U.S. attacks terrorist centers

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — U.S. warplanes attacked "the headquarters and terrorist facilities" of Libya's Moammar Khadafi, President Reagan said Monday night.

"Initial reports were that the middle-of-the-night air strike succeeded, he said, adding: "If necessary, we will do it again."

Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger said an Air Force F-111 was unaccounted for, but he did not know if it had been shot down. Libyan radio said three U.S. planes had been hit and the crew of one jet had been killed, after they were downed, "by Libyan citizens."

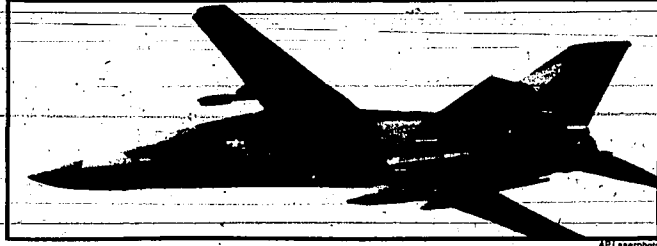

In Tripoli, Khadafi survived the U.S. bombing raid, Information Director Ibrahim Seger said today.

"He's OK, he's OK," Seger said in a brief comment to The Associated Press in the lobby of the Hotel Al Kabir when asked about Khadafi.

The Libyan official gave no further information about Khadafi.

"But government sources who would not be identified said two of Khadafi's sons had been injured in the U.S. bombing raids. The sources did not name the sons, and said the extent of their injuries was not known.

Reagan, in a nationally broadcast address to explain the military strike, said the United States had direct, precise and irrefutable evidence that Khadafi had ordered recent anti-American attacks, including the bombing of a discotheque frequented by servicemen in West Berlin.

"When our citizens are abused or attacked anywhere in the world, we will respond in self defense," Reagan said in an unmistakable warning to Khadafi, he said. "We have done what we had to do. If necessary, we will do it again."

At the Capitol in Washington, security was tightened minutes after the air strikes had ended.

Reagan's spokesman, Larry Speakes, said the purpose of the raids was to "pre-empt and discourage" Libyan terrorism, and he said the United States had ordered more anti-American incidents.

He said the raids began at 2 a.m. Tuesday, Tripoli Time, 3 p.m. MST, and were over within minutes. Respondents in Tripoli were reporting sporadic explosions and gunfire more than three hours later — well after Weinberger said U.S. planes had returned to base.

Knowledgeable officials said Khadafi's headquarters was one target of the raid, although it was not on the Pentagon's official list of targets. Reagan himself described the attacks as "concentrated and carefully targeted to minimize casualties among Libyan people, with whom we have no quarrel."

A broadcast by Libya radio, monitored by the British Broadcasting Corp., said "the savage American invaders carried out a treacherous and barbaric air strike ... against the residence of the brother leader of the revolution Khadafi. A number of members of the family of the brother leader

Congress backs raids; some have questions

By CLIFF HAAS

WASHINGTON — President Reagan's decision to launch air strikes against Libyan targets won broad congressional support Monday night.

However, some legislators raised questions about whether they should have received more notice of the bombings.

Others said the failure of European allies to join in economic sanctions against Libya left the president isolated.

"I just believe that the president did what the American people would have wanted him to do — a proportionate response to an act of terrorism where there's no doubt about Libya's fingerprints being all over the bombing of a West German nightclub in which an American soldier died, said Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., said, "I think all Americans would stand with the commander in chief at this moment."

Meanwhile, Senate Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia expressed concern about what happens next.

"This may blind his (Khadafi's) people to the economic problems that persist there and they might rally around Khadafi," Byrd said.

"Are we going to do this again and

Reagan traces additional Libyan plots

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — U.S. officials said Monday that before the military strike against Libya, they had uncovered evidence more attacks on Americans were planned.

Not only was there confirmation of Libya's involvement in the April 5 attack on a West Berlin discotheque but also word of Libyan planning for a grenade and handgun attack against visa applications at the U.S. consulate in Paris, the kidnapping of an American ambassador in Africa and the bombing of schools attended by the children of U.S. diplomats.

The attacks were averted after being discovered by U.S. intelligence officials and local police, the officials said.

President Reagan said Monday night that on March 25 Libyan leader Moammar Khadafi sent out orders for terrorist attacks to inflict "maximum and indiscriminate casualties" on Americans.

Reagan confirmed earlier reports of intercepted messages between the Libyan People's Bureau in East Berlin and Tripoli saying an attack would take place on April 5. "Libyan agents then planted the bomb" in the disco in which an American serviceman was killed and more than 200 other people were wounded.

The next morning, Reagan said, Tripoli sent a congratulatory message to the People's Bureau in East Berlin.

"Our evidence is direct, it is precise, it is irrefutable," the president said in a televised statement Monday night.

Other U.S. officials said earlier Monday that Libyan operatives had spread throughout Western Europe since the U.S. confrontation with Libya in the Gulf of Sidra last month.

Those Libyan agents were surveying specific targets for retaliatory attacks against America, the U.S. officials said. White House spokesman Larry Speakes told reporters that the administration had evidence of planned Libyan attacks "in 10 countries," including the abduction of an American ambassador in Africa.

Hansen cites new evidence, asks court again for new trial

By TOM SEPPY
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Former Idaho Congressman George Hansen asked a federal judge again on Monday to void his conviction on falsifying federal financial disclosure statements and order a new trial.

The conservative Republican, reiterating contentions that previously unavailable evidence "would have made a great difference in the posture of the proof," argued that his prosecutors have ignored apparent congressional intentions to preclude convictions such as this.

In a reply to the Justice Department's opposition to the request for a new trial, U.S. District Judge James Hens Green said that the prosecutors "have responded in predictable fashion to the request for a new trial."

"The prosecutors refuse totally to acknowledge that anything has happened since (Hansen's) conviction to affect either the fairness of his trial or the equity of his sentence," he said.

Nathan Levin, lead Hansen counsel, said Congress has "spoken directly" to the question of whether "an individual such as (Hansen) should be imprisoned."

He said Congress also is considering a formal amendment to the Ethics in Government Act, under which Hansen was convicted, that will show Congress did not intend criminal sanctions to be the punishment for violation of the law.

He said the Senate subcommittee on oversight of government management will hold hearings on the bill beginning April 28.

"It would be most unjust to imprison the defendant, or even to permit him to be scarred for life as a felon. If (the law is clarified in the manner anticipated)," said Levin.

He also said, based on a number of publicized cases as well as a special prosecutor's report, Hansen probably will be the "only person in history to be branded as a criminal for having omitted assets or liabilities from an Ethics in Government Act form."

Hansen, sentenced by Green to serve five to 15 months in prison after being convicted by a jury cited "new evidence" in asking for a new trial on March 24, the day Green was to tell him when he would have to surrender to authorities to begin serving his sentence.

Hansen also asked that his sentence be reduced and that he be given government documents so he could prove he was selected for prosecution because of his running battle with the Internal Revenue Service and other government agencies. The government also opposes those requests.

In papers filed with Green last week, Hansen said he had been

Twin Falls zoning measure in question

Judge allows law office to remain open

By ANNETTE CARY
Times-News writer

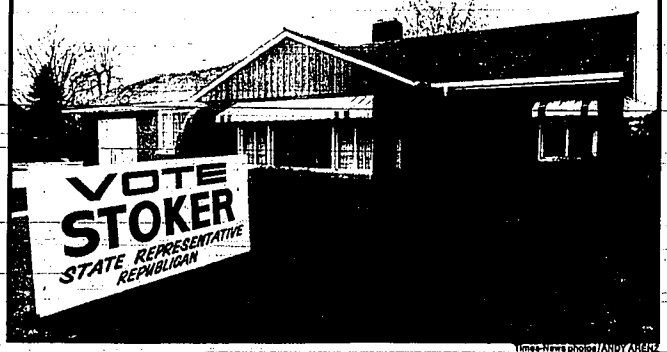

TWIN FALLS — Saying there was substantial question on whether Twin Falls has a valid zoning ordinance, 5th District Judge Daniel Hurlbut on Monday kept his law office open in a residential area.

The ruling may lead to emergency zoning provisions to prevent other city residents from acting in opposition to the zoning regulations the city is being enforcing.

Stoker moved his office to a house at 725 Addison Ave. in March; three months after the City Council denied his and neighbors' requests to rezone that portion of the street to allow professional offices. Stoker, a Twin Falls attorney, then filed suit against the city, claiming its zoning laws were unconstitutional because of flaws in the ways they were enacted.

Stoker claims that correct legal procedures were not followed when the 1979 master zoning plan and map were amended and updated.

There were discrepancies between titles of documents, calling into question whether the correct documents were ever published or were kept on file for members of the public who had zoning inquiries,

This large sign now stands outside Rep. Jeff Stoker's law office on Addison Avenue

Stoker alleges. He also says the city could not prevent him from opening an office by passing emergency zoning provisions. If emergency zoning regulations are enacted, they would not apply to a use of the property established before the regulations were passed.

10 million taxpayers try to beat deadline

By JIM LUTHER
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Postal Service and the Internal Revenue Service are gearing up to handle an estimated 10 million federal tax returns that are expected to be filed in the last few hours before the deadline at midnight tonight.

Most of the 104 million copies and individuals who will file this year already have done so. Nearly 40 million of them already are enjoying refunds averaging nearly $200 apiece.

But the average American will have to put in another 15 days — until May 1 — to pay his or her federal, state and local taxes.

The year's Tax Foundation estimated Monday that is what the foundation, a nonpartisan research organization, calls "tax accounts this year. Even with a Freedom Day — the year's tax filing deadline — will require 1 hour and 26 minutes, food and tobacco will take exactly an hour, the same as last year.

big Reagan tax cuts were enacted in 1970, Tax Freedom Day was Feb. 13; in 1976, April 28.

Viewed another way, the foundation estimated the average worker will put in 2 hours and 39 minutes each day this year to pay a share of all taxes, including those paid by corporations. That is the same as in 1980, although the federal tax share will have dropped four minutes to 1 hour and 44 minutes.

Providing a roof over the family will require 1 hour and 26 minutes, food and tobacco will take exactly an hour, the same as last year.

As the tax-filing deadline neared, sellers of individual Retirement Accounts were working overtime to collect the last of what is expected to be $40 billion set aside in those tax-deferred accounts this year. Even with a tax-preparation business had were injured as a result of this raid.

 There was no immediate word on the fate of the Libyan leader. Kindly, who was shot during the attack, could not be located. Italian journalist interviewed Khadafi on Monday next to a tent at the colonel's heavily fortified barracks in Tripoli, but after a half-hour the Libyan leader hopped on a bicycle and rode away behind four camels.

Weinberger said the attacks were mounted against five targets near Tripoli and Benghazi using 18 F-111 fighters from U.S. bases in England and 15 A-7 attack jets off the Navy carriers America and Coral Sea. Other aircraft from the carriers provided electronic surveillance and fighter cover.

 Spokes, the deputy White House press secretary, described the targets as Libya's "terrorist infrastructure" — the command and control systems, intelligence, communications, logistics and training facilities.

Secretary of State George Shultz, appearing with Weinberger in the White House briefing room just after Reagan's Oval Office statement, said the Soviet Union was told of the operation as it was taking place and was assured it was "in no way directed at the Soviet Union."

Weinberger and Pentagon officials said the Air Force and Navy jets had attacked these targets inside Libya.

The Al-Aziziyah barracks in Tripoli, described as "the main headquarters of Libyan planning and direction of its terrorist attacks overseas."

The Sid Bilal port facility, described as "a training base for Libyan commandos."
 The military side of the Tripoli airport. After this area was attacked, Weinberger said all the lights at the facility went out. The Pentagon said that section of the airport is used "to transport military and subversive material around the world."
 The Al Jumahiriya barracks in Benghazi. This was described as "an alternate command post to the Al Aziziyah barracks."

 again and again?" Byrd asked.
 "I think the president gets himself into a box by saying he is going to do it again and again. And what if there is a clear track of terrorist activity going to Syria or Iran? What do we do then?" Byrd asked.

Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said, "This indicates to Khadafi that the United States will respond in an appropriate and proportional way to terrorist attacks against us."
 "It says that the indiscriminate violence of terrorism is not acceptable," Lugar said. "That is the message we have sent."
 Rep. Robert Torricelli, D-N.J., a member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, called the attack "appropriate and measured."
 Rep. Duncan Hunter, R-Calif., said, "Khadafi could come out of this encounter more worried about his political future" than further U.S. strikes against him.

Rep. Henson Moore, R-La., said, "Now was the time for justice to punish Khadafi, to let him know what is in store for him if he continues to export terrorism and hopefully, to prevent future terrorism attacks against Americans."

 Dole, Lugar, Byrd and about seven other senior members of Congress valed and indicated they "would attend a secret briefing by the president and top administration officials shortly before the air strikes scope of the action."
 Asked about consultation with Congress under the War Powers Act, hour session, Dole said, "No one Byrd said, "This was not consultation. There indicated we shouldn't be doing this, it was notification."

 will continue to fight Stoker's allegations that there are problems.
 Bengochea argued Monday that if the court allowed Stoker to continue operating a professional office in a residential zone, others would follow suit.

Hurlbutt's refusal to grant a temporary injunction against Stoker stated after the hearing, "People will think, 'If Stoker can do it so can I.'"
 However, the city will seek injunctions against residents who attempt to skirt the zoning laws and possibly will seek criminal sanctions, he said.
 The city still attempts to bring criminal charges against Stoker.

Bengochea said, "He is operating without an occupancy permit and in violation of Uniform Building Code standards, the city has alleged."

Stoker said that when he approached City Engineer Gary Young on the matter, Young told him to resolve his zoning conflicts with the city before officials began discussing changes needed for an occupancy permit.
 Bengochea argued Monday for the injunction, saying that in addition to irreparable harm caused by enforcement problems, neighbors would suffer if Stoker were allowed to continue using the Addison Avenue house as an office.

Neighbors told the City Council when the zoning change was denied that they feared there would be traffic, noise, danger to children and devaluation of their property if the zone were changed to allow offices.

Stoker's office is already causing problems for neighbors, Bengochea said. Besides their initial concerns, they were dismayed that Stoker was using the yard of his office for "a particularly large" political sign, Bengochea said.
 "Seventeen neighbors," including City Councilwoman Mary McClusky, attended the hearing.
 Hurlbutt said Bengochea's arguments were persuasive, but were based on an ordinance of questionable constitutionality. He referred to Stoker's suit challenging the city's zoning ordinance.

