Prosecutors drop treason case against 4 defendants

By JAMES F. SMITH
The Associated Press

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Prosecutors dropped charges Monday against the last four defendants in a treason case, without explanation.

Sixteen anti-apartheid activists originally were charged in the case, and Monday's action appeared to mark the total collapse of the case.

Michael Imber, Natal attorney general, gave no reason for dropping charges against Thozimile Gqweta, president of the South African Allied Workers Union, and union leaders Sila Njikeleni, Sam Kikini and Isaac Ngcobo.

They were accused of high treason for allegedly furthering the African National Congress guerrilla campaign against President P.W. Botha's government.

The treason trial began in October in Pietermaritzburg in Natal province. Charges were dropped in November against the 12 other activists arrested in May 1985, including top leaders of the United Democratic Front anti-apartheid coalition.

Winnie Mandela said in a clandestine interview broadcast Monday in London that blacks in South Africa regard the current state of emergency as "a declaration of war," which they ultimately will win.

The wife of imprisoned black nationalist leader Nelson Mandela spoke in an interview on the "World In Action" program of Britain's Independent Television. A spokesman for Independent Television said it defied the ban on journalists entering black townships and filmed Mrs. Mandela Sunday at her home in Soweto, outside Johannesburg.

A commentator noted that her decision to be interviewed could bring up to 10 years in prison for making "subversive statements," which are illegal under the emergency rules.

Mandela says blacks are in a state of war

The Associated Press

LONDON — Winnie Mandela said in a clandestine interview broadcast Monday that blacks in South Africa regard the current state of emergency as "a declaration of war," which they ultimately will win.

"As much as the South African racist regime is prepared to fight to the last man, so are we determined to fight to the bitter end," the wife of imprisoned black nationalist leader Nelson Mandela said in an interview on Independent Television's "World In Action" program.

Independent Television said it defied the South African government's ban on journalists entering black townships and filmed Mrs. Mandela on Sunday at her home in Soweto, the huge black city outside Johannesburg.

She called on the rest of the world "to strangle our country" economically in order to make the white government realize the gravity of the current political situation.

Bosses' rights in AIDS cases affirmed

By PETE YOST
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — An employer can dismiss a person suffering from AIDS merely by voicing fear that the disease will spread in the workplace, without violating a law prohibiting discrimination against the Handicapped, the Justice Department has concluded.

An AIDS-infected worker would have no legal recourse or avenue of redress under the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 unless the employer used fear of contagion as a pretext to discriminatorily fire, transfer or demote the worker, the Office of Legal Counsel said in a 49-page opinion.

Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act prohibits discrimination on the basis of handicap in any program or activity that receives federal financial assistance.

The opinion made public Monday said that section "simply does not reach decisions based on fear of contagion — whether reasonable or not — so long as the fear is not in truth a pretext for discrimination on account of handicap."

The opinion was written by Assistant Attorney General Charles J. Cooper, who heads the Office of Legal Counsel, a division of the Justice Department.

2nd world AIDS conference convenes

PARIS — Two processes described as "the very first steps" toward a possible AIDS vaccine were announced by genetic engineers Monday at a world AIDS conference.

Coupled with the announcements were warnings that a practical vaccine could be a long time coming.

Participants at the opening sessions of the Second International AIDS Congress also heard new details of the explosive development of the fatal disease in Africa, and that AIDS clearly can't spread only by blood or sex, though risk of transmission through blood donors has been ended in some nations.

More than 2,000 experts are attending the three-day congress.

O'Neill denies Reagan's plea for Contra aid

Says address in peacetime 'unorthodox'

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Reagan asked Monday to address the House on the eve of its vote on his request for aid to Nicaraguan rebels, but House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. denied the request, saying it would be an "unorthodox procedure," virtually unprecedented in peacetime.

Presidential spokesman Larry Speakes said Reagan was "deeply disappointed" that he would not be accorded the opportunity to make a final appeal for his $100 million aid package, scheduled for a House vote Wednesday.

Speakes said White House chief of staff Donald T. Regan had called O'Neill Monday afternoon to ask if the president might deliver a speech to the chamber Tuesday before leaving for a speech in Las Vegas and a week's vacation at his California ranch.

O'Neill offered the president an opportunity to appear before a joint session of Congress, which he said would be more appropriate.

The speaker said that in doing so, he was continuing "my practice of supporting any presidential request to address a joint session of the Congress

REP. TIP O'NEILL JR. Claims no proper precedent

I offered President Reagan the opportunity to do so tomorrow (Tuesday), just as I have done every such presidential request . . .

Asked why Reagan would not accept O'Neill's offer to permit the president's appearance before a joint session of Congress, Speakes said: "The Senate is occupied with the tax bill, the House of Representatives is working on it (the Contra aid plan), and that's who we want to speak to."

In his statement, O'Neill said, "I was told by Mr. Reagan that the White House did not want the president to appear before a joint session of the Congress."

Court says charity insurance taxable

By JAMES H. RUBIN
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Saving the government hundreds of millions of dollars, the Supreme Court said Monday that tax-exempt charitable organizations must pay taxes on the sale of group insurance to their members.

In a 6-1 ruling involving the nation's largest lawyers group, the justices said such organizations must pay taxes on income earned by selling insurance to members. Also, members may not escape paying taxes by claiming part of their premiums as charitable deductions, the court said.

Thousands of non-profit organizations engage in providing group insurance to members, the court was told. The Reagan administration said hundreds of millions of dollars in tax revenue were at stake.

In the case, the court ruled against the American Bar Endowment, which advances legal research and seeks to improve the administration of justice by making grants to other charitable and educational organizations. The group's members are all 30,000 lawyers who belong to the American Bar Association.

In his opinion for the court, Justice Thurgood Marshall noted that in 1969 Congress passed a tax reform law that requires charitable groups to pay taxes on "unrelated trade or business" that they conduct.

"This case presents an example of precisely the sort of unfair competition that Congress intended to prevent," he said. "If ABE's members may deduct part of their premium payments as a charitable contribution, the effective cost of ABE's insurance will be lower than the cost of insurance sold to the public."

Sheriff's $16 million request is ... unlikely

The Associated Press

POCATELLO — The budget request was so "out-of-the-ordinary" that "Commissioner" George Shiozawa exclaimed, "Shirley, you've asked for the moon."

"Why not?" responded Sheriff S.R. Gammson. "You wouldn't give it to me if I didn't ask."

Gammson wants $16 million, $14.3 million of it to build a new jail. His request comprises more than half of the $25 million sought by all county departments this year.

The county's general operating budget is about $10 million.

Shiozawa said the request did call attention to the needs of the sheriff's department and added that it could, by showing an effort by the department to improve jail conditions, avert a potential inmate lawsuit.

"I think he's protecting himself, in that respect," Shiozawa said.

Gammson also has requested 10 new staff positions. Again, granting the request is unlikely, and Shiozawa said one or two additions was more realistic.

Commissioner Tom Katsilometes said the commission was planning to meet with Gammson and said it was possible the 10 requests would be paired together.

Meanwhile, commissioners say two other sizeable sheriff's requests have little chance of passage.

One is a 15 percent across-the-board pay raise. Shiozawa said any pay raise for the sheriff's department would not be any larger than those given to other county agencies.

Still, Katsilometes noted sheriff's department salaries lag behind those earned by Pocatello police officers.

Gunman, botching jewelry theft, holds out with 5 hostages

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — A gunman took five people hostage in a botched robbery at an exclusive Rodeo Drive jewelry store Monday, and the fashionable shopping district was sealed off as heavily armed police surrounded the area.

The gunman, in his early 20s and armed with a pistol, took the hostages at the Van Cleef & Arpels Inc. jewelry store, saying he had taken bold bogus jewelry. The cap-lives were believed to be a security guard and four store employees, said Lt. Bill Hunt.

The man initially said that he had stabbed one of the hostages but later told police that none of the captives was injured, according to Hunt and Deputy Dave Tellez of the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department.

Police Chief Marvin Iannone said police had a tentative identification of the gunman, but he declined to release it. He also said he believed none of the hostages was injured.

Twelve to 15 people inside the store when the gunman entered escaped, police said.

"We were upstairs working and a lady who works downstairs heard somebody come in and said, 'Everybody hit the floor,'" said Jose Castillo, a jeweler who escaped. Castillo said those left inside the store included a security guard, a porter, two saleswomen and the manager.

The siege began at 10 a.m., and about six hours later the gunman demanded to be interviewed live on Los Angeles television station KTLA by Tellez said.

Police refused the demand, Hunt said, and a bid by police to trade food for hostages failed.

"We would not allow a TV crew to go in," Hunt said. "We want to minimize the number of people in there, and we don't want to send more people in."

The gunman called KTLA directly, and did not make the demand through negotiators, Tellez said. "Yes, we have been contacted," KTLA news director Jeff Wald said, refusing to elaborate.

Four special weapons team officers behind a bullet-proof shield delivered two white sacks containing bread, bologna and soft drinks to the front door of the store. It remained on the sidewalk.

Later, an unidentified man wearing only swimming trunks was captured moments after he rushed through police barricades and headed for the building. Tellez said he could not explain the event.

Judge rules on right to death

TOMS RIVER, N.J. (AP) — A judge ruled Monday that a terminally ill, 37-year-old woman can be disconnected from a respirator, as she has requested, because it would be cruel to sustain a life "so wracked with pain."

Superior Court Judge Henry H. Wiley issued his decision after hearing arguments in the case of Kathleen Farrell, who has Lou Gehrig's disease and has said through her husband that she is concerned about the effect her illness is having on him and their two teenage children.

Weinberger rips SDI reductions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger said Monday that members of Congress trying to cut spending for "Star Wars" anti-missile research are engaged in a short-sighted attempt "to strangle the program in its cradle."

Weinberger's comments, in a speech to the private Space Foundation, came as the Democratic-controlled House Armed Services Committee prepares to meet later this week to write its version of the next year's defense budget.

Cyanide in Excedrin identified

SEATTLE (AP) — The cyanide that killed two residents of Auburn, who swallowed Extra-Strength Excedrin capsules came from the same batch of poison, but was different from the cyanide used in other tampering cases, federal authorities said Monday.

Food and Drug Administration spokeswoman Susan Hatcher said tests on the poison were continuing at the FDA's heavy metals laboratory in Cincinnati.

Cyanide is blamed for the deaths this month of Sue Snow, 40, and Bruce Nickel, 52, who lived a few miles apart in Auburn, a suburb south of Seattle.

Severe earthquake rocks Tokyo

TOKYO (AP) — A strong earthquake rocked Tokyo and the central Japan area just before noon Tuesday, but there was no immediate report of casualties or damage.

The Central Meteorological Agency said the quake registered a preliminary reading of 6.9 on the open-ended Richter scale, a severe earthquake capable of extensive damage near the epicenter, which it was below the Pacific off the coast of Chiba and east of Tokyo.

The meteorological agency issued a tsunami, or tidal wave, warning for the entire coastal region of eastern Japan.

Reputed mobster bodies found

ENOS, Ind. (AP) — Two badly beaten bodies found in a shallow grave in an Indiana cornfield were identified Monday as those of brothers Anthony and Michael Spilotro, reputed mobsters who disappeared more than a week ago, the FBI said.

The bodies of the Spilotros, clad only in underwear, were discovered Sunday evening buried one on top of the other in a five-foot grave by a farmer working on his land, said Sgt. Peter Poppewell of the Indiana State Police.

Blunt force injuries, probably caused by hands or feet, caused the deaths, said Dr. John Fleiss, director of forensic pathology at Indiana University Medical School who examined the bodies Monday.

Nelson confident of 2nd concert

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Willie Nelson said Monday that organizers at Farm Aid II have not yet been able to obtain liability insurance for the July 4 fund-raiser, but that he remained confident the show will go on as planned.

"We've never had to cancel a show before," Nelson said.

The day-long concert to raise money for America's farmers, originally scheduled for the University of Texas Memorial Stadium.

Socialists approve use of force

LIMA, Peru (AP) — World socialist leaders meeting here issued a statement Monday approving the government's use of soldiers to put down prison riots by leftist guerrilla inmates last week. An estimated 250 people were killed.

Peruvian author Mario Vargas Llosa disagreed, calling the military action "morally and legally unjustifiable."

dent to address a joint session, that the White House wants the president to appear before a regular meeting of the House. In 1969, President Nixon appeared sequentially before both Houses on the eve of the Vietnam War protests to thank members for supporting his conduct on the war.

