

Meese led probe of arms deal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorney General Edwin Meese III personally questioned National Security Council aide Oliver North in an extraordinary session at the Justice Department two days before North resigned, a knowledgeable government source said Tuesday.

Meese told a briefing in the White House that President Reagan ordered him last Friday to sort out conflicting accounts of the U.S. involvement in arms shipments to Iran.

In a mere 96 hours, that investigation, conducted like no other in recent memory at the Justice Department, claimed the jobs of Reagan's national security adviser, Adm. John M. Poindexter, and Marine Lt. Col. North, who had served as deputy NSC director for political-military affairs.

Meese's inquiry was extraordinarily tightly held within the Justice Department. Initially, no FBI agents nor criminal division attorneys, the department's primary investigative groups, were involved, sources said.

Meese instead relied heavily on a close circle of legal and political confidants at the department.

On Tuesday afternoon, however, key criminal division executives, including Assistant Attorney General William Weld and his deputy for international affairs, Mark Richard, were summoned to the attorney general's office amid a constant stream of meetings on the Iran inquiry.

Sources, who declined to be identified by name, listed those who joined the attorney general in the initial inquiry as: Assistant Attorney General William Bradford Reynolds, head of the civil rights division; Assistant Attorney General Charles Cooper, head of the Office of Legal Counsel; Counselor to the Attorney General T. Kenneth Cribb Jr.; and Meese's special assistant, John N. Richardson, who serves as his chief of staff.

One source said that Associate Attorney General Stephen Troit, a former criminal division chief, took part in the first round of questioning of North on Saturday, but that could not be confirmed.

Except for Troit and Meese himself, who was once an assistant district attorney in California, none of these men have extensive criminal law experience.

But the team moved swiftly. North was interviewed for nearly 12 hours Saturday by several of the lawyers at his office in the Old Executive Office Building across the street from the White House, sources said.

One source said that on Sunday, North was summoned to the Justice Department and questioned personally by Meese. That session was considerably shorter as Meese also interviewed a number of other officials and past officials, apparently including former national security adviser Robert McFarlane.

As of Tuesday afternoon, the department's criminal division still had not been called into the case. One source said the small team assembled by Meese has "a lot more to do, including a lot more information to gather, presumably some of it overseas."

Meese himself said he had not yet talked to the Israelis about their role in the arms and money transfers, and he said it still had not been determined whether anyone in the administration had broken any laws.

There were a number of unanswered questions after Meese's

White House briefing.

He told reporters he proposed the investigation to Reagan and that the president ordered it after Meese and others who were preparing for a congressional testimony about Iran came across conflicting details and data that did not fit in with what administration officials already knew.

"In the course of a thorough review of a number of intercepts and other materials, this — the hint of a possibility that there were some monies being made available for some other purpose — came to our attention and then we pursued that with the individuals involved," Meese told reporters.

The term "intercepts" is the Justice Department word for electronic eavesdropping.

Meese did not say what intercepts were involved, but since the transfer of money which led to the resignations was from Iran to Israel to numbered Swiss bank accounts controlled by the Nicaraguan Contra movement, he could have been referring to the widespread monitoring of Middle East communications that is done regularly by the National Security Agency.

Crash kills traffic reporter, pilot

CINCINNATI (AP) — A traffic reporter who had been troubled by last month's death of a New York City newswoman in a helicopter crash was killed Tuesday when her radio station's chopper smashed into trees in dense fog.

Unlike the New York crash which killed WNBC traffic reporter Jane Doecker, Nancy McCormick of WKRC was not broadcasting live at the time.

The turbine-powered, five-seat Bell Jet Ranger helicopter leased by WKRC went down on a muddy hillside about two miles from Lunken Airport, not long before federal air traffic controllers suspended landings because of the fog, said police spokesman Howard Nichols.

Pilot Dan Gould, 31, of Dayton, Ohio, also was killed.

Quake jolts park

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Wyo. (AP) — A minor earthquake rattled the western edge of Yellowstone Park Tuesday, one of a swarm of tiny quakes recorded in the past week, a University of Utah seismologist says.

Several people reported feeling the quake, which occurred at 1:45 p.m. MST and registered 3.8 on the Richter scale, said Eithan Brown of the University of Utah Seismograph Stations.

24 HOUR EMERGENCY 733-1812

Tuesday's developments at a glance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are the highlights of developments Tuesday in the controversy surrounding the secret sales of arms by the United States to Iran:

POINDEXTER-NORTH

- President Reagan, saying one element of the U.S.-Iran program was "seriously" flawed, announced that Vice Adm. John Poindexter, his national security council, had asked to be relieved of his duties and to return to Navy service. Reagan said that Marine Lt. Col. Oliver North had been "relieved of his duties" at the National Security Council.

IRANIAN-CONTRA CONNECTION

- Attorney General Edwin Meese told reporters that up to $30 million of the money the Iranians paid for U.S. arms was diverted to U.S.-backed Nicaraguan rebels.
- Meese also revealed that the first U.S.-sanctioned arms shipment to Iran took place in 1985 without Reagan's knowledge and was approved by the president only after the fact.

IRAN-CONGRESS

- Several members of Congress, in both the Democratic and Republican parties, said the Reagan administration should not be investigate itself on the Iranian controversy. They called for the appointment of a special prosecutor to determine whether the administration broke the law in using millions of Iranian dollars to aid the Contra guerrillas in Nicaragua.

NATIONAL SECURITY COUNCIL

- Reagan said he would name a commission to examine the role of his National Security Council staff, which directed the Iranian operation.

NSC LEADERSHIP

- Alton G. Keel Jr., a veteran government official who joined the staff of the National Security Council four months ago as principal acting assistant to Poindexter, was named to the agency's top staff job on an acting basis.