Hansen

 Justice Department attorneys filed H. Weingarten and James M. Cole said that Hansen was informed by House officials that he had to disclose liabilities he transferred to his wife's name, although Hansen had argued that he had been advised otherwise.

"Simply stated, the defendant's newly-discovered evidence puts the lie to part of his defense; namely, that the Ethics Committee acquiesced not to report transactions in his wife's name," the government wrote.

"The evidence now proffered by the defendant reveals that, to the contrary, the committee disapproved of the defendant's decision and so advised him, in clear, unambiguous terms," the prosecutors said. "This evidence, had it been before the jury, doubtless would have reinforced the government's evidence that the defendant fraudulently failed to disclose transactions on his EIGA (Ethics in Government Act) forms that were placed in his wife's name after his correspondence with the Ethics Committee in 1978."

A federal jury here convicted Hansen, 54, in April 1984 of failing to record $334,000 in profits and loans — including transactions involving Texas financier Nelson Bunker Hunt — on financial reports to the House as required under the 1978 Ethics in Government Act. Hansen is the only public official to have been prosecuted for such false statements.

Hansen, who served seven terms, lost a re-election bid to Democrat Richard Stallings by 170 votes after his conviction. Hansen's wife, Connie, is now running for the seat.

Look hard — taxes have a bright side

Each season has its rites. In spring, for instance, there are such events of lasting importance as the first pitch in baseball, the first blooming of certain flowers, the initial mowing of the lawn, that first fishing expedition. Ranking right up there with those in regularity of arrival, if not in level of enjoyment, is the return of April 15.

Ah, yes, April 15. That's today. That's also the day those income-tax returns are due. The day's events can be considered a rite — the depositing of said returns in the custody of the postal service — or as a write-off, particularly if a check in payment of taxes due Uncle Sam or the state of Idaho must be attached.

Some fortunate — or perhaps less procrastinating — citizens have no reason to join in the day's rites. They've long since sent in their returns and in some cases have been sitting around smiling smugly over their refund checks for weeks.

The arrival once again of the last-minute rush to beat the deadline and get those tax returns on their way seems to be taken by many Americans with a sort of resigned acceptance. They seem to consider it as an event that is best put up with and then forgotten for another year.

It's of little consolation to the guy who has to cough up a sizeable sum of money in taxes, but the annual rite of April 15 should also be considered one of the duties which accrue to the citizen of this republic. If you think about it in that light, it's surely a long way ahead of some of the alternate forms of taxation imposed by other forms of government elsewhere on this planet.

And that might even make it a little more bearable.

Halt nuclear testing? It's not that simple

Ernest Conine

Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev, anticipating the explosion of a U.S. nuclear device last week in the face of Soviet calls for a joint test moratorium, warned the Reagan administration not to think of the Soviets as "chickenhearts."

That is good advice. But it is equally important that Gorbachev not be led to believe that we are a nation of simpletons.

From the outset, the Soviet campaign for a comprehensive nuclear-test moratorium has been conducted as a propaganda exercise, not as serious diplomacy.

Last summer's announcement of a self-imposed Soviet moratorium was timed to coincide with the 40th anniversary of the American atomic bombing of Hiroshima. The campaign ended last week with the Soviet cosmonauts protesting U.S. testing plans in a broadcast from the heavens.

The Soviets could not have thought that such showboating would cause President Reagan to change his mind about a test moratorium, but they must be mightily pleased with the political mileage that they gained from the exercise.

The ground had hardly stopped shaking at the Nevada test site last week when some U.S. allies expressed their displeasure. Many Americans have been persuaded that if Reagan would just get onto the moratorium bandwagon, an end to the nuclear-arms race would be at hand.

A total test-ban is indeed an interesting, potentially promising approach to arms control. But the issue is hardly clear-cut. Even a prudently negotiated agreement would involve trade-offs that merit careful, up-front consideration.

The test-ban issue involves two questions — advisability and negotiability. Take advisability first.

The administration's resistance to a comprehensive test ban is based in part on its desire to continue with nuclear-pumped laser experiments for the Strategic Defense Initiative. Many test-ban proponents want a test ban to head off such experiments. But the test-ban would exist if Reagan had never dreamed up "Star Wars."

Some advocates argue that with a test ban, both sides would increasingly lose faith in the reliability of their nuclear stockpiles, and would therefore be tempted to cheat. Other proponents say that a test-ban would not prevent checks on the reliability of nuclear weapons — or even the development of new warheads — through the testing of non-nuclear components. Both arguments cannot be true.

Assuming that a permanent test ban would slow the crush of nuclear-weapons technology, is that advisable? The standard answer is yes, but there are dissenters.

Albert Wohlstetter is a pre-eminent defense expert who has spent much of his career arguing that nuclear weapons should be designed to kill as few people as possible commensurate with their military purpose. If a total test ban had been in existence since 1957, he says, there would be no "permissive action links" — designed to protect against unauthorized firing of nuclear weapons — nor would we have had the progressive downsizing that has reduced the nuclear yield of U.S. weapons by a factor of 15 since 1957. He argues against foreclosing the prospect of more such improvements.

Some experts worry that if each side had less faith in the "reliability" of its nuclear weapons, significant cuts in the size of the arsenals might actually be harder to negotiate because both powers would want large stockpiles as a form of insurance.

But let's stipulate that, on balance, the advantages outweigh the disadvantages of a total test ban. Getting one is still a formidable task.

Keep in mind, first, that what may be a convenient time for one side to halt testing is most always inconvenient for the other. Does anybody believe that Gorbachev would have accepted if Reagan had declared a moratorium a year ago and asked the Soviets to join in before they completed their 1985 cycle of tests? As a practical matter the timing, as well as the substance, of a test ban must be negotiated.

Also, a moratorium by nature would be imperfect and not subject to on-site inspections into possible violations. The real need is for a moratorium but for a carefully drawn treaty.

Prof. Henry Kissinger of the University of California, San Diego, who was President

Carter's chief negotiator in the last attempt to get a comprehensive test-ban treaty, warns that a moratorium would not necessarily facilitate an agreement. He believes that the existence of a moratorium would have made his own negotiating efforts more, rather than less, difficult.

Most test-ban discussions leave out the fact that the French, British and Chinese all have their own nuclear arsenals and testing programs. Moscow conceivably would be willing to sign an interim agreement with Washington in the hope that the others could be brought on board later. But it's unlikely that the Soviets would allow the capabilities of their nuclear laboratories to erode while they were finding out.

Finally, administration talk about the need to negotiate adequate verification provisions is, in part, no doubt, a cover for its fundamental lack of interest in a comprehensive test ban at this time. But verification is a real negotiating problem.

Gorbachev has generally offered to accept on-site inspections — where necessary. Most test-ban advocates have managed not to notice the qualification, which means that the Soviets would remain the judge of whether to allow on-site inspection of suspicious seismic disturbances.

This jungle of complications does not justify the abandonment of a comprehensive test ban as an ultimate goal. But it may mean, as York suggests, that it should not be the top arms-control priority.

"A comprehensive test ban is a valid goal," he says, "but I have concluded that it is not a good first step toward true arms control. I don't believe that such an agreement is practical as long as the great powers are so heavily committed to nuclear weapons for their national security."

Arms-control advocates might be better advised to spend their energies on a ban of non-nuclear substitutes for nuclear weapons, and of negotiations concentrating on areas where Reagan and Gorbachev are closer to agreement — major cuts in the nuclear arsenals on both sides.

Defense of power subsidies discharges

WASHINGTON — In his budget message of few weeks ago, President Reagan gave a commendation he made last year and the year before.

He called for a phasing-out of subsidies for the Rural Electrification Administration. Now the REA itself has released some data that strongly support the president's recommendation.

The REA, you will recall, was created in 1935 to bring electric power to the boondocks. At that time, fewer than 5 percent of the nation's farms had electric service. Farm families lived under conditions that seemed almost unimaginable to most Americans today — no electric lights, no radios, no telephones, no water pumps, no flush toilets. Children studied in the evenings by the dim light of kerosene lanterns.

Fifty years have made a tremendous difference in rural America, and the REA cooperatives can take much credit for the change. Today almost 99 percent of all farms have electric power available to them. Except for a few isolated areas in Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, Nevada, Wyoming, Montana and the Dakotas, the job is effectively done.

The job is done, but the subsidies go on — and the subsidies have become patently indefensible. Over the past 10 years, more than 80 percent of the $3.4 billion in subsidized REA loans have not gone to "rural" areas at all. These loans have not helped farm families. They have benefited suburbanites. What sense does that make?

The REA cites chapter and verse. In the wealthy ski resort areas of Aspen, Vail, Colo., the Holy Cross Electric Association of Glenwood Spokane recently obtained a 6 percent loan of $13.7 million. The proceeds will hook up 8,000 urban customers whose connections, on average, are only 250 feet apart.

Down in Florida, the Lee County Electric Cooperative of North Fort Myers obtained five loans between 1980 and 1984 totaling $42.4 million. Were these for "rural" electrification? Not at all. They were to serve 35,000 city folks at the rate of 22 connections per mile of line.

In the Atlanta area, seven REA cooperatives obtained 24 loans between 1983 and 1985. The loans totaled $140 million. Were these to serve peanut farmers and hog producers? Bosh. They were to serve 66,300 non-urban consumers.

Same thing in Dallas. Four REA cooperatives last year got $27.3 million in loans to serve 17,300 suburban customers. Same thing in Tampa. The Withlacoochee Electric Cooperative doesn't serve the horny-handed sons of toil; it serves 100,000 customers in "retirement subdivisions, commercial strip and shopping centers." Near Conway, S.C., the Myrtle Beach Golf and Yacht Club is expected to develop about 4,000 living units within the next four to six years. Where will these folks get their power? From the Horry Electric Cooperative, that's where, and Horry will finance its expansion through a 5 percent federal loan.

This is nuts. In 1985, only 24 loans amounting to $58.4 million went to rural electrification cooperatives that serve predominantly rural families. All other loans, amounting to $477 million, went to cooperatives in high density urban or suburban areas. The largest recipients of REA loans today are in the prosperous areas of Florida, Texas, the Gulf Coast and the Mid-Atlantic states. The service they provide and the rates they charge mirror the service of tax-paying private, investor-owned utilities.

It's time to call a halt. The Reagan administration has made a sensible proposal that these subsidies be gradually reduced in 1987-89 and phased out entirely in 1990. New loans from now on would carry the Treasury's 8 1/8 percent interest for long-term money plus 1/4 percent. Because a few isolated pockets remain in genuinely rural America, perhaps a subsidy could be continued for hookups in the range of three to five connections per mile. Otherwise, the plug that connects the REA to the Treasury ought to be pulled.

My guess is that the 10 million co-op consumers, for the most part, would voice little objection. They would merely feel the higher interest costs in their bills for electric power. The REA's professional lobbyists would scream, of course, but many co-op members would gladly be relieved of living in part on federal welfare.

True American hero gone

Pete and Charlene, I salute you! Peter M. Busch, you lived and you died as a true American hero!

Charlene, you represented the best in American public school teaching in Idaho, especially when the teachers often work under negative and trying circumstances.

May the Lord rest your precious souls in peace.

this love and beauty.

Our government has proven over and over through the continuation of the arms race (which will lead only to total destruction) that its concerns are not life and its continuation. At present our government is run by a military industrial complex whose motives are greed and power. This is our government but only when we the people choose to exercise our responsibilities in directing that government can serve us in a positive way. Is it our desire that our government destroy us all?

The Russian government eight months ago took a giant step toward a more peaceful and secure world by stopping testing of nuclear weapons and invited us to join them.

Our government's response is one of mistrust and arrogance and has chosen to continue testing and accelerating the arms race. We are forcing Russia to resume their testing and furthering world tension.

Millions around the world oppose our government's actions and our government imposes economic and political pressure to force them into compliance in their insane need to dominate and control the world through military power so a few can have billions while masses starve.

My wife and myself have been involved in action at the Nevada Test Site and witnessed people from all over this country and other countries willing to face jail, financial and physical uncertainty in their efforts to halt testing and direct our government toward a more positive direction in dealing with other countries and our differences.

I don't have the answers to a world beyond nuclear testing and war, but know if we don't find them there will be nothing left of our world.

I am committed with all my energies and resources to finding a way and believe Einstein's warning of 40 years ago that if we don't develop a new way of thinking and acting in the use of nuclear weapons we will destroy ourselves and this earth.

If you are 70 or 80 years of age, there is a slim chance you may die an unnatural death, but what of your children and grandchildren? Do you know or will you even think of their pain and suffering in a nuclear war?

Are we so sick that through our apathy and fear we are willing to destroy all the love, beauty and hope of this planet?

I believe we have a responsibility to ensure the continuation of this planet and life. Will you join my wife, Mary, and myself in facing these dangers in our world today and finding a path of action to change the present course toward total destruction?

Rate proposal outrageous

I am a housewife with four children, age 8 and up, and have lived in Idaho most of my life. Our family lives in here.

It has come to my attention that Idaho Power wants to raise their rates by something like 27 percent! This is outrageous!

It is difficult enough to pay the bills now; how can they justify this move?

Idaho Power's stocks doubled or split, which in laymen's terms means they doubled their money.

As a personal opinion, I feel that they have a lot of money wanting to make more money hand-over-fist while expecting the public to accept this without question.

Well, this citizen wants people to know what is going on. It is coming out of our pockets!

If you find this as unjustified as I do, please attend the IPU hearing at 7:30 p.m. April 29, at the Holiday Inn.

Try common sense first

The housewife — spirit of the home, husbands — family protector, doctors — the books and common sense, lawyers — the books and fight from wrong, teen-agers — the future, all mankind — we need books and common sense. One without the other makes no sense.

Without common sense the books are no good.

Without common sense each role we all perform in life would be incomplete.

Without common sense we would be strictly by the book could be hurtful and even disastrous to mankind.

There is one book that has all the ingredients to make a complete book.

It does a fool no good to spend money on an education, because he has no common sense.

He cared about the whole

During my many years as an activist on local, state and national issues, I came to know personally, or through their work, a great many Idaho politicians. There were very few that through the words and actions earned my genuine respect. One that did was Pete Busch.

Pete was one of those rare politicians that cared about the whole, that was not in it as the patsy of some special interest or for his own selfish ends. He was a man with the courage to "say I like it is" and with the good humor not to let them get him down.

That Idahoans didn't have the good sense to replace James McClure in the U.S. Senate with the likes of Pete Busch was a real mistake.

Lawmakers did a good job

Our legislators are to be commended. They did a good job under very trying conditions. They tried to keep the cost of state government down when it needed to be held in check.

This is no time for tax increases. Agriculture is hard hit. Witness the demise of Savage Ranches, Jones Feed Lot and dozens of others. Mining and timber interests in the north Idaho are waging a battle to survive.

