Memo for president links arms, hostages

By TERENCE HUNT The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — A memorandum prepared for President Reagan in January 1986 drew an unmistakable link between shipments of U.S. arms to Iran and the release of American hostages in Lebanon.

Iran and diversions of sales proceeds to Nicaraguan rebels. Sen. William Cohen, R-Maine, the committee's vice chairman, said some of the statements in the Senate report "were not consistent with my understanding of the facts."

However, the memo makes clear that the delivery of U.S. arms was the foundation of renewed American ties to Tehran. "In that we have been unable to exercise any suasion over Hizballah (a radical faction) during the course of nearly two years of kidnappings, this approach through the government of Iran may well be our only way to achieve the release of the Americans held in Beirut," the memo said.

Firm says new drug may help treat AIDS

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — A pharmaceutical company released preliminary results Friday of experimental clinical drug tests that seemed to help AIDS-prone patients avoid developing the disease but were greeted with caution in the scientific and financial worlds.

ICN Pharmaceuticals Inc. did not claim its clinical trials of the drug AZD-7775 showed it to be effective for AIDS. But one official, Dr. Raymond Wiley, said at a news conference that the results represent "a major step forward in understanding this disease."

Nicaragua reimposes emergency

The Associated Press

MANAGUA, Nicaragua — President Daniel Ortega signed a new constitution Friday, but quickly reimposed a state of emergency voiding many civil rights guaranteed in the constitution because of "continued North American aggression."

New tax law contains $20 billion loophole

Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — Congressional tax writers, faced with a newly discovered $20 billion loophole inadvertently created by the new tax law, are being pressed to consider emergency legislation to eliminate the provision, officials said Friday.

Earlier this week, the Internal Revenue Service moved to narrow the preference, but the IRS ruling is likely to be challenged in court because it goes well beyond the law's actual wording and the congressional committee report explaining the bill.

No concessions from Americans in next round, negotiator says

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Chief U.S. negotiator Max M. Kampelman notified the Soviet Union on Friday that "the internal problems" confronting the Reagan administration would not result in American concessions in the next round of arms control talks.

Rest of the sale While a wide variety of merchandise was available to bargain hunters at the Penny Wise store liquidation auction, small boys were not going to the highest bidder. Aaron Anderson, 4, just found a convenient spot to relax Friday while his parents, Robert and Myrna Anderson of Hazelton, bid on items. The auction at the Twin Falls store continues today with shelving, displays and fixtures up for sale.

Legal questions among aspects of lottery before legislators

By MARK WARBIS The Associated Press

BOISE — Idahoans might have thought they were putting the lottery issue to rest last November when they voted overwhelmingly to set up a commission to put the state in the business of thinking again.

With the voice of the people saying so strongly that they want it, I think we need to consider it," said Senate State Affairs Committee Chairman Phil Batt, R-Willard.

Allied Christian Forces, contend the initiative circumvented the requirement that constitutional amendments originate only in the Legislature.

That means the five-member lottery commission established by the initiative, though not yet appointed by Gov. Cecil Andrus, would be dissolved. Andrus has indicated he will name a lottery commission despite the legal tangles, and plans a major policy statement on the issue during his state-of-the-state address Monday.

It's only a matter of time before the Supreme Court hears the case again, no matter how the district court rules. The question is, how much time?

widespread support evidenced by the initiative's 69-percent backing from voters in November should convince legislators to approve a constitutional amendment for the 1988 ballot, no matter when the legal battle ends.

Cold wave keeps grip on USSR

MOSCOW (AP) — The temperature soared to 15 below zero in Moscow on Friday, but a severe cold wave that has caused 48 deaths still threatens to overload the capital's heating system.

Russians are fiercely proud of their ability to withstand cold, and they shrug off below-zero frosts as "bracing."

But the coldest early January on record sent all but the hardest running for cover and conjured up memories of the more prolonged cold spell of 1978-79, when electricity and Muscovites built bonfires indoors against the cold and dark.

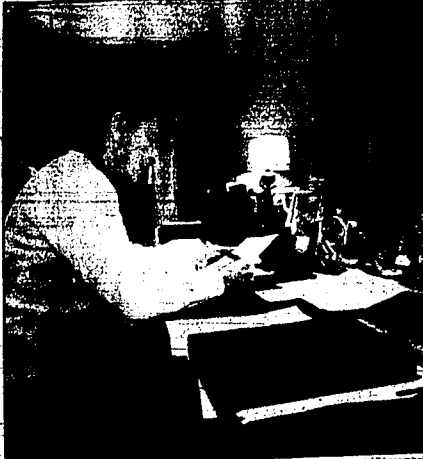

In the first week of this month alone, 48 people in the Soviet Union died as a result of fires or jury-rigged heaters they were using to battle the cold, the Izvestia newspaper reported Friday.

Citing a "characteristic example," the paper said a milkmaid and her two infants in the Tula region south of Moscow suffocated after an improvised electric heater "caught fire" and "filled" their home with smoke.

Izvestia said that from Jan. 1 to Jan. 7, firefighters had reported 16 blazes that claimed more than one victim.

"It's going to take a court order to get me out of the apartment this weekend," a middle-aged Muscovite said.

Earlier this week, temperatures plunged to a low of minus 25.5 Fahrenheit in Moscow and even lower in the surrounding suburbs and countryside.

Reagan out of sight

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan was discharged from Bethesda Naval Hospital on Thursday after a four-day stay in which he underwent a prostate operation, and tests that doctors said showed him clear of cancer. The president had a malignant tumor removed from his colon in July 1985.

The White House said chief of staff Donald T. Regan and national security adviser Frank C. Carlucci had appointments to visit Reagan in his residential quarters in the executive mansion.

The announcement said the president was working on a draft of his Jan. 27 State of the Union message.

Regan is expected to resume a limited schedule in the Oval Office next week.

hostages was "in some respects a byproduct of a large effort to develop ties to potentially moderate forces in Iran."

Stressing that point, a senior administration official speaking on condition of anonymity, said Friday, "The hostage release is in some respects a byproduct. It is inadvertent. It is fallout from a larger effort to develop — a spinoff from — a renewed effort to develop ties to potentially moderate forces in Iran. That is what this whole memo is about."

In another development, the United States-backed Contra rebel group, has informed the Justice Department that it paid for its Washington operations last year with money from "unknown" foreign sources.

UNO's statement deepens the mystery of where the Contras obtained money to pay for their political activities in the United States and the possible role of fired White House aide Oliver L. North, who allegedly masterminded the diversion of Iranian arms sales profits to the Contras.

In a filing this week with the Justice Department's foreign agent registration office, UNO said it paid its office expenses over a six-month period ending Nov. 14 with $31,668 provided through three deposits — May 9, Aug. 11 and Nov. 6 — from foreign sources.

The UNO declaration, signed by its Washington representative, Ernesto Palazzo, last Monday, added: "Sources of UNO support unknown to registrant," which is their constituents," Risch said.

Associated Taxpayers Director Russell Westberg, whose group is neutral on the lottery, filed a lawsuit challenging the initiative, said the mandate delivered by voters will make it easier for the Legislature to tuck its conservative, anti-gambling traditions.

"For the first time, legislators have a perfect excuse for accurately representing what the people think on that subject," Westberg said. "There's no longer any intrigue about support for the lottery."

Still, the Legislature's subtle shift toward the center in last year's election may not be enough to overcome nagging questions about how much revenue a state of just more than 1 million people actually could realize from a lottery, and about the cost of the bureaucracy needed to manage a lottery system.

Start-up costs alone have been estimated at $14 million.

"I don't think we can go it alone to make it pay," said newly elected House Speaker Tom Boyd, R-Genesee.

He agrees with ideas raised by Anderson and others that Idaho should consider franchising to sell other states' lottery tickets here, or getting involved with a lottery combination ticket sales receipt of several low-population states — for larger possible profits.

