U.S. rejects decision on Nicaragua policy

By GEORGE GEDDA
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Reagan administration, responding to the World Court decision favoring Nicaragua in its conflict with the United States, Friday rejected the panel's opinion that American policy in Central America is inconsistent with international law.

The administration stated long ago that it would not consider itself bound by the World Court decision in the case.

Meanwhile, a lawyer for the Nicaraguan government said he expects that the Sandinistas will seek reparations from the United States in excess of $1 billion based on damages resulting from American backing for the Nicaraguan resistance

Halt Contra aid, pay reparations, World Court says

THE HAGUE, Netherlands — The World Court on Friday branded U.S. support for the Contras a violation of international law, asked Washington to halt all anti-Sandinista military activities, and said America must pay reparations to Nicaragua.

The United States boycotted most of the proceedings, which began 26 months ago. That gave Nicaragua a clear field to charge the United States was a "terrorist state" that was killing Nicaraguan citizens in an attempt to destroy the government and economy.

The World Court, the judicial arm of the United Nations, has no enforcement powers. It depends on voluntary compliance with its rulings by states coming before it.

Court President Nagendra Singh of India told a packed courtroom in the Peace Palace that "the court has found that the arming and training of the Contras is a violation of the prohibition of the use of force (in the U.N. Charter)."

He added, two days after the U.S. House approved $100 million in Contra aid, that "the financing ontras undoubtedly constitutes intervention" by the United States in Nicaragua's domestic affairs.

Quest begins to tap savings of $40 billion

By CLIFF HAAS
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The nearly $1 trillion fiscal 1987 spending plan Congress approved Friday is only the beginning of a struggle to find about $40 billion in savings necessary to avoid automatic spending cuts that could be required later this year under a new budget-balancing law.

"If I implemented the savings in this budget, and if we're vigilant to make additional savings, and if this sends a signal to the financial marketplace that we're serious about deficits, then we will not hit the wall of those automatic cuts," Rep. William H. Gray III, D-Pa., chairman of the House Budget Committee, said about 10 hours after Congress completed work on the budget blueprint for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1.

The package, which does not require the president's signature, serves as a guide for Congress as it makes spending and tax decisions.

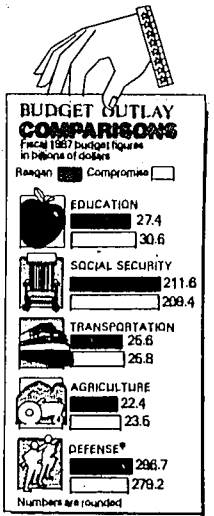

But as Congress began its two-week Fourth of July recess, there was grumbling about the many artificial devices included in the $95 billion budget to enable it to meet a required $144 billion deficit target for next year.

"This resolution . . . is loaded with smoke and mirrors and gas and loud speakers. We've put into budgets to try to make them attractive for ourselves," said Rep. Bill Frenzel, R-Minn.

"I'm not here tonight extremely proud of this product, but I'm satisfied," Sen. Pete V. Domenici, R-N.M., chairman of the Senate Budget Committee said at about midnight Thursday, shortly before a virtually deserted Senate passed the package on a voice vote.

The House had approved the package, 333-13, less than an hour earlier.

The House vote also had the effect of raising the national debt limit — the federal government's limit of American farm exports now trailing imports

By TOM RAUM
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The nation's merchandise trade deficit widened to $14.2 billion in May from $12.1 billion the month before, with agricultural imports surpassing exports for the first time in more than two decades, the government said Friday.

Analysts said a recent decline in major grain exports, partly due to a worldwide wheat surplus, contributed to the unexpected agricultural shortfall. Agricultural trade has traditionally been one of the few categories in the trade report to consistently show strong U.S. surpluses.

Agricultural imports consist largely of processed foods, like coffee, wine, cheese and chocolates, whereas U.S. exports are made up largely of grains and other raw commodities.

Friday's Commerce Department report showed that, once again, the turnaround in the trade deficit expected from a weakening U.S. dollar has yet to materialize.

"In the second half of the year, the effects of a lower dollar will help to improve the deficit. However, a pickup in the pace of foreign economic growth is necessary to bring world trade into better balance," said Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige.

Private economists cited Baldrige's comments.

"The world market isn't going anywhere. Basically, nobody's buying," said David Wyss, senior financial economist for Data Resources Inc., a private economic consulting firm. "The rest of the world is still very sluggish. There's nobody to sell to." The Commerce Department said agricultural imports totaled $2.2 billion in May, compared to exports of $1.9 billion — for a deficit of $348.7 million. In April, farm exports had totaled $2.1 billion and imports $1.9 billion.

"This year has been particularly lousy for major grains. Exports have crept down each month. Russia hasn't bought any wheat since before February and Brazil is growing its own, with a record high harvest," said Gerald F. Kotwas, an analyst

Federal judge in Boise signs stay of execution for Gibson

By QUANE KENYON
The Associated Press

BOISE — A federal judge here signed a stay of execution Friday for convicted slayer Thomas Gibson, 34, five days before he was to be executed for a 1980 murder.

U.S. District Judge Marlon Callister granted Gibson a stay of execution while he presses his federal court claim that his civil rights were violated in state courts.

Gibson had been scheduled for execution by lethal injection at 12:10 a.m. on Wednesday. But prison officials said they anticipated the stay, and wouldn't have gotten into serious preparations until the weekend.

Gibson was one of two Spokane,

Wash., motorcycle club members convicted and sentenced to die for the strangulation slaying six years ago this week of Kimberly Ann Palmer, 18, of Spokane.

Prosecutors alleged she was killed by Gibson and Donald Paradis to keep her from testifying about the slaying of her boy friend, Scott Currier.

Gibson, from Josephine County, Ore., and Paradis, of Spokane, later were acquitted of killing Currier, in a trial moved from Spokane to Seattle because of pretrial publicity. But later, in separate Idaho trials, both were convicted of killing Palmer.

First District Judge Gary Haman sentenced both men to death in 1981, and they have been appealing in the five years since then.

Both men have completed state court action. Both press similar arguments against their Idaho convictions, keyed to the claims that Palmer actually was killed at Paradis' Spokane home in Washington and Idaho has no jurisdiction.

Prosecutors claimed at the trials that the woman was carried to an area near Post Falls, in northern Idaho's Kootenai County, and did not die until she was dumped in a stream near where Currier's body was found tied in a sleeping bag.

Both the Paradis and Gibson appeals argue that their constitutional rights were abridged when Palmer body was cremated a few days after a state autopsy.

Portable radios will pick up Sousa beat for July 4 marchers

The Associated Press

WINDHAM, Conn. — Participants in this year's Independence Day parade will be marching to the beat of a different drummer.

Organizers, who have been unable to line up a band, instead are asking the town's 200 residents that will play John Philip Sousa music as they strut down Main Street.

"I look at this as sort of an alternate way of having a parade. This will be a slice of America," Kathleen Clark declared on Friday.

People who usually watch other parades will be the stars of this one, Mrs. Clark said. She is encouraging people to form marching units such as the "baby-boomer strummer unit," the "skateboard unit," and the "senior citizens unit."

Although hesitant at first, Norman agreed. Mrs. Clark went to Town Hall, got a parade permit and paid $75 of her own money to hire the two police officers required for a public march.

Mrs. Clark first envisioned the parade as loosely organized and a kind of joke. But now she, some friends and WILL are giving the parade some structure and taking it more seriously. They met Friday to form their plans.

The first 100 people to show up carrying radios and dressed in blue jeans and white shirts will be given red, white and blue vests. They will be asked to be part of the "Official Marching Radio Band" that will lead off the parade.

for the Census Bureau.

Not since 1959 have agricultural imports exceeded exports, according to Agriculture Department analyst Tom Warden.

However, Warden said the Agriculture Department still anticipates a trade surplus in agriculture products for 1986 of about $7.5 billion — down from $11.4 billion in 1985.

On Capitol Hill, Democratic and Republican leaders alike expressed alarm with the trade report.

"Something is radically wrong when the greatest food producer in the world is buying more agricultural commodities than it is selling," said Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., in a statement. "This trend simply cannot continue."

Said Senate Minority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va.: "If this is the administration's idea of a turnaround in trade, I can tell you it sets a direction that Congress can't tolerate." Byrd noted that another Commerce Department report earlier this week had said that the United States had surpassed Brazil as the world's largest debtor nation.

Rep. Tony Coelho, D-Calif., said the report underscores that "our farmers are operating in a situation worse than the dust bowl. Only this time, world markets are blowing away instead of just dirt."

And Jerry Jasnowski, chief economist for the National Association of Manufacturers, said the report will increase pressure on the Senate to pass protectionist legislation. The House has already approved far-reaching trade bill which the Reagan administration has branded protectionist and threatened to veto.

"The lousy trade numbers mean that it is highly unlikely that we will get any relief on the trade front this year. It puts a dark cloud over forecasts for an economic rebound," Jasnowski said.

Budget—Reject

In the budget proposals he sent to Congress in February.

Congress' budget contains a contingency fund of $1.8 billion for next year to cover "unforeseen critical needs," if the president requests and Congress approves taxes, user fees, asset sales or further cuts to offset the additional spending. Up to $3 billion of the fund could go for "contingency spending."

In Santa Barbara, Calif., where Reagan is vacationing, White House spokesman Larry Speakes issued a statement saying the president found the overall budget "generally acceptable," but added the package "would alter the president's priorities."

The resolution "cut too much from defense and international affairs in fiscal year 1987 and is way too limiting" for future years, Speakes said.

The spokesman said the resolution increases domestic spending by more than the president recommended, but he welcomed the fact that the conference report did not call for a tax increase and met Gramm-Rudman deficit-reduction targets.

Meeting those targets is what is worrying legislators.

On paper, the budget achieves a deficit of $12.4 billion, compared to the $14 billion target. Last year's budget-balancing law requires across-the-board cuts to meet the target.

It will take about $40 billion in savings to reach the deficit target, and the budget assumes some savings — such as sales of federal assets — that Congress has not indicated a willingness to go along with. In addition, the budget is based on economic assumptions that some have said are too optimistic.

Rep. Jamie L. Whitten, D-Miss., chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, complained that the budget "is counting on completely unreasonable estimates or assumptions. On the face of it, they can't happen."

Congress, which was more than two months late in approving the budget under Gramm-Rudman deadlines, will have little time left to carry out the objectives of the spending plan when legislators return from their recess on July 14.

An estimate of how Congress is doing in meeting the deficit target is due Aug. 15. Despite a court challenge to the triggering mechanism for the automatic cuts, there is a fallback provision in the budget law requiring Congress to make the cuts if the trigger is thrown out.

sponsored warfare in Nicaragua have caused more than $1 billion in damage, for which he said the U.S. government is liable.

Abram Chaves, a Harvard University professor, said Nicaragua will base its claim for reparations on international treaties the United States has signed.

He called the ruling a "landmark case, a starting point for all thinking."

