Caller claims Soviet is dead

By JUAN CARLOS GUMUCIO
The Associated Press

BEIRUT, Lebanon — An anonymous caller claiming to speak for the kidnappers of four Soviets said Sunday they have killed a second captive and dumped his body near the Cite Sportive stadium in south Beirut, the Voice of Lebanon radio reported.

But a police search after nightfall was called off after an hour when no corpse was found.

The Christian radio station quoted the caller as saying in Arabic, "One captive was executed 15 minutes ago. His body is lying at the Cite Sportive. The police are invited to go there to pick it up."

Five police patrols and Shiite Moslem-Amal militiamen combed the area, surrounded by muddy empty lots and garbage dumps, but found no body.

"There's no way to assert the authenticity of the call," said a police officer searching with flashlights among piles of rubble surrounding the sports complex.

The three other Soviets were abducted in Moslem west Beirut.

Anonymous callers who said they represented the Islamic Liberation Organization told radio stations the group had kidnapped the Soviets. The callers said the goal was to pressure Syria, Moscow's main Arab ally, to call off a leftist offensive against Sunni Moslem fundamentalists in the northern part of Tripoli. A ceasefire was called in Tripoli a day after Karkov's body was found.

The Voice of Lebanon said the latest call, purportedly from a representative of the Islamic Liberation Organization, came at 5:30 p.m. The caller said the station said the same man called earlier Sunday and warned that one of the Soviets would be executed because Moscow has failed to shut down its Beirut embassy.

"The Islamic Liberation Organization announces that it will execute one of the three kidnapped Soviets tonight," Voice of Lebanon quoted the man as saying in his first call.

"A captive will be executed mainly because the Soviet embassy has not shut down despite our warnings," he was quoted as saying.

The man did not specify in either call which Soviet was the second victim.

Still being held were press attache Oleg Spirin, embassy doctor Nikolai Sversky and commercial attache Valery Mirakov.

The Soviet embassy has been guarded by Lebanese troops and leftist militiamen with tanks since the kidnapping, the first of Soviet citizens since a wave of extremist abductions of Westerners began in January 1984.

Since the kidnappings, anonymous callers claiming to speak for the Islamic Liberation Organization have warned several times that they would execute the Soviet captives in Beirut unless the hostages were killed and the compound blown up.

The callers have said the Soviet hostages will not be freed until Moscow and Washington agree to a peace formula to end Lebanon's decade-old civil war.

In recent days, there have been several calls to radio stations, purportedly from the Islamic Liberation Organization, saying the Soviet hostages would be killed. But no bodies have been found.

After another group, the Islamic Liberation Front, also threatened to blow up the Soviet Embassy if it were not closed, the Soviets on Oct. 4 evacuated most of their 150 citizens in Beirut. The front is believed to be comprised of Sunni Moslem fundamentalists.

About 30 diplomats remain holed up in the walled complex in west Beirut. Anonymous callers claiming to represent the kidnappers twice have set new deadlines for its closure, but both deadlines have passed without incident.

Flat on his back, nose in a book

Libraries are fine for choosing books, but on a nice fall day it's more fun to read outside where you can put your feet up and relax. Chad Corbin and his class from Acorn Learning Center stopped in city park to read on the way back from the library last week.

Police continue bombing search

By PEG MCENTEE
The Associated Press

SALT LAKE CITY — Officers armed with a search warrant entered a storage shed where they hoped to uncover evidence of a bomb-making workshop linked to last week's pair of fatal explosions, but a police lieutenant said he did not know what was found.

Authorities said at a news conference Saturday that a search warrant had been sought for the shed because it was thought to contain explosive materials which could help establish a connection between Mark Hoffman, a man suspected in the bombings, and Shannon Patrick Flynn, who was arrested Saturday.

In an early morning search of Flynn's suburban condominium, police found an Uzi submachine gun and other weapons, said Jerry Miller, agent in charge of the federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms.

"At this time, we are considering Mr. Flynn a suspect in the bombing investigations along with Mr. Hoffmann. The bureau is still planning to seek a federal complaint against Mr. Hoffmann charging him with the aforementioned violations in regards to the bombings," Miller said.

Hoffmann, who was badly injured when a bomb blew up in his car Wednesday, was upgraded from serious to satisfactory condition, a nursing center official said.

Farm lobbies win gas lead exemption

By GUY DARST
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Two farm lobbies, without much attention, have won House approval of a bill to exempt gasoline sold for agricultural machinery from the scheduled Jan. 1 reduction in the permissible lead content of leaded gasoline from 0.5 grams per gallon to 0.1 gram.

The unexpected action on Oct. 7 caught the Environmental Protection Agency, the petroleum industry and environmentalists off guard and has driven them into conference rooms to come up with tactics to keep the Senate from going along with the provision.

The amendment requires EPA to exempt gasoline sold for agricultural machinery from the scheduled Jan. 1 reduction in the permissible lead content of leaded gasoline from 0.5 grams per gallon to 0.1 gram.

Egyptian minister receives envoy in reconciliation bid

The Associated Press

CAIRO, Egypt — John Whitehead, the U.S. deputy secretary of state, met Egypt's foreign minister Sunday in an attempt to heal the rift in relations caused by developments following the Achille Lauro hijacking.

Security forces meanwhile clamped down on students angered because U.S. warplanes intercepted an Egyptian airliner carrying the four cruise ship pirates and forced it to land in Sicily Oct. 11.

Whitehead met for an hour and 15 minutes with Foreign Minister-Esmat-Abdel-Meguid and handed him a message from Secretary of State George Shultz.

Foreign Ministry spokesman Ghid Madit told reporters the Shultz message dealt with "recent developments in the area" but gave no details. Whitehead left the ministry offices in downtown Cairo without speaking to reporters.

President Hosni Mubarak, who has demanded a public apology from Reagan for forcing down the airliner, left Cairo Sunday on a previously planned tour of farming projects in southern Egypt. He said he will meet Whitehead on Monday.

Mubarak tried to play down the suggestion that he snubbed the U.S. diplomat, who arrived here late Saturday from Rome.

Leon Klinghoffer is home — finally

Family, dignitaries honor victim of Mideast terrorism

By MARLENE AIG
The Associated Press

NEW YORK — The body of Leon Klinghoffer, who was slain during the hijacking of the Achille Lauro, came home Sunday under gray skies to a ceremony at which President Reagan in a letter called him an innocent victim of terrorism.

A military honor guard, U.S. senators and relatives stood by as the body of the 69-year-old New Yorker arrived at Kennedy Airport shortly after 3:30 p.m. on a flight from Rome.

An Army honor guard brought the flag-draped wooden box containing Klinghoffer's coffin off the plane as his family and government officials watched in an isolated part of the airport.

Klinghoffer's wife, Marilyn, dressed in a dark navy suit and wearing sunglasses, stood between her daughters, Lisa and Lisa. Klinghoffer's brother and two sisters were also there with their families.

Speakers including U.S. Sens. Daniel P. Moynihan, D-N.Y., and Alfonse D'Amato, R-N.Y., extolled Klinghoffer's courage.

Acting Assistant Secretary of State Michael Newlin read the letter from Reagan to Mrs. Klinghoffer which called her husband "an innocent victim of the terrorism and inhumanity which plagues our world."

"The pain you feel is shared by all Americans as we stand by you in prayer at this difficult time."

Fortunely, the criminals who murdered your husband did not escape," said the letter.

Moynihan then spoke, saying Klinghoffer "died because he was an American, because he was a Jew, and because he was a free man. He will live in the nation's memory and in the memory of righteous persons always for just those reasons."

D'Amato said, "The hearts of all Americans go out to you in your time of grief." As a result of Klinghoffer's death, he said, "See FAMILY on page A2"

Italians say Klinghoffer fought back

The Associated Press

ROME — Leon Klinghoffer may have been killed by the Achille Lauro hijackers because he tried to defend himself after he was pushed and insulted, a prosecutor was quoted Sunday as saying.

The body of the 69-year-old, partly paralyzed New Yorker was flown Sunday to New York from Rome, where an autopsy indicated he was killed by gunfire.

The Rome daily La Repubblica quoted Genoa Deputy Prosecutor Luigi Carli as saying that investigators had learned from three witnesses that Klinghoffer had "reacted" to shoves and gibes by one of the four hijackers.

One hijacker then slugged Klinghoffer in the stomach and another shot him with a

Warships seek battle survivors

SEOUL, South Korea — South Korean warships began a search Monday for survivors or bodies from a North Korean boat sunk in a gun battle off the southern tip of South Korea.

The Defense Minister blamed the North Korean vessel was "trying to land" when it was shot down.

A military announcement said a soldier on shore spotted the North Korean boat and gave the alarm that brought navy, air and jet fighters to the scene. It said the North Korean vessel was ordered to halt but failed to do so, and the exchange of gunfire followed.

Lawmakers debate arms talks

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Some congressional Republicans are questioning the value of next month's U.S.-Soviet summit and discussing President Reagan's State War's strategic defense plan.

Shultz enraged many congressional conservatives when he told NATO parliamentarians last week that although Reagan believes the 1972 Anti-Ballistic Missile Treaty permits testing and development of a strategic defense system, the United States will limit its project to laboratory research.

Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., in a Senate speech Thursday, accused the allies of "appeasement."

Helms said he suspects State Department "bureaucrats" of instigating diplomatic messages from Britain and West Germany that are said to have been sent to Reagan to continue to restrict the limits of Star Wars, formally known as the Strategic Defense Initiative.

Sugarbeet price drop feared

NAMPA — Idaho sugarbeet growers are better off than most American farmers, but still are barely breaking even, said P. T. Rathbone, president of the Nampa Sugarbeet Growers' Association.

Rathbone projected that growers' receipts per ton of beets produced will be down $2 from last year, to about $34 per ton. Yields for the fall harvest so far are averaging about 23 tons per acre. At that rate, growers expect to gross about $800 per acre.

But many growers are concerned about a recent decision by the U.S. Department of Agriculture to allow 1.8 million tons of sugar to be imported into the U.S. this year.

Nancy belts Broadway tune

NEW YORK — First lady Nancy Reagan returned to Broadway Sunday night, singing on stage with her longtime friend, Mary Martin, during a celebrity-filled tribute to the actress.

"Sitting up there in that box, watching all these professional singers don't make this easy," Mrs. Reagan said before joining Miss Martin in a number from "Lute Song," a Broadway musical in which they performed together in 1946.

The first lady's appearance at the Shubert Theatre was the finale of a benefit for the Theater Collection of the Museum of the City of New York.

Soviet-Chinese talks stalled

PEKING — Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Leonid Ilyichov left for home Sunday after a seventh round of normalization talks with China failed to make progress on the major obstacles between the communist neighbors.

The official Xinhua news agency said the talks were useful and businesslike, but Chinese negotiator Qian Qichen told reporters at Peking airport he was "dissatisfied" because the major problems were unresolved.

Peres opposes U.S. arms sale

WASHINGTON — Israeli Prime Minister Shimon Peres said Sunday that a proposed U.S. arms sale to Jordan would be unacceptable to his government even if Congress reduces the scope and speed of the weapons deal.

"Our feeling, contrary to the prevailing feeling in some circles in Washington, is that arms will not lead to peace," Peres said on ABC's "This Week With David Brinkley."

Cardinal tests martial waters

ESTILI, Nicaragua — Some 5,000 people turned out in this provincial capital Sunday to greet Nicaragua's Roman Catholic cardinal in what was seen as the first major test of the country's recent suspension of most human rights.

No violent incidents were reported between the followers of Cardinal Miguel Obando y Bravo and supporters of the left-wing Sandinista government.

Although empowered by the state of emergency to block public assemblies, officials did nothing openly to inhibit the crowd.

Commonwealth adopts set of sanctions on South Africa

By MAUREEN JOHNSON
The Associated Press

NASSAU, Bahamas — Commonwealth leaders agreed late Sunday to impose limited economic sanctions against South Africa and to set up a contact group to try to persuade the white-minority government to negotiate with black leaders to end apartheid.

Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher of Britain, who by her refusal to apply economic sanctions had brought the Commonwealth of Britain and its former colonies close to a break, declared: "Well, they've joined me now."

"Aren't they tiny?" Mrs. Thatcher said of the sanctions package, adding: "It was worth paying some price to keep the Commonwealth together. It was hard going." Britain is South Africa's main trading partner.

The measures include the immediate ban on:

- all new government loans to the South African government.
- government funding for trade missions to South Africa.
- sales of computers that could be used by the South African security forces.
- government and private cooperation on oil, nuclear and military technology.

In cultural exchanges, except those that contribute to ending apartheid.

The possible ban on Kruggerands, the ban on new government loans, and the ban on state funding for trade missions previously have not been backed by Mrs. Thatcher.

"It's all a compromise package. It's not all that some people wanted and it's more than others wanted," said Canada's prime minister, Brian Mulroney, who helped mediate private talks between Mrs. Thatcher and Commonwealth leaders who wanted stricter sanctions.

Mulroney said the package will send a "clear signal" to Pretoria that it must move faster to end apartheid, the system of racial segregation under which 5 million whites deny the vote to 24 million black South Africans.

The agreement gave South Africa six months to "bring about concrete progress" or face tougher sanctions, including a ban on airline flights.

But Mrs. Thatcher, at a late night news conference, said she will refuse to impose any new sanctions.

to study the effects of low-lead gasoline on farm engines and report findings to Congress by Jan. 1, 1987.

Old gasoline engines rolled on lead to coat exhaust valves and prevent excessive wear of the valve seats. The question is how much lead is enough?

Greg Dana of EPA's mobile sources division said, "We don't think there's a problem here. We're pretty confident 0.1 grams provides adequate protection."

The 0.1 gram standard is a little misleading, in that refiners who beat earlier specifications earned credits, allowing them to produce other fuel with higher lead content until their credits are used up. Because these credits are actively traded, Dana said EPA had thought its talks with farm organizations on plans to approve lead additives for on-farm use in 1986.

"We're not quite sure where the pressure is coming from," he said.

Asked if the agency could speed up approval of additives and persuade the Senate they would make acceptance of the House provision unnecessary, Dana said, "It's hard to speed things up. I'm not quite sure what we're going to do at this point."

Lead is a powerful poison that causes subtle mental degradation in children and fairly low blood concentrations, and EPA has been trying to get it out of the atmosphere for 14 years.

