Despite long caucuses, Senate GOP still at odds on taxes

BOISE (AP) — Senate Republicans appeared even more fragmented than in the past after another three hours of closed-door party meetings on Monday yielded no progress toward a consensus for erasing the current $20 million deficit and augmenting 1987 revenues.

"We're a long ways from agreement," GOP Caucus Chairman Phil Batt of Wilder said after the third hour-long caucus of the day adjourned.

"We had a wide-ranging discussion that accomplished nothing," he said. "There is no consensus on anything whatsoever."

While the House tax-writing committee has a stack of bills it could act on if necessary.

"We're waiting for positive action on that, maybe with a little linking," GOP House Caucus Chairman Linden Bateman of Idaho Falls said after a relatively short closed-door session in that chamber Monday morning.

and those seeking a temporary tax solution. Possibly compounding the internal GOP negotiations was an associated debate over the level for the 1987 budget, and fear was beginning to rise among some lawmakers that unless the impasse is broken Democratic crabs seeking a much higher spending level next year than Republicans may be able to forge a coalition with moderate GOP lawmakers to win a budget in the range of $615 million. Most Republican discussion to date has focused on spending levels ranging from about $598 million to $605 million.

Bateman said the House would consider any modifications the Senate might make to the permanent sales tax bill, indicating that a temporary tax hike might be acceptable if it was set to expire during the 1987 legislative session as the rejected Senate alternative would have.

But Bateman also warned, "If they try to do anything similar to what they did Thursday, it would be rejected."

At issue in the Senate, where the Republican supermajority has met for over 18 hours behind closed doors on the tax issue in the last 11 days, was a House-passed permanent penny sales tax increase that House leaders have been pressing for a Senate vote on.

With inadequate support among the 28 Republicans to pass that proposition last week, the Senate came up with its own package combining an 11-month penny sales tax hike with local option taxing authority and repeal of $15 million a year in state aid to cities and counties.

But Batt said the series of Senate Republican caucuses through the day showed a distinct division among four plans. While the group of senators favoring resolution of the deficit through an automatic property tax increase was relatively small, he said the other three factions were almost equally split.

Right now, Batt said, there have been no discussions of trying to come up with a plan that might gain some Democratic support. With Democrats consistently calling for income tax hikes as well as sales tax increases to solve the budget crisis, Batt said none of the GOP proposals circulating in the caucus would qualify for Democratic backing.

Senate leaders have said the permanent sales tax hike will have to be modified before a final vote in the Senate if only to change its enactment date from March 1 to April 1. But there were also proposals to strip from the bill some of the special funds to which about half the tax receipts would be diverted. Those funds include $12.2 million for handling future deficits, $5 million for state building maintenance and over $10 million in aid to local governments.

Committee OKs 2 child sex abuse bills

By DEAN MILLER
Times-News writer

BOISE — Two bills to make it easier for child victims to testify in cases passed the Senate Judiciary and Rules Committee Monday.

By allowing a child victim to tell his or her story of abuse to an adult who could, in turn, tell it to court officials, proponents of the bills say the legislation will move cases to trial that would otherwise be stymied by frightened or embarrassed children who fall silent in the witness stand.

One measure, Senate Bill 1369, would allow the statements of children under the age of 10 to be repeated to a magistrate judge by another person in closed, pre-trial hearings.

The second, Senate Bill 1370, would allow parents, social workers, police or others to relay a child's testimony to a jury in an open courtroom trial.

Both bills allow exceptions to the standard rule of evidence which prohibits the use of second-hand or "hearsay" evidence in criminal trials.

Cheryl Turcozy, the Twin Falls coordinator of the Guardian Ad Litem program that assists children involved in abuse cases, said Monday that about 10 abuse cases in the Magic Valley in the last six months were stalled in preliminary hearings because young victims were unable to tell their stories to anyone but a social worker, police officer, or other person who was barred from retelling the story for a judge.

Turcozy said she worked with the Idaho Attorney General's Office and the Idaho Network for Children on drafting the two bills.

She spoke to the committee Monday in support of the legislation and said the two bills are needed because abuse victims are younger than they used to be and their testimony needs to be heard.

Because there has been much public discussion of child abuse, older children have learned to protect themselves, while younger victims are still vulnerable, she said.

Committee Chairman Sen. Roger Fairchild, R-Fruitland, cast the lone dissenting vote against S.B. 1370, which allows second-hand testimony in court.

He said news accounts will report the second-hand testimony of mothers or others, telling a "dirty rotten story," that may or may not be true.

"The kid should go on the stand; it is not nice, but... being labelled a child molester is the worst possible stigma," he said.

Innocent people accused of child molestation are ruined, regardless of whether they are big shots or line-workers, Fairchild said.

"If the attorney general is really serious about solving the problem without running out there with a sledgehammer, there are better ways," said Fairchild.

Using closed-circuit television testimony or forcing attorneys to submit written questions to be asked by the judge would still protect the child while affording the accused the constitutional right to face the accuser, said Fairchild.

Turcozy said the group working to write the legislation decided against the other methods because they felt it was necessary to keep the child in the courtroom, even if the child is too scared to tell the whole story.

Use of closed-circuit TV or one-way mirrors usually means placing the child in a separate room from the accused.

House approves bill defining tuition costs

BOISE (AP) — Amid a scattering of opposition from members claiming it could increase the cost of getting a college education, the Idaho House has passed legislation defining what is "tuition" costs at the state colleges and universities.

The vote was 61-22 for Senate Bill 1364, which now goes to the governor for consideration.

Rep. James Stolcheff, D-Sandpoint, argued that the measure could lead to the Board of Education charging students for more of the cost of a college education.

With the present trend, he said, "Unless you are rich, your kids aren't going to school in Idaho."

But sponsors of the bill argued it an administrative change which will allow the Board of Education to clearly define what should be charged as "fees" and what represents the "tuition" portion of college costs.

McMahon: Homosexual bill would be subject of lawsuits

BOISE (AP) — Uncertainty arising from past court decisions on similar laws has prompted Idaho's chief deputy attorney general to forego giving an opinion on the constitutionality of a bill passed last week allowing the dismissal of school employees teaching that homosexual activity is normal and accepted behavior.

"Although the state may properly regulate the content of the classroom, including presentation and content of curriculum, the prohibitions imposed by House Bill No. 523 address an area of law as yet unsettled by the courts," Chief Deputy John McMahon said.

"It is virtually certain that the bill would be the subject of protracted and costly litigation," McMahon said.

The legal analysis of the bill was sought by Senate Education Committee Chairman Terry Sversten, R-Cataldo, who has effectively buried in his committee the bill that passed the House after a debate that saw a serious break-down in decorum on the floor with the bill's chief supporter resorting to name-calling.

"Past court decisions," McMahon said, have indicated that teachers do not lose their constitutional rights to freedom of speech when they walk into a classroom, but the courts have also held that states have the right to control speech by teachers if necessary to avoid classroom disruption or invasion of the rights of others.

"The uncertainty in such cases," he said, "is not for the legal principles, but over the way they are applied."

"The most blatant example," he pointed out, "was the challenge over an Oklahoma law prohibiting conduct that advocates, solicits, imposes, encourages or promotes homosexual activity that would allow such conduct to come to the attention of senior children or school employees.

A federal district judge held the law constitutional because it was needed to avoid disruption, but the 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals overturned the law as unconstitutional because it was needed to avoid classroom disruption or school disorder.

