Grade school seizure ends in blast

Scores of children hurt in Wyoming incident

By BEG MCENTEE
The Associated Press

COKEVILLE, Wyo. — A heavily armed couple with a bomb took 150 students and adults hostage at an elementary school Friday and demanded $300 million. They were killed when the bomb exploded accidentally and the man shot himself, authorities said. At least 74 people, most of them children, suffered second-degree burns in the blast of the gasoline bomb about 4 p.m. MDT at the Cokeville Elementary School, and one teacher was shot in the back when he tried to flee, officials said.

The man gave the device to his wife to hold while he went to the bathroom, and she accidentally set off its hair-trigger mechanism, detonating the bomb, said Lincoln County Sheriff Deb Wolfley.

"I thought we were all dead," said Secretary Christine Cook, who was in the classroom when it exploded. "I heard this awful noise. It was smoke and flames. Just pandemonium."

A search of the school after the explosion turned up two other explosive devices that were removed safely, Wolfley said.

The couple was identified as David Young and his wife, Doris. Residents said Young was a former police officer in the town of about 550 people.

Police on Friday night questioned two men and a woman about their involvement in the siege. The woman, believed to be Young's daughter, had gone to authorities about the incident, and the two men were found handcuffed to a white van that Young had driven into town earlier in the week.

The incident began about 1 p.m. when the Youngs entered the school and herded the children, teachers and administrators into a large classroom, said Principal Max Excell. About that time a woman came into the town clerk's office and said her father was going to blow up the school," said Nadine Dana, the clerk.

When Young was asked whether a 10-year-old child could be released off the device, and it blew up because he had diabetes, the man replied that he wanted 20-year-olds in his place.

"There was a lot of ammunition, bombs, rifles, stuff like that," she said.

Witnesses said Young passed out. Leaflets, demanded to talk to President Reagan and announced, "This is the revolution." The pair asked $2 million ransom for each of the hostages.

Young said he intentionally came to Cokeville to press his demands, according to Excell.

"He told me he'd picked this town because it was a rural community and people take care of their children," the principal said. "He had it very well thought out."

Excell said Young told him he expected the standoff to last 10 days.

According to Wolfley, the bomb's hair-trigger device required either the man or woman to keep a hand on the device.

"Mrs. Young was surrounded by children when the bomb went off," said Bob Looney, a spokesman for the Lincoln County Sheriff's Department.

"They (the children) were all in the classroom when it went off," Excell said. "The classroom was demolished. I don't know how they have to meet to approve the ransom."

Teen-age survivors of mountain snow cave battle for life

By RICHARD GREEN
The Associated Press

PORTLAND, Ore. — Two teen-agers who survived three days huddled with six companions in a snow cave on Mount Hood fought for life Friday, as families and schoolmates mourned nine others who died in the worst accident in the mountain's history.

The condition of one of the survivors, 16-year-old Giles Thompson of Longview, Wash., worsened Friday afternoon when his freak blizzard that trapped them high on the chances for survival," said Sister Margarita but unable to speak when they and six others

Acacia, a spokeswoman for Providence Hospital.

He was reported in extremely critical condition, while Brinton Clark, 15, of Portland was in critical but stable condition.

Thompson apparently thought he had died during the ordeal, but when he was revived that he was alive" when he woke up in his hospital room, a doctor said earlier Friday.

Nine of the 13 people who set out on the expedition Monday died as a result of the were pulled from the cave late Thursday in a dramatic rescue that came after an intense search by about 100 people.

Late Thursday, both were taken off hearing machines and doctors were optimistic they would recover.

"Given the fact that they were in such extreme conditions for two, three days, I think the whole situation is really miraculous that we did have some survivors," said Dr. Gregory Lorts at Providence Medical Center.

The other six, four students and two faculty members at Oregon Episcopal School, showed no vital signs on arrival at Portland hospitals.

The bodies of three other teen-agers were found Wednesday on the 11,235-foot mountain 50 miles east of Portland.

Two other members of the climbing party had hiked off the mountain Tuesday seeking help.

Throughout the week classes were held as usual at the school, but the chapel was kept open. A special service was conducted at the chapel on Thursday.

The school's flag flew at half-mast and its prom scheduled for Friday night was cancelled.

The school's board of trustees met Friday afternoon, then issued a statement saying it still supported the wilderness program, which included the Mount Hood climb.

Thompson was "somewhat surprised that he was alive" when he woke up, Lorts said. "When he did awake from the anesthetic and the cardiac bypass he related some information that he thought he was dead."

"In questioning him, I understand he is unable to nod, blink his eyes in the affirmative, he does understand what's going on," Lorts said. "As you may know, he is on a ventilator, which means he is unable to speak because of the breathing tube. Hopefully that will be removed as the day goes on."

Splits emerge over agreement

By GREGORY NOKES
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Deep divisions emerged within the Reagan administration and Congress on Friday over whether a proposed compromise agreement on Nicaragua, arranged by the so-called Contadora countries, is in the United States' best interest.

Opponents worry it would force an end to the U.S.-backed Contra insurgency without adequate assurance for changing the behavior of the leftist Sandinista government in Nicaragua. Proponents believe the chance is worth taking, arguing that the Contra insurgency has not worked anyway.

The agreement is tentatively scheduled to be signed by the five Central American countries on June 5.

While Nicaragua has not yet agreed, the other four — El Salvador, Costa Rica, Honduras and Guatemala — have.

Prospects for a signed agreement have ebbed and flowed before, but an informed U.S. official said in an interview Friday that this time "odds are it will be signed."

The official, who insisted on not being identified by name, was in a position to speak for those who think the agreement may not be in the U.S. interest. He said en-

'Zero quits — A7

Investment mechanisms are inadequate to make certain the Nicaraguans fulfill commitments to national reconciliation, military restraints and free elections.

Charles Redman, the State Department spokesman, said Friday the United States would not be bound by an agreement that the Sandinistas violate.

"The Sandinistas are apparently calculating that they can have their objectives without giving up anything," he said.

Opponents and proponents of the agreement would be unlikely to approve Reagan's request for $100 million in new Contra aid if the agreement is signed on June 5.

Congress is not scheduled to reconvene until the aid request, already rejected once by the House, until June 9.

Those who want an agreement have rallied behind Philip Habib, President Reagan's new Central American envoy, who, from all accounts, has given a new impetus to the Contadora negotiations.

However, Elliott Abrams, the assistant secretary of state for Latin American affairs, is on the fence. See SPLIT on Page A3

U.S. indicts Teamsters union president

By PETE YOST
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Teamsters Union President Jackie Presser was indicted on labor racketeering charges Friday, three days before seeking election to a five-year term as head of the nation's largest labor union.

Presser declared that the government's case was constructed of "a house of cards."

A federal grand jury in Cleveland accused Presser of embezzling money from a union local there. It was the latest development in a topsy-turvy legal saga that began to unfold in 1982 when Labor Department strike force attorneys launched an investigation of a so-called "ghost-employees" payroll scheme at Local 507 in Cleveland.

In a related case, the Justice Department announced that an FBI agent was indicted Friday for making false statements that led to the collapse of the government's probe of Presser a year ago.

Chief spokesman Terry Eastland said the Justice Department was continuing an internal probe of any involvement by FBI agents in the Presser case.

From Las Vegas, Nev., where Presser, 59, was preparing for the convening Monday of the 23rd convention of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, he said:

"I welcome our day in court as an opportunity to put an end to what has been a five-year pattern of insinuations and leaks of false information."

"For five years," the statement said, "the federal government has attempted to build a case against me, but has succeeded in building nothing more substantial than a house of cards."

Ray McElhenny, an FBI spokesman, said the bureau would have no comment on the indictment of one of its agents. McElhenny said all inquiries were being handled by the Justice Department.

Presser is the fourth of the past five presidents of the Teamsters Union to be indicted; the most recent being Roy Lee Williams, now serving a prison term on a bribery conspiracy conviction.

Among other things, the indictment seeks to force Presser to forfeit all eight of his union positions at the national, state and local level. Besides serving as president of the Teamsters, Presser has continued to serve as secretary-treasurer of the Cleveland local.

Presser was charged with two counts of labor racketeering, one count of embezzlement and two counts of filing false reports with the government.

Presser flew to Cleveland late Friday afternoon from Las Vegas and left the airport in a limousine. He and his Teamster codefendants were to make their first court appearance this morning before U.S. Magistrate Joseph W. Bart-neck.

Chernobyl reactor death toll rises to 13

By CAROL J. WILLIAMS
The Associated Press

MOSCOW — Death claimed more radiation victims, including men who fought the Chernobyl reactor fire for hours, to prevent an "irreparable" nuclear disaster, news reports and an American doctor said Friday.

Dr. Robert P. Gale, who has said he expected many of the most seriously injured people to die, indicated Friday the toll had risen to 13 — four more than the number he gave journalists a day earlier.

The bone-marrow transplant specialist from Los Angeles also told U.S. television correspondents in Moscow, however, that "the acute medical emergency is over."

He said doctors believe they have isolated the most seriously injured victims and do not expect many more cases of radiation sickness beyond about 300 that already have required hospitalization.

Two people were reported killed in the explosion and fire April 26 at the nuclear power plant in the Ukraine, 80 miles north of Kiev. Gale told a news conference Thursday that of 35 people exposed to massive doses of radiation, seven had died and 28 were in critical condition.

But he indicated in a brief interview Friday that four more people had died, raising the toll from radiation exposure to 14 and the overall toll to 13.

"I am happy to say that 24 of those 35 are still alive," Gale said. "We may have additional casualties, but I think we will be able to rescue at least half of the 35 most serious cases."

"We are unfortunately having deaths on a continuing basis, although nothing happened in the last day," Gale said.

He gave no details of the latest deaths and declined to be specific about when they occurred.

Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev said in a televised speech Wednesday night that 299 people were hospitalized.

Three Soviet newspapers carried articles Friday about the heroism of firemen who battled the reactor blaze for hours and absorbed fatal doses of radiation.

The explosion and fire poured out a huge invisible cloud of radioactivity that spread over Europe and gradually has worked its way around the world.

U.S. officials in Washington said Thursday there was no evidence that the Chernobyl disaster had caused substantial agricultural damage, and Leonid M. Zayvatin, Soviet ambassador to Britain, said in London that no additional food imports from the West would be needed.

 got out alive.
 Children and adults with burns on their faces and arms streamed from the school after the explosion "completely hysterical," said Corrine Erickson, wife of the town's police chief. Many children lay on the ground screaming.
 "We heard an explosion, two gunshots (and saw) kids running in every direction," said Donna Morfeld, a parent.
 About a dozen ambulances converged on the scene and two school buses helped transport the injured.
 "There was a great deal of smoke pouring from the windows of the elementary school," said Ken Rander, news director for KMER-TV in Kemmerer, who was on the scene when the blast occurred.

 At least 32 people suffering from second-degree burns to their faces and arms were taken to Bear Lake Memorial Hospital in Montpelier, Idaho, about 30 miles from Cokeville, said Rod Jacobsen, hospital administrator. Only 11 were released from the hospital overnight for treatment.
 Forty-two others were treated at hospitals in Kemmerer and Afton, officials said.
 Music teacher John Miller, 39, was shot in the shoulder as he tried to run down a hallway. Excels said Miller ran about 200 yards before collapsing.
 He was taken to Bannock Regional Medical Center in Pocatello, Idaho, in stable condition, said Don Rogers, spokesman for the hospital.

 "A man who lived here formerly and who was our city policeman and his wife went into the school, managed to get all the children and the faculty and staff members into one classroom, and then somehow or another notified the authorities that they had them," said Mary Lou Birch, the mother of one of the children held hostage.
 If they didn't get the ransom, "they were going to start shooting," she said.
 The Cheyenne office of the federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms was still sending agents to the school Friday afternoon.
 Cokeville is located in southwestern Wyoming, about five miles from the Idaho border.

Idaho Falls district, teachers come to terms

IDAHO FALLS (AP) — The Idaho Falls Education Association, has reached a tentative agreement with the Idaho Falls School District on the 1987 teachers contract.
 Details of the agreement were not released pending ratification of the terms by the IFEA members. A ratification meeting for the association is scheduled for 4 p.m. Tuesday at Eagle Rock Junior High School.

"Even though the salary increase is lower this year than in past years, we feel good about the overall package," said Ken Wyler, IFEA spokesman.
 Wyler said that the tentatively agreed-upon salary increase "reflected" the state's appropriation to the district.
 The agreement was reached after 11 hours of negotiation Thursday, he said.

"The dialogue across the table, I think, was cordial and as objective as we could have asked for," Superintendent Jerry Jacobson said. "There was an effort on the part of both sides to reach accord on the issues before us. From my point of view we did that."
 Jacobson said ratification of the agreement was subject to approval by school trustees, who will review the agreement May 27.

 second as saying the Sandinistas should be treated to carry out the agreement and has suggested they should first be replaced by a different government.
 And Reagan himself has voiced his strong support of the Contras, but has been silent on the latest negotiating efforts.

Previous votes and floor debate indicated a majority in both the House and Senate favor a negotiated solution. The administration also is on record in favor of a Contadora accord.
 But, until recently, negotiations on such an accord had appeared deadlocked, with Nicaragua refusing to sign until the United States stopped aiding the Contras.

praised Habib's "tireless and very successful efforts... in emphasizing the role of the United States in the Contadora process."
 Mark Helmeke, a top aide to the senator, said Friday that Lugar takes the position "we are offering debating Nicaragua as if it is in some kind of a vacuum. We now have four democracies (Honduras, Guatemala, Costa Rica, and El Salvador) in the region. Let's get the thing over with so we can help these guys... Our policy has been based on supporting those four countries, not just on fighting Nicaragua."

A group of conservative congressmen, including Dan Rostenkowski, is requesting a meeting with Reagan to seek confirmation that he has not wavered in his support for the Contras.
 Burton said he and other congressmen met with Habib last week. "That he came away very concerned there is a move to get a Contadora agreement signed at almost all costs and that aid to Contras may be way down the list of considerations."
 Burton also said he was alarmed that Abrams, who he called the "most knowledgeable" official in Washington on the Nicaraguan issue, "did not come away very concerned for talks on Latin America with the Soviets."
 "I think the purpose is to keep him out of reach while these negotiations, those actively backing Habib. At a (Contadora) are going on," Burton informed members of Congress say Habib helped engineer a breakthrough in an April 11 letter declaring the administration would aid the Contras when an acceptable agreement had been signed. Administration officials insisted that letter did not represent a policy change, but congressmen active on the issue said it was significant because the administration previously has given the impression it would continue backing the Contras until the Sandinistas had surrendered control of the Nicaraguan government.

 Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and previously a supporter of Contra aid, is among those actively backing Habib. At a news conference last week, Lugar

Rep. David Bonior, D-Mich., who has been a spokesman for anti-Contra aid forces, said Habib is "a moderating force" in the administration but said he believes nonetheless that those "who are committed to eliminating the Sandinistas from power" are in control.
 "The only hope for Contadora is for Nicaragua to take a high risk gamble for peace, signing the treaty despite the continuing threat imposed by the Contras with the hope that the United States will involve itself in the process and withdraw support for the Contras," said Bonior.

What is so rare as a weekend like this?

Twin Falls, Burley, Rupert, Jerome and Gooding:
 Sunny and warmer today. Highs 65 to 70. Nightly fair. Lows 35 to 40. Sunday mostly sunny. Highs 70 to 75.
Camas, Prairie, Halsey and the Lower Wood River Valley:
 Sunny and warmer today. Highs 60 to 65. Tonight to Sunday fair. Lows mid 30s. Highs upper 60s.
Northern Utah and Nevada:
 Utah — Local areas of frost. Fair and warmer today through Sunday. Low tonight 35 to 45. Highs today 80s to mid 70s and Sunday upper 60s to low 80s.
 Nevada — Mostly sunny today. Variable high clouds Sunday. Warmer with high clouds by the 20s and Sunday upper 60s. Lows tonight mostly 30s to low 40s.
Synopsis:
 High pressure was becoming the dominant weather feature over Idaho Friday.
 This high pressure system will bring dry and warmer weather to all of southern Idaho through the weekend.
 In the north, though, there will be a chance of showers late today and Sunday as a weak Pacific storm system passes by.

BOISE (AP) — Idaho's public school eighth graders scored just above average in a national proficiency test administered this spring while the state's high school juniors improved on their well-above-average performance of a year ago.

But in releasing the results of the testing program on Friday, Thomas Trotter of the state Department of Education said they signal a potentially significant deficiency in mathematics.

In addition, while characterizing the performance of both groups as moderately strong when compared to the rest of the nation, Trotter conceded that the barely better-than-average showing of the eighth graders should be improved.

The composite score of the more than 14,000 Idaho eighth graders taking the test was equal to or better than only 54 percent of their counterparts nationwide.

"We're not beset with some of the illibilities other states are," Trotter said, "but we do have other problems a number of states face. 'So I don't know how high they should be, but certainly higher-four points above the norm.'"

The overall composite score for the more than 12,000 high school juniors was equal to or better than 64 percent of their counterparts across the country, up a percentage point from last year's performance.

But on both tests, the results showed "relatively weak" performances in math, particularly computing skills. The eighth graders averaged scores seven points below the national norm in that area while the juniors, though remaining six points above the norm, saw their average scores drop by seven points from last year.

"With the technology of the time, many math students are using calculators and computer software, and they might be suffering in computational skills," Trotter said, noting that calculators are not permitted in taking the tests. "Perhaps there's too much reliance."

