Maneuvers near Libya called quiet but tense

By NORMAN BLACK
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Fighters from two American aircraft carriers conducted flight operations off the Libyan coast Friday in what U.S. officials described as a quiet but tense Navy exercise. Libya branded it an "aggressive provocation."

Source dismissed the meeting of the planes as "insignificant."

Carrier, Pentagon sources declined to specify what routes the U.S. fighters had been flying beyond saying they were not over the Gulf of Sidra, a large, contested body of water that cuts into Libya's coast. Libya claims the gulf part of its territorial waters.

Mediterranean earlier in the day, apparently to observe the Navy force. A group of U.S. F-18 fighters, already up in the air, were directed toward the Libyans, the source continued.

But as the Navy fighters moved within vision of the Soviet-made Mig 23s and Mig 25s, the planes peeled off and returned to Libya without making any threatening moves. The source said the meeting of the planes in the Gulf of Sidra, a large, contested body of water that cuts into Libya's coast. Libya claims the gulf part of its territorial waters.

But in a confusing turn of events, the Pentagon appeared to reverse itself on whether future flights might extend over the gulf. On Thursday, the Pentagon said publicly that no such flights were planned. In a prepared response to the same question on Friday, however, the Pentagon was not so adamant.

"The United States will be conducting operations in the Tripoli Flight Information Region (FIR), an international airspace over international waters," the Pentagon said. "The Gulf of Sidra is in the Tripoli FIR, but we are not discussing specifics of our operations, including locations within the FIR."

The United States refused to heed Libya's claim to the gulf, applying a standard 12-mile limit on coastal waters. The last time the United States and Libya engaged in combat was in 1981 when Navy fighters shot down two Libyan jets over the Gulf of Sidra.

The Tripoli Flight Information Region extends more than 720 miles in length off the Libyan coast — all of it within 70 miles of the coast line.

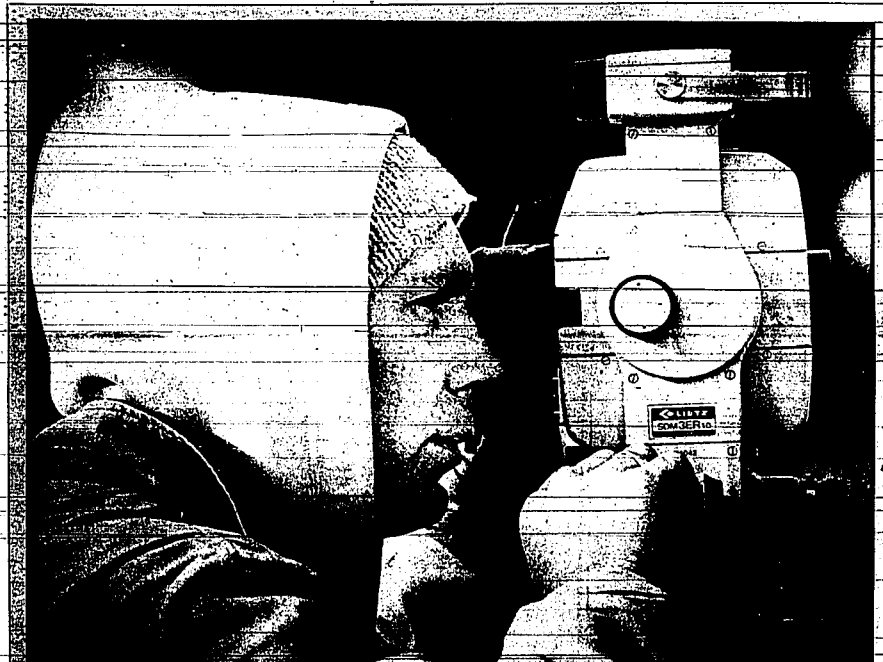

At the White House, spokesman Larry Speakes indicated the U.S. position on Libya's claims had not changed. Asked if the lack of operations over the gulf on Friday reflected U.S. acceptance of Libya's claim, he responded: "No. Not the Gulf of Sidra line."

Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafy, responding to the start of the Navy exercise, told Western reporters he had ordered Libyan aircraft out over the Gulf of Sidra "to defend Libya's territorial waters."

Pentagon sources confirmed that some Libyan planes had been detected flying off the coast, but added the planes were far removed from the flight paths flown by American jets on Friday.

Pentagon sources also said there were no plans for a retaliatory strike against Libya for last month's terrorist attacks in Rome and Vienna. The United States has accused Khadafy of supporting the Palestinian faction believed responsible for those Dec. 27 attacks, in which 20 people were killed.

U.S. will observe Philippine voting

By R. GREGORY NOKES
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., said Friday that despite serious misgivings about potential election abuses, he is willing to lead an official delegation of American observers to the Feb. 7 presidential election in the Philippines.

He told a news conference he had concluded "it would be a serious mistake for the United States not to demonstrate its support for democracy in the Philippines," and the presence of observers would fulfill that role.

President Ferdinand Marcos is facing what appears to be his toughest challenge in his 20 years of rule from opposition candidate Corason Aquino and there has been concern both in the administration and Congress that he might try to rig the election.

Secretary of State George P. Shultz telephoned Lugar and asked him to head the U.S. delegation, said a congressional source. Shultz told Lugar "that President Reagan had received from Marcos an official invitation to send a group, said the source, who asked not to be further identified."

White House spokesman Albert R. Brashear said that delegation members would not be announced before Monday.

At his news conference, Lugar voiced concern about "disturbing reports of violence and intimidation against opposition figures." Several of Aquino's campaign workers have been slain.

Lugar, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said there is no way the observers can know whether the election is fair or not, although he said it would watch.

USDA officials to ease threats of foreclosure

By PAUL HOUSTON
Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — Agriculture Department officials seemed to satisfy a group of perturbed senators Friday that the Farmers Home Administration is not beginning massive foreclosures against farmers who are behind in their loan payments.

Panic hit the farm community earlier this month when word got out that the FmHA had drafted harshly worded foreclosure warnings to about 70,000 borrowers, some of whom were only $100 delinquent.

Calling the notices "alarming," Sen. Trad Cochran, R-Miss., chairman of the Senate Agriculture appropriations subcommittee, held a hearing attended by nine equally alarmed colleagues, including five farm-state Republicans who face tough reelection campaigns this year.

At the hearing, Agriculture Undersecretary Frank W. Naylor Jr. said the notices have been toned down and that the government "will continue to show compassion" in helping strapped farmers.

He said borrowers would be sent a

Squatters to vacate their vacant-lot city

By STEVE BREWER
The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO — A band of squatters has built a community of squalid shacks, complete with outhouse and pet cemetery, in a vacant lot filled with weeds and trash that commands a view of San Francisco's downtown splendor.

For the two dozen squatters, the muddy cluster of huts is a safe, no-cost place to live in a city that leads the nation in housing costs. To city officials, it's an absolute pigsty, a filthy health hazard that must be razed.

On Thursday, city officials gave the squatters a week to get out.

"They don't give a damn if we have to go back to living on the streets, sleeping in doorways and on sidewalks," Albaro Gonzalez, 25, said Friday. "We are a community here. There's never been a problem here until now."

An aide to Mayor Dianne Feinstein said the city is mustering social service agencies in an effort to find shelter for the evicted squatters, but the only clear path to the unemployed Gonzalez is trying to find a place to sleep in an area where the median price of a house is $155,000.

According to the U.S. League of Savings Institutions, the median sale price for homes in the San Francisco metropolitan last year was the highest in the nation.

Some of the squatters have been living in the narrow lot for more than five years. Thomas Dalton, 52, said different people have called the hideaway home for a decade.

"It all grew out of proportion," said Dalton, whose round belly and curly white beard give him the look of a disheveled Santa Claus. "When they cut down the weeds in the front of the lot, I knew we were going to have problems. The health department didn't know we were here before then. They couldn't even see this place."

Thick weeds, some 10 feet tall, still surround the perimeter of the lot. Piles of moldering garbage rise up on either side of the muddy path that serves as the main entrance. Shacks, collages of plywood, mismatched lumber scraps and tin. Nearby, the pet cemetery bears a small, carefully lettered sign, listing departed friends like Misty, Little, Fluffy, and E.T.

Amazing Voyager sweeps past Uranus

By LEE SIEGEL
The Associated Press

PASADENA, Calif. — Voyager-2 capped an amazing, 94-day journey Friday, sweeping within 50,679 miles of Uranus in a historic close encounter and snapping dozens of photographs of the giant planet, its multi-colored dark rings and craters and valleys on its moons.

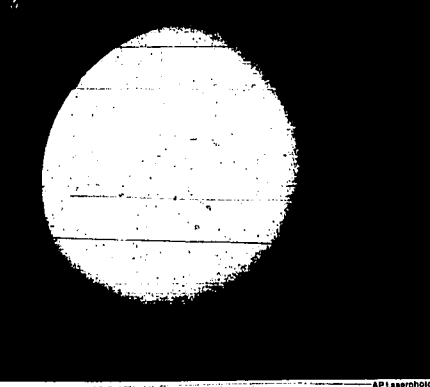

The unmanned spacecraft then hurtled on through the solar system, aiming toward a 1989 encounter with Neptune.

"We have reached the fruition of 4½ years of hard work," said Ellis Miner, deputy project scientist at Jet Propulsion Laboratory.

It's somewhat akin to the feeling a new mother has after carrying a child for nine months and finally holding it in her arms.

