Twin Falls city sewer treatment plant has been found in violation of EPA consent decree

Twin Falls must pay $50,000 for violations at sewage plant

By ANNETTE CARY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The city of Twin Falls will have to pay a $50,000 federal penalty for violations of a 1984 Environmental Protection Agency consent decree governing the city sewer treatment plant.

This is the second time in recent years that violations of the consent decree have led to a monetary penalty.

The most recent penalty is contained in a new, stricter consent decree lodged Thursday with U.S. District Judge Iray McNichols in U.S. District Court in Boise. The decree was made public following half a year of negotiations between the city and the EPA.

Some $1,250 of the penalty is fines set in the 1984 consent decree for discharging more than the allowable amounts of oxygen-demanding, biological materials and suspended solids. Those violations occurred in February 1985.

The balance of the penalty is punitive, said Florence Carroll, water compliance specialist for the EPA.

"One of the major factors in setting the punitive fine was that we've been that route before," Carroll said. "Twin Falls was fined $22,000 in April 1984." That violation was based on delays in construction to upgrade the plant and effluent violations between September and December of 1982, she said.

The EPA also considered that the city saved $30,000 — a figure the city disputed — by not hiring additional maintenance staff, she said. There were no full-time maintenance mechanics on duty at the plant when an EPA inspection was conducted in December 1984, despite the requirement that the city staff the plant with at least two full-time mechanics, according to a press release from the U.S. Justice Department.

The EPA was also concerned that the city allowed monitoring problems to go unresolved for months, she said. Both sides agree that between April and November of 1984, the city failed to perform an required analyses of effluent levels on 42 separate days.

A penalty made against a city is a rarity, said Bob Jacobson, regional press officer for the EPA in Seattle.

"But non-compliance with a consent decree is also rare," he said. "Consent decrees are taken very seriously."

The new consent decree calls for the city to comply with all terms of its wastewater discharge permit and the previous consent decree. It requires the city to design a maintenance program that meets the EPA's approval and to have laboratory tests double checked daily

Congress gripes, approves budget

By CLIFF HAAS
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Congress gave final approval Thursday to an unpopular $967.6 billion 1986 budget, including a $55 billion deficit-reduction package that still would leave the government awash in at least $172 billion in red ink.

Hours after congressional negotiators settled on the fragile compromise, the Senate passed 67-32. The House earlier had approved it 309-119.

The Republican-led Senate passed the budget after Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia won a public assurance from Majority Leader Robert Dole, R-Kan., that pleased that the budget resolution reduces the deficit through spending cuts rather than higher taxes and who vote for it.

Even with actions outlined for savings of $276.2 billion over three years, the spending plan misses the goal set by the president and congressional leaders at the beginning of the year to do something that would cut budget deficits in half — to $100 billion or less — by 1988. The compromise would leave a shortfall of more than $112 billion in that year.

"I would have preferred more substantial reductions," Reagan said in a statement following the Senate vote. He said he would examine each upcoming appropriations bill and "if it is excessive, out of line, or in any way jeopardizes our national security, I will not hesitate to use my veto pen."

Reagan said, however, that he is pleased that the budget resolution reduces the deficit through spending cuts rather than higher taxes and called the measure "consistent with the budget philosophy we proposed in February."

The president also vowed to "redouble our efforts in the weeks ahead to secure passage of tax reform, the line item veto and a constitutional amendment mandating a balanced federal budget."

Legislators groused about how little they had to show for all the budget turmoil this year.

"After seven months of blood, sweat and tears, we have come to this sorry state," said Sen. Warren Rudman, R-N.H.

"Nonetheless, they were determined to end the budget impasse."

"We have the choice between this budget resolution and government by chaos," said Sen. Slade Gorton, R-Wash.

"Budget could be a disaster tonight," said Rep. Carl D. Pursell, R-Mich. "We need a budget."

Pentagon colonel among 6 arrested in arms export plot

By MERRILL HARTSON
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Six people, including an Army officer assigned to the Pentagon, were arrested on charges of conspiring to export arms to Iran in violation of a U.S. government ban on such sales, the FBI announced Thursday.

Among those arrested was Lt. Col. Wayne C. Gillespie, 46, of Alexandria, Va. The FBI alleged that he had inspected TOW anti-tank missiles destined for Iran.

"There were over 1,300 missiles on the shopping list. The total value, if everything was obtained, was about $75 million," said Dick Ross, an assistant FBI special agent in the Tampa-Orlando, Fla., district.

Authorities said the alleged conspirators intended to purchase a variety of U.S. missiles, including the TOW, the Sidewinder, Harpoon, Sparrow AIM-7F, Sparrow AIM-7M and Phoenix. They also were said to be seeking the French Exocet missile as well as miscellaneous parts for the F-4 jet fighter, including 10 E-4 engines and other military equipment, such as a mobile hospital.

The United States banned the export of military supplies to Iran after religious fundamentalists led by the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini ousted the Shah of Iran in 1979.

In Alexandria, Thursday, U.S. Magistrate W. Curtis Sewell set bond at $100,000 for Gillespie. Assistant U.S. Attorney Joseph J. Aronica had asked that the bond be set at $250,000.

The complaint charges that the six intended to purchase 1,140 TOW anti-tank missiles at a total cost of $9,120,000 and that they would provide an aircraft to fly the weapons and parts to Iran. A TOW missile is a non-nuclear surface-to-surface ballistic missile used in anti-tank warfare.

The arrests took place in Florida, California and Virginia, apparently before any weapons were actually sent to Iran. Those taken into custody and the man still being sought, were charged with conspiracy to violate the arms export control act rather than with individual violations of the act.

The conspiracy charge carries a top penalty of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

In the affidavit filed in federal court in Orlando, the FBI said agents had been told Gillespie was assigned to the Army's Military Command at the

Conservatives want Shultz ousted

By R. GREGORY NOKES
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — A gathering of leading conservatives, including members of Congress and former ambassadors, on Thursday charged Secretary of State George P. Shultz with betraying President Reagan's commitment to confront communism around the globe, and a large number urged his ouster.

But the conference stopped short of a formal call for Shultz's resignation as several participants expressed nervousness at becoming identified with a move to dump Shultz while he still had Reagan's confidence.

The confidence was voiced anew by White House spokesman Larry Speakes, who said Reagan viewed Shultz as an "outstanding secretary of state. He enjoys the president's full, wholehearted support — will remain as long as he wishes to remain secretary of state."

However, Richard Viguerie, chief organizer of the conference and publisher of Conservative Digest, told a press conference afterward, "My No. 1 objective is the removal of George Shultz."

Howard Phillips, chairman of the Conservative Caucus, said, "George Shultz should go, and the sooner the better."

Viguerie said conference organizers didn't formally call for Shultz's resignation because "they didn't want to get into anything at the beginning that everyone couldn't agree on."

At the same time, Viguerie said Thursday's conference "billed as 'The State Department Held Hostage' — marked the beginning of a national debate on foreign policy" which the question of whether to call for Shultz's ouster would come up again.

"Our aim is to get the attention of the president and his supporters that American foreign policy is headed in a disastrous direction," he said.

Studies link viruses to flareups of MS

The Associated Press

BOSTON — Two new studies support the theory that flareups of multiple sclerosis — and perhaps even the disease itself — are caused by some of the same everyday viruses responsible for sore throats, runny noses and other cold-like miseries.

Researchers in Arizona and Canada found that MS victims have new attacks of their disease following bouts with viruses, frequently those that cause respiratory symptoms. "It seems to be fairly consistent that they get worsening of their symptoms after or during colds," Dr. Steven Narod of the University of Ottawa said this week.

A separate study by Dr. William A. Skelton of the University of Arizona also found that MS victims have fewer viral diseases than healthy people. This suggests that viruses that they have better than usual defenses against — germs and their powerful resistance might be part of their problem.

The cause of multiple sclerosis is not known. Experts have long theorized that viruses play a role, and some believe that the measles virus might be the culprit.

Bishop calms S. African funeral crowd

By ANDREW TORCHIA
The Associated Press

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Bishop Desmond Tutu quieted tensions at a funeral for black riot victim on Tuesday, persuading police to withdraw and angry mourners to be calm.

But the Nobel Peace Prize winner also pledged to defy funeral restrictions proclaimed by the white government. "I listen to God; not any other authority," he said. "I will continue to speak at all meetings responsibly as a minister."

Police said a prominent civil rights attorney, Nonyamezelo Mxenge, was gunned down by four black men in his driveway in Umhlati, a black township of Durban, Mrs. Mxenge, 43, was a lawyer for 16 anti-apartheid activists being tried on treason charges in nearby Durban.

Her husband, Griffiths Mxenge, a civil rights lawyer and former member of the outlawed African National Congress, was stabbed 45 times in an unsolved murder nearly four years ago. His wife took on 1,000 mourners. "For goodness sake, let us stop doing things we're going to be ashamed of!"

National police headquarters in Pretoria reported rioting in black townships, with 60 people arrested in at least 19 outbreaks of arson and stone-throwing Wednesday night and Thursday morning.

Witnesses said police shot and wounded a 17-year-old youth in Soweto, the vast black township outside Johannesburg, when they fired on 700 people trying to loot a bread truck.

The restrictions that took effect Wednesday prohibit group and outdoor funerals for people killed in the year of racial unrest that has cost an estimated 50,000 black lives.

Witnesses said Tutu personally imposed calm on an explosive situation in Tumahole, a riot-ravaged township near Parys, 62 miles south of Johannesburg. At his urging, police withdrew from the path of the funeral procession, and he told the 1,000 mourners: "For goodness sake, let us stop doing things we're going to be ashamed of!"

Police said Tutu's remarks and the funeral for three youths killed in a clash with police after another funeral two weeks ago, did not violate the rules because Tumahole is not in an emergency area. It was held in a community hall.

Under the new restrictions, decreed under the state of emergency put into force July 21 in 36 towns and cities, only ordained ministers may speak and they may not mention politics.

Tutu said later that he would speak next Tuesday at the funeral of riot victim in Daveyton.

Penalty

 by a state-approved laboratory. Penalties are also being increased to as much as $1,500 for each violation. The EPA will be inspecting the plant at least every six months, with or without notice.
 The consent decree will extend for another year. The federal and state inspectors of the plant in December 1985 will inspect maintenance and laboratory problems with to have been the last before the 1984 consent decree was lifted Jan. 1, 1985, ending the city's history of operating the sewer treatment plant under consent decrees since the late 1970s.
 The $50,000 penalty is "a negotiated compromise," said U.S. Attorney Jeff Ring. The federal government had considered a penalty of as much as $116,000, Carroll said.
 City Manager Tom Courtney said that the city will be required to file a report to the EPA. However, he does think the "EPA approached this more harshly than it had to."

 When top city officials became aware of the extent of the problems at the plant in January 1985, they began working to correct them, he said.
 Maintenance had been hampered by an injured employee, but an extension of the consent decree had added to the position and managers at the plant were instructed to have other employees perform maintenance work, Courtney said.
 He was unaware from reports made at the plant that laboratory work was not being done to federal specifications, he said.
 "If there is anything positive to come out of this, it's that I am not sure we would have been willing to find a private contractor if we had not known we were in serious trouble with the EPA," Courtney said.
 In May, the City Council hired the firm will have to be paid, Ring Operations Management Intern said.

 Pentagon Defense Department spokesman Fred S. Hoffman said that was in error.
 Colonel Gillespie is a research and development coordinator in the office of the deputy chief of staff for international programs at the Army Materiel Command, Hoffman said.
 Don McCloy, a spokesman for the command, said Gillespie was a 1960 West Point graduate and a Vietnam veteran with missile and artillery weapons talks with British, French experience was a specialist in and West German forces, due to working with foreign countries to staff shortages he also had handled negotiations for the same type of work for the office's Middle East and Far East operations. Gillespie's security clearance was highly classified documents originated by NATO countries as well as the U.S. Army Materiel Command, Hoffman said.

 He said that while Gillespie's primary responsibility involved assigned to the Pentagon in 1979.

 recess, the House brushed aside challenges from some Democrats who wanted to freeze military spending and felt that the Pentagon allotment was too high.
 Others also denounced the speed with which the budget was rushed through on Thursday. But both houses passed legislative bills that require a "three-day wait" to allow time to study compromise measures before they are considered.
 "We don't want to go along with increase after increase after increase in the military while the poorest of the poor are imposed upon," said Rep. Barney Frank, D-

Mass., who also derided the "wham, bang and thank you" haste in acting on the measure.
 But the budget was on its way as momentum built for the recess.
 After two days of private negotiations between the senior budget writers from the House and Senate, a larger group of bargainers settled remaining unresolved issues and gave their blessing to the package earlier in the day.
 The package recommends:
 • No significant tax changes.
 • Allowing military spending to rise with inflation next year.
 • Allowing full cost-of-living adjustments for Social Security and recess on Friday.

Crews attack Butte blaze

By The Associated Press
 More than 1,800 firefighters launched an all-out attack Thursday to contain the 13-day-old Butte fire in east-central Idaho's Salmon National Forest before favorable moist, humid weather gave way to hot, dry conditions.
 "The fire isn't doing much right now," said spokesman Gordon Reid. "This is the time to have to make all the efforts to get containment on this fire. If we can't, we're going to be right back where we were, and it's going to be a big job to get it done."