The U.S. Supreme Court then voted 4-4 to support the decision of the appellate court, but with Justice Lewis Powell not participating.

"There is no way to predict how his tie-breaking vote would be cast when a similar issue again presents itself to our highest court," McMahon wrote.

Noting differences between the Oklahoma law and the Idaho bill, particularly in that the Idaho bill limits its prohibitions to activities conducted in the classroom, McMahon said the disagreement among the courts continued. The district court in the Oklahoma case, he said, indicated a law like the one pending before the Idaho Senate would be unconstitutional while the appellate court suggested it might meet constitutional muster.

Drinking age bill goes to House for 2nd vote

BOISE (AP) — The Idaho House apparently is headed again toward a vote whether the legal drinking age should be raised from 19 to 21.

But Rep. Dean Haagenson, R-Coeur d'Alene, thinks another attempt will be made to amend his bill, to eliminate Sunday liquor sales.

The House State Affairs Committee on Monday voted to send Haagenson's drinking age bill to the floor for a vote. Under normal procedure, it will be up for a final vote Wednesday or Thursday.

The bill raises the legal drinking age from 19 to 21, effective Sept. 1. It allows retail liquor sales on Sundays, something now banned by state law, and extends the closing hour for drinking from 1 a.m. to 2 a.m.

That provision includes local option, allowing counties which do not want to allow the longer drinking hours to retain the 1 a.m. closing time.

The drinking age bill was up for final action in the House last month, but was sent back in committee when it appeared headed toward defeat.

The bill underwent heavy amendment on the House floor, with Rep. Patricia McDermott, D-Pocatello, adding what Haagenson called "the killer amendment." It would have allowed people under age 21 to enter places where liquor was sold, even though they couldn't legally drink.

The bill prepared by Haagenson is essentially the same bill as debated earlier, minus the McDermott amendment.

Diet Pill Sweeping U.S.

New Super "Dream Pill" Lose Weight As You Sleep!

No Dieting — Eat All You Want

NEWPORT BEACH, Calif. — An amazing new super "dream pill" has recently been developed and perfected that reportedly "guarantees" that you will easily lose up to 10 pounds in 10 days. Best of all, it allows you to "eat as much as you want of your favorite foods and still lose a pound a day or more starting from the very first day until you achieve your ideal weight and figure."

This remarkable new diet pill combines two natural substances which cause adults to lose weight fast by "tricking" the body into acting like a teenager. The revolutionary substances, called L-arginine and L-ornithine, stimulate the body's production of growth hormone. Dr. Robert Harris, a specialist in nutritional medicine in Stafford Springs, Connecticut, was recently quoted as explaining: "Growth Hormone may be what's responsible for allowing teenagers to devour thousands of calories in hamburgers and other foods and still be thin as a rail."

"Growth Hormone is present in people 'up' through the teenage years, then slowly diminishes with age. But L-arginine and L-ornithine make the body 'think' it belongs to a teenager again, allowing adults to eat as much as they want — and still be thin and wiry."

"Pill Does All The Work"

According to the manufacturer, "the pill itself does all the work while you quickly lose weight with NO starvation 'diet menus' to follow, NO calorie counting, NO exercise and NO dieting. The pill is not a drug. It is 100% safe consisting of natural amino acids just like those found in the foods you eat everyday."

Life Extension Authors
Confirm Results
Derk Pearson and Sandy Shaw, graduates of MIT and UCLA respectively, introduced these miracle substances to the public in their runaway best selling book, Life Extension. They discovered the weight-loss effects by accident.

Sandy fell and broke her foot and started taking L-arginine because of its well-known healing qualities. Much to her amazement Sandy lost 25 pounds in 10 days and put on 5 pounds of firm-toned muscle in six weeks. According to Durk's calculations, the pill caused Sandy to lose 400-times as much fat as she would otherwise have lost — without dieting!

Lose Weight While You Sleep
One beautiful thing about these miracle pills is the ease with which they work. You don't have to count calories and you don't have to follow special diets or eat special foods. You don't even have to exercise. The best time to take the pills is just before you go to bed at night. That way, the pounds melt away even as you sleep. You wake up every morning, slimmer, happier and feeling younger!

The super dream pill is already sweeping the country with glowing reports of easy and fast weight loss from formerly overweight people in all walks of life who are now slim, trim, and attractive again.

What's what

A century ago, a family not snooty enough to refer to the "hired girl" as a "maid" oftentimes called her "Lizzie." She was the domestic for all chores, Lizzie - was, a flow girl, Chicken feeder, Mop mechanic. She wasn't called Liz, back then, unless her morals came into question. A "Liz" was a Lizzie who messed around in the hay now. Eventually, Lizz turned into a sophisticated moniker, and Lizzie dropped out. I know a Liz or two now, but no Lizzies. Can you say the same?

Supreme Court snubs appeal of anchorwoman in bias suit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court on Monday killed a sex bias and fraud suit by television news anchorwoman Christine Craft, who said she lost a $325,000 jury award. The justices rejected Ms. Craft's appeal, refusing to reinstate the award.

Ms. Craft, 41, now a television news anchorwoman in Sacramento, Calif., said she was disappointed by the court's action. But, she said, "my battle has done a lot" for women reporters "even if only news directors and editors are more cautious in their wording."

Ms. Craft contended she was demoted from her job as a news anchorwoman for station KNBC-TV in Kansas City after being told she was "too old, too unattractive and not deferential enough to men."

A federal jury in Kansas City awarded her $500,000 in 1983. A federal judge threw out the verdict and ordered a new trial.

She won a $25,000 award from a federal jury in Joplin, Mo., after the second trial. But that judgment was overturned by the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals last year.

agreed to referee a balance-of-powers "fight between President Reagan and Congress over the president's use of the "pocket veto" to kill legislation he does not like.

The court said it will review a ruling that Reagan allegedly used that device in 1983 to kill a bill linking military aid to El Salvador with human rights progress in that country.

The challenge to Reagan's use of the pocket veto was made by U.S. House Democrats led by Rep. Michael D. Barnes of Maryland.

The case poses not only the issue of the pocket veto but also whether individual members of Congress have legal standing to sue in federal court to challenge actions by the president.

A similar issue involving legal standing with potential far-reaching impact, also has arisen in a pending constitutional challenge to the Gramm-Rudman Act mandating a balanced budget by 1991.

The justices also agreed Monday to decide whether laws containing the so-called legislative veto struck down as unconstitutional by the high court in 1983, may be saved by tossing out the veto provision and keeping the rest.

Another matter, the court:

- Threw out the appeal of Los Angeles lawyer Jerome B. Rosenthal, accused of causing actress Doris Day and her late husband, Martin Melcher, millions in investment losses.
- After a California judge ordered Rosenthal to pay Ms. Day and her family more than $26 million, the case was settled by Rosenthal's insurance companies for an undisclosed sum.
- Agreed to decide in cases from California and Tennessee whether national banks may establish discount securities brokerage outlets wherever they want.
- Let stand rulings that Alvin Copeland, founder of Popeye's Famous Fried Chicken, must dismantle a huge Christmas display each year that attracts some 350,000 tourists to his Metairie, La., home.
- The Constitution specifies that a bill passed by each house of Congress becomes law if the president does not veto it by returning the bill unsigned to Congress within 10 days, unless the Congress by their adjournment prevent its return, in which case it shall not be a law.

Farm credit chief resigns; replacement board unappointed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Donald E. Wilkinson resigned Monday as acting chief of the Farm Credit Administration.

