Vets draw salute

By CHRISTOPHER SULLIVAN
The Associated Press

Weeping at the Alamo and beating drums along the nation's main streets, Americans on Monday honored those who fought their wars.

They held Veterans Day vigils, memorial dedications and parades — including a controversial march in New York that excluded a homosexual veterans group.

While the wife of a missing Navy pilot was delivering thousands of letters to officials of Vietnam, demanding help in tracking down those still unaccounted for in the Southeast Asian war, President Reagan called on the nation to remember "the things that will continue the peace."

A somber service concluded a four-day vigil by Vietnam veterans in front of the Alamo in San Antonio, Texas, also in remembrance of the 2,500 combatants who never returned from the Southeast Asian war.

"There's a patrol still out," said Michael Martin, who led a 300-mile march of veterans from Dallas to San Antonio last week. Some in the audience wept.

Tim Holiday, who helped organize the march with Martin, urged veterans "to cross that line and live for freedom. Too many have died." Holiday said he was referring not only to soldiers who died in Vietnam, but the veterans who have committed suicide since.

The veterans, most wearing camouflage fatigues, hoisted a black and white POW-MIA flag in front of the Alamo and sang songs written by Martin and Holiday.

In New York, angry members of the Gay Veterans Association protested a decision barring them from marching under the group's banner in the annual American Legion parade down Fifth Avenue. The group held a separate wreath-laying.

The American Legion barred homosexuals from taking part as an organized group in a federal court ruling upheld the ban.

The 2,000 spectators along the Manhattan parade route barely outnumbered the 1,500 marchers, disappointed parade officials said. Parades also stepped off in Boston, Columbia, S.C., Los Angeles and many other cities and towns.

There were no bands, but about 500 drummers were present. See VETERANS on Page A2

Reagan cites need for strength

By ELEANOR CLIFT
Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — President Reagan, clearly mindful of the hard bargaining he will soon face with Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev, again signaled Monday that he would not surrender the U.S. right to research his controversial "Star Wars" missile defense program.

"The surest way to keep a peace going is to stay strong," Reagan said in a Veterans-Day ceremony at Arlington National Cemetery. "Strength is a declaration that cannot be misunderstood."

Although Reagan did not specifically mention his Strategic Defense Initiative, as the "Star Wars" program is officially known, it continues to dominate pre-summit discussions and is considered by both sides to be the major obstacle to any arms agreement at Nov. 19-20 summit in Geneva.

With the prospects of any concrete results from the summit considered bleak, Reagan reminded the nation of what is at stake when the two superpowers meet next week. Those who have died in war, he said, "were victims of a peace process that failed."

The president also foreshadowed his approach to his meeting with Gorbachev, telling an audience of 6,000 under sunny skies that peace falls "when you forget to bring to the bargaining table God's first intellectual gift to man: common sense."

After placing a wreath at the Tomb of the Unknowns, Reagan said, "A week from now, when I am some thousands of miles away, believe me, the memory and the importance of this day will be in the forefront of my mind and in my heart."

Twin Falls rites proceed in spite of chill

TWIN FALLS — Despite sub-freezing temperatures and a biting wind, about 80 persons gathered at City Park Monday morning to commemorate Veterans Day.

The ceremonies at the Vietnam War memorial included veterans' organizations representing those who served in four of the nation's wars — American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Pearl Harbor Survivors Association, the Vietnam Veterans and Disabled American Veterans. State Veterans Coordinator Claire Weatherell of Mountain Home delivered the principal address, following the singing of The Star-Spangled Banner and other numbers by a choir from Robert Stuart Junior High School.

A rifle salute by a detachment from the Idaho National Guard and the sounding of Taps concluded the ceremonies.

LDS Church leadership to Benson

By PEG MCENTEE
The Associated Press

SALT LAKE CITY — Former U.S. agriculture secretary Ezra Taft Benson, expressing love for everyone of "every color, creed, and political persuasion," said Monday he had been appointed by God as the Mormon Church's 13th prophet and president.

Benson, 86, whose virulent anti-communism and ultraconservative politics made him the most controversial modern church apostle, said he planned no major changes as successor to President Spencer W. Kimball, who died last Tuesday at age 90.

"This is a day I have not anticipated," Benson said in a voice "high with emotion." "Now that the Lord has spoken, we will do our best, under his guiding direction, to move the work forward in the earth."

Benson was ordained as president Sunday afternoon during a meeting of the Council of the Twelve Apostles in the Salt Lake Temple. The announcement was not made until Monday, but it had been anticipated, because the prophetic mantle always has gone to the most senior church apostle and president of the Twelve.

At a news conference at church headquarters, Benson announced appointment of two members of the Twelve to serve as his counselors in the governing First Presidency — Gordon B. Hinckley, 75, and Thomas S. Monson, 58.

Hinckley's selection was expected because of his four years in the First Presidency under Kimball, during which he directed church affairs for the frail and ailing church leader.

Monson, a member of the church hierarchy, elevated an apostle who is fourth in seniority to Benson. Marlon G. Romney, 88, a counselor under Kimball and now apostolic heir to the presidency after Benson, will serve as president of the Twelve.

However, because Romney has been ill for years and confined to his home, Benson-appointed Howard W. Hunter, 76, next to Romney in seniority, as acting president of the Twelve.

"I love all our father's children of every creed, color and political persuasion," said Benson, who spoke from a prepared text. The new First Presidency departed without reporters being given the opportunity to ask questions.

"Some have expectedly inquired about the direction the church will take in the future," Benson said. "May we suggest that the Lord, through President Kimball, has sharply focused on the threefold mission of the church: To preach the gospel, to perfect the saints, and to redeem the dead. We shall continue every effort, to carry out this mission."

Mormons perform rituals in their temples on behalf of everyone who ever lived, believing all eventually will be given an opportunity to embrace the faith.

"We shall continue to emphasize temple work. The Lord has given us a great commission to perform vital ordinances — for the living and the dead," said Benson, who also promised renewed emphasis on missions. See BENSON on Page A2

Doctors, state differ over office expansion

By JANE ROBINSON
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The new addition to the Doctors Park office that ranked County Commissioner Judy Felton last month has the ability to become a free-standing, outpatient surgical clinic and the doctors involved in building it have not sought or received state permission to do so, says the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare.

However, one of the doctors involved said they are not required to do so, and he contended the expansion will not mean an outpatient clinic that competes with the Magic Valley Regional Medical Center.

Claude Hall, project analyst with the Idaho Department of Health and Welfare, said last week that Drs. Gregory Maxwell, Mark Grefenson and Julian Nicholson have not filed a certificate of need form, called an 1122 review, to build what the doctors originally termed as two "surgical suites" on their offices at 570 Shoup Ave. W. The three doctors — ear, nose and throat specialists — are part of a corporation of 13 doctors who own the Shoup building.

Although the state does not license ambulatory, surgical facilities, Hall said that under state law, any project costing more than $500,000 is reviewable by the state agency.

However, Hall said because they have not filed for review, they will not be able to bill Medicare and Medicaid for patient costs. Nor will the doctors be able to recoup capital costs allowed for under Medicare and Medicaid.

Building plans approved by the city Building Department in October show the 3,821-square-foot addition will cost $620,000. Part of the construction is an addition of office space.

But Maxwell said Monday that on July 4 of construction costs, or about $200,000, went for the two operating rooms. The rest of the costs were taken up in remodeling and adding office space for other doctors. See DOCTORS on Page A2

Hansen asks Montanans to join in fight

The Associated Press

MISSOULA, Mont. — Former Idaho congressman George Hansen asked residents here Monday to help finance his campaign to aid President Reagan "get the IRS off the public's back."

The White House, however, already has told Hansen, a Republican, to stop airing the controversial television commercials that the donations would support.

Hansen, who is out of prison pending an appeal of four felony convictions, has produced a series of television commercials through the Conservative Congress, an organization he founded after being defeated last year in his re-election bid.