Chaves added: "I am confident this is a law abiding country. I am sure that in the fullness of time, the American people will reject a policy that involves the flouting of international law."

Nicaraguan Ambassador Carlos Tunnerman said that, based on the court's opinion, his country has emerged as a "moral power."

Redman said the issue involves differing interpretations of the facts.

The House voted Wednesday night to approve President Reagan's request for $70 million in military aid and $30 million in humanitarian aid to the rebels fighting to oust the Sandinista government in Nicaragua.

Contract proposal up for vote

SEATTLE (AP) — Negotiators in the bitter, two-week strike against Weyerhaeuser Co. by 7,500 millworkers and loggers in Washington and Oregon agreed Friday to send a contract proposal to union members for a ratification vote.

"The proposal 'is not a negotiated settlement. It is a final offer,'" said Oliver McMillan, International Woodworkers of America spokesman in Portland, Ore. "It is going out without (union leadership) recommendation."

A statement from both sides said the proposal "accommodates certain concerns raised by the unions while at the same time preserving the key elements of the company's June 10 final offer."

Peru police execute inmates

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Police who crushed a rebellion by left-wing inmates at three Lima-area prisons killed about 100 prisoners in the Lurizanchu penitentiary after they had surrendered, President Alan Garcia said Friday.

Government officials have said the inmates seized control of the prisons on Wednesday, June 18, and in the police assault that followed that night some 250 prisoners were killed.

Garcia said the rebels who had surrendered were ordered out of the cell blocks, told to lie on the ground and then were shot in the head.

Airline merger wins clearance

WASHINGTON (AP) — An administrative law judge at the Transportation Department recommended Friday that Northwest Airlines be allowed to proceed with its $884 million acquisition of Republic Airlines.

"The proposed merger... has not been found to substantially reduce competition in any relevant market or to be contrary to the public interest and should be approved," Judge Ronnie Yoder wrote.

The merger of the two Minneapolis-based carriers would create the nation's fifth-largest airline.

Rains swamp coastal regions

PORT ARTHUR, Texas (AP) — Thousands of residents of coastal areas hit by Hurricane Bonnie were still without electricity Friday and heavy rain continued to batter some areas, while other people returned to homes damaged by the storm's heavy rain and high winds.

Bonnie struck the Texas coast before dawn Thursday, spinning off tornadoes and killing two people. Thunderstorms covered large sections of eastern Texas and western Louisiana later in the day, dumping 10 to 13 inches of rain in some areas, the National Weather Service said.

The hurricane lost much of its punch after moving over land and was downgraded to a tropical depression.

Capsule sale ban takes effect

SEATTLE (AP) — A state-wide, 90-day ban on the sale of over-the-counter capsule medicines took effect Friday, but officials hoping to cut the risk of eye poisonings warned that not all stores had removed the capsules.

Seaside-King County inspectors hoped to check about 450 stores Friday, after finding capsule medicines in about 30 percent of the 467 stores they checked the day before, said Dr. Bud Nicola, county health director.

Phone workers return to job

Management and customers welcomed members of AT&T's largest union back to work Friday after a 26-day strike, greeting some with balloons and posters or coffee and doughnuts.

Among other things, the 155,000 long-distance operators, installers, sales personnel and equipment plant workers won an 8 percent pay raise, spread over three years, and job security guarantees they considered vital in an industry in which American workers are being replaced by automation and overseas labor.

Peterson cites fire center

BOISE (AP) — Max Peterson, head of the U.S. Forest Service, has given the Boise Interagency Fire Center the distinguished service award, the highest award given by the U.S. Agriculture Department.

Peterson, who was in Boise Friday to present the award, said it was given for the center's successful fire season last summer, in which the center saved 50,000 people and land from fires. That is five times the normal number.

Lemphis bid cost $52,000

BOISE (AP) — Chuck Lemphis, who on Tuesday becomes campaign manager for Republican governor candidate David Leroy, spent nearly $52,000 in his unsuccessful campaign for the GOP lieutenant governor nomination.

Lemphis filed his primary election report with the secretary of state's office on Friday. Bobette Chapman, Boise, who lost the GOP state treasurer's nomination, also filed her report, showing she received $11,181 and spent $10,981 in the campaign.

Of her contributions, $5,392 came from the candidate and her husband, state Sen. Gary Chapman, R-Boise.

Lemphis' report showed he received $7,892 between May 12 and June 20 and spent $8,581 in the same period. For the campaign, Lemphis received $53,072 and spent $51,898.

The Lemphis campaign showed a balance of $1,174 and about $3,000 in unpaid bills, for printing, travel expense and rent.

Simplot closing down plant

POCATELLO (AP) — By Sunday night, 400 of the 540 employees at the J.R. Simplot Co. fertilizer plant west of here are expected to be on a six-week furlough, triggered by a declining farm economy.

The plant started Thursday preparing for the first summer shutdown in the 42 years it has been in operation. Employees should be back on the job by the end of the week of Aug. 4, said Rocky Godwin, plant manager.

Half of the ammonia plant, however, will continue to function to balance inventories, contrary to original plans. That means 30 less people will be laid off than anticipated five weeks ago.

Pocatello imposes street fee

POCATELLO (AP) — Effective Tuesday, Pocatello residents will be paying about $5 a month more for a new city street utility fee and higher water rates.

Opponents vow the street fee will never be collected. "We'll do everything legally and lawfully possible to lift this additional tax burden from the backs of Pocatello citizens," said Wayne Barlow of the Help Eliminate Pocatello's Pathology (HELPP) committee.

HELPP also labeled the street fee the "Chuck Moss Road Tax." Moss was city manager last year when the council began considering the street fee.

Idahoans propose bill to guard river

WASHINGTON (AP) — Idaho's U.S. senators have introduced legislation which they say will protect the Henry's Fork of the Snake River in northeastern Idaho without putting it into the national Wild and Scenic Rivers System.

Senators James McClure and Steve Symms on Friday introduced a bill banning hydroelectric projects, with one exception, on more than 60 miles of the Henry's Fork, from Henry's Lake to the backwaters of Ashton Reservoir. It also covers that section of the Henry's Fork originating at Big Springs, and tributaries within a half mile of their confluence with the Snake.

Democrats have been urging studies of the Henry's Fork to determine which sections might be preserved under the Wild and Scenic Rivers Act. Republican leaders have argued they don't want the river to be put under the restrictive federal laws.

"I think this legislation will preserve the quality of the river in a way that is acceptable to just about everyone," said McClure, in a news release. "It will protect the outstanding fishing that the Henry's Fork has to offer, it will not infringe upon existing water rights" and it won't bring restrictive federal management rules to nearby state and private land, he said.

"Wild and Scenic designation isn't necessary for the Henry's Fork," said Symms. "It would put greater control of the river in the hands of the federal bureaucracy, and could put federal agencies in a position to tell the state and private landowners how to manage our land."

The legislation bans the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission from approving any new hydroelectric projects on about 60.9 miles of the river. It makes an exception for existing structures on the Henry's Fork, which the senators said would allow the Fall River Rural Electric Cooperative to pursue a proposed hydro project at Island Park Dam.

The senators said the bill specifies that the Fall River project can be approved only if it is shown that there will be no significant or permanent alteration of stream flow, habitat or water quality or temperature.

Authorities identified the dead as Juan Mejia, 22, Eugenio Lopez, age unavailable, both citizens of Mexico.

Injured was Roberto Cruz, age unavailable, who was in stable condition at St. Alphonsus Regional Medical Center. Also injured were Pablo Martinez, 30, and Roberto DeLeon, 22, who both were in fair condition at West Valley Medical Center in Caldwell, authorities said. Police said the injured also were Mexican citizens.

All five people were thrown from the pickup truck and none was wearing seat belts, police said.

Derailment closes UP track 6 hours

MOUNTAIN-HOME (AP) — Union Pacific Railroad crews repaired damage caused by a five-car derailment Friday morning and had the main line open by 2 p.m.

Railroad spokesman Dick Tincher, Salt Lake City, said five cars of a freight train went off the tracks about 5:30 a.m. about four miles west of Mountain Home, a broken draw bar on one of the cars was blamed for the derailment.

The cars, carrying lumber and pulp boards, did not overturn, Tincher said. But an Amtrak passenger train was held at Mountain Home until the tracks were cleared more than eight hours later.

Gooding Hospital 'doomed,' says Campbell

By JANE ROBINSON
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — No amount of tax money will save Gooding Hospital, said the administrator of St. Benedict's Family Medical Center in Jerome.

"Health care as we know it in Idaho is doomed," said Bob Campbell Thursday during a meeting of the Idaho Health Systems Agency. "Gooding shouldn't have a hospital, and Jerome shouldn't have a hospital, or at least a full-service hospital. People need to decide how much they can afford."

And Campbell said "no amount of tax money is going to save Gooding Hospital."

Gooding County Memorial Hospital is teetering on the brink of closure despite voter approval in May to form a hospital taxing district. Officials revealed they may not be able to transfer between $200,000-$400,000 in debts and liabilities to the new hospital district.

A time lag between assessing taxes in the new hospital district and when money starts actually coming in is also causing concern in Gooding.

Campbell said the only thing that will save Gooding is when the community decides what kind of system it can afford, and coordinates and plans for it. He said it may be that the community can support only an emergency center.

Currently, the 49-bed hospital is only running at 20 percent capacity.

Gooding's administrator, Dr. Duane Cutright, said on Friday that since 64 percent of the people voted to form the hospital district, "I guess they think the hospital is needed."

Cutright did leave open the possibility, however, that Gooding Hospital may eventually be just an emergency center.

"It's not out of the realm, but right now, we're not going to do it," he said.

Campbell said his hospital, Gooding and Magic Valley Regional, said he had had some discussions on the types of services they can jointly enter to save all three money and still provide medical care to rural areas.

Specifically, Campbell said, Gooding, Jerome and MYVRC are studying whether to consolidate ambulance service.

But Campbell said his main concern was not whether small rural hospitals would be around, but whether the elderly and indigent will have access to medical care.

"There is a gap in society right now in caring for the indigent," Campbell said. "There are needs, but no means, and it's not being addressed, and I'm afraid for these people."

Campbell said the only way to take care of the really needy was through taxation.

Bike-Aid cyclists wait around their support vehicle for the rest of the group to pedal into Twin Falls

Bike-Aid pedals to aid the hungry

Coalition teaches farming techniques

By CLAUDINE CHAMBERLAIN
Times-News intern

TWIN FALLS — It started with Band Aid. Shortly after that came Live Aid, Farm Aid and several other charitable organizations. The latest aid is Bike-Aid, six groups of bicyclists who are pedaling across the country to raise money for world hunger.

Groups of bikers varying in number left Los Angeles, San Diego, San Francisco, Portland and Seattle in mid-June. Each group will follow a different route leading to Washington, D.C., by Aug. 5. The entire group will then travel to New York, where they plan to visit the United Nations Building.

A goal of $3,000 per cyclist has been set for the fundraiser. The participants tried to raise $3,000 each in pledges before the trip began. Other money is made by donations and T-shirt sales.