It's tough all over. An exam was held recently for positions in the post office. Over four hundred guys showed up to take the four-hour apt. Two lousy guys working for the U.S. mail.

So Terry Gilbert and his bunch are whining, "Good-bye Terry."

Congratulations to the six local legislators who got the negative vote from Koutnik, Hartgen, Hartgen, et al. I'm proud of you. You are lucky! If they were working for you, well, that would be like the kiss of death.

If you take a good look at this "committee" you will see that they are really Democrats trying to dress like Republicans.

Thanks for event support

On behalf of the Sawtooth PTO, we would like to publicly thank and congratulate the students and teachers of Sawtooth School for their help and participation in our recent "Spell-A-Thon" fund-raiser.

Through the tremendous effort and hard work of those who participated, we were able to raise over $10,000 for Sawtooth School.

Special thanks to McDonald's and Twin Falls Printing for their support and to the many parents, friends and neighbors in our community who supported this fund-raiser.

Senior concert excellent

Congratulations to the Twin Falls High School music students and instructors. The 1986 Senior Recognition Concert on April 2 was excellent. With the wind blowing the way it was, even Pocatello heard a command performance.

The concert was a delightful surprise. I happened to be in Twin Falls and went looking for the College of Southern Idaho (CSI) recognition rehearsal. Instead, I found the recognition concert. All the performances were very good, but I especially enjoyed the Madrigals. Thanks Jim (your daughter is wonderful) for talking me into staying!

Your resident talent is surpassed only by your generosity. If the wind ever stops blowing, I'd consider moving there.

A step toward destruction

Feel a sense of urgency as we are moments away from total world destruction and people seem unaware and unconcerned. Do your home, family, loved ones and country mean nothing to you? Don't we bear some responsibility for the continuation of this earth and life? It is spring, look at the new life coming forth. Through apathy and resignation we are choosing to destroy all

Hofmann placed at building

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Documents dealer Mark Hofmann was identified in court Monday as having carried a package into a downtown building where a bomb blast killed his friend and business associate.

Bruce L. Passey testified that he saw Hofmann enter the office building about an hour and a half before Steven L. Christensen picked up a brown package in front of his office and triggered a pipe bomb.

Passey was the first witness in a preliminary hearing to determine whether Hofmann will stand trial on two counts of first-degree murder in a pair of fatal bombings Oct. 15.

Fifth Circuit Court Judge Paul Grant will decide whether there is probable cause to try Hofmann in the deaths of Christensen and Kathleen Sheets, wife of Christensen associate Gary Sheets. Mrs. Sheets was killed in a blast in the driveway of her home when she picked up a package addressed to her husband about three hours after the first explosion.

Prosecutors contend Hofmann planted the booby-trap bombs to kill Christensen and Sheets, both Mormon bishops and church history buffs, because he feared they had learned of an alleged scheme to defraud the Mormon Church and others with fake historical documents relating to the church.

Hofmann's document discoveries, many considered spectacular finds, had forced historians to reconsider early Mormon history because several manuscripts contradicted official accounts of the church's origins.

Hofmann, 31, also is charged with 30 counts of fraud, theft by deception and bomb-making.

Mrs. Sheets husband, J. Gary Sheets, testified that he saw nothing unusual outside his home when he left for work that morning. Mrs. Sheets was killed when she walked across her driveway and picked up a package addressed to her husband, triggering a second pipe bomb.

Gary Sheets said he left his home about 7:55 a.m. on the morning of Oct. 15 to take his son, Jimmy, to volleyball practice.

What's what

No bird is really blue. None produces blue pigment. What you see when you see a blue bird is the light that bounces off the bird's true pigment... It absorbs all the rays except blue.

Butterflies were named not for the color of their wings but for the color of their excrement.

Sugar plantation bosses in the Fiji Islands brought in a lot of Indian laborers from India. Today there are more Indians on Fiji than Fijians.

Your eyes see the scenery upside down. It's your brain that flips it over.

Q. What do gardeners mean by "black frost"?

A. Frozen moisture from inside the plant. That's the deadliest sort. Frost from outside moisture tends to insulate.

A clerk, it's said, is one who proclaims information, and nationwide now 70 percent of us who work for pay are clerks.

RATS!

Q. What proportion of the new companies - nationwide - now are started up by women?

A. A third. Did you know 12,000 new companies crop up every week now? That's never happened before, but phenomenally high count, I mean.

Automation is such now that one person can take care of 100,000 chickens at a time.

Q. What do gardeners mean by "black frost"?

A. Frozen moisture from inside the plant. That's the deadliest sort. Frost from outside moisture tends to insulate.

Whereabouts of this tombstone I do not know, but the picture clearly shows this inscription: "Here I lie between two of the best women in the world; my wives. / But I have requested / my relatives tip me / a little toward Philie."

Say the Scots: " 'Tis cheaper to borrow money than to marry for it."

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A confusing and complex day. The morning is good for making big plans where home, family, property are concerned. Arguments may ensue and feelings may get hurt.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19): Talk over some interest with family that could bring big profit for all, but later avoid a rift with an important person.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): Associates and friends can be very helpful during the day. Don't take on any interests yet.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Spend whatever is necessary to improve conditions at work and forget some secret anxiety. Attend some civic function.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): The morning can be enjoyable provided you keep out of the way of an irate associate.

LEO (July 22 to August 21): Have a conference with those who dwell with you early in the morning, and later avoid a fellow worker who is irate.

Daily Horoscope

VIRGO (August 22 to September 22): See a friend who can give you fine suggestions to gain your ambitions, and later don't go off on any tangents.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22): Look to an expert for assistance with some monetary problems, but don't let a close tie interfere.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21): Some new outlet can be your best now and can make headway in your career. Have fun tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21): You can come to a far better understanding with your mate today, but then tighten your purse strings.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20): Talk future plans over with an outside partner in the morning, but later don't lose your temper with anyone.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19): Get your work done efficiently early in the day, and then don't take on any unnecessary new burdens.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20): Confer with a successful person who has fine ideas for you to follow. This can be a banner day for you.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be clever early in life to use the home as a base for making good friends of influential persons. The ambition to get ahead in life manifests itself very early, so be sure to plan now for a good education.

Reagan criticizes House 'subterfuge'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, decrying a plan to let Nicaraguan rebel aid to a broader House spending bill, said Monday help for the Contras is jeopardized by congressional "subterfuge and backroom deals."

While Reagan lambasted a plan by House Democrats to include his $100 million aid proposal in a controversial $17 billion supplemental appropriations bill for the current budget year, House Minority Leader Robert Michel, R-Ill., accused Democrats of using their majority power to play pork-barrel politics with U.S. foreign policy at stake.

On the one hand, House consideration of the volatile Nicaraguan aid issue, Michel and Republican whip Trent Lott of Mississippi introduced an alternative set of procedures under which the two measures — the Contra aid plan and the supplemental appropriations bill — could be considered separately.

This set the stage for a conflict when debate on Reagan's proposal to arm and supply the Contra forces opens on the House floor this afternoon. A final vote on the issue might not come until Wednesday or Thursday, however.

Reagan and Secretary of State George Shultz pleaded anew for approval of the aid program, which was passed by the Republican-dominated Senate last month after an initial defeat in the House of Representatives.

In a speech to the Associated General Contractors of America here, Reagan, pressing for passage of the aid proposal, said, "The Sandinista government is not a duly elected chosen government. It's a gang that took over by force."

Shultz, in a speech to some 1,700 students at Kansas State University, said approval of aid for the Contras could have the effect of easing tensions between the United States and the Soviet Union.

60 arrested in Capitol protest over Contra aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Police on Monday arrested nearly 60 people who chose the Capitol Rotunda site of Martin Luther King Jr.'s bust to protest sending $100 million for rebels fighting the Nicaraguan government.

Fifty-seven people were arrested after they refused to end their protest vigil near the monument to King, the slain civil rights leader who two decades earlier had opposed U.S. involvement in Vietnam.

Those arrested were among scores of protestors, including religious groups and Vietnam veterans, who sought to condemn Reagan's proposal on moral and practical grounds. The protest came on the eve of a vote in the House of Representatives on the administration's plan to furnish millions in military and other assistance to the Contras — or counterrevolutionaries — fighting the government of Daniel Ortega in Managua, Nicaragua.

All 57 who were arrested were being charged with unlawful entry, authorities said, and were being processed at the city jail.

White House honors Teacher of Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Guy R. Doud, a 32-year-old high school English teacher from Brainerd, Minn., who credits his own teachers with transforming his life, was honored Monday at the White House as the 1986 Teacher of the Year.

Doud told a news conference, "They were the ones that challenged me, that stimulated me, that showed me that with transforming his life, was someone other than my mother could love me."

President Reagan presented Doud with a crystal apple during a ceremony honoring the teacher.

Suspect joint from shuttle shows burns

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A salvage ship has found a section of the rocket joint whose failure is blamed for the explosion of shuttle Challenger, and it shows evidence of burning, the presidential shuttle commission said Monday.

The piece, which could be vital to the investigation, was pulled from the floor of the Atlantic Ocean about 40 miles northeast of here by the Stena Workhorse after a robot submarine attached lift lines to it.

The retrieval was made at 5 a.m. Sunday in 500 feet of water, the Navy said.

A statement by commission Chairman William P. Rogers said, "One of the two sections of critical interest" was recovered and that it was from the joint area where a leak in the right booster rocket is thought to have occurred, causing the shuttle's explosion on Jan. 28.

"A burnt out area of the joint long at about the '300' position is evident," the statement said.

The other key piece, the bottom of the joint, has not been located but is believed to be in the same area.

Investigators have said the accident that killed seven astronauts was caused by a failure in this joint. But they don't know exactly how it failed, and they feel that by recovering the part containing the joint they may find out.

Helicopter, plane collide; four killed

HOLLISTON, Mass. (AP) — A helicopter and a small plane collided Monday in a cloudless sky, killing the four people in the helicopter, authorities said.

"The plane went one way, the rotor went another, and the helicopter fell right out of the sky," said Bernie Doherty, a witness.

The victims were employees of a high-technology company, Millipore Corp. of Bedford, which uses helicopters to shuttle employees to a subsidiary in nearby Millis.

Stalin's daughter to return

MOSCOW (AP) — Josef Stalin's daughter, who defected 19 years ago but returned in 1984 declaring that she had not been happy for a single day, said Monday she is about to leave for the West again. Miss Alluyeva, 59, told The Associated Press by telephone that she and her American-born daughter, Olga Peters, had permission to leave the country and she hoped to go before the end of April. She spoke from a Moscow hotel reserved for officials and important government guests.

Horowitz welcomed 'home'

MOSCOW (AP) — Vladimir Horowitz, the patriarch of classical pianists who left his homeland 61 years ago saying he wouldn't return, had a flower-filled reunion with Russia Monday and declared he wanted to be an ambassador of peace. He said he had a message for his former countrymen "that I will deliver with my piano."

Ex-Marcos police fire on backers

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Anti-riot police once loyal to Ferdinand E. Marcos fired into a stone-throwing crowd of the ex-president's supporters Monday.

One person was killed, hospital officials reported. They said some 60 people, including 18 policemen, were injured in the fighting at the City Hall in the Manila suburb of San Juan.

The battle occurred several hours before pro-Marcos legislators met in a Manila office building and declared they had reopened the abolished National Assembly.

In the first major confrontation between police and demonstrators opposed to President Corazon Aquino, 60 police charged into nearly 1,000 people blockading the San Juan City Hall.

The demonstrators were protesting the government's huster of Joseph Estrada, a movie star and Marcos loyalist, as the mayor of San Juan.

Mrs. Aquino, at a meeting with military commanders Friday, asked them to show maximum tolerance for the demonstrators, according to presidential spokesman Rene Saguisag.

Meanwhile, the chief prosecutor in the case involving the 1983 assassination of Mrs. Aquino's husband, ex-Sen. Benigno Aquino, formally accused Marcos of interfering with the trial. Prosecutor Manuel Herrera made the allegation in an affidavit filed with the Supreme Court, which is considering overturning the verdict acquitting 25 military officers and one civilian. Aquino, considered Marcos' main rival, was slain at the Manila airport as he returned from self-exile in the United States.

City commission to probe cable complaints

By ANNETTE CARY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls City Council will be signing a cable service resolution issued by former mayor Chris Talkington to handle complaints brought against the cable company he now manages.

The city has also contacted state and federal officials in regard to residents' complaints concerning a recent price increase and related billing and advertising practices by King Videocable, said City Attorney Shano Bengoechea.

Bengoechea said the issue arose after receiving more calls on the matter than any other since he had been working for the city. City Council members, city staff and state Rep. Donna Scott, R-Twin Falls, also contacted him with complaints they had received, he said.

In addition, he had a personal experience with the company, after it changed its basic service, that contributed to his knowledge of the matter, he said.

King Videocable raised its basic rates to $12.95 a month at the beginning of April and increased the

Caught by surprise, McClusky presides over meeting

By ANNETTE CARY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls City Councilwoman Mary McClusky served as mayor Monday, although not without complaint.

She started the Monday council work session by asking members if they thought it was fair that Mayor Doug Vollmer had not notified her that she, as vice mayor, would be required to conduct the meeting. Vollmer missed the session to play in the Twin Falls Pro-Am golf tournament, other council members said.

"I'm totally unprepared," McClusky said after pulling the meeting to order. "I don't think it's fair to me that nobody communicated to me whatsoever. I don't think it's fair to the public to have this unpreparedness. I just want you to know I can run a meeting better than today."

She said she learned that she was to fill in as the mayor after referring a resident's request Monday morning to Vollmer. The resident called McClusky back that afternoon to tell her that she would be mayor. McClusky then contacted City Manager Tom Courtney that she would lead the meeting, she said.

She received little sympathy from other council members.

"I think you should have talked with Doug before the meeting," said Councilman Rick Coon. He pointed out that this was the first time she had been called upon with little notice.

"I've been mayor more than eight years (on the council) and nothing like this has ever happened before," McClusky responded. "I like to do my work well and be prepared."

Councilman Jim Vickers told her he would have to hear Vollmer's side of the story before commenting.

Councilman Gale Kleinkopf said that usually the staff presents most of the issues discussed at work session, so the lack of notice should not present a major problem. The council also faced little of significance at the session Monday, he said.