 About 80 miles to the west, firefighters were already being demobilized in the Payette National Forest as persistent wet weather enabled fire bosses to expect total containment of the 14,600-acre French Creek fire by late Thursday. That lightning-caused blaze has been burning for 16 days, destroying nearly $1 million in commercial timbers.
 The break in the weather that began earlier this week across the central highlands also suppressed 20-square-mile triangle.

Pilots win case

CHICAGO (AP) — A federal judge Thursday ordered United Air Lines Inc. to reinstate about 500 newly trained pilots who were dismissed after they refused to cross picket lines in a 29-day strike against the nation's largest airline.

But in the Senate, conservatives threatened a filibuster and Rep. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., objected three times as Sen. Edward M. Medicare cuts eased

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House committee voted Thursday to cut spending for Medicare and Medicaid by $150 million over three years, but tempered the cuts with new programs of prenatal care for poor women and vision care for the elderly. The House Energy and Commerce Committee approved 226 a package of changes in Medicare and Medicaid that overall are intended to bring spending on the programs within budget limits voted by the House for fiscal 1986, which starts Oct. 1. The cuts include requirements for a second doctor's opinion before certain types of major surgery, which the committee estimated would save $216 million in unnecessary surgical operations over three years. In addition, payments to clinical laboratories would be capped for savings of $140 million.

Beam zaps satellite

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) that "all the experiments are going well." Challenger's astronauts zapped a "fine" excellent "data" aboard satellite with an electron beam gun Thursday to duplicate in miniature the powerful energy fields of stars in a study of a phenomenon that has long intrigued scientists. A 6-foot free-flying satellite called the Plasma Diagnostics Package was hit with a jolt from the beam aboard the space shuttle. The astronauts said they could see flashes of light as the beam followed natural magnetic lines to the satellite. Scientists on the ground called the demonstration "a fabulous success."

Don't let Munn ones grow vegies for tums

The motivations of all concerned seem legitimate, although no one apparently has asked the prisoners what they think of the idea. Nonetheless, we have some doubts about the appropriateness of Twin Falls County Jail inmates growing a vegetable garden on vacant land next to the jail in the middle of downtown Twin Falls. First, there's the small matter of security. Building a fence around the proposed garden spot wouldn't be cheap; indeed, it could take more than a few seasons of raising zucchini to save as much in food as the fence costs.

No one wants prisoners dropping their hoes and heading for nearby bean fields, but just as likely, we don't want to have the county grow the garden just to have it plucked clean by nightly gleaners, as seems likely in a downtown location.

Second, the idea just doesn't seem the right use of a downtown location. Having prisoners out there wielding hoes everyday from May to October reminds us too much of old prison work farms. Corrections has moved beyond that.

As we have said before, we think the commissioners ought to be looking for a non-downtown location for a new jail and for a way to sell off their downtown land for a quasi-public use, such as an office and condominium complex.

Third, we wonder if there's enough market for the produce among what Sheriff Jim Munn says is a declining population.

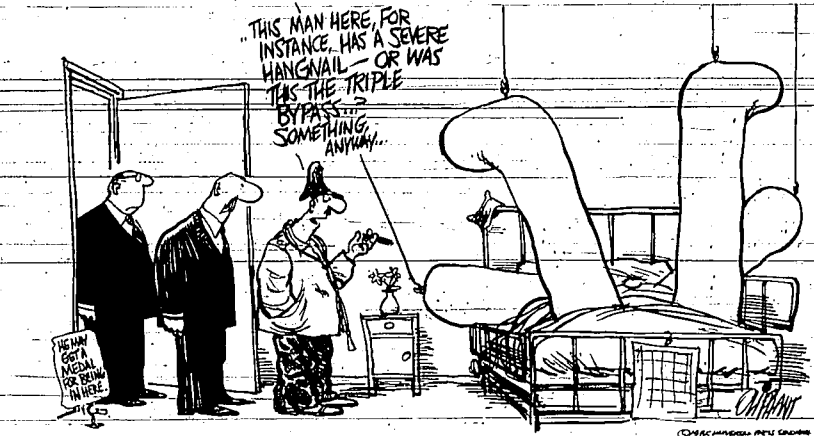

A good Idaho garden, even a small one, can produce an enormous amount of vegetables. Is it going to be worth it to the county to do so if there's no one there to eat the stuff?

(P.S. Did you note how the jail inmate population has dropped now that the new jail bond proposal is off the ballot?)

We like the motivation of county jail cook Erika Mumm who wants to see that the prisoners are well fed and get plenty of exercise.

But we'd rather see them spending more time on the lawn and flower beds so that the commissioners wouldn't have to be out there in the morning hours weeding "Marvin's Garden" and planting Forget Me Not's from commissioner Judy Felton's last campaign.

That would be better than having some of Munn's ones grow yumms for Mumm for the inmate tums.

Americans helping the enemy

It's strange that our television stations continue to air, time after time, those films featuring the so-called starving people of Ethiopia and at the same time making a pitch for money, food and etc., supposedly for the people. It should be plain to the TV audience that the cameras focusing on the Ethiopians were aimed mostly on the children who were dying, mainly from illness and disease, rather than starvation. Although, that fact is passed lightly over. If we listen carefully to the media concerning this subject, much less emphasis is placed on the fact that Ethiopia is under Communist control, which will not allow but a very small portion of all that is sent to that country, to be distributed among the people. We surely don't have to be hit over the head to see who is being benefited by the generosity of the ever gullible American public. People who are being used in this way are aiding and abiding our enemy. Once known as being a traitor to their country. We do not hear much about the poor of our own country, many of whom live on their lives in city streets receiving very little care except for the individual help of a few.

Young men deserve praise

There are two young men in our community who need to be singled out for some well deserved praise. Derek Hansen and Rick Harder have volunteered their time, effort, and patience all summer to coach a softball team of fourteen and fifteen year old girls. Derek and Rick have shown a special maturity that some adults never possess. They have been positive, caring teachers. Through their guidance, the team has maintained an upbeat attitude and playing style throughout the season. Their team, Culligan's, took part in a state tournament in Boise July 21-23. The team placed fifth out of 17 teams, even after playing four games in one day in scorching temperatures. But, no people involved in the tournament — officials, other teams, and spectators — have a super feeling about the youth of Twin Falls through association with this great team and their coaches. Derek and Rick were the only "youthful" coaches in the tournament. This in itself was surprising to most people, but even more, the negative coaching and attitude were impressive. We, the parents of the girls who make up the "Culligan" team want to publicly say "Thanks!" to Rick and Derek. We believe that our coaches and girls are #1, all-round, as well as in the recreational International League standings.

Judgment is of the essence

Some may say I'm prejudiced against lawyers and especially female prosecuting attorneys. Not so, but let us construct a possible case in today's courts. A Mr. Pipsqueak was returning from night church services, when, while passing the hencoop of Mr. Jones, he was set upon by a ferocious chicken. He was carrying a newly sharpened hatchet for defense against lurking communists.

Defending attorneys, who were in the vicinity defended him and the blade of the hatchet came in contact with the chicken's neck, inflicting a fatal wound.

Being concerned with the food storage in Ethiopia, and just last week having placed a dime in the Salvation Army's kettle, he took the deceased home, leaving a trail of blood and feathers to his doorstep. Arrested and charged with the dastardly crime, the young lady prosecuting attorney at once issued a statement saying that upon conviction, she would ask for the death penalty. This spurred the godfearing Mr. Pipsqueak to place a third mortgage on his home and hire a noted lawyer to defend him. The case brought to national attention, with both lawyers giving interviews to the press.

Came the day of trial and the lawyer for defense appeared with a psychological testifying that Mr. Pipsqueak had only acted out a childhood fantasy and the rooster had cooperated by extending its neck. The lawyer claimed self defense and objected to any questions that might link the bones in his clients garage can to the chicken allegedly slain. Objection sustained and without eye witnesses, the man was freed.

Our courts are fast becoming a joke with laws concocted by lawyers to enrich lawyers. A man is refused the right to represent himself, so must hire a lawyer. The result is thousands of "contingency suits" where a broken finger nail means a $50,000 suit, a lost hairpiece a $100 million and $200 million for an examination on the client's ancestry. Such piddling foolishness costs millions in lawyers fees every year.

In conclusion, my criticism of Judy prosecuting attorneys is that they may base their decisions on emotion rather than cool judgment. Judgment is of the essence in law practice, whether in defending a client accused of defending himself against the attack of a ferocious chicken, or the sale of a small child being punished by his father for some fanciful discipline.

Prejudiced against young lady prosecuting attorneys? Just remember there is only one Justice Sandra Day O'Connor. A lady of mature judgment.

After Aug. 6, some understood the bomb had changed all

BOSTON — The 40-year-old newspapers on my desk chart the terrible plot line by day. Ahead is his horrific climax. On June 20, 100 bombers drop 3,000 tons of incendiary bombs on three Japanese cities, leaving behind "one solid mass of flames." On July 2, 350 planes drop 2,200 tons of firebombs on cities with populations of 37,000.

On July 29, 550 planes drop 3,500 more tons of firebombs. Finally, on Aug. 6, 1945, as a single plane drops a single bomb, the bomb they call "Little Boy."

In the dry words of the New York Times news summary, "One bomb hit Japan, but it struck with the force of 20,000 tons of TNT. Where it landed had been the city of Hiroshima, what is there now has not yet been rebuilt."

It is hard for those of us, raised in the nuclear age, to imagine what Americans thought when they read the news 40 years ago. I have asked my elders, elders who were younger than I am now.

One, a bombardier who flew over Europe:

Ellen Goodman

struggles to remember: "I just thought it was a bigger bomb." Another, a Marine in the Pacific waiting to invade Japan, answers: "I thought, well, I guess I'm going to die."

Still others who read the papers on that distant summer day, with eyes glazed by years of war news, must have turned from the news to the ads that bordered it: "Looking forward to fall and a fine fall outfit. Come to our third floor and select in air conditioned comfort, the wool suit you'll need."

The casualties may have sounded less awesome after four years of death statistics. World War II had already smudged the lines that distinguished soldier from civilian, front line from city. Some 40,000 Britons had died in the Blitz, 135,000 Germans in the firebombing of Dresden, 70,000 Japanese in one night's firebombing of Tokyo.

The 130,000 killed those first minutes in Hiroshima may have been more numbers to those already numb. We did not yet know about skin that peeled off and faces that melted, about radiation sickness and the silent leukemias that struck years, even generations, later. We had not yet heard the stories of the hibakusha, the survivors.

In the first days of the atomic age, the scientists talked about their accomplishment and the military about cost-effective killing. A colonel said at a press conference that since the bomb had done the work of 100 bombers, that makes atomic weapons cheaper than any other way of bombing.

Yet in this seamless daily taw of misery, there was also an abrupt awakening, an immediate, often subliminal, understanding that the atomic bomb had changed everything. Dalmeida couldn't recall the early rumblings of existential dread.

The sounds of it were there in Truman's dramatic announcement: "The force from which the sun draws its power has been loosed against those who brought war to the Far East."

They were in the solemn cadences in the Vatican's lonely moral judgment: "The last will of the war is colored by mortal flames never before seen on the horizons of the universe from its heavenly dawn to this infernal era."

They were in the rush to proclaim that this bomb could be a force for good, could portend a new dawn of energy or, at least, a "club for peace."

But now the newspapers have yellowed. Even the microfilm is hard to read. We have learned in intimate detail what happened on that ground at Hiroshima and Nagasaki. In mad competition with the Soviets, we collectively produced some 50,000 bombs that do indeed make the first seem like a "Little Boy."

The etiquette books tell us to give rubies for a 40th anniversary. But we have given far more than that in this bondage of two generations. We have given the wealth of nations to the bomb. We have sacrificed peace of mind.

On this Aug. 6, in Washington and Moscow, men will get up, eat breakfast, kiss their families good-bye and go to the office. To spend the day at nuclear war games. Diplomats will argue: How many bombs are enough? Who has more?

And all across the world, people who may not be able to explain fiction, people who cannot imagine an argument that would justify Truman's will for a moment think about Henry Truman's "rain of ruin" and nuclear Winter.

They'll remember that the mushroom shape of their deepest fears first rose 40 years ago over a place called Hiroshima.

They will surely wonder why, in all these years, those who lead the superpowers have done nothing, absolutely nothing, to still that fear.

Ellen Goodman writes for The Boston Globe.

Tax-reform proposal could legislate $60 billion onto deficit

Would it not be the height of fiscal irresponsibility to legislate another $60 billion a year into the federal deficit?

Yet that is exactly what the president's tax-reform proposal might do, according to several tax experts who testified before the House Ways and Means committee. After a major shakeup of the tax system, it is inevitably difficult to project the level of future revenue with any accuracy.

The Treasury itself admits to a moderate loss, the Congressional Budget Office predicts a much larger shortfall and the outside tax experts say that by the end of the decade, the tax system under the proposed system could be 10 percent lower than the $24 billion projected under current tax rates.

And that is without the effect on the revenue, losing changes that Congress is almost certain to make in the president's plan. The danger is simply that personal tax rates may be reduced too far. Although the principle of financing lower tax rates safely. But there is an even better way: one that would actually act as an incentive for Congress to get its fiscal house in shape. The key is to enact the 15-25-35 percent tax rates now but to reduce actual rates to these levels only gradually as the budget deficit declines as a result of further spending cuts or economic growth.

