'Fraud,' cry bishops; Marcos takes big lead

By MIGUEL C. SUAREZ
The Associated Press

MANILA, Philippines — President Ferdinand E. Marcos took an unbeatable lead Friday in the official, government-controlled vote count of an election the nation's Roman Catholic bishops denounced as "unparalleled in fraudulence."

Marcos responded by saying in an American television interview that the bishops "used the priests and nuns not only to help the opposition but to destroy the electoral process."

Despite Marcos' overall lead of nearly 1.5 million votes, his challenger, Corason Aquino, outpolled him by nearly 350,000 votes in Manila, according to the official National Assembly count.

Only 2.5 million ballots were cast in Manila in the Feb. 7 presidential election, according to the official tally. The city has 4.3 million registered voters. Critics claimed the names of more than 1 million Aquino supporters were improperly struck from the rolls in the capital.

In the statement issued Friday, the bishops said a government that "assumes or retains power through fraudulent means has no moral basis" and urged Filipinos to mount a "non-violent struggle for justice."

Mrs. Aquino, who accuses Marcos of stealing the election, said "the bishops have spoken. It will be our turn Sunday," when a rally is planned at which she will announce a campaign of non-violent protest.

Marcos responded to the bishops' allegation in an interview Friday night with CBS News anchorman Dan Rather.

Marcos was asked about the bishops' claim there was fraud and replied: "My reaction to this is now they've finally bared their real position and that was that they were for the opposition all the time, that they were campaigning. They used the priests and nuns not only to help the opposition but to destroy the electoral process."

Rather asked, "Are you accusing Roman Catholic priests and nuns of election fraud?"

Marcos said, "Oh yes, they are facing charges in court. We caught some of them with guns and we caught some of them in the company of the communist New Peoples Army."

"They're talking about non-violence and they're engaged in violence," Marcos added.

When Rather asked Marcos if he could "assure the safety of Mrs. Aquino, the president said, "Oh, I don't think there is any problem about her safety. She has the protection of the New Peoples Army of the Communist Party."

He then was asked if a civil war is possible and replied, "Of course not. Civil war? We can handle anything that they will throw at us."

The church's declaration, issued at a news conference, was its first judgment on an election since 1953 when predominantly Catholic Filipinos, 54 million gained independence from the United States in 1946. Both Marcos and Mrs. Aquino are Catholics.

Connie Hansen clears campaign-deck

TWIN FALLS — Connie Hansen, wife of former U.S. Rep. George Hansen, said Friday that she had resigned her position with the federal government and would seek the 2nd Congressional District seat her husband lost in the last election.

Federal law prohibits employees from taking part in politics, so Hansen has been barred from campaigning while working as a special assistant in the Intergovernmental Relations division of the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development in Washington, D.C.

Hansen made the decision to give up her job and run for office after receiving "a lot of encouragement both in Idaho and Washington (D.C.)" in the last 6 months, she said.

Earlier in the day an official at her office in Washington, D.C., had announced that she had submitted a letter of resignation after she was questioned by The Times-News about reports that Hansen was using sick leave while in Idaho to attend Lincoln Day dinners, including the Thursday dinner in Twin Falls.

Hansen said Friday at a GOP dinner in Jerome that she had had an illness that resulted in laryngitis and had been away from her Washington job this week on a combination of annual and sick leave. She had not been attending dinners every night, she said.

Early in the week, her office told The Times-News that Hansen was out sick and unavailable for an interview.

Again Friday a receptionist at Intergovernmental Relations said Hansen was on sick leave, when asked if Hansen had resigned her position.

Drew Albritten, executive assistant to the deputy undersecretary for intergovernmental affairs, also said that she was on sick leave. She had called in "a few days ago" and said she was not feeling well, he told The Times-News.

Later Friday afternoon, he said that "Last week she was not feeling well I made an assumption" that she was still sick, he said. Asked to clarify whether it was this week or last that she had called in sick, he said that the weeks had blended together because he had worked over the weekend.

During a third conversation Friday, he said that he had just heard that HUD had received a letter of resignation that day. He also said that he was mistaken on the matter of sick leave and had just heard that she was actually on annual

Tylenol firm offers reward

By MARLENE AIG

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. — Potassium cyanide found in two bottles of Extra-Strength Tylenol capsules apparently came from the same source, authorities said Friday, and the manufacturer offered a $100,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the poisoner.

"This is an act of terrorism, pure and simple," said James E. Burke, chairman of Johnson & Johnson.

Scientists determined that a second bottle of Tylenol contained the same poison that had killed a 23-year-old woman last weekend — an indication, authorities said, that the same hands were involved in both tamperings.

"The reports we're getting is that there was no tampering afterwards. So this would lend support to the theory that somewhere during the manufacturing process is when the cyanide was put into the capsule in the plant," said Westchester County District Attorney Carl Vergari.

But he said tampering at the plant was "one avenue we are exploring, but not the only one."

The first bottle was produced in May in Fort Washington, Pa., Burke said, while the second was made in July at a plant in Puerto Rico. It was not known whether the two lots might have been stored together somewhere in the distribution chain.

"Although the manufacturer and the Food and Drug Administration warned consumers nationwide not to use Tylenol capsules for now and at least 10 states banned sales of the capsules, no poisoned Tylenol had been found outside Westchester County in the northern suburbs of New York City."

Burke said the company would give a reward for a new bottle of Tylenol tablets or capsules, which are coated pills, to any consumer who

Launch pad, boosters draw panel attention

By IRE FLORES
The Associated Press

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — Presidential investigators examined Challenger's launch pad Wednesday, Friday, looking for evidence to explain a puff of black smoke that indicated trouble as the shuttle lifted off on its fatal flight.

"With the exception of the orbiter, everything is being looked into," said panel chairman William P. Rogers after the commission ended two days of intensive closed-door discussions and hands-on inspections of the boosters and Launch Pad 39B.

As the commission completed its investigation at Kennedy Space Center, the space agency reported that Challenger was rocked violently as flame apparently burst through the right rocket booster about 11 seconds before it exploded in a fireball.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration released a time line, prepared from photographs and data radioed from the shuttle, that shows the "plume of black smoke appeared on the right booster's lower segment only .445 of a second after liftoff and was visible for about 12 seconds before disappearing."

Smoke again appears on the side of the booster at 58 seconds. An intense flame then is visible in this area a little more than a second later. The flame is visible in the rocket cell at that time, causing the left booster to begin tugging the shuttle slightly off course, according to the time line.

The shuttle's computers tried to compensate for the difference by moving the right wing flap at 62 seconds.

Shortly after that, the computers caused the engine nozzles to swivel, in efforts to compensate. This caused Challenger to move up and down, but NASA spokesman Jim Mizell said the crew may not have felt the motions because of tremendous wind

Governor considering blocking foreclosures

The Associated Press

BOISE — Seeing what he fears could become an overwhelming number of farm foreclosures in the state, Gov. John Evans said Friday he has directed his economic analysts to begin working on proposals that could stop foreclosures if they hit crisis proportions.

"I've just been becoming more concerned all the time about the severity of this agricultural situation," Evans said. "When you talk in terms of those foreclosures, you're talking about undermining the integrity of the economy of the state."

The proposition, still without any specific details, would be intended to offer some hope to "those farmers on the brink of being in serious trouble," the governor said, add that if he pursues the idea he would expect some legislative action this year.

State Agriculture Director Dick Rush had not comments on any specific proposal, but he suggested that "a foreclosure moratorium on the state level could present some major problems and may not be viewed as beneficial by all farmers."

