmHA to push on loan help

BOISE — The Farmers Home Administration in Idaho will beef up staff and start sifting through its 4,400 loans to see how many farmers can qualify for a new aid program.

State FmHA director W.C. Norberg said Thursday that county offices are being ordered to start analyzing the most severe cases of debt in light of a new program announced by President Reagan late last week.

Under the program, the FmHA will be able to set aside as much as 25 percent of a farmer's loan without interest for five years if the delay will put the loan back on a sound payment schedule. The program could hold off as much as $100,000.

Distressed farmers who have FmHA loans also will be able to obtain loan guarantees from the agency if their private lender is willing to write off the delinquent part of the debt, according to Reagan's program.

Norberg said as many as half of the agency's loans in Idaho may be in enough difficulty to qualify for the delayed-interest program.

"I suspect there's probably about 2,000 of our case load that will certainly be looked at first and we'll determine which ones of those... (we can) start under this program," he said.

Both approaches are designed to create positive cash flow. If the farmer still isn't capable of creating enough regular cash flow using the program, "then I guess he's just out of business," said Norberg.

Regulations for the program are scheduled to appear in the Federal Register on Oct. 3. However, most borrowers won't be notified until after they meet the qualifications for the program until their annual loan reviews, which normally come up in the first few months of the year, Norberg indicated.

down production credit associations there.

A lawsuit already filed there claims the Spokane credit bank illegally forced the Willamette Valley PCA out of business when it actually was solvent. A federal judge currently is deciding whether to allow the suit to go forward or to dismiss it.

The FICB in Spokane also oversaw the Southern Idaho PCA before it was dissolved.

Elmore County denies medical indigent claim

By DIANA HOOLEY
Times-News correspondent

GLENN'S FERRY — A medical indigent claim totaling nearly half of Elmore County budget of $100,000 this year has been denied, said County Commissioner John Shrum. Shrum says it is routine to deny a claim where there are questions about the case.

In the case of the hospital bill for the premature infant son of Skip and Darlene Owen of Glenn's Ferry, there were some "extenuating circumstances to consider," says Shrum. Shrum said he and commissioner Bud Riddle met and talked with the Owens about the bill and avenues for payment.

"The process is this: First, we deny the claim, an appeal is made, and then we investigate the case," said Shrum.

He said the commissioners were most concerned about the Owens residency in Idaho and about the possibility of using other financial aid agencies, such as Social Security, to help pay the bill.

"The county is supposed to be the last resort they come to," said Shrum.

Shrum said the Owens were former residents of Alaska and had not lived in Idaho six months before the birth of the baby, meaning they did not meet the Idaho residency requirements. Alaska may be responsible for some of the bill, said Shrum.

"But I'm sure Elmore County will end up paying our share, too," said Shrum. Shrum said the county has other medical indigents they're paying for on a continuing basis. The hospitals inflate its charges to cover bad debts, said Shrum, but when the county is forced to handle a medical indigent, they are given a more realistic figure to pay, which is a percentage of the bill.

Educators discuss CSI student's grade change

By ANNETTE CARY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A registrar, a professor and a student leader from Idaho universities advocated using established channels to deal with grade disputes in a public television report aired this week.

The KAID "Idaho Reports" show considered the grade change ordered by College of Southern Idaho President Gerald Meyerhoeffer for the son of former basketball coach Eddie Sutton.

The grade was changed from an F to an incomplete after Sutton threatened legal action, and Meyerhoeffer learned that incompletes had been awarded in the past, in violation of college regulations detailed in the catalogue.

William Gibson, an Idaho State University English professor and former head of the faculty senate, was asked on the show if he thought it was proper for a college president to become involved in the grading process.

"No," he said. "I don't believe any administrator has a role in deciding upon the grades given to the students. The final responsibility of evaluating performance of students is that of faculty. Administrators are charged with keeping operation of the institution going, not deciding grades."

He said if a president questions a grade, "it's perfectly within his right to have a faculty group look into the justice of the grade. But I can't conceive of a situation in which a president or vice president should intervene directly and mandate it be changed."

"I agree," said Steve Jackson, student body president at Boise State University. "I wouldn't want to see the day President Ketsler is called in to have to determine a grade."

University of Idaho Registrar Matt Tolin "was more circumspect, commenting first on the respect he has for Meyerhoeffer, CSI's registrar and CSI, before commenting on grading policies."

At UI, grades are "basically between the staff and the faculty," Tolin said. "If the student feels he is treated unfairly, he can take it higher through proper channels."

At CSI there is a grade appeals process outlined in the college catalogue, but Meyerhoeffer says none of his staff suggested that as the proper way to handle the dispute until the grade change had been investigated. From now on, all grade disputes will be handled by a grade appeals committee, he says. CSI Registrar John Sims resigned after the grade was changed, saying it was "unethical," "illegal" and violated his duty as registrar to uphold the ethics of the college.

Tolin gave a similar version of the duties of a registrar saying that at UI the registrar "serves as the watchdog, or conscience, to see that (grade) policies are followed as passed by the faculty."

The question of preferential treatment toward athletes was also raised on the KAID show, even though Steve Sutton had quit the CSI basketball team before taking the class for which his grade was changed.

Two basketball players interviewed said they did not receive preferential treatment at CSI.

Home incident brings charges

TWIN FALLS — Dean Robert Beaulieu, 32, 498 Jefferson St., Twin Falls, was arraigned in Fifth District Magistrate Court Thursday on charges including aggravated assault after he allegedly took a gun from a city police officer and threatened another officer.

He also faces battery and resisting arrest charges from an incident at his home Wednesday night.

The complaint filed against Beaulieu alleges that while under the influence of alcohol, he engaged in an argument with his wife, repeatedly hitting her against the furniture and onto the floor. When she fled outside, he followed, pushing her to the ground. Twin Falls police officers R. Tim Miller and Gary D. Motzner responded to a call from Helen Beaulieu requesting her husband be placed under arrest for battery.

In an attempt to arrest Beaulieu, officer Motzner was pushed backwards over a piano stool. During the struggle, Beaulieu allegedly seized officer Miller's revolver from his holster and pointed it at Motzner while the two struggled on the floor. Miller was able to retrieve the gun and Beaulieu was restrained with handcuffs.

A public defender was appointed to represent the defendant on each of the three counts but Magistrate Charles Brunbach ordered him to reimburse the county for the costs. Bail was set at $1,500 for the felony charge of aggravated assault, and $500 each for resisting arrest and battery. Beaulieu entered a plea of not guilty to resisting arrest and battery. He is being held in custody in the Twin Falls county jail.

Two injured in traffic mishaps

TWIN FALLS — Two persons went to Magic Valley Regional Medical Center for emergency treatment Thursday evening as the result of separate accidents.

Scott Ross, 22, of Murtaugh, was injured when his motorcycle he was operating collided with a car on the Artesian Road just north of the Foothill road intersection, south of Murtaugh Lake.

Deputy Sheriff Steve Nutting said Ross was southbound on Artesian Road just before 7 p.m. He was turning left onto a gravel lane just north of the intersection. A southbound car driven by Jeffrey Tipson, 16, of Twin Falls was starting to pass the cycle when the accident occurred.

Ross, who was not wearing a helmet, suffered head cuts when he was thrown from the cycle. Tipson was not injured.

Rex Cordis, 27, of Jerome, escaped with minor injuries in a one-car rollover about 5:55 p.m. near the junction of U.S. Highway 93 and State Highway 74, southwest of Twin Falls. Idaho State Police said cause of the accident had not been determined.

Korean emphasis day planned

TWIN FALLS — The Family Outreach Group will sponsor a Korean Emphasis Day at 3 p.m. Sunday at The Kids' Club, 1102 Main St., Twin Falls. A film showing the work being done by the Holt International Adoption program in Korea will be shown.

Won Cha Baker will present recipes of Korean foods and there will be a display of traditional Korean clothing and information about Korean culture.

Anyone interested in knowing more about adoption and Korean culture is invited. Family Outreach is an adoption support group affiliated with Western Area Concerned Adoptive Parents, Port Angeles, Wash.

For more information contact Cecilia Kimball, 543-5065 or Carolyn Lewis, 734-6111.

Brazil exchange program set

TWIN FALLS — Magic Valley families wishing to host a Brazilian exchange student should contact the Friends in the West program at 374-7493 by Saturday. The three-month program will bring students from Rio De Janeiro, Sao Paulo, and Sao Horizonte to the Northwest United States from mid-December to early March.

Host families provide room and board and a family environment, while student guests are expected to meet any expenses they incur outside the home for entertainment.

Exchange students are required to attend school and perform the work assigned. The students have studied English and are required to take an English proficiency test to enter the program.

Friends in the West provides orientation prior to the arrival of students from Brazil and back-up during the exchange period in case problems arise for the student and host family.

Friends in the West is a private corporation, founded in 1975 and registered with the state of Idaho as a non-profit, tax-exempt organization.

