Strike talks pursuing 'light'
TORONTO (AP) — The leader of the striking United Auto Workers in Canada said Friday night that he saw "a light at the end of the tunnel" and intended to pursue negotiations through the night in hopes of reaching a settlement with General Motors Corp. "I would like to go straight through now until we have a tentative settlement or we go to the ditch," said Robert White, UAW director for Canada. "We do see a light at the end of the tunnel," he said. Rod Andrew, chief negotiator for GM's Canadian subsidiary, presented what he called a "serious proposal" on wages, benefits, pensions and other money issues Friday morning, setting off a frenzied round of negotiations.

ABC cancels 'Edge of Night'
NEW YORK (AP) — After 28 years on the air, "The Edge of Night," suffering its own soap opera travails of low ratings and declining station pick-ups, has been canceled. ABC and the sponsoring Procter & Gamble said Friday that the afternoon serial's last broadcast will be Dec. 28. The show began on CBS in 1956 and moved to ABC in 1975. ABC said the 4 to 4:30 p.m. Eastern time slot will revert to local stations until the network comes up with alternative programming sometime next year. Last week's ratings report from the A.C. Nielsen Co. gave "The Edge of Night" a 2.8 rating (percentage of the nation's 84.9 million TV homes watching) and a nine share (percentage of the TV homes with their sets on that are tuned in). The program was 23rd among the networks' 26 daytime shows. ABC said only 106 of the network's 200-plus affiliates were broadcasting the program.

Nuclear response feasible
BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Western forces could meet a conventional attack by the Soviet Union with a "measured nuclear response" that might not develop into a nuclear war, NATO Secretary-General Lord Peter Carrington said. Carrington, speaking Thursday at a nuclear arms conference at the University of California, echoed President Reagan's controversial statement in 1981 that a nuclear battle might be limited. Carrington strongly defended NATO's refusal to renounce first use of nuclear weapons and criticized those who draw a distinction between conventional and nuclear war. "One of the danger side-effects of the nuclear debate is that by concentrating attention on the horrors of nuclear war, it has tended to play down the horrors of conventional war," he said.

Mitterand ends British visit
LONDON (AP) — French President Francois Mitterand on Friday concluded a four-day state visit to Britain that was marred by a bizarre and not fully explained incident over explosives planted in the French Embassy. Mitterand, who turned 68 on Friday, told a news conference he wished the episode had not happened, and called it a misunderstanding. But his comments did not amount to an apology for the incident, which British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher has said caused "serious concern." British officials also were angry because the French official involved had imported the explosives without permission.

'No plans' for U.S. exercise
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon said Friday "there are no plans" for U.S. military exercises in El Salvador, thus moving to checkmate published reports that could pose political problems for the Reagan administration in the last stages of the presidential campaign. A brief Pentagon statement was issued in response to inquiries about reports published in the New York Times and Washington Post. The reports said several hundred U.S. troops would maneuver along the Honduran-Salvadoran border starting in early December and that some of those operations would extend into El Salvador, scene of a civil war between government forces and Marxist rebels.

Quake shakes broad region
POINT MUGU, Calif. (AP) — A moderate offshore earthquake was felt over a wide region of Southern California Friday, shaking some buildings and knocking items off grocery shelves, but causing no injuries. It was the second quake in the area in two days. The quake, which struck at 11:20 a.m. MDT and registered 4.6 on the Richter scale, was centered in the Pacific 16 miles southeast of Oxnard and west of the Point Mugu Pacific Missile Test Center, said Virginia Gilliam of the California Institute of Technology in Pasadena.

Sexual abuse probe starts
CALDWELL (AP) — Canyon County Prosecutor Richard Harris has launched an investigation into allegations that a county judge sexually molested a minor girl. But Harris, who has asked for a magistrate's inquiry on the allegations, refused to identify the judge in question or when the incident occurred.

 The investigation is multiple and the accused is not guilty until otherwise proven." U.S. State Department spokesman John Hughes praised the "determined and conscientious manner" in which the Italian government pursued the investigation. He said Friday in Washington, D.C., that the United States would not take any public position on the merits of the case.

Martella said witnesses helped prove that Celik was standing in the square. Bullaitic testified that he sneaked the two Turkish gunmen into the square. The summary said Bulgarian airline employee Sergei Ivanov Antonov was waiting with a car outside the square to help Celik and Agca escape; and that Bulgarian Embassy cashier Todor Alivazov was in the crowd, although there were no details about what he did.

Martella told a news conference that Celik, a suspected member of a right-wing Turkish terrorist group known as the Gray Wolves, fired one of three shots that wounded the pontiff. The bespectacled, silver-haired judge said he believes the shot fired by Celik hit the pope in his finger and arm. But the bullet was never found.

Today's weather

It's not the ideal autumn weekend

Twin Falls, Burley-Rupert, Jerome-Gooding areas:
 Partly cloudy today with a slight chance of showers. Increasing clouds tonight. Windy with scattered showers and turning colder Sunday. Lows tonight mid 20s to upper 30s. Highs in the 40s to lower 50s.
Northern Nevada and northern Utah:
 Northern Utah is under a winter storm warning today, turning colder with periods of snow; heavy at times. Gradually decreasing snow showers with periods of partial clearing this afternoon and evening. Variable clouds and a little warmer Sunday with a few showers possible by afternoon. Lows in the 20s to low 30s. Highs today in the 40s and Sunday in the upper 40s to low 50s.
 Northern Nevada will be partly cloudy with a chance of showers today. Cooler with highs mid 40s to mid 50s. Partly cloudy tonight and Sunday. Lows mid teens to mid 20s. Highs upper 40s to near 60.
Camas Prairie and the lower Wood River Valley:
 Today and tonight partly cloudy with decreasing snow showers. Diminishing winds. Highs near 40. Lows near 20.
Synopsis:
 A low pressure system Friday developed over central Montana producing extremely strong and gusty winds from the Magic Valley — of southern Idaho eastward into the upper Snake River Valley, the National Weather Service said.
 Friday morning the Pocatello airport had a wind gust of 47 mph and Burley a gust of 44 mph. The strongest reported at Twin Falls was 40 mph.

Friday also saw a rare weather event — a tornado. The twister briefly touched down in southwest Boise near the intersection of Overland Road and Five Mile Road. The tornado dissipated shortly after its first sighting. No major damage was reported. The highest temperature in Idaho Friday was 61 at Emmett, while the low of 21 was reported at Malad. The agricultural outlook for southern Idaho, Saturday through Wednesday, shows precipitation totals will be .20 to .40 inch with conditions for field work and final harvest being only fair to poor due to showers and cold temperatures. Southern Idaho extended forecast, Monday through Wednesday, calls for unseasonably cold. Scattered rain and snow showers Monday then mostly dry Tuesday and Wednesday. Highs 35 to 45 Monday and Tuesday warming to the 40s by Wednesday. Lows mid teens to mid 20s.

Mondale still hopeful about election win

By SANDY JOHNSON
The Associated Press

Walter F. Mondale shrugged off pessimistic talk about his election chances Friday, saying "I think the polls are dead wrong," while President Reagan spoke to Jewish leaders, linking his sending of American forces to Lebanon to "a fundamental moral obligation" to prevent another Holocaust.

Mondale fended off reports of gloom among his top aides, declaring "I am going to campaign with everything I've got" through Nov. 6. Then he launched into an attack on Reagan for being a "sunshine president" who ignored the first anniversary of the Beirut bombing that killed 241 U.S. servicemen but held an elaborate ceremony marking the anniversary of the Invasion of Grenada.

"We grieve for the families" of the 19 Americans killed in Grenada, the Democratic nominee said in Des Moines, Iowa. "But what about the 241 Marines who lost their lives in the barracks in Lebanon, the biggest single loss in one day in the history of our forces since World War II?"

In Flint, Mich., Mondale denied a published report that campaign chairman James A. Johnson had told him Reagan had built what seemed to be an insurmountable lead in numerous polls.

"It's tough. I know that. I never doubted it," Mondale told reporters. But he added, "I think the polls are dead wrong" and "I think we've got an excellent chance of winning."

Public opinion polls have shown Mondale down by anywhere from 9 to 25 percentage points.

In New York, Reagan wooed Jewish voters with an invitation to them to leave their Democratic roots and "come walk with us down this new path of hope and opportunity."

He assailed the Democrats for not having "the moral courage or leadership" to condemn anti-Semitism at their convention last July, although the party's executive committee later adopted a condemnation of bigotry. Reagan's charge was a reminder of old wounds opened during the Democratic primary campaign, when then-candidate Jesse Jackson was quoted as privately referring to Jews as "Hymies."

Reagan also spoke of the slaughter of Jews before and during World War II, saying "the immeasurable pain of the Holocaust" must never be lost on this generation or any future generation.

"Perhaps that message should again be impressed on those who question why we went on a peacekeeping mission to Lebanon," the president said. "Indeed, anyone who remembers the lesson of the Holocaust must understand that we have a fundamental moral obligation to assure: Never again."

When Reagan ordered U.S. Marines into Lebanon last year as part of an international peacekeeping force, the Israelis, citing their nation's security, had driven deep into Lebanese territory.

In another reference to Lebanon, Vice President George Bush appeared to take issue with Secretary of State George Shultz's contention that Americans should use quick military retaliation against terrorists, even if innocent lives were lost. Shultz's statement came in a speech in New York Thursday night as he warned of future terrorist attacks.

In an interview with WKRC-TV of Cincinnati, Bush was asked about retaliation even at the cost of innocent lives and he responded, "I disagree with that." But he later told reporters that he believed "the gut feeling" of Americans is to retaliate against terrorism.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said Shultz's speech had been reviewed by the White House in advance and represented administration policy "from top to bottom."

On the West Coast, Mondale's running mate, Geraldine Ferraro, also faced questions about the discouraging polls.

"I can read the polls. And I've heard the reporters' questions. And they say, 'How can you win this race?'" she asked in Eugene, Ore. "And I know that because you care, on Nov. 6 by the hundreds, by the thousands, by the millions you're going to turn out and vote for a better future and you're going to vote for Walter Mondale."

Her campaign manager, John Sasso, said, "I'm aware of the polling data and I think I'm realistic enough to know where things stand at any one time. But this election isn't over by any means."

In Medford, Ore., Ms. Ferraro urged her audience not to pull the voting lever for Reagan. If voters do, she said, "you are voting to continue the covert war in Nicaragua, you are voting to continue the environmental policies of this administration... you are voting against arms control... addressing the problems of the deficit fairly, the equal rights amendment... enforcing our civil rights laws."

At the University of Oregon in Eugene, she disputed Reagan's assertion that "America is back and standing tall."

"America is not back and standing tall until the loggers of Oregon, the steelworkers of Ohio and the farmers of our country are also standing tall," she said.

Block regains farm, faces large tax

PRESTON, Minn. (AP) — Agriculture Secretary John Block will pay his share of $43,000 in back taxes on nearly 1,000 acres of Minnesota farmland, which reverted to him after an investor partnership defaulted, an aide said Friday.

Block and two partners regained title of the land, making them liable for the delinquent tax bill, said Fillmore County Recorder O.H. Amahl.

That land was sold by Block before he became agriculture secretary and the default simply means that ownership has reverted back to him. It means he and his partners will now be paying the tax bill. John Ochs, an aide for Block, who was out of town, said in Washington. "He certainly will pay his taxes."

The Iowa partnership defaulted on the contract earlier this year after failing to make a $193,000 payment due in April to the Block group, according to notices filed in the two counties in the past two weeks.

Marcos' foes attack Reagan for remark

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Opponents of President Ferdinand E. Marcos made public a letter they said they sent to President Reagan, telling him "there is more to this country than a few Reds and one Marcos."

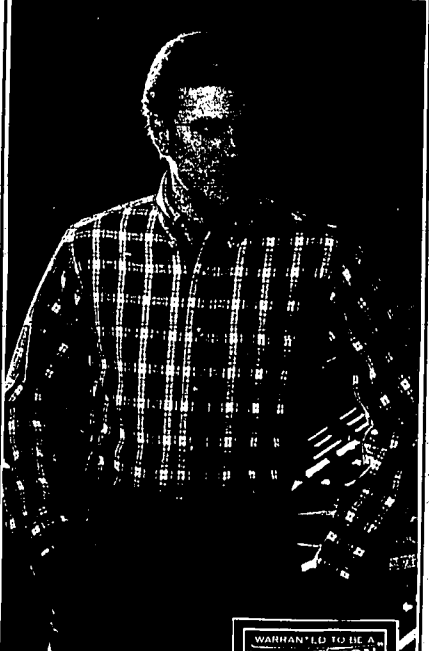

When Reagan debated Democratic presidential challenger Walter Mondale on Sunday, the president expressed concern about the possibility of a Communist takeover of the Philippines if the United States stopped backing the Marcos government.

U.S. Ambassador Stephen Bosworth, responding to a question after a speech on Thursday, said: "It (Reagan's remark) has caused disquiet and even consternation in some circles in the Philippines. You have to keep in mind the president had a very short period of time to answer a very complicated question."

The U.S. State Department has said Reagan did not mean to suggest that the only alternative to Marcos was a communist regime. Marcos' government has been fighting Communist rebels.

There is also an opposition movement, whose efforts to get Marcos out of power were fueled last year by the assassination of its most prominent leader, Benigno Aquino.

Reagan split with Shultz over remark

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan and Vice President George Bush were quick Friday to put distance between themselves and a statement by Secretary of State George P. Shultz that the United States occasionally might have to inadvertently kill "innocent people" while combatting terrorism.

Shultz's remarks, in a New York speech Thursday night, seemed to contradict a statement by Reagan in the presidential debate Sunday night that his administration hadn't retaliated to terrorist attacks in Lebanon partly because it didn't want to "endanger the lives of innocent civilians."

Bush flatly said he disagreed with Shultz, and Reagan said the secretary was not enunciating administration policy in the speech.

"I don't think it was a statement of policy," Reagan said during a campaign stop in Fairfield, Conn. "I was saying all these things must be considered."

"I think what Secretary Shultz was saying was that you couldn't rule out the possibility of innocent people being killed. He was not saying that we would do that," Reagan said.

But John Hughes, the State Department spokesman, earlier insisted that Shultz was speaking for the administration. "Certainly the speech was cleared by the White House. Certainly the secretary was voicing an administration position," he said.

And Hughes was supported hours later by Reagan's own chief spokesman, Larry Speakes, who said the address represents administration policy "from top to bottom."

Speakes said it appeared to him that "Bush was blind-sided" by being asked if the administration favored the killing of innocents.

In his speech, a comprehensive discussion of the terrorist threat, Shultz said the United States "must be willing to use military force" both to retaliate against terrorism and to make pre-emptive strikes to prevent terrorist attacks.

"The public must understand before the fact that there is potential for loss of life of some of our fighting men and the loss of life of some innocent people," Shultz told the audience at the Park Avenue Synagogue in New York City.

He also said the United States should be prepared to retaliate even when it doesn't have "the kind of evidence that can stand up in an American court of law."

The administration already reserves the right to retaliate militarily to terrorists attacks, although it hasn't done so in the three major terrorist attacks in Lebanon — the bombing of the Marine barracks that killed 241 servicemen a year ago and two attacks on embassy buildings there.

In explaining in the presidential debate Sunday night where there hadn't been retaliation, Reagan cited both a lack of conclusive evidence and a fear of taking innocent lives.

"In dealing with terrorists, yes, we want to retaliate, but only if we can put our finger on the people responsible and not endanger the lives of innocent civilians in the various communities and in the city of Beirut where these terrorists are operating," the president said.