PERMANENT NSC CHAIRMAN

- Congressional sources reported Tuesday that Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, was urging the administration to appoint former Sen. John Tower of Texas to succeed Poindexter. Gramm refused comment, except to say the former senator would be a logical choice. Tower was unavailable for comment.
- White House spokesman Larry Speakes said

Reagan is expected to name a permanent successor later this week while the president spends the Thanksgiving holiday at his California ranch.

SHULTZ

- Secretary of State George Shultz declared that he intends to stay on the job and pursue "in every way possible" Reagan's foreign policy objectives, including a better relationship with Iran.
- "I feel quite privileged to be associated with him in this endeavor," Shultz said in an apparent effort to ward off speculation that he might step down in disagreement with Reagan over the U.S. sale of arms to Iran.

CONTRA REACTION

- In San Jose, Costa Rica, Nicaraguan rebel leaders said they were about the creation of money by their forces from a U.S.-Iranian arms deal could damage their attempt to topple the Sandinista government.
- "We are not aware, not aware," said Pedro Joaquín Chamorro, former editor of the opposition La Prensa newspaper in Managua, Nicaragua's capital.

Hispanic population grows swiftly

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Hispanic population of the United States is growing three times faster than the nation overall and Hispanics may account for 12 percent of U.S. residents by 2020, the Census Bureau said Tuesday.

A Census study projects the white non-Hispanic population, now accounting for 80 percent of the total population, will drop to 74 percent in the year 2000, 68 percent in 2030 and 57 percent in 2050. The white population may peak in size by 2020 and then steadily decrease, the report said.

The Hispanic projections do not include figures for Hispanic residents entering the country illegally, which the government estimates at 150,000 per year. The author of the first Census report, Gregory Spencer, said that since this study was prepared, bureau officials have begun including the illegal population in their studies.

The report said the Hispanic population may double within 30 years and triple within 60. Most of the growth will be attributed to births, which are expected to rise to 500,000 in the year 2000, compared with 400,000 in 1982.

The projections are the first the Census Bureau has compiled dealing specifically with Hispanic population

In the next 20 years, increase in the Hispanic population will account for one-quarter of the nation's total growth, the study said.

Births and legal immigration are expected to bring the total number of Hispanics to 25.2 million by the end of the century, compared with the current estimate of 11.3 million legal Hispanic residents. By the year 2020, the Census Bureau projected, the Hispanic population will be 36.5 million and by 2050 it will reach 51 million.

"Hispanics are the fastest growing population we have in this country," said Census spokesman.

'Mutt and Jeff' cartoonist dies at 84

RUTLAND, Vt. (AP) — Cartoonist Al Smith, who drew the Mutt and Jeff comic strip for nearly half a century, has died at the age of 84.

Mutt and Jeff — the long and short of the cartoon set — was the oldest continuous comic strip in the country, running from 1907 to 1981.

It was created by the late Bud Fisher, making its debut in the San Francisco Chronicle, where Augustus Mutt brought racing tips to pony-playing readers. Little Jeff joined Mutt in 1920.

In 1932, Fisher, by then America's highest-paid cartoonist, earning $4,000 a week, hired Smith to draw the strip. It was the beginning of a fractious relationship.

In 1954, Fisher died and Smith assumed the full task of keeping Mutt and Jeff alive.

"I really love doing it," he said in 1978. "The years have passed so quickly, and Mutt and Jeff have become a part of me. I wake up in the morning, and there they are, waiting for me to go to work."

Board to sell off cottage sites

BOISE (AP) — The Idaho Land Board is going ahead with a proposal to sell some of its cottage sites around Payette and Priest lakes despite some objections voiced by outgoing Gov. John Evans. Board members discussed the proposal for two hours on Tuesday before authorizing the Department of Lands to start selling up to 10 percent of the state-owned sites at the two popular recreation areas.

The board started the selling program months ago, partially to help establish the value of the land to establish proper rental rates.

Evans, nearing the end of his 10-year term as the board's chairman, objected to selling scattered state lots at the lakes, without some sort of overall land-use plan to dictate long-term strategy.

"We need a plan for the sales. This is a haphazard approach," he said.

State to seek modified order

BOISE (AP) — Conceding that the state has no alternative but to comply, a special legislative committee has decided to pressure federal officials to modify a directive from the 1985 Farm Bill that requires Idaho and other states to cease collecting sales tax on food stamp purchases.

"We recognize we have to comply," Sen. Gail Bray, D-Boise, said Tuesday. "But the question is how."

With retailers clamoring that simply exempting food stamp purchases from state sales tax would create severe administrative problems, the House-Senate panel backed an alternative proposal from Retailers Association President Tim Breaunan that would see the state underwrite the $2.3 million in sales tax currently collected each year on some $46 million in federally financed food purchases.

The plan, originated by officials in Virginia, would allow the state to pay the federal government the money it would collect on the food stamps, have its food stamp allotment increased by that amount and then continue to collect the sales taxes as it always has.

BLM's Woodard to new post

BOISE (AP) — Larry Woodard, associate state director of the Bureau of Land Management in Idaho for the past four years, has been appointed director of the federal agency's operations in New Mexico.

"Larry Woodard has built a solid record of accomplishment in the bureau, and his promotion to this important post is well deserved," BLM Director Robert Burford said.

Woodard, a 23-year BLM veteran, was associate director in New Mexico from 1978 to 1982 before being transferred to Idaho. He will be replaced in Idaho by Pieter Van Zanden, currently associate director of the bureau's Eastern States office. Van Zanden previously was chief of resources in Idaho's Coeur d'Alene BLM district.

Repeal of day-care law sought

ST. ANTHONY (AP) — Fremont County commissioners have directed their county attorney to begin work on repeal of the local day-care center licensing ordinance amid inadequate financial backing for the law and the threat of liability because it is not more stringent.