McClusky has served as vice mayor since January, when members picked Vollmer to lead the council despite McClusky's interest in the position and her seniority. Monday was the first meeting she conducted. The session proceeded smoothly after her initial remarks.

number of channels available. However, not all television sets will play the additional channels without a converter, or "black box." Complaints concern billing and advertising practices. Bengoechea has been advising residents with complaints to put them in writing and submit them with any supporting evidence to City Hall. Complaints should include the name, address and phone number of the cable subscriber; a description of the complaint; and a statement of what solution the subscriber seeks. A Cable Service Review Commission, established under Talkington's cable commission this year because he had been low complaints in the past, will take up the matter, he said. He has already received three. However, the council is expected to appoint a commission next expecting more, he said. The council did not establish a cable commission this year because there had been few complaints in the past, Bengoechea said. City Manager Tom Courtney said he has already received three. However, the council is expected to appoint a commission next week. The Federal Communications Commission has delegated the authority to regulate certain aspects of local cable television operations, according to a resolution signed by Talkington.

The resolution passed by the council in 1984 gives the Cable Service Review Commission little direct authority, however. The commission is charged with reviewing complaints and recommending appropriate action to the council, King Videocable, the cable subscriber, and the FCC. It also is required to mediate disputes between subscribers and the company.

Councilman Gale Kleinkopf said that in the two times he had served on the commission, its recommendations were accepted by the subscribers and the company. The commission basically restored communication between the parties, he said.

Talkington was not available at his home after the Monday work session and could not be reached for comment.

Fund-raising effort for new shuttle getting off ground

The Associated Press

BURLEY — A Burley man says he feels one step closer to his goal of spearheading what he calls the "world's largest fund-raiser" — a drive to raise money to build a new space shuttle.

Mark Grigg testified last week before the House Subcommittee on Space Science and Applications on a bill that would allow the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to accept private donations for a shuttle to replace Challenger, which exploded Jan. 28, killing seven crew members.

Grigg is secretary of Reach for the Stars 89, a newly formed California corporation that plans to raise $1.3 billion by 1989 to build Challenger II. He said a similar bill has been proposed in the Senate.

Grigg became involved in the national effort after being contacted by the corporation's president, Mike Webber, a civil engineer from Ventura, Calif. Webber has been in the national news media about Grigg's own efforts to raise money for a new shuttle.

"It sounds like a lot of money. I think it's the world's biggest fund-raising effort ever bigger than the Statue of Liberty's. But, if every person in the country would contribute $2 per year over a three-year period, we could raise about $2 billion," he said.

The nation's schools are included in the group's plans. Each school raising $1 per student will be designated a "shuttle school" and will be given an 18-inch model of the shuttle and a plaque for its trophy case, Grigg said.

Schools raising $2 or more per student will receive a hanging glider shuttle model, he said.

Although the corporation's school program will not be started officially until next fall, Paul Elementary School already has raised about $400 — more than half the funds it needs to become one of the nation's first "shuttle schools," said Grigg, who owns a Burley electronics store.

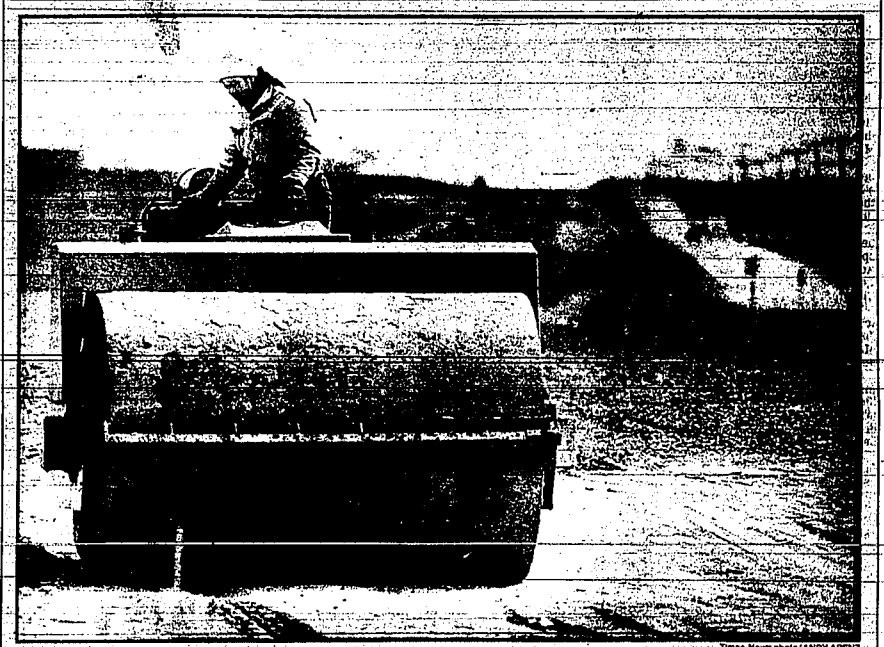

Reach for the Stars plans to solicit donations from corporations, civic organizations and "Joe Blow public," Grigg said.

Because other nations have been involved in the space shuttle missions, the organization also hopes to solicit contributions worldwide.

Grigg said there have been about 30,000 product spinoffs from the space program, which receives about 1 percent of the national budget. Those products include Teflon, the protective coating being applied to the Statue of Liberty to keep it from rusting; better computer chips; and improved medical technology.

"For every dollar spent on the space program, we benefit over $7 in return," he said.

If the organization succeeds in raising money for a new space shuttle, Grigg envisions it becoming a private foundation organization that can supplement NASA's funds, especially in the event of budget cuts.

Sex-crime suspects enter pleas

By PAT MARCANTONIO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Two people accused of sexually molesting a total of six children entered different pleas Monday in 5th District Court in Twin Falls.

Dave E. Diffendaffer, 37, of 544 Blue Lakes Blvd. in Twin Falls pleaded innocent to three felony counts of lewd conduct with a minor under 16 years old.

Diffendaffer is accused of molesting a minor girl several times between March 1, 1983, and March 1, 1985, and another girl sometime between Jan. 1, 1985, and Feb. 14, 1985, and molesting a different minor girl sometime between Sept. 1, 1984, and Sept. 1, 1985, according to a complaint filed with the court.

The case will be scheduled for trial. The charge of lewd conduct carries, upon conviction, a maximum sentence of imprisonment.

Diffendaffer had been held in the Twin Falls County jail since his arrest. He was released Monday on his own recognizance by Judge Daniel Meehl at the request of defense attorney Terry Johnson, and with no objection from Twin Falls County Prosecutor K. Ellen Baxter.

Johnson had asked the judge to release Diffendaffer to a private psychiatric hospital in Twin Falls for 90 days of evaluation and treatment.

Jerome man files for Callen's seat

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

JEROME — Neil Weir of Jerome, who has been involved in agriculture in Magic Valley since 1947, filed his nominating petition in Boise Monday for Idaho House seat A in District 25.

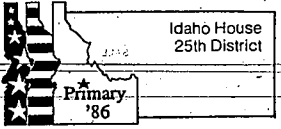

Weir is seeking the Democratic Party's nomination in the eight-county electoral district for the position now held by Jerome County Republican Jerry Callen.

Floralist District 25 includes the counties of Camas, Blaine, Lincoln, Minidoka, Cassia, Twin Falls, Jerome and Gooding.

Weir, who ran four years ago for a House seat on the Republican ticket, said he wants to represent the Democratic party and feels that a two-party system is needed in the Idaho Legislature.

He ran in 1982 to unseat Gordon Hillfield, but stepped down, after Wade Markens, a Jerome Republican, filed for the same seat, Weir said. He then swung his support to Markens, who went on to become the winner.

Weir is especially concerned about the lack of financial support given to education and agriculture — two critical areas in Idaho's future. "I have always supported Cecil Andrus and in the past elected him a staunch supporter for Richard Stallings. Because of this I have not had much support from the Republican Party," Weir said. "On the other hand, I have met with Democratic party leaders in the eight counties of the district and have been assured of their support."

Idaho House 25th District

"I think the largely Republican Legislature has proven this year and in the past few years that it is not in tune with the needs of agriculture, education and other factors in Idaho," Weir said. "The same thing holds true for the party on the national level."

Weir said he feels that with the heavy Republican majority in the Idaho Legislature, it is not possible to accomplish the needs of these and other interests in the state.

"I am not saying I am for a lottery, but I am saying the people of the state should have a chance to at least vote on the issue," Weir said.

Weir also criticized the Legislature for failing to face up to tax reform and for not having the courage to establish a 5-percent sales tax on a permanent basis.

Weir said his affiliation with farming since 1947 has included operating farms in Minidoka, Jerome and Twin Falls counties. He served on the original board of directors for the Bell Rapids Project, and was chairman of the Sprinkler Irrigators of Idaho, a group formed to legalize Mexican laborers to help meet the needs of farmers in the state who depend on sprinkler irrigation.

Weir also served as chairman of the Regional Airport Board in the Magic Valley area, and is a retired Idaho National Guard regimental air officer.

Sullivan makes another bid for Legislature

By DEAN MILLER
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Calling for an end to "far right" domination of the Idaho Legislature and support for the state's economy, Fairfield Democrat Eugene Sullivan announced Monday he will once again seek election to the House from District 22.

Sullivan lost a 1984 race for the seat to Rep. Gary Robbins, a Dietrich Republican who is now running for Congress. District 22 includes Blaine, Camas, Gooding,

Idaho House 22nd District and Lincoln counties. "We haven't participated in the national recovery... and I don't see that we're doing anything about it," the 54-year-old teacher and restaurant owner said Monday.

"The Republicans are all going down there with their own private agendas instead of dealing with problems," he said. Among those agendas are attacks on teachers and on the Idaho Education Association, said Sullivan.

To stimulate growth, the state should be spending between $1 million and $2 million through the state Department of Commerce to develop new markets and attract new businesses, Sullivan said. "I think we need to

Spraying of wastes unimpeded

By BOB FREUND

JEROME — Jerome County will not require cheese or other processing plants to obtain special permission for sprinkling agricultural wastes on their land.

Acting on a proposal by the county's Planning and Zoning Commission, the county commissioners Monday rejected the idea of submitting property owners to special-use permits for disposing of the wastes by irrigation.

In a short decision, the commissioners said the permits "would be unnecessarily duplicative of other state law and other agencies now existing."

The Idaho Division of Environment regulates groundwater pollution, a major concern about the sprinkling, regional Director Mike McManis had written to Jerome County officials while the matter was in public hearings.

The change has been a side issue in the county's consideration of a new cheese factory southeast of Jerome. It would have required Mountain Empire Dairymen's Association to obtain a permit for disposing of whey from the proposed plant on part of their land.

The zoning commission had suggested special use permits for the sprinkling in most zones in agricultural zones, the sprinkling

Teen allegedly takes dealer for ride — theft charge filed

TWIN FALLS — A teen-ager was charged Monday with allegedly stealing a sports car she had taken out for a test drive.

Vicki Ann Greenup, 18, of 1616 Poplar Ave. in Twin Falls, faces two felony counts of grand theft, and a felony count of forgery, according to Magistrate Court in Twin Falls.

Greenup is accused of stealing a 1982 Trans-Am Nov. 6, 1985, from Frontier Motors in Twin Falls. According to a court record, Greenup borrowed the car for a test drive and never returned.

Greenup also is accused of stealing several items, including stereos, equipment and clothing, from former live-in companion Matthew Golden on Nov. 6, 1985.

The suspect allegedly forged a $350 check to Video West Nov. 4, 1985. The check belonged to Golden.

Pleas

After the three-month period, Diefenderfer will be returned to court to determine conditions of release pending trial.

In a separate case, 35-year-old Barbara Montague pleaded guilty to a charge she had sexual relations with a minor boy during a "sex game" two years ago.

Montague, also known as Barbara Abbott, originally was charged with three counts of lewd conduct. She was accused of participating in a game called "Truth and Dare" with two minor boys and a minor girl, according to a complaint filed against the woman. The alleged incidents took place between June 1, 1984, and July 31, 1984.

Under the terms of a plea agreement with the Twin Falls County prosecutor's office, Montague pleaded guilty to one of the charges. In exchange, the prosecutor's office will drop the two other lewd-conduct charges and another felony charge of lewd conduct.

When Meehl asked Montague about the incident to which she was pleading guilty, she said she couldn't remember anything.

Baxter said that if the case had gone to trial, the children would have testified about Montague's participation in the "games." Meehl accepted the guilty plea.

dismissed the other charges and told Montague she reserved the right to order, at sentencing, any restitution for the check. He also ordered a pre-sentence investigation of Montague, who was being held in Twin Falls County Jail in lieu of a $25,000 bond.

In a related case, the woman's former live-in companion will go to trial April 29 on three counts of lewd conduct with a minor. Dennis Eugene Abbott, 25, also is accused of participating in the sex games with the children and forcing the youngsters to touch each other, according to a complaint filed with the court.

Abbott pleaded innocent to the charges last month.

Guy S. Simons
JEROME — Guy S. Simons, 101, of Jerome, died Sunday in Twin Falls.

Born Dec. 1, 1884, in Rowena, S.D., he married Ida Moler Sept. 9, 1906, in Omaha. They lived in Sterling and Denver, Colo., and Salt Lake City before moving to Jerome in 1935. Mrs. Simons died June 26, 1983, and he married Florence M. Cutright Jan. 11, 1967, in Jerome.

He was cashier of Farmers National Bank in Jerome, and was with the Stockyards National Bank in Denver, in 1924. He joined the Maytag Intermountain Co. in Denver as office manager, and later moved to Salt Lake City as department manager. In Jerome, he was a partner in the Simons-White Appliance Co., and the Jerome Finance Co. He served as director of the Jerome National Bank and was Jerome City Clerk for 12 years.

Mr. Simons was a member of the Jerome Toastmasters Club, serving as treasurer for 21 years. He was a past state president of the Idaho Crippled Children's Society, and during World War II, he was in charge of the Office of Price Administration. He had served as Jerome County chairman of the Republican Party for 12 years, as well as county chairman of the American Red Cross. He was a past president of the Jerome Rotary Club and was secretary for 17 years. He also had been active in the Jerome Kiwanis Club.

He had been a member of the Masonic Lodge for 72 years, was a member of the York Rite and of El Korah Shrine Temple in Boise. Mr. Simons was a 76-year member of the Order of Eastern Star and had been Associate Guardian for Job's Daughters.

Surviving are: his wife of Jerome; a son, Blaine M. Simons of Salt Lake City; two grandsons, Blaine H. and Richard H. Simons, both of Salt Lake City; and three great-grandchildren. A funeral will be held today at 1 p.m. in the Hove-Robertson Funeral Chapel in Jerome, with the Jerome Masonic Lodge officiating. Burial will be in Sunset Memorial Cemetery in Salt Lake City. Graveside rites will be conducted Thursday by Mt. Moriah No. 2 Masonic Lodge.

