Teachers, board to meet Tuesday

Schools stay shut Monday

By DEAN S. MILLER
Times-News correspondent

TWIN FALLS — Schools here will be closed Monday by school board order and may remain closed indefinitely.

Board spokesman Gary Fay said district schools will be locked on Monday. "We will not open any school doors for administrators, teachers, or children."

Teachers meeting at the United Methodist Church Friday said they would be returning to the classroom Monday, before they learned the schools would be locked.

Fay said schools may be closed Tuesday as well, if the union and board are unable to settle.

Fay declined to speak for the whole board but said his opinion was that schools will not be re-opened until an agreement is reached.

The leader of the teachers negotiating team, Jana Roy, said Friday night the teachers agreed to a Tuesday meeting with the full board instead of the Monday meeting with the negotiating team the board initially offered Friday.

"We agreed a meeting with the negotiations team would be futile if the board had not met yet," Roy said.

About 200 teachers collected over 4,000 signatures Friday on a petition demanding that the board inform the public of any potential budget deficit facing the district and "make attempt to resolve the problems through the use of monies allocated by the Idaho State Legislature specifically for teacher salary increases."

The petition also demands the full board meet with teachers to negotiate a settlement.

The teachers gathered in the basement of the Methodist church at noon to tally the petition signatures, hear IEA officials, and keep posted on developments in the negotiations.

Idaho Education Association president Connie Hutchison told the teachers, "Hang in there, you're going to get what you need."

An IEA board of directors meeting scheduled for this weekend in Boise was moved to Twin Falls at the request of the local, Hutchison said.

Hutchison said the meeting was moved "to show Twin Falls teachers, teachers around the state are watching; the IEA has spent a lot of time, effort and money to ensure the House Bill 475 money goes to teachers."

Hutchison said Twin Falls is the last district in the state where negotiations are being held up over the House Bill 475 money.

IEA board member Joyce Raasch of Meridian told the meeting, "We're on a missionary journey for excellence in education." Raasch said the "importance of higher teacher salaries lies in the future."

Coeur d'Alene IEA board member Bill Hjort told the crowd Coeur d'Alene teachers signed for the district's full appropriation under House Bill 475. "We're with you all the way," he told the cheering group.

At a later press conference, IEA research director Rob Nicholson said a recent review of the school district budget and an income and expenditures reporting form required by the

Salvador crash kills 4 CIA men

By ROBERT PARRY
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Four American employees of the CIA on an arms surveillance mission in El Salvador were killed early Friday when their aircraft crashed in heavy rain near the capital, San Salvador.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said the mission of the unarmed aircraft was to "assist the government of El Salvador by warning of insurgent offensives and identification of shipments of arms and ammunition by the government of Nicaragua to the guerrillas in El Salvador."

One intelligence source said the plane, equipped with sophisticated night photography equipment, was following another aircraft suspected of carrying arms to leftist Salvadoran guerrillas. He said such missions had been under way for about two months.

"All I know is that there was a plane crash... and supposedly they were chasing another airplane that was suspected of carrying weapons to the enemy," said Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., chairman of the Senate Intelligence Committee. "And they just plain flew into a mountain. This happens in the best of places." Goldwater said in Cardozo, Ariz. Goldwater said that he had been briefed about the incident by CIA Director William Casey.

Speakes said, "The aircraft was flying during heavy rains with very limited visibility and crashed into a mountain near San Salvador."

Speakes confirmed that the airplane was "under contract to the U.S. government and the government of El Salvador."

The bodies of four people, said to be Americans and apparently the four who died in the crash, were brought to a funeral home Friday afternoon in San Salvador.

The only other American official known to have been killed in the 5-year-old Salvadoran civil war was Lt. Cmdr. Albert A. Schaufelberger III, deputy commander of the U.S. advisers, who was shot May 25, 1983, in San Salvador.

Jim Williams, a spokesman for the U.S. Embassy in San Salvador, said the plane went down on the Guazapa volcano, a longtime rebel stronghold 15 miles north of the capital, and that Salvadoran authorities "are investigating the crash."

According to a statement read by State Department spokesman Brian Carlson, "The airplane was crewed by four U.S. citizen civilian employees of the Central Intelligence Agency. There were no survivors. Next of kin have been notified." The U.S. embassy in San Salvador issued a similar communique. Neither Speakes nor Carlson identified the employees by name. A CIA official also declined to identify the four, and the communique from San Salvador did not identify the four.

Third storm rolls in

The Associated Press

The third snowstorm of the week swept into the West on Friday, drawing a bead on Utah and Colorado and threatening to add to record autumn snowfalls.

Tornadoes and heavy rain plagued parts of Texas, as the death toll from the unseasonable weather rose to six.

Snow and rain blew in across Oregon, northern California and northeast Nevada on Friday morning, and forecasters said the weather system was headed straight for the central Rockies, where Salt Lake City was still digging out from a record 1 1/2 feet of snow.

The National Weather Service predicted that up to 2 feet of new snow could be added over the weekend to the 3 feet already covering parts of the Utah mountains. A winter storm watch was posted for Friday night and Saturday for much of Colorado, where the first storm of the week covered Denver with a foot-deep blanket.

Meanwhile, the storm that turned Utah into a giant snowdrift stretched Friday from the Dakotas, where snow mixed with up to 2 inches of rain, to southeast Texas, where street flooding was reported and flash-flood watches were in effect.

Families evacuated

The Associated Press

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Most family members of American diplomats in Beirut have left the country while safety measures at the embassy are improved following last month's terrorist attack, according to statements Friday from U.S. Embassy officials.

John Stewart, embassy spokesman in Beirut, said five dependents left last week but declined to specify when or where they went "for security reasons." Only about a half dozen dependents had returned since the mass evacuation last year when Moslem militias seized control of west

Beirut from the Lebanese army.

Western security officials, speaking on condition they not be identified, said U.S. diplomats in recent days have been concerned about continuing kidnap and bomb threats.

U.S. Embassy officials would not comment on the matter.

About 40 to 50 Americans still are assigned to diplomatic or security duties here. Most of the people who left last week were wives of "embassy staff members," Stewart said. Roseanne Bartholomew, the wife of U.S. Ambassador Reginald Bartholomew, remains in Lebanon, he added.

U.S. economy sluggish but shows signs of revival

By MARTIN CRUTSINGER
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The U.S. economy went into a pronounced slump — during the summer with growth slowing to a sluggish 2.7 percent rate from July through September — less than one-third the torrid pace set in the first half of the year, the government said Friday.

The Reagan administration, facing an election in less than three weeks, declared that the "slowdown is already behind us" and pointed to encouraging signs that the economy has perked up from its summer doldrums.

Most private economists agreed that business activity will pick up in the final three months of the year, but many said the administration's growth forecast of 4 percent was too optimistic.

In other economic developments Friday:

• Oil prices stabilized in nervous world markets as traders awaited OPEC's response to this week's wave of price cutting that drew in one of its own members, Nigeria.

• The stock market's best-known indicator, the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, rose 55 to 1,225.93 in extremely heavy trading. That was a much smaller gain than the previous session's 29.49-point jump. Still, the index finished the week with a net gain of 35.23 points. Big Board volume for the day totaled 186.90 million shares, the third largest total on record.

• The interest rate ceiling on basic home loans backed by the Veterans Administration will be trimmed to 13 percent effective Monday, the government announced. "The decline

Stallings, Hansen both claim success in Thursday debate

By The Associated Press

The candidates, their campaign staffs and Idaho political leaders claimed gains for their sides Friday as the dust began to clear from the statewide "towns" debate between 2nd District Republican Rep. George Hansen and Democratic challenger Richard Stallings.

"If nothing else has been accomplished in this campaign, we've made a Republican out of Stallings," state GOP Chairman Dennis Olsen said of the challenger. He's trying to deny Hansen an eighth term in a race clouded by Hansen's felony conviction.

Hansen, in Boise for campaign interviews on Friday, said he felt the debate was "profitable" for him, because it allowed him to bring out what he feels is the key issue in the campaign.

"There's no way he (Stallings) can take huge amounts of contributions from liberals and labor and not be obligated to vote for their programs," Hansen said. He tried repeatedly in the debate to tie Stallings to national Democratic Party goals which may not be popular in Idaho.

"I think we basically won a decisive victory," said Hansen. He said he was surprised in his Friday travels at the number of people who watched the debate. They "overwhelmed" support him, Hansen said.

In a statement released Friday, Stallings said there is "no question" he won the debate. "It was not even close," said

Stallings. "The contrast between the candidates was sharp. I answered questions honestly and directly while Mr. Hansen skirted them."

The Democrat said it was "amusing" that Hansen continues to attack House Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill.

During the hour-long debate, Stallings again distanced himself from the main Democratic Party on a number of issues opposed by most of the staunchly conservative voters in the southern Idaho district.

"He has espoused the Republican point of view," said Olsen, an Idaho Falls attorney. "If he is fortunate to win, and we still don't think he will, he will disappoint either the voters or the Democratic Party because he can't please them both."

But former Democratic Gov. Cecil Andrus, making his own analysis of the debate, discounted Olsen's remarks, calling Stallings a "responsible, compassionate" Idaho Democrat who will represent the people of the state and not any eastern liberal philosophy.

The debate, Andrus said, "took place basically as we had it figured. Richard Stallings did an excellent job pointing out the deficiencies in our representation, and George Hansen did what he's always done. He talked loud, talked fast and put the blame for all the ills of the nation and himself on somebody else — those deviant, faceless villains out there that he's attempting to slay, and it didn't sell.  state made union officials "even more certain they could give us the House Bill 475 money and not deficit spend."
 Nicholson said the district's revenues for the 1983-84 school year were $166,000 more than projected in the budget and expenditures were $191,000 less than the budget projected.
 The district will receive close to $300,000 in unanticipated income in the form of a $120,000 insurance rebate; $100,000 in emergency levy funds for increased enrollment; $20,000 in additional state funds due to increased enrollment; and $64,000 in "Christmas tree" appropriations from the state for books and computers, said Nicholson.

 Nicholson said the district has received almost a million dollars in unanticipated revenues this year, if the $296,000 in House Bill 475 funds are added to the $300,000 of unanticipated revenues.
 Fay said Friday night the board and the administration do not agree with Nicholson's claim that there are excess funds in last year's budget.
 "He is projecting a carry-over of substantial amounts that are not there," Fay said.
 Fay said the district budget included in its revenue projections the emergency levy funds and the added state revenue. "The $63,000 earmarked for new textbooks and computer purchases that we've been postponing."

 Fay said the $63,000 "Christmas tree" appropriation does not "free up" any district funds as the purchases were not in the budget to begin with.
 Teachers will continue collecting signatures on the petitions today, Roy said.
 A teachers meeting is tentatively planned for Sunday afternoon and the school board has announced it will meet in executive session Monday.
 Fay said the school shutdown would not affect teacher pay nor violate the Idaho 90 percent attendance rule because days missed due to the shutdown would be made up at the end of the second semester.

 from 13.5 percent comes just two months after the VA had dropped the rate from 14 percent on Aug. 13.
 The Commerce Department report on the gross national product — the broadest measure of economic health — represented a substantial downward revision from a preliminary estimate made last month.
 The department had put growth in the July-September period at 3.6 percent, but that was revised downward almost a full percentage point to 2.7 percent on Friday. That marked the slowest growth since a 0.5 percent rate turned in during the final three months of 1982, when the recession had hit bottom.
 It was also in marked contrast to rates of 10.1 percent and 7.1 percent turned in during the first and second quarters this year.

 The GNP report confirmed earlier barometers which showed the pace of consumer purchases off sharply this summer. It put the rate of growth in consumer spending at a tiny 0.2 percent from July through September, compared with a rate of 7.9 percent turned in from April through June.
 The rate of growth in business investment, while stronger at 8 percent, was also down from the 21.3 percent pace turned in during the second quarter of the year.
 Another large drag on overall GNP came from a flood of imports, which was up during the third quarter at an astonishing annual pace of 50 percent, far ahead of the 16 percent growth in exports.
 The GNP figures are expressed with the effects of inflation removed. The growth in inflation-adjusted GNP was $10.8 billion in the third quarter, putting the total output of the goods and services at an annual figure of $1.65 trillion.
 Before adjusting for inflation, the GNP grew at a rate of 6.3 percent in the third quarter to a new annual total of $3.7 trillion.
 Some analysts warned that a growth rate this slow will cause unemployment to begin rising again, but the administration dismissed such fears.
 Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige called the weak performance temporary. He blamed it on a drop in consumer spending in July and August, a flood of imports and a dip in the growth of business investment.

Refugees number 9 million
 WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of people who have fled their countries throughout the world has topped the 9 million mark, up 1.3 million from last year, according to a report issued Friday by the U.S. Committee for Refugees.
 People fleeing Afghanistan and Ethiopia — both with pro-Soviet governments — account for more than half of the increase, from 7.8 million worldwide in 1983 to 9.1 million this year, the report by the private non-profit organization said.
 An estimated 3.6 million have left Afghanistan, while Soviet troops and the government they support have been fighting guerrillas for nearly five years. Last year, the figure was put at 3.3 million.
 In Africa, the number of Ethiopian refugees has risen to an estimated 1.2 million from 883,000 in 1983.

Poland airs 'Hill Street Blues'

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The American television series "Hill Street Blues" has made its debut in Poland, where the show won high marks from a Polish critic for its thoughtful portrayal of life in a U.S. police station.
 "Hill Street" will surely provide an hour's entertainment and if somebody wants, he may also notice something more in it," wrote the reviewer in the TV magazine Antena. "Here's the everyday work of police on the streets of a big city."
 The Polish Radio and Television Committee, the state-run agency that determines Poland's TV fare, bought nine episodes from the NBC series' first season in 1981 and plans to broadcast one week. Polish officials later may buy eight more episodes to conclude the first year's run.

Western quake under study

CASPER, Wyo. (AP) — Mild aftershocks followed the ground Friday as federal geologists studied an earthquake that rattled parts of six Western states, cracking some buildings but causing no injuries.
 The U.S. Geological Survey said scientists were monitoring aftershocks from Thursday's quake, which registered 5.5 on the Richter Scale, and looking for evidence of the quake's effect on the surface of a sparsely populated mountain region of eastern Wyoming.
 The 9:30 a.m. quake was centered near the base of the Laramie Range, about 40 miles southeast of Casper, the state's "largest city." The quake and aftershock were felt across a 280,000-square-mile area, from Billings, Mont., to Colorado Springs, Colo., and from the Nebraska Panhandle to Salt Lake City.

Nicaragua boycotts meeting

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras (AP) — The foreign ministers of El Salvador, Honduras, Costa Rica and Guatemala met Friday to discuss changes in the Contadora peace plan, but Nicaragua's leftist government boycotted the meeting.
 Nicaragua has approved the original draft proposed by the Contadora group of Mexico, Colombia, Venezuela and Panama, and said it now will participate only in a summit meeting of Central America's leaders.
 The meeting is to continue today. The ministers plan to meet again Oct. 27 in Panama with representatives of the Contadora group.

Right-to-Work hit by NEA

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Education Association, turning the tables on the National Right-to-Work Committee, accused the group Friday of making an illegal contribution to Walter F. Mondale's presidential campaign.
 The NEA struck back two days after the right-to-work group filed a petition with the Federal Election Commission accusing the teachers union of illegally subsidizing a tax-exempt voter registration group by donating office space to "Project Vote."
 Federal election laws prohibit direct expenditures from corporate or union treasuries on behalf of the candidates for federal office. Such contributions may be made only through political action committees, whose activities are regularly reported to the FEC.

