Beggs leaving NASA

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — James M. Beggs, who has headed the National Aeronautics and Space Administration since 1981 when the first shuttle flew, is resigning to permit President Reagan to name a successor at the agency's most difficult time.

Beggs has been on unpaid leave since Dec. 2 last year when he and three other former General Dynamics executives were indicted by a grand jury on charges that they plotted to hide cost overruns on the ill-fated Sgt. York anti-aircraft gun.

"I will not resign," he said then. The case is awaiting trial. In the interim, the agency has been run by acting administrator William Graham, who had been on the job as Beggs' deputy for less than two weeks.

Since the Jan. 28 Challenger tragedy, there have been increasing demands that he resign so that a permanent chief could take the helm. The most vocal advocate of a new leader has been Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., who also has called for Graham's ouster.

Beggs' wife, Mary Elizabeth, told the Associated Press Monday night "he's about to resign." She said the letter would go to President Reagan in "a little while."

Beggs opposed the appointment of Graham as his deputy and published reports have said he made a condition of his resignation a promise that Graham would not take his place.

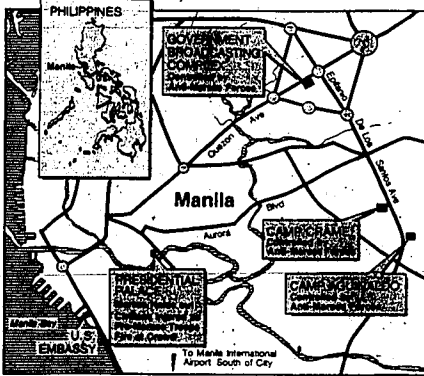

"He doesn't know anything about his successor," she said. "He's hopeful that someone wonderful will lead that marvelous agency. He's hoping for good, strong, solid leadership."

A top-level NASA official said it was considered unlikely Graham would get the job. He has not aroused enthusiasm even among Republicans on Capitol Hill.

Mrs. Beggs said she and her husband are "devoted to NASA and hope for its future successes."

Aquino, Marcos accept office

Rival governments continue quest for control of Philippines

By DAVID BRISCOE The Associated Press

MANILA, Philippines — Corazon Aquino took the oath of office Tuesday as president of a provisional government declared by military rebels battling to end the 20-year rule of Ferdinand E. Marcos, who himself was sworn in later in his guarded palace.

Marcos took the oath for a new six-year term, not from the Supreme Court's chief justice, Ramon Aquino, but his vice presidential running mate, Arthur Tolentino, and the prime minister were not present and there was no explanation. Just before the ceremony, the small, private television station Marcos had used since rebels seized the main station went off the air and an aide said rebels had sabotaged it.

Earlier, Mrs. Aquino had taken nearly the same oath and addressed thousands of cheering supporters at a country club ringed by troops who had followed the defense minister and the acting armed forces commander into rebellion on Sunday.

"I and Salvador H. Laurel are taking power... in the name of the Filipino people," she said.

Mrs. Aquino, 53, said Laurel, her vice-presidential running mate in the Feb. 7 election she says Marcos stole from her in fraud and violence, will be prime minister in her new government.

Marcos, 68, remained with his family inside the Malacanang Palace, surrounded by still-loyal troops taunted by a jeering pro-Aquino crowd. The United States and other Western governments say his election victory over Mrs. Aquino was achieved by fraud and he should step down.

Ten people were reported wounded when soldiers fired at crowds of Aquino supporters outside the palace and in a clash at the main government television station, which rebels took over in the middle of a Marcos broadcast.

More than 500 people attended the palace ceremony, which was disorganized from the start. People at the rear shouted "Sit down, sit down" at those in front blocking the view, said Associated Press reporter Miguel Suarez, who was present.

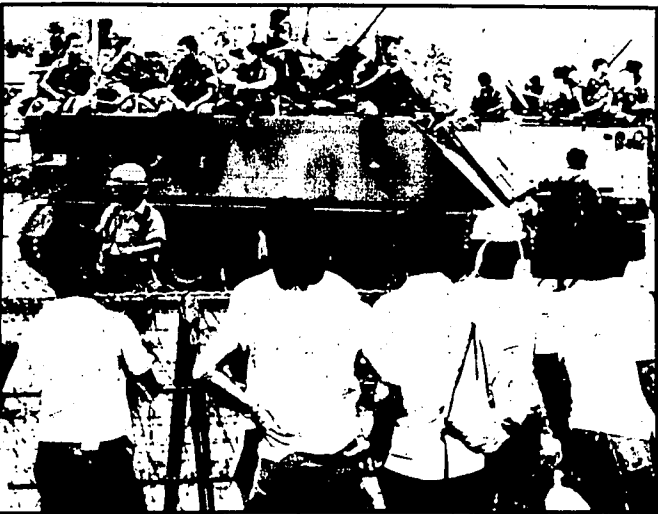

The 68-year-old president spoke slowly in taking the oath and in a short speech, which he alluded to the rebellion: "I say to you, as I say to everybody else, we will overcome these obstacles. We will advance for the future."

The crowd raised their fists and chanted, "Marcos, Marcos."

Mrs. Aquino took the oath of office from an associate justice of the Supreme Court, Claudio T. Techankee, promising to "fulfill my duties as president of the Philippines."

In a brief speech, she said Marcos had "destroyed the public 14 years ago," when he declared martial law

Crusade strikes unlikely alliance

By JOHN BURGESS and WILLIAM BRANGIN The Washington Post

MANILA, Philippines — Corazon Aquino's pacifist crusade has struck, with no visible misgivings, an alliance with military men who have guns and are using them.

Together they seem close to toppling President Ferdinand Marcos. A small air force and army are now in action in the name of Aquino's claim to the presidency. It is the Philippine military's first attempt at armed intervention in domestic politics.

There is no evidence that she has control over the military units supporting her. But neither has she asked them to give up and go home.

Before the military revolt against Marcos broke out late on Saturday night, Aquino's drive against him had been developing slowly.

That was due in part to a reluctance to provoke the degree of confrontation that could bring him down but would risk grand violence.

Nonetheless, her followers have greeted the revolt's leaders, former defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile and acting armed forces chief of staff Fidel Ramos, like saints.

Analysis

In the past few days Manila has seen the spectacle of ebullient civilians massing outside the rebel headquarters to act as a "human barricade," all with Aquino's approval. The idea is both to encourage the soldiers and drive off any Marcos attack by assuring there would be civilian casualties.

And the casualties might not be the rabble-rousers or leftists who usually fall victim in such incidents, but some of the largely middle-class citizens, many with families in tow, who have flocked to these demonstrations in response to appeals by the Roman Catholic Church, moderate opposition politicians and the military rebels of Enrile and Ramos.

The alliance appears to have succeeded in threatening Marcos while freezing out the left, a goal that both sides essentially conservative partners support.

House kills plan putting state lottery on November ballot

By QUANE KENYON The Associated Press

BOISE — The Idaho House of Representatives Monday killed legislation that could have led to a state-run lottery. The House voted 47-37 for a bill that would have placed on the November ballot a proposed constitutional amendment to legalize lotteries.

However, the count was nine votes short of the two-thirds needed for approval, or 56 seats.

During a debate earlier in the day, House members argued that they should be the ones to decide whether Idaho has a state-operated lottery, not the people they represent.

"We have a far better idea of the merits than the people we represent," argued Rep. Preston Brimhall, R-Idaho Falls.

The House started debating a Senatepassed proposal to put before the voters next fall whether Idaho should have a state-operated lottery.

Roll call vote — A3

But on a key vote earlier, on whether the bill should be put up for amendment, the number voting against was 56 legislators.

The Senate cleared the legislation earlier by a vote of 28-14, exactly the required two-thirds majority.

But House members argued against the bill on moral grounds. Some members attacked gambling. Others said it was especially wrong for government to engage in that type of activity.

Debate centered on whether the Legislature, or the general public, should decide the issue.

"We are not qualified to be the moral compasses here (in the House) and certainly not for the people out there," argued Rep. Dean Haugenson, R-Coeur d'Alene.

"Who are the best qualified to decide?" asked Brimhall. He said only one person in his legislative district has contacted him in favor of lotteries.

"We have a far better idea of the merits than the people we represent," he said. "We are paid to be here and make decisions for the people."

Rep. Glenn Hougland, R-Mountain Home, said she would not vote for a lottery, and if people in her area disagree, they should vote her out.

"What are we afraid of?" asked Rep. Jeanne Givens, D-Coeur d'Alene. And Rep. Eugene Sutton, R-Midvale, said 90 percent of the people in his district want a chance to vote on the lottery issue.

In the earlier test vote, the House voted 56-25 against amending the bill, exactly the two-thirds needed for passage.

Flooding, mudslides cut Idaho roads

The Associated Press

BOISE — Mudslides and deep water forced the closure Monday of several Idaho highways while threats of flooding plagued Weiser and the Owyhee Reservoir in Oregon.

Meanwhile, officials said the situation in Boise was under control, where melting snowpack and heavy rain prompted the hasty creation of diversion canals Sunday night.

In Washington County, U.S. 95 was reopened to one lane of traffic in the Weiser area Monday afternoon. It was closed Monday morning when water the Snake River covered the roadway, a sheriff's spokesman said.

The Snake there had risen to 13.1 feet Monday afternoon and was expected to crest at 13.5 feet. Flood stage is 12 feet.

The National Weather Service said some flooding could be expected with the river over 13 feet. The sheriff's office reported no problems Monday afternoon.

The Weiser River was over flood stage also at 10.4 feet; flood stage is 9 feet. It was expected to drop below that level today.

Mudslides forced the closures of Idaho 55 between Banks and Dannelly and of Idaho 21 between Idaho City and Lowman.

Eagle Road in Ada County also was closed, officials said.

The National Weather Service said the flow of the Owyhee Reservoir was increased to 18,000 cubic feet per second Monday morning, and said major flooding was anticipated.

The National Guard said there were no additional reports of flooding or evacuations. A family was evacuated last Friday from Owyhee Junction near the reservoir.

NWS continued its flood warnings for the Snake River near Weiser and the Owyhee River in southwestern Idaho, which were backed up because of release from the Owyhee Reservoir.

A flood warning also was in effect for the Port-neuf River in Pocatello. The river was at 7.9 feet Monday afternoon, just one inch below flood stage.

In Boise, crews used sandbags and concrete barriers to divert water from Owen Cottonwood Creek several miles to the Boise River.

Boise Civil Defense Director Jack Blake said the diversion canals were expected to remain in place the rest of the day. Jones said the water was 12 inches to 18 inches deep in the diversion canals.

Long Tom Reservoir, an earth-and-rock dam near the town of Mountain Home in southern Idaho, was being monitored for any structural problems, said Cpl. Rich Willis of the Idaho State Police. Water was three feet from the top of the structure, he said.

The weather service said the rain that added to the flooding problems is out of the forecast for the next several days. Temperatures climbed to the mid 60s in Boise Monday afternoon.

Reagan offers his plan for eliminating missiles

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Reagan called Monday for eliminating U.S. and Soviet medium-range nuclear missiles in both Europe and Asia "by the end of this decade."

But Reagan said the United States is not ready to consider Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev's proposal for elimination of all nuclear weapons within 15 years.

In a formal response to Gorbachev's most recent arms control plan, Reagan said his negotiators in Geneva on Monday put forward "a concrete" plan calling for the elimination of U.S. Pershing II, ground-based cruise missiles and Soviet SS-20 missiles, not only in Europe but in Asia as well.

An administration official speaking on condition he not be identified, said the plan would require destruction of all the missiles at the end of three years, preventing either side from redeploying them to threaten other targets.

The proposal is similar to Reagan's "zero option" plan of 1982.

Manila

In 1972. It was lifted in 1980, but Marcos did not face any major opposition in an election next year. He called the Feb. 7 election one year early to blunt charges at home and abroad that he did not govern with the will of the people.

Marcos' party, the New Society Movement, controls the 190-member National Assembly, which, on Feb. 15, declared him re-elected with a 1.5 million vote margin.
Mrs. Aquino's supporters, western observers, and growing numbers of the military, business, religious and political communities said the assembly's decision was based on fraudulent vote tallies.