The advertisements purportedly document a series of IRS "abuses," quote Reagan, and ask viewers to contribute $20 each to Hansen's organization.

Hansen and Paul DesFosses, a former IRS agent, were invited to Missoula by the Golden Means Society, a tax-protest group.

Robert Godwin, spokesman for the local organization, said the two planned to appear at a fundraiser Monday night to help Golden Means pay for airing the commercials in western Montana.

At an afternoon news conference, DesFosses said IRS "intimidation" is responsible for the fact that some television stations refuse to air the ads.

"They're turning it down under pressure from the IRS," he said.

DesFosses quit his job as an IRS agent in Pocatello after the office began investigating mineral rights transfers to the Mormon Church's Brigham Young University. He and Hansen both are members of the church.

Hansen said at the news conference that the commercialists are an effort to help Reagan achieve tax reform.

However, after the ads aired in some areas last month, the White House said it could do without the help.

Hansen did not mention the president's position until asked about it at the press conference.

"The lawyers who like to protect him (Reagan) said we didn't get permission," Hansen said. "We don't have to have permission. He's a public figure."

"They said we took him out of context," Hansen continued. "We said, 'How do you talk about tax reform when you don't talk about reforming the system of collecting the taxes?'"

"The series of 11 commercials, which depict gun-wielding IRS agents storming into private homes, has 'created quite a sensation,' Hansen said.

Part of the controversy has surrounded the

Wildlife policies defy natural laws, Idaho wool growers told

By BOB FREUND
Times-News writer

BURLEY — Wildlife and environmental policies which prevent sheep ranchers from protecting their herds are ignoring the laws of nature, a prominent expert on animal control programs says.

"We need a death ethic for animals," sought the change, which now is written into California law, said Monday in Burley.

Speaking to the annual convention of the Idaho Wool Growers Association, Howard supported transfer of animal damage control programs from the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, which normally acts to safeguard wildlife, to the more economically oriented U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Plagued by predators such as coyotes and grizzly bears, the sheep industry has long sought the change, which now is written into U.S. Senate legislation being considered in the U.S. Senate.

In the past 10 years, animal rights and environmental groups have succeeded in frustrating livestock protection by selling a warped view of nature through the press, Howard said.

The real situation is not peaceful coexistence among species. "It's a battlefield," he said.

Most species need high mortality rates in order to have successful populations, Howard said.

Unlimited protection of grizzly bears — a truly endangered species, Howard said there should be some geographic boundaries to the protection.

"When grizzly bears or another type of animal have a defined territory for them, fine. Protect them," he said. But "when they get out of that boundary, they can no longer be considered endangered animals."

The bears should become game animals once again, allowing sheep raisers to shoot them to protect their predators in eastern Idaho — a deadly sheep predator in eastern Idaho — is a mistake, the expert said. Although supportive of laws to protect

Left to their natural instincts, the bears and other animals "are predisposed" to populate beyond the capacity of the environment. When that happens in the wild, even like species will turn on each other to preserve the species, Howard said.

Howard also took issue with animal rights organizations that tend to give animals human qualities. "They think all the animals think and act like we do," he said.

"A chicken given food, water and protection. See SHEEP on Page A2

Suit claims fraud in Fremont County

ST. ANTHONY (AP) — Acreage in the Sawtelle Recreation area of eastern Idaho's Fremont County is the focus of a multimillion-dollar fraud and racketeering suit against a Utah man and an Illinois partnership.

The suit, filed in 7th District Court in St. Anthony, seeks over $10 million in damages from Garwood Walton of Utah and the Illinois partnership of Wolf Ltd., owners of 97 percent of Wasatch Options Associates.

The suit, filed for five investors, contended that between mid-1982 and late 1983 Walton solicited more than $2 million in negotiable securities from the plaintiffs for profit-sharing investments in Wasatch Options with the money to be returned to the investors after a year.

In exchange, the suit claimed, Walton agreed to put up his interest in the Fremont County property.

The investors alleged that Walton proceeded to transfer ownership of their securities to Wasatch as collateral for margin accounts in which Wasatch engaged in highly speculative trading. The suit said Walton then liquidated a portion of the investors' securities and used the cash for real estate and other unrelated and undisclosed ventures, permitting their securities to become so encumbered they had to ultimately be liquidated.

Utah, Veda S. Anderson of Michigan, Deon W. Wilfert of Hawaii and Janet Larrabee of California.

They were seeking $3.5 million plus interest on the securities fraud charge and triple that amount for violations of the Racketeering-Influenced Corrupt Organizations Act. The investors also asked the court for title to the Sawtelle property.

Walton could not be reached for comment.

The suit was filed on behalf of Opal P. Satterfield and Ray L. Ellison of

Tate trial proceeds

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — State prosecutors will not have to prove that reputed neo-Nazi David Tate fired the shots that killed a state trooper last spring, only that he knew what he was doing and that it was wrong, defense lawyers said Monday as attorneys tried to select a jury.

"In this case there will be no question that David Tate fired the shot that killed Jim Linegar," said Public Defender Patrick Dutton as he questioned 82 prospective jurors about their religious beliefs and their opinion of the death penalty.

Jury selection in Boone County Circuit Court began early Monday and continued through the early evening.

Tate, 23, of Athol, Idaho, was a member of a white supremacist organization known as The Order, a breakaway group from the Church of Jesus Christ Christian (Aryan Nations).

Storm dumps foot of snow in some Utah spots

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A winter storm warning was in effect late Tuesday for northwestern Utah in the wake of a cold front that dumped more than a foot of snow in some mountain locations.

The National Weather Service also issued a storm warning for the southwestern part of the state, and a winter storm watch for eastern Utah.

More than 14 inches of snow was measured Monday afternoon at the Tiger construction site, located 8,000 above sea level in the Uinta Mountains north of Duchesne in eastern Utah.

"I think it's a pretty big storm," said William Alder, meteorologist in charge of the Salt Lake weather bureau. "Maybe not a doozy, but a pretty massive storm."

Near the Nevada border, at Ibapah, 11 inches of snow was reported, while a foot fell at Park City, a ski resort community 45 miles east of Salt Lake City. Seven inches was measured at Alta Ski Resort.

However, temperatures statewide remained above freezing during the day, melting much of the snowfall, said David Carpenter.

The Utah Highway Patrol said no roads were closed and there had been no serious snow-related accidents. However, chains were required on roads between Wells, Nev., and Wendover on the Nevada-Utah border.

Carpenter said snowfall, which continued throughout the day in the Salt Lake Valley, would likely turn to rain overnight. Snow was expected to decrease Tuesday, with daytime temperatures in the 35 to 45 degree range and overnight lows in the 20s through Wednesday.

Woman dies in truck wreck

REXBURG (AP) — A Sugar City woman died and four other people were hospitalized as a result of a collision of two pickup trucks on a county road southwest of Rexburg, Madison County officials said.

A helicopter was called in to airlift her to a Pocatello hospital, but Sheriff Lionel Koon said it was grounded by bad weather.

A passenger in Miss Jackman's vehicle, Eric Lynn Covington, 17, of Rexburg, suffered a broken nose and other minor injuries.

The driver of the other pickup, George Johnson, 51, of Burton, and his son, Marshall Burton, 15, also received minor injuries. Johnson's wife, Darja, 48, suffered a fractured pelvis and ribs, Garner said.

Jennifer Jackman, 20, died of broken neck and internal injuries Saturday night at a Rexburg hospital from injuries she received in the accident, Madison County Sheriff's Deputy Brent Garner said.

The accident occurred several hours earlier when Miss Jackman ran a stop sign at a rural intersection and hit another pickup, Garner said.

Simplot's 'Butch' Otter says he'll run for lieutenant gov.

BOISE (AP) — Cl. "Butch" Otter, leaning on his experience as a corporate executive and philosophy of free-market economics, on Monday became the second Republican to announce his candidacy for lieutenant governor.

