Philippine Assembly launches vote canvass

By RICHARD PYLE
The Associated Press

MANILA, Philippines — The government-dominated National Assembly held its first meeting Monday on its official vote canvass, and opposition candidate Corason Aquino gained slightly on President Ferdinand E. Marcos in tabulations by the government election commission.

by 53 percent to 48 and an unofficial count by a citizens' poll-watching group showed Aquino ahead by 53 percent to 47.

Marcos' 5,971,693, or 47 percent, with slightly more than 60 percent of the country's 85,843 precincts reported.

They adjourned until Tuesday afternoon. The election was marred by violence, which continued Monday. A gunman fired at about 50 Aquino supporters in an open truck

Buhl 'Friends' seek tax hike for education

By DEAN MILLER
Times-News writer

BOISE — A coalition of Buhl students, teachers, and parents came to Boise Monday to ask legislators for a sales tax increase to better fund public schools.

Kaycee O'Conner, a 7th-grade social studies teacher, spoke for the group.

Conducted on Thursday and Friday, the telephone poll indicates 78 percent of the 433 people called in Buhl favor a permanent, 1-percent sales tax increase.

O'Conner said she hoped the meeting would be more successful than the 1,500-person rally held on the Statehouse steps last week.

Only 2 percent favored no tax increase, while 4 percent favored an income tax increase and 5 percent favored a property tax increase.

Armand Eckert, a farmer from Buhl, said Friends of 412 is made up of "a little bit of everybody."

Introducing the group, O'Conner pointed out a student, three teachers.

refund, or making a voluntary donation, to benefit public schools. Lempesis said his proposal would designate the money specifically for instructional media and materials such as books and computers.

Later, Lempesis said raising money for education was more important than determining the committee.

Later, he was asked if he would endorse a proposal to extend the same concept to other areas, such as asking taxpayers to donate toward the cost of operating state prisons, or toward meeting expenses of the Legislature. "That could be a good idea," he said.

NASA team thinks pivoting booster set off shuttle fireball

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — NASA investigators believe Challenger's right booster rocket may have pivoted into the huge space shuttle fuel tank, causing it to explode and fireball that destroyed the ship and killed its crew.

segments of the right booster allowed a plume of flame to spurt toward Challenger's liquid-fuel tank, either puncturing it or raising the pressure inside to cause the explosion.

The report, prepared for the Air Force Weapons Laboratory by Sierra Energy and Risk Assessment Inc., concluded that NASA's risk-assessment methods were not adequate, and said not enough attention was paid to potential accident causes such as such as maintenance errors and ground equipment failures.

The 1983 study was based on a review of 2000 launches involving solid-fuel booster rockets, and was considered "credible and significant" by the Air Force, the newspaper said.

The presidential commission investigating the Jan. 28 accident met in secret session Monday to discuss an internal memorandum last July warning officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration that shuttle flight safety was "being compromised by potential failure" of booster seats.

Dissident to be released before spies

Tax exemption for gasohol sails through House committee

By DEAN MILLER
Times-News Staff

BOISE — The gasohol industry will continue to enjoy a tax break in Idaho if the Legislature follows the lead set by the House Revenue and Taxation Committee Monday morning.

By a unanimous vote, the committee approved a bill to continue the current gas tax exemption on gasohol through 1992.

The current exemption is scheduled to run out May 1.

Committee Chairman Rep. Steve Antonio, alcohol, which can be blended with ethyl alcohol, is gasoline distilled from grains, R-Rupert, said after the meeting that he potatoes, and other agricultural products.

ducts. Ethyl alcohol increases the octane rating of gasoline, reducing ping and knocking of engines.

Lead has been the historical octane-increasing additive in gasoline, but recent Environmental Protection Agency regulations have ordered cutbacks in the use of lead.

Gasohol industry representatives said Monday that if Idaho continues to subsidize gasohol, the state will be denied the lead advantage of increased demand for the lead substitute.

Bill Hepworth, a Rupert-area farmer who spoke to the committee on behalf of about 400 area farmers, said gasohol production could help farmers sell the surpluses that plague crop prices.

He said that if all the gas in Idaho were 10-percent ethyl alcohol, it would require between 200,000 and 250,000 acres of grain to meet the demand for gasohol raw materials.

Grain planted for gasohol production could be grown on acres that now sit idle through Farm-Bill set-aside programs, and the farming on those acres would bring added business to fertilizer and seed dealers, as well as service companies, said Hepworth.

Though the gasohol exemption may be a boon for farmers, Doug Kraemer of the Idaho Department of Transportation said that if the use of gasohol increases, there will be a decrease in the number of dollars flowing to the highway district accounts.

Out of a $100 million account, the gasohol tax exemption could mean a $2 million loss in coming years and could eventually climb to a $16 million to $20 million loss.

Hepworth said that about 80-percent of the farms in the Magic Valley could sell some crops to alcohol distillers because of different distilleries use grains and spud by-products, which are common crops along the Snake River.

Vote near on hike in sales tax

BOISE (AP) — Republicans in the Idaho House are about ready to make their second attempt at passing a tax increase bill that will wipe out a $20 million deficit in the state budget.

A bill will run, I'm not sure when, Linden Bateman, R-Idaho Falls, GOP caucus chairman, said Monday after two lengthy party meetings on tax issues.

Republicans plan to prepare and introduce a bill calling for a 1-cent increase in the state sales tax, starting March 1 and ending July 1. Legislative leaders say that would raise about $20 million that the projected deficit in the current state budget.

Rep. Steve Antonio, R-Rupert, chairman of the House Revenue and Taxation Committee, worked on a sales tax bill Monday afternoon. He said it will be brought before the committee this morning, even though he personally opposes it.

Bateman and House Majority Leader Rep. Jack Kennevik, R-Boise, said if the bill is approved in Rev and Tax for introduction, an effort will be made on the House floor to bring the measure up for an immediate vote.

Kennevik said it appears there are enough votes to bring the bill to a vote, although it isn't clear whether it can attract enough votes to pass.

Democrats oppose the temporary tax increase, so it will take 43 votes from the 67-member GOP caucus to pass the bill.

Republicans held two caucuses on Monday and after the second session, Bateman said about 40 Republicans expressed support for the temporary tax increase.

Because state tax revenue is falling behind expectations, the state budget is projected to be $27.1 million in the red by the end of the budget year July 1. Last week, the Legislature ordered state agencies to cut about $7.6 million in spending, and sustained the cuts over a partial veto by Gov. John Evans.

Education committee rejects bill on handling of religion in schools

BOISE (AP) — Members of the Education Committee in the Idaho House say they see nothing but trouble with proposed legislation dealing with the handling of religion in public schools.

The committee voted Monday to refuse printing and introduction of legislation prepared by Rep. Rog Slater of Boise.

The freshman Republican suggested a new state law, making it explicit that no educator could say anything for or against a particular religion, creed or doctrine. The penalty could be revocation of a teacher's certificate.

Members of the committee argued the proposal really changed nothing about state laws, except to add a rather harsh penalty.

"One of the first things I learned when I came here is if you haven't fixed anything, because it wasn't broken," said Rep. George Johnson, D-Lewiston, to Slater.

Slater said his bill would reduce the level of anxiety of people who feel the public schools are hostile toward their religious beliefs.

Rep. Pete Black, D-Pocatello, argued that the legislation would almost guarantee that teachers couldn't mention anything about the history of religion, for fear of losing their jobs.

"Why is this necessary?" asked Rep. Robert Seates, R-Post Falls.

Slater said it would be a "policy statement" by the Legislature that public schools should be absolutely neutral in their discussions of religion.

While schools should not be used for the advocacy of any particular religion, he said, they also should not be used to criticize or argue against any particular religious belief.

He admitted it isn't a "big problem" in the schools but called his bill "a good policy statement."

Insurance pool nears reality

BOISE (AP) — The Idaho Association of Counties is completing paperwork for a state insurance license, while the Association of Idaho Cities has some hurdles left before a similar plan can be implemented.

Dana Kopper, state manager with PENCo insurance brokerage company that's handling the case, said 25 counties are covered through the association's risk management plan.

He predicted 40 of the state's counties probably will be signed up by the end of the year. The pool will pay up to $50,000 on claims.

Panel passes bill to curb check-offs

BOISE (AP) — A House committee has given preliminary approval to legislation making it tougher for organizations to use check-offs for the collection of union dues or other fees to be used for political purposes.

"This is just plain harassment," said Jim Kerns, state AFL-CIO president, after the State Affairs Committee voted to print and introduce the legislation.

The bill specifies that no dues or membership fees may be collected from an employee's wages, salary or other compensation, without specific, written authorization. And it also says that all such agreements or check-offs must be re-authorized, in writing, after the bill goes into effect.

The measure contains an emergency clause, which means it goes into effect as soon as it is passed and approved by the governor.

Kerns said dues check-offs, which is an item that has to be negotiated, would have to be re-authorized if the bill becomes law.

McClure's bill shows why system is failing

The story which surfaced this week about how Idaho's Senator James McClure helped a North Idaho sawmill operator get $4 million for land the Justice Department says is worth no more than $321,000, is a good illustration why the country may well benefit from the Gramm-Rudman Act.

Here we have a conservative senator from a conservative Western state essentially doing an end-run on a government recommendation which costs us, the taxpayers, more than 10 times the recommended amount.

It is an example of pork-barrel legislation: a private interest payment, slipped into larger "continuing budget" resolution, which benefits only a small number of people in one congressman's district.

The amount is trivial by standards of the federal budget. But multiply it by all 535 members of Congress, and you can easily see why the nation is broke.

Gramm-Rudman may be a crude tool for this kind of work, something like using a chainsaw to make Queen Anne chairs. But its great plus is that it will force Congress, as a whole, to address the overall budget without playing favorites with the innumerable, small requests like McClure's which are built into the system by every congressman's constituents.

Indeed, from the perspective of his constituents, McClure is simply doing the best thing. As a powerful committee chairman, he has the clout to get such payments approved.

As the system now works, that is what every member of congress strives to do. In a real sense, the member's re-election depends on such "constituent service." One could even argue that the American political system is designed to slide along on such lubrication.

But from a larger perspective, actions like McClure's little bill for a piddling $3.9 million illustrates precisely what is wrong.

A host of small constituent-massaging bills get passed, each of which is "essential" to the constituents.

Meanwhile, the nation groans under the weight of a huge deficit, which McClure and others rally against with much vigor and gusto. But their "little" $3.9 million payments are never part of the problem. The Gramm-Rudman law may be imperfect. It may even be unconstitutional. But it is the only method we devised to get Congress to do what it cannot accomplish otherwise, say no.

And until McClure and others start saying that themselves, laws like Gramm-Rudman will be necessary.

Child abuse must be reported

In last Sunday's (Feb. 2) paper I wrote a letter concerning child molesting. Since then, I have had a few phone calls asking if they were wrong to not report a crime against a child. First, I want to point out that sometimes a child will come to you out of desperation. Please act on it. On the behalf of the child, please act on it. If the child comes to you and tells you, first assure the child that it was not their fault. Then it is your place to report it to the health and welfare. You may remain anonymous and it may save the child a lot of heartache. So much of this is going on that we, as people, don't realize it. Also, anyone running a day care center should make themselves aware of the laws concerning this. It is a law to report any kind of child abuse, if you feel the need to speak with the parents, then by all means go ahead. Advise them to get counseling, and then report them. It may be the best thing that ever happened and, God willing, make them a whole family again. I don't know about you but I couldn't go to sleep at night knowing that I could have made a difference. Well, anyone having any questions may call me at 782-2222 or call the health and welfare. Thanks. MARY SWARTZ Twin Falls

Idaho tax double California's

In answer to Rick Snider's letter of Feb. 6, where he states, "The fact is we do not tax ourselves nearly as heavily (in proportion to income) for services we want (demand) as other states." Please let me state that I've returned from California to Idaho to live and now must pay state income tax to both California and Idaho, and believe me, Idaho income tax is double the amount California demands. Property tax unfair to many

With great interest I read an article in The Times-News regarding the school tax being given consideration for the support of schools. Rep. Raymond Parks, Blackfoot, voiced the opinion that this tax would be fairer than property tax. With this opinion I agree.

The tax on property thought to make a living is grossly unfair. Of all the ways one invests money to earn a livelihood, property seems to be the only one which is taxed forever. When one invests money in an education to become a teacher, a lawyer, or a doctor, the money itself is spent and no one thinks of taxing this money every year, yet the people who invested this money are using the results to earn a living. This is not true of money spent for a farm or business. A farm or business is taxed every year, regardless of whether the owner makes a profit or not.

Property tax has become increasingly inadequate, and increasingly unfair, as more and more people work for salaries or wages or fees, and less and less people have small businesses. The property tax is especially unfair to people in agriculture, because they have no control over their markets. There is no other tax disaster that has come upon agricultural people in the last few years, and still the farming community is expected to foot a large share of the bills for schools and the county.

