Attack wasn't a drill

Idahoan aboard Nevada Dec. 7

By MICHAEL VANAUDELN
Times-News correspondent

TWIN FALLS — When Richard Hansing woke up Dec. 7, 1941, on the USS Nevada in Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, the last thing he expected was that the Japanese would stage an all-out attack.

Hansing woke up at 3:30 a.m., ate breakfast, stood watch, then returned to his living quarters when he heard the loudspeaker say, "This is not a drill. This is the real thing. Japanese planes are attacking."

"We couldn't figure it out," he said. "Why were the Japanese attacking?"

Hansing went to his battle station below deck, and although he could not see the attack, he certainly could hear it.

"I could hear the plane engines, much of the fire and the bombs," he said. "It sounded like war."

The Twin Falls native moved up to the battleship's engine room during the second attack and stayed there until 9 p.m. When it was all over, he couldn't believe it.

"I saw all the destruction, and the thing that struck me was how that much destruction could have been accomplished in that amount of time. The whole place was destroyed."

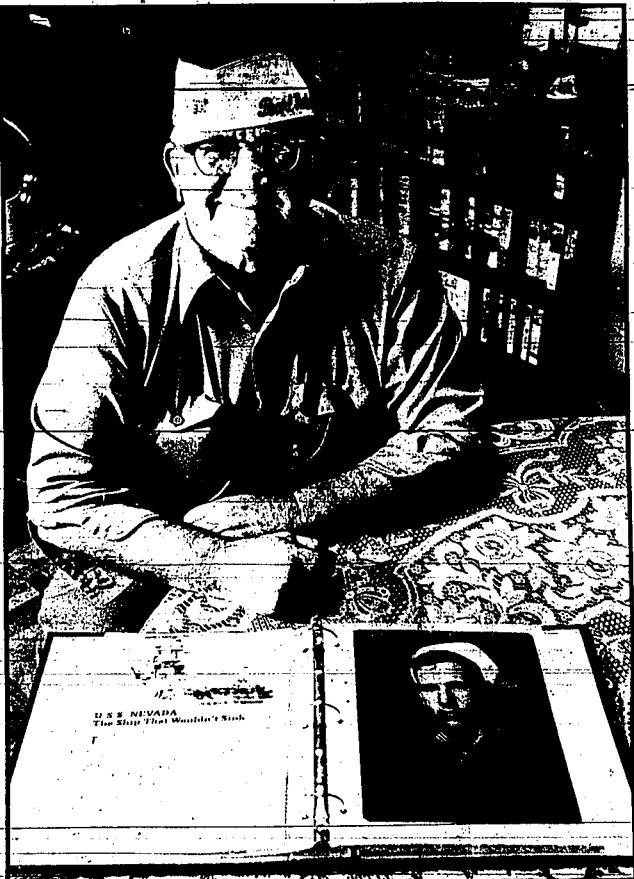

The USS Arizona was burning, two ships were sunk, the USS Oklahoma was turned over, smoke was everywhere, and the Pearl Harbor that Hansing woke up to had changed considerably.

"The Arizona burned for three to four days," he said. "The whole place looked black. It was unbelievable."

The battleship Nevada had taken a severe torpedo hit and had to be backed up to the shore to keep from sinking. Hansing was then taken to the fleet landing, where he saw "500 men with blankets over 'em."

Seeing all those dead men, the severity of the attack finally sunk in and became reality for Hansing.

"What hit me the most was seeing names I recognized on the boxes that were used for caskets. It made me angry," he said.

Richard Hansing was aboard USS Nevada during the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

For the next eight days, Hansing was on burial duty — and the attitude of the men had changed.

"We were ready to fight," Hansing said. "There was also a 'need' to prove ourselves. We were anxious to fight."

Now, 44 years after the attack, Hansing feels that the attack could have been prevented.

"There were enemy subs out there at least a week before the attack, but we didn't know about it," he said. "It wasn't until after the war that we found out that Washington, D.C., knew about the subs. They goofed; they weren't attending to business."

Hansing feels that if the officers at Pearl Harbor had known about the subs, they would have been able to prevent the attack.

Money bills crack logjam in Congress

By DAVID ESPO
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Congress struggled to break a year-end legislative logjam on Friday, producing tentative agreement on a historic measure designed to wipe out federal deficits, and approving $117.2 billion in spending bills for a vast array of domestic programs.

Congressional negotiators announced agreement on the long-stalled deficit-reduction measure at a news conference, and said they hoped to have the bill passed by the full Congress and on the president's desk by next week.

A White House statement called the agreement "a step in the right direction."

The agreement was announced as the Senate gave voice vote approval to two money bills, sending them to the White House.

The first, a $105.8 billion measure for the departments of Labor, Education and Health and Human Services, includes a doubling of funding for research and other programs related to AIDS. The $234 million includes $16 million to establish four experimental treatment centers for victims of acquired immune deficiency syndrome.

The second spending bill provides $11.9 billion for the departments of State, Commerce and Justice. It also funds the Economic Development Administration, the Legal Services Corp., and the Small Business Administration, three agencies the president originally sought to eliminate.

Reagan is expected to sign both spending bills, even though they both provide for more funding than he originally sought, because they meet budget guidelines negotiated between Congress and the administration last summer.

Enactment of two spending bills and tentative agreement on the deficit-reduction legislation — coming at a time in the week when the Capitol normally is long-since deserted by lawmakers — were signs of a gathering sense of urgency. Both houses originally had hoped to quit for the year by Dec. 13, but in recent days, many legislative leaders have talked of a Dec. 20 date instead.

Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole of Kansas said adjustment by the end of next week is still possible. "But if not, I would hope it would come in the early days of the following week." The logjam is starting to break, he said.

Meanwhile, debate began in the Senate on a second must-pass bill, a $49.8 billion measure to finance most of the federal government through ment cuts and fiscal year. The measure is needed to replace an existing stopgap spending bill that expires on Dec. 12.

Final passage of the measure in the Senate is expected by year-end. The Senate is expected to cover Development Administration, the

Balanced budget plan a step nearer reality

By STEVEN KOMAROW
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Congressional negotiators reached a tentative agreement Friday on a landmark plan designed to wipe out federal budget deficits by the end of the decade.

"I think this has a real chance to force the solution to our deficit problem by getting rid of the political gridlock," said Senate Budget Committee Chairman Pete Domenici, R-N.M. The White House termed the agreement "a step in the right direction."

The announcement of a compromise "broke weeks of stalemate over rival balanced-budget plans passed by the House and Senate."

The impact of the agreement could come quickly.

It could force up to $12 billion in cuts from the spending program this year and more in the future.

House staff estimates that 30 to 50 non-defense programs will have to be terminated in fiscal 1997 if President Reagan wants to continue his defense program and avoid tax increases, said Sen. Bob Packwood, R-Ore., at the press conference.

"It'll be a tough bill to live up to in terms of meeting its goals, but I believe we set into place a mechanism that will balance the budget and bring interest rates down sharply," said Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, one of the measure's original sponsors along with Sens. Warren Rudman, R-N.H., and Ernest Hollings, D-S.C.

Final agreement on the plan would allow passage of urgency needed to break the stalemate would increase the government's borrowing authority from the current $120 billion to more than $2 trillion.

The compromise calls for statutory ceilings on deficits, starting with $172 billion in the current fiscal year that began Oct. 1, and dropping to $14 billion in fiscal 1997 and gradually to zero by fiscal 1999.

The plan also mandates automatic across-the-board cuts — equally distributed between military and domestic spending programs — if Congress and the president are unable to agree on how to meet the annual targets.

The cuts would not apply to Social Security, interest on the national debt, or government contracts already in place.

In addition, there are provisions to either exempt or partially protect from the cuts various programs for low-income people.

Ceremonies today mark Pearl Harbor

The Associated Press.

HONOLULU — As officials prepared to mark the 44th anniversary today of the bombing of Pearl Harbor, police officers who were on duty at the time remembered dodging machine-gun fire, searching for Japanese radio transmitters and trying to restore calm.

The anniversary of the Dec. 7, 1941, air raid will be marked by the National Park Service and the U.S. Navy with ceremonies aboard the USS Arizona Memorial. The memorial was built to honor those killed in the raid, including more than 1,100 aboard the battleship.

The ceremonies will recall the day when Japanese bombers pierced the early morning clouds and dropped explosives on Pearl Harbor, other military bases and scattered portions of Honolulu, killing 2,341 American servicemen and 68 civilians and bringing the United States into World War II.

All of Honolulu's 300-member police force and its 125 reservists were called out after the attack, and several of the officers, in recent interviews, recalled their duty.

Ronald D. Sagum, 71, was sent from house to house to destroy amateur radio transmitters owned by a Japanese or an American of Japanese ancestry. The FBI had provided police with the names and addresses of those who owned transmitters.

Sagum said he destroyed them "smashing each transmitter into the nearest sidewalk or driveway. I didn't know any other way to do it."

Thomas M. Pedro's first day as a Honolulu policeman was Sunday, Dec. 7, 1941.

"Anyone who was here Dec. 7 and tells you they weren't afraid — they're lying," said the 67-year-old Pedro.

Arnold Capellas, 69, said his car was machine-gunned by a Japanese plane as he neared the navy base. "I jumped out and ran," he said. "I didn't get home for six days."

Chester Dods, 75, a police sergeant at the time, said his most vivid memory was of "people gathering very quietly that evening in the streets around police headquarters. They were very frightened. They went home after our lieutenant told them there was nothing they could do."