Project scientist Ed Stone announced the latest milestone in Voyager's $600 million trek from Earth, and a 4½-year journey from Saturn — which it explored in 1981 after flying past Jupiter in 1979. Voyager traveled on a curving, 3-billion-mile path to reach Uranus, which is 1.84 billion miles from Earth.

"Just about two minutes ago, Voyager made its closest approach to Uranus, the first spacecraft to fly past the planet," Stone said after the 9:59 a.m. encounter with the solar system's third-largest planet, the seventh from the sun.

Voyager took this photo of Uranus from 7.1 million miles away as it approached the planet Wednesday. Because Voyager collected so much information and more than 80 pictures during its closest approach to Uranus and its major discoveries except that it proved Uranus has a magnetic field and that its moons apparently have craters from meteorite impacts as well as faults and valleys.

U.S. Geological Survey geologist Larry Soderblom, a member of the imaging team, said he was surprised by the apparent fault zones and valleys on some of the largest of the 14 known Uranian moons because he "did not anticipate this degree of geological activity on the Uranian satellites."

"There are what appear to be impact features on a number of the satellites," said Voyager imaging team leader Brad Smith.

Another USGS geologist, Harold Marsury, said the discovery was exciting because it indicated that the same kind of geological processes that occur on the solar system's rocky inner planets and on moons of Jupiter and Saturn also occur on Uranus' moons.

Smith said Voyager's recent photographs show some of the rings had different colors than others, "for reasons not yet understood."

Some of the rings appeared to be redder, Miner said, while others appeared blue compared with the plain black of the outermost, or epsilon, ring. He said the color differences were slight but could indicate the rings contain different kinds of material.

"That finding would be consistent with the theory that the rings may have formed from debris created by the breakup of moons that no longer exist."

As a result, scientists were unable to announce much in the way of new discoveries except that it proved Uranus has a magnetic field and that its moons apparently have craters from meteorite impacts as well as faults and valleys.

Rebels say president replaced

The Associated Press

A rebel radio broadcast from South Yemen said leaders of the bloody insurgency against Ali Nasser Mohammed replaced him as president Friday and named Heibin Abu-Bakr al-Attas as provisional head of the Arab world's only Marxist state.

Arab diplomatic sources in the region viewed with skepticism the broadcast by the hard-line Marxist rebels.

The Arab diplomat in Sana'a, capital of North Yemen, said "Without Soviet and Arab backing, the broadcast will certainly go unheeded."

Al-Attas, prime minister before a coup attempt began the savage civil war on Jan. 13, was in Moscow when the radio announcement was made. The broadcast monitored in the Persian Gulf state of Bahrain, said members of the Central Committee of the pro-Soviet Yemen Socialist Party through which President Mohammed had governed.

Fail-safe system fails its test

COLD LAKE, Alberta (AP) — A so-called fail-safe system could not be deployed in time to prevent an unwarmed U.S. cruise missile from crashing during a test flight Wednesday, a Canadian Forces spokesman said.

The missile went down prematurely in a heavily wooded area of the Pinrose Lake Air Weapons Range, where the Alberta-Saskatchewan border 180 miles northeast of Edmonton, after a 1,500-mile flight across northwestern Canada.

Maj. Luigi Rossetto, a Canadian Forces Information officer, said Thursday the crew of an U.S. Air Force Boeing 707 chase plane could not respond in time to release a safety parachute or take control of the missile.

Rossetto said the missile was on course about 600 feet above the ground when it suddenly arched to earth. Normally it flies at an average altitude of 1,000 feet, depending on terrain, and is programmed to slip undetected below normal radar range.

The low altitude prevented the crew on the chase plane, whose sole job was to take control, from reacting to the course deviation, he said.

Nurses' strike forces moves

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Officials began moving patients from two more state-run hospitals Friday as a strike by nearly 2,000 nurses, pharmacists and other health workers dragged into a third day with no immediate end in sight.

No transfer orders had been issued for four other state general hospitals, although two were accepting no new admissions. Twelve acutely ill patients remained at Coaldale General Hospital, where a transfer order was issued.

The Department of Public Welfare began transferring patients from the Phillipsburg State General Hospital and the Scranton State General Hospital because of a nurses shortage, said spokesman Gordon.

There were about 60 patients in the two hospitals Friday, officials said. Patients were being taken to community hospitals.

Navy freezes civilian hiring

WASHINGTON (AP) — The secretary of the Navy, citing the new balanced-budget law, has frozen the hiring of civilian workers, Navy officials said Friday.

The Navy action was the most severe of any of the services since Pentagon officials said last week that the Defense Department's fiscal 1988 budget of $41.4 billion would have to be cut by $13.3 billion to comply with the new law.

More limited freezes have been imposed over the past week by the European Command in the Army and Systems Command in the Air Force.

Navy Secretary John P. Lehman's decision was distributed throughout the service on Thursday and with some exceptions, imposes a "total freeze on the hiring of civilian employees, effective immediately."

Today's weather

It may be cool, but no snow is in sight

Twin Falls, Burley, Rupert, Jerome and Gooding: Today and Sunday, fair except for local areas of fog. Light winds. Highs: low to mid-30s. Lows tonight 10 to 20.

Gemas, Pringle, Halley and the Lower Wood River Valley: Patchy night and morning fog today and Sunday, otherwise sunny days and clear at night. Highs today 20s and mid-30s. Lows tonight 10s to 10s above zero.

Northern Utah and Nevada: Utah — Generally fair through Sunday. Increasing valley haze in north. Highs 20s to 40s, north and mid-40s to mid-60s south. Lows teens to mid-20s. Nevada — Sunny and a little warmer today and Sunday. Highs today from near 40 to the lower 50s. Highs Sunday from the lower 40s to mid-50s. Lows tonight from mostly lower teens to mid-20s.

Synopsis: Skies were partly cloudy over Idaho Friday afternoon with most cloudiness in the eastern third.

Fog continued in the Upper Snake River Valley and in the western Treasure Valley. Both Idaho Falls and Ontario, Ore., had visibilities of less than a mile in fog.

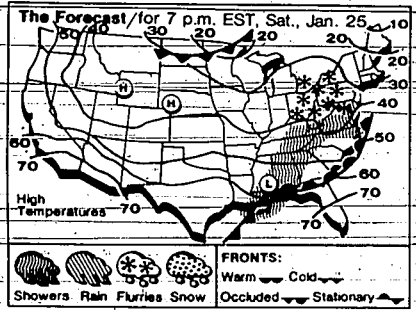

No precipitation was reported at mid-afternoon. However, Mullin did pick up .03 inch from a snow shower earlier in the day.

Afternoon temperatures ranged from the upper 20s in the mountains and in the foggy areas, to the 30s in most valleys, to a balmy 50 degrees at Lewiston.

The warmest temperature in Idaho Friday was 54 degrees at Lewiston, the coldest reading was 3 degrees at Fairfield and Ketchum.

The extended outlook for southern Idaho Monday through Wednesday calls for mostly dry with the period. West highs 30s to lower 40s with lows 15 to 25. East highs upper 20s and 30s with lows and 10s.

Elsewhere in the nation, the warmest reading was 82 degrees in Palm Springs, Calif., and the coldest was 13 degrees below zero in Inouitua, Maine.

Marcos orders fuel prices cut as Aquino blasts him as liar

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — The official said: "We think the public record speaks for itself. There are no grounds to second-guess the findings of military officers who followed the case 40 years ago."

"If you look at the record, it says Marcos is a liar," the official added, although he noted that Marcos did win medals for his actions before the 1967 fall of U.S. forces in the Philippines on the Bataan peninsula.

About 5,000 "leftist" workers, teachers and students waving red flags marched to a downtown Manila plaza chanting slogans calling for a boycott of the "sham election" set for Feb. 7. One sign described it as "hocus-pocus of the U.S.-Marcos regime."

Another group of several thousand people snarled protest slogans while marching to demand the closing of the country's first nuclear power plant, in the province of Bataan, near Manila.

Marcos, 68, made no campaign appearances Friday, but the presidential palace announced that he had ordered cuts averaging 11 percent in the prices of gasoline and such other petroleum products as kerosene and cooking gas.

It was the latest of several actions apparently aimed at winning votes in campaign speeches, he has ordered salary increases for teachers and other government employees; released millions of dollars for roads, markets and schools; reduced rents in government housing projects, and distributed land titles to peasants and slum dwellers.

Mrs. Aquino used the reports about the president's war service at a rally of more than 5,000 students at the state-run University of the Philippines to support her claim that he is an "invertebrate liar."

"He told us he was a war hero," she said, "but now it turns out he is not."

The audience cheered and chanted "Cory! Cory!"

She said earlier to students at a Roman Catholic school that the reports were "proof of his deceptions" and she hoped Filipinos would be convinced that "Marcos has to go."

She has said repeatedly that he is "No. 1 suspect" in the 1983 assassination of her husband, opposition leader Benigno Aquino.

for about a year.

While he said he has "serious reservations" about the fairness of the election, he added that the election machinery in the Philippines is adequate to give "some reasonable chance of having a good election."

"The question is whether there is the political will to make it work and make it work right," Lugar said.

He acknowledged that many members of Congress are reluctant to join the delegation.

Rep. Danie Fascell, D-Fla., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said Friday he had decided not to go and expressed concern that the observers could be maneuvered into rendering a decision that the election was fair even though it might be flawed.

"I don't see how sending an observer group there, without the capability of making a real determination on all aspects of the election, could make an official declaration of a free and fair election," Fascell said in an interview. "Those of us who have official responsibilities would be in a better position to weigh the evidence as it accumulates over time."