"We're preliminarily looking at the prospect of a moratorium," Evans said. "We would have to have substantial strong evidence of need and strong support from the legislative leadership."

Evans said that if a plan is developed it would probably involve either a direct one-year moratorium on foreclosures authorized by the Legislature if circumstances in the next few weeks are found to be of

If you like it hot, head for Bullhead City Gunnison ranks as nation's cold spot

By RANDOLPHE SCHMID
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Gunnison, Colo., jumped into first place as the nation's most consistently cold community last year, while Bullhead City edged out two other Arizona towns to remain the nation's hottest spot.

Gunnison's high altitude location in the Rocky Mountains helped that community record the nation's lowest temperature 74 times in 1985, according to rankings published in "Weatherwise" magazine.

Gunnison moved ahead of perennial icebox West Yellowstone, Mont., which recorded the national low 62 times in 1985.

West Yellowstone had held the coldest spot ranking in both 1983 and 1984, according to the statistics compiled by geographer David H. Hickey of Ohio Wesleyan University.

Hickey did note that, while Gunnison had more record cold days last year, West Yellowstone's average temperature is lower than that of Gunnison in every month except January and February.

Bullhead City was the hottest place in the United States on 44 occasions in 1985.

It was the second straight year as the country's hottest for Bullhead City in the rankings; Bullhead City ranked fifth in 1983, but it jumped to first place in 1984 and held on last year.

The top rankings were close last year, though, with Lake Havasu City, Ariz., second with 41 days as the nation's hottest; and Gila Bend, Ariz., third with 38 hottest days. Gila Bend, which had been No. 1 in heat in 1983, dropped to seventh place in 1984.

The rankings are based on the number of days a community is listed as the hottest or coldest in the nation by the National Weather Service, and they cover only the 48 contiguous states.

Here are the nation's hot spots in 1985, and the number of days on which the community was hottest in the country:

Bullhead City, Ariz., 44; Lake Havasu City, Ariz., 41; Gila Bend, Ariz., 38; Palm Springs, Calif., 33; Fresno, Texas, 29; Laredo and McAllen, Texas, 28 each; Laughlin, Nev., 23; Thermal, Calif., 20; Fort Myers, Fla., 16; Ocala, Fla., 13.

The cold spots of 1985:

Gunnison, Colo., 74; West Yellowstone, Mont., 62; Truckee, Calif., 27; Yellowstone, Wyo., 24; International Falls, Minn., and Jackson, Wyo., 13 each; Butte, Mont., and Marquette, Mich., 11 each; Hibbing and Warroad, Minn., nine each; Houlton, Maine and Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., eight each.

 Allbritton declined to say whether he had heard that and referred The Times-News to HUD's personnel division. There, a personal assistant Laverne Dixon said records of leave information were kept at individual offices and referred The Times-News back to the intergovernmental affairs office.

Alan Greenwald, deputy undersecretary for intergovernmental affairs, was out of town Friday and unavailable for comment.
 Last summer Hansen said she had "happened upon" the job of a position as a special assistant at HUD in April and had taken the job. She said it was a political appointment and it had to come with the White House's consent.

 "My primary role at HUD is special adviser for women's programs," she said. She worked in the Intergovernmental Relations division at HUD, and consulted with the department on women's programs in a variety of projects.

Allbritton said Hansen had the federal job rank of GS-15. Those jobs start at about $52,000, Dixon said.
 Hansen will face five other Republican candidates who have already announced their intentions in the 2nd District congressional race. They include Idaho Falls broadcaster Mel Richardson; former Jerome county prosecutor Dan Adams; state Rep. J.F. Chabaud of Idaho Falls; state Sen. Dan Watkins of Idaho Falls; and state Rep. Gary Bobbins of Delirich.

 That seat is now held by Rep. Richard Stallings, who unseated George Hansen after the former representative's four-count felony conviction for failing to disclose personal financial information. The case stemmed from laws that require public persons to disclose their spouses' finances.

 wished to exchange Tylenol capsules.
 Police said they had no suspects and discounted a letter which claimed responsibility for the poisoning, demanded $2 million and threatened to poison other products. The man who admitted writing the note was charged only with an unrelated credit card fraud.

Dr. Frank Young, FDA commissioner, said the department's Cincinnati laboratory had analyzed the contents of the second bottle and believed that the poison in both bottles came from the same source.

He could not say how the poison was introduced into the box. The seals and wrapping appeared to be unbroken.

"I'm not going to speculate (on the cause)," he said.
 Commissioner Richard P. Feynman, a Nobel laureate in physics, told a news media pool reporter that O-ring seals at the right booster's lower segment appeared to be "the most likely cause" of the explosion that destroyed the shuttle and killed its seven crew members.

 But he cautioned another cause might be discovered.
 "Every time we think of a possibility, it just doesn't mean that's it," Feynman said. "We write down all the things we can think about and scratch them off one by one until we isolate and conclude that this is it."

 crisis continued or standby authority for the governor to declare an economic emergency and impose the moratorium himself should a crisis arise after lawmakers adjourned.
 The governor said if lawmakers failed to act during the regular session - should he recommend a moratorium plan, he would not hesitate to call them back into special session later in the year to consider moratorium legislation if the situation warrants.

 That decision will be made based on the findings of a new survey of farm finances he directed the Agricultural Extension Service to conduct earlier this week. A similar survey last spring found that between 2,500 and 3,000 of the state's 24,000 farmers expected to be out of business within less than two years, because of the rural depression.

Richard Gardner, the analyst who has been reviewing moratorium legislation for the governor, suggested that any bill would follow the lines of legislation already in effect in other states or that was upheld as constitutional in several states during the Great Depression.

Senate rejects day care compromise

BOISE (AP) — A sharply divided Idaho Senate has rejected a watered-down compromise on statewide daycare licensing that supporters called the only possible chance for ending Idaho's distinction as the last state in the nation without some kind of mandatory regulation.

The bill, substituted earlier this week for the comprehensive, uniform state-run licensing plan proposed by the governor's daycare task force, was rejected Friday on a 22-20 vote as three members tentatively supporting it earlier changed sides.

licensing and those who want to keep regulation in local hands. That split has led to an impasse on daycare legislation for the last several sessions. The coalition has pledged to make daycare regulation an issue in this fall's campaign if lawmakers adjourn again without passing an acceptable plan.

"This is a very simple approach," argued Sen. Michael Crapo, R-Idaho Falls, one of the drafters of the compromise. "It addresses the real needs and real problems without unnecessary state expense."

but backers of the task force proposal claimed the compromise would result in disparate standards from county to county and even fire district to fire district.

Sen. Gail Bray, D-Boise, said that had the measure passed it would have been nothing but a "hollow piece of legislation that will stand a long time because the people will think we did something."

All the Democrats except for Marj Calabretta of Osburn, a drafter of the compromise, voted against the measure and were joined by nine Republicans, including three who had supported the plan earlier in the week. One of them, Dane Watkins of Idaho Falls, said he would vote against any daycare regulation bill, no matter which faction proposed it.

But Sen. Denton Darrington, R-Deer, also a staunch opponent of any regulatory program, called the compromise "the only chance we have had since I've been in the Senate to move a bill along."

Politicians occasionally deliver their own satire

By DEAN MILLER
Times-News writer

BOISE — Political satire doesn't always flow from the pens of columnists or cartoonists. Sometimes, politicians deliver the bitter-sweet pills themselves.

