U.S. rolls back fuel economy rules

By H. JOSEF HEBERT
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Saying the country's two largest automakers will not be able to meet fuel-economy standards, the government on Thursday tentatively rolled back overall miles-per-gallon requirements for 1986 cars. It also said it would consider reductions in future years.

The Transportation Department said the current standard of 27.5 miles per gallon would result in "substantial sales losses for the manufacturers and increased unemployment in the auto industry as well as limiting the variety of new cars available to consumers."

General Motors Corp. and the Ford Motor Co. had asked that the 27.5 mpg standard be reduced and warned if no action were taken they would be forced to produce fewer large, less-efficient cars to avoid millions of dollars in civil penalties.

The two automakers in recent years have been unable to meet the government standard, but have avoided penalties by using credits from previous years in which they exceeded the fuel economy requirements. Those credits, however, have run out.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration issued a tentative decision that reduces the standard to 26 mpg for the 1986 model year. A final regulation is expected within a few months when the agency also will consider rollbacks in future model years, officials said.

"Serious adverse economic consequences such as plant closings, unemployment and restrictions on consumer choice could result if the standard is not changed," the agency said in a statement. It cited a Commerce Department estimate that 110,000 auto industry jobs could be lost if large car production were curtailed.

GM and Ford issued statements praising the reduction, but both said they would press for having the standard lowered to 26 mpg in future years as well. GM said that unless the rollback is extended beyond 1986, it might still be forced to reduce large car production.

Helen O. Petruska, Ford's vice president for environment and safety engineering, called the NHTSA decision "a common-sense victory for consumers who need and want to buy family sedans and station wagons."

But the action was immediately denounced by the nation's No. 3 automaker, Chrysler Corp., and by the Center for Auto Safety, a consumer group founded by Ralph Nader.

"We are about to put a fombelone up and it's going to read: 'Here Lies America's Energy Policy,'" said Chrysler Chairman Lee Iacocca.

Chrysler has opposed lowering the standard, arguing that it spent more than $300 million to develop a fleet of fuel-efficient automobiles that would meet the government requirements set down a decade ago.

Clarence Dilow, executive director for the Center for Auto Safety, charged the Transportation Department with "destroying the most effective energy conservation program this country has ever had" and said his group would try to have the rollback overturned by Congress.

Health budget larger

By PAULA EUBANKS
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Representatives from eight area county commissions gave the South Central District Health Department a shot in the arm Wednesday when they passed a 7-percent increase in the department's budget.

The budget hike of $96,800 came after two years of fiscal austerity at the department and will fund mainly increased operating costs and cost-of-living adjustments to employees' pay.

The $1.5-million budget will go into effect Oct. 1. Counties will provide $507,064 of that budget, $24,556 more than last year's contribution.

"We feel very fortunate to get the increase," said Gerald Hurst, the district department's director.

Of the six counties represented at the Wednesday budget hearing at the department's administrative offices in Twin Falls, Blaine County Representative Alan Reynolds voted against the increase. He cited decreased revenue to Blaine County as the reason.

Counties voting for the increase were Cassia, Gooding, Jerome, Lincoln and Twin Falls.

Camas and Minidoka counties were not represented.

The eight counties support the health department's services, including dairy and restaurant inspection, immunizations, food and nutrition programs for poor women with children, refugee services, environmental health, family planning, and crippled children's services to the Magic Valley.

The department provided services in controlling the measles epidemic, removing poisoned watermelons and cheese from stores, and investigating cattle deaths, reported department division directors at the meeting.

Each county provides a different percentage of the department's budget, based on the county's population and property valuations.

The county contribution is figured based on 70 percent of the county's

Storage measure drawn up

Group targets toxic chemicals
By ANNETTE CARY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A three-month collaboration by area residents, government and industry has yielded a clearer and less restrictive plan for regulating storage of hazardous chemicals in Twin Falls.

The group proposes restricting all new business signing, handling, using or selling large amounts of hazardous chemicals to a special overlay district, designated as H-1 in the southeast corner.

It is fair to both businesses and residents, say members of the hazardous chemical committee.

"To get it out of the residential area would mean a safer Twin Falls," says Pam Shropshire, representing the Idaho Neighbors Network. The committee does not intend to hurt business development, "but to look to the safety of the people, so we don't have another Buena Vista. That's the bottom line."

Now the Twin Falls City Code does not directly address the storage of such chemicals. But three months ago the city council passed down the second regulatory proposal in two years — the City Council supported the formation of a committee to come up with yet another proposal.

Committee members say they have corrected flaws in the earlier plans.

The latest one gives a clearer definition of hazardous chemicals by using the one in the Uniform Building Code.

Congress' 'ridiculous' budget deadlock persists

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — White House chief of staff Donald T. Regan angrily denounced the "ridiculous" budget deadlock on Capitol Hill Thursday as congressional leaders argued over whose turn it is to make an offer that will salvage the deficit-reduction effort.

"Everything's up in the air, nothing's on the table," said Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole of Kansas, who called Republican senators together to consider their next move.

After the meeting, Dole said it is "up to the House whether we're on the verge of anything."

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., said he hoped the Senate would return to the talks.

"We think it's kind of childish to be walking out," O'Neill told reporters.

"All it takes is the art of compromise," Dole said. "I've singled out the House."

Sen. Pete V. Domenici, R-N.M., chairman of the Senate Budget Committee, recessed budget talks between the house and Senate on Wednesday after rejecting a bottom-line offer from the House in an acrimonious session.

Domenici said the final gavel had not yet fallen on the talks aimed at drafting a compromise version of fiscal 1986 budgets passed by each chamber.

"No, I don't think it's over," Domenici said. But "it's in pretty bad shape."

Republican senators agreed that for the time being they will try to keep up pressure on the House to make additional spending cuts.

Reagan poses in hospital window

PRESIDENT REAGAN
Feeling better all the time

By TERENCE HUNT
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Dressed in blue pajamas and a robe, President Reagan flashed an OK sign by hand from a hospital window Thursday in his first public appearance since cancer surgery, but indicated he did not know when he would be going home to the White House.

With his wife, Nancy, at his side, the president appeared at a third-floor window of Bethesda Naval Hospital at 2:27 p.m. MDT to pose for photographers, who had been alerted in advance. Aside from pictures released by the White House, it was the first time the president had been seen since he entered the hospital last Friday.

Reagan was quoted earlier in the day by his staff as saying, "I'm feeling great... and the White House is underwriting the picture of a patient rapidly on the mend, disclosed the president will meet with the Soviet foreign minister in two months to prepare for November's summit.

When questions were shouted to the president at the hospital window, he replied with gestures. Asked if the president had a sore throat, Mrs. Reagan said it was easier for her to speak than for him.

Doctors have said the president would be released in seven to 10 days after surgery — meaning that Saturday would be his earliest release date. Mrs. Reagan said he would go home "as soon as they say it's OK."

Asked what Reagan looked forward to most, Mrs. Reagan replied, "Just being home." She said they both were in good spirits.

"We'll make a big to-do of it" when Reagan comes home, presidential spokesman Larry Speakes told reporters at the White House earlier.

"Perhaps the best news for Reagan was that he could return to a diet of solid food for the first time in eight days: soup, bread, crackers and pudding for lunch, followed by what presidential spokesman Larry Speakes said would be a "feast of baked chicken and rice" for dinner.

Winds, air masses leave areas across nation looking for water

By MALCOLM RITTER
The Associated Press

The winds and air masses that steer rainstorms have brought water shortages to the Northeast and crop-wasting drought to the Dakotas and Montana, with a dry summer sun also parching crops and people in Minnesota, Iowa and Wisconsin.

Crop losses in one Wisconsin county alone are put at $30 million.

"Widespread Northeasterners are paying the price now for what happened several miles overhead last winter and spring," Ken Bergmann, meteorologist with the Climate Analysis Center of the National Weather Service said Thursday.

"Normally, this time of year, upper-level winds at 30,000 feet steer huge rainstorms up the Eastern seaboard from their birth in the Southeast. But this past winter and spring, that pattern appeared far less frequently than usual. More often, it was shifted to the west, by storms brewed in the Texas and Oklahoma area and moved toward the Great Lakes, Bergmann said.

Rainfall over most of the East Coast has been normal the last two months, but water deficit from the earlier dry spells has not been fixed.

Despite heavy rain this week — up to 2.12 inches Monday and Tuesday — a 4-month-old drought emergency remains in effect in New York City, largely because most of its reservoirs are 100 miles to the north. The city, far from the second time in history, is drawing water from the Hudson River in 100-million-gallons a day.

Current dryness in Montana and the Dakotas comes from a high pressure ridge over the Rocky Mountains. The ridge, at 28,000 to 30,000 feet, has been diverting east-bound storms from the Pacific Ocean toward Canada, weather service meteorologist Donald Slotts in Blaine, Ark., said Thursday.

"It also has kept the flow of moisture into the region from the Gulf of Mexico, cutting off a vital ingredient for afternoon and evening thunderstorms, he said.

The dry spell has been devastating. "In terms of crop production, fire potential, water supplies, we clearly have a drought of historic proportions and that includes the drought of '36,'" said Montana Gov. Ted Schwiden, a sheep farmer.

population and 30 percent of its property values.
In 1986, Twin Falls County will contribute the largest amount, while Camas will contribute the least and receive the fewest.

In 1986, Blaine County will provide 8.5 percent, or $45,046, of the county's contributions. Camas County will contribute 2.1 percent, or $3,655.
Cassia County has 8.4 percent, or $75,030. While Gooding has 6.9 percent, or $41,285, Jerome has 5.9 percent, or $54,250.
Lincoln has 2.9 percent ($13,072), Minidoka has 2.9 percent ($19,149) and Twin Falls County has 7.3 percent ($187,117).

In 1984, the counties voted to increase the department's budget by 2 percent, although it requested 5 percent, while in 1985 it increased it by less than 2 percent.
"That almost killed us," Hurst said. When the budget was proposed last spring, he feared that he would have to cut staff positions if the increase were not approved, Hurst said.
Five positions remain open at the department after Hurst refused to fill them until the budget was approved.

He reported that he will first hire an environmentalist for the Gooding County position, which had been vacant and placed a burden on other departments.
"That's my No. 1 priority," Hurst said.

The other positions are mainly clerical.
The department depends on five sources for funds: the counties it serves, federal government contracts to provide health care programs, Idaho general funds, permits and fees, and interest from investments.
"For every dollar of the counties' contributions spent, the district generates $6.33 worth of services," Hurst said of matching state funds and federal contracts generated through the county contributions.

The county contribution provides the structure and basic programs that can attract outside dollars, he added. "I don't see where we could be spending our dollar better," said Board of Health Chairman William L. Chaney of Gooding.

Code. The council has already adopted the code.
Regular updates of the nationally used building code will keep the local ordinance up to date as new chemicals enter the market, says Shropshire.
"This format makes zoning ordinances, the Uniform Building Code and the Uniform Fire Code complementary, instead of contradicting what the other says," says City Engineer Gary Young, who served on the committee.
The plan ties zoning regulations to existing zones, but does not protect residences now in non-residential areas, Young says.
No H-1 occupancies would be allowed within 500 feet of an existing residential zone, Young says. The most recent proposal shot down by the council materials 800 feet from residences.

Tying regulations to zones instead of to specific residences will make administration easier, Young says.
It also gives business more freedom, committee members say. "The plan is a compromise — sometimes more than we wanted — in order to get it passed," Shropshire says. "All in all, I think it's a good plan."
The plan clearly does not affect businesses such as hardware and garden stores which sell small amounts of chemicals, such as pesticides, says council member Mary McCusky, who served on the committee.

Representing industry on the committee is Dean Cross, a Twin Falls district manager from Simpson Subdividers. He could not be reached for comment Thursday.
City employees on the committee includes McCusky, Young, Fire Commander Phil Clough and Building Inspector Rex Champagne.
Russ Rink of the Division of Environmental and Health and two members of the South Central District Health Department are also on the committee.

U.S. not planning an invasion

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amid new accusations from the Nicaragua government that the United States is planning military action against it, National Security Adviser Robert C. McFarlane said Thursday the U.S. has no plans to invade Nicaragua.
McFarlane spoke at a meeting sponsored by the White House Office of Public Liaison to observe Friday's sixth anniversary of the assassination of the Sandinista government to power in Nicaragua.

Warning issued to Nicaragua

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — The United States has accused Nicaragua of supporting terrorist attacks planned against U.S. personnel in neighboring Honduras, and has said it will hold Nicaragua responsible if any are carried out, officials said Thursday.
Nicaragua's Foreign Ministry made public the text of a note from U.S. Ambassador Harry Bergold listing the charges. The ministry said they were "absurd" and were "proof of the state political terrorism of the United States."

White House window sill burns

WASHINGTON (AP) — A wooden window sill outside the White House family theater burst into flames Tuesday, but the blaze was quickly extinguished with little damage, officials said.
White House spokesman Larry Speakes said the blaze was extinguished by members of the uniformed division of the Secret Service and the District of Columbia Fire Department followed up.

Judge rules in parents' favor

CHICAGO (AP) — A judge Thursday removed legal obstacles preventing the parents of a runaway Soviet youth from reclaiming their son, but a lawyer said that because of his age Walter Polovchak will remain in this country.

U.S. District Judge Thomas McMillen ruled that the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service violated the rights of Anna and Michael Polovchak when it issued an order in 1982 barring anyone from taking their son from this country.
The legal battle began in 1980 when Walter, now 17, refused to return to the Soviet Union with his parents who were living in Chicago at the time. Instead, the boy ran away from home.

Accusations bombard U.S.

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Delegates to the U.N. women's conference on Thursday accused the United States of encouraging apartheid in South Africa, aggression in the Middle East and committing "state terrorism" in Nicaragua.

Gertrude Shope, a delegate from South Africa's main guerrilla movement, the African National Congress, said the U.S. government had forged "an alliance of destructive engagement" with her country's white rulers.
In response, Nancy Clark Reynolds, the deputy head of the U.S. delegation, said President Reagan, the U.S. Congress and the American people "abhor and oppose apartheid."

Today's weather

Warmer with a chance of showers

Twin Falls, Burley, Rupert, Jerome and Gooding:
Fair early today. Partly cloudy late today and Saturday with a chance of thundershowers. Warner Highs near 90 today and 90 to 95 Saturday. Lows tonight near 60. Winds light easterly for strong gusts near any thundershowers.
Camas Prairie, Bailey, Lower Wood River Valley:
Fair early today. Partly cloudy with an increasing chance of showers late today and Saturday. Highs 80s both days. Lows tonight in the low 60s.
Northern Utah and Nevada:
Variable with scattered thundershowers at times, especially afternoons and evenings. Locally heavy rainfall possible statewide today and Saturday. Possible gusty winds and hail, near showers. Lows in the upper 50s and 60s. Highs from the upper 80s to near 100.

The Forecast for 8 p.m. EDT, Fri., July 19
National Weather Service NOAA U.S. Dept. of Commerce afternoon temperatures were mostly in the 80s and 90s with the hottest Hagerman at 97.
Building thundershowers continued to pop up on radar and lightning detection charts in southeastern Idaho. The activity was a little more easterly and concentrated from Idaho Falls and Pocatello to the border of Wyoming. Also, areas of showers were detected just east of Sun Valley.
With the high cloud bases associated with these thundershowers, most of the activity was lightning and gusty winds with little in the way of precipitation.
The pollen count in Twin Falls Thursday was 25 particles per cubic meter of air.
The extended outlook for Southern Idaho, Sunday through Tuesday, shows continued warm with widely scattered afternoon and evening thundershowers. Thundershowers decreasing on Tuesday. Highs in the low to mid-80s. Lows upper 50s to the low 60s.
The agricultural forecast for Southern Idaho shows conditions for field work will be good to excellent through the period. There will be scattered afternoon and evening thundershowers over most of Southern Idaho with southeast Idaho having the greatest threat. Rainfall amounts will be generally under .20 inch. Irrigation demands will remain high. Winds will be variable in direction under 10 mph an hour in the mornings and mainly southwest to northwest 5 to 15 mph afternoons today and Saturday.

Dillon said the reduction in the federal standard represents a "complete about-face" by the government, which not long ago was looking at the prospect of increasing the standard beyond the 27.5 mpg figure.

The fuel-consumption minimums were imposed in 1975 as an energy conservation measure and required automakers to gradually increase their fleet-wide fuel economy ratings to a high of 27.5 mpg by 1985. Under the law, NHTSA may lower or raise the standard after the 1985 model year.
General Motors and Ford have for several years not been able to meet the federal 27.5 mpg requirement, but have avoided paying penalties by using past or future credits stemming from years in which the automakers exceeded the standard.

Nevertheless, General Motors faced nearly $50 million in penalties for 1984 and 1985 model cars, which it plans to erase by using future credits that will be easier to get under the lower mileage standard being imposed.

Ford said it faced an estimated $70 million in penalties under the higher 27.5 mpg requirement. According to NHTSA figures, other automakers who are expected not to meet the higher standard for 1986 models included BMW, Mercedes Benz, Peugeot, Jaguar, Saab and Volvo.
Under the law, a manufacturer may use credits dating back three years in which the standard was exceeded as well as credits antedated up to three years in the future to avoid paying penalties.
The two automakers had argued that a reduction of the fuel consumption requirements by 1 1/2 mpg would have only a slight effect on energy consumption. At the same time, they said, the lower standard would allow them to continue producing the larger cars that have been in demand since the leveling-off of gasoline prices.

The local emphasis of the group should also help, she says. "It fits our area, I believe," she says. "We can work with it."
The last proposal, which leaned on federal regulations to generate a list of hazardous chemicals "was overdone," she says.

She is advising the group to emphasize the qualifications of the 10 committee members and their spirit of cooperation when the plan is presented to city officials, she says.
The committee includes Shropshire and Eric Henson of the Idaho Neighbors Network, a community group which fought for almost three years to stop the storage of large quantities of hazardous chemicals in the Buena Vista neighborhood.

Miller likely as new budget director

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan is expected to nominate Federal Trade Commission Chairman James C. Miller III to succeed David A. Stockman as director of the Office of Management and Budget, congressional and administration sources said Thursday.

The sources said that after a final decision from Reagan the move would be announced publicly, possibly as early as today.

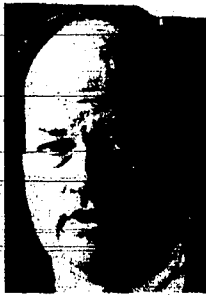

The White House maintained that no decision had been made.

"No one has been offered the job," spokesman Larry Speakes said. "The president has not made a decision, nor have there been any recommendations to him."

Speakes said White House chief of staff Donald Regan was still interviewing candidates and would probably make a recommendation to the president by the end of the week.

The spokesman said Reagan's choice was likely to be announced at that time.

The congressional sources speak-

JAMES C. MILLER III
Succeeding David Stockman

Stockman, budget director since 1981, is resigning Aug. 1 to join the New York investment banking firm of Salomon Brothers.

Miller joined the FTC after serving as resident scholar and co-director of the Center for the Study of Government Regulation at the American Enterprise Institute, a Washington think-tank of a conservative bent. His nomination as director of the Office of Management and Budget would be subject to Senate confirmation.

Miller, an economist, would take over from the often-controversial Stockman, a former Republican congressman from Michigan, at a time when the administration's efforts to cut deeply into federal programs and reduce budget deficits face strong opposition in Congress.

Efforts to fashion a compromise between House and Senate budget writers collapsed on Wednesday, and Regan told the U.S. Chamber of Commerce on Thursday that it appeared likely Congress would recess until after Labor Day without deciding on a budget.

During his four years on the FTC, Miller toned down the pro-consumer stance of his predecessor, Michael Pertschuk, an appointee of former President Carter.

Miller has displayed an easy-going, informal style with reporters assigned to cover the commission, holding regular breakfast sessions to explain his views.