An independent poll-watching group, the National Movement for Free Elections, issued its final tabulation on Tuesday, giving Mrs. Aquino the victory by about 782,000 votes. Namfrel's tally of 7,835,070 for Aquino and 7,855,068 for Marcos was based on the results from 70 percent of the precincts. Namfrel said it couldn't vouch for the reliability of the other 30 percent.

Former Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile and Lt. Gen. Fidel V. Ramos, who had been deputy armed forces chief, arrived at the Club Filipino in a wealthy Manila suburb for the Aquino inauguration, their first departure from their headquarters at Camp Crame, four miles east of Marcos' palace. Before leaving the camp, Ramos told reporters, "Some 85 percent of the armed forces of the Philippines is solidly under our control."
In her inauguration speech, Mrs. Aquino said Enrile would be her defense minister and Ramos would be promoted to general and be armed forces chief of staff.

Helicopter gunships, apparently piloted by rebels, attacked William Air Base adjacent to the Manila International Airport, which remained open Tuesday, although some flights were canceled.
Ramos said the Aviation Security Command that is responsible for the Manila airport had detected the insurgents and "normal activity at the domestic and international airport has resumed."

Members of the airport security unit had been accused of killing Mrs. Aquino's husband, Benigno, on Aug. 21, 1983, when he returned from three years of self-exile in the United States. Aquino was shot on the airport tarmac as he got off the plane. His death caused nationwide protests and galvanized the splintered opposition behind Mrs. Aquino's campaign for the presidency.
A court had acquitted the 25 military men and one civilian charged with Aquino's murder, ruling it had been carried out by a communist agent. Mrs. Aquino has said Marcos was her "No. 1 suspect" in the death of her husband.
Marcos said earlier, in response to President Ronald Reagan's pledge to cut off military aid if Marcos attacked his opponents: "I make my own decisions. The U.S. government has its own interests to take care of, and we have our national interests to take care of."

The sources, who asked not to be identified, said the Defense Department was planning to announce the successful end to the 2½-month identification process this afternoon.
The sources added the identifications were completed last Saturday, but a strict lid of secrecy was placed on that information while the Army notified relatives of the victims.

Alliance

The revolt began, but to have coffered through intermediaries, are hard to overstate.

Enrile and Ramos now live among hardened military officers and men, many of them veterans of combat against Muslim and Communist insurgents. While talking of the need to avoid bloodshed they escalated the conflict from stand-off to shooting Monday with the bold seizure of a television and radio station and a helicopter gunship raid at an air base outside Manila.

Aquino, in contrast, is a quiet woman who spends much of her time with other women. She talks often of prayer and reflection. Though she has said she is willing to die for her country, she has always maintained that her own movement would never abandon non-violence.

None of this has prevented Aquino's Cardinal Jaime Sin, archbishop of Manila, from talking with affection of the rebels, or nuns from flocking into their headquarters to set up first aid stations and lend moral support.

Following the rebellion's outbreak, Aquino said Ramos and Enrile "have made it very clear that they are out to support the people's will and not one person."
Casting her lot with armed rebellion represented a fundamental shift in Aquino's strategy. But she appears to have judged it as the best route to unseating Marcos.
Aquino's people are heartened by the fact that the rebel ranks are filled with young officers of the Philippine armed forces reformist movement who feel that Marcos and corruption are sapping the military's strength and impeding the fight against communist insurgents.

Aquino has long praised them.

Before the revolt, Ramos had been regarded by Aquino followers as a generally fair and competent military leader.
His announced promotion by Marcos to acting chief of staff after the Feb. 7 election was intended as a concession to the opposition and the United States.

Enrile, despite praise being showered on him now, was seen by many before the revolt as not much better than Marcos — corrupt, ambitious, one of the so-called cronies around the president.

As defense minister he had an important role in administering the martial law that Marcos imposed on the country between 1972 and 1981.
The two men's motivation remains murky. They say they acted out of disgust with Marcos and fraud in the election and do not want power for themselves. Marcos, however, asserts that their support of Aquino is free a pretext and they want a free hand to run the country themselves.

How long relations between the two military men and Aquino would remain sweet in a post-Marcos Philippines has everyone here guessing. There are some elements for conflict, but neither side would prefer the alternative: Marcos staying on.

Celebrities welcome veterans
INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Eleven years after the Vietnam war ended, actor Jon Voight led an army of celebrities Monday night in a special USO-style show to display America's appreciation for veterans of that unpopular conflict.

Voight, who played a Marine sergeant crippled in Vietnam in the 1976 film "Coming Home," opened the show, telling all those gathered, "Love to you all."

Many in the audience, however, appeared to have come for the music because they would have been too young to have served in the war that ended in 1975. The USO-style Forum filled midway through the "Welcome Home" show.

All crash victims identified

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pathologists working at a military mortuary at Dover Air Force Base, Delaware, have succeeded in identifying all 248 soldiers killed in a Dec. 12 airplane crash at Cammer, Newfoundland, Pentagon sources said Monday.

The sources, who asked not to be identified, said the Defense Department was planning to announce the successful end to the 2½-month identification process this afternoon.

The sources added the identifications were completed last Saturday, but a strict lid of secrecy was placed on that information while the Army notified relatives of the victims.

Synopsis:
The National Weather Service reports that a ridge of high pressure was responsible for the unusually warm and dry conditions across Idaho Monday.

This ridge should continue to move slowly eastward across the state today and will be replaced with a more moist westerly flow late tonight and Wednesday.

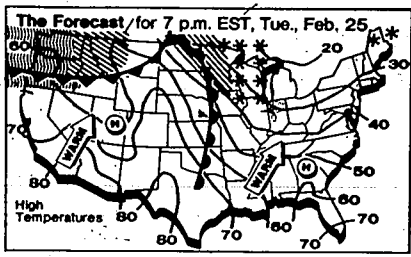

The high pressure caused temperatures across the state to rise above record levels in some southern locations. Boise and Pocatello recorded record highs — Boise with 67 and Pocatello with 62 as of 3 p.m. In the normally cool Panhandle and Teton mountains, temperatures climbed into the upper 50s and low 60s.

The warmest temperature in the state Monday was 71 degrees at Hagerman and the coldest was 26 degrees at Portville.

Dry weather accompanied the warm temperatures as precipitation was reported over the state Monday. Skies were fair in most locations except at Idaho Falls and Salmon, where some low clouds were reported.

Winds were brisk in a few locations with Lewiston, Pocatello and Idaho Falls in the 15 to 20 mph range.

The extended outlook for Southern Idaho, Thursday through Saturday, calls for a chance of showers Thursday, but more likely Friday, with tapers off on Saturday. Slightly cooler, highs from the upper 40s to near 60 Thursday,

Robbins hopes his memorial will buy dairymen some time

By DEAN MILLER
Times-News writer

BOISE — Rep. Gary Robbins said Monday that he hopes his plan to introduce a memorial to Congress will help buy some extra time for dairy farmers to decide whether or not to sell their herds in the Dairy Termination Program.

In a House Agricultural Affairs Committee meeting Monday afternoon, Robbins, R-Dietrich, said dairymen from his district and elsewhere in the state have told him they need more time to decide whether or not to close down their operations for five years to join the program.

The deadline for signing up for the program is only one month away, a month sooner than most dairymen expected, Robbins said.

Under the 1985 Farm Bill, dairy farmers can agree to sell their herds for slaughter or export. They must also make a bid for government support to be paid them for taking their herds and facilities out of production for five years.

Because the deadline is so close and because Agriculture Stabilization Conservation Service (ASCS) staff members still receiving rules and regulations, dairymen aren't getting good answers to their questions, Robbins said.

"There's a lot of people considering doing this, but they don't know what the hell is going on," he said.

Idaho Dairymen's Association lobbyist Vicki Patterson Nielsen said state ASCS staff haven't had enough time to learn about the new program to explain it to dairywomen.

"For them to absorb that, it's got to take time," she said.

Ada County ASCS Director Terry Hendrix said there are still some unanswered questions, but dairymen who are serious about selling their herds have already begun to ask the advice of their bankers and accountants.

Robbins said this is tax season for accountants and few have time to help farmers calculate whether or not they ought to sell their herds.

Robbins said memorials to Congress don't often have "much effect," but he wants to focus attention on the problem in hopes of getting an extension on the time when dairy farmers have to make their bids to the government.

Kevin Good, a staffer with the National Cattlemen's Association, said mostly dairy farmers near retirement age and dairy farmers having financial problems are looking into the program.

The complaint about short time is common around the country, he said, particularly because the program is complicated.

New methods of teaching 'fishing' outlined in House by vo-ed officials

By DEAN MILLER
Times-News writer

BOISE — "Give a man a fish and you feed him for a day; teach him to fish and you feed him for a lifetime," said the supporters of Vocational Education — only now they say they have to keep teaching people to fish in new ways.

Speaking to the House Education Committee Monday morning, state Vocational Education Director Larry Selland said the vocational education programs of the future will try to re-train workers as technology they work with continues to change.

As proof, Selland said, adult enrollment in vocational and technical training programs around the state has increased 50 percent in the last five years.

Meanwhile, he said, emergency state money hotbeds and other budget cuts since 1981 have taken $2.6 million out of state vocational education programs, meaning 325 fewer students can now be taught each year than were taught in 1981.

As part of Selland's presentation, Idaho Centers for New Directions (ICND) executive director Larry Laram, who also runs the center at CSI, explained her program to the committee.

Laram said the centers do not duplicate services in the community, but work to get displaced homemakers back to work by giving them skills and confidence.

"I think we do a lot to prevent persons from being long-term users of government programs," she said.

CSI hosts the largest center in the state. Of the 3,126 people served statewide, 783 were served at CSI, on a budget of $48,000.

The Centers for New Directions get some funding from fees on divorce filings in state courts.

According to a written report also submitted by Laram, the largest age groups served are women 26-35 and 36-45.

Most of the women served there are divorced or separated and have children at home between the ages of 1 and 10.

Sales tax increase chances dim

BOISE (AP) — Senate Republicans remained far from the majority needed to approve a House-passed penny increase in the state sales tax Monday, emerging from another 3½ hours of closed door caucuses with the prospect that needed support may never be mounted.

Caucus Chairman Phil Batt of Wilder suggested that the 28 Republicans might be headed toward a completely different solution to erasing the remaining $20 million 1986 budget deficit and coping with mounting spending demands in 1987.

Batt said there was not enough support for the House-passed bill to pass it on the Senate floor and he predicted that there would be no change on that front, even after more closed-door sessions today.

"It may be that people will get around it but not yet," he said. "We could not pass any particular measure this session."

Still, Batt also said, "I think we're really getting a feeling of unanimity on a sense of direction. He declined to elaborate, but the former lieutenant governor said discussion during Monday's session went far afield from the specifics of the House proposal.

"There've been a number of other solutions discussed," he said. "The discussion is on long term solutions, tax reform, . . . radical change."

Senate Democrats, cut out of the negotiations as the Republicans tried to handle the issue themselves, have generally voiced opposition to the House-passed bill, supporting instead a broad-based tax increase that would encompass business and personal income taxes as well as the sales tax.

The debate was compounded by the warnings of some members about the still-to-be-felt economic impact of the Gramm-Rudman federal deficit reduction plan that will strip millions of dollars in federal money away from state programs.

We should welcome Philippine freedom

The modern world offers many examples of inexorable human events, times in which the momentum of issues, ideas and the weight of a people's collective voice come together to change a nation's course.

The surge of events in the Philippines this week is one such moment in history. "These are the times which try men's souls," wrote Thomas Paine in Common Sense at a point in our own past when the nation came together for a common purpose.

The same is happening now in the Philippines as the dwindling support for Ferdinand Marcos gives way to the people's winner in the election, Corason Aquino. Hundreds of thousands of Mrs. Aquino's supporters have taken to the streets to confront the remnants of the Marcos regime, the end to which seems imminent.

Wisely, the United States has stayed out of immediate events. But wisely, too, we have cast our lot with the Filipino future which Mrs. Aquino represents and separate ourselves from its past.