Environmental organizations, usually as quick with a press release as the fall of a mare in October, have not been heard from, with the exception of the Environmental Defense Fund.

EDF's Robert V. Percival said in a statement that the provision was a "cruel hoax... an attempt by a few oil companies to benefit."

He did not name any companies, and major oil industry groups said they were caught by surprise. Gus Enz of the American Petroleum Institute, the largest group, said Friday he could not comment, except to say, "We're looking at it."

Later API issued a statement saying it was "difficult to assess" without more specifics.

Synopsis:

A large area of low pressure with an accompanying cold front continues to push toward the Intermountain region, expected to bring cooler air and showers to the area.

Some brisk prefrontal winds were blowing Sunday, and were especially strong today in the southeastern portion of Idaho.

National Weather Service NOAA U.S. Dept. of Commerce

Gusty, south to southeasterly winds blew across the southern valleys of the state, with gusts near 20 mph in the Boise area, near 30 mph in Twin Falls and near 40 mph in the southern Snake Valley. Those winds will continue today, switching westerly after the frontal passage.

The agricultural forecast for today through Friday shows the Pacific storm system and accompanying cold front associated with the system will retain unsettled conditions through Wednesday, improving by Thursday and Friday.

Southern Idaho conditions for field work and harvesting will be generally poor today through Wednesday due to periods of rain, improving Thursday.

The storage shed, police Chief Bud Wulfsberg said, was linked to both Flynn, 27, and Hoffmann, 31, who he described as "very close friends" and have been for some time.

Police Lt. Bill Gray said Sunday that everyone involved in the investigation arrived at the Metropolitan Hall of Justice for a meeting at 9 a.m. Nearly six hours later, the meeting was still in session.

Miller said agents had found evidence related to the bombings at Flynn's residence, in addition to the firearms.

However, Flynn's attorney, James N. Barber, said his client denied any involvement in the bombings.

"Mr. Flynn categorically denies any knowledge of the bombings beyond what he's read in the paper. He acknowledges that he was a business associate of Mark Hoffmann, but he has no knowledge of any mutual business matter which could reasonably provide a motive for what is suggested Mr. Hoffmann has done," Barber said.

Flynn, who has been charged with illegal possession of a machine gun, remained in the Salt Lake County Jail Sunday.

The Achille Lauro incident

Reagan letter boosts Craxi

ROME (AP) — President Reagan's "Dear Bettino" letter was credited Sunday with making it more likely Bettino Craxi would be asked to form a government to replace his own, which was toppled by the Achille Lauro hijacking.

President Francesco Cossiga said he would reflect Sunday on consultations he had with political leaders one day earlier before naming a premier-designate with the task of lining up a new government, Italy's 45th since World War II.

Cossiga was expected to announce his choice on Monday.

U.S. Deputy Secretary of State John C. Whitehead flew to Rome on Saturday to try to smooth relations between the United States and Italy, frayed by developments which followed the hijacking. During a meeting he gave Reagan's letter to Craxi, who has been considered a valuable U.S. ally.

Craxi vied Parliament in a speech just before resigning on Thursday that a showdown had developed between Italian and U.S. troops after U.S. warplanes forced an Egyptian airliner carrying the hijackers to land in Sicily.

He also said that he protested to Washington what he said was a violation of Italian airspace when U.S. aircraft allegedly followed the Egyptian plane, from Sicily to Rome.

According to Craxi's office, Reagan wrote that despite "differences on the best way to respond to the hijacking," the Italian and U.S. governments "share the fundamental commitment on the necessity to respond with firmness to the challenges posed by international terrorism."

Reagan also wrote Craxi that: "I profoundly value the advice you have provided me in the past."

"Reagan's more than cordial letter arrived" to help clear the way for the choice of premier-designate, wrote La Repubblica, Rome's left-leaning newspaper.

Mubarak decries U.S. decision

NEW YORK (AP) — Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak, in interview broadcast Sunday, said the U.S. interception of an Egyptian jet carrying the Achille Lauro hijackers was "a stab in the back."

Mubarak, appearing on CBS-TV's "60 Minutes," said Tunisia told Washington about plans to fly the hijackers to Tunis aboard an Egyptian jetliner and that the United States had used this information so that U.S. Navy fighters could force the plane to land in Sicily.

"I could tell you that I consider this from the United States a stab in the back... from a friend," Mubarak said in the interview conducted Saturday in Cairo.

The Egyptian president said that Tunisia denied landing rights to the jet after conferring with the United States.

"The reality is that we asked permission for the Egyptian liner to go to Tunisia... and they asked the Americans," he said.

"The Americans told them (the Tunisians) to give permission. At that time you decided to take the decision for the interception. Let us say the truth and the whole truth."

PLO: U.S. will lose Egypt's help

TUNIS, Tunisia (AP) — The U.S. interception of an Egyptian plane that was to fly the hijackers of the Achille Lauro to freedom will drive Egypt back into the Arab fold, ending its alliance with America, a PLO official said Sunday.

Ahmed Abdel-Rahman, chief spokesman for Palestine Liberation Organization chief Yasser Arafat, said he was in Cairo last week for talks with top Egyptian officials and found that relations between Cairo and Washington "have never been worse."

"The United States is losing Egypt," he said, adding that the PLO would push for Egypt's acceptance back into the Arab League.

"It is now the time for Egypt to play its vanguard role in the Arab world," Egypt was expelled from the Arab League after it signed the U.S.-sponsored peace pact with Egypt in 1979.

"Egypt will support the cause of the Palestinian people and the PLO in the face of Israel and the Americans," Abdel-Rahman said. "This is what I heard from officials in Cairo."

The PLO claims the United States was directly involved in the Israeli air raid on Arafat's headquarters near Tunis on Oct. 1 that killed more than 70 Palestinians and Tunisians.

Heart patient suffers slow speech

HERSHEY, Pa. (AP) — The first recipient of the Penn State Heart suffered slowness of speech for 30 minutes Sunday, but doctors said the problem was not caused by a stroke like those that have plagued other artificial heart patients.

Anthony Mandia, who received the pump Friday, underwent some sort of "neurologic event," but did not suffer the brain damage and lack of mobility a stroke would cause, said Dr. John W. Burnside, a Hershey

Medical Center spokesman.

Mandia's speech turned "slow and thick" for about 30 minutes, but returned to normal over the following 30 minutes, Burnside said.

"We're still uncertain what this event was," he said.

The episode could have been caused by an old gunshot wound to the head or from fluctuating blood levels of an anti-seizure drug Mandia has been receiving, said Burnside. He had no details about the shooting that the 44-year-old Mandia suffered as a teen-ager.

The problem also could have been caused by a blood clot, which is a recognized danger to heart implant patients, but Burnside said that was unlikely because there was no other evidence of a clot.

The four living recipients of the Jarvik-7 artificial heart, including an Arizona man who later received a human transplant, suffered strokes after the implant surgery.

Tentative strike pact reached in Canadian Chrysler strike

By CHARLES CAMPBELL
The Associated Press

TORONTO — The United Auto Workers of Canada and Chrysler Canada Ltd. tentatively agreed Sunday on a contract that would end a five-day walkout by 10,000 Canadian employees of the No. 3 automaker.

The agreement came as 70,000 UAW members in the United States continued a strike that shut down production and was costing the company $15 million a day.

"It's real good," Chrysler Canada Vice President William J. Fisher said of the settlement.

"It meets all of our expectations of full and complete parity with Ford (Canada) and General Motors of Canada in terms of wages, pensions and benefits," said Robert White, powerful leader of the newly independent Canadian union.

Fisher said Chrysler workers had made sacrifices to save the company from bankruptcy, and "it's nice to be able to pay them something now that's substantial."

The tentative pact also would give a $1,000 Canadian ($730 U.S.) lump sum payment to all Chrysler workers and retirees represented by the union. White said:

"It's not a large amount in Canada," White said of the lump-sum payments. "But if you apply it in the United States, it's worth, in Mr. (Chrysler chairman Lee) Iacocca's words, $60 million."

"We feel (this is a fair settlement for all concerned)," Fisher said, adding that it was "a very liberal settlement from an up-front money standpoint."

Under the agreement, a Chrysler assembler would get an immediate 55-cent hourly raise, pushing his wage to $14.14 Canadian, equivalent to $10.35 in U.S. funds. By the end of the agreement, assuming a 4 per cent cost-of-living adjustment, the hourly wage would be $15.23 ($11.12 U.S.).

The Canadian settlement puts increased pressure on UAW President Owen Bieber, who is scheduled to resume negotiations with Chrysler officials in the United States on Monday in Highland Park, Mich.

2,000 battle police at airport protests

TOKYO (AP) — More than 2,000 people protesting the expansion of Tokyo's international airport battled police with firebombs, stones and steel pipes Sunday. Officials said 53 policemen were injured and 239 demonstrators were arrested.

Akihiro Adachi, a spokesman for the Chiba prefectural police, said some 2,200 demonstrators clashed with 9,500 riot police near the New Tokyo International Airport at Narita, 40 miles northeast of Tokyo. He said he did not know how many protesters were injured, and there were no reports of travelers being hurt.

Pentagon friends join overhaul call

The most striking thing about the growing campaign to overhaul the inner workings of the Department of Defense is that it is led by some of the Pentagon's staunchest friends. Their major beef is not that the country is spending too much on national defense, although some think it is—but that the American people aren't getting their money's worth.

As Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., notes, the question involves more than dollars and cents. Bluntly dismissing administration defenses of the status quo, he says, "There will be those who say the system 'ain't broke, so don't fix it.' However, it is broke and we need to fix it. . . . If we have to fight tomorrow, these problems will cause Americans to die unnecessarily. Even worse, they may cause us to lose the fight."

The Senate Armed Services Committee opened hearings this week on a staff report, two years in the making, which charges that the Pentagon suffers from confused organization, poor management and destructive interservice rivalries.

The study recommends, among other things, that the Joint Chiefs be abolished and replaced by a new Joint Military Advisory Committee with greater independence from the individual services.

Reforming the Pentagon's command and management structure is an uphill battle, but the odds have dramatically improved now that the most powerful figures on the Senate Armed Services Committee have joined the fight.

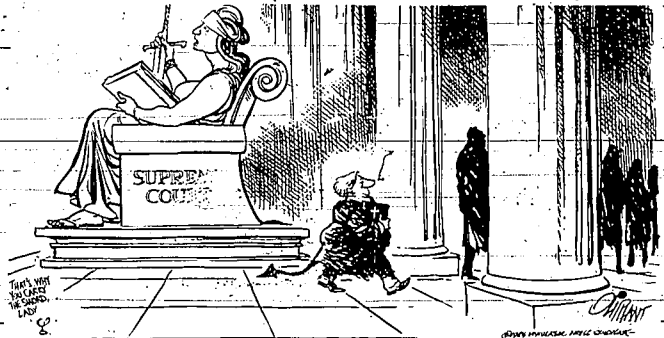

Committee Chairman Goldwater and Sen. Sam Nunn of Georgia, the ranking Democrat, are convinced that the military establishment is in urgent need of reform, and they are leading a bipartisan effort to enact the necessary legislation within the next year.

As the system works now, the Joint Chiefs of Staff is composed of a chairman and the top-ranking officers of the four services. The charge is that the service chiefs' parochial loyalties get in the way of their obligation to make decisions on strategy, force structures and weapons choices in the broader national interest.

Nunn offers an intriguing example of the real-life aberrations of the present system: An Army commander ashore in Grenada found himself unable to communicate directly with naval units offshore; he had to use his personal telephone credit card to call stateside commanders for naval support.

The critics do not necessarily have the right answers to the problem. But, as Nunn and Goldwater are saying, the issue is too important to continue sweeping under the rug. They deserve support from those who truly want an effective defense Establishment—as distinct from those who merely want to protect career interests and defense contract profits.

Symms backers hope rally magic lasts

BOISE—The re-election campaign of Republican Sen. Steve Symms may not be the most expensive ever staged in Idaho. He's talking about spending $2 million to $3 million to defend his seat.

But the psychological and political boost to the Symms campaign will go far beyond the cash. Even Statehouse Democrats admired the well-organized Reagan-Symms rally, an affair that didn't spare the bucks.

It cost $10 for most folks to attend the rally. "Patrons" who paid $100 per ticket ate a stand-up lunch, and had a chance to mingle with Symms, Sen. James McClure, Rep. James Craig and virtually every other top Republican official in the state.

For $1,000, corporate bigwigs and others had a chance to spend a half-hour at a private reception with the president.

An expensive affair? More than 100 people attended. But workers in Symms' campaign were happy about more than the financial bonanza-Symms got immense state and national exposure, with most of the television reports and nationally circulated photographs showing him and Reagan side by side on the stage.

That probably won't hurt with the national political action committees, which put up much of the money for major campaigns.

Symms also got a lot of national television exposure with his joke that Reagan should bring to justice the cruise liner hijackers captured by the U.S. last week, "give them a fair trial, and then hang them."

"Republican or Democrat, when they play 'Hail to the Chief,' and the president walks out, it's something special," said one observer.

And Symms' backers also hope for carryover enthusiasm for the Senate campaign. It took an effort of more than 400 volunteers, headed by Vicki Risch, wife of Idaho Senate President Pro Tem James Risch, to set up the president's visit.

Symms' likely opponent is expected to be Democratic Gov. John Evans.

Evans was not on hand to greet the president, but that probably would have been inappropriate because Reagan's visit to Idaho was for strictly partisan political purposes.

Evans and other members of his family were taking part in an annual fall cattle roundup, moving cattle onto winter ranges. His staffers saw that event. A traditional thing in the Evans family, was planned long before the president announced his visit.

It was not the first time Symms has benefitted from Reagan's visits to Idaho. Reagan drew an overflow audience in Idaho Falls in Oct. 14, 1980, the last time he had appeared in the state before Tuesday's rally.

On that occasion, as on Tuesday, he urged voters to send Symms to the Senate to help him carry out his program. Symms' strong showing in eastern Idaho, where he hadn't run before while serving as Idaho's 1st District congressman, was a key to his narrow victory over Democrat Frank Church.

Symms officials talked Tuesday of hoping for a return presidential visit next year, when Symms might be at the peak of his re-election campaign against Evans.

The circumstances were exactly opposite five years ago, when incumbent Church was trying to save his seat in the Senate.

Democratic President Jimmy Carter's popularity was slipping badly by then, and Church decided he didn't want the incumbent president coming to Idaho to campaign for him.