Why is a farmer or rancher expected to pay property tax in addition to income and sales tax? Why is he expected to pay more for the support of schools and county government than, say, a doctor who earns $40,000 a year or a teacher who may earn $20,000? Why is a store manager immune from paying his full share of the education of his children? The time is long gone when only property owners controlled the wealth. Each person should contribute to schools and government. In some cases sales taxes are more fair than property tax. Our legislation should address the problem of this unfair tax structure, and rid the people who own property of this grossly unfair burden.

Present facts in public forum

Mark D. Stubbs in his Feb. 6 letter attempted to "point out a few facts that were overlooked or misquoted" by me: His list of "facts" definitely misrepresented the realities that exist concerning this matter. He also omitted some factual aspects of it which I had presented.

Mr. Stubbs exhibited the technique of partial presentation, omissions, and distortions of all of the facts. Such activity is not uncommon in the courts where trial lawyers often seem to be interested more in using any means to an end, regardless of what may be the just and right conclusion.

In any event Mr. Stubbs, perhaps we should finalize our debate and meet on the common ground of a public forum at which time each of us can present our evidence and elicit the source of our facts, presenting it all to the public for evaluation.

It is the public which ultimately bears all the costs, whether due to the public's action in filing suits, its decisions when serving on a jury, or the effects of our legal system and the abuses of it. J.R. KIRCHER, M.D.

Miniature 'Watergate' of Idaho

I went out in front of my house tonight, and noticed the number of cars parked in front of my house. I decided that the only way to keep from getting stuck on my way in or out of my driveway, was to take measures into my own hands, and fill them in. Of course, I had to remove a few abandoned "small" cars first. That was what kept me from becoming part of Center Street myself.

I figure that the city of Kimberly, which must have spent at least $5 for the rope for the hanging on Feb. 4, should be able to reimburse me. I figure that if I give my total cost, then I should be given the cost that it cost me, and other taxpayers to recall an elected official.

To all the students of Kimberly, let me remind you of one thing, that I'm sure your parents won't do. According to the constitution, you were given the right to vote, and elect your governing body, and according to what happened the 4th, remember you can also recall them. Remember, the elected officials are like GM, Chrysler, Ford and all the rest of man-made products. If they have a flaw, got rid of them, before they hurt you. After all, there was nothing mentioned of any good that Mr. Jones may have done for Kimberly. He was, I guess, the worst thing that came into this town. Ask your parents if they elected him, and then ask them if they voted to recall him. See-if your parents can be as honest as they want you to be.

I only hope that whoever becomes mayor of Kimberly, that there isn't any dirty linen in your background because this is turning out to be a miniature "Watergate" of Idaho. R.M. DEFFERING Kimberly

Act of a true championship

On Feb. 1, Shoshone High School played Kimberly High School in an emotional boys' basketball game at Kimberly. The game went down to the final seconds before it was decided, but what happened before the game was much more important and should be reported. On the way to the concession stand, a Kimberly fan accidentally dropped a hundred dollar bill from his pocket as he was pulling a five dollar bill out of his wallet. The man had no idea of his loss until he was chased down and the money returned by Tim Rowan, a member of the Shoshone High School basketball team. Tim Rowan was the real winner that night and I believe that his parents, Coach Larry Messick, his teachers, and teammates all played an important role in his honest act.

In this day and age when students and schools are being criticized, it is refreshing to know that there are many successes and I am delighted to report of just one.

Good luck to the Shoshone High School basketball team and especially to you, Tim. Regardless of what happens during the rest of the season, you are a true champion. GEORGE ARROSSA Athletic Director Kimberly High School

Umbrella of false security

One thing the world can be thankful for is that mankind keeps on increasing and man becomes more civilized.

For we no longer sacrifice animals or even our children just to please our gods.

Nor do we stone people to death for trifling matters as picking up sticks on certain days. We no longer burn people alive and call them witches, nor do we have people put to death just for teaching that the world is round.

During the dark-age knowledge increased very little for many generations in their ignorance; they were waiting for the world to come to an end.

Science has played a great role in the survival of the human race, protecting them from many deadly diseases and plagues, for not all of the human species were so civilized.

One of science's greatest challenges is to try and save our civilization from a nuclear holocaust, for too many people still live in their own little world and reject the books of knowledge.

Mi like the Ayatollah Khomeini and Jerry Falwell are very dangerous to mankind for they give the people an umbrella of false security. WILLIAM HAFNER Twin Falls

Religion is in your mind

To evolution and science: What is religion, is it not a belief? Is not evolution a belief? But neither can prove it. Religion is in your mind. It's not the Bible itself, the bible is a history of beliefs. As I read Genesis, I'm inclined to think science is right. God said let there be light and there was light, not one place but more than one came about, just the command of God! Jesus also said to pick up your bed and walk, the man did it who he was commanded to do. Jesus said to the fig tree, be cursed, and it died. I've got a thought on the monkey business also. No, I'm not a preacher, just a old hay seed with an eighth grade level of schooling. I don't believe there is a God. I know there is! I met him face to face.

If you read Matt and Acts, and more of the scriptures including Revelations slowly, and where you won't be disturbed with cultivity and if you are the same person, I'm afraid there is no hopes for anyone. I ask you, why does history say B.C. and A.D.?

A Christian is not a Catholic nor LDS nor Protestant, he is one who lets the divine spirit of God live in his heart and life.

Bowlin fine student leader

We respect the right of all people to disagree with ideas presented in the letters to the editor of The Times-News; however, the personal attack by R-Winkelmann against Brad Bowlin was a disgraceful act to a fine student and a caring, thinking individual.

Brad makes many contributions to Twin Falls High School. He is student body president, a member of National Honor Society, one of four writers chosen by the National Council of Teachers of English to represent Idaho, and editor of the Bruin News.

Brad and some of his fellow students sponsor dances, the proceeds of which are donated to charity; Brad also works after school to earn money for his education at the University of Southern California, where he has been accepted.

Brad is a real thinker, valuing his education highly, always striving to learn, preparing himself for college. Sometimes he disagrees with the ideas and rules at TFHS, but he works within the system for positive change, accepting defeat as well as triumph gracefully. Blatant personal affronts Congratulations, Mr. Winkelmann! Your letter of last Wednesday has found a cherished place on my wall under the "solutions" heading.

I have been wondering for years about the rationale behind this state's lack of funding for education. Your letter screams out with a good answer.

I now see that we "teen-agers" don't deserve any education. Opinions like yours, Mr. Winkelmann, deny even the tiniest need for education: "teen-agers obviously are lazy and should quit school and work!"

Isn't that what our founding fathers wanted? Right? Don't you think that Abraham Lincoln would cry out for excellence in education?

I hate to disappoint you, but I don't think that every important person in this country was self-educated. Where do you think the space program — let alone agriculture, transportation, etc. — would be if it were not for the tens of thousands of people that needed good quality high school knowledge and skills that made it possible?

I guess we're not as good as they were?

back in 1933. I suppose it's ridiculous for us to request that our education keep pace with the swelling sea of knowledge in the world today. I guess it's insane to plead not to be thrown out into the street and expected to create great scientific achievements by self-education.

The model cited in your response also give me solutions. As a columnist for the Twin Falls High School newspaper, I have been thinking about good and bad methods of criticism. Your letter gives me a good idea of how not to write.

Let me give you a few suggestions that I, too, shall keep in mind:

• It's generally not a good idea to attack stylistic and correct spelling while utilizing rather borderline English grammar.

• Also, Mr. Winkelmann, please make sure your facts are straight before slandering people. Mr. Bowlin does indeed have a job. He also is one of the most active and concerned students I know.

Finally, I'd recommend that you do not "take your readers of "Blind and thoughtless," and the sentences "I guess even brains," and "if you're an illustration" as total tips, as blatant personal affronts.

Tell me, how would you feel, Mr.

Winkelmann, if I said, "if you're an illustration of what came from the early part of this century, we should have skipped it?"

I must apologize for the tone of this letter. I see the word "opinion" at the top of this page, and I would like to be so. But I also draw the line when those opinions become mindless and spiteful with unproved, irresponsible abuse. ADAM FORBES Twin Falls

Writer's attitude childish

Mr. Winkelmann: In response to your letter to Mr. Bowlin, I would like to say that I am overwhelmed by your childish attitude toward him and his generation.

I am a part of that generation and in criticizing him you criticize me. This is a result of your idiotic stereotype of young people. Am I, sir, to assume that because your knowledge of students and issues is so limited that you have a public education system which is limited and insecure as yours? Or is just your generation?

I do not feel that either of these is hold true, but I am trying to prove my point: Just as Bowlin is simply stating a fact along with opinion to prove — on the rest of us how can you cut him down having never met him? Cutting down his ideas is an acceptable thing, but saying this person has a "lack of brains" and no appreciation for what was given him is uncalled for. I myself, would not be writing these letters if I was not in your person, but I wondered if it was possible to reach your "neck of the woods" without a horse and wagon!

Hey, sure, we'll just throw out all the computers and new learning techniques, get rid of staff and staff all day. We won't get any education, but who needs it? Development of the human race is a waste anyway, correct Mr. Winkelmann?

Well, hey! Rite back will ya? That is if'n you're really busy regressin'! DAVE MCNEES Twin Falls

Unjustifiable conclusions

Dear Mr. Winkelmann: I wholeheartedly disagree with your letter to Brad Bowlin published a few days ago in the Twin Falls Times-News. It strikes me that an "adult" would come to such hasty and unjustifiable conclusions about the young.

I think it's very unfair of you to assume that we'll all want everything handed to us on a silver platter. Contrary to your opinion, many teenagers work hard to put the rubber on their cars. They also work hard to put gas in the tank and mow in the bank for college.

Most of us realize how blessed we are to be living in this country at this time. We enjoy many conveniences and luxuries others can't even imagine. We also realize that these luxuries and conveniences didn't just drop out of the sky. They are the products of many hard-working people who were also well-educated.

See BOWLIN on Page A5

If we had stayed in the days of the wood-burning stove and the three-room schoolhouse, we wouldn't have made it to the moon. We did so because someone out there was pushing for progress. If someone had told that person to be grateful for what he had and to stop whining about being underprivileged, I would be writing this letter by candlelight.

I agree with you that Abraham Lincoln was a great man who had a difficult life. I don't think, however, that he would turn down all of the benefits that can be reaped from education today: respect, that is, only if they are offered to us.

The Idaho school system ranks 49th out of the 50 states in the amount of dollars spent per student. This is not a fact of which we should be proud. You must realize that when Mr. Bowlin asks for more, he isn't being greedy. He is simply representing his fellow students. He is concerned about his future and is willing to do something about it. That is an illustration of what's coming out of schools. May I remind you that we are also your future? Don't you want to have educated people taking care of you? If your ignorance and prejudice against youth is representative of the adults today, then my future, and yours, doesn't have a prayer.

What's what

The cab horses for hire around New York City's Central Park stop of their own accord when the traffic lights turn red, and start up just before, that's before, those lights turn green. So an element of horse sense, evidently, is timing, knowing exactly when the time is right. But how a horse acquires such horse sense I do not know.

Daily Horoscope

—GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is a day of potentially startling and unexpected events, and you need to be careful that you do not get confused or feel that life is bringing you more problems than you can handle.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You may find it hard to get out from under some limitation, but using good judgment solves the problem.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You had a plan worked out to gain some cherished goal, but something may turn up that may cause you to revise it.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Much care is required in the outside world if you are to gain your objectives safely. Postpone any civic duties.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Some philosophy of life you may be following may require further study to make it work better for you.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 31) Your hunches and your judgment do not jive today, and you could become confused, so be logical and you will come out all right.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)

Although you may have long conversations with your partners, you may feel confused by the time the evening rolls around.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Your environment may not be conducive to making improvements you want to make just now. Save this matter more thought.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Be more willing to enjoy simple pleasures instead of wanting to spend too much money and then feeling sorry.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Make sure you talk a situation over honestly with family before a big battle ensues. Be more gentle at home.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Make sure you study any pertinent written material before you have meetings with others in order to communicate properly.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't jump into some property or financial deal since you do not have all the facts and figures.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Be careful you do not get confused where personal matters are concerned, so be on your guard.

Reagan dislikes lottery trend

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan said Monday he may be called a prude for saying so, but he wishes states would not resort to lotteries to raise revenue.

"And he agreed to consider naming a gypsy to the U.S. Holocaust Memorial Council, in charge of tributes to victims of Nazism.

At a luncheon for editors and broadcasters from around the country, Reagan was asked if he approved of California's recent establishment of a state lottery and Florida's consideration of similar action.

"I was kind of sorry when I saw California do that," said Reagan, who served as governor of that state for two terms. "It was talked about when I was there as governor.

"Call me a prude if you want," Reagan said, "but I just think that there's something a little bit undignified in appealing to people's desire to gamble for a state to raise its revenues.

