Court orders farm worker sanitation rules

By DAVE SKIDMORE
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — A federal appeals court on Friday ordered the Reagan administration to end a 14-year legal wrangle by issuing rules guaranteeing drinking water and toilets to farm workers in the field.

Citing a "disgraceful chapter of legal neglect," the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit found that Labor Secretary William E. Brock abused his discretion in October 1985 when he delayed the issuance of federal rules for two years with the hope that state regulators would step in to protect farm workers' health.

A three-judge panel said Brock in "an unsupported and unrealistic hope that state governments would suddenly move, en masse, to fill the need," flouted the intent of Congress and "acted contrary to law" in ordering the Occupational Safety and Health Commission not to issue rules.

The opinion was written by Chief Judge Patricia M. Wald. Judge Hubert L. Will of the U.S. District Court for the Northern District of Illinois, who was designated a member of the panel, concurred with it, while Judge Stephen Williams dissented from most of it.

Williams wrote that it was Brock's "right and perhaps his duty" to consider other agency priorities, such as protecting day workers from toxic chemicals, and to attempt to prod states into protecting farm workers' health through the threat of federal action.

By ordering rules issued, "the court commits the secretary's enforcement resources to the nation's farms, at the expense of enforcement against lethal hazards elsewhere," Williams wrote.

The appeals panel heard arguments in the case, brought by the Farmworker Justice Fund, last November.

The Labor Department is reviewing the opinion and has 45 days to decide whether to ask for a rehearing by the panel, spokeswoman Chris Winston said. Seven days after that period, the court has said it would order OSHA to issue sanitation rules within 30 days.

Wald, noting that Brock admits the need for proper sanitary facilities for agricultural workers, said it is beyond dispute that the lack of toilets and water for drinking and handwashing causes the spread of infections, bladder disease and heat prostration among millions of farm workers.

Will, in his concurrence, added: "The secretary's conduct was particularly egregious since the admittedly unsanitary conditions continue to adversely affect not only the farm workers, but all consumers of agricultural products handled by farm workers."

The opinion also said that every other type of employee, including construction workers, are covered by such standards, yet OSHA's resistance to issuing rules for farm workers has been "intractable."

"An arsenal of administrative law doctrines has provided the justification for ricocheting the case between the agency and the courts for over a decade: a decade in which field workers have gone without benefit of drinking water or the most rudimentary sanitary facilities," Ms. Wald wrote.

The case dates back to 1972 when El Congreso, an organization representing Hispanics, including agricultural workers, petitioned OSHA for the sanitation rules.

"With our decision today ordering the field sanitation rule to issue, we hope to bring to an end this disgraceful chapter of legal neglect," the opinion said.

Iranians free U.S. reporter

ZURICH, Switzerland — American reporter Gerald F. Seib, freed from captivity in Iran, hugged his wife in a joyful birthday celebration Friday and denied Iranian charges that he spied while there on an official press tour.

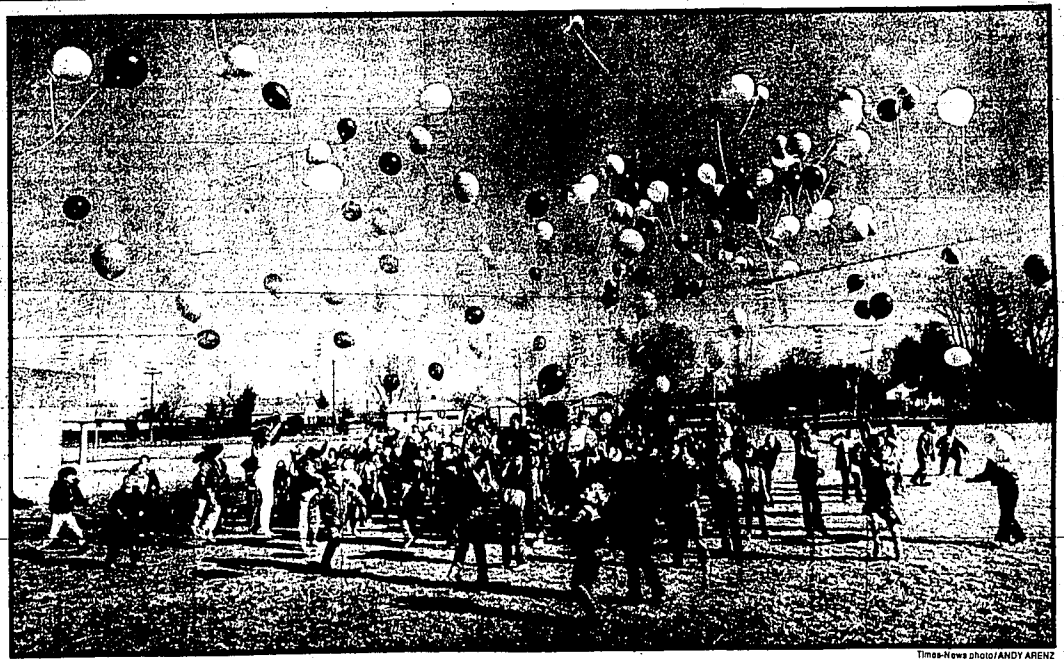

"I am thrilled and thankful to be here," he said. "This happens to be my 31st birthday. And just being here is the best birthday present possible."

He said he was not physically harmed during several days of custody in Iran. Seib, who reports for the Wall Street Journal from his base in Cairo, had gone there with 56 other foreign journalists invited by the government to visit battle areas of the 6½-year-old war with Iraq.

The journalist was arrested last Saturday, accused of spying for Israel, and released Wednesday to the Swiss Embassy, which handles U.S. interests in Iran. He arrived in Zurich on a Swissair flight and was greeted by his wife, Barbara Rosewicz.

They embraced on the tarmac and went into the terminal, where Seib read a statement that said in part: "I am still not sure why I was detained or how I was released. All I know is that any suggestion I am involved in any kind of espionage is completely false. I am a journalist and that is all I am."

Iran's fundamentalist Shiite leader's spokesman said Seib on Page A2

Up, up and away — First graders at Morningside Elementary School in Twin Falls launch more than 100 helium-filled balloons as part of a 'day 100' school day Friday by sending messages to the wind by way of the balloons. Messages included the school's address, 60-fladers may write to the children.

IRS pledges new, improved W-4s

By JIM LUTHER
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Internal Revenue Service pledged Friday to try to improve its new W-4 tax-withholding form, acknowledging the document is so confusing it could cause many Americans to doubt that the tax system has been overhauled.

"We're moving heaven and earth to address the problems" with the W-4, IRS Commissioner Lawrence B. Gibbs told congressional panels. "I hope in the next several weeks we will be able to come out with something" especially for lower- and middle-income taxpayers. March 1 is a reasonable target date, he said.

However, Gibbs would not promise flatly to revise the form — or more specifically, the instructions and worksheets designed to make it easier for taxpayers to claim the correct number of withholding allowances. The simpler the W-4 becomes, he said, the greater the chance a taxpayer will have too much or too little withheld from paychecks.

The commissioner did promise to search for a way to avoid imposing penalties on taxpayers who "make an honest effort to have the right amount of tax

Pro-Iranian group issues death threats

By RIMA SALAMEH
The Associated Press

BEIRUT, Lebanon — A pro-Iranian extremist group threatened Friday to kill two American hostages if U.S. forces attacked Lebanon and to kill a Frenchman if France supplies arms to Iraq.

In another development, the magazine that broke the story of American arms sales to Iran reported Friday that hostage negotiator Terry Waite was in captivity, but would be freed next week.

The death threats were made by the Revolutionary Justice Organization in Arabic statements delivered to a Western news agency and the independent newspaper An-Nahar.

That group claims it holds Joseph James Cicippio, 56, formerly of Norristown, Pa., who was acting controller at the American University of Beirut; Edward Austin Tracy, also 56, a writer from Rutland, Vt.; and Jean-Louis Normandin, 35, of France's Antenne-2 television station.

Friday's statements were accompanied by two polaroid pictures showing Cicippio and Normandin wearing dark blue track suits.

Normandin was kidnapped Sept. 12, and the Revolutionary Justice group announced last Oct. 21 that it held Tracy.

The latest statement noted that the Iraqi state minister for military affairs, Gen. Abdul Jabbar Shanshal, was visiting Paris, and said any agreement for France to supply arms to Iraq "will change everything into a tragedy very fast."

Iran and Iran have been at war since September 1980.

Terrorist groups holding other foreign hostages had earlier threatened to kill their captives if U.S. armed forces struck at Lebanon.

In the latest in a series of unconfirmed reports on Waite's fate, the weekly Ash-Shiraa quoted unidentified Islamic sources in Beirut as predicting the Anglican Church envoy who disappeared Jan. 29 would be released "after the U.S. military storm in the Mediterranean settles down."

"It was referring to the flotilla of U.S. warships stationed off Lebanon. U.S. officials have said they were scaling down the buildup and that no attack was planned.

The Anglican Church has said it could not confirm Waite, who disappeared while on a mission to negotiate the release of foreign hostages, was being held against his will."

Ash-Shiraa quoted Islamic sources as saying Waite's case was segregated from the rest of the foreign hostages held in Lebanon.

"These sources consider the lack of a public responsibility statement for his abduction or detention leaves the door open for negotiations concerning him," the magazine said. It did not say who was holding Waite.

"Waite's release requires only a completion of formalities and security arrangements," the magazine said.

It quoted the same sources as claiming they "acquired solid information that Waite is a CIA operative and had been recruited to play

America lacks military options to aid hostages

By BRYAN BRUMLEY
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Despite the recent buildup of U.S. naval forces in the Mediterranean, Washington has almost no military options to aid the eight Americans held hostage in Lebanon, government officials say.

"There is not a lot we can do to help the hostages," one Pentagon source acknowledged privately.

U.S. naval activity off Lebanon tapered off Friday, although two Marine assault groups remained in the area.

One of two aircraft carrier task forces suspended its patrol of the waters of Lebanon, while a third Mediterranean Amphibious Ready Group carrying 1,900 Marines had linked up with a five-ship force carrying a similar number of Marines south of the island of Crete.

During the buildup of the last two weeks, Pentagon and White House officials said they planned no military strike but wanted to be prepared for possible retaliation if the kidnapers began executing hostages.

The fleet might also be used to evacuate several hundred American citizens who remain in Lebanon, Pentagon officials said.

The U.S. military record in the region has been mixed in recent years.

In 1980, an American mission to rescue U.S. hostages in Tehran failed, and three years later, 241 U.S. servicemen died in the bombing of a Marine barracks in Beirut.

The Reagan administration had better luck in 1985, using Navy warplanes to divert an airliner carrying the hijackers of the Achille Lauro from the island of Crete.

"The accusation is too ridiculous to warrant any comment," he said. Usually, the agency declines to comment on accusations that specific individuals are agents.

Waite was last seen by reporters when he left his west Beirut seaside Riviera Hotel on Jan. 20 to begin secret talks with the captors of American hostages Terry Anderson and Thomas Sutherland.

Arab-Americans criticize INS

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group of Arab-Americans said Friday that arrests of Palestinians in Los Angeles mark the beginning of a deportation campaign by the Reagan administration targeting Arab visitors deemed to be security risks.

Such a campaign amounts to "wholesale character assassination" based on ethnic background, the National Association of Arab Americans said in a statement.

In an attempt to bolster its contention, the group released more than 20 pages of internal documents from the Immigration and Naturalization Service, some detailing recommendations that include detaining without bond Arab visitors who are believed to support terrorist groups.

INS spokesman Duke Austin said the recommendations were made last year by the agency's investigations division but were never accepted. He refused to say what, if any, steps are being adopted by the agency as part of any anti-terrorism campaign targeting Arab visitors to this country.

The documents call for holding secret hearings on deportation proceedings and for sending those arrested to detention centers.

PLO says refugees starving
UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Palestinians in a Beirut refugee camp that has been under siege for months have asked Muslim leaders for permission to eat human flesh because they are starving, the PLO's chief U.N. observer said Friday.

"It is rather traumatizing to think that people can reach a stage of starvation when they can ask for an edict or some permission that they can eat the flesh of the dead because they don't have anything else to eat," Zehdi Labib Terzi told a news conference.

He did not define "flesh of the dead." A Western news agency in Beirut said it received a statement from women in the Bourj el Barajneh camp asking permission "to eat the flesh of those who didn't have the strength to say no."

The agency quoted the statement as saying the refugees were eating cats and dogs, but few were left in the camp.

"It is really shocking," Terzi said. "But the facts are there."

Bourj el Barajneh is surrounded by the Shiite Muslim slums of south Beirut. It is besieged by the Syrian-backed Shiite militia Amal, which is trying to keep Palestine Liberation Organization chief Yasser Arafat from regaining the Lebanese base he lost with the Israeli invasion of 1982.