Rep. Dean Haugenson, R-Coeur d'Alene, Monday will present to the House State Affairs Committee a bill that would amend state law to allow only Republicans to be governor of the Gem State.

The measure would be in violation of the Constitution, and Haugenson wrote it that way. He is trying to focus the attention of the Legislature on what he says was a wrong vote this week.

Haugenson said the requirements are unconstitutional, just as it would be unconstitutional to write a law barring Democrats from the governor's office.

The grizzled North Idaho maverick Republican joked Friday that he thinks he has the votes in the Republican-dominated House State Affairs Committee to get approval for the measure.

"It's time in the session for a little bit of fun, and maybe it will focus people's thinking about that," he said.

Boise legislator seeking help of fellows in drug education

By DEAN MILLER
Times-News writer

BOISE — Hoping to promote drug abuse awareness, Rep. Jack Kennevik, R-Boise, is trying to harness the visibility and clout of Idaho's legislators to his fight.

Starting just after the legislative session began, Kennevik set up a series of five seminars to educate lawmakers about drugs and drug abuse so that they can go home and speak against abuse.

He said Intermountain Hospital and Dr. Michael Barnett of Boise have volunteered time to help teach the program.

"What we wanted to do was to be able to take these legislators and be able to get them involved in this epidemic of drug use," Kennevik said.

He said Friday that by getting legislators educated, they would then be able to go to their communities and be catalysts for the various drug education programs there.

"We've got people that represent the whole state. It's a problem not only in Boise, it's out in Timbuctoo as well," he said.

Magle Valley legislators among the 37 who have attended the seminars include Rep. Vard Chatburn, R-Albion; Rep. Jerry Callen, R-Jerome; and Rep. Donna Scott, R-Twin Falls.

In the seminars, legislators have met with recovering teen-aged alcoholics and sniffed the odor of burning marijuana.

Kennevik said the sessions were all video-taped and may be used in other states and around the Gem State.

On the first day of the seminars, legislators got a look at a variety of drugs, from pills to cocaine.

On the second day, members saw three films about how peer pressure drives students to use and abuse drugs. The same day, a pair of teen-aged recovering drug abusers told their story.

The effect of drug abuse on family members was discussed on the third day and members were exposed to the idea that group therapy can help families deal with a drug-abusing child or parent.

On the final day, members were told about the various church, school, and civic organization programs in place in the state.

Kennevik said business groups in Idaho have expressed interest in drug awareness programs to help them bring drug-abusing employees' productivity up through treatment.

Senate vote on day care

BOISE (AP) — Here is the 22-20 vote by which the Senate on Friday defeated a compromise daycare licensing bill. A "no" vote is a vote against the compromise.

Democrats for (1) — Calabretta, Republicans for (19) — Anderson, Batt, Beck, Budge, Chapman, Crapo, Crystal, Darrington, Gilbert, Little, Bakony, Rieks, Risch, Rydalsch, Staker, Sverdsten, Tomlinaga, Twilges and Varborough.

Democrats against (13) — Beltspaecher, Blyuev, Bray, Dobler, Horsch, Kiebert, Lacy, Lannen, Marley, McLaughlin, Peavey, Reed and Sweeney.

Republicans against (9) — Carlson, Fairchild, Meitoberis, Noh, Parry, Ringert, Smyser, Thorne and Watkins.

House defeats another hike in sales tax

BOISE — For the third time, the Idaho House has voted down a proposed increase in the sales tax.

The 49-35 vote Friday, after a 90-minute debate, killed the latest attempt to boost Idaho's sales tax to 5 percent starting March 1, and it came despite warnings from sponsors that it was "last chance" legislation.

"We need leadership. We need to tell the people what is the condition of state government, and work for long-range tax reform," said Rep. Larry Echolfaw, D-Pocatello, telling House members that more revenue is needed.

Again, Democrats held the balance of power, as Republicans voted 35-32 for the tax bill but all 17 Democrats voted against it. Two other bills that have gone down to defeat called for a 16-month, 1-cent increase in the sales tax and a 1-cent, four-month increase.

Bill rejection deals Callen a double surprise

By DEAN MILLER
Times-News writer

BOISE — Jerome Republican Rep. Jerry Callen got caught by a surprise Friday when the House rejected his proposal to limit teacher contract talks to money matters.

More surprising for Callen than the 50-33 vote against his plan were two conservative lawmakers who joined in killing the bill.

Rep. Lyle Allan, R-Caldwell, voted with the House Education Committee to send the bill to the House floor for debate, but voted against the bill Friday.

Allan is an arch-conservative and has been a frequent critic of the Idaho Education Association and National Education Association.

Joining Allan in switching from a positive vote in committee to a "no" vote on the House floor was Rep. Dolores Crow, R-Nampa.

Callen said the two likely switched their votes because of pressure from the IEA. Allan said she is no less a critic of the IEA than ever, but has talked to teachers and negotiators in her district and was told the bill would be seen as a slap at teachers.

"I've had concerns for a while and I've told Rep. Callen that... I feel that teachers should be able to negotiate period."

Allan has already surprised fellow conservatives once this session. Last week she voted against a bill to require the teaching of creationism along with the theory of evolution.

"You have to vote your conscience. If I haven't proven I'm independent yet, I don't know what you have to do," said Allan.

Crow said she felt the bill had a lot of merit in light of year-long negotiations, but voted against it after talking to teachers in her district. "In my district, we haven't had these problems. My teachers said they felt it was a punitive measure."

Rep. Donna Scott, R-Twin Falls, who voted for the bill and distanced himself on Friday, said the bill gained support in the Magic Valley last year during the Twin Falls School District's 21-month negotiations.

She told the House that school administrators support the bill.

Rep. Jeff Stoker, R-Twin Falls, said he voted in favor of the bill because he feels non-salary issues should not be the subject of negotiations that may lead to strikes. "They shouldn't be hammerheads over these issues, they (non-salary issues) shouldn't be a part of whether they go to class on Monday."

Callen said he plans to submit a new version of the bill later in the session.

Callen said Friday that his bill was not anti-teacher, nor was his move "a personal vendetta."

The Jerome Education Association Thursday issued a statement that blasted Callen's proposed bill. The group said Callen was trying to do at the state level what he could not enforce locally, limiting talks to money and insurance only.

Callen said he was asked to introduce the bill by "a lot of concerned administrators" around the state to relieve problems in negotiations.

"It had a lot of support," he said.

Grazing fees will remain at 1985 level

By BOB FREUND
and KENNETH A. BROWN
Times-News writers

Ranchers who graze their cattle and sheep on public rangeland will pay the same federal rate this year as in 1985, President Reagan has decided.

Reagan Friday signed an executive order setting federal grazing fees at a minimum of $1.35 per animal unit month indefinitely. He also continued the existing fee formula until Congress takes action on a new grazing policy.

"We feel continuing this formula, with the minimum fee level, will provide Congress with additional time to decide the grazing fee issue without negatively impacting the economy of the Western livestock industry," Secretary of the Interior Donald Hodel announced Friday.

Under Reagan's order, the fee could rise if conditions get better in the livestock industry, but it will not fall below $1.35.

Cattle and sheep producers have faced the possibility of paying higher fees for use ranges since the expiration of a seven-year trial period in 1985.

A study by the two agencies that administer federal rangeland, the Interior Department and the U.S. Department of Agriculture, evaluated the current fee and a number of alternatives ranging to $6.55 per animal unit month.

An appraisal also valued the public range in Idaho at $5.11 per animal unit month, several times the current fee. The livestock industry has loudly disputed the appraisal, saying it was based on invalid research.

