Terrorists strike targets in 4 nations

By The Associated Press

Terrorists struck in Spain, France, North Yemen and Austria Friday, killing six people, wounding a U.S. Embassy employee and bombing an office of Saudi Arabia's state-run airline. Officials said they had not found any links in the attacks to the April 15 U.S. air raids against Libya, but anonymous callers claimed an Arab group killed a British employee of an American company in Lyon, France. The bloodiest attack occurred in Madrid, Spain, where five civil guardsmen were killed and four were wounded when a car bomb demolished their vehicle on Juan Bravo Street in the Salamanca district. Two pedestrians also were slightly injured. Officials blamed the bombing on terrorists of ETA, the Basque separatist organization in

The Basque language, ETA stands for Basque Land and Liberty. Witnesses said a parked car exploded as the guardsmen's Land Rover drove past, and a young man had been sitting in the car minutes before the blast at 7:25 a.m. Police said the car bomb was set off by remote control and contained 44 pounds of explosives and metal. Thirteen people have died in political violence in Spain this year, and since 1968, 155 civil guardsmen have been killed in terrorist attacks, most of them claimed by ETA. The victim in the Lyon shooting was Kenneth Marston, 43, a British businessman who was the top representative in France for the U.S.-owned Black & Decker Manufacturing Co. Hours after the attack, British and French news agencies received telephone calls claiming an Arab group was responsible. The caller to the French agency said, "We are a small Arab group. We claim responsibility for the attack this morning against the director of Black & Decker in reprisal for (inaudible) American." —Arthur L. Pollock, a communications officer at the U.S. Embassy in the North Yemen capital of Sana'a, was wounded by gunmen in a passing car as he was driving home from a religious service. Hospital sources in Sana'a said Pollock, 41, of Bakersfield, Calif., was wounded in the back and left shoulder but his life was not in danger. No group or individual asserted responsibility for the attack. In Washington, Deputy State Department spokesman Charles Hedman declined to say if he believed the shooting was linked to the increased terrorist attacks since the U.S. bombing of the Libyan cities of Tripoli and Benghazi. The explosion in Vienna, Austria, ripped a hole in the office door of Saudi, the Saudi Arabian airline, but there were no casualties. Police later found and defused a hand grenade in front of the Kuwait Airways Corp. office on the floor beneath Saudia. Police said they did not know what sort of device caused the explosion, but damage was slight. There was no immediate claim of responsibility. —The Saudi interior minister, Prince Nayef Bin Abdulaziz, is on a visit to Vienna and held talks Friday with Austrian officials on fighting international terrorism.

Daylight time back with U.S.

The Associated Press
WASHINGTON — Daylight saving time returns to America early Sunday, that annual occasion when Americans adjust their clocks ahead an hour, or show an hour late for church or other engagements of Sunday. Officially, the switch occurs at 2 a.m. local time Sunday, although most people will simply change their clocks before retiring Saturday night. The change moves an hour of daylight to the evening, giving us this year for tennis, barbecues and other summer-time activities — although it does mean many people will rise and head for work in the morning darkness. Daylight time lasts until the first Sunday in October. It's the 28th year — when it will be time for clocks to "fall back" to their standard setting.

Senator tries new tax plan

By JIM LUTHER
The Associated Press
WASHINGTON — The chairman of the Senate Finance Committee said Friday he is looking for a way to make his latest tax plan — no itemized deductions and a top rate of 25 percent — the magic formula that will spur the panel to overhaul the income-tax system. Chairman Bob Packwood, R-Ore., also said he has abandoned his earlier goal of completing committee action on taxes in early May. "I don't have any set timetable," he told reporters. "I have no idea" when the bill will be completed. Although most members of the committee favor lower tax rates, Packwood said, he is not sure they like them enough to pay them by eliminating deductions and exemptions. "I have no accurate gauge" he said, adding later: "The longer I'm at this, the less I am able to predict." Twenty-four hours after unveiling the new proposal to a closed meeting of his committee, Packwood said the plan is not something that he necessarily favors, but is just a series of options designed to refocus members' attention on the tax-reform goal. "I decided we should go back to square one and see if there was any enthusiasm for this," he added. Packwood suspended efforts to write a tax bill on April 18 after the Finance Committee repeatedly voted to expand, rather than scale back or eliminate, various special tax breaks. The stalemate developed after the panel had spent a month revising the tax plan proposed by Packwood, which, in turn, was modeled after President Reagan's. ## Governors close ranks over Guard use

By The Associated Press

Governors who may disagree about U.S. policy in Central America stood together Friday in opposing legislation being drafted by the Pentagon to trim their authority over National Guard units. "What they're trying to do is duck a political problem," said Gov. Bruce Babbitt of Arizona, a Democrat who has opposed combat training in Honduras for guard units. "I support the National Guard arrangement as it is," said Oklahoma Gov. George Nigh, a Democrat. As for training in Central America, "I want to make it clear that our men and women are ready to train anywhere deemed appropriate and necessary." R. Mark Lubbers, executive assistant to Republican Gov. Robert D. Orr of Indiana, called the Pentagon proposal "a bit of an overreaction." "There's a long tradition of the National Guard concept in American history and tampering with that would have some symbolic meaning that will cause the Pentagon more trouble than the issue warrants," Lubbers said. In Washington, James H. Webb, the assistant secretary of defense for reserve affairs, said Friday his office is working on a proposal to limit the authority of governors to block the deployment of guard units to foreign countries for training. Eight state governors are on record as opposing at least some guard assignments in Central America. Webb said Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger would make a decision on the matter within a week or so. Russ McKinney, a spokesman for Democratic Gov. Dick Riley of South Carolina, noted that his state has had troops in Honduras in Panama, and feels that "legislation is just totally unnecessary." "I don't see any need for it," said Gov. Joseph E. Brennan of Maine, who was the first governor to block guard training in Central America. "If he (Reagan) sees any great need, he has the capacity to federalize the Guard." "Secondly, as a matter of policy, I think what we've been inching toward down there is another Vietnam, and I hope our country has learned its lesson." Brennan, Gov. Michael G. Dukakis of Massachusetts and Gov. Madeleine Kunin have barred their units from training in Honduras, where U.S.-supported Contras have based their insurgency against neighboring Nicaragua. Gov. Mario Cuomo of New York has said he would oppose any guard mission connected with Nicaragua, and Govs. Booth Gardner of Washington and John Carlin of Kansas say their troops can train elsewhere. Gov. Tony Anaya said Friday that he would not permit New Mexico guard members to participate in maneuvers in Central America. All those governors are Democrats. • See GUARD on Page A2

Symms denies published charge of intoxication

The Associated Press
BOISE — Idaho Sen. Steve Symms issued a statement Friday flatly denying a published report that he was intoxicated during Senate debate three years ago. "It's simply not true," said Symms. His Boise office also released 14 pages of the Congressional Record for April 26, 1983, in which Symms engaged in a lively debate with other senators over the need for tougher penalties against farmers and others who use illegal alcohols. A book by an aide to former Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker claimed Symms may have been drunk during the debate. The book, "Running in Place," by James A. Miller, also said Symms conducted "a rambling, extemporaneous attack on the Republican Charles Grassley of Iowa" during the debate.

The Congressional Record transcript showed Symms was concerned about legislation that would penalize farmers and other businessmen who use alcohols for labor and the economic impact if all alcohols were forced to leave the country. In the information, Symms noted that according to his information, half the illegal alcohols are interested in this country are working on farms yet they make up only 10 percent of alcohol working in the country. "So 90 percent are working in factories and in other employment throughout the United States," Symms said. "And this would indicate that illegal alcohols are a much larger, much greater force in our economy than we would want to admit. Yet this bill does nothing to address the realities of the immigration problem we have in this country."

Symms said Thursday he was not inebriated. "That is just not true. Absolutely not." Symms said he was "combative in the debate." He added: "I had a spirited exchange all the way through there. See, the problem of it is the immigration issue is one that those people get all enthused about it that haven't really been in contact with what the problem is." Symms said Grassley and Baker, R-Tenn., tried to get the bill through the Senate that day with little notice to other senators. "It came over and started debating it," he said, adding that he stopped the vote. He said Miller was "trying to sell books." Baker, in a statement also said Symms had not been drunk. Miller, now a producer for CBS News in Washington, D.C., wrote that Symms' colleagues wondered why he would attack a conservative such as Grassley. "Gradually, those who have been listening to Symms speak, and those who have likely heard it from the cloakroom to catch this particular act, get the impression that the senator may be inebriated," Miller wrote in the book, which was published by Simon and Schuster and reviewed Sunday in The Washington Post. "The word in the cloakroom is that Symms had taken his secretaries out to celebrate Secretaries Week and lingered too long at lunch," the book says. "When he (Symms) finally sat down, the chambers sighs in relief." Miller's book is about the activities of the Senate during the week of April 25, 1983. The Symms incident, on April 28, covers only two pages of the book, but was used as an example. • See SYMMS on Page A2

President pauses on coast

The Associated Press
LOS ANGELES — President Reagan, en route to the Tokyo economic summit, traveled to the West Coast Friday to meet with members of a private foundation which wants to create a library in his name. An upbeat Reagan, saying the "winds of freedom" are swirling around the globe, took off earlier from Andrews Air Force Base on the first leg of a 22,300-mile, 13-day journey culminating in the Tokyo summit. Retelling the theme the administration has selected for the trip, Reagan spoke of "risk and bracing winds" sweeping out the old and believe, ushering in a new era of freedom. "It is a journey we are very excited about." Reagan, in brief remarks as he left from Andrews Air Force Base in a suburban Maryland-for-Los Angeles, his first stop, said he wants to reaffirm and renew the economic, "strategic" and "political ties" with allies. In Los Angeles, Reagan planned to meet later with members of the private foundation which is raising funds for a presidential library. He will be built once Reagan leaves office.

Oil import fee plan opposed

BOISE (AP) — A consumer advocate organization is urging Idaho Sen. Steve Symms to oppose any effort to impose an oil import fee.

Bruce Woenigmann, spokesman for Idaho Fair Share, said the average Idaho motorist is saving $115 a year in fuel costs because of the recent drop in gasoline prices.

A proposal to impose an import oil fee is a tariff designed to benefit oil-producing states such as Texas and California, and would be costly to Idaho residents.

Symms has taken no position so far on oil import fees.

This is bad legislation for both consumers and industry in Idaho, Woenigmann said. "Consumers who heat with natural gas have already seen a three-year price decline. Why pay more when you don't have to?" he asked.

Abortions at Bannock denied

POCATTELLO (AP) — No elective abortions have been performed at Bannock Regional Medical Center for two years, said Administrator Alan Stevenson.

But Barbara Dwyer, Right to Life of Idaho secretary, claims that abortions are being done at the hospital in the guise of other gynecological procedures.

Right to Life planned to conduct a candlelight vigil Friday in front of the hospital.

Dehl said about 1,000 people were expected to attend the vigil in which 2,000 candles were to be lighted, symbolizing the number of elective abortions performed in Idaho during 1985.

Prison officer's leg amputated

BOISE (AP) — Doctors have amputated the left leg of an Idaho State Penitentiary correctional officer who accidentally shot himself during a training exercise last Sunday.

Warden A. Arave said the leg of Don Ecker, 36, was amputated just above the knee. The officer was listed in fair condition at a Boise hospital.

Chief Deputy Warden George Bernick said Ecker was accidentally shot during a training session on the prison grounds.

Bernick said officers were being trained on a combat shotgun course with different shooting stations. Ecker was crawling on his stomach when the shotgun he was carrying discharged a round into his leg, Bernick said.

La Rocco calls Stewart 'a fake'

BOISE (AP) — Larry La Rocco, candidate for the District 21 Senate seat in Ada County, is urging Democrats to reject the candidacy of Joe Stewart, a Lyndon LaRouche supporter.

Stewart, who is seeking the Democratic nomination for the 1st Congressional District seat, is a loyal supporter of LaRouche, a right-wing candidate who sought the presidency in 1984, La Rocco said.

"I, and many other Idahoans, have worked long and hard over the years for a viable two-party system in Idaho," La Rocco said. "I don't want to see this system abused by a fake candidate in the Democratic primary."

"The tactics, hysteria and right-wing philosophy of Lyndon LaRouche need to be challenged early and forcefully by mainstream Idahoans," La Rocco said. "It would be a sad day for Idaho if our state proved to be fertile ground for the political hysteria of Lyndon LaRouche."

La Rocco is seeking the Senate seat held by Senate President Pro Tem James Risch, a Boise Republican.

Chadband stresses business

IDAHO FALLS (AP) — Rep. J.F. Chadband, R-Idaho, told senior citizens that he hopes to bring a businessman's approach to the halls of Congress.

"The government is the greatest employer and the biggest spender," Chadband, a candidate for Congress, said Thursday in a speech at the Idaho Falls Senior Citizens Center.

"My background is in business. I have won three elections and I have served four years in the Legislature," said Chadband.

He is one of five candidates running for the GOP nomination and the right to challenge Democratic incumbent Richard Stallings in the general election.

Chadband, who finished a distant second in the recent Republican party straw poll, considers himself very much in the race. He said he will begin a series of television advertisements beginning April 29.

Otter says he'll be salesman

IDAHO FALLS (AP) — C.L. "Butch" Otter says Idaho needs a salesman to expose its products on the foreign markets. And he says he's applying for the job.

Otter, president of Simplot International, told senior citizens in Idaho Falls Thursday that, "If you give this country boy a chance, I can sell a lot of groceries."

He's seeking the GOP nomination for lieutenant governor along with Chuck Lempsis of Post Falls. Democrat Marjorie Ruth Moon is unopposed in the primary election.

"We have a willing world out there, and they are willing to buy what we've got," Otter said. "I would like to see every Idaho product show its international wares."

Man gets sentence for fake gay letter

IDAHO FALLS (AP) — A 34-year-old Idaho Falls man was sentenced to six months in jail for signing his former boss's name to a fictitious letter to the editor in which the author claimed to be a homosexual.

Magistrate Judge L. Mark Riddoch also on Thursday ordered Vincent Craig Williams to pay $1,000 in restitution to Idaho Falls resident Dale Hepworth, 27.

Williams last week pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor charge of criminal libel.

The charge stemmed from a fictitious letter published in The Post-Register on April 7. The author said in the letter that he was homosexual, and urged legislation to support gay rights.