Fetus not human being under state statutes, Minnesota court declares

By GILES HUDSON
The Associated Press

ST. PAUL, Minn. — A fetus is not a human being under state law, the Minnesota Supreme Court said Friday in a decision that means a man who was accused of killing an 8½-month-old fetus in an automobile accident cannot be charged in the death.

In a 6-1 ruling, the court said no specific state statute deals with the question of whether a fetus is a human being, and that a fetus is precisely defined the term "human being," even though it has been used in homicide statutes since territorial days.

The ruling upholds a decision by Ramsey County Judge Hyman Segell. John Wodele, executive assistant to County Attorney Tom Foley, said no appeal will be filed because the issue does not involve a constitutional question.

The decision whether to permit criminal prosecution involving a viable fetus is one for the Legislature to make, the Supreme Court opinion said.

State Rep. Terry Dempsey said he will seek a change in the law when the Legislature convenes in February.

"The person (fetus) is capable of life without even life support systems," Dempsey said. "I can't believe that because the fetus is killed should make it any less a person in the eyes of the law."

State Rep. Steve Wenzel said the Legislature's intent was clearly to say that a viable fetus is a human person in the legal sense.

"I really consider it unfortunate that with all of the solid, pro-life legislation we have passed in the last 10 years, somehow we missed this one," Wenzel said. "It's a tragedy. Clearly, it is something that must be dealt with in the '96 Legislature."

Deficit to top $200 billion

By ROBERTA WOOD
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Budget director James Miller said Friday that, barring a turnaround in congressional spending habits, the federal deficit this fiscal year will top $200 billion and may even match the record $212 billion deficit of fiscal 1985.

Miller also said President Reagan will submit a budget to Congress in February that will propose an additional $50 billion in spending cuts.

Speaking with reporters after a White House budget strategy session, Miller said the Office of Management and Budget for fiscal 1996, which began Oct. 1, is "not going down, we see the budget deficit going up," he said.

The $172 billion for 1995 is the same target as contained in the federal budget blueprint approved by Congress last summer. But Miller said his new OMB projections show the $172 billion level cannot be met next year without making deep spending cuts — far beyond those now on the congressional agenda.

"Failure of Congress to carry through on cuts proposed in its budget resolution, as well as a more sluggish economy than the administration had initially projected, account for the shortfall," Miller said.

Among major items that exceed the congressional budget target, Miller noted, was the "current version of the farm subsidy program, which will cost nearly $60 billion over the next three years, either the House or Senate versions, rather than the $35 billion in the budget resolution," he said.

"Spending has increased 10 percent since 1993, and it's not going to stop," Miller said.

Firm: Air Force caused blaze

BOISE (AP) — An Ada County insurance company says the U.S. Air Force caused a 1984 Elmore County fire, and should pay the resulting $12,000 in damages.

Northern Pacific Insurance Co. filed a U.S. District Court lawsuit against the Air Force here, over a July 29, 1984, fire near the Mountain Home Air Force Base.

The lawsuit alleges the grass fire started because of negligence by Air Force personnel using a firing range two miles north of the base. The flames spread across Idaho 67 to the hog farm operated by Larry Smith, the lawsuit said.

The insurance company asks for the $12,000 in damages it paid to Smith, along with $3,000 in attorney fees.

The suit noted the Air Force earlier rejected a claim for the $12,000.

Sawmill closes; 60 lose jobs

COEUR D'ALENE (AP) — The DAW Forest Products Co. sawmill near here was scheduled to close indefinitely following the swing shift Friday, resulting in the layoff of 60 employees.

High labor costs and increased imports of Canadian lumber led to the closure and layoffs, said Hugh Bannister, the company's industrial relations manager.

Some 140 other employees will continue working in the logging, planing, shipping and related support departments.

The mill would have to ship out its excessive inventories before reopening, Bannister said.

Increased Canadian imports coupled with U.S. lumber mills that have made wage and benefit concessions of up to an equivalent of $4.00 an hour put considerable pressure on mills like DAW, he added.

Fred Bair, president of International Woodworkers of America local 3-10, which represents 140 DAW employees, said he has not discussed the closure with company officials.

Gem court denies damages

BOISE (AP) — There can be no damages awarded for emotional distress in alleged breach of contract unless physical injuries result, the Idaho Supreme Court says.

The court on Thursday ruled 4-1 to uphold a decision by 1st District Judge Dar Cogswell in a Boundary County case.

Gary, Kathy and Michael Hathaway sued Raymond and Joann Krumrey and Boundary Aviation, Inc., alleging damages for emotional distress over a contract to perform maintenance and repair on the Hathaways' airplane.

The court reaffirmed earlier decisions that there can be no damages awarded for emotional distress, unless physical injuries result, in matters arising from the alleged breach of a contract.

$183,975 in grants awarded

CALDWELL (AP) — A charitable foundation here gave out $183,975 in grants on Friday, more than half to education programs.

The Board of Managers of the Whittenberg Foundation approved the grants Friday. Chairman Bill Rankin said this year's requests reached $900,000.

This year's distribution includes a long-term commitment to the College of Idaho for $36,794 in scholarships. It also includes $22,515 to the Idaho Department of Education for the fourth year of the Whittenberg Scholars, Fellows and Masters summer writing project.

Other larger grants went to the Vallivue School District, the Western Idaho Training program, the Parma and Wilder school districts, the Association for the Humanities and $50,000 each to the Canyon Suicide Prevention Hotline, Idaho Educational Public Broadcasting and the Boise Philharmonic Association.

Development plans presented

COEUR D'ALENE (AP) — Businessman Duane Hagadone has presented Kootenai County commissioners with plans for a $150 million residential and recreational project on Lake Coeur d'Alene.

The 649-acre Club on-Lake Coeur d'Alene would include an 18-hole golf course, 704 condominium units, tennis courts, a clubhouse, convenience store and equestrian facilities.

The commissioners took the proposal under advisement Thursday.

The residential development phase would be carried out during the next eight to 10 years, employing about 200 people, he said.

Officer on leave after incident

BOISE (AP) — A state police officer has been placed on administrative leave pending an investigation into allegations that he shot an unarmed juvenile who was involved in a 70-mile chase.

Idaho State Police and the state attorney general's office are investigating the shooting, said John Rooney, director of the Idaho Department of Law Enforcement. Cpl. Kellir Johnson has been placed on paid administrative leave during the investigation, Rooney said.

Outlook for deficit darkened further

BOISE (AP) — With Idaho's economy continuing to languish, legislative analysts have pushed their projections for red ink in the current state budget to $26.4 million, likely intensifying pressure for increased taxes.

The latest estimate, now being circulated to state lawmakers, is nearly $12 million above the projection made less than three months ago by Gov. John Evans' budget staff when the chief executive imposed $14 million reduction in spending for the current budget year that ends next June 30. It is also the first official government estimate of the deficit to exceed $20 million.

The governor's budget holdback, now apparently inadequate to balance the state's books at the end of the current spending year, is only in effect until the end of January, giving the Legislature only four weeks to come up with a way of handling the shortfall.

Faced with similar, albeit even more serious, revenue problems in 1983, lawmakers then increased the state sales tax from 3 to 4 1/2 cents on the dollar. But since then conservative leaders of the Republican-dominated Legislature have been adamant in the opposition to any major tax increases to solve the state's fiscal problems, and Evans, expected to run for the U.S. Senate next year, conceded last month that this winter will not be the time to seek another major increase in the sales tax.

At the same time, the Legislative Budget Office said in advising lawmakers of its new deficit forecast, "there will be little time and few options with which to deal with the current-year deficit."

Economists also said it will probably take at least $35 million more than the rein-in budget for the current year just to maintain state government operations in 1987.

In analysis the state's budget crisis earlier this fall, legislative economists identified only about $20 million in spending cuts to cope with the red ink in the current 12-month budget — most of them proposed and rejected in the past.

Hospital drops flat-rate billing policy

ST. ANTHONY (AP) — Fremont General Hospital, which stirred up criticism from the state's insurance industry when it announced a flat $1,500-per-day fee for hospital services, has withdrawn that billing policy.

Mike Andrus, assistant administrator, said the hospital has gone back to an itemized pricing system, based on a room rate of $175 per day for private and semi-private rooms.

Andrus said the hospital isn't buckling under pressure from Blue Shield of Idaho and the state to drop the flat rate charge.

Researchers get killer's brain

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — Carroll Edward Cole, who confessed to killing more than a dozen women as revenge for an abusive mother, was executed by injection Friday, and at his request his brain was removed an hour later for research on criminal behavior.

Cole was pronounced dead at 3:10 a.m. MST, six minutes after a mixture of three deadly chemicals was pumped into his body one at a time. The first execution by injection in Nevada came after a state Supreme Court refused to grant a stay sought by three other death row inmates who contended Cole was incompetent and insane.

Prison officials said Cole, 47, was upset that the other convicts sought the stay. And Cole's lawyer told the court Cole told him he wanted to die because "it would be unbearable to stay on here."

He had agreed to let doctors examine his brain to see whether there was a physical reason for his murderous rages that followed drinking bouts in bars where he met many of his victims.

2nd Seattle transplant done

SEATTLE (AP) — Surgeons at University Hospital on Friday successfully performed the hospital's second heart transplant within a month, implanting a heart in a 42-year-old man, a hospital spokeswoman said.

Wendy Lippmann, hospital spokeswoman, identified the patient as Delmar Smith of Sturdevant. She said the operation was completed at 12:30 p.m. and that Smith was in critical condition.

She said Smith received his new heart in a 5 1/2-hour operation Friday morning, performed by Dr. Margaret Allen and Dr. Peter McKewen.