The Reagan administration's statement Monday that further resistance by Marcos was "futile" is a strong, welcome stand. Perhaps we have signalled our support for democracy early enough in this situation to avoid being the target of anger and resentment, as we were in China, Cuba, Vietnam, Iran and Nicaragua.

Yes, it is true that communism lurks in the wings in the Philippines. But the events of the past few weeks of the campaign and the moral victory of Mrs. Aquino shows that democracy is a powerful force as well.

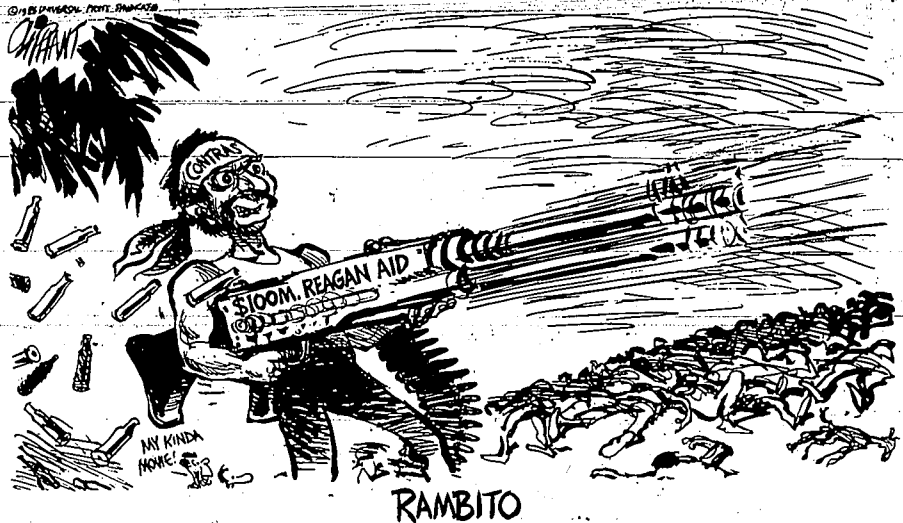

The Filipino people will be free. Their nationalism is driving them now to shed a corrupt and dying dictatorship. Marcos will be swept away.

Yes, there will be violence, but with luck, not much.

Watching this from afar in a land where we take so much for granted, we might remember some of the language of our own Declaration of Independence:

"When a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to reduce them (the people) under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such government."

We should welcome the Filipino people to the family of free nations.

State's Democrats working for change

A recent editorial in The Times-News promoted the expansion of the Republican party as the solution to the state's economic and social woes. The publication asserted that a moderate faction was the only way to neutralize the right wing of the party.

Hold everything. Certainly moderation is needed, but why not espouse the two party system which has guided this country for over 200 years? If one party is not doing its job, the second is there to challenge it with philosophies for change.

It is a version of checks and balances that should exist and be encouraged. And I believe it does exist in Idaho and is gaining strength as more people see the dangers inherent in a one party view of the world and the sickly policies this kind of political inbreeding produces.

There can be no doubt that a one party system of government brings with it all the dangers of a totalitarian system. Courthouses and congresses become puppets and our freedoms become extinguished. We become subject to the whims and dictates of one philosophy and those carrying its message become arrogant and stupid for lack of free debate and discussion.

Such appears to be the case with the Idaho Legislature during its Republican rule. Since that party assumed a stranglehold on public policy, decisions on critical state issues are handled behind closed doors. In these caucuses, there is internal debate until agreement is reached.

Legislation then comes to the floor with the votes already counted. There is little, if any, debate and on many important policies, public hearings are by-passed altogether. There seems a terrible arrogance in not caring how people are affected by legislation. Daily it becomes obvious that people in Idaho are fed-up with this display of contempt as they feel the effects of these short-sighted, ill-conceived closed door policies.

Our state is in economic chaos. Small businesses along Main Street close down as farmers are foreclosed. Mining communities are silent and timber workers are idle. Even the once promising hi-tech industry is struggling to survive, hiring and firing in frantic bursts.

While state leaders have stepped forward with policy alternatives, the party in control, in its absolute power, has turned a deaf ear to new ideas.

Its members cut off the presidents of Idaho's largest corporations who propose tax solutions to the economic dilemma. They ignore the findings of the biggest business lobby on the higher education crisis. They act insulted that the education issue, which they have treated largely with contempt, has reached emergency proportions and they turn their back on one tax reform proposal after another, even the studies completed by their own members.

And with public policy blinders on, they have been responsible for five budget shortfalls in the last six years.

But there is change in the air as Democrats in Idaho gear up. Recently, the minority party launched a major new program — the state party works campaign. It was successful beyond expectations, identifying thousands of Democrats statewide who not only claimed allegiance to the party but who supported that pledge with financial contributions.

In January, the Democrats held their annual Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner in Boise. Without the vice president of the country as guest speaker, rather "Idaho's own," there was an overflow crowd from around the state who came to show their pride and optimism in being a Democrat. Strong statewide leaders head the Democratic ticket in 1986, leaders who speak adamantly of change and sound government and access to that government for all the people of Idaho — the very things stifled under the one party rule.

A New Senate Democratic Campaign Committee is starting Republicans and Democrats alike with the support — both philosophical and financial — it is garnering from people of both parties who believe in its simple message: "It's time for a change from the irrational to the rational. It's time to rebuild pride in Idaho."

People around the state are interested in running for office as Democrats, fed up with the inertia of the Republican-controlled Legislature.

Don't rule out the two party system. It is the right way to produce change. The answer to dangerous public policy should never be to strengthen more elements in one party but rather to promote the concept this country has accepted since its inception, namely the importance of the two party system. The Democrats are ready and working hard. The people of Idaho are talking about change. Now what about the Idaho press?

Idaho failing to support youth, key to success and survival

I am writing to address the issue of educational funding in Idaho. Last Christmas, I visited my former high school and found few people in a holiday mood — teachers and students alike were complaining about the latest budget cuts for the public school system.

It struck me as odd that such a political battle could not be contained in the halls of the capitol; certainly, the budget battle has become a major distraction for our public schools.

But, rather than tearing apart this educational system, Idaho's citizens should concentrate their energy upon its problems; only by changing its attitude towards education in the economy will Idaho ever compete with the world intellectually or economically.

Being above all the farming state, it is natural that Idaho would be dominated by agricultural attitudes and concerns. Unfortunately, the group who made Idaho a success so many decades ago is the same group which today returns this state to mediocrity — the farming community.

Late in December, KMYT carried an interview with Rep. Noy Brackett in which he advocated getting back to the "basics" — reading, writing and arithmetic — and eliminating frills. Most obviously, Brackett does not realize that such "frills" make our state attractive to investors and educators; without frills such as advanced biology or second-year algebra, the modern skill of farming becomes impossible.

It is sad that the ruling elite in Boise seems to judge the needs of its youth by its own experience; observing the present trend of farm and industrial failures in the state, it would seem that their brand of education does not cope adequately with the 20th Century.

Education is an investment in the future; like all investments, it requires both risk and sacrifice. If the Legislature were truly interested in seeing its youth succeed, it would consider pulling back on investments in mining and forestry (and even street repairs) — even raise the drinking age without resistance to free money — and place its confidence in the educational system.

Twin Falls high student body president Brad Bowlin recently referred to having to "walk through snow up to our knees" to suffer for our education; maybe some adults would appreciate the value of education if they had to bounce over potholes while street repair money supported education. At any rate, the Legislature needs to set its priorities straight and realize that this endless pumping of money into the economy will do no good if no new generation rises to the challenge of managing that economy.

What are the benefits, immediate and long-term, of concentrating the budget upon education? First, Idaho's schools will immediately rise in morale as both teachers and students discover that they have a purpose — that they are not automatons living by a six-hour clock. Second, the success of Idaho youth at home and out of state will increase as those students are better equipped to compete with the higher standards of California, Maine, Texas, or Massachusetts.

Third, and most important in the immediate sense, a higher standard of education will attract new blood and new industry to this state — people who will increase the tax base and pour money back into the economy.

What corporation will invest in an illiterate working class? What corporation will invest in a society drifting from classroom to job to welfare? Twin Falls educator Richard Chitcote recently noted that nine out of 11 valedictorians from the Twin Falls class of 1985 had chosen out-of-state schools.

This reflects upon the budget question; at this point it seems easier to escape Idaho's economic nightmare than to stay and struggle under the present circumstances. This is not an exodus from Idaho's schools; as far as the Legislature is concerned, Idaho has no schools — they have been given up to the downward spiral towards nonentity.

It is time for Idaho to see reality as it is: the failure of public education in this state is the failure of the people to believe in and support its own youth. Its key to success — and survival.

Elizabeth Allard, a graduate of Twin Falls High School, is a student at Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass.

Letters/ Writer can't accept the view that scientific inquiry is anti-Christian

In the continuing debate about creationism and evolution, many people have expressed the view that they are similar scientific theories and should be taught as such. A scientific theory inspires questions, observations, or experiments which will provide evidence that either support or refute the theory or parts of it. Creationism accommodates no such evidence.

Evolution theory has developed as the most logical explanation for observations. It has been questioned, debated and argued about for well over a century.

Creationism claims that the earth was created about 10,000 years ago exactly as it is now. Geologic evidence that the earth is several billion years old is said to be false, fossil evidence of extinct plants and animals is said to be false, that the fossils were created as they now are and that no plants or animals of the kind ever lived. The creationist view makes God one who leads us to believe things that are not true. I look at the fossil and geologic features as records of creation left by the creator himself. He has given us inquiring minds and the means to learn to read the records he has left. I read the parable of the talents as his command that we do so.

While creationism teachers that the records in the rocks, stars, plants and animals are false, evolution theory assumes them to be true. We can believe what we see if we are careful about our observations.

I would hope that religious leaders would teach that the Bible has a much more vital message than how fast creation was accomplished. I cannot accept the view that science is anti-Christian.

Some there to back board

I want to take one exception to your reporting of the school board meeting in Buhl on Thursday, Feb. 13.

You stated that all of the estimated 800 people at the meeting were there to show support for the principals. I did not know that evening, as I do now, that that is simply not true.

Perhaps because I did speak up that evening a lot of people have begun to talk to me about it. Of course we know that many people were there to support the principals, but people have also been telling me that they were there to support the school board's decision. They told me that after the board announced it has reversed its decision they thought it was useless to speak up.

Many people, like me, did not understand that the principals are still to be re-evaluated and that their input was needed.

Most of the people who spoke were teachers and the newspaper displays a well-organized support for the principals.

Some people believe that we voted for the board and that we should support their decision and not force them to change their votes by mob rule. I believe that we should support the board by letting them know how we feel about the situation. If they feel that the input warrants a change then they can make it.

The board, the principals, the attorneys, and the newspaper should not assume that all the people who attended that meeting on Thursday or the PTN meeting on Wednesday were there to support the principals. The board should certainly not change its mind on that assumption.

To you people out there who have been telling me that you don't like being governed by the children, the teachers, and a few "elite" of the community; this is your chance. Come to the school board meetings and call the board members. The board members need to get calls of support as well as criticism. How else can they know your feelings.

Takes issue with comment

Jon Beckman:

My name is not Charles Sather. My name is Archie D. Miller and I take issue personally with your article to Charles Sather. To wit, his article on "right-to-work" your being sick and tired — good, maybe you should curl up and die!

I resent you or any one who would try to free-load after a Democratic body of people has negotiated a union agreement which includes the necessity step to protect the Democratic body of the union as a whole. It would be the same if a small body of people came into this United States and set up their own theology and saying we want to live here, but we don't want to abide by the laws nor pay taxes to support your form of government.

You say, "What's next, communism?" Well, that is what you imply in your rhetoric, for if you have no order, no rules, no stipulations, then the ruling elite will tell you when and where to work with no benefits to protect you or your loved ones, no determined wage, no say in your working conditions. You may become a slave to the elite the same as the slaves that President Lincoln freed from the plantation owners.

With "right-to-work," as you call it, it is the right to have all the benefits without paying for it. It would be the same as getting into a bus, and paying, or it was and refusing to pay for your seat while traveling. Think it out, it would you like for me to come and live at your house or home and not pay one cent for my food, clothing, lodging, or medical bills and demand that you pay all expenses?

