Assault on Rome airport kills 3 Americans

American victims in Rome were heading for U.S. visits

By The Associated Press

At least three Americans were killed in Friday's terrorist-attack at Rome's airport, one traveling home for his father's birthday and another accompanying her family for a visit with friends and family.

At least 14 Americans were wounded in the assault at Leonardo da Vinci Airport.

Natasha Simpson, 11-year-old daughter of Victor Simpson, The Associated Press news editor in Rome; John Buonocore Jr., 20, and Don Maland, 39, of Newport, Fla., were among 13 killed when Arab terrorists attacked crowds of holiday travelers at the check-in counters of the Israeli airline, El Al, a State Department spokeswoman said.

Italian police made an initial identification of one of the dead as Frederick Gage of Madison, giving no nationality or other information. U.S. Embassy spokesman Mark Dillen said it appeared he was an American, but there had been no confirmation.

In Wisconsin, officials of Madison Newspapers Inc., which publishes The Capital Times, said Frederick K. Gage, 29, a member of the board of directors of The Capital Times Co., was known to be traveling in Italy.

Capital Times publisher Fredrick Miller, contacted by telephone in Florence, Italy, said Gage had left his hotel in Rome on Friday morning for the airport to catch a plane for Amsterdam.

No Americans had been identified as being among the victims in a simultaneous airport attack in Vienna.

Simpson, en route to New York with his family, and his 9-year-old son, Michael, were wounded and hospitalized in satisfactory condition. His wife, Daniela, who works for Time magazine, escaped injury.

Natasha, a straight-A student in the sixth grade of Marymount International School in Rome, had expressed fears Thursday about traveling, saying, "I hope we don't get hijacked."

The Simpsons had planned to go skiing and visit relatives and friends in the United States. Simpson has worked in Italy for The AP since 1972.

Buonocore was an exchange student in Italy from Dickinson College in Carlisle, Pa.; Debbie Cavin, a State Department spokeswoman, said.

His brother, Todd, 16, said the family had not been officially notified of his older brother's death when they heard the news.

"My mother saw it on television and proceeded to call our senator's office," he said. Final confirmation was not made until about 1:45 p.m. EST, more than 10 hours after the attack.

"We're taking it, I guess as best as we could," said Buonocore. "We're trying to stick together and go on living."

John Buonocore was in Europe for his semester abroad program and had gone to Sorrento, Italy, to visit with a relative for the holidays, said Diana Maxmin, a neighbor, who answered the family's telephone.

"He was on his way home today, to Wilmington, because today's his father's birthday," Ms. Maxmin said.

When the assault began, "We could hear the pop," said Mark Maland, 37, an attorney from Elizabeth City, N.C., said in an interview with NBC News from his hospital bed.

"But it kept going pop, pop, pop, pop, pop, and you hear it. 'Shoot them. Shoot them. Kill them.'"

"Finally the shooting stopped and nobody moved, and nobody moved, and then my brother, he yelled to me and said, 'Huh, Mark, are you OK. And I said I had been hit in the leg,'" Maland said.

ROME — Arab terrorists with automatic weapons blazing launched a bloody grenade attack on holiday travelers at the check-in counters of the Israeli airline, El Al, in Rome and Vienna airports Friday.

At least 16 people were killed and 117 wounded in the simultaneous assaults.

"They have again bloodied Christmas," said Prime Minister Bettino Craxi, referring to last year's terrorist bombing of an Italian train that killed 15 near Bologna. He blamed Friday's attack, in which at least two Americans were killed, on "the extreme Arab-Palestinian fringe."

Travelers lining up at Rome's Leonardo da Vinci Airport to check in for El Al flights and at nearby TWA and Pan American counters dove for cover when four or five terrorists rushed in at 9:10 a.m. (1:10 a.m. MST) and tossed hand grenades. The terrorists fired Kalashnikov rifles at the screaming crowd.

An Italian ministry spokesman said among those killed at Rome was a man who "we presume is an Israeli security agent," Natasha Simpson, 11-year-old daughter of Victor Simpson, The Associated Press news editor in Rome; and Gen. Donato Miranda, the Mexican military attaché in Rome.

Another U.S. citizen, John Buonocore, 20, was killed, according to the Interior Ministry. U.S. State Department spokeswoman Debbie Cavin said he was an exchange student from Wilmington, Del.

A third American, Don Maland, 39, of New Port Richey, Fla., died at Rome's St. Giovanni Hospital early Saturday, police and hospital officials said. His brother, Mark, of North Carolina, was wounded.

Italian police also identified one of the dead as Frederick Gage of Madison, giving no nationality or other information. U.S. Embassy spokesman Mark Dillen said it appeared he was an American, but it was not confirmed.

Officials said 13 people, including three Greeks and an Algerian, were killed and at least 70 were wounded in the attack that lasted several minutes. Three of the dead were terrorists slain in a gun battle with a special anti-terrorist force assigned to the airport.

"As soon as the shooting started, people were falling all over the place," said Ann Girometta, who runs a gift shop. The shooting "seemed to go on forever."

Three people, including one terrorist, died in the Vienna attack, which started five minutes after the terrorists stormed the Rome airport. At least 47 people were wounded.

"I saw five hand grenades like black balls rolling through the hall,"

VICTOR SIMPSON Wounded, daughter killed said Reinhard Shubert, 39, a tourist from southern Austria waiting to board an El Al plane. "I saw two or three people lying on the floor, and one was bleeding from the throat. I hit the floor and crept away for shelter."

Bump on head brings man home to wife after 15 years

By MARLENE AIG

LARCHMONT, N.Y. — A man declared legally dead after suffering amnesia and vanishing 15 years ago hits his head, recovers his memory, returns home and embraces his faithful wife on Christmas Day.

How corny can you get? Ask James and Anne McDonnell, who played that script in real life this week.

"It's like a fairy tale," Mrs. McDonnell said Friday in the thick brogue of her native County Cork, Ireland. "I'm still realizing it."

Ever since her husband vanished on March 29, 1971, and even though she had him declared dead in 1976 in order to get on with her life, she says she kept "hoping, hoping, maybe some day" he would return. She stayed in the same house in this New York City suburb and kept her telephone listing under his name.

On Christmas morning, Mrs. McDonnell had returned from church and was fixing a late breakfast when the doorbell rang.

"Hello Anne," said the 64-year-old man at the door.

"It was something out of the blue," Mrs.

McDonnell said. "He had a beard and looked like Santa Claus. I thought it was a joke, then I recognized him. . . . He's so thin now. He's been neglected, I know."

McDonnell told his wife he had spent the past 15 years in Philadelphia as Jim Peters, short-order cook, bartender and seasonal Santa for kids in an orphanage. He lived quietly in a house he bought, and occasionally played poker with friends.

On Christmas Eve, he said, he bumped his head in the cellar of the luncheonette where he worked. The lost memories of his life in Larchmont flooded back and home he came on the next train.

"I've always felt right from the beginning that he had to be a victim of amnesia," said George Mutinay, a former detective who had investigated McDonnell's disappearance.

Mrs. McDonnell said she also thought of amnesia as a possibility through the years she waited, supporting herself as a nurses' aide.

"He had two accidents and had head injuries, I thought, maybe, that was it," she said.

The McDonnells, who are childless, had been married 11 years when, on Feb. 24, 1971, McDonnell fell down the back stairs of his home.

"The next day, in a violent fit-of-sneezing, he lost control of his car and crashed into a pole."

A day later he complained of a headache at work and fell down a flight of stairs "after a dizzy spell."

On March 11 he suffered a mild concussion and brief unconsciousness in another car accident.

Then on March 29, he recalled, he began walking home from an errand because he had a headache and thought some fresh air would fix it.

TV message trade set Jan. 1

By MICHAEL PUTZEL

LOS ANGELES — President Reagan will speak to the people of the Soviet Union and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev will address Americans on New Year's Day in an unprecedented exchange of greetings, the White House said Friday.

The United States and the Soviet Union have sent written New Year's greetings to one another in the past, but never broadcast messages. "We, of course, believe this is an important event," said White House spokesman Larry Speakes.

"He said the messages will be recorded in advance and made available for radio and television broadcast at 11 a.m. EST — 9 p.m. in Moscow."

The announcement was made simultaneously in both countries Friday. Reporters were told about it on Air Force One as Reagan flew to California for the New Year's holiday.

In Moscow, the word came at a hastily called press conference conducted by Soviet Foreign Ministry spokesman Vladimir Lomelko.

The latest move toward a lessening of tensions was disclosed on the same day that the two superpowers traded bitter words about Afghanistan. Friday was the sixth anniversary of the Soviet invasion of that country.

In a written statement, Reagan accused Moscow of adopting "barbaric methods of waging war." In Moscow, the news agency Tass accused the United States and its allies of unleashing "a bloody undeclared war against the people and the lawful government of the Democratic Republic of Afghanistan."

Not since Richard Nixon did it in 1972 has an American president talked to the Soviet people on television. Reagan addressed the Soviets in a November radio speech that was broadcast by the Voice of America. It was heard clearly on some frequencies in Moscow and Leningrad but was jammed on others.

"By mutual agreement, President Reagan and General Secretary Gorbachev will exchange New Year's greetings," said the announcement. "The president will address the people of the Soviet Union and the general secretary will address the people of the United States on Jan. 1, 1986."

Speakes said both addresses will be about five minutes long, and the subject is "basically open." But both leaders are expected to extend New Year's greetings "in the spirit of good relations," he said.

A network crew will record Reagan's speech today in his hotel suite here and a copy of the videotape will be delivered by an Air Force jet to Soviet diplomats in Washington, Speakes said. The Gorbachev videotape will be delivered to the U.S. Embassy in Moscow and carried by diplomatic courier to Washington.

Neither Reagan nor Gorbachev speaks the other's language, so each will speak in his native tongue and written translations will be provided with the videotapes, Speakes said.

Florida fruit groves nipped by cold wave

Florida citrus growers reported scattered damage to fruit Friday after a second night of record-cold winds blowing from the north. The great Lakes states are under a heavy blanket of snow.

Power firm wins rate hike

BOISE (AP) — Pacific Power and Light Co. has been granted a $680,000 rate hike that amounts to less than half of what the company sought in increased revenues from its northern Idaho customers.

The Idaho Public Utilities Commission on Friday authorized a 10 percent increase for the Portland-based utility that serves residents in the Sandpoint area. The rate increase is effective Jan. 1.

The company had sought a $1.49 million increase, citing hikes in operating expenses and the phasing of a contract with Washington Water Power Co. for lower cost power to the Sandpoint area.

Rebels claim truce broken

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Leftist rebels on Friday accused the government of widespread violations of their holiday truce and said they no longer felt obligated to remain "in a passive position."

"The rebels' vaguely worded" statement on clandestine Radio Venceremos did not spell out their intentions, but said they would not carry out acts of sabotage during the Dec. 24-Jan. 2 cease-fire.

There were no confirmed reports of fighting Friday, although accusations were exchanged of violations during the first three days of the scheduled 10-day truce period.

Cleric calls for release

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A Shiite Muslim cleric influential among Shiite militants loyal to Iran called Friday for the prompt release of all foreign and Lebanese hostages as a "new year present."

Sheikh Mohammed Hussein Fadlallah's strongest appeal for the release of the hostages, four Frenchmen, a Briton, an Italian and scores of Lebanese Muslims and Christians held in Lebanon, came in a sermon he delivered at a crowded Shiite mosque in the suburb of Bir-el-Abed.

Governor releases inmates

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Gov. Dick Rich on Friday declared an emergency in South Carolina's overcrowded prisons and ordered a sentence rollback of 90 days that is likely to mean freedom for about 150 inmates.

The order applies only to prisoners convicted of non-violent offenses, and corrections officials have estimated it will take three to four weeks to process the paperwork. The move was requested earlier this month by the state Department of Corrections under a 1983 law designed to prevent federal intervention.

Rich said his crime bill pending in the General Assembly would move some non-violent inmates back to local facilities and stiffen penalties for violent offenders.

Iowa bank official resigns

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Iowa Banking Superintendent Tom Huston, who closed 11 banks this year and predicted that 1986 will be just as bad, resigned Friday, citing the increased demands of the job because of the state's financial crunch.