Girl assaulted in facilities
NEW YORK (AP) — A 13-year-old girl was allegedly raped by her adoptive father and brother, then taken by social workers to two different facilities where residents sexually assaulted her, and finally sent back home when a judge decided the city could not protect her, authorities said.

Fishing boat capsizes at Baja
SAN DIEGO (AP) — The Coast Guard on Friday found the body of one man and suspended its search for nine others missing after their sport fishing boat capsized off Baja California, authorities said.

A man and a woman, the only known survivors, were rescued after the boat, the Fish-n-Fool, sank four miles off the Mexican coast town of Cabo San Quintin, said Coast Guard Chief Petty Officer Charlie Crasby.

The 35-foot boat left H&M Sportfishing Landings at Point Loma Tuesday evening. The accident occurred Thursday about 150 miles southeast of San Diego.

"This is a major marine casualty," said Coast Guard Lt. Debra Harbaugh. "We have found no one in the water today and no debris from the boat."

The Coast Guard suspended Friday's search at dusk and said a decision would be made later on whether to resume it Saturday.

Bomb discovered on campus
CORVALLIS, Ore. (AP) — Oregon State University police on Friday evening arrested a suspect charged with attempted first-degree arson for allegedly planting a pipe bomb in a briefcase in the school's computer center.

William A. Myers, 43, a scientific instrument technician at Milne Computer Center, where the bomb was found, was booked in the Benton County jail and held in lieu of $75,000 bail, said university spokesman Wally Johnson.

The bomb was disarmed by police, and no one was injured.

Johnson said that Myers' supervisors at the computer center have not yet decided whether the accused bomber will be allowed to return to work Monday.

Campus police said that Myers' name was on papers found in the briefcase, according to Johnson.

The briefcase was delivered to Milne Computer Center Friday morning and an anonymous caller later told campus police that it contained a bomb, said Johnson.

Idaho man arrested in record seizure of counterfeit money

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Secret Service seized a record $117 million in counterfeit bills in California and Idaho after arresting two men during an undercover operation that concluded Friday, a spokesman said.

Wick A. Helmandollar, 40, of Salmon, Idaho, and Harold Cecil Cooper, 56, of Buena Park, Calif., appeared before a federal magistrate and were charged with possession of counterfeit currency, said Agent Mike Cohen.

Bond was set at $25,000 for each, he said.

"This is the largest seizure in the history of the Secret Service for the United States," Cohen said.

Helmandollar and Cooper were arrested without incident Thursday in the City of Industry, 15 miles east of Los Angeles.

At the time of the arrest, $3.7 million in counterfeit bills were seized. An additional $4 million was found in a storage locker in Buena Park, Cohen said.

The additional $10 million in counterfeit bills were recovered in the crawspace of a residence in Salmon, he said.

The investigation began in California on Jan. 23 with information from a confidential informant, Cohen said. The printing-press was located in Salmon.

The counterfeit bills were potentially very harmful because of their quality.

"We classify them as good," Cohen said. Had the bills been distributed, "they would have incurred an enormous loss on the public."

U.S. Magistrate Ralph Gefken scheduled a Feb. 23 preliminary hearing for Helmandollar and Cooper.

Agent Al Joaquin said the previous record seizure was $15 million in 1983.

Joaquin said the only problem with the bogus bills was that they are slightly thicker than real money.

Helmandollar was a typographer and Cooper was a cement worker.

House ordered a naval bombardment of anti-government forces in Lebanon on Jan. 29, according to Pentagon sources.

The naval bombardment, which claimed some civilian casualties, raised anti-American sentiment in Lebanon. And that hostility was responsible, in part, for the complex bombing of the Marine barracks and the wave of kidnappings.

The exact location of the hostages in Lebanon is not known, according to administration officials, and even a commando raid against a specific site might cause widespread concern to kill their captives before they could be freed.

A naval bombardment or air strike against Lebanon, similar to those of late 1983, likely would hit civilian targets and serve little purpose other than to deepen local hostility toward Washington, Pentagon officials said.

The U.S. buildup has caused some concern in the Middle East and in Western Europe.

Belgian Foreign Minister Leo Tindemans said he raised the issue in a meeting Friday with Secretary of State George P. Shultz, but did not ask directly about U.S. military plans.

"I thought that for me it would be rather unproductive to ask that question of Mr. Shultz because he's not responsible for military action," said Tindemans.

He noted that some West European nations had tried to talk the United States out of its air raid against Libya last year.

to find it will be a form that, in order not to have unacceptable levels of underwithholding or overwithholding will not be usable by all taxpayers," he added.

That means that while the great majority of taxpayers may get a simpler worksheet and instructions, the affluent and those with complex tax situations likely will have to live with the present form.

Gibbs said he agrees with the intent of legislation that, for 1987, would roll back a portion of the new law and require taxpayers to pay in advance, through withholdings or quarterly payments, at least 80 percent of expected taxes. The new law raised that level to 90 percent.

is leading to a taxpayer's revolt," said Sen. David Pryor, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate panel. He of Zacheus, the despised tax collector who later repented and became a disciple of Jesus.

"Mr. Commissioner, today we want you to repent ... We want to offer you the opportunity for salvation," Pryor said.

While not repenting, Gibbs did acknowledge that the confusion about the W-4 works against the goal of having taxpayers adjust their withholding to reflect major changes brought about by the 1986 tax overhaul law.

"If this is the result, then our efforts toward accuracy (in having the right amount withheld) are less productive, and in the larger picture we risk having the public's perception of the IRS rep negatively affected," he said.

As part of the big tax overhaul last year, Congress directed the IRS to produce a W-4 form that would more nearly accurately permit taxpayers to balance the withholding with the tax liability. In striving for that accuracy, Gibbs conceded the instructions and worksheet have become more complex.

The form itself, the one-third of a page that the worker gives to the employer, is basically the same as it has been for 20 years. The almost two pages of instructions and worksheet have become almost four.

Accountants, tax lawyers and many ordinary taxpayers have complained to Congress about the complexity. Treasury Secretary James A. Baker III, whose department has authority over the IRS, also said the form is too confusing and ordered the agency to simplify it.

The IRS is testing one proposed new form but already is concerned about its accuracy, Gibbs said.

"My guess is that when we come out with a new form ... we are going

Moslem government arrested Seib when he and the other reporters returned to Tehran preparatory to leaving after a 10-day visit.

The official Islamic Republic News Agency said a "spy of the Zionist regime" was arrested after entering the country with a false passport, in the guise of a journalist.

In his statement Friday, Seib said he was in Iran as an invited reporter on a valid U.S. passport along with more than 50 other reporters from around the world, simply doing his job.

Iranian officials said Wednesday the decision to "expel" Seib was made after completion of a "judicial probe into his case" and he would be barred from the country permanently.

No details of the inquiry or its findings were released, but Seib apparently was cleared of the allegations.

Legislature approves revenue figures

BOISE (AP) — The benchmark figures legislative-budget writers need to begin drafting a new state spending plan have won final legislative approval.

With little debate on Friday, the House passed resolutions setting the revenue projections for the current spending year and the one that begins in July unanimously passed the Senate.

"This is not a report of a state with a healthy and vigorous economy," Sen. Ralph Lacy, D-Pocatello, said. "It is a report of a state with a flat economy and serious problems that must still be worked out."

But Lacy, a member of the joint committee that came up with the projections, reiterated the growing belief that Idaho's economic slide has ended.

For the current budget year, the projection for tax receipts was scaled back $4 million to just under $566 million with another $61 million added to that figure to account for additional revenue from the fifth cent on the state sales tax. That revised projection was significantly higher than the estimate made by Democratic Gov. Cecil Andrus and a number of other analysts, but lawmakers have already agreed with Andrus to cover any gap between actual tax receipts and authorized spending through a multimillion-dollar diversion from the special

Water Pollution Control Account. For the new budget year, the Legislature has agreed with the projection of the Andrus administration for receipts from the basic revenue structure totaling $538.6 million. Some government analysts believe that total is too optimistic, and even the governor's economists have conceded that the anticipated revenue growth over the current year's receipts is based on forecasts that inflation will triple, forcing retail prices and wages along with their accompanying sales and income taxes upward.

But it will be that benchmark that the Joint Finance-Appropriations Committee will use, coupled with decisions on tax increases, to begin drafting the new budget. The budget panel wrapped up nearly a month of hearings on the governor's ambitious $662.6 million 1988 spending blueprint this week and will take next week off while leaders of the huge Republican majorities in both houses try to find a consensus on an overall spending level and a tax package to finance it. At the core of that debate is the Andrus plan to repeal the state investment tax credit. The governor has directly tied the $14.5 million in receipts repeal would generate to increased educational spending he and most lawmakers promised voters in last year's campaign.

But Senate Republicans have gone to repeal, and despite mounting corporate and business support for the governor's plan, they said Friday the GOP caucuses in both chambers appear to be gradually coalescing around a legislative budget that would not require generating additional revenue from repeal or any alternative and would, still fulfill campaign pledges.

Bill calls for the reporting of venereal disease victims

BOISE — A bill to require the naming of an individual with venereal disease, including AIDS, to health officials goes to the floor of the Senate.

Dr. Fritz Dixon, chief of the Bureau of Preventive Medicine, said current law only requires reporting of a number, not a name. Dixon told the Senate Health and Welfare Committee on Friday that in one case hospital attorneys decided the hospital did not have to provide the name of a person with gonorrhea.

It's a problem doing contact investigations," Dixon said. Health officials are required to contact the person to prevent further spread of the disease. The name does not become public record under the law.

Dixon said the original law was written to report venereal disease by number because during the 1930s, people would send in reports on post cards.

No one has used current law to prevent the naming of AIDS patients, DWH officials said.

Stricter state hazardous waste rules rejected

BOISE (AP) — The Senate Health and Welfare Committee today rejected a recommendation from a special citizens committee that state environmental authorities have power to impose stricter hazardous waste regulations than those enforced by the federal government.

But after stripping that provision on a 5-3, party-line vote, the committee sent the remainder of the 20-page hazardous waste management policy to the full Senate for consideration.

The plan, developed by the 17-member Hazardous Waste Management Planning Committee over the final nine months of last year, is an outline of the management goals the state should actively pursue to ensure the safety of its citizens as hazardous waste issues are resolved.

Although the overall plan is a compromise among all interests, industry had generally opposed the provision on state regulatory severity while environmental and some other groups backed it.

Even with the elimination of the controversial provision on regulations, citizens committee Chairman Jack Peterson said the policy, if actually enforced by the state, would still ensure a greater or greater a measure of protection from hazardous materials as the citizens of other states in the region.

While it calls for increased public education on hazardous materials, local involvement and regional cooperation on disposal and storage facility decisions, incentives to promote the use of up-to-date technology and coordinated regulations, the plan's most controversial aspect was on the so-called stringency issue.

The issue, centering on repeal of the long-standing legislative policy prohibiting state environmental regulations stricter than the federal rules, has been a focus of debate in past sessions with efforts to authorize stricter state rules repeatedly defeated.

"The battle ground on this was always going to be the stringency issue," committee Chairman Don Darrington, R-DeLo, said.

"That's ground we've plowed in this Legislature many times. ... Those who want it are going to have to examine their consciences and decide whether they want to give up the whole plan for this one thing that the remaining 19 policy statements would still set up a regulatory and management scheme for hazardous materials more rigorous than the one now in effect.

While the provision specifically calling for authority to make state regulation more stringent than federal regulation was deleted, the policy still includes another state agency regulatory stringency of other states and the Canadian provinces to ensure Idaho does not become a dumping ground for waste materials from throughout the West simply because of lax regulation.

The only other issue drawing comment during the relatively brief hearing was the final policy provision calling for state regulation of PCBs, polychlorinated biphenyls which have been linked to cancer in laboratory animals. That provision earlier because it seemed to contradict a bill the citizens committee had also endorsed on PCB regulation. An explanation exposing the problem as one of misunderstanding and potentially un sound judgment on the citizens committee's part cleared up that dispute. The bill in question cracks the stringency barrier by allowing the state to set standards more stringent than the federal government's for the incineration of PCBs, following authority the Legislature granted the Division of Environment last year in an attempt to rein in proposals for commercial incineration facilities in Idaho.

That regulation is currently 10 times stricter than the federal regulation on PCB disposal, and state Air Quality Director Ken Brooks said only in other area in the West has a stricter regulation. The Puget Sound area, he said, has a regulation 50 times stricter than the federal government.

Brooks said all the other jurisdictions have apparently adopted the federal standard, based on a recent telephone survey, and he could not explain why under those conditions Idaho would still be considered a more attractive location for commercial incinerators.

Man found innocent of manslaughter

IDAHO FALLS (AP) — A six-person jury in Bonneville County has found a 19-year-old Idaho Falls man innocent of vehicular manslaughter charges in the deaths of four men.

A jury deliberated about an hour and a half before returning the verdict in the case of Jarrod Hill Clifford, who was charged in the Sept. 7 death of four farm workers. Clifford's blood-alcohol level at the time of the accident was 0.11, authorities said.