"Having the president appear before only one House to lobby for a legislative proposal would be unprecedented," O'Neill said. "The only justification for such an unwarranted procedure would be if the president would use the occasion to participate in open dialogue with members of the body. A formal address should properly be made before a joint session."

"My offer for a joint session remains open," he said. "On Wednesday, the House votes on Contra aid for the third time this year. If the House passes Contra aid in any form, the Senate will have to act on the matter. Since future congressional action must occur in both houses, I believe that the proper forum for an address is the traditional joint session."

Presidential addresses to a single house of the Congress are extremely rare. Since his research showed only a half-dozen or so cases, in which a president had gone before the House. Most of the cases he cited involved cases in which U.S. troops were in combat.

The spokesman said that White House researchers learned that, although addresses to joint sessions of Congress are traditional, previous examples of speeches to a single chamber include President Thomas Jefferson speaking on the subject of the Barbary pirates, which Marines were dispatched to subdue; James Madison on the War of 1812; Woodrow Wilson during World War I and in 1919, the year of the signing of the Treaty of Versailles ending the war and establishing the League of Nations; and Nixon's speech on ending the war in Indochina.

The House vote on aid to the rebel counter-revolutionaries known as Contras is expected to be very close. Speakers said Monday the White House was still a few votes short of victory.

Speakers said O'Neill, a steadfast opponent of Reagan on the issue, declined the president's request in a telephone conversation with Regan, saying he did not want the issue "politicized."

The spokesman said he did not know whether that word was O'Neill's or Regan's.

Speakers, who had suspended his daily news briefing for reporters in anticipation of announcing the president's speech plan, returned to the podium to announce:

"The president has asked to address the House of Representatives on Tuesday, June 24, on the cause of freedom and democracy in Central America. In the president's view, the way the United States responds to this fundamental challenge will affect the course of U.S. foreign policy for decades to come.

"It is a cause which requires national unity and firm bipartisan support," Speakers' statement said.

"The speaker of the House of Representatives has declined the president's request. The president is deeply disappointed."

Speakers said he hoped O'Neill would reconsider.

O'Neill's rejection is the latest in a series of frustrations Reagan has been dealt on the Contra aid issue. The president accused O'Neill of unfair treatment when the speaker refused in the spring to permit a single up-or-down vote on the aid issue, citing it instead to a supplemental appropriations measure that Reagan had promised to veto.

The administration fought for another chance, and finally succeeded in getting a vote scheduled for Wednesday.

Earlier, the State Department said that Nicaragua's endorsement of a proposed Central American peace treaty was an empty gesture linked to the upcoming House vote.

of competing policies that do not offer tax benefits."

He added, "The undisputed facts simply will not support the inference that the dividend-ABCs receives are charitable contributions from its members rather than profits from its insurance program."

The endorsement has provided group insurance for ABA members since 1955, offering life, health, accident and disability coverage underwritten by major insurance firms.

The Internal Revenue Service calculated the endorsement's insurance dividends to be $19 million for 1979 through 1981. The money pays for education projects.

In 1980, more than 57,000 ABA members were enrolled in one or more of the insurance plans.

Each person must agree to allow the endorsement to use the dividends, surrendering an claim to receive the money individually.

Purchasers of the insurance were told what portion of the money is spent for tax-exempt causes and, correspondingly, what percentage of members' premiums should be tax deductible.

The IRS assessed the money—some $6 million in back taxes and the endorsement-paid-the-endorsement—then used for a refund.

In other action, the court: Agreed to consider forcing Texaco Inc. to post a potentially ruinous $12 billion bond while appealing an $11.1 billion judgment won in Texas by Pennzoil.

Rejected an appeal by air traffic controllers fired by the government for an illegal strike in 1981. The controllers argued they have a right to their old jobs.

Cleared the way for an unusual disciplinary investigation of U.S. District Judge Alcee Hastings of Miami, acquitted in 1983 of charges he solicited a $50,000 bribe.

Agreed to decide, in a Reagan administration bid to reinstate a Texas man's drug conviction, whether police may enter fenced-in property and look into a barn without getting a court search warrant.

Morgan eager for a shuttle, but is not defending NASA

By SCOTT CHARTON
The Associated Press

LITTLE ROCK — Barbara Morgan, who was runner-up to become the first teacher in space and saw her colleague, Christa McAuliffe, perish in the fiery Challenger explosion, says she is ready to face dangers of space travel.

"Space business is risky business. We're going to fix what went wrong and hope that it doesn't happen again," Morgan, who teaches elementary math and reading in McCall, said at a news conference before speaking at the national PTA convention on Monday.

"I think that what I'm doing to help education and help the country and help our space program and help our future, it's definitely worth taking that risk," she said.

Morgan said she hopes the shuttle program will be operating flights again by July 1987, and that her flight might happen in two or three years. The program has been grounded while the Challenger explosion is investigated. "I'm not saying I'm not going to be a little scared. Anybody would be, you've got to be realistic about that," she said.

Repairing problems that caused the Challenger explosion Jan. 23 will not "make the space program entirely safe. There always is a possibility that another accident will occur at some point," she said.

Asked whether her husband was apprehensive about her plans, Morgan said, "He would like to be in my shoes because he would like to fly, too." The couple has no children.

Officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration told her after the Challenger explosion that she could be excused from the Teacher in Space program. Morgan said she refused to drop out.

"That was a decision I made. Nobody told me I had to go on and be the next teacher in space," Morgan said. "For me, being involved in the exploration of space and helping education are two of the greatest things I can do. I'm helping my country and helping education. That's more important than the risks involved."

Morgan is on a leave of absence from McCall-Donnelly Elementary School until September. NASA compensated her school district for keeping her on the payroll, she said, and the space agency plans to keep her posted on the shuttle program by modifying her home computer so they can stay in touch every day. She said she also plans to travel to Johnson Space Center in Texas several times next year.

She had praise for NASA, but said mistakes have been made and the agency has not told her to publicly defend its work.

"Nobody is forcing me to do what I'm doing. Nobody writes my speeches for me. Nobody tells me what to say. If they did, I probably wouldn't be here," she said.

"Teachers are very independent people. I'm here because I want to be here."

Morgan said she receives no fee for speaking, but her travel expenses are sometimes paid by the groups she addresses.

Bush planning visit to Idaho Falls

BOISE (AP) — Vice President George Bush will visit Idaho Falls on July 11 to attend a fund-raising event for Republican 2nd District congressional nominee Mel Richardson.

Richardson said the exact details of the vice president's visit have not been worked out. Richardson also would need about $250,000 to run against Democratic Rep. Richard Stallings.

"We do need the funds," Richardson said. "Most of the funds will have to come from the people"

Washington, D.C., last week and that the vice president was looking forward to the Idaho visit, his second last year. Bush was in Boise last winter to speak at the Boise Lincoln Day Dinner.

Richardson said he defeated four other candidates in the GOP primary last month, said he will need about $250,000 to run against Democratic Rep. Richard Stallings.

"We do need the funds," Richardson said. "Most of the funds will have to come from the people" rather than political action committees, he said.

Bush's visit spotlights the importance of the 2nd District race, Richardson said. He said it also should generate enthusiasm for his campaign.

Richardson was at the White House last week for a briefing on issues by Cabinet members, President Reagan and Bush. He said he and other GOP congressional candidates were filmed meeting with Reagan and Bush.

Utility willing to drop complaints

BOISE (AP) — A spokesman for Idaho Power Co. says the company will drop its complaints concerning a contract between Monsanto Co. and Utah Power and Light Co. if assurances come that those companies won't cause a procedural quagmire for Idaho Power.

Larry Ripley, Idaho Power, said if testimony presented before the Public Utilities Commission Monday were put in writing, his concerns about the contract would be eased.

At issue is the way in which rates under the contract would be calculated for power supplied to Monsanto's furnace No. 3 at the company's chemical plant outside of Soda Springs. Mike Gilmore, PUC staff attorney, said the rates would be based on what FMC Corp. pays Idaho Power for electricity at its chemical plant outside Pocatello.

Ripley said he is concerned that Idaho Power's rate cases could become convoluted because Monsanto or UP&L would have a stake in how much FMC Corp. is charged by Idaho Power.

UP&L spokeswoman Shelley Faigle testified that the company wasn't trying to gain intervenor status with Idaho Power.

Gilmore said both UP&L and Idaho Power had supplied power to the No. 3 furnace from the mid 1960s until the contract expired in March.

The Monsanto plant lies within UP&L service territory. Gilmore said the two companies weren't successful in working out a new contract.

Because UP&L's power comes from coal-fired plants, which is more expensive than Idaho Power's hydroelectricity, the contract was based on the rate charged to FMC Corp., a Monsanto competitor, to be equitable, Gilmore said.

Caribou County Commissioner Glenn Turner and state Rep. Robert Geddes, T. Preston, urged commissioners to approve the contract to ensure that Monsanto wouldn't close, which would cost 600 jobs.

Soda Springs Mayor Kirk Hansen urged commissioners in a letter to approve the contract.

Farmers launch Idaho Rural Council

POCATELLO (AP) — A group of Idaho farmers, just back from a farm crisis conference in Texas, has launched the Idaho Rural Council to help their neighbors cope with the depression in agriculture.

The 16 Idahoans who attended the Texas conference, sponsored by country star Willie Nelson's Farm Aid organization, have also started planning an Aug. 12 state conference on farm problems at Idaho State University.

Spokeswoman Joyce Bowles of Grace agreed with Texas

Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower that current economic strife has seriously threatened the future of agriculture nationwide.

"And the impact on Main Street and the business community is devastating, not only across the nation but in Idaho as well," Mrs. Bowles said.

The farm crisis conference at the University of Texas last week was intended to lay the groundwork for a nationwide network of advocates to educate the public about the severe problems facing agriculture and help troubled producers deal with their lenders.

Hightower, a harsh critic of the Reagan administration's free-market philosophy and staunch supporter of production controls, has blamed much of the farming depression in the inability of producers to obtain needed financing at reasonable interest rates.

Lentz expected to be named Rollie's replacement in IEA

BOISE (AP) — Charles Lentz, associate director of the Idaho Education Association, is expected to be promoted to head the teachers' organization effective Aug. 1.

This appointment has been approved by a telephone poll of the IEA board of directors, but still must be confirmed at the next meeting, said Joyce Raasch, IEA president.

Lentz, 48, resigned from the IEA for the last 10 years, resigned recently to accept a similar position in North Dakota, where he has family ties.

Lentz, Boise, is a Chicago native and taught high school English for four years before joining the Minnesota Education Association. He joined the IEA in August 1984 after working for the Minnesota organization for 15 years.

In Idaho, he has been responsible for the field staff of eight regional representatives, coordinated legal programs to assist teachers with employment disputes and acted as a lobbyist.

Lentz said the emphasis of his tenure will be continuing the momentum already underway.

"I think the legislative chemistry is going to be better," he said. "We have the chance to be supportive of education rather than being in a defensive posture as we have been."

Rare weevils from Greece to be used against weeds

BOISE (AP) — Four colonies of weevils fresh from Greece have been released on public land in Nez Perce County as an experiment to control a noxious weed in the area.

The nursery colonies of a rare seedhead weevil imported from Greece were released last week to study their effect on yellow starthistle seed production, according to the Idaho office of the Bureau of Land Management.

The biological control agent, known as "Baryscapus," is not expected to eradicate the starthistle, but will cause significant reduction in the seed production and rate of spread.

If the colonies can survive the Idaho winters, in three to five years they will serve as collection sites to redistribute the weevils to other lands infested with the weed.

If successful, researchers hope to incorporate the weevil into Idaho's Integrated Noxious Weed Management Plan. The plan places a high priority on developing biological controls for use on weed infestations.

BLM crews fight year's largest fires

BOISE (AP) — Firefighters from the Bureau of Land Management's Boise District have encountered the biggest fires of the season over the weekend.

A fire that started shortly before noon Sunday burned 1,254 acres in miles northwest of Hammett, said BLM dispatcher Pat Shanafelt.

Two other fires on Saturday burned an additional 430 acres.

The fire Sunday, which took six hours to put out, was fought by 24 crewmembers using five engines, a water tanker and a scatter plane.

The cause of the fire was related to the operation of the railroad near Interstate 84, but the exact reason for the fire was unknown, said Shanafelt.

MAGIC OF THE ORIENT TO GO AGAIN OCT. 6

In April it went so well and our members were so thrilled with every aspect of the adventure, that it was decided to go again this fall. A unique but ideal itinerary will introduce you to that truly other side of the world. Many tours now feature just Mainland China for 10 to 28 days — or include just Beijing (Peking) in a general Orient program.