Thursday night, the 11-member Portland group stopped in Twin Falls for the night. Ten of the members had been biking since Portland, and one Boise man joined up with the group in Ontario, Ore.

Although Bike-Aid is a cross-country effort, many bikers will be joining one of the six groups for short periods of time, anywhere from two hours to two weeks. Many of the bikers will stay with their groups for the entire trip.

Bike-Aid is a fund-raising project initiated by the Overseas Development Network, a coalition of over-10 chapters on college campus in the U.S., with headquarters on the Harvard and Stanford university campuses. Some of the bikers are regularly involved in ODN, and some are just riding for charity.

ODN is an organization that helps to curb world hunger, but in a much different way than the more recent, highly publicized efforts. "The main goal of ODN is to educate people so they can help themselves. They know what their needs are better than we do, they just need some help getting their feet off the ground," said cyclist Rafael Heller.

The organization is aimed at helping people learn to help themselves. Instead of just sending food to Third World nations and poverty-stricken areas, it sets up programs to teach the people farming techniques and other ways they can improve their communities.

One of the most successful ODN projects was in Zimbabwe farming, an area that has shown great improvement since the program started, Heller said.

ODN is about three years old and has been practicing its theory of self-help on foreign and domestic soil. One U.S. program is in the Appalachian area of West Virginia, helping with the area's illiteracy problems is the main goal of this project.

"Biking is a great fund-raiser because it represents the kind of self-help that ODN encourages. It's a very self-motivated mode of transportation," said cyclist Laura Weiss, stressing the hands-on experience of biking over the enclosed atmosphere of car travel.

Another aspect of the program is the emphasis on long-term improvement through education of the people. "The best thing about the program is that it works directly with the people, instead of getting involved with the bureaucracy of government. The people we help have to be independently motivated," Heller said.

The leader of the Portland group is Stanford student Bing Tso. The group expects to pick up a few more pedalers on the way to Washington, as well as lose a few, due to fatigue.

Because the group is a non-profit organization, the cyclists cannot afford the money for publicity that has characterized other charity efforts. "The only coverage we get is what the newspapers will write, or from TV and radio. So far, it's been great," Weiss said.

The group has been averaging 60-70 miles a day, stopping at about 5 p.m. every night to visit with local people and stay the night at various churches, YMCAs and campgrounds. They have been preventing a slide show at the towns they stop in, but are in the process of revamping the message of the show. "We wanted to put more of our inner philosophy into the presentation," said Heller.

Dirty water confusion has towns boiling

By JANE ROBINSON
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The state Division of Environment is trying to heat up steam over its Div policy on issuing boil-water orders, a policy that has caused confusion and some consternation among area mayors and city officials.

Confusion bubbled to the surface this week after four Magic Valley communities — Hagerman, Bliss, Bellevue and Oakley — learned their water was contaminated. But in at least two cases, residents did not learn of a problem until after it was corrected.

"If people get sick, the liability rests with the supplier, not us," said Mike McMasters, field officer with the Division of Environment in Twin Falls. "That's one of the reasons we changed our policy. I think in the past, people thought it was our responsibility."

The confusion is the result of a new policy instituted by the state Department of Health and Welfare's Division of Environment. Under the old policy, the division notified the news media to warn users to boil their water at least five minutes when contamination was discovered. Under the old system, officials also took two samples before issuing the order.

Now, however, division officials are notifying cities and leaving it up to city officials to notify their customers.

McMasters said the division cannot force water suppliers to issue boil-water notices. But if suppliers do not inform customers, they will be violating the law and will be subject to fines, he said.

"Our main goal with this change is to assure that the public's health is protected," McMasters said. "But we also want to assure that suppliers are assuming responsibility for the sanitary quality of their systems."

McMasters admitted there was confusion over when and how suppliers must issue boil-water notices.

Bellevue Mayor Dale Everson said on Wednesday that he understood it was his responsibility to issue a notice to customers. But Everson said he did not think he had to issue a notice until he received a written notice from the division.

Division officials said they notified Everson on Sunday that lab samples sent by Bellevue's water was contaminated. But Everson said on Wednesday he still was awaiting written notice.

Because of that confusion, Bellevue residents were unaware they needed to boil their water until last Wednesday. But the bacteria was discovered in the city's water system.

Hagerman officials, too, said they did not need to notify customers until they received written notice.

But Gary Burkett, environmental engineer with the division, said his phone call to suppliers to notify them of contamination problems is "an official notice."

McMasters said he will be sending an advisory letter to all area water suppliers soon to explain the new policy.

McMasters also said that, as of Thursday, all four water systems were running clean again. Authorization to cancel boil-water notices was issued Thursday to Bellevue and Oakley, he said. Hagerman's notice was issued Tuesday.

Farm labor camp passes inspection

By PAT MARGANTONIO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Labor Center south of Twin Falls was inspected Tuesday by a representative of the Wage and Hour Division of the U.S. Labor Department, and no "major troubles" were found, said the center's board chairman.

A regional official of the division said Thursday that an inspection of camps for migrant farm workers wasn't unusual because it was the agency's statutory responsibility. But he admitted that the division hadn't inspected the Twin Falls Labor Center for more than 10 years.

The board of directors of the Labor Center already is wrestling with money problems, and is attempting to get the aged camp back on its feet financially and physically.

Board Chairman Dan Shewmaker of Kimberly said Thursday that the inspection by the Labor Department revealed "no major troubles." The inspector, Carol Lake of Boise, could not be reached for comment Thursday.

Ralph Knight, Lake's supervisor and the assistant area director with the Wage and Hour Division office in Portland, Ore., said he didn't know the results of the inspection or what sparked the inspection. He also said Lake could have been conducting an investigation there over specific allegations, but didn't know if that was the case.

It was department policy not to disclose the source of any allegations resulting in inspections or investigations, Knight said.

Shewmaker said that Lake told him the department had had some inquiries about the status of the camp.

Knight said it was not unusual for the Wage and Hour Division to inspect migrant camps, because it is responsible for such inspections of migrant housing centers under a federal act. Yet, he admitted that the division hadn't conducted an inspection of the Twin Falls camp in more than 10 years, which is as far back as its records reach.

"That didn't necessarily mean the camp hadn't been inspected by the Labor Department in all that time, he added.

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration, and Employment Training Administration, all within the U.S. Department of Labor, also inspect migrant labor centers because they are responsible for enforcing other statutes involving housing of migrant and seasonal farm workers, Knight said.

The three agencies have a cooperative agreement on inspecting the centers to avoid duplicating services, with OSHA probably doing the majority of inspections, he said.

OSHA officials reported that they had inspected the Twin Falls camp in 1984.

Seattle officials from the Employment Training Administration couldn't be reached for comment Thursday.

After this week's inspection, Lake had recommended adding nine light bulbs to the roofs of some of the barracks and replacing broken window panes, Shewmaker said.

She also mentioned the need for an additional water heater because the women's showers didn't have enough hot water, he added. The heater, however, may be with the size of the pipe and not with the heater, he said.

Shewmaker said Lake will return in about three weeks to check on the progress of the repairs.

Shewmaker said that he had been concerned about the inspection. "I didn't know what to expect. But she (Lake) was very willing to work with us," Shewmaker said.

The costs of the proposed repairs will be paid from the rent of the 10 families now residing at the center, he added. He did not have any estimates on those costs, however.

The board is struggling to keep the

Backscatter radar will multiply bucks

MOUNTAIN HOME (AP) — A new $3.8 million radar operations center at Mountain Home Air Force Base is expected to add $7 million to the local payroll, an Air Force spokesman said.

A ground-breaking ceremony was scheduled Friday afternoon for what will be the center of the Tactical Air Command's Overseas Development Network, a coalition of over-10 chapters on college cam-and civilian people, who will operate computers and display equipment processing radar signals to help identify and track aircraft.

Tyson said the radar will provide early warning of aircraft approaching North America at distances of up to 1,800 nautical miles. The Backscatter technique allows the radar system to see beyond the horizon, or line-of-sight system for the West, said Capt. James Tyson, public affairs director at Mountain Home Air Force Base.

Middle school wanted but where a problem

By MICHAEL VANAUDELIN
Times-News correspondent

SHOSHONE — Despite overwhelming support for the academic advantages of a "middle school" for the Shoshone School District, parents expressed concern at a public meeting Thursday with the "facility problems of having a middle school," said Elementary Principal Dan Pagoga.

More than 40 parents attended the meeting to discuss a proposal to form a middle school for students in grades six, seven and eight. Under the proposal, sixth-grade students would move from the elementary school to the high school building to form the middle school.

Currently, the Shoshone School District has no junior high, forcing grades seven through 12 to be located in the same building. The middle school proposal calls for specific teachers to be assigned as "home room" advisers for each age group. The plan also calls for the middle school to have its own activities, including sports.

Pagoga called the meeting "fairly open" and said that no decisions had been made yet but he thought the School Board would "sit on it (the proposal) for a while."

Pagoga projected that the board would begin to make a decision by

Juvenile prisoner fakes illness, flees from Minidoka County Jail

RUPEIT - A juvenile prisoner faked an illness and escaped early Friday morning from the Minidoka County Jail, triggering a search by police. The boy, age 15 or 16, was still at large late on Friday, police said.

However, Twin Falls County sheriff's deputies apparently narrowly missed capturing the escapee later in the day at a house in Twin Falls, said Chief Deputy Harold Jensen. A deputy checking the house was told he was not there, but later found out the boy, who lives in Twin Falls, had been in the area at the time.

Range fire burns out; firefighters rush to new battle zone

MOUNTAIN HOME (AP) - A fire that charred an estimated 25,000 acres of sagebrush and grass in central Owyhee County burned itself out Friday afternoon, but returning firefighters had little time to rest, Bureau of Land Management officials said.

at 2 p.m., a man-caused blaze began in the Lockman Butte area, about three miles east of Mountain Home near Interstate 84. BLM dispatcher Earl Shanafelt said that about 1,800 acres of grass and sage before being brought under control about 7 p.m., Shanafelt said.

Fred Corey said a skeleton crew of seven remained in the Bruncean Canyon area Friday night to patrol for flare-ups. That fire started Wednesday afternoon when wind fanned smoldering embers from a lightning strike. Flames spread quickly through unusually thick grass dried out by recent hot weather.

The finish line will be north of Bliss on Monument Gulch Road, north of the freeway. Karma Floyd, helping to organize the race, says about 12 riders are expected. Last year the race was run for the first time and had only four riders, she said.

Floyd said her husband Sonny has been riding daily to get Ishmael, his 900-pound, 16-year-old Arabian-standard bred horse in shape for this July 4 race. The elementary principal told the group of parents that "a specialized staff" would make up the new school and although the curriculum "would not expand a great deal," there would be additional music and physical education classes for the school. Parents doubted that the logistical problems could be accommodated, Pagnaga said, noting that several parents have expressed concern that the high school would not have enough room for the separate school. Under the proposal, the middle school would be housed in the high school, separate from the higher grades. Middle school classes would be held in the basement of the high school building, with separate lunch periods and locker facilities. Pagnaga said that a new building "is out of the question," but he felt that there is enough room in the high school for the middle school.