It was the first time the eighth graders have been administered a nationwide test, and the score for the juniors. The eighth-grade Iowa Test of Basic Skills replaced an optional Idaho Proficiency Test that had been administered in previous years but could not be compared on a national basis.

"This was the second year in a five-year experiment for the Tests of Achievement and Proficiency to be administered to the juniors."

While saying he still believed improvements could be made, Trotter expressed satisfaction with this year's test results, particularly in view of the fact that Idaho continues to rank at or near the bottom in national surveys on the government's financial commitment to education.

"Idaho is getting a great deal of mileage out of the dollar invested," Trotter said. "That's not to say we wouldn't be doing better if more money is invested."

He also said test scores could decline in the future if education is not adequately financed in the state — an issue that has been a bone of contention in the last three legislative sessions.

In both tests, the average state were the highest for science, where scores were equal to or better than 73 percent of the nation for the eighth graders and 71 percent for the juniors.

Social studies was the second strongest area for the eighth graders with a rating of 63 percent followed by reading at 57 percent, math and vocabulary at 53 percent, and work-study and language skills at 52 percent.

For the juniors, the second strongest showing was in both reading comprehension and using sources of information at 69 percent followed by written expression at 67 percent, social studies at 65 percent and math at 56 percent.

In addition to the Iowa Test of Basic Skills, the state also administered a writing assessment test to the eighth graders, and Trotter said the results showed that nearly 78 percent demonstrated mastery in basic writing skills. That compared to under 72 percent last year and just over 75 percent in 1984.

At the same time, however, the results of the national test showed Idaho eighth graders scoring below the national norm in spelling and capitalization. Trotter said the writing assessment focuses more on communication and organizational skills than on basic writing mechanics.

Five arraigned on cocaine charges

NEZPERCE (AP) — Five people Thursday by U.S. marshals, the Lewis County Sheriff's Office and the Idaho Investigative Services Bureau.

Officials arrested Steven Wood, Melissa Swanson, Cindy Cole, Dan Gerrard and Don Cole. Lewis County Sheriff Donald Fortney said the five arrested at the Nezperce Hotel all are from the Seattle area.

Court rules board liable for accident

BOISE (AP) — The state Board of Corrections is liable for the actions of a man convicted four times of drunken driving who, while under the influence of alcohol, practically destroyed the career of an honor law student, the Idaho Supreme Court ruled.

But the one dissenting justice said the decision striking down a district judge's finding that the board was immune from liability under the Idaho Tort Claims Act could invite "a flood of tort claims which will place impossible fiscal burdens upon future legislatures."

The 4 to 1 opinion issued Friday reversed 4th District Judge W.E. Smith's dismissal of a lawsuit filed by Maund Sterling against convicted drunken driver Fred W. Bloom, an Eagle tavern and several others, including the Idaho Board of Corrections.

Bloom was legally intoxicated when the car he was driving struck a motorcycle driven by Sterling in June 1982, according to court records. Sterling's complaint alleged, among other things, that the Board of Corrections was negligent in its supervision of Bloom, who was on five years probation from an Oct. 1981 felony conviction for drunken driving.

According to court records, probation supervisor Ronald Housely allegedly allowed Bloom to violate the terms of his probation, including that he not drive without written permission, and failed to revoke his probation for violations on a number of occasions before the collision.

Smith ruled that the board was immune from liability for Ms. Sterling's injuries since the 1971 Idaho Tort Claims Act exempts government actions that have no "parallel function" in the private sector, and no private prison or parole-system exists in Idaho.

Smith also said the board's handling of Bloom's probation was a "discretionary function" also exempt from liability.

But writing for the high court's majority, Justice Stephen Bistline said the parallel function test was being improperly read into the state law. He said both legislative intent and previous federal case law made it clear that Smith's interpretation was faulty.

Claude Dallas makes FBI most wanted list

WASHINGTON (AP) — Claude Lafayette Dallas Jr., a trapper who said he killed two Idaho Department of Fish and Game officers in self-defense, was placed on the FBI's list of 10-most-wanted fugitives Friday.

Dallas, the subject of two books on his solitary life and clashes with the law in the high-desert and canyon country of southwestern Idaho and northern Nevada, escaped from the Idaho State Penitentiary south of Boise on March 30 by cutting through two heavy-gauge chain link fences.

"There are those who look upon Dallas as a folk hero," FBI Director William Webster said in making Dallas the 400th addition to the bureau's most-wanted list.

"However, the murders of two Fish and Game officers were committed by a dangerous and vicious man who has no regard for society's laws," Webster said. "Those who so casually reject our laws are criminals, not heroes."

The FBI also announced it was placing a 34-year-old man sought in a violent West Coast crime spree on its 10-most-wanted fugitive list.

At a Boise news conference, special agent Toby Harding, Butte, Mont., said it was the brutal nature of the 1981 killings of Bill Pogue and Conley Elms that made Dallas a prime candidate for the list.

Harding and Ada County Sheriff Vaughn Killen, who has coordinated the nationwide manhunt, said the designation should help the search effort by putting more pressure on Dallas.

Defense cuts said not in U.S. interest

BOISE (AP) — Cutting the budget for defense spending, will inevitably slow the pace of modernization and upgrading of this country's defense installations, says John O. Marsh Jr., secretary of the Army.

"It is not in our national interest to have that occur," said Marsh here Friday. Accompanied by Idaho senators Steve Symms and James McClure, Marsh toured Gowen Field, the Idaho Army National Guard center south of Boise.

He said $18 million has been placed in the fiscal 1987 budget for improvements at Gowen Field, with more money planned for the following year.

Marsh, himself a veteran of 30-plus years service in the Virginia National Guard, said he was interested in the Army Research Institute, operated jointly with Boise State University. It's looking into ways to improve military training.

"The Army Guard has two other research installations, but the Idaho one is the only facility not operated at a major military base, Marsh said.

Car returned to lawmaker

FORT HALL (AP) — State Rep. Lydia Justice Edwards was reunited with her car Friday after it was stolen while she was visiting a relative on the Fort Hall Indian Reservation. Thursday night, the Donnelly Republican said.

Mrs. Edwards, who is a GOP candidate for state treasurer, said she was on the reservation seeking support for her candidacy from Shoshone-Bannock tribal leaders.

She said she left the keys in her 1978 Cadillac Eldorado while she was at the home of her cousin, Martha Akers of Fort Hall. It apparently was stolen about 11 p.m. Thursday, Mrs. Edwards said.

Police in Chubbuck located the car abandoned but with none of the contents missing about noon Friday, she said.

Task force urges teacher salary reform

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — A proposed radical overhaul for America's teaching profession will take at least 10 years and could raise the nation's school bill by 30 percent, the authors said Friday.

But leaders of the Carnegie Task Force on Teaching as a Profession said if their reforms pan out, there could be offsetting savings in the form of reduced spending on remedial classes and fewer central office bureaucrats.

"Teachers will be more effective and productive. Kids will learn quicker and learn more, and that's money in the bank," said Lewis M. Branscomb, vice president and chief scientist at IBM and chairman of the task force.

The Carnegie report, unveiled Thursday, calls for drastic changes in the training and compensation of teachers, as well as the creation of a national board to certify top teachers who would command salaries averaging $65,500 a year.

Teachers would still be licensed by states, but the board, dominated by teachers, would afford teachers a status now enjoyed by other professions such as accountants.

School costs could climb by 30 percent in the next decade just if teachers' pay rose to the level of accountants, Branscomb said at a news conference. But he emphasized, "We don't really know how to eliminate the reductions... that would be a consequence of success."

Bill Honig, California's superintendent of public instruction, said, "If you want a top flight school system, you're going to have to pay for it."

The Carnegie Corporation gathered more than 200 education, business and civic leaders at the Hotel del Coronado in this beach resort across the bay from San Diego to discuss the ramifications of the 14-member panel's unanimous report.

The heads of both teachers' unions signed the report, although National Education Association President Mary Hatwood Futrell did so with reservations on several key points. Including the call for a new class of highly paid "lead teachers" who would run some schools in place of principals.

In such cases, the report said, one lead teacher could act as the managing partner.

"I'm not threatened by it because the idea is just nuts," said National Association of Secondary School Principals Executive Director Scott Thomson, who was not on the task force.

Branscomb said drastic changes are needed to attract teachers capable of giving the masses of children the intellectual skills needed to maintain America's economic competitiveness and standard of living.

"We really must make changes because the market for teachers has changed... The current system does not work very well," said Albert Shanker, president of the American Federation of Teachers and father of the idea of a national certification board.

Conrail picketing to end

By The Associated Press

President Reagan ordered creation of an emergency panel Friday to end a 24-month-old railroad walkout after strikers began picketing Conrail sites in the Northeast and Midwest, crippling one of the nation's biggest freight carriers.

The Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees announced late Friday that it would stop picketing the Conrail sites.

More than 100 of the union's members at Malne Central struck March 3 in a dispute with the railroad's owners, Gullford Transportation Industries Inc. of Billerica, Mass., over job security, wages and severance pay.

About a week later, union members at two other Gullford-owned lines, the Boston & Maine and the Delaware & Hudson, refused to cross picket lines.

On Thursday, the strikers began picketing Conrail yards in Massachusetts, New York, Indiana, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio and the District of Columbia

Deaver: No trading on Reagan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lobbyist Michael K. Deaver said Friday he has not and would not trade on his friendship with Ronald Reagan and asserted that anyone who suggests otherwise is just as surely attacking the integrity of the president.

"After five months of innuendos and leaks, it's my turn today," the ex-White House deputy chief of staff told reporters as he entered a closed House subcommittee hearing to give his response to allegations of influence peddling.

In an opening statement prepared for the panel, Deaver blasted "mean-spirited" critics and denied "a blatant conflict-of-interest law in lobbying for foreign and domestic clients."

He told the Energy and Commerce Investigations committee his "actions have been within the law at all times," and asserted, "I have never traded on my relationship with the president for any client — and I never will."

He called "groundless and impertinent" the accusation that he should not have lobbied the government on issues he once discussed while occupying his high White House office. Such criticism, he said, was "not only mean-spirited, but also an implicit attack on the integrity" of Reagan.

Federal judge enters prison

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — U.S. District Judge Harry Claiborne on Friday became the first sitting federal judge to go to prison, reporting to a minimum-security camp to serve a two-year sentence for tax evasion while still drawing his $78,200 salary.

Claiborne, 66, of Las Vegas, Nev., arrived in a taxi at the Federal Prison Camp at Maxwell Air Force Base, declining to comment to reporters at the prison gate.

Claiborne was sentenced to two years in prison for a 1984 conviction of failing to report law practice income totaling $100,000 on federal tax returns in 1979 and 1980. He would be eligible for parole in eight months.

The judge has refused to resign from the bench, a lifetime appointment, and will continue to draw a $78,200 annual salary in prison unless he is impeached.

Panel probes report on files

WASHINGTON (AP) — The presidential commission investigating the Challenger explosion has sent an FBI agent to NASA's Marshall Space Flight Center to investigate an allegation that some files relating to shuttle booster rockets were thrown out or destroyed after the accident.

The center, in Huntsville, Ala., has charge of the shuttle's solid rocket boosters and supervises the contractor that builds them. Marshall has figured largely in the Challenger investigation, because a leak in the shuttle's right booster rocket is believed to have caused the accident.

NASA sources told The Associated Press Friday that the allegations came in an unsigned, handwritten letter.

Radioactive fallout decreases

WASHINGTON (AP) — Radioactive fallout in the United States from the Chernobyl disaster seems to have peaked, the Environmental Protection Agency said Friday.

The average concentration in a radioactive rain sample fell by better than 50 percent from Thursday's daily report to Friday's — from about 1,000 picocuries per liter to 410, the agency said. The number of cities with radioactive rain this week fell from 13 to eight.

The most active sample was less active than the most active sample the day before. A peak radioactivity actually deposited on the ground — which depends on how long it rains as well as the radioactivity of the rainfall — was off sharply, from 8,410 picocuries per square meter Thursday to 2,310 Friday.

Forest fire now 'contained'

HAMPSTEAD, N.C. (AP) — A forest fire that burned 73,000 acres of woodland in the southeastern part of the state was declared contained Friday, but officials said they were not "walking away" from the blaze.

Firefighters will remain on the scene doing "mop-up" work on the fire, which started on May 5, for the next several weeks, said Rebecca Richards, a spokeswoman for the Department of Natural Resources and Community Development.

The cause of the fire is still under investigation but arson is suspected, Richards said.

White recalled as scholar, storyteller

NEW YORK (AP) — Theodore H. White, who crammed several careers in nearly a half-century of reporting on war, revolution and political campaigns, was remembered Friday as a journalist and scholar "who had so many fascinating stories to tell."

White died Thursday night of a stroke he suffered May 9, three days after his 71st birthday.

The owlish, Pulitzer-Prize-winning journalist, regarded by many as the dean of American political writers, was best known for his "Making of the President" books that chronicled every run for the White House from 1960 to 1980.

He pioneered an insider style of political reporting and characterized the Kennedy years as Camelot.

But White also was a foreign correspondent for Time magazine, closely observing Mao Tse-Tung and Chou En-Lai in revolutionary China and World War II in the Pacific. He later wrote novels, and he carried that style into his political books.

"He approached journalism with a scholar's intensity," said Walter Cronkite, the CBS correspondent and long-time friend of White's. "He didn't think anybody really observed thoroughly and deeply into every subject he decided to write about."

"If there is any charge to be laid against him by his friends, it was that he would try to monopolize some of the conversations, but he was so interesting and had so many fascinating stories to tell... that I don't think anybody really objected," said Cronkite.

The "Making of the President" series began with the 1960 race between John F. Kennedy and Richard

THEODORE H. WHITE
Noted for 'Camelot' label

M. Nixon and included four of his 11 books.

The first book sold more than 4 million copies, won him a Pulitzer and spawned competitors who tried to match his style.

"Somehow, a presidential campaign was not really over until Ted White's book was written," President Reagan said Friday.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said, "Journalism is often called the first draft of history, and anyone who knew Teddy White knows why. His brilliant study of the 1960 election will live as a classic of contemporary American history."

Recalling his book on the 1972 race between Nixon and George McGovern, White said he had invented a method of reporting "which I now sincerely regret."

"I'd get into a room and disappear into the woodwork," he told an interviewer. "Now the rooms are so crowded with reporters getting behind-the-scenes stories that no body can get behind-the-scenes stories."

White's coining the term Camelot stemmed from a Life magazine article he wrote shortly after Kennedy's 1963 assassination.

White quoted Jacqueline Kennedy as remembering that her husband loved the title song of the Broadway musical that ended: "Don't let it be forgot, that once there was a spot, for one brief shining moment that was known as Camelot."

White, a chain-smoking, lifelong Democrat, admitted that after reporters, he most enjoyed the company of politicians.

Two novels, "The Mountain Road" in 1958 and "The View from the 40th Floor" in 1960, earned White enough to begin what he envisioned as a 25-year project of "hindsight textbooks" about how America elects its presidents.

At the time, three other publishers rejected it, and White headed for the New Hampshire primary and a year in the press bus behind Kennedy and Nixon. He produced books of the next three elections — Johnson-Goldwater of 1964, Nixon-Humphrey of 1968 and Nixon-McGovern in 1972, then wrote "Breath of Faith: the Fall of Richard Nixon" in 1975.

He was unable to put together a book of the 1976 Carter-Ford campaign and in a summing-up volume in 1982, "America in Search of Itself: The Making of the President, 1959-80," said he had written his last campaign history.

Singer sentenced

HILLSBORO, Ohio (AP) — Country singer Johnny Paycheck was found guilty Friday of shooting a man in a bar after an argument, and he was sentenced to up to 9 1/2 years in prison.

Paycheck, who showed no emotion when the verdict was read in Highland County Common Pleas Court, was convicted of a reduced charge of aggravated assault and tampering with evidence.

What's what

Q. Is a "pair of twins" two people or four people?
A. Four, technically. But nobody's technical in this matter. It's a redundancy. If used, and what it's always meant to mean is two people.

Two-tenths of a percent of anything is hardly worth considering, true, but only that much is how much silk there's left in the world's new textiles. The worm has not done well with modern man, not that particular worm.

Q. The average American man who buys a house ... how many houses will he have bought over his lifetime?
A. Three. He lives in House No. 1 for eight years, No. 2 for seven years, No. 3 until his death. Getting into No. 1 is the tough part.

SWINGING CAT
Archeologists in old England put a live cat in a leather sack and swung it from a tree limb for a target. It's Shakespeare alluded to the practice

In "Much Ado About Nothing," as previously mentioned, it's where we got the old-timey term "no room to swing a cat." What, you contradicted? You mention cat-of-nine-tails? Nope. The "swing a cat" phrase appeared in literature 100 years before the cat-of-nine-tails was invented for flogging.

Stone Age men in what's now Africa's Tanzania wore nothing but aprons - but over the backside, not the front. Stone Age women wore short skirts. This, as evidenced from cave art.

Soviet paper relates tale of heroism of young men in brigade

Radiation from Chernobyl flames fatal to firefighters

MOSCOW (AP) — A young firefighter raced to the Chernobyl inferno and stood over the open reactor for hours to contain the flames and avert a catastrophe, but absorbed a massive dose of radiation that killed him, a newspaper said Friday.

He and Vladimir Pravik, a young commander, led their teams into the flames. Pravik also had died. "The battle began with the raging fire that devoured everything. The fire, as they did not know then, was not the most important enemy. . . . It was something else, invisible to the eye, peridious — radiation."