"I honestly believe that if there's going to be a lottery, it's going to have to be that way," Boyd said.

But Risch said for now, how a lottery would be constructed should take a back seat to the more elementary issue of making a lottery legal.

"They're starting to talk about the mechanics, but first they want to decide the whole question of a state lottery," he said of legislators. "Once the thing gets rolling, that's the time to decide how to do it."

Investigators can make it available to the scientific community," he said.

AIDS, or acquired-immune-deficiency syndrome, is an affliction in which the body's immune system becomes unable to resist disease. There is no known cure. As of Dec. 1, AIDS had been diagnosed in more than 28,000 Americans, of whom about half have died since 1979, according to the federal Centers for Disease Control.

The company said the test involved 163 patients suffering from lymphadenopathy syndrome, often called LAS. Sufferers of LAS have been diagnosed with AIDS nodes, and sometimes develop AIDS.

milligrams of — ribavirin, none developed AIDS, while 10 of 56 receiving a placebo had progressed into AIDS by the end of the eight-month study, ICN said.

Of the 55 given a daily dose of 600 milligrams a day over the 24-week period in which drugs were actually administered, six had developed AIDS by the end of the study.

The company said the drug was "without significant side effects" and that 119 of the participants elected to continue taking 800 milligrams of ribavirin a day after the clinical trials ended.

ICN officials declined to issue further details of the study at the news conference, saying that information would be published later in scientific journals.

MAGHDOSHUEH, Lebanon (AP) — Six Israeli jets attacked Palestinian positions Friday, killing four guerrillas in this Christian hill town overlooking the south Lebanon port of Sidon.

ment to Reagan to come to Washington for a summit meeting.

"Mr. Gorbachev, for his own reasons, decided he would go back on the promise-to-come-to-the-United States," Kampelman said. "That's his right."

"If they want a summit, let them respect Mr. Reagan's invitation. There it is, on the table. We're not eager for it. We're willing to have it. We think it will be useful to have. And if he thinks he is doing the United States or Mr. Reagan a favor by coming here, this is no way to proceed."

The two leaders agreed on back-to-back visits at a summit meeting in Geneva in November 1985. Gorbachev was to come here last year.

with Reagan to reciprocate by traveling to the Soviet Union in 1987.

In the meantime, they met in Geneva last October and reached informal understandings to reduce their arsenals. Kampelman said that should be the basis for the next round of negotiations.

"He is not doing us any greater favor than he is doing himself by sitting down and talking to us," Kampelman said.

Governor tightens up state travel rules

BOISE (AP) — Starting immediately, the agency chiefs will have to submit to the governor's office for review and approval.

"I don't think we have a lot of abuse out there," Martin Peterson, the governor's budget director, said Friday. "But we can get a better feeling on it. The governor believes we should be spending our money in-state before we spend them outside the state."

Out-of-state travel by state employees can be big business in Idaho. A recent study showed the bill for airline tickets only came to $779,000 for the 10-month period ended April 30, 1986.

University of Idaho employees had by far the largest portion, more than $100,000.

The policy applies to all state agencies directly under the control of the governor. That excludes offices such as those run by the other state officials.

But Peterson said the governor is asking the state Board of Education to set up some sort of review process for the state-supported colleges and universities and the Department of Education.

Out-of-state travel by the universities alone would swamp his Division of Financial Management's ability to review, Peterson said.

A directive sent out to state agencies this week asks agency chiefs to submit to the Division of Financial Management plans for out-of-state travel.

Financial management analysts from the division, who normally evaluate budget requests and spending by the agencies, will review the travel requests and approve them in advance.

Peterson said Gov. Cecil Andrus wants the travel reviewed closely to see if there is a cost-justified benefit to the state. He said if an agency plans to send three employees to a meeting, it may be asked to explain why one delegate will not do.

"Finally, is the out-of-state travel by any one individual excessive after considering the individual's position and job responsibilities?" the Peterson memorandum asked.

The term "out-of-state" travel will not apply to trips which include a stop at Spokane, which is essential to reach some locations in Idaho, Peterson said.

Travel paid directly by a federal agency or any other non-state agency will be exempt from the review, Peterson said. Trips already planned and for which tickets have been purchased will not be affected, but travel commencing on or after next Thursday will have to be approved first.

Peterson and other spokesmen in the governor's office said the goal is not only to keep closer track of out-of-state travel, but to build information.

After a few months, the state will have a clear picture on which state agencies are doing the travel, how much they are spending, and whether results appear to justify cost, Peterson said.

Dumping woes surface

MIDDLETON (AP) — Health officials are investigating a complaint that garbage has been dumped on private property east of here.

But the owners of the property, who own Middleton Disposal Co., say they aren't the ones dumping on the farm, and it's been a problem for years keeping people from disposing of their trash on the property.

Bob Hays, environmental specialist at the Southwestern District Health Department, said his agency is looking into a telephone complaint against Middleton Disposal. An investigation revealed garbage piled on the farm, owned by Middleton on the farm, and it's been a problem for years keeping people from disposing of their trash on the property.

Mrs. Buskirk said someone else dumped garbage on the property.

Erosion of personal income undermining state revenues

BOISE (AP) — Economic forecasters from the state's three universities told a special legislative committee Friday that taxable personal income in Idaho has been eroding for nearly a decade, undermining the revenues that critical tax produces for state government.

"Things are not good, there's no getting around that," Boise State's Charles Skoro told the Joint Revenue Projection Committee. "The Idaho economy remains very weak, and tax collections, especially the income tax, are even weaker than the general economy."

The universities' forecast, a departure from the extremely optimistic and unfulfilled outlooks provided in past years, underscored the pessimism about the state's near-term economic future that has prevailed the panel's hearings this week.

But as the committee closed out three days of hearings, the Associated Taxpayers of Idaho, traditionally conservative in its economic outlook, predicted a 3 percent increase in state tax receipts in the new year and adjusted upward its projections for the current year.

And the state Tax Commission, basing its projection for the 1988 budget year in part on tax receipts already collected for the current year, generally agreed with the major provisions of the Associated Taxpayers' estimate, projected only fractional revenue expansion for the coming budget year, that begins July.

None of the projections included the impact of the expected approval of a permanent 5 percent sales tax, which would add another $55 million or more to the treasury, and action on conformance with the new federal tax code, which could produce another $21.5 million windfall and will likely be a center of controversy when lawmakers convene next week.

The committee will use the information it has gathered this week in estimating what it believes the state tax structure can generate in the new year. The Andrus administration will not provide its estimates until after the governor presents his budget message next Wednesday.

Although still expecting substantially stronger sales tax receipts than collections to date would indicate, possible, the universities' forecast for base tax revenues was $955 million, a $25 million boost over the official collection estimate for the current year.

Russell Westerberg of Associated Taxpayers put the revenue total at $990 million, and Dan John indicated the state Tax Commission believed revenues would run just slightly below that level.

John told the special committee that despite the actual loss of thousands of nonfarm jobs during 1986 and the expected loss of thousands more in the coming year, he was not as pessimistic about personal income tax receipts as the universities.

Westerberg's forecast indicated the same thing, but he added,

"Idaho's economy is static at best and may be contracting further ... If we have reached the trough as some believe, it is a wide trough."

The Associated Taxpayers' forecast for the current year increased income and sales tax receipts from the conservative level estimated a year ago while the Tax Commission scaled back somewhat its slightly more optimistic year-old projections on those taxes.

But the universities, which in past years have estimated total tax receipts at tens of millions of dollars higher than actually materialized, made a key adjustment this time in severely reducing in their outlook for personal income.

Skoro said that since 1977 it appears wages and salaries, from which the biggest share of income tax is collected, have become a smaller portion of overall state personal income as more and more Idahoans' earnings come from retirement or social security checks, investments and other kinds of payments.

County fight may hit court

CALDWELL (AP) — The ongoing argument between Canyon County Sheriff John Anderson and the County Commission took a new turn this week when an attorney for the sheriff threatened a lawsuit if the commissioners don't stop interfering with the sheriff's office.

