Lease plan will keep Jerome bird farm going

By LARRY HOVEY
 Times-News writer

More from F&G — D3

BOISE — The city of Jerome — or perhaps an appointed representative — will probably become the new proprietor of the Idaho Game Bird Farm and its facilities on a lease basis.

It is certain the Idaho Fish and Game Commission likes the idea of a non-profit, publicly motivated organization taking over the farm, which, for pheasant enhancement purposes, is considered passe in upland bird management.

In its monthly meeting Friday, the commission paved the way for leasing the 40-acre bird farm as part of a change in pheasant management policy. But the real change in policy, simply put, is that the farm will not be either closed or auctioned off. That nearly came to be part of pheasant management last year.

The panel approved eight points in a 10-point plan, omitting a $5 fee for hunting on bird-planted wildlife management areas because it would require legislative action.

The shifting of the bird farm's management from the department was undertaken when Dick Jordan and Robin Kinsey, both of Jerome, appeared at a public hearing Thursday night and said the city and various private and public businesses and individuals had expressed support for keeping the bird farm in operation through volunteer labor and donated funding and feed.

The city of Jerome will have first crack at the lease under an Idaho statute which allows the commission to enter into direct negotiations with another governmental entity on a lease arrangement. But if the other party is not a governmental agency, then state law requires a bidding process for all comers, public or private.

The department would be willing to accept adult rooster pheasants instead of cash for rent of the farm, according to Gary Will, state game bird manager for the Idaho Department of Fish and Game. Fish & Game would invite bids from the Jerome farm as from other private contractors to provide another specified number of roosters for planting prior to and during the hunting season on department-owned management areas.

Additionally, the farm would be eligible to compete for bids in the day-old chick program, under which public and private cooperators raise a minimum of 200 birds to a point of release.

But the farm would be required to meet the same criteria as other bidders concerning specifications for birds.

Will emphasized that continuation of the bird farm does not imply that any of those

Pearl Harbor attack memories still fresh

By CLAUDINE CHAMBERLAIN
 Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Forty-five years ago Sunday, Japanese planes attacked Pearl Harbor. Twin Falls resident Ted Anderson was there — fingerprinting the dead.

Coming on an unexpected northern route and hidden by storm clouds, 183 Japanese planes attacked the harbor in Honolulu, Hawaii, at 7:55 a.m.

Anderson was stationed at the Pearl Harbor Naval Hospital, working as a pharmacist.

Of the 110,000 United States servicemen on Oahu Island that morning, 2,403 were killed and 1,178 were wounded.

The Japanese came in two waves, Anderson said. The first wave, 183 planes, was followed by a second wave of 170 planes 45 minutes later.

The grisly job of fingerprinting the dead was not something "done overnight," he said. "My battle station turned into a morgue. It took about a week to get through them (the bodies)," he said.

Anderson remembers the morning of Dec. 7, 1941, as a surprise to the servicemen stationed on the island. "The island was on alert, and we were expecting sabotage, but not an air attack. We thought we were an impregnable force. All of a sudden, things just started exploding," he said.

When the bombs hit, ships in the harbor lost oil, which set the water on fire. Some of the bodies I fingerprinted were burned.

Soviets to abide by treaty

The Associated Press

MOSCOW — The Kremlin said Friday it will continue to abide by SALT II treaty limits on nuclear weapons despite Washington's decision to exceed them, but it warned the United States was making a big mistake.

The statement, carried by the official news agency Tass, also accused Washington of abandoning SALT II to help clear the way for a major U.S. arms buildup.

On Nov. 28, the United States deliberately exceeded the limits set by the treaty when it deployed a B-52 bomber capable of carrying nuclear-tipped cruise missiles, while the Navy failed to retire a missile-arming submarine.

The Kremlin called the decision a "major provocation and said it violated tentative arms reduction agreements reached at the Iceland summit.

"Washington is making a big mistake," the statement said. "The exceeding of the limits set by the SALT II treaty will not strengthen U.S. security."

The Kremlin said that although the Soviet Union now has grounds to consider itself free of the treaty, it is not ready to scrap it.

Taking into account the immense importance of the issue and the need to preserve the key constraint on the strategic arms race, the USSR refrains for the time being from abandoning the limitations under SALT I and SALT II," it said.

Soviet media and Foreign Ministry spokesman Y Gennady Gerasimov already have criticized the U.S. decision to abandon SALT II, but Friday's statement was the first official Kremlin reaction.

SALT II was signed in 1979 by former President Jimmy Carter and then-Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev. Although Congress never ratified the treaty, both superpowers agreed to abide by its limits.

But President Reagan indicated repeatedly he did not think the treaty was in the national interest of the United States and eventually would be abrogated.

Reagan, leaders say no special session

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — House and Senate leaders on Friday generally came out against the notion of calling a special session of Congress to put select committees immediately to work probing the Iran-Contra arms sale scandal, and President Reagan decided against it.

Emerging from a meeting with Reagan at the White House, House Democratic leader Jim Wright of Texas told reporters, "We don't believe anything worthwhile would be achieved by it. Time would be wasted, not saved. It would not accomplish any particular purpose and would be seen as a grandstand play."

That view was shared by Senate Democratic leader Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia and House Republican leader Bob Michel of Illinois, although Senate Republican leader Bob Dole of Kansas, who had been pushing the idea earlier, declined to join his colleagues in opposing it.

Rebellion in his party and among some members of his administration, Sen. John H. Chafee, R-R.I., the third-ranking Republican in the Senate, said that when he urged Reagan to make "changes in personnel... including Reagan," the president replied that "he wasn't going to throw anybody to the wolves." Some of the senators also pressed for the ouster of CIA Director William J. Casey.

But there were reports that Reagan remained under intense pressure from Republican critics and from First Lady Nancy Reagan, who said

White House pares forecast for growth

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Reagan administration is lowering its forecast for economic growth in the coming year as work continues on a proposed $1.02 trillion budget for fiscal 1988, officials said Friday.

Instead of the 4.2 percent growth the administration had predicted, top-level government economists have projected growth at a less-optimistic 3.5 percent for the coming year, administration sources said.

However, the three officers who must sign off on the economic figures that will be plugged into the budget — Treasury Secretary James Baker, budget director James Miller and Beryl Sprinkel, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisors — have yet to reach agreement on this figure, the sources said.

Changes in economic conditions have an important bearing on the budget deficit. Lower growth implies lower receipts, increasing the budget shortfall.

The administration has vowed to present a budget to Congress that will meet the $108 billion deficit target of the Gramm-Rudman budget-balancing law for the 1988 fiscal year, which begins next Oct. 1.

Meanwhile, officials who spoke on condition of anonymity said the Office of Management and Budget has proposed restructuring of the National Weather Service, an overhaul of doctor payments under Medicare and establishment of new fees to pay for the government's efforts to promote tourism.

And in a turnabout from last year, the budget office has proposed expanding the functions of the Small Business Administration, an agency President Reagan's fiscal 1987 budget sought to eliminate, the sources said.

GOP leaders press for firing of Reagan, Casey

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — For the fourth day in a row, President Reagan was personally confronted by Republican congressional leaders Friday.

This time it was by GOP senators who asked him to replace his chief of staff and CIA director, and Reagan assured them again that he had no advance knowledge of the diversion of funds from arms sales to Iran to aid Nicaraguan Contras.

A number of lawmakers, led by Sen. Pete V. Domenici, R-N.M., also urged Reagan to appoint a "special counselor" who could advise him as he seeks to cope with sagging public credibility and multiple investigations into the clandestine deals.

Reporting on the senators' White House session with the president, Domenici said Reagan was asked again about what he knew of the money diversion to the Contras. "He looked right at each one of us and said, 'I knew nothing about it,'" Domenici said. "I don't think anyone challenged him."

On staff changes, Reagan was described by a close friend as "determined not to be pushed" into firing chief of staff Donald T. Regan by the

Bateman leaves Legislature after missing committee slot

BOISE (AP) — Rep. Linden Bateman, R-Idaho Falls, abruptly resigned from the Idaho Legislature on Friday after failing to be named chairman of the House Resources and Conservation Committee for the upcoming session.

House Speaker Tom Boyd, R-Genesee, confirmed that he had been advised that Bateman resigned, but said he had no official word. Bateman left immediately for eastern Idaho and could not be reached for comment.

The governor's office said Bateman submitted a letter of resignation Friday afternoon.

The development occurred as the Idaho House and Senate worked on committee assignments for the session which convenes Jan. 12. The House wound up about two hours earlier than the Senate, which did not adjourn the organizing session until after 6 p.m. Friday night.

The Senate, reportedly split over committee ratios between the GOP and Democrats, wound up creating a new committee, Investment and Retirement Funds. It will be headed by Boise lawyer Bill Ringert.

Some of the major committees in both chambers received new chairmen, but there were some carryovers.

Rep. Kathleen "Kitty" Gurnsey, R-Boise, remained cochairman of the 24-member Joint Finance Appropriations Committee. Sen. Atwell Parry, R-Melba, will be cochairman of the panel.

Rep. James Lucas, R-Moscow, who was chairman of Local Government and Taxation the last two years, gave up that assignment to add a moderate vote to the budget committee.

Rep. Robert Fry, R-Horseshoe Bend, will head Local Government.

Sen. Phil Batt, R-Wilder, formerly caucus chairman, became chairman of State Affairs. In the House, that assignment went to Rep. Pam Bengson, R-Boise.

REP. LINDEN BATEMAN Wanted Chatburn's seat

Moderate Rep. Dean Haagenson, R-Coeur d'Alene, who helped Rep. Tom Boyd of Genesee win the speaker election on Thursday, on Friday was named chairman of Resources and Conservation, the job Bateman wanted.

Rep. Emerson Smock, R-Boise, was named chairman of the House Environmental Affairs Committee and Rep. Don Loveland, R-Boise, heads Judiciary, Rules and Administration.

Both succeeded Republicans who retired or were defeated in last year's elections. Other GOP chairmen retained their positions.

Another key figure in Boyd's victory in the speaker race, Rep. Jerry Deckard, R-Eagle, was named chairman of the Ways and Means Committee.

In the Senate, new committee chairmen, besides Batt, Ringert and Parry, include: Herb Carlson of Eagle, Agriculture; Ann Rydahl, Idaho Falls, Commerce and Labor; Veal Crystal, Lewisville, Local Government; Skip Smyser, Parma, Transportation.

Terry Sverdrup, Cataldo, remains chairman of Education; Denton Darrington, Declo, heads Health and Welfare again; Roger Fairchild, Fruiland, returns to head Judiciary and Rules and Laird Noh, Kimberly, heads Resources and Environment again.

Bateman, a government teacher at Bonneville High School in Idaho Falls, was sworn in Thursday to start his 11th year in the Legislature.

Bateman said before the session started he wanted to be chairman of Resources and Conservation, since his longtime chairman, Veal Chatburn of Albion, retired from the Legislature this year.

Boyd said Bateman did not get that assignment on Friday, but instead was put on the House State Affairs Committee. As a senior, non-leadership member of that committee, Boyd said Bateman would have been in line as chairman, but wanted to head Resources and Conservation instead.