Vice President Bush disagreed with Shultz's statement that the United States must be ready to respond militarily to terrorist acts even if lives of innocent civilians are endangered and even if it cannot be proved conclusively who the terrorists were.

Navy denies it forced admiral out

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy and General Dynamics Corp. denied Friday they made a deal to force Adm. Hyman G. Rickover, father of the nuclear Navy, to retire in exchange for the company removing a key executive from submarine contract negotiations.

Internal memos from the office of Sen. John Chafee, R-R.I., indicated Navy civilians had retired Rickover, a fierce critic of the contractor, in exchange for the removal of P. Takis Vellotis from General Dynamics' negotiating team.

One of the two memos, first obtained by The Providence (R.I.) Journal, dealt with meetings between a Chafee aide and George A. Sawyer, then assistant Navy secretary for shipbuilding and now General Dynamics' executive vice president.

Sawyer, reached by telephone Friday afternoon at a General Dynamics facility in Georgia, joined in denying there was any deal.

The other memo concerned a meeting between Chafee and officials of General Dynamics' Electric Boat division and contained no references to Rickover or Vellotis.

Vellotis, a former manager of the company's submarine-building

Electric Boat Division, now is a fugitive from justice, living in Greece to avoid standing trial in a federal kickback case.

At the time of the meetings between Chafee aide Scott Harris and Sawyer, Vellotis no longer was Electric Boat general manager but still had overall responsibility for General Dynamics' shipbuilding operations.

"It is categorically untrue there was ever any deal between the Navy and General Dynamics to remove Adm. Rickover in exchange for the removal of Mr. Vellotis, and the story has no basis in fact," said Lt. Roger Still, a Navy spokesman.

Mom, son plead innocent to incest charge

CHARLOTTE, Tenn. (AP) — A mother and son who married each other pleaded innocent to incest Friday, while their lawyers argued the charges should be dropped because the state's old limitations had run out.

Standing side by side, Danny James Bass, 26, and his mother, Mary Ann Garton Bass, 43, entered their pleas during an arraignment in Dickson County Circuit Court.

At a hearing later, Mrs. Bass admitted giving conflicting accounts about her relationship with her son. She testified that she had told the same official she was Bass' wife, and on another occasion that she was his mother.

"Well, which are you, Mrs. Bass?" said Dan Cook, assistant district attorney.

Mrs. Bass, dressed in a pink sweater, pearls and a blond wig, put her face in her hands. She paused and then looked up at the judge, Leonard Martin.

"I'm having a chest pain," she said. Martin declared a brief recess.

Bass, his hands clutching the court bench, sat hunched in the courtroom and did not look at his mother. The pair came to court separately. It was the first time they had appeared together publicly since their indictments.

Both were charged with incest and felonious carnal knowledge. Bass is also charged with perjury for allegedly lying to the grand jury when he said he did not know at the time of the marriage that his bride was his mother.

Mrs. Bass has also been charged with bigamy for marrying Bass a month before her divorce from her fourth husband was granted.

"This is a landmark case because it's bigamy and incest all rolled into one," said Doug Jackson, Bass' attorney.

Mother Teresa seeks U.S. help

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mother Teresa, the nun who won the 1979 Nobel Peace Prize for her work with the poor, wrote President Reagan last week begging his help for starting to death in the African nation of Ethiopia.

The President called her on Friday as he was flying to New York City on a campaign trip, saying he would do what he could to help, reported Reagan's spokesman, Larry Speakes. Reagan then called the director of U.S. aid programs, Peter McPherson, to ask that something be done, said Speakes.

Study faults space defense

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's plan for a "star wars" defense against nuclear attack could cost an enormous amount of money without producing an effective shield, according to a study released Friday.

Since the project is only in its infancy, no effective total cost is available, but the figure may range up to $800 billion, said the report.

By contrast, the current Pentagon budget is $232 billion and the MX missile, the most expensive single nuclear weapons system, is projected to cost about $30 billion.

The report was prepared by the Council on Economic Priorities, a private, research group that has been critical of the Reagan administration's defense buildup at the expense of social programs.

At a Pentagon briefing later in the day, the research plan was defended by Air Force Lt. Gen. James Abrahamson, head of the project, and Fred Ikle, undersecretary of defense for policy.

Asked about the estimated $400 billion to $800 billion cost, Abrahamson said "I don't have a basis for a cost estimate" yet because research is still under way.

"We haven't selected what the right weapons will be... That is the essence of the research and development," Abrahamson said. He acknowledged it "is clearly going to be expensive."

In March 1983, Reagan called for research into a method of protecting the United States against incoming Soviet missiles as a way of ending the reliance of the two superpowers on offensive weapons and the threat of nuclear retaliation.

But critics say such a leakproof system is technologically unfeasible and would only lead to an intensified race to develop more and better offensive weapons.

The Pentagon will spend $1.7 billion for "star wars" research in the current fiscal year and $2.2 billion over the next five years, the study noted.

The program will also eat up half the Pentagon's research budget over the next five years and could eventually mean higher research costs in private industry because the Defense Department would draw away engineers and scientists and drive up research budgets of private firms, the study said.

Am told fishermen are slow, and as an old steelhead catcher, I resent it. Still, the nomadic hunters turned into settled farmers might long ago, but just a few fishermen have turned into fishfarmers, and they only recently. Our Chief Propagator thinks free-lance fishing on the high seas will give way to tidal farming almost entirely, even as free-lance hunting for survival gave way to dirt farming. We're running a little late in this matter, must admit.

Miss America comes home

Redgrave relates personal hardship

BOSTON (AP) — Vanessa Redgrave, at times breaking into tears, testified Friday that she earned no money as an actress for 14 months after the Boston Symphony Orchestra canceled a contract with her in April 1982 because of her pro-Palestinian activities.

"The next time I did work for which I was paid was June 1983," when she earned $20,000 for a role in an Italian film produced by actor Franco Nero, the father of one of her two children.

Before that, she said, she had earned more than $1 million as a performer.

Testifying for a second day on behalf of her $5 million lawsuit against the orchestra, the British star of such films as "Julia" and "Camelot," described the financial toll resulting from her longtime backing of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

formance would mean a loss of Jewish contributors.

As she described the personal cost of her political beliefs, she broke into tears and a recess was called so she could compose herself.

She had begun by recounting events the night in 1977 that she won an Academy Award for her performance in the movie "Julia," an autobiographical account of author Lillian Hellman's relationship with a former schoolmate who was slain while working in the anti-Nazi underground, Jane Fonda portrayed Miss Hellman, Miss Redgrave played the friend.

Miss Redgrave said when she arrived at the awards ceremony in Los Angeles, she learned that a local leader of the Jewish Defense League had been taken into police custody after brandishing money and saying he would pay $500 "for whoever will bring me the ear of the Nazi."

She excused herself and began to weep as she told the court that her Oscar acceptance speech, a speech booed by some in the audience when she referred to "Zionist hoodlums," was an attempt to explain her position.

Wells returns to Utah

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Condemning Communism, denying she is tired of reporters and press conferences and re-emphasizing her image as a "squeaky clean" Miss America, Sharlene Wells, opened a four-day visit to Utah.

It is her first visit to her home state since beginning her reign.

Speaking to a barrage of reporters at a news conference Thursday, Ms. Wells, 20, said she didn't mind being called a "squeaky clean" person "at all."

"I love being a trend setter. I love to tell people about my values. I know there are others out there like me, and not just Mormons, who have the same values," she said.

"What's wrong with these kinds of values? I believe I represent many people, some, who, up until now, have been afraid they were a minority. There are lots of us all over this country," she said.

If she could change the Miss America contest in any way, she said, it would be to have the swimsuit competition in a small, private meeting, instead of broadcast.

"That was the only embarrassing time for me," she said.

She said her most memorable moment as Miss America came in Sacramento when a 12-year-old boy in a full body cast and his mother waited 1 1/2 hours for her to autograph his cast.

"I was just thrilled to know that he wanted to meet me to thank me — that it was that important to him to have my autograph and talk to me," she said.

In response to questions about dictators of Paraguay and Chile, she said they were the "best thing to happen" to those countries.

The leader of Chile "saved all of the South American people" from the rule of Communism, she said. "We don't want Communism on this continent, we don't want it anywhere."

The Brigham Young University broadcast journalism student said she was considering changing her major to English and wants to get a masters in business administration.

The actress, who earned $100,000 for her role in "The Devils," about $200,000 for "Camelot" and $125,000 for "Julia," made only $60,000 for the 1983 film "The Bostonians," her first major film since the cancellation, she testified.

She is suing the symphony for $5 million, contending that it violated her civil rights and committed a breach of contract by its decision to cancel a series of performances featuring her narration of Stravinsky's "Oedipus Rex." The symphony manager has testified that decision stemmed from fear her per-

Communists condemn kidnapping

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — The Communist Party Central Committee on Friday condemned the abduction of a pro-Solidarity priest and called for "severe punishment" of the kidnappers and a review of the Interior Ministry.

It was reacting to a call by the leader of Poland's Communist regime, Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski, who said the Oct. 19 kidnapping of the Rev. Jerzy Popieluszko was an "act of dangerous banditry."

Jaruzelski, in his first public comment on the abduction, told the opening session of a two-day meeting of the Central Committee that the kidnapping also was an attack "against the party and the leadership."

Authorities have said a "functionary" of the Interior Ministry is to be charged in connection with the abduction, and that he has been placed under arrest along with two accomplices.

The Central Committee ordered a review of the nation's internal security apparatus, and said the ruling Politburo should assert party control over the actions of the police and consider personnel changes in the Interior Ministry.

But it expressed "full confidence" in the interior minister, Gen. Czeslaw Kiszczak, and said the uniformed police and security service "fully deserve social esteem and confidence." It blamed the kidnapping on "a few criminals, provocateurs and agents of bad cause."

The Politburo establishes the Communist Party's policies, which are administered by the Central Committee.

Poland's official PAP news agency, in a Friday night dispatch, noted the priest might have been murdered.

"It has not been explained yet who abducted, and perhaps also killed, the Rev. Jerzy Popieluszko, or for what motives," it said.

The Central Committee statement said Popieluszko's abduction "strikes against the process of interior stability, relations between the state and church and the international prestige of our country."

Jaruzelski had told the committee, "We are still facing all kinds of challenges and problems. We should firmly fight everything that poisons the social atmosphere, violates elementary norms of law and order, and at the same time strikes... against the policy of our party and its leadership."

according to the Department of Energy.

World oil markets were calm Friday as traders awaited the cartel's response to price cuts last week by Norway, Britain and Nigeria and an announcement Thursday by Canada's National Energy Board that it had recommended a price cut.

Nigeria is the only OPEC member among the four.

Yamani traveled to Nigeria on Wednesday and was in Norway on Friday.

"It will be up to the OPEC conference in Geneva to decide the level of production cuts," Yamani told reporters in Oslo. "I've not asked anything from Norway. I've not asked Norway to contribute to a cut. Other non-OPEC countries will do so, Mexico and Egypt."

While Yamani did not disclose the level of cuts proposed for OPEC, analysts have said it would take a reduction of about 2.5 million barrels daily in OPEC's current quota of 17.5 million barrels a day to hold the line on prices.

U.S., Britain talk of Israeli pullout

JERUSALEM (AP) — Senior diplomats from the United States and Britain are to arrive in Israel next week to explore the prospects for an Israeli withdrawal from southern Lebanon, officials said Friday.

British Foreign Secretary Geoffrey Howe is to begin a three-day visit Sunday, and Israeli leaders will seek Britain's "understanding and support" for their conditions for a troop pullout, a Foreign Ministry official said.

Richard Murphy, a U.S. assistant secretary of state, is expected here at the end of his visits to India and Pakistan to continue "poking and prodding" for a resolution of the Lebanon conflict, said a diplomatic source who spoke on condition he not be further identified.

"The diplomatic activity comes at a time when Israel is seeking arrangements with Syria and Lebanon on security arrangements for its northern border after it withdraws its forces from Lebanon.

An informed Western source said there were "straws in the wind that the Syrians may see some value in talking about ways" to achieve an Israeli withdrawal, and the Israeli government "genuinely wants" to end the occupation of southern Lebanon.

But the source, who also spoke on condition he not be identified, said he was not optimistic about an early solution and did not expect the United States to restart any formal shuttle diplomacy before Israel, Lebanon and Syria were closer to agreement.

"There is nothing greatly to be gained from having somebody shuttle around out here endlessly with no outcome," he said. "There has to be a sense that the parties have reached conclusions about their own positions and enough flexibility for it to be worth the effort."

Syria has rejected a key Israeli demand that the "South Lebanon Army," a grouping of Christian and Moslem Lebanese militiamen allied with Israeli, have a major role in policing Israel's northern border. Israel also wants United Nations peacekeeping units stationed in southern Lebanon to be expanded and deployed in eastern Lebanon's Bekaa valley where Israeli and Syrian troops face each other.

Israeli forces invaded Lebanon in June 1982 to wipe out Palestinian guerrilla bases and drove as far north as Beirut. They subsequently withdrew to a line along the Awali River in southern Lebanon.

The Foreign Ministry official, commenting on Howe's visit, said Western European countries were showing "better understanding of Israel's military intervention in Lebanon."

Marcos joins prayers for resort fire victims

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — President Ferdinand E. Marcos joined American war veterans in prayers Friday for the victims of a fire that swept through a Baguio resort hotel, killing at least 21 people.

Twelve of the dead are believed to be Americans from a group of visiting World War II veterans.

Authorities lowered the known death toll from 24 to 21.

In a telephone interview, Baguio City Mayor Ernesto Bueno explained the change in the death toll, saying volunteer workers for ashes differed in counting debris in the ruins of the city's Flies-Hotel, and prematurely listed them as human remains without confirmation by chemical analysis. That confirmation is still pending.

More than 60 other people, mostly U.S. World War II veterans, were injured in the eight-hour fire that burned down the hotel, 125 miles north of Manila late Tuesday night. At least six Americans — three Malaysians and an Indian were reported missing.

Of the 21 bodies recovered, only 10 have been positively identified: those of Hamilton and Lucille Coenahan of Dallas, Tex., five Filipinos, a Hong Kong resident and two Malaysians.

The 11 other bodies were charred beyond recognition and 10 of them, believed to be those of Americans, were sent to the U.S. Clark Air Base, 50 miles north of Manila, for identification. But there was no word Friday from base officials on what progress had been made.

The Americans were among a group of nearly 200 war veterans and 45 sightseers in Baguio after attending last weekend's 40th anniversary celebration of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's 1944 Leyte Island invasion, which resulted in the liberation of the Philippines from Japan.

At the presidential palace, Marcos led the surviving veterans Friday in a minute of silent prayer for those who perished, and U.S. Ambassador Stephen Bosworth described the fire as "the ultimate tragedy" to befall veterans who "returned to the scene of their sacrifice" 40 years ago.

Mexico, Egypt may cut oil supply

By The Associated Press

Saudi Arabia's oil minister, who has been trying to avert a free-fall in world oil prices, said Friday that Mexico and Egypt would cut oil production.

The minister, Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani, did not say how much production would be reduced by Mexico and Egypt and there was no confirmation of the cuts from either of the independent oil producers.

On Monday, ministers of the 13 member nations of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries are scheduled to begin an emergency meeting in Geneva, Switzerland, to consider a defense of its prices.

Yamani has been trying to rally support for production cuts within and outside OPEC in an effort to avoid OPEC's second price cut in as many years.