Gooding Hospital 'doomed,' says Campbell

By JANE ROBISON
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — No amount of tax money will save Gooding Hospital, said the administrator of St. Benedict's Family Medical Center in Juneau.

"Health care as we know it in Idaho is doomed," said Bob Campbell Thursday during a meeting of the Idaho Health Systems Agency. "Gooding shouldn't have a hospital, and Jerome shouldn't have a hospital, or at least a full-service hospital. People need to decide how much they can afford."

And Campbell said "no amount of tax money is going to save Gooding Hospital."

Gooding County Memorial Hospital is teetering on the brink of closure despite voter approval in May to form a hospital taxing district. Officials revealed they may not be able to transfer between $200,000-$400,000 in debts and liabilities to the new hospital district.

A time lag between assessing taxes in the new hospital district and when money starts actually coming in is also causing concern in Gooding.

Campbell said the only thing that will save Gooding is when the community decides what kind of system it can afford, and coordinates and plans for it. He said it may be that the community can support only an emergency center.

Currently, the 49-bed hospital is only running at 20 percent capacity.

Gooding's administrator, Dr. Duane Cutright, said on Friday that since 64 percent of the people voted to form the hospital district, "I guess they think the hospital is needed."

Cutright did leave open the possibility, however, that Gooding Hospital may eventually be just an emergency center.

"It's not out of the realm, but right now, we're not going to do it," he said.

"If people get sick, the liability rests with the supplier, not us," said Mike McMasters, field officer with the Division of Environment in Twin Falls. "That's one of the reasons we changed our policy. I think in the past, people thought it was our responsibility."

The confusion is the result of a new policy instituted by the state Department of Health and Welfare's Division of Environment. Under the old policy, the division notified the news media to warn users to boil their water at least five minutes when contamination was discovered. Under the old system, officials also took two samples before issuing the order.

Not, however, division officials are notifying cities and leaving it up to city officials to notify their customers.

McMasters said the division cannot force water suppliers to issue boil-water notices. But if suppliers do not inform customers, they will be violating the law and will be subject to fines, he said.

"Our main goal with this change is Specifically, Campbell said, Gooding, Jerome and MVMHC are studying whether to consolidate ambulance service.

But Campbell said his main concern was not whether small rural hospitals would be around, but whether the elderly and indigent will have access to medical care.

There is a gap in society right now in caring for the indigent," Campbell said. "There are needs, but no means, and it's not being addressed; and I'm afraid for these people."

Campbell said the only way to take care of the really needy was through taxation.

Bike-Aid cyclists wait around their support vehicle for the rest of the group to pedal into Twin Falls

Bike-Aid pedals to aid the hungry

Coalition teaches farming techniques

By CLAUDINE CHAMBERLAIN
Times-News intern

TWIN FALLS — It started with Band Aid. Shortly after that came Live Aid, Farm Aid and several other charitable organizations. The latest aid is Bike-Aid, six groups of bicyclists who are pedaling across the country to raise money for world hunger.

Groups of bikers varying in number left Los Angeles, San Diego, San Francisco, Portland and Seattle in mid-June. Each group will follow a different route leading to Washington, D.C., by Aug. 5. The entire group will then travel to New York, where they plan to visit the United Nations Building.

A goal of $3,000 per cyclist has been set for the fund-raiser. The participants tried to raise $3,000 each in pledges before the trip began. Other money is made by donations and T-shirt sales.

Thursday night, the 11-member Portland group stopped in Twin Falls for the night. Ten of the members had been biking since Portland, and one Boise man joined up with the group in Ontario, Ore.

Although Bike-Aid is a cross-country effort, many bikers will be joining one of the six groups for short periods of time, anywhere from two hours to two weeks. Many of the bikers will stay with their groups for the entire trip.

Bike-Aid is a fund-raising project initiated by the Overseas Development Network, a coalition of over 40 chapters on college campus in the U.S., with headquarters on the Harvard and Stanford university campuses. Some of the bikers are regularly involved in ODN, and some are just riding for charity.

ODN is an organization that helps to curb world hunger, but in a much different way than the more recent, highly publicized efforts.

"The main goal of ODN is to educate people so they can help themselves. They know what they needs are better than we do, they just need some help getting their feet off the ground," said cyclist Rafael Heller.

The organization is aimed at helping people learn to help themselves. Instead of just sending food to Third World nations and other poverty-stricken areas, it sets up programs to teach the people farming techniques and other ways they can improve their communities.

One of the most successful ODN projects was in Zimbabwe farming, an area that has shown great improvement since the program started, Heller said.

ODN is about three years old and has been practicing its theory of self-help on foreign and domestic soil. One U.S. program is in the Appalachian area of West Virginia. Helping with the area's illiteracy problems is the main goal of this project.

"Biking is a great fund-raiser because it represents the kind of self-help that ODN encourages. It's a very self-motivated mode of transportation," said cyclist Laura Weiss, stressing the hands-on experience of biking over the enclosed atmosphere of car travel.

Another aspect of the program is the emphasis on long-term improvement through education of the people. "The best thing about the program is that it works directly with the people, instead of getting involved with the bureaucracy of government. The people we help have to be independently motivated," Heller said.

The leader of the Portland group is Stanford student Bing Tso. The group expects to pick up a few more pedalers on the way to Washington, as well as lose a few due to fatigue.

Because the group is a non-profit organization, the cyclists cannot afford the money for publicity that has characterized other charity efforts.

"The only coverage we get is what the newspapers will write, or from TV and radio. So far, it's been great," Weiss said.

The group has been averaging 60-70 miles a day, stopping at around 5 p.m. every night to visit with local people and stay the night at various churches, YMCAs and campgrounds. They have been presenting a slide show at the towns they stop in, but are in the process of revamping the message of the show. "We wanted to put more of our inner philosophy into the presentation," said Heller.

Dirty water confusion has towns boiling

By JANE ROBISON
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The state Division of Environment is trying to head off steam over its new policy on issuing boil-water orders, a policy that has caused confusion and some consternation among area mayors and city officials.

Confusion bubbled to the surface this week after four Magic Valley communities — Hagerman, Bliss, Bellevue and Oakley — learned their water was contaminated. But in at least two cases, residents did not learn of a problem until after it was corrected.

"If people get sick, the liability rests with the supplier, not us," said Mike McMasters, field officer with the Division of Environment in Twin Falls. "That's one of the reasons we changed our policy. I think in the past, people thought it was our responsibility."

The confusion is the result of a new policy instituted by the state Department of Health and Welfare's Division of Environment. Under the old policy, the division notified the news media to warn users to boil their water at least five minutes when contamination was discovered. Under the old system, officials also took two samples before issuing the order.

Not, however, division officials are notifying cities and leaving it up to city officials to notify their customers.

McMasters said the division cannot force water suppliers to issue boil-water notices. But if suppliers do not inform customers, they will be violating the law and will be subject to fines, he said.

"Our main goal with this change is to assure that the public's health is protected," McMasters said. "But we also want to assure that suppliers are assuming responsibility for the sanitary quality of their systems."

McMasters admitted there was confusion over when and how suppliers must issue boil-water notices.

Bellevue Mayor Dale Everson said on Wednesday that he understood it was his responsibility to issue a notice to customers. But Everson said he did not think he had to issue a notice until he received a written notice from the division.

Division officials said they notified Everson on Sunday that lab samples confirmed Bellevue's water was contaminated. But Everson said on Wednesday he still was awaiting written notice.

Because of that confusion, Bellevue residents were unaware they needed to boil their water until three days after coliform bacteria was discovered in the city's water system.

Hagerman officials, too, said they did not need to notify customers until they received written notice.

But Gary Burkett, environmental engineer with the division, said his phone call to suppliers to notify them of contamination problems is "an official notice."

McMasters said he will be sending an advisory letter to all area water suppliers soon to explain the new policy.

McMasters also said that, as of Thursday, all four water systems were running clear again.

Authorization to cancel boil-water notices was issued Thursday to Bellevue and Oakley, he said. Hagerman's notice was issued Tuesday.

Farm labor camp passes inspection

By PAT MARCANTONIO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Labor Center south of Twin Falls was inspected Tuesday by a representative of the Wage and Hour Division of the U.S. Labor Department, and no "major" irregularities were found, said the center's board chairman.

A regional official of the division said Thursday that an inspection of camps for migrant farm workers wasn't unusual because it was the agency's statutory responsibility. He had admitted that the division hadn't inspected the Twin Falls Labor Center for more than 10 years.

The board of directors of the Labor Center already is wrestling with money problems, and is attempting to get the aged camp back on its feet, financially and physically.

Board Chairman Dan Shevemaker of Kimberly said Thursday that the inspection by the Labor Department revealed "no major troubles," the inspector, Carol Lake of Boise, could not be reached for comment Thursday.

Ralph Knight, Lake's supervisor and the assistant area director with the Wage and Hour Division office in Portland, Ore., said he didn't know the results of the inspection or what specific teachers to be assigned as "home room" advisers for each age group. The plan also calls for the middle school to have its own activities, including sports.

Pagnaga called the meeting "fairly open" and said that no decisions had been made yet but he thought the School Board would "sit on it (the proposal) for a while."

specification of the Twin Falls camp in more than 10 years, which is as far back as its records reach.

That didn't necessarily mean the camp hadn't been inspected by the Labor Department in all that time, he added.

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration and Employment Training Administration, all within the U.S. Department of Labor, also inspect migrant labor centers because they are responsible for enforcing other statutes involving housing of migrant and seasonal farm workers, Knight said.

The three agencies have a cooperative agreement on inspecting the centers to avoid duplicating services, with OSHA probably doing the majority of inspections, he said.

OSHA officials reported that they had inspected the Twin Falls camp in 1964.

Seattle officials from the Employment Training Administration couldn't be reached for comment Thursday.

After this week's inspection, Lake had recommended adding more light bulbs in the showers area, installing shingles to the roofs of some of the barracks and replacing broken window panes, Shevemaker said.

She also mentioned the need for an additional water heater because the women's showers didn't have enough hot water, he added. The trouble, however, may be with the size of the pipe and not with the heater, he said.

Shevemaker said Lake will return in about three weeks to check on the progress of the repairs.

Shevemaker added that he had been concerned about the inspection. "I didn't know what to expect. But she (Lake) was very willing to work with us," Shevemaker said.

The costs of the proposed repairs will be paid from the rent of the 10 families now residing at the center, he added. He didn't have any estimates on those costs, however.

Backscatter radar will multiply bucks

MOUNTAIN HOME (AP) — A new $5.6 million radar operations center at Mountain Home Air Force Base is expected to add $7 million to the local payroll, an Air Force spokesman said.

A ground-breaking ceremony was scheduled Friday afternoon for what will be the center of the Tactical Air Command's Overseas Development Network, a coalition of the Backscatter radar system for the West, said Capt. James Tynan, public affairs director at Mountain Home Air Force Base.