The GOP Legislative District 31 Central Committee will have to meet to nominate up to three replacements for Bateman, whose two-year term started just Thursday.

The legislative committee has 15 days after the date of resignation to nominate successors. The governor has 15 days after that to make the selection, which means it will be up to outgoing Gov. John Evans to make the appointment. The 30 days runs to Jan. 4 and governor-elect Cecil Andrus won't be sworn in until the next day.

Evans also has to appoint a replacement for Pocatello Rep. Vivian Crozier, a Democrat, who died earlier in the week.

New road maps will be free

BOISE (AP) — Idaho road maps will take a new turn by late March with an overhaul that will make them more tourist-oriented — and free of charge.

The Idaho State Transportation board of directors voted unanimously Thursday to allocate $45,000 to create the more informative map and to eliminate the current 15-cent charge.

Many groups, both in and out of state, have requested maps and then refused to buy them when a price was mentioned, said Jeff Stratton, public information officer for the department. Thirty-six states offer their maps for free, he added.

The Idaho Travel Council designed the back of the map and will contribute $15,750 for the map overhaul, he said.

ISU slaps age limit on Minidome concerts

POCATELLO (AP) — Complaints about drug and alcohol abuse have prompted Idaho State University President Richard Bowen to order that no one under 18 years old be admitted to concerts at the ISU Minidome.

There has been a large attendance by junior high school-aged kids, and a great deal of alcohol and a considerable amount of illegal drugs — particularly marijuana, Bowen said. "I felt the university ought not be a party to that."

Minidome Manager Ray Ritari said the ban probably will keep rock acts from scheduling concerts in the facility and will force it to look elsewhere for sources of revenue. Bowen said his action came on the recommendation of a number of ISU staff members who complained about drug and alcohol problems at past concerts.

ISU security and Pocatello Police Department officials also have complained about discipline problems at Minidome concerts, particularly two featuring the rock group Van Halen.

Ritari, who defended the Minidome's booking of rock concerts following the last Van Halen performance, said he did not disagree with Bowen's order. But he added that the facility now will have to look for other ways to raise operating revenues.

Bill for major election campaigns near $10.5 million, reports show

BOISE (AP) — The bill for the three major campaigns in Idaho this year hit nearly $10 million, campaign finance reports showed Friday.

About half was spent in the state's most costly election, the $5.2 million laid out by Republican Sen. Steve Symms and Democratic Gov. John Evans in their battle for the U.S. Senate.

Labor forces battling right-to-work spent $2.3 million, more than double the $1.133 million spent by organizations supporting right-to-work.

And Democratic governor-elect Cecil Andrus, $4.07 million, and Republican Lt. Gov. David Leroy, $341,000, spent another $1.8 million in their battle to succeed Evans as governor.

The reports indicate spending isn't the sole factor determining election races. Symms outspent Evan and won handily, but Idaho voters approved right-to-work despite the spending imbalance in that race.

The campaign finance reports, registered with the secretary of state's office here, also show Republican James Risch and Democrat Larry La Rocco shattered every spending record for a state legislative race.

Risch, re-elected to his third term as Senate president pro tem this week, spent $38,871 winning a state Senate seat which covers all of Ada County. Risch also listed unpaid obligations of about $10,000. That's more than double the previous spending record set by Boise Republican Dean Sorensen in a 1982 race.

La Rocco, a Boise stock broker, reported spending $52,548.

Between them, the two candidates spent more than $170,000, the first state legislative race ever to pass $100,000.

Risch won, 43,006 to 35,588, and the campaign finance reports reflect his last-minute voter blitz.

Risch spent $40,258 after Oct. 14, most of it on mass mailings to Ada County voters. La Rocco spent only $16,657 in the same period. The report also shows Risch put $12,500 of his own money into the campaign in the final few days.

Republican Lydia Justice Edwards won the state treasurer job over Democrat Shawn de Loyola, and the reports also indicate the winner was able to spend much more than the loser in the final weeks.

Edwards spent $36,572, including $7,341 in the last two weeks. DeLoyola spent $22,985 but only $1,131 in the final weeks of the campaign.

The AFL-CIO COPE, Committee on Political Education, spent $495,132; state AFL-CIO, $74,328 and Idahoans Against Deception spent $1,775 million in the battle against right-to-work. Most of it came from national labor organizations.

The Idaho Employee Rights Campaign Committee spent $184,555 and the Idaho Citizens for Freedom and Jobs spent $38,758, both in support of right-to-work. More than three-fourths of the funding for the Idaho Citizens for Freedom and Jobs came from the Salt Lake City-based Rocky Mountain States Right to Work Committee.

Prison inmates stage 'demonstration'

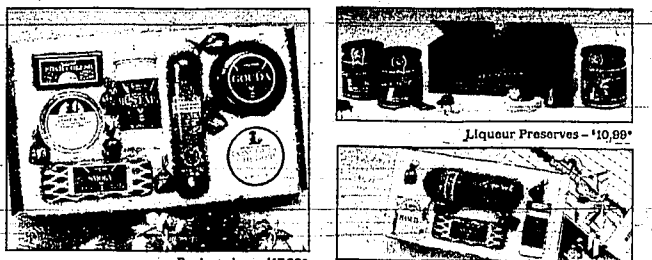

BOISE (AP) — Fifteen inmates in the Idaho State Penitentiary's Unit 8 staged what a prison official called a "wild demonstration" Thursday night, tearing up beds, windows and other property in their cells.

U.S. Fred Brewer said all but two of the inmates in the administrative segregation Tier B of Unit 8 were involved in the disturbance, which remained under investigation late Friday.

Officials would not disclose what sparked the incident, but Brewer said there were no injuries and the prisoners never left their cells.

Unit 8 also houses Death Row and prisoners held in disciplinary detention, he said.

Did Iran-Contra Dealings Break Any Laws?

POSSIBLY ILLEGAL ACT	RELEVANT LAW	WHY IT MAY NOT APPLY
Any direct or indirect aid to the contras during most of 1986 was prohibited by...	Boland Amendment	...but the law contains no criminal penalties for violation.
Spending any money for purposes not approved by Congress is prohibited by...	Anti-Deficiency Act	...but the law has never been used in this context.
If money sent to the contras was U.S. government property, then its diversion might be the crime of...	Conspiracy to Defraud the U.S. Government	...but Attorney General Meese says the diverted money "was not owed to the U.S. government."
Or it could fall under the broader statute outlawing...	Theft of U.S. Government Property
Shipping arms to Iran is prohibited by various...	Arms Export Control Laws	...but the law gives the President power to license or ban, and presumably to ban, arms exports.
The President is required to notify Congress of such acts as secret arms deals by...	National Security Act of 1947	...but the law specifies no precise deadline, merely "timely" notice.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Strom Thurmond, a U.S. senator for more than 30 years, delivered an unusually harsh attack on a fellow senator from South Carolina Friday.

He accused Ernest F. Hollings of recklessly seeking to the President Reagan directly to the diversion of Iranian arms sale money to Nicaraguan rebels.

Thurmond, Republican chairman of the Judiciary Committee, suggested that Hollings, a Democrat, be bounced from the Senate Intelligence Committee investigation for suggesting that President Reagan knew more than he admitted about the operation.

Thurmond called a news conference to tell reporters that Hollings had "been roughshod" over Reagan's rights and has "called into question" his own objectivity as a member of the panel which has been delving into the Iran-Contra arms and money connection.

There was "no basis" for suggesting the president has been less than truthful, Thurmond said, adding, "I accept his statement ... unless the facts come out to the contrary."

Hollings had said Tuesday that he was "positive" of Reagan's knowledge of diversion of profits from arms sales to Iran to Contra rebels — even though the president has insisted he did not know until some two weeks ago.

Senators normally refrain from personal attacks on each other, and Thurmond said he held back on his bitter criticism until he could confer with Sen. David Durenberger, R-Minn., chairman of the intelligence panel. The committee has been holding secret hearings on the Iran-Contra scandal.

Thurmond said he asked Durenberger "if the committee had reached that particular conclusion (that Reagan knew more than he was saying), and he informed me that it had not."

"Furthermore, he told me there has not been any evidence thus far in the intelligence committee hearings to suggest that the president has not told the truth, or had any involvement with or knowledge of the diversion of funds to the Contras," he said.

Thurmond, who holds the ceremonial post of president pro tempore, said removal of Hollings from the investigation is a matter for Durenberger and the South Carolina Democrat to decide.

"But when asked if he was suggesting that very step, Thurmond replied, 'You know what the answer would be.'"

Durenberger had suggested after Hollings' remarks that he either respect the intelligence panel's need for secrecy or consider leaving the committee.

Hollings, in a written statement late Friday, said the news media "has constantly tried to have me call the president a liar. What I have said is that the president has not fully informed the American people."

Hollings said the key question is whether former National Security adviser John M. Poindexter and fired NSC staffer Oliver North acted with "presidential authority."

McFarlane tells panel Reagan OK'd '85 sale

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former national security adviser Robert C. McFarlane has told the Senate Intelligence Committee that President Reagan gave advance approval to a 1985 sale of U.S. arms to Iran by Israel, a knowledgeable source said Friday.

McFarlane's sworn testimony on Monday during a closed-door committee hearing was directly at odds with a statement by Attorney General Edwin Meese III, who said last week that Reagan learned of and approved the September 1985 shipment only after it already had taken place.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes disputed McFarlane's reported testimony, saying he had recall any prior approval of the shipment by Reagan and had found one document that directly contradicted McFarlane.

In the testimony, first reported Friday by the New York Times and the San Jose Mercury News, McFarlane said Reagan had decided to condone the arms sale and passed word of his assent to the Israelis through McFarlane the month before the shipment was made. The source who confirmed those reports did so only on condition that he not be named.

Reagan agreed that the United States would sell Israel replacements for the weapons, which were antitank missiles, McFarlane reportedly testified, adding that Secretary of State George P. Shultz and Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger opposed the move.

McFarlane told the committee that discussion of selling arms to Iran in hopes of opening a channel of trust, with moderates inside the government, there was initiated by Deputy Secretary of State Douglas M. Kimoche, director general of the Israeli Foreign Ministry, during the second of two meetings between the two men that summer.

Up in arms

Prosecutions will continue

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States will continue to prosecute people who sell American-made arms to Iran, despite disclosures of the U.S. government's own arms sales to Iran, a prosecutor told a federal appeals court Friday.

"When private individuals seek to sell arms to Iran it is against the policy of the Department of State and the government of the United States, and we will continue to be prosecuting," said Assistant U.S. Attorney Kathleen M. McHittreter.

She appeared in the case of an Austrian convicted in Buffalo in March of conspiring to sell U.S.-made helicopter gunships to Iran.

Mark Mahoney, lawyer for Heinz Gollitschek, argued that the government misled the jury that convicted Gollitschek by presenting testimony that it was against U.S. policy to allow arms shipments to Iran.

Two leaders of the United Methodist Church said that during the Feb. 10 meeting, North described his relationship to the president and painted himself as an architect of Central American policy.

GAO says Contra aid trail dim

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than half the $27 million in non-lethal aid given to Nicaraguan Contra rebels "could not be fully tracked" and at least $80,000 was spent on false receipts, with some money diverted to buy ammunition, congressional investigators said Friday.

