Gaiety, solemn words greet 'Year of Peace'

By JAMES W. HATTON
The Associated Press

Leaders of nations addressed their peoples in solemn tones, Pope John Paul II called for peace and brotherhood and light beamed across the world gathered Friday night in public squares and private homes to welcome the year 1986.

The United Nations has declared 1986 the Year of Peace. In Japan, midnight marked the beginning of the Year of the Tiger. Until traditional outdoor barbecues, "It seems to be one of Africa's few beef-exporting countries, but we can hardly buy any of the new. Hundreds of extra officers were on duty, some in uniform and some not, to police the midnight madness.

Authorities in London took extra precautions to protect the 50,000 or more revelers expected to fill Trafalgar Square, the memory of the death of two women there three years ago still fresh in their minds. An assistant police commissioner bluntly suggested people stay home.

In Rome, the pope called in his New Year's Eve Mass for a united effort to break "the senseless spiral of violence" and wipe out "crime and terrorism that 'disfigure the face of our times'."

Across the Eternal City, President Francesco Cossiga declared that Italy and Austria, sites of bloody terrorist attacks on Dec. 27, "have always shown great understanding for the people who fight for their freedom and independence, including the Palestinians. Also for this reason, the incredible acts of violence gave us profound bitterness," he said in a televised speech.

Other leaders brought different messages to their nations on the final day of 1985.

Greetings exchange set to go

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
The Associated Press

PALM SPRINGS, Calif.—While "Houses of Cards" depicts Tuesday as the day when New Year's preparations are complete for the exchange of love letters, the exchange of love letters is not complete until the first of the year.

ABC, CBS, NBC and Cable News Network have said they would televise the holiday recorded five-minute speeches when they become available at 8 a.m. A.S.T. Social faces and is expected to progress them simultaneously, which will be a first time in the Soviet Union.

CBS plans to interrupt its live coverage of the Tournament of Roses Parade on the broadcast of its annual news program about the unprecedented televised exchange of greetings.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said the remarks are "in the spirit of Gen. Walter Rostow and Gorbachev met in November for their first summit talks."

Reagan recorded his message last week in Los Angeles before coming to his desert resort for a vacation at the estate of former Ambassador Walter Annenberg in nearby Rancho Mirage.

Gorbachev's message was recorded about the same time as the Soviet president's annual New Year's message.

White House press secretary Mark Walters said Tuesday the two nations had completed their exchange of the video tapes.

Speaking to the media, the spokesman said the other's language in each man's native tongue. Each side provided the other with a written translation of the words. He said he would broadcast to determine whether to run subtitles or voice-over translations.

Singing idol among 7 killed in Texas plane crash

By LAURA TOLLEY
The Associated Press

DE KALB, Texas — Ricky Nelson, the singing idol who grew up on television in "The Adventures of Ozie & Harriet," died in a plane crash Tuesday that killed six other people.

RICKY NELSON
Plane crash victim

The victims included his fiancée and his band, authorities said. Two others aboard survived.

The private DC-3 was en route to Dallas from Guntersville, Ala., when it crashed and burned at 3,000 feet, three miles from his northern Texas community, said Ronnie Fincher, a Department of Public Safety trooper in Texarkana.

The pilot was attempting an emergency landing in a pasture because of a fire aboard the aircraft that filled the cockpit with smoke, said Henry Staton of the DPS.

Nelson, 45, whose singing career spanned four decades, was scheduled to play a concert with his group, the Stone Canyon Band, at Dallas' new Park Sutte Hotel. Officials said the show would go on as a tribute to Nelson.

Nelson was aboard the plane "and he was among the survivors," Fincher said. Also killed was Helen Blair, 27, of Los Angeles, who recently was engaged to be married to Nelson.

Fincher identified the other dead as band members Bobby Neal, 38; Patrick Woodward, 35; Rick Intveld, 22; Andy Chapin, 20; and soundman Clark Russell, 35.

The survivors, identified as Kenneth Ferguson, 40, the co-pilot, and Brad Rank, 34, the pilot, were taken to St. Michael's Hospital in Texarkana in critical condition with burns over the upper portion of their bodies, said nursing supervisor Glennette Stears. Ferguson was later transferred to a burn center in Little Rock, Ark.

De Kalb is about 13 miles south of the Oklahoma border in northeastern Texas.

Nelson, along with his brother, David, first appeared with their parents on the mid-1950s television series "The Adventures of Ozie & Harriet."

While on the TV show from 1952 to 1957, he first performed "Teenage Love" and "I'm a Teenage Idol" to a 25-year-old husband, became his first million seller. The show is still playing on some cable TV systems.

Nelson was born E. Rick Hilliard Nelson in Teaneck, N.J., on May 8, 1940.

When his parents transferred their radio show to television, he and his brother, David, began to be in the 1970s, a more mature Rick Nelson enjoyed a new lease on his singing career when he formed the Stone Canyon Band, a country rock-oriented five-piece group.

The title track of 1972's "Garden Party" album, an autobiographical career included "Be-Top Baby" 1957, "Lonesome Town" and "I Got a Feeling" 1958, "Never Be Anyone gold record for Nelson. His movies included "Here Come Elsie But You" and "It's Late" 1959. Joint chiefs list military options against terrorists

By TIM AHERN
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Joint Chiefs of Staff have sent President Reagan a list of possible military options to use against terrorists in the Midwest, government sources said Tuesday.

The White House sought preparation for possible military action in the wake of last week's bomb and gunfire attacks at the Rome and Vienna airports, said the sources, who spoke only on condition they not be named.

The list of options includes possible U.S. air strikes at Libya, the sources said.

Although the list of military actions was prepared, the Pentagon has not taken any major steps toward carrying out air strikes on Libya, the sources said. They stressed that effective attacks would be difficult to achieve.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said Monday that he believed the administration was harboring Abu Nidal, the leader of a radical Palestinian splinter group suspected of masterminding the air raids in which 18 people, including three terrorists, were killed.

Speakes also said the United States is seeking the support of its allies for unspecified action to punish the Libyan government of Muammar Khadafi. President Reagan and top administration officials have long singled out Khadafi as a chief supporter of international terrorism.

State Department spokesman Charles Redman said Tuesday that the shoddy terrorist group headed by Abu Nidal has carried out nearly 200 terror assaults in 1985.

Redman said Nidal "is believed to be operating from inside Libya and if that continues, more terrorism should be expected, particularly in Western Europe."

Any U.S. military action against Libya would likely involve U.S. planes flying from the deck of an aircraft carrier or from the nearest U.S. land base, the joint American-Italian base at Sigonella, Sicily.

The Coral Sea, the only aircraft carrier in the Mediterranean Sea, has been in port in Naples, Italy, since before Christmas and is scheduled to remain there until Thursday, the sources noted.

The cruiser Yorktown is in Italian port alongside the Coral Sea and its sailors are also on leave, the sources said. The cruiser and its sophisticated Aegis battle management radar would probably play a key role in defending the U.S. planes during an attack.

Other Navy ships remained at ports in Rotterdam.

IEA videotape sparks shouting match

REP. ROBERT FORREY
Wanted to see tape

By JANE ROBINSON
The News-Writer

TWIN FALLS — State Rep. Robert Forrey, R-Nampa, and his Boise cohort, publisher Peter Watt, are conducting a media shouting match against the president of the Idaho Education Association over a IEA-produced videotape on the political Far Right.

The latest salvo in the continuing battle between Forrey and the IEA was fired Monday when Watt and Forrey charged in a four-page press release that a cassette tape sent to the state's 12 daily newspapers that the IEA refused to let Forrey view a "secret videotape."

The press release, sent on Idaho House of Representatives' stationery, included a cassette tape of a recorded message from IEA President Joyce Raasch that was left on Watt's telephone answering machine

Dec. 20. Watt said the cassette was sent "so that the press can hear in her own words what Raasch said."

What Raasch did say was that the IEA "has decided they do not care to arrange a special showing of our video for you and Mr. Forrey. Thank you very much."

That contradicted an earlier, public statement by Raasch that "anybody could see" the tape, Watt said by phone Monday.

"Since anyone can see it, why can't we," Watt said during an interview.

Raasch said Monday that the IEA board had decided not to arrange a special showing for Forrey and Watt because Watt told her "they wanted to use any material they saw in it against us in the Legislature."

The video is shown at IEA meetings for teachers to educate them on the Far Right, according to Terry Gilbert, IEA Region IV director.

"Our video is to educate our members," the Boise resident said. "They should see what we're showing when they're threatening us."

Watt's response was, "She's a pathological liar, and you can quote me on that."

According to the release, Watt and Forrey wanted to see the videotape because "there may be information on that tape regarding them." Watt in connection with being publisher of News Tuesday. It mentioned Forrey because of his position in the Legislature.

The hour-long videotape, however, was made available to the Times-News Tuesday. It mentioned Forrey and Watt only briefly, identifying Watt as publisher of "The NEA, The Trojan Horse in American Education."

New law delights New Jersey anglers

The Associated Press

It will be a happy new year for trout fishing enthusiasts in New Jersey, a more progressive one for lawyers in New York and Pennsylvania, and a safer one for motorists in several states, thanks to laws that take effect today.

The hardwood work of this legislation bears fruit with the new year in a variety of laws aimed at social problems from drunk drivers to pollution to the abuse of donated organs for profit.

On the highway side, a new law going into effect in Maryland raises the maximum number of letters on vanity license plates from six to seven, which should appear to some Baltimore OBVIOUS fan — and maybe to Sen. Charles MATHIAS.

New Jersey anglers have something to smile about, too: new laws in the Division of Fish and Game will allow trout fishing all year in four lakes that previously allowed it for only two months.

Laws that require seat-belt use by all front-seat passengers go into effect in four more states — Kansas, Connecticut, California and New Mexico, which brings the total as of today to 17 states.

 His "third" wife, Ozile Nelson, died in 1978.
 Nelson's band had performed Monday night in Guterresville, said Greg Loach, manager of the Guterresville Airport, who saw Nelson and the band board the plane and depart at 2 p.m.

 The plane, circling the DeKalb area when it suddenly hit a high-power line and crashed and exploded into flames," said Mike Cox, a DPS spokesman in Austin.
 Don Lewis of DeKalb said he was feeding hay to his cattle in a nearby pasture when the plane came over.
 "It was on fire when it came over me," he said. "Smoke was just belching out of the right side."
 The plane passed over him and apparently tried to land in an open pasture, but overran it and crashed into a stand of trees along a second pasture, he said.

 Ellison, a pilot with the Air Force, reported at St. Michael's Hospital, said another helicopter pilot heard the pilot of the DC-3 talking with the FAA just before the crash, saying that the plane had sought fire.
 The other helicopter pilot attempted to direct them to an airport before they apparently tried to land on the road, said Ellison, who was among the first on the scene.
 Ellison said he found that they hit in the trees. There was fire everywhere, Ellison said.

 "The Pentagon sources cautioned that military action against Libya might be difficult to achieve without U.S. warplanes being shot down. They raised the possibility that U.S. fliers might be killed or taken prisoner if that happens.