A letter prepared by attorney James E. Schiller for the sheriff said a lawsuit could be expensive and embarrassing for the county and would "continue to erode public faith in Canyon County government" but the sheriff feels he cannot let the other officials interfere with daily operations.

Schiller's letter cites an attorney general's opinion that commissioners may not assume duties of other elected officials.

The letter also urged a meeting next week after commissioner-elect Bob O'Connor is sworn in replacing Carlos Bledsoe.

Andrus will hit prison issue in state address

By QUANE KENTON
The Associated Press

BOISE — Suddenly, the big push to build a $30 million, 500-bed maximum security state prison in Idaho is turning into a gentle nudge.

Gov. Cecil Andrus says the problem of prison overcrowding is one that must be resolved quickly — but it doesn't mean the state has to commit to spending at least $30 million for a new prison.

"It has to be resolved. It will take up a pretty big section in my state-of-the-state message on Monday," Andrus said in an interview before convening of the 48th Idaho Legislature.

What to do about prison overcrowding is expected to be one of the first issues tackled by the Legislature, which will get a recommendation from the governor on Monday.

"I will present a recommendation that 'Before you determine where and what you build, you've got to size it. And we will get right into that. We plan to move ahead rapidly.'

— Gov. Cecil Andrus
It isn't absolutely mandatory that the state build a new prison now. There's no question that we have a clear option to not do anything this year.

Al Murphy, state corrections director inmates in the main prison, south of Boise, and in ancillary facilities at Orofino, Cottonwood, Boise and Nampa.

For a time, the Board of Corrections had a cap on the inmate population, which meant some prisoners had to stay in county jails because there was no room for them in state facilities.

The major problem is in the main prison, where 755 inmates were counted last Tuesday in space designed for 476.

With normal growth, Murphy said the state expects to have 1,547 inmates in the system by next December, up about 150 from the current count. And with a couple of changes in sentencing laws, the inmate census could increase even more.

With restrictions on automatic "good time" and other changes, Murphy said the inmate count could reach 1,672 in 1988 and 1,722 the next year — up 400 from the current population.

Inmates have filed a lawsuit, complaining about overcrowding and other conditions at the prison. U.S. District Judge Harold Ryan ordered some improvements, but wouldn't order some inmates released to ease overcrowding.

The Department of Corrections has made most of the improvements ordered by Ryan, Murphy said. "The court order still is in effect and the only thing that we have not complied with is taking care of overcrowding," he said.

A year ago, the talk was about starting work on a 500-bed, maximum security prison which would cost about $30 million. The Legislature appropriated $2 million, but $5 million later was held back and $3 million is available.

Construction hasn't started. After a site check that took nine months, the state wound up with one board favoring a site adjacent to the main prison. In a depressed economy, it's a hot political issue. Several communities want the jobs and

Sufficient water predicted, despite low snowpack

But some shortages are due if no more snow arrives

By MARK PRATTER

TWIN FALLS — Despite below-average snowpack in the Snake River Basin, farmers Jack Eakin, manager of the Twin Falls Canal Co., said the canal company will survive with adequate water next summer but he is concerned about having two dry years in a row.

"We could survive one year of below-average snowpack," said Mike Neubeiser, a U.S. Soil Conservation Service spokesman in Twin Falls.

However, more snow would be insurance of National Park. If the snow doesn't materialize, "It could make a year in which we don't have the water we really like," he said.

The entire state has below-average snowpack for this time of year. The snowpack is 50 percent or less of the average in the Snake River Basin. The Idaho Panhandle has the greatest amount of snowpack, but is still 10-20 percent below average, said Neubeiser.

The snowpack recharges the groundwater and the rivers when it melts and runs off in the spring.

quate water for next summer's irrigation — with the possible exception of Jackson Lake, said Leo Busch, with the Bureau of Reclamation in Burley. Jackson Lake is kept at below-normal levels to prevent excess pressure on the dam.

Other exceptions are the Salmon Dam near Rogerson and Hollister, said federal officials. Busch said reservoirs have adequate levels because of carryover from last year, and river flows are above normal because of last year's above-average snowpack and heavy precipitation during October, Busch said.

Below the Paltades Reservoir on the Wyoming border, the forecast calls for 95 percent of normal runoff, Busch said.

County Clerk Dick Pence said the check was presented to the commissioners along with an award of merit certificate for outstanding achievement and a letter of congratulations to the county and its employees.

The money will go into the general fund for later use, Pence said.

The city of Burley also received a dividend of $42,000, but was not one of the 12 clients given awards of merit.

County receives insurance rewards

By CLAUDINE CHAMBERLAIN

TWIN FALLS — A check for $19,510 and a special safety award were presented to the Twin Falls County Board of Commissioners Tuesday from the Idaho State Insurance Fund as a reward for its low accident rate among employees.

Safety awards were given to clients with low "loss ratios," said Dick Pettit, spokesman for the company. A loss ratio is calculated by dividing the county's compensation premium paid versus losses paid. Twin Falls County's loss ratio of .6 percent was a "direct result of good safety management," Pettit said. The county employs 200-300 people.

The dividend check represents 51 percent of the county's previously paid workman's compensation insurance premium. Twin Falls County was one of 12 of the insurance company's clients in the Magic Valley who received safety awards by the Board of Air Service and the Jerome School District were two of the other 12 clients receiving safety awards and dividends in the Magic Valley. The Twin Falls School District received a safety award, but no dividend.

County Clerk Dick Pence said the check was presented to the commissioners along with an award of merit certificate for outstanding achievement and a letter of congratulations to the county and its employees.

The money will go into the general fund for later use, Pence said.

The Idaho State Insurance Fund has over 1,000 clients in the eight-county Magic Valley area, said Dick Pettit, spokesman for the company. There are 4,000 clients statewide, 5,000 of which receive dividends this year. The Idaho State Insurance Fund handles about 40 percent of all the workmen's compensation in the state, he added.

Hagerman seeks JTPA summer work program for youths

By TERRELL WILLIAMS
Times-News correspondent

HAGERMAN — With luck, low-income youth in Hagerman will be busy this summer, landscaping the city park, painting fire hydrants and cleaning the library.

The city has applied for the Young Workers through the Job Training Partnership Act, a program funded by Region 4 Development Association and the South Central Private Industry Council.

If the request from Hagerman is approved, the JTPA will hire a crew of four youths, ages 14 to 21, and an adult trainer to work from June through August on various city improvements.

At the City Council meeting last week, Mayor Merle Owsley read a list of projects Hagerman needs. The city must fund the materials for the work program and JTPA pays the youths minimum wage.

Owsley estimated the program will cost Hagerman a maximum of about $7,000. Park landscaping materials will cost about $1,000. Roof repair, plaster and painting at City Hall will be $900, and two new horse shoe pits will be $100 each.

Betty Wilson, JTPA program analyst in Twin Falls, said this eight-week work program sponsors 15 to 20 crews in the eight counties of Region 4. She predicted Hagerman would be awarded a work crew during the south-central R-C meeting this week. On the applications, the cities must specify the amount they are willing to spend. In other business:

The council reviewed a letter from city officials in Burley asking Hagerman to write a letter of support for the state prison being located in Burley.

Council members said they would rather see the facility built in Twin Falls, one of the cities still in contention for the site. If Twin Falls is eliminated as a possible site, council members agreed they would support Burley.

Owsley said the city may apply for a grant of an estimated $800,000 to rebuild its 40-year-old chlorination plant and maybe build a water tower. The mayor said he will soon be discussing the application with engineers.

"We have a lot of complaints on chlorination in the water," he said. And a tower, he added, would build the city's water capacity and provide a more constant pressure.

Hawkins to educators: 'Negative' Legislature gone

By JANE ROBISON
Times-News writer

BOISE — The new director of the state Department of Commerce took the Legislature while claiming modest credit for the defeat of some lawmakers in November.