The General Accounting Office, Congress' investigative arm, sharply criticized the limited State Department control over use of the funds which were earmarked by Congress only for the purchase of "humanitarian" items, such as food, medicine and clothing.

In a formal report summing up a year-long investigation of the non-lethal aid program, the GAO said $17 million was paid for items purchased in Central America and that the State Department lacked safeguards to ensure that those funds were spent only for non-lethal goods.

"As far as we could determine, most transactions could not be fully tracked or verified," the GAO report concluded.

In response, Robert W. Duemling, director of the State Department's Nicaraguan Humanitarian Assistance Office, said his office "established adequate procedures as required by law, and that there was in fact no significant diversion of U.S. assistance."

North's briefing claim denied

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lt. Col. Oliver L. North told a church group 10 months ago that he personally briefed President Reagan twice weekly, participants say, but White House spokesman Larry Speakes says that isn't so.

North, who was fired as a National Security Council staff deputy director on Nov. 23 for his role in a secret program to funnel money from Iranian arms sales to Contra rebels in Nicaragua, told the group he gave the president assessments of the situation in Central America and terrorism, the participants said.

New satellite doing 'just fine'

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A new military communications satellite "is doing just fine" as it speeds toward a stationary orbit 22,300 miles above the globe, a spokeswoman for its builder said Friday.

"The engineers are very pleased," Montye Male said of the $125 million Fleet Communications Satellite launched Thursday night by an Atlas-Centaur rocket.

Tonight, an onboard motor is to fire briefly to arrest the spacecraft in stationary orbit above the equator west of Ecuador. At that altitude, its speed will match that of the rotation of the Earth, and it will remain over one point of the globe at all times.

Agency closes Arkansas thrift

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas' second-largest savings and loan association has been closed in the biggest such action handled by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp., officials said Friday.

FirstSouth had pursued an aggressive growth strategy, buying up smaller thrifts across Arkansas. By the end of last year, FirstSouth had $1.8 billion in assets, up from $360 million in June 1982.

Regulators said "reckless and imprudent" lending to insiders was partly to blame for FirstSouth's insolvency.

Jury convicts member of sect

KINGWOOD, W.Va. (AP) — A jury decided Friday that the disappearance of a man from a Hare Krishna compound was a case of homicide and convicted a fringe member of the sect of murder.

Thomas Drescher was convicted of killing Charles Saint-Denis at the Hare Krishna community in northern West Virginia, a crime prosecutors said included an attempt to dissolve the body with acid.

The Preston County Circuit jury deliberated five hours before convicting the 37-year-old Ravenna, Ohio man of first-degree murder without mercy, making a no-parole life sentence mandatory. A date for formal sentencing was not set.

Young whale finds new home

EASTHAM, Mass. (AP) — An ailing whale nicknamed Halley was put to death Friday and two other beached whales were found dead, but a youngster nicknamed Victory got a new home as scientists tallied their successes and defeats in the latest suicide stranding.

Fifty-seven pilot whales beached themselves along Cape Cod on Wednesday.

Twenty-seven died, nine of them given lethal injections to end the suffering caused by the crush of their own weight. Twenty-seven whales were believed to have returned to sea after scientists and volunteers pushed them from the beach back into the surf.

Decisions uphold wiretapping

WASHINGTON (AP) — High-ranking administration officials can illegally wiretap reporters and government employees if they do so for national security reasons, the U.S. Court of Appeals said Friday.

The decisions were written by Supreme Court Justice Antonin Scalia, who has been elevated to the Supreme Court since the case was considered.

Writing for a three-member panel in three separate cases, Scalia said the officials cannot be held liable for damages for the initiation of warrantless wiretaps installed for national security reasons.

Kennedy supports Medicare proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy said Friday he will ask Congress to approve Health Secretary Otis Bowen's proposal to protect 28 million Medicare recipients against the cost of catastrophic illness.

"We might be able to do better than the Bowen plan, but with the leadership he has provided it would be inexcusable to do worse," said Kennedy, D-Mass., who is expected to chair the Senate Labor and Human Resources Committee in the 100th Congress.

Bowen's proposal to raise the monthly Medicare premium by $4.92 to provide catastrophic coverage is encountering resistance elsewhere in the Reagan administration. It is under review by the Domestic Policy Council, which is expected to forward it to President Reagan.

But Kennedy said in a statement that he would make sure Bowen's plan "gets the early attention it deserves" when the new Congress convenes in January.

"I hope that President Reagan will make it a centerpiece of his domestic agenda for 1987," Kennedy said in a statement. "Indeed if the president and his advisors are listening, in these difficult days, they will be hearing 28 million elderly Americans saying 'Thank God for Dr. Bowen.'"

"Senior citizens deserve to know their golden years will be free from the financial burden of catastrophic illness," Kennedy said.

Bowen's plan also has been bitterly attacked by conservative groups as being an unwarranted extension of a federal program. Private health insurance companies that underwrite Medicare payments and act as health care costs argue that Bowen's plan would steal business from them.

Slim chance crew of Aeromexico jet saw small plane before crash

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A pilot whose small plane collided with an Aeromexico DC-9 last summer was more likely to have seen the jetliner than the big plane's crew was to have seen him, an expert testified Friday as a federal hearing into the disaster concluded.

Given the planes' speed and the small size of the Piper PA-28, there was only a marginal chance the Aeromexico crew was aware of the impending collision over Cerritos, which left 82 people dead, said flight visibility expert John W. Andrews.

Andrews, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology's Lincoln Laboratory, testified during the fourth day of a National Transportation Safety Board hearing into the Aug. 31 disaster.

Twenty-four witnesses were called during the hearing, required before the NTSB can issue a report suggesting a cause of the crash. The hearing can be reopened if additional information surfaces, said NTSB chairman James Burnet.

NTSB spokesman Ira Furman said he expected the final report to be released next May.

Andrews, who since 1972 has conducted research on the ability of pilots to see other aircraft, cited a study of 24 general aviation pilots who had to spot another aircraft during test flights.

The probability of the DC-9 crew seeing the small plane 24 seconds before the crash was 16 percent, he said. Twelve seconds before the crash the probability was 42 percent.

However, the probability that the pilot of the Piper saw the DC-9 was 55 percent 24 seconds before the crash and 90 percent 12 seconds before.

About the Piper's pilot, William K. Bowen, Andrews said, "Possibly he was concentrating his search too much in the forward direction."

If a traffic advisory had been issued to the DC-9 by an air traffic controller the probability of the Aeromexico crew seeing the small plane would have been 63 percent at 24 seconds and 99 percent at 12 seconds, Andrews said.

Experience shows a pilot needs anywhere from 4.5 seconds to 15 seconds to take evasive action after sighting an aircraft on a conflicting course, he added.

Nation

Under Bowen's proposal announced last month, the cost of the extra protection against catastrophic illness would be borne entirely by the beneficiaries through the premium increase that would raise $1.77 billion a year.

Medicare then would pay all medical expenses after the patient pays $2,000 in a given year. According to Bowen, 800,000 Medicare beneficiaries each year end up paying more than $2,000 out of their own pockets.

Beneficiaries pay for the first day of a hospital stay, currently $49, and Medicare pays all costs through the 60th day, when the patient begins paying an increasing percentage of the cost.

The patient must pay all costs of hospitalization after the 150th day. In addition, patients must pay 20 percent of their doctors bills.

Classmates say student issued threats over failing grade

LEWISTOWN, Mont. (AP) — Authorities in this central Montana town tried to determine Friday whether a failing grade in French provoked a high school freshman into a shooting outbreak that left a teacher dead and three other people wounded.

Officials on Friday declined to give any motive for the shootings Thursday afternoon, but students said the 14-year-old arrested in the shootings had threatened to blow off his French teacher's head.

There may have been some prior threats, Fergus County Attorney Craig Buehler said. "That's what we're trying to determine."

Classes resumed at Fergus High School Friday, with counselors, clergy and psychologists on hand to help students deal with the trauma of the shootings, and authorities said they would decide within a week whether to charge a quiet youth as an adult.

Kristofer Hans, 14, a freshman at Fergus High, was arrested Thursday afternoon after police surrounded his house following the shootings.

A hearing was scheduled later Friday in Billings, where he was taken following the shooting.

Hans was charged in youth court with being a delinquent youth for reasons of deliberate homicide and attempted deliberate homicide, Buehler said. Under Montana law, a prosecutor must petition the court to have the youth charged as an adult with a felony.

"I would imagine we'll be making that decision within a week," Buehler said. "We can deal with him as an adult in deliberate homicide cases. We have to prove he knowingly and intentionally killed somebody."

The charges stem from the shooting death of substitute teacher Henrietta Smith and the wounding of Vice Principal John Moffatt, Buehler said.

Mrs. Smith, 40, the mother of two children who lived in nearby Moore, was a frequent substitute at Fergus High.

"She was nice. Everybody liked her," said Tonya Puss, 18, a senior. "She was here a lot. She subbed for everybody — government, language, English." Moffatt, 36, was reported in stable condition Friday in the intensive care unit at Central Montana Hospital in Lewistown. He underwent surgery Thursday night for abdominal and liver wounds.

The shooting melee shocked the normally quiet central Montana community of 7,000, where the state Class A girls' high school basketball tournament opened a few minutes before the shooting broke out in another part of the building. Tournament fans didn't learn of the shooting until later.

Lewistown Police Chief Russell Dunnington said the assailant asked for the teacher in the language classroom, shot her, then shot Moffatt in the hallway, wounding two other students with ricocheting bullets, and fired a final shot as he fled from the school.

Assistant Chief Tom Killham told reporters Friday that police are bringing into the youth's academic performance, but "at this point, we're not ready to release a motive." Fergus High Principal Bob Raver said he could not release Hans' records, discuss past disciplinary problems or say whether he had flunked French.

"He enrolled here this fall as a freshman," the principal said. "He was not, to my knowledge, involved in any school activities other than academics."

Hans was described by other students as a quiet, and part of a small group of students who didn't take part in school activities.

"He's quiet, he's into 'Dungeons and Dragons,'" sophomore Tim Severson, 16, who also said he thought Hans had spent time in reform schools.

"He had a few friends," said Trevor Weinheimer, 16, a sophomore. "They all kind of have their own little group. Nobody associates with them. They're kind of scared to. They're different from everybody else. They play 'D-and-D' all the time. They do drugs." Asked if Hans used drugs, Weinheimer said, "I don't know if he did, but I know some of the others do."

Other students said Hans had threatened to kill his French teacher, LaVonne Simonyi, because she had given him a failing grade fall quarter.

"He told people he was going to kill her," Weinheimer said. "He told them 'I'm gonna blow Simonyi's head off because she gave me an F' last quarter."

A friend, Shannon Foucher, said Hans first threatened to kill his French teacher on Wednesday, and when he repeated the threat Thursday, Foucher thought he was joking.

"Some of the kids laughed at him and said they didn't believe he'd do it," said freshman Rachel Stein, 14.

But Raver said he had not been informed about any threats by Hans.

"That would be speculation on their part, and I don't know that," he said Thursday night. "The staff, to my knowledge at this point, did not have that information. Nothing was reported to me." Killham said Hans' locker was searched but nothing unusual was found, and he, Buehler and Raver said there was no evidence of drugs being involved.