Our April tour members said this combination was perfect whether or not this might be your only adventure to that side of the world. JAPAN, 6 days with Tokyo, Kamakura, MtFuji/Hakone Park and the Shinkansen (Bullet Train) to Kyoto; THAILAND 3 days in colorful Bangkok; HONG KONG 4 days in dazzling Kowloon, Hong Kong island, Tsimshatsi, CHINA is highlighted in 8 days in Beijing, the Great Wall and Forbidden City; Xian for the Terra-Cotta Warriors, Gullin for spectacular scenic cruises on the Li River; then Guangzhou (Canton) and a pleasant 3-hour train ride back to Hong Kong. Memorable sights, sounds and impressions all along the way.

We did prove that its best to go while you are young and active, but if walking is limited it's still worthwhile and comfortable. Just so you can get on and off the tour buses and airplanes. To meet and watch the Chinese people is worth the trip — and they are fascinated by you, too.

There's so much to enjoy and remember in the music, the varieties of good food, the Japanese Sense of Beauty and lots of fun; making it more than just a cultural experience. And you'll appreciate just a little leisure time.

They couldn't believe how luxurious the lodgings were, even in China; nor how we could do it for the basic cost of only $3,995 per person, sharing rooms. Yet, one of the greatest features is that you're part of a small group for more personal attention (no attention if you prefer) — no more than 25 persons. Autumn in the Orient is ideal for the Chrysanthemums in Japan, fall colors in China and Japan; and moderate weather throughout. You'll get information on what to wear, most and reading material (planning makes the pleasure last longer); how to eat with chopsticks, and passport and visas. If you have anyone on your Christmas list, they'll love those gifts, decorations and cards from Asia. In fact, you'd like to wear, most and reading material in Thailand, Hong Kong and Mainland China.

The most incredible value is this ultimate adventure offer which you'll never be the same — and yes, you can take it with you. Please ask us for the detailed brochure and book early.

Teacher pay raises should reflect merit

There is something to the argument of the Twin Falls Education Association that 52 Twin Falls teachers who have not moved up on the district's step-pay scale should nonetheless get pay raises this year.

But, in our view, the argument is outweighed by the position of the board that pay changes should be based on teachers' willingness to improve their teaching skills through more education.

The district provides two ways for a teacher to earn more money. One is to go back to school and accumulate credits. The other is by longevity. We think the longevity standard has been overused, and should be downplayed compared to the other, which is essentially a merit standard.

In this case, the district is right, in our view, in encouraging teachers to return to the college classroom. Not long ago, we suggested that the district further help the process by setting up a competitive, cash-grant program to help teachers train in specialty areas like mathematics, physics and literature.

This approach would result, we think, in genuine improvement in our teachers' skills, and that would help our children in the classroom.

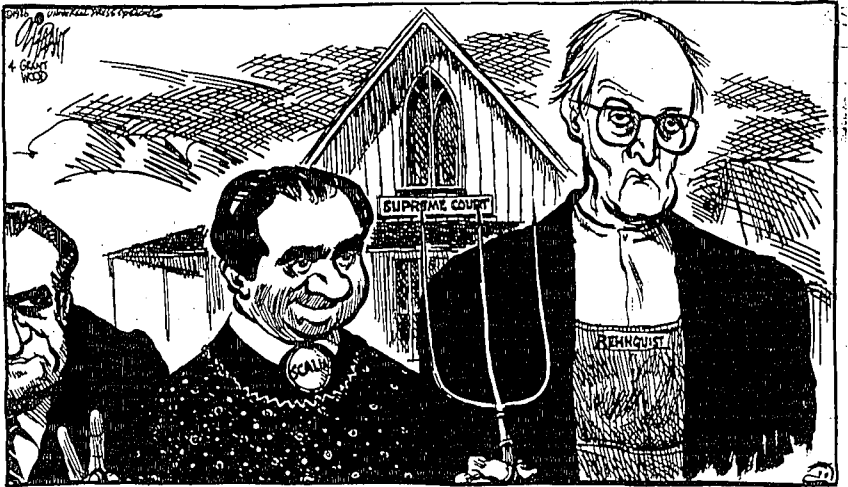

The TFEA's approach, which follows traditional union methods, is to insist on pay raises for all, regardless of performance or merit, as measured by the willingness to upgrade skills.

If the TFEA wants to reward experienced teachers, it should back funding for an already-approved district career ladder plan. This proposal, in which TFEA members had considerable input, requires only money to be implemented.

If it were put in place, teachers who showed both "experience" and the highest level of skills would be rewarded.

The district, in our view, is right in pushing for reasonable measures of rewarding teachers based on education and merit, not simply on longevity.

Soviets' ingenuity taps Western banks

Roger Robinson

"Follow the money" is the sound advice offered by John LeCarre in his novel "The Honorable Schoolboy." This simple rule can help us unravel the tangled story of how Soviet banks operate abroad.

To picture the Soviet banking operation, imagine a banker who comes to town and solicits deposits. When the banker gets the money, he transfers most of it to his home town to support industries there; he even uses some of it as collateral to support additional loans to his home town. "The depositors, meanwhile, don't know where their money has gone or how it is being used."

Soviet bankers are engaged in a similar form of borrowing in Western financial markets. By a deft financial maneuver, they are taking deposits from Western commercial banks and creating what amounts to an estimated $10 billion reserve checking account.

The West deposits the money and Moscow gets the benefit. What's more, the Soviets may be turning some of these Western deposits, on paper, into Soviet assets.

This $10 billion cash reservoir offers important advantages to the Soviets. It eases the financial strain of supporting Cuba, Vietnam, bank in London, Moscow Narodny Bank Ltd., for example, are reported as United Kingdom risk, not Soviet risk.

The flow of funds from the network of Soviet banks in the West to Moscow is difficult to trace, particularly when the Soviets take steps to avoid Western financial reporting.

For example, if Eurobank, the Soviet subsidiary bank in Paris, were to make a deposit with the Moscow-based Soviet Bank for Foreign Trade (Vneshtorgbank), it would show up in Western financial statistics as a French bank claim on Vneshtorgbank. If the Soviets wished to evade even this level of financial reporting, Eurobank could make a loan or deposit with a cooperative bank in Bahrain, Singapore, or any number of other offshore banking centers where bank reporting is less vigorous. That bank could, in turn, transfer the money to the Soviet Union.

Should the West allow the Soviets unqualified access to what, in financial terms, is "easy money" without the conditions and requirements of normal commercial loans?

Once the Soviet banks have obtained Western deposits, a complicated shell game begins. Perhaps mindful of the reporting procedures of Western bank regulators, the Soviets maintain their network of Western banks as subsidiaries rather than branches, thereby blurring their sole Soviet ownership.

Western bank deposits with the Soviet Union's 100 percent-owned for Foreign Trade, Vneshtorgbank. The Foreign Trade bank is reported to have about $10 billion in deposits with Western banks. This $10 billion figure is, in turn, subtracted by Western analysts from the Soviet Union's gross debt of $25 billion to $28 billion to yield a debt figure of between $15 billion and $18 billion, a measure used to help gauge creditworthiness.

This is not an argument for cutting off Western financing or discontinuing interbank activity with potential adversaries — only that financing and the availability of interbank deposits should be better disciplined.

In sum: The voluntary adoption by Western banks of sensible guidelines concerning interbank deposits and other forms of undetected lending to the Soviet Union and its clients would reduce the availability of financial resources that could be used to harm Western interests.

Now the Soviets are in a position to perform the cleverest maneuver of all: turning some of the Western deposits they have received abroad into what appear to be Soviet assets. The institution that manages this transformation is the Soviet Bank

Electric motor idea could be the 'flying machine' of patents

WASHINGTON — Have you heard of Joe Newman's Revolutionary Energy Machine? No? You may be hearing quite a lot about it this summer. In response to a court order, the National Bureau of Standards is about to file a report on the machine.

A bit later, the machine will make the report public, and we will have some clues to a question that is attracting much attention in Congress and in the press: Is Newman a genius? Or is Newman a con artist?

My own guess, after reading a raft of material, is that Newman probably is a genius. His name one day may rank with such familiar names as Faraday, Watt and Ampere. For the moment, however, a decent skepticism is in order.

For the record, Newman is 49 years old. He lives just outside Lucedale, Miss. He has no formal higher education, but he is obviously an original thinker and a self-taught electrical engineer. He invents things. He has patents on such devices as a rain deflector for automobile windshields and a gadget for extracting juice from fruit while the fruit is still on the tree. After 17 years of labor, Newman filed for a patent in March 1979 on a novel kind of electrical motor. His claim is that the motor produces an output of energy far in excess of its input. His theory is that electromagnetic energy can be stored and applied in ways not heretofore thought possible.

His claim is bolstered in impressive ways. At least 30 scientists and engineers have filed affidavits in support of his invention. His backers say the Newman motor could effectively revolutionize the production of energy.

They envision a day when large-scale Newman generators would replace conventional plants fueled by coal, oil or nuclear energy. Smaller motors conceivably could replace internal combustion engines. The prospect is breathtaking.

The Patent and Trademark Office isn't holding its breath. After a cursory examination, the PTO in 1964 rejected Newman's application. His proposed invention, said the PTO, "smacks of perpetual motion." The Board of Patent Appeals heard his appeal and sneered: "Such a machine is impossible."

Dr. Robert E. Hehner, speaking for the Bureau of Standards, filed a declaration in the Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit. The thrust of his declaration, said Judge Pauline Newman (no kin), is that "the applicant's device may be a hoax."

The Mississippi inventor has run into a tough row to hoe. When his appeals through the Patent and Trademark Office were exhausted, he filed suit in U.S. District Court here in Washington, asking an order to compel the issuance of a patent. By misfortune he encountered a rookie federal judge, Thomas P. Jackson, a gentleman who had learned nothing of thermodynamics at Harvard Law. Recognizing this yawning gap in his competence, Jackson appointed a Special Master to look at Newman's application and to make a recommendation.

The Special Master could not have had more impeccable credentials. He was William Schuyler, a former commissioner of the PTO who is himself an electrical engineer.

Schuyler's report was unequivocal. He found "overwhelming evidence" that Newman's motor worked as claimed. He recommended that the patent be issued. Then a peculiar thing happened: It is almost unheard of, especially in cases of this nature, for a federal judge to overrule the report of a Special Master. This can be done only if the master's report is "clearly erroneous."

Judge Jackson overruled it, though he cited no evidence to support his ruling. Newman then began a round of legal maneuvers in an effort to get his machine fairly tested. The PTO fought him every inch of the way. The Bureau of Standards, never enthusiastic about the project, haggled and stalled over details. Judge Jackson proved to be an implacable opponent.

At one point the Circuit Court of Appeals rebuked the district judge for his "highly irregular" actions. Newman's aggressive young lawyer tried to get the judge removed for bias. The judge lost his temper and fined the lawyer $500 for contempt.

Ultimately an arrangement was worked out by which the National Bureau of Standards would test the motor and report to the District Court. That report is due June 26. The bureau has acknowledged that Newman's motor, if it works, would be truly "revolutionary." It would "fly in the face of all the laws of physics." That's about the same thing the Patent Office said some 70 years ago for the Wright brothers. Their application for a patent was rejected because a heavier-than-air machine would never fly.

Letters/Aryan Nations: 'nice men who just happen to have a strong conviction'

Taxes affect common man
 Today, June 19, I read an article published in your paper which told of what happened to two Aryan Nations members. I wonder why this religious sect is so newsworthy. It amazes me why your newspaper sees that everything an Aryan Nations member does is so above average.

Point in case, why was there even a mention of the Miller accident? Literally hundreds of accidents like that occur throughout the year all over this city and not every such occurrence has made the news. If Miller was at fault for this accident, then why was he just cited for not having a valid driver's license? Come on, newswriters, your time could be spent covering stories that are more important to the community.

With regard to the part of the story involving Jones, who really cares that he was jailed for a "concealed" weapon?

Since when is storing a gun in any kind of carrying case when it is on a person's property considered concealment? When our forefathers came to this country from England, they carried guns. When the settlers came West, they carried guns.

The United States of America was established for purposes of freedom. Making a person a "criminal" when that person has the inalienable right to do as his forefathers, who decreed that everyone had the same rights, is the way that the populations of countries are turned into "slaves." It appears that we, as Americans, are asking for such treatment by letting the legislators dictate what we want or do not want.