Under such a phased-in plan, there would still be a large initial reduction in personal tax rates. But further reductions in rates would depend on achieving specific goals in reducing the deficit. The obvious candidate for such a goal would be the 2 percent of GNP limit called for in this year's presidential budget and in the budget resolutions of the Senate and the House. Let's say that Congress were to set the rates for 1986 at 17, 25 and 30 percent. The rates for 1987 would then be automatically reduced to the 15-25-35 percent levels if the Congressional Budget Office in 1987 calculates that the 1986 deficit would be under the 2 percent of GNP limit. But if that budget goal is not being met, the further tax rate reductions would be postponed for at least another year.

Such a margin of safety in tax revenue is absolutely critical for both economic and political reasons. Right now the bet is that the budget that is likely to emerge from Congress this year will mean a 1986 deficit that is at least $70 billion more than the goal of 2 percent of GNP. That's just about the amount of extra revenue that would be predicted to come from substituting a 17-25-30 percent rate schedule for the president's 15-25-35 percent rates. It would then put Congress on the spot of finding the extra spending cuts to meet its deficit target or living with the smaller reduction in tax rates.

Without the possibility that would come from a triggered or phased-in tax plan, future deficits are almost certain to remain too large for the health of the economy. Without a trigger on the number of the budget we propose, Congress is unlikely to make any further significant cuts in spending. And experience shows how hard it is to raise tax rates. Congress has not dared to raise tax rates in any peacetime year since the end of World War II.

Any overreduction in tax rates now would be difficult to correct — especially since the tax system has been increased to prevent automatic revenue increases through bracket creep.

The gradual phasing-in of the personal rate cuts offers much more than a political escape hatch. It would create a strong incentive for further progress on the spending side.

But even if that progress didn't happen, the extra revenue would prevent future budget deficits from pushing the economy off the fiscal cliff edge.

Reagan's 'bump' stirs flap

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House but to escalate it? Senate and Senate Agriculture Committee Chairman Jesse Helms, R-N.C., said during a new September — stalled by disagreements over how much to spend to prop up sagging farm income. Reversing tactics, Helms vowed to force the panel to complete all other sections of the omnibus farm bill, from food stamps to credit programs, before he would allow members to return to the contentious commodity programs.

Both panels, which for weeks have been drafting agriculture legislation in apparent disregard of budget constraints, began to face the need for trimming their bills down to fit targets in a House-Senate budget agreement.

Helms had been backing a plan of Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole, R-Kan., to bypass the committee and take a bill straight to the floor. Dole abandoned that plan late Wednesday.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan had a small "bump" removed from his nose after it became irritated by adhesive tape following his recent cancer surgery, but an examination showed that no further treatment is necessary, the White House said Thursday.

Presidential spokesman Larry Speakes at first told reporters that a biopsy — a laboratory procedure in test for the presence of malignancy — was being performed.

Later, however, Speakes issued a brief statement saying only that the tissue "was submitted for routine studies for infection, and it was determined no further treatment is necessary."

Speakes would not explain the apparent discrepancy between his earlier statement that a biopsy would be performed and his later announcement that doctors were checking only for infection. He declined to speak to reporters gathered outside his office, and other White House press aides said they were not at liberty to discuss the matter.

After about 30 minutes, Speakes emerged to say "We issued a statement, and the statement is it."

He repeated that statement in reply to numerous questions, refusing to say what the bump was, whether Reagan had skin cancer, whether doctors performed a biopsy or why he would not be more forthcoming.

Dr. T. Burton Smith, the White House physician, when reached by telephone in his office, described the problem as "a little pimply type of thing" that was not biopsied to determine whether it was cancerous. He said it was not a mole or growth that could be malignant, then refused to answer further questions.

The procedure was performed by a dermatologist in the White House physician's office Tuesday, Speakes said. "It will be routinely checked," he said.

Associated with Reagan's case agreed the problem could be any of several common skin ailments, none of which pose a serious health problem for the 74-year-old president.

Speakes said Reagan was in "excellent, A-1" health and was "headlong toward normal" as he recuperates from surgery July 13.

Nuclear panel grants license

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nuclear Regulatory Commission, with one member dissenting over lingering earthquake concerns, approved a full-power operating license Thursday for the second reactor at California's Diablo Canyon nuclear plant.

Opponents of the twin-reactor, $5.6 billion plant on the Pacific Coast near San Luis Obispo, Calif., said they plan to ask a federal appeals court to overturn the NRC's action.

Commission officials said the license will not be issued until the giant Westinghouse-manufactured reactor completes a low-power testing program, expected in about two weeks.

Commissioner James Asselstine dissented in the 4-1 vote, saying the NRC still owes the plant's opponents a hearing on whether a nearby earthquake might hamper an emergency evacuation of the area in case of a radioactivity-releasing accident.

'Shrinking Man' star dies at age 54

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Grant Williams, who played the title role in the classic science fiction film "The Incredible Shrinking Man," has died at age 54.

Williams, a New York City native who studied under the late Lee Strasberg before coming to Hollywood, was treated for blood poisoning at the Veterans Administration Hospital, where he died Sunday, hospital officials said.

Williams also had a featured role in "PT-109" and was one of the co-stars of the television series "Hawaii Eye" from 1960 to 1963.

AIDS drug trials may start in U.S.

PARIS (AP) — The producers of the chemical used in actor Rock Hudson's AIDS treatment say controlled clinical trials of the substance, ZPA 23, may start soon in the United States.

But they warn against excessive optimism.

One American AIDS victim who has undergone 10 weeks' treatment in Paris with ZPA 23, Bob White, says it appears to have stabilized his case, though not those of some other Americans receiving the treatment.

Dr. Yves Champy, vice president for medical and scientific development at the government-owned chemical company Rhone-Poulenc Sante, which makes ZPA 23, said new trials "will start in France in the coming weeks" on up to 150 patients.

"In seven to eight months we will have at least preliminary results and some hard facts to work on"

about the effect of ZPA 23 at various dosages and its side effects, he told The Associated Press on Wednesday.

Patients will be chosen for the tests "as early as possible after diagnosis," he said. He stressed that ZPA 23 is still only a chemical compound and not a developed drug.

In the United States, the company's American branch, Rhone-Poulenc Pharmaceuticals, is expected to file for Food and Drug Administration permission for clinical trials "in three to four weeks, maximum," Champy said.

The FDA has said it could "turn around" the application within two weeks. Research is already under way in the United States on other possible AIDS drugs.

Among about 10 other Americans getting ZPA 23, he said, "some are not quite as healthy and have had infections."

Delegates applaud hard line on payment

HAVANA (AP) — A young guerrilla told Fidel Castro's debt-repudiation conference Thursday that if "imperialism" wants payment "it will have to deal with him and his comrades, who will control Latin America in the next century."

Antonio Navarro Wolf of the Colombian guerrilla movement, M-19, drew sustained applause from the more than 500 Latin American delegates when he was introduced. He was said to have suffered battle wounds.

"We say to imperialism: Prepare yourselves, because it is us with whom in the 21st century you are going to have to discuss the future of this continent," he said. Much of Latin America's $360 billion foreign debt is owed to U.S. banks.

Noting the presence of a number of former presidents and former government officials from Latin America, Navarro said he had come to speak in the name of those who will govern in the future.

World Nakasone denounces bomb

TOKYO (AP) — Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone Thursday called the U.S. atomic bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki an "indiscriminatory attack on civilians" that violated international law.

He said the world's first use of an atomic bomb in war, the bomb was dropped Aug. 6, 1945, on Hiroshima in western Japan.

An estimated 118,000 people were killed in Hiroshima. Three days later, a second nuclear bomb killed an estimated 78,000 people in Nagasaki in southwestern Japan.

Informed sources confirmed to The Associated Press that Nakasone made the statements in an interview with NBC News.

The interview is to be aired in the United States next Monday on a program marking the 40th anniversary of the world's first use of an

Digest labels Symms 'vulnerable' candidate

By DEAN S. MITLER
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — With the Senate Democrats looking to win back the majority they lost in 1980, Sen. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, has been labeled vulnerable to a challenge from Democratic Gov. John Evans.

Congressional Quarterly, an independent political digest based in Washington, D.C., has named Symms one of three "vulnerable" GOP senators. Three others were labeled "highly vulnerable." All six are freshmen and captured 50 to 58 percent of the vote in their elections.

"Highly vulnerable" GOP senators were Paula Hawkins, Fla.; James Abdnor, S.D.; and John P. East, N.C. "Vulnerable" GOP senators were Symms, Arlen Specter, Pa., and Jeremiah Denton, Ala. Symms' chief of staff, Phil Reberger, said there's no thought that it's going to be a cakewalk at all, said Symms press aide Rusty Butler in Symms' Washington office. "If Evans is the candidate, we'll be prepared for him and we consider him to be a formidable candidate."

Butler says the governor's duties in Boise give him a leg up on Symms. "He is the sitting governor, which gives him the benefit of the daily exposure in the state as opposed to the sitting senator (Symms) who conducts most of his business in Washington, D.C."

Reberger says Evans' duties as host of the National Governor's Convention in Boise this weekend will bring him a lot of attention, but that the memory of the convention will have long faded by the time the campaign begins in earnest a year from now.

Reberger says the Senate franking (free postage) privilege will help to overcome Evans' homecourt advantage. "It is a vital part of the whole operation."

Symms, who routinely sends the Times-News two or three press releases each week, sends about 10,000 weekly newsletters and about 350,000 quarterly reports to Idaho media outlets and voters each year, Reberger said.

Symms' campaign cost about $1.7 million in 1980, and Reberger said experts are predicting that cost will increase by 50 percent in 1986.

Reberger said the battle for the control of the Senate dominates talk in Washington, while Idahoans may not be aware of the importance of the Symms race to party politics in the capital. "The Republicans are determined to maintain control," Reberger said.

He said the Republicans are pleased to hold a 53-47 majority in the Senate and the Democrats are desperate to break that.

Congressional Quarterly listed five Democrats as "vulnerable" in the 1986 U.S. Senate races. All are in at least their second terms, but are facing strong challengers or may be retiring. The seats of Thomas F. Eagleton, Mo., and Russell B. Long, La., are listed as "highly vulnerable," due to their retirements.

Patrick Leahy, Vt.; Alan Cranston, Calif.; and Gary Hart, Colo., are listed as "vulnerable."

Voters like beer proposal

Sunday beer sales may pass on 3rd try

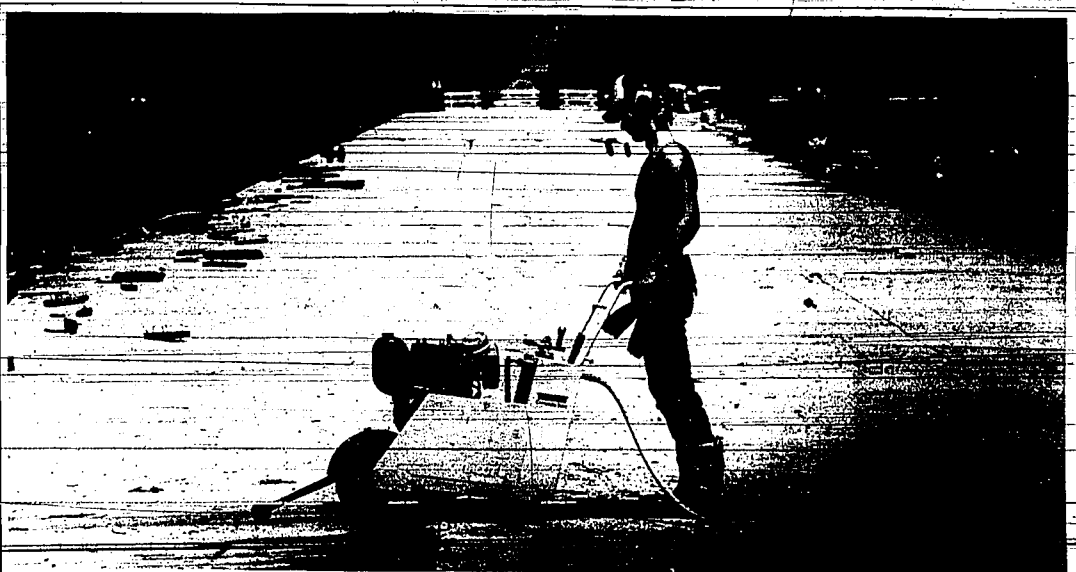

RUPERT (AP) — Rupert voters say it's all right with them if the city allows the sale of beer on Sunday.

In a two-week advisory election that ended Wednesday, the proposal to allow Sunday beer sales in Rupert was supported by a vote of 429-10-181. Mayor W.F. "Bill" Whitton said the non-binding vote has sent a message to the city council that residents approve beer sales.

"I think it's what they want," Whitton said Wednesday night.

The mayor said an ordinance allowing Sunday beer sales in Rupert will be considered for a third and final reading at the Rupert City Council's next meeting on Aug. 6, Whitton said. He would recommend its passage.

He also said the proposed beer-sales ordinance has not attracted any supporters or detractors to the council's prior two readings.

Hard work

Todd Patheal cuts expansion joints in Twin Falls' Eastland Drive, which is being reconstructed with concrete. The 1600-foot section between Filer Avenue and Hillcrest Drive is nearly completed, but traffic will not be allowed on the roadway until the concrete has cured, a process which takes about two weeks.

Law tightens small hazardous waste disposals

By KENNETH A. BROWN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Beginning Aug. 5, changes in federal hazardous waste laws will require even small quantity generators of hazardous waste to "manifest" their wastes disposed of in municipal landfills.