GM signs pact with union

DETROIT (AP) — The heads of General Motors Corp. and the United Auto Workers signed a three-year American labor contract Friday, but a strike by Canadian GM employees unhappy with its terms has forced the layout of 11,000 U.S. auto workers.
 "GM employees in four different locations, including three in Michigan, were asked not to report to work on Monday due to a shortage of parts made in Canada," said GM spokesman John Mueller.
 Laid off Friday were 5,500 employees at GM's Orion Township assembly plant, 2,800 at a Cadillac plant in Detroit, 1,900 at the Willow Run assembly plant in Ypsilanti and 1,500 at a light-truck assembly plant in Moraine, Ohio, GM officials said.

Today's weather

 Twin Falls, Burley-Rupert, Jerome-Gooding areas:
 Considerable cloudiness through Sunday with widely scattered snow showers except rain at times in the lower valley. Overnight lows in the 20s to lower 30s. Highs both days in the 40s to lower 50s.
 Northern Nevada and northern Utah:
 Northern Nevada is under a travelers' advisory today. Mostly cloudy and cool through Sunday. Occasional snow in the northern mountains and a chance of showers elsewhere today. A little cooler Sunday with light snow showers decreasing. Highs in the upper 30s.
 Utah will be mostly cloudy and continued unseasonably cold through Sunday. Probability of snow 40 percent today. Highs in the mid-40s to low 50s. Lows in the 20s to mid-30s.
 Camas Prairie and the lower Wood River Valley:
 Today and Sunday, considerable cloudiness with snow showers. Highs both days 20 to 40. Lows tonight in the 20s.

Weather map unavailable

Synopsis:
 Better weather early next week. That's the outlook for Idaho and the Magic Valley, but the weekend may see little change from the unsettled conditions of late this week.
 Friday afternoon temperatures reached only the 30s and 40s, while Lewiston was warmest with 47 at mid-afternoon, the National Weather Service says.
 Salmon, McCall and Sun Valley were coolest in the afternoon at 35 degrees. Warmest temperature in the state Friday was Hagerman with 53 degrees, while Stanley was once again coldest, at 16 degrees.
 Misty cloudy skies continued over the state Friday afternoon. Snow showers were widely scattered mainly over the mountains. The airport at Halley reported a heavy snow accumulation at mid-afternoon. Now snow showers were light, except in high remote mountain areas.
 The agricultural outlook for southern Idaho shows that rain-and snow showers will be scattered over the area today and Sunday with precipitation totals of 0.1 to .02 of an inch near mountains. Conditions for field work and harvesting will be fair over the weekend and good Monday through Wednesday. Soil temperatures for the potato harvest will be 45 to 55 degrees both today and Sunday.
 The extended forecast for Monday through Wednesday shows dry with a slow warming trend. Highs Monday in the mid-40s to mid-50s and in the upper 40s and 50s Tuesday and Wednesday. Lows in the mid-20s to mid-30s.

Debate

 think we'll have a new congressman as we should have."
 Although Hansen spent much of the debate evading questions about his personal financial dealings, his campaign manager, son Bill, praised his father's performance and discounted Hansen's refusal to discuss details of bank transactions.
 Claiming the congressman has nothing to hide, Bill Hansen said, "If we felt there was something wrong, or if we wanted to hide something, George would not be here tonight" for the debate.
 Hansen was repeated asked by both reporters on the panel and Stallings to explain where he got more than $800 deposited in a "Casper" bank account in a month's time and for what more he did in his wife write more than $800,000 in checks from the same account during the same period.
 Stallings aide Paul Pugmire called the challenger the debate's "clear cut winner" because of "Hansen's failure to answer the questions posed."
 "The issue is really George Hansen and whether he's effective for Idaho," Pugmire said. "I think Stallings proved Hansen's ineffectiveness as a congressman in this debate."
 Olsen argued that both candidates dodged questions during the course of the debate while taking "every opportunity to drive home the critical issues that they thought needed to be discussed," and he said that while the financial questions may be an issue with some voters they won't be with others in an election he admitted would be close.
 But Anders echoed comments of Stallings when the candidate compared 90 percent of the people in the district wanted to know about these financial transactions. The former chief executive and Interior Secretary said the voters may have accepted Hansen's evasions in past campaigns but they won't this time.

 Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige called the weak performance temporary. He blamed it on a drop in consumer spending in July and August, a flood of imports and a dip in the growth of business investment.

Mondale urges Reagan to fire CIA director

By MIKE SHANAHAN
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Walter F. Mondale demanded Friday that President Reagan fire CIA Director William Casey before Sunday's presidential debate because of the distribution of a CIA document that encourages terrorism against the leftist Sandinista government in Nicaragua.

Five days after the existence of the document first became known, the Democratic challenger once called on the president to immediately explain if he plans U.S. military action against the government in Managua.

The disclosure that the CIA produced the document "is a profound embarrassment to our country," he said.

Mondale interrupted his debate preparations to speak to reporters outside his Northwest Washington home. Reagan devoted much of the day to studying for Sunday's debate on foreign policy.

But Reagan's chief campaign spokesman, James Lake, said the debate really doesn't matter. "Walter Mondale has already lost the election," he said.

WILLIAM CASEY
At center of flap

Lake said Reagan could lose only if there were some "unknown, unexplained, unexpected" event. He refused to elaborate.

CBS News reported that according to the latest nationwide CBS-New York Times poll, a 26-point lead

Reagan held over Mondale earlier this month has been cut in half to 13 points.

Reagan leads Mondale among every age group and in every region of the country, but the margin has been narrowed in all categories, notably among young people and in southern states, the poll said.

Meanwhile, Vice President George Bush campaigned in the Northwest, telling shipyard workers in Seattle, some of them whose jobs are threatened, "We do promise and we are providing a whole new economic climate that does offer hope."

"You see difficulty in this yard — support people that want to cut way back on the Navy, support people that want to cut back on the Navy battle-groups from 13 to 10 and then see what you've got around here," Bush said, but stirring disappointment among some workers who expected announcement of a shipbuilding contract.

In his attack on Reagan, Mondale said the president should explain how contras in Nicaragua were given instructions on how to kill local government leaders and hire criminals for specific acts of violence against the Nicaraguan government.

"Did he know this was going on," said Mondale. "If he didn't know how could that possibly be, I don't know which is worse, having that go on or having a government with no one in charge so these things contrary to the public interest can go on without the knowledge of the president."

"How could these illegal acts occur?" he asked. "Let's have the facts before the debate. What's going on here?"

"The purpose of this illegal activity by the CIA was not to interdict supplies from the Sandinistas to the guerrillas in El Salvador," he said. "It was for the explicit purpose of overthrowing the government of Nicaragua."

Asked if he knew of any specific incidents in which the actions described in the manual were actually carried out, Mondale replied:

"This was a manual that directed people to whom it was addressed to carry out political assassination, to hire criminals and other illegal acts..." he said. "Those were the orders and the recommendations of the manual. Somebody has to be responsible for that."

"How much of that in fact happened is information I do not have," he said. Sounding a theme sure to be heard in the 90-minute nationally televised debate, the Democratic presidential nominee said he believes that the U.S.-supported rebel effort in Nicaragua is failing.

"The forces in the Sandinista government are stronger than they were by far four years ago," he said. "If his objective is to overthrow that government, the only way it can be done is through the introduction of U.S. combat troops."

That raises the question, said Mondale, "whether this administration plans to introduce U.S. combat troops..."

"These are all questions of who's in charge, who's in command and what is this government up to," said Mondale.

"We have a right to demand that president define very clearly what his objectives are in the war and how he intends to achieve them," Mondale said, adding:

"It is the time to realize that it is the CIA itself that is in danger..."

Mondale said, "The people of this country cannot elect a major employee of the CIA or a minor employee of the CIA."

"They elected the president of the United States to take charge to faithfully execute the laws of this land. The laws are being violated. It is very serious error which affects the security interest of this country, and they say no one is in charge."

"I find it very hard to believe that when someone decides to assassinate, a political assassination... that they didn't tell someone higher up. They don't keep normal business records," he said.

Of Casey, Mondale said, the law requires that the CIA director report on any illegal activities to the House and Senate Intelligence Committees.

"That law was violated," he said. So, said Mondale, Reagan should fire Casey "before the Sunday debate so we can get on with the necessary work of restoring the strength and the credibility of that crucial agency."

Asked why he waited so long to urge Casey's dismissal, Mondale said, "I was doing something I often do. I think things over."

Asked if he were ready for Sunday's second debate, Mondale said, "I feel associate employee of the agency, fine."

Debate victory important for Mondale

WASHINGTON (AP) — When Walter F. Mondale tries to make his campaign add up to victory over President Reagan on Nov. 6, the Electoral College numbers force him to base his hopes on a near-sweep of the nation's biggest states.

Given that Mondale cannot now claim the lead in any of the eight largest Northern and Western states — ranging from California to Massachusetts — he needs a dramatic shift and his best chance for that would be a clear victory in Sunday's foreign policy debate.

As the two presidential candidates prepared for their second debate, James Lake, spokesman for the Reagan campaign, said, "There is not a state in which we do not have a lead."

Lake contended that Reagan campaign polls showed the president regaining the ground he lost after the first debate, which was widely seen as a clear Mondale victory.

Public polls confirm Reagan's lead but differ on whether Mondale is closing the gap.

Louis Harris' latest survey said Reagan's lead had narrowed to 9 points, while polls done for NBC and USA Today said the president was in front of his Democratic challenger by 25 points.

But polls aside, Mondale and his aides dream of an upset victory based on winning enough states to give the Democrat the 270 electoral votes necessary to become the next president.

That's a tough task since Reagan begins with a pretty solid base of 28 states that have a total of 238 electoral votes. The largest of these are Texas with 25 and Florida with 20. The list also includes every Southern state, except Alabama and nearly every state on the eastern border of California to the Mississippi River.

Mondale partisans claim the Democrat can carry Texas, but politicians there say the president's lead is anywhere from 20 to 30 points.

If Mondale's base were calculated from where he now leads, it would total the 3 electoral votes from the District of Columbia.

But suppose Mondale dominates Sunday's debate and things begin to move in his direction.

His biggest step toward an electoral majority would be a win in Reagan's home state of California, which offers the biggest bloc of electoral votes, 47. If he also carried Geraldine Ferraro's home state of New York with its 36 electoral votes, as well as Pennsylvania with 25, Illinois with 24; Ohio, 23; Michigan, 20; New Jersey, 16 and Massachusetts, 13, Mondale would have 204 electoral votes to add to the 3 from the District of Columbia.

Can Mondale sweep the eight largest Northern states?

Folster Harris thinks it's possible. "Normally, you don't get more than a 3-point difference," in the vote among those eight big states, he said. He added that his polls are showing the trend in all eight moving in Mondale's direction.

If Mondale is strong enough on Nov. 6 to carry those eight, he also ought to win his home state of Minnesota for another 10 and traditionally Democratic Maryland for another 10.

That would put him at 227. If he carried California, he also ought to do well in Washington state with 10, Oregon with 7 and Hawaii with 4 to get his total up to 248.

Normally, Rhode Island's 4 electoral votes are reliably Democratic as are West Virginia's 6.

The additional votes he needs might come from Minnesota's neighbors, Wisconsin with 11 or Iowa with 8. Other possibilities might be Alabama or Kentucky with 9 each or Connecticut with 8.

If all those numbers, fall Mondale's way, he'll wake up Nov. 7, able to claim the biggest electoral upset since Harry Truman embarrassed the pollsters and pundits in 1948 by defeating Thomas E. Dewey.

CIA 'comic book' reviewed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional intelligence committees, reviewing the CIA's psychological warfare manual for Nicaraguan rebels, are also examining the spy agency's production of a comic book-style manual that urges Nicaraguans to sabotage their leftist government.

Committee sources, who insisted on anonymity, said the CIA's preparation of the two manuals could suggest a concerted program by the agency. White House officials have portrayed the psychological warfare manual as an unauthorized product by a low-level contract employee operating in Central America.

President Reagan has ordered two investigations — one by the CIA and one by the Reagan-appointed Intelligence Oversight Board — into "the possibility of improper conduct" in the manual's production. But Democrats have demanded an independent inquiry by the congressional General Accounting Office, or by a special prosecutor.

Court upholds handgun ban

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — A divided Illinois Supreme Court on Friday upheld the nation's first handgun ban in the Chicago suburb of Morton Grove, and the village's mayor said the ruling "sends the green light" to other communities considering similar laws.

The 4-3 decision came on a challenge by four village residents who contended that the 1981 law barring the sale and possession of handguns violated state constitutional guarantees of the right to bear arms and was not within the scope of local officials' authority.

The high court said that such a ban is constitutional as long as not all guns are outlawed and that village officials had the power to impose the ban to reduce weapons-related injuries and accidents.

Food firm recalls tamales

WASHINGTON (AP) — Paramount Foods of Louisville, Ky., is voluntarily recalling 10,000 jars of beef tamales because of possible spoilage, the Agriculture Department said Friday.

The company said about 42,000 of the 13.5-ounce jars were produced. Of those, about 10,000 jars are at retail outlets or have already been sold. The remaining jars were withheld by the company officials said.

The product was said to have been marketed in southern Indiana, Kentucky, central Michigan, southern Ohio, central Tennessee and the St. Louis area.

L.L. Gast of the department's Food Safety and Inspection Service said the "beef tamales with sauce" can be identified by the Paramount brand, the 13.5-ounce jar with press-on cap, and the code number 2448 on the cap.

State vows war on marijuana

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — State officials vowed Friday to continue their war on marijuana growers, despite a federal judge's ruling that their searches and seizures on private land without warrants were unconstitutional.

But opponents of the pot raids, which officials say have netted an estimated $29 million worth of marijuana, hailed U.S. District Judge Robert Aguiar's ruling Thursday as "important to protecting the rights of all citizens."

"This is a very important ruling because CAMP has been acting out of control," said R. Elaine Lettner, an attorney representing the plaintiff, NORML, National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws.

Various estimates have placed the value of California's marijuana crop at as much as $2 billion.

Street people sue Rajneeshes

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Street people brought to the compound of an Indian guru filed a $40 million federal suit Friday, claiming they were lured with false statements and forced to leave if they didn't register to vote.

Also Friday, a federal judge heard opening arguments in a suit by the followers of guru Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh protesting the blanket rejection of voter registrations in Wasco County.

The Rajneeshes have submitted more than 2,000 voter registrations in recent days with the names of street people imported to Rajneeshpuram from around the country. They are seeking an injunction to renew the normal processing of registrations.

The lawsuit on behalf of street people who left Rajneeshpuram contends that false statements were made to lure the street people to the community, and that they were forced either to register to vote or to leave the commune.

Reagan signs wilderness bill

By MAUREEN SANTINI
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Reagan on Friday signed more than 60 bills, including several designating wilderness areas in Georgia, Mississippi and Arkansas.

One compromise bill designates 91,103 acres of national forest system land in Arkansas as wilderness and releases about 94,000 acres of other land that was studied but not designated as wilderness.

Another establishes wilderness preserves of 14,439 acres in Georgia's Chattahoochee National Forest and releases 85,300 acres that were studied but not designated.

The third designates 5,500 acres in Mississippi's De Soto National Forest as wilderness and releases 2,300 acres that were studied but not designated as wilderness.

In addition, Reagan signed these other measures:

- A bill removing the National Archives from the control of the General Services Administration and establishing it as an independent agency within the Executive branch.

"The public papers and other materials that the Archives safeguards are precious and irreplaceable national treasures, and the agency that looks after the historical records of the federal government should be accorded a status that is commensurate with its important responsibilities," Reagan said in a written statement.

- A bill aimed at combating the illegal flow of drugs into the United States by putting new restrictions on pilots whose certificates are revoked for carrying illegal drugs, and making other adjustments.

