President considers striking Libya

By MICHAEL PUTZEL The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Reagan was said Monday to be studying the possibility of a military strike against Libya as the United States compiled evidence that the renegade Arab republic was involved in the fatal bombing of a West Berlin disco.

Likely bomb fragment found in victim

By KERIN HOPE The Associated Press

ATHENS, Greece — Fragments of what appears to be a bomb detonator were found in the body of the American man killed during last week's explosion aboard a TWA airliner flying over Greece.

Osipina was immediately killed in the blast. He said the others — two American women and a baby — died when they hit the ground after falling 15,000 feet.

Officials say the bomb was apparently placed under the seat of Demetra Syllian, 52; her daughter Maria Klug, 25, and Mrs. Klug's 8-month-old daughter Demetra, all from Annapolis, Md., also were blown through the jagged hole the bomb tore in the plane's side.

On his return from a California vacation Sunday, Reagan refused comment when reporters asked him whether he planned to strike at the Libyan leader. He ignored questions Monday as he left the White House to watch the start of the Baltimore Orioles' season-opening baseball game against the Cleveland Indians.

Monday. Attorney General Edwin Meese called off a trip to California in order to remain in Washington for a series of meetings on terrorism, said department spokesman Patrick

Korten. Meese's travel schedule for the rest of the week will be curtailed for more such meetings, Korten said.

Play ball! Reagan views opening day from dugout

By WILLIAM M. WELCH The Associated Press

BALTIMORE — President Reagan flew here Monday to watch two innings of the Orioles' opening-day baseball game with the Cleveland Indians, sitting in the dugout with the players and munching on hot dogs.

Brian Gray, 11, a patient at the Johns Hopkins Children's Center, throws out the first baseball of the season at Baltimore as President Reagan and other dignitaries look on.

Opening results — C1

Taking advantage of a clear crisp day that was perfect for baseball, Reagan flew by helicopter from the White House to Memorial Stadium and returned after spending a little more than an hour at the ball park.

Reagan walked onto the field from the Orioles' dugout and watched as 12-year-old Brian Gray of Baltimore, who suffers from cystic fibrosis, threw out the first ball of the season — a pitch that went right into the mitt of Orioles starting catcher Rick Dempsey.

Reagan put a baseball glove on his left hand and, after talking to the youngster, stepped back and prepared to make his throw. But he first issued a warning to the crowding reporters and photographers: "Better get out of the way with those cameras; we'll throw a ... we'll break a camera," he said.

Reagan's pitch sailed onto a foot over Dempsey's outstretched mitt, prompting the president to say, "Oh."

His next effort was right on the mark. "A good, hard, fast ball, sailing high," the catcher said of the pitch.

"Have a ball," Reagan said as he gave Brian a baseball, which he autographed after they returned to the dugout.

"It was really great," Brian said.

Reagan waved to the filled stadium as the crowd chanted, "Ronnie, Ronnie."

Baseball commissioner Peter Ueberroth and Orioles' owner Edward Bennett Williams sat on either side of the president in the dugout as they watched the game.

Reagan, who once announced baseball games as a young sportscaster, ate a hot dog and talked to Ueberroth, mooling as if he were swinging a bat.

When a reporter fretted a foul ball might come his way, Reagan said, "I'll catch it."

Manager Earl Weaver sat down the bench a bit, and coach Frank Robinson stood to Reagan's left.

Third-base umpire Ken Kauter came over and shook hands with Reagan midway through the first inning.

"This was something the president wanted to do today, to join many other Americans in celebrating opening day of the great American pastime," said White House spokesman Peter Russo.

Reagan didn't go over to the visitors' dugout and left after two innings.

Reagan's trip to Baltimore wasn't announced until the last minute ... by security-conscious White House officials.

Nicaragua's refusals force end to talks

By REID G. MILLER The Associated Press

PANAMA CITY, Panama — Peace talks by 19 Latin American foreign ministers collapsed Monday, and Nicaragua's Central American neighbors blamed the leftist Sandinista government for rejecting all proposed agreements.

The ministers of El Salvador, Costa Rica and Honduras said the Contadora talks broke up over Nicaragua's refusal to accept a June 6 deadline for signing a peace treaty.

"Nicaragua rejected everything, everything that was presented to it," said Vice President Rodolfo Castillo Claramount of El Salvador. "There is nothing left to talk about."

Castillo, who is also his country's foreign minister, left the meeting with his delegation at mid-afternoon along with the foreign ministers of Costa Rica and Honduras. The delegation had departed earlier.

Miguel d'Escoto, Nicaragua's foreign minister, said he refused to sign the so-called "Panama Compromise" because it varied from a document signed by ministers of the Contadora and support group nations at Caraballeda, Venezuela, last Jan. 12.

That document, which was later ratified by all five Central American nations at a meeting in Guatemala City, had more strongly opposed U.S. aid to the Contra rebels.

"The document of Caraballeda is the central document," d'Escoto said. "Everyone has upheld that document. That document says it is absolutely indispensable for the resumption of negotiations that the U.S. must stop providing assistance for the irregular forces in the region."

The four Contadora nations — Mexico, Panama, Venezuela and Colombia — and the four-nation support group from South America then issued a statement urging the five Central American countries to resume negotiations immediately and return to Panama City on June 6 to conclude the talks and sign a treaty.

"We are extending these invitations hoping to receive their responses within eight days," the statement said.

Earlier Monday, Rep. Bill Richardson of New Mexico, one of three Democratic congressmen who attended the meetings as observers, said two Cubans were advising the Nicaraguan delegation to adopt an unbending attitude. But the Panamanian Foreign Ministry, hosting the conference, said that was not true.

Richardson said several Central Americans, whom he did not identify, told him the two Cuban advisers were directing Nicaragua's negotiating strategy, "providing technical and political advice."

Richardson said there are two Cuban gentlemen here who are doing more than drinking Coca Cola, and I am quite upset that the Sandinistas have confirmed once again that they are not acting on their own. They are acting on the advice of another satellite that is creating instability in the hemisphere," Richardson said.

Richardson predicted that if the conference failed, it would cause disarray among the House members opposed to President Reagan's plan to give $100 million to Contra rebels.

A breakdown in the negotiations here will have a very adverse impact on the House vote. Realistically, if this breaks down, the vote on Contra aid is lost," Richardson told reporters shortly before he and two Democratic colleagues returned to Washington.

Richardson, Reps. Michael Barnes of Maryland and Jim Slattery of Kansas, arrived Saturday to observe

Wife pleads for gun control

Sarah Brady recalls husband's shooting as House vote nears

By LARRY MARGASAK The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Sarah Brady, J. Hughes, D-N.J., and endorsed by wife of crippled presidential press secretary James Brady, said Monday that the House should pass a stiff gun control bill "before it's too late for another family like mine."

Mrs. Brady said John W. Hinckley Jr. plunked down $29 in a pawnshop to buy the gun he used to shoot her husband and President Reagan and allied groups support legislation that "thousands of convicted felons," sponsored by Rep. Harold L. Dwyer, D-Mo., that would allow individuals to obtain weapons with interstate sales and transportation of handguns.

Mrs. Brady, on the board of Handgun Control Inc. is backing a measure sponsored by Rep. William Dwyer, D-N.J., and endorsed by police and handgun control organization secretary James Brady, said Monday. It would permit interstate sales and transportation of rifles and shotguns — activities banned under current law — but maintain the prohibition on interstate sales and transportation of handguns.

The National Rifle Association and other gun owners and dealers — considered burdensome by the gun lobby — would be eliminated or eased under the Volkmer measure. Wayne LaPierre, chief National Rifle Association lobbyist, said Mrs. Brady "has the right to speak out," but is backing the wrong bill.

He said the Volkmer measure's stiff mandatory prison terms for those using guns in violent federal felonies has the best chance of stopping criminals. "It makes it more likely the federal government will prosecute felony and possession cases by taking them (law enforcement officers) away from regulatory offenses they're preoccupied with," LaPierre said of Volkmer's bill. "It will target violent criminals while clearing up problems law-abiding folks had."

Mrs. Brady, in her news conference, called on the emotion of the

Bush, Saudis find no solution on stabilizing volatile oil prices

By TERENCE HUNT The Associated Press

MANAMA, Bahrain — Vice President George Bush said Monday the United States and Saudi Arabia found no "common solution" on stabilizing the volatile oil market during three days of talks.

He also said the two countries disagree about what oil price level is desirable. From the Saudi standpoint, "the stronger the price for international oil the better."

However, he said it is not the role of the United States "to dictate to countries around the world what the price oil should be."

The vice president later flew to Bahrain on the second leg of a Middle-East visit that includes Oman and North Yemen. He was greeted by Sheikh Isa bin Salman al-Khalifa, the ruler of this cluster of islands in the Persian Gulf.

Bush discussed security and economic issues into the early morning Monday with Saudi King Fahd at his summer palace in Dhahran.

The vice president then ended his visit to the gulf city with a trip to a Saudi air force base to watch exercises involving U.S.-made F-15 and F-5 fighter bombers and a Boeing 747 transport plane.

Dhahran is a front line of air defense against possible attack by Iran, which has been fighting Iraq for 5 1/2 years on the other side of the Persian Gulf.

Oil is a major topic of Bush's trip. Last week, he said national security interests would be threatened by low prices that weakened U.S. producers and energy financiers.

Since November, prices have plummeted 60 percent to an average of about $12 a barrel, as a flood of oil, much of it from Saudi Arabia, has inundated the market.

Symms launches bid for 2nd term in Senate

BOISE (AP) — Republican Sen. Steve Symms kicked off his bid for a second Senate term Monday, filing nominating petitions with more than 10,000 signatures and promising an aggressive campaign against Democrat Gov. John Evans.

"I'm really looking forward to an aggressive campaign," said Symms, as he paid his $250 filing fee at the secretary of state's office here.

"It will be even more fun than the last one because voters have a clear-cut choice," he said. Symms, 47, defeated Democrat Frank Church in 1980 in a $3.5 million campaign that was the most expensive ever waged in the state.

Symms benefited from strong Idaho support for Ronald Reagan in 1980. And he said although the president will not be on the ballot this year, the president's policies will be a key issue.

"His presence is very much a part of the Republican-controlled Senate," said Symms. "I don't think people want to see the president hamstringed by not having the right one part of Congress controlled by his own party."

Symms said he felt farm problems, economic issues and interest rates would be issues.

He termed Evans, who is winding up 10 years as Idaho governor, as a free-spending liberal who would vote with Democrats in Congress who block budget-cutting efforts.

SEN. STEVE SYMMS
'Aggressive campaign' ahead

Symms blamed Senate Democrats for defeating a proposal last week to require balanced budgets.

He acknowledged that under a Republican president, the federal deficit has soared, but blamed it on policies of the last Democratic administration.

Evans filed last week, as did two other congressional incumbents, Democrat Rep. Richard Stallings and Republican Rep. Larry Craig.

Evans vetoes Legislature's exemption

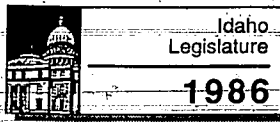

BOISE (AP) — Gov. John Evans says it makes no sense to set up cumbersome laws making government agencies determine the economic impact of new rules and regulations and exempt the Legislature from them.

"The potential economic impact of laws considered by the Legislature is far in excess of the potential economic impact of rules and regulations considered by executive branch agencies," the governor said.

In somewhat of a surprise, the governor's office announced Monday that late Friday afternoon, Evans vetoed four more bills approved by the Legislature and let a fifth become law without his signature.

Evans held a news conference Friday afternoon to discuss vetoes. Aides said at the time that the governor had completed action on all legislation passed by the 1986 Legislature.

But Jean Terra, Evans' press secretary, said Monday Evans vetoed four bills after 5 p.m. Friday and decided to let a fifth become law without his approval. She said she was not notified of the actions Friday afternoon.

