After 9 weeks of effort, sales tax approved

By QUANE KENYON
The Associated Press

BOISE — A compromise temporary penny increase in the state's 4-cent sales tax won final legislative approval late Monday, ending lawmakers' nine-week odyssey for a politically acceptable plan to resolve Idaho's immediate budget crisis.

The Senate approved the measure for the second time, voting 22-19 within two hours after the bill finally cleared the House by nine votes following a delay prompted by what Senate President Pro Tem James Risch called "a tempest in a teapot" over an apparently improper provision added last week.

That minor controversy prompted House leaders to scrap the original compromise and put the agreement into a new bill. The delay meant Democratic Gov. John Evans will not get the new plan until about midday Tuesday.

Although Evans has objected to temporary tax hikes to erase the current $20 million deficit and augment revenue for the 1987 budget, aides have indicated he will not veto the bill.

Lawmakers on both sides of the issue have also made it clear that the temporary tax hike, which will only allow a bare-bones $800 million general revenue budget next year, is only a stop-gap measure and the Legislature will be forced to renew the tax debate next winter after the November election.

Several House members mounted a last-minute debate against the new tax increase bill, but it eventually passed 40-37, and there will be no debate of the bill in the Senate, where the vote was almost identical to the original one on the proposition last week.

Legislative leaders have been trying to push the compromise through since Thursday so the tax increase could go into effect April 1. It will run through June 30, 1987.

Navy divers have located portions of Challenger's crew cabin, shown during assembly

Search continues

Remains, wreckage may provide vital clues

By HOWARD BENEDICT
The Associated Press

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — Pathologists on Monday examined remains of Challenger's crew, sources reported, while rough seas prevented divers from recovering any additional body parts or debris that might provide clues to the shuttle disaster.

Some remains and crew cabin wreckage were brought ashore secretly Saturday night by the Navy salvage ship USS Preserver, which entered port without running lights, reported reliable sources, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

In announcing Sunday that cabin debris and remains had been found on the ocean floor, NASA did not say whether anything had been recovered. The agency said it would respect family wishes and not comment again until the operation was completed.

The Navy, which is conducting the search, said the 23-foot cabin could shed light on the cause. Preserver was at the scene Monday where the cabin debris was found but had to return to port in late afternoon because of weather, with 20 mph winds whipping up eight-foot waves.

The sources said the ship's divers were unable to drop to the ocean floor and nothing additional was recovered.

The weather outlook was even worse for Tuesday, so it is uncertain when the recovery effort will resume.

Private boats were barred from an area two miles around the search site and private planes were kept five miles away. Sections of the cabin were found about 18 miles northeast of Cape Canaveral at a depth of 100 feet.

Data tapes that were in the cabin could shed light on the cause of the explosion, but it was not known how well the tapes survived.

The sources did not know if remains of all seven had been located. They said recovered body parts had been taken to a hospital at Patrick Air Force Base, 25 miles south of here, where they were examined Monday by forensic experts from the Armed Forces Institute of Pathology.

The condition of the bodies was not known by the sources, but they said "we're talking about remains, not bodies."

The examinations were not only for identification, but also could help determine whether the astronauts were burned to death, poisoned by fumes, died from sudden loss of cabin pressure, were killed by flying debris or by impact with the water, or drowned.

Reagan talks fast for aid to Contras

By SUSANNE M. SCHAFER
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Reagan, saying Nicaragua's rebels "deserve our respect and support," used one-on-one lobbying tactics with members of Congress Monday to intensify his quest for $100 million in aid to the Contras.

Showing no signs of a willingness to compromise with lawmakers on the aid request, Reagan said "this is an uphill battle we're engaged in, but we're making progress."

"You can sense the tide is turning," Reagan told a group of supporters of the aid program at the start of a second week of high-profile campaigning for the Contra package.

But Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., emerging from a Capitol Hill meeting with Phillip C. Habib, Reagan's new special envoy to Central America, said "it's going to be very, very difficult" for the president to get the request approved in the Republican-controlled Senate.

Dole said the Senate may take up the issue early next week and vote Tuesday, a day before the Democrats' far-sighted Democratic opponents are coming together in the realization of the common danger.

Reagan said the issue is not a partisan one. "It's a national security issue of paramount importance. Whether the Soviet Union will be permitted to establish a subversive base camp and military beachhead on the mainland of North America."

The president said the rebels are not seeking "that all-out sacrifice from us. On the contrary, they don't want our troops, they just want our money."

Aquino government freezes bank accounts

By MIGUEL C. SUAREZ
The Associated Press

MANILA, Philippines — Corazon Aquino's government has frozen the bank accounts of more than a dozen close associates of Ferdinand E. Marcos to make sure the money stays in the Philippines, an official said Monday.

Mrs. Aquino moved into offices in the presidential palace compound for the first time since Marcos abandoned it and she became president.

The official, who spoke on condition of anonymity, is on a commission charged with recovering billions of dollars in assets allegedly plundered by Marcos and his associates during the 20 years the former president was in power.

About $50 million is in the frozen accounts, said the official, who refused to identify their owners. Some belong to former members of the Marcos government, the official said.

Marcos, his family and entourage fled the country Feb. 26 and were taken to Hawaii in U.S. Air Force planes.

The government television station quoted Gen. Fidel V. Ramos, the armed forces commander, as saying

Semantic battles frustrate Senate efforts on farm package

By BARRY MASSEY
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Arguments over language stopped efforts Monday to steer a package of farm law changes through the Senate and prompted Majority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., to characterize the dispute as "flat-out politics."

"It seems to me that this has become absurd and the longer we wait the more absurd it becomes," Dole said. "The only ones suffering are the American farmers."

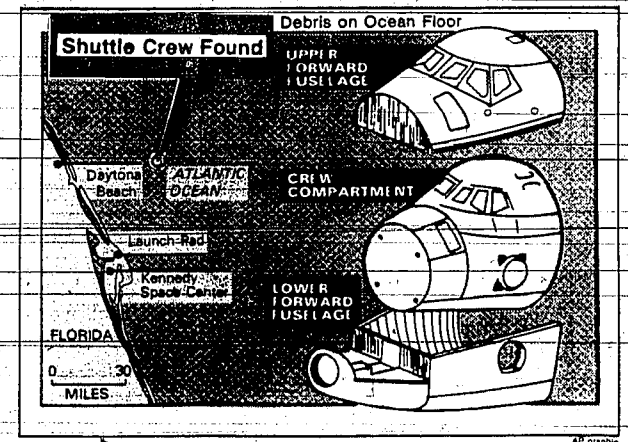

His remarks came after Sen. Tom Harkin, D-Iowa, blocked consideration of a proposal to change the language of farm legislation passed last week by the Senate and House. The bill makes several important revisions in the two-month-old farm act, including higher fees on dairy farmers to meet debt-cutting targets.

The Reagan administration has objected to the word "shall" in a section of the bill and the dispute is preventing the legislation from being sent to the White House for the president's signature.

The provision expresses the "sense of Congress" in urging the administration to offer farmers advances on crop loans to help them cover the costs of spring planting.

Such language is common in legislation as a way for lawmakers to voice their opinions without a binding effect. But the administration has raised concerns that this particular provision, added at Harkin's insistence, could create an unintended obligation

School funding worries abound

Press conference a forum for doubts

By JANE ROBINSON
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Leaky roofs, rundown buses, old textbooks — the shopping list of needs for public education grows, but funding woes are falling on deaf ears in the Legislature, a group of educators and parents said Monday.

Since November, educators have been "doing the best we can" to lobby legislators, said Burt School Superintendent Gus Spiropoulos. "But it appears it's falling on deaf ears. And I'm personally concerned where this state is headed as to the kind of education it can provide," he said.

Spiropoulos, Shoshone Superintendent Tim Aditt, Kimberly Superintendent Richard Bauscher and parents from Buhl, Shoshone and Arden are also attending the educational funding during a press conference.

The press conference was scheduled to coincide with final passage in the legislature Monday on a 15-month sales tax increase to pay off a $20 million debt.

Although the 1-cent sales tax increase has passed both houses of the Legislature, lawmakers must still decide how to spend the money, Bauscher said.

The press conference also came during the time school districts are gearing up to pass override tax levies. And the group encouraged Valley residents to "please support your schools financially."

Even with the 1-cent sales tax increase, schools will still need override levies to dig out from the holes of previous years, the group said.

"The funds we lost from a drop in liquor tax receipts and endowment money are irreplaceable," Spiropoulos said. "And in Buhl, we started the year in a deficit."

Constant low funding does have a negative effect on the education of our children. I know we have had economic times, yet Buhl voters have supported local schools by passing tax overrides two years in a row. I don't understand why the Legislature can't broaden the tax base."

In Shoshone, the realities of low educational funding mean cutting teachers in business education, counseling services, vocational special needs and home economics, and elimination of the district's art and drama programs, Aditt said.

Each of the districts also means the district cannot repair leaky roofs or structural damage to the high school caused by the 1984 earthquake, or replace old textbooks, Aditt said.

Shoshone resident and parent Joe Aitken said the district last year completed $180,000 worth of work through a massive community volunteer project, but it was not enough.

"We desperately need another $300,000-400,000 worth of repairs and renovation just to get (buildings) up to an adequate standard," Aitken said.

Bauscher said his district's teachers have been able to maintain a high-quality program, but he doubted that will continue.

Briefly

Actor Ray Milland dead at 78

(KORVANCY, Calif. AP) — Actor Ray Milland who starred in nearly 150 films and won an Academy Award for his portrayal of a tormented alcoholic in "The Lost Weekend," died Monday of cancer. He was 78.

Milland, who died at Torrance Memorial Medical Center, had suffered from cancer for several months, said his agent, Ronnie Leaf. He was admitted to the hospital Friday, hospital spokeswoman Carmela Weiland said.

Milland starred opposite Jane Wyman for his Oscar-winning performance as a writer in "The Lost Weekend" in 1945.

In 1954, he teamed with Grace Kelly in the Alfred Hitchcock classic "Dial M for Murder." More recently, he played Ryan O'Neal's father in the 1970 movie "Love Story," and his sequel, "Oliver's Story," in 1978.

Lawmakers to hear nuke brief

(SPOKANE, Wash. AP) — Northwest congressmen will receive a classified briefing about a secret experiment at the Hanford nuclear reservation in 1949 in which radiation was spread across eastern parts of Washington and Oregon, a federal Department of Energy official said Monday.

The experiment on Dec. 2, 1949, released 5,500 curies of radioactive iodine-131, an amount 392 times more than was ejected in the Three Mile Island accident in Pennsylvania in 1979.

Goode counting on the people

(PHILADELPHIA AP) — Mayor W. Wilson Goode, fighting for his political life, said Monday he doubts he will be indicted despite the release of a scathing report on the battle between police and the radical MOVE cult in which 11 people died.

"I do not feel I should be indicted because there isn't any reason to do so," he said at a news conference.

Goode called the news conference to respond to the commission report which accused him of "grossly negligent" conduct during the May 13 armed siege that left 11 people dead and 61 homes destroyed by fire.

Soviets deny Yurchenko dead

(WASHINGTON AP) — The Soviet Embassy denied reports Monday that Vitaliy Yurchenko, the Soviet KGB agent who returned to Moscow last November after three months in CIA custody, has been executed.

"Vitaliy Yurchenko is alive, in good health and he works in Moscow," said Boris Malakhov, the embassy spokesman. He called the report that Yurchenko had been killed by a firing squad "a crude concoction," and "a deliberate, malicious lie."

GE talks stall over stewards

(LYNN, Mass. AP) — Talks between General Electric Co. and workers on strike for 17 days resumed Monday but derailed over what to do about union stewards who abuse foremen, and adjourned after three hours, a company spokesman said.

A steward's suspension for allegedly swearing at a foreman set off the walkout that has spread to three Massachusetts plants and 7,400 workers, who maintain the action was typical of the company's attitude of disrespect.

"We're at a loss to understand what is keeping the strike from being settled," said company spokesman William Kennedy.

Texas teachers' literacy tested

(AUSTIN, Texas AP) — About 200,000 teachers, principals and other Texas educators faced their own no-pass-no-play rule Monday as they took a test to determine whether they read and write well enough to keep their jobs.

Texas approved a public school reform law in 1984, joining Arkansas and Georgia in requiring teachers and other school officials to take literacy tests.

The reform measure included a no-pass-no-play rule that bars students from extracurricular activities if they fail any class.

Texas educators who don't pass the test by June 30 will lose their teaching certificates and jobs. A second test for those who failed the first exam will be given June 28.

High court gives its approval to 'deception' in Miranda law

By JAMES H. RUBIN
The Associated Press

(WASHINGTON) — Police at times may mislead a lawyer and question a criminal suspect without an attorney being present as long as the defendant has been told of his right to have a lawyer there, the Supreme Court ruled Monday by a 5-3 vote.

The three dissenters said the decision "justifies police deception of the shabby kind."

The ruling, reinstating a Rhode Island man's murder conviction, also allows police to conceal from suspects who have not requested a lawyer the fact that an attorney is trying to contact them.

In other action, the court: • Voted 7-2 in a Philadelphia case to give prosecutors greater leeway in using out-of-court statements of alleged co-conspirators. The court said prosecutors do not first have to prove the co-conspirators are unavailable to take the witness stand before using their out-of-court statements as evidence. • Limited, by a 7-1 vote in a New Jersey case, the ability of states to force businesses to help pay the cost of cleaning up hazardous wastes. The justices said a federal law creating the so-called Superfund has preempted, at least partially, state efforts to deal with such pollution.