Taking his cue from a recent speech in which Lt. Gov. David Leroy, the GOP's only announced candidate for governor, said the key issues facing Idaho were "Jobs, Jobs and Jobs," Otter said at a Boise news conference that next year's election will focus on "the economy, the economy and the economy."

The son-in-law of industrialist J.R. Simplot and president of Simplot International said "the basic economy of the state is in serious trouble," and recited off a litany of gloomy facts and figures to support his argument.

In a prepared statement, Otter said issues such as education funding, social services, transportation and the state's transportation system all depend on the condition of the economy.

He proposed an expanded role for the office of lieutenant governor, spearheading a drive to build on Idaho's economic strengths, bring in new industry and expand trade relations.

"All economies, based on resources such as ours, have several things in common," Otter said. "They need markets, they need innovation, they need freedom, and they need leadership."

He said he could provide the innovation and leadership, and as lieutenant governor would make securing the other two ingredients his top priority.

Indiana Lt. Gov. John Mutz heads a program aimed at building that state's economy, and Otter said he plans to meet with him on Nov. 18 in Indianapolis to find out how it works. He said he also plans within six weeks to announce creation of an "economic action committee to advise me in their areas of expertise."

The candidate said he will begin a week-long trip around the state on Tuesday, beginning in Idaho Falls, to meet with local economic-development committees and business leaders.

The trip will be a "non-political fact-finding tour," Otter said, but added that did not rule out active campaigning along the way.

"I want to stay away from traditional political circles," he said. "I don't think the economic problems of the state follow any particular political lines."

More important for Otter than his competition for lieutenant governor, however, may be who wins the 1986 governor's race.

BOISE (AP) — Wendy Wilson, executive director of the Idaho Conservation League for the past 1 1/2 years, has resigned.

She will be replaced by Mary Kelly, who has worked at the environmental group's state headquarters in Boise for the past six years. Ms. Kelly was named assistant executive director three years ago and was runner-up for the job when Ms. Wilson was selected in May 1984.

Ms. Wilson resigned Oct. 30 effective at the end of November. Her resignation was accepted by the organization's board of directors over the weekend.

"It was a matter of me deciding that I want to do other things," Ms. Wilson said. "It's a demanding job and I don't have the energy for it right now."

Boise hunter found, treated for frostbite

IDAHO-CITY (AP) — A Boise hunter, lost for two days in freezing, snowy conditions, was rescued early Monday from the rugged backcountry east of Idaho City, according to the Boise County Sheriff's Department.

Charles Hecklesmiller, 50, was found by a Mountain Search and Rescue team and immediately taken to St. Luke's Hospital in Boise for treatment of frostbite and hypothermia, Sheriff's Sgt. Dan Herry said.

Herry said Hecklesmiller was ill-prepared for the near-zero temperatures and a half foot of snow in the area and had no food or matches.

Hecklesmiller and his son John became lost Saturday during a hunting trip and spent the night in the Bear River and Steamboat Creek area of Boise County. They tried to reach help Sunday, but Hecklesmiller injured his leg and could not walk, Herry said.

His son then left Hecklesmiller to seek help and wandered into the Boise County Sheriff's Office Sunday afternoon.

The pair already had been reported missing when they failed to return to Boise Saturday night, Herry said. But they were believed to be in the Swan Home Peak area of the Elmore County, where Mountain Search and Rescue teams unsuccessfully focused their efforts much of Sunday. The search was finally shifted to the area east of Idaho City late Sunday night as the younger Hecklesmiller tried to retrace his steps to where he left his father, Herry said.

Engineer: collider belongs to region

IDAHO-FALLS (AP) — Idaho is among six states with a good chance of landing the Department of Energy's multibillion-dollar Superconducting Super Collider project, but it should consider sharing the wealth with other states in the region, a contract engineer at the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory said.

"In a sense, this is too big for Idaho alone to handle," said Eric Ottewill, an engineering specialist for EG&G Idaho Inc. "There's plenty of pie to divvy up with our neighbors."

There are 25 states in the running for the $1 billion to $7 billion research project to develop the world's largest atom smasher.

Congressional authorization and funding could be years away if it comes at all. But Ottewill said existing technology at the INEL should ensure it a place among a half dozen finalists as DOE pares down the field.

"If you didn't have the INEL, you wouldn't have a chance," he said. "We have a tremendous technological base."

Q Why in the world were the San Diego pro football players called "the Chargers"?

A That's not "charge" as in Fight Brigade, but charge as in Fly-Now-Pay-Later. Their owner, Warren Hilton, owned Carle Blanche charge cards.

Q Didn't Joe Louis originally fight under the name of Kid Blackie?

A No-but Jack Dempsey did. Only a white fighter would've used a name like that in those days.

Schroeder suffers 3rd stroke

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — William Schroeder, the world's longest-living recipient of a permanent artificial heart, has suffered a third stroke and was readmitted to the hospital Monday, a spokeswoman said.

A pair of CAT scans, or computer enhanced X-rays, indicated a brain hemorrhagic stroke on the right side of Schroeder's brain in an area unaffected by previous strokes, said Donna Hazle, director of public relations at Humana Hospital Audubon.

Schroeder was admitted about 4 p.m. and was listed in serious condition, she said.

Schroeder's doctors, including neurologist Gary Fox, had not determined the cause of the stroke, nor had they been able to pinpoint when it occurred, she said.

Challenger motor doubted

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A section of a rocket motor intended to boost a teacher and six others into orbit about the space shuttle Challenger in January may have been damaged in an industrial accident, NASA said Monday.

Workers at Cape Canaveral heard a "sharp, cracking sound" when an overhead crane was being used to lift a handling ring attached to the rocket section, said NASA spokesman Dick Young.

"The operation was stopped immediately," Young said, adding that engineers did not know what caused the sound or whether there was any damage.

A board will investigate what happened and determine if any damage resulted. It was not known whether the accident will delay the flight, scheduled for Jan. 22, he said.

Kids rarely lie about abuse

CHICAGO (AP) — Children rarely make false allegations of being sexually abused even though the public generally will believe the adult being accused instead of the youngster, according to a study released Monday.

Children who made such allegations were lying or incorrect less than 2 percent of the time and made fewer false complaints about sexual abuse than adults, said Dr. David Young, clinical director of the Kempe National Center for the Prevention and Treatment of Child Abuse and Neglect in Denver.

"I found that children make false or fictitious accounts very rarely," said Young.

"Do they ever get it wrong? Yes, sometimes they do, but mostly they don't," said Young, who is to present his findings Tuesday at the Seventh National Conference on Child Abuse and Neglect.

Wind prevents balloon flight

RAPID CITY, S.D. (AP) — Balloon races planned to commemorate the Nov. 11, 1935, launch of Explorer II, the first manned balloon flight to reach the stratosphere, had to be canceled Monday because of 25 mph wind.

Explorer II reached an altitude of 13.7 miles in its eight-hour, 13-minute flight, setting a manned altitude record that stood for 21 years.

Crews from around the country had brought 10 helium and nine hot air balloons to the Stratobowl, a protective natural depression near Rapid City that was the launching site for Explorer II, a towering helium balloon.

U.S. mineral stockpile could last 14 months during cutoff

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has stockpiled enough of metal sources so it can reduce the four most strategic minerals to level of spending on military forces weather a 14-month cutoff in imports, a group of private-defense analysts said Monday in a report designed to minimize fears of future foreign embargoes.

The report also said the Reagan administration should increase the level of spending on military forces weather a 14-month cutoff in imports, a group of private-defense analysts said Monday in a report designed to minimize fears of future foreign embargoes.

The center is a liberal-oriented research group directed by several retired military officers and is frequently critical of administration defense policies. Interest in strategic minerals policy has been heightened in recent months by warnings from leaders in South Africa — whose relations with the United States have worsened — that a cutoff in sales of key strategic minerals would hurt that country.

Bodies recovered after crash

CLIFFSIDE PARK, N.J. (AP) — Two more bodies were recovered Monday as investigators inventoried wreckage strewn over 20 blocks and impounded air traffic control recordings to determine why two planes collided and crashed, killing at least five people.