Mexico is the leading oil exporter to the United States, providing 13.5 percent of U.S. imports and 4.7 percent of U.S. oil consumption, according to the Department of Energy.

World oil markets were calm Friday as traders awaited the cartel's response to price cuts last week by Norway, Britain and Nigeria and an announcement Thursday by Canada's National Energy Board that it had recommended a price cut.

Iran signals softening of peace conditions

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Iran on Friday signaled its willingness to ease its conditions for ending the four-year-old Persian Gulf War but said there will be no peace while Iraq's President Saddam Hussein "and five or six other little Satans" remain in power.

Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's Islamic government remained silent, meanwhile, about Red Cross-backed charges that Iranian guards shot and killed six Iraqi POWs during a prison riot in northern Iran early this month.

Speaking to tens of thousands of Moslem worshippers gathered for weekly prayers at Tehran University, Chief Justice Ayatollah Musavi Ardebili said Iran was prepared to drop some of the conditions to end the war, which began in September 1980 with Iraq's invasion of Iran in a territorial dispute over Iraq's only waterway into the gulf.

"We don't want any water or land... We don't even want war compensation; we only want (to oust) Saddam and five or six other little Satans," he said.

Ardebili's speech was yet another departure from the stiff conditions set out by Iran shortly after the Iraqi invasion.

Foreign observers here said his words reflected an increasingly accepted theory among Iranian officials that Tehran must make some concessions to rally international support for its main demand of ousting Hussein. Iran has demanded economic compensations from the Iraqi government to cover war damages which Iranian officials estimate at more than $100 billion.

Other conditions included the withdrawal of Iraqi troops and the opening of Iraqi borders to Iraqi refugees now living in Iran.

Last July, Iran's Parliament Speaker Hashemi Rafsanjani said Iran was seeking to end Iraq's war through diplomatic means.

Soviet criticizes 'eastern NATO'

MOSCOW (AP) — President Konstantin U. Chernenko accused the United States, Japan and South Korea on Friday of broadening military ties with the hope of "creating some kind of NATO eastern branch."

Chernenko also called for normal relations between the Soviet Union and China, which have been estranged since the late 1950s.

The president spoke at a Kremlin dinner honoring Mongolian leader Jambyn Batmunkh, who said his government's policy of allowing Soviet troops to stay in Mongolia "will not deter better relations with China."

war, which began in September 1980 with Iraq's invasion of Iran in a territorial dispute over Iraq's only waterway into the gulf.

"We don't want any water or land... We don't even want war compensation; we only want (to oust) Saddam and five or six other little Satans," he said.

Ardebili's speech was yet another departure from the stiff conditions set out by Iran shortly after the Iraqi invasion.

Foreign observers here said his words reflected an increasingly accepted theory among Iranian officials that Tehran must make some concessions to rally international support for its main demand of ousting Hussein. Iran has demanded economic compensations from the Iraqi government to cover war damages which Iranian officials estimate at more than $100 billion.

Other conditions included the withdrawal of Iraqi troops and the opening of Iraqi borders to Iraqi refugees now living in Iran.

Last July, Iran's Parliament Speaker Hashemi Rafsanjani said Iran was seeking to end Iraq's war through diplomatic means.

Castleford women are keeping busy with potato harvest activities. Above, the women pick debris off the conveyors

Working on a harvest crew

It's a busy time of year for workers in Castleford's fields

By DIANE SCHORZMAN
Times-News correspondent

CASTLEFORD — Mention potatoes and most people think of eating, but mention potatoes around Castleford in October and everyone thinks of the potato harvest.

Castleford is a very busy little town during the annual six-week potato harvest. Harvesting potatoes, however, involves many more people than just the farmers who grew them.

There is a crew of four to six people riding each harvester in the field; truck drivers who haul from the fields to the cellars, and the cellar crew who stores the potatoes in the cellars.

The local potato harvest offers many local women a chance to earn or save money and you will find that the majority of the cellar crew are local women.

You'll also find many among the harvester crew and truck drivers are farm wives working for themselves and their husbands to save money that would otherwise be paid out in wages.

The women working on the harvesters ride up and down the field all day, using both hands to pull rocks, dirt clods, rotten potatoes, weeds and vines from the potatoes as they go over the harvester chains and into the truck. Sometimes a mouse or rabbit finds its way over the chains to add some excitement to the digging.

Twila Crawford worked on the local harvesters for "years and years." In fact, she says she helped harvest potatoes when they were picked up by hand and put in baskets.

"I really liked working on the harvesters," says Crawford, who now works in the cellars, "especially when we had a fun crew."

Crawford says she worked six to eight weeks on the harvesters every fall.

The harvester crews work in lots of bad weather, and they wear all manner of clothing to keep warm. The recent cold weather made them unrecognizable in layers of coveralls, jackets, sweatshirts and stocking hats.

Goggles and dust masks are often needed when the digging is dry and dusty, and even though everyone wears heavy gloves, many women tape their fingers for added protection.

"It's nicer in the cellars," says Crawford,

"because you can work in out of the weather at least part of the time."

Blick Brothers cellars in Castleford is the hub around which the local potato harvest revolves. According to Benny Blick, approximately 350,000 sacks of potatoes will be moved through the Castleford cellars during this fall's harvest.

The potatoes, which are contracted to Idaho Frozen Foods in Twin Falls, are stored in the cellars until they can be transported to the plant for processing.

The cellar crew consists of about 15 people, most of whom are local Castleford women. They run the huge electric pliers that take the potatoes from the back of the trucks and place them in the cellars or onto one of the semi-trucks that take them directly to the plant.

The cellar crew picks clods and dirt from the potatoes as they come out of the truck and onto the plier, and they move the plier around so the potatoes are stored evenly in the cellar.

"When you first start to work in the cellars, you're scared of the pliers," says Crawford, but she adds that many of the men driving truck help

Shop owner plans lawsuit to counter obscenity charges

By ANNETTE CARY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls bookstore manager charged with distributing obscene materials plans to file a lawsuit against the city of Twin Falls next week in federal court, her attorneys say.

Agnes Farnsworth, the manager of Front Page Book Store, was charged Thursday with two misdemeanors for distributing the material to a Twin Falls police officer on Aug. 6 and Sept. 27.

Farnsworth's attorney, William Hoffield, says the suit will contend that the state statute under which Farnsworth was arrested is unconstitutional and that her civil rights were violated.

He has not determined the amount of damages he will ask for, "but it will be a lot," he says.

Mayor Emery Petersen said Thursday that he expected the suit to be filed and was prepared to fight. He said the city could be in litigation for years.

But the city will continue an investigation to determine if other Twin Falls businesses display or distribute obscene materials, he said.

"This is spreading," Petersen said. "It is not just Front Page Book Store that may be violating the law, but convenience stores that display X-rated video cassettes."

Petersen said the charges against Farnsworth followed about six months of work done by him and area religious leaders.

After the store moved from Main Street to larger quarters on Blue Lakes Boulevard North and began advertising, Petersen received several complaints, he said.

He formed a committee of Robert Van West of the First Presbyterian Church, Gil Myers of the First Baptist Church, Jim Tubbs of the First Christian Church, Don Watson of the West Stake of the LDS church and two area residents to find ways to fight hard-core pornography, he said.

Leaders of the other area churches later joined the battle, Petersen said.

At first the committee tried to stop distribution of materials (it considered offensive without bringing charges, Petersen said).

When that proved unsuccessful, Petersen and the City Council discussed bringing charges in a closed meeting before Oct. 12.

The council was split, but after Petersen sent members copies of the Idaho code, their oaths of office and letters from religious leaders, the council reached a unanimous decision to bring charges, Petersen said.

Vote comes back to haunt Neibaur

By RICK SHAUGHNESSY
Times-News writer

GOODING — When Rep. Mack Neibaur opposed an accelerated-construction program for Idaho's earthquake-damaged deaf and blind school, it wasn't yet apparent he would be shuffled into a legislative district that includes the facility.

However, the four-term incumbent Republican — a fiscal conservative well-known for his tight-fisted posture on the Legislature's budget-setting committee — says he would probably not have voted differently had he known Gooding would be the most populous city in his new legislative district.

"That's not unusual for me," Neibaur says, explaining his vote. "You vote against a lot of those things because you don't have the money," he said in a telephone interview Friday.

"I'm well aware that the school's a necessity and a good thing for the state. I don't question there's got to be quite a little bit of money spent (there)," he said, but he added that "the Permanent Building Fund doesn't have any money" and construction on other projects, which "have been tied up for years," should be funded first.

Neibaur joined 18 other House members March 14 in opposing a resolution authorizing contracts of $8.5 million for demolition and re-

St. Benedict's to open addition work

By CAROLYN MILLER
Times-News correspondent

JEROME — St. Benedict's Family Medical Center will soon be breaking ground for a new 10,000-square-foot building which will house eight to 10 physicians.

Chief Executive Officer Robert D. Campbell Jr. says the $375,000 Medical Arts Building will be under construction within two weeks, and should be ready for occupancy in early March. The low bid of Jac-Lyn Construction Co. of Jerome, was accepted.

James W. Evans Jr., director of personnel and public relations for St. Benedict's Family Medical Center, says the building will have space for many of the existing doctors in the community and that St. Benedict's hopes to recruit six to eight new physicians to the area. Physicians interested in the new office space have the choice of renting, leasing or purchasing, says Evans.

Campbell said "The new Medical Arts Building will connect to the existing Medical Center, which will give the patients direct access to all the services provided there. This campus approach to providing health services will help to improve St. Benedict's outpatient service, and will be more cost effective for the patient," he added.

Campbell also said patients requiring immediate care who are admitted to the emergency room, but do not need admittance to the hospital, may be conveniently transported to the new building, saving the expense of their own physician.

Evans says the new facilities will have its own x-ray unit.

Family theater owners decide to close shop

By TERRELL WILLIAMS
Times-News correspondent

WENDELL — Owners of the Ace Theater in Wendell would rather close their business than show films they do not approve of.

"We were anxious to try and have good movies, family movies," says Venna Jones who, along with her husband, Melvin, has operated the theater since 1981. "But we were just holding our own, not making any money. Melvin wouldn't charge any more than five dollars a couple."

Even though G-rated movies were not drawing profitable audiences, Jones says she would have been embarrassed to lower her standards and show films with bad language and low moral standards.

"If it's not good enough for me, I don't want to show it to anybody else," she explains.

Renting the films, Jones says, was very expensive, often taking 80 percent of money paid for tickets. On Sundays, the theater was not open. Films in Spanish were popular and well supported for awhile until there was "a border patrol scare," Jones recalls. "Then nobody came."

Paying for insurance, taxes and numerous repairs on the 50-year-old building was more than they could afford and advertising was also surprisingly expensive, Jones laments. "In addition, she continues, Melvin had health problems and "he lost his zip to try and run it."

So, in August, the old carbon-arc projector was retired and the theater was moved into a used building store named The Clothes Pin.

Each month, the Joneses send his parents unsold clothing from his used clothing store in Caldwell. Also, local people have donated clothes by the boxful to the store.

"People have been so good," Venna Jones comments, estimating the store's income to be about $100 per week. "When you sell things for a nickel or a dime or a quarter, that's a lot of things."

So far, all the money taken in from the clothing store has been put into the theater. Jones says, noting with pride that roof repairs this week were paid in cash.

The theater is for sale, Jones says, but only to "the right people" who will present decent movies.

About a year ago, Jones says she had a buyer for the theater, who wanted to show "these X-rated movies." She asked the City Council if the theater could be controlled.

"They said, if you don't want people to do that, don't sell it to them," Jones recalls, explaining why no sale was made.

Jones says she would like to see the theater used by the community and would welcome local people especially to rent or buy it. "But they've got to have good morals and good intentions," she adds.

Idaho entourage going to Nicaragua

By HAL BERNTON
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A contingent of five Idahoans will travel to Nicaragua next week to get a first-hand glimpse of the nation's first presidential elections.

The group includes a Pocatello city councilwoman, a college pre-city councilwoman, a college professor and the presidents of both the Young Republicans and Young Democrats groups at Idaho State University.

Mary Jane Hogan, an ISU professor who teaches a Central American affairs class, says the group's interest in Nicaraguan affairs was stimulated by a March university seminar in which both Nicaraguan government officials and "contra" members participated.

One of the government officials was a 27-year-old diplomat who had fought in the Sandinista-led revolution of 1979. While in Pocatello, he stayed at the home of ISU Young Republican Steven Wheeler and the two quickly struck up a friendship, Hogan said.

"They found out they were the same age and both liked hunting and fishing," Hogan recalls. When Wheeler travels to Nicaragua, he will stay with the diplomat's family, she said.

The Idaho contingent to Nicaragua is part of a much larger influx of Americans that the Wisconsin-sized central American nation is bracing for as its Nov. 4 election date draws near.

More than a dozen major religious, ethical, educational and non-profit organizations have organized Nicaraguan tours — many of which are timed to coincide with the elections. The Nicaraguan government is encouraging the U.S. visitors as a way of countering what it views as hostile U.S. propaganda against the nation.

Hogan says she is going to Nicaragua with an open mind to learn more about "a very complex society." She says she mistrusts ideologues who attempt to portray post-revolutionary Nicaragua as either a new earthly paradise or a dismal anti-utopia.

"There hasn't been a lot of good research done (into Nicaraguan affairs) and much of what is available tends toward propaganda," Hogan says.

Today Hogan is teaching a seminar about Nicaragua's history and social structure at the ISU residence center in Twin Falls.

After she returns from the trip, she will share some of her insights at a follow-up, two-day seminar scheduled in December.

Hogan says her two-week trip will be conducted by a Protestant relief organization based in Managua.

The nation is now ruled by a three-man junta. But during her stay the junta will be replaced by a

Hase ordered to pay county

By PAT MARCANTONIO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Robert Andrew Hase of Twin Falls was ordered this week to pay $1,300 for legal fees to Twin Falls County.

The 27-year-old Hase ran up a such a large bill with the public defender's office because he had two trials in Fifth District Court.

Hase was arrested for threatening a man with a knife Feb. 23. He pleaded innocent and a trial was scheduled in November 1983. The trial, however, ended in a hung jury.

After a second trial in April, Hase was found guilty of aggravated assault.

He was sentenced in June to a state rehabilitation program in Cottonwood.

He completed the program and at a Monday hearing was placed on a three-year probation. As part of the probation, Hase also agreed to pay the victim $300 restitution.

In other court business Monday:

- Aaron Wesley Dunn, 23, of 389 Jackson St. in Twin Falls pleaded guilty to attempting to kidnap a 12-year-old girl at the Blue Lakes Mall last July.
- Dunn originally had been charged with attempted kidnapping with the intent of raping the girl.
- When filed in district court, the language in the complaint concerning the intent to rape was dropped. Twin Falls County Prosecutor K. Eben Baxter said there was lack of evidence to prove Dunn's alleged intention.

A pre-sentence was ordered on Dunn, who was being held in Twin Falls County Jail.

The maximum sentence upon a conviction is 12 years in prison.

- David Lee Wrigley, 20, of Burley was placed on a two-year probation on a conviction of writing an insufficient fund check Nov. 11, 1982. Wrigley already had completed the Cottonwood program on the charge.

As part of the probation, Wrigley was ordered to pay restitution to the victim.

- Terry Lee Tanner, 19, of 605 W. B. Ave. in Jerome will spend another year on probation for breaking the rules of a prior probation. Tanner violated his probation by not being employed or a full-time student.
- Tanner originally was convicted of attempted grand theft and given a two-year probation.