Authorities said the four men were walking in a roadway when they were struck by Clifford's vehicle. Clifford testified that it was dark, and said he didn't see the men.

Andrus due to fill Jerome commissioner slot

By TERESA Z. TAYLOR
Times-News correspondent

JEROME — Gov. Cecil Andrus is expected to name one new Jerome County commissioner Monday, his press secretary, Marc Johnson, said Friday afternoon.

Thursday night, in a three-hour meeting, the Jerome County Republican Central Committee narrowed a list of 26 candidates for the two vacant seats to six finalists for the governor's consideration.

Republicans Maxine Bell, Marshall Everheart and Veronica Lierman were selected as the top three candidates to fill the District 1 commissioner position vacated by Henk Bekker, who resigned Jan. 30 to accept a position as general manager of the Golden Spike Bank in northern Utah.

To fill the position of District 2 commissioner, left empty when Commissioner Ray Cobble died a week ago, George Andrus, Har-

Wilson and Walt Bentzinger were chosen as top contenders.

Twelve individuals applied to the Central Committee for Cobble's seat, while 14 people asked to be considered for Bekker's. Each applicant was allotted two minutes during which to address the committee regarding their qualifications for the job.

Bell, currently a Republican Central Committee member, served on the Idaho State Farm Bureau for 10 years, for the Idaho Health Systems Agency for two terms and is currently serving on an Idaho task force concerning agriculture in the classroom. She was also appointed by former Gov. John Evans to work on women's programs within the state.

"I would consider the job of county commissioner as a job, not just a position," Bell told the committee.

Everheart, a former Jerome mayor and city councilman, cited his additional experience in the Idaho Wildlife Federation, Jerome Commodity Board and his Chairmanship of the Jerome County Senior Citizens Board as qualifications for the job of county commissioner.

"I have been active in civic affairs through the years and continue to have an interest in them," Everheart said.

Lierman, elected to fill the third position of the three-person list submitted to Gov. Andrus, cited her experience on the Republican Central Committee and her experiences with the Professional Economic Services and the Lutheran Church as assets she would bring to the job of commissioner.

"I know that Jerome County is facing many challenges, and I believe that I am capable of meeting those challenges," Lierman said.

Selected by the central committee to be first on the list for possible consideration for the job as District 2 commissioner, George Andrus told the committee that he had resided in Jerome County since 1928 as a farmer and a business owner.

Police chief submits resignation

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News correspondent

JEROME — Police Chief Darryl Cameron of Jerome will resign Feb. 14, if his letter of resignation submitted this week is approved by the Jerome City Council in a special meeting Monday night.

Cameron, who resigned last October and then withdrew the resignation, said Friday he believes it will be in his own best interest and the best interest of the city for him to step down now.

In October, Cameron and Mayor Ralph Peters made a joint announcement of the resignation, saying it represented a mutual agreement and that Cameron was leaving because of stress of the job.

When the announcement was made, numerous residents of Jerome flocked to Cameron's support. They urged the city not to accept his resignation and asked Cameron to stay on the job. Cameron said many people highway functions.

Bentzinger, elected to fill the third position, said he has been a long-time Jerome businessman and cited his service on the Jerome City Council, the local senior citizen's Board and Precinct Committee as qualifications for the job.

In a speech delivered by his son, Wilson said he was a past highway district president and knows

Jobless rate spikes above state level

By The Associated Press
and The Times-News

TWIN FALLS — The Magic Valley's unemployment rate made an unusual leap above the Idaho rate to begin 1987, the Idaho Department of Employment reported Friday.

The seasonally adjusted rate for Twin Falls, Jerome and Gooding counties during January rose to 6.5 percent because of extended layoffs in the potato processing industry.

Meanwhile, mild weather bolstered job activity and pushed Idaho's jobless rate down 2 of a percentage point to 6.3 percent, the state agency announced.

The Magic Valley rate was at its highest level since last August, largely because Universal Frozen Foods Corp. extended its annual holiday shutdown for maintenance, said Lou McDonald, state job force analyst based at Twin Falls. The shutdown continued through the second week of January, when the agency takes its monthly employment survey.

Without that extraordinary change, the January unemployment report would have been encouraging, as it has been in previous months, McDonald said.

During the month 2,939 people of the 34,373 in the work force actually were unemployed, 1,000 more than in January of 1986 or 1984, he said. Without correcting for expected seasonal swings, that rate was 8.6 percent. The normal seasonal adjustment for January dropped it 2.1 percentage points.

McDonald said the Magic Valley jobless rate most likely will stabilize at around the 6-percent level for the next few months. The Magic Valley rate rarely rises above the state rate, as it did last month.

Statewide, weather emerged as the most important factor leading to a decline in unemployed workers during January, said Idaho Employment Director Julie Kilgour.

"At this time, improved job markets seemed to be mostly the result of the much milder winter weather, rather than an improved economic climate," she said in a news release.

But, while propping up employment in construction,

Twin Falls, Burley chambers face off on tax credit question

By BOB FREUND
and RONDA TAYLOR
Times-News writers

TWIN FALLS — Two chambers of commerce in the Magic Valley have split on the hottest political question in the Legislature so far — the repeal of the state's investment tax credit.

The Greater Twin Falls Area Chamber of Commerce Friday lined up beside Gov. Cecil Andrus, unanimously supporting repeal of the 3-percent income tax credit for capital investments.

Forty miles away, the Burley Chamber of Commerce voted Thursday — also Stan Kress, director of the State Board of Tax Determinations Unit in the Governor's Office, approached Chamber officers about the issue earlier this week.

Andrus called for repeal of the credit in his State of the State message last month to help pay for his $662.6 million budget. The action could raise $14.5 million for the state treasury during the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1987.

Andrus has proposed bolstering the state education budget and the year-old Idaho Department of Commerce with the funds.

"Certainly we're not excited about removing a business incentive," said Twin Falls Chamber President Lee Wagner. But, in the long term, "the money is needed to fund the education process and the Department of Commerce."

Wagner took a telephone poll of 12 other board members Thursday and Friday after the Determinations Unit in the Governor's Office, approached Chamber officers about the issue earlier this week.

Although repeal will affect some companies, its impact will be "fairly minimal" to the entire business community in the state, said Wagner. The Fantus Co., which has analyzed the Twin Falls business climate, also assured Chamber officials that the credit would rank low on the list of incentives for attracting new businesses, he said.

An increase in funding for education and a stronger Department of Commerce would make the state more attractive for business, the long run, said Wagner, whose company — KMVT-TV — recently claimed the credit to trim the costs of new equipment.

The Burley Chamber's directors agreed Thursday to support increased funding for education, but Chamber President Paul Matthews said the funding should not be placed "on the backs of businesses," through loss of the ITC.

Board members talked with customers before taking their stance.

customers' feeling was almost 100 percent in favor of keeping the credit," he said.

The Chamber supports the credit as an incentive to attract new businesses. In addition, farmers need the credit as a stimulus to update their equipment, Matthews said.

The Burley business group favors using traditional sources of revenue to boost education funds, he said.

The ITC has churned into a controversy as the Legislature attempts to reconcile its tax code with the federal government's new tax reform law. It has become a partisan issue in the Statehouse.

Last week before the Idaho Association of Chamber of Commerce, Democrat Andrus attacked the credit, saying it benefits only a few big businesses.

In a press release Friday, Andrus said the action by the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce shows "The people of Idaho agree it is to move aggressively to improve education and the economy."

The Moscow, Idaho Falls and Boise chambers of commerce also have supported repeal.

Ritch has put the GOP majority in the Senate on record against any attempt to repeal the break, claiming it would toll the world that Idaho does not care about encouraging economic expansion. He said the Republican majority will come up with a state budget that preserves the credit and still fulfill those campaign pledges. That is the approach the Burley Chamber advocated.

House of Representatives Speaker Tom Boyd of Genesee, a Republican, personally has come out in favor of keeping the credit, but sentiment is split 50-50 among Republicans over whether to retain or repeal.

Judge denies motion to protect EMT from Rupert spill lawsuits

By MARK PRATTER
Times-News writer

BURLEY — A 5th District Judge Friday denied a motion which would have removed an emergency response team volunteer from five lawsuits against him, in connection with a 1985 chemical spill in Rupert.

David Bremmers of Buhl, the defendant, is entitled to "good Samaritan" protection under Idaho law, argued Jeff Wilson of Boise, Bremmers' attorney.

Judge George Granata disagreed, saying one "good Samaritan" provision in Idaho law referred to "volunteer" was not applicable and another offered "good Samaritan" protection for persons cleaning up hazardous waste.

"I have a difficult time defending the argument that hazardous waste applies to this case," Granata said.

Bremmers was a member of a team which assisted following the April 11, 1985, spill of the potato-wine killer diisobutylamine from a truck on state Highway 24 in Rupert. The incident sent a dozen people to the hospital.

Granata said he had the most difficulty with Wilson's argument that an Idaho law which exempts persons who help clean up hazardous materials from civil liabilities or penalties should apply in this case. The law went into effect after the accident occurred.

Granata said previous Idaho cases established that laws don't apply retroactively, unless it is the specific intent of the state Legislature to do so. He said there is no evidence of such an intent in this case.

Attorneys for 17 people are claiming injuries from the herbicide spill and are seeking $7,575,000 in damages from a number of parties, including a truck driver, his company and a chemical company, according to Mindoka County Court documents. Two of the cases are scheduled to go to trial this fall.

Bremmers is named in five suits, including one filed by John D. and Tina Fisher, who are seeking $2,125,000 in damages and loss of companionship. The Fishers are represented by Penelope Parker-Kimber of Twin Falls, who opposed Wilson's motion Friday.

Wilson contended that Bremmers had misidentified the chemical leaking from the truck but he said that even if the misidentification were negligent, it was not grossly negligent.

Bremmers' actions would have been no different had he identified the chemical correctly, Wilson said.

Parker-Kimber argued that state laws mentioned by Wilson didn't apply to Bremmers' case. She also said immunity isn't allowable in cases of gross negligence.

"Bremmers placed himself in a

Albion phone proposal seeks $21 rate increase

By JANE ROBISON
Times-News writer

BOISE — As opposing sides met to assemble a workable phone deregulation bill, Albion Phone Company was preparing to apply for a major rate increase on Friday.

Dean Redman, general manager of the Albion Phone Company, said his company plans to ask for a $21 rate increase from the Public Utilities Commission.

"If granted, it would raise monthly rates for basic phone service from $5.20 to $7.30," Redman attributed the large rate increase to the breakup of AT&T.

"Everything worked fine before," Redman said. "With the breakup of the phone company, a subsidy pool that kept phone rates down in remote or rural areas no longer was required."

Legislation now before Idaho's lawmakers to partially deregulate phone service would re-establish the subsidy, also called a universal service fund.

All phone companies, including Mountain Bell and the independent phone companies, would be charged a fee by the PUC that would go into the universal fund and then be distributed back to small companies.

Perry Swisher, head of the PUC, called the universal service fund vital to Idaho. And he urged lawmakers again on Friday to keep that portion of the deregulation bill, regardless of what happens to the rest of the bill.

But Swisher added that even if the fund is renewed, the days of low bills for rural customers is over.

"You're going to see all small, independent phone companies with double-digit bills," Swisher told the House State Affairs Committee, which is considering the phone legislation. "It'll probably be somewhere between $10-20 a month."

Swisher said the bills would go up because small companies had to modernize their equipment to keep up with Mountain Bell.

"Redman agreed. And he said that even if the universal pool is re-established, his customers will never again see $6 bills.

"Those days are gone," he said.

one, "Ghost Mining Camps of Idaho," which she completed at the age of 70.

Many of her stories and books reflected her love of the mountains and outdoor activities she enjoyed throughout her life. Friends in the Blaine County area remember her as an energetic and talented person. Zeo Nelson, her deputy treasurer for many years, said that at one time Povey was handling treasurer duties in Idaho and Utah. Povey and her husband Hunter, a former U.S. Forest Service employee, knew Povey and praised her Friday for her dedication to work and enjoyment of life. "She was active in everything," Zeo Nelson said. "She was a joy to know. She was a very professional woman, as well as good friend. I never heard her say a bad word about anyone." Povey served at one time as president of the Idaho Association of County Treasurers and attended several national association conventions. She was respected by fellow county officers in Idaho and other states, Nelson added.

Orville Drexler, who served as sheriff of Blaine County during Povey's term as treasurer, said she was an excellent county official and "served the county very well for many years."

George McCoy, former Blaine County auditor, said he served county government with Povey for 23 years.

"She was quite the lady," he said. "Dorothy was a real public servant and one I enjoyed working with through the years."

In biography, she also wrote articles that were published in national magazines. Nelson recalls Time Magazine used a Dorothy Povey story at one time. She also won a number of National Press Women's Association awards.

She was active in the Democratic Party and, Nelson recalled, always led the Blaine County ballot in number of votes.