"These provisions will not only provide an important deterrent to carrying illegal drugs by air, but will also contribute to safer skies since those who transport drugs by air typically show little regard for the safety of others whether in the air or on the ground," Reagan said.

- A bill establishing a 35-member task force to examine problems associated with organ transplants. Reagan said it should help increase the supply of "much needed organs and improve our ability to match donor organs with individuals in need of transplants."

- A bill settling the water rights of the Ak Chin Indian community in central Arizona. The settlement modifies a 1978 agreement between the tribe and the Interior Department, in which the department agreed to find new water and ship it to the 21,840-acre Ak Chin community near Maricopa in Pinal County.

Costs of the settlement, originally put at $42 million, have risen to $100 million and the water appears to flow from the same underground aquifer that now supplies Papago Indians and farmers in the district of Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz.

To avoid the increased costs, the Interior Department reached agreement with the Ak Chin that the tribe would use 50,000-acre-feet now allocated to the Yuma-Mesa Irrigation district which has no current use for it.

Reagan said the bill shows that the government "will fulfill our commitments in a fiscally responsible fashion," and "exemplifies how all parties can benefit from a negotiated settlement."

"A bill to allow all bankruptcy judges who otherwise are eligible to retire to receive the enhanced retirement benefits promised in the Bankruptcy Reform Act of 1978.

Though Reagan signed the bill, he urged Congress to repeal provisions that would continue bankruptcy judges in office after Congress had allowed their terms to lapse.

- A bill extending through 1989 the Vocational Education Act, and establishing several new state grant and national research and development programs. It also authorizes $500,000 for a national summit conference on education.

- A bill designed to improve procedures for designating marine sanctuaries and adopting new safety regulations for vessels under the Maritime Safety Act.

- A bill requiring the Veterans Administration to take several actions on the care and treatment of post-traumatic stress disorder.

- A bill proclaiming posthumously that William Penn, founder of Pennsylvania, and his wife, Hannah Callowhill Penn, were honorary citizens of the United States in recognition of their contributions to the development of the 13 original colonies.

Defense authorization act includes MX funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan on Friday signed a $21.5 billion Defense authorization act, saying that even though the totals were below his original request, "it is the most we could expect from the 98th Congress."

"It allows us to continue our efforts, at a reduced pace, to preserve the peace and guarantee our freedom," Reagan said.

The administration originally had sought nearly $220 billion for defense programs but later reduced that request to slightly over $219 billion.

Reagan said he is pleased that certain elements of the defense program received what he said was bipartisan congressional support. "Our strategic deterrent posture is being strengthened, and the B-1B (bomber) and ICB modernization programs are right on schedule," he said.

And he said he was pleased Congress provided funds to enable the MX missile to become operational within two years.

He said he is pleased also that the bill provides military service personnel "a fair and honorable wage." "We must not return to the days when our military people suffered low morale and when they had to wonder from day to day if they could make ends meet," Reagan said.

Reagan paid special tribute in his message on the signing of the defense bill to Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, the chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Tower, who has been mentioned as a possible future candidate for nomination as secretary of defense, is retiring from the Senate this year.

Tower's congressional services, Reagan said, "bear the mark of a true statesman and an extraordinary American."

Post office fire 'suspicious'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The fire that raged through the U.S. Postal Service headquarters this week, causing an estimated $100 million damage, was of "suspicious" origin, the chief of the city fire department said Friday.

"There is an indication there might be some foul play," District of Columbia Fire Chief Theodore R. Coleman said in an interview. Arson, he said, was "a possibility."

The fire broke out late Monday night on the ninth floor of the 10-story building, and 25 firefighters suffered smoke inhalation or heat exhaustion before it was brought under control about 90 minutes later.

Bombing victims remembered

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan on Friday signed legislation that authorizes $36 million to increase security at U.S. embassies abroad and designates next Tuesday — the first anniversary of the Marine barracks bombing in Beirut — as a day of remembrance for victims of terrorism.

At the request of Congress, Reagan designated Oct. 23 — the anniversary of the suicide truck-bombing that killed 241 U.S. servicemen — as a "time of remembrance" for all victims of terrorism throughout the world.

The proclamation was issued by the White House several hours after the president signed the anti-terrorism legislation, which also creates a $10 million fund to pay rewards for information about terrorist activities.

Ferraro statement questioned

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman and ranking Republican on the House ethics committee have contradicted Geraldine A. Ferraro's statements that she asked the panel to speed up its investigation into her financial disclosures.

Reps. Louis Stokes, D-Ohio, and Floyd D. Spence, R-S.C., wrote the Democratic vice presidential candidate that "there was no request" from her attorney to expedite the probe so it would be finished by the election.

The letter was dated Oct. 17 and released by Spence on Friday in Columbia, S.C. It cited remarks by Ms. Ferraro in her debate with Vice President George Bush on Oct. 11.

The letter said the committee staff has been proceeding "in a regular way" to investigate the New York congresswoman's financial disclosure submissions from 1978-83.

Effort to 'pack' court OK with justice

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Supreme Court Justice William H. Rehnquist said Friday he sees nothing wrong with a president trying to "pack" the nation's highest court with nominees "sympathetic to his political or philosophical principles."

But Rehnquist noted that past presidents have met with only partial success in such efforts to influence American law.

His remarks, in a speech prepared for delivery at the University of Minnesota's law school, come at a time of increased speculation over how this year's presidential election will affect the Supreme Court's future.

"A president who sets out to 'pack' the court seeks to appoint people to the court who are sympathetic to his political or philosophical principles. There is no reason in the world why a president should not do this," the justice said.

But Rehnquist added: "History teaches us that... a number of factors militate against a president having anything more than partial success."

One factor, he said, is that "while both presidents and judicial nominees may know the current constitutional issues of importance, neither of them

JUSTICE REHNQUIST Predicts partial success

(usually can predict) what the great issues of 10 or 15 years hence are to be."

Rehnquist also pointed out that presidents cannot predict with certainty how long even comparatively youthful nominees, appointed for life, may remain on the court. And, he noted, "personal antagonisms" often have developed between appointees of the same president.

"When one puts on the robe, one enters a world of public scrutiny and professional criticism which sets great store by individual performance and much less store upon the virtue of being a team player," Rehnquist said.

He said even newly appointed justices "strongly loyal to the president who appointed" them immediately face institutional pressures that may test and strain that loyalty.

The 1984 presidential election has focused some attention on the Supreme Court because five of the nine justices would reach age 80 before the end of the next president's term in office.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justice Thurgood Marshall are 76; Justice Harry A. Blackmun is 75; Justice William J. Brennan is 73; and Justice Lewis F. Powell is 77. Rehnquist is 60, the second youngest justice.

Rehnquist noted that President Franklin D. Roosevelt attempted in 1937 to expand the court's size to appoint New Deal sympathizers.

The court-packing failed, but Roosevelt soon thereafter got to fill four vacancies caused by deaths — an opportunity "given to him by the operation of the actuarial tables," Rehnquist said.

Rehnquist, a 1971 appointee of President Richard M. Nixon, generally is recognized as the current court's most politically conservative member.

In his speech, he illustrated his points about the limited scope of presidential influence on the court with examples: no more recent than the 1940s.

But the current court offers its own examples of judicial appointments that perhaps did not turn out the way presidents intended.

Brennan, a mainstay of the liberal court headed throughout the 1960s by the late Chief Justice Earl Warren and a leading liberal on the current court, was appointed by a moderate Republican, Dwight D. Eisenhower. Blackmun and Justice John Paul Stevens, independent and often liberal voices on the court, were appointed by Republicans Nixon and President Gerald R. Ford, respectively.

Montanans still sought in kidnapping

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — Two mountain men accused of kidnapping and wounding a woman athlete and killing one of her rescuers have vanished without a trace.

They have disappeared despite a three-month search by airplane and on-horseback, but officers say the father and son will be caught, even if it takes years.

"In cases like this, patience becomes your best ally," said Madison County Sheriff Johnny France. "I close my eyes at night and see those guys."

"It's frustrating for me, but it must be terrifying for them not knowing what I'm going to do next."

Don Nichols and his son Dan, 19, allegedly grabbed Karl Swenson, a Montana State University student and member of the U.S. women's biathlon team, as she jogged along a mountain trail near Big Sky on July 15, authorities say.

Miss Swenson, 23, who is recovering from her wounds, said later she apparently was intended as a bride for Dan Nichols, who she believed shot her accidentally.

Alan Goldstein and Jim Schwalbe, searching for Miss Swenson the next morning, found the woman chained to a log with a bullet wound in her upper chest. The Nicholoses were standing nearby, Schwalbe told police.

Don Nichols, 53, then shot Goldstein in the head, killing him instantly, and Schwalbe ran for help, authorities say. The mountain men disappeared.

Friends and relatives say Dan Nichols is less enamored of the wilderness than his father and might surrender, but France says "he would have to escape his father to do so."

"He's been very propagandized by his father. He probably has the boy convinced that if he comes out, he'll stretch him," a reference to hanging as capital punishment in Montana.

Dan Nichols "has had a taste of society — the Dairy Queen, school dances, cheerleaders. And now that's all lost to him," he said.

Sheriff's deputies and federal authorities have used horses and airplanes to scour the area for traces of the fugitives, interviewed their friends and relatives, and checked leads from across the United States.

"There is no new information at this point," said Gallatin County Sheriff John Onstad, who with France mounted an intensive search of the rugged mountains of southwest Montana "that we consider their home base."

"There are no sightings or tracks that we can confirm," Onstad said.

The Nicholoses, who have spent the last 12 summers in the mountains, and have lived there continuously since August 1983, reportedly have an elaborate network of gardens and supply caches, and may have a hidden cave where they could sit out the harsh Montana winters.

France speculated the father and son may have changed their appearances and blended into society, or they may have shifted into the Grand Teton National Park area of Wyoming, where they reportedly have caches of supplies.

Authorities have said the arrival of snow in the high country could make tracking the fugitives easier, but it also heralds the beginning of hunting season Sunday and increases the chance of confrontation with hunters.

The two sheriffs say they have no doubts the Nicholoses will be caught.

But Schwalbe, 30, said he thinks the men are "long gone," and won't be found "unless by accident."

Actor dies of wounds; vital organs donated

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The body of actor Joe-Erik Hexum, who shot himself in a freak accident on the set of the television series "Cover Up," was taken Friday to a San Francisco hospital so his vital organs could be removed for donation, officials said.

"The heart and the eyes will be transported here," said Nancy Millhouse, spokeswoman for Pacific Presbyterian Medical Center in San Francisco. "The kidneys will be returned to Los Angeles. Probably two recipients are waiting, and they'll be doing the matching."

She said the heart would go to a 27-year-old man from out of state who had requested anonymity. No recipients had been found for the eyes or kidneys.

Hexum, 26, was pronounced brain dead at 7:31 p.m. Thursday of head injuries suffered when he fired a .44 Magnum blank cartridge against his right temple on Oct. 12, publicist Guy Thomas said at a news conference Friday at Beverly Hills Medical Center in Los Angeles.

"The blank sent a piece of his skull the size of a quarter deep inside his brain, causing massive injury to the right side of his brain," Dr. David Ditsworth, Hexum's neurosurgeon, said in a statement.

Soviets say U.S. avoiding weapons control discussion

By ANDREW ROSENTHAL
The Associated Press

MOSCOW — A Foreign Ministry spokesman on Friday said the White House is not showing interest in better ties with Moscow and is creating "falsifications" about alleged Soviet violations of arms control agreements.

The spokesman, Vladimir Lomeiko, told a press briefing there are "many paths" the United States could take toward improving relations, and reiterated President Ronald Reagan's list of four "crucial issues" on which the Kremlin would like to see a conciliatory U.S. move.

He said the Soviets are not singling out as most important any one of the four — a proposed nuclear weapons freeze, Moscow's call for a ban on space weapons, U.S. ratification of test-ban treaties and a pledge by the United States not to be the first to use nuclear weapons.

Lomeiko refused to characterize Soviet calls for a halt to NATO's medium-range missile program and a "precondition" to resuming the suspended Geneva arms talks.

He used somewhat softer language in talking about the issue, saying removal of the missiles would be "the sensible thing to do" if the United States wants to resume the talks that Moscow broke off last November after NATO's deployment began.

But he did not indicate that the Soviets have backed off their determination not to resume talks while the deployment continues. Last week, Lomeiko called removal of the missiles "essential" for a return to Geneva.

Lomeiko mentioned that statement when asked about the question of resuming the Geneva talks, saying, "I think I have already answered your question."

Several reporters tried to pin Lomeiko down, but his responses were inconclusive. Charging the NATO deployment scuttled the Geneva talks, he added:

"The new American missiles—in Western Europe were deployed on American initiative and forced on the people of Western Europe. Their withdrawal would not be a precondition but a matter of common sense, a sensible thing to do."

Responding to another question, Lomeiko agreed that the Soviet-proposed freeze would include the NATO rockets in Europe, and that nuclear forces should be frozen "at the level which exists now."

U.S. rescues crew hit in gulf

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) — An Iranian warplane attacked a small Panamanian-registered vessel in the Persian Gulf on Friday and patrolling U.S. Navy ships rescued most of its crewmen.

The 1,512-ton vessel, the Pacific Protector, was first sighted in trouble by a U.S. military aircraft, which radioed the Greek tanker Ioannis Couliouros with a "ship-on-fire" signal at about 10 a.m., maritime salvage executives reported.

"It appears the American aircraft alerted the American navy units, while the Ioannis Couliouros wired on the information to Lloyds (insurance underwriters)—in London," said one salvage company officer, speaking on the condition that he not be identified.

"The American navy vessels rushed to the stricken vessel and managed to pick up survivors. Two of the crewmen were possibly killed in the attack," he said.

The captain, a New Zealander, was among the missing, the sources said, and 16 crewmen were rescued.

Salvage tugboats of Gray McKenzie, a British company, and Wismuller Companies of the Netherlands were battling the flames on the Pacific Protector, company sources said.

They said survivors were rescued by the U.S. guided-missile frigate Stark.

The Pacific Protector was used for work offshore by maritime companies based in the United Arab Emirates port of Dubai, Bahrain shipping sources said. It was attacked while on its way from Bahrain to Qatar, according to a spokesman for the Pacific Protector's owner, Swire Pacific Offshore, in Hong Kong.

"A rocket, fired by the Iranian plane, hit the wheelhouse, and ignited fire in the ship," said one salvage company source.

Veterans gather to mark invasion

DULAG, Philippines (AP) — Disabled and leaning on his crutches, Billy J. Robertson wept at the sight of a faded American flag fluttering Friday over this seaside town where he and 174,000 other troops landed 40 years ago.

He said he will never come back.

Now 64, the former U.S. Navy machinist's mate from Sherman, Texas, is among dozens of American war veterans who have gathered on Leyte Island to mark the anniversary of the Oct. 20, 1944, American invasion that foreshadowed the end of the Japanese military empire in Southeast Asia.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, with a 700-ship armada, led the invasion to fulfill the famous "I shall return" pledge he made to Filipinos more than two years earlier when he fled the country as the Japanese Imperial Army completed its occupation of this former U.S. colony.

The U.S.—Sixth Army's—two-day naval bombardment started Oct. 20 and on Oct. 22, MacArthur came ashore.

President Ferdinand E. Marcos had been scheduled to lead today's ceremonies, including a re-enactment of the landing on Leyte's Red Beach. But the presidential palace in Manila said Marcos could not make it because of bad weather.

Organizers said they would hold the re-enactment, by Filipino and American soldiers, on Sunday but that they didn't know if Marcos will be there.

"No, no, I won't be back again," said Robertson as he stood on a wooden stage facing the American flag after joining other veterans in singing the Star Spangled Banner during a commemorative program.