Originally, grazing fee levels were to be set by congressional action. After 15 months of negotiation, however, agreements between livestock interests and environmental interests fell apart only days before Congress adjourned. Environmentalists had been pushing for higher grazing fees.

Republican Sens. Steve Symms and Jim McClure, who chairs the Senate's Energy and Natural Resources Committee, and Rep. Larry Craig Friday called Reagan's decision a major victory.

"The key to this is the president's order directs them to continue the current formula," Symms said Friday in Twin Falls. He also said Reagan's decision was a sign he cares about farmers and listened to Western legislators.

"We've supported him in the past and urge him to help us on this matter," Symms said.

McClure, who was in Idaho Falls Friday, also welcomed Reagan's order.

Filer rancher Gerald Tews, who heads the Grazing Fee Task Force for the national Public Lands Council, said the decision represents a "cooling off period" allowing the livestock industry, other interest groups and legislators to look to the future.

"We would consider it a victory of sorts. It does give us the chance to..."

Sawtooth seeks to head off foreclosure

The Associated Press

BOISE — In an attempt to block a foreclosure action against its two radio stations, Sawtooth Communications Corp. of Twin Falls has filed for protection from creditors with the U.S. Bankruptcy Court.

The voluntary bankruptcy filing in the Boise court listed Sawtooth's assets at $92,342 in radio stations KLIJ-AM and KMTW-FM. However, the company also has about $1.85 million in liabilities, including more than $1.4 million in debts to Firstmark Leasing Corp.

The Indiana company filed suit against Sawtooth in U.S. District Court in Boise last month, asking permission to foreclose on its radio stations and equipment to help satisfy the debt.

Sawtooth owners Charles R. and Jolene L. Tuma, Twin Falls, also asked the bankruptcy court for permission to use its cash collateral to continue paying monthly operating expenses estimated at $48,000, including about $23,000 in payroll and employee benefits.

"We're just trying to reorganize and keep our act going," Charles Tuma said Friday.

According to the bankruptcy documents filed for Sawtooth by Rupert attorney Brent Rolinson, the company owed almost $17,000 in federal taxes and more than $2,100 in state taxes. Sawtooth also owed Robert J. Colner, Twin Falls, more than $200,000 for a second mortgage on KMTW, according to the documents.

Sawtooth said it would be forced to close down its radio stations without paying its employees and other expenses unless it was given permission to use its accounts receivable despite the foreclosure action brought by Firstmark Leasing.

Both radio stations currently are operating on normal schedules. Sawtooth Communications has no current plans to change operations.

The court action, which was filed Tuesday, protects the company from its creditors while it draws up a plan for regaining solvency.

Farmers gain OK to import workers

By BOB FREUND
Times-News writer

RUPERT — The Snake River Farmers Association has obtained permission from the U.S. Department of Labor to import as many as 1,300 alien workers for irrigation jobs in Idaho farm fields.

Association President George Grant Jr. said federal officials have approved the terms of the group's request under the H-2 program, a special provision in immigration law that allows foreign labor into the country for specific jobs.

The Department of Labor has been reviewing several sets of applications for various starting dates. Close to 240 association members have applied to admit 1,300 workers for irrigation work between April 1 and Oct. 1 this year, Grant said.

Farmers have said it is difficult to physically punishing jobs of moving irrigation pipes during the growing season.

Many have hired illegal aliens to help the pipes. But the aliens also can be arrested and deported by federal immigration agents at any time, depriving farmers of their work force and possibly damaging crops.

Under the H-2 program, the jobs must be offered to domestic laborers before any alien workers are hired. "Right now we have 21 referrals from state employment agencies) out of 1,300 jobs," Grant said.

The workers for Idaho fields are being recruited from Mexico. Many have moved irrigation pipes for farmers in previous years.

The alien workers are admitted legally for a specific job and a specified work period. The employer pays a federally approved wage and furnishes housing. The workers also are covered by workmen's compensation insurance, Grant said.

The workers pay their way to the jobs, but they are reimbursed if they stay on their jobs for more than half the work period.

The Snake River Farmers Association, which was formed last year, handles the necessary paperwork for the farmers. The Rupert-based association now has close to 270 members in southern Idaho and Oregon, Grant said.

South forest avalanche danger grows

By KENNETH A. BROWN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Avalanche danger was reported Friday to be extremely high in the southern sections of the Sawtooth National Forest.

After a string of avalanches which temporarily blocked roads in the South Hills and on national forest lands near Albion Thursday, the Forest Service has recommended that skiers and others avoid backcountry areas and stay within developed recreation areas for at least the next two days.

"The avalanche danger is extremely high in the southern parts of the forest," said Ed Waldapfel, the Forest Service office in Twin Falls. The reason, he explained, is that recent heavy snows have fallen on top of a base which was crusted by rain and warmer temperatures. Areas in the South Hills received as much as 14 inches of new snow Thursday, Waldapfel said.

The net effect is conditions which are "extremely unstable," he said.

There were three avalanches in Rock Creek Canyon, which temporarily blocked the access road to Magic Mountain ski area Thursday. There were also two avalanches in Howell Canyon—which temporarily blocked the road to Pomerelle ski area. Waldapfel added that there were also reports of slides north of Fairfield on the road to Soldier Mountain.

Cross-country skiers should stay out of undeveloped backcountry areas," Waldapfel said. "There is, however, no threat to skiers in developed areas," since ski resort operators have been grooming and managing trails.

Butch Harper of the Sawtooth's Ketchum Ranger District said, "Conditions are right" for avalanches, but there hadn't been any problems reported so far.

It was snowing in Ketchum Friday afternoon, however, with forecasts predicting that it would snow through the night, Harper said. More snow, he said, could change avalanche conditions in the north.

While risks were not as great in the northern sections of the forest, Harper suggested that cross-country skiers avoid steep slopes and known avalanche chutes. Other areas should be safe for cross-country skiing, he said.

Information on snow conditions and avalanches are available for the northern portions of the forest by calling 622-8027.

Noxious weed control issue takes step toward resolution

By KENNETH A. BROWN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The adoption of 13 recommendations for weed control on public lands in Idaho by the Idaho Noxious Weed Control Workgroup is "a real significant step" to resolve the controversial issue, says state BLM Director Delmar

The Boise-based environmental group charged that the two federal agencies had not performed an adequate analysis of the possible health effects of the chemical herbicides used in control efforts.

Vall, in Twin Falls Wednesday, praised the group's decision as an important part of getting all of the concerns on the table, in light of the diverse interests represented in the workgroup.

The weed group is composed of representatives from the BLM, Forest Service, weed infestations; preventing land-use activities which are conducive to the introduction and spread of noxious weeds; and requiring the continued monitoring of noxious weed treatment sites — including recommendations for additional treatment and site rehabilitation.

The workgroup's recently approved recommendations also include an "Integrated Noxious Weed Management Plan" that establishes "treatment priorities" for infested areas. The three key points of that plan include: an education and awareness program to help public land managers and users recognize new, noxious weed invader species; giving high treatment priority to new species of invading noxious weeds; and managing and reducing larger, well-established infestations.

The BLM and the Forest Service formed the workgroup in October to identify the issues and options for controlling noxious weeds in Idaho. The two agencies also hoped that the group would alter the course of confrontational and litigation that has surrounded the issue over the past year.

Vall said the BLM is just finishing the final review of its "environmental impact statement" on weed control. The public comment period closes Feb. 15, Vall said.