A signature bearing Hepworth's name appeared on the letter. The next day, The Post-Register ran a story explaining that Hepworth was not written the letter, and that it carried a false signature.

Police said they were able to compare the handwriting on the letter with handwriting in Williams' personnel file at Anderson Manufacturing, where Williams had worked under Hepworth, the shop foreman.

During a sentencing hearing Thursday, Hepworth testified Williams had been libel about six months ago.

He testified that about a week after the letter was published in The Post-Register, he received an anonymous letter that work in which the writer said that he and Hepworth were now "even."

Hepworth said he is a former LDS Church missionary who believes strongly in the teachings of the church, including its opposition to homosexuality.

"These allegations were totally against my grain," he testified. "It was very shocking to myself and my family."

Williams told the court he was sorry for what he had done. "It was meant to be a joke. It turned out to be otherwise," he said.

Riddoch last week released Williams on his own recognizance following his guilty plea.

But the defendant was arrested Wednesday after an Idaho Falls detective learned that he was packing a trailer to move his seven-member family back to Weaverville, Calif., where he had previously lived, police said.

Riddoch told Williams he was imposing the maximum penalty possible for the offense because of the serious damage to Hepworth's reputation.

Sheriff disagrees with hiring order

CALDWELL (AP) — The Canyon County Commission has ordered Sheriff Bill Anderson to comply with the county's hiring rules, but Anderson said he will "do some checking" before deciding whether to obey.

The commissioners and sheriff have battled over the hiring issue for months, but the dispute came to a head on Thursday as the county prepared to test 43 deputy applicants.

The Commission voted unanimously to prohibit Anderson from developing a hiring roster based on oral and written examinations.

Instead, commissioners approved a plan that would allow the sheriff to conduct oral interviews, but select deputies only from a list of about 20 of the top scorers in written and physical tests.

"I disagree with their position totally," Anderson said. "I'm not hiring robots. I'm hiring people who must deal with the public and be able to react well to situations in the field."

Canyon County Deputy Prosecutor Charles Saari told commissioners oral interviews are too subjective and could not be defended in court. The county's written test has been validated and can stand the test of court challenges, he said.

The Commission, citing the fear of lawsuits over unfair hiring practices, followed Saari's advice.

"We don't have any insurance," Commission Chairman Carlos Bledsoe said.

Officials coordinate Dallas search strategy

BOISE (AP) — Law enforcement authorities involved in the search for escaped killer Claude Dallas met in Boise on Friday to coordinate their efforts and share information, officials said.

Ada County Sheriff Vaughn Killeen said he called the meeting to make sure all the offices involved in the investigation of Dallas' March 30 escape from the Idaho State Penitentiary were headed in the same direction.

Besides Killeen at the meeting were Owyhee County Sheriff Tim Nettleton, Humboldt (Nev.) County Sheriff James Bagwell, and FBI special agent George Calley.

Killeen also unveiled an updated version of the Dallas wanted poster, which includes a reward goal of $25,000. The reward fund for Dallas' capture has reached about $5,000, mostly from the sale of drawings done by Bill Pogue, one of the Idaho Department of Fish and Game officers not to death by Dallas in 1981.

Dallas was serving 30 years in the prison south of Boise for the slayings of Pogue and game warden Conley Elms when he cut through two chain-link fences and fled nearly four weeks ago.

Tax hike criticized

WASHINGTON (AP) — Proposed increases in federal excise taxes would cost the typical Idaho family about $87 a year and would wipe out 45 percent of the tax reductions in a reform package passed by the House of Representatives in December, a Washington, D.C., lobbying group said.

Citizens for Tax Justice said Idaho residents would be among the hardest hit if Sen. Robert Packwood, R-Ore., wins passage of his proposal to increase taxes on the purchase of gasoline, beer, cigarettes and other items to raise $75 million in revenue.

Idaho residents older than 65 would pay a much higher share of their incomes in excise taxes than the national average, and the lowest-income Idahoans would lose 65 percent of the tax cuts provided by the House tax-reform bill, said Robert MacIntyre, director of federal tax policy for the group.

MacIntyre said other proposals, such as higher federal gasoline taxes, oil import fees and a so-called value-added tax, also would penalize Idaho residents.

Soviet emigre retracts confession, says she worked for FBI

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A Soviet emigre who pleaded guilty to spying with fired FBI agent Richard Miller has retracted her confession, saying she was working for the FBI and that Miller was "not a traitor," a judge at his espionage trial said Friday.

Svetlana Ogorodnikov, in a talk Thursday with U.S. District Judge David Kenyon, said the FBI knew that neither she nor Miller was guilty, but she pleaded guilty because she feared the jury wouldn't believe her because she was from the Soviet Union.

"Your honor, we are not guilty of this crime... Richard is not a traitor of his country. I am not a Russian spy. I was helping the (U.S.) government. That is true, your honor. We are not guilty of this crime," she said in the transcript of the meeting held in Kenyon's chambers Thursday. Her statement, which Kenyon released to reporters Friday, was not given to jurors.

In a related development, Kenyon said formal charges should be brought against one of Miller's represent Mrs. Ogorodnikov after he heard her statement. Kenyon said Mrs. Ogorodnikov's statement was made with the aid of a translator and in the presence of all the attorneys. Those who were present said she went several times while giving her account.

Mrs. Ogorodnikov spoke of an FBI "plan from Washington" involving her but did not specify what it was. Someday, she said, the identity of the person who drafted the plan would be known.

"My hands are clean. I not take no documents," said the 35-year-old woman. "I help America, not Russia."

Miller is accused of giving Mrs. Ogorodnikov classified documents in exchange for promises of $50,000 in gold and cash. A jury deadlock in November forced his current retrial.

She said at one point she visited the Soviet Union and Soviet agents beat her because "I think they understand I was working with the FBI."

She said she was pressured into pleading guilty by her attorneys.

"When I was arrested, I couldn't understand. They (her attorneys) told me I was Russian, and they would give me the life sentence," she said. "They told me no one would believe me. They told me the judge would maybe give me 40 years... I plead guilty, and my life is finished. If I go back to Soviet Union, they will certainly kill me."

Kenyon said he wanted to appoint her a new attorney to replace Brad Brian and Greg Stone, who had asked to be relieved, and Kenyon said he intended to find Greenberg in contempt of court for trying to influence the choice of counsel.

"I feel it is such a gross violation of all ethics... that the only alternative the court would have is a jail sentence," Kenyon said.

He put the matter in abeyance and said Miller's trial would go forward.

Mrs. Ogorodnikov said the attorneys' comments convinced her that her only hope was to take an 18-year sentence and hope she would get out in 10 years.

But after she took the witness stand this week in Miller's second trial, she said her conscience troubled her, and she couldn't sleep.

"I didn't want someone who is not guilty to be in prison," she said.

"That man (Miller) lie a lot about me, but it's not his fault. He is very emotional man."

She said when she pleaded guilty last June, she looked out in the audience and saw Miller's son.

"When I saw his son, his face, I thought if that be my son, could be in his place... I want to tell his son, 'Your father is not guilty. I was scared. I am Russian. The jury would not believe me. The FBI knew what I was doing.'"

Outdoor clothier Bauer dies at 86

BELLEVUE, Wash. (AP) — Eddie Bauer, who pioneered the use of goose down sleeping bags and quilted down jackets and built an outdoor clothing empire, has died. He was 86.

Fifty years ago, Bauer sewed himself a down jacket after a brush with disaster in the woods.

"I knew the value of down," Bauer once said. "But not until I had hypothermia and nearly died on a steelhead fishing trip did I do anything about it."

Bauer went on to supply goose-down flight suits to U.S. pilots during World War II and helped equip the 1963 expedition that allowed Jim Whitaker to become the first American atop Mount Everest.

The Eddie Bauer Co., based in Redmond, has 41 retail outlets in the United States and Canada and 2 million mail-order customers. Bauer sold his interest in the company in 1968 to General Mills.

Bauer, who lived in suburban Bellevue, died April 18 just 15 days after his wife of 37 years, Christine, 82, died of cancer. The couple celebrated their 57th wedding anniversary Feb. 22, two days after Mrs. Bauer was diagnosed as having cancer.

"No one is sure what Dad died of," his son, Eddie C. Bauer of Redmond, said Thursday. "I think he died because of deep depression over Mom's death."

The son of Russian immigrants, Bauer was born on Orcas Island on Oct. 19, 1899. At 13, he began working in a Seattle sporting goods store.

In 1920, he opened his first store in Seattle, stringing tennis rackets with a special vise he had devised.

"A year later, I'd put away $10,000," he said. "And that was at a time when bank executives made $1,000 a year."

When he moved to a larger store, he added golf clubs to his line, but the shop still was not filled. So friends at a shoe store saved boxes, and Bauer had shipping labels saying "Eddie Bauer" printed.

"I stuck them on the boxes and stacked them up along one wall," he said. "It made it look like I had a big inventory."

An avid fisherman and camper, Bauer was issued a patent from the U.S. Patent Office in 1926 for quilted down jackets and goose-down sleeping bags.

EDDIE BAUER
Pioneered use of down

His interest in goose down began with a tale told him by his uncle, who had been a Cossack officer during the Russo-Japanese War in 1905. During one battle in cold weather, his uncle said, the down-insulated liner worn by Russian officers saved their lives.

After his own brush with hypothermia, he sewed himself a down jacket — the prototype of the Skyliner jacket still sold today.

In addition to his son, Bauer is survived by three grandchildren.

There will be no funeral at Bauer's request, the son said.

Soviet emigre retracts confession, says she worked for FBI

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A Soviet emigre who pleaded guilty to spying with fired FBI agent Richard Miller has retracted her confession, saying she was working for the FBI and that Miller was not a traitor, a judge at his espionage trial said Friday.

Svetlana Ogorodnikov, in a talk Thursday with U.S. District Judge David Kenyon, said the FBI knew that neither she nor Miller was guilty, but she pleaded guilty because she feared the jury wouldn't believe her because she was from the Soviet Union.

"Your honor, we are not guilty of this crime. Richard is not a traitor of his country. I am not a Russian spy. I was helping the (U.S.) government. That is true, your honor. We are not guilty of this crime," she said in the transcript of the meeting held in Kenyon's chambers Thursday. Her statement, which Kenyon released to reporters Friday, was not given to jurors.

In a related development, Kenyon said formal charges against Miller brought against one of Miller's

Says agent no traitor

represent Mrs. Ogorodnikov after he heard her statement. Kenyon said Mrs. Ogorodnikov's statement was made with the aid of a translator and in the presence of all the attorneys. Those who were present said she wept several times while giving her account.

Mrs. Ogorodnikov spoke of a FBI "plan from Washington" involving her but did not specify what it was. Someday, she said, the identity of the person who drafted the plan would be known.

"My hands are clean. I not take no documents," said the 35-year-old Russian. "I help America, not Russia."

Miller is accused of giving Mrs. Ogorodnikov classified documents in exchange for promises of $65,000 in gold and cash. A jury deadlock in November forced his current retrial.

She said at one point she visited the Soviet Union and Soviet agents beat her because "I think they understand I was working with the FBI."

She said she was pressured into pleading guilty by her attorneys.

"When I was arrested, I couldn't understand. They (her attorneys) told me I was Russian, and they would give me the life sentence," she said. "They told me no one would believe me. They told me the judge would maybe give me 40 years. . . I plead guilty, and my life is finished. If I go back to Soviet Union, they will certainly kill me."

Kenyon said he wanted to appoint her a new attorney to replace Brad Brian and Greg Stone, who had asked to be relieved, and Kenyon said he intended to find Greenberg in contempt of court for trying to influence the choice of counsel.

"I feel it is such a gross violation of all ethics. . . that the only alternative the court would have is a jail sentence," Kenyon said.

He put the matter in abeyance and said Miller's trial would go forward.

Mrs. Ogorodnikov said the attorneys' comments convinced her that her only hope was to take an 18-year sentence and hope she would get out in 10 years.

But after she took the witness stand this week in Miller's second trial, she said her conscience troubled her, and she couldn't sleep.

"I didn't want someone who is not guilty to be in prison," she said.

"That man (Miller) lie a lot about me, but it's not his fault. He is very emotional man."

She said when she pleaded guilty last June, she looked out in the audience and saw Miller's son.

"When I saw his son, his face, I thought if that be my son, could be in his place. . . I want to tell his son. 'Your father is not guilty.' I was scared. I am Russian. The jury would not believe me. The FBI knew what I was doing."

Outdoor clothier Bauer dies at 86

BELLEVUE, Wash. (AP) — Eddie Bauer, who pioneered the use of goose-down sleeping bags and quilted down jackets and built an outdoor clothing empire, has died. He was 86.

Fifty years ago, Bauer sewed himself a down jacket after a brush with disaster in the woods.

"I knew the value of down," Bauer once said. "But not until I had hypothermia and nearly died on a steelhead fishing trip did I do anything about it."

Bauer went on to supply goose-down flight suits to U.S. pilots during World War II and helped equip the 1963 expedition that allowed Jim Whitaker to become the first American atop Mount Everest.

The Eddie Bauer Co., based in Redmond, has 41 retail outlets in the United States and Canada and 2 million mail-order customers. Bauer said his interest in the company in 1968 to General Mills.

Bauer, who lived in suburban Bellevue, died April 18 just 15 days after his wife of 57 years, Christine, 82, died of cancer. The couple celebrated their 57th wedding anniversary Feb. 22, two days after Mrs. Bauer was diagnosed as having cancer.

"No one is sure what Dad died of," his son, Eddie C. Bauer of Redmond, said Thursday. "I think he died because of deep depression over Mom's death."

The son of Russian immigrants, Bauer was born on Orcas Island on Oct. 19, 1899. At 13, he began working in a Seattle sporting goods store.

In 1920, he opened his first store in Seattle, stringing tennis rackets with a special vise he had devised.

"A year later, I'd put away $10,000," he said. "And that was at a time when bank executives made $1,800 a year."

When he moved to a larger store, he added golf clubs to his line, but the shop still was not filled. So friends at a shoe store saved boxes, and Bauer had shipping labels saying "Eddie Bauer" printed.

"I stuck them on the boxes and stacked them up along one wall," he said. "It made it look like I had a big inventory."

An avid fisherman and camper, Bauer was issued a patent from the U.S. Patent Office in 1908 for quilted down jackets and goose-down sleeping bags.