The scene and the reckless bravery of the young men battling the fire terrified their commander, Leonid Telyatnikov, when he arrived. Telyatnikov, who now is in a Moscow hospital, was on holiday leave at the time of the accident but took "the longest drive of his life" to the fire when he was notified.

The picture he saw terrified him — an open reactor, and, on top, above its death-carrying breath, at a great height, figures scurrying around. Telyatnikov, Kibenok and Pravik were heroes of the battle at the reactor, 80 miles north of Kiev in the Ukraine. The commander used his experience of dozens of dif-icult fires to direct the dousing of flames that spread from the No. 4 reactor building to the roof of the No. 3 reactor. As the roof burned, spewing suffocating smoke and sparks that penetrated everywhere to help fight the flames, then "people got weaker." Kibenok, whose uncle is a firefighter and whose father was decorated for rescuing people from a farm blaze, first noticed signs of radiation sickness when he saw his comrade Vladimir Tishchura writing and squinting. "After that, Nikolai Vashchuk swayed and fell flat on his back."

War leaders sent to prison

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — The three military rulers who started and lost the Falkland Islands war with Britain in 1982 were given prison terms ranging from 8 to 14 years, the Defense Ministry said. A communique said the Supreme Council of the Armed Forces, a panel of nine retired generals that is the nation's highest military tribunal prescribed the sentences: Gen. Leopoldo Galtieri, the army commander who served as president, 12 years in prison; Adm. Jorge Anaya, the navy commander, 14 years, and Gen. Basilio Lamí Dozo, chief of the air force, eight years.

They also were stripped of the high rank and privileges as retired officers. Time bombs exploded at eight ward offices of civilian President Raul Alfonsín's Radical Civic Union party Friday. There was no evidence linking the bombs to the verdicts, but Cesar Lora, the party leader in Congress, attributed the explosions to "extreme rightist connections to the ousted dictatorship." Galtieri, Anaya and Lamí Dozo were convicted of violating Article 740 of the Code of Military Justice, which covers "the military crime of negligence."

U.S. says Marcos not president

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department said Friday that Ferdinand E. Marcos is continuing partisan political activity while in exile in Hawaii, but that his claims to the presidency of the Philippines are "totally without foundation." Department spokesman Charles E. Redman asked about statements made by Marcos since he left the Philippines in late February, said "there is increasing evidence of partisan-political activity by Mr. Marcos" from his home in Hawaii.

Nicaraguan rebel gives up, asks Costa Rica for asylum

ON THE SAN JUAN RIVER, Costa Rica (AP) — Nicaraguan rebel leader Eden Pastora on Friday gave up his fight against the Sandinista government he helped bring to power. He surrendered to Costa Rican authorities in hopes of winning asylum. "We think there is no possibility of a military victory," the sweat-soaked guerrilla chief told reporters. "We don't want to be soldiers of the United States in a war of pressure," Pastora added. "We want to be soldiers of the Nicaraguan people in a war of ours, the Nicaraguans, to overthrow the extreme left in a nationalist war."

EDEN PASTORA Plans to denounce CIA

Pastora's aides said Friday he would denounce the CIA, claiming it was trying to undermine him because of his refusal to align with the Democratic Force. In Washington, State Department spokesman Charles Redman said Friday that Pastora will continue his efforts to bring democracy to Nicaragua and that reports of his abandonment of that struggle are incorrect. "But Miguel Caracas, a Pastora aide, told The Associated Press on Friday that the rebel leader would seek asylum from another country if Costa Rica denied him sanctuary. Meanwhile, the Costa Rican Red Cross and the federal Health Department announced they were prepared to aid Pastora's men, many of whom have diseases contracted in the mountains of Nicaragua. Pastora, 49, had become increasingly isolated in his fight against the left-wing Sandinistas as other rebel groups joined a rival organization that receives U.S. funding and support. He had fought with the Sandinistas to oust the rightist regime of the late President Anastasio Somoza in 1979, winning the nickname "Commander Zero."

Dominicans jam polls in presidential voting

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Dominicans on Friday crowded polls to cast ballots for president, vice president, federal lawmakers and local officials. Early voting was generally peaceful despite violence during the campaign. A tear gas canister exploded outside one polling station, but no one was injured and the station remained open. Two other polling stations in the capital city of 1.5 million were closed after election officials received bomb threats. No bombs went off.

Dominican Revolutionary Party; Joaquin Balaguer, 78, of the center-right Social Christian Reform Party; Juan Bosch, 76, of the leftist Dominican Liberal Party. Polls have ranked Balaguer and Majluta as the top two candidates ahead of Bosch, and international observers said the race appears to be close. All three are former presidents. Three minor party candidates also were running. The three main candidates pledged to lower prices of basic commodities like sugar, gasoline and rice. The polls opened at 6 a.m. and were to close 12 hours later. First results were not expected until 10 p.m. The government, concerned about public order, imposed tight restrictions on releasing election results. About half of the Caribbean nation's 6 million people were eligible to vote.

Suspect cleared in Palme murder

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — A Stockholm prosecutor, criticizing police investigators, on Friday formally cleared a man who for several weeks was a suspect in the Feb. 28 assassination of Prime Minister Olof Palme. Prosecutor K.G. Svensson issued a statement saying the investigation had not shown that the former prospect "had anything to do with the murder" and there was no reason to continue "the prejudicial investigation" of him.

Terrorists bomb offices of Interpol

PARIS (AP) — Terrorists attacked the headquarters of Interpol, the international police agency, with guns and explosives Friday night, wounding one policeman and shattering windows, authorities said. Leadlets found at the scene were signed by the extreme leftist group Direct Action. A police spokesman on condition of anonymity said the terrorists arrived in an automobile about 10:10 p.m., sprayed the building with gunfire and then buried an explosive device. They said investigators could not immediately determine whether the explosion was caused by a grenade or a bomb. A policeman guarding the building was hit in the arm by a bullet and was hospitalized. Earlier reports said two people were wounded, but police said only the guard was hurt. Police also said a search was conducted for a bomb that might have been placed inside the Interpol building in the western suburb of St. Cloud. An anonymous caller told police a second explosion would occur at 12:30 a.m. at the headquarters of the Electronic Serge Dassault company, also in St. Cloud. Police reported there was an explosion at the time set by the caller and searchers did not find any bombs.

Jerome OKs zoning for cheesemaking plant

By BOB FREUND
Times-News writer

JEROME — Acting unanimously, the Jerome County Board of Commissioners has awarded a Colorado milk-cooperative the zoning needed to build a large cheese plant southeast of Jerome.

At a meeting Friday, the county's top elected officials classified 160 acres of land north of Interstate 84 and east of U.S. 93 for heavy industrial use, the most permissive zone in the county codes.

Mountain Empire Dairyman's Association of Thornton, Colo., has sought the change for the past 1 1/2 years. The milk marketing cooperative has said it plans to build a cheese manufacturing plant and to dispose of whey, a byproduct of cheesemaking, by mixing it with water and sprinkling it on the ground.

However, a number of neighbors have fought the zoning and the plant itself. They have blasted the land use as "spot zoning," a type of zoning that conflicts with other uses in the area. Surrounding land is zoned for agriculture.

Opponents also have said the factory and irrigation of the whey will damage their living environment.

"How would you feel if you were going to lagoons (and the pounds) a mile west?" asked neighbor Gene Reichard on Friday. Residents have threatened lawsuits to halt the plant in the past. Now, with the zoning decision made, "There is a very real possibility" of legal action, she said.

In issuing the order, the commissioners disputed the charge of "spot zoning," saying the use is "consistent and in harmony with an agricultural zone."

The commissioners also said the rezoning will be in the public interest because it will provide new jobs, increase the county's tax base and bolster the agricultural economy.

John Helzer, chairman of the Jerome Chamber of Commerce Task Force, which seeks new industry, welcomed the county decision.

"I think that that is at least an indication that Jerome County is not anti-industry... that it will do what it can to welcome any clean industry into the area," he said.

MEDA has about 85 members in the Magic and Treasure valleys. The cooperative currently trucks its milk long distances to other plants. It has options on 1,600 acres of land about 1 1/2 miles north and one mile east of the I-84 interchange with U.S. 93.

MEDA General Manager Vern Bingham said Friday that delays in obtaining the zoning had been expensive for the cooperative. It recently purchased the former Beatrice Foods cheese plant in Twin Falls to process some of its members' milk.

Bingham said MEDA intends to go ahead with its plans to build the factory, but does not have a current timetable. "We've been held up this long, we're not going to rush out decision, and most of them were in opposition," he said.

The proposed cheese plant would cost between $3 million and $7 million to build, depending on technology. It would employ between 25 and 35 workers and add $500,000 in payroll to the county's economy, MEDA has said.

The cooperative's experts have conducted studies showing the ground and underlying aquifer would not be harmed by the spraying of whey. However, opponents have been skeptical of the reports, citing problems at other dairies with similar systems.

Commissioners said Friday they had received many letters about the zoning decision, and most of them were in opposition.

EPA cracks down on dairy, feedlot waste pollution

By KENNETH A. BROWN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency is hoping to streamline its permit plan to control dairy and feedlot wastes, but is anticipating some local objections.

Instead of issuing "dozens of individual permits," the EPA will be issuing one general permit for dairy and feedlot operators, detailing specifications of containment facilities for keep wastes out of streams and waterways.

The EPA hopes the general permit will cut paperwork. Even so, Wally Scarborough with the EPA in Boise, expects there will be objections to the permit plan.

"I'm sure some folks are going to be upset," Scarborough said. "But we're not picking on Idahoans. We're actually a little bit late."

Federal guidelines for controlling dairy and feedlot wastes were established in 1974. Idaho is the last state in the Northwest to implement a program for controlling the wastes, Scarborough said.

Idaho's standards are less stringent than those in other Western states, such as California and Oregon, Scarborough said. Oregon, for example, allows no discharge under any circumstances and California requires systems capable of retaining a 75-year storm, Scarborough said.

The new permit plan contains some changes from proposals discussed last fall, Scarborough said. Instead of the "zero discharge" requirement, the new proposal sets specifications for containment facilities to prevent discharges.

The new requirements, Scarborough said, would require containment facilities which could hold all present overflow wastes on site, prevent overflows during a 25-year storm and hold wastes through three inches of winter runoff.

A 25-year storm is defined as the largest amount of precipitation likely to occur in a 25-year period in a 24-hour period.

Dairy and feedlot waste problems are most frequent in the spring, when rain and runoff wash wastes off-site and fill settling ponds and lagoons, causing them to overflow and run into streams and canals.

Dairy wastes have been a significant problem in the Magic Valley, choking area streams and canals with manure and animal wastes. Mike McMasters of the Idaho Division of Environment in Twin Falls said his office averages 75-100 complaints a year, and has already had about 50 complaints this year.

McMasters said there are roughly 1,100 dairies in the Magic Valley, and about 90 percent discharge their wastes into streams and canals at one time or another during the year.

While the majority are what McMasters calls a number of "mom and pop" dairies, the EPA's permit program will focus on larger operations. Feedlots with more than 300 head of cattle and dairies with more than 200 head will be covered in the program.

Smaller operations, however, may be required to participate in the program if the EPA or the state's Division of Environment determines that they pose a significant water quality problem.

Once the state's permit becomes final, individual operators will be required to give the EPA and state's Division of Environment a notice of their intent to be covered by the permit.

While this requirement has led some to believe the system is voluntary, Scarborough said, "It's in their own best interest to participate." Those who do not participate in the system will be in violation of the law regardless of the precipitation event causing the spill.

As an example, Scarborough said, a dairy participating in the permit program would not be liable for a spill occurring as a result of a rainstorm which is event or such as a rainstorm which is two- or three times as large as the one specified in the permit.

Scarborough said the permit program • See EPA on Page B2

Council to allow card clubs in residential areas

TWIN FALLS — A local man has applied for a special use permit to operate a private card club across from the College of Southern Idaho, but the Twin Falls City Council decision that card clubs should be allowed in residential areas.

The council decision overturns a Twin Falls Planning and Zoning Commission decision that the city code could not be stretched to allow the clubs in residential areas.

City Council members reasoned that since country clubs are allowed in residential areas and card games are held in many country clubs, then card clubs should be considered country clubs for zoning purposes.

Members of the Planning and Zoning Commission had reasoned that country clubs usually meant acres of greenery. The commission split, 4-3, in denying the usage before the council overturned the decision.

City code lists the uses land zoned R-4 may be used for, other than single-family dwellings and four-unit apartment buildings, with a special use permit.

Country clubs are allowed as they are in all residential zones. Such traditional neighborhood uses as churches, schools and historical sites are also allowed. And outdoor uses are allowed. The code lists golf courses and country clubs; outdoor tennis courts; outdoor ice and roller-skating rinks; outdoor pools; and gardens and arboretums.

Other uses such as rooming houses, libraries, museums, zoos, aquariums, radio studios and nursing homes are not allowed.

The card club that brought the issue up is one proposed by Harold Bulcher to be used by area bridge clubs.

Most of the club members are elderly, says bridge player Stephen Feldman. The card club is in essence their "country club," he said. The building would include 2,100 square feet of space and 34 parking lots.

State mailing touts Crime Stoppers clout

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A mailing project designed to make state and community leaders and law enforcement officers around Idaho aware of the values of crime prevention programs began Wednesday in Twin Falls.

Volunteers stuffed nearly 350 envelopes with copies of letters from areas where the Crime Stoppers programs are working against crime and showing promising results. The letters are designed to encourage citizens, who crime stoppers programs have not yet been adopted, to get in step with the effort.

Peterson, co-chairman of the Twin Falls County Crime Prevention Council, said each packet that went into the mail included letters from sheriffs, police chiefs and county and state officials who have had experiences with the crime stoppers system and are endorsing it.

Statistics from the local effort were also mailed, she said. These show that since crime stoppers moved in on March 1, 1982, it has put a sizeable amount of crime on the run.

"We have paid out $6,775 in rewards, contributed to 134 arrests, closed 129 criminal cases and recovered an astounding $1,226,496 in drugs and stolen merchandise. It has been a good investment," Peterson said.

The council offers a reward for information that leads to an arrest, but at the same time allows the tipster to remain unknown, even to investigating officers.

Peterson said the program benefits everyone, but it is made possible through generous contributions of businesses and individuals who want to see crime in their communities and counties reduced.

Hopefuls air agendas at Blaine GOP forum

By QUANE KENYON
The Associated Press

KETCHUM — Republican congressional candidate Mel Richardson says it's important that Democrat Richard Stallings be defeated this fall by whoever wins the GOP nomination.

"If we don't beat Richard Stallings this fall, I feel he will be there for a long time," Richardson told a Blaine County Republican Central Committee candidate forum here Thursday.

Richardson was one of four of the candidates seeking the 2nd Congressional District nomination to speak.

Rep. J. P. "Bud" Chaband, an Idaho Falls, did not attend.

Richardson said whichever Republican wins the nomination will be involved in one of the most important congressional races in the nation.

Another candidate, state Sen. Dane Watkins, R-Idaho Falls, told the Republicans the party needs a message of optimism. "America's best days are still ahead of us," he said. "I'm proud to be a farmer. Congress needs a farmer who is actively involved in that business."

Connie Hansen said people who run for public office because they think they will gain power should forget it. "Running for office is very hard work; serving after you are elected is unbelievably hard."

She said people often ask her why she has a few lobbyists, "he said.

she is going through the bother of running for public office. "It's like giving birth, you quickly forget the pain and suffering."

Mrs. Hansen is the wife of former representative George Hansen, who Stallings narrowly defeated in 1984.

Dan Adamson, of Jerome, urged the Republicans to work hard to stop inflation and curb the national debt.

He said he opposes the new farm bill enacted by Congress and believes the Gramm-Rudman budget limitation law will be changed.

Two Republican state officials unopposed for new four-year terms urged the Republicans to help elect David Leroy as Idaho's next governor. Both Secretary of State Paul Cenarrusa and Attorney General Jim Jones said Democratic Gov. Jim Evans has missed five of the last eight state Land Board meetings.

"We have many important unfinished items of business because the governor didn't take the time to show up," said Jones.

"We haven't had any cooperation for 16 years from that side," said Cenarrusa, referring to Idaho's 16 years under Democratic governors.

State Sen. Larry Anderson, R-Twin Falls, who is locked in a tight three-way race for his party's nomination, told the Blaine County Republicans he has several unfinished projects.

"But I won't be chased out of office by a few lobbyists," he said.

Tourist boom expected

Ski resorts seek land leases

But government, environmentalists reject 55-year contracts

By The Associated Press
And The Times-News

WASHINGTON — The nation's ski resorts are running into opposition from the Reagan administration and environmental groups in their push for 55-year leases on national forest land.

"We don't think it's good business for either the ski operators or ourselves to lock it up for more than 30 years," says U.S. Forest Service Chief Max Peterson.

The Wilderness Society and the National Wildlife Federation argue that 55 years is too long and say that the 170 ski areas using public lands are paying enough rent.

Those areas, part of an industry that enjoyed record numbers of skiers the past two seasons, pay $9 million a year in fees to use 90,000 acres of forest land. That is an average of $100 an acre.

Resort operators, aided by House members from the West, are asking the House Interior Public Lands Subcommittee to approve legislation they say is vital to the future economic health of their leisure business.

Wally Huffman, general manager of the Sun Valley Company, said the lease issue is a critical one for the industry. Lease length, however, "may be of a little less importance at Sun Valley than at other ski areas that are using the leased land as part of their finance scheme," he said.