The president suggested states ought to be able to raise funds "the legitimate way," through taxes. "I have to tell you I don't exactly like the idea of government engaging in gambling," he said.

Asked if he would consider naming a gypsy to the Holocaust Council, Reagan replied, "Let me look into that—I never thought of it—because you're absolutely right that the gypsies were as President Reagan makes point in talk persecuted as any people were by the Nazis in World War II. They were almost totally victims of the Holocaust.

The president still must name a chairman, vice chairman and nine members of the memorial council.

Asked about legislation requiring selection of nuclear waste storage sites around the country, Reagan said, "I know that everyone's going to say, 'Do it in somebody else's backyard, not ours.'

Early in the atomic age, Reagan said, "we didn't understand all the ramifications, so we did things carelessly — not knowing we were being created — that resulted in ultimate tragedy."

He cited workers who helped develop the X-ray who later died because they had failed to protect themselves from radiation.

But Reagan said in the case of nuclear waste dumps, he believes "we can guarantee that every precaution will be taken so that this will not become a hazard to anyone."

Calling the issue of nuclear waste disposal a "necessary problem," he said: "We have to recognize that this must be disposed of, and at the same time, that I think our high technology goes forward, that we probably will develop ways in which we can do better than just throwing it away in a waste pile."

Without specifying any region, Reagan added, "Some places are the ones that we're going to have to pick."

First lady wants to take Gorbachevs to market

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nancy Reagan said Monday she wants to show Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev and his wife Raisa "how open American society is when they come to the United States, and might even take them to a supermarket.

In a wide-ranging interview Monday with The Associated Press, Mrs. Reagan said the next summit meeting — to be held in the United States — will provide a chance for the Soviet leader and his wife to see "how our people live, the openness."

During an address televised to the Soviet Union on New Year's Day, President Reagan had Gorbachev agreed to visit the United States later this year, and said he looked forward "to showing him our country."

In the interview Monday, the first lady said: "I don't want them to think that we've set things up, pre-arranged things." For that reason, she said, she's considering having the Soviet leader and his wife "drop into a Safeway."

"That way, Mrs. Reagan said, "They can see all of the people."

The first lady laughed aloud at the idea, and said she agreed with the suggestion that she should get a chance to reciprocate by shopping with Mrs. Gorbachev at a department store in Moscow.

The two women met after Mrs. Reagan invited Mrs. Gorbachev to ten while their husbands conferred in Geneva in November. Mrs. Gorbachev reciprocated, and the two women held several much-publicized encounters.

Although Reagan and Gorbachev agreed that the next summit meeting would be held in the United States this year, no date has been set.

Asked whether she had any new plans for the couple, Mrs. Reagan made a sweeping gesture with her arm and said, "I'd like them to see all of America and how America lives."

Mrs. Reagan said that even though she did not have a list of places she wanted the Gorbachevs to visit, she wants them to do things that "would be fun and would be interesting to them."

Turning to a discussion of the shuttle tragedy, Mrs. Reagan said that the image of the Challenger exploding "which she viewed on television as it happened — has been 'hard to shake.'"

"I think ... actually seeing it happen, I think that part added to making it hard to shake," she said.

Shaking her head sadly, Mrs. Reagan said "it seems like we've had so many of those, time after time after time," an apparent reference to several memorial services she has attended for U.S. servicemen over the past year.

She said that she agreed with her husband's decision to go forward with the space program.

Turning to their plans after leaving the White House, the first lady said her husband intends to write a book and that she might, also.

Speaking a day after she and her husband watched a videotape of their son hosting "Saturday Night Live," Mrs. Reagan said young Ron's performance showed he has "a nice sense of humor."

The president's younger son was the host on the late-night NBC comedy show and he did a takeoff from a scene in the movie "Risky Business," dashing through the White House in his underwear.

The first lady explained that she and her husband watched the show on video tape because "we couldn't stay up that late — we had never seen the show before."

"I thought he was very good," said Mrs. Reagan with a bemused smile. She added that she knew her son had a comic flair that was evident in his writing.

Asked whether she thought the younger Reagan's prancing was a bit risqué, Mrs. Reagan laughed and said, "It's that kind of show — but I thought it was funny and I thought it was good."

Consumer leaders challenge insurance charge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer leaders Monday challenged claims that problems in the insurance business are caused by the legal system, citing Ontario, Canada, as a place where the industry already has the laws it wants, and is raising premiums and canceling policies anyway.

"It's economies that's driving the crisis in the United States and Canada, it's not the law," said Robert Hunter of the National Insurance Consumer Organization.

The primary aim of the insurance industry is to panic state legislators into reducing the rights of the injured, added consumer advocate Ralph Nader.

Large claim settlements have been cited as the reason that insurance companies have sharply increased rates in recent months and have declined to continue insurance on some types of business, Nader and Hunter repeatedly have blamed the problem on greed.

"The industry has sought legislation in several states to limit awards in lawsuits in various ways, contending such limits would ease the crisis by eliminating excessive settlements.

But Hunter said virtually all of the legal changes proposed are already in effect in Ontario, Canada, and yet the same sort of premium increases and policy cancellations are underway here.

"It's not an insurance crisis, it's an insurance scandal," added Jay Angoff of the Alexandria, Va.-based consumer insurance group.

At least part of the problem is caused by foreign re-insurance companies based in England, Germany and Switzerland, Nader said. These firms assume some of the risk from American companies for a fee, and are seeking ways to recover losses in other areas, Nader said. In addition, he said, the companies want to reduce American liability laws to lower European levels in cases of personal injury.

Among the proposals the industry has made are limits on compensation for pain and suffering, restrictions on punitive damages, limits on contingency fees, restrictions on juries setting damages and penalties for "frivolous" lawsuits.

Mare H. Rosenberg of the Insurance Information Institute concurred that the foreign re-insurance firms are at least partly responsible for the problems in Canada.

Canada is a relatively small insurance market, Rosenberg explained, so these firms consider only the North American market in making decisions. Thus, "if a crisis occurs in the United States insurance market, it spills over into Canada."

Hunter and Nader repeated their suggestions that a federal office be set up to investigate the insurance industry and that the government become involved in the re-insurance business.

Briefly

U.S. pushes for summit date

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration urged the Soviet Union Monday to "move ahead" and set a date for a summit meeting despite U.S. Soviet differences over curb nuclear weapons.

The statement seemed intended to counter Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev's attempt last week to tie the timing of his next meeting with President Reagan to evidence of progress toward climination of intermediate-range U.S. and Soviet nuclear missiles from Europe.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., during a news conference Saturday on his return from Moscow, said Gorbachev "would question what the value (is) of having an immediate meeting in June or the very near future."

But the State Department said while arms control was a priority task, "we think progress should be made in other aspects of the relationship as well."

Hornell resumes hog killing

AUSTIN, Minn. (AP) — Hog slaughtering resumed Monday at Hornell's flagship plant for the first time since meat packers began a bitter strike nearly six months ago.

"We killed hogs today," said plant manager Deryl Arnold. "It went very smoothly."

More than 900 people reported for work Monday at the Geo. A. Hornell & Co. plant, and Arnold said the company hopes to have its full complement of 1,025 workers by Tuesday or Wednesday.

No protests were mounted by Local P-9 of the United Food and Commercial Workers Union, whose 1,500 members went on strike Aug. 17 in a dispute over wages, seniority and working conditions.

Union officials said they had planned a mass rally but decided to delay it because of legal actions pending against them.

Roy Rogers, the chief strategist for Local P-9, was released from jail Monday after friends posted $2,500 cash bond. He was arrested Thursday during a demonstration outside the plant and charged with criminal syndicalism and obstructing the legal process.

Palestinian rights outlined

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration said Monday that Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat would not be undermining the rights of his people by accepting U.N. resolutions which refer to them only as refugees.

The State Department, in its fullest exposition yet on Palestinian aspirations, said it is the U.S. position that Palestinians have rights beyond those spelled out in U.N. Security Council Resolutions 242 and 338.

The 1967 and 1973 by the Security Council resolutions refer to the Palestinians simply as refugees while also giving implied recognition to Israel's right to exist.

It would be premature to describe the Hussein-Arafat talks as a failure, State Department spokesman Charles Redman told reporters on Monday.

Liberty coin sale nets $24 million

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lee Iacocca, head of the private group raising money to refurbish the Statue of Liberty, received a $24 million check from Treasury Secretary James Baker Monday, representing funds raised through sales of U.S. Liberty Coins.

The contribution was the largest single donation of $5 million raised so far by the Statue of Liberty-Ellis Island Foundation.

"I have been involved in a number of successful marketing projects in my life, but nothing like this one," said Iacocca, who also is chairman of Chrysler Corp.

Haitian government promises reform

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — The head of the interim government pledged Monday to share wealth fairly in Haiti, whose people were ground into poverty in the breadbasket that made the Duvaliers and their friends fabulously rich.

Lt. Gen. Henri Namphy, president of the six-man interim government council, said at a swearing-in ceremony for the new Cabinet that there will be free elections by universal suffrage and a new, "liberal" constitution to create a "real and working democracy." He did not set a date for the elections or elaborate on the new constitution.

Haiti's last free election was the one that brought Francois "Papa Doc" Duvalier to power in 1957. He later declared himself president-for-life.

His son Jean-Claude, who succeeded at age 19 when "Papa Doc" died in 1971, fled with his family and aides Friday in a U.S. military plane and now is in France.

The remarks by Namphy, who is the army chief of staff, followed a weekend orgy of celebration and violence. Haitians rioted, sacked homes

Lt. General Henri Namphy leads the interim government owned by the departed dictator and his lieutenants, and hunted down members of the dreaded Duvalier private militia, the Tonton Macoute.

As many as 300 people were killed over the weekend, including members of the Tonton Macoute who were hacked and beaten to death. "Macoute hunts," as they were called here, have been conducted in poor neighborhoods by army patrols with civilian guides. Soldiers with automatic weapons moved through rows of hovels kicking aside chickens and scrawny dogs.

Residents pointed out the homes or hiding places of suspected militiamen, shouting, "Long live the army! Down with the Macoutes!"

The rioters watched as a mob just outside the capital stoned one of the men to death Sunday in a dirt street. Children walked to the victim, picked up large rocks and smashed them down on him.

Namphy announced the dissolution of the Tonton Macoute, and asked the people to stop attacking its members.

He called in his speech for "a fair division of the national wealth" in this poorest of the Western Hemisphere nations, most of whose people earn less than $150 a year.

The new council ordered on Sunday that all privately owned firearms be turned in at police stations.

474 accused Mafia members go on trial

PALERMO, Sicily (AP) — The largest Mafia trial in Italian history opened Monday with defendants in steel cages and police escorts for the judges who will hear charges against the 474 accused mobsters.

The government hopes the trial, where charges include drug smuggling and multiple murder, will mark the turning point in its long fight against the mob.

Authorities said 115 of the defendants were at large, including most of the top-ranking bosses indicted after a three-year investigation by five of Italy's top investigating magistrates.

The courtroom was built for the trial at a cost of $17 million. The defendants are held in 30 steel-barred cages guarded by armed police officers. About 100 defendants were present for the trial's opening.

A reputed leader of the Corleone faction, Luciano Liggio, sat alone in Cage 23, dressed in a blue tracksuit and white sneakers, smoking a cigar. In the adjoining cage was Pippo Calò, called the "grand cashier" of the Mafia, who allegedly "recycled" mob money until his arrest in Rome last year.

To accommodate the security force of 2,000 men, the government rented three vacant 15-story apartment buildings in a residential section of Palermo.

French eager to see former Haitian dictator leave country

PARIS (AP) — French politicians like to boast their country is the "land of asylum." But deposed Haitian dictator Jean-Claude "Baby Doc" Duvalier is not welcome.

The 54-year-old former president-for-life has stayed in a luxury lakeside hotel in Talloires in southeastern France since early Saturday. He has, according to French news reports, been given eight days to find permanent refuge in another country.

About 50 people, all members of the French Communist Party or Communist-affiliated groups, demonstrated Monday evening in front of the hotel. "France is not a garbage can for dictators," read one of their signs.

Police briefly evacuated town hall Monday following an anonymous phone call warning that a bomb had been planted. Nothing was found.

Talloires Mayor Joseph Burdeyron said he will hold an emergency municipal council meeting today to discuss the "situation" created by Duvalier's presence. Under France's centralized system of government, however, he has no power to force Duvalier out.

Inquiry awaits train crewman

EDMONTON, Alberta (AP) — The sole surviving crewman of the freight train that ran a red signal light and piled into an oncoming passenger train, killing at least 29 people, will face a fact-finding inquiry within two days, officials said Monday.

Ross Walker, Canadian National's senior vice president for western Canada, said in a television interview that all three crew members should have seen cautionary and stop signals shortly before the head-on collision Saturday.