Evans criticized, but let go into effect, a bill appropriating $314,000 to run the state treasurer's office. The governor said the budget simply was not enough to do the job.

Treasurer Marjorie Ruth Moon, who is running for lieutenant governor, issued a statement later also criticizing the appropriation. She noted that the Legislature cut out $40,000 for an investment officer and the action could cost the state up to $2 million in the next year in lost interest earnings on state investments.

Vetoed by Evans were bills to set up a central filing system for liens on agricultural crops. Legislators agreed during the session that the vetoed bill had technical flaws in it, and they passed replacement legislation.

Exempt money paid to part-time boards and commissions from coverage under Social Security. The governor said there were indications the proposed new law could violate federal laws, and there was no need to get into lawsuits and battles over the proposal.

Require governmental agencies to see if private companies could perform services now done by government.

Require governmental agencies to prepare a report on the potential economic impact on any new rules or regulations.

Evans had sharpest criticism for that bill, saying it was unnecessary, could be expensive and time-consuming and it was wrong for the Legislature to impose such restrictions on all other government agencies and exempt itself.

Current laws already allow the Legislature to ask for an economic impact statement on new rules and regulations, the governor said, but the Legislature has expressed little interest in the past in asking for them.

Idaho Power gives up license for Payette plant

BOISE (AP) — The continuing power surplus in the Northwest has prompted Idaho Power Co. to surrender its federal license for construction of a major hydroelectric project on the North Fork of the Payette River between Banks and Smiths Ferry.

"The decision to relinquish this license was a tough one because of all the time and effort our people put in to obtaining it," utility president Bob O'Connor said in a statement.

"But it's apparent our customers won't need this type of seasonal energy for a number of years and there's no sense saddling them with the expense even though we have authorization... to build it."

The project, involving two dams built along a 15-mile reach of the scenic river, had received approval from both the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission and the Idaho Public Utilities Commission nearly four years ago. At 273 megawatts of generation relying on releases from Cascade Reservoir, it would have been the second largest power facility operated by the utility.

The proposal, which began at an estimated cost of $218 million and had risen to nearly $400 million by mid-1980, was contested by sportsmen because of fear that the diversion of river water for power generation would damage the North Fork's fishery and its highly rated whitewater kayaking.

At the time the project was proposed, analysts were forecasting that demand for electricity from Idaho Power would outstrip its generating capacity by the mid-1980s. But since then, demand has slumped due to the flagging state economy while the utility has completed work on a Nevada coal-fired generating plant so that what was once feared to be a tight power supply has become a surplus.

Lines open for Dallas leads

BOISE (AP) — The Ada County Sheriff's Office has established toll-free telephone lines to receive information on the whereabouts of escaped killer Claude Dallas.

The number for those calling from Idaho is 1-800-247-6007. Those calling from outside of Idaho should call 1-909-449-514.

Meanwhile, authorities in Idaho and Humboldt County, Nev., continued to check out leads, but came no closer to determining where Dallas might be.

Dallas, 36, escaped March 30 from the Idaho State Penitentiary south of Boise. He was serving a 30-year prison sentence for the shootings of two Idaho Fish and Game officers, William Fogue and Conley Elms.

Pocatello ponders prison bid

POCATELLO (AP) — Mayor Dick Finlayson is unsure if the City of Pocatello will throw its support behind Blackfoot's bid to become the site of a new maximum-security prison.

Initially, Pocatello had planned to bid for the site and was seeking Blackfoot's endorsement. But last week, the Blackfoot City Council voted unanimously to seek the planned $9 million facility itself.

Al Murphy, director of Idaho's Department of Corrections, and Jim Evans, head of the state's work release program, are scheduled to meet with local officials in Pocatello on Thursday.

Lottery petitions to circulate

BOISE (AP) — Two Republican state legislators say they're ready to start circulating petitions to put the lottery question before voters next November.

Senate President Pro Tem James Risch, R-Boise, and Rep. Walter Little, R-New Plymouth, said Monday they will start circulating initiative petitions in the next day or two.

The goal will be to gather just less than 33,000 signatures of registered voters who favor putting the lottery question on the ballot.

But Risch and Little stressed that they're not backing a lottery as such; they want people to have a chance to vote whether Idaho should have a state lottery.

Boisean draws year in prison

BOISE (AP) — A Boise man has been ordered to serve one year in prison on a federal charge of impersonating a forest ranger.

Joseph Coronato, 21, was sentenced by U.S. District Judge Marion Callister on a year-old charge.

Coronato was charged with impersonating a forest ranger and taking part in the investigation of the burning of a camp trailer in the Boise National Forest.

Highway 21 to reopen today

BOISE (AP) — Idaho 21 between Lowman and Stanley will reopen this morning, the Idaho Transportation Department said.

The road, which is usually closed in the winter, had been scheduled to reopen Saturday. But a snowslide that carried rocks and debris delayed opening, officials said.

Challenges ahead for American farms

Technological progress is often touted as the future's answer to the past's inefficiencies, but in the area of agricultural change, a new report from the Congressional Office of Technology suggests that the process is not always positive. The negative impact is in the economics of technology. The Congressional report cites the effect, particularly, on small farm units, which it concludes, "are not viable entities in the mainstream of commercial agriculture, nor can they be made so." Medium sized and large agricultural units, the report concludes, will be able to afford the capital investment in technology like "super cows" and "super grains." Such genetic engineering changes will transform American agriculture, partly because they may well raise costs and thus lop off the marginal operations.

Perhaps one million of the 2.2 million small and medium sized farms in America may disappear by the year 2000, when perhaps 75 percent of the nation's food supply would be produced by 50,000 large farm units.

Some of this kind of change is probably inevitable, unless we are to adopt some sort of socialist political and economic system.

But do these changes in technology mean that we should not go forward into the Brave New World of superior dairy cow embryos and genetically spiced corn?

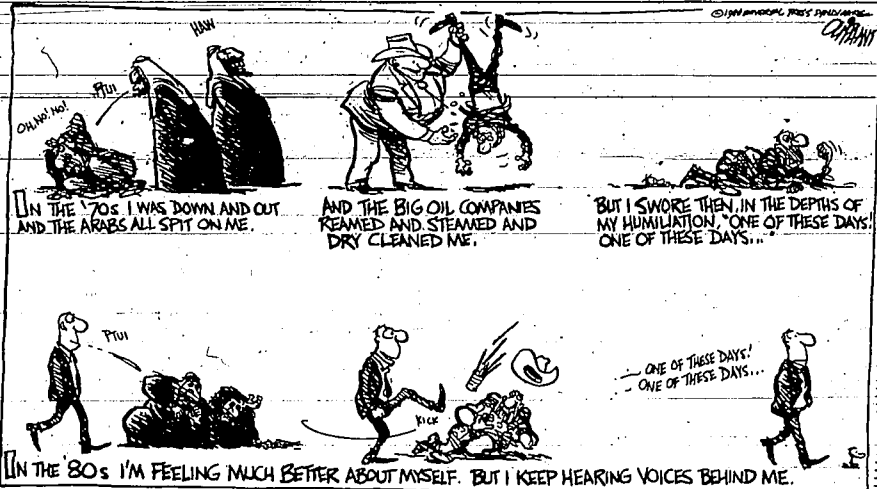

The history of mankind shows that, as technology comes, it is generally rapidly adopted and a new economic order is established with the improved technology as its base. That is one of the forces which drives the free enterprise marketplace.

Yes, some individual economic units are washed away in the change. Slide rule companies had to change when the $5 calculator made their product a relic.

Agricultural high technology could do the same to the small farming unit.

The real challenge in dealing with the future is not in holding on to the ways of the past, but in looking for opportunity in the new order of things.

That principle affects agriculture today as much as any other business. We can cloud it with nostalgia if we want, but doing so will not change the principle.

Stress generation is seeking help now

BOSTON — Sometimes I think that American women have been the subject of more research than the entire species of white rats.

If every grant, every publisher's advance, every fellowship devoted to the problems of American women had been used to build day-care centers, they would stretch from coast to coast.

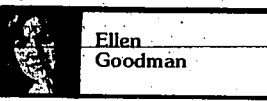

This spring there is yet another bumper crop of cover stories, articles and books about women trying to stretch their energy over children and jobs and coming up short. These pieces are the predictable offspring. If you will excuse the expression, of the baby-boom generation of mothers. In the words a friend used at her 40th birthday, they are "suffering from too much of a good thing."

The most heralded, or huckstered, of these tracts is "The Lesser Life" by Sylvia Ann Hewlett, who is currently making the circuit from Time Magazine to Donahue. Her premise is that, "Unless women get some relief from their domestic responsibilities, they will continue to fare badly in the labor force."

This is not, despite the cover blurb by Liv Ullmann, "shocking and eye-opening." One generation exchanged depression for stress. Now the stress generation is looking for help.

Hewlett has been there, but her book wobbles intellectually: a ping of truth here, a disappointing thud there. At best she rehashes much that has already been said about the basic economic plight of women. Divorce, an unbending workplace, inadequate day care, wild insensitivity to pregnancy...round up the usual suspects.

The hook is that after recycling much of the feminist analysis and most of the its agenda, she turns around and names feminism as a chief culprit. Up go the television lights, out come the pearls.

Many of the recent books and articles include this sort of ritual which at the women's movement either for "creating" the Superwoman myth or for "forcing" women to turn in the baby carriage for the briefcase. Hewlett charges that the feminist emphasis on equal rights with men caused them to neglect or deny the very family supports needed by women.

The argument about the best route to change—through equal or special treatment—has been around for a century and is its mealy one. The argument that feminists are "anti-family" has been around since the late '60s when radicals were giving karate lessons in lofts in lower Manhattan and talking about the cyberization of child-bearing. But in life, as opposed to lofts, there have been feminists behind every parent-to-leave bill; every child-care bill, every flexible-work plan.

Hewlett looks abroad for her role models, convinced that women have it better in Europe, Sweden, I'll buy. But Italy, Britain, Greece? It's news to them.

It is easy and sexy to focus on an intra-gender battle, first between traditionalists and feminists, now between feminists and post-feminists. The culprit is not feminism, not even what Hewlett describes as the cult of motherhood, but the cult of rampant individualism. In America we still regard each worker as disconnected, each child as private property, an child-raising as an issue for each family to resolve on its own.

If you read an edge of impatience in my words, it's because I have been a working mother now for more than 17 years. In all those years, almost a generation, the need for a more responsive workplace and for social supports, has been crystal clear. Progress has been a whole lot muddier.

Many of us calculated, or hoped, that when women formed a critical mass in the work force, things would finally change. We now have this mega-generation. Many are trying to have it all by doing it all themselves. Others are struggling to keep their heads above water. Still others are burning out. The problem isn't the women's movement but the lack of movement. The next few years will determine whether this generation produces massive change or massive disappointment.

I admit to a vested interest in this. Right behind the baby boom is my daughter's generation, young women growing up with assumptions. They assume their lives will include work and family. They assume that the workplace will adjust. They don't need the problems researched; they need them solved. One child-care center is worth a thousand studies.

Letters/ Easy decision on completing his education became more difficult

Going out-of-state to finish

I sit here writing this letter after just making one of the most important decisions of my life. That decision being where to further my education.

At first, the decision didn't seem that hard. I was born and educated here in Idaho and an Idaho school was where I was going to finish. However, as I started this, my final year at the College of Southern Idaho, I became aware of the problems besetting all of the schools in the state. The backlogs, the low pay for teachers, and the meager budgets that won't allow the great teachers that we have to do as great a job in passing their knowledge on to the students.

It was after this awareness that I began looking at out-of-state schools. All of the schools that I looked at were comparable to the Idaho schools that I had planned on attending but the costs of these schools just made my decision to stay in Idaho seem all the better.

Better yet is until what the Idaho State Legislature just did to our educational system.

After seeing what our senators and representatives think about educating I realize that even though it may cost more I will personally profit by going someplace where the people believe that good education is the key to the future and are willing to support that belief.

