Agencies bracing for budget cuts

By TOM RAUM
 The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The government will overshoot this year's deficit target by some $47 billion, forcing cuts of 4.3 percent in domestic programs and 4.9 percent for the military on March 1. Reagan administration officials said Monday.

The cuts would have been far larger had Congress not limited them under a new budget-balancing law to $11.7 billion for the remainder of fiscal 1986, which began last Oct. 1.

Still, they were expected to produce major disruptions throughout the federal bureaucracy.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said the Office of Management and Budget had notified federal agencies of the cuts necessary to carry out the new Gramm-Rudman budget-balancing law.

The law, whose constitutionality is being challenged in federal court by a dozen members of Congress and a federal employees union, seeks to reduce the annual deficit to zero by 1991 through a series of steps — beginning with a reduction to $172 billion in 1986.

Under the act, the $11.7 billion in cuts are to be triggered if the estimated deficit for fiscal 1986 — as calculated by the OMB and the Congressional Budget Office — exceeds the 1986 target by $20 billion or more.

The CBO and the OMB are to issue their separate projections on the deficit Wednesday. However, officials at both agencies already have said their reports would easily show deficits high enough to trigger the cuts.

A congressional official who spoke only on condition of anonymity said the CBO forecast of the deficit will top $117 billion. Last year, the annual deficit soared to $212 billion.

The OMB projection, to be based on slightly more optimistic economic assumptions, is expected to project a somewhat lower deficit figure than the congressional one.

An administration official who also spoke on the condition that he not be identified said the OMB's forecast would be only slightly lower than the CBO's and would still come in "about $20 billion."

"We're pretty close together on this," the official said.

He said the agencies were told of the 4.3 percent-4.9 percent cuts for planning purposes, and so that figures to be plugged into President Reagan's 1987 budget — to be submitted to Congress on Feb. 3 — could be updated.

A deficit of $20 billion would top the 1986 target by $47 billion. And, even though the 1986 cuts are limited to $11.7 billion, the higher-than-expected deficit for 1986 means it will be even harder to make the 1987 requirement for reducing the deficit to $14 billion.

U.S. reacts cautiously to boarding

By BARRY SCHWEID
 The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The United States acknowledged Monday that Iran may have acted within traditional naval warfare rules in stopping and searching an American merchant ship near the Persian Gulf to determine if it was carrying arms for Iraq.

A final judgment on how to respond to the incident was withheld until the American ambassador to the United Arab Emirates completes his questioning of the captain of the President Carter and other facts are assessed, State Department spokesman Bernard Kalb said.

Kalb's statement seemed to represent an effort by the Reagan administration to avoid a flareup with the fundamentalist Muslim regime in Tehran, which is listed by the department as a supporter of terrorism.

Asked what the United States intended to do about the incident, Kalb said "we are evaluating our options." He declined to elaborate.

However, the spokesman did say in a statement that a belligerent nation traditionally has "certain rights" under the rules of naval warfare, to find out whether neutral shipping is being used to provide contraband to its enemy.

"We are continuing to assess the facts of this particular incident, not all of which are yet known, to determine whether the stop-and-search was appropriate under the circumstances," Kalb said.

Meanwhile, G. Quincy Lambsden Jr., the U.S. ambassador to the United Arab Emirates, was sent to Fujairah to meet with the freighter's captain Robert Reimann.

In a precautionary move, two American combat ships — the destroyer Conolly and the frigate Boone — had been moved to the Gulf of Oman, where seven armed Iranian sailors halted and then boarded the President Taylor on Sunday.

The ships were there "to prevent anything other than what happened," Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger told reporters at a breakfast meeting at the Pentagon. "The boarders left very quietly after an hour, an hour-and-a-half. There wasn't any need for the kind of naval protection that the ship was seeking."

The Conolly and the Boone were near the Persian Gulf, but too far north to prevent the boarding, and yet "they were close enough that they could have prevented the Iranians from taking that ship under tow or forcing it to an Iranian port," said a Navy source, insisting on anonymity.

The freighter was stopped in international waters 450 miles from Karachi, Pakistan, to Fujairah, a port in the United Arab Emirates.

Official says Hanoi to check sightings

By NORMAN BLACK
 The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Vietnamese government has pledged to allow joint U.S.-Vietnamese teams to conduct "multiple" excavations at sites where American planes are known to have crashed during the war, he said.

Richard L. Armitage, assistant defense secretary for international security affairs, said hundreds of such sightings in the past decade have been dismissed by the Pentagon as fabrications or involve men already accounted for. But his reports remain under U.S. investigation, and the Vietnamese government has promised to look into them, he said.

The Vietnamese have also begun investigating reports from their own people involving the status of missing Americans and teams to conduct "multiple" excavations at sites where American planes are known to have crashed during the war, he said.

Armitage, condemning private attempts to find the missing men, said the United States is making progress in its efforts to determine what happened to the 1,797 Americans still missing in Vietnam.

There are more than 200 such crash sites, Armitage said, but

Physicians list 150 'hunger counties'

By CHRISTOPHER B. DALY
 The Associated Press

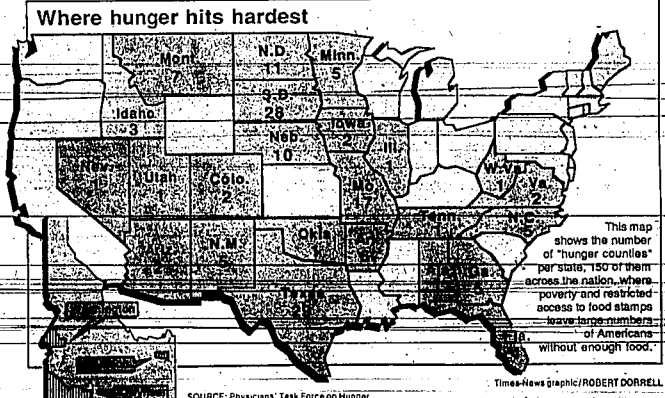

BOSTON — There are 150 counties across the United States, many of them in the "Farm-Belt," where poverty and restricted access to food stamps leave large numbers of Americans without enough to eat, says a new report.

The finding that so many of the nation's hungriest counties are in the Mississippi Valley and Great Plains states came as a surprise, said authors of the report, being issued today by the Harvard University School of Public Health and the Physicians Task Force on Hunger in America.

"They said much of the problem was due to the failure of federal assistance programs to reach the needy.

In Mississippi, for example, one of the poorest states in the nation, the study found 10 "hunger counties" because of wide distribution of food stamps, while relatively prosperous Texas had 29, the highest of any state. Eureka County in Nevada was rated the worst with only 1.7 percent of the needy said to be receiving food stamps.

In all, 150 "hunger counties" representing about 5 percent of all counties, were found in 24 states, 13 of them in the Plains or Mississippi Valley: Alabama, Arizona, Arkansas, Colorado, Florida, Georgia, Idaho, Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, Minnesota, Montana, Nebraska, North Carolina, North Dakota, Nevada, New Mexico, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Virginia and West Virginia.

Block orders cutbacks

By DON KENDALL
 The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Farmers who want to share in federal price-and-income support benefits this year will have to make deep cuts in acreages of major crops, including wheat, feed grains, cotton and rice, Agriculture Secretary John R. Block announced Monday.

The reductions are the maximum allowed by the new Food Security Act of 1985, the farm bill passed by Congress and signed by President Reagan two days before Christmas.

Further, Block said, price support loan rates will be lowered to help make U.S. commodities more competitive in world trade, one of the

The researchers found no hunger counties in the 26 other states, including the entire Northeast, the Pacific Coast, Alaska and Hawaii.

Idaho's three counties on the list were Madison, ranked fifth worst; Wynnee, 99th; and Washington, 120th.

"I'd like to prevent hunger in the nation, the food stamp program serves just over half the poorest citizens for whom its benefits are intended. This decline in the rate of coverage is taking place as hunger is getting worse," the report said. A total of 688,000 people were found to be eligible for food stamps but not receiving them.

The Physicians Task Force on Hunger, which compiled the study, also issued a general report last year on hunger in America, calling the malnutrition a "growing epidemic" that left up to 20 million Americans chronically underfed.

In the follow-up study, "hunger counties" were defined as those where more than 20 percent of the residents live below the federal poverty level — now set at $10,699 for a family of four — and where fewer than one-third of eligible residents actually receive food stamps.

Using that yardstick, the researchers found that the critical variable was participation in the U.S. Department of Agriculture's food stamp program, which provides extra food-buying power for recipients of Aid to Families with Dependent Children, the principal welfare program. It is funded by Congress but administered by the states.

BOISE — House Republicans chose privatization of public services as their favorite way to balance the budget in 1987, preliminary results of a recent informal straw poll show.

Conducted by House Majority Leader Rep. Jack Kinnelock, the poll gathered results from about 49 House Republicans, 41 of whom favor privatization of state services as a way to work towards a balanced budget in 1987.

In the portion of the questionnaire asking legislators how they would most like to make up the 1986 budget shortfall, 85 percent of the 39 people responding to the survey said they would continue the present "holdback" imposed by Gov. John Evans last fall.