Other candidates who have been mentioned for the budget post include John A. Svahn, assistant to the president for policy development; Constance Horner, whom Regan previously nominated to head the Office of Personnel Management; Drew Lewis, former transportation secretary; Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige; and Joseph A. Wright Jr., deputy director of the budget office. Wright, Lewis and Baldrige, however, have taken themselves out of contention.

"There is a list and the list has been narrowed, but it includes a number of names," Speakes said.

Basic money supply rises

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's basic money supply inched up $200 million in early July, the Federal Reserve Board reported Thursday.

The Fed said its M1 measure of the money supply rose to a seasonally adjusted average of $596.2 billion in the week ended July 8 from $596 billion the previous week. M1 includes cash in circulation, deposits in checking accounts and non-bank travelers checks.

For the latest 13 weeks, M1 averaged $584.5 billion, a 10.9 percent seasonally adjusted annual rate of gain from the previous 13 weeks.

Earlier this week, the Fed announced it had revised both its target for M1 growth this year and the base from which it was measuring it.

Pentagon audit finds improper actions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Six years after the General Accounting Office reported finding abuses, an internal Pentagon audit says Navy, Army and Air Force commands in the Pacific are still engaged in "questionable procurement actions."

The audit found improper purchases of official china and decorative ashtrays, rental of hundreds of cars when it would have been cheaper to buy, excessive payments for cleaning supplies, operation of a special "closed mess" contrary to congressional mandate for senior officers in Hawaii, and use of tax money to provide last care at homes of senior Navy officers in Hawaii.

The report also says an officer, who was not identified, forced the rental of three cars on one day at Pearl Harbor because he found the first two unacceptable, and that the Navy said $5,100 to install a "wine and stereo cabinet" in the captain's gig, or personal motorboat, assigned to the USS Midway.

"We do not believe that there is a mission-related need for a wine and stereo cabinet," the auditors said.

"We found 372 instances where questionable procurement actions had been made," the audit said. "As a result, appropriated funds were misused. While corrective actions had been taken to reduce the potential for abuse, further improvements were needed."

The 28-page audit by the Defense Department's Office of Inspector General is dated May 3 and was obtained Thursday. With some exceptions, it said, the services concurred with the auditors' recommendations.

For example, the auditors said the Navy had not concurred with a recommendation to stop providing lawn care for senior officers. In 1983, $61,000 was spent for grounds maintenance and lawn care for flag and senior officers' quarters on Oahu, Hawaii," the audit said.

"They (the Navy) stated that the issue was being explored at the Office of the Secretary of Defense level," the report said.

A Navy spokesman who asked not to be named said Thursday the dispute was still unresolved.

Most of the contracts reviewed in the audit date to 1983, four years after the GAO reported serious "gaps in purchasing controls at U.S. government offices overseas." To see whether problems had been corrected, the inspector general's office reviewed contracting actions in Hawaii, Japan, Korea and the Philippines.

Rat Creek blaze nearly contained

BIG SUR, Calif. (AP) — A lightning fire that swept across 47,661 acres of dry brush and timber along the Central California coast was reported nearly contained Thursday as out-of-state firefighters prepared to go home.

"Things are looking a little bit better," said Marvin Jensen, information officer for the U.S. Forest Service at Rat Creek, south of Big Sur State Park.

The fire, which has caused an estimated $24 million in damage to structures, timber and livestock, was 88 percent contained early Thursday, he said.

Sparked by a bolt of lightning on July 6, the Rat Creek blaze has cost about $7 million to fight, Jensen said.

It was among the fires that have destroyed well over a million acres of land in several states and Canada during recent weeks.

About 2,400 firefighters remained on the scene Thursday with 101 fire engines, 10 helicopters, six air tankers and 21 bulldozers, he said. Firefighters from 28 states who helped battle the blaze may be able to begin going home over the weekend, Jensen said.

Meanwhile, firefighters were mopping up after four other Northern California fires, including one in the Lexington Reservoir area in the Santa Cruz Mountains.

Elsewhere, a pair of day-old brush fires — each covering more than 100 acres — were burning in the Winnemucca area of north-central Nevada on Thursday.

In South Dakota, rain hampered efforts to control a fire east of Edgemont. U.S. Forest Service spokesman Mary Sue Waxler said the moisture slowed the burning of fire lines which were set to bring the fire under control. It had burned 21,000 acres this week.

Ms. Waxler said 21 lightning-caused fires were started Tuesday and Wednesday in the Black Hills area, but these fires were "causing no difficulty."

In British Columbia, more than 700 fires were reported still burning after consuming 501,000 acres of brush and timber.

Leakings investigated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Smithsonian Institution museums, among the nation's most popular tourist attractions, will receive emergency safety inspections today after a report that electrical transformers there are leaking potentially hazardous chemicals, officials said Thursday.

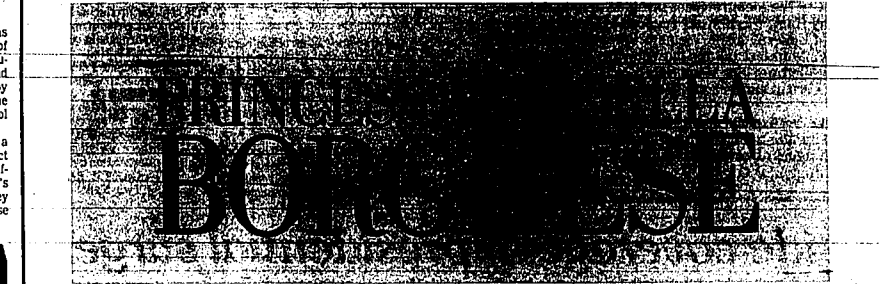

"There's absolutely no hazard to the public," said Madeleine Jacobs, assistant to the Smithsonian's public affairs director.

However, the Environmental Protection Agency announced it would inspect all 57 Smithsonian high-voltage transformers that use PCBs as a coolant.

The transformers are in museums — including the popular Museum of American History, Museum of Natural History, and the National Air and Space Museum — that are visited by about 30 million people a year on the National Mall between the Capitol and the Washington Monument.

The inspection was sparked by a Washington Post report that District of Columbia Fire Department officials had found one building's transformers leaking PCBs that they felt would be a major danger in case of fire.

Take time to sign petitions in park

There is an unusual display in Twin Falls City Park today, a wooden cage constructed of poles and barbed wire. It is designed for humans, not for animals.

Also in the park are 12 flags, one for each Idahoan who went away to the Vietnam War and whose fate is still unknown.

The day, which will be marked by a brief noon ceremony and an all-night candlelight vigil, is being sponsored by a group of local Vietnam Veterans who are trying to form a Vietnam Veterans Chapter in the Magic Valley.

At the park, the group has petitions — they have 1,000 names already — to be given to the Vietnamese government requesting action and an accurate accounting for the missing Idahoans and other Americans.

Nationally, nearly 2,500 Americans are still unaccounted for, a decade after the Vietnam War officially ended.

No one knows for certain if any remain alive. That seems an unlikely possibility, given the intense interest in this subject by the American government and National League of Families of American Prisoners and Missing in Southeast Asia, as well as Vietnam Veterans' groups.

The Vietnamese government has dragged its feet on this issue for years, but now appears to be willing to be more helpful in returning what remains can be located and identified.

Pressure on the Vietnamese government, particularly in the form of letters and signatures from the American people, will help that government that resolving the issue of missing Americans is a concern of all of us, not just of the American government.

The cage on display today at City Park is a replica of a "tiger cage" in which some American prisoners were held by their captors. It could be lowered into water, threatening the prisoners as a method of torture.

One of the local veterans involved in today's events, Danny Hart, was himself wounded in Vietnam. He was one of several Idaho Vietnam veterans who went to Washington last fall for the Veterans' Day dedication of the Vietnam War Memorial.

The group and its activities merit the support of all of us.

Take time today, or this evening, to stop by the park and sign the petition. Or get involved directly through the league of prisoner's families, 1608 K St. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

Forget it and pass a glass of ginger ale

Coke, as everyone knows, is the real thing. Or at least it was. Or is again. Or something like that. The confusion stems from the recent resurrection of the old Coke, which was just plain Coke until the new Coke, which is now technically the old Coke, came along. Now the old Coke (see previous sentence) is being called Coke Classic, while the new Coke, which certainly isn't a classic and really isn't new anymore because of the resurrection of the old Coke, which is new again, is being sold as just plain Coke, which is what the old-new Coke (or is it the new-old Coke?) used to be.

Jerry Zezima

The switch was made because a large segment of the cola-drinking population seemed to prefer Pepsi to Coke (the old-new Coke, that is), at least as shown in taste tests comparing Pepsi and Coke (ditto), which prompted the change to a new product, which, as everyone knows by now, isn't as new as the old stuff.

The problem, as it turned out, was that many people complained that the new Coke (now the old Coke) tasted too much like Pepsi, which, ironically, is why it was the first choice.

So the Coca-Cola Company, manufacturer of the new-old Coke and the old-new Coke (and vice versa), was forced to bring back the new-old Coke as the old-new Coke and call it Coke Classic to satisfy the purists while retaining the new-old Coke, which tastes nothing like the old-new Coke, to satisfy the converts.

What most people have conveniently overlooked, however, is that the only non-alcoholic carbonated beverages worth any fuss at all are ginger ale, root beer and cream soda. So what's the big deal?

Marketing, that's what. Marketing is going to be somewhat difficult because the Coca-Cola Company has a long history of being a purveyor of good Coke (the old-new Coke) really is. The company originally called the old Coke, which wasn't old at the time, the real thing. It was the best-tasting cola in the world, Bill Cosby told us, and many of us believed it, although apparently not enough of us for the Coca-Cola Company to continuing producing the real thing. So it invented what it thought was an even more real thing, except that it wasn't as real as the old Coke and actually tasted more like Pepsi, which the Coca-Cola Company was trying to usurp. Gesundheit!

This naturally begs the question: Was the old-new Coke the real thing or not? For years we were told it was, but one day the very company that said such glowing things about it did an about-face and admitted that it wasn't quite as terrific as they had been saying for so long.

Which means they had lied to us. Or did they?

Well, yes and no. They did lie because they couldn't even convince themselves of the greatness of the old Coke (now new again), so they invented a new Coke (now old, sort of) and passed that off as the real thing. Then again, they didn't lie because they finally fessed up, said the old Coke was really pretty good after all and brought it back as Coke Classic.

It's sort of like the laundry detergent you'd been using for ages — the one that could get out the toughest dirt and the worst grime. Then, one day you turned on the TV and found out it wasn't quite as good as you had been led to believe.

It's tactics like these that make you wonder about Coke, the new-old Coke, that is, although it also makes you wonder about the old-new Coke, which was the real thing until the new Coke, which really is not new anymore, came along, but now is the real thing again because the old-new Coke, or is it the new-old Coke . . .

Oh, forget it. Give me a ginger ale.

Interpret the canyon, aquifer

Your editorial of July 13 concerning the marker to commemorate Evel Knievel's aborted flight was right on target.

That spectacle did generate a great deal of interest and there are certainly many who remember it, but how many will in 10 or 20 years, and is it the sort of thing we want to be remembered for anyway? As an alternative to that marker consider the following at the bridge overlook:

The most dramatic feature of Southern Idaho is the Snake River Canyon. An interpretive geological display made of metal and containing a map and descriptive information would be of lasting interest and over the long run would entice many more people to prolong their stay in Magic Valley.

Such a display would contain a brief description of the lava flows and how the canyon was formed. It would also describe the catastrophic Snake River near Pocatello. This monumental flood temporarily increased the flow of the Snake River a 1000 fold over its peak that caused Shoshone Falls could also be included.

A discussion of the Snake River Aquifer and the multitude of fresh water springs which issue into the canyon would also be important. These constitute one of the largest natural spring systems in the United States.

This information and map, if properly prepared and in conjunction with better signs would generate interest and direct people to a number of other places including Shoshone Falls and Thousand Springs. At some of these sites, especially Shoshone Falls, additional interpretive displays should be considered.

As far as tourism is concerned it seems to me that we need to capitalize on those things that are truly unique and interesting in our area. If we do, there is a chance we might develop into a tourist destination instead of a refreshment stop.

Knievel marker may help out

In response to your editorial of July 13, I enter this reply.

I doubt that very few present citizens of the Magic Valley, besides The Times-News, are aware of the several acts of mayhem that took place during Mr. Knievel's "jump."

Most importantly, I doubt that a tourist is really interested in seeing the spot where, and I quote, "a naked woman was passed hand-over-hand in the crowd."

All that a tourist is interested in, is seeing a pile of dirt and the canyon.

I fail to see how that simple act is going to lead to the downfall of mankind as we know it.

If a couple of markers or signs are going to encourage people to stay a few minutes longer in our area, put them up.

Who knows, while renting a motel room, buying food, filling up the gas tank, they may enrich our economy another 25 cents by buying a copy of The Times-News.

Inside coverage of presidential surgery may help save lives

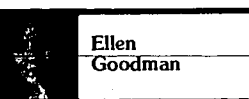

BOSTON — I don't know which moment was the most surreal.

Was it the sudden break from the network news discussion of colon cancer and died to the commercial for high-fiber breakfast cereal?

Or was it the moment when the doctor took out the colonoscope in all its glory and showed a television audience precisely how his colleagues looked around inside the President?

Or was it during the press conference when another doctor told the media and the entire nation that the President's "bladder catheter has been removed and he's successfully returned that function to normal."

The choices abound. There were all sorts of strange highlights in the coverage of presidential cancer. By any definition, there was no privacy left to the President. Occasionally it sounded as if someone had done a good last-ectomy on the entire proceedings.

I started to be grateful for small lapses. At least there was no videotape of the operation (I don't think). At least the colonoscope being brandished about on the tube was not the same one used on the President. (Perhaps they are saving that for the Reagan Library.) By the time the man from the cancer society told ABC's Dr. Timothy Johnson how grand it was that we could now use the words blood and stool on the air, I was ready to dissent. But to my own surprise, I think I agree. With allowances for this excess ardor on the part of the media and a bit of obtuseness on the part of medical profession — doctors tend to use phrases such as "the villous adenoma confined to the cecum of the bowel" — this increasing frankness about disease has been part of a healthy process.

The rotating star system, the disease-of-the-month club, may not be the educational ideal of the public health establishment. But it does offer a crash course to an interested public. When Betty Ford had a mastectomy, breast cancer made every newsmagazine cover. It's fair to say that she prompted more checkups than a cancer society campaign. She saved lives.

In the same way, the number of people who knew about colon cancer — second only to lung cancer — has risen exponentially in seven days. Now, people who couldn't even point to the colon on an anatomy chart, may know a Dukes A from a Dukes C. More importantly, they may seek treatment.

This is not to suggest that Reagan's illness is a great boon, a national service. Cancer is hardly a social value. But dealing with it, directly and completely, is.

Reagan's doctors opened the press conference Monday with the matter-of-fact words, "The President has cancer." Fifty years ago, 25 years ago, doctors might not have even told the patient himself. They would only have told the country if the leader were about to die or to resign.

We are not all that far removed from the era when people could barely say the word "cancer"; they had to whisper it. There was some primal fear that the mysterious disease could be transmitted from mouth to ear. Cancer was the "e-word" which was equated with the "d-word": death.

In this most prominent case, the doctors gave good odds to the President and the media gave them in gory, complete, and therefore believable, detail. Having his tumors discussed in public is a fair enough price for public reassurance.

With luck, the President will, like most cancer patients, go back to work. The change in our attitudes toward cancer will make that a lot easier. His own attitude is sure to make it easier for the next person with the same diagnosis.

As for luck, his is likely to hold. After all, the President's surgeon has a hobby. He's an amateur magician, accomplished at pulling things out of a hat.

Ellen Goodman writes for The Boston Globe.

Reagan follows 25th Amendment procedures, reluctantly

President Reagan has wisely, if reluctantly, followed the sensible procedures provided in the 25th Amendment to the Constitution.

He did not invoke that amendment four years ago when he was shot and underwent surgery, but this past weekend he became the first president to transfer the duties of his office to his vice president — in accordance with the 25th Amendment.

The president did not invoke the amendment in 1981 in part because he and his advisers had limited time available in which to reflect on their options. Available privately acknowledged that they wanted to avoid alarming the public any more than it was already alarmed.

Invoking the amendment, they believed, might cause the public to think that Reagan was more critically wounded than he was. Yet he was critically wounded, he was closer to death and was more seriously incapacitated for a longer period than his aides wanted to disclose.

This time the president complied with Section 3 of the 25th Amendment, which was added to the Constitution in 1967. He and senior aides did have time to think about various options, and they doubtless recalled the muffled criticisms of their failure to follow the procedure four years earlier. Moreover, in the interim, the president and Vice President George Bush have developed an unusually close working relationship.

Yet Reagan acted in a way that raises as many questions as it answers. Although complying with Section 3, his required letter to the president pro tempore of the Senate and the Speaker of the House included the following curious sentence: "I do not believe that the drafters of this amendment intended its application to situations such as the instant one."

That is wrong. While the drafters necessarily left matters vague, many of them had just such presidential incapacities in mind.

Grover Cleveland once secretly underwent cancer surgery, concealing his infirmity from his cabinet and vice president. And James A. Garfield and Woodrow Wilson were incapacitated for long periods. More recently, Dwight D. Eisenhower's heart attack and stroke were much in the minds of the drafters. It was precisely because the Constitution was vague about the transfer of responsibilities on such occasions that Congress proposed and the states ratified the amendment.

Why were Reagan and his legal advisers reluctant to set a precedent? For a president in his 70s, illness or disability might require the vice president to assume the duties of the office with some regularity. This happens several times, it would undoubtedly diminish Reagan's credibility as a leader. Anyone who has worked in the White House appreciates how much a president's influence rests on how the public and Congress perceive his strength, energy and ability to persuade.

This is the first time in 18 years that this section of the amendment was put to use. Other provisions worked reasonably well when Vice President Spiro T. Agnew resigned, and Gerald R. Ford and then Nelson A. Rockefeller were selected to fill the vice presidential vacancies.

This most recent use of the amendment also has served us well, although several uncertainties did arise. First, Reagan's reluctant compliance leaves it unclear whether he or future presidents need comply when they are undergoing routine or minor operations. Second, Bush apparently exercised no presidential responsibilities during the nearly eight hours in which he was, in effect, acting president.

Curiously, Reagan shied away from referring to Bush as the "acting president," but that is the term spelled out in the amendment. Newspaper reports imply that Bush was not informed of the exact time that he was assuming (or supposed to assume) his responsibilities. Perhaps 22 minutes elapsed before he heard that Reagan was under anesthesia.

For all practical purposes, White House Chief of Staff Donald T. Regan was the man in charge during that interval and, perhaps, for most of the time during which the president was undergoing surgery. Bush remained at the vice presidential residence ready to act if needed — yet dependent on Regan for news.

Finally, there is some confusion about when the vice president was formally put in the position of discharging the powers and the duties of the presidency. Was it when the White House staff telephoned him? Was it when the president signed the required letters to the leaders of Congress? Was it when those leaders received the letters?

Less than eight hours after surgery, Reagan signed a second letter to the congressional leadership reclaiming his responsibilities. Bush was presumably also notified at that time. Should these notifications be by letter, telephone or other electronic devices? White House aides inevitably will play the intermediary role in most of these circumstances, but this first test suggests that there are additional process questions to be ironed out.

These problems can be cleared up without resorting to any changes in the amendment. Informal agreements and unambiguous precedents would help reduce confusion. The 25th Amendment plainly is a compromise of many different proposals, none of which are entirely satisfactory. Constitution-writing is always hard, and to try to accommodate every possibility is unreasonable and impracticable. The amendment is an improvement, although not definitive for any situation. Reagan should invoke it; that's why we have a vice president.

One possible side effect of these routine transfers is that we will take the vice presidential selection process more seriously. Reagan's convoluted letter to Congress to the contrary notwithstanding, his is a prudent precedent — one that we can only hope will have to be exercised rarely.

Thomas C. Cronin is a former White House aide who teaches political science at Colorado College.