A union has to negotiate all the benefits, all working conditions and wages and has to represent you free-loaders on any union job. Just try to get all the conditions on any non-union job, unless you are a highly trained person, they won't even talk to you.

Take my advice and get off the horse you are riding, stop and think. This is what I want for me and my children! I have been on both sides of the proposition, union and non-union, and I like you, wanted to be a free-loader. There is no future for free-loaders. In this good USA, we all must pay our taxes; you evade and try every ploy to keep from paying taxes; which is a form of paying for representation, but the law says all must pay their fair share, how about you? I pay my taxes and my union dues. I could stop paying my union dues as I am retired, but I believe that all people who work for a living needs some one to stand up for their rights as wage earners and future retired people. Think about it. I rest my case.

No credit to retailers for tax collections

BOISE (AP) — Although it might be a good idea, members of the House Revenue and Taxation Committee say this is not a good year to start paying Idaho's 36,000 retailers for the cost of collecting state sales taxes.

The committee Monday voted down legislation proposed by Rep. Myron Jones, R-Malden, to give retailers 2 percent of the taxes they collect. State tax officials estimated the bill would be about $5 million per year.

J. Tim Brennan, president of the Idaho Retailers Association, said retailers for many years have borne the cost of collecting sales taxes, without compensation. He said 18 states allow retailers 2 to 3 percent of sales tax collections as a handling fee.

Brennan said he wasn't pushing hard for the proposal, although it was a good idea. "If it doesn't pass this year, it might come back next year with more support," said Brennan.

million dollars is a lot of money," said Rep. Gary Robbins, R-Dietrich. "I think we should give them (the retailers) a little compensation for the work they do," said Jones. "It's only fair."

Rep. Chris Hooper, R-Boise, noted that businessmen are not compensated for collecting income or other taxes.

"It might have some merit, if we weren't in a financial crunch," said Loveland.

The panel also voted to hold indefinitely, which usually is a killing motion, legislation which would have sharply restricted the grocery tax credit granted on state income tax returns.

A taxpayer with taxable income under $12,000 would have received a $20 credit. But a taxpayer with taxable income over $22,000 would receive nothing.

Jones noted that some people shop in places such as the Trading Post on the Port Neches Reservation, which doesn't charge sales tax, but still can apply for the refund.

Hooper said the federal government soon will ban sales taxes on groceries purchased with food stamps, but those people still will be able to apply for grocery tax refunds.

The committee discussed that problem, and Rep. Noy Brackett, R-Twin Falls, suggested a new state law so people who receive food stamps can't receive the credit.

Other members of the committee said that would be impossible to administer, because some people only qualify for food stamps for a few months, then go off the rolls.

Seat belt law faces changes

BOISE (AP) — A House committee wants to amend legislation requiring Idahoans to wear seat belts in moving motor vehicles.

The House Transportation and Defense Committee on Monday voted to send House Bill 414 to the House floor for amendment.

Committee chairman John Sessions, R-Orion, said committee members voted to lower the proposed fine for violations from $25 to $5 plus court costs.

The legislation requires that seat belts be worn by each occupant of the front seat of vehicles under 6,000 pounds gross weight, which are equipped with seat belts.

The regulation would not apply to farm or emergency vehicles, motorcycles, or vehicles not equipped with seat belts for all front seat passengers.

Loan delinquency letters go in mail

PRESTON (AP) — Bad news is in the mail this week for 24 Franklin County farmers who are being notified by the Farmers Home Administration that they are behind on loan payments by as much as three years.

Ralph Mortenson, administrator of the program in Franklin County, said on Monday that receiving the letter is a farmer's first step toward either financial reorganization or foreclosure on his property.

Now that a government-loan moratorium on foreclosures has been lifted, the administration is able to notify eight farmers from whom it had received no payment for three years, or who have sold mortgaged property without notifying the lender.

"Somewhere down the line, we might do it, but this is not the year," said Rep. Don Loveland, R-Boise.

"I don't think we can afford it. Six taxpayers now get $15 per exemption as a credit against state income tax, in essence a partial refund for sales tax paid on food.

The defeated bill would have allowed low-income taxpayers $20 per exemption, but would have cut the credit for other taxpayers ac-

What's what

Skiers who wear the more expensive costumes out there tend to have more accidents than the less well-dressed. Checker-uppers in the Netherlands have proved that statistically, but they don't know why. They also found that skiers who drink have fewer skiing accidents than non-drinkers. More relaxed maybe. Or maybe they don't get out on the slopes as much.

Q. What athlete has received the most medals, set the most records, and swept the most tournaments in this century?
A. Babe Didrikson Zaharias.

While he lived at Mount Vernon, George Washington, ever in tune with the times, boosted the slave population there from 10 to 200.

HIGHEST SUICIDE RATE
Q. What country has the lowest suicide rate?

A. Mexico.

Preserve the vernacular, urges our Language man. Keep on saying "danged" and "shucks" and "princlear." Unless you're Hawaiian. In that case, retain another sort of tangy lingu. Such as on a sign next to a railroad cross on Maui: "Open Your Eyes - Beware the Flery Car!"

Q. One that's "washy" racehorse?
A. What that swats a lot, even in the paddock, even in the post parade.

FIRST FLIGHT?
"First person to fly in a powered airplane was Jacob Brodbeck over Luckenbach, Texas, in 1865." So contends a client. "Newspaper accounts say there were witnesses, and say the plane, otherwise undescribed, was powered by a large clock spring."

Q. What did President James Madison, who only weighed 100 pounds, and President Zachary Taylor, who never voted, have in common?
A. Not a thing except remote relatives - they were first cousins.

How many times have you mused over the fact that Damlan of Vienna - 1829 - invented the accordion just four years before Andrew Jackson - 1833 - became the first U.S. president to ride a train?
"The real Hungarian goulash is a soup."

Daily Horoscope

Tonight plan how to be more economical in the future.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Although you may feel nervous in the morning, calm yourself. Steer clear of contacts who annoy you during the day.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You seem to have a myriad of duties to perform, but be patient, and they are soon behind you. Exercise understanding at home.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You may find it difficult to gain-personal aims during the day, but you get the right start toward evening.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Use care in handling any credit or community affairs during the day, then enjoy socializing in the evening.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Be sure to study every phase of a new enterprise before you commit yourself to it. Enlist the aid of an expert.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Study all reports and statements carefully for possible errors in them that could be very costly to you.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Steer clear of a serious discussion with a partner until you are both in a better frame of mind. Rest at home tonight.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TO DAY ... he or she will be very exact and neat at whatever is important to do and will make few or no mistakes.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Until sundown, upsetting incidents can occur to cause you anxiety, so expect and be prepared for them. Use this as an opportunity to find better solutions to all your problems.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Be efficient and avoid making any mistakes at work. In the evening, put aside time to tend to financial affairs.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Make a plan on how to best gain your secret desires, and then stick to it strictly. Get right to the point with friends.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You may feel you are not living your professed philosophy of life, but try your best. Visit a prominent person tonight.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Daytime may bring problems at home, so be tactful in handling them. Do whatever will improve your health.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) If you are not careful, you could spend far more than you had planned to do.

High court kills pornography law

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court in a decision that could hamper local efforts to combat pornography, struck down an unconstitutional Monday an Indianapolis ordinance that subjected distributors of sexually explicit material to lawsuits.

By a 6-3 vote, the justices said the ordinance, which allowed women injured by someone who had seen or read pornographic material to sue the maker or seller, interferes with freedom of speech.

Acting in hundreds of other cases as it returned to the bench after a four-week recess, the court also:

- Agreed to decide by July the constitutionality of the new law requiring a balanced budget by 1991. The justices said they will hear arguments in the case on April 23 and decide it before adjourning for the summer.

- Let stand a Texas "no pass, no play" law that has sidelined high school athletes and silenced band musicians with falling grades.

- Said it will use a case from California involving a Nicaraguan woman to decide what test the government must use to refuse asylum to illegal aliens who say they will be persecuted if forced to return to their homeland.

- Closed the way for extradition to Israel of John Demjanjuk, a retired auto worker from Cleveland who allegedly helped kill hundreds of thousands of Jews in a World War II death camp.

- Agreed to decide in a Connecticut case whether convicted criminals may avoid making court-ordered restitution payments — including payments to their victims — by declaring bankruptcy.

- Agreed to hear the appeals of two brothers on Arizona's death row and the appeal of a convicted Mississippi murderer also condemned to death.

- Set the stage for what could become a major criminal justice decision by agreeing to consider reinstating a Baltimore man's heroin-distribution conviction. The court is being asked to use the case to expand the "good faith" exception to a 72-year-old rule aimed at deterring police misconduct.

- Refused in a case from South Carolina to let loan companies and their customers use household goods and future earnings as collateral for personal loans.

- Refused to bar California from regulating the service charges national banks impose on customers who write checks for more than they have in their checking accounts.

- The Indianapolis ordinance defined pornography as a practice that discriminates against women by portraying them as sexual objects who enjoy pain or humiliation and presents them as sexual objects of

Shuttle cold was noted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Crews examining the space shuttle Challenger at close hand shortly before launch reported abnormally cold temperatures on one booster rocket over a radio circuit monitored in NASA's launch control center, a source close to the shuttle investigation said Monday.

But, he said, "these low temperatures never got the attention they should have."

"The issue of what 'launch officials' knew and when they knew it will be explored by the presidential investigating commission in open hearings Tuesday and Wednesday. "It will all come out tomorrow," said the investigation source. "It ain't going to be good. The American people are going to scream bloody murder."

Witnesses scheduled to come before the commission Tuesday include Allan McDonald, the Morton Thiokol engineer who refused to endorse a recommendation to launch, and Joe

C. Kilminster, the firm's vice president who signed the recommendation.

The source said the readings were made by an "ice team" sent out 90 minutes and 20 before the launch to ensure that the shuttle's fuel tank was not covered with ice that could drop off and damage the ship's tiles. The team, he said, works like a bomb-disposal squad, reporting over a radio every movement and step around the ship and its toxic, volatile fuels — so if there is an explosion, experts can trace the movements.

Red ink flow dips in January

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal budget deficit narrowed further in January to $6.49 billion, down 56 percent from the December imbalance, the government reported Monday. Even with the sharp decline, the deficit for the first four months of the fiscal year, was still 2.7 percent ahead of last year's pace, when the deficit surged to an all-time high of $212.3 billion for the entire year.

With $11.7 billion in budget cuts are due to go into effect on March 1 under the Gramm-Rudman deficit-reduction law, the Reagan administration is predicting the deficit this year will shrink slightly to $202.79 billion. The law calls for even sharper reductions for the next year that would reduce the fiscal 1987 deficit to $144 billion.

Bookellers Association, comprised of about 5,200 bookstore owners, challenged the ordinance in a federal lawsuit. A federal trial judge and the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled that the ordinance wrongly discriminates on the basis of speech content.

The appeals court said that under the ordinance, "Speech treating women in the approved way — in sexual encounters premised on equality — is lawful no matter how sexually explicit."

Soviets convene congress

MOSCOW (AP) — The 27th Communist Party Congress, the first convened by the Kremlin's new generation, opens today with a marathon speech by Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev setting down the party's foreign and domestic policy.

Gorbachev's speech to 5,000 Soviet party delegates and foreign guests will take up most of the first day's business, according to Kremlin spokesman Leonid M. Zamyatin.

The last congress convened in 1981 under the leadership of Leonid I. Brezhnev and lasted nine days. It was primarily a patriotic outpouring for the party faithful.

The report from Gorbachev, 54, will "essentially be a summary of the party's work between the last congress and this one, and also of the Soviet Union's foreign and domestic policy," Zamyatin told a news conference Monday.

Observers expect Gorbachev to focus on his goal of improving the economy through greater discipline and technology. Some criticism of the Brezhnev era for not adequately dealing with economic problems or upholding party morality also is expected at the congress.

Gorbachev took power after the death of Konstantin U. Chernenko last March. Three old-generation Kremlin chiefs — Chernenko, Yuri V. Andropov and Brezhnev — have died since the 1981 congress.

The opening of the congress, but not Gorbachev's entire speech, will be nationally televised from the Kremlin's Palace of Congresses. Radio Moscow said a simultaneous translation of Gorbachev's speech will be broadcast in English and several other languages.