With regard to Jones' supposed failure to pay income tax, I applaud him. How many of us "common folk" can barely make ends meet because of the taxes that are being taken out of our paychecks?

People are taxed for owning property, for working, for eating, does anyone know of anything that is not taxed? The taxes are not used for the people here in the U.S., but are sent out to other countries, even those countries who have and are trying their best to undermine our country.

Jones, however, is not the only one that has not supposedly paid his taxes. It was estimated by the Internal Revenue Service recently that somewhere in the area of 40 million people did not file their tax returns by April 15.

It appears that people are getting back to the time of the "Boston Tea Party"; they are getting sick and tired of taxation without representation. The people who can afford the high taxes, of course, pay only the minimum, and the people who can barely keep their heads above water are the people who are being taxed to the maximum.

Maybe it is time that we all refuse to pay something that is grossly unfair.

The article that was printed in today's paper made the two Aryan Nations members seem like bogymen.

They are probably very nice men who just happen to have a strong conviction — the exact basis that this nation was founded on. If our forefathers had not had strong convictions, where would those of us living in the U.S. be today? We would either be living in a British colony or in some other foreign country.

You probably will not print this letter as it is adverse to the adage that the government "knows best." If so, what is your paper for — is it a forum for the common people or is it just another outlet for government propaganda?

Communists cause problem

How did American agriculture get into such a bind as it is today?

The answer is that in 1933 the Agriculture Adjustment Act, from which today's horrible and costly agriculture mess stems, was conceived by a nest of Communists and fellow-travelers in the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture led by Henry A. Wallace. Some of the Communists were Alger Hiss, convicted spy, Lee Pressman, Nathan Witt, John Abt, Charles Kramer and Victor Perlo.

Their intent was to control the American people by controlling the food supply. Once the government takes over food production bureaucrats will determine who gets to eat.

The first known communist cell in our government was in the Dept. of Agriculture. The communists knew how hard it was to bring the Soviet farmers into line as Stalin had an estimated 6,000,000 Ukrainian peasant farmers starved to death. By establishing government intervention in U.S. agriculture, our farmers have slowly been brought into captivity in the last 50 years.

It was Thomas Jefferson who correctly warned about government meddling into agriculture when he stated: "Were we directed from Washington when to sow and when to reap, we should soon want bread." The main point he made is that should our own federal government gain control over agriculture, the U.S. people will face deadly food shortages.

The programs established by Communist enemies are still unfolding today and must be terminated by phasing the government completely out of agriculture. If the present trend continues "we should soon want bread."

The risk of nuclear war

There is an old saying which says, "God helps them that help themselves." Whoever started that phrase must have learned the hard way. Even if we take the story of "Noah and the Ark," that old fellow would have drowned for sure if he hadn't of got busy and built a big canoe.

The trouble with the nuclear threat is that one can no longer just protect themselves for we are all in the same boat, whether we like it or not.

Jerry Falwell has stated that Christians are not afraid to die. "How misleading," for Mr. Falwell is the one that is unable to accept death everlasting.

Some of my friends that have passed away have been atheists and some were Christians, and I must say my atheist friends had no fear of death for they knew they were going to paradise where they would rest in peace forevermore.

A few of my dear Christian friends were afraid they may end up in hell and according to them, that would put them in a helluva situation.

Most all leaders agree it would be suicidal for anyone to start a nuclear war. The sad part is some people do commit suicide and there are those that would like to take everyone else with them. The late Jim Jones is a good example.

How can a nation be so unwise as to have presidents that believe in Armageddon, and have devised a system where all they have to do is push a button to try and make it come true.

Attorneys file for stay of Bundy's execution

MIAMI (AP) — Attorneys for serial killer Theodore R. Bundy on Monday asked the judge who sentenced him to death to stay his scheduled July 2 execution.

The bid for a stay was filed with Dade County Circuit Judge Edward Cowart, who sentenced Bundy, 39, to die in the electric chair for a brutal Jan. 15, 1978, rampage through a Tallahassee sorority that left two coeds dead and two other sorority sisters, plus a woman in a nearby apartment, badly injured.

"We're asking for a stay of execution so that we can proceed (with a new appeal of his convictions)," attorney James Coleman said by telephone from Washington. Coleman declined to "characterize" the request further.

The request for a stay was filed late Monday afternoon and there was no answer to telephone calls to the judge's chambers after 5 p.m. (EDT).

Gov. Bob Graham on May 22 signed a second death warrant for Bundy, also sentenced to death in the Feb. 9, 1978, abduction-slaying of 12-year-old Kimberly Diane Leach in Lake City, Fla. Graham that day also signed a death warrant for Gerald Stano, also linked to dozens of slayings of women, and also scheduled Stano's execution at Florida State Prison for July 2.

Bundy, a former law student born in Burlington, Vt., and raised in Tacoma, Wash., was linked to slayings of young women in Washington, Utah and Colorado beginning in 1974.

Bundy's first death warrant, which set his execution for March 4, expired after the U.S. Supreme Court granted a stay. But the high court on May 5 cleared the way for a new death warrant when it rejected Bundy's appeal claiming that his Miami trial was unfair.

The FBI said he was wanted for questioning in 36 sex slayings when it put him on its 10 Most Wanted list shortly before the Florida State University slayings of Chi Omega sorority sisters Margaret Bowman and Lisa Levy, savagely assaulted and beaten to death with an oak limb in their bedrooms.

Graham six times has signed a third death warrant for an inmate, and three of those six are still alive, including Willie Jasper Darden, whose appeal was rejected Monday by the U.S. Supreme Court.

L.M. Boyd What's what

If a movie were to be made of your life story, whom would you like to see play you? Don't answer, it's a trap. Some psychiatrists — those who don't think it's too obvious — say answers to the query are so revealing they can save much time at the outset of analysis. Clearly, naming the actor of your choice tells the doctor how you envision yourself.

Do you buy the claim that certain nationalities inherit a knack for certain work? Believers say the Irish,

DEPRESSION

Q. On what do the psychiatrists base their claim that twice as many women as men suffer depression? A. Their own case histories. Those who so contend do not always report that VA Hospital records suggest the opposite. Such conclusions depend on the records studied, and the nature of the records depends on which institution keeps them.

TALKING TO YOURSELF

Just because you talk to yourself out loud doesn't mean you're a deep thinker, but the hidden-camera researchers say the deep thinker seems more inclined to carry on audible conversations when alone. They put individual students, including numerous Ph.D candidates, through bogus tests in a bugged room. The high-powered scholars delivered more monologues.

Daily Horoscope

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You want to make some drastic changes but there is confusion in relation to the information available to you. Go slowly with any revisions right now.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19): Confer with good friends about how to gain the ambitions that mean the most to you, and get fine ideas and advice.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): Be sure that you know exactly what is expected of you by one in very high position before you get into your career work.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): You want to start on a new venture but need to study it further before putting it in operation.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): If a practical matter is not quite clear to you, seek advice of one well-versed in such business affairs.

LEO (July 22 to August 21): Plan how to show yourself in public so that you can add to prestige you now enjoy. Maintain the status quo.

VIRGO (August 22 to September 22): You may not need new gadgets to be more efficient at your work, so study the matter well before spending the extra money.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 23): You are in need of recreation but look into new sports. Avoid being disappointed later. Make sure you keep the promises you've made.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21): That situation at home is in the process of being ameliorated, but don't try to rush matters.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21): Activities could cause you to change regular course of action, but this could be for the better in the end.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19): You have fine ideas for gaining your personal wishes, but use tact for best results.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20): Put aside some of your old-fashioned ideas, and become more attuned to the modern way of life and adopt only the best of this.

Baker defends tax overhaul

WASHINGTON — On the eve of a Senate vote on a landmark tax-revision plan, Treasury Secretary James A. Baker III challenged critics who claim the bill shortchanges middle-income Americans.

"It's true that they get less of a tax reduction than lower-income Americans," Baker said Monday. "It's really not true that they get a significantly lower reduction than upper-income Americans."

"The dispute over relief for middle-income taxpayers will cost the bill the unanimous vote that leaders of both parties had once predicted. Sen. Carl Levin, D-Mich., announced Monday he will vote no because 'this bill gives us some reform, but it also gives us some new unfairness."

Baker, appearing on NBC-TV's "Today" show, noted estimates that people with incomes between $30,000 and $40,000 a year would get tax cuts averaging 5 percent under the bill, while those above $200,000 would receive a 4.7 percent cut.

"I think that's not really a valid objection," he said.

The Treasury secretary, who has worked closely with the House and Senate as they wrote their differing tax bills over the last year, said "the president likes the Senate bill pretty well."

"All in all, I think it's a very, very good bill and we like it a lot," Baker said. "We wouldn't mind seeing it passed as is."

That 'apparently' is going to happen, sometime after 4 p.m. Tuesday, when the vote on the overall bill is scheduled. "It's going to be a big, big win — almost unanimous," said Majority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan.

The Senate was working its way through a stack of minor amendments Monday to clear the way for the bill.

Senate passage would send the bill to a conference committee, which will work out a compromise between the Senate version and the one passed last December by the House.

Several Democratic senators and some of the party's tax-writers in the House are expected to raise the middle-income issue again before the conference.

Briefly

Reagan makes appointments

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan intends to nominate Kenneth M. Carr, a retired admiral, to a five-year term as member of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, the White House announced Monday.

Reagan also announced his intention to nominate Justin W. Dart Jr., 55, son of one of the president's longtime friends, to be commissioner of the Rehabilitation Services Administration.

Carr, 61, would succeed Nuncio J. Palladino on the NRC. Carr retired from active Navy duty in May 1983, after serving as deputy and chief of staff to the commander-in-chief of the U.S. Atlantic Fleet. He is a graduate of the Naval Academy and lives in Groton Long Point, Conn.

Fireworks danger demonstrated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal safety officials blew up a mannequin and set a doll ablaze Monday to demonstrate the dangers of fireworks in the wrong hands.

More than 10,000 Americans were treated in hospital emergency rooms last year for injuries associated with fireworks, said David Schmeltzer, chief of compliance for the Consumer Product Safety Commission.

"There is nothing we can do to replace a lost limb. Burns are painful, burns are difficult to care for, burns take a long time to heal," added Dr. Carlos Silva, a Washington burn surgeon.

Grenade in mailbox disarmed

MALDEN, Mass. (AP) — Hundreds of people, mostly children at a public swimming pool, were evacuated after the discovery of a live rocket grenade in a mailbox outside the pool office.

A police bomb expert on Sunday disarmed the grenade, which was hooked to a timing device.

Postal inspectors, state police and city officers joined in the inquiry Monday.

GAO: Military supply system lax

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon is losing millions of dollars worth of equipment each year because of poor security and recordkeeping of its supplies, but the inventory system is so huge it is difficult to determine the seriousness of the problem, the General Accounting Office said Monday.

The report by the congressional investigative agency was released at a news conference by Sen. Pete Wilson, R-Calif., who said he will soon chair a series of hearings by an Armed Services Committee panel to examine the problem.

The Defense Department buys millions of different items each year, ranging from ships and tanks down to bolts and pencils. There are more than 500 major supply centers in the United States and another 250 overseas.

Electronic privacy bill planned

WASHINGTON (AP) — Electronic mail, paging devices, cellular mobile telephones and data transmission would be given the same privacy protection as first class mail under legislation passed by the House Monday.

An identical measure is pending in the Senate. The legislation also outlines "clear and much needed processes for law enforcement personnel to follow when they are engaged in the interception of otherwise protected communications," said Rep. Patrick Swindall, R-Ga.

The legislation was backed by the Reagan Administration, civil liberties groups and the businesses involved in electronic communications.

It passed on a voice vote without objection.

EPA frees cities of ozone burden

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wary of a backlash from trying to impose tough anti-pollution requirements, the Environmental Protection Agency told big cities Monday they will not necessarily be penalized for failing to meet next year's clean air deadline.

But EPA Administrator Lee M. Thomas said metropolitan areas with the worst problems might be required to use a list of control techniques to be developed by the agency to keep making progress toward clean air.

In a speech to the Air Pollution Control Administration in Minneapolis, Thomas said, "I certainly don't believe Congress intended the sanctions to be used to punish states that tried hard, and improved air quality, but fell short of attainment."

Protesters set chemical plant on fire

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Prem Tinsulanonda, Thailand's prime minister, declared a state of emergency Monday in the island resort of Phuket after 50,000 people protesting plans to open a chemical plant went on a rampage, officials said.