A sixth person was missing and believed to have been in his apartment when a burning corporate jet slammed into two buildings here Sunday evening, igniting a fire that also engulfed three other buildings.

Fourteen people were in the two buildings and "13 had time to escape," said state police Capt. Joseph Craparruta.

"I was listening to the stereo and the next thing I knew my windows blew in. In three seconds, I was out the door," said Joseph Gramuglia, 29, whose apartment was gutted.

"Red flames... all red flames. There were people all over the place."

The two bodies recovered Monday afternoon were found in rubble and were believed to be those of the pilot and copilot of the jet, which was owned by Nabisco Brands Inc., said police Sgt. Eugene Handschin.

He said positive identification had not been made on the bodies, one of which was mangled severely, but "We think it's got to be the pilots."

"Three bodies were found Sunday in the debris of a light propeller plane, which struck the front porch of a two-story apartment building about five blocks away in Fairview."

INS conducts internal probe in sailor case

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Immigration and Naturalization Service has completed an internal probe into its handling of the Soviet defector Miroslav Medvid, and that report is being reviewed by the Justice Department, an administration official said Monday.

The official, declining to be identified publicly, said the INS report was being studied by high-ranking officials at the department, including aides to Attorney General Edwin Meese and Deputy Attorney General D. Lowell Jensen.

"Meese will likely review the report before any final action is taken, the official said.

Vice President George Bush, in New Orleans on Monday to speak to the National Association of Governors, said he was concerned about an appearance that the Reagan administration had changed its position on the Medvid issue.

"It doesn't look good. My heart is troubled by it," he said. But Bush said American authorities did all they could to find out whether Medvid wanted to defect.

Meanwhile, Peter Roussel, a White House spokesman, declined comment on a published report that the White House favors punishment for officials found responsible for prematurely returning Medvid to his ship.

Roussel, noting that the grain freighter Marschan, Knevel left to cover the weekend with the 22-year-old sailor aboard, said only, "The executive branch has carried out its responsibilities in this matter."

Police thwart plot

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Security police thwarted the assassination of an opponent of Libyan leader Muammar Khadaffi living in Egypt after tracking a Libyan hit team as it planned the killing, the government said Monday.

Interior Minister Ahmed Rushdy said former Libyan Prime Minister Abdel-Hamid Bakoush had been the target of another foiled plot a year ago.

Rushdy said the would-be assassins planned to kill both Bakoush and Mohammed el-Mokaryef, once a Cabinet-level official under Khadaffi, last Wednesday. However, el-Mokaryef was out of the country last week, Rushdy said.

Rushdy said four Libyans were arrested after police crashed an am-balance into a car speeding to a farmhouse where Bakoush was to have been assassinated. Rushdy said the group was one of seven four-man teams trained by the government to assassinate exiled opponents.

He said the Khadaffi regime had promised to divide the equivalent of $2.5 million equally among them and a fifth man for killing Bakoush and el-Mokaryef. Rushdy said the fifth man was an informant whose information led to the arrests.

Rushdy said el-Mokaryef and Bakoush were to have been assassinated at a luncheon for 50 Libyan exiles on a farm near the Mediterranean port city of Alexandria. But Bakoush said only 10 exiles attended the luncheon and el-Mokaryef was not among them.

Arafat meets with PLO, Iraqi leaders

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Yasser Arafat intends to ask the Palestine Liberation Organization's executive council to approve his Cairo Declaration, in which he denounced terror outside "occupied land," a PLO official said Monday.

The PLO chairman arrived Monday for several days of meetings with Iraqi officials, the commanders of his Fatah faction, the largest PLO group, as well as the executive council meeting, the official said.

Arafat flew in from Cairo where he had made his anti-terror pledge, and will ask the Palestinian command to vote on the Cairo Declaration. The official said. He did not elaborate.

French AIDS patient dies

PARIS (AP) — A French doctor who helped develop a new treatment for AIDS announced Monday that one of his patients had died, but he said the experimental program has shown great promise and is being expanded.

Dr. Philippe Fenwick of the Laennec Hospital in Paris said the patient, a 38-year-old French male homosexual, died Saturday. The man had "had suffered from full blown AIDS for at least a year," he said in a telephone interview, and first underwent experimental treatment with the drug zalcitabine three weeks ago.

He described the man as "a desperate case" and said his death had not been unexpected given the advanced stage of the case and the patient's multiple infections.

Workers may be sent home

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — The government, declaring that "charity begins at home," said Monday it may have to send home thousands of foreign black workers if sanctions force more South Africans out of work.

Soviet attorneys score CIA

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet attorneys said Monday the CIA violated human rights and international law in the case of Soviet agent Vitaly Yurchenko.

The statement by the Association of Soviet Lawyers, carried by the official news agency Tass, did not say whether Yurchenko had returned from Washington, which he left last Wednesday aboard a special Soviet airliner. Yurchenko's defection to the West was reported several months ago, but he said last week he was drugged and held captive by U.S. intelligence officials.

"American secret services' abduction of Vitaly Yurchenko, his forcible detention by American authorities... and attempts to persuade him to betray his homeland have been a glaring breach of the basic norms of humanity and main human rights and liberties," the lawyers' statement said.

CSI funds limited

Report shows three counties provide cash

By JANE ROBINSON
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The College of Southern Idaho and North Idaho College in Coeur d'Alene together serve 22 percent of the state's freshman and sophomore students, yet only three of the 44 counties in the state support the schools financially, says a draft report by the Legislative Budget Office.

Because the state's two community colleges are growing steadily, the budget office report, released last week, urges the Legislature to conduct a thorough review of its current policies toward junior college funding and governance in Idaho.

State Sen. Laird Noh, R-Kimberly, said Monday he was surprised both at the large percentage of freshman and sophomore students attending CSI and NIC and that the burden of funding rested with just three counties — Twin Falls, Jerome and Kootenai.

"The numbers that really jumped out were that three counties in the state pay 32 percent in local property taxes to support 22 percent of the students," he said.

"If we have an efficient, economic system, we should have every county supporting the college in the area, and in the long run, I think that's what's going to evolve," Noh said.

In 1982, the Legislature allowed the creation of locally-governed junior college districts within six geographic boundaries. Individual colleges had the option of voting yes or no to put local property tax money into a junior college.

Of the six junior college areas, only two have junior colleges, and only the three counties have voted to support them.

The two junior colleges also rely on state and federal money and tuition. But since the passage of Idaho's 1 percent property tax initiative in 1978, the proportion of state support has declined and the greater burden has shifted to local property tax and student tuition, the report said.

In 1978, CSI received nearly 60 percent of its money from the state. Now, the state appropriation is 39 percent.

While state money has declined, student tuition jumped dramatically between 1977 and 1985. Semester fees for in-district students have shot up 123 percent, from $176 in 1977 to $392 in 1985. Out-of-district and out-of-state fees have increased 126 percent, from $340 each in 1977 to $707 each in 1985.

The report also noted that the state's funding formula, which divides 75 percent of the funds equally between the two colleges, makes no allowance for "any factors which impact the operational costs of a junior college," such as local levying capacity, the size and age of the campus, the type and cost of the academic program or the longevity of the faculty and staff.

The report, written by Mark Falconer of the state budget office, suggested four options for refunding the junior colleges, including approving a statewide property tax for junior colleges or establishing a totally state-funded system for the two.

Another option would be for junior college districts to expand and include surrounding counties. But that proposal would have to be approved by a majority vote of the people. Another alternative is for the two junior college districts to increase property taxes.

Currently, CSI levies a property tax. See FUNDS on Page B2

Bobette Chapman, right, discusses her plans for running for state treasurer with Republican backers on Monday

'Bobbie' considers bid Chapman eyes a possible Lt. Gov. campaign

By DEAN S. MILLER
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — With 20 years experience in banking and two years as a Deputy Treasurer for Idaho, Bobette ("Bobbie") Chapman says she will make a strong candidate for state treasurer if she decides to run.