"She usually ran unopposed," Nelson said. "Nobody would run against her because they knew they wouldn't win."

Until last year, when she moved to Boise because of ill health, Povey maintained her own home at the south end of Halley. Two funeral services will be held: the first is today in Boise and the second will be at 11 a.m. Tuesday in the Emmanuel Episcopal Church in Halley. Burial will be in Halley Cemetery, with Wood River Chapel in charge. The family suggests memorial contributions to the Mountain States Tumor Institute in Boise. A complete obituary is carried today on this page.

Creationists to present case

TWIN FALLS — Three local creationists will join forces to present the case for the theory of scientific creationism during the third workshop of the "Evolution on Trial" series at 7 p.m. Monday in Room 117 of the Shields Building at the College of Southern Idaho.

The workshop will be presented by CSI biology professor Don Puder, O'Leary Junior High biology teacher Phil Gerrish, and astronomer Bill Mason of Jerome. Puder and Gerrish offer classroom discussions allowing for an examination of both the theories of evolution and creationism. Earlier this year Gerrish held a debate among his biology students to explore the pros and cons of each theory, according to a CSI news release. Course instructor Harry Massoth says there are several theories regarding special creation by different religions, but each theory holds that everything came into existence because of design and not, as the Neo-Darwinian theory holds, by mere chance and natural selection. "This assumption includes the concept of a designer, the designer's plan and the designer's purpose," Massoth said in the news release. Massoth said Christianity itself is divided over the issue of creation and evolution, with the more conservative churches accepting the Genesis account and the more liberal ones some form of theistic evolution.

The fee for the continuing education course is $20, but guests are welcome to attend. For more information call 723-8554, ext. 363.

Drivers escape injury in crash

BURLEY — Two drivers escaped injury Thursday morning when their vehicles collided at the main intersection in Buhl.

Sgt. Ron Romero of the Buhl Police Department said one of the vehicles rolled over following the impact, but the driver was able to crawl out. The accident was reported at 10 a.m. at the intersection of Broadway and Main Street. Romero said John Fisher, 64, of Buhl, was southbound on Broadway, and Jason H. Hopkins, 55, of Buhl was westbound on Main. Romero said Mulreath was unable to see the signal light because the sun was directly in his eyes and his vehicle hit Hopkins' vehicle, which overturned in the intersection.

Both vehicles were severely damaged. No charges were filed.

2 arrested on felony charges

BURLEY — Cassia County officers were called early Friday morning to investigate a petty theft report, but before investigation was complete they had arrested two young men on felony charges of first-degree burglary and forgery.

Dominic Norris and Shawn Blakelee were taken into custody at a mobile home park in Burley, where officers were called to investigate a minor theft. Sgt. Alan Smith of the Cassia County Sheriff's Department said a search warrant was then obtained for a search of the pair's home, leading officers to link the pair with several other investigations.

Smith said two counts of first-degree burglary were filed against Blakelee and one count of first-degree burglary and three counts of forgery against Norris. Smith said the two are alleged to have been involved with a house burglary last December in Burley in which $3,000 worth of appliances, sound equipment and other household items were taken. They are also alleged to have burglarized a vehicle last September in which a radar detector and checkbook were taken.

The two appeared in 5th District Magistrate Court Friday afternoon on the burglary charges and bond was set at $300 each. A preliminary hearing was set for Feb. 21 for both men.

Burglar shows he's truly sorry

TWIN FALLS — A Twin Falls burglar had a change of heart Thursday and it turned out for the best of Eva McClure of 1225 Shoup Ave. E. McClure told police that between Feb. 3 at 9 a.m. and about noon Thursday someone entered her home and took a quantity of jewelry and money. Involved was one ring valued at $1,500, she said.

Police reports indicated the woman had not missed the stolen items until noon Thursday when she returned home and found them all on her front doorstep.

With the items was a note of apology from the burglar who said he was sorry he had taken them. Police said the note was unsigned.

House, car burglary reported

TWIN FALLS — Burglars reported the home of Mary Yost at 120 10th Ave. N. sometime prior to Thursday and took $1,000 in jewelry.

Police in Twin Falls received the report Thursday and the theft was under investigation. A car burglary was reported to police Friday by James Harral of Twin Falls. Harral told police someone broke into his vehicle late Thursday or early Friday and took a radar detector valued at $200. The vehicle was not locked, police said.

lumber and concrete industries, the weather also eliminated or delayed hirings in some workers in recreation industries, such as ski resorts.

Jim Day, the department's chief analyst, stopped short of saying the January increase in employment would blunt the erosion of the state's nonagricultural job base. It shrank by 3,100 workers in 1986, with all but three counties reporting job losses during the first three quarters of the year.

The January development was significant because of the size of the increase in employment over year-earlier levels. It was the third straight month of at least fractional increases. "But what it will take for the trend to continue into spring, after the weather is no longer a factor," Day said.

Still, he may be more losses to come. Last month Day predicted the loss of another 4,000 non-farm jobs.

Regionally, the Panhandle and Canyon County reported very high jobless rates, with Boise, Lewiston and Idaho Falls areas relatively low. The January unemployment rate in the state's major regions and the change from December are:

- Idaho — 6.3 percent, down 2 percent.
- Magic Valley — 6.5 percent, up 3 percent.
- Pocatello — 6.8 percent, down 4 percent.
- Idaho Falls — 4.3 percent, down 5 percent.
- Ada County (Boise) — 4 percent, down 4 percent.
- Canyon County — 8.8 percent, up 1.3 percent.
- Lewiston — 4.2 percent, down 7 percent.
- Panhandle (Coeur d'Alene) — 8.9 percent, down 7 percent.

3 men face kidnapping, other felony charges

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Three 20-year-old daughters have been charged with aggravated kidnapping and three other felony counts in the abduction of a Salt Lake woman and her daughter who were held captive in an alleged extortion plot, officials say.

Thanh Tan Tran, 21, Vien Van Tran, 21, and Toan Khoan Chung, 18, a transient, were charged Friday with aggravated kidnapping, aggravated robbery, aggravated burglary and theft in a criminal complaint filed in 5th Circuit Court.

Bail was set at $500,000 each. Salt Lake County Sheriff's detectives and Salt Lake police arrested the three near a downtown branch of Zions National Bank Thursday morning, ending the ordeal of Lana-On complaint said.

"I would have ample time to do a thorough job, and I feel I could work well with the other commissioners," Bentzinger said.

Cobble's widow, Christine, was also among those who wished to be considered for his position. "I know the county needs to get on with its business," she said, "that's what Ray would want. I've stood in the background and listened... and I want to carry out his plans."

A number of times during the election process, the vote was tied between two candidates, and committee Chairman Keith Huettig placed a call to the office of the Secretary of State to obtain a ruling on how to break the tie.

Faced with several options, Huettig said he was told by Secretary of State Ben Yursa that he had the ability to cast the vote or flip a coin. Huettig voted to continue voting four more rounds in an attempt to break the tie. Huettig said if the vote was still tied at that point, he would cast the deciding ballot.

Fortunately, Huettig said, a revote was not needed. Huettig said he was going to personally deliver the six names to the office of the governor Friday morning. "We have been assured by the governor that he would give the matter as prompt attention as possible. We hope to have at least one position filled by early next week and hope to be back in business by Wednesday," Huettig said.

The County Board of Commissioners may function with only two commissioners, and Huettig said he thinks the governor may take a little longer to fill the second board of commissioner's seat.

About 60 area residents attended the Thursday night meeting of the Republican Central Committee.

increase of responsibility. He had a higher standard of care," she said.

Bremmers hunched forward in his chair with his hand on his chin as she spoke.

Parker-Timber said the issue of whether or not Bremmers was grossly negligent couldn't be decided in Friday's hearing. This has to be determined by a jury, she argued. The judge agreed to a motion for summary judgment in a suit involving Dwight-Allen, Kathy Allen and their children Jayme Allen and Robbie Kenyon against Donald Ray Frasier, the truck driver. He said he granted it because counsel for the Aliens did not oppose it.

Resigns

Also talked with him personally and asked that he continue in the position. This support and concern, Cameron said at that time, prompted him to withdraw the resignation. He said he had been accused of not doing the job of running his department, but said he believed he could do a good job and would "tighten up the ship."

Cameron said Friday that if the City Council accepts the resignation Monday night, he will announce his future plans. At this time his plans involve a transfer to another Jerome city position, he said.

Mayor Peters accepted the original resignation, but when one City Council member declined to sign the resignation reaffirmed it was returned to Cameron, who then chose not to resubmit the document. Greg Baller, attorney for Cameron, said the police chief was under pressure, but most of the pressure was from city officials who wanted him to resign.

Cameron has been Jerome police chief for just over five years and has 17 years of law enforcement experience. He began work for the Twin Falls police department 17 years ago and held the office of deputy sheriff in Jerome County when he was appointed police chief.

Newark Episcopal diocese urges new sexual acceptance

By FRANK BAJAK
The Associated Press

NEWARK, N.J. — The Episcopal Church should recognize and bless committed non-marital sexual relationships between homosexuals, young adults, the divorced and widowed, a report from the church's Newark diocese urges.

"I find it difficult to believe that a church that blesses dogs in a Virginia fox hunt can't find a way to bless life-long, lasting relationships between human beings," Episcopal Bishop of Newark John Spong said Thursday.

The report by the diocese's Task Force on Church Patterns of Sexuality and Family Life aims to ignite a new debate on sexual ethics among leaders of the nation's 3 million Episcopalians in hopes they will amend church doctrine to embrace all believers.

The report was ordered two years ago by the diocese's governing body, which will consider it in a two-day convention that begins Friday.

Like Roman Catholic doctrine, Episcopal teachings only approve of sex between men and women who are married. In 1979, the U.S. church's governing body voted down a resolution to expand that approval.

"The church's teaching is centered on God, not changing social customs," said an opponent of the recommendations. The Rev. Fleming Rutledge of Grace Episcopal Church in New York City.

Spong, an outspoken advocate of the recommendations whose 55,000-member diocese is among the nation's most liberal, said his views are a minority position in the church.

That communion's mother church, the Church of England, "makes no provision for any other association outside marriage," said the Rt. Rev. Hugh Montefiore, Anglican Bishop of Birmingham and chairman of the church's Board for Social Responsibility.

"It has never discussed it and would not as far as I know — it is not likely to do so," he said.

The 15-page report says that because attitudes toward marriage have changed as more women defer it or reject it for careers, the church should accept cohabitation and premarital sex.

And because homosexuals have as much right to worship God as heterosexuals, their rights to church recognition and ministry should not be ignored, the report says.

Opponents of recognizing gay relationships say the Bible rejects homosexuality.

However, the report says sexual relationships should be recognized if they "manifest marks of the Realm of God: healing, reconciliation, compassion, mutuality, concern for others."

John Spong also said the church should not accept relationships based on promiscuousness, self-aggrandizement or any other selfish feelings.

Spong said committed homosexual relationships should be accepted because not doing so would "contribute to promiscuous gay behavior."

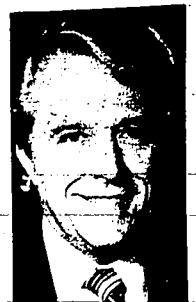

Premarital sex should be acknowledged because changing social norms have separated puberty from marriage by 10 to 15 years, the report says.

"When you separate ethics and biology, you sort of have to expect one to be violated," Spong said.

Spong, a member of the Commission on Human Affairs and Health of the church's national House of Bishops, notes that in 1979, the House of Bishops defeated the proposal in 1979 was the church's current leader, Presiding Bishop Edmond Lee Browning.

Browning would not comment Thursday on the new report because that would "interfere" with the church's legislative process, spokeswoman Janet Vetter said from National Episcopal Church headquarters in New York City.

Spong said he expects the issue to be taken up again by the House of Bishops, which next meets in September in Chicago.

Statue of god-king Ramses II departs, bound for U.S. cities

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt (AP) — A 10-ton statue of Pharaoh Ramses II left on the first leg of a voyage to the United States on Thursday after a departure ceremony befitting Egypt's greatest god-king.

An Egyptian navy brass band played Egypt's national anthem and about 150 dignitaries applauded as the trisected statue, packed in three mammoth crates on two trucks, trundled aboard the ferry for a five-day journey to Marseille, France.

Ships' sirens wailed for 20 minutes in tribute to the king who died 3,000 years ago.

The statue will be transferred in Marseille to a ship taking it to the United States, where it will arrive in Memphis, Tenn., in April as the centerpiece of "Ramses the Great Exhibition" now touring U.S. cities. It will stay in Memphis with the exhibition to Denver.

Egyptian and U.S. Embassy officials said they did not know the statue's port-of-call in the United States or whether it will go directly to Memphis on the Mississippi River.

In Tennessee, Glen Campbell, aide to Memphis Mayor Richard C. Hockett, refused to disclose the statue's planned, citing security requirements. "We're going to do everything possible to see that nothing is done to embarrass the United States or Egypt," Campbell said.