I hope to someday return and live here in the Magic Valley but will probably not do so until changes are made in people's attitudes toward education.

Our future depends on us

Even though NASA believed the booster rockets were not vulnerable, it only took one small flaw to cause the grand explosion that brought failure to the space shuttle flight. Quoting Dr. Benjamin Franklin: "One hitch, one flaw, one malfunction in Star Wars" — and our world could be destroyed forever. Are you willing to take that chance?

Nevertheless, clearly Star Wars (SDI) is very much alive, supported by the Pentagon and arms suppliers. How do you think our scientists are going to build a magical weapon-proof umbrella over our heads.

The American people need to know the truth about Star Wars and not be misled by distorted information and bogus claims. Our leading physicists claim the project is unworkable.

Two members of the faculty of Princeton University, Josephine Anne Stein, engineer, and Frank Von Hippel, physicist, say, quoted in a recent Twin Falls News: "Nuclear arms are unusable for war fighting. Continued nuclear testing is dangerous and a waste of precious resources. America should fulfill its treaty obligations by negotiating and ratifying a comprehensive test ban." Let us listen to them. Our future depends on us.

To the person who regularly steals our morning Times-News from the box in front of our home:

I know it's useless to ask you to stop, so I would like to pose this question instead: "Have you ever considered forming a club or fellowship of humanity in your class? You would surely attract many people of similar character — those who hit and run our family pets, hog handicapped parking spaces and loading zones in the malls and let's not forget those thoughtful folks who "balance their checkbooks." Easy contribution to make

Many people take no part in the political process because they feel that what they do does not count. "I have no money to give," etc.

There is a very simple thing each person who files an income tax can do to help the costly political process and it does not cost the taxpayer one cent, nor does it deduct from the refund.

On the federal tax return you check the "presidential election campaign" line for both self and spouse. On the state tax return, on lines seven and eight, you designate the party of your choice in Idaho to receive the dollar of income tax.

In 1984 the Idaho Democratic Party received $50,595 from the check off program; the Republicans received $53,000 plus a little more.

This is one form of political contribution that anyone can afford to do. It is a way of bringing the political process directly to the people, letting everyone participate.

In this last minute rush to get your income tax returns in the mail, don't forget to put your X in the right column.

Media should alter course

The editorializing of The Times-News continues to be venomous towards all conservatives and conservative issues. Their efforts are to intimidate all legislators who have attempted to stop the good gates of state spending. This can best be done by attempting to show them to be enemies of children and children's needs, and by insinuating that all contact with all conservative organizations, such as Cause, Libertarian, and the John Birch Society, is poisonous. The only help to the Education Association.

How sad that the power of the media is used to assist the destruction of the greatness of America and Americans. The training for most of those who are associated with the media has been on the far left. This alone accounts for their allegiance to that cause.

The communists have long contended and embraced the philosophy that if you brand your opponents what you are, the public will soon believe it true. They have made the general public believe that there is little difference between those on the political left and the political right. The far left and far right are each anarchists, according to their propaganda. What a falsehood.

It is the political left that has led us to the point of idocy, teaching that we should collectively steal from the haves and give to the have nots. Scripture tells us that the thief shall not eat the bread nor wear the garment of the worker. It is the left who has filled our laws and judicial system with laws and decisions which coddle and release killers, or fill prisons with hundreds of them who are unbearable burdens for anyone.

Our maker has commanded us to take the life of he or she who takes the life of another. It is the left who use force to pick the pockets of others, with no thought of using their own funds to redistribute the wealth. It is called compassion and generosity with other people's money.

Right compassion is feeding the hungry and clothing the naked, voluntarily, and being held accountable for failure. It is the left who has promoted free love, adultery, abortion and homosexuality, all in violation of the laws of God. It is the left who have divine command. Have you ever wondered why God has declared that the valiant shall stand on his right side, or right is right?

America's greatness came from limited government, limited taxation, limited laws, freedom to try, and freedom to fail. Its downfall has come from the satanical influence of the left, guaranteed cradle to the grave care for all, stifling of initiative, breaking of character from unfair discriminatory taxation, strangulating controls and requirements, violation of inspired rules under the guise of human rights, and organizing so as to prevent men from giving their all or even a fair return in the market place.

I plead with the media to change direction and embrace principles and promote philosophy which can rebuild our nation and its people. Continuation in the direction we are going with only chaos is in sight. The wealth of America will be dissipated, our factories closed, our production of goods diminished, and our environment ruined. We are teaching our people to feel justified in living off their neighbor, by the use of force and theft. The end will produce blood and carnage when our stratagulated system grinds to a stop, and bondage not freedom.

Reply at heart of conflict

Thank you for your response, E.W. Virtue. I hope the people of Idaho will look carefully at the way you reacted, because it lies at the very heart of the conflict.

You read somewhere that the Sandinistas are all communists and that's all you listened to. Bingo, you're off into Russia and Afghanistan and the "Communist Manifesto." You forgot entirely that I was writing about Nicaragua.

Now do you understand why the death-squads dictators we back the worst around so freely? It's up to you whether you choose to be duped by them or not. You have to keep the situation in focus, not leap off onto your pet tangents. Look at what we're doing in Central America!

A dear friend of mine just died from polio. Do you know what Somebody after the vaccine against polio was developed? He received a large free donation of vaccine; sold it, pocketed the money and sent the health leaves out with colored water.

Do you know how many tax-exempt are being spent to train "Law and order" troops are being spent? recruits are trained to be tough on communists by having them form a ring around a campesino "suspected of communist leanings." One by one they have to torture him by applying the frame of a biotorture to the soles of his feet.

Do you know that 150 people are living in a church in San Salvador and can never leave the building without being shot because they have no "papers" to prove they aren't communists? Their "crime" was living in areas of the country where the government workers were afraid to go because of the civil war.

Do you object to any of these situations? Would you protest? If you did, hear me now, you would be immediately labeled a communist and would be in mortal danger from the Central American governments which we support.

But in Nicaragua, they not only have free and open dissent (30 percent of their only have one of opposition parties), but you don't have the worry about being shot, raped, "disappeared" or tortured. That is, unless you live where the Contras raid Nicaragua.

I repeat, the Sandinistas are not against the church. Now, this time, since you know all communists are against the church, don't question the facts (amply verified by wave after wave of U.S. Christians who have gone to Nicaragua), but question your opinion that the Sandinistas are communists. Question your thorough grasp of the situation in Nicaragua.

Just because you read somewhere that the Sandinistas' enemies said they are communists, notice the role of the Moravian Church in Nicaragua.

Why is it that we back so many Somozas, Marcoses and Duvaliers? I remember my outrage a few years ago at learning the CIA had a $14 million budget to "destabilize" Nicaragua. Reagan is still pushing for $100 million of our tax dollars to destroy the freely elected Nicaraguan government.

It is on the wrong side: opposing Democrats and funding terrorists.

Pressure blamed for agency cut

BOISE (AP) — A Planned Parenthood spokesman says the organization was dropped from United Way funding because of pressure from pro-life groups, and not because of financial considerations as the umbrella group claimed.

"The reason for the action is pressure from a vocal minority," said the Rev. Jim Hueltl, president of the Planned Parenthood board of directors.

The United Way executive committee voted Friday to discontinue Planned Parenthood funding effective Dec. 31. Planned Parenthood "alleged Way allocation was active designations" were made, Holmes $22,500 during the 1985-86 fiscal year, said said.

John Glaza, Planned Parenthood executive director.

But contributors specified that an additional $40,000 also be earmarked for Planned Parenthood, and United Way Executive Director Jack Holmes said that extra funding led to the cut-off. He said the organization apparently doesn't need the money.

But other United Way contributors specified that no money be given to Planned Parenthood. About $2,000 in so-called "next-group.

Holmes reiterated Monday that the decision was based solely on financial considerations, and said pressure from pro-life groups was not a factor in the decision.

Glaza said the amount of specific donations to Planned Parenthood almost doubled during the last United Way drive, and said that was likely because of pressure from the Pro-Family Coalition to deny funds to the group.

Holmes said United Way is not concerned with Planned Parenthood's financial status. United Way was spending $2,500 specifically to fund an educational program, and specific contributions to the agency about doubled that amount.

Planned Parenthood will not be considered for funding next year because they have received enough contributions to fund the program for two years, he said, if part of this year's contributions are carried over to the next fiscal year.

DANDRUFF CONTROL CAULIFLOWER

Recent pseudo-scientific, authoritative studies have discovered that one of the chief causes of dandruff is eating cauliflower. The tiny white cauliflower buds enter the body as cauliflower and later emerge as itchy white dandruff (further confirmation that you are what you eat), with all the associated problems of dry itchy scalp, embarrassing fallout, etc. If you've been spending a lot of money for expensive dandruff control shampoos, treatments and various other emollients, and you've been eating cauliflower at the same time, you can find inexpensive relief by simply buying Swensen's dandruff control cauliflower — a special variety guaranteed not to create dandruff. NOTE: Dandruff in non-cauliflower eaters is obviously caused by eating broccoli. Swensen's cauliflower is also a boon to those suffering other health problems such as nutrition deficiency, and chronic hunger. Also not to be overlooked is the sheer joy of eating fresh overnight-from-the-field cauliflower either cooked your favorite way or crunchy fresh and Swensen's super low price makes it taste even better.

The level of alcohol in the saliva isn't the same as in the blood, but the levels correlate. And saliva tests can be exact. Our Chief Prognosticator thinks you'll soon see enforcers out there with spit kits to check out drinking drivers.

Q. I know Massachusetts is where the most Americans of Irish descent live — with 40 percent. But in which state live the fewest?

A. Alaska — with only 0.1 percent.

The cheetah attacks the neck, true, but it kills by suffocating, not by letting blood.

Q. What's it cost to start a new restaurant?

A. Can only tell you the average cost now — $212,000.

Daily Horoscope

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early part of the day is excellent for making long-time plans for the future. Let experts who can be beneficial to you know how they can help.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19): Discuss your ambitions with a person you have known for some time and get the right advice to gain them.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): One who is highly inspired and can realize your ambitions from the romantic standpoint. Add an artistic touch to your work.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): A partner will be more specific about how to gain more prestige and good standing in the business world.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): Your associates are pleased with the way you handle your job and you can make new agreements. Feel happy.

LEO (July 22 to August 21): You are highly inspired and can realize your ambitions from the romantic standpoint. Add an artistic touch to your work.

LIBRA (August 22 to September 22): Try to have more harmony with the one you love and be happier in the future. Have a happy evening.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22): Talk over with partners how to have a more profitable and satisfying association and become more successful.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21): If you are more enthused about your work, you can do well and please those who count.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21): Some big project you may have in mind has a certain amount of risk attached to it, but it may be worth your while.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20): Buy the mechanisms that can make work around the house easier to handle, and then get into personal aims.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19): Doing whatever will increase your productivity is wise now. Get a great deal accomplished this year.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20): Your efforts will be well rewarded today, so apply yourself diligently. You can enjoy the social side of life in the evening.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will early in life want to plan for a successful life and will follow it assiduously and intelligently. Upon reaching maturity, your progeny can easily impress you who can help to further his or her career.

Which would you rather be — Tip O'Neill or Henry Mancini? The renowned American Thomas Paine had an opinion about it: "I care not who makes the country's laws, if I could write its songs."

George Armstrong Custer may have been some sort of oddball, but he inspired a certain following among his own relatives. He had one brother named Thomas and another named Boston, a nephew named Arthur Reed and a brother-in-law named James Cavanaugh. You don't hear much about them. But they all died with him at the Little Big Horn.

Q. How can angels be male or female, if they have no bodily functions?

A. That's what Saint Thomas Aquinas wanted to know in 1272. Never figured it out. So he allowed as how angels had no gender. No hims, no hers.

Economic aid comes first

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Caspar Weinberger said Monday that the communist insurgency is a serious threat, but the Philippines will emphasize economic rather than military aid to President Corason Aquino wants.