Democrats to host fundraiser

KETCHUM — Jude Hawkes and Melissa Stewart — Democratic candidates for the Idaho House of Representatives from the eight-county Magic Valley floating district — will hold a fund-raising event, featuring the Rosewood County Band at Whiskey Jacques in Ketchum Saturday at 7 p.m.

CSI offers equitation course

TWIN FALLS — A one-credit English Equitation class will begin Monday at the College of Southern Idaho Expo Center.

The students must provide their own horse, saddle and boots. The class meets from 7-10 p.m. Monday and Wednesday through Nov. 7.

Sharyn Olsen of Wendell, who has shown and judged English shows throughout the Northwest, will be the instructor.

Kiwanis planning outdoor sale

WENDELL — The Kiwanis Club in Wendell will have a large outdoor sale Saturday at 9 a.m. in the Idaho First Bank parking lot.

Furniture, clothing, electrical appliances and all other miscellaneous items will be for sale.

Donations are welcome. All proceeds will go to the Kiwanis fund for handicapped children.

Popcorn, corn dogs and hot dogs will also be sold and there will be free coffee.

Insurance Women to gather

TWIN FALLS — Insurance Women of the Magic Valley will conduct the 1994 Idaho Roll Call, a convention of women in the insurance industry, today and Saturday at the Canyon Springs Inn in Twin Falls.

A get-acquainted cocktail and costume party will open the meeting at 7 p.m. today, said Norma Fritzeley, president of Insurance Women of the Magic Valley.

Registration will begin at 8:30 a.m. Saturday. A day-long series of programs includes insurance topics as well as discussions about Social Security and driving safety. A banquet at 7 p.m. Saturday will conclude the meeting.

Plane crash damages trial to hear witness testimony

By DAVE LEWIS Times-News writer

HAILEY — The first week of testimony in the trial for damages brought by two victims of a Transwest Express Airlines jet that crashed near Hailey in 1983 draws to a close today.

Attorneys for the victims are expected to read into the record the testimony taken by expert witnesses, who will not be at the trial and possibly some medical testimony of the two victims injured in the crash.

Next week, much of the same type of testimony is expected. On Wednesday, a safety investigator for DeHavilland of Canada, the manufacturer of DCH-6, twin engine plane, was cross-examined by the attorney for the plane's owner and operator, Sierra Pacific Airlines of Tucson, Ariz.

The airline's counsel, Philip Johnson, tried to get DeHavilland's Lubomyr Gorejko to contradict his testimony on Tuesday that a bolt in the plane's elevator system was improperly installed, fell out and caused the loss of control that put the plane in a near nose dive about 700 feet over Bellevue.

Johnson disputed what Gorejko said earlier was the "right" way to install the bolt connecting a rod at the end of pilot's elevator control line to a tube that runs through the plane's elevator. The connection allows the pilot to manipulate the elevators and control the pitch of the airplane's nose.

Gorejko had testified the proper way to install the bolt was with the tip of the bolt pointing out from the center of the plane. From that position, he said, it could be seen from outside the plane without removing the skin and inspected for having a nut and securing pin in place.

However, under close questioning from Johnson, Gorejko admitted that DeHavilland did not have a recommended way of installing that particular bolt.

In fact, he said, a company manual for one of the DHC-6's three production series includes a picture showing the bolt in the opposite direction from what he recommended — with the tip pointed in toward the center of the plane.

In that position, Gorejko also conceded, someone inspecting the plane could not see if it had a nut or collar pin on it.

"What's a proper direction if there's no recommended direction?" Johnson asked Gorejko.

"In answer," Gorejko said from a mechanic's point of view, it was more logical and "right" to point the bolt from the inside out.

Johnson also questioned Gorejko's facts in a report he wrote for DeHavilland on the accident. In the report, Gorejko relied heavily on fact developed by the National Transportation Safety Board that investigated the accident.

Through his questioning, Johnson said the conclusions were not Gorejko's but those of the NTSB investigators, especially metallurgical tests.

In an attempt to discredit him as an expert witness for the two crash victims, Johnson said Gorejko did not have the knowledge to reach the conclusions of his report.

But, Gorejko said he saw nothing wrong with relying on the evidence found by the NTSB and stuck to his conclusions for the probable cause of the accident.

In the report, Gorejko said the bolt used in the connecting rod attachment was the wrong one and that it had been improperly installed without a nut and securing pin.

The NTSB later reached the same conclusion, blaming Sierra Pacific maintenance workers and inspectors for not putting the bolt in properly and for not making mandatory inspections as directed by the Federal Aviation Administration.

The board said the unsecured bolt had worked out, the pilot lost all control of the plane's elevators and the plane went into a dive-overs-Bellevue on its approach to Friedman Memorial Airport in Hailey.

Johnson also asked Gorejko if DeHavilland has expected their DHC-6's elevator systems to fail for some time.

When Gorejko said the company didn't, Johnson produced four bulletins since 1978 that DeHavilland sent to DHC-6 owners warning them of possible problems in the elevator system.

Although Gorejko said the plane would lose elevator control if two of the parts delt with in the four bulletins failed, he did not say the elevator control system in his DHC-6 was inherently insecure.

Johnson also asked Gorejko why it was he and not another member of the investigating team that found the bolt in the plane's tail.

"They didn't know where to look," said Gorejko, who said he found it lodged next to a strip of channelled metal used in the tail section's structure.

Gorejko said he did not take the bolt out, but let John White of the NTSB take it out because it was not his place to remove it.

The trial brought by two of the plane's six passengers could last until the end of October.

BPA

Now the size of the rate hikes will slow, he said.

BPA power rates for a two-year period beginning next July will rise at only a 4.5 percent annual rate, he said. These rate hikes are much lower than recent annual increases of 10 percent, 67 percent, 57 percent and 22 percent, he said.

Another element of the new realities is a continuing surplus of electricity, Johnson said.

BPA's latest power load prediction indicates that regional electrical demand in the year 2005 will be 1,000 megawatts less than the amount predicted in their 1993 forecasts.

Even if the Northwest suffers a series of low water years, the power surplus is likely to continue at least until 1997, said BPA forecaster Ed Sienkiewicz.

Bowie says 'bye

NEW YORK (AP) — It came in the 15th year and seventh month of his career as commissioner of baseball, Bowie Kuhn left office, literally, for the last time.

Kuhn spent his last day in office Thursday, stacking papers and books, taking pictures from the walls and loading boxes with the help of his daughter, Alix.

Although he relishes as commissioner until Monday, when Peter Ueberroth takes over, he moved his belongings out four days early so he could accept an invitation to attend the Korean World Series in Seoul, starting Sunday.

His day began with an appearance on the "Today Show," continued with as much of the normal office routine as possible and ended in front of a small group of photographers and newsmen. They were there to chronicle the transition to the new commissioner.

"You do know the day is coming, but it's still a shock when it does," Kuhn said shortly before walking out the door at 350 Park Avenue in midtown Manhattan for the last time as commissioner.

"I've had a few years to think about it, so presumably it should not be a monumental thing, but it still is," said Kuhn, who took office on Feb. 4, 1969, succeeding Gen. William Eckert and becoming baseball's fifth commissioner.

Alongside the wall in a hallway outside his office rested an autographed LeRoy Neiman lithograph of Willie Stargel, No. 1 in a limited edition of 300 prints. It used to hang behind the commissioner's desk. Next to the print were more than 20 boxes, and down another hallway there were more boxes, the accumulation of nearly 16 years as commissioner.

Kuhn, who turns 58 next month, worked among the papers and boxes in shirt sleeves, no jacket. His shirt, not looking nearly as stuffed as some have joked, was slightly damp and framed by suspenders. He wore the ever-present polite smile, but there were thoughts in his mind that were not so evocative of smiling.

He would return from Korea in time for this country's World Series, he said, but he had not made up his mind whether he would be at home or elsewhere.

"There's a weekend during the Series that might be my last chance to see the leaves in Vermont. I have a place up there, and I might be there," he said, adding that he would watch the World Series on television.

"It'll be a different experience," he said, "a little on the pensive side, perhaps. But being away from the responsibility of the game, I can root for whom I want." And which team would become the object of his partisanship? "I can't answer that. I'm still the commissioner until Oct. 1," he said, still smiling. "Ask me in Korea."

He stood behind his desk. One camera crew had arrived to film his departure and a couple of still photographers were there. He picked up a baseball and signed it to the name that had been atop all the official stationery of the commissioner's office for the past 15½ years.

"Now that's a poignant note, isn't it?" he said. "I'm signing my last baseball."

His last as the commissioner of baseball.

Carey meets Shoshone in league battle

By STEVE CRUMP
Times-News sports editor

SHOSHONE. — Shoshone Coach Larry Bond figures it will be a test of his defense against the Carey passing tandem of Kendall Peck and Will Neal. Carey Coach Heber Kirkland thinks it will be a case of his defense against Shoshone tailback Charles Sandy.