The ordinance, adopted amid a continued legislative impasse on passage of a state-law governing day-care center operations, required day-care providers to undergo a police background check and then attend classes on health practices to obtain an local operating license.

But the classes have never been held and the background checks have apparently been inadequate because of insufficient money to finance them.

Cable firm to raise its rates

POCATELLO (AP) — Group W Cable is raising the price for its basic cable television service in Pocatello beginning next year, but the company will also expand the programming available to basic customers and reduce the costs for specialty channels like HBO.

"The restructured rates give a better reflection of the actual value of our services," said Group W Manager Dean Jones, whose company was purchased by Telecommunications Inc. in June. "That is a higher value for basic cable and a lower value for items which in the past have subsidized the basic service."

Under the restructured system, basic cable service will cost $14.50 a month but will include not only the channels available in the past but also what has been called the "super-cable" package that included The Nashville Network, MTV, The USA Network, CNN and Lifetime. The combination of basic and super-cable service current cost about $12.95 a month.

Time for new blood on PUC, Ward says in stepping down

BOISE (AP) — After 10 years on the Idaho Public Utilities Commission, Conley Ward Jr. says he feels it's time for new blood.

"This appears to be the best time and place for me to step down," said Ward, 39, who announced Tuesday he's resigning from the commission. "This is one of the most satisfying and challenging jobs in Idaho," he said.

Ward's resignation was made public several days ago, but he said Tuesday he wanted to explain why he is stepping down. Ward has two years to run on a term he started in 1983. He said he will serve on the PUC as long as governor-elect Cecil Andrus wants, then will resign and join a Boise law firm.

"The new administration of Cecil Andrus will be a very exciting administration. I have nothing but respect and admiration for Cecil Andrus, and I believe the feeling is mutual," he said.

Ward said he planned earlier to resign before the end of his current term, but the fact that Andrus was elected makes it easier. Ward, like Andrus, is a Democrat.

"That made it somewhat easier to do," he said.

Ward said he's submitted a list of possible successors "who otherwise might be overlooked," but naming a new commissioner will be up to Andrus.

The term of another commissioner, Richard High, also is up early next year. Ward said he will wait to see what Andrus does about that appointment before leaving, to avoid the possibility the three-member PUC might not have a quorum to make decisions.

"Richard High has been a great commissioner. I hope he will consent to serve and the governor appoints him," said Ward.

The carryover member of the commission is its president, Perry Swisher, also a Democrat. High is a Republican.

Jerome commissioners approve rezone for potato plant

By TERESA Z. TAYLOR
Times-News correspondent

JEROME — The Jerome County Board of Commissioners voted Monday to approve C.J. Marshall's request to rezone from commercial to heavy industrial over nine acres of land across from Tupperware on Highway 79.

The decision clears the way for Marshall to build a potato processing plant that is expected to employ 125 people and use locally grown potatoes.

Marshall's rezone request, which was previously approved by the Jerome County Planning and Zoning Commission, has been followed closely by Jerome residents who have displayed overwhelming support at public meetings for the proposed plant.

Dick Critser, of Critser Land Surveys, represented Marshall at the meeting and said waste liquids and solids will be dealt with in such a manner as to minimize any odor in the plant might generate.

Members of the Jerome Economic Development Task Force have visited another Marshall processing plant in Nampa and don't believe the odor would be a problem, said John Helzer, a member of the task force, who testified in favor of the request at the hearing.

Plans outlining handling of the plant waste products were detailed in a study by Larry A. Esvell, Ph.D. The study said that Western Idaho Potato Processing Co., Marshall's company, will clarify and aerate liquid waste in lagoons adjacent the plant. These liquids will then be used to irrigate land on the Rose Charolais Ranch near the plant.

Solid waste will be used as cattle feed, and fatty waste from the plant will be transported for disposal at another location, the study said.

Critser said the highway approach will be similar to the one leading into the Tupperware plant. He estimated nine truckloads of potatoes a day will be processed at the plant.

Construction of the plant is expected to start early next year.

Western Idaho Potato Processing markets french fries to restaurants and other institutional customers nationwide.

The company will continue to concentrate on institutional sales, marketing the fries under a number of labels including Blue Diamond and Western Hills.

Some of the processing equipment for the proposed plant will come from an abandoned company operation at Zillah, Wash., near Yakima.

Western Idaho Potato Processing Co. is one of a number of food and agriculture companies controlled by the Marshall family, including Charlie J. Marshall of Jerome. The family is the majority stockholder in the company.

Style and significance: Bank enters historic register

By BOB FREUND
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Main Avenue was a dusty, dirt street and horse-draw wagons were the traffic in 1910, when workers finished hoisting heavy blocks of stone into place for an imposing structure.

To architects, it still is splendidly neoclassic, with its denticulated entablatures supported by Doric columns.

To seven decades of Twin Falls residents, the two-story building has been the town's homegrown bank and the commercial pivot point of its downtown.

The Twin Falls Bank and Trust Co. entered the National Register of Historic Places Tuesday for both reasons — architectural style — and historic significance.

Rarely does business pause to pay homage to a building. Nevertheless the structure commanded the attention of 100 employees, community leaders, state officials and bank executives Tuesday morning as it passed into the national listing.

Its construction in 1909 and 1910 literally carved into stone an "ambitious design" by architect C. Harvey Smith, also responsible for the Twin Falls County Courthouse, said Jennifer Attebery, Idaho state architectural historian, in the official nomination.

"In both buildings, Smith uses classical motifs to create a balanced, formal appearance," she wrote. The block stone design "conveyed the necessary stability, security and respectability of a banking establishment." (The denticulated entablatures are the rectangular rows of blocks resting atop the columns at the building's two entrances, crafted into tiny columns that resemble teeth.)