Friends may call at the Hove-Robertson Funeral Chapel in Jerome today from 9:30 until noon.

The family suggests memorial contributions to the Jerome United Methodist Church Memorial Fund.

business groups have supported without convincing the Legislature, he said.

Though he is a math and science teacher in the Camas County School District, he said he will, if elected, represent more than a teacher's viewpoint. "Almost all our representatives come from one direction. They may be in education or they may be in business, but they are not from both."

Sullivan owns Sullivan's Country Kitchen in Fairfield.

Because of his two jobs and his past jobs in union and management at Alcoa Aluminum in Iowa, he will be able to represent the diverse interests of the four-county district, he said Sullivan.

Wastes

However, the board's support for the idea was lukewarm. "We won't feel bad if it is turned down," official minutes note.

The county commissioners also said the ordinance could have forced some farmers who are not agricultural processors to obtain special permits when their farmland is in an undeveloped commercial-industrial zone. Some farmers mix products with their irrigation water to aid crop growth.

Monday's action does not change existing zoning codes. They have not addressed irrigation of land with agricultural wastes.

County Commission Chairman Cliff Montgomery said the decision will not affect zoning rules regarding the proposed MEDA plant. The commissioners are to rule on the proposed factory in the next three or four weeks, he said.

In other actions Monday, the county commissioners endorsed the purchase of the county's comprehensive plan, saying it "is intended to be used for guidance only, recognizing that current and future land uses will change."

People have been confused over the function of that map and the official zoning map, which shows governmental action, the commissioners said.

The county board also loosened requirements on changing the comprehensive plan. Instead of allowing changes only in January and July, the commissioners said the Jerome County Planning and Zoning Commission can consider changes at any time, but no more often than every six months.

Christian Women set weekend conference

TWIN FALLS — The founder and national chairman of Christian Women's Clubs will speak in Twin Falls this weekend at a three-state area conference to be held at the Holiday Inn.

Helen Duff, Kansas City, Mo., founder of Christian Business and Professional Women and national vice chairman of Christian Women's Clubs, will address the welcome luncheon at 11:30 a.m. Friday. The conference opens with registration at 9 a.m.

A dessert concert is scheduled at 7:30 p.m. Friday featuring Carolyn Bortness, soprano, and Fred Lewis, tenor, in duet. Joey Heldemann, alto, Laurie Ruhter, piano, and Jennifer Hovey, violin.

Mary E. Clark, national chairman of Christian Women's Clubs, will be the devotional speaker at the musical and also will speak at 10:30 a.m. Saturday.

A banquet is scheduled at 6:30 p.m. Saturday with Earle Thomas, industrial hygienist at Colorado State University, Fort Collins, as speaker and Kent Snow, Twin Falls, as soloist.

Leonard Phillips, a village missionary of Stonecroft Ministries, sponsored by the organization, will talk at 9 a.m. Sunday. The conference concludes with Sunday luncheon.

Opal Kirkman, 737-7544, is ticket chairman and Margaret Hiebert, 323-8656, is co-chairman.

The Nelson 4 Bedroom Ranch Loan

Marie wanted a kitchen with lots of windows and counter space. Don dreamed about a little den big enough to hold his easy chair and grandfather's old desk. Andy just wanted a swing set. And the girls... that big yard a puppy needs.

But Don and Marie worried. Their housing costs were already high. How could they even think of buying a new home?

Well, thanks to United First, finding the right home loan was easier than finding the right house.

United First understands the needs of families. We take time to listen and ask questions. That's how we can tailor a home loan with terms and rates families can afford.

That's what we mean by United First teamwork. And it really works. Give us a call or stop by and visit. We'll put United First teamwork to work for you.

Study: Student writing skills in dismal shape

BALTIMORE (AP) — A federally financed survey released Saturday found that 62 percent to 80 percent of American 17-year-olds demonstrated unsatisfactory writing skills, depending on the type of writing tested.

Despite some recent improvements, the 10-year study, which also tested 9- and 13-year-olds, concluded that American students' writing skills remain in dismal shape.

The study, released at a national convention of education writers, said there is "clear cause for concern about the writing proficiency of the nation's students."

"Despite an increased emphasis on writing at all grade levels during the decade, students in 1984 appeared to be only just regaining their 1974 level of proficiency," it said.

The report was issued by the National Assessment of Educational Progress, established by Congress 17 years ago to test how well the nation's schools are doing in various subjects. For 2½ years, NAEP studies have been administered by the private, non-profit Educational Testing Service in Princeton, N.J., but the studies remain federally funded.

The latest survey tested 15,000 9-, 12- and 17-year-olds from around the country in 1984. It compared performance in three kinds of writing — persuasive, informative and imaginative — with students similarly tested in 1979 and 1974. A total of 35,000 students took part in the three assessment years.

Girlfriend, 18, has taken over life of 15-year-old boy, says grandma

DEAR ABBY: My 15-year-old grandson, "Mark," has an 18-year-old girlfriend who has taken over his life.

He is sexually involved with her — with his mother's knowledge and consent. This girl has quit school, quit her job, stolen from her grandparents, and was kicked out of her parents' home, so my daughter-in-law is letting her live with them.

She says this girl is "good" for Mark because he is now getting A's and B's instead of failing, and is not skipping school anymore. My son is not in favor of this setup, but says he feels like an outsider and can't do anything about it.

Meanwhile, it's setting a terrible example for the two younger children in the house.

Please advise the best way to handle this disgusting situation.

NEW MEXICO MESS: DEAR MESS: If this situation is as you have described, the 18-year-old girl can be charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Furthermore, your son and daughter-in-law could be in trouble with the law for aiding and abetting this unlawful situation.

Whether you want to alert the authorities and blow the whistle on your son and his wife is something you should carefully consider. Unless you have proof that the young people are sexually intimate, it might be in the best interest of everyone to back off.

DEAR ABBY: I am the original space cadet. I space things out of my mind very easily. Unfortunately, it's embarrassing and often gets people I'm close to angry with me.

I forget to pick up needed items after work and must return for them after I've arrived at home. I space out doctor's and dentist's appointments, meetings with teachers, school supplies for the kids, commitments to my wife, etc. I am plain unrelatable.

I do remember some things, but it seems there are so many details to remember as part of day-to-day tasks, it's overwhelming! I've tried appointment books and tying strings around my fingers, but I forget to look at my appointment book, and I forget what the string on my finger is supposed to remind me or until it's too late.

I am an intelligent person; I just can't seem to get myself organized. Sometimes when I'm in the shower I will remember two or three things that I must do, but by the time I get out of the shower, and near a pencil and paper to make a note of them, I forget what they were.

Is there any help for me?
—SPACE CADET
DEAR CADET: How long has this been going on? If it's fairly recent, see your physician for a checkup. If you're physically healthy, forget the strings on your fingers and the notes you will never look at until it's too late.

Get professional help. You are creating additional stress by trying to solve this problem alone.

Now, there are just two things to remember: First, make an appointment with a therapist. Then, keep it. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: I'm an attractive 24-year-old woman — single, self-supporting and still looking for "Mr. Right." I met a man last night who was so handsome he nearly took my breath away.

He was also intelligent and a great conversationalist. He's the kind of man I could really be serious about, but here's the problem: He's married, but he said he has an "open marriage."

What should I do?
—MARCIE
DEAR MARCIE: Tell him you have a closed mind — and the answer is no.

Class helps with divorce

FERGUS FALLS, Minn. (AP) — An elementary school program is bringing divorce into the classroom to help children cope with a parental breakup, to express their feelings and maintain friendships during a painful period.

"It made me realize that there were other kids in the same position as me," said 12-year-old Kari Bosh. "We talked about our feelings about divorce and our feelings afterward. It really helped me a lot."

David Eberhardt, and Tamara Masten, school psychologists who began the program a year ago, say too many children falter in their schoolwork and lose touch with friends because of their parents' marital difficulties.

They persuaded the Fergus Falls School Board last year to spend $6,000 on a support program geared toward students between the second and eighth grades from troubled homes.

Guilt is a common feeling among many children who have gone or are going through a divorce, and the children are urged to express it and other emotions, like anger, confusion and fear, Masten said.

Twilight time for Jimmy Connors?

By BOB GREENE
The Associated Press

"I love the people in New York," Jimmy Connors said after winning his fourth U.S. Open men's singles tennis title in 1982. "They may not know a whole lot about something, but they enjoy guys going out there and breaking their backs and spilling their guts."

It was pure Connors, who image is that of a blue-collar worker in a sport considered by many to be country-clubbish. And he has been the most successful man since tennis became open in 1968.

He has won five U.S. Opens — the only person to win America's premier tennis tournament on all three surfaces on which it has been completed, two Wimbledon titles and one Australian Open crown. Since Rod Laver won the Grand Slam in 1969, Connors is the only man to win three of the world's top four tour-

'I have to get in a little better shape. I don't get tired, but I become weary.'

Open. "Connors is fond of saying. But, it was the 33-year-old left-hander who refused to continue play in his semifinal match at the Lipton International Players Championships in February and was ultimately defaulted. For that, he currently is serving a 10-week suspension imposed by the Men's International Professional Tennis Council and had to shell out $25,000 in fines.

It could mean the end for the popular veteran. Connors has not won an official tournament since Oct. 21, 1984, when he captured the $375,000 Seiko Super Tennis Class without dropping a set.

And his losses have come to people like Miloslav Mezir, Greg Holmes and Mike DePalmer. He hasn't won against the top players — Ivan Lendl, John McEnroe and Mats Wilander — in almost two years.

And, probably most revealing, his confidence has sunk so low that he has returned to his old steel racket, a racket that hasn't even been made in years.

"As far as I know, the 10 or so I have are the only ones left. A couple of them — go back to — my first Wimbledon singles win in 1974," he said. A big contract from Wilson had helped Connors make the move to a midsize racket that could be sold to the public.

With it, he played one of the most exciting matches of the 1984 U.S. Open when he took McEnroe to five sets before losing in the semifinals. It was right after that, again with the midsize, Connors won the Seiko in Tokyo, his 10th career tournament crown, the most of any man.

It also was his last title. He fell to the Czechoslovakian Mezir in the semifinals of the U.S. Pro Indoors at Philadelphia in 1985. His next tournament, the U.S. Indoors at Memphis, Tenn., may have signaled the beginning of the end. Connors began the tournament with his midsize racket. After a close victory, he switched back to the old "steelie," again narrowly winning. His next match saw him return to the midsize, but then it was back again to the T-2000, the racket he was using when he fell to Sweden's Stefan Edberg in the semifinals and the racket he's using to this day.

In 1985, Connors reached the semis at three Nabisco Grand Prix tournaments, a major factor in his retaining his No. 4 world computer ranking. But, with the exception of Edberg, whom he beat in the quarterfinals of the French-Open and in the fourth round of the U.S. Open, he had relatively easy draws. And when he did run into Lendl or McEnroe or Kevin Curren, it was Connors who failed to advance.

Quiet man But Jerome's Sheets could end big year with big noise

By RON GATES
Times-News writer

JEROME — Jerome High senior Torrey Sheets has been through a football season during which his team won the state Class A-2 championship and a basketball campaign in which he was the Tigers' leading scorer and an all-conference selection in two different leagues. But what he's really looking for is a chance to spend a weekend in Boise next month.

"It's a chance to double up as a state champion," he says of the Idaho High School Track and Field Championships. Sheets was both an Associated Press and Idaho Statesman all-state selection at both cornerback and wide receiver — "as good a receiver as there is in the state of Idaho" — I don't care what anybody says," comments Jon Jans, the football coach and athletic director at Jerome High School.

Sheets' present goal is to win the South-Central Idaho Conference and District 4 competition. Last year's state title performance in the 800-meter run at the state meet — and possibly anchor the Tigers' medley and mile relay teams to victory for good measure.

Three-sport letterman — he also plays American Legion baseball — Sheets started as a forward on the basketball team for three years. "I think that as far as the coaching staff is concerned, he shows all the kind of qualities that you'd like to see in your own son," says Jerome basketball Coach Ben Allen. "Torrey is a real low profile. I don't think he knows how good he really is. He led the team in scoring with around 14 points per game but he did a lot more for us than that."

He's a good rebounder and plays super defense. From his association as Sheets' coach in track, Jerome High's Tim Dunne concurs.

"I'm very impressed with him. He's quiet, very competitive kid. Sometimes he's quiet to the point of not telling the coaches he has an injury and just goes ahead and runs with it. He's not only talented but very coachable as well. Although he's one of the top kids I've ever been around." The strong feelings expressed See SHEETS on Page C2

WHS benefit game tonight

WENDELL — The Wendell High School coaches and faculty will take on the Wendell seniors in a benefit basketball game tonight. The contest, scheduled for 7 p.m. in the Wendell High gym, is to benefit the Wendell High athletic program. The Wendell High drill team will perform at halftime. Admission is $1 per person except for pre-schoolers, who will be admitted free.

Babe Ruth tryouts slated

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Babe Ruth League will hold tryouts on Saturday at Harmon Park. Tryouts for 13-year-olds will be held from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. Prospective 14- and 15-year-old players will try out from 11 a.m. until noon. Players in the 14-15 age group whose status has been frozen after earlier tryouts need not try out Saturday. Further information can be obtained by phoning 734-4292.

Sage gymnasts win big

BOISE — The Sage Gymnastics' Class III girls' teams took top honors in a meet here last weekend at Wings Gymnastics. Sage finished in first place, followed by Wings and Gem State Academy. The Sage girls' took first place in every event, including an all-around championship by Amber Doi and a first-place finish by Doi in floor exercise, vault and parallel bars. Five grapplers qualify MORELAND — Five Magle Valley Juniors wrestlers have qualified for the USA Wrestling Western Junior Regional Championships. Burkley Willmore and Jeff G. Lahto took first places in freestyle wrestling in their divisions of the Idaho USA Junior tournament, held over two weekends at Meridian High School in Meridian and at Snake River High School here. Willmore finished first in the 121-pound 15-16-year-old division, while Lahto took first place in the 13-14-year-old 115-pound class. Lahto also took first place in his weight/age class in Greco-Roman wrestling. Alan Wins finished second in the 15-16-year-old 149½-pound division, while Mike Conover took third in the 15-16-year-old 160½-pound class and Brian Chivers finished third in the 11-12-year-old 80-pound class. All of the wrestlers qualified for the western regionals to be held in June in Newberg, Ore.

Holmes gets second chance at history

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Larry Holmes will try to duplicate a feat achieved only by Floyd Patterson and Muhammad Ali when he challenges Michael Spinks next Saturday night for the International Boxing Federation heavyweight title.