But Ronald Reagan is far more popular in Idaho than Carter ever was, and another Reagan visit for Symms could give the campaign another powerful boost next year.

World-debt policy takes welcome shift

NEW YORK—The continuing debt crisis entered a new phase this month when the United States put a new set of policy proposals on the table at the annual meetings of the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund.

In a major speech, Treasury Secretary James A. Baker III proposed that the developing country debtors adopt new, more stringent policies to promote growth with reduced inflation. In turn, commercial banks were asked to increase lending to the debtors by $20 billion over the next three years. And finally, for its part, the U.S. government, in a major reversal of current policy, supported an expanded role for the World Bank.

Each part of Baker's carefully crafted package depends on the other: If the debtors take new steps to promote efficiency and growth, then the banks would resume lending, and the United States would be prepared "to look seriously" at increased resources for the World Bank and its regional counterparts, most notably, the Inter-American Development Bank.

Less than two years ago, many analysts felt that the debt crisis was in hand. Those of us who were more anxious worried that the optimists' assumptions would not come to pass. Unfortunately, the pessimists turned out to be correct. Despite massive adjustment efforts by the debtors, their debt problems have not eased, and they have not regained creditworthiness. In fact, they are now transferring funds back to the lenders as new loans have dried up and interest payments on past borrowings came due. With growth rates still low and austerity the rule, the situation has become politically unsustainable for many developing-country leaders.

The strategy the administration followed until now also has directly threatened American economic and political interests. On the economic side, developing-country austerity has cost the United States more than $12 billion in export earnings; and more than 3 million man-years of employment in export industries have been lost. It has also threatened the re-emergence of democracy in Latin America, one of the most hopeful signs of the recent period, and undermined U.S. leadership in the international economic and political system.

Baker's creative proposals are a welcome shift in U.S. policy. He has wisely seen that each participant in the debt drama depends on the other; and that each must bear costs if their economic interests are to be protected. But unless additional financing is forthcoming—and rapidly—the secretary's creative package runs the risk of being too little, too late for each of the major actors in this drama to play his assigned role.

Skeptics may be justified in asking "where's the beef?" Developing-country debt now totals over $865 billion, which requires $13 billion a year to service. Annual interest payments alone amount to $10 billion. The proposed increases of $2 billion to $10 billion a year pale in comparison. Nor is improving the climate for private investment—a wise idea—likely to help in the short run. New foreign direct investment in the major debtor countries dropped from $6.3 billion in 1981-82 to $2.7 billion in 1983-84.

If America's interests in resumed economic growth and improved human well-being are to be promoted, additional steps will be necessary. Baker's comprehensive speech specified the costs that developing-country governments and the commercial bankers should bear. But he did not address the larger question of whether the banks should begin to write off some of their loans to countries that clearly cannot repay (and how government policies could help this process). And he did not make a clear commitment to a major increase in public resources. For example, lending and guarantees by the World Bank and the Inter-American Development Bank should perhaps rise not by just 15 percent a year, as Baker suggested, but should double in the next three years. Without these additional steps, a promising initiative could come to naught.

Jedi Master shows up to deliver lesson

When the International Year of Peace steering committee met this fall to begin planning events for the International Year of Peace, we quickly discovered that our provincial, earth-bound concepts about how our world should work were quite inadequate for the occasion.

We thus decided to send S.O.S. signals for help beamed by laser to the furthest corners of our galaxy. Imagine our surprise when Yoda, the great Jedi Master, showed up at the 10th Anniversary celebration of the United Nations.

It is my pleasure to report on his visit. And, dear reader, please don't hold our committee responsible for Yoda's remarks. He simply says what he pleases.

"As you may know, we Jedi Masters rarely make an appearance unless invited or the situation necessitates our intervention. You are aware that I was invited by friends all over the planet Earth who felt a great urgency in reaching out to the rest of the galaxy."

"In a sense, humanity now is going through its final examination as to whether it is equal to its universe function and thereby worthy for continuance on board your planet. Whether humanity will pass its final exam for such a future depends upon what you do or don't do in the next 15 years."

"Now, I have not come to you to tell you 'what you should do' or 'what is right.' That is not the Jedi way. Besides, you earthlings have never responded very well to any advice no matter how good it was. You only have to reflect on your reception of such great spiritual teachers like Jesus and Buddha to get my point. Perhaps, though, I might, with your help, raise a few important questions and suggest some answers.

"Let me begin by making a few observations. Did you know that you human beings live on one of the most beautiful, verdant, and richly adorned planets in the Milky Way Galaxy? The Force, or as you say, 'God,' was especially kind to you when he created this lovely planet and placed you on it. Surely, he must love you all very much."

"When we visitors approach the earth from afar, we acquire a perspective that is quite different from yours. First, we see your majestic, blue-green planet circling the Sun at 60 million, oceans, prairies, lakes, rivers, etc. Then, as we circumnavigate the earth, we are struck by the fantastic diversity of life—the vegetation, the fish and fowl, the insects and animals. And at the apex of life is humanity, blessed with the wondrous gift of intelligence."

"You should see the richness of your cultural diversity from the perspective of an extra terrestrial. It is magnificent and thrilling! From our perspective, the earth is truly one country and all humankind its citizens!"

"Think what a disappointment it is for us when we actually tour your planet. For whatever reasons, your leaders have divided the planet up into hundreds of little sectors. A small percentage of your population has everything it desires and more while untold millions are impoverished and lack adequate nutrition, education, health care, jobs and housing."

"Everywhere there is war and violence. People fight for the strangest reasons—because of different skin colors, or different nationalities, or even different religions. And you have let this sorry state of affairs go on for so long that your arms race, which you mistakenly believe brings you security, is now threatening to destroy your entire earthly civilization either through economic collapse or outright nuclear holocaust."

"If you will acknowledge that prejudice, war, and exploitation have been the expression of immature stages in your history, then you may be able to rejoice in even the present tumult which marks your collective coming of age. You have only to take the next step—the great enterprise of building a peaceful world civilization. That such an enterprise is possible, that the necessary constructive forces do exist, that unifying social structures can be erected, is the theme which everyone here has been urged to examine during the International Year of Peace. This I hope you will do."

"I suggest that a new commitment must be made to resolving issues not customarily associated with the pursuit of peace, such as racism, the terrible gap between the rich and the poor, unbridled nationalism, religious strife, the emancipation of women, and the adoption of an international auxiliary language."

"Most important, the people of the world must see clearly that the concept of 'one earth, one humanity, one spiritual destiny' is central to the enterprise of building world peace. Consideration should be given to teaching the concept of world citizenship as a part of the standard education of every child on your planet."

Harry Massoth, Buhl, is a member of the International Year of Peace steering committee. A musical variety show celebrating the year of peace will be held at O'Leary Junior High School at 7 p.m. Thursday. Admission is free.

Just what Idaho needs: freedom restrictions

If we believe the so-called Right-to-work advocates, only working men and women need fear the law. Not so, as seen from a news item from Business Review.

In Harrisonburg, Va., if you've ever wondered which American labor has been so vehemently opposed to "right-to-work" laws, you have only to ask the inhabitants of this picturesque Appalachian valley town. When a number of militant vegetarians demonstrated outside a slaughterhouse here, two were arrested and forced to post heavy bond. The demonstrators explained that not only were they vegetarian on principle, but also they objected to the cruelty inflicted on baby lambs. What threw them completely for a loss was the charge against them. For being concerned with baby lambs, the two men were charged with violating Virginia's "right-to-work" law!

Two men were arrested for demonstrating against cruelty to animals. The charge? Violating Virginia's "right-to-work" law. Another law that restricts freedom is just what Idaho needs.

Government donation may be more expedient

I would like to submit a rhetorical question or two regarding President Reagan's trip to Boise to campaign for Steve Symms.

Would it not have been more economically expedient for the federal government to have donated the $100,000 to Symms campaign chest than to have spent hundreds of thousands or more to bring Reagan's entourage to Boise?

It would be most interesting to see a financial accounting for the exact tab for the trip and who paid the bill. Maybe the tab was put on the National Debt credit card. How many more such trips has Reagan planned?

Police raid squatters camps

The Associated Press

HARARE, Zimbabwe — Police raided squatter camps in pre-dawn swoops Sunday, detaining more than 1,000 people and setting fire to their shantytowns.

Scores of commuters who spent the night at outdoor bus shelters waiting for early morning transport were reportedly caught in the raids in Harare, Zimbabwe's capital.

Periodic attempts by the government to clean out squatter camps using armed police, soldiers and bulldozers have failed. Officials complain the squatters are shiftless, that criminals find refuge there, and that the camps, with no sanitation, pose health hazards.

Anti-terrorist test successful

GENEVA, Switzerland — Nearly 5,000 soldiers and civil defense members successfully coped with a mock terrorist attack, weekend press reports said, in what was described as the largest maneuver of its kind staged in Geneva.

The exercise, which ended Friday, ranged from the imaginary kidnapping of a Swiss minister to bomb plots against power stations and installations at Geneva's Cointrin airport, the newspapers reported.

Col. Rene Hugentobler, who was in charge of the exercise, was quoted by La Suisse newspaper as saying that while he was generally satisfied with the results, there were certain "shortcomings."

Typhoons' death tolls rising

MANILA, Philippines — Military planes airlifted food and medicine to homeless families Sunday as officials counted 54 dead in the strongest typhoon to hit the Philippines in 15 years.

The death toll from separate storms in India and Bangladesh rose Sunday to 102 as eight more bodies were found in India and four more in Bangladesh. Both countries were hit by severe storms or typhoons last week.

Red Cross authorities in the Philippines said they feared the death toll from Typhoon Dot, which hit the main island of Luzon Friday night and Saturday, would rise as reports came in from remote areas.

Death spreads violence to Pretoria

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Three more people died in overnight rioting in the Cape Province, and violence spread to Pretoria after the burial Sunday of a 13-year-old black boy allegedly beaten to death by police on his way to a prayer service.

After the burial, youths fought riot police and threw up barricades of rocks and burning tires in Atteridgeville township, west of Pretoria, where unconfirmed reports said two youths were killed.

Pretoria's two large black townships, Atteridgeville, and Mamelodi have stayed relatively calm through 14 months of nationwide black rioting that has left more than 700 dead, according to government figures.

3 more tremors shake Mexico City

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Three earthquakes, ranging from mild to moderately strong, shook the quake-battered Mexican capital over the weekend, but police and relief agencies said they had no reports of major damage or injuries.

The Toluca seismological observatory said Sunday all three quakes were centered within the Mexico City Basin.

It said the first tremor occurred at 2:28 a.m. Saturday and measured 3.5 on the open-ended Richter scale.

The second came at 3:19 a.m. and measured 3.2. The third occurred at 11:17 p.m. (1:17 a.m. EDT Sunday) and registered 4.3.

Police, Red Cross and fire department officials said they had no reports of major damage or injuries.

A. Wichita, Kans.

Q. How fast is the pulse of a killer whale?

A. At the surface, 60 beats a minute. Underwater, 30 beats a minute.

Q. Do any two people have identical handwriting?

A. Undoubtedly not. Odds against that are said to be less than one in 68 trillion.

FIRST JAPANESE BASEBALL

One of the first western-world items the Japanese copied was a baseball. The game was introduced there in 1873 with an imported ball. Eventually, that ball wore out. They took apart the remains and made something similar -- with a boot sole for the core, and unraveled socks for the yarn.

Artists are not renowned for selfishness, but this artist was different: John Bertroni of Queens, N.Y., was a gifted sculptor. Critics said his more than 100,000 works, including busts of potentates and popular heroes, were magnificent. But none survive. His medium was ice cream. People ate all his masterpieces.

The Ringenbergs

KIMBERLY — Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ringenberg observed their 50th wedding anniversary Oct. 12 with family dinner attended by relatives from Nebraska and Idaho. Ringenberg and Grace Krepek were married Oct. 9, 1935, in Goshen, Neb. They farmed at Eustis, Neb., on the Ringenberg family farm for several years. In 1940 they moved to the Buhl area where they farmed until 1965, when they moved to their present home in Kimberly.

He then worked at Carl Manufacturing Co. and later for Parks and Sons Intermountain, Inc., in Twin Falls.

Mrs. Ringenberg retired in 1983 after 14 years service with Sears in Twin Falls.

The event was hosted by their two children, Arnold Ringenberg, Twin Falls, and Norma Walker, New Grace and Carl Ringenberg Meadows, and their spouses. The couple has four grandchildren.

'Latchkey kids' program needs director

By LORAYNE O. SMITH
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Recruitment efforts are under way in Twin Falls to find a VISTA worker to organize an after-school program for "latchkey children."

Pat Verstraete, director of the Early Childhood Learning Center, a non-profit day care facility in Twin Falls, wrote the grant which has been approved for the VISTA salary of $405 per month.

The person will have the task of setting up what Verstraete terms "satellite centers" that children in the early grades can walk to after school for supervised activity.

It is commonly believed that the VISTA program, one of several social service agencies like the Peace Corps, operating under the umbrella federal ACTION agency, has been discontinued, but this is not true, she says.

But the program has been revamped so that the local sponsoring agency can recruit and hire its own volunteer.

Verstraete is looking for someone of any age who has organizational skills, understands children ages 7 to 10 and "is looking for a challenge."

"We feel there are many children in Twin Falls who go home to an empty house after school because their parents work," the director says. "They would benefit from a supervised activity in their neighborhood as an alternative to just sitting and watching TV."

Some children who have chores or planned activities may not suffer from this unsupervised time, she says. Especially if there are several children in the family. But, Verstraete believes that too many youngsters are growing up burdened with fear because of many necessary instructions they are given not to answer the door or phone.

She has seen this need develop as children who previously came to the Early Childhood Learning Center enter school. The center is geared to pre-school child care.

The situation is especially lonely for children whose siblings are younger and still in day care facilities while they are now considered old enough to go home after school, Verstraete says.

The VISTA worker, when one is hired, will be assigned to finding rental space, ideally near each grade school, and recruiting volunteer help.

Parents would be charged a fee, but with use of volunteer help, the cost could be kept low, she said. Financial details are one of the many things to be worked out.

"We envision getting high school students to help since it would provide excellent training for youths wanting to enter the child care profession," Verstraete says. This facet was one of her supporting reasons listed in the grant, which was approved last week.

Planned activities would be geared to first-through-fourth-graders which involves a different program than ones for pre-schoolers.