The U.S. defense secretary told Mrs. Aquino "the aid will be the kind suited to the president's and the people's priorities and nobody else's," presidential spokesman Rene Saguisag said.

Reports indicated the president had been worried that the Reagan administration would offer military aid at the expense of funds to help pull the Philippine economy out of a recession.

About 100 people demonstrated outside the presidential palace grounds in which Mrs. Aquino has her office. Some pounded on Weinberger's bulletproof van and chanted "Go Home!" as he left the meeting and small groups of protesters confronted him at several other stops in Manila.

Bomb shatters office window

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — A bomb in a rucksack exploded Monday night outside the downtown office of the U.S.-based Northwest Orient Airlines, shattering a window but causing no injuries, police said.

There was no immediate claim of responsibility.

At least a half-dozen police cars were sent to the airlines office after the bomb went off, and several witnesses were questioned.

"We have parts of the rucksack and we're investigating what kind of bomb caused the explosion," Police Superintendent Alex Paulsson said.

Security was tightened outside the U.S. Embassy and other American institutions and companies in Stockholm after the explosion, police spokesman Mats Runvik told The Associated Press.

Blacks boycott white shops

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Blacks began a consumer boycott Monday in Port Elizabeth that crippled white businesses in the industrial city on the Indian Ocean.

"It's like a Sunday," said shopkeeper Shun Pillay, vice chairman of the Eastern Cape Province Traders' Association. He and others reported virtually no black customers.

The death toll from 19 months of unrest against white rule surpassed 1,400. A private monitoring group, the South African Institute of Race Relations, announced the figure and said 171 people were killed in Ramat, more than in any of the previous months of turmoil.

It said the death rate had risen to 5.6 a day since the government lifted a state of emergency March 7 from 3.8 in the two months before that.

Austria asks to look at file on Waldheim

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Austria joined Israel on Monday in requesting access to a secret war-crimes file on Kurt Waldheim and the United Nations said it would open the records to both countries.

Waldheim, a former U.N. secretary-general now running for president of Austria, consented to his government's request for access. Access to Israel was approved Friday and the file is to be made available Wednesday.

Israeli and Austrian envoys have worked out an arrangement for inspecting and copying the file from the archives of the now-defunct U.N. War Crimes Commission, U.N. spokesman Francois Guitani said.

Fischer's letter said the Austrian request was made because of "serious, incriminating allegations" against Waldheim in connection with his activities as a German officer in the Balkans in World War II.

Austrian Chancellor Fred Sinowatz's Socialist Party opposes Waldheim's candidacy in the May 4 presidential election. The former secretary-general is running as an independent with conservative support.

Israelis hit camps near Sidon

SIDON, Lebanon (AP) — Israeli warplanes streaked through a barrage of ground fire Monday and bombed Palestinian guerrilla strongholds near refugee camps around this southern port.

It was the third Israeli air raid this year on the Sidon area, where guerrillas have been rebuilding bases destroyed by Israel's 1982 invasion.

Police said five Palestinians and a 21-year-old Lebanese woman were injured. Abdullah Khodr, 10, suffered a serious head wound, they said.

State-run Beirut radio said two people were killed and 22 wounded in the 45-minute air strike on bases near the teeming Ein el-Hilweh and Mich-Mich refugee camps, and at the hilltop village of Siroubieh.

There was no confirmation of the radio report.

A guerrilla spokesman said there were no casualties among Palestinian fighters because they evacuated most of the military centers after the last Israeli air strike March 27, which killed 10 people and wounded 22.

Sidon, the provincial capital of south Lebanon, is 25 miles south of Beirut.

"Tell Ariel Sharon there were no losses in lives!" guerrilla Mohammedi Party shouted to reporters who approached Mich-Mich after the raid. Sharon was Israel's defense minister in 1982 and planned the invasion.

The Israeli jets swooped in from the sea through machine gun and missile fire at 11:45 a.m.

Court upholds cross-examination limit

WASHINGTON (AP) — A criminal defendant wrongly denied the right to cross-examine prosecution witnesses is not always entitled to a new trial, the Supreme Court ruled Monday.

The court said no new trial is needed if limiting the cross-examination is deemed "harmless error" because the defendant undoubtedly would have been convicted anyway.

The justices, by a 7-2 vote, said the Delaware Supreme Court was wrong in ruling that such constitutional errors always must result in overturning a conviction and ordering a new trial.

In other matters, the court:

- Agreed to use an Arizona case to decide, probably sometime in 1987, whether police officers need court warrants before checking serial numbers or other identification items found in plain view and believed to be connected with a crime.

Ruled in a case from Missouri and Arkansas that the government may impose interim increases in the rates charged for hydroelectric power generated by federally operated dams.

Said in a Chicago case that federal courts, not labor arbitrators, must decide whether certain collective bargaining disputes are to be resolved through arbitration.

Allowed the Los Angeles County Department to continue screening applicants by using a test blacks and Hispanics contend is racially biased.

Refused to become involved in a fight over actor Sylvester Stallone's $1.75 million bid for 5 1/2 acres of beachfront property in Hawaii. The case, pitting the land's former owners against would-be buyers who previously had submitted a $1.4 million bid, now returns to lower courts.

Carbide sells off more assets

DANBURY, Conn. (AP) — Union Carbide Corp. continued its reorganization Monday by announcing that it intends to sell an additional $1 billion of assets, eliminating 120 more jobs and turn-its 61-acre corporate campus into a commercial park.

The company said in a separate statement that it had sold its worldwide battery products business — except in India — including the brand name Eveready as well as manufacturing facilities in the United States and 23 foreign countries, to the Rajston Purina Co. for $1.4 billion.

Carbide manufactures methyl isocyanate, a pesticide ingredient that leaked from an Indian Carbide plant in December 1984 in an accident that killed at least 1,750 people.

Agents describe encounter

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — When FBI agents with guns drawn approached John Walker in a hotel corridor, the suspected spy whirled, pulled a gun and egged them "eyeball to eyeball," an agent told jurors Monday at the espionage trial of Walker's friend Jerry Whitworth.

Asked why he didn't shoot Walker as he faced him across the barrel of his gun, FBI agent Robert O. Hunter said: "I didn't want to kill him. I wanted to talk to him. I needed to talk to this fellow. That's why I didn't pull the trigger."

Walker, scheduled to testify as the star witness against Whitworth, has since confessed he was the mastermind of a spying ring which passed Navy secrets to the Soviets for nearly two decades, and has been convicted.

Protesters won't hold up test

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Six anti-nuclear protesters who a peace group claims have snaked onto the sprawling Nevada Test Site "won't delay" a nuclear weapons test planned for today, Department of Energy officials said Monday.

"There is virtually no likelihood they will interrupt any activities on the test site," DOE spokesman Dave Miller said Monday.

"This has about as much substance as a hot air balloon they tried to fly over the test site a few years ago. It's about as significant as saying the seven invented Rhode Island."

Greenpeace spokesman Peter Dykstra said Monday that nine people had walked onto the test site Thursday night, and two left Sunday to return film to Las Vegas. He said a third returned to Las Vegas on Monday afternoon.

Protection for Marcos ends

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House has ended Secret Service protection for deposed Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos. Secret Service spokesman Jane Vezaris said Monday.

"We're not protecting him any longer," she said.

Marcos, who is in Hawaii, had been given round-the-clock Secret Service protection since Feb. 27 under a provision which permits President Reagan to grant the protection to "distinguished foreign visitors."

The protection had originally been scheduled to end late last month, but the president had ordered it extended indefinitely.

Marcos and his wife, Imelda, landed in Hawaii on Feb. 26, a day after his 20-year rule collapsed and he was replaced by Corason Aquino.

Former actor Gavin resigns after 5 years as ambassador

MEXICO CITY (AP) — U.S. Ambassador John Gavin — who like his boss went from the films of Hollywood to the stage of politics — announced his resignation Monday as head of the largest American diplomatic mission in the world.

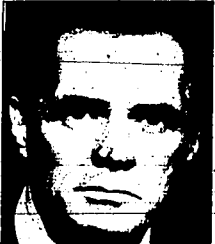

Gavin said in a statement read to reporters and U.S. Embassy staff that he was leaving "to return to the private sector and meet new challenges."

In his letter of resignation, Gavin said that although he had been asked to stay on until President Reagan completes his term, his resignation would take effect in mid-June.

"It is particularly gratifying that you have asked me to continue here through the remainder of my term," said his letter to Reagan, "who was also an actor before entering politics."

"I believe, however, that I have accomplished the major tasks you set for me. The time has come for me to return to the private sector and to meet new challenges."

Gavin declined to answer questions after reading the letter and his statement.

Aviation pioneer Bullock, 86, dies

VENICE, Fla. (AP) — Walter Bullock, pioneer aviator, barnstormer and a airline pilot, has died of cancer at the age of 86.

Bullock, who died Saturday at a nursing home here, delivered mail in a single-engine biplane between Minneapolis and Chicago in the 1920s. He shared an apartment with several other mail carriers, including Charles Lindbergh.

Bullock once referred to his career with the Minneapolis-based Northwest Airlines as a "year paid vacation." A Federal Aviation Administration rule forced him to retire at age 60.

He continued to fly, however. He built replicas of the planes that defined aviation history and flew them from a grass landing strip at the farm in the "Sawtooth" Mountain area where he and his wife, Lillian, lived.

David Mead points out details of the Moran print during a news conference on Monday as Librarian Arlan Call looks on

Prints of falls painting go on display

By ANNETTE CARY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Art prints will go on display today of the oil painting "Shoshone Falls on the Snake River" by Thomas Moran, a nationally renowned artist of Western landscape.

The 25-inch-by-35-inch prints are being sold in two editions as a Twin Falls Public Library fund-raiser. Some 350 limited edition prints will cost $100, and another 1,000 regular edition prints will sell for $25 each.

Although Moran holds a prominent place in American art history, few local people knew until recently that he had chosen the local falls in 1890 as the subject of one of his major works, says Twin Falls Public Library Board Chairman David Mead.

Two years ago Mead and Librarian Arlan Call both spotted a copy of the work in an art book and set out to learn more about the print. They found that the original 11-foot-by-6-foot painting hung in the Thomas Gilcrease Institute of American History and Art in Tulsa, Okla., and that a print of it had never been made.

A former Twin Falls and state Library Board member, Mary Jane Kinney, donated stock worth about $200 to finance publication of the art prints, with the stipulation that proceeds of the sale be used as seed money for a library foundation.

The foundation would finance special projects, possibly including bringing the original Moran work — valued at $10 million — to Twin Falls for the city's 85th anniversary in 1989 and the state centennial in 1990.

The prints will be on display beginning today in the library foyer, area banks, retail framing shops and Larson Arts. Orders for the prints will be taken at the library.

However, the prints will not actually be sold until May.

The first print of the limited edition will be sold to the highest bidder at the Junior Club Art Auction at 7 p.m. May 10 at the Holiday Inn. When the library opens the following Tuesday, sales will begin for the remaining 349 limited edition prints and the regular edition prints.

The limited edition prints will be hand-numbered, with No. 1 being sold at the art auction. They will be printed on 100-percent rag, acid-free, lightly textured art paper.

A certificate of authenticity and a brochure about Moran and a hand-engraved brass plate for mounting on a picture frame will accompany each limited-edition print.

Plates for the limited edition will be destroyed after the sale.

The regular edition prints are printed on 25-percent rag paper, and if they prove popular, may be followed by a second printing.

The image on both prints is 15 inches by 30 inches.

"The printer caught the detail beautifully," Mead says. He calls the painting an "action print" because of the realism with which Moran painted the plunge of the water.

The print emphasizes the power of the falls, with a rush of blue-green water, dark canyon walls, gray canyons and a delicate lavender mist. Yet a close inspection of the print shows an attention to detail, from a crow perched on a rock to yellow dust rising above the canyon walls.