A U.S. attack on Libya would probably have to run a gamut of anti-aircraft missiles and Soviet-built Libyan planes. Khadafi has purchased large amounts of military equipment from the Soviet Union in the last decade, including thousands of missiles and planes.
 U.S. officials have confirmed that Soviet-built SA-6 anti-aircraft missiles have been installed at two sites in Libya, although the sources said Tuesday that the long-range SA-6s have a range of about 150 miles, which would permit them to hit American reconnaissance planes over the Gulf of Sidra. Other SA missiles will range up to 40 miles, are operational.

A storm system of the Pacific Coast was continuing to move eastward Tuesday about 30 to 40 miles an hour. Some clouds and precipitation were running ahead of the main system and showers were expected to move into the western part of Idaho by early morning today.
 This system will continue to move eastward during New Year's Day, the National Weather Service said.
 Snow will have the greatest precipitation but brief periods of freezing rain can be expected. Accumulations of 1 to 7 inches are expected in northern Idaho with 1 to 2 inches in the central mountains and up to one inch in the southern valleys.
 The mixing of the air caused by the movement of the storm system through the area and the associated winds should help break up the valley inversions and decrease the amount of fog. Some pellets of sleet or rain may reach the surface for the past several weeks.
 Temperatures should also warm as cold air trapped near the coast moves with the warmer air aloft. Gradual warming should be the rule through the end of the week.

The highest temperature in the state Tuesday was reported at Grangeville. The extended outlook for southern Idaho calls for Friday and Saturday to be mostly dry. Widely scattered snow showers on Sunday, mainly north. Highs 25 to 35. Lows tend to lower 20s.
 Elsewhere in the nation Tuesday, a high of 99 degrees was reported at McAllen, Texas, and the low of 1 degrees below zero was recorded at Warsaw, Minn.

Lawmakers release tax increase plan

BOISE (AP) — Four lawmakers plan to propose legislation in the opening days of the 1986 Idaho legislative session that would raise state tax receipts by more than $100 million a year and make sweeping changes in the tax code.

There is no way to provide quality services without raising taxes, said Rep. L. Ed Brown, R-Pocatello, a co-sponsor of the legislation. "Our bill will at least provide a rallying point so some action can be taken."

State taxpayers must "make an investment" in the state's schools and government services to remain competitive with other states, Brown, the assistant director of the LDS Institute of Religion at Idaho State University, said in an interview.

The legislation Brown and Reps. Don Loveland, R-Boise; Tim Tucker, D-Portland; and Larry Echnhoff, D-Pocatello, plan to introduce is a revised version of their "Idaho Economic Recovery Act of 1986."

Brown said the lawmakers revised the bill to conform with the views of people who testified at a series of meetings last fall and to make it easier to pass the Legislature, which convenes Jan. 6.

The legislation would:

- Raise the state tax from 1 cent to 5 cents per dollar to raise $93 million.
- Add two brackets — 9 and 10 percent — to the state personal-income tax to raise $29 million. The move would increase taxes for everyone with taxable incomes of more than $10,000.
- Collect taxes from corporations and self-employed people quarterly, which would raise $10 million over two years.
- Lift the 5-percent cap on annual property-tax increases. The cap is the last vestige of the 1-percent property-tax limitation initiative approved by voters in 1978.
- Reduce the so-called 50-50 homeowners' property-tax exemption to the first $25,000 or 50 percent of a house's market value, whichever is less. The 50-50, which was assessed by voters, exempts the first $50,000 of a house's value.
- Allow cities and counties to impose a 1-percent sales tax with the approval of 55 percent of the voters.

The legislation also earmarks money for several purposes. It provides $27 million to balance the state's state budget and $11 million for a rainy-day fund.

The bill provides $4 million to $53 million in salary increases for public-school and higher-education careers, including public-school teachers. It also earmarks $12.5 million over two years for building construction and maintenance.

Cities and counties would get $14 million over two years to help offset the loss of federal revenue-sharing money.

The original legislation extended the sales tax in services, but that feature was dropped in the revised bill. Democratic Gov. John Evans in his budget message two weeks ago proposed extending the sales tax to instruct services to balance this year's budget and fund the 1987 budget.

The two new income tax brackets were included in the revised legislation. Idahoans currently pay a maximum of 7.5 percent on taxable income of $5,000 or more.

Under the revised bill, Idahoans earning $10,000 to $19,999 would pay 9 percent, and those earning $20,000 or more would pay 10 percent.

Brown said the Legislature cannot raise taxes without making major spending cuts or "gets by" until the economy rebounds. But an economic recovery depends on the quality of education and government services because business looks at those before it moves to a state, he said.

New Blue Book at hand

BOISE (AP) — The Idaho Blue Book is making a comeback after a three-year absence, but it's not as good as the previous one.

This one is a good midsize, pretty modest proposition compared to its predecessors. The up-to-date compendium of previous one-year editions is available for $5 a copy, the eighth since Conarrusa has fewer pages and uses only started having them printed in black and white pictures.

Vice president may be Lincoln Day speaker

BOISE (AP) — Vice President George Bush is expected to be the keynote speaker for Idaho Republicans' Lincoln Day dinner on Feb. 20, party Executive Director Dave Pearson said.

Pearson said Bush would be the most prominent speaker in the history of Lincoln Day in Boise, Idaho, starting what now is a GOP tradition to early 1980s.

For security reasons, the White House seldom confirms the visit of the president or vice president until the last moment. But Pearson said Sen. Jim McClure's office has been working to get Bush to appear in Boise.

Bush's last visit to Idaho in 1984 was to stump for McClure's re-election.

Pearson said a separate event may be held to raise money for the party if Bush comes. The Lincoln Day dinner is a non-profit event and is not sponsored by the GOP, he said.

Bush, who is expected to run for president in 1988, will be on a political swing through the West in February, and is scheduled to ap-

Another family leaves as river ice jam builds

ONTARIO (AP) — Oregon National Guardsmen evacuated another family on Tuesday from a low-lying area south of Ontario and stood by to help others leave as the Snake River continued to build upstream.

"We have eight more on hold," said Capt. Tom Moore. "They're not ready to move yet, but we're watching their situation closely."

In central Idaho, a massive ice jam was building on the Salmon River, threatening severe winter flooding in Salmon and Lemhi County, Corps of Engineers spokesman

Dale Ford said that jam, already 30 miles in length, was within five miles of the city and building nearly as fast as one that caused an estimated $4 million in flood and ice damage to the city and county two years ago.

Salmon officials readied heavy equipment and 3,000 sandbags in anticipation of renewed flooding, but little else was being done.

"There's nothing you can do," said city manager Polly Prechal. "You can't second guess where it's going to come. You just stand by to protect property and people."

Police controversy forces recall vote

AMMON (AP) — A recall election for two Ammon city councilmen has been set for Feb. 4, City Clerk Dean Hemingway said.

Ms. Hemingway scheduled the election Tuesday after the Bonaville County Sheriff's Department served councilmen Merle Quigley and Thayne Monson with copies of a letter notifying them a petition had been filed for their recall.

Councilwoman Carol Dille also was listed on the petition, but will not be named on the recall ballot because her term expires Thursday, Ms. Hemingway said.

Two board members elected in November, Bruce Aral and Gerald Mitchell, will replace Ms. Dille and outgoing Councilman Bob Williamson.

Lewiston to issue $7.1 million bond

LEWISTON (AP) — The FBI of Lewiston Commission has approved resolutions to issue $7.1 million in industrial revenue bonds to finance construction of a new sawmill and wood cleaning plant at the port.

The commission approved bond indenture resolutions Monday for companies sell the bonds.

$5.5 million in tax-free bonds for Eastside Trading Co. and Spangnum firm and $1.6 million in bonds for the Lewiston Grain Growers.

Commission Chairman B.H. Wittman said construction on the projects could begin next spring if the companies sell the bonds.

Refreshing logic from a coach!

Today across America, a few tens of millions of flabby adolescents will fill the cranies of their chairs in front of television sets to engage in non-stop football watching — an activity which once was described as leaving the participants legally brain dead.

A fair number will be the envious alumni of teams who aren't playing. For many, it would be unimaginable that any college team in America would turn down — yes, reject — an opportunity to appear on national television.

They would have a difficult time understanding the logic of Amherst College coach James Ostendarp, who turned down an ESPN offer to pay for rights to televise his small college's 100th meeting with neighboring Williams College this fall.

But listen to Ostendarp's refreshing tone: "We're in education; we're not in the entertainment business. We're number one in the country in small (college) academics. To put us on TV and say 'This is Amherst,' well, it just doesn't measure up.

God, what heresy! Here's a coach who rejects exposure and money with a sniff, televising the game would not be in the best interests of Amherst."

Perhaps a bit of similar perspective on the value of a college education would do us all some good.

Amherst and Williams were recently ranked in the top three small schools in the nation by U.S. News & World Report, right where they have been for decades.

That they don't play big time football means nothing to their thousands of alumni. Indeed, Ostendarp's rejection of ESPN's overture has drawn mostly support from Amherst alumni. Even the college president backs him.

Can you imagine that from some of the jellyfish who have had super-egos like Woody Hayes, Bobbie Knight and Eddie Sutton running their teams?

Hang in there, Coach Ostendarp. One day college sports will no longer be the insane hoopla it is today.

"OH NO... EVERYTIME I KILL SOMEONE I LOSE MY LICENSE FOR A MONTH! I HATE IT WHEN THAT HAPPENS..."

Keep debate sponsorship nonpartisan

Dorothy S. Ridings

You've probably seen the news stories in recent weeks heralding the "Constitutional Initiative" of Presidential Debates under the sponsorship of two major political parties. Take a closer look before uncorking the champagne.

The source of all the hubbub was an "agreement" by the chairmen of the Democratic and Republican National Committees of their intention to sponsor Presidential Debates. The parties would have us believe that if we leave it to them, everything will work out just fine. They say we'll have challenging debate formats that make the candidates confront the issues. They say we'll have a debate schedule that serves the interests of the voters, not just the candidates. And most importantly, they say that we'll have debates every presidential election year.

"Yeah, sure," the news stories didn't say it, but the parties' agreement seems a good deal more than a good deal. It is a guarantee. One thing was made crystal clear: If it isn't stated that the parties could not promise to deliver the candidates, this was the product of months of party negotiations in a relative political vacuum — three years before any nominees are even in the muddy waters. Imagine how well the parties would do in an election year.

Because the parties are partisan animals, they are hardly suitable sponsors for events that depend on fair and nonpartisan sponsorship. When the League sponsors debates, we work for the voters. The parties work for their candidates. So the watchword of party-sponsored debates would be "safe." Safe formats, safe questions, safe everything. The parties may win, but the voters surely lose.

Of course, there's the third party and independent candidate issue. How likely is it that the Democrats and Republicans would include significant "other" candidates in their debates? Moreover, the parties are even less likely to deliver the candidates than is an independent organization. The party chairs serve at the pleasure of the nominees: If a candidate wanted to duck a debate, would the nominees own appointment on the public pressure? Quite the contrary: by controlling the machinery of the negotiations, the candidates are in a perfect position to use the parties as a smokescreen for their own unwillingness to debate.