EDDIE BAUER
Pioneered use of down

His interest in goose down began with a tale told him by his uncle, who had been a Cossack officer during the Russo-Japanese War in 1905. During one battle in cold weather, his uncle said, the down-insulated liner worn by Russian officers saved their lives.

After his own brush with hypothermia, he sewed himself a down-jacket — the prototype of the Skyliner jacket still sold today.

In addition to his son, Bauer is survived by three grandchildren. "There will be no funeral at Bauer's request," the son said.

Ethics officer requests Deaver probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's top ethics officer asked the Justice Department on Friday to investigate whether Michael K. Deaver, a former White House aide who operates a lobbying business, violated conflict-of-interest laws.

David Martin, head of the Office of Government Ethics, referred the case to the Justice Department on the same day that President Reagan said he thinks it is "ridiculous" to appoint a special prosecutor to investigate Deaver.

Martin refused to comment on what caused him to write Attorney General Edwin Meese asking for Justice Department's involvement. "I made an analysis of the facts and the situation and provided that for the attorney general's consideration," he said.

John Russell, a Justice Department spokesman, said Martin's letter will be given to lawyers in the public integrity section who will study the Deaver file before Meese decides whether a preliminary investigation is warranted.

Such a probe would have to be completed in 90 days. Then the attorney general would have to make his recommendation on a special prosecutor to a three-judge panel, which has the final say on the matter, Russell said.

He said it was "too early to say" Meese, who worked closely with Deaver at the White House, would disqualify himself from the case.

On Thursday, five Democratic senators wrote Meese, saying Deaver's lobbying raised enough questions to warrant a special prosecutor's attention.

"We believe that the alleged facts which have been widely written about in the news media are sufficient to 'specify' the trigger" of the statute calling for a special prosecutor, said a letter signed by Senate Minority Leader Robert Byrd of West Virginia, and Sens. Joseph Biden, Delaware; Paul Simon, Illinois; Howard Meltzman, Ohio, and Patrick Leahy of Vermont.

The letter cited concern about Deaver's activities on behalf of four clients: Canada, South Korea, Puerto Rico and Rockwell International.

Deaver's office released a statement saying he is "confident that a presentation of the complete set of facts will show his absolute integrity while in public service and private business."

Reagan was asked what he thought about appointing a special prosecutor as the "stepped off" Air Force One in Los Angeles.

"I think the whole thing is ridiculous," said the president, who left Washington earlier in the day on with these allegations in the official investigations that are now in progress," the statement said.

Federal law makes it a crime for former top government officials to lobby the colleagues with whom they worked for one year after leaving office. For two years, the ex-officials are barred from lobbying on issues in which they were involved.

Meanwhile, White House spokesman Larry Speakes, who was traveling on Air Force One, said Reagan "doesn't have any problem" with allowing Deaver to have his daily, private schedule. "Others do," Speakes added.

Speakes said the private version given to Deaver and a "half-dozen or so" others outside government is mainly former White House staffers and personal friends. It is not much different from the public schedule provided to reporters.

The Secret Service has a policy of not revealing information about the president's whereabouts.

Killing site memorial planned

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The city will place a small memorial at the site of a former McDonald's restaurant where a gunman opened fire in 1984, killing 21 people.

City Manager Sylvester Murray told the San Ysidro Chamber of Commerce on Thursday that the plan calls for "an attractive, dignified memorial" on a portion of the now-vacant lot. The rest of the property will be used as parking for an adjacent post office.

San Ysidro, about 20 miles south of downtown, is governed by San Diego.

Murray said he envisioned a fountain surrounded by landscaping and walkways, "not just a small plaque in the sidewalk."

If a design is submitted and approved and funds appropriated, the monument could be completed by July 15, the second anniversary of the massacre.

Earthquake plans not needed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nuclear Regulatory Commission did not have to consider an earthquake evacuation plan before granting a license for a nuclear power plant at Diablo Canyon on the Central California coast, a split U.S. Court of Appeals said Thursday.

The appeals court divided 5-4 in ruling in allowing the NRC to "consistently interpret... its emergency planning regulation not to require consideration of earthquakes."

The Mothers of Peace in San Luis Obispo, Calif., group that has led the 10-year legal challenge to the $5.8 billion plant, wants the commission to consider the possibility of an earthquake in evaluating evacuation plans for a nuclear emergency. The group argued that the NRC, in evaluating evacuation plans before licensing, already considers natural phenomena such as fog and heavy rain.

Alaskan volcano erupts again

ABOVE-AUGUSTINE VOLCANO, Alaska (AP) — Rocks the size of compact cars bounced down slopes, and steam and ash billowed miles into the sky Friday as this tectonic mountain served notice it may be ready to blow its top again.

Augustine Volcano, a 4,025-foot mountain that created its own island from lava and ash thousands of years ago in Cook Inlet, went into its second eruptive phase in about a month Wednesday night.

Although its plume soared to more than 16,000 feet before leveling off and drifting generally north-northeast, the activity was milder than that experienced last month, when the corrosive ash disrupted air travel around Anchorage and triggered health alerts in the state's largest city.

Slain diver's parents get medal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The parents of a Navy diver killed in the terrorist hijacking of a TWA jetliner last year were presented a Bronze Star in memory of Robert Dean Stethem's "extraordinary courage and unwavering inner strength."

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stethem accepted the award during a somber ceremony Friday at the Navy Seabee Memorial near the Arlington National Cemetery.

Both parents fought back tears as the medal's citation was read to a crowd of roughly 100 people, including sailors from Stethem's Underwater Construction Team One.

Stethem was executed by hijackers in Beirut, Lebanon, last June during the takeover of Flight 847. The award cites Stethem for "exceptional valor and professional integrity" during the hijacking.

Man arrested in slaying case

RAYMONDVILLE, Mo. (AP) — A man was arrested after a day-long manhunt Friday in connection with the killing of a bank president's wife and the wounding of the executive and another bank official, authorities said.

The suspect was identified by police as Roy G. White, 40, of Houston, Mo.

Texas County Prosecutor Brad Eidson was preparing charges of murder and extortion to be filed against White on Friday night or Saturday, said Lt. Ralph Bielo of the Missouri Highway Patrol.

White, who was being held in the Texas County Jail in Houston, was arrested about 4:30 p.m. a few miles west of here, Bielo said. He would not say if White was arrested as part of the manhunt.

The investigation was continuing, Bielo said, but would not say how many other suspects might be sought.

Reagan orders missile study

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, as part of a review of the SALT II arms accord, has ordered the Pentagon to conduct a study of mobile missiles and the future shape of America's land-based nuclear missile arsenal, administration sources said Friday.

The order, contained in a classified "national decision directive," asks military planners to study the feasibility of a larger, 70,000-pound-plus mobile missile that could carry three nuclear warheads, the sources said.

Gunmen hit U.S. officer in N. Yemen

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) — A U.S. Embassy spokesman said a U.S. officer was shot in the head in similar circumstances several hours after U.S. air raids on Libya. He was flown to a hospital in Saudi Arabia, and a U.S. Embassy spokesman in Jidda said he was taken to West Germany on Friday for further treatment.

Pollock was shot while driving alone in Hibda, a new residential suburb of Sana'a, after attending a service in the home of a friend, said a spokesman at the U.S. Embassy reached by telephone from Bahrain. North Yemen has no Christian churches and services are held privately.

In Washington, deputy State Department spokesman Charles Redman said the communications officer, who is from Bakersfield, Calif., was hit by two or three bullets and was able to walk to his home and summon aid.

No one claimed responsibility for the attack. Redman would not say whether he believed the shooting was part of a pattern of increased terrorist attacks since the U.S. bombing of Tripoli and Benghazi.

Redman said the response from the Yemeni authorities. "In terms of both medical assistance and for the security for Americans in Sana'a, has been excellent."

A statement by the North Yemen Interior Ministry said investigators were working on the case.

About 1,000 Americans live in North Yemen, on the Red Sea near the southern end of the Arabian Peninsula.

Uncle Sam's checks hot; Fed covers them

WASHINGTON (AP) — The tale is all too familiar: A large number of unpaid bills forces the writing of some hot checks to cover them. But in this case, it was Uncle Sam. Writing the rubber checks.

Officials revealed Friday that the U.S. Treasury's account at the Federal Reserve, Uncle Sam's banker, was overdrawn on Wednesday.

"Because of outlays that were unexpectedly higher relative to receipts on Wednesday, the Treasury inadvertently exhausted its deposit accounts at the Federal Reserve Banks," the Fed said in a statement.

No government checks were returned stamped "insufficient funds," however.

In an understanding that millions of Americans wish they had with their own banks, the Fed stepped in and covered the checks until the Treasury could replenish its account through government tax collections Thursday.

This procedure for handling clearly inadvertent overnight overdrafts has been in place since mid-1982, the Fed said.

While officials would not say how many times the overdraft protection has been needed, it was used at least one other time — last Oct. 9. At that time, the federal government reportedly had an overdraft of $100 million that the Fed covered, a figure never confirmed by the government.

Likewise, officials would not give the figure for Wednesday's overdraft. At the close of business Tuesday, there had been $1.96 billion in the checking account.

That missile was originally envisioned by Congress and administration officials as a single-warhead missile that could be carted around on a truck-like launcher.

Deaver's lobbying has contributed to intense scrutiny of the issue. Here are some other developments: A House Energy and Commerce subcommittee intends to hold hearings on Deaver's activities in mid-May after receiving a General Accounting Office report. Michael Barber, the committee's chief counsel, said. The Office of Government Ethics is investigating Deaver's lobbying. The Senate Judiciary Committee will hold a hearing on April 29 on a bill introduced by Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., the committee's chairman. Among other things, the measure makes it illegal for a small number of high-ranking officials to work for a foreign government after leaving office.

Gunmen hit U.S. officer in N. Yemen

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) — Gunmen in speeding car shot and wounded a U.S. Embassy communications officer in North Yemen while he was driving home from a religious service Friday, American officials said. Hospital sources in Sana'a, capital of North Yemen, said Arthur L. Pollock, 41, had undergone surgery and his life was not in danger. They said he was wounded in the back and left shoulder. On April 15, communications officer William Caultkins of the U.S. Embassy in Sudan was shot in the head in similar circumstances several hours after U.S. air raids on Libya. He was flown to a hospital in Saudi Arabia, and a U.S. Embassy spokesman in Jidda said he was taken to West Germany on Friday for further treatment.

Pathologists still not certain how Challenger's crew died

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Pathologists have not determined how the seven crew members of the space shuttle Challenger died despite an extensive analysis of remains, NASA's shuttle director said Friday.

"I had hoped that a careful and professional examination of the remains would provide the answer," Rear Adm. Richard Truly said in a statement. "The examinations have not revealed any conclusive evidence about either the cause or time of death."

Truly said the determination was a difficult and time-consuming task, and that officials were examining the remains and the wreckage as well as analyzing photographs and radar to determine what forces were imposed on the spacecraft.

"The wreckage examination task is complicated by the amount of damage done at water impact," he said. "Whether or not a cabin rupture occurred prior to water impact has not yet been determined by a superficial examination of recovered components. An in-depth analysis with significant testing of the wreckage is required and is being pursued."

The cause of death could help experts determine exactly how the shuttle reacted to the explosion of the solid rocket boosters just after liftoff, which could help in designing additional safety features. The seven could have died from the shock of the initial explosion, from toxic gases, from rapid decompression of the cabin or from impact with the ocean.

"Extremely large forces were imposed on the vehicle as evidenced by the immediate breakup into many pieces," Truly said in the statement.

"The determination of the magnitude and direction of their forces and their effect on the crew module is a lengthy process. . . . Once these forces have been accurately determined, if in fact they can be, the structural analysts will attempt to estimate the effect on the structural and pressure integrity of the crew module."

NBC News, citing knowledgeable sources, reported Thursday night that Challenger's astronauts could not have survived long if at all because of extreme cabin pressure and gravity forces.

Final radio data from the shuttle cabin showed pressure inside reached 800 pounds per square inch, far above the 52 psi necessary to blow out the cabin windows and to rupture the casing, NBC said. With the pressure seal broken, the seven would have died almost instantly from rapid decompression.

The network also quoted the sources as saying that the force of the explosion shot Challenger's nose section, with the crew compartment inside, 7,000 feet upward, subjecting the cabin to forces more than 100 times the pull of gravity. Such forces would kill the astronauts, the sources said.

NBC said the sources made the disclosure to dispel speculation that the five men and two women in the crew might have survived the 3-to-4-minute plunge to the surface of the Atlantic Ocean after the Jan. 28 accident.

Some news organizations raised this possibility after NASA released a series of 10 pictures on Wednesday that showed the nose section and cabin being blown free of the explosion and falling from the sky apparently intact.

"They shattered when they hit the ocean at a speed of between 140 and 180 mph.

Divers who located the cabin debris said it was a pile of rubble and that the bodies of the astronauts were unrecognizable.

NASA announced last Saturday that it had completed recovery of the crew remains. Forensic experts have been examining and identifying them at a medical laboratory here.

The bodies will be flown Tuesday to a military mortuary at Dover Air Force Base in Delaware. There they will be prepared for burial in accordance with the wishes of the individual families," NASA said.

Killed in the explosion were Dick Scobee, the spacecraft commander; Michael Smith, the pilot; mission specialist Judith A. Resnik; Ellison S. Onizuka and Ronald E. McNair; Gregory Jarvis, a Hughes Aircraft engineer; and Christa McAuliffe, a schoolteacher selected as NASA's first ordinary citizen in space.

Lost Titan missile bore 'Big Bird' satellite

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Titan rocket that exploded seconds after launch from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., on April 13 was carrying an Air Force "Big Bird" reconnaissance satellite, which returns its information by dropping off film pods that are then retrieved by airplanes, a magazine reports.

The satellite, which was destroyed along with the rocket, was not the K11-1 type as had been reported, Aviation Week and Space Technology said, in its April 28 issue. The K11-1, a CIA satellite, radioed its imagery to antennas at Fort Belvoir, Va.

Accident investigators are certain one of the vehicle's two solid rocket boosters exploded and they are trying to determine whether the cause was a defect in the rocket or whether a range safety "destructure package" went off accidentally, the magazine said.