Sun Valley has been working on an individual basis with federal officials on the lease question and as part of the National Ski Areas Association efforts, Huffman said. Under laws dating back to the last century, ski areas rent federal land through a system that allows up to 30-year leases on a resort's first 80 acres and year-to-year permits on the balance of an area's acreage.

The ski areas fearing that tax revision bills pending in Congress will wipe out their use of below-market industrial revenue bonds, say private lenders are wary about financing improvements on land covered by yearly permits.

However, Peterson told the subcommittee Thursday that his agency has never refused to renew any permit. He supported changing the law to allow a single 30-year permit covering all the land.

"We have no evidence that the 30-year tenure has been or can be

Warming weather clears way for highway improvements

By MICHAEL VANAUSEN
Times-News correspondent

SHOSHONE — With the summer months approaching and the weather getting warmer, highway construction crews will be increasing their activity on several projects in the Magic Valley.

There will be one-lane traffic through a rotary-milling project west of Bliss on Interstate 84. Rotary-milling of the travel lanes should be completed soon, with paving to begin approximately 10 days afterwards.

Grading work has begun on a widening and paving project north of Gooding on SH-46. The road is undergoing some grading to remove sight-distance restrictions and is being widened from 24 feet to 28. The project includes an overlay on SH-46 beginning south of Gooding, through town, and through the newly widened section.

The highway is closed to through traffic in this area — however, a detour is in place.

An emergency relief project at the Balanced Rock Crossing of Salmon Falls Creek, west of Castleford, has begun. The contractor is now cutting pipe sections together for installation in the new 48-inch pipes, each 14 inches in diameter, will be installed. The road is open to all traffic except semi-trucks.

A project to replace four structures in Camas County, near Fairfield, has been planned. Work will begin as soon as water subsidies enough to allow the use of heavy equipment.

There are four projects currently under way in the Mini-Cassia area:

A pavement-rehabilitation and safety project on I-84, from the SH-50 Interchange to the Snake Falls Canal, is progressing as planned. Currently, material for plant mix pavement and granular borrow is being crushed. Hauling of borrow for shoulder widening is also under way, requiring extensive traffic control. Due to the construction work, there is traffic in only one lane.

A bridge replacement project at Milner has been shut down due to high water. As soon as the water subsides, deck work and the placing of stringers will begin.

The work to repair flood damage to the 400 West Road and Oakley Road is almost complete, with only minor work left.

Construction of new rest area facilities at the Colter Rest Area will be continuing into the summer. Crews are laying brick, installing new sidewalk and irrigation systems, and are completing construction of wastewater evaporation lagoons. Crews expect to finish landscaping in the area by June.

Briefly

2 homes, business burglarized

TWIN FALLS — Burglars looted two residences and a business in Twin Falls Wednesday, taking more than $5,000 in cash and merchandise.

Twin Falls police officers received a report from Nadine Stosich, 821 Mountain View Drive, saying her home had been burglarized sometime between 2 p.m. and 3:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Police said a side window in the home had been broken to gain entry and burglars then carried out $4,204 worth of items, ranging from stereo equipment and guns to costume jewelry. Police reports indicated several rooms in the house had been gone through by the intruders.

Dr. Ron Corbin, a chiropractor, reported his office, at 1440 River Ave. E., was entered between May 8 and Thursday at 9 a.m. and about $375 in cash was taken. Police said burglars apparently entered through an unlocked window.

A Twin Falls woman told police she had $224 in her couch and discovered Thursday morning that it had been taken. Barbara Tubbs, 3119 Maple Ave., said she theft occurred sometime during the past several days.

Norman Newman, Idaho Department of Public Works, and Jim Evans, Idaho Department of Corrections, will explain state requirements for a prison site and show a 10-minute video presentation.

The meeting, which is scheduled to last one hour, will then be open to public comment.

City officials and community leaders will meet with Evans and Newman prior to the public meeting to tour potential prison sites.

Input sought on police plan

BURLEY — Residents interested in the law enforcement negotiations between the city and county are being invited to air their feelings on the subject at a public meeting Monday at 9 a.m. in the City Council chambers.

The meeting is being held by the Burley City Council and the Cassia County Commission.

Members of the committee which drew up the proposal will explain the proposal in detail, then public comments will be taken.

The proposal would allow the city to contract for law enforcement services with the county. Officials estimate the city could save $2,072 and the county $44,238 if the plan is put into effect next October.

Savings would be achieved through reduced duplication of services, fewer employees and greater bulk purchasing power. As many as seven city employees may lose their jobs if the contract is negotiated, according to the proposal.

Meeting slated on prison bid

BURLEY — A public information meeting on Burley's bid for the new state maximum security prison will be held Monday at 6:30 p.m. in the City Council chambers.

Area library conference set at CSI

TWIN FALLS — Approximately 100 library workers and members of library boards are expected at the College of Southern Idaho May 31 for the 2nd annual South-Central Idaho Library Conference.

William Beale, CSI librarian, who is hosting the event, said anyone interested is welcome to attend and he expects librarians from throughout the Magic and Wood River valleys and northern Nevada. Information will concern those from schools, public and government libraries. The program will be held in the Shields Building.

Registration begins at 8:30 a.m., and participants will have the opportunity to view displays of video, audio-video and computer equipment, as well as displays by book dealers and printers.

Morning sessions will include "Riding the Storm: Libraries in a Time of Constant Change" by Michael Kreymer, associate director of information services, State Library, Boise; "Use of Student Aides in the School Library" by Shirley Cobble of the Wendell High School Library; and "Management of Volunteers in the Public Library" by Marilyn Taylor, Boise Public Library.

At 11:15 a.m. the sessions will include "Managing Unusual Patrons in the Library" by Linda Parkinson, Twin Falls Public Library.

Reference Services in Small Libraries" by Chris Ellis, Pocatello Public Library; and "The Use of Electronic Maildrop for Interlibrary Loan" by Mary Joeger, CSI Library.

In the afternoon, Jan Mitteldeier, CSI physical education instructor, will discuss "Stress and Fitness Management for Librarians." At 2:30 p.m. Ellis and Joeger will repeat their sessions and Steve Poppo and Wayne Courtwright from the CSI library will discuss "Basic Maintenance." Equipment Maintenance.

For more information call Bill Beale at 733-9554, ext. 238.

Snake River runoff rose in April

BOISE — Runoff volume in the Snake River increased during April, says Idaho Power Co. hydrologist Scott Larrondo. Mild temperatures and above-normal precipitation kept the rivers running full and the snowpack near normal.

Reservoirs slightly above normal.

If normal weather prevails through July, Larrondo expects the April-through-July runoff to total about 7.7 million acre-feet. The normal runoff is 8.5 million acre-feet.

According to information from the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation, 12 storms moved through the Pacific Northwest in April. The last week of the month was the wettest, with precipitation amounts of one inch or more reported at numerous stations throughout the region.

Precipitation was 108 percent of average for the Columbia Basin of Grand Coulee, and 168 percent of normal for the Snake River-Above Ice Harbor.

Above-average streamflow conditions were also reported in the Upper Snake at Heise, and in the Boise and Owyhee basins. Flows in the Upper Snake were 223 percent of average. Flows in the Boise and Owyhee basins were 122 percent of normal.

Active irrigation storage available on April 30 (excluding Grand Coulee and Hungry Horse), was 7.87 million acre-feet — or 81 percent of capacity. That is 482,900 less than last year, but still 391,200 above average.

The Bureau also reported that two Idaho rivers exceeded their flood stage in April. The Henry's Fork, near Rexburg, was 22 feet above normal on April 25. The Portneuf River was 1.4 feet above flood level on April 28.

gram will provide the agency with a means of "flicking" the larger operations which may pose a pollution problem, until an inventory was taken of state dairies in 1984, as part of the groundwork for the permit program, federal and state officials had no accurate picture of either the number or location of dairies operating in the state.

The proposed permit rules were published in the Federal Register on May 9, opening a 60-day comment period on the proposal. Copies of the proposed permit may be obtained by writing the EPA at: 422 W. Washington St., Boise 83702. The phone number is 334-1450.

A public hearing will be held on the proposed permit in Twin Falls on June 11, beginning at 1 p.m. in the Holiday Inn.

Penalties for violations are the same as those authorized by the Clean Water Act. Fines as high as $10,000 per day are possible for civil violations and $25,000 per day for criminal violations.

These penalties, however, are geared for industrial polluters and other serious violators of the Clean Water Act, such as toxic waste spills. Scarborough said it is hard to imagine a scenario which would levy those kind of substantial fines against dairy or feedlot owners.

"They're discretionary penalties," Scarborough said. "Given the state of the industry (dairy and livestock), we're real hesitant about discussing penalties."

Hydropower licensing on hold during study

IDAHO FALLS (AP) — Federal hydropower licenses have given their assurance that no hydropower licenses will be issued while the Forest Service studies the possibility of protecting the famous Henry's Fork of the Snake River as a wild and scenic river.

The verbal commitment from the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission came as legislation to bar the issuance of power licenses while the study is under way appeared stalled in Congress.

"We don't believe that a license will be granted until the study is completed," said Paul Oakes, head of the group that will conduct the program. It is funded totally by donations from our citizens," she said.

In Blackfoot, the program was adopted in 1981 with a recovery record of $1.5 million in the thousands of dollars worth of property. Jerome Police Sgt. D.L. Rinehart said the program in his community has also brought about a closer association between law enforcement officers, citizens and businesses.

Typical of all volunteer groups that make the crime stoppers operation, Bonneville County officials say the only thing that could make it better would be a higher rate of funding. It could help if more individuals and businesses realized its value when it comes time to help with financial support, as well as when it is time to recover their losses, officials agree.

Peterson said that in addition to Twin Falls County, others with functioning crime stoppers efforts in the Magic Valley include Cassia, Minidoka and Jerome counties, Bonneville, Bingham, Bannock, Bear Lake, Canyon and Ada counties are also crime stopper counties.

In Twin Falls the Crime Prevention Council meets each second Wednesday of the month at 8 a.m. in the meeting room of the Police Department building. Anyone interested is invited to attend and take part.

To augment the donations that Peterson says are sometimes slow in coming, the council sells crime stopper T-shirts, hats and McGruff stuffed dogs.

"Sometimes those who benefit the most are willing to assist the least," she said. "One of our major supporters is Mountain Bell. Our council is made up of housewives, police officers, lawyers, other professional persons and business representatives."

More information on the program is available by calling Peterson at 734-7272. To own a McGruff "police dog" persons may call Peterson or drop by the Twin Falls Police Department.

Donations may be mailed to the crime prevention council at P.O. Box 1907 in Twin Falls.

visitor levels will be on the forest year, although an increase is expected.

The forest has seen a dramatic increase of inquiries this spring on the Sawtooth National Recreation Area, north of Ketchum. Waldapfel said the forest department is increasing to increase national advertising about the unique area and a variety of articles in national newspapers and magazines.

"The area offers a tremendous variety of recreational opportunities," he said.

With the expected visitor jump, Waldapfel said, forest officials plan to have every one of its facilities on the forest open and running up to standards.

The expected boom won't mean the hiring of extra workers, however. Waldapfel said the forest doesn't have a great deal of "slack" in its budget.

The SNF's volunteer program and volunteer campground host program, however, is a "tremendous asset" to the forest and Waldapfel said volunteers will play an important role with tourists this summer.

compared to most other public land users," said Simon, adding that residents are discussing fees with the Forest Service and anticipate that they may increase.

"The fee issue should continue to be set by negotiations and discussion between the Forest Service and the users, and we feel that Congress should not attempt to impose a specific formula or criteria," he said.

expected to be a deterrent to ski area development," said Peterson, adding he had asked the industry to provide such data.

"The longer tenure... would hinder the flexibility in management that the agency must retain in order to accommodate changing needs and demands of the using public," he said.

David Alberswerth of the National Wildlife Federation said the yearly permit review process lets the public and local governments ensure that resorts comply with environmental requirements.

Alberswerth and Michael Scott of the Wilderness Society questioned whether ski resorts are paying enough for the use of public land.

"In the current era of fiscal austerity, when fees are being considered just for entry to the public lands, we believe it reasonable for Congress to closely scrutinize all such proposals as this," Scott said.

"We recommend that a provision be added to this legislation requiring the Forest Service to charge fair market value for the use of public land," he testified.

But Clay Simon of Mount Hood Meadows ski area in Oregon said he and his colleagues are paying their fair share. He said their payments rank third among Forest Service revenues, behind timber sales and mineral fees.

"The ski industry believes it pays appropriate fees, especially when set by negotiations and discussion between the Forest Service and the users, and we feel that Congress should not attempt to impose a specific formula or criteria," he said.

Church news

FILER — "Vision Quest" from Mountain View Bible College, Didsbury, Alberta, will share in the 8:45 and 11 a.m. services Sunday at Filer Missionary Church.

Vision Quest is a group of students from Mountain View on tour in Alberta, Montana and Idaho. Pastor Jim Sommer invites the public to share in the services of worship and praise.

KIMBERLY — United-Methodists from the 15 congregations in the Magic Valley will consider how the current "rural crisis" is affecting their communities, and what they can do about it, during an evening of discussion and worship at the Kimberly United Methodist Church, Sunday at 7 p.m.

A panel of local leaders will tell about current rural problems and point to ways in which churches can serve their own constituencies and the larger community. Speakers will include: Tom Lewis, College of Southern Idaho; Mary Baker, Richfield; Susan Schneider, Goodwin; and Wayne Westendorf, Twin Falls.

Holy Communion will be celebrated at the close of the service.

The program is sponsored by the Board of Church and Society of the Oregon-Idaho Annual Conference, United Methodist Church, and the Western Small Church Council of the First Assembly of God Church, 189 N. Locust in Twin Falls.

TWIN FALLS — Phil Plotts, of Grand Junction, Colorado, will be in concert at 10:30 a.m. Sunday at the First Assembly of God Church, 189 N. Locust in Twin Falls.

Plotts, a talented singer/songwriter, holds a Bachelor of Vocal Music Education degree and has obtained his knowledge with an unusual God-given composing ability that has brought commendations from some of America's most respected music leaders. Recordings of his songs have been made by such well-known groups as the Imperials, the PTL Singers, Otis Skilling Singers and Revivaltime Choir. His music is becoming widely known and appreciated.

After serving as Minister of Music for many years in churches, Plotts is now involved in a fulltime singing and writing ministry, sharing from coast to coast his refreshing style of Christian music.

The public is invited to attend the concert.

TWIN FALLS — Pastor Leamon Ferguson of the Rupert First Assembly of God Church will be the featured speaker at the Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship International monthly meeting Monday at the Canyon Springs Inn on North Blue Lakes Blvd. Fellowship will begin at 7 p.m. and the meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. Refreshments will be served.

Pastor Ferguson was born in Arkansas and lived in Oklahoma and Kentucky. After being discharged from the Air Force he moved to Idaho, where he met and married his wife, Anna Belle, and raised two children. During this time he worked in the church youth ministry for eight years.

Pastor Ferguson has pastored three mission churches and served in several positions in the Southern Idaho District of the Assemblies of God.

TWIN FALLS — The Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship meets every Saturday at 7 a.m. at the Golden Griddle Restaurant in Twin Falls. All men are invited to attend the meetings.

The Fellowship was started in 1853 and is now 2,700 chapters meeting in 83 countries. The organization unites men with a single goal of taking the Full Gospel of Jesus Christ to the world. The Fellowship is not a church; men come to Full Gospel Fellowship from all denominations.

For further information, contact Jack Muldoon, Magic Valley Chapter President.

Milk for the children

A Lutheran German Airlines official watches as packages of powdered milk are loaded onto a cargo 747 at JFK Airport in New York Friday. The milk provided by Catholic Relief Services and the Polish American Congress Charitable Foundation, eventually will be distributed to Polish children in areas hurt by radiation from the Soviet Union's nuclear plant at Chernobyl.

Decision paves way for high court to hear church-employment case

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — An attorney for the Mormon Church says he's not surprised that a U.S. District Court judge has refused to overturn his earlier decision throwing out a federal statute exempting churches from equal employment requirements of the Civil Rights Act.

"It was expected," said Willford W. Kirton, church attorney. Judge David K. Winder on Thursday stood by his earlier decision in a case brought by employees of church-run businesses, paving the way for an appeal to the Supreme Court.

"We're confident that the Supreme Court will reconsider the matter," Kirton said.

In a 5-4 split against the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in 1983, employees of the church-owned Deseret Gym, Beehive Clothing and Deseret Industries claimed they were illegally fired for failure to meet church worthiness standards.

The church had measured their worthiness by "temple recommendations," which allow Mormons who meet the faith's standards to enter Mormon temples.

By law, religions have been exempt from provisions of the Civil Rights Act which prohibit an employer from hiring, firing, promoting or demoting an individual on the basis of race, religion, sex or national origin.

Winder ruled earlier that provision violates the First Amendment protection of the Constitution because it, in effect, advances religious causes.

"Everyone admits that we did exactly what the law provides," Kirton said. "We would be urging the court to validate that which Congress has done."

U.S. attorneys intervened in the case and argued in a brief filed last month that Congress had the authority to exempt churches from the act.

Attorneys on both sides said that because the federal government has entered the case, and because the constitutionality of a congressional law has been called into question, the case will bypass the federal appeals court and go directly to the high court.

2 area men set to serve LDS missions

TWIN FALLS — Matt M. Burnett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Burnett of Twin Falls, has been called to serve a two-year mission in the Argentina/Buenos Aires South Mission for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. He is a graduate of Twin Falls High School and attended Brigham Young University this past year.