Jim Hawkins, the new Department of Commerce head, received a hearty round of applause when he told 150 educators at the Idaho Education Association leadership conference Friday that the "negative influence" of last year's Legislature is not present this year.

"The Education Coalition for Idaho was a group so small it was not all that influential in the Legislature last year, but we had some success at the ballot box," Hawkins said.

Hawkins did not name names of lawmakers ousted or no longer around, but the crowd seemed to relish the remark anyway.

The Education Coalition for Idaho, which Hawkins co-chaired, was organized in 1985 to lobby for more money for public schools. The group included representatives of Boise, Cascade, Ore-Ida, and Morrison-Knudsen.

Hawkins also told the group that public education needs more money, and if that means more taxes, then it will have to be.

"The road to economic recovery is paved with adequate funding for education," he said. "That may mean a change in taxes."

Hawkins will also ask the Legislature for $2 million to fund the Department of Commerce for the next 18 months. The current budget is $200,000.

While those who attended saw Hawkins' message as upbeat, some educators wondered where the money would come from.

"It sounded good, but we need to start hearing how they're going to do it," said Bob Puhool, Superintendent of Spill Falls School District.

Local, state unemployment rates jump

By The Associated Press
and The Times-News

TWIN FALLS — Unemployment rates in both the Magic Valley and Idaho took hefty jumps during December, as winter weather ended many outdoor jobs.

The seasonally adjusted rate for Twin Falls, Jerome and Gooding counties rose to 6 percent, 5 of a percentage point above November. The state rate jumped to 6 percent, 1.7 percentage point increase, the Idaho Department of Employment reported Friday.

Idaho's jobless rate stopped just short of the national rate, which was at its lowest level of 1986, at 6.7 percent.

The employment news in December was "not good," said newly appointed Department Director Julie Kilgrow. "The outlook for early 1987 is more of the same, with unemployment increasing slightly in the first quarter."

The Magic Valley's rate remained well below the state's mark. Len McDonald, state job force analyst at Twin Falls, said.

workers outside and the rate lower than expected.

"That finally caught up with us," McDonald said. The December figure returned to historic norms. For instance, in December 1985, the rate was 5.1 percent.

During the month 32,700 Magic Valley workers were on payrolls, and 2,050 had no jobs. Industries gaining workers were food processing, wholesale trade, retail trade and health services. Those losing workers during the month were printing, plastics manufacturing, transportation, and financial services.

Statewide, about 28,600 Idahoans were out of work, up 1,500 from November. The jobless rate was 2 of a percentage point higher than a year ago. Total employment was at 498,000.

Kilgrow also cited weather-related delays of seasonal layoffs from construction, timber and other outdoor industries as the main factor for the higher rate. Increased retail employment during the Christmas shopping season did not offset the losses.

Department analyst Jim Day on Friday predicted the state will lose another 3,000 or more jobs during the next 12 months. He also said the average number of Idahoans at work will fall below 400,000 during 1987.

The state agency also said there has been a significant shift of workers into the service sector, which typically offers lower-paying jobs than the manufacturing sector.

Analysts have predicted an end to the deterioration in the state economy, but have not been able to project when Idaho can expect an upswing from the near-depression of the past few years.

The Idaho unemployment rate for 1986 averaged 6.5 percent, a level likely to hold during 1987, analysts said.

Every region of the state except Canyon County showed an increase in joblessness during December. Unemployment rates for the month and the change from November were:

- Idaho — 6.8 percent, up .4 percent.
- Magic Valley — 6 percent, up .5 percent.
- Pocatello area — 7.4 percent, up .2 percent.
- Idaho Falls area — 4.5 percent, up .3 percent.
- Ada County (Boise) — 4.4 percent, up .3 percent.
- Canyon County — 7 percent, down .8 percent.
- Lewiston area — 5.6 percent, up .2 percent.
- Panhandle — 9.6 percent, up .1 percent.

Corrections board reviews suits, most on overcrowding

BOISE (AP) — The Idaho Board of Corrections spent much of its meeting here Friday reviewing lawsuits filed by inmates.

Chairman Bob Anderson said most of them involve complaints by inmates about overcrowding. "It's more important now than ever before to talk about overcrowding," he said.

The board spent Friday afternoon hearing reports on probation programs that could ease some of the overcrowding. As of midweek, Corrections officials said the state had 755 inmates at the main prison in facilities designed for 478 people.

On Friday, an out-of-state corrections expert visited the main prison near Boise to evaluate overcrowding. He's scheduled to testify Feb. 13 before U.S. District Judge Harold Ryan in a class-action lawsuit filed by inmates.

Ryan earlier ordered the state to improve conditions at the prison. Corrections Director Al Murphy said he feels the state has met all of the requirements except relieving overcrowding.

The Feb. 13 hearing before Ryan will be to determine if the state has complied with the judge's earlier order.

Board members heard one encouraging report. A fairly new intensive supervision program apparently is producing good results.

Rudy Evenson, program coordinator for field and community services, said there were 457 inmates in an intensive supervision program. Of the inmates involved, he said, 51.2 percent completed the program successfully.

Another 72 percent were still enrolled in the program, he said. Just over 34 percent did not complete the program for what he called "technical violations," such as drinking, using drugs or absconding.

Evenson said only 0.8 percent of the inmates were convicted of charges with new felonies while under intensive supervision.

"We've been very happy with the program so far," said Evenson. "Morale is very high and we're headed in a very positive direction at this point."

He said because of intensive supervision, probation officers can pick up signs that a parolee is headed toward trouble, such as drinking or missing work, and "get them off the street" before they get into serious trouble.

Probation officers in Idaho have caseloads of 120 and 100 inmates, Murphy said. Officers in intensive supervision have about 25 inmates, and they see them all the time, he said.

Some of the cost is covered by a fee-charged inmates. But Murphy said a problem is that as former inmates are released from intensive supervision, there's less money from that source.

Murphy said he's working on another program which could put inmates into the community several months before their normal release date, but also under intensive supervision.

He told the board the "community control" program calls for even smaller caseloads, with a team of two probation officers assigned to handle 15 inmates who live in their own homes.

Inmates would be released several months early, given training on how to deal with society, and would pay 25 percent of their earnings to the department.

On that basis, Murphy said, for a net cost of $50,000 in state funds, the department could release 30 inmates and save $300,000 on the cost of keeping them in prison.

"That's the best bargain in correctional history," Murphy said. "The program will work and it saves money."

Murphy said if he can get the Legislature to put up the money, he'd like to start a test group of 15 inmates in Boise and another at Caldwell.

"The net cost to the state would be nowhere near what it would cost to keep them in prison, even minimum security," he said.

Murphy also said the prison has about $14,000 for drug and alcohol education programs for inmates, which he said is very inadequate. The money is going for a program to train inmates to counsel other inmates about substance abuse.

"I'd like to get a good, solid program for all inmates," Murphy said. "I'd like to have good staff people to handle it, no inmates."

He described substance abuse as a major problem for inmates. "We've got to get alcohol and drug programs going in this state and $14,000 won't back it," he said.

Murphy said he has set up a task force to work on the problem.

One of the two passengers was taken to the hospital for emergency room treatment and released.

Later the same day, another Willis Motor Co. employee, Jeffrey Forrest, 31, was traveling north on Eastland Drive when the vehicle he was driving was struck by an eastbound vehicle traveling on Elizabeth Boulevard. The driver of the second vehicle, Patricia J. Falyak, 39, of Twin Falls, was cited for a stop sign violation. Damage to the Willis vehicle, a 1987 Toyota sedan, was estimated at $4,000.

On Wednesday, the automobile agency reported a burglary in which someone stole two bucket seats from a vehicle on the car lot. Loss was estimated at $1,400. Police said the vehicle was unlocked and someone detached the two seats and carried them away.