After the crowd set fire to the factory, a hotel and six vehicles, police rushed in reinforcements, troops were placed on standby, and Thai Industry Minister Chirayu Isarattan Na Ayuthaya was evacuated by helicopter after being jostled by an angry mob, they said. Chirayu was not injured.

The official Thai News Agency said one policeman was hurt when protesters hurled stones at the Merlin Hotel, where Chirayu was reportedly staying. Nineteen people were reportedly arrested.

Shultz affirms U.S. aid to Philippines

SINGAPORE (AP) — George P. Shultz made clear Monday that the United States would like Ferdinand E. Marcos to live elsewhere, and aides said the secretary of state will tell the new Philippine government financial help is on the way.

"Marcos has on a number of occasions expressed his desire to leave the United States and we don't have any desire to have in our country people who don't want to be there," Shultz told reporters traveling with him in Asia. "So under the circumstances, we'd just as soon have leave if he wants to leave."

He added, however, that no other nation had agreed to take Marcos, who fled to Hawaii on Feb. 26 after 20 years as president of the Philippines.

Shultz did not respond directly to a weekend report in the Baltimore Sun that Marcos had been asked to leave U.S. territory. But his remarks reflected continuing impatience in the Reagan administration with Marcos' support for demonstrations against the government of President Corazon Aquino.

When a military-civilian uprising drove him out of the Philippines, Marcos said he would remain in Hawaii temporarily while seeking a permanent home in another country.

Panama and Singapore were mentioned as possible havens, but neither agreed to accept him.

Mrs. Aquino, who came to power after Marcos fled, has accused him of financing demonstrations against her government.

Shultz is to arrive in Manila on Tuesday, after a stop in Brunei. Officials traveling with him on the five-nation Asian trip said the secretary of state will announce later this week in Manila that a $200 million installment of U.S. aid has been cleared for delivery the Philippines.

Washington pledged in April to speed up the grant, which is part of a $500 million aid package for this year.

The announcement apparently has been timed to coincide with the visit to Manila so he can present tangible evidence of U.S. support for Mrs. Aquino's government.

Shultz repeated his view that Marcos' conduct of the government over two decades led to the Philippines' current economic problems.

The secretary would not comment on demonstrations by Marcos loyalists or argue the former president might have in them but conceded that "he is apparently a problem."

Waiter's testimony details Klinghoffer's death

GENOVA, Italy (AP) — A ship's waiter testified Monday that Leon De Souza pointed out Youssef Klinghoffer as silent as his wheelchair was pushed across the beach behind the steel bars of his holding dock of the Achille Lauro to a cage in the chamber built like a waiting Palestinian hijacker armed with an automatic rifle.

Two shots were fired, Manuel de Molqi, 23, as the leader of the four Palestinians who seized the ship Oct. 7 off Port-Said, Egypt, and subjected it, were ordered to dump the 69-year-old American's bloodied corpse and his wheelchair into the Mediterranean Sea.

The Portuguese waiter told Judge Lino Monteverde he could identify the man who summoned him from the dining room, where the hostages in pre-trial testimony, claimed in were held, and ordered him to bring court last week that he did not kill Klinghoffer and that the American was not even aboard the ship.

Monteverde, who is presiding at the trial of 15 men charged in the hijacking, asked the waiter through an interpreter whether the invalid New Yorker said anything as De Souza wheeled him across the deck.

"No," he replied. It was the fourth day of the trial in this northern port city, where the Achille Lauro began its Mediterranean cruise.

De Souza said he was told to go away after he delivered Klinghoffer, and did so.

Britain reverses course; will meet with guerrillas

LONDON (AP) — Britain's Conservative government reversed its policy Monday and offered to talk with the leader of the African National Congress, the main black guerrilla group fighting white domination in South Africa.

The announcement came soon after Terry Waite, the archbishop of Canterbury's envoy, returned from a six-day visit to South Africa with a scathing assessment of the nation-wide state of emergency imposed June 12.

Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher's government opposes harsh economic sanctions against South Africa and has boycotted the guerrilla movement on grounds that it espouses violence.

In its announcement Monday, the Foreign Office said it was inviting ANC president Oliver Tambo to meet this week with Lynda Chalker, a Foreign Office minister of state and deputy to Sir Geoffrey Howe, the foreign secretary.

A Foreign Office spokesman said the meeting was "thought appropriate at this time."

"We will use the opportunity to impress on the ANC that negotiations and dialogue are the way forward," he said, speaking on condition that his name not be used.

Tambo, visiting London as part of a European tour, said he had not received the invitation. When asked whether he would accept, he replied: "Let us not speculate."

10 dead pulled from debris of Bombay factory collapse

BOMBAY, India (AP) — Ten bodies have been recovered from the rubble of a two-story textile factory that collapsed this weekend, and police said Monday that at least 50 other workers were missing and feared dead.

Cranes were brought in Monday to help remove tons of concrete and twisted steel.

Heavy rains, which police said may have contributed to the roof's collapse, hampered initial rescue efforts Sunday.

The textile factory is located in an industrial park run by Maharashtra state in the village of Talaja, about 35 miles southeast of this industrial center.

Police said they had registered a case of negligence against the building's owner, whom they identified as O.P. Saigal.

Mandate held by victorious Spaniards

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Prime Minister Felipe Gonzalez held a mandate for a second term Monday after an election that confirmed his Socialist Party's position as the country's dominant political force.

Complete results from Sunday's voting gave the Socialists 184 seats in the 350-seat lower house of Parliament, a drop of 10 seats from the party's landslide victory in 1982 but a working majority.

Party leaders were quick to claim the outcome was a vote of approval on the Socialists' first four years in office. The independent Barcelona newspaper, La Vanguardia, said Spaniards had heeded the appeal of Gonzalez and voted for "stability and continuity."

Parties that won 10 seats or more in the polling were to meet later in the week to present the names of their candidates for prime minister to King Juan Carlos.

But it was a foregone conclusion that Gonzalez, a 44-year-old labor lawyer from Seville, was headed for a second term.

French murders baffle authorities

PARIS (AP) — Faced with 29 murders of elderly women in Paris in the past 21 months, police admit they have no suspects and few clues — just a growing list of victims.

The latest, 29-year-old Marthe Hervey, was found tied hand and foot to a chair in her apartment in the capital's 10th District on Sunday morning, either strangled or smothered to death.

She was the 11th victim this year and the fourth in 1985.

Police are extremely hesitant to link all the murders to the same killer or killers. But they admit that at least some of them, probably a large number, are the work of a single person.

Utah firm won't buy, lease Gooding hospital

By JANE ROBISON
Times-News writer

GOODING — St. Benedict's Hospital of Ogden, Utah, is not interested in buying or leasing the financially ailing Gooding County Memorial Hospital, officials said on Monday.

However, St. Benedict's, which owns Walker ACT Center, a drug and alcohol treatment program located adjacent to Gooding Hospital, may be angling for a management agreement somewhere down the line.

"We're not interested in acquiring it, and we're not interested in leasing it," said Joe Featherston, chief operations officer for ACT Cooperation. "We are working with them in an attempt to keep their operation open."

And Featherston said a management contract was a "consideration."

But the first consideration is trying to work out a payment schedule for Gooding, Featherston said. The county-owned hospital borrowed $50,000 in January from Walker ACT for operating costs.

Gooding County officials and hospital officials have been working desperately to try and keep the 49-bed hospital afloat.

One option, approved by voters in May, is St. Benedict's the opportunity to play or to transfer the hospital from the county to a newly created hospital district, which has the power to levy taxes.

However, officials revealed last week that several obstacles stand in the way of a possible transfer, including Gooding's contract with Walker ACT Center.

Under that contract, St. Benedict's has first rights to negotiate for operation or ownership of the hospital if the county facility changes ownership.

While Gooding Hospital has not yet given St. Benedict's the opportunity to play or to transfer the hospital from the county to a newly created hospital district, which has the power to levy taxes.

After St. Benedict's passes, Gooding is free to pursue other options, Featherston said.

At a board meeting last week, Gooding Hospital's attorney, Fred Decker, said the hospital could not be transferred to the hospital district without approval from Walker County.

The Walker Center's $1 million facility adjoins the hospital and contracts with Gooding for some services, such as food service and laundry facilities.

Walker ACT, until recently, also contracted for nursing services, said ACT's director, Gail Ater.

But when Gooding had to cut back five employees this year, the ACT Center decided to contract with nurses directly, Ater said.

Grant will aid business

By CAROLYN DILWORTH
Times-News correspondent

GLENN'S FERRY — The Glenns Ferry City Council has passed a resolution ordering that funds used to pay back the recently approved community development block grant must be used for industrial development of the community.

Glenns Ferry was awarded a $200,000 grant to loan to Magic West Inc., a potato processing plant. The city was one of five Magic Valley communities to receive the grants.

Mayor Dayle Messerly said this is the third grant the city has received in the past two years. The first was for about $250,000 to help in the renovation and expansion of Idaho Circuit Technology, an electronics development corporation, and the second grant for $350,000 was used to help Magic West with plant upgrading and expansion. The new block grant will be loaned to Magic West for working capital.

The council passed the resolution on Thursday to "protect the money for industrial development, as was intended when the grant was applied for." Council members said they did not want the money to go into city coffers for other needs.

After Glenns Ferry loans the grant money to Magic West, all of the money and interest paid back to the city will be used for a revolving loan fund that will be available to help new businesses develop or others expand, which will create more jobs in the community.

The Magic West project has brought 19-65 new jobs to the community, Messerly said.

Officials to answer questions

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls School District officials will meet with parents and the public on Thursday to answer questions raised over the district's $189,000 computer system and plans to add $25,000 more in equipment.

The open meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the quad room at Twin Falls High School.

On hand to answer questions will be board trustee Gary Faye, Superintendent Carl Snow, Business Manager Dennis Messinger, and accountant Bob Seaman.

At the School Board's June 10 meeting, parent Margi Humphrey presented the board with a lengthy list of questions concerning the district's Burroughs computer.

Humphrey said she is concerned the district is spending more than is necessary for a computer system, and that the district is spending money on computers for maintenance operations but not on a computer curriculum for students.

On Monday, Faye said officials will try to answer all questions about the district's system.

Art enthusiast makes offer on Albion campus building

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

ALBION — There will be some new business on the agenda Saturday for the annual homecoming of the ASN-SICE Alumni Association at the vacant and deteriorating Albion college campus.

What may become the first sale of part of the old Albion State Normal (School) Southern Idaho College of Education campus was negotiated here Monday and will be reported to former students, says Alumni President Keith Amende of Albion.

A former Boise woman was in Albion Monday to press her bid to acquire McMurray Hall, a 12,000-square-foot brick structure that once served as the men's dormitory.

It has been described by architects and builders as one of the best-preserved of the old buildings.

The former Faye Faye Frank, a writer-and-art enthusiast, who lived in Boise for many years, made an offer to the Albion City Council on the building last November. Now married to Ray Keeton and living in San Diego, Calif., she goes by the name of Teddy Keeton. She told local officials her interests still lie in Idaho and its artists and she would like to establish an Idaho art gallery in Albion.

Because the campus is tied up in litigation over title to the land, her offer cannot be accepted as yet.

"Today I again made an offer," she told The Times-News Monday. "Of course, the city has not given me a final answer... pending a clear title to the campus, but I am ready to go ahead anytime I can get that final answer."

The amount of the offer was not disclosed Monday, but Keeton said it is not large — because of the costs of restoring and remodeling the building.

Albion Mayor James Kelly said the city attorney is checking to determine ownership of the land on which McMurray Hall is located. He said the attorney should have a report at the July 1 City Council meeting.

Meeting with the Keetons and Ann Phillips of Rupert, a college alumna, Monday was George Kelley, who has purchased title to some of the land from heirs of the families that donated the original campus to the state for a college in the late 1890s.

Phillips, a native of Albion and promoter for college restoration, said the success of the latest of many efforts to sell and restore part of the campus hinges on George Kelley's actions. He will contact his attorney and decide what position to take, Phillips said, and his attorney will contact Albion City Attorney Steve Bywater, Phillips said. George Kelley could not be reached for comment Monday afternoon or evening.

Keeton has asked him for a letter clearing any lien he has on the property.

Ex-superintendent faces state hearing

By PAT MARCANTONIO
Times-News writer

BOISE — A former Castleford School District superintendent recently convicted of forgery now is the subject of an action by the Idaho State Education Department over retention of his teaching certificate.