He will be trying to regain a piece of the heavyweight championship in a 15-round rematch against the fighter who took the title from him.

Spinks won a close, but unanimous 15-round decision over Holmes last Sept. 15 at Las Vegas. "All he did was run, run, run in the fight. I'm not going to let Michael Spinks run," said Holmes, 36, who is predicting his 48th knockout.

Spinks sees the last fight differently. "Michael Spinks actually beat Larry Holmes," Spinks said. "Larry Holmes didn't give me nothing. I took the fight from Larry Holmes. I outlasted him."

"You can back me into the corner and I'll fight out of that corner," the 29-year-old Spinks said.

Spinks, whose record is 28-0, with 19 knockouts, is the first light heavyweight champion to become a heavyweight champion. He surprised most boxing observers by weighing 200 pounds, 25 more than the light heavyweight limit, and by handling the added weight easily against

LARRY HOLMES Record-breaker?

MICHAEL SPINKS Erasing doubts

Holmes. The defeat kept Holmes from matching the 49-0 record of the late Rocky Marciano, the only heavyweight champion to retire undefeated.

Holmes was criticized by the media for "berating" Marciano's brother, Peter, at a news conference after his loss and for saying, "Rocky couldn't carry my jacket." Holmes publicly apologized to Marciano's family, but he remains bitter about media criticism, and his relationship with reporters as the preparation for the rematch is a bit or-miss affair. He has attended joint pre-fight news conferences at New York, Beverly Hills, Calif., and here, and has granted some interviews, but he has rejected many requests.

Yet despite his closed-mouth approach to the media for this fight, Holmes found himself apologizing to the Nevada State Athletic Commission last Wednesday at a news conference. He had outraged the commission by questioning the integrity of the commission, with remarks that judges drank before fights and accepted payoffs.

"Maybe I talk too much, maybe I got a big mouth," Holmes said. "I'm sorry if I offended the commission."

The apology was accepted. Holmes' bid to match Patterson and Ali will be televised by HBO as the second in a series of eight heavyweight title bouts, the purpose of which is to crown a single champion. The IBF recognizes Spinks, the Trevor Berbick champion, and the World Boxing Association recognizes Tim Witherspoon as its titleholder.

Patterson lost the undisputed heavyweight title when he was stopped in the third round by Ingemar Johansson in a 15-round fight and regained it with a fifth-round knockout of Johansson June 20, 1960.

All lost the undisputed title on a 15-round split decision to Spinks' brother, Leon, on Feb. 15, 1978, and won the WBA title when he scored a 15-round unanimous decision over Leon on Sept. 15, 1978.

Rescheduled TVCC-Eagles' twinbill postponed

By The Associated Press

TWIN-FALLS — The College of Southern Idaho's rescheduled non-conference baseball doubleheader today against Treasure Valley Community College has been postponed indefinitely.

"When it was originally rained out, we rescheduled it with the understanding that it would be played if our schedules permitted," said CSI Coach Jim Walker. "With six games left to play this week, it just wasn't practical for us."

The TVCC-CSI twinbill was rained out on March 7. "We might play it at the end of the season, if the schedules allow," Walker said.

The two teams have already played three non-conference games this season, with the Eagles winning all three.

CSI and TVCC are scheduled to play a Northern Division Region 16 doubleheader in Ontario, Ore., on Saturday, April 26, and another two-game set at Frontier Field on Friday, May 2.

The Eagles will play three games on Thursday, two against the Brigham Young University Juniors in Provo, Utah, and another that night against the College of Eastern Utah in Price, 80 miles to the east.

"(CEU) is having some kind of special event, so I'm doing the (CEU) coach's favor," Walker said. "I don't have any idea if we'll count it or not. If there are umpires, I guess we will."

"Thursday is gonna be a full day," Walker continued. "We'll get on the bus here at 6:30, get to Provo and run around for awhile and maybe take some (batting practice), play two games, get on the bus and go to Price. By the time we're through, we may end up pitching (freshman shortstop) Jeff Moe." On Friday, CSI will play another night game at CEU, then take on Snow College in a doubleheader Saturday afternoon in Ephraim, Utah.

The Eagles will then return home to play their Northern Division Region 18 opening doubleheader Monday at 1 p.m. against Ricks College. That twinbill was rained out last Saturday. CSI will host Snow in a two-game non-conference set on Tuesday, then face what was scored a Region 18 doubleheader at Northern Idaho College in Coeur d'Alene on Thursday, April 24.

The Eagles stand 19-8 for the season.

Three teams top big Twin Falls Muni pro-am field

By The Times-News

TWIN FALLS — Three teams shared first-place honors Monday in the Twin Falls Municipal Golf Course pro-am Monday, which attracted 175 players for the one-day event.

Sharing first place at 26-under were teams of Jackpot Pro Bill Dwyer and amateurs A.C. Jordan, John Corbridge, Don Whitney and Tom Patterson; Boise Pro Ron Placek and amateurs Wayne Berry, Mori Baptiste, Jack Bishop and Dick Harland and Canyon Springs Pro Del Ericson and amateurs Gary Jenkins, Cluck Potter, Bill Durbin and Ken Nielsen.

In fourth place was the Boise crew of Ken Sparks, Tyke Trogdon, Ed Chupa, Bert Poole and Jon Everton at 111. At 114 were Boiseans Clyde Thompson, Bill Carroll, Dave Sammon, Joe Koelsh and Charles Martin. Tied for sixth were Pro Mike Cerullo and amateurs Bob Skredervist, Terry Placek, Bob Dwyer and Dave Berry. Mori Baptiste, Jack Bishop and Dick Harland and Canyon Spr-

by the Jerome staff might be as expected, but rivals lavish praise as well.

"He's a nice young man and a tremendous competitor," says Buhl High track Coach Tom Chivers. "He competes in everything. I think he may be the best all-around athlete in Magie Valley. He excels in everything he does, but track might be his best sport. Torrey runs the open 800, comes back about a half hour later and anchors the medley relay — usually to a win — then closes out the meet by either starting or anchoring the 1600 relay. It takes an iron man to do all that."

"He's certainly deserving of recognition," agrees Twin Falls High Coach Duane Stands. "Sheets has really contributed a lot to the Jerome athletic programs — and he's done it consistently over the past four years."

with her employer to follow his career in person and has, "probably not-missed more than three or four of his games — ever."

Torrey was so successful in those early years on the baseball diamond that, as a third-grader, he was the target of a pet on intended to prevent his participating for a Jerome nine against Twin Falls teams.

His abilities on the gridiron drew recognition early in his prep career and the mall began pouring in from colleges — and universities — starting with his sophomore year. The 18-year-old ended up with football and Wyoming, which he is still weighing.

"I've always pushed him to take part in everything available to him," Nancy Sheets says. "In an effort to support those activities she made the necessary arrangements

"I'd like to major in physical therapy," Sheets says of his long-range plans. "I've always been interested in that (field)—I'd like to stay involved in sports for as long as I can."

Blakeley, Spackman take Burley Muni best-ball

By The Times-News

BURLEY — Local favorites Taryn Spackman and Glenn Blakeley took top honors in the weather-abbreviated Burley Municipal Golf Course two-man best ball tournament over the weekend.

With Saturday's round snowed out before completion, Spackman and Blakeley carded a two-over par 73 in Sunday's business to collect the championship flight top spot.

They were followed by Doyle Dugger and Jim Packard and Kevin Packard and Perry Hanchey all Twin Falls. Dr. Cluck Culler and Jim Furves, Twin Falls, were fourth.

In the first flight, Ken Hickey and Brian Hammett were champions, followed by Frank Langer and Bruce Bellistron, Burley, and Tom Standley and Gary Jenkins, Twin Falls. Jerry Magee and Mark Beebe were fourth.

Jack Hartnett and Terry Hartnett won the second flight with Tim Callen and Brad Diehl and Denny Curtis and Bill Parsons tied for second.

In the third flight honors went to Jim Brennan and Dean Cross with Eric Sailer and Art Watkins second. Dave Cole and Mike Konakls won the fourth flight, chased home by Doyle Clark and Duane Hutchison in second and Kelley Ferrin and Jeff Kerbs in third.

Nahisco Masters tournament in New York, but withdrew because of the flu. Then, saying he needed to play matches to get back in shape, he entered the Lipton tournament as a wild-card.

In the nationally televised semifinal against Lendl, Connors ripped off the first set before dropping the second by the same score. The two split the next two sets by 6-2 scores to set up the decisive fifth set.

Lendl, up a service break, was serving at 3-0 love when the Czech hit a backhand volley that landed near the baseline. The ball was called good, giving Lendl a 40-love lead and sending Connors to a game.

"No, no, no," he shouted at the linesman. "You're wrong. Admit you're wrong."

Then, just when it appeared he was going to resign the play, he turned his back on umpire Jerry Shales. "He was wrong," Connors told the umpire. "The ball was this far out," he said, holding his hands six inches apart.

When Shales refused to overrule the line call, Connors shouted: "I'm not playing under those conditions. Get the supervisor out here."

Under the AITFC, the supervisor cannot overrule a judgment call, which a line call is. Then, as the stunned crowd watched, Connors refused to play as Shales began the 30-second clock and, going by the rules, gave Connors first a warning, then a 10-minute penalty, then a game penalty in delay of game.

and angling Ken Norton, the WBC withdrew little recognition from Spinks and bestowed it upon Norton. So when Al beat Spinks, the WBC did not recognize him as champion.

In Norton's first title defense, he lost a 15-round split decision to Holmes at Las Vegas on June 9, 1974. Holmes defended the WBC title 17 times before relinquishing it in December 1983. But he was granted championship status by the relative newcomer IBF and made three defenses before losing the title to Michael Spinks.

Witherspoon has won a title twice, but not through a rematch. After losing the WBC title on a 12-round decision to Pinklon Thomas Aug. 31, 1987, Witherspoon became the WBA champion with a 15-round decision over Tony Tubbs last Jan. 17.

Should Holmes lose Saturday, he would be the ninth fighter to fail to regain the title in a rematch.

The eight who have failed were: Bob Fitzsimmons, against Jim Jeffries; Jack Dempsey, against Gene Tunney; Joe Walcott, against Marciano; Patterson, against Sonny Liston; Liston, against Ali; Mike Weaver, against Michael Dokes; and Johansson, against Patterson.

Correction

The Times-News in Monday's edition misidentified the winner of a weekend judo tournament.

Wiles Dobbs took a first place in the Twin Falls College of Southern Idaho Judo Club's 23rd annual tournament.

Dobbs was selected to represent the national Judo Association in the national judo championship next month in Hawaii. He won the lightweight black belt division of the CSI tournament.

The Times-News regrets the error.

AL: Chisox lose sixth game in seven outings

CHICAGO (AP) — Darrell Evans hit 40 home runs last season to become the first player to hit 40 home runs a season in both leagues. He hasn't lost that touch.

Evans belted his third homer of the season, a two-run shot in the fourth inning, and he singled to start a six-run rally in the sixth inning Monday night that carried the Detroit Tigers to a 10-9 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

Baseball

Greg Walker hit a pair of solo homers for the White Sox, who lost their sixth game in seven outings this season.

Oakland 7 Minnesota 6

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Carney Lansford's two-run single capped a three-run rally by Oakland in the seventh inning to lift the A's past the Minnesota Twins 7-6 Monday night.

Oakland, which trailed 6-3 after five innings, spoiled a two-homer night by Tom Drunansky. The Twins collected eight hits, seven for extra bases.

California 7 Seattle 6

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Darrell Miller singled in Brian Downing from third base in the bottom of the ninth inning Monday to give California a 7-6 victory over the Seattle Mariners in their home opener.

Losing pitcher Pete Ladd 1-1, opened the inning by hitting Downing with a pitch. George Hendrick, who had three hits and a walk in the game, hit a grounder under the glove of shortstop Spike Owen for an error as Downing took third. Miller then collected his second hit of the game and second RBI to make a winner of reliever Donnie Moore, 1-0.

Texas 10 Milwaukee 1

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Nineteen-

year-old rookie Ed Correa pitched eight strong innings and Texas had four home runs in a 15-hit assault on four pitchers as the Rangers spoiled Milwaukee's home opener Monday with a 10-1 victory over the Brewers.

Darrell Porter's homer with the bases empty in the second inning gave the Rangers a 1-0 lead, and they scored twice in the third before Odette McDowell led off the fifth with a solo homer off Tim Leary, 1-1, who lasted 4 1/2 innings.

Kansas City 8 Boston 2

BOSTON (AP) — Willie Wilson

Baltimore 2 Toronto 1

TORONTO (AP) — Alan Giggins

and Rick Dempsey hit run-scoring doubles and Mike Boddicker pitched a four-hitter Monday as the Baltimore Orioles spoiled Toronto's home opener with a 2-1 victory over the Blue Jays.

Boddicker, trying to bounce back from a disappointing 12-17 record in 1985, struck out six and walked two before 43,507 fans at Exhibition Stadium.

After tying the game 1-1 on consecutive two-out doubles by Dempsey and Giggins in the third, the Orioles scored the winning run in the fifth against Doyle Alexander, 1-1, as John Shelby and Juan Bonilla singled to right and Dempsey hit his RBI double into the left-center field gap.

NL: Cards beat Mets in 13 innings

NEW YORK (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals and the New York Mets, the hottest teams in the National League East last season, wasted little time in firing up their rivalry this year.

"It doesn't look like it's going to stop any time soon," Willie McGee said after singling and scoring the tie-breaking run in the 13th inning Monday as St. Louis recorded a 6-2 victory and spoiled the Mets' home opener.

In 1985, the Cardinals-Mets series produced six extra-inning games, 11 one-run decisions, and a beanball battle. St. Louis wound up winning 10 of the 16 games and eventually won the division in the final weekend of the season.

"This time, on a sunny day before 47,792 fans, it took an error by New York third baseman Howard Johnson in the 13th to produce a conclusion.

"This is the way we started with the Cards last season," New York Manager Dave Johnson said.

"Yeah, we've had some barnburners," said St. Louis Manager Whitey Herzog.

Both starting pitchers, Dwight Gooden of the Mets and Ricky Horton of the Cardinals, pitched well, although neither got a decision. Horton went seven innings and gave up one run on two hits, while Gooden worked eight innings, yielded two runs on five hits and struck out six.

McGee, who entered the game with 11 hits in 23 lifetime at-bats against Gooden, singled home the tying run in the sixth inning and put St. Louis ahead 2-1 with a sacrifice fly in the eighth. Darryl Strawberry's RBI single in the ninth sent the game into extra innings.

"The biggest shock of the whole thing is we were supposed to be in first place from Day One," Johnson said.