- Lavonne Lauren Cain, 24, of 528 Fifth Ave. N. in Twin Falls was placed on a two-year probation for forging a traveler's check July 17.
- Cain also received a withheld judgment, which means if she completes a successful probation she can remove the conviction from her record.
- William Dale Avery, 18, of Twin Falls will spend three years on probation for burglarizing a Hansen-area residence Feb. 12. Avery also completed the Cottonwood on the conviction.

Avery was ordered to pay $400 to Twin Falls County for public defender services.

- Jay Garrison, 26, of 323 Van Buren St. in Twin Falls was given a three-year probation for breaking into an apartment March 22. As part of his probation, he will pay the victim of his offense $96. Garrison already has spent four months at the Cottonwood program.

- Lauray Larson, 19, of Twin Falls pleaded guilty to writing a $57 check to K-Mart in Twin Falls Aug. 3, 1983 without sufficient funds in her account. A pre-sentence investigation was ordered on Larson, who was released on her own recognizance.

- Terry Dennis Ward, 44, of Route 4, Burley was sentenced to three years in prison for writing May 28 an insufficient fund check for $25 to Nat-Soo-Pah. The court, however, retained jurisdiction for four months. Depending on Ward's behavior at the Cottonwood program, he could be placed on probation at the end of the four-month period.

- Dennis Eugene Abbott, 24, of 425 Fifth St. E. in Twin Falls pleaded guilty to stealing a snowplow from the Mountain Bell office in Twin Falls Sept. 14.

out when there is a problem with one. Reloading onto the semi-trucks is done outside, no matter what the weather, says Crawford.

"It goes from frostbite to sunburn," says Luanh Nhill, who also works in the cellars.

The cellar crew puts in long hours, from 8 a.m. until the trucks stop coming in — sometimes as late as 10 p.m. — but they seem to have the best job in the harvest.

"I'd rather work in the cellars than drive trucks," says Nhill.

Crawford says the enjoyers' working with the lady truck drivers.

"They're always untarped and ready to go when it's their turn," she says. It also gives you the chance to visit with people you don't see very often, she says.

The truck drivers must drive under the harvester to load. Then the trucks must be tarped to prevent windburning the potatoes on the way to the cellars to unload.

After backing down into the cellar, the driver climbs up on the back of the truck and unloads the potatoes.

The truck beds are equipped with an electric motor than runs a chain or belt that is covered with small boards. The driver pulls the boards, one at a time, and clicks the potatoes down onto the chain to unload.

The single-axle, or "bob-tail" trucks carry close to 200 sacks, or 10 ton, of potatoes. The 10-wheelers haul around 275 sacks or 13 to 14 ton. That's a lot of potatoes for a truck driver to klick off every time she brings a load to town.

"The first week you huff and puff," says Ruth Davis, farm wife and truck driver from Roseworth. "You think 'I'll never do this again!' but then you get used to it and it gets easier."

Five of the seven women driving truck from Roseworth this fall are farm wives.

After unloading, the truck driver hurries back to the field, replaces the boards and loads again.

"Sometimes you need a man around," says Davis. "When one of my boards gets stuck in the bottom of the truck, I have to holler for help."

Truck drivers have other problems. Davis lost the rear wheels off the right side of a loaded truck a few years ago.

"I know something was wrong," says Davis. "So I was driving slow when it happened." She brought the truck to a stop in a plowed field without rolling the truck or losing any potatoes.

"It was exciting," says Davis.

Most of the women truck drivers have worked on the harvesters in the past, and, though they are usually muddy from the knees down from unloading potatoes, they all state emphatically that they would much rather drive trucks.

"I feel sorry for those guys on the harvesters," says Davis.

The biggest problem for the potato women is keeping up at home while they are working the long hours, through many commented that their husbands do help out with meals and the children in the evenings.

Davis, whose husband runs their potato harvester, says he helps out with their children's school work at night.

"Brian has spelling and Tony has reading," says Davis. "and Tommy (who has been with a sifter all day) is throwing his toy trucks around for a little attention."

"I'm organized during the day I'll have a roast on for supper," says Davis, though several wives reported they have "quickie" canned or frozen suppers when they come in late.

Potato harvest is more than just hard work.

lained with federal disaster relief funds.

School administrator Keith Tolzin says he expects to use the temporary structures for about two years. "The idea was they're temporary and too often those things become permanent," Tolzin says.

The construction and renovation program will be financed through the sale of tax-exempt bonds, repaid from the Permanent Building Fund.

In promoting the measure, Brian Chase, administrator of the state's Division of Public Works told a Senate committee the accelerated improvements, at $8.5 million, will create a smaller and more efficient campus that will save the state $12 million in maintenance and operation costs over the next 20 years.

The authorization measure passed the House 51-19. It had previously passed the Senate without opposition. Neibaur's opposition vote was discovered this week during a routine review of recorded votes by The Times-News in conjunction with Sunday's voters' guide.

Neibaur, who has a Paul mailing address, lives near Kimama in Lincoln County. "I don't think anybody knew, at that time, where we were going to end up in districts. But regardless, you still have to do what you think is best," he says.

However, Neibaur's opponent — Democrat Dave Griffith of Sun Valley — says Neibaur's opinion of what is right often results in legislative decisions that are wrong.

"One of the things that prompted me to run is Mack has not voted in support of most education measures," says Griffith, a member of the Blaine County School Board. "This is yet another example... The city of Gooding. It was clearly in need of work to bring it up to standard."

"Unfortunately that's been Mack's reaction to items I view as wise and prudent investments in our future," Griffith says.

Hogan says that a Nicaraguan commission studied several nations' voting systems in an attempt to come up with the best possible framework for the Sandinista-

Unlike the U.S. elections, candidates have had equal access to free television time and equal amounts of money to spend on advertising.

There were initially about 12 political parties participating in the elections, running the gamut from Trotskyites to European-style

Social Democrats, Hogan says.

However, within the last week, several parties have reportedly withdrawn from the elections due to harassment by what Hogan termed "pro-Sandinista mobs."

Anyone interested in attending Hogan's December 27 Falls seminar should contact Marge Stoten at the ISU residence center.

Church vigil to oppose cross burning

By MESS BRUMBACH
Times-News correspondent

TWIN FALLS — The First United Presbyterian Church in Twin Falls is actively opposing the annual cross-burnings at Jerome.

The Rev. Robert Van Nest says there will be a peaceful vigil held in Jerome at a "discretionary distance" from the burning, if one is scheduled. He says the idea came from one of his church members who feels strongly there should be action to protest demonstrations by the Arayan nations.

Van Nest says sent a letter to churches in the area, and inviting anyone interested to join the protest of any cross burnings.

"These rituals get national attention, Van Nest says, "We don't like the idea that the message gets out across the country that Idaho is radical," he says.

"If a knowledge of the action on the part of the churches arrests the cross-burning, our purpose will have been served," he says.

The goal of "peace on earth" is not reserved for an elite group, says Van Nest, included in the inter-church communication was a copy of a letter sent to the city council, expressing his congregation's concern about pornography.

The church, and a peace-making committee under the leadership of Al and Joanne Smutny, is interested in accord between "all kinds of people" — between nations, different faiths, those of diverse ethnic backgrounds and between individuals themselves.

Van Nest says that a step in the direction of peace between the United States and Russia was taken by the committee, in the Presbyterian church, on Oct. 7, when world-wide communion was observed.

Besides talks and songs on the subject, post cards were distributed to the congregation, on which they were encouraged to write pleas to President Reagan and Soviet Konstantin Chernenko on behalf of harmony between the nations.

A scan of the large stack of yellow cards reveals one reading simply, "Love," and another, signed by "Matthew age 7," is boldly printed with "stop the wars and have no more."

The pastor emphasizes they are not "radical people. We're just concerned about what's going on in the world and want somebody to know about it."

Methodists mark 75th anniversary

JEROME-WENDELL — The United Methodist Churches of Jerome and Wendell will celebrate their 75th anniversaries and the bicentennial anniversary of American Methodism at services and programs scheduled to be held Sunday.

Both churches, which were organized in 1909 by the Rev. J.E. Minney, have served the communities continuously for the past 75 years.

In Jerome, observances will include a breakfast at 8 a.m., a service at 9 a.m. and a program at 10:30 a.m.

Reservations for the breakfast may be made by calling 324-4222.

In Wendell, observances will include a service at 11 a.m., and a covered dish dinner and program at noon. The Rev. Jerome, Wendell, and Hagerman congregations will hold a bicentennial service at 7:30 p.m. at the Wendell church.

Speakers at the services will include Bishop Calvin McConnell and the Rev. Lawrence, district superintendent.

English words have lost religious meanings

By GEORGE W. COOPER
AP Religion Writer

Whenever people talk, whatever the subject, they're often using words with religious origins. But most don't know it.

The connotations have changed with the times.

"The reason may be that society is now more secularized," says the Rev. Dale S. Bringham of San Diego, Calif., a Lutheran pastor and researcher into words once religious that are no longer.

With shifting situations and "the passage of time, people simply forgot the religious roots from which the words came," he adds.

In any case, the language is loaded with such terminology, its origins in faith and worship, but now conveying something else.

There are hundreds of English words and expressions commonly used that have long since lost their original religious significance," says Bringham, pastor of St. Peter's by the Sea Lutheran Church in San Diego.

"The words are still used, but where we got them is forgotten," he added in a telephone interview.

Some examples Bringham cites from everyday discourse:

"Parlor," meaning the main room in the house, stems from a French word meaning to speak and once was a room in monasteries in which monks yowed in silence could speak with visitors.

"Diapers," the white breech clothes for babies, comes from a Byzantine cloth, "diapros," used for religious garments and meaning pure white.

"Lobby," now any entrance hall, derived from the German word for leaf and referred to the tree-covered walk where visitors would visit monasteries. Now the lobby is those waiting outside to influence legislation.

"Holiday," now a celebration of most anything, originally meant "holy day."

"Giddy" and "enthusiastic" both originally meant "filled with God."

"Fertile day," meaning a climactic day, came from the old practice of marking religious feast days in red on the calendar.

"Short shrift," which means to give scant attention, originally meant a "short confession," the "shrift" from the Anglo-Saxon word "shrive," which means, "to confess."

"Scapegoat," a victim of unjustified blame, originally was a goat on which the Israelites placed the people's sins before turning him loose in the desert.

"Bonfire" comes from the "bone fires" made from bodies of saints burned during the English reformation.

"Clerks" derived from the word "clergy" applied to religious leaders because they were literate and able to serve as bookkeepers and secretaries.

"Journals," now a daily or periodic record, originally were devotional aids, named from the French word for "books."

"Beans," now usually college officials, originally were religious leaders in charge of a "decan" or 10 monks.

"Beggars," now indigent people asking handouts, came from an old Flemish word, "beghen," meaning to pray, and referred to monks who had taken vows of poverty.

"X," the mark used on ballots, originated from the Greek cross, which illiterates used to witness to legal documents.

"Ledgers," now any record of financial transactions, came from the Old English word, "to lie," referring to religious breviaries not to be taken from churches but "to lie" in the same place.

"Do, re, me, fa, sol, la, ti" the names for notes of the musical scale, were the first syllables of a religious hymn about John the Baptist.

"Goodbye" comes from "God be with ye."

The change in connotation has taken place "because people aren't as religiously oriented as they once were," Bringham said in a telephone interview. "Pluralism" of society probably has played a role.

Census Bureau reports industry slump

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amid the severe economic decline that wrenched the Idaho economy several years ago, the number of manufacturing establishments in the state dropped more than 6 percent with the number of production jobs off nearly twice that much, according to new figures from the U.S. Census Bureau.

The report shows the number of manufacturing operations, which covers the food processing and timber industries critical to the Idaho economy, dropped from nearly 1,500 in 1977 to just over 1,400 in 1982. While the statewide payroll continued to rise over the period, the number of jobs actually dropped by 4,000 as even greater cutbacks in key industries were somewhat offset by increased job opportunities in others.

According to the report, Idaho had 47,600 manufacturing-category jobs in 1982 compared to nearly 52,000 five years earlier. The statewide payroll totaled nearly $865 million. Nearly 6,000 production jobs were lost over the period as that portion of the work force plunged to 34,000.

Highest hit were the state's top two industries. Food processing, responsible for nearly a quarter of the statewide manufacturing payroll, saw its labor force decline by 2,000 jobs to 13,500 over the five years while timber, accounting for more than a fifth of the payroll, suffered a loss of 5,500 jobs as the work force slipped below 11,000 in 1982.

Slight declines in employment occurred in the quarrying and transportation equipment while the work force held steady for paper products and fabricated metals.

But increases in other areas, though not enough to avoid a net job loss, softened the impact of the recession. The chemical industry experienced a 50 percent gain in jobs to 3,200 and machinery manufacturing had nearly the same kind of increase as its labor force hit 5,200 in 1982, according to the report.

ISU study indicates school administrators' pay is low

POCATELLO (AP) — An Idaho State University study indicates that like public school teachers, school superintendents in the Gem State rank low on national pay scales.

"The states that pay their teachers well also pay their superintendents well," said Gary Jones, a professor in the ISU Department of Education. "Nationally, this state's superintendent salaries are lower."

Jones found in a survey that the highest-paid superintendent also headed the state's largest district, Boise. The district's superintendent is paid $59,572. Pocatello, the state's second-largest district with 12,000 students, pays superintendent Rulon Ellis $52,573.

Twin Falls is third in enrollment.

The survey didn't list that district's superintendent's salary, but a recent lawsuit filed by fired superintendent Gary Piller put the salary at about $43,000.

Jones said the salary paid Ellis and other superintendents does not compare with private industry, when you consider the budget, number of employees and buildings that must be supervised.

Tornado causes minor damage

BOISE (AP) — A tornado touched down just west of downtown Boise Friday, causing minor damage but no injuries, the National Weather Service reported.

The twister bounced through a shopping area about midmorning, flinging a business sign into a parking lot lamp pole, ripped apart a movie theater marquee, knocked down some power poles, and scattered scrap lumber from a vacant lot.

The weather service said the tornado, part of a cold front that moved across the city from the West, quickly dissipated into the cloud cover.

Pair held in kidnapping

GRANGEVILLE (AP) — Two Spokane men were arrested early Friday for investigation into the alleged assault and kidnapping of a Washington man in Grangeville, Idaho County Sheriff Rodger Laughlin said.

Laughlin said James Wilson of Deer Park, Wash., said he picked up two hitchhikers just before midnight Thursday.

He said the men then overpowered him, tied him up and put him in the back seat of the car before driving north on U.S. 95 toward Fern, Laughlin said.

Laughlin said the car became stuck along the side of the road after traveling just a few miles, and Wilson then began to kick at the two men.

People in a car on the highway saw the activity in the car and stopped to help, he said, adding the two men then took off on foot across the snow-covered Camas Prairie, heading toward Cottonwood.

Sheriff's deputies chased the two men until they "flushed out onto the road," he said.

Laughlin said the two men will be charged with aggravated assault and kidnapping.

Wilson was not seriously harmed, he added.

Laffertys show 'revelation' ordering killing

PROVO, Utah (AP) — Ron and Dan Lafferty, accused of murdering their sister-in-law and her daughter, have released a copy of the purported divine revelation calling for "removal" of the two victims and others.

The handwritten document has previously been mentioned by authorities, but its wording was not disclosed until the brothers — due to go on trial Monday — gave a copy to a Provo newspaper.