Wilkinson, 63, who had headed the agency for nine years, had been acting chief executive since new legislation revamped the agency and abolished his old job as governor of the FCA.

President Reagan signed the law designed to shore up the financially besieged Farm Credit System and its regulation, on Dec. 23.

Among its provisions, the new law calls for the regulatory agency to be run by a full-time, three-member board instead of the old arrangement under which Wilkinson carried out duties set by a 13-member part-time board.

Last week, Wilkinson himself complained that apparently nothing had been done to name his replacement, saying that further delay "can cause severe problems."

The letter of resignation he submitted to Reagan on Monday said he will stay on the job until March 28.

Navy surgeon gets prison

WASHINGTON (AP) — Surgeon Donald M. Billig, convicted of involuntary manslaughter and homicide in the deaths of three patients at Bethesda Naval Hospital, was sentenced Monday to four years in prison and ordered dismissed from the service.

The court-martial jury of nine naval officers also ordered Billig, a Navy commander who served as chief of heart surgery at Bethesda, to forfeit all future pay and allowances.

The jury foreman, Rear Adm. Harry S. Quast, read the sentence as Billig stood and showed no emotion. The jury had deliberated 90 minutes and could have returned a sentence of up to 10 1/2 years.

Defense attorneys said they would ask for a delay in imposing the prison sentence, a request that under military law goes to the naval command that convened the court-martial.

Billig, 55, was taken into custody by Naval Investigative Service personnel. Under military law, he would be eligible for parole after serving one-third of his sentence.

His conviction is subject to automatic review by the Navy Marine Corps Court of Military Review, and may be appealed to the Court of Military Appeals and ultimately the U.S. Supreme Court.

Farm foreclosures to proceed

BISMARCK, N.D. (AP) — A federal judge Monday refused to block the Farmers' Home Administration from resuming foreclosure procedures, meaning the federal agency could begin foreclosures for the first time since the judge ordered new rules in 1984.

The agency, a lender of last resort for farmers, began sending notices to some 65,000 borrowers nationwide in February after having revamped its "FORFEITURE" and "FORECLOSURE" rules to conform with U.S. District Judge Bruce Van Sickle's earlier order.

Formaldehyde study disputed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new study showing only "little evidence" that formaldehyde causes cancer in workers injected new confusion into a longstanding debate, inspiring praise from industry representatives and criticism from the AFL-CIO.

In the latest study, details of which were made public Monday, the National Cancer Institute examined records of employees of 10 chemical industry factories with the longest history of making or using formaldehyde.

Among the findings were that more deaths than expected were found for lung cancer, prostate cancer and Hodgkin's disease, "but these excesses were not consistently related to average, cumulative or peak" exposure to formaldehyde.

Power failure strikes St. Paul

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Employers sent hundreds of workers home Monday and firefighters rescued people trapped in elevators after a power failure blacked out 200 downtown buildings.

Northern States Power Co. had restored 95 percent of the power by midafternoon, said company spokesman Sam Macalus. The company said earlier that the trouble had been traced to an underground cable.

Sale of Marcos assets barred

NEW YORK (AP) — Lawyers for the government of Philippine President Corazon Aquino said Monday they had obtained a court order temporarily barring the sale or transfer of five New York properties allegedly owned or controlled by former President Ferdinand Marcos.

The order issued Sunday night specifically enjoined real estate investors Ralph and Joseph Bernstein, lawyers for the Center for Constitutional Rights said at a news conference.

The center has been retained by the Philippine Presidential Commission on Good Government in Manila to protect Philippine interests in Marcos assets around the United States.

Center lawyers had charged at a news conference that the Bernsteins were on the same flight that carried Marcos out of Manila last week. But center spokesman David Lerner said later that the three had shared a 1982 flight.

Cranston bids, Belafonte drops his, for Senate

By The Associated Press
Sens. Alan Cranston of California and Dale Bumpers of Arkansas announced Monday they will seek reelection, while singer Harry Belafonte said he would not try to unseat Sen. Alfonso D'Amato, R-N.Y.

Belafonte, 48, said he believed his legal problems were over. He was indicted in January on charges they violated a state election law by offering $100,000 to the campaign of her rival in the Republican primary, state Sen. Ed Davis, to get him to drop out of the race.

Former long-term representative dies

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Charles A. Halleck, a Republican who served 16 terms in the U.S. House of Representatives including two as majority leader before retiring in 1968, died Monday. He was 85. Halleck, who died in a hospital here following lengthy illness, was majority leader in 1965 when he nominated Gerald Ford, who went on to become president.

Hansen case decision draws mixed opinions

BY ANNETTE CARY and DEAN MILLER Times-News writers

TWIN FALLS — A Supreme Court decision that may have been the last barrier between former representative George Hansen and Twin Falls Monday.

Die-hard supporters said a presidential pardon was not outside the realm of possibility. They decried the state of the country, particularly its press and legal system, that Hansen could be sent to prison.

Some, including former Hansen field representative Gus Kelker, sounded upset and refused to comment on the matter. Conservative Donna Mauldin said, "I'm appalled," and declined to comment further.

Those not so enamored with Hansen called the court's decision a logical outcome of a violation of the law. "Someday they will convince him the laws apply to him," said Twin Falls attorney Henry DeHaan.

The court Monday let stand Hansen's 1984 conviction for falsifying financial reports filed with the House of Representatives. Federal prosecutors now may move to force Hansen to begin serving his sentence of five to 15 months in prison.

Hansen, however, said he planned to stay out of prison by renewing the appeals process with a request to the courts based on fresh evidence.

Rep. Jerry Callen, R-Jerome, said he does not think Hansen, a fellow Republican, should go to prison.

"I think the president ought to pardon him. I still can't believe the intent of the law was to imprison (offenders)," he said. "I guess it's been through the courts enough. I'm still going to stick up for him. I thought he was doing the right thing."

House Speaker Tom Stivers, R-Twin Falls, said Hansen was wrong to violate the Ethics in Government Act. "He is a public figure, and he shouldn't have broken the law," he said.

Nevertheless, Congress did not intend that violations of the act should be punished with prison time, he said. "The real villains in the case were an over-powered judiciary and the media, which victimized Hansen."

"I think basically that some of the members of Congress and the press were after him," Stivers said.

Another Twin Falls Republican state representative, Noy Brackett, said he liked Hansen's stand against big government. But he questioned the value of further appeals by Hansen. "I would think it would be futile," he said.

He also questioned the wisdom of Hansen's wife Connie's announced intentions of seeking the 2nd Congressional District seat that Hansen lost to Democrat Richard Stallings in the last election.

Rep. Gary Robbins, R-Dietrich, one of Connie Hansen's opponents for the Republican nomination, said the court's decision would hurt her bid for Congress.

"She's implicated as he is, he's liable to spend some time (in prison)," he said.

Adrian Arp, a Twin Falls John Birch Society member and Hansen supporter, said the Supreme Court's decision could help Connie Hansen.

"Obviously they've made a martyr out of George," he said. "The backlash could help (her) more than hurt her."

The court's decision was "no surprise," he said. "I mean when you stand up for so many things as George has and ruffie as many *

Recall move falls short

BY JANENE BUCKWAY Times-News correspondent

SHOSHONE — A petition, asking for the recall of Shoshone City Councilman Jerry Baltazor, has come up short of the required number of signatures needed to force a recall election.

City Clerk Ron Bolan said Monday the petition is 18 names short of the required 163 registered voters. He said 16 people whose names were on the petitions asked to have their names removed by Friday and another signer removed his name Monday.