"The job is more and more demanding in itself," Huston said in an interview. "It takes more and more time. I have no more time to be able to give it. I've done my stint."

Peru seizes U.S. oil firm

LIMA, Peru (AP) — President Alan Garcia said Friday the government was taking over the assets in Peru of Beico Petroleum Corp. because the New York-based company refused to accept new conditions for exploration and production.

Garcia and the Los Angeles-based Occidental Petroleum Corp. also announced they had reached an agreement in principle under which Occidental would give up its lucrative tax breaks in Peru in return for access to new oil fields.

believed to be involved at Vienna's Schwechat airport and four or five at Rome. Two in Vienna were wounded and captured after a chase and a running gun battle with police that ended six miles from the airport.

Rome officials said two terrorists were captured, but Interior Ministry spokesman Achille Togni said a man identified as a terrorist may have been an innocent bystander.

Victor Simpson, en route to New York with his family on a visit, and two other men, Togni said, were hospitalized with injuries. His wife, Daniela, who works for a Time magazine, escaped injury.

Mrs. Simpson, 40, said, "I was walking the dog-out-by-the-terminal when I saw the men. They were inside doing the check-in. Suddenly there was a shattering noise as if something were collapsing. And then there were machine-gun bursts. I saw a machine-gun burst.

"I rushed in to screams and cries and saw my husband dripping blood from his hand and my son on the floor shot in the stomach. They are both okay. But I lost my 11-year-old daughter."

Witnesses said one terrorist, bleeding from the mouth, was captured while crawling across the blood-stained floor and trying to hide under the bodies of his victims. Police had to protect him from survivors who wanted to lynch him, said a priest.

The Italian news agency ANSA identified the terrorist as Tigriwi Abregren, 25, and said he was hospitalized in serious condition with a chest wound.

In Spain, a man who said he belonged to the renegade PLO faction headed by Abu Nidal claimed responsibility for the attacks in a telephone call to the Malaga radio station. There was no way to confirm the call.

Togni said the terrorists appeared to be North African. ANSA quoted police as saying they were 20 to 25 years old and two carried Moroccan passports.

One of the surviving terrorists told police: "I am a Palestinian fighter," ANSA said.

CBS News quoted sources as saying a note written in Arabic and signed "The martyrs of Palestine" was found on the body of one of the terrorists. According to CBS, the note read: "To Zionists: We will violate your people, your heritage, your tradition. The war has begun."

CBS said police traced the gunmen to a Rome boarding house and have linked them to recent terrorist attacks in Rome. ANSA quoted police as saying the terrorists registered at a local hotel in early December.

Israel's ambassador in Washington, Meir Rosenne, told CBS Morning News he believed the Palestine Liberation Organization was responsible for the attacks. PLO officials at headquarters in Tunisia, and in Vienna, Rome and Amsterdam condemned the attacks.

In Israel, Prime Minister Shimon Peres said Israel "will fight in every way against terrorists and those who send them."

Anna Lisa del Grand, a 22-year-old Italian, told the AP she was checking in on a TWA flight to New York when the terrorists ran into the airport.

"They were jumping up and down and they were shouting. I was in a semicircle," she said. She fell to the ground and saw a wounded terrorist flash a victory signal with his fingers as he died, she said.

In Vienna, the terrorists rushed into the departure lounge and began firing indiscriminately 90 minutes before an El Al flight was scheduled to take off.

A 50-year-old Viennese man and an unidentified person died.

Pope John Paul II and most Western European nations condemned the attack. White House spokesman Larry Speakes said, "We deplore it and hope the criminals are apprehended and punished."

On Tuesday, Dutch police reported an Interpol warning that a civilian airport might be a terrorist target during the Christmas holidays.

Italian authorities said airport security had already been stepped up following a July 1 bombing at Leonardo da Vinci Airport that injured 12 people.

Rome witnesses said the terrorists wore masks partially covering their faces.

Probe turns to comet

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (AP) — In a "fairly tricky operation," the Pioneer 12 probe completed a space prouette Friday, turning its electronic eyes toward Halley's comet.

Pioneer 12, which has studied the atmosphere of Venus for seven years, can now send data from the comet back to Earth, said Peter Walker of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Ames Research Center.

The probe rotated 118 degrees during a 14-hour operation that began Thursday night, Waller said.

Temperature at the probe is 160 million miles from Earth, it takes 30 minutes for a message to get there and back, Waller said. Flight engineers at Ames first sent several messages to the probe to make sure it was ready for the maneuver, then sent the commands for the "big turn" in four parts, he said.

"You turn it a quarter of the way and then you measure to make sure it went where you wanted it to," Waller said. "It's aiming to within a quarter of a degree of where they wanted, which is pretty good."

The commands directed small thrusters on the probe, changing the direction its ultraviolet spectrometer is pointing. The spectrometer will observe ultraviolet light emitted and reflected by Halley's comet and will send the data back to Earth, where scientists can piece-together images of the comet.

Longer halt in testing sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two U.S. peace activists met with Soviet diplomats in Washington on Friday to urge Kremlin leader Mikhail Gorbachev to extend by six months his unilateral moratorium on the testing of nuclear weapons.

"A continuation of your moratorium for six months would allow us time to organize, publicize, and do everything it takes to make the test ban a national issue in the United States," John Felice said in a letter to Gorbachev which he delivered to the Soviet Embassy in Washington.

"We believe that an end to all nuclear testing would enhance the security of all nations," the letter said.

When Gorbachev announced the moratorium last Aug. 6, the Reagan Administration declined to take part, saying it was a scheduled break in Soviet weapons testing rather than a valid bid to ease the arms race.

More Miami officers arrested

MIAMI (AP) — Four policemen were arrested Friday — three of them on murder charges — in the drownings of three suspected drug dealers who jumped into a river as the officers allegedly tried to steal a half-million-dollar cocaine shipment.

The arrests came one day after two ex-officers from the scandal-ridden police department were charged with keeping nearly $2 million worth of cocaine from the city's largest drug bust.

The latest arrests brought to eight the number of present and former policemen arrested during an internal investigation into police corruption. Another former policeman is being sought.

An additional three officers have been relieved of duty, including two in connection with the theft of $150,000 from a police vice department safe, police said. One of them was later reinstated.

Police raid bookies' operation

EMERYVILLE, Calif. (AP) — Four people were arrested when police raided a $100,000-a-week bookmaking operation in a condominium development. Two blocks from police headquarters, investigators reported.

The raid, conducted Thursday under a search warrant, came after police undercover operators placed bets on two National Football League games — Denver vs. Seattle and the Rams against the Raiders.

"We won both games," said police detective Randy Horton. "These guys owe us $400, which we'll never collect."

Heart recipient fighting fever

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Mary Lund, the first woman to receive an artificial heart, remained in a light coma and had a fever Friday but doctors said her condition remained stable 10 days after the implant.

"Mrs. Lund's neurological state is unchanged since Wednesday," Dr. Frederick Gabel of Abbott Northwestern Hospital said in a taped statement. He did not give Mrs. Lund's temperature or say when the fever developed, and hospital officials did not return repeated telephone calls.

Meanwhile, Dr. Robert Jarvik, who invented the Jarvik-7 artificial heart, said he assisted in Mrs. Lund's implant, the first in involving a scaled-down version of the heart implanted in seven men since 1983. He did not say how he assisted.

No apparent rise in death rate

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Servicemen who were exposed to Agent Orange during the Vietnam War are dying at about the same rate as the general population, according to the latest figures from a 20-year study of people who worked with the herbicide.

"We find no reason for anxiety about Agent Orange," said Dr. William Wolfe, who heads the epidemiology department at the School of Aerospace Medicine at Brooks Air Force Base.

"We've learned that these people do not appear to be dying at any increased rates or of unusual causes," Wolfe said Thursday.

Since the Air Force began keeping figures in 1982, 55 servicemen, or 4.4 percent, of the 1,257 in the study group died, about what would be expected of a group of similarly aged people, Wolfe said.

Social Security fund use under scrutiny

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of a House Social Security panel plans to hold hearings next year on whether Congress should take away the Treasury secretary's power to manage Social Security trust funds.

Rep. James R. Jones, D-Okla., said he is taking the initiative in light of a recent General Accounting Office report which claims that Treasury Secretary James A. Baker III may have violated the law by dipping into Social Security trust funds to keep the federal government running while Congress struggled with the debt ceiling crisis.

However, GAO Comptroller Charles A. Bowsher, in a letter to Jones, who chairs the Ways and Means subcommittee on Social Security, said that Baker had not acted unreasonably.

The Bowsher letter, dated Dec. 5, said that the Treasury secretary's actions appear in retrospect to have been in violation of the requirements of the Social Security Act, but cannot say that the secretary acted unreasonably given the extraordinary situation in which he was operating.

Jones had asked Bowsher, head of the congressional watchdog agency, for a GAO opinion on the legality and propriety of Baker's management of the Federal Old Age and Survivors Insurance Trust Fund and Federal Disability Insurance Trust Fund during the government's October 1984 and September-November 1985 public debt ceiling crises.

This year Baker canceled $28 million worth of long-term bonds held by the Social Security trust funds to prevent the government from running out of borrowing authority, and similar actions were taken in 1984.

The GAO found that because the trust funds transactions did not increase the total amount of outstanding debt subject to the statutory limit, Baker "did not violate the statute's debt limit, and did not usurp the congressional power under the Constitution to borrow."

But it also found that to the extent that the trust funds' assets were kept uninvested to permit the payment of other obligations of the government or to restore cash balances, the "trust funds were being used to sustain the government's operations contrary to the statutory scheme."

"Even if this were legal, this procedure certainly gives the American people the impression that the Treasury Department views the Social Security trust funds as an open revolving cash fund that they can use for whatever purpose they like," Jones said.

The Oklahoma congressman said he wonders why Treasury waited until after the debt limit and deficit reduction bill attached to it, was debated by House-Senate conferees late in October to inform Congress that long-term reserve would be cashed in unless a debt ceiling extension was passed.

Budget cuts seen hampering care for veterans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration will cut into "the very meat and bones" of the nation's health care for military veterans if it wins budget cuts of $1 billion in fiscal 1987 and more in following years, a congressman close to the issue said Friday.

The administration's general plan, though unstated in public, seems to be to cut back Veterans Administration staff facilities and services at a time when the number of elderly veterans is growing, "and then hope the veterans will not use the system," said Rep. Bob Edgar, D-Pa.

Edgar, chairman of the House Veterans Affairs Committee's subcommittee on hospitals and health care, said he was sending a letter to President Reagan asking for a public clarification of "behind-the-scenes" VA budget-cutting plans.

His comments followed Friday's publication in The New York Times of what the newspaper said were confidential documents detailing some of the cuts in the draft version of the budget Reagan will submit to Congress next month.

The story did not include a total figure for VA medical services in fiscal 1987. But congressional sources, speaking on condition they not be named, said the draft figure is $2.1 billion, down from $3.1 billion in the current fiscal year and down more than $1 billion from the $10.11 billion the administration estimated one year ago for fiscal 1987, which begins next October.

"It will have quite a devastating impact, not just in 1987 but through 1991," Edgar said of the proposal, which is part of the administration's broader effort to drastically reduce the federal budget deficit, which was $211.3 billion in fiscal 1985.

He called such a VA reduction "a major shift in the direction of health care for America's veterans," and he said he was asking Reagan for a full public explanation so there could be an open discussion of any such move.

His subcommittee will hold hearings on the matter after Congress reconvenes next month, with or without VA administrator Harry Walters, who was forbidden by the White House to testify at such a hearing last fall, Edgar said.

Record shows suspect offered major secrets

WASHINGTON (AP) — The classified transcript of a House hearing that Randy Jeffries allegedly offered to the Soviet Union dealt with some highly sensitive U.S. secrets, including the Navy's ability to communicate with submarines, according to a declassified version of the hearing.

The declassified version also indicates that it included testimony on the relative strength of U.S. and Soviet nuclear weapons and the capability of U.S. coastal radar to track Soviet cruise missiles.

A federal magistrate ruled earlier in the week that the federal government had proved probable cause to charge Jeffries, a 26-year-old Washington courier, with espionage. Jeffries is being held without bail pending a grand jury proceeding.