The 50,000-square-foot facility will employ about 300 military and civilian people, who will operate computers and display equipment processing radar signals to help identify and track aircraft.

Tynan said the radar will provide early warning of aircraft approaching North America at distances of up to 1,800 nautical miles. The Backscatter technique allows the radar system to see beyond the horizon, or line-of-sight range that limits conventional ground-based radars, he said.

Middle school wanted but where a problem

By MICHAEL VANAUDELN
Times-News correspondent

SHOSHONE — Despite overwhelming support for the academic advantages of a "middle school" for the Shoshone School District, parents expressed concern at a public meeting Thursday with the "facility problems of having a middle school," said Elementary Principal Dan Pagnaga.

More than 40 parents attended the meeting to discuss a proposal to form a middle school for students in grades six, seven and eight. Under the proposal, sixth-grade students would move from the elementary school to the high school building to form the middle school.

Currently, the Shoshone School District has no junior high, forcing grades seven through 12 to be located in the same building. The middle school proposal would assign specific teachers to be assigned as "home room" advisers for each age group. The plan also calls for the middle school to have its own activities, including sports.

Pagnaga called the meeting "fairly open" and said that no decisions had been made yet but he thought the School Board would "sit on it (the proposal) for a while."

Juvenile prisoner fakes illness, flees from Minidoka County Jail

RUPERT — A juvenile prisoner faked an illness and escaped early Friday morning from the Minidoka County Jail, triggering a search by police. The boy, age 15 or 16, was still at large late on Friday, police said.

He was being held for Twin Falls County authorities on charges of grand theft and destruction of property when he fled from a jailer, said Minidoka County Sheriff (Rupert) Deputy Sheriff Nevarez. Nevarez said the boy called the jail deputy just after midnight and complained of stomach pains. The officer opened the cell door to take him for medical attention. "As the officer was in the process of locking the cell door ... the inmate took off running," Nevarez said.

He was able to leave through a jail door, and officers could not find him in the dark, the deputy said.

However, Twin Falls County sheriff's deputies apparently narrowly missed capturing the escapee later in the day at a house in Twin Falls, said Chief Deputy Harold Jensen. A deputy checking the house was told he was not there, but later found out the boy, who lives in Twin Falls, had been in the area at the time.

He was thought to be driving a car stolen in Rupert. The car was spotted in Twin Falls, but disappeared again before it could be impounded.

The juvenile is not known to be dangerous. He now may have left the area, and is being sought throughout the West, police said. Minidoka County Sheriff's Department is conducting an internal investigation into the circumstances of the escape, which was the first in several years, Nevarez said.

Range fire burns out; firefighters rush to new battle zone

MOUNTAIN HOME (AP) — A fire that charred an estimated 25,000 acres of sagebrush and grass in central Owyhee County burned itself out Friday afternoon, but returning firefighters had little time to rest. Bureau of Land Management officials said.

Just an hour after the fire 15 miles northeast of Grasmere was declared out at 2 p.m., a man-caused blaze began in the Lockman Butte area, about three miles east of Mountain Home near Interstate 84. BLM dispatcher Pat Shanfelt said.

That fire blackened 1,800 acres of grass and sage before being brought under control about 7 p.m., Shanfelt said.

To the south, BLM dispatcher Fred Corey said a skeleton crew of seven remained in the Brunco Canyon area Friday night to patrol for flare-ups.

That fire started Wednesday afternoon when wind fanned smoldering embers from a lightning strike. Flames spread quickly through unusually thick grass dried out by recent hot weather.

Bliss sets July 4 horse race

By TERRELL WILLIAMS Times-News correspondent

BLISS — An old-fashioned, 30-mile horse race is slated for the morning of July 4 from Hill City to Bliss.

The Bliss Chamber of Commerce and Bliss merchants are sponsoring this second annual race and have a guaranteed purse of $300 for first place, $200 for second and $100 for third. The entry fee of $20 should be mailed in advance to Sonny Floyd, P.O. Box 63, Bliss, 83314 and should be postmarked by June 30.

Riders will start the race at 7:30 a.m. from the Falkner Corral, about three miles south of Hill City on Monument Gulch Road. The race course will follow this gravel road except for a five-mile detour across desert terrain.

Veterinarians will be at each of the two 10-minute rest stops to make sure the horses are not being overworked. Riders may want to carry water for their horses because of the 20-mile stretch between the two water holes.

The finish line will be north of Bliss on Monument Gulch Road, north of the freeway.

Karma Floyd, helping to organize the race, says about 12 riders are expected. Last year the race was run for the first time and had only four riders, she said.

"But there's a lot more interest this year," Floyd said, "... and we expect a good, responsive crowd at the finish line."

Most of the racers will probably cross the finish line around 10:30 a.m., she predicted. "It depends on the weather. If it's cool, some of them can go faster," she said.

The horses must be in "real good shape" to compete in this endurance race, Floyd warned. "They have to be tough to take it."

Floyd said her husband Sonny has been riding daily to get 1200-1300 pound, 16-year-old Arabian-standard bred horse in shape for this July 4 race. Last year, the race was by three miles longer and was won by an Arabian in three hours and 10 minutes.

For more information about the race, call the Floyds at 934-1290.

Barbecue sandwiches "with all the trimmings" will be served at the Bliss City Hall, next to the City Park, from 6 p.m. until dusk. The cost is $1.50 per person to help raise money for the fireworks display, scheduled to begin at dusk.

Barbecue entertainment will be provided by The Old Time Fiddlers at the Bliss City Park.

The barbecue and fireworks are sponsored by the Bliss Chamber of Commerce.

"It's a good way to talk to people all over the country and see how they feel. We want to spread the word and help change outlooks," he added. The group is supported by many people and businesses nationwide, but one of the biggest helps has been the Safeway chain of supermarkets, the cyclists said. Food for the journey is purchased on a daily basis, and Safeway stores have donated much of the food, as well as welcoming them into town with almost ceremonial activities.

Flat tires have been the worst of the group's problems so far. Shortly before they arrived in Twin Falls, two of the cyclists were taken into the Magic Valley Regional Medical Center for a sunburn and a sore throat, but neither was very serious, they said.

Other Portland group bikers are Steve Silverstein, Tom Atkins, Thomas Kwon, David Jantuzzi, Josh Kampling, Tina Odelstrom, Lynn Anterson and Alex Tilson, the youngest member of the group at 16 years old.

camp open after finding itself left with several large bills after the center's long-time manager suddenly left about a month ago. The bills included an $8,000 debt to Twin Falls County for three years of property taxes.

The board will soon hire a new manager, or at least someone to do full-time maintenance work, Siewnaker said.

He added that the short-term problems are the priority at the center, operated through a non-profit corporation headed by a group of farmers in the county.

Francisco Castillo, area manager of the Idaho Migrant Council, said workers at the center have been cleaning up at the center.

The council also is managing the office of the facility until a new manager is hired.

The signals, transmitted from a site near Christmas Valley, Ore., reflect off targets "back to the receiving antennas located near Alturas, Calif.," Tynan said. Once aircraft are detected, computers in the operations center at Mountain Home Air Force Base will determine their locations and speeds.

The Western system in Mountain Home will cover an area from Alaska to the Baja Peninsula. Tynan said a similar over-the-horizon system is nearing completion in Maine to cover an area from Greenland to Cuba. The Air Force plans to build similar systems in Alaska and the central United States.

Pagoaga said that a new building "is out of the question," but he felt that there is enough room in the high school for the middle school.

Redeemer Lutheran marks 25th year

KIMBERLY — Redeemer Lutheran Church of Kimberly will celebrate its 25th anniversary Sunday.

The church began in September 1961 with a meeting in the Kimberly High School Auditorium that was attended by the executive secretary of the Northwest District of the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod, The Rev. Armand J. Mueller of Burley who asked to serve the new mission church.

The first Sunday morning service was held in the local Baptist Church with 16 people in attendance. A room was rented and on June 27, 1961, the congregation was officially received as a member of the Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod and the Northwest District.

Robert Brohm, of the St. Louis Seminary, was installed as the first resident pastor in August 1961 and served the church for two years. During this time property was purchased for a parsonage and church. The parsonage was completed in 1963 and the church was finished in 1964. Much of the labor was donated by the members.

The Rev. Henry H. Fry was installed on Sept. 22, 1963, and served the congregation until his retirement in May 1969. The Rev. David Atrops of Eden Trinity Lutheran Church was asked to serve as vacancy pastor. He served both the Eden and Kimberly congregations.

In June 1971, the Rev. Richard C. Schell of St. John's Lutheran, Buhl, became vacancy pastor and later served both Buhl and Kimberly congregations as a dual parish. On Feb. 9, 1975, the parishioners watched the burning of the mortgage and the congregation became debt free. Pastor Schell accepted a call to Portland, Ore., in June 1977.

The present pastor, the Rev. Daniel J. Gerken, was installed Aug. 18, 1980. A new education wing, the Christian Life Center, was added in 1981.

Special services will be held Sunday at 10:30 a.m. and 3 p.m. The Rev. Daniel J. Gerken will speak in the morning service. A potluck dinner will be held at 12:30 p.m. and the Rev. Keith Eilers, pastor of Christ the King Lutheran Church in Bellevue, Wash., will speak in the afternoon service of thanksgiving and praise at 3 p.m. The Rev. Daniel Gerken will be the liturgist for both services.

Discipline awaits rules violators Soccer viewing bad for monks

RANGOON, Burma (AP) — The Buddhist monks organization has decided to discipline monks who violate religious rules by watching television in an improper manner or watching entertainment such as soccer matches, state-owned newspapers said Friday.

The papers, including the Workings Daily, said the government-sponsored Sangha (Buddhist monks) organization did not specify what action it would take against errant monks.

Although it is forbidden by the Vijviya, or rule of clergy, many saffron-robed monks can be seen watching soccer, the country's most popular sport, at the Bursane Stadium in Rangoon.

Burmese television is showing nightly two-minute broadcasts on the World Cup soccer tournament now being played in Mexico City, but the monks aren't supposed to watch television.

Many monks also are seen accepting cash offerings, although the rules say they should not seek money or other valuable items.

Pope to spend week touring Columbia

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John Paul II's 30th overseas tour is a week-long trip to Colombia, a country shaken in the past year by a murderous violent campaign, guerrilla warfare and a hard-fought presidential election.

The pontiff, who leaves the Vatican on Tuesday, will be making his seventh trip to Latin America. He will visit Bogotá, Medellín, and other cities, including towns to industrial centers enjoying a boom thanks to coffee crops and clandestine cocaine traffic.

The Vatican views the pope's trip as a pastoral mission to a country which suffers from extreme poverty, terrorism and drug-related problems. About 95 percent of the country's 30 million people are Roman Catholic.

The pope is expected to make an appeal to the young, who are often divided between a conservative Catholic Church sympathetic to the government and guerrilla groups with strongholds in the countryside and among the poor.