Recall backers now have another 30 days to gather additional signatures. Residents who circulated the petitions said last week they would continue their recall effort if the petition came up short.

The petition was submitted Feb. 19 with 129 names on it. State law requires 20 percent of the number of people registered in the last city election to sign a recall petition.

Bolan said in addition to the people who asked to be taken off the petition, other names were disqualified because the signers were not registered voters or did not properly complete the information required on the petition.

Petition signers can continue to request that their names be removed, Bolan said.

If the petition is complete in 30 days, the city must wait 30 days, no more than 40 days, to call a special election.

Bolan has said he expects the election, if called, to cost the city at least $400 in ballots, judges and supplies.

The petitioners claim Baltazor was not responsive to the wishes of the public in the controversy surrounding former police chief John Shaffer and has a conflict of interest between his position as city council police commissioner and his employment as a Fish and Game officer.

Baltazor says he has done no conflict of interest and is attempting to upgrade the city's police department.

Teachers' suit against district rejected

BY JANE ROBISON Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Fifth District Court Judge Daniel Hurlbutt on Monday dismissed a lawsuit against the Twin Falls School District by nine teachers, including Twin Falls High School teacher Susan Piller, but not before he flicked a few bars at lawyers on both sides.

Piller, wife of former Twin Falls school superintendent Gary Piller, and eight other teachers, sought damages and injunctive relief against the district in January 1985 for the district's unilateral decision in December 1984 to reduce employee health insurance benefits, for bad-faith bargaining and breach of contract.

The suit paralleled a similar action filed by the Twin Falls Education Association earlier in 1984, after a breakdown in contract talks.

Piller's suit also sought to force the district to use a $150,137 insurance refund to lower premium rates, and it alleged that the School District's health insurance policy discriminated against married couples.

After listening to 12 hours of oral arguments by attorney Daniel Mink, representing Piller, and Phillip Oberrecht, a Boise attorney representing the School District, Hurlbutt sided with the School District on all five counts.

None of the teachers was present during Monday's hearing.

Twin Falls School Board Trustee Gary Fay did attend Monday's hearing, but had no comment following the decision.

During the hearing, the case took interesting twists, as Mink argued on one hand that TFEA did not legally represent all teachers, while arguing on the other that the School District had breached the contract negotiated by TFEA.

Hurlbutt found little substance in the argument. "At some point, you're going to have to face the music," Hurlbutt told Mink. If Piller doesn't believe the TFEA has a legal right to negotiate for all teachers, how can she demand the benefits the association won? he questioned.

The case also found Oberrecht arguing that the TFEA was the exclusive bargaining agent for teachers, which he had tried to disprove in last year's TFEA suit. And he admitted, "I think the Twin Falls School District has an obligation to bargain in good faith with TFEA."

"It's a good thing that you think that, Mr. Oberrecht, because that's what I held," Hurlbutt shot back.

In the TFEA suit, which Hurlbutt ruled on in April 1985, the TFEA asked the court to order the board to reinstate the more-expensive health insurance plan, in addition to requiring completion of the stalled contract talks.

But Hurlbutt ruled that since an impasse in contract talks had been reached, the board was justified in unilaterally imposing new insurance benefits.

However, Hurlbutt found that the School District last year did try to "thwart the negotiation process" with an "intent to cripple the union."

On the issue of the $150,000 insurance rebate, Mink said teachers were told by former superintendent Gary Piller that it would be used to decrease premium rates, and therefore, should be given back to teachers.

But Hurlbutt said the money did not belong solely to the nine teachers, and the only way he could rule on that issue was if a class action suit were filed on behalf of all the district's 400-plus teachers.

On the issue of discrimination in the policy against married people, Hurlbutt said there was no basis and found the district's insurance policy provided equal protection for all groups.

Following the hearing, Mink admitted there were major problems with his clients' suit, especially because of the TFEA's earlier suit.

"Their suit precluded a lot of our issues," he said.

Petitioners against prosecutor say support grows

BY BONNIE BAIRD JONES Times-News writer

JEROME — A drive to collect signatures on petitions for the recall of Jerome County Prosecutor Francis Mark Gause is gaining support, says the man who started it last week after Gause reduced charges in an involuntary manslaughter case involving the death of a child.

Jerry Auten, called as a Juror for a trial scheduled last week, said about 17 persons had joined his campaign to recall Gause. "I have over 100 signatures myself, but I can't say how they are doing, but I feel we are making progress," Auten said Monday. "I know a lot of people have gone to the courthouse to register so they can sign the petitions and some may have taken out additional petitions from the county clerk's office."

FRANCIS MARK GAUSE Staten case prompted action

Between 1,700 and 1,900 signatures of registered voters in Jerome County are needed to call a special recall election. Auten said he is planning to obtain 2,000 in case some who sign are not registered voters.

Auten started the recall drive after involuntary manslaughter charges against Gause and Rosemarie Staten of Hazelton were reduced to an "injury to a child" charge. The couple was accused of manslaughter in the Feb. 3, 1985, death of their 11-month-old child.

Phyllis Lyrne Staten died of pneumonia brought on by malnutrition, according to autopsy reports.

At the time set for their trial, Gause made a verbal motion to reduce the felony manslaughter charge to a misdemeanor and allow the couple to enter pleas of guilty. Sentences have not yet been made.

Auten said that he and the others working to circulate the petitions hope to be finished within the next two weeks and to have enough

Report on county employee 'irregularities' has no details

BY BONNIE BAIRD JONES Times-News writer

JEROME — A brief report from the Jerome County Board of Commissioners Monday points to county employee "irregularities" and "resstitution," but does not disclose any reason for restitution or for issuing the report.

Asked about individuals involved or their actions, Commissioner Pam Smith would only say, "It's all taken care of."

She said the commissioners will not name the individuals involved or disclose what constituted the "irregularities."

The typewritten, unsigned statement made available at the commissioner's office Monday. "In mid-February Jerome County became aware of some irregularities occurring in regard to personal use of county property and privilege.

"With the help of County Attorneys and the Sheriff's Department, the matter has been thoroughly investigated. The employees involved have been confronted by their respective department heads and disciplinary action taken as appropriate."

Restitution to the county is assured in the total amount of under $100. The county is disappointed to have to report this. However, the unfortunate matter has been resolved and the county considers the matter closed."

Sheriff Eiza Hall said Monday afternoon he could not say anything about the investigation that the report shows his department made.

Prosecuting Attorney Francis Mark Gause was in court and unavailable for comment.

Auten said the other, involving a drunken driving charge, was dropped by what the court said was "lack of due process." This, Auten said, was explained as an error on the part of the prosecution.

In the Staten case, he said, he didn't have anything against the defendants, but he did feel because the life of a small child was involved,

Prosecutor Marlene Weed, Auten said, "Both other trials were cancelled."

Auten said the other, involving a drunken driving charge, was dropped by what the court said was "lack of due process." This, Auten said, was explained as an error on the part of the prosecution.

In the Staten case, he said, he didn't have anything against the defendants, but he did feel because the life of a small child was involved, a jury should have been able to hear the evidence and make a decision, rather than having one person decide on a lesser charge.

"I am not a radical about this, I just think it's someone took a stand and did something. The man is not qualified to do the job," Auten said.

Gause could not be reached for comment on Auten's allegations Monday night.