The required manifest is a written record of the types and quantities of hazardous wastes disposed of and the facility or landfill receiving the wastes.

Steve Provant, acting chief for the Division laws ahead. After April 1, 1986, small quantity generators will also be required to use licensed disposal facilities — like the Envirosafe site near Grand View.

Provant predicted that the new regulations could affect between 400 to 450 businesses in

According to the new regulations, small quantity generators are defined as persons who generate between 220 and 2,200 pounds of waste in any month.

Under current regulations, those producing under 2,200 pounds of waste a month can dispose of their hazardous wastes in municipal landfills. Those with over 2,200 pounds per month must use a licensed hazardous waste disposal facility.

The new laws requiring a manifest for small generators are merely a prelude to tougher laws ahead. After April 1, 1986, small quantity generators will also be required to use licensed disposal facilities — like the Envirosafe site near Grand View.

Provant predicted that the new regulations could affect between 400 to 450 businesses in the state and as many as 50 businesses in the Twin Falls area.

While the new regulations will mean more paperwork and higher costs for firms trying to dispose of their toxic wastes, Provant said small producers may be able to avoid manifesting on their own because of other companies interested in hazardous waste disposal. Some companies, he said, are looking into the feasibility of collecting hazardous wastes from small producers and separating the different chemicals for recycling.

While the new manifest requirements will not require transporters and receivers of hazardous waste from small generators to keep records on file, Jerome Jankowski, a waste specialist with the state's Division of Environment, said it will help make people think about their hazardous or toxic wastes before stricter laws requiring disposal in licensed facilities come into effect.

"Lots of times," Jankowski said, "people don't know their wastes are hazardous — particularly with heavy metals, corrosives and flammable liquids."

Jankowski said the temporary manifest system will help give the state and federal government a better idea of the types of hazardous waste being disposed of in municipal landfills.

"Nobody really knows what's being taken to landfills in trash bins," Jankowski added.

While there is a possibility that some producers will try to circumvent the law by not reporting small quantities of hazardous waste, Jankowski warned that penalties can be severe.

Counties, cities may work for labor exemptions

By DAVE LEWIS
Times-News correspondent

SUN VALLEY — Although they must comply with the Fair Labor Standards Act, county and city officials in Idaho can sign together for relief from the act's provisions.

That was one of the messages given Magic Valley public officials Thursday when they met in Sun Valley for a work session on the act, which local governments must comply with because of a recent decision by the U.S. Supreme Court. The ruling forbids public employees from accumulating "comp time" and requires instead that workers be paid for overtime.

"I have to understand that President Reagan and the Congress are not too happy with what's happening to us," William J. Jarocki, deputy director of the Association of Idaho Cities, told the officials. "We have to let them know how this impacts us."

Jarocki encouraged the officials gathered at Elkhorn to give Sen. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, specific information on how the law affects their city or county.

Symms, he said, is co-sponsoring a bill that would allow at least some exemptions to state and local governments after the Supreme Court ruling on Feb. 15, 1984, reversed an earlier decision that exempted public employees from the provisions of the act.

The decision is expected to have a major impact on Idaho cities and counties that often give employees compensatory or "comp" time rather than overtime to save money.

In her welcoming address, Sun Valley Mayor Ruth Lieder said she is depressed by what's coming with the federal government and the Fair Labor Standards Act. She said Idaho's local governments are already financially strapped by their inability to create local taxes and falling under the FLSA will only make it worse.

She said her own city already has had to cut its budget 42 percent this year, losing its Resort Cities-Local Option Tax to a court decision late last year. Now, it faces more cuts under the FLSA provision, she said.

Lieder said comp time is attractive to her city because employees can accrue comp time during peak tourist seasons and then take time off in the non-tourist periods.

"It's a good argument for comp time," she said. "However, we're stuck with the FLSA."

Fair will feature national event

By PAT MARCANTONIO
Times-News writer

FILER — August 24 is the deadline to enter several cattle shows, including a national polled Hereford competition, to be held in conjunction with the 1985 Twin Falls County Fair and Rodeo, Sept. 3-7.

The big one — with $10,600 in premiums — is the Tom Callen Standard of Perfection Polled Hereford Show, sponsored by the American, Idaho and Twin Falls County Polled Hereford Associations. There will be, however, competition from around the country because it's a national judging event for the polled or hornless Herefords.

The local sponsors named the show after Callen, a Rogerson rancher, said Fair Manager Tom Shouse. Although it is a national contest, the Idaho groups wanted to honor a local breeder who has made contributions to the breed and polled Hereford associations, he said.

"That's why we picked Tom Callen," Shouse added.

The last time the fair hosted the event was in 1973. Besides the prize money, winning a standard of perfection show gives the owner national recognition, Shouse said.

The entry fee is $10. Participants in the semi-annual "Big Western" Register of Merit Hereford Show can vie for $6,000 in premiums. This competition is sponsored by the American and Idaho Hereford Associations in conjunction with the county fair.

Only animals registered with the association will be eligible.

Bus contract solves school district flap

By PAULA EUBANKS
Times-News writer

BUHL — A Buhl School District gears bus controversy switched Thursday when a bus contractor accepted the district's payment-per-mile rate of $1.28.

The agreement smooths a controversy that has rattled school districts since March 1, when the district started negotiations on the rate with the current bus school contractor, Doug Scott of Buhl.

During the negotiations, the district decided to sell its three school buses, which it leased to Scott as part of a complex deal to obtain depreciation on the buses. The Buhl School Board made its decision after hearing public input about the lease arrangement and the district's remaining debt on the buses, said School Supt. Gus Spiropoulos.

The public and teachers reacted to the Buhl school Board's consideration of reduction-in-force policies, the recent yearly override levies and other symbols of the district's financial crunch and asked the board to get rid of its bus debt, Spiropoulos said.

The two-year-old buses will go on the market next week, after three community members assessed their value Thursday afternoon.

Council denies Daon project

By DAVE LEWIS
Times-News correspondent

KETCHUM — The proposed Greyhawk hotel in Ketchum was formally denied by the City Council Tuesday when it adopted the findings from its previous decisions.

Although the council's action was expected, the project's denial became official only after Tuesday's action. A representative of the developer, however, says there may be more to come on the matter.

"I doubt that it's over," said Dick Fenlon, a local representative for Daon Development Corp., the Canadian developer for the proposed 300-unit hotel at the base of Bald Mountain.

Asked if that meant Daon would sue the city over the rejection, Fenlon said that decision would have to be made by other people in the firm, not him.

Daon has 60 days in which to file a lawsuit to keep the issue alive. Otherwise, it will have to accept the decision that fiercely divided the council and may become an issue in this fall's City Council election.

Tuesday's action by the council solidified its decision of October 1984 that the planned unit development project was inappropriate under the city zoning laws.

Primarily, the council said it believed the project would adversely affect the city's largest residential district by creating too much traffic on Warm Springs Road, the only access to the project's proposed site.

The road is substandard and cannot be widened or improved sufficiently because homes and other buildings are too close to it.

The council also objected to Daon's request for a height limitation waiver and thought the project, asked to transfer dwelling unit densities too close to the base of Bald Mountain, which has Sun Valley's primary ski runs.

Traffic, however, was the main issue, and the city used a traffic study it commissioned to support its position. The study concluded that if the project was built, traffic would exceed the road's capacity during certain peak tourist days as skiers leave the mountain in the late afternoon.

Daon rebutted the city position with its own traffic study that said the project would cause the traffic not be widened or improved suffi-

Evans reports campaign contributions

BOISE (AP) — Gov. John Evans has received contributions totaling $84,146 for a possible 1986 race against Sen. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, according to a semiannual campaign finance report filed with the secretary of state.

Symms mailed his report Wednesday, but it had not been received by the secretary of state's office.

The office also received campaign finance reports for the first six months of this year from Republican Ist. District Rep. Larry Craig, Sen. Jim McClure, R-Idaho, who is not up for reelection until 1990, and state Sen. Dane Watkins, R-Idaho Falls, who is seeking the Republican nomination to run against 2nd District Democratic Rep. Richard Stallings.

Stallings' report was not received by the secretary of state's office, but the freshman congressman issued a statement that he had raised $27,792 and spent $19,743 to retire debts from his 1984 campaign.

An Evans-Symms campaign is expected to break the all-time state spending record set by Symms and the late Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, in 1980. Symms and Church spent a total of $3.7 million in that campaign, which Symms won by about 1 percent of the vote.

Evans, a Democrat, transferred $7,314 from his gubernatorial campaign committee to the John Evans for Senate Committee.

The governor's biggest contributions came from labor political action committees and labor PACs, including the Communication Workers of America and the United Auto Workers, pitched in $5,000 each to Evans' Senate war chest, according to the report.

The Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee gave Evans $4,000, and the Fund-for-a Democratic Majority kicked in another $2,000, the report said.

The governor also submitted several pages of individual contributors who gave from $1 to $300 for his possible race against Symms.

Evans' expenses during the first half of 1985 included $9,987 for a fund-raising mailing and $6,508 for computers and supplies. The report said he also spent $6,000 to hire Paul Fenn and Associates, a Washington, D.C., political consulting firm headed by Fenn, a former aide to Church.

The Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee conducted a poll for Evans last spring at a cost of $4,000.

Craig reported raising $39,791 and spending $19,289 over the first six months of the year. His biggest single contribution was $4,550 from the National Rifle Association Victory Fund. He also received $1,700 from the Mountain Bell political action committee.

Joe Albertson, founder of Albertson's grocery store chain, and his wife gave Craig $300. Warren McCain, chairman of Albertson's, and his wife gave the congressman $200. John Ferry, chief executive officer of Boise Cascade Corp., gave Craig $500.

The third-term congressman reported the theft of $1,311 among his expenditures. Karmen Larsen, Craig's district administrator, said the money was stolen in the mall when checks and cash from a fund-raising event were sent to the bank.

Watkins, one of several Republicans who have expressed interest in running against Stallings next year, reported raising $5,100 toward his campaign.

McClure received $5,764 during the period and spent $27,350. He reported that he still had $294,092 on hand from his 1984 campaign.

Peace rally set Aug. 4

BOISE — "Peace on Parade" is the theme of a rally and parade Aug. 4 here.

Participants and sponsoring organizations will be making the joint statement that "Current world priorities must be changed. We must bring social, economic and environmental justice to the world and build new systems of international cooperation and security rather than continue to meet the demands of an arms race out of control."

Speaking at the rally, which begins at 3:30 p.m. at the Julia Davis Park Bandshell, will be Rhonda Knocke, state representative of the National Organization for Women; David Johnson, assistant professor at the Boise State University Social Work Department; and Ira Kalef, a member of the Union of Concerned Scientists, who is a physicist by profession and a graduate of the University of Washington, Seattle.

Music will be provided by Rosalee Sorrels and J.J. Dion during the rally.

A parade will precede the rally starting at 2 p.m. at Boise High School track field and lead up to Julia Davis Park.

"The current national debt totals over $1.8 trillion, costing citizens tens of billions in interest yearly," said spokesperson Claire Turner.

total world military budget exceeds $800 billion. Our country's leadership must find the courage to take a stand against the deadly cycle of spending which is taking money from needed programs in the domestic budget and creating injustices in all sectors of our national and worldwide picture."

Stallings pays off '84 campaign debts

POCATELLO (AP) — Idaho Democratic Congressman Richard Stallings has paid off his 1984 campaign debts and started raising money toward his anticipated 1986 re-election campaign.

According to the nonelection year mid-year finance reports, Stallings raised nearly $38,000 during the first six months of 1985, the bulk of it from business and agricultural political action committees. His reports showed contributions from about 100 Idaho residents.

Some $20,000 of that amount was used to pay off debts from his 1984 victory over incumbent George Hansen, and the rest has been as the foundation for financing his planned re-election campaign.

The Ricks College professor has not formally announced yet, but he has strongly indicated that he will seek a second term from the highly sought-after southern Idaho district.

In a heated campaign last year, Stallings managed only a slim 170-vote victory over Hansen, even though the incumbent was run under the cloud of a four-count felony conviction for falsifying federal financial disclosure statements.

Hansen, who is appealing the conviction and the $10,000 fine and civil penalty, was a member of the Idaho state bar and had been elected to the state bar next year depending on the outcome of his appeal. His wife Connie has also said she may run for the

Hazelton couple faces trial on manslaughter charges

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES Times-News writer

The Statens appeared Tuesday without an attorney but entered innocent pleas on his advice, they told the court.

Magistrate Roger Burdick of Jerome ordered the two bound over to district court last month following a preliminary hearing. During that hearing, Dr. John Gray, a Twin Falls pathologist, testified that Hazelton "entered separate pleas of guilty to manslaughter, child abuse and charge when they appeared for arraignment in Fifth District Court in Jerome Tuesday.

Their daughter, Tanya Lynne State, died last Feb. 3 at the family home. At the time of her death, the child weighed only 10 pounds. Autopsy results indicated death resulted from bronchopneumonia, malnutrition and a lack of medical treatment.

District Judge Philip M. Becker said he would set a trial date and notify the prosecutor's office and the defendants.

Buses

The public and teachers reacted to the Buhl School Board's consideration of reduction-in-force policies, the recent yearly override levies and other symbols of the district's financial crisis.

The two-year-old buses will go on the market next week, after three community members assessed their value Thursday afternoon.

The public and teachers also were involved in the bus issue. Leonard Crismon, a board member who negotiated the rate with Scott before lawyers took over.