Burnett will enter the Mission Training Center May 22. He will give his farewell address at 11:30 a.m. Sunday in the Twin Falls Third Ward Building on Elizabeth Blvd. The public is invited to attend.

518 monks, nuns in Buddhist ritual

PEKING (AP) — Buddhist monks and nuns took vows in record numbers this month at a 1,500-year-old temple in Nanjing, the official news agency said Friday. It was the largest such ceremony in 37 years of communist rule.

In an elaborate ritual, 518 monks and nuns from throughout China, Hong Kong and Singapore had their heads shaved in a tonsure ceremony. They vowed to show their devotion to Buddhism.

The Xinhua news agency said the ceremony took place May 31 at the Qiyao Temple, which also runs a Buddhist college.

WRHS awarded merit recognition

By BARBARA NEIWERT
Times-News correspondent

HAILEY — Wood River High School has been selected as one of seven high schools in the state to receive an accreditation with merit recognition.

Superintendent David Noonan told the school board Tuesday the Northwest Accreditation Association awarded the designation to WRHS after a thorough review curriculum and on-site inspection.

"This is a pat on the back for the school's exemplary and innovative programs," Noonan said.

Over 130 schools had been considered for the designation, he said.

In other business:
• The board heard a report from David Christensen revealing substantial increases over last year in the 1985-86 results from a district-wide Stanford Test.

First- and seventh-grade test results reflected the lowest scores, but most grade levels saw an increase of between 15 and 28 percentile points, Christensen said.

The average test results, figured by combining all class levels, are 83 overall; math, 86; science, 89; social science, 85; and spelling the lowest at 62.

When asked why some test results were up dramatically compared to last year, Noonan explained the variability in testing procedures, but said the most important factor for the improved scores was due to the faculty and administration focusing attention on the importance of the test.

Noonan said both teachers and students were encouraged to use the test constructively.

"We (district officials) are now using the test results as diagnostic tools to improve and strengthen the curriculum," Noonan said.

• Heringway Elementary School principal Micah Fierstein presented a report to the board from the Reading Adoption Committee.

The committee is working to analyze and select a publisher and new reading textbooks for all grade levels throughout the district.

The nine-member committee will recommend a reading series to be adopted for the 1987-88 school year to the administrative council and the superintendent. If the committee's deadlines are met, books should be available for teacher training sessions by May of 1987, Fierstein said.

Noonan estimated changing textbooks will cost between $35,000 and $45,000 initially and between $5,000 to $7,000 each following year to maintain the project books and teachers guidelines.

Noonan said the new reading program will include a formal reading program for kindergartners, an area which has been lacking in the past.

"Our kids are operating at a disadvantage because we don't have such a program," Noonan said. "We don't expect enough from them."

Hotel builder agrees to look at changes

By DAVE LEWIS

KETCHUM — The review of a proposed 51-room hotel in Ketchum was tabled by the Planning and Zoning Commission Monday after the builder agreed to consider design changes to address concerns raised by neighbors in a nearby residential area.

The height of the proposed hotel, landscape buffers and traffic patterns were the neighbors' greatest concerns.

Doug Clemens, a landscape architect representing some of the home owners, said the hotel needs special consideration because it is in a rare and sensitive location where a high-density tourist zone is adjacent to a low-density residential zone.

"I'm concerned with the compatibility of the two zones," Clemens said, adding a review of the problems associated with the two conflicting zones needs "to be considered very heavily at this time."

Clemens said he objects only indirectly to the hotel project. His main concern is the elimination of the inherent conflicts between neighboring high-occupancy hotel and single-family homes.

Other owners of property behind the proposed hotel — on the east side of Idaho 76 between the Ketchum Corral and Devil's Bedstead building — also asked for special design considerations.

The blocked views of Bald Mountain to the west and the disruptions of traffic using parking entrances in the rear of the hotel were their main concerns.

Clemens also said he believes the project's minimal landscaping and outside lighting may cause a nuisance.

Although the hotel meets the design requirements in the zoning ordinance, neighbors said it fails to meet the requirements of the design review process by not considering its effect on neighboring properties.

However, Koenig said his project completely meets the city's requirements.

"We're not asking for anything not allowed under the existing zone," he said.

Despite the objections to its roof line, the building meets the maximum height limit of 35 feet above the lot's natural grade, Koenig said.

Architect Dick Meyer, designer of the project, maintained the hotel would block only portions of the neighbors' views.

Although Koenig said he is willing to change the traffic patterns and improve the landscaping, he said it is more difficult to alter the building's roof line without eliminating some rooms.

After some members of the planning board suggested he remove two fourth-floor condominiums and flatten the roof, Koenig said he wants the give the hotel an "alpine" look with the pitched roof line.

Citing the concerns of the hotel's neighbors as their own, some of the planning board's members encouraged Koenig to work out his differences with nearby property owners.

Commissioner Chairman Rich Bray said objected to what he saw as Koenig's attitude. He said the project "just meets" the city requirements, while the former city councilman is taking an "I'm doing what I'm going to do" approach with its neighbors.

"It's a squeaker," Bray said, also citing the planning staff's concerns with the hotel's proposed parking.

Commissioner Rip Sewell joined Bray, saying it is part of the commission's job to resolve conflicts and help make people as happy as possible.

"It would sure make our job easy if you've got some accord with surrounding neighbors," Sewell said.

Bliss School Board accepts resignation

By TERRELL WILLIAMS
Times-News correspondent

North Side

BLISS — The resignation of Trustee Wynarda Exon was accepted by the Bliss School Board Tuesday.

Eldon Thompson was appointed by the board to serve the remaining one year of Exon's three-year term.

Exon said she had carefully considered resigning for some time and the decision was not a "spur-of-the-moment thing."

The main reason Exon gave for leaving the board was that she felt ineffective because her opinions on school issues too often conflicted with those of the other trustees.

Also, she said, her children are no longer in school.

"That maybe made me less sensitive to what was going on with kids these days," Exon said.

In her resignation, Exon said she will remain a friend of the other school board members and she wished them luck.

School Superintendent Ed Schenk said he and the trustees were sorry to see Exon leave.

"I think she was very effective," he said.

In other business:
• Allison Janss asked the board to change the school calendar and start school after Labor Day in September instead of the third week of August.

With a later start, she said, families could continue their summer vacations through the "hot days" of August.

Trustee Rhonda Wood said the board has considered this schedule change several times and found there are many "pros and cons."

The schedule starts early, he said, to coincide with the other schools in the county. Also, Wood said, there are numerous holidays and school must start early to meet the state's 180 day requirement.

Schenk said teachers seem to prefer starting earlier and then finishing the year earlier.

Board members said they will ask teachers, their opinions and maybe send out questionnaires to determine the starting date for the 1987-88 school year.

The board accepted the resignation of Schenk, who is retiring after 35 years of education. He commented on the state of education in the state and the district after announcing his retirement.

"I can't see, in the next four or five years, any real improvement in education as far as our legislators are concerned," Schenk said.

When asked about this year's Bliss banquet and prom, held for the first time in Gooding, Schenk said there were "no problems whatsoever" and "the prom was just beautiful."

Although several businessmen and parents in Bliss had expressed strong opposition to students leaving Bliss for these school activities, Schenk said graduation and prom plans "belong to the kids" and should be made only by the students.

"Unless they grossly violate board policy, they should be allowed to do what they want," he said. "They're paying for it. It's their memories."

Bliss graduation will be held Sunday at 7:30 p.m. Board Chairman Larry Graves will sign the diplomas and Trustee Tom Cenarrusa will hand them to the students.

Jerome to investigate school-zone speeds

By INA HADAM
Times-News correspondent

JEROME — Continued complaints about the excessive speed of traffic on streets near schools prompted the Jerome City Council this week to instruct city police to investigate average speeds in school zones.

Councilwoman Jeanne Vandiver said the council has had several requests to lower the speed limit to 15 miles per hour in the school zones. Currently, the speed limit is 25 mph in such zones.

Public Works Director Lanny Sloan said South Lincoln, which runs in front of Washington Elementary School, is a state highway, and speed regulations are set by the state, even though the street is within the city's boundary.

Sloan said the state turned down a similar request to lower the speed limit on South Lincoln two years ago.

Police Chief Daryl Cameron said he has already begun some radar checking in school zones and has found about 50 motorists whose traveling speed exceeded 25 mph.

Vandiver said there is a portion of the state code which states that investigation produces sufficient evidence of the need for changing speed limits, the state will consider making the changes or allowing the city to make the changes.

Vandiver asked Cameron to proceed with his investigation and come back to the council with recommendations for the setting of speed limits on South Lincoln, but on North Lincoln in front of Central Elementary and Jerome Junior High School and along North Fillmore in front of Jefferson Elementary.

Cameron said he expects to have his investigation completed within two weeks and will report to the council at its next meeting.

YCC offers youths jobs for summer

TWIN FALLS — Twelve young people between the ages of 15-16 are eligible to participate in the Youth Conservation Corps (YCC) program this summer on the Sawtooth National Forest.

Applications and information sheets are now available at the Forest Service offices in Burley, Twin Falls, Ketchum and Fairfield. The deadline for submitting applications is May 30.

This summer's program is expected to begin June 16 and will run for approximately six weeks. Of the 12 jobs offered, three will be at Malia on the Burley Ranger District, two on the Twin Falls Ranger District, one on the Ketchum District, four on the Sawtooth National Recreation Area north of Ketchum and two on the Fairfield District.

YCC participants will live at home and commute to a specified pickup point, where they will be met by Forest Service personnel, and transported to the job sites. Forest Supervisor Roland Stolenson said, "Participants will work 40 hours per week and will earn $3.35 per hour."

Participants will be selected for each area on a random-drawing basis. Applicants will be notified by June 4 if they have been selected or not.

YCC enrollees will work alongside Forest Service personnel each day. "We have a variety of work lined up for this summer's program," Stolenson said. "Some of the projects include campgrounds maintenance and cleanup, range improvement, wildlife and possibly some timber activities. Doing this kind of work and being involved in the YCC program provides an outstanding opportunity for these young people to learn about natural resource management, in addition to earning some money."

Shortage of seed threatens projects

BOISE — The Bureau of Land Management is concerned about a possible shortage of crested wheatgrass seed, says state BLM director Delmar Vall.

The seed is used in many of the agency's fire rehabilitation projects and range improvement projects in Idaho, California, Nevada and Oregon.

An additional factor this year is the set-aside program established by the farm bill. Depending on the number of farmers and ranchers who participate in the program, Vall anticipates an even greater demand for some of the other seed varieties the BLM uses as well. In dryland farm areas, crested wheatgrasses in particular will be in demand.

To head off possible setbacks, the BLM is seeking prospective bidders interested in harvesting the seed from public land. Traditionally, the agency has not harvested seed due to the potential impact to private seed producers and suppliers. With traditional supplies unavailable, Vall said an exception to the rule may have to be made.

Between now and the first of July, Vall is asking anyone interested in harvesting grass seed to contact the BLM.

A prospective bidder list will be compiled based on the contacts the BLM receives. Bids will include the cost of combining, cleaning, sacking and delivery.

Those interested in harvesting should write to: Bureau of Land Management, Idaho State Office, c/o Procurement Analyst Marc Gress, 3380 Americana Terrace, Boise, Idaho 83706. The phone number is 334-1890.

BLM urges drivers to avoid soft roads

BURLEY — Faced with increasingly lighter road repair budgets, the U.S. Bureau of Land Management is urging people not to drive on wet unsurfaced roads on area public lands.

Over the next two months, the BLM will be repairing 127 miles of storm- and vehicle-damaged roads in Twin Falls, Cassia, Oneida, and Power counties. According to an agency news release, "a major part" of the current damage was caused by driving on soft roads.

The BLM's Burley district has more than 800 miles of roads. While 350 miles of that is in need of repair, light funds limit current work to the most-damaged areas and main access roads.

Some 120 miles of the roads scheduled for work will be repaired with crawler tractors and road graders. An additional seven miles in the Black Pine and Rafi River valleys has been gravelled. The work is not inexpensive: road grading costs $100 to $300 per mile and graveling commonly costs $1,000-$2,000 per mile.

District Manager John Davis said it will take four to six years to fix all roads in need of repair. Roads are used by ranchers, miners, and loggers, as well as members of the general public for such recreational activities as hunting and rockhounding.

Because of the tight funding, much of the work will be done by BLM equipment and equipment borrowed from other agencies.

Terrorism fears cancel college dance trip

REXBURG (AP) — The fear of terrorism in Europe has forced cancellation of the American Folk Dancers summer tour, officials at Ricks College said.

"There are just so many uncertainties and unknowns this summer," said Sander Larson, tour director for the 38-member group and assistant director of public relations at the Rexburg Junior College.

Parents of some of the students had contacted the Mormon Church-owned school to express concerns about the planned June 30-Aug. 2 trip, Larson said.

An alternate tour is being arranged in the U.S. and Canada, possibly including Expo '86 in Vancouver, British Columbia, Canada, Larson said. Such a tour may tie in with the International Folkdance Festival in Rexburg Aug. 14-16.

The American Folk Dancers were scheduled to perform at dance festivals in Timex, Saintes and La Grande Motte in France and Corti, Corsica, Larson said. The group had performed previously in Saintes and La Grande Motte.

Wholesale prices decline for 4th month

By TOM RAUM The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Benefits of falling interest rates and oil prices are still rippling through the economy...

The Labor Department said its Producer Price Index for finished goods fell a seasonally adjusted 0.6 percent in April...

Nearly all the April price declines were due to dropping energy prices...

The April drop is equivalent to a compounded annual rate of decline of 2 percent.

In a separate report, the Commerce Department said new-home construction increased 4.1 percent in April...

It was the fourth month in a row that starts on new houses and apartments were above the 1.9-million mark...

The combination of these two reports is superb on prospects for economic growth...

But not all the economic news on Friday was good.

The Federal Reserve Board reports that U.S. factories, mines and utilities operated at 73.3 percent of capacity in April...

At the White House, deputy press secretary Edward Dierjan called the wholesale price report "more evidence that inflationary pressures are still firmly held in check."

The unprecedented assault on inflation has pushed the Producer Price Index at its lowest level since November 1983...

The April drop in wholesale prices follows declines of 1.1 percent in March, 1.6 percent in February and 0.7 percent in January...

The index was first calculated in 1913...

Stock market plunges to 5-week low

By CHET CURRIER The Associated Press

NEW YORK — The stock market fell to a five-week low Friday, mustering no response to favorable economic news.

Analysts said Thursday's selloff and the pending expiration of options and futures on stock indexes had put traders in a wary mood.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials dropped 14.88 to 1,759.80, bringing its loss for the week to 29.63 points.

Volume on the New York Stock Exchange dropped to 113.54 million shares from 131.57 million in the previous session.

Before the market opened, the Labor Department reported that the producer price index of finished goods dropped 0.6 percent in April...

The figures came as news evidence that more positive news on inflation at the consumer price level is likely in the future.

Meanwhile, the Commerce Department said housing starts ran at an annual rate of just over 2 million units last month...

Brokers said also traders were proceeding cautiously with May options and futures on stock indexes approaching expiration...

On this occasion, however, there was no wild activity as the market reached the close.

Securities-linked stocks were mostly lower — Salomon Inc. dropped 1 1/2 to 49 1/2, Morgan Stanley 2 1/4 to 73 1/4...

Losers among the blue chips included International Business Machines, down 1/2 at 144 1/4; McDonald's, down 1 1/4 to 99 1/4...

Storage Equities suffered the day's biggest percentage loss among NYSE issues...

percentage loss among NYSE issues, tumbling 3/4 to 15 1/4. The company said it planned to cut its quarterly dividend...

Viacom-International dropped 2 1/4 to 62 1/4. Financier Carl Icahn has said he is prepared to take over the company for $75 a share...

In the daily tally on the Big Board, about five issues declined in price for every three that gained ground...

Nationwide turnover in NYSE-listed issues, including trades in those stocks on regional exchanges and in the over-the-counter market, totaled 135.94 million shares...

The NASDAQ composite index for the over-the-counter market dropped 1.08 to 384.67. The American Stock Exchange, the market value index closed at 271.84, down 2 1/2.

FAA pushes suit over safety violations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Aviation Administration pushed a lawsuit Friday against Eastern Airlines...

The airline refused to pay a $9.5 million fine for alleged safety violations. Penalties were levied on the airline...

The department must first decide whether to file a suit which administration sources acknowledge would be a costly, complicated and lengthy procedure.

The American people expect compliance with safety regulations and they expect payment of penalties when there is non-compliance.

Donald Engen said in a statement announcing the agency decision.

Engen said the government would criticize the FAA's inspection of seek recovery of the full amount Eastern's operations earlier this year...

Legal action could become lengthy and expensive, although government officials had no precise cost Borman strongly estimate.

Legal action could become lengthy and expensive, although government officials had no precise cost Borman strongly estimate.

Bargain deals for new cars available

If you're in the market for a new car during this traditional buying season and if you're willing to settle for certain models, you can get a good deal.

Guaranteed financing arrangements, for instance, some of the lowest lending rates in years, as low as 6.8 percent on specified models...

The offers are on all kinds of cars in the marketplace. Shop! Study! Select! Trade-in values, down payments, maturity of contracts — all are up for grabs in a market that has been sluggish for a long time.

The new incentives were announced first by General Motors and then followed by Ford, offering some of the lowest rates in years...

Interest rates on the GM and Ford programs, which are offered through their finance subsidiaries, are as low as 6.8 percent on 60-month contracts...