Chapman, a 49-year-old Republican from Boise, was in Twin Falls Monday to see if Republicans here will support her. She will run if she feels she can get the support of Republican voters, she says.

Democrat Shawn de Loyola of Boise, who is also deputy treasurer, announced last month that he will run.

Current State Treasurer Marjorie Ruth Moon, a Democrat, has held the job since 1982. She is giving up her job to run for lieutenant governor in 1986.

As a deputy treasurer, Chapman says she is responsible for grooming $200 million worth of state investments. The state treasurer's office is responsible for holding state funds and paying them out and for investing funds not in use. "It is the state of Idaho's bank. You have to know investments and operations," she says.

If she decides to run and is elected, Chapman says there is little she would change in the office. "The investment strategy right now is pretty good... it has not lost the state any money."

Solid investment policies are important for the state's sake and the Treasurer's, she says. "A treasurer has to be able to sleep at night and the people of Idaho have to be able to sleep at night."

And while she says she would not make any drastic personnel changes in the treasurer's office, she says there is room for change in the staff. People who might leave when Moon leaves could be replaced by people with less experience and lower salary requirements.

Chapman said she would like to see greater communication between the treasurer's office and the other financial offices in Boise such as the Legislative Budget Office, the Finance Department, the Governor's Office of Budget and Policy Analysis, the State Auditors office, and the Joint Finance Appropriations Committees of the House and Senate.

As a Republican, she says she could encourage the offices to cooperate more and stop usurping each other's duties.

Chapman says she originally moved from private banking to the treasurer's office two years ago. "I had been with ABC (the American Bank of Commerce in Boise) for seven years and my health started to give out a little." As vice president and controller and operations officer at the bank, ill health did not permit her to put in the time required in a private bank, she says.

Since then, she has had an operation and her health has improved enough to allow her to take on the rigors of a state-wide campaign. She says she is interested in the race because it is a challenge and because she feels she owes the state something. "I'm a native of this state, the people of Idaho deserve the best."

Snow should taper

Forecasts call for a slightly warmer front

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — After two nights of record or near-record low temperatures, the weatherman has some good news for southern Idaho residents: temperatures will soon begin to moderate.

The U.S. Weather Service in Boise said temperatures should begin to warm up 5- or 6 degrees tonight. Even so, they will remain on the cold side for several days.

Low temperatures for this morning were forecast in the single-digit range, with Boise expecting about 7 degrees. Tonight's low is expected to be 12 or 13 degrees.

The coldest reading reported in the state on Monday morning was 9 degrees at Port Hill in northern Idaho, while Stanley was not far behind with a reading of 10 degrees.

Sun Valley reported temperatures in the teens Sunday night and early Monday morning — ideal conditions for snow making, which resumed with the return of colder weather during the weekend.

Resort officials say conditions look unusually good for the scheduled Thanksgiving opening of ski facilities. Snow making equipment is building up a good base on the north face of Warm Springs runs and natural snow on the upper part of Baldy Mountain ranges from 8 to 12 inches. A depth of three inches was reported on the valley floor Monday afternoon.

Soldier Mountain, near Fairfield, reported 5 inches of snow in the past two days and announced plans to begin making snow on major-use runs on Monday night.

Like other resorts, Soldier Mountain plans a Thanksgiving opening. Magic Mountain, south of Hansen, is also looking for an opening during Thanksgiving weekend, with about 12 inches of snow. Pomerelle, near Albion, has 10 to 12 inches of packed base and hopes to launch its ski season before Thanksgiving.

The bulk of the current snowstorm is moving out of Southern Idaho, according to a weather service office in Boise. However, the snow showers should linger over the mountains today and in several parts of Eastern Idaho through tonight.

Some partial clearing is forecast for today in Magic Valley and the Boise Valley regions, but the weather service says patches of dense fog will be covering valley areas through the early part of today.

High temperatures on Monday afternoon were mostly in the 20s, with a 23 recorded at 3 p.m. in Twin Falls and a 29 in Boise. Sun Valley reported 28 degrees at the same time, at the valley elevation.

During the past 24 hours, the weather service reports snowfall averaged from one to three inches throughout the southern part of the state, except for higher elevations, where as much as a foot of snow fell. County and state law enforcement officers reported most roads were clearing off during warmer afternoon temperatures Monday. Some hazardous conditions existed on Sunday night, U. S. 93 from just south of Twin Falls to the Nevada State line was extremely slick, contributing to one serious accident and numerous sliding accidents.

Minidoka County officers were responding to sliding accidents as icy conditions continued through Monday in the Rupert and Burley areas and south to the Utah state line.

Insurance woes

Counties association counts down to self-insurance program

By PAT MARCANTONIO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Idaho Association of Counties is counting down on its plan to launch an independent self-insurance program for counties facing canceled policies and high premiums from private companies. Several counties will be out of insurance Nov. 29.

Twin Falls County Clerk Dick

Pence, who chaired the association's insurance committee, reported that counties should begin signing up this week to join the Idaho Counties Risk Management Program.

"There isn't any matter of not doing it," Pence said. "We've got it going. It's just a matter of getting counties signed up and started. I think you're going to find, in not a very long time, that all counties in the state will join."

A copy of a joint powers agreement, which enables the counties by law to establish the voluntary self-insurance program, was mailed last week to the state's 44 counties. At least 25 counties must sign the agreement, Pence said.

Along with the joint powers agreement, counties will receive a copy of a separate agreement to participate in the program.

Participating counties each will pay a premium which goes into what is called a loss pool from which the insurance claims are paid. There is a $2,500 deductible for each county and a $50,000 limit on how much will be paid per claim from the pool.

Pence said 26 counties already have agreed verbally to join the program. A pool of about $700,000 is needed to kick the program into gear, added Twin Falls Commissioner POOL on Page B2

Twin Falls County will lose law enforcement insurance Jan. 6

By PAT MARCANTONIO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls County will lose its law enforcement insurance coverage on Jan. 6, partly because of a lawsuit filed by two jail inmates seeking to close the 70-year-old jail, according to County Clerk Dick Pence.

Commissioner Judy Felton said she isn't particularly worried about the loss because the county probably will pick up coverage from a self-insurance program now being formed by the Idaho Association of Counties.

"It's no news that counties are losing insurance and some are without insurance. Although we have some overlapping coverage, it looks like there's not much overlap, there (with law enforcement)," she said.

The commissioners had contracted for law enforcement coverage until March, but were informed Friday by the Markel National Casualty insurance companies of Arizona that the policy would be canceled Jan. 6, said Pence and county insurance broker Dan Obenchain.

The policy covers claims alleging false arrest, for example, against county law enforcement officers, Obenchain said.

Officials of the National Casualty Co. couldn't be reached for comment.

A letter from Markel stated the company couldn't underwrite or get other companies to help it cover — claims against the county, Pence said. See INSURANCE on Page B2

Cactus Pete's president Neilsen critically hurt in accident

CRAIG NEILSEN Breaks neck in accident

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Craig Neilsen, 44, of Twin Falls, president of Cactus Pete's Inc., was in serious condition in a Salt Lake City hospital on Monday night after suffering neck injuries in a traffic accident on U.S. Highway 93 north of Jackpot late on Sunday.

Neilsen was injured at about 11:15 p.m. when his 1976 sports car skidded on the ice-covered roadway and was struck from the rear by another vehicle. The accident occurred about five miles north of Jackpot as Neilsen was returning to Twin Falls.

The gambling resort executive was treated at Magic Valley Regional Medical Center and then taken by ambulance to St. Alphonsus Medical Center in Boise, where he was checked in the emergency room.

Late Monday afternoon, he was taken to the University of Utah Hospital in Salt Lake City. He was listed in serious condition at the time he left St. Alphonsus. Monday night he was in the Cerebral Vascular Unit of the University of Utah Hospital where nurses said they could not update his condition at press time, pending review of X-rays by his attending physicians. Idaho State Police Cpl. Gene Bolton said Neilsen was traveling north when his car met a south-bound truck and trailer. As the two passed, the sports car went into a spin and skidded into the south-bound lane, then began sliding backwards.