Fake bills allegedly made at paper

FRAMINGHAM, Mass. (AP) — A production worker at a daily news-paper pleaded innocent Friday to charges of counterfeiting $20 bills on a small press at the paper.

Charles M. Pickett, 24, of Brockton, was ordered held on $2,000 bail following his arrest during the overnight shift while workers prepared Friday's edition of the Middlesex News.

Pickett, 24, pleaded innocent to one count of making, altering or forging counterfeit bills and one count of possession of tools and materials for making counterfeit bills, said court clerk Anthony Colonna.

"The first charge carries a sentence up to life imprisonment while the charge regarding tools carries a sentence of up to 10 years."

Pickett, who worked at the newspaper since June, also could face federal charges, said Stewart J.

Henry, spokesman for the Boston office of the U.S. Secret Service.

A pretrial conference was scheduled for Dec. 12. Friday's edition of the Middlesex News reported that a negative and printing plate with $20 bill images on them were thrown into a waste basket in clear view of other employees.

"Anyone who would use a newspaper press of any kind, even a small one-like this, which is a glorified mimeograph machine, is not too swift," Editor Kenneth Hartnett said in an interview.

"You'd think someone like that would want to be a little clandestine about it," he said. "To me, it's either a joke or amateur hour."

The Secret Service was examining high-grade bond paper with $20 bill images on it, Henry said. The paper, which he said was similar to that sold by stationers, was sent to a laboratory in Washington for analysis.

Henry said he believed that none of the money went into circulation and that no one else was involved.

Early this week, a newspaper employee discovered that the press, which is used for small jobs such as handbills, had apparently been operated during the Thanksgiving weekend to print counterfeit currency, said Publisher James W. Hopson.

The worker discovered a photographic negative of a $20 bill, a printing plate for the currency and an image of a $20 bill on a press blanket, which is a rubber surface on the press that transfers the image from plate to paper.

Illegally printing U.S. currency is a federal crime that carries a mandatory penalty of up to 15 years in prison and up to $5,000 in fines, said Jane Vezaris, spokeswoman for the Secret Service in Washington.

Diagnosed 'cyst' turns out to be baby

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A 23-year-old woman says she thought her abdominal pains were caused by a cyst, but she learned otherwise when she gave birth in her living room.

The Madison woman, who spoke by telephone from her hospital bed on the condition she remain anonymous, said she had seen a doctor twice in the past five months, complaining of irregular periods and abdominal pains. A cyst was diagnosed.

"I had gained some weight. But the doctor said the cyst would cause me to gain some weight," the woman said.

She said she began having intense pains early Thursday and delivered a 5-pound, 10-ounce baby at home. Fire Department paramedics arrived a short time later and took the baby and his parents to the hospital.

Thousands of students march in Paris Friday to protest proposed university system reform

France to delay controversial portions of education reform

PARIS (AP) — The French government backed down partway on Friday, saying it would postpone the three most controversial portions of its proposed bill to reform higher education.

The government's rejection of student demands to scrap the bill altogether came one day after a student demonstration against the reform escalated into a bloody clash with police.

On Friday afternoon, about 20,000 striking students marched through central Paris and the Latin Quarter.

Education Minister Rene Monory went on nationwide television in the evening to say the government would go ahead with parliamentary debate on most of the bill but the sections concerning registration fees, diplomas and orientation of students would be studied further.

The bill, designed to make universities more autonomous, would have doubled the $60 registration fee, allowed universities to offer their own diplomas and permitted them to "orient" students toward a course of study.

Students say the reform would make higher education elitist by allowing universities to select their students, forcing them into areas of study against their will and making the state diploma obsolete.

Monory, speaking "in the name of the government," said Premier Jacques Chirac had asked him to take the university reform measure "directly in hand." That appears to be mean Universities Minister Alain Devaquet has been discharged of the responsibility.

Monory said he would open a dialogue with all parties concerned with higher education, including students and their representatives.

Monory said he regretted that the government's intentions had not been better understood by the public. He said the objectives were to increase the access of young people to the university, to increase the success rate of university students and to increase the efficiency of the institutions of higher learning.

Chirac met Friday morning with key ministers and leaders of the parties in the ruling coalition.

About 160 people were injured, at least two seriously, in Thursday's clash between police and students after a riotous march to the National Assembly where the bill was under debate.

Twelve students, including one who lost a hand and another who lost an eye, remained hospitalized Friday, authorities said. Four police also remained hospitalized.

Police, under orders to break up the demonstration, had charged the crowd with water and tear gas. They said 91 people were detained.

Monory, in an unusual move, met Thursday night with a student delegation, but the talks failed to pacify either side. Leftist student leader David Assouline said his mandate was to demand that the bill be scrapped.

Germans nab 48 for drugs

HEIDELBERG, West Germany (AP) — Authorities arrested 29 U.S. soldiers and 19 civilians of various nationalities for alleged dealing or possessing drugs, a U.S. Army spokesman said Friday.

The arrests were made Monday through Thursday in the Heidelberg area and the confiscated drugs, including heroin, had an estimated street value of $160,000, said Sgt. 1st Class Roger Teel at U.S. Army-Europe headquarters here.

Police are also seeking five more soldiers for alleged drug offenses, Teel told The Associated Press in a telephone interview.

Sikhs, security forces clash leaving 6 dead

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Hundreds of Sikhs and security forces engaged in a gun battle at a Sikh temple Friday after a truck driven by a Sikh ploughed into a group of officers. Three soldiers and three Sikhs were killed.

At least 30 people were wounded and 35 were arrested, police said.

At another Sikh temple in Old Delhi, Sikhs and Hindus clashed and police fired guns to disperse the rioters. Authorities said 25 people were wounded and 105 Hindu militants arrested.

The fighting occurred as Sikhs marked a religious holiday honoring one of their martyrs. On Monday and Tuesday, Hindus and Sikhs had clashed over the slaying of 24 Hindus by Sikh militants in Punjab state.

The army was put on alert in New Delhi and curfews were imposed around the capital's two main Sikh shrines, the downtown Bangla Sahib temple near Parliament and the Sisganj temple in Old Delhi.

At least 300 Sikhs remained barricaded inside the sprawling Bangla Sahib temple where Sikhs and security forces fought for five hours.

Police said a truck driven by a Sikh ran into members of the paramilitary Central Reserve Police Force who had been deployed at the temple to prevent sectarian violence.

Authorities said the driver apparently intended to hit the soldiers, but witnesses said security forces attacked the truck after the driver tried to move his vehicle.

Moslems suspected in attack

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — At least 11 people were killed and five seriously wounded when armed men thought to be Moslems "robbed" and ambushed a logging truck on southern Mindanao island, the Philippine News Agency reported Friday.

The government agency said the ambush occurred Thursday near Malgo in Lanao del Norte province, 490 miles south of Manila.

It said the victims were employees of Findlay Miller Timber Co., a joint Filipino-American venture with logging concessions in the area.

No one answered the telephone at the company's Manila office Friday night, and military officials in the capital said they received no report about the incident. Repeated attempts to telephone military officials on Mindanao failed.

The Philippines News Agency gave no details but quoted a survivor as telling unidentified military investigators that the attackers were Moslem rebels. Communist guerrillas also operate in the area, which lies on the northern coast of Mindanao.

Moslems have been fighting for 14 years for an independent state. They are not a part of a 60-day cease-fire scheduled to go into effect next Wednesday, but the government and the Moslem secessionists are scheduled to begin talks in January.

Communist rebels, meanwhile, accused the government Friday of massing troops and warned that the cease-fire could be jeopardized if the military insists on patrolling contested areas.

The Communist-dominated National Democratic Front told reporters the military had increased its presence at several points around Luzon since Nov. 27, when negotiators signed the cease-fire agreement.

The front also said it filed a formal protest with the government over military plans to keep patrolling areas the rebels claim they control.

Rebel officials said the two sides agreed on five members of a national committee to monitor compliance with the truce.

Big Ben skips, alarms London

LONDON (AP) — Big Ben missed a chime Friday, and for Londoners it was like skipping a heartbeat.

At 6:45 a.m., when the famous clock above the Houses of Parliament should have been pealing out a melodious ding-dong-ding-dong, it left out the second ding.

Alarmed clock doctors hurried to the belfry and found that a 128-year-old rod had snapped on the bell that plays the note E in the sequence of G sharp, F sharp, E and C.

The rod was fixed with a temporary bolt, and at 9:30 a.m. Big Ben was back to normal.

"It certainly was a shock," said Adam Linford, a spokesman for the Westminster borough agency in charge of Big Ben. "When something goes wrong, people certainly do notice. It's one of those subliminal things."

Colombian rampage toll 26

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — A man described as hating violence shot his mother, burned her body and went knocking on doors, killing whoever answered. Then he dined at a restaurant and killed 20 people there before he was slain by police.

When the shooting spree was over Thursday night, 52-year-old Campos Elias Delgado had killed 26 people, police reported.

Saul Serrato, a friend, said Delgado had been a crowman on a plane in Vietnam and fought with U.S. troops there.

"His experience in the war in Vietnam seems to have been very negative because he hated violence," Serrato said in an interview with the Caracol radio chain.

In Washington, Pentagon officials said they were unable to find any records indicating Delgado had served with U.S. military forces in Vietnam.

A Pentagon spokesman, Col. Alan Williams, said "preliminary checks don't show anyone with that name on active duty or retired from the armed forces."

Pence says reply written to Demos charges

Committee seeking agreement with admission and solutions

By PAT MARCANTONIO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls County Clerk Dick Pence said he has written a reply to charges of election "irregularities" presented to him by the Twin Falls County Democratic Central Committee on Nov. 26.

But Pence said he had no comment on his letter, which he mailed Friday.

The committee had asked Pence, a Republican re-elected Nov. 4, to sign an agreement in which he admitted to the irregularities and stated how he would solve them.

Among the items was Pence's admission that he and three clerks had opened about 475 absentee ballots before election day.

According to law, the ballots are to be opened only on election day.

Pence said he had allowed them to be opened as a time saver to enter the votes on the county's lever voting machines.

The committee first presented the list to Twin Falls County Prosecutor K. Ellen Baxter, who was asked to witness any agreement.

At a meeting with the Democrats, Pence said he didn't agree with all the items on the list, but would sign the agreement if advised to do so by Baxter. He also said many of the problems had been or will be addressed.

Baxter said Thursday that she couldn't find any code giving her the authority to discussing the issue with Pence. It was up to Pence to sign.

"I have done my part," Baxter said.

Other "irregularities" included alleged lack of training for election judges and registrars, failure to appoint registrars within legally prescribed time limits, voting machine difficulties, and intimidation of electors, among other items.

The committee had first decided to seek the agreement with Pence, instead of pursuing a civil action which could lead to removal from office.

Joe Gulick, the committee chairman, said the committee still has the option of initiating the action.

County borrowed $131,000 to pay bills for indigents

By PAT MARCANTONIO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls County Board of Commissioners have had to borrow $131,000 so far this year to pay indigents' bills.

The commissioners were ready to borrow $84,000 more to pay November's bills, but 1988 tax money began arriving in time to pay the bills, Commissioner Marvin Hempleman said.