Different questions on the survey drew different numbers of total respondents, and staff in Kinnelock's office said the poll was very informal and only intended to give House leadership general ideas about the sentiments of members towards various plans.

"It's just an exciting idea," Rep. Steve Scott, R-Twin Falls, said Monday, referring to the apparent show of support for privatization. Scott is squeezing more efficiency out of taxpayer dollars spent on government services.

"The first thing that needs to be done is an education of the people," Scott said Monday. He said he wants to look at possibilities for privatization of agencies such as the postal service, she said. Opportunities at the state level are com-stantly being suggested by citizens, but Scott said she had not yet had the chance to sort out gripes from legislative possibilities.

Backing her up is the conservative American Legislative Exchange Council (ALEC), which provides research in support of the conservative agenda for state legislators. Scott is Idaho chairman for ALEC.

ALEC and House Speaker Tom Stivers, R-Twin Falls, an ALEC board member, will bring a speaker to Boise this winter to speak in favor of privatization.

"It's become a household word, practically overnight," Stivers said Monday.

Even though most people can't spell the word, Stivers said they know what it means and many have told him about government services that could be contracted out.

Specifically, Stivers said, he would like to see a suggestion he has raised before.

The budget analyst Stivers charged with producing an inventory of services that could be contracted has not yet produced a list, but is working on several projects, said Stivers. In the section of the House leadership poll asking member opinions on how the current budget year shortfall should be funded, two other proposals gathered support from more than 50 percent of the respondents.

Increasing the holdback for the 1987 budget gathered 61 percent support, and increasing the sales tax by 1 cent for a limited period of time won 55 percent support.

Trailing close proposals were a proposal to increase sales taxes 1 cent while reducing school property taxes by the same amount (48 percent); a proposal to exempt schools from the holdback (45 percent); and a plan to increase sales taxes by a half cent for a limited period of time (37 percent).

Five different plans to help balance the 1987 budget drew more than 50 percent support in the poll.

Elimination of the five district health units drew 71 percent support; increasing the cigarette tax drew 68 percent; elimination of Lewis and Clark State College drew 66 percent; and establishment of a chancellor system for the state universities and colleges drew 57 percent support.

Less popular plans included increasing the personal income tax (45 percent); increasing the corporate income tax (41 percent); and adding 1 cent to the sales tax permanently (39 percent).

A proposal by Rep. Mack Nelbauer, R-Paul, to add 1 cent to the sales tax and distribute the proceeds among this year's deficit, the state's permanent building fund, and a budget reserve account, drew 12 positive responses in a category labelled "other."

Disabled hunters aided

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — A legislative committee found itself in the position Monday where it could not do anything.

The House Resources and Conservation Committee voted "do pass" endorsement to a bill allowing disabled and handicapped persons to hunt from a motionless motor vehicle on a road.

Hunters can't shoot from roads or motor vehicles, but Rep. Lyman Gene Winchester, R-

Snake River Center for the Blind, questioned the proposal, asking what would happen if the deer or other animal were merely wounded, and ran off or who would bleed and properly dress the animal.

Winchester said "very few hunters probably would use the special provision."

Party official scores speaker

COEUR D'ALENE (AP) — A top Republican Party official is taking a member of his own party to task for committee changes he ordered in the Idaho Legislature last week.

House Speaker Tom Stivers removed Republicans Hilda Kellogg of Post Falls and Robert Fry of Horseshoe Bend from the Education Committee and replaced them with conservative Republicans Liz Allan and Frank Hage.

Chairman, Coeur d'Alene, vice president of the state party, has released a letter to Stivers criticizing the move, which he called "dictatorial." Shellman said the letter urged Stivers to reconsider.

The letter contends Stivers acted irresponsibly when he removed Ms. Kellogg from the committee, and Stivers has discredited her representation of her legislative district.

State competition limits under study

By DEAN S. MILLER
Times-News writer

BOISE — The House Business Committee Monday approved further discussion of a bill to limit state agencies from competing with private businesses.

Rep. Dean Haagenson, R-Coeur d'Alene, presented the bill to the committee, saying he was prompted to draft it after north Idaho nursery operators complained that the University of Idaho was competing in the seedling market.

But the acting head of the U.I. Department of Forest Resources, Leon Neuschwander, said Monday evening that the dispute was settled in December, and the university is now operating under a policy that prohibits it from expanding its greenhouses or from bidding for seedling contracts.

He said the state of Idaho originally came to the university with a request for about 700 seedlings after a similar-sized lot purchased in Colorado the year before turned out not to have grown as well as U.I. seedlings generally do.

When U.I. officials making plans to expand greenhouse space to grow the seedlings, private nursery operators complained, and the project was stalled, he said.

As the state's land grant university, U.I. is supposed to grow seedlings for the land grant forest and for the state reforestation program, said Neuschwander.

Those two sources take up about 100,000 seedlings each. Other states use private sources are usually in small lots of about 25 seedlings each, he said.

The new policy forbids the U.I. to "bid competitively on seedling production contracts" against the private sector," Neuschwander said.

Haagenson's bill would exempt from the anti-competition statute owned businesses expressly established by law, such as the state liquor stores. Also exempted from having to avoid competition with the private sector are the departments of Commerce and Corrections; highway departments; state parks; law enforcement; and state printing.

A review board would be set up under the bill to hear complaints from businesses and then turn over findings to the Legislature for action.

National Federation of Independent Business representative Pete Skamser said he has heard numerous complaints from his members about the state competing with them. The review board would provide a process to winnow out the ventures the state doesn't need.

Skamser said the bill would try to make the elimination process "surgical" rather than a meat cleaver.

Software exemption gains approval

BOISE (AP) — The House Revenue and Taxation Committee has approved a measure that would exempt custom-written computer programs from the state sales tax.

The committee voted Monday to introduce the proposal to the entire House.

in computer terms, Spangler said, software is the actual machine and hardware is the instructions that make the machine work. Custom software is pre-written computer programs, and custom software is a program that's designed for a particular client, he said.

What's what

If you owned one of those fabulous old English homes of yesteryear, what would you do with it? Am talking of the great estates of the fox-hunting bird-shooting bunch. In the 1930s, it came clear they were almost impossible to keep up. So during the next 35 years, about 400 of them were simply demolished.

The sort of clothing worn by the earliest Seminole Indians in Florida is known. Also known is the sort of clothing worn by the ancient Incas. Garb-of-both-is almost identical. Coincidence? Maybe.

If that sea-beast called the manatee -- the original mermaid, didn't at one time live on land, how come it has toenails? Fish don't have toenails.

Did you know palm trees grow in the south of Ireland?

IN GLORIOUS COLOR

Q. Can an octopus turn white at will?
A. So it's said. Or pink or aqua or green. Most when scared turn brown or dark red, however.

Q. Here, a soldier is a "GI." In Australia, a soldier is a "digger." Why a digger?
A. Goes back to the trench diggers of World War I.

Q. What was the Hollywood movie written by President Franklin D. Roosevelt?
A. The script he wrote was about "Old Ironsides," but it was never produced.

LENNIN'S MUSHROOMS

Every man should have a hobby, what? That Soviet Union forefather Nikolai Lenin was something of a nut about mushrooms. He devoted a lot of his later years to gathering same.

The U.S. Military in 1940 wanted a candy that wouldn't melt in the hand, no matter what the climate. So Forrest Mars and Bruce Murrie created such, and called it by the initials of their last names.

Historical footnotes indicate the Croquis Indian men were committed-by their own law to stop planning or fighting of any war, if their women so insisted. Uncivilized rascals.

The pirate Blackbeard--originally known as Edward Teach, had 14 wives and a pigtail beard. He kept the beard.

Group backs alcohol tax hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Council on Alcoholism on Monday endorsed a proposal to sharply raise taxes on beer, wine and liquor in an effort to discourage drinking and reduce the federal deficit.

The plan, also endorsed by two dozen economists, would raise the price of a can of beer by 22 cents, a 750-ml bottle of wine by $1.35 and a 1.6-liter bottle of liquor by $2.78. Federal taxes on beer and wine have not been raised since 1951; the liquor tax went up last Oct. 1.

The National Alcohol Tax Coalition, an umbrella group of health and consumer organizations that is pushing the tax increase, says the proposal would raise $11.8 billion a year for the federal treasury. The coalition quoted government studies as concluding that liquor, wine and beer cause as many as 200,000 deaths a year and cost society $120 billion annually.

Clerics push apartheid action

WASHINGTON (AP) — Upset over U.S. actions on apartheid, about 150 American church leaders decided Monday to set up a Church Emergency Committee on South Africa to push the Reagan administration and U.S. businesses to fight the racial system in that country.

"We will press our government very very strongly to take comprehensive economic sanctions against the government of South Africa as a late-in-the-day way to achieve peace in that troubled country," said the Rev. Avery Post, president of the United Church of Christ.

The group includes more than 20 Protestant denominations — including most of the major ones except the conservative fundamentalists.

Lawyer, judge debate belt law

ROCKFORD, Mich. (AP) — A prosecutor asked a court on Monday to prohibit a judge from handling cases of people accused of not wearing seat belts because he refuses to fine them as required by the state's mandatory buckle-up law.