• Agreed to decide whether Springfield, Mass., should be forced to pay $50,000 to the family of a man killed by police as he was escaping with a kidnapping victim.

No injuries reported in earthquake

(SANTA BARBARA, Calif. AP) —

A sharp earthquake shook buildings Channel 10 miles southwest of Santa Barbara, said Dennis Meredith, a "like an explosion" Monday morning, startling restaurant patrons, leaving offshore oil platforms, sending office workers into the streets and causing gas leaks.

But authorities said no major damage or injuries were reported. The 7.3 magnitude quake or the mild Barbara gave varying accounts. Some said it lasted 10 seconds while others gave the duration as more than a minute.

"The quake measured 4.4 on the Richter scale, which categorizes it as a 4-point quake moderate. It was centered in the Santa Barbara Channel 10 miles southwest of Santa Barbara, said Dennis Meredith, a spokesman for the seismology labs at California Institute of Technology in Pasadena.

Oil workers on offshore platforms felt the quake as a bump, but rest damage or injuries were reported.

means and the tools they need to get the job done.

Reagan derided Contra critics who have accused the rebels of human rights abuses. "I think they've earned our respect and support," Reagan told the group.

The president compared the Contras to those who tried to fight off Soviet tanks during the Hungarian revolution. Reagan read an emotional plea for help which he said was broadcast during the final days of the 1956 battle for Budapest.

"That plea couldn't be answered... now we have to answer a similar plea," Reagan said.

The president's spokesman said the government has received a cool reception on Capitol Hill.

To counter such resistance, Reagan has scheduled a prime-time address for the aid on Sunday and has set aside time for face-to-face meetings with individual members of Congress before the House is scheduled to vote on the measure March 10.

Reagan held private sessions with several members of Congress Monday afternoon. Both House and Senate members were scheduled to come to the White House, but spokesman Larry Speakes refused to give any details about the visitors.

Reagan kept up his drive for aid in a speech prepared for delivery at a dinner saluting the congressional leadership. He reminded his audience that his paramount responsibility is to ensure the nation's security.

"Congress is no less duty-bound to America's safety," Reagan said. "All of us in the debate over how to counter the communist drive in Central America will be held accountable, if because of an inability to act, our country is put in jeopardy."

Reagan showed little sign of the hint of compromise he had expressed on Sunday, when he told reporters he was "willing to talk" about "how we can get practical aid" to the rebels.

On Monday, Speakes said Reagan stands by his full proposal. "That sums it up," the spokesman said.

four generals loyal to Marcos were held in house arrest. The official Philippine Navy Agency quoted Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile as saying three others — former commanders of the air force, navy and army dismissed by Mrs. Aquino — also were under arrest.

Fourteen other generals have been given new duties at headquarters in Manila so Gen. Ramos can keep an eye on them, the television reported.

The president's news agency said a man it identified as a "Greek-American" named Demetrios Roumeloutsos was arrested Sunday night while preparing to board a plane for Hong Kong with jewelry valued at about $2.5 million.

It quoted customs officials as saying they believed the jewelry belonged to the Marcoses. Among the items were rings, earrings and bracelets studded with diamonds, emeralds and pearls, the agency said.

Court officials could not be reached to determine what charges had been filed against Roumeloutsos or to confirm his identity.

County GOP leader backs sales tax hikes

Legislative log

By DEAN MILLER
Times-News writer

BOISE — Twin Falls County Republicans who voted for the sales tax increase that passed the House and Senate Monday don't have to worry about scoldings from their county chairman; he voted with them.

Chairman Mark Stubbs of Twin Falls is not a member of the Idaho House, but this week he is serving as a substitute for Rep. Jeff Stoker, R-Twin Falls.

And Stubbs not only voted for the bill, he stood up on the House floor and urged other members of the House to vote for it.

In the House, the Magic Valley delegation voted 8-4 in favor of the bill, joining the 46-37 vote in favor of the bill.

In the Senate, they voted 5-1 for the bill, which passed 22-19.

Stubbs got two scoldings Monday from House Speaker Tom Stivers of Twin Falls, for breach of the House's "unwritten" rule "about" when and where to sit and stand.

Having survived the "embarrassment" of Stivers' public correction of his behavior, Stubbs later stood during debate and told the House that voters at home want the Legislature to pass a sales tax increase and then go home.

Stivers, who turned heads by voting in favor of the last tax bill to leave the House, turned those heads back by voting against Monday's 1-cent tax increase. "I don't like what they did to it," he said. "The measure he originally backed would have designated where most of the revenues from the sales tax increase would be spent."

The bill that passed Monday turns over $36 million to the Legislature to spend as it sees fit.

The bill will raise sales taxes 1 cent from April 1 of this year through June 30, 1987.

The $75.6 million in new revenues expected will be spent to balance this year's budget, beef up the state's permanent building fund, and increase funds for 1987 and 1988.

Rep. Valt, Chaburn, R-Abbot, said he did not particularly like the "complicated" rules "about" when and where to sit and stand.

"I don't like to raise taxes any better than the next guy, (but) the sales tax gives the tourist and the migrant a chance to participate," he said.

Rep. Ernie Hale, R-Burley, said he would have preferred a permanent sales tax increase, but he voted for the compromise bill.

Rep. Jerry Callen, R-Jerome, voted against the bill. "I think maybe we could make some of this yet. I didn't campaign to raise taxes. I campaigned to cut government," Callen said.

Rep. Donna Scott, R-Twin Falls, said her vote against the bill was in keeping with her campaign promise. "I couldn't vote to put that burden on the economy of Idaho with the economy in the shape it is in."

Rep. Douglas Jones, R-Filer, said that though the bill was far from perfect, he had no fear of voting for it. The voters support the tax increase to help fund schools and will not hold his vote against him, Jones said.

Sen. John Peavey, D-Carey, voted against the measure.

Regional rivalries key barrier to unifying state universities

By DEAN MILLER
Times-News writer

BOISE — Regional rivalries may be the biggest barrier to a pair of proposed bills that would either unify Idaho's four, four-year schools under one administrator or mold them into a statewide university with satellites.

North and south Idaho each have their own schools and jealous constituents to go with them, and discussion of the bills pits region against region at the state level.

Senate Education Committee Chairman Sen. Terry Sversten, R-Cataldo, said Monday that the bills are hard to sell to politicians from either end of the state.

"This type of legislation does not have a constituency," he said.

The drive to bring all four schools into cooperation with each other is part of an effort to eliminate duplicate programs and consolidate them to strengthen college and university degrees in Idaho.

The first proposal, Senate Bill 1335, would set up a statewide chief executive officer for higher education, called a chancellor.

Four-year schools would be governed by the chancellor and a new department of higher education. Among the chancellor's powers would be the right to choose presi-denents for the state's four-year schools.

The second bill, Senate Bill 1336, would merge all four schools into a single university system, governed by a chancellor based at the original University of Idaho in Moscow.

Legislative budget analyst Mark "Falconer" who introduced the two bills last summer for an Interim legislative committee, said Monday the second bill will allow more freedom for the state's schools to merge programs and move them around the state. While S.B. 1335 would leave the schools with some of the autonomy they enjoy now.

Regional opposition to the plan to base the university system in Moscow reared its head at a Monday committee meeting discussion of the two bills.

Sen. Gail Bray, D-Boise, said she thought Boise was a more logical transportation hub for the one-university system proposed in S.B. 1336. She asked the committee how the Moscow-based chancellor could maintain a balanced view of the rest of the schools.

Rep. Janet Hay, R-Nampa, who co-chaired the interim study committee, told the committee the chancellor's charge would be to govern the whole state system.

Sen. Jerry Twigg, R-Blackfoot, joked that since he was completely lacking in "regional paranoia" he thought southeast Idaho would be a fine place to put the center of a one-university system.

"I just thought I'd point out that we've got a really good interstate, television, radio, telephone — all those things that are unique to Boise," he said.

Sversten said both bills may die in his committee this year, but each year support for the move grows.

"I'm in favor of either or both," Sen. Laird Noh, R-Kimberly, said Monday.

He said that either plan would make the state's four-year schools better managed and would encourage them to work together better than they do now.

"We have created an inefficient higher education system with four, four-year institutions; it is a fact of life," Noh said.

Schools do not use a common library computer system or accounting system to allow them to share information or to allow comparison of schools, Noh said.

His personal preference would be the one-university system, though he said he will vote for whatever plan the committee will agree to.

Sen. Lynn Tominga, R-Paul, who serves on the Education Committee with Noh, said he too favors the one-university system.

Man sues over ATV mishap

BOISE (AP) — A Caldwell man has filed a lawsuit against American Honda Motor Co., claiming that his 12-year-old daughter was left paralyzed from an accident on an all-terrain vehicle made by the company.

Also named as a defendant in the suit is R.T. Nohes, Castro Valley, Calif., owner of the Owyhee County ranch where the accident happened in July 1985.

The lawsuit was filed by Gary Ludwig of Caldwell on behalf of his 12-year-old daughter, Judith, who was left a paraplegic as a result of a spinal injury received in the accident, according to court records.

The suit seeks at least $10,000 in general damages, at least $10,000 in future medical expenses incurred by Miss Ludwig and in lost earning capacity, and at least $10,000 in medical expenses for which Ludwig is responsible because his daughter is a minor.

The suit asked that actual amount of damages be determined at trial.

Nicaragua debate dissolves into chaos

How many times have presidents begged for bipartisan support for American foreign policy? How many times have foreign-policy specialists pointed out that nothing impresses both adversaries and allies like this country's speaking with a united voice?

How many times have they said that nothing promotes mischief abroad like bitter division on foreign policy? And where was President Reagan when all of these perfectly valid propositions were being advanced?

His emotional and absurd attempt last week to divide Congress into members who are pulling for him on Nicaragua and members who are pulling for the communists — and to make the latter scatter for cover — ravaged bipartisanship and made rational debate impossible.

It was the desperate act of a president clearly frustrated by falling support for his Central American policies. That Reagan may sincerely believe that Nicaragua is a menace does not excuse his intemperance. Nor did his later effort to soften the effect of his words mitigate the damage that he had done.

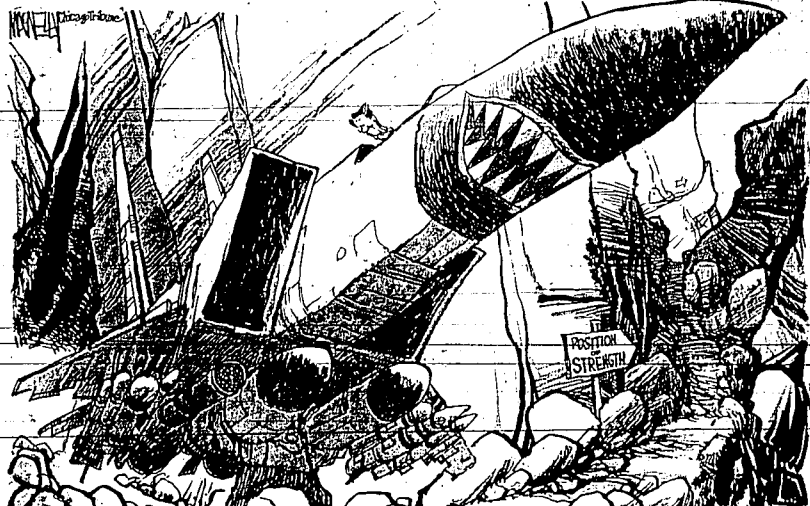

At issue is Reagan's demand that Congress provide $100 million for weapons and supplies for the Nicaraguan rebels, the contras, who are trying to bring down the Sandinista government.

A good many members of Congress oppose giving the contras any more money, for a variety of reasons. Most would like to see democracy in Nicaragua but think that the rebels could not fight their way out of a paper bag, let alone into Nicaragua's capital, and respected military analysts agree with them.

Other critics of Reagan's Nicaragua policies simply believe that negotiations, especially peace talks being arranged by our Latin American allies, will produce a change in the Sandinistas' behavior faster and more effectively than brute force.

Those views, among them, probably represent a majority in the House of Representatives. Those are votes against the Reagan policy. Nowhere among them is a vote for the communists. By even suggesting that such sympathies exist on Capitol Hill, Reagan needlessly impugns the honor of patriotic Americans whose only sin is that they view the world differently from the way he does. There have always been intellectual thugs on both the political right and left who seem to enjoy chastising their opponents beyond the bounds of normal debate, but people have a right to expect a higher level of discourse from the White House.

"IT'S JUST AROUND THIS NEXT BEND..."

Much is 'right' with Dietrich schools

I wish to respond to your recent editorial regarding the school districts in Dietrich and Shoshone.

You suggest, in a manner very demeaning to Dietrich, that consolidation would improve the quality of education in Lincoln County. Your contention that bigger is better and a good education is not available in a small school does not hold water in Dietrich. Dietrich is fully accredited and believe the "quality" of education here is outstanding. Dietrich students consistently rate highly above average in statewide achievement and proficiency tests. One hundred percent of last year's DHS graduates had the state proficiency seal on their diplomas. Dietrich's graduation requirements are higher than the state requires, and we have as many or more class offerings in Dietrich than in many larger districts.