Eastern Idaho PCA dampens survival plan

By BOB FREUND
Times-News writer

Until last Monday, the Spokane Farm Credit Banks had found a reassuring rescue from the enormous losses sustained by its member Federal Intermediate Credit Bank and production credit associations in the Northwest.

The other solvent banks in the national farm credit system — with the exception of the FICB of Omaha, which also is in trouble — would brace the buckling Spokane bank with $138 million in aid.

To get the money, the Spokane's farm credit system would have to reorganize for strength and efficiency. All 23 PCAs would merge into one, and all 40 federal land bank associations would join together. Once that was done, the PCAs and the FLBAs also would operate together in lending centers at the local level, further cutting costs.

But, the rescue was plunged into jeopardy Monday, when stockholders in the Eastern Idaho Production Credit Association, which covers eastern Idaho and the Magic Valley, refused to go along in a lopsided vote.

More than 81 percent of those voting trounced the idea, agreeing with the board of directors that they would lose grassroots control of their local lender.

The EIPCA was the sole PCA in the five-state district to stand in the way. But it was enough to rupture the unanimous agreement necessary for the aid. A similar turndown by the Blackfoot FLBA does not jeopardize the package, Spokane officials say.

The Spokane Farm Credit Banks now faces a dilemma. As strong as it is, the EIPCA's vote is not likely to be reversed easily. The farm credit system's aid package still requires a unanimous decision. And the clock is ticking. The assistance offer expires on Dec. 31.

There is some controversy about whether the national farm credit system can afford not to help the Spokane FICB. Repercussions of a failure by one, huge farm credit bank would rock the whole system in the nation's bond markets, financial analysts say.

Ratings on Farm Credit Bank bonds, which provide the push lent by the system, could drop suddenly, forcing the system to pay more interest to investors. In turn, farmers and ranchers who borrow from the system would wind up bearing higher interest on their loans.

Despite the questions, officials from the Spokane Farm Credit Banks say liquidation of the FICB remains a very real possibility.

They are worried about the aid being yanked. "Without this assistance package, if we have to repay it, then the FICB will not be able to continue much longer," said A. H. Henschel, vice president for public affairs.

The FICB basically has been operating at a loss. It already has used up about $1.8 million of interim aid and is devouring it at the rate of about $350,000 a month.

During the past couple of days, the district's directors have been assessing the dilemma in Spokane.

"We're going to put all our options on the wall and see what we can do and what we can't do," said board Chairman Clarence Hillfield, of Hansen, on Monday. By late Thursday, the board hadn't made any decisions. Yet its options seem limited.

It might be able to convince the national system's Joint Finance Subcommittee, which authorized the bailout, to extend aid without 100-percent approval from PCAs. On the other hand, the system's leaders may not want to loosen the aid package and dilute the demand for efficient operation.

Another option focuses on the EIPCA. Obviously, the Spokane Farm Credit Banks would like to bring the PCA into the fold with a second vote. The strong vote makes that approach unlikely.

But there is a less friendly possibility. Although an offer from Spokane has suggested it, another tactic may be to eliminate the position.

State plans to huddle on aquifer protection

By KENNETH A. BROWN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — While general water quality in the Snake River Plain Aquifer is good to excellent, there are isolated areas of contamination, according to Gary Shook of the Department of Health and Welfare's Division of Environment.

Currently, however, there is no aquifer-wide management or monitoring program to protect the system, even though it is the state's largest source of irrigation water and the sole source of drinking water for 227,000 people — roughly one-fourth of the state's population.

Over the next several months, the Department of Health and Welfare and the Department of Water Resources will be developing a strategy for managing both the quantity and quality of water in the aquifer. Under the proposed plan, Shook said, the state would regulate private business, farmers, homeowners, and others whose activities affect water quality in the aquifer.

Management of the aquifer became an issue in 1982 when the Hagerman Valley Citizen's Alert petitioned the EPA to designate the aquifer as a "sole source" aquifer. The designation would have given the EPA power to modify or veto any federally funded project that might threaten the aquifer's water quality. That review and veto power also potentially included federal farm loans.

The EPA, however, decided that while the aquifer met the requirements of a sole source, it would postpone that designation and allow the state to develop its own management plans.

Irrigation interests at the time were generally opposed to the designation. Pumpage for irrigation is the single largest use of the aquifer's water. In addition to the irrigation water taken out by pumping, 6.5 million acre feet from the aquifer enters the Snake River each year through springs between Hagerman and American Falls.

Community and environmental groups, however, favored greater protection for the aquifer because of its importance as a drinking water source.

Problems facing the aquifer now, according to Shook, include pesticides and herbicides, injection wells, agricultural practices, feedlots and dairies, septic tanks, radioactive sources, and more industrial concerns such as oil and gas pipelines, landfills, and hazardous waste sites.

But, "as to how these things affect water quality, that is a great unknown. We don't know the impacts of pesticides, organics, and radionuclides," Shook said.

When federal controls were being debated, representatives for irrigators said there was insufficient data to establish any effective management of the aquifer.

But while predicting exactly how pollution today will affect the aquifer in the future is an inexact science, Walton Low, a geochemist with the USGS's Water Resources Division in Boise said, "Once an aquifer is degraded, it remains degraded. It's easier to do some remedial action before the aquifer becomes unusable."

"An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure," Low said. "The idea that if it's not broke don't fix it, doesn't apply to aquifers that supply water for many different uses."

The only monitoring being done on the aquifer is conducted by the USGS. Shook, however, said monitoring has been too limited and sporadic to provide "a comprehensive picture of what's going on" in the aquifer.

The USGS is interested in more comprehensive monitoring and has proposed a joint 8-year monitoring program with the state's Departments of Water Resources and Health and Welfare, according to Low.

A public hearing will be held in Twin Falls July 25, in Room 108 of the Vo-Tech Building at CSI. The meeting is scheduled from 4 to 7 p.m. Representatives of the Division of Environment and the Division of Water Resources will present information on the plan's geology and hydrogeology, land use, existing water quality, and possible ways to control the aquifer's water quality.

The departments are seeking public comment on water quality management strategies.

Johnny Pot-seed strikes Shoshone park

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

SHOSHONE — Police in Shoshone say they don't believe the city administration would stoop to such depths "to balance the city budget — but someone marijuana has been growing in the city park."

Assistant Police Chief Dennis Peyton said there were about 200 marijuana plants harvested last week in the far end of the city park.

"It looked as though someone had thrown away a handful of seeds, or had just scattered them across a section of the park," Peyton said. "When they (city crews) watered the park recently, the seeds sprouted. We even found one growing in one of the fireplaces, where it had sprouted after the area was irrigated."

The officer said there probably will not be any extensive investigation in the matter, adding that whatever the source of the seeds and whatever plants may have been made for them, it is too late. The 200 plants were harvested and destroyed one evening last week by city officers.

Grand jury indicts attorney on 41 counts

PORTLAND (AP) — A federal grand jury handed down a 41-count indictment against former Portland lawyer Thomas E. Wolf, charging him with conspiracy and bank fraud in the collapse of the Columbia Pacific Bank and Trust Co.

Wolf, 45, who now lives in Sun Valley, was a Columbia Pacific director from the bank's opening in July 1976 until its collapse in March 1983. He also was the bank's legal counsel and a member of its loan committee.

The 23-page indictment, announced by U.S. Attorney Charles H. Turner, accuses Wolf of conspiring with the bank's president, Tom R. Pendergraft, and others to circumvent bank policy and state and federal banking regulations to provide $1.3 million in loans and renewals between 1979 and 1983. The indictment says the loans and renewals were granted to First Northwest Mortgage Co., a construction financing company controlled by Wolf.

Of the 22 loans and renewals that benefited the company during that time, only four were reported in any fashion to the loan committee of the bank's board of directors, as required by bank policy, Tuesday's indictment states.

As long as Wolf controlled the company, it could not legally borrow more than $25,000 from Columbia Pacific without advance approval by the bank's board.

Wolf's actions caused First Northwest to receive loans totaling an amount that far exceeded the bank's lending limits, according to a press release issued by Turner.

First Northwest was launched in 1978 by Wolf,

C. Anderson Griffith, Lester Hardy and C. Dale Brokens, who each owned 25 percent of the corporation's stock, according to the indictment.

The indictment alleges that Wolf arranged a fraudulent transfer of a large portion of his stock in First Northwest to Griffith to avoid having to report his interest in the company to bank examiners and Columbia Pacific's board of directors.

The indictment charges Wolf with one count of conspiracy, 17 counts of misapplication of bank funds, 23 counts of making false entries in bank records and one count of issuing a bank obligation without authority.

Wolf's attorney, Norman Sepenuk of Portland, said, "My only comment is that we expect to be in court July 22 and we'll be entering a not guilty plea."

Task force says no to Hansen recount

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House task force on Thursday voted against an Idaho Republican Congressman George Hansen's request for a recount of ballots in the election he lost to Richard Stallings by 170 votes.

The task force of the House Administration Committee voted 2-1, along party lines, to recommend the full committee dismiss the appeal filed by Hansen, who was convicted last year of filing false financial disclosures. Despite the conviction, Hansen was nominated to run against Stallings, a Democrat, for an eighth term in the House.

The Democrat-controlled House voted to seat Stallings in January, over the objections of Hansen.

Hansen turned to the House Administration Committee panel with charges that irregularities in vote counting and voter registration cost him the election.

The request submitted to the task force was part of a series of challenges Hansen has filed over the election he lost last November.

Steps have included his unsuccessful demand that state election officials order a full recount of the more than 200,000 votes cast in the 2nd Congressional District race.

State election officials rejected the request after a partial recount panned Stallings' margin instead of showing a trend in Hansen's favor. Hansen appealed to the Idaho Supreme Court, which upheld the state's decision.

In December, Hansen supporters attempting to prove voter fraud in

GEORGE HANSEN Loses another round

Idaho's Blaine County mailed nearly 2,500 Christmas cards to county residents they said gave insufficient addresses on voter-registration cards. But a subsequent investigation by state and local officials failed to prove the suspicions of widespread fraud.

Hansen, now a private consultant in Washington, still is awaiting a decision in the appeal of his conviction and sentence on ethics charges. He was sentenced to up to 15 months in prison and ordered to pay a $40,000 fine.

Grassroots support

That's the important factor in GOP primary, Adamson says

By DEAN S. MILLER
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Jerome attorney and possible congressional candidate Dan Adamson said Thursday that Republican Party funds will play a minor role in the 1986 Second Congressional District primary election.

Adamson said he met July 10 with Republican National Congressional Committee fieldworker Mike Smith.

Smith, who could not be reached for comment, has been touring the 2nd Congressional District to meet with potential candidates, telling them the Republican Party will probably not fund primary election campaigns; according to Adamson and state Rep. J.F. Chadband, R-Idaho Falls, another congressional candidate.

"Basically, it's going to be hands off; they've got some information available for those who want to use it," Adamson said Thursday.

Adamson said extensive advertising to gain name recognition will be important in the primary raise funds for the primary without the help of the party.

With individual donors limited to $1,000 donations, Adamson said grassroots support will become increasingly important. "One-thousand dollars doesn't go very far, so grassroots support is important," he said. Adamson said competition for individual contributions will be stiff.

"The more people get in the race, the less grassroots there are," he said.

Adamson said he expects the final field of Republican candidates entering the primary to be narrowed to five people. Adamson said that in the primary campaign, Republicans should concentrate on Democratic U.S. Rep. Richard Stallings' record rather than attacking each other.

"It is ridiculous for someone voting with (House Speaker) Tip O'Neill to think he's going to represent the conservative Idaho Second Congressional District," Adamson said.

Adamson said the showdown between Republican candidates will pit conservatives against ultra-conservatives, with moderate candidates being squeezed out.

Two other possible candidates from the Magic Valley, state Sen. Larry Anderson, R-Twin Falls, and state Rep. Gary Robbins, R-District, could not be reached for comment Thursday.

Merger

Jim Rogers, president of the Farm Credit Banks of Texas, who chairs the Joint Finance Subcommittee, also said he would not speculate on what might happen. But he did touch briefly on the possibility of action against the EIPCA.

"The financial assistance plan was based upon the fact that they would give to one PCA and one land bank that would cover the whole area," he said. A rejection of the merger "would jeopardize the assistance package as originally presented, and it might or might not call for the liquidation of that PCA," he said.

The Spokane Farm Credit Banks cannot disband the EIPCA itself. It would have to convince the federal Farm Credit Administration, which charters PCAs, to take action. However, the Spokane board does have some power to remove boards of directors or to cancel credit to a PCA.

There has been no hint that the Spokane officials are considering either possibility. In fact, there is one huge argument against it.

Any attempt to muscle the EIPCA certainly would undermine stockholder power and bring into question the districtwide vote just completed. "If a PCA's stockholders can't dissent, why was the vote held in the first place?" would be the logical question.

One attitude is apparent. The management at the Spokane Farm Credit Banks considers the situation serious enough to threaten the survival of the PCA system in the Northwest.

It also could bring up one other option that was rejected early in the crisis. At meetings in the Magic Valley, officials from Spokane said they had looked at the possibility of breaking up the 12th Farm Credit District of Spokane. The Northwest PCAs and FCBAs would be split off from surrounding farm credit districts.

Haslebacher said Thursday the directors of Spokane Farm Credit Banks still are consulting with officials from the national system and the FCA. They also want to talk to presidents and board chairmen from the Northwest's associations before taking action, he said.

Power company offers cash for information on vandalism

JEROME — Pacific Power & Light Company, which supplies power to northern Idaho, Oregon, Washington, and California consumers, is stinging mad over people shooting out their insulators in Jerome County, and they've decided — to do something about it.

The company is offering $10,000 for any information leading to the arrest and conviction of those responsible for a July 23, 1984 power outage on the company's 500,000-volt transmission line just north of Jerome.

The transmission line, which was carrying power from Wyoming to Idaho, through Oregon and California, failed when the current "flashed over" bullet-damaged insulators to the steel tower and then to the ground, said company officials.

The damages from the outage, including the cost of repairs and loss of revenue during the 17 hours it took to replace the line base in service, are estimated to be around $300,000.

"And unfortunately, as an operating loss, this loss will be borne by our customers through higher rates," said Mac Shaw, central operations division manager for the company.

The flash-over also caused a brush fire around the base of the tower that the Bureau of Land Management eventually had to control, he added.

When line crews arrived to make repairs on the day of the outage, they attributed the incident to the large number of insulators in the region that had been shattered by bullets.

At least 30 of the 50 insulators supporting the line in the vicinity would have had to be damaged in order for the flashover to occur, said company officials, and more than that appeared to be the case.

The line crew also reported that many other insulators in the area around Jerome had also been shot out.

Only two weeks prior to the power outage, the line had been patrolled by crews which replaced all the broken or cracked insulators, which leads company officials to suspect that one individual or group had done the damage.

Flash-overs occur when damaged insulators can no longer insulate the electrical lines in the conductors from the steel towers. The uninsulated current then begins to creep across the damaged areas and establish a path over them to the tower.

Once the path is established, the full force of energy in the line will arc to the tower with a tremendous explosion and considerable amounts of fire, says Shaw.

"Using insulators for target practice, particularly those on a very high-voltage transmission line such as the 500 KV (500 kilovolt line), is not only an irresponsible act that can disrupt the flow of power throughout the Northwest, it also is an act that could prove very dangerous to those firing the shots," said Shaw.

The greatest danger to anyone in the vicinity of a tower during a flash-over is that usually all the remaining insulators and metal in the failed insulator string will explode and fill the air with flaming shards of metal and glass," he added.

Although the company has not suffered any outages caused by bullets since the July 23, 1984 outage, they have noticed some insulator damage near the Jerome area, say company officials.

Jerome County Sheriff Eliza Hall said that he had no leads or information on who was responsible for the outage, but the case is still open. He hadn't received any reports of insulator damage since the outage of a year ago.

Anyone with information regarding the July 23, 1984 incident, or those who suspect any outages caused by bullets in the vicinity of the outage earlier, should contact the Jerome County Sheriff's Office in Jerome or Pacific Power & Light in Portland.

Construction worker takes fall
TWIN FALLS — A worker who fell about 15 feet into an elevator shaft at a construction site near Hansen Wednesday escaped with minor injuries.

The Twin Falls sheriff's office said Donald L. Schroder, 29, of Pocatello was working at the Mark Green construction site near the Highway 50 and Anderson Avenue junction. He was helping pour a concrete slab beside the shaft about 1:30 p.m. when he slipped across the corner of the shaft, lost his footing and fell into the 15-foot deep hole.

Schroder was removed from the shaft and taken by ambulance to Magic Valley Regional Medical Center where he was treated and released.

On-duty police car in accident
HEYBURN — A Heyburn city police officer escaped with minor injuries Thursday evening when his police car, enroute to investigate a reported burglary, collided with another vehicle.

Idaho State Police Trooper Lonnie Richardson said Michael Cron, city officer in Heyburn, was northbound on U.S. 30, a four-lane highway through the center of town, at 6 p.m. He was responding to a call with siren blaring and emergency lights flashing. Richardson said, when a northbound vehicle driven by Kay Eames turned left in front of the police car and the two collided.

Cron was treated at Cassia Memorial Hospital and released. Eames was uninjured. He told the state officer he was turning into a driveway and thought he had time to make the turn ahead of the approaching police unit. Richardson said investigation is continuing and charges are pending.

Residents invite burglaries
TWIN FALLS — Burglars kept busy in Twin Falls Wednesday and Thursday, and police report some residents are cooperating with the thieves by leaving their homes and automobiles unlocked.

Kyle Shildmyer of 774 Quincy St., told police someone entered his unlocked vehicle and took a radar detector, a shotgun and a number of smaller items. He said the total value would be $905. The theft occurred either at his home or at Murtaugh Lake while the vehicle was parked at times between July 5 and July 10, he said.

Brad Hayes told police he was moving from 159 Quincy St. in Twin Falls and left some items in the home between Monday and Wednesday. When he returned he discovered a burglary. He said someone forced open a window and took a television set and a clock radio. He estimated the loss was about $380.

A lawnmower that was left at the side of a home at 351 Fifth Ave. N., was taken sometime Wednesday, the owner told police. The lawnmower was valued at $270.

Aryan Nations to hold meeting
TWIN FALLS — The neo-Nazi Church of Jesus Christ Christian, Aryan Nations will hold a preachers roundtable discussion July 23, to offer area preachers a chance to "show us where we err."

In his letter to preachers, Aryan Nations pastor John E. Miller said the meeting was called "due to condemnations from the pulpit, and sometimes from the news media."

He invited pastors to bring Bibles and other references to the discussion at the Holiday Inn in Twin Falls at 7:30 p.m.

Arabians in action Saturday
BURLEY — A collection of the region's best in Arabian horses will be on display and in action today and Saturday in the Cassia County fairgrounds.

The occasion is the annual Magic Valley Arabian Horse Association Class A show.

Bernice Richardson of Twin Falls said classes will be held beginning in the mornings both days with afternoon and evening events, as well.

There is no charge and the public is invited.

Judge overrules lawsuit dismissal
BOISE (AP) — A district judge in Twin Falls improperly granted the city's request to dismiss a lawsuit against it from a local food distributor, the Idaho Court of Appeals says.

Fifth District Judge Theron Ward ruled that Sysco International Food Service failed to submit a written tort claim against the city within the 100-day limit set by state law.

The claim stemmed from a December 1981 accident when a Sysco vehicle and one owned by the city of Twin Falls. The day after the accident, Sysco driver Larry Smith fled a claim with the city's insurance agent, Anderson, Blake and Fay Insurance. He was informed about a month later that the claim had been dismissed by the carrier, CNA Inc.

Sysco filed a tort claim notice with the city in September 1982, and in January 1983 filed suit, according to court records.

An administrative mixup corresponding to the city not responding to the land to the school district for $75,000 with the stipulation that a 5-foot-high fence be installed when the district "commences use of or construction on the property."

The district planned to expand school facilities on the land, but those plans changed with the failure of a bond issue to finance the project, according to court records.