For GM, the lower rates apply to shorter contracts such as the 30-month contracts on the Buick LeSabre, Pontiac Aero, Oldsmobile Delta 88, and Chevrolet Chevelle.

On most other models, GM is offering 7.9 percent on 60-month contracts, and 9.9 percent on 60-month contracts.

About the same time GM announced these rates, however, GM raised its sticker prices an average of 2.9 percent.

Ford's lowest rate of 6.8 percent applies only to a 36-month contract on the Ranger pickup. But you also can get comparably cheap rates on 36-month contracts on finance such models as the Thunderbird, Tempo, Mustang, Escort and Escort EXP.

Ford's highest rate, 10.9 percent, applies to 48-month loans on the Econoline van, Club Wagon and other large vehicles, including some pickups.

Certain cars, not to your surprise, I'm sure, don't show up on these lists — for example, luxury cars, such as Cadillacs and Lincoln Continentals.

Chrysler's incentive rate (6.5 percent) applies to its Dodge Omni and Plymouth Horizon. Terms range up to 60 months at this rate.

Chrysler has not announced an expiration date for this program. GM's current plan ends on June 30; Ford's applies to '85 and '86 models ordered before July 5. Note, however, that on some longer contracts an earlier cutoff order date may be required.

Check with the dealer. These rates may strike you as real bargains, especially compared with bank rates on car loans, which still on average hover around 11 percent.

Local dealers may be plugged into special marketing plans, or have good contacts with local inventories so they can offer you a superior arrangement on foreign cars or cars not included in the programs of the Big Three of the U.S.

On the downside of the incentive programs, your dealer may not want to knock down the original price of the car as much as you would expect. Or he will offer you less on the trade-in value of your old car.

Look into all offers with care, and don't hesitate to shop at different dealerships for the same car — letting each dealer know you are shopping with intent to buy at the best price to you.

Financing is just one part of the deal you seek. But it's a key part. The dealer knows it; the manufacturer knows it. So should you!

A fascinating point: Foreign manufacturers have not felt the need (at least so far) to stimulate sales with these incentive financing rates.

THE ACES BOBBY WOLFF

Wise living consists perhaps less in acquiring good habits than in acquiring as few habits as possible. -Eric Hoffer.

The key to today's game lies with South's play of the club suit. Those who play the suit in accordance with "good habits" go down; those who count 10 sure winners bring home the game. South took his spade ace and led a trump to dummy to make the good ally accepted play in clubs - he led toward his club honors. South's club jack went to West's queen, and West accurately led another trump. Declarer won in dummy and led another club back to his king and West's ace. A third trump led killed the dummy and the defender won three clubs and one spade for one down. West had a trump initially, South would have had little chance at game. Given the fortunate lead by West, South should have played spade to win 10 tricks. After winning the spade ace, South should lead a club from his down hand. If West wins with lead a trump, South wins the race for a club ruff in dummy. A second club is won by West and even if West leads a second trump, one trump remains in dummy to score the vital club trick. Why depend on probabilities when an unbeatable play is available?

CSI going back to nationals

Trinidad St. limited to a run in sweep

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Revenge is sweet, but the rewards for winning are sweeter for College of Southern Idaho's baseball team.

The revenge came in when the Eagles topped the Trinidad State (Colo.) Trojans 8-0 and 7-1 here Friday to sweep the Northwest district junior college championship and win a berth in next week's National Junior College Athletic Association World Series in Grand Junction, Colo.

It matched almost exactly what Trinidad did to CSI's title hopes last year in Colorado.

CSI will return to the juco nationals starting May 24 for the first time since it took the NJCAA title in 1984.

Friday's sweep was built on liberal doses of Bobby Edwards' pitching and Kevin Loftus' hitting, but everyone pretty much joined in the fun with the bat and the glove.

The Eagles decked the Trojans with an eight-run fifth inning in the seven-inning opener and then put together some single runs and a three-run inning in the nightcap.

Edwards, the most valuable player of the 1984 juco World Series, did all he could to make sure the Eagles got back to Grand Junction again.

Coach Jim Walker didn't waste a lot of time getting him the ball, either.

He went with Edwards in the fifth inning of both games, but admitted to not feeling real confident for quite awhile.

"I knew about the eighth (inning of the nightcap) with Bobby out there we were in pretty good shape because I could see them getting a couple of runs off him but not seven or eight," Walker said.

Walker said he didn't hesitate about making pitching moves, noting nightcap starter Rusty Karn was up and down and I figured he might get himself in trouble. I wanted to use Vic (Valdez), not go with Bobby for the last six.

We got the inning out of Vic and then came back with Bobby. Every coach should be lucky and have a guy like him."

Edwards said he and the CSI pitching staff entered the day with a lot of respect for Trinidad, the champion of Region 9.

"We all watched them take batting practice yesterday and I've never seen more ball hit out of this park before," Edwards said. "But it appeared they didn't hit the off-speed stuff. All our pitchers today worked to set up the curves, sliders and changes."

There was a lot of relief in this playoff for Loftus, who was "off-for-regional" last week. Friday he doubled the first two times up and then delivered a two-run single in his third appearance.

"I was more relaxed," he said. "I was using a new stance and I was seeing the ball a lot better," he said.

One got a lot smaller in the nightcap when it dropped nearly 500 feet over the left-field fence.

The other star was shortstop Jeff Moe, who had some flashy defensive plays and crushed a three-run homer that punctuated CSI's eight-run first-game outburst.

"The thing I liked about the second game is we got into hitting and pecked away for our runs when we had the chance — although we messed up on some chances, too," Walker said.

But the eight-run fifth inning in the opener was Walkerball at its best and the coach enjoyed that — except he said if his hitters had done that early it would have saved him some worry lines.

"The thing that we're still waiting for is the rest of our power guys to come along. We've been waiting patiently for them to come up with some offensive help, but saying 'next week next week' but we're down to our last next week and we're hoping they'll check in for us at nationals."

In the first game, the Eagles stung a parade of Trojan pitchers for 10 hits, four of them for extra bases, while CSI hurlers David Carter and Edwards scattered six harmless hits between them.

Carter, a freshman right-hander, let Trinidad players into scoring position in each of the first three innings, but worked out of trouble each time. When he allowed his fifth hit of the game to Manny Marquez to lead off the fifth, however, Walker lifted him in favor of Edwards.

Edwards' brother Wally, the catcher, gunned down Marquez trying to steal second. After Bobby Edwards got the next batter to fly out, Trinidad's Rich Radtke singled sharply to right and tried to turn one base into two. He was gunned down at second by CSI right-fielder Shawn Whalen.

Bobby Edwards retired six of the next seven batters he faced, striking out the side in the sixth.

Offensively, CSI had stranded runners on third in the first, second and fourth innings before they finally got to Trojan right-hander Robert Santisteven in the fourth. Santisteven issued a leadoff single to Wally Edwards and walked the next three batters, scoring Kirk Slater, who was pinch-running for Wally Edwards. That brought on left-hander Troy Holley, who struck out Greg Adelsbach. The next batter, Loftus, hit a screaming line drive off Holley's glove and rebounded into right field, allowing Billy Roberts to score from third and Eric Kopps from second to make it 3-0.

Trinidad State's Gary Corbin just nips CSI's Tom Hollinger at first base in Friday's Northwest district opener

Moe drove Holley's next offering, a high fastball over the left-field fence, scoring Whalen and Loftus ahead of him to make it 6-0.

Volatile Rockets go up 2-1 on L.A.

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
The Associated Press

HOUSTON — The Houston Rockets made certain Los Angeles Lakers didn't get a chance to repeat itself Friday night in the NBA Western Conference finals.

Akeem Olatunji scored 40 points to overcome 33 points by Kareem Abdul Jabbar and 29 more by James Worthy to lead the Rockets to a 117-109 victory and 24 lead in their best-of-seven series.

The victory prevented the defending champion, Lakers from repeating last year's feat when they split their first two games against Denver, then won three straight games to eliminate the Nuggets for the Western Conference title.

"It's still one of the greatest but when it came down to the end, our big guys came out and took it to them," said Rockets guard Robert Reid. "It just went back and forth until we got the edge." Entering Friday's game, the Lakers had won 14 of their last 15 games at Houston, but Rockets center Ralph Sampson claimed it didn't affect his teammates.

"The 14 losses weren't involved with everyone on this team. Only two or three (players) were involved," Sampson said. "This is the team of the future."

Foul trouble plagued both the Lakers' and Rockets' front line late in the game, but Sampson said it only cramped Houston.

"We couldn't be as aggressive but at least we could show that we were still around," Sampson said.

Los Angeles Coach Pat Riley said Olatunji's effort was a key to the victory.

"The effort plays he made to go into the gut to pickup loose balls and put them in was a big factor," Riley said. "We got to come back strong (Friday) and try to even this thing up."

Riley said he was pleased to see Worthy break out of a slump. "He's starting to hit," Riley said. "He's just had bad shooting nights. Tonight I thought his shot was effective."

Houston's Lewis Lloyd hit two quick baskets to start a frantic fourth quarter and gave the Rockets a 94-91 lead and the Lakers never led again.

The Lakers held the lead through most of the second quarter, but the Rockets surged near the end of the period for a 69-59 halftime lead.

Trailing 67-63, Houston scored seven straight points on a free throw by Olatunji followed by a basket by Olatunji and two jump shots by Lloyd.

Los Angeles did not regain the lead until Byron Scott's basket with 7:22 to go in the third quarter and from that point, the lead changed hands 11 times until the Lakers edged 4-0.

Worthy led Los Angeles' third quarter with 15 points.

The Lakers scored the first eight points of the game before Sampson almost single-handedly pulled the Rockets back into the game.

Sampson scored 12 points in the quarter and the Rockets outscored Los Angeles 23-8 over a 4:08 span for a 23-16 lead.

But the Lakers then made their first quarter charge, outscoring the Rockets 22-14 over the final 4:47 for a 38-37 lead at the first quarter break. Olatunji played much of the fourth quarter with four personal fouls and picked up his fifth foul with 3:34 left. Sampson got his fifth personal at 5:29. Abdul-Jabbar also picked up his fifth foul with 4:15 left.

Worthy's final points of the third quarter came after he crashed into Olatunji for a layup and was shaken up on the play but sank the free throw.

Olatunji drew his fourth personal foul on the play.

Sampson scored 12 first quarter points but finished the half with 14 while Abdul-Jabbar hit 14 in the first quarter and continued to surge to 21 at the half.

Olatunji rebounded a Byron Scott miss on the Lakers' next shot, leading to another Lloyd jumper.

Highland sweeps Region III track titles

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Highland Rams ended a pair of long district and/or regional precedents for the Twin Falls Bruins Friday, sweeping both the girls and boys for the Region III championships.

But not even coach Duane Stands could be overly disappointed because a lot of good things happened for his Bruins. And there was nothing about that day that was despairing to Minico's Scott Halverson.

Highland beat the Bruins 93-84 in the boys division and 72-57 in the girls. It marked the first time Twin Falls hasn't won the district/region since 1956 when it bowed in a district meet at Gooding to Buhl. And it was the first time the Twin Falls girls have ever lost.

"I guess we can Jerry that. We can make him (Cherry Kleinkopf) head coach again next year," Stands chuckled as he pointed to the assistant who was head coach for 25 years. Actually, the final point tallies could have been closer — the boys within one of Highland — if Twin Falls hadn't pulled two finalists out of the 200-meter dash because they'd already qualified to state on the time standards.

"But we had other records I was really happy about. Our girls won all four relays — and I'd never won more than one in a meet this year. I fell our boys composite 100 and we won, at a couple of days there, too. Overall, it was a pretty good day for us and something positive to carry into next week's state finals."

Minico Coach Wes Patterson was one of the victims of Twin Falls' sudden surge in the relays. His mile relay team had lost only once — to Highland — this year and always had beaten the Bruin girls. But Stands pulled his 1990 relay quartet up by inserting sophomore distance ace Jennifer Hannah and sprint queen Eva Talamantes and they joined with Jean Moser and Tricia Meyers who clock a 4 minutes, 3.8 seconds. Minico still has a strong chance of taking that relay-to-state since four of the teams will enter on the basis of today's four regionals across the state. The Spartans had a 4:05.34. But Patterson wasn't happier

New M.V. Speedway opening set tonight

By The Times-News

TWIN FALLS — The Magic Valley Speedway, the new auto racing track located on property adjacent to the Twin Falls-Sun Valley Region Airport, will get its inaugural run tonight.

The gates of the new track will open at 5:30 p.m., with racing to start at 7:30. Tonight's racing action will be the first of 17 racing dates scheduled for this summer. It's Armed Forces Night, with a special presentation by the National Guard.

On the racing agenda for tonight are pro stock and hobby stock classes. About 30 cars are expected.

Admission is $5.50 for adults. The track is located northwest of the airport.

NEW YORK (AP) — Streaks don't mean much to Jim Preseley because he says that "the good ones will eventually even out with the bad ones. At one time this year I was 1-for-35. Just showed you."

Seattle's third baseman collected a pair of two-run singles Friday night that led the Mariners to a 7-3 victory over the slumping New York Yankees. His four RBIs were all that starter Mark Langston needed.

Langston, 23 on the season but only 2-6 lifetime against the Yankees, worked 10 hits in 8 1/2 innings and allowed his way out of trouble throughout the game before Pete Ladd got the final out on his third save.

The Mariners, winners of five of seven games since Dick Williams replaced Chuck Cotler as manager, snapped a six-game losing streak against the Yankees dating back to last Aug. 23. New York has lost three straight, five of seven overall and six of its last seven games.

"This is a bad time for a right now," said right fielder Dave Winfield, who tripled home the Yankees' first run but left a runner, in scoring position four times. "No one's fielding the ball. There's no hitting and no pitching."

Langston lost his shutout bid in the eighth when Don Mattingly doubled, Winfield tripled and Henry Cotto hit a sacrifice fly.

Preseley's two-out, two-run single highlighted a three-run third inning against Joe Niekro, 4-2, that gave Seattle a 4-0 lead. Harold Reynolds led off with a broken-bat single and scored on Spike Owen's double. Alvin Davis walked and both runners moved up on Butch Wynegar's passed ball before Preseley's hit.

Preseley, who delivered another two-run single in the Mariners' three-run eighth, has hit in eight straight games, going 14-for-32 during that span, but broke a string of seven consecutive games with an extra-base hit, two short of Babe Ruth's American League record.

The Mariners scored an unearned run in the first inning. Harold Reynolds scored on an error by second baseman Willie Randolph, stole second and went to third on Owen's single before scoring on an infield hit by Ivan Calderon.

Niekro, the victim of two passed balls and two Yankee errors as well as his own wildness, lasted 6 1/2 innings, yielding eight hits and seven runs — three earned — while walking six.

Baseball

Oakland 8 Baltimore 4

BALTIMORE (AP) — Tony Phillips became the first player in Oakland's 19-year history to hit for the cycle, keying a 4-hit attack 14-8 on a 2-1 pitch from Storm Davis, 3-2. He tripled to drive in a run in the A's third-run second, doubled and scored in their two-run fourth, singled in the fifth and tripled a run home in the eighth.

Moses Haas, 7-1, pitching in his home town allowed eight hits in six innings-plus, including... a two-run homer by Larry Sheets in the fourth, to become the American League's first seven-game winner. Bill Mooneyham relieved in the two-run Baltimore seventh, and worked into the seventh inning before Jose Rijo pitched the ninth.

Dave Kingman, Mike Davis and Alfredo Griffin each had two hits as Oakland won its third straight game.

The A's scored three times in the second inning on a 4-0 lead. Steve Baker was safe on third baseman Floyd Rayford's fielding error and Mike Davis doubled him to third. Baker scored when Storm Davis committed an error on Alfredo Griffin's grounder.

The Blue Jays stole second. Jerry Willard walked to load the bases and Phillips doubled two runs across.

In the Oakland third, Mike Davis doubled off Nate Snell and scored on a single by Griffin. The A's made it 7-0 in the fourth after Phillips led off with a double. He scored on Kingman's double. He scored on Carney Lansford delivered an RBI single.

Chicago 4 Kansas City 2

CHICAGO (AP) — Reid Nichols' three-run double with two out in the fifth inning set the tone for the Cubs' 4-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs Friday night.

The victory gave the Astros a one-game lead over San Francisco in the National League West. The Giants entertained Philadelphia in a late game.

Trailing 6-3, the Astros sent 10 men to the plate in the sixth and scored six runs off three Cubs pitchers. Kevin Bass led off with a single, went to second on a grounder and scored on Terry Pugh's single off Jay Balier, 1-2. After Mark Balley grounded out, the Astros put together six consecutive hits. Alan Ashby's pinch-hit RBI single made it 6-4. Bill Doran followed with another single, Dickie Thon and Jesse Crutcher back-to-back RBI doubles and reliever Guy Hoffman and Davis capped the outburst with his run-scoring single, as the Astros pounded out 16 hits.

Both teams scored twice in the first fifth inning and four hits by Harold Baines led the Chicago White Sox to a 4-2 victory over Kansas City on Friday night, breaking the Royals' four-game winning streak.

The triumph was the third straight for the White Sox and their sixth in eight games since Manager Tony LaRussa was given a vote of confidence last week. It also ended their six-game losing streak at home.

Richard Dotson, 2-3, was the winner and received excellent relief help from Gene Nelson, who pitched six hitless innings before Bob James got the final out in his seventh save.

Baines started the fifth-inning rally against Charlie Leibrandt, 4-2, with a single. With two out, Ron Kille and Greg Walker walked to fill the bases before Nichols doubled down the left-field line.