Ticket prices for rodeo cut to lure crowds

By PAT MARCANTONIO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The price of most general admission rodeo tickets at the 1986 Twin Falls County Fair were cut Monday in an effort to buck up attendance at the event.

The Twin Falls County Fair board was searching for ways to draw people to the rodeo, particularly on Wednesday and Thursday nights. Overall attendance at the rodeo had been dwindling over recent years.

After a lengthy discussion, the board Monday adopted a new set of ticket prices, some of which were proposed by Fair Manager Tom Harrison.

The board voted — on a suggestion by board member Emmett Harrison — to admit children 12 years and under free to the Wednesday, Thursday and Friday performances. The children must be accompanied by an adult.

Children that age last year paid $2.50 for general admission seats, except for Wednesday, when admission was free.

The board also voted to raise the price of a children's ticket from $2.50 to $3 on Saturday, which traditionally is sold out.

630 other reserved seats in the middle sections on the lower level.

All the lower-level seats, however, will be sold as reserved on Friday and Saturday.

The price of reserved tickets will remain at $5.50, except on Saturday when it jumps to $6.50.

The price of the 366 box seats at the rodeo will remain at $9 each night of the rodeo performance.

There will be no changes in the gate prices, which are $2 for adults and $1 for children 6-12 years old.

In other business, the Fair Board voted Monday to recommend a contract with the Otis Hall company for the construction of a new merchants building. The formal award of the bid, however, will be made Friday by the Fair Board.

The Otis Hall company had submitted the low bid of $107,500 among 10 other companies last week.

Architect R. J. Rives said the projected cost might be increased by about $3,000 if the county allows construction company personnel the use of the Fairgrounds toilets and power and by building the floor with one slope instead of two.

Lively said he would discuss a potential contract with the Otis Hall company.

The concrete-block building planned by the Fair Board would replace the merchants building that collapsed Dec. 1 under the weight of snow.

The building will be constructed near the main gate of the fair. The site of the old building, located near the other merchants buildings, will be sold to merchants at the same price charged for other outside displays — $18 per frontage foot.

Lively also submitted a $4,000 bid for his work on the building.

The Fair Board selected a theme for the 1986 fair. Using a suggestion from the public that the theme revolve around the renovation of the Status of Liberty, the board selected "Pride in Our Liberty."

In other business, the Fair Board voted to rent the Fairgrounds to the YFCA for a rock concert June 14. YFCA officials said the purpose of the concert is for youth entertainment and as a fund-raiser.

The YFCA will be charged $1,000 for use of the facilities and a $250 deposit.

Harrison said the move is intended to attract more adults on Wednesday and Thursday.

"Let's make some future rodeo fans," he added.

The move, the board reduced the price of a general admission ticket for adults from $4.50 to $3 on Wednesday night and $4 on Thursday and Friday. The price of a Saturday night ticket was raised to $5.50.

Tickets for students were left at $3, except on Saturday, when they increase to $4.

Carl Grinstead, another Fair Board member, reported that a total of about 450 children's tickets were sold last year. Less than 100 tickets were sold each evening of the fair, with the exception of Saturday.

The board decided to sell about 580 more general admission seats on the Wednesday and Thursday night performances. Those seats, located in the lower level of the grandstand, were sold last year as reserved seating along with about

Hospital reorganization work starting

By JANE ROBINSON
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Now that Gov. John Evans has signed legislation to allow county-owned hospitals to reorganize, the "work is just beginning for Magic Valley Regional Medical Center," said Administrator John Bingham on Monday.

The legislation, written and pushed by MVRMC and Twin Falls County Commissioners, allows county-owned hospitals to be restructured into non-profit corporations that could compete in the health-care market.

The legislation was opposed by the Twin Falls Clinic and some local business people, as well as administrators from other county-owned hospitals. Still, it sailed through the Legislature.

But at the MVRMC board meeting on Monday, Bingham said the "work is just beginning on assessing whether this hospital should utilize that legislation."

Bingham said the first step will be to explain the reorganization plan to employees and answer questions, and then it will be up to the County Commissioners to hold public hearings.

"There were a number of questions raised, some very good questions, about this, and we've developed answers, and will be getting them to the community," Bingham said.

In other business, the board voted to change the 1986-87 fiscal year budget after receiving almost a 20 percent increase in premiums from Blue Cross.

That dramatic jump was due to a large number of claims on insurance by employees, said Bingham. Blue Cross recently notified the hospital that for every $1 paid in premiums to the company, Blue Cross had to pay $1.41 out in claims.

To help reduce costs, the board approved a five-point change in policy, including trying to improve employee health to "help employees stay out of the hospital because of the high costs," said Bingham.

Among the changes included increasing the deductible for employees, increasing employee rates, and monitoring claims on a monthly basis from Blue Cross.

The board also voted to conduct an employee attitude survey, to be paid for by hospital Corporation of America.

The survey comes more than a year after a similar survey was conducted by the Institute for Health Planning that found poor staff morale and a negative public image. That survey was paid for by Twin Falls County Commissioners.

Chuck Baker, HCA regional director, said it was a good idea to conduct such surveys about every two years. However, he said few of the other HCA-managed hospitals in the region were conducting similar surveys.

"I think John (Bingham) just wants to get a handle on where they are," Baker said.

No date was given on when the survey would begin or be completed. While HCA is picking up the cost, the survey will be conducted by another company, Baker said.

City legal office to receive help

By ANNETTE CARY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls City Council voted Monday to wish to contract city work spend as much as $1,000 each month to contract out excess work on the city's new budget year.

City Attorney Shane Pennington said he would most likely turn misdemeanor criminal prosecution duties to private attorneys. That would leave him time to do the legal work connected with the city's new self-insurance policy.

Money for the contracted work will come from the city's budget to pay liability insurance premiums before the city's policy was canceled.

The current plan is only a temporary measure. The council has asked city officials to investigate hiring a consultant to study the city's legal workload and make suggestions about staffing and policy. In addition, Pennington is evaluating the fees and forms of contracting services before the council sets the 1987 budget.

The city's two-person legal staff will come from the city's meter reader, who had previously done legal clerical work.

Status of Liberty, the board selected "Pride in Our Liberty."

In other business, the Fair Board voted to rent the Fairgrounds to the YFCA for a rock concert June 14. YFCA officials said the purpose of the concert is for youth entertainment and as a fund-raiser.

The YFCA will be charged $1,000 for use of the facilities and a $250 deposit.

James Pline, roadway design supervisor of the Idaho Transportation Department, advised the Federal Highway Administration that "there are no apparent significant environmental impacts associated with the project." However, he said that an "environmental assessment" should be prepared as the appropriate level of documentation for this project.

An engineer for the federal government, concerned that that would be the appropriate documentation for this project.

Bellevue voters keep Ewersen, Bergin in office

By BARBARA NEIWEIT
Times-News correspondent

BELLEVUE — The City Council will see two new faces along with two incumbents returning next month after Bellevue voters went to the polls Monday for the city election.

In a light voter turnout, residents re-elected Dale Ewersen to serve another one-year term as mayor. Ewersen also won another two-year term on the council, along with newcomers Kyle McGehee and Cliff Noxon.

The voter breakdown of the 73 ballots cast was as follows: mayor — Dale Ewersen, 64, and vote each for write-in candidates Omer Eldridge, Claude Ballard and Byron Downard; alderman — Bergin, 55; McGehee, 47; Noxon, 41; Ron Reese, 37; and Steve Abbey, 16. Write-in candidate Lulu Shoemaker received 9 votes.

According to Bellevue's city charter, the four newly elected officials will take office the first Monday in May.

"I'm glad I won. I hope to complete the projects we have started at the park," Bergin said, adding that additional work was needed to complete the tennis court and acquire land in town for a baseball diamond.

Bergin also noted she would eventually like to see a community sewer system developed to replace the septic tanks used throughout the city. Matching grant money would need to be obtained to make the project feasible, she said.

Ewersen, who ran unopposed for his third term as Bellevue's mayor, said he was very disappointed in the voter turnout. "I think it stinks that people take advantage of their right to vote," Ewersen commented after the election results were tabulated.

With a population of close to 1,200, Ewersen said he did not understand why more people did not turn out to vote. "I just wish people wouldn't take advantage," he said.

Sawtooth Radio presents plan to pay debts, remain on air

By DOB FREUND
Times-News writer

JEROME — Sawtooth Radio Corp., which operates KLIX-AM and KMTW-FM in Twin Falls, has offered a long-term plan of reorganization that will allow the stations to stay on the air, if approved by a federal judge.

Both Twin Falls radio stations now are operating on normal schedules under permission of U.S. Bankruptcy Court, President Charles Tuma said Monday.

However, Tuma, the majority stockholder, his wife Jolene and minority stockholder Fred Plankey took the corporation into voluntary reorganization in February after primary lender Firstmark Lending Corp. of Indianapolis, Ind., sued to foreclose on company property.

The corporation has listed close to $1.85 million in liabilities, but the value of assets remains in dispute, said Tuma and attorney Brent Robinson on Monday. One filing places them in the area of $952,000, but there are substantial differences in appraisals of the value of the business.

Firstmark, the largest creditor, claims $1.6 million from Sawtooth Radio in a series of loans made from 1979 through 1982. Firstmark holds the mortgage on the stations' five-year-old studios north of Kimberly.

Another $238,000 is outstanding to Robert Colner of Twin Falls, from whom the corporation purchased KMTW-FM, in 1980.

Testifying in a creditors' hearing at Jerome on Monday, Tuma said the corporation's plan proposes repaying general or unsecured creditors at the rate of 50 cents on the dollar. Secured debts would be repaid in full.

But Sawtooth Radio disagrees with the amount claimed by Firstmark as secured, he and Robinson said. Firstmark pegs the secured amount at $1.2 million, an appraisal by a company specializing in broadcast businesses values Sawtooth at $700,000; and the corporation suggests $600,000 as reasonable with a foreclosure pending.

If there is no agreement on the value of the business, Tuma said, the corporation will file for Chapter 11 protection.

In an interview, Tuma said Sawtooth Radio's financial problems have resulted from high rates of interest charged in the Firstmark loans and an economic slump in that area that has trimmed resources for repaying the loans.

From 1979 to 1985, the corporation paid $1.2 million to Firstmark — "and not a dime of it was principal," Robinson said. Adjustable rates on the loans were close to 24 percent when Sawtooth Radio defaulted, Tuma estimated.

Sawtooth Radio will try to move quickly through reorganization, attempting to have a plan finally approved within the next few months, Robinson said.

The Tumas also have sought reorganization of their personal finances because they personally guaranteed some loans.

The Tumas and Sawtooth Radio Corp. bought KLIX-AM in 1973 and have operated the station since then.

The Times-News is among the creditors listed in the Sawtooth Radio Corp. reorganization.

Buhl coed takes part in festival

By LORAYNE SMITH
Times-News writer

BUHL — A Buhl coed at the University of Idaho is representing the state of Idaho during the Cherry Blossom Festival this week in Washington, D.C.

Ann Hamilton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.P. Hamilton, Buhl, will be one of 56 representatives from the individual states, Pacific Islands and Japan—participating in the annual festival.

She was selected by the Idaho State Society in the nation's capital on the basis of a resume submitted to the organization detailing her school and community activities, according to her mother.

Hamilton, a freshman majoring in computer science, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Bohn, Silver Springs, Md., who also are hosting Nobuko Kohno, granddaughter of the former Japanese ambassador who established the cherry blossom festival in 1912.

The event, considered the social event of the year in Washington, was organized when Japan donated the early blooming cherry trees to the nation's capital.

Among the many activities included in the week-long festival are a fashion show today conducted by the state of Kentucky; a congressional reception and ball, where Hamilton will be escorted by Sen. James McClure, R-Idaho; and a reception at the Japanese embassy, followed by a regatta in the Tidal Basin.