Aviation Week said the loss of satellite reconnaissance capability — only one K11-1 satellite is in orbit — will be offset by expanding flights of the SR-71 and U-2 spy planes.

The Big Bird spacecraft destroyed in the explosion was the last of the series.

Criticism of NASA draws shot

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration, in an unprecedented move, issued a detailed response Friday to two articles in The New York Times, calling the newspaper's criticisms of NASA management "inaccurate."

Richard Fiaste, the director of science news at the Times who coordinated the articles, said in response that he was "enormously proud of this series" and defended its accuracy.

An article published Wednesday in the Times said audits show that NASA and its contractors "have wasted billions of dollars on the space shuttle and other space programs" despite warnings by government inspectors that such heavy losses were occurring through bad management.

A Thursday story said the audits disclose the space agency cut or delayed a half-billion dollars on safety testing, design and development from the time the shuttle program began to when Challenger seven and on Jan. 28; killing its crew of seven.

NASA Friday released a five-page, single-space statement that it said was in response to the articles "alleging management problems of the space agency."

"The two-article series deals with implications and draws conclusions which, in significant respects, do not accurately represent the way NASA is managed," the statement said.

"The primary focus of the articles is on audits and safety with particular emphasis on the space shuttle program, a uniquely technical and complex spaceflight system undertaken in an economical manner providing adequate testing to insure that safety was always the first consideration," NASA said.

Fiaste said of the series: "I think it's accurate. It stands on its own. It quoted official sources. This was not The New York Times making allegations."

He added that in Saturday's editions of the Times, the newspaper would quote Harry R. Finley, a top official with the General Accounting Office, as saying that his agency's findings were accurately reported in the series.

Finley added Friday, Fiaste said, that NASA had not been responsive to auditors' suggestions for managerial improvement.

The NASA statement said some of the problems cited from the audits "are related to activities several years ago and have been corrected or are being corrected."

22-month-old Christopher Chambers, held by his mother Cheryl, was rescued unharmed from a shaft.

Workers dig, pull toddler from hole

COLTS NECK, N.J. (AP) — Workers tunneled through sandy soil at a farm to rescue a toddler who fell down a 15-foot hole just wide enough for his body.

Christopher Chambers, 21 months, was trapped for more than two hours Thursday before rescue workers dug a parallel hole and tunneled horizontally to reach him, authorities said.

The boy was admitted to Freehold Area Hospital for observation, but was not injured, said nursing supervisor Elizabeth Baker.

"He's doing real good," she said today.

The boy slipped into the hole, drilled to determine the location of the water table, at about 6:45 p.m., apparently after wandering from his home 100 feet away, said police Sgt. Charles Griffin. He was freed shortly after 9 p.m.

"He was playing in the sandbox outside the house," said the boy's father, Donald Chambers. "My wife was in the bathroom. The phone rang. I went in to answer it. When I came out, he was gone."

"They went to search for Christopher, heard him screaming from the hole and called for help."

Slightly was the boy wedged into the 1-foot-diameter hole that he could not move his head to look up, officials said.

"You can see the top of his head and the top of his fingers. That's about all you see," Griffin said while the boy was trapped. "He can't move that much."

The boy fell with his arms over his head and slightly forward, according to Sgt. Thomas Hartman, creating an air pocket enabling him to breathe.

"He was very, very lucky," Hartman said. "The way he went in the hole is probably what saved him."

Rescuers lowered an oxygen tube wrapped in a metal pipe to the boy, he said.

Griffin said workers tried to hook the boy's clothing and lowered a rope with a slip knot in an effort to snare one of his hands.

Rescue squad members then used a back hoe to dig the parallel hole, said state Trooper Chris Hughes.

Charles "Buck," the township superintendent of roads, and Darren Elliott and Jack White of the Fort Monmouth Fire Department tunneled toward Christopher using shovels and their hands.

"The feeling of relief when we went down toward (the rescuers), when they said they were going to pull him out, I'll tell you, that was a great feeling," Hartman said.

Rescue workers had feared the walls of the hole might collapse onto the boy during digging of the adjacent hole because the soil was sandy.

Griffin said the boy's family lives on the farm, but does not own it.

"Supposedly the place is for sale and I guess they're going to build houses on it," he said.

Makeshift crews prepare for cardboard regatta

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP) — Would-be skippers with glue and tape at the ready are converging on Southern Illinois University for today's Cardboard Boat Regatta, a tribute to soggy paper and spectacular sinkings.

"We run this kind of like the Grand Ole Opry. Whoever shows up plays," said Richard Archer, organizer of the 13th annual event.

So far there are 78 entries, Archer said Friday. "But we had 43 last year and ended up with 145 boats." The extravaganza on SIU's Campus Lake drew about 15,000 spectators a year ago.

Entrants compete in three categories: boats powered by paddles; boats powered by paddle wheels, propellers or sails; and "instant boats" made by spectators given building materials two hours before race time. All are made of corrugated paper.

The winner is the one who crosses the finish line first.

But Archer, who originated the event as a project for his design students in 1974, said there are other ways to take home a trophy.

One award is for best design, another for the most attractive or spectacular boat before the race and a third goes to the most spirited and best-organized team.

The most highly sought prize may be the Titanic Award, given to the skipper or team making the most of disaster — sinking in style.

The 1985 Titanic winner was a barge carrying six people that took on water in its preliminary race but lasted until the semifinals.

Arbor awards are scheduled

NEBRASKA CITY, Neb. (AP) — The National Arbor Day Foundation has announced individuals and organizations it will honor today for contributions to planting and care of trees.

Foundation awards will be presented at the 14th annual National Arbor Day awards banquet.

Among those honored will be James Fazio of Moscow, Idaho; the Ohio Municipal League; the Virginia-Pilot in Norfolk, Va., for its article on "Family Trees"; the Colorado State Forest Service; the Georgia Forestry Commission's Urban Forestry Project for its motion picture "Trees and Cities Living Together"; and KTVI-TV in St. Louis.

Other awards will be presented to the Austin, Texas, Chamber of Commerce; Boy Scouts of America; and Elm Research Institutes for a

"Johnny Elmseed" project; Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs; Hinds County Soil and Water Conservation District in Jackson, Miss.; LaCross Rotary East of LaCross, Wis.; San Jacinto Mountain Chapter of the Isaac Walton League of America in Idyllwild, Calif.; and Webster Parish 4-H Clubs of Minden, La.

Paul grade schoolers reaching for the stars

By RONDA TAYLOR
Times-News correspondent

PAUL — Paul Elementary School has become the first school in Idaho to be declared a "Shuttle School" by Reach for the Stars '89, a private organization dedicated to raising funds to build another space shuttle.

The second school in the nation to donate at least $1 dollar per pupil for the shuttle fund and be designated a "Shuttle School."

Reach for the Stars '89 was formed after the space shuttle Challenger disaster last January. It has recently begun the "Shuttle School" program throughout the USA. Teachers Laura Workman and Robin Anderson, sponsors of the 52-member Paul Young Astronauts Club, said they are "proud" of the school's accomplishment. Paul students went beyond their goal of $600, and raised $825 in a 17-day period. Paul students filled the auditorium Friday to watch Mark Griggs, of Burley, secretary of Reach for the Stars '89, accept their donation, and present the school with a plaque commemorating its achievement.

The school will also soon receive a model shuttle ship and a letter from U.S. Rep. Richard Stalling, D-Idaho. A display of all the items is planned for the school trophy case.

"You kids should stand tall," Griggs told the youngsters. "When you go off, you can say you helped build that."

He praised the students' shuttle stories and art works, which decorated the school walls, and encouraged them to continue to support space exploration.

Griggs said that "kids" may argue it costs too much to build a new space shuttle and that it can't be done. "But don't try to tell that to the children at Paul Elementary School," he added.

The students enthusiastically whistled and clapped for themselves following the presentation.

"Our little tiny school here in Idaho, so far removed from the space agency, has shown how much we care about the space program," Workman said.

Students who donated $2 were presented with a shuttle glider, which contained information about the space program. The gliders were contributed by a California firm at their cost of $1. Students also held a popcorn sale at the school to raise additional cash.

"I'm very excited," said Luke Suhr, a third-grader and Young Astronaut. He plans to be a scientist or an astronomer and feels that he'll need information from a continuing space program.

Stephanie King, a fourth-grade Young Astronaut, said "Everybody liked to help," in the fund-raising project.

Young Astronauts is a national organization with over 4,000 chapters designed to help promote science, math and the space program through the schools. Workman has led third, fourth, and fifth grade students in the program since last November. Students' first and second graders joined the club in January, only a week before the shuttle disaster.

The Paul Young Astronauts worked closely with Griggs, a Burley businessman, to encourage school participation in the fund-raising program.

Other schools in the Mini-Cassia area are also working to become "Shuttle Schools." Griggs noted that support for his group is from the "grassroots" and money raised will be channeled into the U.S. space program.

JEROME — Under threatening clouds, about 200 Jerome High School students held a protest rally before class Friday to show support for Athletic Director Jon Jund, who is leaving amid a row.

A statement prepared by the students blasted both sides for being involved in a "power struggle" and taking "immovable, harsh stances."

'(We) call on both sides to put aside their egos and remember that we, the students, are the ones whose growth they should be concerned about.'

— Paula Simerly

'I believe in academics, but extracurricular activities also are an important part of the educational process. I'm tired of the administration saying they support it, but then treating it like a frill.'

— Jon Jund

The Jerome School Board voted in March to require Jund, who is also the school's head football coach to teach for three periods per day. He would serve as athletic director during the remainder of the year.

The board said the move was a cost-cutting measure and would save the district an estimated $8,000.

Students stood in the bleachers behind the school and chanted slogans for Jund's supporters for effect. Three student leaders answered questions for the press.

Sophomore Paula Simerly said the students "call on both sides to put aside their egos—and remember that we, the students, are the ones whose growth they should be concerned about."

Jund, who has been with the district five years, said he was unaware of the student-organized protest until he arrived about 8 a.m. at school. He said the students needed a chance to have a say, but it would make little difference in the outcome.

Jund said he decided to leave because he "felt the district's athletic program was taking 'two giant steps backwards.'"

Jund said the battle right now is more of a philosophical debate over the role of sports and extracurricular activities.

"I believe in academics, but extracurricular activities also are an important part of the educational process," he said. "I'm tired of the administration saying they support it, but then treating it like a frill."

Jund said the decision to reduce the athletic director's position to part-time was a matter of priority. He said the community believes too much is being spent on sports because citizens do not realize how little taxpayer money is spent.

"People drive by and think we spend too much on athletics," he said. "What they don't realize is that most of what we've done has been donated."

Jund said he was disappointed about leaving, but "I'm not bitter."

"Everybody is replaceable, and if you think you're not, you're just kidding yourself."

Jund's football team won the state Class A-2 high school football championship. The school's speech and debate team also won state championships last year.

Laura Jensen, a junior, said students were not optimistic about changing the situation. "We just wanted him to know that we're with him wherever he goes, but we'd like him to stay."

Jund said, "But we understand why he's leaving."

Jerome High School's Jon Jund says that the district's athletic program is taking "two giant steps backwards."

Elliott challenges Tominaga

By DEAN MILLER
Times-News writer

DECLO — Calling himself a "free enterprise" Democrat, Edward Elliott of Declo is running for the District 24B Senate seat now held by state Sen. Lynn Tominaga. Paul, the 72-year-old Boise native said he has decided to run because he "thinks Idaho needs a two-party Legislature and because recent sessions of the Legislature have made him "disturbed and upset," adding: "I just feel like they've not come to grips with the situation in Idaho; there is a lot of petty bickering going on."

Idaho's faltering economy is his number-one concern, Elliott said. "The wealth-producing industries of this country: mining, lumbering, steel, textiles, are all in deep trouble." He said the only parts of the economy that are strong are those related to national defense, and those payrolls are all paid by the federal government. If elected, he said he would work to encourage the federal government to promote open markets for American goods so that basic industries could once again be strong.

Although he did not know how much money it would take, Elliott said the Idaho Department of Commerce ought to be adequately funded and forceful. "I feel that things are stagnated. In business, when things go tough, you didn't draw in your horns, you gave it hell," he said.

Adequate funding of education in Idaho will follow industrial growth, said Elliott. "The education system goes hand-in-hand with these other industries. The schools have got to be properly equipped and the teachers have to be adequately paid."

Rather than increasing taxes, Elliott said, better schools will have to be paid for with new money from business growth and new business. "If people were working and paying taxes, they wouldn't be in that position," he said.

But if taxes must be raised in the interim before the economy rebounds, Elliott said the sales tax is not his first choice.

The sales tax is most unfair and probably ought to be extended to services before the rate is raised, he said. "The income tax, if it could be forceful, I feel that things are

Travel committee to promote region

By BOB FREUND
Times-News writer

LEWISTON — The Idaho Travel Committee will whisper "Southern Idaho" in the ears of travelers on the way to Expo '86 in Vancouver or to the inland parks of the Rockies this summer.

The state agency Friday gave out more than $200,000 in grants to promote the Snake River region and central Idaho mountains to would-be visitors from Salt Lake City, Cheyenne, Reno, Missoula and a number of other cities in the region. Included also were advertising campaigns this winter to lure skiers to the vast, other areas of the West, including California.

In its annual grants session, Idaho's tourism agency approved $764,424 for promotions statewide during the rest of 1988 and early 1987.

The ITC focused on bringing visitors in from out-of-state during what could be one of the big years for tourism in the United States.

The Magicland Regional Travel Committee, which covers the Magic and Wood River valleys, will receive $106,400 to promote attractions on radio and in newspapers in Salt Lake City, Nevada and other selected mountain cities.

Also included among a host of projects will be a joint promotion with other regions of the state to highlight the central Idaho Rockies to the north.

The Burley Chamber of Commerce and others in the area of the Wood River valley received $8,238 for brochures; The Ketchum-Sun Valley Chamber of Commerce was granted $45,744 for winter advertising, and the Wood River Lodging Association will have $37,427 in state money for promotion and writers' trips.

Taken together, travel-oriented groups in the Magic and Wood River valleys received $200,389, said Diarmid Clough, ITC grants manager.