Smith also used a new type of construction by reinforcing the stone block with structural steel, Attebery said Tuesday. The building's corner clock was added in 1917.

Two major additions — a "compatible" one in 1956 to open the second story and a "distinct" one in 1978 to expand work space — preserved its historic fabric.

But the listing also recognizes Twin Falls Bank & Trust Co. as an institution, said Tom Green, deputy state historic preservation officer.

"The fact that you have a bank that was instituted in 1905, survived the economic turmoil of the 1920s and 1930s... and had significant additions to the structure... I think that reflects an image any bank would be envious of," he said.

Founded in 1905 by W. S. McCornick and chartered under its current name by the state in 1908, Twin Falls Bank & Trust outlasted two other frontier banks. In the past three decades alone, assets have multiplied from $18 million to $168 million, President Curtis T. Eaton said.

Twin Falls Bank & Trust Co. joins 329 other Magic Valley buildings and sites on the Register. It is one of 20 Twin Falls entries, 15 of which belong with Smith's County Courthouse in the Twin Falls City Park Historic District.

It is the only downtown site currently registered,

Times-News photo/ANDY ARENZ

The Twin Falls Bank and Trust Co. building entered the register of historic places for architectural style and historic significance although six others are significant enough to be considered, according to an official 1979 survey.

A state board makes nominations to the Register from sites picked by the Idaho State Historical Society. The National Park Service decides whether to include them in the Register.

A listing on the National Register allows building owners to take advantage of special federal tax breaks. Twin Falls Bank and Trust currently does not plan any expansions or renovations to take advantage of the tax incentives, said Lance Clow, vice president and marketing director.

Displays of early Twin Falls photographs documented the building, and the ledger containing McCornick's investment of $5,000 recorded the bank's beginnings Tuesday for the public.

For Curtis H. Eaton, chairman and chief executive, whose family has operated the bank for more than 40 years, the listing also was an intensely personal affair.

His fingers grasping the commemorative plaque, Eaton spoke slowly to the crowd in the lobby: "This will occupy a very sacred part of the folklore of this institution and certainly will have a deep and lasting effect on this individual."

Plans for fitness trail to be presented

By CLAUDINE CHAMBERLAIN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Plans for a 2.1-mile fitness trail to be installed at the College of Southern Idaho will be presented at a Rotary Club luncheon today. The club is sponsoring the trail as a community project.

The exercise trail will run for approximately two miles around the east end of the CSI campus and will begin in late spring, said Rotary include 10 activity stations. J-U-B Engineers will be handling the construction of the trail on a volunteer basis. Also helping with design of the trail is Dick Fosbury of Halsey, gold medalist in the 1968 Olympics high jump and originator of the "Fosbury flop" high-jumping technique.

Depending upon the weather, installation of the trail will probably begin in late spring, said Rotary member and engineer Bill Block. The Rotary Club hopes to accomplish the project largely with the help of volunteers. "The only expense will be the materials," Block said. Cost of the materials will probably be about $31,500, he added.

Exercise structures and signs for the trail's activity stations will be purchased from Fit-Trail, a North Carolina organization. "The materials will come completely built as a package designed by the suppliers," Block said.

There will be two starting points on the course, one located by the parking lot of the northern Vo-Tech building, and one located by the library annex at the south end of campus.

The trail has a small loop, where the activity stations are located, and a larger loop that is just a jogging or walking path. Forty different exercises will be demonstrated at the 10 stations, an average of four exercises per station.

The CSI fitness trail will be combining two trails designed by Fit-Trail — the Seniors Walking System and the Jogging System — for basic fitness. Eight of the 46 exercises will be designed especially for seniors, and the other 32 will be aimed at younger fitness enthusiasts.

CSI Athletic Director Carl Kleinkopf said that most of the activity stations will include an exercise structure, and others will simply have signs.

The trail, as well as the activity areas, will be on a four-inch surface of wood chips. Redwood edging will also be included along most of the trail, except for 1,900 feet of the larger loop.

The materials from Fit-Trail come with a five-year guarantee against breakage, including vandalism, said Kleinkopf.

This project is long overdue, he added. "We should've had this a long time ago, but CSI could not have done it because of the money involved. When Rotary proposed this as a community project, we jumped at the opportunity," Kleinkopf said.

Construction will probably begin in late spring, and Rotary will then begin looking for weekend volunteers. Work-study students at the

Care facility for retarded may open by spring

By CLAUDINE CHAMBERLAIN
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Ground may be broken soon for an intermediate care facility for mentally retarded adults near Magic Valley Regional Medical Center.

The facility will be owned and operated by Mike Hutchings, currently an employee of the Adult/Child Development Center. As soon as the center receives approval of funding, immediate groundbreaking is planned, he said.

Providing that groundbreaking takes place soon, the facility should be ready to open by late spring, Hutchings said. Selection of residents, as well as hiring of employees, will take place just before the opening.

The facility will be located on the southeast corner of the intersection of Chapman Avenue and Blake Street. The 157-foot-by-295-foot lot is currently vacant, and surrounding land use includes a school, a church and another vacant lot. The property is zoned for professional overhead.

The site is undeveloped and has no curb, gutter or sidewalk along Blake Street. The construction of these elements was a condition for the approval of a special use permit, which was granted Nov. 18 to Rainier Enterprises by the Twin Falls Planning and Zoning Commission.

Planning and Zoning analysis showed the request to have minimal impact on the area. A public hearing for the permit, on Tuesday, drew a crowd of about 20 people, said City Engineer Gary Young.