Twin Falls Council buys, sells properties

BY ANNETTE CARY Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls City Council voted Monday night to buy land for a new city shop building and to sell land occupied by the Senior Citizens Center.

The Senior Citizen property on 4th Avenue West had been on the market, with no takers, until only the past few weeks. Then two buyers made offers for the land.

The council voted to sell the property to Lawrence and Evelyn Dunthorn for $25,000 in cash. The sale includes 1.4 acres and the senior center building, much of which has been condemned.

The council refused another offer for $25,000 from Ron and Judith Paltee. Their offer was contingent on obtaining financing and getting the land rezoned from a residential designation to a business designation.

The council has given the Senior Citizens Board a chance to also approve the sale before the transaction is final and to negotiate the date they must be moved from their present facility.

Money from the sale will be used for remodeling work at the old KMYT-TV studios, which have been donated for a new Senior Center.

"The deal for a new city shop building was more complicated. The city has been negotiating for more than a year to buy property owned by Friedman Bag on 6th Avenue West.

In 1984 a city committee said that the best way to expand city shop facilities would be to purchase the adjoining city block bordered by 6th Avenue West, 5th Avenue West, 2nd Street West and Shoshone Street. The city has already bought half the block.

Eastern Star chapter celebrates anniversary

RUPERT — Rupert Chapter No. 33, Order of Eastern Star, will celebrate its 75th anniversary with a program at 2 p.m. Sunday at the Rupert Masonic Temple.

The public is invited, says Claudia Balk, worthy matron. On Feb. 15, 1911, 16 Eastern Star members met to form a chapter in Rupert. They included Bessie and Charles Burgher and Elsie Miles Moser. The chapter was organized March 10 with Mrs. Burgher elected associate matron. She was a delegate to grand chapter held that June in Salmon where a charter was granted the Rupert chapter. Mrs. Burgher became worthy matron of the local chapter Dec. 23, 1912. Members helped institute the Evergreen Chapter of Burley in 1913. Adah Circle was formed in 1916, and this circle helped the chapter in many ways, according to a history compiled for the anniversary. The circle donated $100 for a fund to furnish the Masonic temple. The money was used more than 30 years later, in 1955, when the Masonic temple was built.

In 1941 under the leadership of Gladys and Maurice Willis, the Rupert Chapter assisted in installing E-Dah-Ho chapter No. 77 in Paul. In 1946 the electric signet, a memorial to Rosa Splitter, was used for the first time. Bessie Burgher compiled the chapter history in rhyme through 1955 and presented the chapter with an altar Bible. In 1966, Hazel Miller dedicated the robes made up for the two heroines of Eastern Star Mildred Hawk served as organist for the grand chapter in 1973-74 and Blanche Sears was grand marshal in 1978-79.

Group launches campaign to reduce teen pregnancies

WASHINGTON (AP) — A children's advocacy group has launched a five-year public campaign it hopes will further reduce teen-age pregnancies, which now account for a half-million births each year. "Every taxpayer, as well as every parent, has a stake in preventing teen pregnancy," said Marlon Wright Edelman, president of the Children's Defense Fund, in beginning the campaign. "The half-million teen births each year create a new population the equivalent of a Denver or Atlanta," she said. "Most teen mothers have not completed high school. Many are still in junior high school, and a majority drop out of school..." "One in three depends on Medicaid for their delivery costs, and too many end up on welfare for lack of skills needed to get a job," she added. The group said there were an estimated 1.1 million pregnancies among teens in 1983, resulting in nearly 500,000 births. Nearly 30,000 pregnancies occurred among girls under age 15. The defense fund said teen pregnancies have dropped significantly over the last 15 years, but the rate still remains high compared with other industrial nations. And pregnancy can be a tragedy for the girl involved, her family and for society as a whole, the group said. "Adolescent parenthood... traps the majority of young mothers and their children into poverty," Edelman said. The group is distributing 30- and 60-second television public service announcements and preparing ads for display on buses and rail commuter systems in Atlanta, Chicago, Detroit, Jacksonville, Kansas City, Minneapolis, Philadelphia and Washington.

Male rape victims need treatment, too

DEAR ABBY: Please publish some information about adult male rape. My 19-year-old son (I'll call him Randy) was beaten and gang-raped. Going to the police was awful for him. They were not prepared to cope with a male rape victim.

The criminals who raped Randy are in custody, but they were not charged with rape — only assault and battery, even though the officers knew they raped my son. Randy is a fine young man who never associated with people of questionable character. He had never seen these men before; they just forced him off the street and did this terrible thing to him. He was so upset he wasn't able to tell me about it; the chaplain at the hospital where he was treated told me.

Almost every city has a rape crisis center where female rape victims can go for counseling, but there's no help in our town for male rape victims. Please print this. The public needs to know.

CONCERNED MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: Because rape is as much a violation for a male as a female, male victims should be entitled to care, treatment and counseling as female victims.

Unfortunately, because male rape victims are more reluctant to report the crime, the general public is not aware of their numbers.

Some, but not nearly enough, rape crisis centers are equipped to handle male victims. This is a plea to male rape victims: Report the crime. It is also a plea to rape crisis centers to provide services for males as well as females.

DEAR ABBY: In response to the letter from the man who had gotten bald: It's not always vanity or the desire to look younger that makes a man buy a hairpiece.

My husband is a minister who became bald. He's out in the cold without a hat, at funerals, visiting, etc. After preaching, his head is wet from perspiration. He'd get cold, sinus headaches and caraches, all because his bald head was exposed to the cold.

He bought a hairpiece to keep his head warm, and he hasn't had a cold, a sinus headache or earache since.

The hairpiece is the same color as his own hair used to be and it looks nice. People compliment him on his new look, and he loves it. He's not trying to fool anybody.

Once when it was hot outside; he took it off.

DEAR WIFE: Now that's a hair-raising story.

(Do you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say? Thank-you notes, sympathy letters, congratulations, how to decline and accept invitations and how to write an interesting letter are included in Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send your name and address clearly printed with a check or money order for $2.50 and a long stamped (39 cents) self-addressed envelope to: Dear Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.)

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Vaughn, Twin Falls, and the bridegroom's parents are Col. (Ret.) and Mrs. James W. Booth, Washington, D.C.

Popularity tops grades among junior high girls

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP) — of Pennsylvania State University's Junior high school girls who had excellent grades in elementary school apparently suppressed their skills in exchange for a better self-image and greater acceptance. A long-term study suggests. Analysis from the ongoing study of 355 Chicago-area students also shows that as junior high boys' grades decline, so does their self-image. The bottom line of what we're getting is that — especially high-achieving girls seem to find that status of good grades inconsistent with having the positive self-view in the seventh grade and they reduce their achievement." Anne Petersen, head Individual and Family Studies program, said in an interview Thursday. "It certainly was disappointing to all of us," Petersen said of the findings. "At this age, girls may be making compromises that are detrimental to their long-term futures." The new findings focus on achievement in five basic courses and self-image in the sixth through eighth grades. Petersen and her colleagues traced the students from the sixth grade through their senior year. The first group is graduating in the spring.

Milwaukee wins its 11th game in 12

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Terry Cummings scored nine of 23 points in the fourth quarter and Kenny Fields added a career-high 23 points as the Milwaukee Bucks defeated the New York Knicks 115-106 in an NBA game Monday night.

The Knicks, playing without Coach Hubert Brown who was ejected in the first quarter after arguing with the referees, stayed close in the second half despite being down by 17 points early in the second period.