Many youth and church groups have programs for this age group, such as Cub Scouts, she says, but none of them operates daily.

"The 'latchkey' problem has increased within the last 10 years as more and more women enter the work force."

"It used to be there would always be a few parents home in any neighborhood if a child had problems," Verstraete says, "but now you find entire blocks where not one adult is home at 4 p.m."

Somebody needs you

Volunteers Against Violence is running an intensive training program every Tuesday through November, at 7:30 p.m. at the Office on Aging Annex, 998 North Washington Street (the West entrance to CSI Campus). This training may be taken for college credit and covers topics such as the battering cycle, assertiveness, active listening, etc. For further information, call Marie 734-7583.

If you are retired, we need your help. We'll help you put your skills and interests to work doing things you really enjoy. You can name the amount of time you're willing to volunteer and choose from a wide number of volunteer activities. Investigate how you can help your community as an R.S.V.P. Volunteer. Call Sherry or Opal 734-7583.

South-Central Community Action is still in need of white potatoes for distribution to low income households through emergency food pantries and gleaning programs. Our gleaning teams are available to dig and pick-up if necessary. For information call Mary 735-9351, Nala 324-8856 or Helen 678-3514.

Red Cross needs several volunteers to take night and weekend phone calls in their homes. This is a service to military in emergency situations. Training will be provided. Call Ann 733-6464.

This public-service column is designed to match needs in the community with volunteer help. If you need a volunteer, call Sherry Garvey at the College of Southern Idaho, 734-7583, to have it appear in this column.

Male bastion still at Johns Hopkins

BALTIMORE (AP) — Johns Hopkins University remains a "male institution," 15 years after it began admitting women.

Undergraduates, according to a report by a special university committee.

It has an atmosphere that is "at best, indifferent and at worst, hostile to the concerns of women," said the report by the Ad Hoc Committee on the Status of Women.

The 12-member committee, made up of students, administrators, faculty members and staff, also found that 7 percent of the tenured and tenure-track faculty at the university's Homewood campus were female, compared with a 16 percent average of the top 50 institutions in the nation.

Children shouldn't be brought to most job sites

DEAR ABBY: A group of us women were discussing the letter from "Timid in Louisiana." "Timid" (a housewife) hired a contractor to install a swimming pool. The contractor brought his son and very young grandson along on the job, causing "timid" problems. Almost every woman in the group had a similar story to tell.

One said she hired two men to build a patio. They showed up lugging a suitcase-sized radio, already tuned to a rock station, and without asking if it would disturb anyone, they turned the volume up full-blast. It blared away all day until quitting time. She said she was too intimidated to complain.

Another woman said three roofers brought a radio to keep them entertained while they worked on her roof. Her phone rang all day long with calls from angry neighbors asking her to turn down her stereo; the sound had carried to the next street and down the block. She also said nothing, because good roofers were hard to get.

SYRACUSE HOUSEWIFE
DEAR HOUSEWIFE: Read on for the flip side of that story:

DEAR ABBY: I just finished reading the letter from "Timid" complaining to you about the self-employed contractor who brought a small child along on the job.

I have the opposite problem. I am a self-employed contractor who has worked at houses where the lady of the house will put her kids down for a nap, run out the door and say, "I

Water's just right for senior fitness

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Not everyone doing lap swimming at the YFCA pool in Twin Falls is Miss America or Mr. America contest material or dreams of Olympic swim competition.

Every day, usually at 11:30 a.m., some of the biggest splashes in the indoor pool are being made by men and women willing to admit they are on the "fat side of 60."

Pool officials say more and more retired men and women, some in their 70s and older, are finding new enjoyment and healthful exercise in lap swimming. Most swim on a regular basis of anything from a few laps to a half mile or a mile. All agree they swim, not to lose weight, but to feel good and enjoy a form of exercise they have not tried for many years.

Toots Knoble, who retired just over a year ago, made good on a long-time promise to herself when she purchased a swimsuit, marched down to the "Y" and signed up for a swimming program.

"I had a hard time making myself get into a swimsuit that first day," she said. "I am a fat, stubby lady and I had visions of being the only one there. I was dreading to walk from the dressing room to the pool in view of everyone," Knoble said. "But I was surprised. The first day I found there were a lot of other fat, stubby and not so young people there. They didn't even notice me. I think the reason I was able to recover from both of those so easily is due to the swimming. I was in good condition and was back in the pool a week after leaving the hospital — with my doctor's approval," she said.

But we don't push it. This isn't a contest," Gailley says. "It's just something we do for ourselves — something we enjoy."

"I feel so good after an hour in the pool, both mentally and physically," says Knoble. "It feels like someone took a little oil can and oiled all of my joints. I can do anything," she said.

Some are swimming on doctor's orders to help arthritis, reduce blood pressure and relax taut muscles or nerves.

think this is the best thing I have ever done for myself."

They are not all good swimmers; in fact some are poor, out-of-shape and non-athletic swimmers. But after a few weeks, that all changes. They are better able to perform regular daily duties and recreation and their bodies become more firm.

Two enthusiastic swimmers are Max Gailley of Kimberly and his swimming companion, Al Weigall of Twin Falls. They say they have progressed over the past two years from having to rest after about half a lap to now being able to swim several laps without a breather.

Weigall suffered injuries in a boating accident this summer and also underwent surgery recently.

Couples swim together, friends come in pairs or groups and some individuals swim alone, but they are all happy, healthy people.

"This is like one big family," says Sherrie Campbell, aquatic director at the "Y," in describing the 11:30 a.m. lap swim session. If someone misses a day or two, someone else calls to check on them. If they're ill, we visit or send cards. They are the most delightful group I work with."

"My message to other older men and women who are bored with retirement is to get into the pool and swim," says Knoble. "Don't worry about how you look in a swimsuit. Do something good for yourself and have a good time."

Wilma Routt, soon to observe her 66th birthday, swims at least a quarter of a mile every morning. She would like to see "Y" officials reserve some pool time just for the senior swimmers. She is also a staunch supporter of a community swimming pool in Twin Falls.

Pool swimming lessons at the Harrison Park Pool a lot of years ago, and I think our Twin Falls youngsters deserve a pool," she says.

Elsie Long, 71, is one of the group's top athletes—looking trim and slender in her suit, she swims 35 laps or a half-mile or more non-stop, each day. She also conducts a walking exercise program for seniors at the "Y." To date this year she has swum 150 miles — further than from Twin Falls to Boise, as another swimmer observed.

Plastic softener's risks under study

By SALLY SOQUIRES
The Washington Post

In the wake of a recent government report showing a link between cancer and a commonly used chemical found in many plastic products — including infant toys and pacifiers — two main questions remain: Will the chemical, known as DEHP, be regulated, and what, if anything, should consumers do to minimize exposure?

Neither question is easy to answer.

In the next few months, the Consumer Product Safety Commission will review the report from its Chronic Hazard Advisory Panel and consider what, if any, action may be necessary regarding products containing DEHP. CPSC chairman Terrence Scanlon said in a statement last week.

At this point, attempting to minimize exposure to DEHP is "premature," says advisory panel chairman Richard A. Griesemer. DEHP is the shorthand name for the chemical di(2-ethylhexyl)phthalate, a substance that's been used for some 40 years as a softening agent for such commonly used plastics as polyvinyl chloride.

"All of us are probably exposed to small amounts of DEHP because it's so widely used in the environment," says Griesemer.

It's DEHP that gives telephone cords their flexibility and makes the tubing for kidney dialysis machines so pliable, and DEHP is in the plastic bags used for storing blood and platelets.

DEHP also is found in shower curtains, vinyl wall coverings and some plastic products used by infants and children.

But despite its widespread use, studies suggest that DEHP causes cancer in rats and in mice — a finding with such concrete scientific documentation that neither the Society of Plastics Industries nor the Chemical Manufacturers Association disputes it.

It is this association with cancer that caused the CPSC to publish a notice in the December 1983 Federal Register expressing concern that the current use of DEHP as a softener, or "plasticizer," in children's products "may result in a substantial exposure of children to a substance that is reported to cause cancer in animals," the report notes. "The potential health hazard to children is believed to result from exposure to DEHP contained in plastic articles such as pacifiers, squeeze toys, plastic baby pants and the vinyl fabric covering of playpen pads or similar articles."

Based on this scientific evidence, the Consumer Product Safety Commission asked the Chronic Hazard Advisory Panel to examine DEHP and its potential health effects on consumers. Results of the report were released last week and, again, after reviewing the scientific literature, the panel concluded that the chemical is "readily absorbed" after ingestion and also be absorbed at much lower levels through skin contact.

Which products are dangerous?

The Washington Post

Determining if a product contains the plastic softening agent DEHP can be difficult.

Information about ingredients typically is a trade secret that many plastics manufacturers may be reluctant to discuss, according to both the Chemical Manufacturers Association and the Society of Plastics Industries — two trade groups representing the majority of companies making plastic products.

One rule-of-thumb recommended by chemists is that hard plastics — the kind with little flexibility — usually have not been treated with softening agents like DEHP. Neither are most items that come into contact with food, including plastic wraps and bags, which usually are made of polyethylene — not the polyvinyl chloride which needs a plasticizer to make it softer.

A spokesman for the Toy Manufacturers Association of America, an industry group that also represents the makers of infant pacifiers, said "most manufacturers have already discontinued use of DEHP in their products and the rest have voluntarily agreed to do so immediately" based on the new CPSC report.

While the vinyl coverings for baby mattresses, crib bumpers and baby vinyl pants also have been targeted by the Consumer Product Safety Commission as potential DEHP-containing items, the outer plastic covering of disposable baby diapers does not contain the chemical, report spokesmen for Procter & Gamble (makers of Pampers and Luvs) and Kimberly-Clark (manufacturer of Huggies).

When in doubt about a product, the best bet, advise the trade associations, is to check with the manufacturer. Consumer questions about the content of plastics products can be directed either to the Consumer Product Safety Commission's toll-free hotline, (1-800-638-CPSC), which will provide manufacturers' phone numbers and addresses, or directly to the manufacturer of a product in question.

Ear pressings can cure hiccups

A doctor in southern China's Yunnan province has cured 350 cases of hiccups by pressing the ears of patients, the English-language China Daily said Thursday.

Inspired by an ancient theory, Dr. Deng Guangwu of the Qufu Traditional Chinese Hospital began daily ear pressure treatments in 1974 on a peasant who had been hiccupping for three years, the paper said.

It said Deng cured the patient in three months by applying pressure on his outer ears for up to three minutes daily.

Women MBAs reap extra stress

The stress of the corporate world is sending women with business degrees to psychiatrists at twice the rate of women without these credentials.

"Women with MBAs are paying a price for their participation in the corporate world," Dr. Harvey M. Weinstein reports in the American Journal of Psychiatry. His study found that women were significantly more likely than their male counterparts to have upset stomachs and nightmares, feel depressed or feel "on the verge of a nervous breakdown."

Weinstein and psychologist Laraine J. Zappetti, both of Stanford University, suggest that women in business careers set higher standards for themselves than men do and then are psychologically damaged as they strive to meet them. Those stresses are compounded by responsibilities for home and child care with little societal support.

Salmon hormone keeps calcium

Scientists are testing a hormone found in salmon to see if it can prevent thinning of bones in older women.

About 20 million postmenopausal American women suffer from osteoporosis.

The salmon hormone, called calcitonin, is believed to help prevent bone loss from calcium. It is similar to a human hormone called calcitonin.

Calcitonin "is not at present thought of as a cure for the disease," says nutritionist Gail Butterfield of Stanford University, one of 10 centers performing clinical trials with the hormone. Rather, she says, it is "a treatment to prevent or slow down any further deterioration."

PSV Laboratories, a division of the Revlon Health Care Group, is running the program.

Fluoride may fight osteoporosis

A study in Finland suggests that fluoride, put in drinking water to prevent tooth decay, appears to prevent osteoporosis.

Researchers from the National Board of Health of Finland compared two towns — Kuopio, which has fluoridated water, and Jyväskylä, which does not. "The lower incidence of fracture in Kuopio suggests that fluoride is an essential mineral for the strengthening of bone tissue," researchers Olli Simonsen and Ossi Laitinen write in the British medical journal The Lancet.

Trends to watch for early spring are a strong showing of black and white; the emergence of the sarong skirt and the reintroduction of Capri pants to replace the ubiquitous stirrup pants of this fall.

Male balding cure in 5 years?

Philip Kingsley, the world's leading trichologist (he's studied hair for over 25 years), holds out the promise of a cure for male balding within five years, reports Gentlemen's Quarterly magazine. "When men start losing their hair, they view it as the beginning of aging and as a loss of virility, neither of which it is," Kingsley says. He is participating in research in England that may stop or reverse hair loss.

Pale pinks bloom in the night

Pink speaks softly for evening wear, and designers seem to like whispers this season more than knock-'em-dead brights, says Vogue magazine. Soft pinks, but particularly pink, are favored as an alternative to black. Designer Carolynne Roehm says "It's a delicate color that reflects a freshness, a sense of romance — into a woman's complexion."

Italian collections recast '80s

Italian designers debuted their spring ready-to-wear collections last week and they were all alive with the '80s feeling that was integral to the fall collections shown in New York, London and Paris.

The look is young and modern, with such elements as collarless, elongated "guru" jackets, optical prints, batiks and Courreges-like cut-outs.

Approve of yourself first; don't wait for the nod of others

Rachael and Tom play tennis but Rachael, who is the better player, doesn't let herself win. "If I do win," she thinks, "Tom might not ask me out again."

John orders a rare steak at an expensive restaurant and when the steak is served, it is well done. John grumbles about the "burned" meat but doesn't say anything to the waitress. He is miserable the rest of the evening.

Jo Ann Larsen

Susan never refuses any request, no matter how unreasonable, and she spends most of her spare time doing favors for others. Her willingness to be helpful and to please, in fact, seem unlimited. Yet, Susan is often depressed, feeling that other people take advantage of her and take her for granted.

Rachael, John and Susan share a common affliction — they all need the approval of others to feel good about themselves. The name of their affliction? Approvalitis.

People with approvalitis repress independent action for fear powerful others might object to their attempts to self-determination. Not trusting themselves, they always look to others to approve of the way they think, feel, and behave. If others refuse to dole out approval, they crumble.