Jeffries was a messenger with Acme Reporting Co. when he was arrested last week and charged with offering to sell transcripts of classified congressional hearings to the Soviets.

Acme has a contract with the House Armed Services Committee and several other committees to provide written transcripts of hearings when House staff reporters are unavailable.

In hearings earlier this week before U.S. Magistrate Jean P. Dwyer, FBI agent Michael Giglia testified that the transcripts involved in the Jeffries case came from a House Armed Services subcommittee.

Sources who declined to be named Friday identified the panel as the procurement-and-military nuclear systems subcommittee and said the session was held last Feb. 26.

The hearing was classified "top secret," indicating it dealt with highly sensitive subjects.

"That's unusual," said one source. "Most Capitol Hill hearings are usually only classified secret."

A declassified version of the hearing was released by the full committee as part of the documentation supporting the Pentagon's fiscal 1986 budget request.

Parts of the publicly released version were withheld by the subcommittee.

Investigators pursue mall crash probe

CONCORD, Calif. (AP) — Funerals for three of the four people who were killed when a plane smashed into a crowded shopping center were held Friday as federal investigators interviewed witnesses for clues to the crash's cause. Services were held for veteran pilot James M. Graham, 67, of Oakland and his passengers, Brian Ward Oliver, 23, of Alamo and John F. Lewis, 48, of Oakland.

The woman, who died Christmas Eve, was pinned under falling sheets of hot metal as she watched children visit the mall's Santa on Monday night. She had gone to the mall to have a larger diamond set in her engagement ring. Investigators have been sifting through two truckloads of aircraft wreckage. Chief investigator Donald Lorente said he couldn't find any sign of equipment malfunction. Aircraft engines will be sent to Teledyne Continental Motors in Mobile, Ala., for tests to see if crankshafts were turning at the moment of impact, he said. A $10 million lawsuit was filed Thursday on behalf of one of the injured. Attorneys for Janet Plowman, 25, of Napa, allege negligent operation of both the six-seat Beechcraft Baron and the shopping center. The suit names Graham's estate, the plane's manufacturers, mall owners and department store owner R.H. Macy's Corp. as defendants. Officials at Alta Bates Hospital in Berkeley said Ms. Plowman was in good condition Friday, with burns on her face, hands and feet.

California grocery strike may continue into '86

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A violent, 7½-week-old strike-lockout at Southern California supermarkets seemed likely Friday to stretch into 1986 after meat cutters refused to join Teamsters in ratifying tentative settlements that included concessions to employers. "I think we got railroaded," meat cutter Ernie McGinnis said after he cast his ballot against the contract Thursday night in Los Angeles. "I'm very angry about it." Members of six Southern California locals of the meat cutters union, the United Food and Commercial Workers, rejected the pact by a margin of 55 percent to 45 percent. The vote was 2,040 against the agreement to 1,640 in favor. However, the other union involved in the bitter dispute, the Teamsters, overwhelmingly approved a separate tentative settlement that called for them to make fewer concessions than the butchers. Some Teamsters reported to work Friday, but they refused to make deliveries at stores where meat cutters had picket lines, a union official said. During the strike, pickets were marching only at Vons supermarkets. The two unions struck together on Nov. 5, pledging that neither would settle until both had agreements. It

Pair waive extradition in slayings

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A couple wanted in connection with the killings of three Domino's Pizza employees in two states on Friday waived extradition to California, where they face murder and robbery charges in one of the deaths. Mitchell Carlton Sims, 25, who once managed a Domino's in South Carolina, and his girlfriend, Ruby Padgett, 20, did not contest the extradition during a brief court appearance.

They were to be returned to California late Friday and will be arraigned Monday on murder and robbery charges in Glendale Municipal Court, said Glendale Police Sgt. Tom Theate. The two were charged with murder in the Dec. 10 slaying of a Domino's deliveryman in Glendale, a suburb northeast of downtown Los Angeles. Sims also has been charged in the Dec. 23 robbery and slaying of two workers at a Domino's outlet in Hanahan, S.C. Ms. Padgett has not been charged, but authorities say she is wanted for questioning.

Order verdict may be close

SEATTLE (AP) — Attorneys in the federal racketeering trial against The Order were told Friday to report to court at 9 a.m. Monday, apparently to await verdicts from the jury after about 55 hours of deliberation. The jury quit deliberations at 2:45 p.m. Friday, court officials said. Lawyers in the case said they were told jurors indicated they were near verdicts on all 11 counts charged against the 10 defendants. The all-white jury of eight women and four men received the case late Dec. 16. They did not work last weekend and took a day off for Christmas, but worked later than usual Thursday, retiring then at 6:10 p.m. Attorneys said they did not read anything significant in the length of the jury's deliberations, given the length and complexity of the trial, which began Sept. 9.

Vollmer, McClusky launch bids for mayor

DOUG VOLLMER
Not a competitive situation

By ANNETTE CARY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — At least two Twin Falls City councilmembers, Mary McClusky and Doug Vollmer, say they are interested in becoming the city's next mayor.

The new council is expected to choose a mayor from among its ranks at its first meeting in 1986, scheduled for Jan. 6.

McClusky does not know yet if she will nominate herself, she said Thursday. However, she said she was thinking about it and had not ruled out the possibility that another councilmember would nominate her.

"Anyone who is a senior member, I think, would want to be (mayor)," McClusky said. She will begin her third four-year term in January, after winning more votes than any other of the nine candidates running for office in November.

Interested in running, she said Thursday. "There's nothing wrong with two or three councilmembers wanting to be the mayor," she said. "That's normal."

"It's not a situation where we are competing, but who can be effective and who can spend the time," Vollmer said. In addition to him and Mary, councilmember Gale Kleinkopf has also been considered a possible candidate for the job, Vollmer said. Kleinkopf could not be reached for comment Thursday or Friday.

If Vollmer's interest in the position creates "bad feelings," he will "back away," Vollmer said. "However, it works out to my benefit. I'm not making a great big play for it. It is there, and I am available."

Although Vollmer's business has kept him busy during the last year, he said he could take the time to be mayor. "I'm not making a great big play for it. It is there, and I am available."

committee assignments, and the mayor can assign issues to the councilmember in charge of the matter, he said.

Vollmer has served on the council since 1983, the same year that councilmembers Jack Miller and Erik Anderson were elected. Besides McClusky, only Kleinkopf — who was appointed to fill a vacancy in 1982 — has served on the council longer. Anderson and Miller both said Thursday that their business responsibilities would keep them too busy in the coming year to consider being mayor.

Since Mayor Emery Petersen's defeat in the November council election, councilmembers have considered splitting council leadership duties between a council chairperson, who would conduct meetings, and a mayor, who would perform ceremonial functions.

However, that idea was abandoned when councilmembers found that Idaho law prohibits the splitting of duties in towns such as Twin Falls that use a city manager form of government.

Mayors traditionally serve for two years. However, the law does permit the council to elect a new mayor in "interim" if that is what the majority of the members want to do, City Attorney Shane Bengoetche said.

The three senior members of the council were interested in becoming mayor in 1983. McClusky voted for herself. Councilmember John Peterson, who did not seek re-election in November, withdrew his name after he was "nominated" and abstained from voting. Petersen won the five remaining votes.

Duties of the mayor include making committee assignments, presiding over meetings, acting as the spokesperson for the city and performing ceremonial duties such as cutting ribbons.

Tim Ridinger is hoping to attract new businesses to Shoshone when he takes the reins of the city next week as mayor

Old town finds youth in mayor-elect

By JANE BUCKWAY
Times-News correspondent

SHOSHONE — At 29, Shoshone's mayor-elect Tim Ridinger is the Magic Valley's youngest mayor.

Ironically, Ridinger, also one of the youngest mayors in the state, will take office in the oldest Magic Valley town Jan. 7. Founded in 1862, only the Wood River Valley settlements are older than 103-year-old Shoshone.

Ridinger, who ran for the mayoral post after serving a term on the city council, said Friday he welcomes the opportunity to serve his community.

He was raised in Lincoln County at Dietrich and graduated from Dietrich High School. After earning a bachelor's degree in business management and real estate from Boise State College, Ridinger and his wife Jenny returned to Shoshone.

Since 1980, he has worked in the family business, Mervyn Ridinger and Sons, a hay trucking operation.

"I like Lincoln County and chose to come here to live," he said.

A hay buyer and transporter, he said although the agricultural economy of the area is depressed at present, "there will always be a future in agriculture. We have to have agricultural production, and I look for things to improve."

Ridinger said he enjoyed his four years on the city council and learned a great deal from the experience.

"In a small town there is opportunity for a lot of people to be in local government, on school boards, highway boards and others," he said. "Everyone can and should be involved."

Ridinger said his primary goals for Shoshone are twofold: keep the city operating "in the black" and attract new business or a small industry to the area.

Historically, Shoshone has been the geographic and often the developmental and transportation center of the Magic Valley.

Ridinger said, the town still offers excellent access to transportation routes, both highway and railroad. And, he said, people in this traditionally agricultural area are willing to work for some type of additional growth.

"People here are enthusiastic about civic improvement and work together to help the community. Look what they did for the school last summer," he said, referring to a project that used volunteer labor and donated materials to make much-needed improvements to the town's deteriorating schools.

He added he hopes to be able to use that civic commitment to help attract new business to town.

Other resources Shoshone can offer are good water supplies, available housing and an available workforce, he said.

"Right now, most young people leave town to find work and many people who live here drive out of town to work. Even a business with 20 to 50 jobs would really help the town," he said.

Ridinger sees a need for the small towns of the area to work together to attract new growth.

"A new business in Shoshone would help Gooding as well as the towns in this county, and a new business like the prison in Gooding, would help us," he said.

"Small towns are very competitive and often isolate themselves, but we need to cooperate to bring in new business."

Ridinger said Shoshone's city budget is in good shape and he wants to keep it that way.

He said he would favor giving local governments, cities and counties, more control over tax levies and services.

"I'm not saying taxes need to be raised. I just think local people should control the taxes and the services, not state government," he said.

Cover won't seek another county term

By PAT MARCANTONIO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A pending lawsuit against Twin Falls County over the jail wasn't the reason Ann Cover decided not to seek re-election this fall, after 11 years of being a county commissioner.

"It's just time for somebody else. You can go on for so long and then there needs to be some new ideas, new thoughts," says the 69-year-old Cover, chairman of the three-member Board of Commissioners.

She says she wanted to spend more time with her children, who are residing in Arizona, Utah, California and Oregon — and have more time for herself.

Her decision not to run again was made before two former jail inmates filed a lawsuit Oct. 22 against the county and the commissioners over alleged inadequate conditions at the jail, Cover says.

In the lawsuit, the inmates claim the 70-year-old jail on the fourth floor of the Courthouse is unsafe and overcrowded. They have asked the court to order the county to reduce the jail population, close the jail and order the commissioners to begin taking steps to build a new jail.

Because of the lawsuit, which will go to trial Jan. 7, she can't say much about the jail, she adds. But she did say one of the biggest disappointments in her career as a commissioner was the failure of a $6.2 million bond issue March 2 to finance the construction of a new county jail and law enforcement building.

...time for somebody else

"The voters said, 'We don't want a new jail,'" she says. Throughout the years, there have been improvements to the facility, but with a 70-year-old building, "you live with it."

Moritz board ends consolidation plan

By DAVID LEWIS
Times-News correspondent

SUN VALLEY — Talks over the consolidation of Blaine County's two hospitals were called off last week by Sun Valley's Moritz Community Hospital Board of Trustees.

Hughes Brown, chairman of the Moritz board, said the trustees decided to end the discussions they initiated earlier this year because they believe the directors of the Blaine County Medical Center in Halley are not committed to consolidation and because "piecemeal" efforts to share services will not be productive for both institutions.

"They don't feel consolidation is best for the community," Brown said Friday.

Last fall, the county board of trustees rejected a proposal by the Sun Valley board to jointly manage the two hospitals as a first step toward consolidation.

Following the rejection, the two boards began an uneasy set of meetings intended to work out differences and eventually bring about consolidation.

The result was an agreement to find areas where the two can share services to cut costs while studying the possibility of consolidation.