After comments are reviewed, Vall said, he will be signing a documented decision on the agency's weed control program.

Hispanic Catholics adhere to doctrine

Religion

NEW YORK (AP) — A new survey of Hispanic Catholics in this country has found that they are more likely than U.S. Catholics as a whole to endorse church teachings, say the authors.

While less than half accept the church's anti-contraception position, a majority of Hispanic Catholics agree with the church on abortion, pre-marital sex and marital fidelity, the survey found.

"Hispanic Catholics appear to be significantly more in keeping with the church teaching than the Catholic population in general," said the Rev. Roberto O. Gonzalez and Michael J. O'Connor, authors of "The Hispanic Catholic in the United States," which includes the survey.

The book was unveiled last week at a news conference with Cardinal John J. O'Connor of New York.

Asked about the statement that "using artificial means to prevent pregnancy is wrong," 40 percent of the 1,010 people surveyed said they firmly believed it, 8.7 percent somewhat believed it, 10.7 percent had serious doubts, 36.6 percent did not believe it, and 4 percent were unsure.

Younger Hispanics and those born in the United States tended to reject the contraception teaching more readily than other Hispanic Catholics, the authors said.

O'Connor said that in his judgment those figures reflect the church's failure to emphasize, that belief.

The abortion question, 67.6 percent felt abortion was always wrong, 8.6 percent answered somewhat, 7.9 percent expressed serious doubt it was always wrong, and 12.7 percent said they don't believe it is wrong.

The survey found 94 percent agreed with the importance of marital fidelity, while 63 percent wholeheartedly agreed with the church's prohibition on pre-marital sex.

Ninety-six percent described religion as being very or somewhat important in their lives and more than 90 percent supported traditional beliefs about Jesus, Mary and the existence of heaven.

But when it came to questions about Catholic events such as the Second Vatican Council or the 1968 Bishops' Conference in Colombia, the authors found most knew nothing about either.

Randomly selected participants were questioned in a telephone survey conducted Dec. 15, 1984, through Feb. 15, 1985. They were selected from 40 metropolitan areas throughout the country.

'Little Haiti' priest is without church, but has following

By EVA PARZALE
The Associated Press

MIAMI — The Rev. Gerard Jean-Juste is a Roman Catholic priest without a church in Miami, but he has a following of human rights activists in his congregation — 60,000 exiles in Miami's Little Haiti who have called him their leader since 1978.

Jean-Juste says he is a street preacher and he can be seen on the sidewalks of Little Haiti early in the morning and late at night, dispensing legal advice, spiritual thoughts or lectures on political activism.

"The streets are the best way for me to minister," said the 40-year-old priest who directs the Haitian Refugee Center.

When ousted President-for-Life Jean-Claude Duvalier fled Haiti, Jean-Juste and hundreds of exiles in Miami poured into the streets. They carried Jean-Juste on their shoulders and chanted his name.

"He's kept the community together and a leader," said 45-year-old John Westy.

"People see him as someone who cares about their problems, someone who can bring their concerns to justice and someone who listens to them," said Marise Pivverger, a paralegal who has been in the United States for six years.

Jean-Juste's influence is so strong that with a few words last week he encouraged 2,500 people celebrating Duvalier's downfall to disperse peacefully. This was one week after a celebration of Duvalier's rumored ouster held in Little Haiti and the city's downtown.

"He's good to us. He's always there when we need him," said 27-year-old Michelen Lauriston, a housekeeper who immigrated six years ago.

Jean-Juste heads the Haitian Refugee Center. Jean-Juste heads a team of lawyers and social workers who provide free legal assistance, education, human rights information and social services to the exiled community.

"I am a simple Haitian who is at the service of the Haitian refugees," Jean-Juste said.

Before coming to Miami eight years ago, the Haitian exile belonged to a church in Boston. When Jean-Juste decided to move to Miami, which lacked a Haitian priest for the city's growing community of refugees, the Miami archdiocese would not give him the assignment he wanted, he said. So he went there anyway, on his own.

Jean-Juste said he was involved with the school busing movement in Boston during the 1970s and had participated in demonstrations in the late 1960s with civil rights activist Jesse Jackson.

But his life in activist politics began in Haiti where he said he was involved in demonstrations in the late 1960s with civil rights activist Jesse Jackson.

He left Haiti in 1965 to study in a Canadian seminary because dictator Francois "Papa Doc" Duvalier had closed all Haitian seminaries to quell human rights activities by priests.

"Papa Doc" crushed all opposition to his dictatorial government until his death in 1971. Little changed when his son "Baby Doc" assumed power, and thousands of Haitians fled to North America and Europe.

Many ended up in New York City, Montreal and Boston. But at least 60,000 legal aliens and thousands more illegal immigrants settled in Miami.

Some could not speak or write English and many knew only Creole — a combination of French, Spanish and English making their transition to the United States difficult.

Jean-Juste stepped in with his preacher's rhetoric, his passion for justice and desire to help. To many, he became their savior.

Fishing boat from time of Jesus is uncovered near Sea of Galilee

KIBBUTZ GINNOSAR, Israel (AP) — A fishing boat believed to be from the period when Jesus rescued his disciples from a vessel on the storm-tossed Sea of Galilee has been found buried in the mud near the shore of the lake.

Farmers at this kibbutz (communal farm) found the 26-foot-long boat in late January when they were trying to dig out a tractor stuck in the mud.

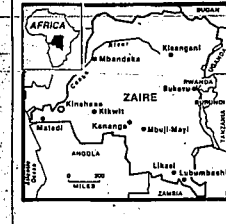

The boat rests about three feet beneath the seabed which has been exposed in recent months by the receding waters of the Sea of Galilee.

"It is probably of the Roman era," said the fishermen "boats used" during the period when the Bible says Jesus started his ministry on the shores of the Sea of Galilee, Avner Raban, a marine archaeologist at Tel Aviv University, said in an interview.

The New Testament Gospels recount that Jesus walked across the water toward his disciples, and the boat being tossed about in their boat during a storm on the Sea of Galilee.

"And in the fourth watch of the night Jesus went unto them, walking on the sea," according to the Gospel of St. Matthew. The Gospel of St. John says Jesus then got into the boat and it arrived safely at Capernaum.

In addition to the boat, coins and pieces of pottery were found at the site and are believed to date to the Hellenistic period, between the 4th century B.C. and the 1st century A.D. The coins and pottery may be unrelated to the boat but samples of everything found were sent to a laboratory for dating.

LDS church set to begin work in Zaire

KINSHASA, Zaire (AP) — The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints has been given permission to operate in Zaire, a church official said Thursday.

David Kennedy, a Mormon representative who came to Kinshasa to seek authorization for the church to practice in this central African country, said that President Mobutu Sese Seko had agreed to his request during a meeting Wednesday.

Kennedy said he also talked with the country's aircon president about a number of cooperation projects between the Mormon Church and Zaire, but gave no details of the nature of the projects.

U.S. carriers under scrutiny

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. 6th Fleet continued to attract intense scrutiny by Libyan aircraft Friday as Pentagon officials said the carriers, the USS Sea-and-Sis, completed a three-day of maneuvers without incident.

The officials, who agreed to discuss the matter only if not identified, disclosed that 131 Libyan planes had been dispatched toward the fleet since the latest American exercise began Tuesday night.

That total appeared to indicate yet another increase in Libyan air activity on Friday. Previously, the sources had said roughly 70 Libyan jets were dispatched Wednesday and Thursday, or about 50 a day.

The sources also said the current exercise by the carriers would not end until this evening.