"The older you get, the harder it is (to forget)," Robertson said as his body shook with sobs.

Hundreds of Filipino residents paraded through the town, with local women riding on floats drawn by water buffaloes and motorcycles marching at the head of a brass band.

One float carried a school teacher wearing a soldier's khaki uniform, a Pershing cap and dark glasses and billing a pipe between his teeth — an imitation of MacArthur.

Embalzoned on the sides of the float were the words, "I have returned."

It was on Hill 120 in Dulag that the Americans first raised the Stars and Stripes to symbolize the successful invasion of Leyte, which is situated 350 miles southeast of Manila.

This is Robertson's third trip to Leyte since the war. The visits have helped restore his memory, which he said was impaired by the explosion on the beach.

"By going back, retracing footsteps and talking to people and reading stories, I finally put everything right. I can remember. I can recognize a lot of places now," he said.

Then he broke down and, in tears, said he would never come back to Leyte.

Asked if he feels bitter toward the Japanese, Robertson replied, "They were doing as they were told, as we were. The common man has no control over what his government does. I would not have said that 40 years ago, but I have learned a lot since then."

Japanese and Australian war veterans have also been invited to attend this year's ceremonies but only a handful have arrived in Leyte.

Troops, rebels clash in Salvadoran villages

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Government troops pressed an offensive in northeastern El Salvador on Friday to flush leftist rebels from mountain hideouts, but guerrillas claimed they had received warning and escaped the attack.

Guerrilla threats paralyzed highway traffic for a second day.

In a communique, the rebels accused the Reagan administration of being the "principal element" opposing peace in El Salvador. They called on the Salvadoran people to join their fight "to achieve a just peace."

The stepped-up military actions in Morazan Province flared three days after President Jose Napoleon Duarte met Monday with rebel leaders for the first talks aimed at ending the five-year-old civil war. Both sides promised to hold a second meeting in November.

In a broadcast Friday, the guerrillas' clandestine Radio Venceremos called the Morazan operation "yet another defeat for the puppet army," claiming the rebels had gotten early word of it and had cleared out of the area.

A military source, who spoke on condition of anonymity for security reasons, said in a telephone interview that between 5,600 and 6,000 government troops were involved in the drive, which began Thursday north of the Torola River.

The source said the town of Perquin, 125 miles northeast of the capital, was used as the staging point. He said the attack was led by U.S.-trained special battalions were taking part in the operation, led by Lt. Col. Domingo Monterrosa, the army's 3rd Infantry Battalion's commander.

Rebel forces retaliated by threatening highway traffic in half the country. Highways are roads were deserted Friday in the eastern and northern part of the country, following a Radio Venceremos announcement early Thursday that rebels would "intercept" any drivers found on the roads.

One bus was heavily damaged as it approached a guerrilla roadblock near Aguilanes, 22 miles north of San Salvador, but no casualties were reported.

Traffic was virtually normal in the western and northwestern half of El Salvador, where the guerrillas rarely operate.

Soviet plane hits truck

MOSCOW (AP) — An Aeroflot passenger plane crashed into a fuel truck while taking off from the airport in the Siberian city of Omsk, a Western airline official said Friday.

The report could not be confirmed officially.

It was not known if any passengers were killed or injured or how many were aboard the plane.

The airline official, who spoke on condition that he not be identified, said an Aeroflot employee told him the aircraft was taking off for the city of Krasnodar in the southern Russian Republic when the accident occurred.

He said he was told the plane crashed into a fuel truck, but he did not know any other details. The Western airline official said he was not able to learn what type of plane was involved or the extent of casualties.

Aeroflot has a daily flight from Omsk to Krasnodar. The airline normally uses TU-154 jets for domestic flights, and reference books say the plane has a capacity of 128 to 167 passengers.

Ketchum police chief to face threat charge

By DAVE LEWIS
Times-News writer

HAILEY — Ketchum Police Chief Cal Nevland will face a probable cause hearing next week for allegedly threatening to kill Blaine County Sheriff Dennis Haynes.

Nevland will appear at 4 p.m. Tuesday in Blaine County Magistrate Court to determine if there is sufficient evidence to try him on the charge, which is a misdemeanor, confirmed Blaine County Prosecutor Keith Roark.

The hearing will be open to the public, an unusual procedure in probable cause hearings.

The charges against Nevland are being brought by Halley Police Chief Dan Norton, and not Roark.

Norton says Nevland threatened to kill the sheriff on Sept. 6 after Haynes laid out Nevland's wife from the sheriff's department. He says Nevland dictated the threat "to blow your brains out" against Haynes to a night dispatcher in the sheriff's office.

Nevland admits talking to the dispatcher, but says his statement was an "expression, not a threat."

The dispatcher who took the message, Lois Benitez, says she thought the threat was a joke when it was made.

Norton says Nevland called the sheriff's office at about 6:20 p.m. on Sept. 6, talked to Benitez and asked her to take down a message to Haynes.

The note Benitez wrote, Norton says, reads: "Dennis, if you come near my office, I'll blow your brains out of your head. You'd be dirty... and you had no reason to fire my wife. I'll destroy you at any cost."

Roark says he is making the hearing public because of the unusual circumstances that surrounds the incident and the handling of the investigation.

Norton did not make out a crime report on the incident until this week. And, instead of taking the report to the prosecutor, as is normal to request charges, he released the information and evidence to The Wood River

"Under these circumstances, I am proceeding in a different fashion than is normally the case," Roark says.

"I think a full airing of the evidence in this case, perhaps a more complete hearing, is needed," he says.

He says he has the option to make a probable cause hearing and will do so in this case to let the public know what the evidence is.

Last week, Nevland came out against Haynes' bid for re-election, claiming Haynes is unprofessional and a poor administrator. He said his reasons for opposing Haynes were professional and personal, including his wife's problems in the department.

Nevland is supporting Orville Drexler, who was the county's sheriff for 16 years until Haynes beat him in 1980. Haynes is a Republican. Drexler is a Democrat.

Following Nevland's announcement of his opposition to Haynes, Norton immediately threw his support to Haynes and a few days later released the information on the alleged threat.

Despite the way the case was handled, Roark says he is not accusing Norton of releasing the information for the benefit of Haynes' campaign. Norton also says he did not do it for political reasons.

Hansen PAC makes a dual donation

By RICK SHAUGHNESSY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Fallout resulting from an unauthorized $2,500 contribution to Rep. George Hansen's re-election campaign has caused a credit union political action committee to provide a matching donation to challenger Richard Stallings.

Bill Tell, president of the Idaho Credit Union League, says members of his organization had originally intended not to make contributions to either of the candidates' campaigns.

But, Tell explains, "on July 13, the national association in Washington made a contribution to Congressman Hansen. They had not gotten the approval of the Idaho Credit Union League... it was an error made on the part of a staff member."

on contributions to Idaho candidates "but this time they just did it," Cummings added.

Tell says representatives of member credit unions began calling the league's Boise office after the Hansen donation was first publicized.

"(They) wanted to know how the donation was made without the approval of the Idaho Credit Union League," Tell says, adding that those members were generally "annoyed."

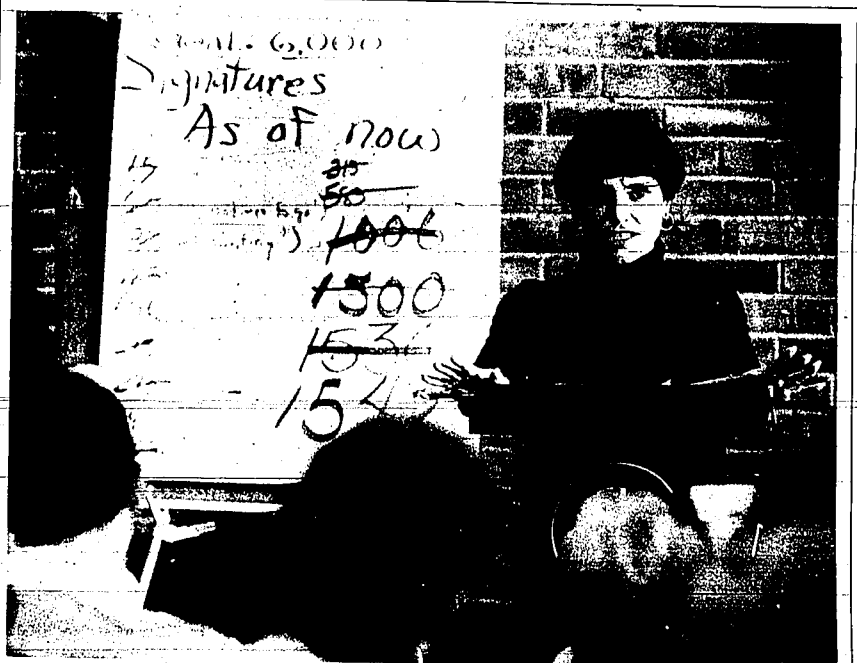

"The league had supported Hansen regularly in the past but decided not to support him this year because of his trial, conviction and the bad publicity," Tell said.

"They (the national PAC) made an error. We didn't approve of the mistake so we asked them to make" the matching donation, Tell says. He adds that the supervisor of the individual who made the unauthorized donation "said he didn't know how it happened" but said "it won't happen again."

Stallings said he was unaware of any mix-ups with the credit unions' PAC.

"They contacted me and stated they wanted to donate to my campaign," he said, adding that the American Sugar Beet Growers PAC also contributed to both with a pair of $250 donations.

Hansen declined the opportunity to comment on the circumstances of the unauthorized donation.

Walkout leaves parents in the lurch

By TERRY RICH HARTLEY
Times-News correspondent

TWIN FALLS — The sudden walkout by Twin Falls teachers left parents Friday with disrupted plans—children—with unexpected playtime, and day-care centers with increased attendance.

The suddenness of the walkout caught many parents by surprise, and a "consensus" of parents' comments by The Times-News shows that the teachers may have unwittingly damaged their own cause.

Kathy Yragui, who has three daughters attending Twin Falls schools, said, "I don't think they should have walked out. They're getting enough money as is. If they're really doing their job, they would have stayed on to watch out for the kids."

husband, Mark, is a building contractor, their son isn't left alone but can go with him on jobs. "But I saw four kids waiting for the bus this morning on my way to work," she said.

Fellow employee, Sharon Simmons, said her son was also upset. A second grade student, he wanted to know why substitute teachers couldn't fill in so he could go to school as Bickel.

"He wanted to know if the teachers still get paid even when they're off work," she said, adding that personally she regrets the interruption in her child's education.

"He's had some learning problems but they've been working with him really well. Now this."

"They both (teachers and school board) should give in a little bit," Simmons said. "The teachers are underpaid, but then I'm not sure what the school district has to work with."

Teachers sue school district

By DEANS MILLER
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Education Association is suing the school district for $250,000 in damages, they say, because they are entitled to be paid by law.

The teachers are seeking a declaratory judgment in the Idaho Fifth District Court to force the district to pay out all $250,000 allocated to the district by the Legislature under House Bill 475.

School board spokesman Gary Fay said district officials had not studied it or sent it to their attorney. Fay said the district is not compelled to reply for 20 days. The complaint was served on the district late Friday.

Fay said Edward L. Benoit will probably represent the district in the suit. Benoit is currently representing the district in ex-Superintendent Gary Piller's legal action against the district.

Idaho Education Association attorney Byron Johnson of Boise filed the suit on behalf of the teachers.

Johnson's complaint seeks declaratory judgment that "all moneys allocated by the district pursuant to Sections 5, 6, and 7 of H.B. No. 475 must be used for the purpose of increasing salaries of certificated personnel."

The complaint also seeks attorney fees, other costs, and further relief as "the Court

Stallings

Debate comment is retracted

By RICK SHAUGHNESSY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — In response to a Blaine County Republican's charge of "gross misstatement," Democratic congressional candidate Richard Stallings has retracted comments he made during a debate with incumbent Rep. George Hansen Thursday night.

Stallings' comments, made in response to a question from Hansen on the Idaho wilderness issue, indicated that Blaine County's Republican chairman had asked Stallings for help resolving the controversy over how to administer large tracts of roadless lands in Idaho.

Stallings answered that he would support the wishes of residents in financially-distressed communities where opening some unroaded areas might aid economic development. But he added, "when I go into other parts (of the district), such as the Blaine County area — where the chamber of commerce and the chairman of the Republican committee comes to me and says: 'We need additional wilderness. Will you support us?' — then if I'm going to be consistent at all

I will support that."

Blaine County Republican Chairman Marty Orwig responded Friday, saying: "Mr. Stallings' assertion that I sought his assistance on the wilderness issue is a flat-out falsehood."

"Mr. Stallings needs to know that at the base of this wilderness area, 60 percent of the voters in Blaine County voted Republican," she said referring to the percentage of Blaine County voters who voted the Republican ticket in the May 22 Idaho primary.

"These people — almost 60 percent — voted to stand behind Sen. McClure and Sen. McClure's wilderness position," she said, adding: "In Blaine County we are seeking Sen. McClure, Sen. Symms, and Congressman Hansen's help on this issue, not Mr. Stallings."

Stallings retracted the comment without hesitation.

"I didn't mean to quote her. I was referring to other Republicans," Stallings said in a telephone interview Friday. "I was approached on the issue by several prominent (Blaine County) Republicans who've contributed to my campaign," he said.

Colleen Jensen, who works at Volco, Inc. and has a son attending Bickel, said that she had one unhappy son at home.

"There was supposed to be a school carnival tonight. I just spoke to one teacher who said the teachers were willing to show up for the carnival but the school board told them 'nothing doing,'" she said.

"I feel bad for the kids. The teachers want something and the school board hasn't given it to them. They (teachers) threatened and the board called their bluff and this is the result."

Jensen points out that because her contract began July 1 and was for three years, Fuller says. Edward Benoit, attorney for the district, argues the contract was for one year.

Fuller says he decided to ask for the $4.6 million, partly because the board may have done permanent damage to Piller's professional reputation.

Whether Piller wins or loses the suit, he may not be able to find work again as a school administrator, Fuller says.

"It's difficult to evaluate what he won't lose in the next 20 years," he says. "Win or lose, it hurts."

The board fired Piller on Wednesday and declined to explain its action on the advice of Benoit.

things a bit differently.

"I just felt sorry for the frustrated parents," she said. "It should have been more publicized."

"When schools close because of snow it hits the radio over and over, but many parents didn't know about this," she said, adding that many parents were late for work because of it.

Sobotka noted that most of her extra children are also ones who normally come by after school.

Not to leave parents completely high and dry, some Twin Falls school teachers have offered to babysit, according to Dennis Sontus, principal of Morningside School.

"If any parents call up and say they have nobody to take care of their children, a couple teachers here said they would take care of them," Sontus said, refusing to give the teachers' names, but instead noting that parents should contact him.

Fired superintendent sues school district for $4.6 million

By ANNETTE CARY

TWIN FALLS — Former Superintendent Gary Piller is asking for over $4.6 million in a suit he filed Friday against the Twin Falls School District and against individual board members.

Piller is claiming the board violated his right to due process when it fired him Wednesday morning. He is also suing for "breach of contract and defamation."

He accuses the board of acting maliciously and with the intent of injuring his good name and reputation on all three counts.

The board undermined his position as superintendent "by conducting a secret evaluation of plaintiff (Piller) through various administrators and other employees normally under the direct supervision of plaintiff, and by fostering false rumors relative to plaintiff's alleged sexual activities; and by causing false statements to be published concerning plaintiff with various public media..." the suit charges.

The board's actions resulted in Piller being "through before the public and tried where his reputation was at stake," the suit reads, referring to Piller's reputation as a "good, truthful and competent school administrator and community member."