In a letter to the Blaine County hospital board last week, however, the Moritz board said sharing services would have "marginal benefit to both hospitals" and would be "fragile and short-lived without a commitment by you to a complete consolidation."

Brown said the sharing of services would save only about a combined $10,000 for the hospitals and is not worth pursuing.

"It would just be more trouble than it was worth," he said.

Brown said the primary purpose of the letter was to clear up what he said was a misunderstanding by the county board that the Moritz board had agreed to give up compelling against the Halley hospital.

First area baby of 1986 will get 'potluck' shower

By JANE ROBINSON
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The first baby of the New Year at Magic Valley Regional Medical Center will not have an all-expense-paid trip to Mazatlan, a new car, or boxes of disposable diapers. But the parents' opportunities will be limited to a "potluck" shower.

A staff of 25 nurses will personally deliver their own bundles of joy. Handmade gifts come from each nurse — to the first baby of 1986, the first time the center has done so.

While merchants in many cities shower the first baby of each New Year with gifts and certificates, it has never been a tradition in Twin Falls.

So the O.B. staff took matters into their own hands, giving birth to the notion that no New Year's baby should enter the world empty-handed.

"Each nurse has been busy with her own projects for the last two months. But the staff will do something special," said MVRMC nurse Carol Erbe. Each nurse has been busy with her own projects for the last two months. Erbe said the gifts will be ready by Jan. 1. See BABY on Page A6

Sinclair may fill board term

By JANE ROBINSON
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Oriette Sinclair, former Republican National Committee woman and manager of Sen. Steve Symms's Twin Falls office, may be appointed in January to fill the unexpired term of Dr. Jack McNeess on the Twin Falls School Board.

To date, Sinclair is the only resident in the Harrison School District showing an interest in the vacant board seat.

McNeess, an optometrist in Twin Falls and Ketchum, resigned Dec. 10, citing personal reasons. His resignation will be effective Jan. 14, when the board is expected to appoint a successor to serve through June. The seat will be up for election in the regular May 20 school trustee elections and will be for a three-year term.

Sinclair, 64, has four grown children, including daughter Jan Johanson, who teaches at O'Leary Junior High School.

The former vice chairwoman of the state Republican Party said the decision to place her name in contention was her own, and she was not encouraged by either her children or Symms, R-Idaho.

"I haven't talked to anyone about it," she said Friday. "I'm interested in the welfare of the school system. And I decided if you're not willing to serve, you have no reason to say anything."

Sinclair said if appointed, she has "no axes to grind" and no agenda to fulfill and that she would be running for election in May.

"I realize it's not going to be an easy job," she said. "I think the main concern right now is just to keep the schools afloat until the economy gets better."

Chairman Gene Champin said the board will meet in executive session Jan. 13 to consider McNeess's replacement along with other personnel matters.

Eden residents air ideas about dog control

EDEN — The Eden City Council held a public hearing recently to determine how best to control the dogs which are a nuisance to area residents.

City Clerk Edith Ull said Eden has no more problems with dogs than any other city, but the problem is different here because of the "almost county atmosphere" of a city the size of Eden.

She said people often come to town with their dogs in their pickups and allow the dogs to run loose in the city. Also, some unrestricted dogs do not belong to people who live just outside the city limits, she said.

Parishoners' creativity keeps Catholic church doors open

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — Christmas arrived with special joy for the 300 members of Sacred Heart Roman Catholic Church, a parish that nearly had to close because its budget couldn't staff it with a full-time priest.

A creative alternative has kept Sacred Heart open and made Ken George, pastor, and his wife, Rose, financial, practical and spiritual leaders of the parish since summer.

Closing it was my first choice," said the Rev. Kenneth Poylich, bishop of the Lansing Diocese, which includes the Flint area. "But this particular parish was doing some very creative things and they didn't want to quit. I didn't want to discourage them. I think it's working."

So does Douglas Gauthier, a 12-year member of Sacred Heart whose wife and five children, also worship there.

"We're probably having more activity now than we normally do," said Gauthier. "The prospect of closing the church really kind of made me sad," he said. "We were wondering where we'd go to church. Sacred Heart was the parish we wanted."

Gauthier said he and other parishioners hope the bishop will make Berger and Robertson's appointment at the inner-city church permanent.

"I think we're very fortunate in getting Pat and Ken," he said, noting the congregation was growing.

Poylich said nuns, deacons and lay Catholics are leading other U.S. churches, so he was willing to try it at Sacred Heart.

"There's a real priest shortage and I think it's all over," said Robertson, 29. "The most important thing to the people was to have the church community stay — and stay together."

The family lives in the 57-year-old church's small rectory, which normally would be occupied by a priest.

A 31-year-old Baltimore native, Berger left a New York Catholic seminary in 1980, shortly before he was to be ordained, because he did not want to remain celibate. He moved to Lansing to perform church work and met Robertson, and they

Berger would ask to be ordained if the Catholic Church allowed priests to marry. "I would be on the bishop's doorstep first thing," saying, "Here I am," he said.

The couple spend 10 percent of their time overseeing the church's $300,000 budget. Projects such as soup kitchen, upkeep of the parish and planning Sunday services with neighboring priests.

Ninety percent of their work is pastoral, Berger said. "There's not a whole lot of full-time priests here could do that we don't do," he said, except hear confessions, give communion or administer other sacraments.

Berger said he doesn't think parishioners hesitate to seek his or Robertson's guidance because they are not priests.

"You put yourself in the position of ministering to people, and no matter whether you wear a collar or not, people are going to tell you what they want to tell you," he said.

Although the job has been hard work, with calls in the middle of the night, Berger said it has been fulfilling.

There are also joyous things. "I'm glad to be here," he said. "I have just as much going on here as any other parish."

Israel approves new BYU center, but prohibits missionary work

JERUSALEM (AP) — The Israeli government, easily defeating a no-confidence motion, on Tuesday rejected demands to stop construction of a Mormon center near the Mount of Olives but vowed that no missionary work would be carried out there.

The official statement, made by Energy Minister Moshe Shalun, was the first time the government had taken a position on the issue since controversy erupted over the Brigham Young University study center six months ago. It was a clear victory for the Mormon faithful.

The government's decision on the no-confidence motion sponsored by the ultra-Orthodox Agudat Israel party, despite the absence of Prime Minister Shimon Peres, who was attending a Christmas-Eve reception in Bethlehem.

Only 10 members of the 120-member Parliament signed their hands in support of the motion to oust the government.

The religious group claimed the seven-story, 100,000-sq-ft center would become a missionary center for Jews to the Mount of Olives.

Rabbi Meir Kahane, who charged in a speech that Jerusalem was "under attack" to ease the licensing process, said the government should not allow a religious party legislator to be expelled from the chamber. Shalun said Israel had no legal means of stopping the building.

Only the government-sponsored missionary activity and will be active, that it does not happen," he said. BYU officials had signed a commitment that no proselytizing would be conducted at the facility.

Shalun also disclosed that Israel's Foreign Ministry last year recommended approval of the university's building applications because of the political climate created by the Mormon community in the United States, Israel's main ally.

The Israeli media said former President Gerald Ford and several congressmen had contacted the Israeli government to express concern over the anti-Mormon campaign.

The annual $10-million BYU-Knesset Budget Committee has been under construction for more than a year, following a 12-year struggle by the Provo, Utah, university to buy land and obtain the needed permits.

Opposition began in Mount Scopus, the holy site where the Jews were expelled by the Romans in 70 A.D. The six-acre plot on Mount Scopus, near the Mount of Olives, has a panoramic view of ancient Jerusalem.

Aquadat Israel's Avraham Shapira said Mormon proselytizing is the essence of the anti-Jewish campaign whose purpose is to destroy Jewish souls and bring them to Christianity.

"For hundreds of years Jews were persecuted and became Christians to save their lives," Shapira said. "The focus and center of missionary activity is the University officials acknowledged that proselytizing is a major tenet of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, as the Mormons are formally known. The church's teaching that the law of the land in every country is a principle of equal weight.

Book probes Brigham Young's life Church policy holds up baptism

VISALIA, Calif. (AP) — Mormons may wince at the family discussions Brigham Young had with some of his 65 wives, but a history professor describes his biography of the church leader as accurate and sympathetic.

Newell Bringhurst wrote "Brigham Young and the Expanding American Frontier," a series of American biographies issued by a Boston publishing company.

"The books are mostly about exponents, their wives or other political figures from the East Coast," said Bringhurst, whose book was distributed recently in college bookstores. "But they're not just biographies. They're all tied to a theme."

Young serves as an architect of the expanding American frontier, starting with his birth in Vermont in 1801 and spanning his pioneering role in church and Western settlement in the 1840s to his death in 1877.

"I use a lively, anecdotal style," said Bringhurst, a history instructor at College of the Sequoias in Visalia, 170 miles north of Los Angeles. "I tried to bring out the human interest. The man had 55 wives, and 57 children. As you can imagine, there were some highly complex interpersonal relations that developed to keep everything organized."

Young either was or became a master of organization under the circumstances, Bringhurst concluded.

"This shows up in other things, too," he said. "Even his detractors admit he directed the best organized mass migration in American history."

Bringhurst, a lapsed Mormon, conceded that his description of family relationships might upset devout members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

"Brigham Young was a prophet of God in the church, and I'm not sure how the broad spectrum of church members will take the book," he said.

Of Young's many wives, 16 bore his children. Many of the wives were women of ill repute, Young gave his name and protection.

"They weren't wives in any other sense of the word," Bringhurst said.

Young reflected "a religious enthusiasm rare among other frontier Americans," he said. "He had a vision. Calling upon his Yankee ethics and hard work, striving for success, and a sense that all experience was part of God's will, Young supervised the creation of a new society that soon attracted thousands of followers from around the world."

GREER, N.Y. (AP) — Jim See spent two recent Sundays standing in front of a church holding a sign that read, "Help My Son Receive Baptism."

He said he didn't know what else to do after receiving word from the Rev. Thomas R. Stalt that his infant son's baptism was being delayed because of questions about whether See and his girlfriend were committed to Catholicism.

That stance has become more frequent within the church, which is resisting what Stalt calls "jifty baptisms."

"That's his personal feeling, and who left him in charge to say whether we're good Catholics anyway?" said See, who admits he doesn't go to church regularly. "The Bible says, 'Judge not, lest ye be judged.'"

The couple, both divorced Roman Catholics, have lived together for about five years and plan to marry next year, said 15-year-old See.

"That's not the issue here," See said. "The issue is a kid suffering because of a personal judgment."

Stalt and diocese officials say the baptism hasn't been delayed simply because See and Michelle King, 26, are not married or that they're both divorced and Ms. King hasn't received a "declaration of nullity" from the church for her first marriage.

Stalt, who is attending court out of wedlock and babies born to remarried couples have been baptized, associate director of liturgy for the U.S. Catholic Conference in Washington, agreed that the standard at Mother of Sorrows Church in this Rochester suburb is one that is becoming more frequent.

The days of someone being baptized, married and buried in one place were long ago, Krisman said. Priests recognize the changes in society and family life — for instance, four out of 10 U.S. Catholics are divorced — and are putting more emphasis on commitment, he said.

There are no checklists from the bishops or the Vatican for who can and can't be baptized, said Krisman. "It's a local decision."

For See (pronounced Say) and Ms. King, that's been the problem since October, when they inquired about baptizing 2-month-old Kevin Michael See.

See said he and Ms. King had gone to a pre-baptism class and set the date for the baptism when Stalt inquired about the baptism. "It was the first time they had met the priest."

"That kind of got me going and I guess this whole thing was kind of a challenge," See said. "I told him I was going to go public and he said go ahead."

He said Ms. King was against the idea of pleading their case publicly.

The couple also has a 4-year-old son, Frank See, who was baptized by the Rev. Robert Winterborn in St. Anthony, about 15 miles from Rochester.

Catholic bishops grant indulgences via TV

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Roman Catholic bishops may grant plenary indulgences, or pardon the temporal punishment for sin, through radio and television, the Vatican announced.

The decree authorizing the broadcast indulgence, to be used only three times a year by people who can't get to a church, was issued by Cardinal Luigi Dadaquio, the Grand Penitentiary of the Holy See, and approved by Pope John Paul II, the Vatican said.