You, like Rachael, John, and Susan, may be spending far too many of your present moments in efforts to win approval. If you suspect you have tingles of approvalitis, some remedies here may help you to take charge of your own worth and to begin taking independent action:

"Stand for what you (believe) (need) (want) instead of altering or hiding your position for fear of disapproval. And refuse to argue, to defend or to try to convince anyone of the rightness of your stance. Remember, you're entitled to your position regardless of whether others agree."

"See if you're prefacing your statements with qualifying remarks to buffer any disapproval you might encounter: 'I know you'll think this is crazy, but...' or 'My way of thinking is probably weird, but...' or 'This might not be right, but...' You may figure that by rushing to discount your own statements, you can prevent others from doing it for you. That way, you don't face disapproval."

Force yourself to let your statements stand by themselves and use "I" language ("I feel..." "I think..." "I wish...") to make your points. You'll probably be pleasantly surprised to find that most people will respect your opinions.

Determine whether you over-apologize. If you're the type of person who apologizes when others bump into you, you've probably got work to do. Apologizing is an admirable habit — unless it's used to excess. Then it becomes a form of self-abandonment designed to turn away anticipated harm. Unfortunately, what excessive apologizing really does is turn away other people, who become increasingly uncomfortable and annoyed as they try without success to convince over-apologizers they did no harm.

Firm up your statements if you "weasel word" to avoid taking a stand. A cartoon of a woman sitting in a restaurant, looking at the menu, succinctly captures the propensity of some people to evade taking responsibility for their decisions. The caption of the cartoon reads: "Well, to be honest, maybe I'm way out of line on this one, but I'm pretty positive that I probably don't want the sole, I almost think."

Say "no." If that's what you really want to do. You can say it kindly — for example, "I appreciate your asking me to go with you, but I really want to stay home today." Offer reasons, if you like, but don't get carried away with numerous excuses. You actually have the right to say "no" without giving a reason.

Change your conversations with yourself when you do encounter disapproval. Instead of concluding you've failed, that you're worthless, or that you're to blame, say things like "There isn't any way I can please everybody" or "The fact she disapproves is her problem, not mine."

So you encounter disapproval — so what? Prepare yourself for the disapproval of others by remembering the words of one sage who astutely observed:

"It is impossible to go through life without incurring a great deal of disapproval. It is the way of humanity, the dues you pay for your aliveness."

So don't wait for sanction from others. Sanction yourself. When you've performed well, when you've grown and when you've been true to yourself and done what you know will make you feel good — give yourself credit and become your own source of approval. Then you, not others, will be in charge of your life.

What makes women derail on corporate track?

By JOAN SWEENEY
Los Angeles Times

Why do some women steaming up the corporate track into the executive suite suddenly derail?

Usually they've had at least one of three "fatal flaws." And, according to a study that compared these women with others who made it into top management, successful women often have critical flaws working for them that derailed women lack. The study suggests that some of the reasons women derail differ from the reasons men get off the track.

Despite the substantially increased numbers of women in middle management in recent years, very few have penetrated the so-called "glass ceiling" into the executive suite. The study conducted by the Center for Creative Leadership in Greensboro, N.C., offers important clues to what helps women and what sabotages a woman's climb into top management.

The researchers isolated a trio of "fatal flaws." All but one of the derailed women suffered from one or more. These fatal flaws were:

- Inability to adapt to the work environment. The derailed women were seen as either not fitting in or not improving. Some, apparently, did not realize anything was wrong because they were given no feedback. But others denied the feedback and blamed someone else for the problem rather than attempting to change.

- Too ambitious and wanting too much. The women were seen as too aggressive. They seemed to want a top job too much or they fought too hard for perks or rights for themselves and other women.

- Performance problems. Either the derailed women failed to achieve what was expected or they made a mistake that hurt the business or strained relationships.

Some successful women also had "fatal flaws," but a key difference seemed to be that after being told there was a problem, the successful women were able to change.

The researchers concluded that receiving and using feedback is important to a woman's success and can be effective in countering even significant flaws.

Both the successful and the derailed women were similar in some respects including age. They were in their early 40s, had outstanding track records and were smart. But there were some critical differences:

- The most crucial factor seemed to be whether they got help from above. All of the women who succeeded received help while only 38 percent of those who derailed did.

- Three-quarters of the successful women were able to manage subordinates, including long-time male employees and former bosses, while all of the derailed women flunked this criterion.

The Spirit is the Difference

Free aerobics offered to men

TWIN FALLS — Men are invited to try aerobics classes for free, as long as they sign up with a paying partner, says Sherie Hull, aerobics instructor for the Twin Falls Recreation Department.

The privilege will be extended through the six-week period, which begins tonight, and through the next session, which ends near Christmas, to allow men the chance to discover the benefits of the program, says Hull.

Classes are held Mondays through Thursdays from 5:45 to 6:45 p.m. at the Robert Stuart Jr. High back gym. Registration is this week, at the gym, and costs $20 per person. For more information, call the recreation department at 733-0060, ext. 265 or 266.

TWIN FALLS — The Over 60 and Getting Fit class for mature students will begin at 10 a.m. today in the College of Southern Idaho gym. Jan Mitteldeier is the instructor. To register call 733-9554, ext. 363.

Working on Wellness begins

TWIN FALLS — Working on Wellness, a health program co-sponsored by the College of Southern Idaho and Magic Valley Regional Medical Center, will begin at 7 p.m. Oct. 23 in room 104 of the CSI gym. Working on Wellness is a personalized six-class program which promotes good health practices by giving participants the information and means to achieve a healthy lifestyle. The class is offered as a one-credit course each fall and spring semester. The cost is $39 for the one credit plus $25 for blood analysis. The course will include a profile of health status, information on exercise, nutrition and stress management. For more information, call Jan Mitteldeier 733-9554, ext. 302 or Sue Summers 737-2165.

Parenting skills sharpened

TWIN FALLS — The Center for New Directions will present its Program for Employment/Education Readiness workshops from 9:30 a.m. to noon Tuesdays and Thursdays through Dec. 12. Meetings are held at the Office on Aging Annex at the College of Southern Idaho; topics will be career exploration, stress management, assertiveness and parenting. The purpose of the program is to help people find hidden talents; sell these talents and explore possibilities of upgrading job skills.

Get a hold of yourself here

TWIN FALLS — The Center for New Directions, College of Southern Idaho, is sponsoring a free Self-Defeating Behavior Study Group from 10:11-11:30 a.m. Wednesdays in room 104 of the Vo-Tech Building. Topics discussed will be behaviors that interfere with effectiveness in daily living; learning to control your life instead of letting it control you; communication and organizing time. For more information call 733-9554, ext. 361.

Postal service orders firms to halt claims

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five companies have been ordered by the U.S. Postal Service to stop making claims that creams they market will enlarge a woman's breasts.

In addition, judicial officer Randolph D. Mason has ordered postmasters in Chicago, Houston, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. and Westport, Conn. to hold any mail sent in connection with the products Macrocell-153, Maminlin-BX2 and Breast Formula NF-39.

The Postal Service order, dated Sept. 30, said the products were advertised in a number of national magazines and specifically mentioned — the June 1984 issue of Cosmopolitan.

Three doctors analyzed their contents, and on the basis of their testimony a Postal Service judge concluded "no topically applied cream or lotion will cause a woman's breasts to become noticeably larger."

Directions enclosed with the creams said to place a hot towel on the chest after applying — the substance. The judge said any appearance of breast enlargement "would be due to the effects of the hot towel, simple changes in posture or flexing of the pectoral muscles ... (and) exposure to heat and rubbing."

Compliance nears for storage tank program

By KENNETH A. BROWN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Businesses with large underground storage tanks will soon have to comply with new federal standards to control leaks and corrosion.

The Environmental Protection Agency's Leaking Underground Storage Tank program in Idaho is being administered by the Division of Environment of the state Department of Health and Welfare.

The program is already in its "interim prohibition stage," according to Robert Hanan, Idaho Underground Storage Tank Program coordinator for the state agency. This means that new underground tanks cannot be installed unless they are protected against corrosion.

On Nov. 8, Hanan said, the department will begin its "notification stage," requiring owners or operators of storage tanks to register them with the state. Tanks must be registered by May 1986.

When the LUST program becomes effective next May, tank operators will be required to have methods in place for detecting tank leaks, take corrective action when a leak occurs, report leaks and corrective action, provide for a proper closure of tanks, and demonstrate the financial ability to cover possible damages or injury resulting from leaks.

Those regulations will affect new tanks meeting the EPA's regulations and older tanks that may not meet new construction and safety standards.

Penalties can run as high as $10,000 per day, per tank for a violation under the new laws.

According to federal figures, there are 3 to 5 million underground storage tanks in the United States containing hazardous substances or petroleum products. An estimated 100,000 tanks are currently leaking, and an additional 50,000 are expected to leak in the next five years.

Hanan said there are between 1,600 to 2,000 underground storage tanks in Idaho, the majority of those being used to store petroleum products — such as gasoline at gas stations. The department is developing lists of both tanks currently in use and those which have been abandoned, he said.

Under the new law, an underground tank is defined as any tank with "at least 10 percent of its volume underground, including any pipes attached to the tank." Because of this definition, a number of above-ground tanks with extensive underground piping may be regulated.

Exemptions, however, have been granted-of-a-steel-tank-in-the-Boise-area, without "cathodic" protection against the corrosive action of electrical currents, which began to leak a year after it was installed. Most tanks have a lifetime of 20 to 30 years.

According to the federal rules, new underground tanks must be cathodically protected against corrosion or constructed of noncorrosive materials.

New tanks must also be designed to prevent the release of stored materials due to corrosion or structural failure for the life of the tank. Finally, the tank material must be compatible with the substance to be stored.

The EPA believes the LUST program breaks new ground because it is the first time the agency has been able to apply laws from the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act to products as well as wastes.

Judge John Garrett of Haynesville, La., looks over an Old English game bantam during the poultry judging Saturday

Exotic poultry strut stuff for judge

Winedot hen from the Boise area wins over 300 competitors from region

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

FILED — A large white Winedot hen from the Boise area and several entries from Jerome residents strutted off with the championship honors in the fifth annual Snake River Valley Poultry Association show at the Twin Falls County Fairgrounds in Fler this weekend.

Jordan Luxton of Jerome, president of the sponsoring organization, said 300 chickens were entered by breeders from Utah, Nevada and Idaho. The number just filled the space available in the poultry building at the fairgrounds, he said.

"The overall grand champion of the show was the Winedot hen that Luxton said was perfectly feathered in beautiful white plumage and owned and shown by Al Erquiga of the Boise-Caldwell area. Erquiga also won reserve champion honors in the large fowl division with a Black Cochon hen. The Cochon, Luxton said, is a very fluffy bird with feathered legs and is available in many colors.

The champion bantam, or small fowl, award went to a Black Cochon hen, a mini-variety of the same breed. The winner was shown by John and Betty Henderson of Jerome, who own Cenn State Cochons.

Reserve champion in the small variety of birds was a Red Pyle modern game hen shown by Bill Gneini of Jerome.

John Garrett of Haynesville, La., well-known expert on the show quality chickens, was judge for the Fler show this year.

Luxton said other breeds exhibited included some beautiful Old English game bantams. There were about 60 of these, making up the largest single class in the show. This small game bird comes in 15 different varieties including black, white and nearly every color in between, the club president said.

Others that filled the display pens included the colorful Blue Andalusiens, a Mediterranean breed with blue feathers laced with black, and the Silkie, a soft, white bird with feathers like hair. There were also a number of Polish breeds that have a crest of feathers from the top of their heads that resembles an unruly hairstyle.

Luxton said birds entered in such shows are raised specifically for show and breeding although, since some will produce eggs, they are also valuable for such purposes. A show hen or cock, he said, usually is not made a pet, since it will become too gentle for good showing.

A good show fowl must be active enough to display well for the judge, but not be too nervous.

"Different breeds will have different temperaments and while they are handled a lot, they are usually not pets," he said. He said a good number of spectators visited the show this year, especially on Saturday while the birds were being judged. The show closed Sunday about noon after the winners were announced.

Consolidation report set for City Council

By ANNETTE CARY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A favorable report on the consolidation of police and fire services and a final review of plans for the new golf clubhouse will be discussed at today's 7 p.m. City Council meeting.

The city will save about $30,000 annually from consolidation of police and fire services, Public Safety Director Tim Qualls estimates in a report given to councilmembers Friday for discussion today. Qualls clubhouse have not been consulted overseas both services since they enough in how it should be designed.

The city has not filled one police officer and two firefighter positions, but changes are being considered. City staff members say they include employees would have done "is now being done by cross-trained public safety employees. Wage and benefit savings amount to $22,300 more space is needed.

The council is also scheduled to consider bids for police cars, down town lighting and a sludge truck loading facility.

The Fair Labor Standards Act, extended this year to apply to cities, would have required that a minimum of $25,000 in overtime wages be paid if the departments were before consolidation. Qualls said. Flexibility allowed by consolidation will save the city that money, he says.

Hopeful seeks fire, police separation

By ANNETTE CARY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls City Council's decision to consolidate police and fire services, despite an anti-consolidation referendum passed by voters, prompted E.A. "Ernie" Wallen to enter the race for a council seat.

If he's elected, one of his first steps would be to seek a reversal of police and fire consolidation, he says.

"The issue is the vote of the people has been ignored," he says. "What's taken the vote away from the people. If that's the case, do we still have a republican form of government?"

The council seems to have forgotten that they're elected to serve the people, he says.

That's illustrated by the council's vote to consolidate, as well as by the city's schedules the sanding of city streets, he says. The sanders are on the street at 8:30 or 9 a.m. just after the morning rush, he says.

School buses are an hour or so earlier in the morning would seem to be the best way to keep the best interests of the people in mind, he says.

Wallen also says that he has misgivings about a council election in which three former city employees are running.

"Bureaucracy may be tantamount (in their decisions)," he says. "And philosophy, reasoning and looking in to all angles of issues may be emphasized to a lesser degree than they should be."

The biggest problem facing the city now seems to be a lack of economic growth, he says. "We like things much as they were when we were growing up and younger adults, but at the same time we have to keep up with the economic times or die," he says.

No incumbents will compete in Dietrich race

By HOWARD MILLER
Times-News correspondent

DIETRICH — With no incumbents seeking re-election, victory seems assured for residents running for the mayor's post and two council positions.

Willard Stevenson is the candidate for mayor, and William Bingham and Robert Jauregui are the council candidates.