Groups in the state's five other regions also were apportioned a share of the state's income from 2-percent tax on motel rooms and campground spaces. Totals for other regions were:

Attorney Lempesis maintains his attack on Otter's morals

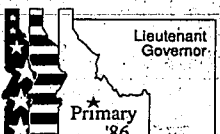

By DEAN MILLER
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Republican lieutenant governor candidate Chuck Lempesis is sure morals can be legislated and that his opponent, Butch Otter, has a flawed record on moral issues. Otter said Lempesis is twisting his votes.

Morality in the law has been an issue in this year's Republican primary for the second-Idaho seat in Idaho's executive branch ever since state Rep. Linden Bateman, R-Idaho Falls, backed out of the race and cast his endorsement to Post Falls attorney Lempesis, saying Boise businessman Butch Otter's stands on moral issues were "too loose."

Otter said Friday night that Lempesis is taking his voting record out of context and is relying on some of the same charges—Reed-Larsen made when he ran against Otter in the 1978 Republican gubernatorial primary.

Lempesis said in a Thursday interview that society has an obligation to create certain minimum standards of conduct. "Every law we pass deals with a moral issue," Lempesis said.

Otter said he thinks there are private morals and public morals. As an example, when a person gets home and gets drunk, there can be no legislating that, but when that person gets into a car and starts driving, that decision becomes a public moral and should be regulated.

And while Lempesis said a question to ask is "what extent government should make moral decisions for citizens," he left the limits vague. "I'm not sure there are any private morals in our society ... there is no such thing as a vic-tless crime," he said. Drug abuse, often cited as a vicelike, private crime, exacts tolls on society, he said.

Lempesis said Bateman was right and that his stands on "moral" issues legislation would have been different than those taken by Otter when Otter served in the Idaho House.

Specifically, he said, Otter voted against a bill to allow breathalyzer tests of motorists suspected of driving under the influence of alcohol; against a bill to prohibit topless and bottomless dancing in Idaho bars; and for an abortion bill.

Lempesis said he would have voted for the bill to allow mandatory breathalyzer tests for suspected drunk drivers and for the bill to prohibit topless and bottomless dancing and against the abortion bill.

"I think the killing of unborn children is murder," Lempesis said. Abortion should only be allowed in cases where there is a threat to the life of a mother, but not when a woman is pregnant as a result of rape, said Lempesis.

CHUCK LEMPESIS
Cites society's obligations

Otter said Friday night that Lempesis is misleading people on the content of the bills and that on some of his votes he was joined by a number of other lawmakers.

Otter said the full story on the breathalyzer bill is that it allowed police to automatically take away the driver's license of any suspected drunk driver who refused a breathalyzer test. He said the bill violated a person's right to due process of law and was unconstitutional.

Idaho Falls native rising to command the battleship Iowa

IDAHO FALLS (AP) — An IDEL Falls native will take command this week of the battleship Iowa.

Capt. Larry Sequist, who grew up on a farm where now stands the Grand Teton Mall, takes command Friday following a 12-week refresher course in Idaho Falls. The Iowa is the second battleship to rejoin the fleet as a part of the Navy's effort to strengthen its presence.

Sequist, 47, returned briefly to the area where he grew up as a student in an officer readiness course at the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory. He presided over a classroom review of marine engineering for officers returning to sea after duty stateside.

Idaho Falls gets a lot of Navy men, with most of them training at IDEL's Naval Reactors Facility for the Navy Nuclear Propulsion Program. But for Sequist the visit was extra special.

"For me this was coming home," he said.

He left the Idaho Falls area in 1950, when he was in the 7th grade. He moved from Idaho Falls to Vale, Ore., and graduated in 1963 from Oregon State University.

Sequist said he entered the Navy by accident after joining the Naval Reserve to avoid the draft.

He previously commanded three smaller ships and held several posts in the Pentagon. His most recent assignments focused on maritime strategy, as a member of the chief of Naval Operations Strategic Studies Group and as director of the Strategic Concepts Group.

Command of a battleship is one of the great honors for any Navy officer but just commanding a ship again is honor enough, said Sequist. Just being a commanding officer of a ship is a real privilege.

The Iowa has been recommissioned for the second time since leaving the fleet during World War II. The refurbishing of the ship cost $360 million, about the same cost as buying a new frigate, said Sequist.

Sales spark Idahoans' anger

Influx of cheap dairy herd beef depresses local market prices

By MARILYN HAUK ESSEX
The Associated Press

BOISE — The federal government's plan to pay dairymen to slaughter their herds was heralded as a way to cut the nation's chronic milk surplus. But its consequences for other industries in Idaho have sparked anger and concern.

"I'm just so damn mad at the administration and all the crap that's going on," said Gerald Tews, a Filer-area farmer who raises beef cattle.

Tews said he is losing $70 a head on 1,200 head of cattle that are ready for slaughter now. That's because the influx of meat from the dairy buyout has brought prices down.

"This is a total year's work sitting in the corral's right now," Tews said. "I don't know what I'm doing to."

Since the buyout was announced, 800 dairy cows, heifers and calves have been slaughtered in Idaho, said Rex Brattwalte, price-support specialist for the USDA's Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Besides the effect on cattlemen who slaughter for beef, agriculture officials say the buyout program could affect grain-growers, cheese factories and local economies dependent on the revenue ultimately generated by the state's dairy industry.

There's good news for beef consumers — prices for beef are expected to come down, and that possibly will draw some people back into the beef market, said Wilson Gray, agriculture economist at the Idaho College of Agriculture in Twin Falls.

Neil Meyer, agriculture economist at the U of I in Moscow, said hamburger prices there have dipped as low as 79 cents a pound. "We've been saying it was a bargain when you could buy it for 90."

Milk prices are expected to remain stable, said Meyer, or perhaps even drop if the drastic reduction in milk production leads to a decrease in federal price supports. Some 315 Idaho dairy farmers were accepted into the buyout program, in which the federal government pays them to slaughter their dairy herds for meat production and get out of the milk business for five years.

Agriculture officials say Idaho likely will be hard hit in other areas because the buyout has had such an impact on milk production. Idaho's milk production will be reduced by 21.8 percent, or 516,000 pounds of milk, Gray said.

"I think you're going to see the impact with grain and hay this summer," Gray said. "I think there will be excess feed on the market."

Meyer said that could force grain and feed prices to plunge, which will hurt the beef and hog industries.

Cutting the state's milk supply by a fifth also could affect cheese plants, Gray said, which would be especially critical to small towns such as Carey or Richfield. "If one of those closes down it would devastate to the community because it's the main employer," he said.

There's a lot of (beef raisers) getting awfully close to going out of business," said Tom Hovenden, director of the Idaho Cattle Association, which has joined in a federal lawsuit filed in Texas aimed at halting the slaughter. Idaho Cattle Association members say they want the program stopped until marketing can be done in a more orderly fashion.

The vast majority of Idaho dairy cows were slated for slaughter in the first six-month trial period of the buyout, Gray said. Of approximately 53,000 dairy cows, heifers and calves scheduled for slaughter in Idaho, 36,623 were accepted for the first period. However, dairy farmers whose herds are to be slaughtered in the second and third periods can sell up to half their herds immediately, Gray said.

That encouraged many dairy farmers to sell immediately to collect money for selling their herds.

If you were going to get $1,820 for selling a basic 2,000-pound milking cow, you'd take her now to get her slaughtered," said Hovenden, adding that dairy farmers aren't as concerned with the market price because their cows are being sold to slaughter the herds. The amount they receive for slaughtering dairy cows depends on the bid submitted to the federal government.

Bids in Idaho ranged from $4.50 per hundredweight of milk to $10 per hundredweight, but the average bid was $13.85. Only those bids below the government's cutoff point of $22.50 were announced and were accepted.

Tews said prices for feeder cattle were hovering at around 60 cents a pound when the buyout program was announced and are expected to drop, he said.

However, Gray said that according to the Livestock Crop and Reporting Service, prices are creeping up to levels not seen in the buyout. Meanwhile, a federal judge in Lubbock, Texas, will decide this next week whether to temporarily halt the program.

Gray said he thinks pursuing the lawsuit will actually hurt cattlemen rather than give them relief from depressed prices.

"Price-wise, the damage already has been done," he said, explaining that prices plunged at the anticipation of dairy cows on the market.

Indeed, he said pursuing the lawsuit could keep prices below what it adds as a element of uncertainty to the market.

Man, 23, dies in pickup rollover

TWIN FALLS — Chester Klingler, 23, of Port Reyes, Calif., died Thursday afternoon when the pickup truck in which he was riding rolled over three miles east of the junction of Interstate routes 24 and 88 in Cassia County, an Idaho State Police dispatcher said Friday.

Police had been withholding the victim's name until his family had been found and notified.

The driver of the pickup, Steven Eisenegger, 24, also of Port Reyes, was treated and released from Cassia County Memorial Hospital less than 24 hours after the accident.

Police officers said Klingler was thrown out of the vehicle and was pinned underneath the pickup when it rolled.

Girl, 12, injured in cycle spill

CASTLEFORD — Jennifer Jordan, 12, of Castleford, was listed in fair condition Friday afternoon at St. Alphonsus Regional Medical Center in Boise after sustaining head injuries when a three-wheel motorcycle overturned Thursday.

A hospital spokesperson said Jordan, the daughter of Melani Edson, would soon be transferred out of the intensive care unit.

Jordan and a friend were riding the cycle up and down Jordan's driveway early Thursday afternoon when it flipped over, throwing both girls to the ground, said Deputy Sheriff Dan Mort. Jordan's friend, Kristy

Burley bikes will be auctioned

BURLEY — The Burley Police Department will offer 22 unclaimed bicycles for sale Saturday to the highest bidder.

Officers said there are all types of bicycles for boys, girls, men and women. Several 10-speed units are included in the offering.

The sale will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday in the parking lot next to the law enforcement building in Burley.

Hotel names 7 to lands council

WASHINGTON — Secretary of the Interior Don Hodel has announced seven new appointments to the 21 member National Public Lands Advisory Council, including Rogerson resident Bill Swan.

Swan, a rancher in the Rogerson area, is a former member of the council and the past president of the National Cattlemen's Association.

Residents of Arizona, Nevada, Wyoming, Colorado and Utah round out the new appointees.

Acting through the U.S. Bureau of Land Management, the advisory council advises Hodel on public lands management issues concerning the nation's public lands.

The next meeting of the national group will be in Gillette, Wyo., May 16-17.

Poem-a-thon raises $1300

WENDELL — The second annual Poem-a-thon in Wendell has raised more than $1300 in pledges for the Wendell High School National Honor Society.

In public recital Thursday evening, the top three finalists from each elementary school classroom competed for books, trophies and ribbons.

Matthew Thackeray was honored for having the most money pledged.

Kindergarten winners were Simon Williams, first; Grand Park, second; and Wendell, third.

First grade winners were Kerl King, first; Druce Chandler, second; and Lindsey Miller, third.

Second grade winners were Shelli Pattig, first; Barrett Bishop, second; and Autumn Giles, third.

Third grade winners were Kelli Matix, first; Shelli King, second; and Steven Chandler, third.

Fourth grade winners were Charlotte Hoff, first; Tishia Porter, second; and Angie Goedhart, third.

Fifth grade winners were Debbie Muffley, first; Jana King, second; and Kelli Morton, third.

Sixth grade winners were Jarom Gilbert, first; Lindsey Newert, second; and Jackie Atwood, third.

Paul man is pinned in wreck

RUPERT — A Paul man was pinned in the cab of his truck with injuries Friday afternoon after the vehicle and another truck collided northeast of Rupert.

Late in the day, Ricky Spriggs, 32, was reported in fair condition at Mindoka Memorial Hospital, where he had been taken with internal injuries.

Idaho State Police said his beer truck, owned by Southern Idaho Operating Co., was traveling east on Idaho 23 near Rupert when the accident occurred.

A 10-wheel truck headed northbound pulled into the intersection at 400 East Road, just east of Spriggs' truck, according to police.

The driver, Daniel Ellis, 27, of Rupert, apparently failed to see the truck coming, police said.

The two trucks collided, and the beer truck rolled over a rock pile off the road. Police said Spriggs was pinned in the truck for almost an hour while the Burley Search and Rescue team worked to extricate him.

Ellis was not injured in the accident.

Police reports did not indicate whether citations were issued or whether the drivers were wearing seatbelts at the time.

Marriages/divorces

The following marriage-licences were issued recently in Twin Falls:

Larry Andrew Goodine and Dina Marlene Newberry, Hansen; Vern Baumgardner and Melonie Buster, Twin Falls; Arlon Earl and Desirae Samson, Hansen; Daniel Newman and Edna James Hagerman, Martin D. Lühr and JoAnne Kelly, Twin Falls; Randy Dean Fredrickson and Toni Renita Fritz, Buhl.

The following divorces were filed recently in 5th District Court in Twin Falls:

Linda Sue Read vs. Randy Harold Read, August Robert Blaschke, Lois Marv Blase, Nelly B. "Brodeh" Utech vs. Wayne E. Utech, Paula Rae Jensen vs. Clifton Earl Jensen, Larina Zvezlva Jones vs. Fred Jones, Mary A. Conklin vs. William D. ## Groundwater meetings are scheduled

BOISE — The Idaho Department of Water Resources will hold three public meetings early next month to get public input on its designation of geographic areas from which groundwater is considered tributary to the Snake River in the Milner-Twin Falls reach.

The designation, according to the department's regulations, will determine whether or not water is subject to the public-interest criteria section of the regulations.

The only meeting on this issue in the Magic Valley will be held in Burley at the Cassia County Courthouse in the courtroom, at 8 p.m. on May 5.

Copies of a map defining the groundwater area and a legal description of the designated area, can be obtained by the DWR in Boise or the DWR's regional office in Twin Falls.

The DWR's Boise address is 450 W. State Street, Boise 83702.

For those unable to attend the meeting, written comments will be accepted until May 19.

Philosophy course offered

TWIN FALLS — An Idaho State University class, "Philosophy of Education," will be held in Magic Valley starting May 16.

The course, required for all College of Education majors who are admitted to the teacher education program, will be held on Tuesday nights and Friday evenings.

Dr. Richard McEwing, ISU associate professor, said the class will consider the major philosophies of education prevailing in contemporary education.

Registration is available at the ISU Resident Center in Twin Falls, 734-4478, and must be completed by May 10.

Class locations will vary between the ISU Center in Twin Falls and a Burley location to be announced.

Meeting dates are May 16, 17, 20, 23, 24, 27 and June 3, 6 and 7.