Under the church law, only the pope can extend plenary indulgences, while bishops normally can grant only partial indulgence.

precise meaning of time periods or terms people are supposed to serve for sins in purgatory — a state or place, as which the Roman Catholic church says those who have died in the grace of God expiate their sins by suffering.

The pope normally gives plenary indulgences twice a year, on Christmas and Easter, to those receiving his blessing in St. Peter's Square as well as those following the service through radio and television.

Black tribes hold peace talks

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Rival black tribes held peace talks Friday after at least 58 people were killed in fighting on Christmas. Anti-apartheid unrest erupted in five urban areas, and police said they shot three blacks dead.

In Johannesburg, lawyers for black activist Winnie Mandela said they will file a suit against Law and Order Minister Louis Te Grange challenging as "unreasonable" a state order banning her from her Soweto home.

Mrs. Mandela remained in Cape Town, where she went Monday after police threatened to rearrest her for defying the order. She visited her jailed husband, African National Congress guerrilla leader Nelson Mandela, in Polismoor prison for the fourth straight day.

Police killed the three blacks and wounded one other in the Cape province center of Strydomburg, one of five black or mixed-race urban districts hit by renewed outbreaks of rioting and arson Friday, police said.

Hussein, Assad will confer

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — King Hussein will go to Syria next week for the first time since 1979 for talks with President Hafez Assad, the royal palace said Friday, capping a reconciliation effort between the Arab neighbors.

Official Jordanian news media announced earlier Friday that Hussein would visit Assad in Damascus, the Syrian capital, on Saturday, but the royal palace later said the visit would occur next Monday.

Foreign official news agency, said the summit was delayed "following a telephone call" between Assad and Hussein. No reason for the change was announced, but Assad has been deeply involved in efforts to mediate an end to the civil war in Lebanon. Syria is trying to get the warring Lebanese factions to sign a peace pact before the end of the year.

Cuba wants defector arrested

MADRID, Spain (AP) — The Cuban government has asked Spain to arrest a defector whom Cuban diplomats tried to kidnap in December, the Europa Press news agency reported Friday. The independent agency quoted unidentified government sources as saying a written request was filed to the Spanish Foreign Ministry demanding the arrest of Manuel Antonio Sanchez Perez as a first step toward his extradition.

The Foreign Ministry has transferred the Cuban demand to the Justice Ministry, which normally handles such requests, Europa Press said. Sanchez Perez, a former Cuban vice minister of state planning, is being accused by the Cubans of stealing $500,000 in government money.

Gorbachev plugs testing halt

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev told foreign diplomats at a holiday gathering Friday that the United States should "follow the Soviet Union's good example" and halt nuclear testing.

The Kremlin campaign for a superpower test ban intensified in December with the approaching Jan. 1 expiration of the Soviet's unilateral moratorium on nuclear tests. Gorbachev said earlier this month the Kremlin would extend the moratorium in 1986 only if the United States joins the test ban.

The Communist Party chief opened his Kremlin address to the diplomats with new year greetings to the Soviet Union's socialist allies, to developing nations and to "countries which it is customary in modern political language to call the West."

Gorbachev said a solution in nuclear explosions would make 1986 "the year when people have mustered up enough common sense to rise above narrow, selfish motives and stop disfiguring their own planet."

Moscow began its test ban on Aug. 6, in commemoration of the 40th anniversary of the atomic bombing of Hiroshima, Japan.

Mexico indignant at museum robbery

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexicans, immensely proud of their ancient Indian cultures, rejected indignantly Friday to the theft of 144 priceless pre-Columbian artifacts from the National Museum of Anthropology and History.

Police X-rayed luggage at 55 airports and conducted spot searches at roadblocks, ports, railway stations and bus depots in hopes of finding the thieves or the relics they stole while the museum was closed Christmas Day.

Museum officials, who described the crime as one of the biggest "museum thefts ever, said all items taken were small and easily portable.

A worldwide alert was sent through Interpol, the Paris-based international police organization. The Foreign Ministry said it circulated a description of the stolen artifacts to friendly governments, asking them to cooperate in the search.

The theft of the centuries-old gold, jade and stone relics from Mexico's collection of Maya, Aztec and other Indian antiquities was discovered Christmas morning during a change of security shifts.

Because of the holiday and a delay in announcing the crime, the full impact did not hit local newspapers until Friday. Many carried multiple pages on developments or interviews with archaeologists and other cultural figures.

"Whoever ordered the robbery of the Anthropology Museum robbed from us all," read a headline in the cultural section of El Universal newspaper. The government newspaper El Nacional ran a banner headline saying, "The Inestimable Robbery Outrages the Nation."

"Infuriating Robbery," was the title of an editorial in El Universal, which said: "Among our historical memory, is an old acquaintance of Mexicans."

Excelsior newspaper quoted a senior police official as saying investigators were "baffled" at the ease with which the thieves worked, which indicated it might have been an inside job.

Col. Rafael Rocha Cordero, deputy director of the Federal Judiciary Police was quoted as saying that in less than three hours, two or four thieves plundered seven showcases in three exhibition rooms.

"They knew perfectly well how the place functioned. They had enough time to go through half the museum, which places suspicion on the guards, who were obliged to do the rounds every two hours," the newspaper quoted Rocha Cordero as saying.

Eight guards were being questioned but have not been charged. The attorney-general's office said Thursday they were not considered suspects.

The museum had no electronic detection devices and relied on guards, said Enrique Florescano, director of the National Institute of Anthropology and History.

Syria trades accusations with Israel

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Syria and Israel accused each other Friday of deliberately escalating tensions arising from Israeli spy flights and Syrian missiles in Lebanon.

Israeli Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin said Syria's purpose was to spark Israel's chances for making peace with Jordan. Syria's state media claimed Israel was trying to sabotage Syria's peacemaking efforts among warring Lebanese groups.

The latest exchanges in the five-week-old war of words followed Prime Minister Shimon Peres' disclosure on Thursday that Syria had sent mobile SAM-6 and SAM-8 missiles back into eastern Lebanon.

Rabin said Israel would continue intelligence-gathering flights over Palestinian and Lebanese guerrilla bases in Syrian-occupied eastern Lebanon despite the presence of the missiles.

Asked if Israel would take action against the missiles, Rabin told reporters, "Israel will reserve to itself the way, means and time to cope with this problem."

Israel radio quoted unnamed military sources as saying that Israel would not tolerate any restrictions on its surveillance flights over Lebanon.

Arafat needs rest

TUNIS, Tunisia (AP) — Palestine Liberation Organization chairman Yasser Arafat is recovering from an illness, but his doctor says he requires "many days of rest," according to the Palestinian news agency Wafa.

The agency was quoting Dr. Ashraf al-Kordi. Arafat recently was reported by a senior PLO official, Khalil Wazir, to have complained of severe pain caused by an inflammation.

Carlson passes Baylor to 21-7 upset of LSU

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Baylor quarterback Cody Carlson tossed scoring passes of 5 and 15 yards to lead the Bears to a 21-7 upset of 12th-ranked Louisiana State University in the 27th Annual Liberty Bowl Friday night.

Picked in the preseason to finish as low as seventh in the nine-team Southeastern Conference, the Bears capped a 9-3 season with their crushing victory over the Tigers as Baylor rolled up a 26-9 advantage in first downs.

"The loss was only the second of the year for LSU, a member of the Southeastern Conference, which completed the season with a 9-2-1 record. The Tigers' only score came on a Liberty Bowl-record 79-yard punt return by Norman Jefferson.

Baylor overcame the 7-0 deficit to lead 10-7 at the half, then throttled the Tiger offense for most of the second half as they put the contest away.

Clinging to a 13-7 edge, Carlson, who alternated with Tom Muecke at quarterback for the Bears, capped a 62-yard fourth-quarter march with a 15-yard scoring strike to split end John Simpson. Carlson then found Matt Clark alone in the end zone with a 2-point conversion pass as the Bears took command 21-7 with 10:42 remaining.

Carlson finished the contest hitting 9 of 12 pass attempts for 161 yards and the two TDs, while Muecke completed 9 of 18 passes for 113 yards.

Jefferson hauled in the Baylor punt at his own 21-yard line and found an alley down the left sideline. The Tiger punter shook off a pair of potential tacklers at the Bears' 30 to give LSU a 7-0 lead with 5:17 remaining in the opening quarter. Jefferson's run broke the old punt record of 63 yards set in 1963 by Maryland's Bob Smith against Tennessee.

ing Baylor from its own 14 to a first down at the LSU 8. Once again the Baylor year offense was stymied with the Bears settling for a 23-yard field goal by Syler, pushing their lead to 10-7.

The Baylor field goal drive was set up when cornerback Ron Francis, who recovered a Tiger fumble in the first quarter, intercepted a pass by LSU's Alan Wickersham at the Bears' 14.

The Bears upped their lead to 13-7 in the third quarter on a 35-yard field goal by Syler, but missed a chance to increase their lead in nine points later in the period when Syler was wide right on a 37-yard attempt.

The game drew 65,186 fans, the lowest attendance for a Liberty Bowl since 1967 when 35,654 attended North Carolina-State's 14-7 victory over Georgia.

Jets, Patriots feel this game will be decided in the trenches

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — The pits—the trenches—the light battleground where so many football games are won.

Several of the New York Jets and New England Patriots are including the line men who scratch and claw each other for every inch—believe their AFC wild-card game at Giants Stadium Saturday will come down to who does the better job blocking or avoiding being blocked.

"Pete Brock on Joe Klecko is the key matchup in this game," said Patriots running back Craig James, a 1,000-yard rusher this season.

Referring to the war between New England's center and the Jets' Pro Bowl nose tackle, "In all the times we've seen of the jets on defense, Klecko is the backfield. We can't let him get that kind of penetration."

Klecko punctuated one of his best seasons in a nine-year National Football League career with a superb performance against Cleveland last Sunday as the Jets clinched the homefield advantage for this game against their AFC East rival, which also finished 11-5.

Klecko, the only player ever voted to the Pro Bowl at three different positions (defensive end and tackle and nose tackle) had 62 tackles and 7½ sacks this season. Against the Browns, he was as much as much time in their backfield as Cleveland runners Kevin Mack and Earnest Byner.

"Against Cleveland," said Patriots guard Ron Woolen, "Klecko made a couple of hits in the backfield before anyone had a chance to stop him. It's a lot to destroy a line's confidence."

Klecko's fellow Pro Bowl lineman Mark Gastineau also was sensational in that game and the Patriots are leery of what that pair can do to stop an offense dead in its tracks.

New England's defense can be just as intimidating, led by Pro Bowl linebackers Andre Tippett and Steve Nelson. And the Jets' offensive line has been porous, with quarterback Ken O'Brien suffering 62 sacks.

"We know there's a bitter root to it—keep the defense off of Kenny to give him the time he needs," said Jets tackle Marvin Powell. "The Patriots come at you hard with a lot of blitzes, and it's always a punishing afternoon against them."

Jets center Joe Fields, who is bothered by a bruised chest and ribs, noted that, in uncomfortable weather, the play of the line takes on added importance.

"Both teams like to run, both teams have good running games, and in the cold, it's easier to keep the ball on the ground," said Fields. "That means you have to control the line of scrimmage and drive through your blocks."

Conditions figure to be chilly for the Jets' "O'Brien start," with temperatures in the low 30s. All of which means that James and Freeman McNeil, the Jets' 1,000-yard man, will carry the ball plenty.

"That will be fine with me," said McNeil, who has a bruised left knee but is expected to be healthier for this game than any in the second half of the season. "It's a challenge I'd welcome."

So would James, who along with Tony Collins gives the Patriots a backfield tandem at least equal to New York's McNeil-Johnny Hector combination.

"If it takes my running the ball 30 times to win, that's OK," said

James. If it comes down to a passing game, the Jets' O'Brien is the top-rated passer in the league and hit 25 scores. He threw only eight interceptions but fumbled 12 times and was nailed those 62 times.

Tony Eason, who began the season as No. 1 quarterback and then was replaced in Game 6 by Steve Grogan, returned when Grogan suffered a broken leg in a 16-13 overtime loss here. Eason wound up only 11th in the AP's but played well after a slow start.