The commissioners began borrowing — at 6.4 percent interest — when the 1985-86 indigent fund of $699,000 began drying up last summer.

To pay indigent bills — mostly medical — for the month of August, the commissioners borrowed $45,000 from the Twin Falls branch of the Idaho First National Bank. They first had to seek court permission to expand the poor fund.

For September's indigent bills, the commissioners returned to the bank to borrow $21,000.

With revenue from the 1986 taxes filtering in — tax collection began this month — the commissioners are considering repaying the outstanding loans and the accumulating interest, Hempleman said.

The County Board doesn't want to use all the tax money now in the coffers to repay the loans and leave nothing to pay bills before the bulk of the revenue arrives in January.

"We don't want to run short in the next two months," he said. He hopes the loans will be repaid as soon as possible.

The possibility of indigent bills again exhausting this year's large indigent fund during the current fiscal year is not far-fetched.

If the counties are forced — through new legislation — to pay doctor's bills for indigent care, as has been proposed by some doctors, Twin Falls County could hit the maximum it is permitted to levy to pay indigent bills, Commissioner Judy Felton said.

Another $65,000 was borrowed to meet October's indigent debt. About $84,000 of the sum went to a payment for the county's participation in a program helping to pay for large or catastrophic, indigent medical bills.

Two of the bills paid in November, although the illnesses occurred earlier, were catastrophic, or over $10,000, said Welfare Director Juanita Alger. One hospital bill amounted to $17,500 for a head injury and another was a bill for $11,000 for a woman with respiratory illness.

In both cases, the first $10,000 was paid by the county and the state's Catastrophic Program paid the remainder, Alger said.

In an attempt to avoid another shortfall, the commissioners increased the 1988-87 indigent fund to $1 million. The commissioners budgeted for not only expected indigent bills but for the money they had to borrow to pay the bills from the last fiscal year, which ended Sept. 30, Hempleman said.

The county is about $140,000 away from the maximum as it is, Hempleman said.

Although state law doesn't specifically mention payment of doctors' bills, it is the policy of Twin Falls County not to pay them.

The County Board agrees, in theory, with paying doctors' bills, because physicians "donate" many hours to indigent care, Felton said.

"In practice, I don't know where we would get the money (to pay them)," she said.

Knowing county policy, hospitals don't bill for the physicians, Hempleman said. As a result, the County Board doesn't know how much more doctors' bills would add to the indigent debt, he said.

The commissioners' hopes are riding on a proposal to recodify the Idaho Association of Counties, the recodification would clarify definitions of indigency to lessen their financial burden, said county officials.

Glanceys find job, housing

By JANE ROBISON
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — A homeless Iowa couple who had little but hope at Thanksgiving are now giving thanks for a job and a roof over their heads, after being befriended by a Jerome farmer last week.

"It was like a Godsend for us," said Walter Glancey as he stood near the dairy cattle he now helps feed at the Lazy T Ranch, south of Jerome.

Walter and his wife Sandy lost their small farm in Buffalo, Iowa, and most of their possessions in April to bankruptcy. They hitchhiked to California and were on their way back, trying to find work, when they landed in Twin Falls a month ago.

After reading their hard-luck story in The Times-News on Thanksgiving, Jerome farmer Ted Turner decided to help them out.

"I just tried to give them a chance to work into a future," said Turner, who admits he's had some hard times of his own in the past.

Turner arrived in Twin Falls 28 years ago with just enough money for the downpayment on his Jerome farm. He now has 300 acres of farm ground, 200 acres of irrigated pasture and 120 milk cows. He was 30 days away from bankruptcy last year, but he managed to save his small farm, he said.

"But it's hard to find help who are willing to work," he said. "I can't pay all that much."

In addition to giving them a job, Turner also had a two-room, adobe cabin next to his house that the Glanceys are renting from him.

"I didn't have much time to fix it up," he said. "I talked to (Glancey) at 2 p.m., and picked him up at 5 p.m. And I needed to turn on the water and get it ready."

It's not much, said Turner. But the Glanceys don't seem to mind.

"We're doing fine. He's a good man," said Walter. "He's been very good to us. I hope I'm doing a good job for him. Am I?" he asked, as he looked over at his new boss.

"I'll tell you 10 years from now," Turner said. "I haven't run you off yet; that's a compliment."

Regional, state jobless rates dip; both under national norm

By The Associated Press
and The Times-News

TWIN FALLS — Joblessness edged downward in both the Magic Valley and across Idaho in November, as mild weather extended some outdoors work and hiring began for the holiday shopping rush.

The seasonally adjusted unemployment rate for Twin Falls, Jerome and Gooding counties dipped 2 percentage point to 5.1 percent, the Idaho Department of Employment reported Friday.

Meanwhile, the Idaho rate inched down 1 percentage point to 6.2 percent during the month, a change that Department Director Scott McDonald labeled as insignificant. It still hovered significantly far below the national rate of 7 percent.

The Magic Valley's job situation started showing its normal, winter slowdown as construction lessened and ended.

But mild weather also helped the labor market, said Lon McDonald (no relation), a state job force analyst based at Twin Falls.

Last November, when cold snowy weather blew into the area, the jobless rate was 5.1 much higher — at 6.2 percent.

In addition, "One strong segment at this time is retail trade, with Christmas-related employment up substantially," he said.

Department figures estimate 33,029 on the month, a change that Department Director Scott McDonald labeled as insignificant. It still hovered significantly far below the national rate of 7 percent.

Statewide, gains in employment generally were offsetting losses during the month, McDonald said. Layoffs in the lumber industry were balanced by hiring in the food-processing industry, especially the return of Lamb Weston's employees' to the company's potato processing plant last month, he said.

Retailers also began hiring for the holidays earlier than usual, balancing out losses in construction and tourist-oriented businesses.

In terms of total available jobs, figures showed an increase of 1,800 compared to October. The total of 404,800 was the highest employment level in more than a year. Analysts have indicated that most of the new jobs either are part-time or have replaced higher-paying jobs that have been lost.

During November, 25,900 Idahoans lacked jobs. That total was down 200 from October and 1,600 from last November.

Perhaps more significant than the monthly total was the department's announcement that the unemployment rate during the first months of the year was 5.6 percent, higher than originally reported.

"The employment figures, when we got the final numbers, were lower than we originally estimated," the analyst said. January and February figures jumped to 6.8 percent and 6.6 percent respectively. Estimates for spring months also rose less drastically.

Based on those new figures, Idaho unemployment rate should average 6.5 percent for the year.

Unemployment rates in the state's regions generally declined during November. The rates and the change from October were:

- Idaho — 6.2 percent, down 1 percent.
- Magic Valley — 5.6 percent, down 2 percent.
- Idaho Falls — 4.5 percent, down 2 percent.
- Pocatello — 7.5 percent, up 1 percent.
- Ada County (Boise) — 4.5 percent, down 2 percent.
- Canyon County — 6.4 percent, down 1.0 percent.
- Lewiston — 5.6 percent, down 1 percent.
- Panhandle — not available.

Attorney: Laws altering women's lot

By LORAYNE O. SMITH
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Significant changes in the past decade in Idaho laws dealing with women's domestic rights have given women more responsibility, says a Twin Falls attorney.

Kristina Bello, speaking at a Network luncheon meeting here Wednesday, said there have been "both gains and losses" for women.

Overall, however, she said, she believes that legislation "forcing more personal responsibility" upon women is "a positive thing."

"It's true women are not always in a position to assume more responsibility for their lives or their children because of low earning power and lack of training, but overall, this is a healthy transition," she said.

Changes in legal attitudes regarding custody of children, alimony and division of property all have occurred in Idaho since she began practicing here 10 years ago, Bello said. Since legal changes historically occur very slowly, she termed the new legislation in the last decade "significant."

Probably the most significant change in legislation dealing with women's issues, according to the speaker, is in the area of alimony.

"Instead of the old idea that alimony was simply to take care of the divorced wife because she had no other means of support," Bello said, "now the court asks, 'What education or training does she need to be able to help herself?'"

The attorney sees this as "very helpful" in the long run for women, although she said the concept (that older women) today.

Idaho is one of only 11 states in the United States to have "community property" laws, which view "marriage as a legal partnership."

Bello said.

This concept comes from Spain, unlike the English common law upon which much of the United States' legal system is built.

English concept, wives and children were considered legal property of the husband.

In 1980, Idaho legislators amended the state's community property law so that unless there is a "compelling reason" against it, assets are to be divided equally in divorce cases.

"This gives greater respect to the woman — but the flip side is: It also means greater responsibility," Bello said.

However, assets which were gifts or inherited by one spouse are not considered community property in a divorce. Individual cases can become very involved, she said.

The primary change in custody laws is that mothers no longer get primary consideration.

"It used to be almost automatic in divorce cases that the mother would get custody of the children," Bello said.

Now, the court looks at the best interests of the child, and the father's ability to care for the child is given more weight.

million in 1982 during the last recession.

The government reported that housing starts in October dropped another two-tenths of a percent from the previous month, marking the fifth month since April that the figure has declined.

On an annualized basis, the October housing starts would total only 1.65 million for the year, the lowest monthly annualized rate since February 1985.

Analysts believe the housing industry will remain sluggish because of overbuilding and the negative effects of the new tax bill.

But despite the dire outlook for housing, analysts expect a recovery in 1989.

School's out in Oregon town

Students mass for tearful goodbye moments before Estacada, Ore. school closed Friday

ESTACADA, Ore. (AP) — Students cried, hugged each other and staged a noisy demonstration Friday as Estacada schools closed for lack of money.

It was the ninth time an Oregon district has closed its schools after voter refusal to approve funds, and the second such closure in this logging town in the past five years.

"I think everybody's really confused," said 17-year-old Sarah Bagg, the student body president at Estacada High School. "You want to rebel, but you don't know what to do. You want to cry."

"I feel like we did something wrong, but we don't know what we did," said 16-year-old Amy Short, one of the district's 2,200 students.

Students gathered about the whole school commons area to hear the choir sing Christmas carols before classes were dismissed. Banners hung in the hallways lamenting the impending closure.

"For Sale: School (Cheap), Students Not Included," one sign read. "R.I.P. Estacada School, 1906-1986."

All they wanted was to educate," before deciding the levy's size. "We've been at every school board meeting and we've been pressing the hell out of the students held same thing over and over," he said.

After classes were dismissed, several hundred of the students held same thing over and over," he said.

The town is embroiled in a bitter and 10 school days will have been in dispute over governing the school. The school board in Estacada, in the foothills of the Cascades 25 miles from southeast of Portland, decided to close the schools after an operating tax levy failed at the polls Tuesday for the fourth time this year.

Business, homes hit Housing

TWIN FALLS — Police reports Friday showed burglaries are continuing in frequent numbers in the residential and business areas of Twin Falls.

Bill Koch of K and T Steel Co., at 322 Diamond St., reported 15 steel gates had been taken from a fenced area adjacent to the firm's building. Police said there appeared to be no forced entry to the enclosure. The theft was believed to have occurred between 5 p.m. on Nov. 26 and 7 a.m. on Dec. 1.