Fees for the three-credit class total $150.75 plus the cost of books.

CSI driving class offered

TWIN FALLS — An evening class in "Driving Defensively" will begin May 5 and continue for eight sessions from 7 to 9:30 p.m., Mondays and Wednesdays in Room 105 of the Vo-Tech Center at the College of Southern Idaho.

Satisfactory completion of this course will result in a three-point reduction on a driving record. The class emphasizes good driving techniques and reviews Idaho's basic driving laws. Six major types of collisions will be discussed, with the appropriate awareness and defenses for each. Some insurance companies also allow premium reductions for completion of this course.

For more information, call 733-9554, ext. 393 or contact the first Administrator Building. The fee is $40. The same course will also be offered in June.

He said he argued against the bill because he didn't think it would make an difference and time has proven him right.

The abortion bill he voted for in 1985 was the bill required in all states after the precedent-setting Roe vs. Wade Supreme Court decision that legalized abortion. # Evangelist readies for first capital crusade in 26 years

By ROBERT FURLOW
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Billy Graham is taking a new crack at the nation's capital on a week-long religious crusade more than a third of a century after declaring, "Washington, with its sins, its drunkenness, its crime, will prove the test of what is going to happen to America."

BILLY GRAHAM
Kinds words this time

Those problems, he said, include poverty and homelessness, widespread drug abuse, corruption, the breakup of families and loneliness.

Graham, 67, will be conducting his third major crusade in Washington. The first was in 1952 when the young Baptist preacher from North Carolina talked in such dire fashion of the capital's sins. The second was in 1960.

There were efforts in 1973 to organize another one. But that fell through, partly due to lack of support from black ministers who felt left out of preparations and who felt the evangelist had too little to say about racism and other social ills and too much good to say about the Vietnam war. It was to such problems have occurred this year, And Graham was joined President George Bush and members of Congress — as well as with church leaders and Washingtonians in mental jobs — as he prepared his crusade.

But he said his preaching won't be aimed at influencing government action. Reagan will be in Japan for an economic summit meeting. And if members of Congress or other officials expect some will — "I hope they're going to sit there not as political leaders but as individuals."

"Political leaders sometimes need the Lord more than anybody else," Graham said. "I'm hoping that some will find the Lord, but I certainly would not publicize that I would call their names or anything like that to embarrass them."

While saying he would duck any political questions at the news conference, he made these comments on non-religious issues:

• On Reagan's decision to bomb Libya, he said the president apparently "found himself between a rock and a hard place" and acted "on the advice of some of his trusted." Still, Graham said, "it's not going to stop terrorism, (which) is not personified in one man named Khadafi." "Mideast troubles" have been going on since Abraham and "won't be solved until 'the coming of the Messiah.'"

He called the arms race "a very dangerous thing" but added: "I do not think we're going to wipe ourselves out in an atomic war. I think God has another plan. Nor do I think there is a possibility in the near future, even so distant, that the Soviets and the United States are going to go to war with atomic weapons."

Theologian, in final reply, won't recant

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a final reply to Vatican authorities, a Catholic University professor said he won't recant the views on sexual issues that have brought a church through a strip high on its standing as a Catholic theologian.

Instead, in a letter made public Thursday, the Rev. Charles Curran said he would not recant the views on sexual issues that have brought a church through a strip high on its standing as a Catholic theologian.

He also renewed his offer to refrain from teaching sexual ethics classes at the church-chartered university, a compromise he has said church officials have rejected.

A 7-year Vatican investigation of the priest has focused on his views on birth control, divorce, abortion and other church-fundamental practices that he says can be morally undertaken in some instances.

In the summing-up letter requested by his main accuser, Cardinal Joseph Ruffini, head of Pope John Paul II's Congregation for the Doctrine of the Faith, Curran said he was grateful for being allowed to make his case in a face-to-face meeting last month in Rome.

Terror threat won't curtail mission plans

POGATELLO (AP) — Despite tensions in the Middle East, Mormon Church officials do not plan to alter their missionary program or curtail the travel it involves.

An estimated 300 young men and women either return from or leave on two-year missions for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints each month to countries in Europe and South and Central America, said church spokesman Jerry Cahill.

Many pass through airports considered potential terrorist targets.

"We will take whatever precautions are necessary to ensure the safety of our missionaries," Cahill said. "We are very mindful of the tensions and the potential for trouble."

For reasons of security, Cahill declined to reveal what adjustments had or would be made to missionary travel schedules. Travel arrangements are handled by Murdock Travel of Salt Lake City.

A spokeswoman for the church's Missionary Training Center would say only that church officials have made provisions to ensure safe travel for missionaries.

Ricks College President Joel Christensen, former director of the MTC, said that whenever political disturbances erupted in the past, missionaries were urged to "stay off the streets" and maintain a low profile.

"Generally, the church is very sensitive about ensuring a missionary's safety. That is always uppermost in our missionary program," Christensen said.

Mormon chapels bombed

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Bombs exploded at five Mormon Church chapels in Santiago Tuesday night and early Wednesday, causing damage but no injuries, a church spokesman reported.

The overnight blasts in suburban working class districts brought to 31 the number of chapels of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints bombed in the last 12 months, said Humberto Barrientos, a church spokesman.

No one claimed responsibility for the latest explosions, but in previous attacks police found at the scene pamphlets of Manuel Rodriguez Patriotic Front, a leftist guerrilla group.

In the pamphlets, the front said it bombed the churches because, it said, the Mormons are "a Yankee Church."

"Ours is a universal church and missionaries are Chilean," Barrientos said.

Twin Falls man to serve mission

TWIN FALLS — Brian D. Moser, son of Dr. Paul and Lois Moser, will serve a mission in Copenhagen, Denmark for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

Moser, a 1985 graduate of Twin Falls High School, will depart for Copenhagen on Monday at the Twin Falls 11th Ward. He will leave May 22 for the Mission Training Center in Provo, Utah.

Oh what a belief it is!!
The true effervescence of life does not come in the form of a pill or soda water in a glass. Instead, it is the invasion of our total being by the power of the Holy Spirit. Ephesians 5:18 says: "And do not get drunk with wine for that is debauchery, but be filled with the Spirit." Romans 8:9 takes us yet another step: "But you are not in the flesh; you are in the Spirit. If in fact the Spirit of God dwells in you, anyone who does not have the Spirit of Christ does not belong to Him." We've got the Spirit. So do all real Christians. Oh what a belief it is!!

Idaho Falls native rising to command the battleship-Iowa

IDAHO FALLS (AP) — An Idaho Falls native will take command this week of the battleship Iowa.

Capt. Larry Sequist, who grew up on a farm where now stands the Grand Teton Mall, takes command Friday, following a 12-week refresher course in Idaho Falls. The Iowa is the second battleship to rejoin the fleet as a part of the Navy's effort to strengthen its seapower.

Sequist, 47, returned briefly to the area where he grew up as a student in an officer readiness course at the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory. It provides classroom review of marine engineering for officers returning to sea after duty-late.

Idaho Falls gets a lot of Navy men. With most of them training at INEL's Naval Reactors Facility for the Navy Nuclear Propulsion Program. Sequist visited the facility last week.

"For me this was coming home," he said. He left the Idaho Falls area in 1950, when he was in the 7th grade. He moved from Idaho Falls to Vale, Ore., and graduated in 1963 from Oregon State University.

Sequist said he entered the Navy by accident after joining the Naval Reserve to avoid the draft.

He previously commanded three smaller ships and held several posts in the Pentagon. His most recent assignments focused on maritime strategy, as a chief of staff for Naval Operations Strategic Studies Group and as director of the Strategic Concepts Group.

Command of a battleship is one of the great honors for any Navy officer but just commanding a ship again is honor enough, said Sequist. "Just being a commanding officer of a ship is a real privilege."

The Iowa has been recommissioned for the second time since World War II. The refurbishing of the ship cost $360 million, about the same cost as buying a new frigate, said Sequist.

dent on the revenue ultimately generated by the state's dairy industry.

But there's good news for beef consumers — prices for beef are expected to come down, and that probably will draw some people back into the beef market, said Wilson Gray, agriculture economist for the University of Idaho College of Agriculture in Twin Falls.

Neil Meyer, agriculture economist at U of I in Moscow, said hamburger prices there have dipped as low as 79 cents a pound. "We'd been saying it was a bargain when you could buy it for 80¢."

Milk prices are expected to remain stable, said Meyer, or perhaps even drop if the drastic reduction in milk production leads to a decrease in federal price supports. Some 315 Idaho dairy farmers were accepted into the buyout program, in which the federal government pays them to slaughter their dairy herds for milk production and get out of the milk business for five years.

Agriculture officials say Idaho likely will be hard hit in other areas because the buyout is having such an impact on milk production. Idaho's milk production will be reduced by 20 percent, or 516,000 pounds of milk, Gray said.

"I think you're going to see the impact with grain and hay this summer," Gray said. "I think there will be a price increase on that." Meyer said that could force grain and feed prices to plunge, which will adversely affect some farmers.

Cutting the state's milk supply by a fifth also could affect cheese plants, Gray said, which would be especially critical to small towns such as Carey or Richfield. "If one of those closes down, it's devastating to the community because it's the main employer," he said.

"There's a lot of (beef raisers) getting awfully close to going out of business," said Tom Hovenden, director of the Idaho Cattle Association, which has joined in a federal lawsuit filed in Texas aimed at halting the slaughter. Idaho Cattle Association members say they want the program stopped until marketing can be done in a more orderly fashion.

The vast majority of Idaho dairy cows were slated for slaughter in the first six-month period of the buyout, Gray said. Of approximately 53,000 dairy cows, heifers and calves scheduled for slaughter in Idaho, 36,223 were accepted for the first period. However, dairy farmers in the second and third periods can sell up to half their herds immediately, Gray said.

"That encouraged many dairy farmers to sell immediately to collect money for selling their herds," he said. "If you were going to get $1,820 for selling old-Bessie to stop milking, you'd take her now to get her slaughtered," said Hovenden, adding the dairy farmers aren't as concerned with the market price because they're already being paid to slaughter the herds. The amount they receive for slaughtering dairy cows depends on the bid submitted to the federal government.

Bids in Idaho ranged from $4.50 per hundredweight of milk to $400 per hundredweight, but the average bid was $13.85. Only those bids below the government's cutoff point of $22.50 per hundredweight were accepted.

Ten said prices for feeder cattle were hovering around 60 cents a pound when the buyout program was announced at the end of March. Prices then plummeted to 53 cents a pound, he said.

However, Gray said that according to the Livestock Crop and Reporting Service, prices are creeping up to levels before the buyout was announced and are expected to stabilize.

Meanwhile, a federal judge in Lubbock, Texas, will decide this next week whether to temporarily halt the program.

Gray said he thinks pursuing the lawsuit will actually help feeder cattle because it gives them relief from depressed prices.

"Price-wise, the damage already has been done," he said, explaining that prices plunged at the anticipation of a lawsuit. "I don't think pursuing the lawsuit could keep prices low because it adds an element of uncertainty to the market."

Paul man is pinned in wreck

RUPERT — A Paul man was pinned in the cab of his truck with injuries Friday afternoon after the vehicle and another truck collided north of Rupert.

Late in the day, Ricky Spriggs, 32, was reported in fair condition at Mindoka Memorial Hospital, where he had been taken with internal injuries.

Idaho State Police said his beer truck, owned by Southern Idaho Distributing Co., was traveling east on Idaho 24 near Rupert when the accident occurred.

A 10-wheel truck headed northbound pulled into the intersection at 400 East Road into the path of Spriggs' truck, according to police. The driver, Daniel Ellis, 27, of Rupert apparently failed to see the truck coming, police said.

The two trucks collided, and the beer truck wound up in a rock pile off the road. Police said Spriggs was pinned in the truck for almost an hour before the Burley Search and Rescue team managed to extricate him.

Ellis was not injured in the accident.

Police reports did not indicate whether citations were issued or whether the drivers were wearing seatbelts at the time.

CSI driving class offered

TWIN FALLS — An evening class in "Driving Defensively" will begin May 5 and continue for eight sessions, from 7 to 9:30 p.m., Mondays and Wednesdays in Room 105 of the Vo-Tech Center at the College of Southern Idaho.

Satisfactory completion of this course will result in a three-point reduction on a driving record. The class emphasizes good driving techniques, including defensive driving laws. Six major types of collisions will be discussed, with the appropriate awareness and defenses for each. Some insurance companies also offer premium reductions for completion of the course.

For more information call 733-9554, ext. 363 or preregister at the Taylor Administration Building. The fee is $40. The same course will also be offered in June.

Lempesis

The "leaves and bottomless dancing" bill was a general anti-prosperity bill which became law that "made the Idaho course a prove a smut magazine," Otter said. He said the graphic language in the bill would likely not be fit for printing in a newspaper and that there is no less pornography around now than there was before the bill passed. He said he argued against the bill because he didn't think it would make any difference, and time has proven him right.

The abortion bill he voted for in the House was the bill required in all states after the precedent-setting Roe vs. Wade Supreme Court decision that legalized abortion. "Every state in the Union had to pass that," he said. Otter said he joined with other members of the House to pass the bill, "including some conservatives."

Otter blasted Lempesis for the assassination of his voting record. "Here's a guy who was once a prove a smut newspaper and the first thing he does is go to old political tactics and speak in half-truths," he said.

Philosophy course offered

TWIN FALLS — An Idaho State University "Philosophy of Education," will be held in Magic Valley, starting May 16.

The course, required for all College of Education majors who are admitted to the teacher education program, will be held on Tuesday nights and on three weekends.

Dr. Richard McEwing, ISU associate professor, said the class will consider the major philosophical traditions prevailing in contemporary education thought.

Registration is available at the ISU Resident Center in Twin Falls, 734-4478, and must be completed by May 10.

Class locations will vary between the ISU Center in Twin Falls and a Burley location to be announced. Meeting dates are May 16, 17, 20, 23, 24, and June 3 and 4. The three credit class total $150.75 plus the cost of books.

Central Idaho (Mountain River Country) — $95,105. Among the grants is $2,700 to the Stanley South Chamber of Commerce for a reprint of Sawtooth National Recreation Area brochures. The money also will fund advertising for an International Dance Festival at Stanley.