San Diego 4 Los Angeles 3

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Pinch-hitter Bruce Bochy led off the 11th inning with a home run off Ed Vande Berg to give the San Diego Padres a 4-3 victory Monday night over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Bochy, hitting for winning pitcher Craig Lefferts, hit a 1-1 pitch from Vande Berg, 0-1, over the wall in left-center field for his first home run of the season.

Dodger starter Bob Welch, who struck out a career-high 12 batters, carried a 3-2 lead into the 10th, but the Padres tied the game on the first major league hit by rookie John Kruk. He drove in Tony Gwynn with a two-out pinch single. Gwynn had reached second when left fielder Ken Landreaux dropped his liner for a two-base error.

Pittsburgh 3 Philadelphia 1

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — R. J. Keynotes' double in the winning run in the 10th inning and Joe Grandt singled in an another as the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Philadelphia Phillies 3-1 Monday night for their third straight victory.

With one out in the 10th, pinch hit Steve Kemp walked. Rafael Bellard ran for Kemp and scored on Reynolds' double to right-center field off Steve Bedrosian, 1-1. Reynolds then scored on Orsula's single to center.

Three teams top big Twin Falls Muni pro-am field

By The Times-News

TWIN FALLS — Three teams shared first-place honors Monday in the Twin Falls Municipal Golf Course pro-am Monday, which attracted 475 players for the one-day event.

Sharing first place at 26 under were teams of Jackpot Pro Bill Downs and amateurs A.C. Anderson, John Corbridge, Don Whitney and Tom Patterson; Boise Pro Ron Placke and amateurs Wayne Berry, Merl Baptiste, Jack Bishop and Dick Harland and Canyon Springs Pro Del Ericson and amateurs Gary Jenkins, Chuck Potter, Bill Durbin and Ken Nielsen.

In fourth place was the Boise crew of Ken Sparks, Tyke Trogdon, Ed Chupa, Bert Poole and Jon Everton at 11. At 14 were Boiseans Clyde Thomson, Bill Caffarelli, Dave Samuelson, Carl Koch and Charles Martin. Tied for sixth were Pro Mike Ceriello and amateurs Bob Skrednerst, Terry Spackman, Doyle Dugger and Dave Montgomery and Boise pro Craig Smith and amateurs Charles Allen, Steve Collins, Lynn Lee and Nick Hansen. Smith and Rich Stinwood, Kimberland, shared pro sweeps honors at four-under 61, one ahead of Placke, Downs, Jeff Thomson and Jerome's John Peterson.

Doyle Corbett, Kenrick, led all amateurs with an even par 68 to lead the 0-11 handicap division gross. He was followed by Perry Haney and Doyle Dugger, both Twin Falls, at 69, Trogdon 70, Berry 71 and Weiser's Joe Maly 72. In net, Caffarelli's 62 set the pace, followed by Bert Poole, Nick Hansen and Bob Skrednerst at 65 and Charles Allen and Chuck Potter at 66.

In the 12-over handicap division, Ken Tyrer, Nampa, was low gross at 76, followed by Bill Durbin at 79, Whitney and Darwin Klingler, Boise, at 80 and A.C. Anderson, Twin Falls, and W.C. Boyd, Jerome, at 81.

Chuck Skaggs, Burley, ran off with net honors at 81, two ahead of Pocallo's Rudy Willecke. Corbridge and Don Palmer were tied at 84 while Ed Chupa had 65 and Bob White, Idaho Falls, 66.

with her employer to follow his career in person and has "probably not missed more than three or four of his games — ever."

"He's a nice young man and a tremendous competitor," says Buhi High track Coach Tom Chivers. "He competes in everything. I think he may be the best all-around athlete in Magic Valley. He excels in everything he does, but track might be his best sport. Torrey runs the open 800, comes back about a half hour later and anchors the medley relay — usually to a win — in cross-country-the meet-by either starting or anchoring the 1600 relay. It takes an iron man to do all that."

"He's certainly deserving of recognition," agrees Twin Falls High Coach Duane Stans. "Sheets has really contributed a lot to the Jerome athletic programs — and he's done it consistently over the past four years."

"I've always pushed him to take part in everything available to him," Nancy Sheets says. "In an effort to support those activities she made the necessary arrangements to have him travel to the meet."

"I've always pushed him to take part in everything available to him," Nancy Sheets says. "In an effort to support those activities she made the necessary arrangements to have him travel to the meet."

Torrey was so successful in those early years on the baseball diamond as a third-grader, he was the target of a petition intended to prevent his participating for a Jerome nine against Twin Falls teams.

His abilities on the gridiron drew recognition early in his prep career and the mail began pouring in from colleges and universities starting with his sophomore year. The 18-year-old ended up with football scholarship offers from Idaho State and Wyoming, which he is still weighing.

Although he can usually be found on the golf course or playing recreational tennis when not attending a football practice camp, Sheets holds a part-time job at Tupperware.

"I'd like to major in physical therapy," Sheets says of his long-range plans. "I've always been interested in that field. I'd like to stay involved in sports for as long as I can."

Spoken like an athlete who, as a freshman, competed in football and cross country — at the same time.

Blakeley, Spackman take Burley Muni best-ball

By The Times-News

BURLEY — Local favorites Terry Spackman and Glenn Blakeley took top honors in the weather-abbreviated Burley Municipal Golf Course two-man best-ball golf tournament over the weekend.

With Saturday's round snowed

out before completion, Spackman and Blakeley carded a two-over par 73 in Sunday's hurricane to collect the championship flight top spot.

They were followed by Doyle Dugger and Jim Packard — and Perry Factors and Terry Haney — all from Falls. Dr. Chuck Cutler and Jim Purves, Twin Falls, were fourth.

In the first flight, Ken Hickey and Brian Hammett were champions, followed by Frank Langer and Bruce Belliston. Burley and Tom Standley and Gary Jenkins, Twin Falls; Jerry Magee and Mark Boebe were fourth.

Jack Lantz and Terry Haney won the second flight with Tim Callen and Brad Diehl and Denny Curtis and Bill Parsons tied for second.

Third flight honors went to Jim Brennan and Dean Cross with Ernie Sadler and Art Watkins second. Dave Cole and Mike Konkis won the fourth flight. Palmer home by 64 while Ed Chupa had 65 and Bob White, Idaho Falls, 66.

Correction
The Times-News in Monday's edition misidentified the winner of a weekend judo tournament.

Wiley Dobbs, a Twin Falls schoolteacher, took a first place in the Twin Falls College of Southern Idaho Judo Club's 23rd annual tournament.

Dobbs was selected to represent the Intermountain Judo Association in the national judo championship next month in Hawaii. He won the lightweight black belt division of the CSI tournament.

The Times-News regrets the error.

AL: Chisox lose sixth game in seven outings

CHICAGO (AP) — Darrell Evans bit 40 home runs last season to become the first player to hit 40 home runs a season in both leagues. He hasn't lost that touch.

Evans belted his third homer of the season, a two-run shot in the fourth inning, and he singled to start a six-run rally in the sixth inning Monday night that carried the Detroit Tigers to a 10-8 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

"Normally, I'm a slow starter," said Evans. "Last year I was in as good a groove as I've been in my career and I've maintained it this season."

"I'm seeing the ball well, not worrying about my mechanics," said Evans.

Lance Parrish and Harry Spillman also homered for the Tigers, while

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Carney Lansford's two-run single capped a three-run rally by Oakland in the seventh inning to lift the A's past the Minnesota Twins 7-6 Monday night.

Oakland, which trailed 6-3 after five innings, spoiled a two-homer night by Tom Brunauer. The Twins collected eight hits, seven for extra bases.

California 7 Seattle 6

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Darrell Miller singled in Brian Downing from third base in the bottom of the ninth inning Monday to give California a 7-6 victory over the Seattle Mariners in their home opener.

Losing pitcher Pete Ladd, 1-1, opened the inning by hitting Downing with a pitch. George Hendrick, who had three hits and a walk in the game, hit a grounder under the glove of shortstop Spike Owen for an error as Downing took third. Miller then collected his second hit of the game and received RBI to make a winner of reliever Donnie Moore, 1-0.

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Nineteen-year-old rookie Ed Correa pitched eight strong innings and Texas had four home runs in a 15-hit assault on Monday as the Kansas City Royals erupted for an 8-2 victory over Milwaukee's home opener Monday with a 10-1 victory over the Brewers.

Darrell Porter's homer with the bases empty in the second inning gave the Rangers a 1-0 lead, and they scored twice in the third before Odellie McDowell led off the fifth with a solo homer off Tim Lary, 1-1, who lasted 4 1/2 innings.

triggered a six-run eighth inning with his third consecutive single on Monday as the Kansas City Royals erupted for an 8-2 victory over Boston, spilling the Red Sox's 86th American League home opener.

The Royals, held to six hits and two runs for seven innings, jumped on starter Dennis "Oil Can" Boyd, 0-1, and reliever Bob Stanley in turning a close game into a rout with the league's biggest inning of the young season. They sent 12 batters to the plate.

Boddicker, trying to bounce back from a disappointing 12-17 record in 1985, struck out six and walked two before 43,587 fans at Exhibition Stadium.

After tying the game 1-1 on consecutive two-out doubles by Dempsey and Wiggins in the third, the Orioles scored the winning run in the fifth against Doyle Alexander, 1-1, as John Shelby and Juan Bonilla singled to right and Dempsey hit his RBI double into the left-center field gap.

NL: Cards beat Mets in 13 innings

NEW YORK (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals and the New York Mets, the hottest teams in the National League East last season, wasted little time in firing up their rivalry this year.

"It doesn't look like it's going to stop any time soon," Willie McGee said after singling and scoring the tie-breaking run in the 13th inning Monday as St. Louis recorded a 6-2 victory and spoiled the Mets' home opener.

In 1985, the Cardinals-Mets series produced six extra-inning games, 11 one-run decisions and a beanball battle. St. Louis wound up winning 10 of the 18 games and eventually won the division in the final weekend of the season.

This time, on a sunny day before 47,752 fans, it took an error by New York third baseman Howard Johnson in the 13th to produce a conclusion.

"This is the way we started with the Cards last season," New York Manager Dave Johnson said.

"Yeah, we've had some barn-burners," said St. Louis Manager Whitey Herzog.

Both starting pitchers, Dwight Gooden of the Mets and Ricky Horton of the Cardinals, pitched well, although neither got a decision. Horton went seven innings and gave up one run on two hits, while Gooden worked eight innings, yielded two hits on five hits and struck out six.

McGee, who entered the game with 11 hits in 23 lifetime at-bats against Gooden, singled home the tying run in the sixth inning and put St. Louis ahead 2-1 with a sacrifice fly in the eighth. Darryl Strawberry's RBI single in the ninth sent the game into extra-innings.

"The biggest shock of the whole thing is we were supposed to be in first place from Day One," Johnson said.

San Diego 4 Los Angeles 3

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Pinch-hitter Bruce Bochy led off the 11th inning with a home run off Ed Vande Berg to give the San Diego Padres a 4-3 victory Monday night over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Bochy, hitting for winning pitcher Craig Lefferts, hit a 1-1 pitch from Vande Berg, 0-1, over the wall in left-center field for his first home run of the season.

Dodger starter Bob Welch, who struck out a career-high 12 batters, carried a 3-2 lead into the 10th, but the Padres tied the game on the first major league hit by rookie John Kruk. He drove in Tony Gwynn with a two-out pinch single. Gwynn had

NBA playoffs: Step one on road to Boston?

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
The Associated Press

Now that the 943-game NBA regular season is over, the 16 playoff qualifiers start championship play this week, with the Boston Celtics and Los Angeles Lakers favored to meet in the finals for the third straight year.

The best-of-five first-round series begin Thursday with Chicago at Boston, Detroit at Atlanta, Sacramento at Houston and San Antonio at the Los Angeles Lakers.

The rest of the field plays Friday, with Washington at Philadelphia, Utah at Dallas, New Jersey at Milwaukee and Portland at Denver.

"We have to concentrate a bit more, a great deal more," said Boston Coach K.C. Jones, whose team had the best record, 67-15. "We will not be lulled into thinking how good our team was."

"The standards have been so high for so long here that if you don't win the championship," the season's "a failure," said reserve guard Jerry Sichting, who will be making his fifth start in the playoffs. In five seasons at Indiana, he played one postseason minute, in 1980-81. Matches in the first round of the NBA playoffs, with the team with a

homecourt advantage in the five-game series listed first and each team's seeding position in parentheses:

EASTERN CONFERENCE
Boston (1) vs. Chicago (6) — The Bulls, buoyed by the return of Michael Jordan after an absence of 64 games with a broken foot, won six times in a nine-game stretch to squeeze past Cleveland and get the last playoff spot in the Eastern Conference. Jordan has some capable help in Orlando Woolridge and rookie Charles Oakley, but the Celtics' front line of Larry Bird, Robert Parish and Kevin McHale, with Bill Walton in reserve, is too big and strong to be stopped by the Bulls.

Milwaukee (2) vs. New Jersey (7) — The Bucks finished with the third-best record in the NBA after Boston and the Los Angeles Lakers and won the Central Division for the sixth consecutive season. The Nets started well, with a 23-14 record, but the loss of Michael Ray Richardson to drug abuse and center Darryl Dawkins to back problems left the team in turmoil, and they finished 16-29. Milwaukee has a strong nucleus of Sidney Moncrief, Terry Cummings and Paul Pressey and a group of role players behind them. New Jersey needs a strong series from center Mike Omleski, forward Buck Williams and guard Otis Birdsong to challenge the Bucks.

Philadelphia (3) vs. Washington (8) — The 76ers finished the season 41 without injured center Moses Malone, the only loss by one point at Landover, Md., on the final day. Malone still is questionable for Friday's opener against the Bullets, which even the odds considerably, and guard Andrew Toney definitely is out after a succession of injuries: Manute Bol, the 7-foot-6 rookie, replaced injured Jeff Ruland for most of the season and won the NBA shut-blocking title, but his all-around game doesn't approach Ruland's. Hot shooting by guards Jeff Malone and Gus Williams could give Washington an upset, but Charles Barkley, Julius Erving and Maurice Cheeks proved in the closing weeks of the season that the 76ers are a formidable foe even without Malone.

Atlanta (4) vs. Detroit (5) — Befitting their seeding positions, this should be the best of the Eastern Conference pairings. Dominique Wilkins, who had a NBA season-high 57 points last Thursday to take control of a close individual scoring race with Adrian Dantley and Alex English, took more than twice as many shots as any of his teammates. But Randy Wittman, Kevin Willis, Glenn Rivers and 5-foot-6 rookie reserve Spud Webb all proved they could have outstanding performances during the Hawks' team record-equalling 50-win season. Detroit has more playoff experience.