Then there's the problem of the "host broker" in the negotiations. I've sat at the table with the campaign managers and hammered out the innumerable details that go into a debate agreement: distance between the podiums, topics to be covered, color of the curtain, number of cameras in the hall — you name it, it's on the table for negotiation. Any of those problems can result in a breakdown in negotiations. If the parties were sponsoring, who would step forward to resolve disputes? Simply put, party-sponsored debates would probably never take place.

All this talk about party sponsorship is just that: talk. There is no debate franchise to be awarded. The parties are about to find that out.

Presidential debates are simply too important to leave to the power-moguls of the smoke-filled back room. That's why the League of Women Voters sponsors the presidential debates in 1972, 1976 and 1980, already planning for 1984. The Presidential Debates must be sponsored by an organization the voters can trust. For the past three presidential election years, that has been the League of Women Voters. And we'll be right there in 1990, too.

Dorothy S. Ridings is president of the League of Women Voters of the United States.

Faulty energy planning of 1970s haunts 1980s ratepayers

Ken Robison

From the standpoint of Idaho and other Northwest consumers, the best power plants of the 1980s were the ones that were never built.

Electricity rates have doubled in recent years because of the high cost of new power plants coming into service.

Some of the rate increases are the result of faulty planning by utilities and government agencies in the 1970s. Too many power plants were planned in the Northwest, and too many were built or started.

Since any new plant means higher rates, the faster new plants are added, the faster rates go up. If there had been more emphasis on conservation in the 70s, and less on building new plants, consumers could be saving millions of dollars.

Utilities and the Bonneville Power Administration embarked on a huge expansion program in the 70s, based mostly on coal and nuclear plants. They assumed the rapid growth in demand for electricity of the 70s would continue unabated in the 80s.

A total of 27 new coal and nuclear plants were planned. Twelve were never built, but 15 were. And some were started and not completed.

With the construction of those 15, the region has an estimated surplus of 2,300 megawatts. That's enough energy to serve most of the state of Idaho.

As the cost of power from high-cost new plants was blended with the low-cost power produced by other plants, rates increased. Some of the economic benefit of the low-cost hydro system was lost.

What happened? Demand for electricity was growing at 6 to 7 percent a year in the early 70s. It's now growing at 1 or 2 percent, and the high growth rates are expected to continue.

As rates increased with new plants, both business and residential customers turned to conservation to reduce demand. Conservation efforts have helped along by the utilities, offering low-cost or no-cost loans and other incentives. And national policies produced high interest rates and a strong dollar, slowing the region's economy.

The Idaho Public Utilities Commission was created in 1976 for the purpose of denying the application to Idaho Power Co. to build a 1,000-megawatt coal plant near Boise. That turned out to be a wise decision.

Further than building 1,000 megawatts of capacity, Idaho Power decided to build 250 megawatts of capacity near Winnemucca, Nev., in conjunction with Sierra Pacific.

Rates to the company's customers rose $29 million a year when the first 125 megawatts came on line. Now, with the second 125 completed, Idaho Power is asking another $47 million a year.

Since the addition of 250 megawatts equals $66 million a year in higher rates, this means if the Pioneer plant had been approved, with 1,000 megawatts, it would have produced rate increases totaling $260 million per year. For consumers that would be equal to adding six cents to the sales tax.

Now there is a question whether the second 125 megawatts in Nevada is needed or is in addition to the region's surplus.

Throughout the region, utilities are cutting back on expansion plans. But consumers are paying a price for the faulty planning of the 70s.

Eventually, more capacity will probably be needed. One reason is the decision of the Idaho Legislature to accept a Snake River water agreement in 1985. That agreement provides for a reduction in river flows of 600 cubic feet per second.

Reducing river flows means less water through the generators of existing dams on the Snake and Columbia, and less low-cost power. As the supply of low-cost power is reduced, it is replaced with power from new plants, costing far more to produce. A University of Idaho economist calculates that the Swan Falls agreement will cost Northwest consumers $53 million a year in higher rates.

Consumers will be hurt by the Swan Falls agreement, just as they have been hurt by the faulty energy planning of the 70s.

Letters/ Kimberly mess will continue until someone steps in to clean up

Back mayor 100 percent

After reading the Kimberly Report in Sunday's Times-News, and the HPEI letter from councilman Jack Wright, as a citizen of Kimberly I feel a great responsibility.

I think that the citizens of Kimberly should take their hats off and praise the Mayor, Ron Jones, for what he has done in regards to the Kimberly Police Department.

Kimberly does not need to establish a Kimberly Police Department. Chief Jim Campbell run out of office and any other Kimberly citizens that back the police chief.

Kimberly has a mayor that is not afraid of standing up for what is right and what is wrong. What he reports all the citizens of Kimberly who do not want to get a puppet like some of the other council members ago. Mayor Ron Jones tells things that are wrong in Kimberly.

Why do we have a council member wanting to cover up and change the reports?

Citizens of Kimberly, open your eyes and see that this has gone on for a long, long time. It will continue to go on until somebody steps in to clean this mess up.

Police Chief Campbell has had a long rein on Kimberly, and has been able to do anything that he wanted. Are you as citizens of Kimberly going to let this happen and let our Mayor be recalled? I say, who would you stand up for?

A police chief that covers his tracks, and continues to do wrong, or a mayor that is letting the citizens of Kimberly know the wrongs in our city.

If for one will back the mayor 100 percent, and all of Kimberly should do the same thing.

Government can go broke

Thanks so much for the editorial in the paper. It is so good to allow me to express my views through the years.

Christmas is the time when we are supposedly a more benevolent people, has come and gone and I didn't find myself more concerned than I feel any other day of the year. Maybe that classifies me as old. I saw the hunger, thirst and suggest people on TV. I don't know if it is the same thing, but course this made me more aware. There was a time when people, as a whole, would have solved such problems through spontaneous charity.

We are no longer able to share as we once did. We are now taxed until we find it almost beyond our power to support self. Their worse yet is the fact that we are illegally taxed. Yes, the 16th Amendment gave our citizens no right to put our tax on the Amendment was never legally ratified so every dime extracted from a pay check in the name of Federal Income Tax has been illegal and the distribution of money gathered in this manner has been illegal.

No government can give any individual anything without first taking it from someone else. No government, no group can do enough, even legally, to eliminate the duty of individual, person to person. Government can take away a lot of our ability to perform such duty.

When government takes over the duty by taxing the responsible persons, most of the money is then absorbed by the distributors while the poor get poorer, become dependent.

Let it be remembered though that those poor can still vote so a handout will influence a vote. Then while our hungry in America from the streets, many of them in such straits because they were unable to avoid it, we give to the IMF, to supposedly, our friends and our own people, to our friend and foe. Our president signed agreement that guaranteed aid from America to another fresh crop of babies will go to government. Just how much of American aid sent this will go beyond that communist government? The Hollywood stars by choice have been striving to help those people. Our time runs out to start a new world, for a short while will be fed.

It means fame for the star which will eventually add to their assets. It means also that a bit of extra tax will perk up the economy as an entire public group and another fresh crop of babies will be going to be fed or to starve. The U.S. cannot go on feeding the world while we have hungry here at home while the national debt grows by the hour. Those people now starving will not eat until we replenish the earth. It is sad that, no matter how we blame it all on drought, they have had longer to learn than the U.S. has and yet, they are unable to use a spoon properly for their sole concern is to eat until they replenish the earth. It is sad that we are so willing to neglect our own and help them to increase in number when we could, if we do anything, seek to sterilize the suppliers of stocks.

We know that farmers, businessmen and families have had to resort to bankruptcy, but our leaders seem unaware that the government can go belly up. It is time we stop polling and financing the world, stop friend and foe, and give thought to getting out from under the Marxist control that we have put us in this tight hole. The fact that we went under gradually, allowed it to happen. Such a move suddenly would have fallen. Now that America is reaping the reward for its apathy we have corruption from police forces on up to higher branches of government. Terrorism is beyond control of the controllers and it will get worse unless our leaders concentrate on just what power they have, adhere to the Constitution. A free people are a sacred ground but in bondage we can do nothing.

I thank for great holiday

I hope you will put this in the paper, as it is the only way I have of thanking all of the kind, wonderful people who all pitched in and made our Christmas so beautiful. I would write to all of them, but I don't know their names or addresses.

My children and I just moved back here, and this was our first Christmas without my mom and their grandma. I started the first day of May. She always did so much for us, and always there. It seemed so not having her with us; but for my kids it seemed like she was here, thanks to all of the kind people who made their Christmas like it would have been had she been with us.

A special and grateful thanks to Mrs. Duncan and her class, who have helped us so much since we moved here.

Policy: Big cheap deal

I have a question for the general public. Just how good is your mechanical breakdown insurance, which you may or may not have? If it is like the policy we had purchased when I bought a 1981 Chevrolet for my daughter from a Twin Falls dealer it is hardly worth the paper on which it is written.

I bought this car and policy on Jan. 21, 1985, and on April 26th it blew the starter, while my daughter was starting it after her own ineptness at the wheel.

I tried to get it to a shop to have it repaired the next day (Saturday) but the shop was closed.

I decided, being a mechanic myself with over 20 years of experience that since my daughter needed the car to get back and forth to work, I would do the work myself at home. I don't have a shop, myself working for the local school bus company. I called around and located a starter at Checker Auto Parts. The starter, including tax was $54.00.

The deductible on the policy was $50 each but I was able to get the insurance company for the $54.00 and said I'd be satisfied with the flat rate I had for replacing the starter.

On Aug. 20, 1985 I received a check for $4.00 from the insurance company and a note that said — please return the check to my licensed repair shop. Big cheap deal.

I was so disgusted that I wrote in and asked them to cancel my policy and reimburse me for the unused portion. After a hassle over how to do this, finally falling on their face, I received a check for $17.00. I had sent in for this cancellation on Sept. 10, 1985. So altogether, should have been reimbursed for slightly over 4 months of unused insurance. Another big cheap deal.

My advice is just read over your policy and then decide just who it is benefiting and it isn't exactly cheap. My policy cost me $325 for a year. Dealers name and insurance company furnished if you care to call, 733-7557.

Farm prices rise slightly in December

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prices farmers get for raw products rose 0.9 percent in December, the third increase in a row for the monthly index. But it still fell 1985 with a 3.2 percent decline from a year earlier, the Agriculture Department said Tuesday.

Department economists say there is no major recovery in sight, at least through the first half of 1986.

The report said higher prices for lettuce, hogs, corn, tomatoes and soybeans helped lift the overall index from its November level, but lower prices for oranges, broilers, cotton, lemons and wheat partially offset the gains for the other commodities.

According to USDA records, the rise in the price index for the first half of 1985 was the first since July 1981. Prices held even for several months last winter but then dropped steadily until leveling off last September and then rising in October, November and December.