Campbell remains in custody after plea for a bond

Prosecutor doubts his actions if freed

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Despite his plea for a bond that would allow him to settle the estate of his late mother, Mitchell Ray Campbell was being held in the Twin Falls County jail on Monday in lieu of $100,000 bond.

Prior to Friday, Campbell, 37, of 173 Larkspur Drive in Twin Falls, was free on a federal court bond, pending appeal of convictions in that court last year on drug charges. He was arrested Friday by Twin Falls police and appeared Monday before 5th District Magistrate Charles Brumbach on the two counts of delivery of a controlled substance.

He is charged with delivery of cocaine and Emperin with codeine. The complaint charges that Campbell made two deliveries to an individual at K-mart Friday. District Judge Daniel Hurlbut set the $100,000 bond following that arrest.

Brumbach continued bond at $100,000 and remanded him to the Twin Falls County jail.

Deputy Prosecutor Jeff Hoskings asked the court to allow no bond or to retain the bond set by Judge Hurlbut. He explained that the recent arrest came while the defendant was free on bond for appeal of conviction on several federal drug charges. He said weapons were found in Campbell's residence following the Friday arrest and that there is an indication that further violations would occur if Campbell is released.

Brumbach ordered a preliminary hearing, which was set for Monday for March 10 at 1:30 p.m. Brumbach also said he would disqualify himself in the case at the request of Campbell, although no reason for the request was given.

Campbell said he is being represented by Gar Hackney, a Boise attorney. Four other persons, who gave their addresses as 173 Larkspur Drive, were arraigned Monday on charges of possession of marijuana.

Brumbach set bond at $1,500 for Lesa Dahlin, 19; Audrene Hogan, 20; Darren L. Kuhlhanck, 20; and Blake W. Waddoups, 20. All four pleaded innocent to the charges and were granted the services of the public defender.

The arrests were also made Friday, after police entered Campbell's residence with a search warrant and allegedly found marijuana in the rooms occupied by the four suspects.

School funds

Blaine taxpayers face $1.6 million override

By BARBARA NEIWERT
Times-News correspondent

HAILEY — Blaine County School District patrons will be asked to fund a $1.6 million override levy in an election on March 20.

The Board of Trustees met Monday to decide on the amount of the override and unanimously approved the lower of two option amounts presented by Superintendent David Noonan.

The trustees rejected a $1.76 million proposal and decided instead to keep the override the same as that approved by voters last year. The higher amount represented a 10 percent hike and would have provided for some growth in programs, Noonan said.

However, trustees felt constituents are willing to continue to support existing programs but do not want to pay higher taxes to improve programs.

In a related matter, trustees also met in a closed executive session and decided to direct the school district's attorney Rand Peebles to analyze the possibility of initiating litigation against the State Board of Education and the Idaho Tax Commission.

Board members said they are considering filing a lawsuit against the state agencies in an attempt to correct the "unfair" distribution of state funds to school districts, Noonan said.

The state's equalization formula to distribute state educational funds is viewed as unfair, Noonan said, because as the county's market value assessments increase, the district receives less funding.

The average school district receives 70 percent of its funding from state revenues, while Blaine County receives 12 percent.

Projected revenues from the state equalization formula will net

Shoshone board OKs preliminary cost cuts

By HOWARD MILLER
Times-News correspondent

SHOSHONE — The Shoshone School Board approved preliminary cost-cutting measures Saturday aimed at reducing the district's $70,000 to $120,000 deficit.

The public will have a chance to debate the proposals on March 4 at 7 p.m. when the school board will take public testimony on the reductions in staff and programs.

The meeting will be held in the Lincoln Elementary School gymnasium.

Superintendent Tim Adsit said the district's deficit could be cut by $58,534 by taking the following steps:

- Eliminate the high school library aide position immediately and do not replace the retiring business teacher.
- Reduce to part-time the teaching assignments in the home economics, business education and vocational special needs programs.
- Share the high school counselor position with the Dietrich School District.
- Freeze-the wages of Adsit and Elementary Principal Dan Pagoga for next year.
- Adsit said another $20,000-27,000 could be saved by developing an educational foundation to generate funds for extracurricular activities and by implementing several recommendations developed during the recent Managing Costs Creatively study.

The superintendent also recommended moving junior high athletics outside the regular school day and not contributing the district's $12,000 share of a scheduled bus purchase.

However, he recommended about $34,000 in repairs to district schools should be completed for health, safety and maintenance

City unhappy with Price's greenery plan

Mall planners propose fewer plants than city code requires

By ANNETTE CARY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Price Development Corp. officials tonight are expected to present a new Magic Valley Mall landscaping plan that comes closer to, but does not meet, city codes.

If a Monday City Council work session is an indication, tonight's discussion of the plans at a Planning and Zoning Commission meeting should be lively.

There's a little dissension between the Price people and P&Z, said Councilman Jim Vickers, who attended a P&Z-work session Thursday. "People felt like threats are being made," he also said the Price officials had "a little air of arrogance."

If Price is forced to put in as many evergreen trees and shrubs as the code requires, they are threatening to spend their landscaping budget on "one-gallon little shrubs that do not look good," Vickers said.

Councilman Rick Carr, who also is a liaison to the P&Z commission, said Price would not do that because it would not present a good image to the public at the grand opening.

Price wants to put in fewer shrubs than the code allows, the councilman said. The latest proposal worked out on Thursday includes 3,721 of the 3,819 shrubs required by the code, although there is some question about whether 1,229 creeping Jenny plants — a low, ground covering — can be considered shrubbery.

"Price doesn't like shrubs," Carr said. "You can tell that from their other malls," said Councilman Erik Anderson. Prices and malls in Idaho Falls and Pocatello would not meet Twin Falls landscaping requirements.

Carr said that Twin Falls landscaping requirements may be too strict for a development as large as the Magic Valley Mall. He called Price's landscaping proposal "a good-looking plan," but said he still has concerns about the project.

Price officials have said shrubbery is difficult to maintain because trash becomes caught in it.

"Personally, I think it's their tradition," Carr said. "If they do not pick it up, it blows away to someone else's (property)."

He was also concerned that most of the planned landscaping was on the back side of the mall, separating it from another commercial development, rather than separating it from Blue Lakes Boulevard, he said. There is no shrubbery planned for the perimeter of the mall area, he said.

Shrubbery will be essential to add greenery to the mall in the winter, said Councilman Gale Kleinkopf.

Developers are also still short on the number of trees they want to plant. The code requires 764 trees, with 382 to be evergreen. The latest landscaping plan proposed by Price includes only 507 trees, with 195 of them evergreens.

Price would like to plant fewer 12- to 14-foot trees, rather than planting smaller trees and meeting the numbers required by the code, Vickers said. He agrees with what he considers a public perception that the company wants to save some money, he said.

The size of the trees in the first few years is less important than the long-term look of the mall, Carr said. Smaller trees would grow quickly and there would be little difference in the way the mall looked in five years, he said.

The commission will discuss Price's plans at a 7 p.m. meeting tonight at City Hall.

Low clouds, poor view led to helicopter crash

KEETCHUM — A helicopter crash Sunday on mountainside just north of Bald Mountain Ski Area occurred when the pilot flew into clouds surrounding the mountain and crashed into a tree, said a federal spokesman for the National Transportation Safety Board Monday.

Candace Carrera of the NTSB office in Seattle said the pilot, Brad Martin, 37, of Sun Valley, accidentally flew into low clouds after picking up an injured skier from Bald Mountain and hit a nearby mountainside.

Wreckage of the damaged craft was brought down from the mountainside Monday afternoon, said John Reeder of Reeder Flying Service Inc. in Twin Falls. Reeder said the damaged craft has been turned over to Reeder Flying Service Inc.'s insurance company and will remain in Keetchum until adjusters have completed their work.

The craft, a Bell 206 helicopter, was down on a ridge north of the Bald Mountain ski runs shortly after it picked up an injured skier on the College ski trail. Reeder said the Federal Aviation Administration has completed a thorough investigation.

A helicopter was brought to the scene from Boise to lift the damaged aircraft from the ridge Monday afternoon.

Reeder also reported that Martin, 37, was the key person in recovering well from head and chest injuries and should be back on flight duty soon.

His passengers included the injured skier, Ginger Sorenson, 37, and her husband, Lavern Sorenson, 42, both of Othello, Wash., and W.F. McNeal, 37, a ski patrolman from Hailley. They were not hospitalized, although Ginger Sorenson reportedly suffered an arm injury on Bald Mountain.

Young speakers spread message of drug trouble

By JANE ROBISON
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — In the stillness of a hushed crowd, a 14-year-old Twin Falls youth and a 21-year-old College of Southern Idaho student described their lives under the influence of drugs and alcohol.

"I'm an alcoholic. I don't like to face it sometimes. And the only way I can get through the rest of my life is to think I only have one day, and that's today. I can't think about the rest."

That was the testimonial of a 14-year-old recovering alcoholic and drug addict identified only as P.J., a student who attends Robert Stuart Junior High School.

He was one of five speakers at a community awareness night on Monday testifying on the dangers and effects of drugs and alcohol on young people.

The night, the kickoff of "Drug Awareness Week" in Magic Valley, drew a crowd of more than 150 parents and students to O'Leary Junior High School's auditorium.

CSI student Vale Mauldin was one of the speakers at the Monday night conference

I didn't care about school. I did cool, think again." Although he did not say what forced him to change, he said he is now back in school and doing better. "I don't have to steal from people anymore," he said.

P.J. said that although he was under age, he often drove when he was drunk, but "I was lucky; I never got caught, or hurt anyone."

Not so lucky was 24-year-old Vale Mauldin, another speaker.

"I took my choices and threw them out the window," said Mauldin, as he stood with a sling around his left arm, the result of a motorcycle accident that claimed the life of his best friend. "I was running and gunning, and I thought I could handle it."

Mauldin described the night when, while drunk, he blacked out and drove his motorcycle into a steel pole. He was in the Army, stationed in Texas at the time.

Now, he has no feeling in his left arm, but said: "I don't have the gumption to have it cut off, although someday, I'll have to." As a result of the accident, he was sentenced to 30 days in jail, given a $2,000 fine, and dishonorably discharged from the Army. But because of his drunken driving charge, he forfeited his military benefits, he said.

"The Army's getting tough on drugs and alcohol, too," he said. Mauldin said that because of his accident, he is now attending CSI and meeting in psychology so that someday he can become a probation or parole officer. He also speaks to Man charged in furnace attack

TWIN FALLS — Evan Allen Taylor, 43, of Twin Falls, was charged with first-degree burglary Saturday night after he allegedly forced his way into a home on Pierce Street at gunpoint and then shot up the furnace.

Twin Falls police were called about 10 p.m. Saturday to investigate a complaint by Rita Sligar, of 567 Pierce St., who said a man with a gun forced his way into her home and fired three shots into the furnace.

Taylor was arrested following an investigation at the scene and a search of various locations in Twin Falls Saturday night.

Taylor told the court he was ready to plead guilty, and that he had no money to pay for an attorney. Brumback appointed the public defender, and Taylor said he would then plead no guilty.

Bond was set at $1,500 and Taylor was remanded to the custody of the sheriff, pending bond.

Car/auto collision injures rider

TWIN FALLS — James M. Thomas, 19, of Twin Falls, escaped with minor injuries just before 1 p.m. Monday when his bicycle collided with a car at the intersection of Blue Lakes North and Heyburn Avenue.

Investigating officers said Thomas was riding his bicycle south on Blue Lakes Boulevard, and did not see a car driven by Kenneth R. Roberts, 57, of Jerome, that was northbound on Blue Lakes Boulevard and turning right onto Heyburn Avenue.

reasons. He said the work should include repair of a portion of the roofs not covered by last year's override, completion of one-half of the necessary asbestos containment, installation of fire alarm systems and bringing the elementary gymnasium up to safety codes.

Adsit also recommended creating a "mandatory" class schedule for grade level and developing individual student four-year plans that would meet graduation and accreditation standards.

Under this plan, students will be required to take certain courses at specific grade levels with a variety of electives.

Adsit said public opinion is crucial for the board in scheduling important decisions facing the district. No final decision will be made until after the March 4 meeting with the public, he said.