Lugar said the observers will go over several days ahead of the election and will return several days after the votes are counted.

notice of "intent to take adverse action" giving them 30 days to meet with an FRIA agent to determine if their loan qualified for restructuring. If not, foreclosure would begin, he said.

Lenders who are less than three years delinquent also will be asked to come in to "work out their loan problems" but will not receive an "adverse action" notice, Clark said.

"The idea is to save the farmer and the FRIA county supervisor sit down together and develop a workout plan that yields a payment schedule that can be handled within the farmer's cash flow," Clark told the senators.

"As a farmer myself, I say hallelujah," Sen. Mark Andrews, R-N.D., said of the revised notices. But he added sternly, "Just remember, we're looking over your shoulder."

Cochran said that he also was pleased that the newly drafted notices "are more sensitive, without a doubt." However, he expressed concern that spending cuts forced by the new Gramm-Rudman balanced-budget law would reduce the number of local FRIA agents and make it "impossible" to process the expected flood of requests for deferral of loan payments.

BOISE (AP) — Conservative state legislator Preston Brimhall of Idaho Falls has won the first round in his battle to pass a state law requiring Idaho public schools to teach creationism along with evolution in the classrooms.

The House Education Committee Voted 11-4 Friday to print and introduce Brimhall's bill, legislation which died in the same committee last year.

But this year, House Speaker Tom Stivers took two moderates off the committee and replaced them with conservatives. Both sided with Brimhall Friday.

Only Democrats Jeanne Givens and Steve Herndon, and Republicans Dorothy Reynolds and Robert Scates voted "no" as the committee voted to print the bill. Missing were Democrats Pete Black and George Johnson.

Herndon caused an uproar in the committee when he proposed changing the Brimhall bill to state that the theory of creation that would be taught in Idaho schools would be one prepared by a Catholic priest.

But when the commotion settled, Herndon pointed out that the uproar would be exactly what would occur in the public schools when battles would erupt over which theory of creation should be used.

Herndon said he was a Catholic, and understood that — Brimhall, an Idaho Falls Republican, was a Mormon. Brimhall refused to declare his religion, saying it wasn't an issue.

District Judges, now at 51,270, are scheduled to go to $56,000.

The bill also calls for magistrates to be paid according to the number of cases they settle in a year. If a nonattorney magistrate settles less than 1,750 cases per year, the salary shall be $18,000 per year. If a magistrate settles more than 4,500 per year, the salary will be $28,000.

Jones also introduced a personal bill ending Idaho's personal property tax, and raising the state sales tax from 4 to 5 percent.

The House Revenue and Taxation Committee rejected that proposal, after members noted it would completely eliminate taxes on much farm equipment, machinery and industrial operating are scheduled to go from $4,770 to $59,750. It's the second round of raises approved last year, financed in part by higher court filing fees.

The House Business Committee, under Chairman Mike Strasser, R-Nampa, issued a flock of bills certain to stir up the state's trial lawyers.

One measure would limit to $250,000 personal injury awards in lawsuits claiming pain, suffering or disfigurement. Another declares that lawyers can't claim more than certain amounts for contingency fees.

They range from 40 percent in awards of $50,000 or less to 10 percent in awards as high as $200,000.

Rep. Stuart Judd, D-Griffin, won Transportation and Defense Committee introduction of his bill increasing the possible fine for highway littering from $30 to $300. Judd's bill also allows up to $50 of the fine to go to anyone responsible for the arrest and conviction of a litterer.

House bill deadline generates flurry of activity

BOISE (AP) — The Idaho House of Representatives is nearing a deadline for the introduction of bills by individual legislators.

The deadline falls Saturday, but House Speaker Tom Stivers announced Friday that it will be extended to Monday. After that date, only committees can introduce legislation.

That provided a flood of new bills on Friday, both from individuals and committees. After the 45th day of a session, only a few committees are authorized to introduce new legislation.

Among bills which surfaced Friday was one sponsored by conservative Republicans Ray Inanger, Dolores Crow, Dieter Bayer, Ron Salter, Myron Jones and Ltz Allan to wipe out the pay raises approved for Idaho court officials last year.

On July 1, salaries for Supreme Court Justices equipment, machinery and industrial operating are scheduled to go from $4,770 to $59,750. It's the second round of raises approved last year, financed in part by higher court filing fees.

District Judges, now at 51,270, are scheduled to go to $56,000.

The bill also calls for magistrates to be paid according to the number of cases they settle in a year. If a nonattorney magistrate settles less than 1,750 cases per year, the salary shall be $18,000 per year. If a magistrate settles more than 4,500 per year, the salary will be $28,000.

Jones also introduced a personal bill ending Idaho's personal property tax, and raising the state sales tax from 4 to 5 percent.

The House Revenue and Taxation Committee rejected that proposal, after members noted it would completely eliminate taxes on much farm

Appeals court vacates '83 murder conviction

BOISE (AP) — Finding that the trial judge made a crucial error by not ruling on a motion to suppress two confessions, the District Court of Appeals has vacated the first-degree murder conviction of Miles A. "Mike" Kirkwood.

Kirkwood, 37, was sentenced to an indeterminate life prison term by District Judge Robert Newhouse in April 1983 for the February 1982 stabbing death of his ex-wife, Patty Kirkwood.

A jury found Kirkwood guilty of killing his wife in the couple's mobile home in Eagle on the day their divorce became final. Kirkwood was arrested at the scene and gave police two statements admitting the crime.

However, before his trial was to begin, Kirkwood moved to suppress the confessions, contending police intimidated him into admitting the crime by threatening to "blow his head off" and locking him in a "litter" room with a bed and a toilet," according to court records.

Boise officials denied these allegations, arguing that Kirkwood showed "no hesitancy whatsoever" about answering questions concerning the crime, the court said.

A suppression hearing was conducted and Newhouse said he would take the arguments under advisement and rule later. However, no decision on the finding of fact on the confessions was issued, and they were admitted into evidence at Kirkwood's trial.

The court ordered Newhouse to make findings of fact and determine if the confessions were voluntary. If he finds that they were, the judgment of conviction should be reinstated, Walters said.

Evans improving

BOISE (AP) — Idaho Gov. John Evans' condition continued to improve today after surgery on Thursday to remove tissue blocking part of his urinary tract, press secretary Jean Terra.

Doctors removed a "benign enlargement" from Evans' prostate Thursday morning, the Democratic governor, 61, remained at St. Alphonsus Regional Medical Center in Boise, but was "feeling fine" and asking for reading material Friday morning, Mrs. Terra said.

Israeli chief upbeat on talks

LONDON (AP) — Israeli Prime Minister Shimon Peres, indicating an indirect dialogue with Jordan will progress had been made toward arranging peace talks but time was running out.

Peres summarized the results of the latest round of shuttle diplomacy by U.S. envoy Richard Murphy, who flew to Washington earlier Friday after separate talks in London with Peres and Jordan's King Hussein.

"Mr. Murphy will return either to the (Middle East) region or here the minute there will be some news from the Jordanian side about who is going to go to the negotiating table," Peres told a news conference.

Assessing results of the U.S. backed initiative, Peres said, "We made important progress over the last month. Some of our basic positions became closer."

Cabinet member quits

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, struggling with her most serious political crisis since coming to power 6½ years ago, on Friday accepted the resignation of a second major Cabinet member in two weeks.

Leon Brittan, under heavy pressure after Mrs. Thatcher reported to Parliament on Thursday that he had leaked a letter damaging to a Cabinet colleague, quit as Secretary of Trade and Industry.

Mrs. Thatcher's office announced Brittan became the second Tory Cabinet member to fall in the mushrooming controversy over the Westland-P16 helicopter company — a financially ailing firm which attracted rescue bids from the American Sikorsky helicopter company and from European concerns — and caused rivalry in Mrs. Thatcher's Cabinet.

Brittan, 46, made no comment as he left Parliament after meeting with Mrs. Thatcher. No replacement for him was immediately named.

Defense Secretary Michael Heseltine quit two weeks earlier, charging that Brittan and Mrs. Thatcher had used unconstitutional means to thwart his campaign on behalf of a European bid to rescue Westland.

Rebel group enters capital

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP) — Units of Uganda's main rebel group fought their way into the capital Friday, pushing the military government to the brink of collapse five weeks after it signed a peace treaty with the guerrillas.

Rebels of the National Resistance Army, which began its offensive last week, had established positions in most sectors of Kampala by dusk. Witnesses said hundreds of government soldiers fled toward the east.

Some government units held out. Artillery fire echoed through the city's seven hills after dark.

Central Kampala was deserted as the rebels sought a secure refuge in a Roman Catholic cathedral, school and hilltop hospital captured by the guerrillas. The hospital was reported hit by shellfire.

Other civilians fled to a southern district of the capital controlled by the Uganda Freedom Movement, one of four smaller guerrilla groups that had supported the government. Reports said it switched sides Friday.

State radio operated on its normal schedule Friday morning but broadcast only music and reported no news of the fighting. It did not return to the air after a scheduled afternoon break.

Tribal battles leave 42 dead

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Tribal fighting left at least 42 people dead in Province and 6,000 to 7,000 others homeless when many residents torched their own homes and fled the battle scene, police said Friday.

Durban police Capt. Winston Heaton said the devastated Umbululu shanty district, 20 miles southwest of Durban, was quiet Friday after two days of clashes between the Pondo tribe and the larger Zulu tribe. Heaton estimated 2,000 shacks were destroyed.

Members of the Pondo tribe, who were squatting on Zulu land, choose to destroy their own homes rather than leave them for Zulus to seize, when the Pondos fled, said reporters at the scene.