Files at the school's vocational agriculture students continue to farm the land and it was used by the local booster club, but no construction was begun. The Abels sued the district for asking several times that it be built.

Hurlbutt dismissed the case on the grounds that the intended use of the land was expansion of school facilities, which had not taken place. But the appellate court said the meaning of "use" in the contract could not be inferred.

Confrontation results in shooting in Kimberly, police arrest suspect

TWIN FALLS — A shooting incident early Thursday morning at a rural home near Kimberly resulted in minor injuries to one man and charges of aggravated assault.

The victim, Oscar Matthew Tracy, suffered a flesh wound in the left side and was treated at Magic Valley Regional Medical Center and released.

Brian E. Smith, 28, was in the county jail Thursday night in lieu of $10,000 bond. He was arraigned Thursday afternoon on the assault charge and requested a preliminary hearing. The public defender was appointed at his request.

Chief Twin Falls County Deputy Sheriff Harold Jensen said Smith allegedly went to the home of Tracy and a friend earlier in the evening and was thrown out of the building when he began causing a disturbance. Officers said he returned later and allegedly slashed the tires on a pickup truck in front of the home.

When Tracy confronted him, an argument began and Tracy was shot with a small-caliber hand gun. Smith was later arrested at the El Kim Motel in Twin Falls, where he has been residing.

Cyclist in critical condition after accident

RUPERT — Danny Rasmussen, 26, of Rupert, was in critical condition Thursday in the Pocatello Regional Medical Center with head injuries suffered in a motorcycle accident Wednesday southwest of Rupert.

Sheriff Ray Jarvis said Rasmussen was injured about noon Wednesday when his motorcycle collided head-on with another on the farm where he lives at 265 south, 100 west.

Jarvis said the accident occurred on private property and his department was not notified until after the victim had been transported by private vehicle to the Mindoka Memorial Hospital. Details of the motorcycle collision and the name of the driver of the second vehicle were not available, he said.

Rasmussen suffered a skull fracture but was able to walk to the family car and was driven to the hospital by his wife. Not until after he reached the hospital did he show signs of a head injury, Jarvis said.

He was treated at the emergency room of the hospital in Rupert and then flown by ambulance to the Pocatello Hospital. Officials there said he was being treated in the intensive care unit.

False accusation of family theft still rankles after 37 years

DEAR ABBY: The letter regarding the expensive piece of jewelry that "disappeared" while a teen-aged relative was visiting brought back some bitter memories.

Both boys denied ever being in the back seat of that car, but later Bobby changed his story and said that my son had been in the back seat. The scene that took place when my son was confronted by those holler-than-thou relatives I shall never forget if I live to be 100.

My dear mother repeatedly offered my son $5 if he would only confess to taking the money. My son, with tears in his eyes, repeatedly refused her offer, saying, "But, Grandma, I didn't take any money!"

Abigail VanBuren Dear Abby

I knew my son was innocent and prayed nightly that someday the truth would be revealed.

Many years later, when my brother's family moved to a new home, a dusty bucket was found in the corner of the basement. And in it were five very moldy $1 bills! They told my mother about this find, but to this day my son, who is now 42, has never had an apology from any of his accusers. I write this to urge the owner of the piece of jewelry that disappeared mysteriously to refrain from jumping to any conclusions, as false accusations can ruin a lifetime of family harmony.

—IT HAPPENED IN MARYVILLE
DEAR IT HAPPENED: Your poignant letter is sure to awaken in many adults the painful memory of having been falsely accused as a child. Thanks for writing.

DEAR ABBY: A reader wrote to complain that she was made to feel unwelcome at a public swimming pool because she refused to shave her hairy legs.

I would be interested to see where, in the civil code, it explains why a man may go topless at a public beach or pool, but a woman may not.

Why is it that men's breasts (some of which are larger than some women's) are OK to expose to public view, but women's are not? Isn't this sex discrimination?

—FED UP WITH ANTIQUATED LAWS
DEAR FED UP: In accordance with the cultural standards in our country (right or wrong), there are certain parts of the male and female anatomy that may not be exposed to public view. And regardless of the size, the female breasts are one (or should I say two?) of them.

DEAR ABBY: My mother, who is 77 and lives with me, recently met and became very fond of a gentleman who is 79. His wife died last February. My mother and this gentleman really seemed to enjoy each other's company until his children reproached him for having a "girlfriend" so soon after their mother's death. The gentleman lives with his children, who have demanded that he wait an unspecified period of time before he can see my mother again.

I can see how unhappy my mother is, and it hurts me. I don't have to tell you that they may not have much time left on this earth, and it's unfair to these elderly people who only want to enjoy a little happiness in their remaining years.

I don't want to get in the middle of this since these people are my neighbors. Please print this, Abby. There are many children who react in the same selfish manner, robbing their elderly parents of the companionship that so recently (and briefly) added a sparkle to my mother's life.

—SAD IN N.J.
DEAR ABBY: I suppose my problem is a common one, but it doesn't make me feel any better. You see, I'm a 25-year-old male and I've never been out with a woman. It's not that I don't like women; it's just that I can't seem to get up the courage to ask one out. I have no trouble talking with the women at work, but asking one of them out is a major problem. Any advice you can give me will be appreciated.

—DEPRESSED IN ASTORIA

DEAR DEPRESSED: There's more than one way to communicate. Why not write one of the women a note inviting her to a movie, concert, dinner, sports event, museum or whatever.

Anyone who writes well enough to elicit a published response from Dear Abby should have no trouble getting a date with the same technique. Go get 'er, Tiger!

Public now wants cancer examinations

NEW YORK (AP) — People worried about colon cancer in the wake of President Reagan's illness have been calling hot lines and doctor's offices across the country for information and appointments.

"All of a sudden, everybody and his brother has decided to have a checkup," said Jack Currier, president of Furgusson Hospital in Grand Rapids, Mich., which specializes in colon and rectal diseases. "We can't get the phone to stop ringing."

Dr. Gordon Klatt, colon and rectal surgeon in Tacoma, Wash., said area specialists have gotten up to 20 additional calls a day from people who want to be screened for cancer.

"People are a little bit worried now," said Dr. William Friend of the Colon-Rectal Clinic in Seattle. "I hope that we will be seeing people who would have come in much later otherwise."

Dr. James Beets, a Baltimore colorectal surgeon, is one of several doctors who said many calls have come from patients who had polyps in the past who didn't come in for followups (colonoscopies) even though they got reminder cards. Now they want it done.

A history of polyps increases a person's risk for cancer of the colon or rectum, known as colorectal cancer, which is expected to kill 59,000 Americans this year. Some 120,000 cases are expected to be diagnosed this year, according to the American Cancer Society.

The cure rate rises dramatically if the cancer is caught and treated early — before the symptoms of bleeding from the rectum, visible blood in the stool and bowel irregularity appear.

Idaho Lawyers get their legal fee

BOISE (AP) — When all the legal quibbling and political wrangling was said and done, there were far more heroes than villains in the resolution of a dispute over legal fees stemming from Idaho's 1982 reapportionment case.

Coeur d'Alene attorney Raymond Givens on Thursday picked up a $145,000 check for that debt from state Auditor Joe Williams on behalf of himself and fellow attorney William Nixon.

It was a welcome exchange, not only for Givens and Nixon but for a host of state officials and executives of Albertson's Inc., which was fighting the attorneys' attempt to garnish its state tax receipts to satisfy the debt.

"I think everybody in state government is anxious to get this cleared up," Williams said. "I think there'll be very little criticism from anyone."

First District Judge Gary Haman on Wednesday signed papers presented to him by Nixon and Givens, who successfully challenged a legislative redistricting plan adopted by the 1982 Legislature.

First District Judge Dar Cogswell awarded the lawyers $113,000 in legal fees after their court challenge. The rest of the money turned over Thursday was from interest that had accrued at the rate of 18 percent, or about $70 a day, since Cogswell's order.

The 1985 Legislature, at the urging of Senate President Pro Tem James Risch, R-Boise, refused to appropriate money for the attorneys' fees, even though their payment was approved by the Idaho Supreme Court.

The attempt to garnish Albertson's tax receipts, approved by Cogswell earlier this month, left the grocery chain in a bind. It finally decided to set the money aside until the case was settled. Meanwhile, the state Tax Commission issued a notice-of-tax deficiency.

As part of the agreement signed Wednesday, all claims against Albertson's were dropped. But the chain's money still will play an important role in the settlement. Deputy Attorney General Pat Koles said discovery of an Idaho law allowing the state auditor to write a check for the bill cleared the way for the settlement. But Koles gave credit to a number of individuals for helping to resolve the incident.

The Senate leader faced "a real buzz-saw of opposition from within his own caucus," Koles said. And between saying on Monday that the debt was not the Legislature's responsibility and the time the agreement was signed on Wednesday, he said Risch was instrumental in bringing the parties together in negotiations.

Boise land purchase set

BOISE (AP) — Nearly four blocks of downtown-area land owned by Union Pacific Co. tentatively will be purchased by the Boise Auditorium District, which intends to use the property for a convention center.

However, the district's board on Wednesday voted not to sign the sale agreement until board members meet with business tenants at the UP property.

Final UP approval of the cash deal still is pending, said Robert Mather, chairman of the auditorium district board. The transaction is expected to close sometime after Aug. 1.

Mather refused to disclose the purchase price, saying it could change. The price cannot exceed the amount the district's bank balance, which is $1.5 million.

Economic growth sluggish for 2nd quarter

Gross National Product (Preliminary)

By MARTIN CRUTSINGEN
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The economy grew at a sluggish 1.7 percent annual rate from April through June as a foreign trade hemorrhage continued to rob U.S. manufacturers of sales, the government said Thursday.

Faced with the latest bad news, the Reagan administration conceded that its initial forecast for 1985 growth would have to be revised downward, but Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige insisted he saw signs of better days ahead.

However, private economists were not so optimistic, contending that the country's disastrous trading performance would continue to be a drag on growth for most of the year.

The Commerce Department announced that the gross national product, the broadest measure of economic health, grew at an annual rate of 1.7 percent during the second quarter following an even weaker 0.3 percent pace during the first three months of the year.

'At this point the factors dragging down the economy are more powerful than those pushing it up.'

—Jerry Jasinowski

for the first six months of the year, the economy has expanded at a disappointing annual rate of just 1.7 percent — far below expectations of both private and government economists when the year began.

Baldrige told reporters the administration will be forced to revise downward its current 3.9 percent estimate for GNP growth for the full year.

While he refused to say what the new yearly figure would be, he predicted growth at a rate of 4 percent "plus or minus" in the second half of 1985.

"We see all the building blocks for increased growth," Baldrige said, citing low inflation levels, continued strong consumer confidence and low business inventories. "These factors are clearly going to be enough to overcome any drag on the economy from the trade deficit."

But many private analysts were less optimistic.

"At this point the factors dragging down the economy are more powerful than those pushing it up," said Jerry Jasinowski, chief economist for the National Association of Manufacturers. He said he did not expect any major upturn in activity until the final three months of the year.

Allen Sinal, chief economist for Shearson Lehman Brothers Inc., said the economy was likely to remain in a growth recession — a period of rising unemployment — but not a full-blown recession.

"Without further declines in interest rates and the dollar, it will be difficult to move into a range of growth that will reduce the unemployment rate," he said. The jobless rate has been frozen at 7.3 percent for five months after having dropped as low as 7.1 percent last November.

In another sign of weakness, the government said production at the nation's factories, mines and utilities increased a slight 0.1 percent in June, matching a revised 0.1 percent May increase.

Since last fall, industrial production has shown little improvement as domestic manufacturers have continued to lose sales to foreigners because of the strength of the dollar against foreign currencies.

A strong dollar has encouraged a flood of cheaper imports in this country while holding down sales of U.S. goods overseas. While hurting economic growth, the strong dollar has held down inflation.

The new GNP report said a price measure tied to the GNP rose at an annual rate of just 2.8 percent in the second quarter, far below the 5.4 percent pace in the first quarter.

The government said weaker than originally expected export sales were the main reason that GNP growth during the April-June quarter was revised downward. A month ago, before the quarter was over, GNP growth was initially estimated at a much stronger 5.1 percent rate.

Exports declined at a sharp annual rate of 12.5 percent in the second quarter while imports continued their relentless rise, growing at an annual rate of 1.4 percent. The second quarter import increase came on top of a giant 32.3 percent first quarter surge.

The weak overall performance came despite a strong 5.1 percent rate of increase in final sales, which included strong gains in spending by businesses and consumers.

While such a gain would normally be enough to power strong GNP growth, much of the demand was satisfied by imports, analysts said. The changes left the GNP level at $1.67 trillion for the second quarter. All of the figures take into account the impact of inflation.

Before inflation was factored out, the GNP grew at a 4.6 percent rate in the second quarter, rising to an annual level of $3.85 trillion.

Renting furniture can save money, create 'instant home'

Among our acquaintances are two young couples who are on the move to other regions of the country. One couple is moving to Chicago because the map has just received a major career advancement that demands his presence there. The other couple, a working partnership in which both the man and woman work for the same company, has been asked to relocate to San Francisco (with the implied promise of advancement if they do).

Sylvia Porter

Now, we are watching them reach decisions that will involve thousands of dollars and will deeply influence their lifestyle. What should they do about furnishing their new homes or apartments? Should one or the other couple transport all their household goods when they are not sure of the permanence of this relocation?

The key factor in renting over buying: lower cost. Just the elimination of furniture moving expenses can save you substantial amounts.

The major reasons for the rise in the numbers of consumers renting furniture are cost-related, says Herbert J. Broner, president and CEO of Mohasco Corp., parent company of Cort Furniture Rental. Product quality is the reason rental products emphasize well-known brand names, adds Broner.

Significant factors you should know about furniture renting:

- The contract you sign with a furniture rental company includes an option to buy the furniture. Only about 15 percent of renters exercise this option since most consumers don't make monthly payments for longer than 12 months before returning the furniture.
- Expect to pay a one-month security deposit plus the first month's rental fee when entering into a contract. The length of a contract is entirely up to you, the consumer, and can be as short as one year or extend over several years. Depending on the term of the contract, you may receive a discount. Cort Furniture, for instance, often provides a discount for a one-year contract and, in some instances, increases it for longer-term contracts.

• You are expected to return whatever furniture you rent in the same condition as you received it, except for normal wear and tear. However, you need not clean it prior to return. This is handled by the rental company, which cleans every piece of furniture that is returned no matter how long it has been rented.

• Upon return of the merchandise, you will receive your complete security deposit. Only in the event that the rented furniture is damaged will the repair cost be deducted from the full amount.

• You are required by rental companies to give advance notice when you want your rental furniture picked up. Some contracts include a specific time for pickup — say, 15 days.

Countless hundreds of thousands of you are in situations where you're wondering whether to spend on buying furniture you then own — or whether you should spend on renting before you make other vital decisions on your future life. While you're considering, save as much money as you can by learning all the facts — and then decide.

Interest rates encourage profit takers; Dow slides

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market retreated from record highs Thursday in profit-taking encouraged by a rise in interest rates. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, up 22.51 points in the two previous sessions, slipped back 7.05 to 1,350.32.

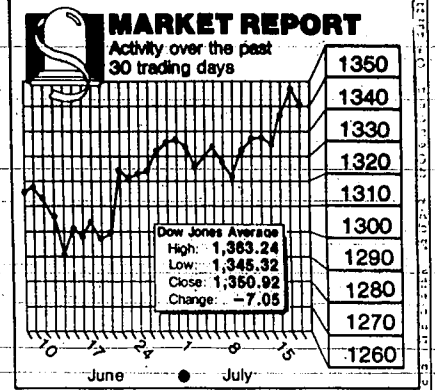

Volts on the New York Stock Exchange came to 131.55 million shares, against 159.92 million Wednesday.

Interest rates rose in the credit markets, with rates on Treasury bills moving up 14 to 18 basis points, or hundredths of a percentage point. Prices of long-term government bonds, which move in the opposite direction from interest rates, fell $10 or more for every $1,000 in face value.

G.D. Searle jumped 4 1/2 to 63 1/2 and Monsanto was up 1/4 to 50 1/4. The companies agreed on a plan for Monsanto to acquire Searle for $65 a share in cash.

Savings and loan issues were notably weak with interest rates on the rise. Gibraltar Financial fell 1 1/2 to 10 1/4; H.F. Ammons 2 1/4 to 30 1/4, and Great Western Financial 1/4 to 28.

In the blue-chip sector, International Business Machines lost 7 1/2 to 128 1/2. American Telephone & Telegraph 1/4 to 22 1/4, and General Electric 1/4 to 62 1/4. IBM denied speculation that it would introduce a new personal computer this year.

Hewlett-Packard fell 1 1/2 to 36 1/2. The company said most of its U.S. manufacturing and administrative facilities will be closed one or two days a month starting in August as a cost-cutting measure.

Phillips Petroleum led the active list, up 1 1/2 to 11 1/4.

The daily tally on the Big Board showed about five issues declining in price for every three that advanced. The exchange's composite index dropped 68 to 112.81.

Nationwide turnover in NYSE-listed issues, including trades in those stocks on regional exchanges and in the over-the-counter market, totaled 155.11 million shares.

Standard & Poor's index of 400 industrials fell 1.05 to 214.47.

BankAmerica posts loss but First Interstate says profits up

By SKIP WOLLENBERG The Associated Press BankAmerica Corp., the nation's second-largest banking company, reported Wednesday it lost $38 million in the second quarter, one of the largest quarterly losses ever by a U.S. financial organization.

BankAmerica said the loan reserve was fortified partly because of continuing pressure on some of its loan customers, including the agricultural, shipping and commercial real estate industries and foreign borrowers.

Currency, who have substantially completed a routine audit they began in April. The loss at BankAmerica fell short of the $1.16 billion loss at Continental Illinois Corp. in the second quarter of 1984 and the $52.1 million loss at Financial Corp. of America in the fourth quarter of 1984.

BankAmerica had posted net income of $110 million, or 60 cents a share. "No one expected this," Stephen Berman, a banking industry analyst at the investment firm I.F. Rothschild, Unterberg, Towbin, said of the BankAmerica loss.

For the first six months of the year, BankAmerica had a loss of $224 million in contrast with net income of $211 million, or $1.15 a share, in 1984. The loan loss provision boosted its loan loss reserve fund to $1.5 billion, or 1.81 percent of total loans and leases, up from 1.20 percent a year earlier.

Bankers Trust, which is based in New York and ranks ninth, reported its second-quarter profit rose 21 percent to $87.2 million, or $2.55 a share, from $72 million, or $2.25 a share, a year earlier.

Briefly

Tylenol Elixir warning issued

BOISE (AP) — Reinforcing a call by the federal Food and Drug Administration, the Idaho Board of Pharmacy has urged Idaho consumers not to use Tylenol Children's Elixir carrying certain lot numbers.

The FDA has instructed wholesalers to return batches of the analgesic contaminated with mold or yeast. The FDA said the contamination poses a negligible risk.

On Thursday, the state pharmacy board said consumers should return 4 oz. bottles of the medicine carrying the lot numbers SL4309, SL4321, SP4462, SSF228, SSF229 or SSF233. The board said the advisory also applies to 16 oz. bottles with the lot number SH3865.

The medicine is manufactured by McNeil Consumer Products Co., a subsidiary of Johnson & Johnson. Refunds or replacement bottles will be given buyers who returned contaminated elixir either to the manufacturer or to stores, said Lynn Lloyd, executive director of the Idaho State Board of Pharmacy.

2 Demos decry land trial move

BOISE (AP) — The two Democrats on the Idaho Land Board are upset about Attorney General Jim Jones' efforts to move a lawsuit challenging the Priest Lake land exchange decision from Sandpoint to Boise.

"I don't feel the attorney general and other members of the Land Board should insist this case be decided here in Ada County," Gov. John Evans said Thursday.

"The people most concerned about the Priest Lake land trade are in Boundary and Bonnet counties," he said. "As state officials we should recognize the legitimate interests of our citizens and not inconvenience them to suit our whims."