Summons issued to former clerk

TWIN FALLS — A summons was issued Friday in 5th District Magistrate Court in Twin Falls for Charlene Hine, 42, of Twin Falls, after a complaint charging her with grand theft was filed Thursday.

Hine is accused of stealing $20,000 to $25,000 in funds missing from the Twin Falls County sheriff's office.

Hine resigned in December as records clerk in that office during an investigation into money from the prisoner work-release fund. Twin Falls County Prosecutor K. Ellen Barter filed formal charges Thursday, naming Hine as defendant.

Her attorney, Keith Roark of Halley, has stated Hine is not involved in any criminal act and said the missing money is the result of poor office management, which is being blamed on his client.

Anyone wishing a refund for advance tickets should obtain the ticket was purchased, Sun Valley Co. officials said Friday.

Grant continues F&G projects

TWIN FALLS — Fish hatchery, fishways and salmon-tagging operations in Idaho will continue in 1987 with a $480,000 grant for the state Fish & Game Department from the federal government, said a spokesman for U.S. Sen. James McClure's office Friday.

The grant from the National Oceanographic and Atmospheric Administration will ensure continued operation of the Sawtooth salmon hatchery near Stanley and a fish-tagging operation on the Rapid River near Riggs.

Fish tagging allows F&G to monitor the salmon population.

The grant will allow continued operation of fishways, which ensure the efficient passage of young salmon, at Dagger near Stanley and Selway Falls near Kamiah.

The money is available immediately, for use until Sept. 30.

Bad week unwinds for Wills

TWIN FALLS — It wasn't a very good week for Wills Motor Co. of Twin Falls.

On Tuesday a 1987 demonstrator 4-Runner from the automobile agency sustained about $7,500 damage when it went out of control on a patch of ice and rolled over on the Airport Road, during a demonstration ride.

Schreuder in isolation after fight

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Marc Schreuder, whose 1973 slaying of his millionaire grandfather was portrayed this week in the miniseries "At Mother's Request," is in isolation following a fight with another inmate, a Utah State Prison official confirmed Friday.

Jeffrey Galli, warden at the prison's Young Adult Correctional Center, said Schreuder, 25, has "about 10 days or so" remaining on a three-week "punitive isolation."

Schreuder was sentenced in 1982 to five years to life for the second-degree murder of Franklin Bradshaw, 76, Bradshaw's Utah auto parts store was shot in July 1973 at his Salt Lake City warehouse.

Schreuder's mother, Frances, a former member of the New York City Ballet board of directors, was sentenced in 1983 to life in prison for first-degree murder after a jury found she had coerced her son to kill her father to keep Bradshaw from disinherit her.

Mrs. Schreuder, 48, is serving time at the prison's women's facility not far from YAC, but prison officials said the two have not talked to each other since their imprisonment.

A source, identified only as a relative of an inmate at the YAC, told The Associated Press that Schreuder had been "locked down" after fighting off alleged homosexual advances.

"They were really surprised because Marc seemed so mellow," the source said. "But Marc cleaned his clock. He's gotten some new respect."

However, Galli said he was unaware of any sexual connection to the altercation, which he said occurred about two weeks ago.

Galli also said Schreuder's fight, which occurred weeks before the showing of "At Mother's Request," had nothing to do with his case.

Southeastern health agency seeks volunteers for radon gas study

POCATELLO (AP) — The Southeastern District Health Department here is seeking southeastern Idaho volunteers for a study of radon gas levels in the region.

The study is being done in conjunction with the Idaho Cancer Coordinating Committee which is funding the project. Officials hope to begin the project Feb. 2.

Health department spokesman Bob Walsh said the study will seek to determine how radon gas might be present in private homes.

Twenty canisters will be placed in selected homes in each of the eight health districts. They are expected to arrive in Pocatello later this month from the University of Pittsburgh, said Tom Hopkins, senior environmental health specialist.

Radon gas is a natural substance caused by the breakdown of uranium.

It has been found in high concentrations in a variety of soils and rocks containing uranium, granite, shale and phosphate. Radon can be found in soils contaminated with certain types of industrial wastes such as by-products from uranium or phosphate mining.

The American Cancer Society has estimated that of the 130,000 deaths attributed to lung cancer in 1986, between 5,000 and 20,000 were attributed to radon exposure.

Health officers will place the canisters in test homes for seven days. Home owners will be asked to then seal them and mail them to Pittsburgh for analysis.

Hopkins said the local health district is the last in the state to initiate a radon testing project. He said the health department's study is separate from a federally-funded radon study also being conducted locally by the Environmental Protection Agency.

Hopkins said that although outdoor concentrations of radon are usually so low as to cause little alarm, there is concern over indoor levels.

"Once inside an enclosed space, such as a home, radon gas can accumulate to the point that people should take action," indoor levels depend both on the home's construction as well as radon level of the underlying soil," Hopkins said.

payroll the prison would bring.

Sen. Denton Darrington, R-Deer, said earlier he plans to introduce a resolution as quickly as possible declaring legislative sentiment for a prison at Burley.

Andrus said he wants that dispute to end quickly. But before the state commits to building a huge new prison, Andrus wants other options explored.

"Before you determine where and how you build, you've got to size it," he said. "And we will get right into that. We plan to move ahead rapidly."

Murphy said Ryan plans to have an outside prison expert make an evaluation at the prison next week on overcrowding. It's possible that if Ryan determines the prison is unconstitutionally overcrowded, he could order inmates released, which has happened in other states.

Andrus hopes that won't happen. "I understand the separation of powers. I would not stick my nose into the judicial branch," he said. "My hope is that the Idaho state government would not be faced with a release order, when we are trying to correct our deficiencies. There are grounds for prosecution.

Study says growing Christian conservatism not anti-semitic

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
The Associated Press

NEW YORK — The beliefs of religiously conservative Christians do not reflect anti-Jewish views, according to a study issued Wednesday.

The finding "clearly rejects the hypothesis that evangelical Christians feel that God frowns on Jews," said the report, done for the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith.

Nancy Patterson, the league's director, said the increased prominence of religiously conservative Christians, "a group about which Jews have expressed apprehension," were factors triggering the study.

It found that most evangelicals and fundamentalists do not "consciously use their deeply held Christian faith and convictions as justification for anti-Semitic views."

The conclusion ran counter to a landmark 1966 study by Charles Y. Glock and Rodney Stark of the University of California that linked conservative fundamentalist Christian beliefs with anti-Semitism.

The new study was based on a broad range of questions put to 1,000 white Protestants, classified by an evangelicals or fundamentalists, mostly from "born-again" Bible believers who attend worship services weekly or more often.

Compiled by Terrance Hill, Newport and Ryan, a Houston research organization, the national data showed only 5 percent admitted having unfavorable opinions of Jews.

Ninety percent disagreed with a statement that "Christians are justified in holding negative attitudes toward Jews since the Jews killed Christ." Only 5 percent agreed and 5 percent said they were unsure.

Eighty-six percent disagreed with the view that "God does not hear the prayers of a Jew," a statement that touched off a then-Southern Baptist president Bailey Smith.

Thirty-four percent feel that God loves Jews "more favorably than other non-Christians," chiefly because "Jews are God's chosen people" and the fact that Jesus himself was Jew.

Only 10 percent felt God loves Jews "less favorably than non-Christians." A majority felt God looks equally on Jews, mainly because he "created us equal."

Sixty-eight percent say God does not view Jews differently than other non-Christians but because Jews have not accepted Christ, but 80 percent maintained acceptance of Christ is essential to salvation.

Eighty-percent also maintained this view is the only true religious view, and that other religions do not have the truth "a mark of religious 'particularism' characteristic of evangelicals and fundamentalists."

Permitting said that while he was bothered by such exclusive claims to truth, "the fact that their thinking and values are different from ours does not mean per se that they are anti-Semitic."