Also known as Ramses the Great, the pharaoh ruled for 66 years in the 19th Dynasty before his death in 1224 B.C.

Saheb said one of the crates trundled aboard the Aquila on Thursday contains the statue's base and legs. The hips and waist are in the second and the torso and head in the third, he said.

He said the statue will be on display in Memphis from April 1 to Aug. 31, then will travel to Denver with the exhibition until March 31, 1988, when it will be recreated for the return trip home.

The Ramses exhibition, insured for $35 million, already has appeared at Brigham-Young University in Provo, Utah, and in Jacksonville, Fla.

church which opposes the ordination of women.

It said full-time clergymen who resign over the issue will be due severance pay, but this need not be considered in detail until all church authorities approve women priests, which he said would be "closely fought."

The report said that for an interim period, not specified, a parish or a priest might be given power to refuse the ministrations of a woman, and a bishop might not be compelled to ordain a woman or license women priests within his diocese.

Once women are ordained, however, men opposed to them should not be appointed as bishops, the report implied.

English bishops prepare to work for acceptance of a female priesthood

LONDON (AP) — Bishops of the Church of England said on Friday they were ready to work for the admission of women to the priesthood.

The bishops said the church had declared as far back as 1973 that it saw no fundamental objections to ordaining women priests, but that the present all-male priesthood would be "closely fought."

The report said that for an interim period, not specified, a parish or a priest might be given power to refuse the ministrations of a woman, and a bishop might not be compelled to ordain a woman or license women priests within his diocese.

Once women are ordained, however, men opposed to them should not be appointed as bishops, the report implied.

It also said once the church has women priests it will be "very difficult" to sustain an argument against having women bishops.

But it said because bishops are a focus of unity within the church and as symbol and link of communion between it and all Christians, "it might be considered by some as inappropriate to consecrate a woman (bishop) as long as some provinces remain opposed in principle to the ordination of women."

The debate in the church over women priests has raged for more than 20 years and has become more bitter as the prospect grew. Groups within the church agitating for and against it each claim several thousand members.

An overwhelming majority of the 41 English dioceses synods voted several times in favor of women priests at sessions of the general synod, the church's policymaking body of 74 bishops, clergy and laity.

The general synod will debate the bishops' report Feb. 26.

Reagan gets surprise birthday party

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, told he was about to get a briefing on a government program, walked into a surprise-party marking his 76th birthday Friday and was saluted by the Marine Band playing "Seventy-Six Trombones."

Hundreds of White House employees — from senior staff to secretaries — were waiting for Reagan when he stepped into the fourth-floor auditorium of the Old Executive Office Building next to the White House. They burst into applause, and Reagan grinned broadly.

Press spokesman Martin Filtz water admitted beforehand that Reagan might have a hunch about what to expect. But if he did, the president made a good show of playing along.

With assistance from the Marine Band, the audience sang "Happy Birthday, Mr. President." The chorus was interrupted by applause as Nancy Reagan slipped onto the stage to help her husband blow out seven candles on a huge cake.

Underscoring the theme of the day, a banner above the stage read: "Happy Birthday Mr. President. Here's to the Spirit of '76."

He threw away his prepared remarks — literally tossing them over his shoulder — and cut the cake with assistance from his wife. "You're on your own," she said laughingly.

"I don't know about you," he remarked. "I'm just trying to think of something to say."

He mistakenly added a year to his age when he told the crowd. "Of all the 38 anniversaries of my 39th birthday, this is about the nicest." He should have said 37 instead of 38.

Reagan, still on a restricted work schedule after prostate surgery Jan. 5, looked healthy and happy. As since before Christmas, he was kept far away from the press and any questions about the Iran-Contra controversy that has preoccupied members of his staff.

The president had been told he was going to the auditorium for an update on private sector initiatives — a pet project of his to get businesses and industry to take over some responsibilities carried out by government.

"I guess I'm not going to get a briefing on private initiatives but I just want to thank you," Reagan told the audience. Falling back on one of his standard lines, he said, "Really, you have made my day."

The staff presented him with the original art work of a cartoon by Jim Bergman of The Cincinnati Enquirer, showing an aide dumping a Gatorade bucket over Reagan, who is sitting in front of a cake with far more than 76 candles.

Two killed in train crash

CONCORD, N.Y. (AP) — A 50-car southbound freight train, pulled at 30 mph by three locomotives, collided head-on Friday with a northbound freight, killing two men and injuring seven others, authorities said.

The crash 25 miles south of Buffalo ripped the first engine of the southbound CSX Transportation Inc. train in half horizontally, splitting off a 75-foot section and spewing metal shards over a wide area of snow-covered woods.

A diesel motor the size of a compact car was shredded at impact. Batteries from inside the broken locomotive were hurled 40 feet up an embankment from the 8:57 a.m. accident.

Five men were aboard the larger southbound train, and four crewmen were on the 21-car northbound train.

Men charged with abusing 6 children

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Two well-dressed men were held Friday on charges they abused six youngsters who were found dressed in tatters in a park, and police said the men may be part of an international satanic cult whose members give up their children.

Some of the children told police they hadn't seen their parents since before Christmas.

"They evidently have come from such sheltered existences that they had no concept of what a telephone was, or TV or anything like that," Scott Hunt, spokesman for the Tallahassee Police Department, said Thursday.

The children, ages 2 to 7, may have been given up by their parents so they could join a satanic cult in Washington, D.C., authorities in Florida said.

Police said the children had not bathed in several days, hadn't eaten for a day and were covered with insect bites.

Upon questioning, the men said the children were being "weaned" from their mothers in Washington. They said they were taking the children to Mexico to start a school for brilliant children. They denied any blood relationship with the children and refused to answer other questions.

"We don't know" what we've got. All we have is six children and we don't know where they came from," Hunt said.

The oldest child said the children had never been to school. They had been traveling for several days or weeks, she said, although she didn't know where they had been. Also, they hadn't seen their parents since before Christmas.

The girl said when they did eat they were given raw fruit and vegetables.

Medical exams showed one child had been sexually abused, Hunt said Friday.

Prince Philip to visit U.S.

LONDON (AP) — Prince Philip, the husband of Queen Elizabeth II, will visit the United States in April on behalf of the World Wildlife Fund and to dedicate a new telescope in Hawaii, Buckingham Palace announced Friday.

Philip, president of World Wildlife International, will make stops in St. Louis, San Francisco and Honolulu while in the United States from April 23 to 29, the palace said.

In Hawaii, he will open the James Clerk Maxwell telescope, a joint project of Britain and the Netherlands.

Vadim to use prison for new movie setting

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — Part of the New Mexico State Penitentiary will be turned into a movie set for a new version of "And God Created Woman" by Roger Vadim, the director who made the original 30 years ago.

Filming shoots began next month at the prison building South of Santa Fe and should continue for several weeks, Lenny Vullo, the film's production manager, said Wednesday.

Vadim, perhaps best known as the ex-husband of Brigitte Bardot and Jane Fonda, is directing and co-producing the picture, which Vullo said will likely be released later this year.

Rebecca DeMornay will play an inmate at a women's prison in the film's early scenes, Vullo said. Her role was originally played by Bardot.

Vadim's original film was in French, while the remake will be in English, said a spokeswoman for California-based Vestron Pictures, the show's producer. Paul Lazarus, director of the state Film Commission, said the film is expected to have about $4 million in production costs.

"I'm not going to jump every time I have a lot of criticism on programming," said Kleckstein. "But I take into consideration everyone's input... and also the content of the show, which I feel is ill-placed for this time period."

Asner says "Amerika" harms peace efforts

MONTEREY, Calif. (AP) — Actor and political activist Ed Asner says the upcoming ABC-TV miniseries "Amerika" will "make the Russians

even greater enemies."

Asner, 57, was the main attraction at Thursday's opening news conference for the Monterey Film Festival.

The former president of the Screen Actors Guild, who was TV's "Lou Grant," praised the new Vietnam War film "Platoon" as a great anti-war movie that rebuffs "Rambo" films.

The film "teaches our young what war, I imagine, must really be like," he said. "Here we have plus."

But "Amerika," a dramatization of American life after a Soviet takeover, "will make the Russians even greater enemies and it will provide nothing but further problems to finding peace in the world," Asner said.

Britain's first artificial heart patient released

HUNTINGDON, England (AP) — Britain's first artificial heart patient left the hospital Friday, praising the life-saving machine with a "thrashing" sound that sustained him until a human donor heart was found.

Raymond Cooke, a 40-year-old father of five, said he was looking forward to drinking a pint of beer and to participating for the British Cardiac Patients Association.

"I want to let people know how successful my heart transplant has been so that more people become donors," Cooke said as he left Park Hospital after a Jarvik-7 on Nov. 2 after surgeons decided his condition was deteriorating so swiftly that he would not live until a donor organ was found. Two days later, a second operation gave him a human heart.

Cooke said the Jarvik-7 had a "thrashing sound, but once I had been in its presence for a while it became the sound of a normal, steady beat. It sounds comforting, knowing that it had saved my life."

Aussie star hopes next movie a hit with critics

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Aussie movie star Bryan Brown, panned in last year's $27-million flop "Tajpan," hopes to win over the critics with the movie "The Good Wife," to be released in the United States later this month.

The movie, co-starring his wife, English actress Rachel Ward, is set in the Australian bush, portraying the obsession of a bored country housewife for the town lothario.

Brown, in keeping with the strong, silent but sensitive character he developed in "Breaker Morant" and "The Thorn Birds," plays her bewildered but caring husband.

He shrugged off the failure of "Tajpan" with the critics, saying, "They were in the mood to clobber me." His other movie — for 1986, "FX," had done well, he said.

Brown and Ms. Ward wanted to promote "The Good Wife" in the United States, but the couple are expecting a child later this month, Brown said.

Television station pulls Westheimer's show

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — A television station is pulling Ruth Westheimer's sex-advice show "Ask Dr. Ruth" off the air because viewers complained it was offensive.

"We're going to take it off," KRDO General Manager Neil Kleckstein said Thursday. "I do not feel it's right for this time period. The show, which had been on the ABC affiliate at 9 a.m. daily since last month, might find a place in KRDO's late-night schedule, he added.

Coroner examines Liberace's body

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Hundreds mourned Liberace at a solemn memorial service Friday and President Reagan sent a telegram, while a coroner questioning the pianist's reported cause of death examined his body for signs of AIDS.

The squabble overshadowed the Riverside County coroner's office on the order of Coroner Raymond Carrillo, who wanted to know if AIDS was involved in the entertainer's death.

Dr. Ronald Daniels, Liberace's personal physician, had reported the cause of death as cardiac arrest due to congestive heart failure brought on by subacute encephalopathy, an inflammation of the brain.

But Carrillo said, "This is a case taker that should have been reported to the coroner's office."

Spokesmen for Liberace repeatedly have denied published reports he had AIDS. He died Wednesday at age 67.

"It is so sad this happened," the entertainer's publicist Denise Collier said from New York when she learned of the coroner's move.

The squabble overshadowed the Riverside County coroner's office on the order of Coroner Raymond Carrillo, who wanted to know if AIDS was involved in the entertainer's death.

The crowd of about 250 mourners inside the church included stars Kirk Douglas, Isabel Sanford and Charlene Tilton. Another 200 people stood outside during the service.

Reagan in his telegram called Liberace "the ultimate entertainer."

"Nancy and I send our heartfelt condolences on Liberace's death. We pray that our lord will bless his peace and comfort," Reagan said.

"Lee was a gifted musician, a man who truly earned the little 'superstar' and a caring individual who time and again responded generously to those in need," Reagan said.

"He will be remembered in many ways — but most importantly as a kind man who lived his life with great joy," said the telegram. "We are grateful that he has left us such a rich legacy of memories, and they will be our joy."

Neighbor Vince Fronza eulogized Liberace as a man with love for his family and community "but most of all for you, his audience."

Liberace had been gravely ill for weeks with what aides said was anemia, emphysema and heart disease.

Student kills teacher, self

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An argument over a falling grade at California State University at Northridge apparently led a student to fatally shoot a computer science professor and then himself, police said.

Associate Professor Djamshid Asgari, 35, was shot by the 25-year-old student Wednesday night in the campus engineering building and died at a hospital.

The identity of the student, who shot himself in the face, is being withheld until his family can be contacted in Amman, Jordan, Lt. Warren Knowles said Thursday.

The student flunked Asgari's class in the 1985-86 school year and lost appeals to the professor and administrators to change the grade, Knowles said.

The student argued with Asgari in a stairwell before the shooting, witnesses said.

Bono to run for mayor

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Sonny Bono, who became a pop music star in the 1960s with his former wife, Cher, said Friday he will run for mayor of Palm Springs next year.

"Like it here. I'm a businessman," said Bono, who runs a restaurant and tennis complex called Bono's.