Evans and state Auditor Joe Williams were the only members of the five-man Land Board opposing the exchange of state property near northern Idaho's scenic Priest Lake with Diamond Lands Corp.

Man electrocuted while in tree

OSBURN (AP) — A 30-year-old Hayden Lake man was electrocuted while attempting to cut a cottonwood tree limb, the Shoshone County Sheriff's Department reported.

Philip Ray Hamby was working between 30 and 50 feet up in the tree Wednesday when he apparently touched a "power line," the sheriff's report said. Hamby was pronounced dead at East Shoshone Hospital.

Defendant waiver right upheld

BOISE (AP) — Defendants in Idaho felony cases have the right to personally waive a jury trial, the state Court of Appeals says.

Thursday's decision by a special three-man panel of the court came in the case of Danny Swan, who was convicted in June 1983 of aggravated assault and first-degree burglary in Valley County.

Swan contended on appeal that the waiver of a jury trial submitted on his behalf by attorney James Schoenhut was not effective.

Child abuse program to grow

BOISE (AP) — The administrator of the Department of Health and Welfare's Division of Field Operations says his top priority for funding in fiscal 1987 will be additional staff to handle the growing problem of child abuse in Idaho.

The department opened two days of preliminary budget hearings in Boise on Thursday to gather information on programs, needs and plans for the spending year beginning July 1, 1986. Formal budget requests are due in early September to the Executive and Legislative budget offices.

Dave Humphrey said Idaho's child-protection law requires that his office investigate all complaints of child abuse and follow-up on those found to be valid. But he said the job is being made tougher with a drop in the number of caseworkers and a dramatic rise in complaints over the past five years.

Hospitals' scanner ruling due

BOISE (AP) — A state agency is expected to decide next week whether two Boise hospitals qualify for partial reimbursement for proposed magnetic resonance scanners.

Rose Bowman, director of the Department of Health and Welfare, will decide whether St. Luke's and St. Alphonsus regional medical centers qualify for the federal aid, said Les Cohen, supervisor of the state Health Facility Development program.

Plant pays air pollution fine

KOOTENAI (AP) — A Northern Idaho wood pellet plant has paid an $1,800 penalty for violating air pollution regulations, the Department of Health and Welfare reported.

The agency said Lognetics of Idaho Inc. violated a consent order issued by the Board of Health and Welfare last September. The order carried a stipulated penalty of $300 per day for violations. Officials said a test at the smokestack last year showed three times the allowable air pollution.

'Hopper war won, says Evans

BOISE (AP) — With Idaho's aerial assault on marauding grasshoppers moving into its final week, Gov. John Evans Thursday declared victory in the war on the pests, crediting Air Force Reserve reinforcements with spelling the difference.

Damage was still estimated in excess of last year's $13 million. Agriculture Director Dick Rich said the destruction from the invasion, coupled with drought that has started to plague some parts of the state, will take its toll on the most financially-pressed producers in the state's slowly dwindling farm population.

With a shortage of civilian crop dusters to keep up with the advancing hordes of grasshoppers in mid-June, Evans said the state was losing the fight to protect vital range and farm lands. But with the arrival of three C-123 military planes from the military's special spraying unit at Rickenbacker Air Force Base in Ohio, "We were able to win the war."

"If it hadn't been for the help, Idaho would have suffered much more severely," the governor said during a briefing on the status of the spraying program. "As a result of this effort, we probably will not have the infestation next year that we were predicting we'd have."

Spray planes continued their daily sorties over southern Idaho range, covering another 35,000 acres to bring to over 5.8 million acres the amount of land treated since the program began June 5. The Air Force planes have completed their assignment, treating 735,000 acres.

"We're over the most of it," said Andy Adams, assistant director for USDA plant protection and quarantine services in the West.

Forest fire suspect held

By The Associated Press

A transient was in federal custody Thursday, facing charges of starting a raging wildfire in Idaho's Salmon River Breaks country as some 550 firefighters battled fatigue and rugged terrain to contain the blaze that has destroyed 1,000 acres of timber in the Nez Perce National Forest.

Fire crews expected to complete the final two miles of the fire line around that fire by late Thursday or early today.

Another 1,650 firefighters also started to regain the upper hand on a major fire about 25 miles south as it began moving slowly into the high country still green and moist from winter snowmelt after destroying more than 8,600 acres in the Savage Creek area along the South Fork of the Salmon River.

"They're holding the fire line," Payette National Forest spokeswoman Sandy Hardin said. "That one we may win soon."

But to the west in the French Creek drainage of the main Salmon River, another four fire crews were dispatched to reinforce some 100 firefighters trying to build a line around a lightning-caused fire that was whipped by the wind from a mere quarter acre to more than 450 acres in just 48 hours.

Fire Boss Gordon Reinhardt was still waiting for another 18 crews to help fight the flames that have threatened at least one ranch house and acres of prime commercial timber.

Jeffrey Clark Bowling, 25, an Inlander, was being held in Boise in connection with charges that his unintended campfire in the Mackey Bar area ignited the Salmon River Breaks fire in the Frank Church-River of No-Return Wilderness early this week. U.S. Magistrate Mike Williams has ordered a psychiatric evaluation for Bowling and scheduled a detention hearing for next Monday. Bowling faces a $500 fine and 60 days in jail.

"The runs that the fire's making now are less as it's getting into higher elevation areas," spokesman David Olson said.

Sun Valley's artistic pot of gold

Neon rainbow, music, wine color festival

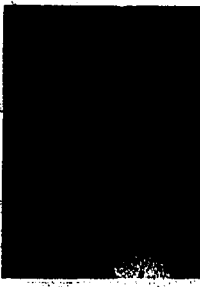

By TERRY RICH HARTLEY
Times-News correspondent

SUN VALLEY — Once again stealing center stage for both the performing and visual arts in Idaho, Sun Valley will be the site July 25, 26 and 27 of literally top-of-the-mountain entertainment. Featured in the annual fundraiser for the Sun Valley Center for the Arts and Humanities will be Otto Plene's 600-foot, five-color neon rainbow which will brighten the sky over Dollar Mountain as the Utah Symphony winds up its July 26 performance with Tchaikovsky's "1812 Overture."

to give locals the opportunity to join vintners, restaurateurs, wine writers, bidders and fellow oenophiles at what is billed as the largest wine gathering in the Rocky Mountain region. The neon rainbow, a combination of art and technology, is called one of the most spectacular and noteworthy environmental art pieces in the U.S. in 1983. The German-born director of the Center for Advanced Visual Studies at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Plene is considered one of America's leading environmental artists. He has produced five single-color rainbows; his first being displayed at the opening ceremonies of the 1972 Summer Olympic Games at Munich, West Germany. The Sun Valley Neon Rainbow is Plene's most ambitious rainbow project to date and will have three colors in five bands of light. "It's a very enterprising work of art... an event," Plene says, pointing out that it will be a combination of five helium-filled, polyurethane tubes that will have its ends anchored to form a rainbow shape on Dollar Mountain. The lighter-than-air tubes will be filled with neon light gases to create blue, yellow and red colors of the rainbow. According to Greer Markle, director of the Sun Valley Center, Plene considers the sky as one of the least explored elements of artistic expression. "His art is based on the idea that artists' excellence should be apparent in the environment rather than just on the walls of museums and galleries," Markle says. "The director adds, 'His work reflects the art of celebration; of public pageantry where art and environment combine to produce a sense of intellectual and emotional well-being in the viewer. He produces work on a monumental scale combining elements of art with technology. His work is accessible to the public, and designed to break the barrier between the imaginary and real by bringing the extraordinary phenomena into the domain of everyday life. Hence, the Sun Valley Rainbow." According to Plene, the rainbow — both natural and man-made — is symbolic. It represents peace and reconciliation after the upheaval and chaos of a thunderstorm. Yet, while rainbows have a strong visual impact while they exist, they slowly fade away leaving no trace. According to Markle, perhaps the most important element of the project is the integration of art forms. The Utah Symphony will set the stage for the rainbow with an outdoor concert on the grounds of the Sun Valley Lodge while the Sun Valley Company will prepare a special pre-concert buffet. During the first half of the concert the symphony is slated to perform major selections from their repertoire, but the second half will be designed to complement the premiere of the Rainbow. That is when they will perform the "1812 Overture" — complete with cannons and fireworks combined with the illumination of the Rainbow at the finale. Those Magic Valley residents fortunate enough to have viewed the Utah Symphony during any of its five visits to the Jerome High School Auditorium know it for its undeniably professional structure. Ranking third in the U.S. in the total number of performances given by a major orchestra, the symphony presents more than 260 concerts each season and has gained worldwide prestige by appearing across the globe.

music director of the American Opera Workshop in Vienna in 1965. In 1970, he joined the Gulbenkian Orchestra of Portugal as associate conductor, leading concert tours of Spain and Africa. He returned to the U.S. in 1974 to assume the position of resident conductor of the San Diego Symphony. At that time, he was among the first to be chosen for the prestigious Exxon Arts Endowment Conductors Program. In 1979, Ketchum was named principal guest conductor of Utah's Ballet West. He has been engaged to return as guest conductor of the Utah Opera following his 1983 debut in "Die Fledermaus." In February, 1983, Ketchum conducted the Utah Symphony in the world-premiere performance of Richard Adler's "Wilderness Suite," which was subsequently recorded by the symphony under Ketchum's direction on RCA's Red Label. The group will perform selections from Wagner's "Die Walkure," Copland and Tchaikovsky. Its performance begins at 8 p.m., July 26 on the Ice Rink patio at the Sun Valley Lodge after the buffet dinner. It will conclude at approximately 9:30 p.m. when the rainbow flares into existence. According to Markle, "The entire event will combine the elements of the visual arts and music to a spectacle which will delight the senses." He points out that the wine auction on Saturday afternoon will be the West's largest wine auction outside California's Napa Valley, and refers to Plene's art as a transmitter of energy that challenges the intellect, and stimulates the emotions. "It leaves one refreshed and revitalized," he says, adding, "All of these components add up to a celebration of the arts and environment, and one of Sun Valley's most spectacular events of the year."

Since its first concert on May 8, 1940, the Utah Symphony has grown from an obscure ensemble of 30 local musicians to one of the country's major symphony orchestras with 85 musicians.

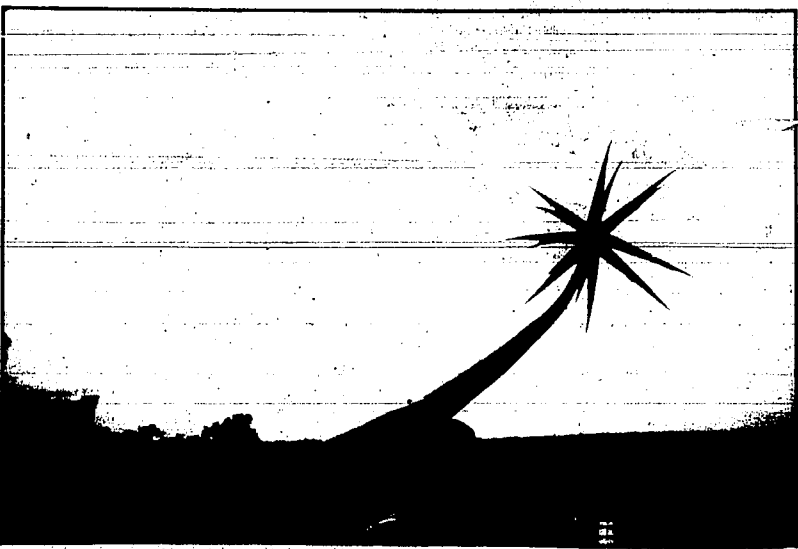

Recently, the symphony came under its fifth conductor, Joseph Silverstein, an internationally acclaimed violinist who has served as assistant conductor of the Boston Symphony since 1971.

Associate Conductor Charles Ketchum will be leading the Sun Valley performance. Ketchum has conducted some of the major orchestras in the U.S., including those of Pittsburgh, Dallas, St. Louis, Indianapolis, Denver and Portland. He joined the Utah Symphony in 1982 after serving as resident conductor of the San Diego Symphony.

Early on, a Fulbright Fellowship enabled Ketchum to study in Vienna. Later, after conducting orchestras in Italy, France, Spain, Holland and Austria, he assumed the post of

Good eats, fun abound Sunday in Gooding

GOODING — This Sunday, Gooding's West Park will be alive with the aroma of hot bread, char-broiled lamb and beef, red beans, rice, beer and wine when the Gooding Basque Association again shows the Magic Valley how to have a good time. According to association secretary Mary Ybarguan, festivities will begin with an 11 a.m. Mass, then go right into bread judging, a bread auction, and a sumptuous feast scheduled for 1 p.m. After dinner, the Salt Lake Dancers, accompanied by accordionist Jean Fleisher, will perform inspirational native dances. They will be followed by Gooding area dancers before the more muscular competition begins. That's when the afternoon's activities will move across the canal where swarthy men will compete in weightlifting. Then comes the real crowd-pleaser, weight carrying. With 104 pounds of metal in each hand, competitors will stride back and forth down a 100 foot course in what appears to be a masochistic attempt at arm stretching. Actually, the idea is to see who can walk the furthest under that great stress. Last year's champ was Joe Amuchastegui of Boise with a carry-off of 694 feet followed close behind by R. Legartia, also of Boise, with 690 feet.

Next, follows sheep hooking, a sheep auction, tug-of-war with eight people on a side and another performance by the Salt Lake Dancers about 5:30 p.m., depending on when the games actually wind up, says Ybarguan, adding that children's games including a sack race will also be held during the afternoon. Ybarguan says the evening will end with about two hours of public dancing. She notes that wine and soft drinks will be free. Beer will be free to those who purchase a meal ticket or give a $3 donation to the association. Meal tickets are $6 adults, $3 children six to 12, and free to children under six. Chorizo will be served all afternoon for $1.25 apiece.

Variety highlights Art in Park

Art in the Park marks its 20th season from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. this Saturday and Sunday in historic Twin Falls City Park.

Artists from Idaho, Oregon and Washington will show a spectrum of art forms, and appreciators will be able to sip and munch their way along the tree-shaded displays, thanks to several food booths.

Northwest artists are ready to invade City Park

By TERRY RICH HARTLEY
Times-News correspondent

TWIN FALLS — This weekend, City Park will again be alive with artists and craftsmen exhibiting the fruits of their labor during the 26th annual Art in the Park sponsored by the Art Guild of Magic Valley.

During last year's silver anniversary exhibit, Mother Nature, in one of her raunchier moods, opened the clouds over the park and did her level best to keep patrons away. But, according to publicity chairman Beverly Ziegler, "Things are looking good for this year," then adds, "I'm holding my breath."

Yet, Ziegler points out that no matter what happens with the weather, there's plenty of reason for patrons to show up. She notes that artisans from Oregon, Washington and all parts of Idaho are slated for the event.

Among the Magic Valley regulars at the exhibit will be sculptor Gus Flowers of Jerome and Kimberly's woodcut artist Gary Stone, she says, adding that at least two new exhibitors will be present. They are sculptor Dan Edwards and watercolorist Lucille Robinson.

Also, there will be five art pieces donated for a drawing to raise funds for the guild. The guild, she points out, wants to raise the funds for a building and for the purpose of increasing the amount of its scholarship which is given annually to a College of Southern Idaho art student.

According to Ziegler, donations are a wildlife print by Blaine Billman, a painting by Diane VanDiac, a watercolor painting by Charlotte Kilfoyle, a print by Gary Stone and a pottery piece by LaVar Steel. Ziegler will add to the cache with a handwoven pillow of her own design.

She notes that all the donated pieces have been on display for preview at the new location of Larsen's Frames and the gallery, 242 Main Avenue North, for the past two days and will remain on display throughout today.

Ziegler also points out that food and drink booths will be in the park and that the show will run from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. both Saturday and Sunday.

Live Aid banners apparently stolen

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Three large-silk banners autographed by Live Aid performers as they left the stage at John F. Kennedy Stadium are missing and apparently were stolen after Saturday's concert, officials said.

The banners, bearing the Live Aid logo, were to have been auctioned off to raise money for African famine relief, said Jill Hittner, spokeswoman for Electric Factory.

ABC is aided little by 'Live Aid' rating

By FRED ROTHEBERG
The Associated Press

NEW YORK — "Live Aid — An All-Star Concert for Hunger Relief" was right in the middle of the ratings last week, but the rock 'n' roll concert fared better than ABC's other live event, the USFL championship game and its weekly major league baseball game.

Figures released Tuesday by the A.C. Nielsen Co. showed that the "global jubilee" to aid African famine victims had an 11.6 rating and ranked out of 64 shows for the week of July 8-14. ABC's highest-rated 40 million viewers watched part of the all-day concert's three-hour finale Saturday night on ABC.

With prime-time programming for three nights devoted to sports and rock 'n' roll, ABC finished third again. NBC was the ratings for the eighth consecutive week with "The Cosby Show" and "Stingray," a pilot for a series that isn't on NBC's fall schedule, tying for first.

For the week, NBC averaged a 13.4 rating to CBS' 11.5 and ABC's 9.5.

A rating means the percentage, on average, of the nation's 84.9 million TV homes tuned to a particular network for a given minute of prime time.

Bob Igel, senior vice president for the New York advertising agency, said that "Live Aid" did as well as could be expected for a Saturday night program during the middle of the summer. "I wasn't surprised by the ratings," he said. "I think people tuned in and out of it."

Igel suggested that the live concert would have done even better on ABC if it had been an exclusive property, but cable TV's all-music channel, MTV, broadcast the entire extravaganza and a syndicated network showed parts of it throughout the day.

Generally, rock 'n' roll and sports don't draw a broad enough audience to get big ratings in prime time. Except for major events, such as post-season baseball, the All-Star Game and key National Football League matchups, sports broadcasts do not attract enough women viewers to be large-scale hits.

And that was the case with the United States Football League's championship game and ABC's "Monday Night Baseball" fixture last week.

The Baltimore Stars' 28-24 victory over the Oakland Invaders had a 7.6 rating, ranking 58th and helping the competing "Stingray" to a strong 19.3 rating and CBS' "Murder, She Wrote" to the No. 3 spot with a 17.7 rating.

Last season, the USFL title game received a 9.7 rating. It had a 11.9 in its first championship game in 1983. By way of perspective, last January's National Football League's Super Bowl game, also on ABC, had a 46.4 rating.

The 1985 USFL finale ostensibly ends ABC's relationship with the upstart league. The network has said it is not interested in the USFL when it moves from spring to fall football in 1986.

The entertainment competition against ABC's baseball also fared well. CBS' "Newhart" ranked seventh for the week and CBS' "Cagney & Lacey" led for eighth, while a repeat of NBC's TV movie "Born Beautiful" was 10th.

The rest of the Top Ten were Thursday-night programs, with NBC's comedies "Family Ties," fourth, "Cheers," fifth, "Night Court," eighth, and ABC's "20/20," sixth. Also, "60-90," ABC's next highest-ranking show, was a 30th-place tie between "Live Aid" and a "Webster" repeat.

The bottom five shows, in descending order, were CBS' "Rockhop," 94th, CBS' "The Jeffersons," ABC's theatrical movie, "The Competition," ABC's "Ripley's Believe It or Not," and NBC's "Diff'rent Strokes."

Twin Falls artist exhibits works

TWIN FALLS — Currently on display at Larsen's Frames and Gallery at 242 Main Avenue North are paintings by Twin Falls artist Warren Gossett. The exhibit is in place as a continuing artist of the Month series and will be displayed throughout July.

According to Gossett, he has always had an interest in art, but even though he studied it at the College of Southern Idaho and Idaho State University, he never was committed to it until moving to Louisiana, where he was exposed to the larger art fields of that state and Texas, before returning to Twin Falls in 1963.

"While in Louisiana, I began to paint more in earnest, inspired by the countryside near my home, especially the abundance of woodlands as well as swampy scenes. Landscapes occupy most of my interest in painting, and I found a wealth of paintings near my home."