He also described as "troubling" the findings that minorities, about a fifth, agreed Jews differently than other non-Christians with one or more of seven secular anti-Jewish characterizations on an "anti-Semitism index."

However, 57-percent agreed to none of them.

Furthermore, among those agreeing that "Jews are light with money," "want to remain different" or are "more loyal to Israel than to the U.S.," sizable percentages con-

What's what?

Jerry was a helmet

Q. During World War II, the German was called a "Jerry." Wasn't that just a corruption of the word "German"?

A. No, "Jerry" was British slang for chamber pot. An allusion to the distinctive shape of the German soldier's helmet.

A. He was first to insist that evil spirits had nothing to do with diseases, that diseases had natural causes.

CSI Eagles overwhelm North Idaho, 96-70

By LARRY HOVY
Times-News writer

COEUR D'ALENE — There was every reason to expect that all-eyes Region 18 would be on Coeur d'Alene Friday night.

"This would be the night that the other nine teams who are harboring hopes of making the postseason regional tournament would be seeing the College of Southern Idaho's men's basketball team for the first time against a respectable opponent — and on the road."

What they found probably won't comfort them. The Eagles, despite the interruption of a fairly good brawl seven minutes from the end, overwhelmed the North Idaho Cardinals 96-70 to run their season record to 15-0 and their regional mark to 4-0.

North Idaho saw its season mark fall to 8-5 overall and 2-3 in region.

It was billy Coach Fred Trenkle's second victory in five games in the Cardinals' gymnasium.

The thing this game may give been more important for is to give CSI every probability of hosting the regional finals in March.

Again, a capacity crowd turned out at the NIC gym and it grew a little ugly as the Eagles never trailed, jumped ahead 18-4 and generally held a double-digit lead through the final 30 minutes.

But what annoyed the crowd most came at the 7-minute, 11-second mark of the second half when CSI sophomore Joey Johnson was streaking downcourt on the fast break. Teammate Dale Karst tried a job for Johnson to slam, but that never happened as North Idaho's Kurt Lundblad kept Johnson away from the ball. Lundblad was whistled for a foul, but the lull suddenly was broken when Johnson decked Lundblad with a right hand flush in the jaw.

Immediately, a fan charged out of the stands at Johnson, but the spectator was greeted with another right hand that flattened him. The rest of what happened came in glimpses and vignettes. A couple of fans challenged CSI's Erick Newman and landed on their backs beyond the end line, while at sidescourt Newman's teammate Mauro Gomes laid another brace on the deck. Officials, referees and coaches finally brought things under control and Johnson was ejected from the game.

CSI led 79-58 at that point, so it had no effect on the game's outcome.

Afterward, Trenkle said he would "apologize for Joy and for my team because I certainly don't condone that. But — my president — (Gerald Meyerhofer, who attended the game) said he saw him (Lundblad) elbow Joy three times after the play was over before Joy came back. I didn't see that, but both my president and Joy said he did."

Johnson was visibly upset after the game, but maintained "I had two teeth knocked out this summer (at the U.S. Olympic Festival) in Houston, where Johnson was a member of the West team) and these (the said, pointing to his front teeth) are very expensive. He (Lundblad) just kept hitting me after we came back down and I got caught in retaliation."

"But I wasn't trying too hard to hide it either," he added.

The game itself saw the Eagles soar from the outset and bloom into an 18-4 lead. But then two offensive fouls and two turnovers were turned into eight straight North Idaho points by 5-foot, 7-inch sophomore Ken Goodlow and with 11 minutes left, the Cardinals to cut to within 20-17. But that was the end of any comeback hopes, as Newman, Gomes and Keith Jackson all got close-in shots of steals. By the end of the first half, CSI was back on top 45-37 after twice mounting 18-point advantages.

Most of that was provided by Gomes, a freshman forward from Sao Paulo, Brazil, who was 5-for-6 on three-pointers and had 21 points at intermission. Throughout the second half, CSI had at least 11 points and the major blowout started on a steal by Jackson and culminated in seven straight points by Newman.

The victory for CSI averaged the Eagles' only regular-season loss last year, when they won the Region 18 title.

The Eagles will return home for three games next week, starting with the Utah State junior varsity on Monday, Richs College on Friday and Utah Tech next Saturday night in the CSI gym.

North Idaho will visit Twin Falls for a rematch on Feb. 7.

Bees sting Minico, 65-54

By RON BENNETT
Special to the Times-News

IDAHO FALLS — Darren Johnson scored 27 points and pulled down 10 rebounds to lead fourth-ranked Bonneville to a 65-54 victory over Minico in a Gem State Conference boys' basketball game here Friday night.

With the victory, the Bees moved into first place in the conference standings with a 6-1 record, 7-2 overall. The Spartans, who were playing their first game in 20 days, dropped to 3-2 in conference and 4-2 overall.

Bonneville's victory overshadowed a brilliant performance by Minico's 6-foot, 4-inch junior Robert Greener, who scored 25 points — 22 of them in the second half — and dominated the rebounding with 16.

"Early in the game we showed the effects of not playing in 20 days," Minico Coach Craig Dexter said. "But I was pleased with our play. We had to try to overcome a tremendous performance by Johnson. He's as good a high-school player as I've ever seen at this point."

While the Bees have been known as a quick, pressing team, the Spartans weren't especially hurt by it. Bonneville had a few scoring spurts off turnovers, but Minico also got some easy baskets after breaking the press.

"They had a little edge on us with quickness, but we ran up and down with them pretty well," Dexter said. "That wasn't the difference in the game. The difference was that they are a senior team, they were playing at home after five straight road games and they know this is their year. Even so, I'm not disappointed with the way we played against them."

Bonneville Coach Mike Jorgensen said he felt fortunate to win.

"Minico is a good team," he said. "Even though they're young, they're definitely a team to be reckoned with."

Jorgensen said the key to the victory was the defense the Bees played on Jack Bagley, the Spartans' 6-2 junior guard who scored seven points.

"He's their team leader and most experienced player," Jorgensen said. "We teams were sluggish in the first half. Bonneville warmed up midway in the second quarter to shoot 41 percent from the floor. But the Spartans only managed six of 25 field goal attempts for 24 percent."

Minico held a three-point lead twice in the second quarter, but by

Mushers outrun Devils in overtime

By BRAD BRELAND
Times-News writer

FAIRFIELD — Blake Bennett scored five of Camas County's seven points in overtime as the Mushers topped the Dietrich Blue Devils 43-39 in a Northside Conference boys' basketball showdown here Friday night.

It was the third overtime period that the Mushers have played this season, all three were victories.

"The win for the Mushers gave them sole possession of first place in the league with a 4-0 record as Dietrich dropped its first conference game of the season. Camas is now 10-1 overall, while Dietrich is 8-2."

Camas took its biggest lead in the game paced by four points by Bennett at 14-6 near the end of the first period.

The Devils were shut out in the first 2½ minutes of the second quarter as Camas County built a nine-point lead. The Mushers took a six-point advantage at the half.

In the third quarter, Dietrich whittled down the Mushers' lead to a pair of points on a basket by Alan Stoddard and a tip-in by Chris Southwick.

Two minutes later a Stoddard basket from the outside tied the game 26-26.

In the fourth quarter both ballclubs traded leads.

Rick Astle tied the game 36-36 with three minutes left in the fourth quarter and that would be his fourth quarter would end.

Each team had numerous opportunities to put the game away. Camas County had the last two shots of the game, but both fell off the rim.

"If we hit a couple of shots, we win. If not, they win," said Dietrich Coach Norm Cook.

In the overtime Dietrich's Curtis Jensen hit the first bucket just 20 seconds into the extra session giving the Devils their first and only lead of the game.

Just 12 seconds later Bennett scored and added the free-throw after he was fouled, giving the Mushers a one-point lead.

After a Blue Devil turnover, Bennett drove coast-to-coast hitting a reverse layup that provided Camas County a 41-38 advantage.