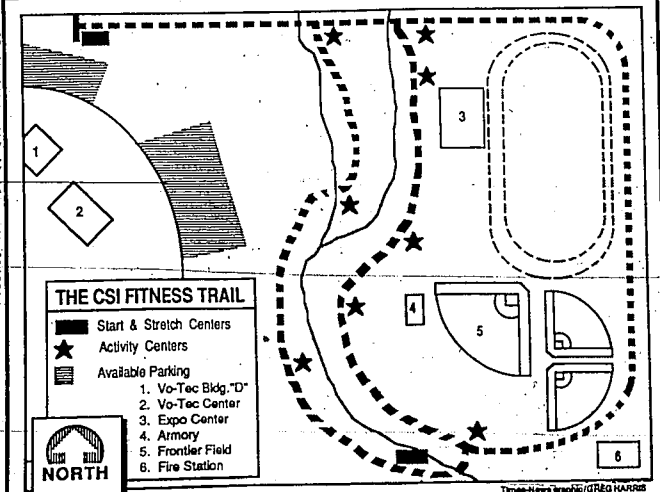

One woman, a resident on Hayburn Street, wondered if property values would drop because of the development. Another man was curious as to why the facility was not being built in connection with the MVRMC, Young said.

A study of the request shows that the facility might even enhance property values in the area, Young said, and the facility is not part of MVRMC because it is not being built in connection with the MVRMC, Young said.

Hutchings said that he was not expecting much negative response from the public. "I had been to Planning and Zoning before to request another permit and nobody had negative feelings then, so I wasn't really expecting them this time," he said.

The facility will house a maximum of 15 mentally retarded adults, and will be in operation seven days a week, 24 hours a day. The center will employ 30 full-time people, with no more than nine employees on duty at any one time.

Most of the residents will be from Magic Valley. "See CARE on Page A7"

What's what

Too little learning?

Most grownups queried by pollsters say they wished they'd had more education. Me too. It's curious. You can get the equivalent of several college educations by devoting a half hour a day to serious reading. In the morning, maybe. Or just before bed. Nothing to it. Still, lack of sufficient education makes for real regret. I fret about it sometimes. A lot during "Jeopardy." Not so much during the Friday night fights.

POPULARITY

Q. In high school, the key to a boy's popularity is how well he does in athletics. What's the key for a girl?

A. Being to the right clique. Or so says those who've researched the matter.

Q. How long has Costa Rica survived without soldiers?

A. At least since 1949 when it adopted a constitution that prohibited a standing army there. Survived, please note, with the highest standard of living in Central America.

Q. How'd Brooklyn get its name?

A. The Dutch brought it over. Near Utrecht in The Netherlands is a small town called "Breukelen" meaning "Broken Land."

TOLERANCE

It's no trick to be tolerant of somebody you don't like. What's tough is to be tolerant of somebody who doesn't like you. Students of behavior say most people can't handle it. It's what perpetuates prejudice, they say.

"Politicians have, generally speaking, interests aside from the interests of the people, and, to say the least of the most of them, they are a long step removed from honest men." Abe Lincoln said that.

You could sell all the chocolate you could ship to Poland these days, a correspondent says. The government there rationed it. Right once a month only and only to children aged 2 to 18.

Daily Horoscope

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is a time to spend too much on amusement. Try to get everything possible not to get caught in a web of confusion. Don't take the bait of a scheming individual.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19): Be sure you know what is expected of you. Contact those in power. Take no risks where credit is concerned.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20): A new contact has a new project that seems promising. It needs further study before you get into it.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21): Home situations are not as they ap-

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22): Do nothing about a private worry. Don't try to fool your mate in some way. Spend time with good friends.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21): You want to get your views across at almost any cost, but let them work out naturally instead. Straighten out a family quarrel.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21): Check messages and calls and be sure they are on the up-and-up. Straighten out a family quarrel.

LEO (July 22 to August 21): Study that financial matter well before you carry through with it. Don't waste time with a boring person.

VIRGO (August 22 to September 22): It's not wise to attend an affair with a friend, so postpone it. Set up a better budget instead.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20): Your hunches are not very good. Be careful in handling your credit. Be tactful about a worldly matter.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19): Make sure you know what your mate desires of you before you waste your energy. A new idea needs study.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20): Listen to the complaints of an associate and do something about it before you carry on with other affairs.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY: he or she will need to be taught more carefully than others since it is difficult for this child to get into the practical world and is apt to be living in the dream world. Once the feet are on the ground, your progeny will seek much knowledge and use it wisely.

Vast oil spill covers Rhine

WIESSBADEN, West Germany (AP) — A huge oil slick of undetermined origin covered parts of the Rhine river from bank to bank on Tuesday. It was the fourth major chemical spill into the river within a month. Crews were trying to pump up the nearly 8-mile-long slick, which was discovered Tuesday morning between the towns of Eitville and Gelsenheim, near Mainz. Georg Dick, a spokesman for the Hesse state Environment Ministry, said West German authorities issued an alert to neighboring countries about the slick. It was lifted in the evening after some of the oil had been pumped off the water. However, Dick said it was impossible to stop the slick which was moving 1.6 miles an hour. He said the slick was about 7.9 miles long and from 33 to 990 feet wide.

Tokyo robbers get $2 million

TOKYO (AP) — Robbers blinded an armored car driver Tuesday by spraying a chemical in his face, grabbed $2 million and escaped in a van into the morning rush-hour traffic, police said. Police helicopters circled overhead for more than an hour after the 8:20 a.m. robbery but found only the escape vehicle, abandoned in an underground parking lot. It was Japan's biggest cash robbery ever. Police said the armored car was parked in front of the Yurakucho branch of the Mitsubishi Bank, near Tokyo's Ginza shopping area, when two people wearing motorcycle helmets attacked the unarmed driver. The driver, 38-year-old Seichi Aizawa, had opened the car's back door and his assistant was handing documents to two clerks, police said. Normal policy requires both men to open the car door together and make the delivery to the bank, the Japan Broadcasting Corp. said.