Gossett points out that, more importantly, he began to develop a style of painting with which he has become comfortable. "The real pleasure in art is finding your style and attempting to mold it into its most refined state," he says. Though Gossett has done well in art shows at Masur Art Museum in Monroe, La., and the Louisiana Art Folk Festival, he believes the real test of an artist and his public acceptance comes in the galleries.

'Beachcombing Canadians,' by Warren Gossett

L'Amour spins 'Sackett' saga

By CAROL DEEGAN
The Associated Press

JUBAL SACKETT. By Louis L'Amour. Bantam Books. 375 Pages. $18.95.

In 1960, author Louis L'Amour set out to create a family of characters named Sackett; a family that would help settle the North American continent from the years 1800 to 1800. His novel, "The Daybreakers," marked the debut of the Sackett family. Now, 25 years later, L'Amour has written "Jubal Sackett," the 18th, according to his publisher, the longest Sackett historical saga to date.

Jubal Sackett is a son of Barnabas Sackett, who left England in 1599 to explore the New World. Jubal is young, brave, strong and clever, all the things that surround his Tennessee mountain home. Jubal is driven by a desire to go where few white men have gone, leaving behind his family and home. Luckily, he makes a friend along the way, a Kickapoo Indian named Keokokah. He also makes a few enemies, too, but Sackett is not afraid to fight. He also searches for — and finds — his future another. He survives a broken leg, a fight with a panther, and an attack by a pack of wolves.

When he's being threatened by hostile Indians, he's being threatened by hostile white men. He is quick with his weapons. Yet, he is known as the "Quiet One," a Sackett who wants to live in peace among his family and friends.

L'Amour, the author of 91 books, writes in a style that has won him countless fans.

Stonington Gallery adds 2 new locations

SUN VALLEY — If art is suffering in Idaho, one wouldn't know it by the rapid growth of the Stonington Gallery, which has recently added to its Sun Valley location and opened two new local galleries, one in the Elkhorn Mall, another at the corner of Main and Sun Valley road in Ketchum.

The galleries feature the work of Nancy Taylor Stonington, a nationally collected watercolorist and fiber-mural-artist. Other local artists shown include photographer Carol Monteverde, batik and serigraph artist Jennifer Bellinger and metal sculptor Rod Kagan.

Kagan's Touring Rod's "sculpture garden" north of Ketchum offers viewers the unusual experience of strolling through a garden of large metal sculptures in a mountain setting.

Stonington Galleries is also carrying the work of local potter Barbara Alderman, which includes porcelain pieces for everyday use. In addition, jeweler Mike Tomsett and Alaskan artist Rie Munoz display in the galleries.

All three galleries are open for the summer.

Baseball negotiations remain in stalemate

NEW YORK (AP) — Negotiators for the Major League Baseball Players' Association and baseball owners met for three hours Thursday, reported little if any progress, and they recessed their talks until Monday.

The meeting was the first since the players set an Aug. 5 strike date, saying they would shut down the sport if no collective bargaining agreement is reached by that date.

Don Fehr, acting executive director of the union, said the talks presented no new ideas.

"We had hoped to begin a discussion of the basic issues, salary structure and the benefit plan," he said.

"We had a brief discussion but there is still no offer on the benefit plan. We reviewed a lot of other issues, not fundamental issues, but important ones."

Les MacPhail, president of management's Player Relations Committee, said the negotiators had dealt with 25 issues that had been placed on the table by one side or the other.

"It's hard to measure progress," MacPhail said. "We didn't reach final agreement. We've got to do a lot of work in a lot of areas."

The basic issue in the dispute between the two sides deals with baseball's television revenue and the share given to the players for their pension and benefit plan. Traditionally, the players' association has received one-third of that package — about $15 million this year. However, baseball's new TV package jumped from $250 million to $1.1 billion last year, and the owners have balked at maintaining the one-third percentage for the players, which would produce payments of about $60 million.

"We have not made a specific offer on television money," MacPhail said. "It depends on how the whole financial issue will be handled. The economic state of baseball is the most important issue to be considered."

Management has claimed to have lost $43 million in 1984, a figure disputed by an accounting professor hired by the owners, who saw the losses at closer to $27 million.

The players claim, after an examination of the books, that baseball actually made about $10 million last year.

At Thursday's bargaining session, the union presented a report from Roger G. Noll, a Stanford University economics professor, entitled "The Economic Viability of Professional Baseball."

Fehr said that it made more sense to use an economist rather than an accountant, to study the economic issues.

"This is something economists do, not something accountants do," he said. "Trend lines must be studied. They (owners) say salaries are going up by 15 percent and that means large losses, but the market conditions have changed and it will rectify itself. That was the end of the discussion."

Countered MacPhail, "That's very nice to say, but he's basing it on his own hopes and beliefs. We have hard figures to show what our losses are."

Fehr said that despite the new television package, players had not received any more money for the 1985

All-Star Game than the $2 million-plus generated under guidelines contained in the old agreement, which expired last Dec. 31. "No single additional nickel has been offered."

The union boss said there had been no significant progress and, "yes, the clock is ticking."

MacPhail said that he was not concerned about going without any talks for the next three days.

"I don't think it'll be that difficult to put everything together once there is progress in the financial areas. What we have to do is get the clubs back to a break-even point. That will provide plenty of revenue for the players."

Falls-Falls run draws crowd

TWIN FALLS — With dew and sweat mixing, runners in the seventh annual Falls-to-Falls Run are set to begin their 5.3-mile trek through Twin Falls Park to Dierke's Lake at 8 a.m. Saturday.

Registration time for the event, sponsored by Donnelly Sports, Idaho First National Bank and KEEF radio, will be at 7 a.m.

Participants will trudge up the short but steep Twin Falls Park grade, proceed down Falls Avenue to the Shoshone Falls Park turnoff then continue through the roller-coaster run up to Dierke's Lake.

New format greets netters

TWIN FALLS — A new sponsor and a new division format mark this weekend's upcoming tennis showdown here.

For the first time, Total's Food/Young's Sawtooth Distributors will host this Twin Falls Tennis Association event, organizer Ryan Moody said Thursday.

In addition, the tournament will initiate the United States Tennis Association's format to classify participants. The USTA ratings of 4.0, 3.5 and 3.0 generally correspond with A, B and C divisions, respectively.

Moody said the tournament is not USTA-sanctioned. "Moody said, 'We just wanted to be in tune' with the national association and help make the format 'universal.'"

The effort, he added, is similar to creating a handicap system like that used by the United States Golf Association.

While entries still "trickled in" Thursday, Moody said, turnout "looks pretty good" with about 70 signed up for the event that is tentatively set to kick off Saturday at 8 a.m. "A lot of new players have called up — new faces," he pointed out.

Tournament headquarters will be anchored at Frontier Field, with additional play at Harmon Park and the Twin Falls High School courts.

Saturday matches are slated to wind down at 8:30 or 9 p.m., with the same schedule Sunday, considering possible rain delays.

Men's singles competition will feature 4.0, 3.5 and 3.0 groupings, with defending A champ Ron Renwick of Jerome also playing doubles this year. Women's singles, both doubles and mixed doubles will be limited to 4.0 and 3.5 players.

Jess Olavarria, who placed second in Renwick in A competition last year, will be the second seed in men's singles.

Carolyn Matsuko is the favorite in women's singles; last year's A champion, Laura Rice, isn't signed up for the event.

Todd Amundsen is congratulated by Jerome teammates after cracking a homer in his first at-bat Thursday night.

Jerome, Burley survive in Legion play

By BRAD BRELAND Times-News writer

BURLEY — Jerome and Burley kept their hopes alive Thursday night in the Southern Region American Legion B tournament.

The Bobcats eliminated Shoshone from the tournament with a 17-5 victory while Jerome ousted Valley 13-5. Earlier Thursday, Pocatello advanced to the winners bracket with a 14-3 win over Shoshone.

The winners will play Friday morning with Wood River playing Idaho Falls at 11 and Burley will meet Pocatello at 2 p.m. The losers of those two games will play Friday night against Jerome and Burley.

Burley blasted 13 hits in the game and James Frost and David Poppleton checked Shoshone on six hits.

After Burley took a 1-0 lead, Shoshone came back and scored three runs in the top of the second inning. The key blow in the inning came on Curt Sandy's two run triple.

Burley took the lead for good in the bottom of the inning capitalizing on three Shoshone errors to score four runs.

In the fourth inning, the Braves notched nine runs and were quick to take advantage of a pair of walks and numerous wild pitches. Jared Skaggs had a single with a run batted in that inning. Jeff Bray and Steve Rausch had singles.

Bray ended the game by scoring four runs for Burley. Poppleton and Rausch had three runs each. Besides his single, Rausch also had a two-run triple in the game.

Dean Satterfield was optimistic about his chance's in the tourney.

"If we hit like that tomorrow (Friday), we'll make it to Saturday."

But Jerome's luck wasn't much better with Pocatello as Shoshone committed six errors in the game.

Paul Murphy had the key hits for Pocatello with a single and a double, but most of Pocatello's hits came off Texas leaguers that kept Shoshone on the run for most of the afternoon.

After a loss on Wednesday, Jerome bounced back with an impressive performance against Valley.

Jerome took an early 8-0 lead and held off a late comeback by the Vikings.

Todd Amundson started things out for Jerome in the first inning by belting a two-run homer over the left field fence.

In the third inning, Jerome added three runs with Tracy Black and Torrey Sheets slapping doubles in the inning.

In the fourth, the Vikings struck back scoring five times on four hits.

Shane Orr had a run scoring single in the inning and Bill Hardy had a two-bagger that also brought in a run.

But Jerome brought in relief pitcher Tom Fleming to shut the Vikings down the rest of the way.

Jerome Coach Curt Batholomew was impressed with his combination of pitching Thursday with winning pitcher Sheets and Fleming.

"It's been three weeks since Fleming's been on the mound," he said. "We had someone waiting in the wings just in case."

Reds bidding for Bell

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds appeared close Thursday night to completing a trade for Texas Rangers third baseman Buddy Bell.

Reds player-manager Pete Rose called outfielder Duane Walker into his office after a 6-3 loss to the Philadelphia Phillies Thursday night and told him he had been traded to Texas for Bell.

At least one other Reds' player, a minor leaguer, is believed to be part of the deal.

However, Reds General Manager Bill Bergesch later said the deal hasn't been completed, and there would be no announcement until Friday.

"All the talk is probably a little premature," Bergesch said.

Rangers officials also said there would be no comment until Friday.

Walker started cleaning out his locker after talking to Rose.

"He just told me that I was going there and Buddy Bell is coming here," Walker said.

Rose declined comment on the trade until an official announcement is made.

Christy O'Connor punches home one of seven birdie putts

Sandwich, England (AP) — A bit of advice from "Himself" helped Christy O'Connor Jr. to a spectacular, record-breaking 64 and a four-stroke lead Thursday in the first round of the British Open Golf Championship.

"He's a hero in Ireland, a very brave player with nerves of steel," O'Connor said of his uncle, Christy O'Connor, a boisterous, caustic figure who reached the status of a legend during the 50s, 60s and 70s, and was known throughout the land simply as "Himself."

"He told me how to win the Open," said Christy Jr., a journeyman pro who has played his life in the shadow of his famous uncle, winner of scores of European tournaments and in 1965 the runner-up in the British Open.

"He said you must be brave enough to attack the course, brave enough to be positive and not negative, brave enough to play each hole and each shot one at a time."

"I kept that in mind," said the younger O'Connor, 36, a veteran of 15 years of unremarkable activity on the European circuit.

And it worked, worked so marvelously well this chilly day on the rain-swept links of the Royal St. George's Golf Club course.

"I just tried to make as many birdies as I could. I tried to keep going the way I was. I never played safe," said O'Connor, who had 10 birdies, four bogeys and only four pars.

Christy Jr. reeled off a British Open record of seven consecutive birdies, on the fourth through the 10th holes.

He broke, by one stroke, the course record set by Henry Cotton in 1934 and was rewarded by a "well done. Didn't you play all 18?" from the 78-year-old Cotton.

And he matched the largest first round lead ever established in this ancient event. The last to lead the first round of this tournament by four shots: Cotton in 1934.

"That's the best I can play," O'Connor said.

While O'Connor, whose last individual victory came in the 1975 Irish Open, was enjoying his finest hour, some of the game's more famous figures were taking a beating and scowling in damp, bedraggled misery through the knee-deep rough and over the wet dunes.

Jack Nicklaus, who counts three British Open crowns in his record collection of 17 major professional titles, hit a test for out of bounds on the 14th and had to make a three-foot putt for double bogey. He finished with a 77.

Seve Ballesteros of Spain, the defending clubhouse and pre-tournament favorite, bogeyed five out of six holes during the worst of the rain and came in with a 75.

And Lee Trevino had it two under par after three holes, then took a double bogey on the fourth and came in with a 73.

Former U.S. Open and PGA champion David Graham, an Australian now living in the United States, led a group of five tied for second at 68.

Also at that figure were Sandy Lyle, Philip Parkin and Robert Lee, all of Britain, and Tony Johnstone of Zimbabwe.

The leading Americans were Fuzzy Zoeller and D.A. Weirburn, in a group at 69, one under par and five back.

Larry Nelson, Corey Pavin, Payne Stewart and Mark O'Meara, a two-time winner on the American tour this year, had 70s. Peter Jacobsen had a 71 despite a fat 9 on the 14th hole, where he suffered a lost ball and a tee shot out of bounds.

Tom Watson, a five-time winner of this title, pulled his first shot of the tournament into deep rough, opened with a double bogey and came home with a 72 that, he said, "isn't too far back."

Andy Bean also shot 72. So did Bernhard Langer of West Germany, the Masters champion.

Tom Kite, Ben Crenshaw and Larry Wadkins were with Trevino at 73 with the rest of the Americans spaced through the rest of the field.

O'Connor had three-putt bogeys on the first and third sandwiched around a 12-foot birdie putt on the second.

He started his string of seven birdies with a pair of 12-foot putts on the fourth and fifth. He dropped in a 25-foot on the sixth then hit a 3-iron second shot to the green on the par-5 seventh and two-putted for birdie-4.

A 20-footer on the eighth provided him with a fifth consecutive birdie.

"Until the eighth, I wasn't really aware what I was doing," he said.

He hit a 6-iron two feet from the cup on the ninth and birdied, reaching the turn without a par on his card.

A nikron set up a 10-foot birdie putt on the 10th, his seventh in a row.

He two-putted from about 40 feet for par on the 11th then birdied the 12th from 15 feet. A drive into the rough produced a bogey on the 13th and he bogeyed the 15th after missing the green with a 3-iron.

He dropped a 20-footer on the 17th to get back to six under for the day and made par on the last.

Baseball negotiations remain in stalemate

NEW YORK (AP) — Negotiators for the Major League Baseball Players' Association and baseball owners met for three hours Thursday, reported little if any progress, and then recessed their talks until Monday.

The meeting was the first since the players set an Aug. 6 strike date, saying they would shut down the sport if no collective bargaining agreement is reached by that date.

Don Fehr, acting executive director of the union, said the talks presented no new ideas.

"We had hoped to begin a discussion of the basic issues, salary structure and the benefit plan," he said.

"We had a brief discussion but there is still no offer on the benefit plan. We reviewed a lot of other issues, but fundamental issues, but important ones."

Lee MacPhall, president of management's Player Relations Committee, said the negotiators had dealt with 25 issues that had been placed on the table by one side or the other.

"It's hard to measure progress," MacPhall said. "We didn't reach final agreement. We've got to do a lot of work in a lot of areas."

The basic issue in the dispute between the two sides deals with baseball's television revenue and the share given to the players for their pension and benefit plan. Traditionally, the players' association has received one-third of that package — about $15 million this year. However, baseball's new TV package jumped from $250 million to $1.1 billion last year, and the owners have balked at maintaining the one-third percentage for the players, which would produce payments of about $60 million.

"We have not made a specific offer on television money," MacPhall said. "It depends on how the whole financial issue will be handled. The economic state of baseball is the most important issue to be considered."

Management has claimed to have lost $43 million in 1984, a figure disputed by an accounting professor hired by the owners, who saw the losses at closer to $27 million.

The players claim, after an examination of the books, that baseball actually made about $10 million last year.

At Thursday's bargaining session, the union presented a report from Roger G. Noll, a Stanford University economics professor, entitled "The Economic Viability of Professional Baseball."

Fehr said that it made more sense to use an economist rather than an accountant, to study the economic issues.

"This is something economists do, not something accountants do," he said. "Trend lines must be studied. They (owners) say salaries are going up by 15 percent and that means large losses—but—the market—conditions have changed and it will rectify itself. That was the end of the discussion."

Countered MacPhall, "That's very nice to say, but he's basing it on his own hopes and beliefs. We have hard figures to show what our losses are."

Fehr said that despite the new television package, players had not received any more money for the 1985

All-Star Game than the $2 million-plus generated under guidelines contained in the old agreement, which expired last Dec. 31. "Not a single additional nickel has been offered."

The union boss said there had been no significant progress and, "yes, the clock is ticking."

MacPhall said that he was not concerned about going without any talks for the next three days.

"I don't think it'll be that difficult to put everything together once there is progress in the financial areas. What we have to do is get the clubs back to a break-even point. That will provide plenty of revenue for the players."

Falls-Falls run draws crowd

TWIN FALLS — With dew and sweat mixing, runners in the seventh annual Falls-to-Falls Run are set to begin their 5.3-mile trek from Twin Falls Park to Dierke's Lake at 8 a.m. Saturday.

Registration time for the event, sponsored by Donnelly Sports, Idaho First National Bank and KEEF radio, will be at 7 a.m.

Participants will trudge up the short but steep Twin Falls Park grade, proceed down Falls Avenue to the Shoshone Falls Park turnoff then continue through the roller-coaster run up to Dierke's Lake. Chris Williams, a University of Idaho trackster, is the defending overall men's champion; he finished the course in 23 minutes, 4 seconds last year. Follow Vandal Robin Mein showed up second at 28:22.

Mary Lee Roberts captured the overall women's crown last summer. The former Olympic torch bearer covered the track in 37:39.

Age groups for the event will remain the same this year: 13 & under; 14-19; 20-24; 25-34; 35-44; 45-54; and 55 & over.

Each participant will receive a long sleeve t-shirt, along with awards for top finishers. Trans IV Bus Service will be available after the race to return runners to Twin Falls Park.

New format greets netters

TWIN FALLS — A new sponsor and a new division format mark this weekend's upcoming tennis showdown here.

For the first time, Tom's Food/Young's Sawtooth Distributors will host this Twin Falls Tennis Association event, organizer Ryan Moody said Thursday.

In addition, the tournament will initiate the United States Tennis Association's format to classify participants. The USTA ratings of 4.0, 3.5 and 3.0 generally correspond with A, B and C divisions, respectively.

Though the tournament is not USTA-sanctioned, Moody said, "We just wanted to be in tune" with the national association and help make the format "universal."

The effort, he added, is similar to creating a handicap system like that used by the United States Golf Association.

While entries still "trickled in" Thursday, Moody said turnout "looks pretty good" with about 70 signed up for the event that is tentatively set to kick off Saturday at 8 a.m. "A lot of new players have called up — new faces," he pointed out.

Tournament headquarters will be anchored at Frontier Field, with additional play at Harmon Park and the Twin Falls High School courts.

Saturday matches are slated to wind down at 8:30 or 9 p.m., with the same schedule Sunday, considering possible rain delays.

Men's singles competition will feature 4.0, 3.5 and 3.0 groupings, with defending A champ Ron Renwick of Jerome also playing doubles this year. Women's singles, both doubles and mixed doubles will be limited to 4.0 and 3.5 players.

Jess Olavarria, who placed second to Renwick in A competition last year, will be the second seed in men's singles.

Carolyn Matsukita is the favorite in women's singles; last year's A champion, Laura Rice, isn't signed up for the event.

Reds bidding for Bell

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds appeared close Thursday night to completing a trade for Texas Rangers third baseman Buddy Bell.