A 1973 Oldsmobile which was following the truck and was driven by Dale Reiman, 25, a Cactus Pete's employee, crashed into the back of the Neilsen vehicle.

Bolton said the impact knocked Neilsen's car 90 feet to the south and broke the seat on which he was sitting in half. He was alone in his vehicle.

Reiman told officers he was traveling at about 40 miles per hour when the accident occurred. He was driving a car owned by Janice Nelson, Espy, 51, also an employee and resident of Jackpot. She was a passenger in the car and was treated at Magic Valley Regional Medical Center. A third Jackpot resident, Elaine Kevier, 25, was riding in the center of the front seat with Reiman and was not injured.

Carl Marr of the Jackpot Ambulance Service arrived at the scene before officers. He said no one was thrown from either vehicle. The three persons in the south-bound vehicle were returning from Twin Falls, he said.

Bolton said at the time of the accident investigation that the highway south into Nevada was so icy it was almost impossible to stand up on it. He said three vehicles slid into the borrowpit in the vicinity while officers were at the accident scene. Both the Neilsen and Espy vehicles were demolished. No charges had been filed Monday.

Carl Hayden, publicist for Jackpot, said he had been told Neilsen suffered a crushed or broken neck vertebra, but that he had returned to the arms and chest area.

The Twin Falls man is a principal partner in the "Lynwood Shopping Center and head of Neilsen & Co.

Proposal to sell MVRMC falls flat

TWIN FALLS — A proposal to consider selling the Magic Valley Regional Medical Center died for lack of interest Monday as the MVRMC hospital board voted to send it to the long-range planning committee, but not as a priority item.

All board members except for one, James LaGrone, sat silent as Board Chairman Robert Valentine opened the proposal for discussion.

County Commissioner Judy Felton raised the possibility of selling the hospital in October after learning that two doctors on the hospital board were building two surgical centers, she said, could compete with the hospital.

Dr. Larry Maxwell, one of the doctors involved with the Doctors Park expansion and a member of MVRMC's marketing committee, said Monday night he has resigned his post to avoid a conflict of interest.

Felton earlier had said in view of changing competition in the health care field, the county hospital could no longer compete with private doctors, and the county should consider selling it before losing its investment.

But if any of the 12 commissioner-appointed hospital board members agreed, they were keeping their opinions to themselves Monday.

Only LaGrone ventured his thoughts into the public. "It's my feeling that this is not a burning issue," he said. "I think there are other issues facing the hospital we should be concerned with."

LaGrone moved the proposal be sent to the long-range planning committee for study, but "not as the No. 1 item" for discussion. The board approved.

Vandals had busy weekend, scratching up car paint jobs

TWIN FALLS — Vandals damaged paint on two vehicles in Twin Falls during the weekend, caused damage to one building and burglarized another vehicle.

Jeff Johnson, of Twin Falls, told police his car, with a week-old paint job, was parked at Sound Co., 1246 Blue Lakes Blvd. N., on Friday night. He said someone took a sharp object and scratched the sides. He said the pearl type finish cannot be matched and repairs would require the entire car to be sanded and repainted. Johnson estimated damage at $3,000. "Tires on the car were also flat," he said, but apparently the air had been let out as no tire damage was evident.

At the same location was a vehicle owned by Ron Victor, of Sound Co., which suffered paint scratches. A television set, a cash register and a stereo were taken from the vehicle. At the same time, when two sections of grill covering were pulled away. Kristi Harvey, of Greentree Broadcasting, told officers a car, owned by her company and parked at her home at 170 Marsland Ave., was damaged last week when someone scratched the paint. She estimated repairs would cost $300.

Insurance

 sioner Judy Felton, who represents the Magic Valley counties on an interim board of trustees of the insurance program.

Pence added that there is no time to lose because several counties will be losing insurance coverage at the end of the November.

The association's dealings with large companies, such as Lloyd's of London, to provide coverage over and above the amount in the pool, will fall apart if the program isn't running soon, said Pence, who was an insurance broker and agent for 12 years.

During the first year, the new program may not cost the counties less than what they are now paying through private insurance companies, Pence said. But the rates should go down the following years as the pool builds and money is invested.

The amount of money the counties will pay depends on operating expenditures, among other things.

 Counties will have control of the program, which probably will be administered through a private insurance brokerage company.

Felton said the new endeavor looks promising. "We feel it will be a real positive thing for counties."

The formation of the self-insurance pool, which may be completed to starting up an entire business, proceeded rapidly not only because of the crisis facing counties, but because Idaho counties already had experience working together on a similar program on indigent medical bills, Pence said.

The catastrophic indigent claim program helps counties cover large medical bills from the treatment of indigents and operates similar to the self-insurance plan.

Young poodle-groomer's odd joke insulting to older friend

DEAR ABBY: For several years a young woman (she's now 29) has been coming to my home to trim my three poodles. She would drive to our place in the country after work, so I paid her very well, adding a generous tip. I always had a lovely dinner for her and she enjoyed being with my husband and me. I'm 68, but the age difference didn't matter — we became good friends.

Abigail VanBuren
Dear Abby

I was invited to her bridal shower. At first I hesitated, knowing all her friends were younger women, but I finally accepted, took an expensive gift and had a wonderful time. Then came her wedding invitation. Written across the top — in her own hand — was: "Fifty dollars minimum for the gift, please." Abby, I nearly had a stroke! I could not believe it. I studied it for a week, then wrote her a note saying that her suggestion of a $50 minimum for a gift was the maximum in poor taste, and I would not be attending her wedding.

When she received my note, she called crying. "It was supposed to be a joke. I thought you had a better sense of humor!" Then she hung up on me. A few days later she returned my shower gift by U.P.S., so I phoned her and told her I had given her that gift in good faith and was sending it back to her. I also said I had discussed her invitation with several friends who all agreed it was in terrible taste. Again she said she thought I had a better sense of humor, and perhaps because I was in a different age group I took it wrong.

Abby, am I old-fashioned, behind the times and lacking in a sense of humor? Or have good taste and manners gone out of style?

DEAR LOVER: Good manners and good taste have not gone out of style. You cannot be faulted for reacting as you did. The poodle groomer's so-called "joke" was tasteless and devoid of humor for any age group.

DEAR ABBY: The principal of our school is going to remove the doors from the girls' rest room compartments because he says some girls smoke in them. We understand that this is a problem, but can't something else be done without depriving us girls of our privacy?

The principal has already removed the doors from the boys' rest room compartments.

Please help us, ELK RIVER, MINN.
DEAR UPSET: State your objections in the form of a petition and have it signed by as many people as possible (including your parents), then present it to the principal. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: When I call a person on the telephone and hear, "Hello, I can't come to the phone right now, but if you will leave your name and message, blah, blah, blah — and don't start talking until you hear the beep." I get so rattled that when I hear the beep, I forget my own name and telephone number, so I hang up. I am just not prepared to make a recording.

Am I some kind of weirdo? Or are there other people like me?

— HATES MACHINES
DEAR HATES: You are not alone. Trust me. Since you know you have this hang-up (no pun intended), write your name and phone number on a piece of paper and tape it to your telephone.

Mini-Cassia parents host regional meeting

BURLEY — The Mini-Cassia Chapter No. 736 of Parents Without Partners will host the Fall Regional Conference Nov. 16 at the Burley Elks Lodge.

Registration will begin at 10 a.m. and sessions will run until 4 p.m. with a break for lunch at noon.

Guest speakers and workshop leaders will include Janice Hanson of Spokane, Wash., and Roger Compton of Idaho Falls. The election of regional officers will also be held.

A no-host cocktail hour will precede the banquet which will be held at 7 p.m. The banquet speaker will be Tom Payne, who is associated with Interfaith Family Counseling Services, Inc. as a psychotherapist.