At news conferences Sunday, Walker and Alex Rennie of Canadian National said human error appeared to be the most likely cause of the wreck, the worst in Canada since 1947. Dave Burt of the Alberta Attorney General's office said Monday all 29 people listed as missing and presumed dead were believed to be Canadians.

Pope urges unity as trip ends

BOMBAY, India (AP) — Pope John Paul II ended an exhausting, 10-day pilgrimage across India on Monday with a call for peace and unity as Hindu militants tried to burn him in effigy.

The 65-year-old pontiff, speaking to more than 100,000 Christians at a youth rally at Shivaji Park, praised India's rich spiritual and cultural heritage and called on Christians to try to heal the nation's many sectarian and communal divisions.

John Paul, leader of the world's 840 million Roman Catholics, said the challenge facing Christians was to reject "all discrimination based on race, religion, sex, social condition or language groups."

Police rounded up militants as they tried to set fire to an effigy of the pope and broke up the protest quickly, without violence.

14 missing after sea landing

TOULON, France (AP) — A French Marine Super-Frelon helicopter made a forced sea landing near Corsica Monday afternoon and none of the 14 men aboard could be found afterward, military sources said.

The chopper, on a transport mission to Corsica from southern France, tried to land 50 miles north of the Mediterranean island at 1:49 p.m. after experiencing difficulties, the sources said.

A sea-air rescue mission searching for the four-man crew and 10 Marines aboard the helicopter was hampered by high winds.

The aircraft carrier Foch, two cargo ships, a car ferry and a tug were ordered to the zone to help, said the sources, who, according to French practice, demanded anonymity.

Dairy farmers prepare to sell herds

By BOB FREUND
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Dairy farmers throughout the Magic Valley are starting to count their cows and gather milk receipts as they prepare to offer their dairy herds to Uncle Sam.

County offices of the U.S. Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service Monday officially began taking bids from farmers under the government's dairy herd buy-out program.

The buy-out, ordered in the 1985 Farm Bill, is designed to cut milk production by 12 billion pounds in the next 18 months. The nation's dairy farms produced 143 billion pounds of milk during 1985.

Now, if any farmers actually had bids ready Monday because of the detailed information needed to qualify for the program, ASCS officials said. However, interest in the program is high in dairy-producing areas, they said.

"We've had a ton of dairymen in here already today," said Jim McLaughlin, executive director of the ASCS office, in Twin Falls County.

Glen Jensen, executive director at the Cassia County office, also said he received a number of inquiries. But, "I don't know how many of them will actually sign up," he said.

ASCs offices in five area counties have scheduled these public meetings to explain program provisions and to tell farmers how to apply.

• Gooding City Hall, 1:30 p.m. Thursday at the Gooding City Hall.

Twin Falls and Jerome counties — Joint meeting at 2 p.m. Friday in a community meeting room at the new KMWI studios, 1100 Blue Lakes Blvd. North.

• Mindoka and Cassia counties — 1:30 p.m. Feb. 19 at the Rupert Elks Lodge, 200 W. 100 S Road.

A session in Lincoln County also is pending.

The sign-up period for the herd buy-out extends until March 7. On April 1, the U.S. secretary of Agriculture can begin purchasing the herds, according to the Farm Bill.

Under the law, the USDA, acting through the ASCS, will buy entire herds offered by dairy producers. The farmers develop an asking price, or bid, based on their farm's milk marketings. The government then will screen the bids based on cost and other factors.

If the USDA accepts a bid, the dairy producer must stay out of the dairy business for 3, 4 or 5 years, depending on the specific contract. The program also prohibits the farmer from allowing anyone else to produce milk at the farm. Once the herd is purchased, the cows must either be slaughtered or exported.

McLaughlin said dairy producers need two essential records to apply for the buy-out. They must have proof of their farm's milk marketings between July 1, 1984, and Dec. 31, 1985. They also must have an actual count of the cows in their herds as of Jan. 1, 1985, and Jan. 1, 1986, he said.

The cost of the program is being paid by dairy farmers themselves over the next 18 months. The Farm Bill assesses producers 40 cents on each hundredweight of milk sold in the 48 contiguous states from April 1 to Dec. 31 and 25 cents on each hundredweight sold from Jan. 1, 1987, to Sept. 30, 1987.

The bill also requires the government to buy 400 million pounds of red meat to help offset the effects of the program on meat markets. Slaughtering of large numbers of dairy cattle could add huge supplies of beef and depress prices, the meat industry has feared.

The Farm Bill also gradually reduces price supports in 1987 and then allows them to rise or fall, depending on levels of projected surpluses, which are purchased by the government.

These docks on the Snake River, upstream from Owsley Bridge, were visited Monday by officials interested in rehabilitating the site.

Indigent claims approved

Cooperative program eases county crunch

By PAT MARCANTONIO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls County will be paying $60,000 for six indigent medical claims filed within the last 3 months.

Although the medical bills totaled about $149,955, the bulk will be paid by a catastrophic indigent medical program, started by the Idaho Association of Counties to help counties pay large medical bills for the treatment of indigents, said Susan Eckles, county welfare director. Under the program, participating counties pay the first $10,000 of a bill. The remaining amount is paid by the program through a fund generated by premiums from each member county.

The catastrophic bond, composed of county commissioners from throughout the state, last Friday approved claims for payment forwarded by Twin Falls County, Commissioner Ann Cove said.

Among these claims is a total bill of $29,337 from the University of Utah Medical Center in Salt Lake City and Magic Valley Regional Medical Center for a man wounded by a shotgun.

The Board of County Commissioners earlier had denied the application from the hospital for treating 29-year-old Larry Goodline, who was hospitalized between Aug. 26 and September, 1984.

The case raised the question of residency because Goodline had lived in Twin Falls County for about 3 weeks before he was wounded. Under the law, a county is responsible for payment of medical bills if the indigent had been a resident for at least 6 weeks.

At an appeal hearing, however, hospital attorneys cited a recent Idaho Supreme Court ruling that would obligate Twin Falls County to pay Goodline's bill because it was his place of residency immediately before his admission to the hospital.

The other claims, approved for payment are bills from Magic Valley Regional Medical Center for a variety of cases, including the treatment of three premature babies and a woman with cancer, Eckles said. The amount due to the county hospital is about $94,400.

The University of Utah also has billed the county a total of $26,185 for the treatment of an indigent with intestinal problems, Eckles said.

For all the claims, the county's total share will be $60,000.

The amount the county pays could be kicked up by another $10,000 because there is another pending claim for the treatment of a premature baby born at Magic Valley Regional Medical Center Nov. 17. The baby also was treated for a time at St. Luke's Hospital in Boise and later transferred back to the Twin Falls hospital, where the infant could be hospitalized for at least a month more, Eckles said.

The bill totals $11,000 so far, excluding the unknown amount due to St. Luke's or for the upcoming month of treatment, she added.

What's up — docks? Possibly

County officials hope to build public dock, picnic site along Snake

By PAT MARCANTONIO
Times-News writer

HAGERMAN — An old set of boat docks near Owsley Bridge was rediscovered by members of the Twin Falls County Waterways Board, who want to rejuvenate them into public docks on the Snake River.

Members of the Waterways Board, Parks Director Darrell Heider and County Commissioner Marvin Hempleman visited the site Monday morning. The men saw past the barren trees and overgrown grass, the skeletons of the docks and the trash strewn around the area. They saw the potential — a public dock and picnic site.

The seven dilapidated docks were built more than 30 years ago by the county, said Fritz Bybee, a longtime member of the board. The docks had been neglected over the years. Board Chairman Noah Oliver added.

The site is located on the south side of the Snake River, between Owsley Bridge and Hitley Bridge, which is crossed by Highway 30. Water Board member Gordon Young rediscovered the area about a year ago and asked the nearby Duggan Brothers, who operate a sawmill, about rebuilding the docks, Oliver said. The proposal didn't go anywhere until recently, he said. If the county then wants to reimburse Duggans, they had time to work on the project, which would include the building of new docks, construction of toilets and general sprucing up of the area, at an estimated cost of $7,000.

Bybee said people could gain access to the river by the county-built ramps near the Owsley Bridge and then use the docks and nearby area as a picnic site. Other members had plenty of suggestions for improvement during an inspection Monday. If rejuvenated, the site would be one of the few public access areas in Hagerman valley, some of the members said.

Oliver said the Waterways Board only recently found the property was owned by Idaho Power Co. Some board members didn't even know the county had built the docks until the older members saw the area, he added.

No one, however, could find any agreement between Idaho Power and the county for use of the area when the docks first were built, Oliver said.

As a result, the county will ask Idaho Power if it may use and develop the area, Oliver said. The board expects to send a letter to the company's headquarters in Boise "this week." He foresees no problems in obtaining the use of the area, he added.

Once the agreement is obtained, the board will work on details of the project and contract for the work.

Funds are available for the project, Oliver said. The dedicated funds are used for the building and maintaining of docks and waterfronts in the county. The revenue comes from boat-licensing.

Council overturns landscaping plan for mall

Plan for fewer trees falls short of zoning code

By ANNETTE CARY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Planning and Zoning Commission will have to reconsider a decision on landscaping at the Magic Valley Mall after — in the words of one city official — developers made "inaccurate representations" to the commission.

The Twin Falls City Council Monday declined to accept the P&Z Commission's decision, after Community Development Director Lamar Orton told them that some commissioners had become confused by developers' inaccurate accounts of a landscaping agreement.

"They did represent they met the code," Orton said. "The fact is they did not."

Project director for the mall, Tom Mulkey, told commissioners last week that Price Development was adding four to five acres of addi-

City refuses to pay county clerk personally

By ANNETTE CARY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The city of Twin Falls will pay any bills it owes Twin Falls County, but will make no payments to County Clerk Richard Pence personally, said Twin Falls Mayor Doug Volmer Monday.

"We didn't hire him as an independent contractor," said Volmer after a closed meeting of the council. The city will only make payments to the county for the election work, he said. If the county then wants to reimburse Pence in addition to his salary, that would be up to the county, he said.

Pence sent three bills to the city following the November county election: $500 payable to the county, $160 payable to a county maintenance worker at his home address and $180 payable to Pence at his home address.

The council generally agreed with a memo from City Attorney Shane Bengoechea discussing the legality of the bills, said City Manager Tom Courtney, who attended the closed meeting.

"The Idaho Constitution prohibits county officials from accepting extra pay for work they do in connection with their job," Bengoechea wrote. Pence's work on the city election was part of his county clerk duties to regulate elections and make sure that election laws are followed, he wrote.

Reasonable expenses incurred by the county should be paid, Bengoechea wrote. However, information on the bills was too sketchy to determine if the bills were reasonable, he said.

The bills neglected to say how many hours were worked, at what rate labor was charged, what Pence's expenses were, how much mileage was charged, and what supplies were purchased.

There is also some question about bills for labor. Had the city known there would be labor charges, city workers could have performed the work themselves, city officials said.

"The city will request that the county submit a more detailed, itemized bill for election services before further action is taken," said Courtney after the meeting.

The council closed the meeting to the public because city officials fear that not paying the bills could result in a lawsuit. Idaho Code allows closure to discuss legal issues.

"The council closed the meeting to the public because city officials fear that not paying the bills could result in a lawsuit. Idaho Code allows closure to discuss legal issues."

"Pence has made no secret of the fact that he plans to collect the money he billed," he added.

least two commissioners still wrote in explanation of their decision after the meeting that the landscaping met city code requirements.

"There was great confusion on what was being presented," said City Attorney Shane Bengoechea, who attended last week's meeting. "He had suggested that the commissioners table the matter until the original agreement between the developers and the city could be studied and they understood the issue better."

If landscaping does not meet legal requirements, the code still allows the plan to be approved if it is innovative.

However, City Manager Tom Courtney said Monday the plan did not appear to be innovative and would have difficulty qualifying for that exemption.

Councilwoman Mary McClusky said she was concerned that the landscaping issue had come up after developers had promised "a beautiful entrance to the city." The mall is being built near the rim of the Snake River Canyon at the northern entrance to the city.

Committee to discuss grant

TWIN FALLS — The Magdaland Regional Travel Committee meets at 1 p.m. today in the Canyon Springs Inn to consider its application for a state tourism grant this year.

People interested in tourism are invited. A no-host luncheon at noon will precede the meeting.

Woodworking class scheduled

KIMBERLY — An adult wood working class begins at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday at Kimberly High School. The cost for the 10-week class, which continues weekly through April 16, is $35, according to Ronn Phillips, instructor. Eight students are required to have the class, and because of the size of the shop, 10 is the maximum.

Phillips, Kimberly industrial arts instructor, has taught this subject for the past 12 years in Twin Falls, and this year in Kimberly. The course will include basic woodworking to advance furniture construction. To register call 734-7382.