"There was a misunderstanding in the community about why we bought the buses," Crismon said.

The board bought the three buses two years ago, planning to use them mainly for student transportation and from extracurricular activities, such as athletic events.

They thought they would be reimbursed for 85 percent of the cost of the buses' through the Idaho Department of Education, but discovered during an audit of their bus records that they could only claim the funds if the buses were used for basic school transportation routes, Spiropoulos said.

Since Scott had a contract for 12 regular routes, he directed the board to lease the buses to him so he could run them on the regular routes.

The board did this partly to gain the reimbursement and depreciation qualification, but also to help Scott, Crismon said.

Buhl business wins contract

TWIN FALLS — A Buhl construction firm has been awarded a contract for nearly $266,000 to rehabilitate the popular Baumgartner Campground on the South Fork of the Boise River. Forest Service officials said.

The contract won by Winn and Co. calls for a major project to upgrade the campground in the Sawtooth road, including camping units and adding new tables, fire pits and barbecue stands.

Forest Service officials said the campground's water system also will be improved with the construction of three new restrooms.

Fairfield District Ranger John Madden said the Baumgartner self-guiding nature trail, adjacent to the campground, also will be surfaced and improved with new interpretive signs.

Madden said the campground, about 9 miles east of Featherline, would be closed for the rest of the recreation season. The use fee there may increase from the current $3 per day when the area reopens next summer, he said.

There is a $10 entry fee.

Also sponsored by the national Hereford organization is the Register of Merit Qualifying Pen. Bred animals must be entered in qualifying shows before they can be judged in the register of merit competitions. Shows said. The qualifying shows usually are held every two years.

More than $1,000 in prize money per breed will be awarded in the Idaho Intermountain Dairy Show, sponsored by the Idaho Dairymen Association. It's the third year for the event. Shows said.

In other shows, $500 in prizes will be awarded to young ranchers in the Northwest Junior Hereford Heifer Show. Area Junior Hereford groups are sponsoring the event, which costs $10 to enter.

To be eligible for the annual show, entrants must be members of associations and have livestock registered with either the American Hereford Association or American Polled Hereford Associations.

The Idaho Hereford Breeders Association will sponsor the Straight Breed—Hereford—Steer Show, with $300 in prizes for the champions.

The shows are open to anyone. Entry forms are available at the fair office and must be returned by Aug. 21.

In addition, Aug. 21 is the deadline for entering other livestock competitions at the fair.

More information on the fair rules concerning the livestock shows may be found in the 1985 fair premium book.

the city was exposing itself to a lawsuit from Daon by denying the project. Daon has claimed the city had to believe the project was acceptable before finally denying the hotel.

"I think, based on the record and the findings of facts being discussed today, that the city's action is reasonable," Phillips said.

Any action by the council must be signed by the mayor. After the council adopted its findings, Mayor Jerry Seiffert, also a supporter of the project, said he was reluctant to sign the document because he could not in good conscience defend it in court if Daon sued the city.

Phillips assured him other members of the council could do that if necessary, and the mayor placed his signature on it. Then he had his say on the matter.

"Compromise is one of the great words in the English language and one of the things I don't like about this document is it doesn't represent a compromise," Seiffert said.

"Compromise is candy-ass," said Councilman Jack Cordeau, an opponent of the project.

'Never Look Back'

It's not only the title of his thriller, it's how Bellevue author sees life

By TERRY RICH HARTLEY
Times-News correspondent

BELLEVUE — A short distance from Bellevue, near a watery haven known locally as the Broadford Slough, exists a multilayered ecosystem.

First—and most obvious—is the clear-water slough itself, teeming with fresh-water shrimp and brook trout, and visited often by blue heron, mink and otter. Not far away, a spacious log home inhabited by a clean-cut, youngish couple, Ridley and Colleen Pearson, oversees this semi-wilderness.

Yet, the real intrigue is housed in the skull of Ridley Pearson, novelist, where scenes of espionage, murder, international skulduggery and fairly explicit bedroom wrestling take place all in a day's task. Working their way down his nervous system and out his fingertips, a recent batch of mysterious characters have found themselves bound between the hard covers of the novel "Never Look Back," published by St. Martin's Press.

Written as a thriller, "Never Look Back" features American agent Andy Clayton chasing Bulgarian agent Leonid Borikowski across much of the U.S. and Canada. Clayton, who has been kept out of action by his own superiors for 18 months, has more than just official business to take care of with the Bulgarian — it was Borikowski who allegedly rubbed out Clayton's wife, Frances Duncan.

With a combination of vengeance, professionalism and bulldog tenacity, Andy Clayton is deemed by his boss to be the one man who can catch Borikowski — alive preferably — but, dead if the other is too inconvenient.

Herein lies the twist. When first assigned the case, Clayton and his superior, thought the skull of Borikowski — the man of a hundred faces — had slipped into Canada to assassinate the Pope who was scheduled to visit Montreal.

A ruse! Guided by a master spy's zeal coupled with "innate" instincts, Borikowski slips across the U.S. border and steals a genetically-designed bacteria meant to be used as a biological weapon. He refuses to do it, therefore, making the U.S. energy independent. Yet, like all good things, the bacteria has a bad side — it interjects with and destroys living things. Let loose, it could turn the western hemisphere into a dust bowl.

Leaving a wake of murder and mayhem, the Bulgarian and his cohorts pull out all stops to escape from Clayton who is unaware that if he kills Borikowski, Western civilization may cease to exist.

Here is where the book really charges up; here is where the reader must extract $14.95 plus tax and visit a book store.

Glib, wry of frame and boiling with enthusiasm, the 32-year-old Pearson fought his way into publication with dedication and to 15 hours of pounding the keyboard every day, including numerous drafts and rewrites, he estimates some 6,000 pages were written before "Never Look Back" finally jelled into its present 310-page form.

A New York native reared in Connecticut, Pearson has now lived in Idaho six years. He figures his background was appropriate for becoming a novelist. "I was a musician for 14 years," he says. "The music life preps you for all this. Failure is more common than success. That's where you earn your master's degree in the School of Hard Knocks."

Playing with the "Big Lost Rainbow," a band he formed, then "The Otis and Ridley Band and Montage," Pearson enjoyed mild success, but not the kind that makes one rich. He points out that their music was all original and couldn't compete on the massive scale of hard rock.

Yet, during this time of playing with a rather weird instrumental arrangement of color flutes, acoustic guitars and bass, he was planting the seeds of a future literary career by writing many of the songs himself. He also learned to roll with the punches.

"Ego has no place in that kind of deal," he says. "You have to respect and listen to the people you work with."

Certainly, that attitude has carried over into Pearson's fiction writing and may have, in fact, been a prime reason that he was able to get past the mighty hurdle of getting a first book published.

"To make it in book writing, I found that you can't be a 'lone' writer," he says, indicating that prima donna types don't often get published. "You have to be prepared to be cut, altered and rewritten."

Pearson's normally mild that expression draws serious when he says of publishers, "These people know how to sell books. They say this is what this book must have to make it; my choice is to either accept that or go to somebody else." He chose to stay.

Not only is the Bellevue author unfrustrated that a publisher would dare meddle with his literary child, he is totally ingenuous about his share of the finished work. "It is entertainment," he says. "If I don't entertain you, I'm not doing my job. I'm the creative end of the business and that's just how I look at it."

Further, the author lays heavy credit on his wife for handling the research end of the business. "I could tell her I needed to know where every stop sign in Montana was and she'd find out," he says.

Other than a rigid prep school education in upstate Connecticut, Pearson acknowledges that he has no specific formal education to pave the way for writing thrillers. His real trainers, he points out, are the masters of the genre John D. MacDonald, Robert Ludlum, John Le Carré and Tom Follet.

He thinks that Follet's "Eye of the Needle" is a standard setter, while MacDonald's "Hombre" is the masters of words. It is by reading these successful authors that Pearson learned the structure of thrillers, he says.

Yet, as important as learning structure and, even, characterization, it must be noted that Pearson reached into a well of stamina to struggle to this point in his career. While still hot on the music trail, he heard Peter Falk complain on Johnny Carson's "Tonight Show" that good scripts were few and far between.

Being that "Columbo" was his favorite TV fare, Pearson set out to correct that. "It took me a year and a half to learn how to write a television script and then actually finish one," he says, adding with a smile, "Before I could send it in, 'Columbo' was cancelled."

"After writing six more mystery scripts that failed to sell, he moved to Idaho to write with his brother, Brad. Nothing developed of their joint effort, nevertheless, he wrote and submitted a novel, "White-Out," to 18 publishers without any hope.

Then, things changed. Through a friend of a friend, he found an experienced agent who helped him edit "Never Look Back" and peddle it around — the publishing world until it was hooked by St. Martin's by St. Martin's. Press. Currently, the book is in its third printing with a fourth to follow.

Moreover, Pearson has just wrapped up his second to-be-published novel, "Lady Fine," which incorporates his knowledge of the music world with espionage thrillers. It is due for release in spring 1986, along with plans to write 18 more novels in the next eight years.

Twin Falls native returns after dancing to pinnacle of ballet

By TERRY RICH HARTLEY
Times-News correspondent

TWIN FALLS — The two-week Summer Dance Workshop currently winding up at the College of Western Idaho has prompted the return of one of Twin Falls' native sons, one who has danced at the up-pinnacle of professional ballet.

John Nelson, 37, son of Hazel Nelson and the late Lloyd Nelson, was invited to teach ballet performance at the workshop while his wife, Janice James-Nelson, accompanied him to teach pointe variation.

Nelson first began dancing under the tutelage of Beverly Hackney in Twin Falls in 1964. He joined Ballet West in 1967, rising to the position of soloist before joining the Cincinnati Ballet Co. as a principal dancer in 1970.

Currently, Nelson co-directs, with his wife, the American Festival Ballet School, the American Festival Ballet Junior Company and is a ballet instructor at the University of Idaho.

According to Hackney, Nelson was able to climb beyond the normal ranks because of his willingness to work. "It goes with dance that talent is 90-percent perspiration and 10-percent inspiration," she says, adding, "The dancer must want to dance, have the will to dance, then work at dancing."

"John was with me only 19 months, but he didn't do the once-a-week lesson. He danced every class, every day, then got the keys to the studio for extra workouts."

Nelson says, "It was just the right thing for me; the thing I wanted to do. It hit me the right way, so you could say I was falling into what I wanted to do."

Spending the last half of his senior year at East High in Salt Lake City, Nelson says he lived part of that time with the director of the Utah Civic Ballet. "I got a full scholarship to a six-month music camp," he says, adding, "By this time, my interest was built and it was just a simple step from there."

Ballet teacher John Nelson calls for a more emotional quality in dance, beyond technique

Yet, the dancer is self-effacing about his quick rise. Asked how he climbed so fast in such a difficult profession, he answers, "To be blunt, it was because I was a man. There were only 2,000 professional dancers in the U.S., so to have a man come into the profession was very easy. I was reasonably talented physically and big enough that I could haul girls around pretty easily."

He describes a different world for youngsters coming into dance these days. "With the whole physical fitness craze, including aerobics, breakdancing and jazz, thousands of aspiring dancers are all competing for the same jobs," he explains. "There are many more men dancing and the technical level for dance companies is much higher."

Pointing out that he is a teacher now, rather than a performer, Nelson says it doesn't trouble him that he doesn't still perform. "I probably could perform better than I could 10 years ago," he says, adding, "There's a strange illusion in this country that you have to be young to dance. We've put such emphasis on youth that we burn them out before they are at their peak."

As part of the growth pattern of dance, Nelson says he would like to see a freshness beyond technique, an idea of what it's like to be professional, "but must have more creativity in choreography and performance. It should have an emotional quality that doesn't wear

Nelson sees a strong future for dance in the U.S. and is heartened by the turnout of young aspirants at the local workshop which has been sponsored by the Idaho Dance Alliance in conjunction with CSI. He notes that, including last week's mini-workshop, some 125 young people have been involved in the production. "We've put such emphasis on youth that we burn them out before they are at their peak."

"The students are being exposed to a level of dance they haven't experienced before," he says. "They get three to four classes a day in diverse disciplines. It gives them an idea of what it's like to be professional," he says, "but must have more

CBS takes daytime Emmy crown

NEW YORK (AP) — CBS, the top-rated network in daytime this past season, dominated the non-prime-time Emmys on Thursday, winning 12 of 17 awards, including triple honors for the soap operas "The Young and the Restless" and "Guiding Light."

"The Young and the Restless" won for outstanding daytime drama series, beating the white Darnell Williams, as Jesse Hubbard, on ABC's "All My Children," was named outstanding actor.

"All My Children" won two Emmys, the only awards for ABC. Third-rated NBC was shut out in the performance and program categories.

The two-hour program turned out to be a promotional coup for CBS, which broadcast the 12th annual awards ceremonies live from the Waldorf Astoria in New York. It was the first time the ceremonies were shown on TV since 1982.

Other multiple winners were the talk show "Donahue" and CBS' "The $25,000 Pyramid." "Donahue" took both awards in the talk-service show category. Phil as H. B. Lewis, from "Guiding Light," who kissed his wife, actress Marie Thomas, before walking to the stage, accepted the Emmy for best host, and the "Donahue" which moved from Chicago to New York this year, won for best show.

The longtime, award-winning series "Sesame Street" on public television won again for outstanding children's program.

The CBS Schoolbreak Special, "All the Kids Do," won for best children's special.