Thiokol slashes work force

BRIHAM CITY, Utah (AP) — Morton Thiokol, the sole producer of the space shuttle's solid-fuel rocket boosters that are under scrutiny in the fatal explosion of the Challenger, announced Friday it will lay off 200 full-time employees and place another 1,400 on a four-day work week.

Company spokesman Gil Moore confirmed the layoffs at the Wasatch Division west of here and said they would affect employees who have been working directly on the space shuttle program.

The layoffs will take effect Feb. 21, when 200 workers involved in the rocket booster Edward Dean Kennedy, but Moore said he did not know how soon the workers could be called back.

Block starts new job Monday

WASHINGTON (AP) — John R. Block wrapped up work as secretary of agriculture Friday and prepared to go to work next week for the National American Wholesale Grocers' Association.

Block said he will begin work on Monday, Washington's Birthday, which is a federal holiday. "The first mistake I made was starting Monday," he told a news conference.

Officially, Block will take over as president of the trade association at its annual meeting next month. He will succeed Gerald E. Peck, who is retiring.

Court halts Florida execution

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court on Friday ordered Florida authorities to postpone the scheduled Tuesday execution of convicted murderer Edward Dean Kennedy.

Acting on an emergency request filed by Kennedy's lawyers, the justices said his life must be spared until the court considers a formal appeal filed in his behalf.

Justice Sandra Day O'Connor took no part in Friday's action, for unexplained reasons.

O'Neill says firing should be reversed

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill said Friday that the firing of Lee Iacocca as chairman of a national advisory commission on restoring the Statue of Liberty had "brought unintended ridicule on our government," and he urged Iacocca be reinstated.

In a telegram to Interior Secretary Donald B. Hodel, who fired Iacocca on Monday, O'Neill said that for the good of the planned centennial celebration of a renovated Statue of Liberty and Ellis Island in New York harbor, "I urge that you rescind your order."

O'Neill added: "I am sure that President Reagan agrees with me that Lee Iacocca is exactly the kind of private-sector hero we should be honoring in the years ahead."

White House spokesman Larry Speakes said Thursday there was no White House involvement in Hodel's decision to fire Iacocca.

Hodel dismissed Iacocca on the grounds there was a potential conflict of interest in having the Chrysler Corp. chairman serving as chairman of both the federal Statue of Liberty-Ellis Island Centennial Commission and the private Statue of Liberty-Ellis Island Foundation, Inc., which is raising money for the restoration.

Iacocca denied any conflict of interest. He said he will remain as head of the fund-raising foundation and will continue to fight a proposal to "commercialize" Ellis Island with a hotel and convention center he said was backed by the Reagan administration.

Rep. Sam Goldenson, D-Conn., called Friday for a House Interior Committee investigation of the firing.

Frank Whelstone, a Cut Bank, Mont., businessman, an old friend of Hodel and a commission member since since November 1984, recalled that "communications never were the greatest" on the panel.

Positive reply due Gorbachev

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan's top advisers will urge him to send a positive reply to Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev and propose that U.S. and Soviet intermediate-range nuclear missiles be reduced to very low numbers, a senior administration official said Friday.

The decision on what to recommend to Reagan was made at an unannounced State Department meeting in which special envoys Paul H. Nitze and Edward L. Rowe reported on their consultations with West European and Asian leaders.

Officials from the Pentagon, the National Security Council, the State Department and the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency participated.

The recommendations will be sent in writing to Reagan, who is winding up a California vacation and is due back at the White House late today. The president will then write a letter to Gorbachev "fairly soon," said the official, who insisted on an anonymity.

The recommendations are significant in a number of ways:

- That Reagan respond to Gorbachev "in a positive vein."
- That the president call for cutbacks in Soviet missiles in Asia as well as in Europe.
- That he underscore a need for strict verification procedures to make sure any U.S.-Soviet treaty that is negotiated is also observed.

Gorbachev last month proposed a 15-year disarmament plan designed to rid the world of all nuclear weapons. In the first stage, he said, the two superpowers should cut in half "the nuclear arms that can reach each other's territory."

Reagan in 1981 proposed eliminating all U.S. and Soviet intermediate-range missiles, while Gorbachev's plan would destroy them by the 21st century. However, the Soviet leader also insisted on banning space-based defenses — a thrust at the U.S. "Star Wars" program.

Hose forces withdrawal by war toy foes at Stallone home.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A group of protesting war toys made a tactical withdrawal from Sylvester Stallone's home after being squirted with water while trying to deliver a 50-foot-high valentine to the actor.

War Toys Boycott, said about 25 members of his group had gathered outside the actor's Pacific Palisades home Thursday night to deliver the card protesting "Rambo" toys.

Stallone's publicist, Paul Bloch, said Friday that Stallone was "out of town on his honeymoon and didn't even know about the demonstrators."

Stallone recently married actress Brigitte Nielsen.

'Spy dust' not cancer-causer

MOSCOW (AP) — The U.S. Embassy said Friday that "spy dust" allegedly used by the Soviets to track Americans' movements does not cause cancer, contrary to preliminary tests last summer that indicated it might be carcinogenic.

Appassador Arthur Hartman also said the chemical tracking agent recently was found in five U.S. diplomats' cars but may have been placed there months ago. He said there was no conclusive evidence the Soviets still were using it.

Police scatter women's march

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Police fired tear gas and lashed out with rubber whips as they charged into a crowd of 2,000 black women preparing to march against apartheid Friday, witnesses reported.

They said the police chased the screaming women through the streets of Atteridgeville, a black community about three miles west of Pretoria, and injured dozens of them.

Young children, some of them toddlers, wandered through the town afterward looking for their mothers, the witnesses said.

Iran claims attack successful

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Iran claimed Friday its forces were pushing north toward Iraq's second largest city and its president warned the United States to stay out of the Persian Gulf conflict.

Iraq denied claims that Iranian forces were advancing by highway toward Basra from the oil port of Faw, which Iran said it captured Tuesday.

Iraq said its forces launched "a lightning attack (that) totally annihilated" Iranian forces occupying Iraq's southern-Majnoon oilfields. The oilfields on the edge of the Howelzeh marshland were seized by Iran during a 1984 offensive.

Arms negotiators meet again

GENEVA (AP) — The six principal American and Soviet arms control negotiators met Friday in full session at the midpoint of the fourth round of superpower arms talks, a U.S. spokesman said.

The two sides, headed by Max M. Kampelman and Viktor S. Karpov, met at the U.S. arms control offices for one hour and 10 minutes, said spokesman Terry Shroeder. Shroeder said the session was routine. Negotiators held similar meetings in the middle of previous rounds.

At the beginning of this round, the Soviets made a new proposal to eliminate nuclear weapons by the year 2050.

U.S. officials have said Soviet negotiators in Geneva have not provided enough details on the proposal to enable the United States to respond formally.

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — A nine-member congressional delegation left Friday for Hanoi to urge Vietnamese officials to provide the fullest possible accounting of Americans still missing from the Indochina War.

The congressmen, members of the Task Force on American Prisoners and Missing in Southeast Asia, will return to Bangkok today and tour the Thai-Cambodian border Sunday, a U.S. Embassy spokesman said.

Before leaving Washington, a spokesman for the group's chairman, Rep. Gerald Solomon, R-N.Y., said the congressmen would urge Vietnamese officials to "accelerate their pledge to resolve the MIA issue within the next two years."

Rep. Christopher H. Smith, R-N.J., said there was "absolutely compelling" evidence that some U.S. servicemen were still held in captivity in Indochina.