Whatever it turns out to be, tonight's Highway 83 showdown between the Indians and the Panthers could quite possibly decide the Sawtooth Conference championship. Shoshone, at 4-0 and ranked fourth in the state among eight-man teams in the latest Associated Press poll, has scored an average of 41 points a game this season, including a 44-24 rout last week over North Gem in which the Indians rolled up 455 yards total offense. Carey, 2-0 and rated No. 3 in the state, has outscored its two opponents 112-16, despite the presence of a new quarterback and only three seniors on the squad.

A win for the Indians would go a long way toward reserving them a spot in the eight-man state playoffs, which begin in November. It would also do much to re-establish a winning football tradition that has been gone from Shoshone for a few years.

"I just can't say enough good things about the way we played last week (against North Gem)," says Bond. "It's taken a long time, but the players are coming around and playing tough football."

In the two years that Shoshone has been a member of the Sawtooth Conference, Carey has won their encounters handily — 20-6 last season and 72-6 in 1982.

"In the last two games we've played, they've outscored us 92-12," says Bond. "We'd like to beat them this time."

For the Panthers, the incentives are different but just as strong. When quarterback Brad Tingey and linebacker Mark Conrad, the nucleus of the players who took Carey to the state playoffs in 1982, graduated last spring, the feeling was that it would take awhile for Kirkland to put together another winning team. Early indications are to the contrary.

"I've been mildly surprised," says Kirkland. "For a team with only three seniors, we've done pretty well."

Peck, a 6-foot, 150-pound senior who played running back last year, and Neal, a 5-11, 140-pound senior wide receiver, have hooked up for six

Quick facts

Time: 8 p.m. today.
Site: Shoshone High School.
Coach: Heber Kirkland, Carey, 25 (fourth year); Larry Bond, Shoshone, NA.
Series: Carey leads 3-0; the Panthers won the last meeting, 20-6, in 1982.
Sawtooth Conference records: Both teams are 2-0.
Offense: Both teams operate from I formations. Defense: Carey uses the 4-4 defense; Shoshone the 4-2.
Injuries: Neither team reports any disabling injuries.
Last week: Carey defeated Richfield, 26-16; Shoshone beat North Gem 44-24.
Next week: Shoshone plays at Rockliffe; Carey hosts North Gem.
Statistics: None available.
Starting lineup: Offense: Carey: QB — Kendall Peck (6-0, 150), senior; TD — Mike Peterson (5-11, 160), junior; FB — Jack York (6-0, 180), junior; E — Will Neal (5-11, 160), senior; E — Kevin Willard (5-10, 160), junior; G — Russ Ridd (5-6, 150), junior; G — Jeff Meacham (6-0, 170), sophomore; C — Chad Jolley (6-1, 170), senior; PK — Peck.
Shoshone: QB — Wade Cooper (5-11, 150), junior; RB — Charles Sandy (6-1, 160), senior; or Shane Ransom (5-10, 160), senior; E — Tom Hillard (5-7, 150), senior; E — Kelly Duffin (6-4, 185), sophomore; E — George Salmer (6-0, 160), sophomore; G — John Hillard (5-7, 150), junior; G — Curtis Taber (5-2, 165), junior; PK — Tim Rowlan (5-2, 150), junior.
Starting lineup: Defense: Carey: T — Scott Pyrah (6-0, 150), junior; T — Meacham (E — York); E — Peterson, LB — Peck; DB — Neal; DB — Willard; P — Peck.
Shoshone: T — Hillard; T — Taber; E — Guy Hoakins (6-0, 150), senior; E — Duffin; LB — Stearns or Ransom; or Curtis Sandy; DB — Charles Sandy; DB — Cooper; P — Duffin.

touchdowns in two games, a few of them bombs. Containing the pair will be the focus of Shoshone's defensive efforts.

"They're two good ballplayers," says Bond. "To beat Carey, you've got to stop Peck passing to Neal." "Shoshone is a very well-coached team," says Kirkland. "They function very well as a unit, and the players have been together for a long time. I think we're going to have our hands full, because they have an excellent pass defense."

For Kirkland, the real challenge will be held Sandy in check. The 6-1, 160-pound senior rushed for 122 yards last season. *See DUEL on Page B8.

Thoughts turn to who can win Series

By JOHN NELSON
The Associated Press

Doug Rader, the outspoken, occasionally zany manager of the Texas Rangers, has an interesting theory about playoff and World Series predictions.

Asked whom he picks, he replies: "I don't know, and I don't care, and no one else cares either."

And that would be all there was to it, if Rader's theory was universally held. Obviously, it is not, and with the League Championship Series scheduled to start next Tuesday, there are quite a few other theories being propounded.

"I picked San Diego at the start of the year to win it all," says Cleveland Indians outfielder Brett Butler, a former National League star with Atlanta. "But my heart's with Chicago."

"I haven't hasn't been pressured, and I think they'll win the American League because of their pitching. My feeling now is that Chicago is going to win it all because they've been pushed all year, and they're hungry," Butler says. "I think it will be Detroit and Chicago (in the World Series), with Chicago winning."

Analysis

The Tigers, who started the season by winning 25 of their first 40 games, clinched the AL East Division on Sept. 18. San Diego clinched the NL West on Sept. 20, while Chicago did not eliminate New York from the NL East play until last Monday.

The AL West is baseball's only unskewed division with two teams still mathematically involved. With a day off on Thursday, the Kansas City Royals led Minnesota by 2 games and California, which was eliminated Thursday night, by 4.

The Twins began a four-game, season-ending series at Cleveland Thursday night by losing 4-3. The Royals resume play tonight with three games at Oakland. The Royals' magic number with Minnesota is three, meaning any combination of Kansas City victories or Twins losses totaling three would eliminate Minnesota.

Winners of 102 ballgames going into Thursday night's series opener at New York, the Tigers already have been conceded the world championship by many. But he remembers only too well the fate that can befall a front-running ballclub in the playoffs. Since the current playoff format began in 1969, the AL has been won seven times by the team with the poorer record. The same thing has happened five times in the NL, once to Anderson's Cincinnati Reds in 1973 when they lost to the New York Mets.

The key is pitching, Anderson says, and that's why he would prefer Minnesota over Kansas City as a playoff opponent to face his three right-handed pitchers.

"We match up better with the Twins," he says. "They have two left-handed hitters at Minnesota. Kansas City's got four right-handed hitters and five left-handed."

"I figure it's Detroit and Chicago in the Series," says Mike Hargrove of the Indians. "Whoever gets the best pitching wins it. They're obviously the two strongest teams. I haven't seen much of San Diego, white bats (Rich) Gossage, and that could make a difference."

Allen steps down as Wranglers' coach

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — George Allen, saying it was "a day of sadness" for a day of work, resigned Thursday as head coach of the United States Football League's Arizona Wranglers, apparently ending his 14-year pro coaching career.

Allen, 66, said he would remain with the organization as chairman of the board and part owner. He named assistant coach and offensive coordinator Paul Lantham as his successor.

Lantham, 53, told a hastily called news conference that "this is a day of great mixed emotions for me. How do you replace a legend?"

"Although Allen did not completely close the door toward his possible return to coaching, he said he would "be there to help" Lantham, who has never been a head coach before.

"He won't falter. Paul will do a good job. He's an old friend and a colleague who's been with me since I stepped back in my days with the Washington Redskins in the National Football League," Allen said. "I'll be here every day trying to make this franchise successful. I'm not leaving football. I'm just changing jobs."

Allen, who led the Wranglers to the Western Conference championship last season, said he reached his decision to step down about midnight Wednesday night and informed team owner Dr. Ted Diethrich over dinner.

"I left the table in tears," said Diethrich, a noted Phoenix heart surgeon. "I know this was the end of a coaching relationship and I was deeply saddened to see that. But Coach really isn't leaving. He'll be advising us on a daily basis."

Near-anonymous narrator Facenda owned a golden voice

A truly singular man died Wednesday, departing this world in relative obscurity. Apart from his family and friends, few will remember him. Only us sports freaks. His name was John Facenda. I have no idea what he looked like. I don't know if he even played sports. Until I read his surprisingly long 600-word obituary. The Associated Press composed. I knew essentially nothing about him.

another singing group. He was the best. If you've watched some of NFL Films' presentations, you probably heard Facenda's voice without knowing to whom it belonged. But you realized it was distinctive. It conveyed delicious tension without being tense. It brought excitement to a game that had long since occurred, a season that had grown old, a player from another era. Whether or not the moment or the man Facenda was describing deserved high drama, he provided that quality, leaving the listener not only entertained, but also enthralled. His voice was virtually a monotone, and yet it was dynamic. For it was rich and mellifluous while remaining steady. It provided a necessary counterpoint to the fury the films depicted and the maddening background music that had been selected to accompany the action.

Mostly, Facenda could heighten feeling. "It was third down and three for the Cowboys," he would solemnly intone as a unereal drumroll played and opposing linemen stared grimly at each other. The urgency would seize you: "This was 'n't just third down and three, — this was an apocalyptic moment, one which would decide not only the game's outcome but the future of civilization."