"The purpose of the meeting is not to legitimize an already established plan," he said.

Adsit said patrons who want to speak at the meeting will be given five minutes to make their presentations.

Blaine County just $185,135 for the 1986-87 school year. Other estimated revenue from the state include $266,323 for transportation expenses and $205,789 from the ancillary fund which pays for special educational staff and programs.

Of the district's $5.6 million budget, 88 percent will be paid for with local taxes, Noonan said.

He said the $1.6 million override is part of a "no growth" budget and will involve further tightening within the district.

Increased costs for utilities and insurance premiums are required expenses which have had a negative influence on the quality of education, said Chairman Frank Rowland.

Asking voters for the same amount as levied last year essentially results in "slicing" the budget, said Trustee Peter Flood.

"I feel comfortable we can maintain the quality we have with this budget," Noonan said, adding he regretted it would not allow for program improvements within the district.

Blaine County is not alone in its efforts to provide adequate funding for educational programs.

Since 1980, the state has decreased funding by 48 percent throughout the state, but Blaine County School District's enrollment has increased by 25 percent, Noonan said, adding there is an inversely proportional correlation between the figures.

The board will not pursue another election if this override fails.

groups on the hazards of drinking and driving.

The point of the testimonials of P.J. and Mauldin, among others, were to stress the importance of communication between parents and their children, and to try and encourage positive peer pressure to force students not to drink drunk.

"I encourage you to sign a contract for life," said Davis Johnson, a national speaker representing Students Against Driving Drunk (SADD). "It doesn't mean you encourage their drinking. But it does mean you face reality. And if they're drunk or in trouble, they know they can call you for a ride home — no questions asked. At a later time, you can discuss the problem."

City speeds up pipe-replacement

Section's collapse requires fast action

TWIN FALLS — The city of Twin Falls is proceeding with replacement of the Grandview wastewater collection pipeline sooner than expected on Friday a corroded section of the pipe near Pole Line Road collapsed.

Monday, the City Council voted to replace about 700 feet of the pipeline's approximately 20,000-foot length. The pipe for the first part of the project will cost $27,000 in addition to undetermined labor costs and the cost of renting a pump to break the section under construction.

The total cost of replacing the full length of the pipeline has been estimated at as much as $2 million.

The city is planning to pay for as much of the work as possible with sewer fees that were not decreased when Idaho Frozen Foods began piping waste to the city plant this year. Spreading overhead costs to IFF and a more efficient operation may save $100,000-$110,000 annually, city officials have estimated.

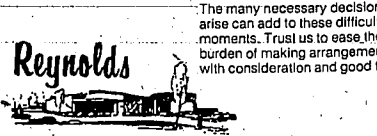

The 24-year-old pipeline serves the Magic Valley Regional Medical Center and the west side of the city.

"Grandview is an accident waiting to happen," said J-U-3 Engineers, consultant Wayne Forrey in December.

By that time, two cave-ins along the pipeline had already occurred, as hydrogen sulfide gas from sewage had eaten away the inside of concrete pipes.

Despite the most recent collapse, wastewater continues to flow through the pipeline and service has not been interrupted.

Pastor's '38 piece on persecution lives

DEAR ABBY: I am very much interested in obtaining an item that appeared in your column. I can't remember exactly how it went, but it contained an important message for people who did not want to get involved with the persecution of minorities because it didn't concern them. For example:

"They came and took the Indian, and I said nothing;

"They came and took the Jew, and I said nothing;

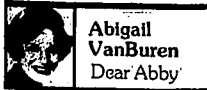

"They came and took the Negro, and I said nothing;

"And then they came for me."

I hope you know the piece I am referring to, Abby. I need it for a speech I am writing. Thank you.

—MELISSA, FOXHOME, MINN.
DEAR MELISSA: This is it — it was my response to a letter I received.

DEAR PERPLEXED: Speak up! You may not educate your in-laws with one speech, but you can let them know that you disapprove of racial "jokes" and do not care to hear them.

Abigail VanBuren Dear Abby

Apropos remaining silent when one should speak up is this gem of a piece I have kept for nearly 30 years. It was written by a German Lutheran pastor who was arrested by the Gestapo in 1938 and sent to Dachau concentration camp until he was freed by the Allied forces in 1945.

I DIDN'T SPEAK UP
By Rev. Martin Niemöller

"In Germany, the Nazis first came for the communists, and I didn't speak up because I wasn't a communist. Then they came for the Jews, and I didn't speak up because I wasn't a Jew. Then they came for the trade unionists, and I didn't speak up because I wasn't a trade unionist. Then they came for the Catholics, and I didn't speak up because I was a Protestant. Then they came for me, and by that time there was no one left to speak for me."

DEAR ABBY: We live in an apartment building, and it's one of the nicest in town. The people in the apartment directly above ours have no floor covering, and they are constantly dragging furniture around, which is very disturbing. When they walk it sounds like a herd of buffalo stampeding up there.

Don't suggest that we report them to the manager. He IS the manager, and they have a waiting list of people who want to move in here.

Now what?

RUPERT — The funeral for Wilkie Wilmon Dawson, 64, of Rupert, who died Saturday, will be conducted at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the Paul First Baptist Church. Burial will be in the Paul Cemetery with military graveside rites under the direction of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Disabled American Veterans, the American Legion and the Veterans of World War I. Friends may call at the Hansen Mortuary today from 1 p.m. until 8 p.m. and at the church Wednesday one hour before the time of the funeral. The family suggests memorials be made to the Paul First Baptist Church.

City speeds up pipe replacement

Section's collapse requires fast action

TWIN FALLS — The city of Twin Falls is proceeding with replacement of the Grandview wastewater collection pipeline sooner than expected; on Friday a corroded section of the pipe near Pole Line Road collapsed.

On Monday, the City Council voted to replace about 700 feet of the pipeline's approximately 20,000-foot length. The pipe for the first part of the project will cost $27,000 in addition to undetermined labor costs and the cost of renting a pump to bypass the section under construction.

The total cost of replacing the full length of the pipeline has been estimated at as much as $2 million.

The city is planning to pay for as much of the work as possible with sewer fees that were not decreased when Idaho Frozen Foods began piping waste to the city plant this year. Spreading overhead costs to I.F.F. at a more efficient operation may save $100,000-$110,000 annually, city officials have estimated.

The 24-year-old pipeline serves the Magic Valley Regional Medical Center and the west side of the city. "Grandview is an accident waiting to happen," said J-U-B Engineers, consultant Wayne Forrey in December. By that time, two cave-ins along the pipeline had already occurred, as hydrogen sulfide gas from sewage had eaten away the inside of concrete pipes.

Despite the most recent collapse, wastewater continues to flow through the pipeline and service has not been interrupted.

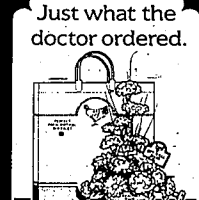

Many necessary decisions that arise can add to these difficult moments. Trust us to ease the burden of making arrangements with consideration and good taste.

Pastor's '38 piece on persecution lives

DEAR ABBY: I am very much interested in obtaining an item that appeared in your column. I can't remember exactly how it went, but it contained an important message for people who did not want to get involved with the persecution of minorities because it didn't concern them. For example:

"They came and took the Indian, and I said nothing."
"They came and took the Jew, and I said nothing."

"They came and took the Negro, and I said nothing."
"And then they came for me."

I hope you know the piece I am referring to, Abby. I need it for a speech I am writing. Thank you.

—MELISSA, FOXHOM, MINN.
DEAR MELISSA: This is it — it was my response to a letter I received:

DEAR PERPLEXED: See, you may not educate your mind. Then they came for the Jews, and I didn't speak up because I was a Jew. Then they came for the Catholics, and I didn't speak up because I wasn't a Catholic. Then they came for the Protestants, and I didn't speak up because I was a Protestant. Then

Dear Abby

Approx remaining silent when one should speak up is this gem of a piece I have kept for nearly 30 years. It was written by a German Lutheran pastor who was arrested by the Gestapo in 1938 and sent to Dachau concentration camp until he was freed by the Allied forces in 1945.

DEAR ABBY: We live in an apartment building, and it's one of the nicest in town. The people in the apartment directly above ours have no floor covering, and they are constantly dragging furniture around, which is very disturbing. When they walk, it sounds like a herd of buffalo stampeding up there.

Don't suggest that we report them to the manager. He IS the manager, and they have a waiting list of people who want to move in here.

Judge nixes plea; Rushton trial set

By RONDA TAYLOR
Times-News correspondent

BURLEY — A new twist was added Monday in the trial of David W. Rushton, 41, who is accused of voluntarily manslaughter in the January 1985 stabbing death of Burley resident Evan Thompson.

Rushton pleaded guilty last month and was scheduled to be sentenced Monday in Cassia Magistrate Court. However, Judge George Granata Jr. ruled instead that the guilty plea be withdrawn and the case be reset for a jury trial.

After receiving two pre-sentencing investigative reports last Friday, Granata found the facts of the case were "significantly disputed." There were "too many controverted facts going in both directions" towards Rushton's guilt or innocence, Granata said.

"Justice is better served by having all of the contested facts heard before a jury," the judge ruled. No conclusions should be drawn or inferences made about the defendant's guilt or innocence based on the court action, Granata added.

Defense attorney Roger Cox agreed with the court's motion to withdraw the guilty plea and schedule a jury trial.

Legal rules allow a plea to be withdrawn prior to sentencing, he added.

Rushton's previous guilty plea was entered pursuant to North Carolina vs. Alford, meaning the defendant doesn't admit to guilt, but does admit to being present at the date and place in question.

Granata granted Cox's requested that information disclosed in the pre-sentencing investigation be sealed. Cox said the move would protect his witnesses who had been "assailed in the past" with threatening phone calls.

Mindoka Deputy Prosecuting Attorney Timothy Spencer argued against the court's motion for a trial. He said the court could place itself in a prejudicial situation by granting its own motion. He also cited the added expense of holding a trial.

Spencer said some witnesses for the prosecution have already moved from the area, and he is concerned that people who are currently residents may leave the area before the matter comes to trial.

Spencer told the court that one of the chief prosecution witnesses, Mitchell Hodge, was seriously injured in a fight Saturday night at A's Pizza in Burley.

Hodge suffered a stab wound to the abdomen during the altercation, Spencer said. No one has been charged in the stabbing, and the incident is presently under investigation by the Burley police department.

Police Lt. Jim Higgins said Burley police and Cassia County sheriffs arrested Robert Cobio, Nova, 25; Burley; Francisco Cobio, also known as Francisco DeLaRosa, 22, Burley; Anthony Prieto, 18, Ogden; and Gerald Rex Draper, 26, Paul, during the incident.

Nova, Prieto, and Draper were arraigned Monday in Cassia Magistrate Court on charges of disturbing the peace, and Cobio was charged with aggravated assault.

There is no direct connection between the Saturday fight and the Rushton case, Higgins said.

Hodge, a friend of Evan Thompson, was present the night Thompson was killed. Thompson died of a stab wound received outside the Office

Bar in Paul on Jan. 31, 1985.

Thompson's family, including his grandparents, attended court Monday. They say they are frustrated by the continuation of the Rushton case.

"Will justice ever be done?" Georgia Thompson, Evan's mother, asked following Granata's decision to schedule a trial.

Panel ready to discuss Magic West plant

By CAROLYN DILWORTH
Times-News correspondent

GLENN'S FERRY — A committee has been appointed by Mayor Dayle Messery to meet with Magic West representatives to discuss specifics of a lease agreement and general operations for a new potato processing plant.

The committee includes Messery, City Council members Larry Rose and Jessie Flemming, County Commissioner John Shrum and Glenn's Ferry Development Corp. representative Bob Cunningham.

Earlier this month, the council approved a proposal to raise the rent on 37 city-owned lots where the plant is located to $3,000, up from $100 which the previous owner of the facility had been charged. Bill Schow, of Magic West in Rupert, met with the council Thursday and asked for an opportunity to negotiate the lease with representatives of the city.

He said following the meeting that the company is not deliberately trying to lease the property for less than its proper value. The $100 price was based on previous lease agreements, he said, and no one from the council had questioned the fairness of the figure during previous negotiations.