A dance will follow the banquet and will be open to the public. Admission is $3 per person; music will be provided by the Tradesmen of Twin Falls.

The conference will wind up with a continental breakfast on Sunday from 9:30 to 10 a.m. at the home of Sup. Keel, 341 Wauna Vista Drive in Burley.

Holiday overeaters will pay price later

Americans who overindulge in holiday foods and try to atone with post-binge diets will find the odds against them, according to a Better Homes and Gardens survey.

Based on past practice the majority, 62 percent, will attempt at least two diets in the next year, but good intentions won't be lasting. Each effort will likely fade in 30 days or less, scarcely enough time to drop — and keep off — the 16 pounds most consumer panelists say they need to lose.

Despite the inconsistent efforts, respondents place little stock in anything other than individual attempts to lose weight. More than 75 percent say it is somewhat or very important that dieting be done alone. Only 24 percent say group support is somewhat or very important, and respondents also shun advice from experienced dieters. At less than 1 percent, diets of famous people hold virtually no importance.

PIE & ICE CREAM

Swensen's are always amazed that people keep on buying stuff like, bran flakes, saurkraut, spinach, turnips & prune juice to name just a few, when you consider that pie and ice cream is so much more fun to eat. Swensen's even recommend that you eat pie and ice cream first before the meat and potatoes — if you've always wanted to — or just stuff yourself into ecstatic dessert filled oblivion and forget the potatoes, turnips, collards and bean soup all together. Live it up this week on Swensen's pie and ice cream and save.

round of the NCAA title chase. But, Georgia Tech, Duke and North Carolina return most of the players that led them to their respective regional finals and headed to those teams are blue-chip recruiting which made the ACC's freshman year one of the nation's most successful.

Georgia Tech has been ranked as the No. 1 team in preseason by several national publications, but Coach Bobby Cremins isn't buying the hype.

"I know this sounds like a typical coach, but I've kept away from it," Cremins said. "I really can't get wrapped up in it because I know a lot of it is unrealistic."

The talent makes it hard to dispute the predictions, however. Guard Mark Price and forward John Salley led the band of experienced players returning — Cremins, Seven-footer Antoine Ford, a backup last year, replaces Yvon Joseph in the pivot and guard forward Craig Neal is back after a wrist injury. But Cremins says Georgia Tech's success could hinge on the progress of prep All-American Tom Hammonds, a 6-foot-8 Florida transfer sought by more than 100 schools.

"Things are good," Cremins said. "For us to be a great team, which everybody says we are, Hammonds has got to help us. He's very, very valuable."

"The main strength we have is a lot of players coming back from a

Coach Don Monson has only one senior — forward Jerry Adams — on his roster, so the Ducks, 8-10 in conference and 15-16 overall, don't figure to be in the title race.

Stanford, in the Pac-10 basement in 1984-85 and 11-17 overall, have a lot of holes to fill over forward Earl Oberlein.

The Pacific Coast Athletic Association, as it has the past three years, should be ruled by the University of Nevada-Las Vegas' Run-team who won 27 games," Cremins said. "This should be the most talented team we've ever had."

There are four seniors on Duke's starting five and sixth man David Henderson also is a senior. But the big catch for Coach Mike Krzyzewski was DeMatha High School's Danny Ferrie, a 6-10 star who might provide Duke with front-line depth it has lacked since Krzyzewski has been at Duke.

The Tar Heels have center Brad Daugherty, guards Kenny Smith and Steve Hale and reserve forward Warren Martin from the 27-9 team of last season. Coach Dean Smith also landed some prized prep stars, including guard Jeff Lebo and forward Steve Bucknall.

In the Southeastern Conference, Louisiana State may boast the nation's largest starting lineup although 6-10 freshman Tito Howard led Baton Rouge. Nonetheless, Coach Dale Brown has experience returning in Nikita Wilson and John Williams, both 6-8. Don Redden is the 6-6 shooting guard and Derrick Taylor is the point guard at 6-0, although he has no solid backup.

In the court, Zoran Jovanovich gained 50 pounds to go with his 7-1 frame to relieve Wilson from playing center. Alongside Jovanovich is 6-10 Jose Vargas, who was the backup center last season.

Brown may need all that height to get into the NCAA tournament and break a 10-game postseason losing streak.

Coach Michael Jackson (7-3) will be the coach of the first non-Ewing Georgetown team since 1981. In Thompson's style of coaching, everyone saw plenty of playing time, so the limelight shouldn't be anything new for past reserves Horace Broadway, Perry McDonald and Ralph Dalton, Ewing's 6-11 backup, who decided to return for a fifth season of eligibility.

Add 6-9 freshman Jonathan Edwards from New Orleans and the Hawks should be near the top again.

Coaches Lou Carnesecca at St. John's and Rollie Massimino at Villanova should have tough times repeating last year's success with the Redmen's graduation losses of Mullin and 7-0 Bill Wenington and the Wildcats' departed trio of Pinkney, Davant, McClain and Gary McLain. Even two representative recruiting years won't bring these two teams to the Big East's upper level.

"I feel St. John's was hurt the most by the graduation losses," Syracuse Coach Jim Boheim said. "Patrick Ewing blocked shots and rebounded like nobody else. But Mullin shot, passed the ball and sold popcorn for St. John's."

Again, the middle of the Big East is solid with Boston College, Pittsburgh and this year's newcomer to the conference's highest district — Seton Hall.

pions and No. 2-ranked by season's end, winners of 26 games against four losses and 17 straight victories before being derailed by eventual NCAA champion Villanova in the tourney — return all five starters.

There's no weakness to be found in a lineup that boasts 6-foot-11 senior Roy Tarpley, the Big Ten's most valuable player, in the middle. Flanked by a pair of guards, Gary Grant and Antoine Joubert, that are the envy of every coach.

Except perhaps Ionsen.

He retains four starters from a 26-9 team, including the backcourt duo of Doug Altomberg and Bruce Douglas — that someone would argue is the best tandem in the conference and maybe in the nation.

But the Big Ten coaching fraternity is being a little more careful scoring average. Greg Grant, who has been a three-year starter at Utah; and Pacific sophomore Domingo Rosario, who averaged over 14 points a game as a freshman.

The West Coast Athletic Conference has added a shot clock and the University of San Francisco, which fields its first basketball team since the 1981-82 season, to its roster. The WCAC also has itself a heavy favorite this year.

The odds-on favorite is Pepperdine because they won it all last year and have everyone returning," said University of San Diego Coach Hank Egan.

The Waves, 23-9 overall last year, will once again be led by forward Eric White and guard Dwayne Pote. Both averaged over 15 points per game last year.

Loyola Marymount finished 11-16 last year but figures to be much improved under new Coach Jim Lynum. The Lions have returning guard Keith Smith, the conference's leading scorer last year, and forward Forrest McKenzie, the WCAC's top scorer two years ago who sat out last season.

Santa Clara, 20-9 overall and second in the WCAC a year ago, have only two starters returning — guard Steve Keenbort and forward Dan Bies.

San Diego will try to rebound from a disappointing fourth-place finish last year behind all-conference center Scott Thompson, while Gonzaga, Portland and St. Mary's and San Francisco each figure to have an outside shot at third place at best.

and conferences ready to vie for the top spots in the East.

Last anyone begin to feel sorry for the Big East, Georgetown and Syracuse also are considered Top Ten teams, and the rest of the conference has a solid nucleus that spells another season of success for the 7-year-old league.

Syracuse returns four starters, including two all-league selections from last season — Rafael Addison, who averaged 16.4 points per game, and Dwayne Pote of Washington, the exciting 6-foot-2 guard.

The Orangemen also have 6-4 sophomore Michael Brown, who averaged 8.4 points per game last season, and 6-9 Rony Selukov, who, with the graduation of Ewing, now is considered the conference's best big man.