Henry Winkler was executive producer of the drama about teen-age drinking. He also made his directing debut on the film.

Dick Clark of "The $25,000 Pyramid" was named outstanding game show host. Bob Barker, host of "The Price Is Right," was also in the category.

"Pyramid" also won for best game show. This year, "The Price Is Right" was the top-rated game writing.

In the supporting actress and actor drama categories, the winners were Beth-Maria Lande, "Frasier," and Romalotti, from "The Young and the Restless" and Larry Gates, from "Guiding Light."

The category of outstanding juvenile male actor and top "ingenue" were won by CBS performers: Brian Bonno, who plays Dustin Donovan on "As the World Turns," and Truay E. Bregman, as Lauren Fenmore on public television, in "The Young and the Restless."

From September through April, the regular television season, CBS averaged a 6.7 rating to ABC's 6.1 and NBC's 5.0. A rating measures the average percentage of the nation's 84.9 million TV homes watching during a given minute during daytime.

Other Emmy winners were: Marc Breslow of "The Price Is Right" for best director-of-a-game show; "Guiding Light" direction team for best direction in a drama series; and ABC's "All My Children" for best writing.

Political author's optimism shrinks in '80s

by ART SEIDENBAUM
The Los Angeles Times

Fiction, like freedom, is supposed to be in trouble. Most people seem to agree. To other people, wanting information, want logical methods for dealing with reality rather than literary means of escape. That is why, say these same other people, Lee Iacocca's autobiography outsells John Irving's novel by so many orders of magnitude.

Many artists mourn the hunger for data but live with a corollary notion: accepting its limitation on their work; that imagination suffers when politics or urgency intrudes. The novelist or playwright who pursues politics in the process of creation is accused of writing tracts or polemics or tainted works of ulterior persuasion.

Then there is Günter Grass, the author of "The Tin Drum" and "The Flounder," a novelist who knows that the writer is inseparable from specific time, immediate place. He neither contrives escape nor offers it.

He introduces himself to tell us how urgent was his time and how perilous his place: "Born in Danzig on the Baltic Sea, I was 5 in 1923, 12 in 1939. In May 1945, I was 17, too young to participate in the crimes of National Socialism, but old enough to have been shaped by their consequences. Innocent through no fault of my own, perhaps only accidentally without guilt, I have a low opinion of belated anti-fascism."

For this novelist, freedom and fiction share a trouble with authority rather than an audience, a continuing battle against the bureaucracies refusing "to recognize any reality besides their own," against a world of censors convinced that fiction is itself a subversive threat to present order and that any unconforming idea is by nature dangerous. So Grass plays and poems and fictions have been articulations of the writer's imperative to call against authority imposed or regime institutionalized.

The villains of his pieces may be on the right or left, whether the Soviet suppressing Solidarity in Poland or the United States deciding who the "freedom fighters" are in Nicaragua. A 1982 speech in Frankfurt implores Pope John Paul II, "the Polish Pope," to realize that Solidarity and Solidarity spring from similar aspirations: The enemy is ideology and, therefore, the Communists generally fare worse than the West in his reviews of recent superpower behavior, but Grass distrusts any system claiming to have answers for everyone; the sin is certainty.

He is, by extension, opposed to revolution; I detect the sacrifices that always have to be made in the name. I detect its superhuman theme: Literature and the goals, its absolute demands, its inhuman intolerance; I fear the mechanism of revolution, which had to invent permanent counterrevolution as an antidote to its efforts. Fiction and freedom, he would have us understand, are dangers to both those in power and those who would seize it. He even has an assignment for fellow-writers: to stop thinking about "Literature and Revolution" and give some consideration to the unspectacular, less inflammatory theme: Literature and the Republic. The book's most graceful parts are the previously published essays, brightly translated by Itzhak Munnheim. The most hortatory parts of the book are the speeches, covering 15 years of Grass appearances on several national platforms. Speakers have to implore or allure fellow-writers, to stop thinking such introductory proclamations as "Ladies and Gentlemen: I'll come right out with it My passion and acquirement

The author here has to assume all parts, with no identities transferred to characters and no convictions disguised. The Danzig child who wrote his way out of dogma has lived with grounds for pessimism for more than half a century—but his room for optimism has shrunk further in the '80s.

HOME CANNING

It's canning season again, that time of year when the flavor of summer's sweet, juicy peaches and red, ripe tomatoes are preserved to be enjoyed throughout the long months of winter.

Whether you've been canning for years or just getting started, you're sure to find helpful tips and new recipes in the special Food Section to be published in the Aug. 7 edition of the Times-News.

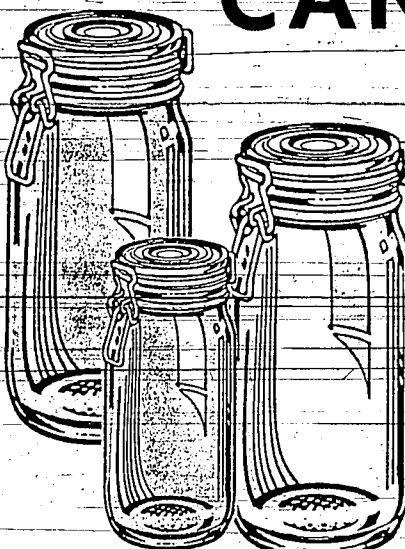

We'll tell why some old ways of canning tomatoes may not be the healthiest. Correspondent Joan Bean will provide tips on how to safely can salsa and other Mexican foods and will interview a local woman famous for her chili pickles.

Swen, an avid angler and Times-News outdoor writer, will tell how to fix one of his favorite canned foods - pickled perch. And food columnist Nancy Joy Jones has found some exotic ways to use harvest leftovers, such as using fruit to make liqueurs.

Other subjects include how to preserve food by drying, and how to make jams and jellies. If you're a first-timer, we'll tell you what equipment you need to get started.

Some of Hollywood's latest efforts reviewed

Following is a list of capsule reviews of movies currently showing in the Magic Valley.

Ratings are by the Motion Picture Association of America and the Los Angeles Times. Opinions are by Los Angeles Times reviewers.

BACK TO THE FUTURE (PG). An interesting premise — a teen-ager travels back in time and falls into the middle of his parents' romance — that is underdeveloped and over-produced. There are a few nice moments of nostalgia for a sexuality uplight, unenlightened past, but there are not enough bits of lovely inventiveness to pad out the gimmick. The outcome is hollow and materialistic.

THE EMERALD FOREST (R). Mysterious and powerful. "The Emerald Forest" is the summer's greatest surprise and most solid satisfaction. John Boorman has made an intelligent film of surpassing beauty: adventure with an ache of urgency behind it. In its story of family and loss, growth and separation, it speaks to the deepest feelings we all share. And in its sensuous and magical portrait of tribal life, it may just be a classic.

FLECH (PG). Chevy Chase is an investigative newspaper reporter in this smart, deadpan spy and funny work. "Flech" is several degrees less than perfect, yet we are in such a season of drought that the temptation is to seize on anything not actually endangering public health. Also starring Joe Don Baker, Dana Wheeler-Nicholson and Tim Matheson. Directed by Michael Ritchie.

MAD MAX BEYOND THUNDERDOME (PG-13). The third in Australian director George Miller's "Mad Max" series closes the trilogy like a lightning blast followed by the ominous, resonant drone of thunder. We are 15 years past the time of the Road Warrior. In an even more primitive, post-apocalyptic age, and Mel Gibson's Max, laconic wanderer through chaos, has become a bit gentler and wiser. Tina Turner makes a stunning villainess, and even though Miller waits until the climax to haul out his specialty — the hell-for-leather car chase — he then stages one that almost blows you out of the theater. A great action film, and, in every sense of the description, outrageously entertaining.

SILVERADO (PG-13). Lawrence Kasdan has made a big, good natured film with obvious affection for the form: a cast full of ferociously good actors and a production that is perfect down to the curl of a hat brim and the look of a saloon. It does not incorporate a sense of loss, which seems to mark most of the resoundingly great Westerns. It is still a thunderingly pleasant night at the movies, primarily because Kasdan takes such a wide-eyed delight at each set-piece. With Scott Glenn, Kevin Kline, Kevin Costner, Danny Glover, Linda Hunt and Brian Dennehy.

'Vacation' takes a trip into box-office lead

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Comedian Chevy Chase sent Warner Bros. "European Vacation" to the top of the box office charts during the weekend with a gross of $12.3 million.

The movie, played on 1,546 screens across the country, showed "Back to the Future" out of the No. 1 spot, as the Disney hit grossed $9.5 million and boosted its four-week total to $66.7 million.

Falling one notch to third was the re-release of Steven Spielberg's 1982 hit, "E.T. the Extra-Terrestrial." The Universal production brought in $5 million over the weekend and raised its two-week total to $19.2 million.

Disney's "The Black Cauldron" made its debut last week and placed fourth in the weekend draw with $4.2 million gross.

"Mad Max Beyond Thunderdome" was fifth over the weekend with $3.6 million, followed by Columbia's "Silverado" and 20th Century Fox's "Cocoon," both with $3.2 million.

Rounding out the top 10 were

"Rambo, First Blood Part II," which increased its total gross after 10 weeks to nearly $185 million; "Pale Rider" and "St. Elmo's Fire." Here are the top 10 films at the box office during the weekend, with distributor, weekend gross, number of screens, total gross and number of weeks in release.

1. "European Vacation," Warner Bros., $12.3 million, 1,546 screens, $12.3 million, first week.
2. "Back to the Future," Universal, $9.5 million, 1,508 screens, $66.7 million, four weeks.

NBC hit helps set hot pace

NEW YORK (AP) — How hot is NBC's "Miami Vice"? So hot that the third broadcast of its two-hour opening-episode ranked No. 3 in the ratings last week and performed "better than when the show was first repeated last January."

Figures released Tuesday by the A.C.N. Nielsen Co. showed "Miami Vice" only trailing repeats of NBC's "The Cosby Show" and "Family Ties" and leading the network to its 10th consecutive prime-time victory and 13th in the last 14 weeks.

NBC researchers say since Nielsen has been measuring national ratings in the last 25 years, the network has never won 10 weeks in a row.

Since the end of the traditional prime-time season April 21, NBC has won every week except for CBS' victory in May when "Dallas" ended its season with the death of Bobby Ewing.

For the week of July 22-28, NBC had a 12.6 rating to CBS' 12.3 and ABC's 10.2. After 44 weeks, CBS leads with an average rating of 15.6 to NBC's 15.1 and ABC's 14.9. A rating measures the average percentage of the nation's 84.9 million TV homes tuned to a network during a given minute of prime time.

Gerald Jaffe, NBC's vice president for research projects, said NBC's summer surge was anticipated because the network had just completed its best regular season in 15 years and has an abundance of the type of programs — situation comedies and action-adventure shows — that perform well in repeats.

Shows that annually suffer the worst case of summer time blues are the serials. CBS isn't even rerunning "Dallas" or "Falcon Crest," which is the regular — competition for "Miami Vice," while ABC is taking a beating with its "Dynasty" reruns.

With its original episodes, "Dynasty" was the No. 1 rated series with a 25.0 rating and a 37 share (percentage of sets in use that are tuned in during the time period). Last week, "Dynasty" ranked 57th out of 62 shows with a 7.1 rating and a 12 share.

"We don't get the benefit of these high-rated serials in the winter, but don't suffer the penalty in the summer," said Jaffe.

The inability of prime-time serials to do well in repeats has affected their syndication performance. "Dallas," for example, is a ratings bust in syndication in many markets.

Last week's Top Ten illustrated — viewers' summer preference for comedy and action reruns. Seven of the favored shows were comedies.

"Cosby" ranked first with a 20.1 rating. "Family Ties" had an 18.1 and CBS' "Newhart" tied "Miami Vice" with a 17.7. NBC's "Facts of Life" and the canceled "Double Trouble" both shows competing against "Dynasty" — were Nos. 5 and 7, respectively. CBS' "Kate & Allie" was sixth and NBC's "Cheers" was eighth.

Rounding out the Top Ten were CBS' "Lagney & Lacey," in ninth, and CBS' "Murder, She Wrote," in 10th.

This love affair may need alcoholism treatment

DEAR ABBY: I'm 22 and head over heels in love with a man who is 35. We've been dating for four months and I can't get him off my mind. I wish I could, because he told me right from the start that he didn't want any commitments. He was married to his ex-wife twice and says he is still in love with her and probably always will be.

Lately when we go to a nightclub, he drinks too much and I end up driving him home and putting him to bed. When he's drunk he says he's falling in love with me. Once he asked me to move in with him. I told him to leave me again when he was sober. He never did.

I really care a lot for this guy. Abby, how can I either get him to love me enough (when he's sober) to marry me, or get him out of my system?

Abigail VanBuren Dear Abby

— FRUSTRATED
DEAR FRUSTRATED: If you really care about him, try to get him into an alcohol "rehabilitation" facility where — he will be — treated for alcoholism and taught how to stay sober a day at a time — which is all any recovering alcoholic can do. You can't make anybody "love" you, or marry you, but with counseling you can get a person out of your system if you're determined to do so.

DEAR ABBY: Twenty-five years ago we lived across the street from a prominent attorney (a widower) who died suddenly. His relatives were cleaning out his home and they gave my husband a drawer filled with socks — old and new. He was told, "Take what you want and toss the rest."

As he was sorting through them, he found $2,000 in bills stashed in the socks.