Although psychiatrists said the brothers suffered from paranoia and grandiose delusions, the Laffertys were found competent to stand trial and conduct their own defense Wednesday by 4th District Judge J. Robert Bullock.

After the hearing, the brothers gave a copy of the document to a Provo Daily Herald reporter. A photograph of the document accompanied a copyrighted story in the newspaper.

"There are a lot of reasons we felt it needed to be out. We were prayerful about it. For some reason, we felt prompted to do it. I think it should be made public," Dan Lafferty told the newspaper.

The brothers are accused in the July 24 murder of Brenda Wright Lafferty, 24, formerly of Kimberly, Idaho, and her 15-month-old daughter, Erica.

Bullock, who closed the competency hearing to the public, said during the hearing he was concerned that release of the document might be an obstacle to the selection of an impartial jury.

The document says, "Thus sayeth the Lord unto my servants (sic) the prophets. It is my will and commandment that ye remove the following individuals in order that my work might go forward. For they have truly become obstacles in my path and I will not allow my work to be stopped. First thy brother's wife Brenda and her baby, then Chloee Low, and then Richard Stowe. And my will that they be removed in their succession and that an example be made of them in order that others might see the fate of those who fight against the true Saints of God."

"And it is my will that this matter be taken care of as soon as possible and I will prepare a way for my instrument to be delivered and instruction be given unto my servant Todd. And it is my will that he show great care in his duties for I have raised him up and prepared him for this important work and is he not like unto my servant Porter Rockwell? And great blessings await him if he will do my will, for I am the Lord thy God and have control over all things. Be still and know that I am with thee. Even so Amen."

Authorities have said Brenda Lafferty may have been slain because she supported Ron Lafferty's wife during her divorce.

The brothers also are charged with burglary and criminal conspiracy with intent to kill in an alleged plot against Mrs. Low, a Mormon Church Relief Society president at Highland, and Stowe, Highland Mormon president.

Mrs. Low also had supported Ron Lafferty's wife, and Stowe was thought to be on the list because of his involvement in the excommunication of the brothers.

Rockwell was a bodyguard to pioneer church leader Brigham Young.

Ron Lafferty, speaking at a news conference after the competency hearing, said the document used the word remove rather than kill or murder. He cited President Reagan's use of the word in a debate with Walter Mondale when he said he would remove CIA agents falling to act responsibly.

Lafferty said the revelation was not directed at himself or Dan specifically, but to "my servants the prophets." He said he had prayed several times before accepting the revelation as the word of God.

"My question is, who are the prophets?" Ron said.

The brothers were dismissed from the School of Prophets, a loosely organized religious group, as a result of the revelation, Dan Lafferty said.

He said Todd was kidnapped near Spanish Fork. He said that before Ron Lafferty received the revelation, Todd had a dream in which he rode a white horse through the streets and carried a sword.

Dan Lafferty said he was not implying Todd was the person meant to carry out the work mentioned in the document. He said the "instrument" needed to be consecrated, but never was.

Dan said several members of the School of Prophets received revelations regularly and each member prayed to know the true source.

He said he and Ron didn't know what Brenda "was doing wrong," to cause her to be named in the revelation.

"I had no antagonism towards Brenda. I don't know why she was such an obstacle in the Lord's eyes; there's something the Lord knows that I don't. She must have been fighting against things she shouldn't have been," Dan said.

Ricky Martin Knapp, 23, Wichita, Kan., and Charles ... originally faced ... murder charges in the case, but have agreed to testify for the state.

Knapp has pleaded guilty to the robbery counts and one reduced count of second-degree murder. Carnes pleaded guilty to two counts of criminal conspiracy and one count of aggravated robbery.

Group plans battle for river agreement

BOISE (AP) — A self-styled consumer group plans to battle the proposed Swan Falls water-rights agreement when it reaches the 1985 Idaho Legislature.

Al Fothergill of the Idaho Citizens Coalition said Friday that the agreement stands to raise electric rates by at least $53 million a year. He also charged state officials negotiated the agreement largely in closed-door sessions, without public comment.

"One purpose of this agreement is to allow part of the low-cost energy supplied by the Snake River to be given away, without paying consumers for their loss," Fothergill said.

"A few irrigation developers get the water and consumers — including present farmers, businesses and residential users — get higher bills."

Fothergill said critics of the water-rights proposal will unite to oppose legislative endorsement of it.

The plan signed by officials of the state and Idaho Power Co. on Thursday is intended to resolve much of the dispute over competing demands for Snake River water.

The plan places unappropriated water in a state-controlled trust. Under the agreement, Idaho Power has use of the water until it is parceled out to new users who show their projects will be in the public interest.

The water-rights agreement needs approval of the Legislature and state and federal regulators.

Expert fears water plan by politics

COEUR D'ALENE (AP) — A proposal to grant state legislators more power in the management of Idaho's water resources would open the door to water planning based on politics, an expert said Thursday.

"Adoption of SJR 117 would very much not be in the public interest," said Scott Reed, a former member of the state Water Resources Board.

Reed compared the legislators to poor losers who lost the game and now want to change the rules.

The board was created in 1964 to develop a state water plan without being subject to legislative veto.

The plan, reviewed every five years, is due for another analysis next year.

Man pleads innocent to smuggling

MOSCOW (AP) — A Canadian accused of trying to smuggle more than $22,000 into the United States has pleaded innocent to four federal charges stemming from the incident.

Raymond R. Scott, 28, entered his pleas on Thursday during an arraignment before a U.S. Magistrate here.

Scott was arrested on Sept. 30 along with Dallyce Lee VanCleve as they allegedly tried to cross the border into the United States from Canada with the currency.

He is charged with falsely representing himself as a citizen of the U.S., making a false statement as to who he was, failing to report that he was transporting more than $5,000 into the U.S., and fraud for presenting false identification.

Scott is jailed in the Latah County Jail in lieu of $35,000 bond.

VanCleve is free on $10,000 bond.

Both face trial Nov. 28 in federal court in Boise.

Mine owner hits cleanup study, but prefers state do it over EPA

KELLOGG (AP) — The state would be more qualified to conduct a preliminary study for a Superfund cleanup of the Bunker Hill smelter area than would the Environmental Protection Agency, a smelter owner has said.

But Jack Kendrick, Bunker Limited Partnership president, questioned the need for a study and termed it "redundant," "wasteful" and a potential liability for the area's mining industry.

Idaho Health and Welfare Director Rose Bowman has asked the EPA to designate her department as the lead agency for the $1.5 million preliminary cleanup study.

A plan worked out by the staffs of the two agencies originally called for the Idaho department to receive just $45,000 to review the results of the EPA's work.

The study could lead to a cleanup of heavy metal wastes in the 40-square-mile area around the Bunker Hill lead smelter, which was shut down in 1981 and later purchased by the partnership.

"I have serious questions about the need for the study," Kendrick said, "but if it has to be done, the state is better qualified to do it."

Kendrick said the EPA has studied the area before, adding, "I'm not sure what anybody would be looking for that they haven't already found. They've been investigating around here for a dozen years."

He also said he understands the local mining industry might end up paying for part of any Superfund cleanup.

The question of liability for the cleanup "is certainly one more risk that we'd have to evaluate in determining the near-term feasibility of the Bunker Hill Mine," he said.

The costs of the cleanup could dampen the enthusiasm for reopening the Bunker Hill Mine or opening new mines in the district, he contended.

Kendrick said the state would be "more sympathetic to the implications" the study would have for the Idaho mining industry than would the federal government.

A decision on the question of which agency will lead the study is expected from the EPA next month.

Blaze levels Moscow tire warehouse

MOSCOW (AP) — A tire warehouse was leveled by fire early Friday morning, a Moscow Fire Department spokesman said.

He said the fire at the Brunel Tire Co. warehouse was reported at 3:42 a.m.

About 50 firefighters responded to the call, he said, adding they brought the blaze under control about 7:30 a.m.

The warehouse contained tires for the company, he said.

No damage estimate was immediately available Friday morning. The cause of the fire remained under investigation.

Details of the fire were not immediately available.

Elderly man dies in tractor rollover

WILDER (AP) — An elderly Wilder man has died of injuries sustained when he was pinned under his tractor after it rolled over, authorities reported.

The victim was identified as Willard Mills, 85, who was found still pinned under the tractor by his son on Thursday.

Canyon County Coroner Red Merritt said Mills died of traumatic injuries suffered in the accident.

Key banks peg prime at 12%

By COTTEN TIMBERLAKE The Associated Press

NEW YORK — The nation's major banks cut their prime lending rate Friday, dropping from 12.5 percent to 12 percent as the slowdown in the economy's growth continued to lower their costs of obtaining funds.

Morgan Guaranty Trust Co., the nation's fifth largest bank, led the way, lowering its rate half a percentage point effective Monday.

No. 9 Bankers Trust Co., which had stood alone with a 12.25 percent rate since last week, followed, dropping its rate a quarter of a percentage point effective immediately.

Other major banks, including No. 1 Bank of America of San Francisco and No. 2 Citibank of New York, and numerous regional banks quickly followed suit.

They had cut their prime lending rates by a quarter point to 12.5 percent last week, except Bankers Trust which had adopted the lower rate.

The industry had adopted the 12.75 percent prime rate in late September after three months at 13 percent.

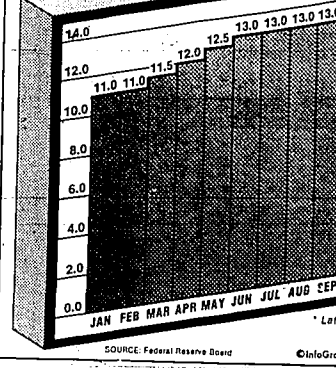

The prime rate is the base upon which banks compute interest charges on short-term business loans. The most creditworthy customers often borrow at below the prime rate.

Small businesses typically are charged more than the prime rate. The prime rate does not directly affect the price of consumer loans but it is an indicator of the direction of interest rates charged generally.

Friday cut was particularly good news for Third World debtors nations, which together save an estimated $1 billion in interest payments on each half-point drop in the prime rate.

money costs is the federal funds rate, the interest banks charge each other for overnight loans of excess reserves. That rate stood at 9.5 percent Friday, well below the double-digit levels that prevailed for most of the previous four months.

Another key rate is the one on three-month certificates of deposit, which were trading at around 9.82 percent Friday, vs. 11.06 percent a month ago.

"The Fed is concerned that the economy is growing below average," Harris said. "The Fed becomes somewhat more generous in providing reserves to the member banks, that brings down the federal funds rate and that brings down the other money costs."

The gross national product — the broadest measure of economic health as the total value of all goods and services produced by a country — slowed to a sluggish 2.7 annual rate of growth from July through September, the government reported last week. The GNP grew at a rate of 10.1 percent in the first quarter and 7.1 percent in the second.

At the start of the year, the prime rate stood at 11 percent. It climbed to 13 percent in late June. Its all-time high was 21.5 percent, in December 1980.

ABC affiliate reaches area

POCATELLO — KPVI-TV, the American Broadcasting Co.'s affiliate in Pocatello, has begun broadcasting in the Twin Falls and Jerome areas using UHF channel 51, general manager Brian Hogan, announced last week.

The station will air the full ABC lineup of programming, which currently is available only to viewers who subscribe to cable television service. Many late-model televisions are equipped for UHF reception.

KMVT-TV in Twin Falls carries selected ABC programming on VHF Channel 11, which can be received by all television sets. However, it does not carry the full schedule.

District meeting Wednesday

CALDWELL — Dairyfarmers' Creamery Association Inc. will hold its district meeting for the Magic Valley at 11 a.m. Wednesday in the Holiday Inn, 1350 Lake Blvd., N., Twin Falls.

Top officials of the cooperative including president Dale Pine and general manager Frank Krone will attend, according to an association announcement.

Canopy maker fighting ads

BOISE (AP) — A Midwest manufacturer of canopies for pickup trucks is seeking a court order to block advertisements by its Pocatello competitor.

Leer Inc., of Elkhart, Ind., claims the advertisements misleadingly compare its canopies with those produced by Custom Topper in Pocatello.

Leer said in a U.S. District Court complaint it has lost sales and reputation because of advertisements that have appeared in a number of places, including national publications.

Leer's complaint seeks unspecified damages in addition to an order blocking the ads.

Custom Topper officials could not be reached for comment on the allegations.

Frontier Holdings posts gains

DENVER (AP) — Frontier Holdings Inc., whose principal subsidiary is Frontier Airlines, on Friday reported third quarter earnings of $5.8 million and said gains have been made during the quarter because of earlier cost-cutting actions.

Officials, however, said the Denver-based company faces a loss for the full year, but it will be necessary to take further actions to make the company competitive now and in the future.

For nine months this year, Frontier Holdings had a net loss of $10 million, or 86 cents per share. During the same period in 1983, the company lost $14.9 million, or $1.43 per share. Frontier Holdings' net earnings for the third quarter of 1983 totaled $1.2 million, or 11 cents per share.

Frontier Chairman Glen L. Ryland said Frontier's strong third-quarter performance is due to increased business during the peak summer travel period.

Also contributing to the company's performance, he said, were management cost-reducing actions and concessions agreed to earlier by three of Frontier Airlines' unions.

But Ryland said Frontier Holding probably will lose money during the fourth quarter and for the year, the second straight year the company will have reported a loss.

The banks lowered the prime rate because their wholesale cost of money fell down and competitive pressures necessitated them passing that along to borrowers.

"I think it's going to come down some more," Harris said. "The next step will probably be to 11 1/2 percent, within the next month or so."

David Jones, an economist at the government securities dealer Aubrey G. Lamson & Co., said: "Business loan demands are beginning to soften. I think that's causing some banks to become concerned."

"Not only are they seeing a drop in loan demand, they're also facing tougher competition from non-bank sources of funds," Jones said.

Some larger business borrowers are borrowing in the commercial paper market because they have to pay only 9.25 percent to 9.5 percent on their corporate IOUs, Jones said.

Court gives state say in steelhead dealings

BOISE (AP) — A court ruling that gives Idaho a say in a plan for management of Northwest steelhead and salmon eventually could help to control "hogfish" fishing by Indians, the Idaho Fish and Game Department director says.

Director Jerry Conley and the attorney general on Friday announced a 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals decision they termed a landmark in Idaho's battle over prized runs of anadromous fish in the Northwest.

The appellate court's reversal of a U.S. District Court ruling gives Idaho a formal vote in the development of a long-range fish-management plan.

Idaho officials have contended since 1975 that Oregon and Washington take too many anadromous fish destined to enter Idaho. They charge the two states have allowed Indians to imperil the Columbia and Snake rivers' valuable sport fisheries through excessive gillnetting.

The Idaho economy stands to benefit vastly from strong fish runs because one steelhead is worth $100 when a sportsman's total outlay is calculated, Conley said.

In the past, the states of Oregon and Washington have ignored Idaho in fish-plan talks, Idaho Deputy Attorney General Steve Goddard said.

"I think it's pretty obvious that the state that produces the majority of the steelhead, or over half, should have a say," he said Friday.

Conley said a "terrific steelhead season" anticipated this year fell short of projections because Indians exploited their gillnetting rights.

He estimated tribes this year sold 70,000 steelhead, and another 50,000 likely died after struggling out of nets. An estimated 35,000 have gillnet, scars and probably will die, Conley said.

"It is a tremendous sport fish," he said. "It is a disgrace to waste it in that way."

Goddard said the appeals court reversal came on the heels of a U.S. Supreme Court decision that held Idaho is entitled to a fair share of anadromous fish runs. The size of the share was not specified in the court ruling. State officials said on Friday that they will press for Idaho to have a 50 percent share.