The suit also accuses the board of not telling Piller he was under investigation before he was suspended with pay at the end of August and denying a request for a "proper hearing."

Piller adhered to all terms of his contract, according to the suit.

Piller accuses the school board of overstepping its authority. He quotes a policy manual that says the board would refuse to deal with individual employees except through the superintendent unless in case of appeal from his decisions.

Piller is asking for lost wages, expenses incurred if he has to relocate, legal costs, punitive damages and general damages for loss of reputation, loss of sleep and emotional distress. He also asks for $127,513.62 in wages for the remainder of his contract.

His contract began July 1 and was for three years, Fuller says. Edward Benoit, attorney for the district, argues the contract was for one year.

Fuller says he decided to ask for the $4.6 million, partly because the board may have done permanent damage to Piller's professional reputation.

Whether Piller wins or loses the suit, he may not be able to find work again as a school administrator, Fuller says.

"It's difficult to evaluate what he won't lose in the next 20 years," he says. "Win or lose, it hurts."

The board fired Piller on Wednesday and declined to explain its action on the advice of Benoit.

Letter lists Piller's offenses

By ANNETTE CARY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Former Twin Falls Superintendent Gary Piller is alleged to have not complied with his job goal, used coercive means and engaged in offensive conduct, among other allegations listed in a letter sent to him by the school board.

The letter, dated Oct. 1, announced the hearing that preceded Piller's firing and notified him of eight allegations.

The letter was made public as an exhibit in a suit filed by Piller Friday.

In U.S. District Court. The suit contends that board members acted to "injure Piller's good name and reputation" and fostered "false rumors."

Following two nights of closed hearings this week, the school board voted to fire Piller and not to pay him for the remainder of his contract.

The eight allegations against Piller listed in the letter include the following:

"You have not complied with the Job Goal set forth in the Job Description Manual of the district referring to the superintendent of schools, which

Late hospital bills in hands of collector

By JA'NEVE BUCKWAY
Times-News correspondent

GOODING — A credit collection service will assist Gooding County Memorial Hospital to recover its overdue accounts.

At its Thursday meeting, the hospital board agreed to have Health Care Financial Services of Ogden, Utah, begin preparing to take over the accounts.

Hospital Administrator Duane Cutright said the collection company expects to begin operations in Gooding Nov. 1.

A formal contract for the company's services was not ready for board approval Thursday so board members agreed their move to hire Health Care Financial Service was subject to further review and approval of a contract with the company.

Cutright said the company, representative George Goodell is prepared to begin working with the Gooding hospital and will present a contract next week.

The hospital has more than $500,000 in outstanding accounts, which are affecting the hospital's cash flow, board Chairman Jodi Faulkner told the board last month.

The collection service proposes to take over all accounts more than 55 days past due and issue the patients a monthly payment booklet with a rate of interest figured into the payment schedule.

The hospital does not have a computer for handling billing and accounts receivable and the board agreed the collection service would be a cost effective way to handle the overdue accounts problem.

In other financial business, Cutright told the board the September income statement shows a $36,889 operating loss for a variety of reasons.

The hospital experienced a low patient census of only 8.6 percent of capacity during the month.

"The revenue is down because the census is down; it is the lowest in several months," he said.

But Cutright added the overall patient count has averaged one patient per bed more this year than last.

He also told the board the September totals by such a large margin, because it reflects a change in accounting procedures.

"We're trying to make it (the financial statement) more sensitive to actual monthly conditions," he said.

The size of uncollected accounts, the medical reimbursement procedures and the way the staff physicians fees are listed in the report have resulted in what Cutright called "an understatement in the operating loss" in previous monthly reports.

In a related matter, Cutright told the board the hospital has received $22,000 from Medicare, but has also received notice from the federal program that the hospital will have to return $16,000 of that amount.

He said the Medicare notice says an audit of the program shows the hospital was overpaid.

"We're checking our records to see how much we owe," he said.

The hospital has begun a series of out-patient services including home health and Life Line and Cutright told the board those programs are working well at present.

In other business, Walker ACT Center Administrator Tim Kelley told the board the problem between the center and the hospital's dietary department has been smoothed out.

The Gooding hospital provides meals for Walker Center patients on a contract reimbursement program but Kelley said center patients had been dissatisfied with the food.

"On a scale of one to five, the patients were rating the food anywhere between one and minus 10," he said.

But he told the board the problem is improving and now patients rate the meals at "around 3, which is really pretty good. Hospital food is never going to be as good as Mom's," he added.

Cars collide on Perrine Bridge

TWIN FALLS — The slick roads over the Perrine Bridge caused a bumper car type accident Friday morning.

At 6:48 a.m., Carla E. Porter, 26, of Twin Falls lost control of her northbound car and hit the cement median, according to the Idaho State Police.

The car came to rest broadside in the lane. But, it was struck shortly by a car driven by 49-year-old William Farnsworth, who couldn't stop in time to avoid a collision.

About the same time, a truck driven by 27-year-old Patricia R. Christensen of Twin Falls also had a mishap. Christensen hit the brakes to avoid the two other cars, lost control and hit the cement.

Porter was taken to Magic Valley Regional Medical Center where she was treated and released. Her passengers, 28-year-old James Grammer and 32-year-old James Hecks, both of Twin Falls, were not injured.

BLM fails to sell land tracts

SHOSHONE — The Bureau of Land Management failed in its second attempt to sell two tracts of desert lands near Richfield.

In a Friday morning sealed competitive bidding sale, no bids were received on either an 80-acre or a 40-acre tract.

Ervin Cowley, a BLM area manager, says that previous efforts to sell the land in August and September also failed to prompt any bids.

Legal access is guaranteed to both parcels by a county road, but they lack water.

Cowley said the BLM might try to sell the land a third time. If the third sale fails, the agency will probably take the land off the market, he said.

Five injured in auto collision

WENDELL — Five persons were injured Friday morning in a two-car accident, two miles east of Wendell on the old Jerome-Wendell highway.

The accident occurred at 11:15 a.m. when 23-year-old Lydia Bernal of Twin Falls, who was southbound, pulled out from a stop sign and into the path of a westbound truck driven by 51-year-old Henry Schutte of Eden, according to an Idaho State Police report.

Both vehicles hit an Idaho Power Company utility pole.

The two drivers and Bernal's passengers, Teresa Capcha, 32, of Jerome and Norma Zammarria, 20, of Twin Falls were treated for minor injuries at St. Benedict's Hospital in Jerome. Another Bernal passenger, 16-year-old Ruben Mondragon of Twin Falls, was admitted.

GOP candidates plan meeting

TWIN FALLS — Republican candidates for legislative and county posts will appear at a meeting of Twin Falls County Republican Women, noon Monday at the Canyon Springs Inn.

Featured speakers will include legislative candidates: Laird Noh and Darrell McRoberts, who are running for the Idaho Senate, and Noy Brackett, Tom Silvers and Lawrence Knigge, who are running for the Idaho House of Representatives. Commissioner Judy Felton, Sheriff Jim Huan and coroner candidate James B. Wood will also speak. The public is invited.

"That isn't really the reason... We sat on it because we weren't sure what we were going to do," Norton says about the delay in acting on the incident that took place six weeks ago.

He says Haynes was reluctant to make a complaint about the incident at the time it happened because he didn't want to make a big deal out of it and that Haynes had asked him to review the incident.

Haynes will not comment on the incident except to say he hopes the differences between Nevland and he will not hurt the working relationship between their departments.

Nevland says he did not intend the statement as a threat. He says he was joking with Bentler when he made it and they both laughed about it at the time.

He said it was an expression that is often made in anger. "There is no way I actually threatened Dennis Haynes," Nevland says.

He says he called the dispatcher as a friend of Wanda Nevland, his wife, to find out why she got laid off and not to find Haynes.

"Everybody at the time thought it was a joke," says Bentler about the threat. "He (Nevland) was very angry. He had just found out about his wife getting laid off," she adds.

Bentler says at first she was not going to tell Haynes about the incident, but then decided to do so in case Nevland actually was serious and might try to do something.

Haynes called Roark and Roark called Nevland. Then, Nevland called Bentler back and joked, "I guess I really scared him," she says.

BPA sets rate hike hearing

BURLEY — The Bonneville Power Administration will hold a hearing on Monday to discuss its latest proposed rate increase.

The proposal calls for the wholesale cost of electricity for residential use to rise at an annual rate of 4.3 percent over a 27 month period.

The proposal would increase industrial power rates from 2.5 cents per kilowatt hour to 2.52 cents.

The proposed increases are smaller than those of recent years, says BPA administrator Peter Johnson. If the proposal is approved, the average Northwest consumer using 1,000 kilowatt hours per month would pay $1.46 more a month for electricity.

The complaint cites the language of Sections 5, 6 and 7 of House Bill 475, which provide the funds are to be used "specifically for increasing salaries of certificated personnel."

The complaint says the teachers have advised the board the district is required to use the monies in accordance with House Bill 475 and that the board has told the teachers the district is not required to use all of the money received by the district to increase salaries of certificated personnel.

Twin Falls Education Association President Dick Chilcote says the board's refusal to use all the House Bill 475 money for teacher salary increases is illegal.

Board president Eugene Champlin says the district will operate in the red if it gives the teachers the full $206,000 allocated under House Bill 475 and that state law prohibits school boards from knowingly operating a school district in deficit.

Johnson could not be reached for comment Friday night.

Bishop Tutu seen as too moderate — or too radical

By FRED BRUNING
Newsday

NEW YORK — In his home church in the Soweto section of Johannesburg, Bishop Desmond Tutu sometimes dances down the aisle, laughing and whooping at parishioners' testimonies to his irrepressible nature and to the churchman's abiding conviction that, even in racially divided South Africa, joy one day will vanquish despair.

Some of that ebullience was evident Tuesday when, informed he had won the Nobel Peace Prize, Bishop Tutu directed a message to South Africans stymied by apartheid. "Hey! We are winning!" said the 53-year-old Anglican cleric. "Justice is going to win."

The Nobel award comes at a particularly difficult time. For two months, there have been violent confrontations between South African blacks and authorities seeking to uphold the nation's separatist policies. Strikes have closed mines and factories, some 200,000 students are boycotting classes, and at least 80 blacks have died, some after police showed crowds with rubber bullets.

Last week, the first white fatality occurred when a 3-week-old boy was hit in the head with a rock. So tense is the situation that home that Tutu, general secretary of the South African Council of Churches, may have to cut short a stay here as he is teaching for a semester at the General Theological Seminary in Manhattan. One can be optimistic, he points out, but worried, as well.

In South Africa, perhaps no black has been able to address the white community more often or with more candor. Tutu has lectured at white universities and preached in white churches. He even has met with President F. W. de Klerk in a 1980 visit that infuriated militant blacks. Tutu withstood the criticism and said that it was useful that Botha and he exchanged ideas on a "Christian-to-Christian" basis.

While some black activists chide Tutu for what they consider a moderate approach to reform, many whites argue the bishop is a revolutionary at heart and that the Council of Churches is a front for the insurgent African National Congress.

Tutu rejects that notion, but many whites remain convinced the bishop is more intent on making trouble than peace. His endorsement of a "liberation" theology makes Afrikaners uneasy, and politicians fret about his support for striking black workers and his vigorous opposition of a plan to move urban blacks to rural "homelands." The bishop has asked other nations to put economic pressure on Botha — and is distressed by those who refuse.

BISHOP TUTU He dances in the aisles

In a recent newspaper article, the bishop condemned the Reagan administration for its dealings with South Africa. "Would the United States have collaborated with the Stalin regime in its internal policies?" he wrote. "Would it have had constructive engagement with Nazi Germany? How come the United States supports a system as vicious as evil and as immoral as Communism and Nazism?"

Situated in the black community while reaching toward the white, Tutu must be wary not to topple. His commitment to nonviolence demands that his followers find peaceful means for redressing their grievances — a tough order, critics say, for citizens who lack the right to hold office, or even to vote.

According to some blacks, Tutu suspends disbelief too willingly when it comes to whites and that he has an entirely unrealistic faith in human decency.

"He is a prisoner of the Gospel," said one young clergyman who both admires Tutu's courage and is frustrated by the bishop's patient approach. "He will say, 'Love your enemy.' At his age, he should have a little more. There's this problem with Tutu: He believes in the Gospel literally."

In a way, the statement misses the point of Tutu's ministry. The bishop is not asking blacks to think only the best of whites, nor is he urging blacks to accept policies advanced by an intransigent and insecure ruling class.

Rather, he challenges his flock to struggle for equality without abandoning their instincts for decency and mercy. That is the burden, he tells them, of Christian commitment. "I will never tell someone to pick up a gun," Tutu says, "but I will pray for the man who picks up the gun, pray that he will be less cruel than he might otherwise have been."

Church to note anniversary

Pastor offers spiritual leadership

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Reformed Church will be observing its eighth anniversary Oct. 28.

"We usually serve an anniversary cake to the congregation," Pastor Donald Nienhuis says. "The building, now to the public library, is approximately 75 years old and was occupied by several other denominations before becoming 'home' to the Reformed Church."

"We started with 22 member-families," Nienhuis says, "and now have 125." The church has bought property at Grandview and Pole Line Road, he adds, and is "now in the fund-raising process" for building.

Nienhuis has been a pastor for 30 years, and says he has known, since he was in the fourth or fifth grade, that this is how he would serve.

"I've always been sensitive to spiritual things," he says quietly.

He is a native of Oak Harbor, Wash., and took his undergraduate studies at Seattle Pacific, before attending Western Theological Seminary in Michigan.

"Pastor Don," as he is known to his congregation, says serving a church was quite different back then. One big change is the increase in counseling.

"I did more counseling in my first few months in Florida," 17 years after entering the ministry, "than in all the previous years," he says. "He attributes this partly to the stressful times in which we live, and believes it is also due to children having been raised in the late '50s and early '60s with the philosophy of 'don't speak, don't scold — you'll harm the child.'"

Nienhuis says the result has been a lack of "needed discipline and the security discipline gives," adding that many haven't grown up with a sense of responsibility necessary to handle money and marriage.

He recalls that when he was serving a church in New Jersey before coming here, "he would take the youth to a camp," owned by Jim Vaus, who was converted to Christianity from the wrong side of the law.

"I guess you'd call him a gangster," Nienhuis explains. "He was working for the underworld and the FBI at the same time — living a double life." After his conversion, he went into youth work to reach the underprivileged kids in New York City.

"For two or three years," he continues, "we took a group of children from here," in Twin Falls, to Orcas Island — the northern-most of the San Juan, and now Pastor Brian Vriesman is working with the young people at the Twin Falls church. He's been here six months and "is wonderful with the youth," Nienhuis says.

"His father and I were pastors together in Michigan; Little did we know at that time that this little skinny kid would eventually be the assistant pastor here. He's a tremendous asset and a joy to work with," he adds.

Nienhuis and his wife, Ann, have four children. Their daughter, Roxie, and her husband are missionaries in Venezuela. They have a furlough only every fifth year, he says, but "we have been there three times to see them."

Their only son, Ron, has his doctorate in chemistry, and is with DuPont Chemical in Delaware.

Nancy is a hall director at Southern Methodist University in Dallas, Texas, and is studying at Perkins Theological Seminary to become a ministerial pastor.

Carolyn is married to David Hamilton of Twin Falls. They are youth sponsors at the church.

Planes fly newcomers to guru's city

By The Los Angeles Times

Disciples of Indian guru Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh were using the commune's fleet of private planes to fly newcomers into the milliglu leader's city in central Oregon Wednesday, the deadline for persons wishing to vote in the Nov. 6 general elections in that state to establish Oregon residency.