From the moment he is greeted by President-elect Virgilio Barco, a former ambassador to Washington, and outgoing President Belisario Betancur, John Paul may have to weave his way through a delicate course of obstacles — political, national and theological.

POPE JOHN PAUL II

Appeal to young expected

Barco, elected by a landslide in May, has inherited a legacy of continuing terrorist attacks, which have claimed more than 2,000 lives since 1983, and several hundred thousand victims during the last 40 years.

Lutheran farm crisis video wins Silver Screen Award

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. — "Another Family Farm," a video production of The American Lutheran Church, was awarded a Silver Screen Award by the U.S. Industrial Film Festival June 6. The program deals with the impact of the current farm crisis on a family in southeastern Minnesota.

The award was presented to the ALC Media Services Center in the category for Religion, Ethics, Brotherhood, specifically for work that honors non-theatrical film and video productions, drew over 1,100 entries from producers and corporate sponsors from 22 nations.

"Another Family Farm" was created in response to the need of the ALC's rural ministries staff for a tool to help rural people deal with the crisis they are experiencing in their communities and churches, according to an ALC news release.

The video program examines the feelings of defeat and loss facing many farm families, and the mission of the church and church people in supporting such families.

The program has been widely distributed among congregations of the ALC and other church bodies. It is being used extensively in university, social service, and government programs, said the Rev. Donald N. Oberdorfer, Media Services Center director. "Another Family Farm" has aired publicly in Cincinnati, Kansas City and North Dakota.

Funding for production of "Another Family Farm" was provided by Aid Association for Lutherans, Appleton, Wis.

Baptist convention backs Libya reagan

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Delegates at the national convention of the General Association of Regular Baptist Churches have praised President Reagan for ordering reprisal raids on Libya.

The 3,500 delegates and guests "commended President Reagan for his decisive and courageous actions dealing with terrorist activity," Tom Thorsrud, convention spokesman, said Thursday.

In praising the April 15 bombing, the delegates supported Reagan where other churches did not, Rohrer said.

He said the World Council of Churches, the United Church of Christ and the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) were among those who had condemned the attack.

The 58th annual convention of the association, which represents 1,600 churches with 300,000 members in 46 states, ended Friday, Rohrer said.

Stocks involved in takeover speculation lead active day

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market struggled ahead Friday, churning around record levels as interest rates declined again.

Several stocks involved in takeover news — and speculation dominated the day's activity.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose 5.06 to 1,885.25, just short of its closing high of 1,885.90 reached three weeks earlier. For the week, the average posted a net gain of 57.72 points.

Volume on the New York Stock Exchange came to 123.81 million shares, down from 134.07 million Thursday.

Going into the last session Monday before the midway point of 1968, the Dow Jones Industrials sports a 332.16 point gain since New Year's.

Sanders Associates jumped 15 1/2% to 50, and led the active list on turnover of more than 6 million shares following word that Lorac Corp. had offered to acquire the company.

Sanders called Lorac's bid of $44 a share in cash and stock inadequate.

Panhandle Eastern, second among the volume leaders, was up 4 1/4% to 48 1/2%. The company, which has been the subject of takeover rumors, said it received and rejected a request from a party it did not identify to discuss a merger.

Safeway Stores, rumored in recent days to be a prospective takeover target, gained 1 1/2% to 53 1/2%.

NL Industries added 1 1/4% to 14 1/4%. The stock included a 1.52 million-share block of 15, handled by the firm of Jefferson & Co. in the over-the-counter market.

On the downside, Boston Edison, which had a record 3 1/2% gain, fell to 40 1/2% after being turned down by state regulators, fell 2 to 50 1/2% in active trading.

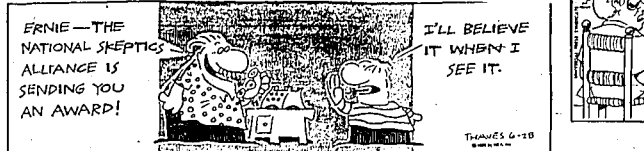

Among the blue chips, Allied Signal rose 3/4% to 44 1/4%; Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing 1 1/2% to 113 1/4%.

What's what

Fellows who decorate the dialogue with foul language rarely swear when alone. Or so contend students of the matter. They say swearing is "socially motivated." Will you buy that? Our Language man is not so sure. Claims he: When a man with a ham of his his thumb, he's just not all that conscious of the company roundabout.

Most of the Canadians who have played major league baseball have been pitchers.

When it's time to quit smoking, you prepare your head, make the decision, and just do it — without a lot of conversational commitments to others. This, every he-man knows, isn't? Not right, evidently. Those students of the mind reputed to know where they speak insist your resolution is best kept after you tell somebody else about it.

Claim is several drugs now used to treat mental and emotional problems work better with left-handed patients.

HORS D'OEUVRE

Q. What does "hors d'oeuvre" mean, literally?
A. "Outside the main works."

If you've been married continually to the same partner more than 9.4 years, congratulations — your marriage has lasted longer than the U.S. national average.

Q. Has a dead language ever been revived?
A. Only once — Hebrew had been dead for 2,300 years before Israel's Jews resurrected it for their national tongue.

Pigs like it hot — about 86 degrees F., specifically.

MARY

The law in Siena, Italy, does not prohibit prostitution, but it forbids any woman named Mary from working in that profession.

Man and the beaver are the two animals that have most altered the natural landscape, and the beaver has done relatively little harm. What is it about man that makes him mess up things so badly? Strange.

Nobody, not the drinker, not the bartender, ever says "ehfrate," though it means exactly the same as "inbriate."

where your money is concerned. Use your better judgment today.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Until noon, you find it possible to make some long-range plans for the future by accepting proven methods, while at the same time confusion exists if you are in any way sloppy.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19): Get into a new situation that can influence your method of operating. Older persons can help to place you on the road to success.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): Get that new idea studied further before trying to get it operating and don't give up something already well established.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Listen to the suggestions of an outside partner who has your welfare at heart. Steep a new acquaintance who is self-seeking.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): Continue with that talent that is working well and don't try to get into something you know little about.

LEO (July 22 to August 21): Place your efforts in the home today and make needed improvements there, but don't take any foolish risks.

VIRGO (August 22 to September 21): Choose which partner is best LIBRA (September 23 to October 22): Garner the knowledge from one you know is familiar with your type of work, and get it quickly.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21): If there is something unusual you want to do, make it around lunchtime; the rest of the day if not so good for you.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21): Study the situation at home, which may seem rather hard to handle, but which can be easily solved in the afternoon.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20): Tonight, take no risks

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19): Be confident and go after what you most want and you can gain it easily. Take it easy tonight.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20): Make appointments for amusements with pals who are most compatible. You may find a friend to be difficult to handle later.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will know what is desired from life, so encourage to go after whatever is of a constructive nature. Upon reaching adulthood, your progeny is apt to become too aggressive and incur the repeated wrath of others if not taught to be more respectful.

Irish to keep ban on divorce

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — The Irish voted decisively against ending the constitutional ban on divorce, reaffirming the republic as Western Europe's staunchest bastion of Roman Catholicism.

The outcome of Thursday's referendum, which rejected divorce by a 52 margin, was a firm rebuff to the government's pro-divorce campaign and stirred questions about the future of Prime Minister Garret FitzGerald's reformist administration.

Almost 1.5 million of the 2.4 million eligible voters cast ballots. About 97 percent of Ireland's 3.5 million people are Catholic.

Negative votes totaled 63.5 percent to 36.5 percent in favor of divorce, the state Radio Telefis Eireann network reported. It said 535,512 people voted no, and 538,279 voted yes.

Churches propose a weapon

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Religious leaders urged all South Africans on Friday to fight apartheid with its own weapon by refusing to state their race on official documents.

"If done on an increasing scale, this would eventually render the system unworkable," said a resolution adopted at the annual conference of the South African Council of Churches.

Such a mass public action would go "to the root of apartheid" and enable whites who oppose the discriminatory laws to show solidarity with South Africa's 24 million blacks, the council said.

Montreal mayor to step down

MONTREAL (AP) — Mayor Jean Drapeau, who brought the Olympics and Expo 67 to Montreal, announced Friday that he will retire from politics at the next municipal election in November after 29 years in office.

The longest-serving mayor in a major North American city, Drapeau, 70, has been in ill health since 1982, when he broke a hip and suffered a stroke.

U.S. may withdraw shield

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Secretary of State George P. Shultz said Friday the United States may withdraw its pledge to defend New Zealand because the long-time ally refuses port facilities to nuclear-equipped American warships.

After a 30-minute meeting Friday with Prime Minister David Lange, Shultz said the anti-nuclear policy violates elements of the 35-year-old defense agreement the two nations have with Australia, leaving the Washington no choice but to withdraw its protection.

"We part company as friends, but the alliance is concerned," Shultz told reporters as he emerged from the meeting. It was held in Lange's suite at a hotel serving as headquarters for a conference of foreign ministers sponsored by the Association of Southeast Asian Nations.

Lange said both sides stuck to their positions and "at this stage they're not reconcilable," but he expressed confidence that the United States would aid his country in an emergency if only to defend its own interests.

A senior U.S. official, speaking on condition of anonymity, said no formal notification of a rupture had been transmitted to New Zealand. He described the withdrawal of security guarantees as "a process" and said Friday's meeting put the United States "a little farther down the line" toward ending military relations.

He noted that, since New Zealand barred the U.S. Navy destroyer Buchanan from visiting the country last year, the United States has halted joint exercises and stopped sharing intelligence data.

The dispute stems from a decision by Lange's Labor government, which follows a non-nuclear policy, not to allow warships into its ports without assurance that they are not nuclear-powered and do not carry nuclear weapons.

U.S. policy does not permit disclosing such information.

Jury acquits fugitive lawyer

SAN RAFAEL, Calif. (AP) — A lawyer who spent 13 years as a fugitive was acquitted Friday of murder and conspiracy by a jury that refused to believe he provided the gun that ignited a 1971 San Quentin prison riot in which six people died.

His supporters gaped as Stephen Bingham, who was accused of slipping a pistol to militant inmate George Jackson, during an attorney-client visit, was acquitted of two counts of murder and one of conspiracy in Marin County Superior Court.

The prosecution said Jackson hid the 9mm pistol and two ammunition clips under an Afro wig, then used it later that day to force guards to release about two dozen other inmates who went on a rampage in his maximum security cellblock.

300 mourn reputed mobsters

CHICAGO (AP) — Reputed mobsters Anthony and Michael Spilotro, deeded a funeral Mass by their church, were mourned in a flower-bedecked funeral home Friday, five days after their bodies were unearthed in an Indiana cornfield.

About 300 people packed the non-denominational Salerno's Gateway Chapel to say last respects. One woman wailed in grief as friends consoled her. Other mourners dabbed their eyes and prayed before the closed bronze caskets.

The Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Chicago denied the brothers a public funeral Mass because of their reputed ties to organized crime, but allowed the Rev. John Fearon of St. Bernardine's Church in Forest Park to deliver a homily "In praise of God."

Michael Spilotro had attended Fearon's church, and the priest said he spoke to mourners about the hope offered by God.