Robert Hutchin, 53, was sentenced June 9 in 5th District Court in Twin Falls to a three-year, unsupervised probation after pleading guilty in November to forging a $2,000 district payroll check sometime last spring. He also received a withheld judgment, meaning the felony conviction will be removed from his record if he successfully completes probation.

Hutchin could not be found to comment this week. His attorney, Bill Hollifield of Twin Falls, said Hutchin was somewhere in Montana. Now that the criminal procedures are complete, Hutchin faces a separate action by the Education Department.

Within the department, a complaint has been filed against Hutchin by the department's teacher certification director, said Roy Lawrence, an office consultant. The complaint accuses Hutchin of being convicted of a "crime of seriousness" greater than that of a traffic offense and involving moral turpitude, he said. Moral turpitude is legally described as an offense against the morals of a community, he added.

The office director, Dr. Darrell Loels, was out of the office this week. Hutchin already has been notified of the complaint and will be given 30 days to respond and ask for a hearing, Lawrence said. If he does not respond, the complaint will be "deemed to be true" by the state Board of Education, which has the power to revoke certification.

Lawrence did not know the exact date when Hutchin was notified.

If Hutchin seeks a hearing, it will be before a panel of three education board members, he said. He had applied for a school-psychologist job. Because Hutchin was a superintendent, two members of the panel will be administrators, Lawrence said.

At the hearing, Hutchin will be allowed to present evidence and witnesses. The hearing panel — which considers, among other things, how the offense may affect children — then will recommend to the state Board of Education whether Hutchin's certification should be revoked. The panel also can issue a reprimand.

If his certification is revoked by the board, Hutchin will not be allowed to work as an educator in Idaho. In addition, the Idaho Education Department will notify every state of his disbarment.

The department's procedure provides the educator in question due process, Lawrence added.

"It is not to punish a person, but to protect the profession and those affected by the profession, such as the children, parents, you and me," he said.

If Hutchin's certification is revoked, he may reapply after he successfully completes his probation, Lawrence added.

Hutchin's most recent job in education was as a counselor at the Lower Yukon School District in Mountain Village, Alaska. The district, which includes 1,300 students, was not aware Hutchin had pleaded guilty to a felony in Idaho, said Superintendent James Riedinger, who added he was shocked.

Hutchin had been hired by the former superintendent, W.H. Phillips, to replace a counselor who had been accused of an accusation of child molesting, Riedinger added. Phillips, who moved to Arkadelphia, Ark., could not be reached by telephone.

Hutchin worked at the district from about February or March to June, said District Business Manager Alke Barnett, who also was unaware Hutchin had pleaded guilty to the forgery charge.

Hutchin had been a good employee, Riedinger added. He had applied for a school-psychologist job with the district, but didn't have time to complete the application. • See HUTCHIN on Page B2

Handicapped adults win recycling award

By CLAUDINE CHAMBERLAIN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Doubled recycling at the Southern Idaho Distributing Company, as well as an award of outstanding recycling efforts, is due to the work of the handicapped workers from Magic Valley Rehabilitation Services.

Workers from the rehabilitation program started recycling at the company in August 1984 and have to be doing the majority of the company's recycling since then.

"Aluminum can recycling has been really great because it is something that the handicapped can do," says Leonard Anderson, operations manager for the distributing company.

Since the addition of the handicapped workers, the company has doubled the amount of aluminum it recycles and has received the Shining Eagle Award from the Container Recovery Corporation in St. Louis, Mo. The corporation is a recycling subsidiary of Anheuser-Busch Companies, Inc.

High-Crumrine, executive director of the MVRs, feels that the program is good training in customer relations. "Recycling is just one of the training and employment opportunities we provide within the program," he said.

MVRs also provides experience for the handicapped in areas such as car detailing and janitorial work. Workers are paid on the basis of their productivity. The amount varies with each individual.

"It (the recycling) provides a good opportunity for the people we want to refer to community placement," Crumrine said.

Recycling began as a community service project "to clean up the litter around town," said Anderson. When he realized it was a job that could be handled by MVRs, Anderson had the distributing company donate all equipment to MVRs. "They've done a super job. It has really worked out great," he said.

Southern Idaho Distributing is the only Idaho distributing company to take part in the CRC's aluminum recycling program. The Shining Eagle Award was given to the company in recognition of reaching a 10-million-can milestone.

CRC Marketing Manager Kenneth Lodwick flew down from St. Louis to present the award.

New DUI law may not work as planned, say state workers

By JANE ROBISON
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A cloud of confusion is hanging over a new DUI law scheduled to take effect July 1, and state Department of Health and Welfare workers are calling the new law "unworkable."

The law, written by Idaho Attorney General Jim Jones and passed during the last legislative session, mandates that licensed evaluators when sentencing persons convicted of DUI, or driving under the influence of alcohol.

Robertia Crockett, substance abuse program specialist with the H&W office in Pocatello, said workers "are not prepared to implement the new law" by July 1.

"To entrust some evaluators with that kind of responsibility is well founded," said Crockett. "But for others, it's crazy."

However, Pat Kote in the Attorney General's Office said Monday that he was unaware of any problems in implementing the new law.

The confusion centers around the interpretation of the new law and who will act as evaluators for the courts.

Under the previous law, evaluators were only required to recommend what type of treatment program was necessary, such as whether a person needed outpatient treatment, education classes or an in-patient program.

The way state H&W workers read the new law, evaluators must also include a list of where to get help along with the estimated cost of the program, and judges are mandated to follow the recommendations of the evaluators, said Crockett.

But the hitch in the program is that many evaluators are not equipped to make those recommendations, Crockett said.

Since 1981, anyone convicted of a DUI or who pleads guilty must undergo an evaluation to see if treatment is necessary. The cost of the evaluation ranges from $35 to $100, in some instances, and is paid by the offender, Crockett said.

The person who does the evaluation may or may not be trained. But until recently, anyone could apply to be an evaluator. The only requirement was that the evaluator have a GED, a high school equivalency diploma, said Crockett.

Although Crockett said H&W tried to tighten up qualifications for evaluators, all those who were previously licensed were grandfathered in under the new bill, HB 451. Currently, 65 people in the state are licensed

Organ donation wrecks their marriage

DEAR ABBY: I am a young mother of a 3-year-old child who was recently killed by a hit-and-run driver. "Tammy" was a beautiful, healthy child.

When she was pronounced dead, the doctor asked me if we would consider donating her organs, as they were healthy. My husband wanted to choke the poor doctor for even suggesting it!

Well, Abby, I thought long and hard about all the children who could benefit from Tammy's organs, so I signed the consent form without my husband's knowledge or permission.

As of this day my husband has moved out of the house. He said he can't stand the sight of me anymore. He said I "ruined" our daughter's body and our marriage! Abby, was I wrong to put the welfare of some stranger's child ahead of my husband's wishes?

I am only 21. I thought I loved him, but now I don't know if I ever knew him at all. What do you think about what I did? This is tearing me apart. I loved Tammy as much as her father did, but she was dead, so I gave her organs to a sickly child who had a chance to grow up to be a healthy child. Was I wrong?

Abigail VanBuren
Dear Abby

—CONFUSED
DEAR CONFUSED: No. Neither are you confused; you are thinking very clearly. If you still have doubts, please read on.

DEAR ABBY: My son recently became the recipient of a kidney transplant. He had been a dialysis patient for five years and had suffered from renal (kidney) failure since birth.

With each passing year, the dialysis treatments became more and more difficult. He had many close calls with death, and the doctors were doubtful whether dialysis treatment could continue much longer.

Well, Abby, we were one of the lucky ones, and my son received a kidney in time. The change in him is absolutely remarkable! Today he is feeling better than he ever has, and he is developing in ways we never dreamed possible.

Abby, I would like to emphasize how important each organ donation is, and that many lives can be saved each year through organ transplants. I would also like to tell your readers, yes — YOU can make a difference.

—SALLY JEAN QUILTER, ORANGE, CALIF.

DEAR READERS: To date, 12 states have passed a law making it mandatory for health-care professionals to ask the next of kin for the organs of a loved one who has just expired. They are: California, Oregon, New York, Indiana, Connecticut, Kansas, Kentucky, Maine, Missouri, Washington, Wisconsin and Michigan. I hope the remaining 38 states will take notice and do likewise.

Unfortunately, because there is always a shortage of organs, selecting the lucky recipients is an ongoing problem. I believe that those who have signed up to be organ donors should be given preference, should they ever need a transplant.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I work very hard at high-pressure jobs, and one of our pleasures is eating out in the evening, trying to unwind and relax.

Lately, more often than not, our meals have been ruined by noisy, screaming, bratty kids whose parents have no business dragging them to nice restaurants in the first place. These kids are either too young to understand, or too poorly behaved to be out in public. Why do parents bring them along?

Recently, printed on a menu in a Southern restaurant was this message: "Please keep your children quiet and in their seats." I wish all restaurants would print that on their menus.

—SICK OF BRATS
DEAR SICK: Don't blame the kids. They cannot know what they have not been taught.

NONCONFIDENTIAL TO S.O.S. IN SANTA MONICA: Please send more information. What were the circumstances? If you shoot someone, you can be jailed — or decorated, depending upon the circumstances.

"Getting married? Send for Abby's new, updated, expanded booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send your name and address clearly printed with a check or money order for $2.50 and a long, stamped (39 cents) envelope to: Dear Abby, Wedding Booklet, P.O. Box 39523, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

University student claims Miss Utah crown

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Donna Clark, a 22-year-old University of Utah senior, is the new Miss Utah, and will the state in the Miss America Pageant.

Miss Clark, who is also Miss University of Utah, is the daughter of Harvey and Georgette Clark, Salt Lake City. She and her family moved to Utah from California four years ago.

She was crowned Saturday night at Mountain View High School.

Miss Clark is majoring in communications and ballet and maintains a 3.0 grade-point average at the U. of U. For her talent number, she performed ballet on point to selections on the album "Hooked on Classics."

Miss Clark has served an internship at Salt Lake television station and is a member of Sigma Delta Chi, the Society of Professional Journalists.

Miss Utah 1985 Gina Larsen, Miss Utah 1986, crowned Miss Clark in the ceremony.

THE ODD COUPLE WINS!

Judged the perfect pair for heating and cooling.

You can't beat a high tech gas furnace.

- New high tech gas furnaces can save you 20% to 40% on heating costs compared to older furnaces. You'll get high efficiency heat that will pay you dividends every winter.
- Gas heating delivers 120 to 130 degree heat almost instantly. On a cold day a combination system like a heat pump delivers only 90 to 95 degree heat. Response time is much faster with gas.
- High tech gas furnaces have a life expectancy of 20 years or more and require very little maintenance.

You can't beat a high efficiency electric air conditioner.

- High efficiency air conditioners can save you 10% to 40% on cooling costs over combination systems like heat pumps that must both heat and cool.

- Maintenance costs are lower for an electric air conditioner because it works only 3 to 4 months a year instead of 9 or 10 months compared to a heat pump.
- An electric air conditioner has a longer life expectancy than a combination system because it works fewer hours per year.

Finance both for no money down.

Intermountain Gas has arranged long term, low interest financing so that you can own the most efficient heating and cooling system for no money down (certain conditions apply.)

For complete information contact a heating and cooling dealer or call your gas company.

Texan takes title from McGuigan

Las Vegas heat wilts Irishman

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
The Associated Press

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — Stevie Cruz knocked down Barry McGuigan of Ireland twice in the 15th round and won the World Boxing Association featherweight title Monday night in the desert heat.

McGuigan, who was about a 5-1 favorite at fight time, also was knocked down in the 10th round.

McGuigan was taken to Valley Hospital as a precaution and was to be kept overnight. McGuigan complained of headaches in his dressing room and Dr. Donald Romeo of the Nevada State Athletic Commission placed ice packs to his head and chest.

Romeo said McGuigan "was very down emotionally."

McGuigan's father, Pat, who sang Danny Boy before the fight, accompanied his son to the hospital, where the fighter was to be given a CAT scan.

It was a fast-paced fight from the opening bell, and sometimes the action got as hot as the Las Vegas sun. The temperature when the fighters began at 5:20 p.m. MDT was about 110.

Cruz said the heat bothered him in the early rounds, but "I had to dig down and pull it out."

The heat as well as Cruz seemed to get to McGuigan in the late rounds.

It looked after the 10th round that McGuigan would hold onto the championship. He fought well for the next four rounds. But in the 15th, Cruz knocked down the champion twice to take the title.