Meanwhile, a federal judge in Portland denied a request from the guru's attorneys to stop local election officials from blocking the voter registration of thousands of transients transported to the commune by the sect in an apparent drive to take control of the government of rural Wasco County.

"During the past several days, commune-owned airplanes, including three DC-3s and two Convairs, have been ferrying newcomers, many of them initiated disciples, or sanyasins, to the city-owned airport at Rajneeshpuram. An Air Rajneesh DC-3 loaded with 30 passengers left Burbank Airport bound for Rajneeshpuram Tuesday afternoon, according to a spokeswoman at the Southland Airlines.

"It's true, they're coming from all over the Western states," acknowledged Max Prunshine, a spokeswoman for the Rajneesh community, in a telephone interview. "But it's not a new thing; it's not unusual. Whenever there are large groups (of disciples) they request transportation."

She added that she had "no idea" how many flights had brought people into Rajneeshpuram during the past week.

The Rajneeshes went to court after Wasco County Clerk Sue Proffitt last week said she began holding up all new voter registrations in the county because of alleged "organized efforts to fraudulently register people to vote." Leaders of the controversial guru's commune-city of Rajneeshpuram said the action violated the constitutional rights of an estimated 3,500 transients who were recruited from the nation's major cities and bused to the commune.

U.S. District Judge Edward Leavy said he will hear arguments Friday on a Rajneeshes request for a preliminary injunction. If that, too, is denied, 50 state attorneys will start "individual hearings with more than 2,000 would-be registrants in the Dalles, seat of Wasco County, next Tuesday to determine their voter eligibility."

Ma Anand Sheela, the guru's personal secretary, has said in television interviews that she believed the Rajneeshes ought to take control of Wasco County because its current leaders were "bigots."

"Why not? They've accused us" (of wanting to take over), she said. "I'm not going to disappoint them." But she denied that voting club was the original reason the Rajneeshes Humanity Trust began financing transients' trips to the commune.

Marginal gain in volatile day

Oil prices keep traders busy

By CHET CURRIER
The Associated Press

NEW YORK — The stock market closed out a volatile session with some scattered gains Friday as traders continued to respond to this week's declines in oil prices.

Trading volume was the third largest in New York Stock Exchange history.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose 10.1 points in early trading and down more than 5 1/2 in the session, finished with a .55 gain at 1,225.93.

Thanks mostly to a 29.49 jump on Thursday, the average moved up with a 35.23-point advance for the week.

The Big Board volume reached 166.9 million shares, up from 149.54 million in the previous session. The record of 236.57 million was set Aug. 3.

As Norway, Britain and their Nigeria announced oil-price reductions this week, analysts concluded that the U.S. economy stood to gain many benefits from lower fuel and petrochemical-products prices.

Meanwhile, a pair of news developments overnight reinforced hopes that interest rates would keep falling.

After the stock market closed Thursday, the Federal Reserve reported an unexpected $2.9 billion drop in the basic measure of the money supply. On Friday morning, the Commerce Department revised downward its figure for economic growth in the third quarter of the year.

But as the session passed, some traders evidently decided to cash in profits from the market's advance while they awaited Sunday night's second debate between President Reagan and Walter Mondale.

In addition, uncertainty remained over whether the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries would respond to the latest pricing developments with more cuts, or manage to stave off that possibility by reducing production.

Energy stocks, which had a turbulent week, generally showed further losses in Friday's trading. Exxon fell 1 to 41/2 on volume of more than 2.2 million shares.

Standard Oil of Indiana dropped 1 1/2 to 55 1/2; Texaco 3/4 to 34 1/2, and Chevron 1/4 to 22 1/2. However, Mobil rose 3/4 to 27 1/2.

General Motors, which this week reached its highest levels in more than a decade, slipped back 1/4 to 80 1/2.

Financial-services issues, strong gainers in early trading, as the markets showed new life, were mixed by the close. First Boston rose 1/4 to 52 1/2, and E.F. Hutton 1/4 to 32 1/4, but Merrill Lynch fell 1/4 to 30 1/2, and Phillips-Salomon was down 1/4 to 33 1/2.

In the daily tally on the Big Board, about five stocks rose in price for every three that lost ground. The exchange's composite index eked out a .05 advance to 96.86.

Nationwide, turnover in NYSE-listed issues, including trades in those stocks on regional exchanges and in the over-the-counter market, totaled 217.38 million shares.

Standard & Poor's index of 400 industrial stocks fell 0.13 to 188.33, and S&P's 500-stock composite index was off 0.14 at 167.96.

The NASDAQ composite index for the over-the-counter market climbed 1.42 to 251.18. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index closed at 209.24, down 1.03.

VA lowers interest lid on home loans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The interest rate ceiling on basic home loans backed by the Veterans Administration will be trimmed to 13 percent, the government announced Friday.

The decline from 13.5 percent, which will take effect Monday, comes just two months after the VA had dropped the rate from 14 percent on Aug. 13.

In announcing the change, VA Administrator Harry Walters said, "With inflation clearly down and a growth rate that's holding well, this further reduction is clearly warranted."

The agency said the reduction would mean a savings of about $25 a month on an average VA mortgage of $84,000.

Mark Riedy, executive director of the Mortgage Bankers Association, said the VA rate reduction should "slow the recent drop in new construction and home sales" by expanding the number of people who can qualify for home loans.

Conventional mortgage rates have also been declining in recent months. Fixed-rate mortgages dropped to an average of 14.92 percent in early September, down from a high this year of 15.24 percent in July.

In addition to the drop in the ceiling for level-payment home loans, the VA said it is reducing by 0.5 percentage point the rates on graduated payment mortgages, which will now be 13.25 percent, and home improvement loans, which will be 14.5 percent.

Loan rates on mobile homes were also reduced with the new rate for purchase of the unit set at 15.5 percent. Buyers seeking to finance purchase of the mobile home and a lot to put it on will be able to borrow money at 15 percent.

Quarterly earnings up at First Interstate

BOISE (AP) — First Interstate Bank of Idaho reports a third-quarter earnings increase of 21.3 percent.

Earnings for the period totaled $1.4 million, up $251,000 from the same period a year ago, the bank said. Year-to-date earnings of $3.9 million are 31.2 percent above the figure for the same period in 1983.

"These increases reflect First Interstate's growing share of the expanding Idaho economy, as well as a continuing trend of profitability improvement for the bank," said James Curran, First Interstate president and chief executive officer.

At the end of the third quarter, the bank had deposits of $669.7 million, up 7 percent over 1983. Loans totaling $541.4 million reflected a 4 percent increase. Total assets climbed to $793.3 million for the third quarter, up 6.2 percent from $746.7 million a year ago.

Favorable crop yields and prices, and recovery in the food-processing industry, contributed to the bank's increases, Curran said. Another influence was growth in non-farm manufacturing, particularly in electronics-related fields, he said.

Unemployment in Idaho also remains below the national rate, despite slumps in lumber and mining, he said.

"Overall, Idaho is performing well in a somewhat tenuous national and world economy," Curran said.

First Interstate Bank of Idaho operates 35 branch offices in 22 Idaho communities. It is an affiliate of First Interstate Bancorp, which has banks in 13 Western states and Wisconsin.

Same effect as an income tax refund

Oil price drop would help consumers

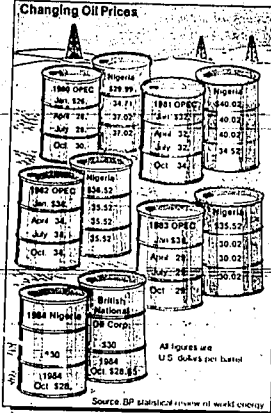

By STEVEN P. ROSENFELD
The Associated Press

Oil prices are falling and OPEC is digging in to defend its official prices.

Most Americans, whether they count pennies at the gas pump or percentage points in the GNP, will have good reasons to root against the oil cartel.

"On balance, the economists say, the world's better off with a lower price," said Dillard Spriggs, president of Petroleum Analysis Ltd., a New York consulting firm.

Pressure on OPEC built late this week as one of its members, Nigeria, joined non-members Britain and Norway in cutting prices. Wall Street responded enthusiastically: The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks ledged 29.49 points in heavy trading on Thursday and advanced again on Friday.

In the United States, the price of oil, after adjusting for inflation, has dropped to 1979 levels. But because oil is sold for dollars and the dollar has been on a record-breaking rise, prices have climbed in some countries — but much slower than over the preceding decade.

"Given the general improvement in the world economy, right now a decline (in oil prices) would be very beneficial," said Richard Kessler, deputy director of the energy and national security program at the Georgetown University Center for Strategic and International Studies in Washington. He said the drop in prices would keep economic expansion moving and give a new lift to debt-ridden Third World oil importers.

But there can be harmful fallout from a drop in oil prices as well — bankruptcies for drilling companies, declines in orders for steel pipe and troubles for banks holding loans from energy-related companies.

And for countries counting on oil to prop up sagging economies, such as Nigeria and Mexico, a tumble in the price of oil is a threat to stability. That's also a threat to the stability of Western banks which are loaning to those countries.

"If oil prices were to drop abruptly, the debt of oil-exporting countries would become a very serious source of debt risk to the world financial system," Mario Ramon Beteta, the director general of Mexico's state-run oil monopoly, said earlier this year. And following prices cut Wednesday by Britain, Beteta said, "We are at maximum alert."

In Nigeria, the civilian government was toppled in a New Year's day coup amid growing economic problems related to falling oil revenue.

The Soviet Union, the world's largest oil producer, also would lose revenue if oil prices fell further, a time when it needs hard currency to pay for grain purchases.

But Kessler said that despite problems faced initially by oil producers, "the net effect of (falling prices) is beneficial to everybody over the long-term," even — over the long-term — for oil producers.

Analysis

A drop in oil prices can be like an unexpected tax refund, giving more money to consumers and businesses alike. Every $1 drop in prices saves $6 billion for customers of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

What's more, unlike a tax refund, a drop in oil prices can give the economy a shot in the arm without stimulating inflation.

"Generally, lower oil prices are helpful to the economy," Energy Secretary Donald Hodel said Thursday in London. "For the U.S., estimates are that every $5 decline in oil prices results in approximately a 1 percent increase in gross-national product."

Stephen Smith, a senior vice president and oil industry analyst at Data Resources Inc., a private research firm in Lexington, Mass., estimated that a cut of $1-50 in OPEC's benchmark price of $22 a barrel could lower U.S. prices for gasoline and fuel oil by 3 cents a gallon.

OPEC, under pressure because of price cuts of as much as $1.50 a barrel announced this week by Norway and Britain, announced Thursday that ministers would meet in Switzerland on Oct. 29 to discuss ways to defend their prices. Nigeria didn't want to consult; it slashed its oil price by $2 a barrel late Thursday.

Similar discounting by Britain and Nigeria last year led OPEC to lower the price of its reference grade crude oil to $23 a barrel from $34 in March 1983 and to set a production ceiling of 17.5 million barrels daily.

"The benefits from the slide in oil prices that began in early 1983 have not been as pronounced for many European and developing countries, however.

Norbest largest marketer

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — An agreement has been reached that will make Norbest Inc. the world's largest turkey marketing organization, Norbest President and General Manager John E. McDade said.

McDade said Norbest will market turkeys and processed turkey products for two North Carolina firms, Goldsboro Milling Co., of Goldsboro, and Carroll's Foods Inc., of Warsaw.

Norbest, based in Salt Lake City, presently markets turkeys and turkey products from facilities in Utah, Oregon, Minnesota and Nebraska.

McDade said Carroll's and Goldsboro Milling have formed a partnership to build and operate a turkey processing plant in North Carolina. The site of the plant, which led to the marketing deal with Norbest, has not been specified. Construction of the $18 million plant will begin late this year, with completion planned for mid-1986.

McDade said the agreement with the North Carolina firm will enable Norbest to significantly strengthen its marketing organization in the United States and throughout the world.

THE ACES® BOBBY WOLFF

"Don't worry about avoiding temptation - as you grow older, it starts avoiding you." - "The Old Farmer's Almanac"

How should East defend against today's spade game? Should he make the tempting heart switch or should he give South a free finesse? East wins the first diamond with his queen and when South plays the four, East knows that South still has the jack and 10. (With both these cards, West would have led the jack. With one of them, West would make the right play.) East's first impulse is to switch to hearts since this appears least likely to cost a trick. If hearts are led, South wins and leads a trump. East wins the queen and forces South to ruff a heart. East gets another trump winner but the defense is finished. One of dummy's diamonds goes on South's long club and the defenders get only three tricks.

A good look at dummy should tell East he has a sure set provided that South does not have a six-card trump suit. At trick two, he returns the diamond king to surrender a free finesse. However, he gets this back with interest when he wins the first trump. A third round of diamonds gives West a ruff and the defenders get a trick they would have otherwise never scored.

BALONEY!

Like most truck people, we love a little baloney, especially when it's sandwiched between two slices of white bread, heavy on the mayo. But when it comes to selling you a truck, we skip the baloney and get down to the bread. That's why you'll find we give a little more for your truck and take a little less for ours, pure and simple. So you drive away with something a lot better than a load of baloney. A new truck that fits your needs... and some lettuce on the side.

Gooding's 'D' triumphs over Declo, 29-26

It was a game of superlatives.

By CHRIS HART
Times-News writer

GOODING — Go ahead, employ all the superlatives you want — remarkable, exceptional, amazing, fantastic. For once, those overused words would truly apply, as long as you were describing Gooding's 29-26 triumph over the Declo Hornets Friday night.

Besides emerging victorious, the No. 1-ranked Senators also clinched the Canyon Conference championship and the home-field advantage in the state A-3 football playoffs. But those are mere extras. Just winning the game, this kind of game, is reward enough.

It began as an offensive showcase, but it ended as a defensive spectacular — Gooding's. Twice in the fourth quarter the Hornets appeared assured of scoring the go-ahead touchdown, and each time Gooding repelled them, keeping its record perfect at 8-0 overall and 5-0 in league.

On the first occasion, Donny Kirtland recovered a fumble by Declo's standout running back, Bart Kelsey, at the Gooding 1-yard line. The second time, Kevin Esterbrook dragged down Hornet quarterback Brad Matthews for no gain on a fourth-and-eight from Gooding's 9.

"Our defense was — oh, man," murmured a drained Gooding Coach Bob Milligan, saying it all while saying very little. "They played great in the fourth quarter. When we had to have it, they made the plays."

Even with their late offensive failures, the same could be said for the 71-ranked Hornets, who fell to 7-1 overall and 4-1 in the league and, because of Friday's decision, must make a long journey north to their first-round playoff game. So even was the duel, such was the absence of sustained momentum that Declo always seemed poised to wrest the lead from the Senators.

As Declo Coach Mike Matthews put it, "I really don't think there were any turning points. It was too close all the way."

Too intense, also, and it all climaxed in the final period, which began with the score already at 29-26. With 11 minutes to go, Declo's Matt Nishlanti recovered Gooding's fumbled running back Danny Dally's fumble at the Senator 26. Kelsey, who gained 177 yards on 33 carries, carried on five of the next six plays, bringing the Hornets to a first-and-goal on Gooding's 6.

Kelsey carried again on the next play, characteristically dragging two, or three tacklers. This time, however, Kelsey lost the ball around the 2, Kirtland falling on it at the 1 with slightly more than eight minutes left.

"That had to be a disappointment for us because we would have scored," Coach Matthews said. "But we didn't."

Gooding moved for one first down before stalling. On the ensuing punt, Robble Gage received a low snap. The delay allowed Declo's Devery Anderson to block the kick and Hamzel to recover it at the Senator 11 with 4:38 remaining.

After Kelsey gained 2, the Senators stopped Ty Bryan for no gain and forced an incomplete pass. On fourth down Brad Matthews rolled to his right, but Esterbrook collared him before he could find a hole or a receiver.