Kent County Prosecutor David Sawyer asked Kent County Circuit Court to issue a special writ against Judge Steven Servaas of the county's 63rd District Court.

Servaas, who has 21 days to respond to the motion, rejected on Friday Sawyer's request that he disqualify himself from future seat-belt cases.

Last week, Servaas admitted he'd suspended the fines of 25 to 30 people ticketed for not wearing seat belts. Michigan law requires a late-in-the-day judgment, but Servaas said that infringes on individual rights.

State Rep. David Hollister called Servaas' action "totally and completely irresponsible" and a violation of his oath to uphold the law.

Shuttle lens may miss comet

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Columbia's astronauts pointed a camera Monday in the direction of Halley's comet, but the failure of a light intensifier meant their pictures may have missed the celestial body altogether.

The seven-man Columbia crew, which includes a Florida congressman, spent much of their first full day in orbit trying to repair mechanical malfunctions on the shuttle to the camera. They had trouble with a medical device, another astronomy instrument and a materials processing experiment.

Astronaut George D. Nelson, a trained astronomer, tried to snap pictures of the comet using a light image intensifier, but discovered the intensifier was not working. Instead, he took the light device off the camera and shot a series of 30-second exposures.

Nelson said that he and astronaut Steve Hawley, who also is an astronomer, searched the heavens for the comet, but were uncertain that they found it because it was obscured by light from the moon.

Not all air travel worse in '85

WASHINGTON (AP) — The fatal accident rate among large airlines jumped sharply last year, but commuter carriers had a significantly improved record and general aviation flyers had the safest year on record, the National Transportation Safety Board reported Monday.

The board said the fatal accident rate involving regularly scheduled U.S. airlines flying large aircraft was nearly four times greater last year as in 1984 and non-scheduled charter operators had the worst record in more than a decade.

The 526 people who were killed in all U.S. air carrier operations during the year was second only to the 655 fatalities in 1977, the NTSB said.

There were 19 crashes, four of them involving 197 fatalities, among the regularly scheduled airlines. The fatal accident rate was .071 per 100,000 departures, up from .019 during the previous year.

Non-scheduled airlines had three crashes involving fatalities, a rate of 1.867 per 100,000 departures.

Bonner OK after heart surgery

BOSTON (AP) — Valena Bonner was in satisfactory condition Monday after major heart surgery and a hospital spokesman said it was uncertain whether she would be alert enough to call her exiled husband in the Soviet Union.

Surgeons bypassed six arteries — three main arteries and three branches — which is "an unusual number," said Martin Bander, spokesman at Massachusetts General Hospital.

The bypass operation took just over four hours and ended shortly after noon, Bander said. He said Mrs. Bonner would be at the hospital for eight to 10 days.

High court considering pregnancies

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, in a key case for American business, said Monday it will decide whether employers may be forced to provide special fringe benefits for pregnant workers.

The court agreed to study a challenged California law requiring employers to grant leaves of absence to pregnant workers who request them, even if leaves are not granted for any other cause.

Other justices on the court agreed to decide in a Connecticut case whether states may limit voting in a political party's primary elections to voters who are members of that party.

Voted to decide by July whether the Reagan administration must curtail Japan's fishing rights in U.S. waters to retaliate for continued Japanese killing of sperm whales in the North Pacific. A lower court said a 1979 law mandates such retaliation.

Said it will decide in a case from Colorado whether the confessions of mentally ill criminal defendants may be used against them.

Pilot diet succeeds

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — A Vietnamese refugee who went on a pasta-rich diet and did special exercises has added enough flesh to his buttocks to qualify for flight training, Navy officials said Monday.

Hung Dinh Vu last year came up 3 inches short in upper leg length, measured from the back of the buttocks to the inside of the knee while seated in a special chair.

Vu, 31, made the minimum of 21.9 inches with a tenth of an inch to spare when he was measured Monday at the Pensacola Naval Air Center.

Phone service troubles can come in many shapes and sizes.

Sometimes, the culprit is your basic garden-variety squirrel, chewing through the outside lines leading to your home. At other times, the trouble could be with your inside wiring or your telephone.

Whatever the problem, here's the best way to find out what's causing it. Just turn to the Customer Guide section at the front of your White Pages Directory. Under the "Money Saving Tips" heading, easy-to-follow instructions will tell you how to test for the source of your troubles. If, however, your test doesn't locate the problem, call us and we'll test the line for you.

If the problem is in your outside line, we'll come out and fix it free of charge. If you ask for a Mountain Bell repair person to visit your premises, and it's found that the problem is in your telephone set, there will be a charge. Defective phones and equipment must be repaired by the company or dealer that provided them to you.

We'll also repair inside wiring free of charge if you've subscribed to our Wiring Maintenance Plan; otherwise there will be a service charge.

For more information about locating phone service troubles, as well as about our Wiring Maintenance Plan, call your service representative. So no matter what form your troubles take, you can get rid of them right away.

Charges in bombings expected for Hofmann

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Charges against Mark Hofmann, the Mormon documents dealer police call their prime suspect in the October bombings deaths of two people here, are expected by week's end, authorities said Monday.

For nearly three months, investigators have probed the case without bringing charges in the deaths of Steven Christensen, who had dealings with Hofmann, and Kathleen Sheets, wife of Hofmann associate Gary Sheets.

But Deputy Salt Lake County Attorney Walter Elliott said Monday the investigation was nearing an end, and he expected Hofmann to be charged by Friday.

"It's tough to say, but we're hoping and looking forward to (filing charges) sometime this week," Elliott said.

However, he cautioned that while "in its final stages, the case was under investigation still and we can't say for sure yet (when charges will be leveled), but it will be soon."

Hofmann's attorney, Ronald Yengle, said he too had heard his client would be charged this week, "but I haven't heard anything from anyone who knows."

Elliott defended the length of time prosecutors were taking before filing charges in the deaths.

"I don't think three months is that long considering the complexity of this case," he said.

Historian has doubts

LOGAN, Utah (AP) — Almost three months after two people died in Salt Lake City bombings, a Utah State University historian says he still believes chief suspect Mark Hofmann is innocent, but that a purported historical Mormon document sold by Hofmann is a forgery.

Speaking at the Campus Christian Fellowship Center Sunday night, A. J. Simmonds said many people see each of those views in conflict with the other.

Simmonds contends the Simmonds letter, a document thought written by early church convert Martin Harris which calls into question the faith's traditional accounts of divine beginnings, is a contemporary forgery of the 1890s.

LDS leader Benson leaves hospital

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Mormon Church President Ezra Taft Benson was released from LDS Hospital Monday, where he had been since fainting Saturday at his downtown apartment, a spokesman said.

Benson, 86, was released at 10:10 a.m. in the company of his wife Flora, and other family members. During the two days he spent at the hospital undergoing tests, Benson had been alert and in good condition, said church spokesman Jerry Cahill.

"The evaluation over the weekend in the coronary-care unit disclosed no cardiovascular problems," he said.

Cahill said doctors were convinced the fainting spell was caused by standing up too quickly to answer the telephone.

Benson had been lying down Saturday when he received a telephone call from his son, Reed Benson, and "standing up too quickly sometimes causes blood pressure to drop too quickly. And that's apparently what happened, from all they can tell."

The former U.S. agriculture secretary was taken to the hospital's emergency room Saturday about a half mile away from the Westin Hotel Utah.

Benson, who served eight years in the cabinet of President Dwight D. Eisenhower, was ordained as the 14th president of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints on Nov. 16.

Mild earthquake hits Northern Utah

LOGAN, Utah (AP) — A mild pre-dawn earthquake registering 3.3 on the Richter scale rattled the northern Utah community Monday, a University of Utah seismologist said.

There were no reports of damage or injury, but several Logan area residents reported feeling the 5:32 p.m. quake, which had its epicenter 10 miles east of here in the Bear-River-Range, said Ethno Brown.

A quake of a Richter magnitude of 2 is the smallest normally felt by humans, while a magnitude of 4 is considered a "great" earthquake.

The 1906 San Francisco earthquake registered 8.3 on the Richter scale.

BLM scorched on reseeding of burned land

BY KENNETH A. BROWN
Times-News writer

SHOSHONE — With deep snow and cold weather forcing herds of deer and antelope to the edge of Snake River Canyon, the U.S. Bureau of Land Management's Shoshone District has come under fire by the state Fish and Game Department for failure to place more emphasis on reseeding for wildlife.

Wildlife problems this winter have been linked to the 1981 fire season, which burned over 300,000 acres of BLM land in the Kimama area. Portions of that provided significant winter wildlife habitat, according to Stu Murrell of the Fish and Game Department. "I don't know if you're less than 10 percent has been reseeded since the fire season four years ago," he said.

From the BLM's perspective, however, the problem with seedings for wildlife is funding.

"The only time it gets attention is when there is a problem at hand," said Jon Idso of the agency's wildlife programs. Idso is acting district manager of the BLM's Shoshone District.

Generally, when the agency receives comments on its management plans and projects from other government agencies and the public. "Wildlife is pretty low on peoples' list of priorities," Idso said.

With little or no comment or pressure from wildlife or conservation groups during the planning process, it's difficult for the agency to get money allocated for wildlife projects such as seedings.