The Idaho State Society will honor Hamilton Thursday evening at the home of Orval Hansen, former Idaho congressman. Friday there will be a tour of the White House and an excursion to Arlington Cemetery, with the grand ball Friday evening at the Sheraton Hotel.

Hamilton's escort for this event will be Rusty Jessor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Jessor, Twin Falls, a lobbyist for the American Bankers Association.

Accident victim still on critical list

TWIN FALLS — Jana Thacker, 23, of Twin Falls was reported still in critical condition Monday night at Magic Valley Regional Medical Center.

Thacker suffered severe head injuries and a fractured leg in a traffic accident April 3 in Jerome County. State police said the young woman was thrown from her vehicle when it went out of control and rolled over. Thacker was traveling on a frontage road north of the Hansen Bridge when the accident occurred. She has been treated in the intensive care unit of the hospital since the accident.

Buhl residents boiling water

BUHL — Health officials cautioned Buhl residents Monday to boil water for drinking, cooking and other household uses due to the presence of contaminants in the city's water supply system. The boil-water order is in effect until further notice, said Tim Lilke, senior water quality specialist for the Health and Welfare Department's Division of Environment. He said residents should boil city water for five minutes before using it. "Anytime water might be ingested — for cooking or drinking — play it safe," he recommended. The order stems from a chlorination problem the city had about two weeks ago which resulted in water not being properly disinfected, Lilke said.

Truck strikes, kills horses

BURLEY — Two quarter horses, valued at $3,000, were killed and a 1966 Peterbilt truck, newly painted, polished and chertished by its owner, sustained $6,000 damage in a traffic accident early Monday morning in Cassia County. Sheriff's officers said the accident occurred at 4:25 a.m. on state Highway 27, three miles south of Burley. The truck, driven and owned by Jerry Day, 47, of Burley, was southbound when it struck the horses, which were running down the traffic lane of the highway in the darkness. Officers said the horses were owned by Fred Samples of Burley. Samples said the horses had somehow gotten out of their pasture early in the morning and onto the highway. Officers said both were killed instantly by the impact. Day was not injured.

Linam cleared of drug charge

TWIN FALLS — A Buhl man was found innocent Friday of selling cocaine last year at the Longway Fibre Co. in Twin Falls. Douglas Lee Linam, 29, went to trial last Tuesday in 5th District Court in Twin Falls on a felony charge of selling one-half a gram of cocaine on May 1, 1981. The defense claimed in its opening statement that there only was one witness to the alleged drug sale and that was a private investigator hired by the company. The jury began deliberations about noon Friday and returned with an innocent verdict about 4 p.m.

Police check 'Dallas' sighting

TWIN FALLS — Like nearly every other police department in southern Idaho, northern Nevada and some surrounding areas, Twin Falls police recently checked out a report that prison escapee Claude Dallas was seen in town. A call was received by the Twin Falls police dispatcher Friday at 10:35 a.m., that a man fitting the description of Dallas was in a Jeep in the parking lot of Motel 6, at 1472 Blue Lakes Blvd. N. Public Safety Director Tim Qualls said four officers were dispatched to check out the report. As a safety precaution, he said, employees and others in the immediate vicinity were cleared from the area. Qualls said officers checked out the man, who turned out to be a Montana resident traveling in the area.

Sale aids family at Hagerman

HAGERMAN (AP) — A benefit auction and dance has raised more than $2,000 for a Hagerman family that is in danger of losing its farm. Jim Bright, a farmer suffering from cancer, was refused medical insurance because he has a heart pacemaker. Although they have owned the Bright family is in danger of losing the farm they have owned for 22 years. Bright's daughter, Bonnie Peters, said more than 300 people came to the auction and dance Saturday. "For a small community, that's quite a lot," Peters said. "I thought the response was overwhelming." Peters said the family received donations from people living in Boise.

Airline takes special steps to seat heavyweight passenger

DEAR ABBY: A reader recently recommended a solution for fat people who couldn't fit into a regular seat on a commercial airline: Buy two coach seats and remove the arm rest between them. For some heavyweights, that may not be enough.

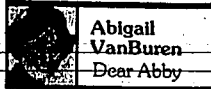

I submit the following Associated Press release, March 6:

FRANKFURT, West Germany—Japan Air Lines removed six seats from the first-class section of a Boeing 747 Wednesday to make room for an 875-pound man flying to Tokyo.

"Albert Pernitsch, 29, of Graz, Austria, claims to be the world's heaviest man. He told reporters at Frankfurt airport that he was traveling to Japan to exhibit himself at a Tokyo fair.

"Japan Air Lines removed six seats and reinforced the plane's floor to install a special seat for Pernitsch, airport spokeswoman Sigrun Weisaid.

"They also installed a toilet with a desk-sized seat concealed by a curtain and a specially designed safety belt for the extra-large passenger, she said.

Abigail VanBuren
Dear Abby

"A Japan Air Lines spokesman in Frankfurt declined to say how much Pernitsch paid for his flight."

VERMONT READER DEAR READER: At least no one had to ask, "Where's the beef?" It was in first class.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to respond to "William in Butler, Pa.," who describes himself as "34, fairly good-looking, unemployed and tired of being turned down by greedy women because I'm broke."

I am a 36-year-old single woman, and although I would dearly love to meet a nice man, I, too, would hesitate to date a man like William. I'm not after anyone's money, as I have a good job and can support myself. It's just that I expect an adult person to work.

William, if you are unemployed because you were recently laid off from your job, you have my sympathy. But perhaps your priority at this time should be finding another job, rather than trying to date.

Are you unemployed because you dropped out of high school, or never bothered to get any vocational or professional training? No sympathy. Get some.

Are you unemployed because you refuse to take any of the low-paying jobs that seem to be available right now? No sympathy. Check the want ads. Any job is better than no job.

Are you unemployed because you are physically disabled? I personally know paraplegics and quadriplegics who hold down good jobs that require mental and verbal skills. This goes for deaf and blind people, too, who develop their skills. No sympathy.

Maybe the women who refuse to date you are not greedy. They may assume that you lack motivation. Or perhaps they are afraid to try a relationship that they may have to finance. My advice — stop whining and get a job. Nobody likes a loafer.

— DUTCH TREAT, MASTIC, N.Y.

Fernando tops Padres, due largely to Padres

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Fernando Valenzuela made some big pitches in the ninth-inning and also got some help from San Diego as he hurled the defending National League West champion Los Angeles Dodgers to a season-opening 2-1 victory over the Padres Monday.

Elsewhere on opening day, Cincinnati defeated Philadelphia 7-4 in Cincinnati.

Valenzuela, brilliant last April and beginning the 1986 campaign in similar fashion, brought a seven-hit shutout into the ninth, but got in trouble when Kevin McReynolds and Steve Garvey opened the inning with singles.

On a 2-1 pitch to Carmelo Martinez, the Padres tried a hit-and-run play that failed miserably. Martinez swung and missed and rookie John Kruk, pinch-running for Garvey, was an easy out at second.

Martinez struck out before Garry Templeton singled to drive in McReynolds, but Bruce Bochy grounded back to the mound to end the game.

Los Angeles Manager Tom Lasorda said he didn't consider lifting Valenzuela, who allowed 10 hits. "You hold a club like that at bay for nine innings, you've pitched some game," Lasorda said. "Fernando's some kind of competitor. A lot of guys in the eighth or ninth innings start looking at the bullpen. He doesn't even know there's a bullpen. He's some kind of closer."

"If you win the first one, you have a chance to win them all. A lot of people don't realize that if you win a game in April, you might not need it in September," Lasorda said.

The Los Angeles victory before a sellout crowd of 48,444 at Dodger Stadium ruined the San Diego managerial debut of Steve Boros, named to succeed Dick Williams at the beginning of spring training after Williams resigned.

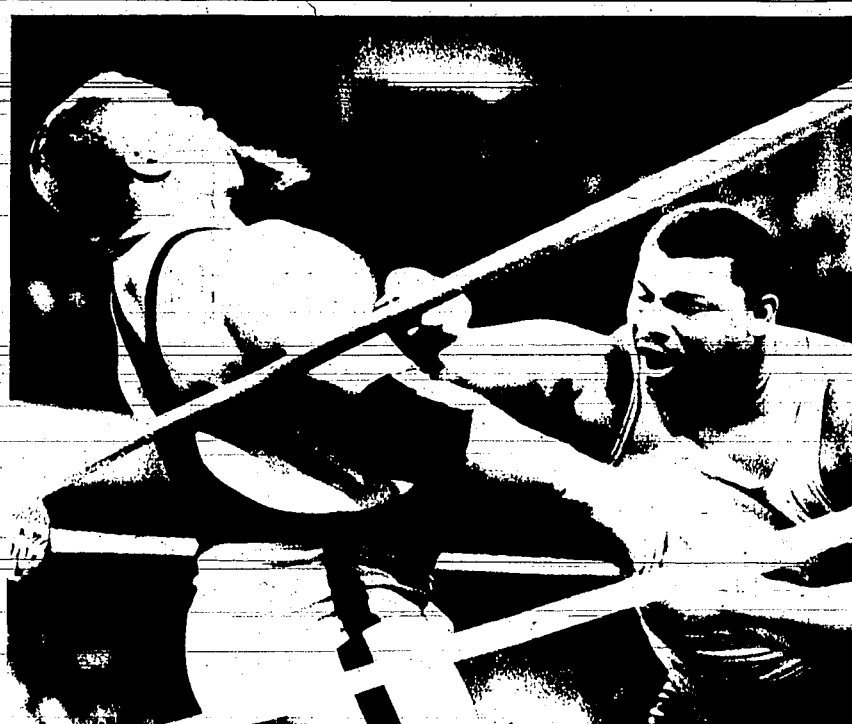

"Carmelo's our best hit-and-run guy," Boros said. "In his defense, the pitch was out of the strike zone."

Kruk stopped about 10 feet short of second base, before the throw from Los Angeles catcher Mike Scioscia arrived.

"The baserunning that we prided ourselves in all spring let us down a little bit today," Boros said. "We wish Kruk would have kept going because the throw was high. But on a play like that, he has to get into a rundown."

Kruk failed to get into a rundown, being tagged out by Los Angeles second baseman Steve Sax as McReynolds held third.

Brew Crew hitters spoil Seaver's 16th opener

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox moved home plate eight feet back this season to cut down on the rooftop home runs-in-Comsiskey Park. It didn't keep Milwaukee's Rob Deer from using the stadium as a launching pad. "I know I hit it well and I didn't see it but I don't think I ever hit one that far," said Deer, whose second-inning homer onto the left-field roof counted for a two-run shot by Ernest Riles, led the Brewers to a 5-3 victory over the White Sox.

The Sox came off loser Tom Seaver, who was making his record 16th opening day start. Elsewhere in the American League on opening day, Cleveland defeated Baltimore 6-4 and Detroit edged Boston 6-5.

This guy has tremendous power," Milwaukee Manager George Bamberger said of Deer. "He's a good outfielder with a good arm."

Deer came to the Brewers in a trade from San Francisco for a couple of minor league pitchers. "Power was the No. 1 reason," General Manager Harry Dalton said of the trade. "He hit eight homers with San Francisco but didn't have a lot of at-bats. With 500 at-bats, he might hit 30 home runs."

Seaver, who has been the target of trade rumors all spring, wasn't around after the game. He was on his way to California, where his mother is seriously ill and he will not rejoin the club until Friday.

"He wasn't sharp at all," White Sox Manager Tony LaRussa said. "He didn't have command of his breaking pitches."

LaRussa said he wasn't surprised about the two homers. "Deer's got good power and I was concerned about Riles before the game because he had some good at bats against Seaver last year."

Nicholson wins national title

By The Times-News

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. — Twin Falls' Rob Nicholson, a freshman at Arizona State University, won the national collegiate indoor archery individual championship here over the weekend.