"We're down to one game at a time and that, in itself, is a motivator," said Brock. "I don't think we have to look around for any other reasons."

Byner and Mack feel neglected

BEREA, Ohio (AP) — Cleveland Browns running back Earnest Byner and Kevin Mack are among the lesser known stars of the National Football League, even though their accomplishments this year rank them with two dynamic duo.

Larry Conka and Mercury Morris of the Miami Dolphins each rushed for 1,000 yards in 1972, and Franco Harris and Rocky Bleier duplicated the feat in 1976 with the Pittsburgh Steelers.

This NFL season, the Mack-Byner combination became the third in the league's history to author double 1,000-yard performances.

Mack and Byner are expected to be featured in the Cleveland offense, when Cleveland plays the Dolphins in an NFL playoff game in Miami on Jan. 4.

"This probably will be our best opportunity to be noticed, in the game coming up, because so many people will be watching," Byner said. "Kevin and I are happy with the way things happened and we're still trying to accomplish something ... we have something bigger coming up, and that's the game."

Byner, a 5-foot-10, 215-pound power runner from East Carolina, went over the 1,000-yard mark on the final play of Cleveland's 8-8 season in the 1984 10th-round draft choice, finished sixth in the American Football Conference with 1,002 yards in 244 carries, a 4.1 average.

Mack played one season with the Los Angeles Express of the United States Football League before joining Cleveland last summer. A 6-foot, 212-pounder from Clemson, Mack was the AFC's fourth-leading runner, gaining 1,104 yards in 222 carries, a 5.9-yard average.

Twin Falls entertains Madison tonight

TWIN FALLS — Mobility and depth will be the biggest problems the Madison Bobcats bring against the Twin Falls Bruins in the final Gem State Conference basketball game of 1985 Saturday night.

The Bruins convened out at 2-2 overall and 0-1 in the league, will be hosting the Bobcats for the first time since the Refurborg team joined the Gem State Conference. The test won't be easy, "the Bruin mentor assures."

"They have five to seven players in the 6-3 to 6-5 range and two very good athletes in Steve Young and (Garin) Lamph," says Astorgua.

"In fact, Lamph may be the best athlete I've seen this year. He's about 6-3, 195 (pounds) and has great hands, good foot quickness and good ball handling. He's always around the ball getting steals, rebounds and he runs the floor well."

Basically, however, Lamph typifies the Bobcats for the coach, "I've seen them against the Highland Rams last week.

"Usually they have five players on the floor that run from 6-1 to 6-3 so their size advantage is very respectable," Astorgua said. "They are always looking to run with the ball. They are a multiple defense team and like the 1-2-2 or 2-3 when they switch to zones."

"Offensively, they appear to be a free lance team within an offensive structure. Highland did it last year. They are a multiple defense team, Madison played pretty much with a five-man passing game, cutting guys inside and then popping back out if it wasn't there. There is a lot of motion in their offense."

"I consider them, from what I saw against Highland, to be a perimeter team. Also from what I saw, they all appears to be good jumpers and fairly quick."

"They got Highland down to early and just kept the pressure on by staying there."

The Bobcats bring a I-I league record into Bruin gymnasium, having lost their last outing to the highly-regarded Skyline Grizzlies.

From his standpoint, Astorgua says the holiday vacation blabs have stayed away as he and the Bruins work toward proficiency.

"In fact," the coach said, "we've had the best practices this week we've had all year. We're getting a lot of things straightened out — on offense especially. We're getting the big players a little more involved in the offense and the offensive flow seems a little better. Of course, that has to be proven against another team, too."

"But right now we're feeling good about our practices and the progress that has been made," he added.

Indianapolis has no lure for John U.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Former quarterback Johnny Unitas wants his name and Hall of Fame-winning exploits stricken from the record and media books put out by the Indianapolis Colts, saying he has been unable to identify with the team since its move out of Baltimore in 1984.

"If they want to start out from the beginning, that's fine, but they have no right to anything that happened in Baltimore," Unitas told The Baltimore News American.

"Records have never made any difference to me. Anyone who knows me realizes that," Unitas said. "But I can't identify with Indianapolis. Nothing against Indianapolis but I never played there."

"I would like for them to take my name out of their record book," he said.

He went on to add that he believed some of the other players for the Baltimore Colts felt the same way.

Unitas played in the National Football League for 18 years, 17 of them with the Baltimore Colts, when he established 22 records. He retired in 1973.

The first quarterback to pass for more than 40,000 yards, Unitas was named the NFL's Most Valuable Player three times and played in 10 Pro Bowls, the most ever by a Colt. With Unitas calling the signals, the Colts won NFL Championships in 1958 and 1959 and the Super Bowl title in 1970.

Unitas is mentioned 68 times in the statistical charts of the Indianapolis club, and a full page is devoted to him in the media guide.

At Citrus Bowl

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Three years after facing Ohio State in a quest for credibility that failed, ninth-ranked Brigham Young gets another shot at the No. 17 Buckeyes Saturday in the 40th annual Florida Citrus Bowl.

The 12:30 p.m. EST nationally televised contest in 50,000-seat Orlando Stadium is a rematch of the 1982 Holiday Bowl that Ohio State dominated 47-17 to fuel the arguments of skeptics who maintained BYU's supremacy in the traditionally weak Western Athletic Conference didn't make the Cougars one of America's top teams.

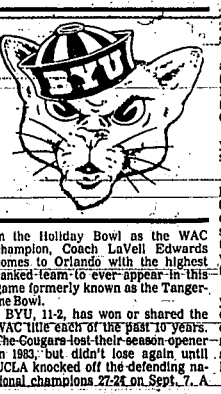

A lot of things have changed since Dec. 17, 1982 in San Diego. BYU has lost only three times since, and a year ago earned the respect it sought for so long by winning the national championship with a 13-0 record. The perfect season was capped by a 24-17 Holiday Bowl victory over Michigan, Ohio State's longtime Big Ten rival.

After seven straight appearances

BYU has chance to avenge 1982 loss

in the Holiday Bowl as the WAC champion, Coach LaVell Edwards comes to Orlando with the highest ranked team to ever appear in this game, formerly known as the Tangerine Bowl.

BYU, 11-2, has won or shared the WAC title each of the past 10 years. The Cougars lost their season opener in 1983, but didn't lose again until UCLA knocked off the defending national champions 27-24 on Sept. 7. A 23-16 loser in Texas' El Paso on Oct. 26. BYU carries a five-game winning streak into Saturday's game.

"Sometimes things click for you and sometimes they don't and you wish it was 11-2," Ohio State Coach Earle Bruce said, adding that he feels BYU is every bit as good as the Cougars of a year ago.

"This is a team that averages 300 yards a game on offense," Bruce said. "That's unbelievable."

As always, the focal point of the BYU offense is in the motion in total offense and passing — is the quarterback. Robbie Bosco ranked seventh nationally in passing efficiency and was No. 2 in total offense while throwing for 4,273 yards and 30 touchdowns.

Ohio State, which has averaged 379 yards and 28.6 points per game, won eight of its first nine games before dropping out of the Rose Bowl and national championship pictures with successive losses to Wisconsin and Michigan to end the regular season.

By previous Ohio State standards as a 2-2 record and a trip to a pro New Year's Day game is subpar. Bruce doesn't expect the disappointment of losing the Big Ten title to show Saturday.

"Football game is a football game. They're all important," Bruce said. "As coaches and players we all want to win ... You always want to win your last game. That's the game you want to remember."

Ohio State's offense should receive a boost from tailback Keith Byars, who started the season as a leading candidate for the Heisman Trophy.

The 232-pound senior broke a bone in his right foot in September and missed eight games. He said the foot is as close to 100 percent as it has been since he injured it.

In Byars' absence this season, junior quarterback Jim Karasots emerged as the Buckeyes' offensive leader. Fourth in the country in passing efficiency, he completed 62 percent of his attempts for 2,115 yards and 19 touchdowns with only eight interceptions.

BYU has a chance to avenge its 1982 loss to Ohio State in the Citrus Bowl Saturday.

Alabama rated 5-point edge over USC

HONOLULU (AP) — Rodney Hone has become a scramble of necessity. The Southern California quarterback can throw the football, but there's really nobody of note out there to catch it.

His four top receivers are out of action with injuries or other personal problems, leaving sophomore Ken Henry and junior Lonnie White as starters against Alabama in Friday's Aloha Bowl. Henry and White have not received between them this season.

"You could say, 'Well, you have inexperienced receivers, so don't throw the ball,'" Trojans Coach Ted Toller told. "But you can't do that against Alabama and win."

The Trojans also will play without tailback Fred Crutcher, nose guard Tony Colorado and offensive guard Tommie Wild. "We can't do that either during the season."

Southern Cal will have a massive offensive line led by All-American

Aloha Bowl

The Crimson Tide's only losses were consecutive setbacks to national powers Penn State, 19-17, and Tennessee, 16-14, after four straight victories to open the year.

Alabama and Louisiana State tied for a 14-1 tie when Tide Coach Ray Perkins made a controversial decision to go for a one-point conversion after a touchdown with 1:24 to play.

But the Tide finished the season on the upbeat, with a 25-23 victory over archival Auburn and Heisman Trophy winner Bo Jackson.

Alabama has been installed as a five-point favorite over Southern Cal.

The Tide's offense is built around junior quarterback Mike Shula, the son of Miami Dolphins' Coach Don Shula. The younger Shula came of age as a quarterback this season, completing 67.4 percent of his passes for 2,087 yards and eight touchdowns.

in short, Mike is a winner because he knows how to win," Perkins said.

Junior flanker Al Bell is Shula's favorite target. Bell led Alabama with 37 catches for 648 yards and eight touchdowns. The leading blocker is freshman halfback Gene Jenkins, who ran for 588 yards in only eight games. Jelks outrushed Jackson — with 192 yards — and a touchdown in the Auburn game.

Southern Cal's linebackers, the heart of the Trojan defense, will try to stop Jelks and pressure Shula. Sam Anno, Keith Davis, Marcus Colton and Garrett Breeland averaged over 100 tackles apiece. Safety Tim McDonald lent a hand with 88 stops and four interceptions.

Alabama's defense, led by tackle Jon Hand and linebackers Cornelius Bellows and Wayne Davis, 119.5 tackles, will attempt to contain Peete.

Georgia brings an 11-11-2 bowl record into this first meeting between the two schools, but the Bears are only 6-4 under Coach Vince Dooley. That includes a 45-6 shellacking at the hands of Nebraska in the 1969 Sun Bowl, the worst performance in Dooley's 22-year head coaching career and the only time since that a Georgia team has surrendered 40 or more points.

Although Georgia is the nation's sixth best rushing team, averaging 255.4 yards a game with freshmen Keith Henderson and Tim Worley running behind All-American center Pete Anderson, the game is expected to be a defensive struggle.

"They're so sound and play so hard, down-in and down-out, that they continue to get better and gain momentum as the game goes along," says Georgia offensive coordinator George Harter.

Led by linebacker Byron Evans (188 tackles) and Duran, Arizona is the seventh toughest team in the nation to score on, allowing only 12.1 points a game, and Georgia is 10th toughest in the nation in total defense at 289.3 yards a game and Georgia, although well down the list in 26th place, is yielding only 310.6.

Dogs-Cats bowl draws capacity crowd

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — It has been described as the 'Cats and the Dogs in the Sun.'

Translated, that means the 8-3 Arizona Wildcats against the 7-7-1 Georgia Bulldogs in the Sun Bowl Saturday. At the request of CBS-TV, the kickoff has been moved up two hours to 10:45 a.m. MST so as not to conflict with the National Football League playoff game on NBC.

A CBS official predicts the change could mean 4 million to 6 million more viewers for the Sun Bowl, which expects a capacity crowd of 50,000.

"The Sun Bowl always had good ratings for us until last year when they went head-to-head with an NFL wild-card playoff game," says CBS official Peter Forster. "We knew there was the possibility of this happening this year, and we wanted the option of working around it, so we planned for it. The Sun Bowl was given the choice, and they chose to play the kickoff time."