There is, however, heavy pressure from grazing and ranching interests who want to see funds and seedings geared for livestock.

While grasses provide the most productive range for livestock, big game wildlife such as deer and antelope depend on a more varied diet, which also includes brush. Sagebrush, in particular, is a valuable part of that brush diet.

Ranchers are often opposed to brush seedings for wildlife because of the cuts it makes, from their perspective, in range productivity.

As a result of these kinds of pressures, even the two annual seedings for wildlife the district was able to achieve after the severe 1981 fire season were hard to come by.

It was not a casual request and it was not casually granted, said Robert Cordell, the BLM's Bennett Hills Resource Area manager, of the final approval for a wildlife seeding on the district.

Permission for the two reseeding projects carried out eventually had to come from BLM Director Robert Burford.

According to figures from Steve Langenstein, a biologist with the BLM, a total of 8,400 acres were reseeded for wildlife in these two projects on fire areas which covered more than 108,000 acres.

In fire rehabilitation overall since 1981, the district-dependent on a more varied diet, which also includes brush. Five of those included seedings for shrubs which would be of benefit to wildlife. Langenstein also noted that five of those other seedings included a mix of grasses and shrubs which would also have some benefits for wildlife.

In addition to often being controversial, seedings of sagebrush and other shrubs, beneficial to wildlife, are expensive and sometimes of limited effectiveness.

While crested wheat grass seed costs from 75 to 80 cents a pound, seed for sagebrush costs around $10 per pound, according to Langenstein.

In addition to its higher cost, the seed has a poor survival rate. While 80-90 percent of a seeding of crested wheat grass can be expected to survive, only 5 to 10 percent of a brush seeding. Such as sagebrush — generally survives, he added.

According to rough figures from the BLM, while reseeding costs an average of $17.50 per acre for range-oriented projects, a reseeding which placed more emphasis on wildlife by including a mix with sagebrush would raise the cost to more than $27 per acre.

Coffee!

Import shortfall spurs rush on store shelves

By BOB FREUND
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Jittery over anticipated price hikes for their favorite brew, Magic Valley shoppers are scooping coffee off the shelves in area groceries.

The caffeine fix — it includes decaffeinated brands as well — was triggered last weekend, when reports of damage to Brazil's coffee crop were published in The Times-News and by other Idaho news media.

While no severe shortages are apparent yet, supermarket managers contacted Monday said customers are buying a brisk pace.

One store, Smith's in Twin Falls, is asking customers to limit their purchase to one can, Manager Chris Fisher says.

Some specific sizes of some brands also have vanished from a few stores.

There actually is no current shortage of coffee nationally or internationally, experts say. But customers are scrambling to avoid price hikes anticipated within the next few weeks.

"The U.S. average price now is at about $2.00 a pound, says U.S. Department of Agriculture economist Fred Gray, a specialist in tropical products.

Coffee beans have been getting more expensive since October. The price of contracts in futures markets have doubled in those months, rising from $1.40 to $2.76 at their recent peak.

Only Monday did they slip back down appreciably, following reports of rains in drought-stricken Brazil. Futures prices slid to $2.44.

Coffee was under drought conditions, particularly in October and November and through the beginning of the flowering of the coffee, says Edward Allen, USDA economic analyst on Brazil. "If you don't get flowering, you don't get beans."

The Brazilian government estimates losses of at least a quarter of the crop, and other estimates range as high as 55 percent. Brazil supplies between a quarter and a third of the world's coffee, and consistently furnishes a harvest of U.S. coffee imports.

Although the crop won't be harvested until mid-1986 and current supplies are adequate, "The market is reacting to potential shortages a year from now," Allen says.

Coffee wholesalers have been boosting their prices to grocers over the past months, with the latest price increases announced last week. It's only a matter of time before those increases show up on shelf tags at retail stores.

"I would say within the next week

Shoppers emptied this shelf at Smith's in Twin Falls, where customers are being asked to limit themselves to one can.

or two you'll see the prices rising," says Fisher at Smith's.

"We've heard the rumor everybody else has," says Gordon Clark, manager at Stokes Food Center in Burley. "From what we understand, it's (coffee) going up next week, and we've soaked in all we can on the next trucks."

The extent of the price increase differs from store to store. However, economist Gray estimates, "We could get up to $3.50 to $4 (a pound) at retail."

Van Peterson, owner of Peterson's Food Mart in Piler, says, "If the wholesale market continues to be reflected on the shelf, a three-pound can would be up around $7.50. Current prices range around $7.50 for a similar-size can. Mike Barnes at Safety Stores in Gooding, said a three-pound can has been the hottest seller at his store.

Consumers themselves may hold down prices in the long run by their buying habits. "One thing that limits the price increase is that the consumer switches to teas, herbal teas, soft drinks," Gray says.

However, for the time being, they seem instead to be snatching coffee off the shelves.

"Just all of a sudden there's tremendous demand and you can't keep up with it," says Joe Rocker, manager of Albertson's in Twin Falls. His store was featuring the in-house brand of coffee last weekend and met the rush because it had stocked up heavily for the sale, he said.

Whether he and other grocers will be able to replenish their shelves immediately remains a question. Distributors and corporate warehouses' old managers contacted by The Times-News, that because of a sudden large demand, they may not be able to fill their orders to the brim.

Most grocers will be receiving their next shipments at mid-week.

Jail suit parties line up opposing cases, witnesses

TWIN FALLS — Lawyers representing Twin Falls County and two former county jail inmates are lining up witnesses in preparation for a trial Feb. 11, over alleged inadequate conditions at the jail.

Fifth District Judge Daniel Hurbutt will be asked to rule when on whether the 72-year-old jail meets constitutional standards.

Attorney Greg Fuller filed the suit Oct. 22 against the county.

Board of Commissioners on behalf of Michael Goodson and Ted Matney Jr. who alleged the jail was overcrowded and unsafe.

The lawsuit asks the court to order the county to close the jail, reduce the jail population and begin taking steps to build a new jail.

Fuller said Monday that expert witnesses for the plaintiffs have already toured the jail, located on the fourth floor of the County Courthouse. A potential witness is Boulder County, Colo. Sheriff Brad Leach, who also is an inmate with the national Institute of Corrections in Boulder.

Leach is a potential witness for the plaintiffs. A potential witness is the Institute of Corrections, a non-profit corporation which assists public officials in jail issues in April 1985.

Local city council meetings

Obenchain offers Twin Falls leaders liability insurance options

By ANNETTE GARY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The city of Twin Falls should have several options for liability insurance coverage when the current policy expires in two weeks, but the cost will be greater, insurance broker Tim Obenchain said at a Monday City Council session.

A city insurance pool being organized by the Association of Idaho Cities is one option the council should consider, he advised.

The state is too small for a city pool to be efficient, Obenchain said.

A similar program may work for counties, he said, but cities have far more insurance problems. The city of Twin Falls has more parks and police officers than the county and unlike the county — has a fire department, control of the airport, a water system and a sewage treatment plant.

The city would be better off with a self-insurance program than in a pool, affected by other cities' insurance problems, Obenchain said.

"I agree," said Councilmember Rick Carr, the state manager of an insurance firm. "Why should we take on the exposure of another city?"

think we're big enough to handle self-insurance," Carr said he would have to see a complete breakdown of insurance costs over the last three to five years to be positive the city could insure itself, however.

Complete figures were not available at the Monday meeting, but city Finance Director Rick Thompson said the city's insurers had paid about $190,000 in claims in the last three years and had another $1.1 million in unsettled claims. In addition, the city had claims that were settled before reaching the insurance company.

The city paid $240,000 in premiums during the same period, he said.

If the city decides to try self-insurance, it may see fewer claims, Obenchain said. Some Utah cities have been unable to renew their liability coverage because of a decrease in claims when payment comes at taxpayers' expense, he said.

At least one councilmember, Erik Anderson, believes the city should continue with a commercial insurer. The AIC pool has no experience and little reserve, Anderson said. He also was uncomfortable with the city attempting to insure itself, he said.

Debate expected over appointment of Kimberly police chief

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

KIMBERLY — The agenda for tonight's Kimberly City Council meeting is expected to spark some interest on such items as the mayor's appointment of department head and reorganization of the council.

The meeting opens at 7 p.m. in the Community Center building. A council president Ted Wasiko, who gave necessary since Ted Wasiko, who gave holds the post, will be replaced on the council tonight by Councilmember Tom Lewis.

Another agenda item is the further discussion of a proposed city Police Department policy manual.

The opening agenda item calls for dispensing with the reading of the minutes of the last regular meeting and to special council sessions held since that session. All of the special meetings involved the city police controversy that has raged since last May.

Among appointments Mayor Ron Jones will submit for council approval is that of the police chief. Police Chief Jim Campbell has been the center of the eight-month controversy and two investigations of his department. There has been speculation that Jones will not recommend Campbell's reappointment.

In a meeting last week, the mayor and council reviewed the Kimberly Police Department Manual of Rules, which was then unanimously adopted in draft form by the council. The mayor and Lewis opposed adoption of the manual. Lewis, who will take office tonight, will now have a vote on the matter.