The December price report showed that the farm prices of livestock and livestock products were up 0.7 percent from November but still averaged 4.1 percent below a year ago. Crop prices were up 1.7 percent from November, but averaged 6.4 percent below the year-earlier level.

Net farm income dropped sharply in 1985, probably totaling $25 billion to $29 billion, according to USDA estimates. For 1986, department economists project another decline to a range of $22 billion to $28 billion.

Overall, December farm commodity prices averaged 128 percent of a 1977 base used for comparison, according to the preliminary figures. That was up one percentage point from the revised November reading of 127 percent. In December 1984, the index stood at 135 percent.

The December parity ratio was 92 percent, unchanged from the revised November level and 49 percent above last September when it sank to 49 percent and tied the low reached, according to department records, in June 1932 during the depths of the Depression.

IRS advised to follow up

WASHINGTON (AP) — The IRS will help enforce both state and federal tax laws. The agency should look into the information that states pass along about the GAO taxpayers they have audited. The GAO General Accounting Office says. Tax adjustments taken by four states recently released under the IRS the congressional agency of in 1982 and found the federal tax information exchanges by the IRS agency took action in 22 percent and state tax agencies said but as the cases. The states were ter use of existing information California, New York, North would be an inexpensive way to Carolina and South Carolina.

Social welfare spending in 1983 rose by 3.9%

WASHINGTON (AP) — Total federal, state and local governments spent 7 billion in fiscal 1983 to run all social welfare programs from public schools to pensions for the elderly to food for the needy, the Social Security Administration said Tuesday.

The spending on all social welfare programs was $45.8 billion higher, or 7.7 percent, than in 1982, but these services consumed the same share of the Gross National Product, 19.4 percent.

Taking inflation into account, the social spending rose by 3.1 percent above the 1982 figure, according to a brief report by Ann Kallman Bixby of Social Security's Office of Research, Statistics and International Policy.

The social welfare programs accounted for almost 55 percent of all government expenditures.

State and local governments spent a larger share of their budgets on such programs than the federal government — 51 percent compared to 6.52 percent.

In 1950, governments spent only 37.3 percent of their budgets attending to the health, education and welfare of citizens, and the programs consumed only 42 percent of the Gross National Product. By 1970, the programs claimed a 48 percent share of government spending and cost almost 15 percent of the GNP.

Social welfare spending as a percentage of all government expenditures peaked at 20 percent in 1976, when the programs cost 19.3 percent of the GNP. Since then, the programs' share of governments' budgets has declined to 15.8 percent.

As a percentage of the GNP, the social welfare expenditures dipped to 17.8 percent in 1979, then moved back up to the all-time high of 19.4 percent in both 1982 and 1983.

The 1983 spending of $64.7 billion broke out this way:

- $330.6 billion for social insurance, including Social Security, Medicare and other government pensions;
- $115.5 billion for education; $85.8 billion in public aid, including Medicaid, and such welfare programs as food stamps, Aid to Families with Dependent Children and Supplemental Security Income;
- $34.3 billion for other health and medical care;
- $25.8 billion for veterans' programs;
- $17 billion for housing;
- $12 billion for assorted other services, including vocational rehabilitation, institutional care and child nutrition.

Beau booked in murder investigation

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Authorities on Tuesday arrested the boyfriend of a "Soviet" onigru who testified in the spy trial of fired FBI agent Richard Miller and was later found dead in a car that plunged off a cliff onto a beach.

Yudimir Ratchkine, 47, was booked for investigation of murder in the death of Ludmila Kondratyeva, 36, whose body was found in a car smashed by the surf off Santa Monica last Saturday, Deputy John Broussard said.

Asked if her death was related in any way to Miller's espionage trial, Broussard said, "All there's saying is that a preliminary investigation revealed that it was some type of domestic quarrel."

The couple had lived together since 1981, he said, state money was held without bail in the county jail.

Seiberling might not seek 9th term

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. John Seiberling, D-Ohio, an environmental crusader during his eight terms in the House, said Tuesday that he does not plan to seek reelection in 1986 but would consider running if the Democratic Party fails to find a strong replacement.

In a telephone interview from Akron, Seiberling said, "I'll be 64 next year, and I'm in good health; having recovered from a close shave with cancer of the prostate." That made me realize that at some point everybody has to bow out, and the time to do it is while you're still ahead."

Atkins: no parole

FRONTIER, Calif. (AP) — Susan Denise Atkins, the former Charles Manson disciple convicted in the 1969 cult slaying of actress Sharon Tate and seven others, was denied parole for a sixth time Tuesday.

Ms. Atkins, who pleaded in tears for her release, also was told she could not reapply for parole for three years.

Anxiety is weird. It tears up some people so badly they'll do almost anything to get rid of it. Like get drunk and stay drunk. It's always other people so, generally they'll do almost anything to generate it. Like gamble everything until everything is gone. Both extremes respond to the treatment. And, curiously, the treatment group therapy for both extremes is almost identical.

Russian scientists discovered a muscle makes a small noise when it moves. Sounds like a musical note, if greatly amplified. Each muscle makes a different note. The body of a person wired up like a percussive can be played by that person just like an organ. Now they're composing special melodies. The playing of which will give extra exercise to the muscles that group the work.

WHAT CAESAR SAID
Q. Julius Caesar said "I came, I saw, I conquered." But where'd he come, what'd he see, who'd he conquer?
A. Asia was where. What he saw I do not know, but he beat up the Pharnaces in the Battle of Zela. That's much clearer.

Q. Any chance the fictional lawyer Perry Mason will ever marry his secretary Della Street?
A. Why not? The author, Eric Koster, at age 79 finally married his executive secretary. The natives of North and South America (Ariana and the South Seas) worked for him for all years. She was Explorer's logs indicate it started to go international at just about the time Christopher Columbus was

Miller's death linked to bombs

LONDON (AP) — A World War II pilot said Tuesday he believes his group accidentally bombed the plane carrying band leader Glenn Miller, whose disappearance is one of the lingering mysteries of the war. The Royal Air Force, however, is not convinced. Miller, one of the most popular Big Band leaders of the 1940s, was at the peak of his career when he enlisted to the U.S. Army Air Force. He was lost on Dec. 15, 1944, when the single-engine Norseman C-64 flying him from England to France disappeared over the channel in thick fog. The plane never reached France, and no trace was found of Miller, the pilot, the second passenger or the plane. Alan Ross of the British Glenn Miller Appreciation Society said the theory that bombs from a British plane downed Miller's plane began with the reminiscences of Fred H. Shaw, the navigator of a Lancaster bomber who now lives in Johannesburg, South Africa. "Shaw saw 'The Glenn Miller Story' film in the 1950s and it set him thinking," he said. The Associated Press by telephone. Shaw checked his wartime logbook and realized that Miller's plane had disappeared the same day the bomber flight had yet to be identified. The former navigator wrote to the Ministry of Defense but his theory was dismissed. Ross said Ross sought out Victor Gregory, the pilot of the Lancaster, who corroborated Shaw's story. Gregory told the AP in a telephone interview that on the day Miller disappeared, his crew members were watching the blast patterns of bombs they re-grown children, said "most women who've had children know that's wrong." Recalling the book was the only right thing to do, Mrs. Westheimer said. "God forbid somebody should read that and say, 'This is safe week,'" she said. "I proofread it myself," she said. "I'm not going to put any blame on anybody else. What I think happened is that in my mind I read the word 'unsafe' and didn't catch that it was safe. It's very clear that of course it's unsafe." Luckily, the next sentence says never to use that method without professional consultation. Mrs. Scarpellino said Mrs. Westheimer called to thank her for blowing the whistle and invite her to lunch. "I think it's amazing that nobody else caught it. She thought it was amazing too," said Mrs. Scarpellino. "I think very highly of her radio show," she said.

Fertile period error prompts recall of 'Dr. Ruth' sex book

NEW YORK (AP) — Ruth Westheimer, champion of good sex, good contraception and good information, has a bad error in her sex guide for teen-agers that has prompted a recall of all 115,000 copies. In a chapter on avoiding pregnancy, the sex therapist and radio-TV lecturer known to her admirers as "Dr. Ruth" mistakenly tells girls that they are least likely to get pregnant at times when they really are most fertile. "I'm very upset that that happened," Mrs. Westheimer said Tuesday. "I immediately said on my television show and the radio that there is a typo, that we are going to recall all the books." Her publisher will replace the white-covered $3.50 paperback with a red-covered corrected version, said Barbara Uva, speaking for Warner Books. She was not able to estimate how much the recall would cost the company. The error went unnoticed for three months after bookstores received 115,000 copies of "First Love: A Young People's Guide to Sexual Information," by Mrs. Westheimer and professor Nathan Kivvete.

PG-13 Rating Introduced A new rating category is in place as of July 1, this new category is inserted between the current PG and R ratings. It is designated as PG-13: Parents are strongly cautioned to give special guidance for attendance of children under 13. Some material may be inappropriate for young children. The revised five-category system of the voluntary film industry rating program is now as follows: PG: Parental guidance suggested. Some material may not be suitable for children. PG-13: Parents are strongly cautioned to give special guidance for children under 13. Some material may be inappropriate for young children. R: Restricted, under-17 requires accompanying parent or adult guardian. X: No one under 17 admitted. All films rated after July 1 will be given ratings under the new five-category system.

Fishbowl flushes fire set by cat; fish saved

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Cat sets Christmas tree on fire, heat of fire cracks nearby fishbowl, water from fishbowl douses part of fire, firefighters arrive, fire is out. It was no ordinary Monday for the firefighters at Eugene Station 5. The alarm sounded at 9:24 a.m. and firefighters arrived two minutes later at the house owned by Ralph and Beverly Metzger. They found the fire that had spread from a Christmas tree to a sewing machine and carpet. Eagle-eyed firefighter Tom Lesiak observed a prone figure—a goldfish—lying in a cracked fishbowl near the Christmas tree, said fire Capt. Clyde Kelley. The fish's name is also Clyde, no relation. Lesiak went to the kitchen and retrieved a plastic bowl filled it with water and placed the goldfish in the bowl. It revived. "The fish was lying there kind of limp. I didn't know if he was going to live but he took off swimming right away," Lesiak said. "It was a definite save," Kelley said. The family cat, Zina, fled after 2 unidentified men view the aftermath of bombings meant to kill Assad Shafart, peace accord negotiator.

Gunmen fail in bid to slay Gemayel

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Am-bushers fired automatic guns and rocket-propelled grenades at a motorcade in the Christian sector of Beirut Tuesday.

The presidential palace said it was a failed attempt to assassinate President Amin Gemayel. He was not in the motorcade.

A presidential palace communiqué said eight bodyguards and presidential aides were wounded and seriously injured in the motorcade ambush.

On Tuesday night, two car bombs exploded simultaneously on a highway north of Beirut close to the site of the midmorning ambush.

Police said three army officers were killed while trying to defuse the bombs, each consisting of 220 pounds of TNT, when the two cars blew up, police said.