Cutler trial fair — foreman

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

JEROME — A Jerome County farmer who served as foreman of the jury in the federal trial of white supremacist, Elden "Bud" Cutler, had last week in Boise said Monday that he felt the defendant received an extremely fair trial.

David Kohtz said he had never before served on a jury, although he had been on the federal court panel since December. Kohtz described the time spent in the trial and deliberation as a "very interesting and educational" week.

"I know a lot more about the court system now than I did before," Kohtz said.

Kohtz, who did not want to discuss details of the trial and jury verdict, said he had heard about the Aryan Nations Church and The Order, but was not aware of the case against Cutler until he was called to jury duty.

guess the clincher for me was when the judge asked that if I were the defendant would I want 12 people like me on the jury," Kohtz said. "I thought — it over — and decided — I would."

"I can honestly say that we went into the jury room without any preconceived ideas one way or the other. We all knew the state would have to prove its case against the defendant," Kohtz said.

The 10-woman, 2-man jury convicted Cutler; security chief for the Aryan Nations, of paying $2,000 to an undercover agent posing as an assassin to decapitate a government informant. The informant was a key witness in other action against members of The Order.

Cutler will be sentenced March 21 and could receive up to 30 years in prison and a fine of $50,000.

Jail agreement goes to judge today

TWIN FALLS — Lawyers representing Twin Falls County and two former jail inmates today will present 5th District Court Judge Daniel Hurlbut with a tentative agreement reached in a lawsuit filed over the county jail's operation.

Greg Fuller, who filed the litigation Oct. 22 on behalf of two inmates, said the detailed terms of the agreement will be presented to Hurlbut for his approval.

The county, which originally asked the court to order the county to close the aged jail, among other demands — was scheduled to go to trial today on the inmates' claims the jail didn't meet constitutional standards.

Fuller and Lloyd Webb, a private attorney who represents the county, instead will put on the record the settlement they reached last week.

also refused further elaboration on the agreement until after it's been presented to Hurlbut.

The general terms include presenting county voters with a bond to finance a "bare bones" jail proposal and reduction of the jail population.

Fuller had amended the lawsuit last month to include as plaintiffs other inmates in the jail without specifically naming them.

Webb said last week: "The county commissioners, who were named as defendants in the suit, said Tuesday that they did not want to comment on the case. Fuller specifically naming them, Sheriff Jim Mann also was named as a co-defendant in the amended version.

Stallings tells Burley group farm cuts threaten rural life

By RONDA TAYLOR
Times-News correspondent

BURLEY — U.S. Rep. Richard Stallings warned Monday that cutbacks in farm programs are threatening a traditional way of life in rural Idaho.

Stallings doesn't think there are more than individual farmers are involved in the farm crisis, a view shared by former Agriculture Secretary John Block, Stallings said.

"We're looking at the elimination of the rural community," he said. "We're looking at the elimination of a rural way of life."

Information, contact McBride at 733-9554, ext. 295.

The bill, signed into law by Reagan in late December, has "more market orientation, but didn't do it all at once," Stallings said.

Stallings said the agriculture committee had to face three problems: overspending, overproduction and the decline of farm income.

During the question-and-answer session following Stallings' talk, Thomas Geary of the Idaho Farm Bureau Federation thanked Stallings for the help he had given the bureau.

"I think the agricultural policy is really good," Geary said, adding he was "quite surprised" with the farm bill.

The farm aid cutbacks and a view among some members of Congress that there are "too many farmers" will have widespread effects, Stallings said Monday in a speech to the Burley Chamber of Commerce.

The Democratic congressman said President Reagan is asking for an 18-percent cut in agricultural programs and Congress' deficit reduction bill will cause a loss of $9 billion in 1986 and $49 billion in 1987.

"We're going to see some really tough years," Stallings predicted.

Because only one in nine members of Congress is from a rural district, agricultural committee. Geary questioned a proposal to include goats as an alternate crop to wheat.

Block had proposed a "bare bones" program. "We're looking at the elimination of the rural community," he said.

Stallings said that he and a conferee helped reconcile differences in the 1985 Farm Bill passed by the House and Senate, said he gained good experience working on the bipartisan Including the pending claim, a $70,000 chunk may be taken out of the county's indigent fund to pay the deductible for the catastrophic program. When that occurs, about $100,000 will remain to pay indigent medical bills under $10,000 and the deductible for future large medical bills. And, county officials admitted they were worried about that.

If there are many more medical bills, the county does have some leeway in the $690,000 poor fund to take money from other items, such as funerals, nursing-home care and prescriptions for indigents, county officials previously reported.

Other council members were concerned that the commissioners had made decisions based on incomplete information. Councilman Gale Kleinkopf said that even though the plan might be all right, the commissioners should have the chance to review a Feb. 7 staff analysis of the landscape plan made by the developers claimed they were adding more land.

When the county commissioners announced earlier this month that the Weed Bureau would be eliminated, increased indigent costs was one of the reasons cited for the cut. County officials also said the county might have to borrow money for the poor fund if money runs out before the end of the fiscal year.

Eckles reported that five more indigent cases, although none of them appear to be catastrophic-sized.

Roommate contract advised

By HARPER'S BAZAAR

Living with a roommate is a little like marriage — you have to find the right partner, try to work it out if there are troubles at home — and get a divorce of sorts if all else fails. The first step in successful room-mating, according to articles in the February issue of Harper's Bazaar, is to find someone compatible.

Prospective roommates should ask themselves what they want out of this situation, and carefully consider the other person's lifestyle. They should sit down and discuss frankly what each expects of the other. Both parties have the right to ask for references from colleagues, employers and banks.

Christmas cards flood charity for kids

DEAR ABBY: A big round of applause for Ed McMahon's suggestion to send the fronts of attractive religious Christmas cards to St. Jude's Ranch for Children, P.O. Box 985, Boulder City, Nev. 89005-0985. It is heartwarming to know that recycling used Christmas cards helps these abused children earn some money.

I have just sent off a package of Christmas cards to St. Jude's, plus a note to Father Herbert A. Ward Jr., enclosing a little donation for his wonderful work (your suggestion, Abby).

Reading Mr. McMahon's letter in your column gives one renewed faith that Christmas isn't just commercial (no pun intended for Mr. McMahon!), that people really do care about other people, and that the real meaning of Christmas is love.

MICHAEL PAVELEC
Air Force Academy appointee

Double honor awarded to Eagle Scout

TWIN FALLS — Michael Pavelec, son of David and Maureen Pavelec, Twin Falls, received double honors recently.

He was presented the Eagle Scout badge and also notified of his appointment to the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Colo., by Sen. Jim McClure.

A senior at Twin Falls High School, Pavelec, 17, has lettered in football, wrestling and track and has a grade point average of 3.92, placing him in the top 10 percent of his class.

He is active in the youth group at the Christian and Missionary Alliance Church and belongs to Boy Scout Troop 67, led by Frank Mogensen, at the First United Methodist Church. His Eagle project included cleaning, repairing and constructing a parking lot adjacent to his church.

Pavelec was presented the Eagle pin during services at the Methodist Church Feb. 2 by the Rev. Tom Tucker when 19 Scouts participated as ushers, greeters and worship leaders.

Mogensen said Pavelec also was honored during the troop's annual Scout week banquet Monday night attended by 140 members of Troop 67 and Webelos den of Pack 67 and their families.

He was formally presented his Eagle award and plaque by Dan Harrison, Snake River Council's Scout executive for the Falls District. Dr. David McClosky, district chairman, spoke briefly at the court of honor.

Jeff Dodds was presented his life rank, Steve Hanchett earned his first class rank and Clinton Anderson received second class rank. Tenderfoot pins were given to Alex and Will Sinclair, John Harris and Cy Gilbert.

The program included a flag, skit by Chris Anderson and musical numbers by Scouts Kevin Wright on the guitar, Will Sinclair, cello; Bryan Tuley who played a piano duet with his mother, and Cy Gilbert, flute. Selections also were given by local artists, Cliff Hank and Jack Stewart on mandolin and electric guitar.

BLM takes over recreation area

BLISS — The city of Bliss has turned control of the Bluff Recreation area back to the Bureau of Land Management because the city can no longer afford to support it. City Councillman Sam Bishop said last week.

The area west of Bliss has been used for rodeos, motorcycle races, four-wheel drive vehicle races and other races.

"Rising insurance costs have made it impossible for the city to continue to maintain the property," Bishop said.

"Bliss does not have the funding available for necessary refurbishing of the recreational area," he added. The local chariot association is negotiating with the BLM to retain its track on the site.

Clerk Patsy Klynov. Sample said. In other business, Sample said he had been contacted by several people who are interested in leasing the unused portion of the city's 40 shares of irrigation water.

The council members decided to lease the unused water, and they will accept sealed bids after it is determined how much water is needed by the city.

Also, Councilman Mike Nilhill was elected president of the council. He will reside over council meetings in the event Sample is absent.

Council members take oath

EDEN — Three council members were sworn into office at the last meeting of the Eden City Council.

Mayor Owen Hammond administered the oath to Diane McNeil and Don Peterson who were both re-elected last November to their second four-year term. Melvin Rife, who had been appointed to finish out the unexpired term of Dave Winter, also was elected to a four-year term.

In other business, landowner Don McFarland told the council he will make plots of ground in the city available for light industry. He said Gerald Martens, of Edwards, Howard and Martens Engineers, has already completed out the proposed area.

In other business, the council voted to apply for grant money which will allow the city to employ crews of one adult instructor and four young people to do landscaping, painting, park maintenance and other community improvement projects.

Wendell fire report released

WENDELL — The annual city and rural fire report for Wendell shows damage in the city in 1985 totaled about $92,000.

Fire Chief Keith Hosack said the biggest single loss occurred when three potato harvesters parked on the side of a rural road were burned by an unwatched ditch fire. The harvesters belonged to Sunshine Farms southwest of Wendell.

The only injuries of the year, Hosack said, occurred when a man poured gasoline on hot coals in a house fireplace. The man and another renter living with him received second degree burns in the resulting flash fire.

Percy leaves Castleford post

CASTLEFORD — Councilman Beryl Percy has announced he is resigning from the City Council because he is moving out of the city.

"We deeply regret seeing Beryl leave," said Mayor Robert Sample. "He's worked really hard on the council."

Percy, who is serving his third term, said last week his resignation is effective immediately. The mayor will appoint his replacement, and any city resident interested in the position should call City

Students examine diet habits

GOODING — Gooding County 4-H teen leaders and the University of Idaho Extension Service, in cooperation with faculty in Bliss, Fairfield, Gooding and Hagerman schools, are studying the diets of students to find ways in which eating habits can be improved.

The students are filling out diet questionnaires, listing everything they eat for one week.

Mary Lou Ruby, Extension Home Economist, said the program is to make students aware of what they should be eating to be healthier. If students improve their diets, she said, their attitude and endurance also improve.

Information from the questionnaires will be put into computer programs for analysis and subsequent recommendations to each student.

The extension service is seeking volunteers to operate the computers. Training on the computers will be provided. Those who would like to help may call Ruby at 394-6585.

Diet Pill Sweeping U.S. New Super "Dream Pill" Lose Weight As You Sleep!

No Dieting — Eat All You Want

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. — An amazing new super "dream pill" has recently been developed and perfected that reportedly "guarantees" that you will easily lose up to 10 pounds in 10 days. Best of all, it allows you to "eat as much as you want of your favorite foods and still lose a pound a day or more starting from the very first day until you achieve your ideal weight and figure."

This remarkable new diet pill combines two natural substances, which cause adults to lose weight fast by "tricking" the body into acting like a teenager. These nutritional substances, called L-arginine and L-ornithine, stimulate the body's production of growth hormone. Dr. Robert Harris, a specialist in nutritional medicine in Stafford Springs, Connecticut, was recently quoted as explaining: "Growth Hormone may be what's responsible for allowing teenagers to down thousands of calories-in hamburgers and other foods-and still be thin as a rail."

"Growth Hormone is present in people up through the teenage years, then slowly diminishes with age. But L-arginine and L-ornithine make the body "think" it belongs to a teenager again, allowing adults to eat as much as they want — and still be thin and wiry."

"Pill Does All The Work"

According to the manufacturer, "the pill itself does all the work while you quickly lose weight with NO starvation "diet menus" to follow, NO calorie counting, NO exercise and NO hunger pangs." The pill is not a drug! It is 100% safe consisting of natural amino acids just like those found in the foods you eat everyday.

"Life Extension Authors"

Dirk Forstern and Sandy Shaw, founders of MIT and UCLA respectively, introduced these miracle substances to the public in their runaway best selling book, Life Extension. They discovered the weight-loss effects by accident.

'Cats, SHS can clinch tonight

By The Times-News

There may be two full weeks left in the 1985-86 South-Central Idaho Conference boys' basketball season and a week remaining in the Magic Valley Conference campaign, but Burley and Shoshone can wrap up their respective league titles with victories tonight.