Ms. Allen, leader of the heart transplant team at the hospital affiliated with the University of Washington, performed the first heart transplant in the Pacific Northwest on Nov. 18.

The name of the first heart recipient had been withheld at his request. But Ms. Lippmann said the man agreed to be identified Friday. He is Joseph Gardner, 46, of Seattle.

Guards interrupt family ride

PLACERVILLE, Calif. (AP) — Two brothers out riding with a couple of friends on their family's ranch were surprised at gunpoint by airmen guarding a downed military helicopter that the Air Force had not notified the family about.

McClellan spokesman Lt. Col. William Shimkus said the Air Force should have alerted the family to the airmen's presence. The Air Force is sending the D'Agostinis a letter of apology and is investigating the incident, he said.

But he said the airmen at the site were doing their duty.

Michael D'Agostini, 17, said he, his brother and two friends went joy-riding on the 100-acre ranch in two four-wheel-drive vehicles shortly before midnight on Nov. 23.

Spy suspect 'felt desperate'

JERRY WHITWORTH Cites 'psychological warfare'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Jerry Whitworth, a one-time Navy buddy of confessed spy master John Walker, testified in his own espionage case Friday that he felt subjected to "psychological warfare" by FBI agents who interviewed him before his arrest.

"I felt desperate," said Whitworth, who faces charges of selling military secrets. "I was being bombarded psychologically. I was up against something beyond my control."

Whitworth's lawyer, James Larson, asked U.S. District Judge John Yukaskin to suppress statements that Whitworth made to two FBI agents who went to his Davis, Calif., home May 20, the day after the arrest of Walker.

The defense also has asked the court rule the search warrant for Whitworth's home was invalid.

Walker and his son Michael pleaded guilty to espionage charges Oct. 28 in an agreement that provided the elder Walker would cooperate fully in proceedings against Whitworth, who is accused of passing on sensitive data for transmission to communist bloc countries.

At one point in Friday's testimony, Whitworth's wife, Brenda Leah Reis, who was sitting in the front row of the courtroom for the motions hearing, broke into tears.

Under questioning by Larson, Whitworth said he at first considered the FBI agents' visit routine and was stunned when told of Walker's arrest. The agents, at first friendly, became accusatory, Whitworth said.

Judge denies trial delay in trial

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Former beauty queen Joyce McKinley, accused in 1977 of kidnapping and raping a Mormon missionary in Britain, will not be granted further delays in her upcoming trial on charges she shadowed the same man here, a judge says.

Ms. McKinley had been scheduled for trial Dec. 4 in 5th Circuit Court on charges of disturbing the peace and giving false information to police. However, Judge Michael Hutchings granted her a continuance, another in a string stretching over a year and half.

Cold weather chills area employment rate

By BOB FRÜND
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Unemployment in the Magic Valley jumped close to a full percentage point during November, as cold weather chased some workers off the job. The state's jobless rate also moved up slightly, to 6.6 percent, bucking the national trend, according to the Idaho Department of Employment.

The seasonally adjusted unemployment rate for Twin Falls, Jerome and Gooding counties rose to 6.3 percent, a 9 percent leap from the 5.4 percent recorded in October, said Lon McDonald, state labor force analyst based at Twin Falls. The job losses were spread across all sectors, "all components in the forecast gave evidence of reduced employment and increased unemployment," he said.

"I think one of the big factors in this situation is the weather," he said. Outdoors jobs were lost earlier than usual.

The weather also may have affected retail stores, which typically begin holiday help during November, McDonald said. Job Service of Idaho has had few requests for part-time workers from Magic Valley employers so far, he said.

Some employers are bringing back workers from previous years. A long-range trend toward replacing full-time workers with part-timers also may have cut down on seasonal help, particularly in retail businesses.

"A lot of people are hiring part-time people and working them 20 hours a week, and when they gear up in the Christmas period, they just increase them to full-time," he said.

Although there were significant job losses, McDonald also noted that October was an unusually good month for keeping people on the job. Statistically, the unemployment rate has bobbed up to the level it has kept for most of the year, the 6.6 percent range. Last November, it was 6.2 percent.

Idaho's jobless rate of 6.6 percent remained below the nation's 7 percent during November. However, it was up 1 percentage point from October, with six of the seven major regions in the state showing an increase, the state agency said.

Layoffs in forestry, tourism, construction and agriculture were responsible for much of the increase. The situation could have been worse, but layoffs were partially offset by more job opportunities in food processing after the potato and sugar beet harvests, state Employment Director Scott McDonald (no relation) said.

Other offsetting factors included hirings by some retail outlets and by ski resort operators, he said.

The state's overall outlook may be better, because the November statistics did not reflect the decision last week by employees of the Politech Corp. to accept contract concessions that will allow reopening of those mill operations in the Panhandle. Those mill closures played a major role in the November rise in the jobless rate.

Evans seeks broadening of sales tax

By DEAN S. MILLER
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Gov. John Evans said Friday he is looking at ways to broaden the state's sales tax in his preparations for his annual budget message.

Evans, an unannounced candidate for the U.S. Senate, was in Twin Falls Friday for a fund-raising dinner and meetings with local reporters.

He reiterated his earlier opposition to a sales tax increase and said a penny increase should be the last resort of Boise budgets.

"We should look at all of the exemptions... and try to make the sales tax more equitable," he said. Refusing to discuss particular exemptions he may be eyeing, Evans said he did not want to fuel debate over his budget proposal until later this month, when he will make the full plan public.

"Just to raise the sales tax will be the easy way to go," he said. Evans conceded that the elimination of sales tax exemptions will require a well-organized coalition of moderate Republicans and Democrats in the Legislature.

"That same coalition will be needed to pass the bill being proposed by Evans' task force on day-care legislation. In recent weeks, a Republican compromise bill has emerged from House interim committees that satisfies the two groups of Republicans who split their votes on day-care licensing last winter. That bill calls for mandatory police background checks for day-care operators.

Evans said his task force's more complicated bill has a chance for passage, despite competition from the compromise plan. Local governments do not want responsibility for day-care licensing, Evans said, and the coalition of moderates will be essential to passage of his plan.

Discussing his probable race against Sen. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, Evans said Symms' record prompted him to run. "I can do a far better job than he's ever done," Evans said.

"I've balanced budgets; he's never balanced budgets," Evans said. Evans, poking fun at Symms' "take a bite out of big government" slogan, Evans asked "How many bites have you seen?"

Symms has become aligned with a group of far-right conservatives with a narrow range of interests—and has not represented Idaho," Evans said. "If not for McClure, where would Idaho have been?" he asked.

Evans said his emphasis in the Senate would be to urge the reduction of interest rates and to curtail the deficit.

Overvaluation of the U.S. currency in foreign markets has been another factor in the decline of raw material industries, such as those in Idaho, Evans said. By backing down the U.S. deficit, the dollar would come down and make American products more competitive, he said.

Scott denies day-care bill compromise

The Associated Press
and The Times-News

TWIN FALLS — Rep. Donna Scott, R-Twin Falls, said Friday she and Rep. Pam Benson, R-Boise, have not agreed on a compromise day-care bill, and Scott has no plans to rewrite her proposal.

Scott was responding to press reports Friday that the Child Care Coalition would rather have no law at all than a purported compromise worked out between Scott and Benson.

The Child Care Coalition, representing some 21 organizations across the state, contends a compromise calling for local law enforcement background checks of those operating day-care centers will do little to ensure the safety of children in those facilities.

Idaho is the only state in the nation without some form of mandatory day-care center licensing.

Support of the background-check measure was agreed to late last month by both Rep. Benson, who lost House floor seating state-administered day-care licensing last session, and Scott, who led the faction wanting to keep control over centers with local officials.

The governor's task force on the issue has also agreed on a plan that would require licensing, including a police background check, not only of day-care operators but also of the buildings housing the facilities to guarantee safety and health standards. The state would administer the program, and a special committee would also develop safety standards for future licensing decisions.

Scott said she met Friday morning with the Association of Counties in Boise, and a majority of the members present supported her bill. However, the association earlier passed a resolution that it would not support either day-care bill.

Scott or the governor's majority of counties this morning said they approved of what we're doing," Scott said Friday. "They don't want to get lassoed with additional costs."

Scott said states of similar size to Idaho that have mandated health inspections have spent at least $1 administered day-care licensing last

Deaths of animals on tracks growing

TWIN FALLS — Up to 200 deer and antelope have been killed by Union Pacific trains in the last few days, says the Idaho Fish and Game Department, and there's almost nothing that can be done about it.

"We've got people out in the field doing a count now," said Dale Turpin, regional wildlife land manager for the agency's Jerome office. "If you take the low figure, we're probably talking about 200 animals killed in three different strikes," Turpin said.

The latest kill occurred Thursday night when from 70 to 90 deer and antelope were killed on tracks just outside Shoshone. Most of the animals killed were antelope.

"We've had this problem before, but this is the worst we've ever had," Turpin said. "The railroads are warm and the dark ties keep the snow off, and those animals just come in and bed down on those tracks."

Turpin said that after Thursday night's kill, the rest of the herd moved back onto the tracks after the train pulled out.

A Gooding truck driver escaped injury about 4:15 a.m. Thursday when he ran into an antelope herd on State Highway 46, two miles north of Wendell, killing 17 animals.

Sheriff's officers identified the truck driver as Byron Holcomb, 42, of Gooding, who was operating a 1978 Freightliner flatbed truck owned by Mercer Transportation Co. of HAILEY — The results of a recent survey by the College of Southern Idaho are guiding school officials in the creation of a new satellite for the first semester at the college's satellite campus in the Wood River Valley.