Southwestern Idaho (Treasureland) — $259,475. Includes the Boise area. Among the projects is advertising for the Birds of Prey Festival in Idaho (Pioneer Country) — $71,624.

North Central Idaho (Lewis and Clark Country) — $51,138.

Northern Idaho (Big Water Mountains) — $86,693. Among the grants, Inland Northwest Tourism Coalition will get money for promotional route traffic headed for Expo '88, through the northern part of the state.

Groundwater meetings are scheduled

BOISE — The Idaho Department of Water Resources will hold three public meetings early next month to get public input on its designation of geographic areas from which groundwater is considered tributary to the Snake River in the Milner-Swan Falls reach.

The meetings, according to the department's regulations for the allocation of trust waters from the Swan Falls settlement, will determine whether or not water is subject to the public interest criteria section of the regulations.

The only meeting on this issue in the Magic Valley will be held in Burley at the Cassia County Courthouse, in the courtroom, at 8 p.m. on May 10.

Copies of a map defining the groundwater area and a legal description of the designated area, can be obtained by the DWR in Boise. For DWR's regional office in Twin Falls.

The DWR's Boise address is 450 W. State Street, Boise 83702.

For those unable to attend the meeting, written comments will be accepted until May 19.

properly handled, is the fairest tax of all," he said.

Elliott said he is running because he feels he has a lot of experience and because "I think I understand Idaho better than most."

"I think Lynn has been just kind of a follower of leadership up there," and the leadership in the Legislature has been poor, he said.

Elliott was born in Boise, graduated from Boise-High School and has a degree in political science from the University of Idaho. A past president of the Burley and now-defunct Southern Idaho chambers of commerce, he is a member of the Southern Idaho Regional Airport Authority that tried unsuccessfully to get an airport built between the Snake River Canyon rim and Interstate 20.

Elliott raises Tennessee walking horses in Declo and has operated John Deere farm and industrial equipment dealerships in Cassia, Minidoka, and eastern Jerome counties for 30 years.

Man, 23, dies in pickup rollover

TWIN FALLS — Chester Klingel, 23, of Port Reyes, Calif., died Thursday afternoon in a pickup rollover in which he was riding rolled over three miles east of the junction of Interstate routes 84 and 86 in Cassia County, an Idaho State Police dispatcher said Friday.

Police had been withholding the victim's name until his family had been found and notified.

The driver of the pickup, Steven Eisenegger, 24, also of Port Reyes, was treated and released from Cassia County Memorial Hospital less than 24 hours after the accident.

Police officers said Klingel was thrown out of the vehicle and was pinned underneath the pickup when it rolled.

Girl, 12, injured in cycle spill

CASTLEFORD — Jennifer Jordan, 12, of Castleford, was listed in fair condition Friday afternoon at St. Alphonsus Regional Medical Center in Boise after sustaining head injuries when a three-wheel motorcycle overturned Thursday.

A hospital spokesperson said Jordan, the daughter of Maloni Jordan, would soon be transferred out of the intensive care unit.

Jordan and a friend were riding the cycle up and down Jordan's driveway early Thursday afternoon when it flipped over, throwing both girls to the ground, said Deputy Sheriff Dan Mort. Jordan's friend, Kristy

Credit Bureaus of Twin Falls Inc. vs. Teresa G. Hood. The plaintiff seeks the sum of $26.33 for overdue accounts plus cost of the suit and attorney's fees.

Credit Bureaus of Twin Falls Inc. vs. Penny Damron. The plaintiff seeks the sum of $75.93 for overdue account plus cost of the suit and attorney's fees.

Credit Bureaus of Twin Falls Inc. vs. Tom T. McMillin and Raeline McMillin. The plaintiff seeks the sum of $76.21 for overdue account plus cost of the suit and attorney's fees.

Credit Bureaus of Twin Falls Inc. vs. Robert Sherman and Mary Paul Sherman. The plaintiff seeks the sum of $219.70 for overdue account plus cost of the suit and attorney's fees.

John M. Barker, Realtors and Edith Bolton vs. Victoria. The plaintiff alleges that the defendant is in default of a lease agreement concerning property owned by plaintiff. Therefore, the plaintiff seeks an order to be entered setting the date of trial in this matter. Judgment of restitution delivering possession of the premises to the plaintiff plus cost of the suit and attorney's fees.

Edward Fahrenholz vs. Floyd Miller. The plaintiff alleges that the defendant disconnected an electric power hookup to a mobile home owned by the plaintiff while the plaintiff was serving a term in the Twin Falls County Jail and the premises below freezing temperatures, causing damage to the home. The defendant is the owner of the mobile home park where the plaintiff's mobile home is located. The defendant purchased sufficient electric power from Idaho Power to meet the needs of the tenants and then bills each tenant monthly for the power. The plaintiff alleges that the defendant's actions were deliberate, oppressive, and without any authority. Therefore, the plaintiff seeks damages in the sum of $7,605 or an alternative of $3,285 for actual damages and $5,000 for punitive damages, plus cost of the suit and attorney's fees.

Credit Bureaus of Jerome Inc. vs. Dave Smith. The plaintiff seeks the sum of $183.25 for overdue account plus cost of the suit and attorney's fees.

Edward A. Noel dba Check Savers vs. Ernest D. Anderson and Virginia L. Anderson. The plaintiff seeks the sum of $60 for non-sufficient funds check plus cost of the suit and attorney's fees.

Immunizations available May 2

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls office of the South-Central District Health Department will hold a special immunization clinic May 2 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Children entering kindergarten or first grade must show proof of adequate immunization according to Idaho law. Parents are urged to check their child's records and bring them to the clinic on May 2.

Other area health department offices will be making similar arrangements.

There is a $3 charge for the immunization, as there is with the regularly scheduled Tuesday clinic. The Twin Falls office is located at 324 2nd Street East.

First Interstate Bank vs. Marin V. Novak and Mildred L. Novak. The plaintiff alleges that the defendants have defaulted on a loan agreement, causing the plaintiff to take possession of the collateral. The plaintiff repossessed the collateral and sold it for $6,001.50. This amount was applied to the principal owing of $9,120.04, less costs of $87.17, leaving a balance of $4,075.71. Therefore, the plaintiff seeks the sum of $4,075.71 plus interest, that the court issue a pre-judgment writ of attachment and an order to show cause directed to the defendants to be held in lieu of bond. The plaintiff seeks judgment writ of attachment should not be issued plus cost of the suit and attorney's fees.

Twin Falls Bank and Trust Company vs. Loren M. Robinson and Colleen S. Robinson. The plaintiff alleges that the defendants have defaulted on a promissory note. Therefore, the plaintiff seeks principal balance due in the amount of $2,282.52 plus interest, cost of the suit and attorney's fees.

Benchan-Wheat Insurance vs. Keith Detmer, dba Detmer Construction. The plaintiff alleges that the defendant has failed to make payment for services rendered at property owned by defendants: Moore Financial Group Inc. and Idaho First National Bank in the amount of $3,437.58 plus cost of the suit and attorney's fees.

Pete Milfin vs. Moore Financial Group Inc., Idaho First National Bank, Foster Construction Company, Sanford Foster, and John Does 7 through 9. The plaintiff seeks payment for services rendered at property owned by defendants: Moore Financial Group Inc. and Idaho First National Bank in the amount of $2,720.00 plus interest; that the principal interest, lien costs, attorney's fees, and costs of the suit be declared a lien against the property owned by defendants Moore Financial Group Inc. and Idaho First National Bank; that the premises, building and appurtenances be foreclosed, cost of the suit and attorney's fees.

Property Investments Inc. vs. Larry Sobotka and Shirley Sobotka. The plaintiff alleges that the defendant is in default on a promissory note. Therefore, the plaintiff seeks payment on the promissory note in the amount of $3,659.35 plus interest, cost of the suit and attorney's fees.

Idaho First National Bank vs. Andrew J. Roeberry and Elnor Roeberry. The plaintiff alleges that the defendants were unable to make payments on a loan for a vehicle. The defendants turned the vehicle over to the plaintiff on a voluntary repossession. The plaintiff sold the vehicle for $4,001, leaving $4,189.65 to be paid by defendants. Therefore, the plaintiff seeks the sum of $4,189.65 plus cost of the suit and attorney's fees.

Magic Valley Credit Bureaus Inc. vs. Eyerett P. Poulligot and Christine Poulligot. The plaintiff seeks the sum of $198.63 for overdue account plus cost of the suit and attorney's fees.

District court

The following criminal cases were heard recently in 5th District Court in Twin Falls:

Shirana Stutz, 35, 422 Elm N. B., Twin Falls, following a plea of guilty to the charge of petit theft, 5th District Court Judge Daniel Meehl sentenced the defendant to 30 days in jail. However, Meehl suspended the sentence and placed the defendant on one year probation. The court ordered the defendant to pay the public defender's office $25, pay $15.50 for court costs and make payment arrangements of $10 per month.

Sandra Jean Melton, 18, (address unknown), violated probation for two counts of forgery. The court ordered the probation violation hearing be held at the time of her trial.

Pedro Silvae, 23, Burley, was sentenced to five years at the Idaho State Penitentiary for the crime of first degree burglary. Judge Meehl suspended the sentence and placed the defendant on two years probation. The defendant was ordered to pay $30 a month supervision fee and $15.50 for court costs. Restitution will be ordered by the department of probation and parole. The defendant was instructed to contact them.

William Thomas Wilson, 39, Twin Falls, was sentenced to three years at the Idaho State Penitentiary for the crime of issuing insufficient funds checks. Meehl suspended the sentence and placed the defendant on two years probation. The defendant was ordered to gain employment, have no checking account in his name, pay $30 a month supervision fee, pay $50 to Twin Falls County for the public defender, pay $13.50 court costs, pay amounts of restitution, have no contractual agreements and no purchases over $500 until restitution is paid.

Larry Weeks, 25, 702 3rd Ave W., 2, Twin Falls, was sentenced to five years at the Idaho State Penitentiary indeterminate for the crime of first degree burglary.

Roland Agular, 24, Kimberly, was placed on probation for three years from June 14, 1985, for the crime of aggravated assault. The defendant was ordered to pay $50 to the public defender's office, that he consume no drugs or alcohol and be on an abuse unless unapproved by a doctor.

Pedro Villagomez, 25, Wendell, was sentenced by 5th District Court Judge Daniel Hurlbutt to the Idaho State Penitentiary for a period not to exceed five years for the crime of driving while intoxicated. The defendant was remanded to the custody of the sheriff for transportation to ISP.

Douglas B. Lierman, 19, Jerome, changed his plea to guilty to one count of first degree burglary with the condition that a second count be dismissed. The court accepted the plea and ordered a presentence report. The defendant was released on his personal recognizance.

David K. Thompson, 38, Twin Falls, pleaded not guilty to two counts of sexual abuse of a child under 16. The court set the matter for trial and the defendant was remanded to the custody of the sheriff.

Dennis Dean Carney Jr., 18, 1521 Kimes Ave., Twin Falls, following a plea of guilty to the charge of petit theft, was sentenced to 30 days at the Twin Falls County Jail. However, 27 days will be suspended and the defendant was ordered to serve three days in jail. The defendant was placed on six months unsupervised probation and ordered to pay a $300 fine plus $15.50 for court costs.

Luis M. Olivas, 42, 628 2nd Ave E., Twin Falls, entered a plea of not guilty to the charge of grand theft. The court set the matter for trial.

Mark E. Deleski, 22, 241 Buchanan, Twin Falls, entered a plea of guilty to the charge of grand theft. The court ordered a presentence report before sentencing.

The following civil cases were filed recently in 5th District Court in Twin Falls:

Idaho Power Company vs. Gary

Lucich and Marcae Lucich. The plaintiff alleges that the defendants defaulted on a contract for purchase of equipment. Therefore, the plaintiff seeks the sum of $12,073.02 plus cost of the suit and attorney's fees.

Therefore, the plaintiff seeks and causing injuries to plaintiff difference owing in the amount of $31,609.51 plus cost of the suit and attorney's fees.

Ford Motor Credit Company vs. amount of $125,000 plus cost of the suit and attorney's fees.

IS LEE MARVIN AS TOUGH AS HE SEEMS?

It's easy to see why Lee Marvin is thought of as a tough guy. At 62, Marvin is lean, his face lined and craggy, his reputation that of a heavy drinking, adventurous man who is much like the mobsters, outlaws and soldiers he portrays on screen. Still, PARADE Contributing Editor Tom Seligson wondered if Marvin was really as wild as he seems. Read Seligson's surprising account of his meeting with Lee Marvin in Sunday's PARADE.

THE ACES

BOBBY WOLFF

No grand idea was ever born in a conference, but a lot of foolish ideas have died there.

When South doubles East's preempt for takeout, North knows that the side has a probable stonk...

If North jumps directly to a club slam, he will have no bid. Not only is there a spade loser...

Instead of the bullsh jump to six clubs, North invites South to choose a suit by cue-bidding four spades.

Dummy's spade ace wins and two rounds of trump are drawn with the king and ace. When the bad trump bid is confirmed...

A good point to remember is that a good 4-4 trump fit offers more flexibility than many 5-3 trump fits.

Briefly In Sports

Bulldog Classic meet put off

KIMBERLY — Today's scheduled Bulldog Classic track meet has been postponed until Tuesday. The meet will be run Tuesday beginning at 3 p.m. at the Kimberly High track.

All seven Canyon Conference schools plus several Class A-4 schools from throughout the Magic Valley will participate.

Oasis tourney gets under way

TWIN FALLS — A field of 284 golfers will take part in the Oasis Two-Person Best-Ball Golf Tournament today and Sunday at the Twin Falls Municipal Golf Course.

The field has been divided into championship, first, second, third, fourth and fifth flights for the tournament, which is being sponsored by the Oasis of Twin Falls. The championship flight will get starting at 8:52 this morning.

See pairings and tee times in Scores and Stats on Page B2.

Co-ed softballers still sought

TWIN FALLS — Several teams in the Twin Falls Co-ed Softball League are still looking for players.

Anyone interested in playing should contact Pat at 734-5369 or Carl at 734-7098.

Rhead remains atop field

BLACKFOOT — Darin Rhead of Twin Falls continues to hold first place in the singles' handicap division heading into the next-to-last weekend of the Idaho State Men's Bowling Tournament.