Burley will travel to Buhl tonight for an 8 p.m. rematch with the Indians, a team they defeated 50-50 in Burley two weeks ago. A win tonight would give Burley an unsurmountable 5-0 SCIC record with only a Feb. 20 contest against Jerome remaining on its league schedule.

Should the Indians, now 4-2 in conference, beat the 'Cats tonight, however, they could win a piece of the league title if they defeat Wood River in their SCIC finale on Feb. 21.

And if Jerome beats Burley next week, at stake in addition to the league championship, of course, is the top berth in the upcoming District 4 Class A-2 tournament, which begins in the College of Southern Idaho gym in Twin Falls on Feb. 25.

Burley, 11-6 for the season after winning nine of its last 10 games, clinched at least a tie for the SCIC crown with a 90-55 overtime victory over Wood River on Feb. 1.

MVC title with a win. The Indians, 9-0 in MVC games and 16-2 for the season, beat the defending conference and District 4 champion Hornets 77-50 in Shoshone on Jan. 17. Since then they have won five of their last six games.

Oakley, 7-2 in conference and 10-7 for the season, is the only MVC team with a mathematical chance of denying the Indians the league championship and a bye in the first round of next week's District 4 Class A-4 Southside Sub-district tournament.

The Hornets could do that by beating Oakley tonight and Buhl River and Murtaugh in their final games of the season, provided that the Indians lose to Murtaugh and Hagerman. Tipoff time in Oakley tonight is 8 p.m.

CSI takes 'pressure' break today vs. CEU

By LARRY HOVEY Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — It's been three weeks since the College of Southern Idaho has not gone with basketball war with its collective back against the wall. Tonight, however, is different. College of Eastern Utah is coming to call and this should be a "fun game" both from the standpoint that a loss wouldn't hurt the Eagles' chances for the prestige of rankings — and from the prediction of Coach Fred Trunkle that "nobody's going to hold the ball in this one."

CSI women taking on their CEU counterparts at 6:15 p.m. and the men squaring off about 8 to 8:15 p.m.

The Eagles will wind up with Friday and Saturday nights with double-headers here against Treasure Valley Community College as they return to Region 18 and Appleton, Ore.

"Eastern Utah evidently is playing well now," said Trunkle. They beat Ricks by seven two weeks ago so that indicates they are capable of it.

Trunkle said he tended to discount CSI's lopsided win over the Eagles in Price, Utah, in Non-Idaho fee hike moves on

BOISE (AP) — Legislation significantly increasing the hunting fees Idaho charges nonresidents has cleared a Senate Committee and is headed for final vote.

The bill, which passed the House overwhelmingly last week, would generate between $900,000 and $1 million a year in additional revenues for the state Fish and Game Department.

The increases, the first since 1981, would be effective next year.

Proposed by the state Fish and Game Commission, the measure would raise nonresident hunting licenses from $75 to $85 and significantly increase the cost of big game tags. Nonresident tags would jump from $150 to $500 for bighorn sheep and mountain goats, from $151.50 to $205 for elk and from $51.50 to $80 for deer.

Department Director Jerry Conley said the increase not only would bring Idaho's nonresident charges in line with those of surrounding states, but also reflect the high-quality hunting the state has come to be known for.

"In addition, Conley said the increased charges should ease demand for the limited number of nonresident big game tags, particularly for elk and deer, which have been selling out before mid-June.

While the tags will still "sell" out even at the higher price, Conley said more nonresident tags should be available longer into the summer so that Idaho outfitters and guides unable to book many fall hunting trips until mid-summer will still have an opportunity to obtain them for their clients. Others have profited from the higher fees will deter some of the "road hunters" from border states and leave more tags available for hunters using guide services.

The problems facing state's outfitters in connection with the nonresident tag quotas prompted some opposition to the bill by Sen. Ron Beitelbacher, D-Grangeville, who holds an "outfitters' license" himself. Beitelbacher said the fee increase would not solve the problem for the outfitters industry, and he argued for some kind of set-aside of tags specifically for state outfitters.

Conley pointed out that the Commission this year has held back 1,000 deer and elk tags for sale beginning Aug. 15 in an attempt to ease the industry's problem.

In other action, the committee endorsed legislation creating a lifetime hunting or fishing license and giving it to the full Senate for an initial vote.

That bill was revised from an earlier version to reduce the charges on for the resident lifetime licenses after member of the panel suggested the original price schedule was excessive.

A-2 Jerome girls put tourney into overtime

By SCOTT TUDEHOPE Times-News writer

—BUHL—It was a case of shut-down, turn off.

And it was Jerome which had control of the switch, beating Buhl 50-37 in the championship game of the District 4 Class A-2 girls' basketball tournament here Monday night.

However, because the South-Central Idaho Conference champion Indians were unbeaten before Monday night in the tournament, a second tie game must be played. That's slated for 7 p.m. tonight in the Jerome High gym.

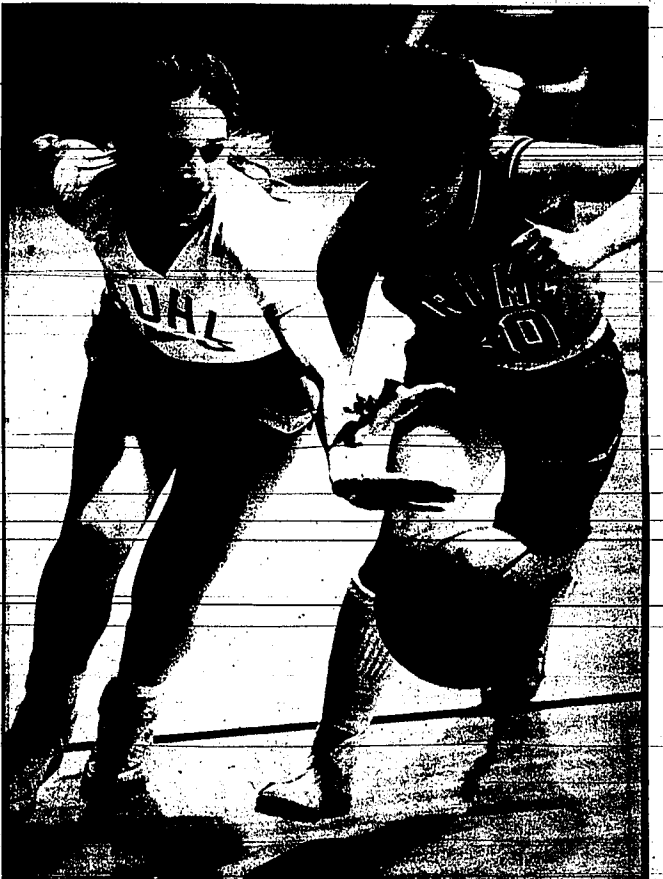

The winner of tonight's game goes to the state A-2 tournament in Idaho Falls next week. The losers must play either Thursday or Friday against the second-place team from District 6 in a game scheduled for the Pocatello High gym. The winner of that game must still play the runner-up from District 8 on Saturday in Pocatello, with the winner going to state.

The Tigers played the style of game many boys' teams would have been proud of — aggressive, team-oriented ball. It was exactly what Jerome needed to beat the Indians for the first time in three tries this season, particularly in Buhl's gym. But will fans see that kind of play for two nights straight?

"I sure hope we can," said Kurt Bradley, the Tigers' coach. "In fact, I was wondering if they'd be able to do it in the second half."

An example of Jerome's tenacity: up 18-15 in the first period, Jerome forced the ball over from its full-court press three times running Another center Heather McDowell deftly followed her Indian counterpart, — Heidi Brenden, limiting Brenden to seven points, far below her average.

Buhl, Jerome was lucky to go into lockerroom at the half with a one-point lead. It was Buhl's successful free throws that kept the game close; at one point in the second half the Indians were 7-0-8 at the charity stripe. But with both teams well into the bonus situation by that point, Jerome's Tiffany Crist had the last say, canning both ends of a one-and-one.

If Jerome was ready to let up any of its intensity in the third period, Buhl was more than ready to fill the void. In fact, the Indians hit the first field goal of the quarter on a Gayla Smutny-to-Lori Eriksen combination.

Buhl then settled into a 2-3 zone, hoping possibly to stop McDowell's penetration. It wasn't meant to be, however, as the scrappy 5-foot-11" junior, pounded the boards for rebounds and more, coming down with both a field goal and a foul with two minutes left.

With only one period to go, and with Jerome on top by five, it was clearly anyone's game. Crist stole a pass and hit the cripple to make it 38-31, then put up a short jumper, over Smutny, before Smutny's mother and the Indians' coach, Janet Smutny, called a timeout.

"We just didn't get into our offense tonight," she said. "We didn't do things as well as we're capable of."

Still Buhl managed to mount a comeback that nearly put it where they wanted to. First Gayla Smutny hit a three-pointer before collecting her fifth foul, then teammate Eriksen canned another with 2:10 left. That made it a five-point game.

Again, "How quickly these leads fade. No kidding," said Bradley. "They kind of sneak up on you."

Two turnovers later, Jerome had things under control once again. • See A-2 on Page C2

Big Sky: Can UM be halted?

By The Associated Press

Northern Arizona ran into a bad streak of luck this week, relinquishing its Big Sky leadership role with MSU of Montana on Friday and another to Montana State on Saturday.

The back-to-back losses placed the Lumberjacks with a 6-3 conference record behind Montana, at 9-2. In other basketball action on Saturday, Boise State defeated Idaho State 73-68. Weber State dropped the University of Idaho 86-57 and Montana defeated Nevada-Reno 92-75.

Grizzlies watched their victory over Northern Arizona almost slip away, as a 17-point lead decreased to a two-point win. "It shifted just like that," said Montana guard Scott Zanon. "It seemed like we were in control and then they put in a bunch of quick guys and all-of-a-sudden, we just lost all of our momentum in the span of about 45 seconds."

Forward Larry Krystkowiak scored 25 points and 10 rebounds to keep Montana in contention.

Montana State pulled ahead of the Lumberjacks on the following night and never looked back. Forward Eric Perch provided 21 points and guard Ray Willis added an extra 20 to beat Northern Arizona 92-67. The Bobcats had a 38-22 lead into halftime and didn't allow NAU closer than 17 points in the second half.

"I knew we'd compete, but to get a 20-point lead on a team like NAU that has so much experience and is so smart, it's pretty surprising," said MSU Coach Stu Starmer. "I'm surprised. I know I'm not surprised to be surprised, but I'm surprised."

Montana's Zanon chalked up a career-high 23 points in his team's win over Nevada-Reno, 92-75. The Wolf Pack pulled a 84-75 late in the game but could move no closer. "I think the soft zone they play is the main reason I've done so well against them," said Zanon. "If we play them again, I think they may let about changing it."

Boise State avenged an earlier loss by beating Idaho State 73-68, giving the Broncos a 4-5 conference record and dropping the Bengals to 5-4 in the Big Sky. Forward Ronald Smith scored a season-high 24 points in the game. "Basically I'm tired of losing," said Smith, referring to a Bronco losing slump lately.

It was the second conference home sweep for the Broncos under Coach Bobby Dye and his 200th victory. "It's been a long time," he said. "It's made for some miserable Sunday's."

Weber State also established a lead by halftime over the Idaho Vandals and boosted it to a 89-57 win. "The Wildcats outscored Idaho 27-6 in a nine-minute stretch during the first half and a 33-17 halftime lead.

Epic tale of CSI's Jumpin' Joey Johnson nears legendary proportions

TWIN FALLS — Time, evidently, for a sequel to "The Nall."

When last we discussed this matter, you'll recall that CSI's Joe Johnson, at 6-foot-1/2, had just bettered the approximately 12-6 leap that former Idaho Vandal and NBA star Gus Johnson (6-6) unleashed at Moscow's famed Corner Club.

They did it on the way to Coeur d'Alene where the Golden Eagles were to play North Idaho the next night. That new standard has been installed on the beam by the Goetz family, Corner Club owners.

At the time we wondered whether enough would remember — or even more practically care — about The Nall that was driven into the overhead beam that keeps the roof from caving in on the "front bar" at the corner club. After all, it had been 24 years.

Larry Hovey

For something to fill the page on Saturday, said something like "Coach Trunkle, we understand that (Boston Celtic) Dennis Johnson's younger brother Joey is playing on your team. How's Joey doing and how's the team doing?"

Which led Trunkle into The Nall yarn: "The guy evidently had been around the NBA for a while because he knew all about Gus Johnson and when I told him the part about Bill Walton not touching it, the guy almost went out." Trunkle says with a laugh.

That story led the Boston Celtic publicity department to get a line on some "colleague" of Johnson, which evidently was obtained from Boise's KTVB-TV. As part of that, KTVB reported the incident a week after it happened.

"Dennis Johnson told me that the Celtic publicity department was thinking about doing something on Joey and CSI maybe for a half-time feature in one of their nationally televised games," said Trunkle with a relish, not unaware of the recruiting boom such exposure could create.