Police said someone entered the Robert H. Brown residence, at 731 Sunrise Blvd. N., between Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. and 10:30 a.m. Thursday. Officers said it appeared several unsuccessful attempts were made to get into the house before a window was broken out. The damage from attempts to break doors and windows totaled $480.

At 644 Monte Vista Dr., police said, someone entered the residence and took a small amount of change and several other items.

On the issue of duties on Canadian timber imports to the U.S., something many in the wood products sector have pressed for, Miller continued to disagree with officials of the last of other American companies.

Retracting Boise Cascade's opposition to import duties, Miller said they would only hurt businesses on both sides of the border and would do little to change the amount of Canadian wood coming into the U.S.

Magistrate court

TWIN FALLS — Sentencings in the Fifth District Magistrate Court in Twin Falls this week included driving offenses and one shooting incident.

Elmer Wayne Thomas, 47, of Twin Falls pleaded guilty to discharging a gun in the city limits. He was fined $300 plus costs of $15.50, $10 of Twin Falls's recovery fund and given 90 days in jail suspended with two years probation. The incident occurred Thursday at 208 Orchard Dr. W.

Leland K. Taylor, III, 19, of Kimberly was given a 90-day jail sentence, concurrent with a sentence now being served and the judge ordered 60 days suspended with two years probation. He was charged with failing to have proof of insurance and inattentive driving. The first charge was dismissed.

Michael G. Vierstra, 26, of Twin Falls, charged with driving while intoxicated, was fined $500 and court costs, given 180 days in jail, 150 suspended, and placed on two year probation. His license was suspended for 180 days but driving privileges for work purposes were granted.

Andrew Patrick Fisher, 34, of Twin Falls, charged with DUI, was fined $194.50 plus court costs; Jan H. Warner, 27, of Hazelton, charged with DUI, was fined $484.50 and costs $10 for the victim, recovery fund, sentenced to 90 days in jail, 65 days suspended and given two years probation.

District court

TWIN FALLS — The following cases were filed recently in 5th District Court in Twin Falls:

Wilburn W. Winkle vs. Robert P. Hackett. The plaintiff seeks reimbursement for special, general, punitive, and property damages incurred in a car accident with the defendant, costs of suit and attorney's fees.

Laurel and Mildred Ploss vs. Julia Denese Ploss. The plaintiffs seek that the court set a reasonable visitation schedule, allowing the plaintiffs to visit their grandchildren, who are the children of the defendant; costs of suit and attorney's fees.

Alice Adams vs. Summit Home Insurance Company, Yellowstone Company Inc. and Pat Wallace. The plaintiff seeks damages for a breach of contract, medical expenses, punitive and exemplary damages, interest, costs of suit and attorney's fees.

Intermountain Gas vs. PMF Inc. The plaintiff seeks $2,948.13, attorney's fees and costs of suit.

Check Savers Inc. vs. Mark and Diane Leonetti. The plaintiff seeks $185.99, costs of suit and attorney's fees.

Check Savers Inc. vs. Harry and Osa Beem. The plaintiff seeks $71.89, costs of suit and attorney's fees.

Another law tightens collection practices for child payments which, she said, are still usually too low.

But under the recent statute, if a spouse is in arrears with payments, there is now provision for the court to obtain an automatic wage attachment from the employer.

Seeks freedom of man who killed son Mother exercises power to forgive

By SHARON COHEN Associated Press Writer

GARY, Ind. — Martha Henry prays each day for a prisoner close to her heart. She has worked and waited for his freedom ever since she met him 13 years ago — after he killed her son.

"If a person has done something wrong and proven he's sorry, he should be given another chance," she said. "He can't undo it. He can't bring him back. Why should another life be wasted?"

On Friday, Mrs. Henry will join Edward Henderson, 38, at an Indiana Parole Board hearing on his 10th request to commute his life sentence. She has already written, called and visited state and county officials to press her case.

Her campaign is as unusual as this relationship born of tragedy, the 1973 shooting of Calvin Jones, Mrs. Henry's son.

Mrs. Henry, 56, said she always accepted Henderson's explanation. It was an accident. Slowly, their friendship has grown to the point that Henderson calls her "godmother" or "Mother Henry," last year, she helped plan his wedding.

"I hate to say this, but Mother Henry and I have even closer than I do to my blood mother," he said in a telephone interview from the Indiana State Prison in Michigan City.

Parole officials say it is unique to have a member of a victim's family plead for, rather than protest, a prisoner's release.

"We've never had anything like this happen before," said Lewis Gregory, parole board chairman. But he noted the odds for Henderson's release are slim — only two of about 800 commutation requests were granted last year.

Mrs. Henry's support counts, he said, but it is just one factor. "It is obvious she holds no ill will and that certainly is a plus, but it doesn't erase the fact that a man is dead," he added. "That can't be overlooked."

Martha Henry holds picture of slain son, Calvin. She is working for the release of his killer.

Authorities rejected three commutation requests for Henderson since 1983 because of the severity of the crime. After Friday's hearing, the board will send its recommendation to Gov. Robert Orr.

Henderson, who lives in a dormitory on prison grounds, is considered a good inmate and has trustee status, which gives him special privileges.

Mrs. Henry says she isn't discouraged and won't rest until Henderson is free. She's hoping that will all be over, she said.

Their friendship began shortly after her son was shot in July 1973. Henderson said he had been harassed regularly by the brother of a woman he was dating. The night-of-the-shooting, he said, she threatened him and used his car to block a building entrance. Henderson said when he left his girlfriend.

Scared, Henderson said he ran to his car, grabbed a rifle and shot at the car. Two men were in the car. Calvin was one of them. Henderson didn't know him.

"If I could get into a time machine and turn my life back, I never would have done it," Henderson said, adding he never intended to kill anyone and had no prior record.

Henderson fled, not realizing he had wounded anyone. Hours later, when he learned what had happened, he called Mrs. Henry at the hospital, where her 21-year-old son died a few days later. Mrs. Henry urged him to surrender. Henderson, a Vietnam veteran then working as a pipefitter, agreed.

Mrs. Henry said she never was angry at Henderson. "I had no intention of holding anything in my heart against Edward," she said quietly, a photo of her smiling son at her side. "I just had emptiness. My son was killed."

It was the second family tragedy. In 1968, Mrs. Henry's son, Larry, was killed in Vietnam. She has six other children.

A deeply religious woman, Mrs. Henry said it was God's will Calvin died. "Edward was the executioner," she said, adding that Calvin had been using drugs.

Firemen's refusals bring suit to trial

BOZEMAN, Mont. (AP) — A lawsuit brought against a private volunteer fire company here for allegedly letting a house burn down because the owners had not paid for fire protection will go to trial, a judge has ruled.

Harry and Rosalie Petroff of Bozeman and their insurance company sued the Rae Volunteer Fire Co. for $165,000.

The lawsuit said firefighters stopped fighting a fire at the Petroff home south of Bozeman in 1979 after they discovered the Petroffs had not paid for protection. The home was destroyed.

The fire company had asked for a summary judgment from District Judge Joseph Gary of Bozeman, saying that firefighters correctly followed company policy. But Gary ruled there are too many questions of fact to issue a summary judgment, which is a ruling without a trial. He said therefore a trial should be held to resolve the issues. The case is scheduled for trial in April.

The Rae Volunteer Fire Co. is a private, non-profit corporation formed to provide fire protection to subscribers, most of whom live in subdivisions on the south edge of Bozeman outside the city limits.

The district's policy, was to respond to all house fires, but to fight fires only at subscribers' homes or in life-threatening situations.

The Petroff's lawsuit, joined by Farmers Union Mutual Insurance Co., said the couple had just moved into the home the day before the Feb. 24, 1979, fire, and had yet to subscribe to the fire company.

It alleges that Rae firefighters began battling the blaze upon arriving at the house, but quit when they found out the Petroffs were not subscribers. It also said the Petroffs were turned down when they offered to pay the subscription on the spot.

Fire district officials have said the fire was too far gone by the time firefighters arrived, and that it could not have been saved.

C of I head passed over

COEUR D'ALENE (AP) — The North Idaho College Board of Trustees has offered the job of college president to Michigan educator Carl Bennett.

The board chose Bennett over Arthur DeRosier Jr., president of College of Idaho, Caldwell. The original field of candidates to head the junior college was 199.

Bennett, president of Gogebic Community College, Ironwood, Mich., told the board he will not give his answer until salary negotiations are complete, possibly Friday. Trustee Bob Ely said it was "virtually a certainty" that Bennett will take the job.

Bennett said the salary range of $55,000 to $60,000 offered by North Idaho College is competitive with his current job. But he said Bennett's current college gives him the use of a house, a benefit not offered at NIC.

Man pleads guilty to lesser charge

BOISE (AP) — Enrique Cabanilla, charged with first-degree murder in the slaying of another man last summer, has pleaded guilty to a reduced charge as part of a plea bargaining agreement.

Cabanilla, 35, pleaded guilty to second-degree murder in the shooting death of Samuel Salazar during what authorities said was an argument last July. In return the first-degree murder charge and a charge of kidnapping will be dropped.

No sentencing date was set in the case. Cabanilla, who was scheduled for trial next week, faces up to life in prison for second-degree murder.

Bird-less Celtics squeak by 76ers, 108-106

By The Associated Press

BOSTON — Larry Bird was dressed, but out of uniform on the Boston Celtics' bench.

Wearing a suit-and-a-tie, along with a special boot to protect a strained right Achilles tendon, the NBA's MVP of the last three years turned cheerleader Friday night as the Celtics edged the Philadelphia 76ers 108-106.

Robert Parish scored 32 points, Dennis Johnson 27 and Kevin McHale 22 in leading the Celtics to their 47th consecutive Boston Garden victory.

The victory enabled Boston to break a tie with Philadelphia in their fight for the Atlantic Division lead.

With four minutes left, McHale broke the fourth tie of the fourth quarter, 96-96, with a turnaround jumper and followed with a running right-hander.

That put Boston ahead 100-96, and the Celtics did not allow the 76ers to close the gap to 104-103 on a three-point shot by Julius Erving with just under two minutes remaining.

However, Parish tipped in a rebound with the one minute left and, after a dunk by the 76ers' Charles Barkley, Boston put the game out of reach on a pair of free throws by Johnson.

With three seconds left, Maurice Cheeks, fouled intentionally, made the first free throw, then tried to bounce the ball off the glass to a teammate. However, Parish grabbed the rebound as time ran out.

Phoenix 114 Chicago 112

PHOENIX, Ariz. — Walter Davis scored nine of his 31 points in the fourth quarter, including a jumper with seven seconds remaining, to give the Phoenix Suns a 114-112 NBA victory over the Chicago Bulls on Friday night.

Michael Jordan, the NBA's leading scorer with a 38.1-point average, scored 43 for Chicago, the fifth straight game he has scored at least 40 points. The loss was Chicago's 14th in a row at the Arizona Veterans Memorial Coliseum, dating back to March 1977.

The Bulls, down 112-108 with 1:34 to play, rallied to tie the game at 112-112 on Jordan's jumper with 1:20 left and Charles Oakley's tap-in of a rebound by Jordan with 27 seconds remaining.