"But there's an attitude problem. We need to grow," he said Friday.

"My goal is to make this the desert-fresh Riviera — the playground for Los Angeles and California. This is one of the great glamour capitals in the world."

Bono, who has lived in Palm Springs for 13 years, is seeking the non-partisan office being vacated by Frank Bagnari, who has decided not to run again. The election will be held in April 1988.

Bono said he knew of no other candidates, and added he was confident he can get elected.

Bono, who has made television guest appearances since he and Cher recorded "I Got You Babe" and were hosts of a weekly variety show, appears in the soon-to-be-released movie "Dirty Laundry."

Israeli gunships repel guerrilla attack

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israeli troops used helicopter gunships, tanks and artillery to counter an attack Friday by dozens of pro-Iranian Shiite Muslim guerrillas in south Lebanon, independent sources said.

Israeli army spokesmen said eight Hezbollah guerrillas were killed, as was one fighter of the pro-Israeli South Lebanon Army militia.

The army spokesmen, who could not be identified by name in accordance with army practice, said three Israelis and three militiamen were wounded in fighting which lasted for more than two hours.

The Hezbollah, or Party of God, organization is believed linked to Shiite extremists who have claimed responsibility for the kidnappings of foreigners in Lebanon.

Maj. Gen. Yossi Peled, head of Israel's northern command, said on Tuesday that the guerrillas suffered a major setback.

"All indications show they panicked and ran away, according to the large amount of arms and equipment found," he said. "It's clear that the painful failures, like this morning's will bring about rethinking (by the guerrillas)."

Guerrillas launched more than 20 attacks inside Israel's self-styled "security zone" in south Lebanon in the past month, killing about 20 Israeli-backed militiamen and wounding 20, according to independent sources in south Lebanon, who spoke on condition of anonymity. Israel created the buffer zone to shield its northern border from guerrilla infiltration and attacks.

A communique issued in Beirut by Islamic Resistance, an Iran-backed grouping of Shiite and other militias, conceded that four guerrillas were killed after three guerrilla squads launched attacks overnight.

Peled identified the attackers as belonging to Hezbollah, which may have links to groups holding U.S. and other hostages in Beirut.

S. Africa arrests monitored

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — A monitoring group said Friday more than 25,000 South Africans were detained under security and emergency laws in 1986, and 60 percent of known detainees were released without charge.

The Detainees Parents Support Committee said its figures were estimates because the government refuses to disclose exact figures.

"The major targets of detentions were children, aged 18 years or younger," the report said. "Our estimate of the number of children who were detained is in the region of 10,000."

It said the United Democratic Front anti-apartheid coalition and its affiliates were hardest hit in terms of organizations, "accounting for approximately 75 percent of those detainees whose organizational affiliations are known."

Women accounted for more than 10 percent of the total, the report said, "approximately 3,000."

The support committee said, "Our estimate of 25,000 emergency detainees was arrived at by an examination of reports received from all areas of the country and by an examination of the names tabled in Parliament."

The report said four foreign correspondents were expelled in 1986 and four South African journalists were detained, including Zwelekele Ntseke, editor of the weekly New Nation, "still in detention" and not charged with any crime.

Americans in Colombia fear reprisals

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Americans kept their children home from school, canceled parties and hired bodyguards Friday in fear of reprisals because of the extradition of an alleged drug kingpin to the United States for trial.

Some U.S. citizens, citing smugglers' threats to kill five Americans for every Colombian who extradited, told The Associated Press they were sending their families out of the country.

Police, meanwhile, announced the arrest of three more men whose extradition is sought by the United States.

The Associated Press contacted 50 American families as a wave of near panic ran through the U.S. community. There are an estimated 5,000 Americans in Colombia.

The prevailing fear resembled the climate after a bomb exploded beside the U.S. Embassy in November 1984. The embassy said drug traffickers planted the bomb, and that they threatened to kill five Americans for every Colombian extradited.

The bomb killed a Colombian woman and seriously injured six people.

Thirteen Colombians have been extradited on drug charges to the United States in the last 2 1/2 years, including Carlos Lehder Rivero, captured Wednesday and immediately sent to the United States.

Lehder is a billionaire and member of what Colombian and U.S. authorities describe as a cartel that supplies 80 percent of the cocaine smuggled into the United States.

A 37-year-old self-proclaimed Nazi, Lehder was being held pending a hearing Monday in Jacksonville, Fla. Charges in Jacksonville include conspiracy, importing cocaine, possession with intent to distribute the drug and racketeering.

Although Lehder was not extradited on the broader smuggling charges pending against him in Miami, prosecutors in that city are optimistic he will eventually be tried there as well.

Colombian security forces arrested three men Thursday in the northwestern town of Valledupar and discovered a cache of what officials said was ether and other chemicals used to process cocaine from a paste into refined white powder.

Authorities identified the three as Alvaro and Rodolfo Suarez — brothers — and Carlos Gomez.

The United States has asked for the extradition of 109 Colombians on drug charges.

Fear of reprisals against Colombian officials was also evident, as extra troops with submachine guns guarded government buildings and motorcycle police escorted officials to and from their offices.

The morning daily El Tiempo, of Bogota, said the police major responsible for Lehder's capture was transferred from Medellin, the northwestern city where most of the major traffickers are based.

Ramos: Army supports Aquino

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — The armed forces chief said Friday 99 percent of the military supports President Corazon Aquino's government, although other officials have said two out of five soldiers voted against her new constitution.

"The armed forces of the Philippines — 99 percent — have been faithful in upholding the constitution, the flag of the republic," Gen. Fidel V. Ramos said at a military ceremony. "Ninety-nine percent of the military support the government, neither do they constitute a problem for our people."

The government's Philippine News Agency, meanwhile, said authorities filed rebellion charges against 119 civilians who joined about 200 soldiers in seizing a television station during a coup attempt last month. A prosecuting attorney will decide if enough evidence exists for the case to be brought to court.

The civilians, mostly supporters of former President Ferdinand E. Marcos, joined what the government called an attempt to pave the way for Marcos' return from his Hawaii exile. Four courts-martial have been established to try the approximately 400 soldiers captured after their assaults on military and media facilities.

Various government officials have reported that 40 percent of the military vote in Monday's plebiscite went against the charter. Overall, only one out of four Filipinos who voted cast his ballot against the constitution, according to the official count of half the vote. The final tally is expected in the coming days.

Cosmonauts head for space lab

MOSCOW (AP) — Two cosmonauts spent their first day in orbit Friday while technicians on Earth sent signals that warmed and purified the air of the space laboratory Mir to make it habitable for them.

Moscow radio broadcast hourly bulletins about the mission and said the space station was operating on automatic mode.

The Mir, which means Peace in Russian, was launched last February. The Soviets describe it as a new generation vehicle designed to carry space exploration into the next century.

Mission commander Yuri Romanenko and flight engineer Alexander Laveikin were launched in the Soyuz TM-2 early Friday and docking is expected Saturday night or early Sunday, the radio reported.

"Everything has been made ready on the station for receiving the cosmonauts," it said. "The air in it has been purified and the temperature has been brought up to room temperature."

No one has been inside the Mir since Leonid Kizim and Vladimir Solovjev returned from 125 days in space on July 16.

There has been no official word on how long this space venture will last, but the radio described it Friday as "an orbital mission of many months."

Press reports in January said Romanenko, 43, and Laveikin, 35, would be joined on the Mir in July by a joint Soviet-Syrian crew now in training.

The two Soviet cosmonauts will spend their first days on the Mir unloading equipment from an unmanned Progress 27 rocket that carried oxygen, food, fuel and supplies to the station last month.

20 killed when gasoline truck hits bus

ACAPULCO, Mexico (AP) — A gasoline truck collided with a bus and burst into flames near this coastal resort, killing 20 people, officials said Friday. The only survivors — two babies — were reported in critical condition.

Arturo Martinez-Flores, of the federal highway police said the dead included the four crewmen of the truck and 16 of the 18 people on the bus.

"The two survivors, two small children, are in a critical condition with third-degree burns and are hospitalized in the Social Security Hospital. No one has claimed them," Martinez-Flores said by telephone.

He said the bus and the truck loaded with gasoline collided Thursday afternoon on the Acapulco-Mexico City highway.

Lt. Jaime Espinosa of the local firefighters unit said the crash occurred 13 miles north of Acapulco.

Madison's second-quarter surge tops Bruins

REXBURG — A 10-point halftime lead held up through the final two quarters Friday night when the Madison Bobcats downed the Twin Falls Bruins 73-62 in a Gem State Conference game.

The Bobcats trailed only momentarily in the game and were last held, even with the count reaching 23-23 in the early second quarter. But the Bobcats were shooting too well to be held by the Bruins and by halftime they had built up a 45-33 lead.

Derek Anderson slipping inside for a creckle at the buzzer to end the period.

"Wednesday night (at Minico) we lost by 16 points and played a great game. We didn't like the loss but we liked the way we played until the final three minutes," he said. "Tonight we lost by 11 and were absolutely horrible."

"It's getting down to that time of year when we have to expect things to start coming together and coming together every time," he said. "We have to start playing hard every night. There are times you won't play well but you can at least play hard every time out."

Tom Mueller (senior guard) worked hard all night for us tonight," he added.

Although Astorquia said he never felt the Bruins were in the game, they managed to stay close for over 10 minutes. The only Twin Falls lead came at 5-4 on Kenny Fuchs free throw.

But Bob Palmer hit the next five points of the game for Madison and the Bobcats never trailed again.

They couldn't pull away because senior guard Gabe Ostyn wouldn't let them. He picked up 15 of his 19 points in the first half and at one stretch hit five straight free throws.

He hoisted the Bruins into that final deadlock at 23 but J.D. Grover snapped that seconds later with a three-point goal and Bill Hawkins, who had all 12 of his points in the first half, chipped in with a field goal.

Madison didn't reach a double digit lead until the late second quarter, just after Ostyn's 13th points had trimmed the deficit to 36-31.

Anderson collected a three-point bomb and Steve Smith came up with a pair of free throws to make it 41-31. Ostyn scored again but a following shot by Smith and Anderson's closing bucket extended the lead to 45-33 at intermission.

The second half was largely a matter of taking a 51-40 lead into the final eight minutes.

Astorquia said the Bruins had tried to man Madison after the Bobcats had shown "good outside shooting" in their first meeting in Twin Falls.

"Our game plan was to go at them, play man defense the whole night and contest shots on the perimeter. But (the man defense) was worse than the zone last time," he said.

Twin Falls sophomores won the opener 78-60.

Connors upset in net meet

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Czechoslovakia's Milan Srejber upset Jimmy Connors, 6-3, 7-6 (7-0) Friday night to advance to the semifinal round of the $465,000 U.S. Indoor Pro Tennis Tournament.

In the final match of the day, fourth seeded John McEnroe, seeking a return to the No. 1 world ranking he held in four of the last six years, had an easy time beating Jakob Hlasek of Switzerland, 6-2, 6-3.

The fourth seeded McEnroe had little trouble disposing of Hlasek. He scored two breaks in games three and five of the first set and served out McEnroe broke back in games one and seven of the second set, winning almost as he pleased.

The 6-foot-8 Srejber featured a powerful serve in eliminating the second seeded Connors. Earlier, Tim Mayotte and Israel's Amos Mansdorf also advanced to Saturday's semifinal.

The fifth seeded Mayotte, who reached the final of this event last year only to default to Ivan Lendl because of pulled stomach muscles, won his quarterfinal, 7-5, 6-4 over 14th rated Paul Annacone.

Mansdorf reached the round of four with a 6-7 (1-7), 6-3, 6-4 victory over Karel Novacek of Czechoslovakia.

Srejber, 23, won the first set from the 54-year-old Connors, but fell behind, 2-5 in the second of the best-of-three match.

He rallied to 5-5, Connors held his serve for 6-5, and Srejber hit for 6-6, sending it into a seven point tiebreaker.

The ninth seeded Czech, who wears size 13½ shoes, then won seven straight points in the tiebreaker to oust the 34-year-old Connors.

From 2-5, Srejber won 14 of 18 points, including the seven in the tiebreaker, after serving aces.

"This was the best I've served in my life," Srejber said.

Srejber was ranked 27th in the world last year, and Connors eighth.

"It was the best I've played in my life," Srejber said. "I'm lucky to be in the semifinal."

Srejber had 22 service winners to Connors' nine and won the match by rousing the net, 50 times to 12 for the veteran left-hander. Srejber also had nine aces.

Mayotte, 36, ranked 14th in the world last year, will next play Srejber in one of Saturday's semis.

Mansdorf, 21, who has won once in his two-year pro career, meets McEnroe.

Mayotte has moved through the tournament with a first-round bye and triumphs over South Africa's Gary Muller and American Ben Teslerman.

Mansdorf, an Israeli Davis Cup player and Olympian, reached the quarters with a first-round bye and victories over Martin Blackman of the U.S. and Jan Gunnarsson of Sweden.