And then the University of Idaho student paper, The Argonaut, came out with The Nall story in its most recent edition.

"One might think it was important. Need to correct one thing we told you a month or so ago. There will be a bi-regional playoff between Regions 18 and 1 (Arizona). At the conclusion of the regional tournaments the first full weekend in March.

The Arizona champion will have to travel to the Utah-Idaho winner's home court for this one. It will be a one-game playoff with the winner advancing to nationals.

North Idaho, CSI could beat Ricks and North Idaho could split with CSI.

It is the guard line. And that CSI if not a team of guards and/or sn. CSI forwards compared to the other two?"

Ricks, with 6-9 center Jeff Schofield, is more a half-court offensive team than usual this year. Ricks has better backline size than CSI and matches up better against North Idaho than the shorter, more mobile Eagles. Since North Idaho also prefers a half-court offensive game, there is little pressuring going on. One would anticipate that Ricks will have to move very well this weekend to get a split in Coeur d'Alene.

CSI's front-line pressure has to force the opposition out of a comfortable tempo — increase it preferably, make them try to make things happen more quickly.

North Idaho's two quick guards can stalemate CSI's guard-line quickness. Once that happens, North Idaho's solid size advantage underneath comes into play. While CSI still has the jumpers to swat stuff inside, it has to work considerably harder to contain, defend and rebound.

The plain truth is that while someone like Joey Johnson can out jump Sven Meyer by several inches, if Joey's timing is not impeccable, he comes a long way down while Meyer is still in it.

Additionally, CSI feeds its offense off transition, fast break and steal points. North Idaho was able to contain those things in the Coeur d'Alene series. That allowed the Cardinals to put CSI into a half-court game, which is North Idaho's forte, not CSI's.

Ricks was not able to negate CSI's guards in the first matchup, hence the big disparity in point totals. Saturday night, Ricks' Gerald Riddick — with one major exception just before halftime — broke about even with the CSI guard line and canned 23 points along the way.

Due to the tardid first-half shooting of each team on consecutive nights, it would be foolish to form a solid opinion of how Ricks and CSI match up. Hot shooting distorts comparison. Probably the closest moments

Continued from Page C1 fans swap of Ricks' stats. CSI on an average night was the second half of the second game. But this is diluted when the wear of two hard nights of playing by the rather thin Ricks corps is considered, too. The jury thus remains out until the Rexburg meetings.

Important pressure defense logic has diminishing returns as the season progresses and batters become more accustomed to a tight defense. This is the pitcher's defense — especially a man-manager. But this does not negate the suggestion that defense wins more game of the season. It takes a while for the offensive stars, coaching and ball-handling to catch up. Much like margin.

St. John's muscles past Georgetown, 60-58

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — St. John's star, Walter Berry may not have been physically up to par but it is the end it was Georgetown that was hurting.

Berry, a 6-foot-8 center whose left ankle injury forced him out of last Saturday's game with Boston College late in the first half, scored 14 of his game-high 22 points Monday night in the second half. In No. 10 St. John's 60-58 Big Sky Conference triumph over No. 11 Georgetown, "It felt a lot better," Berry said. "I was very surprised how well I played with it and how much I moved."

Berry played the full 40 minutes and hit eight of 15 shots from the field. He grabbed all eight of his rebounds in the first half.

Georgetown Coach John Thompson, whose team had an eight-game winning streak broken by Berry, "He probably had a sprained ankle and his pride surfaced, and then he forgot about it."

St. John's Coach Lou Carnesecca agreed, saying, "In the heat of battle, he forgot about it. He was trying (to shoot jump shots) but he made some big hoops for us."

A key play in the contest came when Shelton Jones of St. John's was fouled by a charging foul in the second minute remaining and the Redmen leading 58-56. St. John's guard Mark Jackson then stripped the ball from David Wingate and Jones picked it up.

"When I grabbed it, there was no way I was going to let go," Jones said. "That redeemed me."

Wingate said, "I could have taken the shot (earlier), but I tried to get closer and cause a foul."

In snapping the Hoyas' eight-game winning streak, the Redmen raised their record to 23-3 and 10-2 in the Big East, second only to Syracuse, 9-1. Georgetown fell to 19-4, 9-3.

St. John's shot 69 percent from the field in the second half for an overall 50 percent. The Hoyas shot 44 percent for the game.

St. John's, which beat Georgetown in an earlier meeting this season, trailed by as much as eight in the first half but closed within 30-26 at halftime. In the first half, Georgetown's pressing defense forced the Redmen into 12 turnovers as Reggie Williams and Wingate combined for 20 points.

But Berry, operating against a collapsing defense, started the Redmen rolling and they opened a 42-37 advantage on Rowan's jumper with 12:30 remaining.

During one stretch, St. John's missed three 1-and-1 free throw situations and goals by Wingate and Williams cut the margin to 50-49 with 7:14 remaining. Three more times the Hoyas needed to lead by one point but could never overtake the Redmen.

Georgetown's Jonathan Edwards hit one of two free throws to make it 58-56 with 1:21 remaining. Alf Jones was called for a charging foul with 45 seconds to go.

Louisville 93 Virginia Tech 83

BLACKSBURG, Va. (AP) — Louisville's 16th-ranked Cardinals shot 54 free throws in beating No. 15 Virginia Tech 93-83 in a Metro Conference game Monday night, and Cardinals Coach Denny Crum said "I'll guarantee you they were all fouls."

Billy Thompson, Jeff Hall and Mitt Wagner teamed for 63 points, including 33 of 40 shooting from the foul line, as Louisville downed Tech for the second time in five days.

"When somebody hit somebody in this game, they made sure he was hit," said Crum.

Krystkowiak closing in on BSC title

BOISE (AP) — Heading into the final three weeks of the Big Sky Conference basketball season, Montana's Larry Krystkowiak is edging closer to Dwayne Randall of Nevada-Reno in his bid to lead the conference in scoring for the third straight season.

Krystkowiak, a 6-9 senior forward, has boosted his average to 21 points per game, less than two points behind Randall, who is averaging 22.9.

No other Big Sky player has a chance to win individual scoring honors. Idaho State's Donn Holston is third at 18.3, but suffered a foot injury last week and scored only six points in limited action in Saturday night's game against Boise State.

Krystkowiak and Randall are staging a close battle for rebounding honors. Krystkowiak leads, averaging 10.6 per game to 10.1 for Randall.

The Big Sky is using a three-point field goal rule this year, and Robb Haden of Nevada-Reno has the most, 38 in 12 conference games. Haden is shooting nearly 46 percent from the 19 foot, 9-inch line.

Tidaho Junior guard Chris Carey is only Big Sky player hitting half his shots from three range. Carey is 18 for 32, exactly 50 percent.

Harden has 20 more three-point attempts than anyone else, 85, and has made nine more three-pointers than runner-up Scott Zanon of Montana.

College basketball

Memphis St. 99 Florida St. 73

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Basketball's Holmes and Dwight Boyd scored 20 points apiece Monday night as Memphis State's third-ranked Tigers routed Metro Conference opponent Florida State 99-73 in college basketball.

The turning point in the game came less than three minutes after the tipoff when Holmes stole the ball under the Seminole basket, stuffed it and was fouled in the process. The 6-foot-7 senior made the free throw to run the score to 7-4.

From that point, the Tigers, 22-2, ran away with the game as Coach Dana Kirk played every man in uniform. At the 11:31 mark in the first half, Memphis State led 22-12 and with 7:39 left, the score was 31-16.

Sophomore Vincent Askew, who had seven rebounds and six assists, hit a five-footer with 4:29 left in the half to extend the score to 46-22 — the Tigers' biggest lead before intermission.

In the second half, the Tigers kept up the pressure, although the margin dropped to 10 at several points. Midway in the second half, Holmes made a 7-2-53 when he stole the ball, raked the length of the court and dunked it.

On the Seminoles' next trip down the court, Holmes again came up with the ball and he hit a five-foot jumper to make it 74-22.

The Tigers led 85-66 with just under five minutes left in the game after freshman Marvin Alexander, who finished with eight points, sank a pair of free throws. A minute later,

Jacksonville 70 W. Kentucky 65

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Senior captain Otis Smith poured in 28 points to lead Jacksonville to a 70-65 victory over No. 19 Western Kentucky in a Sun Belt Conference basketball game Monday night.

Jacksonville recorded its first victory over a Top 20 team in 13 years.

The lead changed hands seven times in the first half, with nine ties before Western Kentucky took a 29-27 halftime lead.

Five more ties and an equal number of lead changes occurred in the second half before Jacksonville took a 50-49 lead on a foul shot by Willie McDuffie with 8:43 remaining.

GENE STALLINGS
Disciplinarian

Landry, Bryant protege Stallings hired by Cards

By PAUL NOWELL
The Associated Press

ST. LOUIS — Gene Stallings, a disciplinarian and protege of coaching legends Paul "Bear" Bryant and Tom Landry, was named Monday to succeed Jim Hanifan as coach of the St. Louis Cardinals.

"Jim says Coach Bryant couldn't be here," Stallings said at a news conference where he was introduced by team owner William V. Bidwill. "I know somewhere he's smiling."

The appointment of Stallings, an assistant to Landry with the Dallas Cowboys and a former head coach at Texas A&M, ended Bidwill's arduous search for a coach. Hanifan and his assistants were fired just 15 minutes after the Cardinals lost the final game of the 1985 NFL season to Washington Redskins Dec. 21.

It also filled the last vacant NFL coaching job.

The 1985 Cardinals posted a disappointing 5-11 record after being picked by some experts to win the NFC East. Critics contended that, although Hanifan was well-liked by his players, he did not command the discipline needed to make the playoffs and win.

Stallings agreed with descriptions of himself as tough, but added that he also can be compassionate.

"There's nothing wrong in liking your players," Stallings said. "I've got a job to do and that is to make Mr. Bidwill glad that he hired me."

Bidwill said he was glad the hunt was over.

"It's been a long search and I've talked to a lot of fine football coaches and line men," Bidwill said in introducing Stallings. "But you have to stop and make a judgment. And I think I've picked the best man for the job."

The 50-year-old Stallings, a native of Paris, Texas, became the Cardinals' ninth head coach since 1950. Bidwill confirmed that he gave Stallings a four-year contract, but he declined to disclose financial terms.

"On Saturday I just made up my mind that he is one I should go with," Bidwill said. "He's a good football man and a good man."

Stallings called the job a career dream.

"This is an opportunity I have sought for a number of years," he said. "It is one that I cherish — to head up my own football team. I excited. I will pledge every energy I have to make the Cardinals the best football team that I can."

Stallings has spent the past 14 years coaching the Dallas Cowboys help a player perform.

defensive backfield. He has been praised for his ability to take free agents and low-round draft picks and shape them into top-notch players.

Under Stallings' tutelage, free agent defensive backs Cliff Harris, Everson Walls and Michael Downs were named All-Pro. Charlie Waters, another Cowboy, All-Pro, was a three-round draft choice.

Stallings said his first order of business would be to assemble a staff.

"I have several coaches in mind," he said. "I can't say who they are but I will tell you that I want on."

Whaley takes 500 victory at Statesman meet

BOISE — College of Southern Idaho sophomore DeVoe Whaley won the 500-meter run here Sunday in the Idaho Statesman Indoor Classic.

Whaley covered the indoor course at the Boise State University Pavilion in 1 minute, 7.65 seconds, almost two seconds better than runner-up Rick Smith of the Pocatello Track Club.

The meet was the first indoor track meet ever held in the five-year-old Pavilion.

Haley's Lisa Bernhagen, now at Stanford, won the women's high jump with a leap of 6 feet, her best since high school, despite a track that started on the wood sprinting surface and ended on a softer tartan floor.

"I thought the approach would throw me off," Bernhagen said. "But a lot of things are going on in indoor meets, and you just have to put it out of your mind."

Monte Brotwell of Bellevue, running unattached, won the 3,000-meters in a time of 8:58.61.

Former Twin Falls High and CSI star Magic Miller, now competing for Boise State, won the long jump with a leap of 18-7. Her younger sister Mailin, a freshman at Idaho State, finished third in the event with a mark of 17-5.

In the boys' division, two Jerome High School athletes won their respective events. Travis Dailon, competing for the Jerome Boosters, took the high jump with a leap of 6-4. Teammate Eric Holley, also competing for the Jerome Boosters, won the 55-meter dash in 8.22.

"The folly which we might have ourselves committed is the one which we are least ready to pardon in another." - Joseph Roux. The silly things that we all do always seem so natural. The play of today's club suit serves as a good example.

Dummy's a diamond-ace-noon and the two high trumps were cashed, revealing a trump loser. Next, South cashed his club ace and led a club to dummy's jack and East's queen.