The bombings took place on the coastal highway near the so-called Death River about four miles north of the center of Beirut.

The state radio said the car bombs were spotted 50 yards and 300 yards, respectively, from where the unidentified ambushers tried to kill Gemayel, a Christian.

The New Year's Eve attack occurred several hours after a nationwide cease-fire was declared as part of a Syrian-sponsored effort to end

Lebanon's 10 years of civil war.

The ambush touched off fighting between Christian militias but did not shatter the truce along the Green Line separating Beirut's Christian and Muslim sectors.

The Lebanese Forces Christian militia claimed the attack was an attempt to kill one of its officials, security chief Assad Shafart.

A militia commander and Shafart, 29, was unharmed when his car was hit by gunfire and grenades.

The militia said the ambush was made by 50 assailants in the Christian Salahiye of Zalka on Beirut's north coast.

One of Shafart's bodyguards was killed and another was seriously wounded, according to the militia, which is Lebanon's strongest Christian force.

The conflicting accounts of the ambush reflected the power struggle between the Lebanese Forces and Gemayel's Phalangie Party for dominance in the Christian heartland north of Beirut.

The Phalangie has declared its opposition to a Syrian-sponsored cease-fire agreement the Lebanese Forces signed in Damascus on Saturday with the main Druse and Syrian-sponsored effort to end

Population increases by 79 million

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The number of people in the world increased by 79 million from mid-1984 to mid-1985, a growth of 1.7 percent, according to U.N. statistics released Tuesday.

The world's population is estimated at 4.842 billion. The largest percentage increase was in Africa where population grew to 553 million, a rise of 3 percent. The increase in Asia was 1.7 percent, to 2.824 billion.

The lowest increase, 0.4 percent, was in Europe, where the total population reached 492 million. The population of the Soviet Union, measured separately, rose 0.7 percent to 278 million. Estimates were not made for other individual countries.

The population of North and Central America grew 1.5 percent to 401 million. South America's population grew by 2.3 percent to 266 million.

Terrorists said ready to strike

ROME (AP) — A man charged as the lone surviving terrorist in the Rome airport attacks says that Libya provided support for the mission and that 300 fellow terrorists are set to launch similar onslaughts, a Rome newspaper said Tuesday.

Tempo and other newspapers reported that the attackers who hit Leonardo da Vinci Airport in Rome Friday morning also had plans to hijack planes and force them to crash on Tel Aviv, Israel.

There are 300 of us, all devoted to suicide actions. When I left Lebanon, preparations were being made for two other attacks like ours at the airports of Madrid and Paris, it Tempo quoted Mohammed Sarham as saying.

PLO chief accuses unnamed Arabs

TUNIS, Tunisia (AP) — PLO chairman Yasser Arafat accused unnamed Arab intelligence services on Tuesday of backing terrorist operations against innocent civilians and said he condemned such terrorism.

Arafat did not mention last Friday's airport attacks in Rome and Vienna which killed 18 people and injured about 120.

The message to the Arab nation made public by the Palestine Liberation Organization headquarters in Tunis, Arafat also urged dissident factions to "return to the Palestinian family."

hijack plane being held in a military hospital. Fifteen people were killed in the Rome attack, including five Americans and three terrorists.

We have the support of Khadafi, and maybe Syria, it Tempo quoted Sarham as telling investigators. Col. Moammar Khadafi is the leader of Libya.

Sarham told investigators that he was planning for the attacks began shortly after Israel's Oct. 1 air raid on the Palestine Liberation Organization headquarters in Tunis.

Two wounded men in the Vienna airport attack claim to belong to a breakaway Libyan-backed faction of the PLO led by Abu Nidal, who is believed to be based in Libya.

Winnie Mandela freed but remains defiant

KAGISO, South Africa (AP) — Anti-apartheid activist Winnie Mandela was freed on Tuesday on condition that she finally bow to a state-ordered expelling her from the Johannesburg area, but she remained defiant.

Her lawyers said Tuesday night that she will probably try to return to her home in Johannesburg's Soweto black township, risking arrest for the third time in 10 days in a growing confrontation with the whiteled government.

The government Tuesday banned public meetings for six months in every major anti-apartheid organization in 30 districts covered by a state of emergency. The 74 organizations listed included the United Democratic Front, the main opponent of South Africa's system of racial segregation.

The government gave no reason for the decree, which underlines powers police already have under the emergency imposed July 21 in an unsuccessful bid to quell 16 months of anti-apartheid rioting.

In a New Year message at the end of a bleak and bloody year, President P.W. Botha complained that the international community was pressing for change "virtually overnight" in South Africa, where the 5 million white minority rule and deny the vote to 24 million blacks.

State prison cap has area sheriffs worried

By BONNIE BAIRO JONES
and PAT MARCANTONIO
Times-News Staff

If inmate limit lasts, they fear running out of jail space

The major concern of Magic Valley sheriffs already shipping prisoners out to other over the state prison cap on the county jails, and when those jails reach their number of inmates it will accept from county jails where they can no longer house them. Twin Falls County Jail.

Twin Falls County frequently houses its inmates in the county jails, and when those jails reach their number of inmates it will accept from county jails where they can no longer house them. Twin Falls County Jail.

Jerome County said its county will help Twin Falls County whenever possible, but doubts the help would be of any consistent value.

"At this time, we aren't housing any committed Jerome County prisoners for the State Board of Corrections," Webb said. "How long the state prison freeze remains in effect will determine the amount of problems we could have. There is no doubt about it, there will be some problems if it continues any length of time."

Webb said Jerome County houses federal inmates for its county (necessary) prisoners, such as illegal aliens for the U.S. Border Patrol and has for the last two to three years.

"We feel obligated to continue to serve them as we have under our contract. I can see where the freeze stays on for any length of time."

"I don't have any room in my jail now. I'm already shipping prisoners out to other county jails here and there. I can't continue to house them as they serve their sentences."

The judges and courts sentence these people to the State Board of Corrections and people are demanding more penalties for convicted criminals. It is ridiculous that Idaho has only one state penitentiary," Munn said. "They (legislators) are going to have to come up with some money for more prison facilities. Not everyone qualifies for work release programs."

Blaine County because of the state prison restrictions, Sheriff Dennis Haynes said. The Blaine County jail, the only Class A facility in south-central Idaho, houses 30 to 33 prisoners at capacity.

Sentencing has been at a minimum because both district judges have been ill and judges have been coming in as needed," Haynes said.

Even with the restriction, there may be room in his jail for some Twin Falls County inmates, Haynes said.

"I have talked with Munn and we feel right now we could handle about 18 inmates for his county (necessary) prisoners," Haynes said. "We would prefer sentenced prisoners because of the transportation distance and I think Twin Falls County would agree."

The housing cost would be held to $20 per day per prisoner, Haynes said.

Smoking ban leads the list of new laws

New year brings new rules, most dealing with state fees

By DEAN S. MILLER
Times-News Staff

TWIN FALLS — The anti-smoking Clean Indoor Air Act goes into effect today, one of the last five laws enacted by the 1985 Legislature to go into effect.

Grocery stores and restaurants are among the public places affected by the law, though restaurants must still provide non-smoking sections. Instead of prohibiting all smoking, banning smoking in public meetings and public places, House Bill 63 is described as "an act providing for the protection of the public health and environment by prohibiting smoking in public places and at public meetings."

Deputy Secretary of State Miren Artley said Tuesday that the 1985 legislature enacted about 100 fewer bills than have passed in previous years.

"It was really rather noticeable," she said.

The usual number is around 350-400, while only 274 were passed last winter.

She said about 95 percent of all bills generally go into effect on the first day of the state's fiscal year, July 1. The remaining 5 percent go into effect on the first day of county fiscal years, Oct. 1, or on the first day of the next tax year.

A few tax bills are written to go into effect retroactively on Jan. 1 of the year the legislature acts. Even fewer, bearing an emergency clause, are effective as soon as they are signed by the governor. The Right-to-Work bill was passed with an emergency clause last winter that has been challenged in court.

Legislation has to be beginning today, non-resident fishing license fees will be increased under the law that started as House bills than have passed in previous years.

No shock among area supremacists

By DEAN S. MILLER
Times-News Staff

TWIN FALLS — Local members of the white supremacist Church of Jesus Christ said Tuesday they were not surprised by the guilty verdicts in the Seattle racketeering trial of 10 members of fellow white supremacist members of the Order.

"Did you expect anything else?" said church member Wayne Jones of Hansen. "It's a total set-up scam by the feds," he said. "Those guys were the enemies of the established order."

Monday, 10 members of the white supremacist group called the Order were convicted of racketeering and other charges in a string of robberies and shoot-outs with police in the federal government.

Asked if he thought Order members were guilty of robbing a bank in Ukiah, Calif., Jones said the robbery was immaterial.

"It's immaterial for the very simple fact that you had people doing the same thing on the East Coast, only they were Negroes, and they weren't tried for racketeering," he said.

John E. Miller of Jerome, pastor of the Jerome Children of Jesus Christ church, said the "infinite jury was stacked against the defendants."

"We know the way the government operates," he said. "That was a government jury, not a jury of the peers."

He said a jury of peers has to be comprised of people of the defendant's race. "I went to trial with a farmer. I should have farmers (on my jury)," he said. Miller said the members of the Order ought to have been tried before a jury versed in the ideology of the white separatist and Aryan Nation movement.

"They had a jury that thought we'll the government wanted them," he said. The U.S. Constitution has not been in effect in a bank in Ukiah, Calif., Jones said the robbery was immaterial.

Miller and Jones said they have more of to press by their white supremacists to protest the verdict.

Lack of Magic Valley rinks puts this family on home ice

By ANNETTE CARY
Times-News Staff

TWIN FALLS — The Lentz family is one of those kids are not complaining that there is nothing to do over the Christmas holidays.

They're spending their vacation playing hockey, ice tag and skating rings around their backyard.

"Where you grow up in the back of the house was a big thing," says Dave Lentz. "I thought my kids were missing out." But without a commercial rink between Sun Valley and Lake City, his kids had little chance to learn the sport.

Last year he decided to do something about it. He had a sprinkler half his back yard with water to make an ice skating rink.

The rink proved so popular that this year he took over a couple more and expanded the rink to a snow shovel in front of the house.

"When the ice gets thin they sprinkle on a new layer," he says. "I allow one to try first before adding the next. The water had to be added slowly, so that it didn't have the ice already formed," he says.

With the addition of a bench, an outdoor tape deck for music and a vapor light rigged above the rink has become the hit of the six Lentz children's friends and the Cub Scout pack that family had last year.

Skates were a problem at first — sporting goods stores in Twin Falls do not stock them. But the Lentzes were able to find pairs at garage sales, leftover from the days that ice skating was a more popular sport in the Magic Valley.

Now they own 14 pairs in sizes to fit the family, and with luck, any friends who are visiting.

"No one sharpens the blades locally that I know of," says Dave. "I've had to sharpen them occasionally, have been sharpened in Salt Lake City."

Maintenance of the rink has been no problem, however. The older kids glide over the ice with a snow shovel in front of the house.