Pope meets Australian youths

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Pope John Paul II met with a group of young people at a Sydney cricket ground Tuesday after a former mental patient was charged in Brisbane with threatening the pontiff's life. The 24-year-old man was grabbed Tuesday outside Brisbane city hall with five gasoline bombs seven hours before the pope visited the building and said he wanted to attack John Paul because he "has too much money," police said. The pontiff spent about six hours in Brisbane, where he celebrated an open-air Mass for about 70,000 people at the Queen-Elizabeth II stadium. He looked slightly bemused when Simon the koala was thrust into his arms as he whined into the stadium's media center. John Paul walked back and forth in front of photographers as the tiny koala, from the Lone Pine sanctuary, clung to his white cassock. Koalas from the sanctuary also have met Britain's Queen Elizabeth II, and former U.S. presidents Lyndon B. Johnson and Jimmy Carter, sanctuary director Pat Robertson said.

Gorbachev plugs arms control

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev, on his first trip to the Third World, on Tuesday warned that "chains of militarism" threaten man's survival and called for new initiatives to halt the nuclear arms race. Gorbachev and Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi both blamed the U.S. "Star Wars" program for obstructing progress toward a nuclear-free world. The Soviet leader said his Iceland summit with President Reagan revealed "the obstacles and forces" that block nuclear disarmament. The talks broke down over Reagan's refusal to accept the Soviet demand that the Star Wars program to develop a space-based anti-missile defense not involve tests outside the laboratory. Gandhi said Star Wars, formally known as the Strategic Defense Initiative, "dangerously jeopardized" world security. He praised Gorbachev's proposals for arms reduction and called him "a crusader for peace."

Iraqis raid Iran oil terminal

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) — Iraqi warplanes flew their longest mission in more than six years of war Tuesday and rocketed Iran's Larak Island oil export terminal in the northern Persian Gulf, setting two tankers ablaze. Iraq attacked Larak, 750 miles from Iraq's southern air bases, six hours after jets believed to be Iranian raided a French-operated oil platform of the United Arab Emirates, killing at least five workers. It was the first raid on Larak. It is one of two makeshift terminals established at the gulf's southern end because of constant Iraqi raids that have disrupted traffic at the main Iranian export facility on Kharg Island in the northern Persian Gulf. A war communique carried by the official Iraqi News Agency and monitored in Nicosia, Cyprus, described the raid as "unique." It said Larak was "turned into an island of wreckage and fire."

Heavy Lebanese fighting rages

MAGHDOSHUEH, Lebanon (AP) — Thousands of Shiite Muslim militiamen were locked in house-to-house combat with Palestinian guerrillas for control of this hilltop town in southern Lebanon Tuesday night. Police reported dozens of casualties. Shiite Amal militiamen stormed back into Maghdoshueh during the day and retook two-thirds of the town and most of the surrounding bluffs they had lost Monday in the largest operation by the Palestine Liberation Organization in southern Lebanon since Israel's invasion in June 1982. PLO guerrillas regrouped on the western heights of the strategic town overlooking the port city of Sidon and counterattacked at nightfall, driving the Amal militiamen out of large sections of Maghdoshueh.

Philippine cease-fire expected shortly

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — Government and rebel negotiators said Tuesday they expect to agree on a cease-fire agreement in the 17-year-old Communist insurgency before President Corason Aquino's weekend deadline. "I believe that we have achieved substantial progress and we are nearing an agreement," the government said. The Communist Party of the Philippines and its military arm, the New People's Army. Official estimates say the New People's Army has 25,500 men, comprising 18 percent of the archipelago's population. Ramon Mitra said after an eight-hour meeting in a suburban Manila house. "We will meet again, perhaps tomorrow, and be ready to sign an agreement... in time to meet the deadline set by the president, perhaps even on the 27th," he said. Nov. 27 is the birthday of Mrs. Aquino's husband Benigno, who was assassinated in August 1983. Arno Sandico, lawyer for the Communist-dominated National Democratic Front representing the rebels, said: "Both parties agreed they will make an announcement, a final announcement." He did not say when it would come. A source close to the rebel negotiating team said the two sides "seem to be rejoicing" and "it looks like they've got a cease-fire."

Criner: I'd consider BSU job

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa (AP) — Ousted Iowa State football Coach Jim Criner says he'd consider returning to Boise State as that school's coach if the job were offered to him.

Criner was the head coach at Boise State for seven years before taking the Iowa State job in 1983. Lyle Seleneich, who succeeded Criner at Boise State, resigned Sunday after the Broncos finished 5-4 — their first losing season since 1946.

"I've got a lot of fond memories in Boise," Criner told the Cedar Rapids Gazette. "We gave them the best football they've ever had there. It would be something I most definitely would be interested in."

Criner was fired from his Iowa State job Nov. 12 in the wake of an NCAA investigation that uncovered numerous rules violations in his program, although he said Monday that two lie detector tests showed he wasn't guilty of any serious wrongdoing. Iowa State split its last two regular-season games after Criner was fired, ending the season at 6-5. Criner's four-year record at Iowa State was 16-19.

He compiled a 59-21-1 record at Boise State and his teams won Big Sky Conference championships in 1977, 1979 and 1980 and the NCAA Division I-AA title in 1980. However, the 1979 team had its championship taken away by the NCAA because of a friend of Criner's illegally scouted an opponent.

Criner said he wasn't sure if he wanted to remain in coaching. For now, he said he wants to spend some time with his family in Ames.

"I'm a workaholic by choice and I don't want to do something I can't put that same energy into," he said. "If I do stay in coaching, I want to be able to approach it that way. And if I don't, whatever I choose, I want to be able to approach it that way."