Jones disliked wording of the manual that said the police chief would have full control over his department, subject to approval of the mayor and city council. Jones argued that the authority to control the department and police chief rests with the mayor alone.

P&Z agrees on MEDA zoning change request

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
and BOB FREUND
Times-News writers

JEROME — The Jerome County Planning and Zoning Commission voted Monday night to send a zoning change request for a dairy processing plant to be located in the county to the board of county commissioners for approval.

The recommendation calls for zoning 160 acres in southeast Jerome County as heavy industrial. The site has been selected by the Mountain Empire Dairyman's Association of Colorado for its proposed dairy processing plant. Seven of the zoning board members voted for the recommendation of approval while two voted against it and two abstained. Lois Lickley, a member who resides near the land involved, voted against the favorable recommendation.

In passing the issue on to the county commissioners, the zoning board also recommended several restrictive measures to prevent the development from becoming offensive to surrounding property owners. The zoning board asked that the land revert from heavy industrial back to an agricultural zone if the MEDA fails to meet certain conditions. The zoning board asked that MEDA be required to purchase the land on which it now holds option.

That it begin construction of the plant within five years, and that the firm refrain from using the land for anything other than manufacture of agricultural products without consent of the county commissioners. Members also asked that MEDA monitor and correct any offenses that occur from waste disposal, and called for landscaping, including parking areas.

D. Rex Gerratt of Burley, a vice president of the dairy cooperative, termed Monday night's action by the zoning group "a positive step."

"We wanted it (the zoning application) sent to the county commissioners. However, we can't accept the recommendation in its present form," Gerratt said. "The commissioners know pretty much what we will and won't accept."

BURLEY — Air Force Senior Airman Dale L. Ziesler, whose wife, Sheila, is the daughter of Wayne and Colleen Henderson of Burley, has arrived for duty with the 3450th Technical Training Group at Lowry Air Force Base in Colorado. Ziesler, a weapon control systems mechanic, was previously assigned at Nellis Air Force Base in Nevada.

RUPERT — Airman Michael J. Pierce, whose wife, Karris, is the daughter of Leonard and Kathy Miller of Rupert, has been assigned to Goodfellow Air Force Base in Texas after completing Air Force basic training. He will now receive specialized instruction in the intelligence field.

KING HILL — Private Kelly Bastian, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Bastian of King Hill, recently completed Marine Corp basic training at San Diego, in California. Bastian, a 1985 graduate of Glenn Ferry High School, received his Sharp Shooters Badge in rifle training. He will now receive training in auto mechanics at Camp Lejeune in South Carolina.

TWIN FALLS — Two Republican members of Idaho's congressional delegation, along with Agriculture Secretary John Block, will pay visits to Magic Valley areas this week for farm tours and speaking engagements.

Block will appear for the opening sessions of a farm forum in Mountain Home at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday in the Elms Club building.

U.S. Sen. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, said Block agreed to attend the Mountain Home event, one of seven farm meetings in the state to air farm problems and discuss ways of dealing with them.

Bob Symms and U.S. Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho, will attend the Mountain Home event Wednesday, before traveling to other cities for similar meetings.

Also on Wednesday, McClure addresses the Committee of 50 in Mountain Home at noon and then goes to Burley for an appearance at the Idaho-Equipment Dealers Association at 6:30 p.m. in the Burley Inn.

Thursday McClure will lunch at the Twin Falls Kiwanis Club with the farm users in Boise.

McClure will then attend an evening meeting with Idaho water users in Boise.

Symms will leave Mountain Home late Wednesday for Bruneau to attend a hearing of rare snail populations in that area. He will return Friday to Twin Falls.

He will attend the Friday farm meeting at CSI from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., leaving in the evening for Pocatello and additional farm meetings in eastern Idaho.

Traveling with Symms will be Idaho Dept. of Agriculture legislative assistant from his Washington staff, John Hatch, his natural resources field representative from Pocatello, and Dan Beckman, representing the office of Alcohol, Fuels, U.S. Department of Energy.

One of the topics in the group's meeting around Idaho is the potential in Idaho for ethanol production from farm products.

Tractorcade 2 injured in stabbings

TWIN FALLS — Tractors will plow Twin Falls about 8 p.m. today as part of the three-day Tractorcade drive, "United Struggle: Farmers Pulling for Farmers," an event to publicize the plight of farmers.

Wednesday, a "Potato Giveaway" will be set up at the Holiday Inn parking lot in Twin Falls, beginning at 8 a.m. It is one of several such give-aways to be held along the 280-mile course.

The tractorcade was scheduled to start in front of the Capitol steps in Boise this morning and arrive in Mountain Home noon. It will leave from Carl Miller Park about 2:30 p.m. and drive down I-84 toward Twin Falls. Once in Twin Falls, participants will be bused to Wendell for dinner tonight at Gavroz Mexican Restaurant.

Farmers will be bused back to Twin Falls to spend the night at either the Weston Lamplighter Inn, the Holiday Inn or Canyon Springs Inn, which have all donated rooms for the cause.

The tractorcade will caravan through Twin Falls Wednesday and continue on to Burley, American Falls and Pocatello.

Another potato giveaway and rally will be held in Burley at JB's Big Boy, where the caravan will stop for lunch.

The tractorcade will wind up Thursday in Idaho Falls.

Police continue search for robber of Udder Place

TWIN FALLS — Police in Twin Falls were continuing to look for a young man who stole a fairly small amount of money from the cash register at the Dairyman's Udder Place on North Blue Lakes Boulevard Sunday night.

Police reports showed that the dark-haired man, about 30, walked into the convenience store and service station about 8:30 p.m., threw a set of keys on the counter and told the young woman on duty that he needed money because his truck had broken down.

Police said there was no weapon displayed but when the clerk hesitated, he ordered her to give him the money and she complied.

Police are looking for the man, who was wearing blue trousers, blue and white striped shirt, blue baseball cap and a green-covered blue jacket. The man left the scene on foot.

CSI rolls up 13th straight win, 108-59

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The larceny that is College of Southern Idaho's defense exploded to the fore just a few minutes into the game and carried the undefeated Golden Eagles to a 108-59 men's basketball victory over Colorado Northwestern Community College here Monday night.

For a moment there it appeared Colorado, coming in with an 11-1 record, might give the Eagles a little. Greg Boyd gave CSI a 9-0 lead from hawtler land in the first couple of minutes but Colorado bounced back with six points to a 6-5 advantage.

Boyd untied it the next time downcourt and then a steal by Newman and his marvelous hands. He turned a steal into a crumble and then converted another steal — this one by Boyd — into another layin. Seconds later, Chris Blocker blocked a Colorado shot, picked the ball out of the air and fed Joey Johnson with another fast break two-pointer.

That was the effective end of the game although it wasn't until Gerald Collins converted a three-point play off another steal at the 11:59 mark that CSI mounted its first 10-point advantage.

"Our offense was sluggish but our defense was hellacious," said Coach Fred Trenkie, who saw the team's record run out to 13-0. "Our stats had them defeated for 20 turnovers in the first half. They just couldn't handle the pressure."

Trenkie said he was surprised at the size of the victory, noting "they beat Eastern Utah and Western Wyoming on the road and lost a five or six pointer at Weber State. We're still the only team that's beaten Weber's layovers."

"We scouted them (Colorado) last night at Treasure Valley, and they appeared to have good quickness and jumping ability. I was surprised we could get out to a 20-point lead in the first half."

Most of that halftime 20-point lead, however, came in the closing minutes. CSI jumped on top 34-18 with about seven minutes left before left-Saturday marked Colorado (flurry that cut the deficit in half).

But Newman, Johnson and Collins got the CSI break cranked up again and Blocker came up with three nifty assists that breaks that allowed the Eagles to break into a 51-32 halftime lead.

Newman's tipin, a Boyd long shot and a Blocker jumped off the baseline gave CSI the first six points of the second half and pushed Colorado passed the yield point.

From then on CSI pushed steadily away and doubled the score on several occasions before Colorado scored six points in the final minute.

The victory brings the 11th-ranked Eagles to the threshold of their Region 18 schedule. CSI will entertain Flathead Valley Community College Friday night as they begin the chase along with Treasure Valley, North Idaho and Ricks for two spots in the regional finals in Utah in March.

"We saw Flathead play in the Canadian tournament (just before Christmas). They were 1-2 up there. But they beat Southern Alberta Institute of Technology by nine points in Kalspell since then, too."

"I understand they had three players who were to become eligible in the second semester — one of them a 6-6 player. Whether they're there or not, I don't know. But it's a game we can't afford to lose and an opponent we can't afford to overlook," Trenkie said.

New England puts damper on Super bets

By ROBERT MACY
The Associated Press

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — There is disagreement among oddsmakers at Nevada's sports books about the Super Bowl game.

Not about the point-spread — the Chicago Bears were a solid 10-point favorite Monday — but rather on the impact the New England Patriots would have on betting action.

"I think we will be in the vicinity of $45 million," Sony Reizner predicted of betting totals at the state's 34 legal sports books. Should his prediction be fulfilled, it will be the heaviest bet Super Bowl of all time.