Naturally, there are some offerings not available in Dietrich and other small districts, and we respect the choice of families to transfer to other districts if they wish, much as many students from outside Dietrich's boundaries have transferred here to escape problems in the larger districts.

Many things that are "wrong" with education in more populous areas are "right" in Dietrich. I.e.: small student-teacher ratios, strong parental interest and support, strong staff and peer expectation of excellence, and the opportunity for every interested student to participate in activities.

Shame on you, Mr. Hartgen, for suggesting that a consideration for consolidation would be the improvement of the basketball team. All three Lincoln County teams made it to district this year, but more important than their winning records is the opportunity for the participation of three times as many boys. How can you even suggest that it would be in the best interest of the students — and isn't that what education is all about — to deny participation to the equivalent of two teams so that a select few might win more games?

We love our neighbors in Shoshone, and we want their children to have a good education, but you accuse us of having a "narrow perspective" by not bailing them out of their financial difficulties. You criticize the Dietrich District for the very traits honored as the backbone of the American society, prudent living and saving for future needs. I'll bet the taxpayers in other school districts wish they had a superintendent with the management skills and foresight of Dietrich's Wayne Perron, who has prudently allocated for future anticipated expenditures. Dietrich's "surplus," as you call it, is earmarked for projects like the remodeling the district is planning to accommodate its growing enrollment. By not spending every cent available every year, Dietrich can absorb some major expenditures without having to go to the taxpayers for overrides, and has earned interest rather than having to pay interest on borrowed funds. Speaking of narrow perspectives, Mr. Hartgen, would you be willing to hand over your hard earned savings to your recently bankrupted neighbor? Never mind that your financial well-being is the result of hard work, good management and years of frugal living. (Dietrich was the district that "scrapped and starved" for many, many years before the funding formulas were recently changed.)

And never mind that your neighbor's misfortunes are at least partly his own fault. Yes, Shoshone's in-district deficit is the result of "mistakes" — some of which have been reported in your newspaper — such as not claiming $20,000 of voter-approved tax levies, and forgetting to budget for one teacher's salary several years ago.

And of course, you'd jump at the chance to repair your neighbor's roof at your own expense when it fell in from years of neglect. Shoshone patrons have a record of defeating override elections needed repairs.

And, carrying the analogy even further, would you be willing to give up your small, well-ordered home to combine households with your neighbor, if a legislator or the editor of a daily newspaper suggested it might be more cost efficient than two separate households?

An added benefit perhaps, not incidentally, would be the improved upbringing of your children, since they would have the advantages of growing up in a household with more children.

Most of the Dietrich citizens of today are not stereotypical third generation residents that want to deny progress. But rather, many of the parents are college-educated persons who have moved here, giving up more lucrative opportunities in more populated areas, to escape some of the problems that come with impersonal "bigness."

We want for our children what we have found in Dietrich — small classes, excellent teachers, strict requirements and high level and expectation of achievement. Indeed, we want this for all children. But the answer is not in taking it away from the districts that have it, but rather finding a way to fund these advantages for all students.

It is regrettable that Shoshone is having to struggle. It is also regrettable that Dietrich had to struggle for so many years. Perhaps the legislature recently saw fit to "reward the Dietrichs for being small" because some of our leaders had the foresight to recognize that preservation of smaller districts could provide what nationwide studies have proclaimed to be solutions to today's massive problems in education and juvenile behavior.

Your last should not be with the "Dietrichs," but rather with the legislators who oppose adequate funding for education in general, causing a hardship for the "Shoshones." We think there's room in Idaho for both districts. We don't think one should have to be sacrificed for the other.

Cheri Miller, Dietrich, is a former teacher in both Shoshone and Dietrich who writes for the Lincoln County Journal, Shoshone.

'Stupid stickers' needed

This is about the unthinking, lazy people who take up the handicapped parking places. I've been upset seeing people taking them but never spoke up.

Now I have a friend who needs one and I have gone to town with her several times in the last three weeks; so far she has got to park in the proper place one. Now we have gone to the mall, downtown and K-Mart and have caught young, healthy people park in the spaces. We started a nice long list of license plates of these people. I only wish there was something to do with them, but don't think it would do any good anyway. Like, what would you do with the people in a sports car with 276 plates who so kindly left a glass beer bottle when they pulled out. We need stupid stickers for these people!

Some know why mills shut

Comes now Richard Graf/Heyburn, claiming in letters to the editor under "lousy workers don't last" that "if the man says is a lousy worker is really a lousy worker, then the union would not keep him as a member."

Come on Dicky boy, you are a liar yourself. I was foreman in the 160 "plate mill," Gary Works, Gary, Ind., during the 1960s. I had many lousy workers. We had a closed all-union shop. If a lousy worker? Don't make me laugh, Richard. The union from the shop griever on up protected the incompetents, the loaders and the lousy workers every way they could.

They loaded, they reported off whenever they wanted to go fishing and they rubbed plates (stenciled short, sent or what have you). Figure a 10 x 30-inch plate 1 inch thick equals 12,240 — over 6 tons and at $200 a ton equals $1,200. Replace the shearmen? Don't make me laugh, he couldn't shear right and many loaded plates, but he had union seniority and that was important above all else.

Thanks to the unions and cheap Japanese steel, Gary Works U.S. Steel Corp. is mostly idle and the incompetents and lousy workers are on the street and drawing unemployment and wondering why. Some of us know!

Fails to grasp significance

I, for one, do not appreciate Ellen Goodman's sarcastic guest editorial of Feb. 28. In which she stated that a new form of drug — the RU-486 "contragestive" (a cross between a contraceptive and an abortifacient) — may do more to close down the abortion clinics than all the pro-lifers have done.

She goes on to say that this new drug will eliminate much of the outcry over late-term abortions, as it will be used as early as two or four weeks following conception. She states that "there are no abortion clinics to

Media should assist family

To the editor of The Times-News and anyone else who has words of wisdom for the Slaten family:

A family can travel a fair part of the state, avoid themselves the best medication, financially lose everything they ever had plus all they can borrow, only to bring the small child home and await the slow and painful end.

It would be a gracious act if the news media spearheaded a fund-raiser to appeal the hanging and assist this family in their financial and emotional dilemma. Why not charity and compassion?

Get facts from right source

In reading your editorial on Feb. 27, I can't help wondering where you obtained your information about the Dietrich school. I know it wasn't from the school personnel or you would have had more facts. Did you know that salaries and all other expenses will be spent every month thru August so that the

"Squirreled" money is going to dwindle greatly. Let's take a look at the schools financial health as you see it.

SHOSHONE HAS BEEN PAULING ITSELF IN this position, not in a couple of years, but over the past twenty years. But it has really gone public in the last two years.

I was a member of the Dietrich School Board for several years. When I was first elected, we were paying salaries and everything else with warrants and saving where we could. I don't remember that anyone worried about finding ways to help Dietrich then. Finally the state changed the formula and the small districts had enough money to run on.

We have a superintendent who is far-sighted enough to know that this is not going to last forever and the funds have not gone into things that are not needed. Our students have not been deprived of the "things" they need. I have six children who have graduated and two more in high school. They have what they need.

At Shoshone's open meeting, one local man said, "Dietrich is not accredited and their seniors cannot get into any college." I'm glad my sons didn't know that or they may never have received their degrees from the University of Idaho. Next time, Mr. Editor, please take time to get your facts from a reliable source.

Deductions irk this clerk

I am writing to you on the right-to-work bill. I am a courtesy clerk for a local grocery store, in other words, I'm a box boy. I work less than 15 hours a week on an average week, sometimes less.

My store is closed shop, or a union store. I have to pay $12 a month for union dues, plus an initiation fee of $37.

As a Union member and as Commercial Workers Union contract, it says specifically that you get health and welfare trust, dental, vision, prescription drug benefits, except those in the courtesy clerk classification.

Since I am a courtesy clerk, I get no benefits. I would like to know where my $12 goes per month?

I make little enough as it is, but to have to fork out $12 per month for nothing really irks me.

It must be going for those lousy pro-union commercials that are on during my favorite program M*A*S*H.

Why are all the strong union members mad if the right-to-work bill passes? They can still belong to a union.

If any union member comes up to me and tells me why I am paying $12 a month, I will greatly appreciate it, but I will not take it.

You should be happy that you belong to a union, "as the answer."

Sometimes, I have had to pay more union dues than Social Security and taxes put together. I know the courtesy clerks at my store are mad when we get our pay checks and they say, "$12 — union dues."

Budget writers take austere view of '87

BOISE (AP) — Legislative budget-writers set out on the search for an acceptable 1987 state spending blueprint Monday, setting an austere tone from the start.

Although the Joint Finance-Appropriations Committee began working on agencies that do not rely on severely depressed general tax receipts, those operations were not immune from the economic upheaval that has forced a state sales tax increase just to wipe out a $20 million deficit in the current budget.

Massive projected federal highway fund losses prompted by the congressional drive to eliminate the federal deficit coupled with the absence of anticipated growth in some members suggested diverting that specially earmarked money to ease the crisis for those other agencies.

Some conservative members indicated they felt that even though the "Revenue picture for Fish and Game" was better than for the state as a whole, the department should be limited to a similar kind of budget allowing only for current operations to be maintained. But the decision on an overall spending level for the Fish and Game Department, was put off until midweek.

The entire budget-setting process will probably take the better part of the rest of the month.

The Transportation Department budget for the 1987 year that begins July 1 was endorsed at $184.2 million, down nearly $6 million from this year — and over $13 million below what department officials believed was possible less than six months ago.

The majority of the reduction was in federal highway construction money, down an estimated $11 million from earlier projections because of the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings deficit reduction plan.

The House on March 5 spurned the Reagan administration's relentless drive for block grant financing of social services by firmly rejecting an administration-backed amendment to retain the time-tested block grant funding option for adult day care programs. The amendment would have eliminated a requirement that states put up matching funds to participate in the block grant program. The vote against the amendment was 84-319. A "no" vote was with the majority.

No No

The House on March 5, after days of bitter and acrimonious debate that split House members into urban and rural factions, rejected an attempt to force the dairy industry to accept the 4.3 percent automatic spending cuts mandated by the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings deficit-reduction law. The vote came on an amendment to a package of changes in the 1986 Farm Bill. The amendment would have deleted a provision in the package that would enable the dairy industry to avoid the automatic budget cuts. The package also restores small cuts that were expected in the subsidies farmers receive on cotton, wheat and corn crops, while raising the assessment rates levied by the government on farmers to offset increased costs. The vote against the automatic cuts was 120-267. A "no" vote was with the majority.

Arsonists draw blame for 3 Pocatello blazes

POCATELLO (AP) — The fire that ripped through the Kasiska Building in downtown Pocatello three weeks ago wasn't the first blaze set intentionally in the city's business district.

In the last nine years, three large office structures, all within a one block area, have burned. All three fires were tied to arson, investigators found.

Flames gutted the Dietrich Building at Center and Arthur Streets in January, 1972, and the offices of Turner Insurance, at 145 S. Arthur, were set ablaze in May, 1983.

Fire officials continue to investigate the Kasiska blaze, which raged through the night on Feb. 9 as more than 50 firefighters fought to contain it.

Two days later, police and fire officials announced the blaze had started in the offices of Consumer Credit Counseling. A board member from the firm reported that same day that an embezzlement involving several thousand dollars had occurred.

Police have not officially linked the arson and embezzlement, and investigations into both offenses continue. A female suspect has refused to submit voluntarily to questioning by police.

Meantime, the future of the 72-year-old Kasiska Building is unclear. Owners have not announced their plans for the structure, and fire officials have said restoration would be possible but expensive.

Arson is one of the hardest crimes to prove, law enforcement officials say. It requires substantial evidence to show someone actually set fire to a structure.

It took time, but eventually there were suspects convicted for setting the Dietrich fire. Suspects in the Turner fire were never convicted.

Idaho-21 closed

BOISE (AP) — Traffic between Boise and Idaho City was closed Monday on Idaho 21 when a bridge washed out.

The Idaho Transportation Department said a bridge over Moses Creek went out this morning about six miles south of Idaho City.

Traffic was expected to be stopped at least six hours. The highway agency said one-way traffic might be permitted after that.

What's what

Primary role of a totalitarian state is said to be: "Everything not prohibited is compulsory."

When is "evening" where you live? In New Orleans, it's "evening" if it's any time after noon.

At one spot on the Los Angeles city limits is this sign: "You have just left the City of Los Angeles. Resume natural breathing."

"It's not worth" says it's "sug." This is not a cutting critique of current rock, please note. It was the expressed opinion long ago of Pierre Beaumarchais, who wrote the Barber of Seville.

SLEEPING FOOT

Q. What's the word for one's foot going to sleep?
A. Taresthesia.

Q. "Where there is marriage without love, there will be love without marriage." Who first said that?
A. None other than Benjamin Franklin in his "Poor Richard's Almanac."

HEAD SHAKE

The Bulgarian shakes his head up and down to mean "no," from side to side to mean "good." So note sports reporters during international basketball games: "Whenever a Bulgarian hit a jump shot, his teammates shook their heads from side to side.

If you were permitted to eat but one sort of food for three days, what would it be? Please note, a hamburger is not one sort. It's meat, but, probably plus onions, tomatoes, lettuce, whatever. Fried chicken is a single sort, however. Still, when pollsters put the query to a sampling of citizens, the majority refused to disqualify the hamburger, naming same.