No mas: Sims ends Duran's hopes of an unprecedented fourth crown

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Robbie Sims of Brockton, Mass., pounded out a 10-round split decision over Roberto Duran Monday night and ruined the Panamanian's chances of earning another shot at winning an unprecedented fourth world title.

Sims, the brother of undisputed middleweight champion Marvelous Marvin Hagler, remained in middleweight title contention with the victory in 10-degree temperatures at a 15,000-seat outdoor stadium at Caesars Palace.

"If the people in the press want me coming back, I'll come back," Duran said after losing to Sims.

But even if he continues to fight, it seems that Duran, a former triple champion, will no longer be a factor in the middleweight division. He began a comeback in January in hopes of getting a rematch with Hagler, who beat him Nov. 10, 1983.

Sims seemed to build his winning margin over the first five rounds. Duran's best punch in the first half of the fight was his left jab.

Then the 35-year-old Duran, who weighed 159, began to find the range with hard shots to the head in the sixth round, and the fight was very close going into the final round.

Sims, 159½, put the pressure on Duran from the outset in the 10th round and although he was rocked by two rights, he had Duran in trouble in the second half of the round.

Judges Art Lurie saw it 96-94 for Duran, but Jerry Roth had it 95-94 and Bill Graham 97-92, both for Sims.

Sims now will fight James Kin-chen, probably in September, and a victory there could put him in line for a title shot.

But he won't fight for the middleweight championship until his brother Hagler retires or is beaten.

The 25-year-old Sims is now 26-4-1 with 19 knockouts. Duran, who is 79-7 with 59 knockouts, held the lightweight, World Boxing Council welterweight and World Boxing Association junior middleweight titles. He lost a bid for the middleweight title against Hagler on Nov. 10, 1983 on a 15-round decision and was knocked out in the second round by Thomas Hearns on June 15, 1984.

Duran began a comeback last January and had fought twice before Monday night.

ROBBIE SIMS Split decision

Hearns TKOs Medal, but injures his hand

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Thomas Hearns knocked down Mark Medal in the first round, then suffered a broken right hand in the second before retaining the World Boxing Council super-welterweight title when the ringside physician stopped the fight in the eighth round at Caesars Palace Monday night.

Hearns took target practice for most of the fight and in the eighth, referee Davey Pearl of Los Angeles summoned Dr. Filip Homanski into the ring to examine Medal's left eye, which was closed. Homanski then told Pearl to stop the fight at 2:20 of the eighth round.

Hearns' victory closed out a tripleheader watched by 12,000 people at a 15,000-seat arena in 100-degree heat.

Hearns knocked down Medal with a right hand and a left to the head at 1:29 of the first. After a standing eight count, Hearns, who weighed the class limit of 154, as did Medal, couldn't finish the challenger.

Hearns also shook Medal several more times in succeeding rounds and it appeared he could end the fight whenever he wanted to.

The crowd booed throughout the fight and continued to boo after it was announced Hearns might have broken his hand. If the hand is broken, it would be a setback to his hopes to fight an undisputed middleweight champion Marvelous Marvin Hagler again.

But the future is not certain because Hagler might fight Sugar Ray Leonard.

State's prosecutor says cocaine found in Bias' dorm room

By TOM STUCKEY
The Associated Press

UPPER MERIDEN, Md. — A preliminary investigation indicates "that cocaine was involved in the death of Len Bias," a state prosecutor said Monday.

Arthur Marshall, state's attorney for Prince George's County, said he was convinced that cocaine was present in the dormitory room where Bias collapsed early Thursday morning, just two days after he was selected by the Boston Celtics as the second player taken in the NBA draft.

Marshall said field tests showed that a glassine envelope found in the car of the 22-year-old University of Maryland basketball star contained cocaine. He said the test, while not admissible as evidence in court, is usually accurate.

Marshall also said he has been told that traces of cocaine were

Jesse Jackson to mourners: 'You cannot judge Lenny on the basis of his last shot'

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Keynoting a moving public tribute to Len Bias, the Rev. Jesse Jackson moved to blunt the talk of drugs that casts a shadow over the death of the basketball superstar.

"You cannot judge Lenny, or any other player, on the basis of his last shot," Jackson told a crowd of about 11,000 Monday night in sweltering Cole Field House.

Noting there was what he called "loose talk" in recent days about drugs, Jackson said, "We must go on what we know. Leonard cannot talk for himself. Now, he deserves to rest."

"We gather not just to mourn a life that would have been," Jackson said, "but to celebrate the life that was... the legacy that lives in this field house."

At the outset of his talk, Jackson called for a standing ovation on behalf of Maryland's all-time leading scorer who collapsed last Thursday and died of cardiac arrest.

The crowd applauded steadily, almost politely, for about 2½ minutes, with few cheers. The noise reached its peak when Bias' parents walked to the podium in the middle of the field house.

The biggest cheer, the kind usually reserved for athletic conduct, came when Maryland coach Lefty Driesell announced that, one will ever wear No. 34 again in a Maryland uniform."

Although the numbers of seven previous Maryland All-American basketball players are suspended from a catwalk high above the floor, Bias' No. 34 will be the first ever retired by the Terps.

Arnold "Red" Auerbach, the president of the NBA champion Boston Celtics, then presented Bias' parents with the No. 30 jersey he would have worn with the Celtics.

charges against the person who supplied the drugs.

Marshall conferred Monday with Alan Goldstein, a lawyer who represents David Gregg and Terry Long, two teammates who were with Bias in the dorm room the morning he died.

Marshall said field tests showed that a glassine envelope found in the car of the 22-year-old University of Maryland basketball star contained cocaine. He said the test, while not admissible as evidence in court, is usually accurate.

Marshall also said he has been told that traces of cocaine were found in a urine sample tested at the hospital where Bias was pronounced dead last Thursday.

The prosecutor said, however, that he doesn't know what caused Bias' death and doesn't know if cocaine was a contributing factor.

Marshall said at a news conference held on the steps of the county courthouse that he will go ahead with a criminal investigation into the events surrounding Bias' death and will begin presenting evidence to the grand jury next Tuesday.

The investigation will initially focus on who supplied illegal drugs and who used them as Bias, his teammates and friends spent the early morning hours celebrating the realization of his dream to play with the Celtics, Marshall said.

If the state medical examiner determines that cocaine was responsible for the cardiac arrest, the prosecutor said it is possible that he might bring manslaughter after completing his sophomore season.

"Driesell first came under fire following the Veal incident. After the woman charged Veal with the sex offense, Driesell allegedly telephoned the student three times on March 5, 1983. The woman was quoted in local newspapers as saying that Driesell told her that her "name would be dragged through the mud" if she did not drop her complaint against Veal.

Driesell facing hard questions over his embattled Maryland program

By DAVID GINSBURG
The Associated Press

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — The death of All-American Len Bias is the latest in a series of controversies and scandals that have dogged University of Maryland basketball Coach Lefty Driesell, who now must contend with a grand jury and questions about alleged drug use on the team.

Driesell, 54, has not had a losing season since his first year as a college coach at Davidson in 1960. He is one of only 17 coaches to win 500 games with 10 or more years at a Division I school, and in his 17-year career at Maryland his teams have won 20 games on 11 different occasions while finishing in the Associated Press Top 20 eight times.

But Driesell's tenure has been spotted by a controversy. Most recently there has been speculation that Driesell instructed players how to respond to questions from reporters and police investigating Bias' death. Driesell denies those rumors, but Prince George's County, Md., State's Attorney Arthur A. Marshall said, "If these rumors are wrong, we'll give him a chance to talk about it (at a grand jury hearing)."

Marshall said preliminary indications are that cocaine was in Bias' car the morning of his death. The prosecutor told The Associated Press this week that he will ask that Driesell, several basketball players and other students and friends answer questions from a grand jury about drug sales on the school's College Park campus.

Since Driesell took over his Maryland program in 1969 his teams have featured many players who went on to star in the NBA. But those squads also included:

• Herman Veal, who was accused of forcing sexual attentions on a coed in her dormitory room. Driesell was later the subject of a review panel after it was alleged he tried to call the student to pressure her to drop the complaint.

• Bias, Jeff Baxter and John Johnson, who were suspended last season for missing curfew.

• And three players, including Bias last Thursday, who have collapsed and died of heart failure either during or after their collegiate careers.

Owen Brown collapsed on Feb. 4, 1976, shortly after his graduation, and Chris Patton died April 1, 1976 of Marfan Syndrome only weeks after completing his sophomore season.

Fregosi signs on with Sox

CHICAGO (AP) — Jim Fregosi says that managers can improve with some minor-league experience, just as players can.

Fregosi, who managed the California Angels from 1978-81, took over Sunday as manager of the Chicago White Sox, succeeding Tony LaRussa, who was fired Friday.

Claiming he sees no reason why the White Sox cannot immediately become competitive in the American League West, Fregosi, 41, said he was ready to return to the major leagues.

"After 3½ years in the minor leagues, I feel now that I can manage in the major leagues," Fregosi said. "I matured. I learned a lot about myself and how to handle players."

The White Sox made Fregosi's debut a success Sunday with a 10-1 victory over the Seattle Mariners.

Fregosi said it was not a difficult decision to accept the job, but "managing is tough. In 1979 we won a division title (at California), the next year we lost 90 games. I was not mature enough to handle it then. Things have changed."

Fregosi came to Chicago from Louisville Saturday night. He had managed the Louisville Redbirds, the Triple A farm club of the St. Louis Cardinals, the past three seasons, winning American Association championships the last two years.

His credentials include playing under such managers as Bill Rigney, Yogi Berra, Gil Hodges and Chuck Tanner, among others.

"You learn something from everyone," Fregosi said.

His current qualifications? "I had 17 of the players who played with the Cardinals in the World Series last year in the minor leagues," he said.

His outlook on the White Sox?

"The team is 9½ games out, that's nothing," he said. "I don't see any reason why we can't turn things around and compete in our division."

He was hired by Ken "Hawk" Harrison, chief of White Sox baseball operations. Fregosi was Harrison's No. 1 choice for the job.

"It's a pleasure to be back in the major leagues, something I have looked forward to," said Fregosi. "It's an honor to be back in the American League where I managed and played."

Fregosi managed the Angels to the American League West title in 1979.

NL: Amazing San Francisco whips Padres, 18-1

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Mike LaCoss, the pitcher picked off baseball's unwanted list by the San Francisco Giants over the winter, joined a team which batted a sickly .233 last season.

LaCoss drove in four runs with a double and his first big league homer on Monday, and the surprising Giants raised their team batting average to .264 with an 18-1 blowout of the San Diego Padres.

"Eighteen runs is something I don't want to get used to. I tried to put it out of my mind. I didn't want to go out to the mound feeling too comfortable and get behind hitters," LaCoss said.

He was successful, pitching a three-hitter, his best performance so far for his new club. The veteran right-hander was released by the Kansas City Royals after last season.

"That definitely was a tainted homer," he admitted, speaking of his fence-clearing drive in the eighth inning off Dane Iorg, an outfielder pitching with the game well out of hand.

"I talked to Dane about the possibility of pitching a few weeks ago, after Vance Law pitched in a game for Montreal. Dane throws batting practice for us and gets the ball over the plate," Padres Manager Steve Boras said.

"Obviously, our bullpen was stretched thin," he added.

The Giants, a last-place team in 1985, took over the National League West lead with a sweep of the Houston Astros over the weekend and stretched their winning streak to five games on Monday.

Houston 7 Cincinnati 6

HOUSTON (AP) — Glenn Davis hit a two-run homer in the bottom of the ninth inning Monday night to power Houston to a 7-6 victory over the Cincinnati Reds as the Astros snapped a four-game losing streak.

Davis' home run, his 15th, came after Phil Garner led off the inning with a single of Ted Power, 35. Larry Andersen, 1-0, got the victory in relief.

Run-scoring singles in the ninth by Buddy Bell and Tony Perez had given the Reds a 6-5 lead.

Tracy Jones led off the Cincinnati ninth with a single. Dave Concepcion's ground ball forced Jones at second. After a walk to Eric Davis, Bell singled in Concepcion. Davis then stole third, for his third theft of the game, and scored when Perez singled to center.

Montreal 5 New York 4

NEW YORK (AP) — Rookie Andres Galaraga singled home the go-ahead run with two out in the 10th inning, and the Montreal Expos reduced New York's lead in the National League East to nine games with a 5-4 victory Monday night over the Mets.

Herm Winningham started the winning rally with a single, was sacrificed to second by George Wright and went to third on a fly ball to deep center field by Mike Fitzgerald. Mets reliever Jesse Orosco, 3-1, was ahead of Galaraga 0-2 before giving up the winning hit, a hard single to the left side.