The Pondos, a clan of the Xhosa tribe, were heading toward the Transkei — homeland — for Xhosas, about 120 miles to the south.

Zulus, traditional inhabitants of the area, have long been at odds with Pondos who come from impoverished Transkei to squat illegally in Zulu homeland areas while working in the Durban industrial region. The fighting broke out over Zulu objections to the Pondo squatters.

Oil tanker burns following collision

YARMOUTH, England (AP) — A Greek tanker full of crude oil collided with a Dutch fishing trawler in a raging snowstorm and burst into flames Friday in the North Sea. Helicopters beat against gale-force winds to pluck the crewmen from the burning deck and from lifeboats in the fiery, oil-strewn water.

All 19 crew members were saved.

The 76,000-ton tanker Orleans — its load of 550,000 barrels of light crude spilled from a gash in its hull — drifted to within five miles of a Shell gas rig construction site, officials said.

Flight Lt. Martin Temple of the Royal Air Force, who took part in the rescue, said it was difficult to reach the crewmen in the storm-tossed seas.

"The whole of the ship was ablaze from midships aft, and there was a lot of smoke and flames," he said. "Oil was alight in the water."

New Region IV director taps fund resources

By ANNETTE CARY
Times-News writer

JOSEPH HERRING

Pursues grants for businesses

TWIN FALLS — The Magic Valley has plenty of untapped resources for economic development, despite the expected loss of federal revenue sharing funding, says the new director of the Region IV Development Association.

Joseph Herring, 33, who has been the director for two weeks, says he plans to make the association more active and more visible than it has been in the past.

"The way we do economic development is a manipulation of sources available," he says. "You have to know what is out there and tap into it." He is a lot of grant administration and knows the regulations and what the OMB (Office of Management and Budget) circulars say. Someone has to figure out what they say and try to remember it.

Among the projects he and his staff will attempt are selling more local products to the federal government; using grant money to revitalize downtowns; establishing a local satellite office of the Small Business Development Center; starting youth work crews for community development; and helping businesses apply for low-interest, one-year construction loans.

Thursday the association chairman signed a grant application for a local Procurement Outreach Program, following a request from the Idaho Department of Commerce for an application to conduct the program in the Magic Valley.

Now no local businesses that he knows are bidding for the $165 billion a year in federal contracts, Herring says.

"We have to get businesses sophisticated enough to bid," he says. "They have to compete nationally." The first step in the program will be talking to owners and managers of businesses that may have a product the government needs and explaining the program, Herring says. In June a one-day conference will be held to discuss the program. The conference will include a speaker from the Department of Defense, which may be interested in purchasing food grown and produced here, he says.

The Main Street program Herring is interested in starting in the Magic Valley is administered by the National Trust for Historic Preservation to keep downtowns as vital neighborhoods. He has applied for an $8,500 grant from the Economic Development Administration for a local program, he says.

The program "treats downtowns like shopping malls" by helping coordinate promotions; working on physical aspects such as lighting and building restoration; promoting cooperation; and working on economic restructuring by such methods as establishing revolving loan funds for businesses.

The plan for a local satellite office of the Small Business Development Center is one being pursued across the state for all six of its economic development regions. They are applying to the Northwest Area Foundation for funding to base a business consultant in each area for the next two years.

The consultants would help small businesses at no charge, or nominal charge, to do market analyses, business planning, feasibility studies and economic impact analyses.

Thursday the Region IV Board approved plans for community development youth work crews. The association has received enough funding to hire 44 disadvantaged youths to work in 11 teams on specific community projects, with adult team leaders to supervise and teach new skills.

"It gives the kids a job and experience and it helps communities," Herring says. The program has received plenty of interest already from Magic Valley communities, many of which would like to provide materials for park projects in exchange for the free labor.

The interim Finance Program Herring would like to bring to the Magic Valley will be new in the state this year. The state will have $6 million to $8 million to distribute in community block grants this year.

Because the money is paid out gradually through the year, the state will lend several million dollars of money not yet spent to businesses planning construction projects, ranging from $50,000 to $2 million, Herring says. See GRANTS on Page A6

Bill doubles snowmobile annual fees

By DEAN MILLER
Times-News writer

BOISE — Snowmobile registration fees will double and all-terrain vehicle fees will be charged winter trail use fees if the Legislature adopts a measure proposed in the House Revenue and Taxation Committee Friday.

Registration fees have not kept up with the cost of maintaining snowmobile trails and trailheads, said Rep. Golden Lindford, R-Rexburg, who introduced the bill.

"Most counties run out of money by the end of the season," he said. The bill would raise annual snowmobile registration fees from $5 to $10 and would require all-terrain vehicle riders who drive on snowmobile trails to pay the fee as well.

Twenty-seven counties have been extremely short of funds and have had to dip into county funds or let slide trail maintenance, said Lindford.

Better-groomed trails might increase tourism as well, while keeping tourists from straying to scare deer and elk, said Rep. James Lucas, R-Moscow.

Committee members discussed regulating use of trails by out-of-state residents and dispensed with the idea after Rep. Don Loveland, R-Boise, reminded them of a similar battle with Utah in years past.

The fee was first set in 1969 to maintain restrooms and places to park trucks-hauling snowmobiles, as well as for trails.

Lindford said the state Snowmobile Association backs the bill because it sets up a way for snowmobilers to take care of their own use and their own costs.

Department of Parks and Recreation representative Chuck Wells said that after testing the effects of all-terrain-vehicles on groomed trails, he found that they damage trails in only 2 percent of all cases.

"This allows those who use trails to help pay," said Wells.

It passed, the law will be the first such registration of all-terrain-vehicles, said Wells.

Lindford said the fee would deal with winter use only for all-terrain-vehicles, and any other sort of license or permit would be in addition to the winter trail use permit.

There are 23,000 licensed snowmobilers in the state, Lindford said. All-terrain-vehicles are becoming very popular, and he said they have outsold snowmobiles in recent years.

Shoshone chili feed to raise funds for school activities

SHOSHONE — The Shoshone Booster club will host a community chili feed today at the High School cafeteria.

The annual fund-raising event will begin at 4 p.m. with good old-fashioned chili, served until the 8 p.m. start of the traditional Shoshone Indians vs. Gooding Senators boys basketball game.

Tickets are adults $2.50, children under 12 $1.25 and families $10.

Funds raised by the Booster Club are used to support Shoshone school activities and purchase equipment such as a new VCR and the sound equipment at the football field.

Some of this year's funds will be used to sponsor a basketball tournament for 5th- and 6th-grade boys' and girls' teams.

There will also be a prize drawing at halftime of the basketball game.

To add extra excitement to the event, Shoshone Principal Tim Adsit, has placed a small wager with Gooding Principal Larry Tinker on the outcome of the game.

The principal of the losing school must wear the basketball shirt of the victorious team for one school day.

Tinker was seen sporting an "Indian" shirt following the last meeting between the teams earlier in the season.

KSKI loses ABC access

By DAVE LEWIS
Times-News correspondent

HAILEY — Blaine County's only radio station has lost its national affiliation because of the station's manager expects will be a temporary interruption of service.

The KSKI-FM and KNRC-AM stations, owned by Sun Valley Radio, Inc., lost their access to the ABC Information Network Friday because of a "clerical error" in reporting the necessary paperwork to the network.

The station manager Jim Paxton said Friday.

Paxton says he hopes to restore the service by the middle of next week. He said he is holding talks with ABC aimed at re-establishing the news programs.

"We apologize for any brief interruption, but we said, adding the stations will continue to carry their local news programs.

"The station's more than 20-year affiliation with ABC isn't restored," Paxton said, he will sign on with another news service.

"The ABC office in New York would not comment on the matter.

Oakley native helping test space telescope

By KENNETH BROWN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — When the U.S. puts a space-telescope-into-orbit in late August, a new window will be opened in the field of astronomy. And, as over 10 years of research nears its final stages, a Magic Valley native has become involved in final testing.

Glenn Tanner, an Oakley native now living in San Jose, Calif., and working with the Lockheed Corporation, has been involved with the "systems testing" of the telescope, the separate testing of the individual components and systems.

Tanner's family moved to San Jose in 1942. His sister, Ila Burgess, now lives in Jerome. Tanner, who was 9 years old when he left Oakley, attended high school in San Jose, starting work right out of school in a variety of industry jobs.

He then moved to Lockheed, where he has been an employee for close to 30 years.

Tanner said he was transferred to the telescope project about 7 months ago because of his experience with the paperwork side of systems testing.

Lockheed is the major contractor on the NASA project. After work and testing is completed it will be shipped by barge through the Panama Canal to Florida and taken aloft by the space shuttle.

In addition to its size, the reason for the canal trip is the sensitivity of the telescope to motion," Tanner said.

"There's only one telescope, and no backup," he added.

Tanner said there is a chance he may go to Florida with the telescope to be on hand for the launch.

Because it will be outside the influences of Earth's smog and lights, the space telescope "will be able to extend astronomy's capabilities much further into the past," Tanner said.

Scientists have predicted that the space telescope will enable them to peer seven times deeper into space — seeing the faint lights of stars which have long since extinguished.

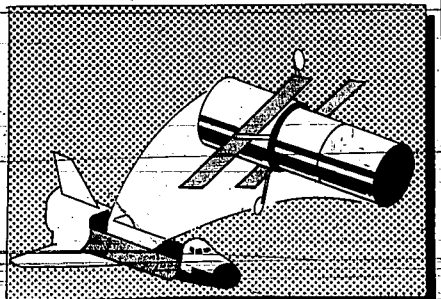

The telescope, officially known as the Hubble Space Telescope is housed in a 14-foot-long cylinder which will orbit Earth like a satellite at a distance of 300 miles. The telescope is named after Edwin Hubble, the U.S. astronomer who discovered that the universe is organized into galaxies of many sizes and shapes and that the universe was expanding as these galaxies moved away from each other.