Max Corbet, Boise State's sports information director, said he'd be "very, very surprised" if Criner returned to the school. Corbet said Criner still has support at Boise State, but added people are aware of his problems at Iowa State.

"Everyone has seen what's happened there," he said. "I haven't even heard his name mentioned."

Criner's brother, Herb, has been an assistant coach at Boise State for the last two years.

Herb Criner was the only one of Seleneich's nine assistant coaches retained by Boise State after Seleneich resigned Sunday.

Herb Criner, who coached at Coeur d'Alene High School for five years before moving on to BSU, has two years remaining on his contract with the school.

No favorite has emerged among possible replacements for Seleneich.

Can Vandals do any better in rematch?

By The Associated Press

The final weekend of the Big Sky Conference football season saw only one league game, but its consequences will be felt around the Big Sky for months and maybe years to come.

The University of Idaho's 21-14 victory over Boise State, along with an unlikely series of events in other games, helped propel the Vandals to an at-large berth in the NCAA I-AA playoffs.

Idaho, which lost in the first round of last year's I-AA playoffs to Eastern Washington, will travel to Big Sky champion Nevada-Reno next Saturday in first-round competition.

"It gives me the chance to coach one more week, and that's what I wanted," said Keith Gilbertson, Idaho's first-year head coach. "We've made so much improvement that we didn't want the season to end."

surely as BSU needed a win to avoid its 5-6 season record. The game pitted one of the league's most explosive offenses against its most stingy defense. The statistics show Boise State won, everywhere but on the scoreboard.

The Broncos racked up 369 yards total offense to Idaho's 306, made 72 first downs to the Vandals' 12 and had the ball nearly twice as long. But as was the case too often this season, they were unable to get the ball into the end zone while Idaho took advantage of every opportunity.

"We don't really need to have the ball in our possession that much," said wide receiver Brant Bengen, whose 52-yard touchdown reception in the second quarter proved to be decisive.

But despite winning undisputed bragging rights over college football in Idaho, the Vandals generally were gracious in victory.

"We realized they were the best defense we faced all year," Bengen said. "They proved that again today; they're a really good team."

In the two other games involving Big Sky teams on Saturday, Montana thumped Portland State 35-14, and Weber State lost to Nicholls State 34-30.

For Montana, the key to winning a Portland State game with which it seemed evenly matched turned out to be turnovers. The Vikings gave up the ball twice on fumbles and twice on interceptions.

"The ball went our way today," said head coach Don Read, who led the Grizzlies to a surprisingly strong 6-4 record in his first year at Montana after five years as head coach at Portland State.

Coach Pokey Allen, who led the Vikings to a 6-5 record in his first year at Portland, agreed that turnovers were the difference in the game. "We always make it tough on ourselves."

The schedule made it tough on Weber State, matching the Wildcats with Nicholls State of Thibodaux, La. The Colonies' victory gave them a 9-2 record heading into next Saturday's first-round I-AA playoff game against 9-1 Appalachian State.

The loss ended a disappointing 3-8 season for Weber State that saw the Wildcats muster an almost unstoppable offense but a defense that proved flimsy at best.

But Saturday's game had an even more profound effect in Boise. The defeat marked the first losing season for a Bronco team since 1946, when Boise Junior College went 2-4-2.

It also marked the end of head coach Lyle Seleneich's four years at the helm of BSU. He resigned on Sunday, saying it was in the best interest of the school and the community that he leave.

Seleneich's record at Boise State was 24-20, or 55 percent. But it included losses to rival Idaho each year and came hard on the heels of the Broncos' 1980 national championship. That proved too much for BSU fans.

But while it was time for a shake-up in Boise, Vandal fans were looking forward to a rematch with Nevada-Reno. The Wolf Pack ended the regular season with an 11-0 record. They were ranked first in Division I-AA for much of the season and beat Idaho earlier this year, 17-13.

Idaho finished the regular season 8-3 overall and 5-2 against Big Sky opponents. One of those league losses came at the hands of Northern Arizona, which at 7-4 overall and 5-2 in the conference also was in contention for an at-large playoff berth.

The Vandals, ranked 16th in the latest I-AA poll, needed a victory over Boise State to get the nod as

NFL union asks more policing

NEW YORK (AP) — Gene Upshaw, executive director of the NFL Players Association, said Tuesday that officials should take greater control of games to prevent flagrant fouls.

He cited an incident Sunday in which Chicago Bear quarterback Jim McMahon was slammed to the ground by Green Bay's Charles Martin in the Bears' 19-0 victory. McMahon's sore right shoulder was re-injured and Dr. Frank Jobe said Tuesday that the quarterback would undergo arthroscopic surgery Dec. 12 and miss the rest of the season.

"Officials should control the game," Upshaw said. "I had a report prior to the game that Green Bay players came on the field with a hit list of players they wanted to get. Officials should immediately call the coaches and say 'We're not going to tolerate this. If you don't control it, we're going to control it.' I've been in games where referees like Ben Dreith or Jim Tunney said, 'I'm taking control.' I've heard it."

Martin was ejected from the game and Tuesday was suspended for two games without pay by Commissioner Pete Rozelle. It was the most severe penalty for an on-field incident since Rozelle has handed down in his 25 years as commissioner.

"All he can do is discipline a player after the fact," Upshaw said. "Rozelle has suspended players in the past. He might do it again. It can be controlled. Things like that don't just happen on the spur of the moment. It's the point in the game when the foul occurred. There was a buildup. I played in 200-some games. I know everytime I ever got in a beef, I didn't walk on the field and just do it. It was provoked. Something led up to it."

"Players are not going to control aggressiveness on the field. That's what the officials get paid for."