Q. Who said speeches are more important than essays?
A. Adolf Hitler. What he actually claimed: "All epoch-making revolutionary events have been produced not by the written, but by the spoken word." He didn't speak the line, incidentally. He wrote it. In "Mein Kampf."

FAA says controllers can handle work load

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Aviation Administration acknowledged Monday that more fully trained air traffic controllers are needed, but insisted its workforce is keeping the skies safe and that no further traffic restraints are required.

"I see a healthy (air traffic control) system out there," FAA Administrator Donald Engen told a group of senators who have joined a task force to examine air safety issues.

Engen's appearance at a task force meeting, however, included several sharp exchanges with senators who expressed concern that the country's airways may not be as safe as the FAA has maintained.

The task force also heard from the author of a General Accounting Office study, released last week, which concluded that air traffic at some of the busiest parts of the country should be restrained during peak periods to take pressure off over-worked controllers.

FAA officials said that while some "flow control" measures are used to keep controllers from being overburdened with traffic, no further restrictions are planned. "I don't think the (controller) situation comes close to warranting that," said Norbert Owen, the FAA's associate administrator for air traffic.

After a summary by Engen of FAA plans to hire additional controllers over the next two years, Sen. Bob Kasten, R-Wis., task force chairman, snapped, "What we're concerned about is safety today and not the goals of tomorrow."

Sen. Mark Andrews, R-N.D., who is chairman of the appropriations subcommittee that handles the FAA's budget, noted that the agency is still more than 300 controllers short of the levels it had wanted to reach last September.

TWA, union talking again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Trans World Airlines and union representatives for 6,000 flight attendants who struck last week have agreed to return to the bargaining table Wednesday, a government official said Monday.

The National Mediation Board said both sides have agreed to sit down together at 10 a.m. EST Wednesday in Philadelphia for the first time since the attendants walked off their jobs shortly after midnight Thursday.

Seaman held after sales of documents

POINT MUGU NAVAL AIR STATION, Calif. (AP) — A Navy enlisted man stationed at this base where cruise missiles are tested has been arrested for investigation of selling classified documents, authorities said Monday.

Petty Officer 3rd Class Robert Dean Haguwood, 24, was arrested March 4 by the Naval Investigative Service after he allegedly sold part of a secret document to an undercover police officer, said Navy spokesman Lt. Dave Morris.

A Navy source at the Pentagon said Haguwood was not a "big-time spy" in the same category as the more than dozen people arrested since May in spy scandals that have rocked the service.

"He didn't approach the Russians," said the source who agreed to discuss the matter if not identified. "He was a very low-level guy who did a pretty stupid thing. We don't consider him any big-time spy."

John Russell, a Department of Justice spokesman in Washington, D.C., said there was no indication that any material "was destined to go to a foreign government or a foreign agent of a government."

More than 100 jailed outside Hormel plant

AUSTIN, Minn. (AP) — More than 100 striking meatpackers and supporters were arrested Monday after they picketed Hormel's corporate headquarters, sent the keys to the governor's office and linked arms in what the police chief called "mass civil disobedience."

The picketing at Hormel's flagship meat plant, where the workers went on strike Aug. 17, was not interrupted, a company official said.

Police Chief Don Hoffman said 111 people were arrested when they linked arms, chanting and singing "We shall not be moved," and refused police orders to disperse.

The demonstration by about 200 members and supporters of Local P-9 of the United Food and Commercial Workers came as strike leader Ray Rogers appeared in court on a felony charge for his role in a Feb. 6 demonstration at the plant.

Keys to a lock on the headquarters building's gate were delivered to the State Capitol in St. Paul late in the morning, said Gerry Nelson, Gov. Rudy Perpich's press secretary.

"Some person unknown" to us walked into the office, dropped an envelope on the desk and left," Nelson said. He said the keys were sent to authorities in Austin, who removed a bicycle lock from the gates shortly after noon.

Union member Glen Beckmann had read a statement asking the governor to intervene on behalf of the strikers.

"We as a non-violent group present you with the keys to control the Hormel corporate gate. We feel our civil rights have been denied by you and the Hormel company long enough," the statement said.

Midwestern winds kill 2, injure score

The Associated Press

Tornadoes and winds up to 87 mph raked Indiana, Kentucky and Ohio on Monday, killing at least two people and injuring more than 20, while cutting electricity to thousands of homes and scattering planes at Cincinnati's airport.

Strong winds ripped through a 10- to 12-block section of Newport, Ky., causing heavy damage and an undetermined number of injuries, said Gordon Nichols, a spokesman for the state disaster and emergency services office. Streets were blocked off and authorities were preparing to call in the National Guard, he said.

High winds "just wiped out" a trailer park on the west side of Indianapolis and caused heavy damage to several businesses, said Marion County sheriff's dispatcher Tom Booher. "We're keeping people from looting right now," said Booher. No casualties were immediately reported in the trailer park or damaged businesses.

In Hancock County, Ind., a man was crushed to death when the barn in which he and his brother sought refuge from a storm collapsed under high winds, said sheriff's Sgt. Rick Johnson. The identity of the dead man, whose brother suffered minor injuries, was being withheld while relatives were notified, said Johnson.

In Jasper Township, Ohio, a man was killed when a storm hit his trailer and three other family members were injured, said Fayette County Sheriff Robert W. McArthur.

Budget cuts eliminating vaccinations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The first round of Gramm-Rudman spending cuts eliminated money to vaccinate some 65,000 children this year, and hundreds of thousands may be denied immunization if the deficit reduction law forces deeper cuts next year, the chairman of House subcommittee said Monday.

Rep. Henry Waxman, D-Calif., chairman of the House Energy and Commerce health subcommittee, also said that President Reagan's proposed 1987 budget would eliminate shots for some 400,000 children next year because it does not keep pace with the rising cost of vaccine.

The Reagan administration has proposed a small increase next year — from $474 million appropriated for 1986 to $480 million for 1987 — in the vaccination grants program, which pays about 50 percent of the cost of vaccine used by state and local health agencies.

B-1B crew unhurt in speedy landing

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — An Air Force B-1B bomber, its retractable wings stuck in a swept-back position for high-speed flight, made an emergency landing Monday at about 250 mph and its crew of five escaped injury, officials said.

"It's down OK," Air Force public information officer Don Haley said moments after the landing on a nearly three-mile runway at this high-desert base. "The wings were jammed back for high-speed flight."

The four-engine aircraft had been on a routine flight from Dyess Air Force Base near Abilene, Texas, with a crew of five. There were no injuries and the aircraft was not damaged, Haley said.

Lake lands flood risk is feared imminent

WASHINGTON — Serious flooding could develop in the Great Lakes region and in Utah this spring, with minor or moderate problems possible in other areas, the government said Monday in its spring flooding outlook.

Water levels in the upper Great Lakes, Superior, Michigan, Huron and Erie, rose to record levels last fall endangering lake front property and setting the stage for even greater hazards when the spring snow melt occurs.

The potential for flooding and severe property damage is extremely high for the shoreline of these lakes, Michael D. Hudlow of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration told reporters.

Hudlow, director of the National Weather Service's Office of Hydrology, said lake levels are expected to peak this summer 10 inches or more above last year's levels on all Great Lakes except Ontario.

In addition, he said, the Great Salt Lake, Utah, has climbed to near record levels, experiencing its greatest two-week increase on record between Feb. 15 and March 1. The lake is at its highest level since 1875, and flooding is expected around the lake at least through June.

In addition to the Great Lake and Great Salt Lake, other areas where spring flooding may occur, the forecast said, include the Wind River and Sweet River in Wyoming, North Platte River in Wyoming, Colorado and Nebraska, the Boulder, Big Thompson and Cache La Poudre creeks in Colorado, Mounau River in South Dakota and the Big Sioux River in the Dakotas and Minnesota.

Details of spring flood potential across the nation are included in the annual warning issued Monday. But the danger for the Great Lakes was apparent much earlier, with a warning posted last fall by the Great Lakes Environmental Research Laboratory in Ann Arbor, Mich.

"It's going to be a bad year," Christopher Shafer of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, said recently.

Lake levels are five to 10 inches above a year ago, posing a threat to lakfront property.

Andrus launches campaign

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Cecil Andrus told a large gathering of Magic Valley supporters at the Twin Falls-Sun Valley Regional Airport Monday that he wants to again be the governor of Idaho because he feels he has the ability to help reverse the state's economic decline and deteriorating educational system.

The former Democratic governor and one-time U.S. secretary of Interior was greeted in the airport terminal building by an estimated 150-140 persons.

In his brief announcement address, the candidate took a jab at some of the state's current legislators.

"Lately we have been seeing the politics of arrogance, as practiced by the fringe elements that control the (Idaho) Legislature," he said. "They have not been leaders or problem-solvers. They have been part of the problem. They have been obstructionists."

"We must — and I pledge to you that I will lead the effort — bring together the reasonable Idahoans of all political persuasions: Republicans, Democrats and independents, and get on with the job of moving Idaho ahead."

Andrus told the gathering that he believes he has the vision, foresight and experience to help solve Idaho's many problems and is going after the job again, well aware of its challenges and demands.

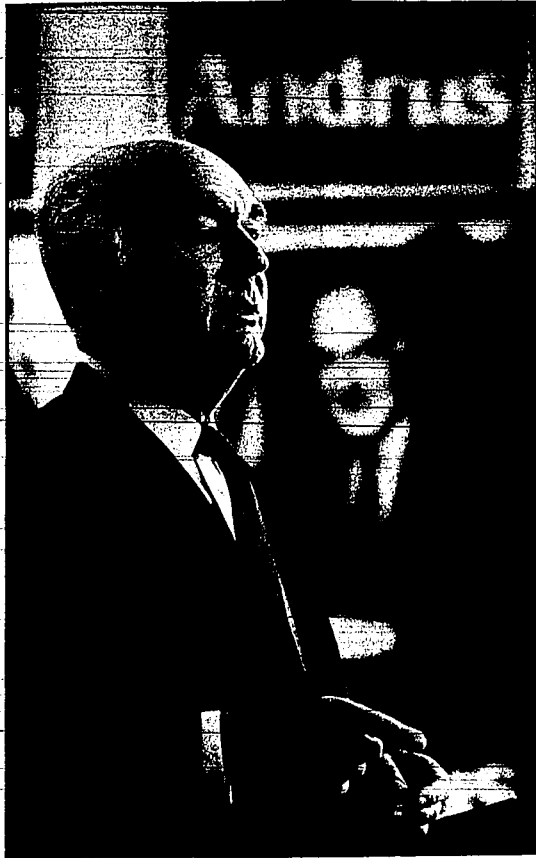

In a tour last week throughout Idaho to get a feel for support before making a final decision about his candidacy, Andrus said, he found the response "very encouraging."

"Let me tell you, I wouldn't be doing this again if I were not deeply concerned about the new challenges that face Idaho," Andrus said Monday. "I think you'll agree that to meet these challenges we'll need all the know-how we can muster."

He said Idaho's traditional industries — timber, mining and agriculture — are all hurting and must be stabilized.

"To do that, we must expand existing markets for Idaho products and find new markets," he said.

At the same time, he said, the rebuilding of Idaho's economy is tied directly to educational needs. Saying that there was a growing and healthy educational program in the state in the past, Andrus said it has now fallen far behind other Western states. He said Idaho now ranks 49th in the 50 states for per-pupil educational spending.

Idaho gains groundwater planning help

By KENNETH BROWN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Idaho's Division of Environment has been awarded a $108,564 grant from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency for groundwater quality planning in 1986.

Money from the grant will be used by the division to coordinate groundwater-related activities in the state.

In the Magic Valley, the new funding will enable the department to continue work on the Snake Plain Aquifer Management Strategy, says Gary Shook, the division's groundwater unit supervisor.

"We wouldn't go anywhere without it," Shook said of the grant. "We've got no other source of funding."

With no money available from the state, groundwater studies and the development of protection programs for groundwater in Idaho have depended almost entirely on federal grants.

A similar grant last year enabled the state to develop a management strategy for the Snake Plain Aquifer. The division plans to use part of this year's grant to seek legislation to implement that management strategy, Shook said.

The state also plans to use the grant money to develop monitoring programs for the aquifer. Two areas of interest include monitoring and general water quality in the aquifer and more specific monitoring of such activities as the land disposal of industrial wastes and pesticide residues from farming.

Rick Jarvis, a senior water quality analyst with the Division of Environment in Boise, said the division is in the process of developing draft legislative proposals now and will "go before the public this summer to get their input."

The division hopes to have some proposed legislation ready for next year's legislative session, Jarvis said. While developing legislation for the "state-controlled" management plan, the division will also be working on rules and regulations for groundwater protection, he added.

As part of those rules and regulations, the state should have its groundwater quality standards ready later this spring. In April or May, Jarvis said, the division will seek public input on its suggested standards.

The Snake Plain Aquifer covers approximately 9,600-square miles, extending from the St. Anthony area on the northeast to the Thousand Springs area near Hagerman on the southwest.

About 1.5 million acre-feet of water from the aquifer is used in agriculture. In addition, the aquifer discharges an estimated 6.2 million acre-feet of water into the Snake River.

The EPA in 1984 had considered designating the Snake Plain Aquifer as a "sole source" aquifer and developing its own management plan for the water resource.