Without Facenda's voice, they were just highlight films. With it, they became excellent theatre. With it they had an effect they might not have left otherwise. For example, in NFL Films' "The Best Ever" series, one segment focuses on top quarterbacks in league history. Four signal-callers are singled out, the last being Johnny Unitas. This implies, of course, that Unitas was the finest performer to put his hands underneath a center's bottom.

Now you can argue endlessly about who was the best quarterback ever. But you lose all desire to do so upon listening to Facenda. Unitas' segment, and the film, ends with a slow-motion shot of No. 19 walking off the field. "Many quarterbacks have been compared to John Unitas. . . . Facenda observes. Then he adds, ' . . . but John Unitas has been compared to none.'"

Some credit belongs to the writer: who conceived this line. But the steady assurance of Facenda's delivery gives the words their real impact. It is the same feeling Walter Cronkite used to give viewers of television news. If he says it's so, it's so.

John Facenda turned every game into Gettysburg, every season every World War II, every player into Hercules. Go ahead, say it's all hogwash. Say that athletes and athletes shouldn't be put on this kind of pedestal, even if it is for a simple film. Say that Facenda's narrative distorts perspective.

Any you'd be missing the point. Athletics, at the spectator level, is meant for entertainment. And John Facenda excelled at making football engaging, engrossing. The show might be brief, but his voice was memorable. He made you want to tune in again.

Bamberger back as Brewers manager

GEORGE BAMBERGER
In for Rene Lachemann, who was fired

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Milwaukee Manager Rene Lachemann, whose Brewers will finish in last place in the American League East, was fired Thursday and George Bamberger was named to replace him in 1985.

Lachemann was not present at the news conference and could not be reached for comment. He will manage the team for the final three games of the season at home against Toronto.

"Anyone who has followed Milwaukee baseball knows George has been here before and has been extremely successful," Brewers' General Manager Harry Dalton said at a news conference. "He was a positive, aggressive manager, handled pitchers well, was popular with his players and his fans and had the best winning percentage of any season in Brewer history back in 1979.

"Also, because of his ability in handling pitching, he's the right man to help the club now because we have a number of young pitchers on the horizon who I think can really help this ball club," he said.

Dalton said Bamberger was offered the job Tuesday and accepted it Wednesday.

Bamberger, 59, who served as manager of the Brewers from 1978-1980 before stepping down after undergoing heart surgery, was signed to a two-year contract.

"I'm happy I got the chance to manage the Brewers again," Bamberger said. "Bud Selig (club president), Harry Dalton, the front office, players and fans have been fantastic to me. I should have never left."

Bamberger compiled records of 93-69 and 95-66 in 1978-1979, before leaving after only 92 games in 1980. He rejoined the Brewers on June 6, 1980 and managed until Sept. 6, before resigning to move into the front office.

Bamberger was named to manage the New York Mets Oct. 20, 1981, and held that position until June 2, 1983. He has worked with the Mets' minor league system since then.

Lachemann, 39, was hired by the Brewers last Oct. 3 to replace Harvey Kuenn. He was expected to put some fire into a team that had won the league title two seasons ago.

But the Brewers, saddled with numerous injuries throughout this season, never got untracked. The last time they finished in the cellar was in 1976.

Lachemann will manage the team for its final three games this season.

Among those injured for most of the season were pitchers Rolfe Fingers and Pete Vuckovich and third baseman Paul Molitor. More than 10 players have been on the disabled list.

Milwaukee got off to a rocky 1-6 start this season and never recovered. It came within four games of the .500 mark before the All-Star break, but lost four straight games and fell to 39-47.

Banks to 'rejoin' Cubs

CHICAGO (AP) — Hall of Famer Ernie Banks has been named an honorary member of the 1984 Chicago Cubs and will sit on the team's bench during the National League Championship Series against San Diego next week, the club announced Thursday.

"I stand here representing 30 years of Cubs players who didn't have an opportunity to be on a championship team, and millions and millions of fans who suffered during that time," Banks said.

He will throw out the first ball before the first game of the championship series Tuesday, Green said. Long-time sportscaster Jack Brickhouse, a vice-president of the team and a member of baseball's Hall of Fame, will throw out the first ball before Wednesday's second playoff game.

Wrestlers sought at CSI
TWIN FALLS — Interest is being sought for the organization of a wrestling club at the College of Southern Idaho. The group, if it reached sufficient size, would engage in intercollegiate competition. Wrestlers of all weights are urged to contact Dave Ollin at 733-9554, ext. 291.

Ex-Eagle runs for Augustana
SIOUX FALLS, S.D. — Les Woods, a former runner for the College of Southern Idaho, is a member of the Augustana men's cross country team this fall. Woods is listed as the school's third man and will taste his first varsity action this weekend in the Mankato State Invitational in Minnesota.

Wood River booters triumph
TWIN FALLS — Wood River Junior High School received three goals from Brad Roberson Thursday afternoon and defeated a team from the Twin Falls Recreation Department, 4-2, at Stuart Junior High. John McDonald added a goal for Wood River, which faces a team from Gooding at 4:30 today in Halley.

Celtics' Maxwell a holdout
BOSTON (AP) — Forward Cedric Maxwell, a free agent, has rejected a contract offer from the Boston Celtics and will not be at the National Basketball Association team's training camp when it opens today. "We made our offer, they chose not to accept it," said Jan Volk, general manager of the Celtics. "As of right now, there are no further talks scheduled."

Maxwell's agent, Ron Grinker, declined to give details of what Maxwell wants or the Celtics offered, but Maxwell reportedly is looking for a five-year contract at about $800,000 per year.

SuperSonics cut Fred Brown
SEATTLE (AP) — The Seattle SuperSonics say that guard Fred Brown, a 13-year National Basketball Association veteran, doesn't fit into their plans for the 1984-85 season, making him a free agent and leaving his NBA future in doubt. "We are going to training camp without Fred Brown," Sonics' General Manager Les Hobeegger said Thursday. "We like the team we have and training camp will give us a chance to see what we have. At this point, we are not thinking of signing Fred."

Brown, 36, who has spent his entire professional career with the Sonics, said he was undecided if he would retire. However, he said he would not seek out another team.

Heathcote has heart attack
EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Jud Heathcote, Michigan State basketball coach, was hospitalized Thursday after suffering a heart attack while working at Jenison Field House on campus, a university spokesman said. Dr. David Hough, director of sports medicine at the university, described Heathcote's condition as stable.

Heathcote, 57, was taken to St. Lawrence Hospital in Lansing after complaining of chest pains. He had no previous problem of heart condition.

Perkins receives ultimatum
DALLAS (AP) — General Manager Norm Sonju of the Dallas Mavericks says that No. 1 draft choice Sam Perkins has until 6:30 p.m. Saturday to accept the National Basketball Association team's final contract offer. "I never make threats," Sonju said. "But the bottom line is I'm not increasing this offer."

Perkins' attorney, Lee Fentress, told the Dallas Morning News that he was surprised by the hard line. He said Sonju never said the offer was final or that there was a deadline.

The newspaper said the offer apparently averages about $500,000 per year for five years but is complicated by a $250,000 signing bonus, a large loan, insurance and deferred payments.

U.S.-Australia Davis Cup
PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — John McEnroe of the United States and Pat Cash of Australia, the best players on their respective teams, will meet in the opening match today when the nations begin the semifinals of their Davis Cup tennis series.

The pairings were determined in a draw ceremony Thursday. Jimmy Connors of the United States will meet John Fitzgerald of Australia in today's second singles match at the Portland Memorial Coliseum.

A rumor — Torre to Expos
ATLANTA (AP) — Atlanta Braves Manager Joe Torre says rumors that he may be managing the Montreal Expos next year are just that — rumors. "No, that's not true," he told The Atlanta Journal Thursday. "I haven't talked to anybody."

Pete Rose, Cincinnati's player-manager, said Wednesday night that he had heard Torre might be going to Montreal. Torre signed a two-year extension on his contract with Atlanta in July. Atlanta owner Ted Turner has said he would meet with his staff, probably next week, to discuss Torre's future with the Braves. The Expos fired Manager Bill Virdon last month, replacing him with Uln Fanning on an interim basis. John Mullen, the Braves' general manager, said the Expos have not asked permission to talk with Torre.

Bruin boys, Wood River girls capture J-Club invitational

By FLYNN McROBERTS
Times-News correspondent

JEROME — Finally. For the first time this season, the Bruin boys cross country team was able to field an entirely "healthy" squad.

The Bruin-harriers provided an impressive performance, capturing the J-Club Invitational meet at the Jerome Country Club Thursday.

Topping rival Jerome 35-47, Twin Falls placed four runners in the top 10 after their team championship on the flat course against the Tigers, Minico and Wood River.

"It's nice to have everybody back," said boys' Coach Jerry Kleinkopf of the victory, but added that part of the squad needs more time to get conditioned.