"It looks like a dud," countered Jimmy Vaccaro of the MGM Grand Hotel Sports Book, who predicted a bet total under $30 million. "I venture to guess there'll be a 25 percent cut in our share of the Super Bowl pie."

Last year's Super Bowl between the San Francisco 49ers and the Miami Dolphins, drew nearly $40 million in Nevada bets. The only place in the country where sports betting is legal. That handle was a record.

Oddsmakers said two weeks ago a Chicago-Miami matchup would have been a winner while a Chicago-New England game would cut substantially into the betting action.

Reizner, the long-time oddsmaker at the Castaways Sports Book, repeated that view, saying a Dolphin win Sunday would have meant an additional $5 million in betting action.

"Chicago people are much more geared toward big betting than people from New England," Reizner said.

Super news — C4

said, noting heavy early action on the Bears. "The Patriots don't figure to draw much money from their area."

One thing that may attract Patriots money is that "they've covered the spread the last 13 or 14 times this season," Teizner said. "If you had bet on the Patriots the last 13 times, you would have won every bet. And they seem to be a Cinderella team."

Art Manteris, oddsmaker at the Caesar's Palace Sports Book, predicted the point spread would remain between 10 and 11 until the game.

Manteris said the Bears appear almost awesome to bet, but the Patriots may capture a lot of action as underdogs.

"America always loves an underdog," Manteris said. "I think by Super Bowl Sunday the Patriots will have captured the imagination of the American people. They're the Kansas City Royals did in the playoffs, no one expected them to win their division, to win the American League — or the World Series. They had to struggle all the way."

"Dark horses do capture the fancy of the American people," Manteris said.

Whether the underdog role can shift the betting action, the Patriots remains to be seen, the oddsmakers agree.

"New England is a good betting area, but it doesn't have the betting volume of the other areas."

No. 1 Indians visit Castleford tonight

By RON GATES
Times-News writer

CASTLEFORD — Tonight's collision of Magic Valley Conference powers Castleford and Shoshone, although it comes early in the schedule, may well be instrumental in deciding the champion come mid-February.

The Wolves, 9-1 on the season and 2-1 in the MVC, will have their work cut out for them hosting top-ranked Shoshone (8-1 and 3-0) in the 8 p.m. feature.

"They're a heckuva ballclub. They deserve to be ranked No. 1 in the state," said first-year Castleford Coach Rich Schurkey. "I just hope that both teams come out playing their best — if they do it will be something to watch."

The teams match up well in size with the visitors' 6-foot-4 Kelly Duffin the tallest man on the court. The Wolves counter with a pair of 6-2 seniors in Ron Owen and Rodney Samuels, and that height concerns Shoshone mentor Larry Messick.

"We look for a tough game — they have good size and have an outstanding player in Gary Reynolds (6-1 senior). Messick said they pound the boards hard and shoot well — this could be our toughest test in conference."

Both teams show some explosive ability. • See INDIANS on Page C2

Idaho St., N. Arizona turn Big Sky basketball upside down

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Has the world gone mad? That question must be going through the minds of quite a few Big Sky Conference basketball coaches right now. Sure, the league season just started last week, but was that any way to start a season?

All eight Big Sky teams played two games, and three share the early conference lead at 2-0; but they're not the three you might expect. Idaho State, 6-5 overall, Northern Arizona, 11-3, and Weber State, 12-2, are atop the league standings after the first week of competition. The two teams favored in preseason polls to win the league title, Montana and Nevada-Reno, both are 1-1.

UNR's one loss came at the hands of the Grizzlies, 69-58, last Thursday in Reno. The Wolf Pack, off to a slow start at 7-8, rebounded to defeat Montana State on Saturday, 79-69. The Big Sky's leading scorer,

Weber State, Bengals continue to set the pace in conference's statistical ratings

BOISE (AP) — Two more forwards are moving up to challenge for individual basketball scoring honors in the Big Sky Conference, but they'll have to go some to catch up with Nevada-Reno's Dwyane Randall.

Randall improved his scoring average to 24.2, 3.3 points ahead of runnerup Larry Krystkowiak of Montana, 20.9.

Andre Spencer of Northern Arizona, 18.3, and Idaho State's Don Holston, 18.2, are the only other players close enough to challenge Randall for the scoring lead.

It's much closer for the Big Sky rebounding lead, where Randall's margin is about one rebound over Krystkowiak. Both are averaging 10.3 per game. Howie Stallek, of Idaho is a distant third at 7.6.

Spencer also leads the league in field goal percentage, hitting more than 62 percent from the field.

at 62.2 after scoring only 78 points in two games last week.

Idaho State has the best defense, allowing opponents less than 60 points per game, and Northern Arizona is the league's best shooting team, hitting 51.5 percent from the field. No other Big Sky team has made half its shots this season.

NCAA reaffirms its support for tougher admission rules

By DOUG TUCKER
The Associated Press

NEW ORLEANS — NCAA schools, despite warnings from black educators that they were creating an athletic apartheid, now are overwhelmingly Monday in favor of adopting the controversial Proposition 48.

The delegates put the finishing touches on the rule which uses standardized test scores in a new set of academic standards which some observers say could cause thousands of incoming freshmen to be ineligible next fall. Proposition 48 was passed at the 1983 NCAA convention to take effect next August.

A number of predominantly black schools, joined by a few white institutions, bitterly protested using the standardized ACT and SAT scores in the eligibility index because they say they are racially discriminatory. The final vote, which made the test scores mandatory was 206-94.

But there will be another move. "Jim Frank, the first black to be NCAA president and currently the commissioner of the predominantly black Southwestern Athletic Conference, said, "A great deal of insensitivity have brought to our campuses."

Asked about that, Johnson said, "The next move has not been decided, but there will be another move."

Frank, the first black to be NCAA president and currently the commissioner of the predominantly black Southwestern Athletic Conference, said, "A great deal of insensitivity have brought to our campuses."

rule will spur high schools to do a better job and that black students lack not the innate ability but the motivation.

"Some have made this a racially oriented thing from the beginning," said Texas Athletic Director DeLoes Dadds. "The bottom line is to bring in students with a chance to graduate. It's a disservice to any of them to bring them into an institution without having that chance. I know that test scores are not perfect things. But they're something we have to use. That is something academic people have to address, not athletes who do not meet the requirements can still be given scholarships by Division I schools, the only division affected, but they can neither play nor practice and cannot be eligible until establishing satisfactory academic progress as sophomores. Then they will have only three years of eligibility left.

"They could do that in smaller sports programs in divisions II or III. Or they could attend junior college and try to get their academic houses in order."

I schools, next year. The rule affects all sports, men and women, at Division I schools. As passed, academic requirements including mandatory cumulative grade point averages in a core curriculum, science and English courses are established. The criteria is on a sliding scale, with higher grade point in the core. • See NCAA on Page C2

BYU upsets No. 16 Notre Dame in OT

PROVO, Utah (AP) — Notre Dame Coach Digger Phelps wasn't pleased with some of the calls in Brigham Young's 80-76 overtime upset of the 16th-ranked Irish Monday night.

But Phelps said afterwards it wasn't the officiating that cost Notre Dame the victory.

"BYU did the job tonight. They won two games over the weekend and that gets their confidence going and now they are playing somebody who is ranked," Phelps said. "They made some good shots and they played well offensively and defensively. We didn't play well at all."

Phelps said Notre Dame was in trouble to win the game until Brigham Young's Tom Gnetling scored the first layup with 1:33 remaining in overtime. Phelps said BYU had failed to move the ball across the 10-second line in time, and Gnetling should never have had the opportunity to score.

BYU used a 32-second midway through the first half to go from 19-16 deficit to a 29-21 lead, and the Irish did not regain the lead until Mark Stevenson connected on a 10-foot jumper with 2:58 left in the overtime.

But Gnetling, who scored seven of his 18 points in overtime, countered that with a layup at the 2:30 mark and the Cougars never trailed thereafter.

Jeff Chatman led BYU with 21 points, 16 of which came in the first half. Gnetling had 18, Capener 14 and

College basketball

Averett Parish scored 12 for Brigham Young.

Rivers led Notre Dame with 28 points, including eight in the overtime. Ken Barlow, who fouled out midway through the second half, had 12.

UAB 77 S. Alabama 64

BIRMINGHAM (AP) — Seniors Jerome Mincy and Steve Mitchell combined for 47 points to lead 14th-ranked Alabama-Birmingham to a 77-64 victory over Sun Belt Conference foe South-Alabama Monday night.

Mitchell, who pumped in 24 points, and Mincy, who scored 23 points and pulled down a game-high 10 rebounds, led the Blazers, 16-2, to their third win against 10 losses in the Sun Belt.

"South Alabama" fell to 12-6, 1-1 in the league. The Jaguars were led by Jeff Hodge with 24 points, Jose Waitman and Ricky Brown with 11 points each and Rodney Butts with 10.

UAB took the lead at the outset and never lost it, although South Alabama clawed to within one point on several occasions. Mincy was 6 of 6 from the floor during the first stanza — on his way to scoring 16 points as the Blazers led 36-25 at the half.

In the second period, Mitchell and Mincy continued to hit during the first 10 minutes of the half.