Stand misrepresented on SDI, Stallings says

By ANNETTE CARY
Times-News writer

Chaddband, an Idaho Falls businessman and state representative, criticized Stallings at a Boise news conference Monday for what he called "opposition to President Reagan's Strategic Defense Initiative, commonly referred to as 'Star Wars.'" He said Stallings and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev "share some views."

However, Stallings staff said that the congressman voted for the $2.5 billion in SDI funding that passed the House, as well as an attempt to shave it to $2.1 billion. Stallings did oppose attempts to increase the funding to $2.9 billion and $3.7 billion and attempts to cut it to $1.4 billion and $954 million.

Stallings' voting record was incorrectly reported in The Times-News Monday, due to faulty information from an earlier news graphic.

Administrative Assistant Gary Catron was also critical of Chaddband's statement that Stallings voted for a non-binding resolution to ban underground nuclear weapons testing. The resolution actually asked the president to re-start negotiations with the Soviets, leading to a comprehensive test-ban treaty, Catron said.

Catron declined to comment directly on Chaddband's attempt to link Stallings and Gorbachev. But when asked if Stallings considered the attack dirty politics, as he had billed in SDI funding, that passed the House, as well as an attempt to link him with across-Jane Fonda, Catron said that "the allegations can speak for themselves."

Chamber to request meeting on U.S. 93

TWIN FALLS — Mike Dolton, Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce executive vice president, will ask the Idaho Transportation Board today to schedule a public meeting in Twin Falls to discuss the hazardous 43 miles of U.S. Highway 93 between Twin Falls and the Nevada state line.

Dolton has scheduled an appointment with the board in Boise for this morning and plans to present statistics to show board members that some improvement is needed on the highway section.

"I have found there were 60 traffic accidents on the stretch of highway in 1985 and 60 of these involved injuries," Dolton said. "That's a mighty high record for one stretch of highway."

Of them proved fatal to drivers and occupants of vehicles, with a mere total of 12 persons being killed.

Last week Dolton asked for a public meeting to support efforts for improvement considerations. He said Monday that he has received 13 or 14 letters and a number of telephone calls.

"We want to have a meeting in Twin Falls in the near future so we can get public input from the communities served — by the highway and the people who drive it," Dolton added.

In addition to the safety factor, Chamber of Commerce committee members have stressed other reasons for a wider, better-maintained route into Twin Falls from the south.

Accident injures driver

TWIN FALLS — The driver of a car that went out of control Sunday night and overturned on U.S. 93 one mile north of the Nevada state line, was listed in satisfactory condition Monday.

William Dennis Burris, 34, of Payette was southbound at 7:30 p.m. Idaho State Police reports showed. His vehicle went off the left side of the highway and he overcorrected, the report said. It crossed the highway and went off on the opposite side, rolling over on its side.

Investigating ISP Trooper Kent Oliver said the driver faces a charge of driving while intoxicated when he is released from the hospital.

Reports indicated the driver was pulled for extrication equipment and requested an ambulance, fire equipment and a wrecker from Jackpot, Nev.

An ambulance from Twin Falls met the Jackpot ambulance in Nevada and brought Burris to Magic Valley Regional Medical Center.

Falling interest rates spark fresh activity

Home mortgage market returns to life

By BOB FREUND
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Idaho home mortgage market is alive again, with the sounds of ringing telephones and closing papers.

Interest rates on home mortgages have tumbled to the lowest levels in seven years, triggering the activity.

And, like a responding chorus, homeowners who borrowed in the past few years are ripping up their high-priced agreements to take on new rates falling toward the single digits.

First-time home buyers are ringing up real estate agents, knowing that they probably can now afford to shop more wisely.

And, in many areas, including the Magic Valley, home sales also are starting to revive.

The latest fall in interest rates came within the last two weeks, as government mortgage rates dove through the 10-percent barrier, says Mike McMurray, president of Transwestern Mortgage Corp., based at Twin Falls.

"The rate dropped to 9% percent through 10 days ago, and it's just opening their floodgates," McMurray says.

Homeowners statewide are rushing to exchange mortgages with higher rates as high as 12 percent for fixed financing with long terms and low rates, says J. Craig Rowe, president of the Idaho Mortgage Bankers Association.

"At the current time, the biggest majority of the work really is in the refinancing area," says Rowe, vice president of real estate credit for Idaho Bank and Trust Co.

Not only have interest rates gone down significantly in the past six months, but they also appear stable, he says.

For someone making a monthly payment on a home, lower rates translate to cash for other uses.

On a $90,000 mortgage, a typical level for the Magic Valley, a 30-year, fixed-rate mortgage purchased a year ago at a 13-percent rate costs $533.10 a month in principal and interest.

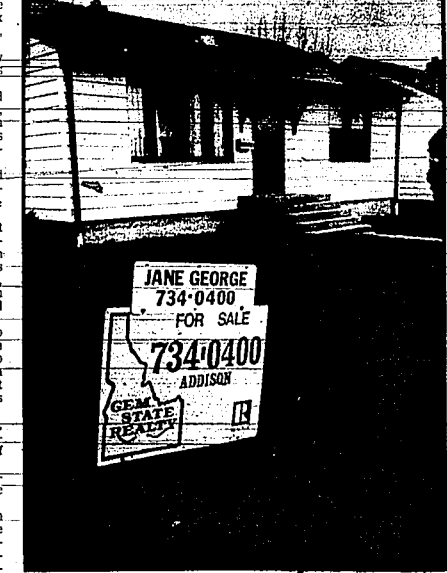

The same mortgage, purchased now at 10% percent, carries a monthly payment of $457.37. One at 9% percent costs $420.43 a month.

However, refinancing is not just swapping paper. It involves an entire new mortgage, complete with loan origination fees, appraisal costs and other charges, says Jeff Harris, vice president and Twin Falls branch manager for United First Federal Savings and Loan Association.

"That's one thing I try to talk to my customers about," he says. "In some cases, if people aren't going to hold on to the house for more than a couple years, sometimes it's not worth doing," Harris says. The costs have to be balanced.

But, as interest rates drop, lower mortgage rates are being offered. "We're seeing pretty good demand... throughout all areas in the state," Rowe says.

The lowest rates available now on 30-year, fixed-rate mortgages are from the Federal Housing Administration and Veterans Administration. At 9% percent they incur discount points, which could add some principal to the loan if the seller does not pick up the tab as an incentive.

However, interest rates between 10 and 11 percent are common, according to The Magic Valley Market Analysis, a weekly monitor of rates. A year ago, rates in the 13-percent range prevailed.

Some people who are refinancing are taking advantage of the lower rates to shorten the terms of their loans, says Linda Berndt, real estate officer at Twin Falls Bank and Trust Co. "I've seen people interested in the 15-year (terms)," she says.

But this market is not only for refinancers. Real estate agents are seeing new activity among existing home buyers.

The Twin Falls Board of Realtors reports a rebound in sales, with 120 homes purchased since Jan. 1 and three weeks left until the end of the quarter. "That is up over a year ago," says Virginia Eldredge, Board president.

The activity in Idaho so far still falls short of an unfettered buying spree. "It probably will take a longer period of stable, low interest rates to get the market moving in high gear," Rowe says.

"But I do believe it will precipitate a return to the market for some buyers who traditionally had been left out because of the cost of financing," he says.

McMurray looks to the new affordability as an important stimulus. "This is the first time in the last six or seven years that nearly anyone in a certain income bracket can buy a house that fits his income bracket," the lender says.

His view is supported by the monthly housing affordability index designed by National Association of Realtors economists. In January, for the second consecutive month, it showed that a family earning the nation's median income ($28,054 that month) could afford a $61,000 mortgage, the level calculated for purchasing an existing home in the middle of the nation's selection.

The move back to low mortgage rates and the time-honored, 30-year mortgage gives many home buyers more security. Many banks and savings and loan associations also are not balking because they no longer are bearing the brunt of the mortgages.

"Most financial institutions are not keeping large numbers of fixed-rate mortgages on their books," says Rowe. Although they may service them, they actually sell the loans to investors in the secondary mortgage market and let them bear any risks.

Some institutions, such as First Federal Savings and Loan Association in Twin Falls, deal only in adjustable-rate mortgages. Those loans carry interest rates that rise and fall with prevailing national interest rates. They offer an alternative to fixed-rate plans, but many home mortgage buyers also prefer long-term contracts if they can get them at low rates.

Mortgage experts say the rates are not likely to fall back much further. "I think we will see the rate perhaps come down a little bit more," says Rowe.

But confidence in better mortgage rates is growing, a good sign for the market, he and analysts say.

"Sophisticated consumer also is watching," says Berndt.

"The consumer is much more aware of interest and the way the interest is declining," she says.

"There is such a national emphasis on the economy right now. So much is available to the consumer."

Wheeler holds slot

BOISE (AP) — Coeur d'Alene mining executive Dennis Wheeler has been reappointed to the Idaho Board of Education.

Wheeler, 43, is president and director of Coeur d'Alene Mines Corp., which is headquartered at Wallace.

Gov. John Evans also appointed William R. Parish, Moscow, and John Collet, Pirth, as new members of the Advisory Board on Aeronautics and Public Transportation.

Col. Calvin M. Bernard, Boise, Idaho, State Police superintendent, was appointed to the Teleypewriter Communications Board. Dr. A. Paul Brown, Burley, was appointed to the state Board of Dentistry.

Car collides with parked trailers, injures Washington woman fatally

BURLEY — A 76-year-old Washington woman died of injuries in Cassia Memorial Hospital Monday after her car slammed into the rear of a parked truck with triple trailers.

The accident occurred at 9:41 a.m. Sunday.

The accident occurred at the Cotterell Port of Entry.

Idaho State Police officers said the victim, Dorothy L. Hughes, of Bothell, Wash., was traveling west on Interstate 84 when she pulled out to the Cotterell exit. Investigating officers estimated her speed at about 50 miles per hour when her small car crashed into the rear of the "set of triples" that was stopped and waiting its turn to drive onto the port of entry scales.

The accident occurred at 1 p.m. Hughes was taken to Cassia Memorial Hospital by ambulance and died there at 2:17 p.m. Cassia County Coroner Paul Young said the victim died of trauma to the head and chest. She was not thrown from her car or pinned in it, Young said, but was removed on a backboard from the scene because of her difficulty in breathing.

Officers said the accident was alcohol-related and that there were no brake marks or other signs that the woman attempted to stop or avoid the collision. The body was taken to McCulloch Funeral Chapel in Burley, where officials said family members had been contacted late Monday evening.

The driver of the parked truck, Lee Richard Gunderson, 37, Boise, was in the cab, but was not injured. Officials said there was no damage to other vehicles or structures at the port of entry, as the vehicles were both still on a portion of the off-ramp when the crash occurred.

Cpl. Fred Rice of the Idaho State Police was working on accident reconstruction late Monday night. Other investigating officers were Cpl. Delon Jones and Cpl. Bob Connor.

Intersection crash injures 4 persons

TWIN FALLS — Four persons who were taken to Magic Valley Regional Medical Center following a Sunday morning accident at the West Five Points intersection were released after treatment of injuries, hospital officials said Monday.

Twin Falls city police said a Nampa woman, June Good, 56, was cited for failing to stop at a red light. Her vehicle was traveling west on Addison Avenue, officers said. She allegedly drove through the traffic light and her car was struck on the right side by the southbound vehicle driven by Rhonda Krieger, 23, of Twin Falls. Krieger was traveling on Washington Street.

June Christiansen, 62, of Nampa, suffered the most severe injuries, including multiple cuts and bruises. Other injured were Helen Wenger, 31, also of Nampa, and Angela Eakgen, 9, of Kimberly, and Clifton Krieger, 4, of Twin Falls. The two Nampa women were passengers in the Good vehicle and the children were riding in the Krieger vehicle.

The accident occurred at 9:41 a.m. Sunday.

He said his love for the outdoors has made him a strong advocate of common-sense use of natural resources.

"That common sense approach says we can't rob future generations of their options, but neither can we preserve every rock and tree at the expense of our own economic well-being," he said.

Andrus said his initial day of campaigning would involve seven stops in major cities around the state before he got home tonight.

He was flown to Twin Falls by a helicopter supplied by Marvin Aslett of Jerome. Immediately after his announcement, Andrus met with people in the audience. Andrus took off by plane for Lewisville and Coeur d'Alene.

Mansfield is the granddaughter of Mrs. Pauline Mansfield, Twin Falls.

Reader offended by doctor's ignorance

Abigail VanBuren
Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: I was appalled at the ignorance of that doctor who opposed artificial insemination for the unmarried 35-year-old professional woman who wanted to have a child before it was too late.

He gave the impression that artificial insemination was done as a lark with a turkey baster. Actually, it's done under hygienic conditions in a doctor's office only after a great deal of investigation and many consultations. Some facts:

One out of every six American couples of reproductive age is infertile, and 40 percent of the cases are attributed to the infertility of the male.

Twenty-six states have already passed laws legitimizing artificial insemination, and approximately 20,000 babies are born every year because of it.

How do I know so much about it? Had it—not been—for artificial insemination, my husband and I would not be the proud parents of two beautiful, healthy children.

Unfortunately, at age 31, my husband had surgery for testicular cancer, which rendered him sterile.

Adoption would have meant years of waiting, but with artificial insemination we were able to become parents without delay.