The Royals scored in the first inning on a single by Willie Wilson, a pair of walks and Jorge Orta's sacrifice fly. Chicago tied it in the bottom of the first on singles by Wayne Tolleson and Tim Lincecum.

With two outs in the Royals' second, Argenis Silesaz doubled and scored on a single by Wilson.

Nelson relieved Dotson after Orta opened the sixth by drawing a walk.

Toronto 7 Cleveland 6

TORONTO (AP) — Jesse Barfield hit a three-run double to highlight a five-run sixth inning that powered the Toronto Blue Jays to a 7-6 victory over the Cleveland Indians on Friday night.

Barfield, who also had an RBI single in the fifth inning, made a winner of reliever Jim Acker, 1-2, who was just dropped from the starting rotation.

The Blue Jays entered the sixth trailing 4-2 but tied the game on an RBI double by Rick Mullikin and a scored from first when for fielder. Pal Sheridan, who bunted Reggie Jackson's single to boot.

The Angels got three more in the sixth off Bill Scherrer. Downing walked, Jackson doubled and Doug DeCinces walked to load the bases. Tony Pena doubled home two runs and DeCinces walked when Sheridan made a wild throw to the plate for another error.

Schofield belted his fourth homer off Campbell leading off the seventh and Janyah hit his second of the game two outs later. Schofield had a sacrifice fly in the eighth.

Will Witt, 3-3, was pitching his third complete game as the Angels' starter. He allowed two runs and four hits and threw five innings of relief before his second run-scoring double. The Rays committed three errors.

Loser Dan Pety, 3-3, lasted only 1 1/2 innings, his shortest outing on the season. He gave up five runs on three hits.

Joyner, who has 15 homers and 37 RBIs, has homered in six of his last eight games. In the first inning, he crushed a 1-0 pitch from Pety off the facing of the third deck in right field. In the seventh, he blasted a Bill Campbell delivery into the second deck — both solo shots.

In the second inning, Pety hit Dick Schofield with a pitch and walked Bob Boone. Pettis then belted his second home run into the second deck in right on the first pitch for a 4-0 lead. With two out in the inning, Brian Downing singled and scored from first when for fielder. Pal Sheridan, who bunted Reggie Jackson's single to boot.

ander with his third home run of the season.

Toronto scored in the third when Cleveland third baseman Brook Jacoby mishandled Barfield's grounder with two out and two on, allowing Mullikin to score from second.

The Blue Jays pulled within 3-2 in the fifth on Barfield's RBI single but the Indians restored their two-run lead in the sixth on Andre Thornton's mark home run of the season.

Mark Eichhorn allowed one run over the final 2 1/2 innings for his third save.

California 11 Detroit 1

DETROIT (AP) — California rookie Wally Joyner, who leads the major leagues in home runs and RBIs, crushed a 1-0 pitch from Pety off the facing of the third deck in right field. In the seventh, he blasted a Bill Campbell delivery into the second deck — both solo shots.

In the second inning, Pety hit Dick Schofield with a pitch and walked Bob Boone. Pettis then belted his second home run into the second deck in right on the first pitch for a 4-0 lead. With two out in the inning, Brian Downing singled and scored from first when for fielder. Pal Sheridan, who bunted Reggie Jackson's single to boot.

The Angels got three more in the sixth off Bill Scherrer. Downing walked, Jackson doubled and Doug DeCinces walked to load the bases. Tony Pena doubled home two runs and DeCinces walked when Sheridan made a wild throw to the plate for another error.

Schofield belted his fourth homer off Campbell leading off the seventh and Janyah hit his second of the game two outs later. Schofield had a sacrifice fly in the eighth.

2-1, who struck out four and did not allow a hit over the final two innings.

Mark Salas triggered a four-run Minnesota third with his fifth home run of the season. Greg Gagne and Roy Smalley followed with doubles and RBI singles by Tom Brunansky and Gary Gantlett gave the Twins a 4-2 lead.

They made it 6-3 in the fifth on a pair of walks, a hit batsman and a two-run single by Steve Lombardozzi.

The Brewers took a 2-0 lead on Cooper's RBI single in the first inning and Rick Cerone's first homer of the season in the second. Cerone singled and scored in the fourth on Robin Yount's double.

A sacrifice fly by Cerone and Yount's run-scoring single in the fifth cut Minnesota's lead to 6-5. The Brewers tied it in the sixth when Schroeder singled, was sacrificed to second and scored on Dave Sveum's double.

Just 20 games into his managerial career, Lou Piniella learned a valuable lesson — how to keep George Steinbrenner off his back.

The New York Yankees' impatient owner, who in past years reacted to slow starts by canning Bob Lemon after 14 games and Yogi Berra after 18, griped about some shoddy relief pitching last weekend and hinted that pitching coach Sammy Ellis better straighten it out.

But even Steinbrenner would be hard-pressed to criticize Piniella after a 14-6 start, the winningest month of April in the pennant-filled history of baseball's most storied franchise. Casey Stengel, Joe McCarthy, Ralph Houk, Miller Huggins — none of them ever won 14 games in April.

Except for the strange case of pitcher Ed Whittson, who now seems to have overcome his fear of pitching in Yankee Stadium, the clubhouse has been a place of peace and harmony. Reggie Jackson has been gone for five years and Billy Martin's George Act IV, also a thing of the past. Has Team Turnout really become Team Tranquility?

"I really didn't expect any (controversy), and we haven't had much," Piniella said. "My simple philosophy is to treat players the way I'd like to be treated when I was a player."

"I treat them fairly and honestly, but I'm demanding. That's part of my job. There are no doghouses here."

Milwaukee 7 Minnesota 6

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Cecil Cooper opened the inning with a triple and Bill Schroeder singled over a drawn-in outfield as the Milwaukee Brewers overcame a 3-0 deficit to beat the Minnesota Twins 7-6 Friday night.

After Cooper tripled off reliever Ron Davis, 1-3, Ben Oglive was walked intentionally. Juan Castillo ran for Cooper and scored the winning run when Schroeder singled to the right-field wall.

The victory went to Mark Clear,

NL: Pacesetting Houston keeps pressure on San Francisco

HOUSTON (AP) — Glenn Davis had three RBIs, including a run-scoring single that capped a six-run sixth inning, leading the Houston Astros to a 9-6 victory over the Chicago Cubs Friday night.

The victory gave the Astros a one-game lead over San Francisco in the National League West. The Giants entertained Philadelphia in a late game.

Trailing 6-3, the Astros sent 10 men to the plate in the sixth and scored six runs off three Cubs pitchers. Kevin Bass led off with a single, went to second on a grounder and scored on Terry Pugh's single off Jay Balier, 1-2. After Mark Balley grounded out, the Astros put together six consecutive hits. Alan Ashby's pinch-hit RBI single made it 6-4. Bill Doran followed with another single, Dickie Thon and Jesse Crutcher back-to-back RBI doubles and reliever Guy Hoffman and Davis capped the outburst with his run-scoring single, as the Astros pounded out 16 hits.

Fist, Ryne Sandberg's sacrifice fly and Keith Hernandez solo homer off starter Jim Dabholasker gave the Cubs the lead, but Davis tied the game in the bottom of the inning with a two-run single.

Jody Davis led off the second inning with the first of his two home runs to put the Cubs ahead 2-0, but singles by Puhl, Balley and Doras tied the score at 3-3 after two innings.

The Cubs greeted Astro reliever Julio Salano, 3-0, with two runs in the third to take a 5-3 lead. Mat-nieus led off with a walk, advanced to third on Sandberg's double and scored on Moreland's single. Sandberg scored on a wild pitch.

"Davis' second home run of the game and sixth of the year in the top of the sixth made it 6-3.

Dave Smith pitched the ninth for Houston and retired the side in order for his 10th save.

Cincinnati 7 Pittsburgh 2

CINCINNATI (AP) — Buddy Bell, who entered the game with only two runs in the second, knocked in three with a triple and a triple Friday night as the Cincinnati Reds beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 7-2.

John Denny, 2-4, struck out seven, walked three and allowed four hits in six innings. John Franco came on in the first inning and recorded his fifth save.

It was Denny's first appearance since a Cincinnati sportswriter filed a misdemeanor assault charge against him over an incident in Philadelphia on Wednesday.

The Reds staged a run in the second inning and three more in the third off Rick Badgley, 2-3, for only their third victory in 15 home games this season.

Bell drew a one-out walk in the second, moved to third on Sal Butera's check-swing double to right and scored on the first of Ron Oester's two RBIs singles.

Dave Parker and Nick Esasy started the Reds' third with singles, and Bell doubled down the third-base line to make it 3-0. Oester, whose three-run homer in the ninth gave the Reds a win Thursday.

Philadelp followed with another run-scoring single for his fifth RBI in two games.

The Pirates scored in the fourth inning on Mike Brown's bases-loaded groundout and made it 4-2 in the seventh when Denny walked Jim Morrison and pinch-hitter Mike Diaz scored home with a double off Franco.

The Reds added three runs in the seventh off reliever Jose DeLeon. Parker's double, a walk to Esasy and DeLeon's fielding error loaded the bases. Catcher Tony Pena's wild pickoff throw allowed two runs to score before Bell tripled home the Reds' final run.

Atlanta 2 Chicago 6

ATLANTA (AP) — Bob Horner and Ozzie Virgil each drove in two runs and Rick Mahler pitched a four-hitter Friday as the Atlanta Braves downed the St. Louis Cardinals 6-2.

inning. Omar Moreno doubled on the first pitch and went to third on catcher Mike Heath's passed ball.

After Murphy walked with one out, Horner's broken-bat RBI single to right scored Moreno. Murphy and Horner then advanced a base on Heath's second passed ball, and simply scored on Ramirez' grounder.

The Braves added their final run off Barber in the eighth on Virgil's second RBI single.

Four Americans make world amateur finals

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
The Associated Press

RENO, Nev. — Teofilo Stevenson of Cuba, trying for a third world title, and power-punching Alex Garcia of the United States advanced Friday to a super heavyweight showdown in the World Amateur Boxing Championships.

Stevenson, the 35-year-old three-time Olympic champion who is famed for his right-handed power, used a punishing left jab to score a 4-1 victory over Vyacheslav Yakovlev, a World Cup champion from the Soviet Union.

Boxing

Stevenson did land some solid rights against the jabbing Soviet. But it was his jab and body punching that brought him the victory which, according to Cuban Boxing Federation records, was his 300th.

The 25-year-old Garcia, who has only a 17-1 record after taking up boxing upon getting out of prison in 1984, bombed away and forced Blaglo Chinese of Italy to take four standing 8-counts. The bout was automatically stopped after the fourth standing 8-count at 2:57 of the second round.

But near the end of the first round, Garcia came close to losing. As he moved in, Chinese caught him with a crashing right to the jaw. Garcia's legs buckled and he started to fall, but he did not go down. As the referee started a standing 8-count, the bell rang.

"It woke me up, that's what happened," Garcia said of the punch.

Three other American boxers gained Saturday's finals — Darin Allen at 165 pounds; Ketele Banks at 125 and Kenneth Gould at 117.

But Michael Berd, who upset Alexander Yagubkin of the Soviet Union in the semifinals, was beaten 4-1 by Arnold van der Lijde of the Netherlands.

Loren Ross, 178, of Fort Hood, Texas, was the only American boxer in Friday night's semifinals.

Four other Cubans won semifinals on the day card.

One of them, Adolfo Horta, trying for a third world title, scored his third straight 5-2 decision in beating Orzubek Nasarov of the Soviet Union at 132 pounds.

The Soviets protested the decision, but it was not expected to be overturned by an appeals board.

Five more Cubans tried for finals berths Friday night.

Banks of Chicago, used a hard right jab in gaining a 4-1 verdict over his opponent in the final Saturday.

His opponent in the final Saturday will be Jesus Sotelo of Cuba, who scored a 4-1 decision over Tomasz Nowak of Poland in a battle of fighters.

Gould, of Rockford, Ill., outboxed Tibor Molnar of Hungary 5-0.

Tway, Edwards lead Colonial National

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Howard Twitty finished off a 68 with birdies on two of the last three holes and moved into a share of the lead Friday in the second round of the $200,000 Colonial National Invitation Tournament.

The journeyman Twitty, winner of two titles in a 12-year PGA Tour career, completed two trips over the Colonial Country Club course in 136.

He was tied at that figure, 4 under par, with David Edwards, who had a 68 under-par 67 in the tricky winds.

"It was gusty, and swirling around in the trees. Real hard to figure. The golf course plays difficult when you've got a cross-wind like this," said Edwards, who teamed with older brother Danny for a victory in the 1980 National Team Championship and also won the 1984 Los Angeles Open.

Boxing

Bob Tway, a winner at San Diego earlier this season, and Dan Pohl were a single stroke off the halfway lead at 137. Tway had a 68 and Pohl shot 69.

Gene Sauers, the longshot who held the first-round lead, slipped to a 72, two over par, and was tied at 138 with Bill Rogers, defending champion on Corey Pavin, Bob Glider and Bob

Golf

Lohr. Lohr had a second-round 69. Rogers, a former British Open champion, shot 71. And Glider closed up with a 5-under-par 65, the best of the field.

"I'm rather surprised at the position I'm in (two shots off the lead)," said Pavin, a winner at Hawaii earlier this season, who had a solid 68. "I expected somebody to jump out and take charge."

But no one did. And, going into the last two rounds of the chase for a $103,000 first prize, 15 players were within three shots of the top spot.

"If you roll the dice, sometimes you get a 7, sometimes you get a 12. Sometimes somebody will jump out in front, sometimes they bunch up," shrugged Edwards.

The threesome of Tom Watson, Fuzzy Zoeller and Curtis Strange, which attracted the largest gallery of the day, all had second-round 65s. That's an aggregate 20 shots better than they played the first round.

Zoeller finished two rounds at 142, Watson and Strange at 143.

Twitty moved into a share of the top spot with 10-foot birdie putts on the 15th and 18th holes.

Edwards ran in a 40-foot putt on the 15th to get close; got a tie for the lead with a 10-footer on the 16th, then preserved his piece of the lead with a saving par from a bunker on the 17th.

King, Blalock share Chrysler-Plymouth LPGA

GHATTHAM TOWNSHIP, N.J. (AP) — Betty King and Jane Blalock, playing in the same threesome, fired 6-under-par 67s and shared a two-stroke lead after the opening round of the $200,000 Chrysler-Plymouth LPGA on Friday.

While King and Blalock were matching birdies most of her day, Pat Bradley stumbled slightly in her bid to become the first player to earn $2 million on the LPGA tour. She finished the opening 18 holes on the par-73 Fairmont Country Club at 4-over-par, seven strokes behind the leaders.

Bradley is $3,079 shy of the $2 million mark and needs to finish the tournament alone in 14th place or better, meaning she would have to improve her position over the final 36 holes of the three-day tournament.

"We'll just tee it up tomorrow and see what happens," said Bradley, who has finished in the top 10 in nine of 11 tournaments she's played in this year. "The least of my worries is the $2 million mark. I'm just going to concentrate on this tournament. Today was a nothing-type day."

King and Blalock, playing earlier in the day, were on top of their game. King rolled in six birdies, while Blalock had seven after a bogey on the opening hole.

"I think when people are playing well, it gets you going," said King, who has finished in the top 10 in six events this year without a victory. "You have to make some birdies just to keep up. Janie played very well."

Blalock and King made turn in 2-under-par and each had four birdies on the back side, with each sinking a six-footer on No. 18 for a birdie.

"Today was by far my best round of golf this year," said the 40-year-old Blalock, whose best finish this year was a tie for 18th place. "My swing came around today, I felt loose and had a good time."

Blalock, who has 22 career victories on the LPGA tour, said she has felt tired most of this season, but is coming around following a near-month layoff.

Former Chrysler-Plymouth champion Cathy Morse was tied with Allison Finney and former U.S. Women's Open champion Janet Anderson at 4-under-par 69. They held a one-shot lead over Lulung Kadler.

Among the other name players in the tournament, Mary Beth Zimmerman, a two-time winner on the tour this year, was at par 73. Amy Alcott shot a 74, Jan Stephenson had 75 and Hall-of-Famer Kathy Whitworth had a 76.

The field will be cut to the low-70 scorers and ties after Saturday's second round.

Thompson named Olympic coach

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — Georgetown University's John Thompson on Friday was named head coach of the 1988 U.S. Olympic basketball team, the Amateur Basketball Association of the USA announced.

He served as an assistant under Dean Smith on the 1976 U.S. Olympic team which won the gold medal at Montreal. Thompson also assisted Indiana's Bob Knight in the 1984 Olympic trials.

Among other college coaches believed to be finalists for the position were Larry Brown of Kansas, Bobby Knight of UConn, champion Louisville, Lute Olson of Arizona and Eddie Sutton of Kentucky.

Basketball

Dave Gavitt, Big East commissioner and chairman of the selection committee, said Thompson was chosen from an original list of 30 candidates, which was narrowed to 10 finalists on Friday.

"The decision was unanimous," said Gavitt. "I talked to John this afternoon after we made our decision. He had me in a great-to-have opportunity to coach in the Olympics and said he would try to do the best job possible."

Thompson's selection will require the approval of the Amateur Basketball Association's council as well as the U.S. Olympic Committee's executive committee, but such approval is considered a formality.

Thompson, 43, has compiled a 321-115 career coaching record. He has been at Georgetown 14 seasons, leading the Hoyas to the 1984 NCAA championship and to the Final Four two other times, in 1982 and 1985.