More talks about MIAs set

WASHINGTON (AP) — A U.S. delegation will make a two-day visit to Vietnam next week for discussions on resolving the issue of Americans still missing from the Vietnam war, the State Department announced Friday.

Department spokesman Charles Redman said the delegation hopes to bring about an acceleration of the Vietnamese government's two-year plan to resolve the issue.

The group will be headed by Richard Childress, director of Asian affairs in the National Security Council. The talks will take place in Hanoi on Tuesday and Wednesday.

Justices exempt airlines from bias law

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled Friday that airlines may not be penalized under a key federal law when they discriminate against disabled air travelers.

By a 6-3 vote, the justices said the airlines are exempt from a 1972 law authorizing a cutoff of federal aid to those who discriminate against the handicapped.

Handicapped-rights groups said discrimination is not widespread among airlines but that the absence of strict federal enforcement powers makes the situation unpredictable. For example, they said, some airlines require the disabled to give advance notice when they travel and require some handicapped individuals to travel with attendants.

In other decisions, the court: Ruled by a 5-4 vote that those sued for violating someone's civil rights may be forced to give the victims' lawyers even more money than the victims receive. The ruling upheld a $245,000 lawyer fee award in a Riverside, Calif., case in which the victims collected only $33,350.

Sent back to an Ohio civil-rights agency for further proceedings the case of a pregnant woman fired as a church school teacher because school officials wanted to keep her home with her baby.

Allowed, by a 6-3 vote in a case from Texas, government food stamp officials to treat as a "single household" close relatives living together even if they buy food and prepare meals separately.

In the handicapped-rights case, the court said airlines are not subject to a cutoff in federal aid because they do not receive the money directly.

Dornan tries to gain help for hostages

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Robert Dornan, R-Calif., arrived in Syria Friday on a mission he hoped would lead to the release of the American hostages in Lebanon, his aide said.

Dornan carries a letter signed by 27 members of Congress, asking Syrian President Hafez Assad to use his influence to secure the release of the Americans, said Jim Skinner, the aide. Dornan received his visa for the trip on Thursday.

The congressman is staying at the home of U.S. Ambassador William Eagleton and has a meeting scheduled Sunday with Syrian Foreign Minister Farouk Sharaa, Skinner said. But the Syrians have not guaranteed Dornan an audience with Assad.

The letter is addressed to Assad because the hostages are thought to be held by Islamic militants in the Bekaa Valley region of Lebanon, an area controlled by Syrian troops, Skinner said.

State high school rodeo hits finals tonight

By BRAD LERLAND
Times-News writer

FILER — Friday's final qualifying round at the Idaho State High School Rodeo saw five lead changes heading into tonight's finals.

The changes were on the good side for the District 2 cowboys and cowgirls as they held the top spot in four of the 10 events. The Magic Valley hands from District 6 are right behind the Treasure Valley group with the lead in three events.

The top four cowboys and cowgirls from each event will qualify for the National High School rodeo later this summer.

Idaho Prep Rodeo Finals
Twin Falls County Fairgrounds

The most interesting match-up of the finals may be between Castleford's Shelley Hell and Shoshone's Patti O'Maley.

Hell took over the lead in the goat tying, leading O'Maley by over a second, while the Shoshone cowgirl leads Hell in the breakaway roping by a little over a second.

Steve Manning from Oakley held on to his lead in the saddle bronc riding, Manning had a total score of 143 on two-head. A pair of District 2 cowboys are right behind Manning. Neil McKay from Caldwell and Rance Morgan from Boise will be seeded second and third in tonight's finals. Blackfoot's Dan Stephenson is fourth after scoring 136 on two-head.

Like Manning, Mountain Home's Craig Lehto held his lead in the bull riding competition.

In the bareback event, Boise's Bruce Pape will be the first seed in the finals with St. Anthony's Shane Webster in the No. 2 slot. Rupert's Jeff Garro is in the running for a shot at Nationals as he is currently in third after recording a 131 on two-head.

There was a new leader in the steer wrestling event. Gene Breeding from Koozka took over the top spot on the final night of qualifying.

He knocked Will Bedke of Oakley into the second spot by a little less than two seconds.

Pete Jones of Twin Falls held his lead in the calf roping event but found new company right behind him.

Nampa's Paul Cope knocked teammate Richard Elgren out of second place clocking a 36.114 on two-head.

Council's Ann Monger won the qualifying round in the pole bending event with a time of 42.95 on two rides. She's followed by Rupert's Kris Onishi and Arco's Cindy Douglas. Albion cowgirl Dalana Jolley finished fourth in the qualifying round, less than two seconds off the pace set by Monger.

There were no changes in the top four places in both the barrel racing and the team roping competition.

The finals get underway tonight at 8 with the new Miss Rodeo Idaho being crowned before the competition.

Phillies outlast Cards 2-1 in 17

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Russell Thompson singled John Miott home from second base with one out in the top of the 17th inning Friday night, giving the Philadelphia Phillies a 2-1 victory over St. Louis that snapped the Cardinals' six-game winning streak.

Thompson's game-winning hit came off Rick Ownby, 1-2, the sixth St. Louis pitcher. It made a winner of Kent Tekulve, 2-1, who pitched three scoreless innings before giving way to Tom Hume, who recorded his first save.

Russell started the 17th with a single and was sacrificed to second by Hume, pinch-hitting for Tekulve.

Braves 5, Padres 4

ATLANTA (AP) — Ozzie Virgil drove in the winning run with a sacrifice fly in the eighth inning Friday night as the Atlanta Braves edged the San Diego Padres 5-1.

Reliever Tim Stoddard, 1-3, walked Dale Murphy and Bob Horner to start the eighth and Craig Lefferts took over. Ken Oberkfell sacrificed and Rafael Ramirez was intentionally walked to load the bases. Virgil followed with a fly ball to middle center and Murphy scored easily ahead of Marvella Wynne's throw, which was slightly off-line.

Gene Garber, 4-1, the fourth Atlanta pitcher, got the final four outs for the victory after allowing a two-run single to Garry Templeton in the top of the eighth that tied the score.

Murphy's three-run homer highlighted a string of five consecutive hits with two out in the fifth.

Pirates 7, Expos 1

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Johnnie Ray's two-run double highlighted a seven-run sixth inning as the Pittsburgh Pirates snapped a four-game losing streak with a 7-1 victory over the Montreal Expos on Friday night.

Rick Rhoden, 6-4, pitched a five-hitter and struck out a career-high 11 batters for his sixth victory in his last seven decisions and started the winning rally with his second hit of the game.

Montreal starter Jay Tibbs, 4-4, had a three-hit shutout when Rhoden led off the sixth with a single. A walk to Barry Bonds and a single by Joe Orsulak loaded the bases and Ray doubled into the left-field corner to put the Pirates in front.

Sid Bream chased Tibbs with an RBI single and Bob McClure was greeted by R.J. Reynolds' RBI single and a run-scoring double by Tona Pena.

Astros 5, Dodgers 0

HOUSTON (AP) — Major-league strikeline leader Mike Scott pitched a two-hitter and equaled his career high by fanning 11 to lead the Houston Astros to a 5-0 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers on Friday night.

Scott, 7-5, raised his season total to a career high 148 strikeouts. The Dodgers managed only three baserunners against the right-hander, who retired the last 16 batters in pitching his second shutout and second complete game of the season.

Ken Landreaux had both Los Angeles hits, singles in the first and fourth innings and another Dodger reached on an error.

Giants 7, Reds 6

CINCINNATI (AP) — Mike Aldrete's sacrifice fly in the 12th inning gave San Francisco a 7-6 victory over the Cincinnati Reds on Friday night and kept the Giants in first place in the National League West.

Aldrete's game-winning fly ball came off Scott Terry, 0-2, the Reds' fifth pitcher, and scored Chill Davis, who walked with one out and went to third on Chris Brown's single.

Greg Minton, 3-4, the seventh San Francisco pitcher, allowed three walks but no hits over the final two innings to earn the victory that enabled the Giants to maintain their half-game lead over Houston.

San Francisco second baseman Robby Thompson was caught stealing four times, the first time that ever happened in the major leagues. He was thrown out at second base by Cincinnati catcher Bo Diaz in the fourth, sixth and ninth innings and was picked off by pitcher John Franco in the 11th, although the play went as a caught stealing when Thompson broke for second.

Becker, top seeds cop Wimbledon wins

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Defending champion Boris Becker and the two No. 1 seeds, Ivan Lendl and Martina Navratilova, scored easy victories Friday, while yet another seed tumbled out of the Wimbledon tennis championships.

India's Ramesh Krishnan shocked sixth-seeded Joakim Nystrom of Sweden 6-7, 6-2, 7-6, 6-4 to move into the fourth round and assure that an unseeded player will reach the semifinals for the 10th straight year.

Becker, the 18-year-old No. 4 seed from West Germany, completed a 6-1, 6-3, 6-2 rout of American Tom Gulikson. Their second-round match had been halted by darkness Thursday night.

"With each win I get more confident," Becker said, "and I scare the opponents more when I go further and further."

With the demise of Nystrom, Lendl and American Tim Mayotte are the only two seeds left in the top half of the men's draw. If they continue to win, they would clash in the quarterfinals.

On Friday, Lendl rolled over Israel's Amos Mansdorf 6-2, 6-4, 6-1, while Mayotte downed Czechoslovakia's Tomas Smitl 6-4, 6-2, 6-2.

Also scoring third-round victories

Friday were American Matt Anger, Slobodan Zivojinovich of Yugoslavia, West Germany's Eric Jelen and South Africans Christo Van Rensburg and Eddie Edberg.

In the women's singles, Navratilova paced five seeded players into the third round, crushing the not-so-lucky "lucky loser" Jane Forman of the United States 6-0, 6-4 in 31 minutes.

"She's a pesty little thing," Navratilova said of Forman, a scrappy right-hander from Providence, R.I., who gained a spot in the main draw when South Africa's Rene Uys withdrew.

Other seeded women advancing to the third round were No. 4 Claudia Kohde-Kilsch of West Germany, No. 8 Manuela Maleeva of Bulgaria, No. 10 Gabriela Sabatini of Argentina and No. 15 Catarina Lindqvist of Sweden.

Kohde-Kilsch beat American Alycia Moulton 6-2, 6-2; Maleeva stopped American Susan Mascarin 6-4, 6-6; Sabatini eliminated Catherine Suire of France 6-3, 6-3; and Lindqvist defeated Canada's Helen Kelesi 6-3, 3-6, 6-1.

Krishnan upset Nystrom on Center Court with his father, Ramanathan, who twice reached the semifinals, in the crowd watching. He did it with style and grace, the picture-perfect strokes eliciting applause from the audience that included the Duchess of Gloucester and the American ambassador to the United Kingdom, Charles H. Price, and his wife.

"I think he has a very good game for grass because he hits the ball very low all the time," Nystrom said of his conqueror, whose best finish in a Grand Slam event has been the quarterfinals of the U.S. Open in 1982. "You think you hit a good shot and then he's just standing there hitting the ball back."