"Obviously (Terry) Molyneux and (John) Deremiah aren't in shape yet. Terry was really laboring this meet," he said of his two varsity members who've been sidelined with injuries this fall.

Twin Falls' Rod Uribe cruised to the individual title. With his 17:37 finish, he was the only racer to cross the finish line under 18 minutes.

"He smoked the race," said Kleinkopf of Uribe's finish that placed him far ahead of Minico's Jose Vega, at 18:02, and Jerome's Bryan Bolich, at 18:33.

Molyneux placed second on the Bruin squad, finishing sixth overall, just ahead of Rick Valdez at eighth and Chris Scholes in ninth.

In the girls' race, Jerome's Laura Jensen grabbed the lead immediately and held on to upset Wood River's Maureen McGinnis, the meet's defending champion. Jenny Hamann topped the list of Twin Falls runners, coming in on McGinnis' heels in third. McGinnis led a dominant Wolverine team, which placed all five of its scorers in the top 10 and stole team honors. Wood River compiled 31 points to Twin Falls' 47 and Jerome's 78.

Twin Falls girls' Coach Duane Stands said the absence of bigger schools probably had an effect on the team performance.

"They weren't as keyed up. I don't think they got pumped as a team without those A-I schools," he said.

Rachelle Thompson's seventh-place finish was the Bruins' only other top 10 effort.

Tennant, Rich, 18:41; & Valdez, Twin Falls, 18:54; 9. Scholes, Twin Falls, 19:03; 10. Leavitt, Jerome, 19:10.

Three share early lead at LaJet golf tourney

ABILENE, Texas (AP) — Ronnie Black and rookie Brett Upper both spoke of experience, of the maturing process necessary on the PGA Tour, after they moved into a tie for the first-round lead in the $350,000 LaJet Golf Classic.

"I have gained immeasurable experience in the last two years," said Black, now in his third season on the tour and a two-time winner.

"It's just experience. My game has matured. I'm a better driver, a better putter, I hit the ball better," Black said Thursday after his 6-under-par 66 had given him a tie for the lead with Upper and Jodie Mudd.

But Tom Watson, trying to nail down a record sixth Player of the Year title, spoke of a problem that has nothing to do with experience — a reluctant putter.

"It's just putting — just like it was at Milwaukee," said Watson, who made a last-minute entry in this event in an effort to protect his two-point lead on the Player of the Year standings.

"I made a couple of no-brainers (a 35-footer for birdie and a 45-footer for eagle-3), but the putts I needed to make, I either mis-hit or misread," Watson said after his 70 in the chilly, cloudy weather.

PGA champion Lee Trevino had the same total on the 7,166-yard Fairway Oaks Golf Club course that was robbed of its natural defense by the absence of wind.

A single stroke off the pace at 67 were Card Byrum, Howard Twitty, Canadian Dan Hallstrom, Mark Brooks, Dan Fossman, Jim Simons and Vance Heafner.

Upper finished off his effort with birdies on the last two holes, Black, a winner in the Anheuser-Busch earlier this year, rebounded from a tee shot into the water on the 10th with birdies on the 11th and 12th.

Gary a tough match Player

VIRGINIA WATER, England (AP) — South Africa's Gary Player, the veteran in the field, defeated Japan's Tommy Nakajima 5 and 4 Thursday in the first round of the $183,000 Suntory World Match Play Championship.

Player, 48, produced a sparkling round of 64 in the morning session and needed only 14 more holes after lunch to clinch his place in the second round.

Other first-round winners included Corey Pavin of the United States, Toru Nakamura of Japan and Nick Faldo of Britain.

Pavin beat Howard Clark 3 and 2, Faldo defeated American Craig Stadler by the same score, while Nakamura edged Sam Torrance 2 and 1.

All matches in this four-day, head-to-head tournament are over 36 holes.

"That was as good a performance as I've produced here over the years," said Player, who appeared at the inaugural match play championship in 1963 and has missed only one since then.

Duel

last week against North Gem, 126 yards the week before against Leadore and 264 yards on Sept. 7 against Camas County.

But Kirkland also notes that Shoshone quarterback Wade Cooper is a threat in his own right. The 5-11, 150-pound junior burned North Gem for 242 yards on just nine passes last week.

"It's interesting that both Shoshone and ourselves run the same offenses," says Kirkland. "Defensively, I hope that helps us."

Kirkland expects a high-scoring game. Bond, who gave much of the credit for the victory over North Gem to his offensive and defensive lines, does not.

"Basically, it's going to be a tough ballgame," he says.

If Carey wins tonight, it still must play North Gem in Carey next week. But Bond says a victory for the Indians will put the worst of Shoshone's regular-season schedule behind it.

"We would be 5-0, with Clark (County), Rockland and two teams we've already beaten, Camas (County) and Richfield left on our schedule," he says. "Those two games would be our toughest, though."

Two teams from the Sawtooth Conference will advance to the state playoffs.

Kickoff time is 8 p.m. at the Shoshone High field.

Renaissance Academy slate fairly bulges

By TERRY RICH HARTLEY
Times-News correspondent

TWIN FALLS — With a full faculty and a welcome grant from the Idaho Commission on the Arts, the Renaissance Academy of the Arts in Twin Falls has shifted into high gear. Its calendar is bulging with a potpourri of entertainment as well as classes for up and coming talent.

Further, the academy is in the process of setting up a musical lending library to allow students to defray the cost of buying music and is seeking donors who would like to contribute sheet music; music books and other related items to the library.

Martha Mead, who has recently joined the faculty, is director of the musical "Snoopy," which recently performed before Twin Falls audiences. She will be taking the show to the Oakley Playhouse Saturday at 2:30 and 8 p.m.

Next on the agenda at the academy is classical guitarist Gordon Rowland, who will appear Oct. 6 at 8 p.m. for a recital of Baroque, Spanish and Modern guitar music. Rowland has studied extensively in the U.S. and in Spain.

On Oct. 17, La Bottine Sourlante (The Smiling Boot), a traditional folk group from the Province of Quebec, Canada will perform. Combining numerous instruments, voices and traditional foot tapping into a combination of music in French, Irish, Scottish and English traditions, La Bottine will perform at 8 p.m.

Also on Oct. 19 the Magic Valley Dilettantes will present "The Great White Way," an evening of song and dance.

Then on Oct. 31, Rosalie Sorrells will appear at 9 p.m. for "a haunting performance." Prizes will be given for costumes at this Halloween treat where Sorrells will use her unique music and story telling style for songs and tales of hobgoblins and black magic. Ery Johnson will present his "One Man Hemingway" at the College of Southern Idaho on Nov. 2 at 8 p.m.

Back at the academy Nov. 14, guitarist Chris Proctor will perform at 8 p.m. Proctor, who has made many appearances in Twin Falls, is the 1981 Guitarr National Finger Picking Champion. His music is a blend of jazz and classical music.

For the classical music lovers, Nov. 17 at 8 p.m. will bring Robert Newman and Don Royster to the academy stage with music of the romantic and classical eras. Newman, a baritone, is a 1983 San Francisco opera regional finalist, and Royster is a German leader (third songs) pianist.

The Art Songs Renaissance Arts and Crafts Fair will be held Nov. 23 and 24, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily. "Siftin'ly" good food is promised, as well as music, magic and puppetry, and arts and crafts from throughout the state.

With harmonies and smooth instrumentation blended into their performance of Western, Scottish and English folk tunes and many original compositions, the Boulder Brothers are slated for Dec. 1 at 8 p.m. Local residents may remember them from last summer's Western Days Jamboree.

"Baroque To Blues" is the theme for Dec. 2 at 2:30 p.m. when James Hopper and George Thomason work through the gambit from Baroque music for guitar and recorder to Gershwin for guitar and clarinet and everything in between. Hopper and Thomason are professors of Music from Boise State University.

On Dec. 5 at 8 p.m. will be a student recital for local youth; Dec. 7 at 8 p.m. brings the Bruce Rankin Quartet. For jazz buffs, the quartet plays the Claude Bolling Suite for flute and jazz piano.

Charles Dickens' "A Christmas Carol" ends the year Dec. 21 and 22 at 8 p.m. with a cast composed of the Renaissance Players. The evening will be topped off with a selection of Christmas carols.

As yet unscheduled, the new year is to be kicked off by native concert violinist, Jo Alla Bishop Gledel, and concert pianist, Willetta Warburg, when they join in a recital at the academy.

Throughout the year, showings by Idaho artists are slated for the academy's public gallery; while instructions in vocal, instrument and dance are available.

Artists wanting display space and aspiring students are asked to call 734-0719 for scheduling.

Hailey artist's work appears in magazine

Ants' ways subject of all-art piece

By TERRY RICH HARTLEY
Times-News correspondent

HAILEY — John D. Dawson of Hailey recently put his wildlife art before 44 million viewers.

He illustrated what is considered the largest "all art" article ever published by National Geographic magazine. The article, "Ways of the Ant," is featured in the June issue of the magazine and displays Dawson's immense talent for detailed, realistic work.