He said he and fellow task force members have been increasingly swayed by reports that Americans were alive. The Defense Department lists some 2,400 MIAs in Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos and most government officials believe it is unlikely that any have survived.

The delegation also includes Benjamin A. Gilman, R-N.Y.; Robert K. Dornan, R-Calif.; William M. Hen-don, R-N.C.; David Dreier, R-Calif.; John G. Rowland; R-Conn.; Frank McCloskey, D-Ind., and Robert C. Smith, R-N.H.

Before their departure Friday, the delegation met with Thai Deputy Prime Minister and Foreign Minister Siddhi Savetsila.

The Solomon delegation is the latest of a number of U.S. government and private groups to travel to Vietnam, which says it wants to normalize ties with Washington. The United States has said that such relations will not be forthcoming.

French ponder Duvalier bid

PARIS (AP) — President Francois Mitterrand questioned Friday whether Jean-Claude Duvalier qualified for asylum in France, as other French officials continued searching for a nation willing to accept the former Haitian president.

A small entourage of family members and aides. France offered temporary asylum, but insisted that Duvalier find permanent shelter elsewhere.

Bulldogs gain state finals in 2 OT's

By SCOTT TUDEHOPE and RON GATES
Times-News writers

NAMPA — Kimberly ruined Fruiland's 23-0 record en route to a 63-59 double overtime victory and a chance to play for the Idaho Class A-3 girls' basketball championship Friday night.

The Bulldogs, riding clutch free throw shooting by Chantell Anderson and all-around play of Patti Pettelerc through two overtimes, will meet Grice at 8:30 p.m. today at the Northwest Nazarene College gymnasium for the title.

Meanwhile, Glens Ferry's hopes of making it an all-District 4 final was turned back by Grace 50-47.

In their consolation game Saturday, Kimberly taking an 11-point lead into the final quarter, saw Fruiland the lead with a pair of free throws and Anderson then collected three charities over the final 82 seconds to nail down the victory.

In the earlier game, the experience of the senior-laden Grace High School basketball team proved a little too much for Glens Ferry.

But the young Pilots proved worthy adversaries as the Grizzlies took leads of eight points in the opening half, and nine points in the second, yet could never put the game away.

Suzanne Hansen and Millie Ostler, who combined for 38 points in the contest, put the Grizzlies up by six in the game's opening minutes before Claudette Mills broke the ice for the Pilots from the foul line. The gap widened to 17 at the midway point, but the Pilots, as they did all night, staged a rally.

Junior wing Barbara Johaneck hit six of her game-high 20 in the opening quarter to bring Glens Ferry back. Mills' short jumper in the paint pulled her team even as the period ended.

Hansen put in a workmanlike 40 seconds for the Griz as the second quarter began. Following a baseline jumper, Hansen added layups of consecutive steals and followed that with another short jump shot from the outline.

Glens Ferry got most of it back quickly and moved within two as Lori Stevenson put in a pair of charities. After Grace answered that with a foul shot, Johaneck contributed a pair of her own and Stevenson's bank-shot gave the Pilots a short-lived lead that was erased just before intermission on a line drive from three-point range.

Idaho State upends BSC-leading Griz

POCATELLO (AP) — Guard Phil Rohr scored a career-high 20 points with 16 in the second half to lead Idaho State to a 66-59 Big Sky Conference basketball victory over the University of Montana here Friday night.

Rohr is only the second Bengal to score 20 points this season, joining forward Donn Holston in that category. Holston added 15 points for Idaho State while teammates Bruce Galtor and Mike Graec each contributed 10.

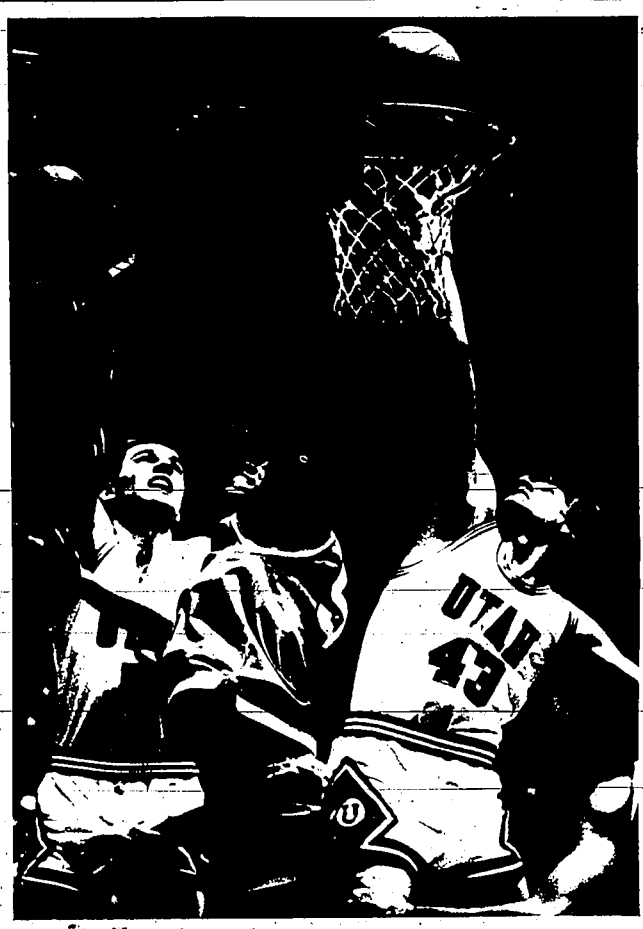

Grizzly forward Larry Krystkowiak led all scorers with 22 points, while pulling in a game-high eight rebounds.

John-Bates was the only other Montana player in double figures, with 11 points.

Tigers rule North Devils upset

By The Times-News

The Camas County Musers opened up nine-point halftime lead and held off a late rally to upset Dietrich 59-56 Friday afternoon in Northside Conference boys' basketball action.

The loss by Dietrich, combined with Richfield's 76-55 win over the Ketchum-Sun Valley Community School Friday night, gave the Tigers the Northside title while Dietrich and Camas County get the No. 2 and No. 3 seeds, respectively, in next week's District 4 Class A-4 Northside Subdistrict tournament in Gooding.

The seeding sets up a possible re-match if the Devils beat Ketchum-Sun Valley and the Musers beat Bliss.

Camas County cruised through most of the contest and with six minutes left, two of Dietrich's starters, Alan Stoddard and Bill Southwick, fouled out.

"We felt we had it in the bag then," said Camas Coach Bret Klefer. "But they put the rush on us pretty good."

With under a minute left in the game, Dietrich's Curtis Hansen stole the ball and drove to the basket.

"I yelled 'don't foul, don't foul' and they did and he made the basket," said Klefer.

After the Musers grabbed the rebound, Todd Tupper went to the charity stripe and sunk a pair in the final seconds.

Golden Eagles embarrass Treasure Valley quintet, 108-68

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — That College of Southern Idaho won — and won handsily — at 108-68 wasn't the surprising statistic of Saturday night's victory over Treasure Valley.

There probably wasn't a person in the stands, especially after CSI jumped off to a 40-10 lead in the first 9-24 minutes — who would have suspected that at the end CSI would have outscored the Chukars by just two field goals.

The Eagles hit 40 of 52 free throws while Treasure Valley was 4-9 from the line.

But anyone seeing the game would be hard pressed to feel that TVCC was honored. They simply weren't taken out of the game in the first few minutes when the CSI defense picked-up a half-court buckets on steals and Greg Boyd hammered down another five straight to get things started.