Goddard said the Northwest steelhead run this year topped 300,000 fish, with Idaho producing 75 percent of them.

The battle over the fisheries has included allegations from Idaho that the runs are impaired not only by Indian netting, but also by poor conservation practices in Oregon and Washington.

Idaho officials' concerns about protecting steelhead ultimately may involve asking Congress to declare the fish non-commercial, prohibiting sales.

Negotiation of a regional fish plan has been ongoing since September 1983, Goddard said. He said the talks probably won't culminate for at least six months.

"We have not gotten to the hard problems yet," he said. He declined to discuss details of the negotiations to date.

Tiger defense stops Burley for 21-12 win

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

JEROME — Tracy Black put teeth in a heretofore latent running attack and the Jerome defense kept Burley backed up the entire second half Friday night when the Tigers dropped the Bobcats 21-12 to move into the state A-2 playoffs.

Black, a junior, ripped off a 57-yard run on the second play of the second half and while it didn't lead to a score for over 16 minutes, it was the pivotal play of the game. Jerome, clinging to a 14-12 lead, never let the Bobcats beyond their own 31 until, finally, a three-yard flip from Shane Jund to Todd Amundson led the victory with 3:48 to play.

Between the Tiger defense and Black's running, Jerome was frustrated at the seven, 16 and the three. But even more frustrated was the Burley offense which couldn't find anything to extricate itself from the hole. And that hole became considerably deeper late in the third quarter when sprint-out quarterback Alex Alejandre went out with a probable broken collarbone. He was replaced by junior Shane Newcomb but he couldn't replace the darling, home-run scrambling potential of Alejandre.

In the end the hero was Black, who had just 25 yards at halftime and ended the game with 122. Jerome had spent the entire year living on the arm of Jund and his defense but the ground game decided what Coach Jon Jund had called "perhaps the biggest game for Jerome in 10 years."

"No field position. That was the whole game," said Burley Coach John Biletz. "Yeah, we came in thinking that Jerome would be throwing but we knew they had the ability to run. That No. 41 (Black) is a helluva back."

Jund said Jerome simply went to "what their defense was giving us. They doubt shifted to our tight end and that took the outside wear away. Then we noticed they were walking their linebacker off to help double on Amundson. We'd put in the weakside power this week and that's what ended up getting us the yardage."

It started out like an offensive barnburner and ended up a defensive struggle.

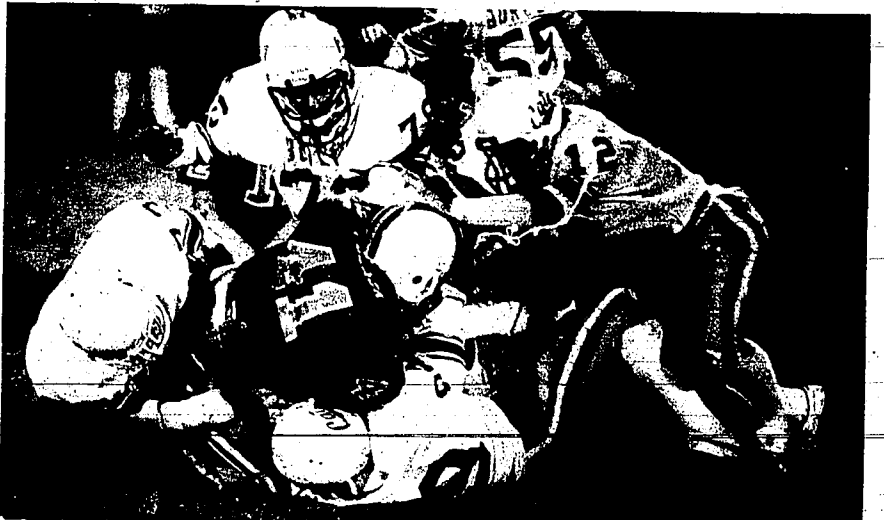

That was where Jerome wanted to be. "We committed our linebackers to the draw and made sure our ends contained Alejandre. You can't let him get outside. After that first drive and with the exception of just one mistake after that, our defensive ends did a great job," Jund said.

Burley took the opening kickoff and with a couple of short passes and more running, grabbed the lead on a three-yard run by Brett Udy. Alejandre then rolled out of the holding position to attempt a two-point pass conversion but Jerome sacked him.

"We were going to fake it all along," said Biletz of that play. "Our kicking has been a little erratic and sometimes there is a little surprise element that works to your advantage with it, especially after you score first."

But it ended up leaving the Bobcats behind for the night because moments after the ensuing kickoff, Jund hit the feet Amundson in stride down the sideline and he completed a 59-yard scoring play. Amundson's kick sent the Tigers ahead 7-6.

The Tigers bumped that to 14-6 early in the second quarter with Burley coming back in the waning minutes to score on a three-yard rollout by Alejandre. But Jerome stopped the possible conversion run.

Jerome running back Tracy Black is tackled by a host of Burley defenders after struggling for a short gain

The drama started building when Black uncorked his 57-yard sprint to the Burley 11. Burley gave up just four yards in four plays and picked up a couple of first downs before running into a kicking situation. Jay Christensen tried to pass out of the punting position but the ball fell incomplete, giving Jerome the ball at the Bobcats 42. Immediately Black uncorked a 21-yard romp for a first down but Burley again held.

After forcing another Burley punt, Jerome picked up a first down at the Bobcats nine on the first play of the fourth quarter. It ground down to fourth and three before Black was held for no gain, leaving the fact he fumbled the ball away meaningless.

Burley mustered only a 27-yard punt and its defense then had to absorb six straight carries by Black. Torrey Sheets popped up on third and four to get a first down at the Bobcat six. Burley held twice before Jund dropped back and hit Amundson in the left corner of the end zone for the clinching touchdown.

"I started feeling pretty good when Amundson made that PAT and gave us the nine-point lead," Jund said.

Burley tried to come back with a closing passing drive but with 1:31 it literally became a black night for the Bobcats when Shawn Black picked off a deep attempt. After that, with help from a muffed punt, Jerome was able to run out the clock.

The victory moves the Tigers into a playoff next Saturday, at the ISJU Mindome, although Coach Jund said, "I don't know who we play or what time. But we'll worry about it later. I just want to enjoy this one tonight."

Burley lost 21-12 to Jerome. Burley's record is 1-10-1. Jerome's record is 7-7-1. Burley's season stats: 1-10-1. Jerome's season stats: 7-7-1.

Turnovers plague Bruins' play in 17-0 loss to Idaho Falls

By SCOTT TUDEHOPE
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — It was a battle of the Twin Falls, a 17-0 loser to A-1 Division II contender Idaho Falls, fell victim to four fumbles and an interception before the night was on.

It was enough to drive even patient like Twin Falls Coach Bill Jones crazy.

"The kids just didn't take Idaho Falls seriously," he said. "We played our absolute worst game in eight games. I really can't say much about either our offense and defense — both playing terrible ball."

What exacerbated the frustration for Jones and his staff was that Twin Falls had at least three opportunities to score, but failed each time.

The first came on the Idaho Falls 17-yard line. After mounting a successful drive from midfield, the Bruins' leading rusher, Jeff Lambert, had the ball squeezed out of his grasp by the Tigers' Keith Langhoff, who recovered the fumble.

In the fourth period, Kirk Slater caught a Doug Petersen pass for 35 yards and an apparent touchdown. The only problem was that a clipping call brought it back.

The last opportunity to eliminate the goose egg came when Petersen attempted to pass deep in Tiger territory. Instead, Tiger tackle Jason Neville wrested the ball from Petersen's grip and lumbered for 12 yards, erasing any remaining hope the Bruins had of putting points on the board.

It didn't start that way. Idaho Falls' second series eventually took them to the Bruin 8-yard line, where the Tigers' leading rusher, Brad Kellogg, was tackled for a loss by linebacker Jon Sander. That set up a third and goal from the 10, and Idaho Falls had to settle for a 13-yard field goal by Craig Petersen.

The Tigers then went to work on the Bruins' secondary, particularly the corner positions. Receiver Don Potter caught six of the first nine throws by quarterback Steve Bivens, one of those in the end zone. Bivens at one point in the first half was eight in nine, ending up with 14 completions on 25 throws for just under 200 yards.

Potter's moment came on a fourth-and-two in Bruin territory. Instead of going for the first down on a running play, Bivens gambled by going to the air. Potter split the seam between defenders Chris Stewart and Rob Lewis for the 33-yard score three minutes into the second quarter. Beck completed the point-after kick and it was 10-0, Tigers.

But Idaho Falls paid the price for the score. Potter, limping after an earlier play, went down to a knee injury in the end zone after the touchdown.

"It's a darn shame we lost Don on that play," said Idaho Falls Coach Ken Sampson. "We really could have used him at state; he'll be missed."

Idaho Falls' second touchdown of the night came in that second period as well. Starting at the Twin Falls 42-yard line, Bivens engineered his club down to the 11 on a seven-yard keeper. That gave the Tigers a badly needed first down, but a revived Bruin defense kept the visitors at bay until 3:16 left to play, when running back Perry Johnson punched it in from the three. Beck made it three-for-three, and the scoring, although no one knew it then, was to end.

The Bruins were warned that Idaho Falls might try to enliven the proceedings by throwing in a couple gadget plays. They didn't let anyone down, when on their own 11, the Tigers tried a reverse pass on their final possession in the half. Receiver Paul Reeser dropped the ball, which like many of Bivens' passes, hit the mark squarely.

Twin Falls' record is now 4-5 overall, 3-3 in the Gem State Conference. The Tigers' mark is 4-5 and 4-2.

Idaho Falls' record is 11-10-0-17. Twin Falls' record is 0-9-0-0-9. Bivens 13 field goals. PF—Potter 33 pass from Bivens (Beck kick). RF—Johnson 3 run (Beck kick).

Saints' quarterback Stabler quits football

KEN STABLER 'Felt it was time'

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Quarterback Ken Stabler, one of the most accurate passers in National Football League history, has retired from professional football effective immediately, the New Orleans Saints announced Friday night.

Stabler, who will be 39 years old on Christmas Day, was not available for comment but his agent, Phillip Henry Pitts, said from home at Bay Minette, Ala., that the former University of Alabama All-American "felt that it was time."

"Under the circumstances, he thought it was best to retire," Pitts said.

The Saints issued a brief statement that also quoted Bum Phillips, the team's head coach and general manager, and also one of Stabler's closest friends and admirers.

"He's been nothing but a credit to the game his entire career, on and off the field, and we hate to see him go," said Phillips.

"He's always done what we asked him to do. He gave everything he had to help this team and every year he's ever played with to make them winners. We will miss his ability and his leadership. He's been good for this team."

"But he's more to me than just a player. He's my good friend," said Phillips. "I'll miss him professionally, sure, but I'll also miss him personally."

More NFL news — D6

Pitts said Stabler was en route Friday night to his home at Gulf Shores, Ala., where there is no telephone listing in his name.

Nor could teammates be reached immediately for comment. The Saints leave today for their game Sunday at Cleveland against the Browns.

The Saints said defensive tackle Tony Elliott had been re-signed and would be reactivated if Commissioner Pete Rozelle gives his approval.

Elliott earlier this year was charged with forgery by U.S. and Louisiana authorities. He was placed under a two-year suspended state prison sentence after pleading guilty to six counts of forgery and two counts of issuing worthless checks.

Prosecutors said Elliott needed the money to pay for his drug dependency.

In spite of his heroic credentials, Stabler — who married a former Miss Alabama USA and had arthroscopic knee surgery during the off-season — was not good enough this year, frustrated fans complained of late.

A fourth-quarter fumble last Sunday night against Dallas produced the game-tying touchdown that enabled the Cowboys to rally for a 30-27 overtime victory against the Saints off to a disappointing 3-5 start in spite of playoff expectations.

And Stabler, serving as understudy to Richard Todd, had completed just 33 of 70 pass attempts this season — a 47 percent average — for just two touchdowns.

But Pitts said Stabler's poor performance against the Cowboys had nothing to do with his decision to retire.

"No, when you get to his age, it always has to enter his mind," said Pitts. "I think he did everything he could to entertain and to produce a winner in New Orleans. I think they're going to have a winner."

For his career, Stabler finished with 2,700 completions in 3,793 attempts — nearly a 60 percent average — for 27,533 yards and 194 touchdowns.

He led the American Football Conference in passing yards with 1,997 in 1973 and led the NFL in passing in 1976 with 2,737 yards and 27 touchdowns.

His major league football career began when the Oakland Raiders drafted him in 1968 after an All-American national championship year at the University of Alabama. He spent 1968 on the Raiders' taxi squad and played in 1969 with the Spokane Shockers of the Continental Football League before finally making Oakland's final roster in 1970.

During a 10-year career with Oakland, Stabler guided the Raiders to a 32-14 decision over Minnesota in Super Bowl XI, played in at the end of the 1976 season, the year for which he also was named the NFL's most valuable player.

The Raiders traded him in 1980 to Houston, where Phillips was head coach at the time, and the Oilers reunited Stabler with Phillips in 1982 at New Orleans.

Last season, he completed 176 of 311 passes for 1,938 yards as the Saints' 6-8 finish matched their best record ever and they narrowly missed their first playoff appearance.

Bird, Celtics outlast Pistons, 130-123

By The Associated Press

Boston's Larry Bird scored 10 of his 33 points in the fourth quarter Friday night to lead the Celtics to a 130-123 victory over the Detroit Pistons in the season opener for both teams at Pontiac, Mich.

The victory, before a Silverdome crowd of 27,563 — largest opening night crowd in Pistons' history — launched the Celtics on a defense of the NBA title they won last spring.

The two teams played almost dead even through 3 1/2 periods.

The score was tied, 114-114, in the fourth quarter when the Celtics took the lead for good, 117-114, as guard Dennis Johnson hit a line-drive jumper and canned the free throw after drawing a foul from Detroit's Vinny Johnson with 4:37 remaining.

Chicago 109, Washington 93

At Chicago, power forward Orlando Woolridge triggered Chicago's last-break offense with a 25-point barrage and reserve guard Quinlan Daily came off the bench to score 25 points, leading the Bulls.

The G-9 Woolridge, who collected four slam dunks and picked off nine rebounds along with rookie Michael Jordan, who had 16 points in his first NBA contest, helped spark the Bulls to an early 19-point bulge before the Bulls, led by Frank Johnson and Gus Williams, closed the gap to just four points at 78-74 after three quarters.

But the cold-shooting Bulls could not build until the 8:26 mark of the final quarter after Dalley scored three of his six baskets in that period. The Bulls managed to close the gap to 86-80 as Frank Johnson hit on two straight buckets and Cliff Robinson added a layup to cut the Bulls lead to 86-80.

But the Woolridge-Dalley combination scored six unanswered points with Dalley hitting two long jumpers and Woolridge getting a slam dunk before Washington's Jeff Ruland could score for the Bulls.

At that point, the G-9 Jordan dashed the Bulls' fans with two driving basketball layups in the next 30 seconds to help the Bulls grab an insurmountable 98-82 lead.

Woolridge and Steve Johnson, who wound up with 18 points, helped the Bulls grab a 45-28 advantage early in the second quarter before Ruland and Darren Day could cut the Bulls' margin.

After grabbing a 57-45 halftime lead the Bulls opened up a 76-62 lead late in the third quarter before Johnson and Williams helped Washington outscore the Bulls 12-2 to put the Bulls within four with 12 minutes remaining.