Mayotte, an American, now leads Annacone 2-1 in their career confrontations.

It was the second victory for Mansdorf over Novacek in three career meetings. The 16th seeded Mansdorf's best on the tour is a championship at Johannesburg and the semifinal at Tel-Aviv, both last year. He ranked 39th in the world in 1986 and earned $128,301.

Mayotte took the first set against Annacone with a break in the 11th game for a 6-5 lead. The game went to a passing shot that left Annacone sprawled on the court.

He fell behind 2-4 in the second set, but won 16 of the next 18 points to close out the match in five tight sets.

Novacek won the first set, 7-6 in a 7-1 tiebreaker after the two followed serve to 6-6. The Czech took a 5-0 lead in the tiebreaker before Mansdorf scored his only point.

Novacek finished the job with a love game for 6-1, and then fired his eighth ace of the set for the final point.

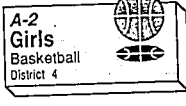

Mansdorf came back to win the second set, 6-3, with a break of Novacek in the fourth game. He won from duce by forcing Novacek into a pair of backhand errors.

Mansdorf completed his comeback in the one-hour, 55-minute match by winning the third set, 6-4. He broke the 10th seeded Novacek in the ninth game for a 5-4 lead, and closed it out with a 4-1 game.

Buhl girls gain finals

BUHL — If their showing Friday night is a true example, the Buhl girls' varsity squad has mastered consistency in the game of basketball.

Faultless play led them to a 51-45 win over Jerome in the second round of the District 4 Class A-2 tournament.

The win moves Buhl into the district finals as Jerome will fall back to face Wood River in the double-elimination tourney. The tourney victor advances to the state finals in Pocatello Feb. 19-21.

After losing to Jerome in the final game of the regular season, Buhl's head coach Janet Smutny felt she had to prepare her team for Jerome's aggressiveness.

"The difference between the two games was that we were ready for them tonight," she said. "In the last game we didn't know what to expect, especially out of Janyce Anderson (Jerome transfer from Wood River)."

From the start of the game, Buhl controlled the ball with confidence, working its way inside to Gayle Smutny and Nancy Stevens, who dominated in the key despite an ankle injury which sidelined her during their matchup with Wood River. Stevens and Smutny teamed up for 10 of Buhl's 14 first quarter points.

Though Jerome used a full-court press, Buhl's defense proved awesome behind Tara Jagels and Lynette Easton, who recorded four steals in the second quarter.

The only thing Jerome could accomplish in the third quarter was to get Smutny and Easton in foul trouble. This helped to some extent and the Tigers cut the lead to seven at the end of the quarter, 38-31.

Easton, who has played two sharp games for the Indians in the tourney, hit for eight unanswered points at the start of the fourth which gave Buhl a comfortable cushion for the rest of the game.

Poky, Rams seen as regional mat contenders

BY RON GATES

RUPERT — There's less than unanimous agreement as to whether defending champion Poccatello or cross-town rival Highland rates the favorite role in the 1987 Region 3, A-1 Wrestling Tournament to be held at Minico High School today.

"I think Poky and Highland will be the ones to beat," says three-year defending champion Cooper. "If anyone can do it, it would probably be us, but things would have to go just right with a couple of upsets. But those things happen."

With Burley moving up to swell the tourney field to five squads in its second year of existence, competition will be keener. A major plus wrought by the alignment change is that the region will send the top three finishers in each weight classification, up from two spots a year ago, to the state tournament scheduled for the College of Southern Idaho Feb. 12-14.

Prep Wrestling

and the fourth-place team in the Gem State Conference standings, put it all together at home in the championship round of last year's inaugural regional to claim the team title and qualify 11 individuals for state. Indian Coach Clayton Armstrong believes the likelihood of a repeat is good.

"We feel strong," he said. "We've got our own slight injury and are lengthy throughout otherwise. With four number-one seeds and good depth we should do rather well."

Leading the Indians, whose 13 seeded individuals represent the largest number of any school, are led by Todd Webb (23-4), last year's champion at 145 pounds, 98-pounder Shawn Gibson (21-5) and Greg Wilson (17-1) at 112 pounds. All three are expected to win their division.

Cooper's Spartans wound up the regular season with an 9-4-1 dual record capped by an upset-of-the-perennially tough Skyline Grizzlies on the road.

Chris Rogers, at 167, and Davey Gerratt, at 150, were the heavyweights in Lewis' class and Shane Bell, at 126, and David Hayden, the region titleholder a year ago, is picked second to Harris at 119 pounds.

The key to a Minico upset, however, rests in overall team depth. Poccatello and Highland hold individual seeds in each of the 12 weight categories.

"You have to have strong Jayvees to score well in regional," Cooper explained. "Poccatello and Highland have strong variables, but I know they have the Jayvee strength to do. Our Jayvees (unbent this year at 12-0) can pull up a lot of slack for us and, if that happens, we can be right up in the running."

Boulder Mountain ski chase draws 475 contestants

By STEVE CRUMP

KETCHUM — The numbers won't break any records, but organizers of today's 12th annual Gatorade Boulder Mountain Tour-cross country ski race say they're happy with the turnout for the event given the conditions of the warm winter of 1987-87.

As of the Thursday night sign-up deadline, race organizers said 475 people had signed up for the 30-kilometer (18-mile) event. That compares to last year's turnout of 525.

"Given the weather conditions, we don't think that's too bad," said Ann Puchner, one of the event's organizers. "The weather and snow conditions I'm sure discouraged some people, but we have a lot of word-of-mouth going about the race, and I think that's helped encouraged turnout."

The Boulder Mountain Tour will be the first event in a cross-country skiing weekend that will include a Skiing Triple Crown event sponsored by Backwoods Mountain Sports of Ketchum and Sturtevant of Sun Valley.

The triple crown will also include an alpine slalom race Sunday morning on Bald Mountain and a telemark race over a different course of the same slope immediately thereafter.

The Boulder Mountain race is scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. and cover a course from Galena Lodge to a site north of Ketchum. The track has been expanded to 12 feet this year, and both diagonal and skating lanes will be available for racers.

Clear skies await weekend's skiers

Sun Valley — Sun Valley reported clear skies and mild temperatures on Friday, with 39 inches of packed powder on the top of Bald Mountain. More of the same weather conditions are for today. Sun Valley plans to open all of Baldy this week, with the exception of some of the ridges and bowls. Hours: 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Pomerelle — Pomerelle reported clear skies and mild temperatures on Friday, with 48 inches of snow at the base and 72 inches at the summit. Buses will run from Twin Falls, Jerome, Rupert and Declo today and Sunday, beginning at 7:10 a.m. at the South Lincoln Shopping Center in Jerome, stops at K mart in Twin Falls at 7:30, the Burley Inn in Burley at 8:30 a.m., Rupert B&B in Rupert at 9:30 a.m. and the Declo service station at 9:30 a.m. today; 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Soldier Mountain — Open today, no report. Bus service will run from Twin Falls, Jerome, Wendell and

Cup on way home

FREMANTLE, Australia (AP) — The America's Cup, the treasure that Dennis Conner found at the end of a three-year hunt, is heading back to the United States and its new home in San Diego.

A chartered jet was airborne from nearby Perth airport Saturday morning winging eastward across a saddened nation. Then it will cross the Pacific, bearing the Cup, Conner and his crew to a series of celebrations that will begin with hero's welcome from President Reagan at the White House.

The hands that steered Stars & Stripes to victory over Kookaburra III received the Cup Friday in a ceremony marked by goodwill and sportsmanship.

"I can't tell you how I feel and millions of Americans feel on this super day," said the 44-year-old skipper who broke sports longest winning streak when he lost the Cup for the New York Yacht Club which had held it for 132 years.

"Obviously it's a dream come true."

Conner received an ovation from some 5,000 Australian officials and fans at least equal to that given losing helmsman Iain Murray.

The members of the Royal Perth Yacht Club, whose possession of the silver trophy lasted a little more than three years.

Minico surges to victory over Burley

BURLEY — The Minico Spartans uncoupled a 21-5 scoring surge in the late second and early third quarter to break past the Burley Bobcats 60-43 Friday night.

The Spartans trailed most of the first 13 minutes of the game but were always in contention. Burley's biggest lead came at 21-16 — just at the point the Spartans took off their burst.

Over the next 90 seconds Minico took the lead at 22-21 and in the closing 2:30 of the half moved ahead 29-26 with Dan Poulton hitting a three-point goal just before the buzzer.

Poulton and Robert Greener continued the streak as the second half began and Poulton's 10th point of the game capped the break-away at 39-22 just before five minutes into the half.

After that it was simply a matter of playing out the clock.

"We kinda died in our scoring in the second half," said Coach Steve Jones.

The Bobcats' best effort came at the foul line where they converted 69 of 127 attempts.

Late in the game Glenns Ferry intentionally fouled Mowry who dropped in both free throws and Wendell then scored the final goal after getting the ball out of bounds.

BLISS — Pat Andrew and Lance Ruetter got things rolling in the third quarter and Vance Church kept them there in the fourth Friday night when the Jerome juniors dropped the Bliss Bears 34-26 in a defensive duel.

After Bliss managed a 9-8 halftime lead, Jerome started pulling away and Andrew and Ruetter each added six points to give Jerome a 20-14 lead. Church worked the inside for 10 of his 12 points in the closing quarter to keep the Bears from coming back.

Wendell 52, G. Ferry 56

GLENN'S FERRY — The Wendell Trojans took the lead at 43-52 midway through the fourth quarter, and finally nailed down a 62-56 decision over Glenns Ferry on a pair of Jim Mowry free throws Friday night.

After the teams entered the final quarter deadlocked at 47, Glenns Ferry jumped into the lead on successive possessions. That gave Wendell a chance for the lead and Mowry and Jim Prince, splitting 44 points, took advantage of them.

by forcing mistakes and scoring on fast breaks."

The Indians led by 17-7 after the first quarter and moved to a double after three quarters. Again the Indians had four in double scoring figures.

Castleford won the opener 54-41.

Murtaugh 62, Oakley 59

OAKLEY — The Murtaugh Red Devils sent the Oakley Hornets to their second straight loss with a 66-59 road win in the Magic Valley Conference Friday night.

Murtaugh had five three-point goals in the contest as it pulled away in the final quarter. The game saw several between the two clubs for the first three quarters before Murtaugh made its move.

Travis Widmier led the Red Devils with 17 points.

Jeff Nelson led all scorers in the contest with 19 points for the Hornets, nine of those points came from the three-point line.

Oakley won the preliminary contest.

Gooding 67, Filer 49

GOODING — Buddy Brunson scored 19 points and Steve Birnie and Lyle Hutchinson had 14 points each as the Gooding Senators hung onto their second place slot in the Canyon Conference with a 67-49 victory over Filer Friday night.

The Senators, who boosted their conference record to 7-2, were slow getting out of the blocks, but built an eight point lead at the break.

Gooding outscored Filer 20-14 in the third quarter and cruised to the victory.

Filer won the junior varsity contest 52-39.

Kimberly 83, Valley 47

KIMBERLY — The Kimberly Bulldogs stayed atop the Canyon Conference Friday night with an easy 83-47 victory over the Valley Vikings.

Senior Brent Meyers shot over 50 percent from the floor and led the Bulldogs with 16 points. Tim Shaw had 13 for Kimberly while team-mates James Paul and Matt McKinley scored 10 points apiece.

The Bulldogs jumped out to a 13 point lead in the first quarter and cruised to the 36-point victory.

Kimberly won the preliminary contest 68-43.

Dietrich 85, Carey 43

CAREY — Alan Stoddard led a trio of Blue Devils in double figures with 21 points as Dietrich pounded Carey 85-43 in a Northside Conference game Friday night.

Dietrich outscored the Panthers 32-10 in the second quarter to take a 24-point lead and never looked back.

Tim Tingey had 23 points for Carey.

Dietrich won the preliminary contest 47-40.

Hagerman 74, Richfield 56

HAGERMAN — Bobby Foster came off the bench and scored a team-high 20 points to lead the Hagerman Pirates over the Richfield Tigers 74-56 Friday night.

The bench had to take up much of the slack left when Devon Pharis fouled out midway through the fourth quarter. Pharis left the game with 15 points.

Foster's performance was overshadowed by a 33 point night from Barry Ward of Richfield. Ward had nine three-point goals to keep the Tigers from being blown out early.

Hagerman also won the preliminary contest.

Briefly in Sports

Canyon Springs opens today

TWIN FALLS — Canyon Springs Golf Course will officially open all its facilities for the season at 10 a.m. today, announces Professional Del Ericson.

Ericson said Greenskeeper Gus Menapace completed greens mowing and preparation late Friday afternoon.

Ericson said the course will be open daily as weather permits but reminds golfers that play will not be allowed on frost mornings.

Gun club plans shoot

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls Gun Club will hold a registered PITA trap shoot Sunday.