The new committee and Magic West representatives will meet Wednesday at 8 a.m. at City Hall. In addition to the lease, committee members will discuss water use and supply, truck routes, police protection and waste disposal at the site. In other business, Messery said residents should not be "fearful" of the city's project to rezone land within the city limits.

"We don't want to hurt anybody," he said. "We're not going to move anybody." The problem the city is trying to correct is inappropriate zoning, he said. Many areas are presently zoned for residential development that have no homes on them and may be appropriate for light or heavy industrial zoning, he said.

He encouraged members of the Planning and Zoning Committee to attend as many community meetings as possible, such as meetings of the Chamber of Commerce or other civic groups, to explain the city's rezoning project. City Attorney Robert McLaughlin told council members the city may legally require police officers to sign an agreement of employment before being sent to Police Officer Standards and Training (POST) Academy. He said the city could require officers who seek other police employment outside the city within three years of their training to reimburse the city for the cost of their training and related expenses.

Messery said the purpose of such larger cities—from hiring officers after the smaller towns had put in the cost of training them.

It'll be an all-Lincoln County final

No. 1 Indians edge No. 3 Wolves in South

By SCOTT TUDEHOPE
Times-News writer

JEROME — It was a replay worth watching, as top-ranked Shoshone turned back a doggedly determined Castleford defense to win the District 4 Class A-4 Southside Subdistrict boys' championship here Monday, 56-51.

Shoshone now will square off at the district playoffs here Wednesday against Northside Subdistrict champion Dietrich in an all-Lincoln County championship game.

Castleford will take on Northside runner-up Richfield Thursday. Those games are scheduled for 6:30 and 6:50 p.m., respectively.

Monday's finale was nothing like the first three meetings of the season between the two teams, which Shoshone has won overwhelmingly. The third-ranked Wolves apparently learned their lessons well, using defensive alignments that had Indian Coach Larry Messick constantly in the hot seat.

"They did some things defensively tonight that we hadn't seen before," he said. "They're a fine ballclub."

Indian Chris Taber's team-leading defensive rebounds kept Shoshone out of trouble in the first frame, but with the lead changing hands five times, neither team dominated on either side.

Heinrich hit two field goals — one a three-pointer with 1:40 left — to put Castleford up by seven — and with a John Lott basket, the Wolves were up by nine.

Heinrich canned another shot 45 seconds into the next period, and Lott's three-pointer at the 5:30 mark was to give Castleford its biggest margin of the night — 12

Shoshone ahead on an underneath shot. Castleford's Gary Reynolds made a pickup and the Wolves' lead was theirs for the next six minutes.

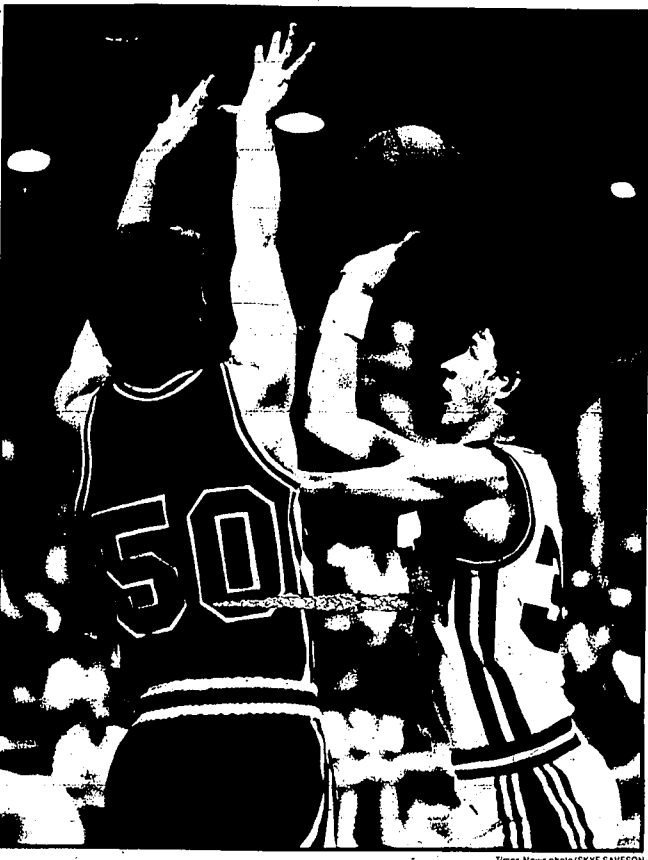

Tim Rowlan, Shoshone's outside threat, hit his fourth three-pointer of the night to tie it up at 45 points with less than two minutes gone in the final period. 6-foot-4 junior teammate Kelly Duffin hit a short shot, then grabbed a defensive rebound after Heinrich's baseline try rolled around the rim.

Castleford was working with essentially its starting five to that point, and its natural effects were evident. Meanwhile, Messick's troops were getting periodic rests, a credit to their depth. Despite that, Castleford's Ron Owen managed to hit a dribbler to make it a one-point game with about 1:30 to go.

The crowning glory came when Shimer bounce passed to Sandy for another bucket. And Castleford, with only a half minute left, had little choice but to foul and good their opponents into the final margin.

Castleford . . . 19 29 45 51
Shoshone . . . 20 28 39 56
Castleford — Owen 9 2, Lott 8 1, Reynolds 4 0 2 8, Lott 8 0 12 19, Heinrichs 7 4 4 1 20. Totals: 21 45 11 51. Three-point goals: Lott 2.

Shoshone — Duffin 3 3 4 9, Taber 1 0 2 2, Shimer 3 0 2 7, Cooper 3 1 2 7, Harris 1 0 1 2, Rowlan 5 0 1 14, Sandy 2 4 1 7. Totals: 22 28 39 56. Three-point goals: Shimer, Sandy 1/2 and Rowlan 1/4.

Devils win Northside from RHS

By BRAD BRELAND
Times-News writer

GOODING — The Dietrich Blue Devils came all the way through the losers' bracket winning five straight games and secured the No. 1 spot in the District 4 Class A-4 Northside Subdistrict boys' basketball tournament with a 55-48 victory over Richfield.

Dietrich will meet Southside champion, Shoshone, on Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. in Jerome for a spot in the state tournament, while Richfield will play Castleford at 6:30 in a battle between the runners-up.

The winner of the Richfield-Castleford contest will play the loser of the Blue Devils-Indians game on Thursday for the second spot from District 4 to next month's state A-4 tournament in Boise.

Richfield started out setting the tempo of the game. Bruce Bowers came out hot hitting 5-for-5 from the field and 4-for-1 from the charity stripe posting the Tigers to an 11-6 advantage.

Bowers kept Richfield ahead for most of the first half hitting 10-of-11 from the field with the only miss coming in a three-point shot.

With 1:33 left in the first quarter, Todd Swainston was whistled for a technical after he was called for a foul. Swainston, Alan Stoddard made the bucket count, made the free throw and Rick Astle hit the net basket on the ensuing out of bounds play to tie the game.

Richfield came down the court and had a pair of misses that Doug Brullia and Curtis Jensen turned into a four-point Dietrich lead and the Devils tied 21-17 at the end of the first quarter.

Bowers caught fire late in the second quarter hitting three shots in a one minute span

POCATELLO — Twin Falls, the hottest team in the Gem State Conference — Indian, and high Class A-1 team in Idaho outside the Treasure Valley at the moment — will invade Pocatello's Highland High School tonight looking for a measure of revenge in the opening round of the Region III Class A-1 boys' basketball tournament.

Across town, Minico will be trying to capitalize on a scare it put into fourth-ranked Pocatello 10 days ago.

The two contests are the first-round games in the new-look regional tournament set for Thursday night, eliminating one of the four participants. A second team will be eliminated the consolation final on Saturday, with the championship game scheduled for next Tuesday.

problem for us until about three years ago, but until this year we've had pretty good success there recently," says the Bruin coach, whose ballclub has won six of its last seven games. "I think the road victory at Skyline (on Jan. 15) got us over the hump as far as winning on the road is concerned. Of course, it's always very tough to win at Pocatello (High)."

Minico Coach Craig Dexter, whose teams have never won at Puky, knows that all too well.

"We're of the opinion that we don't want to go to Pocatello and get into a running game with them," says Dexter, whose ballclub almost beat the Gem State Conference champion Indians on Valentine's Day before falling 55-53 in Rupert. "We have the ability to run, but that's not something we want to do at their place."

Of concern to Dexter — and Astorquia and Highland Coach Don Cotant as well — is a Pocatello offense that has generated an average of 66 points a game. Under former Bull Coach Jerry Koester, Poky has won more than 90 percent of its home games in the past three years

Big Sky

It'll take 2 victories on road for Axers to catch Montana

By The Associated Press

BSC

The University of Montana moved to the top of the Big Sky Conference pack with victories over two Idaho rivals over the weekend.

The Grizzlies broke a 7-4 conference tie with Idaho State last week by dismantling Boise State, 91-76, and the University of Idaho, 91-68. The double wins place Montana at 9-4 in the Big Sky and 19-9 overall.

Northern Arizona stayed a half-game behind Montana by defeating Weber State and Idaho State last week. The Lumberjacks can win the regular-season conference title outright with road victories at Boise State and Idaho State this weekend, but only if the Grizzlies lose Saturday night to Montana State in Bozeman.

A state is a first-round bye, in next week's Big Sky Conference tournament in Reno, Nev. Because Idaho State is on NCAA probation and ineligible to participate in the league's postseason tournament, it was a seven-team affair this year with the Big Sky's regular-season winner getting a bye into the semifinals.

A-2: Tourney of upsets begins tonight

By STEVE CRUMP
Times-News sports editor

TWIN FALLS — Everything you need to know about the District 4 Class A-2 boys' basketball tournament is summed up in one simple fact: The South-Central Idaho Conference champion hasn't won this event in the past five years.

"It's an awfully tough tournament, especially on the first night," says Coach Wayne Humphreys of the top-seeded Burley Indians, which along with Burley shared the SCIC title this year. "I don't know whether it's the tournament jitters or playing in an unfamiliar arena or what. But the fact is that in the past five years, the top seed hasn't won it."

Buhl (11-9) will try to break that streak, starting tonight in the College of Southern Idaho gymnasium against fourth-seeded Wood River (8-11). That game is scheduled for 6:30 p.m., with second-seeded Burley (11-9) scheduled to take on third-seeded Jerome (10-10), the defending district champion, at 10:00.

SCIC

Team	Final Standings	W	L	Pct.	GB
Burley (11)	11	1	5	.688	0
Burley (11)	11	1	5	.688	0
Jerome (10)	10	3	7	.594	1
Burley (8)	8	4	4	.500	3
Wood River (8)	8	5	3	.625	3
Mt. Home (6)	6	6	0	.500	6

The winners and losers will return to the same venue Wednesday night, with a consolation round game at 6:30 and the tournament semifinals at 8. One more team will be eliminated in a Friday night loser-out game, with the championship to be settled Monday night. A junior varsity tournament will precede the main event each night, starting this afternoon at 4:45.

At stake is the district's automatic berth in the state A-2 tournament in Boise next month. The runner-up will get a shot at going to state as well, but it will have to beat the runners-up from District 5 and go through three.

Coaches agree that the reason favorites don't fare well in the district A-2 tournament is that the four teams are always so evenly matched. Wood River, for example, beat Buhl substantially last month in Halley and almost got to the Indians last Friday night in Buhl before falling 53-49.

Burley, which owned a nine-game winning streak before it started a four-game losing streak two weeks ago, clinched a share of the title a full three weeks ago. The Bobcats then lost their last two league games, falling to Jerome at home last Thursday.

"Really, you never know what's going to happen," says Burley Coach Larry Jensen. "Wood River's not an excellent ballclub — they took us into overtime up there. Jerome is always tough, and Buhl has been playing real well. We've got to play without mistakes and stop the big kids, who've really hurt us in the last few games."

"Really, what it boils down to is whoever's playing best this week," says Humphreys. "If you can get through Tuesday and win Wednesday, then you're in pretty good shape."