Tim Burke, 5-2, earned the victory with two innings of scoreless relief. Neither of the former high school

AL: Sutton's 301st win brings Angels within game of first ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Don Sutton won his 301st career game and Doug DeCinces homered Monday night as the California Angels beat Texas 6-4, ending the Rangers' 11-game home winning streak.

Sutton, 6-5, who beat the Rangers last Wednesday for his 300th victory, gave up six hits. He left after giving up a three-run homer to Pete O'Brien with no outs in the sixth.

Reliever Jim Slaton yielded Scott Fletcher's sacrifice fly in the eighth that made it 5-4, and Doug Corbett pitched the final 1½ innings for his sixth save.

The victory moved the Angels within one game of first-place Texas in the American League West.

California broke a scoreless tie in the fourth with an unearned run against Jose Guzman, 6-8. Consecutive fielding errors by third baseman Steve Buechele and shortstop Fletcher put runners on first

New York 11 Boston 3

BOSTON (AP) — Mike Pagliarulo homered, doubled twice and drove in three runs and Dave Winfield broke out of a slump with a pair of doubles and a single, keying a season-high 19-hit attack Monday night that powered the New York Yankees to an 11-3 victory over the Boston Red Sox.

The Yankees, swept in a three-game series with Boston in New York last week, moved within five games of the American League East-leading Red Sox. Boston has lost three of its last four games, all at home.

Don Mattingly and Mike Easter also had three hits apiece for the Yankees, who rapped six doubles and drew 11 walks from four Boston pitchers. Every New York starter had at least one hit.

Dennis "Oil Can" Boyd, 9-5, took the loss.

Kansas City 6 Oakland 3

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — George Brett and Lonnie Smith drove in two runs apiece to lead Kansas City past Oakland 6-3 Monday night, handing the staggering A's their 15th consecutive road defeat.

The A's, with a 20-43 record, are four losses from the American League record for consecutive road defeats.

Tied 3-3 in the sixth, the Royals took the lead when Buddy Biancalana hit a two-out single that pushed Steve Balboni, who had walked, to second. Willie Wilson followed with an infield single, loading the bases, then Doug Bair relieved starter Curt Young, 5-4, and walked Smith to force in Balboni.

Brett then doubled down the right-field line, driving home Biancalana and Wilson.

The A's had tied it 3-3 in the sixth on solo home runs by Carney Lunsford, his seventh, and Dave Kingman, his 17th.

Milwaukee 5 Toronto 3

TORONTO (AP) — Ocell Cooper hit a two-run homer and Ben Oglivie and Ernest Riles added RBI singles Monday night, leading the Milwaukee Brewers over the Toronto Blue Jays 5-3.

Danny Darwin, 4-3, pitched 7½ innings and gave up three runs on 10 hits. Darwin had lost three straight games against Milwaukee since May 1, 1984. Dan Plesac worked the final 1½ innings for his sixth save.

Dave Stieb, 2-8, gave up five runs on 10 hits in seven innings. Stieb struck out five, and his strikeout of Bill Schroder in the first inning was the 1,000 in the right-hander's career.

Milwaukee rapped a total of 13

Freehan-led AL old-timers throttle NL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bill Freehan hit two three-run homers in the third inning to lead the American League to a 19-2 victory over the National League Monday in the Fifth Annual Old Timers Baseball Classic.

Freehan, Tom Tresh and Bobby Doerr each homered off Hoyt Wilhelm in the AL's 14-run third-inning. Freehan's first clout made it 7-1 and his second blast of the frame, off Lindy McDaniel, upped the margin to 16-1.

The AL Stars sent 18 players to the plate in the inning. Eleven of them hit safely, three walked and one reached on an error.

Rocky Colavito's second-inning homer erased a 1-0 NL lead and helped the AL Stars to their first triumph since the initial game was played in 1982.

The emphasis, however, was not on winning.

"Just so no one gets hurt," said Early Wynn, a 300-game winner, before the contest.

"I'm just going to let them hit it as hard as they can and as far as they want," said Wynn, who allowed both batters he faced to reach base.

It began with a simple phone call.
 "Hello, Brian? It's Grandpa."
 "Grandpa! How're you doing?"
 "Fine, great, listen you think you might talk your Mom into letting you loose for a day on the lake?"
 Making connections like these is important to the people at Mountain Bell. That's why we work hard to make sure you never have to give your phone service a second thought. Because even though we handle millions of phone calls every day, none is more important than yours.

 "I'm glad you called, Grandpa."
 "Me too, Brian."

Cowboys' 'B' sale announced

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls Cowboys' American Legion Coach Mike Federico has announced a schedule for his "B" baseball team this summer. Federico has started the B program this year. The Cowboys are the third "A" Legion team in the Southern Region to take such a step; Idaho Falls and Pocatello also have B teams. The Cowboys, who lost twice to Shoshone last week and beat Buhi twice on Sunday, will visit Wood River for a twinnit in Hatley on Wednesday at 6 p.m. and then host Shoshone in a pair on Friday, starting at 7 p.m. The Cowboys will entertain Pocatello at Frontier at 1 p.m. next Sunday, then host the Rebels again starting at 6 p.m. on Tuesday, July 8. On Sunday, July 12, they will host Wood River at 6 p.m., then play the Burley-based Mini-Cassia team at Frontier Field at 6 p.m. on Thursday, July 17. The Cowboys won't participate in the regional B tournament this summer, but Federico said he plans to have a full-fledged B schedule for next season.

T.F.-Minico collide tonight

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Cowboys and the Minico Sage will get together for a rare nine-inning American Legion baseball game tonight at Frontier Field. The 6 p.m. Southern Region meeting between the two Magic Valley "A" Legion teams will be reciprocated by the Sage in Rupert on Tuesday, July 1. Twin Falls and Minico will play a third nine-inning game in Rupert on July 9 and a fourth here on July 25.

Legion tourney postponed

IDAHO FALLS — The regional and state American Legion "B" baseball tournaments have been moved back a week. Alan Phillips, coach of the Idaho Falls team and host for the state tourney, said the new dates for that event are July 31 and Aug. 1-3, a Thursday through Sunday. The tournament had previously been scheduled on July 24-27. That means the Southern Region B tournament, which had been scheduled for July 17-20 in Burley, won't be played until July 24-27. Phillips said the reason for the change was the availability of Idaho Falls' McDermott Field. The extra week will be used for makeup games by most of the Magic Valley Legion teams, although a few teams had scheduled games for that week between the tournament dates were originally scheduled. The Burley-based Mini-Cassia team, for example, will not be able to play a previously scheduled non-conference doubleheader against Twin Falls on July 17 and a non-league twinnit against the Boise Gems in Boise on July 19.

Bigfoot Trail Ride set Sunday

BUHI. — The Chief Bigfoot Trail Ride, canceled June 8 because of rain, has been rescheduled for next Sunday. The ride is scheduled for Clear Lakes, to be followed by a picnic and presentation of awards. Registration will begin at 10 a.m., with the ride to start at noon. Further information can be obtained by phoning Bonnie Rock at 324-3431 or Joe Clark at 549-4879.

CP's rodeo next weekend

JACKPOT — The first adult rodeo ever held at the Cactus Pete's Desert Arena is scheduled for Saturday and Sunday. Between 400 and 500 participants are expected at the Cactus Pete's Desert Stampede. Organizer Zeb Bell recommends that anyone planning to attend the rodeo and stay in Jackpot make reservations soon. Reservations can be made by phoning 1-800-821-1103. Performance times are 1 p.m. both days. There will be calf roping, bareback riding, steer wrestling, saddle bronc riding, bull riding, team roping, barrel racing and ladies' breakaway roping, with $2,000 added money. Stock will be provided by the Slash-1 Rodeo Co. of Shoshone. Further information can be obtained by phoning Bell at 423-4885.

Reds' tryout set Wednesday

TWIN FALLS — The Cincinnati Reds of the National League will hold a tryout camp here Wednesday. The camp, for players aged 16 to 23, will be held at Frontier Field. All players must furnish their own uniforms, shoes, gloves and personal gear. American Legion pitcher Bob James gave up permission from either their Legion coach or post commander in order to participate. Further information can be obtained by phoning CSI baseball Coach Jim Walker at 733-9554.

Continued from Page C3 teammates. New York's Dwight Gooden got Montreal's Floyd Youmans, figured in the decisive of their second matchup in less than a week. Gooden left after six innings for a pinch-hitter, after the Mets had tied it up, having given up four runs in two innings on eight hits in his last three starts, the 8-3 Gooden has a loss and two no-decisions. Youmans also worked six, giving up four earned runs on five hits and five walks.

St. Louis 2 Pittsburgh 1

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Tom Herr, who went 5-for-5, singled home the winning run with the bases loaded in the 11th inning Monday night as the Cardinals rapped out 14 hits in a 2-1 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates. Herr, who had a double and four singles, drove home both straight games, matching its season high.

"Men regard it as their right to return evil for evil - and if they cannot, feel they have lost their liberty."

Tom Spittiger of Mason, Texas, is one of those players who take it as a personal insult when the opponents hold enough high cards to bid a game. He can't walk to even the score. Against today's game, Spittiger, an actor in "Getting Las Vegas," an exciting film shot in Dallas, shows how to go one better than getting even.

At the first table in a team game, South won the trump lead with his 10 and led a low diamond, won by West's ace. West led another trump to dummy's nine, and the club jack lost to West's queen. West led a diamond to dummy's blank king, and a declarer came off dummy with a third trump to lead, South now made his lucky game by discarding two hearts on dummy's clubs and crossing high in hearts and diamonds.

When Tom held the West cards, he led a trump against four spades. However, when South led a diamond at trick two, Tom played his queen instead of his ace (East dropped the jack). After dummy's diamond king won, and a club finesse led to Tom's queen, the lead of Tom's diamond six to East's nine put East on play. East lost no time in shifting to hearts, and a defensive heart winner was established before Tom's ace of clubs was gone.

Bank boosts reserve to cover bad loans

BOISE (AP) — Idaho's largest bank has moved to drastically increase the reserve it maintains to cover bad loans because of the continued depressed condition of the state's cornerstone industries.

"The weaknesses in the economy — in agriculture, mining and timber — have affected all segments of Idaho business," Fred C. Humphreys, chairman and chief executive officer of Idaho First National Bank and its holding company Moore Financial Group, said in a statement.

"The uncertainty of improvement in the economy of Idaho warrants action now," he said.

The bank's board of directors voted to increase the reserve, called the allowance for credit losses, by $25 million at the end of this month, the largest single quarterly expansion of the reserve ever.

The reserve has been hovering around $25 million to $27 million at the end of each of the last several quarters. Following the first quarter, which began with a reserve of just under $27 million, the bank funded another $7.3 million into the fund to maintain it at just over $26 million as the current quarter began in April.

Humphreys emphasized that the increase in the reserve, which will translate into a $2.50 per share second quarter loss for Moore Financial Group, did not stem from any current losses but was spurred by the desire to avoid any unpleasant surprises in the future. Vice President Dianne Pierce also said the move is unrelated to the bank's acquisition this spring of First Bank and Trust of Idaho in Malad City, the first bank to fail in the state in over a quarter century.

"We have increased our risk in credit quality somewhat over the last year by trying to continue to serve long-time customers who are having problems in this tough economy," Humphreys said.

All other elements of earnings, including margin, non-interest income and non-interest expense, continue to perform well and will counteract, to some extent, the negative impact on earnings brought about by the reserve expansion, he said.

Key elements of the plan to operate profitably included substantial additional expense reduction through increased efficiency, and improvement in identifying and working with problem credits.

"We began these measures over a year ago," Humphreys said. "However, the continuing economic problems of the state require that we redouble our efforts. These are major business adjustments that will ensure continuing strength by focusing on the long-term interest of the corporation."

He said the banking corporation remained financially sound with "excellent liquidity and strong positions in cash and high quality short-term government bonds."

The move, Humphreys said, will have no material effect on depositors or on the bank's other subsidiaries in Oregon and Utah, which he said have added diversity to the holding company's financial scheme.

Earlier this week, Ms. Pierce told business leaders in Pocatello that all 26 banks in Idaho have stronger capital foundations than their Midwest counterparts because they have few foreign or energy-related loans and have been, for the most part, conservatively managed.

She said Idaho banks have generally bettered their loan policies on the cash flow status of borrowers rather than on their assets as Midwest western banks have.