Frank Johnson and Williams each had 15 points to lead the losers.

At East Rutherford, N.J., Dominique Wilkins scored 34 points and Atlanta stormed to the lead in the third quarter with the Hawks hitting their first 16 shots from the field. Trailing 51-48 at halftime, the Hawks took control in the second half when Wilkins scored 26 of his points. They took an 81-67 advantage in the first 8:06 of the third quarter and did not miss a shot from the field until rookie Kevin Willis missed a baseline jumper with 2:24 left.

They wrapped up the quarter hitting 17 of 26 shots from the field with Wilkins scoring 10 points while guard Glenn Rivers had 13.

New Jersey closed to within 85-80 after three periods, and trailed 89-82 after Buck Williams converted a three-point play with 7:13 left.

But Wilkins and Atlanta took over again, running off a 19-2 spurt over the next five minutes with Wilkins scoring 14 points.

Rivers finished the game with 20 points. Sly Williams added 18 and Eddie Johnson chipped in with 15 for the Hawks.

Buck Williams led the Nets with 18 points while Ollie Bieringer and Michael Ray Richardson added 15 apiece. Nets center Darryl Dawkins missed most of the second half because of back spasms.

Philadelphia 111, Cleveland 101

At Philadelphia, Moses Malone scored 26 points and grabbed 19 rebounds and the 76ers streaked to a third period 2-2 rally to down the Cavaliers.

The Cavaliers had come back from a 13-point second-period deficit to lead 54-53 with 10:06 left in the third quarter. But Julius Erving, Marc Favaroni and Malone sparked the 76ers to a 75-61 advantage with 4:17 left in the period.

Cleveland slashed the deficit to within 79-70, but the 76ers boosted their advantage to 82-70 at the end of the third.

In the final period, Philadelphia led by as much as 19 points. Cleveland, with a nine-point buffer, reduced the margin to 97-89 and 99-91 before the 76ers ran off eight straight points to wrap up the game.

Ron Anderson, the Cavaliers' second-round draft pick from Fresno State, was the game's high scorer with 27 points.

In late West Coast night games, Utah was at Seattle and Phoenix visited Golden State.

Cleveland's Jeff Cook, ex-ISU star, defends Moses Malone

Jerome wins 8th grade title

JEROME — Nursing a one-touchdown lead throughout much of the game, Jerome burst for two more scores in the final quarter and emerged with a 22-6 victory over O'Leary Thursday night to capture the eighth grade football championship at the high school field.

Jerome's Lon Rulter opened the scoring, running 45 yards for a touchdown early in the second quarter. Kurt Rushing, living up to his surname, ran for the conversion to put Jerome on top 8-0.

Nobly scored again until early in the fourth period, when Alan Enos took it in for Jerome from 5 yards out. Rulter passed to Aaron Myers for the conversion.

O'Leary narrowed the difference to 16-0 with approximately three minutes left on Jason Olson's 25-yard run.

After the conversion run failed, O'Leary tried an onside kick which Jerome's Nestor Wilson ran back 65 yards for the concluding touchdown.

Trout, Kingman, Fingers join market

By JOHN NELSON
The Associated Press

DAVE KINGMAN
Wants to be a millionaire

The 27-year-old Trout was 137 in 31 games and had a 3.41 earned-run average this season with the Cubs, who won the National League East Division title before losing to San Diego in five games in the playoffs. Trout pitched for the cross-town White Sox for four years before joining the Cubs this season.

"Steve's an adventurous type of person who loves to travel and experiment, so that's the natural allure" of free agency, Hendricks said. "On the other hand, he lives in Chicago and he's played for both teams there. You could build a case for staying or for moving on. As events unfold, we'll decide the appropriate things to do."

At the same time, Hendricks said he was fairly close to making a deal that would keep pinch-hitter and north-of-the-diamonder Greg Gross in Philadelphia. Hendricks also represents Cleveland Indians designated hitter Andre Thornton, who declared free agency last week.

"I think we'll definitely see what happens in the draft with him," Hendricks said.

The 35-year-old Kingman hit 35 homers and drove in 118 runs for the A's this season. Oakland President Roy Eisenhardt said Kingman was seeking a $4 million, three-year deal.

"Obviously we want him," Eisenhardt said, "but at over a million a year? That's 300,000 people (in the stands). If he can go out and make that kind of deal, I wish him well."

Kingman's agent, Jack Childers of Skokie, Ill., said it was untrue that $4 million had been the asking price.

"I have had a continuing dialogue for about the last two weeks with Sandy Alderson (A's vice president), trying to elicit from them an offer for Dave," Childers said in a telephone interview. "Ultimately, Sandy asked me if I would give them a proposal. I gave them a proposal that was extremely flexible. It was nowhere near the $4 million they are quoting. As of last night, I had not received any type of an offer from them."

Fingers, 38, coming off a season of arm trouble, had 23 saves and a 1-2 record with a 1.96 ERA for the Brewers before he ended his season with an injured back on July 22. He underwent surgery for removal of a disc on Aug. 3.

If Fingers goes through the draft, it will be his second go-round. Fingers participated in the first re-entry draft in 1976 when he left Oakland to go to San Diego.

Curtis, 38, went through the re-entry draft in 1979 when he left San Francisco for San Diego. In his third season at California, he was 1-2 in 17 games and had a 4.40 ERA in only 29 innings' work.

Players have until midnight Monday to declare for free agency.

Thompson golf nets $135,000

BOISE (AP) — A sponsor says the final charity golf tournament in honor of Danny Thompson, a former Minnesota Twins baseball player who died of leukemia, raised $135,000 this year.

The Danny Thompson Memorial golf tournament has been held the last eight years at Sun Valley. Co-sponsor Ralph Harding, a former Idaho congressman, said the total raised by the eight tournaments was $569,500, including a record $135,000 this year.

The money was split between the University of Minnesota leukemia research fund, which received $60,000 this year and $365,500 overall, and the Mountain States Tumor Institute in Boise, which received $75,000 this year and $195,000 from the last four tournaments.

Harding and his business partner, baseball Hall of Fame member Harmon Killebrew, announced earlier this summer's tournament would be the last because they no longer could afford the time commitment to organize and run it.

Killebrew was a teammate of Thompson on the Twins before the Thompson died of leukemia.

Between them, the former Twins catcher and former baseball player lured a variety of political, sports and entertainment figures to Idaho for the annual tournament.

N.Y. Marathon may be hot

NEW YORK (AP) — Long-distance runners in Sunday's New York City Marathon not only will have to battle the tough 26-mile, 385-yard course, but unusually warm weather.

The National Weather Service said Friday that the weather for the grueling race, which begins 10:30 a.m. EST, was expected to be partly sunny with temperatures in the 70s — hot for marathoners.

Tumor out of Veck's lung

CHICAGO (AP) — Doctors removed a malignant tumor Friday from colorful former major league owner Bill Veck's right lung and expected him to remain in intensive care probably through the weekend, a hospital spokesman said.

Kathleen Kampwirth of Illinois Masonic Medical Center said the tumor was in the lower lobe of Veck's right lung and that doctors did not believe the cancer had spread.

"The surgeon did what they call a segmented resection of the right lower lobe, and says at this point there were no signs of it spreading anywhere else," Kampwirth said.

She said Veck was in serious condition but in no immediate danger, and noted it is routine to list a patient's condition as serious after such surgery.

Driesell gets new contract

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — University of Maryland basketball coach Lefty Driesell on Friday signed a 10-year contract, guaranteeing him five more years of coaching and another five as an associate athletic director.

The deal, a first for Maryland, gives Driesell a $7,000 raise to $70,000 per year and includes provisions for a weekly television show during the Atlantic Coast Conference season, said Athletic Director Dick Dull.

For the past 10 of his 15 years coaching the Terrapins, Driesell has had an automatically renewing five-year contract. Now, if the school decides to replace him as coach, he is guaranteed a job in the athletic department for at least five more years and pay for the balance of the coaching term.

Dull said he wanted to offer the 54-year-old coach security for him and his family, and he said the door is open for Driesell to coach as long as he's needed beyond the five-year agreement.

"I could coach until I'm 72, as long as I'm winning," Driesell said. Driesell has a 394-133 record at Maryland but has yet to take the Terrapins to the NCAA Final Four, one of his major ambitions. He has made it to the NCAA tournament six times and had at least 20 wins per season in seven years. Last season, Driesell won his first ACC championship and the team reached the semifinals of the NCAA Midwest Regional, 24-8.

Pats' Hannah won't face Jets

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — John Hannah, the New England Patriots' All-Pro guard, will miss Sunday's game with the New York Jets because of severe neck pains that were expected to keep him hospitalized for another week.

Veteran Guy Morris, obtained July 31 after being waived by Philadelphia, is slated to start in place of Hannah.

Tests taken Friday at Massachusetts General Hospital, where Hannah was admitted Wednesday, indicated no "clearcut" disc problem, said Jim Greenidge, publicity director for the National Football League club.

He said Hannah, who has started 162 of a possible 167 games in his 12 years with the Patriots, would remain in traction and additional tests would be taken if the pain doesn't subside by Wednesday.

WBC-Hagler court date set

NEW YORK (AP) — Marvelous Marvin Hagler has a Nov. 30 court date in his fight to regain part of the world middleweight boxing championship that was taken away from him last week.

Hagler is suing the World Boxing Council in U.S. District Court in Brooklyn, claiming that the WBC Executive Committee acted illegally Saturday when it withdrew its recognition of his title.

The action came one day after Hagler beat Mustafa Hamso, the top-ranked challenger by both the WBC and the rival World Boxing Association, in the third round of a scheduled 15-round at Madison Square Garden.

The WBC has a 12-round limit on title fights and said it stripped Hagler of the title for violating the rule.

Hagler's attorney, Morris Goldings of Boston, told U.S. District Judge Charles P. Sifton Friday that the WBC action deprived Hagler of "contract and property rights." WBC attorney Gabriel Penagaricano did not respond.

to deal with that logistically it's very tough to get anything done," Axelrod said, "although Dallas told me he would give Steve his undivided attention."

The Cubs also will make a priority of signing Sutcliffe and Eckerley, but they are unlikely to give much attention to Reuschel, who was sidelined much of the 1982 and '83 seasons with a rotator cuff injury. Sutcliffe was 16-1 with the Cubs, Eckerley 14-12 and Reuschel 5-5.

To allow Soviet-bloc participants

Koreans mull Olympic compromise

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) — North and South Korea sports officials are quietly considering a compromise that could open the way for Soviet-bloc participation in the 1988 Olympic Games, sources close to the International Olympic Committee said Friday.

The proposed compromise would involve moving at least some of the 23 sports events on the program from Seoul into North Korean territory. It would also include agreement by North and South Korea to compete in the 1988 Games with a single team.

Soviet and other East European sports officials have repeatedly hinted that they may boycott the 1988 Games because they do not have diplomatic relations with South Korea. Most of the Soviet bloc boycotted the 1978 world shooting championships in Seoul for the same reason.

The Soviet Union and most of its allies refused to attend the Los Angeles Olympics earlier this year because of alleged violations of Olympic rules by the Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee.

The sources, who declined to be identified, said secret contacts are continuing behind the scenes between North and South Korea officials to reopen the stalled talks for a joint Korean Olympic team.

The idea of moving some Olympic events to these informal contacts, the sources said, would provide a face-saving device allowing the Soviet bloc to participate in the 1988 Games on the grounds they were being held in both Koreas, the sources added.

The suggested compromise would transfer some of the Seoul Olympic competitions to the North Korean capital, Pyongyang, or to another site north of the demilitarized zone dividing the two Koreas. The border lies 24 miles from Seoul.

Inter-Korean talks for setting up a joint 1988 team broke down earlier this year, but Roh Tae-Woo, president of the Seoul Organizing Committee, recently proposed that they be reopened.

IOC Director Monique Berlioux said in an interview she had heard unofficially of the possible compromise, but no formal proposal has been submitted to the IOC.

Romania's Alexandru Siperec, the IOC's senior vice president and the only Soviet-bloc member of the IOC executive board, also said he had heard reports of the proposal.

"Any such move would have to be officially proposed by the Seoul Organizing Committee," Siperec said. In addition, Berlioux said any proposal allowing the Seoul Games to split into North Korea territory would require the IOC's formal approval.

A 1981 IOC session in Baden Baden, Germany, selected Seoul as the site of the 1988 Games on a first secret ballot. Nagoya, Japan, was the only other candidate.

Berlioux said the minutes of the Baden Baden session, which he held behind closed doors, showed "no strong move" by the Soviet-bloc IOC members against the choice of Seoul. The Soviet bloc apparently recorded its objections merely by voting for Nagoya.

Berlioux and IOC President Juan Antonio Samaranch have repeatedly declared that the decision to hold the 1988 Games in Seoul is irrevocable and will be retained, with or without the presence of the Soviet bloc.

Reports: Budd wants to be with mother in South Africa

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Running star Zola Budd, who was hastily granted British citizenship to run in the Los Angeles Olympics, will not return to Britain because she wants to live near her ailing mother in South Africa, two daily newspapers reported Friday.

The tabloid Citizen pinned its story to an "unimpeachable source" in the Budd family's home of Bloemfontein in the Orange Free State.

The afternoon Star quoted unidentified "intimate friends" as saying Budd was staying in her homeland.

No one answered the phone at the Budd home Friday afternoon, but The Star quoted one friend as saying: "The decision has been a tremendous struggle for her. But it's virtually certain that she has decided to wave goodbye to the Olympics and the big international scene — and perhaps as much as a million rand ($50,000) that it promised her."

Budd and her family have generally refused to comment on speculation over whether the barefoot, distance runner will return to world-class competition since she colluded with American Mary Decker in the 3,000-meter event at the Los Angeles Olympics.

The Citizen said Mrs. Budd suffers from a blood disease and that British weather inflames her arthritis. Budd received her British citizenship last May.

In order for an information to be filed, the defendants must agree to waive their right to have their case presented to a grand jury, McMaster said.

Ex-women's cage coach, player receive perjury charges

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Perjury charges have been filed against former South Carolina women's basketball coach Pam Parsons and former player Tina Buck for their testimony during Parsons' $75 million libel suit against Time Inc.

The charges, filed by U.S. Attorney Henry D. McMaster, state the two women lied to a federal jury during the May trial. A surprise witness testified that she saw Parsons and Buck dancing and kissing at a Utah bar last year after they had denied ever going to the bar.

A hearing will be held within 30 Friday.

Columbia attorney J. Lewis Cromer, who represented Parsons during the trial, said the former coach had not contacted him.

"I'm not representing her in that matter," he said.

The perjury charges against Parsons and Buck were filed as a federal information rather than presented to a federal grand jury for possible indictment.

In order for an information to be filed, the defendants must agree to waive their right to have their case presented to a grand jury, McMaster said.

A spokesman for Time Inc. said Friday the company "bears no ill will toward Pam Parsons and Tina Buck."

Home-field advantage means nothing when Texas has to tangle with SMU

By HERSHEL NISSENSON
The Associated Press

GERRY FAUST

Notre Dame's coach hopes he can leave field with a victory

Over the last four years, the Texas-Southern Methodist series has been as competitive that even the home-field advantage hasn't helped.

In 1980, SMU came to Austin and knocked Texas out of the No. 2 national ranking with a 20-6 victory.

In 1981, Texas visited SMU and won a tremendous defensive battle 9-7, the Mustangs' only loss that season.

In 1982, back in Austin, the now-rain-soaked game helped SMU to a 30-17 triumph.