It was the Bucks' fourth win in their last 12 games and the Knicks' 11th loss of their last dozen games.

Dallas 139 Phoenix 138 (OT). Blackman scored six of his 32 points in the second overtime, including a decisive shot with eight seconds left, as the Dallas Mavericks beat the Phoenix Suns 139-138 Monday night and swept their four-game NBA series this season.

Walter Davis had 31 points and sent the game into overtime on a three-point goal at the buzzer, put

Pro basketball

Phoenix ahead 138-137 with 15 seconds to go in the second overtime before Blackman got behind the Phoenix defense for his game-winning slam.

L.A. Lakers 127 Golden St. 117. INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Veteran center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, playing despite a sore right shoulder, scored 25 of his 34 points in the second half Monday night to lead the Los Angeles Lakers to a 127-117 NBA victory over the pesky Golden State Warriors.

The Warriors, who have the league's worst record—yet—have beaten the defending NBA champion Lakers in four meetings this season, fought back from a 39-9 deficit entering the fourth quarter to earn a 112-112 tie with five minutes remaining.

Parker, Holland: We'll pay to play this season

By The Associated Press. Dave Parker, the Cincinnati Reds' slugging outfielder, and Al Holland, the New York Yankees' relief pitcher, said Monday they would comply with the penalties handed down by baseball Commissioner Peter Ueberroth and avoid suspensions for their involvement in drugs.

At the Reds' spring training camp in Tampa, Fla., Parker, wearing a bandage on his arm, said, "Ueberroth," said he plans to play this year and would leave any challenges to the commissioner's decision up to the Major League Players Association.

Baseball

battled in with 125 and in doubles with 12.

At the Yankees' training camp in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Holland said he would accept Ueberroth's penalties as an alternative to a 60-day suspension.

Holland was one of four players who could be suspended for two months under the commissioner's action on drug involvement.

Parker justified in a federal drug case in Pittsburgh last year that he used cocaine while with the Pirates, the club he left as a free agent after the 1983 season. He said he stopped using the drug before signing with the Reds in December 1985.

THE ACES [©] BOBBY WOLFF

"Even if it is to be, what end do you serve by running to meet distress?" — Seneca.

South had his nine tricks if today's diamonds were 3-3. He couldn't wait to discover if luck was with him, and as a result he lost his game and rubbin. He won the queen—this game, running tricks and a valuable diamond. South was 3-3. He played his top diamond, in high hopes, but when West discarded, the game was gone: He had to settle for four more heart winners, five for which East had five sure winners.

It would have been a different story if South had cashed his four heart winners before trying the diamonds. East would have been forced to make three discards and he could afford only two. On the second hand, if he had discards, East could safely throw a club and a spade; but on the fourth hand he would be stuck. If he threw another spade, South could not afford to lead a club to establish his game-giving trick.

To pay for one's solid suit first (and the suit is needed for communiting between both hands), in an opponent may find it difficult to find a discard.

Spending slows on construction

WASHINGTON (AP) — Construction spending rose a modest 0.3 percent in January as a healthy gain in new home and apartment building offset weakness in factory construction, the Commerce Department said Monday.

Spending on construction had risen by 0.6 percent in December, compared with the figure for the previous month. In dollar terms, construction spending in January totaled $337.3 billion at a seasonally adjusted annual rate.

Construction of homes and apartments climbed 1 percent to an annual rate of $152.9 billion while non-residential building fell by 1 percent.

Michael Sumichrast, chief economist for the National Association of Home Builders, said that while he expects strength in some areas of construction in the coming year, he looks for growth to be sharply lower than last year.

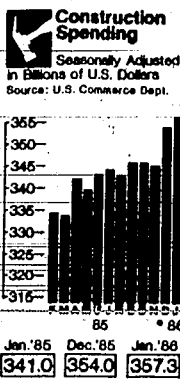

Construction spending rose by 9.5 percent in 1985, but Sumichrast said he was forecasting growth this year of just 3 percent.

Inflation—on account, this will mean very little change from last year, he said.

"Construction will have a reasonably good year, but not a strong year," he said. "We are clearly seeing a peak in office buildings which are way overbuilt."

Sumichrast predicted office building activity would fall by almost 10 percent this year and apartment construction would drop an even sharper 19 percent, reflecting uncertainty over congressional action on a new tax bill.

The forecast government construction spending would rise by almost 13 percent with a lot of the increase coming in highway construction. He also predicted a 3.5 percent rise in single-family home-building as declining interest rates spur sales of new homes.

The Commerce Department report said the 1 percent January increase in residential construction included a 3 percent jump in construction of single-family homes and a 2 percent rise in multi-family construction.

The drop in non-residential activity, to an annual rate of $93.8 billion, reflected weakness in factory construction, which dropped by 10 percent.

Building activity at shopping centers and other commercial facilities rose by 2 percent while construction of office buildings rose by 0.6 percent.

Spending on public construction projects rose 3 percent to an annual rate of $66.7 billion, with the biggest increase coming from a sharp 23 percent rise in spending on water supply facilities.

Oil prices continue dropping

By STEVEN P. ROSENFELD
The Associated Press

NEW YORK — The winter thaw in oil prices took another step Monday, with the main grade of U.S. crude dropping below $13 a barrel in futures markets and falling under $20 a barrel in oil company contracts.

"The market is definitely not convinced that this thing has stopped falling," said Peter Beutel, an oil trading analyst at the commodities firm of Rudolf Wolff Futures Inc.

He said traders appeared to be searching nervously for the bottom of the price decline and described Monday's market as "like a guy in a minefield, putting his fingers in his ears and stepping around."

On the New York Mercantile Exchange, West Texas Intermediate crude for April delivery plunged as low as $12.15 a barrel Monday before recovering slightly to $12.36 at mid-afternoon. That still left the best-known domestic crude down 90 cents a barrel from Friday's close.

The last time West Texas Intermediate sold for such prices was in 1978.

Closer to consumers' pocketbooks, more big oil companies cut prices for their contract purchases.

Chevron Corp. reduced the price it will pay for West Texas Intermediate by $2 a barrel to $18. At the start of 1986, Chevron was paying $28 a barrel.

Sun Co., which began the year at $29.50 a barrel, announced its 11th price change of 1986, cutting the price it will pay for West Texas Intermediate by $1 a barrel to $16.

The latest cuts left the U.S. oil industry quoting contract prices ranging from $15 to $19.50 a barrel—it marked the first time since 1973 that domestic oil companies all were below the $20-a-barrel level.

Prices at the gasoline pump have not fallen as fast as in the markets for crude oil—in part because of the lag as oil companies follow the futures market. In addition, refiners have yet to use up crude oil purchased when prices were higher.

The drop in oil prices has improved the outlook for non-inflationary economic growth, contributing to a steep slide in interest rates in the United States and a record increase in stock prices.

Saudi Arabia's oil minister, Ahmed Zaki Yamani, has predicted prices could drop as low as $10 a barrel for popularly traded crudes before stabilizing.

Edward Dellamonte, an analyst at Prudential-Bache Securities Inc., said $10 could be the floor for oil prices, but added, "If Mr. Yamani doesn't see cooperation around $10, it could be $8."

The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries has been asking non-members to cooperate in reducing production to stabilize prices, but it continued to run into resistance from its own members as well as two major independent producers—Britain and Norway.

Contributing to Monday's selloff in oil markets were reports from oil industry sources in Bahrain that Abu Dhabi National Oil Co. in the United Arab Emirates had reduced prices retroactively by at least $8 a barrel for various grades of crude to reflect market conditions.