We immediately contacted the executor and returned the money. And would you believe, the deceased's only child (a married daughter, living in another state) never as much as said "Thank you."

More surprising, nearly everyone we told said, "You should have kept the money. It was yours."

— H.M., BLOOMINGTON, ILL.
DEAR R.M.: Your first impulse was right. For you to have kept the money in a gentleman and been literally soaking away would have been dishonest.

DEAR ABBY: Recently one of your readers wrote, "America is the only country in the world where mothers will drive their kids to the YMCA so they can get some exercise."

Well, I want to tell you that America is the only civilized country where parents let their kids get up before dawn to deliver newspapers.

I was born in Europe, and when I went back there and told people this, they couldn't believe it!

— JEANNE DUPREY, SEATTLE
DEAR JEANNE: Why is that so hard to believe? Many of America's most successful businessmen started out as young boys with a paper route.

What better way to learn responsibility, the value of a dollar and the importance of sticking with the job come rain or shine.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "YOUR READER IN MAUI, HAWAII": Nobody said it better than Benjamin Franklin: "To be proud of knowledge, is to be blind with light; to be proud of virtue, is to poison yourself with the antidote."

"Is your social life in a slump? Lonely? Get Abby's updated, revised and expanded booklet, "How to Be Popular" — for people of all ages. Send your name and address clearly printed with a check or money order for $2.50 and a long, stamped (39 cents) self-addressed envelope to: Dear Abby, Popularity, P.O. Box 3822, Hollywood, Calif. 90028."

Cowboy coach: Enough bad luck is enough

By STEVE CRUMP
Times-News sports editor

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls Cowboys coach Mike Tremayne received a Coach's Law Calendar for the year for Christmas. He intends to burn it before the Cowboys' game against Blackfoot in the Southern Region "A" American Legion baseball tournament, which starts at Frontier Field today.

"I got it because we had bad luck last year," he says. "Our luck hasn't improved this year, so I'm gonna burn it. If this ballclub ever gets lucky, we're going to be good."

Twice in the past three years, in 1982 and again last year, the Cowboys missed the chance to go to the state Legion tournament by a whisker. Three years ago a Twin Falls outfielder dropped a fly ball in ninth inning against Idaho Falls, putting the Russetts into the state tournament. Last year, the Cowboys' error in the 14th inning by base runner allowed the seeded Idaho Falls to win the semifinal. Twin Falls hasn't been to state since 1978.

The Cowboys and Blackfoot will square off at 8 p.m., while Minico and Rexburg will meet in the four-named games at 4:30. The winners of Friday's games will play Pocatello and Idaho Falls, respectively, on Saturday morning. The tournament will continue through Sunday night with a second championship game, if necessary, on Monday.

Ticket prices for this, the first district "A" Legion tournament ever played in Twin Falls, are $2.50 for adults, $1.50 for students and seniors and $20 for a tournament pass.

The Cowboys, 28-19, lost a first-round bye by dropping four of their last seven conference games, capped by a double-header loss at the hands of regular-season league champ Idaho Falls last Monday. Twin Falls finished with a 11-5 conference mark, one-half game behind Pocatello and three games behind the Russetts. The difference, Tremayne figures, was a few fielding errors — and a few more breaks.

The difference is significant since today the other four teams face the prospect of having to play four games in 48 hours if they advance into Sunday's first championship

Twin Falls (Prater, no record available) vs Blackfoot (Carter, no record available), 8 p.m.

"There's nobody in this tournament that we haven't beaten this year and there's nobody that we can't beat," says the second-year Twin Falls mentor. "We just have to keep our heads in the game and minimize our mistakes."

Since the top three teams will advance to the state Legion tournament in Pocatello Aug. 10-15, Tremayne figures his team's chances of getting there are good if he can get by Blackfoot tonight and then beat Pocatello in the second round Saturday morning.

But Twin Falls will have its work cut out tonight against the Patriots (4-16) in conference, 10:23 for the season because of pitching. Right-handers David Carter and Corby Schroeder have been hard on the Cowboys this season, although Twin Falls has won all four of the teams' meetings. Carter will get the starting nod tonight, according to Blackfoot Coach Jeff Evans.

"We've played pretty tough against Twin in all the games," says Evans. "The secret to beating Twin is to be any different than them. Anything else, we've got to stop making errors. One of the games we lost to Twin we had four catcher's errors; we lost another one on a misread squeeze play that we didn't follow through."

Tremayne will counter with right-hander Tom Prater, his ace, but he'll come back on Saturday with his 18-year-old veterans, Matt Harr and Kirk Slater.

"I think between high school and Legion, Pocatello and Idaho Falls will be the toughest opponents," says Kevin Ames, nine or 10 times this year, says Tremayne. "I'm going to give the ball to the seniors on Saturday."

Pocatello Coach Bill Berham, again, says first-year Sage Coach whose ballclub won the district Cory Bridges. "In two of the games championship last year after being we lost to them, we blew big leads. If seeded third, says if it's Twin Falls we just play decent baseball and the Rebels meet on Saturday; he'll don't give away too many unearned pitch southpaw Cory Newsome (5-3), runs, we can beat them."

Pocatello finished the regular season at 19-5 and 37-29. "The Sage are down to 11 players and Rexburg won't be pitched better than 10-27," seeded fifth, will ter shape in terms of depth. Face 9-20 Rexburg in the opener. The Regulars Paul Sorensen and Garen two ballclubs finished the regular Lamph, both .300 hitters, won't season season with 5-15 league make the trip.

"We've played with so many different combinations because so many of our kids have been gone for many of our kids have been gone for this season. I don't mind playing Rexburg one reason or another this season."

that we're used to," says Rexburg benighted Coach Brent Jensen. "Really, we can't ask for a better draw than the Minico-Rexburg game. To beat them, though, we've got to play better defense and go class of the tournament. The Russetts (17-2 and 37-16) have to be able to save anything for the season. In the field in Steve Hivens, a right-hander with a .64 record and a .495 batting average who will pitch Idaho afternoon, but Jensen hasn't decided Falls' tournament opener on Saturday he'll counter with Ace left-hander Tony Mortenson (1-2), bound probably has the No. 2 and No. 3 hitters in the tournament as well in next year, has been injured most of Brad Kellogg (1-0) and Don Datter the season and his effectiveness has (.439).

Merger gives USFL a 'dream' backfield

By ANNE CROWLEY
The Associated Press

NEW YORK — New York real estate developers Donald Trump and Steve Ross, saying they want a "dream team" that can challenge the National Football League, Thursday announced they will merge the New Jersey Generals and the Houston Gamblers.

The merger brings together the United States Football League's top quarterback, Jim Kelly of the Gamblers, and premier running back Herschel Walker of the Generals; and probably means a trade for New Jersey quarterback Doug Flutie.

"These two are building a dream team in the nation's No. 1 media market," said USFL Commissioner Harry Usher. "We hope this will start generating demand for a dream game between this dream team and the other two teams that play professional football in the New York area."

That would be the NFL's New York Jets and New York Giants. "We'll be challenging the NFL. There's no way the Giants and the Jets can beat this team," said Trump, formerly sole owner of the Generals. "I'd like to see the NFL stop (Kelly and Walker), plus the receivers and other offensive and defensive players on these teams.

"I don't think it can be done."

The first competition between the Generals and New York's NFL clubs will be for playing dates at Giants Stadium in New Jersey, home to all three teams.

The USFL is switching to a fall schedule next year after playing in the spring and summer for its first three years. Trump said he would look at other area stadiums if the Generals can't get playing dates at Giants Stadium.

Trump and Ross also met with a coaching staff and 35 players to be protected during the long layoff. Walt Michaels is the Generals' coach and Jack Hansen, Trophy winner, whose Parsippany, N.J., home is the best of each team and add-it together. We'll have not just the best in the USFL, we'll have the best team anywhere," Trump said.

He and Ross also have to settle the Helms-Trophy winner, whose 2,109 yards and 13 touchdowns can't compare with Kelly's 4,622 yards and 39 TDs.

"Jim Kelly is the quarterback and Doug is on the team," Trump said. "A lot of people are very interested in Doug."

Commissioner offers ideas, no solution

By JOHN NELSON
The Associated Press

NEW YORK — With no "solution in sight," Commissioner Peter Ueberroth said Thursday that he would offer a number of suggestions, including an extension of Tuesday's strike deadline, in an effort to end an impasse in baseball's contract talks.

One proposal would ask the union to set aside its Aug. 6 strike deadline while negotiators tried to settle one of their most troublesome issues, the owners' contribution to the pension plan. Another proposal called on owners to stop asking players to help solve financial problems.

Union negotiator Don Fehr, reacting to Ueberroth's proposals, said that pushing back the deadline would be "very difficult to imagine."

Talks between Fehr and management negotiator Eric MacPhail ended abruptly Wednesday after the union formally rejected an owners' proposal on pensions. No new sessions have been scheduled.

MacPhail, president of the Player Relations Committee, said the PRC executive board had been called to New York "for the rest of the go."

policy in negotiations, will meet Friday night.

Fehr, meanwhile, rejected all or parts of each of the two suggestions. He said he still viewed Ueberroth as being on management's side, but thought it was "interesting" that he would tell owners to quit blaming players for whatever financial woes the game suffers.

Ueberroth said he would submit five potential solutions in writing by Friday. He said his proposals came from suggestions offered by players, private consultants and his "own ideas."

Players have asked for a $45 million annual increase in the pension contribution, from $15.5 million to $60 million, tying it to their demands for one-third of baseball's $1.1 billion network television contract.

Ueberroth outlined only two of five suggestions at a news conference Thursday. He said the other three were too complicated, and he wanted the owners' Player Relations Committee and the Major League Players Association to see them first.

In the first proposal he detailed, Ueberroth suggested the two sides place the $45 million difference in pension proposals into an escrow account while a figure is negotiated for 1985. In the meantime, the season said that while there should be no argument from the union—that baseball is in dire financial trouble, owners were not to ask players to help solve them. He also asked the amateur baseball or some other owners to "drop any discussion of a salary cap."

Promising contestants gather for junior rodeo

TWIN FALLS — More than 150 contestants are expected to attend this weekend's Western States Junior Rodeo at the College of Southern Idaho's outdoor arena.

Many of the cowboys and cowgirls competing participated last week in the National High School Finals Rodeo held in Rapid City, S.D. The contestants for this rodeo are from Idaho, Oregon and Washington. They will compete for points that will go toward the state junior rodeo finals in Homedale at the end of the month.

The rodeo will start Saturday at 8 p.m. and Sunday at 1 p.m.

There will be 19 events and awards for all winners in the boys and junior divisions. Senior and girls ages 15-18 will compete in the senior division and "kids" aged 8-14 will compete in the junior class.

The stock for the rodeo will be provided by Prescott and Sons, Mutton Bustin will be the special nightly feature.

Late in getting going, CSI's Stroud adopts realistic outlook

TWIN FALLS — Ben Stroud had a simple means of recruiting when he got the College of Southern Idaho volleyball coaching job in June.

"The telephone — I must have made 200 calls," he says. "A lot of good players had already committed to other schools and even some who didn't have volleyball scholarships turned me down when I offered them scholarships. They just weren't going to play volleyball this year."

Stroud, a highly successful volleyball coach and men's and boys' basketball coach at Dixie High School, got the assignment last spring of reviving the CSI volleyball program, which had been moribund for five years.

Because the decision involved other sports at CSI and next year's budget, it was late in coming.

"Everything from recruiting to scheduling was tough because we started so late," says Stroud. "It was a nightmare."

Steve Crump

Stroud has seven players signed as of now, five of them from Idaho, and he'd like to sign three or four more before practice starts Aug. 19.

"I've been kind of holding off, hoping to get some more," he says. "What we need is another 200 for another year, but I don't know if we're going to get one."

Stroud, who coached a State Class A-4 high school runner-up last season at Dixie High, says he's reasonably satisfied with the players he's recruited to CSI given the shortness of time.

"I don't think they're going to be the most talented team in the world," he says. "But I think they'll work really hard, and sometimes you can accomplish a lot with hard workers."

Three of Stroud's signees played at Twin Falls High: Dona Resch, a 5-foot-9 hitter, Kristi Kravitz, a 5-8 hitter, and Heidi Hansen, a 5-5 setter. Amy Olson, a 5-11 hitter who played on two Idaho Class A-2 prep championship teams at Preston High School, will be joined by Teresa Barrington, a 5-6 setter from Firth. The two out-of-staters on the Golden Eagles' roster are Cindy Marsh, a 5-6 setter from Vale, Ore., and Dinna Higgs, a 5-10 hitter from Winnemucca, Nev.

Southern Idaho high schools are not heavily recruited by four-year colleges; even Idaho State, Boise State and Idaho get most of their players from out of state. But three area Idaho high school players put there capable of playing college volleyball, Stroud believes.

"We'll see what happens this year and get after it (recruiting) next year," says Stroud, who will also assist Lloyd Hardesty with the CSI women's volleyball program.

The Eagles' fall schedule includes seven tournaments, including the first collegiate volleyball tournament in years at CSI, scheduled for Sept. 13-14. In addition to the Eagles, the College of Idaho, Northwest Nazarene College, Treasure Valley Community College, Colorado Northwestern Community College, Hicks College and Western Montana College will be there.

"It scares me to think about it," Stroud quips. "There will be some tough teams here."