Three of four teams — the Indians, the Bobcats and the Wolverines — rely on a combination of size in the middle and ability to move the ball on offense. The fourth — Jerome — depends on its man-to-man defense and its perimeter game. The combination can make for some interesting matchups.

"It's not a question of not being familiar with the other teams, because we've just played them," says Humphreys. "It's really a question of being ready to play them Tuesday and Wednesday."

Judge nixes plea; Rushton trial set

By RONDA TAYLOR
Times-News correspondent

BURLEY — A new twist was added Monday in the trial of David W. Rushton, 31, who is accused of voluntary manslaughter in the January 1985 stabbing death of Burley resident Evan Thompson.

Rushton pleaded guilty last month and was scheduled to be sentenced Monday in Cassia Magistrate Court. However, Judge George Granata Jr. ruled instead that the guilty plea be withdrawn and the case be reset for a jury trial.

After receiving two pre-sentencing investigative reports last Friday, Granata found the facts of the case were "significantly disputed." There were "too many controverted facts going in both directions" towards Rushton's guilt or innocence, Granata said.

"Justice is better served by having all of the contested facts heard before a jury," the judge ruled. No conclusions should be drawn or inferences made about the defendant's guilt or innocence based on the court action, Granata added.

Defense attorney Roger Cox agreed with the court's motion to withdraw the guilty plea and schedule a jury trial.

Legal rules allow a plea to be withdrawn prior to sentencing, he added.

Rushton's previous guilty plea was entered pursuant to North Carolina vs. Alford, meaning the defendant didn't admit to guilt, but does admit to being present at the date and place in question.

Granata granted Cox's requested that information disclosed in the pre-sentencing investigation be sealed. Cox said the move would protect his witnesses who had been "assailed in the past" with threatening phone calls.

Minidoka Deputy Prosecuting Attorney Timothy Spencer argued against the court's motion for a trial. He said the court could place itself in a prejudicial situation by granting its own motion. He also cited the added expense of holding a trial.

Spencer said some witnesses for the prosecution have already moved from the area, and he is concerned that people who are currently residents may leave the area before the matter comes to trial.

Spencer told the court that one of the chief prosecution witnesses, Mitchell Hodge, was seriously injured in a light Saturday night at Al's Pizza in Burley.

Hodge suffered a stab wound to the abdomen during the altercation, Spencer said. No one has been charged in the stabbing, and the incident is presently under investigation by the Burley police department.

Police Lt. Jim Higgins said Burley police and Cassia County sheriffs arrested Robert Cobo Nova, 25, Burley; Francisco Cobo, also known as Francisco DeLaRosa, 22, Burley; Anthony Prieto, 18, Ogdon; and Gerald Rex Draper, 26, Paul, during the incident.

Nova, Prieto, and Draper were arraigned Monday in Cassia Magistrate Court on charges of disturbing the peace, and Cobo was charged with aggravated assault.

There is no direct connection between the Saturday night fight and the Rushton case, Higgins said.

Hodge, a friend of Evan Thompson, was present the night Thompson was killed. Thompson died of a stab wound received outside the Office Bar in Paul on Jan. 31, 1985. Thompson's family, including his grandparents, attended court Monday. They said they are frustrated by the continuation of the Rushton case.

"Will justice ever be done?" Georgia Thompson, Evan's mother, asked following Granata's decision to schedule a trial.

Panel ready to discuss Magic West plant

By CAROLYN DILWORTH
Times-News correspondent

GLENN'S FERRY — A committee has been appointed by Mayor Dayle Messery to meet with Magic West representatives to discuss specifics of a lease agreement and general operations for a new potato processing plant.

The committee includes Messery, City Council members Larry Rose and Jessie Fleming, County Commissioner John Shrum and Glenn's Ferry Development Corp. representative Bob Cunningham.

Earlier this month, the council approved a proposal to raise the rent on 37 city-owned lots where the plant is located to $3,000, up from $100, which the previous owner of the factory had been charged.

Bill Schow, of Magic West in Rupert, met with the council Thursday and asked for an opportunity to negotiate the lease with representatives of the city.

He said following the meeting that the company is not deliberately trying to lease the property for less than its proper value. The $100 price was based on previous lease agreements, he said, and no one from the council had questioned the fairness of the figure during previous negotiations.

The new committee and Magic West representatives will meet Wednesday at 8 a.m. at City Hall. In addition to the lease, committee members will discuss water use and supply, truck routes, police protection and waste disposal at the site.

Messery said residents should not be "fearful" of the city's project to rezone land within the city limits.

"We don't want to hurt anybody," he said. "We're not going to move anybody." The problem the city is trying to correct is inappropriate zoning, he said. Many areas are presently zoned for residential development that have no homes on them and may be appropriate for light or heavy industrial zoning, he said.

He encouraged members of the Planning and Zoning Committee to attend as many community meetings as possible, such as meetings of the Chamber of Commerce or other civic groups, to explain the city's rezoning project.

City Attorney Robert McLaughlin told council members the city may legally require police officers to sign an agreement of employment before being sent to the Police Officer Standards and Training (POST) Academy. He said the city could require officers who seek other police employment outside the city within three years of their training to reimburse the city for the cost of their training and related expenses.

Messery said the purpose of such a contract would be to prevent larger cities from hiring officers after the smaller towns had put in the cost of training them.

Benoit-Samuelson wins Sullivan Award

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Joan Benoit-Samuelson, the Olympic gold medalist in the marathon who set a world record in her specialty last year in the America's marathon, was named the winner of the Sullivan award Monday night as the U.S. Amateur Athletic Union's top athlete for 1985.

Benoit-Samuelson, 28, became only the seventh woman in the award's 56-year history to receive the award.

The winner of the prestigious award, presented annually since 1930 by the AAU, was announced at an awards dinner in the Indianapolis Convention Center.

Last year's Sullivan Award winner, diver Greg Louganis, presented the award.

Benoit-Samuelson, of Freeport, Maine, set a world record of two hours, 21.21 seconds in Chicago last year. She also won a 12-kilometer race in San Francisco last May and a seven-mile race in Davenport, Iowa, in July. In August she returned to her native New England to win the 7.1-mile Falmouth Race.

Other finalists included Willie Banks, who set a world record of 58-feet-11½ inches in the triple jump during the national outdoor championships here last summer.

The group of finalists for the award symbolic of being selected the top amateur athlete in the previous year also included:

- swimmer Matt Biondi, who set a world record in the 100-meter freestyle twice at last year's long course national championships and became the first man to break the 49-second barrier with a 48.95 performance.
- wrestler Mike Houck, the first United States wrestler to win a gold medal in the Greco-Roman World Championships.
- synchronized swimmer Sarah Josephson, who swept national solo and duet championships and earned silver medals in solo, duet and team World Cup competition.

—diver Michele Mitchell, the winner of every major national and international platform diving competition in 1985.

—Scott Verplank, who became the first amateur golfer to win a Professional Golfers Association tournament since 1951 when he topped the field in the Western Open last August.

—Charles "Karech" Kiraly, selected the most valuable player in the World Cup volleyball competition after leading an undefeated United States team to its first championship in the event.

—Cheryl Miller, the winner of the 1985 Wade Trophy symbolic of being selected the most outstanding player in women's collegiate basketball. Miller, the holder of 10 school records at Southern California, was named the award is also a two-time winner of the Natsmith Player of the Year award.

Benoit-Samuelson is the 33rd track and field participant to receive the award in its history. The award is presented in honor of AAU founder and former president James E. Sullivan.

Athletes are ineligible to be nominated for the award after winning it.

Williams leaves Padres under pressure

By DENNIS GEORGIATOS The Associated Press

SAN DIEGO — What the San Diego Padres brass couldn't force 11 weeks ago, Dick Williams did voluntarily Monday when he quit after four years as manager of the National League team.

DICK WILLIAMS Four-year winner

Baseball

The "often-gruff" Williams said goodbye to his fifth major league managing job a day after he failed to appear at the Padres spring training camp to greet pitchers and catchers.

"For the past few weeks, I have been asking myself, 'Do I really want to manage the Padres another year?' My final answer finally was 'no,'" Williams said at a news conference where he appeared with team owner Joan Kroc.

"When I shared that feeling with Billard Smith and Joan Kroc, we agreed that it would be in the best interest of the club, myself and my family that I not return to the Padres," Williams said.

Kroc last December blocked President Billard Smith, who is her son-in-law, and General Manager Jack McKeon when they attempted to buy out the final year of Williams' contract.

"Pitching Coach Galen Cisco will be interim manager until a replacement is named later this week or early next week. Among those mentioned as a possible replacement was Steve Boros, who manages in the Padres' minor league systems and previously managed the Oakland A's.

Williams in 1984 managed the Padres to their only National League pennant, won in a playoff victory over the Chicago Cubs. They went on to lose in the World Series to the Detroit Tigers.

"Third-base coach Ozzie Virgil, who also was missing when the Padres early camp opened Sunday in Yuma, Ariz., won't be with the team this season, Kroc said. He was a long-time friend and aide to Williams.

"I heard Dick in December. I hear him today," Kroc said of Williams. "I respected his feelings then, and I respect them now and appreciate his candor in sharing them with me."

"His leadership gave San Diego its first National League pennant. He taught us championship baseball. He

Sage's Butcher, Trenkle top local performers at Nampa

TWIN FALLS — The Sage Gymnastics Class 1 and Class 11 girls' teams finished second at a compulsory meet held last weekend in Nampa.

In Class 1, Sage got a third-place finish from Melissa Butcher in the all-around competition, and third place in the vault, on the balance beam and in floor exercise.

In Class 11, gymnast Freda Trenkle finished first on the beam, third in floor exercise and third all-around while teammate Meggin Morrill was third on the beam.

The Sage gymnasts will travel to Pocatello next weekend for an optional meet, and then to Helena, Mont., the following week for a two-day compulsory and optional meet.

U.S. Supreme Court upholds Texas' no-pass, no-play rule

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court on Monday left intact Texas' controversial "no pass, no play" law that bars students with failing grades from taking part in sports and other extracurricular activities.

The court, citing the lack of a substantial federal question, rejected an appeal by students who say the law violates their constitutional rights.

The 1983 law has disqualified temporarily about 15 percent of the varsity football players in Texas' 1,100 school districts. Junior varsity and freshman teams have been hit twice as hard, according to a survey by the Texas High School Coaches Association.

The statute generally penalizes students who score under 70 during a six-week grading period for any course. The student is barred from taking part in any extracurricular activity for six weeks.

Gov. Mark White, who made the regulation a key part of his education reform package during a special session of the Texas Legislature in 1983, said he was pleased by the decision.

"That's a state issue and we won," he said.

State Education Commissioner W.N. Kirby said he was pleased with the court's action.

"I hope we will now be able to get this issue out of the courthouse and get emphasis on academic achievement back into the classroom, where it rightly belongs," he said.

After reading their brief statements, Williams and Kroc embraced and kissed. Neither answered questions from reporters.

During four seasons as manager, Williams' Padres compiled an overall record of .337-111. Last season, they were 83-79 and finished tied for third place in the NL West.

"I believe the Padres will take this all in stride. We're looking forward to a good season... we have veteran squad that's in shape and ready to play for a new manager," Kroc said.

BOBBY WOLFF

"Flips are a part of life's menu and I've never been a girl to miss out on any of the courses."
— Rosalind Russell.

Try your hand at making today's game. If you succeed, well done; if you do not, take solace in the fact that you will have lots of company.

Dummy wins the first trick. As East signals with the nine. A trump to the king wins, both opponents following low. What's your next move?
If you lead a second spade to dummy's king to repeat the trump play, you've flunked the test. East hops up with the ace of trumps and leads a diamond to West's ace, and a third round of spades nets East a spade ruff. Down one.

How does South avoid the spade ruff? Obviously he cannot lead a trump at trick three; the defenders would then get two trumps, a diamond and a club. The well-known, flagged winner is to lead a diamond at trick three. East wins and leads a second spade to dummy's king, and a trump is led toward South's honors. East is held to one trump. A trump winner but can no longer get to West's hand for a spade ruff to beat the game.

ANSWERS: Three clubs. North may have as much as 18 HCP. South's club raise should promise four trumps, but his hand is too weak for a forcing bid of three diamonds.