Page after page of the fascinating world of ants is unveiled by the artist in a number of illustration mediums: painting, pencil, pencil with wash, pen and ink and pen and ink with wash.

A two-year investment of time and work, Dawson considers the project the epitome of his career to now.

"Working with Geographic was a dream come true," the artist says. "It was all first rate. For one of the very few times in my life, I had all the best expertise backing me."

Dawson says he was given whatever it took to get the "closest to perfection" possible.

"They gave me the time, their experience and knowledge, and teamed me up with one of the very best authorities in the world on ants to produce superior quality illustrations."

"I had it all going for me. All I had to do was execute. And that was the fun part," he says.

But, it appears the artist really does have it all going for him, and not because others are helping. Before Geographic, the illustrator had placed art in top publications, including Time-Life Books, Reader's Digest Books and numerous magazines, ranging from Smithsonian Life to Psychology Today.

He's also done many paintings for zoos, museums, the Department of Agriculture, Department of Interior and other public and private agencies.

Dawson's climb has been on a steady keel since graduating from the Art Center School in Los Angeles in 1959. After a term in the Army, he says he worked at an association for the largest advertising agency in San Diego for 16 years while also maintaining an over-active, free-lance career.

John Dawson's illustrations of ants, like this one showing beetles imitating their communications codes, are featured in National Geographic Magazine

But, during the summers, it became his habit to travel to Idaho's Wood River Valley for fishing and hiking. Finally, in 1977, Dawson and wife, Kathleen, who handles research and managing for his work, and two children moved to a house overlooking the Big Wood River, leaving California and the ad agency behind.

"I love this place," he says of his adopted state. "I would never leave. Everything I want is here. But, Kathleen and I realized even before we moved here that the local art work, good as it is, could not support us. We also figured out that none of the major work in the country was going to walk up to us."

Dawson says that they travel to show his work and abilities, adding, "We believe in personal contact, and it works for us. It's one of the only ways I as a free-lance wildlife illustrator can survive here. And it's worth it."

At the moment, the Dawson's have just returned from a two-week journey on a commission for a canyonlands book for the National Park Service. Dawson says he's starting 80 to 100 illustrations for the book.

To do this he'll work from some 300 snapshots they took and another 200 to 300 sketches he has done.

"There's a lot of observation involved," he says. "The photos are of geography and large animals, while the sketches are of the ground: rocks, driftwood, little flowers and bushes."

The artist is continuing to work with National Geographic on two future projects, while continuing to do a great deal of work for other national clients.

On a local level, he's done a number of projects which include, the "Great Yourself to Sun Valley" poster, "The Best of Idaho," "Footprints" poster, the 1984 Insulture of the American West poster and "Parke in the West," commemorating their annual summer conference.

Also, he helps at workshops in conjunction with the Sun Valley Arts Center.

Jazz Ambassadors display discipline

By DEAN S. MILLER
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Army dress blues and brass buttons, ribbons and sleeves do not conjure the unkempt bluesmen in afterhours jam sessions associated with jazz history.

When The Jazz Ambassadors of The United States Army Field Band opened their Thursday night show at the College of Southern Idaho Auditorium with a solemnly singing "Star Spangled Banner," military discipline remained in evidence.

Then the band stood at ease and blasted into "Focus," by saxophone section leader, Eugene Thorne. Soloists John DeSalme (tenor saxophone) and Greg Reese (trumpet) broke ranks, went AWOL and returned just in time for the band to settle into a pleasant rendition of the standard "Georgia."

A medley of big band era hits started the trombone section snuffing and living through swing favorites by Goodman, Miller, Tommy Dorsey, James, Ellington, Kenton and Basie.

Review

No stiff upper lip in the 19-musician band could have survived intact through the walls and rips of that medley, and by the time the band took a breath to begin another Thorne arrangement, military stiffness had beat a retreat.

Chief Warrant Officer and band leader Paul A. Chiaravalle relinquished control of the band for Thorne's moody, elegant "Caribbean Fantasy." Thorne's chart opened with flutes and bass clarinet, and progressed into an extended and complex percussion passage evoking a sticky island night.

In keeping with "Fantasy," the band followed with the pensive Thad Jones standard, "A Child Is Born" and then marched into a swinging "When the Saints Go Marchin' In." Trumpeter Don Ryer stood front and center to sing Lou Rawls' "How I Wish" and Joe Williams' bluesy "You're The One."

Closing the first half of the show, the band ripped through "Wild Apple Honey."

The band is mid-way through its yearly fall tour and will visit thirteen states in a string of one-night stands that started in Honolulu and will end near their home base at Fort Mead, Maryland.

Trumpeter Rick Aspel's composition, "Mon Premier Chanson" opened the second half of the show.

The unlikely, but delightful combination of bowed string bass and baritone saxophone opened the next tune, "A Smile Called Greg." Les Owen played the tank-unwieldy baritone saxophone with rare grace and control.

Ryer took to the microphone again, joined by John Montgomery for a medley of vocal styles from Sinatra to Nat King Cole to Tony Bennett to Stevie Wonder.

Stepping back into their dress blues, The Ambassadors swung through a moderately subversive "Stars & Stripes, Forever" with the original John Philip Sousa piccolo solo playing straight man to the mugging and dancing in the trombone section.

The Ambassadors will play in Idaho Falls tonight.

Basque dinner scheduled

By TERRY RICH HARTLEY
Times-News correspondent

HAILEY — The 33rd annual Basque dinner sponsored by St. Charles Catholic Church in Hailey is scheduled for Oct. 6.

Heaping plates of Basque roast lamb, Spanish rice, Basque beans and parsley potatoes will be served from 5 to 8 p.m.

Dedicated to the late Epl. Inchausti and Domingo Anselgu, the dinner will be followed by a dance — and to the Basque, "dance" and "fiat" are synonymous.

The Oinkari Basque Dancers from Boise will keep things stirred up with performances during the dinner and later at the dance, while the little Basque dancers, who range in age from 3 to 13, will add their touch. Music is to be provided by Jim Jasauro and his orchestra.

Marsha Riemann, publicity worker, says last year's dinner was attended by some 500 people. "We're getting to the point where we're going to need a larger facility," she says of the event, which is now held at St. Charles Parish Hall.

Begun in 1951 by Father Thomas Heeran, the event is the only large fund-raising project of the year, says Riemann. She says the funds are used in operating the church.

Riemann says the dance was added three years ago because everyone enjoyed themselves so much at the dinner that they wanted to stay. She says the dance might last as late as 1 a.m.

Tale of 2 tenors bothers Met opera

By MARY CAMPBELL
The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Offenbach's "The Tales of Hoffmann" turned into a tale of tenors at the Metropolitan Opera. First the scheduled singer came down with flu, then his understudy lost his voice during Act One — and lip-synched for the rest of the night while a third tenor sang from the orchestra pit.

It made for a story as tangled as the plot of the opera, which tells of a young poet's adventures with three women. But it all ended happily, as the audience cheered the performance Tuesday night — second night of the Met's 101st season.

The trouble started that morning, when tenor Neil Shiffolt, scheduled to sing the title role, telephoned to say he was sick.

His standby, William Lewis, had a throat infection but agreed to go on. However, as soon as the performance started, it was clear he was having trouble and some notes just didn't come out right.

Then, halfway through the first act, Lewis opened his mouth but the sound came from way over at the audience's left. That was Kenneth Riegel, sounding as if he were in the wings, but actually in the orchestra pit.

Lewis, acting on stage, and Riegel, singing from the pit, continued their joint Hoffmann through the opera. Met spokesmen believe this never has happened before in Met history.

"I was disappointed," Lewis said Wednesday. "The other singers were in such good voice I would like to have been part of that."

Riegel stayed in the orchestra pit, with the score in front of him, instead of getting into costume and going on stage because he hadn't sung the part since he did it two seasons ago at the

Met. With a day's notice he could have gone on, he said.

Lewis said that when the Met asked him to fill in for Shiffolt, he knew he might be in for trouble.

"I was getting a throat infection Tuesday but I tried to fight it off. I've never canceled at the Met," he said. "I ... About half an hour before curtain, I said, 'My dears, we've got to do something.' They told me they'd alerted Ken. I went on stage, into the great dark void. But the audience was sympathetic."

Midway through Act One, Lewis said, "A chorus member took me by the arm and took me off stage. James Levine (the Met's music director) was there. He asked if I could make it through the act. I said, 'No, Jimmy, you can hear the hoarseness.' He said, 'OK, after the doll's aria, Ken will be singing from the pit.' It was very smoothly done."

Both tenors say they couldn't have synchronized their Hoffmanns without conductor Julius Rudel, who was giving clear hand signals to both of them. Riegel, in the pit, could not see the other singers on stage — and he couldn't hear them either.

"I heard this big orchestra around me," Riegel said. "And I was also concerned if my voice would come out of there."