Mayor Scott Bolton said he is not seeking re-election because he feels that in a community the size of Dietrich everyone should have an opportunity to hold office. Bolton said the high point of his term as mayor was seeing the completion of the park project and the low point was a dispute over a road access.

Stevenson said he shares the sentiment that everyone should take a turn at holding city office. He recently retired from the Farmer's Home Administration while stationed in the Virgin Islands and then moved to Dietrich. Stevenson is a board member of the Wood River Convalescent Center and the Lincoln County Fair board.

Both candidates for the council positions cited public pressure as the primary reason for their decision to run for office.

Hagerman schools enjoy good financial health

By APRIL POHL
Times-News correspondent

HAGERMAN — The Hagerman School Board reviewed the annual audit report for the 1984-85 school year recently and heard a favorable report on the district's financial condition.

Tom Jones, of the accounting firm of Oakley and Jones, told the trustees that the district has a "good, sound financial balance."

"The school could probably operate for three months even with no money coming in," said Jones. "I think the Hagerman school will do just fine even if the state cuts the budget."

Jones singled out the school secretary, Carol Ainsworth, for a job well done on keeping expenditures in check.

"I can't congratulate you enough. You are very conscientious about sticking to budgets," said Jones.

In other business, Connie Sticker, representative of the recently formed parent/teacher volunteers, detailed the group's activities for the year. She said the PTV will be assisting the staff at the elementary school with various duties, such as installation of playground equipment and tutoring.

"This year, our goal, at the suggestion of Elementary Principal Bev Loranger, is to purchase rubber pads for playground equipment," said Sticker.

Superintendent Kenneth Black outlined to the board the procedure for reimbursement for forfeited games.

Glenns Ferry investigates insurance handling delay

By DIANA HOOLEY
Times-News correspondent

GLENN'S FERRY — Mayor James Messerly has asked City Attorney Jay Friedly to investigate problems the city is having with its insurance agency, National Casualty of Scottsdale, Ariz.

The request came after Messerly announced the city still has not received notification from the insurance company about whether the policy liability or the commissions and errors coverage for council members has been renewed. City Clerk Eddie Bostic said the paperwork for the renewal was sent three months ago.

"We have to have some sort of information about our present status in written form before we can do anything," said Messerly. "I'll be glad to go to the state insurance agency on this."

The mayor said an effort is under way by the Association of Idaho Cities and Counties to form an insurance consortium large enough to attract the bigger, more reliable insurance agencies. But, said Messerly, it may be at least a year before the program is set up.

In other business:

The city has been served notice by Elmore County Deputy George Menz that the city is in default of a $500,000 lawsuit, said Messerly. The lawsuit filed by Robert Crane, who fell in a construction site hole in downtown Glenns Ferry, will not come to a jury trial until sometime next year, said City Clerk Bostic.

The city has issued a sewer line proposal to engineers for a new Mormon church being built in Glenns Ferry. Messerly said the city would install the trunk line for the sewer if the LDS church and landowner Ben Christensen would foot the bill for the line.

Then they can promise it as they see fit to future homeowners in that area that want to hook onto the line," said Messerly.

Idaho Neighbor's Network submits utility initiative petition a 3rd time

By LINDA LARSON
Times-News correspondent

BURLEY — The Idaho Neighbor's Network submitted its utility initiative petition to the city clerk's office for a third time on Tuesday.

The city clerk, Cheryl Choate, said that she expects the organization will again have to wait the full 10 days before the document is returned.

Choate said Thursday that City Attorney Bill Parsons has already waited until the last day to reject the initiative, but she is hopeful that this time the petition will have the changes necessary to permit the ballot to move into the next phase, which would be to gather the necessary 367 signatures that would call for a special election.

INN is trying to change the city utility policy to include such items as lower fees for hookup and disconnecting service, and a clause that would prohibit termination of services during the winter months in homes where minors, elderly or infirm are living.

The initiative was rejected the first time because there were some signatures that were not valid. The second rejection listed four deficiencies, but an INN news release said only three of these deficiencies were corrected in the newly submitted petition. The release termed the fourth item, concerning form and style, to be "unnecessary."

Choate said the INN sent a letter to Parsons requesting that he specify exactly what changes he would like to see made in form and style, but a letter had not yet been received from Parsons by Tuesday when INN resubmitted the petition.

Briefly

Shooting accident injures hand

BURLEY — The only shooting accident of the 1985 hunting season in Twin Falls County as of Sunday night was a hand injury that occurred in Buhl about 4:55 p.m.

County officers said Jerry Eggleston, 17, of Buhl was preparing to go hunting when he dropped a shotgun he was loading into a vehicle. The gun fell with the barrel pointing up and discharged as it struck the ground. Eggleston was shot in the fingers. He was admitted to Magic Valley Regional Medical Center for treatment.

2-year-old boy amputates arm

PAUL — A two-year-old Paul child suffered the loss of an arm in an accident Sunday morning while in a potato cellar where his family was working at the time.

Idaho State Police identified the child as Travis McBride, the son of Jim and Wendy McBride of Paul. Officers did not know the names of the owners of the property where the accident occurred.

Capt. Robert Connor of ISP met the family vehicle that was bringing the child to the Rupert hospital and transported the child to the ambulance which was also enroute to pick up the child.

The little boy was transported from the Minidoka Memorial Hospital to Bannock Memorial Medical Center in Pocatello. Nursing personnel there said he underwent about three hours of surgery and was in stable condition Sunday night.

Connor said the accident occurred about 11 a.m. Sunday in the cellar, 11 miles west of Kimama, which is in Lincoln County, just beyond the Lincoln-Minidoka county line.

State police said apparently the child's arm was amputated when caught in a chain on a conveyor belt that carries potatoes into the cellar. His parents were nearby in the potato cellar at the time.

$9,000 in hay goes up in smoke

KIMBERLY — More than $9,000 in hay went up in smoke Sunday morning at the Elmer Estinger farm southwest of Kimberly.

Twin Falls County Deputy Sheriff Jim Hawkins said the fire was reported about 11:30 a.m. He said he was driving home at about that same time and saw the smoke and flames. Hawkins said by the time two fire engines — one from the Kimberly Fire Department and another from the Twin Falls County Mutual Fire Department at Filer — responded, nothing could be done but keep the fire from spreading from the stacks of hay to farm buildings.

He said the owner reported 150 tons of hay in two large stacks, valued at $50 to $65 per ton burned. There was nothing salvaged, the officer said.

A "fire barrel," about 30 to 40 feet long, in the hay stacks and in the path of the wind which was blowing about the 15 to 20 mph at a time, is believed to have been the source of the fire. A fire was burning in the barrel. Officers and firefighters believed a spark may have been whipped out of the trash fire to one of the stacks, smoldered and then erupted into flames.

Hawkins said although the family was home when the fire began, a machine shed blocked the view of the hay stacks from the house. Firemen were able to save the machine shed and also kept fuel tanks to the southeast of the fire hosed down to prevent any involvement.

2-year-old girl, hit by car, dies

BURLEY — The two-year-old daughter of a Caldwell couple, in Burley to attend a funeral, was killed Saturday afternoon when she ran into the path of a vehicle in front of 958 Miller Ave.

Police said Sunday that the child, Monica Trinidad, daughter of Irma and Ricardo Trinidad, of Caldwell, stepped into the street from between two parked vehicles and was struck and then run over by a four-wheel-drive vehicle. Patrolman Jeff Fackrell, who investigated, said the right side of the vehicle hit the child and she may have died instantly. He said the child and her parents were visiting at the Miller Avenue residence to attend the funeral of a relative who was murdered in Arizona a week ago.

He said the vehicle that struck the child was driven by a 15-year-old female from Burley. Her name was not released Sunday pending further investigation. However, Fackrell said the driver was not traveling at an excessive speed, and had slowed down when another child crossed the street just seconds earlier. He said the young driver had a proper driver's license. She was accompanied by two young passengers.

The accident occurred about 1:30 p.m. Saturday, and the little girl, who would have been three years old in a few weeks, was pronounced dead at Cassia Memorial Hospital where she was taken by ambulance.

Cassia County Coroner Paul Young said Monica Trinidad died of head injuries.

NOTICE OF EMERGENCY RULE-MAKING AND NOTICE OF INTENDED RULE-MAKING

In compliance with Sections 67-5203(b) and 67-5204(b)(2), Idaho Code, notice is hereby given that the Division of Health and Welfare, State of Idaho, has undertaken emergency procedures for rule-making. The action, under Docket Number 0302-85-01, involves the amendment and adoption of rules governing Social Services, Title 3, Chapter 2, Rules and Regulations of the Department of Health and Welfare. The action has been taken under the authority granted in Section 16-1600, Idaho Code, for the purposes of complying with the provisions of Public Law 93-247, as amended.

Emergency rule-making is necessary, because federal regulations require those policies to be in place by October 9, 1985, to protect handicapped persons with life-threatening conditions from possible medical neglect in health care facilities.

The rules, which were adopted by emergency procedures on the 22nd day of September, 1985, and filed by the undersigned on the 23rd day of September, 1985, became effective on the 1st day of October, 1985, and will expire at the end of one hundred twenty (120) days on the 28th day of January, 1986.

In addition, notice is also given, in compliance with Section 67-5203(a)(1), Idaho Code, that the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare, Division of Field Operations, has also initiated regular rule-making under Docket Number 0302-85-01, for the purpose of adopting these emergency rules as permanent rules.

The following is a descriptive summary of the substance of the emergency and regular rule-making and the principal issues involved:

The National Child Abuse Prevention and Treatment Act has established new federal regulations which require child protective services agencies to have written policies and procedures in place to receive, investigate, and dispose of complaints of alleged medical neglect in health care facilities. Life-threatening conditions in health care facilities. They further require coordination of activities (handicapped) in health care facilities between state child protective services and health care facilities, and health care facilities to bring such cases before the court can be initiated, it need be.

The Department of Health and Welfare is the agency responsible for the implementation of the Code 16-1600 to be primarily responsible for child abuse and neglect programs within the State and, as such, must implement the purposes of the law and regulations by promulgating these policies and procedures.

The issues involved herein include federal and state protection of handicapped infants who might otherwise be left to the care of their medically handicapped conditions. These procedures are necessary to ensure that the child protective services have a system of advocacy established with appropriate checks and balances which guarantee their right to be free from abuse or neglect.

Within the time limits specified below, any person can review the proposed rules in the DHW Administrative Procedure, or any of the regional administrative offices of the Department. Copies of the proposed rules will be made available upon request specifying the docket number(s) cited above.

Anyone can submit written comment regarding the proposed rules, and any individual or industry who may be affected by the proposed rules is encouraged to submit information concerning the anticipated economic impact of the proposed action. For assistance on technical questions concerning the proposed rules, contact Ed Van Dusen, Department of Health and Welfare, Division of Field Operations, (208) 334-4007, Boise, Idaho. After written comments concerning the proposed rules must be postmarked or delivered on or before November 8, 1985.

Persons who are interested in the proposed rules, or are addressed to the undersigned and postmarked on or before November 8, 1985, from a person, or from an association presenting a petition with signatures of not less than twenty-five (25) members of the organization, or from a governmental subdivision or agency, hearing requests will be included in a statement of the direct interests of the petitioners, and the subject matter of the proposed rules. Any hearing request will be accessible to the public. Interpreters for persons with hearing impairments and brailled or taped information for persons with visual impairments can be provided upon request. For arrangements, contact the undersigned at (208) 334-4007.

NOTICE OF EMERGENCY RULE-MAKING AND NOTICE OF INTENDED RULE-MAKING

In compliance with Sections 67-5203(b) and 67-5204(b)(2), Idaho Code, notice is hereby given that the Division of Health and Welfare, State of Idaho, has undertaken emergency procedures for rule-making. The action, under Docket Number 0302-85-01, involves the amendment and adoption of rules governing Social Services, Title 3, Chapter 2, Rules and Regulations of the Department of Health and Welfare. The action has been taken under the authority granted in Section 16-1600, Idaho Code, for the purposes of complying with the provisions of Public Law 93-247, as amended.

Emergency rule-making is necessary, because federal regulations require those policies to be in place by October 9, 1985, to protect handicapped persons with life-threatening conditions from possible medical neglect in health care facilities.

The rules, which were adopted by emergency procedures on the 22nd day of September, 1985, and filed by the undersigned on the 23rd day of September, 1985, became effective on the 1st day of October, 1985, and will expire at the end of one hundred twenty (120) days on the 28th day of January, 1986.

In addition, notice is also given, in compliance with Section 67-5203(a)(1), Idaho Code, that the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare, Division of Field Operations, has also initiated regular rule-making under Docket Number 0302-85-01, for the purpose of adopting these emergency rules as permanent rules.

The following is a descriptive summary of the substance of the emergency and regular rule-making and the principal issues involved:

The National Child Abuse Prevention and Treatment Act has established new federal regulations which require child protective services agencies to have written policies and procedures in place to receive, investigate, and dispose of complaints of alleged medical neglect in health care facilities. Life-threatening conditions in health care facilities. They further require coordination of activities (handicapped) in health care facilities between state child protective services and health care facilities, and health care facilities to bring such cases before the court can be initiated, it need be.

The Department of Health and Welfare is the agency responsible for the implementation of the Code 16-1600 to be primarily responsible for child abuse and neglect programs within the State and, as such, must implement the purposes of the law and regulations by promulgating these policies and procedures.

The issues involved herein include federal and state protection of handicapped infants who might otherwise be left to the care of their medically handicapped conditions. These procedures are necessary to ensure that the child protective services have a system of advocacy established with appropriate checks and balances which guarantee their right to be free from abuse or neglect.

Within the time limits specified below, any person can review the proposed rules in the DHW Administrative Procedure, or any of the regional administrative offices of the Department. Copies of the proposed rules will be made available upon request specifying the docket number(s) cited above.

Anyone can submit written comment regarding the proposed rules, and any individual or industry who may be affected by the proposed rules is encouraged to submit information concerning the anticipated economic impact of the proposed action. For assistance on technical questions concerning the proposed rules, contact Ed Van Dusen, Department of Health and Welfare, Division of Field Operations, (208) 334-4007, Boise, Idaho. After written comments concerning the proposed rules must be postmarked or delivered on or before November 8, 1985.

"People do not seem to talk for the sake of expressing their opinions, but to maintain an opinion for the sake of talking."
— William Hazlitt.

South played today's slam poorly and then tried to justify his failure. He didn't succeed in that project either.