A curriculum baseline findings compiled from the November survey has been developed by the college's director of continuing education, special programs and Friday.

Three areas of primary interest identified in the survey are: Costa vary for these classes, business courses, educational classes and physical education areas.

For the first semester, 18 credit scholarships have been scheduled during the first semester on Jan. 19.

Classes for the first semester will include: introductory, accounting, banking, management, computer applications, English composition, speech, and foundations of education.

Classes will be offered in Spanish, first aid and cardio-pulmonary resuscitation, cross-country skiing, and GED.

Credit classes cost $39.20 per credit hour for residents who have lived in Blaine County for consecutive months, plus tax fees for text books. An additional $7.50 per credit will be applied to students who are not residents.

Classes will be offered in evening and workshops will be offered in the morning.

Leroy: Sales-tax hike would fall short

By DEAN S. MILLER
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A 1-cent sales tax increase will not solve the state's budget woes, even if it is reroiled through the Legislature in the first week, gubernatorial candidate Lt. Gov. David Leroy said Friday.

Speaking to a Sawtooth Press Club luncheon, the Republican hopeful said revenues would not come in fast enough to stem the tide of red ink flowing from the state's ledgers.

"Hypothetically, if the Legislature were inclined to address the issue of the deficit with a 1-cent sales tax, they still would not be able to raise all the money needed," said Leroy.

He gave two reasons why the sales tax would be enough even if it could pass both houses of the Legislature and slip by the governor's veto stamp.

First, the tax revenue shortfall has increased from the $17 million originally projected, to this week's $26 million projection by the Legislative Budget Office. In addition, he said, a stalling economy has decreased the ability of a sales tax to raise additional revenues.

With the budget deficit climbing, he said, the sales tax increase would only raise about $4 million per month and would not catch up with deficits by the state's June 30 budget year end.

After dealing with the revenue shortfall, the Republicans in the Evans to seek legislation adding services to the sales tax rolls and allowing the quarterly collection of income taxes.

Leroy said he will be watching the working of the revenue proposals committee, which meets before the Legislature convenes, to see what the state's expected revenues are and how they can be increased.

He said that he does not support a major tax increase of any kind and that the only way to increase

Tightened squeeze could aid Contras

By R. GREGORY NOKES
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Cuban invasion of Nicaragua is new, but the Reagan administration has decided to make an issue of it again because the U.S. support of Contra rebels are struggling and the administration is considering its determination to do all it can to keep the leftist Sandinista government in Managua from consolidating its power.

Secretary of State George P. Shultz hinted Friday that the administration may soon ask Congress for "a fast vote" on direct military aid to the Contras, which is now prohibited.

In recent months, the Sandinistas seem to have had the Contras on the run, in part because of the use of new Soviet-supplied helicopters, which provide devastating firepower and which can be used to ferry government soldiers quickly into battle.

The administration organized the Contra insurgency in 1981. But after nearly five years of fighting and more than $80 million in American aid, the guerrillas have yet to control any important piece of real estate inside Nicaragua.

On the diplomatic side, the recent trend has not been favorable to the United States or the rebels.

Although Honduras ostensibly is sympathetic to the Contra cause, it has severely curtailed the flow of American supplies to the guerrillas.

In addition, eight Latin American nations asked the United Nations this week to endorse a resolution urging the resumption of direct negotiations between the United States and Nicaragua, and an end to military maneuvers by outside powers.

This was a reference to exercises planned by the United States in Honduras next year.

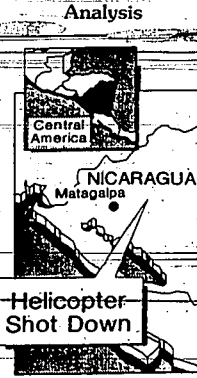

All four of the so-called Contadora countries — Mexico, Colombia, Venezuela and Panama — involved in Central American peacemaking efforts support the U.S. position.

The American aim in the negotiations is to force the Sandinistas to negotiate with the rebels and include them in the government.

The Sandinistas' goal, on the other hand, is to isolate and defeat the Contras.

For the foreseeable future, the differences are fundamental and irreconcilable.

Thus when the bodies of Cubans were found behind the controls of a Sandinista helicopter that was shot down by the Contras this week, the administration sought to turn it to its advantage.

Elliott Abrams, the assistant secretary of state for international affairs, told a congressional subcommittee on Thursday that there are "more and more" reports of Cubans taking part in actual combat in Nicaragua, apparently not as separate units but supplementing Nicaraguan forces.

"They aren't just advisers," Abrams said. "They seem to be in combat too... We may be seeing Cubans move into a combat role on the mainland."

Shultz followed with a news conference Friday where he raised the alarm another notch and hinted at new action to help the Contras, while also acknowledging the Cuban involvement in Nicaragua was not new.

"I am certainly am concerned about the Cuban presence, the Cuban military presence in Nicaragua, and on the mainland of this hemisphere," he said. "It's not news to us that this is taking place, but the bringing down of a helicopter with a Cuban pilot and a Cuban co-pilot on it is incontrovertible evidence."

Cuban military personnel have been in Nicaragua virtually from the day the Sandinistas ousted the U.S.-backed Somoza regime in 1979.

Although it has not been reported previously that Cubans were flying helicopters ferrying Nicaraguan troops — the aircraft have been in use only a few months — it should not have come as a surprise.

Now, the administration wants Americans to get angrier about the Cuban role than they have been.

"I think the first step is to be sure the people see it and understand it and believe it," Shultz said. "The administration has been pointing this up for some time, and we have gotten very skeptical responses."

He added: "As the problem is genuinely taken on board, there may be further steps that are possible."

Ex-Army physician says tests condoned

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former Army investigator charged Friday that Japanese Emperor Hirohito condoned deadly World War II biological experiments performed on captured Americans by a secret military unit.

"In my book — shoot me if you want to — I know the knowledge that was gained from the experiments was used to build a biological warfare program," said Gen. Douglas A. MacArthur's former warfarer investigator, said he had no doubt the emperor knew about and understood the experiments.

Sanders said he learned about the experiments only weeks after he played a role in obtaining immunity for the Japanese officers who carried them out.

The experiments, performed by the Imperial Army's 10,000-member Unit 731 at the Mukden prisoner of war camp in Manchuria, allegedly included dissection of bodies and injection of typhus and anthrax.

Evidence of the excesses has been building for decades but has received little public notice until lately, according to Peter Williams, British producer of a television documentary on the subject.

Sanders said Hirohito's name appeared in documents detailing the command structure of the biological warfare program.

Senate slashes funding for Synfuels

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate on Friday voted to maintain a 5-year-old government program subsidizing synthetic fuels made from shale and coal, but at only a fraction of its original $20 billion size.

On a 43-40 vote, the Senate defeated an attempt by Sens. Daniel Evans, R-Wash., and Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, to effectively abolish the Synthetic Fuels Corp. by taking back all but $500 million of the remaining $6.6 billion it has for awarding price supports and loan guarantees.

Instead, the lawmakers approved by voice vote a compromise offered by the agency's supporters that would strip it of $3 billion, leaving it with $3.6 billion and one more year of life.

Warrant issued

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Federal authorities issued an arrest warrant Friday, accusing a man of pulling a bomb on an Oct. 30 American Airlines flight that carried his wife and three daughters.

Albert Thielman, 34, of San Marcos might have wanted to kill his family in order to collect life insurance benefits, said John Daleg, the FBI special agent in charge of the San Antonio office.

U.S. releases reports citing Cuban efforts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department late Friday released statements by Nicaraguan defectors it said prove there is a "pervasive and direct" Cuban military presence in Nicaragua, including participation in ground and air operations.

The evidence was presented in the form of "direct" quotes, paraphrased statements made this year by defectors, most of whom were unidentified, from the Nicaraguan army and Sandinista government agencies.

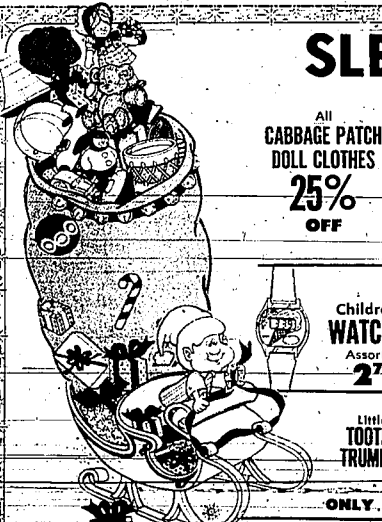

The 10-page document includes statements about Cubans in combat, Cuban involvement in the Nicaraguan security and military network and Nicaraguan perceptions of Cuban activities.

Some examples: "Cuban advisers have bragged to EPS (Popular Sandinista Army) officers of their involvement in combat in against FDN (rebel) forces."

"In July 1984, a Soviet-made Mi8 helicopter while transferring some 37mm guns from the port of Conito to Cardon Island was piloted by a Cuban officer... The Cuban pilot... said that he had personally participated in combat against FDN units."

The report also said that a member of the Nicaraguan rebel forces, with the help of radio intercepts, determined that the Sandinistas used Cuban pilots in a counter-attack on the town of La Trinidad.

Treasury suspends bond sales

WASHINGTON (AP) — People planning to buy U.S. savings bonds as Christmas presents will have to wait at least a few days because sales of the bonds will be halted beginning Saturday.

Sales of the bonds have fallen victim of Congress' failure to pass permanent legislation expanding the government's borrowing authority.