Jerome, Heyburn opt to join insurance pool

The Associated Press
and The Times-News

BOISE — Two Magic Valley cities have made commitments to join the Association of Idaho Cities' self-insurance pool.

Jerome and Heyburn, along with other Idaho cities and counties, will be with liability insurance from private companies this week. And for many, the hope of coverage are self-insurance pools now being formed separately by the Association of Idaho Cities and the Idaho Association of Counties.

Tim Weatherby, director of the Association of Idaho Cities, said 30 cities had committed to the pool as of Tuesday, while other cities have shown an interest. From the Magic Valley, only Jerome and Heyburn have sent their premium checks.

Heyburn Mayor Harold Hurst said the association program is the city's only alternative. It can't buy coverage from private companies.

"We have no choice," Hurst said Tuesday.

He expects the premium from the Association of Idaho Cities. Governmental entities exchange will be somewhat lower than what the city previously paid for insurance, Hurst added.

Jerome City Clerk Marilyn Bragg said private insurance wasn't available so the city decided to go with the self-insurance pool, which will cost $10,000 for a one-time membership fee and a $27,675 one-year premium. The fee is just a little more than what the city previously paid and will buy less coverage.

City enjoys extra time to hunt for policy

By ANNETTE CARY
Times-News Staff

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls city council has approved a resolution to give the city extra time to hunt for a private insurer for city liability for the previous year. The city council may use the policy expires at the end of the year. The city has liability insurance through the Association of Idaho Cities' self-insurance pool. The city council has approved a resolution to give the city extra time to hunt for a private insurer for city liability for the previous year. The city council may use the policy expires at the end of the year. The city has liability insurance through the Association of Idaho Cities' self-insurance pool.

Weatherby said letters about the pool were mailed to more than 100 cities only Friday and many more commitments are expected. The cities' insurance pool will be available to other governmental entities, such as school districts and special districts.

Scott Wolsey, deputy attorney general assigned to the state Department of Insurance, said Tuesday the Association of Idaho Cities still needs to find a reinsurer before their respective self-insurance pools can start providing coverage. State officials already have received an application for an insurance license from the Governmental Entities Exchange.

Weatherby reported the AIC is meeting with two domestic carriers and could secure a reinsurer by Monday. The pool will provide coverage up to $100,000 but a reinsurer is needed to provide coverage up to $500,000 as required by law.

The AIC has talked to Lloyd's of London, but the large company didn't have time to process the association's application before the end of the year. John "Bud" Blaine, a Boise insurance broker working with the AIC, said he was optimistic the program will start providing coverage next week. The pool of funds is from which claims will be paid — must amount to about $600,000 before the program may begin operation, he added.

Wolsey said the Idaho Association of Counties also needs to find a reinsurer and to submit its license application with the state. All but three Idaho counties have agreed to participate in the county pool.

High premium costs and canceled policies from private insurance companies was the impetus behind the formation of the pools. Decisions by carriers to drop liability insurance effective Oct. 1 left many governmental entities scrambling for protection.

A class action suit filed by Bennecko County against Colonial Penn, the largest insurance carrier of governmental entities in the state, prompted carriers to extend most coverage until Jan. 1.

Despite the work by the respective associations, there still may be a gap when the private coverage ends and before the associations began extending coverage through the self-insurance pools.

Wolsey didn't have an estimate on how many governmental entities in the state would be without liability insurance Wednesday. The governmental entities effectively will be self-insured, he added, which means they would be responsible to pay any claims that might be awarded arising from the time they had no insurance.

If there is a gap in coverage, Hurst said Heyburn can't shut down and may be a target of litigation if they fall to offer services.

"We're liable if we do and liable if we don't," he added.

Card charge deals conviction

TWIN FALLS—A jury convicted a Twin Falls man recently of grand theft for using his employer's credit cards.

James E. Coakley, 53, also known as C. Elton James, was accused of charging more than $180 on the cards between Oct. 31, 1984, and Feb. 18, 1985. The cards belonged to Twin Falls attorney Golden Bennett, who had employed Coakley as a bookkeeper.

The trial started Dec. 17 in District Court in Twin Falls. After hearing testimony, the jury began deliberations the morning of Dec. 20 and returned with a guilty verdict about 5 hours later.

Coakley will be charged in February with fraudulent use of the credit cards. He was arrested on Feb. 18. That felony charge was dropped by the Twin Falls County Prosecutor's office May 6. A few days later, however, the prosecutors filed the grand theft charge.

Coakley will be sentenced at a later date. He faces a maximum punishment of up to 14 years imprisonment.

At the trial, Coakley was represented by Deputy Public Defender Tim Wilson. Deputy Prosecutor Beth Smith represented the state.

Hearing set on phone billing

BOISE—Testimony will be presented to the Idaho Public Utilities Board on Jan. 7 in Boise concerning an IPUC billing procedure adopted earlier this year for certain Mountain Bell rates.

The hearing, to be held in the commission hearing room at 472 W. Washington St., beginning at 9:30 a.m., will be the first of one delayed in September after certain objections were raised by AT&T Communications of the Mountain States, Inc.

At the September rehearing, AT&T raised procedural objections and the Commission granted additional time for objections to be filed.

The September rehearing had been granted at the request of Mountain Bell. The telephone company objected that it had not had the opportunity to address or respond to commission billing procedures adopted earlier in the year.

Commissioners allowed the rehearing request to determine how to carry out its earlier decision to allow Mountain Bell residential and single-line business customers who don't make long-distance calls in any one month to pay $1 per month less in local telephone charges.

AT&T's procedural objection was that consideration of an access charge increase was improper until additional notice had been given. It also argued the introduction of new subject matter items denied

Woodworking class scheduled

TWIN FALLS—The first session of an Adult Beginning Woodworking class will be held Tuesday, Jan. 7.

The classes will be held at the Twin Falls High School woodshop every Tuesday night, from 7 to 10 p.m. The sessions will be three hours in duration for 10 weeks.

If interested in the classes, call Kris Guiles, front office secretary, at 733-6559.

The classes will be $40 for 10 weeks, ending March 11.

Coordinator is hired by ICL

HALLEY—In an effort to increase its involvement in public lands issues for 1986, the Idaho Conservation League has hired Rick Johnson of Halley to serve as its public lands coordinator.

Johnson has a background in journalism and over 10 years of experience as a volunteer in the environmental movement.

Since two-thirds of Idaho's land belongs to the public, many people are very concerned about how that land is used. ICL has always had a role in policy-making about public lands, and I look forward to expanding that role," Johnson said of his new position.

Johnson's work will follow issues on both U.S. Bureau of Land Management and BLM's Service Lands. He will also be working with ICL members in commenting on national forest management plans, educating the public about public lands issues, and monitoring timber sales.

Idaho UPI director to speak

TWIN FALLS—Steve Green, news director of Idaho operations for the United Press International, will explain changes in his organization at the Sawtooth Press Club's January headliner luncheon Friday.

UPI is the news service subscribed to by Twin Falls stations KVMY-TV, KFLX-AM and KTFI-AM.

Green joined the Idaho UPI staff of four in 1983. However, after UPI filed for bankruptcy in April, the staff was cut to two, and the firm dropped Idaho newspaper service to concentrate on broadcast news.

The talk is scheduled for noon at George K's on Kimberly Road in Twin Falls. The public is invited.

Under the 1984 federal Deficit Reduction Act, limits were placed on the amount of money that could be raised with the bonds in each state.

By taking advantage of an alternative formula for determining the maximum amount of bonds a state could issue, Idaho increased its capacity by about $50 million, Blickenstauff said.

Financial help is available to keep chill off qualified power customers

TWIN FALLS—In addition to Christmas bills, a number of Idaho residents will probably find abnormal high power bills in their mailboxes as a result of the state's persistent cold weather.

Assistance is available to qualified customers who may have trouble paying their power bills according to Idaho Power's Boise office. Information about programs and eligibility is available through local spokesmen Larry Taylor.

Help is available locally through the Salvation Army and the Community Action Agency. Salvation Army receives money from the Project Share Program, the $1 optional donation that customers may make when paying their monthly power bill.

Persons having trouble paying their bills may also join Idaho

Power's level pay program, which proportions a yearly total utility bill into equal monthly payments.

To qualify for that program an individual must have lived at their current billing address for at least six months according to a customer service representative with the Idaho Power office in Twin Falls.

Cold weather has created high, but still not record-setting power demands.

The company's highest firm load peak—the power provided to customers whose power is not cut off unless there is an emergency—for this winter was 1,829 megawatts on Dec. 17. That was close to the company's all-time winter peak record of 1,907 megawatts on Jan. 19, 1984.

The winter peak this year, however, posed some problems for the company because it occurred when several of Idaho Power's jointly owned coal-fired generating units were having mechanical problems.

At one point, according to a press release from Idaho Power, three of the Jim Bridger plant's four 500-megawatt units were shut down for emergency repairs, and Valley's 287-megawatt second unit was off for a short time.

To meet the peak demands, Idaho Power interrupted service to two of its major non-firm customers and fired up a 30-megawatt auxiliary gas turbine at Halley.

Unlike most utilities which experience peak demands during winter months as cold weather and short days push both heat and light needs, Idaho Power has its highest demands during the summer months, when the power needs of irrigators are greatest.

The company's all-time record peak occurred July 8 when the load peak soared to 2,025 megawatts.

tend coverage to Jan. 26 to complete a full year of coverage.

That was fortunate for the city, Obenchain says. It now has more time to find an insurer than most Idaho cities and counties, whose coverage ends today.

The city's size also puts it in a better position to find a private insurer than many Idaho cities, he says. It is large enough to have enough of a premium payment to interest insurance companies, but is not so large as to be plagued with many choices.

The city has had only two major claims in recent years, Thompson says. Both involved the death of a child on or near city property.

The city will also have the option of signing up for the Association of Idaho Cities' self-insurance pool.

The AIC has quoted a price of

$142,000 for the city for the coming year, twice what liability insurance cost the city last year. The price includes a membership fee of approximately $50,000 to help build up the $600,000 reserve needed for the insurance pool and approximately $50,000 for a premium payment.

Although the payments will be high until a reserve is established, after a few years the membership fee should drop or be abolished, say AIC officials.

Obituaries

Rash of burglaries may be solved

TWIN FALLS—Burglary arrests in Blaine and Twin Falls counties are believed to have cleared up 16 or more burglaries over the past few months and may result in the recovery of thousands of dollars in loot.

Blaine County Sheriff Dennis Haynes said outstanding investigation by one of his deputies helped bring a suspect, Jeffrey Vern Redd, 26, of Ketchum, into custody and is expected to clear up at least 9-10 burglaries in Blaine County.

Of the Blaine County burglaries, track a suspect, Jeffrey Vern Redd, 26, residence, following the most recent burglary, and a subsequent arrest was made there.

Right now we are looking into several of the burglaries that have not been cleared up in the past," Haynes said.