South's heart ace won and East's trump ace was knocked out. East returned a club and South finessed to West's king for down one.

West exited with another heart which was ruin in dummy. When

South drew trumps, North inquired, "Are you still unable to claim the rest?"

South took the winning diamond finesse and spread his hand for one down, accompanied by strained alibis.

"I had to finesse in clubs since I could discard only one of dummy's clubs on my long heart," maintained South.

"But how about the diamond finesse?" argued North. "You needed that whether or not the club finesse succeeded. And since that one had to win, it was silly to try the club finesse also. Take two finessses in diamonds and throw your club queen on dummy's diamond ace. It's that simple."

End of conversation.

9th-inning rally puts Cards 2-up

By JOHN NELSON
The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Terry Pendleton already had done some damage with his glove. Now, he wanted to do it with his bat.

The hero of the World Series opener for his fielding Saturday night, Pendleton hit a two-out, three-run double that capped a four-run rally in the ninth inning Sunday night as the St. Louis Cardinals beat Kansas City 4-2.

The victory gave the Cardinals a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven Series, which now goes to St. Louis for Game 3 Tuesday night. Cardinals right-hander Joaquin Andujar, 21, pitched the season's 11th straight game, winning the fourth inning, 2-0, in the fourth inning.

"I was really pumped up," Pendleton said. "I really wanted to do some damage in that situation."

The damage was grave, and it must have been an unpleasant flashback for Royals left-hander Charlie Leibrandt, who took a two-hit shutout into the ninth, Leibrandt, 17, during the season, lost Game 4 of the American League playoffs against Toronto after taking a 1-0 lead into the ninth.

This time, after allowing only two hits through eight innings, he had the bases loaded and two outs with Pendleton coming up and relief ace Dan Quisenberry warming up in the bullpen.

"I thought Charlie was in complete command," and (pitching coach) Gary Blaylock and I agreed it was his game to win or lose, Royals Manager Dick Howser said.

Royals center fielder Willie Wilson didn't agree, saying only, "Anybody who knows baseball knows what he should have done."

Leibrandt refused to talk, but lose he did, and there were two philosophers in the St. Louis clubhouse who shared insights into the stunning comeback.

St. Louis Manager Whitey Herzog: "Sometimes, I guess you're not supposed to win a ballgame. I don't think we hit any ball good—it was just one of those things that happen."

had a key double in the rally: "I guess we're from the Yogi Berra school. It ain't over 'til it's over. It's just like we knew it was in the cards."

Pendleton helped the Cardinals win the Series opener 3-1 with a run-saving play in the fourth inning. With one out and Jim Sundberg on third base, Pendleton fielded a bloop foul by Steve Balboni down the left side, turned and threw out Sundberg, who was trying to tag up and score.

Thirty-five times in the previous 81 World Series, teams have taken over the first two games, and 27 times, they have gone on to win. But perhaps even more telling, the Cardinals were the 10th team to take a 2-0 lead on the road; the first since the Oakland A's in 1972, and all previous nine have gone on to win the Series.

Plus, the Cardinals have the advantage of going home, where they had the second-best record in baseball this season and where they swept the Dodgers in the playoffs after losing the first two games in Los Angeles.

Pendleton said he didn't expect to face Leibrandt in the ninth. The Royals lefty already had faced six hitters in the inning, and one run already had scored on a single by Jack Clark.

"It was a big lift," Pendleton said of the rally, "especially the way Leibrandt was pitching. It was a great comeback. I really thought he's been gone, though. I really thought they would bring in some of their good relievers."

Still, Herzog warned: "They were down 2-0 to Toronto. We were down 2-0 to L.A. It's not over by a long shot. Their pitching is outstanding, and now we're going to get their 20-game winner. It's not going to be a shoo-in for us to win because we're two games up."

Willie McGee started the Cardinal rally with a double down the left field line, only the third hit off Leibrandt. But McGee had to wait at second while Ozzie Smith grounded out and Tommy Herr flied out to shallow right before Clark came to bat.

Clark, whose two-out, three-run homer in the ninth inning beat the Los Angeles Dodgers on Wednesday and gave the Cardinals their 14th National League pennant, took three balls out of the strike zone before he finally found one he could hit. He pulled it to left between third and shortstop, scoring McGee with the first run of the night for St. Louis.

Howser said he had no intention of walking Clark. "I can't put him on," Howser said. "As good a hitter as he is, I can't put him on in that situation. He's the tying run."

Landrum followed with a bloop double just fair down the right field line, sending Clark to third, and Cesar Cedeno was walked intentionally. That brought Pendleton, who hit a 2-1 pitch into the left field corner, scoring all three runners and chasing Leibrandt.

"The pitch didn't have that sharp pop on it," Pendleton said. "It was over the plate, and I was able to hit it into left field. I felt he was losing the ball just a little bit."

Quisenberry came in, one batter too late, walked Darrell Porter intentionally and then got pinch-hitter Andy M. Sykes on a popout to center and the inning.

But the damage had been done, and Leibrandt was a ninth-inning victim for the second time this postseason.

"It's the toughest way possible to lose a ballgame," said Royals third baseman George Brett, who drove in one of KC's two fourth-inning runs. "We outplayed them tonight. We probably outplayed them last night. It's just one of those things. You can't give them a chance to beat you, and we gave them a chance."

The Royals had staked Leibrandt to a 2-0 lead in the fourth on a single by Willie Wilson and consecutive RBI doubles by Brett and Frank

White, the Royals' No. 3 and 4 hitters, who had been ineffective offensively in Game 1.

And that seemed like enough for Leibrandt.

Going into the ninth, he had allowed only singles by Pendleton in the fourth and had let only one other Cardinal reach base, Clark on a walk in front of Landrum's hit. He also had retired 13 straight batters.

"Charlie pitched outstanding tonight," catcher Jim Sundberg said. "His location was excellent. They didn't hit one ball hard off him all night long. They were all off the end of the bat. But it doesn't matter how hard you hit it, it's where."

Thus, the Cardinals became the first team since the 1939 New York Yankees to win after trailing by two runs going into the ninth.

Cardinals right-hander Danny Cox, who won the third game of the playoffs for St. Louis, played with fire in each of the first three innings before the Royals finally broke through in the fourth. Cox allowed seven Kansas City hits, walked three and struck out five, including three in the second inning, before he left for a pinch-hitter in the eighth.

Ken Dayley took over from Cox starting the eighth and got the win, with Jeff Leach getting the save, pitching the ninth.

After stranding leadoff hitters in each of the first three innings, the Royals finally made good on an opportunity in the fourth as Brett broke out of a brief postseason slump.

Wilson led off with the third hit off Cox, a ground single through the right side. Brett, with just two hits in his previous 16 at-bats, took a strike from Cox, then hit a humpback liner down the right-field line to score Wilson, who was running on the pitch. Cox then got behind in the count to White, and the Royals' cleanup man hit a 2-1 pitch into the alley in left-center for a double that scored Brett.

The Royals, who had put the leadoff man on base seven times in the 12 previous innings of this World Series without coming up with a run, had finally taken advantage of an opportunity against St. Louis. They would waste no time later.

Rams blank Chiefs, run record to 7-0

By DOUG TUCKER
The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — For John Robinson and his Los Angeles Rams, the cup runneth over.

On Sunday, the Rams remained unbeaten with a 16-0 victory over the visiting Kansas City Chiefs, notching their first shutout in six years and intercepting a Chiefs record six passes.

"I'm happy about being 7-0," said the Rams coach, moments after the victory. "I'm happy about the shutout, and I'm happy about the interceptions."

Mike Lansford kicked three field goals to go with Eric Dickerson's 4-yard touchdown run as the Rams handed the Chiefs, 34, their third straight loss. Los Angeles quarterback Dieter Brock had only nine completions in 20 attempts for 68 yards, and Dickerson had just 41 yards on six carries.

"We're definitely on a defensive team right now," said Robinson.

"We'd like to score more points and pile up more yardage, but it's fun to win," said Brock.

The bottom seems to be quickly falling out of what had promised to be a good season for the Chiefs. Coach John Mackovic was ready to shoulder the blame.

"We're struggling," said Mackovic, in his first year as the Chiefs' head coach. "I don't think I've done a good job — with players, or coaches, or any way."

Every member of the Rams' starting secondary had either an interception or a fumble recovery as the Rams recorded their first shutout in six years. The Chiefs dropped to 3-4 with their third straight loss.

After a scoreless first period, the Rams took charge with 13 points in the second quarter, capitalizing on three turnovers. Kansas City quarterback Todd Blackledge, playing for the injured Bill Kenney, threw six interceptions.

Dieter Brock engineered a 14-play,

69-yard march, twice converting third-down plays. Dickerson tapped the drive with a one-yard plunge that gave Los Angeles a 7-0 lead. Stephens, Paige and picked off the fifth interception.

Dickerson, beginning to find his touch after a long training camp holdout, picked up four yards on third-and-two to keep the Rams' first drive moving. Then on third and goal from the one, he slanted right behind a great block by Barry Redden to go in for the score.

The Chiefs, who opened the season with a rousing victory over New Orleans, dropped their third straight and dropped into last place in the National Football League's AFC West.

The Rams' victims so far this year have included Denver, Philadelphia, Seattle, Atlanta, Minnesota, Tampa Bay and Kansas City.

Patriots stop Jets' win skein

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — The New York Jets were surprised when Steve Grogan scored the winning touchdown on a 3-yard bootleg with 3:27 left in Sunday's game. They weren't alone.

"In the huddle, New England's quarterback told us, 'wide receiver Stan Morgan has plans for the play that gave the Patriots a 20-13 National Football League victory and ended the Jets' five-game winning streak.'"

"We put the play in during the week," said Grogan, who made his first start in 19 games. "It was meant for only a couple of players to know about. It was one of our new wrinkles."

Grogan faked a handoff to Tony Collins, who followed his linemen off right tackle. The Jets went that way, too, and Grogan raced untouched across left end to cap a 63-yard drive.

"I just felt like then was as good a time as any" to run the play, he said. "Their defense against the run is tough inside the 5-yard line."

Grogan completed only 11 of 32 passes for 171 yards but directed the Patriots to two touchdowns in a seven-minute stretch of the fourth quarter. New England hadn't scored an offensive touchdown in the fourth quarter in their previous four games.

The Jets' played without NFL rushing leader Freeman McNeil, who was banged up and had a bad back. "I said New York Coach Joe Walton — I was tempted to put him in but I didn't want to lose him for two or three weeks."

Jaworski guns down Cowboys

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Ron Jaworski's fourth-quarter 36-yard touchdown pass to wide receiver Kenny Jackson rallied the Philadelphia Eagles to a 16-14 victory over Dallas Sunday, ending the Cowboys' four-game National Football League winning streak.

The Eagles trailed 14-9 with 10:07 remaining when Jaworski was tipped by defensive back Everson Walls into the hands of Jackson at the Dallas 25. Jackson, who had caught only six passes in the previous six games, ran the rest of the way for the touchdown that boosted the Eagles to their second straight upset and a 3-4 record.

Jaworski, despite being sacked four times, completed 22 of 35 passes for a career-high 280 yards. He directed three drives that ended in field goals of 39, 33 and 36 yards by Paul McFadden.

Slumping Niners lose again, this time to Detroit, 23-21

By JOHN RABY
The Associated Press

PONTIAC, Mich. — Detroit Coach Darrell Rogers knew the running attack Sunday in order to motivate an offense that recently had rolled over and played dead.

Fullback James Jones, coming back from a thigh injury, rushed for a career-high 116 yards and Ed Murray kicked three field goals as the Lions upset the San Francisco 49ers 23-21 in a National Football League contest.

The Lions ground out 162 yards and 11 first downs rushing, not great by pro football standards. But compared with no first downs rushing a week ago and 84 yards on the ground in the last two games combined, it was good enough for Rogers.

"We haven't been able to run against anyone else," said Rogers, the Lions' rookie coach. "We had J.J. back and were able to get him the ball. When you get a first down, you get three more plays. We haven't been getting first downs before and we did today."

Rogers described Detroit's ability to run against San Francisco as luck, but Jones said it was something more out of desperation.

"It was a crucial game," Jones said. "If we lost, we're 3-4 going into face Miami, Minnesota and the (division-leading Chicago) Bears," Jones said.

The victory left the Lions at 4-3 after a 2-0 start, while the 49ers, 3-4, lost for the second straight week.

"It was a difficult loss for us, for our team and our organization," said 49ers Coach Bill Walsh. "It seems like week after week I have to stand here and congratulate our opponent for playing a good game, for not making mistakes and taking advantage of ours."

The 49ers, the defending Super Bowl champions, have had several good individual performances this season, but Walsh said they have failed to jell as a team.

"This has been the typical game for us this year," he said. "It's not what our people are accustomed to. But we must maintain our poise and character."

Rogers wouldn't brag about beating the 49ers.

"I'm always very pleased anytime the Detroit Lions win," he said. "It doesn't matter who we beat. Today it just happened to be the Super Bowl team of last year."

Steelers overwhelm Cardinals

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Mark Malone threw a 45-yard touchdown pass to Louis Licks and Frank Pollard scored on a 14-yard run in a three-minute span of the first quarter as the Pittsburgh Steelers defeated the slumping St. Louis Cardinals 23-10 Sunday in the National Football League.

Gary Anderson kicked three field goals as the Steelers, 3-4, ended a three-game losing streak by turning three Cardinals' turnovers into scores. St. Louis, 3-4, lost its third in a row.

St. Louis quarterback Neil Lomax passed for only 26 yards in the first half as the Cardinals' offense crossed the 50-yard line only once in the first three quarters.

Lips got behind Cardinals corner-back Cedric Mack and ignored a bump by safety Leonard Smith to land his seventh touchdown reception of the season with three minutes left in the first period.

Interception lifts Denver to OT win over Seahawks

DENVER (AP) — Rookie defensive back Daniel Hunter returned an interception 20 yards to set up Rich Karlis' 24-yard field goal 9:19 into overtime and lift the Denver Broncos to a 13-10 National Football League victory over the Seattle Seahawks on Sunday.

The Broncos defense, compensating for an offense that went sour after the first half, sacked Seattle quarterback Dave Krieg three times in the overtime session, including the two plays immediately preceding Hunter's interception. Krieg, sprinting out to his left, overthrew Steve Largent along the sideline, and Hunter picked off the errant aerial at the 35, returning it to the 15.