A temporary increase in the debt ceiling was to expire at midnight Friday, leaving the government without authority to borrow more money.

"Without borrowing authority, the Treasury Department said it would be forced to halt the sale of savings bonds, marking the biggest impact on the public so far in the three-month battle to pass a new debt ceiling.

The Federal Reserve Board began notifying the nation's banks and savings and loans on Thursday to halt savings bond sales beginning Saturday until further notice.

Sheila Nelson, a spokeswoman for the Treasury Department, said people will still be able to redeem savings bonds they have purchased and that sales through the payroll savings plan will not be affected.

Farm bill conferees continue debating

WASHINGTON (AP) — House-Senate conferees on the 1985 farm bill met briefly Friday to adopt provisions on agricultural research, then broke into smaller groups to debate sections on commodity, trade and food stamps.

On the research section, the negotiators' recommendations assembled by staff members calling for new money for agricultural research include, more stress on biotechnology, and an emphasis on work that will benefit mid-sized farms.

But the conferees were unable to move beyond that to the other 18 sections of the massive bill because they disagreed on how to handle subsidies for dairy, grains, cotton and rice.

Senate Agriculture Committee Chairman Jesse Helms, R-N.C., adjourned the panel until Monday but said he was encouraged by progress made by small groups working on the commodity sections.

"I think I can safely report that the discussions were helpful, but there's no consensus as yet," Helms told the meeting. "We can look forward to recommendations for agreement as early as next week."

"Somebody has to break the logjam with a big package," said Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole, R-Kan., who has been holding private sessions on grains in his office.

The conference is working against a scheduled Dec. 13 adjournment date for Congress.

Veteran ends fast after Reagan's phone call

SEATTLE (AP) — A Vietnam veteran ended a 51-day fast Friday, saying he hoped he had "lit a little candle to build a big bonfire" after President Reagan agreed to meet with him about the possibility of American prisoners still held in Asia.

Gino Casanova had lost 45 pounds, but left his bamboo hut under his cramped turn and he was feeling dizzy.

Reagan called the 34-year-old Tacoma man Thursday, agreeing to meet with him about the possibility of American prisoners still held in Vietnam.

"I feel real good," Casanova said Friday, but admitted his stomach hurt.

Dr. Warren Appleton, Casanova's physician, said he was "concerned" about the man's health.

What's what

History records that the crewmen with Christopher Columbus got so scared they'd fall off the edge of the earth that they threw their dice overboard. An offering to the Almighty. Just as we, we'll give up gambling.

A growth business, the installation of those automatic teller machines. Climbing at least 20 percent a year. If my old city editor were alive, he'd say, "Forget it. That people like cash is not new."

Where were you 17 years ago? That's when the big tennis tournaments were first opened to professionals. All those great names who played before 1958 went from amateurs.

TURKEY DEALS
When the Pilgrims negotiated with the Indians for wild turkeys, both the Pilgrims and the Indians wanted to get right down to business. That's how far back you have to go for the origin of our phrase "talk turkey."

The compulsion to collect rubbish is called "sylligomania." It's rare, but you see evidence of it sometimes. In the yards of people in old houses along the back roads.

The inventors of typewriters enabled a lot of people to make a lot of money. True, but on Sept. 14, 1869, George Anderson of Memphis, Tenn., started to generate even more money. He invented the typewriter ribbon. Ribbons are worth more than typewriters just as blades are worth more than razors and batteries are worth more than flashlights.

LIFESAVER
On the market now is an invaluable electronic device - to be mounted near a swimming pool - that sounds an alarm whenever there's movement anywhere on the surface of the water. But you see evidence of it sometimes. In the yards of people in old houses along the back roads.

World War I ace Eddie Rickenbacker on the fate of heroes: "From hero to zero."

You can get ulcers from being too happy. That, attributed to the American Digestive Disease Society. Interesting, if true.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A good Saturday morning to sleep as late as possible since a tiresome planetary aspect is in operation, but later you find you can "get together with others and have fun."

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Morning is not good for making appointments, but later is fine for seeing important persons. Go to bed early.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Rest in the morning, and then get into weekend duties after lunch. Pay attention to your health.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) The morning is rather slow about arranging recreation, but later all goes smoothly for you.

MOON-CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get your home nicely organized and then you can entertain there tonight in style. Be cheerful.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Running errands and communications are somewhat difficult in the morning, but later you can speed up nicely.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Do those small duties that make your home look more charming and clean and tonight you can handle business with others.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Polish up that errand early and tonight you can hit on the right plan to make the future brighter.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) The morning starts slowly, and then after-lunch all speeds up and you gain your aims. Plan recreation for the evening.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Cultivating new friendships is wise today. Get old friends to introduce you to such while persons, and then entertain them.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Plan what can be done to improve your position in the community which you live.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Improve the conditions you want for your living and go after them from a new angle. Be with persons who are different.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will understand the wishes of others and will always want to cooperate intelligently with all. Teach early to try to rely as much on self as possible so as not to ask too many favors. One who will labor with precision and neatness. Send to the nicest schools.

First lady gets four-legged gift

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new presidential pooch, not as large as former top dog Lucky, but just as frisky, began roaming the White House halls Friday.

It was a surprise early Christmas gift from President Reagan to his wife Nancy.

Showing no fear of loud noises or strange settings, the year-old, brown and white spaniel strained at the leash held by Mrs. Reagan to board Air Force One for a trip from New York to his new home.

At the top of the airplane's steps, Mrs. Reagan, dressed in a full-length, brown mink coat, cradled the dog in her arms, posing for pictures.

"Haven't named it yet," the president called to reporters as he returned to the White House from an overnight stay in New York, where he had addressed a 30th-anniversary dinner for The National Review magazine.

The dog replaces Lucky, the 65-pound, Bouvier sheep dog that had grown too large for the White House and was taken to the president's ranch in California over Thanksgiving.

Key statistics about the new top dog: male, 16 pounds and probably will not grow much larger, born last Dec. 16, and, most importantly, housebroken and "extremely well-mannered." Lucky sometimes had accidents.

And the dog has good breeding. Known as a King Charles spaniel, it is the brother of a pooch owned by William Buckley Jr., editor of "The National Review."

The dog got the same guarantee as Reagan's new national security adviser, Vice Adm. John Poindexter: total access to the Oval Office, said presidential spokesman Larry Speakes.

Speakes said Mrs. Reagan visited the Buckleys during the fall and immediately fell in love with their dog. It jumped up in her lap and then stayed at her feet during dinner.

When she returned to the White House "she couldn't stop talking about the dog," Speakes said.

Soviets again refuse Nazi's release

BONN, West Germany (AP) — Hess, but the Soviets have insisted the Soviet Union has again refused to release Nazi Rudolf Hess (from Theo-Waigel, an official of the Spandau Prison in Berlin, a West German official said Friday).

Hess, 91, one-time deputy of Nazi dictator Adolf Hitler, has been imprisoned since 1947 and is Spandau's last remaining inmate. Sentenced to a life term for war crimes, he is held under a four-power arrangement among the Soviets, Americans, British and French.

Hess reportedly suffers from chronic heart problems. The allied parachuting into Scotland on the night of May 10, 1941. He said he was on a mission to end World War II. He was returned to Germany after the war and sentenced to life imprisonment at the Nuremberg war crimes trials.

'Shadow' creator, 88, dies

KINGSTON, N.Y. (AP) — Walter B. Gibson, a magician and pulp novel writer who created the mysterious caped crime fighter the "Shadow," died Friday at Benedictine Hospital. He was 88.

Gibson, who had suffered a stroke on Nov. 7, died about 5 a.m., according to his wife, Litzka.

He wrote 283 "Shadow" novels under the pen name "Maxwell Grant" during the height of the popularity of pulp novels and magazines series.

in the 1930s and 1940s. The character gained fame and a cult-like following when it was adapted for radio, helped by Orson Welles' reading of the enigmatic introduction to each program: "Who knows what evil lurks in the hearts of men? The Shadow knows."

In addition to his fiction, Gibson also wrote a biography of magician and escape artist Harry Houdini, whom Gibson knew. He wrote more than 100 books, music, and television

Britain joins U.S. SDI effort

LONDON (AP) — Britain on Friday has agreed to join President Reagan's $65-billion Strategic Defense Initiative to create a space shield against Soviet nuclear missiles.

The decision came under immediate attack by the opposition Labor Party.

U.S. Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger promised in signing the agreement with British Defense Minister Heseltine that major awards of contracts would go to British firms taking part in the so-called "Star Wars" project. But no figure was mentioned.

Some details of the Memorandum of Understanding were disclosed at a news conference called after the agreement was reached by British and American experts working in Washington.

But Weinberger said British firms now will be able to bid for contracts in fields where Britain "has a great deal of capability." These include directed energy beams, advanced laser research, X-rays, increased computer capacities, and the effect of weather on laser beams.

Heseltine called the program "exciting" and noted that British participation will "bring significant numbers of jobs to this country." Figures published Thursday showed 3,165,200 on Britain's unemployed lists, or 13.1 percent of the work force.

OPEC accord doubtful

GENEVA (AP) — OPEC oil ministers, preparing Friday for a formal weekend conference, held out little hope for reaching an agreement on a strategy for propping up oil prices.

A committee of six members of an Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries met for 90 minutes but failed to produce any recommendations for the full conference of 13 ministers that opens today.

"We left everything for the conference," said Manu Saeed, Oteiba, the committee chairman and oil minister of the United Arab Emirates.