Dietrich's Mike Robbins hit a free throw cutting the Mushers' lead to a pair of points, but Camas County's Travis Jones hit a pair of free throws left to clinch the game.

Camas County Coach Mike Hansen, although satisfied with the win, still was not pleased with the Mushers' output.

"We weren't in our offense all night. I guess you can attribute that to some of their (Dietrich's) defense," he said.

Cook felt the same way about his Devils.

"We had horrendous shooting in the first half," he said. "But the overtime makes us feel good."

Stoddard led all scorers with 20 points, all of those came in regulation.

Bennett was high scorer for Camas County with 15 points while Todd Tupper chipped in a dozen.

While the win gave Camas a one-game lead over Dietrich and a 1½ game advantage over Richfield, the conference race is far from over. The Mushers must play Dietrich again in Dietrich on Jan. 22 and take of Richfield here two days earlier.

Bliss blisters Carey, 36-22

By RON GATES
Times-News writer

CAREY — Bliss continued to set a lorrid pace in Northside Conference girls' basketball Friday night.

The Bears applied full-court pressure from the opening tip, feasted on a rash of turnovers caused by that tactic and eased past Carey 36-22 to all but wrap up the league title.

"I didn't think it would be that easy," said Bliss Coach Dan Butler. "But we sure couldn't press them (Carey) much. They have good size and are aggressive. I imagine they'll be tougher by time for district."

Bliss trailed just once in the contest — that at 2-0 before putting together a 16-2 run that carried to the seven-minute mark of the second period.

Shea Benscoter, who finished with a season-high 17, scored eight of those in that span, then followed a Panther field goal with six more to account for all of her team's second-quarter points as Bliss blizzard to open the fourth quarter.

Carey, getting five points from Jessie Taylor, outscored the visitors 8-4 over the third stanza, but didn't get back within 10 until Taylor, the sole Panther in double figures, scored to open the fourth quarter.

Pauline Sears, who reached double figures for the second time in as many nights, threaded her way to the hoop on the ensuing possession, then scored two more on a 15-foot set shot after Carey lost control at midcourt. When Emmy Sears hit from outside-31 seconds later the Bears had doubled the count at 30-15 and the Panthers were unable to challenge again.

In winning their 12th consecutive game, Bliss ran its record to 9-0 and 12-3 overall. The Bears hold a commanding two-game lead over both Richfield and Carey and can wrap up the championship with a victory over Gooding State on Monday.

Quickness the key in U of I-ISU match

By STEVE CRUMP
Times-News sports editor

MOSCOW — Is first-year University of Idaho basketball Coach Tim Floyd, who has his team off to a 10-4 start, doing it with mirrors?

Tonight may tell, when Idaho State University's Bengals — a near-reflection of the Vandals — come to town.

"They try to play pressure, man-to-man defense, and so do we," says Floyd. "They're a smaller team that has to rely on quickness, and so are we. The difference is, they probably do it better than we do."

Others would disagree, starting with Weber State Coach Larry Farmer, whose Wildcats lost their Big Sky Conference opener to the Vandals 71-49 here Thursday night.

"Floyd has done a good job of getting the program turned around," says ISU Coach Jim Boutin, whose 17 Bengals dropped their conference game to Boise State 75-53 Thursday night in Balse. ("The Vandals) are quick and they execute. They lost to Washington State in overtime, and we ain't Washington State."

Idaho and Idaho State rank second and ninth, respectively, in team defense in the Big Sky, and near the bottom (sixth and last, respectively) in team offense. The Vandals are dead last in the league in rebounding; the Bengals are next to last.

"We're not a dominant team by any means," says Floyd. "We're winning because the guys have played hard and been responsive to coaching. We've won the close games, made a lot of free throws late in the game, and we've played well as a result. We're still not a good team, not a very good rebounding team, and that's what scares me."

Boutin has the same nightmares.

"I hate to keep bringing it up, but coming into this season we had a 6-7 center (senior Dave Danforth) who Vinson Metcalf and junior guard Ken Lore an anterior cruciate ligament (knee injury) that ended his career. We had his 6-10 backup (senior Greg VanGrouw) who didn't make grades. So right now, we're using a 6-5 center (junior George Davis) and a point guard (freshman Mike Chatterton) who is 5-foot-8 and weighs 138 pounds. As a result, one of our problems is that we're not screening out, and if you don't screen out, you're going to get beat."

Still, tonight's 8:30 p.m. MST contest shouldn't be all steals and loose balls.

"I think everybody agrees that (ISU senior guard Donn) Holston is the premier player in the league this year, and he's probably going to get his points," says Floyd. "We just have to make sure that Davis and (ISU senior guard Rodney) Purvis don't get theirs."

Boutin in turn points out that, for a team of no-names, the Vandals have three players (sophomore forward Andrew Jackson, junior guard Vincent Metcalf and junior guard Ken Luckett) scoring in double figures.

"They're a little like us — a smaller, defensive-oriented team," says Boutin. "But, like us, they're capable of getting their points."

"Tonight will be the Bengals' eighth game in a row on the road; they've played only three of their first 14 games in Pocatello."

"Last year, we won every home (conference) game and won just once on the road and ended up 6-6," says Boutin. "We were 7-6 going into our conference schedule (this year), which was the same record we had last year against a schedule that wasn't nearly as tough. Whether we win or lose tonight, if we can play with some consistency for the rest of the season, we're still in the conference race. We play seven of our last 12 (regular-season) games in the Mindome, and we're tough to beat there."

Floyd's goals are more short-term.

"We're just pleased to come out and win the close ones," he says. "If we can win a one-pointer at the buzzer, I'll take it anytime."

Burley radio station KBAR-AM will broadcast the game live.

NCAA decides to trim seasons for recruiting

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Recruiting seasons were reduced in football and basketball and players received permission to give one complimentary game pass to someone other than a relative or student as delegates wrapped up the 81st annual NCAA convention Friday.

In other voting during a long business session, measures were passed to monitor the outside income of coaches and to give the enforcement department permission to make more information public.

Arguments over complimentary game passes consumed more time than any other proposal during the six-day meeting of the nation's colleges and universities. Chaos erupted last season when it was discovered that many players were giving their complimentary passes to persons other than fellow students or family members. After 60 Nebraska football players were suspended for a game and then reinstated, the rule was put in abeyance.

Unemployment, wholesale prices dip in '86

By MATT YANCEY
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The United States ended 1986 with 2.4 million new jobs, the lowest unemployment rate since early 1980 and wholesale prices 2.5 percent below a year earlier, the government reported Friday.

Civilian joblessness dropped two-tenths of a percentage point last month to 6.7 percent, the lowest since March 1980 when it was 6.3 percent, the Labor Department said. And wholesale prices held steady in December after rising slightly in October and November.

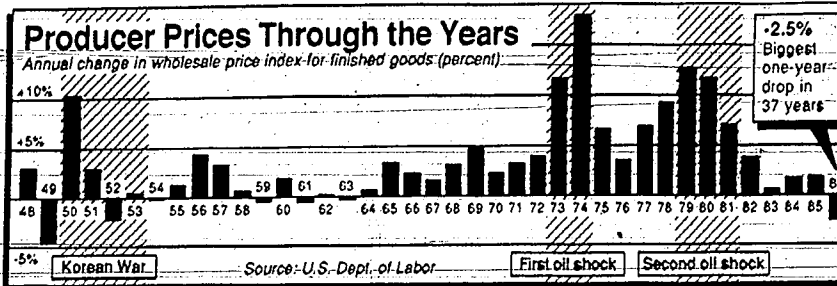

The twin reports buoyed the Reagan administration's optimism that the economy will perform better in 1987 than it did last year. Several private economists, however, saw some unwelcome omens in the numbers.

The 2.5 percent total decline in wholesale prices since December 1985 was the first yearly drop since 1963 and the second largest on record, behind only a 4.6 percent plunge in 1949. However, virtually all of it was a dive last winter in oil prices that in recent months have been on the rise.