Our children have at least one biological parent, and believe it or not, the "donor" was so well-matched that both our children resemble their "father."

—LUCKY US IN PASADENA
DEAR LUCKY: Lucky, indeed. And boo to that insensitive doctor.

DEAR ABBY: You mentioned "the rhythm system" as one of the many methods of birth control.

First, I appreciate your respect for the Catholics' objection to artificial birth control, but, Abby, "the rhythm system" is a thing of the past. Today there are many family planning organizations that teach natural methods of birth control. The most popular one is the "sympto-thermal" method. As the name implies, it is a matter of learning to read the signs of fertility. This method is not only approved by the Catholic Church, it is extremely effective whether a woman's cycle is regular or irregular, whether she is nursing or approaching menopause.

Please pass this information on.

—PREFERS THE NATURAL WAY
DEAR PREFERERS: Thanks for bringing me up-to-date. The sympto-thermal method is effective in reverse, too. It teaches women who want to conceive how to determine their most fertile period.

For more information on this subject, write to: The Couple to Couple League, P.O. Box 111184, Cincinnati, Ohio 45211.

Please enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope, as this is a non-profit organization.

DEAR ABBY: In a recent letter, you incorrectly used the phrase "tight labor market" to refer to a situation where jobs are scarce.

Actually, a "tight labor market" is one in which job openings are PLENTIFUL and workers who don't like their work can easily quit and find other employment. Economists use the phrase "loose labor market" to describe job scarcity.

Your mistake in terminology is commonly made. So keep the following rhyme in mind:

When the labor market is tight
Tell your boss to fly a kite.
But when the labor market is loose,
Saying that will cook your goose.

—DANIEL J. E. MITCHELL,
UCLA PROFESSOR

DEAR PROFESSOR: You could have fooled me. I erroneously assumed that because the terminology "money is tight" means "money is scarce," the same held true for the labor market. Thanks for wising me up.

Although flying a kite was an electrifying experience for Benjamin Franklin, I wouldn't recommend telling one's boss to fly one under any circumstances.

Sarah Brady launches gun control campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five years after her family's life was shattered by bullets intended for President Reagan, Sarah Brady is waging a personal lobbying campaign for gun control.

Deliberately and calmly, Mrs. Brady, the wife of White House Press Secretary James Brady, set out last September to work against a hotly contested bill in Capitol Hill and, over time, educate the public about gun control.

Gun control was on Mrs. Brady's mind long before her husband was shot during the 1981 assassination attempt on President Reagan. Back in the 1970s, one of her girlfriends was shot to death with her own revolver in a lover's spat.

It is Brady's situation, however, that makes Mrs. Brady's appeal so poignant. "Our happy lives were changed forever," she said in a fund-raising letter for Handgun Control Inc.

"The Senate's passage of the so-called McClure-Volkmer bill, which would generally weaken the 1968 federal gun control law, "mocked my husband's suffering," she said.

Brady, who has brain damage and wears a leg brace as a result of the shots fired by John W. Hinckley Jr.'s 22-caliber pistol on March 30, 1981, is not involved in his wife's lobbying.

Lisbeth Palme, sons Marten, Mattias and Joachim during moment of silence in Stockholm

Sweden honors slain Palme

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Sweden stopped for one minute at noon Monday to honor Olof Palme. Trains halted, people stood mute in the streets and others wept at the spot where an assassin shot the prime minister down 10 days ago. Police said they were pursuing leads involving 1,500 people and 150 vehicles. It is the largest criminal investigation in Sweden's history. Commissioner Hans Holmer used his daily news conference to appeal for help from citizens who were at the premiere of the film "The Brothers Mozart," which Palme and his wife Lisbet attended just before he was killed Feb. 28. "We are interested in information from the audience in the cinema during the film and also in observations outside the theater after the showing," Holmer said. Palme, 59, was killed by a .357-caliber Magnum revolver bullet in the back as he and his wife, 55, walked home from the theater late at night. He had dismissed his bodyguards earlier in the day. Mrs. Palme, dressed in black, made her first public appearance since the shooting, joining her three sons for a memorial program in Parliament during which the national minute of silence occurred. "Let us never give up the fight against hunger and injustice, never give up the struggle against violence," Center Party leader Karin Söder said in a speech at the ceremony. "Let this be our way of honoring Olof Palme."

Her party opposes Palme's Social Democrats in Parliament. Sweden has not declared an official period of mourning because it has no such tradition. Monday's national observance was believed to be the largest public show of sympathy ever to occur in this country. Thousands of people filled the downtown street in which Palme was murdered. Many wept quietly as they stood facing the makeshift memorial erected by Social Democrats who live in the area. It was covered with red roses brought by mourners. The national railroad stopped hundreds of trains. Police estimated that seven of every 10 drivers stopped their cars in some areas, many getting out and standing in silence.

Police beat black American

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — A black American church worker said Monday that a black of police beat a white police officer breaking up what they called an illegal gathering, inflicting 17 cuts on her back and face, in the wrong place. Beth Burris, 31, said two of the cuts were serious. "If I had been white they wouldn't have touched me," said Ms. Burris, who is from Indianapolis and came to South Africa last July. "I was a black person in the wrong place. They (the police) don't ask questions."

Province, confirmed Ms. Burris' account of the melee on Saturday. Seshego is in Lebowa, one of South Africa's 10 black homelands. She told The Associated Press by telephone that she was outside the center, in which parents were gathering to discuss student boycotts of schools. She said police arrived at about 3:15 p.m. "People were standing outside," Ms. Burris said. "A police van went by and five minutes later there were eight vans there. People began to run. I didn't know what to do. 'I thought, I haven't done anything, why should I run?' There's a kindergarten attached to the church. I went in there and sat on the grass in a courtyard. The police were chasing people."

"Three minutes later, a black policeman came and pulled out his sjambok (truncheon) and started to beat me. There was blood all over my clothes. I was screaming, 'I'm an American! I am working for the church!' He said, 'You are lying!' and kept beating me for about 10 minutes." She said the meeting had not been banned and police gave no warning before attacking the crowd. A major at the Seshego police station said he was not aware of a specific case but "there was an unlawful gathering at the church on Saturday." She is fortunate if she is not arrested. Some are in jail. The major, also black, refused to give his name.

Slides in Peru claim dozen

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Landslides of mud and rock caused by heavy rains have swept through four villages in a valley on the edge of the jungle in central Peru, killing at least 12 people, the official news agency Andina reported. It quoted civil defense chief Guillermo Velarde in Huanuco, the provincial capital, as saying the landslides had destroyed 100 houses in the four villages and buried about 750 acres of potato, bean and corn fields. The landslides began before dawn Sunday in the Santa Maria del Valle district of Huanuco Province.

Captors release photo of hostage said slain

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Shiite Muslim kidnappers issued photographs Monday purporting to show the body of French hostage Michel Scurat, with a statement saying the photos proved their claim to have killed him last week. "Islamic Jihad, a pro-Iranian fundamentalist group, denied in the statement that it had abducted a four-man French television crew Saturday. The photos and statement were delivered to a Western news agency in Beirut. The statement said the three black-and-white pictures were intended to counter "skepticism about the seriousness of our earlier claims" that Scurat was slain last Wednesday. One showed the hostage's chest and face, as he lay bare-chested with his eyes half-closed. The second showed a body in a coffin wrapped in a blanket, and the third a closed coffin with a crucifix on the lid. There was no evidence of wounds or blood in the one photo that showed the man clearly, and no way to confirm he had been killed. Friends of Scurat confirmed that the man in the photo was the 37-year-old Frenchman. The typewritten statement was in Arabic and signed "the Islamic Jihad (Islamic Holy War) organization." In Paris, the French Foreign Ministry issued a statement saying it was "seeking to verify the authenticity of this abominable claim." The photos and statement were made public during a French diplomatic effort in Lebanon and Syria to free the eight Frenchmen, including Scurat, kidnapped in Lebanon. Razah Raad, a Lebanese-born French heart specialist who has independently mediated in the hostage issue in the past, drove to Beirut Monday night from Damascus after Scurat's death. He said he hoped to meet with the captors and prevent "further carnage."

Israel to change its tactics

ZARIT, Israel (AP) — Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin said Monday that Israel will change its tactics to combat the increase in guerrilla activity along the Israeli-Lebanese border. "What has happened over the past month must lead us to adjust our methods of operation so that we won't have to continue paying the painful price we have been paying," Rabin told reporters on the Israeli side of the border near the place where an Israeli soldier was killed in south Lebanon. He toured a 10-mile stretch on the border, spoke with Israeli soldiers and met for several hours with senior military officers to discuss how Israel can fight off the attackers. One Israeli soldier was killed in Sunday's pre-dawn ambush, the fourth soldier to die since last month in south Lebanon. The rate of two other soldiers captured by Moslem Shiite guerrillas in south Lebanon on Feb. 17 is unknown. Rabin said Syria was an "encouraging and aiding factor of terrorism in general... but I cannot tell you that this activity or another was escalated or guided by Syria." Following Sunday's ambush, in which two Shiite guerrillas were also killed and a third was wounded and escaped, the head of northern command Maj. Gen. Ori Orr said the guerrillas were trying to attack civilian settlements.

Vandal Coach Trumbo fired

MOSCOW (AP) — Bill Trumbo was fired as head basketball coach at the University of Idaho, Athletic Director Bill Belknap announced Monday.

Belknap announced that Trumbo was fired Sunday night after a 28-59 record during a three-year tenure with the Vandals, including a 19-21 record at home.

He said the school is looking for a successor who is familiar with the Northwest and the Big Sky Conference.

"The biggest factor (in the firing) was that public support and confidence in our program has dropped to the point where I thought the only way to turn it around and revive it was to make a coaching change," Belknap said.

The Vandals were 11-18 this season, and were eliminated from the Big Sky Conference Tournament 68-60 Thursday by second-seeded Montana in an opening-round game.

"I sat down at Big Sky tournament and saw every team play at east, except Idaho State (which was ineligible), of course, and we were certainly the poorest team in the tournament," Belknap said.

The Vandals sat in the conference's basement spot during the tenure of Trumbo, who was hired from Santa Rosa, Calif., Junior College.

Trumbo was in California Monday, and unavailable for comment. His assistants, Pat Rafferty and Garry Mendenthal, also were fired.

Idaho will try to find a new head basketball coach who is familiar with the Northwest and the Big Sky, according to Bill Belknap.

Belknap said the new Vandal coach must be capable of winning at home in Moscow. Trumbo owned a 19-21 record at home.

Names of several possible replacements have surfaced.

They include:

- Marty Holly, the head coach at the NAIA College of Idaho.
- Sam Wash, head coach at Spokane, Wash., Community College.
- Jay Hillock, assistant at Loyola Marymount and former head coach at Spokane's Gonzaga University.

Barry Collier, assistant to Don Monson at Oregon and a former Idaho assistant under Monson. Monson's Vandal teams went 109-41 and won the Big Sky crown two straight years before he left for the Pacific-10 Conference school and was replaced by Trumbo.

Don Zech, head coach at the University of Puget Sound.

Belknap said the decision to fire Trumbo was not made quickly.

"I think it was mid-December that I finally realized that we may be in trouble," he said.

John Mugabi, left, rears back with the force of a punch from Marvin Hagler during their middleweight championship fight in Las Vegas Monday night

Hagler-Hearns rematch? Maybe no

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
The Associated Press

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — Marvelous Marvin Hagler set up a rematch with Thomas Hearns by taming John "The Beast" Mugabi Monday night, then indicated his career might be over.

"I've given it a lot of thought and this might be my last fight," Hagler said in the ring after knocking out Mugabi with a barrage of right hands at 1:59 of the 11th round of the scheduled 12-rounder.

The 31-year-old Hagler also said, "I don't think Tommy Hearns wants any more of me."

But Hearns certainly does want more of Hagler, who knocked him out in the third round of a spectacular fight here last April 15.

"I'd love it," Hearns said of a Hagler rematch after he knocked out previously unbeaten James Shuler with a thunderous right at 1:13 of the first round of a scheduled 12-rounder for the North American Boxing Federation middleweight title.

"In the past few weeks training for this fight was difficult because I had to take Hagler off my mind," said the WBC super

Cañizales hammers Sandoval into hospital

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Gaby Cañizales won the World Boxing Association bantamweight championship in the seventh round Monday night over previously unbeaten Richie Sandoval, who was carried from the ring on a stretcher.

Cañizales, knocked down Sandoval five times. Three of them came in the seventh round and after the final knockdown, referee Carlos Padilla didn't even bother to count.

Padilla dropped to his knees and removed Sandoval's mouthpiece as his handlers and ringside physicians rushed into the ring. The time was 2:47.

Sandoval was taken to Valley Hospital and, according to Dr. Flip Homansky, was "alert, stable and talking. He has a little swelling in the back of the head and some nausea."

Cañizales, 16½ of Laredo, Texas, knocked down the defending champion, 17½, Pomona, Calif., with a right hand with about two minutes remaining in the seventh round. Sandoval got up at five and was put down a second time by a left hook. Again, Sandoval struggled up and Cañizales ended the fight with a combination that dropped Sandaval on his back.

"I was really surprised he got up," Cañizales said of the first knockdown. "I hit him with everything I had. He's got a lot of guts. I'm concerned, I hope he's OK. He's a nice person and I respect him."