"You hit a winner, but he's reading the game so well. That's why he's very tough to beat."

After Nystrom won the first-set tiebreak 8-6, it was all Krishnan as the stylish Indian swept to a 4-0 lead in the second set. He also pulled out to a 5-3 advantage in the third set before Nystrom rallied to go ahead 6-5.

But Krishnan pulled even and won the ensuing tiebreak 8-6 to grab a 2-1 advantage in sets.

He then won five of the first six games of the fourth set before double-faulting on his first two match points, losing his serve in the seventh game.

"That was nervousness, absolutely," Krishnan said. "I'm not really cool, despite how I looked."

Nystrom held in the eighth game and broke Krishnan again in the ninth. But Krishnan broke back in the 10th game to close out the victory.

"I've made the third round here quite a few times," Krishnan said, "and I won the juniors here one year (1979)."

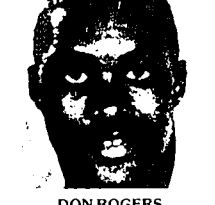

Krishnan next faces Jelen, who advanced with a 7-5, 6-3, 6-4 victory over American David Paton. Other fourth-round matchups pit Lendl against Anger, Mayotte against Edwards and Van Rensburg against Zivojinovich.

Anger overcame fellow American John Sadri 6-7, 7-6, 7-6, 6-4; Edwards defeated Jakob Hasek of Czechoslovakia 3-6, 4-6, 6-2, 6-3, 6-1; Van Rensburg stopped American Robert Seguso 5-7, 6-4, 6-0, 6-2; and Zivojinovich downed American Ken Flach 4-6, 6-4, 7-5, 6-3.

The victory by Van Rensburg halted the run by Seguso, who upset third-seeded Jimmy Connors in his first round.

"He'll remember it more than I will," Seguso said of his victory over the Connors, who was seeking his third Wimbledon singles crown.

Browns' safety dies of cardiac arrest

DON ROGERS Dies of cardiac arrest

Johnson sets sights on second U.S. title

BALTIMORE College of Southern Idaho's Joey Johnson will be going for a second national title and a spot in the national junior world track and field championship Sunday in the U.S. Junior TAC finals.

Johnson, national junior college high jump champion and record holder, will compete at 2 p.m. (MDT) Sunday in the finals, being held at Towson State College field.

A member of the CSI basketball team, who has jumped in only four track meets, Johnson shares the top height of this 14-man field with Rick Neill of University of Washington at 7-3 3/4.

CSI Coach Rick Neill, who accompanied Johnson on the trip, said "if Joey gets his rhythm, this could be the start of big things for him."

Neill added that Johnson hasn't high jumped since the national junior college finals and is just recovering from a knee strain sustained earlier this week during the CSI basketball camp, where he was a counselor.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Don Rogers, the Cleveland Browns' first safety, and the American Football Conference's 1984 Defensive Rookie of the Year, died Friday of cardiac arrest, authorities said.

Rogers, 23, the Browns' No. 1 draft choice in 1984 and the mainstay of their defensive secondary, died at 4:31 p.m. PDT at Mercy San Juan Hospital, said hospital spokeswoman Connie Huff. She said he was brought to the hospital by ambulance, and died a short while later, but declined to provide details of the death.

Donna O'Ray-King, a spokeswoman for the Sacramento

County Coroner's office, said initial reports indicated there was apparently no drug involvement in the death. "That's not what we were told. We don't know until we do an autopsy."

There were unconfirmed reports that Rogers was to be married Saturday in Sacramento.

The 6-foot-1, 206-pound Rogers, a native of Texarkana, Ark., who grew up in Sacramento, attended Notre Del Rio High School and attended UCLA, where he was a standout safety for the Bruins.

His brother, Reggie, plays football for the University of Washington and his sister, Jackie, plays basketball at Oregon State.

Rogers was Cleveland's 18th pick overall in 1984. He played in 15 games and started 14 as a rookie.

In his first regular-season game at Seattle that year, he forced a fumble and made a game-high 12 tackles.

In four years at UCLA, he averaged over 100 tackles per season, and he was second in the PAC-10 with seven interceptions as a senior.

In 1985, he was third on the team, behind linebackers Tom Cousineau and Eddie Johnson, with 109 tackles, including 83 solos and 26 assists.

He had one interception in each of his two seasons with the Browns.

Davis fears for future of professional football

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Al Davis, whose Los Angeles Raiders are the only NFL team not named in the USFL's $1 billion antitrust suit, said Friday that he doubts there will be "an intelligent result" to the litigation.

"I think we're on a collision course," Davis said at the breakfast luncheon for The Associated Press Sports Editors convention. "We're going down the stream, out of control. I wish there were more reason than emotion in this trial. I can't predict the outcome. That's up to the jury. I would like to see an intelligent result to the thing, but I don't think there will be one."

Davis, the Raiders' managing general partner, said his solution to the case would be to merge four USFL teams with the NFL clubs but also keep the USFL alive.

"Think what you want of the USFL, but remember that the AFL was good for America. It was 1,000 more jobs for players who had a dream and 200 more jobs for coaches to get into the big time," Davis said.

"I think the spring league is a viable thing. I think we could have 32 teams in the fall and 10 in the spring. Of those 10, the six with the best records and attendance could be carried up to the NFL and replace some of the others. It could work, if we had a plan to make it work."

Agony

Bean has Canadian Open lead

OKAVILLE, Ontario (AP) — Andy Bean, despite some difficulty with short putts, managed another 69 and took a one-shot lead Friday after the second round of the Canadian Open Golf Championship.

"It could have been a real good round," said Bean, who missed four times from six feet or less.

Bean said his 3-under-par effort "wasn't bad ... I'll take a couple of more just like it, but if I keep having putts at it from that distance, I'm going to shoot a really good round before it's over."

Bean, a two-time winner already this season, completed two trips over the Glen Abbey Golf Club in suburban Toronto in 138, six under par.

Paul Azinger was alone in second at 139 after a hard-won 69 that came in much more difficult conditions — 40 mph winds, driving rain and chilly temperatures produced by a two-hour squall.

"It was nasty out there, miserable," said Azinger, who had his career-high finish in a runner-up spot in the Hawaiian Open earlier this year.

"We probably had a bit of a break," said Masters champion Jack Nicklaus who, like Bean, played in after the foul weather passed through.

Nicklaus, who won his sixth Masters earlier this season, birdied two of his last three holes for a 69 that put him at 143.

"I've got to hurry up and get close," Nicklaus said, "a very reference to his seven runner-up finishes in this national championship, a title that has eluded him."

"Five shots back with two rounds to play isn't too much. I'm very pleased with the way I'm playing," he said.

Cowhorse races set

HOLLISTER — The Magic Valley Reined Cowhorse Association will conduct its third annual stockhorse races at 10 a.m. Sunday at Nat-Soo-Pah. Entries are $3 each.

Competition is offered in mule races, pony races, barrel races, balloon, egg, hide and rescue among others. A fishery will follow.

Women golfers meet

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Municipal Ladies Golf Association's monthly meeting will be held at 8:30 a.m. Thursday with a scramble to follow the session.

Association board members will meet at 9 a.m. Tuesday.

Fryar countersues

BOSTON (AP) — A lawyer for New England Patriots wide receiver Irving Fryar said he is filing a countersuit against a Boston man alleging extortion in a reported confrontation at a Boston hotel party May 2.

"This is just a shakedown," said Attorney William Rowdink of Quincy in a telephone interview Friday, saying he had long represented the pro football player.

The lawyer said the suit, to be filed next week, is in response to a charge of assault and battery brought by Glenn Hill, 25. A hearing on the charge is set for July 1 in Boston Municipal Court.

Stadium sale near

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — An investment group reportedly will buy Sullivan Stadium and Foxboro Raceway for $2 million but is still pondering a $65 million option to buy the New England Patriots football team, an attorney said.

The package was scheduled to be made final on June 15, but was pushed ahead to July 15 or 16 because of delays transferring title to the stadium home of the National Football League team and problems scheduling racing dates at the adjoining track, a lawyer for the proposed buyers said Thursday.

Redmen admit mistake

NEW YORK (AP) — Jack Kaiser, St. John's University's athletic director, said Friday that two Redmen basketball players "made an inadvertent mistake" in borrowing a credit card from a booster to make telephone calls from an airplane.

Kaiser said all of St. John's governing bodies, the NCAA, Big East Conference and the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Association, have been notified and "they will determine if there was any violation."

In confirming a story in Friday's New York Daily News, Kaiser, the players, all-American Walter Berry and Shelton Jones, had borrowed the credit card from attorney Joe Galiano, while the team was on a March 17 return flight from Long Beach, Calif., where the Redmen lost to Auburn in the second round of the NCAA playoffs.

A's boycott press

OAKLAND (AP) — Several members of the Oakland A's have joined in a boycott of the media to protest press treatment of Dave Kingman, according to published reports.

Reporters for The Tribune, the San Francisco Chronicle and the San Jose Mercury News all said in Friday's editions that they were met by silence from many players after Thursday night's 9-2 defeat by the Royals in Kansas City.

The sports writers wanted to ask the athletes about the firing earlier Thursday of Oakland manager Jackie Moore.

Carney Lansford, Tony Phillips, Moose Haas, Rick Langford, Curt Young and new player representative Chris Codiroli all declined to be interviewed.

Wetzel claims Cavs' job

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Phoenix Suns assistant coach John Wetzel says he is a candidate to become the new head coach of the National Basketball Association's Cleveland Cavaliers.

Wetzel, who has been a Suns assistant for the past seven years, said he received a telephone call Tuesday from new Cavaliers General Manager Wayne Embry to discuss the vacancy.

Knight seeks divorce

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Bob Knight, Indiana University's basketball coach, has filed for divorce.

In a petition filed Thursday in Monroe Superior Court, Knight asked that his marriage to Nancy Knight be dissolved because of an irretrievable breakdown.

Knight asked that there be an equitable distribution of the couple's property.

THE ACES®

BOBBY WOLFF

"A wise man turns chance into good fortune."
— Thomas Fuller.

It was reasonable for South to think that today's club finesse promised him the best chance for game. It was not wise to think that it was his only chance.

East unlocked his heart king on West's queen after dummy had ducked, and he continued with his last heart to dummy's ace. South cashed dummy's king of spades, led a diamond to his ace and cashed the ace of spades. When the queen failed to drop, declarer took the rest of his diamond winners to reach seven tricks and tried the club finesse to make his game. West took his club king and his remaining hearts, beating the game one trick.

South improves his chances considerably if he adopts a different line. After he wins the heart ace on the second round, the spade king is cashed, followed by the ace and queen of diamonds. Next, West is given a heart, but it turns out to be a Greek gift. After running his hearts, West must lead a black suit for a free finesse, and South collects nine tricks.

What if West had a third diamond for a safe exit? Then South would be forced to fall back on the club finesse. But why shouldn't South try his luck in diamonds first? On good days West has only two.