WESTERN CONFERENCE
Los Angeles Lakers (1) vs. San Antonio (5) — The Spurs were a solid team, 24-20, in January, but injuries to starters Artis Gilmore, Johnny Moore and Steve Johnson took their toll in the second half and they won only 11 of their last 33 games, barely holding on to win the last playoff spot. The Lakers, who coasted to a 62-20 record after leading the division by more than 10 games since the All-Star break, have everyone healthy and are anxious to start defending their title. Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, who turns 39 Wednesday, continues to lead the way.

Houston (2) vs. Sacramento (7) — This series could be tougher than Rockets fans expect, especially if the Kings can avoid losing the first two games in Houston. The Kings, with some of the toughest fans in sports, can be very tough at home, and the Rockets are 11 games under 500 on the road. The Kings have a good backcourt trio in Reggie Theus, Mike Woodson and Larry Drew, while the Rockets have had to play Robert Reid at point guard recently because of John Lucas' drug problems and Allen Leavell's injured hand. Leavell is expected to return, however.

Denver (3) vs. Portland (6) — The Nuggets are even worse than Houston on the road, finishing 13-28, which makes them vulnerable if they slip at home. But the Trail Blazers, who finished 22 games behind the Lakers in the Pacific Division and had a 12-game losing streak in February, are just plain vulnerable since losing defensive standout Sam Bowie with a leg injury. After giving up on aging Caldwell Jones at center, Portland Coach Jack Ramsay moved Michael Thompson from forward to the middle. The Nuggets will have to win at Portland, but the two teams' relative strength demands it.

Dallas (4) vs. Utah (5) — Utah's Darrell Griffith missed the entire season with a foot injury, so Dallas appears to have a big advantage at shooting guard with Rolando Blackman over Bob Hansen. Point guards Ricky Green and John Stockton of the Jazz and Derek Harper and Brad Davis of the Mavericks match up equally, and it's also hard to choose between starting Dallas forwards Mark Aguirre and Sam Perkins versus Utah's Adrian Dantley and Karl Malone. Mark Eaton of the Jazz and Dallas' James Donaldson are among the biggest centers in the league, but both score little.

NHL playoffs: Can Leafs pull another shock?

The Associated Press

Following stunning first-round knockouts, the Toronto Maple Leafs and Hartford Whalers, a pair of fourth-place teams, are ready for round two of the Stanley Cup playoffs. Another fourth-place team, the New York Rangers, could join them Tuesday night.

"You're just seeing the tip of the iceberg with this club," Maple Leafs Coach Dan Maloney said. "For a long time our team was working hard and couldn't get over the hump. I feel this series has put us over the hump."

The Maple Leafs completed a three-game sweep of the Norris Division-winning Chicago Blackhawks with a 7-2 victory Saturday night. Toronto finished the regular season with the worst record among the 16 Stanley Cup teams, 29 points behind the Blackhawks.

The Whalers, meanwhile, eliminated the Quebec Nordiques in three straight, beating the Adams Division winners 4-1 Saturday. While Hartford is one of the National Hockey League's hottest teams now, they weren't expected to win with such ease over the Nordiques, who finished with the fourth-best record in the league. The Whalers didn't clinch the fourth playoff spot in the Adams Division until the first weekend of the season.

Those two upsets, coupled with Philadelphia's problems with the

Hockey

Rangers in the Patrick Division semifinals, have been the major surprises in the NHL playoffs. The Rangers, who finished 32 points behind the Flyers in fourth place in the Patrick, are tied 2-2 in their best-of-five series and will play the deciding game Tuesday night at Philadelphia.

Among other teams sweeping first-round series included the Washington Capitals, who beat the New York Islanders in the Patrick Division semifinals, and the Montreal Canadiens, who stopped the Boston Bruins in the Adams. While both were expected to win their series, they weren't expected to win with such ease.

Elsewhere, the two-time defending Stanley Cup champions, the Edmonton Oilers, and the Calgary Flames won as expected in the Smythe Division. The Oilers ousted the Vancouver Canucks in three games and the Flames beat the Winnipeg Jets.

In the only other first-round series still going, St. Louis and Minnesota will settle their Norris Division semifinal Tuesday night.

Of all the surprises, the biggest was Toronto's elimination of Chicago.

"They deserved everything they got," Chicago's Denis Savard said.

It has been seven years since Toronto advanced this far in Stanley Cup play.

"We worked our necks off on every shift," Toronto's Russ Courtnall said. "The fans were really behind us here in Toronto and that helps so much."

Maple Leaf Gardens, which often resembled a morgue during four previous seasons in which the Toronto failed to qualify for the playoffs three times, was an uncharacteristically raucous place Saturday night.

"The guys were sky high before the game and I knew when the crowd greeted them the way it did that we were going to come out flying," Maloney said. "I knew that come playoff time, the guys would really play well."

The Maple Leafs only continued a trend they had started against the Blackhawks during the season, when they beat them in six of eight games.

"We certainly had the mental edge on them this year," Maloney said of the Blackhawks.

Low over 1,800; trading lags Cartel trying

Bond prices move up; Libyan tensions keep traders cautious

By CHET CURRIER
The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Blue-chip issues paced an afternoon advance in the stock market Monday, lifting the Dow Jones industrial average back above the 1,800 level.

But trading set its slowest pace in nearly three months as investors awaited developments in the United States-Libya situation.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose 15.13 to 1,805.31, closing above 1,800 for the first time this month. The average established a record closing high of 1,821.72 on March 27.

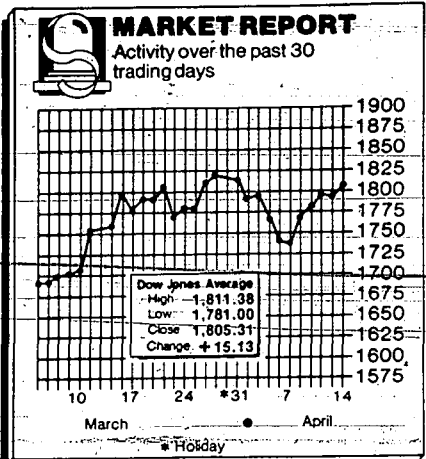

Volume on the New York Stock Exchange slowed to 106.73 million shares from 139 million Friday.

Widespread expectations have developed on Wall Street that new reductions in central bank discount rates are on the way in this country and other leading industrialized nations. There were reports that Japanese and U.S. officials have agreed on such a step.

In the credit markets Monday, prices of long-term government bonds, which move in the opposite direction from interest rates, rose more than $10 for every $1,000 face value.

But analysts said some traders were reluctant to bid aggressively for stocks until they knew what action, if any, President Reagan decided to take against Libya.

Brokers also observed that economic growth lately has fallen short of the high hopes implied by the stock market's sharp rise from last September through March.

A fresh reading on the state of the economy is due Thursday, when the government issues its preliminary estimate of the gross national product for the first quarter.

International Business Machines helped set the tone for the overall market with a 2 1/2-point rise to 152 3/4. Late last week the IBM reported a modest increase in first-quarter profits.

Among other prominent blue-chip and technology issues, Digital Equipment gained 4 1/2 to 173; General Electric 1 1/2 to 76 1/2; Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing 1 1/2 to 99 1/2, and Merck 3 1/2 to 170.

National Gypsum climbed 4 1/2 to 62 1/2. The company said a group of investors led by management sweetened a proposal to buy it out, countering a recent offer by Wilkes Cos.

General Motors dropped 1/4 to 64 1/2. The company, beset by sluggish sales and large inventories, set new financing incentives for buyers of some of its cars.

Mortgage and savings and bond issues were generally strong as interest rates continued to fall. Federal National Mortgage, the volume leader, was up 1 1/2 to 32 1/2.

Advancing issues outnumbered declines by about 3 to 2 in the daily tally on the Big Board. The exchange's composite index added .71 to 136.53.

Nationwide turnover in NYSE-listed issues, including trades in those stocks on regional exchanges and in the over-the-counter market, totaled 125.94 million shares.

Standard & Poor's Index of 400 industrials rose 1.60 to 282.97, and S&P's 500-stock composite index was up .13 to 237.28.

Record highs were set by the NASDAQ composite index for the over-the-counter market, up 1.93 to 380.81, and the American Stock Exchange market value index, up 1.32 to 271.48.

Business travel costs: Up, up, away!

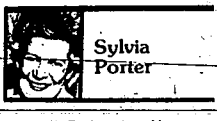

New York ranks as the most expensive of all cities for corporate business travel: $277.16 a day in 1985 for hotel room, three meals and car rental.

Next most expensive cities are: Washington, D.C.; Boston; Philadelphia; Chicago; Newark, N.J.; and San Francisco, (New York I understand with ease, but Newark?)

The survey, made by Corporate Travel Management, does not include airfares. What's more, travel costs are in a steep upsurge — estimated up 10 percent in 1986 on top of an overall increase in the cost of travel of 11 percent in 1985 and added to a tab for travel to Eastern cities exploding even more viciously.

This year, businesses are spending roughly $90 billion on travel and entertainment, according to American Express. For some companies, travel has become one of the biggest budget items not rigidly controlled, says Jane Edelstein, editor and publisher of Corporate Travel, who also observes:

"I don't think there will be cutbacks in the number of trips made, but corporations want more bang for their buck. Business travel is very strong now. The idea is to spend the money better."

This year, the sharpest increases will come in car rental rates — and "this will be the first year that all the companies will introduce surcharges on corporate accounts," Edelstein adds. "In general, these surcharges will be levied in cities where the rental companies' costs have gone up the most."

Faced with steadily escalating costs, corporate travel managers have had to find new tools to control them.

The best place to start is by determining overall volume: the number of nights in hotels, cars rented, round-trip airfares. Armed with this data, companies can then negotiate with hotels, car rental agencies, even airlines.

Volume permits leverage, especially in these days of feverish competition.

If, for example, your company can promise a hotel or hotel-chain a few hundred nights a year, you can try to negotiate a break on the daily room rate.

Multiply that reduction by the number of nights guaranteed and you can save thousands of dollars on lodging costs alone.

It's tougher to negotiate with airlines, but many businesses have begun to do so, especially with smaller and regional carriers.

At a minimum, more companies have developed travel guidelines. About 72 percent of companies now have written guidelines; three years ago, only 45 percent had them.

Many companies have also started using daily cash allowances as a way to control costs.

The need to track travel expenses is particularly acute in the nation's largest cities which, not surprisingly, are generally the most expensive, according to Lavenholt & Horwath, a business consulting firm.

This development also is adding to the pressure on corporate travel managers to shop around and negotiate contracts.

Even small companies can curb travel expenses. A good travel agent should be able to devise a program to control costs.

It wasn't long ago that corporate managers ignored the cost of business travel. Receiving more attention were such expenses as inventories, office and plant costs, the like. Business travel? When the expense accounts were submitted — and rarely were they submitted — the attitude disappeared across the board. Too light a control could backfire, arousing antagonism among key employees. There's a midway approach, and companies are tumbling toward it.

GENEVA — OPEC oil ministers began arriving Monday for a new round of emergency talks on a common strategy for reversing the oil market collapse.

Analysts said they saw little chance for agreement. Ministers from the 13-member Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, in talks scheduled to begin today, are expected to discuss sharing major cuts in their already sagging oil production.

At a nine-day meeting last month, the OPEC leaders agreed that production cuts could reverse the more than 60 percent drop in oil prices since the start of the year. But they failed to resolve the key question of how much production each member country would give up.

"Nothing has happened" since then to improve the odds of an OPEC agreement, said Joseph Stanislaw, director of international energy in the Paris office of Cambridge Energy Research Associates.

Without a significant cut in OPEC oil production, to a daily rate of no more than 15 million barrels from the current level of about 17 million, world oil prices are unlikely to rise any time soon, analysts say.

Prices have tumbled to an average range of $12 to $15 a barrel from $18 to $20 last year. The crash was triggered in part by the collapse last December of OPEC's four-year struggle to restrain its production in the face of a world oil glut.

Stephen Turner, an oil analyst at the investment firm of Wood, Mackenzie and Co. in Edinburgh, Scotland, said he doubted that Saudi Arabia was ready to accept any substantial cuts in its oil production. The Saudis are by far the biggest OPEC producer, so without their acceptance of a cutback — the Geneva talks were unlikely to succeed.

"The prospect for getting an agreement are pretty bleak," Turner said.

TWA cancels flights

NEW YORK (AP) — Trans World Airlines, citing poor bookings, announced Monday it will not resume flights on the Cairo-to-Athens-Rome route that was struck by a terrorist bombing two weeks ago.

TWA spokeswoman Sally McElwreath said cancellation of the flights was "an economic decision" that had nothing to do with preventing attacks.

The flights had not operated since the April 2 bombing that killed 27 Americans. Because the Boeing 727 was out of service, TWA had canceled the daily flights until April 27, when the airline usually brings in a larger plane to handle summer traffic, Ms. McElwreath said.

"However, because of very poor bookings in those segments, we have canceled the flights," she said.

Ms. McElwreath said she assumed fear of terrorism was a factor in the low bookings, but a weaker dollar and low domestic fares probably also prompted vacationers to remain in the United States.

She said TWA is continuing to operate trans-Atlantic flights to Rome and to Athens, Greece, and flights from northern Europe to Cairo.

Boise-based firm reports earnings drop

BOISE (AP) — Still feeling the impact of the downturn in the wood products industry, Boise Cascade Corp. has again reported quarterly earnings below year-ago levels.

The Boise-based company announced Monday that net income during the first three months of this year dropped nearly 25 percent from the first quarter of 1985, falling from $33.3 million to $25 million.

The decline, marked the third quarter out of the last four that current performance has fallen short of the level of the previous year, and officials said the same would have been true in the last three months of 1985 had the company not been able to take advantage in its accounting of financial setbacks throughout that year.

Board Chairman John Fery blamed the reduced income figure on continued sluggish market conditions, but said the impact would have been even greater had the company not undertaken a rigorous austerity program last fall.

Total sales for the first quarter of this year were also 60 percent more than last year's, rising from $112 million to $181 million. Net income per share was reported at 83 cents, down from $1.12 a year earlier.

The company's building products segment, bolstered by recent restructuring and cost-containment efforts, managed to fight off abnormally bad weather during the period to turn in substantially improved operating income. The packaging and office products division exceeded its January-March 1985 performance, excluding the fact that 1985 earnings were bolstered by $7 million from the sale of the company's envelop operation.

But neither was enough to offset the nearly 20 percent plunge in operating income from the paper division.