The Senators effectively killed the remaining three minutes, with Dally, who amassed 159 yards on 23 carries, rambling for 13 and 22 yards on Gooding's first two plays. A third-and-6 from Gooding's 46 represented Declo's last hope, but Gooding quarterback Todd Simis tossed a short pass to Tim Anderson for 12 yards. Three plays later, it was all over.

Even in defeat, Coach Matthews could admit the game was special. "It was everything it was billed to be," he said. "I don't think anybody got sold short."

The overflow crowd of perhaps 2,000 received entertainment immediately as Gooding scored on its first possession. Simis, who completed eight of 13 passes for 156 yards and three touchdowns, got the Senators into Declo territory with a flip of his little flips to Anderson. It resulted in a 30-yard gain and brought Gooding to Declo's 34.

One play later, Simis drilled one to Bryan Darcy over the middle. Two Hornet defenders had a shot at the ball, which got deflected but remained in midair. Darcy juggled it with one hand, soon succeeded in cradling it and ran into the end zone with 9:54 to go. "I don't know how he caught that one," Milligan said. "That kid's got great hands." Dally's conversion run made it 8-0 Senators.

Declo quickly tied it on Kelsey's 1-yard burst with 7:28 to go and Brad Matthews' conversion pass to Tad Butters, a big play on the drive being Matthews' 25-yard strike to Hamzel. But Gooding bounced back with 5:06 left in the quarter on Simis' 11-yard scoring toss to Anderson, who juggled the ball into the end zone.

Later in the quarter, Kelsey's 55-yard punt — he averaged 49 yards on four kicks — trapped Gooding deep in its own territory, and after a Senator punt the Hornets moved 37 yards in six plays, tying the score on Kelsey's 11-yard run with 10:56 to go before

Shoshone makes mush of Musher

By BRAD BRELAND
Times-News writer

SHOSHONE — Don't tell Camas County that Shoshone is ranked No. 2 among the eight-man football teams in the state.

Shane Ransom ran for four touchdowns as the Indians whipped the Musher 50-6 to capture the Sawtooth Conference championship and earn a place in the state playoffs.

"The victory gives Shoshone the home-field advantage in the first round of the playoffs against the runner-up from District 3, either Council or Garden Valley.

Ransom dashed for three of the four touchdowns in the first quarter as he racked up over 100 yards rushing in the period.

Ransom ran for touchdowns of 34, 4, and 53 yards as Shoshone built a 24-0 lead. The senior running back finished the game with 159 yards on nine carries.

The Indians boosted their lead to 30 points as Wade Cooper ran through the Camas County defense for the fourth touchdown.

When Tim Rowlan took the ball in for 31 yards out, Shoshone went into the locker room at the half with a 36-point lead. Camas got the ball to begin the second half and drove to midfield but failed on a fourth-and-two, turning the ball over to the Indians.

On Shoshone's first play, Cooper hit George Sillmer for a 35-yard gain taking the ball to the 23-yard line.

The next play Cooper hit Sandy for a touchdown, but the score was nullified because of a clipping penalty.

The penalty took the ball back to the 32-yard line and on the first play Ransom took the ball in on an end run. Near the end of the third quarter, Curtis Sandy picked off a Musher pass and rushed 18 yards and the Indians led 50-0.

Camas County put together a drive near the end-of-the-game and scored its only touchdown of the contest.

Although most of the crowd was impressed with Ransom's running, Bond knew he could run as well as he did against the Musher.

Capital runs over Twin Falls, 24-7

By SCOTT TUDEHOPE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — It was an evening that didn't exactly inspire greatness, but Capital still managed to pull off a 24-7 win over Twin Falls in a non-conference football game here Friday night.

Because the Bruins dropped an early conference game, the state's third-ranked team had little to ggin in driving the 130 miles east. Despite that, the junior running back Brad Nishlanti scored three times, twice in the first half on runs of one yard and three, the final spurt from 14 yards away in the third period.

With 90 seconds at stake, how does a coach get his team pumped up?

"All you have to do is say 'Boise' and our kids get a little higher," said Bruin Coach Bill Jones. "It's been hard after Bonneville (the 18-1 loss on Sept. 21 that eliminated the Bruins from a chance at the post-season playoffs). I guess a game like this is one for pride."

Capital's head coach agreed — to a point. After the game Tom Swindell asked for a return to the old playoff system, when wild-card berths were still a consideration.

"If we had it the way it was," he said, "there'd be a point in playing this (game). As it is, it's as though it's a man's game."

—And how did the Eagles' mentor get his kids excited about this contest? Easy.

"I didn't," he said. "For us, the big games are Boise, Borah and Meridian. It's too bad, but that's the way we have it now in Idaho."

After thoroughly controlling the action in the first half, thanks to well-executed passing by quarterback Matt Barney (15-for-32 for 156 yards) and Nishlanti's scoring, the Eagles ho-hummed their way through the second half. This was despite Twin Falls' repeated and futile efforts to hit paydirt until late in the fourth period, when Jeff Lambert zig-zagged 55 yards for a score.

The tenor of the game from Twin Falls' point of view appeared to be one of containment. Capital's first possession resulted in a touchdown, thanks mainly to receiver Corby Bedard, when he stretched his 6-foot, 170-pound frame over defensive back Gary Stringer on the Twin Falls' 1-yard line. Nishlanti punched it in on a dive over the left side and Jeff Gauby's kick made it 7-0 with only four minutes expired.

Two more points went to the Eagles' column when a high snap to Steve Chaption went over the punter's head, resulting in a safety. There were just seconds remaining in the quarter, but already the containment policy was developing leaks.

The Bruins just couldn't find their niche Friday. Quarterback Doug Petersen suffered through one of his worst games of the season, completing just two of 19 passes for 11 yards. The Bruins rushed for 150 yards, 55 which came on Lambert's scoring scamper.

"Capital put decent pressure on us, but we hurried ourselves," Jones said when going over Petersen's statistics. "We would just break down at times."

The Bruins fell to 4-4 for the season for the season with the lost and play Idaho Falls at home Friday in a Gem State Conference game.

Twin Falls harriers capture district title

By FLYNN McROBERTS
Times-News writer

MOUNTAIN HOME — The District 4 Class A cross country meet Friday lacked one component of a murder mystery. The slaughter was there, but the suspense wasn't.

Placing all scorers in the top 10 in both races, the Twin Falls Bruins' boys and girls harriers gained the right to advance to the state meet next week by thumping Minico and Mountain Home at the municipal golf course here.

With a score of 22 points, the Bruin boys easily bettered Minico's 56 and Mountain Home's 59, and the Twin Falls girls neared a perfect score with a 19-11 victory over Minico.

Twin Falls' boys managed to close the gap between senior Rod Uribe, consistently Twin's lead runner, and their other scorers to take the district title. While Uribe captured the individual crown in 17:09, teammates Jerry Molyneux and Rick Valdez finished close behind in third and fifth, respectively.

Chris Scholes placed sixth and John Doremiah trailed him at seventh to cap the Bruins scoring.

"They ran well as a team," said Twin Falls boys' coach Jerry Kleinkopf. "Our grouping from the second to fifth runners was about

Bosco likes BYU quarterback mantle just fine

By VERN ANDERSON
The Associated Press

PROVO, Utah — The star-studded mantle of quarterback on the Brigham Young football team takes some getting used to, but Robble Bosco, college football's total offense leader, likes the fit just fine.

"I know that every week I go out there, it is always something I need to improve on," says Bosco, "but every week I feel less pressure that I have to accomplish something Steve did."

Bosco's reference is to Steve Young, the $40 million quarterback for the Los Angeles Express of the United States Football League.

Bosco was the backup quarterback last season when Young earned All-America honors and led the nation in total offense with an NCAA record 395 yards per game.

But Young's shadow loomed no larger than those of past BYU quarterback greats like Jim McMahon, Marc Wilson and Gifford Nielsen when Cougar Coach LaVell Edwards picked the little-known Bosco this fall to engineer the college game's most prolific passing attack.

And he has lived up to the honor. In the season's first possession through the season, the 6-foot-3, 180-pound junior appears to Edwards and fans alike to be the genuine article, producing 318 yards of offense a game. Moreover, Bosco's fourth-quarter heroics in two of BYU's six victories have enabled the seventh-ranked Cougars to extend college football's longest current win streak to 17 games.

"You have to understand concepts and Robble is in the category of all the others," Edwards says of the latest model produced by what's been called the BYU Quarterback Factory. "He's as good as any of them."

Most impressive to Edwards is Bosco's mere three interceptions in completing 138 of 219 passes, 16 for touchdowns. "He's incredibly accurate," said Edwards, pointing out that one of the interceptions was tipped off target by a defender.

"That's probably one of the most amazing statistics you can find," Edwards said. "He doesn't force the ball and he understands coverages."

For Bosco, an ability to read defenses is paramount. "I think that's the big key: knowing who to throw the ball to and when."

Like his predecessors, Bosco does not on his own plays in the huddle but has carte blanche to switch to something else while barking signals behind BYU's seasoned offensive line.

Edwards doesn't like to compare past and present BYU quarterbacks, but he said Bosco is perhaps, with Wilson, one of the best long throwers the school has ever had.

as good as it's been all year. Minico's Jose Vega highlighted the Spartans' showing with his second place finish just 14 seconds behind Urbe. Mountain Home's Kevin Butler and George Berg led the Tigers with their fourth and eighth place finishes. The Bruins will now travel to Idaho Falls and its Freeman Park course for state next Saturday. Highland and Borah are expected to battle it out for the championship there, but the Minico boys will be "getting their sights" on Pocatello and Idaho Falls for a third place finish. Earning a position in the race's top five, Vega and Butler will head to state as individual runners. Freshman Jenny Hannah covered the relatively flat course in 21:01, over a minute ahead of the next racer, the Bruin girls past the Spartans. Rachelle Thompson and Tammy Babel finished second and third for Twin Falls.

halftime. Brad Matthews' precise pass to a leaping Danny Bristol at the base of the end zone put Deco ahead 16-14. An exchange of punts worked in Gooding's favor, with Steve Gibbs returning Kelsey's 39-yard ball 28 yards to the Deco 42. A pass interference penalty put Gooding at the 15, from where Anderson, making a neat cutback to the left, danced in with 4:49 to go. With 1:06 left, Walt Delbo's high snap to punter Rottle Geary resulted in a safety for Deco, narrowing Gooding's edge to 21-18 at intermission. Deco displayed methodical perfection as the third quarter opened, moving from his own 12 to Gooding 14 on 13 plays. But when Matt Birnie blocked Kelsey's attempt at a 30-yard field goal. The Hornets regained possession at their own 25 with 4:30 left on Brad Matthews' interception of a Simls pass which went in and out of Darcy's hands. On second-and-11, Matthews hurled the ball downfield to a pack of two Hornets and three Gooding defenders. The ball ended up in the hands of teammate Ronnie Boriz, who sped to the 11 for a 65-yard gain. Kelsey, of course, took it across on the next play for his third touchdown. Matthews' pass to Kelly Borts put the Hornets on top 29-21 with 2:54 left in the quarter. The scoring ended on Gooding's ensuing possession. Starting from their own 19, the Senators needed just five plays to get the winning touchdown. After Dally carried for 20, Anderson gained 7 and a first down. Dally rambled for 12, then Simls dropped one in Anderson's hands for 30 yards, putting Gooding at Deco's 10. On the next play, Simls drilled one to Darcy, who spun away from two Hornet defenders and scored with 1:16 left. Anderson's conversion run accounted for the final points. Afterward, it was up to Gooding's defense. It never rested.

Glenns Ferry downs Filer in wild one

By The Times-News

FILER — John Solsosobal picked off a pass in the closing two minutes to set up the final touchdown Friday night and led the Glenns Ferry Pilots outlast Filer's Wildcats 35-26 in a saw-saw Canyon Conference football game. In a game remarkable in that there wasn't a punt, the teams took turns trading 70- and 80-yard marches until Solsosobal threw it out of kilter. Filer, after falling behind 27-26, was marching and had attained the Pilot 30 when Solsosobal made his interception and returned it to the Filer three-yard line. Brian Bunker punched it across from there and Solsosobal booted the point after that moved the Pilots out of reach.

Filer used a turnover to take the opening lead, pouncing on a fumble at midfield and marching to the one before Dale Alenworth went across. He also got the two-pointer.

The Pilots replied, immediately collecting on a 35-yard pass from Rob Isenhardt to Bruce Holubez and John Simons tied it with a conversion run.

Glenns Ferry then moved ahead on a one-yard burst by Bunker with Isenhardt converting and Filer replied with a 45-yard bomb from Andy Sackett to Danne Blackwood. But Filer stayed behind when the conversion run was stopped.

Two more offsetting scores occurred. Juan Luna scoring for the Pilots and Steve Cronin coming back with a 31-yard sprint for Filer. But Filer then moved ahead for the last time when Cronin capped another Wildcat drive by getting the last yard.

The Pilots regained the lead for the last time when Simons plunged across from the five and that left things up to Solsosobal to the down.

The victory improved Glenns Ferry's season record to 4-3 and its conference mark to 2-3. Filer fell to 2-5 and 1-4.

Bonneville 26 Minico 7

IDAHO FALLS — The passing of Mike McDonald to Jeff Royter paced the Bonneville Bees to a 26-7 decision over the Minico Spartans Friday night in a Gem State Conference football game.

That combination clicked for two scores and set up another as the Bees jumped off to a 19-0 lead in the second quarter to run their overall record to 4-4, 4-2 in conference. Minico answered its eighth loss this season and 12th in a row stretching back to last year.

The game was only minutes old when McDonald and Royter hooked up on a 44-yard bomb that carried inside the Minico 10. Two plays later Paul James scored from the five and Jeff Morgan converted.

In the second period, Royter hauled in a 19-yard scoring strike from McDonald and the Bees scored on their next possession with Dayld Porter getting the last two yards.

Minico scored before halftime on a 20-yard pass from Ty Armstrong to Craig Widmeyer.

Neither team scored until the closing minutes of the fourth quarter when Royter and McDonald collaborated on a 17-yard scoring play.

Burley 18 Soda Springs 7

POCATELLO — Behind the rushing of Brett Udy, the Burley Bobcats carved out a workmanlike 18-7 decision over Soda Springs' Cardinals. Friday night in a non-conference high school football game played in the Idaho State University Midlone.

The Bobcats, looking forward to next week's showdown against Jerome that will decide the South-Central Idaho Conference championship and a berth in the state A-2 playoffs, used their bench liberally after taking a 12-0 halftime lead. But after the Cardinals scored early in the fourth quarter to pull to within five, coach John Billetz reinstated his offense and marched to a clinching score.

Burley took the lead early in the second half when quarterback Alex Alejandro capped a drive with a 14-yard rollout. The point-after kick failed.

Before halftime, Burley mounted another march, capped on an eight-yard romp by Udy, who picked up 206 yards in 20 rushes.

Soda Springs' got on the scoreboard when Tracy Vorwaller scored from five yards out and Kevin Terwilliger converted.

The Bobcats then used up most of the clock in marching to their final victory, Udy going across for the final three.

The victory improved Burley's season record to 6-2, while Soda Springs fell to 2-4.

Buhl 14 Wood River 0

BUHL — Todd Farnes ran 15 yards with a fumble recovery to score on the first play of the game Friday night, pointing the Buhl Indians to a 14-0 decision over the winless Wood River Wolverines in a South-Central Idaho Conference football game.

Wood River fell behind after taking the opening kickoff and trying the first play. The ball popped loose to set up the touchdown for Farnes.

After a punt exchange, Buhl put together a drive, alternating Brian Howard and Tracy Atkinson. Atkinson wound it up with a nine-yard sprint on a counter play late in the first half.