The core of the telescope is its 94-inch concave reflecting mirror housed inside the satellite's cylindrical body. Light images will be

8 apply for job as coroner

TWIN FALLS — Eight people have shown an interest in becoming Twin Falls county coroner.

Coroner Jim Wood said he would accept applications from the Twin Falls County sheriff's office.

Mark Stubbs, chairman of the Twin Falls County Republican Central Committee, said eight people have called him to inquire about replacing Wood.

Among the possible candidates is Cal Edwards, son of former coroner Guy Edwards; Carl Edwards now is a Twin Falls City policeman, Stubbs said.

Ron Cogswell, 32, also announced his interest in the job Friday.

Cogswell, who owns and operates an upholstery business, said he is qualified because he founded and is a member of the volunteer Twin Falls County Search and Rescue Unit. He also works with the Twin Falls County Sheriff's office as a reserve deputy sheriff.

"It's a job that needs to be done," Cogswell said.

The Republican Central Committee will select three nominees and submit their names to the Twin Falls County Board of Commissioners. The application deadline is Feb. 1.

Stubbs said he was pleased with the response, especially because the coroner's job is a not well-paid one.

The job is part-time and pays about $5,000 a year.

It just comes down to public service, Stubbs said.

Post office station looked at for mall

By DAVE LEWIS
Times-News correspondent

KETCHUM — Postal officials in Ketchum may open a satellite post office in the Giacobbi Square shopping mall if an offer from merchants there proves satisfactory.

The satellite station would have 200 postal boxes to supplement the 4,208 in the main office and provide other services such as a stamp-selling machine, says Postmaster John McDonald.

McDonald says the Giacobbi Merchants Association brought the idea to postal officials, but it fits with the branch's plans for future service in Ketchum.

The Ketchum office has plans to

Car crash causes power outage

TWIN FALLS — An auto accident Friday morning cut off electricity to radio station KTFI and several hundred area residents. An Idaho Power Co. spokesman said 456 customers in the area of Curry Crossing, west of Twin Falls, lost power for 27 minutes. Kris Harvey, general manager for KTFI, said the radio station's transmitter also was thrown off the air. Electric service apparently was interrupted when an auto struck a supporting wire for a power pole at 7:58 a.m., according to Idaho Power. Twin Falls County Sheriff's deputies went to the scene and reported to dispatchers that there were no injuries. However, details of the accident were not available 12 hours later because sheriff's deputies could not locate a written report.

Residence burglary costs $700

TWIN FALLS — The burglary of a Twin Falls residence sometime Tuesday or Wednesday resulted in a $700 loss to the home owner. Twin Falls police said the home of Edwin Kelly, at 11th Ave. E., was entered by burglars using a pry tool to force open a door. Once inside, the individual or individuals ransacked the entire building, taking two rifles and possibly other items. Officers said damage to the building and value of the two rifles would total $700.

Symms, Leroy slated to speak

TWIN FALLS — Sen. Steve Symms, R-Idaho, and Lt. Gov. David Leroy will be guest speakers at the Twin Falls County Lincoln Day Banquet set for Feb. 13. Sen. Symms is seeking re-election and Leroy will be the linchpin carrier for the Republican Party in the gubernatorial race in 1988. The Lincoln Day committee, headed by Bill Chancey, long-time Twin Falls County Republican, former county chairman and former county commissioner, announced that retired judge James Cunningham will emcee the annual event. Tickets can be purchased from local Republican Party representatives at a cost of $12.50 per person.

CSI sets Apple IIe computer course

TWIN FALLS — Practical Apple Computer Applications, a course designed to give Apple IIe owners expertise in using their computers and software, begins Feb. 3 at the College of Southern Idaho.

The non-credit, five-week course meets from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. in Vo-Tech Building 144. The class is for people with little to moderate computer experience. But, the course is self-paced to allow those with more advanced computer skills to work at their own particular pace.

Apple Works is the software package which will be used, and students will work with each of the three major components of Apple word-processing, spread sheets and data base. They can choose to work with one or two of the components, depending on their interests. Other educational and fun software will be available for students.

The fee for the class is $47.50, and anyone wanting more information can call 733-9554, ext. 364 or pre-registration is being accepted at the Taylor Administration Building.

visibility afforded by being outside Earth's atmosphere, the telescope's greater power is linked to silicon chips which will be used to convert the light images it picks up to electrical impulses to be sent back to Earth. The newly developed silicon chips are roughly one-tenth the size of the photographic plates commonly used on most astronomical cameras, according to an article in The New York Times. Overall, this will give the telescope a resolution equivalent to "seeing a license plate at a distance of 100 miles," the article said. Scientific operation of the telescope will be directed by the Space Telescope Science Institute at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, Md. The total cost for the telescope project is approximately $1 billion. It is predicted the telescope will be in orbit for at least 15 years, and possibly as long as several decades.

put in satellite stations as new, major construction, says a hotel goes up in the area, he says. "The post office is always anxious to help the public all it can," McDonald says. In 1980, the main office was only about 200 unrented boxes and soon will need more, he says. There is no home delivery in Ketchum. The Postal Service and merchant's association are working on the details of a lease agreement, says Ron Sharp, manager of the Giacobbi complex. Sharp says the merchants believe the satellite station will attract more traffic to the shopping center while providing a needed postal service. The satellite services will cost the public little, says McDonald. The merchants will pay for remodeling the southwest wall in the downstairs portion of the center for the boxes, he says. The Postal Service also will not man the station, with the only public cost being the boxes and having a postal employee distribute the mail in them. The package is eligible to rent the boxes, McDonald says. Sharp says he hopes that construction can begin in the spring and that the station opens by summer.

CORPORATE FINANCING ... IDAHO SPORTS

Idaho high school football teams compete every year in the Milk Bowl, an annual tournament sponsored by the state's dairy industry. At colleges around the state, businesses are becoming important contributors to sports programs. In a three-part series beginning Sunday, the Times-News looks at corporate financing of high school and college sports in Idaho. How much influence do business dollars have on school sports budgets? How do colleges use corporate cash? What do businesses expect in return for donations? Do gifts or sponsorship of tournaments threaten amateursism? Sports Editor Steve Crump reports on the contributions and the issues they raise. You'll find what he found on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday in The Times-News.

Daily Horoscope

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This morning finds you feeling frustrated in gaining the various activities you would like to make work in your behalf, but then the afternoon brings a considerable amount of upsets.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You may feel lack in the morning so plan a wiser budget and stop entertaining so much and soon you will build a nest egg.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Forget personal wishes since the aspects are not favorable right now. Pamper yourself and revitalize your energies.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Don't permit conditions at home to upset you in the morning, but tonight causes changes in recreational activities.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Unless you're careful, errands may not turn out right as you expected them to. Be sure to drive with particular care.

GEMINI (Jan. 23 to Oct. 23) Some worldly matter can bring criticism in the morning if you are not careful and in the evening the same is true in personal matters.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get rid of that temptation to get out to new outlets in the morning, and get your home affairs in order.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be sure you keep a promise you have made, even if annoying and tonight enjoy your home. Be happy at home with your mate.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Don't argue with an associate who has prejudices in the morning. You may not gain some personal wish early in the day, and later don't try to put your talents across to others.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Be kind with an overly-sensitive fellow worker in the morning, who is still a tenderfoot. Avoid the public in the evening.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) A friend cannot join you in some pleasure so forget about it and amuse yourself alone. Buy a nice gift for your mate.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TO DAY - he or she will love to solve problems that are difficult for others to do so be sure to send to right schools where this fine talent can be perfected. Much success is possible in the right profession, one who is family oriented, although seems to take this in a casual manner.

Lawmaker denies buy-off charges

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rep. Bob Fiedler, indicted with an aide on charges she tried to buy off an opponent for the GOP nomination for U.S. Senate, said Friday she expects to be vindicated on the "ridiculous" charges.

Fiedler, 48, a drugstore owner who rode a local anti-busing campaign to prominence, and Paul Clarke, her closest friend and adviser, were charged in an indictment returned Thursday and unsealed Friday with offering $100,000 to help pay state Sen. Ed Davis' campaign debts.

In return, they supposed that Davis, a former Los Angeles police chief, drop out of the primary to choose an opponent for Sen. Alan Cranston, the Democratic whip, the indictment alleged.

REP. BOBBI FIEDLER
Named with aide in indictment of the greatest political dirty tricks of all time.

"The whole thing is ridiculous. I've done nothing wrong and I don't think anyone, in my campaign has done anything wrong," Fiedler, 48, said at a news conference shortly after surrendering to the court.

Clarke called the indictment "one as a "rhetorical Rambo" who ranks with the "last of the old-time big spenders."

The indictment followed a two-week investigation that was started after Davis went to authorities, said Al Albergate, spokesman for District Attorney Ira Rinker.

"In November 1985, this office learned that state Senator Ed Davis' campaign was apparently approached with an offer to retire approximately $100,000 of his campaign debt in return for Senator Davis dropping out of the U.S. Senate race," Albergate said.

Davis on Friday said the offer came from one of his supporters in previous elections whom he understood was an emissary from Fiedler's campaign staff. Davis refused to identify the contact.