Georgetown Coach John Thompson is looking at a season with another well-stocked bench. Three Hoyas' return from the team that reached the championship game of the NCAA tournament the past two years.

"We're going to play basketball the same way, maybe a little more of a perimeter offense," Thompson said. "We have outstanding athletes. We don't have Patrick Ewing — but no one else does, either."

David Wingate, who averaged 12.4 points, Reggie Williams (11.9), and Michael Jackson (7.3) will be the core of the first non-Ewing Georgetown team since 1981. In Thompson's style of coaching, everyone saw plenty of playing time, so the limelight shouldn't be anything new for past reserves Horace Broadway, Perry McDonald and Ralph Dalton, Ewing's 6-11 backup, who decided to return for a fifth season of eligibility.

Add 6-9 freshman Jonathan Edwards from New Orleans and the Hawks should be near the top again.

Even two representative recruiting years won't bring these two teams to the Big East's upper level.

"I feel St. John's was hurt the most by the graduation losses," Syracuse Coach Jim Boheim said. "Patrick Ewing blocked shots and rebounded like nobody else. But Mullin shot, passed the ball and sold popcorn for St. John's."

Satellite photos provide a new type of atlas

BY HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Its publishers call it "the most riveting look at our continent ever put between covers of a book." Before even one copy was ready, 200,000 had been sold for $29.95 — or, $39.95 for the deluxe issue, which comes with a magnifier.

The National Geographic Society's "Atlas of North America," unveiled Wednesday, looks at the continent from space and presents a stunning portrait.

In vivid blues, greens and reds — photographic images printed in colors other than their own to bring out details invisible to the human eye — the atlas is, according to the society, "a new way of seeing the earth that is neither mapping nor photography, but does the work of both and better than either."

In addition to containing the familiar maps and illustrations found in conventional atlases, the new one makes heavy use of pictures from space to show not only what the earth below looks like but also what it's made of, and how it is being shaped by natural and man-made forces.

Jon Schneberger, the book's illustrations editor, said "our mandate is to disseminate information about geography. But that has a lot of different definitions these days — it can be anything from economics to the situation with the Russian wheat crop."

chronic flooding, those becoming deserts, those that have sinkholes and those contaminated with dioxin.

The society got its pictures from Landsat satellites, which have been in use since 1972, as well as from weather satellites, crews of the Apollo, Skylab and shuttle spacecraft and from airplanes.

One photograph shows the United States at night, the clusters of lights from the cities appearing as white paint splashes across the unmistakable shape of the country.

"We probably sorted through tens of thousands of pictures," said Schneberger. "We have a mosaic of the Caribbean Basin done by a guy at the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration of about 1,200 computerized scenes stitched together," he said.

Although there have been several books of Landsat images, he said, they had never been put together in a logical context like an atlas. The book has 115 satellite images, in which colors are assigned to different light-reflecting levels to dramatize the changes. In that way, for instance, scientists can differentiate one type of rock or soil from another.

An infrared photograph of Washington, D.C., is so clear that it shows the shadow of the Washington Monument. In the Great Basin Desert, which blankets much of Nevada, the atlas shows the earth's surface pulling apart, breaking the crust into giant blocks.

Yellowstone's high volcanic plateau is shown with early September snow and the text declares that it may hold "an even bigger time bomb" than Mount St. Helens in Washington, which erupted in 1980.

Combining 1982 satellite image, 1978 topographic map produced this map of San Francisco and its peninsula

Woman answers ad; now she'll be a wife in Alaska

Builder of a mining camp replica received 600 responses

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — A woman who answered an ad for a mail-order bride says she's ready to haul water from an ice-covered creek and take on all the other chores of living in the Alaska bush.

Jill Bandock, 22, of Olympia, Wash., arrived Thursday at Anchorage International Airport to the waiting arms of Tom Williams, 40, who last month advertised for brides for himself and about a half dozen of his workers who had complained about the lack of women.

Williams is building a replica of an 1800s mining camp at Paystreck, a remote site about 90 miles south of Anchorage.

Bandock was one of the 600 women who answered the ad, and she and Williams met for the first time Thursday.

"I'm satisfied," Williams said after meeting her. "He's going to have to drag me back to the airport if she wants me to leave."

Williams said the couple had made no wedding plans and wanted to take time to get to know each other. The couple was in Paystreck on Friday.

Bandock said she was more than ready for the hardships of the Alaska bush, and will haul water and pound nails along with the rest of the crew.

Williams' crewmen are sitting through stacks of letters from other women, searching for the perfect mate. So far, a half dozen women from the lower 48 states have visited Paystreck, but none has stayed.

Astronomers pick out comet with naked eye

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Two California astronomers were the first to see Halley's comet on its current visit without the aid of telescopes in a newly built enclosure with her 2-year-old mate, Janus.

Zookeepers discovered the wound Monday, after Tara did not come out for three days.

"Cats will fight and bite each other, unfortunately. But we've never had anything this serious," Michalowski said.

Rare leopard dies after mate bit her

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A snow leopard, one of the rarest cats in the world, died at the Seneca Park Zoo after its mate bit her and her leg became infected, zoo officials said.

Zoo director Daniel Michalowski said Wednesday that the 2-year-old leopard, Tara, was bitten in the hind leg sometime after Oct. 31, when she was placed in a newly built enclosure with her 2-year-old mate, Janus.

Zookeepers discovered the wound Monday, after Tara did not come out for three days.

"Cats will fight and bite each other, unfortunately. But we've never had anything this serious," Michalowski said.

Champagne Creek has fallen on bad times; cleanup likely

By ROCKY BARKER
Idaho Falls Post-Register

ARCO, Idaho — Weathered wooden structures, piles of tailings, old shafts and heavy metal pollution are all that are left of what was once a booming mining area near Champagne Creek.

More than $5 million worth of gold, silver, lead, zinc and copper were extracted between 1883 and the 1930s from 12 mines in the area—20 miles west of Arco. But the recent owners of the claim filed for bankruptcy and federal officials are doubtful they could force them to clean up the site.

So, the Bureau of Land Management is considering tackling the costly cleanup problem itself.

"You really can't find a responsible party," said Brent Jensen, Big Butte Resource Area manager.

The source of the pollution is the Moran Tunnel and its adjacent tailings piles. Polluted mine water and sluff from the tailings ponds ends up in Champagne Creek, a water source for irrigation and livestock downstream.

Arsenic, cadmium, copper, iron, manganese, nickel and zinc are all present in the creek at levels above human health hazard standards, said Jensen.

existing mine operations. Regulations for this purpose were authorized in 1981.

But those regulations only cover existing operations. Claimants cannot be forced to clean up toxic waste problems left by previous claimants, said Carroll.

"We couldn't require a new mining claimant to clean up pollution from an old claimant," said Carroll. "It wouldn't be fair and it wouldn't hold up."

Silver was discovered in the Champagne Creek Region of the Lava Creek Mining District in 1883. The Horn Silver Consolidated Mines Co., ceased mining in the Last Chance Mine group, which includes the Moran Tunnel, in the 1930s.

The immediate problem is the stream pollution and the first project the BLM hopes to conduct is a diversion around the mine and tailings. They hope for funding in 1986, said Jensen.

Eventually BLM would like to remove and bury the mine tailings, and divert the mine water into a sink area, he said. But these efforts will depend on cooperation from the current claimant.

The diversion itself could slightly lower the amount of water running into Champagne Creek, affecting the rancher's water right. But without action the pollution will continue to slowly build up arsenic in his soil from irrigation, said Carroll.

The BLM conducted a similar project in 1983 at North Creek, northwest of Howe. The pollution was so bad there that it killed cattle and cost $100,000 to clean up.

Jensen said it was too early to estimate the cost of the Moran Tunnel project.

It unsuccessfully attempted to develop an open pit gold and silver mine at the Hornsilver Mine site northeast of the Last Chance group before filing for bankruptcy earlier this year. Rothchild Guarantee Limited of Sun Valley is the current holder of the claims that include the Moran Tunnel and its tailings.