He said some passages that were cut when he sang the part two years ago had been restored for Tuesday night's performance. "One of the assistant conductors, Bill Vendice, was beside me, reminding me of those passages coming up," he said.

Lip-synching has occurred before on a major opera stage.

South paintings on display

By FERRY-RIGH-HARTLEY
Times-News correspondent

TWIN FALLS — Watercolors by Barbara South of Mountain Home are now on display at Havener's Frames & Gallery in Twin Falls.

The display is the first in an artist of the month series to be displayed at the gallery, says owner Larry Havener.

Eleven of South's pieces will be on display from now until the end of October, at which time the display will be available to another artist. He says it is an effort to help local artists show their work.

South, a junior high math teacher, says she uses painting as an escape, adding, "I've been working on my art seriously for the last 10 years.

"I'm thinking of going back and getting my masters in art," she says. "Maybe being able to teach art instead of math."

On comparing art with math, South notes "you have symmetry and balance in math and you have it in art. A lot of design is math," adding that a lot of her impromptu paintings have design and lines.

The artist says she gets ideas for her paintings from pictures out of magazines, snapshots and "some of them I just put paint on the paper and go from there."

Havener invites the public to view South's work in his gallery at 242 Main Ave. N.

Craft classes to be offered

KETCHUM — The following craft classes will be sponsored during October at the Sun Valley Center for the Arts and Humanities, Fourth and Leadville, Ketchum.

Wood Carving will be taught by Tom Uebelher at 7 p.m. Mondays and Wednesdays at the Community Studio. Fee for the class will be $55.

Watercolor class will be taught by Uebelher at 7 p.m. Tuesdays at the Sun Valley Center Campus. Fee will be $45.

Melanie Stevens will conduct Basic Ceramics at 7 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays at the Sun Valley Center Ceramics Building. The fee of $60 includes materials.

Jean Behnke will teach Life Drawing, Figure Studies at 7 p.m. Wednesdays at the Old City Hall in Ketchum. The fee will be $50.

Debbie Edgers will conduct Basic Drawing at 7 p.m. Mondays at the Sun Valley Center Campus. Cost is $40.

Edgers will instruct Beginning Painting from Photographs at 7 p.m. Thursdays and Advanced Painting, Watercolor Photographs at 7 p.m. Tuesdays. Both classes will be held at the Community Studio in Ketchum. Special fee rates will be given to center members. For more information or registration, call 622-3371.

Art classes set in Jerome

JEROME — The following art classes are scheduled to be held in October at the Correll Photo Art and Framing in Jerome.

Jillie Moon will conduct a two-day workshop on Oct. 29 and 30, and a three-hour embossing session Oct. 2.

Bonnie Johnson will teach an oil painting class on Oct. 11, and a colorpointing class on Oct. 27 and 28.

Leona Hankins will teach tile painting with oil on Oct. 9 and oil painting on canvas class on Monday mornings for $5.50 per class.

Emma Coleman of Wendell will teach a landscape class beginning Oct. 22.

Larry Milligan will hold a two-day workshop on Oct. 29 and 30, and a one-day workshop on Oct. 31. Both workshops will be realistic subjects.

Classes scheduled to be held during February and March include a five-week course in calligraphy for beginning students, and a course in copperplating.

For more information, call 324-2486.

Series of four Broadway shows coming to Boise

BOISE — Four Broadway productions will be presented at the Morrison Center in the coming months.

Negotiations have been finalized with Celebrity Attractions, of Portland, Ore., to present the Broadway Theater Series beginning with "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers" on Oct. 25.

A musical comic fable and tender love story set in the 1830s, "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers" tells the tale of seven lonely and lovesick backwoods brothers who set out to find themselves wives. The professional dancers and singers, in this company of 26 will fill the stage with all-American exuberance.

For the holiday season, the series will offer Charles Dickens' "A Christmas Carol" on Dec. 2. Produced by the Music Theatre of Wichita, this adaptation for the stage of "A Christmas Carol" is now in its eighth season of touring.

The familiar cast of characters — crochety old Scrooge; the apparition of his former partner, Jacob Marley; the ghosts of Christmas past, present and future; and lovable Tiny Tim are all here in this production. No one should leave the theater with a "bah, humbug" after seeing this delightful Christmas tale.

On Jan. 23, the series will continue with "Dracula," the irresistible story of a lovely 16-year-old girl who is groomed for the secure present and "respectable" life of a grand coquette in 1890s Paris. Some of the great songs that you will remember from "Gigli" include, "The Night They Invented Champagne," "Thank Heaven for Little Girls," and "I Remember It Well."

because it touches the intimate center of the human psyche as none of its imitators can. Martin Landau, remembered best for his role in the hit television series "Mission: Impossible" plays the lead role of the irresistibly evil count. This remarkable production is presented with the same lavish Edward Gorey set designs and Tony Award-winning costumes used in the 1977 Broadway production.

The final presentation of this first theater series will be Lerner and Loewe's world classic musical "Gigli" starring Louis Jourdan, internationally-acclaimed star of stage and screen. Jourdan, who starred as the movie's young lover, returns a generation later as "Honore" — the role made famous in the film by Maurice Chevalier. Although "Gigli" has delighted audiences as a play, it is the Oscar winning film that endeared the story to millions.

"Gigli" is the irresistible story of a lovely 16-year-old girl who is groomed for the secure present and "respectable" life of a grand coquette in 1890s Paris. Some of the great songs that you will remember from "Gigli" include, "The Night They Invented Champagne," "Thank Heaven for Little Girls," and "I Remember It Well."

This four-show theater series will be offered at a special discounted price which will enable four events at a substantial 15 percent discount off the single ticket price.

Sister's fast ways may be disturbing

DEAR ABBY: My parents will soon celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary, and we—our children—are planning a grand reception for them at our country club.

We are six children, three sons and three daughters. The problem is the youngest sister, the beauty of the family. She's been on the fast track since her teenage years and has humiliated and disgraced us many times, but our parents seem always to forgive her.

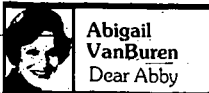

She was arrested for shoplifting in high school. Later, she was kicked out of college for stealing. At 23, she eloped with a wealthy young boy of 19. A year later, he caught her in bed with a 16-year-old caddy she dragged home from the country club.

She's on her second marriage now, and this husband doesn't have the big bucks her first husband had, so she's a hooker. Everybody in town knows this but our parents.

Do we have to include her at the 50th? I'm afraid she'll hustle men at the party. I spoke to our minister about this and he said, "It stands in the middle of pride," but then he doesn't have a hooker for a sister. Please advise us.

—THE ELDEST
DEAR ELDEST: The purpose of the celebration you're planning is to bring joy to your parents, so don't mar it by excluding your sister. Listen to your minister. Wise man, he.

DEAR ABBY: I am 28 and George (not his real name) is 34. We are very much in love and plan to marry soon. This is my second marriage and George's first. The problem: George contributes to the support of his two illegitimate sons. He became a father at 18, and then again at 20 (two

Tale of 2 tenors bothers Met opera

By MARY CAMPBELL
The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Offenbach's "The Tales of Hoffmann" turned into a tale of tenors at the Metropolitan Opera. First the scheduled singer came down with flu, then his understudy lost his voice during Act One — and lip-synced for the rest of the night while a third tenor sang from the orchestra pit.

"I made for a story as tangled as the plot of the opera, which tells of a young poet's adventures with three women. But it all ended happily, as the audience cheered the performance Tuesday night — second night of the Met's 101st season.

"The trouble started that morning, when tenor Neil Shioffo, scheduled to sing the title role, telephoned to say he was sick.

His standby, William Lewis, had a throat infection but agreed to go on. However, as soon as the performance started, it was clear he was having trouble and some notes just didn't come out right.

Then, halfway through the first act, Lewis opened his mouth but the sound came from way over at the audience's left. That was Kenneth Riegel, sounding as if he were in the wings, but actually in the orchestra pit.

Lewis, acting on stage, and Riegel, singing from the pit, continued their joint Hoffmann through the opera. Met spokesmen believe this never has happened before in Met history.

"I was disappointed," Lewis said Wednesday. "The other singers were in such good voice I would like to have been part of that."

Riegel stayed in the orchestra pit, with the score in front of him, instead of getting into costume and going on stage because he hadn't sung the part since he did it two seasons ago at the

Met. With a day's notice he could have gone on, he said.

Lewis said that when the Met asked him to fill in for Shioffo, he knew he might be in for trouble.

"I was getting a throat infection Tuesday but I tried to fight it off. I've never canceled at the Met," he said. "About half an hour before curtain, I said, 'My dears, we're go-to-do something.' They told me they'd alerted Ken. I went on stage, into the great dark void. But the audience was sympathetic."

Midway through Act One, Lewis said, "A chorus member took me by the arm and took me off stage. James Levine (the Met's music director) was there. He asked if I could make it through the act. I said, 'No, Jimmy, you can hear the hoarseness.' He said, 'OK, after the doll's aria, Ken will be singing from the pit.' It was very smoothly done."