Selling pushes Dow below 1,700 level

By CHET CURRIER
The Associated Press

NEW YORK — The stock market retreated Monday, yielding to sellers who pushed the Dow Jones Industrial average back below the 1,700 level.

The drop, which came despite another day of extraordinary strength in the bond market, was attributed to profit-taking rather than any significant change in the news background.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks dropped 12.39 to 1,696.77.

Volume on the New York Stock Exchange slowed to 142.67 million shares from 191.66 million on Friday.

Analysts said many traders apparently concluded that the upsurge in stock prices over the past few weeks had created, at least for the moment, the Dow Jones Industrial average jumped 138 points in February alone.

However, brokers said there were no apparent developments in the economic news to disturb the optimism that has pervaded Wall Street lately.

Interest rates continued to decline in the credit markets. Prices of long-term government bonds, which move in the opposite direction from interest rates, rose by $15 to $20 for every $1,000 in face value.

A weekend report by a trade group of purchasing executives said that the economy turned in a good showing in February. However, an index calculated by the National Association of Purchasing Management declined somewhat from its January reading.

White Consolidated Industries jumped 10% to 48 1/2. A Swedish company, AB Electrolux, made a $45-a-share takeover offer for White Consolidated.

International Business Machines rose 1/2 to 15 1/4, starting after a sell-off late last week when IBM said its revenue for the first quarter would be hurt by recent price cuts for some of its products.

But other computer and technology stocks were generally weak. Digital Equipment fell 1/4 to 16 1/4; Sperry 1/4 to 50 1/4; Burroughs 1/4 to 66 1/4; Data General 1/4 to 39 1/4, and Hewlett-Packard 3/4 to 43.

American Express was up 3/4 to 66 1/4 after trading above 67 early in the session. General Motors denied reports that it was considering a bid for the company. GM shares slipped 1/4 to 77 1/4.

Western Airlines led the active list, up 1/2 to 10 1/2 on turnover of more than 3 million shares.

Q. What do Nehru suits, leisure suits, bell-bottom trousers, wide lapels and wide ties all have in common?
A. All were male fashion days which lasted a brief period and then crashed out of style.

Meaning: Most men cannot resist the latest styles and often rush to purchase this year's fad but impulse or fad buying can turn out costly and result in a closet loaded with outdated clothing.

The Nehru suit was a one-year fad, for instance. It was popular for a while, but it lasted a bit longer, but men who wanted to be "in" were stuck with these garments when they fell out of favor.

Meaning: If you've had an unlimited clothing budget and your desire to wear the latest rage always outweighs money considerations, you should buy more traditional items that don't go out of style.

Marvin A. Blumenthal, president of the national merchandising consulting firm of April-Marcus, For business, Blumenthal advises men to wear traditional cuts such as the Ivy League suit with natural unpadding jackets. He also advises single-breasted as opposed to double-breasted suits.

When you're buying a business wardrobe, there are a few colors that are always acceptable—the blues, greys, and tan.

These are blue, just about all shades except light powder blue, greys in all shades, stripes in most shades of blue and grey, and some browns and tans for summer wear. Avoid greens and greenish browns.

Some plaids are acceptable for around the office use—but not for client or new business meetings, and colors such as green, maroon and loud plaids are never acceptable, Blumenthal cautions.

Such additions as belted backs, large pockets, contrasting stitching, epaulettes, extra wide or very narrow lapels or other features should be omitted by anyone planning to wear a suit more than a season or two.

As for dress shirts, stick with solid colors. A white or powder blue shirt is always presentable, and even if the collar is a little wider or narrower than this year's style, it will not stick out like the floral shirt you bought a few years back that no one wears today.

In sportswear, Blumenthal again stresses the importance of color. Blue, white, beige and some shades of red, especially the subdued tones of maroon, are always in fashion.

Every man should own a "year-round" blue blazer that can be worn at any number of social occasions. With a blue blazer, one can wear grey, tan or light blue slacks—flannel or new business meetings, and colors such as green, maroon and loud plaids are never acceptable, Blumenthal cautions.

When you're buying items such as tennis shirts, be wary of this year's striped shirts in unusual colors because they will not be in next year.

Another tip about conservative dress: Conservative clothes can be worn on many more occasions than flashy garments.

For example, Blumenthal says, "If you buy a navy blue or grey pair of trousers, you can wear the pants for both formal and informal occasions. However, if you buy a plaid or loud color pair of trousers, your choices will be limited to some informal occasions."

Many of the fad items in a man's wardrobe are gifts from the female in his life. Women are more daring in their dress, wear brighter colors and are usually less conservative than men, Blumenthal concedes.

However, when buying for a man, women should consider clothing which makes him comfortable and will last longer than a season or two.

Sylvia Porter writes on consumer matters for United Press Syndicate.

U.S. asks Japan for share of its market for semiconductors

By TOM RAUM
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Seeing little prospect of immediate improvement in the U.S.-Japanese trade deficit, the Reagan administration is asking Japan to assure American semiconductor-makers a guaranteed share of the Japanese market, administration and industry sources say.

The proposal is a departure from the administration's free trade philosophy and is being advanced reluctantly, according to U.S. trade officials, who spoke last week only on condition of anonymity.

"It is inconsistent with the administration's position that trade should be free and not managed," one administration trade official conceded.

But, the source added, the proposal, which was to be offered at talks today in Tokyo, was being used as a bargaining tactic and was the result of the degree of economic damage the U.S. semiconductor industry has suffered from Japanese competition.

U.S. computer chip manufacturers have been seeking such an agreement from the Japanese, but the sources said the idea has been greeted coolly in Japan.

The semiconductor case is one of several areas in which the administration may back away from its open-market stance in the months ahead to aid import-hampered industries, the sources said.

The lack of any signs of improvement in the U.S. trade deficit in the past six months is increasing pressure on the administration to do more to head off a resurgence of protectionist sentiment in Congress, the sources said.

The Commerce Department reported Friday that the monthly trade deficit surged to a record $18.5 billion in January, despite recent steep declines in imported oil prices and in the value of the U.S. dollar against foreign currencies.

And U.S. Trade Representative Clayton Kretzler, in his agency's annual report to Congress last week, conceded that even-elimination of all foreign barriers to U.S. goods, a central goal of President Reagan's trade policy, would "only marginally improve" the U.S. trade balance.

The current talks in Tokyo are part of an effort to resolve two unfair trading practice complaints filed against Japan — one by U.S. manufacturers and the other by the Reagan administration.

The complaints accuse Japan of "dumping" low-cost computer memory chips on the U.S. market in a deliberate effort to wrest business away from U.S. companies, while at the same time denying U.S. companies other than token access to Japanese markets.

"Dumping" occurs when a foreign country deliberately markets a product at a cost below what it costs to produce it, thereby driving competitors out of the market.

"The issue is a Japanese attempt to win supremacy in information technology," said J.W. Sanders, president of Advanced Micro Devices, a semiconductor manufacturing company in San Jose, Calif. "They want to cartelize the industry and distort the free market. Our industry is getting crushed."

Sanders, one of several dozen semiconductor executives here last week to lobby Congress and the administration for help, said his industry wants a commitment from Japan for greater "market access."

Claiming that U.S. computer chip sales have never gone above about 10 percent in Japan, Sanders said, "We want the Japanese to buy some percentage of U.S. goods. You could call it an affirmative action program on the Japanese."