Cañizales said he thought Padilla made a mistake in letting the fight continue after the second knockdown.

"I think he should have stopped it earlier," he said. "I know I'm a hard hitter. The second time down, he should have stopped it. I know I really hurt him. I knew he was ready to go."

welterweight champion, who added, "now I am ready to go. I have something to prove."

Bob Arum expects a Hagler-Hearns rematch to take place in September and Hagler probably will go through with it.

Before the fight, Hagler had said, "I am a man on a mission."

That mission is to break Carlos Monzon's record of 14 successful middleweight title defenses.

Hagler's victory over Mugabi was his 12th title defense.

Mugabi, a power-puncher who had only gone into the 10th round once in 26 previous pro fights — all of which he won by knockouts — almost closed Hagler's right eye and went toe-to-toe with the champion several times.

"I had to wear him down and show him who the real champion is," Hagler said. "He's a real tough cookie."

Hagler hurt Mugabi with two rights to the head in the middle of the ring in the 11th round and Mugabi staggered back to the ropes as Hagler landed four more rights that put the challenger down in a sitting position. He was come out by referee Mills Lane.

Hagler's victory over the previously unbeaten Mugabi was less sensational and not nearly as quick as his win over Hearns. But it was a tough fight that kept a sellout crowd of 15,000 in an outdoor arena at Caesars Palace entertained. It had rained for most of the day but stopped shortly before Hagler and Mugabi entered the ring.

Mugabi landed some hard head shots but he could not get Hagler into trouble. Mugabi also missed many punches and by the end of the 10th round, he was very tired as Hagler shook him with a right-left and landed four straight jabs.

All three judges had Hagler ahead on the cards when the fight was stopped. Jerry Roth had Hagler ahead 97-94, Dave Marrett had the champion leading 95-95 and Dalby Shirley had him ahead 97-94.

Hagler was in control throughout the fight with a more accurate punching. He was particularly

Boyd Grant quits

At Fresno St.

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — Former College of Southern Idaho basketball Coach Boyd Grant, who led Fresno State to the 1983 National Invitation Tournament championship, resigned as the Bulldogs' coach Monday.

Grant resigned without another job but was not believed to be under pressure to leave a post in which he was responsible for turning a so-so basketball program into a perennial contender in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association and a regular participant in post-season play.

His Bulldog teams were 288-80 during his nine years and played in the NCAA tournament three times and the NIT twice, including the championship year.

"I felt this would be a good time to resign and leave the program," Grant said at a news conference. "Who knows where I'm going?"

Later, Grant, 52, added: "I don't know what I'm going to do with my life. I have no idea as I sit here before you."

Rumors had surfaced both last season and this that Grant was tiring of the strain of coaching and might quit. He admitted considering resignation after last season but said he stayed because of the need to rebuild.

"I feel we have a good base," Grant said. "If we recruit two or three good players, we could be back and very competitive in the PCAA."

Athletic Director Jack Longway, who is leaving Fresno State himself for Missouri, said he hopes a basketball coach can be signed before April 9, the national recruiting day.

This year's Bulldog team, which finished 15-15, was the only one that did not have a winning record during Grant's tenure.

The 1983 Bulldogs were the first NIT champions from the West Coast in 24 years.

Grant, a native of American Falls, compiled a 93-5 record in three years at CSI, leading the Eagles to their only National Junior College Athletic Association basketball championship in 1976. His 1974-75 team finished second at nationals, and all three of his squads won the West Coast title.

Grant came to CSI from the University of Kentucky, where he was an assistant to Adolph Rupp.

Grant's resignation came on a day of several other coaching changes in college basketball. He and Tom Apke of the University of Colorado headed a list of six coaches who either resigned or were fired Monday.

Apke was fired. John McDougal was relieved of his duties at Northern Illinois. Bill Trumbo was fired at Idaho and Grant, Paul Covington of Jackson State and Tommy Newman of North Texas State all resigned.

Apke, who was at Colorado for five years, was fired after the 17th straight loss.

Only last Wednesday, he told a reporter he didn't believe his career

BYU, Montana earn NIT bid; they'll host SWC contenders

By The Associated Press

The University of Montana Grizzlies will play the Texas Christian University Horned Frogs in Missoula, Mont., tonight in a first-round game in the National Invitation Tournament.

And Brigham Young University, which won NIT titles in 1951 and 1965, will play host to Southern Methodist in an opening-round game Thursday in Provo, Utah.

The Cougars, who finished fourth in the Western Athletic Conference, will face a team which finished fourth in the Southwest Conference.

BYU finished the season with a 16-13 record, while Southern Methodist finished at 18-10.

BYU's most recent appearance in the NIT series came in 1982, the year Washington took a 66-63 decision in Provo.

BYU and Southern Methodist never have faced on the basketball court, but both teams did lose to Pepperdine earlier this season.

It will be the second straight NIT appearance for the Grizzlies. Last season UM played at UCLA in the first round, losing to the eventual NIT champion Bruins. Another Big Sky Conference school, Northern Arizona, also earned a host role. NAU will host Louisiana Tech Thursday.

Grizzlies are 21-10 overall and tied for the regular-season Big Sky Conference title with a 9-5 record. Montana's 20 victories was their fourth straight 20-win season — a first in league history.

TCU Coach Jim Killingsworth, a former mentor at Idaho State and Oklahoma State, has guided his squad to a 21-8 record. The Horned Frogs were 12-1 in the Southwest Conference, tying Texas and Texas

A&M for the regular season league crown.

Montana is led by all-conference leader Jerry Skovick, who averages 22.0 points and 11.4 rebounds a game.

He was named to the Big Sky's postseason all-orientation team again this past weekend, and set journey career scoring and rebounding marks, with 165 points and 75 rebounds in eight games.

The Horned Frogs are led by 6-4 point guard Carl Lott, the SWC Newcomer of the Year, and a first team all-league pick. He averages 14.9 points a game. The two other players averaging in double figures are guard Carven Holcombe and sixth man Jamie Dixon, at 12.8 and 11.0 points, respectively. Lott was reported recruited by Louisiana's Bobby Knight.

TCU entered the SWC Tournament ranked first in the nation in field goal percentage defense, allowing 36.5 percent and was sixth in scoring defense at 57.2. All five starters are averaging 4.4 or more rebounds a game.

"TCU will be well-coached and disciplined and take good shots," said UM coach Mike Montgomery, who is 154-76 and in his eighth years at Montana. "I think they will run man defense and four-man passing game offense."

"This is a great reward for the kids," he said. "A reward for a job well done. The kids are looking forward to playing postseason basketball."

Montana lost the conference championship game, 87-77, to Montana State Saturday night. Texas Christian lost 71-64 to Texas Tech, the eventual SWC winner in its league's semifinals.

CSI, T.F. judo clubs win honors

CALDWELL — Mitchell-Martin of the Twin Falls Judo Club and Willy of the College of Southern Idaho Judo Club won first places in their divisions at a judo tournament here over the weekend.

Judo

Dobbs also won a grand championship competition between winners in the senior division, while the TFJC second intermediate team took the team championship at the tourney, held at Vallivue High School.

Martin won first place in the 9-10-year-old middleweight division, while Dobbs was the first-place winner in the black belt lightweight class. In the grand championship, which involved all first-, second- and third-place winners in the senior division, Dobbs finished with a 10-0 record.

The team of Matt Fuller, Wally Walcott, David Neal, Tadashi Tamura and Dobbs won the team championship with only five of the requisite six players.

Desma Gomez, Matt Fuller and David Neal of the TFJC and Tamura, who competes with the CSI club, all had second-place finishes.

Gomez was the runner-up in the junior girls' middleweight division. Fuller took second in the 12-13-year-old middleweight division. Neal was second in the brown belt heavyweight division and Tamura finished second in the black belt lightweight class.

Ferry Olsen of the TFJC finished second in the senior men's white belt heavyweight class, while Walcott took a third place in the brown belt heavyweight division.

The teams will next compete in a tournament in two weeks in Emmett.

Nampa man top winner of handicap

TWIN FALLS — Ken Durham of Nampa won the annual Ed Lancaster Memorial Handicap event at weekend shoot at the Twin Falls Gun Club.

Shooting

Durham had a score of 95 targets at 21 yards to win the event. Steve Bean of Piler won the B honors with a 95, but at 20 yards.

Other Lancaster Memorial winners were Tom Nelson of Hazelton, 23-27 division, 93 at 24 1/2 yards; Diana Hendrix of Twin Falls ladies' division, 90 at 18 yards; and Byron Williamson of Pocatello, juniors' class, 81 at 18 yards.

In Class A, Bernie Voyles of Twin Falls was the B division winner with 81, while Tom Williamson of Pocatello led Class A with 87. Hendrix took the D division honors with 261.

Matt March of Boise shot a perfect 100 to win the Class A honors in a singles shoot, while Stan Melton of Piler had 99 to take the B honors. Other winners in the singles shoot were Tom Williamson, Class C, 97; Earl May of Pocatello, D-97; Jean Hanson of Twin Falls, ladies', 85; and Byron Williamson, Juniors, 81.

In another handicap shoot, all winners went to Jeff Scott of Twin Falls with a score of 98 at 25 yards. In the 18-22 division, the winners were Tom Williamson, who shot 94 at 20 yards. Voyles had a 95 at 27 yards to take the 23-27 honors, while Hendrix had 88 at 18 yards to win the ladies' division. Byron Williamson was again the juniors' winner, with 80 at 18 yards.

Some 60 shooters participated in the event.

TFWCC meeting set for tonight

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Fish and Wildlife Conservation Corporation will meet tonight to hear a U.S. Forest Service presentation on plans for administration of public lands in the South Hills.

Outdoors

The changes are part of a proposed land swap under which the USFS and the Bureau of Land Management would exchange administration of certain public lands in southern Idaho.

The session is scheduled for 8 p.m. at the Twin Falls Orange Hall, which is located on South Blue Lakes Avenue.

Also on the agenda is a presentation by a new sportsman's group called Pheasants Forever. The public is invited to attend.

Holston Idaho's only 1st-team all-BSC pick

BOISE (AP) — Larry Kryskowiak, Montana's 6-foot-9 senior forward who is only 29 points away from becoming the Big Sky Conference's all-time leading scorer, on Monday was named to the league's all-conference team for the third straight year.

College basketball

Kryskowiak thus becomes the eighth player ever to earn first-team all-conference honors for three straight years.
He was joined by Dwayne Randall of Nevada-Reno, the league's leading scorer, as the only unanimous selections on this year's all-star team.

DONN HOLSTON
High-scoring ISU junior

Other players named first-team all-conference in a vote of league coaches were Donn Holston, Idaho State junior forward and Northern Arizona's Andre Spencer and Andy Hurd.
Kryskowiak, who helped guide Montana to a 21-0 record and a berth in the National Invitational Tournament—leads the Big-Sky in rebounding at 11.4 per game. He's second in scoring to Hurd at 22 points per game.

Randall, who has led the league in scoring the entire season, finished the 1987-88 season at 22 points per game and was second in rebounding with a 10.5 average. He was also among the Big Sky leaders in free throw percentage; three-point field goals and minutes played.

Spencer, a 6-6 senior from Los Angeles, helped guide the Lumberjacks to their first Big Sky regular season first place finish and a berth in this week's NIT Tournament. He was among the league leaders in scoring, averaging 18.7 points per game.

Holston, a 6-4 junior from Pocatello, was a major reason for the Bengals' unexpected team turnaround. He posted a 15.2 overall record and 8.6 league state in the Big Sky. He averaged 18.7 points a game.

Hurd, a 6-5 senior swingman from Tempe, ranked in seven of the Big Sky's statistical departments. He averaged 16.8 per game; leads the Big Sky in free throw percentage at 48.1 and was 10th in assists with 3.1 per game.

The second team consisted of Weber State senior guard Alan Campbell; Montana State senior guard Tony Hampton, the recent MVP of the 1986 Big Sky Conference tournament; Montana State junior forward Kral Ferch; Idaho sophomore guard Ken Luckett; and the tie for the final spot had Idaho State senior guard Mike Graefe and Weber State junior forward Walt Tyler.

BRUISE (AP) — The Big Sky Conference's all-league basketball team, as announced by the league here on Monday:

First Team
Larry Kryskowiak, Montana, senior forward, 6'9, 225, Missoula, Mont.
Andre Spencer, Nevada-Reno, senior forward, 6'6, 200, Gary, Ind.

Gooding, KHS boys, Bulldog gals lead Canyon Conference all-stars

HAZELTON — Three members of the state Class A-3 champion Gooding boys' basketball team and three members of the state A-3 runner-up Kimberly girls' squad have been named to the Canyon Conference all-star teams.
Gooding's Todd Simis, a 6-foot-2 senior guard; Brian Darcy, a 6-9 senior forward; and Swen Swenson, a 6-9 senior center made the first-team all-conference boys' unit. Audra Urie, a 5-11 junior forward; Cindy Holcomb, a 5-6 junior forward; and Patti Petticere, a 6-0 senior center.
Kimberly's boys' basketball team, which finished third at state, also placed three players on the first Canyon Conference unit. They are Kurt Holcomb, a 6-4 senior center; Brett Wright, a 5-11 senior guard; and Mike Stark, a 6-0 senior forward.
Filer's boys' and Glenns Ferry's, Filer's and Gooding's girls' teams each placed two players on the all-league squads.
Sol Britto, a 5-11 senior guard;

Prep basketball and Dean Price, a 6-1 senior forward, were selected from the Filer boys' team. Filer's girls' selections were Terrie Standice, a 5-6 junior guard; and Sandra Garey, a 5-8 senior forward. Representing the Glenns Ferry were Barbara Johaneck, a 5-8 junior forward; and Kelli King, a 5-3 junior guard. Gooding's all-league selections were Lisa Garey, a 5-6 senior forward; and Joyce Jacobson, a 5-8 junior center.