Reds player-manager Pete Rose called outfielder Duane Walker into his office after a 6-3 loss to the Philadelphia Phillies Thursday night and told him he had been traded to Texas for Bell.

At least one other Reds' player, a minor leaguer, is believed to be part of the deal.

However, Reds General Manager Bill Bergesch later said the deal hasn't been completed, and there would be no announcement until Friday.

"All the talk is probably a little premature," Bergesch said.

Rangers officials also said there would be no comment until Friday.

Walker started cleaning out his locker after talking to Rose.

"He just told me that I was going here and Buddy Bell is coming here," Walker said.

Rose declined comment on the trade until an official announcement is made.

Jerome, Burley survive in Legion play

By BRAD BRELAND Times-News writer

BURLEY — Jerome and Burley kept their hopes alive Thursday night in the Southern Region American Legion 8 tournament.

The Bobcats eliminated Shoshone from the tournament with a 17-3 victory while Jerome ousted Valley 13-5. Earlier Thursday, Pocatello advanced to the winners bracket with a 14-3 win over Shoshone.

The winners will play Friday morning with Wood-River playing Idaho Falls at 11 a.m. and Buhl will meet Pocatello at 2 p.m. The losers of those two games will play Friday night against Jerome and Burley.

Burley blasted 13 hits in the game and James Frost and David Pappeler checked Shoshone on six hits.

After Burley took a 1-0 lead, Shoshone came back and scored three runs in the top of the second inning. The key blow in the inning came on Curt Sandy's two run triple.

Burley took the lead for good in the bottom of the inning capitalizing on three Shoshone errors to score four runs.

In the fourth inning, the Braves notched nine runs and were quick to take advantage of a pair of walks and numerous wild pitches. Jared Skaggs had a single with a run batted in that inning. Jeff Bray and Steve Rausch had singles.

Bray ended the game by scoring four runs for Burley. Pappeler and Rausch had three runs each. Besides his single, Rausch also had a two-run triple in the game.

Dean Satterfield was optimistic about his chance's in the tourney.

"If we hit like that tomorrow (Friday), we'll make it to Saturday."

But Jerome luck wasn't much better with Pocatello as Shoshone committed six errors in the game.

Paul Murphy had the key hits for Pocatello with a single and a double, but most of Pocatello's hits came off Texas leaguers that kept Shoshone on the run for most of the afternoon.

After a loss on Wednesday, Jerome bounced back with an impressive performance against Valley.

Jerome took an early 8-0 lead and held off a late comeback by the Vikings.

Todd Amundsen started things out for Jerome in the first inning by belting a two-run homer over the left field fence.

In the third inning, Jerome added three runs with Tracy Black and Torrey Sheets slapping doubles in the inning.

In the fourth, the Vikings struck back scoring five times on four hits.

Shane Orr had a run scoring single in the inning and Bill Hardy had a two bagger that also brought in a run.

But Jerome brought in relief pitcher Tom Fleming to shut the Vikings down the rest of the way.

Jerome Coach Curt Batholomew was impressed with his combination of pitching Thursday with winning pitcher Sheets and Fleming.

"It's been three weeks since Fleming's been on the mound," he said. "We had someone waiting in the wings just in case."

Obscure Irishman starts British Open off on record pace

Christy O'Connor punches home one of seven birdie putts

Sandwich, England (AP) — A bit of advice from "Himself" helped Christy O'Connor Jr. to a spectacular, record-breaking 64 and a four-stroke lead Thursday in the first round of the British Open Golf Championship.

"He's a hero in Ireland, a very brave player with nerves of steel," O'Connor said of his uncle, Christy O'Connor, a boisterous, carousing figure who reached the status of a legend during the 50s, 60s and 70s, and was known throughout the land simply as "Himself."

He dropped a 20-footer on the 17th to get back to six under for the day and made par on the last.

Hrbek's grand slam sends Minnesota past Yankees 8-4

By The Associated Press

Kent Hrbek hit a seventh-inning tie-breaking grand slam and Frank Euflemia pitched three shutout innings in relief as the Minnesota Twins beat the New York Yankees 8-4 Thursday and snapped the Yankees' six-game winning streak.

With the game tied at 4-4 entering the seventh, Kirby Puckett singled and stole second, and losing pitcher Rich Bordi, 2-2, walked Roy Smalley. Dave Meler advanced the runners with a sacrifice bunt.

When Tom Brunansky was walked intentionally to load the bases for Hrbek, who hit reliever Brian Fisher's first pitch of the game over the left-field wall for his 10th homer of the season and third career grand slam.

American

Red Sox 10, Angels 1

Jim Rice and Bill Buckner powered an eight-run first inning with two hits and two RBI apiece as the Boston Red Sox rolled to a 10-1 victory over the California Angels.

Rice and Buckner topped Boston's 15-hit attack with three singles. Wade Boggs extended his hitting streak to 21 games, tops in the American League this year, with a fifth-inning single.

Orioles 8, Royals 3

Cal Ripken, Mike Young and Wayne Claitor homered and Ed Eversole rapped a two-run double as the Baltimore Orioles defeated the Kansas City Royals 8-3.

Ripken, 12-for-28 in his last seven games, singled prior to Murray's double in the first inning and hit his 16th homer to give Baltimore a 4-1 lead in the fifth, giving him 21 RBI in 24 games.

Chisox 10, Indians 0

Britt Burns beat Cleveland for the fourth time this season and extended his scoreless string against the Indians to 32 innings with a five-hitter as the Chicago White Sox rolled to a 10-0 victory.

The White Sox scored six runs on seven hits in the first inning, knocking out Vern Riffe, 2-5, who failed to retire any of the seven hitters he faced, allowing six singles and a walk.

A's 6, Blue Jays 4

Alfredo Griffin's tie-breaking triple highlighted Oakland's three-run ninth inning and sent the A's to a 6-4 victory over Toronto, handing the Blue Jays their fourth straight loss.

With the A's trailing 4-3, Mike Davis led off the ninth with a single off reliever Gary Lavelle, 4-4, the losing pitcher in Toronto's last three games.

Mike Heath then laid down a sacrifice bunt and catcher Ernie Whit's throw to second ricocheted into right field, sending Davis to third.

Davis scored the tying run on pinch-hitter Steve Henderson's infield out and Griffin followed with his triple off the right-field wall to send home Heath. Griffin scored on Dwayne Murphy's safety squeeze bunt.

Rangers 3, Tigers 3

Run-scoring singles by pinch-hitter Buddy Bell and George Wright keyed a Texas rally with two out in the seventh inning as the Rangers beat the Detroit Tigers 3-2, snapping their four-game losing streak.

With the Tigers ahead 2-1 and two outs in the seventh, Gary Ward walked and was safe when second baseman Lou Whitaker dropped the throw on a steal attempt.

Bill Stein was given an intentional walk by Frank Tanana, 5-4, and Bell was summoned to pinch hit for Ozzie McDowell. Willie Hernandez relieved Tanana and Bell drove in Ward with the tying run. Wright scored Stein with the go-ahead run.

Seattle 5, Brewers 2

Jim Presley hit two home runs, Bob Kearney hit one and Mike Moore scattered seven hits, lifting the Seattle Mariners to a 5-2 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers.

Presley opened the scoring with a bases-empty homer in the first, then completed it with his 20th homer of the season, again with the bases clear, in the ninth.

Mets' 5th inning beats Braves

By The Associated Press

Darryl Strawberry keyed New York's five-run fifth inning with a two-run single and the Mets went on to notch their fourth straight victory, a 7-6 decision over the stumbling Atlanta Braves.

Ron Darling, 10-2, got credit for the victory with five innings of pitching. Reliever Roger McDowell allowed Bob Horner's two-run homer in the ninth before Jesse Orosco got the last two outs for his ninth save.

Rick Mahler, 13-8, was the loser, but he was victimized by four Braves errors that led to six unearned runs.

Giants 1, Cubs 0

Jeff Leonard's one-out double in the bottom of the ninth scored Chilli Davis from first base and gave the San Francisco Giants a 1-0 victory over the Chicago Cubs behind Mike Krukow's seven-hit pitching.

Leonard's hit came off Chicago reliever Lee Smith, who entered the

National

Padres 3, Pirates 2

Carmelo Martinez belted a two-out home run in the bottom of the eighth inning to give the San Diego Padres a 3-2 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Martinez's 12th homer of the year came off John Candelaria, 2-4, who relieved starter Rick Reuschel after seven innings. Winner Craig Levings, 5-4, worked two innings in relief of Dave Dravecky with Rich Gossage pitching the ninth for his 19th save.

Expos 3, Astros 0

Joe Hesketh allowed seven hits in 8 2/3 innings for his first victory in nearly two months as the Montreal Expos blanked the Houston Astros 3-0.

Hesketh, 6-4, took a five-hit shutout into the ninth but he gave up two singles in the inning and was relieved by Jeff Reardon, who got the last out for his 23rd save.

Joe Mauer, 7-8, worked seven innings, giving up just three hits, but three fielding miscues by catcher Alan Ashby helped Montreal score all of its runs.

Phils 6, Reds 3

Samuel Lugo had three hits and knocked in two runs as the Philadelphia Phillies snapped a five-game losing streak with a 6-3 victory over slump-ridden Mario Soto and the Cincinnati Reds.

Soto, 8-11, has lost his last eight decisions, the longest losing streak of his career. The right-hander hasn't won a game since June 4.

Samuel tripled in a run in the second inning, singled home another in the eighth and also had a double for the Phillies, who also got a solo homer from Mike Schmidt and a two-run double from Glenn Wilson.

Falls Brand-Coors whips Harvey's

TWIN FALLS — Falls Brand/Coors continued to dominate the A division of the women's slowpitch league Thursday night.

The league-leaders polished off Harvey's 30-0.

In other action, the Pocket trimmed Baumer's Vending 16-7, Cam-Lindie slipped past Burger Stop 5-1, Superior Chain handed Arctic Circle/Sherwood's 17-4, Norm's Cafe outlasted Mountain View/Payless 14-10 and Die's Pharmacy doubled up on Argo 21-10.

In men's A play, Country Inn turned back Cook's Pest Control 126 while Big O Tire bumped DGA motors 15-9. Ground Round took a B-league win from White Satin 15-9 and Video West/Rap lapped the Merchants 9-4.

In C action, Idaho Coin Gallery thumped Wilson-Bates 17-0 and Commercial Tire needed eight innings to get past Beatrice Cheese 9-8.

Reds report $700,000 profit

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds made $700,000 after taxes last year, according to a report of the finances of major-league teams prepared for the Major League Baseball Players Association.

The report, prepared from information provided by the Reds and 23 of the other 25 teams, concludes that the Reds, while not big money-makers, are not in financial danger.

John J. McLaughlin says the Reds' revenue in 1984 was $20 million, below the major-league average, and that the franchise incurred an operating loss of $2.66 million. Of that loss, $1.8 million was due to amortization of the original cost of players' contracts and $400,000 was paid to former General Manager Dick Wagner in a contract settlement, the report says. The Reds fired Wagner in 1983.

Palmer undergoes surgery

LATROBE, Pa. (AP) — Golf legend Arnold Palmer has suspended practice for a few days but was said Thursday to be "up about and feeling fine" after minor surgery to remove a small growth on his side.

Palmer, 55, had the surgery at Latrobe Area Hospital Wednesday morning and was released later in the afternoon, said Palmer's spokesman, Donald W. Giffin.

Giffin said doctors removed a benign, fatty tumor just under the skin on the right side of his waist.

Neuheisel leaves Gunslingers

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — San Antonio Gunslingers quarterback Rick Neuheisel isn't returning for another season with the United States Football League franchise, team officials said.

General Manager Roger Gill said Wednesday the Gunslingers were releasing Neuheisel. However, Neuheisel said several months ago he did not plan to stay with the team after the just-completed season.

"He felt he wanted a shot at the NFL," Gill said. "Nothing against Rick. We didn't want to hold him back."

Top draft pick misses camp

CARLISLE, Pa. (AP) — The Washington Redskins opened their summer training camp Thursday, welcoming 67 players but without their top draft choice, cornerback Tony Nixon.

Nixon was drafted by the Redskins in a contract, a second-round draft choice, Nixon was the 33rd player chosen over-state in the National Football League's collegiate draft.

The Redskins confirmed Thursday they have come to terms with fifth-round draft choice Raphael Cherry. Cherry was a quarterback at the University of Hawaii, but the Redskins will test Cherry at defensive back.

Charger linebacker arrested

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Linebacker Mike Green's playing future with the San Diego Chargers was in doubt Thursday following the player's arrest for investigation of cocaine possession.

Green, a defensive standout who led the Chargers in tackles in each of the last two seasons, spent 8 1/2 hours in jail before he posted $2,000 bail and was released early Thursday, said a jail spokeswoman who declined to give her name.

Rams send Ferragamo to Bills

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Quarterback Vince Ferragamo, who holds the number one Los Angeles Rams' passing records, has been traded to the Buffalo Bills in exchange for tight end Tony Hunter, the Rams said Thursday.

Ferragamo, 31, became expendable during the off-season when the Rams signed Dieter Brock, who formerly played in the Canadian Football League.

Hunter, 25, is a former Notre Dame All-American who was the 12th player taken in the National Football League draft after his senior year. He is 6-foot-4, 227-pound and had 69 receptions in two years with the Bills.

Volunteers may get bonuses

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A measure to legalize about $2 million in bonuses paid to 3,500 volunteer workers in last summer's Olympic Games in Los Angeles has cleared its first hurdle in the state Legislature.

Officials of the Los Angeles Olympic Organizing Committee decided to pay the $750 bonuses to each of the volunteers after organizers ended the Games with an unexpected profit of $150 million.

However, lawyers of the state attorney general's office challenged the payments, saying they were improper for a non-profit organization.

Budd confesses she can't beat Slaney

LONDON (AP) — Britain's Zola Budd conceded early defeat Thursday for her 3,000-meter showdown with Mary Decker Slaney, while the more experienced American warned that Saturday's race — billed as an Olympics rematch — could help ruin the teen-age Budd's career.

"I don't think I can win because Mary's best time is some eight seconds faster than mine," a nervous, softly-spoken Budd told a news conference 48 hours before the race at London's Crystal Palace stadium. "I'll be happy to beat my previous best."

The race, part of a two-day IAAF-Mobil Grand Prix meet, marks the first confrontation between the two since their collision in the 3,000-meter final at the Los Angeles Olympic Games almost a year ago that wrecked their medal hopes.

Slaney crashed out of the race in tears with a painful leg injury while Budd, whose concentration and will to run completely snapped, finished the race in seventh place to boost from the crowd.

"I may forgive but I don't forget. My view has not changed and I have nothing further to say on the matter," Slaney said.

Since Los Angeles, the two runners have made conciliatory gestures to one another and have exchanged letters, reportedly patching up their differences.

But they have never spoken directly and held separate news conferences within 90 minutes of each other at a downtown London hotel.

Slaney, looking confident and relaxed, her British husband — discus thrower Richard Slaney — at her side, said she had come to London to race against the clock, not specifically against Budd, who has had a spotty start to her outdoor season with two wins and two defeats.

"Zola is a good athlete with a lot of potential but a lot of unnecessary pressure was put on her before the Olympics and in the year since," said

Slaney, the world 1,500 and 3,000 meter champion.

"If I had been managing her, I probably would not have allowed her to run competitively this year. A lot of times, the pressure is more detrimental and unless the person can handle it and knows how to deal with it, I can ruin them."

"The fact that Zola came straight out of South Africa where there probably was not much pressure, created a difficult situation for her."

Both runners said they had no specific race plan on Saturday.

"It will be more of a personal battle between me and the clock — nothing personal with Zola."

Players desert USBL for NBA tryouts

MILFORD, Conn. (AP) — The United States Basketball League hastily announced Friday that it would end its inaugural season a month early because so many of its players are leaving to attend National Basketball Association camps.

"While we feel it is the high infiltration of USBL players invited to NBA rookie camps is a tribute to the outstanding quality of play in our league, the reality of the situation is that we are losing many more players ... than anyone ever anticipated," said Daniel Meisenheimer III, president and founder.

The league had been scheduled to end its 40-game season on Aug. 19, but in a prepared statement the league announced that it would end its first season on Sunday, after most of the teams — and USBL officials — said it would be in the best interest of the league and fans not to restock with lower-caliber players.

"Among the players that are leaving the USBL for NBA camps are Michael Adams, the former Boston College star, Manute Bol, the celebrated 7-foot-7 center from Sudan, and John Williams, the former Tulane University star who awaits trial on charges related to a point-shaving scandal at the school.

USBL spokesman Mike Bovino said that all of the league's contractual obligations with arenas and ticket-holders would be honored, and that losses from the unanticipated shortened season would be minimal. He said the league would continue with plans to offer stock to the public sometime in August.

In the statement, the USBL announced that it would rework its schedule for 1986 so that there is no overlap with NBA training camps and go forward with expansion plans.

The league began play in May, and touted itself as a revolutionary and well-conceived professional sport league that would offer inexpensive entertainment.

Through its first 76 games, the league drew more than 76,000 fans according to league statistics, and Bovino said he didn't believe the abrupt end to its first season would be a blow to its image.

"It is well-conceived," Bovino said, "but sometimes the smallest details are the ones that are overlooked. They took almost half of our players, we never anticipated they'd take that many."

Jones and Tway share Quad-Cities meet lead

COAL VALLEY, Ill. (AP) — Steve Jones and Bob Tway, relative newcomers to the PGA tour and once college competitors, each eagled to lead at 6-under par 64s Thursday for the lead after the first round of the $300,000 Quad Cities Open.

The pair's showing erased an early lead by Brian Hession, who had a 20-yard chip-in on the 16th, put him two strokes off the pace at 66.

Jack Nicklaus Jr., meanwhile, son of the all-time PGA money-winner Jack Nicklaus, shot a 75 — 11 strokes back and worrying about making his second-round cut. Nicklaus, an amateur in his first Professional Golfers' Association tourney, birdied once, but double-bogeyed once and suffered four bogeys.

"If I thought like that, you know, 'What would my father do in this situation?' I'd probably be doing a little better," the 23-year-old Nicklaus said.

The senior Nicklaus, meanwhile, shot a 77 — 13 off the pace — at Thursday's first round of the British Open at Sandwich, England.

Jones, 26, a New Mexico native now living in Phoenix, Ariz., said his 6-under par first round surprised him.

He said steady winds, gusting up to 20 mph, hampered play on most of the Oakwood Country Club's greens, which other golfers said played fast under dry, sunny skies.

Jones turned pro in 1981 following graduation from the University of Colorado at Boulder, but was sidelined later that year by a broken thumb. He returned to the PGA tour last year.

Besides his eagle on the par-5 10th hole, Jones hit seven birdies and seven holes at par to offset his three bogeys on the 6,514-yard, par-70 course.

Tway, born in Georgia, said he played against Jones several times while at Oklahoma State University. He eagled the par-5 sixth hole, grabbed four birdies and hit par on the remaining 13 holes.

"This is by the best start I've had," said Tway, who joined the PGA tour this year after falling to win his pro-four card three straight years.

Ace helps propel Baugh to lead in Boston Five

DANVER, Mass. (AP) — Laura Baugh, a nine-time runner-up and never a winner in 12 years on the LPGA tour, sank a hole-in-one and grabbed the first-round lead at the $225,000 Boston Five Classic with a 5-under-par 67 Thursday.

Baugh, who also had six birdies and three bogeys, had a one-stroke edge over Therese Hession, another runner-up. Hession finished at 68, one stroke ahead of Silvia Bertolacini, Nicole Jones and Myra Blackwelder.

Kathy Baker, who won the U.S. Women's Open last Sunday for her initial tour victory, was 2 under par after nine holes on the par 72, 6,008-yard Tara Ferncroft course. But she put her tee shot into the water on the next hole, took a double bogey and came in at even par.

With three bogeys and a double bogey, Baker said, "I was very happy to shoot even par. I'm very thankful for the birdies. I had to offset the bogeys."

Defending champion Laurie Rinker was among eight players at 1 under par.