After Davis sank his decisive baseline jumper, Jordan's jumper was blocked out of bounds by Suns

Chicago inbounded the ball again to Jordan, whose desperation jumper from 20 feet out bounced off the rim at the buzzer.

Nance had 20 points and a game-high 14 rebounds for Phoenix, while Bill Humphries had 16 points and 12 assists.

Chicago, which lost for the fifth time in its last six games, got 15 points apiece from Oakley and Earl Cureton.

Indiana 119 Atlanta 113

INDIANAPOLIS — John Long scored 14 of his 24 points in the fourth quarter as the Indiana Pacers defeated the Atlanta Hawks 119-113 in an NBA game that was disrupted by unruly fans Friday night.

The game tied at 105-105 with 4:20 to play, Indiana scored five consecutive points, including three by rookie Walker Russell, for a five-point lead with 2:42 remaining.

The Hawks then began an 8-4 surge led by Glenn Rivers with six points, to get within 114-113 with 41 seconds to play.

Indiana's Wayman Tisdale scored on an offensive rebound with 23 seconds remaining to make it 116-113. The Pacers then put the game out of reach on three free throws by Clint Richardson.

Atlanta, which came into the game with the best record in the NBA, was led by Rivers with a game-high 25 points. Mike McGee added 24, followed by Dominique Wilkins with 23 and Kevin Willis with 20.

Steve Stipanovich added 23 for the Pacers, with 13 of those in the first period. Herb Williams and Tisdale had 17 apiece.

The game was disrupted in the third period when rookie Chuck Person was called for a technical foul after a "shoving match" with Tree Rollins, and Pacers Coach Jack Ramsay was also given a technical. As fans boomed and threw ice and debris on the floor, the public announcer had to warn them several times that they would be ejected from the arena.

Play came to a standstill again when Person picked up a charging foul with 5:57 to play in the third, and more ice came onto the floor.

Utah 123 New York 96

SALT LAKE CITY — Darrell Griffith's 19 points led seven Utah players in double figures as the Jazz outscored New York 34-13 in the second quarter and coasted to 123-96

NBA victory over the Knicks Friday night.

Karl Malone added 17 for Utah and Thurl Bailey 15, while Pat Cummings led the Knicks with 18 points and 17 rebounds and Gerald Wilkins added 16 points for New York.

Cummings and Bill Cartwright combined for 15 points in the first quarter as New York grabbed a 31-23 advantage. But Utah roared back in the second period.

The Jazz ran off 11 straight points at one point and eight in a row later in the period as Bailey, Griffith and John Stockton combined for 23 points in the quarter.

Milwaukee 91 Washington 87

LANDOVER, Md. — Craig Hodges converted a three-point play with 1:05 remaining to give Milwaukee the lead and Ricky Pierce added three foul shots in the final 21 seconds as the Bucks defeated the Washington Bullets 91-87 in an NBA game Friday night.

The score was tied 85-85 when Dudley Bradley stole the ball near mid-court to set up a field goal by Hodges on an assist from Terry Cummings. Fouled on the play by Terry Catledge, Hodges added the free throw.

L.A. Lakers 112 Dallas 104

LOS ANGELES — Magic Johnson scored four-of-his game-high 27 points in the last 1:13 Friday night to lead the Los Angeles Lakers to a 112-104 NBA victory over Dallas, ending the Mavericks' winning streak at six games.

Trailing by five points with 2:55 left in the game, Dallas tied the score, 104-104, on a 6-foot hook shot from the left baseline by Sam Perkins. But the Mavericks did not score again.

Johnson, who scored 18 of his points in the first half, cut down the lane for a lay-in, breaking the tie. Michael Cooper then hit a 16-footer and converted a fast-break lay-in, and Johnson sank a pair of free throws with 16 seconds left to cap the scoring.

The Lakers trailed by 17 at one point in the second period and were down 69-51 at the start of the third quarter. But A.C. Green had 19 points as the Lakers ran off a 22-4 spurt, including 18 straight points, to take their biggest lead of the game at 73-64.

Green finished with 16 points, as did Byron Scott. Cooper and Kareem Abdul-Jabbar each had 14.

Basnight, Paddio pace UNLV past Memphis State, 80-77

By The Associated Press

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — Jarvis Basnight scored the final six points and teammate Gerald Paddio scored 26 points, seven on three-point shots, as No. 2-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas defeated Memphis State 80-77 in college basketball Friday night.

It was the first home loss for Memphis State following 33 consecutive victories and MSU's third loss in a row. The Tigers fell to 2-3 while UNLV is 5-0.

The Tigers were led by Vincent Askw, who had 23 points, and Dwight Boyd contributed 17.

Armon Gilliam, who injured his knee with 8½ minutes to go, scored 21 points for UNLV and Mark Wade had 10.

UNLV attempted 15 three-point plays and connected on eight.

Memphis State, trailing 80-77 with five seconds remaining in the game, missed an opportunity to tie the contest when John Wilfong's shot from three-point range rimmed the basket and popped out at the final buzzer.

Basnight broke a 74-74 tie with just over two minutes remaining when he hit a jumper. But Askw tied the score at 76 on a jumper from the side.

Then, Basnight hit again from the lane with one minute left to give UNLV the lead for good, 78-76.

Following a free throw by the Tigers' Sylvester Gray, who scored 12 points, Basnight hit a pair of free throws with nine seconds remaining in the game to provide the winners their final points of the game.

UNLV trailed Memphis State 42-33 at halftime and had only one lead, 3-2 in the first half. Memphis State was able to dominate the first half by shooting 55 percent from the field and out rebounding the Rebels 16-9.

College basketball

UNLV outscored Memphis State 12-2 during the first five minutes of the second half.

Iowa 95 Delaware 47

IOWA CITY, Iowa — Brad Lohaus led the charge, as fifth-ranked Iowa scored the final 23 points of the first half en route to a 95-47 victory over Delaware Friday night in the first round of the Amana-Hawkeye Classic basketball tournament.

Lohaus scored 10 points and blocked two shots during the surge, which gave Iowa a 53-19 halftime lead on the Hawkeyes, 5-0, coasted into the championship game of their tournament for the fourth time in five years.

Iowa will play for the title Saturday night against the winner of Loyola-Washington State and Loyola-Marymount.

Lohaus finished with 16 points to lead all scorers, while Kevin Gamble added 16 and Jeff Moe 14. Tony Tucker and Steve Jennings each scored 12 points for Iowa, which shot only 27.3 percent in the first half.

Iowa led 13-10, but held Delaware to nine points over the final 14 minutes, 55 seconds of the first half. Moe contributed seven points as the Hawkeyes ran off 13 straight points, a 26-10 lead and B.J. Armstrong hit a three-point basket to launch the 23-0 surge that covered the final 8½ minutes of the half.

Moe and Gamble also hit three points during that stretch and the 7-foot Lohaus had two dunks — one after stealing the ball from 5-6 Laurence Chisholm at midcourt.

Ten Iowa players saw action in the game and 11 of the 13 Hawkeyes who got into the game scored. The final 48-point margin was Iowa's biggest of the night.

Navy 92 Yale 63

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — Center David Robinson scored 31 points—Friday night to lead 10th-ranked Navy to a 92-63 rout of Yale as the Midshipmen won their third straight game following a season-opening loss to North Carolina.

Navy mounted a 42-23 halftime surge led by Robinson and Cliff Rees, a 6-foot-4 forward, accounted for 23 of Navy's first half points. Carl Liebert broke the game's only tie with two foul shots 49 seconds into the game.

Rees followed with his first of two three-point field goals as the Midshipmen went up 7-4 and steadily pulled away to their 25-point halftime lead. Rees finished with 14 points, 10 in the first half.

W. Kentucky 98 Mercer 67

BOWLING GREEN, Ky. — Brett McNeal scored 21 of his career-high 25 points in a strong second half that carried No. 14 Western Kentucky to a 98-67 victory over Mercer in the first round of the Wendy's Classic basketball tournament Friday night.

Sox vote passes Illinois House

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Chicago's hopes of keeping the White Sox got a boost Friday when the Illinois House made a sudden turnaround and gave final approval to a $120 million plan for a new 45,000-seat baseball stadium in the city.

The House initially rejected the measure, falling six votes short of the 60 votes needed for passage. But on a second vote 90 minutes later, the bill mustered 64 "yes" votes against 33 voting "no."

Hours earlier the plan, hashed out by Gov. James R. Thompson and Chicago Mayor Harold Washington, squeaked through the Senate with 30 "yes" votes — the minimum needed for passage.

The American League team's owners had suggested they might move to another city or state if Chicago didn't find a replacement for 76-year-old Comiskey Park, the oldest stadium in the major leagues.

Vandal gridders to play hoops

MOSCOW (AP) — University of Idaho basketball coach Tim Floyd has dipped into the ranks of his school's football team to bolster depleted ranks.

Strong safety Ernest Sanders, who originally came to Idaho to play basketball in the 1983-84 season, will rejoin the Vandal basketball team.

The 6-foot-2, 195-pound Sanders, a native of Pasco, Wash., started in four football games in 1984, when he averaged 4.5 points and 1.2 rebounds a game. His 58 assists were second best on the team.

Sanders had 50 tackles, two interceptions and a quarterback sack in Idaho's recently completed football season.

Idaho's basketball squad, depleted by injuries, is down to nine healthy players, including one senior forward Tom Stalick, who must wear protective gear for a broken nose.

Faculty asks for end to football

LOGAN, Utah (AP) — The Utah State University Faculty Senate has passed a resolution calling for elimination of the university's football program and police department.

The savings gained from slashing the two departments could be used to help maintain academic programs, senate members said Wednesday.

Frank Ascone, a faculty member, said the football program has consistently run budget deficits and that Athletic Director Rod Tueller "has reportedly been unwilling to answer specific questions on what percentage of money from students goes into the programs."

Tueller said he could not comment on a football deficit because athletic revenues and losses are not broken down by sports, but are compiled in a total athletic budget.

CSI offers spring skiing classes

TWIN FALLS — The College of Southern Idaho Physical Education Department will offer several skiing classes during the spring semester, and, for the first time, P.E. 111 and 112 can be taken for no credit.

Karl Kleinkopf, department chairman, said the cost to people taking the class without credit will be about $80 for eight sessions. P.E. 111 is a beginning class and P.E. 112 is an intermediate and advanced class.

Beginning Cross-Country Skiing, P.E. 114, will be offered only for credit and the fee is $50 for eight sessions, which does not include the credit cost nor equipment.

All these classes meet for eight weeks of the second semester. There will be a meeting of all students enrolled in ski classes at noon Jan. 13 in Room 104 of the gym and attendance is required. Students can register in the classes Jan. 7-9 in the Taylor Administration Building.

Houser to undergo 2nd surgery

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Kansas City Royals Manager Dick Houser was to have an experimental form of brain surgery Friday to treat his malignant brain tumor.

The surgery, at Huntington Memorial Hospital in Pasadena, Calif., was not considered life-threatening. Houser was expected to be hospitalized for four or five days.

Houser was diagnosed as having the brain tumor in July. A portion of the tumor was removed in an operation July 22, and he had five weeks of radiation therapy.

The Royals said in a statement that the experimental operation, called immunostimulation, was considered from the beginning, and should not be taken as a sign that Houser's condition had worsened.