Nicholson, a 1985 Twin Falls High School graduate and former intermediate junior national champion, won the collegiate title with 1,134 points, seven points better than his roommate and ASU teammate, Paul Richard, who finished second in the individual standings.

The Sun Devils also won the four-year schools' division national title in the meet, sponsored by the National Archery Association and held at the U.S. Olympic Training Center here.

Nicholson's score included 568 points from 25 meters — a personal best, according to his father, Dr. Julian Nicholson, a Twin Falls physician. The younger Nicholson's mark from 18 meters was 566 points.

Richard finished second with 1,127 points, six points ahead of Bryan Perchoat of Youngstown (Ohio) State College, the third-place finisher. The defending champion for the last two years, Wally King of the University of Miami (Ohio), finished well back in the pack in the two-day shoot.

The NAA is the sponsoring body for collegiate as well as amateur archery in the United States, and conducts the Olympic training and trials for American bowmen. The national collegiate championship were divided into four-year and junior college divisions.

Nicholson will get the chance to repeat his title at the NAA national collegiate outdoor championships, which will be held at the University of Arizona's archery range in Tucson on May 22-24.

Nicholson, 18, is already a veteran of national archery competition. At age 17 he competed in the 1984 U.S. Olympic Trials, finishing 21st. He has said he plans to compete again for a spot on the U.S. Olympic team in the 1988 Summer Games in Seoul, South Korea, and for a berth on the American delegation in the 1986 Pan American Games, which will be held late next summer in Indianapolis. The Pan-Am Games trials will be held later this spring.

Nicholson is part of crop of several young Idaho athletes who missed making the 1984 U.S. Olympic team, but who are considered strong candidates for the U.S. squad in 1988. They include high jumper Lisa Bernhagen of Halley, now a sophomore at Stanford University; high jumper Jake Jacoby of Boise, a recent graduate of Boise State University and a former NCAA champion.

Old stars never die — and never fade away

By BEN WALKER
The Associated Press

They are stars, even in the twilight of their careers. No matter what Pete Rose, Reggie Jackson and Tom Seaver do in terms of numbers, they continue to be drawing cards at the ballpark.

And even though time has passed, they still feel productive, able to improve and willing to earn their keep.

"It doesn't hurt that Rose owns baseball's all-time hit record, that Jackson still hits towering homers and that Seaver still fools batters.

There are nearly a dozen 40-year-old players in the major leagues this season. Also at an age or nearing it are Steve Carlton, Don Sutton, Nolan Ryan, Hal McRae and Carlton Fisk.

On April 14, Rose will be 45, the second-oldest player in the majors after 47-year-old Phil Niekro, 4-300-answers with tight, to-the-point sentences.

"I don't have crow's feet. I don't have fat. My eyes are good. I've got a lot of hair," said the Cincinnati Reds player-manager.

"The only reason people know my age is 44 is it's in the paper," said Rose, who batted 264 eye causing batted in last season. He split time at first base with Tony Perez, who turns 44 next month. Perez hit .328 in 72 games.

"I have to think that based on statistics of what we both did last year, we deserve another shot," Rose said.

Jackson, with 530 career home runs, including 27 last season, knows the perils of growing old in the game. The California Angels' designated hitter turns 40 on May 18.

Last season, the Angels released Jackson's 40-year-old teammate, Rod Carew, a perennial .300 hitter. Carew hit .280 last season.

"It's always an inopportune time to die," he said. "I'm wondering if I hope that isn't happening to me, but it's starting to throw some thoughts into my head."

Jackson batted .252 with 85 RBI last season and played 81 games in the outfield. His .344 fielding percentage was the worst among major-league outfielders with at least 100 chances.

"The Angels say Jackson will be used strictly as a DH this year, which does not please him. Neither does talk that he will be traded or that he should retire."

"I don't want to be a guy who went wah-wah-wah and made everybody sick of his crying. I want to protect my image," said Jackson, who will earn $975,000 this season.

Liability crisis strikes sports

By CYNTHIA ROBERTS
The Associated Press

WOODBURY, N.J. — When 10-year-old Joey Fort lost a fly ball in the sun during a Little League game, he was badly injured, his coaches were sued for negligence and volunteer sports teams were thrust into the big leagues of liability lawsuits.

Fort's outfield accident four years ago, Little League baseball programs and other community sports organizations are finding it increasingly difficult to recruit volunteers to coach "spare teams," ball, basketball, soccer, and other sports — to lobby for new sports liability laws and to gather comprehensive information about sports injury lawsuits. The suit that prompted much of this attention was Fort's. The youngest, now 14, played second base for his "Little League team" at Runnemede, N.J., but was moved to the outfield for an all-star game in July 1982.

During practice before a game, Fort lost a pop-up in the sun and the ball hit him in the left eye, causing injuries that have required five operations. His parents, Joseph and Susan Fort, filed a $750,000 lawsuit on their son's behalf. The matter was settled out of court last July for $25,000.

T.F., Minico meet in crucial game

By The Times-News

RUPERT — The prep baseball season is still in its infancy, but already Twin Falls' and Minico high schools are facing a game that could determine a lot of what happens to them the rest of the season.

The Bruins and Spartans, tied for first place in the GSC with 31 records, will get together for a single game here at 4:30 today. At stake is sole possession of the top spot in the conference — Madison for first place in the regular season — still get to spend the season's playoffs at home.

and a game in the win column that could be pivotal later in the season.

The Bruins found out just how important one game can be last season, finishing a game out of fourth place in the GSC. That put them on the road for the conference playoffs. Although the playoff system has been revised somewhat to accommodate the inclusion of Madison to the league this year, the top teams in the league at the end of the regular season will get to spend the playoffs at home.

For Minico, now 6-3 following a doubleheader split with Idaho Falls last week, today's game carries additional significance because of the schedule. The Spartans are due to visit Madison for a twinbill on Saturday, and a win over Twin Falls today coupled with at least a split in Rexburg later in the week would put Minico in a strong position for the rest of the season.

Twin Falls, 5-3, will start either right-hander Kevin Ames or right-hander Tommy Prater against Minico's right-handers Tim Woods or Marty Carter.

Detroit 6 Boston 5

DETROIT (AP) — Kirk Gibson had four hits, including a pair of tie-measuring homers, and drove in five runs Monday to lead the Detroit Tigers to a 6-5 victory over the Boston Red Sox in the teams' season opener.

Gibson's winning homer came in the seventh inning off reliever Sammy Stewart after Lou Whitaker had singled.

"Jack Morris was shaky through the first seven innings for Detroit, giving up five runs — four of them homers — on 12 hits. But he got his sixth opening-day victory and Willie Hernandez earned the save.

Dwight Evans drilled Morris' first pitch into the center field seats and Jim Rice homered in the third. The Tigers got a run back in the bottom of the third when Darnell Coles singled, Lou Whitaker walked and PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Alex English scored 11 of his 25 points in the fourth quarter as the Denver Nuggets rallied to beat Phoenix 131-123 Monday night and push the Suns closer to elimination from the NBA playoffs.

The defeat put Phoenix two full games behind the San Antonio Spurs in the race for the eighth and final Western Conference playoff berth.

The Suns, who face San Antonio here Wednesday, tied the score 31 times — the last at 119-119 with 3:13 remaining in the game.

Calvin Natt, who had 10 of his 28 points in the final period, put Denver ahead to stay at 121-119 on a layup with 3:03 left.

Lafayette Lever's free throw and Natt's layup made it 124-119 with 0:26 left. Veorg English hit a jumper with 1:41 left. Denver's three-point play 53 seconds later for a 129-122 lead to seal the victory.

English started in third place in the NBA scoring race behind Dominique Wilkins of Atlanta and

Pro basketball

Utah Adrian Dantley. But the Denver forward is only eight-hundredths of a point behind Dantley and 17 behind Wilkins, who is averaging 29.7.

Phoenix, losing for the sixth time in its last seven games overall, got 25 points from Larry Nance. Jay Humphries added 20 points and rookie Ed Pinckney had 16 for the Suns.

New York 106, Indiana 104

NEW YORK (AP) — Louis Orr's 16-foot jumper from the corner with three seconds left gave New York a 106-104 victory over Indiana Monday night, snapping an eight-game losing streak for the Knicks and extending the Pacers' loss string to nine.

The Pacers had a 103-94 lead with 2:48 remain in the game between the league's two worst teams. The Knicks then scored 10 consecutive points, pulling ahead 104-103 on Chris McNeely's two free throws with 22 seconds left.

Indiana, which missed three of four free throws in the final minute, got one of two from the line from Vern Fleming with 13 seconds to go, tying the score and setting up Orr's game-winner.

The 121 tally not only gave New York its fifth victory in 12 games but also assured that the Knicks of not snapping the team record of 59 losses, established during an 80-game season in 1983. The Knicks now stand 22-55.

Rookie Gerald Wilkins had a career-high 29 points for New York. Orr had 22 and McNeely 17. Herb Williams led Indiana with 23 points and Fleming finished with 19.

Indiana, which scored only 64 points in an 18-point loss to the Knicks on Dec. 10, surpassed that total in the first half Tuesday night while taking a 65-57 lead.

Detroit 128, Cleveland 104

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Kelly Tripueka tossed in 23 points and four other Detroit players hit double figures as the Pistons routed the Cleveland Cavaliers 128-104 in NBA action Monday night.

The Pistons led by 60-58 at halftime and broke the game open in the third quarter. Guard Vinny Johnson scored nine points in a 15-1 Detroit spurt that broke a 79-79 tie as the Pistons took a 94-80 lead with 58 seconds left in the period.

On the Cleveland side, guard Vinnie Johnson scored that broke a 79-79 tie as the Pistons took a 94-80 lead with 58 seconds left in the period.

Two Keith Lee baskets gave Cleveland a 46-41 lead with 6:31 left in the first half. Detroit responded with nine of the game's next 12 points to take the lead for good, 50-49.

Johnson and Bill Laimbeer added 19 points apiece for Detroit.

Darroll Evans' last season, at age 38, Evans hit 40 homers for the Detroit Tigers, the oldest player ever to lead the majors in HRs.

But Manager Sparky Anderson's opening-day plans may relegate Evans to DH against only right-handed pitchers — a move sure to cut his at-bats in half.

"Why can't I hit 40 again?" asked Evans, who will be 39 in May. "Who said I couldn't? How does anybody know that?"

"I can't imagine this happening anywhere else. How can you hit 40 home runs and be taken out of the lineup?"

Anderson said he wasn't trying to single out Evans, but that he intended to use all 15 of his non-pitchers.

Several teams want to take chances on older pitchers.

Seaver, who was 16-11 and sixth in the American League with a 3.17 ERA last season, has won No. 41 his entire career. This season, that number represents Seaver.

The Yankees will have at least one older pitcher. While they waived Phil Niekro, who had gone 16-12, the Yankees kept his 41-year-old brother, Joe.

Ueberroth: Baseball now free of drug problem

By GORDON BEARD The Associated Press

BALTIMORE — Commissioner Peter Ueberroth said Monday that baseball was free of drugs, but quickly hedged on that contention.

"Drugs are over in baseball," Ueberroth said prior to the start of the season opener between Baltimore and Cleveland. "It's flat over. It's done... because the players want it done."

But as his brief news conference opened, the commissioner backed off a little.

"We're going to have a season that's virtually drug-free," Ueberroth said a short time later. "We'll be the best sport that can say that."

Still later, he said: "Maybe there will be a little incident one place or another... but I don't think there'll ever be that."

"I've been in touch with people on all sides, including the major league players," Ueberroth said. "Everyone is in agreement that we've got to get rid of the problem. When you have that much intent and effort, the momentum is there."

Ueberroth would not discuss details of his recently proposed drug program, saying, "It's not even in the hands of all—the who were named by the commissioner as having been previously involved with drugs. Of the 21, 11 accepted random testing as one of the conditions to avoid being suspended.