The problem arose when the New York Giants and New York Jets, who share the same stadium, became the hosts for the wild-card playoff game with the Jets' game on NBC scheduled for Sunday. The Jets-New England game was switched to Thursday.

"We'd rather go up against the

Sun Bowl

Florida Citrus Bowl (also on NBC) than the Jets and Patriots." This is said Donnie Duncan, the Sun Bowl's executive director.

Almost 8,000 Arizona fans have flooded El Paso hoping to see the Wildcats come away with their first victory in five bowl games. The Wildcats sold 7,900 tickets, approaching the combined record of 8,700 for both schools set by Nebraska and Mississippi State in 1980.

"We want to get respect," says safety Allan Durden. "This is a challenge for us to play a big-name team like Georgia."

The Wildcats lost to Centre (Ky.) 38-0 in the 1921 East-West Christmas Classic in San Diego, 14-13 to Drake in the 1949 Salad Bowl, 34-10 to Auburn in the 1968 Sun Bowl and 16-10 to Pitt in the 1979 Fiesta Bowl. The first two games no longer exist.

"Of the five goals we have for our program, we still have a chance to reach them this year," says Coach Larry Smith. "We had a share of first place (5-2 in the Pac-10 to UCLA's 6-2), our fourth consecutive victory over Arizona State for the first time in 37 years, winning seasons five consecutive years for the first time in 48 years, the school's best win-loss record since 1975."

"They're used to playing in bowl games and we're not. It's going to be a matter of who is the most excited about being here."

Arizona has had some fine moments in the Holiday Conference and the SJAC, but this is the Pac-10. This could be the finest hour in Arizona's football history."

With that in mind, Arizona has accepted the Blue Brigade name given its teams in the 1920s when the school enjoyed some of its most consistent success in football. Two El Paso businessmen have donated blue pom-poms for distribution to Arizona fans.

"Athletically, a heck of a lot happened 50 years ago," says Smith. "We want to bring back a 50-year-old winning tradition. We're reinstating the Blue Brigade and the Sun Bowl is the perfect opportunity."

Georgia's fans will be wearing red. I hope our people will make them see blue. It may seem like a little thing, but we're asking our fans to draw out the red with blue.

"To me, this is what college football is all about. It's pride and tradition. It's not just create tradition; it's already there. You just build upon it."

Snow depth in inches reports on unpacked snow at the top except for Bogus Basin, which reports depth at the base. New snow reports to snow within last 24 hours.

AP cites Ditka as NFL coach of year

(CHICAGO (AP) — Mike Ditka, who began coaching the Chicago Bears amid criticism that he was picked because of team loyalty — and who has another argument to silence the carpers.

Ditka was named National Football League Coach of the Year by The Associated Press on Friday.

The maximum Bears star gets the honor easily in a vote of a panel of sportswriters and broadcasters after coaching the team to a 15-1 record—the best in the league this year, and delighting even the most cynical football fan by occasionally transforming a 300-pound defensive lineman, William "The Refrigerator" Perry, into an offensive weapon.

Ditka accepted the news of his award with appreciation but an awareness of how tenuous success can be in his profession.

"There are a lot of great coaches in football and I'm very privileged," Ditka said. "But I'm realistic. Coaches are voted on their record. I'm fortunate to have a good football team and good assistant coaches so I don't get too caught up in that individual glory."

The award is shared by the football team as well as the assistant coaches. And I'm not just saying that to be idealistic or flattering to anybody."

When Ditka came to the Bears after a coaching apprenticeship in Dallas under Tom Landry, critics called him unimaginative and untested. They said the late George Halas picked him out of a sense of loyalty to the Bear tradition. Halas, the storied founder of the team, was coach when Ditka played for the Bears.

"Ditka ran into more controversy last year when he was nearly fired because he had another argument, he clashed with President Mike McCaskey's Ivy League background. But he grew to be not only the NFL's most successful coach but also its most innovative.

Innovative is one of the adjectives best used to describe the 46-year-old Ditka's use of Perry as a running back in goal-line situations. Perry ran for two touchdowns, caught a pass for another and did wonders for NFL's television ratings.

Ditka's use of three sportswriters and broadcasters for each of the NFL's 28 teams gave Ditka 66 votes, with five going to runnerup Raymond Berry of New England and three to Landry.

Tom Flores of the Los Angeles Rams, John Robinson of the Los Angeles Stars, Joe Gibbs of the Washington Redskins, Don Shula of the Miami Dolphins and Joe Walton of the New York Jets each received scattered support.

A collegiate star at Pittsburgh, Ditka was the prototype NFL tight end in the 1960s with the Bears, Philadelphia Eagles and Cowboys. He played in five Pro Bowls with the Bears, setting a complete record of 49 straight games. His 75 receptions in 1964 established a league record for tight ends that stood until broken in 1983 by San Diego's Kellen Winslow.

Ditka was an assistant under Landry at Dallas from 1973 until 1981, when he was named head coach of the Bears.

Giants see no flaws in Montana's game

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — If Joe Montana has lost something as a quarterback, the New York Giants are at a loss to find it.

"He is the complete quarterback," said Giants all-time leader Tom Carson. "He can move. He can run the ball. He is an excellent play-action passer. He can hurt you in so many ways, and he's intelligent."

Carson has always had the Giants' confidence. He was the starting quarterback Sunday when he and the defending Super Bowl champion San Francisco 49ers seek their sixth straight victory over New York in the National Football Conference wild-card game at Giants Stadium.

"It will be the Giants' third postseason appearance in five years and both previous tries ended there in heartbreaking fashion. We need to win for the 49ers." Both times San Francisco went on win the Super Bowl, Montana was the key to both those seasons.

He has had an off-year by his lofty standards. He hit 303 of 494 passes for 3,653 yards, and 22 touchdowns in a season that was marred by never-substantiated rumors that he was using drugs.

"He didn't start out real well, our entire team didn't start out real well, and he obviously personifies the NFL," said 49ers Coach Bill Walsh.

"His statistics and performance at the midway mark of the season were not outstanding, but they were certainly better than many other players."

Montana improved in the second half of the season and the 49ers won six of eight games. His best game may have been last week when he hit 24 of 33 passes for 322 yards and two touchdowns as San Francisco downed Dallas 34-16 to make the playoffs.

"I think you're concentrating on the longer and concentrating on the downfield receivers more," Walsh. "Previously, he seemed to be a little reckless about some of his throwing. He felt everything would work out for us and our entire team played out that thinking this way."

The Giants wouldn't mind if Montana went back to that thinking this way, even though they do not expect it.

"It's imperative that we contain him," said defensive end Cory Merrell. "I look at him as a great scrambler in the game. He thrives on the ball better on the run than any other quarterback in the league, especially when he rolls out to his right."

"Containing the rollout is just one problem. The Giants have to get a hold of him first."

"The team that puts more pressure on the quarterback is probably going to win on Sunday," said All-Pro defensive end Leonard Marshall. "The thing I'll try to do is to get to him quick, make him throw early and make him throw interceptions. The key is not containing him, but making him do things he is not used to doing."

Montana is not the only offensive weapon the Giants have to worry about. There is also tightback Roger Craig, who pointed more than 1,000 yards both rushing and receiving this season.

The emergence of rookie wide receiver Jerry Rice has also made the 49ers offense more threatening.

"They have a great running back," said Giants Coach Bill Parcells. "They are one of the best teams in football without question and they have been for some time."

The Giants also have a potent offensive play being run by running back Joe Morris, who rushed for a club-record 1,338 yards and 21 touchdowns, and quarterback Phil Simms, who passed for 3,829 yards and 27 TDs.

"They have a great runner and have been taking full advantage of it this season," said Walsh. "Where they used to depend on the pass, now they can make much more happen."

Minico defends mat title

FILER — Defending champion Minico and seven other teams will be on hand today for the third annual Filer Invitational Wrestling Tournament.

Participating, in addition to the home-standing Wildcats, will be Twin Falls, Bishop Kelly of Boise, Glens Ferry, Marsh Valley of Arimo and Middleton.

Weights will begin at 11 a.m., with the first competition scheduled for 1 p.m. Round 2 will follow at 3:30 p.m., and the fourth round will be held at 5:30 p.m. The championship and consolation finals are scheduled for 7 p.m.

Medals will be awarded the winners and the second-, third- and fourth-place finishers in each class.

Admission is $2.50 per session for adults, $1.50 for students with activity cards or $4 for a tournament pass.

Rondeau dies in mishap

LE MANS, France (AP) — Frenchman Jean Rondeau, who in 1980 became the first racing driver to win the Le Mans 24 Hour classic in a car of his own construction, was killed Friday in a railroad crossing accident, police said.

Rondeau died when a train hit his Porsche, which was trapped between crossing barriers at Champagne, about 6 miles from Le Mans, according to police.

They said the barriers had been lifted after another train went by moments earlier, allowing three or four cars through before they were lowered again, blocking Rondeau's cars on the tracks.

The accident occurred less than a mile from Rondeau's factory, where he built Formula Ford racers.

Bengals keep staff intact

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Bengals have decided to keep their coaching staff intact for the 1986 National Football League season, according to Assistant General Manager Mike Brown.

Brown said the assistant coaches will be offered contracts for beyond '86, "when the current ones expire. It's not known whether any of the assistants will delay signing a contract so they can explore other coaching opportunities."

"There could be some of that," Brown said. "It wouldn't be anything unusual."

The decision to retain the assistant coaches was made in meetings among Brown, General Manager Paul Brown and Coach Sam Wyche.

Bears head for warmer climes

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Bears will head south to Suwanee, Ga., to practice for the upcoming National Football Conference playoffs, the team announced Friday.

The Bears made the move because strong winds kept officials from erecting a snow-proof plastic dome in Champaign, Ill., where Mike Ditka previously has expressed concern that his players favor the distractions — particularly from fans — at Suwanee, where they practiced for last season's playoffs.

But Bears spokesman Brian Harlan said this year the team has developed a strategy to combat distractions.

"We're going to alleviate that by posting security guards at the entrance to our facilities and keep everybody out who's not there on business," said Harlan.

Women's cage team accused

MONROE, La. (AP) — Northeast Louisiana University officials won't comment on a newspaper's report that their women's basketball team has been found guilty by the NCAA of recruiting violations, except to say they'll probably appeal.

The fifth-ranked Lady Indians could be barred from television appearances and post-season play because of recruiting violations involving star center Chana Perry, the Monroe News-Star-World reported this week in a story attributed to unidentified sources.

An appeal could delay the imposition of any penalties and ultimately could reverse the NCAA findings, the newspaper reported.

Northeast sports information director Bob Anderson confirmed that the school had received a letter from the NCAA, but would not say whether the school had been found guilty of anything.

"We haven't made any announcement about it until we do an appeal. As far as I know, it won't be settled until some time next month," Anderson said.

Bullets sign Freeman Williams

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — The Washington Bullets of the National Basketball Association signed Continental Basketball Association guard Freeman Williams to a 10-day contract, team officials said Friday.

The deal with Williams has played for the Tampa Bay Thrillers for the past two years in the CBA. Last year, he played 46 games, averaging 21.9 points a game.

Williams led the Thrillers to the 1983 CBA championship and was named Most Valuable Player of the Championship series.

Stadium deal near closing

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A complex deal to sell publicly owned Three Rivers Stadium to a secretive group of New York investors will not close until early January, a Pittsburgh official said Thursday.

City officials say they had hoped to complete the $32 million sale this month.

The deal for Three Rivers Stadium will be transferred, however, by Tuesday, Dec. 31, in order to qualify for an exemption to the state's 1 percent deed transfer tax, said Marvin A. Fein, a deputy city solicitor.

City officials have refused to name the buyers until the sale is complete. The deal is part of Mayor Caliguri's effort to keep the Pirates baseball team in Pittsburgh.

Second FSU player suspended

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — A second Florida State Seminoles player has been declared ineligible for missing competition tickets to the Nov. 30 Florida State-Florida game, a school official announced.

Junior offensive guard Thomas Harp will not play in Monday's Gator Bowl game against Oklahoma State, said Florida State Athletic Director Hootie Ingram. Whether the reserve guard can play next week will be up to the NCAA, he said Thursday.

Harp's ineffectual marks in the end of Florida State's investigation into ticket misuse, said Ingram.