Inkster-Purtzer lead by 1 stroke

LARGO, Fla. (AP) — Juli Inkster and Tom Purtzer birdied the final hole Friday to finish with a 3-under-par 69 and take a one-stroke lead over Val Skinner and Mike Hubert after two rounds of the $650,000 J.C. Penney Classic.

The leaders, who equaled a tournament record on Thursday when they shot a 61, started the day with a four-shot lead over Skinner-Hubert and three other teams.

They struggled early on the front nine of the 6,957-yard, North course at Bardmore Country Club, however, and needed Inkster's 12-foot putt on the par 5, 573-yard No. 18 to regain sole possession of first place.

Western, 5-1, will face Southern California, 2-1, in Saturday night's championship game. Southern Cal defeated Murray State 54-53 in overtime in Friday's other first-round game. Mercer, 2-1, will face Murray State, 2-2, in Saturday's consolation game.

Western held a 43-37 lead after a first half that featured 13 lead changes. But the Hilltoppers came out strong to open the second half, outscoring Mercer 33-10 in the first 13 minutes of the final period to take a 76-47 lead they never relinquished.

Western Kentucky led by as many as 33 points in the second half.

Syracuse 73 Oklahoma State 62

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Syracuse University Coach Jim Boeheim and Oklahoma State University Coach Len Hamilton watched the same basketball game Friday night, but from different ends of the court.

Each saw the 11th-ranked Orangemen emerge with a hard-fought 73-62 win in the first round of the Carrier Classic, but the two coaches couldn't agree on how the game was won.

Greg Monroe scored 20 points; Sherman Douglas had 15 and freshman Derrick Coleman keyed several second-half plays for the Orangemen.

Syracuse, 3-0, battled the Cowboys through most of the game, and never led by more than seven points until the final seven minutes when the Orangemen trailed off 10 unanswered points for a 62-49 bulge with 3:27 to play.

Monroe scored six of the Orangemen's final 10 points from the free throw line, as Oklahoma State tried to catch Syracuse by attempting three-point shots.

The Cowboys, 1-2, were led by Robert Smith and Nolan Richardson, who each had 10 points.

Northeastern 76 Jacksonville 70

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — Reggie Lewis netted 21 points and Northeastern University sophomore Derrick Lewis scored 11 second-half points as the 19th-ranked Huskies overcame a 10-point "first-half" deficit to defeat Jacksonville University 76-70 in the opening round of the Carrier Classic.

The win moved Northeastern into the championship game Saturday night against No. 17 Syracuse.

Jacksonville, 1-2, held a 67-66 advantage with 3:06 remaining in the game when the two Lewises sparked a 9-0 run that gave the Huskies a 75-67 lead with 23 seconds to play.

In college football: Army, Navy to meet 87th time

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Army and Navy football teams met for the 87th time Saturday in a battle for bragging rights but no bowl bids.

Army, 6-5, is favored over the 3-7 Midshipmen, but favorites mean little in this nationally televised confrontation.

"The old cliché about throwing the record out is right," said Navy Coach Gary Tranquill, whose team has lost seven straight games. "Whoever is more ready to play is going to win."

Army's offensive charge is led by explosive junior quarterback Tony Crawford, who directs the Cadets' wishbone. Crawford is Army's leading rusher with 984 yards and 14 touchdowns, and the Cadets have won each of the five games in which he has rushed for more than 100 yards.

"He's capable with his athletic ability to make something out of nothing," Tranquill said.

Army-Navy is one of three games on tap Saturday as the regular college season comes to a close. The others find fourth-ranked Michigan at Hawaii and Brigham Young at Air Force, with the winner to meet UCLA in the Freedom Bowl.

Navy's only edge over Army may be the battleship-sized bulk of its offensive line which outweighs Army's defensive front by more than 30 pounds per man, 266-230.

The Midshipmen have been plagued by injuries. Navy's leading rusher, junior tailback Chuck Smith, will play only part of the game because of a recurring hamstring pull. Tony Hollinger, a converted flanker, will try to replace Smith, who has 918 yards rushing and 10 touchdowns.

"Tranquill said Navy will try to keep possession of the ball as long as possible.

"We feel we have to control the ball. However, I don't know how we're going to do it," he said.

Army Coach Jim Young said the Cadets' biggest test will be their size disadvantage.

"It'll be a great challenge for us," he said. "They'll try to do exactly what they did last year — control the ball and move it inside."

Last year, Navy ran over Army 17-11 behind tailback Napoleon McCallum. The victory stretched Navy's lead in the series to 41-38-7.

Because Army beat Air Force 21-17 earlier this season, a victory over Navy would give the Cadets the Commander-in-Chief's Trophy. Navy lost to Air Force 40-6.

Brigham Young had its string of 10 consecutive Western Athletic Conference titles snapped in last week's loss to San Diego State, but the Cougars can still earn their ninth straight bowl appearance with a victory over Air Force.

Testaverde is expected to be given '86 Heisman

NEW YORK (AP) — Quarterback Vinny Testaverde, whose passing helped the University of Miami to a perfect regular season and a shot at the national championship, is likely to be honored as the nation's outstanding college football player today.

The outcome has practically been a foregone conclusion since Sept. 27 when Testaverde threw four touchdown passes as Miami defeated then-No. 1 Oklahoma 28-16 and replaced the Sooners at the top of The Associated Press poll.

Testaverde flew to New York on Friday with Gary Stevens, Miami's offensive coordinator. Coach Jimmy Johnson was expected to arrive on Saturday. The Testaverde family has scheduled a big party on Sunday.

The announcement of the 1985 Heisman winner will be made at the conclusion of a half-hour CBS-TV show Saturday following the Army-Navy game, which should end around 3:30 p.m., MST.

Thomas stops Mugabi in three to claim title

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Duane Thomas, a 42-1 underdog, stopped John "The Beast" Mugabi with a barrage of punches in the third round and won the vacant World Boxing Council super welterweight title Friday night at Caesars Palace.

Mugabi had hurt Thomas with an overhand right to the head in the second round and had landed a hard left hook to Thomas' head early in the third.

Suddenly, Thomas crashed a left hook to the body and one to the head and Mugabi almost went down. The Ugandan righted himself and was driven into the ropes by Thomas.

Mugabi turned and faced the crowd, grabbing the ropes, as Thomas continued to hit him from behind.

Referee Carlos Padilla then waved the fight off. Thomas had won by stoppage at 56 seconds of the third round.

"It was the second upset of the night. In an earlier fight, Greg Haugen, a 4-1 underdog, scored a 15-round majority decision over Jimmy Paul, Thomas' stablemate from the Kronk gym in Detroit, and won the International Boxing Federation lightweight title.

"I thought it was 'awful close,'" Haugen said. "Anytime it's that close it usually goes in the champion's favor."

A vast majority of the writers at ringside felt Paul deserved the decision.

It was Mugabi's second defeat in a bid for a championship this year. Last March 10, he challenged Marvin Hagler for the undisputed middleweight title here and was knocked out in the 11th round.

The super welterweight title became vacant when Thomas relinquished it. Hearns will challenge Dennis Andries of Great Britain for the WBC light-heavyweight title in February.

Hearns was at ringside, as was Sugar Ray Leonard.

Beyers: Passing key against Tigers

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Nevada-Reno quarterback Eric Beyers says he expects to throw more during this Saturday's NCAA Division-1-AA quarterfinal play-off game against Tennessee State to overcome the Tigers' penchant for playing goal line defense anywhere on the field.

"You can still run, but their defense is geared to stop the run because everyone is on the line of scrimmage," said Beyers. "They're basically telling you, 'Go ahead, try and throw.'"

Beyers is coming off one of the worst passing games of his career. The 5-foot-10 quarterback completed only nine of 25 passes in UNR's 27-7 victory over Idaho in the first round of the playoffs last Saturday, after finishing the regular season as the Division 1-AA's second most efficient passer.

But Beyers said most of his problems against Idaho can be traced to the Vandals' defensive schemes.

"Their defense was geared to take away the pass," said Beyers. "That's why the running game went so well. I didn't throw as well as I could have, some passes were dropped and they put on a good rush."

The 14th-ranked Tennessee State Tigers advanced to the quarterfinals against No. 1-ranked UNR by defeating Jackson State 31-23 in the arm of quarterback Stacy Greer, who tossed four touchdown passes.

Nevada-Reno head coach Chris Ault said he plans to blitz Saturday to take advantage of what has been a Tennessee State weakness.

Tabbs-Witherspoon fight is cancelled

NEW YORK (AP) — The World Boxing Association (WBA) fight between champion Tim Witherspoon and Tony Tubbs was called off Friday when Tubbs withdrew. Tubbs said he had a shoulder injury, while promoter Don King accused Tubbs of trying to fling more money.

Contract negotiations reportedly were underway to get Bonecrusher Smith to fight Witherspoon. Also mentioned by King as a likely replacement was Tyrell Biggs, but promoter Dan Duva said Biggs would not take the fight.

"Tony Tubbs is history," King said at a news conference Friday. King said Witherspoon would keep his Dec. 12 date with Madison Square Garden and Home Box Office Television, but it would be with a new opponent.

F & G sets its big game rules for '87 at meeting

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News writer

BOISE — The Idaho Fish and Game Commission on Friday approved increasing the quota of nonresident deer and elk tags and set spring steelhead fishing seasons for next year.

In its monthly meeting in Boise, the commission also approved tentative opening dates for big game hunting seasons, all generally in accordance with management plans for 1988-90.

Final opening dates for big game hunting seasons will be set next spring.

The commission approved increasing the quota of deer tags from 12,500 in 1986 to 13,750 in 1987, nonresident elk tags from 10,000 to 11,000, and nonresident Panhandle elk tags from 1,500 to 1,650.

The increases follow a formula set for the 1986-90 management plan calling for a nonresident deer quota of 10 percent of the latest five-year annual moving average of all resident deer tags issued, but a change of no more than 10 percent from the year before.

For nonresident elk tags, the quota is based on 20 percent of the latest five-year annual moving average of all resident elk tags issued, but within 10 percent of the previous year.

Thanks to a law passed by the 1986 Legislature, the commission for the first time also set aside nonresident deer and elk tags for Idaho outfitters and guides to sell to their clients in 1987.

Outfitters will be reserved 2,200 nonresident deer tags and 2,500 nonresident elk tags of the total quota for each, but none of the quota for Panhandle elk.

Seasons and limits approved for the spring 1987 steelhead fishing included:

- Salmon River, from its mouth upstream to Long Tom Creek, Jan. 1 through March 31, with limits of three per day, nine in possession and 20 per season.
- Salmon River, from Long Tom Creek to the mouth of Redfish Lake Creek, Jan. 1 through April 30, three per day, nine in possession and 20 per season.
- Boise River, from its mouth upstream to Barber Dam, Jan. 1 through April 30, two per day, four in possession and 10 per season.
- Snake River, from the Washington border at its confluence with the Clearwater River upstream to Oxbow Dam, Jan. 1 through April 30, three per day, nine in possession and 20 per season.
- Clearwater River and Middle Fork Clearwater River, Jan. 1 through April 30, three per day, nine in possession and 20 per season.