Delegation sources said the panel was too badly divided to even make a serious attempt to agree on a recommended course of action. The sources spoke on condition they not be identified by name or nationality.

Many analysts believe that if OPEC takes no action, oil prices will hold fairly steady through the winter and then begin sliding in the early spring as demand tapers off as heating oil needs decrease.

General's fate to wait

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — President Ferdinand E. Marcos said Friday he would decide the future of the armed forces chief Fabian C. Ver in about a week.

An official palace news release said Marcos made the statement to Adm. Donald Hays, commander of U.S. forces in the Pacific, who met with Marcos a day after the Pentagon criticized the reinstatement of Ver, who may soon be running against Aquino's widow in a special presidential election, reinstated Ver within hours of his acquittal.

This could be Jerome's year to step up to elite

By STEVE CRUMP
Times-News sports editor

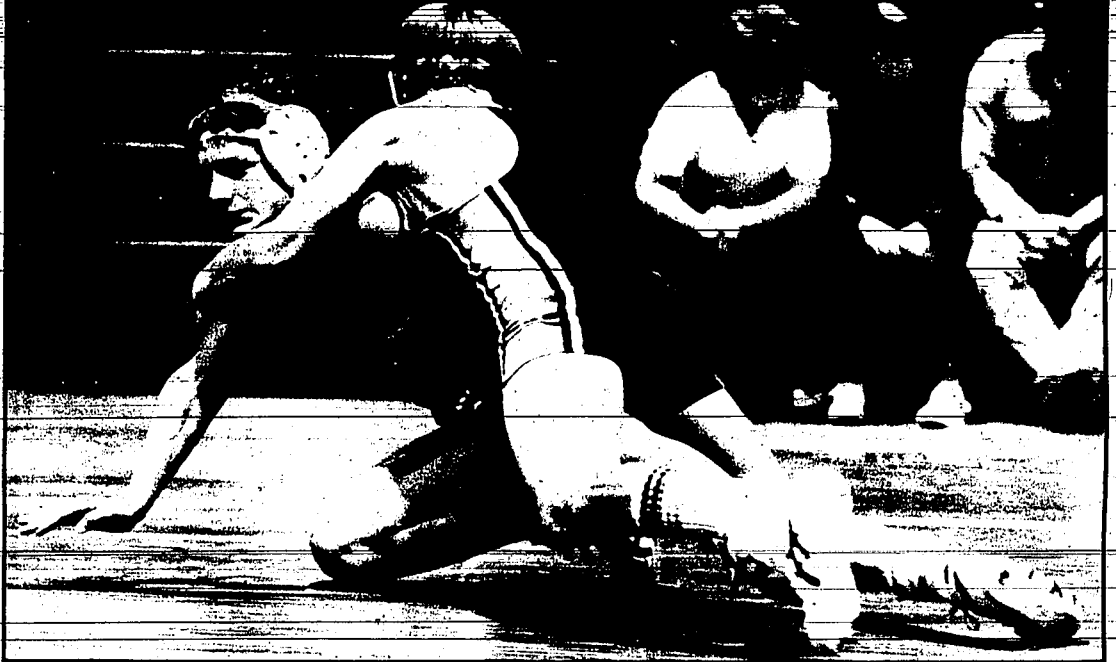

Jerome High School has long hovered on the edge of the state wrestling elite in Class A-2, a group that includes Snake River High School of Moreland and the A-2 schools of District 6 (the Idaho Falls area).

This may be the year the Tigers take the step up. But first, Jerome will have to contend with three A-2 rivals from District 4 that all figure to be improved over last year.

In several weight divisions, competition for the district's two berths in the state A-2 wrestling tournament could be ferocious.

Jerome The District 4 champion Tigers finished eighth in last year's tournament, including a state 119-pound championship by Robert Egbert. With eight returning wrestlers and 51 students out for the sport, Jerome could do better.

"Our best talent is on the sophomore and junior level," says Coach Tim Matthews. "Up through the middle weights we are strong and there's lots of depth. We were able to split the team for varsity matches against Burley and Wood River and a freshman match all in the same day."

Ron Gamache of Jerome gets the upper edge on Bonneville's Trent Smith during a recent meet

The incumbents include three district champions: Junior Derek Ruhter, who finished fourth at state at 105 pounds last season and will wrestle 119 this year; Junior Lon Egbert, at 132; and senior Jim Hart at 145.

Other returning wrestlers include sophomore Curt Stulberg at 112, senior Brent Egbert at 126, senior Rance Peterson at 138,

In addition, Matthews likes the look of newcomers Brett Thompson, a sophomore, at 105; Mark Lee, a senior, at 165; Jeff Roberts, a senior, at 132; Matt Babcock, a sophomore, at 155 or 167; and Darin Osborn, a junior who will become eligible later this month, at 167.

"We are untried and untested after the middle weights," says Matthews, assessing his squad's weaknesses. "And we can't coach every single person with over 50 out for wrestling."

Burley The Bobcats finished just 3-4 in dual meets last year, but that could change drastically this season.

Coach Gary Hoxsey welcomed back 11 wrestlers this fall who saw varsity action for him last season, including a group at the upper weights that look especially strong.

"I think our upper weights — 145 and up — are our greatest strength," says Hoxsey. "We have the most experience there."

Seniors Dana Miller (167) and Pat Hoxsey (heavyweight) and Juniors Brian Shaw (185) and Quentin Lewis (heavyweight) are attracting the most attention. But Burley should also be strong at 155 pounds with senior Shane Downs

2. Burley

Skyline could see stiffer competition among Gem foes

By STEVE CRUMP
Times-News sports editor

Wrestling in the Gem State Conference is traditionally among the more predictable activities in southern Idaho each winter.

Skyline High School of Idaho Falls, winner of conference wrestling championship every year since the league was established in 1980, is again the favorite. But most of the league's coaches expect the Grizzlies to get some stiff non-usual competition from Pocatello and Idaho Falls high schools, two programs that have grown steadily stronger in the last three years.

It will be somewhat harder for Gem State wrestlers to make it to state this year. Madison High School of Rexburg joined the conference this season and the Idaho High School Activities Association consolidated the three districts that make up the conference into two regions for purposes of qualifying for the state tournament. Twin Falls, Minico, Highland, Mountain Home and Pocatello will send two wrestlers in each weight division to state this year, while Skyline, Idaho Falls, Madison, Bonneville and Blackfoot will send three.

Gilbertson named new Vandals coach

The Associated Press

MOSCOW — Keith Gilbertson, the unpaid offensive coordinator at the University of Idaho this season, was named the Vandals' head football coach at a news conference this morning.

Gilbertson, 37, became the 27th head coach in Idaho football history, replacing Dennis Erickson, who accepted the head post at the University of Wyoming on Monday.

"It's a thrill for me to be named head coach here at Idaho," Gilbertson said in a release this morning. "People can expect to see the Vandals continue to throw the ball every once in awhile."

"I'm delighted to have 'Gilby' as Idaho's new head football coach," said Athletic Director Bill Belknap. "His knowledge, familiarity with our program and his personality combine to give him an excellent chance to improve the overall quality of our football program."

Idaho went 32-15 in four seasons under Erickson, winning the 1982 Big Sky Conference championship this weekend. Erickson high for today is 33-11-1 with 11-1-1 in the last 12 games. The road has been a mix of snow, dirt or champagne. The Vandals' record at Idaho Falls is 10-1-1. The team's record in the Big Sky Conference is 10-1-1. The team's record in the Big Sky Conference is 10-1-1.

KEITH GILBERTSON Will finally be paid twice in the Division I-AA playoffs.

"It's one of the greatest things that could happen at the university," Erickson said from Laramie, Wyo. "His knowledge of the game is second to none."

Gilbertson has never been a head coach. He was an assistant during Erickson's first season, in 1982. Then, jumped to the Los Angeles Express of the United States Football League.

Patient 'Cats face determined power in Trojans, Pilots

By STEVE CRUMP

Steve Parr's patient-development program at Filer High School has long since made the Wildcats the team to beat in District 4 Class A-3 wrestling.

Now, it may be the state's turn. Filer finished 10-0 in dual meets last season, won the district championship and finished eighth at state. This year, with eight returning wrestlers — including four who placed at state — the 'Cats may be able to hold their own with the A-3 juggernauts of eastern Idaho.

But Wendell, which has — literally — a ton of returning experience, or Glens Ferry, under new coaches Steve Tygart and Todd Klopp, could have something to say about that.

District 4 will send three wrestlers in each weight division to state, and Filer's chances of qualifying a lot of them are good. The 'Cats have a strong first line and two wrestlers at 135 pounds with varsity experience.

Local rodeo cowboys hope Las Vegas lucky

By STEVE CRUMP
Times-News sports editor

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — The Magic Valley's three active Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association competitors acknowledge they'll have to be at the top of their games to have a shot at the championships in their specialties at the National Finals Rodeo.

The NFR begins its nine-day run here tonight in the Thomas and Mack Center, the first time in two decades that the finals haven't been held in Oklahoma City.

"I hope to win it," says Malta's Kent Cooper, last year's runner-up in saddle-broke riding who finished the regular season this year ranked 11th. "I wouldn't go down there if I didn't think I could win."

"The cowboys are as good as anybody here," says Buhl's Rob Juker, who finished the regular season ranked 12th by the PRCA in steer wrestling. "But you need the breaks because the competition is so close."

Cooper, Juker and Jerome's Micky Young, a bareback riding specialist, will be among several hundred cowboys and cowgirls competing for a record $1.8 million in prize money.

To qualify for the NFR, athletes must have been ranked in the top 15 in their respective events. The money earned at the NFR is figured into the year's standings to determine the world champions.