Karlis, who earlier in the game missed three field-goal attempts, converted the clincher four plays later.

The Seahawks, outplayed for most of three quarters, had overcome a 10-0 deficit as Krieg threw a 9-yard touchdown pass to Largent late in the third quarter and Norm Johnson kicked a 39-yard field goal with 5:46 remaining in regulation.

During that comeback, the Seahawks defense kept Denver's offense in check. The Broncos had six straight possessions of three-downs-and-punt in the second half.

Denver, now 5-2, took the game's opening kickoff and drove for its lone touchdown. Sammy Winder capped the 88-yard, nine-play drive with a twisting, 36-yard TD run.

The Broncos made it 10-0 early in the third quarter, capitalizing on safety Tony Lilly's interception at the Seahawks' 35-yard line. Karlis hit the 46-yard field goal with 10:30 left in the period.

Seattle, which dropped to 4-3 on the year, subsequently mounted its first serious threat of the game as Krieg hit Byron Franklin on a 26-yard pass and Curt Warner ran 19 yards to the Denver 37. The drive fizzled when Krieg was whistled for intentional grounding.

21-20 in a National Football League game.

The Raiders, 5-2, who won for the fourth straight time, led through most of the game before falling behind 20-14 on a 7-yard touchdown pass from Browns' rookie Bernie Kosar to Kevin Mack with 7:07 to go. Four minutes later, Los Angeles took a punt at its own 40 and drove for the winning touchdown as Wilson completed passes of 12 and 9 yards to Jessie Hester, a 9-yarder to Christensen and a 17-yarder to Dokie Williams.

Last-minute FG saves Dolphins from Tampa

AFC East

MIAMI (AP) — Fuad Revez's 43-yard field goal with six seconds remaining spoiled a gallant Tampa Bay comeback Sunday and gave the Miami Dolphins a 13-38 National Football League victory over the winless Buccaneers.

Revez's game-winning kick came at the end of a four-play, 45-yard drive quarterback Dan Marino launched from his own 29-yard line with 38 seconds left. It snapped a tie the Bucs had achieved with 17 unanswered points in the fourth quarter, capped by Donald Igwebuike's 38-yard field goal.

Marino, who threw for 302 yards, began the march with an 11-yard completion to Duriel Harris. He then teamed with Tony Nathan on plays covering 19 and 15 yards to give the Dolphins a first down at the Tampa Bay 26.

Revez, who earlier had kicked a 29-yard field goal that was tipped by Tampa Bay's Karl Morgan, entered the game at that point.

Marino, bouncing back from his least productive performance as a NFL starting quarterback, also threw three touchdown passes as the Dolphins withstood four TD passes by Tampa Bay's quarterback Steve Deberg — all of them thrown to tight end Jimmie Giles.

Miami improved its record to 5-2 and moved back into a first-place tie with the New York Jets in the AFC East. Tampa Bay, 0-7 under first-year Coach Leeman Bennett, finished the day as the NFL's only winless team.

Marino tossed scoring passes of 16 yards to Nat Moore and 4 yards to Jim Jensen on Miami's first two offensive possessions. The Dolphins rolled to a 24-14 halftime lead, and led 38-21 after Nathan scored on a 1-yard run and Marino threw a 3-yard TD pass to Bruce Hardy in the third quarter.

Less than five minutes later, Giles scored again on a 16-yard play that sliced the Dolphins' lead to three points with 7:32 left.

Buffalo 21 Indianapolis 9

CHICAGO PARK, N.Y. (AP) — With the help of ne Bills running back Joe Cribbs, Greg Bell rushed for two first-half touchdowns as Buffalo snapped an eight-game losing streak dating back to last season with a 21-9 victory over the Indianapolis Colts Sunday in the National Football League.

Cribbs, the former Buffalo star who re-signed with the team Oct. 11 after two seasons in the United States Football League, rushed for 41 yards and delivered the key blocks 49-17 two weeks ago, were unable to throw the ball against a charged Bills defense, as quarterback Mike Pagel completed only 7 of 22 passes for 78 yards and 2 interceptions. All three Indianapolis scores came on field goals by Raul Allegre.

The last victory for the Bills, who had lost 25 of their last 30 games going into Sunday, came Dec. 2 against the Colts.

Cribbs caught a 7-yard pass on Buffalo's first play of the game and went on to be an integral part of the Bills offense in the first half. Still, the Bills only managed 182 yards of net offense in the game.

Hapless Houston unloads on Cincinnati, 44-27

HOUSTON — Warren Moon threw two touchdown passes and Mike Rozier ran for another score Sunday as the Houston Oilers snapped a five-game losing streak with a 44-27 National Football League victory Sunday over the Cincinnati Bengals.

The Oilers, 2-5, finally gave AstroDome fans something to cheer about as they ended a seven-game losing streak against the Bengals.

Houston's defense contributed to the victory by recovering two fumbles and intercepting three Boomer Esiason passes in the second half, including one by safety Keith Bostic with 12:20 left in the game.

Moon, the focal point of fan disenchantment in recent weeks, rallied the Bengal secondary, including a 34-yard touchdown to Drew Hill and a 24-yard strike to Mike McCloskey in the fourth quarter.

Rozier scored on a 3-yard run and had his longest run and pass reception as an Oiler.

The Oilers jumped to a 17-3 lead in the second quarter on Larry Morlaire's first touchdown run. Morlaire's 34-yard field goal and Rozier's 3-yard run.

The Bengals rallied to trail 17-13 at the half on field goals of 47 and 22 by Jim Beech and Esiason's 20-yard touchdown pass to rookie wide receiver Eddie Brown.

Houston regained the momentum in the third quarter when safety Be Eason intercepted an Esiason pass and returned it 55 yards to the Cincinnati 30, setting up a 1-yard touchdown by Stan Edwards.

Zendejas added a 28-yard field goal and nose guard Mike Stensrud set up Moon's 34-yard strike to Hill by intercepting another Esiason pass.

Benoit wins first marathon since her '84 Olympic victory

CHICAGO (AP) — Steve Jones successfully defended his Chicago title but missed a world best by one second, racing through this city's streets Sunday in two hours, seven minutes and 43 seconds, and Joan Benoit Samuelson ran a personal best 2:21:01 to win the women's division of America's Marathon Chicago.

"I'm disappointed (about missing the world's best) but I won the race," said Jones, a Welshman who also won the 1983 London Marathon this summer. "I came in to win the race and couldn't have done any better."

"The wind was blowing fast the whole while, especially the last five miles."

Jones said coming down the final straightaway of about 400 yards, "I knew I was slowing down drastically. I was ready to wave to the crowd and start shaking hands with my friends because I thought I lost it (chance for a world best)."

"But halfway down the people began screaming and I could see the clock and I thought it (world best) was so close that it was within my grasp."

"If there'd been a clock at the top (of the straightaway), I might have started my kick earlier. I might have had a second or a second and a half left," he told a news conference.

Jones, a 29-year-old corporal in the Royal Air Force, defeated his closest pursuer, Robieb Djama of Djibouti, by almost a full minute, but came up strides short at the finish in attempting to better the 2:07:12 world best set by Portugal's Carlos Lopes last April. Djama was clocked in 2:08:08 and Australian Rob de Castella finished third in 2:08:40.

In the women's division, Norway's Ingrid Kristiansen was determined to prevent a repeat of the 1984 Los Angeles Olympic marathon in which Benoit Samuelson pulled away early and was never headed. Kristiansen, who owns the world best of 2:21:06, ran with Benoit Samuelson through some blistering early miles and was within five yards through 19 miles.

Kristiansen finished second in 2:23:05 and two-time defending champion Rosa Mota of Portugal was third in 2:23:29. Carla Buerkens of the Netherlands was fourth in 2:27:50 and Veronique Marot of Great Britain was fifth in 2:28:04.

Benoit Samuelson, running in her first marathon since the Olympic victory, said afterwards, "It'll be a while before I run another marathon. If I had run a great race here, I might have called it quits."

Falcons end slump by stopping Saints

By ED SHEARER

NFC West

ATLANTA — Rookie Mike Gann returned a fumble 42 yards for one touchdown and Cliff Austin ran back a kickoff 96 yards for another as the Atlanta Falcons snapped a six-game losing streak with a 31-24 victory over the mistake-prone New Orleans Saints Sunday.

The Saints, falling to 3-4 with their second loss in a row, also had two crucial interceptions — one leading to an Atlanta touchdown and the other stopping a scoring threat after reaching the Falcons' 11.

It was only Atlanta's second victory in its last 17 National Football League outings and left the Falcons 1-6 for the year.

David Archer gave the Falcons a 21-10 lead late in the third quarter when he scored on an 18-yard naked bootleg.

Gerald Riggs scored Atlanta's first touchdown on a 3-yard run that capped a five-play, 50-yard drive after Wendell Cason intercepted a Dave Wilson pass.

his 16th in a row, including 13 this season.

The Saints closed a 14-point lead to 7 when Frank Warren rambled 50 yards with a fumble return on only 30 seconds remaining.

The Saints then recovered an onside kick, and reached the Atlanta 25 before falling back on a penalty and eventually running out of time.

Dave Wilson fired two touchdown passes for the Falcons — an 11-yarder to Wayne Wilson in the second quarter and 28-yarder to Hoby Brenner just before Austin's game-clinching kickoff return on which he broke four tackles along the way.

Morten Andersen kicked a 33-yard field goal for the Saints in the second quarter.

Besides the three critical turnovers, the Saints also lost a 61-yard kickoff return by Carl Roaches to the Atlanta 33 to start the second half when Joe Kohrbrand was called for an illegal block, forcing New Orleans to start at its own 19.

Resurgent

Taylor & Co. sack Redskins

NFC East

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. — The Hall of Fame Lawrence Taylor returned to the New York defense on Sunday and it got the Giants back into the playoff picture and put a dark thing in the Washington Redskins' week.

Phil Simms threw a 23-yard touchdown pass to Mark Bavaro. Taylor took it out against George Adams stored on a 2-yard Washington, making 11 unassisted run and the Giants defense led by a tackle and sacking Washington dominating Taylor shut down quarterback Joe Theismann twice.

Washington en route to a 17-3 New York victory over the Redskins on Sunday.

The victory snapped a two-game losing streak for the 4-5 Giants and Giants entered the game No. 1 in the NFC East. It also ended the Redskins' two-game winning streak and handed them game, while Washington was No. 2 in the division with a 7-1 record.

"It just happened that I decided to go back and be my old self," said Taylor. "I woke up a little bit this morning and I was not playing like I used to play and that got to me."

Statistical leaders among National Football League defenses — The Redskins' defense yielded 258.2 yards per game, while Washington was No. 2 at 270 yards per game.

Theismann said he thought the Redskins moved the ball well, gaining 276 yards. But they failed to get it into the end zone, and part of that problem may have been the absence of wide receiver Art Monk who did not play because of a shoulder injury.

"It seems the ball is bouncing to the air and one thing or another is happening and we're not getting the ball into the end zone," Theismann said. "It will come though. Every cloud has a silver lining, but I am tired of standing out here in the rain."

Theismann said Taylor had a little to do with the Redskins' offensive problems.

"I don't think there is any doubt Lawrence is a leader for them on defense," Theismann said.

Eleventh-hour TD pass lifts Vikings to victory

By MIKE NADELL

NFC Central

MINNEAPOLIS — Tommy Kramer completed his first pass to a wide receiver all game, a 26-yarder to Leo Lewis with 19 seconds to play, lifting the Minnesota Vikings to a 21-17 National Football League victory Sunday.

Kramer completed 31 of 46 passes for 311 yards. An interception by Linden King with about 11 minutes to play had set up San Diego's go-ahead touchdown, a 1-yard drive by Jim Spencer with 6:13 to play.

San Diego's drive was directed by Dan Fouts, who replaced an ineffective Mark Herrmann in the fourth quarter after having missed the last two games with a knee injury.

Five plays after John Turner intercepted Herrmann's final pass of the game late in the third quarter and returned it to Minnesota's 36-yard line, Kramer found tight end Mark Mullarkey wide open for a 51-yard touchdown pass on the first play of the fourth period to give the Vikings a 14-10 lead.

Fouts completed six of nine passes for 63 yards after replacing Herrmann, who was 12 of 26 for 128 yards. Spencer ran for 86 yards and two touchdowns.

Kramer's favorite targets were running back Darrin Nelson, who caught 12 passes for 67 yards, and tight end Steve Jordan, who had eight catches for 91 yards.

The victory gave the Vikings a 4-3 record while San Diego fell to 3-4.

San Diego took a 7-0 lead, as Spencer set up his own 23-yard touchdown burst with a 24-yard run on the Chargers' initial possession.

The Vikings pulled into a 7-7 tie 4:09 into the second quarter on Allen Rice's 1-yard run after Chargers Gill Byrd and Danny Walters were called for consecutive pass interference penalties.

San Diego took a 10-7 halftime lead on Bob Thomas' 42-yard field goal with nine seconds left in the half.

Edwards captures Pensacola championship by single shot

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Danny Edwards posted a 1-stroke victory in the $300,000 Pensacola Open Sunday while Don Pooley captured the 1985 Vardon Trophy for the golfer with the lowest average score over the entire 1985 PGA tour.

Edwards, 34, carded a 15-under-par score of 269 with a 3-under-par 67 on the final round to edge John Mahaffey and Gil Morgan, who tied for second at 270. Alone in fourth place was Mark McCumber at 271.

The Edmond, Okla., pro pocketed a $51,000 first prize, equal to his entire 1984 tour winnings. He pushed his 1985 total to nearly $182,000, his best in 11 years as a pro.

Pooley, of Tucson, Ariz., won the Vardon Trophy with a 70.36 average for 97 rounds. Last year's winner was Calvin Peete with a 70.55 average.

The tournament at the par 71,

Golf

7,093-yard Perdido Bay Resort course was the last on the tour this year.

The victory was the first of the year and first at Pensacola for Edwards and the fifth of his career. His last victory was in 1983 at the Quad Cities Open.

Edwards avoided a three-way playoff with Morgan, also of Edmond, Okla., and Mahaffey by collecting a birdie on the par-3 17th hole. The other two golfers already were in the clubhouse at 14 under par when Edwards sank a 15-foot putt to birdie the 17th.

Pooley had come to Pensacola with the scoring lead at 70.30, just ahead of Larry Wadkins at 70.48.