Other first-team girls' selections were Rob Isenhart of Glenns Ferry, a 5-11 senior guard; and Brad Mathews of Declo, a 5-11 senior guard.
Other first-team girls' selections were Lori Reed of Valley, a 5-2 sophomore guard; and Janine Bortz of Declo, a 5-8 senior forward.
Kimberly's Allen Kelsey was selected boys' coach of the year.

while Ken Fast of Glenns Ferry, who led the Pilots to a third-place finish in the state tournament, and Mike Remond of Kimberly were selected as co-coaches of the year for the girls' teams.
The all-conference selections were made by the league's coaches.

Bird puts down 50 points, but Celtics still lose by point to Mavericks DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Mavericks finally shed their Boston Celtics jinx on a night Larry Bird scored 50 points.

"We survived one of Bird's clinics, you have to feel fortunate," said Dallas coach Dick Motta after the Mavericks came from 13 points down with less than five minutes left to defeat the Celtics 116-115 Monday night.
It was Dallas' first NBA victory over the Celtics in 12 tries since the Mavericks joined the league in 1980.
Bird scored 50 points, but it wasn't enough.
"No big deal," said Bird. "I should have had 54. If you play a team enough, losing is finally going to happen. The shots were there for me and I just took them."
Bird added, "We gave them too

Pro basketball

many free throws and easy baskets down the stretch."
Motta said, "There was every indication this was going to be a bad night. But we showed some professional pride out there."
He added, "I knew we would beat them sooner or later whether it was me here or Rip Van Winkle."
Rolando Blackman's, two free throws with eight seconds left tied the game for Dallas.
Bird scored 17 points in the third quarter and the Celtics built a 104-91 advantage.
Brad Davis put Dallas ahead 111-110 with 43 seconds to play with a pair of free throws. Then Dale Ellis hit a three-point shot with 16 seconds to go, making it 114-110.

However, the clutch-shooting Bird connected on a three-point shot for the Mavericks, who had 32 points for the Mavs, was fouled and made two free throws. After a timeout, Bird hit a layup with four seconds left, but Dallas avoided a foul and the clock ran out on the Celtics.
Dallas played the game without high-scoring Mark Aguirre, but Davis scored 18 points and Sam Perkins added 24 to pick up the scoring slack.
Dennis Johnson scored 19 points for the Celtics, who lost their second game in a row.

The fight also was marked by several toe-to-toe exchanges where Hagler's better marksmanship usually gave him the edge.
It was a war of attrition and at the end, Hagler said, "I was in better condition than when I fought Hearns," who weighed 159 1/2 pounds, won for the 62nd time against two losses and two draws. His 52nd knockout came 10 years and one day to the date of his last loss.

Hagler said on closed-circuit TV after the fight: "I've given it a lot of thought and this might be my last fight."
At the end of the fight, Hagler took the microphone from the public address announcer and said, "I want to thank each and every one of you for coming out on this cold night. I hope I didn't disappoint you."

The fans cheered.
Hagler, who has not lost in 36 fights, earned a purse of $2.5 million plus a percentage of other revenues from the fight, which was shown at 500 closed circuit locations throughout the United States and Canada and was available to 3 1/2 million homes on pay-per-view television.

Witherspoon must give Tubbs early rematch

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Tim Witherspoon, who tested positive for marijuana, after a 9-8 loss to Tubbs for the World Boxing Association heavyweight title, must give Tubbs a rematch within 90 days, WBA counsel James Binns said Monday.
Witherspoon was fined $25,000, but the WBA did not withdraw title recognition from him, Binns said.
The attorney said the winner of the rematch must then defend the title against top-ranked Frank Bruno of Britain within 90 days of the rematch.

Boxing

Witherspoon won the title on a 15-round decision over Tubbs last Jan. 17 at Atlanta.

The Georgia Boxing Commission has fined Witherspoon $500 and placed him on a year's probation.
Witherspoon appeared at a hearing in Philadelphia last Friday, during which he pleaded to keep his title, saying "I'm not a criminal."
"All my life I tried to make good and everybody makes a mistake," he said.
Witherspoon was suspended for a year by the Georgia State Boxing Commission after a urine test showed the traces of marijuana in his system. But the Georgia commission now has changed the penalty.
Binns said after the hearing that he would come here to report the testimony to WBA President Gilberto Mendoza, Alberto Aleman, chairman of the WBA's championship committee, and Dr. Keith Arthur, chief physician for the WBA.
Witherspoon, 26, acknowledged last week that he had smoked marijuana at a party in November. Medical authorities said, however, it was not likely that the test would show positive two months after the cigarette was smoked.

Witherspoon said he never knew that WBA rules and regulations forbade use of the drug.
Binns asked Witherspoon if he took the drug to gain an advantage over Tubbs.
"No," the boxer replied. "That can't help you. It only can hurt. Any baby knows that."

Grant

at Colorado was in jeopardy, but Apke met Monday with Colorado Athletic Director Bill Marshall, who later announced the coach's dismissal. Apke will be paid $50,000 for the remaining two years on his contract, Marshall said.
His last team finished the season 29-9 — only the second 20-loss season in school history — and did not win a game in the Big Eight. Apke's overall record at Colorado was 59-81, while his teams' Big Eight records were 18-58. Apke had previously compiled a 139-64 record in seven seasons as head coach at Creighton.
Covington, who had been head coach at the Jackson, Miss., school for 10 years, said, "It wasn't something that came overnight. I started thinking about this 10 months ago. I talked with my wife back then and she said it was enough and that I'd been up and down the highways too long."
His last team was fourth in the SWAC at 9-5 and 14-5 overall. The Tigers were knocked out of the conference tournament in the semifinals by Prairie View A&M, 84-70.

Grant

Covington's teams were 438-197 overall, with six conference titles.
Newman, who spent three years at North Texas State, cited "the best interests for me and my family" as his reason for quitting. The 41-year-old coach had an overall record of 24-60, with a 10-10 record this season.
Newman was previously the head coach at Texas Wesleyan.
McDougal, 61, head coach at Northern Illinois for the last 10 years, was offered reassignment within the athletic department, said school spokesman Robert J. Brigham.
"McDougal had an overall record of 136-141 at the DeKalb, Ill., school. His team this year was 15-12 before being upset in the Mid-American Conference postseason tournament by Toledo.
"Naturally, I'm disappointed," he said of the school's decision. "The university administration made a major commitment to go in a new direction that requires new leadership."
McDougal had a high school coaching record of 480-263 at several schools in the state before coming to Northern Illinois.

Carlton hurls comeback victory over Twins

By The Associated Press

Philadelphia left-hander, Steve Carlton, trying to come back from a strained rotator cuff injury last season, was the starter and winner Monday as the Phillies nipped the Minnesota Twins 2-1 in an exhibition baseball game.

It was the first time the 41-year-old Carlton has been on the mound in a game since last September. Carlton gave up four singles, walked two and struck out two while giving up one run in three innings of work. He threw 34 pitches.

"I thought he did well," said Manager John Fisher. "He threw some good breaking pitches and worked on his screwball. I'm not worried about velocity now. I'm just concerned about his being able to stay on top with his arm. He did that all day long."

Carlton, the only four-time Cy Young Award winner, was on the disabled list last year for the first time in his 20-year career because of the strained rotator cuff. He pitched Sept. 14, a loss that gave him a 1-8 record.

Reds 4, Cardinals 1

Tracy Johnson had three hits and drove in a run in a two-run fourth inning of Cardinals reliever Rick Horton, putting the Reds ahead to stay. The other run in the inning was scored on an error by Cards third baseman Terry Pendleton.

Cincinnati pitchers Bill Gullickson, Scott Terry, Bob Buchanan and Rob Murphy combined to limit the Cardinals to three hits and an unearned run, which scored on a single by catcher Tom Paganuzzi in the seventh. The Reds added two runs against Todd Worrell in the ninth on an RBI single by Terry Lee and a squeeze bunt by Tom Runnels.

John Tudor made his spring debut for St. Louis, allowing no runs and one hit in three innings.

Astros 6, Tigers 2

Denny Walling had a double and a single and drove in three runs to pace Houston, which scored five of its runs off Detroit starter Jack Morris. Left-hander Jim DeShazo allowed just one hit over the first three innings for Houston, striking out four.

Detroit scored both its runs in the fifth off rookie Rob Mallicoate. Scott Earl led off with a homer and Lance Parrish added an RBI single.

Former Tigers reliever Aurelio Lopez worked the seventh and eighth innings against Detroit, allowing one single and striking out one.

Red Sox 7, Dodgers 6
 Dwight Evans drove in three runs with two hits to lead a 16-hit Boston attack. Ed Romero, Bill Buckner, Tony Armas, Dave Stapleton and Marc Sullivan also had two hits each, for the Red Sox.

Los Angeles right-hander Orel Hershiser gave up seven hits and two runs in his three innings of work and the Red Sox scored three times, including two unearned runs, in two innings against left-hander Jerry Reuss.

Outfielder Mike Marshall had three hits and drove in three runs to lead Los Angeles, while Bill Madlock and Mariano Duncan had a pair of hits each.

Chicago Cubs 9, Cleveland 5
 Steve Trout and Warren Brusstar each pitched three scoreless innings and Shawn Dunston had a pair of doubles and a single to lead the Cubs. Trout gave up just one single and Brusstar allowed three.

ing in a run. Dunston scored one run and drove in another, as did Gary Matthews, who singled twice.

Cleveland had 14 hits but committed five errors.

Mariners 1, Padres 0
 Gorman Thomas drove home Spike Owen from third base in the fifth inning for the only run of the rain-out, one, while Mirabella pitched the shortened game, which was last three, striking out one and walked with two outs in the bottom of the sixth. Owen and Jack Perconte each had three hits for the Mariners.

Left-handers Mark Langston and Paul Mirabella combined to limit San Diego to one hit — a single by Carmelo Martinez in the fourth inning. Langston pitched the first three innings, walking three and striking one, while Mirabella pitched the shortened game, which was last three, striking out one and walked with two outs in the bottom of

Rozelle threatens mandatory NFL drug testing

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (AP)

Acknowledging that all 28 teams are touched in some way by drugs, NFL Commissioner Peter Rozelle said Monday that if the league and the union doesn't agree to his random drug testing program by the opening of training camps in July, he will unilaterally impose his own.

At a news conference following the opening session of the league's annual winter owners' meeting, Rozelle said he was continuing negotiations with Gene Upshaw, the executive director of the NFL Players Association, and hopes to be able to come to some agreement "in four to six weeks."

But in his strongest statement to date on the subject, Rozelle said that if no agreement were reached, he would unilaterally implement his own program despite the contention by the union that the random testing he wants is a violation of players' freedom.

"When you're paid an inordinate amount of money for six months work, there has to be some payback besides a great performance on the field," said Rozelle, who appealed to the players to accept his drug program. He maintained the long-term effect of a continued drug problem could be economic in the form of reduced attendance and advertising revenue for television.

But Dick Berthelsen, the union's legal counsel, said by telephone from Washington that any effort to unilaterally impose a drug plan would violate the union contract.

"We already have a drug policy and it can't change its terms by unilateral action," said Berthelsen, who pointed out that 78 percent of the players who responded to a union survey opposed random drug testing.

The contract, which expires after next season, allows testing at the opening of training camp and for "reasonable cause" during the season. Some teams maintain players can't be tested in past-season playoffs, testing that players on some teams — notably the St. Louis Cardinals — declined to take this season.

Berthelsen noted that the union had already added the "reasonable cause" clause to the agreement. He said he had informed Upshaw that "Rozelle doesn't have the legal right to impose such tests."

But the commissioner said he would go ahead with the plan whether or not the union agrees. "It's important enough whether I had legal assurance or otherwise I would sure take the shot."

Rozelle's statement came during a period when sports seems preoccupied with drugs.

Following the Super Bowl, New England Patriots Coach Raymond Berry disclosed that members of his team that last 46-10 to the Chicago Bears had used drugs in the past. Later, the names of six of those players — five of them starters — were disclosed.

Another player, All-Pro linebacker Lawrence Taylor of the New York Giants, was reported last month to be undergoing drug rehabilitation.

Former Bears Coach Mike Ditka conceded that an unnamed member of his team currently has a drug problem. It came in the form of one-word answers to two questions.

Two weeks ago, baseball commissioner Peter Ueberroth announced a series of penalties for players who had been publicly identified in the past as drug users.

And on Monday, Bears Coach Mike Ditka conceded that an unnamed member of his team currently has a drug problem. It came in the form of one-word answers to two questions.

Time to make a big noise

Into the life of every company comes the need to make some noise. About a new product, a line extension or a corporate position. In newspapers you can command attention in a news environment with large space—a page, a double truck, a special section. Newspaper flexibility and short lead time lets you get into the paper before the news value of your message sputters out. Remember us when you want to sound off.