Both Cooper and Young, who is ranked 13th heading into the NFR, have spent most of the season recovering from injuries that have limited the number of rodeos in which they've appeared.

"Some guys handle the pressure pretty good," says Young. "I try hard not to make mistakes. All those guys (Juker, Cooper, Caldwell's Dec Pickett) are tough average riders. They're a good bet to come out strong. We always excel with pressure."

Eagle cagers to battle longtime rival Rebels

TWIN FALLS — College of Southern Idaho meets a long-time nemesis tonight with the champion-ship of the "I" and "S" district tournament hanging in the balance.

The Eagles will take on the Dixie College Rebels at 9 p.m. with college fans wondering if the last time they met was in St. George in 1979 season opener. Since then, although they've played at least 17 times a year, the Rebels have had the total advantage.

The championship match was set up in first-round action Friday with Dixie turning back Casper College in 71-62 and CSI, blitzing over the final 16 minutes, handling Central Wyoming 106-67.

Central Wyoming and Casper will play for consolation honors at 7 p.m. today.

Although CSI met Central Wyoming with its usual withering early-game intensity, the scrappy Rebels didn't fall out of this one until the final 16 minutes.

Coach Ben Graef had said earlier nemesis tonight with the champion-ship of the "I" and "S" district tournament hanging in the balance.

They feared the Golden Eagle defeat. His prediction was nearly perfect. Although CSI bounced out to an almost immediately double digit lead, his Rebels battled back for the first 25 to 28 minutes, but then feared the Golden Eagle defeat. By Ron Gates RUPERT — Skyline's Grizzlies took a three-point lead over runner-up Meridian and a 3 1/2-point more lead on third-place Idaho Falls in the opening rounds of the Minico Invitational Wrestling Tournament here Friday.

The rich got richer as the perennial powers piled up pins, technical falls and superior decisions enhanced by advancement points in the first and quarterfinal rounds.

Magic Valley squads took their lumps, but host Minico advanced Ruby Gonzalez into today's semifinal round in the 126-pound class with a pair of decisions, Spartans Brian Hunt at 98 pounds, Marty Carter at 155 and Chris Rogers at 167 also scored opening wins, but fell in the quarterfinals.

Twin Falls moved four grapplers through the first matches, two via ties. But the Bruins failed to vie any in championship contention.

Auburn's Jackson is Heisman favorite

NEW YORK (AP) — In 1971, Pat Sullivan of Auburn won the Heisman Trophy. Last year, Doug Flutie of Boston College captured the honor. In between, it was nothing but running backs.

The leading contenders for the 1985 Heisman, which will be awarded Saturday by the Downtown Athletic Club, are you-guessed-it — running backs and quarterbacks.

The nation's leading rusher, Lorenzo White of Michigan State, is among the most-touted candidates. So is Thurman Thomas of Oklahoma State, who was fourth among runners. But Bo Jackson of Auburn is the favorite to win the trophy. Had the season ended after six games, it would have been no contest — Jackson had rushed for 1,233 yards and 11 touchdowns by then.

He wound up with 1,786 yards on 279 carries (6.4 yards per carry) and 20 touchdowns.

The quarterback corps led by Chuck Long of Iowa, followed by Robbie Boseo of Brigham Young and Vinnie Testaverde of Miami, Fla.

Long guided the third-ranked Hawkeyes to the Big Ten crown and into the Rose Bowl, hitting on 231 of 351 passes for 2,978 yards and 26 touchdowns.

Padre ranks embittered over Williams

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The San Diego Padres would be a much happier team without Manager Dick Williams, and there are threats of a player-revolt if he stays on, according to reports published Friday.

Team members, requesting their names not be used, told local newspapers they don't like the way Williams runs the team and particularly resent what they see as his refusal to give praise when warranted.

At the same time, however, players recognize the benefits of chastizing the man who led the historically second-division Padres to their first National League pennant in 1984. They sagged to a third-place tie in the NL West in 1985.

"I love playing for Dick, but when I get out of this game I'm gonna run over him with a car," one player said. "It's definitely a love-hate relationship."

During a recent absence, Williams became the center of a feud between

DICK WILLIAMS
Critiqued by his players

Padres President Ballard Smith and General Manager Jack McKeon, who run the team, and Joan Kroc, who owns it. She supports Williams.

Kroc reacted angrily to reports that Smith and McKeon had fired third base coach Ozzie Virgil and were planning to buy out the final year of Williams' contract and dismiss him.

Williams said he has no idea what his future holds but would probably find out after meeting Friday with Kroc, Smith, McKeon and Virgil.

As to whether he wants to return as manager, Williams said of the contract buyout, "I didn't ask for it. They offered it to me."

The final year of Williams' contract is said to be worth $250,000. When she was told that Smith and McKeon were planning to buy out Kroc said it wouldn't be done with her money.

"In a way, you can't argue with her," one player said of Kroc, "because we haven't had a losing season since Dick got here (in 1982). But a lot of players don't like him. As much as I respect Mrs. Kroc, I don't think she knows what's going on under the surface. It's bad when you have players saying they'll pass the hat to buy out Dick's contract."

One player estimated that "about 23 out of 25 players don't like Dick Williams. I think it would be a benefit for a lot of guys (if they got more amiable manager), because Dick isn't the type of manager who pats you on the back when you do something well. . . . If we got somebody who comes in and does that, a lot of guys will feel a lot more comfortable" about playing baseball.

"There'll be a player revolt if he comes back," another player predicted.

One veteran said he doubts more than one or two of his teammates want Williams back.

"Williams alienated and tried to embarrass a lot of many people" last year, a lot of players are really bitter. If he came back, it would be a completely unproductive, chaotic situation. If he does come back, whoever who comes in and does the front office really has their head in the sand."

Yanks give Sample for Sosa

The Associated Press

NEW YORK — The New York Yankees sent outfielder Billy Sample to the Atlanta Braves for infielder Miguel Sosa, the American League team announced Friday.

Sample hit .288 in 59 games for the Yankees in 1985. He was acquired in a trade last spring from the Texas Rangers in exchange for infielder Toby Harrah.

Sosa, 25, has averaged just under 18 home runs a year in seven pro seasons. In 1985 with Richmond, the Braves' top farm club, he hit 10 homers in a three-week span, punctuating the binge with a three-homer game on May 10.

He took a lifetime minor league batting average of .275 into the 1985 season, but hit .192 last year.

Niekro plans to pitch in '86

LILBURN, Ga. — Phil Niekro, saying his age and career victory total are just numbers, apparently will pitch for the New York Yankees again next season.

The 46-year-old knuckleball pitcher, who won his 300th game last season, said Thursday the Yankees have told him they want him back in 1986. Niekro said he would avoid getting into any type of contract dispute with the club.

Niekro played the last two seasons with New York after being released by the Atlanta Braves in 1983. He is 32-20 with the Yankees.

Niekro, who spent 26 years with the Braves organization, lives in suburban Atlanta and had expressed a desire to return to the Braves after becoming a free agent. But the Braves did not try to sign him.

Trevino leads Sun City field

SUN CITY, South Africa — American Lee Trevino fired his second successive 3-under-par 69 Friday for a 138 and a one-stroke lead over Lanny Wadkins and Bernhard Langer of West Germany in the "Sun City Million-Dollar Golf Challenge."

Wadkins, the U.S. Player of the Year, shot a 69 and Langer, the 1985 Masters champion, 70 to end the second round at 139 in the elite 10-man competition, with a first prize of $300,000 at the Sun City resort complex in the black homeland of Bophuthatswana.

British Open champion Sandy Lyle, who fired a second-round 70, and American Mark O'Meara, 71, were three strokes back at 141, while Taiwan's T.C. Chen improved eight shots to 67 and was alone at 142.

Phillies give Maddox chance

PHILADELPHIA — The Philadelphia Phillies, who told 36-year-old center fielder Garry Maddox to try his luck in the free agent draft, re-signed him Friday for one year and, to make room for him, released 43-year-old pitcher Jerry Koozman.

Phillies' president Bill Giles announced the signing of the eight-time Gold Glove winner for what is believed to be about half the $675,000 contract that expired after the 1985 season.

Giles said Koozman "has a standing invitation to come to spring training as a non-roster player and try to make the pitching staff." Koozman has a 222-209 record in 18 seasons with the New York Mets, Minnesota Twins, Chicago White Sox and Phillies.

Portland indifferent to Gold

PORTLAND, Ore. — More than half of 402 Portland residents surveyed in a newspaper poll said they don't care about the possible move of the Denver Gold football team to Portland.

The United States Football League team, coached by former Portland State University coach Daniel "Mouse" Davis, is considering moving to Portland for the league's 1986 fall season.

Columbia Research Center Inc., which conducted the poll for The Oregonian, interviewed 402 residents between Nov. 29 and Dec. 1. The poll has a margin for error of plus or minus 5 percent.

"I really don't care" was the response given by 53.6 percent of those surveyed. "I think it is a great idea" received 25.9 percent. A total of 12.7 percent said it was a "terrible idea" and 7.7 percent were undecided.

UP&L rates to rise slightly

BOISE (AP) — Standardization of the method used to allocate costs to the three states served by Utah Power & Light Co. will mean a slight increase in monthly bills for its Idaho customers.

According to estimates by the state Public Utilities Commission, the change in the allocation method, finally endorsed by a Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, will generate about $1.4 million in additional revenue for the utility in Idaho once credits from the Bonneville Power Administration are calculated.