Without that record 39.1 percent decline in energy prices that left the U.S. "oil-patch" in recession, the overall wholesale price index would have risen 2.7 percent, the government said.

Consumer prices, a much more widely used indicator of inflation, are expected to show a modest 1.9 percent increase in 1986 after the

Administration optimistic; private analysts see gloomy omens

December figure is reported on Jan. 21.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said its survey of 60,000 households showed a total of 110,537,000 people at work in December, that is an all-time high and represents an increase of 205,000 jobs above November and 2.4 million above December 1985.

A separate survey of business and government payrolls showed even larger job growth last month — 270,000, including 43,000 more factory production — workers than in November.

The number of Americans listed as officially unemployed fell by 294,000 to 7,940,000, in December, the first time the jobless count has dipped below 8 million in 5 1/2 years.

"The new economic year has begun with a roar," said White House spokesman Albert R. Brashear. "We will continue to see more and more Americans employed in a growing economy and inflation held in check."

In its latest economic forecast unveiled Monday, the administration predicted civilian joblessness will drop to 6.6 percent by the last quarter of 1987, with an inflation rate of 3.8 percent and real economic growth of 3.2 percent for the year.

Some economists said the December job market and wholesale price figures bolster that optimism. "Wall Street gave America a wonderful 1987 New Year's present yesterday" and the "Labor Department gave the American worker and consumer one today," said Jack Albertine, vice chairman of Farley Industries in Chicago and former president of the American Business Conference.

The Dow Jones index of 30 industrial stocks broke through the 2,000 barrier for the first time Thursday and climbed higher in the trading Friday.

Other analysts, however, said the economy is still strewn with potholes. "My real worry is what will happen in January or February, because a lot of companies announced layoffs last month that won't show up until later," said Lawrence Chimerline of Chase Econometrics in Bala Cynwyd, Pa.

Like Chimerline, Michael Evans, a private economist in Washington, predicted the jobless rate will climb back up to 7 percent or more early this year.

"Everybody has to know that these employment numbers are all going to go away in January," Evans said. "After the year-end tax-buying is over, there is going to be a washout out there in retail sales and construction. At least all these imports that are murdering us are keeping prices down."

Allen Sinai, chief economist for Shearson Lehman Bros., a New York investment company, said the employment numbers were "fluff" and predicted slower growth in both jobs and the economy as a whole in 1987.

"All of the increase in jobs last year was in services," he said. "There are a number of people holding two service jobs or families with two or three people working just to generate the same income that one job in steel or autos produces."

Sinai called the lack of inflation in wholesale prices a surprise but said it just "reflects continuing slack economies in both the United States and abroad."

Labor Statistics Commissioner Janet L. Norwood said both the October and November employment rates were revised downward of 7.0 percent to 6.9 percent as a result of year-end refinements in traditionally seasonal adjustments.

"The revised rates show more clearly than the previously published data that a slight decline in the jobless rate occurred in the second quarter of 1986," he said. See ECONOMY on Page B5

Consumer debt rise slows during autumn

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans took out $4.02 billion more in consumer debt than they paid off in November, the lowest monthly increase since August, the government reported Friday.

The Federal Reserve Board said the November gain translated into an annual rate of consumer debt growth of 8.2 percent, a considerable slowdown from the 14.8 percent rate of increase in October.

In both September and October consumer debt had soared as Americans borrowed heavily in response to restrictive cut-rate financing deals offered by automakers seeking to reduce high inventories of unsold 1986 model cars.

Total debt rose by $7.21 billion in October and $7.72 billion in September as auto loans jumped by $4.27 billion in October and $4.47 billion in September. By contrast, auto loans rose by a much smaller $844 million in November.

In other categories, cash loans from banks and other short- and medium-term debt rose by $1.55 billion in November, down from a $2.40 billion October increase.

The category which includes credit card debt had the highest annual rate of increase in November, a 15.1 percent advance reflecting increased borrowing of $1.59 billion in this category.

The November overall increase in consumer debt was the smallest since a $3.33 billion August rise. The latest advance left total consumer debt at $95.56 billion at the end of November.

Doll sales dip hurts Coleco

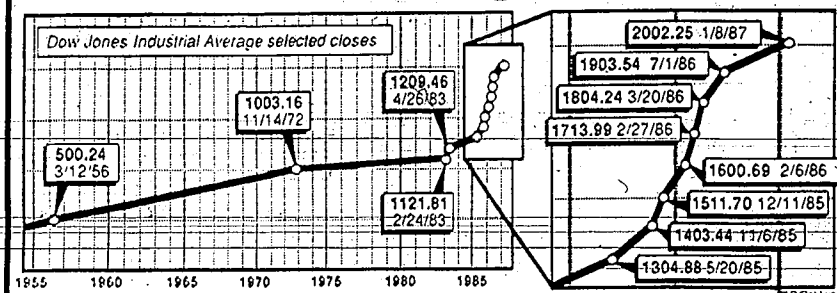

WEST HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Coleco Industries Inc. says it incurred a "very large loss" in its fourth quarter and full year financial results because of a drop in sales of Cabbage Patch dolls.

The company's sales in 1986 fell 35 percent to about $500 million from $776 million in sales for 1985, based on preliminary operating results. Coleco Chairman Arnold C. Greenberg said Thursday.

While calling the results "disappointing," Greenberg said the company was well-positioned to return to profitability in 1987.

The Dow's Quickening Climb to 2000

Profit failure fails to brake stock rally

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market rang up its sixth straight gain Friday, extending its early-1987 rally to new heights despite periodic bouts of profit taking.

The Dow Jones average of 30 Industrials rose 3.66 to 2,005.91, closing out the week with a gain of 78.60 points. That marked the best weekly showing by the average since it soared 92.01 points last March 10-14.

Volume on the New York Stock Exchange came to 193 million shares, against 194.52 million Thursday.

Analysts said it was no surprise to see some traders cashing in their gains early in the session after a 106.30 point run in the Dow Jones industrial average over the first five sessions of 1987.

They also said a few investing institutions may have set the 2,000 level as a target for profit-taking.

Stocks also had to make do without much help from the bond market, where interest rates slipped falling and turned modestly higher.

Bond traders became a bit wary after the government's monthly report on trends in the labor force showed a bigger-than-expected increase in nonfarm payroll employment last month.

THE ACES BOBBY WOLFF

"A man's habit clings And he will wear tomorrow what today he wears." - Edna St. Vincent Millay.

Today's South saw only one way to play his diamonds - the same way he'd played for years. Not only did he lose his vulnerable slam, but he didn't gain any knowledge from his experience. South won the first trick with his king and counted 11 top tricks. The only possible source for more tricks lay with dummy's diamonds. With-out further ado, South cashed his diamond ace and finessed to dummy's Jack, losing to East's queen. Back came a heart to dummy's ace, and it was over quickly. The diamond king was cashed to bring the bad news, and South's maximum take was down one.

Scoreboard table with columns for NORTH, WEST, EAST, SOUTH, and various card games.

Vulnerable Both Dealer: South The bidding: South-West North-East 1 NT Pass 6 NT All pass Opening lead: Heart queen BID WITH THE ACES South holds: 7 5 3 2 9 8 5 4 Q 9 8 ANSWER: Pass. Might play better in a major, but this hand is not strong enough to play at the three- or four-level. Send brief questions to The Aces, P.O. Box 12183, Dallas, Texas 75221, with self-addressed, stamped, return envelope.

Had-South-needed-all-four diamond tricks, the plan he chose was clearly correct. However, needing only three diamond tricks, he had a safer play available. The best play in diamonds is to cash the king and ace, and if the queen falls to appear, lead one toward dummy's jack. This wins whenever the straight finesse wins, plus when the queen is a doubleton behind the jack. In today's layout, East's queen falls under South's ace, and instead of down one, South scores a slam and rubber.