Fiedler and Clarke were silent Friday in Superior Court as Judge Aurelio Munoz ordered them to return to court Monday to enter pleas. They were released on their own recognizance.

Reagan plans U.S. military sales to China

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration has decided to sell about $500 million worth of radar and navigation equipment to China's air force and is seeking approval from Congress and U.S. allies' administration and congressional sources said Friday.

The sale would strengthen U.S. ties with the communist government in Peking but could cause strains with Japan, Taiwan and West European countries who are likely to register objections on security and commercial grounds.

State Department officials briefed the Senate Foreign Affairs Committee behind closed doors in the morning and the House Foreign Affairs Committee in the afternoon.

Japan is known to be concerned about the purchase of sophisticated military equipment by its giant neighbor, while West Germany and Italy are in avionics competition with American firms and would like to undertake such technology sales themselves, an administration official said.

Order sentence handed down

SEATTLE (AP) — A member of the white supremacist sect The Order was sentenced Friday to 7 1/2 years in prison for his part in a conspiracy that prosecutors said included murders, armed robberies and counterfeiting as part of a plot to overthrow the government.

Thomas Bentley, 57, of Hayden Lake, Idaho, was sentenced by U.S. District Judge Walter McGovern, who presided over a 3 1/2-month racketeering trial that ended in convictions of 19 other members of the group.

The 7 1/2-year sentence was part of a stipulated agreement in Bentley's guilty plea to conspiracy to racketeer.

"I would just like to say I'm ashamed to be here," Bentley told McGovern. "I'm sorry I became involved."

Hornel talks called 'placid'

AUSTIN, Minn. (AP) — Striking Hornel meatpackers halted demonstrations Friday at the company's main plant, and a neutral factfinder said talks aimed at ending the bitter five-month walkout were "very placid and very tolerant."

"I think both sides were extremely cooperative and very helpful" in giving their presentations, Arnold Zack, a Harvard professor and labor arbitrator appointed by the governor, said after finishing two days of meetings with both sides.

Zack said he expected to report his findings to the state Bureau of Mediation Services by Monday.

Weather may delay launch

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Bad weather, which scrambled Columbia's launch schedule earlier this month, now is threatening the Challenger's liftoff on Sunday with schoolteacher Christa McAuliffe in the crew, NASA said Friday.

Shuttle meteorologists said a weather front was expected to move into the area Sunday, breaking a string of clear days and bringing clouds and a 30 percent chance of rain.

Similar conditions caused two of Columbia's record seven launch postponements and forced three landing waveoffs here before that shuttle was delorated to land in California.

Bush pays tribute to Falwell

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President George Bush, paying tribute to the Rev. Jerry Falwell and his supporters, said Friday he welcomes a recent surge of fundamentalist Christians into politics as "a great revival of an old American tradition."

Bush said government should never tell citizens what religion to belong to. And he praised the principle of "a solid wall between church and state."

"But there was never and should never be a solid wall between church or synagogue and politics," he said. "Some have lost sight of this truth, at least when they consider the political participation of conservative rather than liberal forces."

The vice president spoke to more than 500 people at a lunch sponsored by the new Liberty Federation, which Falwell started this month to take the place of his 7-year-old Moral Majority as the flagship for his conservative religious operations. Its goals include registration of 1 million new voters this year, and 20 million by the 1988 elections.

U.S. will prosecute Banks

PORTLAND (AP) — The federal government said Friday it will prosecute American Indian activist Dennis Banks and three other Indians on decade-old charges that they illegally transported firearms and explosives.

The decision came three days after the U.S. Supreme Court, in a 5-4 ruling, rejected the Indians' claim that they had been denied a speedy trial, and overturned lower-court rulings that had dismissed the charges.

U.S. Attorney Charles Turner said he expected the case to go to trial in May.

Lynn Parkinson, a former lawyer for the American-Indian Movement, condemned the court ruling at a news conference on Friday, calling it "intellectually dishonest and vindictive."

Bonner released

BOSTON (AP) — Soviet dissident Xenena Bonner was released Friday from Massachusetts General Hospital for a second time since undergoing open-heart surgery after doctors determined she could continue her recuperation at home.

Dr. Bonner still had mild pericarditis, Dr. Peter Block, a cardiologist who has treated her, said in a statement.

Performer Gordon MacRae, 64, loses battle with cancer

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Actor-singer Gordon MacRae, who crooned in a surrey with the fringe on top in "Oklahoma!" and later battled back from the blackouts of alcoholism, died Friday at age 64.

Edwig Shafer, director of development and public relations at the hospital, said MacRae died at 2:15 a.m. at Bryan Memorial Hospital. He had been hospitalized since Nov. 27 for treatment of cancer of the mouth and jaw, and Shafer said death was "related to cancer" but declined to be more specific.

"He died, very peacefully in his sleep," MacRae's wife, Elizabeth, said in a telephone interview.

MacRae was born March 21, 1921, in East Orange, N.J. After childhood roles on radio, MacRae joined the Millpond Playhouse at Roslyn, N.Y., where he met actress Sheila Stephens. They were married in 1951. MacRae and his first wife had four children — Meredith, Heather, W. Gordon and Bruce — before they WASHINGTON (AP) — The leader of an Afghanistan resistance group brought five maimed children to the White House on Friday and asked President Reagan for weapons to shoot down Soviet helicopter gunships that bomb Afghan villages.

Reagan greeted the youngsters with "much sorrow in his face," said Dr. Hashmatullah Mojaddidi, chairman of the financial committee of the Afghan National Liberation Front.

Talking with reporters later in the White House driveway, Mojaddidi said, "He doesn't know how to explain his sympathy. This is what I feel. He was very sad about the situation, especially when he saw this small girl!" — a 6-year-old Afghan whose face was burned from what the resistance said was an incendiary bomb.

Asked later about the request for arms, presidential spokesman Larry Speakes declined to discuss U.S. aid.

"We have never discussed our system of assistance to the Afghan freedom fighters and we will not," Speakes said.

Mojaddidi said 100,000 Afghan children have been maimed or killed in the six years since Soviet troops entered the country, and a Soviet-backed government took power. An estimated 118,000 Soviet forces remain in Afghanistan, battling rebel troops.

To avoid further casualties, "the peace-loving country in the United States, they should send us weapons, effective weapons, especially missiles against gunship helicopters," said Mojaddidi.

"I humanitarily aid from various countries. He said weapons are being smuggled into the country,

Asked how Reagan responded, Mojaddidi said, "He was very much in sorrow about the situation. He said that as much as we could do, we will extend our cooperation." Asked specifically what Reagan said about weapons, Mojaddidi said, "Just, he will extend our cooperation."

CSI rips open first half to beat plucky TVCC

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

ONTARIO, Ore. — A 13-point outburst late in the first half proved the difference Friday night when the College of Southern Idaho's seven-enthraned Golden Eagles shook off the pesky Treasure Valley Community College Chukars for a 101-67 victory in a northern division Region 18 men's basketball game.

The victory was the 16th of the season for the Eagles without a loss.

Despite the lopsided final score, TVCC did all the things a team has to do to keep the Eagles close.

CSI TVCC 101 67

Chukar point guard Tim Hamilton turned the ball over only once, preventing CSI from its usual bonanza of points off steals; and played good fundamental defense throughout the night.

All of which meant CSI, which ended up two points shy of its scoring average, had to earn everything it got. Coach Fred Trenkle was aware that Treasure Valley had given his Eagles as good a game as his talent would allow.

"We simply were not ready to play in the first 10 minutes and we had to go to the second group to get defensive pressure and change the ball game. They matched us basket for basket when the first team was in there," Trenkle said.

Actually it wasn't totally the second unit, as sophomore guard Jerry Colins got the furry going with two points. CSI was led just 23-20 when Boyd started things rolling. Joey Johnson's tip-in was followed by a three-point play by guard Jerry Colins of a fast break.

That gave CSI its first double-digit lead. Seconds later, a CSI steal was converted by Collins on a put-back, and Johnson wound up with a jumper over transition that made it 35-20.

Over the last 3½ minutes of the half, CSI moved to a 19-point advantage. The second half was simply a matter of the Eagles pulling slowly, but steadily away.

Such stealing that occurred largely came from freshman Erick Newman, who showed his versatility throughout the contest. He had at least five steals, and at one five-minute stand in the second half moved out and guarded the point.

The two teams will meet again here tonight as part of the northern division play to determine the two entries in the regional finals in March.

CSI now is 2-0 in the region and 16-0 overall, while TVCC evened out at 1-1 in region play and 2-14 for the season.

Seniors lead Bengal attack

Freethrows end losing streak

By BRAD BRELAND
Times-News writer

POCATELLO — At the start of Idaho State-Northern Arizona game Friday night, the Bengals were shooting barely 62 percent from the free throw line — worst in the Big Sky Conference.

But on Friday, ISU hit 17 of 18 free throws in the second half, including 16 in a row in the last 2:25, knocking the Lumberjacks from the unbeaten ranks of the Big Sky with a 78-72 victory.

"We practiced free throws all week," said ISU senior Bruce Gailor, who was "Boyz" from "the chunky stripe." "We loosened up at Montana and wanted to come back and prove we could play."

"It was smart, wasn't it?" said NAU Coach Jim Boylston, noting that the Lumberjacks' foul Gailor at a 50 percent free throw shooter — near the end of the game. "I like Gailor; he's a blue-collar player, a good Big Sky player."

The Bengals are now 10-8 overall and 3-2 in the Big Sky Conference and NAU dropped to 13-4 and 3-1 in conference play.