After the two high trumps, South should cash the king and ace of clubs and surrender a club. West then gets a diamond-ace-shifts-to-spades, but it's too late.

Optimism keeps Dow rising

By BILL MENEZES The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Stock prices rose strongly again on Monday, reflecting continued optimism over the future of the U.S. economy.

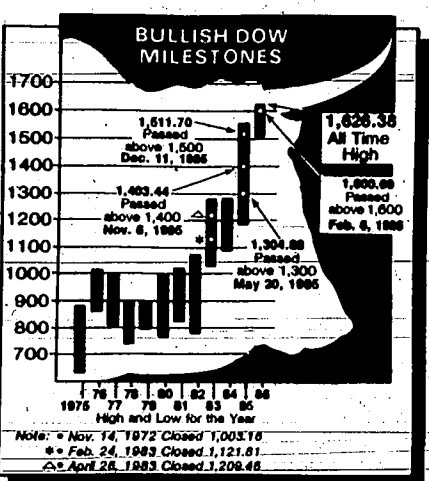

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials finished the day 12.95 points higher at a record 1,626.38, as a late surge triggered by a drop in interest rates nearly doubled early gains.

The well-known market indicator had reached record highs in the two previous sessions, and although analysts said there were no significant new developments to spur the market on Monday, they added that investors are beginning to buy at lower prices and falling U.S. jobless rate which helped propel the market last week.

Lower oil prices generally are seen as improving the chances that inflation will remain subdued, while the sharp drop announced last week in the January unemployment rate was viewed by many as a sign of accelerating U.S. economic momentum.

Some analysts also credited stock index trading programs for accentuating the rise in stock prices on Monday.

In index trading, investors attempt to profit from temporary disparities between the price of futures contract based on a stock index and the level of the index itself. When one of the two is sharply higher, index traders buy the lower one and simultaneously sell the higher one a practice that critics have said periodically causes stock market volatility.

Interest rates dipped in the credit markets late Monday when oil futures fell sharply in the commodity markets. When stock prices rose to a certain level in response to the drop in interest rates, they triggered several index buying programs, which amplified the upward trend and caused a late surge in the Dow, analysts said.

On the New York Stock Exchange, Gulf States Utilities was 1/4 lower at 14 1/2 to lead the list of the most actively traded issues with 3.86 million shares changing hands, including a 1-million share block at 147.

Wells Fargo & Co. rose 7 to 74. The corporation on Friday announced it was buying financially troubled Crocker National Corp., a move which would make Wells Fargo one of the 10 largest U.S. bank holding companies.

Among blue chips, American Telephone & Telegraph was unchanged at 21 1/4. IBM was up 1 1/2 to 157 1/4. General Motors Corp. was up 1 1/2 to 76 1/4, and Goodyear was 1/2 higher at 33 1/2.

Walt Disney Co. rose 1/4 to 123 1/4 in a gain some analysts attributed to the strong box-office performance of its latest film, 'Down and Out in Beverly Hills' and unconfirmed rumors it would sell its Epcot Center theme park.

Other gainers included UAL, up 2 1/2 to 37 1/2; Data General, up 1 1/2 to 45 1/2; US West, up 1 1/2 to 91 1/2; Pacific Telephone, up 1 1/2 to 83 1/2; and Chrysler, up 2 1/2 to 65 1/2.

Gainers outnumbered losers by about 5-3 on the New York Stock Exchange.

Big Board volume totaled 129.91 million shares, against 144.40 million last week's session.

The NYSE's composite index rose 0.87 to 124.58.

Nationwide turnover in NYSE-listed issues, including trades in those stocks on regional exchanges and in the over-the-counter market, totaled 155.08 million shares.

Standard & Poor's index of 400 industrials rose 1.92 to 238.70, and S&P's 500-stock composite index was up 1.60 to 416.24.

The American Stock Exchange market value index fell 1.73 to 243.84.

Group's study claims misuse of Tax incentives labeled 'failure'

By JIM LUTHER The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Forty-four big profitable corporations used tax incentives for investment to wipe out their federal income taxes during President Reagan's first term, but actually cut jobs and spending for new plant and equipment, a private research group said Monday.

On the other hand, said Citizens for Tax Justice, 43 companies that paid at least one-third of their profits in federal taxes increased investment by 21 percent and boosted their employment rolls by 4 percent from 1981 through 1984.

The report questioned the value of the estimated $20 billion a year worth of incentives that the federal tax laws give corporations in an effort to spur investment and job creation.

The House, in passing a major tax overhaul bill last December, reduced some of the incentives.

But Reagan is now demanding that the Senate restore some of them if the legislation is to win his support.

"Our riverboat gamble with throwing money at corporations simply has not panned out," Robert S. McIntyre, director of federal tax policy at Citizens for Tax Justice, said in releasing the report.

"Corporate tax incentives have been a huge failure at stimulating more investment or jobs."

Citizens for Tax Justice, a liberal oriented group which engages in research and lobbying, is financed by labor unions, churches and various "public interest" organizations.

Some of the nation's richest corporations, instead of using billions of dollars that Congress has approved for job creation, "took the money and spent it on virtually everything but new investment," the study concluded.

The study, based chiefly on the companies' reports to shareholders, found, for example, that Boeing Co., a major defense contractor, lost $2.1 billion in profits during the four years, paid no federal income tax and received refunds of $245 million.

But Boeing investments declined 38 percent, employment dropped 18 percent and dividends rose 1 percent, the study said.

Harold Carr, public affairs director for Boeing in Seattle, did not dispute the tax figures but said the firm spent $2.4 billion on research and development during the period — "when we went through the final stages of developing, manufacturing, testing and certification of three new commercial transports, the 767, 757 and 737-300."

"Airlines order planes when economic conditions are good," Carr said. Reflecting those increased orders, he added, is that Boeing employment is about 3,000 above the figure at the end of 1981.

The study is a follow-up to one done by the organization last August, which surveyed 275 of the nation's biggest and most profitable corporations and found that 50 of them had paid no federal income tax over the 1981-84 period.

During at least one of the four years, 129 used tax breaks to not only wipe out their tax liability but receive rebates of past taxes paid.

"Although the companies may have paid no federal income tax during one or more of the four years, that does not mean they avoided the tax collector altogether. For example, they paid federal Social Security taxes on workers' wages; most paid state and local taxes; many paid taxes to foreign countries and, under the law, took that into account when they calculated U.S. taxes."

"If a company had a string of losing years before 1981, it could 'carry over' some of those losses into a later year and use them to reduce its taxes in that year."

The new study of 259 profitable firms concluded that:

-Forty-four companies with pre-tax profits totaling $53.6 billion paid no federal income tax during the four years and received $2.1 billion in rebates of tax paid in prior years. They reduced investment in new plant and equipment by 4 percent and cut the number of employees by 6 percent.

-They increased dividends, raised the pay of their chief executives and increased the pay of their chief executives by 54 percent.

Included in this group were companies with the largest total tax refunds: Boeing Co., Dow Chemical Co., ITT and Pancoast.

The 43 highest-profit companies in the survey — those paying at least one-third of their profits in federal income taxes — increased investment by 21 percent and raised the pay of their chief executives by 54 percent.

This group was led by VF Corp., Whirlpool Corp., R.J. Reynolds Industries, Kellogg's Co., Procter & Gamble, Briggs & Stratton, Cooper Tire & Rubber Co. and Campbell Soup Co.

How to keep your shirt at an auction

Auctions have swung into an upsurge with sales in virtually all collection categories (ranging from furniture to Renaissance paintings) hitting all-time highs and transactions at auction houses also reaching impressive records.

"The trend has been in the making for the past decade, but suddenly it has come to the spotlight. Individuals are clearly responsible, going to auctions to sell their collections rather than going to dealers," a spokesman for the world-famous New York-based Sotheby's told my research associate, Ellen Herberman. "They feel they can get a better price."

"Individuals are also trying to bypass dealers and get treasures at bargain prices by going directly to auction houses," agrees a spokesman for the equally world-famous Christie's.

Auctions are and always have been fun for you. Visit museums and galleries, read art journals and magazines specializing in your area. Talk with dealers, merchants, other collectors.

Become familiar with which auction houses deal in the items you want.

Auctions can be an easy way to lose your shirt as well. If you're a newcomer to the auction world, you have a lot of homework to do before you can even think of bidding on that Persian rug or vintage wine. To get the feel of this world, you must attend many auctions to see how they work and to observe the range of items and prices.

Many auction houses specialize in particular items, or offer collectibles, such as circus memorabilia and dolls.

If you have a particular enthusiasm — Russian icons, say, or Japanese prints — learn everything you can. Visit museums and galleries, read art journals and magazines specializing in your area.

Once you start to bid, concentrate. Everyone has heard tales of the innocent who scratches his eyebrow and unintentionally buys a masterpiece. I suppose such events do happen but I've only heard the tales.

To keep up with current prices, consult the price lists that the larger auction houses publish.

When you attend auctions, buy the catalogs. The catalogs describe the various items for sale and often include estimates of the prices expected at auction as well as schedules of future auctions. Jot down the price each item sells for.

Attend auction previews, once you're ready to bid. That way you concentrate on those items you want, make notes and delete or add to your wish list. Do not bid on items you haven't had a chance to inspect.

When you are ready to attend auctions as a bidder, bring along your checkbook, cash or credit cards, and find out the terms of the sale.

You will have to pay sales tax and, at major houses, a premium (usually 10 percent of the sales price) on items you bid for successfully.

Once you start to bid, concentrate. Everyone has heard tales of the innocent who scratches his eyebrow and unintentionally buys a masterpiece. I suppose such events do happen but I've only heard the tales.

Familiarize yourself with the auctioneer's style before you start to bid on items. Perhaps most important, know when to quit.

You, as an individual private buyer, have one major task in bidding: overestimate; you don't have to worry about resale value. But you do have to worry about next month's bills. Decide, away from the auction, just how much you are willing and able to spend.

The fast pace of auctions can produce a curious effect: After a while, $500 or $6,000 doesn't sound like that much money. And that's just when you're in the most danger of overspending.

And what if you have items you want to sell at auction? Most auction houses will appraise them for free. If, however, you are the seller, expect to pay a percent commission.

Sylvia Porter writes on consumer matters for Universal Press Syndicate.

Union may strike Nampa packer

NAMPA (AP) — A breakdown in contract negotiations for 120 workers at the H.H. Keim Co. Ltd. meat packing plant in Nampa has led to union issuance of a "right-to-strike" notice and a company promise to hire replacements should employees walk off the job. Keim had been negotiating for a new contract with members of United Food & Commercial Workers Local 368-A since expiration of the previous pact on Jan. 11, company attorney Gary Lofland said. The local issued its right-to-strike notice on Tuesday, he said. "Negotiations have concluded and the union has rejected the contract" calling for a wage freeze, Lofland said. "We have informed the union that if they walk, we intend to hire permanent replacements."

Montana checks meat plant future

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — Whether a major meat-packing plant can operate successfully in Montana will be the subject of a study the state Department of Agriculture expects to contract for this week. "We don't have one major meat-packing plant in Montana any more," department head Keith Kelly says. The project will mark the second phase of a meat-marketing study conducted by the department with funds from the Montana Beef Council. The Governor's Council on Economic Development and the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The first phase, completed last year, looked at foreign marketing of beef. Kelly says the second-phase study will examine whether the closed Midland Empire Packing Co. packing plant or the K-Bar Meats plant — both in Billings — could be bought, reopened and profitably operated. "Since the Midland plant closed last year, cattle in the state have been shipped to Rapid City, S.D., or Boise, Idaho, he says. "Why can Rapid City do it when we can't in Billings, Mont.?" Kelly asks. "The study also will look into whether a new, state-of-the-art plant would be a better investment, he adds. Kelly says the majority of beef goes through three or four major packers, but that he thinks Montana could support a plant to handle other cows sold for hamburger and to package other meats for Montana locations. "Hamburgers are always selling, so to be replaced by younger buyers, he says, so some beef would always be available for a local packing plant. A local packing plant also would enable Montana restaurants and

Corn harvest best estimate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Last year's record corn harvest turned out even larger than had been expected, the Agriculture Department said Monday in an annual review. The 1985 corn harvest was about 8.87 billion bushels, up 16 percent from 1984 and about 150 million bushels more than the department's last estimate of 8.72 billion bushels in November. The previous high was 8.24 billion bushels in 1982. Corn yields averaged a record 118 bushels per acre, up 11.8 bushels from 1984 and 4.8 bushels more than the 1982 record. Overall, 1985 crop production was rated at 110 percent of a 1977 base level used for comparison. The "all crops" indicator, however, fell short of the record of 118 percent in 1982. It dropped to 88 percent in 1983 as a result of drought and government acreage cutbacks, rising to 110 percent in 1984. Total feed grains, mostly corn but also including sorghum, oats and barley, were shown at 274 million metric tons, up 16 percent from 237 million tons in 1984.