Both tenors say they couldn't have synchronized their Hoffmanns without conductor Julius Rudel, who was giving clear hand signals to both of them. Riegel, in the pit, could not see the other singers on stage — and he couldn't hear them either.

"I heard this big orchestra around me," Riegel said. "And I was also concerned if my voice would come out of there."

He said some passages that were cut when he sang the part two years ago had been restored for Tuesday night's performance. "One of the assistant conductors, Bill Vendice, was beside me, reminding me of those passages coming up," he said.

Lip-synching has occurred before on a major opera stage.

South paintings on display

By TERRY RICHARTLEY
Times-News correspondent

TWIN FALLS — Watercolors by Barbara South of Mountain Home are now on display at Havener's Frames & Gallery in Twin Falls.

The display is the first in an artist of the month series to be displayed at the gallery, says owner Larry Havener.

Eleven of South's pieces will be on display from now until the end of October, at which time the display wall will be available to another artist. He says it is an effort to help local artists show their works.

South, a junior high math teacher, says she uses painting as an escape, adding, "I've been working on my art seriously in the last 10 years.

"I'm thinking of going back and getting my masters in art," she says. "Maybe being able to teach art instead of math."

On comparing art with math, South notes "you have symmetry and balance in math and you have it in art. A lot of design is math," adding that a lot of her impromptu paintings have design and lines.

The artist says she gets ideas for her paintings from pictures out of magazines, snapshots and "some of them I just put paint on the paper and go from there."

Havener invites the public to view South's work in his gallery at 242 Main Ave. N.

Series of four Broadway shows coming to Boise

BOISE — Four Broadway productions will be presented at the Morrison Center in the coming months.

Negotiations have been finalized with Celebrity Attractions of Portland, Ore. to present the Broadway Theater Series beginning with "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers" on Oct. 25.

A musical comic fable and tender love story set in the 1850s, "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers" tells the tale of seven lonely and lovesick backwoods brothers who set out to find themselves wives. The professional dancers and singers in this company of 28 will fill the stage with all-American exuberance.

For the holiday season, the series will offer Charles Dickens' "A Christmas Carol" on Dec. 2. Produced by the Music Theater of Wichita, this adaptation for the stage of "A Christmas Carol" is now in its eighth season of touring. The familiar cast of characters — crochety old Scrooge; the apparition of his former partner, Jacob Marley; the ghosts of Christmas past, present and future; and lovable "Tiny Tim" are all here in this production. No one should leave the theater with a "bah, humbug!" after seeing this delightful Christmas tale.

On Jan. 23, the series will continue with "Dracula," the irresistible evil. For new and returning audiences, all four events at a substantial 15 percent discount off the single ticket price.

because it touches the intimate center of the human psyche as none of its imitators can. Martin Landau, remembered best for his role in the hit television series "Mission: Impossible" plays the lead role of the irresistibly evil count. This remarkable production is presented with the same lavish Edward Gorey set designs and Tony Award-winning costumes used in the 1977 Broadway production.

The final presentation of this first theater series will be Lerner and Loewe's world classic musical "Gigi" starring Louis Jourdan, internationally acclaimed star of stage and screen. Jourdan, who starred as the movie's young lover, returns a generation later as "Honore" — the role made famous in the film by Maggie Walter. Although "Gigi" has delighted audiences as a play, it is the Oscar-winning film that endeared the story to millions. "Gigi" is the irresistible story of a lovely 16-year-old girl who is groomed for the secure affluent and "respectable" life of a grand coquette in 1890s Paris. Some of the great songs that you will remember from "Gigi" include, "The Night They Invented Champagne," "Thank Heaven for Little Girls," and "I Remember It Well."

This four-show theater series will be offered at a special discounted price which will enable audiences to attend all four events at a substantial 15 percent discount off the single ticket price.

Sister's fast ways may be disturbing

DEAR ABBY: My parents will soon celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary, and we, their children, are planning a grand reception for them at our country club.

We are six children, three sons and three daughters. The problem is the youngest sister, the beauty of the family. She's been on the fast track since her teen-age years and has humiliated and disgraced us many times, but our parents seem always to forgive her.

She was arrested for shoplifting in high school. Later, she was kicked out of college for stealing. At 23, she eloped with a wealthy young boy of 19. A year later, he caught her in bed with a 16-year-old cad who she dragged home from the country club.

She's on her second marriage now, and this husband doesn't have the big bucks her first husband had, so she's a hooker. Everybody in town knows this but our parents.

Do we have to include her at the 50th? I'm afraid she'll hustle men at the party. I spoke to our minister about this and he said, "I'll stand in the middle of pride," but then he doesn't have a hooker for a sister.

Please advise us.

What's what

Take a 500-student elementary school. Therein will be 26 green-eyed children. They won't be recognized as having that something special. Or so says a scholar who studies such matters.

The "greens" of golf courses in Saudi Arabia are "browns." Not grass. That takes too much water. They're packed sand and oil, both of which Saudi Arabia has plenty.

In Rhode Island, the average telephone call lasts 3 minutes 54 seconds. In Texas, the average is 5 minutes 43 seconds. Why this difference?

There are 33 towns in this country called Manchester. And I don't have a reader - sigh! - in any of them.

HEART ATTACK
Can you talk yourself out of a heart attack? One Dr. Meyer Friedman thinks so. He's the fellow who first identified compulsive aggressive doers as "Type A" people. For starters, he says, "Walk more, talk more, and eat more slowly." Then he gets to the tough part. "In games, practice losing gracefully." He's gone too far.

Do you refrigerate tomatoes? Likewise. Though everybody did. But the Tomato Growers Association says not. Tomatoes taste best when kept on the kitchen counter between 65 and 75 degrees F.

SPIES
Remarkable how many young Americans want to be spies. The Central Intelligence Agency last year received more than 200,000 resumes from job seekers. That's twice as many as the CIA got a decade ago.

Six settlers started a town in Oklahoma. Their surnames were Chaney, Hull, Adams, Nichols, Edmunds and Yarnold. To identify the place, they used the initial of each, and called it Chaney.

Sometimes, when I'm not thinking about re-headers, swordfish and small furry animals, I think about this: The United States - with 5 percent of the world's population and 6.3 percent of the world's land - accepts 70 percent of the legal immigrants from the world's other nations.

Some Albanians have pet dogs or cats, but those who do are generally regarded there as quaintly old-fashioned and a bit silly.

In Massachusetts, a young lady can marry at age 12, but her husband better be at least 14, or it's illegal.

Daily Horoscope

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A beautiful day and evening for you to quietly prepare for a greater enjoyment of the romantic and the social side of life so make a point to think out-plan to bring you more happiness.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Know what it is that your mate expects of your surroundings more pleasant if you want to do your work better. Enjoy some hobby in the evening.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Know what it is that you enjoy the most and plan to enjoy this kind of entertainment.

LION (July 22 to Aug. 21) If you refrain from criticism of anyone at home and outside more, there can be more harmony in that important realm of your living.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Get into the work you understand and get it done efficiently. Later visit a shut-in who would greatly appreciate your thought.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Your financial status is clearer now and you get line ideas how to improve it quickly. Be sure to handle that plumbing situation.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Be more concerned with your own wishes and gain them today. Then handle practical affairs well also.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)

Much progress can be yours if you show your direct superior more esteem and appreciation for alliance.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Know which of your friends can be of the greatest assistance in gaining your personal wishes and butter them up.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) If you want more support from an influential person, you had better impress them with your finest capabilities.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) An out-of-towner could appear on the scene today who can give you fine ideas and be charming, so be sure to welcome this person.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TO DAY... he or she can easily get data needed from almost everyone by using a subtle psychology, but teaching never to use such information for detrimental purposes. One who could do very well in a trade. One who will not want to go to college, but will regret it later in life.

THE ACES

BOBBY WOLFF

"Our major obligation is not to mistake slogans for solutions."
Edward R. Murrow.

"Draw the Opponents" trumps as soon as practicable," learns the beginner. He finds it difficult to make exceptions.

East wins trick one with his heart jack and returns the card queen to South's ace. A trump is led to dummy's king and East's discard reveals the foul break.

Still intent on drawing all the trumps, South leads a diamond to his ace and takes a marked finesse of dummy's trump nine. The trump jack is cashed and South is now positioned to draw all five of West's trumps without loss.

He leads a diamond to his king to complete the job, but disaster strikes. West ruffs and leads a second heart to dummy's ace. With no way off dummy, South loses a heart and a club to East and another diamond ruff to West for two down.

Had South needed 11 tricks, it would have been correct to play trumps as he did. Since he had contracted for only 10, he should have waived that tempting trump finesse. Instead, he should have cashed his four top trumps and started diamonds. West could ruff or not; South would have had 10 sure winners to score his game and rubber.

ANSWER: One no-trump. It is rare to respond one no-trump with a void in partner's suit. However, a response is justified and the hand is not strong enough for a two-over-one bid.