The shoot will start at 10 a.m., with 100 16-yard targets, followed by 100 handicap and then 50 pair of doubles.

Practice and early registration will be held from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. today.

The Twin Falls Gun Club is located at Washington Street North at the Snake River Canyon Rim. Further information about Sunday's shoot can be obtained by phoning Roger Swartz at 734-0226.

Legion boosters to meet

TWIN FALLS — The Twin Falls American Legion baseball boosters will meet Sunday night.

The 6:30 p.m. session is scheduled for the community room of the KMVT-TV studios at 1110 Blue Lakes Blvd. N.

All Legion boosters and parents are asked to attend.

Racquetball deadline set

TWIN FALLS — Monday is the registration deadline for the Twin Falls City Racquetball Tournament, scheduled for Feb. 11-14 at The Club.

The tourney, which will be open to Magic Valley residents only, will include competition in men's and women's Classes A, B, C and D in singles and doubles. Entry fee is $10 for first event, $5 for second event and $10 per player.

Prizes will be given to first- and second-place finishers.

Further information can be obtained by phoning Jim Jenkins at 734-7538.

CSI hosts Cards tonight

TWIN FALLS — College of Southern Idaho will take normal crowd control security steps tonight when the Golden Eagles host the North Idaho Cardinals in a Region 18 basketball game.

Coach Fred Trenkle said he didn't anticipate any repeat of the melee that broke out in Coeur d'Alene last month when the Eagles visited North Idaho. One North Idaho player and several student-athletes from the crowd were decked in that brief struggle.

Two Golden Eagles also were knocked down.

"We are hopeful our crowd will respond to the game in the same way our players will be playing it," Trenkle said. "We'll be battling tooth and nail for the win but all within the concepts of good sportsmanship and competition."

Trenkle said the college's security corps will handle crowd control precautions. Usually four uniformed officers are assigned to each home game.

Girls to play Tuesday

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls' girls will meet Pocatello's Indians in a Region 18 tournament loser-out contest in Pocatello Tuesday night, not Saturday night as reported in Friday's Times-News.

McNeese St. accepts fate

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP) — Neither McNeese State Coach Glen Duhon nor anyone on his staff will be back next season, and the school won't appeal any of the stiff penalties against its basketball program, Athletic Director Ted Brevelle said Friday.

"Coach Duhon indicated in October that he would not seek a renewal of his contract for recommendation, and I feel the university's position, will not be to renew any of the present staff's contracts for 1987-88," Brevelle said.

His six-sentence typed statement was made public after Southland Conference Commissioner Dick Oliver announced penalties against the McNeese men's basketball program and all current coaches.

Indians sign Dempsey

CLEVELAND (AP) — Former Baltimore Orioles catcher Rick Dempsey signed a one-year contract with the Cleveland Indians Friday.

Terms of the deal were not announced.

The 37-year-old player agent made $440,000 last year with Baltimore, but the Orioles refused to pick up his 1987 option for $600,000, thereby ending their 10-year association with Dempsey.

Since Dempsey is a Type A free agent, the Indians will have to relinquish their No. 1 pick in the June draft to Baltimore as compensation. The choice will be the 15th pick overall in the draft. The Orioles also will get a supplemental pick between the first and second rounds.

BYU doctor denies charges

PROVO, Utah (AP) — The former orthopedic surgeon for Brigham Young's football team denies having illegally prescribed drugs to players and an assistant coach and will fight an effort to have his license to practice medicine revoked, his attorney says.

A petition filed by the Utah Division of Occupational and Professional Licensing also asks that Dr. Brent M. Prater's authority to prescribe drugs be lifted. It alleges that between 1980-86, Prater illegally prescribed drugs to seven members of the Mormon Church-owned school's football squad, an athlete's wife and BYU offensive line coach Roger Frensch.

Lynn Harris, Prater's Provo attorney, said Thursday that the allegations were "outlandish." The lawyer said he would investigate the charges before deciding his course of action, but anticipated challenging the petition.

"We will absolutely oppose them, and we deny them," Harris said.

Jackpot downs Lund 52-28

JACKPOT — The Jackpot record for a victory tonight for Jackpot basketball team set a new record for could qualify them for the state most points scored Friday night as tournament in Winemucca.

The Jaguars topped Lund 52-28.

It was the third time the record has been broken this season.

Dana Wilson helped the Jaguars to victory grabbing a game-high 25 rebounds to go along with her 26 points.

BOSTON (AP) — Senior Willie Glass scored 25 points and Mark Jackson added 23 as 19th-ranked St. John's rolled to a 65-50 Big East victory Friday night over Boston College.

St. John's scored for 17 points in the second half, including 10 in the first nine minutes of the half as the Redmen opened a 46-32 lead with 8:49 remaining.

Boston College guard Jamie Benton hit a jump shot with 1:49 remaining to pull the Eagles to 57-46, but the Redmen shot 6-for-8 from the foul line down the stretch.

St. John's raised its record to 16-4 overall and 7-1 in conference play. Boston College dropped to 9-12 and 2-9.

BYU linebacker hopes 2-year Percodan addiction is over

PROVO, Utah (AP) — It was a rough year for Brigham Young tight end Trevor Molini, a nightmare in fact. Even as he was running and catching his way to All-America honors, he says he had begun the long slide down into what he now calls "abyss" of addiction to the powerful painkiller Percodan.

TREVOR MOLINI

continues to meet the challenge of the idle hours once filled with drugs. "Sometimes I still get scared," he said. But by putting his problems in perspective, he hopes to conquer that fear. "I've lost a lot of anger," Molini said. "I wanted to blame everyone, but myself. I was angry at everything — the Percodan contributed to that, I'm sure... but I'm the one who put the pills down my throat. I abused them." Nevertheless, Molini was a victim, too, of training room procedures gone awry. That fact was underscored when BYU announced that it had paid for the athletes' rehabilitation because, said school spokesman Paul Richards, the university was partially responsible. From Dec. 8 to Dec. 21, Molini, Sanders and VonColln were patients at the Dayspring Chemical Dependency Unit at Utah Valley Hospital. Molini said that except for the first night, when he was given a tranquilizer to help him sleep, he was forced to quit drugs cold turkey. "It wasn't so hard physically," he says. "It was mostly mental." Unused to regular meals and a drug-free system, the 6-foot-4 Molini gained 13 pounds, up to 240. Molini and his teammates were required to participate in group therapy, attend lectures and Alcoholics Anonymous meetings, list the harmful effects of drugs and write an autobiography. When it came time to leave, Molini acknowledged he was unsure of himself. "I had been in a controlled environment for three weeks," he said. "Now I had to go out and apply what I had learned in the real world. I can't say everything's perfect. I can't say how I'll react. The physical part is all gone. I'm worried about the mental part, the urges... the times when I've got all my work done and I want you know, sort of a reward," Molini said.

As an incentive to stay clean, Molini was granted a one-year probation with the stipulation that he could go to prison for five years if he has another run-in with the law over drugs or alcohol. If he stays out of trouble, the charges will be dismissed. Molini came to BYU in 1984, the school's first legitimate blue-chip football recruit, a prep track and football All-American from Sparks, Nev., who possessed uncanny speed for a man of his size. Two years later, only a sophomore, Molini was named third-team All-America. But not everything has gone so smoothly off the field. Molini, a non-Mormon, has been frequently reprimanded by BYU for violation of the school's strict Code of Honor, which, among other things, forbids the drinking of alcohol. Molini soon found a substitute, which was provided, ironically and unwittingly, by the school itself.

"I always felt guilty when I took the pills," Molini said. "I knew it was wrong. I was shaking when I went to alter the prescriptions. But it didn't matter. I wanted the pills so badly." He took his mother's advice and told Coach LaVell Edwards he had a problem. Then police contacted him about the prescriptions and Molini confessed.

College football

"It brought me to my knees," he said in a copyright story published Thursday by the Deseret News. The drug also brought him and two friends, teammates Steve Sanders and J.C. VonColln, to court and a drug rehabilitation clinic. Now, for the first time in two years, Molini is free of Percodan's grip. On probation for two counts of fraudulently obtaining prescriptions, he also has been allowed to return to BYU and expects to resume his football career. He says all will be well — if he con-

Minico surges to victory over Burley

BURLEY — The Minico Spartans uncoiled a 21-scoring surge in the late second and early third quarter to break past the Burley Bobcats 60-43 Friday night.

The Spartans trailed most of the first 13 minutes of the game but were always in contention. Burley's biggest lead came at 21-16 — just at the point the Spartans took off on their burst.

Over the next 90 seconds Minico took the lead at 22-21 and in the closing 2:30 of the half moved ahead 29-26 with Dan Poulton hitting a three-point goal just before the buzzer.

Poulton and Robert Greener continued the streak as the second half began and Poulton's 13th point of the game capped the break-away at 32-28 just less than five minutes into the half.

After that it was simply a matter of playing out the clock.

"We kinda died in our scoring in the second half," said Coach Steve Jensen.

The Bobcats' best effort came at the foul-line where they converted on 12 of 22 attempts.

Late in the game Glenns Ferry intentionally fouled Mowry, who dropped in both free throws and Wendell then scored the final foul goal after getting the ball out of bounds.

BLISS — Pat Andrew and Lance Ruiter got things rolling in the third quarter and Vance Church kept them there in the fourth Friday night when the Jerome juniors dropped the Bliss Bears 34-26 in a defensive duel.

Bliss managed a 9-8 halftime lead. Jerome started pulling away from Andrew and Ruiter each picked up six points to give Jerome a 20-14 lead. Church worked the inside for 10 of his 12 points in the closing quarter to keep the Bears from coming back.

Shoshone 84, Castelford 39

CASTLEFORD — The Shoshone Indians turned on their harassing defense to roll up an 18-point first half and went on to handle the Castelford Wolves 84-39 Friday night.

The Shoshone effort drew praise from Castelford Coach Sam Wiseman, who noted they don't play just one end of the court. In the first half they probably got 20 points with their offense and the other 20

by forcing mistakes and scoring on fastbreaks.

The Indians led by 17-7 after the first quarter and moved to a double after three quarters. Again the Indians had four in double scoring figures.

Murtaugh 62, Oakley 59

OAKLEY — The Murtaugh Devils sent the Oakley Hornets to their second straight loss with a 66-59 road win in the Magic Valley Conference Friday night.

Murtaugh had five three-point goals in the contest as it pulled away in the final quarter. The game saw between the two clubs for the first three quarters before Murtaugh made its move.

Travis Widmer led the Red Devils with 17 points.

Jeff Nelson led all scorers in the contest with 19 points for the Hornets, nine of those points came from the three-point line.

Goading 67, Filer 49

GOODING — Buddy Brunson scored 19 points and Steve Brinco and Lefe Hutchinson had 14 points each as the Gooding Senators hung onto their second place slot in the Canyon Conference with a 67-49 victory over Filer Friday night.

The Senators, who boosted their conference record to 7-2, were slow getting out of the blocks, but built an eight point lead at the break.

Goading outscored Filer 20-14 in the third quarter and cruised to the victory.

Filer won the junior varsity contest 52-39.

Kimberly 83, Valley 47

KIMBERLY — The Kimberly Bulldogs stayed atop the Canyon Conference Friday night with an easy 83-47 victory over the Valley Vikings.

Senior Brent Meyers shot over 50 percent from the floor and led the Bulldogs with 16 points. Tim Shaw had 13 for Kimberly while teammates Lonnie Paul and Matt McKinley scored 10 points apiece.

The Bulldogs jumped out to a 13 point lead in the first quarter and cruised to the 36-point victory.

Kimberly won the preliminary contest 68-43.

Hagerman 74, Richfield 56

HAGERMAN — Bobby Foster came off the bench and scored a team-high 20 points to lead the Hagerman Pirates over the Richfield Tigers 74-56 Friday night.

The bench had to take up much of the slack left when Devan Pharis fouled out midway through the fourth quarter. Pharis left the game with 15 points.

Foster's performance was overshadowed by a 33 point night from Barry Ward of Richfield. Ward had three three-point goals to keep the Tigers from being blown out early.

Vanderbilt surprises Notre Dame

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Reserve center Randy Neff hit three free throws in the final 15 seconds Friday night to lift Vanderbilt to a 74-68 victory over Notre Dame.

Neff's free throws blunted a late Notre Dame comeback that had sent Notre Dame trim a 57-50 Vanderbilt lead to 57-56 with 16 seconds to play.

Notre Dame, now 13-6 for the year, had an opportunity to tie the contest at the 16-second mark, but forward Donald Royal failed to convert a free throw play after pulling the Irish within one point on a follow shot.

Neff put Vandy up 58-56 with 15 seconds remaining by hitting the front end of a one-and-one opportunity, then followed a Notre Dame turnover with two free throws with three seconds left.

Vanderbilt, 14-9, snapped a four-game Notre Dame win streak that included a 60-58 victory over then-top-ranked North Carolina last Sunday.