The Eagles will also take part in tournaments at Utah Valley College in Provo, Utah; Walla Walla Community College in Walla Walla, Wash.; Eastern Oregon State College in LaGrande, Ore.; TVCC in Ontario,

Ore., and Hicks in Rexburg. College volleyball teams try to schedule as many tournaments as possible to limit travel expenses; dual matches are becoming a thing of the past in this area.

"With a tournament schedule, it's kind of hard to tell how many games we'll end up playing this year," says Stroud. "It all depends on how the tournaments are set up and how far we go in them."

The Eagles will be able to compete with Ricks, TVCC and North Idaho College for a spot in the post-season Region 18 National Junior College Athletic Association tournament, however, and for a chance to go to nationals.

"I think we've got a bunch of kids who are eager, and that's good," says Stroud. "But it will take us some time."

Codiroli finally wins as AL West tightens up

OAKLAND (AP) — Chris Codiroli's five-week wait for a pitching victory ended Thursday and the Oakland Athletics' pitcher now faces five days of suspense.

"I have a gut feeling we're not going to go out on strike. I'm optimistic that things will be resolved," the right-hander said after relief ace Jay Howell saved his 3-1 victory over the California Angels.

"But we probably won't know anything for sure until about 11 p.m. on August 5," he added.

Codiroli's next scheduled start is for Tuesday night, Aug. 6, the threatened strike date set by the Major League Baseball Players Association. He ended a personal five-game losing streak although needing help from Howell after Bob Boone walked to open the eighth inning.

"In a situation like that, there's nobody else I'd rather have behind me," Codiroli said.

Howell was greeted by Brian Downing's single but he did not allow another baserunner to earn his 21st save. Rod Carew's lead-off hit of the 3,000 mark with a pair of singles, grounded into a double play to end the Angels' eighth.

The loss was the Angels' sixth in their last seven games. They lead second-place Kansas City by only two games and the third place by four in the American League West.

Toronto 3 Baltimore 9

BALTIMORE (AP) — Al Oliver and Willie Washington homered and Tom Filer recorded his third straight victory since coming up from the minors as the streaking Toronto Blue Jays whipped the fading Baltimore Orioles 9-3 Thursday night.

The Orioles, blanked on two hits through six innings, scored all their runs — two on Mike Young's pinch single — and chased reliever Jim Acker in the seventh. But Bill Caudill, in his 48th appearance, retired Cal Ripken to end the threat and went on to notch his 14th save.

Baseball

The victory was the 11th in the last 12 games for Toronto, which boosted its lead in the American League East to 12 games over the New York Yankees, the Blue Jays' largest lead of the season. The 11th-place Orioles are 12½ games out after losing for the 14th time in their last 21 home games.

Cleveland 9 New York 1

CLEVELAND (AP) — Roy Smith, pitching for the first time since he was hit in the head by a line drive in June, fired a three-hitter and Thursday night as the Cleveland Indians beat the stumbling New York Yankees 9-1.

The run off Smith, who was unearned and he struck out four, walked one and retired 17 consecutive batters between the third and ninth innings in pitching his first complete game in 17 major-league starts. The 23-year-old right-hander, who was 5-5, had been on a rehabilitation program after a line drive by Seattle's Phil Bradley hit him just above the right ear on June 30.

Los Angeles pitcher, who was seeking his 293rd career victory, gave up six runs in 2-2/3 innings, three of them unearned, as the Yankees lost for the eighth time in their last 11 games.

Chicago 7-3 Boston 2-4

BOSTON (AP) — Dave Stapleton doubled home the tying run and scored on Steve Lyons' one-out single in the ninth inning, rallying the Boston Red Sox to a 4-3 victory and a split of Thursday's twin-night complete game in 17 major-league starts.

The 23-year-old right-hander, who was 5-5, had been on a rehabilitation program after a line drive by Seattle's Phil Bradley hit him just above the right ear on June 30.

Gene Nelson, 7-5, promoted to a starting role on July 3, scattered seven hits in his first complete game of the season as the White Sox took the opener 7-2.

The Red Sox rebounded in the second game after the White Sox had gone in from 3-2 on a two-run homer by Carlton Fisk, his 24th, with two out in the eighth inning.

Chicago 9 St. Louis 8

CHICAGO (AP) — Larry Bowa's squeeze bunt brought home Keith Moreland with the winning run in the 14th inning Thursday to give the Chicago Cubs a 9-8 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Moreland doubled off the left field wall with one out of reliever Ken Davley, 3-1. Following an intentional walk to Jody Davis, Bob Derringer pinch hit for George Frazier and walked, loading the bases.

Bowa, who earlier hit a three-run triple, then worked the count to 2-2 before bunting in front of the plate, allowing Moreland to come home safely with the winning run.

San Diego 6 Atlanta 0

ATLANTA (AP) — Right-hander Andy Hawkins hurled a six-hitter for his 14th victory and Carmelo Martinez drove in four runs with three hits to lead the San Diego Padres to a 6-0 victory over the Atlanta Braves Thursday.

Steve Garvey went 4-for-4 in the game and scored three runs. Hawkins, 44, who now has a 3-3 record since winning his first 11 decisions, never allowed a runner past second base and retired 15 straight batters from the third to the eighth innings. He struck out three and walked none in extending his string of scoreless innings to 17 1/3.

Cincinnati 5 Houston 2

CINCINNATI (AP) — Nick Esasky hit a tape-measure two-run homer and Andy McGaffigan pitched his first complete game in 24 major-league starts as the Cincinnati Reds defeated the Houston Astros 5-2 Thursday night.

Esasky's homer into the third deck in left field erased a 2-1 Astros lead in the fourth and helped McGaffigan earn his first decision in his second start this season with a singled out starter Don Robinson, 2-6.

Twins nab Blyleven

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Bert Blyleven, who started his major-league career in 1970 with Minnesota, was sent back to the Twins Thursday by the Cleveland Indians in a waiver deal.

Twins' spokesman Tom Mee said the 34-year-old Blyleven will report to Minnesota in 1986 with Minnesota, on Friday for the start of a three-game series against the Angels.

Blyleven, who is under contract through next year, was purchased for the waiver price of $20,000, Mee said.

In a separate transaction Thursday, the Twins sold pitcher Curt Wardle, outfielder Jim Weaver and infielder Jay Bell to the Indians for a total of $20,000, Mee said.

Blyleven, a right-hander, is 9-11 with a 2.26 earned-run average in 23 games with the Indians this season. He leads the majors with 15 complete games. "I'm excited because I signed with them in '69 and I spent six years with them," Blyleven said. "It's a nice ball park. You're guaranteed to play every night."

Organizers' hopes for crowds remain unrealized at festival

PHOENIX (AP) — The Phoenix World Festival, the national championships were pace slowed considerably Thursday at the National Festival, where only four gold medals were at stake.

Organizers were counting on large crowds of boxing and gymnastics to offset previous poor attendances at many venues. The boxing at Southern University drew only 1,500, though.

The only knockout saw Arthur Johnson of St. Louis stop Darryl Dawson, from South Bend, Ind., at 2:02 of the third round in their 106-pound bout.

Boxing winners by decision were Eddie Cook of St. Louis, at 112 pounds; Clay Jenkins of Frankling, Tenn., at 119; Bernard Roach of Fort Bragg, N.C., at 125; Derrick Robinson, St. Louis, at 132 pounds; Elvis Yero, Miami Beach, Fla., at 139 pounds; Darryl Lattimore of Washington, D.C., at 147 pounds; Mylon Watkins, Tacoma, Wash., at 156 pounds; Loren Ross of Fort Hood, Texas, at 178 pounds; Orbit and Nathaniel Plich of Fort Bragg, N.C., in the heavyweight division.

The only afternoon gold medalist was 20-year-old Marina Kunyavsky of Los Angeles, who was born in the Soviet Union and moved to the United States only four years ago. She swept the four rhythmic gymnastics events — clubs, ball and ribbon — to collect 73.00 points.

"I didn't go for the gold medal, I was going for a place on the World Championship team," said Kunyavsky, who qualified along with three others for the U.S. team for the World tournament in Spain in October. Earlier in the week, Kunyavsky had a bad back, but she said, "I felt much better than three days ago and you could tell it by my performance."

Silver medalist Stacy Oversier, 18, of Los Angeles, also will go to Spain, but bronze winner Teresa Bruce, 18, of Hillsboro, Ore., won't. The festival counted as 60 percent of the requirements for the world team and workout percent. Stimpert, who was ill and could not be here, petitioned the U.S. Gymnastics Federation to have her total from the national tournament count 100 percent. The federation accepted her request.

The other World Championship spot went to Lisa Aronson, 17, of Los Angeles, who was fourth here and will be an alternate in Spain.

Robin Dressel of Mesa, Ariz., scored three goals to lead the South to a 12-1 victory over the East in the women's water-polo championship tournament at Long Beach, Calif., had one goal, giving her a tournament-high 19 goals.

Men's water polo began with the West's which has won the gold medal four times, beating the East 8-5 as Guy Baker of Huntington Beach, Calif., scored three goals. The Sox scored three times in the final three minutes to surge past the North 11-8. Dave Imperbino of Stanford, Calif., connected four times for the South.

The Spirit is at Work ... This Saturday

St. Benedict's Family Medical Center will be unveiling an exciting new piece of respiratory equipment at Blue Lakes Mall this Saturday in the main court area.

The Oxygen Concentrator is a respiratory device that will allow those who need oxygen to become completely mobile. The Concentrator is in an easy to carry suitcase and is the state of the art in respiratory therapy.

Also on Saturday, we will be displaying all of our respiratory equipment for automobile travel, home oxygen and lung capacity testing. We want to provide you with the most up to date information on respiratory therapy.

Stop by between 11:00 a.m. and 3:00 p.m. this Saturday, talk to our respiratory specialists and get your blood pressure checked free of charge. Also, meet Scott McMillan, St. Benedict's television spokesman.

At St. Benedict's we want you to know more about your health, because at St. Benedict's the spirit is the difference.

Amateur Verplank bests pros to take early lead in Western

By BOB GREEN
The Associated Press

OAK BROOK, Ill. — Scott Verplank, the first amateur in six years to lead a professional golf tournament, shot a 4-under-par 68 for a one-stroke advantage Thursday after the first round of the $300,000 Western Open.

Verplank, the current national amateur champion, became the first amateur to lead a PGA Tour event since Bobby Clampett shared the first round lead in this same tournament in 1979.

Verplank played the difficult back nine at the Butler National Golf Club course in 3-under-par 33 to edge ahead of a quartet of touring pros. Danny Edwards, Dave Ogren, Larry Rinker and rookie Ernie Gonzalez all tied at 69.

The group at 70, two under par on one of the more difficult courses the touring pros encounter, included Jim Simons, Lance Ten Broeck and Mark Pfl. But while an amateur player was establishing the lead, some of the game's more glamorous figures had their difficulties in the gusty winds.

Defending champion Tom Watson scored two double bogeys and shot 74. Seve Ballesteros was one stroke higher at 75. Jack Nicklaus struggled to a 76. And Curtis Strange, who has taken three titles this season and leads the game's money-winner's list at 67.

Golf

Verplank, 21, a native of Dallas and a student at Oklahoma State, has won four important amateur titles this season, including the Western and Porter Cup, and said he has no intention of turning pro in the immediate future.

"I'll be a senior at Oklahoma State next year, and I'm going back for that," he said.

Verplank, one of the fastest to finish, said he "wasn't paying that much attention" to his position on the leaderboard and, when questioned, shrugged and said: "Yeah, I guess I'm surprised to be leading. That's not saying that I have any kind of chance of winning."

He said, however, that "I've been playing 72-hole stroke play tournaments all summer, so this isn't that much different. Just a little better course and better competition."

As to some of the more famous figures in the field — Ballesteros, Watson, Nicklaus — Verplank grinned.

"Heck, I haven't even seen those guys yet," he said.

He played down his lead because, he said, he didn't play particularly well on the front.

"I hit only three greens and saved on all of them but one. I kind of stole it on the front. You can't be too excited when you play like that," he said. He saved par with one 20-foot putt and three times saved from 6-8 feet. On the eighth, he chipped in for birdie from behind the green. He scored from 10 feet on the 10th, 2-putted from 12 feet for birdie on the 12th and took the lead alone with a 17-foot putt on the 16th.

Chargers acquire Maxwell from Colts

LA—JOLIJA, Calif. (AP)—Maxwell has started all but one game for the Colts in the last two seasons. In 1983, the 6-foot-2, 225-pounder led the team with 11 quarterback sacks. His production dropped in 1984, when he finished 10th in team tackles.

THE ACES BOBBY WOLFF

"There is luxury in self-reproach. When we blame ourselves, we feel that no one else has the right to blame us."

— Oscar Wilde.

South was quick to admit that he had blown the game. He knew that a contrite confession would hurt less than North's searing criticism.

East won the club ace and returned the seven, and South tried something cute. He played his queen, hoping to fool West. If West took his king now, a club return would "ride" into South's J-9 and South would enjoy a nice chuckle.

Unfortunately West didn't go for the crude ruse and he refused to win his king. When the spade finesse failed to win, East led a third club and West won three club tricks to set the game one trick.

"I would have made the game had I been more careful in the club suit," confessed South. "Had I not played an honor on the second club, the defense would have scored three quick club tricks, but I would have posted game and rubber."

But what if East had started with A-J-9 of clubs and no king of spades? In that case, East should have rejected the traditional fourth-best return at trick two, returning the club jack instead.