Another suspect, Gregory Hall, 27, of Twin Falls, was arrested late Monday by Twin Falls police and turned over to Twin Falls and Jerome county authorities. He is wanted in connection with at least six burglaries in the two counties, involving a large number of tools.

Blaine County Sheriff Deputy Larry Webb picked Hall up in Twin Falls Tuesday afternoon and took him to Jerome, where he is charged with two felony, first-degree burglaries in Blaine County.

burglaries and a misdemeanor charge on a third incident. The charges involve burglaries at the Jerome County Club, El Rancho and the Jerome County landfill.

Chief Deputy Harold Jensen of Twin Falls said that although only a few inmates have been recovered, Hall is also a suspect in at least three burglaries in recent weeks in Twin Falls County.

Coalition to support day care legislation

By LORAYNE O. SMITH
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS—The Child Care Coalition, composed of 23 Idaho organizations, will support the governor's Child Care Task Force proposed legislation on day care licensing.

Betty Valentine, president of the Twin Falls League of Women Voters, says the coalition's support includes two recommendations to Gov. John Evans' proposal.

These are calling for a two-tiered criminal background check system and exempting from the licensing act a day-care home keeping children of only one immediate family besides the operator's own children.

The background check proposes a "full FBI" check for applicants who have not continuously resided in Idaho for the preceding three years, with a state criminal history check, including fingerprinting, for applicants who have resided in the state for three years.

Idaho has had a child care licensing law for the past 22 years, but it is not mandatory. Support for strengthening the law by making licensing mandatory was heard around the state last fall at seven public hearings, including one in Twin Falls, held by the task force. The task force consists of a cross section of about 15 Idahoans, including businessmen, day-care providers, legislators and judges. Its members have spent most of this studying legislation from other states before making its recommendations, according to Dottie Christensen,ampa, state league office, who has served as co-chairman of the Child Care Coalition.

The main points in the proposed legislation, in addition to the mandatory provision are:

- Licensing would be administered by a state agency with uniform statewide standards;
- Would provide for the establishment of minimum standards which address the safety, health and supervision of children;
- Would require background investigations and information about criminal convictions of child care providers and potential providers.

In addition to the League of Women Voters, some of the statewide groups represented in the coalition include the American Association of University Women, Idaho Hunger Council, Idaho Nurses Association and Idaho Migrant Council.

Use tact, judgment in picking out gifts

DEAR ABBY—If I don't get this off my chest I think I will explode. Don't people THINK before they buy Christmas presents to send to relatives?

My dear brother was 78 years old, terminal and in nursing home. The family knew it — it was no secret. He had been there since Oct. 1. Well, one of his nieces sent him a jogging suit for a 78-year-old, terminal patient? Have you ever heard of anything so ridiculous?

Abigail VanBuren
Dear Abby

It was not a matter of mixing up the cards, because the card read, "Happy jogging, (then his name)." He died the next day.

This same idiot niece sent me a 10-quart kettle! I have no intention of opening a boarding house! I can't boss her in the mouth, but why in heaven's name do people send such inappropriate gifts?

If they haven't the time to shop or the brains to select something useful, a gift certificate for even $10 would be so much more appreciated. Thank you, I feel better now.

appropriate gifts is an art — requiring consideration, sensitivity and imagination. Your niece was well-intentioned, but she's woefully lacking in these qualities.

DEAR ABBY: I am interested in helping neglected and abused children located in a home near Las Vegas. They have a project that helps them earn a little pocket money. It's recycling — used Christmas cards.

Can you alert your readers to send the FRONTS of attractive religious cards to St. Jude's Ranch for Children, P.O. Box 985, Boulder City, Nev. 89005-0985?

For additional information about this home, they can write to the Rev. Herbert A. Ward, Jr., SSC. Thank you for any help you can give us.

DEAR ED: Get ready! Many of my readers have asked me what to do with their old Christmas cards. Some are too beautiful to throw away, and they have no place to store them. Now I know. Readers please note: Ed is asking for RELIGIOUS cards only. No Santas, please. And if you want to be a dear, include a buck. I'm sure the kids could use it.

notes in it? My mother-in-law says the pepper should go into that one. I think she's wrong. She's coming here for Thanksgiving dinner, and I just know she's going to bring it up again. So how should I handle her when she tells me I'm wrong?

DEAR ABBY: My mother-in-law and I disagree on something that will probably seem petty to you, but I really need to know who is right. Who should the salt and pepper go? Doesn't the salt belong in the shaker with the greater number (but smaller in size)

DEAR SHOOK: In our house, the pepper with the larger (and fewer) holes contains the pepper because the pepper we use is coarser than the salt and requires larger holes. If your mother-in-law brings it up again, don't put her down. Just ask her to pass the cranberry sauce.

Ring lets handicapped control legal signature

BOSTON (AP) — To the casual observer, Robert H. Burroughs' ring is a handsome piece of jewelry. But to American Express and to a Massachusetts Probate Court, it is something unique.

When pressed against indelible paper, the ring transfers its design onto a document. Burroughs, who has cerebral palsy and can't write his name, recently won court permission to use the imprint as his legal signature.

"You can't imagine the feeling of independence a device like this ring gives me," said Burroughs, who designed it with help from biomedical engineers at Massachusetts General Hospital.

The problem with everything we could think of was that they conceivably could be removed without my knowledge," he said.

Because the simply designed ring is a familiar piece of jewelry, it does not draw attention, say its designers. Physically handicapped people could benefit from a ring of their own.

Burroughs and MGH were recently granted a patent for the invention, and are searching for a company to manufacture and market the ring.

Even though Burroughs, whose condition means he has lost some motor power and coordination, may need someone else's help to apply enough force on the ring to make an imprint, he has the psychological gratification of knowing that he controls the device, said Dr. Ronald S. Newbower, director of the MGH biomedical engineering department.

A plastic device holds papers in place while the ring is being pressed down.

While the engineers were designing the ring, Burroughs, who has worked at the hospital for 14 years including three as a volunteer, tried to convince his bank, credit card companies, stock broker and others to accept the ring's impression on documents as his legal signature.

He had little trouble getting individual stores and restaurants to accept his ring as his signature.

Happy New Year!

Unemployed steelworker charged with murderous attack on family

SEATTLE (AP) — An unemployed steelworker was charged Tuesday in a murderous attack on a prominent lawyer and his family, and court records linked the violence to the man's mistaken belief that the lawyer was Jewish and a Communist.

Two counts of aggravated first-degree murder and two counts of attempted murder were filed against David Lewis Rice, 27, said King County Prosecutor Norm Maleng.

There was no evidence that others were involved in the Christmas Eve attack that killed Annie Goldmark, 43, and her 10-year-old son, Colin, and critically injured her attorney husband, Charles Goldmark, 41, and their other son, Derek, 12, said Maleng.

All four were bludgeoned and stabbed, according to an affidavit released Monday. Police recovered a bloody steam iron and a bloody knife at the scene, court documents said.

Rice, who was arrested Thursday, told investigators he committed the crime, according to the affidavit. It said he used a toy pistol to gain entry to the Goldmarks' home and used chloroform to subdue family members during the assaults.

He has also indicated that his motivation for the assaults was political, i.e., his belief that Goldmark was a Communist and Jewish, Seattle Police Detective E.M. Davis stated in the affidavit.

The Goldmarks are neither Jewish nor Communists. Goldmark has long been active in Democratic Party politics.

Maleng said at a news conference that Rice would be arraigned Thursday in King County Superior Court. The prosecutor also said there was no evidence Rice was involved with any neo-Nazi groups. Ten members of one such group, The Order, were found guilty of conspiracy to racketeer Monday in Seattle.

"There's no evidence at this time that others were involved (in the attack)," Maleng said. "The possible association with other groups is being investigated."

He added, "We're not aware of any relationship between the defendant and the Goldmark family."

Maleng said his office would decide within a month whether to seek the death penalty in the case.

Rice has been held without bail in King County Jail since his arrest for investigation of homicide.

Quakes prompt disaster workshops in Bozeman

BOZEMAN, Mont. (AP) — Red Cross officials in Bozeman will offer workshops on how to give assistance to disaster victims.

It is the first time the workshops have been offered in three years, according to Billy Odoni, a spokesman for the local Red Cross chapter.

The workshops, which will be free to Gallatin, Madison or 1611

Wheatland county residents will suffer from a variety of disasters including earthquakes, fires and floods, Odoni said.

Those taking the "Introduction to Disaster Services" course and one other workshop can be certified as Red Cross disaster volunteers for three years, he said.

Red Cross employees and volunteers from Great Falls and the Billings will conduct the workshops.

The workshops are planned Jan. 16 and 21 in Bozeman.

Oil workers union gears up for strike

CASPER, Wyo. (AP) — More than 100 Wyoming oil workers may join in a nationwide strike in January, according to a union spokesman.

Jerry Archuleta of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union said contract negotiations between the union and the major oil companies have stalled since the union's offer in early November.

The union is asking for sizable pay increases and the oil companies still have not commented on the offer.

The oil workers may walk off the job for as long as three months after the union contract expires on Jan. 8, Archuleta said. But he added a strike would be a "breathless sacrifice" for the workers.

Explosion kills guard

DEER LODGE, Mont. (AP) — An explosion blew up a security tower at the Montana State Prison, killing one guard and injuring another, authorities said Tuesday. A gas leak or faulty propane heater may have been the cause.

The Monday night blast destroyed the security tower on the west perimeter of the institution and extensively damaged three other buildings, including a new administration building, but did not affect the cell blocks, where more than 900 inmates are housed, prison officials said.

Main gas and water lines to the prison were ruptured, leaving the facility without heat and water, officials said.

Officials from the state fire marshal's office in Helena and the primary contractors arrived in Deer Lodge on Tuesday to investigate the explosion.

Garry Kratolfer, administrative assistant to Warden Henry Ritsley, said the explosion occurred about 9:42 p.m., just before a shift change in the security tower.

She said Richard Wallace, 49, of Deer Lodge, the lone occupant of the security tower, was killed. He had been an officer at the prison since 1963.

Another officer, Gary Barres, 28, was injured in the explosion and was flown to a burn unit in Seattle. He was listed in serious but stable condition with first and second degree burns over 30 percent of his body, Ritsley said.

She emphasized that while the cause of the blast remained uncertain, there was no suspicion that it was caused by inmates or a bomb.

Ritsley said he was concerned about security because of the loss of the tower, but he immediately dispatched guards to another tower overlooking a new high security building that is still under construction. He also stationed an armed guard in a vehicle near the demolished tower.

The prison has 912 inmates and a staff of 330.