Sophomore center Eddie Collins, who entered the game in the latter part of the second half, scored 10 points and pulled down four rebounds in 17 minutes.

Louisville 59 S. Mississippi 54

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (AP) — Jeff Hall hit a 26-foot jumper to break a 54-4 tie with 1:21 remaining and 17th-ranked Louisville added three free throws to hold off Southern-Mississippi 59-54 Monday night in a Metro Conference basketball game.

Louisville built a six-point lead with 12:58 to play, but Southern, led by a pressing defense, rallied to 54-51 with a little under two minutes to play. Billy Thompson added a pair of free throws and Herbert Crook-one to preserve the victory in the final minute.

Freshman center Pervis Ellison led Louisville with 18 points and a game-high six rebounds. Crook added 11 and Milt Wagner 10 as the Cardinals rebounded from a loss to Memphis State to even their Metro mark at 1-1. Louisville is 9-4 overall.

Louisville jumped to a 12-4 lead, but behind Randolph Keys Southern took the lead 25-24 with 2:05 left in the first half — and held — a 27-26 halftime edge.

Keys led Southern with 14 and Kenny Siler added 10. Southern shot only 32.8 percent from the floor against Louisville's pressing defense. Louisville hit 53.3 percent of its field goals.

Duke 87 St. Joseph's 66

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Mark Alarie scored 22 points and Johnny Dawkins 21 as the third-ranked Duke Blue Devils remained undefeated with an 87-66 victory over St. Joseph's in college basketball Monday night.

Duke, of the Atlantic Coast Conference, earned its 15th victory of the season by outscoring St. Joseph's 22-2 during 8 1/2 minutes in the second half, turning a six-point lead into a 26-point advantage.

The loss snapped an eight-game winning streak for St. Joseph's, which fell to 9-3.

Duke led 41-39 at halftime, then scored the first nine points of the second half. The Blue Devils increased their margin to 45-39 with 1:39 left.

St. Joseph's closed to within 56-51 on a layup by Wayne Williams with 12:14 remaining in the game.

The Blue Devils led 63-57 when they started their 22-2 run, which included an 8-0 margin in the last left. The only basket for St. Joseph's during the space came from Rodney Blake.

Louisiana St. 86 Mississippi 68

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Sophomore forward John Williams scored 21 points Monday night to lead No. 4 Louisiana State to an easy 86-68 victory over Mississippi in a Southeastern Conference basketball game.

Mississippi played the Tigers even to an early 10-10 tie, but LSU went ahead 44-29 at intermission and never looked back.

The victory improved LSU to 15-2 overall and 3-2 in the SEC, while Mississippi fell to 8-6 and 1-4.

Ricky Blanton scored 17 points for the Tigers. Nikita Wilson added 16 and Derrick Taylor chipped in with 11.

Roderick Barnes paced the Rebels with 22 points, while Joe Ayers put in 10 and Curtis Hatcher added 11.

Northern Arizona turns back Eastern Washington, 66-62

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz. (AP) — Andre Spencer scored 19 points and grabbed nine rebounds and Andy Hurd added 16 points and seven rebounds to lead Northern Arizona to a 66-62 win over Eastern Washington in a non-conference college basketball game here Monday night.

With 12:30 left in the first half, and Eastern Washington leading 12-8, the Lumberjacks scored 12 unanswered points to go up 20-12, only to see the Eagles fight back and tie the game at halftime.

Eastern led by as many as nine points in the second half. But NAU reeled off 11 straight points to turn a 57-49 deficit into a 60-57 lead with 5:28 left. The Lumberjacks never trailed from that point.

Davis returns to lead Suns past Spurs

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Jay Humphries, 40, led his National Basketball Association career-high with 22 points Saturday as Phoenix scored 11 in his first game in months as the Phoenix Suns rolled to 121-98 victory Monday night over the San Antonio Spurs.

Humphries had 18 of his points in the opening half, helping Phoenix take a 33-23 lead.

The Suns used runs of 9-2 and 8-2 early in the second quarter en route to a 67-47 halftime bulge. Rookie Ed Pinckney had eight points in the period, while Mike Sanders added seven.

Davis, playing for the first time after spending 30 days in a drug and alcohol rehabilitation center, gave Phoenix a 20-point lead at 107-90 on a three-point play with 27 seconds left in the third quarter.

The Suns (14-21) coasted from there to their fourth victory in the last five games.

Sap Antonio, now 21-18 after losing for the sixth time in the past eight games, got 18 points from Alvin Robertson. Jon Sundvold added 13, Alfreddie Hughes 12 and Artis Gilmore 11.

James Edwards had 16 points for Phoenix — 10 coming in the third quarter. Pinckney finished with 13, Larry Nance 12 and Sanders 11.

Denver 119 Milwaukee 115

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Alex English scored 32 points Monday night as the Denver Nuggets held off the Milwaukee Bucks 119-115 to clinch a 119-115 National Basketball Association victory.

The Bucks pulled to within two points of the Nuggets with less than two minutes left, but a foul shot and a basket by English gave Denver a 119-113 lead with 41 seconds remaining.

Kenny Fields missed two free throws, then Terry Cummings and Ricky Pierce hit foul shots to account for the final score.

The Nuggets, down by nine points three times in the first half, went in to intermission with a 60-57 lead.

English, who scored 22 points in the first half, called for his fourth foul at 4:24 of the third period and was benched. But the Bucks failed to take advantage of his absence, and the Nuggets led 94-88 at the end of the third period.

Cummings scored two baskets to open the fourth period and Denver called time with 10:11 remaining after a foul by Wayne Cooper. Paul Pressey made two free throws to close the Denver lead to 94-91.

Pro basketball

Four straight points by Sidney Moncrief tied the game at 96 with 7:33 left.

But then English — a 6-foot-7 forward — scored six of the Nuggets' next eight points to spot Denver a 104-96 lead with 5:51 left.

The Bucks closed the gap to 114-112 on a steal and dunk by Fields with 1:21 under two minutes left, but Mike Evans answered with a basket off a steal.

Milwaukee had three players with more than 20 points: Moncrief had 29, Cummings had 29, and Pressey added 22.

Washington 90 L.A. Clippers 77

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — Cliff Robinson scored 12 points in the third quarter Monday night as the Washington Bullets broke open a low-scoring contest and defeated the Los Angeles Clippers 90-77 in National Basketball Association action Gilmore 11.

Washington outscored the Clippers 23-13 in the third quarter to take a 16-point lead, despite making only eight of 21 shots from the floor. Three of the field goals with which the Bullets were credited came on goaltending calls against the Clippers. Washington did not put the ball through the basket until Robinson made a dunk shot with 4:15 remaining.

The Bullets, 18-20, were able to increase their 47-41 halftime advantage because the Clippers' shooting was even colder. Los Angeles, 12-27, shot only four of 17 in the third quarter.

Overall, neither team shot 40 percent in the game.

Robinson led all scorers with 25 points, while Dan Roundfield came off the Bullets' bench to score 19 and gather in 13 rebounds.

The Clippers were paced by Cedric Maxwell's 15 points.

New York 115 Sacramento 97

NEW YORK (AP) — Patrick Ewing scored 20 of his 24 points in the first half as the New York Knicks built a 22-point lead and coasted to a 115-97 National Basketball Association victory Monday night over the Sacramento Kings.

Ewing did not play in the fourth quarter because the Knicks took a 10-point lead into the final 12 minutes. Darrell Walker scored 12 of his 18 points in the final period for New York. Gerald Williams finished with 15.

White-Woodson led Sacramento with 18 points, and LaSalle Thompson added 15.

The Knicks took a 17-4 lead in the first four minutes of the game by hitting eight of their first 10 shots, including an intended alley-oop pass by Rory Sparrow from just inside midcourt that went into the basket for three points.

New York took its largest lead of the half at 54-33 on a three-point play by Ewing with 6:01 left. Ewing went on to score New York's last 11 points of the second quarter.

Navratilova defeats Shriver

WASHINGTON (AP) — One good set of tennis wasn't enough for Pam Shriver, who fell victim to a quick start by Martina Navratilova, and once again lost to her close friend and doubles partner.

Navratilova parlayed a booming serve and her typically strong net game into a 6-4 victory Monday night in the finals of the $150,000 Virginia Slims of Washington tennis tournament.

Shriver won the opening point of the match when she rapped a ball that hit the net and skipped over Navratilova's racket.

"After that point, I looked over and saw that she seemed satisfied with herself," Navratilova said. "I figured she meant business, so I told myself I'll get down to business."

Tennis

Shriver's service to grab a 2-0 lead, she saw her hopes quickly, but that was ridiculous," said Shriver. "At least I played a very fine second set."

Navratilova, who finished the week without losing a set, blasted six aces and 12 winners in only one set in defeating her close friend in 66 minutes.

After collecting a check for $27,000 following her eighth singles title here, Navratilova teamed with Shriver in the doubles final as the top seed teamed with the duo split the top prize of $10,800 with a 6-3, 6-4 victory over West Germany's Claudia Kohde-Kilsch and Czechoslovakia's Helena Sukova.

THE ACES®

BOBBY WOLFF

"Tender-handed stroke-2-sets"
And it stings you for your pains
Grasp it like a man of mettle.
And it soft as silk remains."
— Aaron Hill.