Asked about expansion, Ueberroth said the next step would be for the owners' long-range planning committee to come up with a "pocking order" from among the 12 cities clamoring for teams.

"Over a number of years, there will be some movement and some expansion," he said, while noting that cities would have to meet prescribed criteria. "But it will be up to the owners to decide."

While Ueberroth would not discuss details of the program, it is known that players will be tested for cocaine, marijuana, heroin and morphine. Amphetamines would not be included and there will not be any penalties for a first-time positive result.

Only those players who have drug-testing clauses in their contracts will be tested, along with 21

But the issue is far from settled in the minds of volunteers at the Run-nemede Youth Athletic Association.

"Jack Yarabnee, who was president of the association that year and named in the lawsuit, said it's harder now to get volunteer coaches. Yarabnee dropped out of coaching this year, partly because of stress caused by the lawsuit and fear it could happen again, he said.

"It's in the back of everybody's mind," he said. While coaching 8- and 9-year-olds last summer, he recalled, "Everytime the ball went up in the air, you held your breath because you were worried about them getting hurt."

The Fort lawsuit "tore the community apart," he said. "The people who sued are not linked in town."

Joseph Fort said his son "handled the whole thing better than we did." Asked if it had been difficult to maintain relations with others in the community, Fort replied, "It still is."

But, Joey's parents have no regrets. Joseph Fort has testified before legislative committees in New Jersey and Pennsylvania considering legislation to exempt volunteer athletic coaches from liability lawsuits.

The Forts are not opposed to the bills, but have pushed for amendments requiring volunteer sports leagues to train coaches.

"If they're going to give these people immunity, I have nothing against that, but make sure they're trained in coaching and safety procedures," Fort said.

He also has unsuccessfully petitioned for separate legislation requiring volunteer teams to carry adequate medical insurance for sports injuries. The Forts filed suit when they had $5,000 in unpaid medical bills.

Fort acknowledges his interest in coaches' training is "blindsight." He coached baseball and soccer for seven years without formal training.

"You don't always realize the responsibility involved," he said. "Maybe I didn't do as good of a job as I should have."

Even coaches with formal training aren't immune from lawsuits. A high school softball coach in Monroe Township, N.J., was sued last month by a former student for allegedly failing to teach the girl to slide into bases.

Anna Marie Smart, a Williamstown High School graduate, said in her suit that she suffers from a permanent knee injury that occurred when she was stealing a base in April 1982.

Smart, now 20, was "encouraged and cajoled" to continue practicing with her team and discouraged from seeking treatment for the injury, which the coach taped, according to the lawsuit.

Lawrence Dunne, Smart's attorney, said the suit is against "a paid coach, a high school coach, not a volunteer coach for Little League."

"The primary thrust of our action is that the coach failed to obtain medical attention after the injury," Dunne said.

The coach, Ann Ackerman, is on maternally leave this year and the school district will defend her, said Monroe Township Schools Superintendent Benjamin Timberman.

"What can I say? We live in a litigious society," Timberman said about the suit.

The superintendent was Williamstown High School's first baseball coach and a founding member of Little League in his community.

Of his years as a volunteer coach, Timberman said, "You didn't worry, 'Am I going to get sued?'"

Many volunteer sports organizations are having trouble getting liability insurance this season, and without it, "will adults want to volunteer if there's no coverage? They risk losing their homes and assets by volunteering," he said.

In Williamsport, where the Little League World Series is played every August, national organizers say the problem of attracting volunteer coaches is growing across the nation.

"Volunteers are shying away from being involved in youth sports out of fear of being sued," said Tim Hughes, assistant to Little League President Creighton Hale.

The Youth Sports Volunteer Coalition is gathering statistics on lawsuits, he said.

"Some of the settlements we've been hearing about are outrageous," Hughes said.

One of those suits involved a member of the Amateur Softball Association, based in Oklahoma City. Executive director Don Porter said a player, who was ejected from a game, drove away in anger and was involved in an automobile accident.

"The thrust of the suit was that he got so upset, it impaired his ability to drive," and the injured parties sued the umpire who ejected the player from the game, Porter said.

Legislation to protect volunteer coaches from nuisance lawsuits was passed last summer by the New Jersey Assembly, but never approved by the Senate.

The bill was reintroduced in January and turned down in February when backers attempted to push it through on an emergency basis, said Shawn Cheney, legislative aide to Dennis Riley, D-Somerdale, sponsor of the bill.

Similar legislation has been introduced by state Sen. Daniel Dalton, but neither bill is expected to pass the Legislature before midsummer.

In Congress, Pennsylvania Rep. George Gekas last November introduced the Youth Sports Volunteer Act, which still is in committee, according to aide Allan Kagnoli.

Gekas, whose district includes the nation's Little League headquarters, is convinced that lack of protection for volunteer coaches would "erode the absolute end of the non-profit sports system," Kagnoli said.

In researching the issue, Kagnoli said he has talked with sports organizations in New York, Florida and California. "They're having people resign, rather than coach, and I refuse to do it."

LEGAL NOTICE

NOTICE OF TRUSTEE'S SALE

On Friday, April 27th day of June, 1986 at the hour of 10:30 o'clock A.M., of said day, at the North front door of the Twin Falls County Courthouse located at Shoshone St. and 4th Avenue in the County of Twin Falls, State of Idaho, PIONEER TITLE COMPANY, a corporation of Idaho, as trustee, will sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, for cash, in lawful money of the United States, all payables at the time of sale, the following described real property situated in the County of Twin Falls, State of Idaho, and described as follows, to-wit:

Lot 11 in Block 67 of the TWIN FALLS TOWNSHIP, Twin Falls County, Idaho, according to the official plat thereon, recorded in the Office of the County Recorder of said County.

The trustee has been informed that the address of 546 2nd Ave., North, Twin Falls, Idaho, is sometimes associated with said real property. Said sale will be made without covenant or warranty regarding title, possession or encumbrances, and the obligor's obligation secured by and pursuant to the power of sale conferred in the deed of trust executed by JOHN T. ALTMAN, a single man, grantor, in favor of PIONEER FINANCIAL CENTER OF IDAHO, INC. recorded March 10, 1979 as instrument No. 75537-1.

The default for which this sale is to be made is failure to make principal and interest payments as set forth on Deed of Trust No. 75537-1, as set forth in Deed of Trust-Original loan amount was $18,000.00 with interest thereon at the rate of 18% per annum as evidenced by Note dated March 20, 1979.

Monthly payment of $284.37 is due for April, 1986 and each month thereafter until the date of sale or reinstatement. All delinquent payments are now due and payable along with costs associated with this foreclosure and the balance owing as of this date on the obligation secured by said deed of trust is $22,027.46 plus accruing interest.

Dated February 18, 1986.
PIONEER TITLE COMPANY OF IDAHO, INC., as Successor Trustee By: Linda Melton, Trust Officer

DAVIDSON, COPPLE, COPPLE AND COPPLE, Attorneys for Trustee, Empire Bldg., 205 N. 10th Suite 500, P.O. Box 1583 Boise, Idaho 83720.

Boeing's new unmanned aircraft stands on airport ramp after being rolled out of hangar

Mystery plane could be utilized by several government agencies

MOSES LAKE, Wash. (AP) — An experimental, unmanned aircraft that could be used for drug enforcement, border patrolling, weather tracking and reconnaissance has been rolled out of a Boeing hangar at Grant County Airport, a Boeing spokesman said.

Boeing's public relations chief, Harold Carr said this past week a number of government agencies were interested in the craft, which will be flight tested in the near future.

Carr said the plane had been built in Seattle, disassembled, moved to Moses Lake and reassembled. Another identical plane remains in Seattle.

Boeing conducts many flight tests and training operations at the airport, located just north of Moses Lake.

Roy Neese, news editor of the Columbia Basin Daily Herald newspaper in Moses Lake, said he was refused entrance into the Boeing area by security personnel. He said a group of unidentified officials had flown in to look at the plane.

"It's not very pretty," Neese said of the craft. "It's like an unsmoked cigar with a needle nose, really high wings and a thin, stubby tail."

Neese said the plane, completely black except for some white trim, looked about the same length as a Fairchild F-27, which measures 77 feet. "It has twin engines with three-bladed propellers," he said.

"The landing gear comes out of the wings — "long, skinny things that appear to stabilize the plane," he said.

The aircraft was towed out of the hangar on a trailer then returned a couple of hours later, Neese said.

He said Boeing started renovating the hangar in January 1985 and had also mounted antennas and a microwave dish on top of what used to be the control tower at the Boeing facility. He said he thought the changes could have something to do with the pilotless plane.

Carr said he wouldn't comment on those observations.

Expenses for making a move chance to add tax deductions

An individual who moves to a new job location, whether you are an employee or self-employed, is in line for a big tax break.

Both the direct and indirect costs of moving to a new job location are deductible. These expenses are deductible on your tax return whether the job is new or is a transfer in an existing job. (Students who move to the site of their first job after graduation also qualify for the tax break. To be deductible, the moving expenses must be paid by the student, not his or her parents.)

Moving expenses are deductible even if you, the taxpayer, do not itemize your deductions, E.H. J. Warrick, a division editor in chief of Prentice-Hall, stressed in our discussion on ways to save when filling out 1985's tax returns.

Direct moving expenses: The definition of direct moving expenses covers the cost of moving furniture and the like from your old residence to your new residence. However, it is much more comprehensive than just that. It specifically covers the reasonable cost of:

- 1) Moving household goods and personal effects from the old to the new home. In addition, it covers the cost of packing, crating and in-transit storage of goods and effects.
- 2) However, it does not cover certain other expenses such as refitting rugs and drapery.

Added Break: The cost of transporting a car to the new home is also deductible. And so is any cost incurred in bringing the family's pet cat or dog.

2) Traveling to the new job site, including meals and lodging en route, for you and members of your family is also fully deductible. A person qualifies as a "member of the family" if he or she lives in your home before and after the move.

Automatic mileage deduction: If you go by car, you can either itemize your actual expenses or deduct a flat 9 cents a mile plus tolls and parking.

Indirect moving expenses: These deductions fall into three categories: 1) Expenses of pre-move househunting trips; 2) food and lodging while waiting to move into a new home; and 3) certain expenses of selling, purchasing or leasing a residence.

Pre-move househunting expenses include the cost of transportation, meals and lodging for you and your family paid during a search for a new residence.

In order to qualify for the deduction, you must have already obtained employment at the new job site and must travel from your former residence to the general area of the new employment and return.

Temporary living expenses at the new job location include the cost of meals for you and your family which are incurred within any 90 consecutive days after the new job is obtained.

Expenses of leasing, purchasing or selling a residence include the costs of settling an unexpired lease, acquiring a new lease, real estate agent's commissions, escrow fees, attorney's fees, appraisal fees, title costs, loan placement charges and the like.

 George when I converse with him to get my point across, and how much am I willing to pay?" Stinson said.

Added Mary Johnston of the Yankee Group, a Boston market research and consulting firm: "Executive-level folks really resist it. They like the face-to-face contact of a meeting."

However, analyst Eric Arnum of International Resource Development of Norwalk, Conn., said desktop picture phones are an important development because they eliminated the need for a studio. "To feel comfortable in a meeting you have to be on your own turf," he said.

Stinson pointed out that many business people feel the interaction with colleagues before and after a meeting is just as important as the meeting itself — you can't have a drink over the phone. AT&T eliminated its own network of teleconference studios last year when business didn't meet projections and entered into an agreement to offer the service at Hilton hotels instead.

Arnum said he believed picture phones are "poised for a boom."

Gold was less optimistic. "I think the market is 10 years away, at least," he said. "It's going to take a while to bring the price down."

PicTel's basic system, which includes five video phones, costs $150,000.

AT&T is replacing the nation's phone wires with high-capacity fiber-optic cables that could handle a picture transmission at low cost, but Stinson thinks the demand won't be seen for some time.

He said today's children, who are more comfortable with television than past generations, could be the future market for picture phones.