The teams square off again about 8 p.m. today with CSI looking for a season sweep of TVCC and a 7-1 record in the region 18 chase.

"I expect that Treasure Valley will come out and compete a lot tougher Saturday night," said CSI Coach Fred Trenkle. "They played us much better in Ontario and I'm sure they'll come back."

Trenkle said the key for CSI is to not let up although he is aware his players that the temptation to pulling out to the big lead in the final minutes.

"That was in my thinking tonight," Trenkle admitted. "We wanted to play as many of our players tonight as we could because next week we'll be going with seven or eight most of the time, I imagine."

Trenkle said he anticipated some lack of interest on his player's part and noted "I told them we had to get as much out of the game as we could as hard practice or we'd be going downhill," he said. "Overrall, I feel our defense was pretty good all night. I don't feel we played that hard against Eastern Utah (earlier in the week)."

The statistics of the game proper can quickly be assimilated. CSI moved ahead by 10 in the first 2:48 and took that to 22-2 with 4:40 gone. The Eagles were on the '60-point pace when it reached 40-10 on Phil Olsen's jumper with 10:36 left in the first half.

Kimberly, Gooding square off for Canyon Conference title

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

GOODING — Kimberly will have a little revenge on its mind and Gooding will be looking for a repeat when the top two teams in the Canyon Conference collide in the regular-season finale tonight.

While the conference title is at stake, the important things already are settled — namely, they'll be in opposite brackets of the A-3 District tournament at Wendell each week and won't be impeding each other until the semifinals. The conference champion will sit Wednesday out while the runner-up will participate with the other five teams in three games slated at the Wendell gymnasium.

When last they met, Gooding came from behind to force a overtime and tie it at the extra session.

Kimberly Coach Allen Kelsey sees the same two major problems that A-3 coaches have been viewing at Gooding for the past three years — size and Todd Simis.

With Swen Swenson at 6-foot-8 and Brian Darcy pushing 6-9, the Senators have a considerable height advantage. Kimberly sends 6-4 Kurt Holcomb against them and Kelsey figures if he has to battle the giants, he has the best weapon in hand — Holcomb.

"He (Holcomb) is the best-kept secret in Magic Valley basketball this season," says Kelsey. "He's averaging 15 rebounds and 22 points. Last time we play Gooding he got 22 points and was the leading scorer of the game."

Swenson and Darcy give Gooding the obvious advantage in height but Kelsey finds Simis' contributions to the Senators a little more intangible and, therefore, harder to defend.

"I think he's a very cool high school basketball player," Kelsey said. "He's the kind of player who simply gets the job done. You try to contain him but he finds ways. In the first game, I thought we'd done a pretty good job holding him to nine points. But with two seconds left in regulation he steps to the foul line to hit two free throws, and tie it and then he gets four more free throws in the overtime to beat us."

Gooding Coach Lou Anderson confirmed the latter part of Kelsey's assessment, noting "the word around all year is that if you can get in Simis' face and contain him, you can beat Gooding. Everyone tries that and most of the time it hasn't been successful."

But Anderson thinks his Senators are starting to round into better shape although he's not sure they'll peak for district next week.

"Darcy is coming along, getting over the flu and doing the right things he's always been able to do. Swenson's conditioning is improving right along. He didn't do anything this fall and he spent 10 days in Michigan over the Christmas break so his conditioning hasn't been the best. I think those two will be more of a factor for us in each game from now on. And some of the younger players, who weren't supposed to be there, are playing well."

Anderson says he knows exactly what to expect from Kimberly, because "they play hard. Physically we may have a little better team but you have to prove that on the floor and if you let them dictate the way the game goes, they'll beat you. They put a lot of pressure on you, try to make you lose your composure and not do what you are supposed to do. And they can do that both offensively and defensively."

Wholesale prices follow collapse by oil

Wholesale (AP) - Collapsing world oil prices sent U.S. wholesale prices plunging 0.7 percent in January, their steepest drop in 3 1/2 years...

The January decline in the Labor Department's Producer Price Index would result in a 7.8 percent annual drop if the same level were maintained for 12 consecutive months.

On a sour note, coffee costs soared by 17.4 percent in January after a 3.1 percent increase the month before, caused by a prolonged drought in Brazil.

The overall wholesale price figure, however, declined for the first time since September and followed a 0.5 percent increase in December. Not since January 1983 has prices fallen at such a pace.

In a separate report, the Federal Reserve Board said U.S. industrial production fell 0.2 percent in January, half the gain of December but the third month in a row the index increased. The index measures production at the nation's factories, mines and utilities.

In the report on wholesale prices, the Labor Department said that gasoline prices at the producer level — the amount charged by refiners to distributors — fell 5.7 percent in January, and heating oil costs dropped 10.8 percent.

Government and private economists said they expected energy prices, which dropped an overall 4.0 percent in January, to continue moving down for several months to come, keeping inflation subdued through most of 1986.

Wholesale costs for food items fell 0.4 percent in January after rising 0.7 percent in December. The decline in most energy products reflected the tumbling in crude oil prices that began last fall when members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) failed to agree on a world oil price.

In the last month, prices on the spot market for oil have fallen from $27 for a 42-gallon barrel, to about $15.

January's figures showed that these lower costs have already begun to be passed along at the wholesale level.

Gasoline prices, which last month fell at their steepest rate since March 1985, had risen 2.8 percent in December. Crude oil prices fell another 0.5 percent in January, after an overall 1 percent drop for all of 1985.

Natural gas prices, one of the few energy areas to show an increase, were up 0.5 percent. Enriched goods other than food and energy were unchanged in January, after a 0.2 percent increase in December.

Food rose 0.4 percent and energy prices dropped 1.0 percent over the same January 1985 to January 1986 period, the Labor Department said.

Vegetable prices, which had climbed 15.3 percent in December, largely because of cold weather in Texas, fell 9.7 percent in January, the Labor Department said.

Prices for confectionery products and fish climbed moderately. The department offered three other specifics for other January wholesale price activity:

* Automobile prices fell 1.3 percent, reflecting new low-interest auto financing packages offered by automakers.

* Alcohol beverage prices rose 0.2 percent and soft drink costs went up 0.4 percent.

* Clothing prices fell overall, with children's and infants' apparel showing the sharpest decline, 0.8 percent.

Dow keeps climbing

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market put the finishing touches on its best week so far in 1986 with a strong gain Friday, lifting the popular average to record highs for the third consecutive session.

Analysts said favorable inflation news, weakness in oil prices, and falling interest rates kept stock traders in an enthusiastic buying mood.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks jumped 19.38 to 1,664.45, stretching its gain for the week to 51.03 points. That stood as the average's best weekly showing since it climbed 58.04 points last Dec. 9-13.

Volume on the New York Stock Exchange, up from 1.157 billion shares, up from 1.136 billion Monday.

Early in the session, some stocks encountered selling from traders who were apparently eager to cash in on the market's recent gains, especially with a midday Wednesday's Birthday weekend.

The Dow Jones industrial average had a strong gain Friday, lifting the popular average to record highs for the third consecutive session.

Gold futures

The NYMEX gold futures market closed on a high note Friday as investors continued to bid up the price of the precious metal.

Gold futures prices for March and April delivery advanced 0.3 percent to $337.50 per ounce and $337.25 per ounce, respectively.

The price of gold futures was bid up by the prospect of a rate cut by the Fed, which would weaken the dollar and boost gold's appeal as a hedge against inflation.