Tyler back with 49ers

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) — Halfback Wendell Tyler, who underwent knee surgery on Dec. 10, has returned to practice and may be ready when the San Francisco 49ers meet the New York Giants in the first round of the National Football League playoffs.

"Like I said earlier this week, the chances of my playing are 60-40 and I figure out which way," said Tyler after practice on Thursday.

The speedy Tyler, who set a 49ers record last year by rushing for 1,263 yards, was so impressive in his return to action that running back Steve Sherman predicted he could be ready to play on Sunday when the 49ers begin defense of their Super Bowl crown.

"He moved really well out there today," Lewis said. "In fact, he looked better than any of the other backs we had out there."

It is a good chance he will be able to play against the Giants.

"You can tell if the knee is sound by the way he runs in practice like this, but it's a little different because he knows nobody is going to tackle him," so up quarterback coach Paul Hackett.

"My knee is a little more sore than I was getting or anything I shouldn't expect," said Tyler. "Heck, my leg was sore before I had an operation. Football isn't patty cakes, you know."

Paterno aware Lions are 7-point underdogs to Sooners

MIAMI (AP) — Penn State Coach Joe Paterno says he understands why his top-ranked Nittany Lions are a 7½-point underdog in their national championship game New Year's night in the Orange Bowl.

"Obviously, he couldn't care less," Paterno said. "I'm a great football fan," he said of the No. 3 Sooners. "I don't think there is anything wrong with people thinking they are better."

By time Paterno finished praising Oklahoma Friday, a better would have felt inclined to rush out, and wager the house, car and spouse on the Sooners.

Orange Bowl

Before sending his 11-0 team through drills at the University of Miami's practice field, Paterno admitted that he was surprised with the success of his 1985 team.

"I thought we'd have a good football team at this stage," he said. "But I didn't think we'd be where we are."

The oddsmakers obviously believe the Nittany Lions have reached beyond their talents, appearing unimpressed with a team that swept through a schedule against teams that ended the season with a cumulative record of 65-62-1; Penn State won seven of 11 games by a total of only 29 points.

Paterno bristled at the suggestion the Nittany Lions have failed to attract the respect due the nation's top team.

"This team has had respect," he said. "We've been voted No. 1. I'd say that is plenty of respect."

While the offense spluttered most of the season, the defense held the Nittany Lions together, getting the ball on 37 turnovers, 19 fumble recoveries and 16 pass interceptions.

"We'll have to play our best game, play tough," said Paterno. "We'll see how good we are. That (Oklahoma) is great team. It may be the best team we've ever played."

Penn State is facing a team that led the nation in total defense, less than 3 yards per play. The Sooners finished second in rushing and scoring defense. On offense, they were third in rushing.

Paterno couldn't say enough about quarterback Jamele Hellaway, the freshman to collect the wishbone offense through seven victories in a 10-1 season.

"Holloway, especially for a freshman, is as good a quarterback as we've ever played. He's so good you can't consider him a freshman," Paterno said.

Paterno also lauded tight end Keith Jackson, a 241-pound sophomore who caught 20 passes for 283 yards.

"He (Jackson) is the most complete tight end I've seen (this year)," Paterno insisted.

Paterno insisted that Oklahoma was very careful with the football despite 47 fumbles (the Sooners recovered 20).

"We're not counting on them to drop the football. We'll have to go out and beat them. We'll have to draw. You can't jam the ball down the throat of these tables," he said.

During his 20 years as head coach, Paterno has taken the team to 16 bowls, producing an 11-1 record. One of the losses came to Oklahoma, 14-0, in the 1972 Sugar Bowl.

The Sooners rolled up 435 yards on offense and held Penn State to 196. The Lions' leading rusher, John Capolletti, came down with a virus the night before the game and couldn't play.

Bullets outlast Hawks 111-109

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — Jeff Malone scored eight of his 31 points in the final 4:16 as the Washington Bullets overcame a 1st-quarter deficit and rallied to defeat the Atlanta Hawks 111-109 in a National Basketball Association game Friday night.

Malone sank two free throws with four seconds remaining before Dominique Wilkins scored at the buzzer for Atlanta to finish with a game-high 35 points.

The Bullets, who blew a 15-point second-quarter lead, fell behind for the first time since the first quarter. Atlanta scored eight consecutive points to take a 92-90 lead early in the final period.

But Malone launched an 11-point Washington streak at the 4:16 mark and the Bullets raced to a 105-101 advantage as Malone scored six of the points.

NBA

B. Free scored 29 points and Roy Hinson added 22 Friday night as the Cleveland Cavaliers opened a 20-point third-quarter lead and coasted to a 119-105 NBA victory over the stumbling Detroit Pistons.

Melvin Turpin scored 15 points and Free 14 to lead the Cavs to a 69-53 halftime advantage and Detroit, which lost for the 10th quarter in a row, couldn't pull closer than 12 points the rest of the way.

Cleveland went ahead 95-75 late in the third period, with Hinson scoring 10 points in the quarter, but Detroit moved within 105-99 on a three-point basket by Isiah Thomas midway through the final quarter.

The Cavs scored the next eight points to cement the decision.

Blazers 142, Mavericks 133

DALLAS (AP) — Jim Paxson scored 23 of his 29 points after halftime as the Portland Trail Blazers got their fourth straight win, a 142-133 overtime victory over the Dallas Mavericks.

Kiki Vandeweghe, who finished with 30 points, opened the scoring in overtime with a layup, that made it 130-123, and the Blazers never relinquished that lead.

At the end of regulation, Dallas' Dale Ellis, who hit three three-point baskets in the fourth quarter, fired a three-point attempt that bounced out at the buzzer. Mavericks forward Sam Perkins had tied the game at 129-129 with a hook shot with 13 seconds left.

Clyde Drexler finished with 18, and Bowie had 17 points as Portland handed Dallas Coach Dick Motta his 700th career loss against 723 wins.

Indiana downs Idaho 87-57

College hoop

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Indiana Coach Bob Knight spared no words after his 17th-ranked Hoosiers walked into the dressing room leading underdog Idaho by only four points at the intermission.

"I told the team at halftime that the game out there should be a rout for Idaho," the Indiana mentor said of the 37-33 score at the break. "They outscrapped us, outshot us, outlasted us."

The Hoosiers left the pep talk gunning and ended up burying Idaho, 87-57, to win Friday night's opening game of the Hoosier Classic college basketball tournament.

"We could not hold up or sustain our first half effort," said Coach Bill Trumbo of the Vandals. "Indiana made it hard for us to get into our offense. We couldn't get the ball to the spots we wanted in the second half."

Freshman guard Rick Calloway finished with 26 points to top all scorers, and Steve Alford contributed 24 to the Hoosier's largest victory margin of the season.

"Calloway is an exceptional player," Trumbo said, "and more exceptional for a freshman."

Indiana, shooting 56.9 percent from the field in the second half, went on a 22-8 surge that led to the victory. The Hoosiers took an 11-11 13:13 to play and were at 69-43 at 7:17 on a dunk by Calloway. Alford scored 12 during that streak and Calloway had eight for the Hoosiers, won 7-2.

Iowa isn't Big 10 guardian

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — While saying he's proud to represent the Big Ten Conference, Iowa Coach Hayden Fry said Friday he doesn't think it's his job to rescue the image of the league in the Rose Bowl.

The Big Ten's pride has taken a savage beating in the Rose Bowl during the past two decades. The Pacific-10 Conference team has won four straight Rose Bowls and 14 of the last 16 after the Big Ten dominated in the early years of the contest between the two leagues.

Included in the Big Ten's fallings is Iowa's 28-0 loss to Washington in the 1982 Rose Bowl. But even though he wants to make amends for that loss in next Wednesday's game with UCLA, Fry said he doesn't feel any pressure to win for the Big Ten.

"They don't pay me a penny," Fry told a group of reporters after the fourth-ranked Hawkeyes' first practice in California. "I don't owe them a thing."

"I'm proud to be a coach representing the Big Ten in the Rose Bowl, but we're more proud to be competing for the state of Iowa. If we lose, the Big Ten isn't going to cut my salary."

Iowa is practicing at Mount San Antonio College in Walnut, which is about 20 miles southeast of Pasadena and just close to the Hawkeyes' hotel in industry.

Rose Bowl

The setting is perfect for Fry, who has closed practices and wants his players to have plenty of privacy. The football field is surrounded by hills and sits on elevated ground that can't be seen from the parking lot or main street.

"This is probably the best facility we've had out here," said Fry, who had his team in Southern California last year for the Freedom Bowl in Anaheim. "The football field has real good turf, they have good dressing room facilities and we have real nice people to work with."

The Hawkeyes had sunny, 70-degree weather for their first practice and Fry said it was a good workout.

"We're still not as sharp as we need to be," he said. "It was our first day on grass, wearing grass shoes and getting used to the cutting. Our continuity wasn't sharp, but that will come after we practice for a couple of more days."

"Our players really enjoy playing on grass. We've done real well in Iowa's Kinnick Stadium has an artificial surface, as do all but one of the other stadiums the Hawkeyes played in this year. The Rose Bowl, which is UCLA's home stadium, has a grass field.

Fry is taking a business-like approach to the Rose Bowl and isn't allowing his players to visit any of the area's attractions until after the game. The Hawkeyes look in all their activities, even though he has cut them out this year.

"The attractions didn't beat us. We lost to a very fine football team," he said. "Washington just whipped our butts. We just didn't play a good football game. It didn't have anything to do with Bob Hope or Larry's."

Fry thinks Iowa still has a chance to win the national championship if it plays impressively in the Rose Bowl, even though the Hawkeyes would have to pass three teams to get to No. 1.

And if by some chance Iowa did finish No. 1, Fry said his coaching days might be over.

Fry would have been in an excellent position to win the national title if the Hawkeyes had remained in the No. 2 spot they held after whipping Minnesota 31-9 in their regular-season finale.

Louisville, which outlasted Notre Dame the next weekend and moved up to second while Iowa dropped to third. Then, Oklahoma beat SMU on Dec. 7, and Iowa slipped to fourth while Oklahoma went to third.

Georgia Tech 90, Texas 55

ATLANTA (AP) — John Salley and Duane Ferrell each scored 17 points as No. 7 Georgia Tech beat Texas 90-55 in the first round of the Cotton States Classic college basketball tournament Friday night.

The Saturday night final will match Tech 91 and Miami 71, a 67-64 winner over No. 20 DePaul.

Salley erased Texas' last lead, a 7-5 advantage, with a slam dunk less than four minutes into the game. Ferrell then hit a 16-foot jumper and the Yellow Jackets ran off another seven straight points for a 16-7 lead.

The Jackets, hitting 67 percent of their shots from the field, built a 46-31 halftime lead and pulled away steadily after intermission.

Memphis 57, Fresno 46

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Senior guard Arturo Turner scored 14 points and dished out seven assists to lead 10th-ranked Memphis State to a 57-46 victory over Fresno State Friday night in the opening of the Holiday Bowl Classic college basketball tournament.

San Diego State and the University of North Carolina-Charlotte were scheduled to meet in the second game of opening-round play Friday night for the chance to meet the Tigers in Saturday's championship game.

Baskerville Holmes scored 13 points and William Beaford added 10 for Memphis State, which improved its record to 10-0. Fresno State held the Tigers to their lowest point total of the season.

Fresno State, which fell to 6-4, received 10 points each from Jervis Cole and Brian Salome.

Turner scored six points during a 10-4 spurt that put Memphis State ahead 34-22 four minutes into the second half. The Tigers expanded their lead to 40-25 with 11 minutes to go, and Fresno State could come no closer than eight points the rest of the way.

UTEP 78, Georgetown 64

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Quintan Geaux scored 12 of his 18 points in the second half as Texas' El Paso stunned fifth-ranked Georgetown 78-64 in a conference college basketball game Friday night.

It was Georgetown's worst loss since a 94-73 setback to Alabama in 1982. Both teams are now 9-1.

Georgetown's Dexter Fasso was not ranked going into the game.

UTEP broke open a close game in the second half with six unanswered points — two free throws by Jeep Jackson and baskets by Lem Clanton and Gates — that gave the Miners a 57-47 lead.