When the defenders hold the trump ace and threaten to score a quick ruff, it's impossible to draw two rounds of trump safely. Sometimes, however, one can manage to draw a trump without leading one. Here's how Michel Peron of France brought off this feat at a recent European tournament.

East took his diamond ace and shifted to the ace and another club, into the heart of dummy's ♠K-J. No doubt about East's intentions regarding a club ruff.

Most Souths led a trump anyway in the native hope that East held the trump ace instead of West. West was undeclared a club; the quick ruff timing was done.

Peron reasoned that East would never have exposed the club position had he held the trump ace, so he rejected the immediate lead of a trump. Instead, he ruffed dummy's last diamond and ran his 10 of hearts for a winning finesse. Another heart finesse was followed by the heart ace. East was forced to ruff (had East not ruffed, Peron would have thrown his last club) and Peron overruffed. Peron now led trumps and the defense was finished. East could no longer ruff a club, and the exciting game was scored.

Sometimes it is possible to draw a trump without leading trumps.

Market steadies, stocks gain

By CHET CURRIER
The Associated Press

NEW YORK—Stock prices gained ground in subdued trading Monday, steadying after the sudden selloff that hit the market last week.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, down 35.67 points last week, rose 7.00 to 1,520.53.

Volume on the New York Stock Exchange slowed to 108.69 million shares from 122.78 million Friday.

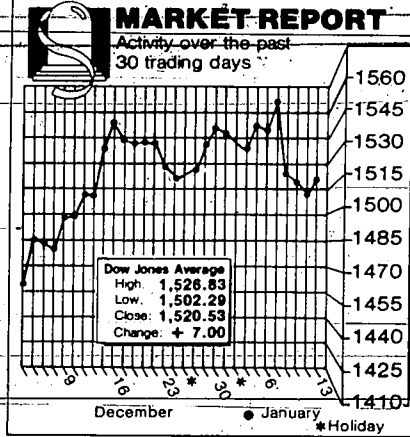

Analysts said many traders were waiting cautiously to see how the market will react if, as is widely expected, it is confronted with more news of a strengthening economy this week.

Last week's slide was touched off by word that the unemployment rate had fallen to its lowest level in more than five years. Although that was upbeat for business conditions generally, it was also taken as a distinctly negative portent for interest rates.

Prices of long-term government bonds with maturity in the opposite direction from interest rates dropped as well for $5 every $1,000 in face value in Monday's activity.

Among the items on the agenda for the markets this week are the government's monthly report on retail sales, due Tuesday, and industrial production, scheduled for Thursday. It would come as no surprise on Wall Street if either or both of those figures provides further signs of increasing economic growth.

Sterchi-Brothers Stores jumped 10 1/2 to 32 1/2. The company said

HedgeMeyers Co. made a $31-a-share offer for all its outstanding common stock.

Comdisco fell 1 1/2 to 18 1/2. Late last week the company said it was contesting an Internal Revenue Service assessment of $20 million in back-taxes and interest.

Texaco, the volume leader on turnover of more than 1.5 billion shares, slipped 1/4 to 49 1/2. Pennzoil was down 2 to 69 1/2. A judge ruled that Texaco won't be required to post a $12-billion bond in order to continue its legal fight with Pennzoil, stemming from its acquisition of Getty Oil.

In the oil drilling and service sector, Schlumberger fell 1 1/2 to 35 1/4 and Halliburton 1 1/2 to 25 1/4. Analysts said investors were apparently fearful of more earnings disappointments in the industry, which has suffered along with the depressed energy economy.

Walt Disney Productions gained 5 1/2 to 120. Late in the day the company announced a 4-for-1 stock split, and dividend increase.

GTE was actively traded, unchanged at 47 1/2. The company is reported to be considering spinning off its Sprint long-distance telephone business, which has been recording large operating losses.

Advancing issues outnumbered declines by about 9 to 7 in the overall tally on the Big Board. The exchange's composite index rose 37 to 119.15.

Nationwide turnover in NYSE-listed issues was about 1.5 billion shares on regional exchanges and in the over-the-counter market, totaling 126.75 million shares.

Standard & Poor's index of 400 industrial stocks rose 1.26 to 229.36, and S&P 500 stock-price index was up 76 to 206.72.

The NASDAQ composite index for the over-the-counter market edged up 0.5 to 324.19. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index closed at 244.22, up 26.

Teen spending hits $65 billion

CHICAGO (AP)—Teen-agers nationwide spent more than $65 billion on goods and services last year, according to a survey by the National Retail Federation.

The family is still funding the grocery purchases, but teens are doing the buying," said Grady Hauser, vice president for marketing for Teen-Age Research Unlimited of suburban Lake Forest.

Topping the items that the 1,600 teen-agers surveyed bought most often in 1985 were fast food, soft drinks, shampoo, deodorant, toothpaste, clothes, ice cream, bubble gum and movie-tickets, Hauser said.

The nation's 29 million teen-agers spent $30 billion of their own money, or $80 per month, on items of their own choosing in 1985, Hauser said, adding that he did not have an item-by-item breakdown.

The company, which surveys reaches 43 percent of all teen-agers nationwide every six weeks.

The survey's findings also suggest that teen-agers are buying more goods and services from other companies. Hauser said 48 percent of the teen-agers rented an average of two videotapes per month, for a total nationwide rental of 58 million tapes a month.

The popularity of videos might explain a decline in traditional dating reported by teen-agers, Hauser said, as more teen-agers eschew going out for an evening as couples in favor of group activities.

"They're not stopping socializing. They're having groups of friends over for videos," he said. Home-computer use was also on the rise in 1985, although only 14.6 percent of teen-age girls surveyed used personal computers at home compared with 30.1 percent of the boys.

Rock music continued to have a huge impact, with teen-agers listening to the radio more than 20 hours per week, and watching MTV, the music television channel, for an average of 1.5 hours a week.

"It's clear that MTV... is one of the most effective vehicles at reaching teen-agers," he said. "The company, which surveys reaches 43 percent of all teen-agers nationwide every six weeks."

Mental health care shows growth as an employee benefit

Rarely will you hear employees grumble about the stigma benefits they get for visits to psychiatrists or psychologists.

The benefits may be stingy but most people just shy away from the topic.

Now, though, several new developments are combining to improve the mental health benefits available to many employees.

You may be startled to read that a large percentage of the total health care costs a company pays goes to mental health care—often as high as 20 percent. It is more common sense for employers to examine these costs with care.

The effort is not so much in curbing benefits but in trying to define what is appropriate care.

That's leading to innovation.

A typical benefit provides employees with modest coverage—subject to the usual deductibles and co-insurance requirements of the plan.

To illustrate "modest coverage," many plans limit reimbursement to a maximum dollar amount each year—often $300 or $1,000, or a maximum number of visits each year.

Others impose a lifetime ceiling on treatment or combine these features.

Moreover, many group plans pay 20 percent of medical expenses but only 50 percent for outpatient therapy.

It doesn't take much treatment to hit these limits.

As an employee if you have the benefits to start with, you can't suddenly expect richer benefits. But there are two promising trends that could provide easier access to outpatient care.

Sylvia Porter

Employees can refer themselves voluntarily or, in some cases, managers can refer employees when they observe behavioral or performance problems, high absenteeism or similar signs of trouble.

The programs are designed specifically to cover short-term mental health problems.

Employees think the cost of psychiatric care is uncontrollable, observes Jim Norton, a principal at William H. Mercer-Meindinger, a New York benefits consulting firm.

Similar programs are now under way in California, Washington, D.C., and New York, with providers organizing to deliver both inpatient and outpatient services to employees in participating plans.

Also, in mid-1985, the Supreme Court upheld Massachusetts law that requires inclusion of all group insurance plans offered in the state.

Most major employers already provide these benefits. Linda Havfin points out. The decision basically favors small- and medium-sized employers who must now include these benefits for all employees in states that have a similar law.

That psychiatric benefits affect other benefits has become obvious.

Blue Cross of Western Pennsylvania found that among patients with mental health problems, 43 percent of them had also had physical health care.

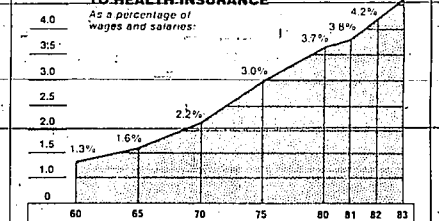

And the Group Health Association, the trade group of health maintenance organizations, reports that patients treated by mental health providers cost non-psychiatric care by 31 percent in the year after referral.

Alleviating emotional problems goes far beyond quieting distress. It can reduce the burden on other medical expenses—an overlooked but significant form of cost reduction.

Sylvia Porter writes on consumer matters for the United Press Syndicate.

Employer contributions to health insurance

Employer contributions to health insurance reached 4.6 percent of wages and salaries in 1983 (latest figures available), compared to 3.0 percent in 1975 and 1.3 percent in 1960. Growth in the cost of employer health insurance plans is due in part to an increase in the rate of return for active workers, a situation first encountered in the 1950-62 recession when more workers were encouraged to retire early.