Northern Arizona pulled ahead 47-45 nine minutes into the second half on a dunk by Troy Betton. Three minutes later, ISU — had two steals and two cripples with buckets by Holston and Mike Gracie and the Bengals were up by three.

"With four minutes remaining in the game, ISU led by one point when Holston put up a desperation three-point shot that got attempted with one second left on the shot clock. When the shot went through, ISU was ahead for good."

"Holston made two big, big buckets for us," said Bengal Coach Jim Boutin. "Those buckets are worth so much."

In the last 1:13, Gailor stepped to the line and hit two free throws, and 30 seconds later, hit his two more, sending the Bengals' lead to eight points.

"We must not foul very well," said Arnoie. "We didn't want to foul Gracie. They're a good, defensive team, and they did a good job."

RAYMOND BERRY
Preaches balance

MIKE DITKA
Expects turnovers

Super Bowl XX

Two distinct styles brace for a collision

By DAVE GOLDBERG
The Associated Press

—NEW ORLEANS—The Super Bowl coaches were raised in football environments. Raymond Berry on the plains of Texas, Mike Ditka in western Pennsylvania steel mill country.

Despite their distinctly different personalities and styles, those roots in football's fertile breeding grounds are reflected in similar teams.

Ditka's Chicago Bears and Berry's New England Patriots play basic football — if California and Florida players like to pass and catch. Texas and Pennsylvania players like to hit.

"It may be a little different game than we've come to expect from the Super Bowl," Ditka said Friday at the coaches' final news conference before Sunday's game. "Neither of us is a flashy team. We both have the capacity to create turnovers and take advantage of them and that's what I think will decide Sunday's game."

The Patriots' penchant for forcing turnovers — 16 in their three playoff victories — come directly from Berry's roots.

"The first thing he did when he took over as head coach midway through the 1984 season was to institute fumble recovery drills — the same ones he learned 35 years ago playing high school football in Paris, Texas, under his father, Mark Raymond Berry."

That's also true of the basic kind of offense — some call it conservative — that the Patriots play. And that's what Berry suggested they would do Sunday, passing considerably more against Chicago's "46" defense than the 12 times they threw in their AEC championship game against Miami.

"That's one thing my father preached to me — balanced offense," Berry says. "He always said that when two teams are equal, the team with the most balance always wins."

In the same way, the Bears reflect Ditka's roots.

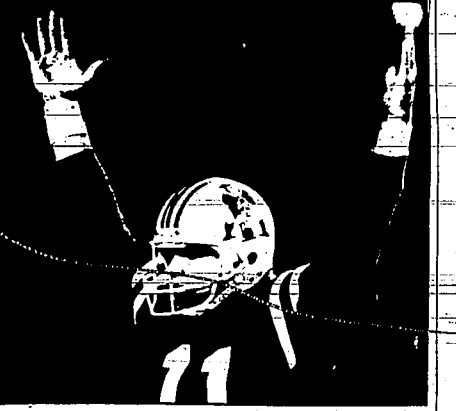

"They routinely break their own helmets making tackles the way their coach once broke a hand on a locker after a loss. Ditka's mellowed now — by winning, he says, but he still calls his team "Grabovskis," after the tough eastern European immigrants who worked alongside his father in the steel mill.

"He's like a legend at home," says Jimbo Covert, the Bears' All-Pro offensive left tackle, who grew up in the same area and followed Ditka to Pitt a generation later.

"You hear all kinds of stories about how he went out after a loss in high school and beat people up. I

Idaho 70 - Montana 64

Vandals surprise Montana Grizzlies

By TIM KEOWN
Special to The Times-News

MOSCOW — Bill Trumbo is not a big believer in magic, but after witnessing his Idaho Vandals defeat the highly favored Montana Grizzlies 70-64 here Friday, he may have second thoughts.

Idaho fought back from an early deficit, held Montana forward Larry Kostovick to 10 points, and got strong performances from Ken Luckett and Tom Stallck to break an 11-game Big Sky game losing streak.

"It's probably the biggest win since I've been here," Trumbo said.

When Montana's 6-10 center Larry McBride was forced to leave the game after being whistled with his third foul — 18-30 remaining — in the game, the Vandals embarked on a 29-11 run. Chris Carey's three-pointer with 13:28 to play gave the Vandals a 29-10 lead. The Grizzlies fought back to take a 33-49 advantage, but with 5:55 left and the rebound tied at 55, Montana's John Boyd air-balled the front end of a one-and-one opportunity, and Idaho never looked back.

Sparked by a job by Matt Haszkins to Stallck, the Vandals went up 57-55. Idaho's Brian Coleman led the game when he retrieved a loose ball and converted a three-point play with 1:23 left to give the Vandals a 64-57 lead. After that, the Grizzlies were forced to foul and attempt three-pointers.

don't know how many are true. They may be just legends."

Friday's meeting, with both coaches being exemplified by the attitude expressed by Ditka at the start of his briefing.

"I hope you feel like I feel," he said. "Let's get it on. I just hope it's the kind of game people can appreciate."

Said Berry: "All this is getting me fired. I don't know about you people, but I was in bed at 9 last night."

Whether it is or not, it is expected to be low-scoring. In contrast to last season, when the San Francisco 49ers and Miami Dolphins entered the Super Bowl with the NFL's two most explosive offenses, San Francisco won 38-16, the latest in a long series of one-sided games.

That's the way it's supposed to be Sunday.

The Bears, with a 15-1 regular season record plus two playoff shutouts, are favored by 10½ points, fifth highest spread in Super Bowl history and higher than all but one spread since 1970. Earlier this week, Bears linebacker Otis Wilson brashly predicted a shutout, a prediction he hedged somewhat later in the week.

But the Pats come in off three road wins in the playoffs, the first time that's ever happened. And Berry was quietly confident on Friday, suggesting that his biggest fear was that Chicago's William "The Refrigerator" Perry might fall on New England's All-Pro guard, John Hannah.

Skiing picture is clear, but cool

Sun Valley — Sun Valley reported clear skies and temperatures Friday with more of the same in the forecast for today. There is 44 inches of snow at the top of Bald Mountain, with packed powder on all slopes. All lifts and runs will be in operation throughout the weekend. Hours today: 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Pomerelle — Pomerelle reported clear skies and temperatures in the high 30s on Friday. The resort has picked up six inches of new snow today. Lifts and runs will be in operation at the lodge and 83 inches at the top of the mountain. The access road has been plowed and sanded, but snow tires or chains are advised. Hours today: 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Soldier Mountain — Soldier Mountain reported clear skies and temperatures in the low 30s on Friday. There is 44 inches of snow at the base and 50 inches at the top of the mountain. The back side of the mountain and both lifts will be in operation today and Sunday. Hours today: 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Magic Mountain — Magic reported clear skies on Friday with highs in the upper 30s. The resort has received seven inches of new snow since Thursday, bringing the total to 42 inches at the base and 56 inches at the top of the mountain. The access road has been plowed and sanded, but snow tires or chains are advised. Hours today: 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Ski conditions Friday at other major southern Idaho resorts:
—Sage Basin — 37 total, no snow.
—Brundage — 70 total, 6 new.
—Grand Targhee — 88 total, 16 new.
—Kelly Canyon — 88 total, 6 new.

Hayes paces Bronco win over MSU

By SCOTT PEYRON
Special to The Times-News

BOISE — Eric Hayes watched in happiness as Idaho State's men's basketball team beat Boise State in the two-teams' 1985 Big Sky Conference basketball game at Boise. But Friday night, in a position of impact, he set matters straight.

The limber redshirt transfer scored 16 of Boise State's last 23 points — including four straight free throws in the final 1:03 — to send off the Bobcats 73-70 in front of a 4,059 throng at the Pavilion.

Hayes' mercurial play was a fitting reflection of his status as a starter now standing at 73 overall and 2-2 in the Big Sky. He spent the 30 minutes preceding his impressive second-half burst in scoreless anonymity.

Hayes, a 24-foot-long jumper in junior college who now swims be-two guard and forward, may have carried the Broncos over the hump with three minutes to play.

Just after Montana State forward Tom Domanko, last week's Big Sky player of the week, hit two free throws to bring the Bobcats clawing to within 64-63, Hayes drove inside and knocked in a jump shot off the glass. He was fouled and added a free throw — part of his flawless 10-10 performance from the line that provided the Broncos a 67-63 lead and left the outcome of the game to their free throw accuracy.

That Hayes' free throw was the first of seven in a row, the Broncos hit down the stretch.

The gangly, relentless Domako, a sophomore forward, scored 23 points to lead Montana State, now 6-10 on the season and 2-9 in the Big Sky. His 12 rebounds enabled the Bobcats to rule the boards 40 to 22.

Boise State will entertain Montana here tonight before embarking on a road trip next week to Northern Arizona and Nevada-Reno.

Pepsico confirms 7-Up deal

NEW YORK (AP)— Pepsico Inc. said Friday it had agreed to buy most of Seven-Up Co. for $380 million in cash.

The deal would make Pepsico nearly as big as No. 1 Coca-Cola Co. and leave smaller soft-drink makers farther behind than ever.

Pepsico's purchase of the nation's third-biggest soft-drink company from Philip Morris Inc. would cover the Seven-Up trademark and worldwide franchises but not its 16 North American bottling plants or its foods group.

Philip Morris said it intended to sell those businesses separately "in the near future," and spokesman George Knox said the company hoped to break even on the deal overall. Philip Morris bought Seven-Up for $520 million in 1978 but has lost money on it in recent years.