Rhead's 765, which he rolled two weeks ago, is two pins better than runner-up Dan Fenstermaker of Burley. Steve Allison of Jerome ranks third with 763, while Rocky Bennett of Hazelton is fourth at 757 and Steve McCurrie of Burley is fifth at 754.

Rhead also has the tournament's best scratch score, a 747.

In the team competition, The Pocket of Twin Falls is tied with Plaza Lanes of Idaho Falls for fifth place with a score of 3,389, 150 pins behind Plaza Hut of Idaho Falls with 3,537.

The tournament is being held at the Starlite and Pindale lanes.

CSI 'pokes take first at BSU

TWIN FALLS — The College of Southern Idaho's men's and women's rodeo teams placed first in a rodeo held recently at Boise State University.

Wayne Norcutt of CSI won the all-around honors with a second-place finish in saddle bronc riding and a second place, along with Hoble Peterson, in team roping.

Bill Head of CSI, who won the bareback riding, was runner-up for all-around honors.

Others placing included David Sherod and Alan Stutzman, who split third and fourth in bareback; Kindel Mason, second, and Mike Burhelm, third, in calf roping; and Trevor Thompson, who won the bull riding.

The CSI team swept the saddle bronc riding with Frank Norcutt winning the event, with his brother, Wayne, finishing second; Joe Elsner, third, and Jim Ruby, fourth.

Charmin Maynard won the women's breakaway roping and Vonda Cantrell was fourth.

Gina Quigley placed second in goat tying and Joni James split third and fourth in barrel racing.

Dial vaults to another record

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Joe Dial broke the American record in the pole vault for the third time in two weeks when he cleared 19 feet 4 1/2 inches at the Sooner Invitational track and field meet on Friday.

Dial, a former Oklahoma State vaulter and now an assistant coach at Oklahoma, eclipsed the mark of 19-3 1/2 that he set last Sunday in a meet at El Paso.

Dial set the record on his first try at that height after having cleared 19 feet moments earlier.

"He later tried twice to push the mark to 19-7 1/2, but failed each time and then pulled out with a leg cramp."

Astros may be eyeing capital

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Astros may be looking at Washington, D.C., as a relocation site for the 1987 season, the Houston Chronicle reported Friday.

The Chronicle said their sources also said the Astros may just be sending out feelers and that baseball Commissioner Peter Ueberroth almost certainly would frown on a franchise shift.

Also, in an interview with the Washington Post on Thursday, Astros owner John J. McMullen said he has considered moving his team "only in the way you would consider anything...you stop and think about any situation at one time or another."

"Am I satisfied? No. We haven't gotten the attendance we want, and I'm doing everything I can to increase it. We've had only six games at home this year, so it's too early to tell," he said.

McMullen said his only contact with the D.C. Baseball Commission, the group attempting to bring baseball to Washington, has been as a member of the owners' Long Range Planning Committee, the group that deals with franchise relocation and expansion.

No action due after charges

COLFAX, Wash. (AP) — Lewis-Clark State College officials said today they have no plans to take action against baseball coach Ed Cheff and five players charged with gross misdemeanor counts of riot and assault.

Whitman County Prosecutor Jim Kaufman filed the charges Wednesday in Whitman County District Court. Cheff and players Lane Phillips of Yakima, Wash.; Joseph Padilla of Cascade, Wash.; and Kevin Shea of Lewiston are charged with riot in connection with a post-game incident last May seventh at Washington State University's Buck Bailey Field in Pullman, Wash.

Two more players, Lonnie Phillips of Yakima and Kyle Brock of Slayton, Ore., stand charged with riot and simple assault.

All are scheduled for a May 16th appearance in Whitman County District Court. Cheff says it's "totally preposterous" that this type of accusation would be made — especially after 11 months.

Spud's tosses oust Pistons in two OTs

The Associated Press

PONTIAC, Mich. — Spud Webb sank a pair of free throws with three seconds remaining in the second overtime period and Atlanta held off Detroit's last possession to beat the Pistons 114-113 Friday night, giving the Hawks a 3-1 victory in the first-round NBA playoff series.

The Hawks, advanced to the Eastern Conference semifinals, where they take on the Boston Celtics, starting Sunday at Boston.

The score was tied 92-92 after four quarters and 103-100 after the first five-minute overtime.

Detroit's Isiah Thomas scored six of his 30 points in the second overtime, including an underhand flip shot in the lane that put the Pistons ahead 113-112 with 11 seconds remaining.

After an Atlanta timeout, the Hawks worked the ball to Webb, the 5-foot-7 rookie, who drove the right side of the lane and was fouled by Kelly Tripucka.

Webb's first foul shot bounced twice on the rim and dropped through to tie the score. His second shot swished cleanly, giving him nine points for the game.

Detroit hurried the ball inbounds, but Earl Currien's desperation toss from beyond midcourt hit the backboard and bounced away from the rim. Atlanta's players fell into one another's arms with hugs of joy.

Dallas 117 Utah 113

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Brad Davis scored 15 of his 26 points in the fourth quarter and finished 8-4-for-8 from the field — including five three-pointers — as the Dallas Mavericks eliminated the Utah Jazz from the NBA playoffs with a 117-113 victory Friday night.

The Mavericks, who won the best-of-five series 3-1, will travel to Los Angeles to face the Lakers in the first game of a seven-game series Sunday.

Dallas used a 12-2 spurt that covered the final 36 seconds of the third quarter and the first two minutes of the fourth period to gain control. Davis had one of his three-pointers during that run and added two others later in the fourth quarter as Dallas led by as much as 13 points.

His five three-point goals tied an NBA playoff record held by Mike Bratz of Phoenix in 1980.

Davis also became the first player to go 5-for-5 from beyond the three-point line in a playoff game. Previously, five players went 4-for-4.

Sam Perkins led all scorers with 29 points, while Mark Aguirre had 23 and Rolando Blackman 20 for the Mavericks.

Utah, which led 35-29 early in the second quarter, was led by Thurl Bailey's 24 points, Bobby Hansen's 22 and Mark Eaton's 20.

Rangers rally from 2-0 deficit to top Caps 4-2

The Associated Press

LANDOVER, Md. — Tomas Sandstrom scored to break a 2-2 tie at 13:49 of the second period as the New York Rangers overcame a 2-0 deficit and defeated the Washington Capitals 4-2 Friday night, taking a 3-2 lead in their NHL playoff series.

Game 6 of the Patrick Division final will be played in New York Sunday night. A seventh game, if necessary, would be back at the Capital Centre on Tuesday night.

The Capitals, who lost two overtime decisions while winning twice previously by decisive margins in the series, got power-play goals by Dave Christian and Scott Stevens within a 43-second span after two Rangers were sent to the penalty box early in the game. The first goal, at 2:51, came only 14 seconds after Friday night's 5-3 advantage.

But Pierre Larouche scored for the Rangers at 4:05 and a power-play goal by Wilf Paiement tied it 2-2 at 13:40.

Sandstrom put the winning goal past Pete Peeters, who was playing his 12th consecutive game dating back to the regular season, after Brian MacLellan hooked the puck away from Washington's Kevin Hatcher on the left wing boards.

The Rangers, who finished fourth in the Patrick Division and previously knocked off division champion Philadelphia,

Montreal 5 Hartford 3

MONTREAL — Guy Carbonneau scored twice and Mike Lalor got his first playoff goal as the Montreal

Canadiens beat the Hartford Whalers 5-3 Friday night to take a 3-2 lead in their Adams Division final.

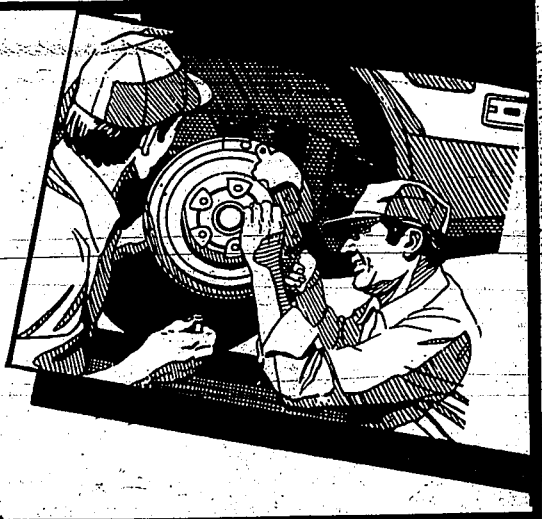

The Canadiens can clinch the NHL playoff series with a victory in Game 6 in Hartford on Sunday.

The Whalers trailed 3-0 13 minutes into the first period, but narrowed the gap to 3-2 in middle period before Lalor scored. Taking a pass from defenseman Larry Robinson, Lalor ripped a wrist shot that Hartford goaltender Steve Weeks got a piece of before the puck dribbled out of his glove into the net with under four minutes left in the session.

Sizzling Garbacz ties course mark

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Lori Garbacz equaled an S&H Classic record Friday, firing an 8-under-par 64 that enabled her to take a two-stroke lead after two rounds of the $200,000 LPGA tournament.

Garbacz, chasing her first victory in eight years on the tour, carded eight birdies to finish with a 36-hole total of 10-under-par 134 on the 6,015-yard Pasadena Yacht and Country Club course.

The performance equaled the opening-round 64 by Judy Clark Dickinson last year.

Pat Bradley, the 1986 money leader, and Allison Frazier both shot 67. In 136 holes, two shots behind Garbacz, Jane Crafter and Janet

S&H Classic

Coles followed with two-day totals of 137 after rounds of 69 on Friday.

Five-time S&H winner Kathy Whitworth shot a 68 Friday to stand three strokes off the lead along with Margaret Ward and Robin Walton, who shot 68 and 70, respectively.

First-day leader Cathy Kratzert faltered late in the day on her way to a 72 and 139 total. The second-year pro was tied for the lead after 14 holes, but a double bogey sent her tumbling in the standings.

Garbacz started the day on the back nine where she birdied the 12th and 13th holes and then scrambled to save par after missing the greens on No. 15 and No. 16. A 15-foot birdie putt on No. 17 and a three-footer on the par-5, 443-yard 18th allowed her to make the turn at 4-under-par for the day.

She was just as effective on the front nine, sinking birdie putts of 12 and 14 feet on the fourth and fifth holes, respectively, and closing strong with birdies on No. 8 and No. 9.

"I hit 16 greens yesterday (Thursday) and shot 70 and hit 13 today and shot 64. So obviously I made more putts," Garbacz said. "I had some tough moments, but I managed to save par on those greens I missed."

January, Littler combine for lead

AUSTIN (AP) — Defending champions Don January and Gene Littler combined for a 9-under-par 61 on Friday and built a two-stroke lead after two rounds of the Liberty Mutual Legends of Golf.

The leaders' two-round score of 126 was two shots better than the team of Lee Elder and Chi Chi Rodriguez, who shot 63 on the par-70, 6,357-yard Onion Creek Country Club course.

At 129 were the teams of Billy Casper and Gay Brewer, Miller Barber and Bob Goalby, and Orville Moody and Bob Crampton.

Twenty-eight teams are competing for $500,000 in the best-ball event.

Littler had eight birdies to send his team into the lead.

"I had a very enjoyable day watching Gene play," January said. "I just asked if he needed a drink of water or for me to wipe his brow, whatever he needed."

Legends of Golf

Elder said he was happy with Friday's round.

"We've made two bogeys in two days and that's the deficit we're behind," he said.

Brewer had five of his team's seven birdies Friday, but he said the course played tough.

"The greens are harder to putt," he said.

"The greens are harder to play to also," Casper added.

Casper and Brewer were at four under before posting a 7-under 63 Friday.

Moody and Crampton's charge toward the top was stalled by bogeys at 12 and 13.

Jack Burke Jr. and Paul Harney, the first-round leaders at 61, managed ed only a round of par 70 Friday for a two-round total of 131.

Arnold Palmer and Gary Player recovered from an opening-day 70 to combine for a 64 Friday.

"Yesterday was awfully disappointing, just terrible," Player said after the more satisfying second round.

Consistent Peete bolts out in front once again

THE WOODLANDS, Texas (AP) — Calvin Peete, continuing his steady play from the first round, shot a 2-under-par 70 Friday to take a two-shot lead over three other golfers after two rounds of the $500,000 Houston Open.

Houston Open

Peete, who fired a 65 on Thursday to share the first-day lead, completed 36 holes with a 135 score, nine under par for the tournament and two strokes ahead of first-day co-leader Wayne Grady of Australia, Nick Faldo and Tom Watson.

Peete, one of the most consistent players on the PGA Tour, started on the front nine Friday and ran in 11 straight pars before consecutive birdies on 12 and 13 to go nine under.

"How boring, 11 pars in a row," Peete joked. "Actually, today's round was harder than yesterday. I consider it a challenge. I am trying to hit certain parts of the fairway."

"Five years ago, I was just trying to hit the fairway."

Grady shot a 72 and shared second place at 137 with Faldo, who had a 69, and Watson, who had a second-round 68.

"I'm weary on this course when you hit over water on six holes and the wind comes up," Watson said. "You have to make sure of the places you want to hit."

Mike Sullivan tied a course-record 63, including a 29 on his second nine, to charge into contention at 138. His 63 tied for the Tour's low 18-hole score this year.

Sullivan was tied at 138 with Jay Haas, who fired a 70.

Sullivan, who started on the back nine, made the turn at one over par, but birdied seven of nine holes thereafter.

Golfery favorite Jack Nicklaus had a rough second round, and needed a birdie on 18 to finish at 1-over-par 73 for a 145 total.

Peete continued to amaze his fellow pros with his accuracy.

"Every course is suited to Calvin," said Faldo, when asked about the PTC's tight par-72, 7,042-yard course. "When you stay in the fairway and hit greens like Calvin, the course is suited for you."

Faldo started on the day four under par after an opening-round 68, then birdied the first two holes he played, Nos. 10 and 11.

"That put me in a good frame of mind," said Faldo, who missed the cut at last week's Sea Pines Classic. "I hit a lot of fairways and made some good swings. I've just got to eliminate the bad swings."

Faldo ran in a three-foot birdie putt on the par-4 fourth to go nine under par for the tournament.

But he bogeyed his final two holes, two-putting from 15 feet on No. 8 and missing an eight-foot par putt on No. 9.

Grady went eight under with a birdie on the first hole but he had to scramble to overcome bogies on Nos. 5, 9 and 17.