The standard rate base allocation method had previously been adopted by the state regulators in Idaho, Wyoming and Utah.

For the average Idaho customer of Utah Power and Light with an all-electric home, the change will boost monthly bills by $1.43 in the winter and about 73 cents in the summer.

The average increase for customers without electric water or space heating will be 46 cents a month in the winter and 72 cents in the summer.

New publisher at Salem paper

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — William R. Stone, operations director of the Salem Statesman-Journal, is being promoted to acting publisher of the Gannett Co. Inc., announced Thursday.

Stone has been director of operations at the Salem newspaper since January 1984.

McMillan, 54, came to Salem in 1975 to become executive editor of the Oregon Statesman and Capital Journal. The evening Capital Journal was discontinued when the newspapers merged.

Fed reports money supply up

NEW YORK (AP) — The Federal Reserve Board said the nation's basic money supply rose $4.4 billion in late November, an increase that exceeded expectations but which analysts attributed in part to technical factors.

The Fed said Thursday the measure of money readily available for spending, known as M1, increased to a seasonally adjusted $621.0 billion in the week ended Nov. 25 from $616.6 billion the previous week. M1 includes cash in circulation, deposits in checking accounts and non-bank travelers checks.

For the latest 13 weeks, M1 averaged $612.7 billion, a 10.9 percent seasonally adjusted annual rate of gain from the previous 13 weeks.

M-K preparing new plant site

SPRING HILL, Tenn. (AP) — The horse country turf is giving way to raw earth as an office building, a parking lot and an access road take shape in preparation for construction of General Motors Corp.'s Saturn auto plant here.

G.M. officials expect work on the $3.5 billion plant to begin by spring. In the meantime, Morrison Knudsen Corp., the worldwide engineering company overseeing the project, is laying the groundwork.

Pocatello plant to add force

POCATELLO (AP) — Up to 80 workers will be employed next year at the PAFCO plant here to fabricate energy modules for the second phase of a Standard Oil of Ohio project in Alaska.

Work on this project is scheduled to start next March here and be finished a year from now. Meanwhile, between 30 and 40 welders, machinists and other PAFCO employees are completing module work for the first phase of Sohio's North Slope undertaking.

That work should be done in a few weeks.

Stearns Catalytic World Corporation, PAFCO's Denver-based parent company, has been awarded a contract by Sohio-Alaska Petroleum Co. to deliver more modules for an oil production facility in Alaska.

"Right now, we're projecting we will employ about 80 people on this upcoming phase. The modules will be truck size, meaning they will be similar in size to those of the Exxon project," Amy Coffern, a Stearns Catalytic spokeswoman, said Friday.

Nation's jobless rate slides

By PETE YOST The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The civilian unemployment rate dropped to 7 percent in November as the economy added 182,000 new payroll jobs and manufacturing employment rose for a second consecutive month, the Labor Department said Friday.

The 7 percent rate, down from October's 7.1 percent, matched the lowest unemployment level of Ronald Reagan's presidency, while employment gains pushed the total of new jobs since the recession to 10.1 million, a record for the first three years of a U.S. economic recovery.

"It's good news. It means we continue on a steady course as far as job creation and employment," said White House spokesman Larry Speakes.

Despite improvement in the jobless rate, the department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said the decline was relatively insignificant, and the unemployment rate is only slightly below the year-ago rate of 7.1 percent.

U.S. joblessness has been moving in a narrow range from 7 percent to 7.5 percent for 18 months, although it has moved down somewhat from earlier this year when the rate was stuck at 7.3 percent for six months.

Employment in the import-battered manufacturing sector, seen by analysts as a key to continued economic growth, rose by 30,000 in November, after moving up 45,000 in October.

A total of 1,000 jobs have been lost so far this year in the manufacturing sector, which employs one of five U.S. workers.

"The second consecutive monthly increase in manufacturing employment hints that we're still in that sector," said Allen Sinaich, chief economist at Simpsonichman Brothers Inc., adding: "It's still too early to get too optimistic that manufacturing has turned the corner."

Modest increases in employment at high-technology companies may have contributed to the brighter picture for manufacturing, said Robert Gough, senior economist at Data Resources Inc. in Lexington, Mass.

Unemployment overall fell by 151,000 people in November as the total number of jobs in the United States decreased to just over 6.1 million, according to a survey of the nation's households. Total employment was just over 107.9 million.

The increase in holiday seasonal hiring in stores was less than usual at this time of the year, Janet L. Norwood, commissioner of labor statistics, said in testimony before a joint congressional committee.

A survey of businesses showed that employment in retail trade declined by 37,000, possibly reflecting uncertainty by firms due to a record high debt burden being carried by American consumers, according to several economists.

However, other economists suggested the figures showing a pre-Christmas decline in retail employment may not be an accurate picture of hiring in that sector. Christmas season sales so far have been mixed, with department stores and their emphasis on stylish apparel generally performing better than the mass merchandisers.

Some stores are reporting sales substantially from a year ago, following an October in which consumers cut purchases sharply to send personal spending into its biggest tailspin in 25 years.

As for the increase in job creation of 1.1 million since November 1982, "This increase in employment exceeds the three-year job creation record from any recession low in history, topping the average of prior expansions by almost 4 million jobs," said Labor Secretary William Brock.

The largest three-year increase in U.S. job growth since World War II was 10.8 million and occurred from June 1976 to June 1979. Previously, the largest three-year growth coming out of a recession was 8.2 million, following the 1974 recession.

Most of the job gains in November were in the service-producing sector of the economy, including 121,000 new jobs in business and health services. Job gains in services totaled 154,000, and since the recovery started in November 1982 the service sector has accounted for nearly 60 percent of the job growth.

Employment in construction, following a year of solid gains, rose just 5,000 in November to stay about the same at 4.7 million, and the number of jobs in mining fell by 1,000.

Joblessness rose last month among blacks by 0.2 percentage points to 15.3 percent.

Teen-age joblessness fell 1.7 percentage points to 18.4 percent. But black male teen-age unemployment rose 5 percentage points to 46.1 percent.

Unemployment rates for adult men and women were unchanged from October, at 6.6 and 6.4 percent, respectively.

Stocks retreat as market calms down

By MARYBETH NIBLEY The Associated Press

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices retreated broadly Friday as the market calmed down after a hectic week.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials trimmed large losses registered early in the session and finished with a decline of 3.78 points after encountering the 1,500-level for the first time on Thursday, the blue chip average closed out the week up 5.05 points at 1,477.18.

Trading halted Thursday's heavy volume. On the New York Stock Exchange, 125.34 million shares changed hands, down from 181.01 million Thursday, which was the fourth highest on record.

Many analysts had been expecting sellers to step in and make the market lose some of its record-setting momentum.

But there are some who say stock prices can advance further.

They base their optimism on a favorable outlook for corporate profits due to expectations that the economy will expand moderately amid continuing low inflation, falling interest rates and ample growth in the nation's money supply.

Leading the active list at the close was Beatrice. It closed up 1/4 at 46.

Dana was also among the volume leaders and it ended the day down 1/4 to 27 1/4. The company announced Nov. 18 that it would buy between $4 million and $6 million of its own shares to enhance stockholder equity. In its announced market, Dana set no timetable for when it would undertake the repurchase.

In the daily tally on the Big Board, about 11 issues fell in price for every five rising. The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks fell 0.58 to 116.99.

Nationwide turnover in NYSE-listed issues, including trades in those stocks on regional exchanges and in the over-the-counter market, totaled 145.6 million shares.

Standard & Poor's index of 400 industrial titles rose 0.88 to 225.85, and S&P's 500-stock composite index was off 0.89 at 202.99.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index fell 1.24 to 242.88. The NASDAQ composite index for the over-the-counter market closed at 316.53, off 1.60.

Wall Street's strong rally has tiny ring

By ROBERT RENO Newsday

For a lot of sound reasons, stock prices have been going up lately.

But for a lot of equally sound reasons they could have been going down.

The prodigious rally now being staged would be more reassuring if the roar of optimism from Wall Street did not have such a tiny ring to it.

In any event, we must conclude that the market thinks that the upswing in the business cycle has at least another year left in it. And there seems to be an astonishing amount of confidence that interest rates will behave favorably for the ready foreseeable future.

Now, this is an extremely risky assumption to bet a lot of money on. As Milton Friedman said last week:

"Interest rates are very hard to predict. If anything, interest rates ought to be heading up. I don't have an enormous amount of confidence in that prediction, but I have as much as is justified."

Maybe, suggests Lawrence Chimerine, the chairman of Chase Econometrics, the market's performance is a negative sign in disguise.

"In our view," says Chimerine, "the decline in long interest rates reflects several factors, including lagged response to the decline in short-term rates earlier this year, anticipation of further declines in short-term rates because of the sluggish economy, and lower inflationary expectations. The timing of the decline also suggests that markets believe that balanced budget legislation which may soon pass will result in lower future budget deficits, thus reducing interest rate pressure. Finally, many financial institutions are responding to increasing nonperforming loans, defaults and delinquencies by purchasing greater quantities of long-term government securities and reducing new lending.

Thus, to some extent, declining interest rates and the rising stock market reflect economic weakness rather than strength."

Anyway, the market may believe that we will have lower interest rates next year. Or it may believe that we can have a brisk economic expansion. But it's difficult to see how we can have both. And in the absence of such an expectation, it is difficult to see why the stock market is standing on its head.

The consensus outlook for 1986 is for a rather dull year in which the goal of accomplishment will be the avoidance of a recession. Given that the current economic expansion is now three years old and reaching that stage of maturity when it