Upshaw, who played 16 years in the NFL as an offensive guard, said he thought the level of violence has not changed since he retired.

"Though there have been several incidents of late hits and other violent acts in recent weeks, Upshaw said he did not believe the game had become more violent.

"But players are in a situation where they have to perform or else lose their jobs. There are more players in the job force.

Pomerelle, Sun Valley promise to open for skiing on Thanksgiving Day

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Pomerelle ski resort, south of Albion, is expected to have a corner on the Thanksgiving holiday skiing in at least the southern part of Big Valley this week, with other areas still waiting for more snow.

The Cassia County resort, usually the first to open for the season, has been operating for the past two weeks with conditions improving from the initial marginal snow cover to what some skiers said were unusually good early season conditions during the past weekend.

Sun Valley Co. officials say the northern area resort will also be open as scheduled on Thanksgiving Day. Skiers there will probably have to settle for man-made snow and limited runs unless the weather gets a little more cooperative before the holiday.

Pomerelle owner Woody Anderson reported another foot of new snow at that resort during the past week.

The area is already operating on a regular schedule of 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday.

Ski lift ticket prices have been increased slightly this year. Day passes will be $14 and half-day $11 for weekends and holidays. Night skiing tickets, priced at $200, are now on is $10 and will begin Dec. 26. Sale from resort owners or at Pedersen's and the Corner Pocket in Pomerelle's rope tow is free this year.

At Sun Valley, snow making equipment has been working for several weeks as low temperatures permit, and at least Lower Warm Springs runs will be covered and groomed for the opening holiday reservations, the resort officials say.

Magic Mountain, southeast of Twin Falls, is waiting for additional snow before announcing an opening date. Plans are to operate Friday through Monday this year. Season tickets, priced at $200, are now on is $10 and will begin Dec. 26. Sale from resort owners or at Pedersen's and the Corner Pocket in Twin Falls, says Mrs. Gary Nebeker of Murtaugh, one of the resort owners and operators.

She said increasing operational costs have forced the resort to make an increase in lift passes this year to $12 per day for all lifts, $9.50 for the Poma lift and $4 for the rope tow.

Soldier Mountain at Fairfield will be open only on weekends this season, but like Magic and Pomerelle will operate daily during the holiday season. It also is waiting on additional snow and a resort officials are hoping to begin operating as soon as possible.

Soldier Mountain will not have a resort manager this year, but will have persons assigned to various divisions of the operation, such as the rental shop, dining facility and mountain and lifts.

Randy Jewett is in charge of lift operations and Tony Dalin is outdoor operations director. These two, with the help of Robert Ivl, have been handling maintenance and getting the area ready for the opening.

Lift tickets at Soldier are $13 for day passes and $11 for half-day passes for adults. Children under 12 years pay $10 for day passes and $8 half-day. There is no season pass this year. At Soldier because of the reduced operation schedule.

A's say Jackson may return to Oakland next year as DH

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Reggie Jackson or Dave Kingman? That's the choice the Oakland A's are mulling, and a club official here said the slugger the team wants as designated hitter next season.

Sandy Alderson, Oakland's vice president of baseball operations, said he is interested in bringing Jackson back to the city where he started in the early 1970s.

"We have talked with his agent and expect to talk with his agent again," Alderson said. "It's a possibility that he'll sign with us."

Jackson, 40, who had 18 homers in his career 548 last summer for California, and Kingman, who had 55 homers for the A's, are both free agents, but the A's won't sign both of them.

"I doubt that any club could accommodate a Dave Kingman and a Reggie Jackson," Alderson said.

The number of homers each is capable of hitting is not going to be the only factor the A's will consider, Alderson said.

"The presence of a Jackson or a Kingman has to be evaluated in a number of lights," he said.

CSI beats Hawaii armed forces team, 99-82

By The Times-News

HICKAM AIR FORCE BASE, Hawaii — The College of Southern Idaho's men's basketball team survived a tough challenge from a group of armed forces all-stars here Monday night before pulling out a 99-82 victory.

"...it was a tough game," said Coach Fred Trenkle, whose 4-0 Golden Eagles were scheduled to play a group of college all-stars in Honolulu Tuesday night. "They had a lot of awful quick kids, and we had to play on their home floor, which was tough."

The Eagles lost sophomore forward Erick Newman to fouls with 11 minutes left in the game. Sophomore Joey Johnson and freshman Mauro Gomes also fouled out of the game late in the second half.

"We had to play a lot of kids because we just didn't have any players left," said Trenkle. "I thought (redshirt freshman guard) Dale Karst did a good job for us. He came in and scored 13 points."

CSI moved out to a 19-point lead early in the game and stayed ahead by between eight and 11 points until the three-minute mark in the half, when the armed forces stars began to make their move. Although it kept a narrow lead, CSI didn't take control of the game until late in the second half.

Johnson led the Eagles with 20 points, while sophomore guard Gerald Collins added 17. As a team, CSI shot 57 percent for the game.

No other scoring details were available at press time.

CSI will conclude its road trips through Hawaii at the point in the game at Brigham Young University-Hawaii on late.

Consumer prices continue edging upward

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer prices rose just below 0.2 percent last month as increases for new cars and auto financing...

The increase in the Labor Department's Consumer Price Index followed a 0.3 percent rise in September. Prices have been edging up since the last month in which a decline was recorded.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes offered an upbeat assessment of Tuesday's statistics, asserting: "The American economy is gathering steam..."

The October increase left the index at 330.5, meaning that the same marketbasket of goods that cost $10 during a 1987 base period cost $33.05 last month.

Manly economists predicted a 4 percent rate of inflation or higher for 1987. "The CPI for 1987 will accelerate from 1.7 percent in the 12 months of 1986 to 4.2 percent in 1987," said Donald Ratajczak...