And last year, visiting Texas ended SMU's 21-game unbeaten streak 15-12, the Mustangs' only regular-season setback.

Ironically, when they square off today in Austin, neither third-ranked Texas (4-0-1, 2-0) nor No. 14 SMU (4-1-0, 2-1) will be the Southwest Conference leader (unranked Houston is 3-0). SMU can't afford another SWC loss.

"It's been a pretty tough matchup regardless of where we've played and I expect it to be that way wherever we play," says Texas Coach Fred Akers. This is the first time SMU's Bobby Collins has come into the Texas game with a loss (Houston upset SMU 29-20 last week) and he thinks the Mustangs "will respond to the challenge. The season is not over for us. You don't expect to stumble along the way, but if you do, then you have to pick yourself up and get ready for the next one. I think this team will do that."

The challenge of playing Texas should be good for us. If you plan to beat Texas, you have to mix it up. You have to hit on all cylinders."

The weekend's only pairing of Associated Press Top Twenty teams finds No. 19 Penn State at No. 18 West Virginia tonight. Meanwhile, top-rated Washington entertains Arizona, runner-up Oklahoma visits Kansas and No. 4 Nebraska plays hosts to Kansas State. Fifth-ranked Brigham Young extended the nation's longest major college winning streak to 19 games by routing New Mexico 49-0 Thursday night as Robbie Bosco passed for 227 yards and three touchdowns.

Elsewhere, sixth-ranked Ohio State visits Wisconsin, No. 7 LSU entertains Notre Dame, ninth-ranked South Carolina hosts East Carolina and No. 10 Oklahoma State is at home against Colorado. All three teams from the Sunbelt State — eighth-ranked Miami, No. 15 Florida State and No. 16 Florida — are idle.

In the Second Ten, Rutgers is at No. 11 Boston College, No. 12 Auburn at Mississippi State, No. 13 Georgia at Kentucky, No. 17 Iowa at Indiana and California at No. 20 Southern Cal.

The Collins and Akers have formed something of a mutual admiration society.

"I have seen Texas play and was very, very impressed," says Collins. "They will run the ball at you, and they certainly pass much better than last year. They are the Texas we have come to expect."

Akers says the Mustangs "are more dangerous throwing the football than they have been. They've got the same kind of power and explosiveness in their running game, but they have a more potent passing attack. And their defense is very active. You talk about skill positions — their defensive ends (Ron Anderson and Anthony Beverley) you could list as skill positions; they can fly.

Bradley suffered ankle and hand injuries. If Bradley is unavailable, freshman Troy Alkman, who hasn't taken a snap this year, will get the call.

"I don't think we're struggling more than any other team in the country," says Coach Barry Switzer. "I keep saying there's not much difference in football teams in 60 minutes of play. When you don't play well, it equals things in a hurry."

As for 2-5 Kansas, Switzer said the Jayhawks "aren't a big, physical football team, but they run pretty good and their quarterback (Mike Norseth) is awfully good." And Robert Mimbs, Kansas' leading rusher, will be back from a two-game suspension.

By the way, this is the longest uninterrupted rivalry going, Oklahoma and Kansas having played each other without a break for 81 years.

Nebraska and Kansas State also are old rivals and have met every year since 1922. Nebraska Coach Tom Osborne, who would find something to worry about if he were facing the Lincoln High junior varsity, says K-State "almost always comes up with something different on defense. You can bank on it."

Just like you can bank on Nebraska, which leads the series 56-10-2 and has won 15 in a row. To ease Osborne's mind, K-State lost to Missouri 61-21 last week and Coach Jim Dickey calls the Wildcats' injury situation "the worst I've seen in my 22 years of coaching."

Ohio State is tied with Iowa for the Big Ten lead and the Buckeyes should have a tougher time with Wisconsin than Iowa figures to have against Indiana, whose 12-game losing streak is a school record.

Notre Dame, which lost its last three games — all at home, the first time that happened since 1956 — takes to the road, but LSU's Tiger Stadium is one of the nation's unfriendliest snake pits. Still, they can't be any kinder to Gerry Faust than those who boo the Notre Dame coach in South Bend.

"We're going into a stadium that has the reputation of being one of the toughest — if not THE toughest — place to play in the nation," says Faust. "If anything, that ought to help our players motivate themselves."

Schnellenberger said to be courting Florida

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Former University of Miami Coach Howard Schnellenberger has met with University of Florida President Marshall Criser about the Gators' head coaching job, a school official said Friday.

Athletic Director Bill Carr said he did not attend the meeting between Criser and Schnellenberger, so he did not know what was discussed.

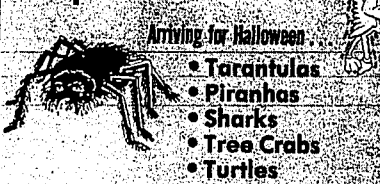

"I assume he (Schnellenberger) expressed some interest," he said. Both Criser and Schnellenberger were out of their office and not available for comment.

The Gator coaching job has been vacant since Sept. 16 when Coach Paul W. "Bear" Bryant was dismissed by Criser after revelation about violations of National Collegiate Athletic Association recruiting rules. Galen Hall has been serving as interim head coach and has a 4-0 record.

'Shaken-up' Patriots confront Jets in key AFC East duel

JOE WALTON
Leery about Patriots

By The Associated Press

"It's been my experience that any kind of shake-up — a coach, a player — fires a team up," says Joe Walton, coach of the New York Jets.

Walton hopes the New England Patriots aren't too fired up for their key American Football Conference East game Sunday when they entertain the Jets. The Patriots had a major shake-up Thursday as Coach Roy Meyer was fired and replaced by Raymond Berry.

The Jets, 6-2, have won three straight since New England beat them 28-14 Sept. 30. The Patriots, generally unhappy under Meyer's tight reign, are 5-3.

Freeman McNeil, the Jets' running back, may return after a week's layoff, while the Pats will be minus rookie wide receiver Irving Fryar.

The Cleveland Browns, 1-7, also have a new head coach in Marty Schottenheimer, who took over Monday from Sam Rutigliano. They play at home against another struggling club, New Orleans, 3-5 and a loser of three in a row. The Browns have beaten the Saints in all of their eight meetings.

Meanwhile, the Miami Dolphins, 8-0 and the only undefeated team in the National Football League, plays the 0-8 Buffalo Bills at home.

In other Sunday games, it's Denver at the Los Angeles Raiders, San Francisco at the Los Angeles Rams, Tampa Bay at Kansas City, Atlanta at Pittsburgh, Cincinnati at Houston, Indianapolis at Dallas, St. Louis at Philadelphia, Minnesota at Chicago, Detroit at Green Bay and Washington at the New York Giants.

Seattle visits San Diego, Monday night.

Buffalo has the tough task of stopping Miami quarterback Dan Marino, who is the league's top-rated passer with 24 touchdowns tosses. The

NFL roundup

Dolphins are the top scoring team in the NFL.

Denver and the Raiders are tied for the AFC West lead with 7-1 records. The Broncos have won six in a row, while the Raiders have put together three consecutive wins.

Denver quarterback John Elway is expected to be recovered from a bruised right shoulder, while Raiders quarterback Marc Wilson is coming off a five-touchdown effort over San Diego but faces the stingiest defense in the league.

Denver won their first meeting 16-13.

The Rams, 5-3, have won four of their five games since Jeff Kemp took over at quarterback in place of the injured Vince Ferragamo. San Francisco is 2-1 for a two-game lead over Seattle in the National Conference West.

Both Tampa Bay, 3-5, and Kansas City, 4-4, try to rebound after big losses. The Buccaneers hope to spring running back James Wilder loose this week, while Kansas City quarterback Bill Kenney looks for better protection than last week.

Pittsburgh leads the weak AFC Central with a 4-4 record and it's questionable whether Steelers quarterback David Woodley will be ready. Atlanta, 3-5, has been struggling on offense.

Quarterback Ken Anderson will make his first start in a month for Cincinnati, 2-6, which beat Houston in their earlier meeting 13-3. Houston is 0-8 and ranks last in the AFC in defense.

Danny White takes over at quarterback for Dallas, 5-3, which is tied with St. Louis and Washington for the NFC East lead. They go against the Colts, 3-5, who lead the AFC in defense.

St. Louis and Philadelphia, 4-4, each have won three straight. Led by quarterback Neil Lomax and wide receiver Roy Green, the Cardinals have beaten Dallas, Chicago and Washington the past three weekends. The Eagles will be without injured wide receiver Kenny Jackson, who caught an 83-yard TD pass last week.

Archie Manning replaces injured Tommy Kramer at quarterback for Minnesota, 2-6 and a loser of four in a row. Chicago, the NFC Central leader, has quarterback Jim McMahon back on target and running back Walter Payton needing 53 yards for his eighth 1,000-yard season.

Detroit, 3-5, attempts to beat Green Bay for the fifth straight time but the Lions will have to do it without running back Billy Sims, who is out for the season. Green Bay is 1-7 but dangerous because of the Lynn Dickey-James Lofton passing combination.

Washington, 5-3, led by Theismann and John Riggs, ranks eighth in the NFL in total offense but only 18th in total defense. The Giants, 4-4, have lost three of their last four.

Landrum leads by 1; Watson, Peete clinch

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Ralph Landrum retained his lead and two absent stars — Tom Watson and Calvin Peete — clinched major seasonal awards Friday in the second round of the $300,000 Pensacola Open Golf Tournament.

Landrum added a 69 to his opening 63 and reached the tournament halfway point with a 132 total, 10 under par, and a one-stroke lead in the final official event on the 19-month PGA Tour schedule.

Although neither Watson nor Peete are competing in this event, they clinched the money-winning and low stroke average titles, respectively, when their last two challengers failed to qualify for the final two rounds.

Watson takes the Arnold Palmer Trophy for his fifth money-winning title with a total of $476,260. Andy Bean, who finishes with $465,873, and Mark O'Meara with $422,955. They were the only men with a chance to catch Watson in this last tournament of the season.

The failure of O'Meara to make the cut also assured Peete, the most successful black player the game has produced, of his first Vardon Trophy. Peete ended his season with a 70.56 scoring average. O'Meara, the only man with a chance to catch him, had a second round 72 and 149 for 36 holes, dropping back to a 70.78 average.

Bean had a second round 72 and a 146 total.

In the race for Player of the Year, Tom Watson and Denis Watson remained in a tie on the point list that will determine the winner. Each has 54 points. Denis Watson, a South African who has won three times this season, had a second round 67 and a 140 total.

Bill Kratzert, in a deep slump since scoring his last victory in 1980, moved into second place in the tournament standings at 133. He had a second round, 66 that included no bogeys and no 5's.

Tied at 134 were Ken Brown of Scotland, John Mahaffey, Leonard Thompson and Danny Edwards. Thompson and Mahaffey closed up with 4-under-par 67s in the hot, muggy weather at the Perdido Bay Inn and Resort. Edwards and Brown each shot 68.

Bobby Wadkins and Tim Norris were next at 135. Each had a second round 68.

Landrum, a second-year player and not yet a winner on the Tour, found the cup with a 29-yard bunker shot for a birdie on the 11th hole and had a 2-shot lead until he drove into the rough and bogeyed the final hole.

Arizona star Johnson inks rich pact

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Arizona Wranglers wide receiver Trumaine Johnson has signed a 10-year, multimillion-dollar contract with the United States Football League club that puts him the same salary structure of Los Angeles Express quarterback Steve Young, Johnson's agent said Friday.

Andre Jackson told the Phoenix Gazette that his client's pact "makes him the highest-paid player at his position in professional football," although he would not reveal the exact terms.

Jackson said Johnson's contract includes deferred payments, a hefty signing bonus and a reporting bonus clause with an annuity like that in Young's $40 million pact.

"The numbers are astonishing," Jackson said. "When one of my friends saw them, he said, 'Those aren't football numbers, those are basketball numbers.'"

Johnson, a 6-foot-3, 195-pound product of Grambling, was the USFL's Receiver of the Year in 1983 and has twice won first-team all-league honors.

He caught 81 passes for 1,322 yards and 10 touchdowns as a rookie for the Chicago Blitz in 1983. Last season, when the club moved to Arizona, he had 90 receptions for 1,268 yards and 12 touchdowns.

mediate comment, but the signing would apparently squelch speculation that he was headed for the National Football League. It had been reported earlier that he had signed a future contract with the San Diego Chargers, who own his NFL rights.

In other matters, the Gazette said it has learned the Wranglers have signed former Arizona State tight end Ron Wetzel and free-agent punter Mike Saxon.

The 6-foot-4, 245-pound Wetzel earned all-Pacific-10 Conference honors in 1983 and played for the NFL's Kansas City Chiefs last year. Saxon was the Wranglers' 13th-round draft pick in January after he led the nation in punting at San Diego State.

Meanwhile, Arizona offensive guard Tom Thayer, who enters the last year of his contract next season, said he has been given "a good offer" by the NFL's Chicago Bears, who drafted him two years ago.

Thayer said it was "more or less a first offer" and that such talks are only "in the early stages."

"I'm going to explore all my opportunities, including those with the Wranglers. It's no secret that I love it here in Arizona... but the situation now, with the possibility of new owners coming in and all, there's some uncertainty," added Thayer, referring to continued negotiations for a Wranglers merger with the Oklahoma Outlaws.

Settlement made out of court

Departing Federals must give city $205,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — The District of Columbia will receive $205,000 in an out-of-court settlement with the former owners of the Washington Redskins, it was announced Friday.

The city had filed a $2.5 million lawsuit last June against Washington Football Partners, Capital City Sports Management and Berl Bernhard, an official with both groups, after it became clear that the owners were trying to sell the team.

The city did not seek to keep the United States Football League franchise in Washington, but claimed that plans to sell it and move it to Florida was a breach of contract. Officials sought the $2.5 million in damages for loss of anticipated revenue.

The franchise was recently bought by Florida developer Daniel Dinzey and moved to Orlando.

The city announced Friday it had agreed to a settlement "after it became clear" that the Federals could not have played in Washington after the 1985 season because the league decided to change the playing season from spring to fall. And because the NFL's Washington Redskins play at Robert F. Kennedy Stadium in the fall, the Federals could not have played there.

Under the agreement, the district will immediately receive a check for $30,500 and will draw down a $125,000 letter of credit. The remaining $50,000 will be paid to the city by Feb. 8, 1985.

"This is a fair and equitable settlement," Mayor Marion Barry said in a prepared statement. "It establishes the principle that those who contract with the district cannot simply walk away from their commitment without some consequence." Bernhard could not immediately be reached for comment.

VOTERS GUIDE

Coming Sunday

On Nov. 6, 1984, Magic Valley voters will face one of the largest and most-complicated ballots ever presented to them.

In addition to well-publicized presidential and congressional races, voters will be asked to decide one state initiative measure, two constitutional amendments, and as many as nine state legislative races.

As in years past, this year's Times-News voters guide, "Election '84," will be the first-reference source for area voters seeking to combat confusion with a substantive review of the issues and the candidates.

The special section, scheduled for inclusion in The Times-News Oct. 28, will highlight:

- The race between Idaho congressman George Hansen and his Democratic challenger Richard Stallings, a Ricks College history professor.
- Republican Sen. Jim McClure's re-election effort against Lewiston real-estate agent Pete Busch.
- The Reagan-Mondale battle.
- Candidates for 18 separate Magic Valley legislative seats.
- The candidates seeking county offices in the eight Magic Valley Counties.
- Proposed constitutional amendments on water-and-legislative districting.
- The proposed initiative that would eliminate charging sales tax on groceries.