Another objective is a Japanese agreement to promise to refrain from dumping chips in other countries, Sanders said in an interview.

"Under the dumping cases now pending, the United States could levy a tax on Japanese computer chips to eliminate the cost advantage of the imported products."

But Sanders said such a levy "helps us not at all. Customers would just buy the Japanese semiconductors in Hong Kong," he said.

The negotiations in Tokyo are being led by Deputy U.S. Trade Representative Michael Smith and Commerce Undersecretary Bruce Smart. Earlier efforts to negotiate a solution to the semiconductor dispute collapsed in December.

"When those talks broke down, there seemed to be no hope for progress. Now, however, we think there are some slivers of hope," said Roger Bolton, a spokesman in the U.S. trade representative's office.

Savings bond sales soar in Idaho

BOISE (AP) — Sales of U.S. Savings Bonds in Idaho, totaling $24.5 million in 1985, have increased 295 percent over the $5.2 million sold in the previous year.

The increase came over three years after the government changed to a variable-rate interest payment from a fixed-rate payment for bonds sold after November 1982.

Dan Carkonen, Oregon state director of the Treasury Department, said Carkonen also is responsible for the department's activities in southern Idaho.

"What we are finding is that there has been some lag time for people to find out that the product has changed," Carkonen said. "It's taken this long for people to find that there are a viable investment vehicle."

In 1985, the value of savings bonds sold by investors in the United States increased by 8 percent over the previous year, from $7.4 billion to $8.02 billion, Carkonen said.

January sales increased 39 percent over the same month of 1984, reaching $675 million. U.S. sales for fiscal 1986, which started Oct. 1, totaled $1.94 billion, a 42 percent increase over the same period a year ago.

The government today pays investors a minimum 7 1/2 percent return on Series EE bonds that are held for at least five years.

However, if market rates are higher, interest on savings bonds are adjusted upward.

Investors receive fixed interest payments if they cash in their bonds before five years.

Tax liability on interest payments are deferred until the bond is cashed in, Carkonen said.

Steel imports off

PITTSBURGH (AP) — January steel imports fell 34.2 percent from a year earlier, and an importers group says U.S. steel prices will rise further because of import quotas.

Steel imports fell to 1.7 million tons in January, but accounted for 22.2 percent of the U.S. market, according to government figures reported Friday by the American Iron and Steel Institute.

While the "AISI" said the market share was above the quota set by President Reagan in his trade control program, the American Institute for Importers and Steel contended the quotas would keep steel prices artificially high by curbing the supply.

Police kill 7 guerrillas in Cape Town

50,000 Palestinians join in mayor's funeral

NABLUS, Occupied West Bank (AP) — A human wave of 50,000 mourning Palestinians carried the body of assassinated Mayor Zefer al-Masri through his city Monday in one of the largest demonstrations of support for the PLO ever held in the Israeli-occupied West Bank.

Hours before the funeral, an Israeli soldier shot and killed a 57-year-old Palestinian in the nearby Hattat refugee camp and wounded the man's 17-year-old son during a demonstration to protest al-Masri's slaying, Israeli military and Palestinian sources said.

The sources, who spoke on condition they not be identified, said the man tried to attack an Israeli soldier attempting to break up the demonstration.

The thousands of men and youths, some of them weeping, chanted slogans as they bore the body to a martyr's tomb in the courtyard of a blue-domed mosque.

Al-Masri, 44, a businessman named by Israel as mayor last December, was shot Sunday outside his office by an assailant who escaped into the crowded market. Two pro-Syrian Palestinian groups have claimed responsibility for the assassination.

Al-Masri's coffin, draped in the red, black, green and white Palestinian flag that Israel has banned in the West Bank, was lifted above the heads of the mourners in the courtyard of a mosque built by his wealthy and powerful clan. Al-Masri's shrouded body was removed from the coffin and passed hand-over-hand into a cedar block tomb.

The thousands who turned out for the funeral made clear their support for the Palestine Liberation Organization, which Israel has branded a "terrorist organization."

Some mourners shouted slogans against President Hafez Assad of Syria. Others focused their anger on Jordan's King Hussein for breaking his year-old accord with the PLO to

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Police stopped a van Monday that they said was carrying seven black guerrillas and killed all seven in the resulting shootout in Guguletu township near Cape Town.

Official reports said the men were sent by the outlawed African National Congress to attack policemen.

Four bodies lay in the street and three more in the surrounding bush, where they were shot by pursuing police. Spent cartridges littered the streets and windows of surrounding buildings were shattered by gunfire.

The official reports said police lay in wait for more than four hours after being informed that the ANC was planning an attack.

They stopped the van near the township police station soon after 7 a.m. The blacks started shooting and threw a grenade, and the police returned fire, said a statement by Gen. Johan Coetzee, the police commissioner.

Seven "ANC terrorists" were killed and one policeman was slightly wounded, Coetzee's statement said.

Guguletu is on the southeast outskirts of the country's legislative capital. It has seen some of the fiercest black rioting in the 18 months of violence against apartheid, the official race policy through which South Africa's 5 million whites maintain supremacy over the 24 million blacks.

In reply to a question, Louis le Grange, the law and order minister, told Parliament on Monday that 562 adults and 291 juveniles were killed by police in race-related unrest in 1985, and 2,000 adults and 571 juveniles were wounded.

He said most of the dead were black, 47 were of mixed race and three were white.

Le Grange did not give the circumstances of the three white deaths and no one authorized to comment could be reached immediately.

Recent estimates have put the total number of dead during the 18 months at well over 1,100, nearly all of them black. About one-third of the total, including policemen and township officials, were killed by other blacks who accused them of selling out to the white government.

Experts say the rate of guerrilla attacks has increased this year.

Irish violence flares

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Protestant militants hurled gasoline bombs and stones in a rampage Monday through central Belfast, and violent protests hit Londonderry and other towns during a general strike to demonstrate opposition to the Anglo-Irish accord.

At least 10 people were injured, eight vehicles were set on fire and a clothing factory went up in flames in the most violent and widespread protest against the Royal Ulster Constabulary said 34 Nov. 15 accord that gives the Catholic Church a role in incidents.

The Protestants, who outnumber Catholics 3:2 in Northern Ireland, cut electric power to hundreds of homes and managed to virtually paralyze the province during the 23-hour strike. The Royal Ulster Constabulary said 34 Nov. 15 accord that gives the Catholic Church a role in incidents.

Ryzhkov sets high goals for Soviets

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Nikolai J. Ryzhkov, outlining an ambitious plan to double industrial output by the year 2000, urged managers Monday to use more high-technology to improve the sluggish Soviet economy.

Like Mikhail S. Gorbachev in his keynote address to 5,000 delegates last week, Ryzhkov failed to give details for the reforms and did not mention the late leader Leonid I. Brezhnev by name in talking about shortcomings in the economy.

Ryzhkov set what he called grandiose goals to achieve in 15 years the world's highest labor productivity and double the national income during a speech opening the second week of the 27th Communist Party Congress.

Ryzhkov, a close ally of Gorbachev who was appointed last September to run the economy, said grain output would rise to 250-255 million tons a year by 1990.

But Ryzhkov did not disclose last year's harvest, or an overall figure for the years since 1980, nor did he say low harvests would be increased.

Ryzhkov said the following sectors missed plan targets over the last five years:

- Oil, off by 50 million tons. Ryzhkov said "substantial improvement" is needed in western Siberia, responsible for 60 percent of falling Soviet oil output.