Baugh got her ace with a 5 iron on the 156-yard, par-3, 16th hole. It followed a bogey on the par-5 15th.

"I was quite upset to bogey a hole that I figured on birdieing," said Baugh. "I play better when I'm angry anyway."

She said her hole-in-one, the second of her pro career, "went in on the fly and never touched the pin."

Baugh, who took the 1982 season off as the birth of her daughter Chelsea, is coming off her most lucrative season. She was 47th on the earnings list last year with $47,232. This year, she is 43rd with $32,428.

Her performance Thursday, she said, "is really a shock because the last six or seven weeks I've played. I've never had a first round under 75 ... I've always found it difficult getting into a tournament."

She didn't have much trouble Thursday when, starting on the back nine, she birdied two of her first four holes.

"I have been playing real well. I just have not been making the putts," she said. "I feel I putted well today even though I had two 3-putts because I putted well on the other holes."

Her round nearly was marred on her final hole when she hit her second shot into a bunker. She ended up with a bogey after notching birdies on three of the previous four holes.

"I just didn't want to make a double bogey because you can spoil a good round and a hole-in-one," she said.

Hession, 92nd on the money list, struggled at the start with bogeys on two of her first four holes. But she played steadily the rest of the way with birdies and eight pars.

Bertolacini started strongly with birdies on the first two holes and came in at 3 under par for the front nine. She needed a birdie on her final hole to maintain that score after bogeying the 17th.

Nuggets' top pick relishes physical play

DENVER (AP) — The Denver Nuggets announced the signing Thursday of their No. 1 draft choice, 7-foot center Blair Rasmussen, who said he looked forward to the more physical brand of play in the National Basketball Association.

Most critics have said there is no question Rasmussen can shoot — having led the Pacific-10 last season with an 18.4 scoring average — but he has to play the boards tougher and be more physical.

The 250-pound Rasmussen grinned at the question.

"You ever see a college game off-limited? You're tip-toeing around — the biggest guy on the court. But in the pro game you have to do it differently," said the Auburn, Wash., native.

"I've got to take advantage of my size. The NBA is a lot more aggressive than college, with bigger bodies and a more physical situation," he said.

Rasmussen has been working out with the Nuggets coaching staff prior to the signing that actually took place Wednesday. He will take part in the Nuggets' three-day mini-camp that starts here Saturday at Regis College.

Nuggets President Vince Boryla would say only that Rasmussen had been signed to a multi-year contract "for a considerable amount of money."

Riggins says he won't play without pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — Veteran running back John Riggins said Thursday night he will not report to the Washington training camp next week without a signed contract.

"If I decided to report and then take out a fishing pole it would open a whole can of worms," Riggins said.

Riggins, 35, is currently negotiating a new contract with Redskins owner Jack Kent Cooke.

"It's the typical management-labor problem. They want to pay me more than what I really want to take," said Riggins. "But could be convinced to take a little more."

Without giving specifics on the contract talks, Riggins said: "On the basis of what they are offering, I could play four or five games."

Riggins said he was hopeful that the contract dispute would be resolved in time for him to report to training camp with the Redskins veterans on July 27.

Riggins gained 1,239 yards and scored 14 touchdowns last year despite a nagging back injury. On Thursday, Riggins said he had visited with a specialist in New York who had given him a clean bill of health.

"I feel fit and ready and I'm looking forward to playing," Riggins said. "If I'm healthy, I can still carry the ball 20 or 30 times a game."

Fearing Mormon conversion attempts, Orthodox Jews stage mass prayer protest at Walling Wall in Jerusalem

Oppose Mormon center in Jerusalem

Orthodox Jews protest with prayers

JERUSALEM (AP) — Orthodox Jews held a mass prayer in Thursday at the Holy Walling Wall to protest construction of a Mormon center they fear will become a mission to convert Jews.

David B. Galbraith, the Mormon official at the focus of the mounting controversy, said he has given a written pledge that the center on the Mount of Olives "will not be used for proselytizing the Jewish people."

"Having given that undertaking, I don't know what more I can do," said Galbraith, director of the Jerusalem program for Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah.

In a demonstration endorsed by Israel's two chief rabbis, about 7,000 black-coated Orthodox Jews said prayers of lamentation under a huge red banner reading, "Mormons stop your missionary project now."

Galbraith said he was surprised by the active role played by the chief rabbis, who are the only government-approved religious authorities in Israel.

An anti-missionary group called Yad

Le'achim, Hebrew for "a hand to the brothers," has appealed the issue to a Parliament committee that "is reviewing" the building licenses granted to BYU last year.

Galbraith told The Associated Press the committee demanded a cash bond that would be forfeited if any students at the center engaged in missionary work. He said he refused.

Israelis are particularly sensitive about missionary work because of centuries of religious persecution. Spreading the word is a tenet of the Mormon faith.

Galbraith has run BYU's Jerusalem program for 16 years. He said all students sign a pledge before they come to Israel that they will not try to convert Jews.

"Pieces of paper mean nothing. Whether covert or overt, we don't want it here in Israel," said Michael Hart, 25, who held a poster at the rally reading, "Mormons, let us be in peace."

"Conversion is a precept of their faith. If they say they will abide by the law of the land, that's a principle, not a precept. I don't believe it," said Hart, a seminary student originally from Toronto, Canada.

Moshe Dann, spokesman for Yad Le'achim, alleged at a news conference Wednesday that the Mormons obtained licenses to build on the government-owned property through "misrepresentation and perhaps bribery."

He referred to a $1 million gift to the Jerusalem Foundation, a private fund operated by Mayor Teddy Kollek for developing public services.

City officials say the money went for a park on the Mount of Olives and was not related to Kollek's backing for the Mormon center.

Dann said a 1981 translation of the Book of Mormon into Hebrew clearly targeted Israelis for conversion.

Galbraith called the translation "a cultural book, a literary work," and said the Book of Mormon had been translated into 100 other languages. "The book had its beginnings here

Police scatter unruly crowds

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — South African police fired tear gas and rubber bullets and beat up a crowd of blacks stoning patrol cars and houses in Soweto township Thursday.

One black man was killed, authorities said.

Numerous clashes were reported in other black townships as anti-apartheid violence flared anew after a few hours of relative calm. Blacks turned to strikes and consumer boycotts in a new show of economic muscle aimed at white-owned businesses.

In Katlehong east of Johannesburg, police arrested 122 blacks who refused to disperse during an illegal outdoor gathering, a police spokesman said.

Earlier, police reported that a black woman was slain with an ax and her body burned, apparently because she broke a black boycott of white-owned stores in a small Cape Province town, said the spokesman, who demanded anonymity.

Five labor disputes and consumer boycotts began or were threatened around the country, including a potential strike in the gold mines that employ more than 500,000 blacks.

Many South African analysts believe economic clout is the most potent weapon for South Africa's black majority, and that strikes and consumer boycotts are likely to increase.

"Apartheid is the legal system of racial segregation under which 5 million whites deny the vote and citizenship to 22 million blacks.

In Pietermaritzburg, the Natal Province capital of 191,000 people, hundreds of black workers stayed home for the day to protest the firing of 950 black workers in nearby Howick by the South African subsidiary of the British firm, BTR Ltd.

Spokesmen for several major factories reported that few of their black employees turned up for work. Bus service was halted when 325 drivers stayed away, and the shops and streets were as quiet as on a Sunday.

In the eastern Cape Province, shopkeepers in Port Elizabeth and Uitenhage said a black consumer boycott that began this week was biting sharply into business, and some shops might be forced to close down.

Black activists called a two-month boycott of white shops to force whites to support black demands for the release of jailed anti-apartheid leaders as well as other grievances. The two cities have been among the hardest hit in 10 months of rioting that has left more than 450 blacks dead.

In De Aar, a small eastern Cape town, police said a crowd used an ax to kill a 25-year-old woman who had bought from a white shop. Her body was doused with fuel and set alight on a street, police said.

Black mobs have meted out their form of punishment periodically to blacks who they consider to be collaborating with the white government. Black police and local officials are seen by many as tools of the government.

In Johannesburg, leaders of the black National Union of Mineworkers said they were preparing for a possible strike of the gold mines, which produce half of South Africa's export earnings.

Spokeswoman Manoko Nchwe said the strike could begin next month, unless the gold mines made wage concessions.

The South African subsidiary of Siemens, the West German multinational company, negotiated with the black metalworkers union a day after firing 1,200 workers who the company said were striking illegally at five plants over wage hike demands.

In the eastern Cape, strikes broke out at three major auto makers. Grievances varied in the walkouts at Volkswagen, Ford and General Motors' locomotive plant.

Indian students call off agitation after 10 slain

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Rioting claimed 10 more lives in Gujarat state, and student leaders there said Thursday they would call off the agitation against government policies that started the bloodshed four months ago.

The students also said after a nine-hour meeting with state officials that they would cancel a "fill the jails" campaign of inviting arrest, which had been scheduled for Friday.

Students from the upper and middle classes are demonstrating early this year against plans by the government of Gujarat, in western India, to increase the number of jobs and university places reserved for people of India's lower social castes.

Demonstrations led to riots, then the violence expanded to include pitched battles between the Muslim and Hindu communities that had little or nothing to do with the original protest.

More than 200 people have been killed and many times that number injured, including 100 since Wednesday night alone.

Most of the riots have in Ahmedabad, capital of Gujarat.

J.F. Ribtero, state police director, said indefinite curfews were imposed on several Ahmedabad neighborhoods Thursday and he ordered his men to shoot if necessary to stop looting and arsonists.

Because the nature of the violence has changed since the protests began, there was no certainty that the student-government agreement would end it.

Protest leaders Shankarbal Patel (Tiveda Patel), who are not related, told reporters after the talks that an "amicable settlement" was reached on the issue of quotas for "backward castes."

Rains take 34 lives

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Heavy monsoon rains were blamed for the deaths of at least 34 people in the northern Himalayan city of Jammu, most of them women and children buried alive when houses collapsed, news reports said.

The United News of India said a building under construction in Jammu, a city in Kashmir state, collapsed from the seasonal rains on Wednesday, killing 27 people and wounding 47. It said the other deaths occurred earlier in the week.

The rains also forced the suspension of air service to Jammu and seriously impaired local road traffic, UNI said.

Egypt plans to lower its crude oil export prices

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Egypt will lower the export price for July deliveries of its crude oil by $1.50 to $2 a barrel, but final approval has been delayed pending an agreement on retroactive cuts for June, the government's oil-marketing manager said Thursday.

"I know these will be the prices finally decided on, but they still have to be approved, and until they are final acceptance, then it is not yet final," Hamdani Ayoub, who heads the Oil Ministry's price-setting committee, told The Associated Press.

He said the new price for July delivery of Egypt's top-quality light Gulf oil will be cut by $1.50 a barrel to $25.25.

That price is $2.75 above Arabial Light crude, the oil that is the basis for OPEC's price structure. But it is above the $24.65 a barrel price quoted Thursday in the open market for August deliveries of Gulf of Suez crude, according to Telerate Energy Service, a private market-information firm.

The other cuts will reduce Egypt's Belayim crude by $1.75 to $24.25 and Ras Ghareb, the heaviest Egyptian oil, by between $1.75 and $2 a barrel from its current price of $25.

Each $1 reduction in the world price of a barrel of oil, if entirely passed on to consumers, is the equivalent of a cut of about 2 1/2 cents in the retail price of a gallon of gasoline or other refined petroleum product.

Egypt exports 870,000 barrels of crude daily, producing about half of its output to customers in Europe.

British Conservatives run third in opinion poll

LONDON (AP) — Margaret Thatcher's Conservatives ran third in public opinion polls issued Thursday.

A few hours later, the prime minister announced pay boosts for top officials that raised hackles in both labor and management.

The increases for judges, senior army officers and civil servants would range up to 17.6 percent spread over the next several months, two or three times the offers to wage earners.

On Wednesday, the government provoked strong left-wing protest by announcing it will abolish minimum wages for people under 21 to reduce unemployment, now at a record 13 percent.

Annual pay for a top ministerial official, general or admiral will go up from 45,500 pounds to 60,000 pounds ($63,700 to $84,000). The salary for a High Court judge rises from $1,250 pounds to 60,000 ($71,750 to $84,000).

Mrs. Thatcher announced the figures in the House of Commons after two new polls confirmed that her party is in its worst position since landslide return to office in 1983, with her personal rating at 27 percent approval and 60 percent disapproval.

A Gallup poll in the pro-Thatcher Daily Telegraph put the Tories 10.5 points behind Labor and 5 points behind the centrist alliance of Liberals and Social Democrats.

A Marplan poll in the liberal Guardian gave Labor 34, the alliance 33 and the Conservatives 29. Thatcher at election time two years ago.

Liberia breaks ties with USSR, charges spying

MONROVIA, Liberia (AP) — The government said Thursday it is breaking diplomatic relations with the Soviet Union.

It acted the day after 14 students were arrested for allegedly providing military secrets to the Soviet Embassy.

The Foreign Ministry said Liberia's diplomats were being recalled from Moscow and Soviet diplomats would be given 72 hours to leave this West African nation.

A ministry statement said the students were arrested Wednesday as they left the embassy. They were involved in passing on to the Soviets classified information on various military installations in Liberia and the defense capabilities of the country, it said.

Security forces retrieved some of the documents from the students, the statement said. It did not identify the students or link them with any organization.

The ministry statement called the alleged Soviet espionage "a serious breach of the principles governing international relations," and "gross interference in the internal affairs of Liberia which cannot be condoned."

Liberia, a republic founded in the 19th century by freed American slaves returning to Africa, has traditionally been closely aligned with the United States.

Secret Nazi rocket recovered from lake

BAD AUSSEE, Austria (AP) — Explosives specialists Thursday recovered the shaft of an experimental World War II rocket developed by Nazi Germany at a secret weapons test station on Lake Toplitz.

The so-called Roehling projectile was discovered in November, when army engineers, frogmen and mine disposal experts combed the glacial lake, about 37 miles southeast of Salzburg, for Nazi military gear.

Designed to be fired from a cannon, the projectile had a rocket engine to power it once airborne, said officials.

Also found were two primitive rockets, launched from underwater, a rocket launcher, counterfeit British pound notes and other wartime relics.

A helicopter was used Thursday to hoist the nine-foot missile shaft to more accessible terrain. Officials said it would be exhibited in Vienna's Museum of Military History.

From 1942, the lake was a secret marine testing station, where Adolf Hitler's navy tried predecessors of today's submarine-launched guided missiles and other "wonder weapons" meant to turn the tide of battle in Germany's favor.

There has been no substantiation of persistent rumors that the remote lake hides cases of Nazi gold dumped in the last days of the war.

Also discovered in November was an underwater bunker. The Interior Ministry, responsible for the salvage of wartime explosives, plans to enter it later this year.

Nyerere ends OAU term

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — President Julius Nyerere of Tanzania ended his term as chairman of the Organization of African Unity Thursday with an appeal for genuine solidarity among the nations of the debt-ridden, drought-stricken continent.

Shortly after Nyerere's speech at the OAU's 21st summit, the 50-member organization elected President Abdou Diouf of Senegal as its new chairman for one year. The summit is scheduled to continue through Saturday.

Nyerere, a signatory of the charter establishing the OAU 22 years ago, praised the decision by the participating leaders to devote the current summit to Africa's staggering economic problems. Previous summits focused on political issues.

Nyerere also cited the OAU states over the plight of 5 Africa's million refugees. He said some were from South Africa and Namibia "but the majority are from member states of this organization."

U.S. trying to calm Israel

By BARRY SCHWEID
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Reagan administration assured Israel on Thursday the United States would meet with Palestinians only if the session was guaranteed in advance to lead to a two-year peace process.

The only way through is to go to work all the way through to have a truce between ourselves, the Israelis and the Jordanians," a senior official speaking on condition of anonymity, said in an interview.

The conciliatory gesture followed rejection in Jerusalem of a list of Palestinians approved by Yasser Arafat, the chairman of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

At the same time, the State Department registered irritation with Israel, apparently over the swift rejection of the candidates and the surfacing of some of the names on the state-run military radio.

"The only way progress can be made in the peace process is if it is based on mutual trust and full confidence," the department said through its spokesman, Robert Smalley. "That requires consultation. It also requires a certain amount of discretion."

The statement also emphasized that none of the parties would be permitted a veto over U.S. actions.

Our decision will be taken in light of consultations with our friends in the area and it will be our decision," Smalley said.

The Palestinians and Jordanians were to be in a mixed delegation to hold talks with a U.S. group headed by Richard W. Murphy, the assistant secretary of state for the Near East. Earlier, State Department officials said they hoped the talks could be held in Amman, the capital of Jordan, by late summer and peace negotiations started by the end of the year.

The talks were proposed by Hussein as a prelude to peace negotiations with Israel, Jordanian officials said during his visit here in May that a major goal was to establish a U.S. dialogue with the PLO.

The names on the list, known to number fewer than a dozen, have not been disclosed. Some are believed to be members of the Palestine National Council, the legislative arm of Arafat's organization.

The Israeli government has registered its willingness to discuss peace terms with Jordan and Palestinians who live on the West Bank and in Gaza and are not known members of the PLO, which is sworn to destruction of the Jewish state.

At the same time, Israel objects to pre-negotiations between the United States and the Palestinians as an unnecessary complication.

"For us to embark on this kind of venture without talking to the Israelis is madness because it undermines trust," the U.S. official said in the interview. "If a Murphy meeting is not going to be constructive to the process, there won't be a Murphy meeting," he said.

The list of Palestinians was submitted to the State Department by Jordan, after Hussein met in Amman with Arafat. Following through on a pledge to consult with Israel, the U.S. government sent the list — without American endorsement — to Jerusalem, where it was rejected immediately.

"We've always said from the beginning the purpose of a Murphy meeting is to lead to direct negotiations," the official said. "We would have to be fairly confident it will be helpful (before we went to Amman)."

At such a meeting with Palestinians, the official said, the central issue would be whether it would lead to peace negotiations. "All that stuff has got to be defined in advance," he said.

Drought ravages Chinese province

PEKING (AP) — A drought is ravaging eastern China's heavily populated Hebei Province, drying up wells, parching farm land and forcing peasants in some villages to haul water great distances, the official news agency Xinhua reported Thursday.

"Despite floods, grain and other aid from provincial authorities, many local people have still faced severe hardship and poverty," Xinhua said.

"The drought began in 1983 and has affected more than 40 percent of the province — mountainous regions of Xinhua said are inhabited by 10 million people.

It said Hebei Gov. Zhang Shuang and his aides, who just completed a 600-mile, 50-day trek through the province, recommended the government help build deep wells and ponds.

THE ACES BOBBY WOLFF

"We shall succeed only so far as we continue that most distasteful labour of all, the intolerable labour of thought."

South counted at least 10 winners at today's no-trump game. By the time he had discovered the bad diamond break, it was too late to salvage more than eight.

Dummy's heart ace won and South couldn't wait to start dummy's long suit. West discarded the second round to bring bad news and South was finished.

32nd BIRTHDAY PARTY!

32 years ago we embarked on a program designed specially with you in mind. We pledged ourselves to our customers and toward these goals:

- To give the finest automobile service anywhere in the United States.
- To always try to "Put ourselves in Your Shoes" in solving a service problem.
- To be professional in sales, service and leasing.
- To make our customers' ownership an enjoyable and rewarding experience.
- To be the Easiest Place in the World to Buy a Car!

Tough goals? — Yes they are! But we did attain them. Stop by during our birthday celebration and have a piece of cake. See the best selection of new cars in the N.W. Ask about our 24,000 mile/24 month free Service Warranty.

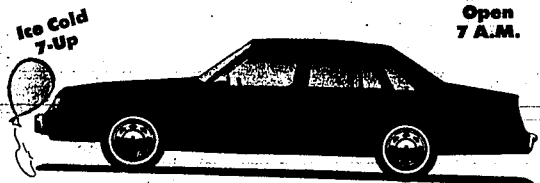

The legend continues — our reputation grows

Sincerely,
Emmett Johnson