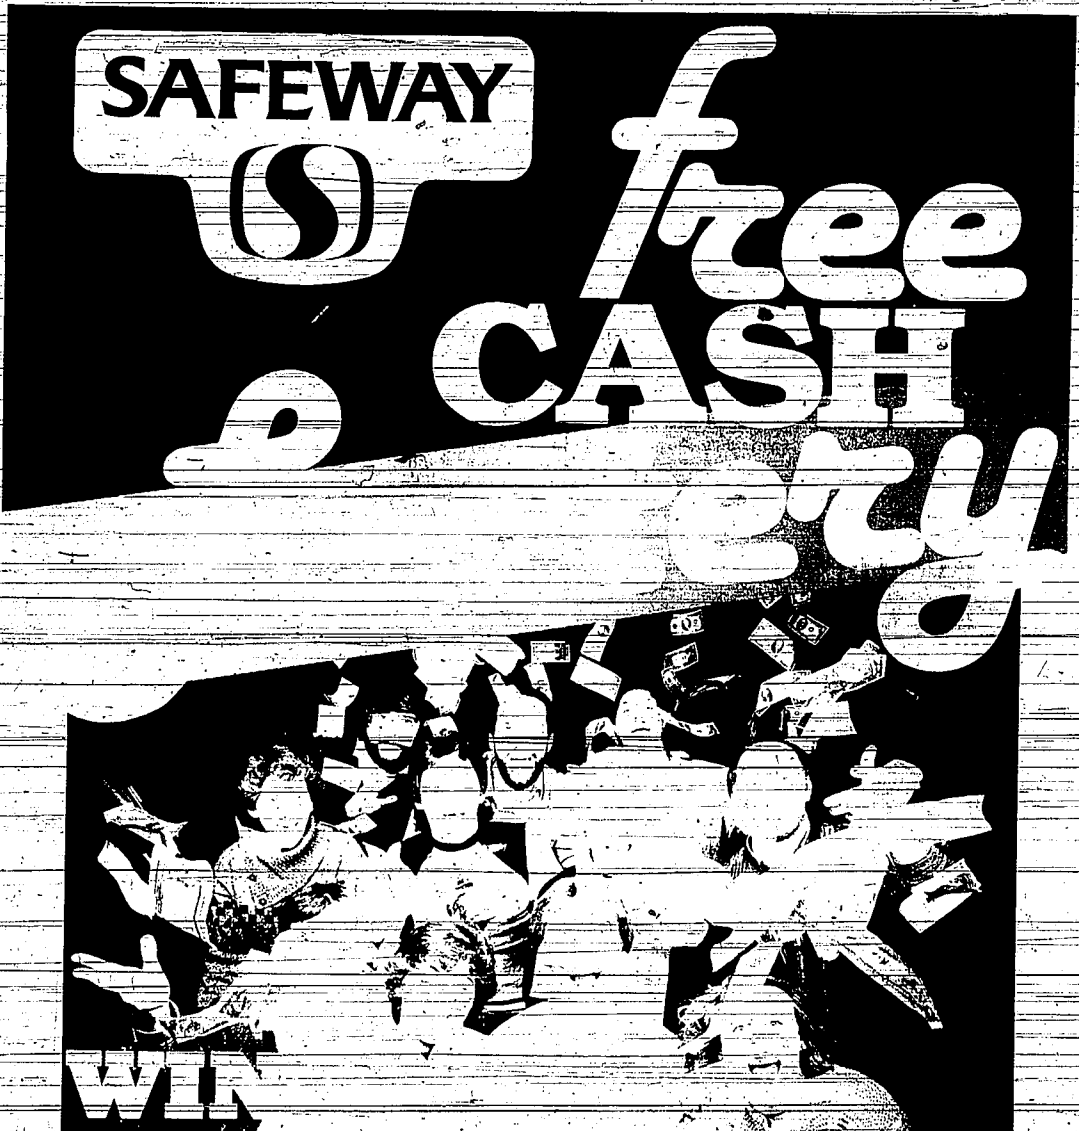

Thieves steal Disney 'cels'

BURBANK, Calif. (AP) — Thirteen original drawings from such classic animated movies as "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," "Bambi" and "Dumbo" have been stolen from the Walt Disney Studios, a company official says.

The 13 "cels" — original drawings and paintings on acetate, were in a display case that was taken from the studio's Ink and Paint building last Thursday, Erwin Okun, vice president of corporate communications, said Monday.

Besides the cels from "Snow White," "Dumbo" and "Bambi" artwork, other missing 8-by-10-inch drawings were from "Fantasia," "The Dalmatians," "The Sorcerer in the Stone," "Lady and the Tramp," "Alice in Wonderland," "Peter Pan" and "The Reluctant Dragon," Okun said.

The stolen material was valued at $45,000, but the studio regards the artwork, used in final production of animated feature movies, as priceless.

The defeat dropped Georgetown six spots in the poll to 11th. Texas-El Paso, which attracted national attention with its win over the Hoyas, moved into the select group at No. 19.

UTEP Coach Don Haskins believes it was about time.

"I think it's good for our team," Haskins said. "We're going into Western Athletic Conference play and some people don't think we're the best team in our league."

Alabama forward Back Johnson, who was named to the Sun Bowl All-Tournament team, agreed with Haskins.

"They play real high and together," Johnson said of the Miners.

North Carolina received 46 of the 62 first-place votes in the nationwide panel of sportswriters and broadcasters to remain atop the AP poll for the sixth straight week. The Tar Heels, who finished with 1,143 points, won the Orange Bowl tournament and a 129-45 beating of Manhattan and a 115-63 romp over Brown.

Michigan is second, followed by Duke and Syracuse, rounding out the same top four teams as in the last three weeks.

Michigan, 120, got 13 first-place votes and 1,183 points. Duke, 110, received the other four first-place votes and 1,134 points, while Syracuse had 1,055 points.

Kansas, Georgia Tech, Oklahoma, Louisiana State, Memphis State and St. John's each improved one spot from last week's to round out the latest Top Ten.

Kansas is in a BMA Classic, an over-intra-state rival Wichita State and received 997 points. Georgia Tech, 101, won the Cotton States Classic with easy victories over Texas and Navy and was next in the poll with 941 points. That was 105 points better than 11-0 Oklahoma, champion of the All-College Tournament.

Carolina rolls up 45-point victory over Florida St.

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Senior center Don Daugherty scored 19 points Tuesday night and top-ranked North Carolina posted a record fourth straight 100-point game to beat Florida State 109-64 in college basketball.

The Tar Heels, 13-0, grabbed a 52-23 halftime lead and never looked back as they reached the century mark for the seventh time this season. It was the first time in the school's 74-year basketball history the Tar Heels scored four consecutive 100-point games.

North Carolina, which led by as many as 47 points in the second half, took the lead for good at 12:10 on a Jeff Lebo layup with 14:00 left in the first half.

Over the next 10 minutes, the Tar Heels outscored the Seminoles 29-3 to grab a 43-13 cushion; on Daugherty's follow-shot.

The Tar Heels hit 60 percent from the field, while the Seminoles connected on only 37.9 percent.

Warren Martin had 14 points for the Tar Heels. Kenny Smith and Greg Reid scored 11 and Joe Wolf added 10. Daugherty, who played only 18 minutes, grabbed a game-high 11 rebounds.

Florida State, 1-1, was led by William Huffer's 18 points while Raleigh-Choice had 14 and Jerome Pritchett and PeoWee Barber each had a dozen.

Louisiana State 12-0 was eighth with 742 points. It was followed by Memphis State, 11-0, the Holiday Classic champion with 727 points; and St. John's (12-0) and 683 points, winner of the ECAC Holiday Festival.

Georgetown, starting the season, received 60 points, followed by Kentucky, Nevada-Las Vegas, Illinois, Indiana, Alabama-Birmingham, Notre Dame, Louisville, Texas-El Paso and Virginia Tech. DePaul, 5-3, dropped out of the Top Michigan's strength is its defense. The Wolverines are first in the nation against scoring and sixth against rushing. Nebraska's strength is its offense. The Cornhuskers are first in the nation in rushing, second in total offense and fifth in scoring.

Quarterback Vinny Testaverde will lead Miami of Florida, 10-1, against Tennessee in the Sugar Bowl game. The Hurricanes are 8-point favorites over the Southeastern Conference champions.

Iowa, 10-1, has an outside chance at No. 1, trailing only the Hawkeyes in convincing victory over UCLA. But Iowa Coach Hayden Fry is more concerned about just getting a victory.

Fry would like to amend our poor performance. Fry said, "I'll be the last time the Hawkeyes played in the Rose Bowl — a 29-0 loss to Washington 1982. That's bugged me since we were last out here."

We want to improve on our past performance. Whether that's going to be good enough to win, I don't know."

Carolina rolls up 45-point victory over Florida St.

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Senior center Don Daugherty scored 19 points Tuesday night and top-ranked North Carolina posted a record fourth straight 100-point game to beat Florida State 109-64 in college basketball.

The Tar Heels, 13-0, grabbed a 52-23 halftime lead and never looked back as they reached the century mark for the seventh time this season. It was the first time in the school's 74-year basketball history the Tar Heels scored four consecutive 100-point games.

North Carolina, which led by as many as 47 points in the second half, took the lead for good at 12:10 on a Jeff Lebo layup with 14:00 left in the first half.

Over the next 10 minutes, the Tar Heels outscored the Seminoles 29-3 to grab a 43-13 cushion; on Daugherty's follow-shot.

The Tar Heels hit 60 percent from the field, while the Seminoles connected on only 37.9 percent.

Warren Martin had 14 points for the Tar Heels. Kenny Smith and Greg Reid scored 11 and Joe Wolf added 10. Daugherty, who played only 18 minutes, grabbed a game-high 11 rebounds.

Florida State, 1-1, was led by William Huffer's 18 points while Raleigh-Choice had 14 and Jerome Pritchett and PeoWee Barber each had a dozen.

Louisiana State 12-0 was eighth with 742 points. It was followed by Memphis State, 11-0, the Holiday Classic champion with 727 points; and St. John's (12-0) and 683 points, winner of the ECAC Holiday Festival.

Georgetown, starting the season, received 60 points, followed by Kentucky, Nevada-Las Vegas, Illinois, Indiana, Alabama-Birmingham, Notre Dame, Louisville, Texas-El Paso and Virginia Tech. DePaul, 5-3, dropped out of the Top takes to do well in these things; I don't get it."

Michigan's strength is its defense. The Wolverines are first in the nation against scoring and sixth against rushing. Nebraska's strength is its offense. The Cornhuskers are first in the nation in rushing, second in total offense and fifth in scoring.

Quarterback Vinny Testaverde will lead Miami of Florida, 10-1, against Tennessee in the Sugar Bowl game. The Hurricanes are 8-point favorites over the Southeastern Conference champions.

Iowa, 10-1, has an outside chance at No. 1, trailing only the Hawkeyes in convincing victory over UCLA. But Iowa Coach Hayden Fry is more concerned about just getting a victory.

Fry would like to amend our poor performance. Fry said, "I'll be the last time the Hawkeyes played in the Rose Bowl — a 29-0 loss to Washington 1982. That's bugged me since we were last out here."

We want to improve on our past performance. Whether that's going to be good enough to win, I don't know."

Louisiana State 12-0 was eighth with 742 points. It was followed by Memphis State, 11-0, the Holiday Classic champion with 727 points; and St. John's (12-0) and 683 points, winner of the ECAC Holiday Festival.