Theismann says he's willing to sit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Washington Redskins quarterback Joe Theismann, fighting to return to action after suffering a career-threatening broken leg, said Friday that he would accept a backup role if he makes the Redskins' roster.

Pro-football

Theismann, 36, broke his right leg six months ago in a game against the New York Giants. Although he has been unable to participate in the mini-camp that began Monday, he has vowed that he will return to challenge Jay Schroeder for the starting spot.

Theismann, the team's all-time leader in a variety of passing categories, had previously told Washington Coach Joe Gibbs that he could not accept being No. 2.

Asked by reporters if he still felt that way, Theismann said: "If I'm able to go out and play and I'm able to compete, then I can live with whatever position that comes up. The most important thing to me is contributing to make the Washington Redskins the best team they can possibly be, in whatever capacity that might be."

In Preakness

Ferdinand facing stiff competition

By DICK JOYCE
The Associated Press

Horse racing

BALTIMORE — Jockey Bill Shoemaker and trainer Charlie Whittingham, the old men of racing, try to keep alive their hopes for a Triple Crown today with a colt named Ferdinand in the $350,000-added Preakness Stakes.

Ferdinand, who emerged from a 16-horse calvary charge as the 17-1 Kentucky Derby winner May 3, has to beat only six rivals at Pimlico to advance on the Triple Crown trail, which ends with the June 7 Belmont Stakes.

Although made the early 9-5 favorite and a sentimental choice of many fans because of the 54-year-old Shoemaker and 73-year-old Whittingham, Ferdinand might not go off as the No. 1 choice.

That role could go to the strong D. Wayne Lukas-trained entry of Badger Land and Clear Choice, 2-1 in the early line.

The favorite has not been successful in the Preakness since Pleasant Colony won in 1981.

Miracle Wood, another Maryland-bred, 20-1, and Groovy, last in the Derby, complete the field of 3-year-olds for the 1 1/8-mile test, one-sixteenth of a mile shorter than the Derby.

Groovy, a speedball who faded after a very swift first half-mile in the Derby, is expected to set the pace. Snow Chief and Clear Choice are expected to meet the pace.

"I think the pace will be realistic," said Lukas, a two-time winner of the Preakness but never a Derby winner. "It's a good balanced field. It'll be better for everybody with a small field."

Both Shoemaker, winner of more races and stakes than any other trainer, and Whittingham, winner of about 450 stakes, are in the Hall of Fame.

But neither has swept a Triple Crown. Shoemaker has had two Preakness winners, Candy Spots in 1963 and Damascus in 1967. Whittingham, based on the West Coast, has not bothered to come East often for the Triple Crown races. He tried the Derby and Preakness only in 1958 and 1960, without success.

"I'm the only one with a chance of winning the Triple Crown now," Whittingham said, stating the obvious with a grin. "I just wish it was a month between races. The Triple Crown races are too close. They last a lot longer if you give them a month's rest between races."

As a result of the closeness of the races, Whittingham has not worked Ferdinand with a grin. "I just wish it was a month between races. The Triple Crown races are too close. They last a lot longer if you give them a month's rest between races."

Ferdinand, owned by Elizabeth Keck, has two victories, two seconds and one third in five starts this year. Whittingham said he expects the son of Nijinsky II to lay closer to the pace Saturday. In the Derby, Ferdinand was pinched at the start and taken back by Shoemaker.

Shoemaker bid his time and drove the colt through a hole in the upper stretch for a 2 1/2-length win. Lukas, the nation's leading trainer for three years in purses won, is a part owner of Badger Land, along with Mel Hatley of Norman, Okla., and Jeff Lukas, an assistant to his father.

Rice shines in UM spring game

MISSOULA, Mont. — Twin Falls' Mike Rice had quite a day in the annual University of Montana spring scrimmage game, which was played in Cut Bank, Mont., on May 10.

Rice, a senior wide receiver and punter, faked a punt and ran 60 yards for the winning touchdown in the intra-squad game.

Rice's punts included an 80-yard kick. "Rice showed what he can do both as a receiver, runner and punter," said UM Coach Don Read. "He's something else."

Rice, who led the nation in punting last year with a 44.7-yard average and was named all-Big Sky Conference at three different positions, will receive the school's most valuable player award for football at the school's Alumni Game here today, which will be played on the final day of spring drills.

Monson assistant to Stanford

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Barry Collier, who has served as assistant to University of Oregon head basketball Coach Don Monson for three years, has resigned to accept a similar position at Stanford University.

Collier was also an assistant to monson at the university of Idaho.

Monson says he thinks Collier wanted the Stanford position to enhance his opportunity to get a head coaching job. Collier will assist new Stanford Coach Mike Montgomery, who guided Montana the last eight seasons.

Belknap Fresno State finalist

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — University of Idaho Athletic Director Bill Belknap and University of Texas-El Paso Athletic Director Bill Cordis were both finalists for the athletic director's job at Fresno State University.

The Fresno job went to Gary Cunningham, who left a similar position at the University of Wyoming. The 46-year-old Cunningham is a former head basketball coach at UCLA. He led the Bruins to a 52-8 record and Pacific Ten Conference championships in 1978 and 1979. He then went to Western Oregon State College as athletic director in 1979 and took the same job at Wyoming in 1981.

Koehnff cards ace at Muni

The Don Hutchings and Gordon Crockett watching, Koehnff knocked an eight-iron into the cup on the par-three, 142-yard fourth hole.

'Secret' memo aired at trial

NEW YORK (AP) — An NFL Management Council memo proposing a meeting to "scare" the league's owners about the USFL was presented Friday at the trial of the USFL's $1.32 billion antitrust suit against its rival NFL.

The memo was written to the staff of the Management Council, which handles labor matters for the owners, by Jack Donlan, its executive director. It was dated Feb. 21, 1984 and was introduced by the USFL, which is attempting to prove the NFL's anti-competitive intent.

The memo read in part: "There is going to be a 'closest' meeting of all the owners before the league meeting at a place and time yet to be decided. My function is to scare all of them about the USFL, e.g. economics, draft, undergraduates."

NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle, who was on the witness stand at the time, said he had no knowledge of the memo. League spokesman Joe Browne said after the session that the "closest" meeting never took place.

Judge opens NCAA records

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A federal judge ruled Friday that the records of the Southwest Conference and the NCAA are subject to public release under the Texas Open Records Act.

The ruling by U.S. District Judge James R. Nowlin was described as "highly significant" by attorneys who said its implications could reach beyond Texas to other states with similar laws.

The Dallas Morning News, the Dallas Times Herald and Belo Broadcasting filed suit against the NCAA and SWC after officials for those organizations declined to release information obtained in investigations of SWC football programs.

George Gangwere, chief attorney for the NCAA, said he was "disappointed" by the ruling and fears it will hinder future investigations by the association.

Wright to play football at Western

DILLON, Mont. — Western Montana College has signed a second Magic Valley high school senior to a letter of intent to play football.

Brett Wright, a 16-foot, 180-pound senior linebacker-running back from Kimberly, has committed to the NAIA school.

Wright, who was twice named to the Idaho Statesman all-state team

College football

at linebacker, was also an all-Canyon Conference performer last year at linebacker and tailback. He will play in the Magic Valley East-West Shrine Game in Twin Falls on June 7. "Brett is an intelligent, all-around football player," says WMC Coach Don Christensen. "and that statement includes a lot of praise for my book. His versatility will give us some options as we start trying to get the best players into positions where there is need as well as an opportunity to play."

WMC has also signed Wendell High senior Chad Hope to a letter of intent.

Unseeded Spaniard stuns Becker in Italian Open

Bowladrome, IENB Icebreaker starts today

By The Associated Press

Unseeded Emilio Sanchez of Spain eliminated West Germany's Boris Becker 6-3, 6-4 in Rome Friday in the quarterfinals of the $45,000 Italian Open tennis tournament, which Ivan Lendl and Yannick Noah advanced to a semifinal showdown.

Sanchez, ranked 39th in the world, will meet the winner of Friday's night match between No. 2 seed Mats Wilander of Sweden and Libor Pimek of Czechoslovakia.

Noah, the defending champion, took a stiff challenge from Uruguay's Diego Pérez in two sets, losing 7-6, 6-4 on the clay court of Rome's Foro Italico.

Earlier, the top-seeded Lendl knocked out France's Henri Leconte 6-4, 6-2, to set up Saturday's semifinal with Noah, who beat him in two sets last Saturday in the Tournament of Champions in New York.

After winning the first set 6-4, Becker broke the fourth-seeded Noah's serve in the first game of the second set before the Uruguayan broke back in the first of four consecutive service breaks.

At 5-4 and 40-15, Noah seemed to have won the match when he served twice. The umpire had started to declare him the winner, but the Uruguayan insisted the ball was out, and Noah agreed to retire the point.

Then, to the dismay of the partisan Italian crowd of 10,000, Noah squandered three match points before Pérez hit the fourth into the net.

"I know Ivan pretty well. I've played with him a lot. I'm pretty used to his style of play," Noah said of his pairing against Lendl. "I know I am going on the court with the best player in the world. But I know I can beat him."

Sanchez, a stocky 20-year-old right-hander, won all of his service games to defeat 33-year-old Becker, the only unseeded player to win Wimbledon, in 1985.

"I played a normal game," Sanchez said. "I made very few mistakes and he made a lot. I've played better games in my life but I've never won a 'more important victory.'"

Sanchez, ranked 39th in the world, broke Becker's serve in the fourth game of the first set and then used a chopped serve that kicked viciously to the right to maintain his serve throughout the opening set.

Becker, a noisy crowd of 10,000, before a noisy crowd of 10,000, Becker grew increasingly upset by the thought of unfair calls and lost his serve in the third game of the second set.

At 5-4, Sanchez by his first match point into the crowd. But on the following point, Becker dove for a return, but missed.

Looking disheveled, Becker then thumped the ball well wide on the next point to give Sanchez a place in Saturday's semifinal.

"I've played with Becker a lot when I was young but nearly always on fast surfaces," Sanchez said. "I consider myself a better player than him on clay, but his serve is so good he is better on the faster surfaces."

Lendl lived dangerously at the beginning of his match against Leconte. But the French left-hander failed to exploit four break points in the opening set and the Czech was able to use his power serve to take the set in 62 minutes.

Lendl used punishing forehands and well-placed lobs to wear down Leconte, who only recently recovered from viral hepatitis, to take the second set in 33 minutes.

"Lendl has changed his game. He puts much more top-spin on the ball and that makes it very difficult to control. He is better now than last year," said Leconte, who knocked the Czech out of Wimbledon in 1985.

Meanwhile in Athens, Ga., Southern Methodist, winner of 24 consecutive matches, is favored to capture the 102nd NCAA Tennis Championships that open today at the Henry S. Field Tennis Stadium, home court of defending champion Georgia.

The Southwest Conference Mustangs are seeking their first NCAA tennis title.

SMU was the top-ranked team in 1983 but lost to Stanford in the finals. The Cardinals were led that year by four freshmen, all of whom are now appearing in their final year.

TWIN FALLS — A field of between 50 and 75 players is expected to take part in the annual Bowladrome-IENB Icebreaker tennis tournament this weekend.

The event, the second Twin Falls Tennis Association tournament of the year, will be played today and Sunday at the Twin Falls High School courts and at Frontier Field.

There will be competition in men's and women's A, B and C singles and A and B doubles.

Play will start at 9 a.m. this morning with the semifinals in most divisions to begin 9 a.m. Sunday morning. Finals will follow at 10:30 or 11 a.m.

McEnroe may pass up Wimbledon

NEW YORK (AP) — John McEnroe's name on an entry list for Wimbledon does not mean he will play in the tournament, his father and the Association of Tennis Professionals agreed Friday.

And John McEnroe Sr. again said it was not likely his son would end his break from tennis to play at Wimbledon.

Chris Goringe, chief executive of the host All-England Club, said the three-time Wimbledon champion's name was on a list of 104 players starting on the list for July 8 Grand Slam event by the ATP.

"An ATP spokesman said that did not mean McEnroe would play there. He self-designated himself for Wimbledon last September and since he didn't withdraw that designation his name was left on the list," George Pharr, the ATP's public relations director, said from association's office in Arlington, Texas.

McEnroe has been vacationing from tennis since January, saying that he had to rejuvenate himself.

Pharr said the ATP had not heard from McEnroe about his Wimbledon plans and added that the player did not have to play in Wimbledon to draw, just before the tournament.

"It's just a formality, and they've done it in other tournaments, including the French Open," McEnroe's father said of his son appearing on the list for Wimbledon.

"There is always a chance he will play, but I would be very surprised if he did."

The elder McEnroe said earlier this week that his son likely will continue his vacation from tennis through Wimbledon because he had a lot on his mind, including the impending birth of his first child with actress Tatum O'Neal.

McEnroe, at a Los Angeles Lakers game earlier this week, declined comment on his plans.

He is expected to resume playing just before the U.S. Open in August.

In the last four months, McEnroe's only appearances have been in three exhibition events. Yet he is still ranked third in the world behind Ivan Lendl and Mats Wilander.

Goringe said that under the rules governing international tennis, McEnroe could be fined $500 for not playing now that his name has been entered.

But John Hewitt, a spokesman for the Men's International Pro Tennis Council, said McEnroe would not be fined because he applied for a leave of absence last January and remains in that status.

UM eyes drop to NCAA Division II

MISSOULA, Mont. (AP) — Two officials say that further cuts in the University of Montana's athletic department budget would mean the school will have to drop to NCAA Division II competition in all sports.

Athletic director Harley Lewis and associate athletic director Barbara Hollmann also said Wednesday that a movement by several schools in the Big Sky Conference to drop to Division II in football instead of the present Division I-AA, could threaten the existence of the league.

They said that elimination of women's swimming and gymnastics and men's tennis and golf already has reduced Montana to the minimum of six men's and women's sports required to be a Division I school.

The Big Sky schools currently compete in Division I in all sports except football.

The University of Montana Plans

ing Board has recommended that the athletic department drop to Division II in football and find some way to cut its annual $1-million budget in half.

The recommendation is being considered by acting UM president Donald Babbe, who then will make recommendations to the State Board of Regents as to how the university might cut 5 percent of its budget if it becomes necessary.

Gov. Ted Schwiden has said that all state colleges and universities may have to do so because of a statewide budget crunch.

Lewis and Hollmann said if UM wants to remain a Division I school in basketball and become a Division II school in football, it would have to add two minor sports to comply with NCAA rules.

The drop to Division II in football would save an estimated $100,000, they said, but the cost of adding two minor sports would be at least $50,000.

Lewis said at least half the Big Sky Conference schools want to drop to Division II in football.

"The issue is serious enough that it could cause the breakdown of the Big Sky Conference," he said.

He said if UM dropped to Division II in all sports, it would mean additional savings but also a drop in revenue generated by the basketball program.

He said Montana's budget already is about equal to most Division II schools in the region and that dropping to Division II in all sports could eventually lead to dropping of the entire athletic department at the school because of a lack of fan interest.

"The bottom line is the university athletic department simply could not exist without a student athletic fee or general fund support," he said.

Boise scraps rule on ninth graders

BOISE (AP) — Reversing previous policy, the Boise School Board has voted to allow some ninth-grade students to participate on high school varsity athletic teams.

The decision, at a Monday night board meeting, changed a rule twice upheld despite court challenges. Twice in the last five years, courts have upheld the rule, both times directed the school district to revise its policy.

District administrators said individual sports such as wrestling would be most affected by the new rule.

"I think it's a great change," said Borah High School wrestling coach Vic Mann. "It's something that needed to be done in our system to give these outstanding individual athletes an opportunity at the varsity level."

"Times have changed," said district athletic director Jack Acree. "We felt it was time to look at the thing."

The district also set up a screening process for those considered for high school competition.

"We're talking about the exceptional individual," said Acree. "This kid is good enough to go up and play varsity. If he goes up there, he stays," he said.

For an athlete to be considered for high school competition, the parents must provide background and provide information on academic and social skills as well as athletic prowess. The parental request will be reviewed by a panel, and a decision to allow the ninth-grader to compete must be unanimous. Parents can appeal to the school board if the request is denied.

The deadline to petition for a winter sport is Sept. 15 and the deadline for spring sports Jan. 15. The fall sport deadline will be May 15 in future years but was extended this spring because the board did not act on the proposal until Monday.

Pocatello, stripped of finals, plans its own big annual race

POCATELLO (AP) — The hole in Pocatello's economy created by the loss of the World's Cutter and Charlot-Racing Championships will be plugged by a new series of cutter races that will bring an estimated $1.5 million into the community, Pocatello Cutter Association President Mark Brown said.

The Golden Cup Futurity and Derby Association will host a series of races each March at Bannock County Fairgrounds, Brown said. The 1987 races will be March 6-7 and 13-14.

"I think it will be bigger and better for the community than the World's was," Brown said. "For one thing, we'll be bringing in more teams — 200 teams instead of 120. And we've got money in purses and everything."

There are no purses in the World's meet, which will be held in Elko, Nev., for the next three years.

Cutter races from throughout the Intermountain West are expected to ve for an estimated $50,000 purse in the new futurity, $10,000 to $15,000 for the derby and $12,000 to $15,000 for a special stallion-nominated purse.

Brown said approximately 150 teams will compete in the futurity and 50 in the derby, each racing two days. The times will be averaged to determine final standings.

Cutter teams do not have to be members of an association to compete. Nor are the races limited to the seven western states which race in the World's meet.

Brown said race officials met with members of the Pocatello Chamber of Commerce on Monday.

"They are pretty enthusiastic. They can see how good this will be for the community," he said. "They are supportive of the whole deal right now."