Philip Morris, a tobacco and consumer products conglomerate, last fall bought General Foods Corp. for $5.6 billion.

Analysts said the Seven-Up deal, if it passes a government review for antitrust considerations, almost locks out the chance of any other company emerging as a third major player in the soft-drink business.

"It's more of a Goliath and Goliath game and it's going to be harder for the Davids of the world," said

Lee D. Wilder, a beverage-industry analyst at Robinson-Humphrey Co. in Atlanta.

Together, Coca-Cola and Pepsico are gradually squeezing out smaller competitors in the soft-drink business, while soft drinks themselves are edging out beer, milk and even tap water from the public's diet, said analyst David Goldman of Deans Witter Reynolds Inc.

American Drinkers could get 42 gallons of soft drinks a year, and their consumption is growing about 5 percent a year, according to Jerry Stevens, editor-in-chief and publisher of Beverage World magazine.

Coca-Cola has about 39 percent of the $26 billion wholesale soft-drink market, while Pepsico would have about 34 percent of the market once it took over the 6 percent market share held by Seven-Up, Goldman said.

The announcement of the merger agreement came one day after Coca-Cola USA's introduction of a new line of Minute Maid soft drinks containing fruit juice and vitamins. Coca-Cola also will support its marketing support for Sprite and diet version, making direct face competition with Seven-Up, Brainerd G. Dyson, president of Coca-Cola USA, told reporters.

Pepsi-Cola USA's juice-added lemon-time-drink Slice has been on the market for about a year, and the company announced earlier this week that it began the national introduction of Mandarin Orange Slice, an orange-flavored drink.

By combining Seven-Up and Slice, Pepsico would take a dominant position in the increasingly important market for citrus-flavored drinks.

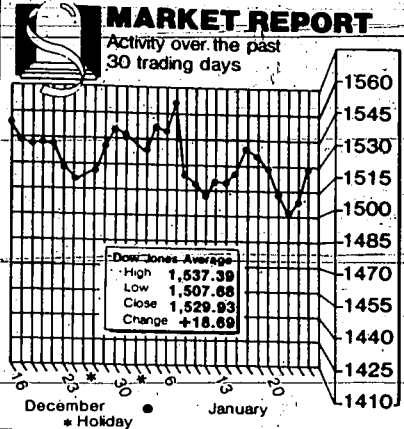

That segment — including Seven-Up, Sprite and the new juice-added soft drinks — account for about 20 percent of soft drink sales and may eventually capture 25 percent of the market, Coca-Cola's Dyson estimated.

Spokesmen at the Justice Department and Federal Trade Commission declined comment Friday about the approval process for the deal.

Generally industry analysts generally said they expect it to receive government clearance because the Reagan administration has been tolerant of mergers that "once might" have raised antitrust questions.

"In my opinion — is that the climate in Washington is such that this will pass," Stevens said.

Seven-Up had gradually mounting losses, including operating losses of about $10 million in 1985 alone, but Pepsico should be able to make money on Seven-Up, Goldman said.

Interest in airlines fuels market rally

By MARYBETH NIBLEY The Associated Press

NEW YORK — The stock market rallied Friday as buyers clamored for issues that stand to benefit from the recent jump in oil prices.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials surged 18.69 to 1,529.93, trimming the loss for the week to 6.77 points.

The Dow transportation index, powered partly by interest in airline stocks, soared 30.42 points to a record 739.79, surpassing the previous peak of 723.31 on Dec. 16.

The buying binge spilled over into other segments of the market, too.

Advancing issues outnumbered decliners by nearly 3 to 1 on the New York Stock Exchange. The NYSE composite index of all its listed common stocks rose 1.18 to 119.32.

"Upon reflection, everybody has finally realized the positive impact lower oil prices will have on the economy," said Charles Jensen, chief technical analyst for MKI Securities Corp.

A government report Friday furnished fresh evidence that the economy closed out 1985 on a fairly strong note. The Commerce Department said orders for big-ticket durable goods climbed a sharp 4.2 percent in December.

Earlier in the week, traders worried that weak energy prices would undermine the financial health of oil companies and banks that are carrying loans backed by energy-related assets. On Tuesday and Wednesday, traders sold off stocks of banks and oil concerns.

But those stocks fared much better Friday.

The banking group, Chase Manhattan rose 1.76 to 72 and Citicorp rose 1.10 to 39.5. Among the oils, Texaco rose 1 1/2 to 28 3/4, Chevron rose 1 1/4 to 36 1/4 and Occidental Petroleum rose 1 1/2 to 29 1/2.

Buyers flocked to airline stocks, many of which were among the volume leaders all day.

Republic ran up 1 1/2 to 15 1/2. Republic is to be purchased by the parent company of Northwest Airlines, NWA, which sold 3/4 to 47 1/2.

"AMR" jumped 3/4 to 47 1/2, UAL rose 1/2 to 55 1/2, TWA spurted 1/2 to 15 1/2. Eastern Airlines was unchanged at 4 1/2. Pan American rose 3/4 to 8, and Western rose 1/2 to 8.

Among the blue chips, International Business Machines gained 2 to 150. American Telephone & Telegraph rose 1/2 to 22 1/2, both in heavy trading. United Carhold, which is also included in the Dow Industrials, jumped 2 1/2 to 82 1/2.

A Goldman Sachs analyst strongly recommended buying United Carhold stock, which helped lead the advance, traders said.

Pepsico, which confirmed rumors circulating for weeks by announcing it had acquired Seven-Up Co. for $380 million in December, rose 1 1/2 to 69 1/2. Philip Morris rose 1 1/2 to 91 1/2.

On the Big Board, 132 issues posted price gains, 349 declined and 411 were unchanged.

Nationwide turnover in NYSE-listed issues, including trades in those stocks on regional exchanges and in the over-the-counter market, totaled 152.7 million shares.

Orders for durable goods surge during December

By MARTIN CRUTSINGER The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Orders to U.S. factories for durable goods surged 4.2 percent last month, the biggest increase in more than a year.

But even with the big December increase, orders for all 1985 rose just 3.8 percent, the smallest advance since the recession year of 1982.

And the December increase was not as strong as it seemed. It was concentrated solely in orders for new aircraft, a highly volatile category. Without the big increase in the transportation category, orders would have actually fallen by 2 percent.

The Commerce Department reported Friday that the annual increase last year compared to a 14.8 percent rise in 1984 and was the weakest performance since a 10.2 percent decline in 1982. Durable goods are products expected to last three or more years.

The U.S. manufacturing sector has been hard-hit all year long by a flood of foreign imports which have forced numerous plant shutdowns and layoffs as domestic manufacturers struggled with the stiff foreign competition.

While the 4.2 percent rise was the biggest since an 8.2 percent jump in November 1984, it was also the first increase since August. Orders had fallen 0.9 percent in September, 2 percent in October and 0.7 percent in November.

The strength in aircraft orders also showed up in a giant 21.6 percent increase in orders for non-defense capital goods, the biggest rise in this key category since a 24.8 percent increase in February 1985.

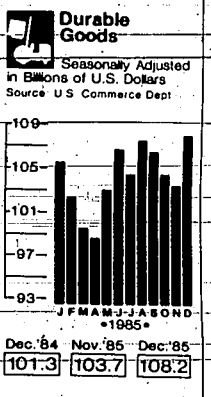

This category is closely watched for the signals it can give about business plans to expand and modernize production facilities. However, since the December jump was concentrated in orders for airplanes, which don't translate into increased factory production, analysts were likely to dismiss the gain.

Orders for defense equipment fell 4.8 percent in December following a 10.2 percent November advance.

The various changes left total orders in December at $108.2 billion compared to a November level of $103.8 billion.

Shipments of durable goods rose a slight 0.2 percent in December to $107.4 billion following a 0.5 percent gain in November.

For the year, shipments rose 5.4 percent in 1985 compared to a 1.6 percent advance in 1984.

Oil firm may form subsidiary

BOISE (AP) — Woods Petroleum Corp., a subsidiary of Sunshine Mining Co., may form a partnership to handle oil and gas exploration and development.

William W. Davis, vice president of financial control for Sunshine, said a limited partnership could give the company better evaluation of its reserves in the marketplace than it now gets.

Woods Petroleum expects to form the partnership in the first half of this year, Davis said. Under the agreement, most of the domestic oil and gas reserves and other assets of Woods Petroleum and Sunshine may be contributed to the partnership.

In exchange, Woods Petroleum would receive partnership interests in most of the drilling partnerships that it has previously sold.

Woods Petroleum was acquired by Sunshine last year. Its properties are located in the Midwest, Gulf Coast and Rocky Mountains. It also has properties in western Canada.

Sunshine is based in Dallas, but has operating headquarters in Boise.

THE ACES®

BOBBY WOLFF

"In baiting a mousetrap with cheese, always leave room for the mouse."

In the play of today's no-trump game, South had an easy shot at nine winners. A greedy try for over-tricks left him with only eight. South took an ill-conceived spade finesse at trick one. He thought he had plenty of time to take his nine winners. Obviously he didn't reckon with East's accurate defense. After winning the spade king, East shifted accurately to clubs and South started to bust. He could cash his seven club winners, but what could he discard from dummy? If he kept the obvious spade ace and K-Q of hearts, he could hold on to only two diamonds, and the game would go down an embarrassing two tricks.

How easy the game is if South counts up to nine winners and forgets overtricks. He wins dummy's spade ace and plays the heart king, and the defense is finished. Two overtricks-in-dummy-coupled-with-seven-club-winners, add up to a sure nine tricks, leaving the defenders with only four.