After that neither team could score although Buhl lost one touchdown run to a penalty, a fumble by the Wolverine five and another drive at the 17 on a pass interception by Tom McDonald.

Wood River moved only fitfully offensively. Its best effort coming in the final period when it switched to a shotgun and moved up the field on the short passing of Paul Nelson. Nelson also scrambled for a couple of first downs to take Wood River to the Buhl 23 but an interception by Dan Davis doomed the Wolverines to a shutout.

The win improved Buhl's season record to 3-4 and its conference mark to 1-3.

Wendell 52 Murtaugh 12

MURTAUGH — Eric Welmester stunner Murtaugh by returning the opening kickoff 88 yards for a touchdown and then proved it wasn't a fluke by adding a 91-yarder later in the game as Wendell topped the Red Devils 52-12 Friday night in a non-conference prep football game.

The early explosion made things easy for Wendell to pile up a 14-0 first-quarter lead and while Murtaugh steadily thereafter, the game was already tucked in the Trojans' bag.

In addition to his two kickoff returns, Welmester scored on a four-yard run and Chad Hope added two touchdowns for the Trojans. Brett Thackeray ran for one touchdown and threw to Jay Burke for another to account for the other points.

Murtaugh didn't score until the third quarter, John Tribula punching across from the four. In the final period, Travis Stansky capped another drive by getting the last five yards and Grant Cummins tacked on the extra point.

The win improved Wendell's season record to 4-4, while Murtaugh fell to 2-6.

Kimberly 19 Valley 14

KIMBERLY — A successful last minute on-side kick was not quite enough for Valley Friday night as Kimberly's Troy Jackman intercepted a pass with only 47 seconds left to play to preserve a 19-14 Canyon Conference victory for the Bulldogs.

Kimberly maintained the lead most of the game but fumbled on their own 40-yard line, which led to a Valley touchdown by T.J. Kincaid. Kincaid had two touchdowns on the night, both coming on one-yard dives. The on-side kick gave Valley the ball back with under a minute but they couldn't convert the score as Jackman's interception a fourth down pass secured the win.

"We played, other than the turnovers, pretty well. We had some good defensive stands and kept them out," Kimberly head coach Gordon Hogan said.

With the win Kimberly improved its record to 6-2 overall and 3-2 in conference play. Valley fell to 4-4 and 2-4 in league play.

Cutthroats eye state berth

MOUNTAIN HOME — Ketchum/Sum Valley Community School, which finished third in the District 4 Class A-4 volleyball tournament earlier this week, will take on Rimrock High School of Brunau here tonight in a playoff to determine which team will go to next week's state tournament in Idaho Falls.

Game time is scheduled for 7 p.m.

The Cutthroats, who finished second to Northside, Sub-district champion Dietrich, defeated Southside runner-up Oakley for the right to play the third-place team from District 3 for the right to go to state. Dietrich, which won the District 4 title, and Hagerman won state berths outright.

Rimrock finished second to Greenleaf Friends Academy in the southern division tournament, then beat the northern division runner-up, Midvale, 15-7, 15-0, for the right to advance to the playoffs. Cambridge, the District 3 champ, and Friends earned state berths outright.

The state tournament will be held Oct. 26-27 at Idaho Falls High School.

Karate enthusiasts do well

TWIN FALLS — Several Magic Valley karate enthusiasts performed well in recent competitions.

Dave Nevarez, a brown belt from Burley, placed first in his division at the Idaho Open Karate Championship Tournament in Meridian. Nevarez took first place in the men's black belt division in weapons forms, doing a long-sword form, and finished second in unarmed self defense forms.

In the same tournament, 12-year-old Shawn McLinn of Twin Falls took second place in sparring in the 9-12-year-old division. Thirteen-year-old Jon McLinn finished third in the 13-16-year-old division in sparring and was third in unarmed self defense forms.

In Ogden, Utah, 22-year-old Jamie Shell of Burley began his full-contact fighting debut by defeating Curtis Egglestons of Ogden on a technical knockout at the end of the first round of a scheduled three-round bout.

All four are students of Gene Starr of Twin Falls.

Aerobics program scheduled

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Department of Parks and Recreation will offer a new aerobics program beginning Oct. 22.

The fitness session will be held at Stuart Junior High School Monday through Thursday at 5:45 p.m. The cost of the six-week session is $20 per person, $30 per couple.

A fitness screening evaluation will be held Monday evening at 5:45 p.m. to determine fitness categories for the participants. Testing sessions will be held every 12 weeks throughout the school year to help participants establish individual fitness goals and measure their progress. The test is only for the participants who are signed up for the aerobics class.

Sherie Hull will be the instructor for the course.

Further information can be obtained by phoning the Rec department at 733-0860, extension 265.

McCallum wins fight for title

NEW YORK (AP) — Mike McCallum speared Sean Mannion with punishing left jabs and crisp right hands to the head Friday night and won the vacant World Boxing Association junior middleweight title with a one-sided, 15-round decision.

Mannion's only high point came in the ninth round when he hurt McCallum with a left to the head and followed with another hard left. But McCallum boxed his way out of trouble.

For most of the 15 rounds, Mannion, a native of Ireland living in Dorchester, Mass., was on the receiving end of a variety of punches and combinations to the head. McCallum, a Jamaican who lives in New York, also was effective to the body in winning the title last field by Roberto Duran.

Mannion's main strength was his physical toughness and all that got him was a bad beating.

The last four rounds of the fight were nothing but target practice for McCallum.

Judge Carol Castellano scored it 150-134, Carol Polls saw it 149-136 and John LoBlanco scored it 149-133, all for McCallum.

Hagler proves too much for Hamsho

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Marvelous Marvin Hagler "had so many guns, I didn't even use them all" in his 10th midweight title defense Friday night against Mustafa Hamsho.

Hagler used more than Hamsho could handle. He knocked him down twice and stopped him in the third round and the challenger sprained his right ankle on the first knockdown.

"Everything was on the money tonight," said Hagler, who was impressive in his Madison Square Garden debut.

And the performance definitely put him on target for a big money match against Thomas Hearns, the World Boxing Council super welterweight champion, who was at ringside.

Promoter Bob Arum said the fight was near — "probably March or April" — and the two fighters would split $10 million, the only question being which way the split would go.

"Coming back" shouted Hagler, who in the eyes of some observers showed signs of slipping in his 15-round decision over Roberto Duran Nov. 10, 1983, and his 10th-round knockout of Juan Roldan last March 30. "I put on more weight. This time I had the punching power," said Hagler, who weighed 159½, the same as Hamsho.

Hagler weighed 157 when he fought Duran and about the same when he fought Roldan.

The fight ended with 29 seconds left in the third round when Hagler put Hamsho down for the second time with a leaping right hand to the jaw and the challenger's manager, Al Certo, jumped into the ring before referee Arthur Mercante could start the count.

The first knockdown came from a left-right to the head and dropped Hamsho in a neutral corner.

"I twisted the right ankle after the first knockdown and after that I couldn't hold myself up," Hamsho said.

Hagler certainly didn't give Hamsho any help.

The 30-year-old champion didn't throw everything in the first round. In fact, he was having trouble finding the range and Hamsho, who was trying for the second time to beat Hagler, seemed to have an edge in the round as he scored with good lefts to the head on four or five occasions.

Sutcliffe files as free agent

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Saying it was just a procedural step, Rick Sutcliffe, the ace of the Chicago Cubs' pitching staff, filed for free agency Friday.

Sutcliffe, who was 16-1 with the National League East champions, joins Andre Thornton of the Cleveland Indians as an available Type A player, according to the Major League Baseball Player Relations Committee.

Teams losing a Type A free agent are entitled to a pick in the June amateur draft as well as a selection from the compensation pool made up of players left unprotected on major league rosters.

Besides Sutcliffe, other players filing for free agency Friday were utilityman Danny Meyer of Oakland, and outfielders Champ Summers of San Diego, Ruppert Jones of Detroit, Jim Wohlford of Montreal and Al Bumbry of Baltimore.

Other Type A players, based on a combination of criteria, who are eligible to become free agents, are Bruce Sutter of St. Louis, Fred Lynn of California, Dan Drissen of Montreal, Jim Gantner of Milwaukee and Cliff Johnson of Toronto. Steve Henderson of Seattle was ranked Type B.

Sutcliffe "intends to continue negotiations with the Cubs. If necessary, until and following the re-entry draft should his rights be retained by the Cubs," said the player's agent, Barry Axelrod, in a prepared statement.

CSI women second in meet

POCATELLO — College of Southern Idaho's women, placing three in the top 10, placed second in a cross country meet here Friday.

The Golden Eagles scored 62 points, well behind champion University of Utah at 25 but well ahead of Idaho State at 82, Boise State 90 and Utah State 100.

Merenette Simmons led the women with a third-place showing in 10:33.2 in the 3,000-meter race. Freshmen Mitchell Skyles and Jill Tilzey were seventh and 10th, respectively, while Anna Catillo was 16th and Nancy McGinnis 27th.

Can Cougars digest Falcons' wishbone?

By JOHN MOSSMAN
The Associated Press

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. Reputation. Football teams thrive on it, and coaches prolong their careers with it. There's nothing like doing something over and over to improve execution.

Brigham Young's football team is hoping some repetition on defeating the wishbone will be helpful to Saturday's key Western Athletic Conference game against the Air Force Academy.

Since only a half dozen major-league teams employ the wishbone, it's a formation most defenses rarely see. But BYU is getting a double dose. Last week the Cougar defense practiced against Wyoming's wishbone, with less-than-favorable results on Saturday. The Cougars escaped with a 41-38 victory when Robbie Bosco fired his fifth TD pass of the game with 4:16 left.

"This week it's the AFA wishbone.

"We've been thinking wishbone in practice for two weeks now," said BYU defensive coordinator Dick Felt, "and that could help us against Air Force first, and we found it really helped in the Wyoming game preparation-wise."

BYU beat the Falcons 46-28, then shut down the Cowboys two weeks later 41-10.

The seventh-ranked Cougars enter Saturday's game with a 6-0 record, 17-game winning streak (longest in the nation), and the top passing attack in the country (averaging 350 yards per game). With a 3-0 conference record and their closest pursuers at 2-1, the Cougars would take a major step toward their ninth straight WAC title with a victory over the Falcons. Conversely, a loss opens up the race again.

Air Force is 5-2, having won its last three games, including a 21-7 upset of Notre Dame last week. The Falcon wishbone leads the nation in rushing, averaging 339 yards per game, and in rushing touchdowns, with 27. In their four home games thus far this season, the Falcons are averaging a whopping 47.5 points.

BYU is favored, but Head Coach LaVell Edwards cautions that Cougar fans shouldn't expect a rout.

"It really bothers me that people in the media and even our fans think all our games should be blowouts," Edwards said. "That's just not going to happen all the time, especially in this conference."

"The Wyoming game was a typical, tough WAC game. When you play a team like Wyoming, which has a lot of pride and tradition, you expect a great football game, and we had one. It was a classic. There was a lot of action and many big plays. And there were some good hits on defense, too, despite the high scoring.

"We're still undefeated, and that's what matters. I told our team after the game that I wasn't disappointed in them at all. We were in a do-or-die situation on the last drive.

Huskies take a turn at unlucky No. 1

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
The Associated Press

The Washington Huskies, having become the fifth team to climb to the top of The Associated Press college football rankings this season, make the first defense of their No. 1 ranking at home Saturday against 4-2 Oregon.

"It's an honor to play the No. 1 team in the nation," said Oregon Coach Rich Brooks. "It's hard to go undefeated this far in the season. That's a testimony to their team strength."

Washington's Don James, whose Huskies were at the top of the poll for six consecutive weeks in 1982 before being knocked out, would rather be No. 1 on Jan. 2.

"I know it's a tough spot to be in," he said. "Being No. 1 is a position, that's just going to make your opponents play their best football against you. I also think it makes my job a little bit more difficult in dealing with my players."

If James wants to abdicate, he would find no shortage of challengers waiting to take over.

Runner-up Oklahoma, for example. The Sooners, who visit Iowa State for a Big Eight night game, were bitterly disappointed with last week's 15-15 tie against Texas — "I think we're the better team," said Coach Barry Switzer — even though they jumped from third place to second while the Longhorns slipped from first to third.

And Texas, whose coach, Fred Akers, made an unsuccessful pitch to remain No. 1 after the tie with Oklahoma. The Longhorns entertain Arkansas in a Southwest Conference game.

Meanwhile, fourth-ranked Boston College visits No. 20 West Virginia. No. 5 Nebraska is at Colorado, sixth-ranked Southern Methodist is home against Houston, No. 7 Brigham Young is at Air Force, and eighth-ranked Ohio State plays at Michigan State. Rounding out the Top Ten, ninth-ranked Miami Fla. entertains Pitt, while No. 10 LSU visits No. 19 Kentucky in a key Southeastern Conference game.

In the Second Ten, No. 11 South Carolina is at Notre Dame, Kansas at No. 12 Oklahoma State, Georgia Tech

For Ken Hatfield, Arkansas' new coach, it marks a return to the stadium where his 81-yard punt return helped the Razorbacks beat Texas 14-13 in 1964. Hatfield has not been back to Memorial Stadium since that night and Arkansas has not won at Austin since 1966, but Hatfield says he "won't bring up much nostalgia. This game is big enough without worrying about the past."

Akers says the 3-1-1 Razorbacks "were very impressive in shutting out an improved Texas Tech team (24-0 last week). They are getting better each week, adjusting to their new staff and new system."

And while Akers notes that "it will be good to be home" for the first time since Sept. 15, Hatfield says Arkansas is "ready to play a road game" after three at Little Rock and two at Fayetteville.

"Little Rock isn't exactly in our own backyard," he said. "We bus to Conway on Fridays, then to Little Rock for the games there. We will get to Austin a lot quicker (by plane) than we get to Conway."

The Orange, Sugar and Cotton Bowls will have representatives at West Virginia, but the team they covet is Boston College, because of exciting quarterback Doug Flutie. That should only serve to further rile up the Mountaineers, who finished second to Boston College last year in the voting for the Lambert-Meadowlands Trophy as the top team in the East despite a 27-47 triumph over the Eagles and are second again in the ratings this year.

While Flutie and the offense were somewhat rusty against Temple last Saturday after a three-week layoff, the defense played one of its better games. But West Virginia Coach Don Nehlen notes that in Flutie, who is 751 yards away from becoming major-league football's all-time total offense king, the Eagles "have the super performer at the key position who can beat you every time."

And although Flutie calls this game "the rivalry for the best in the East," Nehlen says that "when Penn State's in the area, they're still the team. Nobody's going to tell me any different. I don't care who's rated where."

As for West Virginia, Nehlen says he is "very happy to be 5-1 at this point of the season. At the beginning of the season I thought we were an average football team, and right now we might not be good, but we sure aren't bad, either."

LSU-Kentucky is "the only" other game matching members of the Top Twenty — and, surprisingly, the only unbeaten teams (Kentucky 5-0, LSU 4-0-1) in the SEC.

It will be a homecoming of sorts for LSU's Bill Arnsparger, in his first season as a college head coach. Arnsparger calls from Paris, Ky., and he attended the University of Kentucky in 1944 before joining the Marine Corps shortly thereafter. Arnsparger later spent eight years as a Kentucky assistant coach (1954-61) under Blanton Collier.

"I'm sure lots of people think the Kentucky game will be important to me because I was on the staff and I'm from around there," Arnsparger said. "The main importance of the game to me is that it's an SEC matchup and extremely crucial in the conference race."

Meanwhile, Alabama and Tennessee, the winningest teams in SEC history, will be battling to vacate an unfamiliar spot — the basement.
